Dan Durham Selected For Naval Program

Dan Durham, son of N. W. Durham, received notification last week that he had been accepted into a Naval Reserve Officers Training program.

The program was set up by the Navy Department to train young men to be Navy officers. During the present time the Naval Academy is unable to furnish enough officers to fulfill the Navy requirements.

The program will pay for four years schooling in any of 32 designated colleges over the nation, if the youth will sign a contract to spend four years in the Navy on completion of his college career.

Dan applied for the schooling and was required to take a test in Amarillo and then another in Dallas. He was one of 2200 boys who were selected for the program out of the 30,000 who applied.

He has been accepted for schooling at the University of Kansas and will begin there next fall. Dan plans to major in some phase of engineering.

Upon starting to school he will be commissioned a midshipman, and after graduation will become an ensign.

Memphis Scouts To Attend Circus In Borger Sat.

Members of Scout Troop 35 will leave Memphis about 3 p. m. Saturday to attend a Scout Circus at Borger, according to an announcement by Ted Myers, scoutmaster.

The circus is scheduled to begin at 8 p. m. that evening and those members of the troop who plan to make the trip with their parents could leave at a later hour if they so desire, Myers said.

The circus will be staged at the Borger High School football stadium with approximately 50 Cub Packs, Scout Troops and Explorer Posts participating from the 16-county area of the Adobe Walls Council.

The agenda for the circus is as follows: Opening band music; grand entry of all Scouts with unit flags; clown acts; Onward With God and Country narration; Tejas Indian dancers; Cub Scout Indian acts; Alamo program; gold rush days; Lincoln assassination; Custer's last stand; Battle of Adobe Walls; bareback riding; roundup times on ranch; rope tying; Scout skills; physical fitness; camp craft; pioneering; archery; and grand finale.

Scouts of Troop 35 are now selling tickets for the event. A percentage of the ticket sales will be kept in Memphis to be used for local work, Myers said.

"We are in need of cars for this trip," Myers stated.

The group plans to return to Memphis Saturday night after the circus.

Chapezons Saturday night were Mrs. W. B. Hooser, Mr. and Mrs. H. R. Crawford, Mr. and Mrs. T. (Continued on Page Ten)

FLOOD DAMAGE—Rushing flood waters during the first part of last week did considerable damage to farms and equipment all over the western part of the county. An example of this is the tractor and land leveling machine above which was washed for about 200 yards from the T. H. Gattis farm over a field farmer by Son Hunter. Most of the damage was inflicted in the area where farmers are trying to get a series of dams constructed on the headwaters of four creeks.

Insurance Reorganization Legislation Passes House

The House of Representatives has approved the bill which would reorganize the Insurance Commission and allow Governor Daniel to appoint the members of the three-man board.

The opposition to this measure said that it was merely an issue of personalities between Gov. Daniel and John Osorio, Chairman of the Insurance Commission. Perhaps this was true to a certain extent and yet, to me, the issue was one of good government and of protecting our many Texas citizens who either have insurance policies or own stock in our Texas insurance companies.

New Blood Helps

Someone said that we were merely trying to "convict" our present Insurance Commissioners without benefit of impeachment proceedings by allowing the Governor to appoint three new members. I could not consider this as being an indictment, however.

For example, we have 56 new House members this time. Our election last summer was NOT an "indictment" of former members, but merely an expression of the people that perhaps some new blood in our state government would be of benefit. I believe that these new members have made a great contribution this session.

Governor's Responsibility

Since we have had so many insurance scandals in past years, I felt that some new blood, new ideas, and new administration in the Insurance Commission would be of great value to the tax-paying citizens of Texas. At least we have given the Governor his wish, and if subsequent frauds occur in the Insurance Commission, then the responsibility will rest squarely with the men whom the Governor appoints.

Appropriation Bill Hits Snag, Delay

As the session draws close to its final hours the appropriation bill becomes the deciding factor. It was anticipated earlier that this revenue measure would be ready for consideration about May 1. The initial bill has, of course, already passed both Houses, but we are waiting now on the Conference Committee report, which will adjust the differences between the House version and the Senate version. Once this Conference Committee report is submitted and adopted, the legislature will start trying to adjourn.

