New Middle-East Power Agreement Is Expected

By WALTER LOGAN
United Press Staff Correspondent
JORDAN (UPI)—The four-power solidarity of Jordan, Egypt, Syria and Saudi Arabia could continue in the same form as before appeared doubtful. A Jerusalem dispatch said that only Saudi Arabia's intervention saved Jordan from being carved up by its neighbors.

The Jerusalem dispatch said informed observers there believed King Saud had warned the Syrian and Egyptian delegates which visited him in Mecca this weekend that the United States intended to intervene militarily if they tried to tear Jordan apart.

Syria Fears Alliance
Syria was reported apprehensive that Jordan reach an agreement with the West—a move that could encourage the pro-Western elements now suppressed in Syria. Cairo dispatches said Egypt and Syria were anxious to keep Jordan within their neutralist fold despite Hussein's move toward the West.

Israel Posing Threat
Throughout the Jordan crisis the threat of military action by Israel hung over the Arab nations. An Israeli foreign office spokesman said Sunday Israel would still take action if the Arab states try to change Jordan's boundaries.

Israel Ambassador Abba Eban said on a television broadcast at the same time Jordan need have no fear of an attack from Israel, that Israel favors the "preservation of Jordan's integrity and stability."

'Rackets' Group Has More Info On Beck

By HERBERT FOSTER
United Press Staff Correspondent
WASHINGTON (UPI)—The Senate Rackets Committee has a "good deal more" information on Teamster Union chief Dave Beck, committee counsel Robert Kennedy said Sunday night.

Kennedy also expressed confidence the committee could prove that Beck stole $320,000 in Teamster funds.

Kennedy, appearing on the NBC TV program "Meet The Press," was asked if the committee could "prove in a court of law" its accusation that Beck "took" $320,000 in Teamster funds for his own use.

"I think that without question we could prove that Mr. Beck stole the $320,000," replied Kennedy.

Lot More Information
He said the committee has a lot more information on Beck than disclosed in previous hearings and said the Teamster chief will be given "an opportunity to come in and refute" the data "if he wants to."

Kennedy said the new matter involves companies in which Beck "had a financial interest that had dealings with the Teamsters Union." He said the "information we will develop" will be of interest to the AFL-CIO ethical practices committee, which is already considering Beck's case, as well as to the labor movement as a whole and the public.

Lawmakers To Apparently Work Overtime

By O. R. LLOYD JR.
AUSTIN (UPI)—Texas legislators have only one more week remaining in their regular schedule and it appeared today they soon would be working overtime for nothing.

After May 7, the regular Legislature deadline, lawmakers' pay drops from $25 per day to nothing. Prospects for winding up May 7 are at zero, although leaders are hopeful the session can be finished within a week after May 7.

House Speaker Waggoner Carr has said he feels sure "no new taxes will be necessary at this session of the legislature."

He said a proposed pay raise for teachers would be possible without raising additional money through taxes.

One way to get around the taxes is a measure doubling tuition fees at Texas state supported colleges and universities, which would raise about nine million dollars, and another transferring one percent of the permanent school fund for the next three fiscal years to the available school fund for current spending. It was estimated to raise about 11 million dollars.

Both bills are awaiting action in the Senate.

The joint House-Senate committee trying to iron out differences in the two chambers' versions of a two billion dollar spending bill for the next two fiscal years is pushing toward a goal of reporting the bill out by Wednesday.

'Goodwill' Group To Visit Here

Plans are being completed by the public relations committee of the Pampa Chamber of Commerce for the reception of a delegation from Raton, N.M., which is expected in this city Thursday morning.

The group will be visiting Pampa as a part of its "goodwill" tour in advertising the opening of the racing season in Raton. They will bring with them a band and several entertainment features which include a team of Spanish dancers.

Tentative plans call for the group to have lunch with the noon Lions Club, since they are expected to arrive shortly before 12 o'clock.

Plans for the arrival of the delegation will be completed in the next few days in view of the verification received from George McBride, manager of the Raton Chamber of Commerce, to the effect that they would arrive on Thursday.

One Fire Call Reported Here

A truck that caught fire when it backfired resulted in an alarm for the local fire department this morning.

The alarm was received at 9:25 a.m. when a truck caught fire at the J. D. Wright and Son Trucking Company, 509 E. Atchison.

Firemen reported that the truck caught fire when the motor backfired and that heavy damage resulted to the cab and wiring before the blaze could be extinguished.

Both bills are awaiting action in the Senate.

Flood Waters Pour Over Cities In Texas

Area Still Waterlogged With More Rain Expected

Dark gray clouds continued to hang over the Top o' Texas area today following the dumping of 2-13 inches of rain on Pampa Saturday night and Sunday.

Forecasts for the area called for a continuation of the clouds and the cool weather with scattered showers and local thunderstorms through tomorrow.

Streets in Pampa were flooded Saturday night during the heavy rain and the underpass on S. Barnes was flooded until late yesterday morning.

While roads in other parts of the state were flooded, no reports were received in Pampa of any highways in the area being under water. Reports received by local law enforcement agencies and by The News indicated that most of the unpaved roads in the county were extremely muddy and that most of the roads were practically impassable.

The moisture received over the weekend brought the total received in Pampa during the past nine days to 4.21 inches. The total for the month, not including the moisture received during the blizzard, now stands at 4.24 inches. The snow was blown out of recording rain gauges during the storm and no measurement is available to add to the total for the month.

The total amount of moisture received in Pampa since first of the year now stands well over 10 inches.

Moisture received at other towns in the area, reported yesterday, was: Perryton, 4.4; Canadian, 4.0; Miami, 1.15; Laketon, 1.25; Mobeetie, .30; Shamrock, .40; McLean, 2.00; Lefors, 2.00; White Deer, 2.40; Panhandle, 1.50; and Groom 3.85. Most of these towns were still receiving either light rain or drizzle when the reports were made.

The Red Cross declared San Antonio a disaster area after Martinez and Elmendorf Creeks flooded about 200 persons out of their homes. The Red Cross set up shelter areas in flooded schools.

At least 15 persons have been killed by the weather—nearly all of them drowned by floods—since an epidemic of tornadoes, deluges and floods started in Texas April 19. A 16th person died of a heart attack in Mineral Wells Sunday, while digging a drainage ditch around his home. Two others are missing and presumed drowned.

