IN CUSTODY — Napoleon Lechoco is escorted by agents from the Federal Bureau of Investigation field office in Washington Tuesday morning after he surrendered at the Philippine chancery earlier. Lechoco had held the Philippine ambassador and an aide hostage there for almost 12 hours demanding the release of his son from the Philippines.

Plan A Success, Man Surrenders

WASHINGTON (AP) — A father seeking the release of his son from the Philippines held the Philippine ambassador and a wounded aide hostage for almost 12 hours before throwing down his gun and surrendering.

Napoleon Lechoco tossed the weapon from a second floor window of the Philippine chancery about 2 a.m. today and surrendered peacefully after receiving word that his son, who he claimed had been prevented from joining the rest of the family here, had left the Philippines by airliner.

Olders Taking Unique Course

MIAMI (AP) — "I didn't get no education in my younger days," explained Eugene Sumler. "And if there was one thing I wanted to learn when I grew older, it was how to write my name."

At age 75, he has.

Sumler and 20 other persons aged 61-85 have been learning how to read and write under the tutelage of community college professor Peggy Hirtz.

Mrs. Hirtz heads a learning support center run by Miami-Dade Community College. She teaches reading, writing and vocabulary development.

But to her, Sumler and his classmates are special. They are 21 foster grandparents at a local children's home who this year asked the school to tutor them. Mrs. Hirtz agreed, working with the senior students each Friday.

"When I came home one day and showed my children I could sign my own name they said it was the most wonderful thing that they ever seen," said Sumler.

Joe Murrell, 61, says learning to read has opened a new world. "He made me want to live."

Susan McPhee attended first grade for one day before her father decided she was needed more picking beans.

"I was worried about reading and writing all my days because I was going to have to be beholden to somebody to teach me," she recalled.

Now those years of worry are over.

Mrs. Hirtz says she, too, has been given an education.

"It's like talking to a Florida history book, speaking to my students," she says. "They were field workers. They worked hard as maids and farmers, and pickers in the fields."

"I think the thing that keeps them young is that they are interested in changing their lives. It's when we give up wanting to make ourselves different, that's when we get old."

Fem Who Won Lottery No Longer Wants Pay Boost

HAMILTON, Ont. (AP) — As soon as Audrey Robb realized she had won a million tax-free dollars in Canada's Olympic Lottery, she called her boss to tell him she no longer needed a raise.

But the 40-year-old mother of three said she has no intention of quitting her job as a $133-a-week teletype operator.

Mrs. Robb, speaking to reporters at her Hamilton home, said she didn't initially realize she held one of the two numbers announced Monday night for the grand prizes.

"I thought I'd won $100," she said. "Then I realized all (six) numbers matched and I tried to telephone my mother and I couldn't dial the number."

Mrs. Robb, who was separated last week from her husband, said she will invest the money. "And I'll get a new car — a little compact, I guess," she said.

The lottery, the third in a series, is expected to add $30 million to the Olympic fund. The first two Olympic lotteries contributed $52 million.

Murderer Sought; Fem Free

DALLAS (AP) — A Dallas discotheque restaurant hostess was back home unharmed today and authorities searched for a man accused of killing her boy friend on Padre Island and hauling her across the state in the trunk of a car.

The hunt spread into North Texas after the young woman Frances Gardner, 18, told Monday of being freed a little south of Denton shortly before dawn and hitchhiking back to Dallas.

Her tale of terror began Sunday on Padre Island near Corpus Christi, where peace officers said Miss Gardner's kidnaper forced her and three companions from their sleeping tent, shot and fatally wounded Tom Turner, 19, of Dallas and disappeared in the sand dunes with the Dallas miss.

PRISONED

The other two in the party — Michael McKay, 21, and Jonathan Leavay, 18, both also of Dallas — told Kleberg County officers they were locked in the trunk of another car after being robbed. They tried out, found Turner mortally wounded and summoned aid. Turner died later in a Corpus Christi hospital.

It was Monday afternoon before Miss Gardner turned up in Dallas. A family friend said she hitched a ride from near Denton and telephoned a girl friend after finding her home phone busy. She is the daughter of Kathryn Gardner and has two brothers, Chris and David.

Miss Gardner told agents of the Federal Bureau of Investigation she spent most of the night in the trunk of a car while being driven northward from the Corpus Christi area. After talking to the FBI men about 45 minutes, she returned home and was unavailable to newsmen.

Speaking for her family, Jim Johnson of Dallas said the young woman sat down and wept after being released, adding, "She hadn't had time to do anything like that." Although describing her as "very upset," he said she was unharmed.

Johnson said Miss Gardner was unable to describe her abductor very well because it was dark when she was seized.

In South Texas, however, Chief Deputy Sheriff Joe Medina of Kleberg County said officers were seeking a white man with medium length dark hair and a mustache, and wearing blue bell-bottom slacks and a light blue shirt. He said fingerprints at the beach campsite indicated the man was wearing sharp-toed cowboy boots.

The description was broadcast after South Texas authorities talked to McKay and Leavay.

DALLAS BOARD

Texas Ranger Gene Powell and Kleberg County sheriff's investigator Steve Taylor were reported flying here today to interview Miss Gardner.

Store Hit By Robber

An armed robbery occurred at the Town and Country Store at Wason and Parkway at 7:39 p.m. Monday, with the description of the bandit similar to one who escaped with $500 in an armed robbery at South 87 Grocery 10 days ago.

The robber this time had his face covered with a stocking and used what appeared to be a .22 calibre revolver. Donald Coley was the attendant at the store that was robbed.

The description was of a heavy built man, wearing a brown pullover, light blue shirt and blue jeans. Detective Arven Henry is in charge of the investigation.

The owner of the store refused to give law officials the amount of cash taken in the robbery, "which somewhat hampers the investigation," according to one police official. It might be, he said, that the owner did not want people to know the amount of cash kept at the business location.

COLDER

It will be sunny and warm today, turning clear and colder tonight and tomorrow. Temperature should be in the 80's this afternoon, with the low tonight in the upper 30's and the high Wednesday in the mid 60's. The wind will be 10-20 MPH from the west to northwest, shifting to a northerly direction tonight and decreasing to 5-15 MPH.

CROSS PLAINS, Tex. (AP) — A gunman held up the Citizens State Bank of Cross Plains today and fled with an undetermined amount of money.

Shortly thereafter, officers arrested a man about 15 miles from Cross Plains.

Enraged Israelis Kill 4 Terrorists

By The Associated Press

Israeli troops killed four Arab terrorists holding about 75 men, women and children captive in an apartment building today, and enraged townspeople threw the guerrillas' bodies from the windows and set fire to them.

Police and soldiers watched as one corpse burned, and the mob shouted: "Another one! Another one! Death to terrorists!"

The Israeli military command said three of the residents of the building, a man and two women, were also killed in the shooting in Beit Shean, a town of 20,000 people 15 miles south of the Sea of Galilee and four miles from the Jordanian border.

18 HURT

Residents of the town said 18 Israelis were injured. Many were children who leaped from windows in the four-story building.

There were no casualties among the troops and police, the military command said.

A command spokesman said it could not be determined yet whether the three Israelis were killed by the terrorists or hit in the crossfire when the troops recaptured the building. But unconfirmed reports from the scene said one woman was dead an hour before the soldiers went into action.

The Popular Democratic

Front, a Marxist Palestinian guerrilla group, announced in Damascus that the raiders were members of the Front and their purpose was to force Israel to release 13 guerrillas and the Greek Catholic archbishop of Jerusalem, Msgr. Hilarion Capudji, who is charged with smuggling arms to Arab terrorists.

The guerrilla announcement said the raiders were members of the Popular Democratic Front's "Tiberias unit," a claim that they came from within Israel and not from Lebanon, Syria or Jordan.

Townpeople said the terrorists seized the apartment house about 5 a.m., throwing hand grenades and shooting bursts of sub-machine-gun fire as they broke in. Troops and police units rushed to the scene, sealed off the area but did not attack for more than three hours.

TOOK COVER

Meanwhile, shooting and explosions were heard inside the building. Residents of the town, which once was a frequent target for artillery fire from Jordan, took cover in air raid shelters.

After the soldiers shot their way into the building and killed the Arabs, hundreds of furious townspeople swarmed in and grabbed the four corpses.

FORD TELLS TANAKA

'Japan Can Count On Farm Imports'

TOKYO (AP) — President Ford began the first American presidential visit to Japan today by meeting with Emperor Hirohito and assuring Prime Minister Kakuei Tanaka that Japan can count on "a stable supply of agricultural imports from the United States."

Ford invited the emperor to visit the United States next year, renewing an invitation first extended three years ago, and Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger told a news conference the invitation was accepted.

Ford's talk with Tanaka and other high-ranking Japanese officials also dealt with the locally touchy question of nuclear weapons aboard U.S. Navy ships visiting Japanese ports, the global oil situation and U.S. relations with China and the Soviet Union.

Kissinger said Ford expressed his desire to maintain a steady flow of U.S. agricultural shipments to Japan. The flow was disturbed last year when President Nixon temporarily imposed an embargo on soybean exports, a major source of protein in the Japanese diet.

The secretary of state said the President also "expressed his understanding for the special sensitivities" of the Japanese about nuclear weapons.

Nuclear weapons are barred from Japanese territory, and Tanaka's government was acutely embarrassed when a retired American admiral told a U.S. congressional committee earlier this year that American navy ships visiting foreign ports did not unload their nuclear weapons.

Kissinger said any special questions arising in the nuclear area would be handled by him and Foreign Minister Toshio Kimura.

Ford also gave Tanaka and his colleagues a preview of his meeting with Soviet leader Leonid I. Brezhnev, Kissinger, who will go to Peking from Vladivostok, said he would stop in Tokyo next week to tell the Japanese leaders about the meeting with Brezhnev and his talks with the Chinese.

The meeting between Ford and the emperor — to the strains of the University of Michigan fight song — was the first between a Japanese ruler and an American president on Japanese soil. Though entirely symbolic, Kissinger said it was the part of Ford's visit that "has meaning to the Japanese people," an indication that it was considered the most significant part of the visit.

Masked Men Win Last Hand; Opt For Pants

DENVER (AP) — Twelve men lost their pants during a card game and two masked robbers won the final hand.

Police said two armed men interrupted a card game Monday at a private club and ordered members to stand against the wall.

The robbers searched the Hip Sing Club, then the card players were ordered to remove their trousers.

The victims said the two men collected the pants, with wallets still in them, in a bag and fled out a rear door. The card players reported losing $879.

Radiation Woes Await Spaceship

WASHINGTON (AP) — Pioneer 11 will face a greater radiation danger than any previous spacecraft when it sweeps within 26,600 miles of Jupiter on Dec. 3, project officials report.

