Masaryk's Death Crystallizes Red Menace as U.S. Prepares to Act; Spring Rash of Strikes Breaks Out

Released by WNU Feature

MASARYK:

Death in Prague

Whether Jan Masaryk, Czechoslovakia's foreign minister, took his own life or was liquidated by the Communists really didn't make any difference.

The Communist government had announced that he had leaped to his death from a first, second or third-floor window (U. S. newspaper readers could choose their own version) of the foreign office in Prague.

Later reports by "highly authoritative persons" insisted that Masaryk had been murdered by Communists. An alleged "eyewitness" testified that he had seen Masaryk's body after his reported fall to a concrete pavement and that it bore no evidence that the foreign minister had died in such a manner.

Supporting the murder theory was the fact that Masaryk was reported to have met President Edouard Beneš the day before his death, and the two were said to have planned something the Communists wished to prevent.

Unidentified Czech officials who have escaped from Prague reported also that President Beneš was a prisoner of the Communist regime.

But whether Jan Masaryk, son of the founder of the Czechoslovakian republic, had been murdered or goaded to suicide by his intolerable position, one thing was certain: Communists had killed him just as surely as if they had put a pistol to his head and pulled the trigger.

If Masaryk took his own life it was not just because he was seeking an escape, but because it was the last service he could do for his country—throwing light, by his own destruction, on the terrible, destructive force that is communism.

NERVES:

Warlike

The alternate, ostentatious flexing of muscles by the United States and Russia was, it appeared, shifting in status from a cold war to a war of nerves.

There were the unmistakable signs of the military preparing to reassert itself. Many reserve officers had received letters pointing out that, although they were not being called to active duty immediately, they would do well to prepare themselves for such a possible eventuality.

In the Pentagon building in Washington, army planners were working late at their desks. Procurement officers were reported to be showing great interest in cement factories, since cement is vital in building underground shelters and fortifications.

Russian troops were said to be massing in eastern Germany, but no one would venture to say whether this was true bluff, a threat of retaliation to the Marshall plan and union of western Europe, or a show of force intended to influence the coming elections in Italy.

But President Truman himself precipitated the worst outbreak of war jitters when he publicly proclaimed that his faith in real world peace had been shaken.

In this crisis the U. S. government was stressing three points which embodied administration policy for meeting the situation:

1. The European recovery plan should be carried out promptly.
2. The U. S. encourages formation of what Marshall called a political association in western Europe, as the first step toward restoring stability.
3. Spread of Communist government anywhere in the world, including China is opposed by the American government which will do everything in its power to block communism.

4. The U. S. will continue to work for world peace wherever possible.

Finally, any estimate of the situation must include this inescapable conclusion: Neither Russia nor the U. S. wants war now; and, more important, neither could afford to fight one. This particular decade continues to be a period worked by a shifting of forces and consolidation of strength where it will do the most good if and when the real showdown comes.

SHIFTING WORLD

Nobody Worries About 'Tissick' Now

City dwellers of 200 years ago—the inhabitants of London in the year 1660, for instance—were only half as likely to be killed in accidents as are the metropolises of today.

But they were several times as likely to die from tuberculosis or other diseases with such fearful names as spotted fever, purple,

The Way Out

Added to the list of the world's numberless martyrs for liberty was the name of Jan Masaryk, foreign minister of Czechoslovakia, son of Thomas Masaryk who was the first president and liberator of the country.

STRIKES:

Miners

Widespread strikes in the nation's soft coal fields were touched off by John L. Lewis' latest foray into the national scene, a demand for $100-a-month pensions for his miners.

The United Mine Workers leader had asked rank-and-file "reaction" to his charge that coal operators had "dishonored" the 1947 contract by failing to grant pensions. And his miners produced the exact reaction he wanted: almost 200,000 of them in 11 states quit to support Lewis' stand at the very outset of the difficulties.

It was not a strike in the technical sense of the word. Lewis, in all his power, simply had nodded his shaggy head and his men, quick to catch the signal, walked away from their jobs.

The current mine contract does not expire until June 30, but it provides that the miners need work only as long as they are "willing and able."

Impact of the soft coal walkouts showed first in the nation's steel industry where output is threatened if the shutdowns continue for any length of time. Many of the closed mines are "captive" whose entire output goes to the steel companies.

Packers

Fraught with an even greater immediacy than the mine walkout, however, was a nationwide strike for more pay by 149,000 members of the CIO packing-house workers.

The strike went off as scheduled despite an urgent request by President Truman asking the packing companies and workers' representatives to maintain the status quo without interrupting negotiations until April 1, at which time a board of inquiry was slated to report to him on conditions of the strike.

In reply to the President, the union strike board rejected his proposal because, it said, the packing firms would not agree to placing even their wage proposals in effect during the negotiation.

As the strike began, government records indicated that the entire nation would come to feel the curtailed meat supply after the first week, with some areas more severely affected than others.

GOVERNMENT:

Expensive

Total per capita cost of running the federal government for one year has zoomed $201 since 1933, according to a report by the Tax Foundation. It now is about $70 a year, compared with $69 in 1933.