Newsman Asks For Passport To Red China

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Newsman William Worth, who was refused a new passport after he went to Communist China in defiance of a government ban, tried today to persuade the State Department to reverse itself and grant him the passport.

He presents his case in a hearing before the State Department Passport Office. The controversy may eventually wind up in the courts if the department stands firm against renewing Worth's passport.

Worthy was one of three American newsmen who late last year went to Red China despite a flat ban against all American travel to the Chinese mainland. The others were Edmund Stevens and Phillip Harrington of Look Magazine.

Worthy, an employee of the Baltimore Afro-American, applied for a new passport after his return to the United States. The State Department rejected his application on grounds he had acted in a manner "prejudicial to the interests of the United States" when he went to Communist China. The department also expressed fear he would "not abide by geographical limitations" which might be attached to a new passport.

Under State Department regulations Worthy was entitled to present additional information at today's informal hearing. If the department stands by its refusal he may appeal to the Board of Passport Appeals.

DeMolay To Run County, City Tomorrow

Members of the Top o' Texas Chapter of the Order of DeMolay will take over city and county offices tomorrow and will learn the operations of the various offices.

The youths will accompany the city and county officials in the performance of their duties throughout the day. The boys will fill the offices of the City Commission, Mayor Commissioners Court, county city manager, judge, county attorney, sheriff and deputies, fire chief and assistant fire chief, chief of police and assistant chief of police.

The youths filling the offices on the City Commission will hold their own meeting following the completion of business by the commissioners.

The only action scheduled for the City Commission tomorrow is the approval of the third reading of Ordinance 472. This ordinance closes the public hearing on the current paving project which calls for the paving of 29½ blocks of unpaved streets within the city. Following the approval of this ordinance the commissioners are expected to set a date for the opening of bids on the paving.

The only other action expected is the hearing of a report of the insurance committee on the insurance on city buildings which expires next month.

Not Guilty Plea Entered In Case

Eugene Debs Snodgrass of 1824 N. Banks was released on $500 bond after pleading not guilty in County Court this morning to a charge of driving while intoxicated.

Snodgrass had been arrested by city police on the 600 block of W. Foster Saturday evening.

New Air Traffic Plans Designed

By ROBERT J. SERLING
United Press Staff Correspondent
WASHINGTON (UPI)—America's scheduled airlines are considering a new air traffic plan designed to eliminate collision dangers in the heavily-traveled "golden triangle" between Washington, Chicago and New York, the United Press learned today.

The proposal was drawn up by experts of the Air Transport Association, representing the scheduled airlines, and the Airline Pilots Association (ALPA), the union for 12,000 pilots.

It has no connection with a future air traffic control blueprint revealed Sunday night by engineers in President Eisenhower's aviation facilities planning commission. The White House group charted a plan which primarily calls for gradual improvements by 1960 and a completely new system by 1975.

Rules Outlined
The ATA-ALPA proposal, if approved by the airlines and the union's executive board, would go into effect next July 1. The industry-pilots plan would:

1. Require all scheduled airline flights in the "triangle" to operate under instrument flight rules above 9,500 feet—thus putting them under the monitoring and guidance of federal air traffic control centers.

Always Apply Make-Up Privately

By ALICIA HART
NEA Beauty Editor

One of the most unattractive things a woman can do is to make up her face in public, particularly in a restaurant. Yet countless women do it daily.

At the end of luncheon or dinner, they whip out compact and soiled puff, lipstick and sometimes a comb and do a thorough and thoroughly disillusioning (to those who see it) job. Then the compact is snapped shut with a businesslike click and dropped back into the handbag.

But the woman has lost, not gained, in the eyes of those who watch her. The powder room is the place and the only place for such repairs, for there's another angle to this unsightly habit.

For the sake of the skin, fresh make-up should never be applied over stale. In the powder room, you can do a quick and complete job without robbing your audience of illusions about your charms.

Even if you don't do an annual spring housecleaning, spring does somehow lend itself to tasks that have gone untended all winter. Among these are cleaning out the closets and kitchen cupboards and scrubbing same. While this is fine for the house, it's rough on beauty.

So, before you start your cleaning campaign, undertake the protection of your good looks. Hands should be sheathed in rubber gloves and creamed when you've finished work. Hair should be protected by a scarf tied turban style.

Give your face a thorough cream-and-lotion cleansing as soon as the cleaning jobs are finished. If the weather permits, have the windows open while you work so that you breathe as little dust as possible.

Nature didn't bless all of us with thick, nicely shaped eyebrows. Most of us have eyebrows in need of shaping and plucking and the help of an eyebrow pencil.

But the hand that reshapes a brow has to be skillful. The painted brow that arches into the hairline, the one that is too thick or too thin, the line that is too dark or too light, any one of these detracts from beauty.

You'll need to experiment, of Bored with life?

How long since you've gone outside to watch a sunset or taken a walk on a sunny day?

How long since you've looked through your newspaper in search of something different to do — an art exhibit to go to, a concert, a lecture?

How long since you've looked up an old friend, or taken the first step toward making a new one?

How long since you've looked at members of your family as though they were strangers, really seeing them as they are at the moment, not just as you expect them to be?

How long since you've gone out of your way to do something for someone else, something beyond the routine gestures of friendship that have become second nature to you?

How long since you have browsed through a public library and come out with your arms full of books on some subject that stirred your curiosity?

How long since you've made a real attempt to streamline your work so that you can keep up without feeling pushed or driven?

How long since you've taken a day off for no better reason than that you want to enjoy it?

How long since you've given a party for the sole purpose of bringing gaiety or friendly warmth into your home, not just to repay social obligations?

course, before you find the right brow line. Try to leave some brow hairs in, particularly at the start of the brow, in order to insure a natural look. Don't draw the brows on in one hard, shiny line. Use quick, short strokes that copy the brow hairs.

How long since you've tried to learn a new skill or tackled a hard job, instead of thinking up excuses for avoiding the challenge of doing something a little more difficult than usual?

If you're bored it has probably been a long time since you have done something you didn't have to.

Exceptional Children

"Helping exceptional or handicapped children learn to lead useful and happy lives is the worthy project the young mothers in the Parent Education Club is sponsoring. When our citizens realize the number of families needing this help, and the kind of assistance needed, they will open their generous and charitable hearts, as in the past.

"So much is being done in this field elsewhere, and we are grateful for the Parent Education Club's leadership in Pampa." (signed) Mrs. Lynn Boyd.

