Prison decision meeting changed

A special meeting of the board of the Texas Department of Corrections planned for Thursday has been postponed until Monday in Austin.

The Thursday meeting had been set to announce location of five prison projects for the state as well as to consider proposals for four privately-operated prison facilities.

Snyder is competing with some 34 towns for location of either one 2,250-bed or one or more of four 1,000-bed units in Scurry County.

TDC officials said last week that a decision on the proposals might be postponed until the board's regular meeting next month, scheduled Nov. 9.

TDC officials said one reason for the possible delay is that TDC staffers are still pouring over pages of data submitted by the various communities.

Last Wednesday, Snyder was visited by a three-man TDC team to look at sites and to confirm information in the three Snyder proposals. The team visiting Snyder also were in Anson, Sweetwater and Big Spring.

TEAMS test order stings SHS

By DONNY BROWN
SDN Managing Editor

A Texas Education Agency ranking of Texas school campuses--a statistical listing which takes into account the reported number of low income and minority students by campus, a factor which apparently worked against the district--lists Snyder High School in the state's lower 25 percent regarding student performance on last year's statewide TEAMS testing of academic ability.

The ranking was reported Tuesday by school officials at a meeting which also saw officials announce plans for an in-district project to better coordinate departmental study plans between the junior high and high school in hopes of improving student academic skills.

One did not cause the other, however, since the outside study which prompted the move toward coordination of the two secondary school levels was set in motion this past summer.

School officials received word of the TEA report in late September, they noted.

The ranking of Snyder High School in the lower 25 percent prompted school board members Tuesday to urge administrators to remedy the situation.

Exactly how SHS was placed in that ranking, however, was a combination of slightly below average actual test scores and the added statistical formula which took into account such factors as low income and minority students reported by campus.

The state added these factors after districts with predominantly minority students complained last year that they were unfairly singled out as not performing at satisfactory levels by TEA, explained Dr. Tom Scannicchio, assistant superintendent of curriculum.

In addition to the actual test scores, TEA "projected" how school districts should score based on four factors, Scannicchio told the board Tuesday.

These four factors included the number of students per campus, their ethnic makeup and how many of these are either low income students--based on the number applying for the free lunch program--or classified as "limited" in their use of the English language.

This weighted factor, Scannicchio noted, moved Snyder High School's ranking from the 43 percent level in actual test scores to the 22 percent level.

He speculated Wednesday the high school's relatively small number of reported low income students likely affected the ranking. As reported to TEA, this was

Vote split 5-2...

Request granted to add teachers for career ladder

The addition of possibly 17 more teachers to Snyder's career ladder list was approved Tuesday by a 5-2 split vote of the school board--an expense to the district estimated at some $25,500.

The action was prompted by requests from local teacher organizations and supported by a roomful of teachers which filled the board meeting room Tuesday.

Those to be added--and it was unclear Tuesday if it would be 15 or 17 teachers--qualified for career ladder status during evaluations conducted for the 1984-85 school year, but had to be excluded after a quota system per district campus was filled.

For the most recent selection process, the state mandated the district spend $175,000. Using the guideline of a minimum $1,500 career ladder bonus per teacher, the district was able to name 117 of approximately 240 teachers in the system.

This quota was distributed among its eight campuses and, as a result, some teachers qualifying were still not granted career ladder status.

The "precedent" of allocating more career ladder monies than mandated by the state apparently promoted the two votes against the measure Tuesday.

In support of the measure, trustee Luann Burleson commented, "If they qualify, I think they deserve the recognition." Billy Bob McMullan made the motion to grant the request and trustees voting for it included Burleson, Charlene Light, Ignacio Benitez and Ken Branam.

Voting against were Ben Wilcox and board president Mike Jordan, who was not required to vote but opted to do so.

Jordan had commented earlier that the district has been told by the state to spend some $240,000 next year for career ladder teachers, an increase of $65,000 over last year's mandate.

"It looks to me like the 17 we're talking about will get on, plus quite a few more," he said. He noted also the precedent of adding all teachers whose evaluation scores qualify them for career ladder, noting that this extra money "will have to come from local funds."

Branam commented regarding this precedent also, noting the board faced the philosophical decision of "making up our mind to provide funds for all who qualify," a comment which drew applause from the audience.

Teachers named to the career ladder list last May have the added benefit of a reduced number of classroom appraisals this school year.

Dalton Moseley, who will assume the superintendent's post here Monday, said he is unclear if this privilege can be extended to the newly added names since the law states it is extended to those granted Level II status prior to a specific date in August.

The formal request on behalf of the teachers was offered Tuesday by Francene Allen, president

Amendment absentee vote begins today

Absentee voting begins Wednesday for the Texas Constitutional Amendment election scheduled Nov. 3.

These votes may be cast at the county clerk's office on the third floor of the Scurry County Courthouse.

Voters will decide among 25 amendment proposals and two "special issues," legalizing parimutuel wagering on a county local option basis; and the issue of retaining the state school board as an appointed rather than elected body.

Telephone harassment charged

A 24-year-old Snyder man who had been recently released from the Texas Department of Corrections was arrested Tuesday on five counts of telephone harassment.

The Class B misdemeanor charges were filed Tuesday afternoon after the man had called police to his home in the 300 Block of 25th St. to report an individual "yelling and running around his house with a gun."

Police said later that there was apparently no substance to the report.

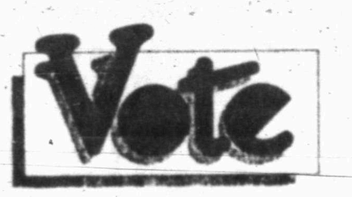

They said the man was already under investigation for five telephone calls in late September and early October in which three local men and two women had received threatening calls.

Reporting that the man is believed to have made a total of "at least" 150 to 175 calls here, a detective said he "was calling anybody who had a female name in the phone directory and making statements to the effect of, 'I have a high-powered .38 pistol in my hand, and if you hang up, I will blow your head off.'"

Police said the suspect had been paroled from TDC in mid-September after serving a burglary sentence since 1985. A county deputy said he also has felony convictions for forgery and automobile theft.

The deputy said a parole revocation action has been initiated.

Proposal would limit governor's appointees

Proposition 22 would authorize the legislature to set limits on the terms of office of lame-duck gubernatorial appointees.

A vote voting on the 25 proposed constitutional amendments on the Nov. 3 ballot begins Wednesday.

Proposition 22 would place additional limits on restrictions enacted in 1983 on lame-duck appointments.

Existing law prohibits a governor from filling state and district office vacancies after Nov. 1 of his last year in office if the vacancies occur before that date, with the exception that a vacancy caused by the death of an office-holder between Oct. 1 and Nov. 1 may be filled if the term would not otherwise have expired during that period.

Proposition 22 would allow the legislature to limit the terms of late appointees to periods ending before the terms would otherwise have expired or before the next election in which a vacancy is to be filled.

The feller on Deep Creek says, "The main problem of being in the middle of the road is being side-swiped by partisans going in opposite directions."

Neil Cooper, 4-year-old son of Dr. and Mrs. Bid Cooper, is just the right age to be super inquisitive.

Doc says the youngster has many more questions than either he or his mother, Tynette, have the answer to.

Neil recently welcomed home a new brother. A long-time friend and former SHS classmate of Dr. Cooper, Bill Wilson, dropped by the Cooper home recently.

