Compromise Farm Measure Prepared

Constitutionality Of TVA Is Upheld By Federal Judges

Ruling Declares Competition Of Unit 'Lawful'

Injunction Suit Brought By 18 Private Utilities Dismissed; PWA Conspiracy Is Denied

(By The Associated Press)

CHATTANOOGA, Tenn., Jan. 21.—Tennessee Valley Authority competition with private power companies was upheld as "lawful" by a three-judge federal court here today.

The court dismissed an injunction suit by 18 utilities which challenged constitutionality of the TVA act on grounds that the authority's low rates would destroy them, rendering property worthless without just compensation.

Have No Immunity

"These complainants have no immunity from lawful competition," said the ruling, "even if their business be curtailed or destroyed."

APPEAL TO BE FILED

NEW YORK, Jan. 21. (AP)—Attorneys for the 18 private utility companies affected by the decision of the federal court at Chattanooga, upholding legality of the Tennessee Valley Authority's power program, announced tonight the decision will be appealed to the United States Supreme court.

Presiding Judge Florence Allen of the sixth circuit court of appeals read the decision which closed a hearing begun last Nov. 15.

Other members of the court were District Federal Judges John J. Gore and John D. Martin of Tennessee.

Judge Allen, reading the decision, said TVA records established that the agency's orders governing operation of Norris dam have for their purpose the maintaining of the flow at Wilson dam at Muscle Shoals, Ala., which she said was legal.

No Unlawful Competition

Judge Allen also said the court had decided there was no unlawful competition with private utilities by the TVA.

"We find lawful allurement of customers by lawful but substantially lower prices," she said.

Also, the jurist added, there was no coercion of municipalities to buy TVA power. She said that had not been established in the record.

The judge declared there had been

Police Officials At Hobbs Ousted

(By The Associated Press)

HOBBS, N. M., Jan. 21.—A crime wave appeared to have been nipped today following a drastic shakeup in Hobbs' police administration.

Declaring a quasi state of emergency the city council ousted Police Chief Sam Young and Police Judge J. L. Emerson, appointing Traffic Officer Sam Cooley acting police head and naming T. L. Fin as police judge.

Roundup Is Staged

A roundup of all suspicious characters within the city was under way tonight, and police said others had already taken voluntary leave.

Fingerprinting of all persons suspected of criminal connections was likewise under way in an effort to solve a recent wave of robberies and burglaries which have netted thieves more than $5,000.

The council also ordered a halt in suspension of jail sentences and directed the new police judge to impose sentences involving work upon Hobbs streets.

Chimes Of Church Go Haywire And Neighbors Wake Up Early

CHICAGO, Jan. 21. (AP)—Residents of the Woodlawn district rubbed sleepy eyes early today and wondered whether the clocks, the calendars or their senses were playing tricks on them.

The chimes of the First Presbyterian church boomed loudly and steadily through several hymns. Someone called the police. They called the sexton, Paul R. Creamer, who discovered that in some unexplained manner a roller of six records had started automatically in the church's automatic chime system.

He halted the mechanism. The police returned to the stations. The neighbors went back to sleep.

Anders Described As Cold Blooded, Ruthless Killer

George Kukovac (above) delivered the $50,000 ransom demanded by Charles Ross' kidnapers, at a designated spot near Rockford, Ill., Oct. 8.

(By The Associated Press)

ST PAUL, Jan. 21.—J. Edgar Hoover, director of the Federal Bureau of Investigation, tonight described Peter Anders, held for the kidnap killing of Charles S. Ross of Chicago and an accomplice, as "the most cold blooded, ruthless and atrocious killer" ever encountered by the bureau.

Hoover said the 30-year-old former lumberjack who was arrested near Los Angeles last Friday was a man of "vicious moods", who executed the kidnaping on a savage impulse of the moment.

Intended To Pull A Robbery

Anders and his ally in the deed, James Atwood Gray, 20, who was slain by the confessed killer along with Ross, intended to commit a robbery in Chicago the night of Sept. 25.

"Anders told us that instead he felt the impulse to kidnap," Hoover said.

Hoover disclosed Anders Made a futile break for freedom from the federal agent to whom he was chained after the bodies of Ross and Gray were located in a shallow grave in wild brush land near Spooner, Wis.

Was Quickly Subdued

"Suddenly Anders raised his arms and brought them down on the agent to whom he was chained. There was no possible chance of his escaping, and we quickly subdued him," Hoover said.

Hoover said Anders, when asked why he attempted the escape with the odds against him, replied: "I would have been foolish, I thought, not to have made some attempt to escape."

Faces Death Penalty

Hoover said Anders would be moved to Chicago for prosecution under the Lindbergh law—carrying a maximum penalty of death upon conviction.

Discovery of the bodies substantiated the confession of Anders but one discrepancy appeared. The prisoner said an examination showed Ross apparently died of a fractured skull. A hammer was found near his body.

At the same time, Anders story of abducting John and Olivia Bor-

HOUSTON, Jan. 21. (AP)—Officials of the company operating the Nantucket Chief, American tanker reported seized by Spanish insurgents, said here today the crew was safe and would be released within two or three days.

Henry Schrieber, representing L. J. Walsh, an official of the Nantucket Gulf Steamship company, said a message from New York offices of the company bore the information.

Walsh said Wednesday night when news of the reported seizure was received, he understood the ship was being taken to Majorca, and the crew would be released after the cargo was confiscated.

The crew is made up largely of Port Arthur seamen.

HUSBAND SHOOTS WIFE

MADISONVILLE, Jan. 21. (AP) — A charge of murder was filed here today against Dr. B. H. Carter, 55, a dentist, after a shooting in front of a cafe in which his wife was killed.

Dr. Carter was in jail suffering from a slight head wound.

Sheriff Joe A. Batson said Mrs. Carter was shot as she walked from the cafe, and died instantly.

Batson said he was informed that after the woman was shot Carter walked to the home of J. M. Day, an undertaker, called to him, and a moment later fired a shot which inflicted the head wound.

to the criminal courts building and surrendered to Deputy Sheriff Max Frank.

In an inquest statement to Justice Marvin Beaty, the elder Haynes said, "I had been waiting in the hall. When he got off the elevator he waved his coat at me and I thought he was going to shoot. I took my pistol and fired. I don't know how many times."

The elder Haynes at one time traveled vaudeville circuits with a clairvoyance act.

No reason for the shooting was advanced.

Bomb Is Recovered From Waters Near Where Jap Liner Docked

SEATTLE, Jan. 21. (AP)—Two hundred sticks of dynamite, 28 fuses and a mechanical device for setting it off—enough explosives, police said, to blow up two ships—were found in a bomb recovered under the Great Northern dock near the liner Hiye Maru when it was opened today.

Detective Lieutenants Walter J. O'Brien and F. A. Himes, said preliminary examination indicated water leaking into the suitcase bomb prevented it from exploding at 1:30 a. m. yesterday.

It was at that hour, the officers said they were told, that Ralph M. Forsyth had planned to explode it beside the Japanese liner.

They said the plot was reported to them by George Partridge, 22, companion of Forsyth, who drowned.

Automobile Men Talk With FDR On Problems

Cooperation Is Pledged In Plan To Restrict Installment Buying And Stabilizing Employment

(By The Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, Jan. 21.—Top men at the great automobile industry pledged President Roosevelt their cooperation today in restricting installment sales credit and stabilizing employment.

They exchanged ideas with the chief executive, agreeing with him that "high pressure" methods of selling cars were bad and that no one should be permitted to assume an obligation beyond his means. Incidentally, they reported an expectation of better business in the spring.

Realization Of Proposal

To all intents and purposes, the meeting was a realization of Mr. Roosevelt's proposal that the leading men of individual industries assemble with representatives of the government to discuss the problems of each industry as a whole.

Present were Edsel Ford, William S. Knudsen, president of General Motors, and Alvan Macauley, president of Packard. Walter P. Chrysler could not attend personally, but sent K. T. Keller, president of the Chrysler Motor company, and B. E. Hutchinson, chairman of its finance committee.

Credit Men Attend

In addition, the conference was attended by leaders of credit companies which specialize in financing automobile purchases—A. E. Duncon, president of the Commercial Credit company; John J. Schumann, jr., president of the General Motors Acceptance corporation; Henry Ittleson, president of the Commercial Investment Trust, and Ernest Kanzler, president of the Universal Credit company.

Macauley, who also is president of the Automobile Manufacturers association, acted as spokesman to reporters, reading a statement upon which all who attended had agreed.

Hope For Spring Increase

"We had a broad discussion affecting business and government and we believe it was very helpful," he said. "We reported to the president that we were hopeful a seasonal increase in sales in the spring will bring improvement in business.

"We found ourselves in hearty agreement with the president's principles on the subject of installment selling. Properly used, installment buying has helped and

Stiff Sentence Given Government Clerk

WASHINGTON, Jan. 21. (AP)—Reno E. Stitely, government clerk who embezzled more than $84,000 by cashing checks made out to dummy workers on CCC projects, drew a sentence of 6 to 12 years in federal prison and a fine of $36,000 today.

The fine was the stiffest possible under the statutes. The government will try to collect it by attaching any property of Stitely's.

Recently an investigator's report, read before a senate committee, said Stitely had bought a $12,000 home, a new automobile every year since the fraud began, had banked more than $70,000, and dealt in stock.

The committee was told Stitely had been "liquidating" his holdings and that none of the government's money had yet been recovered.

Niagara Struggles In Winter's Icy Grip

LOVE gets a mighty cold reception at this time of year at Niagara Falls, N. Y., mecca of honey-mooners. The rushing torrent is turned into a spectacle of icy grandeur by winter's frigid magic. Gigantic icicles hang from the rocks at the side and winds waft frozen spray over the few hardy spectators who venture to the edge of the gorge. But the cold has not yet stilled the roar of the main stream.

Southerners Determined To Talk Lynch Bill To Death Despite Night Sessions

(By The Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, Jan. 21.—Southern senators reiterated today their determination to talk the anti-lynching bill to death despite a call by Senate Majority Leader Barkley (D.-Ky.) for energy-sapping night sessions.

Barkley—apparently seeking to break the filibuster which Southerners have waged 14 days—told the senate he would ask for night sessions beginning Monday.

