Senate Resisting Urge To Boost 1980 Budget

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Senate, heeding the advice of austerity-minded senators, is resisting initial temptations to add more money to the 1980 budget for politically popular programs.

The Senate turned back attempts Monday to increase spending for veterans affairs and school lunch programs for needy children above spending priorities with traditionally strong support.

An amendment to boost veterans spending by $400 million was tabled 49-39, and proposed a $100 million increase in school lunch programs was tabled, 69-18. Tabling, in effect, kills the amendments.

The votes amounted to victories for Sen. Edmund S. Muskie, D-Maine, the Budget Committee chairman. Muskie has argued that spending restraint is needed if inflation is to be controlled.

"The world and our fellow citizens are watching to see if we can actually bring the budget under control," said Muskie. "They are skeptical of our intentions and our will."

The Senate Budget Committee has asked the Senate to force seven committees to achive $4 billion in savings agreed to in last May's target budget, but so far not enacted.

The act of compelling the committees to make such savings is called "reconciliation," a part of the five-year-old congressional budget process never before used.

In closed-door negotiations with Democratic leaders last week, Muskie agreed to scale down the reconciliation request to $3.6 billion, including a reduction in the proposed cut for veterans affairs from $200 million to $100 million.

However, Sen. Alan Cranston, D-Calif., the Veteran Affairs Committee chairman, sought $400 million more for veterans above the committee's initial proposal. Cranston attacked the proposed cuts as an attempt "to balance the budget on the backs of veterans."

Muskie responded that combating inflation required sacrifices from many programs. "Inflation is robbing veterans. It is robbing school children ... Inflation is robbing everybody," he said.

The amendment to add $100 million for school lunches was sponsored by Sen. George McGovern, D-S.D.

2 More Dancers Defect

LOS ANGELES (AP)-Two principal dancers with the Bolshoi Ballet eluded Soviet agents after the final performance of the famed dance troupe's American tour and were granted political asylum - the second and third members of Russia's leading ballet company to defect in less than a month, authorities said.

Local police said Monday that Leonid Koslov and his wife, Valentina Koslova, asked for asylum on Sunday and were "in the custody of Federal agents."

The Koslovs, principal solists with the state-sponsored ballet, joined a long line of prominent Russian dancers who have defected to the West. The latest was Alexander Godunov, 30, who raised an international furor when he defected Aug. 22 during the Bolshoi's New York engagement.

There was no comment from the Soviet news media on the latest defections but a Bolshoi official in Moscow said the Koslovs were "far from our best performers ...We have plenty of soloists like these."

Tail Falls Off Plane

BOSTON (AP)-Flight attendants were serving lunch to the 38 passengers on an Air Canada flight high over the North Atlantic when a four-foot chunk of its tail blew away.

"All of a sudden it felt like the windows had blown in," said a passenger, Ellen John, 25, of Taunton, Mass. "People started screaming. Food was flying around."

Horrified passengers could see out the gaping hole at the rear of the DC-9 jetliner as Flight 680, carrying 42 persons, limped back to Boston and landed safely Monday.

Gold Continues Surge

LONDON (AP)-The price of gold continued its relentless surge today, jumping more than $22 per troy ounce and hitting an all-time high of $375.75 a troy ounce at mid-day on the London bullion market. The noon price in Zurich was $373.50.

Gold has gained $50 an ounce over the past two weeks as the Arab oil countries, European banks and speculators convert large cash holdings into precious metal as a hedge against inflation.

The SDN Column

You probably thought there was a mid-January blizzard blowing in if you saw how Jack Cypert bundled up for the football game last Friday night.

He chided us for coming out to the stadium in a short-sleeved shirt without a jacket. We just couldn't bring ourselves to wear a coat to a football game that started before nightfall in the middle of September. But the north wind really was getting in its licks and by half-time we were willing to accept the jacket our better half brought to the stadium after making the one-block trip back to the house to get herself a blanket.

And then, Saturday morning the report from the water plant showed a low reading of 49 degrees.

So, autumn is bearing down on us. And that makes us feel for those barefoot place kickers, such as Tony Franklin formerly of Texas A&M and now of the Philadelphia Eagles. Some of the TV commentators were wondering what Franklin will do when the Eagles go to Green Bay, Wis., on Nov. 25 to play the Packers. If the weather runs true to form, his kicking foot could be numbered by the time he ran from the bench to the middle of the field to kick off, or try a field goal or extra point.

The county reunion proved to be one of the focal points of the Scurry County Fair this year, and it may be that the Fair Association will want to consider some special event such as this in future years to build more interest in the exposition.

With 15 years behind it now, the Scurry County Fair is no longer a novice, and it has endured longer that some people thought it would 15 years ago. It should be able to expand interest as time goes on, and an event such as the reunion could be the catalyst.

Atheists Protest Pope's Appearance

AUSTIN (AP)—Two atheist leaders have filed suit to stop Pope John Paul II - "the crowd plunger" - from saying Mass on a public mall in Washington next month.

They urged atheists and others, including women, gays and blacks, to join them in picketing the pope in Chicago.

One of the reasons the Roman Catholic hierarchy invited the pope to America, Madalyn Murray O'Hair said Monday, was to enhance Sen. Edward Kennedy's political future, presumably for a presidential race.

Ms. O'Hair and her son, Jon Garth Murray, said the Roman Catholic Church owns land worth more than $162 billion and "scores of cathedrals" where the pope can celebrate Mass.

The Murrays told a news conference they had filed two lawsuits in federal district court in Washington to stop the pope from conducting mass on the mall between the national Capitol and the Washington Monument on Oct. 7.

Murray, director of the American Atheist Center, and his mother also said they would lead a "peaceful demonstration" against the pope at Chicago's Grant Park on Oct. 5.

How peaceful it is, Murray said, "hinges on the insanity of the Roman Catholic crowd up there." He said law officers had been notified of their intentions to demonstrate.

Their suits state a permit has been granted for the pope to say Mass on the Washington mall Oct. 5. They claim such use of public land is unconstitutional.

The suits were mailed Thursday and named as defendants "Karol Wojtyla, alias John Paul II, a.k.a. the Pope of Rome"; Secretary of the Interior Cecil Andrus and William Whalen, director of the National Park Service.

The suit against the pope seeks $10,001 "in damages for deprivation of atheistic civil libertarian rights." The other suit seeks no specific amount of money.

Mrs. O'Hair said the pope's visit has been timed "to interfere with the political process - to make Kennedy, D-Mass. a more favorable candidate."

Urge Farmers To Sign Up For Spraying

Scurry County cotton farmers are being urged to respond promptly to notices of a boll weevil control spraying schedule.

Johnny Richardson, president of the Scurry County Producers Association, said the notices were mailed late last week and that farmers should have received them by now. The producers association recently announced plans for two sprayings, one on Oct. 15 and another on Oct. 29, as a maintenance project to keep boll weevils under control in the county. The cost if $3 per acre.

The association is asking farmers to sign up and pay their share as soon as possible, and all payments must be in by Friday, Sept. 28 so that spraying contracts can be let and supplies can be purchased.

A number of farmers already had signed up and paid their share, but many still remain, Richardson said.

Two sprayings last fall are credited with keeping boll weevil population to a minimum during the 1979 crop season. However, it is feared that without a maintenance program, the pests will become a problem again next year.

Foundation Okays Growth Plan Unit

Members of the Snyder Industrial Foundation met Monday afternoon and approved creation of a growth-planning task force.

Objective of the task force would be to establish goals for adequate industrial growth to assure Snyder and Scurry County's economic future and continued growth.

The group will be composed of representatives from the Industrial Foundation, Industrial Team, Chamber of Commerce, City of Snyder, Commissioners Court and Board of County Development.

The group will set goals which in turn will be implemented by one of the groups currently organized to assist with industrial development.

Tommy Davis, Industrial Foundation member, also brought the board up to date on the organization's funds raised last year for "seed" money. He reported that all the funds currently are in a certificate of deposit drawing interest.

The board also discussed a plan to raise additional money, should the need arise.

Red Fields, president, presided at the meeting. Other board members present were Davis, Truett Bryan, Lanny Wadleigh, Paul Sizemore, Roy McQueen and Derald Lambert.

Circus Here Wednesday

Wednesday will be circus day in Snyder.

The annual Shrine Circus will be in town for two performances at the Scurry County Coliseum.

The three-ring show will have a matinee at 4 p.m. and an evening show beginning at 8 p.m. Tickets are priced at $2.50 each.

SCREENING TESTS–All kindergartners, plus first graders new to Snyder Public Schools are being screened this week by the instructional support staff. Peggy Kennedy, elementary counselor, is shown giving tests to young Michael Griggs. Each student is being given a battery of developmental tests in the areas of language, gross and fine motor, speech and vocabulary. Purpose of the screening is to prevent school failure through early identification and remediation of developmental learning deficiences in kindergarten and first grade children. Following the testing sessions, teachers will have conferences with parents to discuss results. The screening tests will continue through Sept. 24. (SDN Staff Photo)

Ask Us

Q--Why did the school tax office mail two letters to property owners when they could have put both in one envelope and saved the extra envelope and postage?

A--The mailing list is computerized, and those who own more than one piece of property got a notice on each piece of property because they are in the computer geographically rather than alphabetically, says Ray Peveler, tax assessor-collector. It would have cost more than the extra postage to have sorted them out. Also, most taxpayers got only one notice because most have only one piece of property. Some exceptions were owners of rural property who got notices on their land and separate notices on improvements.

