HARVEST TIME IN IOWA PARK TO FIND LAND A GOOD GIVER

Colonists of 35 Years Ago Little Dreamed of Such Paradise of Crops

9,000 ACRES MOIST

Government Inch Staple For Cotton And Variety Yields Predominate

WHEN the colonists from the good state of Iowa laid out the town of Iowa Park nearly thirty-five years ago, little did they think the site then selected would some day overlook an irrigated district stretching away in three directions. Little did they realize that in the highlands of the Wichita river water shed, some fifty miles above there, would lay one of the largest artificial lakes in the United States, and the water thus impounded would be brought to the farm lands in the river valley above and below the town.

Their selection of a site for a town was good; to the north lay the Red river valley, to the south the Wichita. The soil in which they chose to grow their crops was fertile—only one thing was beyond their control and beyond their power of selection—water when most needed. But today after the passing of thirty-five years, finds Iowa Park still fortunately situated. This handicap of lack of moisture at the proper time for the successful growing of crops has been overcome. The overcoming of this handicap is due to the faith of such men as J. A. Kemp and the work of the citizenship of Wichita Falls and its taxpayers. Yes, Iowa Park is fortunate in, being located near Wichita Falls, for without its large neighboring city, Iowa Park would not now have an irrigated valley at its very threshhold.

Irrigation Paying.

The bringing of the water into the broad valley, southwest, south, and east of Iowa Park gives a most promising outlook to agriculture in the Iowa Park territory. Of course what is true of the irrigated section adjacent to Iowa Park is true of the irrigated valley as a whole and vice versa. This is especially true of staple

90 Gallons of Corn Trickle Wrong Way Into Arms of Law

The bootlegging business in Wichita county was given another expensive setback early Wednesday afternoon when Deputy U. S. Marshal Save and Constable Johnson of Electra seized an automobile loaded with approximately 90 gallons of corn whiskey. The haul was made at Electra.

The officers, who had been given a tip as to the whereabouts of the booze, broke open a garage in that city and found the machine in which vessels and jars were piled high. It was promptly confiscated and as promptly driven to Wichita Falls, car, liquor, barrels, jars and all.

No arrests were made in connection with the seizure but it was declared the owner of the machine was suspected and his apprehension contemplated. At a late hour last night however, he had not been taken into custody.

Late last week the city police department captured 400 gallons of whiskey in a Wichita Falls garage.

LANHAM TO SPEAK TODAY.

Congressman From Fort Worth to Address Members of the Forum.

Congresman Fritz G. Lanham of Fort Worth will deliver an informal address to members of the Wichita Falls Woman's Forum and guests Thursday morning when the forum entertains with a breakfast at the Country club at 9:30 o'clock. All members of the forum and all other women who expect to join the forum for the next year have been invited to attend.

55 SERVICE CARS IN OPERATION IN CITY

Fifty-five service cars are operating in and out of Wichita Falls, according to records which show that number officially registered with permission to do business in the city. City license fees have been paid on that number.

License renewals have practically all been taken out by operators of the cars.

Property Owners Flock to Render At Tax Office

Property owners here anxious to make assessments flocked into the city tax assessor's office by hundreds Wednesday. City Assessor Hyer is anxious to close up assessments by the end of the month, which is Thursday, if possible, and for that reason had made a special appeal for renditions.

It is expected today will bring even a heavier throng than Thursday.

Because of the installation of the new unit system of tax valuation, and also because a radical departure has been made from long established custom in that property owners are now asked to come to the tax office to render instead of waiting for assessors to come to them, the rendition work is a little behind at present.

With all renditions in, however, the task of making out the assessment roll will be able to proceed quickly

MASKAT GEARS IN HIGH DURING SPRING SOIREE

Annual Ceremonial a Colorful Spectacle For City

Winding up with proverbial steam at the initiation of a class of 60 candidates, Maskat Temple, A. A. O. N. M. S., romped through its annual spring ceremonial Wednesday.

To those who appeared down town throughout the day, it was self-evident something special was afoot. Red fezes, the distinguishing work of the Shriner, were scattered in profusion over the business district; and more conspicuously colorful but less numerous were the deep purples, scarlets, greens and tans of patrol and band members. An official decree from Potentate W. W. Gardner was apparently heeded almost 100 per cent.

Starts At 9 A. M.

Official business of the ceremonial started at 9 o'clock when registration of candidates began at the office of Al Ellis, recorded. This continued throughout the day. A business meeting and other features were included in the early hours, which were followed in the afternoon by the big street parade, always a highlight of Maskat's shindigs, yesterday's lengthy procession came up fully to the standards of excellence set by preceding events.

It consisted of six divisions, each in charge of a noble. The first included the colors, band and patrol in charge of nobles J. L. Eggleston, Van Leslie, George Merkle and Jess Warren. The second section consisted of distinguished visitors and the divan, in charge of noble John Monroe; while the third included all visiting nobles in charge of Al Riedenharn, Wilford Harrison, Dan Carithers and C. J. Green.

DeMolay Patrol Next.

HOOK 'EM, BOY, RIDE 'EM, GIRL, RODEO SLOGANS

Barbecue Will Open Triangle Ranch Fiesta At Iowa Park Today

MAY RIDE BOVOLUPUS

Wild Untamed Bull Assigned to Oklahoma Curley for Manhandling

IOWA PARK, April 30.—Tom Burnett's third Triangle Ranch Rodeo starts today in Iowa Park.

From noon when some 8,000 pounds of barbecue are passed out to ten or twelve thousand Triangle ranch guests to the last calf roping and bronco riding events Sunday evening the best artisan that the cow country can boast of will pit their wits and skill against the brawn and strength of wild, untamed steer and lambusting unmanageable "horse" in contests replete with the thrills that only the great out of doors and unrehearsed performances can bring.

No Baby Play Here.

No dilly-dallying here, no baby play—every act in Tom Burnett's revivification of the fading wild west will be the best that brain can do against brawn, the cowman and cowgirl versus the steer and the bucking bronco.

The rodeo, the third of its kind, will start at noon today with the big barbecue. Some 8,000 pounds of beef have been prepared and as many as ten or twelve thousand visitors are expected at the ranch, just a few miles west of Iowa Park. Everybody is invited and the event is free.

The rodeo band plays at two o'clock, and at 2:30 the grand entry takes place, the events coming one after another in the large arena immediately following.

3,000 Seating Space.

The arena late yesterday showed seating space for more than 3,000 people prepared and set up with the plans and fences all in readiness. The stables showed a myriad of red shirted booted cowboys shoving a curry over the hide of a favorite horse for the last time. The grounds, well laid out and fenced off into partitions with numberless signs carrying directions to the stranger and inhibitions to the daring, have been arranged so as to provide plenty of parking space and expedite the handling of the crowds.

The last of the entrants were signed

Negligence on Both Sides, a Jury Finds

A verdict favoring the defendant—the Wichita Falls Traction company, was returned Wednesday afternoon by a jury in the 89th district court after a two-hour deliberation over the claim of Elizabeth Roark, negress, for $2,700 damages.

The plaintiff asked damages as a result of a collision between a street car and an automobile occupied by her.

The jury held the motorman negligent for not sounding the gong but also found the plaintiff guilty of contributory negligence.

THE score was 6 to 2 Wednesday, favor of the Spudders over Fort Worth Cats. When better stories on baseball are written Blondy Cross will write them. Read his version of the downfall of the Atzmen on page 10.

From Worser to Bad Or as You Like It, This Spring Weather

(Detail of weather vagaries on page fifteen.)

CHICAGO, April 29.—Last week's hot weather throughout the middle west with temperatures ranging from 80 to 90, was followed today by hail, snow, sleet, rain and a small tornado in the territory that a few days ago complained of the heat.

Snow flurries followed by a cold rain with a possibility of frost tonight were reported from parts of Indiana while a sleet and wind storm in Minnesota, did heavy damage last night to wire facilities.

Some sections of Texas were swept by a tornado while another was under a blanket of snow.

WICHITA FALLS TERMINAL FOR AD MEN'S TOUR

Houston Convention Delegates May Visit Here

The Texas post-convention circle tours, or twenty-first birthday party of the Associated Advertising Clubs of the World, which meets in Houston May 9 to 14, will be one of the biggest events ever held in Texas. Many thousands of delegates from every part of the world will attend the convention and after its closing these delegates will take four tours of Texas, or rather four tours of Texas will be made.

Four Tours.

Tour "A" includes that section along the Gulf coast southwest to Brownsville and up the Rio Grande river valley. Tour "B" goes to Austin, San Antonio and Laredo. Tour "C" goes to New Orleans. Tour "D" is north through Dallas and Fort Worth to Wichita Falls.

The cities in the southern part of the state have made plans to secure a largenumber of the delegates. San Antonio, Austin, Laredo and Brownsville have issued expensive advertising phamplets. So far no publications have been issued by either Dallas, Fort Worth or Wichita Falls, although the Advertising club of Wichita Falls expects to get out some printed matter within a few days.

Will Be of Value.

The value of these tours will be great to Texas and Wichita Falls should make a strong effort to secure delegates for tour "D," say those interested in the trip here. The program calls for this tour to end in Wichita Falls on Sunday, May 17, the day being spent here. The local Advertising club will formulate plans at the next meeting to take a number of delegates to the Houston convention. As there will be many men of national and foreign importance attending the convention it will be of great worth to entertain them in Wichita Falls in a manner to that o them remember the city for years to come, it is stated.

WRECK KILLS ENGINEER.

Chesapeake and Ohio Train Derails With Fatal Results.

HUNTINGTON, W. Va., April 29.—The engineer on Chesapeake & Ohio passenger train No. 2 eastbound was killed and the fireman seriously injured this afternoon when the train was derailed near South Portsmouth, Ky.

FEW SHOW UP, MANY DON'T; THEY ALL PAY

Traffic Violators In City Court Keep Judge Busy

Forfeiting bonds got to be a fine art in Wednesday morning's session of city police court when nearly 100 cases, the result of Tuesday wholesale arrests on charges traffic violations came up for call. Of the 95 cases listed on the books an even 90 alleged some form of traffic complaint. Overtime parking accounted for the bulk of them, with driving against red lights in the signal system taking care of most of the others.

Few Defendants.

Very few defendants appeared to contest the city's charge against them. Most of them, it seemed, thought it cheaper to forfeit the $2 or $3 bonds they had put up; and this they did.

The 95 cases docketed did not by any means represent the entire number of tags issued Tuesday for traffic infractions. A large number of persons whose machines were labeled with the little yellow slips failed to show up, but auto license records are handy at the county collector's office and the police have duplicate slip license numbers attached for every car tagged.

Tuesday's orgy seemed to have had an effect on the motoring public, for the list of victims taken in Wednesday had dwindled perceptibly. Exact figures were not available last night, but early in the afternoon only 26 tags had been turned into the desk sergeant. More reports were to be made from traffic officers, however, and it was expected the number of violations would mount to well over the 100 mark.

Two Are Charged With Possession And Transportation of Liquor.

TUSCON, Ariz., April 29.—Warrants for the arrest of H. S. McCluskey, secretary to Governor G. W. P. Hunt, and George Eberle, purchasing agent of the Arizona highway department were issued today by United States Commissioner Edward S. Jones on complaint of M. P. Crosby, federal prohibition agent who charged the two men with possession and transportation of liquor.

DISCH INCIDENT AT TEXAS U IS VARSITY BOMB

Students Circulate Petition To Keep Coach From Resigning

ATTACKS COUNCIL

"T" Association Intent Upon "Removing Cause" Of Disch's Quitting

AUSTIN, April 29.—Methods used by the University of Texas athletic council while the case of Herman Odom, University of Texas student, was pending for signing a professional baseball contract, is but one of at least a dozen grievances to be taken before the council later, Coach William J. "Bill" Disch, resigned, said tonight.

2,000 Sign Petition.

In the meantime university students and members of the baseball team have started a movement "to remove the cause of Mr. Disch's leaving the university," by circulation of a petition sponsored by the "T" association. More than 2,000 had signed the petition up to tonight.

"We are doing everything possible to keep Mr. Disch in the university, and we stand ready to take steps other than the petition," one member of the Longhorn baseball team said.

Denies Any Bonus.

Coach Disch, who has won 11 out of 13 baseball championships for Texas university, since joining the university coaching staff, took exception to the report that he had received $500 for inducing Odom to sign a contract with the New York Yankees.

"Odom joined the Yankees of his own free will and negotiated his own terms," Mr. Disch said. "The only advice I gave him was to stick to his promise to sign with the Yankees when another large club tried to get him to break his promise.

Discuss The Case.

When it is said that my remaining at the University of Texas depends upon the athletic council reversing itself on the Odom case it is wrong. It wasn't the declaring of Odom ineligible that peeved me, but the method used in bringing this about. Further, that it is a fight between Disch and Belmont on the one side and the faculty on the other, is not based upon fact. Since learning of my intention of leaving the university, dozens of faculty members have called in person, expressing their disapproval of my leaving and telling me to fight things to a finish.

Mr. Dischel would not confirm nor deny the report he had signed a contract with Southern Methodist university at Dallas.

CENTRAL TEXAS BAD OFF

Wichitan, Returning From Trip, Declares Rainfall Bodly Needed There.

Conditions in south and central Texas are not bright, stated Judge B. D. Sartin, who returned from Austin Wednesday morning. Rain has been scant and where it has fallen in those sections it is scattered.

Around Waco, Temple, Austin, Houston and Galveston the farmers are praying for rain. There is little cotton up, most morn is less than knee high and truck farms are about burned up. Around Columbus the rainfall for the period of the last nine months is less than one-third of the 25 years average.

ACCIDENT SUIT ON TRIAL

Industrial Board Award Involving $7,500 Before Judge Martin.

A suit over an industrial accident board award involving approximately $7,500 is on trial before Judge P. A. Martin and a jury in the 30th district court. It is styled Royalty Indemnity company vs. D. O. Sparks.

The defendant was given an award by the industrial accident board following his injury some time ago while working in the oil fields as a member of a John G. Lane drilling crew. The indemnity company seeks relief from the award and has filed suit accordingly.

STOVES LIGHT UP AGAIN

Frigid Weather Keeps City Shivering All Day Wednesday.

A temperature that brought lights to about all the gas stoves still set up kept Wichita Falls shivering throughout the day Wednesday. It was an unseasonable cold spell, as severe as it was unusual.

Instead of the boiling heats of a week ago, the thermometer hovered around the 50 mark. A sky heavily overcast with clouds kept the sun from counteracting the effects of the frigidity.

Promise of warmer and clearing skies was held out by the weather bureau for Thursday.

GROSINGER PROBE IS HELD.

A report is expected at next Monday's meeting of the city council on the injuries sustained over a year ago by a small daughter of M. Grosinger, who was injured when she fell into a city water ditch on Monroe street. A commission that was named to investigate the affair held a meeting Wednesday and listened to evidence as it was presented by persons in some way familiar with it.

A personal injury claim has been made against the city as a result of the accident.

CUPID GOES ON STRIKE.

No marriage licenses were issued Wednesday by the county clerk. This is the first day in several weeks that at least one couple has failed to show up for papers.

Mary M'Swiney Defies Order For Passports

Sister of Irish Martyr May Face Deportation Charges By U. S.

