Justice White to retire

Clinton can alter court's conservative tilt

■ JFK-appointed justice is to leave at end of term.

Associated Press

WASHINGTON — Supreme Court Justice Byron R. White said Friday he will retire this summer, giving President Clinton a quick opportunity to begin reversing the high court's Reagan-era conservative tilt.

Appointed 31 years ago by President Kennedy, the 75-year-old White had sided with court conservatives on many issues, especially on such divisive matters as abortion and church-state relations. He told Clinton in a letter he had an "interesting and exciting" tenure and it was time to give someone else a chance.

Clinton praised White and pledged to nominate an outstanding replacement but offered few clues as to the qualifications he would seek.

White's departure almost certainly will begin to move the court back from its rightward swing of the past dozen years. But the replacement of a single justice is likely to bring changes that are more subtle than profound.

There had been much speculation recently that Justice Harry A. Blackmun as well as White would retire soon. Speaking to law students in Boston earlier this month, the 84-year-old Blackmun said, "I know how old I am and I don't intend to stay there very much longer."

Five of the court's other seven members are conservatives appointed since 1981 by Presidents Reagan and Bush. And a sixth, Chief Justice William H. Rehnquist, was promoted by Reagan in 1986 after establishing himself in 14 years as the court's leading conservative.

During his presidential campaign, Clinton promised to appoint justices who share his support of abortion rights. He shied away from offering names, but once said he thought New York Gov. Mario Cuomo would make a superb Supreme Court justice.

Those often mentioned as potential nominees in a Democratic administration include federal Circuit Court Judge Richard S. Arnold of Little Rock, a longtime Clinton friend. Also, federal judge Amalya

Foreign winner

AUSTIN — Texas' latest lotto jackpot winner had to get travel papers to claim his $8 million prize. Jose Luis Fernandez of Juarez is the first resident of Mexico to win the jackpot, Texas Lottery Director Nora Linares said at a Friday news conference. Fernandez, 39, had a friend buy his ticket in El Paso. When he found out he won, he applied for a one-day pass to come to Austin to claim his winnings./8A

Breaks ranks

WASHINGTON — Texas Congressman Pete Geren was one of only three Democrats to break ranks with his party on President Clinton's recipe for deficit reduction and vote instead for a rival Republican plan. Although the White House and the House Democratic leadership played hardball to keep Democrats in line, Geren said Friday he expects no repercussions./10A

Winter gives way to spring

By Mitchell Landsberg
Associated Press writer

Congratulations. You made it.

It was a long, hard, cold winter, but spring officially begins today. If the weather is rotten from now on, it's someone's terrible mistake. The calendar says that flowers will blossom, birds will sing, young men's fancies will turn to love and Ricky Henderson (outfielder for the Oakland A's) will whine about his pay.

At long last.

It is time for picnic baskets, allergy pills, fishing rods, Little League, bug repellent, tennis racquets, short sleeves, potting soil, barbecues, golf clubs, car wax, sunglasses, lawn mowers and the Easter bunny.

In New Ipswich, N.H., Dr. Fred Giamo, a dentist by trade and fisherman by avocation, is tying flies and waiting longingly for the ice to break in the trout streams.

"It's been a long winter," he said.

Across the country at the Kirkwood ski resort in California's Sierra Nevada, Greg Murtha is digging out of his snow-covered condominium — the drifts are 30 feet high — and dreaming of summer days on a sailboard.

"Enough is enough," he said.

If winter is the mother of spring, as the poet John Greenleaf Whittier said, this spring had one wild and tempestuous parent.

In the East, there was the Great Blizzard of 1993, as well as a lollapalooza of a storm in December

2 men leave cult compound

WACO (AP) — Two more people left the heavily armed compound of the Branch Davidian sect late Friday, the first to depart in a week.

The two men left with law officers in red four-wheel drive vehicle about 8:30 p.m., according to a federal source who asked not to be named.

Earlier in the day, federal authorities characterized negotiations with cult leader David Koresh to end a 20-day standoff as the "most positive" since March 2.

Twenty-five people, including 21 children, have previously left the cult's rural home near Waco. There are 40 men, 46 women and 17 children still inside, according to figures Koresh has provided to law officers.

Authorities have detained the four adults who left earlier as material witnesses to the Feb. 28 gun battles that began the siege. Four federal Bureau of Alcohol, Tobacco and Firearms agents and at least two cultists died in firefights when agents tried to search the sect's home for illegal weapons and ar-

Former car dealer to pay restitution

By Darren J. Waggoner
Staff writer

A former Midland car dealer was sentenced to 10 years probation Friday and was ordered to pay restitution to his customers after pleading guilty to felony theft, according to the Midland County District Attorney's office.

H.L. "Cherokee" Sloan, 65, must pay numerous former customers about $40,000 in funds the dealership collected for extended warranties but did not turn over to insurance companies, officials said. He also owes Midland County over $6,000 from bad checks on license tags and vehicle titles.

McKenna tells community how to unlock educational excellence

By Myra Lee Salcedo
Staff writer

Several hundred persons hoping to find the right combination of elements to unlock educational excellence may have heard some tumblers click into place Friday night.

George McKenna — an educator featured in national magazines and the subject of a television movie about his accomplishments as a principal in a South Central Los Angeles high school — served as the master "locksmith" for the evening.

The keynote speaker kicked off the "Education Combination" forum sponsored by the Midland Chamber of Commerce and organized by the local Education Partnerships Committee.

Hundreds of attendees packed the Petroleum Club to attend the Friday night dinner banquet and hear McKenna speak.

"I want to thank the Midland chamber for your service to our school system. I am overwhelmed by the support here," said Joseph Baressi Jr., superintendent of Midland Independent School District.

"I am the first to recognize our school district has a lot of problems. I am beyond the denial stage. But, we can have the best school system in the state, if not the country," he said.

McKenna, superintendent of Inglewood School District in California, applauded the interest in education expressed by the attendance of educators, citizens, and business persons.

State Bar of Texas launches campaign against barratry

By Ed Todd
Staff writer

Whether it's called, "ambulance chasing" or barratry, the improper solicitation of clients by attorneys tends to tarnish the image of lawyers and to turn potential clients into victims.

The State Bar of Texas, which licenses and monitors Texas' 55,000-plus lawyers, is informing Texans about the unethical and illegal practice of barratry and is asking people to report any barratry cases by calling the bar at 1-800-633-6630.

"It hurts the whole profession — those few people (lawyers) out there who do not play by the rules," said Midland lawyer Jim Alsup, a director of the State Bar of Texas. "And I think it is important that we try to identify those (unethical lawyers) to either rehabilitate them or get them out of the system."

Alsup was among state bar representatives who gathered at the Midland County Courthouse on Friday to express the bar's concern with barratry.

While "barratry is akin to advertising," advertising, if properly done in the media is legal, Alsup said.

"A lot of lawyers, especially the older lawyers, don't

Today's high to reach 70s

Staff report

Today's forecast calls for cloudy skies with a high in the lower 70s and northeast wind at five to 15 miles per hour. Tonight should be fair with a low in the mid-40s, according to the National Weather Service in Midland.

Sunday should be cloudy with a high in the lower 70s.