Total estimated expenditures for the fiscal year 1948 are 3.7 billion dollars. War and its aftermath accounted for almost 23 billion of that.

But the blueprint for 1949, said the foundation, registers an increase. It quoted President Truman:

"In the fiscal year of 1949, 79 per cent of our expenditures reflect the cost of war, the effect of war and our efforts to prevent a future war."

The king's horsemen were the fastest traffic to contend with in 1660. The automobile was still 200 years in the future.

TREATY:

50 Years

Communist expansion was going to meet a roadblock if the nations of western Europe had any voice in the matter.

Britain, France and the Benelux (Belgium, Netherlands and Luxembourg) nations adopted a 50-year treaty for a political, economic and military union of western Europe in an out and out move to check the communism that threatens their independence.

Delegates from the five countries completed their efforts after more than a week around the conference table. The alliance was a direct outgrowth of the union of western European nations suggested in January by Ernest Bevin, British foreign secretary.

The treaty was believed to bind the nations to mutual assistance in the face of aggression, mutual aid in the economic field, co-operation in improving their living standards and a measure of co-ordination of colonial resources.

It was just a beginning, but a good one. In the eyes of U. S. government leaders the alliance was not only a desirable but necessary element if the Marshall plan for recovery is to work at all.

SAY UNCLE:

Palestine

People continue to ask the Arabs and Jews of Palestine to stop their futile wrangling.

France, China and the United States sent an appeal to the Jews and Arabs of Palestine and also to the six Arab state members of the United Nations, asking them to take steps to promote a truce in the Holy Land fighting.

There was no real confidence among delegates of the three nations that their request would be heeded. Russia, the fourth country taking part in the big power talks on Palestine, refrained from joining in the appeal because the Soviets have taken the typical stand that there is no need for the big powers to consult with the Arabs and Jews.

Most observers thought the truce appeal looked like wishful thinking. For one thing, no group among either Arabs or Jews in Palestine is in a position to control its dissident members and thus guarantee a truce.

Moreover, the idea of a military truce does not bear upon the heart of the problem. The United Nations is still committed, on paper, to partition, while the Arabs adamantly continue to reject that proposal and the Jews assert just as strongly that they will accept nothing else.

ACCIDENTS:

Women's

Accident rate among girls and women has been reduced by about one-half in the past 35 years as a result of modernization of the American home, according to statistics compiled by Metropolitan Life Insurance company.

Illustrating the reduction in home hazards, the statisticians said, are the shift from oil lamps and gas for lighting to the electric light bulb, replacing of the traditional coal stove by the modern gas or electric range, and use of central heating instead of stoves and fireplaces.

Consumer Income Up

Consumer income rose in January to a record high annual rate of 210.8 billion dollars, the commerce department announced.

The figure for December was 210.4 billion dollars. The January rate, according to the department, was 7 per cent higher than the 1947 average of 198.3 billion.

January's increase over December came despite a slight downturn in wages and salaries.

Science Talent Quest Shows Aid To Progress

By BAUKHAGE

News Analyst and Commentator

WASHINGTON—I don't often go into such intimate matters as private murders in these columns, but I have been impressed lately to see the results of the untrammelled spirit of modern youth, whose repressions and inhibitions have been removed by thoughtful parents who use reason instead of the cruel discipline such as I have suffered—having to go to bed without supper, for instance, when I was impudent to my elders, or being kept in the house for throwing my arithmetic at the cat instead of doing my homework, or having my mouth washed out with acme soap when I used language unbecoming a future commentator.

Recently a pretty little brunette who was irked by having to leave the city to dwell with her parents in some dull rural area of Missouri rebelled. After shooting Mama and Papa, she stuffed them behind the sofa and tried to dispose of their property. Then there was the poor little seventh-grader who smarted under thoughtless taunting by a farmer who thought the youth displayed poor form in sawing wood. The boy shot the old man and dumped him in a creek.

There was the 18-year-old girl from Portsmouth, Va., who playfully sprayed five G.I.'s with revolver shots in a shooting gallery, and the six girls, aged 14 to 16, who beat up their female gym instructor in a Bronx high school.

Of course I am not old-fashioned enough to encourage corporal punishment, but it does seem that a little less sparing of the rod might have prevented the crime record of the peaceful communities from which these youngsters came.

Perhaps it wouldn't have helped, though, when the nations of the world set such bad examples.

I couldn't help thinking of a paragraph in the concluding chapter of that highly important and revealing book by former Secretary of State Cordell Hull. Said Hull (and I can see him leaning back as he dictated, looking over the wide sweep of the Maryland landscape, letting his thoughts go back over the rich days of his years): "We have a desperate need for more religion and morality as the background for government. The religious and moral foundations for thought and conduct require strengthening here as well as throughout the world. There is no higher civilizing influence than religious and moral concepts. Corruption and tyranny can be driven out of government only when these concepts give men the faculty to recognize such evils and the strength to eliminate them."