The above-statement was given the Parent Education Club by Mrs. Boyd, wife of Pampa's mayor and long-time civic worker. The project of which she writes is the Parent Education Club's Beautiful Homes Tour, which will be held on May 4 from 1 p.m. until 5, through five of the most beautiful homes in Pampa. Admission for the tour are tickets which are available through the civic women's clubs in Pampa. Proceeds from the ticket sales will be used to purchase equipment, which will be available to exceptional children in Pampa.

Calvary WMU Units Meet For Study

BLANCHE GROVE CIRCLE
The Blanche Grove Circle of Calvary WMU met recently with Mrs. E. W. Baker, 110 W. Tuke. The meeting opened with prayer led by Mrs. R. L. Gordy. During the business session, it was decided to meet at the church next week and quilt. Each of the members took part in the stewardship program. The meeting closed with a prayer by Mrs. Baker. Four members were present.

BUSINESS WOMEN'S CIRCLE
The Business Women's Circle of Calvary WMU met recently at the church for a Royal Service Program. Five members were present.

MARIE MATHIS CIRCLE
The Marie Mathis Circle met recently with Mrs. K. R. Hawkins, 425 Hughes. The opening prayer was given by Mrs. Bob Clett. The business session was led by Mrs. A. C. Boren. It was voted to send church bulletins to members in the service. A program on missions was given by Mrs. C. W. McGahen. The meeting closed with prayer led by Mrs. C. R. McGahan. Seven members and one visitor, Mrs. C. J. Aufill, were present.

MEAT AT ITS BEST
To panbroil meat correctly, place the meat in a heavy frying-pan. Do not add water and fat and do not cover. Cook the meat slowly, turning occasionally. Pour off the fat as it accumulates. Brown the meat on both sides and then season and serve immediately.

When shopping for a blouse to fill in your teen-aged daughter's wardrobe, remember that blouses made of dacron, nylon and orlon require just a dipping in luke-warm sudsy water and no ironing.

If you have a mild case of varicose veins, wear sheer "invisible" nylon elastic stockings to cover them up for the sake of good appearance. They are safe and comfortable to wear.

FLOOD

ed back and watched the water for its master. But it was in vain.

Crest Yet to Come
Continued thunderstorms and rains were predicted through Tuesday.

A tornado hit Raymondville, near Edinburg in the lower Rio Grande Valley, early today, but police said the only damage was to power lines.

The weather bureau said the crest of the Colorado River is still upstream from Columbus and that additional water below the crest is slowing its downstream movement.

Thirty to 32 feet is expected at Columbus late today and tonight; bankful stage at Columbus is 29 feet. A crest of 33-35 feet is expected at Wharton late Tuesday.

At Wharton the present flood will exceed the June, 1941 flood, which reached a stage of 30 feet at Wharton and will be almost as high as the November, 1940, flood," the weather bureau said.

Graford, in Palo Pinto county, west of Fort Worth, reported 8.1 inches of rain Sunday night as it was still raining.

Graford has gotten a total of more than 16 inches of rain and two floods in five days. On top of that, the town water pumps had been ruined by the flood and the town's 600 residents were drinking boiled well water.

The Red Cross and the Catholic Church were taking care of most of the flood victims in Victoria. The Catholic church put up refugees in Our Lady of Sorrows church.

Virtually the only part of Texas in which the drought that gripped the state for seven years has not been violently snapped, at least for the time being, is in the Big Bend area west of the Pecos. The yearly average there is about seven inches.

Homero Vergara Galindo, 22, and his wife, of Nuevo Laredo, Mexico, were killed by a bolt of lightning as they watched the Rio Grande reach its highest peak in two years.

Bernice Lee Godwin, a 21-year-old Dallas man, waded into overflow waters of the swollen Trinity River and was swept away Sunday.

Dallas County Emergency Corps received the body of David Jones 10, who was swept away below the White Rock Lake spillway Saturday night.

Tornadoes On Holiday
Tornadoes took a virtual holiday in Texas. Only one funnel was reported and it apparently did not touch ground.

Floods on the Trinity and Brazos alone have caused 19 million dollars damage. Late last night the Texas Department of Public Safety reported 65 highways and roads blocked by high waters and washed out bridges.

The American Red Cross said that until Sunday afternoon, at least 50 persons had been injured in addition to the toll of dead. It said at least 2,250 families were affected by the floods, 45 homes destroyed, 250 homes suffered major damage, 680 others damaged and 450 other types of buildings either destroyed or damaged.

Army and National Guard helicopters were used in rescue work at Graham, where some 40 families were evacuated and the city shut down its waterplant because of flood waters.

Texas Panhandle Soaked
More than a score of families were evacuated in Breckenridge and the third flash flood to hit San Antonio forced 50 families to evacuate.

More rain fell on the Texas Panhandle, which around the Amarillo area is having its wettest spring in 24 years. U. S. Highway 287 in the Panhandle was at places under seven feet of water.

Many parts of the state already have received more than their 1956 total of rainfall thus far in 1957, including Dallas.

Many families have been forced to evacuate their home when flood waters threatened to consume them, then returned when the waters receded only to leave again when the restless floods came roaring back.

Hall spattered parts of West Texas.

*The Sweepstakes Winner is chosen on the basis of highest ton miles per gallon.

Ton-miles per gallon is obtained as follows: Gross weight multiplied by total miles traveled divided by gallons of gasoline consumed. This method is used—rather than miles per gallon, which would favor the lightest cars—to give all entrants an equal chance to win, regardless of weight.

That's the amazing mileage averaged by the cars in this year's Mobilgas Economy Run!

These were brand-new 1957 stock cars with automatic transmissions—no different from the one you, yourself, may now be driving. And the punishing course they covered included city traffic as well as open road—steep mountain grades—desert heat and freezing cold...every extreme of driving conditions your car is likely to encounter in a full year!

What better proof that you, too, can get top power and mileage economy from your 1957 high-compression car? Just follow the example of the Mobilgas Economy Run drivers...keep your car in good condition, drive sensibly, use New Mobilgas Special—powered with new top octane and gas-saving MC4 additives.

Try New Mobilgas Special—for improved year-round performance that adds up to more miles per gallon!

Those Without Work

In 1935 we were in the midst of a depression. Tearful columnists of both genders were staining their efforts with lachrymal articles calling upon the government to "do something." Sometimes close to 10 million persons were out of work. We cut a sorry spectacle.

