PAMPA, GRAY COUNTY, TEXAS, TUESDAY EVENING, OCTOBER 14, 1930

BODIES AND AUTO FOUND THIS MORNING

Eldorado Banker and Youth Perish in Flood

SAN ANGELO, Oct. 14. (AP) — Two persons were drowned in the South Concho river at Christoval, 21 miles south of here, during the high water of the past few days it was revealed today.

The bodies of Earl Calhoun, 21, bookkeeper for the First National bank at Eldorado, and of an unidentified man, were found after an automobile was discovered in the bed of the receding stream. The unidentified body was believed to be that of E. M. Duke, son of a Del Rio blacksmith. The Del Rio man was en route here in an effort to make identification positive.

By the Associated Press

Flood waters that swept across Texas through rivers and creeks the past several days claimed three lives, it was revealed today.

The victims were:

R. W. Brown of Canadian.

Earl Calhoun of Eldorado.

E. M. Duke of Del Rio.

Brown was drowned today when he tried to ford Gageby creek on his horse, and Calhoun and Duke were thought to have perished Sunday night while trying to drive an automobile across the South Concho river at Christoval. Their bodies were found today near Calhoun's automobile, which had been carried downstream. They were last seen early Sunday night.

McLean Statute on Vending Held To Be Illegal

It is not necessary for vendors of apples and any other farm produce to pay a license or a tax to the city or to the state in order to sell those products on the streets of McLean or of any other town in the 31st district, regardless of city ordinances or of officers who attempt to enforce them, according to a ruling delivered by Judge W. R. Ewing here yesterday afternoon.

The court, in hearing the plea of O. H. Rice to be released from jail on the ground that he had violated no law in selling apples on the streets of McLean, held that the McLean city ordinance requiring vendors of farm products to pay $5 a day for a license to sell such produce, was unconstitutional and that such an ordinance was in contravention of the state statutes.

Mr. Rice was arrested Saturday in McLean on a charge of violating a city ordinance, and for selling apples without a license on the streets of that town. He was held in jail until yesterday when he demanded a habeas corpus hearing through his attorney, A. A. Ledbetter.

The court further held that any vendor or peddler of farm products is exempt from paying a tax or a license by the statutes.

Mr. Ledbetter, one of the witnesses in the hearing, testified that as city attorney of McLean he framed the ordinance under the direction of the city council after he had advised the council that such an ordinance was unconstitutional and could not be legally enforced.

Mr. Rice was released from custody of county officers immediately after the hearing.

HEIR TO MILLIONS TOILS IN OVERALLS IN OIL FIELD

Young du Pont Happy in $25 Week Oil Field Job

By NEA Service

PAOLA, Kan., Oct. 14—His family is one of the richest in the world, but young Edmond du Pont fresh from Oxford university, is toiling away in overalls for $25 a week as a day laborer in an oil field here—and enjoying it.

Du Pont's father, Francis I. Du Pont of Wilmington, Del., is a heavy stockholder and director of the Missouri-Kansas Pipelines Company, a subsidiary of which is laying a pipeline near here. And young du Pont is helping lay that pipe line, working his eight hours a day and seeing nothing out of the ordinary in it.

Edmond du Pont

"I don't see why it should interest other people if a young man who has as small a part in the world as I goes to work on a job like this," he says. "I have to earn my way through merit, just as the others do. Why shouldn't I work? My older brothers worked in the rayon mills after finishing their college courses. My younger brother, who is now in college, will do the same. I want to learn the pipe line business, and this is the way to do it."

A graduate of Princeton University, du Pont went abroad and spent three years at Oxford. As soon as he finished his work there he came to Kansas and took the pipe line job. When he went to work he did not know what his pay would be.

Incidentally, he lives within his $25-a-week means, does not drive a car and stays at a small hotel.

"I like the other workers," says this young heir to millions, "they treat me fine."

CONDITION OF FLIER IS SLIGHTLY IMPROVED—SHIP TO BE INSPECTED TODAY

A better chance to recover from critical injuries suffered in the crash of the Pampa Flying club plane Sunday morning near Pampa was given Jesse A. Clift at noon today by attending physicians at McKean & Connor hospital.

His condition noticeably improved during the night, it was reported. However, since 9 o'clock this morning there had been no change. He is now semi-conscious and has spoken several times. Until late last night he was unconscious.

Clift suffered a critical fracture over the left eye and severe internal injuries. Cal Baer, who was also seriously injured in the plane wreck, is rapidly improving. He was reported to be out of danger. Surgeons said last night that Clift had about one chance out of four to recover. He was better this morning than at any time since he was brought to the hospital. Whether a hemorrhage in his brain will prove fatal only subsequent developments will reveal, it was said.

Meanwhile, plans are being made by members of the Pampa Flying club to move the wreckage of the American Eagle ship as soon as possible after Inspector Delaney of the Department of Commerce arrives. Mr. Delaney is expected to arrive here this afternoon from Dallas. In a telegram received yesterday he said that he would inspect some time today the plane which is flattened on the plain two and one-half miles northeast of the city.

The ship hurtled to the earth striking flat, after both Baer and Clift had failed in attempts to bring it out of a spin. Baer, at the controls, was being given a lesson in stunting by Clift. When he found that he could not right the plane he surrendered the controls to Clift who eased the ship to the ground.

Murder Trial Moved

ABILENE, Oct. 14. (AP)—The murder case of Will Fritts was sent to Kent county on a change of venue today by Judge W. R. Chapman when called in district court. Attorneys on both sides agreed to the change.

Fritts is under indictment as a result of the fatal shootings of D. W. Hamilton and Earl Hamilton, father and son.

Kent Is Given 2-Year Sentence

A verdict of guilty and a sentence of two years in the penitentiary was assessed Aubrey Kent on a charge of forgery by a jury in 31st district court yesterday. Curtis Douglass, local attorney, who was appointed to serve during the illness of C. G. Engledow, district attorney, prosecuted the youth.

R. L. Hughes is being tried a second time today on a charge of robbery with firearms. A jury was unable to agree on a verdict last week Hughes is charged jointly with J. L. Warren with robbing J. R. Edwards in south Pampa at the point of a gun. Edwards testified that $4 in cash was taken from him. Warren and Hughes were arrested by officers of the sheriff's department shortly after the holdup near the Santa Fe tracks. Edwards declared that one of the two men who robbd him held a gun at his back while the other rifled his clothing.

Hanging Is Prevented

HOUSTON, Oct. 14. (AP)—A hanging attempt made by a 36-year-old prisoner at the North Side police station was thwarted early today. Another prisoner called the jailers, who found the man with a rope made of blanket around his neck. He had fastened one end to a cell bar and had jumped from a bunk. The prisoner was not seriously hurt. He had been arrested on a charge of intoxication.

HOOVER GETS SHARP BLOW BY CATHOLIC

Greeting to Lutheran Body Is Given Criticism

WASHINGTON, Oct. 14. (AP) — Language chosen by President Hoover in a message to American Lutherans for the anniversary this month of the Protestant reformation has brought denunciation from a Catholic source.

Father John J. Burke, secretary of the National Catholic Welfare conference, issued a statement last night asserting Mr. Hoover had clearly violated "the spirit if not the letter of his oath of office" in a brief greeting the chief executive wrote for the American Lutheran, a church publication.

Immediate answer came from the president's secretary, George Akerson.

"Any such suggestion or implication as that made by Father Burke," he said, "is an injustice both to the president's own sentiments and the complete religious tolerance he has always felt and has always advocated both publicly and privately."

Father Burke said the president had insulted millions of Americans but held it more important that he had congratulated one particular body "on the changes it introduced from older conceptions of religion and government."

The president's message was:

"I send cordial greetings to the Americans of Lutheran faith who are celebrating an Oct. 31 the anniversary of the Protestant reformation and the 400th anniversary of the reading of the Augsburg confession, from which date so many of the changes in point of view from older conceptions both of religion and government.

"The effects of these historical events are reflected in our national life and institutions, in religion through the predominant numbers of adherents to Protestant faiths and in government through the principle of separation of church and state. It is fitting that we should commemorate the persons and events from which mighty forces have sprung."

Father Burke said it was entirely proper for the president to send "a message of congratulation on the civic work done by Americans of the Lutheran faith."

"But," he added, "in the actual message which President Hoover sent to them, for the celebration of Reformation Sunday, the president clearly violates the spirit if not the letter of his oath of office as president of the United States."

He questioned the historical accuracy of the president's utterances also, asserting:

"Luther was not a champion of the separation of church and state, but a most arbitrary defender of state absolutism."

Oklahoma Bank Closes

BILLINGS, Okla., Oct. 14. (AP)—The Billings National bank was closed today by order of its board of directors. E. J. Becker, Jr., of Clinton, national bank examiner, took charge of its affairs. The bank is connected through its officers with a State bank at Covington which closed yesterday. Officers refused to discuss the closing of either bank.

Oklahoma Proration Holds

JOHNSON NOT TO TRIAL NOW

Murder Indictment Will Be Sought in Wheeler County

While there is a possibility that Tom C. Johnson, former Wheeler county deputy, will be tried during the present term of 313st district court on a charge of criminal assault, there is no likelihood that he will be tried here on the murder charge which grew out of the fatal shooting of George Brooks at Shamrock last Saturday.

The opinion was expressed this morning by Judge W. R. Ewing and Raymond Allred, district attorney-elect. The statutes require that Mr. Johnson must be indicted, if indicted at all, by the grand jury of the county in which the alleged murder took place, Mr. Allred explained. The next Wheeler county grand jury does not convene until the latter part of January, 1931.

In all probability, the case will be tried in Wheeler county, according to Mr. Allred, who will be prosecutor of the 31st district court when the Johnson case is set. "There would be no point to having the case transferred to Gray county because Mr. Johnson is well-known here," Mr. Allred pointed out. "If a change of venue is granted, the case would likely be sent to Miami, although the state will not likely ask for transferral of the case to another county."

It was also announced this morning that the state will contest any bail bond for which Mr. Johnson might apply on the ground that the death penalty could be assessed by a jury.

If the mandate remanding the case in which Mr. Johnson is charged with criminal assault back to Pampa for trial is received soon enough, the case will be set for trial during the current term. District Attorney C. G. Engledow announced yesterday before he left for Shamrock. A year ago, a Gray county jury gave Johnson a 10-year sentence in the penitentiary on a charge of criminal assault, but last week the case was reversed and remanded by the Court of Criminal Appeals, Austin.

KILLS FATHER IN DEFENSE OF HIS MOTHER

CLAREMORE, Okla., Oct. 14. (AP) —A 13-year-old farmer boy who shot and killed his father, supposedly in defense of his mother, awaited today a decision from Rogers county authorities as to whether he would be prosecuted.

The father was C. C. Bonner, 43, and the shooting occurred yesterday at the Bonner farm home near Chelsea. Mrs. Bonner told officers her husband knocked her down, placed one knee on her back and tried to strangle her after they had quarrelled. She cried for help, she said and the son came with a shotgun.