In these days when we hear so many unpleasant references to the atom bomb, it was a relief to the national capital to get its annual reminder that the people who know most about atomic energy think far more about how it can promote human welfare than about how it can extinguish human life.

Sixteen thousand high-schoolers presented themselves this year as possible winners in the seventh annual Westinghouse science talent search. After rigorous elimination tests, 40 finalists were selected to come to Washington for talks with scientists, visits to Capitol Hill and the White House and conversations with their colleagues.

These 40 students have a reasonable assurance of scholarships of $1,000 each from various sources, aside from the search awards, while the two lucky top winners each are given $2,400 with which to continue their studies.

There was another interesting thing about this year's awards—the revelation that America still is drawing heavily on the Old World for its scientific talent. The boy who won the top prize was born in Budapest.

IF you will pardon us for pointing out that big league baseball today has an extremely high average of leadership in its management, now after the golden fleece.

The 1948 crop can match anything we have known in baseball. As they will figure largely in the headlines of the new year they should be worth just a bit more space than they have received to-date.

"Who are they?" Even if you don't remember, they include Joe McCarthy of the Red Sox, Bucky Harris of the Yankees and Lou Boudreau of the Indians. It might be Steve O'Neill of the Tigers also belongs. We are not so well acquainted with his work.

It might be that Connie Mack can be included in this list—we mean 1948—the only year that matters now. You can throw out all the others.

The American league battle will be a hand-to-hand, throat-cutting duel between McCarthy and Harris. It ought to be. They have most of the good ballplayers.

McCarthy is a brilliant manager. But don't underestimate Harris, the most human leader of the lot. Harris can handle his squad, and when you ask him a question point-blank, he answers point-blank, protecting nobody, telling you the truth as he sees it.

Harris is a rarity I haven't seen since the days of John J. McGraw. McGraw, as I knew him, was a helpful friend when you needed a story. So is Harris.

Managers Need Players

Boudreau, a great ballplayer, has never had the material to prove his place. Boudreau might have churned up a mess of trouble this season, if the Yankees and Reds hadn't reached out and lassoed most of the good floating material.

A fellow can be honest, have an honest opinion, and still be wrong. In the opinion of this restless roamer, the best manager in the National league is Billy Southworth of the Braves—possibly the best manager in baseball today.

Next to Southworth, we put Eddie Dyer and Leo Durocher on level terms. Both are something better than good managers. We like Dyer's system of handling his men and working with umpires better but we can be quite wrong here.

Burt Shotton is one of the great managers of baseball. Rickey should have given him 50 per cent of every dollar he took in through 1947.

For all of that Durocher is an able leader. He isn't a McCarthy, a Harris or a Southworth, but he is good enough.

Mel Ott has another chance to prove his place. Ott is one of the most likeable persons in the game today.

Charley Grimm, Johnny Neun, Bill Meyer and Ben Chapman are good managers. With better material, they might be much better managers. But they will chuck in a number of grenades when the Cardinals, Dodgers, Braves and Giants come along.

Florida, the Beautiful

Florida may have many things that other states lack—and that includes California. In the Everglades, for instance, the state that Ponce de Leon helped make famous has the last frontier of sport, the most famous 10, thousand square miles in the United States.

Here, within a brief whirl of the social softness and glamour of Palm Beach and Miami Beach, you can come upon both beauty and savage wildness, fang and claw, the rattlesnake and moccasin, the copperhead and the coral snake, the puma or what is known here as the panther, bear up to 400 pounds or more; deer, alligator, egret, pelican, heron and crane, almost every known variety of bird life and fish beyond all imagination.

In one day's haul in a small boat we returned with 12 varieties of fish. The boat was half full of fish by 2 o'clock. There were wild duck and geese flying overhead and there was quail in the dryer spots.

The jungles of India and Africa have nothing to match the variety or beauty of the Everglades or its look of wildness in certain sectors.

There are no tigers, lions, elephants or leopards around. But the puma or panther, ranging close to 200 pounds, is a replica of the West's mountain lion. The puma isn't a tiger or a leopard, it isn't even a jaguar, but it is still nothing to meet on a narrow trail.

The mangrove swamps and ghost islands here can get you lost in 10 minutes, lost beyond recall, without a guide.

I was lost in less than 10 minutes. "Would I ever find my way back?" I asked, after clearing a few mangrove spots. "Not in a hundred years," my guide said, "unless you can beat a 1,000-to-1 shot."

Florida has something that the many of its people never have appreciated. It is about time they understood. For what they have is invaluable in the long run a more important part of the nation than Washington, D. C.

Trans-Continental Train
First railway train ever operated from the Atlantic to the Pacific was the trans-continental excursion sponsored by the Boston board of trade in May, 1870, one year after the Union Pacific and Central Pacific railroads were opened. The trip from Boston to San Francisco consumed eight days, and was made in Pullman "hotel cars," then the newest thing in railroading. A daily newspaper, the Trans-Continental, was published en route.