Neil wanted to know about the automobile business. "Where do you get your cars?" the youngster asked of Bill Wilson. Bill patiently explained that they come from Mr. Ford.

"You mean he drives 'em all here himself?"

Dr. Cooper told Wilson he had gotten one of Neil's easy questions. Doc Cooper and wife had attempted to explain where the new baby had come from. Not even a explanation from a medical expert would suffice.

Said the kid, "You're going to have to come up with a better story than that."

Just because kids get older doesn't mean that all parental problems will disappear.

Take for instance the college freshman who telephoned home following his first day on a large university campus.

What was your first class?" asked his father.

"I didn't go."

"Why not and what class did you miss?"

"I couldn't find the building and it was freshman orientation."

The dad had to ask. "What are you supposed to learn in orientation?"

"How to find the buildings."

Five injured

BARCELONA, Spain (AP) — A bomb exploded today in the building housing the U.S. Consulate, causing heavy damage, officials said. Five people were slightly injured.

U.S. Embassy spokesman Bob Meade in Madrid said all of the injured were Spanish nationals. Two were consulate employees.

Meade said the blast knocked out the telephone switchboard at the consulate, located on the fourth floor of a building in downtown Barcelona.

MOSCOW (AP) — Vladimir Slepak, a Jew who first sought to leave the Soviet Union more than 17 years ago, said today he will be permitted to emigrate.

Slepak told The Associated Press he was invited to the Soviet visa office today and informed that his application would be approved. He said no reason was given.

One acquitted

NEW YORK (AP) — John Zaccaro, husband of 1984 Democratic vice presidential candidate Geraldine Ferraro, was acquitted today of shaking down a cable television company for the Queens cable franchise.

He showed no visible emotion as the verdict was read by jury foreman Lester Anthony.

In summing up the case Tuesday, Zaccaro's lawyer had ridiculed the federal case as one on which "they wouldn't try your dog."

Company convicted of fraud

FORT WORTH, Texas (AP) — A federal jury has convicted a Grand Prairie city councilman and his Arlington company on 38 counts of defrauding the General Services Administration and Defense Department of nearly $5 million.

Councilman James Kellum, Delta Manufacturing and Sales and Alvin Johnson, the company's contracts administrator, had been on trial in federal court since Sept. 14 on charges of conspiracy, falsifying documents, overstating price contracts and overbilling the government from 1978 through 1986.

The jury, which had been deliberating since Friday, Tuesday acquitted Johnson, 42, of six counts of fraud and conspiracy.

Kellum, 51, faces up to 190 years in prison and a $1 million fine. His company could be fined as much as $2 million, officials said.

U.S. Attorney Marvin Collins said in a prepared statement that he hoped the convictions would "send a strong message to contractors who do business with the government and who are paid by the taxpayers that fraud will not be tolerated."

Collins said the conspiracy involved a scheme to defraud the GSA by altering acoustic tests for office partitions made by Delta Manufacturing and to make it appear as though the partitions met government contract specifications.

Verity wins Senate confirmation

WASHINGTON (AP) — C. William Verity Jr., fresh from winning Senate confirmation as secretary of Commerce, now moves into the front lines of debate over the nation's trade troubles.

"Mr. Verity is a distinguished businessman and he is a leader," Sen. Strom Thurmond, R-S.C., said before the Senate voted 84-11 for confirmation.

The 70-year-old Ohioan and retired chairman of Armco Inc., the nation's No. 5 steelmaker, moves into a post left vacant by the death last July of Secretary Malcolm Baldrige in a rodeo accident.

Baldrige was a favorite of industrialists who saw him as more sympathetic than others in the administration to the problems presented by burgeoning imports. As a former steel executive, Verity has firsthand knowledge of the issue.

Senate approval followed a debate that found conservatives divided over Verity's longstanding push for expanded trade relations with the Soviet Union.

Critics complained that he was lukewarm at best toward using trade sanctions to prod the Soviets toward allowing greater Jewish emigration and other human rights measures. They also said he was not a supporter of export controls designed to keep militarily useful hardware out of communist hands.

Abandoned Puppy Grows Up To Save Life of His Rescuer

DEAR ABBY: Re the flap about the "compassionate" farmer who promptly shot the mother beagle and her pup to put them out of their misery when they appeared at his door, hungry and half-dead from thirst and hunger:

Many years ago, my aunt trudged through the wind and snow one morning to her rural mailbox. Upon opening it, she found a little black and white mongrel pup — sick and nearly frozen stiff. She took the little guy into her home, named him Tony, and nursed him back to health. Everyone thought she was crazy.

Twenty years later, on another cold, snowy winter night, old Tony, arthritic and hard of hearing, roused my aunt from a second-story bedroom and guided her to safety while her house burned down around them.

When the firemen finally arrived, all that remained was the fireplace with its two-story chimney, Tony and my aunt!

How's that for gratitude?

DEAR MARION: Beautiful! And it will please you and other readers to learn that the according to my most recent reader mail, the numbers have shifted dramatically in favor of attempting to nurse the dogs back to health as opposed to putting them out of their misery with a shotgun.

DEAR ABBY: "Sorry, Sorry, Sorry," who described tattoo removal as painful and expensive, should have obtained a second opinion before embarking on the removal of her 6-inch dragon tattoo. As a dermatologic surgeon who specializes in tattoo removal and other skin surgery techniques, may I point out that although her information on methods of tattoo removal was not incorrect, it was incomplete.

Skin grafting is a drastic procedure and should not be undertaken without careful consideration. There are less aggressive options in removing a tattoo, such as dermabrasion, caustic chemical removal or simple excision — one of the most common procedures used by dermatologic surgeons. These three procedures are less costly and not nearly as painful as laser surgery.

Any dermatologic surgeon can offer an opinion on the most appropriate procedure for removal of a tattoo. For a list of dermatologic surgeons in their area, readers can contact the American Society for Dermatologic Surgery, 1567 Maple Ave., Evanston, Ill. 60201.

Three charged after aliens found in truck

CORPUS CHRISTI, Texas (AP) — An Edna police officer says he found 16 Salvadorans lying "like cords of wood" in the bed of a pickup truck he stopped in the South Texas town.

Three Mexican nationals were charged Tuesday with transporting undocumented aliens in connection with the incident.

They were identified as Miguel Martinez-Garcia, 23, a resident alien living in Brownsville, and Adrian Prado-Rodriguez, 20, and Javier Aguilar-Lozano, 25, both of Matamoros, Mexico.

U.S. Magistrate Eduardo de Ases ordered them held without bond pending a hearing Friday.

Immigration and Naturalization Service investigator Carl Fisher said the INS took custody of the Salvadorans, 11 men, four women and a 6-year-old child.

Several of the aliens made statements indicating they crossed the U.S. border near Brownsville and were enroute to Houston before being apprehended last Friday on U.S. Highway 59 in Edna.

Fisher would not say how much the aliens said they paid the smugglers for their passage to Houston.

Prado and Aguilar smuggled the Salvadorans across the border, after which Garcia began driving them northward, according to the criminal complaint filed against them.

Their journey ended in Edna, a town of 6,500 in Jackson County, at about 12:30 a.m. Friday.

An officer stopped the truck after noticing defective equipment early Friday, according to Police Chief Norman Glaze. While inspecting the vehicle, the officer discovered the Salvadorans, covered by blankets, in the open bed of the truck.

"They were all just laying there, side by side, like cords of wood in there," Glaze said.