The robot explorer could be damaged so severely that it would be unable to carry out the second phase of its long interplanetary journey, a dash across the solar system to a 1979 rendezvous with Saturn.

"The radiation counts will probably soar at a pace that will scare us half to death just before closest approach," said B. J. O'Brien, Pioneer project manager at TRW Inc., which built the satellite for NASA.

Launched 20 months ago, Pioneer 11 is following a path blazed by its twin, Pioneer 10, a year ago. Pioneer 10 zipped 82,000 miles above Jupiter and its cameras and instruments provided science with startling new facts about the colossus of planets.

The newest probe will scout a different region of the planet, including the north and south poles.

"The experimenters measured a lot of intense radiation last year with Pioneer 10," said O'Brien. "This time the spacecraft is going three times closer. The closer you get to the planet, the more a given particle's energy climbs."

Fortunately, much of Pioneer 11's photographic and other investigative work will be completed by the time it hits the heavy portion of the Jovian radiation belt.

"If we hear nothing after it passes through, sure we'll be disappointed; we'll have missed the bonus," O'Brien said. "But we will have achieved our basic objectives — to see new faces of Jupiter, get a different cut through the radiation belts. We'll know more about how to design the next spacecraft so it can survive a passage that close to the planet."

The bonus he referred to is Saturn. That originally was not part of the flight plan. But scientists since have discovered a unique way to use the gravity of field of Jupiter to hurl Pioneer 11, slingshot fashion, on to Saturn.

Weekend With A Killer

EDITORS: Sandy Fawkes, a journalist with the London Daily Express, has been traveling in the United States. Twelve days ago she met Paul John Knowles in Atlanta and traveled with him to Florida without knowing that he was wanted for questioning in up to 12 slayings. She wrote the following account for The Atlanta Constitution.

By SANDY FAWKES
For The Constitution

ATLANTA (AP) — He was tall, fair and handsome, with the immaculate manner of the comfortably rich American.

We had met in a bar in Atlanta and he had offered to show me the city. After a romantic evening he suggested we drive down to Miami, where he was going to see his lawyer and I was to visit friends.

It seemed like a good way of spending a few days and seeing a bit of America, so I invited him to pick me up at my hotel the following day.

How could I have possibly known that those strange hands, the hands that would carry my suitcases, fasten my seatbelt, catch a mosquito hawk (dragon fly) in my room and carry it tenderly to freedom, had only three days before strangled and trussed a 15-year-old girl, police said, and reportedly stabbed her father to death, plunging scissors into him 27 times?

The man I knew as Darrel Golden was really a wanted criminal.

My spine still cramps with fear when I remember the jokes I made about what a risk was taking, setting off on a journey with a stranger. Now I feel it was those jokes and my sense of humor that kept me alive.

We drove through the autumn countryside of Georgia keeping a careful eye out for traffic cops.

As we neared Jacksonville, he said he was tired and asked me to drive. While I did so he put his head on my

Officers Seek Missing Man

MACON, Ga. (AP) — Law enforcement officers and volunteers tramped through dense fog today, searching rural areas south of here for a Florida state trooper and a Delaware man believed to have been taken hostage and then abandoned by a Florida parolee.

The parolee, Paul John Knowles, 28, remained in the Bibb County jail in Macon, where Georgia Bureau of Investigation agents are attempting to piece together his activities of last weekend. He was arrested Sunday in Stockbridge, just south of Atlanta.

lap and went fast asleep. Only later did I discover that he had jumped parole from this section of Florida, and that the car that I was so thrilled to be driving had been reported stolen four months previously and that the owner has never been seen since.

He stayed at West Palm Beach when we arrived near Miami, but not at my hotel. He met me at my hotel's bar for several days. He even drove me in that supposedly stolen car, to an interview I had arranged with U.S. Atty. Gen. William Saxbe.

I was preparing to return to London and had many other friends to see. So I left him in a bar and didn't return his phone calls.

It was at that bar that he met some friends of mine who liked him and took him back to their hotel for a drink, and that was where he stayed that night.

The next day he offered to drive my friend's wife to the hairdresser and on the way attempted to rape her. She escaped, and from then on the gentle person who had carried my bags when we went shopping and had looked after my wallet so that it wouldn't get stolen disappeared (he never took anything from me; it's really extraordinary

France Delivering Bombers To Egypt

WASHINGTON (AP) — France has started delivering Mirage fighter bombers to Egypt, a step regarded as the first hard evidence that Egypt is turning to France for new weapons in an effort to broaden its sources of arms.

Meanwhile, Pentagon sources said that they have detected no dramatic increase in the level of Soviet arms shipments to Syria.

Ex-Diplomat Working For Videotape File

By JAY SHARBUIT
NEW YORK (AP) — Oral history collections — taped talks with famous figures — aren't new at universities. Alas, they only serve scholars' ears, not eyes. But work has begun to let the eyes have it, too.

Former diplomat Angier Biddle Duke says he's trying to create a videotape file of scholarly interviews with key Americans who, though now out of government service, helped shape modern American history.

The collection, he adds, is for the archives of Duke University and intended "to provide a record for scholars and historians" in which they can observe as well as listen to the subject.

Duke, 58, the chief White House protocol officer in the Kennedy Administration, said he and Jay Rutherford, a former State Department colleague, began work on the project about a year ago.

He said the Duke file already contains videotape interviews he's had with former Sen. John Sherman Cooper, a member of the Warren Commission; Earl T. Smith, the last U.S. ambassador to Cuba before Fidel Castro's rise to power, and the late Stanton Griffis, former U.S. ambassador to Argentina, Spain, Egypt and Poland.

Duke says the tapes aren't made with the idea of offering them to commercial or public TV. "We'd never do that. That would be absolutely ruled out."

The interviews are of retired U.S. government figures, he said, because still-active ones are naturally guarded about what they'd say.

The basic concept, he said, is to question the subjects in an atmosphere in which they need not fear today's recollections are tomorrow's personally and professionally embarrassing headlines.

Miss Richmond started collecting match book covers when a little girl. She now has some 400,000. She belongs to one of the major match book collectors clubs which has 2,500 members.

The parcel post man arrives almost daily at her home with packages of covers from other collectors and she in turn sends duplicate covers to these persons.

3 Chimps Working On Murals

PORTLAND, Ore. (AP) — The financially troubled Portland Zoo has put three chimpanzees to work painting murals for a pre-Christmas sale in the zoo's gift shop.

But the zoo admittedly is not counting on the chimps' production to straighten out its budget.

Planning an artistic work session for the press, keepers showed up early Sunday with paintpots and brushes and dutifully taped large sheets of paper to the "studio" walls.

But Charlie, Delilah and Bathsheba had other things in mind.

Delilah, an 18-month-old beauty with large, soulful eyes, gently removed her paper from the wall, punched a hole in it, fitted it around her neck and pranced around her cage as chuckling photographers clicked away.

Then she daubed a delicate arrangement of yellows and blues on the concrete floor and, standing back to admire the creation, she sipped thoughtfully from the paint tray.

Bathsheba turned several somersaults and primed for the spectators, smoothed out the paper and created a quick composition of bold impressionistic strokes on the adjacent wall. Then she took the brush to her face and gave spectators a toothy grin.

"They're not giving their all today," a zoo staffer said uneasily. She said the zoo hoped the paintings would be sold at the gift shop for $5 apiece to help finance a sign language program for the chimps. The program is threatened by lack of funds.

Charlie, who's at the top of the sign language class with a vocabulary of 24 signs for conversing with humans, executed a quick abstract in orange, leaping high in the air to paint the upper areas.

Then he withdrew to a corner and engaged a zoo volunteer in an excited dialogue in sign language.

Prexy Named

Mack Gamble has been elected new president of the Howard County Sheriffs Posse for 1975.

Other new officers include Max Roberts, vice president; Mr. Clinton Harrison, secretary and Geneva Roberts, treasurer. Mrs. Ruth Nanny is reporter.

The board of directors includes Richard Laick, Carrol Cone, Clyde Roberts, Ed Cherry and L. B. Murphy.

Allen James and Cherry will serve as parade chairmen. Mrs. Cone will be play day secretary and Mrs. Alpha Murphy will be in charge of concessions.

The social committee and telephone committee will be appointed by the new president.

Chill Wills' Marriage Chills

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Chill Wills, 73, the deep-voiced character actor of more than 165 movies, is being sued for divorce by his 46-year-old wife of less than one year.

Novadeen Gogge Wills asked the Van Nuys Superior Court for a division of community property based on "an ostensible marriage since 1971." Her lawyer cited "irreconcilable differences" in Mrs. Wills' divorce petition.

Improved Blood Flow Is Often Deceptive

DALLAS, Tex. (AP) — A surgical technique to increase blood flow to the heart restores such a feeling of health in some patients that they are lured to their death through over exercise, a doctor said Monday.

Dr. Ara G. Tilkian of the Palo Alto, Calif., Veterans' Administration Hospital said some patients receiving the surgery lose the chest pains which once limited their activity.

Without the pain, he said, they can sometimes exercise themselves into new problems.

Exercise which is too severe can cause them to develop arrhythmias, or irregular heart beats.

"In our studies, one man got a lethal level of arrhythmias," said Dr. Tilkian.

The absence of the chest pain removes a natural limiting factor, he said, and creates the need for doctors

Business Block Downtown Will Reopen Wednesday

A former Big Spring business will re-open under another name and type business in an old location at 3rd and Scurry at 10 a.m. Wednesday.

Western Kawasaki, managed by Jerry Reid, will open in the remodeled headquarters of the former Homan Super Service, which closed in 1965 due to the illness of J. Harold Homan.

Harold, along with his father, W. Harry Homan, owned the super service and auto supply at that location from October 1928. At that time, it was at one of the main intersections in West Texas where Highways 87 and 80 crossed. Harold also had another service station on Highway 80.

For nine years, the complex has been empty except for a few rented businesses in part of the building.

Homan's two daughters, Sara and her husband, Jerry and Anne and her husband, Charles Vincent, who is director of consumer affairs for the city of Dallas, will be owners of the new business venture.

Reid has worked for Texas Instruments and Bell Helicopter prior to coming to Big Spring.

The public is invited to drop by the new business Wednesday with an official opening probably to be slated at a later date.

Many Jobs Dependent On Arabs

SEATTLE (AP) — Arab oil countries could throw millions of Americans out of work through another oil embargo if they wished because the United States still has no rational energy policy, says the editor of "Science" magazine.

"We will fumble along until we get another embargo," Dr. Phillip Abelson said Saturday. Abelson, who has edited the American Association for the Advancement of Science publication since 1962, was scheduled to deliver several lectures here this week.