Right-of-Way Bill Passes

House Bill 620 has passed this body and goes to the Senate for approval. This measure would be a great relief to our counties, many of which having great financial difficulties.

This bill would require the state to pay 50% of the cost of buying new and additional land for highway right-of-ways. At present the entire burden of this cost is on the county.

REA Bills Pass

Both houses have passed a version of the Rural Electrification Act which would clarify a recent Supreme Court decision on this subject. Perhaps by next week the differences on this measure will have been adjusted and I can report to you the final outcome of this measure.

Only One Thanksgiving

The House and Senate have now passed a bill which would set Thanksgiving in Texas on the fourth Thursday in November rather than the last Thursday. Most years these dates would be the same. However, when November has five Thursdays (as last year), then we in Texas celebrate one holiday while the rest of the nation celebrates another.

This presents many difficulties as you will remember, and I am happy that we corrected this situation. The only people who opposed this measure were some South Texas "turkey raisers." They wanted two Thanksgivings so that people would eat "twice as much turkey." Enough of this "turkey-talk" for this week.

The second graders were happy to see the sunshine Monday, and to start practicing for the races.

Mary Ann Lemons, Eva Glosson and Gayle Koeninger played in the piano auditions last week.

A number of third grade children were stranded last week on account of continued rains. They are all present today.

The third graders enjoyed doing charcoal drawings in art last week.

They are starting practicing Junior Olympics this week. The recent rains have delayed their practice.

As the program, Mrs. Myrtis Phelan introduced Mrs. Bill Greene of Clarendon, whose hobby is raising African violets. Mrs. Greene made a very interesting talk on how to grow and care for violets. Mrs. L. C. Martin then introduced Mrs. Claud Johnson, who talked on iris, which is her hobby.

A short business session was conducted by Mrs. N. A. Hightower, president, at which time a short memorial service was conducted for Mrs. C. R. Webster, charter member of the club, who died recently.

Lovely refreshments were served to Mesdames Bill Cosby, Herbert Curry, Elvria Davenport, W. C. Dickey, H. B. Estes, Ed Foxhall, N. A. Hightower, Claud Johnson, C. W. Kinslow, L. C. Martin, J. H. Morris, J. H. Norman, Myrtis Phelan, Robert Sexauer, David Arofsky, D. A. Neeley, and guest, Mrs. Bill Greene Sr., of Clarendon.

The next meeting is slated for May 15 in the home of Mrs. N. A. Hightower. The meeting will be a 1:00 o'clock luncheon.

Weekend guests in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Ira Davis were Mr. and Mrs. Roy Curtell and daughters and Mr. and Mrs. Marvin Cutrell and Danny, all of Amarillo. Mr. and Mrs. Earl Mitchell and Sue of Tulsa and Mr. and Mrs. Van Howard of Memphis.

Ed Kelly of Lubbock was a Memphis visitor Monday.

108 Pupils Play In Piano Audition

One hundred and eight students from this area which includes Estelline, Hedley, Quail, Memphis and Wellington, played here in the National Piano Auditions last week. Lydia Buchanan of Dallas was the adjudicator for the Memphis center.

Commenting on the judge, Miss Gertrude Rasco, chairman, said, "She was a very kind and helpful judge; encouraging and inspiring each student to higher goals."

Students were graded according to four ratings, with the number of C and A checks on a pupil's report card determining his rating. The Family Circle rating means the pupil's preparation shows he is not yet ready to appear in public, but that he should find pleasure in playing the piano daily, trying always to improve his technical facilities. The School Circle rating means the pupil's preparation shows he is prepared to appear before his fellows in his room at school.

The Citywide Circle rating indicates the pupil's preparation shows he is prepared to the extent that he could creditably represent his school or club in a city-wide or countywide concert. The Critics' Circle rating means the pupil's preparation shows he is adequately equipped musically and technically to appear before any audience anywhere.

"The teachers and students of this area are doing a wonderful job, and I have enjoyed the fine piano playing I have heard this week," Mrs. Buchanan said.

Water will boil at the top of Mt. Blanc at 84 degrees Fahrenheit.