Scurry Jail Picked For Health Care Program

The Scurry County Jail is one of 10 jails in the state that has been selected by the Texas Medical Association to participate in a program to improve inmates' health care.

The selection of the Scurry County Jail, was based in part on a questionnaire filled out last month by Scurry County Sheriff Keith Collier in which he noted that inmates would benefit by receiving additional medical care.

"It involves meeting their (TMA) specifications which is a bundle this thick," said the sheriff, holding up a stack of papers about a quarter of an inch thick.

"What it boils down to," explained Collier, "is if you get certified, inmates will be receiving the best health care if we meet their standards."

What the details of those standards are even the sheriff doesn't know exactly. Collier said he didn't know the jail had been selected for the program until told by news reporters. The newspaper learned of the selection of the county jail through an announcement by the Texas Medical Association.

Basically, however, the program will involve medical schooling and additional training for jailers and possibly for other personnel in the sheriff's office as well. Emphasis will be placed on preventive care and the greatest thrust will be aimed at long-term inmates, said the sheriff.

One advantage in having the program, Collier said, is that the county and law enforcement officials can not be held liable for improper health care.

"If you have this and provide these type of services they advocate, we don't have to worry about inmates filing suit against us in federal court," he said.

Collier said health care currently provided for inmates is adequate, but that participation in the health care program will provide better health care.

One question mark in the program is its cost. Collier said he did not anticipate the expenses to be very great, however.

Collier added he would know more about the cost of the program and other details "whenever they notify us. They haven't notified us yet."

The county jail, a new structure completed late last year, was occupied this past January. The current inmate population is approximately 27.

Another Tie In Football Predictions

A tie was again the result in the Snyder Daily News' Football Contest this week.

Elizabeth Wilson, Rt. 3, Box 511-B, and John Loyola, 127 20th Pl., both mispredicted only three of the 24 games in the contest.

Ms. Wilson incorrectly called Minnesota vs. Ohio State, Hermleigh vs. Wellman, and Ira vs. Grady, while Loyola mispredicted New Home vs. Borden County, Dallas vs. Chicago, and Rice vs. Tulane.

The winners will split the sum of the first and second prizes of $12.50 and $5, giving each $8.75. They may pick up their prize money at the SDN office.

Again in today's paper football fans will find an opportunity to win money. Read the rules on the back page, pick up your entry blank at a participating merchant, and return it to the SDN.

Prize for a perfect score is $100.

Henri Becomes Tropical Storm

VERACRUZ, Mexico (AP)—After an "erratic dance" off eastern Mexico, Hurricane Henri was downgraded to a tropical storm today as it began to drift northwest toward the Gulf coast town of Tampico, 250 miles north of here, the U.S. National Weather Service in Miami said.

Henri's top winds were averaging about 65 miles an hour, down 10 mph in the last 24 hours. But the U.S. weather agency warned persons in coastal areas to be prepared for high winds and tides 2 to 3 feet above normal.

The storm was located about 150 miles southeast of Tampico and continued to weaken, the Weather Service said. Because of its nearly stationary course it was difficult to predict whether it would hit the United States.

Earlier, the Meteorological Service here had warned residents along the coast from Tampico north to Soto La Marina to prepare for "hurricane force winds."

Efforts to cap a runaway offshore oil well in Campeche Bay were suspended and the well continued to spew thousands of barrels of crude oil into the Gulf of Mexico.

SNYDER TEMPERATURES: High Monday, 83 degrees; low, 52 degrees reading at 7 a.m. today, 64 degrees; precipitation, .02; total precipitation for 1979 to date, 16.75.

West Texas - Considerable cloudiness with widely scattered showers. Partly cloudy Wednesday with widely scattered showers extreme southeast. Continued mild. Highs mid 60s to the mid 70s. Lows in the 50s.

gold fever rising

Years ago, the world's major nations went off the gold standard.

No longer were their currencies backed by and convertible into gold. It made sense according to sophisticated economic theory. Gold is nothing more than a metal in limited supply. Defining a currency in terms of its availability is an artificial restriction, unrelated to real economic needs and an obstacle to monetary flexibility and economic expansion.

A "barbaric relic" in this view, gold is not much less primitive than wampum or cattle as a monetary standard for complex industrial economies.

There is only one thing amiss with the well-reasoned argument against gold: It has never convinced the public.

By way of current example, the market in the "barbaric relic" is booming as never before in modern times at trading centers in Europe, Asia and United States (there is a thriving Chicago commodity market in the metal). The price goes higher and higher, up more than 50 percent so far this year and currently about 10 times what it was only eight years ago when the United States severed the last link between the dollar and gold - the official Treasury price of $35 an ounce.

With the barrier of $300 an ounce now behind, some forecasters are expecting the $400 mark to be reached by the end of the year.

Numerous reasons are advanced for the surge. Supply and demand is clearly a factor, and it is a fact that supplies of newly mined gold are off. Leading producer South Africa is holding roughly steady but consignments from the Soviet Union, a somewhat erratic number two that frequently tries harder as a quick way to pick up vital foreign exchange, are reported down more than 30 percent so far this year.

Industrial demand, primarily for the manufacture of jewelry, remains strong, unlike previous periods of rapid price increases when it has shown a tendency to fall off.

And perhaps most significant, "black gold", in the words of a French economist, is being converted into the real yellow stuff. Heavy buying from the Mideast is reported. According to one report, Saudi Arabia and a few other oil countries are picking up close to a third of all gold currently being offered for sale.

And that points to the basic reason for the intensifying interest in gold: The worldwide inflation that is affecting almost all major currencies, and especially the dollar. The oil producers would not be shifting their accumulated wealth into gold if they were not worried about the dollar as a dependable repository.

The current gold fever infects not only bulk buyers and dealers but small investors. Even at more than $300 an ounce and despite limited funds, a stake in gold is possible through purchase of increasingly numerous and popular gold coins. Gold Napoleon coins, favorites of French and other private investors for years, have been joined by South African Krugerrands and, most recently, Canadian Maple Leaves.

Economists may still not think much of gold, but clearly the world public does. Arab purchases and other explanations of the current price surge beg the real issue. And that is that despite years of governmental efforts to retire gold, it remains a universal indicator of economic conditions and the preferred refuge from inflationary storms for millions of individuals, from large investors to small hoarders.

It has yet to be proven to them that when it comes to retaining value, anything else can really be as good as gold.

a bitter remedy

It's been just a couple of months since the President picked Paul Volcker to head the Federal Reserve Board.

He was to be the Administration's hired gun to shoot down inflation.

During Senate confirmation hearings he promised that he would increase interest rates to whatever extent necessary to accomplish that purpose.

Reassured, the stock market rallied.

Now Volcker is doing what he said he would do -- and the stock market is slumping.

We know there are times when only castor oil will do -- but we still don't like the taste of it.

There are many factors contributing to inflation:

--Workers demanding more without producing more means that everything they produce has to cost more.

--Government extravagance at home and abroad which produces nothing at all makes money worth less.

People spending more and saving less creates upward pressure on prices.

As chairman of the Fed, Paul Volcker promised to curtail this "overspending" by raising the interest rate on borrowed money.

If you have to pay upwards of 12 percent interest for a home mortgage you are less likely to buy a new home. Indeed, applications for new home building permits decline as a result of this tight money policy.

Volcker is pleading with Congress not to reduce taxes at this time because reduced taxes would leave Americans with more spending money and more spending inevitably drives prices higher. However, none of this medicine tastes good.

And Congress during an election year will be under increasing pressure from back home to cut taxes regardless.

It's terribly tempting for members of Congress to stimulate our nation's economic activity just before an election even though they may be buying your vote with stage money.

Chairman Volcker is trying to counterbalance this influence, trying to convince Congress not to cut taxes, not to initiate wage, price or credit controls which inevitably result in a costly, cumbersome regulatory morass.

He says Americans should be encouraged to save and invest their money by a government reduction of taxes on those activities.

Presently, on your bank account interest you may pay a 70 percent tax! That does not encourage saving. That encourages spending. And spending creates upward pressure on prices.

If we will curtail our appetite for more money worth less - what's in it for us?

Chairman Volcker believes business inventories will be less by the fourth quarter. Our economy will grow moderately through 1980. And the shrinkage rate of the American dollar - now running 13 percent - may be down to 8½ percent by Christmas.

That's not enough correction but it's the right direction.

by john dunnam

The movement against cigarette commercials has gotten a second wind. Representative Don Edwards from California wants the tobacco industry to sign an agreement with the Federal Trade Commission not to use people in any of the advertising. Edwards claims the ads are aimed at young people despite the 1964 code prohibiting such ads.

The tobacco people say they are just trying to make a living like the next guy. They are quick to point out that they provide millions of jobs and bring in billions in tax revenue. So what if they send a few people to their graves early. We need the parking spaces.

I would hate to see the reformers get their way entirely. You could bet your ashtray they wouldn't be content to just snuff out cigarette advertising. Next they would be telling us which foods we could eat.

The decision to smoke should be a personal thing between the individual and anyone who may have to share his home, place of work, room, etc.

But if any industry deserves all the flak it gets about it's marketing techniques it is the tobacco pushers. They provide prime examples of how regulations that choke the ethical businessman get on the books.

Look at some of the advertising published back when they had a free hand. On the back cover of a 1935 Popular Mechanic's magazine an ad for Camels goes like this: "Think how our nervous hurried way of living affects digestion. We live in high gear. Often the rush plays havoc with nerves and the digestive system. Here is an established fact: Smoking Camels has been found a definite benefit in promoting natural digestive action."