Abelson said the Arabs currently can afford to maintain a 100 per cent oil embargo against the United States and other chosen countries for several years.

Such an embargo "would produce industrial stoppage and massive unemployment of a magnitude that finally will require this country to do something," he said, adding the United States should begin an immediate, massive conservation program to curb its dependence on imported oil.

The Arabs would have good reason for instituting such an oil cutoff to the United States, Abelson said.

For one thing, "we are in the peculiar position of backing Israel on one hand and on the other becoming ever more dependent on oil from Israel's enemies."

Also, he said, "The Arabs' best interest, in an oil-short world, in the long term is to keep the oil in the ground where they can protect it and its value will grow."

Local Match Covers Added To Greatest Collection

A box of La Posado book matches has become a part of one of the world's largest match book collection.

Leo Gonzales, owner of La Posado had a letter recently from Miss Ruth A. Richmond of 15 Front Street, Williamstown, who has one of the largest collections in existence.

She wanted some of the match books from La Posado to exchange with other collectors. The match book features a picture of the local Mexican Food Restaurant and the matches themselves have words off the menu on each match, such as tacos, tostadas, burritos, chiles rellenos, frijoles, enchiladas, etc.

Miss Richmond started collecting match book covers when a little girl. She now has some 400,000. She belongs to one of the major match book collectors clubs which has 2,500 members.

The parcel post man arrives almost daily at her home with packages of covers from other collectors and she in turn sends duplicate covers to these persons.

On the wall over her desk, she has a large map of the United States marked with the places from which she

Boys 10-14 Guarding Sector In Cambodia

KOMPONG SPEU, Cambodia (AP) — The "orphan platoons" defend three mud walled forts and guard a three-quarter mile long section of the defense perimeter of this provincial town 30 miles west of Phnom Penh, the capital.

The 123 boys range in age from 10 to 14. Their families have been killed in the 4½-year-old war between government forces and Communist-led insurgents or remain in Cambodian rebel territory. They are in a volunteer unit supported by the government commander, Brig. Gen. Chantarangsei, a prince and

'Frankenstein' Serious Farce

Andy Warhol's "Frankenstein" (X), now being seen at the Cinema Theatre, is an unsettling, sometimes unsteady blend of put-on and seriousness.

This blend is epitomized by the performance of Udo Kier, who plays Baron Frankenstein with fine-edged fanaticism as well as a German accent that borders on parody.

The baron spends his time kidnapping and cutting up the young people of the village, then sewing together their disparate parts into matching pairs of super-creatures, male and female, who will breed him a master race.

Could Get Job

Boulder, Colo. (AP) — John C. Sawhill, who resigned under fire as federal energy administrator, is being considered for appointment as the president of the University of Colorado.

Frank Barnes, a professor heading the university's search committee, said Thursday that Sawhill is one of about 300 persons being considered.

Barnes refused to say whether Sawhill has been interviewed for the job or if he is among the finalists. Sawhill was in nearby Denver on Wednesday and met with Gov. John D. Vanderhoof and Gov.-elect Richard D. Lamm.

Indians To Get Final Payment For Property

KLAMATH FALLS, Ore. (AP) — The "last payday" is near for the remaining members of the Klamath Indian tribe.

When it comes, probably in December, $49 million in federal funds will be passed out to about 620 Klamaths.

What will happen to the money is cause for some speculation in this Southern Oregon lumber and farming town.

The Klamath reservation was among several dissolved by Congress in 1954, and most of the Indians opted then to turn over their lands and Indian status for individual payments of about $43,000 each. Those who will be paid in December left their lands in trust.

When the Indians who sold earlier were finally paid in 1961 it triggered a spending spree they still talk about in Klamath County.

In bars and barbershops, everybody who remembers has an Indian story to tell.

Ted Conn, a Lakeview lawyer who has practiced in the area for 40 years, remembers it well: "Before the lands were sold, per capita payments from timber sales were made quarterly to the Indians. Many of the Indians felt the payments were like the buffalo: they'd always be there."

But with the lump sum, the quarterly payments stopped.

Conn recalled months of drunken brawls and of auto dealers getting plump from Klamaths who would buy new cars, wreck them and pay cash for replacements.

"The Indians were reckless with their money because never had any before," said J. M. "Red" Britton, who has been sheriff of Klamath County 23 years. "I think the remaining members will be more careful."

Within a few months the money was gone and so were the benefit checks the Indians had been getting all their lives. They returned to poverty, where most remain. A few did well with their money, investing in ranches or stocks. Those who did generally moved out of Klamath County, away from conservative Southern Oregon.

The Klamaths who voted to leave their land in trust continued to receive per capita payments, but voted in 1969 to dissolve the trust and sell the lands. The 135,000 acres will be added to the Winema National Forest.

There are 473 shares in the trust, each worth about $120,000. Some of the shares have been divided among survivors of the original owners.

The money, probably tax free, will be distributed by the trust holder, the U.S. National Bank of Oregon, in a lump sum. But the white community, and the Indians, too, say things will be different this time.

Most Klamaths who took the first payment were older and had lived on the reservation all their lives. They lacked the financial sophistication needed to deal with a huge chunk of money.

The remaining members have more experience with money. Most have jobs in addition to their timber payments, although good jobs for Indians are hard to find in Klamath County.

The school dropout rate for Klamaths, at a high for decades, is improving since special education programs were added and more Indian teachers and counselors were hired.

Water Treatment Weapon

Except for selected industrial situations, it may not find ready application in these parts, but a development from the W. R. Grace laboratories (Grace operates an ammonia facility here) seems to offer a promising solution to waste water processes.

The company has developed a pollution control system with an on-site ozone generating unit at the heart of it. Development is out of the lab and pilot plant stage, for an industry at Youngstown, Ohio, has installed one of the systems capable of handling eight million gallons a day.

The benefits of using ozone, a variation of oxygen, instead of more conventional water and waste water treatments such as chlorine, are numerous.

Ozone is one of the most powerful oxidants known, hence it makes a fine water treatment compound. For one thing, it reacts rapidly, allowing fast low-dose treatment of water. It is an excellent disinfectant, efficiently killing certain harmful strains of bacteria and viruses. It is generated at the site, and therefore avoids problems and costs of transportation. It significantly reduces taste, odor and color without leaving inorganic sludge residue.

But most important, ozone's lack of stability means that by the time the treated water gets to the household water tap, there is no longer any ozone present. There won't be any fuss such as chlorine or carbon taste.

Research Pays Off

It may be just as well that winter is coming on, based on reported screwworm cases in this area in October. Consider the figures for the season and that portion reported in October: Glasscock 13-5; Howard 1-1; Martin 11-1; Midland 5-4; Reagan 6-4; Scurry 1-1; Sterling 15-11. In short, this means that 60 per cent of the year's total came in October, following on the heels of heavy September and October rains that made fly-breeding conditions favorable.

But we must not forget that infestation all year was held down by the work of Southwest Screwworm Eradication Program, operating under the Texas A&M extension service.

Only recently, unlighted interests almost succeeded in emasculating the screwworm program, which has done about as much as anyone thing to increase the output of meat and reducing producer losses. This is another evidence that agricultural research pays big dividends. With the increasing food pressures at home and abroad, research should be increased sharply — not cut.

WASHINGTON — Unpublished evidence collected by the impeachment investigation shows that Peter Flanigan, nominated by President Ford as ambassador to Spain, was President Nixon's "mogul of ambassadors" intimately involved in finding plush diplomatic posts for generous Republican campaign contributors.

SECRET WHITE House correspondence and confidential interviews of Nixon aides by impeachment investigators partially contradict Flanigan's sworn testimony to the Senate Foreign Relations Committee; he testified Oct. 2 at the one-day hearing on his nomination that he was not involved in brokering political ambassadorships. The conflicting evidence has since been given the Senate committee, causing even some Republican Senators supporting Flanigan privately to question Mr. Ford's decision to resubmit the nomination to Congress.

MOREOVER, CONTRARY to Flanigan's claims that he was cleared by the Watergate special prosecutor, he is under active investigation on several fronts. That Mr. Ford is intent on adding a nasty Senate confirmation fight to his heavy burden suggests inadequacies in decision-making that transcend Peter Flanigan.

THE MOST serious charge raised Oct. 2 stemmed from testimony to the House impeachment inquiry by former Nixon attorney Herbert Kalmbach. He was told by Flanigan in 1971, Kalmbach testified, to solicit a $250,000 contribution from Dr. Ruth Farkas who in turn would be named ambassador to Costa Rica (actually, she became ambassador to Luxembourg).

Flanigan denied this. What's more, he told the committee, he repudiated Kalmbach's commitments of European ambassadorial appointments for two other fatcats, J. Fife Symington and Vincent de Roulet. Flanigan swore he told H. R. Haldeman, White House chief of staff, "that this was contrary to the practice and policy of the White House" and that Symington and de Roulet should be offered their money back.

KALMBACH TOLD investigators that, in May or June of 1969, Nixon fundraiser Maurice Stans gave Flanigan a list of contributors to consider as ambassadors. On June 20, 1969, Flanigan met with Symington, a retired millionaire Maryland socialite, to inform him he was being considered as ambassador to Costa Rica or Trinidad.

SYMINGTON SOON tired of Trinidad and asked Kalmbach for a European post (first choice: Spain), promising additional contribution of $100,000. He met with Flanigan in June 1970, writing him afterward he felt "very encouraged that I have your interest and understanding concerning the future."

Flanigan did block a European post for Symington ("a personality thing," Kalmbach testified). But the new evidence scarcely shows him a disinterested party. Flanigan met with Symington on July 9 and July 13, in 1971. Finally, on Sept. 4, he offered to return Symington's contribution and was turned down.

THAT DID NOT end it. "I trust... that you and Peter (Flanigan) are working things out," Haldeman wrote Symington Oct. 26, 1971.

"Not to alarm you, sir, but I hear tell there's a big bad wolf abroad in the land!"

John Cuniff

Federal Pay Criticized

NEW YORK (AP) — The world is too much with us, the poet wrote, and he warned us that in getting and spending we lay waste our powers. But not, it appears, the power to gripe.

Here are some representative gripes:

1. The Chamber of Commerce of the United States claims the country doesn't have an effective restraint on at least one area of federal activity—the pay scales of government workers.

Federal salaries, it says, are outstripping those of workers in private industry. That, it suggests, not only is unfair competition with private industry but is inflationary as well.

Citing Commerce Department figures, the chamber reports that average federal pay now is $12,984 a year, or 46 per cent more than the average $8,900 received in the private sector, which it represents.

"But that's not all," it continues in "Washington Report." It relates that a Labor Department report states that federal government fringe benefits, as a percentage of pay, are about 12 per cent greater than those of workers employed in the private sector.

