LUBBOCK, TEXAS, "THE HUB OF THE PLAINS," TUESDAY AFTERNOON, JUNE 22, 1926

Leased Wire By Associated Press

CITY NEWS BRIEFLY TOLD

IF SOME OF THE DELEGATES don't return from Amarillo or some of the citizens who are here aren't aroused from the hot weather, Lubbock may soon be in the class where the most exciting event of the day is watching the train go through, according to some of the citizens. The fire department hasn't made a run since June 12, more than a week, one man was stuck for speeding Monday and the police docket was clean at 7 o'clock Tuesday afternoon, automobile salesmen seemed to be busy sitting in the shade and discussing politics along with the rest of the stay-at-homes and bill collectors were mopping their brows this afternoon and complaining that collections are pending "the boss's return from Amarillo."

WOMEN'S CLUBS AND SOCIETIES have mostly disbanded for the summer while the members are out of town on vacations or entertaining guests.

MRS. MARY COOKE, OF CLAR- endon, is visiting in the home of Sam Lightfoot.

SHERIFF B. L. JOHNSON LEFT today for Amarillo where he will take in the closing program of the convention now in session in that city.

MRS. H. J. ADAMSON, OF 19TH Street, has returned from a visit of several weeks near Mexia.

ABOUT 60 STUDENTS ARE REGISTERED in the summer school being conducted at the high school, according to Superintendent M. H. Duncan and work is progressing among the students.

VIRTUALLY ALL TEACHERS FOR the public schools have been selected for the term of 1926-27, according to M. H. Duncan, superintendent. No announcements of the names will be made until about time for school to open, he said, as vacancies probably will occur and some changes may be made for various reasons.

MR. AND MRS. GEORGE WEN- dell, of Austin, who are visiting Mr. and Mrs. Neil H. Wright, are returning to their home in the morning.

DR. AND MRS. E. KRUEGER, OF Austin, are visiting in the home of Dr. and Mrs. T. T. Krueger, 2719 Broadway.

MR. AND MRS. D. E. COWARD OF Waco, who have been visiting in Cleburn, and are now enroute home, returned today with Mr. and Mrs. S. W. Hilliard.

MISS VELMA MAIR HAS RE- turned to her home in Eastland after visiting Miss Mary Scott, 2201 13th Street. Miss Mair underwent an operation for the removal of her tonsils here last Thursday.

MISS BEULAH DIXON IS CON- fined to her home, 1502 Avenue G, by illness.

MRS. F. L. McDONALD AND daughter, Olga, have returned to their home in Brownfield after visiting in the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. W. McDonald, 1307 14th Street.

MRS. G. W. SCOTT, MRS. D. J. Wilhelm and Mrs. J. W. McDonald are visiting below Slaton this afternoon and attending a Baptist Women's Missionary Union associational meet- ing.

MRS. E. L. LAW AND DAUGHT- er returned to their home, 1302 Ave. F, here late Monday evening after visiting Mrs. Law's parents in Fort Worth for about three or four weeks. They were to have been home sooner but lost four days enroute home while their car was being repaired.

MR. AND MRS. C. H. ELLIOTT and family are in Amarillo Tuesday.

MRS. ED ALEXANDER AND children are spending this week in Slaton with Mrs. Alexander's sister, Mrs. A. C. Burrus.

MR. AND MRS. RUSSELL MY- rick, of San Antonio, are visiting in the home of his brother, W. A. Myrick, Sr., 1216 Avenue W.

NOLTE SAYS ROUGHNECKS IMPORTED FOR MEET AT SAN ANTONIO

(By The Associated Press) SAN ANTONIO, June 22.—Members of the Wurzbach faction of the Republican Party were accused Tuesday by Eugene Nolte, Sr., state chairman, of having imported 75 roughnecks for Monday's meeting of the Bexar County Republican executive committee, which ended in disorder.

Nolte, who is aligned with national committeeman R. B. Cragger against Congressman Harry Wurzbach, denied that any revolver was drawn by Cragger-Nolte sympathizers during the melee.

The state organization will not recognize the acts of the Wurzbach group Monday night after order had been restored, he said.

Fight Waits Meeting SAN ANTONIO, June 22.—In a meeting of the Bexar Republican executive committee which was temporarily halted by fist fights among the delegates, and which was allowed to proceed with business later while four peace officers remained in the room, Harry M. Wurzbach, Texas' only Re- publican Congressman, from the 14th Congressional District, Monday night won a close victory over the regular state organization headed by R. B. Cragger, Republican national commit- teeman from Texas.

The outbreak climaxed the fight between the Wurzbach and Cragger fac- tions which has been at high heat since Wurzbach charged that the Cra- gger forces abused patronage privileges.

Uproar Follows Ballot When the majority report of the committee on resolutions, appointed by Chairman A. R. Holzschuber, a Cragger adherent, had been rejected by the meeting, 48 to 45, and Holz- schuber had ruled that a motion to substitute a minority report on a vital vote had been defeated, the as- sembly was thrown into an uproar.

Dr. A. A. Luter, a Wurzbach follow- er, leaped to his feet, declared that Mr. Holzschuber was not conducting the meeting according to law, and proposed that the chairman be replaced by A. M. Green, another Wurzbach adherent.

Hostilities between the opposing camps immediately broke out, and

Business of Law Enforcement Quiet

Lubbock is quiet—very quiet. The city jail is empty and has been for several days. Three members of the police force, including Chief May, are out of the city, and remaining mem- bers have nothing to do other than draw their pay. Two men, Sergeant Charles and Paulman Cannon, are holding down the fort, in daylight hours, and they complain of "dull business."

It's this way: Most Lubbock people are in Amarillo attending the conven- tion, and the few remaining at home are so quiet and law-abiding officers are not necessary. Chief May and officers John Leonard and Rufus Bundy are assisting Chief Clark Cain of Amarillo in keeping peace in that city.

Six Jurors Selected For Houston Trial

BELTON, Texas, June 22. (AP)—Six jurors had been selected in the trial of W. S. Houston, of Somerville, when court adjourned for luncheon here today. Houston is charged with the death of Garrett White, of Somerville, several weeks ago. One man was accepted on the jury who said he had been a klanman but had let his mem- bership lapse.

Belton Girl Killed By Lightning Bolt

BELTON, June 22. (AP)—Gladys Pratt, 5, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. M. Pratt, who reside four miles east of here, was killed by lightning while playing under a tree at the family home last evening. Three other chil- dren who also had been playing un- der the tree had just been summoned to the house by their mother.

Kept Secret

They say girls can't keep secrets—but May Wittinger of Franklin, Ohio, knew for three months that her sweet- heart, Charlie Garrison, had burglar- ized a department store and shot a policeman, but she didn't tell until he paid attention to another girl and got her jealous. And the thing that makes her maddest is that the news- papers call her May when she wants to be known as Dolores.

AVIATORS DIE IN PLANE CRASH

Plane Falls 300 Feet and Two Passengers, Including One Cadet, Burn To Crisp

(By The Associated Press) MITCHELL FIELD, N. J., June 22.—Major Moore, Jr., and William Point, West Point cadet, were killed when in army observation plane piloted by Major Moore fell 290 feet and burned on the Cold Stream Golf Course, at East Meadow, L. I., today.

The bodies of the two fliers were burned beyond recognition and it was not until a check-up was made of all planes in use that identification could be established.

Major Moore was a graduate of West Point, having been appointed to the academy from Arkansas in 1903. He was commandant of Mitchell Field in 1920 and at the time of his death was in charge of the air service reserve of the second corps area. He was married and lived at Bayside, L. I.

A sister of Major Moore is an as- sistant attorney general of Arkansas. His father was formerly Attorney General of that state.

Littlefield Butcher Charged With Theft

Ed Houk, Littlefield butcher, who recently turned state's evidence in connection with the arrest of Jimmy Mil- ton, also of Littlefield on a charge of cattle theft, is now out on bond fac- ing a similar charge, according to Lem Cheever, Inspector of the Texas and Southwestern Cattle Raisers' Association, through whom the arrest of the two men was brought about.

Houk is charged with theft of ten cattle from the herd of Fred Snyder, Lubbock cattleman, who maintains a ranch in Hockley county. He was taken into custody by Sheriff Jim Stroud, of Hockley county last Saturday, and made bond immediately in the amount of $3,000. Milton, who was arrested about ten days ago, was allowed bond in the sum of $2,500, but has not made it, and is being held in the Lubbock county jail for Hockley county au- thorities pending his trial.