Students of economics tell us that the reason the depression didn't cure itself was because it had been brought on in the first place by excessive taxation and excessive government intervention. When F. D. R. had run for office in 1932, he had promised to bring economy to the American governmental scene by reducing the budget, cutting taxes and doing away with duplication of effort in a hundred departments of government. After his election, he performed in a manner opposite to his promises.

What had been bad in 1931 and '32 was not quite dreadful in '35. Taxes had gone up; the blue eagle had flapped wearily and fallen. America turned to socialism as a way out. The public dole and great public works were started.

Twenty-two years have passed from the peak of 10 million out of work reached in 1935. Where are we now?

On every hand we hear that we have unrivaled prosperity. Everything is booming but the guns. The country is going the way of socialism and more socialism. But it appears to be a profitable operation, so who cares?

Perhaps it is time for us to call a spade a spade. Perhaps we can now have the courage to look squarely at the facts as they are.

Back in 1935 the government entered the field of providing "relief" to persons out of work. The relief was to be "temporary" as an emergency measure. Today, there are 5,500,000 Americans who get relief money. And the temporary nature of the emergency has endured through more than two decades on a permanent and growing basis.

But this isn't all the picture.

There are 9,000,000 more Americans who are living on money paid to them by the federal government in the form of "insurance." There are 2,500,000 persons employed by the government, over 1,000,000 more than were so employed in 1935. Additionally, there are close to 3,000,000 out of work.

Thus if we total the number of persons who are working at unnecessary jobs, who are drawing government "insurance" which is provided entirely by taxation, who get relief, or who are otherwise out of work, we have a grand total today of 18,500,000 who are not gainfully employed. This is nearly twice what the figure was in 1935. Depression? What we have today is called prosperity!

The truth is that the depression of the '30's has never been cured. Instead of permitting free enterprise to find a solution to the problem, the government has drained the taxpayers of more than $600,000,000,000 from that day to this to cause us to forget that we were broke. Then having robbed us of the wherewithal which might have built factories, provided businesses and helped us overcome the low spot of the '30's, we are engaged in a world-wide race to give away our wealth, on the theory that by so doing we can defeat an internationalist doctrine based on sharing the wealth.

This business of relief is patterned after the ancient concept of the Roman emperors. And we have gone into the matter much further even than Diocletian and some of his most devoted advocates.

For example, California has been giving relief to some perfectly able-bodied people for 20 years. They say it is not relief, but something that is owed them by their state. In Louisiana, 6 out of every 10 old persons get welfare checks. And in Colorado, 27 per cent of the state's budget goes to persons on the relief rolls.

In 1945 the nation put out $727,000,000 for relief to old persons. But last year this sum had climbed to $1,677,000,000. Aid to needy children amounted to $150,000,000 in 1946 and climbed to $663,000,000 in 1956. The blind, disabled and others received assistance in 1946 amounting to $113,000,000 which in 1956 came to $521,000,000. In other words, the taxpayer's burden, in these eleven years, rose from just under a billion dollars to something close to three billion.

The rate things are going now, it will not be long before we have 20 million persons getting their money by hand-out route at the expense of a dwindling group of productive persons.

May we ask, what then?

AN EVIL MISUSE OF RELIGION

REV. IRVING E. HOWARD
(Christian Economics)

Shortly after the Bolshevik revolution, Lenin said: "We will find our most fertile field for infiltration of Marxism within the field of religion, because religious people are the most gullible and will accept most anything if it is couched in religious terminology."

Avenue of Infiltration
In America, the Communists have leaned heavily upon the churches as avenues of infiltration because of our unique religious heritage.

When Dr. J. B. Matthews, an ordained Methodist minister and a returned missionary to the Far East, tried to warn of this infiltration, he brought the heavens down about his ears, but J. Edgar Hoover testified before the House Committee on Un-American Activities as early as 1947: "I do not fear for the liberal and progressive who has been hoodwinked and duped into joining hands with the communists. I confess to a real apprehension so long as communists are able to secure ministers of the Gospel to promote their evil work."

and "expose" a cause that is alien to the religion of Christ and Judaism.

Mr. Benjamin Gitlow, the original organizer of the Communist Party in the United States; its Vice-President candidate in 1924, and candidate for the Presidency of the United States on the Communist Party Ticket in 1928 stated before the same committee:

"Communist infiltration of the religious field aims to undermine faith in the American system. It seeks to subvert the religious spirit on the basis of social-economic creeds and seditious politics. It strives to poison the minds of religious people with a destructive, atheistic ideology, cloaked in the name of Social Action and religious interpretation based upon the Bible, that the religious agents of Communist infiltration are wont to call 'prosperity religion.'"

By R. C. HOILES
Penalty Of Surrender

I want to quote for a couple of days a very timely article that appeared in "The Freeman" magazine under the heading of "Penalty Of Surrender." It was written by Leonard E. Read, president of the Foundation for Economic Education.

The article seems to me timely because more and more people seem to think it is necessary, in order to be practical, to compromise or surrender moral principles. They seem to think that the means used does not pre-determine the results; that we can use bad means and get good results; that we can use aggressive force to promote goodwill and peace; that we can really pick pigs from thistles.

From here on I am quoting: "A certain business leader, perhaps among the most publicized during the last two decades, once severely lectured me on my unswerving and uncompromising behavior. He charged that I saw things only in blacks and whites. He argued that practical life was lived in shades of grays, actually in the shadows of these two extremes. He suggested that I had a nice chance of 'going far' in the world, if only I would become more pliable to the thoughts and actions of my fellows. He really wanted me to be more agreeable to his middle-of-the-road political theories."

"The compromising attitude is exalted by many and deplored by only a few. Most current discussions are tempered with concepts of compromise and expediency."

"Compromise, like many other words, has different meanings for different persons. I want to use the term in the sense of one of the definitions given by Webster: 'The result or embodiment of concession or adjustment.' I wish to show that compromise is potentially good when applied in a physical sense and that it has no application whatever in a moral sense."

"For example, you and your wife are spending what is hoped will be a happy evening at home. She chooses to watch TV and you elect to explore Tolstoy's 'Study of History.' The scene appears peaceful as you sit side by side near this piece of furniture. But to you the furniture is making a lot of distracting noise."