The cause? It's because the foxes are guarding the henhouse, says the chamber, referring to a recent Senate vote to grant pay increases to federal workers, despite a presidential request they be postponed.

2. Like the U.S. Chamber, the Tax Foundation often is critical of how Washington spends its money. And nothing concerns the foundation more than the federal debt, which is now approaching $500 billion.

A major problem with the debt, it observes, is that the "ceiling" which is supposed to serve as a lid floats too easily. In 20 years it has been raised 32 times, and most people believe that record will be broken soon.

Now the foundation worries not just about the debt itself but about the $31 billion in interest that the government must pay to maintain that debt. That interest, it notes, is now the third largest spending category in the entire budget.

3. What do these have in common: convenience foods, children's clothing, appliance repairs, home repairs, automobile repairs, heating oil, moving expenses, credit charges and prescription drugs?

In terms of value for the dollar, a study by the Conference Board shows, these items are considered by consumers to be among the poorest buys in the market place.

The worst buy of all, the consumers indicated, was gasoline — but to have included that item in the list would have made the answer too easy.

Only 4.2 per cent of the 10,000 families studied classified gasoline as a good buy. Close to 28 per cent termed it an average buy and 68 per cent classified it as a poor buy.

What If - - ?

Around The Rim

My many-faceted friend, Gordon Baxter, with "Flying" magazine, also happens to be an author, newspaper columnist, radio broadcaster, free lance television personality and starred in a movie, "One of the Missing," which won some top honors at the Atlanta Film Festival. His mind is a mysterious and marvelous thing.

HE IS ALSO an old warrior who went down to the sea in ships and into the air on wings in World War II. Someone taught him how to kill — but he's learned about living all by himself.

He wrote the following on March 10, 1972. The speaking chapters in the incident are Gordon (The Ole Man) and two of his sons, (The Kid and The Young Hawk):

Roney The Kid looked up at the two, "How do you feel about granting amnesty to those draft dodgers in Canada?"

The Ole Man didn't answer right away. Such a serious question from The Kid. The Kid, who was like an overgrown puppy, always laughing, bouncing around, feet all over the floor. But the Ole Man remembered. The Kid was not a kid anymore. He had been to the war. Two hitches in 'Nam, in the killing war there. The Ole Man hedged his bet. He returned the question, "How do you feel about them?"

"I think we ought to let 'em come home."

THE YOUNG HAWK leaned forward in his chair, "How can you say that when you risked your own life for this country while they were saving their hides in Canada?"

"I know," The Kid said evenly, "I used to feel that way, too, but now that I know what's really happening, I feel different. Sure, I volunteered, went out to save the world for Democracy, just like the Old Man did in his war, but by the second hitch we knew it was a rip-off. It was a political war, a no-win war. Hello, suckers."

THE KID went on, "Now, the whole country wants to forget about Vietnam, right? O. K., those guys in Canada said that all along, so hell no, we won't go; they were just smarter than me. So now that the whole country's come around to that kind of thinking, why not let those guys come on home and treat everybody the same."

The Young Hawk clutched his talons onto the walls of the Alamo. "What if the whole country said 'hell no, we won't go,' where would America be then?" he screamed.

THE KID answered him calmly. "They'd fight. If the Russians were at Sabine Pass, we'd all fight. Right?"

The group nodded eager assent, looking around at the guns hung on the walls. A suicide squad, ready to go out and die in the ditches.

The Kid said, "Sometimes, I think in the ole US of A is the only thing that would unite this country again."

More shouts of agreement from the Ole Man and the Young Hawk.

THEN THE KID spoke slowly. "How would you feel if I was the last guy killed in Vietnam? Some mother's son over there right now is gonna be just that. How would you feel if instead of me sitting here all you had of me was a bronze star in a little box and a folded up American flag? I was only one quarter click on some Charlie's mortar tube sight from being just that. How would you feel then?"

There was an uncomfortable silence in the room. It stretched out, and out, and after that, there was no more talk of war that night.

That's Good-Bad

William F. Buckley, Jr.

Concerning the recent election, a few observations:

1. Although the trend in American continues left (Brown replaces Reagan in California, Carey replaces Wilson in New York), it isn't a pellmell leftism, of the kind McGovernites envisioned.

CONSIDER, FOR instance, Ramsey Clark. He was, among those running for office, the most conspicuous leftist in America. As a matter of fact, he would be the most conspicuous leftist in a zoo, if he chose to live there, which by the way is not a bad idea since a) most zoos are socialized, b) there are no jails in zoos, and c) the animals would probably understand Clark's glossolalia better than the voters.

Mr. Clark's defeat has to be examined carefully lest the magnitude of it escape the attention of the psephologists. Clark was running on a poor-boy ticket, but he managed, just the same, to be all over the lot, on television, billboards and advertisements: he even had Frank Sinatra singing for him — not bad for someone who limits any one contribution to $100 per person. He ran in a state whose registration is very heavily Democratic, and against a Republican opponent whose vote was sharply reduced by the candidacy of a third party Conservative. The man who ran for Governor was a traditionalist Democrat, and he defeated the Republican incumbent by a landslide (60 per cent of the vote).

In these circumstances, Clark ran less than 40 per cent, below what McGovern got in New York two years ago. By contrast, an utterly unknown Conservative candidate, the striking and intelligent Barbara Keating, got 16 per cent of the vote, with a mere $75,000 to spend. And, elsewhere, Gary Hart won in Colorado, but he was not recognizable as the Hart who programmed George McGovern to come out for capitulation abroad, and a greening insolvency at home. Come to think of it, from all reports George McGovern II, victor in South Dakota, ran on a strong anti-McGovern I platform. So it is generally true that the hard left hasn't made much headway in two years.

On the other hand, 2), the Republican Party would appear to have made no headway at all. Now it is generally supposed that the principal causes of the Republican humiliation were Watergate, the pardon and inflation. It is interesting, under the circumstances, to reflect on the findings of Mr. Richard Scammon, the talented political analyst who dismayed the whole gang over at the National Broadcasting Company by saying simply that he could have predicted 18 months ago, which is pretty much pre-Watergate, and certainly pre-Pardon, that the Republicans would do about as they did on this election day. He meant this that the graph was pointing in that direction.

In other words, that there is public dissatisfaction with the Republican party unrelated to Watergate. AND WHY NOT? There is no reason to suppose that if Richard Nixon had occupied himself more on domestic matters than on frustrating the Justice Department's investigation of the Watergate, he'd have greatly increased his hold on the conservative voting community in America. There has been a weightlessness in Republicanism since the death of Robert A. Taft, and nobody, with the conspicuous exception of Barry Goldwater and Ronald Reagan, has done much about it.

Eighteen months ago we were coping with inflation by such voodoo as wage and price controls.

My Answer

Billy Graham

Our daughter has a girl friend who is very nice and equally as lonely. They enjoy doing things together with other fellows and girls, but my husband is always saying "No" to her requests for socializing. I guess he likes to show that his word is really the last. But for my three children and myself, it's miserable living, and I wonder what I can do about it.

B.W. in the hopes that your husband will read this, let me quote Ephesians 6:4: "Fathers, do not exasperate your children; instead, bring them up in the training and instruction of the Lord." Although apparently not married and not a father himself, Paul knew that a parent could so provoke a child that anger and hostility would result. Have you tried facing your husband with this issue? How about discussing it jointly with your pastor, or a counselor? Hopefully, it's a habit that he has unwittingly permitted to develop — and one that he will cease, in the error of it all is pointed out.

Having "the last word" is a delusion. Only God really has it, and that will be at the end of the age. When we think now that we have the last word, it usually is only because we have shouted louder, or successfully throttled our opposition into submission. The Bible teaches obedience to the father in the home, but it assumes he will be a godly, rational and loving person.

A Devotion For Today . .

"Be filled with the Spirit, addressing one another in psalms and hymns and spiritual songs, singing and making melody to the Lord with all your heart." (Ephesians 5:18-19 RSV)

PRAYER: O Lord, we bless Thee for the gift of music, and ask that we may perfectly praise Thee. Through Jesus Christ we pray. Amen.

Farfel--The Foul

Art Buchwald

CANTON, Ohio — On election night millions and millions of Americans watched as the NBC and ABC television networks announced that, according to their computers, Gov. John Gilligan had defeated former Gov. James Rhodes in Ohio.

GOV. RHODES, like all of us, was so impressed by the fact that two out of three networks had given the election to Gov. Gilligan that he conceded on the spot and went to bed certain he was a loser. When he woke up the next morning he discovered that, although the network computers had declared Gilligan the winner, the real votes showed that Rhodes was ahead by 12,000 votes.

What went wrong? I HAPPENED to be in Canton, Ohio, so I went over to a sample precinct 50 miles away, one that both ABC and NBC had used to decide Gilligan had won. I will call the place Bellwether because the networks like to keep their sample precincts secret.

Most of the people in town had long faces. The man in the coffee shop told me, "We're not proud of it. NBC and ABC were depending on us as we left them down."

ANOTHER MAN at the counter said, "We've been a sample precinct for four elections. We've got 10 per cent Irish, 10 per cent Jews, 40 per cent women and 20 per cent miscellaneous. We were a perfect mix."

"But what happened?" I said. "Farfel lied to the pollsters," a man at the end of the counter said.

"Who's Farfel?"

"HE RUNS A gas station at the end of Main Street. After he came out of the voting booth, he told NBC and ABC he had voted for Gilligan, when in fact he had voted for Rhodes. They fed Farfel's vote into their computers and, bang, they declared Gilligan the winner."

"But why would Farfel do that?" I said.

"Why don't you ask him? No one else is talking to him, so he has plenty of time on his hands."

I WENT DOWN to Farfel's gas station. I found him sitting next to his gas pump playing a harmonica.

"Mr. Farfel," I said, "I hear you screwed up the sample precinct in Bellwether and got NBC and ABC to declare Gilligan the next governor of Ohio."

Farfel chuckled, "Yup, danged if I didn't."

"Why did you do it?"

"WAL, I TELL you, son. I'm one of these old-timers that don't like no television hotshots telling me who won an election before all the votes have been counted. I mean, you turn on the set and some sharp feller in a $300 suit says, 'With 2 per cent of the vote in, we declare John J. Pumpkin the next senator of Michigan.' Takes all the fun out of election night. I'm half-Italian and half-English, so them network boys had it figured out that if I voted for Gilligan 350,000 Italians and 350,000 Church of England had voted for him, too."

"But, Mr. Farfel, the networks spend millions of dollars on computers and hire the best experts in the business. How can they run an honest election if you lie to them in a sample precinct?"

"NO SKIN off my nose,"

"Don't you have the slightest regret for what you did?"

"Only one, son. I'm sorry I made a fool out of Barbara Walters. She seems like such a nice girl."