After an overnight low of 49, Friday's high reached 68 compared with the record high for that date of 88 set in 1976. The record low for that date is 14 set in 1965.

STATE

Storms dumped rain on most of the state Friday, but the sun managed to peek through the clouds in parts of West Texas.

A trough of low pressure in South Texas produced a line of storms, some severe, that thundered over portions of the Hill Country Friday afternoon.

Skies across the region were cloudy to mostly cloudy amid 60 to 70 degree temperatures.

Forecasters call for cloudy skies and showers and thunderstorms through today with lows in the 50s and 60s, highs in the 60s and 70s.

An approaching upper level storm from New Mexico formed showers and thunderstorms in West Texas, and produced especially severe storms in the Concho Valley.

Clearing skies are predicted over the Far West and Big Bend through tonight with lows in the 30s and 40s. Highs Saturday should be from the lower 60s in the Panhandles to the lower 90s in Big Bend.

Widespread showers and scattered thunderstorms descended upon North Texas with hail and very heavy rain reported in the south central portion. The precipitation in the east should end today and decreasing cloudiness is predicted west and central with highs in the 60s and lows in the mid 40s.

NATION

Freezing temperatures reigned from the central Appalachians to New England on Friday on the last day of winter, but skies were mostly clear and dry. Snow dusted parts of the Midwest and Great Lakes.

Skies were also clear in most of the western third of the nation, except in the Northwest and Montana.

The Associated Press contributed to this report.

The Dawgs and Rebels 25th Annual Chili Supper will be served from 11 a.m.-7 p.m. today in the Midland High School cafeteria and local school bands will perform. In Tuesday's newspaper the incorrect date was listed for the event.

The Reporter-Telegram regrets the error.

SLOAN: Ex-dealer receives probation

(From 1A)

Sloan will receive eredit for an unspecified amount of money pending in bankruptcy court.

His son and former partner, Joe Sloan — who signed the bad checks — was exonerated from any knowledge in the case after his father testified he was not involved, officials said.

On March 30, 1992, the vacant Sloan Brothers Buick/Mazda building was destroyed in a fire. The blaze was later ruled to have been intentionally set but no arrests were made in the case, according to Midland County Fire Marshall Jerry Petree.

The building, which housed records from the defunct car dealership, was not insured.

According to Petree, the arson case will remain open for five years, when the statute of limitations expires.

FORUM: 'Education is the answer'

(From 1A)

"I am delighted to be here. It is quite an event to see so many people interested in education ... Very few places have the dilemma of having more people wanting to be here than you have room for," McKenna said, noting that the entire community is needed to solve the problems in education. " ... I submit to you: Individual acts of heroism are insufficient to institutionalize excellence, especially in the public schools."

The speaker, who grew up in segregated New Orleans, used the example of people walking rather than riding the bus to make a statement about segregated busing.

"Someone said: 'We will walk, but we must all walk together.' One person, all alone walking out there — one individual act of heroism — wouldn't make a difference," he said. "We were all (blacks and whites) mutually oppressed and equally disadvantaged to believe that some belonged in the front of the bus and some belonged in the back of the bus. Free people understand the commonality of a unified effort."

Agreeing with the forum's theme, "It takes an entire community to educate a child," McKenna said, "Whatever problem in is the community, education is the answer."

He said the concept of "dropping a child off at school in kindergarten, picking them up in the 12th grade and praying to Jesus in between," is not involvement.

"How can we be non-participatory in our own redemption?" he said.

The educator said the greatest payoffs in education and in life result from helping those with the greatest need.

"Any community who pays attention to the least powerful can raise the whole community. We carried wheelchairs up and down stairs for years until someone passed a law making us build ramps. If ramps are good for the least of us, they are good for the rest of us. In fact, I prefer to walk down ramps. I would rather fall down a ramp than stairs," he said, garnering laughs.

McKenna recommended forming student peer counseling teams of senior high school students "as well-trained as your Texas football teams."

"Have it be their mission not to let anybody drop out," he said. "They can call people every day, pick them up, throw rocks at their bedroom window to get them up, whatever it takes ... Make them fight to drop out. I have had some dropouts tell me: 'I dropped out and nobody came to get me.'"

Nationally known for turning out motivated achievers from Los Angeles' George Washington Preparatory High School, McKenna said he did so operating on a principal of love. "And love is a behavior of growing, sharing and sacrificing. It is a situation where everybody in the school is an extended family."

The former high school principal said students should also be required to perform community service projects.

"As part of playing football make those athletes get up Saturday morning after a Friday night game and read to the blind, or feed the elderly. What good does it do for a man to approach manhood with a golden arm if he has no heart?"

McKenna said performing community service should be required rather than voluntary.

"I became a mathematician. A mathematician put a man on the moon. Algebra was not voluntary. We can't allow kids to choose what they want to do because they will always choose the easy road. A coach is the closest thing to God on a football team. If he tells you to do pushups in the mud until he tells you to stop you are thankful he tells you to stop, and you say: 'Thank you, coach.' How hard would it be for that coach to suggest community service?"

Decrying using violence or severe discipline in the schools, and referring to the principal who carried a bullhorn and baseball bat on campus, McKenna said he brought parents into classrooms and "mamas to patrol the halls."

"We need mentors in the community and male role models. There are more gang members in L.A. than we have soldiers in Somalia. And it never happens that women form gangs and men join," he said.

The speaker said he likes to see a parent in the back of each classroom every day. He suggested paying teachers "bounties" for parents attending to give the teachers an incentive to be observed. He also noted that he wrote a law, passed in California in 1991, that gives parents four hours a year of paid leave from work for every child in order to visit their children's classrooms.

"If it's good enough for the criminal justice system, and grand juries, why not for education?" he said.

As for teachers reluctant to have parents observe classes, he said, "Excellence has nothing to fear from observation."

He said indicators of campus excellence cannot be found in test scores, but rather, in asking the question, "If you could, would you send your own child to this school?" He said income should not be equated with ability to achieve. "If we increase the income, will intelligence go with it? Will raising income increase the ability to learn?"

"Putting love into the curriculum is a powerful weapon," McKenna said. "You people in this room have the power to change the world, or the world in Midland as you know it. Do it with love and concern."

G. Ernest Gilkerson, vice president of community development for the Midland Chamber of Commerce, said the forum, which continues with free workshops today, was created in support of education. He applauded the entire MISD school board for attending.

"This evening is an exciting beginning for the community. We have lots of important work to do," said Janna King, chamber president and CEO. "This (forum) was developed on the idea of business and education working together. We are all aware of the problems. This is not a conference focusing on the problems. It is an opportunity to solve them."

The conference will continue with free workshops beginning 8:45 a.m. today in Midland College's Fine Arts building. Registration begins at 8 a.m. and lunch will be provided free of charge for attendees. The final session will begin wrapping up at 2:30 p.m.

Each workshop is co-chaired by a member of both the education and business community.

He was born May 1, 1914, in Presidio. He had lived in Andrews and Mexico. He was a Catholic.

Survivors include: four sons, Jesus Guillen of Mexico, Enrique Guillen of Andrews, Salome Guillen of Van Horn and Adon Guillen of Hobbs, N.M.; four daughters, Socoro Carmona of Van Horn, Juana Muro of Hobbs, Teresa Navarrette of Van Horn, and Delma Mendoza of Andrews; one brother, Eamano Enrique Guillen of Bovina; 40 grandchildren and 18 great-grandchildren.

