Soviet Makes Mass Arrest To Halt East Berlin Riots

BERLIN, June 19 —UP—Soviet authorities Friday invoked martial law in East Berlin to halt a three-day riot and to crush a Communist East German attempt to force a three-day strike against the Soviet occupation zone.

Egypt Now A Republic

CAIRO, June 19 —UP—Gen. Mohammed Naguib has proclaimed Egypt a republic, with himself as first president, in a move ending 2,000 years of monarchy since the days of the Pharaohs.

Make Money Work, Lions Club Told

"If somebody along the line hadn't taken a risk, we wouldn't be enjoying what we do today in this country."

Failure of their efforts to restore first control in their occupation zone was evident in these developments, filtering through the tightly sealed borders of Soviet East Germany:

1. A crippling general strike still is in effect, hobbling transportation and threatening the East German food supply.

2. Martial law has been clamped on at least five East German cities in addition to East Berlin and unconfirmed reports said the entire occupation zone was under martial law.

3. Sweeping arrests were taking place in factories and on works projects as Soviet and East German Communist police sought to round up "ring leaders" of the revolt.

4. Secret police were scouring riot hot spots, questioning scores of persons in an attempt to weed out anti-Communist leaders.

5. The East German Communist radio broadcast frantic appeals from Red officials for laborers to end their general strike and return to work.

Blamed on West
Deputy East German Premier Otto Nuschke, who was released from West Berlin police custody early Friday, told workers the revolt was an attempt "putch" organized by "West Berlin provocateurs" and that it would have plunged Germany into another war if it had succeeded.

West Berlin newspapers said the secret police terror and sweeping arrests have extended beyond East Berlin to many Soviet zone cities.

The U.S. marshal in New York, in charge of execution arrangements, tentatively set it for 9 p.m. est Friday night.

The Rosenbergs' one main hope was presidential clemency. But this was only a slim hope at best — unless the Rosenbergs change their minds and decide to talk. For President Eisenhower, who refused clemency on Feb. 11, indicated he would turn the Rosenbergs down again.

Completed Visit
At Sing Sing prison, the Rosenbergs had just completed a 90-minute visit and were at lunch Friday when word came from the prison radio that the Supreme Court had refused to spare them from death in Sing Sing Prison's electric chair.

Warden Wilfred G. Denno was informed of the court's action by the United Press.

Denno would not immediately comment.

Rosenberg and his wife met in the women's wing of the death house at 10 a.m. Friday morning. They talked, separated by a wire mesh screen, perhaps about what action the court would take. They had gone back to their separate cells when the news came shortly after noon that the court had turned them down.

Attendants said immediately, comment.

Ike Denies Plea; Death Stage Set

BULLETIN
WASHINGTON, June 19 —UP—President Eisenhower Friday refused clemency for doomed atom spies Julius and Ethel Rosenberg.

WASHINGTON, June 19 —UP—Atom spies Julius and Ethel Rosenberg lost their fight for life in the Supreme Court Friday.

The nation's highest tribunal, by 6 to 2 vote, cancelled the stay of execution which was granted to the Rosenbergs Wednesday by Justice William O. Douglas.

The fateful ruling came with these words spoken by Chief Justice Fred M. Vinson from the high bench:

"We think further proceedings are unwarranted."

Two Dissent

This means that the condemned couple can be executed at any time in Sing Sing's electric chair, barring any further effective delaying maneuvers by the defense.

Ike Warns Rhee For PW Release

WASHINGTON, June 19 —UP—President Eisenhower has told President Syngman Rhee he is holding him personally responsible for the release of anti-Communist Korean war prisoners, congressmen were informed Friday.

ROK Seeks Small Band Of Anti-Reds

SEOUL, June 19 —UP—South Korean police hunted Friday for a small band of escaped anti-Communist Chinese prisoners while additional American guards rushed to trouble spots near here and at Pusan.

The United Nations command anticipated new breakouts by North Korean prisoners, possibly Friday night, and ordered reinforcements for guard troops now on duty.

Two extra American battalions arrived at trouble spots near Pusan, where 2 anti-Communist North Koreans fled to freedom with the aid of South Korean guards, Thursday.

"Other Eighth Army units are alerted if needed," an Army spokesman said.

Brig. Gen. Sterling A. Wood, inspector general for U. S. Army forces in the Far East, flew to Pusan from Tokyo early Friday on a "routine visit."

"Naturally, he is interested in the matter of these escapes," a spokesman at Pusan said.

A small group of anti-Communist Chinese war prisoners joined North Korean prisoners who fled from the Pusan prison hospital Thursday night.

South Korean national police hunted for the escaped Chinese prisoners but made no effort to apprehend any of the North Koreans.

More than 2,000 additional prisoners made a getaway from three Allied camps Thursday night, bringing the number of prisoners released through orders of President Syngman Rhee to 27,000.

Furthermore, it was said Mr. Eisenhower served notice on the aged and stubborn South Korean President that the United States has got to take some strong action.

There was no official hint of the action the administration has in mind, however. President Eisenhower stepped up the pressure on Rhee to quit down and officials sought to assure the Communists every effort would be made to recapture the Red POWs South Korea defiantly released.

The legislators heard Dulles make clear that the administration takes an extremely serious view of the effect of the prisoner release on a Korean war truce.

Dulles is pessimistic regarding chances of capturing any sizeable number of the prisoners.

The President was said to have informed Rhee that South Korea was acting as a United Nations trustee in guarding the prisoners and had violated a trust.

Dulles Thursday called the release a "violation" of Rhee's agreements.

Sen. H. Alexander Smith (R-N.J.), who attended the meeting, said he regarded the situation as "critical."

House Speaker Joseph W. Martin Jr., sat in on the Dulles' briefing.

The government was understood to be considering — and some Congressmen were demanding — strong action to bring President Syngman Rhee into line.

Would Blame U.S.
"If there is no peace, there will be a worldwide tendency to blame the Communists."

At best, the UN command expects the Reds to protest violently against the freeing of thousands of anti-Communist war prisoners by South Korean President Syngman Rhee. The one hope is that they may then agree to proceed with the final phase of truce negotiations.

At worst, the Reds might delay the signing of an armistice, demanding that the freed prisoners be recaptured.

The situation became more serious when it was made known that a "small group" of anti-Communist Chinese prisoners have joined those North Koreans who escaped.

The Peiping radio had already charged that the United States had "connived" with South Korea in the prisoner release.

All the minor details of the truce text had been ironed out, but Rhee turned loose 25,000 prisoners. Staff officers had finished mapping a cease-fire line.

Red Refugee Hurt By Unknown Party

TULSA, June 19 —UP—A man who identified himself as a non-Communist political refugee and a Ukrainian count was shot but not seriously wounded under mysterious circumstances, police reported Friday.

The victim, with flesh wounds in the shoulder and side, was registered at a hospital as Leon Max. He said his full name is Leonid I. Damianov Maximovic.

Max told police he had carried a sack of garbage to the alley behind the rooming house where he lives when he was ambushed. They were called to the rooming house shortly after midnight by a landlady. She said Max had staggered into the house and called for help.

Max, dark-haired and stocky with a thick accent, was quoted by a hospital nurse as saying, "I guess I'll be running the rest of my life."

