Well, the World Series finally came to an end and with it a logjam of sports activities. For several days the nation, in addition to Watergate and the fuel crisis, had professional football, professional baseball, professional basketball and professional hockey season over-lapping, in addition to such activities as golf, tennis, auto racing, horse racing, etc.

It really put a strain on the television people to get a representative sampling on the air, and only television could have swung the deal to get World Series games played at night. Seems only a few years ago that the major leagues limited night games to very few during the regular season.

For the first time, the Dallas Cowboys had a sell-out 72 hours before their game Sunday and it was televised to Dallas viewers, in accordance with new regulations. They reported over 6,000 "no shows" (people who had bought tickets but stayed home, ostensibly to watch it on TV) but people from our office here at the newspaper who saw the game in person couldn't figure out where there were 6,000 empty seats in Texas Stadium.

Reports over the weekend indicated that the fuel shortage may prompt a move to put the country on Daylight Saving time the year round. Some of us have thought that would be a good idea all along. The biggest objection voiced to DST as it now exists is the fact that everyone must shift his habits around every spring and fall.

Regardless, no change is expected before next Sunday, which is the day we go back to Standard Time for half a year. And soon after the change will come Halloween.

Safety organizations already are issuing their words of caution, especially to motorists and to parents of young children who will be out on "trick-or-treat" missions the evening of Oct. 31. Drivers are being warned to watch for the youngsters and parents are being reminded that costumes which make it difficult to see their children should be avoided.

In recent years, Halloween has produced reports of tainted treats being handed young "trick-or-treaters", but most of these appear to be mere efforts to attract attention. The National Confectioners Association said its educational council last year investigated such incidents and found that over 100 were outright hoaxes and that there was not one single incident reported of an adult out to harm a child. They are urging parents to go with their smaller children on Halloween evening to see for themselves, and some have even suggested that the name of the Halloween game be changed from "trick or treat night" to "meet 'n treat night." —WACIL McNAIR.

ON POSSIBLE IMPEACHMENT OF NIXON

House Launches Inquiry

By DONALD M. ROTHBERG
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House of Representatives today began preliminary inquiries into whether President Nixon should be impeached.

House Speaker Carl Albert sent the Judiciary Committee all impeachment resolutions. The committee's chairman, Rep. Peter W. Rodino Jr., D-N.J., said, "events of the past few days leave us with little choice at this time but to move ahead with preparation for impeachment proceedings."

Albert cautioned against any hasty or reckless action.

Rodino described his committee's task as being "the preliminary stage to inquire whether or not there is evidence to establish an impeachable offense."

Meanwhile, the Senate Watergate committee denied that it had made any deal with the President, and returned to court seeking full disclosure of White House tape recordings.

The panel asked the U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals to reverse a lower court's ruling that the committee had no legal authority to sue for the tapes.

In a series of rapid-fire developments in the tapes controversy:

—Former Atty. Gen. Elliot L. Richardson said the American people must decide whether the President should be impeached. He did not express a personal opinion. Richardson resigned Saturday when the President fired special Watergate prosecutor Archibald Cox.

—U.S. Dist. Judge John J. Sirica told two federal grand juries, both investigating Watergate and related scandals, that they are still in business despite the Cox firing. He said only he could dismiss the jurors.

House Speaker Albert, who is next in line to assume the office of President, said in a news conference that he is giving the Judiciary Committee all resolutions calling for impeachment.

Rep. Jerome R. Waldie, D-Calif., introduced such a resolution today.

Albert also said the committee will receive all resolutions calling for an investigation that might possibly lead to impeachment.

There was no immediate word on whether there would be public hearings on the matter by the Judiciary Committee.

Albert also called for quick action on the nomination of Rep. Gerald Ford, R-Mich., to fill the vacant office of vice president. If Ford is confirmed, Albert would be second in line to succeed the President.

Ford, the Republican minority leader of the House, reaffirmed his support for Nixon. He said the Cox firing doesn't warrant "such drastic action" as impeachment."

The Senate committee's court move came as something of a surprise, since its leaders had agreed to accept President Nixon's offer of edited transcripts of the sought-after recordings. It was this same proposed compromise that Cox refused to accept, which in turn led Nixon to fire him.

BLIMP TOUCHES DOWN—The Goodyear crew pulls in one of the company's famous blimps this morning at Winston Field as the lighter-than-air craft was boarded by photographers on assignment to take pictures of American Magnesium salt water ponds in Borden County which have been lined with a Goodyear product.

RICHARDSON SAYS

People Should Judge Crisis

WASHINGTON (AP) — Elliot L. Richardson said today the ultimate judgment on the Watergate crisis must be made by the American people. He said he is not the man to pass judgment on the question of whether President Nixon should be impeached.

While he made no direct reply to the impeachment question at a nationally televised news conference, the former attorney general said he believes in the goals and priorities of the administration, particularly in foreign policy.

Richardson recounted the negotiations, deadlock and presidential orders that led him to resign Saturday rather than fire Archibald Cox as special prosecutor in the Watergate case.

He said those events, too, are matters to be judged by the people, and that the fairness with which they are judged may determine the future well-being and security of the nation.

Richardson said he does not believe the President is now or will be in direct violation of a court order for his refusal to yield White House tape recordings, although the courts have instructed him to do so.

Richardson's farewell appearance at the Department of Justice began amid the applause and cheers of the staff he had headed for some five months.

Later came the direct question: Does Richardson believe the President should be impeached?

Richardson replied by noting that he served the administration in varying roles since Nixon took office. "I believe in the directions and priority of the administration," he said.

Coward Rites Set Wednesday

W. D. (Dub) Coward Jr., 51, died Monday afternoon after he was stricken while working near Tuscola.

Funeral service has been set for 3 p.m. Wednesday at the Bell-Seale Chapel, with the Rev. L. W. Hatfield, pastor of Faith Baptist Church, officiating. Burial will be in Hillside Memorial Gardens, under direction of Bell-Seale Funeral Home.

An employe of Homco, Mr. Coward was a veteran of World War II. He was a native of Twitty, Tex., and had lived in Snyder since 1949. He was married in 1940 at Wheeler to Doris Brown. She survives.

Also surviving are a daughter, Mrs. Kathleen Brock of Littlefield; a son, Wayman Coward of Corpus Christi; two sisters, Mrs. Ruth Lewis of Levelland and Mrs. Mildred Haney of Mississippi; two brothers, Walt Coward of Mobeetie and Rufus Coward of Houston, and four grandchildren.

Blimp Attracts Crowd

A Goodyear blimp attracted a lot of attention in the Snyder area today as it touched down at Winston Field on a public relations mission for the company.

The lighter-than-air craft took aboard photographers and others and headed for Borden County where it was to hover over some new solar tanks of American Magnesium Co., which have been lined with a Goodyear product. The tanks, which hold salt water and are part of AM's production process, cover some 105 acres at the Borden County site.

Representatives of the Goodyear public relations staff said aerial photographs of the project were requested for use in the firm's annual report to stockholders.

The blimp which came here is the America, which is based at Houston and is one of four of the craft in the Goodyear fleet. The other blimps operated by Goodyear are the Mayflower, based at Miami, Fla.; the Columbia, based at Los Angeles, Calif.; and the Europa, based in Rome Italy.

Each blimp has a crew of five pilots, a public relations representative, and 12 to 16 ground crewmen who help moor the craft when it lands and also handle all maintenance, except engine overhauls.

Dozens of people converged on Winston Field here this morning as the big blimp made several passes over the Scurry County airport before touching down briefly to pick up its passengers. It is due to work in the area for a couple of days or so.

Brazilian Airliner Crashes

RIO DE JANEIRO (AP) — A Brazilian airliner crashed into Rio de Janeiro's Guanabara Bay today and sank. Most of the passengers aboard swam to safety, airport authorities said.

According to authorities at Santos Dumont city airport, more than 20 persons were also plucked from the plane's fuselage before it sank after floating for 10 minutes.

War Rages Despite UN Cease-Fire

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Fierce tank and artillery clashes exploded along the Suez Canal today and dogfights erupted over the Syrian battleground despite the U.N. cease-fire.

The war raged into its 18th day on both fronts after a only partial overnight pause for the precarious Security Council truce designed to halt the combat in place and open the way to negotiations for a permanent peace.

Egypt called for an emergency Security Council meeting to discuss what it said were Israeli violations of the fragile cease-fire. The council president, Sir Laurence McIntyre of Australia, called a midday session at U.N. headquarters in New York.

Egypt and Israel had accepted the truce appeal — worked out by the United States and the Soviet Union — and both ordered their armies Monday evening to hold their fire unless fired on.

But Syria kept silent on the U.N. call, and only hours after it went into effect there were mutual accusations of cease-fire violations by Egyptians and Israelis along the Suez front.

A correspondent for Egypt's Middle East News Agency said the Israeli and Egyptian forces by today were "locked in the most vicious fighting since the outbreak of the war."

Syria charged the Israelis sent about 60 warplanes in "waves" to bomb civilian targets today north of Damascus and said Israeli planes and cannons hit villages in the eastern foothills of Mt. Hermon.