Local Delegates Join PTA Amendment Vote

Public school finance reform, school bus safety, alcohol and drug abuse were three of the many topics discussed during the 65th annual Texas PTA convention in Corpus Christi last week.

Nine delegates attended from Big Spring and Elbow associations and a total of 31 were present from the 17th District of which Big Spring is a member.

Attending from the local associations were Mrs. Jerald Burgess, Miss Mary Eckert and Mrs. Blaine Larson, Airport; Mrs. A. C. Jones and Mrs. Dale Ditto, College Heights; Mrs. Louis Kloor, Marcy; Efton Foster, Moss; Mrs. Jimmy Don Townsend, City Council; Mrs. Garner Thixton, Elbow. A certificate of achievement was won by Kentwood Elementary and certificates of superior achievement were awarded Marcy, and Elbow Elementary, Forsan.

The convention adopted all proposed amendments to the bylaws.

The Equal Rights Amendment lost but the group adopted a resolution to urge their legislators to take serious consideration of the matter and rescind the Equal Rights Amendment in Texas. All other resolutions were adopted.

Officers elected for two-year terms were Mrs. A. T. Leveridge, East Bernard, president; Mrs. G. Kent Rider, Austin, first vice president; Mrs. V. F. Herber, Houston, second vice president; Mrs. R. O. Stringer, Kirbyville, recording secretary.

Guest speakers included

Oklahoma Lt. Governor George High; L. P. Sturgeon, special consultant to Texas State Teachers Association; John McDonald, Texas

State PTA Asks For Revocation

CORPUS CHRISTI, Tex. (AP) — The Texas Parent-Teachers Association has voted 659 to 571 for a resolution asking that the Equal Rights Amendment in Texas be revoked.

The group meeting here Thursday said the amendment would force boys and girls to use the same restrooms and locker rooms.

In voting, delegates went against the state board which in a policy paper noted statements in the resolutions "are not supported by fact and the delegate body is entitled to know the truth."

The resolution stated the amendment would "force our children and youth to use the same restrooms and locker rooms and be together in physical athletic programs which can be damaging to our girls physically and cause mental stress to our children and youth."

It stated the amendment would "force schools to hire homosexuals as teachers, athletic directors and counselors which would have a direct effect" on the children.

Backers of the resolution urged legislators to vote to rescind the amendment, which if 38 states ratify, will become part of the U.S. Constitution.

Women delegates also expressed fear in the resolutions they would be forced to work because of revised work and child support laws.

The adopted resolution was presented by the Texas City Council of PTA.

The delegates also supported early childhood education, revamping of school financing and school bus safety.

BUSINESS IS BOOMING — Panne Foxe meets the press in Boston Monday before resuming her stripping career bolstered by publicity she received after a late-night drive with Rep. Wilbur Mills and a dip in a fountain. Her salary jumped from $700 a week to about $3,000.

Chandler, 17, of Burlingame, Calif. She had her parents' permission to join the Army and tried unsuccessfully to enlist last April after completing her junior year in high school.

No Discrimination Mrs. Ogle Says Federal Judge Is Honored

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — A federal judge has ruled there is no discrimination in the Army's policy of requiring different ages and educational standards for male and female soldiers.

The Army prohibits women from enlisting unless they are at least 18 years old and high school graduates.

Men, however, must only be 17 to enlist. There is no educational requirement.

U.S. District Court Judge Robert Schnacke declared the policy "reasonable and lawful" Wednesday.

"Every male soldier is, at least potentially, a candidate for combat, whereas ... it is most desirable that women should not be," he said. "It is entirely proper that the Army seek as large as possible a pool of people who can perform combat roles. The need for members of the WAC being lesser, the admission standards may appropriately be set higher.

"It would be completely inappropriate for a court to interfere with the composition of our country's fighting force merely to achieve some neat balance of rights between the sexes."

Schnacke's ruling came in a suit filed by Grace

TOPPING THE NEW winter fashion season, hairstyles fall into soft simple styles that take a minimal amount of time and effort to achieve as long as you begin with a good professional cut and the right personal care appliances.

Hairstyles For Winter Graceful

Headlining the new winter fashion season, hairstyles fall into smooth simple styles as uncluttered and uncomplicated as the clothes they top. As money gets tighter, clothes are loosening up, turning away from the structured little sweater and vest sets and snug-fitted pants of last year to bulkier knits, longer skirt lengths, and more comfortable chemise-style dresses.

Likewise, hair is easing up into soft graceful styles that take a minimal amount of time and effort to achieve as long as you begin with a good professional cut and the right personal care appliances.

Length this season is not-too-long, not-too-short, but nicely in-between with most cuts grazing the shoulders — a basic style that can be worn smooth for day and curled up for evening.

Bangs make news, starting at the crown and brushed forward to skim the browline, or swept back off the face from a side or center part.

In a word, the look up top this fall is "simple," the kind of soft graceful styling that women used to rely on their stylist to achieve. However, today, with the new "do it yourself" professional styling dryers, women can now get the same salon-look styles right in their own home.

For example, a new product is the styling dryer that provides the fast drying and professional styling of a salon styling dryer with the handling ease and convenience of a home hair dryer. Made for the woman who wants more power and airflow than the dryer she now uses, the new dryer offers 1000 watts of drying power with three temperature settings and two air speeds for maximum styling control.

The wider nozzle allows more airflow to blow in maximum fullness and dry hair fast. A special concentrator attachment is also included for efficient spot drying.

Though the dryer offers all the drying and styling advantages of a professional dryer, it is lighter, better balanced and more compact, making it a breeze to use at home.

Dear Abby

A Deluge Of Data On 'Dats' Subject

DEAR ABBY: Your correspondent was not crazy. There was an article in the newspaper stating that a dog and cat had been noted, and the result was a "dat."

In 1970, a London pet shop owner, Roy Tutt, claimed that he had accomplished that which zoologists declared was impossible. He bred "dats" from a black cat and a Scottish terrier. Tutt said they had heads like dogs, but they had fur, whiskers and claws like cats. And he even sent along some "pictures" of the newborn "dats."

Later he was forced to admit that it was all a hoax.

I am a proofreader at the Daily News in Port Angeles, Washington, and am herewith enclosing the article and picture.

DONNA GREIER
DEAR DONNA: Thanks. Your letter was the first I received to document the item. Subsequently, however, it rained cats, dogs and "dats."

DEAR ABBY: In answer to the mother who is still nagging her tall 36-year-old daughter to "sit straight," I think I know the problem. The world is made to accommodate 5'3" to 5'5" women.

That tall daughter should raise her sinks, stove and counter area enough to accommodate her height, and then watch her shoulders move back! It worked for my daughter, and it took only a hike of three inches to do it. I have a smart husband.

DEAR 5'9": A husband who can raise a sink, stove and counter area — and is willing to do it in order to accommodate the tall women in his home is indeed 9 feet tall himself.

Everyone has a problem. What's yours? For a personal reply, write to ABBY: Box No. 69700, Los Angeles, Calif., 90069. Enclose stamped, self-addressed envelope, please.

Mrs. Adams Club Guest

Mrs. T. G. Adams was a guest of the Rook Club when members met at the Texas Electric Reddy Room Friday for games.

Mrs. Harwood Keith was hostess for three tables of players.

High scorers were Mrs. G. W. Dabney, Mrs. J. L. Terry and Mrs. Adams.

The Christmas party will be on Dec. 20 at 12 noon at the home of Mrs. S. R. Nobles. There will be a covered dish luncheon.

Refreshments were served following the games.

Aid Tots To Good Habits

If you've ever worked at a sink or utility table too high for comfort, you know what little tots go through when they try to reach washbasins and faucets designed for adults. To make their good grooming habits easier and encourage better hand-washing, be sure to include a bathroom step-stool in your bathroom decor. With the basin in each reach, youngsters are more likely to give their hands the thorough washing needed.

They may even linger over the laving to create soap suds mountains and swirls in the basin and on their hands. Such thorough sudsing insures getting the mild, gentle suds and the germ-inhibiting protection of an antibacterial soap into all the cracks and crevices and under the fingernails of chubby little hands. Then, at bath time, let the step-stool do double duty by sitting on it while you help with baths. It's easier than kneeling or bending over.

The Christmas party will be held at the ranch home of Mrs. J. W. Overton and gifts will be exchanged.

Mrs. Doyle Whetsel worked the closing prayer. There were five members and two guests attending.

Mr. and Mrs. Tony Suttles and Mrs. Boyd Brawley, all of Odessa, were recent guests of Mrs. L. S. Camp.

The O. W. Scuddays spent last weekend with her sister and brother-in-law, the H. L. Holts, who live at Lake LBJ.

Lions Auxiliary Party Tonight

All members of the Downtown Lions Club, their wives or dates, are invited to a covered dish supper and game party tonight at the Pioneer Flame Room. The affair will begin at 7 p.m. and is sponsored by the Downtown Lions Auxiliary.

Mrs. John Quigley, president, announced there will be games of bridge, dominoes and yahrtzee following the meal.

Quigleys Have Kin As Guests

Mr. and Mrs. James Quigley of Glenwood Springs, Colo., left Monday after spending several days here with his brother and sister-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. John Quigley. The couple also visited with several Texas deer hunters with whom they had hunted in Colorado. They plan to spend some time in the Mark Twain area of Mississippi.

Does a 60-watt bulb use 40% less electricity than a 100-watt bulb?

It does indeed. It also lasts longer. But it produces less light.

If you aren't concerned about lighting an area brightly, like in a hallway or entrance, you'll use less electricity by using a 60-watt bulb.

For hard-to-reach places, a smaller wattage bulb will be a help to you. Since it lasts a lot longer, you won't have to bother with changing it as often.

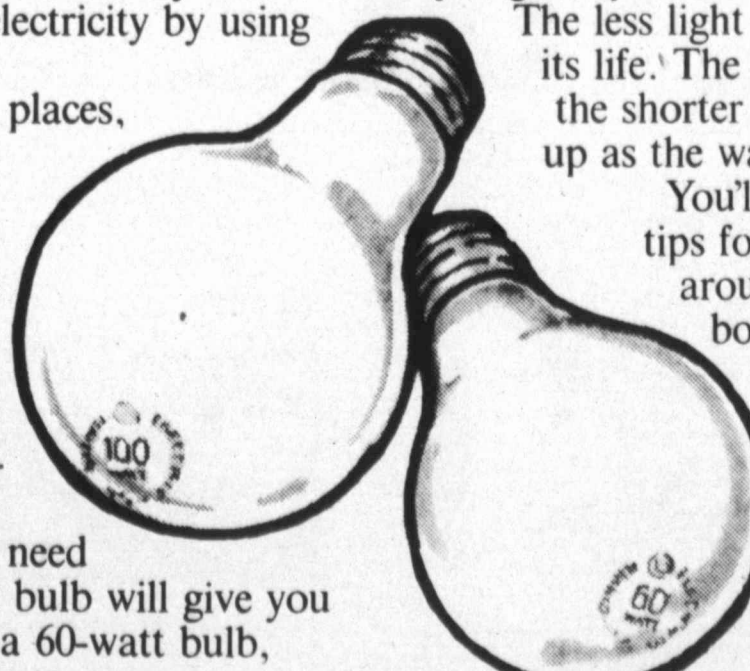

When it comes to reading, studying, sewing or working, you'll undoubtedly want and need more light. A 100-watt bulb will give you twice as much light as a 60-watt bulb, but it uses two-thirds more energy and has one-fourth less life.

