Mrs. E. C. Davis, 501 East Broadway, left Brownfield Tuesday morning for Fort Worth, where she represented Terry County at a statewide "Womanpower for Eisenhower" clinic and workshop. She and a Lynn County woman, who represented Lynn County, made the trip by automobile.

Cubs Get First Victory From Colorado City

By Jack Lucas

Coach Toby Greer's Cubs rolled up the first victory of the season last Friday night by taking the Colorado City Wolves by a score of 19-12 at Cub Stadium.

The Cubs came from behind in the second half to win the game on Jackie Stockton's best performance of the season.

Neither team scored in the first quarter and the Cubs looked everything but impressive.

It was the second quarter before Stockton made the first touchdown of the night when he plunged over from the 2 yd line, ending one of the Cub's first long scoring drives.

But the Wolves came back with two quick touchdowns before the half to lead at the intermission.

For the first tally, Don Maynard, Wolves' standout for the night, raced 45 yards around his left end. On the next play, the second, by defensive half-back Hillis Galtney, who intercepted one of Quarterback Cloud's passes and went 55 yards for the Wolves' last T. D., put them ahead at the half.

The second half opened in Brownfield's favor, by getting ahead 19-12 on two of Stockton's fast touchdowns.

In 1:15 minutes after the second half started, Stockton galloped 25 yards to end the 80 yard march which started on the 15. Joe Swan plunged over for the extra point. A few minutes after this, Stockton took a Colorado City punt and carried it back all the way, 70 yard behind the line, blocking of his teammates to end the scoring for the night.

This week in Cub stadium, the Cubs take on Monahans, highly favored in District 8AA—along with Pecos, Seminole, and Kermit. It will be one of the top games in the South Plains area. Last week Monahans beat McCombs 25-7.

Other TAA contenders came out as follows:

Levelland, 16; Snyder, 12; Littlefield, 38; Slaton, 7; Mulbrey, 7; Amherst, 32.

Barbecue Pit Now Open For Business

Claude Gore's Barbecue Pit opened for business this week at 602 Lubbock Road, where his grocery store, the Handy Grocery, was formerly located. A red stone barbecue pit has been built inside the building next to the meat market, and barbecue of all types, pork, beef, chicken, links and goat will be available there for the customer's choice.

The inside pit is used only for keeping the barbecue hot, and actual barbecuing is done in a large pit directly behind the establishment. Oak logs are used for the barbecuing process, and the recipe for the barbecue sauce used is one purchased by Gore from "the man who made the best barbecue I ever ate." The outside pit is about 200 pound capacity.

Custom barbecuing will be a specialty, and Gore is already filling a number of party orders for barbecue.

Tables have been set up in the front of the barbecue specialty spot, and barbecue meals will be served cafeteria style beginning at 11 a. m. daily. Orders for onions, pickles, etc., will be filled along with barbecue-to-go orders, and Gore will also stock all types of picnic supplies, including paper plates and cups and soft drinks for the convenience of his customers.

The meat market will still be in operation, and customers may have special steaks, etc., cut to order and barbecue. Pete Whitaker, butcher, will assist Gore in operating the establishment.

JUST GOTTA HAVE THE WEEKLY HERALD

Had a letter and remittance from Mrs. L. T. Anderson, out at Tokio, this week, enclosing money for her renewal. Mrs. A. says they have been taking the Herald for the past 29 years, and don't think they can do without it.

The Herald always appreciates such expressions from old friends and readers.

The South Plains Health Unit News came out rather brief this month, supposedly because they have not replaced Dr. Frank P. Miller, who moved to Sherman, and who was editor as well as physician in charge. But the head nurse, Mrs. Viola Simmonds, had two very interesting articles, one entitled Diarrhea — a Threat to Babies, and one on Impetigo.

BROWNFIELD-LUBBOCK SUPER-HIGHWAY REQUIRES 210 FEET RIGHT-OF-WAY

Information received Thursday morning from a reliable source stated that Highway 62, which runs through Ropesville and is often referred to as the Lubbock-Brownfield Highway, will be made into a four lane super-highway.

Plans are being made to make it into a divided four-lane road. The highway already has 100 feet of right-of-way, and to make it into a divided four lane artery of travel an additional 110 feet of right-of-way will be required, especially in the rural district. This will give the highway 210 feet. In addition to this the state must have an option on 50 feet more which will make the road 260 feet wide. The additional 50 feet is being acquired so that if a manufacturing concern builds a plant near the road, the state will be able to pave up to the plant, without interference with the speedway.

It was stated that the highway has 100 feet of right-of-way in the city of Ropes, but to gain the additional needed space it might be necessary for the road to bypass the town. It was also pointed out that this additional right-of-way will have to be secured on the east side of the highway, as the railroad runs on the west side.

Seemingly, if the road is to require an additional 160 feet of right-of-way, it would be next to impossible to bring it along the route the highway now follows through the town. It would mean if it is to follow that route that business now located on the highway would have to be moved back, so, according to information given us, it might be that the highway would have to be re-routed around Ropes. But in just what direction, it has not as yet been decided.—Ropes Plainman.

INDIAN-CUB TICKETS ON SALE TUESDAY

Tickets for the football game between the Brownfield Cubs and the Seminole Indians will be on sale Tuesday at Raymond Simms' office in the courthouse. There are about 500 tickets available and those holding season tickets only, will be allowed to buy on Tuesday; on Wednesday and to Thursday noon, the general public may buy tickets to the game to be played in Seminole.

The B team does not play this week. The Junior Team went to Littlefield last night.

Smith Mach. Selling Cotton Harvesters

The Smith Machinery Co., "your friendly M-M dealer," out on the Lubbock highway, has stocked the famous Johnson Cotton Harvester, and are now selling them. It is said to be one of the best, if not the most perfect harvester on the market.

We note a lot of the drouth stricken west Texas counties, where cotton plants did not get knee high or even less, that the county agents of those counties are advocating using the harvester instead of human pullers. The Johnson people claim a saving of up to $41.03 per bale.

We advise those who have small cotton stalks to investigate the harvesters. Maybe two or more farmers could go into partnership on purchases. If stormproof cotton, it will stand in field until all is opened that would open at all.

Nix-Waggoner Plant Gins Its First Bale

When we returned from a short visit to Tennessee over the Tahoma road the 30th of July, we noted a bit of material for a gin plant, three miles east of town, and remarked to our companions that if that gin was ready for the season run, they'd have to hurry. But we had not consulted our host in the matter. The owners, Olen Nix of Lamesa, and L. V. Waggoner of Brownfield, had made a contract to erect and have the gin in operation in 60 days.

The contractor was Joe Harrington of Pharr, Texas, and his foreman, Allen, with his assistant as T. B. Salyer of Bertram, and they got on the job and stayed with it until it was ready slightly under the 60 day deadline. The manager of the plant, Henry Cargill, has had 25 years experience in ginning, building and management.