I wonder who established that fact. The ad continues with some testimonials. A dietitian says, "Smoking Camels during meals and after promotes digestion." She is echoed by a riveter shown high up on his perch steady as a rock, and also by a maitre d' in a fancy French restaurant.

On another full page ad on the back of another early edition of PM, a bob sled champion says, "To renew my energy I light up a Camel. An airline pilot says, "I smoke a lot. Camels never upset my nerves." Big letters at the bottom of the page say, "They are so mild you can smoke all you want."

I wonder what the ads would say today if it was left entirely up to the tobacco industry and its mighty dollar. I'll bet the movie stars and athletes would be endorsing them. I can see some lithe female do two spins on a bar, leap to the floor, pause to light up and then face the camera and say. "Hi, I'll bet you never thought you would see a celebrity plugging cigarettes. Well I wanted to be the first ... it seems so natural."

martha angle and robert walters

WASHINGTON (NEA)- President Carter and his loyal associates are whistling in the dark if they hope to keep Sen. Edward M. Kennedy out of the 1980 presidential contest with warnings that his candidacy would split the party.

The way things have been going for Carter politically, his own determination to seek a second term is more likely to divide the Democratic Party than would a Kennedy candidacy.

For the simple fact is that Kennedy would never have edged this close to challenging Carter if Democratic officeholders, constituent groups and foot soldiers hadn't already begun to unite in a conviction that the president is a hopeless loser.

Carter can still prove the doubters wrong, climb out of his longstanding trough in the public opinion polls and recapture the loyalty normally due an incumbent president. And if he seems to be moving that way, Kennedy will not try to chop him off at the knees.

But time is running out for a Carter comback. As a practical matter, Kennedy will pretty much have to decide by the end of this year whether to go for the nomination himself or stand aside and watch the play unfold without him.

This is not 1968, when Robert F. Kennedy was able to wait until after the key New Hampshire primary - and Eugene McCarthy's stunning showing there - to enter the race against President Lyndon B. Johnson.

In 1968, only about 40 percent of the delegates to the Democratic National Convention were chosen through the 17 primaries held that year. In 1980, approximately 75 percent of the delegates will be selected in at least 35 primary elections.

Filing deadlines for presidential candidates will come and go in something like 15 states - including such crucial ones as Pennsylvania, New York, Florida and Illinois - before the New Hamspire primary is held next Feb. 26.

No serious candidate, not even one as popular as Teddy Kennedy, can afford to pass up that many potential delegate votes. And there is no feasible alternative to appearing on the ballot in such states.

It is one thing to hope for a write-in victory in a small state like New Hampshire, which is accustomed to such campaigns and which still uses paper ballots widely, and quite another to expect similar success in a big state where voting machines are universal.

Therefore, if Kennedy is going to enter the race, he might as well jump in with both feet and file for the New Hampshire primary by that state's Jan. 12 deadline. New England, after all, is the senator's home turf. Why not take advantage of that?

Carter has no one to blame but himself for his precarious political condition. Until last week, Kennedy had done nothing whatever to encourage all the Democrats urging him to run in 1980. But "draft-Kennedy" groups were springing up all over despite the senator's reticence. And they were genuine draft organizations, too, put together by people with no ties to Kennedy.

The senator has now sent them the signal they were waiting for, the broad hint that he may yet respond to the call of Democrats convinced that Carter cannot win next year.

In effect, Kennedy has given the president a year-end deadline to prove by his performance in office and by his poll ratings that if given a clear shot at renomination he would be a viable candidate against whoever the Republicans nominate.

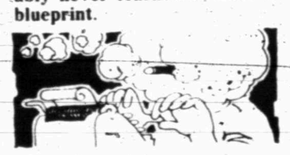

If Carter can't meet that test, then Kennedy could enter the race with a clear conscience and the claim that the only way for the Democratic Party to remain united and in the White House would be for Jimmy Carter to step aside.

raising the roof

NEW YORK (AP)-G. William Miller has asked Congress to raise the ceiling on the federal debt by $56 billion to $886 billion, a figure that was destined, he knew, to raise the roof as well.

Treasury secretaries before Miller have had the same experience: Their requests have been met with anger, debate, promises and threats, but after the noise has died they have been granted, as expected.

And so the debt grows inexcrably, while attempts to put a lid on it are as futile as trying to cap Mt. Etna.

The Tax Foundation estimates, for example, that interest payments alone on the 1980 fiscal debt will be about $57 billion, or only a bit less than the entire 1940 national debt, cities and states included.

The contrast can be spiced with layers of comparisons. That $57 billion, notes the foundation, is 600 percent more than in 1960. And with interest rates rising, that percentage is also bound to rise.

But now for the shocker: As a percentage of gross national product, or the total output of goods and services, the federal debt has been - are you ready - falling. Not in actual dollars, but in percentages.

In 1960, the foundation observes, the federal government owed $290.9 billion, or 58.5 percent of that year's gross output. It estimates the 1980 year end debt will amount to 35.9 percent of that year's GNP.

But after accepting those figures you must pause to realize what inflation can do. It is, for example, included in gross national product numbers. Absurd, unrealistic, misleading, you say. Yes, but true.

By using inflated GNP figures you have the illusion of growth when little exists. The economy might grow very little, or shrink, in 1979, but the dollar figures won't reveal it. They're growing at 13 percent.

One of the reasons we have such inflation, claim some of the monetary "experts," is that the federal government is running big deficits and borrowing money to finance it. That borrowing, they say, inflates the GNP numbers, and keeps the debt to GNP ratio from rising.

At the same time, or so it is argued, the high level of borrowing forces up interest rates, including those paid by Uncle Sam. And those high interest rates, of course, can worsen the already burdensome debt.

There is no quick solution, and Congress really is without much choice in dealing with Miller's request. If it doesn't approve, and quickly, the Treasury might have to postpone the refinancing of its notes.

So let it postpone, you say. Fair enough, but with interest rates still headed higher, that could cost the government even more money. It happened last spring, said Elmer Staats, the comptroller general.

There exists the possibility also that the government wouldn't be able to pay its workers and suppliers, which would set off an even bigger controversy. To raise the limit seems to be the only possible move.

Historical Military Uniforms Chapter's Program Topic

Members of George Cogdell Chapter of Daughters of American Colonists met recently in Snyder for the initial meeting of the current year. The meeting was held in the home of Mrs. Gene Dulaney. Chapter regent Mrs. Kenneth Whisenant presided. The opening prayer was voiced by the chapter chaplain, Mrs. Henry F. Clark. The American's creed was recited in unison.

A program, prepared by Mrs. Leland S. Herod, presented some highlights of the history of military attire. Uniforms from ancient times to the present were noted. The talk was interspersed with pictures depicting a few significant uniforms beginning with the Military Company of Massachusetts in 1639. This company was made up of pikemen in half armor and musketeers carrying matchlock muskets. Both officers and men wore red feathers in their hats and buff coats.

Also shown was a picture of a uniform worn by Col. Howarth's Regiment which was raised in South Carolina in 1757. These were known as "the Buffs," taking their name from the color of the uniform.

Other uniforms pictorially shown were of the revolutionary era and included an officer in the army, a gunner aboard ship and a drummer.

Refreshments were served by Mrs. Dulaney assisted by Mrs. Lawson Stiff.

Attending the meeting were members, Mmes. Ophelia Blackard, Virginia Clark, Elizabeth Connell, Jonisue Stiff, Sue Whisenant; Misses Delila Baird and Josie Baird; and a guest, Mrs. Lucie Yeaman.

VIEWS PICTURES-Miss Josie Baird, organizing and past regent of George Cogdell Chapter, DAC, studied pictures illustrating the program presented on the history of military uniforms at the September meeting of the chapter.

ATTEND CONFERENCE-The staff at the Snootie Fox attended the Southwest Hair Conference and Exhibition 1979 in El Paso recently. Top hair stylists representing Zotos, Clairol, Redken, Conair, Fermodyl, Ardell's Hennalucent and Roux showed the latest haircutting and hair styling techniques. Also, they received instruction in the latest technology in sculptured nails, Unique Nails. Attending were, standing from left, Sandra Sipes, Malinda Jones, Jan Lanier; and seated, Jean Black and Sue Ferguson.

In rubber bridge North will respond with either three spades or two clubs. The final contract will be four spades by South in either event.

Some match-point players like to respond two diamonds. They are heading for that same four-spade contract, but want to stop the diamond lead.

As you can see the diamond lead holds South to 10 tricks. Without a diamond lead or an ace of hearts lead followed by a diamond shift, South draws trumps, discards his two diamonds on clubs and makes a slam.

For years, match-point players have been bidding the diamond suit in situations like this.

Other players have grown accustomed to this type of action and such bids are like a two-headed rattlesnake. They bite both ways.

This time the two-diamond bid backfired. West would probably have opened a diamond in any event. He opened the suit and South was held to the minimum.

Three Homemakers Attend Conference

Three homemakers from Scurry County will attend the 53rd Annual Statewide Conference of the Texas Extension Homemakers Association, Sept. 25-26 in Fort Worth. Mrs. Joyce McCoy, Snyder; Mrs. Dorothy Campbell, Hermleigh; and Mrs. Virginia Drake of Knapp will be attending the meeting.

"Living, Learning and Sharing in Century III" will be the theme for the conference to be held at the Kahler Green Oaks Inn, at the junction of Highways I-20 and 183.

Ysleta L. Kudlaty, Lamar University director of university counseling, keynote speaker, will address the association on "Stress Management for the Homemaker."

