Three Men Again Break Jail At Lamesa

Gunmen Rob Amarillo Store Of $11,139

FLOATING GRAIN BINS — Two "moth ball" Merchant ships from this group anchored in the Hudson River off Jones Point, N. Y., were towed to piers at Claremont and Weehawken, N. J., to serve as storage for 300,000 bushels of wheat each. In New Orleans port officials are seeking 235 "moth ball" merchant ships for such use. (AP Wirephoto.)

Alarm Spread For Two Men

(Special To The Avalanche-Journal)

AMARILLO, July 9—A police dragnet was spread over the Panhandle-South Plains area and into New Mexico today in an effort to apprehend two armed bandits who held up and robbed a supermarket here early today of $11,139 after herding 11 employes at gunpoint into a back room.

Police officers were told the pair entered the store about 7 a. m., an hour before opening time, through a rear door at which a bakery truck was unloading. The robbers forced J. O. Hutto, store manager to open the safe and hand over receipts in the safe. They took the money and made a quick get-away.

Employes Rounded Up

Witnesses said that one of the bandits rounded up the employes who were preparing stock in the store while the other made for the front of the market where Hutto and two other employes were working.

"This is a stickup," the bandit said, nudging Hutto in the side with a pistol.

"I thought it was a prank," Hutto said, "and kept on working."

"I'm not kidding, bud," the gunman declared, "There are some more men in the back covering me so you had better get on back up there."

Tries To Hide Keys

Hutto said he tried to hide the keys to compartments in the safe, but was caught.

The bandit forced Hutto into the store office while his companion herded the employes into the ladies room of the store and then stood guard.

Levi DuBose, negro porter in the store, said that a bandit approached him and said:

"This is a stickup."

DeBose said he thought it was a joke and made a grab for the gun, but stopped when the gunman warned: "I mean business, Levi."

The bandit then said, indicating Hutto, "I know he (Hutto) can

TRUCK OVERTURNS

14 Persons Are Hurt In Wreck

Fourteen farm workers, all reported to be Latin Americans, were injured, five of them seriously, late Saturday afternoon on the Lubbock-Shallowater highway about one mile northwest of the Lubbock city limits when a truck in which 19 persons were riding skidded off the road and overturned.

Eleven of the victims were rushed to St. Mary's hospital for first aid treatment and examination by ambulances from Rix and Plains Funeral homes. Three others were taken to West Texas hospital by an unidentified motorist and released after treatment for superficial injuries.

The members of the group were returning to Lubbock from Shallowater where they had spent the day working on a nearby farm. According to witnesses, the driver of the Light Damage Caused; Rain To Aid Crops

A SMALL tornado funnel struck near Ropes and sharp thunderstorms dumped rain at scattered points over the South Plains Saturday afternoon and Saturday night as another day of violent weather swept the area.

No heavy damage was reported in the twister, which swept a small section of farm land about eight miles northwest of Ropes about 3:30 p. m. Saturday afternoon. Some cotton in the immediate vicinity of the funnel was damaged slightly either by the black tornadic winds, scattered hail which fell or the torrential rain which accompanied the blow.

Ropes is 18 miles southwest of Lubbock.

Heavy In Matador Area

Otherwise, showers over the South Plains ranged from an unofficial one to three inch fall in the Ropes area to light sprinkles here and there. Matador, Abernathy, and Earth all reported good rains ranging up to at least an inch, while other points reported less amounts.

The heaviest rain appeared to be at spotted points in area to the northwest, north and northeast of Lubbock. Only a trace of rain fell at the Weather bureau north of Lubbock Saturday, although a brief but heavy shower dumped an estimated .10 to .15 on downtown Lubbock about 6:15 p. m. Saturday.

More Rain Forecast

More thunderstorm activity was forecast for the area today and Monday, with chances of heavy local showers, possibly light hail and moderate winds. No violent activity was foreseen, however.

Points reporting rain Saturday afternoon and night included Anton, one fourth inch; Shallowater, one fourth; Ropes one to three inches; Crosbyton, one half inch; Floydada, one half; good showers in the Spur and Dickens vicinities; and showers at Lamesa, Ralls, Petersburg, Becton, Levelland and several rural points.

The spotted showers were not general, almost missing the area

Plane Joins Search; One Charged With Aiding Trio's Second Try For Freedom

Special To The Avalanche-Journal

LAMESA, July 10, (Sunday)—Three men, described as "potentially dangerous," were still at large early today following their escape for the second time within a week from the third floor Lamesa county jail early Saturday morning.

State, county and city law enforcement agencies throughout the South Plains and Panhandle were continuing an intensive search for the three fugitives today, after enlisting cars, men on foot and an airplane in their hunt Saturday.

Another prisoner, who had been brought into the jail only an hour and a half before the escape, was charged late Saturday with aiding in the men's unusual break for freedom.

EARL SIDNEY ABBOTT

Held On Robbery Charge

The three men were identified by Sheriff Roy King of Dawson county as:

L. E. Ables, 27; Roy Gene Brown, 23, and Earl Sidney Abbott, 21, all of Ada, Okla. They were under indictment on charges of armed robbery of a Lamesa filling station May 21.

Charges were filed in Justice of the Peace D. M. Campbell's court late Saturday afternoon charging Sam Burkett, 20, of Levelland, with "aiding a felon to escape." Burkett had been lodged in the jail about 1 a. m. Saturday morning. In a signed statement to County Attorney Vernon Adcock, Burkett said he had "been talked into" opening a combination lock on the men's cell by one of the men.

Use Same Tactics

Burkett had been jailed by the Texas Highway patrol for investigation on another matter. He placed the men's second jailbreak of the week at about 2:30 a. m.

The men broke out of the Lamesa jail early Thursday morning by using a table leg to pry a steel plate from a door to their cell, using the same lever on the bars of a window and then tying sheets and blankets together to drop to the ground. The men were captured Thursday afternoon in an abandoned frame house near Lamesa.

Job Outlook Not Alarming

By MARVIN L. ARROWSMITH
Associated Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, July 9—Reports of mounting unemployment were sized up without alarm today by a congressional committee message.

The President will send his ideas to Congress Monday in an economic report. Business slumps in some fields and the rise in unemployment make it interesting.

Those conditions, a Senate-House Economic subcommittee conceded, are shortening the average workweek, forcing acceptance of more part-time jobs, and wiping out most overtime pay.

The subcommittee said the best estimates of government agencies show that while joblessness is increasing, it is "not now at unreasonably high levels for the country as a whole."

Union Disputes Claim

The lawmakers added that figures show that, despite the climb of unemployment, more persons are working than in any previous years except 1948.

That national job picture was presented in a preliminary report by the economic subcommittee which soon will start what its chairman, Rep. Hart (D-NJ), calls an "intensive investigation of the unemployment problem."

The CIO United Electrical workers charged meanwhile that the Family Of Four Die In Wreck Near Nome

NOME, Texas, July 9 (AP)—Joseph Alfred McCormick, his wife and their two sons were killed early today when their car and a truck crashed head-on. The accident occurred on the Houston-Beaumont highway, three miles east of Nome.

The McCormick family lived in Meridian. They were on their way to attend funeral services in Beaumont for McCormick's father.

The dead: McCormick, 46, rancher and rice farmer; his wife, Ruth McCarthy McCormick, 41; their sons—Edmund Earl McCormick, 21, and Joseph Alfred McCormick, jr., about 5.

The driver of the truck, Joe Devona, 26, of Galveston, received minor cuts and bruises.

Four charges of negligent homicide were filed against Devona. He said he did not know what caused the wreck. K. K. Kennon, highway patrol officer from Beaumont, said skidmarks indicated the truck was in the wrong lane when the accident occurred.

Devona is an employe of the Southern Pacific Transport company. He recently was given a safe-driving award. Charges against him were filed in the court of Liberty county judge R. E. Pitts.

STOCKMAN CLAIMED

BROWNWOOD, July 9 (AP)—Lewis J. Honea, 80, a Brown county livestock man for 66 years, died here today. He was active until a kick from a calf broke his jaw a few weeks ago. He was a former leader of Masonic and Eastern Star orders.

Valuation Of Farm Property Is Boosted

Lubbock County To Face Tax Increase

By C. W. RATLIFF
Avalanche-Journal Staff Writer

LUBBOCK county property owners, at least a majority of them, will find their county tax bills higher for 1949 as the result of a complete revision of the tax valuation rolls of the county, the first over-all change to be made in valuations in the county's history.

Based on values prior to 1941, the new valuations change the assessment for Lubbock county farm land from a flat $10 an acre to a top assessment of $30 an acre as for the first time all improvements on each farm are included in the appraised value.

The move will result in more than doubling the appraised value of much of the rural property, in the case of farms, and in many instances will more than triple the values.

Program Explained

To show how the new tax program works, take the case of a farmer with 300 acres of land. Prior to this year he has been assessed at a flat rate of $10 an acre, placing his taxable valuation at $3 000.

Say that 250 acres of his farm is high class tillable soil; 30 acres of less tillable and 20 acres in lake land. The 250 acres would carry an assessment of $30 an acre, the less tillable at, for the sake of explanation, $25 an acre and the lakes at $5 an acre.

His residence is valued at $4,000; two irrigation wells at $500 each; a tractor, $500 and his car at $500.

Adding all these up, his total appraised valuation this year would be $13,300. He would therefore be assessed on a taxable valuation of $6,650 (50 per cent of appraisal), as compared to the $3,000 taxable valuation he has been paying on in past years.

Much of the county's farm land, however has a value far above the $30 an acre, especially farms with irrigation wells which range upward to $250 and $275 an acre.

Total values on the county rolls will be raised from $47,031,162 taxable values in 1948 to more than $127 000,000 of appraised value in 1949 The 1948 rolls did not include appraised values, having only the taxable values. The $127,000,000 total represents a 100 per cent value on the property, based on 1941 figures, county officials estimating that there will

Labor Shortage Hits Area Farms

Several hundred South Plains cotton farmers are badly in need of choppers, according to B. T. O'Connell manager of the Lubbock district, Texas Employment Commission.

O'Connell, who is cotton labor control officer for this area, has been collecting data for several days. Information is accumulated from hundreds of farmers who come into the various TEC offices or who are contacted by field representatives.

"From first reports and a preliminary survey the situation would appear to be critical," O'Connell stated yesterday. "However, I am inclined to discount some of the reports and reduce the figures purporting to show the number of hands needed."

Survey Planned

O'Connell explained that this conservatism was well founded on his understanding of cotton farmers and the fluid situation in the transient labor market.

To get further first hand information O'Connell has declared an emergency. With his field staff he will spend all day Sunday contacting farmers in each of the trading communities. Monday O'Connell will be literally up in the air. With Jack Creel, KFYO farm expert and a pilot, O'Connell will make an aerial survey

U.S. Diplomat Reported Beaten

SHANGHAI, July 9 (AP)—U. S. Vice Consul William M. Olive, who was released today by police of this Communist city after three days in jail, "was utterly, brutally beaten," Consul General John Cabot declared.

The Communist liberation daily published a statement attributed to Olive that "I have not received any ill-treatment during my detention."

"Any statement such as that which appeared in the liberation daily was obtained from him as a result of the barbarous treatment he received," Cabot asserted in a press conference late today.

(This dispatch was more than 12 hours in transmission, apparently having been held up by the Communist military censorship.)

Olive, 32, of Ironton, Mo., was arrested last Wednesday when his consulate jeep got involved in a mass parade in which the Communists were observing the 12th anniversary of the Japanese war and the third anniversary of the civil war.

Forced To Sign Papers

Cabot, his superior, said Olive was released today, after being beaten, handcuffed incommunicado in a cell for three days, and forced to sign several statements, a confession, and an "apology."

"I have personally seen Olive's injuries," said Cabot. "We had him examined medically, and have taken photographs and will take X-rays.

"There is no doubt whatsoever that Olive was brutally beaten by the police."

The consul general said that, "On the other hand, I am gratified and reassured that higher authorities—when the matter was

QUAKE HITS WEST COAST

INGLEWOOD, Calif., July 9. (AP) A short earthquake rocked Inglewood and several other communities in the Los Angeles area tonight. The briefness of the tembler led to belief at first it might have been the concussion of an explosion, but Inglewood Fire Chief Bacil Roberts said after checking neighboring fire departments: "The consensus is that it must have been a short quake. There are no reports of an explosion or a severe fire."

Two Persons Death Victims

TWO person died in Lubbock Saturday of unusual causes, one of a lethal dose of insecticide, and one of an overdose of sleeping drugs.

There was no connection between the two deaths.

Dead were Mrs. C. A. McLaughlin, 37, of 2427 Twenty-seventh, and Dr. Walter H. Jones, 51, of the Avinger addition.

Results of inquests into both deaths—conducted by D. W. Robertson, justice of peace—had not been released early this morning. The Sheriff's department said a note written by Dr. Jones could not be released to newsmen pending study by the district attorney's office. A. W. Salyars, assistant district attorney investigating the case, was not available for comment at a late hour last night.

Rushed To Hospital

Mrs. McLaughlin died about 6 p.m. Saturday in Lubbock Memorial hospital where she had been rushed earlier by Rix ambulance after a relative had discovered her in serious condition in the bedroom of her home. Her husband, Clyde A. McLaughlin, owner of McLaughlin Motor company here, was reported on a business trip in Buffalo, N. Y.

Jack McLaughlin, of 2705 Twenty-eighth, brother-in-law of the dead woman, told city detectives Saturday night that he had found Mrs. McLaughlin critically ill when he stopped at the house shortly after 5 p.m. A negro servant woman was in the house with Mrs. McLaughlin at the time, it was reported.

Mrs. McLaughlin was the moth-

Search Continues For Eight Men Missing In Crash Of Navy Plane

BALBOA, Panama Canal Zone, July 9. (AP)—A search continued unsuccessfully today for eight persons still missing after the flaming crash of a U.S. Navy patrol plane into the sea near Coca Solo. All are believed to have perished.

Only small pieces of debris have been found.

The plane, on a test flight, was piloted by Lt. Kermit F. Johnson, 36, whose parents' address is Moundridge, Kan.

The other missing men included: Robert Thomas Willett, 19, aviation electronic technician third class, whose father, Archie F. Willett, lives at Houston.

British Seeking Trade With Reds

LONDON, July 9 (AP)—Britain hopes to do about $1,000,000,000 worth of business with Soviet Russia and three other Communist nations in the next year in her effort to get out of the hole economically.

Officials in Britain's treasury and board of trade agreed today the current dollar crisis gives new significance to trade pact talks now going on with Russia, Yugoslavia, Hungary and Czechoslovakia.

The $1,000,000,000 would be about six per cent of Britain's total world trade. Last year her imports and exports totaled $15,651,466,000, of which $6,333,314,816 were imports.

U. S., British Confer

The question of why Britain is in trouble financially engaged U. S. Secretary of the Treasury John W. Snyder and British Chancellor of the Exchequer Sir Stafford Cripps in further talks today.

Snyder announced he will complete his talks with top British officials Sunday at Prime Minister Atlee's country residence, Chequers, and a joint communique will be issued tomorrow afternoon. He originally planned to leave London tonight for Belgium.

Both the United States and Britain are worried by the fact the gold and dollar reserves of Britain and the sterling area she

Alabama Jury Indicts 44 In Hooded Gangs

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., July 9(AP)—A grand jury today charged 14 persons with taking part in hooded hoodlumism in the Birmingham area recently.

The county jury returned 44 indictments after a special session called to investigate night riding activities. It recommended that the inquiry be continued by a new jury to be organized Monday.

Arrests of those indicted will begin Monday.

This action climaxed a month of investigating acts by robed and hooded bands. These included floggings, cross burnings and threats of further violence.

Ku Klux Klan officials denied their order had anything to do with the law violations. William Hugh Morris, director of the Federated Ku Klux Klans, Inc., was jailed Thursday for refusing to bring Klan records before the jury.

Swindle Suspect Returned Here

Robert Lee Boykin, 22, Littlefield man facing charges here of swindling by worthless check over the amount of $50, was returned to Lubbock from Long Beach, Calif., Saturday afternoon by Deputy Sheriff Earl Horton.

Boykin had signed a waiver of extradition to Texas. He was arrested June 27 in Long Beach.

The charge, filed in the court of D. W. Robertson, justice of the peace, accused Boykin of having written a $566 check June 25 to Snodgrass Maner company, of Lubbock, in connection with his purchase of a 1948 model sports coupe.

Horton flew to the coast Wednesday. He and the prisoner returned in the car which Boykin was driving at the time of his arrest by California police.

Bond of $1,500 was set by C. E. Lynn, justice of peace, acting for Robertson, who was not immediately available. It had not been posted at a late hour Saturday.

Other arrests announced by the sheriff's department were:

Ricardo Andrade, 24, of 1412 Fourteenth, charged with felony theft; Manuel Rodriquez, 22, of Lubbock, who subsequently posted $1,000 bail on a seduction charge; and Kenneth Ray Harris, 19, of 1420 Ave. M, who posted $750 bail on a child desertion charge.

South Plains Farm Leaders To Push Fight On Cotton Insects

By H. I. KIEFER
Avalanche-Journal Staff Writer

SOUTH PLAINS farm leaders continued to organize forces Saturday to combat cotton flea hopper infestations which, they said, threaten to become acute.

One authority said bluntly that the effects upon cotton prospects may be "calamitous" unless the pests are brought under control.

Taking the lead in the efforts to control them are W. N. Williamson, district farm agent for 18 South Plains counties; Guy E. Carpenter, district entomologist of the Texas Extension service, and the farm agents in the individual counties.

Carpenter announced that community demonstrations dealing with the peril will be held during the coming week in the following counties, with details as to the number, times and places of the individual demonstrations being arranged by the county agents:

Monday, Dawson county, Lee Roy Colgan, county agent.

Tuesday, Crosby county, W. R. Kimbrough, agent.

Wednesday, Lubbock county, Dave Sherrill, agent.

Fifty-Seven South Plains Residents Facing Death In Traffic Mishaps By End Of Year, Is Forecast

By CLIFF BLACKBURN
Avalanche-Journal Staff Writer

FIFTY-SEVEN Lubbock and South Plains residents face death on the area's streets and highways before the end of this year!

Many more will be seriously injured and property damage to autos will run into the hundreds of thousands of dollars.

That was the grim outlook offered South Plains pedestrians and drivers Saturday by officials of the Texas Highway patrol district headquarters in Lubbock. The facts and figures of past years gathered by the patrol back up the bloody forecasts.

Already in 1949 a total of 34 Lubbock and South Plains residents have met death in area traffic mishaps.

Alarmed by the recent bloody toll taken over the South Plains, in Texas, and over the nation, city, county and state officials have pledged their respective law enforcement agencies to an all-out campaign to bring traffic accidents in the area to a minimum —to prevent as many of those 57 potential deaths as possible.

The worst months of the year as far as traffic driving is concerned, are just ahead, if past records over the area mean anything. Both in 1947 and 1948, the late summer and fall months brought a heavy influx of harvest workers to the Plains and also brought sudden and violent death, with an average of one person a day claimed by violence in late August and September during those two years.

There are a number of reasons for the accidents but carelessness and a callous disregard for human

Truman Orders Agency Heads To Aid Monopoly Investigation

By FELIX COTTEN
INS Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, July 9—President Truman today ordered heads of 12 government agencies, including six cabinet officers, to give "the fullest possible cooperation and assistance" to the House investigation of monopolies, which begins Monday.

The chief executive pledged his whole-hearted endorsement of the inquiry in a letter to Chairman Celler (D.-N. Y.), of the House Judiciary committee, who has named a subcommittee to conduct the investigation.

Problem Emphasized

The President said:

"Since the end of the war, other matters, both foreign and domestic, have at times appeared to overshadow the monopoly problem, or at least have been the subject of greater public preoccupation.

"But it is my conviction that year in and year out there is no more serious problem affecting our country and its free institutions than the distortions and abuses of our economic system which results when unenlightened free enterprise turns to monopoly."

Hearings To Start

The subcommittee, of which Celler is chairman, will start three weeks of public hearings Monday, with Attorney General Clark as the first witness.

The President sent a memorandum to the following agency heads telling them to give full aid to the inquiry, "subject only to jurisdictional and appropriation limitations":

Clark; Treasury Secretary Snyder; Defense Secretary Johnson; Agriculture Secretary Brannan; Interior Secretary Krug; Commerce Secretary Sawyer.

Takes Slap At Congress

Chairman McCabe of the Federal Reserve board; chairman Hanrahan of the Securities and Exchange Commission; acting chairman Mason of the Federal Trade commission; chairman Mahaffie of the Interstate Commerce commission; chairman Coy of the Federal Communications commission, and chairman Smith of the Federal Power commission.

The President said he had "repeatedly called to the attention of the Congress the need for stronger powers and more active measures with which to wage the never-ending fight against monopoly."

He took a slap at the Republican 80th Congress, target of his 1948 campaign attack, by saying it overrode his veto of the Reed-Bulwinkle bill, "which authorized certain exemptions from the anti-trust laws for interstate carriers."

Houston Man Claims More Doctors Needed

HOUSTON, July 9 (AP)—Texas needs between 100 and 200 more doctors each year than its medical schools are producing, a Houston physician said today.

Dr. R. Lee Clark, pointing to a state need for additional training facilities, said the University of Texas school of medicine at Galveston had to turn away 600 applicants last year alone.

Clark, on the staff at M. D. Anderson hospital, is a member of a State Medical association committee surveying three cities seeking another branch of the University's medical branch.

He said the committee visited Dallas and San Antonio this week and is to be in Temple tomorrow.

Clark said there are 6,600 doctors in Texas.

"But we lose 325 a year through attrition and our maximum gain is approximately 220 graduates a year from Baylor university, the University of Texas, and southwestern medical college at Dallas."

Another 70 or 80 students take out-of-state training, he said, but half of them never return to Texas.

"We need 400 new doctors every year merely to replace those lost by death or retirement and to allow for increasing population," Clark said.

Police Investigate Third Violent Death At University Of Colorado

BOULDER, Colo., July 9. (INS)—School friends of Donald E. Dein, 19-year-old University of Colorado student whose body was found in his Boulder apartment, were being questioned by authorities today to determine a possible connection with a recent murder on the campus.

Dein was the third student at the university to meet violent death since last November.

A possible connection was being sought between Dein's death and that of Roy G. Spore, student from Denver, who was bludgeoned to death June 9 as he sat on the bank of Boulder creek with a girl companion.

Dein was found shot to death in the basement apartment he shared wtih George M. Jacobs, 20, of Arvada, Colo., who had been working in a drug store. Many stolen items were found in the apartment.

Police chief Myron Teegarden said Dein had been shot in the right temple and said it apparently was a suicide.

However, the police chief said there were some mysterious elements involved and investigation would continue.

Teegarden said he had learned from friends of Dein that the student spent last night drinking in the Tulago club, the same bar that Spore had visited shortly before he was slain. Dein's body was found late last night.

Lubbock Residents Continue To Boost 'Santa Claus' Fund

Lubbock's residents are continuing to open their hearts and purses to the young newlyweds who lost most of their possessions in a fire Wednesday. The total cash received so far in response to the Santa Claus in July campaign launched by The Avalanche - Journal stands at $95.35 as of Saturday afternoon.

Numerous household gifts have been donated by Lubbock citizens stirred by the tragedy.

Checks received Saturday for Mr. and Mrs. Leroy Clinton, the couple that lost practically all of their belongings in the blaze, were from J. R. McDuff and Don Reeder, Sears employes, $5; W. W. Owen, $5; Mr. and Mrs. D. O. Bomar, $5; the cashiers and service department employes at West Texas Gas Company, $10.80; and anonymous checks amounting to $30.

The idea of a Christmas in July for the young couple came from an Avalanche-Journal reporter who was at the scene of the fire, and saw the young bride in tears as their only belongings went up in smoke.

Young Clinton, an employe of Tech Cleaners, 1617 College, had to cut his honeymoon short and returned to work Thursday in order to have funds for needed clothing and food.

Avalanche-Journal readers who wish to help this young couple can mail their contributions to July Santa Claus, care of The Avalanche-Journal, who will see that they are placed in the hands of Mr. and Mrs. Clinton.

Why a Man Buys a Cadillac

If you were to ask the owner of a 1949 Cadillac why he bought his car, he would doubtless find it difficult to put into words the way he feels about "the Standard of the World".

He would probably tell you that he bought his car because it's a Cadillac.

Of course if you wanted to ask him specific questions, he could give you much specific information.

Did he buy his Cadillac for performance?

Why, surely he bought it for performance—for the 1949 Cadillac is powered by a great new V-8 engine, so smooth and effortless that only a demonstration can tell the story of its superiority.

Did he buy it for comfort?

Yes—for a ride so quiet and restful and easy that every mile is a joy and a relaxation.

Did he buy it for safety?

He certainly did! He has such confidence in the steady steering, the quick acceleration and the powerful hydraulic brakes that his peace of mind is worth the purchase price!

Did he buy it for long life and durability?

There can be no doubt of it. For he knows that many individual Cadillacs have covered the highways for over half a million miles and are still in active service!

Did he buy it for.....?

Why, of course he did! And he bought it for a lot of other reasons: for beauty, for distinction, for quality, for background, for character, for craftsmanship, as well as for engineering.

He bought it, you see, because it's a . . . Cadillac.

And that is the reason why you should buy one—for Cadillac's superiority lies not in any one thing but in the whole of its substance. Why not come in for a ride that's a revelation?

300 EXPECTED TO GET DEGREES

Airline President To Speak At Tech Summer Commencement

By JERRY HALL
Avalanche-Journal Staff Writer

Gen. Robert J. Smith, president of Pioneer Air Lines and commanding general of the 443rd Troop Carrier wing reserve, will be the principal speaker at the summer commencement exercises to be held at Texas Technological college Aug. 26, according to an announcement made Saturday by officials at the college.

The site for the exercises will be decided in a senior class meeting at the college Wednesday. Jack Noyes of Midland, who is president of the graduating class, said between 300 and 350 students were expected to receive both master's and bachelor's degrees at the end of the second summer term.

Largest Summer Group

That will be the largest number of seniors ever to graduate in summer commencement exercises in the history of the college. The last summer commencement was held on the Administration building green at the college Aug. 26, 1946.

Gen. Smith is a veteran of both World Wars. He first became interested in aviation in 1917 and following his discharge from the service he embarked upon a program of training which was to make him an outstanding member of the rapidly growing young aviation industry.

He obtained an AB degree from Jefferson university and a LLB degree from Northwestern. In 1925 he put his education to work when he became head of the aviation department of the Dallas Chamber of Commerce.

Worked With Airlines

He remained there until 1928 when he went to New York City to become general traffic manager of American Airways, the company which later changed its name to American Airlines. Returning to Dallas in 1933, Gen. Smith became an associate in the law firm of Clark and Rice, an organization with which he was associated both actively and inactively until the outbreak of World War II. In October of 1937, he joined Braniff Airways in Dallas and was executive vice president of that company when he entered military service in World War II.

He was rapidly promoted to the rank of colonel and was sent to North Africa to act as deputy commander of the North African division of the Air Transport command with headquarters in Cairo.

GEN. ROBERT J. SMITH

Gen. Smith commanded bases in Tripolitania, Libya, Saudi-Arabia, Palestine, Lebanon, Svria, Iraq, Russia and India.

Joined Pioneer In 1946

It was during this time that he became interested in the subject of a feeder or community airline; one which would transport passengers both long and short distances from small cities to larger trading centers.

When he was discharged in 1946, Gen. Smith joined Pioneer as its president. At the same time he assumed command of the 309th Bomb division reserve, one of the nation's four such Air Force divisions.

When Gen. Smith joined Pioneer, the airline served only six Texas cities over 683 system miles. In less than a year, extensions had been obtained to increase the system to 17 cities over a distance of 1,400 route miles and less than a year following this addition mileage to eight new cities and over 700 route miles had been added to the growing company.

Applications for 1,670 additional miles to 13 new cities in Texas, Oklahoma and New Mexico are now pending before the Civil Aeronautics board in Washington.

Gen. Smith is a member of the Dallas Bar association, the Texas Bar association and the American Bar association. He is past president of the Air Reserve association and is a member of the Air Force association as well as acting as president of Aviation Activities, Inc., a large concern which sells aircraft equipment. He is also a director of the Dallas Chamber of Commerce.

Massachusetts Man Regains His Sight After 18 Years

HOPKINTON, Mass., July 9 (U.P.)—Edward R. Ray of Hopkinton believed in miracles today.

For after 18 years of darkness, the 63-year-old masseur could see again—could see a bright, new world full of life and color, could see that his wife was "still beautiful."

Ray revealed that his veil of blindness unexpectedly lifted Wednesday night, but that he didn't tell the world at first because he wanted to be sure the return of his vision wasn't just a cruel freak."

Reads Newspaper

Ray said he was walking into the kitchen of his home from a hall "when suddenly everything became bright." His wife, Ann, and his brother-in-law, Joseph Deegan, were in the room.

"My God," he shouted, "I can see. I can see."

"My wife looked at me as if I were crazy," he said. He convinced them by walking into the kitchen and reading headlines from a newspaper.

Ray planned to leave today for Brant Rock where his daughter and grandchildren are vacationing.

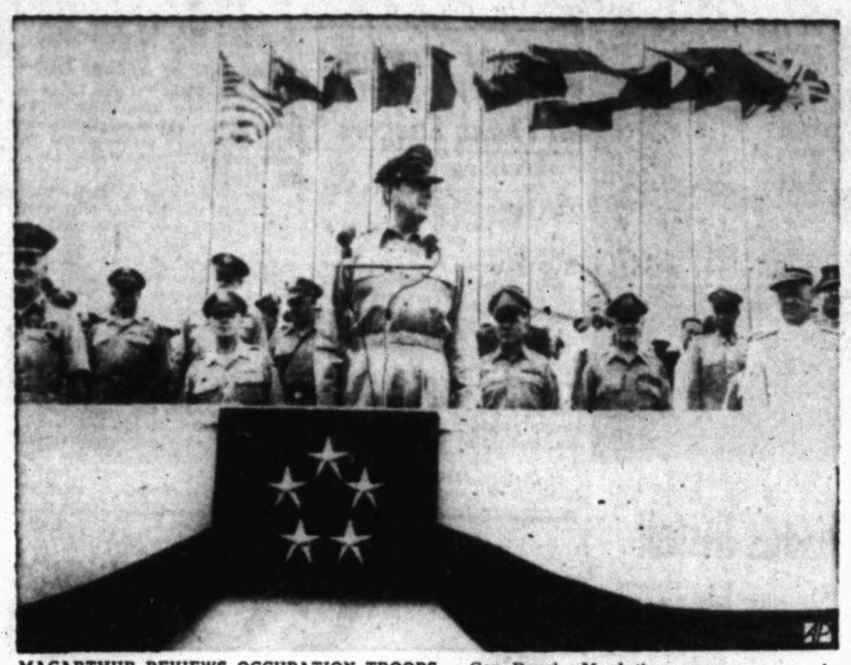

"I've been told that my daughter is very beautiful, and I've been stumbling over my grandchildren since they were born," he said. "Now I'll get a chance to see them."

His daughter, Mrs. John Rotchford, was only a child when Ray lost his sight. His grandchildren are her daughter, Joan, 6, and her son, Edward, 3.

When he was only 9 years old, a stick hit Ray's right eye and eventually cost him its sight. The other eye weakened over a period of 35 years and he finally was totally blind in 1931.

GERMANS WELCOMED

MINNEAPOLIS. (U.P.)—The all-university congress of the University of Minnesota has approved a plan for bringing German students to the campus. A committee will be appointed to work out financial details of the plan and to find out if a $2,500 scholarship fund may be used for the purpose.

Building In State Given Good Boost

(By The United Press)

A big boost in non-residential building brought construction awards in Texas for the week ended July 8 to $33,089,521.

This compared with only $5,828,208 the previous week and brought the year's accumulative awards to $533,641,636, The Texas Contractor, trade journal published in Austin, reported Saturday.

Public buildings paced the non-residential building with awards totaling $7,300,095, followed by hospitals and hotels with awards of $4,633,768.

Awards for industrial buildings were $2,014,700; schools, $1,934,730, and churches and theaters, $328,414. The total for non-residential building was $17,711,707.

Engineering awards totaled $12,477,718 with highways and streets earmarked for the bulk of the work. Awards in this division totaled $7,389,658. Waterworks and sewers awards were $1,026,003; irrigation and channels, $1,556,350; bridges, $450,419; REA, $255,288, and miscellaneous, $1,800,000.

Here's the way the residential building awards were made: One-family units costing less than $7,000 each, 325 at a cost of $2,189,600; residences costing more than $7,000 each, 47 at a cost of $639,496; apartments for families, $24,000, and duplexes for 10 families to cost $47,000. Total residential awards: $2,900,096.

El Salvador hopes to raise $16,000,000 to complete its Lempa River project.

EFFICIENCY WOULD NOT SUFFER

Drastic Cut Of Armed Forces Civilian Workers Considered

By ELTON C. FAY
Associated Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, July 9 — The armed forces are studying the feasibility of a drastic cut in the number of their civilian employes.

While the survey so far appears to have produced no definite overall figure, it was learned that there is a possibility it may run from 100,000 to 200,000.

Such a figure would be the heaviest reduction in civilian employment by the armed forces since the general reduction after the war.

Johnson Suggests Cut

The total employed May 30 both at home and overseas was 897,365.

An official reference to it was tucked away in testimony by Defense Secretary Johnson before a Senate Appropriations subcommittee considering the money bill for the military for the fiscal year which started July 1.

Johnson told the committee that, without hurting the combat efficiency of the Army, Navy or Air Force, he thought about $1 billion could be saved by eliminating wastage and duplication "and by cutting down unnecessary civilian employment."

Navy May Be Hard Hit

Neither Johnson nor any other official of the national military establishment indicated which of the armed forces might bear the brunt of the civilian lay-offs.

However, there seemed reason to believe the Navy might sustain the largest cutback because of the continued reduction in naval construction and conversion of warships.

Testimony given Congress shows that about one-third of the Navy's civilian employes are engaged in industrial-type work—ship construction, overhaul and repair, conversion and fabrication of parts for naval vessels. The Navy currently employs about four civilians to each six military personnel.

Peak Reached In War

The latest available totals for civilian workers in the armed forces is for May 30. At that time, the Army was hiring 377,286, the Navy 351,300, the Air Force 167,289 and the national military establishment itself 1,490.

Peak civilian employment by the services was reached during the war on March 31, 1945, when the War Department (which then included the Air Force as well as the Army) had 1,881,000 civilian workers, the Navy 753,000. The low point was reached in December, 1947—just before the worsening situation in Europe compelled a rearmament program. At that time, the Army and Air Force had 489,000 workers, the Navy 339,000, a total of 828,000.

Charity Bureau To Care For Boy Kept Hidden By Mother

BOSTON, July 9 (AP)—A new and broader life opened today for Boston's once barefooted and "captive" boy.

Mrs. Anna Sullivan, who kept her 13-year-old son, Gerald, hidden from the world most of his life because of the "shame" of his illegitimacy, has agreed to turn him over to the Catholic Charities bureau of Boston.

The Rev. James H. Doyle, director of the bureau, said the boy will be placed in one of its institutions or a private home where he can lead a normal life.

The story of Gerald's life—most of which was spent in a back room of the Sullivan home—broke last March when he was found, a ragged urchin dressed in tattered girl's clothes, barefooted and long-haired, near the family home.

Gerald told of fleeing from the house during an unguarded moment. His mother admitted, authorities said, that she kept him confined during most of his life to cover a secret sin—committed while she was separated from her husband.

THRILL OF A LIFETIME

ST. LOUIS. (U.P.)—Bobby Smith, 12, got a bigger thrill out of the "open house" at police headquarters than any of the thousands of guests. While looking at a display of stolen items recovered, the youngster spotted a bicycle stolen from him more than a year ago.

National Meeting Planned For Spotters Of Flying Saucers

ALEXANDRIA, La., July 9. (AP)—Have you seen a flying saucer?

If so, you are invited to a convention.

The Young Men's Business club announced yesterday it is planning a convention for persons all over the nation who have seen the discs. It'll give them a chance to compare notes.

Discs were reported here twice this week.

New-Born Baby Survives Being Buried Alive By Alabama Mother

MONTGOMERY, Ala., July 9. (AP) — A new-born baby buried alive by its young negro mother here last night survived the 14-hour ordeal, detective chief Lewis Miller said today.

The infant, dug up about 10:30 a.m. and its unmarried mother, Miller said, were taken immediately to a hospital where both were reported in good condition.

He said charges of assault with intent to murder will be placed against the negro woman, booked as Ida Roberts, about 20.

Hospital sources said the baby girl, perfectly formed, was put in an incubator as a precaution after arriving there.

Miller quoted the negro woman as saying she already had one illegitimate child and could not afford to support another one.

Miller said the negro mother reported for domestic work as usual today and was ironing clothes when they went after her.

Oklahoma Governor Makes Bid For Air Development Center

WASHINGTON, July 9. (U.P.)—Gov. Roy J. Turner of Oklahoma said today he expects Air Force officials to give close consideration to proposals to locate an air development center at Pryor, Okla.

Turner conferred with Air Force officials yesterday about the project. He said the Air Force is going to be "very particular and exacting" in choosing a spot for its development center for jet planes.

The Oklahoma governor would like the former Choteau Ordnance works at Pryor to be chosen.

The governor had no appointments with government officials today. This morning he attended a breakfast given for him by the Oklahoma society. Members of the Oklahoma congressional delegation attended.

GI Bride Enjoys Trip To Home In England As Birthday Present

NEW YORK, July 9 (U.P.)—Pretty GI bride Mrs. Lawrence Russel returned today from a "sentimental journey" home to England which was given her as a 21st birthday present by tenants of the Oklahoma City office building where she works as an elevator operator.

"It was the nicest birthday present I ever had," she said.

Mrs. Russel returned on the Cunard-White Star liner Britannica after a five-week trip to see her parents in Blackpool, England. It was there she met her husband at a dance during the war when he was an Eighth Air Force corporal.

Shortly before her 21st birthday she remarked casually at work that she would like to see her father and mother again. She had not seen them in three years.

Tenants of the building, who call her "Sunshine," collected $500 to finance the trip.

She said it was wonderful to see England again but she prefers living in the United States.

Share Of Hollywood Paycheck Proves Too Much For Chimp

LOS ANGELES, July 9. (AP)—Charlie the chimp is no simp. He's just slightly money mad.

He demonstrated this yesterday when, after breaking into a home and helping himself to some children's lunch and smashing a window glass, he sat down to wait for his master to come and pay for the damage.

Trainer Ed Learmont, summoned by a hysterical and indignant neighborhood, explained that although the runaway simian is only four years old, he shares a $1,500 weekly paycheck as a movie actor.

"He's just a kid and all that money has made him a little wild," Learmont said.

Thousands of progressive farmers are using the world famous TOWNER OFFSET DISC HARROW as a two-way plow . . . supplementing, even replacing, moldboard and one way disc plow operations.

Here's why:

TURNS THE SOIL TWO WAYS
Doing a double tillage job . . . without burying the top soil.

CONSERVES HORSEPOWER
Rolling moldboards give less drag . . . thus every unit of horsepower counts for useful work. A 35-40 HP Tractor is adequate for a 10½ ft. offset disc harrow.

LEAVES THE LAND LEVEL
Combined action of two disc gangs returns earth to its original location . . . preventing the usual movement of top soil toward the edge of field.

CUTS 6 IN. TO 8 IN. DEEP

POWER-RATED FOR YOUR TRACTOR . . . available in sizes from 4½ ft. to 24 ft., with mechanical or hydraulic control . . . white iron or oil bath bearings . . . 22 in. or 24 in. blades.

Compare this amazing TOWNER OFFSET DISC HARROW with any tillage tool. It's the perfect answer for open field, . . . for summer fallowing, seed bed preparation, turning under grain stubble, cotton or corn stalks . . . and for vegetable farming. See it, try it and you will "Till with Towner."

300 EXPECTED TO GET DEGREES

Airline President To Speak At Tech Summer Commencement

By JERRY HALL
Avalanche-Journal Staff Writer

Gen. Robert J. Smith, president of Pioneer Air Lines and commanding general of the 443rd Troop Carrier wing reserve, will be the principal speaker at the summer commencement exercises to be held at Texas Technological college Aug. 26, according to an announcement made Saturday by officials at the college.

The site for the exercises will be decided in a senior class meeting at the college Wednesday. Jack Noyes of Midland, who is president of the graduating class, said between 300 and 350 students were expected to receive both master's and bachelor's degrees at the end of the second summer term.

Largest Summer Group

That will be the largest number of seniors ever to graduate in summer commencement exercises in the history of the college. The last summer commencement was held on the Administration building green at the college Aug. 26, 1946.

Gen. Smith is a veteran of both World Wars. He first became interested in aviation in 1917 and following his discharge from the service he embarked upon a program of training which was to make him an outstanding member of the rapidly growing young aviation industry.

He obtained an AB degree from Jefferson university and a LLB degree from Northwestern. In 1925 he put his education to work when he became head of the aviation department of the Dallas Chamber of Commerce.

Worked With Airlines

He remained there until 1928 when he went to New York City to become general traffic manager of American Airways, the company which later changed its name to American Airlines. Returning to Dallas in 1933, Gen. Smith became an associate in the law firm of Clark and Rice, an organization with which he was associated both actively and inactively until the outbreak of World War II. In October of 1937, he joined Braniff Airways in Dallas and was executive vice president of that company when he entered military service in World War II.

He was rapidly promoted to the rank of colonel and was sent to North Africa to act as deputy commander of the North African division of the Air Transport command with headquarters in Cairo.

GEN. ROBERT J. SMITH

Gen. Smith commanded bases in Tripolitania, Libya, Saudi-Arabia, Palestine, Lebanon, Svria, Iraq, Russia and India.

Joined Pioneer In 1946

It was during this time that he became interested in the subject of a feeder or community airline; one which would transport passengers both long and short distances from small cities to larger trading centers.

When he was discharged in 1946, Gen. Smith joined Pioneer as its president. At the same time he assumed command of the 309th Bomb division reserve, one of the nation's four such Air Force divisions.

When Gen. Smith joined Pioneer, the airline served only six Texas cities over 683 system miles. In less than a year, extensions had been obtained to increase the system to 17 cities over a distance of 1,400 route miles and less than a year following this addition mileage to eight new cities and over 700 route miles had been added to the growing company.

Applications for 1,670 additional miles to 13 new cities in Texas, Oklahoma and New Mexico are now pending before the Civil Aeronautics board in Washington.

Gen. Smith is a member of the Dallas Bar association, the Texas Bar association and the American Bar association. He is past president of the Air Reserve association and is a member of the Air Force association as well as acting as president of Aviation Activities, Inc., a large concern which sells aircraft equipment. He is also a director of the Dallas Chamber of Commerce.

Massachusetts Man Regains His Sight After 18 Years

HOPKINTON, Mass., July 9 (U.P.)—Edward R. Ray of Hopkinton believed in miracles today.

For after 18 years of darkness, the 63-year-old masseur could see again—could see a bright, new world full of life and color, could see that his wife was "still beautiful."

Ray revealed that his veil of blindness unexpectedly lifted Wednesday night, but that he didn't tell the world at first because he wanted to be sure the return of his vision wasn't just a cruel freak."

Reads Newspaper

Ray said he was walking into the kitchen of his home from a hall "when suddenly everything became bright." His wife, Ann, and his brother-in-law, Joseph Deegan, were in the room.

"My God," he shouted, "I can see. I can see."

"My wife looked at me as if I were crazy," he said. He convinced them by walking into the kitchen and reading headlines from a newspaper.

Ray planned to leave today for Brant Rock where his daughter and grandchildren are vacationing.

"I've been told that my daughter is very beautiful, and I've been stumbling over my grandchildren since they were born," he said. "Now I'll get a chance to see them."

His daughter, Mrs. John Rotchford, was only a child when Ray lost his sight. His grandchildren are her daughter, Joan, 6, and her son, Edward, 3.

When he was only 9 years old, a stick hit Ray's right eye and eventually cost him its sight. The other eye weakened over a period of 35 years and he finally was totally blind in 1931.

Building In State Given Good Boost

(By The United Press)

A big boost in non-residential building brought construction awards in Texas for the week ended July 8 to $33,089,521.

This compared with only $5,828,208 the previous week and brought the year's accumulative awards to $533,641,636, The Texas Contractor, trade journal published in Austin, reported Saturday.

Public buildings paced the non-residential building with awards totaling $7,300,095, followed by hospitals and hotels with awards of $4,633,768.

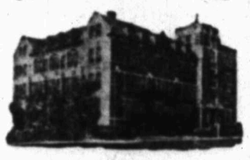

Awards for industrial buildings were $2,014,700; schools, $1,934,730, and churches and theaters, $328,414. The total for non-residential building was $17,711,707.

Engineering awards totaled $12,477,718 with highways and streets earmarked for the bulk of the work. Awards in this division totaled $7,389,658. Waterworks and sewers awards were $1,026,003; irrigation and channels, $1,556,350; bridges, $450,419; REA, $255,288, and miscellaneous, $1,800,000.

Here's the way the residential building awards were made: One-family units costing less than $7,000 each, 325 at a cost of $2,189,600; residences costing more than $7,000 each, 47 at a cost of $639,496; apartments for families, $24,000, and duplexes for 10 families to cost $47,000. Total residential awards: $2,900,096.

El Salvador hopes to raise $16,000,000 to complete its Lempa River project.

EFFICIENCY WOULD NOT SUFFER

Drastic Cut Of Armed Forces Civilian Workers Considered

By ELTON C. FAY
Associated Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, July 9 — The armed forces are studying the feasibility of a drastic cut in the number of their civilian employes.

While the survey so far appears to have produced no definite overall figure, it was learned that there is a possibility it may run from 100,000 to 200,000.

Such a figure would be the heaviest reduction in civilian employment by the armed forces since the general reduction after the war.

Johnson Suggests Cut

The total employed May 30 both at home and overseas was 897,365.

An official reference to it was tucked away in testimony by Defense Secretary Johnson before a Senate Appropriations subcommittee considering the money bill for the military for the fiscal year which started July 1.

Johnson told the committee that, without hurting the combat efficiency of the Army, Navy or Air Force, he thought about $1 billion could be saved by eliminating wastage and duplication "and by cutting down unnecessary civilian employment."

Navy May Be Hard Hit

Neither Johnson nor any other official of the national military establishment indicated which of the armed forces might bear the brunt of the civilian lay-offs.

However, there seemed reason to believe the Navy might sustain the largest cutback because of the continued reduction in naval construction and conversion of warships.

Testimony given Congress shows that about one-third of the Navy's civilian employes are engaged in industrial-type work—ship construction, overhaul and repair, conversion and fabrication of parts for naval vessels. The Navy currently employs about four civilians to each six military personnel.

Peak Reached In War

The latest available totals for civilian workers in the armed forces is for May 30. At that time, the Army was hiring 377,286, the Navy 351,300, the Air Force 167,289 and the national military establishment itself 1,490.

Peak civilian employment by the services was reached during the war on March 31, 1945, when the War Department (which then included the Air Force as well as the Army) had 1,881,000 civilian workers, the Navy 753,000. The low point was reached in December, 1947—just before the worsening situation in Europe compelled a rearmament program. At that time, the Army and Air Force had 489,000 workers, the Navy 339,000, a total of 828,000.

Charity Bureau To Care For Boy Kept Hidden By Mother

BOSTON, July 9 (AP)—A new and broader life opened today for Boston's once barefooted and "captive" boy.

Mrs. Anna Sullivan, who kept her 13-year-old son, Gerald, hidden from the world most of his life because of the "shame" of his illegitimacy, has agreed to turn him over to the Catholic Charities bureau of Boston.

The Rev. James H. Doyle, director of the bureau, said the boy will be placed in one of its institutions or a private home where he can lead a normal life.