Bobbitt Undecided

AUSTIN, Oct. 14. (AP)—Attorney General Robert Lee Bobbitt indicated today he was no nearer a decision in the matter of instituting proceedings for alleged anti-trust law vialations in connection with the Dallas gasoline price controversy.

General Bobbitt, returning to his desk after being confined to his home with a severe cold for several day, said that he had made no promises to file suits under the anti-trust laws, as he was quoted by Dallas attorneys who interviewed him.

Canadian Man Drowns

CANADIAN, Oct. 14. (AP)—R. W. Brown was drowned in Gageby creek at his ranch 30 miles south of here today when he attempted to cross the swollen stream on horseback. His body was recovered.

Supreme Court Has Approved Laws of State

OKLAHOMA CITY, Oct. 14. (AP) —The Oklahoma Supreme Court today upheld the constitutionality of the state oil conservation laws and the jurisdiction of the corporation commission to administer them in the form of proration of the output of flush state fields.

The decision was issued in writ of prohibition suit brought by the C. C. Julian Oil and Royalties company, seeking to restrain corporation commission from enforcing its proration orders in the Oklahoma City field as to that company. John Head, attorney for Julian, attempted to withdraw the case recently when a similar decision was announced here by a Federal court of three judges, but Attorney General J. Berry King, who headed defense of the conservation laws, protested against dismissal and the court declined to drop the case.

The Julian company has joined hands with the Champlin Refining company to attack proration in the Corporation Commission which was designated by the Federal court as the body in which relief first should be sought before appealing to higher tribunals.

OKLAHOMA CITY, Oct. 14. (AP) —After the State Supreme Court today issued an opinion upholding conservation laws, the C. C. Julian Oil and Royalties company, litigants in the Supreme Court case, and the Champlin Refining company continued to lay the ground work in the Corporation Commission for another attack upon proration.

Proceeding slowly and making a voluminous record, apparently with a view of charging that large operators are fixing oil prices, attorneys for the two companies continued to cross examine A. V. Hoenig, vice president of the Itio company.

"Under police power, the legislature may regulate and restrict the use and enjoyment of and owners of natural resources of the state, such as oil, so as to protect it from waste and prevent infringements of the rights of others," the opinion continued. "Such legislature does not infringe upon the constitutional inhibition against taking property without due process of law, denial of equal protection or taking of property without just compensation.

"When numerous surface owners seek to produce from a common pool it is within the police power of the state in keeping with due process of law to require the several surface owners to produce under reasonable regulations to the end that some of the owners may not take from the

BUS TRAVEL IS DISRUPTED BY BAD ROADS—FARMERS HOPEFUL THAT WORMS HAVE BEEN KILLED

Bus travel from Pampa east was disrupted yesterday afternoon when both east and west bound buses were held up at Clinton, Okla., by high water and muddy roads. Only buses between Pampa and Amarillo were running this morning. Motorists who came from Miami this morning said that it was not necessary to use chains on vehicles.

Two bridges on the LeFors-McLean road, which were either washed out or incapacitated for travel, necessitated detouring almost to Alanreed in order to get to McLean. The roads are badly washed in Wheeler county, and Sweetwater creek on the Clinton-Pampa bus line has not been forded in two days. The cement dip at the crossing is six feet under water.

Thus far the gradually rising flood swirling down the Canadian river has had no effect on the Santa Fe railroad bridge at Canadian, L. W. Klein reported. The 59 bridge on the Clinton, Oklahoma and Western line, the terminal of which is at Pampa, are standing the impact of swollen creeks in an admirable manner, Mr. Klein said. No tracks in this division are under water.

Rain totalling .43 of an inch fell in this community last night. Wheat farmers throughout the section are almost unanimous in reporting the annihilation of the false wire worm which devastated many fields here before the current rainy season set in. "It is the belief of the farmers that the worms were drowned out, though Sloan Jones, etymologist of the Texas A. and M. college experiment station, says that the wheat outgrew the worms—which appear to have vanished as quickly at they came.

The cotton crop has been badly damaged in the McLean and Alanreed communities.

LAMAR BANK ROBBER FAILS TO DRAW GUN

Missouri Officers in Surprise Move Today

By the Associated Press

BRANSON, Mo., Oct. 14. —Jake Fleagle, long hunted leader of the bandit gang which killed four persons in the holdup and robbery of the First National bank of Lamar, Colo., was shot and wounded, possibly fatally here today by one of several officers.

Fleagle was struck by one shot as he started to enter a chair car on a Missouri Pacific train in which eight officers searching for him were riding.

One officer espied the bandit leader on the platform and informed the four others in the car with him. They waited until a few passengers alighted from the car and then confronted Fleagle with drawn pistols as he stepped in from the vestibule.

Some one called, "put 'em up." Fleagle, instead, reached for his pistol. One shot struck him in the abdomen.

The officers refused to reveal who fired the shot, saying they had agreed to keep it a secret. Witnesses said, however, that a redhaired officer had fired the shot.

The other three officers in another car were attracted by the shot.

Bandit Overpowered

Fleagle struggled with the officers but his pistol was wrested from his grasp before he fell unconscious. He regained consciousness later and admitted his identity. He also said he had participated with several others in the robbery of a bank at Larned, Kans., two years ago.

His identity was confirmed by finger prints.

Fleagle had purchased a ticket to Hollister, another Lake Taneycomo resort town nearby in the Southern Missouri Ozarks.

The eight officers who were on the train are: Joe Parham, Missouri Pacific special agent. Police Chief Hugh Harper of Colorado Springs, Colo.; Lieut. Harry Wilde of the Los Angeles police; Lieut. C. A. Lloyd of the Los Angeles detective force; H. H. Goodwin, St. Louis postal inspector; E. H. Kline, Los Angeles postal inspector and Lieutenant Nelson and Officer King of the Kansas City detective department.

Used Classified Ad

DENVER, Oct. 14. (AP)—Information gleaned from two of Fleagle's pals as they faced the noose at Canon City and "blind" want ads inserted in the classified columns of Kansas City and Wichita newspapers were mediums through which post office inspectors and police officers lured Jake Fleagle, alleged leader of the Lamar bank holdup gang to his capture, it was revealed here today.

R. A. Griffiths, postoffice inspector in charge of the Denver office, said he and other operatives talked with his two condemned pals, Howard L. Royston and George J. Abshier for several hours and were able to obtain only the faintest hints from the two as to where Fleagle might be found.

From the pair they learned, however, that Fleagle still had plans for other bank holdups and was attempting to get in touch with former cronies in Missouri and other states. The postoffice inspectors conceived the idea of inserting "blind" classified advertisements in Missouri newspapers which they hoped Fleagle would see. The advertisements requested Fleagle, who was designated in a way by which he was known to his old cronies, to

CLOSING OUR NATIONS DOORS

The Supreme Court's interpretation of our immigration laws recently has been that a foreigner may not be admitted to this country if the consul abroad is convinced that is "liable to become a public charge at any time, even during a considerable period subsequent to his arrival."

Many officials of more or less importance have been opposed to this ruling because they say it creates a dislike for the United States in the foreign nations. However there are others who approve of the ruling.

At present, it is possibly a good thing for the nation to do. The unemployment situation in this country is in a regrettable state. With foreigners arriving daily, things would become in a more strained condition.

Our nation can afford, if that is true, to create a little ill will while protecting home workers. The nation's duty is to take care of its own first and then it can extend its courtesies to beyond its borders. But it must be sure that the cures for its ills are not worse than the diseases of labor and industry.

THE DEAR OLD HUSSY

Geography explains many whims of Kansas. The state is an inclined plane, a parallelogram tipping up from 900 or a thousand feet above sea level on the east boundary to 2,500 of 3,500 feet on the west. And inside of that parallelogram, because of the slanting land dipping down from the high plateau, skirting the foothills of the Rockies, two or three states might easily be carved out, each different from the other.

Eastern Kansas lies rolling, creek-gouged prairie, hilly, covered with scrub oak, full of fertile valleys. Central Kansas is a high prairie with long, sweeping, grass-clad hills and wide valleys, small replicas of the great Nile. Western Kansas on the top of the world from 2,000 to 3,500 feeet high, is a flat plane, all veined seamed and gashed with draws and arroyas, leading down to sandy valleys in the northwest and in the central part, a flat plateau creased by the Arkansas river. In the southwest it is rugged in places and rolling in others like the billows of an angry sea.

Diversified agriculture is profitable in the eastern third. Cattle growing and fodder crops and dairying occupying the central third. Wheat, alfalfa and a short highly nutritious prairie grass grow in the western third. Corn grows up there only occasionally, and yet this year for some strange reason, the Kansas section of the seventh annual national corn husking contest as well as the third annual Kansas corn husking contest, will be held not in the corn country of eastern Kansas, but out in the far northwest, on the high plateau. Sherman county, for instance, will see the national event; Norton county, the state event. For this year, northwestern Kansas had plenty of rain, and for the first time in years makes its bow in the corn belt.

A whimiscal old girl is Kansas. You never know where she's going to break out next. Possibly in this decade some year we shall find the wheat belt moved along the Missouri line, and cattle kicking up their heels in the high plateau. Kansas geography makes three climates in one state, but they are by no means anchored. The shifting winds and fickle clouds may transfer one climate to an area where it is a stranger.

Kansas was born a flirt — maybe worse—Emporia (Kans.) Gazette.

"Texas History Movies" — By Patton and Rosenfield

"Many of the most important men —men who have accomplished the greatest things—have testified that they have achieved their success because of the loyal support and encouragement of some women — their mothers or their wives.

"It is considered that home-making requires little time and no special ability. But, on the contrary, it is a full-time proposition. In going outside for her career woman is cheating herself of her birthright. A woman needs motherhood to complete her life. And the privilege of making a home, of rearing children and guiding their lives is a woman's sacred heritage.

"Women have lost their prestige in their own sphere, that of homemakers and they have failed to gain its equivalent in man's sphere, for women still have a long way to go to achieve a measure of success comparable to that of man."

FEMININE FANCIES

BY ROLLYCE SELLERS

"It takes a heap o' livin' to make a house a home." Some of the finest and happiest homes I know have been made by women employed outside of the home, but I know for a fact that the strain of being both bread-winner and home-maker for a family is more than most women can do if they expect to retain their health and efficiency. Sometimes this is necessary, but when it is not necessary perhaps a woman should not attempt it. Therefore, in spite of the fact that I have advocated gainful occupations for women I am going to cite a few quotations from one woman none ther than Mrs. Thmas A. Edison, who believes the contrary. An interview on this subject was published in the November issue of Pictorial Review.

"It is because women are not doing what they should to make homes that we are facing an alarming restlessness," says Mrs. Edison, "a restlessness that is evident among our children and young people a well as their elders. The lack of peace and quiet for a good home environment produces this restlessness.

"As head of the house, woman occupies a most important and enviable position. Home-making offers woman the finest possible career. Running it well is the biggest business we have; and where a woman devotes her time to business outside she cannot maintain a home that offers a refuge from the turmoil of the day.