Margarine Battle Joined

THE 60-year-old battle between the dairy industry and the manufacturers of margarine appears about to be joined in this session of congress. Nineteen bills now are pending seeking to end or lower federal taxes on margarine.

Real nub of the contention is one of color, for that is the real import of the margarine lobby to repeal the tax of 10 cents a pound and federal licenses on colored margarine. The dairy industry declares that if this is done it will open the way to fraudulent sale of margarine as butter; that market for 40 per cent of milk produced could be destroyed; that the claim that fortified margarine is scientifically equivalent to butter is open to question and that the question comes down to a fight between three million farmers trying to survive and a few large corporations seeking large profits.

On the other side, the margarine association admits that in early days back in the 1890's there was some attempt at fraudulent sale of margarine but pure food and drug laws now make that impossible; that tax repeal would open larger market for cotton seed and soybean oil; that natural color of margarine is yellow and manufacturers must bleach it to make it white; that margarine is nutritionally equivalent to butter; that color is added to butter; that if margarine is bad it should be prohibited, not regulated; that the dairy industry is unable to meet demand for butter; that the tax is discriminatory and prevents low income groups from obtaining a cheap food; and that the treasury department itself admits that the tax should be repealed.

But even if federal tax is repealed the margarine industry has a long way to go, because in 23 states sale of colored margarine is prohibited; 17 states bar use of margarine in state institutions; in only 18 states are there no local restrictions, most of them in the cotton-producing South.

Only half of the 500,000 retail grocers have licenses to sell uncolored margarine, only 1 per cent are licensed to sell colored margarine; 13 states require annual licenses for margarine wholesalers; 11 impose annual retail licenses; nine require annual manufacturers licenses; seven states tax each pound of uncolored margarine; four states tax colored margarine 10 cents a pound, and four states require annual licenses for eating places serving margarine.

Consensus here is that the 80th congress will pass up all proposed long-range farm legislation until after the election and merely extend provisions of the Steagall act for another year. Provisions of the act expire December 31 this year. In the meantime, department of agriculture is urging coordination of all federal farm activities in farmer-elected county committees.

Winning Friends

The records show that President Truman always has increased his popularity when he has risen above partisanship. He certainly did so when he openly challenged southern political leaders in retreating his stand on his civil liberties program. In declaring the President would not retreat, Chairman McGrath of the Democratic national committee said the President's program was as old as the Constitution and as young as the 1944 Democratic platform.

President Truman has asked extension of the reciprocal trade program for three years. The present act expires June 13. Except for the year of 1943, majority of Republicans consistently have opposed the reciprocal trade act. However, one of the requisites of the Marshall plan is a customs union or reciprocal trade among western European nations. Observers ask, can this country require it of other nations and turn it down on ourselves? The President says importance of the act is greater today than ever before.

Rep. Sid Simpson of Illinois wants the government to look into the rain-making industry. He has introduced a bill to direct the chief of the weather bureau to conduct experiments with respect to methods of controlling rainfall.

It takes a whole lot of technology in the operations of any business to overcome the costs of taxes and the ever increasing price of labor.

Government Arithmetic

The house of representatives used the bookkeeping method of cutting 97 million dollars from the commerce department budget and claims a "saving." Commerce requested 40 million dollars for aid to airports. The house granted three million dollars but granted "contract authority" for the rest. That means that 37 million dollars can be contracted. The same method was used in many instances last year and these amounts were listed as "deficiency" items.

The FICTION Corner

SLOW AND CAREFUL

By JOHN SCOTT DOUGLAS

YOU can't make fast moves when handling bees, so a beekeeper learns to be slow and careful no matter what happens. I remembered that the day I stopped by Oakknoll ranch and found a stranger sitting in the farmhouse kitchen and watching Emmy prepare a fat fryer.

Now I've been in love with Emmy since she was 16. The 10 years that have passed since then have changed her so little that if I were buzzing around looking for something sweet, I'd still pick Emmy. The western sun slanting through the window made a halo of her fair hair and her face was flushed from the hot stove. She waved a floury hand as she popped a drumstick into the puttering grease.

"Hello, Bill," she said. "I want you to meet Fuller Launson. He's bought the Hall place and is raising horses. Where'd you come from?"

"Sierra foothills," I answered. "I'm taking my bees down to Redlands to pollinate the Farland orchard."

"Bill has a pollinating service," Emmy explained. "Arsenic sprays kill so many bees that orchardists pay him to bring his hives, so the trees will bear fruit."

"I see," Launson said, the wisp of a black mustache over his thin lips barely moving.

I couldn't make up my mind whether he was one of those robber-bees that steal honey from another hive or whether he was a drone that lets the workers support him. He had black eyes and a waspish face. And there was contempt in the way he looked at my swollen hands that mightily near put me in a stinging mood. I can't bother with gloves when I'm handling beehives all the time.

I asked about his horses while Emmy cooked supper, but he seemed to resent my dropping in and wouldn't say much. However, he admitted that his old man had plenty of money and thought that since Fuller Launson wasn't much good in his business, he might as well try to raise horses.