The story of Gerald's life—most of which was spent in a back room of the Sullivan home—broke last March when he was found, a ragged urchin dressed in tattered girl's clothes, barefooted and long-haired, near the family home.

Gerald told of fleeing from the house during an unguarded moment. His mother admitted, authorities said, that she kept him confined during most of his life to cover a secret sin—committed while she was separated from her husband.

THRILL OF A LIFETIME

ST. LOUIS. (U.P.)—Bobby Smith, 12, got a bigger thrill out of the "open house" at police headquarters than any of the thousands of guests. While looking at a display of stolen items recovered, the youngster spotted a bicycle stolen from him more than a year ago.

The Young Men's Business club announced yesterday it is planning a convention for persons all over the nation who have seen the discs. It'll give them a chance to compare notes.

Discs were reported here twice this week.

New-Born Baby Survives Being Buried Alive By Alabama Mother

MONTGOMERY, Ala., July 9. (AP) — A new-born baby buried alive by its young negro mother here last night survived the 14-hour ordeal, detective chief Lewis Miller said today.

The infant, dug up about 10:30 a.m. and its unmarried mother, Miller said, were taken immediately to a hospital where both were reported in good condition.

He said charges of assault with intent to murder will be placed against the negro woman, booked as Ida Roberts, about 20.

Hospital sources said the baby girl, perfectly formed, was put in an incubator as a precaution after arriving there.

Miller quoted the negro woman as saying she already had one illegitimate child and could not afford to support another one.

Miller said the negro mother reported for domestic work as usual today and was ironing clothes when they went after her.

Oklahoma Governor Makes Bid For Air Development Center

WASHINGTON, July 9. (U.P.)—Gov. Roy J. Turner of Oklahoma said today he expects Air Force officials to give close consideration to proposals to locate an air development center at Pryor, Okla.

Turner conferred with Air Force officials yesterday about the project. He said the Air Force is going to be "very particular and exacting" in choosing a spot for its development center for jet planes.

The Oklahoma governor would like the former Choteau Ordnance works at Pryor to be chosen.

The governor had no appointments with government officials today. This morning he attended a breakfast given for him by the Oklahoma society. Members of the Oklahoma congressional delegation attended.

GI Bride Enjoys Trip To Home In England As Birthday Present

NEW YORK, July 9 (U.P.)—Pretty GI bride Mrs. Lawrence Russel returned today from a "sentimental journey" home to England which was given her as a 21st birthday present by tenants of the Oklahoma City office building where she works as an elevator operator.

"It was the nicest birthday present I ever had," she said.

Mrs. Russel returned on the Cunard-White Star liner Britannica after a five-week trip to see her parents in Blackpool, England. It was there she met her husband at a dance during the war when he was an Eighth Air Force corporal.

Shortly before her 21st birthday she remarked casually at work that she would like to see her father and mother again. She had not seen them in three years.

Tenants of the building, who call her "Sunshine," collected $500 to finance the trip.

She said it was wonderful to see England again but she prefers living in the United States.

Share Of Hollywood Paycheck Proves Too Much For Chimp

LOS ANGELES, July 9. (AP)—Charlie the chimp is no simp. He's just slightly money mad.

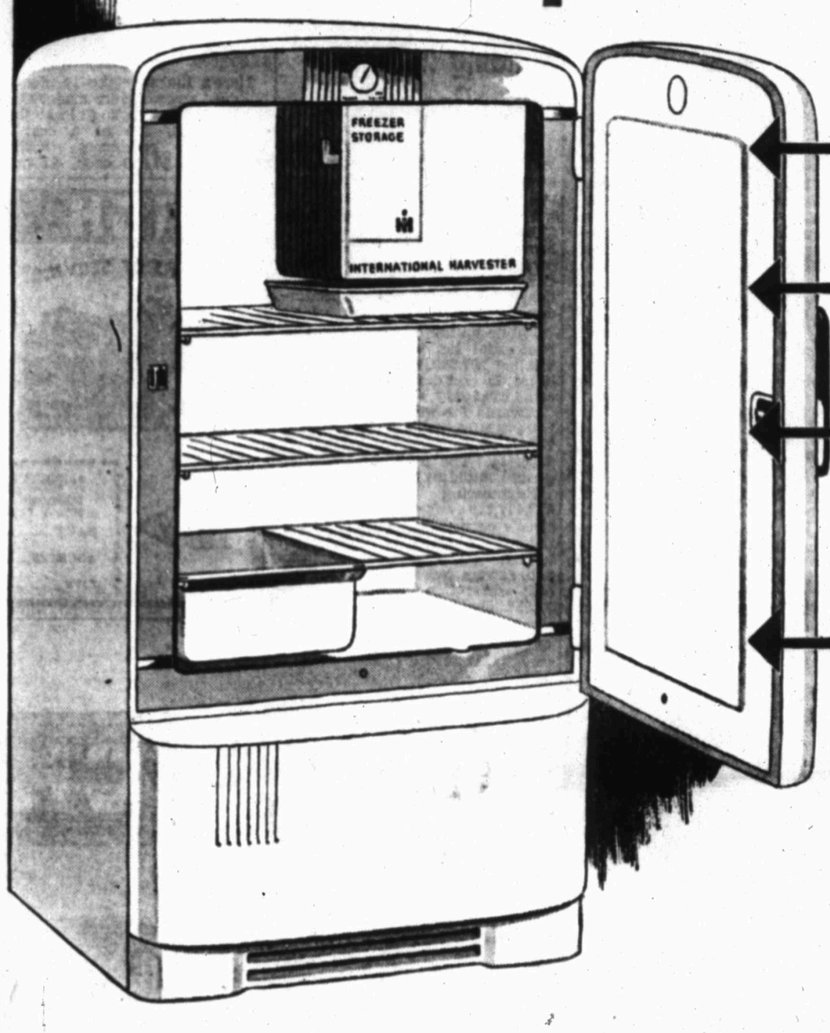

He demonstrated this yesterday when, after breaking into a home and helping himself to some children's lunch and smashing a window glass, he sat down to wait for his master to come and pay for the damage.

Trainer Ed Learmont, summoned by a hysterical and indignant neighborhood, explained that although the runaway simian is only four years old, he shares a $1,500 weekly paycheck as a movie actor.

"He's just a kid and all that money has made him a little wild," Learmont said.

Union To Avoid Clause Pegging Pay To Cost Of Living In Future

By GLENN ENGLE
Associated Press Staff Writer

MILWAUKEE, July 9 — The UAW-CIO probably will have no more truck with escalator pay clauses when its current contract with General Motors expires next year.

So said president Walter Reuther today on the eve of the union's convention.

Strike Fund Planned

1. Called on delegates to wipe out the "remnants of factionalism" in the union's million-member ranks.

2. Disclosed plans to set up strike fund arrangements by which up to $10 million could be mustered in a major emergency.

Reuther's plea to rid the union of the last vestiges of factionalism which formerly had split it wide open was contained in his formal 186-page president's report to the convention, opening here Sunday.

Ford Strike Threatened

He said the huge strike fund plan would not mean that $10-million would be kept on hand at all times. But arrangements will be made at the convention, he said, by which it could be raised within a year's time. Money would be available for the first time, he said, for direct benefits to strikers. This, he added, would be possible out of a dues raise from $1.50 to $2 a month.

The UAW has threatened to strike the Ford Motor Co. in Detroit shortly after the convention is over unless Ford meets demands for pensions, welfare funds and wage boosts.

Although the union probably will not want to renew the widely-heralded General Motors contract, said Reuther, he had no regrets that it was signed in May, 1948.

The union, he said, has been "historically opposed" to agreements pegging wages to the cost of living. Such pacts, he said, tend to maintain the status quo for workers.

Final Tech Concert Set Tuesday Night

The final concert to be presented by the summer band school at Texas Technological college will be given Tuesday at 8:30 p.m. on the lawn just north of the band building on the campus.

A scheduled performance for last Thursday night was rained out. Prof. D. O. Wiley, Tech's band director and head of the summer clinic, said Dr. A. A. Harding, director emeritus of the University of Illinois band, who was to have been guest director Thursday would appear for this final concert.

Dr. Harding will conduct the concert band which is made up of college and graduate students and some pre-college age students. Two other bands composed entirely of pre-college age students will also be featured on the program.

OWNER SOUGHT
Bull Fiddle Found In Phone Booth

PETTS WOOD, Eng., July 9. (AP)—You've seen a bull fiddle? You know how big a telephone booth is?

A man lost a bull fiddle here in a telephone booth.

Stanley Small, manager of the Daylight Inn, found the instrument there the morning after a dance.

Assuming it had been mislaid by a member of the band, he waited for the owner to turn up.

That was ten weeks ago.

"If anything has happened to the owner," Small said today, "perhaps his relatives might like to take it off my hands."

Fate Of Proposals From Jester Listed

AUSTIN, July 9. (AP)—A majority of the legislative proposals sponsored by Gov. Beauford H. Jester were enacted into law, but there were some prominent failures.

The governor's office today issued what it termed a "partial list of the items he sponsored, more or less directly, and their fate."

This showed legislative approval of 31 of Jester's suggestions, and rejection of 15.

From the administration's viewpoint, important accomplishments of the 51st Legislature were prison reform, Gilmer-Aikin school program; civil rights legislation which included an anti-lynching law and submission of a proposed constitutional amendment to repeal the poll tax; a youth development council; expanded rural road program; expansion of state parks; progress in water legislation; and a separate board for state hospitals and special schools.

The governor said prominent failures included the eleemosynary building program; a capital development commission; a higher education study; the old age assistance ceiling; a tax study; and a balanced budget.

Baby Rescued From 10-Foot Deep Hole By Quick Work

CAMDEN, N. J., July 9. (AP) A baby toddling about the yard of his home tumbled into a narrow, 10-foot deep hole today.

Ten-month-old Howard Morgan, jr., was rescued, apparently unharmed, 90 minutes later. A hushed crowd of more than 100, remembering the Kathy Fiscus tragedy, watched the child's father lead the crew of volunteer rescuers.

Howard was brought to West Jersey hospital here and placed temporarily in an oxygen tent as a precautionary measure. He apparently suffered only a few scratches.

Tunnel Dug To Hole

Firemen and volunteers dug a tunnel parallel to the hole to free the child. His mother, 19-year-old Mrs. Howard, told a reporter:

"It was wonderful the way total strangers worked to help save our child. I'll never be able to thank everyone enough."

For a time the accident in suburban Chews Landing stirred memories of the tragic death of little Kathy Fiscus who fell into an abandoned well in California April 8. Hundreds of men worked for 52 hours in a vain effort to rescue her.

The boy's father had dug the hole, about a foot wide, to bring electric wiring into the family bungalow in the little community across the Delaware river from Philadelphia.

Working in the yard this morning, he placed a board over the hole. Then he left for a few moments and somehow the board was dislodged.

Howard and his brother Richard, 2, had been playing in the yard. Shortly after 10 a.m. Mrs. Morgan looked for them.

"I saw Howard in the hole, crying," she said. Only his head was above the ground. As I ran to get him he slid down into it."

A police radio called for aid. Even before workers arrived the frantic father was clawing at the ground with his bare hands in an attempt to reach the boy.

Slightly more than an hour later the parallel tunnel was completed and with great care, the rescuers dug into the hole to release the trapped child.

Entry Blanks For Jaycee-Plymouth Model Airplane Contest Available At Dealers

Entry blanks for the Lubbock Junior Chamber of Commerce-Plymouth model airplane contest to be held next Saturday and Sunday at Lubbock Air Force base are available at the three Plymouth dealers' showrooms here, Chairman J. R. Callahan announced Saturday.

Men and boys 25-years-old and younger will compete for 54 trophies and an all-expense paid trip to the Plymouth Motor corporation Third International Model Plane contest Aug. 22-29 at Detroit, where 167 trophies and $8,750 in U. S. Savings bonds will be awarded to the best talent there.

Callahan said entry forms must be completed and returned to Fenner Tubbs company, Hub Motor company or Dickinson Motor company by Saturday before the contest begins.

Contestants will be eligible to enter the junior, senior, open or combination classifications in the free flight gas, rubber power, U-control speed and U-control stunt events. First and second prizes also will be awarded the most beautiful planes.

Twenty-seven first place trophies will be awarded and an equal number of second place prizes. The high point trophy will go to the winner of the trip on a point system.

Navy To Hold Most Of Fleet In Atlantic And Mediterranean

WASHINGTON, July 9. (INS)—The Navy announced today that it plans to hold the greater part of the vast United States fleet in Atlantic and Mediterranean waters throughout the next year.

A high naval spokesman said that neither relaxed tension in Europe nor Communist gains in China have changed the Navy's view of the overall strategic picture.

The spokesman made public plans for maintaining 288 combat ships in active service through the fiscal year which began July 1. The ratio will be about four in the Atlantic and Mediterranean to three in the Pacific.

The Atlantic will continue to get the three large modernized carriers, approximately six-sevenths of the Navy's air arm, and the heaviest tonnage of fighting ships.

The detailed plans, which follow the present distribution, call for six heavy and two light carriers in the Atlantic, and two medium-heavy and three light carriers in the Pacific.

The distribution of cruisers is to be 12 to 6, of destroyers 117 to 53, and submarines 48 to 32 in favor of the Atlantic. Although some shifts will be made, the approximate proportions will be maintained.

The plans refer to ships in active service, which with auxiliaries now number 663 vessels. Of the larger "mothball" fleet, 1,033 ships are in Pacific ports and 874 in Atlantic reserves.

The spokesman said that the budget-proposed 600 million dollar reduction in the Navy's funds for fiscal 1950 will not reduce the present fleet, because reductions have already been made to get under the budget figure.

UNDER WATER

The original Fort Hall, site of which now is submerged by the waters of the American Falls reservoir, in Idaho, was one of the most important points along the Oregon Trail.

Egypt will produce a "poor people's cloth" costing 20 cents a yard or less.

Basic Sciences Law Hits Hurdle

AUSTIN, July 9 (AP) — Texas' long-contested, finally-enacted basic sciences law was reported hung today on another technical hurdle.

Wording of the law, it was understood, had caused Gov. Beauford Jester to scrap a tentative list of six proposed appointees to the new basic sciences board.

As set out in the bill, the six appointees must be faculty members of the University of Texas, Texas A. & M., Texas Technological college, Baylor university, Southern Methodist university, Rice institute, Southwestern university, St. Edwards university "or any other institution or college located within the state of Texas.

Selection Restricted

It was reported that the governor's tentative list of appointees included a major representation from state-supported schools. This was all right with the law.

However, the state constitution expressly prohibits state employes from holding two positions of trust and confidence. On that basis the governor would be forced to name his appointees entirely from such privately supported schools as Baylor, S. M. U., T. C. U. or Rice.

Earlier, during passage by the legislature, corrective action had to be taken when five amendments were omitted from a final copy of the bill through a clerical error.

Law Takes Effect

New confusion was added later when it was discovered the law had taken immediate effect. The governor, as well as sponsors of the bill, had believed the measure became law 90 days after adjournment of the legislature.

The result was that some 200 aspiring young doctors short-circuited the express provisions of the new law by taking their medical board examinations before completing their basic sciences test.

The state Board of Medical examiners is now awaiting an opinion from the attorney general. It is supposed to answer the question of whether the medical board exams were good and sufficient—or whether they might have to be taken again.

The law, long fought by Texas chiropractors and endorsed by the State Medical association requires that all practitioners of the healing arts demonstrate that they are qualified in six "basic sciences" before being licensed to practice their profession.

UNDERGROUND WATER

The quantity of water underneath the earth's surface is said to be more than one-third of the total volume of the oceanic waters. This underground water is composed of rivers and springs with no visible sources.

the Dearborn EVAPORATIVE COOLER makes the difference!

Summertime need no longer be *simmer*time... with the Dearborn evaporative cooler to bring refreshingly cool breezes to your home. No more suffering through long, hot days... no more feeling worn out from lack of rest because it's too hot to sleep. Goodlooking in smart coppertone, the Dearborn cooler is economical to operate and superbly efficient.

Dearborn MODEL DEF-22
Fan-type cooler. Ideal for one large room or small apartment. Delivers 2,200 cubic feet of cooled air per minute.

Dearborn MODEL DEB-25
Blower-type cooler. Cools up to three rooms. Delivers 2,500 cubic feet of cooled air per minute.
MODEL DEB-35 delivers 3,500 cubic feet of cooled air per minute. Cools up to five rooms.

Dearborn Gives You More For Your Money .. and here's why ..

SILENT OPERATION
All cooler motors rubber mounted. On blower models, blower is mounted on rubber and completely rubber insulated from cabinet, preventing vibration. These, and other special features, combine to give exceptionally quiet operation.

100% WHITE ASPEN WOOD FILTER PADS
All Dearborn filter pads are made of genuine 100% white aspen wood. White aspen wood resists rot, bacteria and odor-causing algae. Dearborn filter pads have longer life, are easily replaced when necessary.

EVEN WATER DISTRIBUTION
On blower models, Dearborn's Hydro-Flo Equalizer keeps water flowing equally to each pad. On all models, Dearborn's Flo-Rite water distributor trough keeps water evenly distributed —no dry or overflooded spots.

SIDE PANELS GIVE PERFECT FIT
Dearborn's Model DEF-22 is equipped with side panels to fit exactly between window and sides of cooler cabinet. Finished in same beautiful coppertone as cabinet, these panels seal out insects, dust and rain.

LONG SERVICE
Dearborn evaporative coolers are constructed of die-stamped, heavy-gauge steel with special rust-resistant interior coating. Precision made by famous Dearborn engineering methods, they will give many years of trouble-free operation.

Ask your dealer to show you the Dearborn thermometer test ... YOU'LL BE AMAZED!

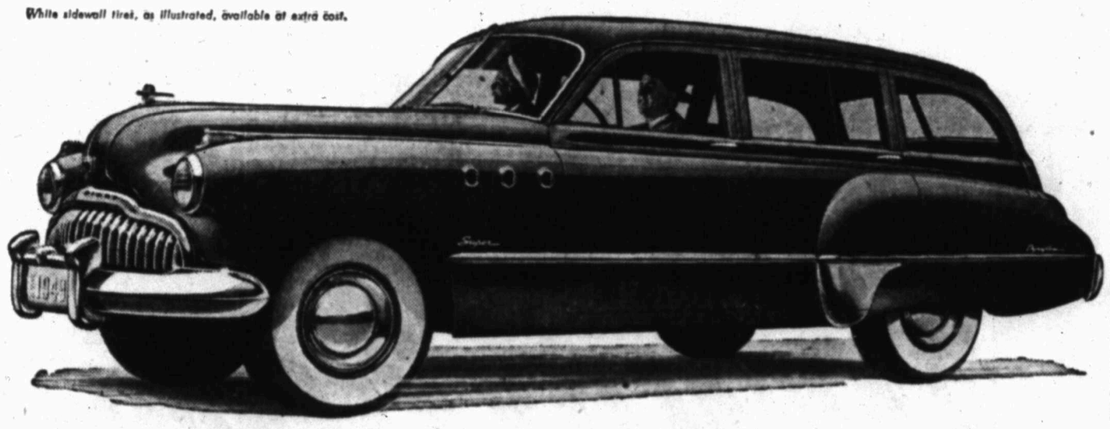

Recirculation Pump Kit
Optional equipment for all Dearborn coolers. Allows re-use of water; eliminates water disposal problem. Savings in water soon pay for recirculation kit. Ideal for use in apartment buildings and congested areas.

For Friends — Roamers — Countrymen —

QUITE literally, it's one car in a thousand—999 other cars take the road for every Estate Wagon Buick turns out.

But it's far more than something exclusive, as you'll soon see when one takes its place in your garage.

For those times, for instance, when house guests arrive — what smarter equipage could you send to the station, what greater comfort, what handier way to manage the luggage problem?

And when the Lord and Master yearns for a few days away from it all — what's handier than this nimble gadabout, that lets him fold down a back seat at nightfall and enjoy full-length double-bed sleeping space?

And that place in the country, calling for a car that can go just about everywhere, do just about everything . . .

That's when you'll go for the ruggedness of this beauty with its steel framing, steel top and springs of durable, service-free coiled steel. That's when you'll go for Dynaflow Drive† too — and the steady, even, fluid pull that takes furrowed fields, rough pastures and narrow back roads with equal, shift-free ease.

In all truth, this is a star of many roles. Smart and sleek, finished like an express cruiser, it's a standout for style in any parking line-up, a family favorite for its quick readiness to take on any transportation job.

It's a buy, too, like all Buicks—and your dealer is offering pleasantly prompt delivery. Why not see him today about the car that both literally and figuratively is one in a thousand?

County Tax Valuations Boosted As Rolls Get Complete Overhaul

be a decline from present inflated prices.

Raising the appraised valuations to $127,000,000 will give the county valuation rolls about $63,500,000 on which to assess taxes this year, the commissioners court having previously decided to assess taxes on 50 per cent of the appraised valuations.

To Mail Notices

The move would therefore increase taxable values from the $47,031,162 in 1948 to $63,500,000 this year and may actually result in reduction of the county's tax rate, County Auditor J. Y. Boyd points out.

Of the $127,000,000 values total in the county, $88,795,543 or about 82 per cent of the property in the county lies within the bounds of the Lubbock Independent school district, an area extending five miles from Lubbock.

County Tax Assessor-Collector J. B. Johnston will present the tax rolls to the commissioners tomorrow and mailing of notices to property owners will be made within the next two weeks.

Maps Are Drawn

R. C. Hopping, pioneer South Plains land man, was appraiser for all farm land in the county. Robt. E. (Bob) Miller, graduate engineer, appraised all city property in the county

In making their appraisals, each piece of property was visited and an appraisal made on the spot, with the exception of about three pieces of farm land in the county whose owners refused to let appraisers on the land.

A map of each piece of farm land was drawn and included on the appraisal sheet. The map shows location of lakes, improvements, irrigation wells and other items.

Equalization Sought

Irrigation wells were given a value of $500; cattle were assessed at from $20 to $30 a head; automobiles and tractors at one-third of their new prices. The $30 top for farm land ranges downward to $5 for lake areas, with secondary values at $25 an acre and poorer land scaled downward by $5 an acre.

The revision in valuations is being made in an effort to equalize values and therefore bring about a more equalization of taxes. The greatest increases will be made on farm land and rural property.

"We know there's going to be some complaining, when we send out the notices," County Commissioner Ottis Isom of Idalou said. "But the farmer is the fellow who has been out of line all these years. I know for I am one of them.

Towns Pay Most

"We believe, however, that when the hearings are held, we will be able to convince the individual property owner that the plan is as good as we could use in order to equalize tax payments in the county.

"The farmer in Lubbock county has been riding on the town man's taxes all these years," Isom added. "Just take the matter of automobile license taxes; the county gets approximately $175,000 a year, which is divided among the four precincts, but none of that money is spent in the city limits of any towns in the county. It's spent on the road and bridge fund out in the rural areas.

"Yet fully 90 per cent of the money comes from the man living in town. We build farm-to-market and other roads in front of the farmer's house on tax money, yet the man in town has to pay for the paving in front of his home out of his own pocket."

May Reduce Some Items

The general fund levy, now 18 cents, must be raised to 20½ cents, but there are other items in the tax breakdown which may be reduced, county officials point out.

A levy of 11 cents is required for the courthouse and jail improvement bonds interest and sinking fund; one cent for the permanent improvement fund; 6¼ cents for interest and sinking fund on bonds sold in 1948 and another 6½ cents for interest and sinking fund requirements for a $350,000 road bond issue sold in 1946.

The jury fund levy is .0550 cents, road fund 15 cents, parks 1½ cents and library 3 cents. An old courthouse and jail sinking fund issue requires three-fourths of a cent levy.

To Conduct Hearing

Should the state continue to pay on old road bonds, there is a possibility the tax rate could be cut back to 50 cents; at least reduced to 60 cents, Boyd said.

Following compilation of the tax rolls and presentation to the commission, the court, empowered by law as an equalization board, will send out notices to property owners, requesting their appearance within 10 days if they wish to protest valuations appraisals.

The court will conduct the hearings continuously until all property owners are heard.

Following the hearings and adjustments if any, on valuations, the county's budget for next year will be drawn up by the county judge, budgeting agent, assisted by the county auditor. The commission will then approve the budget and set the tax rate required to raise the necessary revenues.

Operates with Cash Balance

The county's total budget for 1949 has been estimated at $719,491.65 compared to $614,655.37 in 1948 and $558 211.26 in 1947.

Increased costs of government during the past several years necessitated the search for additional revenues, Boyd pointed out. The revision of valuations was decided upon as the best method and at the same time providing a long-needed equalization of values among city and rural property owners.

Lubbock county has operated with a cash balance for more than two decades, not a single fund being overdrawn in the 20 years Boyd has been auditor, he recalled.

Completion of the tax valuations revision program will climax more than a month's work by Hopping, Miller and County Tax Assessor-Collector Johnston.

The appraisal surveys cost the county $25,000; Hopping receiving $20,000 for his services and Miller $5,000.

Indiana Man Shoots Self After Arrest For Attempted Assault

GARY, Ind., July 9 (INS)—A 44-year-old man grabbed a policeman's revolver and killed himself behind a Gary police station today after he was arrested for attempting to assault a 15-year-old girl.

The man, identified as Earl Caughron, of Valparaiso, Ind., was arrested this morning after he enticed the girl into his car and tried to assault her.

Policeman Elza O'Dell said Caughron grabbed his revolver as they were getting out of the squad car.

Orange Landlords, Tenants To Confer

ORANGE, July 9 (AP)—Orange's quarreling landlords and tenants will meet headon at the Tuesday night city council meeting.

The landlords reportedly will oppose a request by a tenants' group that rent control be continued here under a local rent control board. Such boards are authorized under Texas' new state decontrol act.

Mrs. M. M. Bauman, secretary of the Riverside tenants association, announced her group also will be represented. The association represents several hundred families living in the wartime housing project here.

A. Pollard Simons of Dallas is president of Riverside Homes, Inc., owners of the 1,600-unit project. The tenant group announced some time ago it would refuse to pay increases granted by rent control authorities.

At a truce meeting arranged by mayor Raymond Sanders, Simons said he would give 60 days notice before increasing rents and would open his books to show tenants why increases are necessary.

Reuther Claims Victory For Union In Recent Ford Strike

DETROIT, July 9. (AP)—CIO United Auto workers head Walter P. Reuther today claimed "complete victory" in the recent Ford "speed-up" strike.

"There's no question we won it," he said, referring to a 2-1 decision on the speed-up question handed down late Friday by a three-man arbitration board.

Ford officials, however, still are "not sure" of the meaning of the 21-page ruling. They are deferring further comment until the minority report is received.

Members Of Arctic Institution Scale 15,700 Foot Mountain

MONTREAL, July 9. (AP)—Four members of an Arctic Institute of North America expedition have reached the peak of 15,700-foot mount Vancouver in the Yukon. Institute officials said today it is the highest mountain ever to be scaled in North America.

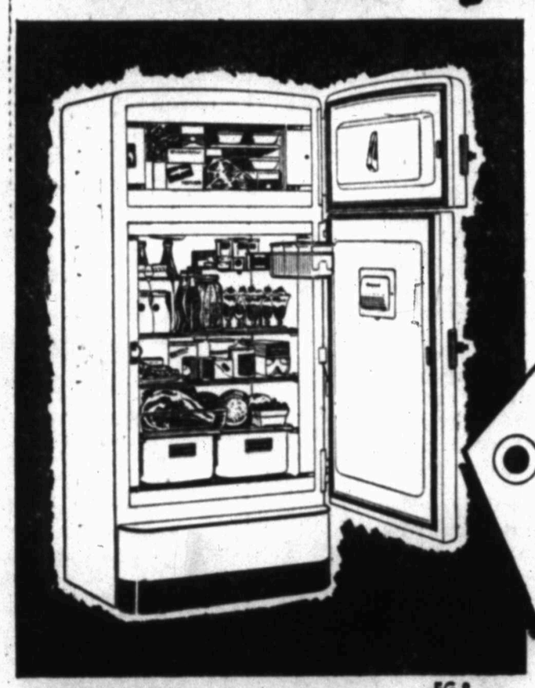

Col. P. D. Baird of the Montreal branch said he received a telegram last night advising him that Noel Odell of Vancouver, William R. Hainsworth, R. S. McCarter of Stanford university in California, and Alan Bruce-Robertson of Toronto had reached the peak Tuesday.

BUSINESS PROVES PROFITABLE

Handling Ailing Lubbock Pets Proves To Be Busy Occupation

By HOUSTON HARTE, JR.
Avalanche-Journal Staff Writer

The dog business definitely isn't going to the dogs.

As a result, Lubbock's ailing cats and dogs daily are treated as well as any in the nation when it comes to hospitalization, a survey of local veterinarians shows.

Local veterinarians, with well-equipped hospitals for animals, are able to give their patients many of the advantages of modern medical science. And proof that this had gone over with both animals and owners is the fact that such hospitals now are thriving businesses in many cities over the nation, including Lubbock.

Pets Are Choosey

Problems encountered in the treatment of the animals and their owners are somewhat similar. The only difference probably being that one of the main portions of the veterinarians' business is boarding pets. Many of these may be spoiled and have to be pampered in their own individual ways, the veterinarians say. Cats, particularly, are choosey about their food—that is those that can afford to be. They have to have fish, liver or kidney. So to keep the pets from starving, they are fed just what they want.

Bedside manners are important with animals as with humans.

Buildings Well Equipped

To do this, Lubbock's veterinary clinics have operating rooms, X-ray rooms and laboratories like any hospital. Small animals are repaired in the operating rooms, while the larger ones are strapped into a special stall.

The vets here treat all kinds of farm animals and household pets, including oppossums and skunks. Skunks usually come when they are too young to use their powerful weapon and are "deskunked" before they have a chance to cause a "stink."

This time of year, skin diseases are prevalent among pets. Many people bring their dogs to be washed and clipped for this reason. One vet remarked that he didn't like to clip dogs, because they looked so different when the owners came for them, that the owner usually made a fuss about it.

The vet has to be a dentist, too. Just as humans, animals sometimes have to have teeth pulled, and don't like it any better. A local anesthetic is used for these operations.

Animals Handled At Farms

Although one of the local veterinaries has facilities for large animals, most of the work done on them is on the ranches or farms. The cases that are brought to town are mostly for wire cuts and foot infections.

Dogs are often brought in for observation, because they have bitten someone. People are always worried about rabies, veterinarians say. Several dogs in town that are just mean are brought for close check-ups as many as five times a year.

In the wards where small animals are kept, cats and dogs are mixed. This never causes any trouble, except when a new animal is brought in. As soon as the animals find out that they are safe from each other they quiet down. Siamese cats are the worst offenders to this rule. They delight in making an uproar.

Poisoning of animals does not often happen, but when it does it usually hits an entire neighborhood. If brought in in time, poisoned animals can be saved. A very small per cent of those animals poisoned are brought to the vets, however.

Like any doctor's, a veterinarian's life is not an easy one. They must be on call at all times. They have to work hard and carefully, trying to keep owner and pet both happy.

Receptionists who answer the phone at these hospitals, suffer unusual amounts of abuse. Several times a day calls come in from persons wanting to speak to "Kitty." One receptionist's plan is to get the phone number of the person calling and refer the next such call to that number.

To become a veterinarian one must spend six years in one of the 17 veterinarian schools in the U. S. Many of these schools have only come into being in the last few years. No state has more than one and many have none.

The Army, though it doesn't have many horses or mules any more, has a very particular use for vets. When the Army buys food of animal origin, veterinarians inspect it to see that it comes up to specifications. Foods of animal origin include all poultry and dairy products.

Veterinarians like their patients, and surprisingly, most of the patients like their doctors. So from the slight whimper of the new-born pup to the pleasant passing away of an old and loved pet, the old saying, "It's a dog's life," is dispelled in local veterinary hospitals every day.

Albuquerque Police Seek Youth For Stabbing Of Eight-Year-Old

ALBUQUERQUE, July 9. (INS)—Police said today they believe a juvenile knife wielder is roaming the streets of Albuquerque.

Terrell Bonham, 8, was stabbed today as he played with three other children near his home.

His assailant was reported to be a youth about 16, whose description tallied with that of the person who stabbed two other Albuquerque children Thursday.

The Bonham boy was treated at a local hospital for an inch-deep wound.

Albuquerque police are staging an intensive hunt for the knife slasher, in the hope of apprehending him before he strikes again.

Chiang To Meet With Philippine President

MANILA, July 9 (AP)—Reliable diplomatic sources said today Chinese Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek will arrive here tomorrow to confer with Philippine president Elpidio Quirino.

These sources said the Chinese Nationalist leader was flying to Manila from Formosa and would return to the big island off the southeastern China coast Monday. Chiang has converted Formosa into a last-stand Nationalist bastion against the Chinese Communists.

A Quirino spokesman said "We have no definite knowledge of Chiang Kai-shek's coming in response to our previous invitation for him to visit the Philippines." This was the first disclosure that a formal invitation had been tendered the Generalissimo.

Subject of the Chiang-Quirino meeting was not disclosed but two general topics are expected to come under consideration:

1. A Pacific alliance which Quirino has proposed as an anti-Communist economic and cultural front of Asian nations to be led by the United States.

2. Possibility of establishment of a home in exile for Chiang.

Chiang has been pressing for more American aid to continue the Chinese Nationalists' civil war against the Communists.

It was understood the matter of a home in exile for Chiang was first broached with the Philippine government about a month after the fall of Nanking.

The nationalist capital was abandoned to the Communists on April 22. The government's refuge capital is now at Canton in south China.

Fifty-Seven Persons Face Death On Area Highways, Is Forecast

life top the list, officials say.

A killer behind the wheel of an automobile is just as vicious and dangerous as the gangster with the gun, those officials agree. And as positive action should be taken to cope with the reckless driver as with the gangster, they add.

Officials Pledge Cooperation

In the face of steadily soaring death rates resulting from traffic violations, Capt. Lewis A. Kittrell, Lubbock's chief of police, Capt. E. L. Posey of the Texas Highway patrol, Judge G. V. Pardue of the 99th District court, and Dudley Brummett, assistant county attorney, have pledged their cooperation in an effort to decrease traffic mishaps in the area.

The time for inane slogans and seldom-heeded cautions seems to be past, officials agree.

Police Chief Kittrell has promised a more rigid enforcement of the city's traffic laws in the immediate future to try and prevent any further deaths.

"We will do our best," he said, "to put an end to this dangerous situation once and for all. Strong and steady pressure will be applied to diminish and finally control local traffic violations. This will not be one of those periodical drives but a definite and determined effort to end driving laxity in Lubbock for good."

Pedestrians Warned

Pedestrians, the chief warns, are just as responsible for Lubbock's traffic laws as the motorist. They will be just as severely punished for violations, he cautions.

Five people died last year on Lubbock's streets as a result of someone's carelessness in an automobile. So far this year, there has been one death. In 1948, the Lubbock police department investigated 1,530 traffic accidents in the city and there have been investigations of 797 accidents in 1949.

"We'd do something drastic if a foreign enemy invaded our city and killed the citizens," Chief Kittrell said. "So we have to do something, no matter how drastic it might seem, to stop Lubbockites from killing and maiming each other on the streets with automobiles."

Reckless Driving Increasing

There is no such thing as an insignificant traffic violation, the chief states. It might breed the kind of carelessness that will cause death on the highway at a later date.

Capt. Posey of the highway patrol said there has been a decided increase in recklessness and fast driving in this area. "We have been bearing down on these offenders for some time," the captain says, "and we will continue to do so."

About 15 per cent of the driving public are the main cause of the dangers of highway travel in this vicinity, the captain reveals. That 15 per cent will have to cooperate or suffer the consequences, he warned.

"All we can do is arrest them when we catch them and turn them over to the courts," Posey declared. "From then on the job is theirs."

Laws Believed Adequate

Posey said there need be no change in the state laws existing now for motor vehicles. The laws are all right, he says, but they must be applied in the courts. We have entirely too many second offenders and repeaters here in the county, the captain says. We must do something about that.

The highway patrol reports that there were 669 accidents last year in this district, which consists of 21 counties. Of these 91 resulted in death and there were 540 serious injuries. There has been a total economic loss of $208,787.50 as a result of the accidents in 1949 in the area.

So far this year, there have been 431 accidents in the area and 284 injuries. Thirty four people have died in fatal wrecks since the first of the year. From 30 to 40 per cent of these fatal accidents are directly caused by liquor, Sgt. E. L. Stroud, of the department of public safety, patrol division, says.

Lubbock County Leads

Lubbock county has the dubious honor of leading the parade in sudden death on the highways for the area. Six people have been killed here in wrecks since January 1. Gaines county is a close second with four violent deaths.

There are so many traffic accidents in Lubbock county that a separate map has to be hung in the highway patrols headquarters to allow all of the pins designating accidents and deaths to be inserted.

Judge G. V. Pardue said that if the criminal laws of Texas were liberalized so that the judge could decide the penalties in cases involving recklessness, careless and drunken driving, there would be a rapid decrease of such offenders.

The judge declared that legislation necessary for the installation of governors on automobiles would help. "There should be a way to fixing the maximum possible speed of an automobile at 60 miles per hour," the judge states. "That would cut accidents due to speeding quite a bit."

Drinking Drivers Scored

He says that the streets could also be widened to facilitate driving here in the city and that no left turns at all should be permitted in Lubbock.

The judge said that some of the cases tried in his court involve second offenders in the crime of driving while intoxicated. "If I had my way about it," the judge snaps, "I would throw the book at anyone appearing before me that had injured another man while driving his automobile in an intoxicated state."

Assistant County Attorney Dudley Brummett said that a high percentage of the serious accidents involving automobiles are the direct result of someone's drinking. Since the first of January, 115 charges of driving while intoxicated have been prosecuted by the county attorney's office, Brummett says. Of these cases, there is a record of 101 convictions, one acquittal and the rest are pending.

"Politics mean nothing to us here in this office," Brummett declared. "We go by the written law and push one case just as hard as another."

Judge Walter Davies of the county court turns "thumbs down" on the defendants that appear before him charged with operating a vehicle while intoxicated.

"Out of 786 cases I've judged in the past four years," the judge said, "only 16 of the offenders ever repeated the crime."

The judge said he gets results from taking away drivers licenses from violators. "If you fine them heavily you only punish their families," Judge Davies said. "Also fines mean very little to some people. Taking their right to drive from them really straightens them out better than any other method." "I will promise to be just as strict and relentless toward drunken drivers as I have always been in the past," he added.

Economic Outlook

administration is misrepresenting the seriousness of the unemployment situation.

The union sharply disputed Census bureau figures estimating unemployment last month at 3,800,000. The UE said at least 5,400,000 were jobless.

Demos Plan Program

The Agriculture department reported American farmers had 10 per cent fewer dollars to spend in the first half of 1949 than in 1948. It predicted a further decline of farm prices if production continues large.

Mr. Truman reportedly will tell Congress the economy generally is sound and healthy. He will probably take into account the increase in unemployment. Those who help shape policy say the President will outline a program to boost production and check joblessness.

They are predicting he will set a goal for the output of some $300,000,000,000 of goods and services a year—a level 18 per cent above the present rate.

Eight Democratic senators are getting set to follow up Mr. Truman's message with a program.

They plan to introduce a bill—a proposed "economic expansion act of 1949"—providing for:

Federal loans and grants for production, the planning of a $15,000,000,000 public works program, and also for shifting jobless persons and their families to areas where work is available.

The bill has no official administration blessing at present, but the sponsors say it is in line with Mr. Truman's thinking.

Dallas Shows gain

Non-agricultural employment in the south central region dropped in nine of 16 major areas from March to May but there was a general increase in construction and scattered rises in other non-manufacturing activities to cushion or offset the drops.

Louisville, Shreveport, Oklahoma City and Fort Worth had slight gains in non-agricultural employment; Nashville and Dallas, moderate increases and Tulsa no change.

Only Little Rock and Dallas, with gains in food processing, indicated slight pickups in manufacturing employment. Substantial factory payroll declines were evident, the committee said, in Louisville, Memphis, Mobile, Tulsa and San Antonio with general losses in food, chemicals, primary metals, non-electrical machinery and transportation equipment.

In the west the labor market developments from March to May were more favorable than in any other sections of the nation, the report declared, because of strong seasonal influences. It added, however, that "these employment developments fell far short of recouping seasonal and non-seasonal losses of the last six months and more."

British Seek Trade

leads have fallen more than $1,000,000,000 in the last two and a half years to a total of $1,624,000,000, despite American loan and Marshall plan aid.

Cripps has ordered a three-month "standstill" on British buying in dollar markets as a temporary expedient to curb trade losses.

If the talks of British and Communist experts are translated into treaties—and prospects seem reasonably good—the annual two-way trade flow between Britain and the four Red states will look something like this:

Russia—$440,000,000.
Yugoslavia—$340,000,000.
Hungary—$100,000,000.
Czechoslovakia—$120,000,000.

The East European countries are food growers renowned as Europe's traditional bread basket. They don't demand payment in dollars. And they desperately need machinery and capital equipment—things Britain can't easily sell for dollars.

GOP National Committee Revolt Against Chairman Scott Rumored

WASHINGTON, July 9. (INS) — Washington was flooded with rumors tonight of a new Republican national committee revolt against Chairman Hugh D. Scott, jr.

The rumors were based upon the reported meeting of 20 to 30 GOP leaders this week at the swank Duquesne club, in Pittsburgh, Pa.

Those who attended the Pittsburgh meeting were reported to have again joined in asking Scott's resignation.

Labor Shortage

of hands actually at work in the fields.

Early figures pouring into the central office here show that Littlefield needs 1,000 hands for a ten-day period; Plainview reports the need for 1,500 choppers for a similar period; Levelland needs some 656 workers for a period of from 15 to 21 days; Ralls, Crosbyton and Memphis state the need for additional workers.

"These figures will vary from day to day," O'Connell said. "A crew or crews may finish a job the day a group of farmers place orders for labor. Before we can locate hands for the farmer he may contact the help he needs on the road or through some other agency. For this reason it is impossible to know the exact situation."

J. D. Robertson, manager of the Plainview office of the TEC, in a preliminary report said that a tally of requests over a period of several days indicated a need for up to 3,500 workers. By applying the discount as suggested by O'Connell, a base figure of about 1,500 is reached which past experience shows to be reasonably accurate.

Condition Critical

The figures of J. D. Jordan, TEC manager at Littlefield, and Fred Pressley, manager at Levelland were reached in the same manner.

J. H. Plemmons, vice-president of the West Texas Ginners Association, Smyer says that conditions are truly critical in his area; The weeds, Plemmons said Saturday, have a tremendous start on the farmers and it will require extra hard work to chop them out.

The Lubbock office of the TEC does not content itself with surveys and news reports to solve the problem. They get into the field every day in an effort to get a true picture of the farmers needs and contact labor that is unemployed. Vernon O'Farrell, farm placement representative of the Lubbock office, is in daily contact with farmers and laborers, crew leaders and recruiters. Whenever he finds any available help he matches it with some known need.

Need Statewide

The Lubbock office has relayed the call for help to the Austin headquarters of the TEC. From Austin a call has gone out to all parts of Texas. But even such an urgent centralized message has failed to produce the necessary results. O'Connell attributes this to the fact that the need for help is just as great in other parts of the state.

"We have tried many things," O'Connell stated yesterday. "We send trucks to distant towns, furnish transportation, guarantee work for at least two weeks and offer pay of 55 to 60 cents per hour. None of these things have been overly successful."

As he was talking a telegram came from Bonham. It stated in positive terms that there was no labor available for shipment from that area of East Texas.

Local Hands Busy

"Naturally we try to get all of our local labor supply employed first," the TEC man said. "That is the situation now. All of our local crews, Mexican or negro are busy in the fields. It is nearly impossible to find a single individual who needs employment."

O'Connell made it clear that he did not wish to appear alarmed or create a panic He did emphasize that he was concerned and meant to put every effort into correcting the situation.

"I am going to make another survey from the air Monday," O'Connel said. "After that I may be able to put two and two together and arrive at some truly reliable figure of our needs."

O'Connell referred to a proposed aerial flight over Lubbock county to make a count of the number of choppers at work in the fields. Flying at a safe altitude with two checkers O'Connell hopes to cover a large area in an hour or two to get a comprehensive picture.

"By making such a fast count," he said, "we can get a figure that is not distorted by day to day movement of migrant labor."

Swindle Suspect

Lynn, justice of peace, for W. L. Herrin, 29, Lubbock man who was charged with drunk driving, second offense.

The complaint, alleging a felony, recited Herrin had been convicted of a drunk driving offense Tuesday in county court. It will be investigated by a grand jury.

The sheriff's department here placed a hold request with Albuquerque for Paul Callaway, 27, former Lubbock man who is charged here with desertion of a minor child.

Property Stolen

Callaway, who was employed as a dishwasher in Albuqueque before his arrest there several days ago for vagrancy and investigation, was charged in Lynn's court upon oath of his wife, Daphene.

Smith-Truck supply, 104 East Broadway, informed sheriff's officers that someone stole a trucker's manual there valued at $25. A battery was stolen at the supply company about two months ago, a battery and a car radio about a week ago, officials were told.

A judgment of County Judge Walter Davies assessed a fine of $100 and court costs against Morris McElrath, of Lubbock, who pleaded guilty of violation of state feed laws.

Thefts Reported

Several thefts were reported to city police Saturday.

N. O. Harris, who gave his address as Anton general delivery, reported his 1949 jeep, license RA 9510, was stolen here early Saturday.

The residence of Ada Cook, a negro, at 1912 Ave. A, was reported burglarized. A few articles of clothing were taken, she said.

A 17-year-old Lubbock youth was turned over to sheriff's officers of Swisher county by city police Saturday afternoon for questioning in connection with theft of a load of grain at Tulia.

NEWS BRIEFS

A Lubbock visitor since July 2 is 89-year-old S. H. Rogers of Claremore, Okla. He was honored at a birthday dinner last Sunday at the home of a son, A. G. Rogers, 1811 Ave. H, three days after his birthday. Also honored was his daughter-in-law, Mrs. Dolphia Rogers, widow of the late S. M. Rogers, of Amarillo. She was 59 Thursday. Out of town guests included two sons, W. M. of Salina, Okla., and V. F. Rogers of Winslow, Ariz.; a granddaughter, Mrs. Ralph Hincamp of Amarillo; a nephew, J. W. Jones of Portales, N. M., and a grand nephew, Horace Jones of Clovis.

Dr. J. Davis Armistead, optometrist, has moved his practice from Littlefield to 1613 Ave. Q here. He is author of a research book on remedial reading. He is making his home with his wife and 7-month-old daughter at 1508 Ave. Q.

Graveside services were conducted at Lubbock Memorial cemetery at 2 p. m. Saturday for Patricia Goldman, three-day-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James E. Goldman, of 616 Ave. L., who died in West Texas hospital Friday. Rev. Jack Lewis, pastor of the First Presbyterian church, officiated at the rites which were under the direction of McDonald Bryan and Son Funeral home.

Fire Chief W. E. Twitty and Johnnie Mooney and Bob Spence, department members, left Saturday for Texas A.&M. college and attendance at an annual Firemen's Short course commencing Monday and lasting all week. Fire Marshal Bradley Black plans to leave today for A.&M.

A civil petit jury will report at 10 a. m. Monday to Judge G. V. Pardue of the 99th district court. Eight cases will be called for announcements of counsel.

Nino J. Garcia, jr., six-week-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Nino J. Garcia of Brownfield, died at 11:20 a.m. Saturday at St. Mary's hospital. His body was returned to Brownfield for private funeral and burial services.

City firemen said damage was negligible in a fire early Saturday at 201 Sixteenth. Electric wires in the wall became short-circuited. The alarm was at 5:15 o'clock.

City Firemen answered a call early Saturday night to extinguish a small blaze caused by an electrical motor on a refrigerator unit in the basement of the Administration building at Texas Tech.

brought to their attention—arranged for his speedy release."