Boykin Family Expresses Thanks For Street Named in Their Honor

Mayor O. L. Helm and members of the City Council received a letter this week from the Boykin family, thanking the city for the honor bestowed upon their family by the renaming of Front Street to Boykin Drive.

The letter, in part, is as follows: "We are deeply grateful for the honor you have paid to our family in naming the beautiful new road Boykin Drive. I am sure that no honor our mother could have had in the entire world would have meant so much to her as this. We appreciate not only the naming of the Drive for our parents, but we are greatly moved by the wording of the resolution and its warmth and affection. This has particular meaning for us because Memphis is the place of our origin, the place that will always be home to us, as it was to mother to the end of her life. That was one of her last requests before she left for Europe on that final trip was that, when her time came, she be buried in Memphis between her father and her husband and with her old friends all around.

"Our love for Memphis and our appreciation for the qualities of the people there deepens with the years. We hope you will all feel about us as we do about you, that we still belong and will always belong to Memphis, and we sincerely hope that the pattern of lives in the future will enable us to spend more time there in coming years than has been possible in the more recent past.

The letter was signed by Mrs. Elmer Boykin, Charles Wells, Charlotte Boykin and Reuben T. Carlson.

Mr. and Mrs. Freddie Smith of Hitchcock, Okla., visited here the weekend with their daughter, Mrs. Elmont Branigan and family. The Smiths were en route following a vacation in California.

Mr. and Mrs. F. N. Blevins of Saturday for their home in town after spending the past here with her mother, Mrs. Hoffman and sisters, Mrs. Hoffman and Mrs. Jim Beeson, Mr. Beeson.

Tulia Editor Wins National Award In Column Writing

H. M. Baggarly, editor and publisher of the Tulia Herald, was named the top columnist in the nation in the 1957 Better Newspaper Contest last week.

Some local readers may be familiar with Baggarly's writings through the Press Paragraphs column carried in the Democrat. He has been quoted several times during the past months in this column.

Baggarly will receive the award during the fifth annual session of the National Editorial Assn. June 5-10 in San Francisco, California.

Among his prizes will be a trip to the Hawaiian Islands.

Although his column, "Town Topics," has won first place in regional and statewide competition on several occasions, this is the first time it has stood at the top of national competition.

Nineteen hundred entries were considered in the judging.

Mr. and Mrs. R. B. McMurry were in Canadian Wednesday to attend the funeral of J. C. Studer. Mr. Studer was a pioneer settler, and was 94 years old at the time of his death.

Report from Washington

By Walter Rogers
Congressman, 18th District

The important issues yet to be determined by Congress has done a great deal of work this year on the really tough issues. The leading one of course, the Civil Rights bill which is pending in the Rules Committee of the House. It has been in that Committee for some time and efforts are being made to have it reported out. In the past few days a member of Congress has introduced a discharge petition which the Rules Committee is now considering. It is expected that it may come before the House of Representatives in the next few days. This discharge petition has the signatures of 218 members before it will be effective. Chances are the bill will be reported out of the Rules Committee before a sufficient number of members sign the discharge petition. A number of members have asked to be heard on the bill before the Rules Committee finally acts on it. Most of these are in opposition to the measure. In any event, it is anticipated there will be a hot fight on the floor of the House when it comes up. It is a bill on which there is no middle ground. Those who are opposed to it are at one extreme while those in support of it are at the other. The reason for this is that the bill has been advertised by the proponents as a "Civil Rights" bill. The people generally have never been given information explaining the various whys and wherefores in the measure. This situation places many members of Congress who hail from districts populated by various nationalities, on somewhat of a spot. They are not asked to discuss and explain the bill but are merely asked the question, "Are you for or against Civil Rights?" Of course, everyone is for the rights of each American citizen as guaranteed under the Constitution, but it is impossible to assume that the bill in question would serve to protect or preserve those rights. In fact, a statute does not have the effect of a provision of the Constitution. Therefore, if the rights guaranteed under the Constitution are not protected by the Constitution, how in the world could such rights be protected by a statute? The truth is that the rights due every American citizen are guaranteed under the Constitution and are so protected and so preserved. There is no need for a bill such as that now pending before the Congress as the "Civil Rights Bill." This bill was designed in the minds of those who are intent upon prying into the personal affairs and business of others, to invade the right of privacy or more. Although I would not charge the proponents of these measures were prompted by desires to bring about federal dictatorship in this country, I would hasten to warn that one of the necessary tools to an effective dictatorship is the right to invade the privacy of the home and to encroach upon private and business affairs of free people. I would warn these advocates that they weigh very carefully the tools with which they profess to save so-called minority groups, lest they destroy