T. B. Wood had the honor of having the first bale ginned. It weighed 505 pounds, and he was paid 50c per pound for it, last Thursday. J. L. Berryhill had the second bale ginned Friday. The land on which the gin stands was bought from Mr. Woods.

Other helpers at the Nix & Waggoner gin are, C. C. Bryant, engineers, Bryce Waggoner and Mr. Clayton, press men, Gene Rymer, section hand, and Mrs. Mervela Waggoner, bookkeeper.

Farm Bureau Helps Save Road Fund

Texas Farm Bureau Federation, working in cooperation with other groups such as County Judges and Commissioners Association and Rural Letter Carriers, "saved" millions of dollars for rural road building purposes in Texas for the years 1951 and 1952, through a vigilant and active program of work carried on while the 1951 state legislature was in session, according to Mr. Jake Fulford of Meadow, Texas, president of the Terry County Farm Bureau.

Legislation was introduced, Mr. Fulford said, that would have taken from the counties every penny of the road bond assumption money, which is expended by the commissioners courts in the counties and would have discontinued the appropriation provided under the Colson-Briseoe Act, which is used by the State Highway Department to build farm-to-market roads. The movement led by the Farm Bureau specifically saved $7,300,000 in road bond assumption money in 1952 and again in 1953. Conservatively speaking, it costs about $10,000 a mile to build these farm-to-market roads, and this will mean about $51,217.32 a year that this county will receive from this source.

"If these groups had not fought the battle that saved this road money, it would have been necessary to raise taxes in Terry County to build the roads, if we had any roads built," Mr. Fulford declared.

Certain groups have an eye on this road money and another fight will be waged in the next legislature if this money is retained for rural roads, Mr. Fulford predicted.

Visitors from Brownfield in the Joe Price home at Lovington, N. M., Sunday were Messrs and Mesdames Gay Price, A. T. Stafford, Jerrell Price and Mrs. G. P. Payton.

Mr. and Mrs. Tommy Zorns, Norma Jo Boyd, Gail Davis, and Verlene Sharp, went to Garden City, Kansas, last Friday to see Donny Boyd, who is attending Garden City Junior College, play in their game with Eldorado, Kansas. Junior College, Garden City was defeated 21-7. They returned Sunday night.

Police, Chamber Of Commerce Issue Warning Against Peddlers, Solicitors

Houston Hamilton, chief of police, and the Brownfield Chamber of Commerce issued a stiff warning this week to the people of Brownfield to be on guard against solicitors, peddlers and transient merchants during the fall season. Herb Chesshir, Chamber president, explained that the Chamber of Commerce is trying to protect the businesses and residents of Brownfield, and that he hopes the Chamber can be of help to the town this fall.

Last week, coupon books were sold in Brownfield without the authorization of the Chamber Board of Directors, and a great deal of disturbance was caused by numerous telephone calls to local residents. The Board of Directors of the Chamber of Commerce refused a permit to coupon peddlers yet many coupons were sold anyway.

The Chamber and Police Department hope to be of assistance to the city in the matter of solicitor control, but if they are to do so, the full cooperation of the public is needed. Officers warn residents to beware of telephone conversations that offer more than the money to be invested, or that ask simple questions for a jack-pot of prizes. Before making purchases from a solicitor or peddler, officials continue, ask for his chamber of commerce permit and a license from the police department.

Solicitation controls are for the protection of the citizens, and persons not complying should be reported to the Police or Chamber. Chamber of Commerce permits do not constitute a recommendation of a product, but are an assurance that a full investigation has been made on the solicitor.

The Police Department requires solicitors receiving partial payment to post bond, and they are finger printed and required to wait a specified time before a license is issued.

The Chamber believes that the many local clubs and organizations who solicit in behalf of the community are worthy, and that such obligations to Brownfield and Terry County should be fulfilled first. They especially warn residents to be sure that solicitors or peddlers do not falsely represent local clubs, businesses, or civic organizations.

Local police and Chamber officials stress their wish to be of service to the people of Brownfield in this matter, and hope the residents will not hesitate to use their services.

TERRY COUNTY AGRICULTURAL CONSERVATION PRACTICES FOR 1953

1. Construction Of Terraces To Control Flow Of Water On Sloping Land

Necessary protective outlets or waterways must be provided and terraces must be constructed to meet the requirements of Soil Conservation Service. Assistance will be given at the rate of 70 per cent of cost, not to exceed $2.00 per hundred feet.

6. Bringing Clod Forming Subsoil To The Surface Of Sandy Cropland To Prevent Wind Erosion

A. Plowing 12 inches but less than 15 inches deep — $2.00 per acre.

B. Plowing 15 inches but less than 18 inches deep — $3.00 per acre.

C. Plowing 18 inches or deeper — $5.00 per acre.

Every Farmer Being Contacted

Every farmer in Terry County is to have an opportunity to cooperate in the 1953 Agricultural Conservation Program through an on-the-farm visit by his local PMA community committeeman, says Riley D. Jones, chairman of the county PMA committee.

He points out that the urgent need to take care of every acre of farm land so that our farms will continue to meet the needs of more and more people makes it essential to move ahead in soil and water conservation. This means conservation on more acres that have not been protected and improved in the past and it means more effective use of conservation measures on all farms.

The Agricultural Conservation Program has proved an effective means of getting farmers to adopt soil and water conservation practices on their farms, the chairman points out. And once practices have become established, it has encouraged shifts to other needed practices. The aim is to use the limited assistance available to encourage and help farmers with those practices which otherwise would not be carried out to the extent and within time necessary to assure the Nation's increasing food needs.

The 1953 Agricultural Conservation Program, he explains, is centered on the most needed conservation on the individual farm and AC assistance will be used only for the most needed practices. The farm-to-farm visits by community committeemen started September 22, and some of the community committeemen have almost completed the work of contacting the farmers. If you have not been contacted, please refer to the list which was in last week's issue of the Herald, to determine who your community committeeman is and get in touch with him as soon as possible.

(This practice will qualify for assistance only on sandy soils where needed as protection against wind erosion; badly hummocked land must be spread before it is plowed; plowing must be done at least 30 days prior to seeding; not applicable on land where assistance was given for the practice under a previous program.)

14. Control Of Bindweed

18. Leveling For Irrigation Land

For Which Water Is Available

(Assistance will be given only for leveling land on which one or more crops have been grown under irrigation; no assistance will be given for carrying out this practice on land for which assistance for leveling was given under a previous program; leveling must be done under the supervision of the designated technician.)

Assistance will be given at the rate of 50 per cent of cost, not to exceed $15.00 per acre.

20. Reorganization Of A Permanent Farm Irrigation System To Conserve Water And Prevent Erosion

Assistance is offered under this practice only for reorganization work on gravity-type systems that have been in operation three years or more.