(The U. S. State department had directed strong protests to be made to high Communist authorities by both the consulate and the Nanking embassy, even though the United States has no diplomatic relations with the Chinese Communists.)

It appeared that a State department protest had some effect on the police attitude, which appeared to have undergone some change in the past 24 hours.

Olive was arrested at 3 p. m. Wednesday when his consulate jeep became involved in a Communist parade observing the twelfth anniversary of the Japanese war and the third anniversary of the civil war.

Charges Reduced

For more than two days he was held incommunicado, the consular staff members who sought to see him were rebuffed. All the consular staff appeared highly indignant, although none would talk.

It was learned that seven charges against Olive were reduced to four: Traffic violation, refusing to give his name, beating police, and destroying public property. Punishment was fixed at three days in jail, which was already served.

(Earlier consular reports said the "public property" he destroyed was an ink bottle that he accidentally upset at the police station. This was construed by police as resistance, and they beat him before throwing him, handcuffed, into a cell.

The apology, quoted by the Communist press, said "I am willing to tender my apologies to police, whom I have insulted. I am willing to pay for all repairs and damages.

Slight Improvement Reported For Local Boy Injured Friday

Physicians at the West Texas hospital reported slight improvement Saturday night in the condition of Mark Turner, one and a half year old son of Mr. and Mrs. B. A. Turner of 503 E. Twenty-fourth, who was injured critically Friday when an automobile driven by his father backed over his head in the driveway of their home.

The child was rushed by his father to the hospital where attendants pronounced his condition as grave.

Expectant Mother Charged With Murder Of Husband In Abilene

ABILENE, July 9. (AP)—Bob O'Brien, 21, of Abilene was shot to death tonight. His wife, Jean, 18, an expectant mother, was charged with murder.

Officers found O'Brien's body face down in the couple's home. They had been called after Mrs. O'Brien's screams summoned neighbors. He was an employe of a brokerage firm here.

Near O'Brien's body was a shotgun. District Attorney Esco Walter said Mrs. O'Brien, in a signed statement, told him she and her husband had quarreled; that she picked up the gun to shove him away after he slapped her. She said she didn't know the gun was loaded.

Her bond was set at $5,000. The case will come before the 104th district court grand jury which convenes here Monday.

Insect Fight

county, David F. Eaton, agent.

Farmers wishing to attend the demonstrations should obtain details as to time and place from their county farm agents. All will be welcome, Carpenter assured.

Interest Is Shown

They will receive instructions in how to recognize flea hoppers and other pests and how to combat them, the entomologist said.

Activities during the coming week will mark the spread on a widening front of a battle against the hoppers which Williamson launched during the past week.

Full-day schools of instruction were held in Lubbock and Plainview for farm agents and vocational and veterans' agricultural instructors. A. C. Gunter, of College Station, associate entomologist at A&M college, and Carpenter participated.

Indicative of the interest in the problem was an enrollment of 150 in the Lubbock course and of 55 at Plainview.

Group Given Equipment

Those who attended were supplied with equipment which will help them to instruct others back home in how to recognize hoppers and other pests, recognize the damage they have done and how to bring them under control.

Important items of these materials were paid for by the operators of seven South Plains oil mills, Williamson said. He listed them as being Lubbock Oil mill and Plains Co-operative, of this city; Lamesa Cotton Oil company, and the West Texas Oil mills at Slaton, Brownfield, Littlefield and Plainview.

Carpenter emphasized the present infestation applies only to "some farms in some counties." The most alarming conditions observed, he added, have been discovered in portions of Dawson, Lynn and Terry counties.

Hoppers Have Multiplied

He and Williamson said the conditions have been aggravated by the numerous showers and the kind of weather during which the hoppers multiply most rapidly.

Both authorities said, however, that the condition can be brought under control by dusting, if done in time.

But they emphasized that haste is the essence of success in averting serious damage.

K. N. Clapp, veteran South Plains cotton observer for Anderson, Clayton & Co., Houston firm, was even more emphatic. He said the failure to get the hoppers under control would be a "calamity" which would "play hob with our production."

Only a week previously, Clapp forecast a record-breaking 1949 South Plains cotton crop of not less than 1,000,000 bales, a probable of 1,500,000 and a "possible but not probable" of more than 2,000,000.

"But we won't produce enough to harvest unless we get the hoppers under control without waste of time," he commented Saturday.

He also reported Saturday that approximately 75,000 acres in cotton were taken out of the crop during the previous week because of wind and water. His estimate of the land still remaining in cotton now stands at 2,755,000 acres in the area.

Otherwise, he observed, the new crop continues in good condition, is making "fine growth," with fields generally clean of weeds and labor sufficient.

Two Death Victims

er of three children, Sherry Lynn, 7; Susan, 4; and Rush, 2.

A cup containing traces of strong poison commonly used against insects in gardens was found in the McLaughlin home, City Detective Bob West said. Physicians at the hospital indicated it was the same type poison which claimed Mrs. McLaughlin's life.

Dr. Jones, a chiropractor, was taken to Lubbock Memorial hospital by McDonald ambulance about 9:25 p.m., after his wife had found him unconscious from an overdose of sleeping medicine. He was pronounced dead at 9:45 o'clock.

Attending physicians said Dr. Jones had taken approximately 1½ grains of the drug, a barbiturate.

Both bodies were taken to Rix funeral home where funeral arrangements are pending, it was announced Saturday.

Mr. McLaughlin, notified in New York of his wife's death, was reported returning to Lubbock.

Dr. Jones had lived in Lubbock approximately 10 years. His address in Avinger addition was 38 B Avinger addition.

Investigating officers handling the cases emphasized that there was no connection whatsoever in the two cases.

Russians Stop Loaded Trucks Bound For Berlin From West

FRANKFURT, Germany, July 9. (AP) — Six Soviet-zone border crossing points were closed to loaded Berlin-bound trucks tonight in Russia's latest "little blockade" of Berlin.

Most of the trucks carried fruit and vegetables from the western zones of Germany.

They were turned back at Herrenburg and Bergen An Der Dumme on the British-Soviet zone border and at Wartha, Neustadt, Hof and Coburg along the American-Soviet zone boundary.

Empty trucks were not bothered.

Young Lubbock Polio Victim Reported Improving In Hospital

Dick Lowrey, 14-year-old polio victim, was reported improving and resting well at the West Texas hospital last night.

Twister Strikes In Ropes Area

to the southeast, south and southwest of Lubbock completely. However, where the rains did fall, the area's cotton crop was benefitted immeasurably, farm observers said.

Several residents in southwest Lubbock noticed the tornado funnel in the Ropes area and called newspaper offices to inquire about it.

Troy Morris, publisher of the Ropes Plainsman, said numerous residents of the Ropes community watched the swirling cloud. He said two "trailers" dipped down out of a dark cloud about eight or 10 miles west of Ropes, then hit the ground to form the heavy black funnel. The funnel moved east toward Ropes for awhile, seemed to stop, then disintegrated at it moved toward the south. No more than a two or three mile area was covered by the funnel, estimated to be 50 to 100 yards wide at the base.

Morris said Mrs. Harvey Brown of near Ropes and Mrs. Hexie Tipps outran the twister in their cars racing to safety.

Funnel Is Described

Mr. and Mrs. Edward Russel, filling station operators in Ropesville, believe they may have had one of the closest views of the twister. Russel, who with his wife had gone to a farm northwest of Ropesville to deliver a load of gasoline, said they first sighted the funnel north of the Ropesville - Levelland - Brownfield highway, about seven miles due west of town.

Russel reported that the funnel appeared about 50 yards or more across at the base and was moving southward and appeared to be loaded with dirt and small debris. He said they raced their truck out of the path of the twister and watched it cross the highway about 300 yards away, and then seem to "pull up" into the cloud and disappear.

Mrs. Russel said the twister dangled from a dark cloud that had moved in from the north shortly after 3 p. m. She said that the storm appeared like a giant whirlwind, and that no debris of any size was visible in the swirling mass.

No Debris In Funnel

Weldon Tudor, employe at the Russel service station, said that he sighted the twister west of town and made a run for a storm cellar, but finally watched it twist and turn and play out after he saw it was not headed toward town.

Jim Norrell, seven miles west and one mile north of Ropesville, and his 13-year-old son, Jesse, said they watched the twister cut across cotton fields about a half mile east of their farm, but could see no debris or any other signs of damage.

Norrell said the storm appeared about 3:30 p. m. He said an electric clock in his home stopped at that time when electric power failed on rural REA lines. The Norrell farm was within the rain belt west of Ropesville, and Jesse said his rain gauge showed 75 inch had fallen in about an hour. No hail was reported at the Norrell farm.

Some Cotton Damaged

About a mile north of the Norrell place, however, cotton and feed in a belt about a quarter mile wide showed some hail damage. No serious loss was expected however as plants appeared to have lost only some of the smaller top branches and a few leaves. Water was running in the bar ditches in that area and many fields had water running down rows, but other than a few eroded spots in scattered fields, no damage to crops was seen.

The S. J. Johnson place about 12 miles northwest of Ropesville reported an inch of rain. W. W. Coursey, who lives about 15 miles northwest of Ropesville, said he received about .50 inch. He said that he first saw the twister about three miles south of his farm and left his tractor in the field to return to the house as the cloud became more threatening.

Farmers in the "rain belt" said the downpour was of definite benefit to crops, and that they had not seen too much damage from the rain. Most cotton in the area, they said, was from six to 10 inches high, with grain sorghums nearly waist high in many sections.

Two Columns Noted

The twister apparently formed on the Floyd Durham farm, seven miles northwest of Ropesville. E. J. Abney, who was working in a field near the Durham farm, said that the funnel appeared to form over the northwest corner of the Durham place and move to the northeast, and then suddenly swing to the east and then curve back to the south.

Abney reported "two great columns" of dust and dirt were swept into the air as the twister began its march across the field. He said the twister zig-zagged around and appeared to miss farm houses in the area.

The storm in the Ropesville area was seen as far north as Smyer as well as in Lubbock, and one oil field worker three miles north of Smyer said that he saw the cloud and the column of dirt and "knew Ropes had a twister on its hands."

Farmers in the area abandoned tractors in fields to race for their homes and storm cellars. A number reported that they ran home and "hustled" their wives and children into the family cars in preparation to outrace the twister.

A survey over the area late last night showed:

MATADOR—An estimated one and one-half inches of rain fell last night in the Matador vicinity. Rain began falling there about 8:30 p. m., and was continuing shortly before midnight. No hail was reported. Matador residents said that "water was standing everywhere" after the heaviest part of the downpour, and that "rain fell in sheets" part of the time. It was not known late last night whether crops had been damaged, and if so, to what extent.

SEAGRAVES—No rain had fallen in that vicinity Saturday, although skies remained partly cloudy late last night.

SPUR—Light showers fell in Spur between 7 and 8 p. m. Saturday, and skies were still cloudy there late Saturday night. Heavier showers and rains were reported to have fallen east of Spur last night, the Spur city manager said.

CROSBYTON—Rainfall estimated at one-half inch fell between 8 and 8:45 p. m. Saturday. Reports from Crosbyton last night were that rainfall was slightly heavier northwest of town.

RALLS—A very light sprinkle fell in town about 9:30 p. m. It was reported, however, that heavier rains fell in rural areas north and east of Ralls.

O'DONNELL and TAHOKA received no rain Saturday, reports from those towns late last night indicated. Skies were partly cloudy late last night at Post, but no rain had fallen at any time during the day.

LAMESA—A very light sprinkle was reported about 10 p. m. Clouds in that vicinity looked "pretty promising," a Lamesa resident said last night.

DICKENS—A light shower fell at Dickens shortly after dark Saturday, but did not leave enough moisture to be measured, it was reported. Skies were cloudy there late last night.

PETERSBURG—A very light shower fell shortly after sundown. Skies were still cloudy at a late hour last night, however, and additional rain appeared possible.

BECTON—A very light sprinkle was reported last night.

LOCKNEY—No rain at all Saturday. Skies were cloudy late Saturday night.

FLOYDADA—Rainfall estimated at one-half inch fell within a 30-minute period shortly after 9 p. m. Saturday. No additional rainfall was reported late last night, although skies appeared threatening.

SLATON—The Santa Fe dispatcher's office in Slaton reported no rain last night in Slaton, but said that skies were heavily clouded. Reports from Santa Fe offices in various South Plains towns indicated that Anton had received one-fourth inch, Shallowater, one-eighth, Hale Center, three-quarters, and Abernathy, one inch.

MORTON—An extremely light shower fell at Morton about 7 p.m. Saturday. Skies were clear late last night.

SEMINOLE—Skies were cloudy to partly cloudy most of the day in the Seminole area. No rain had fallen there late last night.

PLAINVIEW—A light sprinkle fell late Saturday afternoon. No additional rainfall was reported in the immediate Plainview area, Radio Station KVOP reported.

HALE CENTER—Vic Lamb, Hale Center resident, said about .10 inch of rain fell there about 5 p.m. Skies were slightly cloudy.

ANTON—H. G. Richards reported last night that rainfall totaling between one-fourth and one-half inch fell there between 5 and 6 p.m. Skies were clearing last night.

LITTLEFIELD — Skies were clear in the Littlefield area last night. No rain had fallen.

EARTH—An estimated one inch of rain fell in the Earth vicinity about 5:30 p.m. Skies remained cloudy to partly cloudy there last night, but gave no indication of additional rain Saturday night.

MULESHOE—R. J. Klump, of Muleshoe, said a "good hard shower" fell there about 4:20 p.m. Saturday. Intermittent light sprinkles were falling there last night, with skies remaining cloudy.

LEVELLAND—A light sprinkle fell in the Levelland area about 5:30 p.m., the sheriff's office reported. The total was believed not enough to be measured. Skies were partly cloudy last night.

Amarillo Holdup

open the safe. I have seen him close up the store a lot of times at night."

In the store office, the bandit guarding Hutto told the store manager: "Open that safe or I'll put a slug in you."

Hutto worked the combination to the safe, and then opened the inner compartment with his keys. The loot was conveniently in sacks. More than half of the $11,139 was in cash. The rest was in drafts and checks.

After Hutto handed over the loot, the bandits vanished through the back door.

Police surmised that a third man was waiting in a getaway car behind the store. Hutto told officers that while he was opening the safe he saw a black 1940 or 1941 Plymouth sedan pull in behind the store.

Descriptions Broadcast

Two men arrested at Vernon as suspects in the robbery were freed tonight when Hutto and W. H. Cobb, an employe, failed to identify them as the bandits.

Officers were inclined to link the robbery of the supermarket with the holdup of a Piggly Wiggly store here two weeks ago in which $138 was taken. Police said the methods of operations in the two robberies were similar and the general descriptions of the men involved also were the same.

A description of the two men was broadcast to other law enforcement agencies over the area: No. 1 suspect was described as being from 23 to 28 years old, 5 feet 10 inches tall, 140 pounds, slender, "gotch eyed," brown hair, fair complexion, bareheaded and clean shaven. He was wearing a tan coat, levi trousers, and was armed with a nickel plated snub-nosed .38 caliber pistol.

No. 2 suspect was described as 25 to 30 years old, 5 feet 10 inches tall, 160 pounds, brown hair, gray-blue eyes, hair parted on one side, fair complexion, bareheaded. He was wearing brown trousers and a striped white and brown T-shirt, and was armed with a nickel-plated .45 caliber automatic pistol.

DARK HIT BY BALL

PHILADELPHIA, July 9. (UP)—Alvin Dark, Boston Braves shortstop hit on the head by a thrown ball Friday night in a 16-inning game with the Philadelphia Phillies, was not injured seriously and will be back in action "in a few days," team physician Charles Lacks said today.

Trio Break Jail Again At Lamesa

they used the same tactics to flee the third floor jail once the lock had been opened to the "tank" cell in which they had been placed.

Search Is Conducted

Scores of South Plains and Panhandle officers late Saturday night and early today were pressing their search for the men.

There was no indication that the men were involved in the armed robbery of a supermarket store in Amarillo early Saturday morning. Officers tended to discount any such connection, although admitting that it would have been possible for anyone to travel from Lamesa to Amarillo in the time necessary to stage the Amarillo job.

All highways had been checked for reports of hitchhikers. No cars were reported stolen in the immediate Lamesa vicinity. No trace of the men was found.

Airplane Is Used

Late in the afternoon, W. E. Madden, a crop duster at Lamesa, scoured a surrounding area around Lamesa in hopes of finding the mon on foot in nearby fields, but without success. Sheriff King and other officers continued on the alert early today.

The men gave no resistance Thursday afternoon when they were captured after a farmer reported their presence in the farm house in the Hancock community near Lamesa to officers. However, officers believed the men may have armed themselves some way this time and probably separated to avoid detection. They were still described as "potentially dangerous."

Burkett reportedly told officers that he had not been in jail more than an hour and a half when the escape occurred. The bizarre angle of the case was that as far as officers could determine none of the three fugitives had ever met Burkett before, yet he allegedly worked the knob of the combination lock on their cell at their direction. His bond was set at $2,500 by Justice Campbell. Conviction in such a case carries a two to five year sentence in the state penitentiary.

The men's escape was not discovered until about 7:30 a. m. Saturday morning when someone noticed the bedsheet-rope hanging from an outside window. Deputy Sheriff John Mowell said he had checked the "tank" enclosure in which the men were imprisoned earlier Saturday morning and that everything seemed secure at that time.

Was Inside Job

Sheriff King had called today's escape an inside job before Burkett was charged.

"We had the men in the tank (a barred enclosure within the jail) for safekeeping," King said. "Someone worked the combination lock in the gate. It's almost a physical impossibility to reach that lock from inside the tank."

Descriptions Are Given

The men are under indictment charging armed robbery in connection with the May 21 robbery of Leon Edwards, 25, a Lamesa attendant of a station operated at 805 South Dallas street here by W. C. Emfinger.

Ables and Abbott were captured at Lubbock a few hours later by Police Patrolmen Robert Brasher and A. R. Mason. They were identified by a driver's license and a birth certificate found in a suitcase earlier abandoned by the men in a chase of their 1940 automobile by two other Lubbock patrolmen, B. L. Cummings and W. J. Hunnicut. Cummings and Hunnicut became suspicious of the actions of the men in the suspect automobile. The driver cut off the car's lights and sped away in an apparent effort to shake pursuit of the police cruiser. When the car was found a block from where the suitcase had been discarded the men had left it and disappeared. There was a sawed off shotgun in the suitcase.

Brown was arrested at Ada in late June.

Brown—5 feet 7 inches tall, 135 pounds, red hair, freckled face, blue eyes, fair complexion, a four-inch burn on the calf of the left leg, tattoo of a bird and lettering "True Love" on the chest.

Abbott—5 feet 9½ inches tall, 158 pounds, ruddy complexion, black hair, brown eyes, regular build; "Mother" lettered in tattooing on the right forearm, "Shorty" on the left forearm.

Ables—5 feet 7 inches tall, 155 pounds, medium complexion, brown hair, gray eyes, and medium build.

truck, Herlinda Vela, 19, lost control of the truck, which began weaving across the highway, then skidded off the road and turned over. The Highway patrol was continuing an investigation last night.

All of those riding in the truck gave their address as 108 Ave. S in Lubbock. They have been residents of Lubbock for the past four months.

Those remaining at St. Mary's hospital for further treatment are Mrs. Maria Rodriguez, 58, fractured collar bone; Mrs. Maria Socorro Marro, 24, severed tendon of the left hand and lacerations; Pedro Vosquez, 34, back injury; Rosa Vela, 8, fractured left leg and lacerations; and Herlinda Vela, chest injuries.

The owner of the truck is Conrado Vela, of 108 Ave. S.

Area Bank Deposits Show Sharp Seasonal Decrease In Survey

By BILL CLARK
Avalanche-Journal Staff Writer

Deposits in 37 South Plains banks totaled $167,550,898.38 as of the June 30 bank call, statements of condition revealed Saturday.

The total reflected an unusually sharp drop from the Dec. 31, 1948 total of $220,520,701.40 in the same banks.

Only Levelland showed an increase in deposits over last year at this time. The two banks there showed an increase of approximately $400,000 over last June 30.

The American State bank in Lubbock was the only Lubbock bank reflecting an increase in deposits over June 30, 1948.

Decline Not Unusual

The decline of $52,969,803.02 in South Plains bank deposits in a year's time apparently caused no alarm among the area's bankers.

Almost unanimously they attributed the decline to the enormous amount of money farmers are spending in the growing of this year's crops, and to the fact that 1948 was a relatively poor year agriculturally on the South Plains.

Loans and discounts showed a sharp increase over last year at this time.

Not Accurate Indication

At Crosbyton, where a drop in deposits of $118,398.91 in an 80-day period was noted at the Citizens National bank, Walter Woodrum, cashier of the bank explained the situation in this way to the Crosbyton Review:

The June 30 statement is not a true indication of the amount of cash wealth in the community. On that date not a single wheat loan from the new crop had been completed, and the loans are just now beginning to come in. The deposits jumped over $30,000 during the first three days of July after the statement was made, Mr. Woodrum said.

However, he did not expect the deposits to climb much over the two-million dollar mark.

At Littlefield, the two banks showed a drop of $962,779.19 from the April 11 call when deposits stood at $5,988,470.15. The June 30 deposits stood at $5,025,692.90.

Post's First National bank showed a decrease of $782,837.06 under a year ago, the Post Dispatch reported. Total bank deposits were $3,552,937.43.

Levelland Shows Increase

Levelland, providing the exception, showed an increase of approximately $400,000 in deposits over last June 30, with $7,821,142.79 on deposit in the two banks as compared with July, 1948, figure of $7,435,336.94.

The increase in deposits almost parallels the increase in the number of loans made, with $334,573.07 more loans being out than last year at the same time. Current loans and discounts at Levelland total $2,810,054.91, as compared with $2,485,481.83 last year at this time.

The volume of deposits at Levelland shows a decrease of more than $20,000 from the call of April 11, 1949.

Youth Caravan Scheduled For St. John's Methodist Church

Methodist young people of Lubbock will meet at St. John's Methodist church during the week of July 16 to 23 for a Youth Caravan, it was announced Saturday afternoon.

The Methodist Youth Caravan program is a project of Methodist youth under direction of the board of education of the Methodist church. Since 1938 the program has sent caravans into all parts of the United States, as well as Cuba, Hawaii, Poland, Czechoslovakia, Switzerland, Belgium, Norway, Eweden and North Africa. In ten years 3,323 young people and adults comprising 699 caravan teams have served.

Caravans are composed of young people under 24 years of age who have completed at least two years of college work or have had equivalent experience. The caravan which will visit Lubbock is composed of a young man, three young women and one adult counsellor.

Pre-registration for Caravan week will begin today.

KILLED IN FALL

AGAWAM, Mass., July 9. (AP)—A Trapeze artist, who performed under the name of Eddy Polo, was killed last night in a 60-foot plunge from a tight wire at an amusement park.

Algerian producers of wine — the number one money crop — are stuck with a large volume, as French wine consumption lags.

Watermelon Surplus Floods Market For Cherokee Farmers

ALTO, July 9 (AP)—Step up, fellows. There's a big surplus of watermelons.

Never before have they grown fatter or juicier in Cherokee county. But there are just too many of them.

Everyone knew the crop was a dandy. Realization that it was more than that—more than the market can take—began to sink in this week.

Trucks Form Line

Farmers trucking their melons to Alto found long lines of trucks already there. There were only two buyers in Alto, and 75 to 100 truckloads were pouring in every day. Trucks backed up almost a mile. The railroad ran out of freight cars.

The price tumbled. At the start of the week melons brought $1.00 a hundred pounds. At midweek it was 50 cents. Yesterday the price rose grudgingly to 60 cents.

Today there was no market here. The buyers said they couldn't place any more melons. Farmers were leaving the melons in their trucks, or on the vines.

Market Fails

Cherokee farmers had planned to go into the watermelon business in a big way this year. They planted at least 2,500 acres—much more than usual. Then came the good rains. It seemed that every plant was trying to outdo the other in producing the big juicers.

Now the bottom has fallen out of the market. Observers here say the farmers won't bring their melons in for less than 50 cents a hundred pounds.

They're waiting for developments now. Less than a fourth of the total crop—which may run more than 300 carloads—is in. Meanwhile, melons will keep a week to ten days either on the vine or in the trucks.

Maybe more than usual will make the return trip to the farm. Usually about 35 per cent are rejected by the federal inspector here, as too large, too small or sunburned.

Refining Company Cuts Price For Oil In Gulf Coast Area

HOUSTON, July 9. (U.P.)—Humble Oil & Refining company has reduced the price it pays for low gravity oil by ten cents a barrel across the Texas Gulf Coast area, it was announced today.

The price reduction, retroactive to 7 a.m. yesterday, affects daily production of approximately 40,000 barrels in an area extending from Beaumont to Brownsville, the announcement said.

Oil men in the area are of the opinion that the cut by Humble is the first important "break" in Texas oil prices, although a Humble spokesman termed the price reduction an "adjustment."

Egypt's livestock situation is good, with 3,300,000 sheep and 2,600,000 cattle.

HAD OLDEST DEPOSIT—J. E. Hartley, well known shoe company representative in West Texas, discovered Saturday that he had the oldest water meter deposit in Lubbock, No. 21, made June 18, 1926.

STAFF ARTIST DIES

DENVER, July 9 (AP)—Paul E. Gregg, 73, Denver Post staff artist since 1902 and famous painter of western scenes, died at his home today.

J. E. Hartley's $5 Water Meter Deposit, Made In 1926, Oldest On Active Record

Twenty-three years ago, J. E. Hartley, 1518 Ave. O, made a $5 deposit with the City of Lubbock for a water meter.

Saturday he discovered it was the oldest active meter deposit in the city. It was No. 21 deposit and those previously made with the city had since been withdrawn.

Hartley, representative of the Friedman-Shelby branch of the International Shoe company in West Texas, learned that it pays to let your interest accumulate on a deposit. Interest on the deposit in the 23 years totaled $6.90 today. The deposit was made June 18, 1926.

Still Has Cash

After paying the current bill on the meter, and making a new deposit on a meter at a new home he and Mrs. Hartley recently moved into at 1923 Thirty-first, he still had $3.10 in cash remaining.

Last meter deposit number issued by the city was 77,890. The city started requiring deposits in 1926, soon after Hartley moved here.

Another unusual twist to the story is the fact that the recent move was the first Mr. and Mrs. Hartley had made since they married in 1926. They moved into the Ave. O residence, after building it and furnishing it, as bride and groom. They have resided there until the recent move into their new home.

Independent Operators Bring In First Cameron County Well

HARLINGEN, July 9 (AP)—Cameron county has its first oil well.

The well, the Sidney H. Smith, jr., No. 1 O. W. Johnson, was brought in this week in the Lacy field by independent operators.

Cores showed 12 feet of oil sand from 7,536 to 7,548 feet. In drill stem test on quarter-inch choke the well produced 600 feet of oil and no water in 11 minutes, with a maximum pressure of 275 pounds.

The test indicated a production rate of 1,200 barrels of 44 gravity oil per day.

Location of the new producer is lot 24, block 8, Capisallo district, 3,300 feet southeast of the A. W. Smith Marsh No. 1 gasser and 500 feet south of the Lacy No. 4 gas well, and one mile northeast of the Thomas O. Payne Dillion No. 1 and 2 locations.

A MEMORY BOOK OF PROGRESS OF LUBBOCK AND THE SOUTH PLAINS
1873 — 1949

Cattlemen began edging above the Caprock long before any thinning of the numbers of buffalo could be discerned. Few of the ranchers mourned the passing of the bison. They coveted, for the use of their own cattle, the grass the wild animals consumed.

So, as the buffalo moved out, the cattle were moved in. The foundation stock for many of the herds were driven in from portions of East and South Texas, where increasing populations forced the cattle to the open ranges to the West.

Some of the ranches of the early days were huge business enterprises, even by present day standards. For example, the I O A (pronounced Iowa, for the home State of its founders) covered more than 400 square miles and was capitalized for $800,000.

The earliest cattle drives were to the east and to the markets in Kansas. During the 1880's, most of the loading was along the recently completed Texas & Pacific railroad. Later, Amarillo became the important marketing center, when rail outlets were provided there. By that time, the cattle herds numbered many thousands of animals. The annual calf crop usually was profitable, since the abundant native grasses took care of the feeding expense. The opinion was widely prevalent that this was "cattle country" and always would remain such.

SOFTBALL SEASON IS IN FULL SWAY HERE—At the same time that baseball teams go into action each spring, softball teams also start a grind that lasts as long as the National Pastime. And at this point in the local season, teams represented by these players are on top in Lubbock. In the upper left, Warren "Stringbean" Pope, mainstay of the Bluebonnet-Sunbeamer mound staff all year, is shown delivering a fast ball. Lower right shows the steady catcher of the Bluebonnet- Sunbeamer team, Willis James, in a typical pose. The Blue-Beamers lead the Major League. Three mainstays of the Barber College nine are shown in the upper right picture. They patrol the outfield for the team that is leading the City League. Left to right they are R. B. Egger of 2413 14th street, Dave Loyd of 1623 6th street and Persey Thedford of 1411 Avenue F. The strong infield of The Avalanche-Journal team, which is leading the Commercial League, is shown in the lower left. Players, from left to right, are Albert Jones, first baseman; Royce Jones, second baseman; Bill Jernigan, shortstop; and Delton Tapp, third baseman. In the center are the three managers who have led their teams to the top at this point in the season. The manager in the upper left circle is Blackie Hilliard, who pilots the Blue-Beamers. Under his direction, the Blue-Beamers have clinched second place in the Texas Softball League and are leading the Major League. Under Hilliard, and slightly to the right, is shown Tony Liguori, manager of the Barber College team. His softballers are firmly in the lead of the City League and haven't lost a game in 12 starts. And the third manager pictured is Bill Jernigan, skipper of The Avalanche-Journal nine. Jernigan's team also is a first place club with only one defeat on the record. (Staff Photos By Tyler Curtis.)

Lubbock Nine Captures 13-0 Win Over Levelland Legion

Lefty Benny Day Hurls Local Win; Levelland Club Eliminates Spur

By AL WILLIAMS
Avalanche-Journal Sports Writer

Allen Bros. Legion Post won the District 2 Junior Legion baseball championship Saturday night at Rosenthal field with a 13-0 victory over Levelland's Legion in the finals of the double elimination tournament.

Stout pitching by Lefty Bennie Day, who gave up only two hits in pitching his second victory of the playoff, and strong hitting enabled the Lubbock team to cut short the tilt to four and one-half innings, since a 10-run-lead rule automatically halted the game.

Behind Day's mound works the Lubbock team collected 11 hits which included doubles by Bobby Brown and Powell Hinson, and a triple by Hinson.

Allen Bros. defeated Levelland, 12-9, Friday in the second round of play and nosed Spur in the first game, 5-3.

Three Levelland hurlers were used in trying to halt the Lubbock barrage of base hits, and Cardwell, who started, was touched for seven runs in his one and one-third inning stay on the mound before Don Wise came in to relieve. But he fared just as badly, giving up six runs in one inning. Off of Patterson, the last hurler, the winners were only able to get four men on base, none on hits.

Errors hindered Levelland's efforts, and five miscues were made. Lubbock had a perfect night in the field, lending perfect support to Day, who struckout six batters and walked two.

Lubbock got off to a two run advantage in the initial frame on three hits and an error, added seven in the second, and shortened the game with four in the third. None were made in the fourth, the last time the team came to bat.

In the first frame Hinson tripled after Neil Sikes had struck out, and Tommy Yelvington singled to drive Hinson across the plate. Brown skied out to right field and Yelvington reached second on an error, from which point he reached third on Jimmy Sexton's single. Yelvington scored on a passed ball for the second tally before Johnny Tatum grounded out.

Twenve batters came to bat in the second inning, and six Lubbock batters hit safely. Three walks, one error, and two wild pitches enabled seven runs to score.

Hinson doubled in the third with one out, Yelvington walked, after which Hinson stole third base and scored on Brown's single. Sexton reached base on an error, and another error, a wild pitch, and an infield out allowed the three runners to score.

Levelland's lone hits were made by Neil Atchison, a double in the fourth, and he was run down between second and third by Hinson when R. D. Jackson reached first on a fielder's choice. Patterson connected with a single in the fifth and stole second, but he was allowed to die on that base when the next two men were put out.

Layne To Blount Passing Combine Will Go On Display September 5

SAN ANTONIO, July 9. (AP) — That familiar passing combination of Bobby Layne to Peppy Blount will go on display here Sept. 5 when the Los Angeles Rams meet the New York Bulldogs in a professional football game.

Layne recently was sold by the Chicago Bears to the Bulldogs. Blount, one of Layne's battery mates at the University of Texas, has just signed a contract with the Bulldogs.

Other Texans on the rosters of the Rams and Bulldogs are Al Sparkman of San Antonio, Southern Methodist's Howard Maley, Baylor's George Sims, Texas Tech's Charles Reynolds, West Texas State's Duane Byars, Abilene Christian's V. T. Smith, Texas A. & M.'s Jim Winkler and Hardin-Simmons' Leon Cooper.

TENNIS TOURNAMENT SET

The City Recreational Department's annual tennis tournament will open July 18 and all entries should be phoned to the Recreation Department at 9346. The men's division will be divided into open and novice divisions, with trophies going to all winners.

LEVELLAND DROPS SPUR FROM TOURNEY WITH 11-7 WIN

Spur was eliminated from the District 2 baseball tournament at Rosenthal field Saturday afternoon as the Levelland American Legion team came from behind to tie the game and then win, 11-7.

Spur jumped to a lead in the second, but Levelland went ahead with a four-run splurge in the third on one hit, two errors, and two walks. The losers batted around in their half of the inning, accounting for three markers on four hits, two walks, and a wild pitch, but Levelland put the game out of reach in the fourth with a barrage of base hits good for five runs.

Dee Winsor and Jimmy Spence led off with doubles, a walk to Gerald Watson loaded the bases, and then relief hurler Don Wise, who was credited with the win, hit a single to score Spence. An error by Wayne Smith on a grounder hit by Doyle Tyler allowed Watson to score, and Zack Reid bunted safely to load the sacks. A passed ball by Dean Watson let Wise in, and Tyler scored the fifth run on a sacrifice hit by Junior Railey.

Sunbeamers Clinch Second Spot In TSL With Twin Shutout Wins

By JOE KELLY
Avalanche-Journal Sports Editor

Lubbock's Bluebonnet-Sunbeamer softball team clinched second place in the Texas Softball League last night with a pair of shutout victories over the Maurice Shop of San Angelo, winning the first game 6-0 and the nightcap 1-0.

Reese McGee, the pitching artist from Norman, Okla., made an impressive debut in the opener, outpitching Boyd Reece of San Angelo to take the victory easily. McGee was in top form in striking out 17 batters and giving up no bases on balls. He hit one batter, but never was in danger.

Pope Performs Well

Warren "Stringbean" Pope returned in the afterpiece to hurl almost as well. He limited San Angelo to two hits, fanned 11 and only had one bad inning. In that frame, the third, a single and two errors loaded the sacks. But Pope pitched his way out of that one for the victory, beating Bert Hester of Texas Tech.

The Blue-Beamers scored almost at will in the first game, although getting only three hits—all singles. But San Angelo turned in one of the worst exhibitions of the season, committing eight bobbles.

Trouble started in the first inning when James Abbott led off with a single. After the next two batters had gone out, Jimmy Joe Reiger lifted a high fly to the leftfielder. Abbott started running with the crack of the bat and scored easily when the leftfielder dropped the ball.

Game Clinched In Second

In the second inning, the Blue-Beamers salted away the contest. Bryan Clark led off with a double to centerfield and when the centerfielder couldn't find the handle on the ball, came in to score. Don Allen was safe at first on the third baseman's bad throw, taking second automatically. Reese McGee helped his own cause with a single that scored Allen. And he scored when Abbott was safe on a fielder's choice.

Two more runs in the sixth inning put the game away beyond reach and insured McGee's victory.

In the nightcap, the Blue-Beamers pushed over the winning run in the first inning—and without the benefit of a hit. Abbott walked to open the inning and was sacrificed to second by Allen. He went to third on a passed ball and scored when the first baseman overthrew third in an effort to pick him off base.

Hester Deserved Better

Pope had a couple of anxious moments after that, but wasn't in deep trouble. He walked Hester to lead off the second and the pitcher promptly stole second. He went to third on an infield out, where he was left stranded.

After that there was only one bad frame and Pope escaped damage on his own pitching. Actually, Hester deserved a better fate than he received. He gave up a harmless single to Reiger in the first and blanked the Blue-Beamers from that point on.

In their last four meetings San Angelo has not been able to score a run off Lubbock pitching.

Pamp Oilers Blank Albuquerque, 5 To 0

ALBUUEQRQUE, N. M., July 9 (AP)—Pampa righthander George Payte set the league-leading Albuquerque Dukes down hard in the West Texas-New Mexico league tonight, scattering five hits and blanking Albuquerque 5 to 0.

Every hit issued by Payte was a single. He gave up no more than one in an inning. All five hits were collected by three men. Larry Roach and Chick Fowler each got two and Cliff McClain got one.

Payte forced four Duke players to hit into double plays, all of which were at crucial moments an dall of which retired the side. The Dukes had men on base in all but the fifth inning.

Frank Shone was on the mound for Albuquerque. He dropped his second mound loss in 12 starts.

The winning run for Pampa came in the second inning when Virgil Richardson walked, the only walk issued by Shone. He went to second on an infield out and scored on Homer Matney's single.

With two men out in the eighth Shone got into trouble again. Ernie Velasquez took first on an error, Roy Parker tripled and Virgil Richardson homered.

Odessa Legion Beats Lamesa

BIG SPRING, July 9 (Special)—Lamesa's American Legion baseball team dropped out of the District 6 race here tonight, bowing by 9-7 to the Odessa Blue Sox in a playoff for the west half championship.

Odessa now will meet Big Spring's Bombers for the district title. Big Spring today clinched honors in the eastern division by thumping Stanton, 17-2.

Two big innings, in which all nine runs were scored, paved the way for Odessa's triumph in tonight's three-hour marathon.

After Lamesa took a 2-0 lead in the top of the third, the Blue Sox shoved across five runs in the last half of the same inning on two hits, three walks and three Lamesa errors.

Lamesa regained the lead with a four-run sixth inning on two hits and five walks, but Odessa bounced back with four runs on three hits and two walks in the last of the sixth to sew up the contest.

Bill Hart, Lamesa starter, was charged with the loss, while Odessa reliefer White was the winning pitcher.

Both Lamesa and Odessa had won six and lost one in regular season play.

LAMESA	002 104 000—	7	4

Hill Hart, Royce King and Jim Boothe; Britt, White and Hughes.

Star Hurler Ralph McCabe Said To Have Quit Team For Home

LONGVIEW, July 9. (AP)—Ralph McCabe, leading pitcher of the East Texas league this season, has quit the Longview club and apparently returned to his home in Sudbury, Ontario, Canada, officials of the local club said today. McCabe, who had a 13-2 record, was a unanimous choice of managers and sportswriters for the North squad which will meet the South team in the league's annual All-Star game in Marshall Monday night.

The lanky righthander pitched for Oklahoma City in the Texas league two seasons ago.

TO BROADCAST GAME

Radio Station KCBD will carry a play-by-play broadcast of Tuesday's big league all-star game at Brooklyn. The broadcast, over the Mutual Broadcasting system, will begin at 11:15 a. m. (Lubbock time).

Between The Lines by Joe Kelly

Not so long ago, a group of far-seeing softball enthusiasts held a series of meetings. There was mutual misunderstanding to begin with, else the softball officials would have gotten together sooner. Once the two groups did meet, they quickly cleared away the faint touch of animosity that existed and by the time they had broken up, the group was in complete unanimity. Out of the final meeting—in Austin—came a completely new softball idea, one that will send Texas to the front in 1950.

The new idea was formation of the Texas Fastball League, softball as different from anything seen so far as the present game is from the old musk melon brand played when we were kids. Already there are nearly a dozen cities signed up for the new league; and by the time play commences next summer, there may be more. Teams planning to go into the TFL include Lubbock, San Angelo, Crane, Fort Stockton, Abilene, Brownwood, Stamford, Houston, San Antonio, Lake Jackson and Austin. That's the backbone of the league.

Final plans for the league, of course, have not been completed. No schedule skeleton is possible until officials know exactly what teams will be entered. But this much is known; the team that wins the title of champion in the new circuit will be the top softball team in the state and will be so recognized. The championship club will be able to go to either the National Softball Congress or American Softball Association tournament as the official representative of this state. It's something for teams and players to work for during the year and it's a break for the spectators.

There isn't any softball in Texas that is any faster or better than that played in the Texas Softball League. There is softball elsewhere in the state that is as good, but the only other league that has corresponding standing as the TSL is the South Texas Inter-City Softball League. Now the two groups are in the process of amalgamation for next year, promising the fans the best possible softball in the state. Moreover, the new league is going to change the rules, whether the national bodies do or no. And some of the changes will be revolutionary, to say the least.

This is what the Texas Fastball League proposes to do: they will use a new and livelier ball. That means, in all probability that the ball will be harder than it is now—and from personal experience, we know that it is hard. It might even be ordered made a little smaller. That's one change. Another will be the moving back of the pitcher's mound from two to three feet. It will take away a lot of the pitcher's effectiveness now derived from being so close that a hurler can see past the batter's tonsils when he gets rid of the ball. And the bases will be moved back slightly, which is in keeping with the longer distance from mound to plate.

But the really radical change will be the change in the rules that will allow players to re-enter a game once they have been taken out. That means that say it is Don Allen's turn to bat. Manager Blackie Hilliard wants to keep him in the lineup, but he'd rather use a lefthanded batter. Okay, so the manager inserts a lefthanded batter, a pinch hitter. Then Allen goes back into the lineup at the end of the inning. Other proposed changes include authorization to use a bat other than an official softball bat, which is lighter and shorter than a baseball bat. And parks will be better lighted than

New York Thrashes Dodger Nine, 9-5

BROOKLYN, July 9 (AP)—The New York Giants survived a shaky start, and paced by Whitey Lockman and Johnny Mize, came from behind to thrash Brooklyn 9-5 today before 23,377 fans.

Lockman and Mize each belted a two-run homer in the 12 hit attack against rookie Jack Banta and three successors. Lockman connected in the first and Mize in the sixth off Ralph Branca.

Following Lockman's clout, the Dodgers came back and scored three times against Monte Kennedy.

The Dodger advantage was short as the Giants drove Banta to cover in the second with a four run drive after two out. Sid Gordon's singles with the bases loaded keynoted the rally.

MUSIAL HOMERS AS CARDS COP 3-2 WIN OVER CINCY

CINCINNATI, July 9 (AP)—Stan Musial's 15th home run of the year brought St. Louis a 3 to 2 victory over Cincinnati today in a game that hed to be held up for 53 minutes in the seventh inning because of rain. Max Lanier, making his second start, had to be relieved in the seventh because of illness and reliefer Ted Wilks got credit for the victory.

Oil Belt League Schedules Games

A full four-game schedule is on tap today in the Oil Belt baseball league, with interest centering on the Sundown-Levelland scrap at Levelland.

In other games, Brownfield goes to Post, Seagraves visits Tahoka, and league-leading Denver City plays host to Slaton.

The Sundown-Levelland tilt will determine fourth place in the official loop standings. At present, Sundown holds a slight percentage edge with seven victories and eight refeats. Levelland has won six while dropping seven.

Denver City will be in no danger of relinquishing its firm hold on first place in its game with Slaton. However, the host team will be out to avenge a recent 16-3 defeat handed its ace hurler, Hook Epperson, by the seventh-place Slaton crew.

Oil Belt games scheduled Thursday are: Seagrave at Levelland, Brownfield at Slaton, Denver City at Post, and Tahoka at Sundown.

Teams	W	L	Pct.
Denver City	14	2	.875
Seagraves	13	4	.765
Post	9	8	.529
Sundown	7	8	.467
Levelland	6	7	.462
Tahoka	5	8	.385
Slaton	3	6	.333

Bobby Locke Wins British Open Title

SANDWICH, England, July 9 (AP)—Bobby Locke, the South African who polished his game on U. S. courses, slaughtered Harry Bradshaw of Ireland, today to win the British Open golf title by 12 strokes.

The two were tied with record-equalling 283's after 72 holes over the sandy, windswept Royal St. George's course. In today's playoff, only the sixth since 1860, Locke put together rounds of 67-68—135. Bradshaw countered meekly with 74-73—147. Par is 72.

Bradshaw, pro at a Dublin course, fell behind Locke at the fifth hole of the morning round and the heavy-jowled South African never let up. At lunch he was seven strokes to the good.

Most of the 2,000 followers admitted they were staying only to see when Locke, approaching with deadly accuracy, would get his first nine. It came on the thirty-third hole, a par five test. All other figures on his card were either 3's or 4's.

After it was all over Locke said he would cancel exhibitions in the U. S. and would remain in England for six weeks or two months. He begins an English tour tomorrow. However, he will return to the U. S., this fall.

"There is a lot of sugar over there," he explained. "The Americans have been good to me, and I put my success here down to that tough competition in the States."

Baseball World Must File Answer To Suit

NEW YORK, July 9 (U.P.)—Organized baseball, facing a $2,500,000 damages suit brought by St. Louis Cardinal pitchers Max Lanier and Fred Martin, was given 10 days to file an answer today by Federal District Court Judge Simon H. Rifkind.

Attorneys for organized baseball asked for dismissal of the suit on grounds that baseball Commissioner Albert B. Chandler was an indispensable factor in the case but was not subject to jurisdiction of the district court because he lives in Versailles, Ky.

Judge Rifkind ruled an organization could not obtain "immunization" by having a Commissioner who lives outside the federal district. He said he knew of "no rule of law" which allowed "so bizarre a result."

Crowds Still Turn Out To See Famed 'Dizzy' Dean At Ball Park

'Ole Diz' Still Giving, Getting

By CHOC HUTCHESON
Avalanche-Journal Sports Writer

Jerome Herman (Dizzy) Dean is a baseball player who gave the game all he had, and got all he wanted in return.

And Ole Diz still is giving—and getting.

The Dizzy One is 38 now, and nearly 60 pounds above his best playing weight, 170. The zip is gone from the right arm that once terrorized National league hitters.

But he still can pack 'em into a ball park. He is, you might say, the Babe Ruth of this generation.

Friday night an all-time record Clovis crowd of 2,300 fans turned out to see the ex-St. Louis star. And the talking half of the Dean brothers sent 'em home happy.

What Fans Wanted

Actually, he didn't do a great deal. Just a brief speech over the public address system, two warm-up pitches, a pinch-hit single, and plenty of whoopin' and hollerin' along the first and third base coaching lines.

But apparently that was all the fans wanted. They saw Dizzy Dean, and he was just as they expected him to be—a good-natured hulk of a man with an infectious ear-to-ear grin. The spectators applauded his every move.

As usual, Diz was in a talkative mood. In the Pioneer dugout before and during the Clovis-Lubbock game, he gabbed freely on any and all topics of conversation—including Dizzy Dean. But there was nothing of the braggart in his manner. In his own opinion, Dean was just a guy who could "fog that old apple through there."

Record Speaks For Him

Of course, Diz doesn't need to tell folks how good he was. The record books speak for him. It's all there in black and white—National league strikeout king in 1932-33-34-35, league single-game strikeout record of 17, league's most valuable player in 1934, all-league selection three years in succession, the last big leaguer to win 30 games in a season, and a host of other feats too numerous to mention here.

What the record book doesn't tell, though, is the story of Dizzy's decline—how he "threw his arm away" laboring for the Cardinals during his rip-roaring years in the mid-30's, thus cutting short his brilliant career.

At Clovis, Dean was asked who was responsible for his overwork with the Cards—himself or the St. Louis management.

"Both," he replied without batting an eye. "I wanted to pitch, and they wanted me to. So that's the way it was.