INVESTIGATION ON

Irish Free State Alleged To Have Prompted Probe By Officials

CHICAGO, April 29.—Miss Mary MacSwiney, sister of the late Terence MacSwiney, Irish republican leader said tonight that she "had no passport to enter this country, did not need any, and had no intention of ever getting any."

WASHINGTON, April 29. — The presence in the United States of Miss Mary MacSwiney, Irish republican worker which was investigated in Chicago today by immigration officials has been made the subject of inquiry at the state department on behalf of the Irish Free State government.

Timothy Smiddy, Irish Free State minister, who is ill, was quoted by a secretary tonight as denying any connection with the investigation and asserting that he was not interested in Miss MacSwiney's activities.

It was apparent, however, that the immigration authorities' inquiry to determine whether she had a legal right to be in the United States was based on official information that the Irish government had not issued a passport to her.

Information that Miss MacSwiney was in the United States was first brought to the attention of the Free State representatives by an interview published late in January by a Boston newspaper, which quoted her as saying she was not in possession of a passport in her own name.

Woman Attorney Is Jailed by Judge; But She Wins Case

CHICAGO, April 29.—Mary Belle Spencer, an attorney, was taken to the county jail today when she appeared in the criminal court building to pay a $50 fine contempt of court fixed by Judge Charles Williams yesterday. A writ of attachment had been issued earlier in the day when the woman lawyer failed to appear to pay the fine.

"I am pleased to go to jail," she said. "This will mean the political suicide of Judge Williams. The client whom I acquitted yesterday is in court and willing to take my place."

The woman attorney was fined at the end of a trial and after her client had been acquitted.

Judge Williams took offense at remarks the woman had made during the progress of the trial.

CLAY COUNTY SEEKS A ROAD NORTH, SOUTH

Gets State Highway From Red River to Antelope

AUSTIN, April 29.—Clay county took initial steps here today for securing an improved road north and south through its entire length when the highway commission designated as an official state highway a road extending from Red river on the north, south through Henrietta and on to Antelope in the northern part of Jack county.

Observers profess to see in this a move to later secure state and federal aid for the paving of the long stretch.

Construction work is now under way on a highway extending from northwest to southeast, connecting Wichita county at one end and Montague county at the other. With this completed and a road paved from the northern to the southern lines, Henrietta, the county seat almost in the center of the county, would be the hub of a 4 way pavement radiating to the northern, eastern, southern and western sections.

The road now under construction will give access to Wichita Falls on the west and Fort Worth on the east, while the new proposed highway would link Oklahoma to the north and Mineral Wells to the south.

Acid Throwing Wife Bathed Hubby's Face With Life Long Scar

LOS ANGELES, April 29.—Darbe Day, Jr., son of a Chicago capitalist, whom physicians say will be disfigured for life as a result of "an acid bath" alleged to have been given him by his wife, Mrs. Bernice Lund Strom Day last February, went on the witness stand in court here today as the prosecution's star witness against her.

The first exhibit to the jury was a deep red scar on Day's right temple extending from above the hair line well down the side of his face.

His story on the stand covered quarrels with the young wife after their marriage in Chicago and on a southern honeymoon, culminating in one at Beaverlee Hills, February 2, when he said, she threw acid in his face.

Three weeks previous, he said, she threatened to shoot him. He said he went home at once and removed the firing pin from his revolver.

FALLS FROM EIGHTH FLOOR BUT CATCHES HOLD BOARD

DALLAS, April 29.—Will Cook, 30, fell from the eighth floor of a building under construction here today, but saved his life by grabbing a projecting plank. He was slightly injured.

WICHITA WOMAN GOES TO MUSIC CLUB MEET

Advance guard of the executive board of the tenth annual convention of the Texas Federation of Music clubs at Beaumont yesterday according to dispatches received in personnel of the board Mrs. Lucetta B. Thompson of Wichita Falls.

Robber Said to Hide In Trees and Tries To Lasso His Victims

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., April 29.—A robber who hides in trees and attempts to lasso his victims was reported to police last night by Charles Cottongim. He told officers that a noose fell over him from a tree, but he escaped before it was pulled taut. Officers said this was the second attack of this kind reported.

Sack Coat Causes a Hindenburg Apology

GROSS SCHWUELPER, Germany, April 29.—(AP)—Field Marshal Von Hindenburg, president elect of Germany, never a talkative man, summed up in simple words his conception of his duties as president to a small circle of friends who visited him at his temporary abode here immediately after his conference with Chancellor Luther.

"I will do my duty, just as I have done it thus far, as a good German," said the president-elect. "That surely will be the right way."

Those present at the railway station when Dr. Luther arrived in Gross Schwuelper asserted that Von Hindenburg apologized to him for wearing a simple sack coat instead of the usual swallow tail, and added with a twinkle in his eye: "But I suppose our meal will taste just as good this way."

VOTE AGAINST UNIFICATION

BASTROP, Texas, April 29.—The proposed unification plan of the Methodist church was rejected by the Austin district of the West Texas conference of the Methodist Episcopal church, south, by a vote of 55 to 31, at the district meeting which closed today.

EUGENE LIEPOLD ELECTED RETAIL CLOTHIER DIRECTOR

Dispatches from Dallas yesterday morning concerning the Texas Retail Clothiers and Furnishers association final session reiterated that Eugene Liepold of Wichita Falls had been chosen a member of the board of directors.

BYERS WAREHOUSE CO. INCREASES CAPITAL STOCK

List of charters issued by the secretary of states office on Austin yesterday included that of Byers Warehouse company, Byers, increasing its capital stock from $1,000 to $5,000.

BENT FENDERS RESULT AS COLLISION NINTH DENVER

No one was hurt but two automobiles were slightly damaged at 4 o'clock Wednesday afternoon when they collided at Ninth and Denver. Bent fenders and splintered running boards made up most of the damage.

Woman Is Honored By Scientists

WASHINGTON, April 29.—Science for the first time in America officially crowned a woman with its laurels by the election late today of Miss Florence Rena Sabin, physiologist, at Johns Hopkins school at Baltitore to life membership in the national academy of scientists, which terminated its annual meeting.

Miss Sabin, who is one of a dozen American scientists honored for 1925 by the academy, has done notable research work with blood cells and is the first woman chosen to membership in the 62 years of the academy's life.

Where Buyer and Seller Meet

"If I Had a Nice Home I'd Keep Out of Trouble"

12-Year-Old Street Waif Makes Voluntary Plea to Bralley to Find Him a Place

WAIFS of the streets—juveniles in whose own hands are placed their own full time and responsibilities, sometimes get into perilous predicaments. And in seeking to squirm out they sometimes make peculiar pleas.

None have been more unusual or pathetic, though, than that of a 12-year-old urchin who was picked up Wednesday by Juvenile Officer W. G. Bralley and who asked the latter to "find me a nice house where I can live and keep out of trouble." It was the first request of that kind he ever had from one of his youthful charges, Mr. Bralley said.

Under Official Eye.

The lad had been under official eyes before, it seemed; not because he was a character that would bear watching but because, through lack of proper home environment, he had become a nomad of the streets and alleys, one who roamed aimlessly through a misdirected—or undirected existence. Late hours and an occasional mild infraction of the letter of the law were the chief counts in the indictment against him.

A day or so ago a new bicycle belonging to another youngster proved too great an allurement and he indulged in a half-day joy ride. Later he abandoned the wheel to its own devices and went on his vagrant way.

Mr. Bralle got wind of the incident, took the boy in custody and obtained a ready explanation of the whole affair. As is always the case with erring ones who have not had a chance, the officer was sympathetic rather than harsh. He wondered what he could dot to help the lad.

"I wisht I had a nice house to live in and somebody to take care of me," he said. "If I did I'd stay home every night and go to school. If you'd give me some nice folks to take care of me like you did that other boy maybe I wouldn't get into trouble."

There's the Rub.

That was where the rub came. for "nice folks to take care" of small boys can't be found for the asking. "The other boy" was a youngster about the same age as yesterday's subject. He, too, had overstepped the bounds but a reputable family appeared by chance and asked an opportunity to care for the lad.

Mr. Bralley and a friendly lady in the court house offered what encouragement they could. They gave him some advice—a kind he probably never had had from his home, and placed him, temporarily, at least, under the wing of a near relative residing here who agreed to do what she could.

"That was an unusual case. A boy that makes a reuest like that has something more in him than an empty stomach," Mr. Bralley thought.

Two Million Feet Of Gas Found In Holmes Co. Test

Sand There Said to Resemble Lousiana Pay Very Much

MUCH PLANNED

T. B. Slick Will Drill Deep Test in Marshall County

TULSA, Okla., April 29.—There are 24 rigs up in 23 different counties in Mississippi, indicating that oil men from the Appalachian, Mid-Continent and Gulf Coast fields are optimistic of uncovering large deposits of petroleum in that old state.

Freun Oil company found 2,000,000 feet of gas in its wildcat in 18-12-1e, about 12 miles north of Yazoo City, in Holmes county, according to word from that place. The gas was found at 2,068 feet where a hard crystalized sand was picked up. The sand has all of the appearance of the producing pay in Louisiana.

T. B. Slick of Tulsa is planning a deep test near Hilly Springs, in Marshall county, Miss., and will use a California type of combination rig.

Baldwin Petroleum company has a block in Union, Lee, Prentiss, Itawamba and Copiah counties, and its first well will be drilled about 10 miles northeast of New Albany in Union county.

North Wilbarger Test

Texhoma Oil and Refining company and Holmes are reported drilling below a last reported depth of 1,332 feet in broken lime in their No. 1 Flanicken, northeast corner of the southwest quarter of section 5, block 16, a mile northeast of Tolbert, north Wilbarger county.

Texhoma, Wilson

The Texhoma has made two new Wilson land locations, No. C-7, 840 feet north and 150 feet east of the southwest corner of lot 2, section 31, ATNCL, and No. E-5, 510 feet north and 150 feet west of the southeast corner of lot 7, section 27, ATNCL.

Texas Company, Wilbarger

The Texas company is drilling below a last reported depth of 2,522 feet in its No. 1, Castlebury, located in the northwest corner of section 66, H&TCRRCO survey, block 14, east of South Vernon, Wilbarger county.

The No. 1, Owens, is fishing for 12 inch pipe at 1,250 feet.

News Of The Fields

Shackleford County

ALBANY, April 29.—Shackelford county continues to get a big play. In the northwestern corner of that county, some 20 miles northwest of Albany, three new locations have been made by Amon G. Carter et al.

The wells will go to 1,600 feet and the drilling contracts have already been signed. One location is north of the center of the south line of the northwest of the southeast of the C. Whistler survey, north of section 179 in the East Texas R. R. survey. It is in the bend of the Brazos river.

Another is near the northeast corner of the west half of block 5, between the BBB&CRR and Eastern Texas railroad surveys, and the third is north of the center of the south line of the northwest quarter of block 6, in the unnamed survey and west of the Brazos river.

Garza County

POST, April 29.—Gulf Production company's location in Garza county, 10 miles south of Post, is No. 1 Slaughter, in the northwest corner of section 18, Jasper Hays survey, several miles west of the southeastern Garza development.

Silkwood-Brashear

Silkwood and Brashear were starting up again yesterday after being shut down with pump trouble at a depth of 1,645 feet, in their No. 1 Fasset and Tuttle, northwest corner of the west eighty acres of the south 155 acres of the Fasset and Tuttle farm, five and one half miles south west of Iowa Park, Wichita county.

Atlantic, Parrish

The Atlantic Oil Producing company is equipping its No. 7, Parrish, H&TCRRCO survey, section 26, north Archer county, for the pump with the expectation of making a 75 barrel well from the sand just above 1,600 feet.

The No. 8 is spudding. 150 feet each way out of the northwest corner of the lease.

Texhoma, Howard

The Texhoma's No. 4, Howard, north Nocona, Montague county, Finish Robertson survey, was reported yesterday drilling below a last reported depth of 1,561 feet, deeper by 200 feet than any other of the group in which it is located.

Wheeler County

The Texhoma Oil and Refining company and O'Brien are drilling below a last reported depth of 3,100 feet in their No. 1, J. B. Jackson, Wheeler county.

Laredo Pool May Get Mile Extension

LAREDO, April 29.—Henne, Winch and Farias are believed to have a pool opener, or an extension to the pool which bears their name, a mile south of the Henne, Winch and Farias pool. At 2,054 feet, below a shale bed, No. 1 well on block 13, survey 256, Jim Hogg county, a core was taken which showed a rich oil saturation. Casing is being set. A test will be made next week. It is about 600 feet northwest of C. F. Lang's test which showed but a foot of sand at the same level.

New Big Gasser At Pine Island Expected

SHREVEPORT, La., April 29.—Dixie Oil company's No. B-1 Noel in 24-21-15 Pine Island district of Caddo parish, their second test for the 3600-foot pay opened by their No. 43 Robert Shaw, one mile north, is shut down in the top of the gas rock at 3,638 feet to test casing following a gas show of about five million feet. Another such gasser as the Robertshaw, which is pushing gas to Little Rock under its own pressure, is anticipated and all precautions are being taken against accident.

Cunard Steamship Line Buys Oil Land

SHREVEPORT, La., April 29.—Cunard Steamship company has entered the prospective Urania oil field as a source of fuel with the purchase of 520 acres, all on the LaSalle parish side of the Winn-LaSalle parish line. The price was $130,000 cash and $130,000 out of the first oil with the usual royalty, and a drilling clause calls for a well within 30 days from date, which means prior to May 15.

The acreage is checkerboarded in eight pieces.

Carson County Well

The Texas company has completed and has a flowing well in its No. 2, Mary C. Burnett, section 113, block 5, Carson county, sand record given as 2,988-2,982 feet. The well flowed 325 barrels from 6:30 in the afternoon until 7 o'clock the next morning.

Marland, Ward

The Marland Oil company of Texas was last reported finishing up their No. 2, Ward, in the northwest of the northeast of block 1378, TE&L. CO. survey, northeast of the Ragle pool, southeast Archer county to 1,100 feet, the hole too deep to do any good.

Texas Company Can Drill All They Want To

Injunction Validates Leases On Electra Townsite

An injunction restraining the city of Electra from enforcing its anti-drilling ordinance against the Texas company on leases on Electra townsite property owned by the Texas company has been given by Judge James C. Wilson of the federal district court at Fort Worth, who holds that the ordinance is an abridgement of the constitutional rights of the Texas company.

According to the terms of the injunction the Texas company owns the leases on the land in question and is entitled to their development without interference, as a constitutional right.

Had Leases Originally.

The Texas company originally obtained thetitle to leases on all of the W. T. Waggoner estate back as far as 1906 or 1907, the ranch at that time consisting of about 270,000 acres covering portions of Archer, Wilbarger, Wichita and Baylor counties.

When the Waggoners laid out the Electra townsite and sold lots they reserved the mineral rights on the property, keeping for themselves their one-eighth, the Texas company owning already the remaining seven-eighths. An Electra property owner, therefore, has never owned the mineral rights on his real estate.

There was little drilling ever done within the townsite, although the Gulf Production company completed some producers just east of town and within the corporate limits on the Douglas land, offsetting Texas company leases. In October, 1923, the city of Electra passed an ordinance prohibiting drilling within its limits of any "oil or gas well, or any other kind of well."