"Here are all the possibilities for turning a cheerful evening into one of disharmony. But compromise can come to your aid."

Your wife can decrease the noise of the TV to the point where she can still hear it, and you can move to some remote corner where you can comprehend Tolstoy just as well as anywhere else. Harmony can thus be preserved by compromise."

"Compromise in this sense is an adjustment of physical situations. It is the process by which conflicts are reduced to the point most satisfactory to all parties concerned. When thought of in this way, compromise is the great harmonizer, the attitude that makes living together — social life — a pleasure."

"Indeed, the market place of daily exchange where tens of millions of transactions go on daily is one vast area of compromise. Buyers aim at low prices. Sellers aim at high prices. In a free market, unhampered by private thieves and political restrictions, there is an adjustment of these diverse desires. Compromise establishes the price at which the mutual satisfaction of buyer and seller is at its highest level."

"It is in the physical realm that most of our daily life is lived. In this realm, compromise is good and it is practical. It begets harmony and peace."

"How easy it would seem then, finding compromise so useful in such a vast segment of life, to conclude thoughtlessly that it has an equal place, a comparable value, in that phase of life which consciously occupies little of our thoughts: moral life."

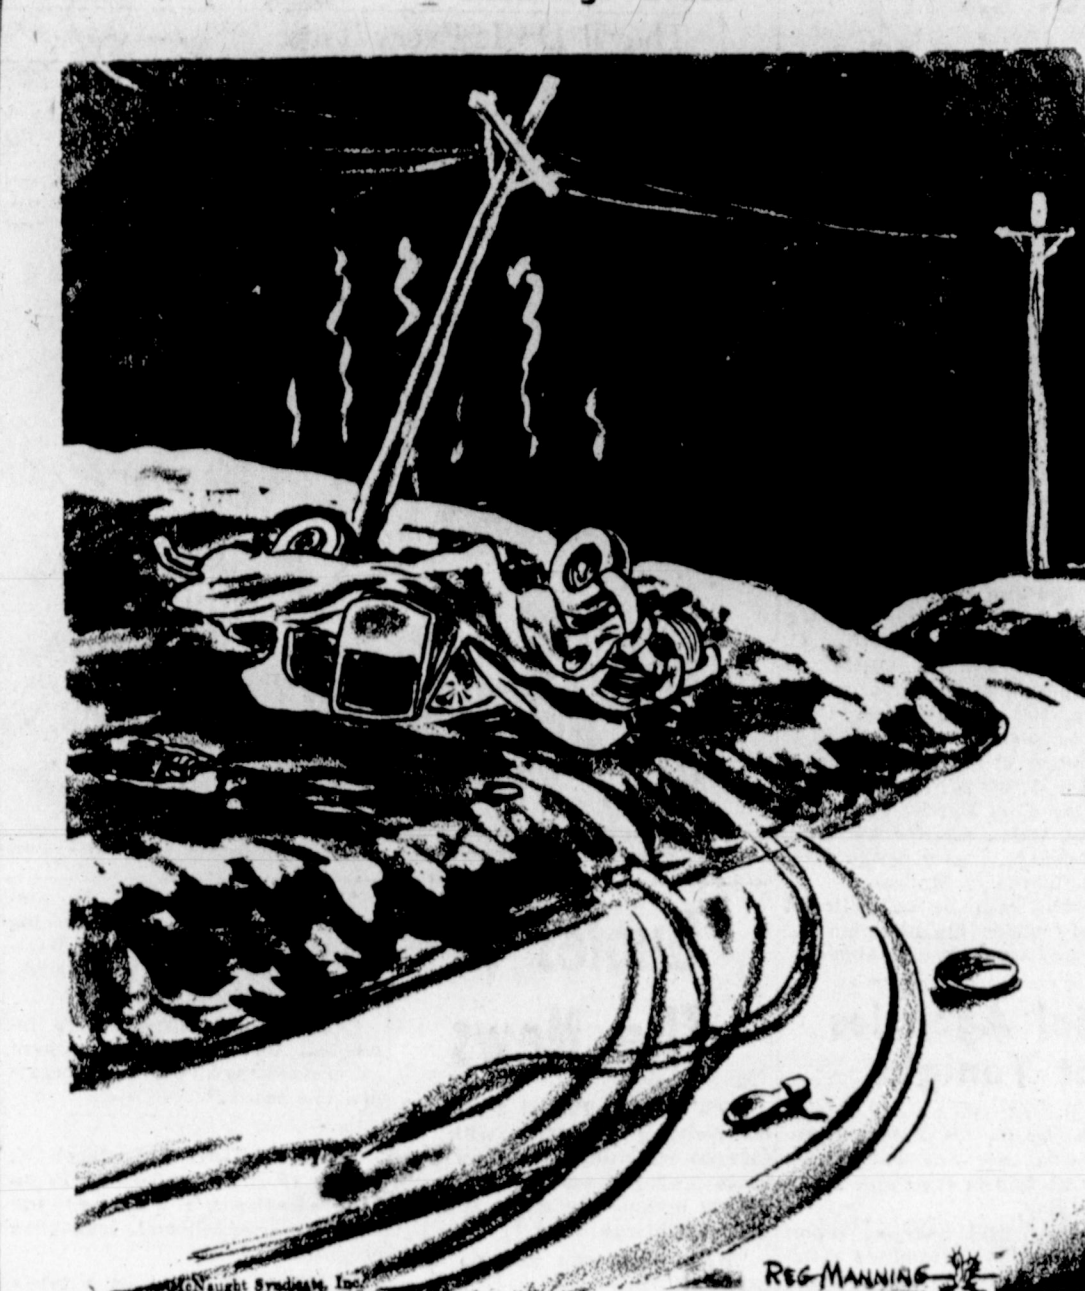

"Principles Defy Compromise."
"But this is precisely the point where I believe many of us are the victims of a confusion of terms. What is compromise in terms of physical affairs — that is, in an adjustment of physical positions — is something entirely different when applied to principles and morality."

"For example, let us make the reckless assumption that most of us are committed to the Biblical injunction, 'Thou shalt not steal.' This is based on the moral principle that each person has the right to the fruits of his own labor. The point I wish to make — my major point — is that this is a principle that defies compromise. You either take someone else's property without his consent, or you do not. If you steal just a bit — a penny — you do not compromise the principle; you abandon it. You surrender your principle."