"Home-making is a business that should be learned from childhood. It is the mother who should teach the daughter the art of home-making by gradual stages of progression through guidance in her play, in acquiring social graces and accomplishments and the development of the right background for her future career as a home-maker.

"But home-making is more than the business of house-keeping. It involves spiritual and aesthetic qualities as well. In the first place, the home-maker must be well educated. She must have executive ability. She must be a good purchasing agent and must know how to buy intelligently. She must be something of a chemist in order to guard her family's diet. She must be an economist. She must be a gracious hostess, able to meet her husband's friends and to adjust herself to any condition.

"She should be versed in music, in art, in literature, and in the beautiful things of life so that she may guide and direct her children's training and so that she may entertain herself, her husband and friends.

VARIED BREAKFAST RECIPES ARE GIVEN BY MISS BULL

Hints For Quick, Easy Preparation Are Given At Pampe News Cooking School; Continues Through Friday

Varied and interesting recipes for breakfast dishes and suggestions for their quick and easy preparation were given by Miss Grace Bull, famed home economist, this afternoon in opening the Pampa News-Post cooking school. The school, which will continue each afternoon at 2:30 o'clock through Friday, is being held as a courtesy to women readers of the News-Post. There is no admission charge, and all interested are welcome to attend.

Wednesday's discussion will center around dinners and school luncheons, while Thursday will be devoted to suggestions for bridge luncheons and teas, and on Friday meats will be the center of interest.

Following are recipes for the dishes prepared by Miss Bull this afternoon:

Coffee Cake

Mix and sift 3 cups Gold Medal flour with two cups brown sugar, 1 teaspoon salt, and 1 teaspoon Schillings cinnamon; cut in 1-2 cup Crisco; reserve 1 cup of this mixture to sprinkle on top of the cake. To the remainder, add 2 teaspoons K. C. baking powder and mix well. Then add 2 eggs and 3-4 cup Gray County creamery milk and beat thoroughly. Pour into greased tin, sprinkle top with reserved mixture. Bake at 400 degrees for 25 minutes.

Fruit Muffins

Mix and sift 1 cup Gold Medal graham flour, 1 cup Gold medal white flour, 2 teaspoons K. C. baking powder, 1-2 teaspoon salt; add 2-3 cup chopped fruit (dates, nuts, raisins); then add 2-3 cup Gray county creamery milk, 2 tablespoons molasses, 2 tablespoons melted Crisco, 1-2 teaspoon Schillings maple flour. Bake in well-greased muffin tins at 375 degrees for 30 minutes.

Coffee Ring

Mix and sift 3 cups Gold Medal flour with 1-3 cup sugar, 3 teaspoons K. C. baking powder, 1 teaspoon salt; cut in 1-4 cup Crisco and add 1 egg and 3-4 cup Gray county creamery milk. Roll out to 1-4 inch thickness. Spread with softened butter and sprinkle with 3-4 cup raisins and 1-2 cup chopped nuts. Roll like a jelly roll. Bring ends together to make a circle; press together. Place in greased tin, cut slashes in outside edge 2 inches apart, and bake in a 375 degree oven for 25 minutes.

Pop Overs

One cup flour; 1-4 teaspoon salt 1 cup milk; 1 egg. Beat the egg until light; add milk and beat again then add the sifted flour and salt. Beat with a rotary egg beater until smooth. Fill hot well greased muffin tins half full. Bake at 450 degrees for 25 minutes. Then reduce the heat to 300 degrees for 20 minutes.

Gingerbread Waffles

Beat 2 eggs and add 1-2 cup melted Crisco, 1-2 cup brown sugar, 1-2 teaspoon each Schillings ginger and pastry seasoning; 1-2 cup molasses, and 1-2 cup Gray county creamery milk; beat thoroughly. Now add 2 cups Gold Medal flour sifted with 2 teaspoons K. C. baking powder, and stir in with mixing spoon. Bake in waffle iron same temperature as for waffles.

Broiled Breakfast

Broiled bacon; rolls eggs in tomato sauce; toast (Dilley's whole wheat bread).

Take 4 slices of Dilley's Big Dandy bread and crumble fine; add 1-2 teaspoon Schillings celery salt and moisten with 3 or 4 tablespoons of tomato juice. Place a tablespoon of filling on a slice of bacon and roll; fasten with tooth picks.

Place rolls on broiler rack with eggs in tomato sauce in pan beneath rack and slices of Dilley's whole wheat bread around the outside. Place all under flame and let broil. Breakfast will be ready in ten minutes.

Striking Clothes For Day, Evening Modeled By Stars

Smart is Bernice Claire's street ensemble (left) featuring the short Eton embroidered jacket with black and white buttons. The skirt is black Canton, box pleated. Clara Bow (right) can remove the bolero jacket from her frock of black crepe, and make it a more formal gown. The dots are silver and gold. The lapin ensemble with its tiny muff and youthful beret is chic for the young miss.

A SUPPLE FELT is used for this new version of the beret. The crown is tucked and draped low on one side and held by a band of the felt with a gold metal buckle.

Hallowe'en Motif Favored in Party At Hughey Home

The spirit of Hallowe'en was reflected in all details of a bridge party given last Friday evening by Mrs. I. B. Hughey in her home, 321 N. West street.

At the close of the games, Miss Fannie Florence Sims was favored for high score among the young ladies, Jack Dunn for high score among the men, and Miss Johnnie Ruth Williams for high cut.

Seasonable refreshments, pumpkin pie, coffee, and fruit were served during the evening.

Guests included Miss Kathleen Beaty, Miss Fannie Florence Sims, Miss Lucile Henry, Miss Fannie Elizabeth Corson, Miss Louise Miller, Miss Margaret Buckler, Miss Arless O'Keefe, Miss Jonnie Ruth Williams, Miss Madeline Tarpley, Miss Lucille Saunders, and Miss Stevens; Messrs. Clifford Whitmore, B. O. Dilley, Durgan, Delaune, Jack Dunn, Oscar Dial, George Dodgin, T. P. Duncan, Cecil Miller, James Fox, I. B. Hughey, and LeFors.

Will 'Wasp Waist' Return? Madame Binner Says 'Yes'—If Demanded By Style; Take Steps to Prevent It

NEW YORK, Oct. 14. (AP)— The first harpoon in a whalebone war was hurled today.

Mme. Binner, Fifth avenue corsetierre, called a conference of eight New York corset manufacturers in an effort to obtain concerted action preventing the return of the "wasp waist."

Mme. Binner, who corseted Lillian Russell's famous figure in the days of Diamond Jim Brady and who numbers society matrons and actresses among her clientelle, declared a conviction that the present fashion trend toward smaller waists was in reality the first step in an attempt to bring back the hourglass figure.

"Don't tell me women won't go back to pinching their waists if fashion demands," she said. "They may say they won't—but they said they wouldn't come back to long skirts too.

"They're coming to me today — women of 45 and girls of 18—crying for small waists as a baby cries for candy.

"They see one of the new frocks and the saleswoman says they must have a small waist to wear it. Advertisements, fashion stories— everything they read about style—tells them waists are much smaller. Now, how much is 'much'? The women don't know. They read figure measuresments by the yard telling them that for a certain height they should have a certain waist measurement.

"Those figures pay no attention to weight and bone structure. They're nonsense. If we don't nip this business in the bud it will go on until women's waists are pinched as they used to be and their health suffers accordingly."

Mme. Binner said she found no fault with styles as they exist today. The present mode, she declared, is a natural one and as such reveals figures to the best advantage.

High School Annual Staff to Be Elected

Candidates for the high school annual staff will be voted upon by the student body at the regular chapel period Wednesday morning at 9:30 o'clock.

The new staff will begin work immediately and is expected to complete the book one month before the close of school.

Mr. and Mrs. Carson Loftus made a trip to Amarillo, Sunday.

Study Group Will Meet On Friday

All members of the Woodrow Wilson P.-T. A. are urged to attend a special study meeting at the school building Friday evening at 7:30 o'clock.

These study meetings are held on the third Friday night in each month in order that both the mothers and the fathers of children may attend. They will comprise both study and a program, the program to be composed chiefly of numbers by different pupils in the school and the studies to be conducted by leaders in the field of child study and child welfare. All studies will branch off of the subject discussed Friday night, making it highly important that members attend this first meeting.

Following is the program for Friday night: Piano selection, Miss Kathleen Beaty; song, "If I Had a Talking Picture of You," Mary Sue Murry; reading, "Harry's Mistake," Lois Dean Walvers; dance, Doris McGee; piano selections,"Palonaise" (Chopin), "Valick" (Mokreys), Miss Louie Barton.

Supt. R. B. Fisher will be leader for the evening. He has chosen as his subject, "Atypical Children."

ITHACA, N. Y., (AP)—Bart Viviano, stocky, hard driving back, is called the nearest approach to George Pfann that the Cornell football team has had in years.

Morrow Comes Out For Return of the President

NEWARK, N. J., Oct. 14. (AP)—The campaign of Dwight W. Morrow for United States senator was under way today after an opening speech in which he eliminated himself as a candidate for the presidency in 1932.

He repeated his stand for repeal of the Eighteenth amendment and restoration of state rights in the control of liuor which he announced at the opening of his primary campaign five months ago.

He praised the administraton of President Hoover, stressing especially the work of the London disarmament conference to which he was a delegate.

Regarding statements which have linked his name with the presidential candidacy in 1932, he said.

"I have the right to say, especially in view of the wholly unauthorized statements made during the primary campaign about my position, that I look forward with pleasure and with confidence to the opportunity of voting two years from now for the renomination and re-election of President Hoover."

His reference to "unauthorized statements" was taken to mean speeches of supporters during the primary campaign who suggested him as a presidential possibility.

Wichita River Is Receding Now

WICHITA FALLS, Oct. 14. (AP)—After driving about 1,000 families from their homes in the lowlands, backwaters of the Wichita river and flood waters from Lake Wichita began to recede today.

Another two-foot rise in Lake Kemp was experienced, however, bringing waters of the lake to a new record depth and making a total rise of 6.6 feet at the lake within the past 10 days.

Not only were residents of the poorer sections of the city forced to vacate their homes during the heighth of the worst flood since 1915, but several homes in the Country club estates, an exclusive residential district, were flooded with several inches of water.

Chicago Man Is Shot Down

CHICAGO, Oct. 14. (AP)— Dave Emmett, 35 years old, whose career has been wrapped for many years in politics and gambling lost a race with an assassin's bullet late last night.

A man jumped to the running board of a parked automobile at the wheel of which sat Emmett. The man, pistol in hand, cursed Emmett and shouted: "I'm going to let you have it!"

Emmet, who appeared to recognize the man, shouted to Stephen Platon, his companion in the car, to "duck." The gambler then leaned forward and threw the car into gear in an effort to hurl the gunman off the running board. At the same time, the man fired.

The bullet entered Emmett's body under the left arm and penetrated his heart.