Dolores Fincher

Services for Dolores Fincher are set for 1 p.m. Monday at Ellis Funeral Home Chapel with the Rev. Chuck Chapman of Northeast Community Baptist Church officiating. Burial will follow in Resthaven Memorial Park under the direction of Ellis Funeral Home.

Mrs. Fincher died Friday.

SPRING: It's time for picnic baskets, baseball and fishing that technically struck in late autumn but had winter written all over it.

(From 1A)

In much of the West, rain, snow and mud engulfed and drowned the six-year drought.

There were floods in the arid Southwest; bone-dry and bone-chilling weather in the Pacific Northwest. Only the Midwest had anything resembling a normal winter.

Didn't it seem as if people kept getting lost in snowy woods and then rescued? Didn't it seem as if the phrase "hurricane-force" got tossed around a lot more than usual? Didn't it seem as if spring would never come?

For the nation as a whole, statistics show that this was the 23rd coldest and ninth wettest winter in 98 years. But the statistics lie. It was a harder winter than that.

Climatologists, it seems, don't use the astronomical definition of winter (Dec. 21 to March 20). According to their definition, winter consists of the months of December, January and February.

"Twenty-third coldest out of 98 years is nothing to write home about," observed Patrick Michaels, the Virginia state climatologist and an associate professor at the University of Virginia. "But when you add March into that, I think you will have ... a winter that has been unusually cold and long."

Why? Who knows?

Some people talk about the eruption at Mount Pinatubo or the ever-popular "El Nino" effect. Michaels says he doubts either had much to do with it.

He likes the dumb luck theory. "I think we have to file this in that great bin of statistics that says, 'Unusual Events Happen,'" he said.

Some of us know better. The groundhog did it.

As anyone knows who saw the movie "Groundhog Day" or saw the real event, the witless rodent saw his own shadow this year. That guaranteed six more weeks of winter. (Don't ask why.)

And sure enough, shortly after Feb. 2 — bingo! — cold weather settled in with a vengeance. Or so it seemed.

Next year, we shoot the groundhog. This year — well, there's still the spring.

After all, hope never wintered eternal.

WHITE: Clinton offers few clues to choice for replacement

(From 1A)

Lyle Kearse of New York, a woman who was on Clinton's early list of attorney general candidates.

Others mentioned by Democrats and liberals include Laurence H. Tribe of Harvard, well-known liberal legal scholar; Stephen G. Breyer, chief judge of the 1st Circuit Court of Appeals in Boston; Jose A. Cabranes, chief judge of the federal court in New Haven, Conn., and Senate Majority Leader George Mitchell of Maine, a former federal judge.

Clinton on Friday thanked White for giving so much advance notice and said he would get to work on choosing a successor this weekend.

Interest groups served notice that they'd be watchful.

"A new appointment will give the president a chance to assure that women have both the legal right to choose abortion and the ability to exercise that right," said Kathryn Kolbert of the Center for Reproductive Law and Policy.

Clinton Bolick of the conservative Institute for Justice said, "We hope Bill Clinton will not use this nomination as an ideological battleground. If he does, we assure him it will turn into a judicial Armageddon."

The last Democratic president to make a Supreme Court appointment was Lyndon B. Johnson, who picked Thurgood Marshall in 1967.

On the current court, White is the only member appointed by a Democrat, Kennedy in 1962.

"After 31 years, Marion (his wife) and I think someone else should be permitted to have a like experience." White said in announcing he will retire at the end of the current court term, in June or July.

White, gruff and brainy, is often a relentless interrogator of the lawyers who appear before the court.

Former Solicitor General Rex Lee, now president of Brigham Young University, laughed Friday when asked if he had found White to be intimidating early in Lee's string of 57 cases argued before the court.

"I found him intimidating early, in the middle, and at the end," Lee said. "There was no one tougher because there was no one more prepared. He is a man of great intellect with a passion for the law."

White voted to let states outlaw most abortions. He opposes broad use of affirmative-action hiring to remedy past bias in employment, and he favors greater government accommodation of religion in ways some consider a violation of church-state separation.

He generally has voted on the "law and order" side in cases pitting protection of society against individual rights.

White, the court's senior member in years served, has a long resume. To a generation of Americans, he is best known as an All-America football player at the University of Colorado where he picked up a nickname, "Whizzer," that he grew to hate.

He also played professional football with the Pittsburgh Steelers and Detroit Lions.

White was a Rhodes scholar, decorated war veteran, high-honors graduate of Yale Law School, law clerk to Chief Justice Fred Vinson and a deputy attorney general under Attorney General Robert F. Kennedy.

White wrote the majority opinion in 1987 when the court ruled that homosexuals' privacy rights do not protect them from state laws making sodomy a crime.

He also has taken a narrow view of the First Amendment's free-speech and free-press protections.

In his retirement announcement, White said that he and his wife plan to remain in Washington, and that he would move his office to the new Thurgood Marshall Federal Judiciary Building.

The Whites have two children and six grandchildren.

BAR: Improper solicitation by lawyers is illegal, group says believe in advertising," Alsup said.

(From 1A)

"I may be a little old-fashioned," said Midland County Attorney Mark H. Dettman, "but I don't think lawyers should advertise at all. It (law) is supposed to be a profession, not a production."

Dettman said he can think of "nothing more despicable than, after an airplane crash or some other tragedy, for a greedy lawyer to come along and sign up the grieving family" for litigation. They do it."

The state bar held 10 simultaneous news conferences on Friday, from Houston to El Paso, to campaign against barratry.

In the past year, the state bar has disciplined two lawyers for barratry, said Marcy Goodfleisch, the state bar's public information liaison in Austin. Additionally, two other lawyers are in barratry proceedings.

In recent years, between 250 and 270 Texas lawyers have been disciplined each year for unethical and/or illegal practices. Discipline may be through private or public reprimand or through disbarment.

Lawyers or their agents are forbidden to contact potential clients in person or by telephone to drum up business for themselves even if their apparent overriding concern is the welfare of the possibly wronged or harmed potential client. Such contact is deemed "ambulance chasing" and often is associated with personal-injury cases, automobile, airplane or train crashes, and industrial accidents.

"The problem really arises when you look at whose interest ... the attorney is actually pursuing," said Midland lawyer Max Wright, a member of the Texas Association of Defense Counsel (TADC).

In civil litigation wherein damages are sought, lawyers may enter into agreements with their clients for a fee equal to 33⅓ percent or 40 percent or more of court-awarded damages or any settlement.

"The actions of a few unethical attorneys seriously damage the image and reputation of the legal profession," Wright said, "and undermine the effort of the vast majority of attorneys to practice law in an ethical and honest manner."

Wright said the TADC supports "tough new legislation" designed to curtail "the illegal and unethical actions of a few rotten apples before they spoil the whole barrel."

Wright noted that society has "always viewed litigation as not being particularly desirable."

"It's stressful. It's hard on folks," Wright said. "There are a lot of people who had rather not be put in that position (and) really aren't in a position to evaluate what they are getting into" particularly if they are contacted by a lawyer shortly after a traumatic experience.