27. Application Of Phosphate

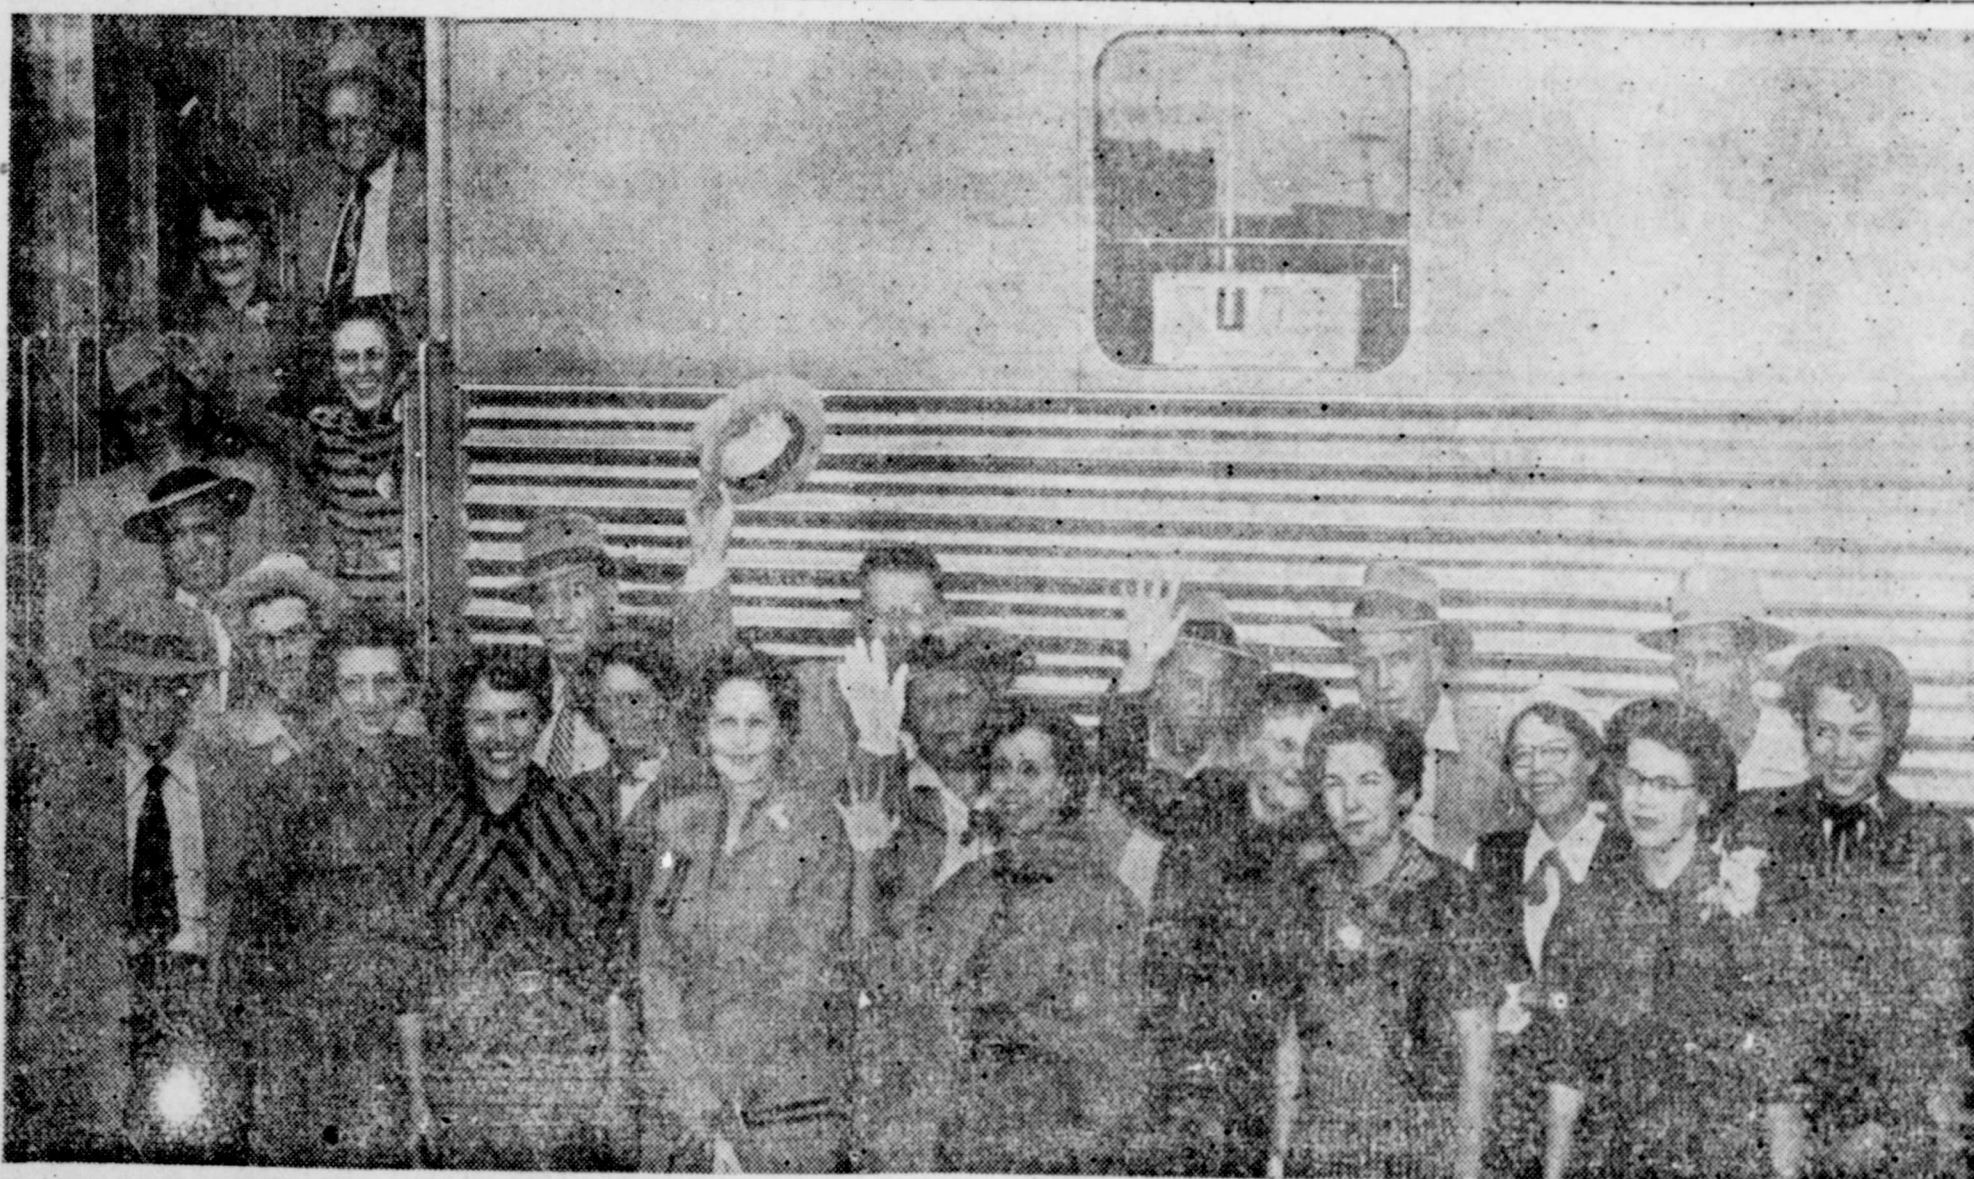

30. Growing a Green Manure Or Cover Crop Of Summer Legumes

31. Establishing A Satisfactory Cover Of Winter Legumes Seeded In The Fall Of 1953

45. Establishing Permanent Pastures By Seeding Adapted Pasture Grasses, Pasture Legumes, Or Mixtures Of Grasses And Legumes

For specifications call at the PMA Office or contact your Community Committeeman.