"By taking only a little of someone's property without his consent, as distinguished from taking a lot, you do compromise in the physical sense the amount you steal. But the moral principle, whatever the amount of the theft, is surrendered and utterly abandoned."

"If all the rest of mankind is in favor of passing a law that would take the property, honestly acquired, of only one person against his will, even though the purpose be allegedly for the so-called social good, I cannot adjust myself both to the moral injunction, 'Thou shalt not steal,' and to the demand of the millions. Principle does not lend itself to bending or to compromising. It stands impregnable. I must either abide by it, or in all fairness, I must on this point regard myself as an

Laws Passed Making Tax Payable On True Charity

By WESTBROOK PEGLER

NEW YORK — Our Congressmen and Senators have had the indecent gall to pass a law and pass it over and over for years, which compels us to pay income tax on $25 given to a destitute friend but allows us to deduct from taxable income money given to any one of a thousand "organized charities," many of which are rackets. If the needy friend dies without repaying the $25, we may write a formal letter to his "estate" demanding payment, with interest, and representing the gift as a loan, retaining a carbon copy to be shown to the Internal Revenue.

In order to prove that we have made a serious effort to collect, we must turn the estate at least once more. At least a year and more likely two years must elapse before we are allowed to sully the late friend's name by listing this gift of charity with interest as a bad debt. We must post the friend as a dead-beat, which means a cheat. The letters demanding payment should be sent by registered mail. It might be difficult to comply with this peculiarly because such a friend might not have an actual estate. Who is going to take the trouble to read and answer letters for a poor dead bustard guy whose friends had to pass the hat to bury him?

If the friend does not die but nevertheless does not pay simply because he is finding it tough enough to come up with his room rent from week to week over the years, we are allowed to deduct the loan-as-a-business loss by listing it as a bad debt — provided we take the pains to write him several coldblooded letters demanding our money. This will stab him to the heart, but, after all, Congress wrote this law, so we have to put aside true charity and decency and demand our $25, knowing that the guy hasn't got a dime. If we don't do this, the charity to this friend costs us a tax of from 20 per cent to almost 100 per cent. The $25, plus income tax, will come to $30.00 or $48.80, according to circumstances.

In other words, Congress has decreed by its Internal Revenue Acts that a charitable gift of $25 to the Fund for the Abatement of Chilblains may be reduced by means of "deduction." The amount of saving through this deduction varies according to the "brackets" in which our taxes are computed. The more we give to "organized charity" and "deduct" from our taxable income, the less we have to pay the government. So, actually, a fellow with a roomy income may set up an impressive reputation for generosity largely at the expense of fellow-citizens who must pay higher taxes than otherwise they would, to make up the shortage caused by these "deductions." It may be a fact that this Fund for the Abatement of Chilblains has never shelled one single Chilblain, although millions of dollars have been donated for "research" in the guise of charity.

All "organized charity" is cold-blooded and most of it is a racket. It is heartless because the donor makes his gift with a mercenary eye to his own financial advantage via "deductibility." That is why "organized charities" flaunt the sordid reminder in their "literature" that gifts to their treasuries are "deductible." Many of them hire professional fund-raisers who clip the gross by as much as 30 per cent for their services in whooping up the pitiful condition of their beneficiaries, and stimulating collections. The Red Cross, since Roosevelt's time, has been a prize for housepots of the party in power. Norman Davis, a nice old pensioner under Roosevelt, who had hunched around Europe as a sort of de luxe roundman of the State Department, got $25,000 a year as president of the Red Cross. His duties were nominal. He actually served as a political flunkie.

General George Marshall eased into the job under a slightly different title. General Alfred M. Greunther, Ike's buddy and his successor in the NATO job, is the current executive. Even though the Red Cross is noted for its purity, the facts of his compensation and allowances are not exactly known. He gets about $37,000 a year. The spirit of Red Cross charity is collective and corporate, by contrast with the personal compassion of an individual who gives $100 to a sick friend without hope or even a desire of repayment and willingly assumes an additional burden of income tax.

Congress planned all this that way. These details and many more were thoroughly threshed out in committee and on the floor. The result discredits the sordid vaunting of a nation which is forever boasting of its great humane spirit.

We give countless millions to "organized charity" every year, with the result that such coldblooded organizations, to a large extent Congress who maintain this evil.

Editors:

The great amount of interest — headlines, articles, letters, TV and radio programs, proposed laws, etc. — caused by the Senate investigation of union leaders seems to show just what issue is of most importance to the American people. And, equally important to the union leaders, it shows that practically everyone is either on the wrong track in suggesting or proposing laws to "correct and protect," or else afraid to get on the right track. The "right track" is suggesting and proposing legislation to make strikes unlawful.

Victor Riesel is reported to have predicted legislation which will see that union members run and control their union, protect the handling of welfare and pension funds, and protect against corruption and racketeering in union political affairs. One other important and strongly supported proposal is for all the states to adopt right-to-work laws. Not one of these four methods to "correct and protect" is, in itself, fair. So they can only be fair when used as restrictions on another unfair legal act.

The unfair act which, because it is legal, makes necessary other restrictive acts, is the use of strikes. Were it not for strikes being legal the other acts would be unnecessary, and of course, unfair.

First, it is impossible for a law to cause union members to "run and control" their union any more than members of other private groups run and control theirs. It is not the government's business. Second, the "handling of welfare" subsidized by the government, suffocate true personal charity. Actual charity, the pure generosity of the decent heart, is cramped, penalized and discouraged, yet, somehow, lives on in millions of private, secret acts between human beings, above and beyond the comprehension of the dirty souls in Congress who maintain this evil.

Eisenhower-Dulles Again Feel Confident On Program

By RAY TUCKER

WASHINGTON — The twist-taken special pains to publicize these tests in order to influence Congressional action on foreign aid support to the White House in past and national defense, with its huge appropriations for A-H bombs, rockets, missiles, pilotless planes and similar devices.

Two other events sharpen anxiety at Washington, although there is no fear of an immediate war because of Russia's general unreadiness. The first is the series of Russian threats of atomic retaliation to nations which permit us to stockpile similar weapons at our overseas bases.

The second is Britain's decision to shift from conventional to push-button defense, and the Macmillan admission that the United States must provide the only protection for the free world during the five or 10-year period of transition.

Still another happening may slow down the Congressional economy machine. It is the Sobola confession in a New York Federal Court that they have been spying on us for Moscow since 1949, not so long after the two nations had become Allies against the brutal and dictatorial regimes of Germany, Japan and Italy.