Initially, said Fisher, only Martinez was a suspect. He said later investigation indicated that Prado and Aguilar, who were passengers in the truck, also were involved in the smuggling operation.

Authorities said the aliens were in good physical condition.

A total of 18 Mexican aliens were found dead in a locked railroad boxcar July 2 in Sierra Blanca, about 90 miles east of El Paso. In another case a week later, 19 illegal aliens were found locked inside a railroad trailer near Hebbronville, about 60 miles east of Laredo. They were dehydrated and semi-conscious when discovered.

Budget board paves way for pre-release prisons

AUSTIN (AP) — Negotiating for private prisons should begin next week, now that the Legislative Budget Board has set prices for contractors, prison director Jim Lynaugh says.

The Legislative Budget Board on Tuesday said private contractors must be 10 percent below a cost of $41.67 per inmate per day in fiscal year 1988 to be considered for a state contract to build and operate a pre-release facility.

The 10-percent provision is in the private prison law approved by the 1987 Legislature.

The board-approved amount is the estimate for the Department of Corrections to build and run up to four proposed 500-inmate facilities for prisoners who are about to be released.

The cost goes up to $42.53 in fiscal year 1989 and $42.95 in fiscal year 1990. Property and franchise taxes paid by private contractors will not be included in their costs under the board action.

The prison board will meet Monday to decide which contractors it will negotiate with during the bidding process, said TDC Director Lynaugh.

Lynaugh said he does not know how long the negotiation process will take. "I haven't spoken with any of their attorneys, and contract negotiations can drag."

The board earlier narrowed a list of 33 proposed bidders to "six qualified (bidders) we can negotiate with," he said.

The cost set by the budget board was higher than the figures board staff came up with after reviewing figures provided by the corrections department.

The staff numbers — $37.42 in 1988, $38.28 in 1989 and $38.70 in 1990 — were higher than the figures developed by the department, Lynaugh said.

Sen. Ray Farabee, D-Wichita Falls, said the budget board figures are higher because they include more counselors in more areas for the inmates and higher construction costs.

The only facility run by the corrections department that is similar to the proposed pre-release institutions is the 500-inmate Jester I facility, which costs $45 per inmate per day, Farabee said.

The corrections department figures had proposed one alcohol counselor for the 500 inmates in the pre-release facility, Farabee said. The figures approved by the board allow for 12 staff members to provide counseling about drugs and alcohol, employment, and family relationships.

Blood-pressure control found

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — Researchers have identified a pea-sized cluster of brain cells that serves as the master control for blood pressure, a finding they say may lead to new treatments for hypertension.

The identification of the control area also should speed research into the underlying causes of high blood pressure, Dr. Donald Reis of Cornell University Medical Center in New York City said Tuesday.

An estimated 58 million Americans suffer from high blood pressure, which can lead to heart attacks and strokes, according to the American Heart Association. In 90 percent of those cases, the cause of the hypertension is unknown.

Reis said that increasing evidence suggests that only adrenalin-producing brain cells in the master control region govern high blood pressure. Abnormalities in those cells could be the cause of the large number of unexplained cases of hypertension, he said.

He noted, however, that the abnormality may lie not with the production of adrenalin but with the production of other yet-to-be-identified substances by those cells.

Other researchers have helped to identify the tiny region, called the rostral ventrolateral medulla, but Reis said he and his colleagues were the first to suggest that the adrenalin-producing cells are the critically important ones.

Reis described his findings at the American Heart Association's annual high blood pressure meeting.

The area lies in the lower brain stem, near where the brain connects to the spinal cord, Reis said. Nearby regions control breathing and other automatic functions, he said.

Dr. Edward Frohlich, chairman of the heart association meeting, said that blood pressure is controlled by many factors, but "this is one important mechanism that has been worked out."

Reis' most recent experiments suggest that the widely prescribed anti-hypertension drug clonidine exerts its effect at least in part by acting on these brain cells. Doctors had thought that it affected only blood vessels, not the brain.

The drug attaches to certain chemicals called receptors on the outside of the cells, thus altering their function.

The existence of the receptors led Reis and his colleagues to search for their natural function, in the absence of clonidine. The researchers subsequently found a clonidine-like substance that is produced naturally in the brain.

"We find there is this material in the brain that may act to regulate blood pressure," he said.

The isolation and study of this natural substance could lead to the development of new anti-hypertension drugs, Reis said.

He said that most researchers now agree that this region of the brain is the master control for hypertension. The evidence that adrenalin-producing cells are involved is more controversial, but many researchers now believe that to be the case, he said.

Some maintain that other cells in that area are responsible for the effect, he said.

The Dutch West India Co., received a charter in 1621 for New Netherlands, now known as New York.

Jefferson Davis, who would become the only president of the Confederacy, was born in 1808.

In 1937, the year after he abdicated as king of Britain, the Duke of Windsor married Wallis Warfield Simpson in a ceremony in France.

Endlessly endplayed

By James Jacoby

Bridge bidding would be easier if partners could read each other's mind. Because North had a skimpy overcall, he would have passed South's one-spade bid, but opener West bid two clubs. In the spirit of competition, North raised spades. South thought the overcall and subsequent raise showed sound high-card values, so he bid four spades. Making game required a lot of luck and the ability to sniff out an unusual endplay.

Declarer won the ace of clubs and then played to dummy's heart ace and ruffed a heart. Next he led the nine of spades and finessed. He played a second spade, winning with dummy's ace when West's king came up. Another heart ruff disclosed that nothing good was happening in that suit, and declarer now played a club. West won the queen and continued with the 10. Declarer could ruff that in dummy, but to what avail? Eventually he would have to lead diamonds and surely lose three more tricks to be set. Then South saw the endplay possibility. He discarded a diamond from dummy on the 10 of clubs. West continued with the club nine, and declarer discarded still another diamond. That was book (three tricks) for the defense, but West was on lead with nothing left but diamonds, and the two diamonds originally in dummy had disappeared. If West played a low diamond, declarer would ride it around to his king. If West played the ace, declarer would ruff and still have a trump left in dummy for his last losing diamond.

A new book by James Jacoby and his father, the late Oswald Jacoby, is now available at bookstores. It is "Jacoby on Card Games," published by Pharos Books.

Labor secretary to quit Cabinet

WASHINGTON (AP) — Labor Secretary William E. Brock will resign his Cabinet post to become presidential campaign manager for Senate Minority Leader Bob Dole, with whom he served in both the House and Senate, Republican sources say.

Sources who asked not to be identified said Brock would announce his decision on Thursday. The Labor Department said it could not confirm the reports Brock would resign.

"I can't give you any confirmation on it," David Demarest, an assistant Labor secretary, said late Tuesday. However, other sources close to Brock confirmed that he would step down.

Brock had been approached by several Republican presidential campaigns in recent weeks, including those of Dole, R-Kan., Vice President George Bush and Rep. Jack Kemp, R-N.Y., according to close Brock associates.

The Labor secretary has, in personal conversations, expressed interest in heading the State, Defense or Treasury departments if Republicans retain control of the White House in the 1988 election.

One source, speaking on condition of anonymity, confirmed that Brock would announce his resignation soon, but would likely remain in his Cabinet job "into November."

Brock would become the second member of President Reagan's Cabinet to resign to help Dole. Former Transportation Secretary Elizabeth Dole gave up her job recently to devote full time to her husband's candidacy.