Gulf Gets Wells.

In the meantime Gulf wells on the Douglas tract were draining Texas company property and pressure was brought to bear to force them to drill the offsets prescribed by law. The city of Electra, by virtue of the ordinance which they had passed sought to restrain this drilling with the result that a suit was brought by the Texas company in the state courts at Wichita Falls several weeks ago to get an injunction against the restraint.

Immediately following the pleadings of the city of Electra a non-suit was taken by the Texas company and the case carried to the federal court at Fort Worth, the transfer being permissible since, as the Texas company claimed and the court has since held, the case involved certain constitutional rights of the plaintiff.

Appeal Contemplated.

The injunction as granted by Judge Wilson contemplates an appeal and states that in event the injunction is ever reversed the Texas company is liable for damages as a result of drilling they may have done pending a decision on the appeal.

Two New Wells Are In at Reagan Field

SAN ANGELO, April 29.—Two new producers in Reagan county in the Big Lake field, 60 miles west of here, were flowing at the rate of approximately 6,800 barrels combined, increasing the production of the field to about 30,000 barrels.

Texon No. 1 Oil corporation No. 7, southwest corner of the northwest of section 36, block 9, is doing 200 barrels an hour 35 feet in the sand to a total depth of 2,960 feet.

Big Lake Oil company No. 16, center of the southeast quarter of section 1, block 2, was flowing 80 barrels an hour from 2,976 feet to 2,991 feet.

Both wells struck the sand Monday, improved greatly on deepening today and will likely go deeper.

Look for Fault Line East of Balcones

CORSICANA, April 29.—W. H. Roeser and associates are skidding the rig which drilled No. 2 Brooks Auld, Isaac Simpson survey, 250 feet east for No. 3 test, in northwestern Anderson county, northwest of Palestine, on a 15,000-acre block.

No. 2 had the Austin chalk at 3,374 feet to 3,586 feet and topped the Woodbine sand at 4,286 feet and was still in the sand at 4,411 feet when the hole was abandoned when a boulder prevented running casing.

In a salt dome country, Mr. Roeser is not sure whether the Balcones fault exists there or not, but ventures the hypothesis that there is a second fault east of the line which cuts through Navarro, western Henderson, Kaufman and other counties and says that the failures at Bazette, Mabank and Buffalo tends to establish this.

The new hole will drill with rotary to the sand and then pipe will be set and a standard rig be used to drill in. Oil rose in No. 2 through a heavy column of mud and water, according to Mr. Roeser.

Kansas City Concern Charged With Use Of The Mails to Defraud

KANSAS CITY, April 29.—Nine indictments charging misuse of the mails to defraud were returned against the Mexican Land company, a Kansas City and Los Angeles concern, by a federal grand jury here today. With the company were indicted A. C. Johnson, president; Mrs. E. M. Johnson, Lillian Howges, sister of Mrs. Johnson, and A. W. Johnson.

The indictments allege that the accused persons represented that they controlled land in the state of Vera Cruz. It was pictured, the indictments alleged, as comprising three colonies known as Sunshine, composed of 20,000 acres; Edinview with 17,000 acres, and Buna Vista with 24,000 acres.

Forty-eight Kansas City persons assert they were victims and it is understood the indictments represent cases in which they were involved.

WOMAN AVOIDS AN OPERATION

Awful Pains and Misery Relieved by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Lima, Ohio.—"I want to tell you how your medicine has helped me. For weeks I suffered with awful pains from inflammation and I was in such misery that I had to bend double to get relief. I could not be touched or jarred, had awful pain all over my abdomen and could not touch my feet to the floor. It was impossible for me to straighten up and the pains never ceased. I took treatments for some time and finally was told I would have to have an operation. I do not believe in operations and I had read so much about Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound that I told my husband I would try it before I gave up. I soon began to feel that it was doing me good. The awful misery began to leave me, also the backache. I have a good appetite and am gaining in weight. Taking this medicine was the best thing I ever did. I feel like it has saved my life and I do not hesitate to say so to my friends. It has saved me from a dreaded operation and I am still taking it."—Mrs. ETHEL THURSTON, 824 North Pine St., Lima, Ohio.

K. C. S. Officials Are Named on Executive Committee of Katy

NEW YORK, April 29.—Another step toward re-establishment of closer relations between the Kansas City Southern and Missouri-Kansas-Texas railroads was taken today when representatives of the Kansas City Southern and its banking affiliations were elected to the "Katy" executive committee.

The new members of the committee are: L. F. Loree, chairman of the Kansas City Southern; Sir William Wiseman of Kuhn, Loeb and company, and Moritz Rosenthal of Ladenburg, Thalmann and company, representing the group which recently acquired substantial stockholdings in the Missouri-Kansas-Texas company.

The addition of these interests to the executive committee will give the Kuhn, Loeb group a strong voice in the affairs of the Katy and strengthen its position in southwestern merger negotiations now beginning to take shape.

Why Druggists Recommend Swamp-Root

For many years druggists have watched with much interest the remarkable record maintained by Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, the great kidney, liver and bladder medicine.

It is a physician's prescription.

Swamp-Root is a strengthening medicine. It helps the kidneys, liver and bladder do the work nature intended they should do.

Swamp-Root has stood the test of years. It is sold by all druggists on its merit and it should help you. No other kidney medicine has so many friends.

Be sure to get Swamp-Root and start treatment at once.

However, if you wish first to test this great preparation send ten cents to Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y., for a sample bottle. When writing be sure and mention this paper.—Adv.

Skinny Woman Asserts She Gained 15 Pounds In 5 Weeks

Wants to Tell Every Skinny Woman in the World About It

The greatest strength-giver and producer of good healthy flesh is Cod Liver Oil. It's full of vitamines.

But it's nasty stuff—ill-smelling and hard to take, and usually upsets the stomach.

Thank goodness! we don't have to take the liquid any more, for now Smith Drug Co., Tipton Drug Co., and all druggists are selling McCoy's Cod Liver Oil Compound Tablets, sugar-coated and as easy to take as candy, so now you can get the real Cod Liver Oil in condensed form and get just the same results as with the horrible smelling fluid.

Men and women, weak, thin and nervous, are urged to put on weight and get back their health and strength with these wonderful tablets.

One woman gained 15 pounds in five weeks and that's going fast enough for anyone.

Only 60 cents for 60 tablets, and if they don't put five pounds of flesh on any thin person in thirty days—why, money back and no quibbling about it, either.

But be sure—very sure—to Get McCoy's Cod Liver Oil Compound Tablets—original and genuine.—Adv.

Childress Tries For New Cotton Oil Mill

CHILDRESS, April 29.—The business men of Childress are waging an active campaign to secure a cotton oil mill for Childress. They feel that with the number of gins in this county they should be able to secure the seed and the farmers would get better prices for their products. The chances are good for something to be done during the summer.

WALSH AND WHEELER.

Montana has two senators ever in the public eye. First is Thomas J. Walsh who is serving his third term. Walsh is a product of the west and men say he is one of the great lawyers of America.

Burton K. Wheeler is not a product of the west. He is a native of Massachusetts, but early in life accepted the advise of the late Horace Greely, go west, young man. He is a lawyer.

He served as federal district attorney for Montana during the Wilson administration. Then the radicals and the democrats sent Wheeler to the American senate. Walsh and Wheeler are responsible for the Teapot Dome investigation.

They are responsible for the downfall of Harry M. Daugherty. They are responsible for all the scandals which involve Albert B. Fall, Edward L. Doheny and Harry F. Sinclair.

Behind Walsh and Wheeler from the beginning of the oil investigation stood Borah of Idaho and LaFollette of Wisconsin. Behind Walsh and Wheeler today are Borah and LaFollette.

Was Wheeler framed by a federal grand jury in Montana? Was he framed by the old Daugherty gang? He was indicted for practicing law for a client before the departments. He said it was a frame.

Walsh said it was a frame. Borah and LaFollette said it was a frame. These two independent senators gave Wheeler a clean bill of health. Well, Wheeler went to trial. He faced his enemies in open court. Walsh was his chief attorney. Walsh told the jury it was a frame.

What did the jury do? They returned a verdict of not guilty. They vindicated Wheeler. They said to the world that he had been framed by his political enemies. Another grand jury in the District of Columbia returned an indictment against Wheeler in which the same allegation as the Montana indictment carried is set forth.

Wheeler says he was framed in Washington by his political enemies. Walsh says it. Borah and LaFollette acquiesce. Wheeler has announced his willingness to go to trial and face his accusers in the District of Columbia.

Now what will Attorney General John Garribaldi Sargent do? Will he issue instructions to dismiss the indictment? Harlan Fiske Stone, his predecessor, dropped many of the Daugherty appointees. Official Washington says that Sargent is going to do some dropping himself in order to get rid of the Ohio gang.

Senator Burton K. Wheeler of Montana continues to hold the center of the stage. His godfather, Thomas J. Walsh, never deserts him. His stepfathers, Borah and LaFollette are ever with him in the spirit if not in the flesh.

A lucky mortal is Burton K. Wheeler, to have among his backers three of the foremost leaders of the upper house of the American congress. If Wheeler is a foul bird, then it is not trie that birds of a feather flock together.

A GREAT CONVENTION SPEECH.

President Coolidge delivered a great convention speech to the assembled cotton manufacturers in Washington. He drew largely upon science and history, upon economics and politics in the course of his remarks, specifically mentioned having consulted a technical reference work, and invoked Thomas Carlyle as a literary authority. All in all it was a comprehensive survey of the textile industry which he gave, with many interesting sidelights, and not a few clever interpretations of his own.

The president developed a novel idea in touching on the tariff question. He intimated that textile manufacture and large domestic takings of the finished product have developed a home market in this country which is the most wonderful in all human experience. By right of "first opportunity" he asserted, this market belongs to the domestic manufacturer. Then in order to forestall any charge of selfishness in this doctrine, Mr. Coolidge enlarged upon the freedom with which foreigners may buy our raw materials. "Whoever wanted them," said he, "was free to come here and buy our raw materials at exactly the same prices as our own people. Such staples as copper, cotton and petroleum might have been made the basis on which to build great national monopolies. Yet they have been as freely available to the industries of other countries as to our own. Under our constitution our export trade is free of duty."

Now it is true, of course, that duties or taxes on exports have never been levied in this country. Foreigners have come here and obtained such materials as they desired at the same prices paid by Americans. But carrying charges on raw materials operate as a natural tariff, and our duties on imports give domestic manufacturers an added advantage over the foreigners. It was one of the chief arguments of the early advocates of a protective tariff, that such measures tend to discourage exports of raw material by putting a premium on the production of finished articles at home. We prohibit duties on exports, not to aid foreign manufacturers, but for the sake of our own people, who are thus left free to sell to all the world.

On the side of interest and elegance Mr. Coolidge's speech more than met expectations. But it had serious shortcomings on the side of positive helpfulness. The cotton manufacturers cannot have been highly satisfied with the vague declaration that "as the war recedes farther from us, we are entitled to view with increasing assurances the outlook for business in all directions." Something of immediate benefit had been expected from Mr. Coolidge, something directly bearing upon further tax reduction.

LINDSEY CAME THROUGH.

Judge Ben B. Lindsey of Denver, the friend of the boys and girls of that city, came through a winner in his election contest. A recount gave him a majority of 26 votes. For 24 years the politicians of Denver have been seeking his scalp. His waterloo is yet to come

THE POPULARITY OF COOLIDGE.

Most presidents are unpopular in Washington. To this Mr. Coolidge is no exception.

The things which make him popular with the rest of the country do not increase his vogue in the city in which he lives.

The trouble is that Washington likes spending money, which helps the shopkeepers, and attracting a crowd, which helps the hotel keepers, and booming real estate, which helps the land dealers.

Mr. Coolidge is opposed to all of these things. He is in favor of cutting down payrolls, his actions do not please real estate dealers, and the simplicity of his inauguration did not please the hotel keepers.

The trouble is that Washington likes a good spender and the rest of the country likes a good saver.

They have made a good deal of fun of Coolidge's riding an artificial horse, and Will Rogers is responsible for the joke that he likes it because it does not eat any oats.

The plain people of the country, however, like Mr. Coolidge and his economies.

They have an idea that a president should do pretty much as he pleases so long as he does not interfere with anybody else.

The reputation for being a mean man or a close man does Mr. Coolidge no more harm than it does a bank clerk. People do not want a live wire, a good talker and a good spender for the president of their bank. They want their money kept by a man that is close and inclined to be extra cautious.

By the same token we would like our country run by a man who has a reputation for economy and smallness rather than by a man who is a good feloiw and a good mixer.

It may take a lot of handshaking and baby kissing to get elected to the office of president, but once in that office a man finds that his efficiency depends upon quite other things.

The Nashville Tennesseean as quoted in The Literary Digest, says aptly:

"No public man of his times has evinced a clearer realization of the imperative need of retrenchment in governmental expenditures; and no man of his day has displayed a surer and more steadfast courage in demanding that governmental administration and conduct respect that need. He has sounded a note of protest, of warning, against all government waste throughout the country. No man knows better than he the enormous drain of government upon the energies and resources of the people. There has come about a saturnalia of taxation. The average American hands over the result of one day's labor each week to government, federal, state and local."

IS THE INTERURBAN DEAD.

Richard Mariweather is the vice president of the Texas Tranction company, which operates several interurban lines. It is his opinion that the last interurban has been built in Texas. There is a reason for it. The motor vehicle car and the motor vehicle trucks forced the coming of hard surface highways. Then came the motor busses and the motor truck to take the passengers and freight traffic from the steam railways and the interurban.

There are motor bus lines and motor truck lines plying between the cities of Dallas and Fort Worth. There are lines operating between the cities of Dallas and Denton and Gainesville. There are others operating between the cities of Dallas, McKinney and Sherman and Denison and still others between the cities of Dallas and Waco and on to Temple and Austin and San Antonio.

These carriers on the surfaced highways are taking the short haul passengers and the short haul freight from the interurban and the steam railway as has been stated, and they were sufficiently powerful to prevent all regulatory legislation under the big dome at the capitol of the state last winter.

It is a mighty big problem for the lawmakers and the people of Texas to solve in the near future.

Uncommon Sense

By JOHN BLAKE.

"Be Yourself."

So common is pose and pretension that "be yourself" has come to be a slang pharse, which takes the place of "cut it out" or "forget it" as a form of address to people that the user of slang does not approve of.

It takes many of us a long time to realize that we have distinct personalities, which can be improved but which cannot be radically changed.

The young girl who adopts the manners of a movie actress, the boy who thinks he will be impressive if he acts like a prize fighter, all need to be told forcibly now and then to "be themselves."

And it is well to be ourselves in thought as well as in manner.

Talk to half a dozen men and you will discover that four of them get their opinions from their employers or their political leaders, or from the newspapers, and express them flambeyantly as if they were the result of long and careful cogitation.

Imitation is natural and necessary in children. But it should subside at the age of eighteen or nineteen.

The "personality" which we so admire in people who have the right kind can not be cultivated; it has to be natural.

Usually it arises out of consideration for others, and the desire put them at ease.

Parading before others in one or several assumed roles merely makes them rather ill. It never either impresses or entertains them.