While the lawyer may tell the potential client that he or she will be "glad to help you," any agreement or contract between the lawyer and client would guarantee "the attorney some pecuniary award out of representing that person's rights.

"And this really takes unfair advantage of people," Wright said, and "puts them in something that really may not be good for them — for the lawyer's own financial interest."

The state bar's campaign against barratry is "trying to eliminate ... that manipulation of the public," Wright said.

Hal Brockett, president of the Midland County Bar, said he, too, is "very supportive" of the state bar's resolve to expunge barratry from its ranks.

"We don't think the situation is real prevalent in Midland County," Brockett said. However, any instance of barratry elsewhere in Texas would tend to reflect unfavorably on all lawyers.

Texas trial lawyers are in agreement that the "legal profession's image suffers serious harm from the actions of a few unscrupulous or unethical attorneys," according to Texas Trial Lawyers Association (TTLA) President Don Bowen. "That's not good for the profession, the legal system, or the consumers of legal services."

Bowen said that the TTLA leadership has been working with Texas Sen. Don Henderson and Texas Reps. Steve Wolens and Tody Goodman on legislative "proposals to strengthen the Texas barratry statute and to further regulate solicitation by attorneys.

"We hear reports of unlawful behavior from time to time," said Dallas lawyer Harriet Miers, who is president of the State Bar of Texas. "But we seldom get witnesses who will come forward and complain."

Ms. Miers said that "victims are usually contacted when they are most vulnerable. In cases of injury, they're solicited right after the accident occurred, when in many cases they're still shaken. That's not the best time for anyone to make an important decision," including the hiring of an attorney.

Ms. Miers said the state bar has heard of "allegations of lawyers, or persons acting for lawyers, infiltrating hospitals and deceiving victims as to who they represent.

Reportedly, ambulance-chasing lawyers or their agents have dressed as members of the clergy, American Red Cross or emergency workers.

"Even families at funeral homes can be targets for these predators," Ms. Miers said.

However, Ms. Miers noted that it is currently legal by court rulings for lawyers to contact potential clients by letter even though that procedure "may be annoying to accident victims." The State Bar of Texas and the Texas Legislature are working to curb that practice.

Tom Cunningham, a Houston attorney who is chairman of the Texas Commission for Lawyer Discipline, said that the commission would like to be more "aggressive in disciplining attorneys who prey on accident victims or contact other potential clients through improper solicitation."

CULT: FBI is more optimistic about negotiations rest Koresh.

(From 1A)

Federal authorities had been told earlier this week that up to 30 cult members were on the verge of leaving the group. On Wednesday, the FBI drove three buses up to the front door of the sect's home to encourage the departure, but to no avail.

In an early morning phone conversation with federal authorities, Koresh "indicated that it was his desire to get this matter resolved," FBI agent Bob Ricks said.

He said the exchange was "a complete change in the demeanor and an active participation in David Koresh . . . an indication that he is now willing to try to work this thing out."

On March 2, authorities thought the standoff would end after they persuaded several radio stations to play a 58-minute sermon from Koresh, a doomsday preacher who has claimed to be Jesus Christ.

But Koresh reneged on his promise to surrender, saying he was waiting for a message from God.

As a result of Friday morning's exchange, authorities delivered a package to the sect that included letters from attorneys who have been retained for them, copies of the original search and arrest warrant, a religious audio cassette and copies of Newsweek, Time and People magazines.

However, Ricks said authorities still do not consider Koresh under arrest and do not intend to unseal affidavits supporting the warrants agents were trying to serve on the group Feb. 28.

Ricks said Koresh believes he has received some signs from God that indicate he should give up and "believes that other things are in motion that would fulfill his desire to have a sign."

"He gave us an indication with regard to certain astrological things that were going on. I won't be more specific than that. But if these things came to pass, we're talking in terms of days, not weeks," he said.

The vernal equinox heralding the start of spring and the Davidian new year will occur today, and Sunday marks the beginning of the zodiac sign of Aries.

Lions Club to host musical groups

LOCAL/AREA REPORTS

■ Kidnapping, assault

ODESSA — Police are searching for a man who abducted and raped a woman at knifepoint early Thursday morning, according to police reports.

The man, believed to be in his mid-30s, approached a woman in the Cheers parking lot at 815 N. Grandview Ave. and forced her into his vehicle. He then drove her to the area of Reed Street and the railroad tracks, where he sexually assaulted her. He is wanted for aggravated kidnapping and aggravated sexual assault, police reports said.

He is described as 5-feet, 11 inches tall with medium brown hair that is long in the back and short on the sides. He has acne scars, a raspy voice and wears western-style clothing, according to reports.

■ Drug arrests

ODESSA — Six people were arrested on drug charges Thursday after an 18 month investigation revealed they were dealing and smuggling heroin and cocaine, Odessa Police said.

The suspects are being held without bond in the Midland County jail. They were officially charged with distribution of a controlled substance — heroin. Law enforcement officers also seized about $500,000 in cocaine and heroin during the course of the investigation, police said.

Those arrested include: Efrain Estrada, 46; Marcos Fierro, 35; Rogelio Villa, 37; Juan Zuniga, 35; Mirella Franco, 31; and Ruperto Saenz, 55.

The joint investigation — which was called the Gulf States Organized Crime Drug Enforcement Task Force — was conducted by the Odessa Police Department, Ector County Sheriff's Office, Midland Police Department, Midland Sheriff's Office, U.S. Marshall's Office, U.S. Customs Service, Department of Public Safety, Drug Enforcement Agency, Federal Bureau of Investigation and the Immigration and Naturalization Service.

■ Bank fraud charge

A 34-year-old Midland woman was arrested Friday by the FBI and charged with one count of bank fraud, officials said.

Bambi Lawson was indicted by a federal grand jury on one count of bank fraud after allegedly defrauding a local bank of about $45,000, officials said.

Ms. Lawson will appear before a U.S. magistrate in Midland at an undetermined date. The maximum penalty for bank fraud is 30 years imprisonment and a $1 million fine.

■ Public lewdness

ODESSA — Four people — including three female dancers and a male bar patron — were arrested for public lewdness Thursday night after being observed at the Torch Club by the Public Lewdness Task Force, Odessa Police said.

The task force is comprised of Odessa police officers, agents of the Permian Basin Drug Task Force and the Texas Alcoholic Beverage Commission, officials said.

The Torch Club — a topless bar — is located at 3007 Kermit Highway.

The charge of public lewdness is a class A misdemeanor.

Man receives life term for assault of disabled

SAN ANTONIO (AP) — Andre Phillip Ragan let only a few minutes pass between the time he was convicted of one sexual assault before he decided to confess to another.

Ragan, 32, was convicted of repeatedly raping a disabled woman. Minutes after he was sentenced to life in prison, he pleaded guilty to raping another disabled woman.

District Judge Mary Roman Thursday ordered that the sentences be "stacked," meaning that Ragan will have to serve at least 30 years before he becomes eligible for parole. That was the maximum sentence on both charges.

Jurors took 18 minutes to convict Ragan and then took just 27 minutes to decide that he should be sentenced to life in prison.