Paul Shines For Huskers

LINCOLN, Neb., (AP)—Marvin Paul of Fremont looks like he is going to furnish the Cornhuskers another threat for high scorer in the Big Six conference. Getting into only three practice sessions due to injuries, in the game with the Texas Aggies, Paul smashed through five first downs in four minutes.

Now who can say pigs aren't modern enough?

Her Children a Joy

"When I was not more than 13 years old mother taught me never to take spells of biliousness, indigestion and sour stomach lightly," says Mrs. C. E. Hauck, whose home is at 1310 Boyle St., in Houston. "She started me taking Herbine then, and what a blessing it has been for me! My four children are always well, with good appetites and a big store of energy. Any time one of them gets a little sluggish, breath is bad or I see the tongue becoming coated, I give him a teaspoonful of Herbine."

Herbine is a vegetable liquid so concentrated you only have to take a teaspoonful to get results. Herbine does nothing more than keep the stomach and bowels active so gas can not constipate you, make you bilious, dyspeptic or suffer from sour stomach, sick headache and indigestion.

Berlin Police Quell Rioting

BERLIN, Oct. 14. (AP)—After an hour of fighting police quelled rioting in the vicinty of the Potsdamerplatz early today.

The dsturbance developed when theater crowds stopped to see the destruction wrought by Fascist bands yesterday during a riot incident to opening of the Reichstag.

Rowdies saw an opportunity to start window smashing all over again and perhaps to profit by pillaging. They insulted the police, who cleared the Potsdamerplatz with their clubs after an hour's encounter.

Karl Zoergiebel, chief of police, said virtually none but fascists had participated in the attacks on Jewish stores yesterday. Police patrols, both mounted and afoot, guarded the business section of the city today.

Omaha Loses Golfing Pair

OMAHA, (AP)—This city has lost one of its best golf families. Foye Porter and his wife will move to Montclair, N. J., this month. Porter annexed the men's title this summer at Slepy Hollow country club, and his wife took the women's championship at the same club.

Physician's Bags Stolen

Miss Grace Bull

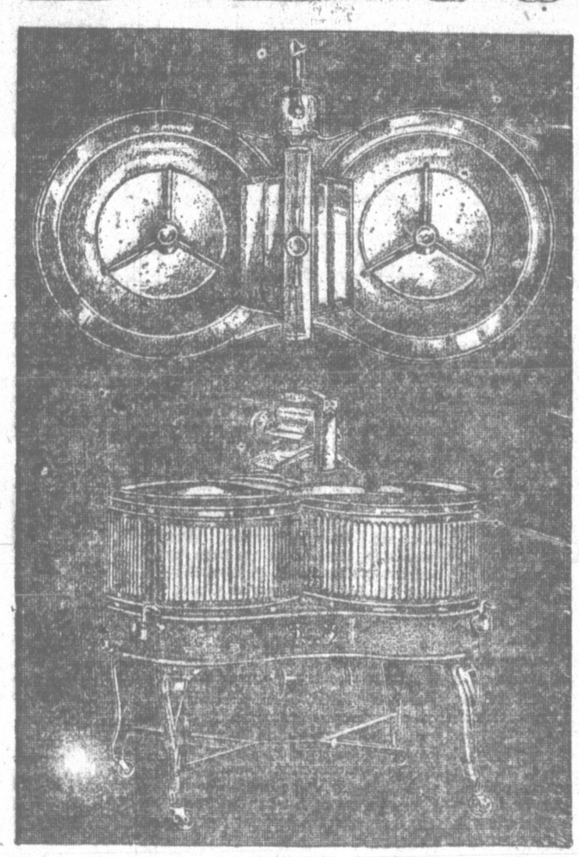

who will conduct the News-Post Cooking School, has the following to say about the new DEXTER FASTWIN WASHING MACHINE:

IN SPITE of much washer advertising to the contrary, the truth is, that in order to keep clothes permanently free from "that all-over grayish tinge" and "that harsh feel"—it is absolutely necessary to either use chemicals—or boil the clothes—or run them through "two successive suds."

Good Housekeeping Institute and other authorities advocate the latter method—"two successive suds"—as being even better than soaking and boiling.

Boiling is not, of course, convenient with any type of washer, and there is only one washer in the world with which the superior "two successive suds" method is thoroughly convenient—that washer is the sensational new

DEXTER Fastwin

At The NEWS-POST COOKING SCHOOL

1 Even for a small washing the Dexter "Fastwin" saves handling at least one tub of water, and saves time and effort, as compared with any single-tub washer properly used.

2 The Dexter "Fastwin" can wash properly at least twice as much clothing per hour (including all operations from hamper to line) as any single-tub washer made.

3 Only by the "2 suds" washing method (which is thoroughly convenient only with the Dexter "Fastwin"), can that "grayish tinge" and that "harsh feel" be kept out of clothes month after month, without soaking or boiling.

4 The Dexter "Fastwin" thus offers a very substantial and easily demonstrated advantage over any single-tub washer that is, or ever can be built—even though The Dexter Company builds the finest of single-tub washers, also.

5 Builders of fine washers for more than a quarter century, The Dexter Company originated the double-tub type of washer 16 years ago, and the first one ever made is still in weekly use.

6 More than 100,000 delighted users say they could never again be satisfied with any mere single-tub washer.

Champion Horned Frogs Are Young but Large

MEMBERS OF SQUAD UNDER BALLOT AGE

FORT WORTH, Oct. 14. — The Texas Christian university football squad may be able to beat its way to a second conference championship this year, but, collectively, it can not vote, for the average age of the 40 members of the squad is but 20 years and 10 months.

There are four members of the squad who are but 18 years old — T. W. Carpenter, Waco; Lon Evans, Fort Worth; Newsome Gay, McKinney, and Norman Welsh, Dallas. The oldest man is but 25—Howard Baxter of Dallas.

Don't get the idea, however, that the Horned Frog squad is not made up of men when it comes to size. The heaviest man, who tips the scales at 215 pounds, is one of the four youngest—Evans. The lightest is Gordon Copeland of Cleburne, who weighs in at 145 pounds. Cy Leland weighs but 158. The average of the squad is approximately 174 pounds, varying, of course, slightly from week to week. The total for the squad runs from 6900 to 7000 pounds. The average height of the Frog players is 5 feet, 10 inches.

Thirteen members of the squad will be lost to T. C. U. through graduation after this year. Seven of these are players who have lettered in previous seasons, and it is probable that some of the remaining six will letter this season. Twenty of the men are getting first year's experience as members of the varsity squad.

Eleven of the T. C. U. players live in Fort Worth, with the remaining 29 distributed among 20 Texas cities and one Oklahoma. The out-of-state player is Clyde Roberson, Duke, Okla., veteran end with two varsity letters.

The 11 Fort Worth players include Ben Boswell, tackle; J. C. Boyd, end; Roy Eury, tackle; Lon Evans, tackle; Harlos Green, full; John Hirstine, center; Cy Leland, quarter; Richard Oliver, half; Johnny Baught, guard; Vance Woolwine, quarter, and Hal Wright, half.

Other on the squad, their positions and home towns are: Noble Atkins, center and captain, Crystal Falls; Howard Baxter, end, Dallas; Buster Brannon, half, Athens; Leo Butler, guard, Holland; T. W. Carpenter, guard, Waco; Gordon Copeland, quarter, Cleburne; Bob Ell Cox, tackle, Anna; Hubert Dennis, half, Memphis; Adolph Dietzel, end; San Antonio; Newsome Gay, half, McKinney; Austin Griffith, full, Maypearl.

John Hammond, full; Memphis; J. W. Hinton, quarter, Cleburne; Foster Howell, tackle, Commerce; Standard Lambert, guard, Temple; Othol Martin, end, Jacksboro; Ray McCullough, end, Bryan; James O'Brien, guard, Olney; S. L. Phelps, half, Abilene; Madison Pruitt, end, Waco; Dan Salkeld, end, Abilene; Jack Shackelford tackle, Abilene; Paul Snow, half, Winnsboro; B. W. Spearman, half, Jermyn; Wendell Sumner, full, Athens; Otha Tiner, half, Waco; H. W. Townsend, center, Lufkin; and Norman Welsh, tackle, Dallas.

Three Men Are Needed to Broadcast

BY C. E. BUTTERFIELD
Associated Press Radio Editor

NEW YORK (AP)—It takes three men to broadcast a football game. One of them, an observer, never gets on the air, and another, a research man, never even gets to the game.

To the listener, the most important of the trio, of course, is the man who gives the graphic word picture of what is taking place in such a hurry on the turf-covered spot of ground over which his eyes dart.

In this particular instance, the voice is that of Ted Husing. He is the young sports announcer on the Columbia Broadcasting system.

When Ted goes to the gridiron, he is fortified by two right hand men. One of them—the observer—he takes along. It is the observer's duty to help Ted keep track of the play and the players running about helter skelter.

The observer, sitting close to the microphone, says little if anything to Ted lest his voice mix into the broadcasting.

Information is conveyed to the announcer through an ingenious signal device consisting of a small cabinet containing a row of lights, beside each of which there is the name of a football player.

When a particular player does something, the observer presses a button that lights the light alongside his name and Ted knows about whom to talk.

The announcer also watches the play, but it has been found that two pairs of eyes are better than one where speed and mixups make it difficult to follow everything that goes on.

It is the duty of the research man to keep Ted supplied with all possible data about the teams involved in the particular game being broadcast for possible use in a recital of the day's event.

This job often takes up a week's time, the material being valuable in checking records.

While Ted doesn't confine his announcing to sports, that angle of broadcasting for him is his lifeblood. For he himself played football in his younger days.

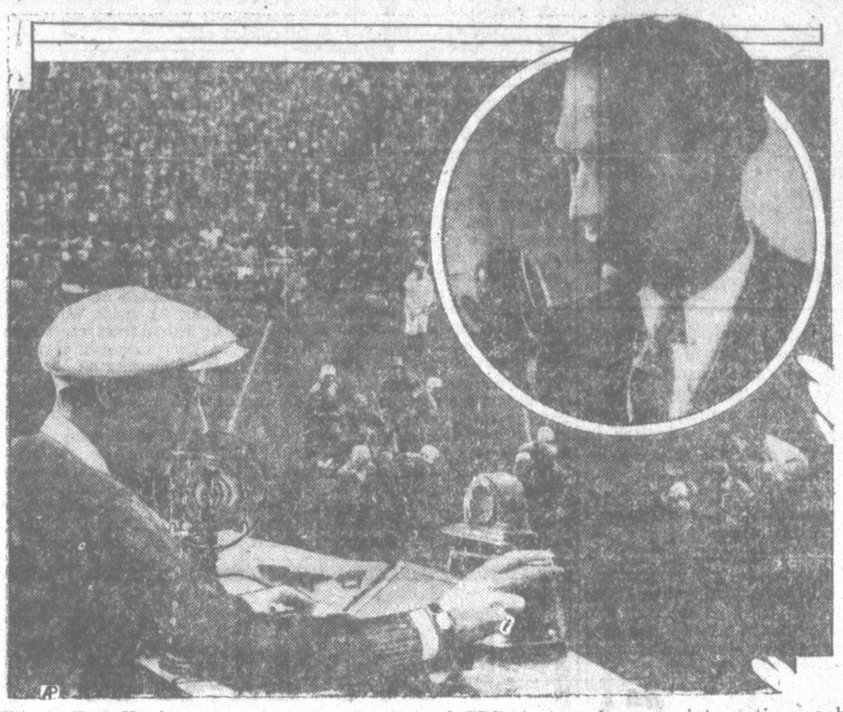

Husing has described on the air about every kind of sporting event that can be put into words, from international yacht racing to the world series.