It developed during the investigation more cattle than was charged against Milton were missing, and Houk is charged with the remaining num- ber. The number charged to Milton is nine.

Three Youths Drown In Lake at Leonard

LEONARD, June 22. (AP)— Three youths were drowned in a lake here today when their boat capsized. The bodies have been recovered.

The victims are Fred Stockton, 14, son of Mr. and Mrs. Will Stockton; Louis Jacobs, 17, son of Mr. and Mrs. M. N. Jacobs, and Eton Noklin, 13, son of Mr. and Mrs. V. H. Nowlin.

SAYS ROAD DISTRICT CAN BE CREATED ONLY BY ACT OF STATE LEGISLATURE, AND URGES SESSION

KEMP CHARGES FURTHER INVASION OF GOVERNOR'S RESPONSIBILITIES IN STATEMENT AS MOODY ANSWERS PLEA OF "GOVERNOR JIM"

FORT WORTH, June 22. (AP)—Taking sharp issue with former Governor Ferguson's plan to have Texas road bonds affected by the Supreme court de- cision in the Archer county case validated by a vote of the individual dis- tricts, W. T. Wheeler, secretary of the Texas Highway Association, issued a statement here today declaring that his organization would continue its ef- forts to have a special session of the Legislature called to legalize the bonds.

Wheeler declared that Mr. Ferguson or "any one else that knows anything about the road bond situation knows that before a road district can be created it must be under some act passed by the Legislature of the State of Texas. The law under which the districts who have issued bonds were created has been declared invalid, null and void by the Supreme Court of the United States and therefore it is quite evident to any reasonable thinking person that the Legislature will have to enact a law authorizing any road district."

Kemp Raps Ferguson WICHITA FALLS, June 22. (AP)—"A further invasion of the respon- sibilities resting upon the executive of our state," was the charge made here Monday night by J. A. Kemp, chair- man of the State Committee for val- idation of road bonds after he had read statements made in Austin yester- day by James E. Ferguson relative to the bonds.

"I am not a lawyer," Kemp said "but Mr. Ferguson is, I understand. I would not presume to discuss the legal phases of this important question further than to say that our committee which has labored untrig- glingly to secure a special session of the Legislature, and obtained the advice of some of the outstanding attorneys of America, who are specialists in this line and recognized as authorities by the leading investment bankers of America."

Moody Answers Plea AUSTIN, June 22. (AP)—Attorney General Dan Moody and James E. Fer- guson, although missing from the campaign for the day, utilized Monday in the issuance of statements relative to Ferguson's declarations at Wichita Falls a week ago concerning the in- validated road bonds.

Ferguson's statement declared "that the bond validation crowd is attempt- ing to misrepresent the Governor's at- titude and declared that Ferguson re- affirms the shocking declaration that the people do not owe the debt repre- sented by the road district bonds."

"He wants to know how I stand on the bond question," Moody's state- ment read. "I favor their validation, and if I had been Governor of Texas, a legislative session would have been called a long time ago for the pur- pose of validating the bonds."

Ferguson's statement declared that the Supreme Court ruling established that he was "imminently correct when I said that the court had held the people do not owe these bonds. What the court has not said so, then what is the validation crowd kicking about?"

Both Ferguson and Moody were to return to active campaigning Tuesday. Ferguson is scheduled to deliver an evening address at Rockdale. Moody's one speech of the day is to

VISITORS POUR INTO AMARILLO

Lubbock Delegation Much In Evidence With Tech Colors Flashing Brightly

(Special To The Journal.) AMARILLO, June 22.—With the Lubbock delegation, resident in sombreros and sashes of the Texas Technological college's scarlet and black, very much in evidence and every hour pouring additional visitors into Amarillo the annual convention of the West Texas Chamber of Com- merce swept into its second day to- day.

Due to the size of the city, which is larger than any other previous con- vention city, traffic is not nearly so congested as at usual sessions, and while no count of the delegates has yet been tabulated officials said today that they feel sure the convention would be the largest and most suc- cessful in history.

Interest is rife in the baseball ser- ies between Amarillo and Lubbock's Hubbers, who through bad breaks, dropped their first game of the year yesterday to the Metropolitans by a 4-2 count, behind steady hurling of Skeeter Ratliff, fast ball hurler. Skipper Allen stated last night, how- ever, that with the no defeat stain el- iminated the Hubbers would in his opinion take the last two games of the three tie tourney. Duke Bassen- ger, wrong arm ace, will work today with Frank Hudspeth, curve ball ar- tist, getting the call tomorrow.

Three Young Robbers Hold Up Messengers

ST. LOUIS, June 22. (AP)—Three robbers today held up two young mes- sengers of the Union-Easton Trust Com- pany and escaped with $14,000.

The robbery, near a busy transfer corner, took only a moment.

The messengers, Joseph O'Mara, 15, and Sylvester Malone, 17, were in front of the bank waiting for a street car to take them to a downtown bank when one of the three men in a motor car leaped out with draw revolver, jerked the package of money from Malone and returned to the car. MOSLEY URGES HEAVIER GAS TAX TO BETTER CARE FOR ROADS

(By The Associated Press) AMARILLO, June 22.—Arthur P. Duggan, of Littlefield, was elected president of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce for the coming year when the convention ratified his nom- ination unanimously at the close of the morning session Tuesday. Quanah, represented by Mildred Marshall, won the My Home Town contest with pun- gent, valuable prizes. Carl Mount of Cisco placed second and Thelma Col- fee of Electra was third.

Imposition of a gasoline tax that will take care of the needs of a con- nected system of state highways was advocated by Hal Mosley, chairman of the State Highway Commission, who was chief speaker at the Tuesday morning session.

Funds Inadequate Mosley pointed out the cost of main- taining highways over the 265,000 square miles which Texas represents and declared that on account of too high maintenance cost of cheaply built roads, present funds are wholly in- adequate.

Adquate funds will have to be provided to make any material head- way and I see no better way than to make the man who uses our highways pay his part, and no better way of collecting this than by a gasoline tax, he said.

Convention politics had progressed rapidly by Tuesday morning with the election of Arthur P. Duggan, of Little- field, as next president practically as- sured with his nomination by the com- mittee late Monday. He was placed in nomination by Joss Mitchell, also of Littlefield. H. W. Hagnie, also of Littlefield, was nominated for president by Congressman Thomas L. Blanton, was given the nomination by the commit- tee for the post of first vice-president.

IN SOCIETY

The Social Calendar

WEDNESDAY

Mrs. C. J. Wagner, 1626 Broadway will be hostess to the Wednesday Needle Club.

Misses Mary Ann and Emily Davis, 2006 Main Street, will be hostesses to the Junior 1926 Club in the afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. B. C. Dickinson will entertain the 1921 Bridge club in the evening, at the Country Club.

Three Circles W. M. S. Meet Tuesday Afternoon

Three circles of the Woman's Missionary Society of the First Baptist church met Monday afternoon in study, business, and Bible sessions. Circles 2 and 3 did not meet since so many members were out of the city.

Circle 1 met with Mr. J. W. McDonald, 1807 14th Street, for mission study with 10 present. Mrs. D. J. Wilhelm visited with the group. Circle 4 met with Mrs. L. J. Akers, 1629 10th Street, and studied the Woman's Missionary Union code. Circle 5 met with Mrs. P. T. Callaway, and the hostess led the mission study lesson. She is teaching the new book, "Of One Blood." There were 11 present. Mrs. M. H. Duncan led in prayer and Mrs. Duvall gave a reading. A general meeting of the society will be held next Monday.

Motion Pictures Are Discussed At Meeting

Motion pictures were the topic for discussion at a meeting of the Woman's Missionary Society of the First Methodist church Monday afternoon with the social service committee in charge. Dr. J. C. Granberry discussed "What is the moral and spiritual effect of motion pictures on the life of our youth?"

Mrs. R. I. Tubbs was leader of the lesson and Mrs. George Bean led the devotional. Mrs. J. C. Granberry made the report of the social service committee and talked on legislation. Mrs. O. B. Trinkle, accompanied by Mrs. W. O. Stevens, sang a soprano solo. At a short business session, it was decided to meet at 4 o'clock each Monday afternoon rather than at 3 o'clock. The white side won in an attendance contest.