Other Measures Piling Up

Declaring that other important measures were piling up behind the anti-lynching bill, the Democratic leader said the latter must be disposed of.

Minority Leader McNary (R.-Ore.) and Senator Van Nuys (D.-Ind.) expressed approval of the night sessions.

"The country is going to get tired of this waste of time," Van Nuys said, "and they (the opponents) will have to let the bill come to a vote."

To Fight Vigorously

Senator Connally (D.-Tex.), strategist for Southern senate forces, said he did not object to night sessions, but added that Southerners would fight vigorously against any effort to "cram this measure down our throats."

Southern speechmaking against the anti-lynching bill continued unabated today. Senator Bilbo (D.-Miss.), threatening to talk for 60 days if necessary, called the measure an "undemocratic, unconstitutional, un-American indictment against my state."

Bilbo expressed hearty approval

AUSTIN, Jan. 21. (AP)—Former Governor R. S. Sterling of Houston said here today he favored Ernest O. Thompson of Amarillo for governor and former Senator Walter C. Woodward of Coleman for lieutenant governor in this year's races.

"That would make a fine team," the Houston oil man commented.

Naval Appropriation Bill Passes Friday

WASHINGTON, Jan. 21. (AP)—The house passed the $553,266,494 naval appropriation bill today after overwhelmingly defeating an attempt to eliminate funds for construction of two new battleships. The measure now goes to the senate.

The bill provides $26,723,186 more than the navy's current appropriation, but $11,139,977, less than budget estimates. In addition to the two battleships, it would permit start of construction of 20 other warships and continuation of work on 74 ships already on the ways.

Before final passage of the bill, the house struck out by a standing vote of 110 to 83, an amendment previously adopted which would have suspended all promotions and retirements of commissioned officers in the navy for the next fiscal year.

Oklahoma Press Association Hears Chas. A. Guy In Talk

Guy declared personal journalism still existed, although in a different form than the early days.

"In the old days," he said, "personal journalism meant calling somebody else a so-and-so. We still have personal journalism but the method has changed. We don't call names now."

Conference To Recess During Week-End To Give Drafters 'Chance To Catch Up'

(By The Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, Jan. 21.—A compromise "ever normal granary" farm program will be ready for final congressional action next week, house and senate conferees predicted today.

They said they had compromised all major differences between farm bills passed by the house and senate during the special session of congress.

Chairman Smith (D.-S.C.) of the senate agriculture committee, said they would recess this week-end to give bill drafters a chance to "catch up with what we've agreed upon."

Would Control Acreage

The legislation agreed upon thus far would set up vast machinery for controlling acreage and marketing of five major crops—cotton, wheat, corn, tobacco and rice.

Farmers who complied with acreage or marketing quotas would receive federal benefit payments, be eligible for crop loans, and escape penalties that could be applied to those not complying.

Loans on stored crops are proposed to create a reserve for short crop seasons and prevent surplus production from depressing prices.

Funds Are Provided

Benefit payments would be made as they have been under the soil conservation act. The federal budget provides $442,000,000 for this purpose in the fiscal year beginning next July 1. The amount of funds for loans on stored crops has not been determined.

Payments would continue under the soil conservation act to producers of crops other than the five listed in the granary bill.

When supplies stored under government loans became so large that they threatened to depress prices, controls would be applied to marketing if that step were approved by two-thirds of the farmers voting in elections called by the secretary of agriculture.

Conferees said the provisions

Warning Is Issued Against Speeding Up Nation's Economic Engine Too Much

(By The Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, Jan. 21. (AP)—The nation, having skidded into a recession, may soon be heading for further trouble by speeding up the economic engine too much, John D. Biggers testified today.

The director of the federal unemployment census told the senate unemployment committee if recovery is stimulated by artificial means, it may come too rapidly. This, he said, would mean another boom to be followed by another and possibly greater depression.

The Toledo industrial leader recommended establishment of a committee, composed of all of the elements which have a stake in national employment, to work out a program for re-employment of the jobless.

The experience of business after the 1929 crash may have had something to do with the sharp impact of the present recession, Biggers said, explaining that industrial leaders, fearing a return of depression times, had curtailed buying at the first hint of a slump in order to "put their houses in order."

There were several factors which acted to increase business fears and contributed to the slump, he added. Not the least of these, he said, was the fear of strikes that caused the building up of over-large inventories at excessive prices. The president's announcement last spring that some prices were too high also contributed, he said.

Among other factors, the witness listed the curtailment of government spending in 1937, the increase in federal reserve requirements, stock market mar-

That night there was a fashion parade in the Steinbeck's Monterey home and the neighbors were called in to witness the spectacle. It was the first $5.75 dress she had ever worn!

FEET AND THEIR CARE

ONE of the reasons why there is so much foot trouble is that we pay too little attention to our feet. Corns and calluses can, to a large extent, be avoided by wearing properly fitting shoes. We should remember that a shoe which fits is neither too large nor too small. Not only our shoes but our hose should be well fitted, for the wrinkles of a loose sock are a common source of foot trouble.

Remember that when in pain you can neither work nor play with comfort. Your feet support you—treat them well!

Another Texan To Take Post

(By The Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, Jan. 21.—Another high government post will be filled by a Texan when Marshall R. Diggs, deputy comptroller of the currency, becomes acting comptroller about February 1. He will succeed J. F. T. O'Connor, resigned.

Although not born in the Lone Star state, Diggs' parents moved from Tennessee to Texas when he was only 2-year-old, and settled near Merkel.

Has Yale Law Degree

Later the family moved to the Indian territory of Oklahoma and he attended public schools in Ardmore. He graduated from Epworth university (now Oklahoma City university) in 1910 with a bachelor of arts degree, and in 1913 from Yale with a law degree.

It was while a student at Yale that he became a close friend of O'Connor, an instructor of English and public speaking at Yale. On leaving Yale Diggs went to Chicago and practiced law three years, then practiced in Minneapolis for eleven months before enlisting in the army for the World war.

Assigned As Instructor

He went to the second officers training camp at Leon Springs, near San Antonio and was commissioned a first lieutenant in November, 1917. He served with the Ninetieth division at Camp Travis, San Antonio, before assignment as an instructor at the third officers training camp at Leon Springs.

He later was sent to Montgomery, Ala., as an instructor in the Ohio National guard camp of the 37th division and then to camp Gordon, Atlanta, Ga., as an instructor.

His orders to sail overseas were canceled by the signing of the Armistice. He had then been promoted to captaincy.

While stationed at Camp Gordon he met Alice Muse of Atlanta, and they were married on his birthday in 1919, they have three children, Helen, 16, Marshall, 12, and Alice, 8.

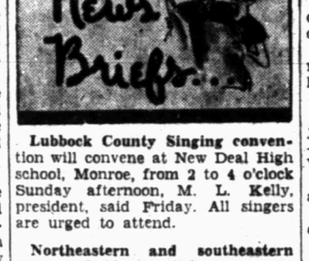

RARE BISON MOVES EAST

WASHINGTON. (AP)—If you know your Indian legends you may have heard of an albino bison but unless you have been to the Washington zoo, chances are you've never seen one.

W. B. Bell, chief of wild life research for the biological survey says so far as he knows there is no other specimen in existence. The zoo got it from the 18,000-acre government wild life reserve near Moiese, Mont.

Woman's Dreams Of Wealth Shattered As Old Violin Turns Out To Be Fake Stradivarius

(By The Associated Press)

OGDEN, Utah, Jan. 21.—A disconsolate woman — dreams of wealth shattered—strummed on an old violin today.

Mrs. O. A. Wall, wife of a cowboy, can't play a tune; she's not a musician.

But yesterday, the instrument represented a possible fortune, perhaps $100,000.

"Just Another Violin"

Today, 'twas "just another violin;" just a bad payment of a bad debt—to her husband—until recently a Wyoming rancher.

Inside the odd-shaped instrument an inscription reads:

"Antonius Stradivarius Cremonensis Anno 1716."

Her hopes soared—then crashed.

An Ogden violin expert wanted to draw the bow across the strings of the "hand-made, two-centuries-old" instrument produced by the famous old master.

Mellow Tones Lacking

But the bow and strings failed to produce the mellow tones of a genuine "Strad."

"It is obvious that this instrument was machine-made; it was that easy," said the expert.

Mrs. Wall then learned hundreds of fake "Strads" are sold the world-over every year.

Lubbock County Singing convention will convene at New Deal High school, Monroe, from 2 to 4 o'clock Sunday afternoon, M. L. Kelly, president, said Friday. All singers are urged to attend.

Northeastern and southeastern parts of Lubbock will be represented Sunday afternoon in the community house of the Panhandle-Plains Fair grounds, when a program is conducted. Federation of Church women sponsored plans.

Earl M. McClure, Boy Scout executive of Lubbock, Friday asked judgment of $500 in a suit growing out of an automobile accident Dec. 12 at Seventh street and Avenue K. Named was R. R. Walker. Collision of vehicles was charged.

Mr. and Mrs. J. Robert Cooper, 1105 Avenue X, are parents of a girl, born at 11:45 o'clock Thursday night at the home. She has been named Lelia Nell. Announcement of the birth was made at Lubbock Clinic.

L. A. Mitchell, about 45, who officers said lived near Shallowater, was placed in the county jail Friday night on a charge of driving when intoxicated filed in the justice court of S. E. McMillan. Complainant was Max Westerman, jr., officer of the Texas Highway patrol.

Masters' degrees were conferred upon Fred F. Kincaid and Clarence M. Lang in ceremonies performed by the Lubbock organization of the Masonic lodge in the lodge hall Friday night, according to Guy Casey, worshipful master. Refreshments were served.

Two complaints in federal court were filed here Friday against defendants who had not been reported arrested in connection with the theft early in November of a mail sack containing currency and coin consigned by the Dallas Federal Reserve bank to the First National Bank in O'Donnell. Two charges against men who are being held were filed earlier this week, one here and the other at Abilene. Efforts to communicate with federal authorities investigating the case were unavailing Friday night.

Garner Reiterates His Opinion About Division Of Texas

(By The Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, Jan. 21.—Vice President Garner reiterated today his opinion the people of Texas might discuss with profit their privilege of dividing into five states.