Ted began his radio career with WJZ, and finally landed at WABC before its purchase by CBS.

This active young man is tall and slender. Just now he wears a tan that seems an inch deep.

Ted likes to spring new words on his audiences, and for that purpose he is a close reader of the dictionary.

And the sport from which he himself gets the greatest thrill is a motorcycle-paced bicycle race.

This is Ted Husing, star sports announcer of CBS, just as he goes into action each Saturday afternoon during the football season. Sans his football broadcasting paraphernalia, as the inset shows, he puts on a more dignified appearance.

Matadors Will Battle Miners

LUBBOCK, Oct. 14. —The Tech Matadors take on the Texas School of Mines, Oct. 17, on the Tech field and every indication shows that this will be a game worth watching. Considerable interest is brought forth in that this game will be a coach versus his old player, Mack Saxon, former T. I. A. A. full, is head coach at the Mines and was under Cawthon at Terrill Prep school and also at Austin college, before going to Texas university, where he made All-Southwestern full. He has long been noted for his brainy work on the field as a player, and now has entered the coaching field with the same success. Cawthon rates Saxon one of the greatest and smartest players ever to play under him. Too, the Texas Tech assistants were fellow players with Saxon at Austin college, as Golightly, Smith, and organ were hustling with Saxon to win the T. I. A. A. championship in 1923. Therefore, this Tech-Miners game should be a thriller.

The following week, Oct. 25, will witness the Horned Frogs of T. C. U. taking Cawthon's men in the new stadium at Fort Worth. Last fall the Frogs defeated the Matadors 22-0 in Lubbock and every indication points to a much better game this fall. The Lubbock men are very anxious to show that part of the state that they can show more this fall.

The athletics situation this fall is much better at Texas Tech in that the spirit has improved with the players. With only very mediocre players, some from intra-mural, some without high school experience and a few letter men, Cawthon is whipping together a team that stands out as a real fighting aggregation. He has a big problem in building the very poor material, the worst in Tech's history, to meet that of other outstanding teams. Tech's team this year is doing one thing—and that is fighting. Win or lose, if Cawthon can keep his men doing that the first year will have been a success, considering the very poor material. With a good freshman team hopes are brighter for a better team in 1931.

Bill Hallahan, Cardinal southpaw, who weighs around 160 pounds, and is about a head shorter than Lefty Grove showed a fast ball in the world's series that equalled that of the Athletic ace.

AL SINGER IS DUE TO FIGHT FOE TONIGHT

CHICAGO, Oct. 14. (AP)—Al Singer, lightweight champion of the world, will display his talent for the first time in Chicago and the middlewest, tonight in the stadium, in a 10-round non-title engagement with Eddie Mack of Denver.

The champion today was a big favorite over the Mexican law student, but the latter had considerable support because of his sensational showing against Tony Canzoneri a year ago. Mack lost by a technical knockout in the eighth round, but was forced to give up when he suffered a sprained ankle after holding the former featherweight champion even.

Twin Brothers May Play For Penn Next Year

STATE COLLEGE, Pa., Oct. 14. (AP)—In this day of deceptive football, Penn State may show some real deceit next season.

Twin brothers have reported to Coach Bob Higgins as candidates for the football squad. Although they have turned out in uniform, they will not be eligible until next year.

They are Howard J. and Leonard I. Schneyer of Philadelphia. They previously attended the University of Pennsylvania for a year.

TEDDY WATERS, NEXT OPPONENT FOR ROSE, IS PUPIL OF NOTED CHAMP FARMER BURNS

Wanted: A wrestler who can throw Jack Rose—no matter how.

The Shreveport boy is a hard customer to get rid of. "Why use another man to defend the local mat prestige while you've got me?" queries the handsome guy who is frankly proud of his prowess.

Rose figures that there is but one middleweight around here who can throw him away, and that is Clingman, who is incapacitated owing to an injury received while wrestling with a truck tire. But Rose believes that he will catch Clingman at the moment of recovery and defeat him. That is why he is so anxious to stick around until Otis recovers.

Teddy Waters has been nominated for the task of eliminating Rose from the picture. Waters made a good reputation in these pampas about 4 years ago, and he is a greatly improved grappler now, according to press accounts of his matches He is a former pupil of Farmer Burns, famous old champion and wrestling coach.

Waters is tall and blond, and, according to his friends, "as clean as a new plow." He is loosely knit and sinewy. His temper is rather well known. Loving scientific wrestling, he is "no gentleman" if his opponent starts the rough stuff.

Riled, the two men will appear much alike in tactics, it is predicted. Preliminares have not yet been announced. Tickets are on sale at the Diamond Shop.

Following His Brother's Grid Record in 'Bama

UNIVERSITY, Ala., Oct. 14. (AP)—Ben Smith, Alabama end, is following in the footsteps of his older brother, Earl.

Earl played fullback on the 1925 freshman team and on the 1926 varsity. The following year he was shifted to end, and at the close of the season was elected captain for 1928.

He played a sparkling game as captain and was hailed as one of the outstanding wingmen of the conference.

Ben plyed fullback on the 1928 yearling team, and subbed for Tony Holm at the same position last year. During spring training he was moved to end and looked so good there that he has remained at a flank since then.

Smith is over six feet tall, weighs 195 pounds, and is especially adept at snagging forward passes.

BOSTON BUYS ANGEL FIELDER

BOSTON, Oct. 14. (AP)—The Boston National league baseball club today announced the acquisition of Wesley Schulmerick, classy Los Angeles outfielder, and William McAfee, Chicago Cub pitching recruit, in a deal which sent pitcher Bob Smith of the Braves to Chicago and outfielder Tommy Welsh to the Pacific Coast club.

Landis Must Make Decision

CHICAGO, Oct. 14. (AP)— Baseball Commissioner Kenesaw M. Landis, today had under advisement what should be done, if anything, about Freddy Lindstrom's failure to produce an all-star baseball team to play in the middlewest.

Louis Batchelor of South Bend, Ind., charged that Lindstrom, star third baseman of the New York Giants, had promised to organize a team to play in Indiana and Southwestern Michigan. Lindstrom's failure, he said, had caused him financial loss. Lindstrom said players on whom he had counted had decided to do something else, hence, no all-star team.

CUBS' BUYING OF MATERIAL VERY BRISK

CHICAGO, Oct. 14. (AP) — The latest flourish of William Wrigley's checkbook has made Lester Sweetland, a lefthanded pitcher, a member of the Cubs, and other flourishes, calculated to bring the National league championship back to Chicago, may be expected soon.

President William L. Veeck of the club, yesterday announced the purchase of Sweetland from the Philadelphia Nations, for whom the southpaw worked during the past three seasons. The deal was strictly cash, and while Veeck did not reveal the amount involved, it was reported that the Philly treasury is $25,000 better off.

In announcing the purchase of Sweetland, who won six games and lost 15, according to unofficial figures for 1930, Veeck said the deal was "the first move toward bolstering up the pitching staff." He did not say who might be the next hurler purchased, but more reports said Rogers Hornsby wanted another hurler whose contract belongs to the Phillies.

JUST HOW SAFE ARE YOU AT HOME?

IF YOU think of danger in terms of trains, steamships, airplanes, automobiles, machinery and the like, please remember that more than 7,000 lives were lost last year in American homes as a result of fire.

More than 60 per cent of all fires occur in homes. The "safety" of your hearthstone loses some of its assurance when you consider this record of tragedy.

To improve such conditions the Stock Fire Insurance companies—representing the great bulk of fire insurance written in this country—maintain many helpful services.

For Greater Home Safety

The Department of Building Construction operated by the National Board of Fire Underwriters spreads a vast amount of information regarding building materials and their proper assembling.

Stock Fire Insurance engineers constantly survey the fire defenses of cities and work with public officials to improve them.

Underwriters' Laboratories, established by Stock Fire Insurance, tests and labels thousands of devices used in the home —electrical apparatus, convenience equipment, heating plants, fire extinguishers and utilities of many descriptions.

STOCK FIRE INSURANCE

has a large personnel and many facilities that are always available in connection with construction, maintenance, protection, and fire prevention. Its record in reducing the average cost of fire insurance over a long period of years is partly the result of its efforts to make home life safer.

Chicago Grain

CHICAGO, Oct. 14. (AP)— Wheat: No. 1 mixed 77 1-2.

Corn: Old No. 1 mixed 82 3-4; No. 1 yellow 82 1-4 to 83 3-4; No. 1 white 88 3-4 to 89.

Corn: New No. 3 yellow 78.

Oats: No. 2 white 35 3-4 to 36 1-4; No. 3 white 35 3-4.

Wheat closed unsettled 1-8 to 1 7-8c a bushel higher than Saturday's finish. Corn closed 1-8 to 1 3-8c up, oats 1-4 to 5-8c advanced, and provisions unchanged to a rise of 32c.

Wheat Is Lower

CHICAGO, Oct. 14. (AP)—Sharp setbacks in Liverpool wheat quotations resulted in a decided early downturn today of all grain values here. Every delivery of wheat in Chicago touched a new low price record for the present crop.

Some complications in Chicago trading resulted from a change or rules so that dealings were both in new and old style contracts, but brokers quickly adjusted their operations to fit the altered circumstances

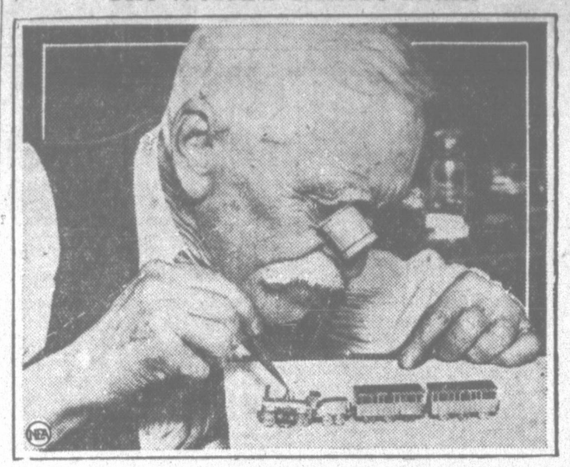

Opening 1 1-2 to 3c a bushel lower, wheat afterward recovered somewhat.

Corn started 1 1-8 to 2 3-4c off, and soon rallied to a moderate extent.