Mrs. N. Wright Hostess At Informal Dance

Mrs. Nell Wright was hostess at an informal dance at the Country Club Monday evening honoring her sister and husband, Mr. and Mrs. George Wendell, of Austin.

Menus for the Family

BREAKFAST—Orange juice, cereal cooked with dates, crisp graham toast, milk, coffee.

LUNCHEON—Cold sliced meat loaf, radishes and young onions, brown bread and butter sandwiches, pineapple rice pudding, milk, tea.

DINNER—Broiled fish, waffles with lemon butter, lettuce potatoes, buttered beans, cucumber salad, bran bread, strawberry cobbler, (cold), milk, coffee.

Needless to mention, children under ten years of age must not be allowed to partake of the cucumber salad. However, they are furnished a varied menu for the day without this salad.

This cold strawberry cobbler recipe seems almost "too good to be true" in its simplicity.

One quart strawberries, 1 cup granulated sugar, 6 slices bread, butter, 3/4 cup whipping cream, 2 tablespoons powdered sugar, 1/2 teaspoon vanilla. Cut bread 1/2 inch thick and remove crusts. The pieces should be about 4 inches square. Butter both sides of each slice of bread. Wash and hull berries. Put layer for layer of berries and sugar in a smooth sauce pan and cook over a low fire for 20 minutes. The heat can be increased after the juice is drawn out of the berries. Put a slice of bread into a mold or serving dish. Cover with a layer of hot berries and continue layer for layer until all is used making the last layer of berries. Let stand on ice till very cold, at least two hours. Serve with cream, whipped and sweetened with powdered sugar and flavored with vanilla.

Heart To Heart Talks With Cynthia Grey

(By CYNTHIA GREY)

Growing old together is one of the great privileges of marriage. And when for some reason it isn't possible, unhappiness results.

Divorce, usually, is for the young. When incompatibility and misery begin to develop after 15 or 20 years of marriage, a separation as a general rule is the only remedy.

And either means missing so much! Special care, it seems to me, should be taken at the beginning to avoid possibility of future disaster.

Not all the sources of unhappiness can be foreseen, of course, but some of them can. One of them sticks right out in front of everyone's eyes at the time of marriage.

"I am 18," writes Gertrude, "and in love with a man of 26. He is devoted to me, takes me everywhere. "He is well-to-do, cultured, a gentleman. I really am in love with him, I think."

Gertrude doesn't have to go any further, does she? She only thinks she's in love with a man just twice her age! What will she think when she is 36, as cultured, charming, and delightful in her way as her suitor is today in his?

And her husband will be 54! Still cultured, delightful, charming—but will she want to "sit by the fire" with him, instead of going to dances, games, parties, as he did when he was 26?

He "married a young wife" and "May and December love" are common phrases. As such they contain much human wisdom.

Gleaners Sun. School Class In Social Meeting

Members of the Gleaners Sunday school class of the First Baptist church enjoyed a social in the basement of the church Monday afternoon. Mrs. J. E. Crisler sang a solo and little Misses Margaret and Martha Dean Crosby played and sang. Following the social hour, brick ice cream and cake were served by the hostesses, Mesdames E. L. Klett, Mable Wilson, J. L. Holt, Buell Bales and C. M. Ballenger. Miss Eula Howard gave a reading.

There were about 25 members of the class present and the following out-of-town visitors: Misses Mary Garnett and Matilda Leuth, of Dawson Springs, Ky., guests of Mrs. T. D. Coleman; Miss Gladys Magar, of Whitewright, guest of Mrs. Maple Wilson, and Miss Fern Caylor, of Hugo, Okla., guest of Mrs. Walter Tyler.

Hayride and Picnic Is Enjoyed by C. E. Members

Members of the Christian Endeavor of the First Christian church went on a hay ride to the George Bales ranch late Monday evening. The Woman's Day

By ALLENE SUMNER

Hair and Revolt

Young lady students of Jena, Germany, have pitched tents in two battle camps—one waging war for long hair and against short, the other battling against long hair and shouting salvos to short. It all began when a professor issued summons to all fair maids to come forth and perform in a pageant. But he added that no bob-haired maidens need apply, as "unsuitable" to part.

The long hair of a New York factory girl became entangled in a book binding machine a day or so ago. She may live.

A Queen's Beauty

"I know that I am said to be the most beautiful woman in Europe. About that, of course, I cannot judge, because I cannot know. But about the other queens I know. I am the most beautiful queen in Europe. And I am so glad to have a face that can give my people pleasure."

So Queen Marie of Rumania is reported by Mabel Potter Duggett as saying. Mrs. Duggett, realizing that the remark may bring forth criticism, meets it by denying that any trace of offensive ego lives in the queen. "She just cannot help knowing that she is 'something nice,'" she writes. "But she is an impersonal in estimating her values as she might be in appraising a rare rug."

Just the same I wonder if Queen Marie gets invited to the other queens' teas and garden parties and stork showers and things!

Summer Food Follies

A "bunk" of plain whipped cream can be "dolled up" by sprinkling it with coconut, chopped nuts, chocolate shavings, or colored sugar.

"Company" apple pie is made by baking it with only one crust and garnishing the top with whipped cream and cottage cheese.

A cabbage leaf cut about the top into scallops makes a decorative "salsid bowl." Filled with cold carrots and peas mixed with mild dressing, the Sunday night supper's all ready!

The Home Beautiful

If you use "vaity corner" arrangement of furniture, you're all wrong according to hours decorating specialist. With a united firm cry they say that chairs are the only possible exception to the rule that furniture should either be in a right angle position or flat against the wall. Neither are tables placed in the center of the room these days, and the several end tables are apt to be used rather than one large center table.

Cool Dessert

Peach mist makes a delectable warm summer evening dish. Made from 2 egg whites, 2 cups of small cut peaches, 3 tablespoons of powdered sugar, and 3 tablespoons of some berry jelly or jam. Chill the eggs before whipping them, whip whites until stiff, add powdered sugar and jelly before whipping. Mix in peaches, chill and serve in sherbet glasses.

Crowning Glory

Since it is now assumed that gentlemen prefer blondes, blondes will keep that way. Borax and soda in the rinse water will help. And curly-headed blondes have a "better break" than straight-tressed ones. If you dislike curling your hair with a hot iron, and stick to the old soft kid curlers, you might like this curling lotion with which the hair is moistened before it is rolled on the curlers. Rosewater, 16 oz.; potassium carbonate, 1 dr.; ammonia water, 12 dr.; bay rum, 12 dr.

Man She Should Marry!

Writes Martha Ostense, author of the best seller "Wild Geese," in an article entitled "A Man I Would Marry":

"A professional woman is in a peculiarly wistful position. She wants men friends without having to squirm and grince and look laboriously arch to win them. She has no wish to be more, or less figuratively speaking, poked in the ribs and call 'You little rascal!'"

More Good Stuff!

"It was not so long ago that I could at gay gatherings masquerade as one of those 'harmless little things.' Inevitably, however, some time during the evening a sad light would dawn in the eyes of a man whom I had so artfully misled, and he would retreat in that male terror that will not grant a woman the right to be intelligent. One has, as George Meredith says of the coy Annette, 'almost to fight a battle to persuade the world that she has downright thoughts and feelings.'"

Mrs. Sarah Green, head of the Kansas City league and official hostess of the convention, is a member of the Waitresses Union. Mrs. Maud Swartz of New York, national president, is from the Typographical Union. Rose Schneiderman of New York, vice-president, is from the Cloth Hat and Cap Makers. Agnes Nestor of Chicago, another big figure among labor women, is from the Glove Makers. And so they are all trades women.

But the things they work for include the things which affect equally the pampered secretary of a corporation president, the head of a woman's department in a big bank, the woman lawyer or doctor or artist.

The convention will take up the old problem of getting equal pay with men for equal work, the eight hour day, better standards of living, full citizenship for women and better living conditions for working women.

The National Women's Trade Union League is a federation of trade unions with women members and of individuals who accept the league's platform. Its announced purposes are:

To encourage self government in the workshop. To develop leadership among the women workers. To insure the protection of the younger girls in their efforts for better working conditions and a living wage. To secure for girls and women equal opportunity with boys and men in trades and technical training, and pay on the basis of occupation and not on the basis of sex.

To secure the representation of women on industrial tribunals and public boards and commissions. To interpret to the public generally the aims and purposes of the trade union movement, and

To provide a common meeting ground for women of all groups who wish to see the principles of democracy applied in industry.