He declined to comment on the report that some persons in four Rio Grande valley counties had advocated withdrawal from the state to create "the state of South Texas."

Garner once included these four counties, Hidalgo, Willacy, Cameron and Starr, in a group of 33 he recommended should compose one of the possible new states.

The vice president said he suggested in Texas 40 years ago the division of the state into five separate states, and subsequently had gone on record for it in congress. He added, however, that he doubted whether the division ever would be accomplished.

Rice Received For Relief Distribution

Lubbock has received 40,000 pounds of rice, purchased by the Federal Surplus commodities corporation, for distribution in this area to persons on relief rolls, according to an Associated Press report Friday night from Austin.

A total of 360,000 pounds came to Texas with Dallas and Houston receiving 80,000 each, and Fort Worth, Laredo, Waco, Lubbock, and Amarillo receiving 40,000 each.

To date 29,400,000 pounds of rice had been purchased for $684,000, according to officials of the commodity distribution.

Edward Minor of Austin has returned after a two-day visit with his mother, Mrs. Allie Minor, and a sister, Mrs. Emma May Hastings of Levelland and a sister, Mrs. G. G. McMurry, 1515 College avenue.

Petty Violations Occur In City

A 28-year-old Mexican, Jose Soria of San Antonio, Friday entered a plea of guilty of theft as his business of selling shirts was ended abruptly. He was fined $15.

When the Mexican walked into a barber shop at 908 Thirteenth street Friday morning and offered to E. L. O'Neal a shirt for sale, the prospective buyer grabbed the Mexican and held him for S. O. Boyd of the police department. It was O'Neal's shirt.

Stolen From Clothes Line

The Mexican explained he had stolen it and two others from a line in the residential district. He sold two on the streets, but shrugged at his selection of a business establishment for the last sale.

It was reported to police that a burglar, probably of small size, took less than $4 in loot from Dryer and Lee Oil company at 201 East Broadway, according to Bill Mabray, police identificatichs officer. The burglar, apparently unlocked a side door, went through a small storage room, unfastened a piece of tin over a small inside window and climbed through that into the business office. The money was taken from a cash drawer, Mabray was informed.

Charged In Embezzlement

A man who had not been reported arrested late Friday night was charged in county court with embezzlement from J. G. Wilkerson of $8.40. The complaint set out the defendant represented himself to be a driver for the South Plains coaches, that Wilkerson gave him two packages of fish to deliver to R. B. Moore and the Elite cafe at Levelland, that the defendant collected $11.40 for them but gave only $3 to Wilkerson.

The complaint was sworn to by Wilkerson and had been prepared by the county attorney's office.

Charles Mitchell was charged with carrying a pistol. Grady Harrist, deputy sheriff, swore to the complaint which was filed in county court.

Officials Unable To Locate Man Believed In This Territory

Law enforcement officers and attaches of the Lubbock Chamber of Commerce late Friday night said they had been unable to locate L. W. Russell, who came to Lubbock area several months ago and when last heard from was picking cotton 10 miles south of the city.

Assistance in location of Russell was asked by a sister, Mrs. W. H. McCarty of 404 Bridge street, Albuquerque, N. M. She said he had been in ill health and she feared he may have become ill. She added that he has a wife and two children. The note requested that he either communicate with his sister or with his mother, Mrs. Johnnie Russell of 415 South Broadway, Brownwood.

Jim Braddock Rallies In Ninth And Tenth Rounds To Take Decision From Farr

Ex-Champ Wipes Out Early Edge Briton Gained

By ALAN GOULD
Associated Press Sports Editor

NEW YORK, Jan. 21.—Battle-scarred Jim Braddock came from behind with a gallant finish tonight to upset expectations and beat tough Tommy Farr, British heavyweight champion, in a bristling 10-round match before a near-capacity crowd in Madison Square garden.

The 32-year-old former heavyweight titleholder of the world, making his first start since being knocked out last June by Joe Louis, pulled the decision out of the fire after apparently being hopelessly battered and licked at the end of the eighth round.

Braddock's spectacular finish, in the ninth and tenth, not only turned the tide of battle abruptly and conclusively but thrilled a throng of 17,369 fans who paid $80,645.23 to see Jersey Jim stage a characteristic come-back.

Wins On Courage

Spotting his rugged rival an advantage in years and poundage, as well as an early margin on points, Braddock finished like a champion. There were no knockdowns but it was a slam-bang bout, from start to finish, and so closely fought it took the last ounce of Braddock's courage to gain the verdict.

On the Associated Press scorecard, each was credited with five rounds. The official verdict was 2 to 1 in Braddock's favor. Referee Johnny McAvoy and one of the judges, George Lecron, decided for Braddock. The other judge, Charley Lynch, scored in Farr's favor.

Farr entered the ring a 3 to 1 favorite in the betting. The Briton, who had been mainly picked on the basis of going the 15 round limit with Champion Louis, also held the edge in weights, 207 to 199 1-2.

Drives Farr To Ropes

The Garden was in an uproar as Braddock rallied in the ninth, stepping briskly as he stung and lashed Farr with both hands. The shift in tactics caught Tommy unprepared and Braddock repeatedly beat his rival to the punch. The tenth and final round was slam-bang all the way. Farr's rushes were met by Braddock's well-timed hooks and uppercuts. Jim drove his rival to the ropes then they swung toe to toe in the closing moments.

Braddock received a tremendous reception as he entered the Garden for a fight for the first time in nearly three years. The referee was Johnny McAvoy, the judges were George Lecron and Charley Lynch. Champion Joe Louis took a bow before his erstwhile rivals swung into action.

Braddock's Ear Is Cut

Farr jolted Braddock at the outset with hard shots to the head, delivered from a crouching stance. Jim countered with uppercuts and landed one good right to the face. The former champion gave ground slowly, as Farr continued his rushing tactics in the second round. Braddock clipped his rival hard with right uppercuts but Farr kept boring in.

Braddock's left ear was cut in the third and he was roughed in the clinches but he won the round when Farr was penalized for landing a left swing below the belt line. It was rough and tumble again, in the fourth, with Jim's left connecting sharply to the head, opening a slight cut over Tommy's right eye. Farr belted Jim with a body attack and continued to set a fast pace in the fifth. Braddock appeared to tire under the attack to his mid-section.

Farr Captures Seventh

Braddock rallied in the closing minute of the sixth, starting a flow of blood from Farr's nose and driving the Briton to the ropes with a smashing right to the chin. Tommy was hurt but recuperated quickly as the crowd rose to its feet. Farr won the seventh by a wide margin. He battered Jim's body and stung him with looping rights to the head. Braddock's left side looked like raw beefsteak. Braddock tried gamely to stop Farr's two-fisted onslaughts in the eighth but absorbed a steady pounding. Tommy's left did heavy damage. They leaned their heads together frequently and swung like longshoremen.

Six Teams Grab Victories In Ralls High Invitation Tilts

RALLS, Jan. 21. (Special)—Olton and O'Donnell high school quintets battled tooth and toenail to the finish of the feature contest of Ralls High school invitation tournament tonight, with the Eagles prevailing, 20 to 19.

Clayton of O'Donnell and Huggins of Olton led scoring with six points each. In other night games, Robertson beat South Plains, 48-14 and Ralls smothered Lakeview, 53 to 23.

In afternoon games, Lorenzo was beaten by Abernathy, 36 to 13, Lubbock Cowhands defeated Draw, 23-20, and Daugherty spilled Idalou, 23 to 30.

Beans Reed banged in 23 points for scoring honors of the tournament to lead the Ralls victory. J. R. Anstead had 13 markers.

Fourteen games will be played Saturday starting at 8 o'clock in the morning and ending in the finals at 8:30 p. m.

Sam Snead "Blows" Up And Quits Pasadena Tourney

By ROBERT MYERS
Associated Press Sports Writer

PASADENA, Calif., Jan. 21.—A pair of New Yorkers, Paul Runyan and Jimmy Hines, and a California "dark horse" matched strokes today to dominate a field of 230 golfers competing in the first round of the $3,000 Pasadena open today.

The Gothamites and Harry Bassler of Long Beach came in with 68's to better par by three strokes and take a slim lead into tomorrow's second 18 holes.

Three Shoot 69's

Pressing close behind were Jimmy Thompson of Shawnee - On - The-Delaware, Pa., Horton Smith and John Bulla of Chicago, and Johnny Revolta of nearby Evanston, Ill., all posted in the 69 bracket. Numbered in the 70 scorers was Henry Picard, Hershey, Pa.

Sharing attention with the par crackers was the abrupt withdrawal from the tournament of Sam Snead of White Sulphur Springs, W. Va. Snead, obviously off his game, went up in smoke and left in a cloud of temper as he, Thomson and A. K. Bourne, Pasadena amateur sportsman, reached the 12th green. He had used up 41 strokes, five over par, on the first nine, and was getting no better when he halted.

An hour later the West Virginia hillbilly was all regret.

"I'm terribly sorry. If I'd thought about it I wouldn't have done it," Snead drawled.

Fred Corcoran, P. G. A. tournament manager, said Snead had assured him he would play out the tournament schedule this winter.

Snead won the $3,000 Bing Crosby pro-amateur event last Sunday, and was one of the favorites here.

Craig Wood of Rumson, N. J., shooting one of his best rounds in weeks, posted a 70 to round out the select group of par smashers among the first of the field of 230 contestants to come in.

Listed in the first group to hit in the par bracket were three strong contenders, Harold McSpadden of Winchester, Mass., Dick Metz of Lake Forest, Ill., and Art Bell of Pasadena, rated one of the biggest threat among the Southern California contingent.

First round scores included:

Joe Ezar, Waco, Texas, 40-35—75.

Henry Ransom, Bryan, Texas, 40-36—76.

Ben Hogan, Fort Worth, Texas, 36-35—71.

Jim Demaret, Houston, Texas, 37-36—73.

Harvesters Beat Lubbock, 23-19

PAMPA, Jan. 21. (Special) — The Pampa High school Harvesters outdistanced Lubbock in a wild and wolly exhibition of basketball with plenty of football thrown in here tonight, Pampa won 23 to 19.

Close guarding featured the game which saw three Westerners and one Pampa player foul out. The Westerners committed 21 personal fouls, while the Harvesters were penalized 13 times.