Over 50 Species of Grass Grow in Hall County Area

Do you know your grasses? Have you ever wondered how many different kinds of grasses grow on your farm or ranch or lawn? You would probably be surprised at the large number. William C. Swindle, SCS technician said this week.

The Hall County Soil Conservation District covers hundreds of thousands of acres. In this vast area, over 50 known species of grasses have been found, he said. It has been said that "Grass is the forgiveness of nature; her constant benediction." Most of the grasses found in the District are of great importance to man. However, some grasses are considered a pest. At any rate, grass is the basic food source in the universe, Swindle added. People not only depend upon it or the vegetable and animal products derived from it for food, but also for clothing, and sometimes fuel, shelter, and power. Soil Conservation Service technicians have made an extensive collection of the grasses of this area. Interested persons are cordially invited to drop by, to see and to discuss the numerous grasses on the large display boards in the local Soil Conservation Service office. Texas' Catherine Stinson was the first woman to operate a flying school in the U. S.

the rights of all people in this country.

Other matters yet to be decided include housing legislation which may prove highly controversial but which must be forthcoming at an early date if many segments of our economy are to be stabilized. Also to be considered will be the highly controversial federal aid to schools program. Of course, the appropriation bills that have been passed by the House, but not acted upon by the Senate, will be returned to the House after Senate amendments have been added. This will undoubtedly cause much controversy in the closing days of this session of the Congress. Most of the controversial issues which require the expenditure of money (and practically all of them do) always come up for double treatment. First, they are hotly debated on the authorization legislation; secondly, on the provision of funds to administer them. We are also without agricultural legislation this session, but hope that something can be worked out to correct this. Several veterans bills of importance are yet to be heard and the Congress has not yet faced the perennial Alaska-Hawaii statehood matter.

The bombshell that was dropped into this session of Congress, and slowed things down considerably, was the president's $72 billion budget. As soon as this hit Capitol Hill the battle was on, and incidentally it still is. The great clamor from the grassroots for a measurable cut in the budget increased the mail of Congress several times. This situation also focused the minds of the people of this country on the fact that a tax cut would be in order for those who needed it most and who have not received it. The insistence for a cut in the budget and a tax cut took precedence over numerous other matters in the minds of many members of Congress. I was very happy to see this because I have felt for a long time that it would take a drastic move on the part of the populace as a whole to awaken government officials to what the people were actually thinking. Especially was this true with relation to a tax cut. I am deeply encouraged by the statements that have been issued by many in the executive branch of this government, as well as the legislative, that a tax cut was in sight. In fact, a number in the legislative branch have advocated the program I have been supporting since coming to Congress; that is, the increase in the individual and dependents exemption allowance. Several more bills to bring about this result have been introduced recently.

GOP Begins Drive for City Votes

The Republicans are soon going to begin a drive in an effort to recapture parts of the West where they lost votes during the last election, according to what President Eisenhower told a group of GOP representatives from 10 western states attending a regional party conference in Salt Lake City last week.

This seems to be part of an overall plan drawn up by the leaders of the GOP machine during the past few months. It has been evident through statements by the Secretary of Agriculture Benson that the Republican Party is trying to get out of the farm price support program as fast as they can. The overall program, as revealed so far, seems to be to drop the farmers into economic chaos and send the price of farm products to the bottom. The administration hopes to push the price of food down at the customer level and then regain some of the city votes lost in the last election by saying to the city dwellers, "Look what we have done for you. We lowered the price of food."