The World's Tiniest Train

Here we have the world's tiniest train—and, for its size, one of the world's costliest—made by J. Martin, a watchmaker of Walthamstow, England, who is shown here. It is constructed entirely of gold and silver, the engine is 1⅝ inches long, the whole train is only eight inches long and it runs by clockwork on a track four feet six inches in length, taking 2½ hours to cover the distance and traveling at a speed of about three miles a year.

met his old friends at a certain place in Missouri.

The postoffice inspectors also revealed that notes recently written Governor Adams of Colorado and the Attorney General of Kansas had been positively identified as Fleagle's handwriting.

Notes Are Traced

Copies of the handwriting were placed with postal clerks in every postoffice in Missourt and Arkansas.

The notes were mailed in railway postoffices between Carthage, Mo., and Newport, Ark., and this gave the postoffice men an idea of where Fleagle was in hiding.

The newspaper advertisements were inserted over a period of days and today was the appointed time for Fleagle to seek the rendezvous. Postal inspectors were fearful that he would not take their "bait." Chief of Police Harper of Colorado Springs, who knew Fleagle by sight, was requested to be at the appointed place to aid in identifying the alleged holdup man if he did appear.

"Apparently the plan worked," Inspector Griffith said today when told of the capture.

Fourth of Gang

LAMAR, Colo., Oct. 14. (AP)—William Harrison (Jake) Fleagle, who was shot today at Branson, Mo., was the fourth member of a gang which pillaged the First National bank of Lamar, Colorado.

Three of his companions in the robbery are dead. The trio—Ralph E. Fleagle, brother of Jake; Howard L. Royston and George J. Abshier—were convicted of slaying A. N. Parrish, president of the bank and one of the two men shot down as they attempted to thwart the holdup, May 23, 1928.

All three were hanged in July at the state penitentiary in Canon City.

Jake Fleagle was implicated in the robbery and the subsequent murders, two of which took place in Kansas while posses scoured hundreds of miles of western Kansas and eastern Colorado "bad lands" for a trace of the bandits, by his brother in a confession made at Colorado Springs a years ago last July. The confession led to the arrest of Royston and Abshier, the former in California and the latter at Grand Junction, Colo.

Three Are Convicted

Prowers county juries found the three guilty of murder in the first degree and sentenced them to hang a year ago this month, and the state supreme court upheld the convictions.

The murders with which the bandit quartet was charged were those of the bank president, his son J. F. Parrish, Jr., Dr. W. W. Wineinger of Dighton, Kans., and E. A. Kessinger, bank teller who was kidnaped to discourage pursuit.

common source more than their equitable share."

The pinion cited that the Supreme Court of the United States had upheld the Wyoming conservation law and had ruled that the legislature had power to lay down general rules for the protection of the mineral rights of adjacent land owners, leaving enforcement details to an administrative board.

The Federal Appelate court also had upheld the right of the Texas Railroad Commission to prohibit drilling of welsl nearer than 150 feet to a property line withou special permission and a Kansas statute regulating drilling on town lots.

Waste, the opinion said, was defined by the Oklahoma law and there is nothing to indicate that the Corporation Commission cannot determine it. The commission's finding of production in the Oklahoma City field is far in excess of transportation and marketing facilities, "clearly states a case of physical waste," the decision said.

The terms used to define various kinds of oil waste are no more technical than those used in the gas conservation law which has been upheld by the Supreme Court, the opinion said.

Kills To Negroes

LEXINGTON, Mo., Oct. 14. (AP)—Two unidentified negroes who attempted to rob F. Fitzgerel, filling station operator on U. S. highway No. 40, a mile south of Aullville near here, were shot and killed early today by Fitzgerel.

Nomineed Decided

SAN ANTONIO, Oct. 14. (AP) —Albert Hausser, formerly sheriff of Maverick county, was declared the Democratic nominee for sheriff of Bexar county by Judge W. S. Anderson in 37th district court here today at the conclusion of testimony and arguments on a suit brought by Alfonso Newton, Jr., incumbent, contesting his nomination.

Bandits in Disguise

MERIDEN, Minn., Oct. 14. (AP)—Two bandits with charcoal smeared faces held up the First State bank of eriden today, stole approximately $2,500 and fled in an automobile driven by a third man. The holdup was the 24th bank robbery in Minnesota this year.

Trains Discontinued

AUSTIN, Ost. 14. (AP)—An order authorizing the T. and N. O. railroad to discontinue passenger trains 173 and 174 betwen Galveston and Houston was issued today by the state railroad commission.

Mrs. Hill Leads

LOS ANGELES COUNTRY CLUB Los Angeles, Oct. 14. (AP)—Continuing her steady play Mrs. O. S. Hill, of Kansas iCty, medalist, defeated Miss Bernice aWll of Oshkosh, Wis., 4 and 3 today in a first round match of the 1930 women's national amateur golf championship.

CHAPTER XLII

It found its mark on Garry Sloan's nose and the big director staggered. And then he came on like a giant fury, snarling, and in a moment Rorimer went to the pavement beneath a smashing blow, with an agonized cry from Anne Winter ringing in his ears as he fell.

He scrambled up again, brushing Anne aside as she sought to interfere, but Sloan was too big for him. The director was on him at once, eyes blazing, swinging mighty fists, and one of them connected solidly with Dan's chin and the lights went out.

When he opened his eyes again Sloan was bending over him with a worried look on his face. Blood was flowing from his nose. It ran down in a dark rivulet over his mouth and chin. He said anxiously, "Are you all right, Rorimer?"

Dan nodded and managed a feeble smile. An anvil clanged in his head and Sloan was a hazy vision to him, kneeling there with one arm around a girl who slumped beside him and shook with violent sobs. He could feel the man's other hand beneath his neck, propping him up.

Sloan's strained features relaxed at the other's smile. "Sure you're all right?" he repeated, and Dan assured him he was. To prove it he got up unaided and stood on his feet.

"I'm sorry, Rorimer," the director said: "Sorry as hell. I went off my nut." He turned his attention to Anne then and pressed his mouth to her ear and told her not to worry. "It's all right, Anne; everything's all right again. Buck up now."

Things slowly became clear to Rorimer again, as though he were emerging from a fog. He put his fingers against his jaw and they touched a tender spot where Sloan had hit him and knocked him unconscious, and he suddenly felt that never before in his life had he been as ridiculous as this; for there was Sloan with his arms around the trembling Anne Winter—the Lord only knew what happened to Anne—and here he was rubbing a sore chin after a bad licking. All because he had stuck his nose into somebody else's affairs.

He felt the spot gingerly again. Lucky that his jaw hadn't been broken for his pains. Just a big fool.

Sloan had been decent, too—very decent—more so than he had a right to expect. He ought to be sore. Dan went over to him and he said, "I'm sorry—terribly sorry. It was my fault, the whole thing. I made an awful sap of myself."

"It's all right," the other assured him with a bloody grin, and he held out his hand for Rorimer to shake. It was his left hand; the other arm was around Anne Winter. "We all fly off the handle once in a while, I guess," Sloan smiled. "Forget it. Forget it and say something to her, will you? I can't get a rise out of her. She's scared out of her head."

Sloan himself spoke soothingly to Anne again, but his words had no effect. So Dan held her and murmured into her ear while the director wiped his face with his handkerchief; he rubbed her wrist and patted her shoulder, and talked to her, and Anne's convulsive weeping continued.

He looked up at Sloan and shook his head. Having removed most of the blood from his face, Sloan now plucked at his chin and gazed thoughtfully at the distracted girl. "There's nothing to worry about, I believe." He assured Rorimer. "She's just a bit hysterical, that's all."

"It's all my fault, too," Dan murmured in self-reproach, but Garry Sloan smiled and said he was not so sure of that.

"I contributed my bit," he remarked, and he looked thoughtful again. And then he took hold of Anne and pulled her gently to her feet and held her there. He spoke sharply to her.

"We're going back, Anne. Come along. We're going back on the set and you're going through that scene. Understand?"

Rorimer heard voices not very far off, coming nearer to them the crew most likely, coming back for the "shooting."

Sloan heard them too. He raised Anne's chin, compelled her to look at him and listen to what he said. "Come on, Anne, we're going back."

And he nodded to Dan Rorimer to come along. "You and I have a little cleaning up to do" he smiled. "What the others don't know won't hurt then. . . . Feeling better,

Anne nodded. With Sloan on one side of her and Dan on the other, she walked back to the studio.

Paul Collier that night heard a strange story. Dan came home, wild of eye, with a marked face and dirty clothes, and Collier took one look at him and his mouth fell open in amazement.

"Well." he demanded. "What hit you?"

"You'd be surprised," Dan replied with a grin, and he sat down and related what had happened.

"You mean to tell me you took a punch at Garry Sloan?" Paul once interrupted unbelievingly.

And Dan laughed. He could laugh now, although he was not any less the fool. "You should have seen what he did to me. He knocked me colder than a herring. You could have counted a hundred over me."

He went on with his story. "And I'm a son of a gun if he didn't make her go back and go through that scene again! And she went through it like a million dollars. Tie that one," he finished.

Collier settled back in his chair and stared. "What a story!" he exclaimed softly. "What a story! It's the best yarn that's cracked in Hollywood in a year." He grinned. "Can I use it?"

"Can you what?"

Collier threw an arm up over his head and shrank from an imaginary blow. "All right. All right. I was just kidding. Don't throw any punches at me." He said, "What did Sloan do? What did Anne do?"

"Just what I'm telling you. He talked to her for a while. Sat in her dressing room with her and told her she simply had to go through with it. And I'm telling you she did, too. I stuck around to hear part of the playback and then I beat it. She's absolutely going to steal the picture."

"Didn't you take her home?"

"Me take her home? Do you think I was going to stick around after what happened? Nothing doing; I ducked out. What a goof she must think I am—swinging on Sloan that way."

"They eat that up, my boy."

"Yeah?" Dan rubbed his chin and smiled ruefully. "Gee, how that guy can hit!"

Paul chuckled and lazily stretched out a long arm for a cigaret. "You sure went out of your class," he observed, measuring his friend with admiring eyes. "But I don't think there's anything so remarkable in what Sloan did afterward. I mean about making Anne do her stuff. The same thing's been done before, under different circumstances, of course. He just caught her in the right mood and grabbed his chance, that's all. He knows his stuff. . . . But what do you think of Garry Sloan now? Is he a director or isn't he?"

"I'll never say another word against him," Rorimer promised. "I know when I'm licked."

Pretty thoroughly licked, he thought—in more ways than one.

Waiting for Sloan to appear the next morning, he felt a few misgivings. They had parted friends, but he had not ceased to reproach himself for his foolishness; Sloan, he feared, might not be so pleasant about it now that he had had a night in which to think matters over.

But the director was cordial when he came, and he took Dan to one side and told him to forget what had happened.

"No one has to know a word about it. No one was there but the three of us. It doesn't have to go any farther."

"One of the camera men gave me a funny look last night," Dan told him with a smile. "He must have thought something."

"That's all explained. I told him you stumbled over a step in the dark."

"I'm just a sap."

"Sure you are," Sloan said cheerfully, "but you'll have to take credit for one of the biggest scenes in the picture."