In a hallway outside the courtroom, the 30-year-old victim, who is confined to a wheelchair with acute cerebral palsy, met with emotional jurors. Most of them hugged her, many with tears in their eyes.

One juror said it was horrible for a healthy person to suffer a sexual assault, but the rape of a disabled person was despicable.

Prosecutors Jane Davis and Pat Blaschke had asked jurors in closing arguments to remember what Ragan took from his victim.

"Think about how long it takes a rape victim to forget what has been done to her," Blaschke said. "She remembers those things all of her life."

The other victim, a 21-year-old woman, also suffered from cerebral palsy and lived in the same apartment complex as the first victim.

Ragan had been an attendant for two handicapped men who lived in the complex.

Both women were attacked Jan. 2, 1992.

Ragan had asked the judge not to "stack" the sentences, but his plea for mercy was rejected.

Richards signs anti-stalking measure

AUSTIN (AP) — La Vonne Skalias spent 16 years of her life living in fear.

She received harassing phone calls and threatening notes, and yet there was nothing she could do about it, until the man who had been stalking her raped her.

On Friday, Ms. Skalias watched as Gov. Ann Richards signed into law a bill that makes stalking a crime.

"Once you've been victimized ... your life has been changed, you're always going to have concerns. But this bill is a very important bill, and I believe with all my heart that it will curtail the problem from becoming as severe as mine has been," she said.

Under the new law, which is effective immediately, stalking is defined as conduct that occurs more than once and is designed to harass, annoy, alarm, abuse, torment or embarrass someone. There must also be a threat made against the person, or his or her family or property.

The bill, which won final Legislative approval March 10, was amended in the House to address concerns by such groups as labor unions and abortion opponents about their right to carry out lawful demonstrations.

Juarez resident wins $8 million Texas Lottery drawing

AUSTIN (AP) — Texas' latest lotto jackpot winner had to get travel papers to claim his $8 million prize.

Jose Luis Fernandez of Juarez is the first resident of Mexico to win the jackpot, Texas Lottery Director Nora Linares said at a Friday news conference.

Fernandez, 39, had a friend buy his ticket in El Paso. When he found out he won, he applied for a one-day pass to come to Austin to claim his winnings.

"The official was giving me and my brother a little trouble about proving where we worked. Finally, he asked why we needed to come to Austin, and I told him I was going to claim my lottery winnings," Fernandez, who is bilingual, said in a statement from the lottery office.

"He wrote me a permit for six months immediately. Then he wanted my autograph for his daughter."

Fernandez received a $280,344 initial payment, and he'll get another $280,000 annually for the next 19 years.

Despite his new wealth, Fernandez said he plans to continue working at his assembly-line job at a maquiladora. But asked whether he'll keep at it for the next 19 years, he said, "Probably not."

Fernandez was the only lotto player to match all six numbers from Wednesday's drawing — 7, 9, 16, 17, 27 and 45. He said he chose them from the birthdays of family member and a co-worker's suggestions.

PLANTING TIPS
It's azalea planting time! Use sphagnum peat and azalea food when planting azaleas to add acidity to the soil.
Now is an excellent time to plant trees and shrubs. Use a tree and shrub food to give an extra push to early initial growth.
Prune photinias, hollies and other non-blooming shrubs. Blooming shrubs should be pruned just after flowering is completed.
Continue planting gladiola bulbs, daylilies and canna roots for summer color.

LAWN CARE
•Seed or overseed Fescue grass seed for shady lawns
•"Scalp" lawn if desired, in March, to remove winter-killed stubble. Wear dust mask and goggles.
•Fertilize lawns with 3/1/2 or 4/1/2 ratio lawn food late in March. Repeat at 8 to 10 weed intervals all Summer.
•Apply broadleaf weed killer for weed control.

FREE SOIL TEST

Gramm wants defense finance process done by panel

WASHINGTON (AP) — Texas Sen. Phil Gramm wants the independent commission overseeing military base closings to take control of the defense finance accounting center consolidation interrupted by Defense Secretary Les Aspin.

Gramm and fellow Republican Sens. Trent Lott and Thad Cochran, both of Mississippi, asked the chairman of the Base Closure and Realignment Commission to "aggressively assume jurisdiction of the Defense Finance and Accounting Service consolidation."

"Without question, ample justification exists to support your commission's involvement in the DFAS site selection process," the senators wrote Chairman Jim Courter in a letter Friday.

The base closure commission is reviewing the proposed base closings and realignments list submitted last week by the Defense Department. In the 1990 round of base closings, the commission ordered the Pentagon to submit a DFAS consolidation plan to the 1993 commission.

Twenty cities in 14 states made the semifinalists list for one of several DFAS centers that would involve thousands of jobs. The winners had been expected to be named by March 15. The Pentagon was said to be considering two to five facilities that would employ from 4,000 to 7,000 people.

The semifinalists include Lubbock, Texas, and Jackson, Miss. Three sites in Oklahoma and two in Louisiana also are in consideration.

Base closings commission spokesman Tom Houston said the commissioners haven't yet decided how to handle the DFAS issue.

In his March 12 testimony before Courter's commission, Aspin said he delayed announcing the winners because of his concerns about the way DFAS sites were selected.

Student mends from spring break stabbing

GALVESTON (AP) — A Texas A&M University freshman remained in fair condition Friday after he was stabbed four times — twice in the heart — while home during spring break at Galveston.

University of Texas Medical Branch officials say Christopher T. Shannon, 18, would have died had his friends waited for an ambulance.

Instead, they rushed Shannon to John Sealy Hospital's trauma center themselves.

Shannon was stabbed shortly before midnight Wednesday when he confronted some other youths accused of beating and robbing a man outside a hotel, officials said.

He suffered three knife wounds in the chest and one in the upper left side of his head, according to UTMB spokesman Vandy Anderson.

"He was in very, very critical condition and near death when he arrived," said Anderson.

No suspects had been arrested by Friday, Galveston police said.

Shannon's was the second stabbing during this year's spring break activities in Galveston.

Most Texas Democrats toe line on Clinton's budget

WASHINGTON (AP) — Texas Congressman Pete Geren was one of only three Democrats to break ranks with his party on President Clinton's recipe for deficit reduction and vote instead for a rival Republican plan.

Although the White House and the House Democratic leadership played hardball to keep Democrats in line, Geren said Friday he expects no repercussions.

"I'm sure there's people mad," the Fort Worth lawmaker said. "I don't expect retribution. I don't think that the president is that kind of person."

"The system doesn't work if people base their votes on fear of retribution," Geren said. "You've got to vote your conscience."

The House, in a marathon debate that stretched into early Friday morning, approved along mostly party-line votes a $16.3 billion economic stimulus package and a budget blueprint that would trim shortfalls by $510 billion over the next five years.

Most of Texas' 21 House Democrats endorsed Clinton's twin measures, in what was billed as a crucial test of the young administration's influence. The state's nine Republican members were unanimous in their opposition.

Rep. Ralph Hall of Rockwall was the only other Democrat to join Geren in voting against both the budget and stimulus resolutions.

Geren went a step farther and voted in favor of the rival budget plan crafted by Ohio Republican John Kasich. That plan, which failed on a 295-135 vote, would not have relied on tax increases to reduce the deficit.