"Our jet fighters immediately clashed with the enemy in the most violent dogfight and prevented the enemy planes from carrying out their missions, forcing them to drop their bomb loads in barren mountainous areas," a Syrian communique said.

The renewed fighting cast doubt on whether the cease-fire could bring a quick halt to the fourth Middle East war despite the apparent agreement between U.S. Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger and Soviet Communist party chief Leonid I. Brezhnev.

There was no sign of any international supervision in the battle zones. U.N. officials said their truce observers were still in Cairo and Jerusalem, where they were evacuated when the war broke out Oct. 6.

Americans Share Prize For Physics

STOCKHOLM (AP) — British Prof. Geoffrey Wilkinson and German Prof. Ernst Otto Fischer shared the 1973 Nobel Prize for Chemistry today. The physics prize went to Americans Leo Esaki and Ivar Giaever, and a Briton, Brian Josephson.

The discoveries of Wilkinson and Fischer have found practical application in production of heat resistant enamel paint and more complete combustion of gasoline, scientific sources said.

Other spinoffs from Fischer's and Wilkinson's basic research were new formulas for catalysts to harden fats for industrial use, the sources said.

Wilkinson and Fischer were cited for their "pioneering work, performed independently, on the chemistry of the organometallic so-called sandwich compounds."

The two professors share $120,000 prize equally for their work on hydrocarbons. The Royal Academy said they had "revolutionized transition metal chemistry during the past two decades ... which is also of considerable industrial importance."

Fischer was born in 1918 and educated in Munich where he has been director of the inorganic chemistry laboratory since 1969.

Wilkinson, born in 1921, was educated in London. He is professor of inorganic chemistry at the renowned Imperial College of Science and Technology which produced several former Nobel winners.

Earlier today the Science Academy, after deliberations of record length on four alternatives, awarded the Nobel Physics Prize to Esaki, Giaever and Josephson for their discoveries connected with the generation of power through superconductors at extremely low temperatures.

Josephson was cited for "his theoretical predictions of the properties of a supercurrent through a tunnel barrier, in particular those phenomena which are generally known as Josephson effects."

Japanese-born Esaki, who works with the IBM Corp., and Norwegian-born Giaever, who works for General Electric, share one half of the $120,000 prize, while the other half goes to Josephson of Cambridge University.

Some Election Boxes Changed

Due to recent changes in local voting precincts, there will be 14 voting boxes for the constitutional amemendment election to be held here Nov. 6.

Beverly Ainsworth, county clerk, pointed out that three voting boxes have been eliminated. Box 8, at China Grove, will now vote in Box 10 at the Dunn Community Center. Box 12, Inadale, will now vote in Box 13 at the Hermleigh Community Center. Box 14, Camp Springs, will now vote at Loyd Mountain (Northeast Community Center).

The other change has to do with Box 4, Dermott, which also was eliminated. Part of the residents there will vote in Box 5 at the Fluvanna Community Center and part of them will vote in Box 17 at Northwest Snyder (City Hall).

Don Adams, Scurry County tax assessor-collector, said that people who live in boxes that were changed do not have to come into the tax office to have their voter registrations changed.

"They will be changed by the election judge as you vote in your new box," he explained.

A list of the voting boxes and where the voters will cast ballots follows:

Precinct 1, Northeast Snyder, North side of Coliseum.

Precinct 2, Loyd Mountain, Northeast Community Center.

Precinct 5, Fluvanna, Community Center.

Precinct 6, Union, Community Center.

Precinct 7, Bison, Knapp Community Center.

Precinct 9, Ira, Community Center.

Precinct 10, Dunn, Community Center.

Precinct 13, Hermleigh, Community Center.

Precinct 15, South Snyder, school administration building.

Precinct 17, Northwest Snyder, city hall.

Precinct 19, Crowder, Union Community Center.

Precinct 21, absentee, county clerk's office.

In one other changes, part of the residents of Ira (Box 9) have been moved to Bison (Box 7).

Views Aired On ExemptControls

HOUSTON (AP) — A Cost of Living Council consultant and Senator Dewey F. Bartlett, R-Okla., are in sharp disagreement over a Trans-Alaska pipeline bill amendment that would exempt most low production oils wells from price controls.

"It is a precipitious action to undercut controls," said Charles W. Owens, a special energy consultant to the council.

"The amendment will go a long way to assure us a sufficient supply of energy and let the petroleum industry do the job it needs to do," said Bartlett.

The amendment approved last week by a Senate-House conference committee was discussed Monday by Owens and Bartlett during speeches at the annual meeting of the 4,000-member Independent Petroleum Association of America.

Owens said the amendment could lead to gerrymandering of leases and cause the reduction of output from wells now producing more than 20 barrels a day.

"We are unalterably opposed to this and to the price increases that would result," Owens said.

"It would affect about one-half of the nation's crude oil production and, if enacted, will produce unacceptable price increases and take billions of dollars from Americans while giving them no more oil."

Bartlett, who originally sponsored a 10-barrels-a-day exemption in the Senate, said the conference committee proposal would affect about 40 per cent of domestic production.

Court Refuses Newsmen's Appeal

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Supreme Court today refused to interfere with contempt of court fines assessed against two newsmen for reporting on a public hearing.

Over the objection of Justice William O. Douglas the court refused to hear an appeal from two Baton Rouge, La., newsmen. They claimed a federal district court order against reporting on the 1971 hearing was an obvious violation of First Amendment freedoms. They reported despite the order and were each fined $300.

The issue placed before the high court was not whether the anti-reporting ban was illegal, but rather whether it was so obviously illegal that the two newsmen could safely disobey it.

The U.S. Circuit Court at New Orleans struck down the ban as unconstitutional, but said the newsmen, Larry Dickinson of the Baton Rouge State-Times and Gibbs Adams of the Baton Rouge Morning Advocate, should have appealed it before reporting on the hearing. U.S. District Court Judge E. Gordon West's finding that the two were in contempt was upheld.

If the decision is allowed to stand, argued lawyers for the reporters, "it would arm courts with the power to authorize patently impermissible prior restraints on the exercise of First Amendment rights through the use of the 'contempt' power and, thus, allow them to accomplish indirectly what the Constitution flatly prohibits them from doing directly."

The 1971 hearing dealt with allegations by black civil rights worker Frank Stewart that state charges against him were politically motivated and aimed at abridging his First Amendment rights.

More Objects Sighted Here

City Police said Mike Costillo called them at 9:55 p.m. Monday and told them he had seen a UFO on Fourteenth Street traveling northwest. He said it had red and white lights.

At 10:05 p.m. Monday, Herman McAnelly of Arah Route, told police he saw a UFO in the east. He said, at first, it had red and green lights. Later, it turned a yellowish color.

Police said Julian Suarez 416 Twenty-eighth Street, saw a UFO through his binoculars. Police Patroman Nick Martinez looked at the object through Suarez' binoculars and reported that it looked like a star changing color from green to red.

Bush Says Nixon Within Rights

MILBURN, N.J. (AP) — "When the dust settles, I think everyone is going to recognize that the President has the right to terminate anyone in the executive branch of government," Republican National Chairman George Bush said here Monday night.

Bush made his remarks before appearing at a $250-a-plate dinner for Rep. Charles W. Sandman, the Republican gubernatorial candidate.

Bush said special Watergate prosecutor Archibald Cox had forced President Nixon to fire him by refusing to accept the agreement between Nixon and the Senate Watergate Committee on the Watergate tapes.

He was surprised at Saturday's dismissal of Cox and former Deputy Atty. Gen. William Ruckelshaus and the resignation of former Atty. Gen. Elliot Richardson, Bush said, but considered "the deal eminently fair." Bush dismissed the increasing discussion of presidential impeachment as part of the emotional shock caused by the Cox firing and said he did not think Nixon would be impeached.

"The country does not want to be ripped apart," Bush said, acknowledging, however, that "there has been a emotional response to this series of events."

Sandman said he was "shocked" by the dismissals and resignation. He said the President had not asked for his advice but "if he had, he wouldn't have done what he did."

Bush said he, too, might have advised the President to act differently.

Briscoe To Help Rural Areas Live

AUSTIN (AP) — Gov. Dolph Briscoe said today he has no patience with those who say the rural areas of Texas will die.

"We intend to help them live," Briscoe told a specially-called rural development conference. "Our policy will be to make every possible resource available to help people in rural areas of our state achieve the maximum support for a more abundant life."

Another speaker at the conference was Rep. W. R. Poage, D-Tex., who blasted President Nixon's administration for poor management of the Rural Development Act.

Briscoe said that he was well aware that "agriculture alone cannot solve the problems of rural Texas. It can be a great factor in the solution, however. Today, I want to ask all of you to join me in launching a campaign to make Texas No. 1 in agriculture."

State Agriculture Commissioner John White proposed to the conference that Texas set up a program similar to the Veterans Land Program where the state would guarantee funds for young people to get into full-time agriculture. He also recommended a state financing program to develop rural recreation facilities.