Lady Tigers top Big Spring; give Nelms 100th career win

BIG SPRING – Chalk up victory number 100 for Coach Vicki Nelms as her Snyder Lady Tigers defeated Big Spring in a District 2-4A volleyball match here Tuesday night.

The Tigers extended their record to 14-9 overall and 8-4 in district play with the 15-6, 10-15, 15-13 win. They'll go after their 15th season victory, ninth in district play and Coach Nelms' 101st next Tuesday when they host defending state champion Lamesa.

COACH VICKI NELMS
... posts 100th career win

"Well, it is satisfying," said Coach Nelms, who was reluctant to talk of the milestone. "A lot of the credit has to go to (assistant coach) Patty Grimmett, too. Most of the credit goes to the kids I've had over the years. Without the kids you couldn't win."

Nelms coached two years at Portageville, Mo., three at Chillicothe and is in her third year at Snyder. She has notched four distict titles, three bi-district championships and one state crown.

Tuesday's win here didn't come easy, as the scores indicate.

"We knew they would be tough. They get up for us and we have a lot of trouble defending against their type of volleyball - they dink quite a bit and send it over on the first hit a lot," Nelms said. "When we try to play their type of game we don't play very well and that's what happened the second game. We trailed most of the third game but managed to pull it out. Our kids never gave up. They kept plugging away one point at a time."

Serving for points were Denise Overton 14, LaFon Williams 12, Becky Becerra 6, Melody Pickering 4 and Sandra Powell 3. Overton served up 3 aces, Pickering 2 and Becerra 1.

A good hitting game helped the Tigers, who had 12 kills in the match. Pickering had 5 kills, Paula Caldwell 3, Rhonda Echols 2 and Overton and Williams had 1 each.

Next Tuesday's match with Lamesa will be the Tigers' final home contest of the season. It is scheduled for a 7:30 p.m. start in the high school gym.

Steers defeat Cat freshmen

BIG SPRING – Snyder dropped a 15-11, 12-15, 8-15 decision to Big Spring in freshmen volleyball action here Tuesday.

Next action for the Cats will be Saturday, when they host a ninth grade tournament at the Snyder High School Gym.

Scoring on serves for Snyder were Theresa Martin, 2 points; Freda Clay, 8 points, 3 aces; Vinnie Clay, 1 point; Monica Garcia, 13 points, 8 aces; Liz Greathouse, 3 points, 2 aces; and Robbie Braziel, 8 points, 3 aces.

JV Girls outlast Lady Steers

BIG SPRING – Snyder junior varsity girls had some trouble in the second game of their volleyball match Tuesday but held on to defeat Big Spring 15-1, 16-14.

Scoring on serves for the young Tigers were Jennifer Pate 8, Shelly Tomlin 8, Teena Braziel 6, Annette Ramos 4, Brandi Bell 3, Cindy Srna 2 and Veronica Rivas 1.

Diana Espinosa, Anne Osborn and Amber Adams also played as the team improved to 19-6 on the season.

"We had some trouble with our serves at the beginning of the first game but they (the Steers) helped us out because they had more misserves than we did," pointed out Coach Patty Grimmett. "The second game I just think we didn't keep our intensity up. We set back on our heels. But the girls stuck with it and fought to the end. I was proud of that."

The team is idle Saturday but will entertain Lamesa at 6:30 p.m. next Tuesday in the Snyder High School Gym.

To failing grades...

SHS grid program loses 18

Failing grades have postponed the athletic careers of 18 Snyder High School football players - if only temporarily - this week.

Coach Dennis Tomlin reported that 10 freshmen, six junior varsity and two varsity players will be ineligible for Snyder High School sports the next six weeks.

Apparently, no volleyball players were lost to grades. It was not immediately known how many students who were planning to play basketball will be ineligible, if any.

"It always hurts when you lose kids. Of course you hate to see it at any level, but it particularly hurts with the younger kids," said Tomlin. "But the rule is there and we have to live with it. The kids are aware of the situation and they know it is their responsibility."

The coach noted that study halls are provided and that students who have grades of 75 or less in a class are required to attend.

"My biggest concern is that we just put these kids out on the streets at 3:30. I don't think their extra cirrcular activities caused them to not make their grades and you can't tell me that they are better off on the street than they would be participating in a school activity," the coach expounded.

The varsity football team, which entertains Andrews here Friday night, will lose fullback Isrrael Hinojos and backup defensive back Ralph Torres. Tomlin noted that Vyron Clay will start at the fullback spot against Andrews.

Tudor leads Cards to win over Giants

ST. LOUIS (AP) - Those ready to write off the St. Louis Cardinals just because they lost two straight National League playoff games must have forgotten John Tudor's grit.

"He pitched with both his heart and his head," catcher Tony Pena said after Tudor held off the San Francisco Giants for 7 1-3 innings of St. Louis' tension-packed, 1-0 victory Tuesday night. "I've never seen him pitch any better. Everything he threw he was keeping low."

Tudor, while advancing St. Louis to tonight's decisive game in a playoff series tied at three games each, escaped several San Francisco threats.

"I changed speeds and moved the ball around," said Tudor, who threw 118 pitches. "Tonight's performance really wasn't any better for me than Game 2 (a 5-0 defeat) except for 800 feet in home runs I gave up then."

The lone run Tudor needed to prevail against a power-laden Giants' lineup came gift-wrapped in the second inning.

Pena, behind on a 1-2 count against loser Dave Dravecky, hit a leadoff line drive to shallow right field that for seconds appeared ready to be caught. But San Francisco right fielder Candy Maldonado, after first losing the ball in the lights, also lost his feet and Pena ended up with a triple as the ball bounced to the wall.

"I thought I hit the ball hard, but I thought he (Maldonado) was going to catch it," Pena said.

Once Pena was perched at third base, the Cardinals got the run home on Jose Oquendo's short sacrifice fly to right after Willie McGee grounded out to third base.

"With him (Tudor) coming up, you've got to do that," St. Louis Manager Whitey Herzog said of third-base coach Nick Leyva's decision to send Pena, who slid around catcher Bob Melvin's attempted tag at home plate. "I (always) send him in that situation. I don't care if he's out by 10 feet."

A raucous, towel-waving Busch Stadium crowed that cheered Pena's run had moments before watched McGee put an end to a serious San Francisco threat.

"I knew I was going to catch it. I feel in this ballpark, I should catch everything," McGee said of a two-on, one-out low shot off Jose Uribe's bat he speared with a running catch. "I got a good jump on it. That was the key."

The catch allowed Tudor to breathe easier, but not for long.

After Pena gunned down Robby Thompson on an attempted steal following Thompson's walk to start the San Francisco's third.

The Giants went down in order in the fourth, but trouble arose again in the fifth. This time, Melvin and Uribe singled to put runners at first and second with none out.