Other conference highlights will be educational committee workhshops on health, safety, 4-H and youth, recreation and cultural arts, family life and citizenship.

Additional workshops will concern membership and public information.

More than 1,000 Texas Extension Homemaker delegates are expected to attend the conference, and other interested persons are welcome, according to Mrs. Charles Warminski of White Deer, Texas Extension Homemakers Association president.

Patchwork HE Meets Thursday

Patchwork Squares Extension Homemakers Club will meet Thursday, Sept. 20 at 9:30 a.m. in the annex of the coliseum. Phil Fortune of Texas Electric Service Co. will present a program on electrical safety and energy conservation in the home.

A work day has been planned for Tuesday, Sept. 25, 9:30 a.m., for the purpose of making bazaar items. All club members interested are invited.

LODGE BIRTHDAYS--Lonnie Ball, left, and Thomas Hunt were honored with a birthday party in the dining hall of Leisure Lodge recently. They enjoyed a decorated cake given by Highland Bakery; corsage and boutonniere given by Hinshaw's; and ice cream donated by Hub Evans with Gandy's. Having birthdays but unable to attend were Viola Norris and Oliver Hawkins. RSVP members Andy and Ruth Roe, Doris Bennett, Floyd Jennings, Mildred Lewis and Rita Dowdy served and presented entertainment at the affair. Ruth Roe and Doris Bennett, volunteers, with September birthdays were also honored. (SDN Staff Photo)

4 Chryslers In Top 10 Of Fuel Efficient Cars

By JAMES PHILLIPS
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — The financially-troubled Chrysler Corporation is the only American automaker to offer 1980 models ranking among the Top 10 in fuel economy, the Environmental Protection Agency announced today.

Two models of the diesel-powered Volkswagen Rabbit - both made in Germany - head the EPA mileage list for the second consecutive year. The five-speed manual transmission version is rated at 42 miles per gallon and the four-speed Rabbit at 40 mpg.

Two Chrysler models - the Dodge Colt and the Plymouth Champ - tied for the next best mileage figures at an estimated 37 mpg each.

That topped all U.S. manufacturers, gasoline or diesel-powered, and all foreign car makers except Volkswagen.

Some autos were not included on today's list and will be covered in an updated version to be published early next year, EPA said.

Of the Top 10 cars, six are gasoline powered.

Tied for fifth place - behind the two Volkswagens, the Dodge Colt and Plymouth Champ - are two diesel-powered Volkswagen Dashers and a gasoline-fueled Honda Civic with a five-speed transmission. Each of the fifth-place cars is rated at 36 mpg.

Rounding out the Top 10, each getting an estimated 35 mpg, are a Honda Civic with a four-speed transmission, and a Dodge Colt and a Plymouth Champ with four-speed transmissions slightly different from the Colt and Champ models ranking higher on the list.

EPA estimated the annual fuel costs for the No. 1 Rabbit at $286. This figure assumes the car is driven 15,000 miles a year, with the cost of diesel fuel at 80 cents a gallon. The top-ranked Chrysler cars would cost $364 a year to operate, based on gasoline costing 90 cents a gallon.

Not all drivers get the mileage estimated by EPA. This is because the tests are conducted by professional drivers under laboratory conditions and do not reflect wide differences in actual driving habits, road conditions, traffic, weather and maintenance procedures.

EPA says its estimated mileage figures should be used only for comparison purposes and not be viewed as a guide to expected fuel economy.

WTC Ropers Win Area Team Event

Team ropers from Snyder and the surrounding area gathered at the Jerry and and Connie Springer ranch Saturday for a day of team roping and barbecue.

When the dust cleared, the Western Texas College rodeo team was $930 richer and Brent Murphy had flagged 84 teams through three go-rounds and two fast-backs.

Average winners were Bob Byrd and George Maude, who collected $403 for their efforts in roping five steers in 72.73 seconds, a consistent 14.5 average.

The WTC team would like to thank the ropers who attended, the ropers who brought and donated their steers, the Springers, Bar H Bar Western Wear who furnished the barbecue, Goat Hataway who prepared the barbecue, and others who made the roping a success, Bob Doty, WTC rodeo advisor, said.

Complete results from the roping were as follows:

FIRST ROUND - Ty Springer, Arlin Youngblood, 8.66 seconds, 134.40; Bob Byrd, John Montgomery, 9.09 seconds, 89.60.

SECOND ROUND - Arlin Youngblood, Bob Byrd, 9.33 seconds, 134; Tommy Newman, Jerry Springer, 9.68 seconds, 89.60.

THIRD ROUND-Eddie Eicke, Vance Voss, 8.28 seconds, 134; Johnny Eicke, Bo Robinson, 8.46 seconds, 89.60.

Averages - Bob Byrd, George Maude 72.73 (5) - 403.20; Kenny Hart, Jimmy Sterling 74.86 (5) - 302.40; Jimmy Sterling, Jerry Springer 94.11 (5) 201.60; Ty Springer, Arlin Youngblood 52.32 (4) 100.-80.

In 1821, Caroline, wife of 26 years of the future George IV of England, was locked out of his coronation in Westminster Abbey and her name was left out of the ceremony. Once George was on the throne, the House of Lords passed a bill to divorce and degrade her on charges of marital infidelity, but the public did not believe the charges and the bill was dropped.

UT Battleground Of Sandwich War

AUSTIN (AP)-The starving artists who say Roland De Noie's "Salvation Sandwiches" saved them from a long, hungry afternoon lined up to buy lunch and offer support for De Noie's battle with university officials.

"I wasn't going to have lunch today, but since you're here..." said a turkey, provolone cheese and lettuce customer.

Many of the customers told salesman Mike Kleinman to keep the change for a defense fund. Kleinman was arrested Friday and his boss was picked up Monday for selling the allegedly illegal sandwiches.

At the center of the "Sandwich War" is a UT rule against solicitation on campus. Jim Colvin, vice president for business affairs, says sandwich magnate Roland De Noie's mobile stand sets a dangerous precedent.

"The basic objection we have is the no solicitation rule on the campus. If we didn't have it we'd be overrun by everyone trying to sell everything," Colvin said.

The vice president says the university maintains its control over the street although it is open to the public. Colvin said the city agreed to the terms when it was given permission to put a street through.

But De Noie and his salesmen cannot understand why they cannot do business here while city buses roll by and take students' money.

"We're not hurting anybody. This is just a service here," Kleinman said as he dug a cream cheese with olive out of an ice chest.

The corner of San Jacinto and 23rd Street a busy one. Kleinman said he can sell over 100 sandwiches during the lunch rush.

"They are really being punitive now," Kleinman, who continued the sales after De Noie was taken away, said. "What this is is a test case. Nobody knows what the law is and now we'll go to court to find ut. We're not running away."

Kleinman said De Noie and the university have been doing battle off-and-on for about three years.

He promised the faithful Monday that the sales will go on despite what he sees as harassment. "We may have to go underground," he warned customers.

Adult Education Classes Resume

Adult Education classes will be resumed at Western Texas College at 7 o'clock tonight.

These classes are offered without cost to adults who have not completed high school. Students may prepare for the GED or work to improve skills in reading, math and other subjects for personal reasons.

Students may enroll at any class meeting and will study at their own pace.

Classes meet at 7 o'clock each Tuesday and Thursday night in the Learning Resources Center.

Persons wishing information about Adult Education may call Jerry Corkran at the college, 573-8511, extension 249.

Connally Blasts Action Against Cops In Philly

DALLAS (AP)-Former Texas Gov. John Connally has blasted the Justice Department's unprecedented civil rights suit against the City of Philadelphia and its police force, saying it was "an unwarranted and outrageous abuse of federal legal authority."

The federal government's intervention "ignores the historical right of a state and locality to handle its own affairs," Connally said at the annual convention of the International Association of Chiefs of Police Monday.

"The people of Philadelphia are perfectly able to look after themselves," the Republican presidential candidate said.

"They do not require the Justice Department's sledgehammer approach. If police brutality has occurred, local grand juries and local prosecutors are best able to investigate the allegations and see that justice is done."

The Philadelphia suit was the first against an entire urban department. The suit alleges that officials tolerated the civil rights violations of every racial and ethnic minority in the city.

Earlier, U.S. Attorney General Benjamin Civiletti defended the way the government handled the Philadelphia case and two Texas police brutality cases involving Hispanics.

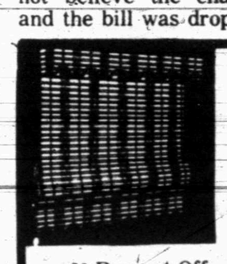

"I've always been concerned about minority rights," Civiletti said. "And I abhor brutality as much as anyone, probably more."

As deputy attorney general Civiletti was sent to assess allegations of police brutality and civil rights violations against Hispanics in Dallas, Houston and Phoenix.

His tour ended in frustration for Texas Hispanic leaders when Civiletti said there were no plans to reopen any of the cases.

Monday, Civiletti said he had no qualms about not reopening the murder investigations of Dallas' Santos Rodriguez and Houston's Joe Campos Torres, both of whom were killed while in police custody.

"The decision not to reopen the Santos Rodriguez case was decided on the facts of the law," Civiletti said. "There was no dissent within the department, and I have no qualms about the correctness of either case."

Difficult To Tell Who Sells What Nowadays

By LOUISE COOK
Associated Press Writer

Soap companies sell food. Food companies sell clothing. And super-conglomerates? Well, they sell just about everything.