Detective Al Leitch said Max described himself as a Ukrainian count, who fled Romania in 1949 after participating in an anti-Communist underground which attempted to stage off the abdication of King Michael.

Max told officers he had lived here 14 months, was employed as an engineer at the McNamara Boiler and Tank Co., and has taken out his first citizenship papers.

"I don't know whether this case has any international or political complications or not," Leitch said. "We are going to do a lot of checking."

Ailing Woman Rescued From Yacht By Amphibious Plane

SAN DIEGO, Calif., June 19 —UP—A 33-year-old Dallas, mother-in-law, was rescued Friday after an amphibious plane rescued her in high seas from a yacht on which she had lapsed into a diabetic coma.

Mrs. Mary Weston was taken off the yacht by a Coast Guard PBM-300 amphibious plane Thursday. Her husband, William R. Weston Jr., radioed from the yacht Quisette that she appeared to be in serious condition.

The Quisette sailed from Newport harbor two days ago enroute to Honolulu on the first part of a two-year, round-the-world cruise with the Westons, their six-year-old daughter, Diane, and crewman Rennie Storey of Pasadena, Calif.

Weston's first plea for help was picked up in Ferguson Falls, Minn., by an amateur radio operator identified only as "Dr. Rockwood."

Weston's first plea for help was picked up in Ferguson Falls, Minn., by an amateur radio operator identified only as "Dr. Rockwood."

Rockwood relayed the distress message to David Rothbart, a "ham" operator in Los Angeles, who notified the Coast Guard.

The search for the yacht began at dawn Thursday. Two Coast Guard planes located her eight hours later.

The Westons purchased the 44-foot yacht from Los Angeles shortly before sailing.

At Dana, Weston's father, operator of Weston Hardware Co., and his mother said their son's wife had been a diabetic for years, but had undertaken the round-the-world voyage with her physician's permission.

Mrs. Weston is the former Mary Kay Denning, daughter of the late L. B. Denning, president of the Lone Star Gas Co.

Weston's mother said the couple planned to write and sell articles and show movies of their cruise.

Hot Weather Keeps Texas City Quiet

TEXAS CITY, June 19 —UP—Texas City Corporation Court was closed Thursday for the first time in many months.

City jail was empty.

City council couldn't gather a quorum for an important meeting.

A civic club called off an election and decided to ballot by mail.

Everybody involved in the lack of activity gave the same explanation: it was just too hot and humid.

Cowboy Fiddler 'Smiles' As He Murders Estranged Wife

FORT WORTH, June 19 —UP—A part-time cowboy band fiddler, who stood "smiling the whole time" he pumped five bullets into the body of his estranged wife, remained in critical condition Friday after turning the weapon on himself.

Peace Justice R. B. (Dick) Calaway returned a verdict of murder in the death Thursday of Mrs. Mary Ruth Cox Saling, 24, who was slain at her desk at Montgomery Ward.

Police said L. J. (Buster) Saling, 28, an employee of the Standard Door & Lumber Co., then turned the weapon — a .25-caliber Italian pistol — on himself.

Raymond Lunsford, who lives at the same rooming house as Saling, said the latter was a part-time cowboy band fiddler.

There apparently was only one witness to the shooting. That was T. E. Tilley, Montgomery Ward farm store manager, who said he was about 10 feet away in an adjoining glass-partitioned office.

Saling "smiled the whole time he was shooting her," Tilley said. Then, after Mrs. Saling fell from her chair, Tilley said, Saling "did not look around or seem to say anything — just put the gun up to his head and shot."

Globemasters Grounded While Officers Investigate Crash

(Editor's Note: Eighteen months ago, United Press correspondent Frank Jordan covered three air plane crashes at Elizabeth, N. J. Jordan, now on assignment in the Far East, covered the worst plane crash in history near Tokyo Thursday).

By FRANK JORDAN
TOKYO, June 19.—UP—Far East Air Forces grounded all C-124 Globemasters Friday while officers investigated the worst airplane crash in history, a disaster that claimed 129 American lives.

FRAP said the investigators were sifting through the wreckage of the giant double-decked passenger transport in an effort to determine the cause of the crash near Tokyo Thursday.

Work crews found burned and stiff bodies, disintegrated grotesque caricatures of humans, in pools of water, against a slope or doubled up beneath a jagged section of still-hot metal.

Tragedy Follows Pattern
These American boys died 8,000 miles from Elizabeth, N. J., but this tragedy looked and felt the same as the three plane crashes that converted Elizabeth into a city of tears within months in late 1951 and early 1952.

The bodies resembled those at Elizabeth, only there were more of them this time.

It was raining hard Thursday night. The rain soaked the blankets.

New Father Wins Wager With Lloyds

SANTA MONICA, Calif., June 19.—UP—Gregory Melanson raked in a $5,000 bet from Lloyds of London Friday after his 26-year-old wife dealt him three of a kind.

The hardware salesman had wagered a $200 insurance premium on the fact that his wife, Mary Louise, would have a "multiple" birth.

Actually, two of a kind would have won the premium. But Thursday two girls and a boy, averaging five pounds each, were delivered by caesarian section. They were placed in incubators.

Multiple births can usually be detected before delivery by heartbeats. However, Melanson made his bet soon after his learned his wife was pregnant—too soon for a conclusive obstetrical test.

Melanson said he decided on the gamble after recalling there were several sets of twins in his wife's family background.

berg appeal than had the other justices.

"Now I know I am right on the law," he said defiantly. "No man or woman should go to his death merely because his lawyer did not raise a legal question."

Douglas is Emotional
Douglas, continuing in an emotion-laden voice, said the trial judge, Irving R. Kaufman, "had no power to impose the death penalty. I know deep in my heart that I am right on the law and, therefore, I see my duty."

Black, speaking after Douglas, challenged the authority of the full court to set aside Douglas' stay of execution.

"Surely," Black snapped, "the court is not setting the precedent of calling special sessions every time a federal official asks for it."

News In Balance

By PHIL NEWSOM
United Press Foreign Analyst
The week's balance sheet between the good and bad news in the hot and cold wars:

1. The Communists, past masters at stirring up trouble for others, were having trouble of their own. On Wednesday, East Berliners exploded under the pressures of eight years of Red rule and staged a bloody revolt. By Wednesday night and Thursday the revolt had spread to other cities of East Germany and thousands of workers went on strike in defiance of Russian tanks and guns.
2. An official Moscow announcement disclosed still other Communist troubles. It disclosed that the first secretary of the Ukrainian Communist party's central committee had been fired, and that the Ukrainian vice premier also had been relieved of his post.
3. In the South American republic of Colombia, order was being restored after a bloodless coup which installed Lt. Gen. Rojas Pinillas at the head of government in place of the deposed Laureano Gomez.

1. This week hopes for a Korean truce appeared at the very verge of reality, only to receive what may be their greatest setback. South Korea's aged and defiant

President Syngman Rhee, bitterly opposed to any truce which would leave a divided Korea, double-crossed his allies. By sudden and secret order he released more than 25,000 anti-Communist North Korean war prisoners in violation of United Nations agreement with the Reds.

2. The French sank deeper into trouble both at home and abroad. For nearly a month France had been without a government, and it was increasingly apparent that whoever her new premier might be, he would get the job only by promising much and asking nothing in the way of new taxes or reforms.
3. In the United States the question of whether Ethel and Julius Rosenberg should be electrocuted at Sing Sing prison evolved around complicated legalities. But in the rest of the world it had become a Communist sponsored cause celebre.