Perhaps more than Russia's other betrayals, and even though Washington has become accustomed to Communist treachery, this revelation has shocked the Capital — the White House, State Department, the Pentagon and Congress.

On May 15, the U. S. will stage a series of tests of low-caliber nuclear devices. Britain will engage in her first large scale atomic experiments on Christmas Island off Australia during the summer. France, Germany and Japan seek our aid for similar developments. With all the great powers preparing for an atomic war or an even worse calamity, calmly and deliberately and openly, President Eisenhower and Secretary Dulles now have — again — the support of a lobby organized inside the Kremlin.

Healthy Interest In International Society

By HENRY MCLEMORE

ROME — To judge from my mail, there is a solid, healthy interest back home in International Society.

Nearly every post brings me a reprint from not reporting more of the activities of the men and women of this set when I am fortunate enough to be in one of their natural habitats.

Rome is certainly that. The playground of the western world roams as it impales do the African veldt — and the playgirls do, too. The Via Veneto is one of their favorite haunts. There they gather at dusk, like wild creatures around a water hole, and one has only to keep one's ears open to learn their secrets.

They aren't completely carefree, I can tell you that. Life isn't all yachts, costume balls, and caviar. They have their worries. Right now they're deeply concerned about the renewal of what amounts to their own, private Public War — the battle between Elsa Maxwell and the Duchess of Windsor.

The truce between these two maxims and pension funds" is the business of only those concerned and affected, the union and employer, not the government.

Third, the union is probably no more guilty of corruption and racketeering in political activities than are other private groups. Fourth, there should be no more restrictions on whom an employer may hire or refuse to hire than there are on who an employer may quit or refuse a job offer.

If strikes were not legal these four matters would not require legislation. Under certain conditions strikes prevent employers from having certain ones kept off their private property. No other must suffer this shameful control. No one, not even the leaders who call them and those who willingly support them, can explain strikes as being fair. Any attempt to do so lacks an explanation of why a monopoly on their use is justified, and how they could be of any value if there was no monopoly on them.

The use of strikes is the only labor issue to be settled. All other labor problems would, like the branches of a tree, disappear, if that which allows their existence would disappear.

Only strikes cause forced membership which means forced dues and support on which the existence of the matters being investigated by the Senate committee depend.

Sincerely,
R. J. Smith

forces was broken recently when Maxwell disclosed a surprise ally, Marilyn Monroe, in her (Maxwell's) thrust to rob Windsor of the spotlight at a gala. With Monroe at Maxwell's table, the Duchess couldn't hold her ground.

This battle involves all the members of International Society's army — regulars, volunteers, and draftees. They have to be on one side or the other. There is no place for neutrals in this total war. From the conversations I have heard, plus rumors, the Duchess does not lose as much ground to Maxwell and Monroe as she might think. There is much questioning of Maxwell's ethics, particularly among the Roman regulars.

Many feel that the employment of Monroe was an unjustified use of shock troops. Few titles could be expected to withstand the Monroe assault in full battle decolletage.

The Duchess is given full marks for not abandoning the field altogether, and retreating to her Waldorf Towers' stronghold. She stayed until the last photograph had fired his last flash bulb — at Miss Monroe. Her astuteness in such an unequal fight earned her many sympathizers, and I overheard more than one yacht owner say he would be tempted to lend the Duchess any one of his yachts should she decide to try a naval blockade against the enemy.

I understand there is tremendous interest in how Aly Khan will react to the renewal of hostilities between Maxwell and Windsor. Aly's is a powerful force. The ground troops which follow his lead are large in number, and his fleet of yachts could be a deciding factor.

Also, International Society is anxious about Onassis. How does the fabulous Greek feel? His flagship is only slightly smaller than the Forrestal, and must be reckoned with. It is loaded with sufficient caviar, cocktails, champagne and bikinis to fight all summer off the Riviera.

Live Better—Reddy Kraked Ice, Foods At The Snak Rak

All foods and drinks taste better with Reddy Kraked Ice from the Pampa Ice Co., 417 W. Foster, MO 4-7421.

And you get your better tasting foods and drinks to start with at the handy, convenient Snak Rak at the Pampa Ice Co.

It's so convenient, easy and economical to pick up staple foods, baked goods, canned fruits, vegetables, meats, cold cuts, cheeses, frozen foods, soft drinks, beer, milk, picnic supplies and ice cream mixings — everything for an outing, a snack, a meal or for the week's food supplies.

6 a.m. to Midnight

You drive in to the Snak Rak at any hour from 6 a.m. to midnight!

And when you shop the Snak Rak — or any time you pick up groceries or just drive by — get Reddy Kraked Ice, the crystal clear, taste-free, colder, harder ice that lasts longer, cools more and that keeps the true, natural flavors of your foods and drinks.

Reddy Kraked is the packaged ice produced by Pampa Ice Co. It is available at the Ice Company and at:

Fite Food Market, 1333 N. Hobart; Day & Nite Grocery, 716 Prairie Center; C & C Liquor Store, 800 W. Foster; Kitchens Gulf Service, 200 W. Brown; Leon Holmes Conoco Service Station, 845 W. Wilks; Service Liquor Store, 800 W. Foster.

Reddy Kraked Ice comes in the convenient 5 and 10 pound packages at all these stores. It stores easily in your freezer or in the freezer compartment of your refrigerator to make sure you have plenty of ice on hand for your weekend company, or your special gatherings.

This crystal-clear, taste-free ice makes all foods and drinks taste better. Reddy Kraked ice brings out the delicate flavors of your salads, keeps the real flavor of your lemonade, iced tea or mixed drinks. No "refrigerator taste!" Reddy Kraked Ice helps you to have more fun living with the aid of better tasting foods and drinks.

And for keeping foods longer on outings or group socials — Reddy Kraked Ice lasts longer, cools longer because it's made harder.