You never know who is responsible for what these days.

Advertising Age, a trade publication, provided some clues recently with its annual report on the 100 biggest U.S. advertisers. The magazine says these companies spent more than $10 billion on national advertising in 1978, an increase of 17 percent over 1977.

If you read the fine print, you'll find some interesting corporate bedfellows. The bacon on your table and the bus you take to town, for example. The toys for your kids and the food for your dog.

Here, in alphabetical order, is a random selection of companies and some of the things they produce:

-The Campbell Soup Co. of Camden, N.J., goes from soup to, er, pickles. Vlasic pickles in particular.

-Chesebrough-Pond's of Greenwich, Conn., maker of Pond's cold cream, also has Vaseline petroleum jelly and Ragu spaghetti sauce.

-The Colgate-Palmolive Co. of New York is behind Hebrew National kosher frankfurters.

-Consolidated Foods Corp. of Chicago tempts your tastebuds with Sara Lee bakery products. If you drop some crumbs, call the company's Fuller Brush man. Consolidated Foods also markets hosiery, L'eggs.

-Esmark Inc. of Chicago, the folks who bring you Butterball turkeys, sponsor Playtex bras, too.

-General Foods of White Plains, N.Y., tells you to stretch your at-home food dollar with Shake 'n Bake coating mix and urges you out of the kitchen and into a Burger Chef.

-Greyhound Corp. of Phoenix, Ariz., takes you places with its buses and feeds you Armour Star bacon when you get there.

-Gulf & Western Industries of New York offers fantasy with television shows like "Laverne & Shirley," but its view of panty hose is No-Nonsense, which it also owns.

-International Telephone & Telegraph Corp. of New York brings you Wonder bread, Sheraton hotels and the stag from the Hartford Insurance group.

-The Liggett Group Inc. of Montvale, N.J., provides L&M cigarettes, Alpo dog food and Izmira, a Turkish vodka made from white beets.

-Mattel Inc. of Hawthorne, Calif., bring you the Barbie doll. They also bring you Ringling Bros. and Barnum & Bailey Circus.

Miles Laboratories of Elkhart, Inc., sells Morningstar Farms textured vegetable protein meat substitute. And S.O.S. scouring pads. And Alka-Seltzer.

-Nabisco Inc. of East Hanover, N.J., offers cookies, biscuits and Rose Milk skin products.

Norton Simon Inc. of New York may be the champion. While its name is not necessarily a household word, you probably know the names of its divisions: Hunts tomato products, Avis rental cars, Max Factor cosmetics, Canada Dry beverages, Johnnie Walker scotch, Halston Enterprises and McCall Patterns, to name a few.

-Noxell Corp. of Baltimore cleans your skin with Noxzema and your floors with Lestoil.

Pepsi Co. Inc. of Purchase, N.Y., makes you work up a thirst with golf clubs from Wilson Sporting Goods and snacks from Frito-Lay.

La Resolución Conjunta Senatorial #13 propone una enmienda en la constitución de Tejas para autorizar a la Legislatura para que provea una garantía de préstamos, a las personas calificadas, para la compra de bienes raíces agrícolas y ganaderas. De esta manera, la enmienda propuesta podría permitir a la Legislatura el proveer, emitir y vender bonos de obligación general llamados "Farm and Ranch Loan Security Bonds" (Bonos de Seguridad Para Préstamos Agrícolas y Ganaderos) del Estado de Tejas, sin exceder la cantidad de $10 millones de dólares. Todo dinero recibido de la venta de estos bonos sería depositado en un fondo diferente en la Tesorería Estatal y sería administrado por el comisionado de agricultura, sin más apropiaciones. Estos fondos garantizarían préstamos para la compra de bienes raíces agrícolas y ganaderas. El comisionado de agricultura usaría estos fondos bajo las provisiones prescritas por la Legislatura, con el propósito de garantizar préstamos para la compra de bienes raíces agrícolas y ganaderas; para adquirir hipotecas de bienes raíces o escrituras de bienes raíces compradas con préstamos garantizados. Estos fondos serían usados también para adelantar un porcentaje del principal y del interés debido en esos préstamos, a la persona que califique para el préstamo. La Legislatura también podría autorizar al comisionado de agricultura para que venda cualquier terreno adquirido mediante esta enmienda. El comisionado de agricultura requeriría al menos un 6 por ciento de interés en dichos préstamos. La enmienda propuesta apropiaría la cantidad suficiente para pagar el principal y el interés de los bonos que vayan adquiriendo más valor, o que se venzan durante el año fiscal, menos la cantidad del fondo de interés y amortización al final del año anterior.

La enmienda propuesta aparecerá en la boleta como sigue:

"La enmienda constitucional para autorizar a la Legislatura para que por medio de la venta de bonos de obligación general del Estado de Tejas, provea una garantía para que las personas calificadas puedan obtener préstamos para la compra de bienes raíces agrícolas y ganaderas."

PUBLIC NOTICE

BRIEF EXPLANATORY STATEMENTS OF PROPOSED

CONSTITUTIONAL AMENDMENTS

SPECIAL ELECTION

NOVEMBER 6, 1979

PROPOSITION NO. 1 ON THE BALLOT

(H.J.R. 108)

House Joint Resolution 108 proposes an amendment to the Texas Constitution relating to the appointment and terms of notaries public. The proposed amendment would:

—Require the Secretary of State to appoint a convenient number of Notaries Public for the state; and —Authorize terms of office of Notaries Public of not less than two years nor more than four years.

A temporary provision of the proposed constitutional amendment provides that the amendment would take effect January 1, 1980; that each person who was appointed a notary public before January 1, 1980, would continue to serve as a notary public for the term for which the person was appointed; and that this temporary provision would expire January 1, 1982.

The proposed amendment will appear on the ballot as follows:

"The constitutional amendment to provide for the appointment of notaries public for the state and for a term of not less than two years nor more than four years as provided by law."

PROPOSITION NO. 2 ON THE BALLOT

(H.J.R. 133)

House Joint Resolution 133 proposes an amendment to the Texas Constitution to provide for legislative review of the process of rulemaking by agencies in the executive department. The proposed amendment would allow the Legislature to enact laws:

—To provide for legislative review of the process of rulemaking by agencies in the executive department;

—To prescribe conditions for rules to take effect;

—To provide for suspension, repeal, or expiration of rules;

—To prescribe procedures; and —To delegate powers to either or both houses or to committees of either or both houses.

The proposed amendment will appear on the ballot as follows:

"The constitutional amendment to provide for legislative review of the process of rulemaking by agencies in the executive department."

PROPOSITION NO. 3 ON THE BALLOT

(S.J.R. 13)

Senate Joint Resolution 13 proposes an amendment to the Texas Constitution authorizing the Legislature to provide for the guarantee of loans used to purchase farm and ranch real estate for qualified borrowers. The proposed amendment would allow the Legislature to provide for, issue, and sell general obligation bonds called "Farm and Ranch Loan Security Bonds" of the State of Texas not to exceed 10 million dollars. All money received from the sale of such bonds would be deposited in a separate fund with the State Treasurer and administered by the commissioner of agriculture without further appropriations. These funds would be used to guarantee loans for the purchase of farm and ranch real estate. The commissioner of agriculture would use these funds, under provisions to be prescribed by the Legislature for the purpose of guaranteeing loans used for the purchase of farm and ranch real estate, to acquire real estate mortgages or deeds of trust on lands purchased with guaranteed loans. These funds would also be used to advance to the borrower a percentage of the principal and interest due. The Legislature may also authorize the commissioner of agriculture to sell at foreclosure any land acquired in the manner authorized by this amendment. The commissioner of agriculture would be required to charge at least 6 percent interest on such loans. The proposed amendment appropriates an amount that is sufficient to pay the principal and interest on the bonds that mature or become due during the fiscal year less the amount in the interest and sinking fund at the close of the prior fiscal year.

The proposed amendment will appear on the ballot as follows:

"The constitutional amendment authorizing the legislature to provide for the guarantee of loans for purchase of farm and ranch real estate for qualified borrowers by the sale of general obligation bonds of the State of Texas."

Patients Don't Wait Patiently

By Abigail Van Buren

1979 by Chicago Tribune-N.Y. News Synd. Inc

DEAR ABBY: Hooray for STEAMED IN STOCKTON, who was tempted to bill his physician $100 for the two hours he spent cooling his heels in the outer office.

Listen to this: I made an appointment for a routine physical six months in advance. When I arrived, the waiting room was packed with patients. An hour later, I was called into an examining room and was told to undress. I did. I sat there unclothed for 40 minutes until his majesty, the doctor, entered!

As soon as I was on the examining table, his telephone rang. The doctor said, "Excuse me," and proceeded to talk to another doctor about a business deal. They talked for 10 minutes, after which he phoned his secretary and asked her to call yet another doctor.

I lay there seething with resentment while my doctor told the second doctor what the first doctor had told him about their "tax shelter."

I was given a very fast examination, after which the doctor prescribed medication for high blood pressure. Believe me, I know what caused it!

STEAMED IN LONG BEACH

DEAR STEAMED: My mail reflects a great deal of sympathy for STEAMED. Read on:

DEAR ABBY: We had a doctor in Falls Church, Va., who never overbooked appointments. We never had to wait more than five or 10 minutes to see him. He had an excellent practice, and was so conscientious he refused to take a new patient unless he had time. (He referred them to a colleague.)

