EARLY HEARING IN LUBBOCK FAVORED

MEETING IS HELD HERE MONDAY; RATE MEN TO BE EMPLOYED

Favoring an early hearing by the Interstate Commerce Commission to be held in Lubbock and outlining plans for the gathering and presentation of evidence to support the application of the Texas and Pacific railroad to build an extension from Big Spring north to Vega, an executive committee from cities included on the route of the proposed extension closed a meeting in this city Monday afternoon.

The meeting was presided over by Garland Woodward, of Big Spring, with John H. Boyle, of Levelland, as secretary.

Experts To Be Employed
Employment of a firm of rate experts who practice before the commission to conduct the case for the towns will be made. Funds amounting to approximately $2,000 were apportioned and requests made of the several towns to have the funds in the hands of Arthur P. Duggan, Littlefield, by October 1.

A luncheon was served the visiting delegations here yesterday noon at Hotel Lubbock with the local chamber of commerce as host. A. R. Davis, manager of the chamber, presided and welcomed the visitors to Lubbock.

Speakers on the proposal included E. S. Howe, Littlefield; R. M. Kendrick, Brownfield; M. C.

Lindsey, Lamesa; Charles Ingram, Vega; A. B. Davis, Lubbock; F. R. Friend, Spencer Wells and Tom Duggan, Lubbock.

To Employ Counsel
On motion of A. P. Duggan, seconded by M. C. Lindsey, Chairman Woodward and John Slaton were authorized to employ a counsel. The name of Oliver and Donnelly, of Washington, D. C., was mentioned favorably.

George E. Lance, of Morton, representing Cochran county, announced that his county had been given assurance by officials of the Texas and Pacific that they were interested in building a line into that county. "We are behind the Texas and Pacific in this application," he declared. The crowd voiced its approval.

A committee of one from each town to arrange an apportionment of the fund for counsel was named. A. P. Duggan was made chairman, with F. R. Friend, Lubbock; C. T. Watson, Big Spring; R. M. Kendrick, Brownfield; John H. Doyle, Levelland; B. D. Woodlee, Dimmitt; E. S. Ireland, Hereford; Charles Ingram, Vega; S. R. Simpson, Lamesa; S. J. Cole, Amarillo, and George E. Lance, Morton, members.

Apportionment Made
The committee retired and in a short time announced the following apportionment: Big Spring, $700; Ackerly, $50; Lamesa, $200; Brownfield, $300; Levelland, $250; Morton, $50; Littlefield, $300; Dimmitt, $200; Hereford, $250; Vega, $80; Lubbock, $400. Later it was voted to ask that Amarillo pay $300, making a total of $2,910.

George Lance of Morton offered the motion asking Amarillo to pay $300 as its share. Also it was decided that in the event of a balance, that it be prorated among the towns contributing.

Oilton Man Talks
Pat Campbell, Oilton, announced that his community had asked the Texas and Pacific to be included on the route and that there was given the chamber of commerce definite assurance of interest on the part of the railroad. "If we get the chance to be on this new line you can depend upon Oilton to do its part."

Chairman Woodward called on S. J. Cole, traffic manager of the Amarillo Chamber of Commerce, to discuss some of the items entering into the preparation of a brief to present to the I. C. C. Mr. Cole, who has appeared before the federal commission on numerous occasions in similar hearings, mentioned the need of showing the probable tonnage to be found in the territory, the population and other information.

Mr. Cole also said that "influence" had very little to do with the securing of the permit, that the commission dealt in facts and necessity. Mr. Cole was also added to the executive committee, with F. R. Friend, of Lubbock. Other members include: W. W. Evans, Lamesa; John H. Doyle, Levelland; A. P. Duggan, Littlefield; Fred Smith, Brownfield; Charles Ingram, Vega; John Slaton, Hereford; C. J. Mapes, Dimmitt; A. F. Davenport, Ackerly and Garland Woodward, Big Spring.