"But man, I don't regret a minute of it—not a minute," Dizzy continued. "I gave 'er all I had while I was up there, got mine quick, and got out. If I had to do it again, I'd do the same thing. Why, some of these boys in the majors drift along 15-16 years makin' six or seven thousand a year. Not me. I shot the works, and the game has treated me OK."

That's how Dizzy feels about it, and you can't help but admire the guy for his reckless "all-out" attitude. After all, it helped make him one of the greatest drawing cards in diamond history.

Sammy Snead Takes Lead In Golf's Money-Winning Race

CHICAGO, July 9. (INS)—Sammy Snead moved back into the lead of professional golfdom's money-winning derby today in figures released by the Professional Golfers' Association of America.

The P.G.A. champion was the leader until the National Open where he dropped back when Cary Middlecoff copped the Open, the $5,000 prize and money winning honors.

Reiley, Blackley In Main Mat Go

Charity almost stood to gain $50 Wednesday night at Sled Allen's wrestling arena, but Ray "Big Train" Clements of Lubbock didn't like the terms offered him by Tex Reiley of Muleshoe.

Reiley challenged Clements in the main event on a winner take all proposition and added that if he didn't beat Clements, he still would make a gift of $50 to a charitable institution.

But Clements balked at that. He said that Reiley wouldn't be a good match and that he could take him too easily. As a result, the match fell through and while both wrestlers will be on the card Wednesday night, they will not meet.

Instead, Reiley gets a chance to show his wares against Gene Blackley of Anson in the concluding match of a double main event. Blackley is a capable performer in his own right and should cause Reiley plenty of trouble.

Clements takes on Gust Johnson of Seattle, Wash., in the first main event. Both matches are two out of three falls events with a one-hour time limit. Johnson asked for the shot at Clements, after he was a member of the tag team that won last week. He said he wasn't impressed with Clements' ability and wanted him in a main event.

In the preliminary, Vic Weber, the Plainview promoter, takes on Johnny Carlin of Tampa, Fla., the old favorite here. It will be a one-fall event with a 20-minute time limit. Both Carlin and Weber are familiar faces to local wrestling fans and it should provide a good curtain raiser to the double main event.

The matches will start at 8:30 p. m. and tickets will go on sale at Wylie's Drug store Wednesday morning at 9.

Plainview Boxing Ducats Available

PLAINVIEW, July 9. (Special) Tickets for Friday night's Jaycee fight program here still are available in the ringside, reserved and general admission sections, Jaycee officials said today.

LaVern Roach, Plainview ex-Marine who recently was considered a top contender for the middleweight crown, is to meet Howell Steen, Lubbock, in a six-round feature bout on the card.

Bill Henderson, Levelland lightweight, goes against Freddy Maes, Denver youngster, in the 10-round main event.

Hubert Gray, Wichita Falls veteran, and Jerry Sargent, New Orleans welter, tangle in a preliminary scrap, as do Gene James, Lubbock heavyweight, and Dickie Brown of Amarillo.

In the opening bout Leonard Duncan, Hale Center, will meet an opponent as yet unnamed.

Tickets for the card are priced at $3.75, $2.75 and $1.75. Ducats may be bought from the Plainview Junior Chamber of Commerce, or Wylie's drug store or the Jack O'Lantern cafe in Lubbock.

RAMS SIGN STEELE

AFTER 21,852 MILES, this "Cold Rubber" Gates Air-Float (Extra Low Pressure) tire still has over 52% of its original tread left for additional service. Mileage is more remarkable because tire was run in severe low pressure service on front wheel of heavy car, and at high speed.

What Cold Rubber Is

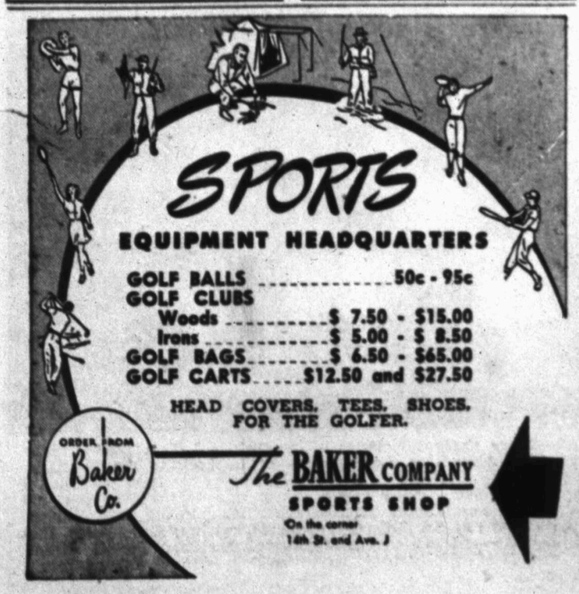

"Cold" rubber is the remarkable new rubber processed at low temperatures that now adds 30% to 40% to tire mileage. (See READER'S DIGEST, October, 1948—page 20)

Trout Defending Titlist In Event

First-round matches start today in the 1949 Lubbock Country Club golf tournament, with 32 club members scrambling for the title won last year by Chick Trout.

Qualifying for the event was completed Saturday, as Jimmy Goldman and Dick Jennings tied for medalist honors, each with a 70. The two will play off the tie today to determine the medalist prize winner.

First-round matches must be completed not later than Tuesday. Other deadlines are Thursday for second-round matches, Friday for the third round and Saturday for the semi-finals.

The 36-hole championship match will be played next Sunday.

In addition to the 32-man championship flight, there are four lower flights of 16 players each.

Consolation matches will be played in all flights.

Drawings for the tourney Calcutta are to be made at 1 p. m. today by Bill Overton, club manager.

Herb Schroeder, club professional, Saturday invited all interested visitors to come out to any and all matches during the week.

The first player named in each pairing below is responsible for arranging a time for his match, Schroeder said. First-round matches not completed by Tuesday night will be defaulted.

Williams Autographs Ball For Dying Boy

BOSTON, July 9 (INS)—Ted Williams, the Boston Sunday Advertiser and a Boston taxicab driver staged a "triple play" tonight for the sake of a 15-year-old boy dying of a heart ailment in a San Diego, Calif., hospital.

The dying boy was Chester Smith. He lay in critical condition in an oxygen tent, but his thoughts were of baseball and his hero, Ted Williams, an old San Diego boy, himself.

Chester asked for a baseball autographed by the Boston Red Sox slugger as he lay fighting for his life.

Friends of the boy sent a telegram to the city editor of the Advertiser. The telegram said:

"Rush the ball air express. This is urgent. Time is limited."

The telegram arrived late tonight. The city editor worked fast. He telephoned Ted.

"Sure I will," Ted exclaimed when he heard young Chester's request. Then he added:

"But I haven't got a baseball here at the house. Send out a ball and I'll be glad to autograph it."

SPORT Slants

By CHOC HUTCHESON
Avalanche-Journal Sports Writer

This is the first line of a column which will appear daily in The Morning Avalanche, and in Sunday's Avalanche-Journal.

The column will be devoted primarily to discussion of "area sports"—goings-on within the circulation limits of this newspaper. This will hold true particularly during the fall and winter seasons, when sports activity over the South Plains is at its peak.

Subject matter will also include state, national and international sports topics, insofar as they become of interest to readers in this area.

In short, an attempt will be made to achieve a balanced "diet" satisfactory to both city and rural sports fans.

Naturally, such an undertaking to be completely successful, will demand the cooperation of readers throughout the region. A person can be in only one place at a time, so first-hand coverage of all events is out of the question.

With the help of area fans, however, much can be done.

So at the very outset your correspondent is asking that readers who come across sports items of interest jot them down and mail them to this desk.

With these notes, plus frequent trips to cities and communities over the Plains, more complete area sports coverage can be provided.

One more request: In sending items by mail, please be sure to list the full names of all persons concerned, with correct spellings, and provide all available information. The notes need not be written in news form. The information itself is the important thing.

And thanks in advance for your cooperation.

In return, your writer wants to do everything possible to be of service to Avalanche-Journal readers.

So, if you want information regarding sports records, schedules, personalities, etc., drop a card into the mail, or call in person or by telephone. Every effort will be made to provide the desired data.

See you Tuesday morning.

White Sox Lead In Pee Wee Loop

Fur is apt to fly this week in the Lubbock Boys club summer baseball program when the White Sox meet the Indians in a Pee Wee League game that will feature play this week.

The Sox hold a game and a half edge over the Indians and could make the pennant a little more secure with a victory. But the Indians have secured a new hurler and he hasn't been beaten yet. His teammates think that he will beat the Sox and make the race that much closer.

The Pirates have built up a two and a half game lead in the Pygmy League and seem certain to come out on top. The Yankees are in second place and have only a game edge on the Red Sox.

The entire flight is bunched in the Junior League, with the Jaycees holding a slim one-game margin over the ABC team. The ABCs, in turn, shade the Methodist Men by only a game. And they hold a similar margin over the Exchange club.

The complete standings:

Billy Talbert Upsets Pancho Gonzales In Tennis Tourney

SPRING LAKE, N. J., July 9. (INS)—Third seeded Billy Talbert of New York scored a major upset in the Spring Lake Invitation tennis tournament today as he defeated national amateur champion Pancho Gonzales, 6-2, 1-6, 6-2, 6-4, in a semi-final match.

Frankie Parker, Los Angeles veteran, gained the other berth in tomorrow's finals by defeating Eddie Moylan of Trenton, N. J., 7-5, 7-9, 6-4, 6-3.

Snead Gains Tie In Reading Open

READING, Pa., July 9. (AP)—Sammy Snead of White Sulphur Springs, W. Va., and Cary Middlecoff, of Memphis, Tenn., the golfers who have cleaned up almost everything in sight this season, were all square today after three rounds of the $15,000 Reading Open.

Middlecoff, playing a near-perfect round, wiped out the one stroke lead Snead held yesterday by shooting a five-under-par 65 to Slammin' Sammy's 66. So after 54 holes, each had an aggregate of 200 strokes. Ten under par for that distance over the 6,001 yard, par 70 Reading Country club course.

Middlecoff, the National Open champion, got there with three successive sub-par rounds, 67, 68 and 65. Snead, the PGA champ and leading money-winner of the 1949 season by a margin of about $300 over Middlecoff, had rounds of 63, 71 and 66. Four strokes behind them going into tomorrow's final round was Vic Ghezzi of Deal, N.J. Ghezzi, who had been tied with Snead at the halfway mark yesterday, couldn't beat par today and trailed at 69-65-70—204.

Pete Cooper, of Ponte Vedra, Fla., who shot today's hottest round a 64, was next at 206. Then came six players with 68's Johnny Palmer at Badin, N.C.; Willie Polumbo, of Kennett Square, Pa.; Henry Ranson, of St. Andrews, Ill.; Ed Furgol of Royal Oak, Mich.; Buck White, Middlecoff's former teacher from Greenwood, Miss., and Lawson Little of Monterey, Calif.

Baseball's Eddie Waitkus Undergoes Another Operation

CHICAGO, July 9 (AP)—Baseball star Eddie Waitkus, who was shot June 14 by a lovesick typist, underwent his fourth operation today and surgeons removed a bullet from his chest because of a developing infection.

The operation began at 8:30 a. m. (CDT) and lasted 45 minutes.

Surgeons at Billings Memorial hospital said that the condition of the Philadelphia Phillies' first baseman was "good." He was conscious when the doctors' bulletin was issued shortly before 10 a. m. (CDT).

Pygmy Dodgers Wallop White Sox, 35-0, Behind McClendon

Toby McClendon pitched a no-hit, no-run game for the Dodgers of the Pygmy league Friday afternoon at the Lubbock Boys club, while his mates slammed home 35 runs for a 35-0 victory.

In other games, the White Sox beat the Dodgers in a Pee Wee league game 16 to 12 and the Methodist Men beat the Exchange club 12 to 2 in a Junior league game.

The Dodgers showed no mercy in their 35-0 rout of the White Sox and climaxed their hitting attack with 15 safeties good for 23 runs in the fourth inning. Buddy Robertson had two doubles and four singles for a perfect day at the plate and John O'Haugherty had three for four.

Hal Snyder led the Pee Wee White Sox with two doubles in three times at bat, while Delmar Hilton paced the losers on two home runs in four trips.

Jimmy Welch, with a double and two singles in five trips, and George Galey, with three for three, led the Methodist men to victory. Doug Sampson banged out a triple for the losers.

Boston's Red Sox Gain 7 To 5 Victory Over Philadelphia A's

BOSTON, July 9. (AP)—The Red Sox set off a 12-hit barrage for a total of 23 bases to defeat the Philadelphia Athletics, 7-5, today and snap the six-game winning streak of Alex Kellner, the brilliant young southpaw, who was seeking his 13th triumph.

Kellner had to retire in the fourth inning when the Sockers belted him for three doubles, plus Bobby Doerr's eighth homer, to pull into a 4-1 lead.

Lefty Mel Parnell gained cradit for his 11th win against five setbacks but he weakened with two out in the ninth. He threw a home-run ball to Sam Chapman with Ferris Fain aboard and then passed Hank Majeski.

Tex Hughson was rushed in to face Don White, who represented the tying run, and Hughson wound up the game by fanning him.

Ted Williams, who banged out a double in two official tries, was taken out of the lineup in the eighth inning after complaining about a chest bruise he suffered against the Yankees in New York early this week

CHICAGO, July 9. (INS)—Calumet farm's Duchess Peg won the $56,375 Arlington Lassie stakes today, with P. A. Markey's Baby Comet second in a photo finish, and A. G. Vanderbilt's Bed O'Roses third. A crowd of 20,493 saw the winner booted home by Steve Brooks to earn the winner's share of $45,125 and pay $15.60. The six furlongs was traveled in 1:15⅘ by Duchess Peg, with the two-year old fillies driving home on a muddy track.

Oilers Gain 3 To 0 Victory From Dallas

TULSA, Oka., July 9(AP)—Slim Jim Avrea outpitched Fred Schmidt tonight, allowing but three hits as Tulsa gained an even break in the short Texas league series with Dallas, 3 to 0. The Eagles won last night's game.

Schmidt's sparkling six-hit performance for the Texans was marred by Steve Filipowicz's scratch single in the fourth which drove in an Oiler score, and two Tulsa blows in the sixth for a pair of counters.

Attention Milton E. Price, WT-NM loop prexy: the Florida School of Baseball in DeLand is now open for training fo business personnel, players and umpires. According to the press release from the school, "the school expects to turn out a flock of trained operatives who can immediately step into jobs in one of Organized Baseball's three main divisions." Read no farther, Milton. Pick up a phone and order about eight new umpires sight unseen. And by sight unseen, we mean this, as well. But for heaven's sake, prexy, send them a Seeing Eye dog to find their way here. Apparently the bunch now in the loop got here by mistake from some semi-pro league.

Come July 22, a lot of baseball will be played in San Antonio and it won't be by the Missions. Texas sandlot teams will be gathering to determine a winner to represent the state at the National Baseball Congress tournament in Wichita, Kans. One champion from each state will travel to Wichita to compete in the 15th annual tourney beginning Aug. 19 and ending Aug. 31. There's a $50,000 purse to be shared, with the winner getting $10,000 and mileage. The winner also gets the opportunity to represent this nation in the international playoffs. If you've got a fast, sandlot team and are interested in taking part, write NBC Commissioner Jerry Feille at San Antonio.

Sending Joe Wisniewski to Corpus Christi came as no great surprise. We know of no other player who really was eligible and one had to go, since Walt Stenborg sent the Hubbers over the player limit. At the same time, we're sorry to see the big guy go and we honestly hope he's back. We've never seen any man hit a ball harder than he does so consistently. None of his hits could be called flukey. But Joe got off on the wrong foot here and never hit his stride. It probably was due to his sickness as much as anything. We expect him to burn up the Rio Grande Valley League, get his confidence back and possibly rejoin the club at the end of the season.

Fort Worth's Carl Erskine Will Return To Dodger Nine Tuesday

FORT WORTH, July 9. (AP) — Rival Texas league batsmen who have been advocating the recall of Fort Worth's Carl Erskine to Brooklyn and dreading his appearance in the annual Texas league All-Star game—got their wish today.

John Reeves, president of the Cats, announced that the slender right-hand change-up expert will return to the Dodgers after pitching a "farewell" here Monday night, leaving for Brooklyn on the morning that the All-Stars assemble for the "dream game" at La-Grave field against the Cats Tuesday night.

Erskine had won 10 games and lost three for the Cats, having a 2.30 earned run average for the first half of the season. Most rival managers considered Erskine the top pitcher in the league and his departure is a blow, of course, to the Fort Worth chances in the All-Star game and their stretch battle for the league pennant.

The gate figured isn't apt to be crowded this year, the May 15 fire having reduced LaGrave field's capacity to 8,147 seats which may be sold as "spotted." Anything over that figure will be overflow

Most of the 8,147 tickets were gone, however, after Friday and Saturday selling.

Al Vincent of Tulsa, chosen to manage the All-Stars, for the second straight year, was expected to use his pitchers in about the same manner as last year, when six of his seven hurlers saw service. The starter went three innings.

He was expected to lead off with Henry Wyse, Shreveport's control master.

Vincent was given little leeway in the use of his men at other positions, since the league's sports writers, who selected his team, provided only one extra outfielder and one extra infielder, with two extra catchers.

John Hicks, 12-Year-Old Player Gets Letter From Lou Boudreau

AMARILLO, July 9. (AP)—John Hicks, 12-year-old baseball player, keeps his eye on the ball—and on his future

First baseman for the Sanborn Pelicans in the YMCA baseball league, Hicks wrote a letter to Lou Boudreau, manager of the Cleveland Indians, asking that a scout" be sent around, to watch him perform

Boudreau replied that Hicks is a little young, but "might be wearing an Indian shirt" about 1956 or 1957.

The boy is so proud of the letter he keeps it in the refrigerator. Why?

"To keep the ink from fading," Hicks explains.

Majority Of Voters Opposed To Recognition Of Chinese Reds

By GEORGE GALLUP, Director
American Institute Of Public Opinion

PRINCETON, N. J., July 9 — No diplomatic recognition of the Communist regime in China and no trade with it — that is the policy receiving the largest vote in two national public opinion surveys on the China issue.

Twenty-one Senators last month petitioned President Truman to give assurance that the United States will not recognize a Communist Chinese government. Last week Secretary of State Dean Acheson promised Senate foreign policy leaders that they would be consulted before any decision is made about recognition.

The ideas of the average American voter about the China problem were probed in the two surveys by the American Institute of Public Opinion as follows:

In the first, all voters who said they knew something about the Chinese civil war were asked:

"Do you think the United States should recognize the new government in China being set up by the Chinese Communist party—that is, do you think we should send an ambassador and have dealings with this government in China?"

The vote:

Favor recognition	19%
Opposed	41
No opinion	15
	75%
Not familiar with situation	25
	100%

The issue of recognition has many important ramifications. One thing at stake is China's seat on the United Nations Security Council. If the new Chinese government, friendly to Russia, is recognized by Western powers and takes over China's place on the Council, the Soviets would have an important new ally in the deliberations and the voting of the United Nations Big Five.

The question of carrying on trade relations with Chinese Communists was put to voters in the following manner:

"If China is taken over completely by the Communists, do you think the United States should continue to carry on trade with China, or do you think the United States should refuse to have any trade with China?"

The vote:

Continue trade	34%
Refuse to trade	46
No opinion	20

On the recognition issue voters of all education levels expressed opposition. The vote by education follows:

	College	High Sch'l	Grade Sch'l
Favor recognition	32%	21%	13%
Opposed	54	47	32
No opinion	10	14	17
	96%	82%	62%
Not familiar with situation	4	18	38
	100%	100%	100%

Our diplomatic strategy in China involves complex and delicate problems. Some authorities have pointed out that even though the Chinese Red regime is not popular in the United States, there is danger in giving it such a diplomatic cold shoulder that it will be driven entirely into the Russian economic and political orbit.

Others say that the Chinese Communists are already so strongly under Russian influence that we can hardly hope to make much progress in weaning them away from Moscow.

State Medical School To Boost Enrollment

GALVESTON, July 9 (AP)—Officials of the University of Texas school of medicine here said today they expected to admit 162 freshmen students this year.

Heretofore the freshman class has been limited to 100 students.

However, the legislature this year appropriated funds for 62 more at $3,000 a student. The bill containing the extra funds must be approved by the governor. In Austin today Gov. Beauford H. Jester said he would approve the funds.

Dr. D. Bailey Calvin, dean of students at the medical school, said he had sent out acceptances for 162 first year students. The last 62 acceptances were contingent on the governor's signing the appropriation bill.

Dr. Chauncey D. Leake, dean and vice president of the school, thanked the governor for his support, adding:

"We are anxious to give medical service to the people of Texas who need and want it."

Police Seek Ohio Banker's Wife Reported Mysteriously Missing

CHICAGO, July 9 (U.P.)—The pretty blonde wife of an Ohio banker was reported as "missing under mysterious circumstances" here today.

Police were requested to search for Mrs. George Wood, 36, of Lima, O., who disappeared after she checked out of the Palmer House hotel where she had stayed for four days.

The request for the search came from Mrs. Wood's husband and from Lima police. Authorities here had no further information regarding Wood, other than that he is a Lima banker.

Detectives said Mrs. Wood "seemed to have dropped off the earth" from the time she checked out of the hotel between noon and 1 p. m. yesterday.

She apparently left the hotel to keep a reservation for a 3 p. m. train on the Pennsylvania railroad. But railroad officials said the reservation was not used.

Police were hampered in the search because they had no description of how Mrs. Wood was dressed.

Lima authorities said she was blonde and blue-eyed, about five feet two inches tall, and weighed 120 pounds.

Two-Pound Baby Dies Here; Services To Be Held Today

A three day battle for life ended in death Saturday morning for Linda Sue Westmoreland, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth C. Westmoreland of 1916 Ninth, who weighed only two pounds when she was born at St. Mary's hospital Thursday.

Survivors also include a brother, David; a sister, Shirley, and her grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. J. J. Moore of Lubbock and Mr. and Mrs. H. A. Westmoreland of Tulsa, Okla.

Rev. David L. Zacharias will conduct services at 5 p.m. today at McDonald Funeral chapel. Burial will take place in Tech Memorial Park.

A LITTLE FELLOW — The little colt shown above with its owner and mama stands only 17½ inches high and weighs about 18 pounds. The mother is Messie Britches, five-year-old registered toy Shetland, that stands 29 inches high and has won many top prizes in Texas and California as the smallest horse in shows. J. H. Flannery, jr., (right) of Tyler, Texas, owner of the ponies, said that when he first saw the colt he thought it was a spotted sheppard dog. (AP Wirephoto.)

Loss Of $7,500 Estimated In Collapse Of Storage Building

FLOYDADA, July 9 (Special)—Dennis Dempsey, co-owner of the Dempsey Grain company of Floydada, Saturday said he feared his new two-week old grain storage building was a complete wreck and estimated his loss at $7,500.

The building collapsed at 9 a. m. Wednesday, spilling 36,000 bushels of grain. Dempsey said the building was built to hold 40,000 bushels "but apparently 36,000 bushels was too much," he added. The grain was not damaged.

Dempsey's partner is his father-in-law, W. E. Watson of 2109 Main street, Lubbock, owner of a coal and grain company.

Armless Man To Serve 30 Day Sentence For Writing Bad Check

BURBANK, Cal., July 9. (U.P.)—Armless Carl C. Moody began a 30-day jail sentence today for writing a bad check with a pen held between his teeth.

"I needed food and clothes for my wife and daughter," the 35-year-old truck driver said when he was sentenced yesterday. He has more than 100,000 miles of safe driving behind him and said he is also an expert marksman.

Three Killed, One Injured In Crash Of Two-Engined Plane

ROANOKE, Ill., July 9. (AP)—C. H. Morse, III, of the Fairbanks-Morse company, of Chicago and two other men were burned to death today in the crash of their two-engined airplane on a farm near here.

The other dead are Jack Hadden of Chicago, pilot of the Lockheed plane; and the co-pilot, who has not yet been identified.

A fourth occupant of the plane, W. E. Watson, of Chicago, was injured.

The plane was owned by the Fairbanks-Morse company, it was en route from Chicago to St. Louis.

Texans Will Request Curbs On Oil Imports

WASHINGTON, July 9(Special)—A six-man committee of Texas congressmen prepared to talk to State department officials next week about action looking toward curbs on crude oil and product imports.

The committee is headed by Rep. Ed Gossett of Wichita Falls and includes Reps. Ken Regan, Midland, J. M. Combs, Beaumont, Lindley Beckworth, Gladewater, John Lyle, Corpus Christi, and George Mahon, Lubbock.

Texas Claimed Injured

The talk with the State department would be in connection with the reciprocal trade agreements act, and the possibility of invoking certain sections which are designed to prevent serious harm to an industry due to heavy imports.

There is a feeling that the possible use of tariff and quota provisions will be explored in the discussions as well, the chairman said.

"The production in Texas has been reduced about one-third in recent months," Gossett explains. "This is affecting state revenues, school land funds and other finances for the state of Texas. There is a possibility that the state will have to request tax legislation to make up the loss."

The committee was named after the Texas congressional delegation met with the heads of the Independent Petroleum association of America. Fred Shield, San Antonio, president of the IPPA, was the principal speaker.

Foreign Arms Program Attacked As First Step In Mounting Outlay

WASHINGTON, July 9 (AP)—Sen. Russell (D-Ga) assailed the administration's proposed foreign arms program tonight as "only the first take" on an outlay he said may cost from 12 to 20 billion dollars.

The Georgia Senator, a member of the Appropriations committee, told reporters he thinks if Congress votes to undertake to supply Western Europe with military equipment "We will be starting a program that is going to cost more than the Marshall plan."

Obligation Denied

This advance notice of opposition to the $1,450 billion arms proposal came as the Senate took a day off, scheduling resumption of its debate Monday on the North Atlantic Security alliance. Russell is supporting the treaty itself.

Chairman Connally (D-Tex) of the Foreign Relations committee who expects an overwhelmingly favorable vote on the treaty by Wednesday, took occasion to deny again that support of it pledges any Senator to vote for the arms program.

"It is clear beyond any question that vote for the treaty does not carry with it any obligation to vote for the arms proposal," Connally said.

Taft May Fight Treaty

Connally's remark to reporters were in the nature of a reply to the observation by Sen. Taft of Ohio, chairman of the Senate GOP Policy committee, that he thinks the treaty is becoming inseparably linked with the military program.

As an opponent of the arms aid plan, Taft said he may have to vote against the treaty if he becomes convinced that support of the pact commits a Senator to back the military program.

Russell said he thinks it would be better for this country to keep its military equipment at home. He said he thinks the United States would come to the aid of any of the European nations that were attacked by Russia or any other country.

Russell's opposition pointed toward a bipartisan attack on the arms program when it reaches congress.

Two Hurt In Hereford Freight Train Wreck

HEREFORD, July 9. (AP)—Hogs and potatoes were well scrambled in a railroad accident here.

Eight cars rolled out of a siding last night. A Santa Fe freight carrying 120 cars, some loaded with pigs, crashed into the potatoe cars.

Several cars of both trains, as well as the freight's diesel locomotive, overturned. The main railroad line was blocked by the wreckage. Auto traffic was stopped.

Engineer Fred Baird was treated at a Hereford hospital for back injuries and facial cuts. Brakeman E. J. Townley also suffered cuts. Both railroaders are from Amarillo.

Defense Unit Joins Hunt For Desperado Near Albuquerque

ALBUQUERQUE, July 9 (INS)—A civil defense unit today joined city, county and state officers in the second day of an all-out search for an armed desperado in the mountains southeast of Albuquerque.

Albuquerque officials said the man is William "Billy" Haynes, 30, sought on suspicion of auto theft, a post office robbery in Utah, and a jail delivery at Corvallis, Oregon, June 4.

Albuquerque's sheriff today said he believed Haynes had been in this city for the past three weeks.

The search for him centered here when Marshall Huff, 47, was arrested in Mountainair on a bogus check charge. Huff is believed to have been delivered from the Oregon jail by Haynes.

There will be a public installation of the officers of the Lubbock I. O. O. F. No. 609, Rebekah Lodge No. 324 and the Theta Rho girl's club at 8 p. m. Monday, Clyde C. Jones, secretary of the Odd Fellows chapter, announced Saturday.

The ceremonies will be held in the Naval Reserve training center at Eighth and College.

The installing officer and speaker for the Odd Fellows will be Ben Ellison of Sundown, district deputy grand master. Mrs. Lillye Godsin, past grand noble, will be the installing officer for the Rebekah lodge.

L. V. Boyd of Lubbock will be installed as noble grand of the Odd Fellows at the ceremony. Elmer Pattillo of Lubbock will be installed as vice grand of the organization.

The new noble grand of the Rebekah lodge will be Mrs. Helen Reams and the newly selected vice grand will be Mrs. Marie Reams.

Lubbock Youth Plans FFA Trip

Alton Brazell, of Lubbock, national fourth vice president of Future Farmers of America, will leave Monday morning for Marshall, where he will begin a three-week FFA trip.

Brazell, who farms with his father and brother near Shallowater, is to be guest speaker at a meeting of the Marshall Lions club Tuesday, and will address the Kiwanis club of that city on Wednesday.

To Attend Convention

On July 14, Brazell will go to Cleburne, where he is to visit the Cleburne and Joshua FFA chapters before departing for Dallas on July 19 to attend the annual Texas FFA state convention.

The convention, which is to be held in the Baker hotel, is to be attended by an estimated 1,000 Texas farm boys and their guests. Brazell will be principal speaker at the Awards Night program scheduled for Thursday night, July 21. The program will be highlighted by the selection of the Texas FFA sweetheart of the year.

To Visit Truman

Among contenders for the sweetheart honor is Miss Flores Hill, sweetheart of the Levelland FFA chapter.

Brazell will also serve as timekeeper at the State Public Speaking contest, which will be held in connection with the FFA convention. He will conclude his attendance at the convention with an address before a Dallas luncheon club.

The national officer will then fly to Washington, D. C., for a meeting of the FFA national board of trustees. During his stay in Washington, he will visit President Truman and Secretary of Agriculture Brannan. Brazell talked with Secretary Brannan when the cabinet member was in Lubbock last May for the West Texas Democratic barbecue, at which time he extended the local youth an invitation to visit him in Washington.

Brazell will return to Lubbock about August 1.

Basket Picnic Lunch To Feature Homecoming At Walnut Springs

WALNUT SPRINGS, July 9. (Special)—An old fashioned basket picnic lunch will highlight the annual Walnut Springs homecoming next Sunday.

No Action To Be Taken Now On Reopening Pasadena Refinery

PASADENA, Texas, July 9. (AP) Crown Central Petroleum officials today indicated no action will be taken until next week on reopening their shutdown refinery.

They still are awaiting receipt of a formal reply from the Oil Workers International Union, Local 227, CIO, to an offer to reopen the plant and resume negotiations on a new cntract covering approximately 350 union members.

K. W. Shimeall, vice president of the company, Thursday sent the union a letter in which he offered to reopen the refinery as soon as the union will "permit order and discipline to be resumed."

He charged, however, the union "directed and inspired" a mass of employe grievances which disrupted the plant's operations and forced its shutdown Wednesday night.

Finals Set Friday

Older boys and girls will participate in table tennis tournaments in all parks this week. Finals will be held Friday night. Ladder type tournaments are being used for the event and a city-wide playoff will be held after local playground winners have been determined.

Plans are being made for Playground Olympics to be held in Pioneer park at 3 p. m. Tuesday, July 19. All playgrounds are to send representatives to take part.

Winners in a pet show, the last of a series of pet shows in parks, which was held at Booker T. Washington park were announced Saturday. Owners of winners were: Pet with shortest tail, Earl Lee Jordan; with longest ears, Robert Earl Dennis; prettiest, Fred Maden, first, and Gene Moses, second; smallest, Billy Dean Dennis, first, and Charles Ray Smith, second; largest, Bobby Grant; curliest tail, L. J. Moses, and most unusual, David Dennis, jr.

The Booker T. Washington playground directors, Mrs. Ruby Lee Dennis and Clarence Priestly, were assisted by other members of the recreation staff.

Japan's chemical industry recently attained the 1930-34 level of production.

Albuquerque Paper Reveals Gambling Continues In Clubs

ALBUQUERQUE, July 9. (INS)—The state-wide suspension of gambling activities hasn't reached Albuquerque clubs as yet.

An Albuquerque newspaper reported today that a check of seven clubs revealed that all but one still had their slot machines in full operation.

The newspaper (the Albuquerque Journal) reported that clubs where gambling machines were still in use included the Disabled American Veterans, Veterans of Foreign Wars, Knights of Columbus, Eagles, Elks, and the Country club.

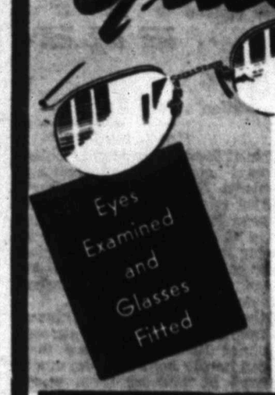

The paper added that District Attorney Paul Tackett declared "I haven't seen any machines anywhere."

When asked specifically about the clubs to which he belongs, Tackett said he hadn't been to them for several weeks.

Governor Thomas Mabry declared recently that if gambling activities are not cleaned up by local authorities, he will send in state police to do the job. Previously, state police had maintained a hands-off policy unless requested to crack down by local officials.

MARKET MAKES COMEBACK

NEW YORK, July 9. (AP)—President Truman took a look at the stock market this week and evidently liked what he saw.

He told a reporter he was bullish about the general economic situation. He said newsmen should read up on developments in the stock market during the past few days.

The day before the President spoke the market, on average, reached a six-week high. Prices had been rising with occasional interruptions, since mid-June and had just completed a straight five-day advance.

Based on the action of the market alone, the President appeared to have some justification for being bullish. If he assumed the stock market is an economic barometer.

On June 13 the market hit the bottom of a steep nine-month slide and also hit a 4½-year low.

Since the current recovery started the market has regained just half of the losses of from mid-May to mid-June.

At the close of trading Friday The Associated Press average of 60 stocks stood at 61. On June 13 the average had dropped to 58. At the start of the slide it was at 64.

Prices and changes on the week included American Telephone up $1.25 at $141.25; Bethlehem Steel up 62 cents at $25.50; Chrysler up 75 cents at $48.25; General Motors up $2 at $58.75; Montgomery Ward up 87 cents at $50.87; Western Union down 87 cents at $13.75; General Electric up 75 cents at $36; Du Pont up 25 cents at $45.75; and Santa Fe up 75 cents at $83.25.

Air Line Plans Steps To Retain Las Vegas, Big Spring Stops

DENVER, July 9 (INS)—Continental Air lines, which is fighting to hold its stops at Las Vegas and Big Spring, Texas, today announced steps to be taken in the attempt to retain service for the two cities.

Robert F. Six, president of the airline, said his company will submit facts to the Civil Aeronautics board to prove that Continental's services are required by the public convenience and necessity of the two cities and other interested areas.

James M. Verner, Civil Aeronautics board examiner, will hear Continental's testimony in the case July 18 in Austin.

Continental is required by the CAB to "show cause" why services should not be suspended at Las Vegas and Big Spring, for one year and for five years, respectively.

Princess Margaret Rose Reported Ready To Visit U.S. As 'Super Salesman' For Britain

By CHARLES A. SMITH
INS Staff Correspondent

LONDON, July 9—Princess Margaret Rose is reported ready to parade her made-in-Britain "buttons and bows" in the United States as a glamorous "salesman of empire."

The British Labor government is said to be seriously considering sending the pretty, brunette princess across the Atlantic to follow in the footsteps of her uncle, the Duke of Windsor, when he was Prince of Wales.

Walking Advertisement

Dressed in harris tweeds, liberty silks, scotch woolens, and the best leather goods British industry can produce, Princess Margaret would be a walking advertisement to stimulate vital British foreign trade.

Margaret, younger daughter of King George VI, has the perfect qualities for such an "Ambassadress." She loves to travel and the social life is definitely her dish of tea.

She recently returned from a month's tour of the continent. She proved to be enormously popular in Italy, Switzerland and France, the three countries she visited.

British officials who favor a visit to the United States are sure that Margaret will be equally at home and well received by Americans.

Likes Night Life

Although still in her 'teens, Margaret Rose has shown a definite taste for night life, also like her Uncle David, briefly King Edward VIII.

She has definitely more liking for the active social life than her more grave sister, Princess Elizabeth, heir-presumptive to the British throne.

Margaret has frequently expressed her views on her position as princess of one of the few royal families left in the world that can call its throne its own.

She is willing to cooperate with officialdom and make the appearances necessary of the royal family but she likes a good time and is known for her stubborness in insisting that she have it.

King Refused Request

King George is reported to have refused her first request that she be allowed to visit the United States. But Margaret doesn't take "no" for an answer when she sets her firm mind on something.

Margaret has scores of American friends of both sexes and is avidly interested in everything to do with life in America. If she makes the American trip the Princess undoubtedly will insist on visiting as many of the famous landmarks in the United States as possible.

Any such trip would be an "official tour" with Margaret acting as official representative of the British crown. As such, her program would be carefully drawn up by the British ambassador and approved by Buckingham palace.

Would Demand Own Time

Nevertheless, although the tour would be official and royal it is a safe bet that Margaret would insist that some of her time be her own.

Much like her fun-loving Uncle David, Margaret likes the lighter aspects of social life a good deal better than the more stolid aspects. If and when she turns up in the United States Margaret very likely will be as apt to turn up at the Stork club as at Mt. Vernon.

Right now there is no one better equipped than Margaret to follow in the golden footsteps of Edward Prince of Wales as an "ambassador of trade" or a "super salesman."

Margaret is groomed and ready for wider fields than the rounds of bazaar openings, ship launchings, garden fetes and similar small-fry stuff which commonly falls to the lot of the younger British royalties.

She officially came of age almost a year ago when she reached 18.

Shoulders Big Burden

Because of her sister Elizabeth's marriage and more recent motherhood and also because of her father's ill health, she has in recent months undertaken duties usually reserved for top-ranking royalty of maturer years than herself.

She has been asked to do a good many jobs which ordinarily would fall to the lot of a prince of the blood royal and she has filled them gracefully and conscientiously.

Strong-minded and strong-willed, Margaret since August last year, when she came of age, has developed into a young woman of fashion, determined to fulfill elegantly and composedly her part in public life.

Witty and gay, with a mercurial sense of fun, nonetheless she has a serious sense of responsibility when it comes to playing the part of a royal personage.

There is no better showman in the British royal family. No member of the present generation of that family has made his or her mark in Britain in so short a length of time.

And in view of the export-hungry British these is no more valuable export right now than Margaret, whose publicity value is such that she cannot go out with a new boy friend without it being instantly chronicled in the newspapers of three continents.

North Texas Crops May Set New Record

DALLAS, July 9 (AP)—A farm authority today forecast the best crops in 30 years for the North Texas blacklands.

The optimistic appraisal came from Walter Watson of Garland, a landowner nationally known as a breeder of pedigree cotton and hybrid corn.

Watson's estimate was backed by "best-in-years" reports from half a dozen county agricultural agents and Karl G. Hunt, secretary of the Dallas cotton exchange.

Hunt termed the cotton prospect "phenomenal."

"Our office is getting nothing but good reports about this year's cotton. The biggest crop of lint on record is already moving from the Rio Grande valley," he said.

Hunt expects a Texas cotton yield "considerably larger" than last year's 3,166,000 bales.

Dallas Agricultural Agent A. B. Jolley was confident but wary: "We must recognize that a bountiful crop prospect is here, perhaps the best in years, but two critical months lie ahead."

"If the cotton farmer gets by the boll weevil in July, the boll worm might trip him in August."

But Jolley admitted that June and July had been especially kind to the farmer. He said that insect poisoning campaigns had been effective; that farm labor and machinery are in good supply.

Road Contracts To Be Awarded

AUSTIN, July 9. (AP)—Fifty road construction contracts totaling an estimated $13,203,300 will be awarded July 19-21, the State Highway department announced today.

The bidding will cover 442.2 miles of road construction, including the 2½-mile Baytown tunnel, which is expected to draw a bid of approximately $5,100,000.

Projects will include 154.5 miles of farm-to-market roads, expected to cost $1,681,000. Other federal-aid projects include 144 miles of highway at a figure of $4,536,000.

Sixty-nine and one half miles of work will be entirely state financed at an estimated cost of $655,000.

Projects Listed

Projects on which bids will be opened July 19, by counties:

Collin—State 121, 12.35 miles of flexible base, asphalt stabilized base and single asphalt treatment from Denton county line to F.M. 720.

Callahan—U.S. 80, 17.49 miles of flexible base and single asphalt treatment from west city limits of Baird to Eastland county line.

Refugio and Goliad—State 29, 11.728 miles of roadbed treatment and hot mix asphalt surface with seal coat from a point 4.84 miles north of Refugio county line to junction with state 202.

Wilbarger—F.M. 924, 5.95 miles of grading, structures, flexible base and double asphalt surface treatment from U.S. 283 east and north via Fargo to Doans.

McMullen—F.M. 63, .188 mile, two bridges and approaches east of Tilden.

Bexar—Loop 13, 2.529 miles of grading, structures, and asphalt surface from junction with Military to U.S. 81 near Fratt.

Navarro—State 31, 18.42 miles of roadside development (erosion control and roadside park) from Corsicana to Dawson.

Ochiltree—State 70, 14.308 miles of flexible base and double asphalt surface treatment from 20.4 miles south of Perryton to junction with U.S. 83, 6 miles south of Perryton.

Egypt, with compulsory elementary education, now has 9,000 schools, three universities.

At Bristol, England, Ham Green Hospital won the first prize for pigs.

Court Upholds Cardinal's Term

BUDAPEST, Hungary, July 9. (AP)—Hungary's highest court declared today Josef Cardinal Mindszenty should have been hanged. But it decided to let his life sentence stand because the case has "lost its original importance."

The tribunal, the national council of people's courts, affirmed the prison terms of three of the Roman Catholic primate's associates and reduced sentences of three others.

(United States Army intelligence sources in Germany disclosed Thursday a report from Balkan informants that the 56-year-old cardinal has been moved from prison to a hospital for the insane. The report said the cardinal has been so mistreated and drugged that his mind gave way and he is now in a state of delirium." There has been no confirmation from Budapest.)

Sentences Reduced

The cardinal was arrested last Dec. 26 and was convicted by a five-man people's court Feb. 8 of treason, plotting to overthrow the Communist government and illegal trading in American dollars.

The prelate appealed the sentence. Prosecutor Gyula Elpal urged the high court to exact the supreme penalty, death by hanging. The court had the power to reduce the life sentence, let it stand or increase it.

The appeals court took up the case quietly Wednesday night.

"There is not the slightest doubt that Mindszenty should have been sentenced to death," said the decision read by the presiding judge, Peter Janko.

The court found some alleviating circumstances in the case of three defendants and reduced these sentences.

Prof. Justin Baranyai, royalist, 15 years, reduced to 12.

The Rev. Ondras Zakar, former private secretary of the cardinal, six years reduced to four.

The Rev. Bela Ispenky, aide to the secretary of Catholic action, life sentence, reduced to 15 years.

Do You Want To Get Ahead?

Sure you do! . . . But like everyone else today, you may be finding it very hard to save for the future.

Here's a way that you can invest in your future security . . . and still save money today! Just think about it for a few minutes. We believe you'll decide it makes sense.

Put your Savings into a New Home

Statistics show that the average family who rents pays for 3 houses in a lifetime! By buying a home of your own you can invest the money that would have gone into rent in a solid investment that will still be paying big dividends many, many years from now! But the dollars that go into your home are not measurement enough . . . You can't evaluate comfort, the enjoyment, the sense of freedom and security that goes with owning your home. You will know that come good times or bad times, your home will offer you safe shelter 20, 30, 40 years from now!

Take the step toward home ownership today! FORREST has, as a service to you, a complete home-planning department . . . We'll help you with everything from plans to paint!

INVEST IN YOUR FUTURE . . . INVEST IN A HOME OF YOUR OWN!

Protection
Beauty
Economy

Fence your property for beauty and protection! A fenced-in yard means protection to children, pets and property; means added beauty; means increased property value.

A fenced-in yard means fun for the older kids, too. What could be nicer for them this summer than a place to entertain their friends in carefree comfort.

To build that fence, choose Realock Chain-Link Fence from FORREST . . . It is economical because it will last for years and requires no maintenance. Available in heights of 4' to 7'. Reliable erection crews available.

Good Paint Makes A Difference

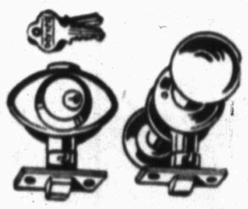

And when you buy Benjamin Moore paint, you can be sure that you're getting a quality paint that will give your house protection and beauty . . .

FORREST has a complete stock of Benjamin Moore paints with a paint for every purpose, in your selection of colors . . . For your home, choose a paint that will not only beautify but protect as well . . . Choose Benjamin Moore Paint!

LEGISLATIVE FIGHT TO CONTINUE

HST Takes New Attitude Toward Job; Plans To Push Program

By ROBERT G. NIXON
INS Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, July 9 — A dapper little man in a white suit climbed up on the platform at the Democratic national convention in Philadelphia early in the morning of July 15 a year ago and announced:

"We'll win this election and make the Republicans like it!"

The man in the white suit, Harry S. Truman, did win the election, and, in a political upset scarcely without parallel in U. S. politics, went back—by act of the American people—to a job he had come to the first time through the death of Franklin D. Roosevelt.

GOP Still Fighting Policies

Yes, Harry S. Truman won the election, as he said from the start that he would.

But he hasn't, to any noticeable extent, made the Republicans like it, and this, in part, may account for the "different" Harry Truman who sits in the White House today.

The President Truman of today is a personality the country still knows little about.

The man with the happy, cocksure grin has been replaced by a President whose face is set in a new mold of gravity and seriousness.

The weight of responsibilities of the highest office in the nation has settled down on President Truman, as it has on all Presidents in momentous periods of the country's history.

President Serious About Job

These responsibilities have changed the man from Missouri markedly. He bears little resemblance, for instance, to the happy-go-lucky Truman who climbed on an American Legion "forty and eight" locomotive in Caruthersville, Mo., four years ago to clang its big brass bell.

Not that the President has lost his sense of humor, or his friendliness, or his humanity. But his approach to the presidential job has changed completely.

The President is serious and determined to carry out the program which he called in his State-of-The-Union message last January the "Fair Deal."

Mr. Truman stumped the nation last year on a program of "correcting the record of the Republican-controlled 80th Congress, and to put into effect the wide-scale program of legislation that has been branded by many as Socialism.

Saw Vote As Mandate

When he won, the President felt that he was elected on that program, and that the nation had given him a mandate to carry it out, lock, stock and barrel.

Mr. Truman feels that as deeply today as he did on the morning of his victory last November.

This has been a surprise to some. A wealthy businessman who supported Mr. Truman during the campaign, but has since been a little taken aback at the President's determination to enact every one of his campaign pledges, recently remarked to this correspondent:

"Good Lord, he really meant it, didn't he?"

Mr. Truman, as the first six months of his elected four-year term passes, feels he is a man with a mission.

He feels that the "little people" brought about the political miracle of last November.

He feels particularly beholding to labor and to the farmer. Their vote clinched his election victory.

This is the reason the President has concentrated his fight for legislation in the Congress on a new labor law, on long-range aid to the farmer under the Brannan farm formula, on low-cost slum-clearance housing, a higher minimum wage, national health insurance, civil rights and the various other parts of his 21-point program.

After his victory in November, the President felt that Congress had a mandate from the people as well as he did.

Handed Setback By Solons

Hardly had the 81st Congress gotten into session, however, before the President had a rude awakening. He was quickly dealt several stunning defeats by dissident Democrats who joined with Republicans to batter down several of the pieces of legislation he had sent the Congress as part of his program.