Now Emmy has a heart as big as a six-super hive and she's always feeling sorry for queer characters. She never talks much about herself, but she's a good listener. Still I couldn't figure what she saw in Launson, except that he had a college degree and she respects education. I could have told Launson other things about her. She's been lonely since her folks died, however, so if she found him good company, that was all right with me. A beekeeper learns not to disturb the queen unless he has to.

After supper I had to leave to get hives set up in the fields of the Redlands orchard before sun-up. Launson showed no signs of swarming, so I guessed he planned to visit a while longer with Emmy. But a beekeeper doesn't jump to conclusions. As I say, he learns to be slow and careful.

It was two weeks before I got back to Oakknoll again. Launson sat in the same chair, as if he hadn't moved in all that time. He didn't seem real friendly, and acted bored when I asked about his horses.

Well, supper didn't go so well that night. Emmy treated me as she always does, but Launson sulked as bees do on a rainy day when they can't gather pollen.

After supper, Launson said, "there's a good movie in town. Like to go, Emmy?"

She started shaking her head, but I spoke up.

"You go right along. I've been driving nights and working days until I'm too wore out to be fit company for anyone. I'll just catch a few winks on the sofa and push along about 11."

"Oh, Bill," Emmy said anxiously, "do you have to work so hard? You haven't an ounce of flesh!"

"No money'd keep me driving this way," I admitted. "Now that the war's over and we got to help feed the world, we need bigger fruit crops."

Well, supper didn't go as well that night. Emmy treated me as she always does, but Launson sulked as bees do on a rainy day when they can't gather pollen.

But the spring pollinating is almost over and soon I can take it easy."

"Not here, I hope," Launson said unpleasantly, when Emmy went into the bedroom to get her hat.

I knew then how bees feel when you shake their hive on a cold day but I was too tired to argue. I was asleep before they drove away and the alarm-clock awakened me before they returned.

It was nearly a month before I could get back. When I drove past the old Hall place, it looked like Launson hadn't given his horses much care. He stepped out of the house after I'd stopped the truck, and spoke as if he owned Oakknoll.

"You back?"

"Yep," I said. "Just in time for supper."

"I didn't know Emmy was expecting you," he snapped.

I wondered whether Launson's weak chin would hurt my swollen hands much. I decided not to try it.

"Launson," I said, "I'm putting some hives out under the trees here. If you ain't afraid of bees, I want you to give me a hand."

When I came inside later to wash up, Emmy was just putting the last steaming dishes on the table.

Well, supper didn't go as well that night. Emmy treated me as she always does, but Launson sulked as bees do on a rainy day when they can't gather pollen.

"Where's Mr. Launson?" She asked.

"Last I saw of him," I said, tucking in my napkin, "he was running toward his house with a veil of bees trailing behind him. He dropped a hive he was carrying and instead of backing away slow and careful like, he began swatting bees. They kind of resented it."

Emmy didn't say anything for a minute. "I'm glad he's gone," she said, and smiled. "I'd have told him things before, but I got so lonely when you're away, Bill. What made him drop the hive?"

"I guess something I said startled him. You see, he'd just advised me to move on, saying I'd never get anywhere with you, Emmy."

"The idea! What'd you say to that, Bill?"

"Why, I told him he was crazy—that we'd been married 10 years."

point. Only rarely is there total peace.

When this conflict becomes too formidable, too threatening, you do the obvious thing—you try to run. That seems to be the thing to do, but often the escape is worse than the conflict—and more lives are damaged by these escape or flight mechanisms than by any one thing.

Maybe you'd like to have me tell you very briefly about the various escape routes that the mind follows when things get too hot.

They are 13. First comes regression, which means to go backward, to childhood things. Then comes extroversion—that means to turn to excessive activity to cover up the conflict. The opposite of that is introversion—to think excessively, to dodge real issues.

Rationalization is to indulge in false thinking, while segregation is not to let your right hand know what your left hand is doing.

When you practice repression, you forget unpleasant things; and when you disassociate, you pass the buck. Sometimes you resort to conversion—that means to have a breakdown or illness in place of a conflict. Displacement is to worry over one thing when another is to blame, and projection is to attribute your own faults to others.

Another escape is called identification; that means to form fantasies. When you follow compensation, you overdo some particular thing in order to overcome your inadequacies.

The final escape route is the only one which is wholeheartedly recommended. It is called sublimation—that means to turn the effect of the conflict into some useful channel.

Soybeans Provide Protein To Offset High Food Cost

High food costs make it difficult for the homemaker to know how she can get the most for her food dollar. Protein is one of the most essential protective elements in the human diet, say extension service nutritionists.

Foods which contain protein—meats, eggs, milk, cheese—are high in cost, but they must not be left out of the diet. Cheaper cuts of meats, meat stretchers, egg dishes and cheese dishes will help supply the body's need for protein. Other sources of protein are soybeans, dried beans and peas. These vegetables come nearest to meat, eggs, milk and cheese as body builders. They also contain Vitamin B1 and iron.