OFF TO SEE THE WORLD SERIES—When Mr. and Mrs. J. T. Bowman of Brownfield mentioned to some of their friends that they were considering going to the World Series, they didn't know the suggestion would be so popular. But the idea caught fire, and soon there was a pullman coach-load of Brownfield residents eager to go to New York. The group of 23 left from the Santa Fe Railway Depot at 2:30 p. m. Thursday, bound for New York. On the trip, the group plans to include visits to Washington, D. C., Chicago and Niagara Falls. On the steps of the car, upper left, is Ches Gore.

All of us have our headaches, trials and tribulations, and this goes for news distributors just the same as others. They have one thing that is really serious, and that might lose them friends and customers on one hand, and damage them into keeping in line with their franchise with the wholesalers on the other hand. And we are talking about salacious magazines and books that are sometimes found at newsstands. Naturally these questionable books and mags are for sale to all buyers as they come, and of course the young folks, who may be greatly influenced by what they see and read, are a goodly part of the buyers. One organization, the Atlantic Coast Independent Distributors, are trying to do something about the matter, as an organization, and this fact may have a bearing on the wholesale people, who insist on selling all or none. Many of the distributors are good citizens, family men with children growing up, and of course they understand the menace that confronts themselves as well as the public. They do not want to incur the disfavor of their friends and customers by selling obscene literature to their neighbors' boys and girls. Along with the above condition, wholesale and retail news dealers have a legal liability. Only recently one distributor and his wife were indicted by a grand jury for selling obscene literature. Both the distributor and the public should work together as much as possible to eliminate any literature that has a bad influence on the coming generation of citizens.

A new book, "The Texas Revolution," is off the press, and the author of the new book is not a Texan. He is William C. Binkley, head of the history department of Vanderbilt University, Nashville, Tenn. The publishers is the University of Louisiana Press, at Baton Rouge, La. The price is $2.50. Binkley states that the Texas revolution is misunderstood by many who are natives of Texas. He has made a thorough study of the pre-annexation period of Texas. First, he points out the differences in politics, race and culture of the people of Spanish extraction, and that of the English speaking people from the States that came to settle in Texas. Naturally, such things would bring about suspicion and misunderstanding between the two races. Dr. Binkley states that at first the settlers from the United States tried by peaceful means to protect their interests, but their protests were usually ignored by the Mexicans and their government. Also, that their primary purpose was to drive the Mexican troops out of Texas. Then they changed to trying to protect the federal government of Mexico, which should have left local affairs in their own hands. Finally, the object was complete independence of Texas from Mexico. Then lack of agreement by factions of the English speaking population complicated matters not a little. This was true in both the civil and military departments, and became so bad that it threatened the success of the revolution at many stages of the conflict.

Last week the Herald received the front cover and a few advance pages of the forthcoming issue of Time magazine. It is a story about Texas, its traditions and prejudices, as well as a sizeable revolt against Trumanism and his adopted baby, Adlai. The front cover shows Gov. Shivers with a rather grim look on his face, and underneath these words appear: "In the eyes of Texas, a rebel gleam." Another picture showed his honor on a prancing white horse with a broad smile on his face. But this smile faded after his interview with Gov. Stevenson at Springfield, Illinois. After giving Adlai three hours to make up his mind about Texas tidelands, and the Democratic nominee apparently had time to communicate with his big boss at Washington, he had the answer for Gov. Shivers. Of course as we all now know it was the same as that of HST, who no doubt made up Stevenson's mind. And that was that the steal of the tidelands was according to the laws and regulations of the Queer Deal. Shivers had come out from his conference with the Illinois governor three hours before, but that smile had faded the last time he came out. There was the look of a fighter when he emerged the second time. The Time writer goes on to say that "the tidelands will never replace the Alamo in the hearts of Texans, but at certain times when the political leaders of Texas sound as if the two symbols stand for the same thing—and in a way, perhaps they do." Well, why not, both were bought by the blood of Texas heroes during the same year, 1836? And Time magazine had all the whys and wherefores. Unlike Truman, the writer of the article had made a study of the matter, and he related in plain language just how the Texas Republic entered the union—on condition that it retain its public lands.

Your guess as to how Texas will go come November 4th, is as good as anyone's. But we have an idea that if Stevenson carries Texas it will be by a shave of his whiskers. To begin with, on account of the vast natural resources of Texas, particularly oil, natural gas, sulphur and chemicals along the coast, many people have drifted in from the north, usually termed the middle west, and many of them have been Republicans all their lives; perhaps a majority. They, together with the small segment in Texas that has always voted Republican and tens of thousands of disgruntled Democrats, that vote is going to fool some of the boys. Needless to tell you readers that the high Democratic hierarchy of the Truman administration feels some uneasiness. Isn't old Sam Rayburn traversing the state presently to mend fences and rebrand the maverick—not including Maury Maverick of San Antonio, however, as he is a meek and lowly follower of the belled-weather. Are they not holding meetings in various and sundry places over Texas, to tell the "deer peepul" that their job as heads of committees up there at Washington is at stake, and in order to hold them, Texans must swallow the nasty dose and like it. And then they are going to send in "Sweet" Adlai, right in on the heels of the purported visit of Ike to Texas. Well, we guess Adlai will let the "loyal" Democrats all kiss his foot through the hole in his sole that was "took" to show the Steve was a poor man, and couldn't even afford to have his shoes re-soled. We also note that Bro. Sparkman has also worn a hole in his sole—or is it soul—to make things even with his running mate. But it so happens that people read and listen to radio these days, and they are not the ignorant backwoods-men the politicians appear to think. They know that Stevenson inherited a fortune from his family who lived in California. And Bro. Sparkman is no high road tramp himself, although he has his wife employed at a high salary as one of his clerks at Washington—taxpayers' expense, to be sure. Yep, the "loyal to Truman" crowd know they have to work, promise and threaten, to carry Texas for "Sweet" Adlai.