Policeman Dies of Automobile Injuries

LARNED, Kansas, June 22, (AP)—Charles Burton, city marshal, died today from injuries received when he attempted to stop a speeding automobile Saturday.

The marshal stepped into the street and signaled the automobile to halt, but was struck down by the car, which did not stop. Officials have no clues to the identity of the driver.

Little Hope Held For Farm Measure

WASHINGTON, June 22, (AP)—Indicating it had no hope of further effort in the House to enact farm relief legislation this session unless the Senate passes the McSary corn bill, the House agricultural committee adjourned today until next December.

QUEER QUIRKS OF NATURE

FRETFUL PORCUPINE MINDS OWN BUSINESS

(By ARTHUR N. PACK) President, The American Nature Association.

The unfortunate person whose individual hairs stood on end, like quills upon the fretful porcupine, was, in comparison with "Purky," decidedly out of luck.

Green hairs only advertise fear, but erect quills mean "hands off." Woe to the animal, human or otherwise, who disregards that warning, for he is likely to become a sort of quill-cushion before he knows it.

The tail is Purky's most effective end, and if the curious or unwary intruder allows himself to be in its vicinity he is likely to encounter a quick flip from it, and find that some of its short, easily detached quills are left in his anatomy.

These are among the sharpest things found in nature, and each one is fitted with a multitude of tiny barbs. These prevent the quill from being pulled out without using force and inflicting pain, and, furthermore, cause it to go deeper as the victim moves, until they bury themselves. Great discomfort and even death may overtake an animal thus afflicted.

Let us remember, however, that our porcupine is a world-better at mind-

Rutherford Case Is Now With Governor

LITTLE ROCK, June 22, (AP)—Governor Tom J. Terrill, after hearing arguments by Assistant Attorney General J. A. Potter of Missouri and Attorneys for the defense this morning took under advisement the question of whether he would grant the request of Governor Baker for the return to St. Louis of William A. S. Rutherford, of Pine Bluff.

Rutherford is wanted in St. Louis on charges of second degree murder, and carrying concealed weapons.

WHAT OUR NEIGHBORS ARE DOING

Ed Hopkins likes his trade all right, but says he often has to fight, to get the man for whom he's building to buy good boards instead of kindling. Ed says that he would like to know why people spend their hard earned dough, for boards that are so poorly made that he must sort and use his blade to shape them into decent lumber—such business ways fill Ed with wonder. "The place to make a 2x4 is at the mill where there is power, not on the job by saw and plane—the carpenter is not to blame." Some boards come straight and true and strong; some others are entirely wrong. The man who buys the poorer kind must pay to shape them true by hand. So when it all is said and done, the better board is the cheaper one. For Ed must have $1.00 an hour to make a board by right arm power.

With Long-Bell trade-marked lumber the carpenter can do better work—quicker.

HARD SLUGGING HOLDS SWAY IN MAJOR LEAGUES

309 HITS, 102 RUNS SEND 300 NAMES TO LINEUP; 34 PITCHERS USED

(By the Associated Press)
As the result of heavy batting many a major pitcher arm is weary today. In eight games yesterday, 309 safe hits were scored, accounting for 102 runs. Two hundred names appeared in box scores, thirty-four of them belonging to pitchers.

In a sixteen-inning struggle at Cincinnati, the league leaders rallied to tie Chicago in the ninth and win. Jack Hendricks used four of his best moundsmen in winning the game. Rixey, Mays, Neff and Donohue were used. Hugh Critz, Red second baseman, was knocked unconscious by a pitched ball and Mays and Pleinich were ordered from the field for protesting a decision.

Pittsburgh and St. Louis each made 14 hits in a 13 to 11 victory for the Pirates. The Cardinals used six pitchers and Pittsburgh four. Rhem, St. Louis ace, was knocked out of the box.

Brooklyn and Boston divided a double bill, the first contest going to the Braves in 11 innings, 5 to 7, and the Dodgers winning the second, 6 to 4.

Sixty-one hits came from the afternoon's play. In the opening fray, Brooklyn made five runs in the ninth to tie the score which the Braves had amassed off the delivery of Dazzy Vance.

Jack Scott, showed the best pitching anywhere in either league to beat Philadelphia, 10 to 2, ably supported by the Giant bats. He permitted only six hits, three of which came in the final inning.

In the American League, the Athletics downed Boston, 7 to 6, in 11 innings, using Ehmke, Willies and Rommel.

It required 10 innings for Detroit to topple the St. Louis Browns, 5 to 4. Warner of the Tigers featuring with a triple, double and single.

Cleveland in Second Place
Cleveland gained full possession of second place by beating Chicago, 5 to 2. Shantz, Indian server, leading his own batting attack with three singles.

Connie Mack recently traded Bing Miller to the St. Louis Browns for Bill Jacobson and then swapped Jacobson and two pitchers for Ehmke, Red Sox pitcher.

Yesterday Ehmke was knocked out of the box by his former team-mates in three innings.

Jacobson made a home run, a double, and two singles, and scored two runs for Boston.

Miller made a home run, two singles, stole a base and scored two runs for St. Louis.

No-hit, no-run games are rather common to this 17-year old Lansing (Mich) high school pitcher. During the last season he hurled three of them in six frays, and in another allowed but one safety and one tally. In one tilt he whiffed 21 batters and had a consecutive strikeout record of seven.

SECRETS OF STARS ON INSIDE BASEBALL

as told by BILLY EVANS

(By RAY SCHALK)

To my way of thinking, the most difficult play for a catcher to make, at least it is for me, is thwarting the double steal.

I have in mind a double steal with a runner on first and another on the third. In most cases the thought of this play is to score the runner from third, regardless of what happens to the man going down to second.

The inning, the score and various other conditions often enter into the proper execution of this play.

If with two out a run is needed to even the count and the man on third is a clever runner, while the batsman is rated just an ordinary hitter, often the runner from first is permitted to reach second unopposed. It is considered good baseball to gamble with the batter rather than attempt to get the runner at second.

This doesn't always hold true, but, as I have said before, the score and the status of the batter is always given serious consideration.

Certain runners do so with their heads down, as we say in baseball. On such runners a bluff throw to second usually causes them to break for the plate and the rest is easy.

Sometimes a slight hesitation will drive the runner back to third and remove temporarily that threat and will give the catcher a gambling chance to get the man at second.

In reality the method of handling the double steal with runners on first and third is largely molded on the reputation the man on third has as a base-runner and the ability of the batter.

So many things must be figured in this play that I regard it by far the hardest one for a catcher to properly pull.

Playing Mashie

The great point to remember in playing mashie is to hit down on the ball. Now that is not easy with a flat swing. The downward direction of the club-head on to and just behind the ball imparts spin, whereas with a flat, traveling club the club face can not possibly hit down. Rather must it hit along the turf, causing the ball to run after it pitches. In fact, it is just that flatish movement which is given to the club-head when run is wanted on the ball.

In the mashie shot the aim is to pitch the ball up without any run.

This will only be secured by imparting spin, and you can not do that when you stand too far from the ball.

Thus we might safely say that the mashie should be fairly upright in the lie, and whatever its lie, it ought never to be pressed down at the heel, leaving the toe off the ground.

And the mashie is done, not by the movement of the body, but mostly by the arms. The left knee may bend a trifle, but the feet should remain on the ground all the time and even at the finish.

DIAMOND DISPUTES DECIDED

By BILLY EVANS

If the team at bat discovers the player at bat is the wrong hitter before he is retired or reaches first, how can the mistake be properly corrected?

If the error is discovered before the batsman has been retired or reaches first base, it is a very easy matter to correct the error. Otherwise it is impossible.

When such a thing happens, the team at bat can correct the slip in the batting order by substituting the proper batsman.

The proper batsman shall take the count of balls and strikes that was on the improper batsman. There shall be no other penalty if the mistake is discovered before it is too late.

Seals Hunting Sun Wreck Small Boats

SANTA MONICA, Calif., June 22. (AP)—Seals looking for a place to sun themselves are playing havoc with small boats in Santa Monica.

Attracted to the bay in unusually large numbers by good fishing, the seals have failed to find rocks upon which to sun and have taken to the small craft anchored a short distance off shore.

Yesterday a 22-foot power launch sank after 15 of the animals, many of them weighing more than a human being, climbed aboard. Two other vessels were almost sunk before the seals were driven away.