For homemakers not familiar with the soybean, this information is offered: "Soybeans contain protein of high quality, similar to animal protein. They can be used in place of meat in the diet. Soybeans are good sources of usable iron and other minerals, such as calcium, phosphorus, as well as an excellent source of vitamins of the B-complex. Fresh, green soybeans are rich in Vitamin A. They are high in fat, and sprouted soybeans are a useful source of Vitamin C."

Aprons, Table Sets, Holders Are Easy to Make at Home

By Ertla Haley

DO YOU want to add something new but simple to your own home just for the general purpose of brightening it a bit?

Or, do you have a long list of weddings and showers to attend which will require gifts of one type or another?

Either way, there are many small sewing projects which you can embark upon and emerge with lovely things for the table or kitchen or for personal use.

I know of no woman who is satisfied with the number of aprons she has, especially when she sees one lovelier than some she has. Therefore, aprons, when pretty or neatly practical, always are welcome. Brides or even older homemakers can't have enough, for they wear out, you know.

If you want to make really pretty aprons, I'd suggest you use organdy or another delicate fabric for the main part of the apron. Half aprons are a good idea inasmuch as organdy certainly will not be used for the evening dish chore.

As for trimmings, there is no end. You might like to ruffle the heart-shaped pockets with some fragile lace and pipe the edges with more lace.

If you can do neat applique work—or can learn how—any of the floral designs are good.

Suggested Colors, Designs for Aprons

A very effective combination includes white organdy applied on a single large pocket with a large red flower. Carry out the flower applique in the opposite corner of the apron.

If you like bows or hearts, do them in red in much the same pattern.

Yellow organdy looks lovely when appliqued with green leaves. You might have a spray of these running along the waist and hem.

For modern effect, use a pink organdy and use black flower design on two pockets.

Lavender organdy is very effective when applied with green or yellow designs.

If you don't want to do applique work, then use wide borders of a fine material in a solid color. The same color combinations as suggested above will work out well.

Be Smart!

One of the high fashion successes of the season is linen in natural color or in the semi-bleach that gives ever so many different tints of rich cream, sand and off-white. They're ideal for summer or late and white footwear. You'll also find costume jewelry designed for smartly tailored dresses and suits and their matching linen dusters, a lovely soft bronze sometimes with amber or lighter contrasts. The effect is new and beautifully rich.

That Nagging Backache

May Warn of Disordered Kidney Action

Modern life with its hurry and worry, irregular habits, improper eating and drinking—its risk of exposure and infection—throws heavy strain on the work of the kidneys. They are apt to become over-taxed and fail to filter excess acid and other impurities from the circulating blood.

You may suffer nagging backache, headache, dizziness, getting up nights, leg pains, swelling—feel constantly tired, nervous, all worn out. Other signs of kidney or bladder disorder are sometimes burning, scanty or too frequent urination.

Try Doan's Pills. Doan's help the kidneys to pass off harmful excess body waste. They have had more than half a century of public approval. Are recommended by grateful users everywhere. Ask your neighbor!

Seniors Get Play Books
We just discovered a few minutes ago that next week is six weeks' exam week. This school year is certainly passing by fast. Before we know it the year will be gone.

We are studying about motion pictures in English this morning. There happens to be a few seniors that have not been impressed, yet, by picture shows. Sometimes we wonder how they ever got to be seniors. The parts to the senior play, Papa Says No, were handed out Thursday. I think that every one is very well satisfied with their parts. Be looking in this section after for further information concerning the play. I am sure all of you will want to see it, because we feel like it is going to be a great success with the help of our sponsors, Mrs. Ison and Mr. Parish.

By the looks of the senior class this morning, I think every one must have had a good time over the Easter holidays, at least we all hope they did.

Junior News
All of the juniors seem to be doing a good deal of dreaming lately, and dreaming isn't such a good way to get better grades. Some of us are trying to link up a new theme for our junior and senior banquet, but to no avail. We are also thinking of better days when there will be no lessons to dig up at the last minute.

The Lorraine girls volleyball team played Roscoe's team here Thursday at four o'clock. The A string lost with a few points, but the B string won two out of three games.

That's all about the juniors this week, but we'll be back again with more about what's happening in the junior class next week.

Freshman News
The freshmen are back again after a week and of coloring Easter eggs, hunting them, and showing off Easter bonnets.

The English 1 class begins on Treasure Island today. We think we are going to like it. Brace yourself for a surprise. The freshmen girls finally got through with their blouses. We are now studying a course on child care and find it very interesting.

We wonder why Patsy Ruth will be glad when the FFA banquet comes? Last week at the Home Ec Club banquet, the freshman girls had a very nice sweetheart. He was Wayne Claxton.

Well, we'll be back next week but we have to go now.

Black Is The Color
Two buses were taken to Abilene last Monday night for those who wanted to attend the play Black Is The Color, which was presented by the Hardin-Simmons Players.

Except for the fact that one of the buses broke down in Roscoe and all those who were on it were a little late (although we didn't mind that too much) we all had a wonderful time.