Well, dog our buttons! That little investigation of Nixon like to have backfired too hard to suit some of the mink coat lover boys. A lot of people perhaps don't know just how all that investigation stuff started. To give you a short briefing, it was started by a writer of the (N. Y.) Post, whose editor was known to be a member of the Communist Youth movement back in the thirties, but who plays a silent fiddle presently. Yet it is a well known fact that his sympathies still lay with Uncle Joe's land, and that many of his employees are communists. Governor Stevenson and many other leading National Democrats knew this from the beginning, and they tried like heck to keep the investigation silenced. They knew the matter would not stop with Nixon, and it didn't. Fact is, almost before the ink got dry on the demands of the Democratic bureaucracy to investigate the $12,000 expense fund some California friends had given Nixon for his frequent trips across the continent to deliver addresses, and check on political matters with home folks, or to journey somewhere to lecture on the communes that were in some of the governmental offices, it came to light that Gov. Stevenson had also been receiving such donations. These funds given by wealthy Illinois friends of Stevenson, were used to augment the salaries of many of his appointive officers, who could draw more money in private business. They, of course, tried with might and main to stop the investigation in its tracks, but it had already gotten out of hand. But instead of making a clean breast of the matter as did Senator Nixon, Stevenson took the attitude that it was none of the nation's d-n business, to use some of Truman's diplomatic language. To our notion, Stevenson has no idea of ever telling how much money was received for this fund, or how it was used. That's the reason we are saying the whole idea backfired on the National Democratic party. If you ask us, $12,000 is no more than a pocket of pebbles to that Washington crowd. Now, if it had been $12 million, or $12 billion, you might have been talking in their language.

It is right amusing the capers the Hon. Adlai Stevenson and his running mate, the Hon. Johnny Jackson Sparkman, of old Alabama, are cutting to attract voters. Johnny, too, has worn a hole in the bottom of his sole, crack-

Noted Economist Claims Government Provoked, Prolonged Steel Strike

Reviewing the history of the recent steel strike in the Sept. 22 issue of The Freeman, Columbia University Professor Leo Wolman charged "there is convincing evidence that what the federal government did during all stages of the steel labor controversy succeeded in provoking, instead of averting, the strike and prolonged it once it was ordered."

"This," the noted economist added, "has been an episode marked by mistaken public policy, uninformed and incendiary statements by public officials, and by what the record suggests to be open disregard for the public interest."

Writing on "Lessons of the Steel Strike," Wolman claimed that the "not inconsiderable" political power of many unions has caused politicians and the government "to replace bargaining and negotiation with the various forms of intervention which are at the government's disposal."

He further predicted "extensive regulation of the practices and policies of private business" as well as compulsory arbitration of labor disputes if the government's present labor policies are long continued.

The administration's anxiety to lend its assistance to organized labor has made negotiated contracts difficult to arrive at, Wolman stated, because large unions find it profitable to appeal for governmental intervention and support. "More often than not," unions call a strike "to force a government ing stage jokes, and cuttin' the pigeon wing on the stage. But that's about all the poor boys can do. They can't get serious about this matter of graft and corruption in government, and an undeclared war that has been going on over two years, and has taken a toll of 117,000 of our young men. The boss, presently in the White House is giving the orders. The last getoff the chest coming from Sparkman is "I understand Eisenhower is putting his remarks together in a book called 'The Egg and I'." Now that is a far flung contradiction of Sparkman's speech of no longer than July 4, 1948, when Sparkman called on Eisenhower, saying we (Democrats) don't seem to have a leader, and in a radio address allowed himself to draft Ike for the presidency. But what we want to see above all others, is that sometime before election, we want to see Stevenson and Sparkman together on the same platform or stage, address the people on what is their own interpretation on Civil Rights. That would be worth missing a meal to hear. To our notion it is going to take something better than two Jokers to get our nation out of the putrid mess it presently is in, and we don't think it is a joking matter. And we just can't believe that our people are so complacent that they want present conditions to go on. The Presidency, to our notion, is a job for staid, level headed men—not jokers. Let us have men in the top places of our government, who know the country is in a serious condition with inflation, war, high taxes and men in appointive offices that should be in the pen.

The period from October 5-11 has been designated as National Fire Prevention Week. Will it be observed on your farm and in your community?

It's poor business to try to build a wall between labor and capital. Both should feel they are a team—and teamwork never fails.

● Latest records in the Official Used-Car Guide of the National Automobile Dealers Association show that '51 Packards bring up to hundreds of dollars more than cars of competitive original cost. Packard's higher resale value stems directly from the fast-growing nationwide demand for Packards. Outstanding advantages such as advanced contour styling and big-car luxury at medium-car cost have made the great 1952 Packard this year's "hot car"!

● Only Packard gives you the flashing performance of the world's highest-compression eight—Ultramatic, the smoothest automatic drive—and proved Packard Power Brakes for quicker, easier stops. Remember, "Built like a Packard" means built to last!

G. I. QUESTIONS and ANSWERS

Q—I have just been discharged from the WAVES, and I plan to go to school under the Korean GI Bill. I am married and my husband earns a nice salary. We have no children. May I claim him as a dependent and receive a higher rate of GI education allowance?

A—No. So long as your husband is not actually dependent upon you, you may not claim him as a dependent for GI allowance purposes.

Q—I realize I'm allowed to make only one change of course under the Korean GI Bill training provisions. But is there any limit on the number of times I can change schools, without changing my course?

A—The law places no limit on the number of times you may change schools, without changing your course. Before you change schools, however, you must apply to the VA for a supplemental certificate, authorizing you to continue training in your new school.

Q—I have a $10,000 National Service Life Insurance term policy that is about to expire. I plan to renew $5,000 as term insurance. If I change my mind some time in the future, and want to renew the remainder of my insurance, may I do so—even though the expiration date will have passed?

A—No. The amount of insurance not renewed will terminate at the expiration of the term period, and may not be reinstated at any time thereafter.

Bargain Furniture Not Always Cheapest

College Station — Before buying furniture, it's a good idea to know the pieces needed and approximately what the budget will allow. Bernice Claytor, home management specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, suggests the study of magazines, visits to furnished homes and securing the advice of competent persons before the final decisions are made.

Mrs. Claytor also advises the examination of the construction of each piece before buying. Some construction features can be judged by looking at the underside of the furniture. For example, corner blocks are usually visible. These are the triangular pieces screwed to the rails which support the seat or table top. If they are not there, it indicates inferior construction.

Look carefully at the back posts of chairs, legs of beds, tables and cabinets. Make sure they are strong and stand squarely on the floor. Notice if there are possibilities of splits in the wood.

Assurance is given by the specialists that drawers in well-made pieces of furniture do not stick. The action is quick, easy, and quiet. Best drawers have center slides in the bottom and are dovetailed in the front and back, not nailed together.