Fleet Commander Nominated
WASHINGTON, June 19—UP—President Eisenhower nominated Vice Adm. Felix B. Stump to be commander in chief of the U. S. Pacific Fleet. Stump, who now commands the Second Fleet, will be promoted to the four-star rank of full admiral and would succeed Adm. Arthur W. Radford.

U. S. to Deport Chinese
WASHINGTON, June 19—UP—Attorney General Herbert Brownell Jr. announced Thursday that 55 Chinese in this country illegally will be deported to Red China July 16. Brownell said they are among 600 Chinese now in the United States illegally.

Hearings to Become Public
WASHINGTON, June 19—UP—The Joint Congressional Atomic Energy committee decided Thursday to throw open to the public its hitherto secret hearings on the development of atomic power for peaceful purposes.

A SPRAY'S THE THING—Cooling off in a 94-degree heat wave was easy for Angela Cerar of Bellaire, O. She enlisted the aid of her young neighbor, Paul Galsler, who applied a spray from the garden hose as shown, while she settled in the tub with a book.

The Voice Of Experience . . . Hank Gives June Bridegrooms Sound Advice On Married Life

BY HENRY McLEMORE
I was darning my socks and trying to keep an eye on the pot roast at the same time the other day when it occurred to me that I should devote this space before June runs out to telling young husbands a few things they should know.

So, while the stars are still in their eyes, and the rice is still in their hair, I would counsel them thusly:

1. While it is fresh in your memory write down, in indelible ink, the second, the minute, the hour, and the day when you met your bride. Also, what she was wearing, where she was standing, the position of the sun, who else was there, what everyone was doing, etc., etc. Because she will, years later she will recall that moment and if you don't have all the facts and details at your fingertips she will be convinced that you don't love her and never did love her in the first place.
2. Run like mad to the telephone when you know you are going to be one second off schedule. To call and say you'll be a trifle late will make you later, of course, but wives rate this bit of foolish thoughtfulness higher than they do a pair of diamond clips.
3. Never expect to have any closet room all your own, even if there are 2,000 closets in your house or apartment. Nothing grieves a wife so much as for a husband to be able to reach in a closet and get out a suit without first having to shove hangers loaded with dresses, skirts, blouses, and coats out of the way. If a wife doesn't have enough clothes to fill up all the closets she'll hang up flour sacks, belts, worn-out curtains, anything.
4. Put aside any notion that you might have that a shower bath is for taking a shower in. It is nothing more than a device with a horizontal bar designed for women to hang their stockings and undergarments across to dry.
5. Never try to wash your hands or brush your teeth after a certain time of night. Your wife will always find the bathroom basin packed with two or three kinds of women's wear, placed there to soak overnight.
6. Never criticize your wife's make-up. If she comes out of the bedroom looking like a Navajo ready for the annual rain dance, let her go. Instead of appreciating your suggestions, she will consider you a cad.
7. Don't let the first months of marriage trick you into doing unnecessary little thoughtful things that you don't intend keeping up all the rest of your married life. You'll forget them. She won't. And then you won't be able to forget. For example, when winter comes don't get in bed first and warm her side. If you do you'll be freezing yourself twenty years from now.
8. Always offer to WASH the dishes, not DRY them. Washing is supposed to be the dirtier job, but

JACOBY ON BRIDGE Relax — Let Foe Do The Struggling

By OSWALD JACOBY
Written for NEA Service
The South hand was really slightly too strong for an opening bid of one no-trump, since it includes 19 points with two extra ten-spot. (Most experts will bid one no-trump only on a hand that counts 16 to 18 points.) The extra strength did South no good at all, since he misplayed the hand and managed to go down.

West opened the five of hearts, dummy properly played low, and East won with the jack. East next cashed the ace of hearts and then returned the deuce of spades.

South won the third trick with the ace of spades and promptly laid down the ace of clubs. He continued with the 'ack' of clubs, but West carefully held off. South overtook with dummy's queen of clubs, which held the trick.

Having arrived in dummy, declarer led a diamond towards his hand and put up the king of diamonds. West won with the ace of diamonds, cashed the king of clubs, and exited safely with a spade.

South was now back in his own hand and was therefore limited to three spades, one diamond and two clubs. If he then led a heart, West would take three heart tricks; if it South led a diamond instead, East would take two diamonds and the jack of spades.

The correct way to play such a hand is to let the opponents do some of the struggling. After winning the first trick with the ace of spades, South should lead the jack of clubs (not the ace) and overtake with dummy's queen of clubs.

If East happens to have the king

Gives Choice of Spreads
WASHINGTON, June 19—UP—The Senate Armed Services committee approved a bill Thursday to permit the Navy to serve oleomargarine as well as butter to Navy personnel. The Army and Air Force already have such authority.

Colombia Recognized
WASHINGTON, June 19—UP—The United States Thursday recognized the new government of Colombia, five days after it came into power by a military coup. The State Department said that Ambassador Capus M. Waynick had been instructed to resume diplomatic relations.

Declarer now returns a diamond, losing to West's ace, and West gets out safely with a spade. South must cash both the king and queen of spades, followed by the ace of clubs and a low club. West can take the king of clubs, but must then lead hearts or diamonds, and in either case South will make his seven tricks.

GRACE FRIEND

Dear Miss Friend
I am going to be married this summer and I have decided not to wear white.

My girlfriend tells me that as it is my first marriage I must wear white.

Is there any rule on what color a bride can wear? If so I never heard of it.

Dorcas

Dear Dorcas
The rule about bride's wearing white is the other way around.

Traditionally brides do not wear white unless it is their first marriage. This springs from the old belief that white denotes virginity.

Therefore women who remarry are supposed to wear some other color than white. Veils fall in the same category. They are for those who are brides for the first time and are not supposed to be worn by women when they remarry.

There is no reason why you shouldn't choose a color for your wedding dress if you wish to. Actually many lovely soft colors are much more becoming than a pure white. As a girl wants to look her best on her wedding day she should choose a color which is most becoming to her.

Perhaps a pale pink, yellow or green would do the most for you. Often times in the summer white organza is worn over a pastel slip to give the effect of another color. Many satins and laces which we generally regard as white are really off-white tones.

ENGAGEMENT
Dear Grace
Is it just as correct to announce an engagement in the paper as to give a party and announce it?

There isn't much time between now and our wedding and we would like just to announce it in the newspaper and not give any kind of a party if that is correct.

Jane

Many engagements are announced in the paper.

Don't give an announcement party unless you want to.

Use Washing Machine Techniques To Clean Wools And Starch Fabrics

By KAY SHERWOOD
NEA Staff Writer

Work-saving ideas for washday can save your time, temper and money when the hot weather increases the weekly laundry load.

New techniques for starching, dyeing and washing fine woolsens (tested by Mrs. Jessie Cartwright, laundering expert and director of the Norge Home Institute) have opened my eyes to the fact that I've been doing processes by hand that a machine can do easier and faster.

Other tips from Mrs. Cartwright make washday easier whether you use a nonautomatic or an automatic machine. For example, properly preparing clothes for the machine can save mending time later. That means that zippers should be closed, pockets cleaned out, cuffs turned down and brushed free of grass, sticks and dirt. Holes and tears should be mended.