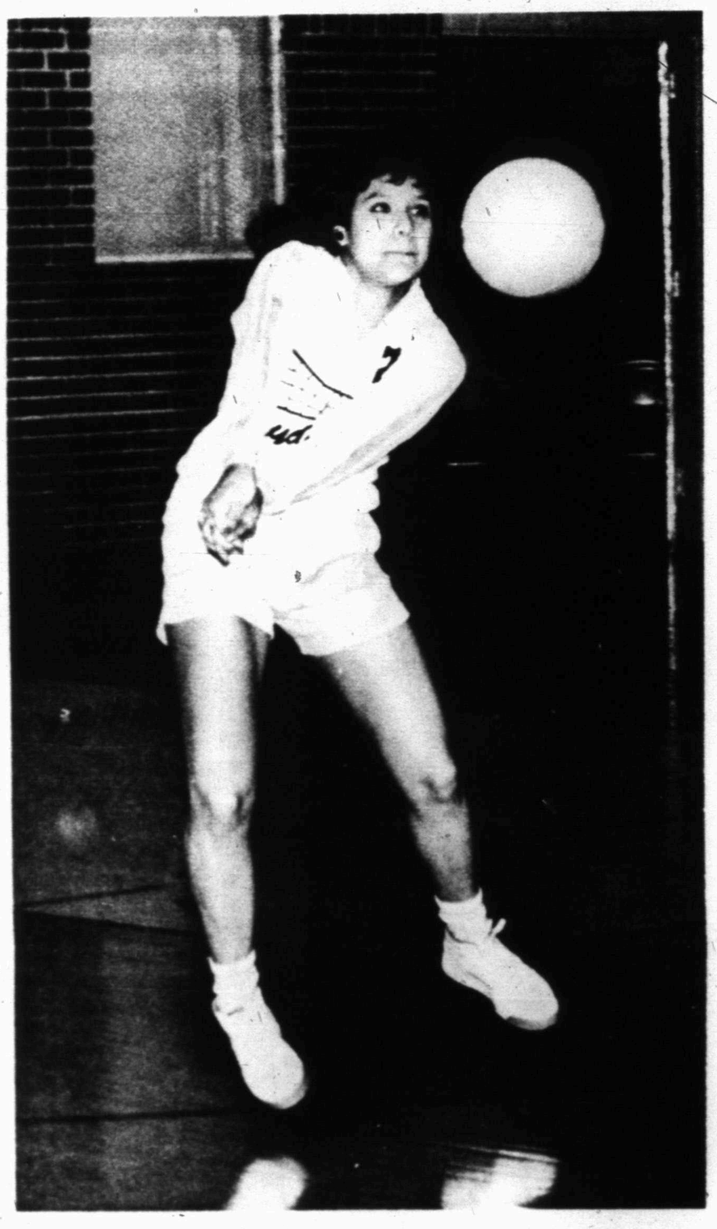

Cardinals third baseman Terry Pendleton eased the pressure by picking up Dravecky's attempted sacrifice bunt and throwing to shortstop Ozzie Smith, who was covering the third base, for a forceout.

"It's Tony Pena's call," Tudor said of the close play, which was hotly disputed by San Francisco third base coach Don Zimmer. "Terry decided to go third, and I'm glad he did."

Tudor yielded the final of six hits, each a single, to Melvin to start the seventh. But neither Bob Brenly in a pinch-hit role nor Thompson could drive pinch runner Eddie Milner home after Uribe sacrificed.

Tudor left after walking Leonard on four pitches with one out in the eighth, setting up an unusual finish that had Cardinals relief pitcher Todd Worrell in right field.

A major change in big-league baseball occurred in 1893 when round bats replaced flat-sided ones.

More players expected to cross lines...

NFL owners reject latest proposal

WASHINGTON (AP) - Their hopes for a quick settlement dashed, the NFL Players Association must now cope with yet another day in which the union's solidarity will be severely tested.

The NFLPA's offer to return to work under certain conditions, including binding arbitration on unsolved issues, was rejected Tuesday by the Management Council. The union rejected management's counterproposal, so now the league's striking players face another deadline - return to work today by 1 p.m. or forfeit another week's pay.

"It doesn't matter how many times we try, they just refuse us at every turn," union chief Gene Upshaw said. "What we have is a threat to see if the players will break rank. They're bent on busting the union."

Several players, including Washington Redskins defensive end Dexter Manley, New York Giants linebacker Lawrence Taylor and New England Patriots quarterback Doug Flutie, were expected to cross picket lines today. The number of defections rose to 138 Tuesday when five more players, three Pittsburgh Steelers and two Los Angeles Raiders, joined their teams.

That meant about 9 percent of the 1,585 players under union jurisdiction have crossed picket lines since the strike began Sept. 22.

But two teams, the Washington Redskins and the Kansas City Chiefs, who have yet to have any players cross picket lines, voted Tuesday to honor the strike for at least another week.

Tuesday's action on the negotiating front featured volleys between Upshaw and management head Jack Donlan, but no agreement and no new date for the talks to resume. Upshaw said he expected to stay in contact with Donlan by telephone, but left the next move to the Management Council.

"It's in his court now," Upshaw said.

The day started when the owners considered, then rejected, the players' demand for mediation and then binding arbitration. The owners also insisted that returning players be bound by the 1982 agreement for as long as it would take to put a new agreement in place.

Upshaw countered by saying he would accept mediation on the key issue of free agency. But he demanded arbitration on the other issues and said there would have to be a time limit on how long the players would operate under the 1982 agreement.

"I'm trying to get the players back to work, but under some conditions in which we can all live under," he said. "We're willing to work under the old agreement for some period of time, but at some point there has to be a cutoff.

"We don't want this process to just go on for ever and ever."

Donlan said he saw no reason to resume the talks that broke off last Sunday unless the union changes its position on key issues.

The league said the strike-replacement games would go on again for the third weekend with free agents and those veterans who crossed the picket line.

TI spied on by Romanians

WASHINGTON (AP) — Romanian spies acting on behalf of the Soviet Union stole secrets needed to make a spacecraft alloy and later stole sophisticated U.S. computer plans from Texas Instruments, a Romanian defector says.

Former Romanian spymaster Ion Mihai Pacepa made the disclosures Tuesday during his first meeting with reporters since he defected in 1978.

He said Romanian agents stole the spacecraft alloy technology in the 1960s and the material is still used in the Soviet space program. He characterized the theft as the most important espionage coup during his 27-year tenure with Romanian intelligence.

"We just stumbled onto that one in the 1960s," he said.

He also said that in 1978, Soviet leader Leonid Brezhnev and KGB chief Yuri Andropov personally asked Romanian President Nicolae Ceausescu to have his agents infiltrate Texas Instruments to obtain computer microchip secrets.

A Romanian agent eventually was able to photograph the microchip plans, which had been left on the wall of the London office of a Texas Instruments licensee, he said.

Pacepa said "surveilance was complete" on U.S. displomats and journalists in Romania, that their conversations were taped and many of their actions were videotaped.

He said Romanian agents bugged the homes of U.S. diplomats in Bucharest but did not plant microphones in the American Embassy there for fear of damaging ties with Washington.

"Planting microphones in major Western embassies was done only at the order of the head of state, throughout the Soviet bloc," he said.

The 59-year-old Pacepa has assumed a new identity and is living at an undisclosed location with his American-born wife. He wore a wig during his luncheon meeting with a small group of journalists, and refused to allow his voice to be tape-recorded.

He said he feared retribution from Ceausescu, of whom he is fiercely critical in his book, "Red Horizons: Chronicles of a Communist Spy Chief," to be released this month.

Among the other disclosures from his career in DIE, the "Departamentul de Informatii Externe," which runs Romanian intelligence abroad:

—Ceausescu agreed in 1975 with Yasser Arafat, chairman of the Palestine Liberation Organization, to collect intelligence that could be used to compromise Jordan's King Hussein.

—Libyan leader Col. Moammar Gadhafi funded a joint project with Ceausescu to build a mock-up of the West German Leopard tank, using technology obtained secretly from the West.