Dutchy Cawthon of Lubbock and G. G. Heiskell, Pampa forward, led scoring with eight points each. Lubbock's passing was far off form, and Pampa had trouble on crip shots and free throws. The Harvesters cashed in on only seven of 24 chances from the charity line.

Rip Collins Ready To Give Battle For First Base Job

CHICAGO, Jan. 21. (AP)—There's a battle brewing in Chicago Cub ranks—and it isn't of the common contract variety.

With Owner P. K. Wrigley anticipating no holdout trouble over 1938 salaries, a somewhat unique position for most major league moguls at this time of the year, Cub fans are "smoking up" what they believe will be a red hot fight between the veteran Jim "Rip" Collins and youthful Phil Cavarretta for the regular first base job.

Collins signed his 1938 contract yesterday and in a letter to a Chicago friend flings a challenge at Cavarretta, the Italian youngster named recently by Manager Charley Grimm as the Cubs' regular first sacker in 1938.

Collins suffered a terrific slump last season and was lost to the team in August when he fractured an ankle.

But he's ready now, he says, to give Cavarretta a real battle.

Bears, Redskins Are Ready For Any Weather

DALLAS, Jan. 21. (AP)—Low-hanging clouds spilled rain in the Cotton Bowl stadium tonight but the weatherman still had hopes for brighter weather before the Washington Redskins and Chicago Bears, professional football teams, clash in an exhibition here Sunday afternoon.

The Bears held their last hard workout today at Southern-Methodist university and from the way Sam Francis, their bulky fullback who is replacing Bronko Nagurski, slammed punts around, it was evident Coach George Halas was preparing for a kicking duel on a wet field.

At Fort Worth the Redskins had damp weather also, Coach Ray Flaherty working Slingin' Sammy Baugh on his kicking. Cliff Battles, the great Redskin runner, may be Washington's big threat if rainfall hampers Baugh's passing.

The Bears, ready for any kind of weather, had Ray (Buzz) Buivid tossing some passes, but Halas devoted most attention to mudders such as Francis, Keith Molesworth and Jack Manders.

National Tourney For Collegiate Cagers Planned

KANSAS CITY, Jan. 21. (AP)—The committees have been named, qualifying requirements determined, and other administrative details arranged, so the first annual National Intercollegiate basketball championship tournament to be held in Kansas City March 7-12 promises to be a huge success. In fact, all they need now is the teams.

The entry list is a minor worry, however. Emil S. Liston, Baker university athletic director who is chairman of the tournament committee, indicated today he expected approximately 40 teams to qualify, but as entry blanks will not be distributed until about Feb. 1, the present estimate is purely a guess.

The tournament is the outgrowth of a sectional meet here last year. The advisability of a national tournament for colleges, along the lines of the National AAU tournament, was discussed by the school officials, with the result that Liston was appointed chairman of an organization committee and authorized to select a board of management.

Only teams with outstanding season's records, winners of strong conference races, or sectional or state tournament winners may qualify. The tournament will be a one-game elimination affair, and Dr. James Naismith of Lawrence, Kas., inventor of basketball, is offering a trophy for the winner.

Galveston Fans Rally Fast To Keep Texas League Ball

GALVESTON, Jan. 21. (AP) —Galveston baseball fans had subscribed about $22,500 in stock today of the $35,000 needed to keep Texas League baseball here.

Of the sum required, $20,000 would be used to purchase the franchise from the Shearn Moody estate, and $15,000 to acquire players, pay spring training expenses, purchase uniforms and defray incidental expenses.

The remaining $12,500 must be raised by Monday, it was indicated by A. A. Horne, executor of the Moody estate. "I promised the Shreveport people a definite answer on that day," he said.

Porkers, Aggies Win Southwest Cage Contests

FAYETTEVILLE, Ark., Jan. 21. (AP)—Arkansas university kept a perfect record in conference basketball play tonight by swamping Rice 59 to 37. The Razorbacks won last night 38 to 31.

Jack Robbins and Don Lockard, the Arkansas twin-scoring sensations, dropped in 20 and 14 points respectively in a brilliant exhibition of shot-making.

This scoring burst gave Lockard and Robbins 55 and 51 points for the conference season.

In contrast to last night's slow starting game, Arkansas jumped off to an early lead that reached 12 to 3 before Rice sank a field goal. The Owls were never closer than 6 points to Arkansas for the rest of the half which ended 25 to 13.

Horned Frogs Improve, But Drop Game To Farmers

FORT WORTH, Jan. 21. (AP)—The white clad boys of TCU did much better in the basketball business tonight. They still were not good enough to beat Texas A. and M. but after their two feeble efforts against the Texas Longhorns, Coach Mike Brumbelow's hopefuls displayed decided improvement.

The final count was 33-30 for the Cadets. With less th[an] two minutes to play it was still a wide-open affair with the visitors on top 28-30. But with the Purple trying to break up the Aggie stall, little Sammy Dwyer broke in for a crip and the veteran Virgil Harris caged a gift shot to make the Aggie lead safe. Ben Abney, the Frog sophomore forward, made a follow bucket with 20 seconds to go but that was all.

Harris and Clark did almost all the scoring for the winners, Clark racked up 13 points and Capt. Harris 11. Abney's five field goals and two gift tries gave him 12 points, the largest number scored by a Frog in conference competition this year.

A Family Frame-Up—That's What!

The Whole DiMaggio Baseball Family--Joe, Vince And Dominic--Are "Real" Holdouts

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 21. (AP) — Dissension of the DiMaggios became a unanimous family affair today. All three of the brothers are baseball holdouts.

Vince DiMaggio, outfielder of the Boston Bees, revealed on a visit here today he was not satisfied with the contract he had received.

Vince thus joined his more famous brother Joe of the Yankees, and his less noted "kid brother," Dominic of the San Francisco Seals, in the annual "I want more money" parade.

Vince, eldest of the three boys who graduated from San Francisco's sandlots, now winters in Los Angeles. He formerly played for San Francisco and San Diego. He was released by the Seals in favor of Joe, whom he had brought to the club as a likely prospect.

Dominic, who played his first organized ball last season, was expected to come to an agreement with the Seals shortly.

Quail Population Of Texas Given 6,000 Increase

AUSTIN, Jan. 21. (AP)—The game commission today announced purchase of 6,000 quail to be distributed among sportsmen and landowners of the state.

Chairman A. E. Woods said the birds would be issued on a co-operative basis meaning anyone willing to "plant" them in suitable habitats would be given one bird free for each one purchased at 84 cents each, the price paid for them by the commission.

The officials also have an option for purchase of 4,000 bob white if demands justify the increase.

The commission announced the American Steel Dredge Co., Inc., of Fort Wayne, Ind., was low bidder at $20,905 for constructing a dredge to clean out passes along the Gulf coast, part of a plan to improve salt water fish propagation. Woods said a contract probbly would be let soon and the dredge would be placed in operation first at Corpus Christi Pass.

Joe DiMag Sets $35,000 For 1938 Salary

By GAYLE TALBOT
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK, Jan. 21.—Joe DiMaggio, the eminent young baseball outfielder, looked Colonel Jacob Ruppert square between the eyes today and refused to sign a contract calling for $25,000 for his 1938 services.

Joe, entering his third season as a big leaguer, demanded $35,000, a sum almost equal to that paid his teammate, Lou Gehrig, the highest paid player in the game at $36,000. He received $15,000 last year, when he led both leagues with 46 home runs.

The Yankee star walked right out on the Colonel after a 10-minute discussion and told newspapermen he was a hold-out, sure enough.

"It's mutual," said Joe, simply. "I told them what I wanted and Colonel Ruppert told me what he would pay. That's all there was to it and I don't know when we'll have another conference."

To Meet In Florida

That means, probably, that they will get together when the Yankees report for spring training in Florida and sign for, say, $30,000.

"He's a fine young man," beamed the Colonel, paternally. "But I think $25,000 is enough for this year. After all, he's only 23, and in the last two seasons, counting the World Series, we've paid him about $36,000. That's a lot of money," reminded the man who probably couldn't raise over a hundred million dollars unless he had a week's notice.

Joe, the Colonel revealed, was offered only a continuation of his $15,000 stipend in the contract proffered him yesterday. That got a quick fise out of Joe. But it was only bait. When he walked in this morning the Colonel dazzled him with a new document calling for $25,000. Only Joe didn't dazzle. He's an old sun-fielder.

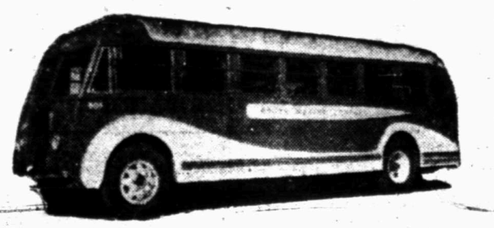

Takes In Banquets

DiMaggio expected to be around until February 1. He was attending the heavyweight scrap tonight between his pal, Jim Braddock, and Tommy Farr. Next Tuesday he will be the guest of honor at the Philadelphia baseball writers' banquet and the following Sunday will play a similar role here.

The Yankees, in announcing the sum they had offered Joe, departed from their custom. Colonel Ruppert obviously wanted Dimag's admirers to know he was getting a square shake.

U. S. Public Own Censor

REMARK attributed to a member of the Federal Communications commission recently that "under present statutes the commission has no power of (radio) censorship" suggests that people of the nation must continuously be on the alert to prevent encroachment on their guaranteed rights of freedom of press, speech and religion.

The latest statement was in connection with the commission's formal condemnation of Mae West's recent "Adam and Eve" broadcast. No punishment was imposed on the offending radio station, the commission holding — as the Morning Avalanche believes correctly—that the broadcasting company has done what it can to make amends.

The commissioner's remark that the federal body has no power of censorship over radio programs suggests that his thought was somewhat to the effect: "We haven't power of censorship now, but we would like to have." Perhaps it might seem desirable that some such censorship be established to protect the public against smut on the air. But the danger of any such regulation might be that the commission would deem criticism of it or of the administration undesirable material.