"New powdered nonchlorine bleaches don't weaken fabrics," says Mrs. Cartwright. "They can be used safely every time you wash. If you want a stronger bleaching action from them," she suggests, "add a quarter of a cup of ammonia to the water."

Instead of mixing starch solution every time you wash, the expert freezes extra-heavy starch solution in ice cube trays and stores the frozen cubes in plastic bags inside the freezer. My 14-cube tray holds about a quart of solution.

For freezing, I triple the amount of starch suggested on the package for a heavy solution. Then I dilute the thawed cubes with water in proportion to the finish I want.

The beauty-wise girl knows that a creme rinse is top-knot protection against summer sun ravages. The hair conditioning action of creme rinse before sun bathing lessens the drying effects of Ol' Sol. After a day at the beach, creme rinsing rids tresses of sand and perspiration odor, leaving locks manageable and freshly fragrant.

Lightly starching clothes is fast and easy in an automatic washer. After clothes have spun dry, fill tubs half-way or less with water, pour in the starch solution and figure the dilution you need according to the strength of the solution and the amount of water in the washer.

Start the machine and let the clothes slosh around in the starch water for a minute, then spin dry.

More economical but slower," says Mrs. Cartwright, "is to dip clean damp clothes in a bucket of starch water, then return them to your machine for spin-drying. Less economical—but faster—is to add the starch to a full tub of rinse water for the last minute of the cycle."

Freshening the color of faded summer clothes by tinting is also a job for the machine. The precaution noted by the expert is to protect the lid of the machine from possible staining by the dye. For this she recommends a freezer-bag slipped over the lid, or a strip of aluminum foil taped to the inside. All you need to do is to dissolve the tint in an enameled filled machine. Let the machine run for a minute to mix and dunk the clothes into the tint bath. Reset an automatic machine for the entire cycle. After dyeing, rinse the machine well with hot water.

Another short cut which I tried on this expert's recommendation is machine-washing fine woolsens and sheer fabrics. My machine uses an agitator action which I've always felt was too rough for company-best blankets, sheer curtains and hand-knit shawls. The secret of her method is to remove the agitator completely from the machine while it washes.

You'll need the agitator in place to dissolve the mild soap or detergent, then take it out. Put the item to be washed in the machine, around the center post. The revolving post creates ripples of water which gently wash the fabric.

HOW IS YOUR

VISION

What you see and what you look for, when you read, makes a difference. Vision is 87% of all avenues to the brain. Can your vision distinguish between good and evil, honor and dishonor? Jesus said, If your eye leads you into sin, pluck it out. The library of your church will give you reading of 20-20 vision for the soul.

The Bible, in any version, is the world's best reading. Has your Bible reading vision become impaired? Do you develop astigmatism when you start reading God's word? What reading the Bible has done for others... it will do for you. Read it with 20-20 vision of mind and of soul.

The 'Big Stealers'

The part time liberal editorial writers and political cartoonists have made much of the Tideland Bill variously labeling it as "the land grab bill" and "the big steal." We should call this "big stealism."

This is pure propaganda for the real issue is not how much money private enterprise gets. The real issue is: Who gets the royalties paid by private enterprise for the use of the land? Should the states get the royalties? Or should the federal government get them?

No matter which government owns the lands they will be leased to private operating companies which will pump the oil. The only way to get private profits out of the picture is to abolish private pumping of oil and let the states or federal government go into the drilling and pumping business. So far as we know, not even the part time liberals nor their political cartoonists have proposed this course.

Where, then, is the big steal? The private companies will get their profit from drilling and pumping, whether they pay royalties to the federal or the state governments.

This is merely another example of how the leftists love to smear private business.

Aside from the question of states rights, there is the question of the danger of providing new revenue for the federal government from any source. It is argued that such new revenue will reduce taxes. This has never been the case in our entire history.

Whenever the government reaches deeper into the public pocket to find new sources of revenue, it also reaches deeper into its own imagination to find new ways of spending money. New revenue is more than counteracted by new spending.

The government receives, say, a million dollars from a new source, and says to the people:

"We are going to build you a new public building. It won't cost you a cent. The money will come from oil royalties."

So the government builds its million dollar building and saddles the public with higher taxes to pay the overhead, maintenance and the vast payroll of the hundreds of extra jobs. It's not the initial cost; it's the upkeep. That's the flow. The new revenue invariably saddles the public with new upkeep.

Frank Chodorov asks some cogent questions in the June issue of Faith and Freedom magazine: "... (If the tideland bill had been defeated) a precedent would have been established for federal taxation of land within the boundaries of the states.

"Could the federal right to tax offshore lands be interpreted to include taxation of once submerged areas? How about the harbors of New Orleans, Boston and Philadelphia, all once under water? Then, of course, there was the question of whether the federal government could tax oyster beds and other offshore sources of wealth, if it could tax submerged oil wells."

We think the passage of the tideland bill was a step in the right direction, and that the talk about the "big steal" is merely an amusing smoke screen put out by the real big stealers, those who want everything for the federal government.

Freedom's Cause

Secretary of State Dulles, who has not been as sure-footed a foreign affairs leader as expected by some, nevertheless was in firm stride when he declared the United States should, in the Near East and Asia, give no aid or appearance of aid to colonialism.

On his recent tour of those regions, Dulles found what others before him have found. The native populations desperately want independence. They want an end to colonial control by Britain, France, or any other.

Insofar as the United States seems to ally itself closely to the aims of these governments in Asia and the Middle East, it too will be looked upon with considerable disfavor.

And so long as Russian or Chinese Communists profess to espouse the nationalistic goals of these peoples, the Reds are likely to have some measure of the success they have had in Indo-China in taking over and distorting movements for independence.

We feel — with good reason — that the Asiatics and Near Eastern folk who allow this to happen are incredibly naive politically. They do not realize they are trading British and French over-loads for Communist masters whose tyranny is unparalleled.

Yet, in simple fairness, we cannot hope to impress them with the earnestness of our concern for their freedom and our own if we endorse the colonial yoke on them.

Active Vietnamese in Indo-China do not care to fight and die for French rulers. No effort to enlist large native forces in behalf of freedom there is likely to succeed until France gives the people full control of their own political destinies.

In the same way, the British must ultimately turn over control in Malaya, must get their armed forces out of Egypt. And the French must begin to think seriously of yielding hegemony over their North African colonies along the Mediterranean.

These moves will be bitter medicine for the once-great colonial powers. The best they can hope for is somehow to keep the colonial lands within the French or the British family of nations, as with the British Commonwealth pattern.

But there is no alternative. Continued colonialism carries with it the risk of disaster in the Middle East and Asia. Only communism can be the gainer, and in these territories communism already has gained far too much.

BETTER JOBS

By R. C. HOILES

"Front Organizations of the Communist Party"

I want to call the readers' attention to a little pamphlet on the subject of "Front Organizations of the Communist Party" that should be read by everyone who wants to do all he can to get people to better understand what produces better jobs and develops character.

The booklet was written by Rev. Claude Bunzel, executive secretary of the American Council of Christian Churches of California. It can be had for 20 cents by writing to the American Council of Christian Churches of California, 42 N. Raymond Ave., Pasadena 1, California.