The GOP would have dropped the support for farm products sooner if it had not been for restrictions placed in the laws by Congress. Secretary Benson, in a letter last week to Senator Ellender, chairman of the Senate Agriculture Committee, said that a "technological explosion" occurring on American farms is making obsolete the present control and price support programs as they pertain to the designated "basic" crops — cotton, corn, wheat, rice, peanuts and tobacco. Benson's letter offered no specific proposals but he stated that a flexible system has been "a forward step" in lowering price support incentives when smaller supplies were called for.

He was opposed to an extension of the present annual soil bank program, which he sponsored such a short time ago when the Republicans were trying to pick up votes for the last election. This program is scheduled to expire with the 1959 crops unless Congress extends the provisions of the law.

It might be well to watch the events as they unfold in the coming months and see how the GOP and their friends, the large daily newspapers, begin the propaganda designed to pit the city dwellers against the farmers. It seems that the Republican philosophy is to protect big business by high tariffs and then lower farm prices to the point where the farmers can compete on the world market. If that line of reasoning is put into effect then American manufacturing workers will have a high standard of living, such as they now enjoy, while American farmers will have to live like those in Egypt and Japan, etc.

History teaches that prosperous agriculture brings prosperity to other segments of the national economy. National planners should not overlook this basic fact. If farm prices are arbitrarily driven downward; then time will remove industry's protections, such as tariffs, quick tax write-offs, etc. It should not happen.

Better to get rid of those who think more of winning blocks of votes than of the nation's over-all welfare.

Quiz Sheet on Polio Vaccine

You have been urged to get polio vaccinations for your family. Naturally you want to know the facts about it.

Q: Is the Salk vaccine safe? A: Since the spring of 1955, 51 million people have had injections with an excellent safety record. Before being approved by the U. S. Public Health Service, it was given in field trials to more than 400,000 children. The American Medical Association now has officially endorsed it.

Q: Is it effective? A: Two shots, six weeks apart, are 70 to 80 per cent effective. A third or "booster" shot, seven months after the second, provides effectiveness estimated at 90 per cent. After widespread inoculations among elementary school children, polio cases in 1956 dropped 47 per cent as compared to 1955 and 59 per cent as compared to the 1951-55 average.

Q: How many have had it? A: By March 1, 1957, 51 million Americans had had at least one shot; of these, 27 million had received two shots; 11 million the required three shots. This means that only 11 million polio-susceptible people (under 40 years of age) are properly protected for the 1957 polio season.

Q: How many still need it? A: Some 58 million Americans under 40 are without any protection at all. Pre-school children (under five) need vaccination most. Teenagers are next in urgency; then adults from 20 through 39. Polio cases among adults have risen to 25 per cent of the total number. Furthermore, when polio hits a mother or a wage-earner, disruption to family life is especially ruinous.

Roll up your sleeve and start your vaccinations as soon as possible.

QUOTING OUR NEIGHBORS

Clean Up Pays Off

The odds were fantastic, but a city crew cleaning up downtown alleys and vacant lots last week discovered a missing check for $25 Mrs. C. E. Smith had given Mrs. LaVerne Henning a check for that amount last week. Somehow, the check disappeared.

Mrs. Henning had Mrs. Smith stop the payment on the draft. And then, in the vicinity of Throver's Clinic, a city employee picked up the check along with other pieces of paper. The check was turned over to city officials, who returned it to the two baffled women.

The moral of this little story is simple: Take part in Dumas' Clean Up campaign this week; there's no telling what you might find.

Postal Service

EARNST H. HALEY in The St. Jo. Tribune: Congressman Frank Kard writes from Washington that the real basis of the dispute between Congress and the Postmaster General is not generally understood by the public. A good word many years ago, he writes, Congress passed what is known as the "anti-deficiency" law requiring heads of departments to divide the funds appropriated them into four equal parts so that the money would be spent quarterly. This way the department would not spend its years' allowable in the first half of the year and then come back to Congress for more money. Congress passed the law to give them some control over the money that any other department spent. Departments were thus forced to stay within the expenditure limits set in the budget. Actually what happened, Kard explains, is that the Postmaster General has refused to follow the law and took all the authority into his own hands. "Many members of Congress, including myself, feel that Congress should have the right to determine what the spending of the Post Office Department or any other department of the government should be and that the level of spending should be controlled by the head of the department." Private industry would fire a man who treated his company like Sumnerfield treated Congress. It makes us wonder who runs the government, the representatives we elect to Congress or the bureau heads who ride into political power on political shirt tails.