He came back from these defeats determined to wage a relentless fight to put through his program, regardless of the coalition against him.

The President cancelled a briefly-considered idea of carrying the fight to the country, and thereby possibly antagonizing a Congress in which his party has a majority in both houses.

He decided, instead, to stay in Washington continuously and fight the battle by riding herd on the Congress through the leaders of the Senate and House in the Democratic party.

The President cancelled all trips that would have taken him away from Washington and decided he would devote his full time to pushing his legislation.

Since then, aside from weekends when Congress is not in session, the President has been away from the capital for only 24 hours—the overnight trip he made to Little Rock, Ark., early in June to be with his 35th division World War I artillery battery at their reunion.

All of this has had its visible effect on Mr. Truman. He isn't taking any time out for playing.

Even though he has been administered defeats thus far on civil rights and on repeal of the Taft-Hartley labor act, he will not admit he is beaten.

His attitude is that as long as the Congress remains in session there is a good chance of a sizable portion of his program being approved.

U.S. Officer Says He Shot Russian

FRANKFURT, Germany, July 9. (AP)—A U. S. Army officer on border patrol in the American zone said today he killed a Russian soldier in a rifle duel at 30 feet.

Lt. William C. Linderose, 34, of Port Huron, Mich., said three Russians "began shooting at me so I shot at them."

The incident took place yesterday when a border patrol of three Americans and a German policeman was fired upon while checking border markers north of Coburg.

The Soviet-licensed Berlin news agency ADN reported a border incident in the same general area but said there was no shooting.

ADN's version said five American soldiers entered the Soviet zone near Meiningen and "tried to kidnap two German border policemen."

"They did not succeed in taking the men across the border and had to retreat," ADN said, "there was no exchange of gunfire."

There was no immediate comment from American sources on the Soviet-licensed agency's report.

Fired At Four Men

Later, the patrol slipped away and returned with two officers, including Linderose. Again the Americans were fired upon.

Linderose said he saw four Russians and fired single shots at three of them. One fell. He appeared to be a youth of 18 or 19. Several other Russians were in the vicinity behind trees and other cover exchanging signals by whistles and calls, he added. Altogether the Russians were estimated to have fired about 20 shots.

"We were 250 to 300 yards inside the American zone, and they were still farther inside," Linderose said.

"I was too busy to have any reactions."

When dawn came this morning the body was gone — removed by the Russians in the darkness.

The constabulary announced a protest with the Russians against violation of the border and firing on Americans.

First Of New Housing Units Expected To Be Finished In 14 Months

WASHINGTON, July 9. (U.P.)—Some families may be moving into brand new spic-and-span low rent public housing units authorized under the new housing law in about 14 months.

Government experts estimated today it will take about that time to complete the first of the units. That's because actual construction probably won't start until next spring. Drafting of plans and the winter will delay a start the remainder of this year.

Pledges Redeemed

The new housing law actually will be on the books when President Truman signs it, probably early next week. He will do it with relish. It redeems a major Democratic campaign pledge.

The measure gives the go-ahead to a nationwide program of slum clearance, public housing and farm home improvement.

The measure authorizes $10,000 units of public housing to be built in six years. This would cost the government up to $308 million a year for 40 years. The government actually makes up the difference between the cost of operation and rents received.

Housing To Start First

The bill also provides for $1 billion in slum clearance and $325 million for improving farm housing.

Raymond M. Foley, administrator of the Housing and Home Finance agency, of which the Public Housing administration is a part, said today that public housing is certain to get started before slum clearance.

The reason is that public housing will be administered by PHA which already has an experienced staff ready to go to work. But slum clearance will be handled by a new office. Whipping plans and personnel into shape will take time.

Slum Families Have Priority

Families cleared out of slums are to have priority in getting apartments in public housing units. Low income veterans of the last two world wars also will have priority.

Foley's best estimate on public housing is that 50,000 units will be in some stage of construction one year from now. He doubted that any slum clearance projects can be started within a year.

He pointed out that 472 cities and towns have local housing authorities which will be ready to start functioning immediately.

It took a long time for President Truman to get this housing bill, but Congress finally passed it yesterday.

LUBBOCK AVALANCHE-JOURNAL

Women's News

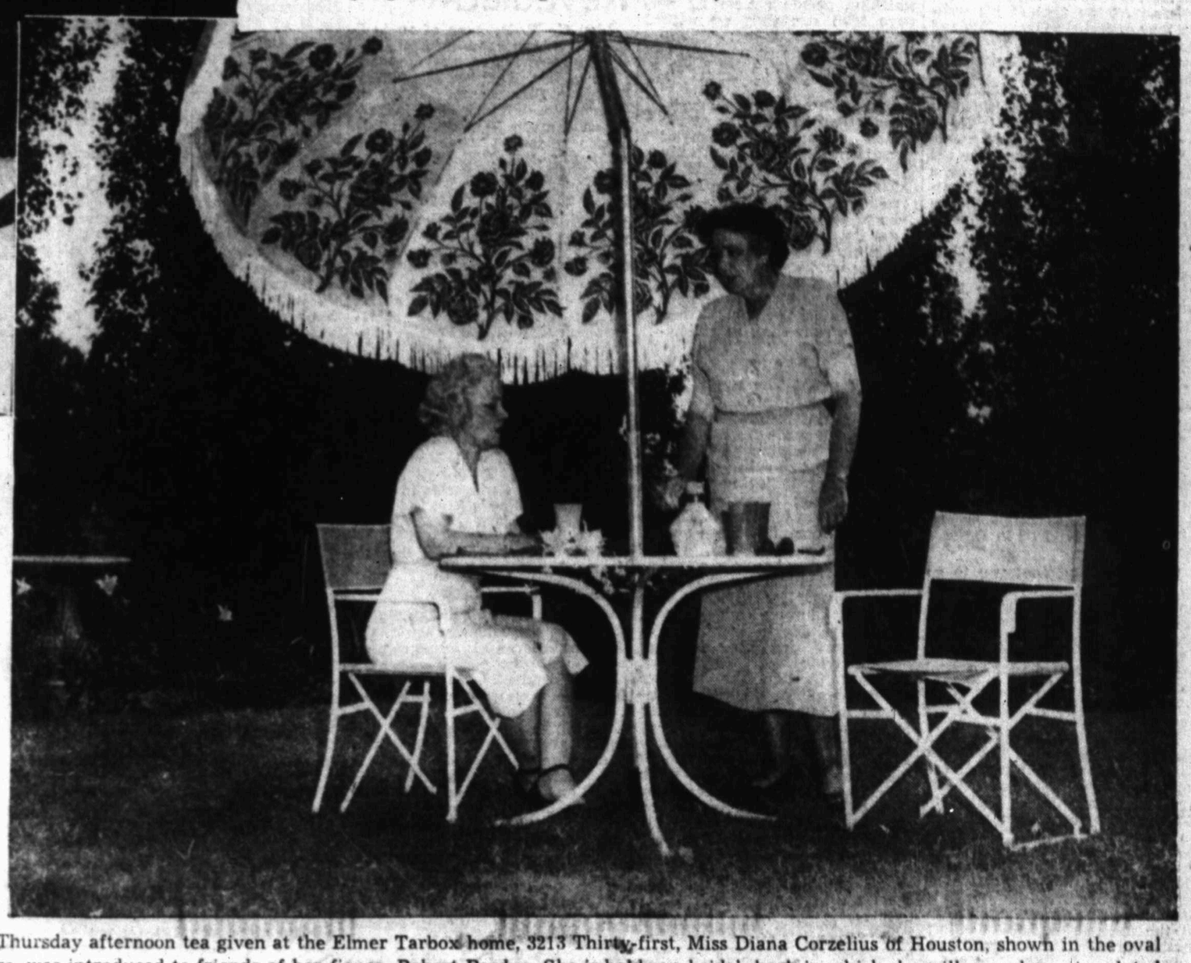

Lubbock, Texas, Sunday, July 10, 1949

Miss Ann Coleman of Greenwich Village, New York City, pictured at right, is back in Texas as a guest of old friends and her parents who live in Lamesa. In Lubbock, she is a house guest of Mr. and Mrs. William Lewis Byrd, jr., 1921 Tenth. Miss Coleman, a graduate of Texas Tech college, was the first Texas girl to be commissioned in the WAVES. Now she is senior assistant personnel trainer and supervisor at Macy's.

July Lubbock Visitors . . .

The garden at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Edgar Lewis, Levelland road, is the setting for the picture below. Mr. Lewis' sister, Mrs. Lynn T. Mullins of Temple, is shown sitting at a garden table talking to her hostess. Mrs. Mullins visited the Neil H. Wrights here twenty years ago and had not been back in Lubbock until this year. She has been complimented at a round of entertainments, the latest of which was a Saturday night garden party given by the Lewises. The Temple guest is returning to her home today.

Miss Sandra Shook is playing the piano in her home at 3217 Twentieth above, as her recent guest, Miss Ann Finks of San Angelo, looks on. During the summer months, Ann presents a half-hour radio show, "Greetings and Gossip," over San Angelo's station KGKL. The young guest was honored at a series of parties while in Lubbock. (Staff Photos).

At a Thursday afternoon tea given at the Elmer Tarbox home, 3213 Thirty-first, Miss Diana Corzelius of Houston, shown in the oval picture, was introduced to friends of her fiance, Robert Pardue. She is holdng a bride's book in which she will record events related to her wedding which will take place in Houston August 6. Miss Cornelius returned to her home Friday after spending several days in the home of Mr. Parduc's parents, Judge and Mrs. G. V. Pardue of 1917 Thirteenth. In the picture below are guests of Mrs. R. L. Stephenson of 2011 Sixteenth. They are her daughter and grandson, Mrs. Britt S. May and Britt, jr., of Washington, D. C. The little two-year-old boy who is shown playing with an airplane is very fond of planes and cowboys; he and his mother also enjoy swimming. His father, Major May, of the Air Force has an office in the Pentagon building.

Lubbock Couples Announce Approaching Marriages

MARRIAGE dates set by a number of Lubbock couples are being revealed today.

Mr. and Mrs. Lawson Carrie Boyd of 2108 Twenty-eighth are announcing the engagement and approaching marriage of their daughter, Imogene, to Lucian M. Moore of Lubbock. The wedding will be performed at First Methodist church on Friday, August 5, at 8:30 o'clock in the evening. Dr. L. N. Lipscomb will officiate.

Miss Boyd, a graduate of Lubbock High school and Texas Technological college, has been employed by Texas Pumice Block company. Mr. Moore, who also attended Tech, is associated with the Walter Price agency and is engaged in farming in the Acuff community.

Mr. and Mrs. Carl O. Stewart of 2419 Twenty-first are announcing the engagement and approaching marriage of their daughter, Margaret Oleta, to Coke Clifton Toliver, son of Mrs. Margaret Toliver of Mullin.

A double ring service will be read Saturday, July 23, at 8 p. m. in the wedding chapel of the Brownwood First Methodist church.

Harlan-Howell

Mrs. Grover Patterson Howell, 2436 Twenty-seventh, is announcing the engagement and approaching marriage of her daughter, Alyce Marye, to Oliver Preston Harlan, jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Oliver Preston Harlan, sr., of 1723 Thirty-first.

The wedding will take place in the First Baptist church on July 28, at 8:30 p. m.

For Houston Visitor

Miss Diana Corzelius of Houston, financee of Robert Pardue, was introduced at an afternoon tea given Thursday in the Elmer Tarbox home at 3213 Thirty-first. Mrs. Tarbox and Mr. Pardue's mother, Mrs. G. V. Pardue, were hostesses.

Pink and white gladioli decorated the lace covered tea table. Those assistaing with hospitalities were Miss Patricia Hogan, Miss Marion Benson, Mrs. Earl Camp and Mrs. Ralph Gossett.

Sixty-five persons called between 3 and 5 o'clock.

Miss Corzelius and Mr. Pardue are to be married Saturday,

Through The Coral Doors

Howdy Folks!

Sure was happy to discover two letters from James when I made my weekly visit through the coral doors. King George's handsome face makes those English stamps mighty fancy—the stamps alongside the foreign postmarks and stationery were perfect appetizers for reading the contents of his letters. At the time of his writing they expected to leave England for Paris the next day. James letters here-to-fore have been all about Studio business, and he hadn't mentioned Ann ONE TIME—honestly, we were afraid that Ann had missed the boat! However, the last two letters were full of "we did this" and "we did that' and "Ann is knitting me a pair of soxs out of beautiful, Scottish yarn"—so we all breathed a sigh of relief.

James had many beautiful adjectives to describe the English countryside, and they had seen such interesting things as Lancaster House, Victoria Museum, the Wallace Collection, Royal Academy, took a boat ride up the "River Dee"—and even had their picture taken by newspaper reporters. Goodness, he told us of seeing so many things, I couldn't list them all here.

Our travelers are going to be the medium of many interesting pieces coming into the Studio. They have been ducking in and out of quaint little shops, buying things that James said "looks just as though it should be in Decorators Studio."

Folks, I really want you to go by to see a real pip of a table setup at the Studio—set with Franciscan's "Shasta" pattern and a brand new deep amber crystal. Josie and Bee were both excited about two new amber crystal patterns that had just come in and got to work immediately using one on a table setting.

Everyone said they really had a glorious Fourth—and I finally got Josie and Bee to tell me all the latest decorating news. After Fredda's and Josie's trip to Odessa, they have been working on plans and setup's, and from the peek Josie gave me—I know that the Odessa client will be very pleased. Bee was all grins over her Midland trip—'Cause her client had been very pleased with all the accessories. So—she left another satisfied Decorators Studio customer in a beautiful setting—a setting that was planned before even the house was completed—and now everything is complete, down to the last ash tray and piece of ivy. "A mighty good feeling!" says Bee.

Well, I must admit that I stayed longer on my visit than I should have this week, but with all those pretty gals around, Rosa serving me a coke, and a cool air conditioner! I'm telling you, a man just can't tear himself away. Just go by and see for yourself. Corner of Broadway and N.

Be seeing 'ya,

SCATTERINGS

DESPITE the sultry mornings and hot afternoons last week, many Lubbock homemakers spent hours in their kitchens in putting up peach pickles and in making cucumber pickles. Hail and worms have played havoc with most of the local fruit we've seen so far . . . Sitting in a downtown drug store the other day and watching people swarm by who were total strangers, we wished we could have asked: Who are you? Where do you work and how long have you lived here?

The life of Albert Schweitzer, recognized as one of the most extraordinary men of modern times, is beautifully told in the current issue of Time fagazine . . . The Pyramid cut, one of those short bobs favored this summer, got its name from the Pyramid clubs that were the rage a few weeks ago . . . Wonder why Palm Beach and linen suits are not more popular with Lubbock men? They look as refreshing as a limeade.

WHAT next? The suede industry is putting on a big promotion to interest milady in, of all things, suede bathing suits and suede wedding gowns. And suede-finished leather are the biggest news to hit men's fashions in years; blues selling almost as well as browns . . . There's a woman's organization on almost every conceivable subject, according to a survey recently completed by a Washington public relations expert. Her findings have been put in a book entitled, entitled, "Guide to Women's Organizations," describing purposes and activities of 700 groups. Glancing through the list, we noted there are hundreds represented in Lubbock and hundreds yet to come. We like women's organizations and realize they play a significant role in the life of the nation, but sometimes we think women spread themselves too thin in placing their names on membership lists of many organizations and contributing very little to the work of any.

ONE solution to British austerity, is a newly designed necklet called "The Laughing Girl." It consists of a girl wearing a brilliant jeweled smile and pert little eyes and nose of diamonds. The new conceit, laughing in the face of trouble, is to be copied in less expensive metals and with brilliants, rather than precious gems . . . The English call television "pictures" . . . When Coke Toliver was in the Pacific theater of war he purchased a beautiful silver chain which had been used as a betrothal gesture by Chinese royalty. Now his fiancee, Oleta Stewart, is wearing the chain and also a diamond solitaire, which is the betrothal custom in America.

THINK you could stand another seige of a tune such as we went through with "Nature Boy?" Eben Ahbez, who authored the first, has placed his latest composition with the publishers. It's titled, "Land of Love," and is to be given a major plug in August . . . A New York clubwoman, listening to a lecture on the Atlantic pact given by Miss Eve Curie during her recent visit to the United States, sat with eyes glued on the speaker's smart Paris clothes. Afterward she burbled: "We all got so much out of your talk and the first thing we are going to do is take the shoulder pads out of our dresses."

A DEFICIENCY of salt in the human body can cause serious consequencies, and for this reason Dr. George W. Cox, state health officer, advises every person whose work is such that it causes excessive perspiration to add a pinch of ordinary table salt to each drink of water taken during the day . . . Any small boy would whoop with joy over a new idea we saw in a Lubbock jewelry window. It's a stainless steel watch with expansion band, luminous dial and a picture of Babe Ruth on the face . . . California has gone into raising midget watermelons which are sweeter than others on the market and will serve four, thereby doing away with having melon to throw away.

Miss Jean Louise Holt Weds Mr. Ring In Lubbock Home

The wedding of Miss Jean Louise Holt, daughter of Mrs. E. H. Holt of Woodsboro, and Kenneth Harold Ring, son of Claude Ring of Floydada, took place Sunday at the home of Mrs. Roxie Crausbay, 2813 Twentieth. Dr. C. A. Bickley performed a single ring ceremony before a setting of garden flowers.

Mrs. Carlos Reynolds accompanied Miss Lamonie Tune as she sang "Always," "Because" and "The Lord's Prayer."

The bride, given in marriage by an uncle, J. W. Holt of Seymour, wore a white organdy dress with an apricot underskirt. Her veil of illusion fell from a halo of white stock and her prayer book was topped with white iris and stock. Mrs. Eloise Stinson of Woodsboro, matron of honor, wore a pastel lavender dress with tan accessories. She carried gardenias. Bridesmaids were Mrs. Kenneth Poole of Floydada, Miss Mary Slagle and Miss Frances Holt of Woodsboro, sister of the bride. Mrs. Poole wore aqua with yellow carnations, Miss Slagle was dressed in yellow with green carnations and Miss Holt wore a pale green dress with pink roses.

Assist At Reception

A three tiered wedding cake was served at a reception given in the Crausbay home following the ceremony. Mrs. Tom Clark served the cake and Mrs. J. W. Holt presided at the punch bowl. Guests were from Floydada, Woodsboro, Colorado City, Lubbock, San Angelo and Seymour.

After a wedding trip to Albuquerque, N. M., the couple will be at home in Wichita Falls where Mr. Ring is employed by Southwestern Bell Telephone company. Mrs. Ring is a graduate of Woodsboro High school and attended Draughon's Business college in Lubbock. She is a past advisor, Order of the Rainbow for Girls, in Woodsboro and was a member of the Wesley Players in Lubbock. Mr. Ring attended Floydada High school and served the Army.

The two young men will then visit with friends near New Orleans.

George Berry and son, George William, will return home today from Possum Kingdom dam where they have spent a few days fishing. Earlier this week, Mr. and Mrs. Berry attended a school conference in Graham held by the state department to explain the Gilmer-Aikin bill which was recently passed by the legislature. Mrs. Berry returned home Friday.

Moving To Houston

Mrs. Calloway Ellison and daughters, Patricia Ann and Martha Louise, of Seagraves are visiting their sisters-in-law, Mrs. H. I. Lynn and Mrs. R. B. Parkinson. The Ellison family is moving to Houston where Mr. Ellison, who is with the Texas-New Mexico Pipeline company, is being transferred.

Miss Flora Goforth of Denver and her mother, Mrs. R. B. Goforth of Fort Worth, former Lubbock resident, visited here briefly last week. Miss Goforth is a graduate of Texas Technological college.

Mrs. J. M. Moorefield and children, Dorene and Jimmy, of Long Island, N. Y., arrived Saturday afternoon for a week's visit with her sister-in-law, Mrs. Sam Lemons, and family, 2401 Twenty-sixth. This is their first trip to Texas.

Rev. and Mrs. Roy E. Cooper and sons, Ruel, Carl and Eddie, of Aransas Pass are the guests of Mrs. Cooper's parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Stahl. Mrs. Cooper is the former Miss Frances Stahl of Lubbock.

Lubbock Symphony Is To Begin Rehearsals

Lubbock Symphony orchestra will begin summer rehearsals Monday night at 7:30 o'clock in the First Methodist parlor, William A. Harrod, director, announced Saturday at noon.

"Even if the members are here for only the summer, I'd like for them to come to rehearsals," Harrod said.

First on schedule will be reading new music for the coming season.

From Lou... To Louella

DEAR LOUELLA: My letters to you for the next few weeks may be a little incoherent, because I'm to be married just 13 days after today. Instead of Oleta Stewart, my name will be Mrs. Coke Clifton Toliver and I guess I'm happier than anyone has a right to be. Yes, he is the same boy I've been going with for the past two-and-a-half years.

We made our plans rather suddenly, but we will both finish Tech this week and graduate in August, and we thing this is a rather good time to be married. I got my ring Thursday and it's a diamond solitaire just like I've always wanted. Oh, and I already have my wedding present from him too! It's a service for twelve in imported china.

Lubbock is going to be our home, at least for a while, so you'll be hearing from me as usual. The wedding will be at 8 p. m. on Saturday, July 23, in the wedding chapel of the Brownwood First Methodist church

FOR AUGUST GRADUATES

Texas Tech senior class will have a called meeting in the Aggie auditorium Wednesday at 5 p. m., and Jack Noyes, class president urges all seniors to attend in order to obtain vital information.

Dean James G. Allen will meet with the group to discuss the rehearsal time and place for the graduation exercises to be held.

July 21, has been set as the deadline for ordering senior invitations and reserving caps and gowns, and orders should be placed immediately.

FOR COLLEGE VETERANS

All veterans who will not attend school the second semester of summer school, but plan to reenter Tech in the fall, should go by the office of H. A. Anderson, coordinator of veterans' affairs and fill out the necessary papers.

His office is on the first floor of the Administration building.

Courses To Be Given For Beauty Salon Personnel

Under sponsorship of Unit 26 of the Texas Association of Accredited Beauty Culturists, a Beauty Salon Training institute will be conducted in Lubbock beginning Monday and continuing through August 5. Two executive courses will be offered also; all classes being conducted by Miss Gertrude Prince, training specialist at the University of Texas and State Board for Vocational Education, which is making the distributive education training service available.

Full details for the training institute will be discussed at a meeting of Unit 26 Monday night at 8 o'clock at the Hilton hotel, according to Mrs. Orene Hocker, president of the group and manager of Dunlap's Beauty salon. Out-of-town beauty operators are invited to attend the Monday meeting and the training courses.

Four classes will be offered for managers and operators in "Customer Service in Beauty Salons," a basic 10-hour course for personnel which serves as a foundation on which to build a well rounded training program through public relations.

MISS GERTRUDE PRINCE

Schedule Of Classes

Schedule as to dates, time and place has been released as follows:

First class, beginning Monday and continuing daily, except Saturday, through July 22, 8 to 9 a. m., Hilton Beauty Service, mezzanine floor of Hilton hotel.

Second class, beginning Monday and continuing Thursday for two consecutive weeks, 10:30 to 11:30 p. m., for Arlene's Beauty school students.

Third class, July 25 through August 5, for two consecutive weeks, Hemphill-Wells Beauty salon, to be conducted in the morning before the salon opens, with other salons participating in shop-in-training classes.

Fourth class, July 25, 27, 29 and August 2 and 4, 8 until 10 p. m., Esther's Beauty shop, 807 College avenue.

The first executive class, which will be available to all who own, operate or help to train operators on the job, will meet at the Hilton hotel Tuesday and Wednesday this week and Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday of next week from 8 until 10 p. m. Theme is "How to Train an Operator."

The other class, "How to Supervise an Operator," a 10-hour course in personnel supervision which is "aimed at prevention rather than cure," will begin Tuesday, July 26, and continue July 28, Aug. 1, 3 and 5. This class also will be conducted in the evening at Arlene's Beauty school, beginning at 8 o'clock.

An enrollment feet of one dollar will be made fo rthe customer service course and $1.50 for the executive course, which will be used to cover cost of mimeographed materials used in lessons.

Review-Tea Will Be Sponsored By Methodists

First Methodist Woman's Society of Christian Service will sponsor a guest day tea and book review Monday afternoon at 3 o'clock in the church sanctuary. Members of the 40 societies in the Lubbock Methodist district are invited to attend.

Mrs. Sterling Crumpler will discuss Lloyd C. Douglas' book, "The Big Fisherman." Mrs. A. B. Austin will offer the opening prayer and Miss Martha Loveless will sing "The Lord's Prayer."

Mrs. Crumpler, a member of the First Methodist WSCS, has reviewed for various groups in. Dallas, Fort Worth, Wichita Falls and other towns.

For the tea hour which will follow, members of Brides' circle and the chairman, Mrs. Walter T. Clark, will be hostesses.

Wedding Is Solemnized In Church

Rev. and Mrs. C. A. Hartley of 708 East Fifteenth are announcing the marriage of their daughter, Miss Lora Nell Hartley, to Charles W. Adams, son of Mr. and Mrs. Rupert L. Adams of Haskell, which took place Saturday, July 2, at St. John's Methodist church. A double ring ceremony was performed by Rev. Hartley.

White gladioli and greenery decorated the candlelighted altar. Mrs. Floyd Roan played an organ prelude and accompanied W. C. McMillan as he sang "Because," "Always" and "The Lord's Prayer." Nancy Joan Christopher, cousin of the bride, lighted candles.

Brother Is Escort

The bride, given in marriage by her brother, Delmar Hartley, wore a dress of white embroidered organdy over blue taffeta. She wore a single strand of pearls belonging to the bridegroom's mother, and carried a white Bible which has belonged to her great great grandmother. Her veil fell from a Juliet cap of organdy and her bouquet of white carnations and lace was arranged on her Bible.

Miss Jeannine Duncan of La-Junta, Colo., cousin of the bride and maid of honor, wore a pink taffeta dress and carried a bouquet of dubonnet carnations.

Charles Swinson of Haskell served as his cousin's best man. Ushers were Rupert Lin (Sam) Adams, jr., Ray and Gene Perry of Haskell and Dale Johnson of Floydada.

Reception Honors Pair

A reception was held at East Broadway Methodist church following the ceremony. Roses decorated the lace covered serving table. A double ring wedding cake, topped with a miniature bride and bridegroom and surrounded with a blue net ruffle, was served. Mrs. A. J. Christopher of Limon, Colo., aunt of the bride, presided at the punch bowl, and Miss Roberta Garrett of Floydada registered guests.

Mrs. Adams is a graduate of Floydada High school and attended Southwestern university at Georgetown. Mr. Adams is a graduate of Haskell High school and is attending Texas Technological college. He served with the Navy for three years during the war.

Vows Read In Post

POST, July 9 (Special)—Mr. and Mrs. Lowell Short are announcing the marriage of their daughter, Ernestine Short, and Andrew B. Hill, Fort Worth, son of C. O. Hill of Kirkland, which took place recently at the home of the bride's parents with Rev. T. M. Gillham officiating at a double ring ceremony.

White gladioli and asters and greenery formed a background for the candle-lighted altar.

Miss Zora Ann Outlaw played a prelude of wedding music and accompanied Robert Cash who sang "Through The Years."

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a street length dress of white crepe and a shoulder length veil of illusion. She carried a white orchid on a Bible.

In Wedding Party

Miss Anna Lee Hill, who served as maid of honor wore a gray salyna dress and a corsage of pink rosebuds. She is a sister of the bridegroom who was attended by Jim Elliott of Rankin.

A reception followed and later the couple left for a trip to Colorado, the bride traveling in a two-piece brown chambray dress with brown and white accessories.

The couple will be at home in Fort Worth where the bridegroom is employed by Standard Oil company.

They are graduates of Texas Tech college. The bride taught in Wellington last year.

Voice Pupils Are To Appear In Recital

Voice students of J. H. Penn will sing in a recital Monday night at 8 o'clock at Adair studio.

Those to be presented are Misses Dovie Parr and Martha Loveless, sopranos, Robert Leonard, bass, and David Morton, baritone.

Achievement Day Tea And Exhibit Staged By Summer Classes

Approximately 50 guests, including mothers and teachers, attended the "Achievement Day" program conducted by the two summer school home project classes Friday morning at O. L. Slaton Junior High school.

Articles made at home and at school by the 20 members of the classes were on display. Mrs. Riley V. Carlton and Mrs. Archie Sullivan taught the courses which were offered for high school age girls.

Refreshments were served from a table laid with white organdy and decorated with an arrangement of yellow and rose snapdragons.

Exchange Teacher Tells Of Life In England, Europe

Miss Jess Bryant, president of the Kappa Kappa Iota chapter in Wichita, Kas., was a guest of the Texas Alpha conclave at a barbecue and program held Thursday night.

The visitor, who served one year as an exchange teacher in Birkenhead, England, near Liverpool, told of her experiences there and on the Continent, where she visited in Holland, Italy, Switzerland and other countries. She projected slides of places of interest in Switzerland and Scotland.

The group met at Mackenzie State park for an annual barbecue supper and then went to the home of Mrs. Ruth L. Norton, 2623 Twenty-fifth, for a business meeting and to hear Miss Bryant's talk. Hostesses were Mesdames J. Floyd Dunn, Lattie Rankin, J. L. Holt, Warren Powers and Miss Noma Eakin.

Other members were Mesdames F. N. Craven, C. R. DeArmond, Haskell Grant, Mary K. Gulledge, Holt Holloway, E. W. Reed, Wesley B. Smith, W. Dow Smith, Ishmael Hill, O. V. Fuller, Lennon Hill, Misses Margaret Bell, Winnie Hendrix, Lenora Nickels and Lela Puryear. Other guests were Mrs. E. L. McCrory and Miss Effie Puryear.

Easy Bob Has Hit Summer Styles

BY ALICIA HART
NEA Staff Writer

Cutting alone will put your hair in good shape for summer. By "good shape" is meant an attractive hair-do and one that can take ruffling of wind, the dampening effects of a daily swim and the minimum of fuss without protesting your neglect.

Victor Vito, New York hair stylist, promises all of this with a simple basic cut. The more curls you can dispense with for summer, says Vito, the easier it will be to turn your upkeep problem over to the scissors.

The short bob with a neat bang above it is his recommendation for a style that takes nicely to scissor-shaping. Such a bob looks better when trimmed barber-fashion, which, according to Vito, is straight-across cut. Ends can be worn straight or can be curved easily over or under a finger.

Expert's warning: No amount of fancying up with curls, combs, ribbons or scarves will hide ends, whacked off by an amateur's scissors, or a bang that is allowed to grow shaggy.

Keep hair in fine trim, bangs regularly snipped and ends cut blunt and short, and the straight-haired girl can sail through the summer without a permanent, says Vito.

This stylist, who cuts bangs to make trade marks of these simple fringes, finds that the short-short bang leads a double life when it is combined with a side part. He tells his young customers to sweep bangs to the side when they want a change of effects.

Methodist Class Has Social At Residence

Asbury Methodist Aqui-Pri Sunday school class attended an ice cream party and business meeting Friday night at the home of Mr. and Mrs. H. M. McCollough.

As a project, the class voted to aid a needy family. Mrs. E. P. Barbee and Mrs. McCullough were appointed to serve on the project committee. Mr. Barbee gave a treasurer's report and Mrs. M. L. Hines led a prayer.

Sixteen members attended. Guests were Mr. and Mrs. B. Odell and Mr. and Mrs. Buster Pharr and children, Elton and Kay Arlene.

FOR HUSBANDS

Loyalty club will have a picnic at Mackenzie State park Friday night at 7 o'clock. Husbands of members are to be guests.

Dance Federation To Continue Meetings Until Mid August

Dances sponsored by the Lubbock Square Dance Federation will continue during this month and the first half of August, with three more on the schedule before the summer recess, according to announcement made by the recreation department.

Dates of the dances are Thursday, July 28 and August 11. They will be held in the air-conditioned Playmor on the Slaton highway.

Members callers and be on hand to call, and music is by Lee Searsy and the Plains Ryders. Dancing is from 8:15 to 11:15.

Admission is 50 cents for members; 75 cents for all others. A limited number of spectators may be accommodated and the charge is the same as for dancers.

Classes at the American Legion hall will be resumed in the fall as soon as the weather permits, if there is sufficient demand. All activities of the Federation are supervised by the recreation department. Information may be had by calling 9346.

Three-Day Reunion Is Underway At Park

Ninety-four persons had registered at the annual three-day Teaff-Isom family reunion at Mackenzie State park Saturday morning. The event will be concluded today. Last year's reunion was attended by approximately 160 persons.

Rev. A. L. Teaff, pastor of the Calvary Baptist church of Midland, conducted a religious service Saturday night for the group.

Towns represented Saturday were Idalou, Weinert, Kermit, Merkel, Post, Sweetwater, Abilene, Hawley, Midland, Tye, Sudan, Greenville, Abernathy, Lorenzo, Dumas, Levelland, Lubbock and Hobbs, N. M.

PLAINVIEW, July 9 — Mrs. Helen Bolding Phillips of Bent, N. M., is announcing the marriage of her daughter, Miss Jane Bolding, and Grady Brooke, son of Mr. and Mrs. Grady C. Brooke, of Lubbock, which took place recently at the First Methodist church in Plainview. Rev. W. E. Peterson officiated.

The bride wore a wheat colored linen suit with pastel blue and brown accessories and a corsage of blue carnations. Miss Betty Cole of Lubbock was maid of honor.

Godfrey Brooke, aviation cadet and twin brother of the bridegroom, was best man.

Mrs. Brooke is a graduate of Washington High school in Los Angeles and Mr. Brooke is a graduate of Lubbock High school. Both are enrolled at New Mexico A. & M. at Las Cruces.

Husbands' Party Will Be Given By Club

An ice cream supper for August 26 at the C. S. Tramel home was planned by Sunshine Home Demonstration club Friday afternoon at Mrs. H. K. Hick's, 509 Thirty-eighth. Husbands of members are to be guests at the party.

Several members brought dresses to the meeting for fittings. Miss Clara Pratt, county home demonstration agent, who spoke, said, "Sewing should be fun, and using good short cuts should help to make it so."

The club's 1949 goal sheet was filled in.

A new member at the meeting was Mrs. Luther E. Guillot and a guest was Mrs. Etta Mann. The club will have an all-day meeting and covered dish luncheon July 22 at the home of Mrs. C. A. Stokes.

Six State Colleges Will Sell Bonds To Construct Buildings

DALLAS, July 9 (AP)—Six state colleges will sell $5,650,000 in bonds to pay for new buildings.

The board of regents for Texas state teachers colleges fixed the amount yesterday. It set Oct. 5 to receive the bids.

Bonds will be paid from proceeds of a five cent state property tax levied annually under a constitutional amendment adopted in 1947. The board did not act until yesterday because of a court suit which claimed the amendment was not constitutional.

In addition to proceeds from the bonds the six schools will share in about $782,000 set aside for their benefit from the tax while the amendment was under court attack.

Buildings Are Planned

Earlier bonds totaling about $7,000,000 had been discussed.

Newton L. Harrell of Claude, president of the board, outlined major buildings to be erected from the bond sale:

East Texas State, library-school buildings; administration building and field house, $1,405,000.

Stephen F. Austin, power house-shop building and auditorium-fine arts building, $790,000.

Sam Houston State, music hall, dining room and girls dormitory, $960,000.

Sul Ross, fine arts building, $375,000.

Southwest Texas State, dining hall, infirmary, fine arts building and library addition, $1,800,000.

To Hike Enrollment

Presidents and representatives of the institutions said the new construction would let them increase enrollments. They now have a combined enrollment of about 11,000.

The board said the bonds would be dated Sept. 15 this year and interest would become due Dec. 15, and thereafter semi-annually until the final maturity date Dec. 15, 1957.

It directed a cash reserve of 10 per cent be set aside from proceeds of the bond issue. This would go into a fund to guarantee payment of the bonds.

Harrell said the sale will be only the first phase of a long range building program for the six schools. The amendment provides they will get the property tax for thirty years.

Another bond issue can be voted in about nine years. How much the regents can authorize will be determined by a formula taking into account property valuations, the tax rate, and enrollments.

Metropolitan Opera Plans Performance In Houston In '50

HOUSTON, July 9 (U.P.)—Dallas no longer has the exclusive right to the Texas appearance of the Metropolitan Opera company, and the organization's visit here next year may develop into an annual event, it was disclosed today.

Art Critic Hubert Roussel of the Houston Post noted that "the company's desire to place Houston on its regular spring tours was the immediate cause of the change," which involved dissolution of an agreement with the Dallas Grand Opera association.

Agreement Is Dissolved

Roussel reported the "exclusive" agreement was dissolved yesterday. Previously, the Met had been bound to give Texas performances in Dallas only, or with the sanction of the Dallas group.

The company will appear here next April under sponsorship of Mrs. Edna W. Saunders.

Roussel reported that Jesse H. Jones, newspaperman, financier and former U. S. Secretary of Commerce, was mainly responsible for breaking the Dallas monopoly.

The columnist stated that Jones "believes Houston should have the best offerings of the lyric theater," and noted that Jones "is a close friend of George A. Sloan," chairman of the Met's board of directors.

Shows Were Sell-Outs

The Metropolitan gave a performance here in the spring of 1947 for the first time in more than 40 years. The shows were complete sell-outs.

Roussel reasoned that if the Houston season is extended, "the time probably will be deducted from the company's Los Angeles runs, which have not met the expectations of its backers."

Civil Service Commission Says Federal Employment Increasing

WASHINGTON, July 9 (U.P.)—The Civil Service commission reported today that civilian employment in the executive branch of the federal government totaled 2,120,408 persons at the end of May. This was an increase of 9,017 over the preceding month.

The commission said that increases were recorded in the departments of Agriculture, Army, Post Office, Air Force, Interior and Commerce. But, it said, these increases were offset by decreases in the Navy and Treasury departments and the Maritime commission.

At the same time, the joint congressional committee on reduction of non-essential federal expenditures issued a similar report on government employment during May. The committee placed total employment at the end of the month at 2,120,019, an increase of 9,490 from April.

Committee chairman Harry F. Byrd, D., Va., said the total represented the highest number of employes on the government payroll during the past year.

U.S. Stages Japan Treasure Search To Recover War Loot

By ERNEST HOBERECHT
United Press Staff Writer

TOKYO, July 9 (U.P.)—One of the biggest treasure hunts the world has even known has been going on here since the end of the war.

This treasure hunt has been led by Brig. Gen. Patrick H. Tansey, whose job it is to locate all looted goods brought back to Japan by Japanese armed forces during their victorious days. Gen Tansey is Gen. Douglas MacArthur's civil property custodian.

For almost four years now, Gen. Tansey and his agents have been looking in museums, private homes, temples, public buildings and anywhere else they thought they might find things which had been brought to Japan from areas previously occupied by the once powerful imperial armies.

Claims Varied

At the same time, Tansey has been sorting the thousands of claims which have been received from Allied nations for all kinds of property.

It ranges from personal items such as watches, rings and books, to large scale industrial machinery, passenger and cargo vessels, gold, silver, diamonds, raw materials and cultural objects.

"During the time that the looted property program has been in operation," Tansey said in an interview, "we have taken into custody upwards of 8,000 industrial machines including two whole factories, approximately 700 vehicles, 17,000 tons of raw materials including such base metals as tin, lead and zinc, 10,000 tons of nickel and copper coins and thousands of books, paintings and other cultural objects.

"In addition, 82 Allied vessels have been located in Japanese waters. Thirty of these were found feasible of salvage, repair and refitting."

Gen. Tansey said property which has been reported by the Japanese government as looted but which cannot be identified as to ownership is being evaluated and sold as rapidly as circumstances permit.

"The proceeds derived from these sales are placed in a special fund which eventually will be divided among the seven nations whose territories were occupied by the Japanese," Tansey said. He identified the nations as China, The Netherlands, United Kingdom, Philippines, France, Australia and India.

Layette Party Is For Mrs. Guinn Johnson

In the home of Mrs. James Nislar, 2215 Twenty-ninth Saturday afternoon, a layette shower was given for Mrs. Guinn Johnson. Hostesses were Mesdames Nislar, Don Brooks, E. D. Brooks and P. W. Cummings.

The refreshment table was centered with a stork surrounded by sweetpeas. Mrs. Lucille Walker presided at the punch bowl and Mrs. Mack Johnson assisted with hospitalities.

About 35 persons called.

Waxahachie City Manager Will Get Similar Post At Longview

WAXAHACHIE, July 9 (U.P.) — G. O. Summers, city manager here since February, 1947, has been named city manager at Longview.

Summers, whose major accomplishment here was that of promoting a huge water and sewer development, will face a similar task when he assumes his duties in the Gregg county city.

American Legion To Strut Stuff At Philadelphia Fall Convention

By ROBERT CROMPTON
United Press Staff Correspondent

PHILADELPHIA, July 9. (U.P.)—Friendships made in training camps and on battlefields the world over will be renewed in Philadelphia this summer for thousands of veterans of both World Wars.

Complete with scores of bands, marching units and the "locomotives" of the 40 and 8 former doughboys and GI's will "take over" Philadelphia Aug. 29 for the 31st annual American Legion convention. They will represent more than 3,000,000 legionnaires from posts throughout the United States and its territories.

Philadelphia, scene only last year of both national political conventions, will take on a festive, party air for the big event. It will be the city's first national convention in 23 years.

More than 150,000 delegates and visitors from the Legion and allied groups are expected to pack central city hotels, restaurants and top amusement spots to capacity during the four-day get-together. Although World War II veterans far outnumber members of the first world conflict, the "old timers" are expected in great numbers.

Gayety Expected

The delegates will mix serious discussions and addresses by national figures with parades, contests, gay banter and triviality. The center of most activity will be the huge convention hall, where official affairs, such as electing officers, making new laws, and transaction of other business, will be carried on.

However, the convention will boil over into other Philadelphia landmarks, including the Bellevue-Stratford Hotel and Municipal Stadium, scene of the Legion's famous drum and bugle corps competition. The famous "overseas" cap of the Legion members will dot every downtown block.

From a Legion standpoint, the election of a new national commander probably is the high point of all the proceedings. Scores of committee meetings will precede the nominations.

But to parade-loving Philadelphians, the big miles-long parade of colorfully clad veterans through the heart of the city on Aug. 30 will climax the convention. The parade, which sometimes takes all day, will feature drum and bugle corps, marching units, color guards and floats of all types and sizes. Hundreds of thousands will line the streets.

40 and 8 To Be There

Going on at the same time in conjunction with the Legion convention will be the annual meetings of the fun-loving 40 and 8 and the ladies of the American Legion auxiliary, all of whom will join in the national proceedings.

Activities for convention visitors from seven to 70 are being prepared by the convention corporation, headed by Judge Vincent Carroll of Philadelphia.

For juniors—sons and daughters of legionnaires—the junior band contest and color guard and drum and bugle competitions will be a highlight. Other band, chorus and firing squad contests also are planned. A three-day golf tournament, and tours of historical spots and places of interest in the city also will occupy the legionnaires' spare time.

Propaganda Studies Are Pushed By Reds

MOSCOW, July 9 (AP)—"Pravda" said in a leading editorial that "a certain improvement" has been achieved this year in the political education of Party members and candidates.

"In the course of the gigantic work of directing socialist construction," said the paper, "the Party has succeeded in training hundreds of thousands of propagandists. It cannot, however, be said that all propagandists answer in their knowledge and experience to the high demands made on them.

"In some parts there are still traces of formalism and scholasticism in the organization of studies. Lively discussion is often replaced by the question-answer method."

"Pravada" said that in preparing for the new scholastic year main attention must be paid to improving further the propagandist personnel.

A fresh instance of the Party's concern for rising the level of the ideological, theoretical training and methodological knowledge of propagandists was the decision of the Central Committee of the Party to organize courses for the leaders of political schools and study circles on study of the biographies of Lenin and Stalin and the history of the Party.

Marshall Plan Egg Powder Is Blamed For Stomach Ailments

MOSCOW, July 9 (AP) — The Soviet medical paper "Medical Worker" claims that large numbers of Europeans are suffering from stomach ailments as a result of eating Marshall Plan egg powder.

"Medical Worker" claims that most American egg powder sent to Europe is infected with bacteria of the salmonella family, dangerous bacteria held responsible for epidemic meat poisoning and other serious diseases.

"Medical Worker" cited an essay by a German doctor which appeared in the American zone of Germany. The Soviet paper said the German doctor had been exceedingly careful not to draw any conclusions from his study, but that he had given the basic facts.

New Brain Operation Technique Will Cure Some Insanity Cases

ST. JOSEPH, Mo., July 9. (AP)—A new technique in brain operations may open asylum doors for a group of Missouri insane.

Dr. Walter Freeman, professor of Neuro-surgery at George Washington university, performed the operation on ten patients at State Hospital No. 2 here yesterday. The noted specialist completed the operations in three hours.

Some of the patients, he said, should be sufficiently improved to leave the hospital within a few days.

10 Minute Operation

The patients were selected in the basis of acute mental distress and voilent behavior. They were not told the nature of the treatment before hand, although next of kin had given consent to the operations.

Electro-shock treatments were administered before the patients were taken to the openating room, and no other anesthsia was used.

Dr. Freeman said each operation requires about 10 minutes. An incision is made by perforating the eye socket under the upper lid of each eye and the necessary nerves severed. No visible scar remains and the patient's vision is not affected, he said.

The Washington specialist has performed about 300 of the prefront lobotomy operations. He said about half of these patients have been cured and returned to their communities to live normal lives. He estimated that between 75 and 85 per cent of those not cured have been helped by the operation.

Within an hour after the operations the patients were able to sit up and bandages were removed. Dr. Freeman said they were in normal physical condition after the operations, but their mental condition could not be determined immediately.

Dr. Orr Mullinax, superintendent of the hospital, said the results would be studied carefully with a view toward undertaking greater use of the treatment.

Physicians from the state hospitals at Fulton and Nevada, and a number of St. Joseph medical men watched the operations.

Students' Griping Will Not Be Tolerated By New College

WISE, Va., July 9 (U.P.) — Students at the newly-chartered southwest Virginia College and Commercial School here will be expected to keep their grousing to themselves.

The charter for the school provides that "griping shall not be tolerated."

The ban on student complaints, the charter explains, is not aimed at imposing bondage upon the student body. The rule is intended "for expediency and to safeguard the college."

New York Experiment On Pigeon-Proofing Of Buildings Is Declared Great Success

ALBANY, N. Y., July 9. (U.P.)—New York State has pronounced its $43,500 pigeon-proofing experiment a thumping success.

It cost that much to bird-proof the massive state education building by a new electronics method but officials say the investment was well worth while. Pigeons and starlings have found new roosting places because of the recurring "hot foot" they get from the building.

The success of the experiment may lead to a similar one on the $25,000,000 state capitol and other public buildings which have had a pigeon problem for decades.

The bird-discouraging apparatus consists of heavy parallel copper wires, spaced a few inches apart and strung along projecting ledges and other likely roosting areas. The wires set up an electric field which gives approaching birds a dismaying jolt of static electricity.

Birds Not Harmed

The pulsating current comes from a small device about the size of a table radio. Six of them send the electricity through 35,000 feet of wire.

The birds are not harmed by the shock. After repeated jolts, however, they seek other roosting places. Pigeons are individualists, according to Albert L. Gunn of Syracuse, inventor of the device. They leave singly when they get a shock.

But, he says, starlings are more wary and when one gets a shock he takes as many as 50 other birds away with him.

Before the bird-proofing experiment began, Gunn estimates the starling population on the education building at 30,000 birds. They were so aggressive that they forced many pigeons to leave the building before the bird-proofing was completed.

Took A Long Time

The electronic system of driving birds away was the latest experiment in a series dating back a half-century. Earl efforts included shooting roman candles and skyrockets at the unwelcome birds.