"The basic family farm concept of agriculture must be expended if we are to ever see progress in rural redevelopment," White said. "Agriculture is the basic ingredient of rural development. The family farm concept of agriculture is the reason for our fantastic increases in agricultural production."

The governor also said he was asking the Texas Industrial Commission to do all possible to encourage rural communities toward economic growth in new industries and businesses.

He said he was asking his office and all other state agencies to give greater emphasis to rural development in future plans.

"I have no false notion of reversing the trend of Texans to migrate to big cities," Briscoe said. "I have a more practical objective; to offer Texans a wider range of choices of where they live and work. We can either let the future run over Texas or we can shape that future by the decisions we now make."

Poage said, "The administration has given every indication that it is still intends to ignore some of its most important provisions, notwithstanding the recent assertion by Congress that some of these unenforced provisions are still considered worthy."

Robertson Is On Evaluation Team

Gene Robertson, Dean of Occupational-Technical Education at Western Texas College, has been selected to serve as a member of a Southern Association of Colleges and Schools evaluation team next week.

As a member of the team, Robertson will visit the Bainbridge, Ga., Community College and Technical Institute and the George C. Wallace State Junior College and Technical Institute at Selma, Ala. He is also scheduled to visit the Lake City, Fla., Community College to observe the operation of their golf and grounds program. WTC has begun a similar program this fall.

WWI Vets Set Fall Meeting

Veterans of World War I and their Ladies Auxiliary of Texas District 17 will hold their fall meeting Oct. 30 in Stephenville.

The meeting will be held in the Cardinal Room of the Tarleton State University Dining Hall.

All members of the organizations are urged to attend the session so that they may meet their new officers and learn more about the organizations.

Timber Price Hikes Projected

WASHINGTON (AP) — The price of softwood timber, essential for home building, could rise 60 per cent by the turn of the century, the U.S. Forest Service said today.

Or, the agency said in a 367-page report on the U.S. timber outlook, if prices remain at 1970 levels, the increase in production by the year 2000 would be very little.

The report, scheduled for official announcement later this month, was made available to reporters today by the Agriculture Department.

"In terms of softwood sawtimber—of primary importance for lumber and plywood used in housing and many other markets—projected demand at 1970 prices rises from 47.6 billion board feet in 1970 to 73 billion board feet by 2000," the report said.

That projected increase in timber demand, 65 per cent in the 30-year period, would be lessened if prices were allowed to rise. In that case, demand might total only 55 billion board feet by the end of the century, a 16 per cent increase, the report said.

"With forest management continuing at 1970 levels, projected supplies of softwood sawtimber might balance ... demand with relative prices of softwood lumber and plywood in 1980 possibly 20 to 25 per cent above the 1970 level, and possibly 50 to 60 per cent higher in the year 2000," the report said.

Forest Service Chief John McGuire said the report indicates clearly that demands for lumber, plywood, woodpulp and other products are increasing faster than the supply.

"This can only mean rising prices of timber and timber products," McGuire said in a statement included in the report.

Although the report raises a possibility of using more substitutes for timber, such as steel, aluminum and plastics, McGuire said those also pose serious problems, including high energy requirements, pollution problems and an acceleration in the use of nonrenewable resources.

Counselor For AFROTC Due

Capt. Ervin JuVette, an admissions counselor for the Air Force Reserve Officers Training Corps (AFROTC), will be at the Western Texas College Student Center from 9 a.m. to 2 p.m. Wednesday and Thursday.

Male or female students at WTC pursuing a four-year degree in any subject may apply now for officer training during their last two years of college. If accepted, they will receive $2,000 of tax free financial assistance and may be awarded full tuition scholarships.

AFROTC cadets in the advanced two-year program attend 12 semester hours of Aerospace Studies courses while working toward baccalaureate degrees, Capt. JuVette said. Upon graduation, they are commissioned second lieutenants and receive a starting salary of over $9,000 a year.

Market Drops

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market dropped sharply today as the House prepared to begin consideration of an inquiry into possible impeachment proceedings against President Nixon and fighting continued in the Mideast despite the cease-fire.

The Dow Jones industrial average had skidded 9.41 to 961.16 at noon, and declines outnumbered advances by more than 4 to 1 in moderate trading on the New York Stock Exchange. The Big Board's composite index had lost .55 at 58.33.

On the American Stock Exchange, losers held a wide lead over gainers, and the market-value index had dropped .77 to 106.91.

Sony Corp., the Big Board's volume leader, slipped $1\frac{1}{4}$ to $37\frac{5}{8}$. Brokers attributed its recent losses to Wall Street's concern over the Japanese economy and its high rate of inflation. International oils were weaker, reflecting renewed uncertainty about the effects of the Mideast fighting on the flow of Arab oil. Automotives also were lower.

Only a few years ago, an enterprising mortician opened the first U.S. drive-in funeral parlor in Atlanta.

Lady Bird Judges Interior Design

By VIVIAN BROWN
AP Newsfeatures Writer

"Young people need to know about good budget decorating," observed Lady Bird Johnson as she discussed her first hours as chairman of the 1974 Burlington House Awards Committee. Budget decorating was prominently featured in the 24 categories that she and her panel of judges were meeting to consider in the sixth annual event to cite excellence in interior design.

Because of distractions, Mrs. Johnson had perused only seven categories — photographs and texts on big boards — although she had started before 9, she said.

"I really can't wait to get back," she commented at lunch. "I'm particularly excited about budget entries because so many young people need that kind of information. I know how hard it is for the four young people working for me to make a dollar stretch to furnish a home well. Not to mention how it affects my own children..."

In answer to her question, "How can this wonderful grab bag of ideas get to Mrs. John Doe on Main Street in a little town?", she was happy to learn that the information would be provided to adult extension groups and others along with colored slides.

Entries are submitted by newspapers, magazines, individuals. They included a variety of homes — 19th-century remodeled ... condominium ... vacation ... eclectic ... basement ... men's ... unusual (lofts, laundry, stable, houseboat and other conversions) ... do-it-yourself. Many ideas are unique, often accomplished with something as simple as artistry with paint. One red, white and blue kitchen was blue on one side, red on the other with the paints running up the door to a graphic pattern on the ceiling.

"Kitchens and utility rooms offer a great potential because women spend so much time in them," Mrs. Johnson commented, "and the do-it-yourself entries look exciting. It is so satisfying when you can stand back and look proudly at something you've done."

There were the usual number of things turned into other things.

"I've thought up some ideas for my guest house that I'm going to pass on to our maintenance man. I've found two old console televisions that will make a lovely table with their legs cut off and with felt put over the top. Do-it-yourself helps keep old things useful.

"I am embattled against waste. Everything should be reused. We should even go to people who package things and try to convey that we don't need all that fancy packaging — pretty bottles and the like..."

She is a home (two) person, she says. The "ranch house" has been given to the National Park Service, but she intends to use her life rights.

"It is more fair to call it a farm house. It is a big, old comfortable two-story house with an outside staircase built in the style of German builders who had settled in that area. Lyndon had known the house since he was 4. We spent many good times there even before he bought it from his aunt in 1952."

It is cheerfully decorated in pinks and yellows and has a beautiful garden of wildflowers, but it is crowded with memories and Luci and her family visit her there weekends. She still spends four or five days a week in the apartment with terrace above their television station in Austin. She enjoys that arrangement, "but Lyndon always said it meant spending a lot of time in the middle of a big road."

Among the 17 new members of her 24-member board of governors on the Burlington panel were some well-known names, Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt, Mrs. James Buckley, Mrs. Claiborne Pell, Mrs. Henry S. Lodge.

One youthful newcomer, Mrs. King-lit Ching of Honolulu, was also intrigued with the budget houses and "had gotten some good ideas from them," she remarked. "Always before, such things have looked stereotyped, but these inexpensive furnishings are beautiful..."

She and young Mrs. Robert (Suzy) Dehlendorf II, who has been a judge for several years, were particularly intrigued with the furnishings, wicker and the like, that might be bought in chain stores and painted. Suzy found the budget contemporary house "with its dime store chairs" in very good taste. In fact she has been an admirer of the English Country Tudor house — she had just moved from one in Atherton, Calif., to one in Winnetka, Ill. — but now she's been impressed with the contemporary one. "It could simplify everything. You could furnish in a nice fresh way with a lot of color for warmth..."

Always one to single out improvisation, Mrs. William McCormick Blair Jr., of Washington D.C. was intrigued with an apartment shared by two girls who had made handsome slipcovers out of cheetah-printed red and green racing stripe bedspreads. They used them with red-accents and tatami matting on the floor.

Kayle Skinner of Seattle, another experienced member of the panel, pointed to a new category — Grand Houses — and were they ever. As she said of the homes which included Mrs. Woolworth Donohue's, "When they get this grand it is hard to tell them apart — they all have elegance in common."

A "garden category" was added in honor of Mrs. Johnson and entries included designs on terraces, porches, decks, windows. An exciting touch and smell garden was entered by the Lighthouse for the Blind.

One can think about gardens in terms of lasting gifts, observed Mrs. Johnson.