The rule of thumb in lighting is that you give up one advantage to gain another. The less light a bulb gives, the longer its life. The more light a bulb gives, the shorter its life. Energy use goes up as the wattage goes up.

You'll find lighting and other tips for using electricity wisely around your house in a free booklet we're offering.

To get a copy, call or come by Texas Electric, or request one on the comment portion of your electric service bill.

Bob Burris, Steer head football coach was in Midland Monday for a district meeting.

Helen Hughes, tri-captain of the Big Spring Quarterback Club announces that its final seasonal meeting will be held tonight at 7:30 in the high school cafeteria. Plans call for Burris to show a film on the Bobcat game.

This is the second straight year San Angelo has shared 5-4A championship honors, but losses to Permian in 1973 and Lee in 1974 prevented a Bobcat playoff spot.

Lee meets Wichita Falls Rider in a bi-district game Saturday at 2 p.m. Wichita Falls will be the location site.

The Big Spring High football awards banquet is on the docket for Nov. 26 in the school's cafeteria. Tickets will be purchased at the door only.

"Experience turned us around this season," voiced Jack Woodley, Forsan head football coach. The Buffs ended the year on a 2-2 note, losing the last two to Javton and Bronte.

Bronte, 3B champion and undefeated bumps into bi-district opponent Sanderson Friday in Ozona. Game time is 7:30 p.m.

"Bronte has a good team, it can do lot of things offensively, but I doubt if the Longhorns can take state," said Woodley. "Of course we would like for Bronte to win, it would make us look better."

The 1974 season was the best for Woodley's four year tenure at Forsan. His total: 1971, 3-6-1; 1972, 5-5; 1973, 1-9.

I told Jack that his boys think you are a great fundamentalist. "I like to think that."

Jack added, "I was real pleased with our season and if sophomore quarterback Ralph Miranda had not been sidelined for the last two games I feel the scores would have been closer."

Jayton took Forsan's ninth game, 32-6 and Bronte came out the winner in the Buff seasonal finale, 35-6.

Miranda was lost for the season in the first quarter of Hawley game played in Forsan. He received a hairline shoulder fracture.

Tom Sorley, Nebraska frosh quarterback, and Big Spring High product, led his team to an undefeated season, with a 28-0 win over the Iowa State Jayvees in Ames last Tuesday.

Tom, who is on an athletic scholarship, directed three TD's, scampering across from the one on two drives. He completed five of eight aerial throws for 53 yards.

Quarterback Bill Saban, a nephew of Lou Saban, Buffalo Bill head coach, moved across NU's end zone from the one. Bill set up the play on a 16-pass to tight end Guy Preston.

Bob Owens of the Lincoln Journal filed this report on Tom: "Spring practice could produce quite a scramble to succeed Dave Humm and certainly freshman Tom Sorley figures to get a very good look."

"His odds aren't outstanding, however, because of such people as Earl Everett and Terry Luck returning from backup roles behind Humm, Randy Garcia in good health after missing this season with a knee injury, and transfer Vince Ferragamo from California, who has been running the scout team along with red-shirt Ed Burns."

CARDS TRADE

Colbert Off For Detroit

SAN DIEGO (AP) — "Three of those pitchers we got ought to really help us," Nate Colbert said. Then he paused and laughed. "I mean them."

Colbert, who hit 149 home runs for the expansion San Diego Padres during their first five years, was traded to the Detroit Tigers Monday in a complicated three-team deal. So he won't be the beneficiary of the three top pitchers the Padres got.

Detroit sent shortstop Eddie Brinkman, outfielder Dick Sharon and pitcher Bob Strampe to the Padres. San Diego then dealt Brinkman and a player to be named later to the Cardinals for pitchers Rich Fellers, Alan Foster and Sonny Siebert.

Colbert brings power to Tiger Stadium, long considered a hitter's park.

GC Splits Cage Pair

GARDEN CITY — The Garden City junior high basketball teams divided a pair of games with Midland Trinity here Monday night.

The local boys lost out 24-17, while the GD girls emerged victorious, 33-27.

Dale Hilliger sacked seven for GC, and Trinity's Armstrong was high man with eight.

In girls' play, GC's Patsy Bilsard netted 16 points, and Trinity's Lisa Smith flipped in 25.

Garden City boys' record is now 0-2, and the girls' 1-1. The next Garden City junior high action is at Stanton, Dec. 2.

Aggies Advance 1 Notch

By The Associated Press

Led by No. 1-ranked Oklahoma, the eight top teams in The Associated Press college football ratings held onto their positions today.

Oklahoma, which took over the top spot from Ohio State a week ago, trounced Kansas 45-14 and received 45 first-place votes and 1,198 of a possible 1,220 points from a nationwide panel of sports writers and broadcasters.

Alabama remained second by defeating Miami, Fla. 28-7.

The Crimson Tide received nine first-place ballots and 1,078 points. Michigan crushed Purdue 51-0 and pulled down eight first-place votes and 1,040 points.

Then came Ohio State, a 35-10 winner over Iowa; Notre Dame, which edged Pitt 14-10; Nebraska, which routed Kansas State 35-7; Auburn, a 17-13 victor over Georgia; Southern California, which drubbed Washington 42-11; Texas A&M, a 37-7 winner over Rice, and Penn State, which downed Ohio U. 35-16.

Texas A&M and Penn State moved up one spot apiece when Florida, which was ninth last week, lost to Kentucky 41-24 and plummeted to 20th.

The Second Ten consists of Maryland, Miami of Ohio, North Carolina State, Michigan State, Houston, Baylor, Texas, Pitt, California and Texas Tech.

Last week's Second Ten was Penn State, Miami, Maryland, Houston, Michigan State, N.C. State, Pitt, Oklahoma State, California and Texas Tech.

Oklahoma State dropped out following a 37-20 loss to Colorado and Texas Tech fell from the Top Twenty after a 17-10 loss to Baylor. That triumph lifted Baylor into the Top Twenty for the first time since the 1963 season. Texas, which dropped out last week, climbed back in by routing Texas Christian 81-16.

Transfer Delayed

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. (AP) — The transfer of injured Texas Christian University running back Kent Waldrep to a Texas hospital has been delayed because of a respiratory problem, a University Hospital spokesman said Monday.

The spokesman said Waldrep, who received spinal cord injuries in the Oct. 21 TCU-Alabama football game, was responding to treatment for the respiratory problem that developed during the weekend.

He had been due to be transferred to the Texas Institute for Rehabilitation and Research at Houston later this week.

BASKETBALL NEW ORLEANS — The New Orleans Jazz of the National Basketball Association named Bill van Breda Kolff as head coach replacing Scotty Robertson who was fired Sunday.

FIELD GOAL — David Giles, Hawk center outmaneuvers Cisco's defense for two points in second half play. Watching the shot are Giles' teammates Ernest Lawrence and Darron Hodges. Howard College won in one overtime, 97-94, Monday night in the Hawk gym.

Hawks Pull Out Overtime Win

By CLARK LESH

Howard College managed to lasso the Wrangler from Cisco, but it took an overtime period to carry out the assignment, 97-94, Monday night in the Hawk gym.

Viewed before a capacity crowd, the regulation period ended 87-87 on Hawks' Johnny Harris' two free throws. Only 10 seconds remained on the clock.

In the five minutes extra session, the score was tied once and changed hands four times. Howard College assumed the lead for good at 95-94. Larry Erves who tallied all of the Hawk extra period points flipped in the local jumbo team had won the cliff-hanger. HC stands at 3-1 for the season and Cisco, 1-1.

The half time score read: HC 50, Cisco 43.

The opening minutes of first half play found the lead see-sawing back and forth several times.

Howard College maintained the lead from 20-19 until the Hawks were pressed in the closing minutes of regulation period. The Hawks enjoyed a 11 point advantage at one point, 41-30.

A total of 61 fouls were reported. In the first half, the Hawks had the whistle blown on them 15 times and Cisco, 24.

Erves led Hawk scorers with 27 points. Four of Erves teammates hit the double figures, David Giles, 21, Marvin Johnson, 16, Johnny Harris, 13, and Willie Young, 11.

Cisco had three performers within close scoring range of each other. David Payne was the Wranglers' chief point contributor with 22, followed closely by Robert Daniels' 18 and Mike Dougherty's 16.

Young was the lone Hawk cager lost via fouls. He left the game with 6:32 left on the regular side of play.

Cisco found three of its starters scratched from the lineup via the foul route late in regulation play.

The referees played no favorites. Both head coaches from Howard College and Cisco, Howard Wilder and Dean Madison respectively received one technical foul each.

An unannounced electrical problem left the gym totally dark for a brief period just before game time and at 17:18 of the first half.

"Our rebounding has improved after four games and this type of game is very beneficial because it shows an inexperienced team can perform under pressure," said Wilder.

"It built confidence. Cisco was a strong opponent."

Hawk evaluation: Giles showed he is making rapid improvement as he blocked and rebounded Cisco field goal attempts on repeated occasions.

Erves is beginning to hit the shot in the clutch situation. Harris and Young are doing an outstanding job on floor play and Lawrence maintains aggressiveness.

Howard College, fresh after the Cisco overtime victory, runs into a three-day Odessa College tournament. Play starts Thursday and ends Saturday. The Hawks' first round opponent is Temple at 9 p.m. Friday.

A double elimination structure, eight teams are entered. They include: Shreiner, Ranger, Frank Phillips, Temple, Howard College, South Plains of Levelland, St. Phillips of San Antonio and host Odessa College.

NOT COUNTED ON Wooden Cautions Bruin Opponents

LOS ANGELES (AP) — All-Americans Bill Walton and Keith Wilkes are gone but Coach John Wooden of UCLA cautions that the Bruins' rivals "shouldn't count us out too quickly."

Wooden, whose 27th season at UCLA opens Friday night against Athletes in Action at Pauley Pavilion, noted that other coaches, such as Southern Cal's Bob Boyd, are extremely optimistic about their chances to dethrone the Bruins as the Pacific-8 Conference basketball champs.