Political Spending

The Senate elections subcommittee has found some interesting information on contributions to the political campaigns last year. The republicans received $20,685,387. The democrats, $10,977,790. Those contributing to the republicans included twelve rich families, and the DuPonts, Fews, Rockefellers, Whitneys, and Mellons and 225 officials of big corporations, 100 officials of top defense firms, 29 officials in big oil companies and 47 officials of Wall Street firms.

Interesting to see who is running the government, isn't it?

Glamour In A Shelter

When the siren alerted Quannah to seek shelter due to climatic conditions one evening recently, one local matron, youngish and something of a glamour girl in the neighborhood, exasperated her family when she took time to change her everyday "nighty" to a frothy and attractive red night-dress. When she finally arrived at the neighborhood shelter with the piece of attractive lingerie peeking from her robe, lipstick on and hair brushed back she met cold stares from women already below ground with their hair in pin curlers, smudges of cold cream on their faces and just any old thing around their shoulders. By way of the grapevine the glamour girl has been notified that it is perfectly all right if she wishes to jeopardize her safety and that of her family by stopping to dress for the occasion, but the other ladies' kids come first and they do not intend to open the cellar door to such late comers. Now our doll wants to know if anybody's got any extra shelter who appreciates glamour?

—Quannah Tribune

A Growing Market

There's a growing market around most rural towns. It is a vital market. The "big city stores" are going after that business, because it is good business. "Small town merchant Joe" and his neighbors are going to have to get up and hump to keep their share of local business. Opening the door every morning and waiting for customers won't do the job. But sound merchandising, promotion, advertising and cooperative sales activity with other local merchants can help turn the tide—as many small town merchants know.

Around and About

Monday the nation will pause to pay tribute to the mothers of the land. . . thousands of children will drive countless miles to spend this special day with their mothers. Mothers will pause, too, to thank their many blessings—to be thankful that their children are home and that there is peace in the world.

Many of the blessings that we enjoy were made possible by those who have gone on before. This was brought to our attention Monday when O. V. Alexander handed us a clipping entitled "Mothers." The clipping is one that has kept for many years—since 1918 when he was serving with the U. S. Army. It was Mother's Day that year, and thousands of young men were engaged in combat while their mothers waited anxiously on the home front.

Since that day, 39 years ago, many of our young men have undergone the same experience as O. V. Alexander. We are thankful that there is no war today, even though millions of our young men are still serving in the armed forces.

perchance twice, and lives or dies. The mother goes over the top every minute of the long twenty-four hours, between each sunrise and each interval and eternity. "In public these mothers smile. They perform their daily duties with a song on their lips. They send cheery letters to the boys in the trenches or on the battle line. No one knows what is in their hearts—no one save God. "And yet not one of these mothers but what would give her boy a second and a third time if she could. Not one that would not endure repeated and multiplied anguish that millions yet to be, may live in security, may hold and cherish their boys to the end. "No greater human sacrifice than this can be conceived. No man, no matter what he may do, has the right to call himself a hero in the same world with these mothers. There is the pinnacle of desolation, there is the composite crucifixion of ages. "Homes and mothers are today the starlight and the world dark with woe. Homes and mothers should make every man on earth pray, and pray hard; work, and work hard; fight, and fight hard. Homes and mothers should put the shame of eternity into the hearts of the slackers, the profiteers, the ones who are in any wise selfish in this great time of human unselfishness and sacrifice. "The mother in the home puts such men so far down in the scale of human contempt that they cease to belong in the human class. The mother in the home gives faith, courage, power and resolution to the man who sees his duty. She makes of him the Superman. "All that man has ever achieved has been possible because of mothers and home. This great war that is to mould humanity into the likeness of God is to be won by the sons of American mothers. Yet every mother is greater than her soldier son. To her all men must pay homage. She is the bravest of the brave, the truest of the true. "When the boys come back they will march through our cities and villages, the soul of their mothers are marching now. In that bright day when the boys come home let the mothers march in the van. They are the real heroes, and proud will be the boy who can march with the woman who bore him and who sent him forth, marching at his side, or before

Hall County Soil Conservation District News

By JACK DOUGLAS

It is said saying "you can't have your cake and eat it, too," applies to things which we do. Harvest perennial grasses is one of those exceptions to the rule. The first leaves of spring are made from this food that was stored up last year. As soon as the new shoots come out they begin to manufacture their own food and to build other shoots and leaves. The first thing you know grass is growing all over the place.