Everyone seemed to enjoy the play very much. Forty students and five teachers made the trip, which was sponsored by our school.

Soph Ga's
The sophs look very lively today. It seems as if they all had a nice time over the week end.

I wonder why part of the girls aren't playing tennis today, could it be that someone has come to study hall.

Everyone has a nice tan after the holidays.

It seems as if everyone is interested in serving at the FFA banquet. Could it be because of the men that are going to be there?

The Easter Bunny seemed to have been nice to part of the kids.

Introducing Tommy Palmer

Thomas Joe Palmer was born March 6, 1930 to Mr. and Mrs. A. D. Palmer in Altus, Oklahoma. Tommy started school at Ozark, Oklahoma, and went there through the tenth grade. As a junior he moved to Lorraine where he has been since. He lettered four years in basketball, two years in baseball and one year in football. Tommy has been president of his class during his sophomore and senior years; class favorite his junior year; and FHA sweetheart his senior year. Some of his favorites are: Day, Sunday subject, English; dish, chicken fried steak; color, blue; sport, basketball; and his favorite girl friend is five feet five, weighs 109 pounds, has black hair and black eyes.

Tommy's future plans include college at Hardin-Simmons where he will study to be a diesel engineer. The seniors wish Tommy all the best of luck in his future plans.

Dinner guests in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Worth Bruce Sunday were Mr. and Mrs. W. R. McAfee of Wichita Falls, Mo. and Mrs. Alfred Hallman of Hermleigh, Reta Beights of Midland, and Mr. and Mrs. C. T. Beights.

Mrs. W. P. Chamness is visiting her daughter, Mrs. Dorothy Hughes and family, in Fort Worth this week.

Guests of Mrs. A. C. Taylor Sunday were Mr. and Mrs. Henry Tidwell and Mr. and Mrs. Orval Tidwell of Sweetwater.

CARD OF THANKS

We take this method of expressing our grateful appreciation to our friends and neighbors and to all others for the kindness and sympathy shown in the death of our husband, father and grandfather. We are deeply grateful for the beautiful floral tribute. May God bless everyone of you is our prayer.

The family of J. W. Payne

Mrs. Buck Taylor visited her father in Hermleigh Thursday.

Jimmy Boone, Jr., who is in school at Austin, visited his father, J. H. Boone, and Mrs. Boone on Thursday night enroute to Lamesa to spend the Easter holiday. He returned and spent Monday here before returning to Austin.

THE BLIZZARD OF 1888
Elmer Twitchell, charter member of the Society for Perpetuating the Blizzard of 1888, an old northern custom, was at the annual meeting and in old time form. "I will never forget that storm," he declared. "I got caught at one time between two flakes that weighed more than I did."

"How that snow piled up! My mother called me to the window and said 'Look, it's beginning to snow, Elmer.' Well, sir, before I could look out there were people caught in drifts as far as the eye could see! I remember we sent the hired man to the woodshed, only 50 yards away, for a shovel! And never saw him again until July.

City Too Poor, So Controller

Refuses Raise Second Time
YONKERS, N. Y. — Thomas V. Kennedy, Yonkers city controller, who refused to accept a proposed $800 pay increase last year, has rejected an $1,500 increase.

"I know the financial health of the city has not improved sufficiently during the year now ended to warrant granting such a large increase to its controller," Kennedy wrote to the city manager. He continues to accept $7,300 a year.

Black Market in Dogs Deals

In Mongrels, Stolen Pets
LONDON. — With fashionable breeders demanding $100 to $300 for eight-week-old pups, tax-ridden, impoverished Britons who love dogs are exploring London's East End for less expensive pets.

Every Sunday morning an open-air dog market is held in Club Row, a narrow, sordid street off the notorious Petticoat Lane.

There, shabby sharp-eyed men in tweed caps congregate to offer dogs of all breeds and ages.

There's everything in Club Row from happy-go-lucky mongrels to dignified animals which look like potential show dogs.

There are families of scarcely weaned yelping puppies in baskets and dogs so old that their real ages are closely guarded trade secrets.

Police keep a watchful eye on Club Row for many of the dogs on sale are likely to have been stolen. Stolen dogs are sold as quickly as possible because police circulate their descriptions within 24 hours.

Buying a stolen dog isn't the only risk you run when you select a pet in Club Row. He is pretty sure to be either much younger or much older than you were told.

He may be afflicted with costly and incurable diseases. He may be blind in at least one eye. He may even be dyed. The salesmen are experts in the art of camouflage dogs.

Leering of Customs Agent

At Ankle Nabs Smuggler
BROWNSVILLE, TEX. — Bill Langford, customs inspector, made an important capture because of a natural urge to look at a pretty ankle.

Langford said a woman had passed customs at Laredo. As she walked away, he was admiring her ankles. Then he saw something drop from her skirt. It was a package of narcotics.

Honest Postman Finds Purse,

PITTSBURGH. — Letter Carrier Chester S. Dudley was commended officially for his honesty. He returned a purse containing $1,475 to the widowed loser, Mrs. Mary Seybold.