Mrs. Claytor lists other general suggestions to follow when buying furniture: plan ahead, even though you only buy one piece at a time; have complete measurement of floor and wall space so

THIS WEEK IN Washington

By WALTER SHEAD

POLITICAL observers are shy about making predictions as to the final outcome of this election. For some reason they keep harking back to 1948 when about 99 percent of these experts predicted the election of Thomas E. Dewey and President Truman upset the political apocryph.

And while this column also is wary of making any predictions at this stage of the campaign, we are in disagreement with most of the so-called dopesters in that we do not believe this election will be close when the electoral votes are counted. It will be a sweeping victory one way or another.

Either General Eisenhower will be swept into office with a smashing victory carrying with him some of the southern states . . . or else Governor Adlai Stevenson of Illinois will win hands-down one of the biggest electoral college votes in history.

The people will decide they want a sweeping change for like. Or they will declare, "Adlai is enough change for me."

One way or another, the presidency this year will carry with it a complete House and Senate, although there is a chance that the Democrats, with 35 senate seats safe and without contest and six more seats—Rhode Island, Virginia, Tennessee, Florida, Mississippi and Texas—contested but also considered safe, might possibly control the Senate even with a Republican sweep otherwise.

Only uncertain Democratic senate seats are New Mexico, where the veteran Dennis Chavez, Democrat, is opposed by Republican Patrick Hurley; Arizona, where the veteran Ernest McFarland is opposed; Wyoming, where veteran Joseph O'Mahoney battles Republican governor Frank Barrett; Michigan, where freshman Senator Blair Moody is opposed by less war veteran GOP congressman Charles E. Potter; Maryland, where George Mahoney, the Democratic nominee, is opposed by Republican congressman J. Glenn Beall; Connecticut, where two Democratic seats are at stake as Republican William A. Purtell opposes Democratic Senator William Benton and a contest is on for the seat of the late Senator Brian McMahon.

Republicans have only 26 sure seats without contests and six other seats reasonably sure, in California, North Dakota, Nebraska, Maine, Vermont and Delaware. But they have 14 seats which are uncertain, including Senator William Jenner in Indiana where Democratic Governor Schricker is his opponent; Ken in Missouri where the Democratic opposition is Stuart Symington, former National Resources Board and RFC boss; Massachusetts, where Senator Henry Cabot Lodge has tough opposition in Democratic John Kennedy, son of former Ambassador Joseph Kennedy; Ohio, where Senator John Bricker is up against ram-paging Mike DiSalle, former price stabilizer; Washington, where Senator Cain is opposed by Democratic congressman Henry M. Jackson; Montana, where GOP Zales Ecton is opposed by popular Democratic Congressman Mike Mansfield in normally Democratic territory; Nevada, where GOP Senator George Malone may be in trouble; Utah, where Senator Arthur Watkins must oppose Congressman Walter Granger; Wisconsin, where Senator Joseph McCarthy has determined opposition and Minnesota, where Edward J. Thye also faces hot Democratic competition. So the Republicans must hold all present seats and gain three to control the Senate.

One thing is sure in this campaign about which there has been considerable effort to build-up . . . there is NO breach between Governor Stevenson and President Truman despite the efforts of some writers to make believe. As a matter of fact President Truman is given credit with being too shrewd a politician not to let Stevenson have his head and the spotlight in this campaign. Stevenson is virtually an unknown in politics, insofar as the voters are concerned. He is running against the most glamorous personality the GOP could muster, and President Truman knows that to win, Stevenson must be built up.

GOOD HEALTH

WHAT IS A COMMUNITY SELF-SURVEY OF HEALTH FACILITIES?
IS LEPROSY CURABLE?
3. HOW SERIOUS IS NOSE-BLEED?

Answer to Question No. 1: These community self-surveys are the method by which the people themselves study what local health facilities and services they have as a first step toward improving community health conditions where the need is indicated. These surveys, which are being used in an increasing number of communities throughout the United States, are conducted with a maximum participation of the community. Factors studied are frequently family life, school, industrial and rural health, health of the aged and dependents, dental health, hospital care, nursing and sanitation.

Answer to Question No. 2: Leprosy, now called Hansen's disease after the discoverer of the bacillus which causes this dreaded illness, was until recently incurable. Use of a new drug, first tried out in the United States in 1943, has produced striking results and shortened the previously long, drawn-out treatment. The number of people being returned to useful lives from the desolation of the leper colony is mounting steadily, and some experts predict that within 10 to 15 years the disease will be controlled.

Answer to Question No. 3: In most instances nose-bleed is not serious and it usually stops after a short time even without treatment. It is most commonly caused by a local condition of blood vessels in the nose. However, blows on the nose, infections, new growths, etc. can also cause bleeding. Frequently a severe nasal bleeding may require medical care. Call your doctor. (Copyright 1951 by Health Information Foundation)

Mrs. Ellen Rogers Visiting Son, Phillip

Mrs. Ellen Rogers, of Middleton, Tenn. is here visiting her son, Phillip and family of the Harmony community. She came out with Sgt. Carl Luttrell, and wife, who are located at the Roswell Air Base, Roswell, N. M. Luttrell is a nephew of Mrs. Rogers, and they had been on a visit to their old home town. The Luttrells went on to Roswell, as his furlough was about up.

Mrs. Rogers is a first cousin of the Old He, and after church services, Sunday, the Rogerses and Stricklins all gathered together at the Senior Stricklin home, for a fairly good repast, if we do say it. Don't exactly know where all the chuck came from, but there it was.

Always like to get with Ellen, as we spent quite some time off at school in our boyhood where we learned the printer's trade as well as how to finger, read and write. Then at the age of 20, we pulled out for Texas, and was never in the old New Hope community much after childhood days.

So, she can tell us a lot of the things that happened as she never got very far from the old stamping grounds, such as who married whom, when this, that and the other died, or where What's moved off to and we lost trace of them.

Ellen lost her companion, Will Rogers, on the 26th of July, and we made the sad trip back there with Phillip and family at that time.

Many Got In Under The Wire

Not a few of the readers got in under the wire on the old rate in the past month, and many of them the last days of September, as the new rate went into effect the first of October. Among them was the smiling countenance of R. E. Townzen, whose last name we can never remember from Adam's off-steer.

But it doesn't make him sore to have to tell his name. He knows we are getting aged and forgetful. But by heck he'll be 72 also, come December, he told us.

Others were D. P. Carter, city, 3 years; Preston Murphy, Tokio, 3 years; Charles Auburg, Plain, 3 years; Mrs. L. T. Anderson, Tokio, 1 year; Townzen, 3 years, and B. W. Weaver, Long Branch, Ind., 1 year; Robert C. Tieucl, 3 years.

By the way, Robert C. Tieucl, principal of the Wheatley colored school, says the pronunciation of his name is "Towell," and he so ran an ad, recently. Just where Robert got that French sounding name, we don't know. Maybe down in old Louisiana.