Nothing Secret

Most of us can read the Bible time and again and overlook some important statements. Here is one that did not register with me before this pamphlet called it to my attention. It is found in the Gospel of John where John was reporting the statements of Jesus before the high priest, who was asking him about his disciples and his doctrine. Jesus answered:

"I spoke openly to the world; I ever taught in the synagogue, and in the temple, whither the Jews always resort; and in secret have I said nothing."

That especially appealed to me because every man who advocates some form of Socialism or Communism always refuses to answer certain questions. He keeps secret how he will solve this or that dilemma. The Socialists and Communists publicly state that they expect to destroy capitalism or the free enterprise system. They make no secret of this. The secret they keep is how they will cause the growth and tyranny of government to wither away, as Karl Marx contended it would. The Socialists and Communists are advocating the initiations of force and contend that when the proletariat gets complete control, it will wither away. That is, that we can have light by having darkness; we can have peace by having coercion; that hate will produce love; that covetousness will produce charity; that slothfulness will produce diligence; that compulsion will produce gentleness; that ill will will produce good will.

Yes, Jesus certainly did not teach in secret. He had nothing that he was ashamed of. For the tyranny of the age, he was outstanding in his frankness. No man can really teach moral law or human relations and have any secret.

Rev. Bunzel points out how the Communist leaders advocate overthrowing the government by force. Then he puts it in this manner: "But let us think for a moment. If a member of the Communist Party were to step up before you, gun in hand, and say, 'I'm here to overthrow your government,' how much headway would he make? It just cannot be done that way, can it? That is why it is a secret conspiracy. That is why it works through front organizations to such a large extent.

"When Louis F. Budenz was questioned about the Communist conspiracy by the House Committee on Un-American Activities, he related a conversation with J. Peters when he first joined the Communist Party. 'Do you know the Communist Party?' asked Peters. 'Yes, I think I do.' Then this illuminating statement: 'No, you don't. You know that part of the party which appears above the surface. The Communist Party is like a submerged submarine. The periscope is the open party looking around, and the submerged part is 95 percent of the party which is underground.'"

Then Rev. Bunzel quotes from the Fourth Report of the California Committee on Un-American Activities as follows: "The committee, long ago, concluded that the Red Card of Communist membership proved nothing more than formal affiliation. The most important Communists are not issued incriminating documentary evidence. The real test, in the final analysis, is activity. When an individual is known to be associated with Communist organizations, individuals and causes over a period of years; denounces everything but Communism, condemns the United States while praising Soviet Russia together with the other activities advocated by the Communist Party, that individual is a Communist, whether he has a book signed by Joe Stalin or not."

That report was written in 1948 so now of course it would be signed by Malenkov.

Preaching Materialism
The author quotes from the writing of Lenin as follows: "We must combat religion — this is the ABC of all materialism, and consequently of Marxism. But Marxism goes further. It says: We must be able to combat religion, and in order to do this we must explain from the materialist point of view why faith and religion are prevalent among the masses."

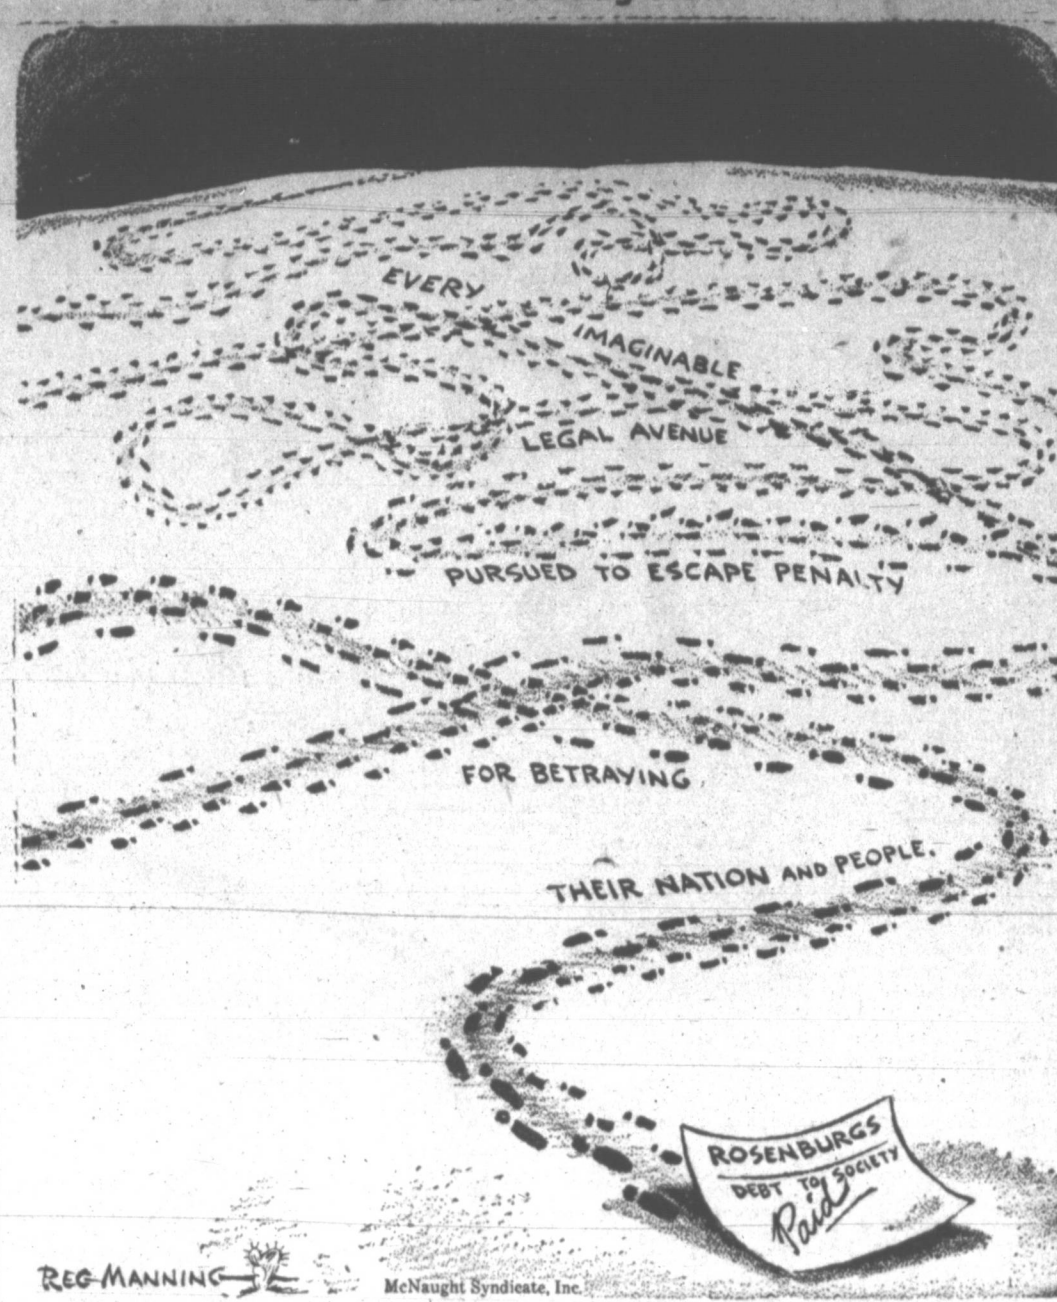

Then Rev. Bunzel quotes from the New York Times of April 7, 1953 from a special story headed "5 Reds Reported in Boston Pulpits."