A. B. Davis offered a motion asking the West Texas Chamber of Commerce to endorse the proposed railroad project.

In the party attending the meeting were: S. J. Cole, Amarillo; T. A. Singer, I. B. Brooks, B. D. Woodlee and C. J. Mapes, Dimmitt; E. S. Ireland and John P. Slaton, Hereford; L. S. Kennedy, C. E. Bly, H. P. Webb and Pat B. Campbell, Oilton; Arthur P. Duggan, J. S. Hilliard and E. S. Rowe, Littlefield; C. T. Watson and Garland Woodward, Big Spring; John H. Doyle, Levelland; M. C. Lindsey and S. R. Simpson, Lamesa; George E. Lance, Morton; J. M. Barlow, James H. Smith and R. O. Sudberry, Earth; R. M. Kendrick and A. J. Stricklin, Brownfield; Charles Ingram, Vega, and F. P. Friend.

THE PLAINSMAN

Says:

WHAT Girl on Broadway says if all the people who live in boarding houses were placed side by side they would probably reach

That above wise-crack sounds so good you'd think it came from the regular Plainsman but a substitute in the saddle and riding the herd today so don't go loon and stumped until we get the last line of this galley rounded up, please.

Substitute-Plainsman has watched the regular Plainsman shoot the public his line of boakum in this department of Lubbock's leading evening newspaper (the others come out in the morning, so we're safe in this statement at least) for the past five years and he wonders how he does it and keeps steady customer. Still, he manages to fill it up with something every day that after one gets started to reading it they just keep on to see if he is going to say something later on. Even his employees here in the office are caught reading it ever so often. It's a gift.

SPEAKING of gifts, brings the Sub-Plainsman's thoughts to the fund which is being raised in New York for Sir Thomas Lipton, venerable Irish sportsman who has spent $5,000,000 in the past thirty years endeavoring in efforts to take the America's cup winner's trophy in the International yacht race back to his home country. Sir Thomas has always taken his defeats in true sportsmanship, never alibing or making charges against his competitors. Will Rogers suggested the American people raise a fund to give "The Americans' Cup" to Sir Thomas in tribute to his game spirit.

Over $1,000 had been raised for that cup to go to "the world's best loser." No doubt, Sir Thomas will feel as though he really won after all as he leaves American shores for England again, never to return in yachting competition.

To the Sub-Plainsman's mind, there can be no greater tribute paid in any sport than to be acclaimed a "good loser."

Clipped: May be of interest. Figures do not lie unless they happen to be on the score of a miniature golf course.

Regardless of whether Lubbock gets the spur route of the Texas and Pacific extension from Big Spring or not, she will at least create greater good will by working wholeheartedly for the cause. A visitor at the meeting here yesterday, remarked to another visitor (overheard by the Sub-Plainsman) that he "liked" old Lubbock, they always do things in a big way here and whenever they get after anything they generally always get results. And they don't work all the time to see that Lubbock is benefited alone. That's a loving cup for Lubbock.

That Man on Avenue Q says there are only two classes of men, the single and the broke.

SUB-PLAINSMAN can't get so bothered about the Tech students walking in the streets as the regular one but he has a plan to offer in solution of the problem. The Sub-Plainsman says a college student once himself and he had to walk humpback blocks or more two or three times a day and he can sympathize with the boys at the college.