"I know he's exuberant about it," Wooden said of Boyd's remarks. "I remember he felt the same way the year after we lost Kareem, too. We did all right in the two interim years after Kareem."

After Lew Alcindor, later known as Kareem Abdul-Jabbar, left UCLA, the Bruins continued to win national championships with Steve Patterson at center. Then came Walton and Wilkes, who led the team to two more national crowns before losing to North Carolina State last spring.

"I think it's true that the Pac-8 is a very well-balanced conference," said Wooden. "Every coach figures his team is stronger, with the exception of UCLA. When you lose super players like Walton and Wilkes, there's no way you can be as strong."

Ralph Drollinger, 7-foot-11 1/4 tall, moves into Walton's center spot and 6-9 sophomore Richard Washington opens at Wilkes' forward position.

Sands JH Wins Two

ACKERLY — Sands junior high cagers took a pair of cage wins from Fluvanna here Monday night.

Sands boys' picked up a 58-17 decision, and the local girls' came out ahead, 33-18. Larry Feaster and David Long shared Sands boys' scoring honors with six each. Junior Smith of Fluvanna sacked 14.

Jill Floyd's 27 point output paced Sands girls' effort, and Fluvanna's Teague collected 12.

Sands boys' record for the season stands at 2-2 and the girls' 4-3.

The next Sands junior high encounter is against Union, Dec. 2. Game time is 2:30 on the Sands court.

JOHNSON SHINES Chiefs Wreck Bronco Hopes

DENVER (AP) — A seemingly harmless safety ballooned into a 19-point third quarter for Kansas City, boosting the Chiefs to a National Football League victory over Denver and wrecking the Broncos' playoff hopes.

The Chiefs' 42-34 triumph Monday night enabled Oakland to back into the American Conference West Division title and also spoiled a brilliant passing display by quarterback Charley Johnson of the Broncos. He completed 28 of 42 passes for a whopping 445 yards and two touchdowns.

It all started innocently enough on the second-half kickoff of the nationally televised game.

Denver's Oliver Ross fumbled the boot, giving the Chiefs the ball at the Broncos' 12-yard line. Kansas City's Woody Green coughed it up at the one, but two plays later Chiefs' middle linebacker Willie Lanier tackled Otis Armstrong in the end zone for the safety.

Denver still led 21-19 but

Kansas City got good field position on the required free kick. The Chiefs promptly drove 49 yards in five plays, climaxing by Len Dawson's scrambling 35-yard TD pass to Otis Taylor.

As if that wasn't enough, Ed Podolak returned a punt 54 yards to the Broncos' 17 and Green ran it in for a 33-21 Chiefs' lead with less than five minutes gone in the period.

Jan Stenerud kicked a 35-yard field goal on the Chiefs' next possession to complete the scoring in the period.

"Losing momentum at the start of the second half is what really hurt us," Broncos' Coach John Ralston said. "We lost the ball, got it back, but then couldn't get it out of the end zone."

Ralston said the safety occurred on an off-tackle play in which Denver used a pulling guard. "Lanier filled the hole and got Otis for the safety," he added.

Johnson sparked the Broncos to a pair of fourth-quarter touchdowns that pulled Denver within eight points, but they got no closer. Rookie running back Jon Keyworth, making his first start, scored his third short-yardage touchdown of the game on the opening play of the final quarter.

Following a Kansas City touchdown, Johnson went to work again, completing a 65-yard, eight-play drive with a four-yard strike to Otto Stowe with 7:50 left in the game.

The Broncos drove to the Chiefs' 14 on their next possession, but Johnson was sacked and fumbled, and Kansas City's Jim Lynch recovered with 4:27 left, ending the threat.

Johnson, who said he thought his arm was in passing motion on the crucial turnover, said the Broncos "felt like we had to throw to win. I knew we could eat 'em up with our passing game." Johnson's yardage figure was the most in his 14-year pro career.

The loss dropped Denver to 4-5 for the season, making 9-1 Oakland uncatchable in the division. The Chiefs raised their mark to 4-6.

Federal Compensation Could Go To Newsman

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House has agreed to consider overriding a presidential veto of a bill providing federal compensation in the shooting of two newsmen by U.S. Marines.

President Ford called the shooting of the newsmen in the Dominican Republic in 1965 a "tragic and unfortunate incident" in a veto message read to the House Monday. However, he said he did not want Congress to set a precedent for a "myriad of claims involving financial hardship."

The House agreed to consider Wednesday overriding the veto.

"I think there is a very good chance there will be a vote on overriding the veto," said a spokesman for the bill's chief sponsor, Rep. Dan Rostenkowski, D-Ill.

"We've done a lot of research and haven't yet found a veto that was overridden on a private bill. But if ever there was a private bill that deserved enactment, this is it," the aide said.

A private bill affects only a limited number of persons named in the bill.

The bill would benefit Alvin Burt Jr. and the survivors of Douglas E. Kennedy, two Miami Herald newsmen wounded May 6, 1965 at a checkpoint during an outbreak of violence in the Dominican Republic.

Burt was the newspaper's Latin American editor and Kennedy was the chief photographer.

As their car neared a checkpoint, a Marine ordered the newsmen to halt. After a delay of several minutes, the newsmen began to get out of the car. At that point, there was gunfire somewhere behind the car, from an area held by rebels.

The car then accelerated rapidly in reverse and the Marines at the checkpoint opened fire.

Burt and Kennedy were wounded badly. Burt returned to work at the Herald the following August and Kennedy died in Canada three years ago of causes unrelated to his wounds.

The bill would provide $73,500 to Kennedy's estate and $45,482 for Burt.

President Ford said in his veto message that both men

OF PRESIDENCY AND PRESS

Concentrated Power Is Questioned By Speaker

LONG BEACH, Calif. (AP) — A spokesman for editors urged the media today to search out "the larger story of Watergate" — whether it be the concentration of too much power in the presidency or in the nation's press.

"Some may argue that such a task should be left to historians," said Richard D. Smyser of the Oak Ridge (Tenn.) Oak Ridge and president of the Associated Press Managing Editors — APME.

"But at the very least we might suspect the larger story and be a bit less cocksure about what we have reported so far," Smyser said.

His comments were prepared for the opening session of the 41st annual convention of the association of editors of Associated Press member newspapers.

California Gov. Ronald Reagan also was scheduled to address the meeting today aboard the Queen Mary, the retired ocean liner which now is a dockside tourist attraction and convention center.

JOB LAUDED

Smyser said the press did a commendable and conscientious job in unraveling the Watergate story.

"Throughout, the press was basically correct," Smyser said. "That's a terribly important point, especially when you consider what might have happened if it had not been correct."

There were drawbacks to Watergate reporting, he said.

"The press simply too often became a combatant and this came through not so much in the actual content as in the tone of the content. And that tone, I submit, is of great importance."

The combatant involvement in the reporting of Watergate was in reaction to deliberate baiting by an administration having a "boorish lack of grasp of the historic, traditional, vital role of the press in a democracy," he said.

"The press took too much bait. And the press, I fear, was guilty in some ways of what I heard described as the essential evil of Watergate: the administration's basic mistrust of the people..."

"The press can be, and has been in some instances, equally as guilty of mistrusting the good judgment of the people. And when I refer to the press, I am including of course the electronic as well as the print press," Smyser said.

Smyser said he is not sure what "the larger story of Watergate" will turn out to be.

But, he added, "I simply cannot presently be satisfied with explanations of what happened solely in terms of the political ineptitude, flawed character and paranoia of one man and the group of men around him. There simply has to be a larger story."

ONE ASPECT

One aspect of it may be the creation of a so-called "imperial presidency," Smyser said.

Or, he asked: "have we perhaps, if not by design then by simple evolution of technology, created a press more powerful than ever — too powerful? I refer of course to the evolution of the electronic media and its impact."

Smyser asked his colleagues if there were not a need "for us to voluntarily look for ways to temper our power — or at least be more conscious of it."

Another facet of the larger Watergate story may be the poor voter turnout of Americans in recent national elections, estimated at 37 per cent nationwide, he said.

"Only this fraction of the potential of the electorate has elected the administrations that have fallen first under Vietnam, then under Watergate," he said.

Smyser said the basic ministry of the press is to keep the public fully informed and for reporters to dig for the facts without becoming "snoopers."

"Over and over again, I have seen a public that is given information react wisely, tolerantly. Over and over again I have seen, and you have seen, the opposite, as in two really terrible aberrations of our government in just recent years."

"I refer of course to Vietnam and Watergate."

Some Businesses Can Expect Deeper Slump

WASHINGTON (AP) — Government figures have signaled a deeper slump ahead for the home building industry, and auto and steelmakers warn of production cutbacks that will trigger more unemployment.

The Commerce Department reported Monday that the number of new houses started by builders dropped for the fourth consecutive month during October to a total of 1.124 million units at an annual rate. The rate was off by seven-tenths of 1 per cent from September and marked the latest in what has been a steady home building decline from 1972. At the same time, the number of building permits issued during the month totaled the equivalent of 802,000 units, the lowest since December, 1966, when 743,000 permits were handed out. Permit issuances usually anticipate new starts by from three to six months, indicating a further deterioration in the home building industry.

Meanwhile, plans for "substantial plant closing" in December were announced by the Chrysler Corp. Its chairman, Lynn Townsend, blamed the cutback on poor car sales, but said there will be no "company-wide shutdown."

Townsend said there would be many additional layoffs in the coming two months as Chrysler trims 50,000 cars from its fourth-quarter production schedule. Some 26,600 Chrysler workers were on layoffs this week from a blue-collar workforce of about 100,000.

In the steel industry, the nation's two largest producers announced steps to cut production in anticipation of the coal miners' strike lasting at least three weeks.

Little Annie Proves Her Doubters Wrong

SARASOTA, Fla. (AP) — Stripper Ann Marie says she's making a bundle capitalizing on man's obsession with a woman's bust.

"I was in college when I realized that I had a gold mine," says the 21-year-old stripper, whose talent measures 67-25-36. "Touring the nation as 'Little Annie,' the 5-foot-5, 150-pound blonde currently headlines a go-go club's show in this Gulf Coast city, drawing up to $3,500 a week in salary."

"People come wondering what they'll see," says the candid Miss Marie. "I strip simply because if I didn't people would say I'm stuffed."

In her nightly show, Miss Marie proves her doubters wrong. After her act, in which she coyly struts the stage with a mechanical dog perched atop her chest, she holds question-and-answer sessions with amazed customers.

But the Chicago resident, who began her peekaboo career after dropping out of the University of Illinois, says she gets no kicks from stripping.