The 75-year-old woman lost the money while taking it to a bank. The sum represented her late husband's insurance and her only money in the world. She had been nearly prostrated with worry.

Dear Uncle Sam:
For the first time in my life I am worried about you. Never before have I wondered if you could be a dope or a Humpty Dumpty. Never before have you ever seemed to have points resembling a composite picture of Little Lord Fauntleroy, the Fairy Godmother, Little Jeff and Donald Duck.

But now, with Joe Stalin laughing up his sleeve as he and his carefully trained stooges take over country after country with the ease of the man on the flying trapeze, I am doing my wondering in technicolor.

With Communists sworn to your destruction working around the clock right under the beeper, taking orders from the Kremlin and leaving nothing undone to soften you up in the exact pattern employed in Czechoslovakia, you content yourself with shadow boxing, rumba dancing, thumb-twiddling, goose-grassing and dry runs through a revolving door.

You are interpreting the initials U. S. A. as meaning United States of Amnesia. You are singing it "My Country, 'Tis of Thee, Sleeping Land of Stupidity."

Is there any reason why you can't be a Good Samaritan without shooting the donkey? Can't you be a life-guard without giving rope?

It is later than you think. It is high time you got smart, alert and on the ball. Are you Uncle Sam or Lady Bountiful? Are you a tough, rugged quick-witted, high-level national wonder man or just a yawning director of a "My Advice to You" program? Are you Uncle Sam or Uncle Sapt? I'm just asking.

Yours in complete befuddlement,
Elmer.

Questions and Answers

What happens if a disabled veteran fails in his course while he is being rehabilitated under the Vocational Rehabilitation Act (Public Law 16)?

A. Generally, Veterans Administration will take special steps to enter him in another course in which there is every likelihood he will be able to complete successfully. The situation depends on the facts and the circumstances in each case.

Q. I am considered totally disabled for insurance purposes but receive only 20 percent for compensation. Can my award be increased?

A. Your compensation will be increased only if the service-connected disability is shown to have increased in severity. For insurance purpose, there may be other disabilities, not service-connected, which, combined with the compensable condition produce total disability. Facts and material for determining the existence of permanent and total disability are different in insurance and compensation matters.

Q. Will a disabled veteran's compensation be reduced because he goes into training and receive subsistence under the Vocational Rehabilitation Act (Public Law 16)?

A. No.

Q. What are the conditions of eligibility for rehabilitation under the Vocational Rehabilitation Act (Public Law 16)?

A. A disabled veteran must have had active service on or after September 16, 1940 and before July 25, 1947, with a discharge under conditions other than dishonorable. He also must have a compensable service-connected disability incurred in or aggravated by such service. He must be in need of vocational rehabilitation to overcome the handicap of his disability.

Weekly Swing of Southwest Farm Markets

Grain and cotton furnished principal strong points at southwest farm markets during the past week as most livestock sold lower, according to the Production and Marketing Administration, U. S. Department of Agriculture.

Sorghums gained 15 cents a hundred pounds for the week, and wheat 10 cents a bushel, with other grains one to five cents higher. No. 1 ordinary hard wheat closed Monday at $2.58, No. 2 white corn $2.94 to $2.98, and milo $3.85 to $3.90. Cotton closed Monday around $5 a bale higher than a week earlier. Dallas quoted spot middling 15/16 inch at 35.25 cents a pound.

Easter week trade held prices fairly firm on eggs and poultry. Increased egg production in recent days no more than filled the gap caused by earlier cold weather. Offerings of hens and fryers barely kept up with demand. On Monday, current receipt eggs sold mainly from 37 to 41 cents a dozen, and fryers 38 to 40 a pound.

Cattle sold strong to 50 cents higher for the week at Texas markets in contrast to losses of mainly 25 cents to $1 at other southwest terminals. Monday's trading showed little change from last week's closing trends. Medium and good steers and yearlings ranged from $23 to $28 a hundred in Texas sales. Good beef cows reached $21 to $22.50 throughout the Southwest.

Hog prices drifted downward almost continuously since Monday last week for losses of $1 to $2 at principal southwest markets. This week opened with Texas markets showing a little strength, but other terminals continued weak to lower. Top butcher hogs ranged from $21.25 at San Antonio to a high of $22.75 at Denver.

Lamb prices eased downward 25 cents to $1 for the week at most southwest terminals, although woolled lambs sold strong at Fort Worth and all classes held steady at San Antonio. Aged sheep held their own fairly well at all markets. Fort Worth and Oklahoma City paid $19 to $22.50 for medium to choice spring lambs and $20.50 for medium and good woolled lambs in this week's early trade. Dust storms and unsettled markets almost halted southwest wool contracting.

Mr. and Mrs. D. W. Haralson and sons Hal, Dale and Ken, visited her mother, Mrs. Bertha Barker, in Abilene Sunday. Mrs. Haralson, Hal and Ken remained until Monday. Little Connie Ware of Brownsville, nephew of Mrs. Haralson, returned with them to spend this week.