A young lady of my acquaintance is always different when I meet her. Sometimes she is stormy and temperamental, at others cold and cynical, again, shy and timorous.

She was born none of these things, as she will some day discover.

She is young enough to find out before it is too late that she is just an ordinary moderately intelligent young woman, with good looks enough to attract a husband, and with sufficient mentality to keep him when she has got him.

But she is going through the imitative stage now, and it will do her considerable good if she is told quite often and quite energetically to "be yourself."

Everybody is sufficiently different from everybody else to give them a little piquancy, and to interest others, provided that they do not try to be anything which they are not.

The world has no use for posers. It is swift to detect pose.

Few of us can be what we want to be, for we all want to be heroes and millionaires and inventors, and beauties and great actors.

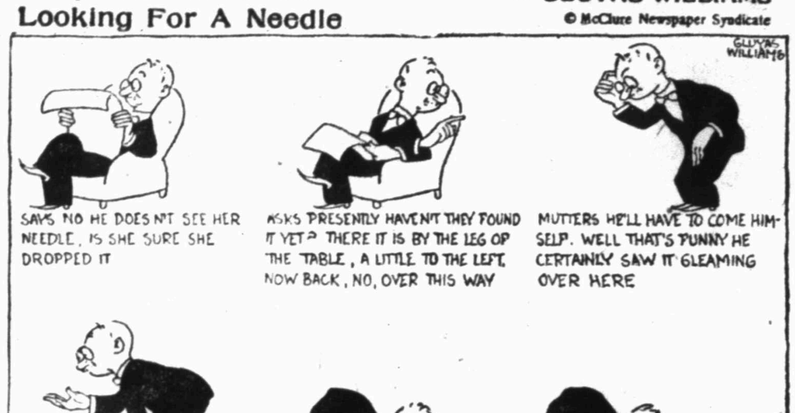

But most people can be something useful and pleasant and intelligent and companionable if they will just be natural.

Curiously enough, for many people, being natural seems to be the hardest thing in the world.

Which is probably why the phrase "be yourself" which might have originated with a philosopher like Emerson, has come to be the current slang of the streets, and is used as a substitute for almost every other form of expression of disgust for conduct which arouses general dislike.

Irrigation

THE HEAD OF WATER NEEDED FOR EFFICIENT IRRIGATION.

The amount of water needed for one irrigation can be viewed from two standpoints. The standpoint of the size of the stream or head used and from the standpoint of the depth or equivalent depth applied to the land.

Suppose we had a forty acre farm and wanted to give it one irrigation equivalent to a 3-inch rainfall or one-quarter of an acre foot per acre. The stream allowed is only one-half of a second foot.

A second foot of water flowing for 24 hours will give two acre feet or enough water to cover two acres of land one foot deep with water. A stream of only one-half a second foot will cover four acres 3 inches deep in twenty-four hours. It would if none of the water evaporated.

At this rate it can be seen that it would require 10 days of steady irrigation to cover our field of 40 acres. Putting in so much time to irrigate so small a field is very expensive.

Now suppose that instead of one-half of a second foot we were allowed 4 second feet or eight times as much. We can cover with this stream eight times as much land or 32 acres in twenty-four hours. In a little over one days time the whole forty is irrigated.

The large head of water is a big saving in time and a saving in water also because we will lose less by evaporation. Less loss by evaporation means more water in the soil where we want it to go.

Use big heads of water where ever possible and save both time and water.

POEMS THAT LIVE

The Arrow and the Song.

I shot an arrow into the air,
It fell to earth, I knew not where;
For, so swiftly it flew, the sight
Could not follow it in its flight.

I breathed a song into the air,
It fell to earth, I knew not where;
For who has sight so keen and strong
That it can follow the flight of song?

Long, long afterward, in an oak
I found the arrow, still unbroke;
And the song, from beginning to end,
I found again in the heart of a friend.

What Today Means To You

By MARY BLAKE.

Taurus.

Today's planetary aspects are just as favorable as yesterday's were unfavorable, and denote a degree of courage and optimism which presages success for any enterprise of a constructive nature that may be initiated under such influence. They are particularly favorable for any work of an inventive character or mechanical nature, and are also auspicious for ordinary commercial lines. There will be experienced today a clearness of vision, usually lacking, and foresight which is rarely met with, and it would be well to take advantage of these conditions to prosecute the task you have in hand to its utmost limit. This not only applies to business, but to matters of a more intimate relationship, and the indications are particularly suitable for engagements or happy marriages.

A child born today, will have, so far as its physical condition is concerned, many ups and downs, but the downs, fortunately, will not be so serious, as the ups will be encouraging. Its dispositiaon will be congenial, although at times, rather trying. Its character will be weak, and it will not have that respect or regard for the inherent good fundamental points that are essential for those who become outstanding citizens. It will be vain and self-opinionated. It will never need a trumpet to portray its abilities, as it will always blow its own horn. On the other hand, it will possess considerable intelligence and be an omniverous reader. It will not excel in sports or pastimes, but can be expected to make a fair success of any professional knowledge it may engage.

If today is your birthday, you are by no matter of means a dissimulator, but are quite outspoken and very blunt. You often hurt people's feelings by your extreme candor and frankness. You are very critical of the actions of others, and rather pride yourself on your ability to follow the straight and narrow. It is quite true that you are constant, dependable and conscientious: but this this being so, there is no need to bring this so forcibly to other people's attenton, as they can, if lft alone, see it and appreciate it for themselves. A little amount of diplomacy in your make-up and in your treatment of your associates would add greatly to their comfort and materially improve your own happiness. All people have faults. Most people are conscious of them. No one, however, likes to be always reminded of the weaknesses. You are very strong in your love, and in your home you are seen at your best, as the atmosphere therein seems to create in you a different spirit from that which you show on the outside.

HOW IT STARTED

"A HERRING ACROSS THE TRAIL."

This phrase, originally "to draw a red herring across the track" is frequently heard in everyday speech to signify a means used to divert one's attention to throw one off the scent by injecting into the matter in hand a new object upon which the attention is then focused.

The expression dates back to the seventeenth century for its origin, being a surgival of the old practice of sportsmen to draw the carcass of a cat or fox or a red herring across the track in training dogs for hunting.

The uniquess of the phrase made it stand out and it soon became poular in the figurative sense in which it is used today

More Truth Than Poetry

WHERE THOSE TITLES COME FROM

Bessie's high school composition
Read a score of years ago,
Was a gem of erudition—
How those verbal pearls did flow:
Everybody sang her praises,
Said her style was simply grand,
And extoled the lovely phrases
That she had at her command.

People said the world's successes
In the literary game
Never wrote such stuff as Bessie's—
She must soon eclipse their fame!
With such ornamental dictation,
By simplicity unmarred,
She would be a queen of fiction,
Or a deathless female bard.

But, when Bessie graduated,
Time continued to roll on,
While for years and years I waited
For her glowing fame to dawn.
In obscurity she hovered
For a long, long time, unknown,
But I lately have discovered
That she's come into her own.

Yesterday I saw some writing
At a moving picture show—
Vivid, fervid, and exciting,
It was Bessie's work, I know.
Shining laurel wreaths are clinging
To the gifted lady's brow,
Won by words ornate, but winging—
She's composing titles now!

Dorothy Dix's Letter Box

HOW CAN A STEPFATHER TRAIN AN UNRULY BOY OF 16?—ADVICE TO A GIRL WHO FANCIES HERSELF IN LOVE WITH HER MARRIED EMPLOYER—MUST A WIFE ASSOCIATE WITH HER HUSBAND'S UNCONGENIAL RELATIVES?

Dear Miss Dix—I have a stepson who is past 16, and with only one year's experience in trying to control him I am at my wit's end about what to do, as his mother insists that he be given his way over my protests, although I have to support him. He is utterly unruly, and as a consequence I sent him to a military school. But after one month's experience his mother permitted him to return home because he was not willing to submit to the discipline. I am anxious to do my duty by this boy and willing to put him through college, but he has neither gratitude nor appreciation of what I do for him, and his mother sides with him. What can I do
J. S.

Answer—Nothing, unless you can make his mother realize what a criminal thing she is doing in ruining her son, and to make a mother see any defect in her idolized child is the most difficult task on earth. Such women are deaf to all reason and blind to all consequences, and though you speak with the tongue of man and angel, you cannot turn them from their folly.

When you tell a woman that a boy of 16 is at the turning point of his life, and that if he is not controlled and taught to control himself, he will run wild later on; that if he is not disciplined at home and school, that life will discipline him with a rod of iron; that if he is not made to do the thing he doesn't want to do, but that he ought to do, just because it is his duty to do it; that if he gives up every hard thing just because it is hard and unpleasant, he will be a quitter as a man, why, she will agree with you.

She knows that that is what happens to pampered and spoiled boys in general, but she believes that some miracle will take place that will save her own precious darling. And, anyway, she is too weak and too foolishly fond of him to take what she knows to be the right course with him.

We talk of mother love. We idealize it and make it the most beautiful and sacred thing in the world, and the greatest blessing that can befall a child. So it is, sometimes. But just as often it is the cruelest thing on earth, and the greatest misfortune that can happen to a child.

I once heard a wise woman say, "God gave my sister angels, buts he made devils out of them." And it was true. These children were beautiful in body, unusually gifted and talented in mind, but their mother adored them so that she never corrected them, she never made them do anything they did not want to do; they were permitted to indulge every whim and caprice, and they grew up utterly selfish, purposeless, undisciplined, with no strength save the strength of their own desires and passions. They married, and were divorced from their husbands and wives. They tried a dozen professions, but failed in them all because they had never been taught to stick to a thing and carry on when the novelty wore off and the grind commenced. And so they ended utter failures in every way.

That will be the fate of this boy, unless your foolish wife can be induced to let you control her son and send him back to school, and make him stay there.
DOROTHY DIX.

Dear Miss Dix—I am in the employ of a young man who is very honorable and whom I adore very much. He is a married man, and I would sooner die than break up his home. He loves his wife and children, but there are times when his eyes tell me that he loves me. It is very embarrassing, yet I find that I like it. When I feel that he cares, though I know I shall never have him, life is very sweet, and when he is indifferent I want to cry. I am so wretched. Do most men fall in love with their girl employes? What would you advise me to do? I must work for a living.
WORRIED.

Answer—My first piece of advice to you, my dear, is to cultivate a little common sense. Don't go imagining that you see things in men's eyes. All that you see is the reflection of your own image, the thing that you put there yourself. No man's eyes tell a woman a single solitary fact.

The loing that you thing you precelce is probably caused by his thinking of his lunch. The light of joy that you see leap into his eyes at your approach is not caused by you, but by the stock market having gone up. The despair that you interpret into his grief over a blighted love is a reflex of the pancakes he had for breakfast.

A wit once said, "The light that lies in woman's eyes lies and lies, and lies," and that goes twice for men, so cut out the eye-reading business in your dealings with men.

My second piece of advice is to quit playing with fire, which you are doing in deliberately fostering in yourself a passion for this married man. Love is mostly self-hyposis, and any woman can think herself in love with any man that she wants to. Stop it. Turn you attention to some unattached young man if you want to save yourself trouble.

Certainly most married men do not fall in love with their girl employes. The percentage who do is very small. A man's thoughts in business hours are centered on money-making, not on love-making. Besides, a business house does not foster love between the sexes. Men and women see each other at too close range and get too well acquainted with each other's faults. I dare say your boss is more concerned about your spelling than he is about the state of your heart.
DOROTHY DIX.

Dear Dorothy Dix—I am a young woman, well educated, and was brought up in a refined atmosphere. I am married to a man for whom I care very much. My unhappiness is caused by his five sisters. They are uneducated, course and ill bred.

My husband insists that I visit them with him, but I don't care to associate with them. Has a man the right to thrust his people upon his wife?
EXTREMELY PERPLEXED.

Answer—When you marry a man, you marry his family. You take their name. Your children are of their blood and you become one of them.

It seems to me that your husband would have a right to feel that you offered him an insult if you refused to associate with his sisters, or to go with him to see them, or to receive them into your house, which is also their brother's house.

Probably there can never be any real frienship between you and them, though often women who have little education and no grace of manner or speech have hearts of gold under their uncouth exteriors and make the sort of friends that you can tie to. But you owe it to your husband to keep up an outward show of friendliness, and not to slight them openly.

If you have had better advantages than they had, why not help to raise them to your level? Then your children will not have aunts of whom they will be ashamed.
DOROTHY DIX.

Society

MISS GLENORE FISK, local Campfire executive, has returned from the national convention of Campfire guardians and executives which was held last week in Chicago and she brings with her many new ideas and plans for her Campfire work.

"There were so many things brought out at this convention that we had never thought of in our work here," Miss Fisk stated, "and I am making my plans to begin at once on many of the things to improve our work."

A Sponsor Committee.

According to Miss Fisk a sponsor committee for each Campfire group is going to be appointed. Each sponsor and each guardian is to make a report to her at the first of each month so that it will be known at all times just what is going on among them.

Miss Fisk visited the University of Chicago and was presented big silk moths to add to her nature study collection which she has in her office.

The first four days that Miss Fisk was in Chicago she attended a camping convention at the Druce lake. At this camp about 60 camp directors were present. Fay Welch, outstanding national authority of camping, gave suggestions on outside cooking, canoeing, nature lovers study and woodmanship.

Chicago Convention.

Following the four-day convention, a week's convention was held in Chicago where all Campfire executives, guardians and members attended. Distinguished speakers from Boston, Wisconsin, Illinois, Texas, and professors in the university made speeches.

At the large banquet on April 21 each executive was asked to speak on some outstanding feature of their city. Miss Fisk took as her subject, "The Wichita Falls Nature Study Plan," as planned by R. I. Sheldon, the Campfire nature expert, who is the geologolist for the Texhoma. According to Miss Fisk the plan was highly commended by the national staff.

Camp at Lake Druce.

For three days after the convention the younger executives went into camp at Lake Druce. Together they thrashed out their individual problems, helped one another and planned to work out their program to the best advantage.

While Miss Fisk was absent from the city the Campfire Girls of the city had her office completely gone over, painted, redecorated and new draperies put up.

Today's Calendar

Formu members, breakfast at the Country club, 9:30 o'clock.

Athenian club, luncheon, Wichita club, 1:30 o'clock.

Pen Women's club, two o'clock.

Parent-Teacher association of Junior college school, 3:30 o'clock.

Business Girl's class of First Methodist church, banquet, basement of church, 6:45.

1922 STUDY CLUB FINISH A SEASON.

Members of the 1922 Study club and their guests met together for the last time until next season, Wednesday at their luncheon which was held at the Kemp hotel.

The luncheon was prettily decorated in the spring colors of yellow and white. A yellow and white May pole was used as a centerpiece for the table. At the corners of the table were placed pretty bowls of yellow corylopsis. The nut cups and place cards furthered the spring color suggestions.

Mrs. Paul Steed presided over the luncheon, acting as toastmistress. Mrs. A. J. Newby gave a toast to the new members and guests; Mrs. John M. Martin toasted Mrs. A. J. Newby, the outgoing president with a pretty bit of verse. Mrs. T. B. Curd toasted the incoming officers and Mrs. T. B. Couch a guest responded to the toast that Mrs. Newby gave.