He ran his fingers through his blond mop of hair. "She'll be a great actress yet, Rorimer. Watch her. I guess I was pretty tough on her last night," he admitted, "but sometimes you have to be in this business. . . . Has she been around today?"

"I haven't seen her."

Anne did not appear at all that day. There was nothing more for her in the picture now. There remained only the war sequences, in which she did not appear and which were to be made on location. And Dan was relieved that he did not have to face her. There had been no talk between them—nothing; he had remained in the background while Sloan brought her around to doing what he expected of her.

The following day, though, he saw her. The publicity department had arranged a luncheon appointment for her with a newspaper writer. Anne came early, and Garry Sloan discovered her and took her to the projection room forthwith to look at the last rushes and hear his praise.

"Great, Anne. Absolutely great!" Sloan's manner said: "Tell me, now, that I was right." And Anne told him.

From the window of his office Dan Rorimer saw them walking across the court in the bright sunlight. Sloan had his arm around her and Anne's face was smilingly upturned to his. She looked very happy, and Dan, with a queer little smile, turned back to his work.

Later on in the day, as he was passing through the hall downstairs Anne's voice called to him from one of the publicity offices and she came out to him.

He said abruptly, "I want to apologize for what happened the other night."

"You needn't." Anne smiled at him. She did not look tired now. Her eyes were bright and gay.

"I lost my head, thats all. I'm sorry. I guess you think I'm an awful roughneck."

"Why, Dan! You don't believe that." She shook her head. And she added softly, with a direct look into his eyes: "You couldnt be a roughneck if you tried, Dan. You—you're too much of a gentleman."

Dan said, "Thank you, Anne," and he left her then and went upstairs to his office.

Anne stood there in the hallway and watched him go. She stood there and watched his back disappear around the stair corner, and for some strange reason then she thought of the lines of a song that Dan had asked her to sing for him. The last time she had sung for him. . . . And she knew that she had been quite blind not to have realized that she loved him very dearly.

So she went to him.

Dan was bending over his typewriter when she came in. His elbows were propped on the ledge and his chin was buried in his hands. Anne closed the door behind her and he looked around at its sound.

"Why, Anne!' He rose at once.

She smiled at his astonishment. "Aren't you going to ask me to sit down?" she asked.

"Why of course. Sit down, Anne."

What she had to tell him she was already telling him with her eyes, but he looked very uncomprehending Dan should have known, she thought, but in many ways he was a strange young man. Under the circumstances there was only one thing to do.

So she looked at him steadily enough, though her hear was pounding and her cheeks were flaming, and she said, "Dan, do you remember the night you asked me to marry you?"

Dan's mouth twisted strangely. Remember it!

"I hope you still mean it, Dan," she told him, "because I'm no longer uncertain."

The door was shut, but it would have made no difference to Dan if all the world had seen.

Millionaire Leader

NEW YORK, Oct. 14. (AP)— A millionaire will lead the orchestra in the new Ziegfeld musical comedy, "Smiles."

Paul Lannin, who inherited his fortune from his father, the late Joseph J. Lannin, former owner of the Boston Red Sox baseball team, said he accepted the offer because he "loves conducting an orchestra better than anything else in life." He also is a composer.

MENUS for the FAMILY

BY SISTER MARY
NEA Service Writer

Whole meals cooked in the oven at one time are a boon to the busy housewife. The constant watching usually necessary for top-stove cooking is eliminated, leaving time for other things, and a worthwhile economy of fuel is effected.

Everything can be prepared earlier in the day with each food put into the pan in which it is to be baked. Then, at the proper time, the oven can be lighted and the prepared dishes put in. The meal will cook without attention while other things are being done and will be ready to serve when wanted directly from the oven.

Meals of this type can be prepared in two ways, using either long or short periods. Long cooking periods demand a low oven temperature while short cooking periods necessitate a high temperature. The housewife who wants to spend an afternoon "out" can put her dinner in the oven before she leaves and come home to find it cooked ready to serve if she regulates her oven to a low temperature.

Careful Planning Necessary

Foods for the whole oven meal should be chosen with some thought. Those which can be cooked at the same temperature and for approximately the same length of time must, of course, be selected when the entire meal goes into the oven at once. However, very often a most satisfactory combination can be worked out in which the temperature remains the same by the cooking periods vary. Foods which require the longest time for cooking are put in the oven first and the others are added with sufficient time allowance to insure their being done when wanted for serving.

The stove which is equipped with an oven heat regulator is ideal for the meal practically can be forgotten when the food is placed in the oven and the regulator adjusted to the desired temperature. If a regulator is not part of your equipment, an oven thermometer insures an accurate temperature.

DAILY MENU

BREAKFAST — Stewed dried apricots, cereal, cream, poached eggs, crisp toast, milk, coffee.

LUNCHEON — Onions stuffed and baked, molded carrot salad, cranberry whip, milk, tea.

DINNER—Oven dinner (long time), Cannelon of beef, scalloped potatoes, buttered string beans, orange and green pepper salad, lemon meringue pie, milk, coffee.

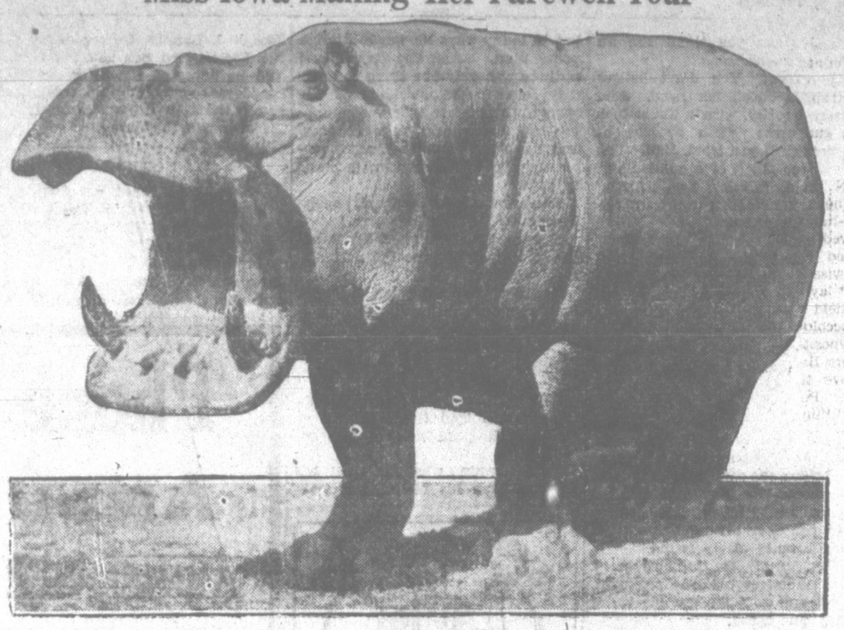

For long time oven meals, the meats are seared at a high temperature, 450 degrees F., for 30 minutes. Then the heat is reduced to 275 degrees F. and the whole meal cooked for three hours or longer.

The short-time oven meals are managed by searing the meat for only 20 minutes at a high temperature. Then the heat is reduced to 400 degree F. and the whole meal cooked at this temperature for one hour.

Pastry or tart shells, cookies or anything which requires a high temperature can be baked while the meat is being seared.

Vegetables such as peas, carrots, beans or asparagus are cooked, covered, in a small amount of water. Less salt is required for seasoning when vegetables are cooked in the oven.

Miss Iowa Making Her Farewell Tour

Whoever heard of a farewell tour of a hippopotamus? Nevertheless, one—known throughout the whole world—as Miss Iowa, is beginning this year the last lap of her years of travel. It is all because she is too fat. She is quite young—only seven years old. Yet she tips the scale to some four or five tons and her transportation is a matter that the management of the Robbins Bros. circus, coming to Pampa on Friday, October 17, have decided is entirely too much. It is merely a matter of dollars and cents and the mighty dollar wins by declaring that Miss Iowa would be a financial success by remaining permanently in home quarters. Probably one of the factors that has caused the circus people to arrive "at a farewell tour" is that each year Miss Iowa requires a new cage with its accompanying bath room. That sort of a thing is costly when one has to be built each year on account of the added weight of the "land-water-lubber" from the African jungles.

Miss Iowa consumes 100 pounds of food daily which is another item of cost that is worthy of her keeper's attention, and may have had something to do with the decision. The Robbins Bros. circus is the largest coming to this city this year and in fact is the largest in the world giving a street parade.

Cooking School Note

In the cooking school conducted under the auspicies of the News-Post Miss Grace Bull stresses modern methods of cooking. Naturally then, she uses and recommends CRISCO, the modern shortening.

Perhaps Ramses II ate cakes like these

"THE charming art of cake-baking probably originated with the Egyptians," says this old cook book called "The Panthropheon or The History of Food." Gorgeously sweet and filled with spices were these Egyptian cakes. Can't you imagine an old Egyptian cook puzzling out the hieroglyphics which meant Yum Yum Gems? And then hunting around for the spiciest spices, the sweetest honey and a delicate shortening?

No hunting around for a delicate shortening now—for your corner grocer has Crisco with its fresh, sweet flavor sealed in an air-tight can—a fresher, sweeter flavor than you ever imagined a shortening could have! A shortening, too, so fluffy you don't need to cream it. Think of how much time that saves in making cakes!

YUM YUM GEMS

½ cup Crisco
1 cup brown sugar
1 cup sour milk
2 cups flour
1 teaspoon soda
½ teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon cinnamon
1 teaspoon nutmeg
1 teaspoon ground cloves
1 cup raisins
½ cup walnut meats, chopped

Blend Crisco and sugar. (Notice how easily Crisco wraps itself around every tiny grain of sugar. That's what makes a fine textured cake.) Add sour milk. Stir in sifted dry ingredients and add raisins and nuts. Pour into Criscoed cup cake tins or paper baking cups and bake in moderate oven (350° F.) for 15 or 20 minutes, or until done. This recipe makes about 18 cakes. Ice with the following icing:

Boil 1½ cups of brown sugar and ⅓ teaspoon salt with ½ cup of water until it spins a thread (232° F.). Pour ½ cup of this syrup over the stiffly beaten whites of 2 eggs, beating while so doing. Put the remainder of the syrup back on the fire and cook until it forms a soft ball in cold water (238° F.). Add this syrup slowly to original mixture and beat until it's of the consistency to spread.

Try this one on your husband

A cake like this, flavored with coffee and put together with Crisco, whose own delicate, fresh flavor allows the taste of the coffee to predominate, is truly a "man's cake."

A MAN'S CAKE

½ cup Crisco
1 cup sugar
2 eggs, separated
1 teaspoon vanilla
2¼ cups flour
2 teaspoons baking powder
½ teaspoon salt
1 cup cold strong coffee
¾ cup walnuts, cut up

Put sugar, egg yolks and Crisco into mixing bowl together and blend in one operation. (This procedure is new—and possible only because Crisco comes to you already creamed.) Then add alternately the sifted dry ingredients and the coffee. Stir in nuts and flavoring and lastly fold in the egg whites beaten stiff. Turn into Criscoed tube pan and bake in moderate (350° F.) oven for one hour. Cool and ice with:

1 cup brown sugar, ½ cup granulated sugar, ⅓ teaspoon salt cooked with ½ cup strong coffee until it spins a thread (232° F.). Pour ½ of syrup slowly over 2 egg whites beaten stiff and beat as you pour. Cook remainder of syrup till it forms a soft ball in cold water (238° F.) and add to icing. Beat until it's of the consistency to spread.