"Herbert A. Philbrick, who worked for the Federal Bureau of Investigation for nine years in the Communist underground, testified today that between 1947 and 1949 he had known seven or eight hardened, disciplined and steely Reds who were posing as ministers of the gospel in the Boston area."

"Later Mr. Philbrick told reporters that 'at least five' of them were still preaching there and were 'more successful today than anyone else in the party.'"

"He had found, previously, Mr. Philbrick said, that Communists concentrated on worming their way into key spots among religious groups. He had attended one Communist cell meeting, he testified, where a Communist party member was about to be put in a theological seminary under assignment to work for Communism while and after earning his clerical status."

End Of The Twisting Trail

National Whirligig.. Plan To Restrict McCarthy's Inquiries Faces Powerful Bloc

By RAY TUCKER

WASHINGTON, June 18 (AP) — The plan to possibly restrict congressional investigating procedures so as to weaken the legislative authority to expose corrupt or communistic activities, which somehow evade any check by the executive or judicial arms of the government.

Despite criticism of certain tactics of the McCarthy-Velde-Jenner inquisitors, Congress is extremely jealous of its prerogatives in this particular field. Representative Hugh Scott of Pennsylvania, who heads the House Rules Subcommittee, is fully aware of this sentiment.

He knows that a majority of the membership in both bodies are secretly sympathetic to the investigators whose operations resulted in the proposed review.

STRONG-ARM METHODS NECESSARY — In reading their testimony before the Scott group, defenders of the present system will argue that they had to use strong-arm methods against alleged crooks in the government, treasonable officials and their Red associates because of the failure of the White House and the courts to proceed against them.

Former President Truman, for instance, assailed the congressional inquiry into Alger Hiss' role as a "red herring." Even earlier, after F.D.R. had been warned of the brilliant diplomat's suspicious behavior by Adolph A. Berle Jr., Hiss was advanced until he became a key figure at Yalta and in founding the United Nations at San Francisco.

In addition to this political indifference, the Department of Justice and federal judges have been lax. Judith Coplon will probably go free because of obvious errors in investigating and prosecuting an admitted spy for the Kremlin. Not a single member of the intra-government ring named by Elizabeth Bentley has been prosecuted.

LIGHT PENALTY — Indictments against the Amerasia Magazine conspirators, who used secret documents to publicize the cause of the Chinese Communists and contributed to Chiang Kai-shek's downfall, were dropped or dismissed after payment of trivial fines.

Judge Luther W. Youngdahl, of the District of Columbia, ruled out three indictments of Owen Lattimore, although many legal experts believe that they were questions of fact worthy of consideration by a jury.

The exposure of corruption and political favoritism in the Internal Revenue Bureau, the Reconstruction Finance Corporation, the Department of Agriculture and other agencies would have been prevented, if it had not been for congressional action.

Man — When I go to bed at night I always see a red and green signal in front of my eyes.
Doctor — Have you seen an optometrist?
Man — No, only red and green signals.

When these charges were first developed on the basis of substantial evidence, Truman scoffed at them as "asinine," with the further remark that, "All my appointees are honest men."

It is generally conceded that certain reforms are needed to prevent smearing of the innocent. Investigating subcommittees should be kept under closer supervision by their colleagues. But any attempt to impede the legislators' investigating authority and functions is bound to meet an adverse vote in House and Senate.

FARM SURPLUSES PROGRAM — A program for disposal of farm surpluses along lines recently discussed here has been advanced by Sen. Andrew F. Schoepel of Kansas. While it is not outright barter, it contemplates the use of these stocks to finance U. S. military purchases overseas.

Under his scheme, the Commodity Credit Corporation would sell foodstuffs to food-deficient countries which would pay for them in local currencies. Then, these funds would be used to finance American operations abroad. In so far as possible, private interests would handle the transaction.

TOBACCO SURPLUS — Incidentally, in a recent discussion of barter possibilities, I listed the 1953 year-end tobacco surplus at 3.6 billion pounds. It should have been about 600,000,000 to 700,000,000 pounds. The error resulted from Sen. Eastland's misinterpretation of a CCC report on its tobacco holdings. CCC informed him that the year-end "carry-over," not surplus, would be 3.6 billion pounds, as against a normal carry-over of 2.8 billion pounds. Therefore, 700,000,000 is the estimated surplus as of today.

The Doctor Says

By EDWIN J. JORDAN, M. D.

Those who suffer from ragweed hay fever, with or without asthma, and who take vacations during late August and early September with the idea of getting away from the source of their trouble, should start their planning now.

Several places on the North American continent have not ragweed, or so little that the trouble is greatly lessened. There is practically no ragweed in the Pacific Northwest and northern California, and very little in southern California, Arizona and New Mexico.

The Rocky Mountains themselves have little ragweed, though ragweed grows well in the plains just east of the mountains. There is practically no ragweed in southern and eastern Florida and there is a strip of territory in western and northern Maine away from the seacoast which is claimed to have little ragweed.

Northern Minnesota and upper Michigan have less ragweed than farther south. Many victims of hay fever get a great deal of relief in those areas, though when a strong wind is blowing from the south they often have trouble.

Several national parks are good hay fever spots. Among them are Crater Lake, Bryce Canyon, Glacier, Grand Canyon, Grand Teton, Kings Canyon, Mount McKinley, Mount Rainier, Olympic, Grand Lake, Sequoia, Yellowstone, Yosemite, Zion and Sun Valley.

According to pollen studies, cities with no ragweed in the air, or small amounts, include Sacramento, Miami, Reno, Portland, Ore., Seattle, Spokane, Prince Albert (Saskatchewan) and Mexico City.

Favorable claims are also made for such places as Mackinac Island, Marquette and Charlevoix in Michigan; Bethlehem, Bretton Woods and Dixville Notch in New Hampshire; Campbell Island in New Brunswick, Canada, Minaki

Biography Of John J. McGraw Rated As Excellent By Pegler

By WESTBROOK PEGLER

(Copyright, 1953, King Features Syndicate, Inc.)
Mrs. John J. McGraw and Arthur Mann, a professional inmate of the bas, ball press-scoops for many years, have given us the best among many biographies of teams and individuals and of the game itself.

The title is "The Real McGraw." It is even better than my own "autobiography" of Babe Ruth, 80,000 words of ripping prose and timetable statistics, run up on the mechanical writer in up on the New York Evening World, about 1920.

It has a right to be. We had had only one 15-minute interview with Ruth and wadded out our opus with ketchup from Spalding's Guide and the envelopes from the morgue.

Mrs. McGraw was married to Mac for 32 years, from 1902 when Mac was 32, and she was 21. Father Cornelius Thomas, of St. Ann's, Baltimore, in his parting admonition, said: "Let selfishness be no barrier to your happiness but understand that each must give up much, renounce himself, that both may enjoy delightful fruit. For you know that it is the sacrifice that adds to the number of runs and wins the game."

In baseball, as perhaps in matrimony, too, the sacrifice was more commonly practiced then.