The club voted on the best paper that had been read during the study year and when the votes were counted Mrs. A. J. Newby had the most votes. She was presented a five dollar gold piece.

Plate covers were laid for Miss Verna Sellars, Mesdames A. F. Leach, T. B. Couch, O. R. Jeffers, C. R. Essyen, guests and Mesdames Paul Steed, King Davis, T. B. Curd, L. I. Lucey, O. O. Ross, John M. Martin, A. Clare, Grady Taylor, A. J. Newby and Miss Pearle Bandy.

METHODIST YOUNG PEOPLE AT PARTY.

One of the most enjoyable affairs for the Methodist people of several months was held Wednesday evening in the form of a reception given at the church.

The affair was given, honoring all of the new members of the church. The Camp Fire girls of the church acted as ushers and pinned a pink rose on the new members and a red rose on the old members. Some three hundred people were present.

After they had all become acquainted the following program was given: Words of greeting, Rev. Walter J. Johnson, W. B. Hamilton, and J. W. Thorne; vocal numbers "Wishing son" and "Enchanted Glade," Mrs. Newman Hill; reading Miss Marguerite Fisher; song "On the Road to Mandalay", Raybon Porter; general sing song, entire group; vocal number, "Absent," Miss Loreign Russell; vocal numbers "Forgotten" and "A Dream," Mrs. Alice Whitbead; stunts, R. H. McCulloch; talk by W. A. Edwards, of Dallas, 93-year-old super-annuated minister.

minister, and a song by the mutes of the church.

Following the program refrshments of ice cream and cake were served by the members of the Senior league number one.

PIERIA CLUB IN LAST STUDY HOUR.

"The Cathedral" by Hugh Waltol was the subject for an interesting discussion held Wednesday afternoon by members of the Pieria club, at their last study hour held for this season, at the home of Mrs. J. L. Elliot at her home on Alma.

Mrs. Ernest Westmoreland was leader for the afternoon and read a paper on "The Outstanding Novels of 1924-25." Different characters of the novels were discussed by several of the members.

Those present were Mesdames Edwin Bebb, A. C. Lualney, A. B. Duncan, O. T. Gorsline, A. Hallman, Frank Hoover, A. C. Parks, Chester, Pugh, Ernest Westmoreland and Miss Clara Shultz.

ATHENIAN CLUB PLANS LUNCHEON.

The members of the Athenian club wil lentertain with a luncheon at the Wichita club, Thursday, 1:30 o'clock. Hostesses for the affair will be Mesdames B. T. Burgess, A. R. Cannon, J. J. DeBerry, Charles Pridgen, H. G. Harris, S. P. Jones, C. W. Roundtree, Dave Shepherd, Frank Creighton and B. B. Craft.

This luncheon will close the study course for the summer months.

Circus Soon In a Junior College Tent

THE boys' and girls' gymnasium department of the Junior college will present a circus under the direction of Miss Beth Smith and Charles Frazzee, directors of the two departments, in the college auditorium Thursday evening at 7:30.

Everything has been planned out just as a big circus and according to announcement much is in store for those attending the affair.

There will be every kind of an acrobatic stunt, tumblings, floor work and many other kinds of stunts.

Mr. Frazzee will give a difficult trick that is dangerous and for which he has his life insured, says the press agent. A pageant will be given showing a nation before their king, in costumes, competing for his favor with dances and stunts of various nationalities.

There will be many side shows and other things that have not been announced. The boys and girls have been at work on this circus for several months and it is expected to be one of the best things held at the college this year.

Twenty-five cents will be the general admission. This includes everything that the students have to offer.

WEDNESDAY STUDY CLUB ON BROWNING.

Members of the Wednesday Study club held a lesson Wednesday afternoon on "Browning and His Works." Mrs. C. W. Wallace conducted the lesson and gave interesting discussions of Browning's work, "Saul" and "The Epistle of Korshish." Mrs. Julian Montgomery was elected into the club as an active member for next year.

Those prsent were Mesdames C. N. Alexander, T. E. Alday, Bert Bean, W. B. Chauncey, N. B. Chenault, Sidney Cochran, W. W. Cook, Harry Davis, J. C. Humphrey, Bernard Martin, O. E. Nichols, J. W. Cantwell, C. W. Wallace, F. R. Collard and B. L. Fain.

AMERICAN NOVEL JUNIOR CLUB SUBJECT.

"The American Novel" furnished an interesting subject for discussion Wednesday afternoon for members of the Junior Travel club when they met for their last study hour this season, at the library.

Mrs. G. C. Johnson was leader for the afternoon and gave an interesting paper on "The History of the American Novel." She also discussed some of the novels of the south. Mrs. G. K. Wilson gave a paper on "The Novels of the West," and an interesting approval of Booth Tarkington's "The Gentleman From Indiana." Mrs. Ernest Thornton read a paper on "Novels of the East," and read a special approval of Dorothy Canfield's "Brimming Cup."

Those present were Mesdames O. T. Ailes, T. R. Brunson, F. T. Datson, E. C. DeMontel, G. C. Johnson, W. T. Knight, W. E. Hunter, Thelbert, T. F. Morton, Truman Stephens, Wayne Somerville, R. A. Walker, George H. Watson, C. G. McCaleb, G. K. Wilson, Ernest Thornton and O. W. Wilson.

JUST WEE BRIDGE WITH MRS. HERNDON.

Mrs. Lela Herndon was hostess Tuesday afternoon to members of the Just Wee Bridge club at her new home, 2003 Tilden.

Mrs. Allen Pausky won high in the games and Mrs. H. W. Jaggers received second to high. Both were remembered with dainty gifts.

The hostess served dainty refreshments to Mesdames W. G. Bently, L. E. Friend, H. W. Jaggers, G. O. Loughridge, Allen Pausky, Tom Stephens and L. D. Townsend.

Duty Versus Pleasure Will Be Depicted In First Methodest Pageant

THE young people of the First Methodist church, under the direction of Miss Marguerite Fisher and Raybon Porter, will present a pageant "Life's Golden Time," to the congregation, Sunday evening at 8 o'clock.

The pageant will be of a spiritual type, portraying life in it's reality, calls and conflicts. It brings out the age old struggle between duty and pleasure, and finally the conquering over the pleasures and the victory of duty "when duty whispers low Thou must the Youth replies 'I can't.'" It shows where the truest pleasure is in the greatest service found, say those in charge.

The cast will include prominent young people of the church and will be as follows:

Angel of Service, Miss Ora Lee Smith.
Angel of Duty, Miss Margaret Akin.
Angel of Pity, Miss Loreign Russell.
Angel of Love, Miss Alva Ruth Walker.
Angel of Wisdom, Harold White.
Angel of Endurance, Gerald Downing.
Angel of the Highest, Miss Vallie Fern Lowery.
Spirit of Ease, Edmund Cook.
Spirit of Indifference, Miss Maxine Pope.
The Minister, J. W. Thorne.
The Missionary, Miss Marguerite Gerhardt.
The Teacher, Miss Zona Bachman.
The Christian Man in Business, Claddis Donelson.
The Social Worker, Miss Lucille Ballard
A Youth, Miss Nell Warman.
A Young Minister, James Williams.
First Maiden, Miss Alta Sue
Second Maiden, Miss Vera Cain.
A Young Christian Business Man, Charles Warman.
A Young Missionary, Miss Juanita Bauchman.

The public have a cordial invitation to be present Sunday evening and see this pageant.

JOINT HOSTESSES HONOR MRS. NOLEN.

Mesdames R. E. Nolen, Harry Myers and A. A. French were joint hostesses Wednesday afternoon at the spacious French home on Tenth, honoring Mrs. Chick Nolen, a recent bride, when 18 tables were arranged for bridge.

The decorations were lavish and lovely. Spring flowers were used everywhere. Large floor baskets of light colored roses were placed here and there to add to the loveliness of the occasion. The favors, score pads and refreshments were also used to carry out the pretty color scheme.

In the games Mesdames L. E. Whitham, Eugene Berry and Jack Speegle were fortunate. All were presented dainty gifts. The hostesses presented the honoree with beautiful linen.

Those who assisted in the house party were Mesdames W. J. Nolen, George Woodruff, Wayne Hammond, Mack Thomas, Harry Myers, R. E. Nolen and L. A. French.

The GILDED ROSE

by May Christie

WHO'S WHO IN THE STORY

ROSILYN PAGE, patehetic wistful hard-worked daughter of a Long Island innkeeper, has burning aspirations for a fuller and more beautiful existence. Wealthy New Yorkers come yearly to her father's inn for the duck shooting, but she dislikes them all except one young society fellow.

LANDIS RIDGEWAY, handsome and distinguished, well-used in the ways of the world, and at present in serious financial difficulties. For ten years he has come down at intervals to the Long Island inn to hunt, and has always been kind to the lonely, overworked young woman. He is in love with a beautiful society girl.

LYDIA HARBROOK, who values money far above love. Lydia, one night calls on Landis while he is staying at the inn, and swears she still loves him although she plans to marry

STEIVE VAN VORST, a wealthy old roue.

Rosilyn who is tending her sick father, overhears the conversation between Landis and Lydia.

Rosilyn's father dies, and to everyone's amazement it is found that he has left the girl heiress to an enormous fortune. Landis prepares to leave as he does not want to be found dancing attendance on an heiress. He tells her of his departure.

Landis is touched by Rosilyn's generous offer of half her fortune to make his way clear to marry Lydia. He refuses gently, and leaves for the city.

"You break one end of the little glass tube and push the tube into your cigarette. It perfumes it," explained the child who was dressed up as a Chinaman.

Rosilyn watched some of the great ladies at this interesting task. She did not smoke herself, and the idea of the glass container rather startled her.

Mrs. Ridgeway had a moment with Monsieur Paret at the conclusion of his dress parade. Would he do her the immense favour of designing a suitable frock for her young friend? Or was there anyone among his recently exhibited "creations" that he could recommend for Rosilyn? The gown was needed in a hurry.

The gentleman screwed his monocle in one eye and scrutinized the shrinking damsel.

The five hundred dollar gown for mademoiselle? But no! She did not have the air yet—the aplomb! She was unsophisticated! The gown would overpower her—be absurd!

Something in the jeune fille style, yet with a distinction! Something to bring out the color of the eyes, which were mam'selle's greatest fascination! He had it—yes! A quaint flowered silk, dotted with little posies. The bodice tight, the skirt bouffante.

She wore the Paret gown a few nights later, at Landis' dinner party. Mrs. Ridgeway's maid had helped her with her hair and with the fastening of the frock.

"A little touch of color, madam you are pale. . . ."

"Oh no! I couldn't." Rosilyn drew back.

"Then a dash of powder, please?" the maid pleaded. She liked the simple little country girl and she was sorry for her. Down in the servants' hall it was common talk about the heiress and the young master. If he did marry her, it would be only for her money!

Rosilyn declined the powder, but when the hotel was reached, Mrs. Ridgeway—in the ladies' cloak room—insisted that that oversight be remedied. Really the child was rather tiresome!

"A shiny nose is the onyl unforgivable sin in New York!" She rapped out the dictum like a Roman empress.

They joined Landis in the foyer of the hotel. The party numbered ten in all.

The lights, the music and the lovely frocks—above all, Landis' smile, his handsome eyes—completely fascinated Rosilyn.

The dinner was a dream, had she but had the appetite. Plovers' eggs in little nests, iced grape fruit and queer French dishes she had never heard of, but which tasted marvelously.

At the conclusion of the meal a glittering temple cut from a block of solid ice was wheeled forward by three waiters, causing a delighted "Ah!" among the guests. Electric lights blazed in the ice interior, shining on baskets of out-of-season strawberries that nestled in green leaves. There were transparent walls of some gelatinous substance that must be broken ere the strawberries were reached, while the entire contraption rested on a great silver tray smothered in pink roses and gardenias and expensive flowers.

Rosilyn, as guest of honor, broke into the temple first. She gave a little nervous shiver as her hand touched the ice.

"My shrine, built specially for you" her host whispered under cover of the ensuing babble. The words were light and spoken smilingly, but there was a hint of seriousness behind.

"And I have smashed it, haven't I?" she counter-thrust

He shrugged his shoulders.

"Don't women always break the shrines that men set up?"

Love made her mute. She could not answer him, although for a moment he looked long and deep into her eyes, as though he tried to read her very soul.

Later they adjourned to the ballroom, where the party danced. Rosilyn had never learned the art, and sat beside her chaperon in a sort of alcove, watching the enchanting scene.

Old men, bald-headed and bay-windowed, with the prettiest flappers. Brazilian women in exotic gowns. Rich South American men with diamond rings and diamond shirt studs, big as marbles. Exquisite creatures with mere boys, assiduously attentive. A wonderful, scintillating throng.

There was no one in the room one-half so handsome as was Landis, with his sleek black head and graceful carriage! How easily—how effortlessly he danced!

Then he passed his partner on to someone else and came to sit with Rosilyn. They watched the gyrating mob together.

"Amusing, isn't it"

She nodded, her yearning eyes upon his face.

She saw him stiffen suddenly, and, following his gaze, saw Lydia Holbrook whirling in the arms of Rupert Briscoe—a lovely Lydia in a golden gown.

She was a Golden Girl indeed—exquisite enough to make a man's breath catch in his throat and his pulses quicken.

Was it her fancy, or did she hear Landis Ridgeway whisper:

"Broken shrines!"

CHAPTER XII.

"The Gilded Rose."

They were married some weeks later, Rosilyn and Landis Ridgeway, very quietly, owing to the bride's bereavement, though such a word was mockery in the face of the radiant vision of a girl who stood by the young man's side before the altar and took the vows that made them man and wife, with a sort of breathless wonder that was wholly bliss.

He loved her. He had proved it, hadn't he? And she—why! she adored him, with all the hitherto suppressed fervor of her simple heart. She would dedicate her life to understanding him. Everything she possessed of youth, of worship and of worldly goods—was his, his! It was an intoxication and a sheer delight, this ecstacy of giving!

Her eyes shone like twin stars, and her pale face was luminant, as though a light burned from within. In her shimmering satin gown, cut with the nun-like severity of the Middle Ages, a single Madonna lily in her hand, she was as pure and exquisite a thing as ever had stood up before that altar.

The sight of her brought sudden tears to the hard eyes of Mrs. Florence Ridgeway, and a melting at that icicle, her heart. For dimly, through the worldly gratification of this match, she sensed that the little bride adored her son with a passionate, unselfish fervor that was very rare and very wonderful.