In the Mae West case, the public quickly demonstrated that it is its own best censor. Its protests of indignation started flooding into the broadcasting studio even before the program was completed. Studio officials and program sponsor lost no time in voicing most abject apologies. Mae West's career on the air was at an end and qualified observers believes that also may be true of her motion picture stardom. Those penalties are sufficient evidence that, for the present at least, we can continue to get along without giving any political authority further power to say what we as people may read, say or hear.

MIRANDA TRENT—Barrymore's grandmother; a "strong woman."

Yesterday: Barry, leaving Linda afraid and tearful, starts on his hazardous rescue trip. At the airport, another woman's voice takes the air to speed him well!

CHAPTER IX

The voice that spoke next was unmistakably familiar. It was the voice of Rita Blanchard.

"There isn't much one can say, is there?" Rita began, "when you see someone whom you have—been very fond of—Barry Trent and I played together as children—setting off alone in the dark on such an errand? . . . But I do want to say to Barry, if he is listening, 'God-speed' and 'come back soon'."

"Children together, my foot!" snorted the Duchess when she could get her breath. "Rita Blanchard was plucking her eyebrows when Barry was playing with blocks. . . . What some people will do for a little publicity!"

They went to bed then. . . . That is, they went to their rooms. To Linda, climbing the stairs, it seemed for the first time since Barry's coming had brought the old house to life, that the faces of the dead and gone Trents lining the stairway peered down at her with secret, silence hostility.

And this was her wedding night.

Next morning life went on much as usual except that there were no bursts of song at the breakfast table, no swift feet taking the stairs two at a time, no fragrance of pipe tobacco floating through the rooms—and that, from time to time, Linda fingered incredulously a small golden circlet that hung on a ribbon under her dress, close against the white hollow of her throat.

The early edition of the afternoon paper carried a last-minute item to the effect that Captain Barry Trent, having covered the first leg of his flight in record time, would rest and re-fuel before continuing south.

Early in the afternoon a stream of callers began to pour into the house. Old Miranda received them regally in her high-backed chair; but in an interval she observed to Linda with dour amusement, "You might think from the way they go on that this was a funeral, and they were hired mourners."

Miss Chattam was among the first to come. She was with Mrs. Trent when Linda went in with a message.

Remembering the circumstances under which she had last seen the lynx-eyed Miss Chattam, Linda flushed as she greeted the caller. Her flush deepened as she saw the woman flash a significant sideglance at Barry's grandmother.

So they had been talking about her! Linda remembered Barry's words: "There, by the grace of God, goes the best-oiled tongue in 20 counties."

What had Lyndia Chattam been telling Barry's grandmother?

Whatever it was, the old lady seemed imperturbed, even faintly amused.

"You must miss having Captain Trent about, Miss Benton," Lydia Chattam said as soon as she had an opportunity. "And how pleasant it must have been for him—having a pretty young girl in the house. There's so little amusement for a lively young man in this town."

It was said with the most plausible amiability; but the implication was inescapable—a lively young man diverting his idle moments with his grandmother's paid companion.

And no doubt that was the only version of the affair that old Miranda would find credible. That accounted for her tolerant amusement. . . . And was that amusement faintly tinged with pity? . . . "A sweetheart in every port."

That any one should believe such a thing was an insult, Linda felt, to the dignity of her love—of Barry's love for her. For the first time in her sheltered, rather placid life, she found herself furiously angry.

For the first time since she had come to the Trent house, she could not find tasks enough to keep hands and mind busy. There were unendurably idle moments in which she found herself wandering about, her hands lingering in caress upon objects Barry had used or touched—his chair at the table, a book he had been reading—her mind traveling around and around again the cycle of their brief, stormy companionship.

Late in the afternoon old Miranda came upon her sitting on the lower flight of stairs, her elbows resting on her knees, her chin cupped in her palms, her eyes wide on space.

"My dear Miss Benton, how tired you look!" she said, with a gentleness so unexpected that tears sprang to Linda's eyes. "I'm afraid I have been too exacting. . . . I wonder sometimes if I am not a very trying old woman."

When Linda only murmured vaguely, she went on, "Do go out and get some fresh air. Do you skate? They tell me the skating on the lake is good now."

So Linda half-heartedly dragged her skates from her trunk, and putting on a gray woolen skirt, a short gray fur coat, and a cap and scarf of jade green, started out for the lake.

As she passed Judge Baldwin's house, she remembered that she had an errand there. She and Barry had been so hurried yesterday that they had not waited for their marriage certificate. Judge Baldwin was to fill it out and have it recorded for them this morning. Linda had promised Barry to call and get it. He had been very insistent upon this.

This time Linda went boldly up the front steps and rang the bell. The maid who came to the door looked startled when Linda asked for the judge. Hadn't she heard? Judge Baldwin had gone out to see a friend off on the train the evening before, had suffered a heart attack on the platform of the depot, and had been taken to the hospital.

Linda thought of asking if the judge had left a paper for her; but if Judge Baldwin had been stricken almost as soon as she and Barry had left him and Mr. Chadwick at the depot, obviously he could not have filed the record of their marriage. In fact, he could not even have finished filling it out. . . . Not that it mattered. That could be attended to later. Anyhow, she had kept her promise to Barry.

She walked on down to the lake and put on her skates.

Skating was one of Linda's accomplishments. She had been well taught, and though she looked frail, her body was as strong and supple as finely tempered steel. On skates, she was as much at home as most girls on a dance floor.

She had not been on the ice long before she began to realize that people stopped skating to watch as she skimmed by in her swift, hummingbird flight . . . Then she began to hear voices—snatches of conversation:

"—and Miss Chattam said they fairly jumped apart when she opened the door"—"Oh, the dowager's not worried. She'll see that Barry doesn't slip"—"Of course. No one's quite good enough for 'my grandson, the captain'"—

With burning cheeks Linda almost ran home. A little later she came upon Mrs. Trent seated before the dinning room table. Spread out before her were dozens of photographs . . . Photographs of Barry—Barry as a grave, dark-eyed adorable baby in an almost complete state of nature; Barry as a small boy grinning ingratiatingly with one front tooth gone; Barry on horseback; Barry in uniform—Barry at every age and in every mood.

A little sheepishly, yet with the air of one determined to brazen out a compromising situation, the old lady said, "Quite a gallery, isn't it? The newspapers asked to borrow one."

But Linda knew why they were all spread out there; and she felt a rush of affection for the old lady that she would not have believed possible five minutes ago.

She had come back to the house determined to leave it as soon as she could get ready. She would leave a letter for Barry, explaining to him that her position here was untenable—unbearable. She had already begun to pack.

Now she went slowly upstairs and put her clothes back into closets and drawers.

After all, hadn't Barry left old Miranda in her care?

That night the radio reported Captain Trent well on the last leg of his flight. There was one ominous sentence in the broadcast, however, that sent Linda's nails deep into her palms.

"It is hoped," the announcer said, "that Captain Trent will make a safe landing in time to escape the unseasonable tropical storm which is sweeping westward across the Caribbean."

Negro Is To Face Grand Jury Probe Over Attack Attempt

LITTLEFIELD, Jan. 21. (Special)—Babba Cleveland, a negro, has been bound over to the Lamb county grand jury after a reported attempt to attack a young white woman.

According to a story, the girl was awakened one night recently by two hands pressing on her shoulders and a voice advising her to keep quiet. The young woman ordered him to leave "quick," which he did.

She aroused her uncle and aunt and a search of the room showed dresser drawers had been ransacked and the screen cut. Cleveland's wife works for the family and the pair lives in the servant's house. Search of it immediately afterwards disclosed Cleveland in bed with his wife, but with his clothes on.

Fear of possible reprisals kept the story of the attempt from publication for a week or more.

Bodies Of Two Men Are Found; Holdup-Gun Battle Theorized

HUNTINGTON PARK, Calif., Jan. 21. (AP)—Police entered the check cashing establishment of J. W. Burke, 52, here today and found the owner and an unidentified man dead on the floor.

A. P. Wilson, chief of police, said he was working on the theory the unidentified man attempted to hold up Burke and in the fight that followed they shot each other to death.

The News Behind The News

WASHINGTON
By Ray Tucker

DONALD RICHBERG'S return to inner White House councils supplies partial assurance that President Roosevelt's anti-business barking will be worse than his biting.

The ex-N.R.A.-er's program for cooperation between government and industry offsets the radical recipes of the Corcorans and Cohens. For a while his persistence in propagating his moderate views earned him a sentence in the presidential doghouse, but he's on the knee again. Roughly, he favors formulation of fair practice codes enforceable by the government, and free exchange of information between corporations under the guidance of the Federal Trade commission. In return he asks that industry abolish child labor and fix a minimum wage-and-hour standard.

Mr. Roosevelt's reliance on Mr. Richberg does not imply a repudiation of Robert H. Jackson's anti-trust philosophy. It simply means that Jackson is handling the political problem, while Richberg looks after the economic question. "Bob" is thinking in terms of votes, Richberg has his mind on increase of employment and maintenance of purchasing power.

EXPERIENCE: John L. Lewis sided with two economic royalists—Owen D. Young and Thomas W. Lamont—rather than the president at the recent White House parley. In fact, the C.I.O. chieftain virtually acted as spokesman for the delegation, much to his own surprise.

Mr. Lewis bluntly informed F.D.R. that he thought the administration's recent tones and trends—the Jackson-Ickes blasts against business—had been unwise. He flatly declared that labor would not stand for any reduction of wages in accord with the Roosevelt formula for a more regular annual income. The miner also called for more measures designed to produce recovery and less interest in reform. He didn't use the word, but he indicated that he thought the country headed straight for a "depression" unless the administration acts quickly and constructively.

Messrs. Lamont and Young, by their silence, seemed to agree with the Lewis arguments, though perhaps not with the methods he sugeted. When a friend expressed surprise at his demand for reassurance to industry, Mr. Lewis flared up. "You've never heard me attack business or bigness as such," he said. Labor, in his opinion, can negotiate more easily and obtain higher wages from a great concern like U. S. Steel than from small and scattered firms.

COLORS: Whether President Roosevelt means to build up Robert H. Jackson into a 1940 candidate or let him down may be revealed to party peekers within a few months. Twelve rivals for presidential nomination are anxiously awaiting the day which may furnish conclusive proof of F.D.R.'s political plans.