Notice To Farmers

Your attention is called to the following provisions of the Penal Code of this state:

1. All trailer, including farm trailers, must have one lighted red lamp mounted on the rear AND must also have two red reflectors on the rear, one at each side of such trailer.

2. Also, the law provides that only one trailer may be towed behind any tractor or motor vehicle.

THE PROVISIONS OF THIS LAW WILL BE ENFORCED. TEXAS HIGHWAY PATROL

Among new readers the past few days were E. W. Liles, of Redlands, California, formerly of Brownfield; Kenneth Pendergrass, Meadow; Willie Hyman, Rt. 2, city, and Ralph Carter, now of Lubbock. Got Ralph in for three years for nine bucks.

CRESCENT HILL CHURCH OF CHRIST

T. J. Finley, Evangelist

A fine audience was present for both services of the church last Sunday with 331 reported present for Bible study. Brother Finley spoke at both services. At the morning hour, "They Made Light Of It"; and in the evening "We Should Give The More Earnest Heed To The Things Which We Have Heard Lest At Any Time We Should Let Them Slip." J. R. Chisholm, one of the Elders of the Crescent Hill Congregation gave a report on his recent trip to Washington. He met with men from other sections of the country in Washington to discuss the problems which have arisen over the recent closing of the churches in Italy.

In this group were two Attorneys, one from Rome, Italy, and the other from San Angelo, Texas. Their purpose in the nation's capital was to present the facts on the Italian situation to the State Department. They were able to confer with the Assistant Secretary of State for about an hour and a half. They pointed out that our men are to be guaranteed the same privileges in Italy as their people enjoy here. They also showed how the Italians have gone back to an old law made by Benito Mussolini in 1929, to force the churches closed in Italy. According to the present constitution in Italy, provisions are made for freedom of thought and religion, and the recent police action is a violation of their own constitution. The State Department assured these men that they will do all within their power to clear the matter up and stated that there is a strong probability that a decision would be reached within two weeks.

Sunday evening, October 4th, there will be a report on the work of the church in Canada. Orville Miller and Glen Paden, Jr., who were sent to Canada by the church to aid in mission work will both speak. This promises to be a very interesting and inspiring report by these young men.

Two Grand For A Bale Of Cotton

Brownfield papers are still bragging about the "record price" — $851 — a farmer got out of the first bale at Plains.

It was a record price except for one exception—the more than $2,000 Dean McPherson got for the first bale in Denver City.

If the Brownfield papers mentioned that, we overlooked it.

—Denver City Press

Well, it's been mentioned now, Bro. Watson, though a bit late. When D. C. has been putting prizes for the first bale for 30 years or more, perhaps they'll drop some, too. Even Lubbock didn't pay $2,000.

So, just take that ice pack off your fevered brow, David, and take things easy, even though the weather has cooled a bit.

Stricklinly Speaking

By OLD HE

Our little granddaughter, Sara Beth, pulled a fast one on the Old He recently while at Snyder. With her mother and "mammy" out shopping, she decided she wanted to buy some nuts for Pop Pop—that's us. Evidently thought Pop Pop a bit nutty over nuts, but we seldom eat them.

Never can tell what a child will do. And, at a hazard of making readers, if any, think we believe our grandchildren the smartest, and every grandparent does, we'll relate another. Master Robert, a 4 year old grandson, was given a dollar bill by the Old He to get a haircut. Instead, he slipped it into his cash register, and is still minus a haircut.

George Alexander—just Alex to most of us—of northwest Terry, was in last week to get his name plate for his rural box, his being among the last we will order. And of course, we always have to have a gumfest with Alex, and we sorta hinted for a visit to his place.

In fact, we told him that we wanted to see how his oil wells smell—if they had any stronger odor than C. W. Collins' wells smell. He invited us out and said we'd visit one of them and test its stinkability. When we do, we will tell the readers which one outstunk. But he did not mention a thing about a T-bone steak he has in that old deep freezer of his.

The leftist organization, American for Democratic Action, (ADA), is supporting Adlai. Also such other minority factions as AFL, CIO-PAC, along with the Negroes in the large northern cities, it is time for us old unorganized Independents, Democrats and Republicans to sit up and take notice. If these selfish organizations win, where will us common ordinary citizens be?

But will all the labor union men vote for Stevenson? In the picture of the assembly of AFL in convention, despite the fact that President William Green announced that AFL was unanimously supporting Stevenson, the picture showed that fully a third did not stand.

And we remember two years ago, all the labor union bosses were against Taft for re-election, and that they spent millions of dollars with a lot of outside help to defeat Taft. But Taft was re-elected overwhelmingly, and this could not have happened without a lot of labor votes, in the state of Ohio, as that state is a manufacturing state, and has a lot of union laborers.

Speaking of the ADA above, reminds us that we got all wound up and nowhere to go the past week, reading some stuff we got in the mail. The initials ADA appeared on the stuff, and while we throw a lot of such propaganda in the nearby wastebasket with a glance, we just decided to read a bit, and get some of the arguments the Stalin sympathizers put out.

Well, we began to read that milk was a good food, as well as many of the milk by-products like butter, cheese and cottage cheese. Heck, we thought to ourself, those boys must be softening up. Then we looked over on the other side of the folder, and whatyaknow, it was the American Dairy Association, (ADA). So, we are begging the pardon of the dairymen for what we thought we were reading, as well as the comparison.

Just for a little mental exercise, let's just ask ourselves this one: "Who do you suppose Joe Stalin had rather see elected President of the USA, Adlai or Ike?" According to reports of those in the large eastern cities who see Russian papers, Ike didn't get a vote. We suppose that is one bunch that Ike doesn't want supporting him, and don't like Ike.

There ought to be a law—and we mean it. For the past several years we have read that numerous children over the USA had closed themselves in old refrigerator boxes, and suffocated, or that some of their companions had innocently closed the door on them, which can only be opened from the outside, with fatal results.

Anyway, there is too much of that stuff. About two years ago, we saw an old abandoned refrigerator box in the outskirts of Cross Plains, and last week, we saw one in Snyder, not over a block from the home of our children and grandchild. Of course, little Sara B. is too small to be rambling around, and beside Herman has erected a fence in the back yard. But there are other children in the neighborhood, perhaps not so fortunate as to be protected by a fence.

Those old boxes should be dismembered or put where children cannot get to them. One child died and another was dangerously near death from one of these traps in California last week. A heavy fine would probably stop people from having these death traps around.

Our hearty congratulations go out to the Kiwanis Club, in cooperation with the Jones Theatres, in taking the lead in celebration of National Kids Day. There are so many days and weeks to be celebrated these days, that most of us can't begin to keep up with them. But at least we could forget some, for instance, the week "to prevent DDT spraying of blind spiders," etc., and remember such days at National Kid Day. Anyway, the youngsters got to see a thriller, and we hope they enjoyed it as much as the Kiwanis and Jones Theatres did in putting it on for the amusement of the little folks.