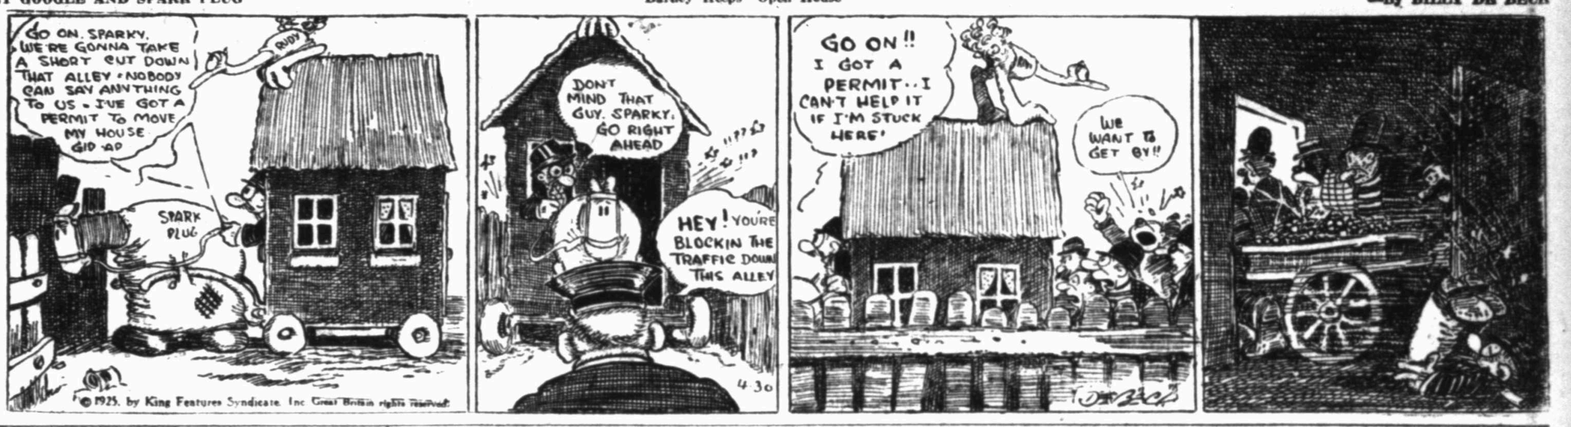

At her side was Rupert Briscoe, one of Landis' friends. Turning suddenly, she saw him staring at the white, flower-like figure with a burning expression in his eyes that made her shiver. Oh, those men!

German Foreign Policy Not To Change—Luther

German Chancellor Denies Any Change Whatever Is Planned

BERLIN, April 29.—(AP)—Germany's foreign policy will not be changed, Dr. Hans Luther, the German chancellor, declared emphatically today in an address before the annual congress of the League for German Industry and Commerce.

This declaration is understood to reflect also the viewpoint of President-elect Von Hindenburg, with whom the chancellor conferred yesterday.

While Dr. Luther did not refer to the recent election, it is generally understood he spoke with the full authority of Hindenburg and the groups promoting the field marshal's candidacy.

"The people of Europe desire the removal of uncertainty and lack of clearness," Dr. Luther had previously declared. "A policy having that end in view must naturally be governed by the law of continuity and can not arbitrarily change its direction."

That Germany does not desire war was a further categorical declaration by the chancellor, who laid great stress upon Germany's adherence to the security pact idea.

"Germany desires to protect herself by treaty," he observed, "and as I wish to emphasize at this time does not desire to conduct war."

Germany Had Three Flags Showing In President Election

BERLIN, April 29—(AP)—An unenlightened stranger arriving in Berlin during the presidential election or the few days preceding and following it, would have had difficulty in ascertaining the official flag of the German republic.

The black, white and red of the empire dominated the black, red and gold which was officially adopted to represent the Germany of the Weimar constitution. Then there were isolated though none the less conspicuous, displays of the red emblem of communism.

On the balcony of a well known banker's residence in the west end fluttered a republican flag, balconies on the other end of the building displayed the old monarchical colors; while the janitor in the basement proudly flew the scarlet emblem of the proleteriat.

PARIS GUARDS ARE ALERT

May Day Precautions Taken After Communist Shooting.

PARIS, April 29.—Aroused by last week's communist shooting incident the French authorities are taking extraordinary precautions to guarantee order during the celebration of May Day.

Minister of Interior Schrameck yesterday gathered Police Perfect Morain and other high officials in conference. It was decided that all the troops in the Paris district should be held in barracks, ready for any call. Ten auto trucks will be stationed at the police perfecture to convey reserves to any point needed and local reserves will be massed in every district police station.

Bulgaria Once More In Throes of Riots Staged by the Reds

ROME, April 29.—A dispatch to the Tribuna from its Sofia correspondent reports a renewed outbreak of fighting between Bulgarian government troops and communists. Casualties are unknown, but this dispatch says they are believed to be fairly heavy.

The dispatch to the Tribuna says a sanguinary battle was fought throughout yesterday between government troops and communists.

The population of Sofia became panic stricken because of intermittent muffled explosions and all street traffic was stopped.

The Tribuna dispatch says the explosions were caused by attempts of government forces to blast the communists out of underground tunnels where they had taken refuge.

According to the dispatch, some of the communists escaped from their underground resort after the government troops had dynamited it, and took refuge in the hills near Sofia, where they are said to have been joined by a number of other communists, all of whom are believed to be heavily armed.

ENGLAND NOT JEALOUS.

WASHINGTON, April 29.—Great Britain is not jealous of the growing friendship between her self-governing possessions and the United States, Sir Esme Howard, British ambassador, told members of the Canadian society here last night but the great mass of the British people are glad at all signs of growing confidence and good will. The forthcoming visit of the American fleet to Australia and New Zealand, he said, will not only help to establish an increasing cordial feeling, but will algo be of service for the general maintenance of peace.

AMERICAN DENIES HE ASKED MODERATION IN SOFIA

SOFIA, April 29. — American Minister Charles S. Wilson categorically denies the statement attributed to British laborite parliamentarians visiting Burgaria that he either officially or unofficially represented to the Bulgarian government the necessity for modification toward those arrested after the bombing of the Sveti Kral cathedral.

TO FORM BELGIAN CABINET

BRUSSELS, April 29. — Baron Charles De Broqueville, ex-Premier, has been asked by King Albert to form a new Belgian cabinet to succeed that of Premier Theunis which resigned April 5.

Hindenburg, Man He Defeated, and the Palace

The splendor that once was the palace of the former Kaiser Wilhelm, on the Wilhelm-strasse, in Berlin, has been subdued and converted into the living quarters of the president of the German republic. The art gallery is shown above; below is the royal dining room. The president, however, uses a smaller and less pretentious dining room. Inset are General Von Hindenburg (above) and Wilhelm Marx ((below), the man he defeated for the presidency.

Nicaraguan Volcano Throwing Out Ashes

MANAGUA, April 29. — For two days an incessant rain of black ashes from the volcano Ometepec, situated on an island in Lake Nicaragua, has been falling in the vicinity of El Rito.

Ometepec became active again a few weeks ago as did a smaller Nicaraguan volcano. The opinion is expressed here that this activity is safeguarding the country against severe earthquakes for the present.

Speculation Arises As To Who Will Fill Shoes Of First German Lady

BERLIN, April 29.—(AP) — The question as to who will fill the role of hostess in the German white house during the incumbrency of President-elect Von Hindenburg is causing much speculation among members of Berlin's society.

Von Hindenburg's wife, who was Gertrude Von Sperling, died in May, 1921, since which time the Hanover household of the field marshal has been conducted by a housekeeper. The president-elect has a sister, Miss Ida, but she is 74 years old and only recently passed through a serious operation and her health is not of the best.

The social duties devolving upon the nation's head are onerous, all the more since the presidency is more a representative than executive office.

The most likely first lady is the new president's daughter-in-law, Margaret, formerly Baroness Moranholtz, described as one of the most beautiful women of the German nobility.

Baroness Margaret married Field Marshal Von Hindenburg's only son, Oscar, a captain in the German Reichswehr, and who during the war was attached to the great army headquarters as an adjutant. Oscar and his wife, with their two daughters, have been living at Hanover to be near the field marshal and probably will move to Berlin when he does.

Von Hindenburg's two daughters constitute further possibilities. They are Frau Irmengard Von Brockhausen, whose husband is an east Prussian junker, and Frau Anne Mari Von Pentz, who is married to a retired army officer. The latter lives at Lunenburg, two hours by train from Hanover, where her father has frequently visited her.

Paris to New York Flight to Be Tried In Middle of July

PARIS, April 29.—The long proposed flight from Paris to New York will be attempted about July 20, it was announced today by Paul Tarnsoon and Francis Coli, both distinguished aviators, who were severely wounded in service during the war.

"We have one chance in twenty of succeeding, but that is enough," both said.

Tarasoon has a wooden leg as a result of a pre-war aerial fall. He concealed the fact and got into the French aviation service during the war, brought down 11 German planes and distinguished himself in six other aerial duels.

The fliers will attempt to win the $25,000 prize offered in 1919 by Raymond Orteig for the first non-stop flight from Paris to New York. They plan to fly via England, Ireland, Newfoundland and Nova Scotia in a hydro-airplane which is being built with a 500-horsepower motor.

3 Russ Reds Found In Bulgaria Cellar

SOFIA, April 29.—Three Russians found in a cellar containing ammunition were arrested yesterday at Philiphopolis a provincial capital between Sofia and Adrianople according to official reports reaching here today. Officials said that the only Russians who have been arrested in Bulgaria during the recent troubles and issued a denial of reports that all Russians in this country have been taken into custody.

Rheumatism

"Good-bye old crutch!"

THERE IS positively no longer any excuse for suffering the agonies of rheumatism! Especially in the autumn of your life, when the vital organs weaken, impurities multiply and linger in the muscles and joints, as never before. It is now, just now, when you cannot afford to guess. No day returns!

Here is a joyous fact which can mean to you a fond farewell forever to all the miseries, the tortures, the body-twisting pains that you have suffered from the demon of rheumatism. It is a fact that rheumatism means "blood poverty." It is a fact with the increase of red-cells in your blood, impurities are destroyed. It is a fact that S.S.S. will help Nature build these red-blood-cells! S.S.S. is one of the most powerful blood cleansers in existence. Its results in thousands of rheumatic cases have been nothing short of amazing! The medicinal ingredients of S.S.S. are purely vegetable. This is very important to remember! What can be more inspiring, more wonderful than to see the shackles of pain released from your struggling body, swellings, lingering pains, stiffness of joints and muscles all disappear; your stomach made strong; your face pink with the old sweetheart glow, your blood enriched and your cheeks more plump as they used to be. You can do it! Take S.S.S., the great destroyer of rheumatic impurities.

S. S. S. is sold at all good drug stores in two sizes. The larger size is more economical.

Spud Juggernaut Pours It On Fort Worth Cats For 6-2 Win

4TH STRAIGHT FOR VETERAN SPUD HURLER

Williams Holds Panthers To Seven Base Bingles

TWO PITCHERS ROUTED

Tannermen Wallop Head And Johns From Mound

By BLONDY CROSS

Well, there isn't much to say about Wednesday's ball game except that the Spudders continue to show themselves the best team in the league.

And, oh yes, our good friend Mr. Atz is ill again. Tuesday's moist and somewhat frigid weather put him between the sheets early that evening with a near touch of the flu. But it was not the climatic conditions of these environs that sent the Fort Worth factician under Wednesday.

For once more Skipper Jacob's Panthers quaffed of the overflowing cup of defeat. They were given a bitter taste of that ultra rancid Spudder pitching you learn so much about by perusal of Fort Worth newspapers.

When they run out of Osborne to pitch, the Spudders haven't nothin' else, or words to that effect, Pop Boone, well known Cowtown author, tells his readers.

Wichita Falls has a one-man mound corps, the stockyards scribes inform you, and that individual is Bob Osborn.

No, It Wasn't Bob.

But Wednesday afternoon, unless our eyes are beginning to fail us, we saw no Osborn on the promontory for Buddy Tanner. We saw Willard Carl Williams, the old Trojan, step out there, mount the hill and turn back Cowtown's bludgeoners coolly, calmly, unperturbed when on the brink of trouble, and with perfect sangfroid for nine long rounds. Willard Carl was touched for the huge sum of seven one-base hits, two of which were feeble taps indeed, and a pair of runs. The Spudders won 6 to 2, giving the old soldier his fourth straight victory.

Hearing of how the Spudder agate murderers whipped the pill to a frazzle during the spring exhibition span and of the continuation of their ball mauling tendencies into the Texas league marathon, one Trinity river expert ups and avers they'll never bruise any of our pitchers for no 14, 15, and 16 hits, or more words, nouns, verbs, and adjectives to that effect. This ardent scribe spoke gospel, for Jakie, of course, won't leave a hurler in there that long.

The Tannermen couldn't punch Ralph Head, toiling Cat right hander who started the affray, for any great amount of base blows. He's one Panther slabster they'll never make any 17 or 18 bingles on. For Manager Atz chased Ralph to cover at the close of the opening round. Spudder bats went batty in that initial frame. A trio of two-cushion swats and an immaculate infield safete tolled the death knell for Head and sent a trio of Tanner charges scampering across the paying station.

They couldn't comb any 17 or 18 base busts off the delivery of Lefty August Johns, because the southpaw only worked two and a third stanzas. So in a way we hate to admit the Cowtown writer was right.

Three in First.

Silent Cal, the romping outher gardner who can make more noise with a baseball bat than a 15-piece orchestra of six-guns, led away in that first chukker with a musical swat to right center for two sacks. Distel bunted perfectly between the box and first, making the bag with margin to spare. Then who should crash into the limelight but our Howard Fitzgerald, center field patrol deluxe and a sight to cause any pitcher sore eyes be he a right or left hander. Fitz wound up and pelted a rifle crack to left center, scoring Callaghan, sending Gorgeous George to third, and drawing up at second himself. George was held at the hot corner while Bodie and Dorman bounded out to the infield, but Walt Golvin followed up with a twin-pillow wallop against the right field wall. Distel and Fitz checked in. Mullen enacted a bit of one-handed robbery on drive between third and short by White, and tossed Al out at first. So much for three runs and Ralph Head.

The occasion was a merry one for Willard Carl. He whiffed Koney, and passed Palmer, or, in other words, got set for a double killing. It came. Just another one of those double plays was pulled off with the monotonous precision and machine-like delivery that is a customary fielding feat of the Spud inner works, not once but several times daily. White, Distel and Golvin handled the play on this occasion with Palmer and Edington the victims.

Then Johns Goes Out.

Johns went to the altar in the second, and although biffed for bingles by Williams and Callaghan with one away, came off without a scoring indentation. Lefty rollicked through the third in great style, but he stepped up and slapped Old Man Disaster squarely on the mug in the fourth. White aviated to Davis in center. Query bounced one past second, Palmer taking the ball perfectly. But the Cat keystoner chunked low to Koney, and the sphere squirted away. Williams swished a sizzler to left center for two cushions. Query tabulated. Carl set out to stretch the clout into a triple, but would have been cut down cold if Mullen had not muffed relay in from Davis by Windle. Carlos made the base all right, and Irish Cal put him across with a blistering bust to starboard. Atz yanked Johns, and sent in Kemner, a right hander. Distel drew a first base coupon. Fitz popped out to short, and then Bodie nearly decapitated the Fort Worth hurler with a bullet drive through the box. Callaghan tabulated. Dorman hoisted out to Edington in right, and the debacle was over.

That's two pitchers the Spudders severely chastised, but they subsided at the behest of Kemner the rest of the way. Fitz poled one by the keystone for a base in the sixth with but one out and Distel on first by virtue of a walk, but that was the largest threat the Spudders made. Kemner whiffed three in a row in the seventh. Spudder bludgeons were strangely silent.