In Florida, it's another story. My husband had a 2 p.m. appointment. At 4 p.m. he was still waiting. He approached the nurse and asked, "Do I have to wait until the doctor sees all these other people?" (There were about 10 people waiting.) The nurse replied, "You CERTAINLY do." With that, my husband walked out!

STEAMED IN DAYTONA BEACH

DEAR ABBY: I gave my doctor a taste of his own medicine a few years back. He used to keep me waiting for hours before I could get in to see him.

I was plenty annoyed, but I didn't want to change doctors because I had gone to him for years, he had all my old records and X-rays, and I thought I might as well live with the devil I knew rather than the devil I didn't know.

Anyway, when it came time to pay him, I made HIM wait for his money.

It never got me in any quicker, but I felt better about having to wait.

GOT EVEN IN IDAHO

DEAR ABBY: I worked for a doctor for six years. When he had two examining rooms, two appointments were booked for the same time. When he added two more examining rooms, four appointments were made for the same time. His appointments were booked 15 minutes apart.

In my association with other doctors' receptionists, I learned that they all worked on the same principle—the number of appointments booked for a given time depended on the number of examining rooms the doctor had.

I have suffered this fate as a patient. I suppose there are exceptions if you are lucky enough to find a doctor who is more interested in his patients than in their money.

Don't use my name. I may have to go back to work again.

NO SIG IN N.J.

DEAR ABBY: I have a system I use to beat the "waiting game." I always ask for the first appointment of the day when I want an appointment with a doctor, dentist or beauty operator. I am never kept waiting.

It never fails.

School Requirements For Army May Loosen

By FRED S. HOFFMAN
AP Military Writer

WASHINGTON (AP)- The Army, unable to meet its manpower goals, will soon loosen schooling requirements so more young men and women can qualify for enlistment, sources say.

At the same time, the Army is raising its recruiting objective for the 1980 fiscal year starting Oct. 1 in hopes of overcoming this year's shortage.

The Army is eliminating a requirement that male and female volunteers complete at least the 10th grade before trying to enlist, said the sources, who asked to remain anonymous.

Formal announcement of the actions was expected shortly.

"It won't make any difference how much schooling you've got, so long as you can pass the entrance qualification test," said one senior officer.

The minimum acceptable score on that mental test will remain at 31 percent.

The Army still will hunt for as many high school graduates as it can attract, officials said. High school graduates generally have proven more reliable and more likely to finish their enlistments, according to military manpower studies.

The relaxing of school requirements for recruits is the latest in a series of steps the Army has taken in a so-far unsuccessful effort to fill its ranks.

Gen Edward C. Meyer, the Army's new chief of staff, told a news conference Monday that "it looks now as though, at the end of ...the fiscal year, we are going to end up somewhere around 13,000-to-15,000 short."

Pentagon officials reported shortly afterward that the four services all were below their enlistment objectives by a total of 23,300 men and women as of the end of August, only a month from the finish of the current fiscal year.

While loosening its school requirements for enlistment, the Army upped its fiscal 1980 goal to 173,000 recruits - nearly 15,000 above this year's objective.

Last summer the Army reversed a year-old policy and decided to accept 17-year-old male volunteers who have not completed high school but finished at least the tenth grade.

The army also has ruled that generally higher standards demanded of women recruits in the past would be brought in line with those for men as of Oct. 1. This action was taken when enlistments of women showed a dramatic drop early this year.

While abandoning the 10th grade school minimum, the Army said it would use a new "military applicant profile" questionnaire to screen 17-year-old male enlistees as a method of predicting whether they will finish their three-or four-year enlistments. This screening device will be tested on women selectively for the time being.

A&M Confers High Award On Snyderite

Dayton Robertson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Sam Robertson, 3007 College Avenue, has been named a President's Scholar at Texas A&M University.

This honor is presented annually to about 60 Texas high school seniors with outstanding scholastic, civic and leadership abilities. The award includes a $6,000, four-year scholarship upon enrollment at Texas A&M.

Students are chosen for this pretigious award at the beginning of their high school senior year to give additional recognition to their exceptional talents.

Recipients are selected by Texas A&M Scholarship Committee from nominations by Texas high school principals.

The President's Scholar program, started in 1967, is designed to keep Texas' brightest high school graduated in the state for their university educations.

Felony Charge Of DWI Filed

A felony charge of driving while intoxicated has been filed against Armando Martinez.

Martinez was arrested Sept. 17 by officers of the city police department. He has been released after posting a $1,500 bond.

Secret Wartime Diary Of Eisenhower Found

HOUSTON (AP)-In two copyright articles, the Houston Chronicle has reported the discovery of part of a secret wartime diary General Dwight D. Eisenhower ordered destroyed in 1945.

The 22-page typescript was discovered by Francis L. Loewenheim, Rice University historian, in a Columbia University manila envelope in the Eisenhower Library at Abilene, Kan.

Loewenheim said the envelope was among the voluminous personal papers the library received after the 1969 death of the former president and former Columbia University head.

The historian wrote there is little doubt the sentiments Eisenhower recorded and later sought to suppress did represent his deep-seated feelings, particularly about such military figures as Adm. Ernest J. King and Gen. Douglas MacArthur.

"What we have here, in effect, is the real Ike," Loewenheim wrote.

The diary entries were written in the early days of the war, from the time Eisenhower was in the War Department's operations division to the early days as commanding general of the European theater.

Entries made in February and March 1942 were said to have described Eisenhower's mixed views of King, who had become commander in chief of the U.S. fleet in December 1941.

The Feb. 23 entry said King "...is an arbitrary, stubborn type, with too much brains and a tendancy toward bullying his juniors! But I think he wants to fight, which is vastly encouraging..."

Then followed this March 10 entry: "One thing that might help win this war is to get someone to shoot King. He's the antithesis of cooperation -a deliberately rude person -- which means he's a mental bully.

Lowenhein wrote that the relations between MacArthur and Eisenhower cooled noticeably while Eisenhower served as a top MacArthur assistant in the Philippines before the war.

While he was head of the Pacific and Far East section of the War Plans Division, Eisenhower's Jan. 13, 1942, diary entry made an "...I've got my fingers crossed" reference to MacArthur.

"I still think he might have made a better showing at the beaches and passes, and certainly he should have saved his planes on Dec. 8 --but he's still the hero!!!" the entry added.

On Feb. 8 another entry read:

"Another long message on 'strategy' to MacArthur. He sent in one extolling the virtues of the flank offensive. Wonder what he thinks we've been studying for all these years. His lecture would have been good for plebes!"

Second Suit In Oil Spill Filed

HOUSTON (AP)-A second $100 million dollar lawsuit seeking damages from Pemex, Mexico's national oil firm, and Sedco Inc. has been filed in federal court.

Permargo, a privately-owned Mexican drilling firm, also was named suit alleging the oil spill resulting from the June 3 blowout of a Pemex well in the Bay of Campeche has caused at least $100 million in damages.

The suit was filed in behalf of the Willacy County Navigation Dist, White Sands Developers, Hilton Sea Island Hotel, Port Mansfield Utility District and all Willacy and Cameron county subsidivisions that have lost tax revenues because of the spill.

The same defendants were named in a $155 million lawsuit filed Thursday by Texas fishermen.

Sedco, the Texas firm that supplied the drilling rig for the well that blew out, petitioned U.S. District Judge Robert O'Conor last Tuesday to exonerate the firm from liability for the oil spill or place a $300,000 limitation on liability.

O'Conor granted Sedco's request that all claims be filed in Houston and set an October 23 deadline.

The Monday suit alleges the navigation district has lost vast but unspecified amounts of revenue from its seafood processing operation and marketing of ice and fuel to fishermen because of the oil spill.

The district's Port Mansfield Seafood Plant announced Friday it was closing until next spring because of business losses since the spill. The plant has about 15 full-time and 100 part-time employees.

Because of sharply curtailed tourists trade in the South Texas area, the Hilton Sea Island alleges it has lost more than $1 million since oil began washing up on the beaches.

Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D.

Treating leg cramps

By Lawrence Lamb, M.D.

DEAR DR. LAMB — Will taking a five-grain capsule of quinine every night harm a person in any way? My husband takes one each night because of leg cramps. He has taken bottle after bottle of calcium but it doesn't help anymore.

I have a nutrition catalog and I was wondering if I should order some potassium for him. It reads 83 milligrams of potassium gluconate, whatever that means.

DEAR READER — No, that small amount of quinine is not likely to cause your husband any problem unless he's one of those rare people who is sensitive to quinine. It is a useful medicine to control leg cramps in some cases. I might mention that some people also get relief from leg cramps by wearing long, heavy wool socks at night. Keeping the legs warm seems to help.

A person who has leg cramps should have a medical examination. I assume your husband has had an examination since he's taking medicine for his cramps.

No, I don't think the potassium pills are a good idea. The concentrated amount might not be too easy on his digestion. He can get three times as much potassium than is in one of those pills from just eating one good orange. It will also taste a lot better. You'd be better off to spend that money on some fresh fruits, such as oranges and bananas, than you would in buying pills.

Unless your husband is low in potassium, which I doubt, extra potassium will not help him. But since you are interested I am sending you The Health Letter number 10-12, Salt: Your Vital Sodium And Potassium Balance. Other readers who want this issue can send 75 cents in check or coin with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for it. Send your request to me, in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, NY 10019.

DEAR DR. LAMB — My daughter has been told that she has endometriosis. I've tried to find out about this and can't. Could you explain to me what endometriosis is?

DEAR READER — The endometrium is the lining of the uterus. This is the part of the uterus that undergoes cyclical changes under hormone stimulation and changes to permit the implantation of the ovum for a normal pregnancy. It is this tissue that sheds each month during menstruation.