"For example, giving a tree for a gift is a wonderful idea. An architect gave me a big red oak tree and I always can point it out to him because it is always there."

It's wise to use a good quality paint when painting one or more of the rooms in your house. But it's nevertheless true that paint is often unfairly accused of being responsible for a poor result.

The most common cause of a bad paint job is not the quality of the paint nor the lack of skill in handling a roller or a brush. It's the failure to prepare the surface properly.

What usually happens is that five minutes are spent on the preparation, several hours on the painting. Unless you have exceptionally clean walls and ceilings, almost as much time should be spent on getting the surfaces ready as in painting them. Just how much time can't be pinpointed because of the differences in the condition of the surfaces, but five or 10 minutes are not enough even when everything seems to be visibly clean.

Dusting or vacuuming is an absolute must to rid the walls and ceiling of a room of tiny particles of dirt not visible to the naked eye. If you are painting a kitchen, especially, it can be assumed that some grease has attached itself to the surfaces even if an exhaust fan has been used periodically. This must be washed off with warm water and a detergent and permitted to dry thoroughly before going ahead with the job.

Since paint will not cling to a glossy surface, it is vital that all glossy spots be sanded to remove the shine. When all or most of the surface is glossy — and sanding would be a real task — you should apply a coat of preparation liquid designed especially for this purpose.

Whether you have plaster or gypsum board walls, there may be cracks, holes or other openings that should be repaired before any paint is applied. Use patching plaster for these repairs and sand down the patch level with the surrounding surface after it has hardened. Apply a primer to the repaired areas. Some painters use a little of the paint — thinned a bit — that will be used for the final coat.

It is human nature to want to get started on a project once you have decided to do it. Maybe there's a subconscious feeling that if you don't get that can of paint opened, you won't get around to the actual painting. But if you want a good result, you'll curb your impatience and take sufficient time to prepare the surface properly.

(If you're a do-it-yourselfer, you'll want a copy of Andy Lang's handbook, "Practical Home Repairs," available by sending $1 to this newspaper at Box 5, Teaneck, N.J. 07666.)

Sketches Stimulate Study Of Authors

WEBSTER'S NEW WORLD COMPANION TO ENGLISH AND AMERICAN LITERATURE. Edited by Arthur Pollard and Associate Editor for American Literature Ralph Willett. $15. 850 Pages.

With so many writers nowadays prone to toss off references to their peers, ancient and modern, without adequate explanation, it is good to have something handy to refresh our knowledge.

The sketches edited by Arthur Pollard and Ralph Willett are actually by many hands. The initials at the end of each item can be checked against a list of contributors at the beginning of the book to establish identifications. Arranged alphabetically, the sketches range in time from Old English poetry to, say, John Cheever.

The brief studies are certainly not exhaustive. Nevertheless, the main dates and works of a given author are listed, and the writers generally do not shy from some critical appraisal, however brief. For instance, E. H. Robinson, writing on Sean O'Casey, says of the playwright's departure for England: "Unfortunately the move from Ireland impaired the sense of immediacy in his plays." And Dr. A. J. Stead, referring to Katherine Anne Porter's much-touted novel, "Ship Of Fools," says bluntly that "short-fiction technique drained her panoramic subject of narrative energy."

It is good to have a stimulating, frequently controversial reference work at our elbows on the protagonists of English and American letters for quick consultation.

Surveys Have Become A Part Of American Life

By JOHN CUNNIFF
AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — While businessmen and other citizens hardly know what to expect these days, there is one constant that can be depended upon: Somebody always will be conducting a survey.

They may be frivolous or serious, professional or amateurish, informative or inane. They take various names, such as study, report, forecast or poll. They may be entirely objective; they may be subtly suggestive.

Into the latter category you might be inclined to put a survey by the New York Stock Exchange, which found business economists quite bullish on stock prices in 1974.

In fact, said William Freund, 96 per cent of the economists who responded forecast rising prices and the remaining 5 per cent said they believed prices will remain level.

"Not a single vote was cast in expectation of a market decline next year," he said.

While businessmen and others were assimilating the optimistic outlook of the economists, a survey of another kind contains material for reflection.

The Nationwide Retail Census, conducted by the marketing research firm Audits & Surveys Inc., claimed that the number of retail outlets in the country dropped by more than 19,000 in the past year.

The loss, following a decline of 12,400 in 1972, reduced the number of stores to 1,657,000 and, significantly or not, brought the store-to-people ratio all the way to 125, meaning one store per 125 people.

Interpreting the findings, the company said "the trend to higher store-to-people ratios reflects the growing attraction of consumers to the convenience of one-stop shopping."

Food stores, a category that includes supermarkets, groceries, delicatessens and other outlets, suffered the greatest number of fatalities, with 8,200 units disappearing. Shoppers are entitled to know the ominous news that there are now only 280,700 food stores left.

Other findings tend to document what a lot of people had a hunch was happening.

—The number of discount department stores grew by 300 units to a total of about 5,300.

—The number of automotive service stations fell by 3,500 units to 215,900.

—Drive-in restaurants and carryouts continued to proliferate, rising by 1,600 units to 52,300 outlets, even though eating-drinking establishments suffered an over-all decline.

—About 500 bars and taverns disappeared, leaving 110,500.

One of the most popular types of survey, that of consumer buying intentions, also reflects some significant changes in business and attitudes.

Relatively few shoppers are optimistic about the immediate future, a condition that in the past caused people to postpone buying plans and save for the proverbial rainy day.

Now, however, they are torn between caution and fear — fear that if they don't buy today they'll have to pay more tomorrow.

Fingerprints Hold Interest

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Fingerprinting will be of more than just academic interest to prospective law students at the University of Pennsylvania today.

They will have to submit to fingerprinting before taking law school admission tests in a move by school officials to curb cheating.

The procedure is designed to reduce the number of persons who take the test in place of students, said a spokesman for the Educational Testing Service at Princeton, N.J., which conducts the tests.

Boyle Recalls Yesterdays

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP) — Memory is a marriage.

It weds man to his past, and there can be no divorce in that union. It is indissoluble.

Memory is the strongest link to life man has, and the most lasting. Only death, if anything, can dissolve it, and we are not even certain of that, for we know little about death.

Yet memory isn't a bondage or an uneasy servitude, but the most durable of our pleasures and the one that brings us the most solace across the years.

You have a pretty extensive chain of memory links yourself if you can look back and remember when —

You could buy a Hohner harmonia for a dime or, later, 25 cents, and become the musical genius of your neighborhood.

When you went to a doctor and told him you were feeling "poorly," like as not he'd say, "You ought to eat more —it'd do you good to fatten up." Fat people were thought then to have more resistance to disease than thin people.

Girls thought nothing of being engaged to a man six months or more to be certain he was the one they wanted to marry.

If a young society lady broke her engagement, she usually went on a tour of Europe to get over her disappointment. If she was poor, she just visited a relative for a while.

People expected as much benefit from a 50-cent bottle of Indian herbal tonic as they do from $25 worth of vitamin pills today.

Adolescence was that miserable period when you were too old to sit in the front rows at the movie any longer and too shy to ask a girl to sit with you in the back row, where the spooning couples sat.

If you wanted to purchase a spool of thread, you went to a business establishment called a dry goods store, where most of the salespeople were elderly ladies wearing long black skirts, high-buttoned shoes and starched white blouses. Dry goods stores seem to have gone the way of the dodo.

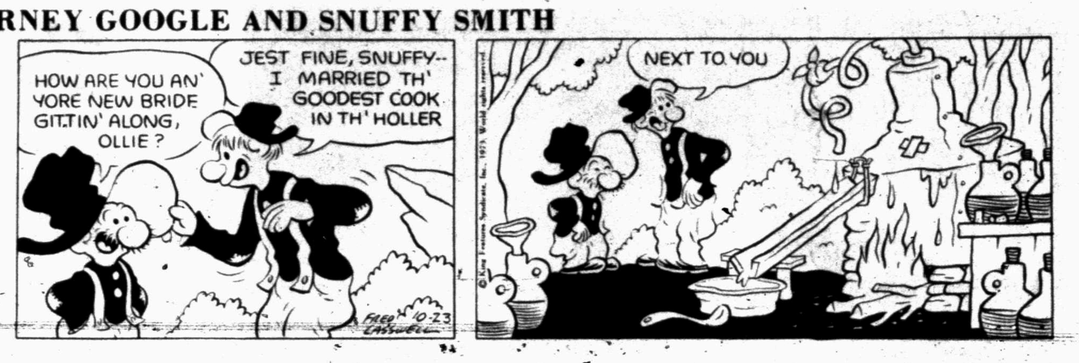

When grammar school kids played hooky, they rarely got into trouble because they were too young to hang out in the town pool hall and all they could do was to go swimming or fishing.

Most people didn't know too much about sex — but enough to keep their mouths shut about it in public.