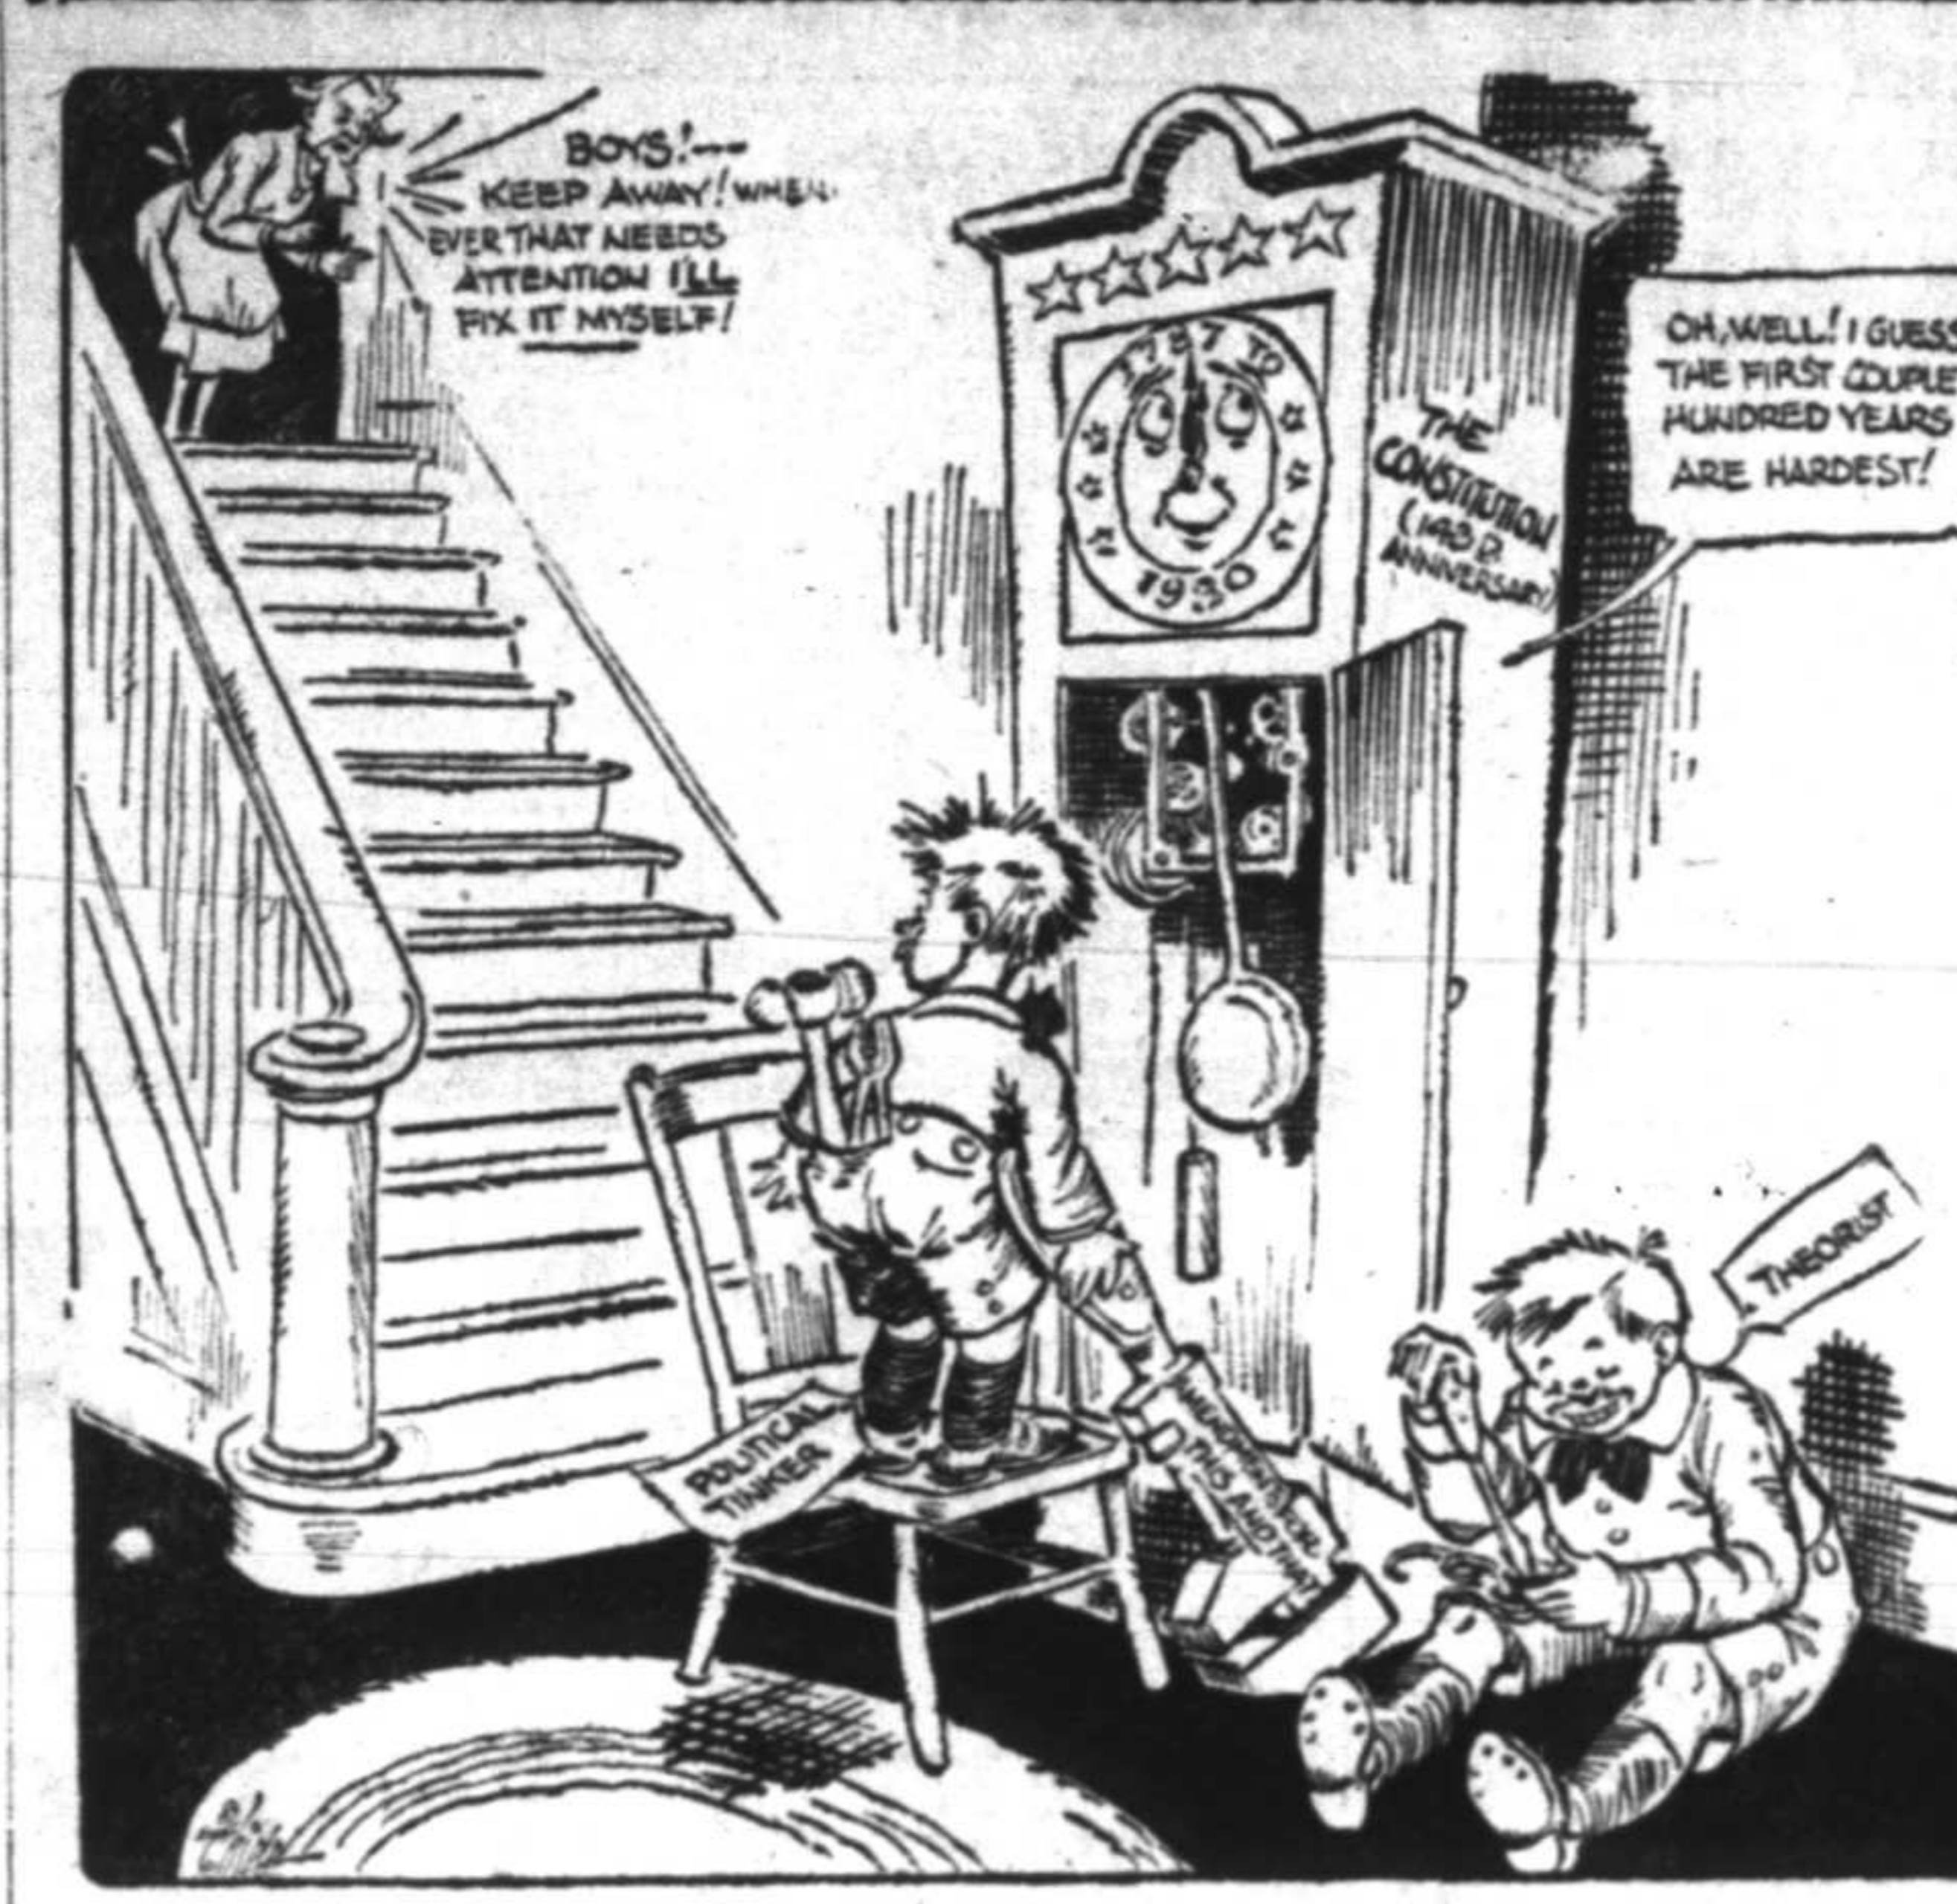

Why not have two or three designated spots along Broadway and Main as "ride" stops and let the students wait there for cars that come by? It wouldn't be long until the citizens would be glad to pick up students at these places who do not catch the bus as it passes. Sub-Plainsman has seen this plan work in other college towns almost to perfection. Of course, no motorist is willing to pick up a "smart aleck" and they're generally found out in the course of time. Sub-Plainsman can see the motorist's viewpoint, for it is very vexing to be forced to drive down the middle of Broadway when there's a college student on perfectly good pavement just a few feet to the right, which is being used by students for a sidewalk.

Sub-Plainsman offers this merely as a suggestion to the students. If there aren't any, will some one else inform them of the plan? Beginning tomorrow, why not let every student who wishes a ride