WASHINGTON, June 22. (AP)—The Missouri-Kansas-Texas, New Orleans, Texas and Mexico and the Atchafalaya, Tapesha and Santa Fe Railroad jointly applied to the Interstate Commerce Commission today for authority to acquire control of the Texas City Terminal Railway.

Each would pay $725,750 and receive one-third of the total shares of the road, which extends 36 miles in Texas from Texas City to terminal junction.

I'll say P.A. makes a bang-up cigarette

IF YOU have never made a cigarette with Prince Albert, I'd like to register right here that you've been missing something mighty good. You can quote me on this: a cigarette made with good old P. A. has 'em all stopped in the home-rolled line. It's the tobacco!

Prince Albert needs no paper-weight or pot-lid to keep it from blowing away when you roll it. You know what I mean . . . stays put in the papers. But that isn't the big point. It's the wonderful taste of a P. A.-rolled cigarette that bangs your smoke-spot for high score.

Cool as a parachute-jumper. Sweet as a stolen kiss. Fragrant as a pine-grove on a damp morning. I'd like to bet that you'll be rolling one right after another when you try P. A. Which will be soon, if I have made myself clear! Try rolling 'em with P. A. on my say-so.

If you're a pipe-smoker, Prince Albert will give you more pleasure that way too. I smoke it both ways—a few home-rolled cigarettes and then a pipe-load. A couple more cigarettes and then a pipe-load. And so on. Either way, P. A. is wonderful tobacco. It sure is, Men.

P. A. is sold everywhere in tidy red tins and tippy red bags. And always with every bit of bite and punch removed by the Prince Albert process.

Editorials NEWSPAPER ADVERTISING

An enumeration of the reasons for advertising has recently been given out. There are eight reasons advanced, but there are many others, of course. However, here are eight that are very splendid and highly convincing, as given in a southern newspaper:

Newspaper advertising is the life blood of local trade because it touches all consumer sources in every community. It gives the national advertiser the same opportunity for complete consumer appeal in any locality.

Newspaper advertising insures quick, thorough and general distribution and dealer good will. Distributors and dealers are willing to sell products advertised direct to their own consumers.

Newspaper advertising enables manufacturers to tell where their products may be bought. Newspaper advertising can be started or stopped over night, can be prepared between days to meet certain developments and to obtain immediate results.

Newspaper advertising enables manufacturers to check advertising results and costs in every market which they enter.

Newspaper advertising costs less than any other kind. The merchant or other business man who is not taking advantage of the opportunities offered by newspaper advertising to boost his business now will find he is facing readjustment problems when his competitor is back on a normal business plane.

Red cherries ripening, midst leafy branches; peonies ruffled in their proud aristocratic sway; lilacs of the valley filling the air with fragrant incense—this is June. Roses—American beauties, Columbias, Aaron Wards, red ramblers, tea roses, dark red roses, deep pink roses, roses white and roses yellow, knees high, waving in the wind and beginning to ripen under the splendor of the sun's rays—this is June. Sweet warblers, of nesting birds first heard at daybreak, then at intervals throughout the day, and bubbling into vesper melody just before twilight—this too is June!

June is the month of commencement, of the sweet girl graduate, and the oratorical youth who takes for his valedictory theme "The World's Problem and How to Solve Them." This is the month when school, college and university take the center of the stage and hold it in undisputed sovereignty. What poetry there is in the commencement season—the girls in white, the bouquets of flowers, the music and the diplomas, and overhead in flaming letters the class motto "Beyond the Alps Lies Italy." Who has not sensed the rainbow that halo the commencement occasion, and likewise who has not responded to the minor chord of sadness as the graduates sing with gusto and possibly for the last time together their class songs. For, school, college and university days are such dear days of inspiration, of fun and frolic, of lasting friendships, and of dreaming dreams which may or may not come true.

Then June is the month of weddings, the bride's month in all verity. All the world loves a bride, whether she come from the ranks of the humble and the wedding be a marvel of simplicity, or she come from the home of the rich and the great, and the occasion be one of pomp and elaborate ceremonies—what matters it. All the world loves a bride. It will be a sorry day for society should the romance of marriage suffer loss or the wedding be treated as commonplace and a mere formality.

Weddings are solemn, not sad; they are impressive events, and flippancy at such a time is the acme of poor taste. June is the bride's month, her very own. Roses then for the bride's hair, roses in her hands, roses in her cheeks, roses for her path, roses for the bride!

IN NEW YORK SEE SAWING UP and DOWN BROADWAY

NEW YORK.—Such thrills as may lie in dropping a few thousand feet in a parachute or standing on the wing of a speeding airplane are all in a day's work with the men who paint the Woolworth building.

Perched on gargoyles 126 feet above the ground these steeple-jacks go about their work with far greater nonchalance than the man crossing a street.

George Cockley, who heads the crew of three now carrying on this precarious task, smiles at the idea of danger. His legs, firmly wrapped about a seemingly fragile bit of metal work he is swinging his paint brush in one hand and waving at me with the other, the first time I encountered him.

"No," he said, smiling, "I've never married. It's too hazardous."

For 25 years Cockley has steeple-jacked. He says he never feels quite so safe as when he is 120 feet or more above automobile traffic.

"The darn streets make me nervous," admitted the man to whom the sky's the limit.

Painting the Woolworth building is perhaps the world's most colossal job of its sort. Covering 55 floors of building with paint is no afternoon's task.

At this season, when thousands of tourists visit the building, the antics of the steeplejacks attract breathless throngs.

Although the Woolworth is America's best known structure, in all probability, there are a number of little known tales concerning it. It is built on the site of one Philip Hone's house. Hone is sometimes referred to as "The American Pepsy," having kept a famous diary of the period of Irving and Poe. His home was a rendezvous for the celebrated folk of the time and Washington Irving was a frequent guest, though Poe is said to have not been on his list.

The architect of the building came from Stockholm. He had hoped, as a boy, to follow the family tradition of going to sea. Migrating to America, after his family had discouraged the sea urge, he studied engineering and draughtsmanship.

Prosperity did not cause him to forget his "old country" friends. Quite the contrary. His first money was sent back to bring over the "girl of his choice, whom he married and lived happily ever after" with.

This Certainly Is Getting Serious

Stewart's WASHINGTON LETTER

WASHINGTON.—Senator James Couzens of Michigan has a passion for publicity in affairs of state.

A lot of his fellow senators with Couzens will keep his passion under better control. It embarrasses them greatly when he lets it over-master him, as it did when he got that income tax publicity law enacted at the last session of Congress.

True, they reported it this session, but it was most unpleasant while it lasted. It gave Jim a reputation among all "regulars" as a dangerous character.

Couzens is in a pretty fair state of suppression just now. The "regulars" on both sides, being banded together to hold insurgency in check, are strong enough, incidentally, to prevent the Michigan senator from running amuck again with that publicity bug of his.

But all the time, they know the lid is seething inside him to tear the lid off from everything governmental, and it worries 'em.

Couzens' theory is that cabinet members should be required to appear in Congress periodically, to have questions put to them, as members of the English ministry are questioned in Parliament.

"For instance," he told me last session, "the Tea Pot Dome transaction probably could have been nipped in the bud if the men involved in it had had to appear on the Senate floor and explain it in advance. Even if they'd refused to answer questions, the questions themselves would have started an investigation before, instead of after, the deal had been completed."

Of course, to individuals who profit by Teapot Dome dickers this sounds like very poor reasoning.

Couzens puzzles the Senate on probably the Senate puzzles him. Senators are mostly politicians and lawyers. They may be practical politicians but not many of them are practical business men. They reason hypothetically. When they talk, they argue.

Couzens is strictly business and of the intuitive type. When he has a remark to make it's about something definite. He makes it with pep, clarity and conciseness. He wastes no times on rhetoric or the elegant turning of his periods. He goes for the point like a bullet.

Naturally he and the Senate don't understand one another.

Couzens isn't at all backward about jumping into a fight. He's a man of strong likes and dislikes. He's far from patient. Riled, he manifests it with plenty of vigor and pungency. Parliamentary rules irritate him. He disregards 'em. Called to order, he effervesces like a shaken-up bottle of soda water.

If you've business to transact with Senator Couzens, make it snappy. He's there to transact it and he's very accessible, but he doesn't want a conversation to droll along an unnecessary minute.

Efficiency. Efficiency. Efficiency. That's Senator Couzens. He's a high-class senator and an interesting one.