The first Cat score came in the fifth. Williams struck out Windle and walked Smith, but the usual double play failed to materialize. Kemner rolled out to the box, sending Smith to second. Davis pushed a one-baser by the keystone, and Dock scored standing up.

Those Double Killings.

The Spudders jerked off another two-ply killing in the seventh. Carl passed Smith again. Apparently wasn't satisfied with the outcome of that first walk. Whether or not the big pitcher was really fooling with Cowtown's Kitten Keis we'll leave to your own judgment. But the Spud inner defense again rallied to the stress of the occasion and took Kemner's bounder to third for a quick and decisive two-time murder, Dorman to White to Golvin.

That other Feline counter occurred in the eighth. Mullen, Sears and Koney got to Carl for singles in succession, albeit we believe that Dorman would have handled Mullen's blow nine times out of ten for a putout. Palmer fell into a trap when he followed with another down third base way, for Freddy scooped her up speedily, and tossed to White at second, chopping off Koney. Al slung her to Golvin at first before Eddie could make the grade. You can't beat a pitcher when he keeps you hitting into double plays.

Callaghan pulled the crown fielding stunt of the afternoon in the ninth when he romped over and speared with one hand a low drive by Windle. It was the kind of a blow that an outfielder rarely gets his fingers on, but Cal stretched a couple of inches longer just as it seemed the pill was destined to hit the turf, leaned way down low while still on the dead run, and snagged the apple.

Edington enacted an almost as exceptional catch in the eighth on right field foul blow by Williams.

MONROE'S TRAVELERS CUT TRIO LOOSE AND SIGN SAME NUMBER

Monroe's Travelers have announced a change in their club roster that they hope will strengthen their entry in the Twilight loop. Brewster Hurst, Ed Weebunt and Mike Caskey are the three to feel the falling of the ax that is cutting the Travelers' forces.

To take the place of these men, Monroe has signed three more athletes. The newcomers are Herman Dunn, F. L. Johnson and Alvin Dulaney.

YOU KNOW ME AL

Thursday, April 30.

Dear Al:

Well Al we just arrived up in the old bean town to battle with the Red Sox and Whelan says they have trained so long on cod fish that they play ball like them. I am in fine fetal Al but Huggins wont use me and I suppose I will be older than Jack Quinn before I get going with this club and some times I think I will leave this club flat and start a school for young pitchers by mail. I use to think it would be a great life playing baseball in the big league but the benches seems to get harder every yr.

Lefty Allen Hurls First Methodist To 6 to 3 Win Over Grace Nine In Sunday School League Game

Bill Andress Collects Three Singles Out of Three Times Up—Contest Seesaw Affair

By MACK TURNER

"Lefty" Allen's southpaw slants led the First Methodist nine to a 6 to 3 win over the Grace Methodist entry in the Sunday School league race Wednesday afternoon on the Twilight diamond. The hitting of Bill Andree of the Grace Methodist team was the feature. Andree collected three singles in as many times at bat. Johnnie McMahon led the slugging for the winners with two slashing singles in three times up.

Allen put Grace Methodist away with ease in the first. Andree cracked a single for theo nly man to reach a base off Allen in that frame.

Minard was carried away after walking the first two hitters. Brooks took the hill and at once pulled out of the hole. McMahon slashed a hot one to Windham at short and two runners were killed off on the same play, Windahm to aylor to Andree. Gordon popped to short to end the inning.

Grace took the lead in the second with a single by Woodson, an error by Allen, and an infield out that shaved Woodson over the pan for a tally.

Knotted in Second

Ward's single, two walks, and a wild heave by Hicks netted one for First Methodist, tying the score.

First Methodist broke into the lead in the third. With one down and a man on second, Ward hit to short who nailed the runner at third. Wa. l reached first. Rawls singled to right sending Ward to third and taking second on the throw in. Freddie Boone walked filling the bases. Carrington was also given a free pass to first, scoring Ward. Allen grounded out.

Grace knotted the count in the fourth. Glidewell was safe on an infield bobble. Hicks crashed a single to right sending him to third. Hicks stole second. Brooks fanned. Taylor sacrificed Glidewell over the pan with a slow roller to the pitcher. R. Neal whiffed.

Iced in Fourth

First Methodists put the game on ice in their half of the fourth. High fill was hit by a pitched ball. G. Boone walked. McMahon cracked one to left for a single. Woodson threw the ball wild to the plate, Brooks retrieved, and heaved over third. All three runners spiked the platter. W. Neal went to right field, Skeen to second base, Taylor to for Grace Methodist at this stage, shortstop, and Windham to the mound Gordon singled to center, and stole second a moment later. Ward fanned and Rawls skied to center. Freddie Boone walked. Carrington hit to second, who booted the ball and Gordon scored. Allen popped to Windham.

The Grace Methodists attempted a rally in the fifth but it was nipped aftr one man had crossed the pan. Andreeg ot his third hit, a single to right. He stole second, and then third after Rawls had made a nice catch of Windham's line drive to left. Andree scored on Woodson's infield out. Skeen was safe on Allen's error. Freddie Boone took Glidewell's pop up.

After Highfill and G. Boone had been passed in the ast half of the fifth. Montgomery called the game because of darkness.

DALLAS DROPS ANOTHER.

SHREVEPORT, La., April 29.—Pat Malone's hitting and pitching featured an 8 to 4 victory the Sports hung on the Dallas Steers in the opening game of the series. In the eighth inning with two men on base Malone hit for a home run. He allowed the Steers eight hits for four runs, two of the visitors' tallies being made when Conley hit for a home run in the fourth after Billings had walked.

COYOTES TAKE ON VERNON SATURDAY

The Coyote baseball nine will journey to Vernon Saturday to meet the Lions again. Thus far this year these two clubs have split a pair of contests and are not satsified with an even break. Both are very confident of capturing the rubber game of the set.

Hamlin high school has asked for a game the following week end. Hamlin is located in Jones county, a short distance west of Stamford.

Travelers Hook With American Refiners Today

The American refinery nine and Monroe's Travelers will hook up today on the Twilight diamond. Both clubs are confident of a win.

The American refinery opened the season with a victory over the Wichita Electric entry. The Travelers battled four innings with Ludlam and Riggs, and were leading when rain stopped the game.

Francis or Glidewell probably will pitch for the Oilers. Monroe may again call upon Hatton, who was holding Ludlam and Riggs down in the Travelers' first appearance.

GIANTS DROP AGAIN.

NEW YORK, April 29.—(Nat.)—Once again the New York Giants went down before the Phillies today 13 to 9 in a slug contest which endured for two hours and a half. Dean of the Giants and Fillingim of the Phillies were knocked out of the box in the first inning. The score

Showers Delay Match Play Of Women Golfers

Landon-Hill Meet to Be Decided by Next Thursday

Match play in the Landon-Hill trophy tournment now under way will be continued orer until next Thursday, announced Mrs. Fletcher, chairman of the tournament committee, Wednesday. First round play was to have been finished by today, bue because of the recent stretch of poor weather an extra week will be given the players.

The women's golf association, however, will stage its weekly medal competition this morning at the Country club, said Mrs. Fletcher. And more than likely some of the Landon-Hill matches will be run off.

Rains washed out a number of bridges at the golf course, making it impossible for the women to play the past several days, but these are being repaired rapidly.

BOSTON WINS ONE.

BROOKLYN, April 29.—(Nat.)—Boston batted four Brooklyn pitchers hard today and won 10 to 3. Herb Thormahlen gave the Braves five runs. Jess Barnes, formerly of the Giants, allowed the Dodgers 12 hits, but was effective with the bases occupied. Score.

Santone Bludgeoners Biff Out 15 Hits for 9-7 Victory

SAN ANTONIO, April 29.—Three hundred shivering fans, trying to keep warm with newspapers wrapped around them, saw the Bears go to the top in the Texas league race when Waco was defeated here this afternoon, 9 to 7, while Wichita Falls was beating Fort Worth. It was another batting bee with five home runs in the game, Danny Clark getting two, running his string to seven. Picther Frank Watt drove in two runners ahead of him with a home run in the seventh.

Houtchens Thinks He'll Stop Carpenter In Ten-Rounder Tonight

MOCO CARRIES BRITTLE JAW, SO THEY SAY

Kinnard Picks Tough One In Mexican Welter Champ

MARTIN AND JENNINGS

Navy Scrapper Says He's Real Main Event Boxer

THE CARD.

Moco Carpenter, Wichita Falls, versus Loren Houtchens, Fort Worth. Light heavyweights, ten rounds.

Renato Torros, Mexico City, versus Battling Kinnard, Memphis, Tenn. Welterweights, eight rounds.

Whitey Martin, Wichita Falls, versus Battling Jennings, Henrietta, six rounds.

Two four-round preliminaries.

By BLONDY CROSS.

That Wichita Falls fight fandom will witness at least three bouts chock full of action dished up to them tonight in the Wichita theatre ring under auspices of the American Legion is a foregone fact, aver legion officials.

In Loren Houtchens, former T. C. U. grid star and Fort Worth battler who learned the trade in New Orleans, Carpenter will meet an exceedingly tough and willing mixer, declares Promotor Wofford. It is known that although Moco packs a powerful punch he cannot take 'em half as good as he can give 'em. In other words, some would have you believe Moco's chin is rather brittle. And it is on this phase of events Houtchens will trust for a victory. Admittedly a rough and ready type of mauler, he hopes to weather Carp's punches long enough to slip over a few stiff rights and lefts to the jaw. Few have been successful in trying this, however.

Torres claims the welter crown of Mexico, whatever that may mean. In Kinnard he meets a boy who a year ago was burning 'em up in his class. But has lived in Amarillo the past several months with a tire ship that proved somewhat of a white elephant on his hands, so he started into the face frescoing business again. He's picked a mean customer to come back with, local ring bugs believe, for Torres has put the bee on the best welters of this section, and is certainly no mitt flinching slouch.

Whitey Martin is taking on Rat Jennings just to get a chance to show his wares in Wichita Falls, he says. Whitey believes he deserves a main event but Promoter Wofford, knowing nothing of the former navy champ, was a bit dubious. Martin expects to make short work of Jennings, and prove that he is in a class with the other welters who have shown here.

Wofford intends to put on a pair of four-round prelims. The principals have not been selected as yet.

Qualifying play in the Nafziger golf tournament at the Municipal club because of the recent rains has been held up until next Sunday night when all scores must be turned in to Jack Hale, the chairman and entire qualifying committee of the club.

It has been planned for all scores to be registered by the past Sabbath, but damage done to the greens by the rain storms stopped the golfers dead.

Disch Asked To Air Grievances Before Council

Longhorn Mentor Urged To Appear Before Body Of University

AUSTIN, April 29.—Coach Billy Disch of the University of Texas Longhorn baseball team may air his grievances before the university athletic council, following his resignation Tuesday, it developed today. Last night the council invited Disch to present his side of the argument. The resolution to invite Disch is understood to have been presented by L. Theo Bellmont, athletic director, differences with whom led to the open resignation of Disch.

Disch may appear at a special session within the next few days.

When Heinie Odom, university senior and star shortstop, was recently declared ineligible for intercollegiate competition on account of accepting a $1,000 bonus to sign with the New York Yankees, the split developed that ultimately brought Disch's resignation, it is understood. The decision against Odom, taken by a one-vote margin of the council, went strong to Disch Sheart, who fought the fight against Odom's playing.

Disch, who has coached Longhorn baseball for 13 years, has an offer from Southern Methodist university, Dallas, at $5,000 a year, it is understood on good authority.

WICHITA VALLEY'S FISHING LAWS

'Tis unnecessary to call to the attention of North Texas gentry that the angling season will be with us again Friday, but at request of a number of anglers fishing laws governing this section and carried in The Record News last Sunday are reprinted. The summary was compiled from the Wichita valley fish bill enacted last March. It follows:

WATERS CONTROLLED BY THIS LAW—Lake Kemp, the Diversion lake, Lake Wichita and all waters impounded by these lakes, also the Wichita river connecting Lake Kemp and the Diversion lake and all waters in Wichita and Archer counties in the irrigation canals leading from the Diversion lake.

CLOSED SEASON — From February 1 to April 30, inclusive. During this time it it unlawful to fish in these waters for any kind of fish. Open season from May 1 to January 31, both inclusive.

It is unlawful to buy or sell or offer to sell any fish except minnows taken from the above waters.

It is unlawful to use dynamite or any explosive or any poison in any of the above waters.

It is unlawful to use a seine, net or trap of any kind, except the regular minnow seine, to catch fish in the above waters. Fish may be taken on the regular hook and line, trot line or with artificial baits, and in no other manner.

SIZE LIMIT—Bass, not under eleven inches, Crappie, White Perch, Calico Bass, Blue Gill, Bream, not under seven inches.

All fish under size shall be immediately returned to the water without unnecessarily damaging same.

BAG LIMIT—Bass not more than ten in one day and not to exceed 20 pounds in one day.

Crappie, White Perch, Calico Bass and Blue Gill Bream, not to exceed 20 per day of all kinds and not over 20 pounds in one day. It is unlawful to have in your possession at any time more than 30 pounds of all kinds, Bass, White Perch, Calico Bass and Blue Gill Bream.

IOWA PARK

crops; truck crops will naturally be grown more on the higher priced land near town and city and near the improved highways.

Of the some eight or nine thousand acres in the immediate Iowa Park territory, which will be under the ditch this year, probably eighty per cent will be devoted to cotton. Cotton is easily managed under irrigation and will be the chief money crop for the first few years of the project, and will no doubt always be one of the staple crops of the valley. The successful growing of cotton under irrigation was well demonstrated last year by J. M. McFall on his farm southwest of Iowa Park and by Jas. D. Greer on the W. L. Hodges farm. In each case the cotton received only one irrigation, and over a bale per acre yield was the result. A new cotton gin has recently been erected in Iowa Park, making two first class gins for this territory and another may be located somewhere in the valley before fall. Although too early to make any predictions as to crop yields, these gins will probably turn out seven or eight thousand bales of cotton this fall. Before any cotton is ginned the battle against the grasshoppers must be fought and won. A good start is half the battle, another car load of arsenic is on hand, a car load of molasses has been unloaded, and there are no farmers or landowners who do not intend doing their part in poisoning grasshoppers.

One thing very gratifying about cotton farming in the irrigated section is that practically all farmers are planting varieties which will produce government inch staple or better. Once started with staple cotton this territory is destined to become a section producing staple cotton in quantities which will attract buyers for large cotton factories and mills. There is much interest in the work of James D. Greer in producing a cotton of much better than the average staple, and having superior yielding qualities. Mr. Greer will have some four or five hundred acres devoted to the growing of his cotton this year.

Many Crops Planted.

Other crops which will be grown under irrigation this year include oats, corn, feed crops of kaffir, maize, and feterita, truck crops and alfalfa. Truck growing, which has been so profitable near Wichita Falls, is receiving attention by several farmers. Small acreages of ten, twenty and thirty acres have been sold, and the buyers have been at work for some time getting ready for a busy truck season. Tomatoes will be one of the chief truck crops.