—Romania, with the help of Bulgarian intelligence and French drug smugglers, exported and sold cocaine confiscated from drug traffickers. The profits were used to service Romania's foreign debt.

Pacepa said the residence of the American ambassador and the apartments of most U.S. diplomats in Bucharest were bugged with temporary devices, fed through tiny plastic pipes from adjacent houses, so that the microphones were just beneath the walls of the targeted rooms.

The U.S. Embassy office building stands in a garden, with no adjacent structures, and could not be bugged with the technology that Romanian intelligence used, he said.

Pacepa said that, as far as he knew, the Soviet KGB did not bug the embassy but that "what was impossible for Romania was possible for the Soviet Union."

Teams of U.S. technicians regularly visit Soviet bloc countries to sweep American diplomatic offices and residences for listening devices. Pacepa said their names were known, and their specialized equipment could be spotted coming into the country.

"At the first sign that someone, a group of specialists, was looking for it, it would be withdrawn," Pacepa said of the temporary bugging equipment.

Pacepa's revelations are interesting in light of U.S. charges that the Soviet KGB has so riddled the the new American embassy building in Moscow with bugs that it cannot be used.

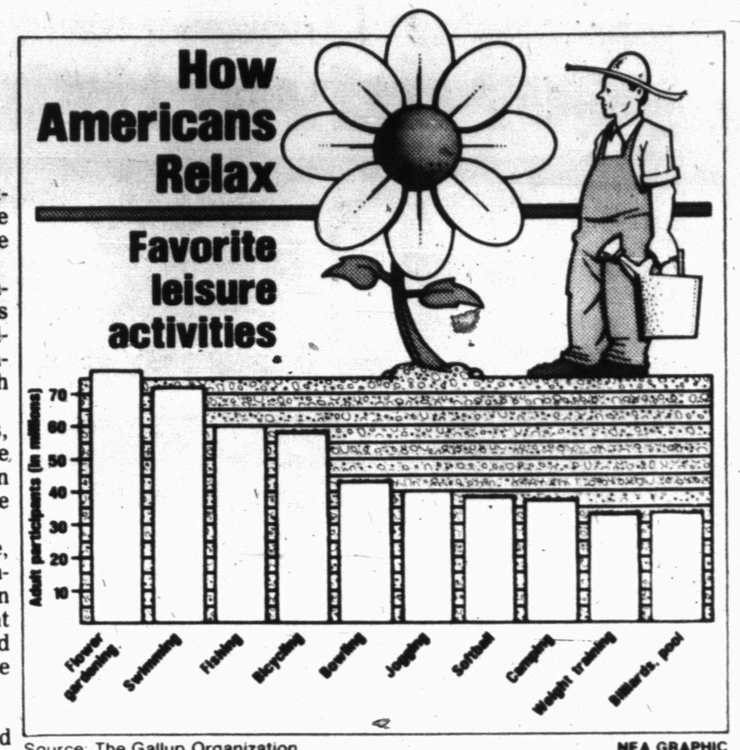

"Those aren't microphones, they are cavities" which can be used to relay data to collection points outside the embassy, he said.

Discussing the microchip case, Pacepa said Brezhnev and Andropov took Ceausescu to an underground electronics plant near Moscow in 1978 and told him, "we want to penetrate Texas Instruments."

The Romanian president had the company's plant in Dallas placed on the itinerary of his 1978 state visit to the United States.

But, said Pacepa, "Texas Instruments was really careful. ... He hardly was able to shake hands with anyone," and his path through the factory was lined with partitions which blocked his view.

Ceausescu signed an agreement to buy geological instruments from Texas Instruments, however. And later, a Romanian agent was able to photograph the microchip plans in London.

West German, Swiss garner Nobel prizes

STOCKHOLM, Sweden (AP) — Georg Bednorz of West Germany and K. Alex Mueller of Switzerland won the Nobel Prize in physics today for their discovery of new superconducting materials.

Both are researchers at the IBM Zuerich Research Laboratory in Switzerland.

The announcement by the Royal Swedish Academy of Sciences cited "their important breakthrough in the discovery of superconductivity in ceramic materials."

Last year, "Bednorz and Mueller reported finding superconductivity in an oxide material at a temperature 12 degrees Celsius higher than perviously known," the announcement said.

This morning's announcement of the physics prize recipient was to be followed two hours later by the disclosure of the chemistry award winner.

American scientists have been represented overwhelmingly among the winners of the science prizes since they were first awarded in 1901. U.S. citizens have won 52 of the 129 physics awards and 31 of 86 chemistry awards.

Last year two West Germans, Ernst Ruska and Gerd Binnig, and a Swiss, Heinrich Rohrer, shared the physics prize. Ruska won for work in electron optics and the design of the first electron microscope; Binnig and Rohrer designed the scanning tunneling microscope.

Previous winners of the physics prize have included people who became famous beyond the science world, like Wilhelm Conrad Roentgen, who won in 1901 for work on X-ray technology, and Guglielmo Marconi, who received the award in 1909 and was credited with inventing the radio.

In chemistry, last year's prize was shared by Dudley R. Herschbach of the United States, Taiwan-born American Yuan T. Lee and German-born John C. Polany of Canada. They did research showing how basic chemical reactions take place.

Each Nobel carries a cash prize of 2,175,000 Swedish kronor, or about $340,000, which is divided if more than one laureate is named for each prize.

The news of today's prizes follows the surprise announcement Tuesday that Costa Rican President Oscar Arias Sanchez had won the Nobel Peace Prize. He received the award for developing and promoting a plan to end the guerrilla wars in Central America.

On Monday, Japanese researcher Susumu Tonegawa won the Nobel Prize in medicine for his study of how the body produces defenses to fight off a variety of viruses and bacteria.

Floral design course slated

The creation of floral pieces for home decor will be taught in a floral design course scheduled by the Continuing Education department of Western Texas College starting Monday.

Classes will meet from 6:30-9:30 p.m. on Mondays through Nov. 23, a total of 18 hours of instruction. Fees will be $35 per person and students will furnish their own supplies. They will keep all the arrangements they make. Special emphasis will be on holiday decorations.

Sue Travis will be the instructor for the class and classes will meet at Travis Flowers.

To reserve space in the class call 573-8511, ext. 240.

NE Parent Club conducts meeting

Officers for the 1987-88 school year were introduced during the Oct. 6 meeting of the Northeast Parent Club. They are Kelly Brock, president; Anita Martinez, vice-president; Susan Garcia, secretary; and Maggie Martinez, treasurer.

The main topic of the meeting concerned Saturday's White Buffalo Day celebration. The organization will have a booth at the coliseum annex and they will also have a cake-walk.

Parents of children attending Northeast are asked to donate a cake for the occasion. Anyone donating a cake is asked to bring it by the booth on Saturday. Booth hours will be from 10 a.m. to 7 p.m. Anyone wishing to volunteer to man the booth is asked to come by or call Kelly Block at 573-8620.

Perfect attendance was also discussed, along with the sale of school buttons.

The next meeting will be at 7 p.m. on Nov. 3.

U.N. Secretary General Dag Hammarskjold was killed in 1961 in an air crash in northern Rhodesia.

East Germany, West Germany and the Bahamas were admitted to the United Nations in 1973.

Large group attends opening

More than a hundred visitors were on hand Sunday for the opening of the Scurry County Museum's third annual western art show and sale. The show will continue through Nov. 23.