Endometriosis refers to this type of tissue being displaced outside of the lining of the uterus. It may be seeded into areas in the pelvis but a common location is in the ovary. It usually makes its presence known by causing severe pain. The pain usually occurs just before menstruation. It can cause pain in other areas as well but usually the pain can be identified in relation to the menstrual cycle.

Because this tissue can be implanted in the tubes and block them, it can also cause infertility. That's why many doctors recommend to women who have endometriosis to try to have their family as early as possible, before the growth of this displaced tissue produces permanent sterility.

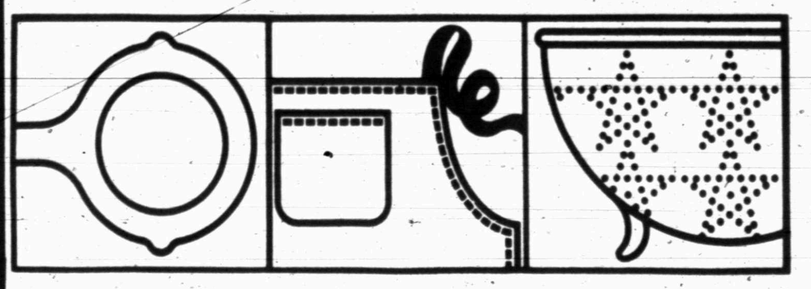

I should add that you don't always have to have pain with the disease but that is the usual problem that brings the condition to the physician's attention.

Act Now For A Beautiful Lawn This Spring, Advises Hinshaw

If you want a beautiful lawn this spring, now is the time to act.

Hinshaw's House of Flowers and Greenhouse can provide you with all the items you need to have a pretty, colorful lawn this spring.

Hershel Hinshaw says now is the time to plant your spring bulbs, and he has tulip, Hyancinth, Narcissus, Daffodil, and Crocus bulbs in stock for only $1.95 a package.

Another important thing to remember in assuring that your spring lawn is the prettiest on the block is to winterize your lawn now.

Hinshaw's has ferti-lome winterizer fertilizer to protect your lawn throughout the long, hard winter.

Mr. Hinshaw explains that roots continue to grow through the winter, and if you winterize your lawn the roots will continue feeding and in the spring you will have much healthier, greener grass. And there will be less winter kill too!

To make winterizing your lawn less of a chore, Hinshaw's House of Flowers furnishes a spreader with each purchase of fertilizer and there is no charge for delivery.

You'll find Hinshaw's active in all phases of the flower business, including funerals, weddings, hospitals, conventions, and banquets.

And now Hinshaw's has the newest innovation in the field of flowers. A Mercury Network computer has been installed in the shop to handle all FTD orders. No longer does Hinshaw's have to telephone FTD orders in -- they now just type in your order to the computer and your order is sent quickly and easily to an FTD florist in the city your flowers are going to.

Mr. Hinshaw points out that on heavy traffic days, such as Valentine's Day or Mother's Day, the computer avoids the worry of having to call all day to get through to the FTD florist in another city, or possibly not getting through at all.

Hinshaw's also carries an amazing selection of gifts, stuffed animals, hangers, candles, dried flower arrangements, elephant fans, baskets, and decorator items.

Hinshaw's is without a doubt the most complete florist you'll find and employees Sandra Bruns, designer; Teresa Hand, designer; Linda Scoggin, bookkeeper; Kathy Thompson, greenhouse keeper; and JoBeth Stephens, DE student trainee; as well as co-managers Brent Hinshaw and Tommy Johnson, and owners Hershel and Pat Hinshaw make it so.

Visit Hinshaw's House of Flowers and Greenhouse at 2804 College Ave. or call them at 573-8561 today and prepare your lawn for spring.

READY FOR SPRING---Hinshaw's House of Flowers has everything you need to have a beautiful spring lawn--but you have to start now. Brent Hinshaw, Hershel Hinshaw, and Tommy Johnson, (left to right) suggest that you winterize your lawn with ferti-lome fertilizer for healthier, greener spring grass. They also recommend that you plant bulbs now to have pretty Tulips, Daffodils, Crocus, Hyancinths, and Narcissus this spring. (SDN Staff Photo)

Tigers Topple San Angelo

Some heads-up defensive play and a relentless offense kept Snyder's home court winning streak alive here last night.

The Tigers, who have not lost in SHS Gym for over a year now, outlasted a strong AAAA team, San Angelo Central, 14-12, 9-15 and 15-6 to keep the string intact.

Central had defeated Snyder twice earlier this season, both times in San Angelo.

In other action last night, Snyder junior varsity also won, posting a victory of 15-13 and 14-12 over the visitors.

Tonight, the Cat teams travel to Big Spring. A junior varsity match will begin the agenda at 6, followed by a varsity tilt at 7.

Snyder took an early lead in the first game here and held it most of the way until the eight-minute clock ran out with the score at 12-11. The teams exchanged serves before the Bobcats made it 13-12, but Snyder rallied again to score the two-point margin hit, winning the game some three minutes after the clock had actually wound out.

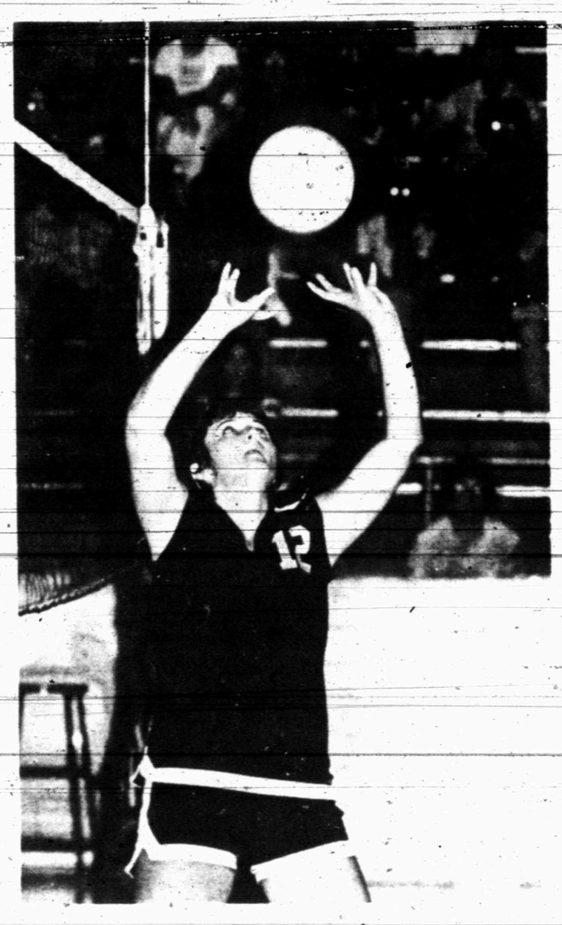

Central got the best of things in the second game, after the squads stayed close early-on. Using a strong hitting game and supurb defense, the taller Bobcats tied the match at one game apiece.

But the final belonged to Coach Joyce Elrod's Tigers, who jumped out to a 2-0 lead and never lost it, breaking free mid-way through to oust the visitors, 15-6, and win the match.

Coach Elrod was pleased with the victory, noting, "The hitting of Kim Harlin and Sherry Mayes was very good. I think that probably helped turn the tide for us. Billie Owens did a great job setting and it was really the first time they've all (the team) played together without letting up."

Lisa Cobb paced the effort by serving for 9 points. Mayes had 7 and Owens and Harlin garnered a half-dozen each, while Patsy Casas netted 5 and Suzy Fisher had 4.

In earlier play, Shana Koonsman served for 10 points as the Tiger junior varsity edged Central in two games. Sherri Rich and Kerstin Selmon accounted for 5 each, while Toni Elrod scored 4, Kathy Northcott 3 and Ann Melton 2.

USC Gains Votes, Remains On Top

By The Associated Press

Southern California's Trojans are on the march and more and more followers seem to be joining the bandwagon.

Top-ranked Southern California widened its lead over Alabama in The Associated Press college football poll Monday, collecting 1,227 points of a possible 1,240. The Trojans, who last week led in first-place votes by 45-14 and in points by 1,222-1, 172, were tabbed No. 1 on 49 of the ballots submitted by the poll's committee of 62 sports writers and broadcasters.

Missouri and Houston cracked the Top Ten for the first time this season, moving into the ninth and 10th spots, respectively. Missouri, which had been 11th, beat Illinois 14-6 while Houston, 13th last week, edged Florida 14-10. Missouri had 613 points to Houston's 578.

Royals Edge Closer; Rangers Win Again

By The Associated Press

If the Kansas City Royals have designs on their fourth straight American League West title, they're headed in the right direction.

The Royals moved within two games of first-place California by bombing the Angels 16-4 in Kansas City Monday in the opener of a three-game series. It's the closest the Royals have been to first place since Sept. 3, and was precisely the way they wanted to open the showdown.

"Winning the first game big like this might give us a psychological edge," said Dennis Leonard, 13-10, who was supported by an 18-hit attack against four Angels pitchers and won for the seventh time in his last nine decisions. "It was my most important win of the year."

Also winning a key contest Monday was Minnesota, which belted Chicago 10-3 to move within three games of California.

Meanwhile, Baltimore reduced its magic number for clinching the East to three with a 2-1 squeaker over Detroit while Milwaukee rallied to beat Seattle 7-6; Boston dropped out of the East race after splitting a doubleheader with Toronto, losing 5-4, then winning 5-3; Cleveland swept two from New York, 5-1 and 6-5, and Texas topped Oakland 6-3.