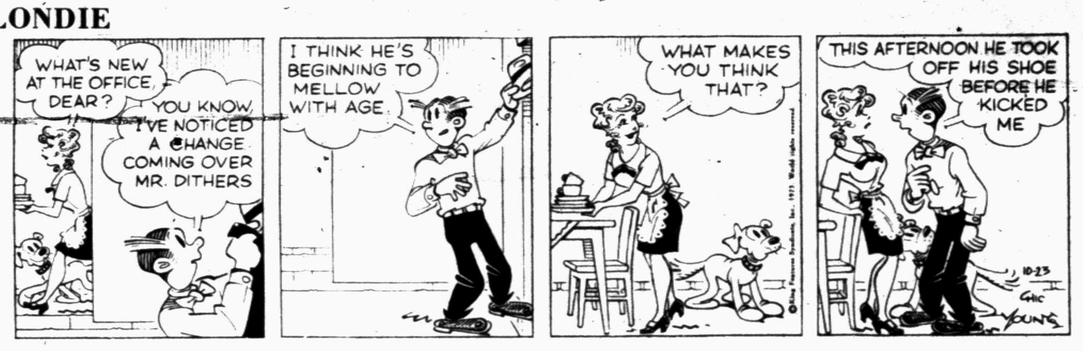

Those were the days — remember?

Many conflicts of wills develop between parents and children because a parent thoughtlessly gives a choice when he is only willing to accept one answer, notes Jane Fleischer, specialist in family life education, Texas Agricultural Extension Service, Texas A&M University.

Junior Editors' Quiz on THE ARACHNID

QUESTION: What is an arachnid?

* * *

ANSWER: Arachnid is the name of a group of small land animals, closely related to insects. The word arachnid is derived from the Greek word for spider. Arachnids differ from insects in structure. Unlike insects, they have no wings or feelers. The body is divided into two parts while the insect has three parts. Arachnids have four pairs of legs; insects have three pairs. Arachnids have simple eyes rather than the compound eyes identified with insects.

Arachnids include spiders, ticks, mites, scorpions, daddy-long-legs. Some are dangerous to man and can cause illness and death through their poisonous sting. The sting of the scorpion and tarantula is feared by people who live in the tropics. Some mites feed on plants and destroy them. Ticks are parasites on animals and plants and carry disease. Spiders and daddy-long-legs are considered beneficial to man because they feed on insects.

John McClamrock Making Comeback

DALLAS (AP) — On the ninth floor in the intensive care unit of Presbyterian Hospital 16-year-old John McClamrock is struggling with an enemy you can't blitz. His only offense is grit.

McClamrock, a middle linebacker for Hillcrest High School B team, suffered a broken neck last week making an open field tackle on a kickoff return against Spurce. It paralyzed him from the shoulders down.

At the time young McClamrock was making a comeback. It was his first football game of the year after he had quit the team in the hot, steamy days of August.

Hillcrest Coach Bobby Ewell recalls "He was having transportation problems and decided he needed a car. John came back two weeks ago and said 'Coach, I didn't know what I had been missing. Would you give me another chance?'"

Ewell, a former star at Dallas Woodrow Wilson High School, liked the boy's honesty and sent the junior to the B squad for seasoning.

"He passed his physicals and started the game last Wednesday after sitting out a week," Ewell says. "He dove under the runner and tried to block him down. He caught a knee on the side of the head."

The break occurred two inches below the diaphram. Two inches higher and doctors said McClamrock would have been killed.

"I don't mind telling you it has been a jolt—to his family, teammates and to this community," Ewell says. "Our students have been tremendous, setting up a constant vigil of prayer at the school. Parents are at the hospital at all hours comforting the McClamrocks (Mr. and Mrs. Mac McClamrock)."

Ewell, who has spent 18 years in athletics, says "I went home that night and asked myself if I still wanted to be a coach. I had never been associated with anything like this. You know, so many people are waiting to jump on athletics ... well, it makes you think."

He went to the McClamrocks and says "The family was great. They realize you can't protect young men in everything they do. While we were at the hospital, there was a bad motorcycle accident and the boy was in bad shape. You see everything at the schools these days—kids involved in narcotics ... that's a tragedy you really can't understand."

"We're not holding this against football," McClamrock told Ewell. "It could have happened in a car—anything."

Doctors say only the injury is very serious.

"He (McClamrock) knows he has a chance for partial paralysis, total paralysis or complete recovery," Ewell says. "I don't know if I would have the courage he has. He's knowlegeable of everything that has happened."

"You'd expect him to be depressed but I walked in last Friday morning and he wanted to know 'Did we win the game, coach?'" Ewell says. "We didn't. Our kids were thinking of other things."

Ewell says he isn't certain of the McClamrock's financial situation but adds "There's school insurance and the Texas High School Coaches Association insurance goes into effect on a longterm injury."

There are a few flowers on the ninth floor but none in the intensive care unit where they are not allowed. Friends bring food and coffee for the McClamrock family in their vigil. An occasional student is allowed to visit young McClamrock to cheer him up. An official for the Dallas Cowboys says there may be a visit soon by some players.

"This tragedy—and I hate to use the word because God willing maybe he will recover—has brought the community even closer together," Ewell says. "It's not in pity ... they just want to help.

"For years at Hillcrest we've been having a little bit of problem getting kids interested in school activities like the band, pep squads and the football team. A lot of kids were just interested in nothing. This year the whole student body made a change. They wanted to take a part and John was part of this movement."

Now it's a different kind of a comeback.

"There's no way he'll quit this time," Ewell says.

Broncos, Oakland Tie 23-23 In Grid Thriller

DENVER (AP) — The Denver Broncos, who've died by the field goal twice this season, learned to live with it Monday night as the Jim Turner-George Blanda kicking duel ended in a standoff.

Turner's third field goal of the second half, a 35-yarder with three seconds to play, enabled Denver to salvage a 23-23 tie with the favored Oakland Raiders in a nationally televised National Football League game.

Blanda, the 46-year-old marvel, also had three successful boots, and his final one, from 49 yards out with 36 seconds left, appeared to have won it for the Raiders.

Denver had lost to San Francisco 36-34 and to Kansas City 16-14 earlier this season by fourth-quarter field goals. It looked like more of the same until Charley Johnson moved the Broncos 34 yards on three plays to the Raider 28-yard line, setting up Turner's kick.

"You can't take anything away from George's kick," Turner said, "but as soon as he hit it we felt we could get it right back."

The deadlock dropped the Raiders into a first-place tie with Kansas City in the American Conference's Western Division. Both clubs have 3-2-1 records. Denver stayed in contention with a 2-3-1 mark.

"We still haven't quite turned the corner, but we're right at the corner," said Coach John Ralston, whose Denver team never has finished above .500 in its 14-year history. "Tonight's game had to be uplifting at this time. We developed poise and confidence by coming back, first down 20-17, then down 23-20."

After safety Bill Thompson raced 80 yards with an Oakland fumble in the first quarter, Denver had to bounce back from a 13-7 deficit, too, as Blanda kicked two field goals and Mike Siani hauled in an 80-yard scoring pass from Ken Stabler in the second quarter.

Stabler and wide receiver Fred Biletnikoff picked the Bronco zone defense to pieces. Stabler hit on 16 of 24 passes for 313 yards and two touchdowns, and Biletnikoff caught eight of them for 116 yards.

"Biletnikoff is fantastic," Ralston said. "We tried all week to practice defending him, but he came up with moves tonight that we hadn't seen before. He's a great one."

Despite a lopsided Raider edge in the final statistics, in which Oakland held a 417-216 advantage in total yards, neither team appeared to take control of the contest.

Booster Club Meets Tonight

The Tiger Booster Club will meet at 8 o'clock tonight in the West Elementary Cafeteria to see films of last week's game with Lubbock High and hear a scouting report on Lubbock Coronado, this week's opponent.

Faculty members of Western Texas College will be guests next week and not this week as previously reported.

CLEVELAND (AP) — Ted Bonda, executive vice president of the Cleveland Indians, is expected to give team owners the bad news on the American League baseball club's financial operations tonight.

Angels End Long Search

ANAHEIM (AP) — Harry Dalton's two-year search for a catcher has ended with the California Angels sending pitcher Clyde Wright to Milwaukee for Ellie Rodriguez, key figures in a 10-player swap between the American League teams.

"We had to have a catcher and Rodriguez is a good one," the California general manager said Monday when he announced the trade.

"We have given up some age for younger players," said Dalton, who sent relief pitcher Steve Barber, 34, outfielder Ken Berry, 32, and catcher Art Kusnyer, 27, packing along with Wright, 30, and a player to be named later.

Wright had an 11-19 record last season and a 3.68 earned run average. He won 56 games over the three previous seasons.

Besides Rodriguez, 27, who batted .269 this year after leading the Brewers at .285 in 1972, the Angels receive outfielders Ollie Brown, 29, and Joe Lahoud, 26, and pitchers Skip Lockwood, 27, and Gary Ryerson, 25.

In addition to his abilities with the bat, Rodriguez is considered a strong defensive catcher. Dalton has said Jeff Torborg, last year's regular, has slipped in that department.

Dalton said the trade "should help our building process. Lockwood can fill either a starting or relief roll and Brown and Lahoud will be given a chance in the outfield."