Also opening Sunday was a new display in the permanent exhibit gallery, the Rudder Leather Goods Shop. Ethel Rudder, who assisted her husband in the operation of the shop in Ballinger from 1926 until his death in 1970, was a special guest at the Sunday opening. She is now a Snyder resident.

In addition to the western art on sale in the museum, there are saddles, a hand-tooled leather baby carrier, saddle blankets and spurs from Hillman Saddlery in Big Spring. Orders are being taken for a leather handbag made by the Galemba Saddle Shop in Stephenville and for custom made bits and one-piece spurs made by Earlon Shirley of Tahoka.

Artists whose works are for sale include Wayne Baize of Fort Davis, Jodie Boren of Abilene, Dick Powell of Post, Dr. Robert Taylor of Snyder and Ben Miller of Fluvanna. Rodeo photographs by James Fain of Logan, Utah, and Dudley Barker of Stephenville are for sale and are part of the rodeo exhibit.

Hours in the museum are 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. Monday through Friday and 1-4 p.m. on Sunday. Information about guided tours and the special exhibit can be obtained by calling the museum at 573-6107.

Teacher career ladder request granted

of the Classroom Teacher's Association local chapter.

A similar request was extended to the board at a meeting Aug. 20 by four local classroom teachers.

With her request, Allen cited the district's saving of some $50,000 in the salary portion of the budget by the elimination of one assistant superintendent's position.

In reference to the teachers not chosen for career ladder, she said, "The teachers qualify and we now feel the money is there."

In a related action, trustees indicated they would meet again Friday at 1 p.m. to consider if all future teacher appraisals related to career ladder selection will be scheduled or unscheduled.

Teachers have requested these be scheduled and several board members Tuesday indicated they were in favor of this. Action was not taken since it was not an agenda item, however.

In other action Tuesday, the board offered four nominations to the Scurry County Appraisal District board: Doug Flynn, Mairl McFaul, Julius Roemisch and Mickey Sterling.

The board also extended its congratulations to Jim Rosson, Snyder High School distributive education instructor, who is a recent winner of a statewide competition related to teaching free enterprise.

Rosson developed a teaching unit entitled "Free Enterprise Makes the Difference in America." This will now be forwarded to the 25th annual National Awards Program for the Teaching of Economics.

In other school-related action, the board voted to:

—Employ five new staffers: Lisa Brem as an aide at East Elementary; Judy Moss as a third grade teacher at North Elementary; Rebekah Thornton as a fifth grade teacher at West Elementary; Vicki Rinehart as a resource (special ed.) teacher at Central Elementary; and Keitha Brown as a VAC teacher at the high school.

—Accept the lowest of two bids for a new roof for West Elementary and a portion of the high school roof. The bid of $60,680 was awarded to Barr Roofing of Abilene.

—Approve a bid of $12,241, less $3,000 in trade, for a one-ton Ford pickup for the SHS ag department. The bid was awarded to Wilson Motors of Snyder and was the second lowest of eight received. The low bid was for a three-quarter ton vehicle, however, and was submitted by out-of-town dealer Modern Chevrolet of Lubbock, bidding $11,382.

—Grant a request to waive auditorium rental fees for an event planned here by the Scurry County Council on Alcohol and Drug Abuse.

—Adopt a local policy to comply with state guidelines reducing the number of required appraisals for teachers granted career ladder status to one appraisal and two observations with these to be conducted during the fall term.

—Approve a resolution in support of a return to an elected state school board, an issue which voters will consider statewide Nov. 3 as a "special issue" on the constitutional amendment election.

—Adopt a resolution permitting the appraisal district to own property at 2612 College Ave.

Dog is rescued

HOUSTON (AP) — A golden retriever nicknamed Gilligan was rescued from an island in the Houston Ship Channel where he had apparently survived on small prey and puddles of rainwater.

After four previous rescue attempts, the dog finally was captured Tuesday after walking into a humane trap consisting of a cage with water.

The rescue attempt began Oct. 7 when the dog was spotted on Atkinson Island, a barren, three-mile strip of land, by people dining at a nearby restaurant. Restaurant employees said the dog had been on the island for at least a month.

"There are no visible marks on the dog, and he's thin and dirty, though looking pretty good. He needs work," said Lou Anne Guyton, investigator for the Houston Society of the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals.

Amendment will affect governor would safeguard the intent of the 1983 law. "The policy of leaving major appointments to the incoming governor, who has a fresh mandate from the voters, has merit regardless of party," a spokesman said.

Opponents argue that an outgoing governor should still be able to exercise the full authority of his office.

"The Senate has the prerogative of refusing to confirm lame-duck appointments, as it did with some made by Gov. Bill Clements after his 1982 defeat," an opposition spokesman said. "But the legislature should not be able to restrict the governor's authority to make those appointments."

Indictment noted

An indictment issued by a Scurry County grand jury Monday was inadvertently omitted from a story about 11 other indictments in the Tuesday edition of The Snyder Daily News.

Todd Allen Mowery, 18, of 301 23rd St. was indicted for unauthorized use of a motor vehicle in the Sept. 22 theft of a 1982 Plymouth from Mike Brown.

TEAMS results sting high school

some 8.9 percent of the entire student body.

For comparison purposes, he noted Wednesday the junior high here reports low income students at some 27.8 percent.

The reporting of low income status is based on those applying for free lunch programs per campus. At Snyder High School, where an "open campus" concept allows students to leave during the lunch hour, a smaller number apply for this state benefit, Scannicchio noted.

"While we're trying to understand how it happened, we're really not making excuses," he said Wednesday. "The fact is we should be higher and we're going to be higher."

At the high school level, the ranking was based on the scores of two specific classes last year, freshmen and juniors, the only two grade levels required to take the TEAMS test at that level.

All Texas districts take the tests in February at the third, fifth, seventh, ninth and 11th grade level. Regarding Snyder ISD's ranking districtwide last year, the district was 481 out of 1,052 districts, ranking it at the 55 percent level.

When districts are broken down into campuses, Snyder High School's actual test scores ranked it 3,056 out of 5,329 campuses or the 43 percent level.

Of the two classes taking the TEAMS test, Scannicchio noted the junior class did reasonably well, but the freshman class "did poorly" in two out of the three test categories.

At the ninth grade level, the tests grade "mastery," that is a working proficiency in math, reading and writing. Approximately 202 freshman took the TEAMS test, and 84 percent showed mastery in math, but only 77 percent in reading and 59 percent in the writing area.

Scannicchio noted the situation is already being addressed. Students who did poorly on the TEAMS test have been identified and are being offered special tutoring.

The project to coordinate teaching departments at the junior high and high school level was pointed to also. This recommendation came from staff members at both campuses during a survey conducted in late August by an outside consultant, Don Williams, formerly with the Odessa school district.

These staffers were asked to identify both strengths and weaknesses of their respective departments and to suggest ways to improve each.

The bulk of Williams report to the board was a "summary" of these responses, he noted. "It is not an evaluation of your district," he told the board, "but rather a summary document."

Beginning two weeks ago, a campus plan to implement more departmental organization was implemented, Scannicchio told the board.

Basically, it will see junior high teachers and high school teachers attempting to structure their classroom instruction by campus to offset each other--better preparing junior high students for high school.

Two share Nobel

STOCKHOLM, Sweden (AP) — American scientists Donald J. Cram and Charles J. Pedersen shared the Nobel Prize in chemistry today with French researcher Jean-Marie Lehn for work in the synthesis of molecules that can mimic important biological processes.