Fliv within your income. An Englishman says he can destroy whole armies by means of a newly invented ray. If the world had a ray of intelligence, armies would not be necessary.

ADVENTURES OF THE TWINS by Olive Roberts Barton

Nancy blinked and Nick blinked and the Dream-Maker Man blinked and Snore blinked. Because it was all dark and their airplane had smashed to pieces when they fell. But neither of the Twins felt hurt a bit. Nothing seemed to hurt on the moon.

"We must be somewhere," said Nick.

"You're a wise little boy," said the Dream-Maker Man. "Yes, we must be somewhere."

Suddenly a small light appeared in the distance. It looked, at first, like a star and then it looked like a lantern.

"And that's what it was, it kept getting nearer and nearer, and they would see that it was a lantern and that somebody was carrying it."

"Did I hear something?" asked the voice of the person who was carrying the lantern.

"You certainly did," said Snore. "My airplane fell out on the moon. We were traveling from the east side of the moon to the west side of the moon to call on the Man-in-the-Moon, when

"An eclipse?" cried the Dream-Maker Man and Snore and the Twins. "You don't say so."

"Yes, I do say so," said the Man-in-the-Moon. "A total eclipse, and the moon got as dark as Ah Daba's cave. I forgot about it myself and I was shaving, when—poof! out she went like that. And me all lathered up!"

"Well, well," well," laughed the Dream-Maker Man. "I certainly was fooled that time. I forgot all about eclipses."

"Say," said the Man-in-the-Moon. "If you wait a few minutes the moon will turn into a boat. We can all go for a ride in it, if you like."

Helpful Health Hints By DR. HUGH S. CUMMING

Director General U. S. Public Health Service

CURING EVIL WATERS By DR. HUGH S. CUMMING Surgeon General, United States Public Health Service.

Coming to a consideration of the treatment of unsafe streams, one is struck by the obviousness, the expense and also the necessity of the remedies.

When a stream is polluted by sewage, either a disposal plant must be constructed or the sewage outlet established at a point to assure ineffective elimination of the waste or, if the dilution is sufficient, measures for purification of the water used may be substituted.

When pollution is caused by an industrial waste and it is desired to prevent contamination, two courses are open: either the discharge of the material must be discontinued entirely, or an efficient disposal plant utilized.

In the latter instance, the waste must be so modified in character as to render it less obnoxious and the water safe or easily capable of being made so.

Demands Community Action. It is particularly essential that the citizens have a conception of the factors involved in the prevention of stream pollution because their interests are intimately concerned.

Spending. With such an understanding intelligent public officials can be chosen and funds wisely expended in combating the menace.

Moreover, when municipalities and industrial enterprises polluting water sources acknowledge their responsibility to the general public, polluted streams will become less frequent.

Subsequently, deleterious conditions directly traceable to stream pollution will be corrected and the public health correspondingly safeguarded.

BUSINESS AT THE BAT The summer season is here and it behooves every business man to bridge the languid gap of July and August with increased energy.

Summer can be made profitable and stimulating in many lines by the taking on of a summer attitude. That attitude is alertness and wide-awakeness to all that is going on and to all opportunities that are passing by.

When business goes to the bot in summer it generally makes a home run by fall. — Altus Plain Dealer.

GRAIN RAISERS DILEMMA With a big wheat crop ready for the harvest the wheat raiser is in somewhat of a dilemma. As the crops ripen they are ready for the binder several days before they are ready for the combined machines and a few days before they are ready for the header.

The grain raiser, if he waits for the combined harvesting method, takes the chances of the elements during the hot days of mid-summer, when a thunderstorm may develop into a hailstorm. On the other hand, it will make his handling costs nearly twice as high if he goes ahead and bins or loads, thus reducing his profits heavily.

Most of the raisers are going to take the chances and go the combined harvester route. But some of them are not, according to conditions, including the size of the crop and whether the raiser has his own harvesting machinery. — Floyd County Hesperian.

RAILROAD NEWS News that the Interstate Commerce Commission has set July 19, as a date for hearing of oral arguments in the Plains rail cases is encouraging. It indicates that the commission will take the matter up before it takes its summer recess. We may feel confident now that the case will not be unduly prolonged. There is no certainty that the case will be brought to an early conclusion, but the setting of oral arguments sets at rest the fear many entertained that the hearing would not be opened until after the summer recess of the commission.

NEIGHBORS' WIVES

By ERNEST LYNN Copyright NEA

BEGIN HERE TODAY

JOHN and FAY MILBURN buy a home of their own shortly after their baby girl is born and the advertising agency in which John is partner and copy writer lands a new contract.

John, in love with his wife Fay, but a romantic individual, is fascinated on meeting NELL ORME, of whom PAT FORBES, a friend of John's, hints that she is having trouble with her husband.

NEL and VERA BOYD, a young married couple, give a party and Vera shows an interest in John that he does not return, but which arouses Fay's jealousy. Neil Boyd later boasts of an arrangement with Vera whereby each leaves the other to do as he pleases.

Fay takes the baby to Houston to visit her parents, and during her absence John runs around a greta deal with Pat Forbes, whose wild tendencies have aroused the suspicions of his wife.

Word begins to go around the town is being indiscreet, and NATHANIEL GRAHAM, his business partner, takes him to task. John resents this, and a gradually growing breach between him and Graham is widened.

ELEANOR MASON, who has literary talent and is known to the Milburns' friends, invites John to a party and later starts a violent flirtation with him. He kisses her and, when he leaves her, decides not to see her again.

PAUL DAVIDSON, a lawyer, who is a bachelor, an amateur actor and something of a rouse, appeals to John to break up an affair between himself and a girl named RITA JOHNS. He tells John that Rita wants to marry him and asks John to break the affair up. John reluctantly agrees and is successful in getting her to give Davidson up. But he is to learn something of the vindictiveness of thwarted women. Paul calls him up to tell him that he has "overdone" it, and intimates that he thinks John has said uncalled-for things about him.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

CHAPTER XXXII

"JUST what do you mean?" John said coolly, his hostility aroused by the others' tone.

"Well, just this," Davidson answered. "You—oh, well, he finished awkwardly, "we'd better talk it over at lunch. I don't want anybody listening in. Will you meet me?"

"Yes, I'll meet you," John said with some abruptness, and hung up the receiver.

John felt that he knew something of what Paul was going to tell him, but the latter evidently found it difficult to begin for he floundered around for an opening until John said sharply, "All right, Paul, put your cards on the table. What's eating you?"

"Look here now, John," Paul said, his face coloring, "what's this you were telling Rita Johns about?"

"I told you what I said to her. Why?"

"But you didn't tell me all. I told you it would be all right to paint me as a rouster if you wanted to—anything to break it up—but I thought you had decency enough not to—"

"Now, wait a minute, Paul," John cut in, "leave that part out about the decency. You told me to tell her anything I wanted. As a matter of fact, I told her hardly anything—you know what I told her."

"But this thing about me being a liar and a double-crosser—I didn't think you'd—"

"Hold on. I didn't say anything like that. Paul, you damn fool, what did Rita tell you I said?"

"Well, Paul began, his face redder than ever, "it was pretty raw—but if you didn't say it—"

"At least," interrupted John, "tell me what it was and give me an opportunity to deny it."

"Well, then, that I was a hopeless rotter—the kind that would go back on his best friend to get out of a scrape."

"And you believed her?" John said jolly. "Well, Paul, I don't know. I made a mistake to take this thing on in the first place. He made as if to rise from his chair."

"Hold on, now," Davidson cried, pulling him back. "Hold on. Don't go away hot-headed. I believe you. I see now that she was lying."

He laughed ruefully. "I guess I'm just a blamed idiot. John, to think it of you in the first place, but she got hold of me and pumped me full of rot—and it made me mad."

"It's a good thing I've got a sense of humor, Paul," John told him, sitting down once more. "We both should have known that Rita wouldn't be satisfied to let the thing drop without getting in some digs of her own. She's too clever. I tell you, Paul, it hurt her, even though she wasn't heartbroken. You know the old quotation, Paul—'Hell hath no fury like a woman scorned.'"

"Fury is no name for it," Paul smiled. "Forgive me, old boy. I guess the thing made me see red. If I had a little more sense I'd have known she was lying. Hereafter, though—and he threw up his hands, leaving the sentence unfinished."

"Hereafter," John finished for him, "clear of all entangling alliances, and you won't need any ambassadors of war."