Use of poisoned grain brought down the wrath of the humane society and stirred such a bitter debate in the legislature that the project was dropped.

A few years ago the state placed a system of wire spindles around all possible roosting places on the capitol but after a few confused days, the pigeons hopped over the spikes to a flat area and built their nests there.

Capitol superintendents once placed a pair of stuffed owls in the capitol courtyard. Within three days there were pigeons roosting on the owls' heads.

Connally Declares Atlantic Pact In Accordance With UN Charter

The North Atlantic pact is a "flaming sign" to any aggressor to stay out of the North Atlantic area, says Sen. Tom Connally (D) Tex., in the following exclusive article.

Connally adds that it is "unmistakable proof this time that free nations will stand together to resist armed attack from any quarter."

He says that after the treaty is ratified it should be augmented during the present session of Congress by an arms program.

By SEN. TOM CONNALLY
Written Expressly For INS.

WASHINGTON, July 9 — Let me emphasize at the outset that the North Atlantic treaty is a purely defensive pact. The twelve signatory nations undertake to exercise their inherent right of collective or individual self-defense against an armed attack as recognized by article 51 of the United Nations charter.

The treaty operates within the framework of the charter and is in accordance with it's provisions.

Since the outbreak of World War I we have learned that we cannot achieve peace by acting alone. The world has shrunk far too much for that. Distance has been annihilated and seas which were once moats are now ocean highways that no longer protect us from attack.

Not War Obligation

The United States has exerted every effort to make the United Nations function effectively. We hav thrown our energy and our rsources solidly back of the European recovery program. The Atlantic pact is still another indication of our determination to work constructively for world peace.

I am certain the American people know what the treaty does. We must be just as clear about what the treaty does not do. It is not an old-fashioned military alliance It does not involve any commitment to automatically go to war.

It does not run counter to our obligations under the charter. It is not directed against the Soviet Union nor its satellite states; it is directly only against aggression itself.

No American citizen need fear our laws against burglary unless he is a burglar or is getting ready to commit burglary. No state need fear this treaty unless it is planning an aggressive act or has aggressive designs in its heart.

Totaliturian and communistic powers have publicly announced their policy to be a conquest of the entire globe and its subjection to their way of life. Will free nations and free men blind their eyes to this hostile threat?

Will they close their ears to this brutal demand that they be doomed to slavery? Obviously not. We must take every step to preserve the institutions of our free governments from these sinister and ruthless forces.

Whenever freedom is destroyed, freedom is weakened in every country Whenever security is increased, the safety of every country is increased.

The unwillingness on the part of free nations to make known in advance their determination to oppose aggression was in large measure responsible for the two great wars of our time.

The North Atlantic treaty will do much to erase any possible doubt and uncertainty that may be lurking in the minds of potential aggressors.

We must provide unmistakable proof this time that the free nations will stand together to resist armed attack from any quarter.

The treaty is a flaming sign to any aggressor, to any nation that contemplates armed attack upon a peaceful and law-abiding nation —do not enter the North Atlantic area!

It is true that the treaty and the proposed military assistance program are closely related. But they are not Siamese twins; they are not inseparable. Each program should be passed upon separately by the Congress; each should be accepted or rejected on its own merits.

My own view is that we should proceed at the earliest practicable time to ratify the treaty and implement it by approving the military assistance program during the present session of the Congress.

Time is highly important and we must let our partners know as soon as we can that not only words but deeds are a part of our policy.

Herd Of Wild Deer Playing Havoc With Rare Plants Garden

GRAY, SUMMIT, Mo., July 9. (U.P.)—A herd of 35 deer have become the equal of the world's most discriminating eaters.

It has selected the experimental station here of Shaw's Garden of St. Louis as a commissary.

The wild herd thinks the prize magnolias, rhododendrons and, at times, rare orchids, are delicious.

The arboretum here is the main experimental farm of the famed Shaw's Garden, second only to Kek Gardens in London.

The gardners have done everything the State Conservation Commission instructed, but to no avail. The herd leaps 10-foot-high fences, goes calamitously through all sorts of scientific repellents and then grazes in delight on the rare flora.

The gardners explain that it's partly a matter of the blowing wind.

If the wind pushes toward the herd on the 1,700-acre garden tract, the animals won't appear.

On days when the wind blows toward the main buildings of the arboretum the herd, protected by law most of the year, moves in, supposedly because they have no scent of man.

The men who pollinate and cross-pollinate and work by day and night to nurse a rare, unmoached bloom into the world have acquired, at least, elementary knowledge of the deer through the havoc animals cause.

One gardner looked up a book the other day and hurried to his harried fellow workers. He learned this:

"Old does usually will have twins, and if they are well fed (as who wouldn't be on world-rare rhododendrons?) they will produce triplets."

Negro University To Receive Part Of Stieglitz Art Works

NASHVILLE, Tenn., July 9. (U.P.)—Fisk University here will receive more than 80 works of modern art from the collection of the late Alfred Stieglitz of New York.

In the collection will be representative works of Paul Cezanne, Pablo Picasso, Diego Rivera, and George O'Keeffe. Fisk received the bequest by the decision of Stieglitz's widow, Georgia O'Keeffe.

Five other institutions, including the Museum of Modern Art in New York and the Chicago Art League, also figure in the collection bequest.

Fisk is one of the best-known Negro universities in the United States.

Convict Sign Makers Foul Up City's Street-Marking System

WOONSOCKET, R. I., July 9. (U.P.)—For years residents and visitors alike moaned about Woonsocket's lack of street signs.

A project was developed to remedy the defect. Signs galore were made. But it just brought double trouble because signs were printed for streets that exist only on old city maps and the names of several legitimate streets were spelled incorrectly.

The signs were made by convicts at the state prison.

Two Convicts Admit Leaving Prison For Weekend Jaunts

MICHIGAN CITY, Ind., July 9 (U.P.)—Two convicts admitted today that as trusties they:

1. Left the state prison here frequently.
2. Held up a Montgomery Ward store last Dec. 9 of $4,145.
3. Used part of the loot to buy a convertible which they parked in the prison parking lot.
4. Used the convertible for weekend jaunts to Chicago, Gary and South Bend with a local married woman whom they named as an accomplice in the holdups.

Caught Leaving Grounds

The convicts, Walter Gump, 27, of Munice, Ind., and Leo F. Stumbaugh, 31, of El Paso, Ill., were being questioned in connection with other recent northern Indiana holdups.

Their spree ended last Dec. 31 when prison officials caught them leaving the grounds. They have been in solitary confinement ever since.

Gump, serving a 10 to 25 year term for armed robbery, and Stumbaugh, sentenced to 15 years for auto theft, had been assigned to the prison kitchen where meals were prepared for guards.

Since the kitchen is outside the walls, the men said they found it simple to leave for an evening. They said they did it "dozens of times."

Police Chief Roscoe Stephenson said the woman, who was not identified, apparently "cased" the department store for their holdup.

The pair divided the loot at their girl friend's house, then returned to prison before the 9 p. m. curfew.

While Gump and Stumbaugh were "hiding out" in prison, police vainly attempted to locate the robbers.

After prison officials learned of the trusties' frequent jaunts, they questioned them for weeks about the robbery until they finally confessed.

The woman, the mother of several children, often stayed in hotels with the men, Stephenson said.

Red Paper Charges U. S. Arms Are To Be Shipped To Denmark

MOSCOW, July 9. (AP)—"Izvestia" headlined a Tass dispatch from Copenhagen "Supplies of American Arms to Denmark."

The dispatch said: "The military and naval attaches of Denmark in Washington have arrived in Copenhagen.

"According to information in the paper "Berlingske Tidende," their arrival is connected with negotiations for supplies of American arms in Denmark."

Line Walker For Power Firm Battles Bulls, Rattlesnakes

HUTCHINSON, Kan., July 9 (U.P.)—One way to hold off a mad bull is to grad the ring in his nose and yank it. His nose will bleed and confuse him long enough to allow the holder to turn loose and run.

At least, George Roberson says it works. He has had several occasions to do it while walking 100,000 miles in 20 years as a Kansas Power & Light Co. line walker.

Roberson has a plan for outwitting rattlesnakes, too. He allows the snake to strike the sole of his heavy boots.

"That makes him cover his head in pain," Roberson said. "Then I cut him in half with a knife."

The American flag should be placed in or near the polling places on every election day.

Landlady's Action Is Declared Illegal

Girl Behind In Rent Will Get Wardrobe Returned

DALLAS, July 9 (U.P.) — An 18-year-old French girl who's been doubling as carhop and baby-sitter was entitled today to retrieve her wardrobe from a landlady who left her homeless with only a shirt, shorts and sandals to wear.

"I was $17 behind in my rent, and my landlady said I couldn't get back in or get my clothes until I paid," complained Marria Watson, the pretty, blue-eyed bride from New Orleans.

Action Illegal

On hearing of his wife's predicament, Army Pvt. Harry M. Watson commented, "it's a dirty trick. If she gets her clothes, she'll make out okay."

Watson was in the guardhouse at the Waco Air Force base awaiting a courtmartial decision on AWOL charges.

Justice of the Peace Pierce McBride late yesterday advised Marriar's landlady that it is illegal under Texas laws for a landlord, except hotel operators, to hold a tenant's clothing for non-payment of rent.

"I can get a place to stay. I don't need sympathy," the girl told McBride. "I just want my clothes to hide my nakedness."

She was a victim of rent decontrol here.

Until rent ceilings were lifted last month, she earned her rent by taking care of the landlady's two children.

But when the rent lid went off, her rent became, first $7 weekly, then $10 — in addition to her baby-sitting duties.

Her landlady padlocked her room when Marria went out to a neighborhood grocery.

She came to Dallas from New Orleans two months ago.

American Technicians To Help Expand Greek Communications

ATHENS, July 9 (AP)—The ECA will help the Greek government put the country's tele-communication system on a sound technical and financial basis. The project was arranged at the request of the Greek government.

Six American technicians from the International Telephone and Telegraph Co. will give technical assistance. They will study the present system and will help a ten-year plan for its expansion and improvement.

Education Group Names Officers

BOSTON, July 9 (U.P.)—Dr. Andrew D. Holt, 44, of Nashville, Tenn., took over today as the new president of the National Education association.

Executive secretary of the Tennessee Education association for 12 years, Dr. Holt was named to the national post before the NEA ended its 87th annual meeting here last night. He will head 825,000 teachers throughout the United States for one year.

Holds Master's Degree

Holt, a graduate of Emory university at Atlanta, Ga., received his master's degree and doctor's degree at Columbia university's teachers' college in New York.

Miss Corma Mowrey of Charleston, W. Va., director of professional relations for the West Virginia State Education association, was elected first vice president.

Named to an executive committee which will serve for two years were Miss Margaret Boyd of Stuebenville, O., and Robert C. Gillingham of Compton, Calif.

Reds Are Assailed

Earlier in the day, the educators passed almost unanimously a resolution outlawing Communists from teaching in the nation's classrooms.

Other resolutions accepted on the final day of the week-long convention included one that specified federal aid to education should be given without government control and another that suggested "selective" recruitment of teachers to cope with the growing number of school age children.

New Appeal System For Japanese Reduces Threat To Future Peace

By EARNEST HOBERECHT
United Press Staff Writer

TOKYO, July 9—An American occupation official has advanced the idea that it is a healthy sign when "purged" Japanese leaders appeal their cases.

It reduces the danger of their becoming martyrs and leading a rebirth of militarism once the Allied troops are out of Japan, he believes.

He thinks many persons have not understood this angle of the complicated "purge" question.

Another high official here said there actually is more to be feared from those "purgees" who sit back and do not appeal.

Major J. P. Napier, chief of the public administration division of Gen. MacArthur's government section, said occupation officials welcome appeals from "purged" Japanese.

Japanese Decide

He pointed out that the appeals are not made to Allied officials but go direct to a Japanese body which passes on them.

He said it is felt that those former leaders and business men who can prove they were purged without cause should be cleared.

Additionally, he said, officials fear that if the "purged" Japanese just withdraw from public life, they might be in a position to set themselves as martyrs to the occupation and might think they can head up a militaristic Japan once more when the peace treaty is concluded and the allied armed forces withdraw.

By appealing, Maj. Napier said, the Japanese have their cases judged on merit by other Japanese and the whole blame then cannot fall on the occupation. The process is closely watched by Americans. Gen. MacArthur has the right to reverse any decisions.

Suspicion Aroused

It is known that occupation officials are sometimes suspicious of the purged Japanese leaders who are not appealing but are taking their professional banishment in silence. It is believed that some of these "purgees" might be sitting back and hoping to become martyrs. There is a fear that such men might try to stage a comeback after the occupation ends and might try to head up a new nationalistic government.

There is a feeling in some occupation quarters that the appeals machinery reduces this danger.

Only a few of the thousands who were purged have been cleared. However, occupation officials point out, the mere fact that they have appealed is a sign that they are not hiding out and waiting for another chance.

Rabbit In Switzerland Causes Trouble For Austrian Finance

VIENNA, July 9. (AP)—"Maxi" the rabbit is the cause of many furrowed brows in the Austrian Ministry of Finance.

Maxi is in Switzerland. That is just as well. His life expectancy would not be very high if local officials could get their hands on his furry little neck. Maxi was the property of a Swiss lady who died not long ago. In her will, she left 10,000 Swiss Francs to her Austrian relatives, with the strict proviso that each month they send 100 Swiss Francs back to a family in Switzerland which is taking care of Maxi.

So, every month for the next eight or 10 years, the local beneficiaries will ask the Ministry of Finance for official permission to send 100 Swiss Francs back to Switzerland. In this country of strict currency regulations that is the rough equivalent of an American Communist asking permission to send a sample atom bomb to friends in Russia.

Social Apathy Outlook For Party Goers

Capital Champagne Circuit Loses Champion Hostess

By MARTHA KEARNEY
INS Staff Corresoondent

WASHINGTON, July 9.—A local depression, or possibly just social apathy, seems to have belted the campaign and caviar circuit right out of business in Washington.

At least, and for the first time anyone can remember, there are absolutely no contenders for the now-vacant title of number one Washington hostess.

Astute Perle Mesta, of course, has been the champ for the past three-and-a-half years. Before that flamboyant, unpredictable Evalyn Walsh McLean held the title for many years.

Parties Hit Headlines

Neither gave the most exclusive or the most social parties in the capital by a long chalk.

But both had the money, political connections and savvy to give the kind of parties that hit the headlines and kept the most important figures in the government gasping hopefully for invitations.

It looks very much now as though the new social season will have to get along without any such personality.

Mrs. Mesta captured the title of number one hostess of the Truman administration when she ingratiated herself with the then-vice president's family.

Successor Mentioned

Mrs. McLean's death soon afterward left her with no competitors.

The Oklahoma-born oil heiress, however, is packing now to sail to Luxembourg.

And there is no mad scramble of would-be hostesses to take over her guest list.

Of the "possibles", Hungarian-born Mrs. Morris Cafritz would appear to be the likeliest understudy for Mrs. Mesta's star social role.

But Washington doubts very much that the dark-haired, dark-eyed wife of a wealthy capital real estate man can make the grade.

Other Candidates Unlikely

Gwendolyn Cafritz has long maintained an elaborate capital residence and entertained lavishly. Her expansive wardrobe, simply bulging with exclusive Parisian models, has made her about the best dressed woman in Washington.

But still she is considered out of the money as a successor to the hostess who has abdicated to become the first woman minister of the United States to Luxembourg.

There are two or three capital hostesses whose parties are social rather than spectacular and whose invitations are about the most important in Washington.

None of these, however, is expected to be interested in the sort of social-political entertainment which made Mrs. McLean and Mrs. Mesta famous.

In fact, it looks very much as though the capital is settling down to its pre-war conservative social pace with quality far outweighing quantity as a guest-list consideration in entertaining.

The going may be hard for professional party-goers this winter.

Photographer Finally Sells Song After 15-Year Delay

CINCINNATI, July 9 (AP)—For 15 years, Harry Carlson took photographs—with a dream in his heart, and a song in his trunk. The MGM recording company bought the tune, "I Thought I Was Dreaming," after listening to an arrangement by Francis Craig, a renowned songster himself.

Carlson, a successful portrait photographer, said the tune and words for the song came to him 15 years ago while he was sleeping. Craig, then a rising young orchestra leader, and writer of many song hits—among them "Near You"—introduced it at the time on a radio "Hits of Tomorrow" program.

Not more than 150 copies of the song were sold. It went into the trunk. There it stayed until Carlson went to Nashville, Tenn., a few months ago to visit his old friend, Craig.

Craig said the current musical trend was for "sweet music," and he decided to dust off Carlson's dream. The sale to the recording company followed. The photographer-songwriter is not closing up his studio, but he is digging down into that old trunk again. "Why, through the years, as a hobby, I have picked out about 50 songs, with words and music," Carlson said.

Six-Ship Navy Is Seeking Sardines

LA JOLLA, July 9 (AP) — A small fish, no longer than 10 inches, has a six-ship navy stalking him along the Pacific coast.

He's the Pacific sardine. In company with the billions of his fellow sardines that were teeming in California waters only a short while ago he represents a $65,000,000 industry.

Sardine schools have begun to dwindle alarmingly in California waters. The catch has dropped from a former high of 800,000 tons annually to less than 150,000 tons, representing a $30,000,000 loss to the California fishing industry.

In order to determine why the sardines left and where they went a combined fleet of six ships from the University of California Scripps Institution of Oceanography, the State Fish and Game Division, and the U. S. Fish and Wildlife Service has launched the greatest oceanographic survey in history.

According to Dr. Roger Reveile, associate director of the Scripps Institution, this massive operation is reaching 500 miles to sea and from Oregon to Lower California. Involving many phases of Science — oceanography, meteorology, zoology, botany, and chemistry—the research is financed by a $700,000 grant from the California Legislature and a tax of 50 cents a ton on all sardines caught in California waters.

Russian Education Report Is Issued By Trade Union Paper

MOSCOW, July 9. (AP)—"Trud" has issued some up to date figures on Soviet education. According to the trade union paper: There are more than 220,000 general education schools and technical schools in the country. Upwards of 34,500,000 persons are being educated in the nation's schools.

In the towns and workers' settlements compulsory seven-year education has in the main been introduced.

During recent years, according to the paper, over 90 percent of pupils leaving primary schools have been going on to seven year full secondary schools.

GOSSIP

Dear Buck,

I promised you a surprise, well here it is. We have decided to have an open house at the Larrymore Dance Studio, so our X students and any one that is interested can see the improvement.

The date for the open house is next Sunday, July 17th. That is the day Rozanas, the famous acrobatic teacher will come in.

He starts his course the next day, and did you know he is bringing two Champions here with him? They will be demonstrators and they will likely give a demonstration when they first arrive.

I'll write you more about that next week, and will give you more details on the open house.

Love,
Wing.

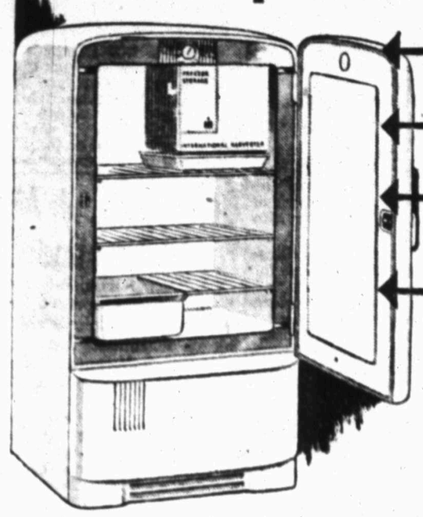

P.S. I'll be seeing you at the open house at . . .

By LEO TURNER
United Press Staff Writer

NEW YORK, July 9. (U.P.) — A prince has to work hard these days.

Prince Francis Joseph N. Windisch-Graetz of Austria is related to most of the royal families of Europe.

Making both ends meet is "hellishly complicated," he said.

The prince is a tall, thin, erect man with a trace of gray in his thin hair which he wears slicked down against his head. He lives with his wife in a five-room apartment in the mid-50's on Manhattan's East Side.

"It seems cramped," he said. "My family had nine castles in Europe before the first World War. The one where we spent most of our time had more than 20 rooms. The great hall where we spent most of our time was 27 feet tall, 60 feet long and 40 feet wide."

Not Enough Space

The prince sat on a straight chair with an elbow on its back and his face resting against his knuckles.

"We've tried to create the illusion of spaciousness here," he said.

To achieve that impression, he had yanked out the English-type fireplace, which was tall and bulky, and replaced it with a small one of French design. The draperies extended to the ceiling to give the impression of height. There were few pictures and the wall decorations were small, which also gave an illusion of roominess. The wall and furniture were solid colors.

"The capitalistic system is wealth without responsibility," he said. "We lived in the tradition of the feudal system wherein the landowner assumed a responsibility toward the people. Our family was large. With the servants, stableboys and other workers, 70 people ate in the castle.

"In addition, there were always 40 meals prepared for the poor, the passersby, the aged and the idiots of the area who had no other place to eat. We gave away 5,000 gallons of milk a year to the needy."

The prince, who wore a striped oxford gray suit, pin striped shirt and a black tie with a neat, thin stripe, said he was unable to bring any money with him when he came to America in 1939 because it was the custom of the landowner to re-invest all profits into his holdings. He wore one piece of jewelry, a steel ring with the family crest, a wolf head beneath a crown.

He is a contact man for one of the world's largest diamond dealers, runs a struggling export company and now is trying to sell his watercolors.

Finding customers for diamonds is hard these days, he said.

Calls Business Bad

"The export business is very bad because you have to furnish both the money and the material," he said. "I work with the Marshall Plan and other reconstruction loan agencies."

He has designed fabrics, illustrated books and drawn maps for the Office of Strategic Services.

His hobby has been water-colors. A military man in his own country — captain in the Windisch-Graetz Dragoons — his paintings are chiefly military formations and scenes from European aristocracy.

His scheme now is to try to interest reserve units and other military organizations in buying prints of his paintings of their formations.

"You have to sell at least 10,000 of each one at $1 each to pay for the plates and the work. That's a lot," he said.

Bolivians Seek Aid For Ill Tin Miners

LA PAZ, Bolivia, July 9 (AP) — Bolivia's social workers and the federal health ministry are working to rehabilitate thousands of tin miners suffering from "mal de minas". The disease is a form of silicosis.

Bolivia's labor laws provide cash indemnity for the afflicted miners. But the money soon burns through the pockets of Indian homespuns. Few miners put anything aside for the rainy day and many look forward to the day they can quit with "mal de minas" and an indemnity ranging from 5,000 to 50,000 Bolivianos ($50 to $500) in their pocket. Mine sickness takes few lives.

Most of the mines have dust respirators for the miners. However, mining tin two miles or more above sea level calls for all the oxygen they can get. Many respirators are tossed aside.

Indian Jose with his indemnity in his pocket is among the "new rich" in the mine fields. But within two or three months his pockets are empty.

The ex-miners return to the farms where they scratch out an existence with crude farm implements or migrate to the cities where, if their lungs are not too badly damaged, they become transportation or factory workers. Others become public charges or burdens for their families.

Two Young Brothers Are Held In Fatal Shooting Of Sister-In-Law

COLUMBUS, O., July 9 (U.P.) — Two young brothers were held today in connection with the fatal shooting of their sister-in-law and police said they admitted firing random shots into the farmhouse where Mrs. Alma Arledge was found slain.

The youths, Dorsel Arledge, 14, and his brother, Harold, 11, led police to an open field where they had thrown an old hunting rifle and a double-barrelled shotgun.

Changed Their Stories

However, they steadfastly refused to admit that athey actually shot Mrs. Arledge. Police said the boys repeatedly changed their stories as to the number of shots fired into the house.

Sheriff Ralph J. Paul said "there is no question about who killed Mrs. Arledge. It's only a matter of getting all the true facts."

Capt. Hugh Leggett, chief investigator for the Franklin county sheriff's office, said Harold Arledge admitted firing one shot accidentally into the house and Dorsel admitted firing two.

The boys gave no reason for the shooting, but neighbors told police they had heard the youths arguing with Mrs. Arledge about weeding and hoeing the garden a few hours previous to the shooting.

Plainview Lions Club Installs New Officers

PLAINVIEW, July 9 (Special) —Dexy Sudduth, owner of a Plainview printing establishment, was inducted as president of the Plainview Lions club in ceremonies Wednesday at the Hilton hotel.

Chas. H. Dean, Plainview attorney and former district governor of district 2-T, was inducting officer. Dean stressed the importance of each officer carrying out the principles of Lionism embodied in the word "service" during his tenure of office.

Other officers and directors taking office were: Lee Nowlin, first vice president; Frank Blocksom, second vice president; C. P. Elliott, third vice president; Jim Ed Waller, secretary; John Allridge, Lion tamer; Gene Mitchell, tail twister; and Bill Harpole, Ray Wester and Jimmie Sherman, directors.

Strange City Hall Clock Keeps Wrong-Way Time For St. Louis

ST. LOUIS, July 9. (U.P.)—The big clock atop the city hall kept a straight face while it ran backward.

Pedestrians noted at 8:15 a. m. that the clock read 6:50 and at 8:25, the hands indicated 6:40.

Electricians concluded that the power had gone off during the night because all the clocks in the building recorded different times. The big clock out front, they said, "must have been contrary and reversed itself."

ODD NAME HITS TWICE

DETROIT (U.P.)—Gaspar Cucinella sounds like an unusual name. Police learned they had been issuing traffic tickets to one Gaspar Cucilella when they should have gone to a second man with the same name. Trouble began when the second one applied for a driver's license. The state told him he had one and sent him a duplicate of the license of the first Gaspar.

Boy's Carving On Fence Leads To Arrest Of Hit-Run Driver

LEWISTOWN, Pa., July 9. (U.P.) The curiosity of a 15-year-old boy who carved an automobile license on a fence is credited by police for the arrest of a hit-run driver.

The boy idly carved the number of a damaged car he saw parked on a street. He reported it to police the next day when he read an appeal for whereabouts of the driver.

Using the tip, State Trooper J. S. Valent arrested Russell W. Pecht, unemployed silk mill worker. Pecht admitted driving the car which sideswiped another operated by Miss Anne Morgan.

Chemist Is Given Awards For Investigations Of Explosions

PITTSBURGH, July 9. (U.P.) — George W. Jones has an "explosive" career which has kept him busy for the past 34 years.

A supervising chemist of the gaseous explosions division of the U. S. Bureau of Mines, Jones has investigated more than 30 major surface explosions. Among his biggest tasks were the Texas City disaster and the Empire State plane crash. The Department of Interior has awarded him its distinguished service award and gold medal.

Italy's cheese exports are gaining.

DOCTOR WINNING OUT

ROCHESTER, Minn. (U.P.)—A man who spent the best part of his life helping people overcome tuberculosis now is winning a personal fight with the disease. Dr. William H. Feldman of the Mayo Clinic has been in a sanatorium at Albuquerque, N. M., since before last Christmas. Latest word says he is improving and his condition is considered good.

Farmers To Get Aid For Better Homes Under Housing Program

By JAMES MARLOW
Associated Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, July 9—Farmers who need money help in getting better homes or even a little more land can obtain it—if they're approved — through the government's new housing program.

No one, though, can get any of the help unless he can't raise the money in any other way, such as a bank loan.

The program will give two kinds of help: loans, which have to be paid back within 33 years at 4 per cent interest; and grants, which are outright gifts of government money.

Four-Year Program

The grants can't total more than $25,000,000. The loans won't exceed $250,000,000. Since the program is to run for only four years, all the loans and grants have to be arranged for within these next four years.

The program does not set a limit on how much any one farmer can receive. The government will have to decide that in each individual case, based on the individual's ability to pay back.

This is the thinking behind the program, as outlined by the congressmen who approved it:

Nearly one-third of farm families don't receive sufficient income from farming to pay for needed improvements to their houses and other buildings necessary to make their farming successful.

Provisions Explained

This is a brief explanation of who can get the government help, and for what, provided, as mentioned above, he can't get the help from any private source, like a bank:

1. A loan to build or repair a house or barn. If you're one of those able to make a living off your farm, you'll have to pay back on the interest and principal every year for 33 years.

2. If you're a farmer whose farm is not big enough to support you and your family, you can get a loan to buy more land and, if you need to build or repair a house or barn, you can get a loan for that, too.

In the case of No. 2—because this farmer has tougher going than the farmer in No. 1—the government will let you skip the interest and one-half the principal for the first five of the 33 years in which you have to pay back.

3. The government will give grants, or outright money gifts, to help poor farmers in emergency situations. This money is not for any new building but for necessary repairs, such as roofing to keep out the rain, screens to keep out flies, and so on.

No. 3 is intended only for farmers in a bad fix, with the idea that needed repairs will give them some kind of livable homes until they're able to find better ones.

If all this means you, you start by filing an application with the nearest county supervisor—a government agent—who is employed by the federal farmers home administration (FHA).

The FHA has an office, meaning a supervisor, in 1,500 of the nation's 3,000 counties. The offices usually are at a county seat.

Committee To Decide

Then the supervisor turns the application over to a local committee of farmers, usually three men. There's such a commitee, which does work for the FHA, in every county.

This committee will examine the application and decide whether you really need the kind of help you're asking for under the new program.

If it finds you do, and that you can't get help from private sources, it can recommend to the FHA that you get the help. FHA must follow the committee's recommendations.

(The FHA runs the farmers' part of the new housing program. The Public Housing administration will handle the slum-clearances and public housing part of it.)

Note this: Congress has approved the program outlined here, and how much money should be spent. It has not yet voted the money for it. That comes later.

8-Year-Old Youth Wounded In Game Of Cowboys And Indians

HOUSTON, July 9. (AP) — Four little boys playing cowboys and Indians got too realistic.

They used real guns, and Billy Zimmerman, 8, was seriously wounded yesterday. A .45 caliber pistol bullet ripped through the child's left arm and penetrated his right side.

Deputy Sheriff W. E. Isbell said Billy and his brother, John, 7, and two friends were using the .45, a 12-gauge shotgun, two .22 caliber rifles, and a .38-.56 caliber rifle.

Only the revolver was loaded, the deputy said.

The boy who had been playing with the revolver said he unloaded it when the game started and reloaded it when he thought the game was over.

He forgot it was loaded when the boys started playing again.

The first people to devote themselves chiefly to commerce were the Phoenicians, who developed their fishing boats into a commercial fleet.

Domestic Oil Producers Urging Import Control On Foreign Oil

By MAX SKELTON
Associated Press Staff Writer

HOUSTON, July 9.—Domestic crude production took another tumble last week and the cry against foreign oil imports grew louder.

Demands for import control echoed from domestic industry spokesmen and in Congress.

There was not much hope for immediate action — even though American Petroleum institute reported domestic production dropping to a daily average of 4,819,950 barrels daily, lowest since March 1, 1947.

Quota System Asked

There was one note of optimism. The Bureau of Mines reported that April's crude imports from the Middle East—object of most anti-imports attacks—dropped 335,000 barrels below March.

The Middle East decline, however, was wiped out by increases from Venezuela.

Rep. Charles W. Vursell (R-Ill) lashed out at crude imports in a House speech. He called for immediate limitation of imports through a quota system to be made part of the Reciprocal Trade Agreements act.

Senator Elmer Thomas (D-Okla.) has such an amendment pending in a Senate committee. It would limit imports to 5 percent of domestic demand. Washington sources, however, say there is little chance the amendment will carry this year.

Vursell told his House colleagues evidence is visible that foreign oil entering the United States is "inflicting grave injury on the industry upon which we have relied in peace and war."

Mexico Asks Aid

Chairman Wright Patman (D-Tex) of the House small business committee wrote nine major oil companies and asked 36 specific questions about their past, current and future imports.

He plans to incorporate the replies in the committee's report later this month.

The Bureau of Mines report placed April Middle East imports at 2,596,000 barrels, compared to 2,921,000 in March.

Mexico's request for $300,000,000 in American aid for oil development soon may receive a reply.

Secretary of State Dean Acheson this week said it may be possible to release a policy statement on the matter within a short while.

The department has at least one recommendation that it reject Mexico's request.

It is from Max W. Ball, former director of the oil and gas division of the Department of Interior.

Loan Opposed

Ball has advised the state department's petroleum division the loan would be a poor risk unless Mexico throws the program open to competition development.

He said the loan might become a "disservice to both countries."

Directors of the American Association of Oil Well Drilling Contractors this week voice opposition to the loan.

They asked the National Petroleum council to oppose the proposal.

Joseph Morris, San Antonio, president of the association, said Mexico's governmental control of oil resources is not in line with American free enterprise.

LUBBOCK'S "EARLY BIRD" MARINE ENLISTEE . . . Albert R. Butler, 17, (right), is shown signing a contract of service with the U. S. Marines on July 1 in Dallas recruiting headquarters, supervised by Texan Staff Sergeant Eddins O. Hilliard. Occasion of the enlistment procedure was re-opening of Marine "recruit" quotas to embrace men 17-28 years, closed since March 2. Shortly after the picture was taken, Butler was sworn in as a private and that night was on his way to San Diego, Calif., with a group of other Texans about to enter Marine "on-the-job" initial training. (Official U. S. Marine Corps Photograph).

Lubbock Youth Is First To Enlist In New Recruiting Drive Conducted By Marines

DALLAS, July 9 — Albert Reford Butler, 17, son of W. Z. Butler, 3520 Avenue Q, Lubbock, this week is being taken through initial paces of Marine Corps training.

This instruction is given at the San Diego, Calif., Marine recruit depot. And the instruction is traditionally the same that has produced proud, loyal Leathernecks down throught the years.

This is the military's "on-the-job" training that in Butler's case will lead to the khaki, green and dress blue uniforms of the Marines. His enlistment was made possible July 1 by reopening of Marine quotas for recruits that day.

Since March 2, Dallas Marine recruiters were prohibited by existing regulations from taking what they called "recruit enlistments." Only 18-year-old recruits could be taken during the past three months. But with the deadlock broken, men can now enlist within the age bracket of 17-28 years inclusive.

Thanks to Marine Master Sergeant M. L. Ailes, Lubbock recruiter, Butler was sent to Dallas for final examinations in good enough time that he was ready and waiting to go on the Marine payroll as a private bright and early July 1.

When Dallas Marines opened their office doors July 1, Butler was ready to be sworn in. By that night, he was on his way with a group of other Texans—sworn in that same day at Dallas in a joint ceremony—to the California training site.

Only state flag bearing a coat of arms is the flag of Maryland, which bears the Calvert arms.

Proprietor Of Hope Diamond Scorns Jinx

JOHNSTOWN, Pa., (U.P.) — Jules A. Kamsly, part-owner of the fabulous Hope diamond, scorns all talk of curses and jinxes, but he's shy of a camera.

When he visited here, he turned down all offers to be photographed, saying that his picture had never appeared in a newspaper. He explained it this way:

"I am as vain as the next fellow—but if I were killed in the next few weeks, Lloyds of London would attribute my death, at least indirectly, to publication of my picture." The British insurance firm is betting $1,000,000 that Kamsly will not be killed. The diamond tycoon packed a load of $250,000 worth of diamonds when he made his local visit.

Kamsly explained how his firm managed to buy the famed jewel collection of the late Evelyn Walsh McLean, which contained the 100-carat Star of the East, the 44½-carat Hope diamond and assorted smaller stones. He said his firm, which is headed by his partner Harry Winston, was the only corporation willing to buy the entire $1,250,000 collection.

105-Year-Old Melodrama Given New Angle By Showboat Players

STEUBENVILLE, O., July 9. (U.P.)—This city was treated to a showboat performance of "The Drunkard," a 105-year-old melodrama intended to dramatize the evils of demon rum.

The aggressive morality play was put on by Hiram (Ohio) College students on the stage of the Majestic showboat.

The up-to-date treatment of this ancient epic includes lampooning the sentiment and phathos which brought tears to yesteryears' theater goers.

Ordnance Plant Gate "Crashed" By Auto Of Snoozing Soldier

CHAMPERSBURG, Pa., July 9. (U.P.)—Pvt. Hubert Smith wanted to sleep so badly he couldn't wait another 30 seconds as he approached the main gate of the Letterkenny ordnance depot where he is stationed.

As the 21-year-old soldier fell asleep, the automobile he was driving crashed into a guard railing.

Ex-Servicemen Find Business World Is Tough On Beginners

PITTSBURGH, July 9. (U.P.)—Hundreds of ex-servicemen set up in business here by government loans are learning that being your own boss isn't what it's cracked up to be.

The fatality rate is one out of ten, with trucking businesses accounting for the greatest number of failures. Among the most successful are motor vehicle service stations and grocery stores.

The government has underwritten 2,539 loans in the 31-county Pittsburgh district for ex-GI's who wanted to set up their own businesses. Failures have totaled 148 and an additional 101 are about ready to close up.

Veterans in this district have obtained $10,000,000 in business loans and failures have cost the government $128,000 to date, according to Edmond C. Campana, loan guarantee officer of the local Veterans Administration office.

Development Of Two Discoveries In South Sector Of Gaines County Features Oil Activity On South Plains Last Week

With the development of two discoveries and the staking of a deep wildcat, the south sector of Gaines county drew the majority of attention on the South Plains oil front over the past week. Borden county, with due activity following an Ellenburger strike, was not far behind.

In Southwest Gaines county, about 12 miles southeast of Seminole, Ralph Lowe was making production tests of his No. 1 Cunningham-Shell, discovery from a formation thought to be either Wolfcamp-Permian or Pennsylvanian.

The venture has plugged back from 11,881 feet in the Ellenburger, which made salt water, and perforated at 8,850-8,950 feet in the oil bearing lime formation.

Well Kicks Off

After washing the perforations with 500 gallons of mud acid, the well kicked off and flowed five hours through open two-inch tubing, making 172 barrels of oil cut from 12 to 20 per cent fresh water.

Changing to a 3/4-inch choke, the developed flowed steadily for 14 hours, averaging 27.5 barrels of oil per hour. Shakeout was 25 per cent fresh water.

No water developed from the current formation when drilling through, although a water zone was present about 30 feet below the present perforations. It is supposedly cemented off.

Operator is to continue flowing the well to test and try to locate the origin of the water.

Location is 660 feet from south and east lines of the northwest quarter of section 4, block A-24, psl survey.

Lowe has staked a south offset to this strike as his No. 1 Cunningham-Stanolind, projected to at least 9,000 feet to test the formation making oil in the discovery.

The drillsite is 1,980 feet from south and west lines of section 4, block A-24, psl survey. It is on a farmout from Stanolind Oil & Gas company.

Equipment Moved In

The derrick was up on last report, and equipment was being moved in for spudding.

The other Gaines county discovery is for the first completed producer from the Clear Fork section of the Permian in the Flanagan area in the south-central part of the county, where pay was orignally from the Ellenburger.

It is George P. Livermore, Inc., No. 1 Joe Head, exploration 4,000 feet south of the Ellenburger pay opener and 631 feet from north, 620 feet from west lines of section 12, block A-23, psl survey.

The venture drilled to 10,530 feet, encountered water in the Devonian and plugged back to 7,241 feet to complete from the Clear Fork through casing perforations.

It flowed 24 hours through a 16/64-inch choke to make a potential guage of 157.36 barrels of oil, with no water. Tubing pressure was 40 pounds and casing pressure zero. Other details of the test have not been reported.

Offsetting this development, Livermore staked his No. 2 Joe Head 660 feet from noth and east lines of the northwest quarter of section 12, block A-23, psl survey.

It is to be a 7,500-foot, rotary tool exploration to the Clear Fork, starting immediately.

Pumps Is Installed

A pump has been installed to attempt completion from the Flanagan-Clear Fork at Shell Oil company, Inc., No. 2 Hawkins, one-half mile south of the Ellenburger discovery.

From the open hole at 7,128-7,260 feet, it pumped 117 barrels of fluid in the last 16 hours reported. Shakeout was 14 per cent water and 18 per cent basic sediment. Testing was continuing.

This prospect is 660 feet from south and east lines of section 8, block A-23, psl survey.

Also to try for Clear Fork production in the area, Shell No. 3 Hawkins, 560 feet from east and 1,980 feet from north lines of section 8, block A-23, psl survey, was drilling ahead from 4,581 feet in lime. It is a twin well to the Ellenburger discovery.

Shell No. 1 Andrews, five-eights of a mile northeast outpost to the pay opener, was under 9,652 feet, drilling lime and chert.

It is 660 feet from south and west lines of section 2, block A-23, psl survey.

Magnolia Petroleum company was drilling ahead toward the Ellenburger with its two Flanagan field outposts.

The girm's No. 1 Flanagan, east offset, 1,980 feet from north and 660 feet from west lines of section 9, block A-23, psl survey, was beyond 12,002 feet in lime and chert.

Magnolia No. 2 Flanagan, 660 feet from south and west lines of section 9, block A-23, psl survey, was past 6,203 feet and was continuing through lime.

Wildcat Is Staked

An Ellenburger wildcat has been staked in the Robertson field of South-Central Gaines county, 15 miles south of Seminole, as Samedan Oil corporation and Anderson Brothers No. 1-E-A Andrews.

The drillsite is 660 feet from north and west lines of the northeast quarter of section 191, block A-24, psl survey.

With rotary, it is to make 12,500 feet of hole. Operations are starting at once.

The Robertson pool produces from the Clear Fork and Glorieta sections of the Permian.

In the West Seminole field of West-Central Gaines county, Cities Production corporation has completed its No. 2 Northup and made location for its No. 3 Northup.

The producer, located 1,980 feet from west and 660 feet from south lines of section 355, block G, CCSD & RGNG survey, flowed 24 hours through a 32/64-inch choke to make an initial production of 147.37 barrels of 31.6-gravity oil.

Total fluid recovered had a shakeout of one per cent water, Gas-oil ratio was 646-1.

Production was natural from the open hole pay formation at 5,055-5,162 feet.

Drillsite of Cities Production corporation No. 3 Northup is 660 feet from south and west lines of section 355, block G, CCSD&RGNG survey.

With rotary, tools, it is starting by July 10 toward 5,150 feet, contract depth.

Amerada Starts Wildcat

Operations are starting immediately on a 9,000-foot, rotary tool wildcat to explore in the Southeast Borden county Ellenburger.

It is Amerada Petroleum corporation No. 1 J. R. Canning, staked 667 feet from north and 653 feet from east lines of section 117, block 25, H&TC survey, about five miles west of the town of Knapp.

Sinclair Oil & Gas company has staked two offsets to its No. 1 Williams, Ellenburger discovery in Northwest Borden county, about 11 miles northwest of Gail.

The concern's No. 1 T. P. Turner will be 660 feet from north and west lines of section 46, block 32, T-6-N, EL&RR survey, which makes it 1,320 feet east of the discovery.

Thompson-Carr, Inc., is the contractor and was moving in rotary equipment for drilling to 10,100 feet, contract depth.

Flanking its discovery 1,320 feet to the north, Sinclair spotted its No. 1 W. H. Bryan 660 feet from south and east lines of section 40, block 32, T-6-N, EL&RR survey.

It also is to be a 10,100-foot, rotary tool exploration. Both are starting at once.

In Northeast Borden county, Ryan, Hayes and Burke were drilling ahead with their No. 1 Miller, wildcat, from 7,830 feet in lime and shale.

It is 660 feet from south and east lines of section 418, block 97, H&TC survey.

Flanker Is Staked

Seaboard Oil company of Delaware and Pan American Production company have staked another flanker to the Good field of South-Central Borden county as their No. 4 Good.

The drillsite is 780 feet from north and 1,988.1 feet from west lines of section 37, block 33, T-4-N, TP survey.

On last report, the exploration had spudded and was making hole from 300 feet in redbeds. It is to drill around 8,000 feet to attempt production in the Canyon lime of the Pennsylvanian.

Also flanking this pool, the two companies were preparing to complete their No. 3 Good, extension located at the center of the southeast quarter of the northeast quarter of section 37, block 33, T-4-N, TP survey.

It has already shown for production from the Canyon. Total depth is 8,111 feet.

Seaboard and Pan American No. 5 Good, another outpost to the field, was making hole from 2,747 feet in lime and shale.

It is 660 feet from west and 660.5 feet from south lines of the northwest quarter of section 37, block 33, T-4-N, TP survey.

About five miles east of this field, Seaboard was deepening its No. 1 Jerry Clayton from 6,490 feet in lime.

This wildcat is 662.5 feet from east and 660.3 feet from south lines of the southwest quarter of section 47, block 32, T-4-N, TP survey.

To Begin Drilling

Seaboard Oil company of Delaware is beginning at once on a one location due south offset to its No. 1 Hinson, discovery from the Canyon lime of the Pennsylvanian to open the Mound Lake field in Northeast Terry county, approximately eight miles northeast of Brownfield.

It will be the concern's No. 2 Hinson, staked 660 feet from south and west lines of the northwest quarter of section 91, block 4X, EL&RR survey.

The pay formation is expected above 9,500 feet. Drilling will be with rotary tools.

E. Constantin, Jr., et al, were nearing destination with their No. 1 J. H. Goodpasture, East-Central Hockley County wildcat, four and one-half miles southwest of the West Smyer field.

The venture was drilling ahead from 6,054 feet in lime. The West Smyer pay zone is speculated to come in around 6,100 feet.

Location is 440 feet from south and east lines of tract 2, section 4, William Tubb subdivision of block A, psl survey.

In Southwest Cochran county, two wildcats were making new hole.

Humble Oil & Refining company No. 1 Masten, wildcat 14 miles southwest of Morton, was under 9,670 feet, drilling lime.

It is 660 feet from north and west lines of labor 18, league 135, Armstrong CSL survey.

The Atlantic Refining company No. 1-C Masten, wildcat projected to the San Andres-Permian in the area, 694.4 feet from south and east lines of the northwest quarter of labor 18, league 133, Armstrong CSL survey, was deepening from 4,801 feet in lime.

Stanolind Drilling Ahead

Stanolind Oil & Gas company was drilling ahead toward the Devonian with its two outposts to the recently-opened Landon-Devonian field in South-Central Cochran county.

The firm's No. 2 Holt, 660 feet from south and east lines of section 3, block L, psl survey, had reached 10,630 feet in lime and shale and was continuing.

The other flanker, Stanolind No. 1 Grollman, was beyond 6,245 feet, drilling lime.

No shows resulted from a drillstem test of the Central Lynn County Pennsylvanian at Barnsdall Oil company No. 1 Billie Williams, wildcat four and one-half miles southwest of Tahoka.

The tool was open one hour and 35 minutes at 9,087,9,120 feet, using a 1,980-foot water blanket. Recovery was the water blanket and 480 feet of salty mud, with no signs of oil, gas or water.

Drilling was continuing from 9,225 feet in lime.

Location is 660 feet from north and west lines of section 2, block 8, EL&RR survey.

In the Anton-Irish field of Southeast Lamb county, Anton Oil corporation has completed its No. 2 G. D. Hufstedler for 207.38 barrels of oil per day.

The potential test was made pumping 24 hours, showing gas-oil ratio 139-1 and no water. Gravity of the petroleum was 29 degrees.

The open hole pay formation at 5,478-6,003 feet had been acidized with a total of 34,000 gallons of acid.

The well is 660 feet from south and east lines of section 33, block 1, R. M. Thompson survey.

MATHEMATICIANS RELAX

LOS ANGELES, July 9. (U.P.) — Boys will be boys, even internationally-known mathematicians. After disposing of such business as conformal maps and automatic computation, delegates to a three-day mathematical symposium here went into closed session for the final item on the agenda, the "Monte Carlo Method." The matter discussed, sponsors said stiffly, was probability.

WTCC Adds Support To River Project

ABILENE, July 9. (Special) — Potent argument for the federal government's construction of the proposed Canadian River dam is advanced in the new federal dam building formula now offered by the West Texas Chamber of Commerce, congressmen from the Panhandle and Plains have been advised.

In a letter to Congressmen Eugene Worley and George Mahon, the WTCC report on West Texas water shortage damages and application of the Hoover Commission's domestic water recommendations were pointed out. Worley and Mahon have taken the lead in the proposal of the Reclamation Service to construct the $87,000,000 project north of Amarillo, near Borger.