to town to stand on the corner of Broadway and College, Broadway Avenue T, Broadway and Avenue Q, and Broadway and Avenue N, for at least ten minutes, and see if he doesn't get a ride just as quick as if he had walked several blocks down the street. How about it?

The crop-destroying groundhogs which are being shot down by Kentucky farmers have cause to be grateful. They'll avoid that future shadow.

The Bureau of Home Economics, we read, is telling parents how to teach children to handle money. There's nothing like giving them a little specie now and then.

U. S. Trade With Latin-American Nations Shows Decided Slump But South American Business Is Better—Dutcher

By RODNEY DUTCHER, NEA Service Writer

WASHINGTON, Sept. 23.—Our Latin American customers below the Panama Canal seem to have maintained a much more satisfactory status in regard to their trade with the United States than the northern group of republics which includes Mexico and the countries of Central America and the Caribbean.

The export and import figures comparing the year ended last June 30 with the previous year show that the 10 Republics of South America averaged an improvement in the balance of trade factor over 1929 whereas the other 19 Latin American states received a bad break.

They All Declined. Relative decline of our imports from and our exports to all of Latin America was practically the same—imports falling off about 14 per cent and exports about 13. Imports fell from $692,000,000 to $597,000,000 and exports from $612,235,000 to $790,130,000.

But whereas our exports to the South American countries fell off 20.86 per cent our imports from them were reduced only 9.06 per cent. Exports dropped from $551,300,000 to $438,500,000 and imports from $611,700,000 to $556,700,000. That is, we bought .9 per cent as much from South America as we did in the year before, but she only bought 86 per cent as much from us.