Wesson Mature For A Freshman

By DENNE H. FREEMAN
associated Press Sports Writer

DALLAS (AP) — Offensive tackle Kelly Arnold looked up from his dressing room stall at the start of fall football practice and saw this pencil-thin, water boy-sized lad standing in front of him.

"What can we do for you, son?" Arnold, a senior two-year letterman asked in fatherly tones.

The person to whom he spoke was 5-foot-10, 160-pound Ricky Wesson, a mere freshman who now holds the key to Southern Methodist's football fortunes.

Wesson, who can zip the 100-yard dash in 9.6 seconds, was yanked off the bench last Saturday night when senior quarterback Keith Bobo suffered a shoulder separation against Rice. Wesson promptly led the Mustangs to a 27-16 victory over the Owls.

SMU meets Texas Tech in Lubbock Saturday in a crucial Southwest Conference game and if Arnold should ask the same question Wesson would more than likely answer something to the equivalent of "block like heck."

Wesson is a quiet, mature, and poised young man who can be moved to soap box oratory if the occasion demands it ... like Saturday night, for example.

Wesson had lost a crucial fumble to the Owls just before halftime and begged Coach Dave Smith to let him address the team in the locker room.

"He just wanted the squad to know how disappointed he was," Smith said. "The kid has a lot of character. He's mature for a freshman."

Wesson said "I just wanted the team to know I hadn't lost confidence in myself and I didn't want them to lose confidence in me because we had another big 30 minutes to play."

Wesson played with Mustang halfback Wayne Morris at Dallas South Oak Cliff High School. He rushed for 118 yards on just 12 carries in one game.

"Wesson has the ability to break a game open with his run but he is very unproven when it comes to the pass," Smith said. "On occasion, Wesson is lights out throwing the ball. He's a little jerky, not smooth, but you've got to realize he only played quarterback for two or three games at South Oak Cliff."

Smith added, "He's quiet by words but fiery by action guy."

And another thing, Arnold has quit calling him "Son."

Penn State's all-time basketball career scoring leader is Jesse Arnelle. Now a university trustee, Arnelle scored 2,138 points from 1952-55.

Owls Face Wishbone Again

HOUSTON (AP) — The Rice Owls may feel like they're playing Southern Methodist all over again this week when they tangle with defending champion Texas.

"We'll probably see more of the same against Texas that we saw against SMU," said Conover, whose Owls lost 27-16 to the Ponies last week. "They'll have two tight ends, the wishbone and here they come."

"We're going to have to do better defensively," Conover said of the 1-4 Owls. "We didn't execute as well as we should have last week. There was too much free lancing."

Conover said he thought the Owls had a chance against the Longhorns, now 3-2, whom Conover calls the Southwest Conference favorite.

"We're approaching the game with the idea we have a chance to be famous again," Conover said. "Texas has been beaten. I don't think they're that much out of our class."

Conover wasn't minimizing the Longhorns, humbled two weeks ago, 52-13 by Oklahoma.

"You could see what kind of character they have after losing to Oklahoma, to come back and beat Arkansas like they did," Conover said.

Texas beat Arkansas 34-6 last week for its second straight SWC victory. Rice is 0-1.

"They're still the team to beat in this conference no matter what happened in the Oklahoma game," Conover said.

Evidence Surfaces Tying Nixon To Milk Pledges

WASHINGTON (AP) — New evidence has surfaced tying President Nixon to an alleged deal involving a pledge of $2 million in campaign money in exchange for administration favors for the dairy industry.

Investigative sources said Monday they have obtained a letter addressed to Nixon on Dec. 16, 1970, reminding him of the industry's past support and telling him of the milk producer's need for immediate aid.

The letter was written, the sources said, by Pat Hillings of the Associated Milk Producers Inc., the major industry group.

The Associated Press has confirmed the letter's contents from four separate sources.

"The thrust of the letter was a request that the President approve new milk tariffs that the industry was interested in," one source said. "It pointed out that the industry had $2 million available for 1972 campaign contributions," but continued aid for the nation's dairy farmers was necessary if they were to continue their support.

Hillings noted that $135,000 already had gone to 1970 congressional candidates who were friends of dairymen, the sources said.

A month later, when the new Nixon budget was announced, proposed dairy subsidies rose nearly 10 per cent, compared to a slight increase for feed-grain subsidies and a major decrease in food-aid shipments, another method of government farm support.

The Hillings letter noted that it was bringing up a "sensitive political matter," the sources said, and evidence indicates it went directly to then-presidential chief of staff H. R. Haldeman. One source said it isn't certain whether Nixon read the letter or was merely told of its contents.

The following March, however, three events took place:

—On March 22, 1971, the first $10,000 contribution from milk producers was secretly delivered to a group of dummy campaign committees that later turned their holdings over to the Nixon re-election campaign.

—The following day, President Nixon and then-Agriculture Secretary Clifford Hardin met at the White House with 16 spokesmen for the dairy industry.

—On March 25, Hardin reversed a decision not to grant an increase in federal price supports for milk and announced approval of a 27-cents-per-hundredweight hike in price supports, claiming he had received new economic data.

The decision was worth between $500 million and $700 million to the nation's milk producers, according to an industry estimate.

The secret campaign contributions later revealed by The Washington Post and federal investigators, poured into the dummy committees and Nixon campaign coffers for many months, eventually reaching more than $400,000.

The Consumer Alert

by John L. Hill
Attorney General

AUSTIN—Our meeting this week with 80 consumer protection lawyers who work for the attorneys general of 38 states made all of us acutely aware of the vital need for even closer communication between our offices.

So many of the so-called "businesses" which engage in the consumer frauds which prompt complaints are of an itenerant nature.

I say "so-called," because the legitimate businessman who has a valid product or service to sell is not even interested in deceptive practices. He or she doesn't have the time, or inclination, for a marginal enterprise.

Consumer problems are more likely to arrive from phantom operations—from a "home improvement" contract which does not, in fact, improve; from pyramid sales plans which are more likely to disappoint than profit those who invest in them; from certain "repair services" that actually are high-pressure sales promotions.

The work sessions involving the 80 assistant attorneys general, representatives of the Federal Trade Commission, and myself, as the Attorney General who chairs the National Association of Attorneys General's Consumer Protection, produced strong evidence of what we have always believed: That when the real "con man's" activities are hampered in one state, he'll move on to another.

One way to provide more uniform protection for the consumers would be for the attorneys general to alert each other when they have cracked down on fraudulent practices—so the other states will be on the lookout.

There has been a lot of talk in recent years of a "uniform" consumer protection act. It is true that even a "model" act may be revised by each Legislature, to meet the current needs of its particular state.

The N.A.A.G. Committee took the approach that a "Uniform Consumer Sales Practices Act" would, at least, provide guidelines which would be valuable to businessmen, as well as consumers, in much the same way as the 1973 Texas Deceptive Practices-Consumer Protection Act.

Since the American public is getting so mobile itself (it's been estimated that the average young family moves once every five years), the consumer protection lawyers for the states also talked about ways in which to utilize reciprocity laws—to help the consumer get restitution for damages incurred before he moved to another state.

The Texas Attorney General's Consumer Protection Division is firmly in agreement with our counterparts in most of the other states that one necessary ingredient to firm but fair enforcement is to keep the consumer informed.

And we agree, also, that one way to strengthen consumer protection is to keep the enforcement officials of other states informed.

Charge Young Boys In Murder

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — Three boys, two 13 and one 12, have been charged with first-degree murder in the death of a derelict who was doused with lighter fluid and set afire.

Officers said the boys, whose names were withheld, admitted setting fire to Charles Scales, 38, as he slept off a wine drunk behind an abandoned building Saturday night.

The boys also were charged Monday with two counts of assault with intent to commit murder for setting fire to two other men, officers said. Police said they knew of a fourth man assaulted by the trio.

Police gave this account of the incident.

The boys, all of whom have long records of vandalism, larceny, burglary, robbery and narcotics possession, bought or stole several cans of lighter fluid from a neighborhood store.

Their first victim was a cat. They soaked the animal with lighter fluid and then watched it burn to death. A short time later they set fire to an unidentified drunk who managed to beat out the flames and shuffle away.

The boys then wandered down the street to a restaurant, where they tossed lighter fluid on J.B. Blackburn, 50, as he left a back door. Blackburn said the youngsters threw a lighted match at him and fled down an alley as he pulled off his shirt and beat out the flames.

The youths next entered an alley where Emmett Spratling, 53, was lying on a discarded table top and Scales was sleeping on a bench.

Officers said Spratling told them he and Scales had been drinking wine and had settled down to sleep when they were attacked.

The boys set both men afire and ran away. Spratling managed to beat out the flames that flared round his head, but by the time Scales woke and rushed out of the alley, his clothing and large sections of flesh had been burned.

Spratling suffered only minor injuries. Scales died in a hospital 10 hours later.

Officers said one boy was on a weekend pass from the Kendall Youth Home where he was serving a sentence for burglary and possession of barbituates.