Geren said that while he didn't fully agree with Kasich's plan, he felt it was preferable to the Democratic plan, which is "all the taxes up front and the cuts come later."

He and Hall were among the 11 Democrats who broke ranks in the House's 243-183 vote to approve the budget resolution.

The two were joined by a third Texan — Rep. Charles Stenholm of Stamford, a leader of conservative House Democrats — in opposing the president's economic stimulus package, which was endorsed 235-190. The three were among 22 Democrats voting down the jobs package.

Stenholm and his coalition of conservatives questioned the need for Clinton's stimulus package, but a Stenholm amendment that could have eliminated some $10 billion of the $16.3 billion stimulus was blocked by the House Democratic leadership.

It was with "great disappointment" that he was opposing the president's economic stimulus package, Stenholm said, adding that his opposition stemmed from the fact he didn't want to add to the deficit. "I felt that we should pass a stimulus package that includes spending which truly invests in economic growth and we should pay for it by finding rescissions in other areas to offset that spending," he said in a speech prior to the vote.

Stenholm's approach was met with disfavor by some Democrats who argue that with a Democrat in the White House for the first time in a dozen years, Congress should be following Clinton's lead.

"I don't think that we ought to tear apart every single one of his proposals and attempt to substitute our own judgment in every case," Rep. John Bryant, D-Dallas, said in an interview on CNN.

Republican Lamar Smith, who is a member of the House Budget Committee, said the fight is far from over.

"When the American people find out that Congress has voted overwhelmingly for the largest tax increase in history, which is going to hit everybody that makes more than $30,000, they may well put the brakes on it," the San Antonio lawmaker said.

In the Senate, where debate on Clinton's measures will spill into next week, party discipline also held. Democrats defeated, 53-46, a GOP effort to strip Clinton's proposed energy tax from the plan.

Perot organization distributes millions of ballots

DALLAS (AP) — Ross Perot said Friday his political organization has distributed tens of millions of ballots for a nationwide television referendum on government reform that the Texas billionaire will run this weekend.

Many members of the United We Stand America Inc. committee formed from Perot's campaign apparatus were expected to gather at so-called "watch parties" for Perot's presentation.

The 30-minute spot, which the group said will cost about $400,000, is scheduled to air Sunday at 7 p.m. CST on NBC.

"Throughout the country, watch parties are organized," said Sharon Holman, spokeswoman for United We Stand. "In various parts of the country, some are having them at their homes and others at pizza places."

Perot said 34 million of the 17-question referendum ballots were being distributed in TV Guide. In addition, 10,000 newspaper editors were sent ballots along with a letter from Perot seeking their distribution as a public service.

"We need to put discipline into the spending system," Perot told The Associated Press. "Watch Congress: they talk about savings but what they want to do is spend. They treat money like it falls out of the sky. But it comes from hard-working people."

Perot, calling the weekend voting the first such referendum ever, said more balloting — on a different topic — was planned within 60 days. But he called distributing and counting ballots from the first "a Herculean effort."

"The ballots will be mailed to a data processing center in Kentucky. They are the same people who do the processing for census forms," said Tommy Attaway, volunteer coordinator for United We Stand America in Dallas.

Perot used a National Press Club speech Thursday in Washington to promote the electronic town hall meeting. He said his program taped Wednesday in Dallas was a vehicle for ordinary Americans to use.

"All sacrifice must start at the top," Perot said in text of the TV program released Friday by United We Stand. "If our elected officials are going to ask us to sacrifice by paying more taxes ... both the president's and congressional salaries should be cut by at least 10 percent."

Perot, in the program's text, touched on familiar themes from his independent presidential campaign.

"The one thing we cannot do is to spend trillions of dollars again ... and fail," he said. "We must be careful. We must create new programs that work and we must break our past pattern of creating massive new programs that are very expensive ... but fail to deliver for the American people."

Odessa advanced into the seventh place game Saturday against the College of Southern Idaho. Wabash Valley left town with a 26-11 record.

Odessa seemed to have things under control midway through the second half after having posted a 66-39 lead. But Wabash Valley scored 14 unanswered points, nine by Dante Gay, to slice the lead to 66-53.

Wabash Valley got to within eight points twice in the final 1:49 of the game, the last time at 78-70 with 40 seconds remaining.

Atlantic 10 goes 4-0

■ A little-known conference shows it can play with the big boys.

Associated Press

There are subplots in this NCAA tournament, factors outside the usual Team A-vs.-Team B stuff. One of the better ones is the rivalry between the conferences, and the early winner is the little-known Atlantic 10.

With George Washington's surprising 82-68 victory over New Mexico and Massachusetts' 54-50 win over Pennsylvania on Friday, the Atlantic 10 found itself with all four of its qualifiers in the second round. Temple beat Missouri and Rhode Island took Purdue on Thursday.

To get an idea of how much this means to the conference, one only had to catch a glimpse of Atlantic 10 commissioner Ron Bertovich outside George Washington's locker room in Tucson, Ariz.

"Attaboy, attaboy! Way to go! Four-for-four! Four-for-four!" Bertovich yelled as he slapped players, coaches and trainers like a baseball manager whose team had just swept four straight games in the World Series.

It was a moment of redemption for Bertovich because some had questioned the four berths for his conference, one more than the better-known Big East.

"I'm not saying we had to sweep all four to show we belonged," Bertovich said. "If we had lost some, it wouldn't have taken away from what our conference accomplished this season. We're always the underdog, but for right now I think we showed that we belonged."

The Atlantic Coast Conference is also doing well at 5-1, but all of its teams were seeded sixth or higher. The Atlantic 10 has Massachusetts seeded third, but Temple is a No. 7 seed, Rhode Island a No. 8 and George Washington a No. 12.

"I thought all along that we deserved to have four teams in the tournament, but no one was going to believe it until we proved it on the court," Bertovich said.

In other first round games Friday, Virginia beat Manhattan 78-66 and New Mexico State surprised Nebraska 93-79 in the East Regional; Wake Forest defeated Tennessee-Chattanooga 81-58, Iowa downed Northeast Louisiana 82-69 and Kentucky crushed Rider 96-52 in the Southeast; Oklahoma State beat Marquette 74-62, Louisville defeated Delaware 76-70 and Xavier downed New Orleans 73-55 in the Midwest; and Southern upset Georgia Tech 93-78 and Michigan beat Coastal Carolina 84-

Rebels to host Broncs

By Bill Price
Staff writer

While Midland Lee tries to retain is perfect District 4-5A baseball record today at home against Odessa High, Midland High will take the road to Odessa Permian and attempt to keep within striking distance of the top half of the standings.

Early in the league season, Lee, Permian and Abilene Cooper are all 2-0 in district for a first-place tie. MHS and San Angelo are 1½ games back at 0-1, while Abilene High and Odessa High are 0-2.

Lee (13-2 overall) will host OHS at 2 p.m. on Johnson Field, and the Rebels are coming off a 9-3 victory Tuesday at San Angelo, a game where the Rebels scored seven runs in the top of the seventh inning to come back from a 3-2 deficit.

■ 4-5A Baseball

That victory extended the Rebs' winning streak to 10 games and again displayed their propensity for putting together at least one big inning per game.