* * *

And when you haven't time to bake cakes at home it's nice to know that you can go to a nearby baker or grocer and buy delicious cakes made with Crisco. Most good bakers do use Crisco, I've found. And when a baker is so particular about this shortening, he's apt to use the very best of other ingredients.

About New York

By RICHARD MASSOCK

NEW YORK.—Beniamino Gigli's first thought on awaking in the morning is about his voice.

Still in bed, he thrusts back covers, stretches himself, fills his lungs. Then, chest out, head thrown back into his pillow, he emits a long: "Hm-m-m-m-m-hm!"

And then, "Ah-h-h-h-h-ah!" And, La-la-le-li-lo!"

Satisfied, he jumps from bed and is about bath and breakfast.

But if a film of huskiness blurs those golden tones of the Metropolitan tenor, calamity shrouds the household. Servants tip-toe and the family hides while he paces the floor.

He pours floods of coffee down his precious throat and, cut in hand, rubles scales, drags "tid-bits" from repertoire, wrings out unwilling arias.

By noon, perhaps, the huskiness fades and the voice is clear as a bell again. Then the sun, so far as the Giglis are concerned, may shine once more.

But if it has failed to clear, a telephone call to the Metropolitan management notifies them that a substitute must be engaged for the evening. Gigli is "in bad voice."

Fortunately for him and operagoers, that rarely happens.

TENOR'S YOUTH

Gigli was born in Recanati, Italy, March 31, 1890. He still calls Rome his home. There he has a 60-room house, principally, he says, for the comfort and accommodation of his friends.

Friends and family are his chief interest. He talks, eats, plays power with them—excludes them only from his solitaire games. Solitaire he plays by the hour, telling his fortune over and over, although he admits no faith in what the cards say.

He has two children, Ester and Enzo. He made his opera debut as Enzo in "La Gioconda." He served in the Italian army in 1909-1911 and again in 1915. He came to the Metropolitan 10 years ago.

As a boy, Gigli was by turn druggist's clerk, duchess' waiter, photographer's assistant and tailor's helper. He was fired from each job because he spent his time singing.

Billiards, begun as a pastime, became a means of support. Often he stopped at a billiard parlor with a single lira and emerged hours afterward with money for several days. Vocal lessons at Santa Cecilia were free.

LIKES JAZZ

He reads a great deal, principally poetry. He is fond of bicycle racing and vaudeville. Jazz bands amuse him and he applauds them as he himself likes to be applauded.

Practice occupies only a little of his day.

"Once you've learned it," he says, "you know it — if you have the voice."

A new role, however, until mastered, receives unrelenting attention. Coat and collar are flung into a corner and he sings for hours, usually with a cigaret between index and middle finger. He smokes incessantly, until the air about him is blue.

He prides himself on being a singer, rather than an actor. Yet he watches that future shadow. There is always a masseur in the background.

"Spaghetti," he says, "is not good for a Romeo figure."

CONVICTS BUILD FOUNTAIN MEMORIAL TO 320 VICTIMS OF OHIO PRISON FIRE

Convicts of the Ohio penitentiary have built this memorial fountain to the 320 prisoners who died in the Eastern Monday fire.

COLUMBUS, O. (AP)—From the embers of the Easter Monday fire at the Ohio penitentiary has risen a memorial fountain to the 320 convicts who perished.

It was designed by architects whose real names have been changed to numbers, and it likewise was built by the convicts themselves.

The new fountain replaces an old one which has been damaged and discolored by winds and rain, and finally was blackened by the blaze that swept the "I" and "K" cell blocks in one of the most disastrous of prison fires.

The fountain is a Grecian urn, Corithian in style, atop a simple frieze work.

It was George Richmond, who is serving a 20-year term for bank robbery and who is editor of the Penitentiary News, who aroused interest in replacing the old fountain. Warden Preston E. Thomas readily agreed to the project.

"Imprisoned men dread drab surroundings," said Warden Thomas, "and they earnestly seek beauty. The fountain idea became popular."

Many of the prison fire victims were trapped in their cells, beating helplessly against barred doors which guards could not open.

See "Black Hand"

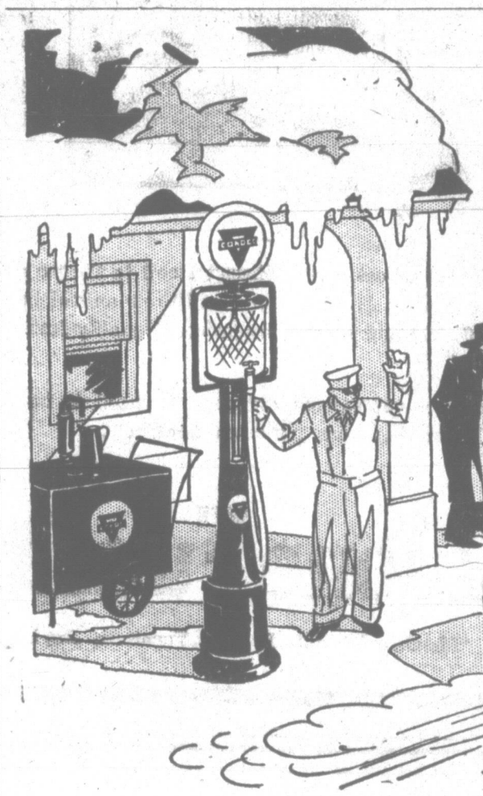

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 14. (AP)—The nebulius trail of an alleged black-hand organization was being followed by police here today as its reputed leader, Gennaro Broccolo, otherwise "Broccolo the Magnificent," lay dead and Ralph Esposito was held as the slayer.

Broccolo was found shot to death in Esposito's home. Esposito told officers Broccolo had demanded $50 to save the Esposito family from death. Police said Esposito admitted killing Broccolo.

Production Has Steady Decline Defies Death

TULSA, Okla., Oct. 14. (AP)—The downward movement in the country's crude oil production continued last week, with Rocky Mountain and Oklahoma fields leading the way.

The Oil and Gas Journal estimates the daily average production in the United States for the week ended Oct. 11 at 2,361,657 barerls, a decline of 16,988 under the preceding week's figure.

The largest decrease was in the Rocky Mountain area, where the output was 100,950 barrels, a drop of 12,769. With a production of 548,645 Oklahoma was down 9,240 barrels. The Oklahoma City field was responsible for the decline, its output showing a loss of 18,200 barrels. Other Oklahoma areas gained, however, to reduce the state's decrease.

The total for the Mid-Continent area was down only 2,688 barrels, including both light and heavy gravity oils. The area's production was placed at 1,358,819 barrels. Increases in Texas fields served to offset the Oklahoma loss. West Texas production was 272,789 barrels, a gain of 2,655; North Central Texas 106,474, a gain of 2,776 barrels, and the Texas Panhandle, with an output of 79,300 barerls, was up 1,026. Kansas production was little changed at 115,620 barrels, a decline of 120.

Eastern fields made 114,000 barrels, or 4,000 under the preceding week.

California light oil production was 503,0000 barrels, an increase of 3,500 and the state's heavy oil output was 88,000, an increase of 500 barrels.

Minister Now Facing Charge

CARROLLTON, Oct. 14. (AP) — Freed on bond of $500, the Rev. W. W. Woodson, Baptist minister, today faced formal charges of violating an infantile paralysis quarantine in conducting religious services his followers believed to be preparatory for the end of the world.

Joe H. Miller, prosecuting attorney, filed the formal charges yesterday to enable Mr. Woodson to be freed on bail. The bond was supplied by members of a "surrendered band," a group of 50 members of the congregation who accepted the minister's prophesy and defied with him the quarantine order, which prohibited public meetings in churches, schools and theatres.

Cotton Merchants Out to Educate Entire Business

NEW ORLEANS, Oct. 14. (AP)—Reminders of business depression and the recent stock market crash, credited with lowering the price of cotton, were rejected today by scores of cotton merchants, manufacturers, bankers and government business heads as they started out to spread their program of confidence in the cotton industry calculated the revive the price of cotton to a cost plus basis.

The cooperative platform adopted almost unanimously last night in a nation-wide meeting called by the American Cotton Shippers' association at the request of Robert P. Lamont, secretary of commerce in President Hoover's cabinet, recognized that "cotton at the present level is below the cost of production," and concluded that this being the case, it is a safe commodity for investment."

The extile industry, described as "in a very unhealthy condition" at present but not devoid of features of optimism, was asked to anticipate the spinners needs for the 1931-32 season, "and even periods beyond in view of the acreage reduction that must follow the severe decline in prices that has taken place."

"With abundance of money available through the banking institutions for liberal advances on cotton at the present price" for the cotton producers, merchants and spinners, said the platform, "the farmer should be counselled:

"To go ahead with the harvesting of his crop before the elements damage the quality; but to sell as little as possible at the present level, to store the remainder in a dry place and hold for better prices, also to make a very substantial reduction in cotton acreage for next year."

Candidacy of Democrats Hit By Republicans

LITTLE ROCK, Ark., Oct. 14. (AP)—Democratic leaders today greeted with silence the political bombshell tossed into their ranks last night by the state Republican party which challenged the eligibility of Governor Parnell as Democratic nominee through alleged violation of the state corrupt practices act by excessive expenditures in the primary campaign.

Osro Cobb, secretary of the Republican state committee and director of the Republican campaign, questioned an opinion from the attorney general relating to the charged violation, and then announced an injunction would be sought from Pulaski county circuit court restraining the secretary of state from placing the governor's name on the ballot for the November general election.

The Republican move, coming as a surprise, took on added weight in view of the closing of time for certifying candidates at midnight tonight.

Provisions of the state corrupt practices act forbid a gubernatorial candidate from exceeding a $5,000 limit in campaign expenditures.

Mr. Cobb, in his letter to the attorney general quoted the sworn statement of expenses filed by Governor Parnell, which listed a total expenditure of $5,950.35.

Battle Will Be Described on Radio

How a band of only 12 American soldiers routed 600 armed Filipino insurrectionists in close combat will be vividly described when Major Frank L. Anders is heard in the second of the "Chevrolet Chronicles," to be broadcast locally from station WDAG on Thursday, at 8:30 p. m.

Major Anders hold the congressional medal of honor, the highest award within the power of the government to grant for valor in action, and saw service in the World War as well as in the Philippines. Major Anders received this distinguished honor while a mere buck private attached to "Young's Scouts," a small band of sharp-shooters who preceded the main army of General Lawton. Lawton's troops were sent to the Philippines to subdue insurgent armies on the islands following the acquisition of the Philippines by the United States at the close of the Spanish-American war.