UFOs Stirring Texan Curiosity

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Bright lights cavorted across the skies, a radio station was knocked off the air and one of the whatzits appeared to crash in a mountainous area as a new rash of unidentified flying objects stirred Texans' curiosity.

One of the latest such reports came from San Antonio today. Police said radar operator Jim Stephens in the traffic control tower at the city's airport spotted a bright object in the vicinity about 2:20 a.m. and watched it for 10 or 12 minutes.

After inspecting the object through binoculars, Stephens told of seeing what appeared to be wings on both sides and a red light on top which finally seemed to flicker out. A commercial airline pilot, then approaching to land, was asked to inspect the phenomenon and said he could add nothing to Stephens' account.

During a flurry of such reports Monday night at Brownwood in West Central Texas, police said their radio transmitter unaccountably failed and was off the air several hours. Radio Station KEAN employes said their transmitter fluctuated wildly while three mysterious objects glowed in the sky southwest of town.

Residents in the vicinity of Hideaway Lake near Tornillo, south of El Paso in far West Texas, said they saw a UFO apparently crash across the international border in the mountains of Mexico. What appeared to be another such object then moved down to low altitude and hovered near the spot the first cracked up, they related.

In the Dallas area, green lights flashing overhead caused a rash of telephone calls to the police dispatcher in suburban Mesquite. One woman told of seeing a UFO hover above her car as she drove through East Dallas. Callers informed the police dispatcher at Balch Springs, in the same vicinity, a larger UFO bore green and red lights, and a smaller one circled the big one as they moved toward the east.

Residents of San Angelo told of witnessing what looked like a falling star with a red light drop toward earth from a great height. After levelling off, it hovered close by for about 30 minutes before racing away toward the west, they said.

Brandt, Party Hold Meeting

BERLIN (AP) — Chancellor Willy Brandt led his party's parliamentary delegation into the restored Reichstag building, marking the first time in more than three years that a meeting was held by the Social Democrats in West Berlin.

The political demenstration Monday was to emphasize that such gatherings are normal and within the context of the four-power agreement in Berlin in 1971.

The East European bloc, led by the Russians, continues to dispute West Berlin's ties to West Germany.

44% For Impeaching Nixon

NEW YORK (AP) — A nationwide Oliver Quayle poll of 947 adults questioned after the firing of special Watergate prosecutor Archibald Cox shows 44 per cent favored impeaching President Nixon.

Forty-three per cent opposed impeachment and 13 per cent were undecided, according to the poll.

The telephone survey was conducted for NBC News, which said Monday that it contained a built-in sampling error of 2 to 3 per cent. "We can't see a statistical distinction" between those for and against impeachment, said Bud Lewis, director of elections for NBC.

The network said the percentage of persons favoring impeachment had nearly doubled since Aug. 12, when an earlier poll showed 23 per cent favoring impeachment, 68 per cent against and 9 per cent undecided.

The latest poll also showed that 75 per cent of those questioned opposed the dismissal of Cox while 16 per cent favored it and 9 per cent were undecided.

Only 22 per cent of those polled gave Nixon a favorable rating on his job performance, with 75 per cent rating it unfavorable and 3 per cent undecided.

A Gallup poll taken before last weekend's developments said 30 per cent of Americans rated Nixon's performance favorably.

Asked in The Quayle poll whether Watergate should be "put behind us," 54 per cent said no, 42 per cent said yes and 4 per cent were undecided.

Early American Craftmanship Featured At Hidetown Pottery

Hirst Pottery, 202 Birch Street, has changed its name to Hidetown Pottery to symbolize the integrity and excellence of early American craftsmanship and the traditions of the Old West.

For your shopping convenience, pots by Hidetown Pottery are now sold locally at Williams Jewelry, 2517 College Avenue.

In keeping with the coming Bicentennial year, with the interest being revived in old functional pottery, the Hidetown pottery is making many replicas of crocks, churns, jugs and storage jars that early settlers used. There is growing interest in their use as flower arrangement containers as well as planters. Stoneware is more durable than earthenware, and will hold water, even without glazing.

Hidetown Pottery is owned and operated by Del Hirst and his wife, Jo Anne. All of their products are handmade from a potters wheel, and they do their own glazing from their own special formulas.

"Our pottery is shaped on a potters wheel (handthrown)," said Del, "And each piece has its own individual shape, so it is uniquely your own piece."

All Hirst glazes are formulated and mixed in their own studio, and no lead is ever used. Many of their glazes are exclusive and unique, being found nowhere else.

"Your choice of color, selected from our display pottery, can be specified on your order of pottery," Hirst pointed out.

All Hirst pottery is "Stoneware," fired in their kilns to over 2,200 degrees (high-fire).

The clay-body is non-porous, and the glaze is melted into the body for lasting beauty. Hirst pottery is oven-proof and dishwasher safe. You will always find it a joy to use Hidetown pottery in your kitchens and homes.

"Each and every piece of our pottery receives personal and individual attention," Hirst said, adding, "To insure that our pottery is of the highest quality and one of the strongest and most durable on the market, we require a long drying time for each piece.

Included among the many pottery items made by the Hirsts are candle holders, platters, vases, bowls, pitchers, planters, hanging planters, wind bells, mugs, glasses, jam jars, ginger jars, crocks, patio lanterns, and all kinds of things for the patio and garden.

SOLID STATE—H.D. Strickland and his wife, Pauline, own and operate Strickland's Television Service, 2413 College Avenue. They specialize in Motorola solid state Quasar models, which Motorola has been producing since 1967. For prompt service, just dial 573-6942.

Service Gets Top Priority At Strickland Television Business

"We have built our reputation on the motto, 'We service what we sell,' " said H. D. Strickland, owner and operator of Strickland's Television Service, 2413 College Avenue.

Strickland has been working on television sets for the past five years. This is his second year to sell them. His wife, Pauline, helps him operate the business. A daughter, Vickie, also helps in the store.

Strickland's Telvision Service specializes in solid state Quasar Motorola television sets. Motorola has been making solid state sets since 1967.

All Motorola sets have instamatic control, which means you just push one button to tune in the hue, color intensity, picture contrast, brightness and automatic fine tuner. Instamatic control keeps the color constant automatically when changing channels or when the signal varies. This is the third year that Motorola has had Instamatic control. They were the originators of Instamatic.

"We've only got four 1973 models left on the floor," said Strickland, "and can give you a good price on them."

Strickland's has several different models available, both in color and in black and white. If you should want a model they don't have in stock, they can order it for you and get 24 hour delivery most of the time.

"These are plug-in modules," said Strickland. "This means that we can service most of them in the home by replacing the modules. Just pull the drawer out and replace the module."

Strickland said Motorola solid state models have transistors in them rather than tubes. These type of television sets last longer because they run cooler.

"They also have a regulated voltage power supply," Strickland pointed out. "This means you can run the set on as little as 90 volts and still get a big picture," he added.

Strickland's Television Service will give you a one year guarantee on all parts and labor and two years guarantee on picture tubes on the console models. There is a 90-day guarantee on parts and labor and a two-year guarantee on picture tubes of portable models.

Office hours are from 9 a.m. to 5:30 p.m. six days a week.

Readers give advice to "Smells Bad'

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: Someone signed "SMELLS BAD IN ROANOKE" wrote to say she was extremely clean about herself and her clothing, but she smelled a terrible odor about herself, which nobody said they smelled, and it was driving her out of her mind.

I had the same problem for four years. Finally my doctor discovered I had diabetes. He put me on a low carbohydrate diet, and the smell left me. CURED NOW

DEAR ABBY: This is my 50th year as a physician and I have seen a number of cases like the one described by "SMELLS BAD."

That person should consult an ear, nose, and throat specialist for possible "Ozena" [stink nose], which causes a breath so foul that everything smells bad to her. The condition is the result of a chronic infection in nose and sinuses causing upper respiratory membranes to degenerate.

ARIZONA M.D.

DEAR ABBY: I also smelled bad and didn't know why. My doctor looked into my navel with a flashlight and that's where the smell was coming from. He cleaned it out and advised me to keep it clean with a bit of cotton on a toothpick, and my problem was solved. ON THE BUTTON

DEAR ABBY: Dr. Marion B. Sultzberger, a famous dermatologist, once told me that he had a patient who came to him with the same problem as "SMELLS BAD." The doctor had the man strip. He still smelled bad. Then the doctor told the man to remove his gold wedding band. That was the culprit! In some people, their body chemistry and certain metals create a very unpleasant odor.

J. T., CORONA DEL MAR, CAL.

DEAR ABBY: Tell that lady who smells bad my brother had the same problem. He went to doctors and nobody could help him. Finally an old man told him to drink four ounces of dry white wine four times a day before meals, and again at bedtime. He did and in a week the odor was gone, and he was like a new man. COFFEYVILLE, KAS.