Attorney General Cummings, as exclusively forecast by Whirligig months ago, is expected to step out within a few months. The A. G. has not been especially happy since the President denied him his heart's desire by naming Stanley Reed to the Supreme Court. Nor does the fairly conservative man from the Nutmeg State fully approve of the violent anti-business ideas which "Bob" has been sparking. This solon of 68 dislikes change, excitement, turmoil.

Appointment of the upstate New York man to the nation's highest legal post would serve definite notice on the party that Mr. Jackson will carry White House colors in the 1940 derby. It will be bad news to Messrs. Farley, Wallace, Ickes, Frank Murphy, George Earle, Vice President Garner, Senators Barkley, Burke, Wheeler and Clark and other would-be's and Roosevelt antis on Capitol Hill.

FIGURES: The Bailey-Vandenberg manifesto on behalf of business produced such an unfavorable reaction when first publicized that even the signers repudiated it. But it has quietly become a best seller without any attempts to promote it.

Almost a million copies have been circulated in the first month after it appeared. Both Senators Bailey and Vandenberg have had to hire extra office help to handle orders. Copies sell for $4.60 a thousand, and so far most of the requests have come from individuals rather than from business and political groups obviously anti-New Deal. The demand from below the Mason and Dixon line has been unusually heavy.

Democratic senators supposedly pro-New Deal are keeping close track of the sales, insofar as they measure a falling-off in Roosevelt sentiment in their states. The latest figures have put at least six Middle Western members on the anxious—and doubtful—seat.

NEW YORK
By James McMullin

FINANCIAL insiders understand that preliminary chats between U. S. Steel officials and labor leaders in connection with renewal of existing union contracts have centered on cost and price questions.

Big Steel is angling for concessions from the union which would reduce labor costs. It is NOT asking for a lower wage scale. Negotiators for the corporation realize that John Lewis and Philip Murray could not make an obvious surrender—even if they wanted to—without risking a revolt against their leadership. The left-wing element in the Steel Workers Organizing Committee would jump at the chance to discredit Murray with the rank-and-file.

The company's demands are more subtly focussed on technical details—such as overtime arrangements and the like—where savings could be effected without attracting attention. The argument is that cost reductions achieved in this way would be promptly translated into lower prices to consumers, thus stimulating steel purchases (for housing, etc.) and employment. Cheaper prices would also get U. S. Steel off the spot with the government. The labor chieftains have not committed themselves on this proposition, but word is that they have at least shown a willingness to talk it over.

ROCKED: New York utility leaders are delighted that the president saw fit to include all holding companies in his statement that the latter should be abolished. That gives them lots of companions in their misery—which means a stronger and better organized defense against any measures of forcible dissolution he may propose. It also serves to clarify the issue between the New Deal and big businesses.

The anti-holding company declaration is not expected to bear practical fruit in the near future. Mr. Roosevelt obviously has no specific plan in mind as yet. Even if he had, hasty New York samplings of congressional sentiment indicate that it would have tough sledding on Capitol Hill. A number of New Deal loyalists privately join with conservatives in criticizing F.D.R. for rocking the business boat so violently in the midst of the recession storm.

TURN-DOWN: The optimistic Japanese are angling for a $50,000,000 credit to enable them to purchase American machinery for use in Manchukuo. They have as much chance of getting it as Stalin has of becoming King of England.

The Japanese persist in over-estimating our financial gullibility. They appear to believe that we will rise to any old hook baited—no matter how clumsily—with a profit lure. The only loans which Japan has been able to negotiate here in the past year were made either on the collateral of U. S. government securities deposited with the lending institution or on gold at least three days out of Japan en route to the lender. She can have more American credit on these terms—but on no others.

Both Japanese and Chines emissaries have repeatedly approached American bankers in recent months seeking loans. They have interpreted politely phrased refusals as encouraging and have accordingly raised false hopes at home. A big-time financial man remarks: "The trouble with these Orientals is that they don't recognize a turndown when they hear one."

Side Glances---By George Clark

"Poor Fred! He didn't even want to come because he w

The Plainsman Says:

That Girl on Broadway says the fellow who puts everything he's got into his work usually succeeds, if for no other reason than that he has so little competition.

C. W. Ratliff picked this up somewhere and brought it in:

Sock him on the kisser; put him on the pan;
Roll him in the gutter—he's a business man!
Pillory the sucker; poke him in the eye;
Jump on his torso—he's a business guy!
Has he built a business to enormous heights?
Brand him as a cheater—never mind his rights!
Does he give employment? Is his payroll big?
Put the bum in irons! Throw him in the brig!
Does he pay in taxes what the law calls for?
Why, the dirty reptile should be paying more!
Blast him in the headlines; charge some crooked acts;
Let this be your slogan: "Anything but facts!"
Has he made some money? Get his scalp today!
Say, where does he think he's living, anyway?

The original of that jingle, called "Verse to a Business Man," appeared in the Kittanning, Pa., Daily Leader-Times.

GOOD news to everybody who likes good reading is that Sinclair Lewis' brand new book, "The Prodigal Parents," has arrived in Lubbock.

The Plainsman sneaked it out of Leona's Littly Booky Shoppy and, at this writing, is about two-thirds through with it.

We've gone along far enough in it, however, to be able to report that it's a real Sinclair Lewis novel—which is just another way of saying it's swell!

The creator of "Babbitt," "Elmer Gantry," "Main Street," "It Can't Happen Here," and those other literary smashes has lost none of his old touch.

He still unerringly places his finger on the national sore spots—and pushes!

We recommend it like nobody's never-you-mind!

That Man on Avenue Q says when you become dissatisfied with yourself, instead of with your job, then you're really getting somewhere.

One of our good West Texas cowmen went up to Kansas City with a load of cattle a few years ago and ran into a banker friend who insisted that the cowman accompany him to a swell banquet at the Kansas City Athletic club. The cowman didn't want to go, but his old friend wouldn't take "no" for an answer.

The West Texan's worst fears were realized when he got to the club. Not only was it a dress-up, high society affair, but there were lots of speeches. Pretty soon, to his dismay, he was called upon for a few words.

Shaking like a mesquite in a sandstorm, he arose, turning over his coffee cup and dumping cigaret ashes on the frigid-faced society dame next to him.

"Wal, folks," he said, "all I can remember right now is a toast I've heard the boys give around the chuckwagon. It goes:

"They met on the bridge at midnight,
But they'll never meet again.
For she was a westbound heifer—
And he was an eastbound train!"

* * *

LIKE The Plainsman, most readers have heard a lot about Andrew Jackson as a soldier, a statesman and a Democrat. But here's one story about Old Hickory that the writer never heard before.

It was passed along by Preston Grover, one of our Washington correspondents.

"We must tell you," writes Mr. Grover, "about Andrew Jackson and the outdoor plumbing which almost got into the Congressional Record. Senator Bailey, of North Carolina, brought up the subject during a filibuster speech.

"'One of the most interesting things I know about Andrew Jackson is that a judgment was taken against him when he left for Tennessee, which is recorded in Rowan county,' Bailey said. 'It remained on record against him for several years, but one day the news of the Battle of New Orleans came and the creditor, I think, sneaked up there—he did not do it publicly—and wrote on the judgment 'Canceled by the victory of New Orleans.'

"'Will the senator tell us what that judgment was about?' asked Senator Bennett Clark, of Missouri slyly. Bailey did not know, but Clark did—and he told us about it afterward.

"He said Jackson and a group of young blades were angry at a leading citizen of Guilford, North Carolina, and one night rode up to his place on their horses. There they attached ropes to a certain outbuilding and turned it over, Hallowe'en fashion.

"The owner ran out of his house and identified Jackson as one of the horsemen. He went to the court house and got a judgment for $8.50 against Jackson. But by that time Jackson was headed for Tennessee and the judgment laid unsettled for many years. Then came the news that the famous battle that was fought at New Orleans in 1815 and after the war was ended. The notes cancelling followed."

That's quite a story, if you ask The Plainsman, and proves again that all of us, rich and poor, weak and powerful, give 'way to the same temptations, It reminds The Plainsman of some advice he received from an old editor when he was young in the newspaper game.

"You'll always notice this, son," he said, "the big guys are just like the little ones. We all pull on our pants one leg at a time!"

There is a very famous—and, likewise, very good—New York columnist who frequently writes his column in the style of Samuel Pepys' Diary. And, if you take his writings literally, he is forever bumping into and running around with very famous personages.

To make the story shorter, this columnist carried the pitcher to the well once too many times—and got into a jam. Here's the way it came about:

Vilhjalmar Stefansson, the famous explorer who was in the limelight following the return of one of his polar expeditions, subscribed to a clipping bureau so that no newspaper mention of himself might escape his eye. The clipping bureau, of course, charged so much per clip.

The New York columnist occasionally started his nationally syndicated column off with "Up betimes and had breakfast with Stefansson."

Stefansson had never met the columnist, but every time that sentence ran it was printed in scores of papers and the return clip cost the explorer $4. Stefansson finally grew tired of the financial burden and wrote the columnist as follows:

"Dear Sir: It will be much less expensive for me, hereafter, if you will take breakfast with me and say nothing about it."

The "Up betimes" breakfasting with Stefansson promptly stopped!

TARZAN THE MAGNIFICENT No. 6 By Edgar Rice Burroughs

Wood was dismayed by the desertion of the porters, but there was something else that disturbed him more. He had a haunting sense of being watched by invisible eyes. He heard noises, neither human nor invisible eyes. He heard noises, neither human nor animal, that made his flesh creep and his scalp tingle.

He had a vague consciousness of some mysterious force, one intangible power hovering near. Was it his own fear, engendered by the warning of the tribesmen, or was there some nameless presence in the camp? Hastily Stanley Wood wakened his three companions.

Their immediate concern was the desertion of the porters. Then Wood told them of his strange feeling. They laughed; but presently they too confessed they felt that unseen power. "Guess the best thing is to go back," Troll sugested. The others agreed.

At dawn they shouldered their packs for the return journey and started out; but they went upstream. Against their will something was pulling them onward, into the land of mystery! They tried to resist, but the thing that lured them was stronger than they!

MADAME LEAADA: $1.00 readings, 50c, few days only. 1912 16th.

Ask The Master Psychologist
Dr. La. Rose, Ps. D.