Snak Rak

Foods you find so conveniently at the Snak Rak include:

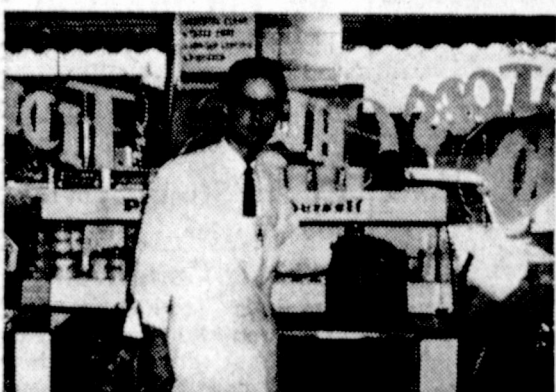

Milk, bacon, eggs, lunch meats, frozen meats, frozen vegetables, frozen juices, cheeses, cookies, baked goods, soft drinks, orange drink, beer, cereals, potato chips, canned vegetables, fruits and meats; juices, shortening, coffee, mixes, syrups, candy.

Beck's Relatives Hard To Locate

By HERBERT FOSTER

WASHINGTON, April 27 (UP)—The Senate Rackets committee, despite weeks of effort, has been unable to locate Teamster boss Dave Beck's son, two other Beck relatives and the union president's bookkeeper.

The committee wants to question them about Beck's business deals with his own union. Beck himself has ignored committee requests for help in locating the four witnesses.

Committee counsel Robert F. Kennedy told reporters today that if the four are not found, "there will be a blank" in part of the committee's case against Beck — "unless Beck comes in and answers the questions himself."

A New Approach To Religious Education

By LOUIS VASSELLS

WASHINGTON, April 26 (UP)—An entirely new approach to religious education is taking place in "America's most cherished institution," the Protestant Sunday school.

Several major denominations already have scrapped the traditional Sunday school lessons in favor of the new approach. Others are in the process of changing.

Dr. A. L. Roberts, director of the Commission on General Christian Education, says these are "rather radical revisions of curriculum materials and methods" being used in the Sunday school classroom.

These sweeping changes reflect the conviction of many church leaders that the "old-fashioned Sunday school," with its emphasis on memorizing names, events and verses from the Bible, has been greatly over-rated as a builder of Christian character.

Facts Not Enough

Children may learn a lot of facts about the Christian religion under the time-honored teaching system, critics say, but they often fail to see any relation between the facts and real life. As a result, millions of children quit going to Sunday school as soon as they are old enough to resist parental authority.

The new approach aims at giving each child a personal experience of the love, acceptance and forgiveness held forth by the Christian faith. It treats Christianity not as a series of doctrines to be memorized as a child and understood as an adult, but as a life to be lived—now.

How this concept is translated into Sunday school teaching is illustrated by the "Seabury Series" of course materials recently adopted by the Episcopal church.

First-Grade Course

The first-grade course is directed at helping a child form a "deep conviction that the church is his home," that here he is accepted and valued as a person, whether he is good or bad, cooperative or contrary. The instructor's manual tells first-grade teachers:

"Your acceptance of the child will prove to him, more convincingly than anything you can say, the reality of love. A child is prepared to know God's love through the love of adults who matter to him."

The course for each succeeding grade in the Seabury Series is similarly tailored to meet the "real needs" of the child at each age level—to present him with those Christian doctrines and experiences which he is then able to understand and apply to his own life.

Coeds Show Indifference

RICHMOND, Va. (UP)—The Yul Brynner "haircut" fad is on the wane—at the University of Richmond, anyway. Nick Pozinko, a member of the university's "Yul Brynner Club," said the club had disbanded because coeds were neither attracted nor repelled by the clubmembers shaved heads.

SAIGON, Viet Nam (UP)—A Communist North Viet Nam newspaper today assailed Hollywood moviemakers for concentrating on films of violence and murder. Among the examples it cited was "Annie Get Your Gun."

Rich Plan Provides Convenient Living

HAPPY RICH PLAN MEMBER — Mrs. H. H. Graham, 404 Powell, looks at the new Carrier Home Freezer Mrs. Graham is using as a new member of the Rich Plan. Roach at MO 4-3822, and John McPhillips, MO 4-4956, are representatives of the plan in Pampa.

In 1942 an appliance man in California had an idea. Home freezers were being perfected and manufactured and he had a warehouse full of them. But unfortunately the American public wasn't yet conscious of the vast potentiality of this latest creation. So John Rich took his idea to the Bank of America and the officers of the bank endorsed his plan wholeheartedly.

Mr. Rich started combing the country for the best in frozen foods and he featured only the best quality of meats. Rich Plan became synonymous with a better way of living. As the Rich Plan spread in other states quantity buying began to save its member more and more money on fine food.

Rich Plan began selecting only the best. An unconditional guarantee of quality and satisfaction, in writing, was incorporated. This even covered tenderness of meats.

This plan became more and more popular. It spread to neighboring states and now is in all 48 states. This assured members of constant supply of fine foods regardless of where they moved to and each member has a life-time membership. Rich Plan became a nation-wide and adds in many national magazines began to mention more people Rich Plan minded. The coveted Parent's Magazine commendation was awarded the Rich Plan.

To assure a constant supply of fine foods Rich Plan began requiring a higher quality than normal was available. At this stage they began processing many items under their own trade brand. These items had a more rigid standard of perfection than even USDA requirements.

To assure one of the finest home freezers available Rich Plan has been using Carrier Freezers exclusively. To all of this then was added a complete insurance program, insuring its member against all elements of loss of both the food and the storage unit. Food spoilage due to power failure, mechanical trouble, fire or theft. Fire, theft and accidental damage to the unit. And even the death of the owner.

To centralize, Rich Plan national headquarters moved to Dallas, Texas a few years ago. Hundreds of distributors, all over the country, of which Amarillo is one, are serving the entire nation.

Now Rich Plan is one of the largest

Buyers Cars

McBride has been a resident of Pampa for over 20 years, and has been in the automotive business for the past 12 years. He has operated the Pampa Garage and Salvage for more than 11 years.

His civic activities include work with boys in the Pampa Elks Club in which he is past exalted ruler. Pampa Garage and Salvage buys used automobiles and wrecked and burned cars. His skill and the skill of his mechanics brings savings to you in automobile and truck parts.

If you need parts for your car or truck stop first at Pampa Garage and Salvage, 812 W. Kingsmill, MO 5-5831.

NOT FOR JOHN DOE—Despite the anticipated life of more than 100 years for this replica of Thomas Edison's first practical incandescent lamp, General Electric officials say "it is no bargain in actual light output per penny." Ralph J. Cordner, General Electric President, turns on the light which will burn continuously on Edison's desk, now on display in lobby of GE's research laboratory at Schenectady, N.Y.