They shook hands on it. Paul profusely apologetic and insisting on calling himself "a stupid ass."

John went back to the office to find a special delivery letter from Fay announcing her homecoming, and he was once more at peace with the world.

A week passed, a week that moved by on dragging feet, and then a Monday morning found John down at the railroad station, meeting Fay's early train.

He spotted her a long way off as she alighted from the Pullman, holding a much bigger and very much changed Judith in her arms.

"Oh, it's good to get back," she cried as she kissed him joyously. He said, "I've missed you an awful lot, dear," and then turned to Judith who regarded him, a little shyly.

"Why, what's the matter?" he cried. "Don't you know your own father? Come on, Judy, give daddy a kiss."

"That's daddy, Judith," said Fay. "What do you say to him?"

"Ho daddy," said Judith. A sudden smile lit up her round little face and then she turned quickly and buried her face on Fay's shoulder.

"You see," Fay laughed, "you'll have to get acquainted with her all over again. She'll be all right, though. In a few hours, I don't believe she slept very well on the train."

"Well," said John as he was driving them home, "did you miss me?"

For answer, Fay bent toward him and kissed his cheek. "You know I did, dear. The last few weeks dragged miserably. I was terribly homesick for you."

They chatted the rest of the way home, about their families; and Fay wanted to know what condition the house was in.

"First-rate," John answered. "I had a woman in Friday and Saturday cleaning up. It's as clean as a pin. You see, dear, I'm a model husband. No need to worry about it."

"I'll know better," said Fay, "when I see the house, me."

What kind of time did you have while I was away?"

"Perfectly rotten, for the most part—I missed you so. I worked hard, and Pat Forbes and I got together and shored our misery for a while—but gosh! I'm glad to see you back again."

"I must order the marketing as soon as I get home," Fay said, relapsing into the familiar domestic routine. "Did you leave the order for the milk?"

"Yes, it was there on the doorstep when I got up. I put it in the ice box." He applied the brakes and the little car came to a jolting stop. "All out!" he cried, "you're home again, Fay."

"Come here to me," he ordered when the front door had closed behind them, and he held out his arms. She walked into his embrace, and he held her that way for a long time.

"Still love me?" he asked.

"You know I do," she answered, holding him tightly.

"Well, then, I guess I can go back to the office."

When John had gone, Fay began to busy herself with the details of ordering groceries and meats and of picking up the other threads of housekeeping where she had left off. It was work, this business of running a household, but work that the quiet, home-loving Fay enjoyed. She fed Judith and put her to bed, and when that young self. But dear, you talk as if I were a little boy. Here we are married, and I love you with all my heart—I swear it. I'm not particularly interested in other women—really Fay, it's just that I don't believe it's necessary to put on monastic robes to warn off other women that I'm married. See what I mean?"

"No I don't," she said, tossing her head. And she didn't, either, didn't see his viewpoint at all.

"I sometimes wish," he said, "that you were inclined to be flirtatious, I'll bet I'd be a little more tolerant than you are."

Fay smiled reminiscently as she recalled that conversation. It had been one of their bitterest quarrels, and for days she had shown him that she was still angry with him.

But now that she was back with him once more she thought only of one thing—of how much she loved him, and the memories of little misdeeds on John's part seemed only to make him a little dearer to her. Strange—but true.

It was only fair to Fay, John was thinking as he drove home from the office, to tell Fay about some of the things that had happened during her absence. Besides—and here he was troubled a little that something else besides honesty might be prompting his frankness—someone else might tell her first, and then she would be likely to misunderstand.

PRIMARIES FOR 2 STATES HOLD WIDE INTEREST

MAINE AND MINNESOTA GO TO POLLS TODAY TO CAST BALLOTS

PORTLAND, Maine, June 22. (AP)—A sharp contest for the Republican nomination for governor, and a proposed constitutional amendment barring State aid for private institutions, were the principal issues before Main voters in yesterday's primary.

Governor Ralph O. Brewster, who was elected two years ago on a platform favoring constitutional prohibition of public money from sectarian schools and was supported by the Ku Klux Klan, was opposed at the polls by Major Arthur L. Thayer of Bangor.

The Democratic slate, headed by Ernest L. McLean, mayor of Augusta, candidate for governor was unopposed for nomination.

National Issues Only Hinted ST. PAUL, Minn., June 22. (AP)—Only a hint of such national issues as prohibition and farm relief stirred the surface of campaigning incident to yesterday's state-wide primary in Minnesota to nominate candidates for State and Congressional offices.

The prohibition ruffie appeared in the fourth Congressional district, which includes St. Paul, where Representative Oscar E. Keller, Republican, favoring the prohibition law seeks renomination.

One of his opponents, Melvin J. Maas, urges modification of the Volstead law to permit light wines and beer. He also came out for placing agriculture on an equal basis with industry.

MINNESOTA BOY WINS PRIMARY ON MODIFICATION

VOTE EQUALS TOTAL OF TWO OPPONENTS ON DRY PLATFORM

(By the Associated Press) ST. PAUL, Minn., June 22.—Minnesota Republicans have nominated as their first prohibition modification advocate to Congress a 28-year-old, the youngest ever chosen by the State for that office. They also re-nominated Governor Theodore Christiansen.

Melvin J. Maas, the victor in yesterday's primary, polled as many votes as two opponents together to win the nomination in the Fourth District, which includes St. Paul.

Governor Christiansen, running again on an "economy" platform on which he was elected two years ago, defeated Mayor George E. Leach, of Minneapolis, for the gubernatorial nomination.

Johnson and Davis Close In the other major state race for the Farmer-Labor gubernatorial nomination, Marcus Johnson, former United States Senator, and Tom Davis, Minneapolis attorney, were running a close race, with Johnson several hundred votes in the lead, and about one-sixth of the State heard from.

The Democrats had an unopposed slate and therefore did not appear on the ballot in the primary. Maas, who favored modification to permit light wines and beer, but no saloons, ousted Representative Oscar Keller, elected to Congress four times from the Fourth District.

Keller, who ran a poor third, and Fred A. Snyder, the other candidate, came out in support of the present prohibition law. Maas polled 15,900 votes to slightly more than 8,900 for Snyder and 5,700 for Keller.

Other Returns Meagre Returns from other Congressional Districts which had party contests were still too meagre to indicate the outcome.

Six of the incumbents, however, had no party opposition. Thomas V. Sullivan, of St. Paul, was nominated as the Farmer-Labor candidate for Congress from the Fourth District, and with a Democratic candidate yet to be selected, will oppose Maas in November.

Sullivan defeated William M. Meyers by an overwhelming majority.

TODAY'S MARKETS

Grain Markets

KANSAS CITY REPORT

KANSAS CITY, June 22. (AP)—Wheat—number 2 hard $1.58@1.60, number 2 red $1.45@1.46. Corn—number 2 white 71c, number 2 yellow 71 1/2c@72.

CHICAGO TRADING

CHICAGO, June 22. (AP)—Continued favorable weather over the Southwest and business in the Liverpool market tended to give wheat values here a downward swing during the early trading. Starting 1/4 to 1/2c lower, the market declined still further on scattered commission house selling and then reacted somewhat.

CHICAGO REPORT

CHICAGO, June 22. (AP)—Cash wheat number 2 red 1.46, number 2 hard 1.52@1.52 1/2. Corn number 2 mixed (69 1/2 @ 70; number 2 yellow 70@70 1/2.

Stocks And Money

WALL STREET TRADING

NEW YORK, June 22. (AP)—Strength of the oil and railroad shares featured the irregularly higher movement of prices at the opening of today's stock market. Union Oil of California and Wheeling and Lake Erie common each opened about a point higher and most of other issues in those groups improved practically on initial sales.

Oil changed hands in large volume at advancing prices with buying undoubtedly stimulated by the optimistic statements of President Teagle, of the Standard Oil Company of New Jersey, and President Shoup, of the Tidewater-Associated, on trade conditions. Over a score new high records for the year were established in the first half hour of trading. Among the rails, which were in demand on expectation of favorable May earnings statements.