Many of us knew McGraw as a hard, brutal man when drunk, but we have heard the standard contrast of the open-handed, sentimental weep-easy. This, however, is the first treatise on a historic American personality which has been able to entice him to me at all.

Mrs. McGraw would not have hurt her story or her husband by touching upon his awful physical ailments with John Slavin, the musical comedy actor, who he slugged with a bottle in the Lamb's Club, and with Wilton Lackaye, the drowsy straight man who called at the McGraw apartment to amuse things and landed at the bottom of the stairs with not only his walking stick but one of his legs smashed.

These incidents and others, including Mac's embroilment with a real estate promotion in Florida which made it prudent for him to stay away from the Giants' most of a spring and summer season, were the nip and tuck of a wild yet righteous and affectionate man. He was a devil in drink and had a perverse preference for mischievous Broadway characters including one who was, by and large, a homosexual and a gentle grafter. He was also a great athlete and a completely determined fighter who could absolutely lose himself in the swirl of competition and fight until there was nothing left to fight for. He certainly left his mark in the sands of his own time, and of his traits, courage, determination, and a zeal for perfection that spurred the very idea of compromise, were dominant.

He was the undisputed sort of an Irish immigrant who had fought in the Civil War and settled at Truxton, N. Y., in 1877, to a life of hardship and sorrow. His poor man's first wife had died leaving him with a little girl. His second wife, little Ma's mother, died in a black diphtheria plague, followed in a few weeks by four of the nine children. The father was earning $9 for a 60-hour week as a minor prince of privilege in a maintenance crew of the Elmira, Cortland and Northern Railway. Mere section hands, the unskilled kind, got only a dollar a day. The black diphtheria was a familiar dread at the turn of the century. A family living in Slop Alley by the Minneapolis car lot had lost all through it. I recall the case, seven members in a few days about 1902. Mrs. McGraw's doctor had gone to her side to deliver her of a baby, Nellie, who somehow came through it all.

The father now moved the five remaining children to a little house on Main Street, Truxton, but already little John was showing signs of his obsession with baseball, a nonsense unit for compare with Irish Ma and whaled him so hard that he hit a head with his bat but the ball was out of reach. And when one evening a neighbor came demanding another 15 cents for another window knocked out by a ball, John McGraw cornered him off with promises that John would go to mass if he had to take him herself. The kid became a chore-boy on his way to other small jobs and ultimate status as an American of good importance. He was a candy-butcher on the local trains, he delivered the Elmira Telegram to farmers in bitter winter and he won a one-dollar portion of a $10 bet by pitching a ball underhand which passed to the right of two stakes, 30 feet apart, and was caught in the left of a third stake, 30 feet beyond the second, an early demonstration of the out-curve.

McGraw and Hugh Jennings held theoretical sessions at night and, Mrs. McGraw says, "Countless daytime field experiments followed in this summer of 1903." They measured each other's speed from first to second against Wilbert Robinson's throw to second. One would stand on second and shout when he caught the throw. Another would mark the farthest progress. They measured the leads off first, the slides and the speed from first to third. They tested again from home to first against different speeds of rolling balls down the third base line. They practiced hitting to spots vacated when either shortstop or second baseman ran to cover second. John and Hugh hit thousands of fungoes to each other, even after a hard game to correct fielding mistakes.

The secret was that McGraw loved to play baseball and was a born competitor.

His widow speaks of him through-out the book as "that boy and the baseball" who, in her opinion, "could be neither destroyed nor denied."

"Defeat was his mortal enemy. All else was minor. Without victory, without a team of fighting, hustling players to create victory, baseball had no meaning."

"By the same token, life without baseball had little meaning. It was his meat, his drink, his dream, his blood and breath, his reason for existence."

LOOKING SIDWAYS

By WHITNEY BOLTON

You take a train out in the country and you get into Penn Station at 10:11 o'clock in the morning. You exit at the end nearest the 7th Avenue subway end. You glance in the windows of book stores and bakery shops. You note a new gadget for taking the tops off tin cans and decide that the first apparent incongruity we know it will come when people stop inventing new kinds of can openers. You walk along idly, you watch a man in his 60's buy a dozen comic books and speculate as to whether they are for his own delectation or for a grandchild. He solves it for you by taking a bench and diving avidly into the magazines. You watch a lady who ought to be watching her sodas put a penny in a weighing machine and make a grimace as the needle swings far over to around 220 pounds.

You are in no hurry at you notice people as you saunter. This one looks depressed and that one looks happy. That one looks ill and this one blooms with health. And then you see a tiny, round little woman walking toward you with girlish curls cascading down each side of a face gone, alas, a little pudgy. She is wearing a patch of a little white hat and a short pink coat which could stand pressing. Her tiny feet are in platform shoes, black and slightly strewn, but she looks as if she were about to stare. You are certain that this must be the famed dancer, 25 years later. No others had the small, packed figure and the tiny, twinkling feet. You weigh the possibilities: shall you go to her; and ask her if she is the former dancer — and then recall that you knew each other more than two decades ago? Or shall you walk past and pay no heed, not because you are disinterested but because you cannot think of one tactful, lovely thing to say.

You decide that it is best to keep walking. What can you say to her? Where has she been? That might be cruel. What is she doing? That might be crueler. How are things? That might be the cruellest of all. You feel that you had best pay no attention — unless she speaks.

She doesn't speak. You pass within a foot of each other. You do not evade glancing at her. She looks at you, incuriously, impersonally — as you might look at a chair, a table or a wall. And you walk by and, in a moment, she is lost in the crowd and you know right then and there that you may be a seeker after fact but you are not a sound newspaperman. A sound newspaperman would have stopped and asked her if she was the dancer and would have introduced himself all over again and added: "Perhaps you don't remember," and asked a lot of questions which would be legitimate news. It has been so long since her name was in print that printing would amount to news.

You cozen your professional guilt by arguing with yourself that you have no right to pry into a life across which a curtain has long been drawn. You think you might awaken bitter memories, but you can't believe that she hasn't them, anyway. She must remember when her name was blazing in lights six feet tall, when she worked in famous musicals and her name led all the rest.

You remember, and you have no need to do so. You remember her dancing like the small, bright light of a flame. You remember her dainty technique and flashing feet, her skill and rich talent. You remember her working in little sketches with Bill Fields and the others. You remember her jewels and her tarts and the deference she received when she walked into Broadway's great restaurants. You remember how tourists whispered and nudged when she walked by, her lovely head in the air. They you wince for the memories.

You turn, once more, and far away a wrinkled little pink coat vanished suddenly around a far corner of the great railroad station. You think maybe you did the right thing to leave her alone instead of stirring up pain and unhappiness.

Of which she has had a bounty,

LINCOLN, Neb., June 19.—UP—Two hundred from Southern California and a Kansas Cowpoke were spotlighted Friday as starting time neared for the NCAA track and field championships.

Parry O'Brien and Sim Iness of the Trojans and Kansas' great Wes Santee were among the leaders. Santee leads this year in that event with a 1:45.5 turned in at the Compton Invitational. However, Santee, whose time is only a shade off that mark, could be going "all out" to top both Stanley and the world record held by Sidney Wooderson and Mal Whitfield.