"I like to think of my act as comedy," she says. "I got it and it's all natural — no silicone — so I use it." The daughter of Polish immigrants, Miss Marie says, "I come from a big-busted family. I measured 42 inches by the time I was 14."

While her figure more than fills the requirements of her profession, Miss Marie displays a head for business.

"The money is good. I'll be able to retire in a couple of years," she says. "While the others are out spending it on Cadillacs and furs, I'm saving mine to invest in something that will make money for me long-term."

After retirement, Miss Marie says she hopes to purchase a farm.

"Maybe I want a farm subconsciously," she says, "to get away from being stared at."

Greyhound Buses Halt

"All of our Greyhound buses are halted due to the strike, and we have no bus schedule running east and west at this time," Jim Owens, manager of the Greyhound Terminal here, said this morning.

"This is about 40 per cent of our traffic. We still have buses from Kerrville Bus Company and Texas, New Mexico and Oklahoma Coaches running schedules to the north and south."

There were no local employees involved in the strike since all Greyhound personnel here are in a supervisory capacity and are not involved.

"I've been here 18 years and this has never happened before," Owens observed.

All passengers caught in the strike were transferred out by other lines, according to Greyhound.

Continental Bus Lines officials here said that they are not involved and "traffic seems about normal for us."

Police Have Busy Night Checking Disorder Calls

Police officers were kept hopping Monday night as call after call came in on drunk and disorderly complaints.

They investigated a possible assault at 8:23 p.m. when Shirley Lopez complained she had been struck on the shoulder with a tire tool by an assailant who then broke out the back glass of her vehicle.

At 9:08 p.m., officers went to the Matador Lounge where a fight was in progress. Two were arrested on misdemeanor charges. At 10:43 p.m., a report came in that gunshots were fired on the Northside, and two subjects ran down the street. Nobody was located.

At 10:52 p.m., Police arrested a drunk pedestrian in the downtown area then hurried to the 7-11 at Willa and W. 80 to settle a dispute between a man and his wife.

Next they then helped in COAHOMA — Two Coahoma Lions Club members received special plaques for outstanding achievement at their Annual Ladies Night Banquet held Monday night at Rick's Cafeteria.

Plaques were presented by president Ernest Richters to Harold Fraser as Citizen of the Year and to Ralph Beistle, Church of Christ Minister, for Lion of the Year.

Guest speaker was Mrs. Joy Culwell, noted speaker and radio commentator from Colorado City.

Feazelle Is New CM Assistant

Paul Feazelle, 23 of San Angelo, has been hired as the new city administrative assistant, effective on Jan. 1, according to an announcement by Harry Nagel, city manager.

Feazelle will replace Jon Snider, who is resigning effective the first of the year to go into private business in Dallas.

Feazelle will graduate from San Angelo State in December with a degree in business. He and his wife and child will move here during the holidays.

Church Youth Selling Fruit

taking a heart attack victim from the Broadway Tavern to a local hospital. Then at 11:29 p.m., there was a report that somebody stole a part out of a car parked at Denny's.

At 11:51 p.m., a "strange man" near Al's Barbecue turned out to be a railroad man who jogs home from work each night. The evening was completed around 1:30 a.m. when they received two calls about drunks with guns in the 900 block of South Nolan, but these could not be located.

Church Youth Selling Fruit

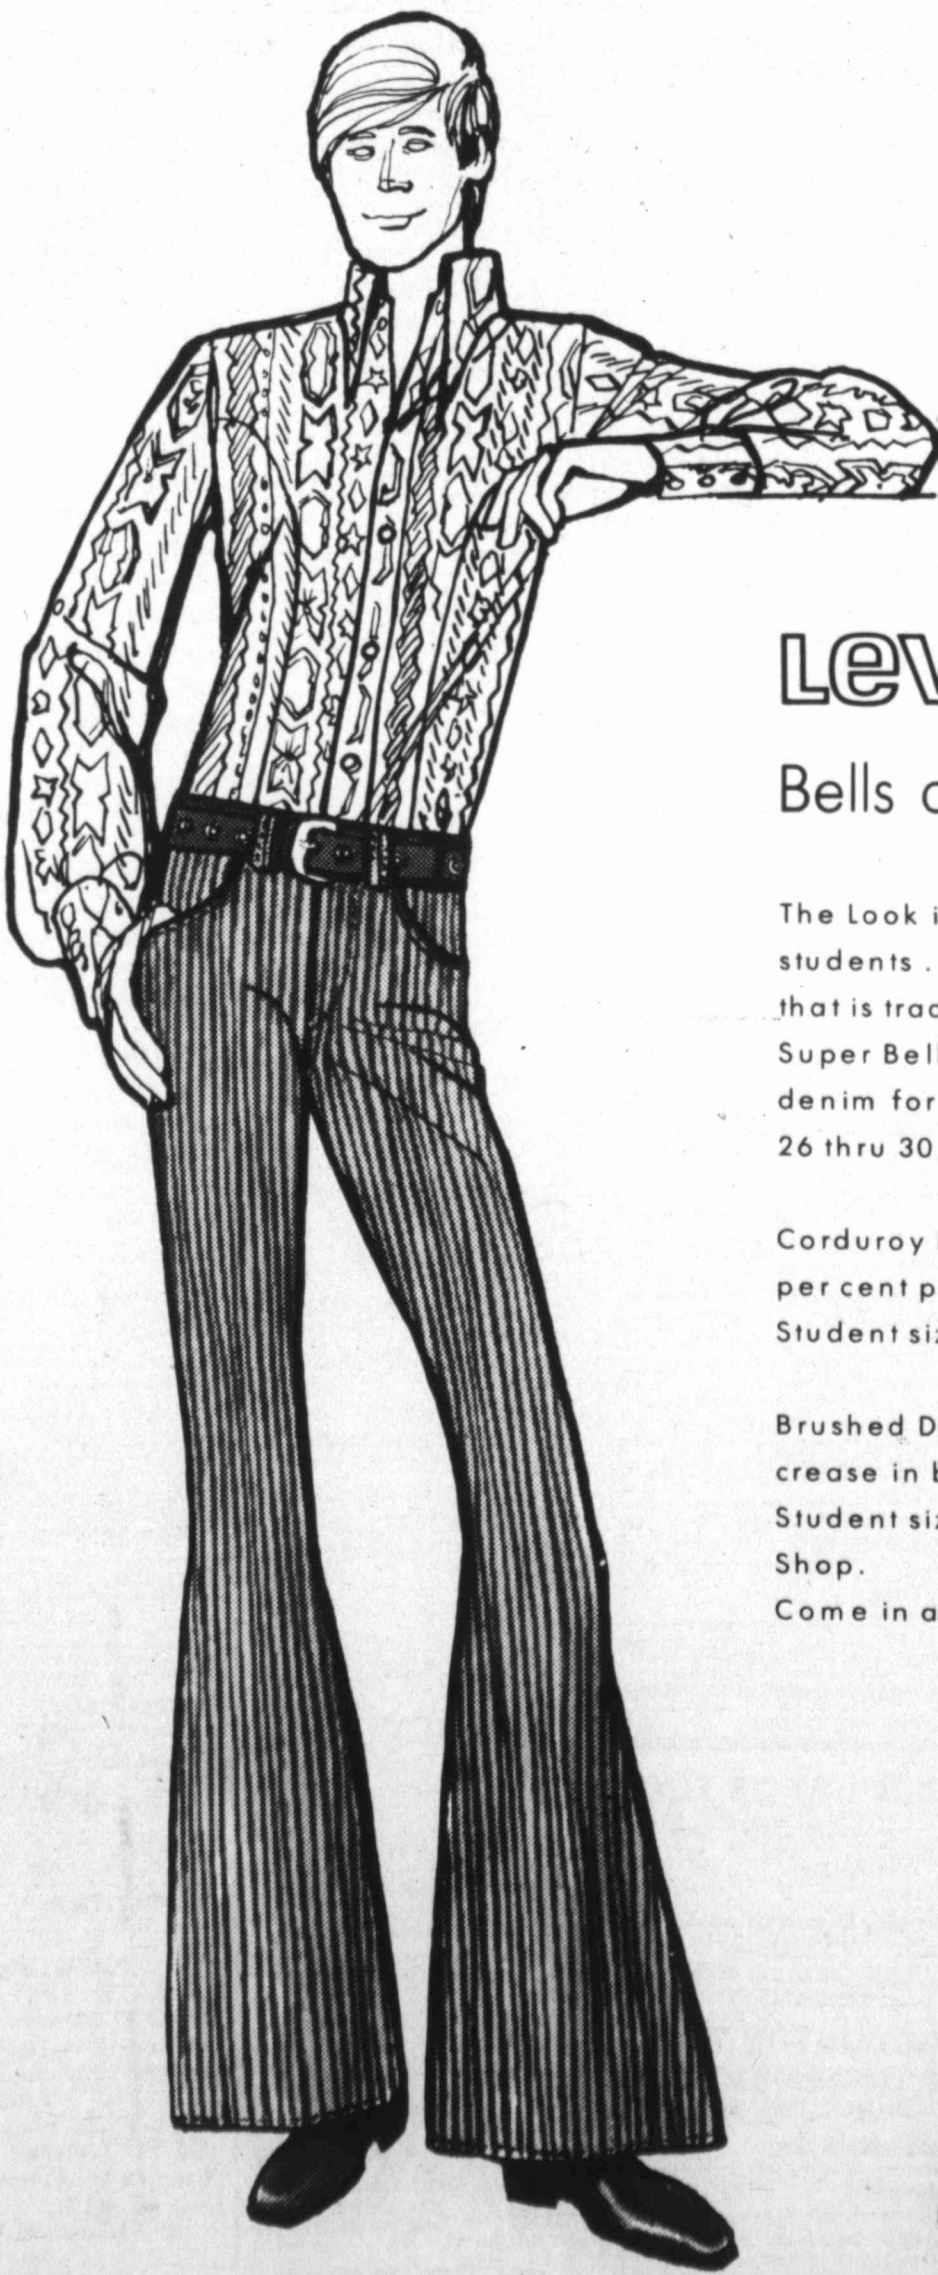

The Youth Department of the First United Methodist Church has set about to sell boxes of fresh oranges and grapefruit from the Texas Valley, suitable for Christmas giving.

Seventh graders through high school seniors are participating in the campaign. Proceeds go toward the support of Youth Club activities and competition is developing among various grade groups as to which can sell the most fruit.

Large or 40-pound boxes sell for $7.50 each, the smaller boxes for $4.50. The larger containers hold 80 to 100 oranges or 48 to 55 grapefruits.

Those placing orders now can expect delivery direct from Weslaco by Dec. 13.

Those interested can contact any member of the Youth Department or call the church office at 267-6394.