It is a great idea to show these future Americans that our nation is proud of them, and expect them to carry on as we older ones leave off. Parents should also try to impress upon these young minds, that the show was in their honor, and for their own special amusement.

As a usual thing, it is in the homes where the small fry get no attention that the juvenile delinquents later appear, and instead of a show and amusement, they are haled into juvenile court to answer for some crime, minor, perhaps, but just a lead to worse crimes as they grow older.

When we cast our ballots on November 4, we will register our choice between two political parties. But this terrifically important step, which no American citizen can afford to neglect, will not automatically solve our problems for us.

In these times, the obligation to vote carries with it the obligation to embark upon a long range "follow-up" campaign such as this nation has rarely if ever engaged in before.

We Americans can never have a genuinely representative government until our representatives in Congress actually represent us in fact. They can never do that until we are able to tell them clearly what we want them to do for us. And we can never tell them clearly, until we have made up our minds ourselves.

Now, more than ever, we must remember that political parties do NOT lead. They follow; and they follow what they think the public wants.

So, after we have determined which party is to administer our affairs, we must keep on and tell that party very clearly what we want done. To do this we must first get clear in our own minds just what the fundamental national problems are. Then we must reach our own individual decisions on what should be done about them, and we must make our decisions known to the new President and the new Congress.

Obviously, no matter who wins the election, most of the major problems we face today will still be around to plague us.

For example, the powerful Russian state and the vicious international conspiracies of the Communist Party are not going to disappear just because the United States has held an election. Methods of defense, and the cost of defense, will still be problems—and much too big to be left solely in the hands of elected officials.

And, as long as defense remains a major concern, we will probably continue to have a distorted economy in which government spending will play an abnormally large part.

These are but a few of the issues we shall have to grapple with.

Moreover, whenever we elect, the fact will remain, that both major political parties are so divided and sub-divided that a majority vote for either one of them is not necessarily a clear order from the people. We will vote either Republican or Democratic because we prefer one of the parties on the whole and not because we accept everything in its platform.

In the next Congress, as in past Congresses, some northern Republicans will continue to vote with the Democrats on some issues, as international affairs; and some southern Democrats will continue to vote with the Republicans on certain domestic issues.

Consequently, when the excitement of this election is all over, the people of America will still have to grapple with their problems, one by one; make up their minds on definite steps to be taken, one by one; and get action in Congress through steady and continual contact with their Senators and Congressmen, regardless of political affiliation.

We can't preserve free enterprise and make it work at its effective best just by casting a vote to elect some George and saying, "Let George do it."

We will have to "do it" ourselves. And it will take hard thought and hard work.

In inflation your dollar is drawn and quartered.

Competition is the life of the OIL BUSINESS

The demand for oil increases every year.

Americans need more oil for more automobiles, for more airplanes, more ships, more high speed locomotives and more of many things besides.

And just as one merchant competes with another for your business, oil companies compete for it, too—for the gallons of gasoline and quarts of motor oil you buy; to supply the ships, the locomotives, the industries, the airplanes.

The competition is intense, and it spreads throughout the industry. Oil companies compete with each other to find and produce more oil. Pipe line companies vie with each other to develop low cost transportation. Refineries compete to supply more and better oil products. Salesmen compete on the basis of quality products and the service rendered.

It's a good thing, this competition, a healthy thing. It is the life of the oil business; it keeps the industry vigorous, progressive, enterprising.

But its chief benefit is to you and other Americans. Competition within the oil industry discovers and develops a natural resource necessary not only to modern living but to national defense. It supplies you and the country with continuously improved petroleum products; today, two gallons of gasoline do work that required three in 1925; but the gasoline costs no more than it did then.

Indiana Man Wants Column By Co. Agent

One of our subscribers who lives at Long Branch, Indiana, sent in his renewal last week. And we might say that some of the Weavers, who originated over in Ohio, we believe, have been readers of the Herald for the full 43 years we have guided the more or less uneven destiny of the Herald.

But in that letter, the reader, Mr. Weaver, makes this suggestion: "May I suggest that you persuade your county agricultural agent to contribute regularly to your paper? Such a column should be of much interest to all land owners in Terry County." What about it, Mr. Poy?

We believe that the articles that Mr. Loe Miller is presently contributing will also prove interesting to our farm owners. The Herald is ready and willing to print them.

Double Troubles Hit Carter Family

Troubles have been "coming double" for the Paul W. Carter family the past few weeks.

The Carters moved here August 25, from Childress, but since they were planning to buy a home in Brownfield, they had not yet moved their furniture and household goods here. On September 19, firemen at Childress contacted Mr. Carter to notify him that their house in Childress and its entire contents had been destroyed by fire.

That in itself was bad enough, but to make matters worse, Saturday, September 20, Mrs. Carter discovered that her purse was missing. It contained $40 in cash and pictures of their four children.

Of course, the money was important, and the Carters would appreciate having it returned to them, but since the fire, the pictures of the children are the only ones they have, and they are particularly anxious to get them back. The address in the purse was: Mrs. Paul W. Carter, 501 North-east Avenue, Childress. Anyone having information concerning it, or knowing its whereabouts, is asked to contact the Carters at 420 East Broadway, here in Brownfield.

Dr. T. H. McIlroy and Dr. Gordon E. Richardson were at Throckmorton lake fishing over the weekend. Dr. McIlroy reports the lake very low, but they caught a few fish.

Billy Hyman, son of Mr. and Mrs. Willie Hyman, Rt. 2, is now located at Camp Chaffee, Ark. Billy left here the tenth of September for Fort Sill, Okla., separation center for this area.

NEW GMC TRUCK TO BE SHOWN AT STATE FAIR

PONTIAC, MICH., Sept. 29—A new medium-duty GMC truck with the same high compression engine used in the latest Army 6x6 tactical military truck will feature an exhibit of twelve GMC trucks at the Texas State Fair at Dallas, Oct. 4 through 19. The GMC model is called the 472-30, a highway tractor whose 302 cubic inch gasoline engine, developing 145 horsepower, will make it a center of interest to truckers who want high power, light weight and heavy hauling capacity. The model is rated at 21,000 lbs., gross vehicle weight and 45,000 lbs., gross combination weight, as a truck or highway tractor, respectively.

The engine in the GMC 472-30 weighs only 545 pounds, and is the lightest for its power of any in the trucking industry. Its compression ratio is 7.2 to 1, highest in the industry for a truck engine, and it operates on standard gasoline.

High Time!

It was heartening to note that the recent Governor's Conference in Houston, Texas, passed a resolution urging "complete withdrawal" by the Federal government from the field of gasoline taxation "as soon as may be consistent with the needs of national defense."

The AAA has long championed the idea that Uncle Sam leave the matter of gasoline taxes up to the states. Perhaps, the action by the governors is a harbinger of things to come. Let's hope so.

The Federal government has used the poor motorist as a fiscal scapegoat for long enough.