"Like I've said before, you never know what's going to happen with these kids. We played well to pull that win out in the seventh inning," said Lee head coach Jesse Benavidez.

■ Mustangs atop standings after first day of Tall City Invitational boys golf tournament.

By Terry Williamson

Youth and Andrews were served during the opening round of the Tall City Invitational high school golf tournament Friday at Green Tree Country Club.

Andrews junior Derrick Pursley staged a dramatic 25-foot eagle putt on the final hole of the day to become the only player in the 14-team field to break par with a 72.

And Pursley's Class 4A teammates combined for a 313 team score to take the first day team lead by four strokes over Class 5A Amarillo High. Midland Lee stands in third place at 321, eight strokes off the pace of the Mustangs.

Pursley's one-under par was two strokes better than the rest of the medalist field as Amarillo High's Ty Cox stands in second place with a one-over par 74.

"I wasn't hitting the ball all that good, but I was scoring good," Pursley said. "The eagle on the last hole with the 25-foot putt really helped because I didn't make many long putts on the day. The wind really played a part on several holes. I had two birdies on the front side and waited to get the eagle on the back side."

Lee claims tennis wins

Staff report

Midland Lee used wins in boys and girls singles finals to capture the Midland Open tennis tournament Friday.

All four players in the two singles matches were Rebel teammates. Mat Thompson downed David Stark, 7-5, 7-5, for the boys title, while JoAnn Kelly stopped Jennifer Bowles, 6-3, 3-6, 7-6 for the girls championship.

In all, Lee accumulated 28 points in the combined A and B Divisions, outdistancing second place Midland High, which closed the tourney with 15 points. El Paso was in third with 10.

Midland Freshman High School captured the C Division with 18 points.

While Lee was busy sweeping top singles honors, MHS was doing the same in the doubles competition. Lady Bulldogs Shannon Burgin and Jennifer Burkett defeated Lee's Wendy Hobbs and Autumn Ewalt, 4-6, 6-1, 8-3. MHS' top doubles team of Kevin McIlvain and Alan Neighbors outlasted Lee's Monty Miller and Jereme Gooch, 6-4, 3-6, 6-0.

"We just played against Midland if nothing else," said Lee head coach Steve Buck, commenting on the tournament's small field. "El Paso had some good kids.

Ranger ace may miss first start

Associated Press

DUNEDIN, Fla. — A disappointing training camp for the Texas Rangers has been darkened even more by the prospect that pitching ace Kevin Brown may miss the season opener because of a fractured rib.

Dr. John Conway on Wednesday night took a bone scan and used magnetic resonance imaging to reveal a stress fracture in a different spot on the same rib which gave Brown problems last year.

The Rangers said Brown received an injection and Conway prescribed rest. Brown's activity will be dictated by the amount of pain Brown is experiencing.

Brown, who won 21 games for the Rangers last season, was the winner for the American League in the 1992 All-Star game at San Diego. this spring, he is 2-0 with a 3.00 ERA. He has walked five and struck out eight in 12 innings.

Brown, scheduled to start on April 5 at Baltimore, admitted he could begin the year on the disabled list.

"I hope that wouldn't happen, but right now, I just can't be sure," Brown said.

53 in the West.

EAST

Syracuse, N.Y.

No. 7 Cincinnati 93, Coppin St. 66

Cincinnati overcame a sluggish start and the worst game of the season by star guard Nick Van Exel to rout Coppin State.

The second-seeded and seventh-ranked Bearcats (25-4) trailed 27-24 with eight minutes left in the first half before turning things around for a 44-35 halftime lead.

The upset dreams of 15th-seeded Coppin State (22-8) came to an end — as did the Eagles' 16-game winning streak — when the Bearcats used a 22-5 run to take a 68-45 lead with 9:54 left.

Massachusetts 54, Pennsylvania 50

Penn kept up the Ivy League's five-year streak of giving higher-seeded teams a tough time in the opening round, but Massachusetts (24-6) made its foul shots in the final seconds to advance. Mike Wilams made two 3-pointers in a 16-2 run that gave the Minutemen a 42-32 lead with 11:17 to play. Penn (22-5) got within two points on Jerome Allen's driving jumper with 12 seconds left, but Harper Williams made two free throws with six seconds left for UMass.

Virginia 78, Manhattan 66

Virginia point guard Cory Alexander made the most of Manhattan's decision to let him shoot, tying his career-high with 27 points as the Cavaliers (20-10) ruined the return to the tournament of Manhattan (23-7) after a 35-year absence. "They just didn't play me and I had to make them pay for that," Alexander said. Virginia held at least a six-point lead throughout the second half and wrapped up the win from the foul line.

New Mexico State 93, Nebraska 79

Point guard Sam Crawford set an NCAA tournament first-round record with 16 assists and added 20 points. The Aggies (26-7) pulled away after the 10th-seeded Cornhuskers (20-11) had tied the game at 49-49 with 16:21 left by connecting on 18 of 24 field goal attempts in the second half. Nebraska got a career-high 29 points from Eric Piatkowski.

SOUTHEAST

Nashville, Tenn.

Wake Forest 81, Tennessee-Chattanooga 58

With Rodney Rogers (26 points) and Trelonnie Owens (22) controlling the offense and Derrick Hicks handling the rebounding, fifth-seeded Wake Forest (20-8) rolled past the Moccasins (26-7). UTC came in with a reputation as an outstanding shooting team, but made only 38.5 percent and wound up 28 points below its season average.

Iowa 62, Northeast Louisiana 69

Acie Earl, Iowa's 6-foot-10 senior center, had 23 points, 15 rebounds and five blocked shots, and the Hawkeyes (23-8) outrebounded the smaller Indians 45-23. Northeast Louisiana (26-5) entered the game leading the nation in shooting (52.4 percent), but the Indians ended up hitting just 32 of 71 (45.1 percent).

Kentucky 96, Rider 52

In little more than a light workout for Kentucky, the Wildcats (27-3) scored from wherever they wanted. The 52 points were the fewest of the season for Rider (19-11), the Northeast Conference champions. Jamal Mashburn had 17 points, Andre Riddick 16 and Gimel Martinez 12 for Kentucky.

Utah 86, Pittsburgh 65

Phil Dixon scored 22 points to lead a balanced scoring attack as Utah downed Pittsburgh.

Utah (24-6) got 17 points from leading scorer Josh Grant, 14 from Jimmy Soto and 10 more from Byron Wilson. The Utes, known for playing man-to-man, instead used a zone defense against ninth-seeded Pitt (17-11) that frustrated the Panthers into their third straight loss.

MIDWEST

Indianapolis

Oklahoma State 74, Marquette 62

Bryant "Big Country" Reeves scored 26 points and drew five fouls on Jim McIlvaine, Marquette's 7-foot-1 center, in six minutes. Brooks Thompson scored seven of his 16 points in the Cowboys' game-ending 19-6 surge as Oklahoma State (20-8) knocked the Warriors (20-8) out of their first NCAA game since 1983.

Louisville 76, Delaware 70

Louisville almost blew an 18-point cushion before beating the Blue Hens (22-8). Dwayne Morton and Clifford Rozier scored 20 points apiece, but the Cardinals (21-8) had 15 turnovers and missed 12 of 25 free throws. "It was a weird game," Louisville coach Denny Crum said. "I don't think we ever really got in synch for some reason."