Kansas City fashioned its victory behind an onslaught that saw every starter get at least one hit. Darrell Porter and Al Cowens each knocked in four runs, Porter boosting his season RBI total to a career-high 102 with a three-run homer in the seventh. Pete LaCock also homered for the Royals.

Rangers 6, A's 3

Buddy Bell and Pat Putnam drove in two runs apiece and Jim Kern registered his 27th save for Texas. Putnam slammed his 18th homer of the season and Oakland's Rickey Henderson had his first major league home run.

Jones Confident Of Boxing Debut

By The Associated Press

There's a reservoir sitting in the middle of Central Park in New York and if you run around it often enough, you get to know every turn of the trail and every bump in the road.

Make enough trips around that landmark and you can total six miles of road work. Ed "To Tall" Jones knows the route and the routine very well.

Jones runs the reservoir six days a week. That's after he's worked 2½ hours each morning in the Times Square Gym, located in the middle of Manhattan. He hits the speed bag and the heavy bag, spars with other fighters, skips rope, follows the regimen designed to transform him from football to fighting.

Boxing professionals scoff at Jones' plan. They say there's no way a football player can become a boxer. And Jones scoffs right back at them and suggests that they just sit back and watch him do it.

"Everything's going really good," he said between workouts. "I've been at it two months and three weeks now and I'm a little ahead of schedule."

The schedule now calls for a six-round fight Nov. 3 in Las Cruces, N.M. the first time Jones will climb between the ropes for real. "I'm looking forward to that," he said. "I think I will be ready for it and my trainer thinks so, too. That will tell me exactly where I'm at. You know, you can train and spar and run and do all that other stuff, but until you go up against another fighter, it's tough to judge your progress."

Too Tall has lost 28 pounds somewhere between the gym and the reservoir. He weighs 247 now, down from the 275 he lugged around when he was playing defensive end for the Dallas Cowboys of the National Football League.

"This has been the hardest work of my life," said Jones, who has gone through his share of football training camp two-a-days. "But I feel good and this is what I want to do. I feel I have the ability. I take care of my body and it takes care of me. I'm 28 and if I wanted to try boxing, now was the time to do it. Otherwise, if I'd waited, it could have been too late."

Jones feels his size - he is 6-foot-9 will give him a major edge in the ring. He has an 88-inch reach.

Astros Step Nearer

SAN DIEGO (AP)-Joe Niekro of the Houston Astros is knocking on the door of his first 20-win season in his 12-year major league career, and he owes no small debt of thanks to the San Diego Padres.

The knuckle-balling Niekro, 19-10, recorded his fifth shutout of the year Monday night when he stifled the Padres 1-0. It was also his fifth victory over San Diego in 1979 and boosted his lifetime mark against his former team to 13-4.

"I like to pitch against the Padres," said Niekro, who spent part of the 1969 season in San Diego. "When I face them, I'm pitching in the two parks I like best, the Astrodome and San Diego Stadium.

The Padres could manage just six hits off the 34-year-old right-hander, who was making his fifth try for his 19th win. Now he must contemplate getting the magic number 20 at a time when every victory is magic for Houston.

The Astros gained one game on first place Cincinnati Monday night and trail the Reds by 1½ games in the National League West standings.

Young Bob Owchinko, 5-11, pitched a masterful game himself, allowing the Astros only five hits and not walking a batter.

"Our game plan was to keep the Astros off second base and not walk anybody," said Owchinko, who lost a 2-0 decision to Houston in the Astrodome two weeks ago.

"But I messed up on Rafael Landestoy, and it cost me the game."

Landestoy, who came to Houston last year in a trade with the Los Angeles Dodgers, belted a ninth-inning leadoff triple and scored the only run on Cesar Cedeno's sacrifice fly.

San Diego could manage just one serious scoring threat. That came in the second inning when Bill Fahey, hitting .391 in his last 23 games, doubled with one out in the second inning. Niekro then walked Kurt Bevacqua but got the next two batters to ground out and foul out.

Tanner Beats Sadri 6-3, 7-6

LOS ANGELES (AP)-Second-seeded Roscoe Tanner beat John Sadri, 6-3, 7-6, in the first round of the $175,000 Jack Kramer Tennis Open at UCLA's Pauley Pavilion.

First-seeded John McEnroe, the U.S. Open champion, has a first-round bye.

In earlier first-round matches, two seeded players were ousted.

Cotton

NEW YORK (AP)—Cotton futures No. 2 were higher at midday dealings today.
The average price for strict low middling 1 1-16 inch spot cotton advanced 29 points to 61.06 cents a pound Monday for the ten leading markets, according to the New York Cotton Exchange.
Late afternoon prices were $3.40 to $3.75 a bale higher than the previous close. Oct 63.21, Dec 64.42, and Mar 66.40.

2 Jail Terms Handed Down

Two jail sentences were handed down yesterday in 132nd District Court on probation revocations.
Mary Lee Priestly received a two-year term in the Texas Department of Corrections. She had been placed on probation last year on a forgery charge, and her probation was revoked based on three separate forgery indictments returned against her last week by a Scurry County grand jury.
Josefina Vera Medrano drew a two-year sentence in the Scurry County Jail. She had been placed on probation because of an Oct. 1, 1977, arrest on a charge of driving while intoxicated. The probation was revoked because of alleged failure to report to her probation officer and failure to pay her fine, court records show.

ASTRO-GRAPH

Bernice Bede Osol

Your Birthday

September 19, 1979
Through your own initiative and bright ideas you are likely to find ways this coming year to enhance your financial base. Don't be afraid to prospect in areas you've never explored before.
VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) You function best today where you are able to express your initiative and independence. Be a leader and not one who leans on others. Find out more of what lies ahead for you in the year following your birthday by sending for your copy of Astro-Graph Letter. Mail $1 for each to Astro-Graph, Box 489, Radio City Station, N.Y. 10019. Be sure to specify birth date.
LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Self-defeating thoughts are your greatest enemy today. Don't be unrealistically optimistic, but do be appreciative of what you have to offer.
SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) The types of friends you are most likely to enjoy today will be those around whom you feel you can let your hair down and just be yourself.
SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) For the next few days you will be in a cycle where major goals can be achieved with more facility than usual. Make your game plan accordingly.
CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Being too analytical today could throw what you hope to achieve off schedule. Proceed at an orderly pace, but avoid getting off on tangents.
AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) It's best you don't poke your nose into the confidential affairs of a friend today unless you're fully prepared to become involved and assume some of the responsibilities.
PISCES (Feb.20-March 20) Too much weighing and balancing today will make you indecisive and will contribute to confusion. Once you make a decision, don't alter it.
ARIES (March 21-April 19) Subdue inclinations today to be overly critical, even if you feel your remarks are justified. What you say could do more harm than good.
TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Try not to take yourself or others too seriously today. Let your sense of humor prevail and you will have smooth sailing.
GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Rather than begin new projects at this time you'll be better off to complete what you've started. This is especially true of tasks around the house.
CANCER (June 21-July 22) You are better equipped today to handle the mental, as opposed to the physical. Do things where you use mind more than muscles.
LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) For a person who is often generous to others in the extreme, you may go in the opposite direction today. You should share.

Students At WTC Attend 2 Workshops

Student publications staff members from Western Texas College attended two workshops in Lubbock Friday and Saturday.
Lisa Anderson, Lynda Cain, Gerald Colbert and Tammi Sparks participated in the one-day yearbook workshop at Lubbock Christian College Friday.
Sessions were led by Taylor Publishing Co. representatives on all phases of yearbook planning, design and production.
Saturday, students attended the Mass Communication Day at Texas Tech University. They were Anderson, Colbert, Donna Fowler, Louise Johnson, Rhonda Reynolds, Sparks, Doyel Long and Soyla Santos.
Sessions were held on yearbook, newsgathering and newswriting, commercials, photography and media careers.
Dr. Mike McBride, associate professor of journalism, accompanied the groups.

Bring Your Entry to the News Office or Mail to Snyder Daily News Box 949 Snyder, Texas 79549

Entries Must Be In By NOON FRIDAY!

Test Your Skill...Win Cash Prizes

HERE ARE THE RULES OF THE CONTEST

In each advertisement on this page you will find the contestants in a prominent football game being played the country this week-end. Get an entry blank from one of the merchants who are helping sponsor this contest and whose message is on this page. Fill in your selection of the WINNING TEAM only...opposite the name of the firm on the entry blank. Then send your complete blank to FOOTBALL CONTEST EDITOR, THE SNYDER DAILY NEWS or bring your entry by the Snyder Daily News office. Entries must be in the hands of the editor by 12 o'clock noon, Friday. Games ending in a tie must be specified as a tie or else it will be considered a miss.

If there is a tie for first place the winners will divide the cash money of $17.50 and no second prize will be given. If there is a first place winner and a tie for second place, the second prize winners will divide the money for the place. If more than two persons tie for second place, no second prize money will be awarded and the cash will be added to next week's prize. Tie for perfect score will split $100. There will be fun for the entire family. Only one entry blank will be permitted from any one person. More than one will disqualify all the persons's entries. Scores listed on the entry blank will have no bearing on the choice of the winner. Sign your entry blank and list your address and phone number and watch for the story on next Tuesday's front page for the winners. Hurry now, and get your entry blank from one of the merchants on this page. The contest blank must be in your own handwriting. Employees of The Snyder Daily News and their families are not eligible to enter.