What happens when a cow nips off a leaf? That part of the factory shuts down until repairs are made and the leaf is growing again. What happens when all the leaves are nipped off? Why, the whole plant shuts down for repairs. Then some of the reserve food from the roots must be used to help get it into production again. When all the foliage is removed and kept off all year by livestock, the plant is not able to replace the eaten portion and drains the food reserve trying to stay alive. The following year the grass is slow getting started because the storehouse in the roots is empty. If this treatment is kept up indefinitely the grass plant has no choice but to close up shop for good. Now in this case you have eaten yourself out of house and home.

Let's say, though, that you keep an eye on things and let your stock remove only half of the grass. Operating at half capacity the plant works vigorously to replace the eaten portion. Little or no reserve food is needed. The plant stays healthy and growing, and it actually expands. The half that you can harvest grows larger and larger. The root system goes deeper to better water and mineral supplies. Grass comes out early and more rainfall gets into the ground. Next thing you know you are in business.

Of course, good and proper use of grazing land is not that simple. A great deal of thought and planning must go into a sound management program. Weather and other factors come into the picture. But the principle is constant. You can't have your cake and eat all of it, but you can dine royally and still keep plenty for a drouthy day. And the beauty of it is, in the long run you will come out with more than you started with.

Chamber of Commerce Committee Lays Plans for X-Ray Drive During June

Howard Shackelford, field representative of the Texas Department of Health, was in Memphis last week and met with the Health and Welfare Committee of the Chamber of Commerce to lay plans for a chest X-ray survey to be made in Hall County June 13 and 14.

Jim Beeson, chairman of the Health and Welfare Committee, will serve as chairman of the drive. Mrs. Herschel Combs has been named as co-chairman. Other members of the committee include R. C. Lemons, Rev. David Binkley, Dr. J. A. Odom, Dr. O. R. Goodall, Dr. Robert Clark, Gordon Gilliam, Dr. T. A. Hunt, W. A. Leigon, and Dr. H. R. Stevenson, and Clifford Farmer chamber of Commerce manager.

Also meeting with the group was two Turkey representatives, Mrs. Jack Case and Mrs. Helm. They were interested in having the X-ray unit come to Turkey. Plans were made to be in Turkey on Monday, June 17.

Sponsored and maintained by the state, the X-ray unit is brought to the community without charge of any kind.

Mr. Shackelford explained that although they will X-ray persons of any age, they are more interested in the older age group because it is in this group that they find most disease.

Not only do the X-rays detect lung cancer in the early stages, but tuberculosis and heart conditions as well. Mr. Shackelford explained they find more heart conditions than they do T. B. and lung cancer combined.

He also pointed out that the older you are the greater the danger of lung cancer, tuberculosis and heart trouble. When detected in the early stage these diseases can be cured. This is the reason it is important to have an X-ray made annually.

After the X-rays are made, they are sent to Austin where they are read by expert X-ray technicians. Then the X-ray is sent to your own local physician who recommends treatment: that is, if the X-ray should show some ailment.

Rodeo Club Will Present Roping, Riding Sunday

The Memphis Rodeo Club announced this week that there will be roping and riding at the arena located at the old fair grounds Sunday afternoon.

Don McElreath, reporter for the organization, stated approximately 20 riders roped at the arena last Sunday afternoon while approximately 150 spectators watched from their cars.

The events will start about 1:30 p. m. Sunday, McElreath said. The group is also interested in borrowing some animals which they could use to practice roping. So far, they do not have any stock to practice their bronc and bull riding with.

Anyone who has any animal which they will loan to the group is asked to call J. L. Bell at 902-K3. The animals will be picked up then later returned to the ranch which loaned them.

The Rodeo Club members will feed and water the animals while they are in their possession.