How to obtain Love, Happiness, Success, being loved and admired for yourself alone, capturing the hearts and friendship of all about you, can bring you more happiness than all the jewels and fine clothes you could wear than all the wealth you could spend in a lifetime. Without friendship and love, life would not be worth living, for admiration and affection are the breath and heart beat of all human happiness. Within you is a power that controls your destiny. It is in every woman and man, but few discover it. Those who do are blessed with the key to Life's Happiness. With all my heart I urge you to bring forth this innate charm that is yours. Develop it, and you will attract to yourself those things that make life worth while. You are helpless in the hands of women who have learned how to use their hidden powers of attraction. You have these powers. You can discover and develop them and swiftly make yourself irresistible to men . . even in competition with women far more attractive-looking. You can win and hold the love of the one you want. So if in doubt, ask the man who knows.

LEADERS BACK AWAY FRACTIONS

NEW YORK, Jan. 21. (AP) — Rallying steam died down in today's stock market and leaders backed away fractions to 2 points generally.

Profit realizing appeared at the start and continued throughout, although volume never was sufficient to enliven the ticker tape. Principal steels and motors dipped substantially in the closing hour.

Early quiet strength in aircrafts, rubbers, oils and specialties faded subsequently.

The president's remarks at his press conference expressing satisfaction over his meetings with business chieftains engendered some hope the economic stalemate would soon be broken, although Wall street apparently saw plenty of obstacles in the way of quick recovery.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks was off .6 of a point at 46.2. Transfers totalled 791,410 shares compared with 818,310 the day before.

Usual Advance In Prices Of Lambs Expected To Be Lower

WASHINGTON, Jan. 21. (AP) — The bureau of agricultural economics said today the usual advance in lamb prices during the January-April period probably will not be as great this season as in 1937 when they approached pre-depression levels.

Prospects for continued weakness in consumer demand for meats and larger lamb supplies were factors, the bureau said, tending to minimize the seasonal price increase.

The bureau said marketings of lambs between now and April were expected to be considerably larger than last year, particularly in most corn belt states, Texas and Colorado.

Lamb prices, the bureau said, averaged higher during the first nine months of 1937 than for any similar period since 1929, but dropped sharply from October to December.

NEW ORLEANS REPORT

NEW ORLEANS, Jan. 21. (AP)—An early advance met increased hedge selling in the cotton market here today and the close showed net declines of 1 to 3 points.

The initial advance was attributed to a general expectation of early action on the farm bill but when advices from the capital failed to mention progress on the measure recent buyers took profits.

Foreign markets were generally steady. Liverpool did not come up to early hopes but was offset by slight advances in Egyptian and Indian futures.

Exports continued to increase and reports from spot centers in the interior indicated demand for better grades was absorbing all offerings.

Last prices were at the bottom with March at 8.63, May at 8.69, July at 8.73, Oct. at 8.82-bid and Dec. at 8.86. Spots were steady and middling closed 3 points lower at 8.73.

AVERAGE PRICE

NEW ORLEANS, Jan. 21. (AP)—The average price of middling cotton today at ten southern spot markets was 8.57 cents a pound; average for the past thirty market days 8.45 cents a pound.

NEW YORK REPORT

NEW YORK, Jan. 21. (AP)—Cotton turned irregular today following recent advances. May sold off from 8.61@8.55 and closed at 8.57, with final prices 4 points net lower to 2 higher.

The market opened 1 to 2 points higher, as a little trade, commission house and foreign buying balanced hedging and scattered selling.

Early price changes were held within an extremely narrow range but near months developed an easier tone in the afternoon under March liquidation and hedging in May. The discount of March under December widened to 31 points against 25 points at the close yesterday.

When DeMille stepped off the train a brown-haired little girl pushed her way through the crowds, grabbed his hand and said she was Minnie Jean Lamb, 12, who came the 500 miles from Texarkana, Tex., to explain "I want to go to Hollywood."

"So does almost every one else in the country," replied DeMille who ended the impromptu interview of fast words by saying "You go back to school."

CHICAGO REPORT

CHICAGO, Jan. 21. (AP)—Downturns of 1⅜ cents a bushel maximum formed the net result of Chicago wheat dealings today, with the bottommost prices reached prevailing at the last.

This represented a wheat market fall of nearly 5 cents from recent top figures touched about a week ago. Failure of European demand to develop was largely responsible, together with a few Kansas, Oklahoma and Texas reports of moisture.

Purchases of United States wheat today for overseas shipment totaled less than 200,000 bushels and next to no export business whatever was done in Canadian wheat.

Despite transient early gains of 1 cents, Chicago wheat futures closed ⅞ to 1⅜ under yesterday's finish, May 94½@94⅝, July 89⅝@89½, corn unchanged to ⅝ up, May 60¾@60⅞, July 61¾, oats ¼ off, rye showing ½ to ¾ drop, and provisions unchanged to a setback of 2 cents.

Brown And Ferrell Lead In Baseball Players Tourney

SARASOTA, Fla., Jan. 21. (AP)—Lloyd Brown and Wes Ferrell, a pair of pitchers, tied today for medal honors in the third annual baseball players championship golf tournament.

A third, Dizzy Dean, who said he had bet $1,000 against $20,000 he would win, didn't even qualify for the top flight.

Brown, who throws them left-handed for Cleveland, fired a 36-hole total of 148. Yesterday's leader, Wes Ferrell of Washington, put a 76 alongside his 72 of yesterday.

To give the pitchers the better of any arguments, Jack Russell—formerly of Washington, Boston and Detroit—finished third with 74-78—152.

Joining his teammate Dizzy in the second flight with 161 was Joe Medwick, the slugging Cardinal outfielder.

Others who landed berths in the top eight for match play tomorrow and Sunday were Paul Waner, Pittsburgh, Gerald Walker, Chicago White Sox, and Waston Clark, formerly of Brooklyn, each with 153; Garland Braxton of Indianapolis, 155, and Johnny Moore, Los Angeles, 159.

night and the mercury had not varied more than three degrees from the maximum. Temperatures most of the day on the South Plains ranged in the low forties or high thirties.

Fair And Warmer Forecast

The forecast for this area, according to the main line station, was for fair and warmer weather today with a forecast minimum this morning of approximately 26 degrees.

Lamesa Gets Three-Quarters

An estimated three-quarters of an inch of rain brightened farm prospects at Lamesa and late in the night visibility was cut to a block and a half by a heavy mist. Brownfield estimated its day's moisture at an eighth of an inch with continued cloudy and misty weather. Levelland received a half-inch of rain and mist continued until late in the night.

Littlefield reported a trace of snow early Friday but skies had partially cleared late that night.

Stock Warnings Posted

Dr. J. L. Cline of the government weather bureau posted stock warnings for lowlands of the Trinity river. He said the fall had been general along the river's watershed and the stream might be out of its banks by Saturday morning.

Fort Worth, Houston, Abilene, Austin, Lamesa, Electra, Olney, Ennis, Wink, Wichita Falls, Amarillo, San Antonio, and Memphis, reported rain.

Farmers in the Memphis area hailed moisture as breaking a prolonged drouth, and fine for farm operations. Wichita Falls also accounted the .25 inches it received as good for crops.

Ruthless Killer

cia last Labor Day was confirmed.

These were the highlights of Hoover's account of the Ross kidnaping:

Ross, wealthy clubman, was snatched near Chicago Sept. 25. Anders and Gray hustled him to a cold and clammy dugout near Emily, Minn. Anders photographed him, used the picture in ransom negotiations.

Messenger Delivered Ransom

(Details of the payment have been divulged by George Kukovac in Chicago. He told how he mounted a motorcycle on Oct. 8, sped west from Chicago and tossed the bundle of currency into a roadside ditch five miles east of Rockford. The driver of a car who signalled him by blinking the headlights retrieved the package.)

On Oct. 9, Anders and Gray removed Ross to a plank-lined cave in the forest 12 miles from Spooner. Anders killed Ross and Gray, tossed their bodies into the cave, took Gray's $20,000 share of the ransom. Anders travelled back to Minnesota, cached $30,000 in a portable typewriter case near Walker and wandered about the country until he was seized last Friday at the Santa Anita race track near Los Angeles.

G-Men Recover $30,000

The $30,000 was recovered by G-men. They found $14,402 among Anders' effects on the West coast. He told Hoover between $3,000 and $6,000 was stolen from his car in New York.

Anders' story of abducting the Borcias brought quick elaboration.

Borcia, Chicago cafe proprietor held at Albany, N. Y., on charges of possessing a gun, said Anders and an unidentified companion abducted him and his wife but released him near Lake Geneva, Wis., when he promised to raise $10,000. Later, he was quoted by Kahn, Anders freed Mrs. Borcia upon agreement to accept $5,000. Anders threatened him, he said, when he failed to pay.

At least eight federal agents continued to gather evidence at Spooner. Their presence aroused speculation that they might be seeking confederates who assisted Anders in that area.

Farm Bill Prepared

agreed upon for major crops would include:

Cotton—production for 1938 fixed at 10,600,000 bales. This would be divided among states and translated into acreage, on the basis of past production, and then would be divided among counties and farms. Growers could market all they raised on their allotted acreage. Those not complying with acreage limitations would face a penalty of two cents a pound, $10 a bale, and loss of right to government loans. Normal supply fixed at 18,200,000 bales; marketing controls to operate when indicated supply reached 19,500,000 bales.

Wheat—Production goal for 1938 fixed at 940,000,000 bushels, representing average annual domestic consumption and exports for past ten years and 15 per cent of these for reserve. Farmers could apply limit on sales when indicated supplies at 940,000,000 bushels. Sales in excess of quota would be subject to penalty of 15 cents a bushel.

Corn—Production goal for 1938 fixed at 2,541,000 bushels; marketing control to operate when indicated supply at 2,792,000,000 bushels, if two-thirds of growers approved. Excess sales penalty 15 cents a bushel.

Decision On TVA

no fraudulent attempt made to secure the complainants (18 private utility companies) markets. If the TVA is legal, she said the complainants would have no right to object to its competition.

No Conspiracy Evident

Judge Allen said there was no conspiracy between the PWA and the TVA to destroy the complainants. She said the loaning of PWA money to municipalities was not denied, but that the evidence did not establish a conspiracy.