Mrs. Orville Hensell reached the second flight, 1-1 up (18) hole decision over Mrs. Max Post of Berger; Mrs. Mark Heath won over Mrs. H. D. Dawson of Amarillo in a third flight semifinal match, 3-1; and Mrs. Oak Alice Whittle defeated Mrs. Norris

KANSAS CITY, June 19—Sixteen top-notch amateurs, all but three of them from Oklahoma and Kansas, teed off Friday in the quarter-final round of the 80th annual Chickadee Golf tournament at Kansas City Country Club.

The feature 18-hole match pitted defending champion Charles Cox of Oklahoma City against Dick Sloan of Kansas City.

Coe, former Walker Cup player and a three-time winner of this event, won his second match Thursday with unexpected ease over Oklahoma state lister Leonard Young of Tulsa 5 and 4. Sloan, playing on his home course, had it almost as easy by beating Miles Schlapik, Miami Beach, Fla., 3 and 2.

Joe Conrad, 22-year-old San Antonio collegian and recent winner of the Southern Amateur at Dallas, moved into Friday's play against Gary Ballew of Kansas City. Policemen Suspended

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., June 17—UP—The Birmingham city commission Tuesday suspended two policemen who allegedly beat a Negro suspect because they thought he was taunting them when actually a facial affliction gave him a perpetual smile. Officers J. E. Goodwin and R. J. Slaughter were suspended for 15 days each.

Worms Grease Roads

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn., June 17—UP—Millions of tent caterpillars crawled across highway in northern Minnesota Tuesday, turning them into "slippery pools of grease." Highway crews were sanding and spraying the roads with kerosene to kill the pests. A 300-mile freight train was halted on a grease south of Hills Lake when caterpillars swarmed on the tracks.

Official Denies Red Tie

MUNICH, Germany, June 17—UP—Lowell M. Clucas, public affairs officer at the U. S. Consulate General here, said Wednesday he had no Communist connections and that he would be willing to testify to that if summoned to Washington. Clucas, 35, was mentioned by Sen. Joseph McCarthy (R-Wis.) in Washington Monday.

Air Force on Fence

WASHINGTON, June 17—UP—The Air Force grabbed up so much fencing materials during a 1951 shortage that some of it was sent to a non-existent depot. House investigators charged Tuesday. Much of the rest is "stored and deteriorating" for lack of anything to build a fence around, according to Robert L. Chaney of the General Accounting office.

SOVIET GETS "NICE" WEST WONDERS—Recent Soviet overtures of "peace and friendship" toward some European nations may cause you to scratch your head, but government diplomats see a definite pattern in it and it is neither "peaceful" or "friendly" in intent. They see the tactical moves designed to create a feeling of well-being among the European people, with the hope of undermining Western unity against Communist aggression. Above Newsmap shows where the Soviet Union made the unprecedented gestures. It is feared that the peaceful approach may be more effective than the bluster and hostility of the Stalin regime.

Negroes Digging Up Pasture In Quest Of Fortune In Gold

ENNIS, Tex., June 19—UP—Ernest Raphael formed a one-man cheering section Thursday for four Negroes who are digging up his pasture in search of $35 million worth of gold bars. If they find the gold, Raphael gets half. And "if I get half of the $35 million buried treasure they're digging for, I can pay every bill I owe and have some money left," he said. The Ennis business man was not optimistic enough, however, to join in the digging in 100-degree-plus temperatures. Neither, apparently, was a fifth Negro, who sits in an automobile with a treasure map and gives the other four directions on where to yield their picks and shovels. Raphael hasn't been able to find out the diggers' names, but said they were Ennis men. The "supervisor" in the car refuses to tell his. He's from out of town. But Raphael gleaned the story of how 3,000 pounds of gold bars were buried in his pastures. And Ennis jeweler George Gainer figured that 3,000 pounds of gold bars were worth $35 million. The diggers believe the treasure encased in a metal chest, has lain 12 feet under Raphael's pasture southwest of Ennis since 1820, when it was buried to keep Indians from getting it. According to the story, the gold

Kiss Packs Wallop

WINDSOR, Ont., June 19—UP—Eugene Duda's girl friend, Betty Loveless, took the blame Wednesday after Duda's car jumped a curb and knocked down a lamp post. "It wasn't his fault," Miss Loveless told police. "I kissed him."

Lady Godiva To Ride

COVENTRY, England, June 19—UP—Lady Godiva will continue to ride naked in Coventry every hour on the hour. The city planning committee has decided to keep the clock on which Lady Godiva rides naked around a balcony every hour and peeping tom pops out and then cover his eyes.

Court Sets Value
LONDON, June 19—UP—Mr. and Mrs. Dennis Rippen had to sleep apart the first night of their honeymoon because the hotel room they had reserved was rented to someone else. A court awarded them $51.75 for "loss of pleasure" in a judgment against the hotel.

Aid Extension Approved
WASHINGTON, June 19—UP—The Senate Thursday unanimously approved a two-year extension of the federal aid program for hospital construction. It sent to the House a bill extending the so-called Hill-Burton program until June 30, 1957. The program now is scheduled to expire on June 30, 1955.

NOTABLE RELIC—This U. S. Treasury note, dated Aug. 19, 1861, has been identified as the first federal security sold to finance the Civil War. It was first purchased by Frank Taylor and was redeemed, cancelled, and returned to him years ago. The note was acquired by the Riggs National Bank from his grandson, also named Frank Taylor, and is now on display in the Treasury Department archives in Washington.

IMPORTANT NOTICE!

We are looking for reliable parties, men or women, who want to operate a chain of new coin merchandising machines. WE WILL SECURE LOCATIONS FOR YOU and set up in business. This can be handled in your spare time—if you are not employed on Saturday it can be handled in 3 or 4 hours work and be built up to a business that should pay $5,000 and up per year when fully established. Physical condition or education is of no great importance. NO SELLING OR SOLICITING—no waiting for 1 to 6 months to build up the business. It pays you a profit the first day.

THIS IS NOT A GET-RICH-QUICK business but it should give you a STEADY, PROFITABLE income for the rest of your life. A CASH INVESTMENT of $594.00 is all that is required, which is secured by equipment.

If you can qualify and have the necessary capital and a sincere desire for financial security, then write at once for a personal interview, giving age, past experience, address and phone number to Box 22 c/o Pampa Daily News.

St. Paul Working On Budget Drive

The Roy Farrow Plan of the St. Paul Methodist Church of Pampa is progressing under the lay leadership of Elton Coe in the financial campaign to underwrite the church budget. The church campaign is now in the educational phase of the drive. Miss Lou Dean Cotten, 413 Pitts, is director of the educational division which will be completed July 4. H. A. Collins, head of the speakers committee, has had speakers on tithing in each of the Sunday School classes, before the various mid-week meetings of the church, and five minute speakers during regular worship services of the church. A kick-off dinner with an out of town speaker will be held for the entire committee of the Roy Farrow Plan and the workers on the night of July 6.

RAPS BEAUTY—Corinne Calvet, sultry French star, thinks the natural beauty of many American girls really handicaps them. Pictured relaxing at a Las Vegas resort hotel pool, Corinne said American girls let beauty do the work of sex appeal. "It's a lazy way to attract a man, but it's the most difficult way to hold him," French gals, she says, have less natural beauty and so develop other charms.