Now take the North American republics. Our imports from them fell off 22.91 per cent and our exports to them only 2.68 per cent. Imports dropped from $389,475,000 to $376,327,000 and exports merely from $363,400,000 to $355,900,000. We kept right on selling to this group at virtually the same old pace but cut down our purchases almost one-fourth.

The figures in dollars are furnished by the Department of Commerce. The percentages used in this story were worked out at the headquarters of the Pan-American Union. They are especially interesting at this time because of current economic developments in Latin America—and their political consequences. The Latin American protests against our new tariff act and the fact that they throw some light on the facts in the world-wide business depression. It should be remembered, of course, that declines in values of imports and exports are frequently largely due to the general lowering of commodity prices.

Cuba took the worst sock among those countries whose exports to the United States suffered—a drop of almost exactly 30 per cent from a 1929 export business of $214,100,000. Meanwhile, we sold Cuba all but 12.85 per cent as much in the fiscal year of 1930 as in 1929. Mexico's balance of trade fared considerably worse, for while our imports from her fell off 17.23 per cent we increased our exports to Mexico by 17.23 per cent.

Cuba's trouble was sugar. The quantity of our purchases of this commodity fell from 4,217,000,000 pounds in 1929-30 to 3,516,000,000 pounds and the value from $166,000,000 to $101,000,000. The figure makes it quite easy to understand Cuba's terrific hollering as a further increase in our sugar tariff.

Only Two Bought More. Argentina, Bolivia, Colombia, Ecuador and Peru all sold us more last year than the year before and bought less. Only Chile and Para-

NEW YORK, Sept. 23.—And so, as they say in the Arabian Nights tales, it was the thousand-and-third night.

And we all found ourselves sitting about tables at a colorful little place that fairly glistened with spick-and-span newness. It was well after midnight. It was an opening night celebration and there were artists and columnists, reporters, critics, actresses—all the big parade that turns out for such occasions.

Spanish atmosphere... soft strumming of guitars... sometimes a lone player wandering from table to table... sometimes a trio in soft rhythmic harmony... sometimes a song and sometimes the measured rhythms of a tango.

Sometimes an elastic waisted youngster from Madrid by name of Palmira Lopez, whose manipulation of the castanets carried a caressing intonation. Funny mixed crowd... over there is the huge and kindly Philadelphia Jack O'Brien, pugilist turned health builder, with a party... and over here are assorted newspapermen... Broadway columnist getting notes.

Busting of voices... a sudden laugh... a disturbing bit of commotion in a corner... the rattle of plates... and again the snoging of guitars... So we come to the story.

The place is called the El Chico. It is a Spanish night spot transplanted to new quarters. And if you had been sitting at the table where I was sitting... might have noticed an incongruous note in an otherwise harmonious decorative scheme.

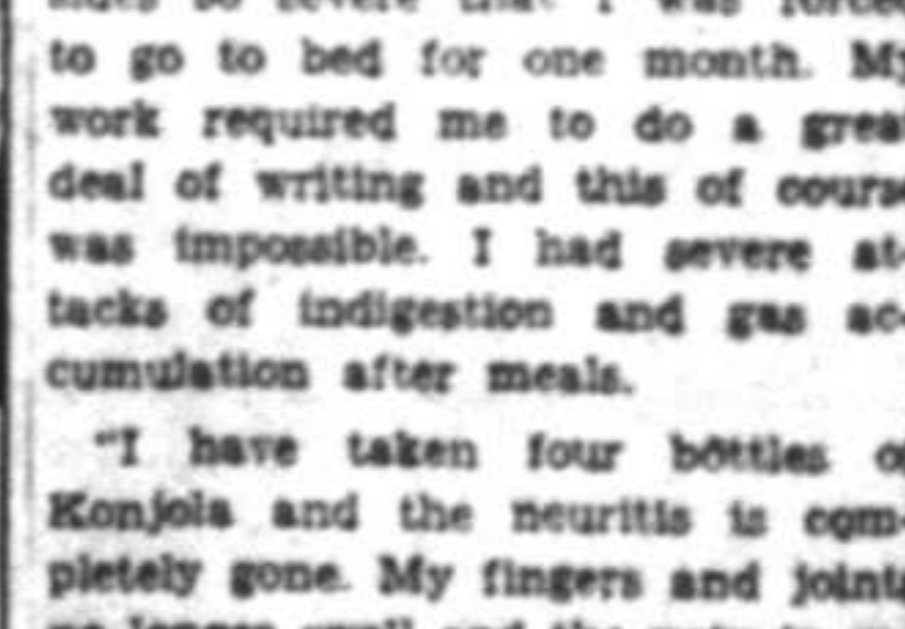

Just over the orchestra stand and slightly to the right, there is placed the head of a huge bull. On the side of it hangs the banderilla of the bull fighter... at the other side of the sword of a matador.