The utilities charged the TVA designed high dams to provide power production as well as flood control and navigation and that lower, non-power dams could meet the flood control and navigation program of the TVA.

Would Violate Powers

They contended also that even though the dams might be constitutional, the federal government could not conduct electricity into the states and sell it and agree on rates and re-sale rates because this would violate the police powers of the states.

The utility firms alleged the TVA's chief function is the production of power, and not flood control and navigation.

The court denied the injunction sought by the power companies and dismissed their suit.

Automobile Men Talk With FDR

will continue to help millions of families to a higher standard of living, with a corresponding increase in employment.

Bad Business For All

"But high-pressuring customers, or permitting their desires to take them into debt beyond their means, is bad business all around.

"We agreed to meet and discuss among ourselves any possible improvements relating to the subjects discussed and report back to the president."

Macauley said Mr. Roosevelt explained that certain terms which might be highly proper as applied to automobiles would be undesirable as applied to other products.

Discuss Stabilizing Employment

The spokesman said the conferees discussed stabilization of employment as "a very desirable thing."

Some of the participants said privately it was the first time within their recollection that a Ford had been persuaded to sit down with the rest of the industry to talk over mutual problems.

The president's idea on assembling the leaders of an industry was that primarily they should canvass the sales outlook and fit production to it, thereby stabilizing employment.

The statement that the manufacturers and finance men had agreed in principle with the president on installment credit led reporters to recall that Mr. Roosevelt at a press conference had criticized permitting installments to run over a period of two years, indicating he believed this led to overselling the market and an ultimate decline in production.

Some senators reported recently that the chief executive favored a system under which no auto purchaser would be permitted to incur an installment obligation whose total exceeded one-fourth of his annual income.

The meeting with the automobile men was another in a series of conferences looking toward a system under which, Mr. Roosevelt said at a press conference today, industrial groups could gather to exchange information.

New Pastor Named

Farland, O. A. Terry and Joe N. Nislar.

He suceeeds Rev. W. R. Vivrett, who resigned the pastorate recently after holding it three and one-half years so that he might enter Yale university Divinity school for a three-year course.

Exchanged Pulpits

Coincidentally, the new pastor has just completed a course in the same school and, still more remarkable, while there he was pastor of the nearby Fort Trumbul Beach Christian Christian church which now is occupied by Vivrett.

Mrs. Gantz, who accompanied the new pastor here, also has been active in work of the denomination and is a member of the board of the Texas Womens Missionary society. She is a native of Oklahoma City.

Reared At Pampa

Gantz was born in the Oklahoma Panhandle, seven miles across the line from Texas. He was reared at Pampa where his parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. G. Gantz, and many other relatives make their home.

After brief and successful experience in the insurance business, Gantz decided to enter the ministry. His preparation for his life's work has been extensive and thorough. After graduating from Cisco Junior college he entered Phillips university at Enid, Okla., obtaining A.B., Master's and B.D. degrees there.

Successful At Fort Worth

Then he became the outstandingly successful pastor of the Chestnut Avenue Christian church in Fort Worth, occupying the pulpit there from 1933 into 1936. During his pastorate, there were more than 400 additions to the church, $4,000 in debts were paid and a parsonage was built and paid for.

He resigned there to enter Yale Divinity school, where he remained 18 months, obtaining a seven-year B.D. degree there. He was president of the Campbell club, an organization of members of the Christian church, while at Yale.

At Fort Worth he was pastor-councillor for the district Christian Endeavor. He also served as secretary and later as vice president of the Fort Worth General Ministers association where, for a time, he was associated with Dr. W. R. White former pastor of Lubbock First Baptist church and then pastor of the Fort Worth Broadway Avenue Baptist church. Dr. White now is pastor of the First church at Oklahoma City.

Texans Gathered At Capital Feed

(By The Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, Jan. 21. — The Texas congressional delegation and more than a score of other Texans gathered today at a "good will" luncheon.

Their hosts were Burris Jackson, Hillsboro postmaster, and Roy Miller, former mayor of Corpus Christi.

Jackson informed the group "there is no political significance" to the occasion.

Among the invited guests were Jesse H. Jones, chairman of the Reconstruction Corporation; Postmaster General Farley; Karl Crowley, solicitor of the postoffice department; Marshall Diggs, deputy comptroller general; Eugene Black, member of the court of tax appeals; W. A. Tarver, Clay Nash, Col. William Lyons, Myron Blalock, W. B. Luna and John White..

Dr. McKay Assigned To Write Articles For History Work

Assignments for articles in the Dictionary of American History, proposed publication of Scribners, include three to Dr. S. S. McKay, professor of history at Texas Technological college.

Present assignments include only those of letters, A. B. and C.

Doctor McKay's articles will deal with the history of business clubs; the Coke-Davis controversy in Texas history, at the time when Texas had two governors; and the history of Carlsbad caverns. The latter treatment is singularly significant since a Texan was asked to trace history of the caverns, located in New Mexico.

Fact that he was author of 10 sketches in the Dictionary of American Biography, which was published by Scribners last year after 10 years of collecting material, is attributed by Doctor McKay as reason for the request from the publishers.

Oklahoma Girl Runs Away From Home To Return To State School; Hearing Held

(By The Associated Press)

TULSA, Okla., Jan. 21.—Barbara Parker, 14-year-old Tulsa girl who ran away from home to return to the girls state industrial school at Tecumseh, testified today at a hearing to determine whether she should be re-committed to the institution.

County Judge Jerome Fischer continued the hearing until later in the day after Barbara's father, Ray E. Parker, her stepmother, and Dr. Benjamin Ward, Tulsa physician, had testified.

At one point during the questioning Barbara replied sharply to the judge's query whether she had tried to be good to her parents, "Judge, I think you would know that any child tries to obey his parents."

Questioning brought from Barbara the facts she wanted to go back to Tecumseh because she felt more at home there even though she did have a good home here with her father, that she read a great deal and that Alexander Dumas was her favorite author.

Dr. Ward testified she was precocious, her mental age being about 18.

ASK EMERGENCY CHARGES

WASHINGTON, Jan. 21. (AP) — The National Retail Dry Goods association, with a membership of 5,700 stores and sales in excess of $4,000,000,000 annually, told the Interstate Commerce commission today, any increase in freight rates granted railroads should be in the form of emergency charges carrying an expiration date.

The association said it did not oppose an increase if the need was demonstrated.

Oil Tank Afire In Wink Field

(By The Associated Press)

WINK, Jan. 21.—A fiercely blazing 80,000 barrel oil tank collapsed on the S. M. Halley tank farm, ten miles from here, today, throwing burning oil over a firewall, and endangering four other huge tanks.

The fire outside the wall, however, was quickly controlled.

Owners feared damage by the blaze would be between $90,000 and $100,000.

Workers earlier had attempted pumping oil to reduce the length of the fire, which owners estimated would burn a week. The oil was ignited by lightning last night.

The tank was leased by Shell Petroleum company.

Texas Flier Killed In Plane's Crash

FAYETTEVILLE, N. C., Jan. 21. (AP)—An army airplane crashed and burned near here today, killing Lieutenants Lewis Elliott Countway and Earle T. McArthur, both stationed at nearby Fort Bragg.

Countway was about 23 years old, and his home was in Quincy, Mass. He was a reserve officer but had been on active duty at Pope field, Fort Bragg, since last July.

McArthur, about 28 years old, was a regular army officer. His home address was Paris, Texas. He is survived by his widow and two children.

Pope field headquarters said no witness to the accident had been found.

The charred wreckage of the plane was discovered in a wooded tract about four miles from the flying field.

The two officers were engaged in a routine flight McArthur was believed to have been piloting the plane.

Land Ownership In Park's Path

(By The Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, Jan. 21.—Arno B. Cammerer, National Park service director, said today the service was ready to go ahead with the proposed Big Bend national park in Texas as soon as the land was donated to the federal government.

He told a recent conference of park officials "it would be a shame if the people of Texas muff their chance to establish Big Bend national park."

"Texans, I am sure, are anxious for the early success of Brewster county's campaign to raise funds to acquire the land, and the park service is just as eager as they are. We can't of course, use federal funds for this purpose."

Cammerer said he was enthusiastic over the proposal to co-operate with Mexico in establishing a joint international park. He said, however, Mexico was holding up its offer to set aside 440,000 acres on its side of the Rio Grande until the Big Bend park was actually established.

TURKEY DRINKS TEA

ISTANBUL. (AP)—Turkey is taking steps to grow her own tea so as to keep at home the $4,000,000 a year she now spends importing it from Iran, China and Ceylon.

Successful experiments in the Black sea area preceded the present scheme of giving free land and tea seeds to planters who will grow it.

If all goes well, it is thought self sufficiency will be attained in three years when importation will be prohibited.

The average elevation of Africa above sea level is 2,000 feet.

Liquor Taxes In Texas Mounting

(By The Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, Jan. 21.—Treasury accountants reported today federal government had collected $13,948,538.73 in. taxes on alcoholic beverages sold in Texas since prohibition repeal.

The treasury said those figures were the latest compiled and covered collections from Dec. 1, 1933, through Nov. 31, 1937.

Federal enforcement of liquor statutes in the New Orleans district, including Louisiana, Mississippi and Texas, cost only $707,761.92, the treasury reported. It estimated slightly more than one-third of the enforcement cost total was spent in Texas.

Show Rapid Rise

Figures by years showed a rapid rise in collections. They folow:

From Dec. 1, 1933, through June 30, 1934, $756,449.35; for the 1935 fiscal year, $2,787,069.39; for 1936, $3,549,408.85; for 1937, $4,537,410.63; for the period July 1 through Nov. 31, 1937, $776,945.39.

The treasury report for the 1937 fiscal year, recently published, showed the following Texas seizures: stills, 867; distilled spirits, 16,065 gallons; mash, 335,052 gallons; win, 145 gallons; automobiles, 353 and trucks, 34.

Alcohol tax unit enforcement agents reported seized property was appraised at $149,527. They said 1,982 arrests were made for violations of alcohol control statutes. Treasury officials did not make public the number of convictions obtained.

A comparison with 1936 figures showed an increase in the enforcement cost in the New Orleans d... trict. The cost in 1936 was $67... 759.09.