"We believe you will find herein potent argument for congressional support of the Canadian dam project and all domestic water supply projects," D. A. Bandeen, WTCC general manager, wrote the congressmen. "The lack of water for domestic purposes is a menace to the public welfare companion to the flood menace. It appears also that the flood menace can be overcome by the building of many smaller domestic water dams, while at the same time returning to the government for greater revenues than under the present federal policy governing water projects. For such reasons the Canadian dam project has far more economic justification that a great bulk of the 800 or more federal water projects."

Bandeen pointed out "for such reason also the Hoover domestic priority formula should be written into our national water laws, and it is hoped that some of our good West Texas statesmen may become the sponsor of such an amendment."

Waco Man Crushed To Death In Dump Truck Bed Mishap

WACO, July 9 (AP)—John J. Reed of Waco was crushed to death yesterday between the bed and frame of a dump truck.

The accident occurred at Cooperas Cove. Reed was repairing the control valve that raises and lowers the truck bed. A safety block holding the bed slipped.

The CHIROPRACTOR—and You

Neurosis

Case History No. 2130; Man; Age 22; Symptoms: Severe nervous condition; Attacks of crying spells; Insomnia; Arms and legs went to sleep and numb; Headaches; Soreness at base of brain. Was given out and tired constantly. Was worried all the time.

History Of Accidents

While in the Navy he fell and hit on his head; and, as a result spent most of his time in government hospitals. Has had other falls in playing baseball, football, and boxing. Was discharged from the Navy as physical disability.

Came To Stephens Chiropractic Clinic

He was referred to the STEPHENS CHIROPRACTIC CLINIC, "Where the so-called Hopeless DO get Well" by one of the many satisfied patients in this Clinic. X-Ray examination of his spine revealed that the vertebrae in his spinal column were in a badly distorted condition and position; especially, at the base of his skull. The Neurocalometer (a product of the Palmer School of Chiropractic) and the Neurocalograph (a product of General Electric) determined the degree of nerve interference caused by nerve pressure betwen the brain and the affected region of his body.

What Specific Chiropractic Has Done For Him

After a term of SCIENTIFIC CHIROPRACTIC SERVICE in the STEPHENS CHIROPRACTIC CLINIC this case now feels as tho he were a new person. His nervous condition is a thing of the past. He does not have any more crying spells; and, he sleeps all night long. There is no more numbness in his arms or legs. His headaches has entirely disappeared with not any soreness at the base of his brain. He is ambitious and energetic now with no worries about his condition any more. He has a wonderful personality and a bright future ahead of him. He is a kind of a boy that a proud Dad could easily say, "my son, my son." Just think what could have happened to this young man if the pressure in his spinal column had not been released.

OVER 70 PER CENT NEEDED MEDICAL ATTENTION

Mass Health Survey In Seymour Public Schools Shocks Whole Community Into Concerted Action

By ROBERT E. FORD
Associated Press Staff Writer

SEYMOUR, July 9—Your child is the picture of health, isn't he? Never an ache or pain. Perfect physical speciman.

That's what the folks of this town believed, too, about their youngsters. That is, they believed it until a young doctor just out of the Army Medical corps teamed up with a young school superintendent. Their resulting school health survey shocked the town.

Students, 1,100. Needing medical attention, 750. Many children virtually blind, although they didn't know it. Sixteen children with bad hearts, eleven with hernias and—pardon the word—15 had itch.

Community Cooperated

Seymour is a West Texas town, population about 4,000. The kids are tanned and healthy looking. They get all the fresh air they can breathe. Hundreds of vigorous farm children pour into the schools each year. Poverty so extreme that children can't get the proper diet is almost unknown. The children are as healthy as those anywhere.

That's why the town was so surprised.

The facts wiped out opposition which had threatened to block the health program. The findings sent parents scrambling to doctors to have their children's defects removed and illnesses treated.

By then, the whole community had pitched in to help.

Teachers got a different shock this spring as they tabulated grades:

Scholastic Failures Down

Scholastic failures, they found, had dropped 40 per cent in grammar school.

Superintendent J. W. Hamilton said that eye corrections, for example, "made all the difference in the world. Even the general health of pupils with eye defects improved with corrections."

Hamilton is a youngish graduate of the University of Oklahoma. He was superintendent at Minnekah, Okla., before coming here four years ago.

His teammate in getting the health program started was Dr. Charles Morriss Randal, jr. In the army, he had plenty of experience in mass health examinations. A practicing physician, he doubles as City Health officer.

Program Stepped Up

Says Dr. Randal: "As far as we can find out, this was the most complete check-up and the first on this scale ever held in a Texas school."

Starting with these two, the program snowballed. The day of the examination, all the active doctors in town and two dentists closed their offices and reported at the school buildings. Ten registered nurses also volunteered, as did approximately 50 parents.

The check-ups were from head to foot. Vaccinations and inoculations against six diseases were given. Follow-up shots came later.

What the doctors found was "amazing," says Hamilton.

For instance, the physicians dug into ears. Here were some of the objects they found inside ear tubes:

A coil steel spring, a rubber band, a beetle, innumerable other smaller insects, countless paper wads and similar foreign matter.

Permanent Record Kept

Each child was given a card listing the defects which the doctor couldn't correct on the spot. The students carried these cards to their parents who took the children to their own physician. The doctor or dentist checked the card when the defects were corrected and these cards entered the school's permanent records.

"The things the doctors found were startling to the parents," says Hamilton. "For example, we were amazed to find that our own six-year-old son, had a heart murmur."

Hamilton adds that the health program is "not a fly-by-night proposition. It will continue. Anyone who comes into our school in the future will get the same examinations and inoculations."

Dr. Randal credits community cooperation with putting the program over. The Lions club and the P.-T. A. contributed money for the serums and other materials needed and the state donated some materials.

Objections Overcome

When the health program first was proposed, chief objections came, surprisingly, from the well-to-do and better informed parents. Most didn't want their youngsters sent through the process in masse "like in the army."

One by one the objections were overcome. Publicity through Editor O. C. Harrison of the Baylor County Banner helped considerably. Parents wrangled permission to take their children to their own physician if they desired. But when the word spread that the examinations—free at the school—would cost about $30 in a doctor's office, individuality took a back seat to the pocketbook.

No one was passed by. Dr. Randal pointed out the program would have had less effect if sick children were allowed to make other children ill. So the school board made the shots and examinations compulsory.

Town Health Conscious

Hamilton says the whole town became more health conscious. "For example," he explained, "teachers got to the point where they could spot an infectious disease in a child at a glance. They sent the sick children home before they infected other pupils."

The children were given vaccinations and inoculations against smallpox, diptheria, tetanus, whooping cough, typhoid and paratyphoid.

Not a case of those diseases was reported among school children this past school year says Hamilton. That alone, plus general health improvement cut down absenteeism materially, he reported, until measels struck.

For instance, the previous year as many as half the students in some homes were absent at the same time because of whooping cough. This year, there were no cases at all.

In contrast, the measles epidemic riddled attendance for a time this school year. Students had not received measels inoculations.

Religious Objections

Every active physician in town—Drs. C. E. Johnson, L. A. Barber, E. H. Balch, J. W. Foy, R. K. Lowry and Randal—closed their offices and reported to the schools for the examinations. So did two dentists, Drs. Jozach Easley and B. F. Grill.

There were one or two students who objected on religious grounds. "I don't know exactly what happened," Dr. Randal said with a grin, "but somehow those children found themselves in the lines, too, and they got their shots."

And, said Dr. Randal with a gleeful laugh, "Not a new case of scabies (that's itch) this year."

School Girls Win Diplomas Despite Severe Handicaps

PITTSBURGH, July 9, (U.P.) — High school students who find the going a little tough can get inspiration from two Pittsburgh girls who've been doing well without even going to class.

One of the girls, Catherine Weinbrenner, never even had met her fellow students at Oliver High until she attended the senior class play and luncheon. Stricken with cerebral palsy at birth, the attractive 19-year-old never has been able to walk. Yet she finished her studies in the same length of time taken by other students—12 years.

Twice a week, teachers from Oliver High would stop at Catherine's house and spend an hour or two. Between visits, the plucky student studied hard, often until 2 a. m. She never received a grade lower than B, and most of them were A's, but she wasn't satisfied. She wanted to do better.

Honor Graduate

Sometimes her arms would become tired from writing and she would dictate to her mother from her wheel chair. Now, at last, she will be graduated with honors. And she donned a cap and gown for commencement exercises with the rest of her school.

Just recently, Catherine attended her first prom, in a pretty yellow organdy dress that she picked out herself.

But her greatest thrill is yet to come.

"I'm learning to walk," she rejoiced. "With braces, but some day I'll be able to walk without them."

Catherine wants to attend Carnegie Tech now, and study to be a radio announcer or singer. No one will be much surprised if she makes it.

Only One Classmate

Catherine's only classmate under the home school program set up by the board of education for handicapped children is Mary Latimer.

Bed-ridden with rheumatic fever since last fall, Mary has kept up with her school work and found time for handicraft, too. She's made some of her own clothes and done crocheting.

As a result of her determination not to let her handicap get the better of her, Mary will be graduated from Schenley High School, although she won't attend commencement services with her classmates.

But whether she receives her degree in bed or on a stage doesn't make much difference. The big thing to her is that she refused to "take the count" when fate dealt her a cruel blow.

Public Projects Work For Vet Trainees Scheduled For Study

WASHINGTON, July 9. (AP)—The House Veterans committee will begin hearings next week on legislation which would allow veterans to work on public building projects as partof their G. I. trade and industrial training.

The proposals have been condemned by the building trades union as an invasion of job opportunities.

The veterans administration now prohibits GI trainees from engaging in work outside class rooms or shops.

Texas Old Age Pension Rolls Show Increase During June

AUSTIN, July 9 (AP)—Old age pension rolls showed a net increase of 639 persons during June, the department of public welfare reported yesterday.

An all-time high of 217,330 persons received $7,444,343 in old age assistance checks—an average payment of $34.25, one cent more than last month.

A monthly payment of $235,823 —averaging $38.26 per person was made to those on the blind assistance rolls.

A total of $798,979 was distributed to 17,261 families under the aid of dependent children program.

THE QUESTION
Were there any advantages in pioneer life over present day life on the South Plains? If so, what were they?

THE ANSWERS

P. B. PENNY, 3407 Twenty-first: "We had advantages and disadvantages. The freedom we had in those days of everybody trusting each other was an advantage. We could go off and leave our house for a week or a month. Sometimes on a ranch someone would come in and borrow something and leave a note. You'd go for miles and miles to see anybody and that made you enjoy getting to see your friends more. Sometimes, when I was on the old Diamond ranch in Hockley county, it would be two weeks before I would get to see anyone. I stayed by myself in the fall of '94. There were disadvantages. It was lonely and it was dangerous when you were in camp by yourself and riding mean horses. Our mode of transportation was by horseback and was very slow in comparison to fast transportation facilities today. When I was sheriff, from 1902 to 1906, we used to have court twice a year and the judge lived in Seymour. Sometimes it would take two or three days to get a witness back and court would adjourn before a witness would get here. That was a disadvantage. In a way, I'd like to live it over again and in other ways I wouldn't."

H. V. EDSALL, 2108 Broadway: "Yes, there were some. We had the whole country to go over with stock—sheep, cattle or horses—and no one to bother us. We had our own water. We didn't have to pay for it. We had no electric lights, but we had our kerosene—coal oil—and our lamps. There was no one to bother us. We went as we pleased and came back when we pleased. There wasn't someone standing around on every corner wanting a dollar. Taxes were cheap. Now we're taxed for everything. We didn't even have to buy car licenses. I had one of the first cars in this part of the country, in 1906 or 1907. I put a number on myself. It was No. 41. Gasoline was 10 cents a gallon. Of course we had lots of disadvantages. We had to haul all of our stuff from Amarillo or Colorado City or Big Spring, before there was a railroad."

T. E. (CHIEF) MAY, 1511 Fourteenth: "I think so. We weren't taxed to death. We were just a freer county to do business in. We didn't have someone to tell us what to do every time we turned around. A man's word was as good as his bond. If he told you something you could depend on it. We used to let them cut cattle for us and not even be there."

MRS. LOU STUBBS, 3519 Dixie drive: "There's this much—What we can't get right now we know how to do without so nicely. We learned that in the pioneer days. Those were good days, but I like these days with the conveniences that we have. We didn't have to have keys then. Keys are such a nuisance. If we had to drive five miles in a wagon or buggy, believe me, we enjoyed seeing people when we got there and we didn't forget things. We knew what we went after."

J. A. WILSON, 2013 Fifteenth: "You could leave anything and you didn't need a padlock. You could leave a freight wagon out in the road and no one would bother it. There were no cold checks then—no banks when I came here. I sold the First National bank lot on the corner of Broadway and Texas for $55. I had paid $50 for it. My brother and I gave a pony for a section of land. We owed the state $1 an acre, too, since it was school land. Then I gave him half my interest for a smooth-mouthed horse. I rode the horse to Amarillo and traded it to a ranger for a saddle. I put the saddle in a sack and went to Denver, Colo., where I came from, and stayed 11 months. My brother left and he traded the section off to Isham Tubbs for a mule. The pioneers didn't get much out of life. Very few of them held on to what they had. In those days, a lot of people were starved out and would get up and leave. When land got to $5 an acre, most of them wanted to sell it. It was worth too much to keep. You couldn't get much money—could just barely making a living off the land. Very few held on to it. It would have been an advantage if the pioneers had known how much it would be worth some day. They could have been wealthy if they had just held on to it."

MRS. W. M. ROSS, Lubbock route 7: "We never had to lock anything up in those days. When you were away, people would come in and use your bed or cook themselves a meal and leave you a note, or when they would see you in six months would tell you about it. In those days, we enjoyed the friendship more than we do now. There were such a very few of us and we didn't get together very often. I think we really appreciated everything more in those days, because we didn't have so much. We didn't have many conveniences, such as ways to go and electricity and gas. I wouldn't swap now for then."

Police Arrest Juvenile Boy In Iowa For Masquerading As Girl

DAVENPORT, Ia., July 9. (INS)—William Hobart, 11, of Rock Island, Ill., today was taken into custody by Davenport police for masquerading as a young lady.

The youngster was walking along downtown Davenport streets when arrested. Police said he was dressed in a velvet dress, high heel shoes and had a turban on his head.

He had stuffed rags into the bosom of the dress to add realism.

The youth told police he had been posing as a young lady for two weeks following the suggestion by a girl.

Authorities indicated the case would be referred to juvenile officials.

Seven New Mexican Bar Owners Facing Loss Of Liquor Permits

SANTA, N. M., July 9. (INS)—Operators of seven northern New Mexico bars face possible revocation of their liquor licenses July 21.

State liquor control director Tom Montoya said today charges against the bar owners include sale of liquor to minors, Sunday liquor sales sales without a permit and permitting minors to loiter.

American Melting Pot Has Own Unmistakable Flavor

BUFFALO, N. Y., July 9. (U.P.)—If you're looking for an apt definition of the philosophy of the American mind, the answer is for the love of the so-called "happy ending," according to Ralph Barton Barry, philosopher.

Writing in Philosophy and Phenomenological Research, published by the University of Buffalo for the International Phenomenological Society, Dr. Perry said belief in "happy endings" was what made Americans bouyant, zestful, resourceful, self-reliant and great believers in melodrama.

"The American mind," the former Harvard professor wrote, "has come to possess a specific character which pervades the entire country, from coast to coast and from border to border. It is recognizable by visitors from abroad and is sufficiently strong to imprint itself on successive native generations and on a continuous stream of immigrants.

Flavor Of Its Own

"The melting pot has not merely melted," he said, "it has cooked a broth with an unmistakable flavor of its own.

"Its most evident quality is buoyancy, zestfulness, resourcefulness and self-reliance."

The term "individualism," while being 'the best single term with which to characterize the American mind,' must be used with "reservations," Barry said. It does not, he said, mean that Americans prize solitude or "those personal traits which set one man apart from his fellows.

"For the people of the United States are highly gregarious and sociable," he said. "They find silence almost intolerable and if they develop an oddity they make a cult of it so that they may dwell among similar oddities."

Dr. Perry attributes the self-confidence of Americans to many causes, including "the bounty of nature, the temperate climate, the Protestant emphasis on personal responsibility, and the adventurous character and happy mixture of racial stocks."

Not Vindictive

While there is much competition in America, Dr. Perry said it tends to stop short of the destruction of the rival.

"Competition is keen and intense, but not deadly or vindictive. This is because no fight is taken to be the last fight. Defeat may not be accepted gracefully, but it is accepted cheerfully, because he who is defeated expects to fight again, with another opponent or on another field of battle.

"Some time, somewhere, somehow, he expects to win," Dr. Perry declared.

"The meaning of life for the American people is not revealed in the tragedy or in the comedy of manners," he said, "but in the melodrama—with its dash and excitement, its galloping horses or speeding automobiles, its pursuits and hair-breadth escapes, its prodigious feats, its black villians and snow-white heroine — and above all its happy ending."

"Big Train" Johnson Once Was Turned Down By Semi-Pro Club

GOLDENDALE, Wash, July 9. (U.P.)—Walter Johnson, the "big train" of major league baseball, may be an all-time all-America today but back in 1901 he failed to impress Goldendale baseball experts enough to land a job as a Sunday pitcher.

Johnson applied for a position with the semi-professional Goldendale team and was turned down without a trial, Robert Ballou, early day Klickitat baseball manager, recalled. Johnson then signed to play with a Weiser, Ida., club, where he alternated between pitching alfalfa hay and setting strike-out records.

Survival Of Twin Horses In Ohio Called 100,000-1 Shot

TROY, O., July 9. (U.P.)—Twin May Song and Twin Jay Song, twin two-year-old pacers, have won their greatest victory against fanatastic odds of 100,000-to-1.

Dr. E. M. Kilpatrick, veterinarian, said the birth of twins occurs about once in every 10,000 foalings of horses. The chances of both twins living and reaching a serviceable age, he said, are one in every 100,000.

The twin pacers reached the point of serviceability when both appeared on the Troy fairgrounds track, hitched to racing bikes for the first time.

THE Thiel brothers packing house at Monroe has been going full blast this week grading, sacking and shipping potatoes to the northern markets. More than 8,000 sacks or the equivalent of 23 railroad carloads went out. Onions are beginning to come in too. They were delayed for nearly a month and failed to catch the first high price markets but growers in the Monroe area have made an excellent crop.

Across the Santa Fe tracks from Thiel's the Jack West packing shed was busy loading refrigerator cars with 50 pound bags of onions. Both field and packing labor is in adequate supply at Monroe at this time.

The new road construction between Lubbock and Shallowater should be completed sometime this fall if all goes well, according to R. W. Tucker of the State Highway Department district office. The road will have two wide traffic lanes with surfaced shoulders. All culverts in the 10-mile stretch have been widened. The contractor is Ernest Lloyd of Ft. Worth and the job is estimated to cost in the neighborhood of $310,000.

SOIL erosion has been going on since the beginning of the world. For a good warning of what can happen to a nation that fails to conserve its soil one has only to refer to the Bible. The fall and destruction of Judea, Babylon and Carthage was brought about more by the destruction of the trees and vineyards and by overgrazing than by the individuals in the invading army. No nation is stronger than the soil that supports it.

Statistics On Wheat

If you are statistically minded, this year's wheat harvest would make 573 standard loaves of bread for every man, woman and child in the United States. Of course, if it all went into bread we'd have no "Wheaties" and without "Wheaties" we wouldn't have any champions.

Japanese-Americans have moved onto the South Plains to show what can be done with a diversified farm program. Harry Sumida at Monroe; Harry Matsui at Earth; and the brothers Tad and Jun Matsumoto near Dimmit, are showing what can be done with lettuce, cabbage, onions and other truck. Matsui says he wants to try several other vegetables next year.

Even Weeds Can't Grow

If you want to see some cotton acreage that should yield up to a bale and one-half per acre take a look at the 600 acres of Hubert and James E. Whatley southeast of Cooper. The Whatleys planted their seed heavily and they have a stand so thick that even the weeds can't find space to grow.

MAYBE the old cowpoke is dying out but he will be remembered in Clare Leighton's book, "Give Us This Day." As the author describes him:

"His eyes always seem to search the brush country for cattle. There is something of pathos in this figure that has outlived his era; but he is not aware of it himself, for his world is within him——".

"But do not pity him; for he has lived abundantly upon dust and sun and kicks and tumbles and the smell of the breath of his cattle."

Agents Are Busy

County Agent Dave Sherrill and assistant Joe Jones have been visiting the communities of Lubbock county to acquaint cotton growers with the harmful insects. Field classes have been held at Cooper, Slide, Roosevelt, Acuff, Idalou, Becton, Carlisle, and Wolfforth. Heavies insect infestations were found in the southwest part of the county. The lightest in the noreast. Some farms around Slide had a 50 per cent infestation.

Bud Kelley, Becton community, has a beautiful stand of cotton that is absolutely free of any insects. The most careful checks failed to find a single fleahopper or thrip. On the other hand, George Kveton, also of the Becton area, has one of the tallest stands of cotton but it does not seem to be fruiting. Signs of blasted squares indicate that some insects got to Kveton's cotton before they died off or moved on.

M. F. Malouf, south of Shallowater, is dusting his cotton this week with a 3-5-40 mixture to kill off a fairly heavy invasion of cotton lice. Other growers plan to use sprays and dust in the near future.

Priest Claims Disturbances At Farm Home Angelic Spirit

By PAUL DIX
United Press Staff Writer

LIVELY GROVE, Ill., July 9.—Mysterious "disturbances" at the home of farmer Tony Greten were described by a Roman Catholic priest today as the work of the "guardian angel" protecting Greten's son, Jerome.

The Rev. Edward Dahmus, theologian and parish priest at nearby St. Libory, said that from the evidence he has gathered, he believes the manifestations are caused by an "angelic spirit" assigned to guard 10-year-old Jerome from harm.

And from the crypitic messages written on paper in Jerome's room, Dahmus said he believes that the angel atone time in his long existence probably had assumed a human form."

Incidents Witnessed

Dahmus said the last "spirit manifestation" at the Greten home took place last Sunday. Previously they had accurred 17 times, starting on May 1.

All the manifestations were witnessed by Greten, his wife, and at least eight of their 10 children, ranging in age from 10 to 26 years.

Dahmus said he was present a number of times when they occurred and neighbors in the little cross-roads community were present at others.

The office of Bishop Albert Zuroweste at Belleville, Ill., who assigned Dahmus to conduct an inquiry into the unusual occurrences, said it would await a complete report before issuing any statement, if at all.

Ghost Writes Answers

Dahmus said the fact that the manuifestations centered around Jerome, plus the spirit's written statement that it loves, "Mary, the mother of God," indicates to him that it is the boy's "guardian angel."

The priest said that on Tuesday, May 31, he asked the spirit, in the presence of the entire Greten family, to write its name on paper placed beside the boy's bed. A large "X" appeared on the paper, written with the crayon that had been left nearby.

Dahmus said that from previous replies which the spirit had written in response to verbal questions, he interpreted that to mean the question was acknowledged but refused.

Dahmus asked: "Did you ever have a human body?"

The answer on the paper was: "X-yes."

Questions Verbal

Dahmus said he thinks the "X" represents refusal to answer at first and the "yes," written a brief moment later, indicate that at one time the spirit was sent on a mission to earth in bodily form.

Dahmus said all the questions were verbal ones, repeated by Jerome who placed the paper on the floor between his bed and the wall each time. A green crayon was left on the floor and the answers were written with it.

The priest said the boy would lie quietly in the center of the double bed after placing the paper, while the others in the room kept their eyes either on the boy or on the space between the bed and wall.

A number of times, Dahmus said, the crayon was thrown across the floor, beneath the bed, in response to what the priest said he later came to regard as "smart aleck questions."

Robert W. Service Lives In Seclusion In Canadian City

VANCOUVER, B. C. July 9. (U.P.)—A man named Robert W. Service lives in seclusion in an apartment overlooking this city, a changed man from the Robert W. Service who created "Dangerous Dan McGrew."

Service, gray-haired, florid-faced and worried, admitted that his Yukon ballads, written early in the century, seemed now like the work of a stranger.

"It seems as if they were written by another man," he said. "I remember little of the Yukon, or what I wrote while there."

What is more, Service doubts that he ever again could capture the atmosphere of the Yukon that inspired the most famous of his ballads.

Yearns For Riviera

Always a lone wolf, Service was able to take the money brought in by his early verse and go into seclusion on the French Riviera.

"I have an intense dislike for artificial society," he said. "In France, one could lead a free life—do what one wanted to do without interference or criticism from one's neighbors."

Service was driven from his French retreat by the war. Now, he lives chiefly for the day when he can go back.

Seclusion is his watchword here. Desk clerks and elevator boys in the apartment house are instructed to turn away callers.

Likes Virile Stories

The favorite word in his vocabulary is "virile." A story must be virile to interest him. And he thinks the public feels the same way.

He admits he always has seen more of interest in vice than in virture.

"The only society I like," he said, "is rough and tough, and the tougher the better. There's where you get down to bedrock and meet human people."

To budding poets, his advice is: "Write verse, not poetry. The public wants verse. If you have a talent for poetry, then don't by any means mother it, but try your hand at verse."

NEW LOOK FOR OLD SHIP—The Ile de France famous prewar luxury liner and wartime troop carrier, starts work again with a brand-new look. Demand For Models Brisk; You Needn't Be Tall, Thin

CHICAGO, July 9. (U.P.)—Two of the most beautiful girls in Chicago have cheering words for the starry-eyed bobby soxers of the nation's kitchens and classrooms.

Modeling, they said, is not overcrowded. And there may even be room for bobby soxers' mothers.

The girls, Patricia Stevens and Patricia Vance, run modeling schools and placement agencies.

But the girls said that doesn't mean they try to fill up their institutions with a lot of aspirants who don't have potentialities. In fact, they discourage some applicants.

They feel, however, the hundreds of girls are missing out on modeling careers just because they think they couldn't make good.

Field Wide Open

Miss Vance, a Philadelphian, said that out of 1,000 girls on a typical American campus, probably 200 or 300 could make livings as professional models and command salaries of $60 to $80 a week.

"Many girls," she said, "have the mistaken idea that to be a model you must be tall and thin and sophisticated looking. That may be true in New York, but not in the midwest. Here, the clients like healthy, natural-looking girls—the kind that look good eating candy bars."

Miss Stevens, a native of Sioux Falls, S. D., went along with this and added that some of the emaciated-type around New York would find slim pickings in the midwest and probably would get even more emaciated.

More curves are demanded in this part of the country, she said.

Advertising Helps

The girls, both of whom are ex-models, said their profession was much in demand and getting more so. More advertising is the reason, they explained.

There are a lot of calls these days for the "matron" type, they said, such as is found around the typical American home, the kind of woman who might have a daughter who wanted to be a model.

"You don't have to be a classic beauty," Miss Vance said. "What the clients want is the new type—the fresh type."

They said there is no basic physical requirements of modeling, but that it would help if the girls could wear a "straight size" dress without alteration, and the shoe size small.

"A girl with a 4B foot can find plenty of work at round $35 a day during shoe conventions," Miss Stevens observed.

Poultry Course To Be Held This Week

COLLEGE STATION, July 9. (INS)—A field poultry course will be held in Arlington, July 12-13, by the Texas Poultry Association and Texas A & M College.

The latest practical information dealing with poultry production in Texas will be given the first day, while the second day is planned for flock selectors and poliorum tests.

General chairman for the session will be County Agent W. A. Ruhmann of Tarrant county.

Experts who will appear on the program include T. A. Hensarling, executive secretary of the Texas Poultry Improvement association, and Bernie B. Bailey and James R. Grubbs, poultry supervisors of the national poultry improvement plan.

Texas A & M specialists who will take part are F. Z. Beanblossom, poultry marketing; W. L. Braddy and Frank M. Stockton, assistant poultry marketing specialists; and J. C. Williams and W. J. Moore, poultry husbandmen.

The Arlington course will be the fourth in a series of short courses held over the state this year. The first school was held in 1948 and its success merited plans for smaller schools throughout the state for 1949.

AN APPLE A DAY—

GREENVILLE, N. H. (U.P.)—A lot of men 80 years old are satisfied with carpet slippers and a rocking-chair by the fireside. But not Henry La Pierre. He's actively occupied as one of New Hampshire's biggest apple growers, with an orchard containing more than 3,500 trees.

SPEAKS THEIR LANGUAGE

LAWTON, Okla. (U.P.)—Ioleta H. McElhaney is popular with the Kiowa Indians she serves as a missionary at the Saddle Mountain Baptist Church here—she "speaks their language." It is her language, too. Ioleta, first Kiowa woman to receive a university degree, came back to the land of her fathers after graduating from Keuka College, New York, because she promised her mother "to give my life in Christian service."

DAY CHIROPRACTIC CLINIC

NOT FOR SALE

There are no markets in the world where even the richest can buy health. It is not on the stock exchange, it is not found anywhere for sale.

Nothing is more precious, yet it is practically in the reach of all. Your spine is the index to your health.

CHIROPRACTORS

Search out the guilty segment of the spine that is pinching the nerves, which causes organic and glandular disfunction. They make the the correct adjustment and the cause of Dis-Ease is removed.

The cases listed below are a few selected from the files at random to illustrate the wide scope of benefits available through specific chiropractic.

JOHN H. DAY, D. C.
Palmer Graduate

Nervousness

CASE NO. 34:

This woman, age 41, came to the Clinic feeling very nervous and run down. In her own words 'I feel like I am not relaxed." She also complained of a tight feeling across the chest and throat and at times felt that she would not be able to get her breath. She suffered severe headaches with her periods and chronic constipation. The Chiropractic Spinal examination and X-ray revealed a misaligned vertebra in her back that was causing an interference with normal flow of nerve energy. Corrective spinal adjustment restored vertebrae alignment allowing a free flow of this vital nerve after which all symptoms ceased.

Constipation

CASE NO. 2263: A man complaining of constipation which caused nausea and severe headaches, had been told by medical doctors that his gall bladder was dormant; he was very nervous and generally weak, had low blood pressure and an aching in back of his head, came to the clinic for an examination. Spinal analysis with Neurocalometer and X-rays were made which revealed misaligned vertebra. Adjustments restored spine to normal condition and when the patient was discharged all symptoms of illness were gone.

Sinus Congestion

CASE HISTORY NO. 92—A victim of sinus headaches for several years. Suddenly stricken with pain one morning, he called upon the Chiropractor. A Neurocalometer reading and X-ray analysis were made and the cause of his condition found. Chiropractic health service was rendered and the condition entirely cleared up.

Goitre

CASE NO. 1635: A matron, age 45, came to the Clinic complaining of nervousness, dizzy spells, choking sensation, aching in both arms and right knee. She reported three previous goiter operations and a fourth swelling of neck beginning. The Neurocalometer spinal analysis revealed defective nerve waves and X-rays revealed a vertebral subluxation causing defective nerve waves or interference in central nervous system causing functional disorder. When spinal realignment was completed this case was discharged. She reported that she had more pep and felt better than she had for many years and none of her old symptoms remained.

Indigestion

CASE NO. 1533: A lady of 40 years had not been well for several years. Her condition had been diagnosed nervous indigestion, nervous and irregularity of change. She had a sinus complaint, soreness about kidneys and bladder, arthritis in fingers and frequent headaches which nothing seemed to help. A Neurocalometer spinal nerve analysis located nerve interference areas and X-rays disclosed a spinal subluxation causing the defective innervation. Corrective adjustments restored alignment and removed interference to normal innervation. When discharged this lady stated she had no symptoms of any kind, felt just fine and in perfect health for the first time in years.

Neuritis and Rheumatism

This young lady's trouble began as nervous spells, with hysteria. These attacks became more frequent, with loss of control over her body until she was in a helpless condition. There was loss of weight and weakness, finally a continuous pain in the right arm and leg, with eventual loss of action in those limbs. A Neurocalometer checkup found the presence of pressure on nerves. X-rays found the relation of the misplaced vertebra to the others, and based on those X-rays, precision adjustments were made. Results were immediate. Since that time the patient has been working long hours, with no distress.

Sciatica

CASE NO. 11,212, woman, age 55, was nervous, had headaches and a pain in the shoulder, but worst of all she had a pain in the lower back that extended down the right leg so she could hardly walk. The doctor called it sciatica, but nothing the woman did helped very much. Not long before she had been in a car wreck and her condition had been growing worse ever since. The chiropractor found an acute displacement in the spine and made an adjustment. The patient is happy today because she is quite well again.

REMEMBER: It is not true to say "We did everything possible" unless CHIROPRACTIC was included.

Romulo Of Philippines Seeks To Head UN General Assembly

By PIERRE J. HUSS
INS Staff Correspondent

LAKE SUCCESS, N. Y., July 9—Affable, five-foot Carlos P. Romulo of the Philippines admits frankly that he has two big goals—one immediate, the other more distant.

Romulo, war-time aide-de-camp to General Douglas MacArthur on Bataan and Corregidor, seeks the presidency of the September session of the U. N. general assembly.

After that, this active crusader for a new deal in Asia hopes to win the presidency of the Philippines. That chance my be a few years off, but Romulo intends to be johnny-on-the-spot when opportunity beckons.

At the United Nations, the summer doldrums have set in but the political tom-toms already are beating out signals for the September assembly. In various ways, the fifty-nine member governments are swapping ideas as to who could best carry the presidential ball relinquished by Australia's bluff Herbert V. Evatt after the April-May session.

Is Active Worker

The United States, Britain, and France never disclose who their favorite candidate for the coveted assembly is going to be, while Russia plays one camp against the other. But Romulo has overlooked no prospects and fifty-nine governments have received persuasive hints that he would welcome their support.

A stepping-stone to the assembly presidency for Romulo was his chairmanship last April-May of the special political committee, which dealt with the case of Cardinal Mindszenty. He also steered that 59-nation group through the final explosive debate on Israel's admission to the U. N.

Romulo gave a commendable account of himself during those sessions, pulling no punches where needed and using diplomatic tact when the situation called for fast footwork.

Romulo is not one to sit still at a desk for long and let others do his political canvassing. When the security council failed to work fast enough in regards to the situation in Indonesia, he hopped aboard a plane and attended the Asiatic conference at New Delhi.

Escaped Assassination

After presiding over the special political committee, he decided that his political fences in the Philippines needed mending. So he got on a plane one night and did the 20,000-mile round-trip to Manila over the week-end.

That was the time he escaped assassination by the band which killed the family of the late President Quezon. He dropped out of the Quezon party and took an earlier plane for New York than he had intended.

Romulo hates to be pushed around by the big powers and will bristle at the slightest hint of pressure from East or West.

He has frequently ripped into one or another of the big five from the U. N. rostrum, waging with vigor the battle of the small powers and championing their right to self-determination of voting in the committees or assembly.

He looks askance at scheming and political horse-trading carried on behind the backs of other delegations, preferring to be outspoken about his aims and viewpoints.

On China's situation, Romulo says:

"I personally believe that the Oriental spirit which permeates even the Chinese Communists will turn out to be a Kremlin headache.

The remedy in Asia against Communism he sees as follows:

"To eliminate, by democratic means, the three factors that produce the most fertile and virulent breeding ground for Communism: colonialism, poverty and ignorance. We Asians have great resources—natural resources and human resources—that we can throw into the battle. But we must rely on the West for help, material help, technical help and capital."

Since 1946, Romulo has been holding the rank of ambassador extraordinary and permanent U. N. delegate for the Philippines. He is 49 years old, with a long career in public activities behind him. At home he served under the late President Quezon.

Although seven years have passed since the days on Bataan and Corregidor with MacArthur, there is nothing dearer to Romulo's heart than a "bull session" about that conqueror of Japan. He claims there is wide misunderstanding of MacArthur in the United States, and that the general receives far less credit than he deserves for the job he is doing in Japan.

Recalls Corregidor

Romulo frequently recalls the grim days spent with MacArthur in the rocky tunnels of Corregidor fortress.

"Our toughest job," Romulo told me, "was to keep MacArthur away from the scene of action. When Japanese bombers and strafers came over for their daily dozen, MacArthur was forever striding around to see to it that the ack-ack made the most of its targets.

"One day he was standing like a ram-rod out in the open while bombs and shells were blasting the daylights out of the fortress. We couldn't drag him inside. Finally, a young Philippine lieutenant took off his own steel helmet and reached up to take off the raky cap and place the tin lid on the general's head.

"I guess he avoided a cussing by the good luck of stopping at that moment a piece of shrapnel with the arm holding the helmet. It probably saved MacArthur's life, or at least from a head injury. That got the general to come inside."

NEW SERVICE STATION OPENS—Some of the latest improvements in service station equipment will be seen Monday when Webb Super Service station opens for business at 1501 Texas avenue. The gleaming white masonry building, completed at a cost of $17,000, will offer complete automobile washing, lubrication and gasoline service. The new enterprise is owned by O. A. Webb and will be managed by Pat Briggs and Arthur Sparks. The latest type "lowboy" gasoline pumps—seven of them—have been installed to dispense Texaco gasoline. Wash and grease rooms are fitted with 12-foot overhead doors at both ends. Ample parking space surrounds the building, and parking space will be rented on a monthly basis. The office features a circular front. Both Briggs and Sparks were connected with Ellwood Service station at Nineteenth and College.

Dallas Attorney Offers To Post Negro's Bond For Privilege Of Taking His Life

DALLAS, July 9 (AP)—A Dallas attorney offered yesterday to pay a negro's peace bond for the privilege of killing him. The lawyer was arrested but released in a short time.

Justice of the Peace W. E. (Bill) Richburg had placed Ozzie B. Watson, the negro, under $25,000 peace bond for alleged threats against attorney Noah Roark and his wife after a traffic accident June 21.

Hearing on the bond was held yesterday before County Judge Joe B. Brown. Attorneys were gathered at the judge's desk when Roark told Watson's lawyer, Joe Greathouse of Fort Worth:

Judge Orders Arrest

"If you want Watson to live, you'd better keep him in jail. I'm going to kill him if I ever get the chance. As a matter of fact, I'll post his bond for the pleasure of doing it."

Greathouse demanded that Judge Brown place Roark under peace bond. The judge ordered Roark arrested and adjourned court.

After much discussion, Judge Brown said he was setting Roark's peace bond at $10,000 and reducing Watson's to $10,000.

Then Roark promised not to kill Watson. Greathouse asked the judge to let Roark go. The judge agreed.

They all shook hands and went home to supper.

Man Charged With Killing Employer Is Found Insane

BEEVILLE, July 9 (AP)—A man accused of killing his employer with an axe was found insane yesterday.

The verdict prevents trial of Mack Monroe Steel, 32, of a murder charge. He may be tried if later found sane.

Steel was charged with killing rancher Glenn Glare while the two were working together on the ranch May 5.

SANTA COMES ACROSS

ST. LOUIS (U.P.)—"Santa Claus" appeared out of season to give blood to a seven-year-old girl suffering from burns. Edward Moran, 32, who acted as a volunteer Santa Claus to underprivileged children for the past four years, heard of the appeal and gave his 33rd blood donation.

Two White Youths Charged In Slaying Of Negro Are Held

HOUSTON, Miss., July 9 (AP)—A peace justice court has jailed without bond two white youths charged with killing a negro farmer Saturday.

The court identified the two in a hearing as James (Red) Kellum, 23, and James Monroe, 20.

They are accused of killing with a bumper jack negro farmer Malcolm Wright, 45.

Henry Wright, the victim's 12-year-old son, told the court his father was struck on the head with the jack while en route with his wife and four children to town.

Defense Attorney Bob Smith of Ripley said his clients would plead self-defense.

Cotton Mechanization Program Making Rapid Progress In South Plains Counties

By EDWARD WELSH
Avalanche-Journal Staff Writer

Mechanization has developed to a high degree among the cotton growers of the 17 South Plains counties. The day of the horse-drawn equipment is now only a faint memory and even that is being rapidly obliterated.

The tractor together with its varied attachments for cultivating, planting, knifing, crustbusting, discing and a score of other chores is to be found on every farm in the area.

Another machine that is coming to the fore where cotton reigns as king is the cotton picker or stripper.

Cotton Strippers Common

Only a few years ago anyone considering picking cotton by any means other than by hand was looked upon as an oddity or a dreamer. Today the picture is not one of phantasy but of reality. The cotton stripper, which is the more practical of the two types for use on the South Plains, is a common sight in all of the 17 counties.

Estimates as to the number of machines now in use in this section vary somewhat. The reason for this is that no accurate census has been made, manufacturers' and sales records are scattered and many farmers have made machines of their own.

L. R. Ragland, Oliver dealer in Lubbock, reports that he sold 250 strippers last season, his first, and expects to sell twice that many this year.

W. A. Robinson, who took over the Wallace plant on Avenue H, has a ready market for 50 machines. "I am only a small manufacturer," Robinson said, "but I see some really big possibilities for the future."

Number Machines Estimated

Both Robinson and Ragland believe there are somewhere in the neighborhood of 2,500 to 3,500 mechanical pickers and strippers in operation on the South Plains.

A progress report for the year 1947 made by the Texas Agriculture Experiment Station shows there were 3,000 stripper types machines in operation on the South Plains at that time. This figure includes 1,500 single-row types and 150 to 200 miscellaneous types. It does not include any of the sled type strippers.

This report, which is available in the office of Don Jones at the Lubbock Experiment Station, was the last such official report issued on the subject. Many estimates place the present number of machines in operation at something above the 1947 figure.

E. K. Hufstedler believes that most of the "guestimates" being made are a little too low.

"It is possible," Hufstedler said, "that they have made estimates on a smaller area. In the 17 counties of the South Plains there are more than 15,000 farms. A large number of these farms, say 75 per cent, have some kind of a cotton stripper. Of course, if the sled type is not counted, that would make for a lower census."

Vernice Ford of the Ford implement company believes that the total number of machines now in use will total between 3,500 and 4,000. Ford recalls that the first machines were introduced into this area back in 1927.

"John Deere did all of the original work on their machines right here in the Lubbock area," Ford said. "They were particularly interested in developing a machine for the South Plains. Only in recent years have they begun to work on machines for the Delta country."

Machine Cost High

"All of the early experiments were with horse drawn strippers," Ford recalled. "The tests took place on the old O. P. Thompson place east of Lubbock. In 1930 a few machines were sold but during the depression there was a long lull in the business that did not pick up again until 1943."

"Some experiments were made with a tractor-mounted stripper in 1931 but it was a full decade before the machine was perfected," Ford stated.

Because of the better grading obtained by hand picking many of the growers go over their crop once by hand and then complete the job with the strippers. As the machines are improved hand picking may be eliminated altogether.

Machines that actually "pick" the cotton are being developed. Some are in use in the Mississippi Delta country today. They are somewhat more selective than the stripped but are much costlier and require much more attention and care.

Some of the retarding factors in the widespread use of these machines are; the high original cost of the machine; the high rate of depreciation and maintenance; the cost of operation; and, the lower grading of cotton due to the large amount of trash that is taken in with the cotton.

Labor Cost Figured

Some of these detracting features will be eliminated with greater production of the machines, by improvements resulting from the studies made of field tests, by strengthening the machine and simplifying the construction. Those are engineering problems and American ingenuity can easily circumvent the hurdles.

Studies made of last year's crop indicate that one the average it cost something like $2.65 to pick 100 pounds of cotton by mechanical means. In some areas this would represent a considerable saving over the cost of hand labor which ranged up to $4.50 per hundred. Where the machine could be employed for long periods of time in high-labor-cost sections it would be a decided advantage.

In areas of low cost and plentiful hand labor the machine of today would have little advantage to offer the cotton grower.

The mechanical pickers to be profitable to operators will have to be employed over the largest part of the season and be in operation up to ten hours per day. Because of fixed charges that remain the same whether the machine picks one bale or 1,000 bales its use on small farms is not practical.

Quality Can Be Boosted

Other factors to be considered in the use of such machines are field and weather conditions and the type of ginning equipment available in any given community. Up-to-the-minute gins with all sorts of cleaning equipment can boost the grade of mechanically picked cotton.

The big saving in the use of the mechanical picker is in the saving of man hours. Only five hours are required to pick a bale of cotton by machine. Handpicking averages about 100 man hours. Labor supply would determine whether or not a machine could be economcally employed in some regions while in others the pay scale would be a governing factor.

Such machines will come into general use as a natural development. Short picking seasons, the difficulties and uncertainties of seasonal and transient labor and the desire to make the farm unit as independent as possible will hasten the development of the machine.

In the Delta area of Mississippi state alone some 600 to 650 machines are in operation or are available for operation. Many of them are used only as 'stop-gap' measures or experimentally but the results furnish information to surveys that eventually show up as improvements in the machine.

The use of cotton machines of all types will continue to increase on the South Plains. The spread is inevitable as manfacturers continue to better their products.

COTTON STRIPPER—The machine shown in the pictures above is typical of the latest developments in cotton strippers. The machine has rounded intakes that fit closely over the rows of cotton. Small forks rake the cotton up into the machine where most of the trash is knocked loose. By a series of stages the cotton is carried to an endless belt hoist and disgorged into a wagon being towed behind the tractor that operates the stripper. Pete Thompson, Lubbock, shows how one man and a machine can do the work of several men. (Staff photo).

Jaunty, Dashing Look In Hats Returning, Advance Fall Fashion Showings Indicate

BY PHYLLIS BATTELLE
INS Staff Correspondent

NEW YORK, July 9 — Ladies' fall hats — like pinball machines —will yield better results when tilted.

After a week of advance showings in New York's plushiest salons, it seems evident that:

1. Fall hat silhouettes will be angled.
2. Brims will be slightly wider.
3. Crowns will be taller.
4. The total effect will be simpler.

Feathers In Vogue

The best-known designers agree with hair stylists that the short hairdo is here to stay for at least one more season, but they won't go along with another year of tiny hats to match.

The feathered hat looks like a woman's best buy for early fall.

It won't be the rich, formal feather job that American designers have turned out in past seasons, but another version, with pheasant tails replacing ostrich plumes.

Perhaps 50 percent of the new collectons are trimmed with speckled or bright-hued feathers that must have made earthy field-birds as proud as peacocks. They're considered tops for wear with tweeds.

Helmets Still Popular

Cloches will be back, but with a wider look and the effect of a sidedip, even though they sit squarely on the head. A trimming on the lower right side gives the lopsided look. The trim might be feather plumes, clumps of flowers, or droopy bows hanging over the right ear.

In brimless hats, the side-tilt sometimes comes from big, round flaps of fabric or felt that curve down over the ear and hide part of the right cheek.

This trend is referred to as the "elephant's ear" look.

Helmets will be popular for the third year in a row, and hatmakers are capitalizing on their beauty this year, instead of only their practicality.

Cartwheel Hats Return

Whereas last year, ladies tried to make their heads as small as possible under head-hugging crowns, this year they'll go high-hat.

Empire Bonnets will have crowns that push up two inches above the noggin. Turbans will be piled high and drapped lavishly. Berets will poke one side almost straight up at the clouds.

And, most important of all trends for sophisticated ladies, the big cartwheel hat has been readmitted to the fashion houses.

After almost two years of hiding her floppy-brimmed sailor under a large bushel basket — the American woman can take it out and wear it to afternoon and evening functions without fear of a "tsk!"

Goldfish have an average life of only five years, but some have been known to live 25 years.

Brannan Faces Quick Decision On Wheat Production Controls

By OVID A. MARTIN
Associated Press Farm Reporter

WASHINGTON, July 9. (AP) — Secretary of Agriculture Brannan soon must make a decision on future wheat production that could have far-reaching economic and political effects for the nation as well as farmers.

The decision involves this question: "Should the government invoke rigid marketing quotas on the 1950 wheat crop?"

Brannan may give his answer next Tuesday or Wednesday. The time is short because farmers in the southwest will start planting wheat for 1950 harvest late in August.