A tall, dark handsome Spaniard comes across the floor and stops at the table. His name is Benito Colado. He is the proprietor. Benito whistles that Carnera, the prize fighter, has put his money in the place.

"But about that bull's head and the banderilla?" you ask Colado. "You're the first to inquire about that... funny, it's sort of a shrine to me. A friend... an old friend of my boyhood. Perhaps you've heard of him... remember Benito Colado, the great bull fighter?"

"He's dead now," gored by that very bull whose head you see. He left me all of his fighter's weapons.

Konjola Ends Neuritis And Stomach Pains
 Dallas Man, Unable To Work And About To Give Up Hope, Now Back On Job

MR. JIMMIE SANCHEZ
 "From the second day that I started with Konjola I felt that I had the right medicine," said Mr. Jimmie Sanchez, 1917 Orange street, Dallas. "I suffered for more than four years with neuritis and stomach trouble, a condition that rapidly brought me down in health. My fingers and limbs were so badly swollen and the pains in my sides so severe that I was forced to go to bed for one month. My work required me to do a great deal of writing and this of course was impossible. I had severe attacks of indigestion and gas accumulation after meals.

Your Own Interest in Fire Prevention Week

EVERY week should be a fire prevention week, even though only one is officially so observed. This Year—October 5-11

The activities of Fire Prevention Week represent a concentration of effort within a short period. That the results carry through farther and farther into the months that follow is one of the encouraging signs of this national conservation movement.

You have a personal reason for helping to observe Fire Prevention Week. It concerns your family—your home—your business—your community. If you take no part in the public observance, you can at least make the valuable contribution of your own better preparation to resist fire through preventive measures.

STOCK FIRE INSURANCE companies—through the National Board of Fire Underwriters, Chambers of Commerce and other organizations—have done much toward making Fire Prevention Week popular and effective for all property owners whether insured or not.

Increased public cooperation should result in reducing fire losses and in that way justify further reductions in the average cost of fire insurance—a cost which has consistently declined over a long period of years.

Diet and Health
 By LOGAN CLENDENING, M.D., Author of "THE HUMAN BODY"

JUDGE HEALTH OF BABY BY ITS WEIGHT RECORD
 WEIGHT IS the most important single thing to know about the baby. Its general state of health is better judged by that than by anything else.

Of course when an acute condition arises, such as diarrhea or other forms of indigestion, or fever, or convulsions, these symptoms temporarily become of paramount importance. But even so, when the acute condition is all over, the final weight of the baby is the measure of the amount of damage the acute sickness has done.

In general, a healthy baby is one that steadily gains weight. In general, an adequate infant diet is one on which the baby is gaining weight.

Dr. McKim Marriott is one of the most brilliant of American children specialists. I am greatly indebted to his recent, clearly written book on "Infant Nutrition."

"The chief cause of failure in infant feeding," according to Dr. Marriott, "is lack of sufficient food of good nutritive value."

Normal babies born at full term weigh, on the average, 7 1/2 pounds. Boys are usually a little heavier than girls.

When properly fed a baby should double its weight at the end of five months, and triple it at the end of a year. At the end of a year a seven-pound baby should weigh 21 pounds, and at the end of the second year should weigh 28 pounds.

It is by all odds the life span of the most rapid increase in weight and growth. At no later period in life of equal duration does the weight increase so rapidly.