"It really shakes me up," Cram, a professor at the University of California at Los Angeles, told radio station KNX-AM in that city. "What I'm delighted about is that the two people with whom I'm sharing it are very fine people."

Earlier today, the physics prize went to Georg Bednorz of West Germany and K. Alex Mueller of Switzerland for discovery of new superconducting materials that may point the way to faster computers and bullet trains.

Red flushing can be controlled

DEAR DR. GOTT — I develop red blotches all over my neck and face whenever I am a little nervous, physically active or drink alcohol. What causes this and how can I control it?

DEAR READER — You seem to be describing capillary flushing, an automatic opening of the small blood vessels in your skin. When you are nervous or physically active, your body's glands secrete chemicals, such as epinephrine (adrenaline), into your system. These compounds can cause flushing, as can alcohol and other drugs. I suggest that you avoid the offending substances, like alcohol, and try to relax during times of stress. Although your blush reaction may be normal for your particular personality type, with time you may be able to control it more successfully.

DEAR DR. GOTT — Is there any proof that a waterbed is better or worse for you than a conventional mattress?

DEAR READER — There is no sound scientific evidence that proves the superiority of a waterbed over a firm mattress, or vice versa. This is simply a question of personal preference and which sleeping surface feels best to you.

DEAR DR. GOTT — My doctor says that I have histoplasmosis. I have periodic bouts with bad bronchitis. Are they related?

DEAR READER — Histoplasmosis is a lung infection caused by inhaling the spores of the fungus Histoplasma capsulatum. Ordinarily, the lung infection is self-limited; after an initial period of fever, cough and swollen glands, the patient recovers. Hard lumps may remain in the lungs and lymph glands.

Once a person has been infected with histoplasmosis, his or her skin test will turn positive, enabling doctors to use this test for diagnosis. More than half a million Americans develop positive skin reactions each year. Up to 95 percent of residents in the Ohio, Mississippi and Missouri River valleys are skin-test positive, because these are areas where the spores of the fungus are prevalent in the soil.

Although most patients with histoplasmosis seem to have a mild flulike upper-respiratory illness, some children and elderly patients develop disseminated infection, a more serious form of the disease. This causes weight loss, weakness, enlarged liver, ulcerations in the mouth and gastrointestinal tract, infection of the adrenal glands, inflammation of the heart lining and impaired bone-marrow function. Such patients need treatment. At present, the anti-fungal drug amphotericin B is the preferred therapy.

Your repeated attacks of bronchitis could be due to a condition called "reinfection histoplasmosis," the effects of cyclic re-exposure to large doses of spores. Unless you are unfortunate enough to develop disseminated disease, you will not need treatment. However, you should stop smoking (if you are a smoker) and avoid air pollution, to enhance your lungs' healing properties.

What is HYPOGLYCEMIA and how is it treated? You can find out in Dr. Gott's new Health Report on the subject. Send $1 and your name and address to P.O. Box 91369, Cleveland, OH 44101-3369. Be sure to ask for the Health Report on HYPOGLYCEMIA.

Owner will remove school barricades if district pays for liability insurance

DALLAS (AP) — A man who was granted title to land where an elementary school sits will remove the barricades he set up to stop students if the district provides liability insurance for the site, his attorney said.

Cameron Dee Sewell, who recently was declared owner of the land by the Texas Supreme Court, piled up hay and padlocked the doors of Rylie Elementary School to keep the school district from sending students into the classrooms.

His lawyer said he posted no trespassing signs and erected the barricades to protect himself.

Report says...

Worst economic days over

DALLAS (AP) — A Wall Street brokerage firm says the worst is over in Texas and is advising investors to cash in on the state's investment opportunities.

A Salomon Brothers Inc. report says the Texas economy has "bottomed out" after two years of rising unemployment and decaying economic conditions. The firm's analysts also predict Dallas will be the state's first metropolitan area to rebound from the state's economic slump.

"We wanted to make the case that it is now time to seriously consider Texas investments," said Robert Hopkins, an analyst who worked on the report. "Everybody is asking us, 'When is Texas is going to turn around?' We feel Texas has bottomed out and that's important for our clients to know."

Unless the national economy takes an unexpected downturn or oil prices tumble again, the state likely will see slow, steady economic growth over the next few years, Hopkins said.

"There is a fundamental, positive attitude that Texas is going to turn around at some point. That's what we tried to answer," Hopkins told the Dallas Morning News. "It's somewhat unique — 15 years ago when New York was in the bottoms, nobody was asking when New York was going to come back."

The report cited J.C. Penney Co.'s pending move from Manhattan to Dallas as an indication that Texas is still viewed as an affordable, attractive state for business.

"Of all the major metropolitan areas in Texas, the broadly diversified Dallas economy is now viewed as a desirable, yet inexpensive business location; thus, it seems the most poised for economic recovery. Office users seeking lower costs with a strong labor pool will find Dallas most attractive," the report said.

Texas lost 194,000 in the last three years, its unemployment rate climbed to 11.1 percent, and office vacancy rates peaked at 30 percent in some urban areas, the report said. Personal income fell to about 10 percent below the national average between 1982 and 1986, it said.

But Salomon Brothers cautioned that real estate and financial areas still show signs of trouble, citing commercial construction as an area where continued declines are probable.

Texas' banking sector, which has lost 10,000 jobs since 1985, could provide further problems for the overall economy, Salomon Brothers' analysts warned.

"The major potential weakness for the state is the financial services sector. Until the portfolios of the lenders in Texas can be cleared of non-performing loans, these job losses will continue," Salomon Brothers said.

Hopkins said the report may again direct attention to the state from national investors who have previously "red-lined" the state against new funding.

"My suspicion is that people in the investment community that really don't know Texas well will say it's time to take a look at Texas again," he said.

Reagan says next nominee will also be conservative

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Reagan, sounding resigned to defeat on Robert H. Bork's nomination to the Supreme Court, vows that any new candidate he picks will upset liberal opponents "just as much."

Reagan's statement Tuesday drew quick criticism from Senate Majority Leader Robert Byrd, D-W.Va., who warned that harsh comments from the president could jeopardize his next nominee.

"It's not helpful," Byrd said of Reagan's statement. "I deplore this kind of remark, this tone coming out of the White House."

Byrd said if Reagan is going to "engage in ... innuendo and bitterness" the next nominee would be endangered.

Meanwhile, Senate Democrats and Republicans skirmished over the timing of the Bork debate, but nothing was settled.

Reagan, abandoning the low-key tone suggested by Bork himself on his nomination, derided tactics used against his nominee as "a political joke."

With the ranks of Bork's critics still growing in the Senate — reaching 54 with an anti-Bork declaration from Sen. Harry Reid, D-Nev. — Reagan planned to talk about the nomination in an address late this afternoon from the Oval Office.

Reagan, in a series of appearances in New Jersey on Tuesday, softened his rhetoric about Bork's opponents in one speech but then turned up the heat in a later address when a woman at a Republican fundraiser shouted, "We want Bork, too."

"You want Bork, too? So do I," Reagan said in a resolute voice.

Dropping the restrained approach that aides said he adopted in deference to Bork's wishes, the president spoke with emotion about his embattled nominee.

"Yes, Bork is staying in, and we know the odds are against getting enough people to turn around their vote," Reagan continued.

However, he said, "what's at issue here is not one man and what happened to him. What's at issue is that we make sure that the process of appointing and confirming judges never again is turned into such a political joke."