Several fields of oats which were irrigated a month or two ago looked very promising, even before the recent rains. There are some promising fields of corn already up to a good stand, and many farmers are interested in the success of corn growing under irrigation. The success of the maize and kaffir feed crops under irrigation was well demonstrated last year, and these crops will form a most important item in cutting down the feed bills of the cotton grower. Kaffir and maize can be planted late in the summer and a good yield secured. With water when needed such feed crops can be readily grown after oats are harvested and thus secure two crops a year from the same land.

A crop having the least acreage this year, and yet one in which there is more interest than any except cotton, and one which is bound to play a big part in the agricultural development of the valley, is alfalfa. The state experiment station is doing some work with alfalfa this year. J. M. McFall and others also have plots of alfalfa well started. Some lands in the valley will be better adapted to alfalfa than others, but it is believed that over two-thirds, if not all, the land in the entire district can be handled to grow alfalfa under dry land conditions by two farmers two miles southeast of Iowa Park and by other farmers three miles east. A few years back, during a dry year, three cuttings from ten acres belonging to one of these men netted him more money than over one hundred acres of wheat. Due to lack of rain the wheat crop averaged only seven bushels, yet the alfalfa made three cuttings with no more moisture than the wheat received, and made considerable more money than ten times the acreage in wheat. Alfalfa is more readily seeded in the fall than in the spring, and this fall a much larger acreage will be sown to alfalfa than there is at present.

Balanced Farm System.

It has been pointed out by the more thoughtful, that a dependence upon one crop, namely cotton, would prove a bad thing for the irrigated section just as it does for any other section, and that a stable, balanced system of farming will be needed for the most successful agricultural development of our irrigated district. This stand is well taken, and the answer is as sound as is the objection to a one crop system. Other crops than cotton and other types of farming will be found to pay, but the keynote to the answer is dairying. No argument or exposition is necessary to establish the fact that around dairying is built the most stable system of farming man has yet found; this fact is well known. A stable system of farming means one that does not get out of balance by too much of one crop and not enough of others. With the water supplied by irrigation ditches to grow the feeds needed in the dairy industry, dairying is bound to become the balance wheel of farming in the irrigated district; more cotton produced on fewer acres will give a money crop and yet leave enough land upon which to produce the feed for milk cows. With some poultry added and a few acres left for fruit and truck, a stable system of farming will be complete. Dairying will not come next year, nor the next to any great extent, but it will come in ten years. As long as cotton remains a good price the development of dairying in the valley will be slow; a year or too of low price cotton will bring it on much quicker. It will come in time, and is destined to be a great industry in the valley.

With the greater interest in farming aroused by irrigation, there is a renewed interest in dry land farming in the territory around Iowa Park. The man without an irrigation ditch through his farm, feels that he must now work harder if he is to compete with the irrigation farmer. At present the dry land farmer starts with an even break with the irrigation farmer, this being true since the recent rains of six and one-half inches in two weeks time gives any man as much season as he needs. With more feed produced at home, the irrigation district will be of much benefit to the dry land farmer. Several farmers who do not irrigate are planning to enter the state cotton contest also the contest conducted by he Wichia Falls chamber of commerce. In these contests the man who does not irrigate, does not compete with the man who does, the Wichita Falls chamber of commerce having a contest for both non-irrigated and irrigated districts.

With more than thirty families in the Iowa Park territory having had previous experience in farming under irrigation, all of whom say the water and land here is better than it was in New Mexico, Iowa Park feels that she has a wonderful agricultural future. With combined bank deposits of one million four hundred thousand dollars, Iowa Park is facing a very presperious year for 1925. A decade hence will see home-owners making a living and adding prosperity to themselves and to the community on ten and forty acre tracts throughout the valley. Iowa Park has been termed the "gateway to the irrigated valley," and with the agriculture outlook it now has, it will make the "biggest little Town in Texas."

HOOK 'EM

up last night, 76 of them in all from California, Arizona, New Mexico, Montana, everywhere. Drawings were held for the places in the contests, the bulls to be ridden, the broncos to be manhandled, and the order in which the entrants were to take their turn.

Didn't Want Bovolupus.

But one hitch came up in all the drawings—when it came time to allot the bulls in the wild bull riding contest a number complained of "Bovolupus," the fiercest of his kind. It was announced that none could withdraw after the bull had been drawn, that if Bovolupus was the drawer's lot, he must ride at Bovolupus. The announcement resulted in three or four who had contemplated entering this contest withdrawing. The dread animal was finally allotted to Oklahoma Curley of Fairview, Okla. The bull has never been ridden but once and several have been injured in attempting the trick. Curley's trial will come as a special event late this afternoon.

Iowa Park's downtown streets were crowded last night. Hotels were full to overflowing and the streets were lined with cars of the entrants and visitors. The lizzie was predominant, a hundred or so were parked on the street, saddle strapped onto the hood, and a trailer on behind maybe for the horse that wouldn't stay home.

MASKAT

Wayne Holmes and Big Boy Davis were fifth. The line wound up with the class of Novices who later were to be inducted into the mysteries of Shiamedom. They were in charge of Pat Crawford, A. W. White, Henry Ford and M. G. Cutter. Thousands watched the procession as it wound through the business district.

The ceremonial was held Wednesday night at the Temple auditorium on the fair grounds. Sidney Gaines was director, with Dr. J. H. Fletcher and Claude Williamson as assistant directors. The first class went through at 6:15 and the second 8 o'clock.

In connection with the ceremonial, two visiting Masons were made honorary members of Maskat Temple. They were E. A. Skalinder of Naja Temple, Deadwood, S. D., and Les Walton of Abou Ben Adhem Temple, Springfield, Mass.

The Novices.

The class of novices initiated was as follows: O. L. Goodell, G. S. Selmeming, Jr., W. P. Staton, J. N. Allison, J. W. Lomax, J. L. McElreath, Chas. E. Morrison, G. L. Dodds, H. N. Seevers, E. C. Whitehead, L. E. Stiles, G. S. Yates, L. C. Ulrich, W. J. Morgoridge, C. T. English, J. E. Wilson, Jr., O. L. Smart, Geo. C. Sprangle, Theodore Harris, Max Palmer Weaver, Chas. STOCKS.

NEW YORK, April 29.—Confused price movements characterized today's stock market with the general list working higher towards the close on a resumption of bullish operations in the motor, public utility and merchandising issues. Trading was in slightly larger volume, but price movements continued under the domination of professional operators.

Steel shares lost ground, United States Steel common closed more than a point lower at 114⅝ on otal transactions of less than 20,000 shares. Crucible dropped about a point to 66, but the other independents showed only nominal changes.

New 1925 high records in the public utilities group were represented by American Water Works, Utah Securities, Virginia railway and power, Electric Power and Light, certificates and All-American cables, the first named closing three points higher at 52⅞ after selling a point above that figure.

Sugars were sold freely on adverse trade news. Cuba cane common and preferred, and Cuban American sugar breaking to new low levels for the year. Oils developed a temporary burst of strength but the rally failed to hold. Rubber shares stiffened on the announcement of higher tire prices.

Several strong spots developed among the specialties. Sears Roebuck closed 4¼ points higher at 159 and Gliden company advanced more than two points to a new high record at 20⅝. New peak prices also were attained by Coca Cola, National Dairy Products, American Ice common and preferred, Indian Motorcycle preferred, International Cement, Deere preferred and Remington Typewriter second preferred.

Another burst of strength in the Maxwell issues sent the A stock up 1½ points to 108⅝. The B stock closed three points up at 82¾. Nash Motors advanced 4½ pounts to 358 and Mack Trucks closed fractionally higher at 145.

Rails failed to derive much stimulus from reports of higher car loadings. Losses of a point or so took place in Atchison, Lackawanna and Seaboard Air Line preferred.

Call money held steady at 3½ per cent all day. Time money was more plentiful and rates relaxed with some of the shorter maturities being quoted as low as 3½ per cent with 3¾ and 4 per cent the ruling rates for the longer dates. Commercial paper rates held steady.

Further strength of sterling exchange, which crossed $4.84 to a new high was the feature of the foreign exchange market. French francs rallied 2⅛ points to 5.24c, sharp gains also took place in the Scandinavian exchange.

"They Bothered Me So I Killed Them," Is Woman's Story

OMAHA, Neb., April 29.—"They bothered me, so I decided to kill them."

This is the only explanation Mrs. Emmanuel Sorenson has offered authorities regarding the eight murders she admits committing.

Mrs. Sorenson, a dull, commonplace woman, is 28 years old. Her home is a bleak, frame dwelling in Danneborg, Neb. In this house she killed all of her victims, using poison.

The persons she murdered were all her relatives, through blood or marriage, and three were her own children.

It is Nebraska's most sensational murder case in many years. It closely parallels the case of Mrs. David Cunningham, who is being held in Chicago for the murder of her husband and five children.

Both used poison. The crimes of both were committed at intervals and escaped detection for a long time.

Mrs. Sorenson's first victim was little Viola Cooper, daughter of her first husband's sister. The baby died July 23, 1918.

10 New Witnesses Called in Probe Of Typhoid Germ Case

CHICAGO, April 29.—Ten new witnesses were summoned today for examination tomorrow before the ninth adjourned session of the coroner's inquest into the death by typhoid fever of William Nelson McClintock, for whole alleged murder William Darling Shepherd, foster father and chief heir of McClintock's $1,000,000 estate, is awaiting trial.

"These witnesses will have some important testimony to give, but I can't not divulge anything at present," said Oscar Wolff, the coroner.

GERM ATTORNEY LEAVES

Chicago Man Ends Investigation In Texas With No Results.

DALLAS, Texas, April 29.—John Sbarbaro, assistant state's attorney of Chicago, who has been in Texas several days seeking evidence in connection with the McClintock poisoning case in which William D. Shepherd of Chicago is charged with poisoning his adopted son, Billy McClintock, has returned to Chicago after a futile attempt to locate Mrs. Viola Eaton.

Sbarbaro came to Dallas yesterday from Houston to locate Mrs. Eaton, who was thought to have information on the case. Police were unable to discover any trace of Mrs. Eaton. Her name does not appear in either the city or telephone directories and families of the same name were unable to give any information concerning Mrs. Viola Eaton.

NEW ORLEANS COTTON.

NEW ORLEANS, April 29.—The cotton market while comparatively quiet most of this day was quite steady and prices showed an upward trend almost from the start. October opened unchanged at 23.38, rallied 12 points right after the first call to 23.50, then eased off to 23.36, but advanced to 23.65 in the late trading or 29 points up from the low and closed at 23.65 showing a net gain of 18 points. The general list showed net gains for the day of 18 to 24 pougts.

The steadiness at the opening was in face of unfavorable cables. Liverpool coming in lower than due, owing, it was claimed, to better weather reports and the advance in sterling which while bullish on this side of the Atlantic is bearish in Great Britain. The firther tone during the morning was due to the generally more favorable character of European news particularly the restoration of the gold standard in Great Britain a better demand reported for spots and a belief that the market was short and oversold.

The early reaction was due to the expectation that the weekly government weather and crop report would be highly favorable. The report was not as favorable as expected, and the market rallied and fluctuated narrowly until after the noon hour when quite a good rally took place on fears of frost. The low temperatures made frost probable tonight over a good portion of the belt and the official forecast predicted frost in the northwestern portion. July, which had traded down 24.01 or 2 points under the previous close, rallied 29 points to 24.30 but lost a little of the gain right at the end.

The weather map showed quite numerous rains in the belt as a whole and good rainfall in many Texas portions. The official forecast promised fair and colder in the west and cloudy and cooler in the east.

AMENDMENT MUST REMAIN.

Congress Has No Power to Withdraw Child Labor Proposal.

WASHINGTON, April 29.—Congress has not the power to repeal or withdraw the child labor amendment which it submitted to the states, although more than one-fourth of them have rejected it, according to Senator Harris of Georgia. Senator Harris today is advising George S. Harris of Atlanta, president of the Georgia Manufacturers' association, to this effect in reply to the latter's suggestion that it was desirable for congress if it had the authority to withdraw the amendment.

FLORIDA DEFEATS CHILD LABOR AMENDMENT 72-6

TALLAHASSEE, Fla., April 29—The proposed child labor amendment to the United States constitution today was rejected by the Florida general assembl by action of the house in adopting a senate resolution. The vote was 72 to 6.

Rain and Snow Falls In San Angelo Wed.

SAN ANGELO, Texas, April 29.—Snow fell here this morning with the sixth day of rain following a drouth of three months. A week ago today the temperature was 102 and a week ago Saturday it wag 107, the hottest April day ever recorded here. The rain last night amounted to an inch and a quarter, making three and a half inches in the last week.

SNOW IN NEW MEXICO.

Three-Quarters Inch Falls in Clovis, But Melts Rapidly.

CLOVIS, N. M., April 29.—Three-quarters of an inch of snow fell this morning at Clovis and throughout the county. The temperature is rising slowly, standing at 32 at noon, and melting the snow blanket rapidly.

HOUSTON GETS HER RAIN.

Long Drouth Finally Broken by Two-Inch Precipitation.

HOUSTON, April 29.—Houston's long looked for rain has come and gone. No more precipitation is expected by the weather bureau for the present.

In two downpours of Tuesday night a total of 1.85 inches of rain fell.

DEL RIO GETS A RAIN.

Light Precipitation Precedes 18 Degree Drop in Temperature.

DEL RIO, April 29.—Precipitation of .33 inches here today was followed by a norther and a drop of 18 degrees in temperautre.

SNOW FALLS IN INDIANA.

Quick Turn-Around From High Temperatures Takes Place.

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., April 29.—In sharp contrast with the weather of last week when government thermometers recorded unprecedented high temperatures for April, snow descended upon parts of Indiana today. Large snowflakes mixed with a heavy rain were noticed in the north and central portions of the state.

The United States weather bureau predicted frost in the southwest portion of the state for tonight if the skies clear. Thei owest temperature reported was 35 degrees at LaFayette.

COLD IN LOCKHART

Two-Inch Rain Brings Temperature Down to 50 Degrees.

LOCKHART, April 29.—Temperature here today registered 50 degrees, following a two-inch precipitation. A cold north wind is blowing.

Farmers are jubilant over the rains received during the past 48 hours, which brought a seven months drouth to an end.

Clay County Drouth Broken by Good Rain

MEGARGEL, April 29.—Farmers and cattlemen in this section of Clay county were well supplied with water as the result of a one-inch rain here Saturday and a three-inch rain Sunday, breaking a long drouth, threatening all the water tanks for cattle.

The rain is believed to have come too late for the wheat and oats in Clay county but cotton and other crops will be saved. Wheat though is practically a total loss.

The water will also be of great benefit to the oil drilling in this section, practically all the surface tanks having gone dry several weeks ago. The rain however will renew the drilling of several wells that have been closed down for lack of water.

Longer Life for Your Motor

Proper lubrication, more than anything else, governs the service life of your motor. Whether your car serves you for one year or for ten years, depends to a great extent on the quality, grade, and amount of oil you put into the crank case. The average life of a car is from three to seven years. You can make yours last longer and keep repair bills and part replacements to a minimum by using the right grade of Humble Motor Oil, and by draining and refilling your crank case every 500 miles.

Humble Oil & Refining Co.

Humble Motor Oil is an unblended, zero-cold-test oil, manufactured only from high-grade Gulf Coast crudes, and scientifically designed to meet every operating condition in your motor. Look for the Humble Signs.