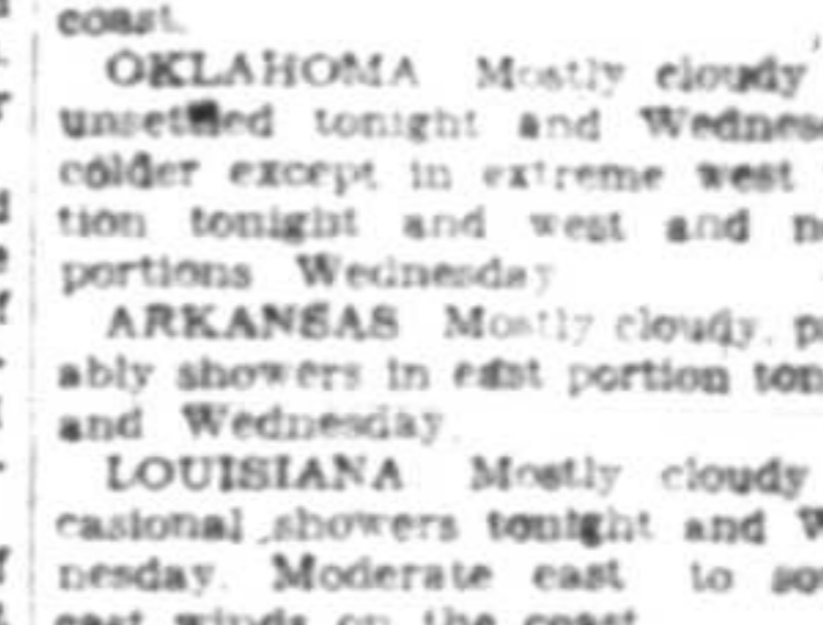

The food must, therefore, contain a larger amount of the elements of growth than at any later period. Not only that, but the rate at which a baby's nutrition is carried on is much higher than an adult's. At least a baby's energy exchange is twice as high per pound of body weight as an adult's. But a baby by no means always at rest. Vigorous crying will temporarily increase the rate of energy exchange over 100 per cent.

So in calculating for a baby's diet requirements we must allow for not only nutritional needs at rest, but growth, and for the more rapid energy exchange of infancy.

THE TINYMITES

(READ THE STORY, THEN COLOR THE PICTURE)

All of a sudden came a shot. The Travel Man said, "Like as not that is the signal for the big parade. It will soon begin. The fine reasons that look so grand will coast right by the judge's stand. Now, I want to enter in this stunt. It's your right in."

"They'll have some prizes for the best and our canoe is nicely dressed with pretty, brilliant lights. Perhaps we have a chance to win. I'll leave it to you to get today and do exactly as you say. Please hurry to see Make up your mind." This made the Travel Man grin.

"You bet," cried Scouty. "We are game. If we don't win we'll be a shame, but anyway we'll have the fun of paddling along. We'll paddle neat as neat can be and wave to people that we see. Then, Scouty, cried, "I'll paddle using my feeding good and strong."

It wasn't long till the parade was on its way. The Travel Man made a very good impression. Pops applauded long and loud. Then, when the start was over, they took their first prize and all cried, "Hurrah!" The first prize was a great big cake. It made them all feel proud.

"That night they ate the cake and ate it as sweet as it could be. When they were done they had they dreamed of sweet things by the lake. Next morning Scouty Travel Man into the Travel Man's bedroom ran. Cried he, "We're going to Laverne. And they were on their way."

It didn't take them long to ride to Laverne. There was Comper and, "Oh, my, what a great big lake. And look at all that walk down. Now first of all let's walk around and see the sights that can be found. The town is just so big and we can do it in an hour."

The Travel Man play on the beach at Laverne in the next story.

FLASHES OF LIFE

As Brought Over Associated Press Wires Today

Too Much Water
VENICE—There's a new golf course on the Lido, made of sand dunes, sod from St. Andrews, itself and water hazards galore. It's a fifteen minute ride by motor launch from Venice.

Quite An Air Fan
NEWARK, N. J.—Thomas A. Edison, new aviation fan, is amazed by a windmill plane that goes up and down almost vertically. For the second time in four days he visited the airport and asked questions between drinks of hot milk from a vacuum bottle. "By Gosh!" he exclaimed "You have them now so they'll do anything but chew tobacco."

Novel Alarm
MESSINA, Italy—A mechanical lion 12 feet high, which will stop a clock on the tower of the Messina cathedral will lift up its head at noon and roar. An eight-foot cock will crow at sunrise and sunset.

To Be Spinsters
VIENNA—If a scientist views the situation correctly, 60 per cent of the women in Europe between the ages of 30 and 39 are destined to remain unwed. He gave his opinion to the international sexual reform conference.

Posters in British consular and office the heading "Notice to Aliens" have been replaced by "Notice to Foreigners."