DEAR ABBY: "SMELLS BAD" should make an appointment with her dentist immediately. I had that problem, and didn't know it was caused by an infected wisdom tooth. When my dentist discovered it he was amazed that I did not have a toothache that raised the top of my head. I never had a twinge of pain, but that terrible odor nearly drove me nuts! OKAY NOW

DEAR ABBY: If "SMELLS BAD" wears glasses she should check the nose piece of her glasses. I smelled something vile for months and couldn't detect its source. Finally I discovered it was the perspiration collected in the nose piece of my glasses that was causing it. I bought new glasses, and clean them with alcohol regularly, and haven't had any trouble since. SMELLS GOOD IN BALTIMORE

DEAR ABBY: It's the woman's gall bladder. A friend of mine kept sniffing everywhere for "dead mice" for six months. Finally, a doctor examined her and found that she had gall bladder trouble. She was smelling her own infected gall bladder! R. L. D. IN VERMONT

DEAR ABBY: The woman who smells bad should be asked if she has had her ears pierced lately. When I had mine pierced, I smelled bad for months before I found out I had an infection in both ears from the piercing.

HAD IT IN ALABAMA

DEAR ABBY: Tell "SMELLS BAD" to check her ears. I have itchy ears, and I used to feel like there was something crawling into my ears, so I would scratch them with whatever was handy. Once I scratched my ear with a crochet needle. It caused an infection deep inside my ear which gave off a frightful odor, but I didn't discover it until I went to a doctor. MRS. G. Methodist Women Urge Impeachment

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — A United Methodist Church women's group is urging Congress to get on with the impeachment of President Nixon.

The call for impeachment proceedings was approved Monday at a meeting of the denomination's Women's Division of the Board of Global Ministries.

The proposal won by a 2-1 margin when the issue was put before the 65 delegates, a policy-making group for about 1½ million church women.

An impeachment amendment to the division's "Watergate Statement" was submitted by Mrs. Dean R. Isaacs of Medina, Tex. After an hour-long debate, it carried.

"Like many others, we were previously reluctant to call for the process to begin," the statement said. "Now we must. The greatest need in a democracy is that the nation be governed by law and by the people, not by the excessive power of one man."

The three plant nutrients usually needed by lawn grasses are nitrogen, phosphorus and potassium.

Not Time To Eradicate Boll Weevil

WASHINGTON (AP) — Although it is "technically possible" to eliminate the cotton boll weevil with newly tested eradication procedures, the time is not yet right to do so, the Agriculture Department said today.

"There must first be a study of the desirability of using the technology for such a campaign, and a detailed plan must be developed and review by appropriate federal and state agencies and cotton industry representatives," the department said.

But if such a campaign was undertaken and proved successful, officials said elimination of the boll weevil could mean:

—An estimated one-third reduction in the total insecticide load put into the environment by U.S. farmers.

—Savings of around $200 million a year in cotton lost to boll weevils and another $75 million saved in control measures.

The possibility of eliminating boll weevils grew from a pilot project launched in 1971 that used a number of control weapons. Those included the use of pesticides during critical times in the boll weevil's reproduction cycle, attacking two generations of the posts at once.

Another practice was the use of chemicals called "pheromones" as sex attractants for trapping adult weevils during mating cycles. Sterilized male boll weevils also were used to help cut down the insect population.

The experiment was carried out over two years over 20,000 acres of cotton land in southern Mississippi and adjacent areas of Louisiana and Alabama.

After that period, scientists found no evidence of boll weevil reproduction in 235 of the 236 cotton fields in the core of the experimental area.

Hearing Set On Lo-Vaca

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — The Texas Railroad Commission scheduled a hearing today to get more evidence on whether it has the authority to decide a natural gas dispute between north and south Texans.

It also heard testimony last Friday on the disputed gas, supplied by the Lo-Vaca Gathering Co.

But the three-member commission voted unanimously Monday to listen to more testimony on "jurisdictional issues" before possibly proceeding with a hearing on who owns the gas.

Austin, San Antonio, the University of Texas and the Lower Colorado River Authority contend that Lo-Vaca cut down on gas shipments this year because it had diverted some of its reserves to supply other customers.

Specifically mentioned was a contract with Texas Utilities Fuel Co. to divert 330 million cubic feet of gas per day from the Lo-Vaca system.

Texas Utilities, Dallas, Fort Worth and three other Dallas utility companies claim the gas belongs to them through a 1969 contract with Lo-Vaca.

New Technology Has Changed Desert Warfare

By MIKE SHANAHAN
AP Military Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — The new techology of the fourth Mideast war has made it certain desert warfare will never be the same again.

The classic picture of large numbers of tanks clashing freely across the sands and supported by low-flying fighter planes and infantrymen appears to be obsolete.

Those free-wheeling tactics, witnessed in the 1967 six-day Mideast war, have been replaced by the relative caution evidenced by both sides before the cease-fire was declared Monday.

The need for more caution is one reason why the war lasted 17 days instead of six.

Take airplanes, for example. Nearly all of the approximately 100 U.S.-supplied F4 Phantoms, A4 Sky Hawks and other fighters lost by the Israelis were downed by Soviet-made ground-to-air missiles.

American planes were challenged by Soviet missiles in North Vietnam, but never at the low altitudes where Israeli jets attempted to support the Israeli counterattack against the initial Egyptian tank thrust across the Suez Canal.

The United States is known to have equipment which when installed in fighter planes can neutralize the radar-controlled Soviet missiles. It is not known how much of that equipment was supplied or in use by the Israelis before or after the new fighting began.

Another surprise to the Israeli tank forces were the appearance of Syrian and Egyptian infantrymen carrying Soviet antitank weapons on their backs.

By all accounts reaching the Pentagon, the RPG7s, as they are called, were fired with deadly accuracy by determined Arab troops. They often moved in advance of their own tanks to aim their weapons at Israeli armor.

In both cases, Israeli tanks were frequently slowed by the fear that they would encounter the Soviet-made antitank weapons even after Arab tanks had been destroyed in large numbers, Pentagon analysts say.

The effect, once again, was to make the Israeli attacking force more cautious and fearful than six years ago.

The late introduction of similar U.S.-made antitank weapons to the Israeli force is difficult to assess because the Israelis did not have them in numbers before the shooting began. But their presence is sure to cause equal caution by Arab armor commanders in any future Mideast combat.

UFO Knocks Radio Off Air

BROWNWOOD, Tex. (AP) — Brownwood police confirmed their radio went off the air Monday evening as several area residents called to report unidentified flying objects.

Employes at radio station KEAN said instruments at the station began fluctuating wildly and lights on their broadcasting tower began blinking rapidly as they watched three glowing objects southwest of the city.

Police dispatchers said callers told them the objects changed color from red to green and blue.

However, officers said they were unable to confirm the sightings which were similar to reports early Sunday morning.

Friendly Hug Leads To Court

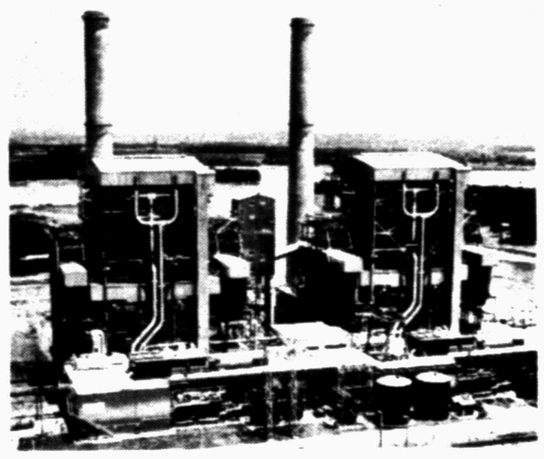

MEDIA, Pa. (AP) — What started as a friendly hug ended in court.

Anne Rieling, a young Bryn Mawr housewife, says she recently went to a dinner party in Newtown Square where Carl Zipf hugged her.

Mrs. Rieling says she ended up with three broken ribs and an aggravated arm and back condition. She is suing Zipf for $10,000 alleging "the improper use of force."

How long do you think it takes to plan and build a power plant like this?

☐ 2 years ☐ 4 years ☐ 8 years

Give yourself an A if you said eight years.

The planning and construction of a lignite-fueled power plant like the one pictured here takes just about that long.

That's at least eight years to locate and purchase the right site, order equipment, plan and build the plant, obtain approvals from all regulatory agencies, and then test the plant's operation carefully.

The point is, we can't wait until the day you and your neighbors need more electricity. If we did, you simply wouldn't have it.

That's why we're always looking ahead. We have to. For instance, we've known for some time that the primary fuels we use to generate electricity — natural gas and oil — would be in short supply and thus more expensive.

Anticipating this, we and two other electric utility companies now have in operation a power plant near Fairfield which uses lignite coal for fuel. And two other lignite plants are currently under construction.

We know that by the early 1980's, we will need still another dependable fuel source — nuclear energy. Plans are under way to have a nuclear-fueled power plant near Glen Rose operational by 1980.

Diversifying to these new fuel sources will help decrease our dependence on natural gas and oil.

Unfortunately, plants designed to use lignite cost about two times as much as gas-fired plants. Nuclear plants cost more than three times as much. But we must make commitments now to be ready for the future.

We're working to supply the electricity you need, but it's costing more to make it all the time.