Cotton Markets

NEW ORLEANS TRADING

NEW ORLEANS, June 22. (AP)—The cotton market opened quiet with an easy tone in sympathy with lower cables than due. First trades showed a basket of 3 to 4 points but prices soon improved on trade buying and covering by recent sellers. July trading improved on trade buying and covering, 17.24c, October to 16.15c and December to 16.15c.

ber to 16.15c, or 7 to 11 points up from one opening figure and 5 to 8 points above yesterday's close. The buying soon became quiet and prices eased off 3 to 6 points from the highs. The market ruled erratic during the morning owing to the favorable weather and to claims that the drought in the Eastern sections had been fully relieved. Prices eased off to 17.16c for July, 16.06c for October and 16.94c for December, or 8 to 12 points down from the early highs. Later the market rallied mainly on strength of the July position in the Northern market. July advancing to 17.35c, October to 18.10c and December to 16.12c. At mid-session the market was steady and near the highs.

The market advanced after mid-session due to reports of better demand for spots particularly low grades, and to active buying of July and October. The rally was also attributed to growing fears that continued showery weather may cause weevils to increase, July trading up to 17.35c, October to 18.25c and December to 16.30c. Towards the beginning of the last hour prices eased off on realizing.

COTTON SEED OIL

NEW YORK, June 22. (AP)—Cotton seed oil closed firm, prime summer yellow 14.99 bid, 16.00 asked, prime crude nominal, January 16.85, June 14.80, July 14.70, August 14.60, September 13.87, October 12.68, November 11.27, December 10.90. Sales 12,100.

NEW YORK TRADING

NEW YORK, June 22. (AP)—The cotton market showed considerable firmness in today's early trading. The opening was irregular at an advance of 3 points to a decline of 3 points, but the tone was steady. Active months soon showed net advances of 10 to 17 points on covering which appeared to be stimulated by apprehensions of too much wet weather in the Southwest and the approach of the first July notice day.

July led the advance, selling up to 17.97c, or 17 points net higher, while December sold at 16.56c, a net advance of 12 points.

The market was within a few points of the best at the end of the first hour. Reports that cotton jockers were damaging the crop in North Louisiana, Texas, Mississippi, Georgia, and Arkansas, contributed to the early advance. The weather map, however, showed less rain than expected in the Southwest, and prices were a shade easier late in the morning. At mid-day January was selling around 17.90c and December 17.44c, the near months showing a net advance of 12 points while December and later deliveries were unchanged to 9 points net lower. Continued covering or buying of near months against sales of later deliveries featured early afternoon trading. July sold up to 18.95c and October to 16.76c, net gains of 25 to 29 points and later months were relatively easy, but the market held about net unchanged to 25 points higher at 2 o'clock.

COST LIGHT "IF YOU WIN" BUT EVERYBODY CAN'T WIN IN RACE

It costs a lot of money to "run" for office whether you win or not. If you happen to hit the chalk line first you will not regret the expense, but if you bring up the rear you will sit in several months trying to figure out just how many liars there are in the county. Most of them promised a vote for you—but they didn't.

At a meeting of the Democratic executive committee of Lubbock county, held in the offices of R. J. Murray, yesterday, assessments for candidates were set as follows:

Dawson Co. Candidate For Legislature Here

Emmett L. Whitaker, of Lamb Dawson county, preacher-printer, candidate for representative from the 119th district, spent several hours in Lubbock Tuesday meeting voters.

While an active minister (Baptist) he says he has given considerable time to politics—that he has been preparing for several years to offer himself for the place he now seeks. Mr. Whitaker says he is a printer by trade and a preacher by calling, and wants to represent this district in the legislature to be of more service to his fellow citizens.

First Lubbock Doctor To Return for Visit

Dr. W. V. Marsburn, the first man to practice medicine in Lubbock county, is to arrive in Lubbock tomorrow for a short visit with former friends, according to word received here. He has been living in California for many years and is coming through here with his daughter enroute to the East where they will visit Dr. Marsburn and Dr. William Hunt, of Estacado, were for many years the only two doctors on all of the Staked Plains.

Pioneer citizens in this section, who knew Dr. Marsburn, are planning to meet Thursday evening to visit with him.

Cattle Removed From McNary Relief Bill

WASHINGTON, June 22. (AP)—Cattle was removed from the provision of the McNary farm bill today when the Senate adopted an amendment suggested by Senator Kendrick, Democrat, Wyoming.

Cattle was one of the basic commodities on which it was proposed to levy an equalization fee which would be used to handle the surplus problem. Senator Kendrick opposed the inclusion of cattle on the ground that it was too perishable.

LUBBOCK URGED TO MEET FT. WORTH DELEGATION

Citizens of this city are urged to meet the Fort Worth delegation upon their arrival here Thursday morning. The special train is scheduled to arrive in Lubbock at 8:50 a. m. and the visitors will remain in the city for one hour. This may seem a short visit, yet Lubbock must realize she was not slighted as this is to be the longest stop made by the troopers on their return trip.

The train went to Amarillo over the F. W. & P. C. lines and a number of stops were made. On the return trip they will go over the Santa Fe to Sweetwater and conclude their journey over the T. & P.

The delegation will be headed by "musical cops"—the Fort Worth Police band. From the station they will march in a body to the downtown section where they will render a musical concert. Speaking will follow later, although the speaker who is to deliver the welcoming address has not been chosen.

The Lubbock delegation will have returned before their arrival, and it is the hope of all that a large number of local citizens will be at the station to greet the Fort Worth visitors when they arrive.

State Dismisses Its Charge Against Cowen

BEAUMONT, June 22. (AP)—The state of Texas dismissed its charge of murder against Bee Cowen, Federal prohibition agent, yesterday afternoon in connection with the killing on February 4 of J. B. Walling, when Federal Judge W. Lee Estes ruled that habeas corpus hearing brought by Cowen would proceed this morning and asked that the State's witness appear at 10 o'clock at Federal expense.

County Attorney H. M. Kinard, of Orange County announced in court that the reason for the withdrawal of the charge was that the State's witnesses were not ready and said that it was the intention to re-indict Cowen. The State had previously asked that the case be remanded to Orange county for trial in the State courts.

Walling was shot to death on February 4 when Cowen and other officers raided a still operated by two negroes in Orange county.

Value of Advertising Borne Out, Wiley Says

PHILADELPHIA, June 22. (AP)—The enormous volume of trade in the United States today is proof of the stimulating force of advertising, said Louis Wiley, business manager of the New York Times, in an address today before the public utilities advertising committee.

"It has raised the standard of living and added enormously to our wealth," he asserted.

COUNTY MEETING HALTED BY NEAR RIOT LAST NIGHT

were participated in by about thirty of the delegates, twenty of whom were said to have sustained more or less painful injuries.

Revolver Drawn A revolver was drawn immediately after Congressman Wurzbach rose from his seat, but was knocked from the hand of the holder and disappeared through a window.

It was believed by way long enough for the men to look down the wrong end of the Congressional shield.

Dr. A. A. Albritton, Dextr County campaign manager for Wurzbach, was struck in the head which broke his spectacles, and Mrs. E. P. Butler, a Wurzbach advocate, was injured in the left foot and ankle when she attempted to prevent a man from hurling a brick at Wurzbach's opponent in the primary, from a window twenty feet above the ground. Coon was half way through the window when the incident was saved him.

When quiet was restored by a riot squad of policemen, Holzschuler and several delegates left the room, whereupon the Wurzbach forces unmasked 27 noncommittees, named at a meeting May 28, and filled the vacancies with a new list.

HIGHWAY LEADERS RAP FERGUSON BOND POLICY

to delivered at Waco tonight. Davidson Rags Meedy DALLAS, June 22. (AP)—Lynch Davidson opened an attack on Dan Meedy's labor record in an address before a large crowd at Oak Cliff here Monday night. Threatening rain, after showers in the late afternoon, interfered somewhat with the meeting.

Davidson quoted a letter to J. C. Emich, of Waco, secretary-treasurer of the Texas Council of Sheet Metal Workers from E. H. Banks, also of Waco, former president of the Texas Council of Sheet Metal Workers, purporting to show that Meedy had been a member of an organization opposed to the parent organization of the International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers.

Davidson's schedule of addresses for Tuesday include: Wills Point, morning; Mineola, afternoon, and Tyler evening.

Witcher and Bradley Have Heated Debate

District Attorney Walter C. Witcher and his opponent, Durwood H. Bradley, engaged in one of the hottest political debates known during the campaign when they met in Levelland last night. The debate had been advertised for several days, and a crowd estimated at more than 1,000 were present. Current reports are Mr. Witcher will meet his other opponent, Owen McWhorter, some time in the near future.