Two years ago this country was cutting down on its own use of wheat to keep down starvation abroad. This war-born shortage has been replaced by a postwar surplus.

Political Issue Involved

The decision Brannan must make is whether the surplus is large enough to warrant use of government measures to cut next year's production 20 to 25 percent.

His answer will have great influence over next year's wheat prices, and hence influence over income of wheat farmers and those in business who depend upon them. It could bring a precipitous drop in wheat prices and hence a recession in the broad wheat-producing area of the southern, central and northern Great Plains.

Furthermore, his decision could become a big issue in next year's congressional elections—elections which already promise a bitter battle for control of the next congress.

Under farm laws the secretary is directed to proclaim a national marketing quota for wheat when estimated supplies exceed domestic consumption plus exports plus a reasonable reserve. The last official estimate on this year's crop indicated supplies for the marketing year ahead exceed such a level.

Dollar Wheat Possible

A new official estimate will be issued Monday. Unless it shows a sharp drop from the previous forecast, a decision for quotas would appear likely.

But quotas—devices used to curtail production—would have to be approved by at least two thirds of the farmers voting in a referendum. If Brannan decides for quotas, the matter probably would be submitted to a nationwide grower referendum Aug. 13.

Hundreds of millions of dollars in wheat income would hinge on the outcome of such a vote.

That's because the government's program for supporting farm prices is tied to controls. Under the law, if growers reject quotas, the level at which the government would support wheat prices would be reduced sharply. Dollar wheat instead of the present farm average of about $1.90 a bushel could easily result.

Near Farm Depression

The price support level would be at least 90 per cent of parity if farmers approved quotas. But it would be 50 percent of parity if they disapproved. (Parity is a standard for measuring farm prices, designed to be equally fair to farmers and consumers.)

Faced as it is with rumblings of economic difficulties ahead, the Truman administration is about as anxious as farmers are to see farm prices maintained. Secretary Brannan's major theme in recent months has been this: "We must prevent a break in farm prices lest a farm-fed depression lead the nation into a new depression."

General Wainwright Inscribes Cornerstone Of Marine's Home

JOHNSTOWN, Pa., July 9. (U.P.) —Earl J. Mowery, wounded Marine veteran, is rebuilding his home from a charred foundation with a corner stone newly inscribed with the signature of Gen. Jonathan M. Wainwright, hero of Corregidor.

Gen. Wainwright heard that Mowery had lost his second home by fire and was using his own hands to build another. Wainwright visited the site on the outskirts of Johnstown and voiced encouragement to Mowery, who lost his left leg in the Pacific fighting.

Unaware that the general was coming, Mowery was found wearing overalls and a carpenter's apron, making a sand screen. Wainwright, accompanied by Mayor Walter E. Rose, volunteered to give the new cement block home the distinction of a corner stone inscription.

"Forgetful" Plumbers Lament Customer's Lack Of Tolerance

CLEVELAND, July 9 (U.P.)—William E. Zernechel, secretary of the National Association of Master Plumbers, said at the plumbers' convention here that the general public shouldn't be so hard on the plumbers and criticize them for being forgetful.

Zernechel pointed out the impossibility of remembering to bring the right tool to every job. He said plumbers have over 3,000 gadgets and wrenches to lug around and people with bad pipes rarely tell the workmen evactly what or where their trouble is. In his plea for tolerance for the oftberated plumber. Zernechel suggested that home owners learn more about their own plumbing.

Brownfield Man Is Winner In Oil Company's Contest

Blackwell was presented the prize by Conoco Agent R. M. Herod, of Brownfield.

Woman Editor Of Construction Publication Says Her Sex Was No Hindrance To Success

By HAL BOYLE
Associated Press Staff Writer

NEW YORK, July 9.—Mildred Gainey laughs when she hears members of her sex complain about prejudice against women in industry.

The complaints amuse her. Because in two years, starting from nothing she has built up a $250,000 business. And she did it in a man's field—the construction industry.

"Being a woman was far from a handicap," she smiled. "It has been a positive help."

She founded her business—Gainey's Construction Newsletter—at the age of 47. Today, headquartering in Boston, she distributes to more than 1,000 customers a 30 to 40-page daily bulletin on building activities throughout New England.

Has Long Experience

"We serve as a kind of information center for the construction industry," she said. So far as she knows, she is the only woman editor of a construction publication in this country.

"Some people say it's an odd field for a woman to be in," she said, "but I don't feel that way."

She has been in the field for 31 years. After graduating from high school she went to work in the office of a Boston publication specializing in regional industry news. When it was sold in 1945 to a nationwide firm Miss Gainey—in private life Mrs. James William Reardon—decided it was time to retire.

"But I quickly became bored," she said. "I had too much time on my hands. I didn't know what to do with myself. And old customers of the firm I worked for kept phoning and urging me to go into business for myself. So I decided to try."

Cheaper Service

She began in April, 1947, with a phone, a mimeograph machine, a typewriter and an office cubicle.

"I wasn't worried about competing with big business," she said. "I figured my service would sell wider if it were cheaper, so I cut the cost of my newsletter to about one third the price charged by my competitor. And from the start I concentrated on giving my customers personalized service."

Now she has an office staff of 35 fulltime employes and 75 correspondents scattered across the New England states. They keep a day-to-day check on the progress of the region's $2,000,000,000 backlog of building projects.

Character Roles Favored By Movie Actress Marsha Hunt

By PATRICIA CLARY
United Press Staff Writer

HOLLYWOOD, July 9—Marsha Hunt was at 17 the youngest character actress in pictures, and now, eight years later, she's still the prettiest.

MARSHA HUNT

She's played women of 60 flippant comediennes, old maids with spees, schoo teachers, dumb style Southern girls, unmarrie mothers and all.

"And I love every minute o it," she said "That's what I wanted to do I'd never, neve be an ingenue."

No such creatures exist as the ingenues movie starlet usually play, says Miss Hunt. They're figments of the Hollywood imagination.

"All those words, words, words they say," she sighed. "Did you ever hear anybody really talk like that? Mush."

Miss Hunt, currently is playing a straight-talking, sensible policewoman in Columbia's "Woman From Headquarters."

No Leg Art

She got over this ingenue business her first few days in pictures. She went straight to the publicity department and announced she'd be glad to fight a grizzly bear or float over the city in a balloon. But no, absolutely no, leg art.

"I had read enough movie magazines to know that girls who pose for cheesecake are referred to as 'cuties' or 'starlets'," she said. "Well, I thought I could act and I didn't want to be a 'starlet.' I wanted to be an actress."

She did act once in a bathing suit. It was in picture called "College Holiday." She looked pretty good, although leggy.

"I had to show my legs while I was acting again on television," she recalled. "I was doing a production of 'Twelfth Night.' Shakespeare knew enough to put girls in tights once in awhile."

The character role she liked least was in "Pride and Prejudice" singing "Flow Gently, Sweet Afton," off key.

"I happen to have perfect pitch," she said. "It was very hard."

Leg Broken In Ball Game Is Costly For Actor Ronald Reagan

BY BOB THOMAS
Associated Press Staff Writer

HOLLYWOOD, July 9 — Now I've done everything — including a bedside interview with Ronald Reagan.

The actor busted his gam above the knee when George Tobias bumped him at first base in a charity baseball game. That event bumped him out of a fast $100,000, which he was to earn in a picture now starting without him.

So I didn't make any cracks about a "tough break" or "all-star cast" when I saw him in his hospital room.

Income Is Cut

Reagan reported he will be in a traction cast for four weeks, a plaster cast for a couple more and then in a leg brace until about October. That means his yearly income will be half what it would have been.

"It's a strange thing how that little accident put me out," he said. "The week before I was taking a four-foot jump on one of my horses. We took a fall and rolled over and over, like something in the newsreels of the Grand National steeplechase. And I walked away with just a swollen ankle.

Life Not Dull

"So then this happens, just when I'm enjoying life after a winter in England. I was really appreciating the California sunshine and the ranch and everything."

Reagan's life has not been too dull. He reads books and all the papers and he has a television set beside his bed. He has numerous visitors, including many of the uninvited, bobbysocked variety.

Even as we talked he received a telephone call from an unidentified fan who called him on a dare. Such is the life of a movie star.

Reagan seemed content as his mother rubbed his leg with a Chinese backscratcher. "The itching drives me crazy," he said.

SWINDLERS POSE AS POLICE

BANGKOK (AP)—Two men went to Thonburi to buy a motor boat. They didn't buy the boat, but instead lost $1,500 to five men who posed as police.

Nai Yuang Sisak and a nephew, Nai Toi Sisok, found themselves in the hands of the quintet of swindlers who said they were looking for plotters against the government. The bogus officers took Yuang Toi on a ferry boat ride to a distant landing and there made off with the money.

A HOLLYWOOD Column

BY ERSKINE JOHNSON
NEA Staff Writer

HOLLYWOOD, July 9—Exclusively yours: Lana Turner has agreed to report to M-G-M early in August for her first film in almost two years. But the picture will not be any of the three recently announced for her. It's "A Life of Her Own" (which Lana seldom gets) and she'll age from 18 to a 45-year-old hotel maid.

Johnson

The melody lingers on:

When Fox re-issues Rita Hayworth's "My Gal Sal," the ads will read: Rita Hayworth finds her prince charming in her most exciting romance" and "America's favorite princess of love as Sal—who inspired a nation's love song." Just about as subtle as a sailor on shore leave.

Ed East heard that Bette Davis may be starred in a western and cracked: "This I gotta see—Bette in an emotional scene chewing on a stirrup.

Odd that both Clark Gable and Mickey Rooney will play auto race drivers—Gable in "To Please a Lady" and Mickey in "The Big Wheel." I think the Mick fits the type better. At least he fits a midget racer a lot better . . . $64,000 questions: Are Ginger Rogers and Jack Briggs readying a news flash? Is Ava Gardner trying to be Nature Girl? She showed up barefooted at a local fur salon.

Ready To Travel

JOAN FONTAINE leaves for New York, Lisbon and Rome Aug. 1 to appear in background shots for Hal Wallis' "September." She'll do the picture and then return to Broadway for rehearsals on her stage play, "Hilda Crane."

Joan surprised everyone at RKO by making 19 costume changes in an hour testing for "Bed of Roses." I chided her about not doing the same at home. "Oh, but I do," she said. "I can dress in 11 minutes flat. I'm always ready before my husband."

Joan Leslie plays the second lead to Joan Fontaine in this one. It's Joan L.'s mighty happy to be back at work after her long fight with Warner Brothers. She plays a strictly sophisticated role and hopes it will take her out of the ingenue class.

Billy Wilder was asked what "Sunset Boulevard" was about and replied: "It's all about Hollywood. Half the characters are heels. In other words, it's a semi-documentary."

Clara Kimball Young phoned to deny that she's losing her eyesight. Says the report started because of a blood clot in one eye but that she's completely recovered.

Barbara Burns

BARBARA STANWYCK is burning over the re-issue of "Lady of Burlesque"—not one of her better films. . . . Bob Ryan is trying to get RKO's approval to star in an air series based on the character he played in "The Set-up."

Lon McCallister and Nancy Walker have discovered each other. . . . Sol Lesser is so pleased with returns on Lex Barker's first Tarzan film, the next one will have a million dollar budget.

Bust-up of the Joanne Dru-John Ireland romance may be good news to Shelley Winters, whom everyone thought John would marry, but she won't try to rekindle the flame. She says: "It took me too long to get over it the last time."

Eddie Heyman's 1938 song hit, "They Say," is slated for a revival via eight record companies. . . . Ben Gage is up for the male lead in the Broadway musical, "Miss America."

Bathing Suit Giving Way To Evening Gown In Beauty Contests, Model Expert Claims

BY JOHN ROSENBURG
United Press Staff Writer

NEW YORK, July 9 — The beauty queen is losing her bathing suit.

By 1954, she won't have it. No bathing suit. No cheesecake. No "sexiness."

These predictions were made today by Grace Downs, owner of a model agency and beauty school and sponsor of a double entry in the Miss America contest.

People Voice Objection

Miss Downs said the beauty contestant of tomorrow will parade about in nothing less than an evening gown.

"The bathing suit has been a detriment to the bona fide beauty contest," she said. "It has scared off hundreds of beautiful girls who would compete under different conditions."

Miss Downs said the most beautiful girls in America have never been brought before the public eye.

"There are thousands of beautiful girls who would never enter a beauty contest, simply because it's against their principals to exhibit themselves in a bathing suit," she continued. "The girls object to it. Their parents object. And, in many cases, the clergy objects."

Public Measuring Hit

Miss Downs said many beauty contest officials support her. Last year's Miss America, for the first time, was crowned in an evening gown, she pointed out.

Miss Downs said girls also objected to being "measured" publicly. In the future this delicate task will be conducted in private —by women too.

Hot Dog Days For St. Bernard Over

JACKSONVILLE, Ill., July 9. (AP)—The hottest dog in town is a cool canine today. No more hot dog days for him.

The mercury has been in the 90's this week and a heavily furred, 250-pound St. Bernard dog was reported dying from the heat. The Jackson Journal ran a short story about his plight Thursday.

There was immediate response yesterday. The dog's owner, Major Henri Servais of the Salvation Army, was busy all day answering the telephone from persons who wanted to help.

An ice company sent over an air conditioning unit and installed it on Servais' glassed-in back porch. The huge dog isn't moving off the porch, a cool 60 degrees, into the steaming 95 temperatures.

One offer of help came from a 3-year-old girl who wanted to fan the big dog during the heat wave.

But he doesn't need any fanning now. He's air conditioned.

A lotus plant now growing at Kew Gardens, London, England, germinated from a seed collected more than 200 years ago.

AUSTRALIA HAS MORE MEN

CANBERRA (AP)—Girls, there are more men in Australia than women. The difference is about 25,000.

Last December 31 there were 7,794,880 people in Australia. They comprised 3,910,051 males, 3,884,829 females.

This was an increase of 156,252 in a year. The natural increase, excess of births over deaths, was 191,137. Net migration—arrivals over departures—added 55,115.

NEW MANAGER—Albert W. Bobo, above, is the new resident manager of the Lubbock office of Pacific Finance Corp., 1709 Texas avenue. Bobo, who has been with the company since 1946, was transferred here from Dallas. The new executive is a native Texan; served four years in the Army as a captain, and formerly was connected with a consumer finance company where he acquired extensive credit experience. More than one-third of the 74 Pacific Finance offices are located in the Texas-Oklahoma region.

Cancer Cure Rated Most-Needed Discovery In Minnesota Survey

MINNEAPOLIS, July 9. (U.P.)—Minnesotans agree that the discovery they want most is a cure for cancer.

A representative cross-section of the state told the Minnesota Poll that's the "greatest contribution science can offer the world."

BURGLARS DIE IN RAID

BANGKOK (AP)—It's fatal to get caught red-handed in a burglary in Thailand (Siam). An informer tipped off police who rushed to the house near the Rama VI bridge where five burglars were at work. In the ensuing struggle all five were shot to death.

PLANES TO KARACHI

KARACHI (AP)—Pakistan has signed a civil aviation agreement with Norway. Norway intends to operate an air service from Oslo to the Far East passing through Karachi. A similar agreement is likely with India.

Watch Those Cotton Controls; United States Buying Argentine Beef

WE CAN BE HURT:

Beware Of 'Jokers'!

ALERTNESS by everyone interested in cotton in this region, Texas and the entire South, and by their congressional representatives in Washington, is demanded as plans for the seemingly assured restoration of acreage controls next year take final form in Washington.

Self-interest demands that every effort be made to identify and block possible loopholes in the proposed law which might defeat the accumulation of dangerous surpluses of cotton and which might cost this and other short-staple producing regions many millions of dollars.

Illustrative of the possible "gimmicks" which might escape notice, unless watch is kept for them, is the effort of California and Arizona interests to have their cotton classified officially as "long staple" and thus exempt from marketing qutoas and acreage controls. The staple length of Arizona-California cotton is a little longer—perhaps one-quarter of an inch as an average — than that produced in the South and Soutnwest, including the South Plains. But California-Arizona cotton almost in entirety is short staple and in direct competition with that grown in the South and Southwest. If those two states should be exempt from acreage controls on the flimsy pretense that they are producing long staple, the result almost certainly would be to defeat the entire purpose of the control bill. It almost certainly would result in adding to surpluses which, at the whim of Congress or others in official Washington, might be dumped on the market in some future year.

The California-Arizona interests cannot be blamed too much for seeking special advantages for themselves when controls are restored. Probably we would do the same thing if we were in their position. Doubtless there are other areas which are seeking special concessions which, they hope, will not be detected until after the control law is enacted.

The prospect cal's for utmost diligence in trying to catch such Ethiopians in the woodpile before the law is passed. The California-Arizona is one, in particular, to watch for. Detecting and blocking such things easily could make the difference in the effectiveness of the law.

If the jokers are caught, controls probably will prevent dangerous surpluses. If they slip through, then the control measure might be far worse for the cotton industry as a whole than if all farmers were left free to grow all they can.

Sound Investment

THE URGENCY of extending the Lubbock city limits as soon as possible must be considered in the light of widespread prevalence of polio in the state and nation at this time. The public health consideration is, in fact, the most important reason for annexing some of the suburban areas and providing them with safeguards which would protect the entire community.

Considering the conditions existing in several fringe areas, residents in and adjacent to Greater Lubbock should be devoutly thankful that they have thus far escaped a polio epidemic. In several of suburban additions, conditions of insanitation, according to health authorities, invite the spread of disease.

Lack of sanitary sewage creates the worst of the hazards Methods of garbage disposal are unsatisfactory in most areas. Piles of junk are a common side, providing breeding places for rats, mice and other carriers of disease. The sources of water supply for suburban residents are both inconvenient and unsafe.

Extension of the city limits would not eliminate all public health hazards. But some improvements, such as garbage collection, should be immediate. Other objectionable and dangerous conditions unquestionably will be corrected much sooner if the imperiled areas are annexed to the City than if they remain outside.

Yes, the provision of the needed protection would cost money—probably a good deal of money. A bond issue might be necessary.

But such an expense—an investment in public health security—would be infinitely preferable to the continuing danger of an outbreak of polio or other contagious and infectuous diseases.

THIEVES USE BOATS TO MAKE RAIDS ON RANCH

New Twist Given Cattle Rustling On Texas Coast

By SARAH McCLENDON
Avalanche-Journal Washington Correspondent

WASHINGTON, July 9. — Two new forms of cattle rustling are taking place today in Texas, Charles Miller, Barstow rancher, disclosed here recently.

One might be called cattle piracy, inasmuch as it is done by sea and with a boat.

West Texas ranch owners and those whose lands are entirely inland need not fear it. They, however, are today at the mercy of those who rustle cattle by truck and moving van along the highways. Such rustlers are at a particular advantage where a good highway traverses ranches along miles of open space or near the border.

Judge Guy Cade Jackson of Anahauc, president of the Texas Water Conservation association, is believed to be one of the worst known victims so far of the rustling by sea. Jackson, sponsor of the annual fish fry given by the White Heron society, composed of those who plead the cause of Trinity river navigation and development, has a ranch that borders the open sea of the Gulf of Mexico. He has discovered that cattle thieves by boat at night, land, shoot the animal and make off with the carcass.

Thieves Also Use Trucks

What is particularly mean about these thieves is that if they find a cow with a calf, they shoot both so that neither will make an outcry and raise an alarm, then they carry away only what they can, leaving the rest to waste.

The practice has been carried on to such an alarming extent that the judge is having to take measures to guard the cattle, but it is difficult. He had not fenched that section of his ranch because he thought the open sea a safe enough barrier.

Modern cattle rustling as it is done in West Texas is for the thief to come by horse van or high board truck. If any one stops the motorist and sees the head of a horse protruding, he thinks nothing of it. He does not know that perhaps down below the horse's head in the truck are stolen cattle. Perhaps the horse is but an instrument of this thievery in that the rustler can unload the horse, ride him across the range, lasso some cattle, bring them to the truck and load them, then get the horse back into the truck and drive to market. In a few hours, the rustler can be several hundred miles distant at the market. Most marketing of cattle from ranches now is being done by truck anyway, rather than by freight car, according to Miller.

Cotton Plan Okayed

HOUSE and Senate members from the cotton states and Department of Agriculture officials have agreed on an interpretation of the Anderson cotton acreage control bill which vitally affects Texas because it deals with crops planted during the war in lieu of cotton.

They have agreed on the interpretation but have also agreed not to write this interpretation into the bill, Rep. W. R. Poage, 11th district, Waco, said.

An exception is Rep. Cecil White of California, born in Temple, Texas. He held out against the agreement. Senator Clinton Anderson, N. M. initiated it.

The Anderson bill said the older cotton states should have credit for war crops in computing acreage allotments for cotton on the historical basis. But it failed to say how such credit would be extended and congressmen like Poage and others from the older cotton states felt that if the cotton crop were limited according to the total acreage by states the war crop growers would not get much credit. Poage advocated that credit be given on the basis of the individual farm.

Sometimes it is the understanding reached in committee when a bill is being considered in Congress that affects the interpretation of the law, it was disclosed. Ofter on Capitol Hill, these understandings are referred to in discussions of bills, yet the language does not appear in a bill. Some times a cabinet officer may agree

ONE OF THE outstanding characteristics of the modern human being is his desire to impress others with his importance, to continue yesterday's subject.

BRANDEIS

I have never been able to discover why it is important to have people take you for more than you really are, but lots of men and women I know seem to devote much of their time to the achievement of this ambition.

I just read a review of H. L. Mencken's latest book, "A Mencken Chrestomathy."

According to the reviewer, the book is good, as most of Mencken's writings are.

But here we have one prevalent form of "impressionitis," a quality for which this author is famous.

By the way, don't try to find "impressionitis" in your dictionary. It isn't there.

But if Mencken can call a simple collection of his own a "Chrestomathy," why can't I call his ailment "impressionitis"?

The natural impulse of anyone reading the word "chrestomathy" is to look it up in the dictionary. That creates interest in the book, and, according to sales authorities, to create interest is the first step of good salesmanship.

So I looked it up. It comes from the Greek. "Chrestos" means "useful" and "mathein" to learn. So why use English when Greek sounds so much more erudite?

Here is another one. I got it from a medical article.

People might think you are common if you tell them the truth.

But there is an impressive medical term for "gas on the stomach," particularly if it is caused by emotional disturbances that affect your botulus.

(That you will have to look up yourself. The layman's word for "botulus" isn't mentioned at all in the better circles.)

If you have that kind of gas on the stomach you are entitled to say you have "diverticulosis.

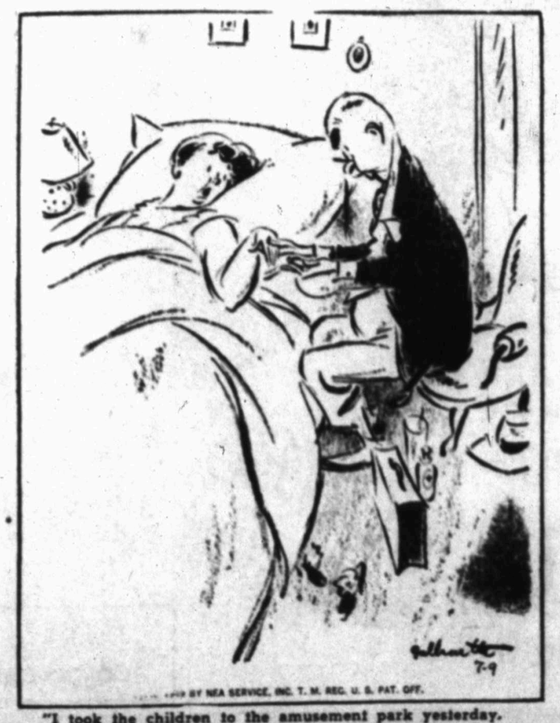

You certainly must admit that Mrs. Jones, with whom you are trying to keep up, can't possibly top your "diverticulosis," no matter what ails her.

U. S. BEEF WASTING

Laws Cited By Army

By DREW PEARSON
Special Correspondent

WASHINGTON — It looks as if the U. S. Army didn't consider itself part of the U. S. government. Or at least that was the conclusion drawn by western senators when they called Secretary of the Army Gordon Gray on the carpet the other day to explain why the Army is buying beef from Argentina when 100,000,000 pounds of canned beef is going to waste in government warehouses.

PEARSON

This tremendous quantity of canned beef has been paid for by the U. S. taxpayer throught the Commodity Credit corporation —the same taxpayer who supports the Army. The beef is of excellent quality and was purchased under the U. S. program to fight the hoof-and-mouth disease in Mexico. In the past, Mexico's largest buyer of beef on the hoof has been the United States. When hoof-and-mouth disease broke out below the border, however, the shipments had to be stopped in order to protect American cattle. Thus, to assure Mexican cooperation in killing cattle, the United States agreed to buy beef in cans instead of on the hoof.

Senator Milton Young, North Dakota Republican, brought all this to the attention of Secretary Gray, pointing out that the Mexican beef is free from disease, and just as good as Argentine beef.

The secretary of the Army replied that the Army was bound by law to buy beef at "reasonable prices."

"I interpret this to mean the cheapest price," he added.

McCarran Gets Tough

Argentine beef, the secretary continued, is two cents per pound cheaper than the Army can buy elsewhere. In the same breath however, he admitted that the Army had bought less than half its supply from Argentina — only 14,000,000 pounds.

"If it is your duty to buy at the cheapest price," snapped Nevada's Senator Pat McCarran, who had summoned the off-the-record meeting, "why haven't you bought all your beef rom Argentina?"

The secretary seemed to think that Argentina didn't have enough.

But the real issue was raised by Senator Young, who pointed out that the same taxpayers who were financing the Army's food bill had already paid for the Mexican beef, and it is now going to waste. Hence, he couldn't see how the taxpayers would save money by buying more beef from Argentina—even assuming it was cheaper than what we had already paid for the Mexican beef.

Gray's only answer was that he didn't realize the Commodity Credit corporation was stuck with such a stockpile, and he promised to do business with it in the future.

The CCC informed Senator Young, however, that it has been trying to sell to the Army for several months.

VENERABLE, white-haired Senator Pat McCarran, Nevada Democrat, had a field day tossing monkey wrenches into the legislative machinery the other day.

When routine matters come up for the unanimous consent of the Senate, there is frequently tacit agreement by both Republicans and Democrats that noncontroversial bills will pass without debate or objection. However, McCarran kept popping out of his seat shouting a deluge of objections.

One item, that McCarran blocked for no apparent reason, was extending tin allocations. Senator Burnet Maybank of South Carolina explained that all other allocations had been lifted, but that extension of the right to allocate was considered necessary in case of Communist-inspired trouble in the Bolivian tin mines. He added that the House had approved the extension unanimously and that his Senate banking committee, polled individually, had offered no objections.

But McCarran jumped up, sputtering: "Mr. President, the explanation of the senator from South Carolina does not clarify the situation so far as I am concerned.

Surprised at McCarran's attitude, Majority Leader Scott Lucas broke in: "Will the Senator withhold his objections?"

"I do not think the leader of the majority here should advocate the passage of a bill of this kind . . ." snapped back the senator from Nevada.

"I think in all fairness to the administration," retorted Lucas, "it is my duty to advocate the passage of the bill."

One Snort Too Many

"The administration is one thing . . ." McCarran snorted. But Lucas, growing impatient, cut him off: "One moment. I have the floor if I may talk just a moment . . ."

The appeal from the majority leader, however, didn't faze McCarran, who continued to object.

Finally Lucas gave up, but announced: "Sooner or later this afternoon I am going to ask that the Senator take up the bill which the senator from South Carolina has tried to have taken up."

But McCarran sang out: "And I will say to the senator from Illinois that later this afternoon I will be here."

Neither Maybank nor Lucas tried to extend tin allocations again that afternoon, but Senator Warren Magnuson, Washington Democrat, asked for unanimous consent to extend the authority of the maritime commission to sell, charter and operate vessels.

Again McCarran leaped to his feet.

"I object, and I shall continue to object," he squeaked. "Of all the highhanded and unlawful outfits in this country, the maritime commission is the one."

Magnuson tried to pacify the stubborn Nevadan, but he wouldn't be pacified.

"Let me say," he shouted, "that unless the commission will agree to comply with the law which never permitted them or never contemplated that they would go into the shipping business in competition with private lines . . . I will stand on the floor of the Senate as long as I have breath in my body to prevent the continuance of the commission."

Maybank and Magnuson decided to wait until the gentleman from Nevada was in a less snorting mood.

There are moments when we think that maybe Harry would have had better luck if he had stuck with his music lessons.

WYNDHAM LEWIS, the bad boy of English art, has examined the citizen of the future and come up with a controversial book on America as it is now and as it may be in years to come, America and the Cosmic Man."

No one reader could agree with all of his observations on the American way of life, for as he turns from one phase to another he will please some, irritate others.

He lists Franklin D. Roosevelt, for example, as the third greatest U. S. president—behind Thomas Jefferson and Abraham Lincoln. President Roosevelt had a nimble mind, he writes, but he remained a politician whose intellectual achievements never measured up to Jefferson's.

He takes a few swings at such Americana as soap operas, zoot suits and the movies. He discusses the American political scene at great length as a visiting Englishman.

His conclusion will find many adherents—that salvation of the modern world can come only through world government and that the United States is in position to lead the way.

"Bismarck Episode"

"THE BISMARCK EPISODE," by Russell Grenfell; (Macmillan).

THE six-day search and running fight that sank the Bismarck, pride of the German Navy, in 1941, makes a story as engrossing as anything in World War II.

It was the longest naval chase since Lord Nelson followed the French fleet to the West Indies and back. It was the first in which radar played a major part. And it was the first in which one battleship actually torpedoed another.

Happened 8 Years Ago

The Bismarck took a lot of torpedoeing before she plunged to the bottom. With a heavy cruiser, the Prince Eugen, she broke for the open Atlantic just eight years ago in May, Objective; to make devastating raids on British convoys that were under heavy attack already in the submarine war campaign.

The British, then fighting the wa ralone, couldn't be sure just what the objective was and had to sweep hundreds of miles of ocean even to find the Bismarck. Radar equipped cruisers finally did it and summoned two of Britain's greatest battleships to stop the raiders. Instead, Deadeye Dick shooting by the Bismarck blew up the Hood and made the Prince of Wales draw back.

Lost Them At Night

For more than a day the cruisers followed the raiders west and south, only to loose them at night. Then for another 31 hours the whole British home fleet cast around to pick up the trail again. Finally the Bismarck, deserted by the Prince Eugen, seemed to be getting away to a friendly port in France when she was slowed up by a torpedo from a carrier plane. After that it was just a question of more torpedoes and gunfire.

Grenfell, an old line naval captain and veteran of Jutland in World War I, figures the aircraft strike a lucky chance. He piles detail on detail and tells the story from the viewpoint of a British naval officer. And it keeps one awake right through the 200 pages.

Diplomatic Incident

"A DIPLOMATIC INCIDENT," by Judith Kelly; (Houghton Mifflin).

JUDITH KELLY, who won a Harper prize in 1941 with her Marriage Is a Private Affair, turns to international politics in her new novel, "A Diplomatic Incident".

The story is woven around negotiations between John Wilson, veteran American career diplomat, and Soviet envoy G. P. Krosov for control of Iran.

Against this background, Miss Kelly dreams up a Soviet underground movement headed by no less than a member of the all-powerful Russian Politburo and with members even in the Soviet embassy in Washington.

Many readers will share John Wilson's skepticism over the motives, if not the existence, of the underground movement. Nevertheless, the novel does contain a timely analysis of Soviet propaganda and methods.

Baseball Story

"IT HAPPENS EVERY SPRING," by Valentina Davies; (Farrar, Straus).

EVERY year, as the days grow longer and the sun more merciless, large muscular men in gray flannel knickerbocker suits take to bouncing small, leather-covered balls around enclosed fields to the hysterical applause of thousands.

At the same season, the publisher's fancy turns to lightweight literature calculated to soothe the reader.

Valentina Davies' "It Happens Every Spring" is a story designed to match up the national frenzy with the publisher's plans. It concerns a poor but earnest young chemistry instructor liquid which makes baseballs allergic to bats.

The young scholar takes his priceless secret to the St. Louis branch of a large baseball chain, where it soom makes him a very popular fellow. In fact, he is the pitching sensation of the whole baseball business—until his magical bug-juice runs out in the eighth inning of the decisive world's series game.

"It Happens Every Spring" is a pleasant fariy tale, worth two and a half hours of anybody's vacation. If it has a flaw, it is the fact that the story was written as a screen play before being put in book form. As a result, the book is stereotypically Hollywood from start to finish.

"Beulah Land"

"BEULAH LAND," by H. L. Davis. (Morrow).

CHILDREN, Grandma Luttrell said, "are all well enough for a while, but then they grow up and git like everybody else."

Which is just what Ruhama, a part Indian girl, and Askwani, a white boy raised by Indians, do in "Beulah Land," H. L. Davis' fine new book.

Grandma Luttrell is one of many striking backwoods characters surrounding Ruhama and Askwani as Davis takes them on a memorable trip starting in 1851, from Crow Town, North Carolina, to Natchez, Council Grove and Tahlequah in the old Indian Territory which later was to be Oklahoma. In leisurely style the author of "Honey in the Horn" and "Harp of a Thousand Strings" slowly recreates forest, prairie, and plain: river, swamp, creek and spring site.

Marvelous Journey

The smell and look of the land come alive, and for 250 pages the story is a marvelous journey, stealing years in its passage, shaping Ruhama's growth from an 11-year-old "contrary" girl into womanhood and two marriages. Askwani from a curious 13-year-old into hard manhood.

Then, somehow, the "story" takes over. What had been a timeless picture changes into a hurried account of adult frustration, warfare, murder and further westward movement. This speed is somewhat disturbing after the flat-boat and horse-cart tempo of the trop. Ruhama and Askwani suddenly are no different from "everybody else," and seemingly worth no more of the story-teller's attention. Nevertheless, the magic of understanding and creation of scene in the first part of "Beulah Land" are enough to make this an outstanding book.

The city of Babylon possibly as early as 3,000 B. C. was a market place to which metals, wool and grain were brought.

IGH FINANCE HONORS WOMAN

Daughter Of Giannini Slated For Bank Board Of Directors

BY JANE COCHRAN
INS Staff Correspondent

SAN MATEO, Cal., July 9—im, attractive Mrs. Clifford P. offman will fulfill a lifelong mbition Tuesday when she takes seat on the board of directors of e Bank of America—the first oman so honored by a banking rm in the billion-dollar class.

The realization is totally unexected despite her keen interest n banking and the fact that her ather was the late A. P. Giannini, ounder of the world's greatest anking empire.

Mrs. Claire Giannini Hoffman, n the modest but comfortable amily home in San Mateo, explained today:

"It was completely unexpected —this very great honor. They elected me, then told me. I am very thrilled.

Father Gave Advice

"When I was a very young woman, I spoke to my father about going to work in the bank. He said: 'Fine, but remember, if you go there, you must get there a half hour sooner and leave a half hour later than anyone else.' He was like that.

"And he told me it would mean giving up all my other activities and my home life, going in to a career in the full and complete sense. I guess I just wasn't willing to give up everything else."

But, despite that early decision, she is credited with a vast understanding and knowledge of the bank's widespread affairs. Both her father and brother, President L. M. Giannini, made it their practice to discuss ideas with her and get her viewpoint. And in her many community activities she has seemed to gravitate naturally to the position of treasurer or to the budget committee.

Is Good Hostess

She is also a limited partner in a New York stock exchange firm, cares for her personal investments, and is a director of the million-dollar endowed bank of America-Giannini foundation.

Friends who admire her business ability are even warmer in their praise of Mrs. Hoffman as a gracious hostess. Visitors are met with open arms and food magically appears "no matter what the hour of the day or night."

She cooks for friends and is great at whipping up fancy dishes —especially Italian food—at night. She also finds time for the "button off" variety of sewing and to supervise the smooth running household, the old Giannini home "Seven Oaks."

Claire Giannini was married May 24, 1930 to the former all-American football star, Clifford P. "Biff" Hoffman. He is now a partner in an investment concern in the San Francisco financial district. They have no children.

To Give Women's View

Mrs. Hoffman is fond of dancing and is stunning in evening dress. For her daytime activities, however, she prefers inconspicuous casual clothes. She likes hunting and fishing and has a gift for music her friends feel has been sadly neglected.

She was soloist for some years at St. Mary's cathedral in San Francisco and at Mills college she was urged to develop her talent for song.

Mrs. Hoffman feels her contribution to the board of the bank of America will be the "woman's viewpoint". Her smiling face turning serious, she says:

"I've worked a great deal with women and I believe they see things from a different angle. It will contribute to the rounding out of the picture. Any new viewpoint always adds rather than detracts.

Posted On Policies

"I hope to bring myself up to date before Tuesday. I've been kept posted pretty much on the bank business and policy because I was so close to my father. After he retired we were together a great deal more and he discussed things with me."

She fills the board vacancy left by the death of her father early last month, but one of the women stockholders had suggested earlier this year that a woman be appointed when the next vacancy should occur.

The board agreed. Then Mrs. Hoffman seemed a natural for the position, as, through her father and brother, her influence and viewpoint had long been active.

She represents the bank's 55,-354 stockholders as well as the women customers, estimated at close to two million.

Project For Education

The Bank of America-Giannini foundation, organized by her father in 1945 to provide money for education for worthy members of the Bank of America personnel and to finance research work has kept her active.

She is delighted with the appointment to the board since the board meets only every second Tuesday and it will not cut too much into the home life she manages even with all her other activities. She says:

"I was away from home so much at school and then traveling with the family. I never seem to have enough of home."

Mrs. Hoffman is an excellent conversationalist and talks freely and interestingly on all subjects but one—her age.

Told that her new position in financial life would remove her woman's privilege of keeping her age a secret, she said in dismay:

"Do I have to give it out? Nobody cares how old a male board member is. I hope people won't insist."

This much can be said—her hair is still a glossy black, framing her classic features and dark eyes, and she is easily the baby of the board.

Carl Spain, Of Lubbock, To Speak At Thorp Encampment

THORP SPRING, July 9. (Special)—Carl Spain, of Lubbock, director of the Churches of Christ Bible chair at Texas Technological college, will be principal speaker at the Thorp Spring Encampment and Training association meeting, to be held July 18-29.

The annual meeting of the board of directors of the encampment and training association will be held here on Thursday, July 21. A. R. Holton, minister of the Central Church of Christ of Nashville, Tenn., is chairman of the board. Other members are O. G. Lanier of Ranger, secretary; and Rich Garrett of Abilene, financial director.

At the meeting, the board will consider the enlargement of the encampment, including construction of a larger tabernacle on the grounds, and increase of housing facilities.

Visitor In Capital

Every one around Midland knows the colorful West Texas sheriff of Midland county, Big Ed Darnell, so when he came to Washington recently, he called the home of Rep. Ken Regan of that city, and said: "Mrs. Regan, this is Big Ed." He knew she would know who it was. Then he added: "I've been asked by the folks back home to swear out extradition papers for you. You've been gone too long."

Generally, the House members are finding their new temporary quarters in the House Ways and Means committee somewhat of a lark. It is a pleasant change. Some even find it more comfortable.

Speaker Sam Rayburn, Bonham, does not mind although he has cautioned the officials of the House Press gallery to see that reporters and congressmen who are now on the same floor level do not intermingle on the floor.

Rep. Ken Regan, Midland, likes it and Rep. George Mahon, Lubbock, thinks the individual leather-backed chairs that are now provided are much more comfortable. He says the old chairs in the capitol were torturous. Perhaps that is why so many congressmen frequently spent most of their time on the floor standing or sitting in the cloakrooms.

Rep. J. M. Combs, Beaumont, member of the House Ways and Means committee, feels right at home.

One of the rules that has been invoked is that women on the floor must takeoff their hats. Some women correspondents objected. They complained that it meant they had to frequent beauty parlors more. And some women reporters just can't work wthout their hats on.

A new type of lobbyist appeared on Capitol Hill this week, an airborne lobbyist from Texas, bedecked in boots and tall Texas hat.

Perry Dalehite, Pearsall, representing the Medina Electric Cooperative, said he flew here at his own expense to urge passage of the bill to provide more rural telephones, offered by Rep. W. R. Poage, 11th district.

Dalehite said: "We're having a meeting of 2,000 members Friday and I just wanted to be able to report to then what's happening on the bill."

Baby Sitters, Spanish Lessons Provided By Ranch-Style Hotel

McALLEN, July 9. (U.P.) — The modern day traveling salesman brings Mama and the kids along and demands baby sitters.

A hotel manager here, Mike Robinson, is the man to give the traveling salesman whatever he wants.

"Our rooms are still full," said Robinson, head of the ranch-style Frontier Hotel. "But there'll come a day when it'll be different. We want to be ready."

So Mike is providing the little extras to lure in the customers.

Besides baby sitters, Mike furnishes free Spanish lessons for those who wish to skip across the border to Reynosa, Mexico, at night.

Other extras include a morning cup of coffee with the daily paper tucked alongside the cup.

Industrial Worker Makes Extra Money With Improvement Ideas

PHILADELPHIA, July 9. (U.P.)—Ray Radeliff has solved the problem of getting extra funds for home improvement. He just thinks up ideas and turns them into dollars.

As "champion" of the SKF Industries employe suggestion system, Radcliff has earned an extra $1,125 since November, 1947, for thinking up ways the ball and roller bearing firm can save money.

His fourth and most recent suggestion, a lathe attachment for simplifying a machining operation that will save the company some $4,000 yearly, netted him $650, the largest such payoff in the Philadelphia industrial area.

Radcliff will use the award, as he has the others, in modernizing his suburban home.

Church To Install Stewards At Service

An installation of stewards of Asbury Methodist church is to be conducted at 8 o'clock tonight at the evening worship service of Asbury Methodist church, Ave. T and Twentieth.

A total of 67 stewards are to be installed. Theirs is the responsibility of carrying forward the program of the church for the conference year.

Young Lubbockites To Attend Mo-Ranch Conference At Hunt

A number of young people of First Presbyterian church are to attend the Pioneer-Senior conference this week at Mo-Ranch, Hunt, Texas. The group will leave Thursday.

Those who are to attend include Dorothy Clements, Mary Beth Smith, Susan Moore, Sue Spangler, Ottilee Fredricks, Susan Mowery, Karl Dockray, Jay Bannister, and Hugh McRee.

The Lubbock young people will return July 21.

CHURCH Briefs

The regular second Sunday afternoon community singing is to be held at Central Baptist church, 1309 Eighteenth, at 2 p. m. today. The public is invited to attend.

The midsummer child dedication service of First Christian church is to be held next Sunday, church officials have announced. Time of the service will be made public later.

A public discussion on the teaching system in Churches of Christ will be offered by Alva Johnson, evangelist from Turkey, and Loyd Moyer, Church of Christ minister of Slaton, at 8 p. m. Tuesday, Wednesday, Thursday and Friday in Ropesville High school auditorium.

The Women's Missionary League of the Redeemer Lutheran church will meet at 8 p m. Tuesday at the parish hall.

Rev. J. C. Hibbard, pastor of the Gospel Lighthouse in Dallas, will conduct a revival Monday through Friday nights at Seventh street and Ave. Q under sponsorship of Bethel Tabernacle. Rev. and Mrs. Boyd McSpadden, pastors of the tabernacle here, will sing.

League To Hold Bible Camp Here

A Bible camp for members of Luther leagues of Lutheran churches in the Lubbock Federation will be held Friday and Saturday at Shepherd King American Lutheran church, 2122 Eighteenth.

Three lectures are to be given each morning, Luther league members will participate in recreation programs at Mackenzie State park Friday afternoon and night.

The Bible camp is under direction of Rev. David V. Sieberg, pastor of Shepherd King American Lutheran church. He will be assisted by members of the Shepherd King Luther league.

Visitors To Lecture

Morning lectures at the meeting are to be presented by three visiting clergymen: Rev. Vernon Mohr, of San Antonio, chairman of the Texas district youth committee, who is to direct the Bible study; Rev. Harold Moench, of Oklahoma City, who is to speak on the organization and work of the International Luther league; and Rev. Lowell Green, of Posey-Southland, who will speak on the life of Luther.

Some 50 young people are expected to attend the Bible camp, which is the first of its kind to be held in this area of Texas in the past ten years.

The Lubbock Federation includes all American Lutheran churches in West Texas from Wichita Falls to San Angelo, and from Lubbock to Amarillo.

Church To Open Vacation Bible School For Youngsters Monday

A daily vacation Bible school is to begin Monday, July 18 at Oneness Pentecostal church, 2102 Fifth, church officials have announced.

The school will be open to young people up to 14 years of age. Hours will be 9:30 to 10:30 a. m. daily

Mrs. W G. Austin, Mrs. Edna Raney, and Mrs Ted Houlette are in charge of the school.

MEET AFTER 55 YEARS—Joe Sonnier 60, above left, of Odessa, and Ben Bailey, 64, right, 616 East Main, who are cousins, met for the first time in 55 years here recently. The last time they saw each other was in 1894 in Rayne, La. Mr. Bailey moved here in 1925 and Mr. Sonnier has been living in Odessa ten years. The two relatives lost contact with each other for about 35 years but have known of each other's whereabouts since about 1930. Their meeting here was the first time they had been together and they had quite a time recalling their early childhood. Mr. Bailey, a former nightwatchman at Keeton Packing company, is unemployed at present.

Pocket-Size Meter Developed To Warn Sun-Bathers Of Burn

SWAMPSCOTT, Mass., July 9. (U.P.)—An anti-sunburn meter to guide sunbathers in acquiring a painless coat of tan may be on sale within a year or two.

A General Electric Co. scientist told a meeting of the American Institute of Electrical Engineers that such a device is being developed.

The pocket-size meter, adjustable to various shades of skin, will show users the intensity of the sun and warn them how much exposure their skin can take.

Former Lubbock Man To Conduct Revival

Scotty Alexander, evangelist of Enid, Okla., will begin a series of open-air revival services Monday night at Temple Baptist church. The series will continue through Saturday, July 23.

Rev. Alexander, who has served as pastor of the Bible Baptist church of Enid for the past six years, organized the Midway Baptist church east of Lubbock in 1942. He served as pastor of that church until assuming his present pastorate at Enid.

The revival service in Lubbock will be conducted on a vacant lot across the street from the Temple Baptist church. The church is located a quarter mil north and one block west of the Texas Tech stadium.

Rev. Ralph G. McCoy is pastor of the Temple Baptist church.

Drive-In Services Featured By Efficiency-Minded Pastor

COLUMBUS, Ohio, July 9. (U.P.) Motorists in this area now can "get religion" from drive-in services.

The Rev. M. J. Mercier, pastor of the Homeroad Christian Church, tried out the idea to help busy farm and village folk at nearby Grove City, who can't find time to get away for regular morning services.

The pastor has arranged a microphone on the front stoop of the church and his voice booms out across the large churchyard which serves as a parking lot.

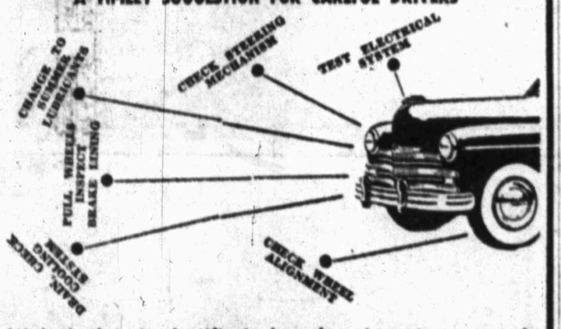

Abilene Minister Conducting Queen City Revival Services

Rev. A. B. Carroll of Abilene currently is conducting a series of revival services at the Baptist church of Queen City, according to announcement by Rev. E. W. Wyatt, pastor of the church.

The revival series is conducted at 8:30 p. m. nightly. The public is invited to attend.