Xavier 73, New Orleans 55

Xavier used a 12-2 spurt over a six-minute span of the second half to turn a 40-35 deficit into a 47-42 lead and steadily pulled away thereafter. Aaron Williams and Brian Grant scored 20 points each for the Musketeers (24-5). Ervin Johnson had 21 points for New Orleans (26-4).

Indiana 97, Wright St. 54

Indiana got a big game from its best player and an answer from its biggest question mark.

Calbert Cheaney scored 29 points and Alan Henderson returned from an injury that had left his postseason status in doubt as the Hoosiers routed Wright State.

Indiana (29-3), the nation's top-ranked team and No. 1 seed in the Midwest, advanced to the second round on Sunday against Xavier, Ohio, which beat New Orleans 73-55.

WEST

Tucson, Ariz.

George Washington 82, New Mexico 68

The inside power of Yinka Dare and the long-range shooting of Kwame Evans led 12th-seeded George Washington (20-8) to the upset. Dare, a 7-foot-1, 265-pound freshman from Nigeria who didn't play basketball in high school, had 17 points and 10 rebounds. Evans made five 3-pointers and finished with 19 points. Steve Logan led New Mexico (24-7) with 16 points.

Southern 93, Georgia Tech 78

Jervaughn Scales had 27 points and 18 rebounds, leading 13th-ranked Southern back from a 15-point deficit. The victory was the first for the Jaguars (21-9) in six NCAA tournament games and the only only loss for the ACC in six first-rounders. The game may have been the last at Georgia Tech (19-11) for coach Bobby Cremins, being wooed by his alma mater, South Carolina.

Michigan 84, Coastal Carolina 53

The top-seeded Wolverines (27-4), trying to get to the title game for the second straight year, had no trouble with the much-smaller Chanticleers (22-10) and built a 21-point lead with 6½ minutes left in the first half. Tony Dunkin, the only player in NCAA history to be named conference player of the year (Big South) four times, led Coastal Carolina with 17 points.

UCLA 81, Iowa State 70

TUCSON, Ariz. — UCLA's Ed O'Bannon turned his personal chamber of horrors into a playpen, leading the Bruins to a victory over Iowa State to set up an NCAA West second-round game against top-seeded Michigan.

Six days after O'Bannon scored only three points on one-for-11 shooting on Arizona's home court in a loss that ended UCLA's regular season, he came back to dominate Iowa State with 20 points on layups, dunks and silky jumpers. He hit 9 of 10 shots, including 2 of 2 three-pointers, and grabbed 13 rebounds.

The 6-foot-8 O'Bannon wasn't a one-man show for the Bruins, who got 19 points from guard Tyus Edney and 14 each from burly center Richard Petruska and forward Mitchell Butler.

Iowa State, down 51-38 midway through the second half, came back behind the shooting of Ron Bayless to close the gap to 63-61. But Bayless, who had 16 of his 19 points in the second half, couldn't hold off the balanced attack of UCLA.

Red-hot Mavs win 2nd in row, 1st on the road

Associated Press

■ NBA Roundup

PHILADELPHIA — The Dallas Mavericks won for the first time in 30 road games this season, beating Philadelphia 89-87 Friday night for their second straight victory.

Terry Davis scored 24 points for the Mavericks, who avoided matching the NBA record of 20 consecutive losses in one season by winning at Dallas against Orlando on Wednesday night. The decision over the Sixers improved Dallas' record to 6-57 and increased its chances of avoiding another NBA mark of futility, Philadelphia's 9-73 record in 1972-73.

The victory also marked the first time Dallas has won more than one game in a month. The Mavericks previously won one game in November, December, January, February and March.

Hersey Hawkins had 26 points for the Sixers, who have lost five straight games overall and eight times in nine home games. Philadelphia has also dropped 19 of its last 22 games.

A free throw by Morlon Wiley with 22 seconds to go gave Dallas an 88-86 lead. Philadelphia's Jeff Hornacek was fouled with 2.9 seconds remaining, but Hornacek, an 87.6 percent shooter from the line, missed the second of his two shots.

Spurs 96, Magic 93

SAN ANTONIO — David Robinson outscored Shaquille O'Neal 30-15 in the Orlando rookie's first pro game in his hometown, and the San Antonio Spurs beat the Magic.

O'Neal, who played high school basketball in San Antonio, was ejected in the fourth quarter after he recieved two technicals for protesting an offensive foul.

Pacers 112, Hornets 108

INDIANAPOLIS — LaSalle Thompson came off the bench to score 14 points in the fourth quarter of Indiana's ninth straight home victory.

Reggie Miller scored 28 points and Rik Smits 18 for the Pacers, now 11-0 at home against the expansion Hornets.

Alonzo Mourning scored 37 points and Larry Johnson had 21 points, 11 assists and 10 rebounds for Charlotte, his second triple-double in two nights and the second in franchise history.

Thompson, who didn't play for three quarters, scored 12 points in the last 2:41 as Indiana took the lead for good.

Hawks 121, Timberwolves 103

ATLANTA — Dominique Wilkins scored a season-high 45 points despite sitting out the final quarter as the Atlanta Hawks crushed the Minnesota Timberwolves.

Wilkins hit his first five shots, including three 3-pointers, and had 21 first-quarter points as the Hawks took control early and coasted to their seventh victory in eight games.

Nets 99, Bucks 85

EAST RUTHERFORD N.J. — Drazen Petrovic and Derrick Coleman combined for 21 of New Jersey's 29 fourth-quarter points, and the Nets held Milwaukee scoreless for 3:59 down the stretch.

Petrovic, held to six six points in the first half, scored 13 of his 27 in the fourth quarter as the Nets won for the seventh time in eight games.

Bulls 104, Bullets 99

CHICAGO — Michael Jordan scored 11 of his 25 points in final five minutes of the game as Chicago defeated Washington despite a career-high 37 points by the Bullets' LaBradford Smith.

The Bullets led 90-89 with 5:18 remaining before Jordan, held to 14 points on 4-for-21 shooting to that point, scored the next 11 Bulls points.

Suns 127, Pistons 97

PHOENIX — Charles Barkley scored 12 of his 22 points in the third quarter, and Danny Ainge picked up the slack in the fourth with 16 of his 23, leading the Phoenix Suns over the Detroit Pistons.

SuperSonics 108, Jazz 97

SALT LAKE CITY — Sam Perkins spiked a Utah rally with a three-point play and a tip-in late in the game and Ricky Pierce scored 29 points in the Seattle SuperSonics 108-97 victory over the Jazz on Friday night.

Celtics 129, Lakers 119

INGLEWOOD, Calif. — Boston rallied from a 20-point deficit in the second half and made its last 15 shots to defeat the Los Angeles Lakers, the Celtics' fourth straight road victory.

Miners defeat Houston, 67-61

Associated Press

■ NIT

EL PASO — Texas-El Paso held Houston's leading scorer, David Diaz, to just 13 points and Johnny Melvin scored 21 points Friday night as the Miners beat the Cougars 67-61 to advance to the second round of the National Invitation Tournament.

The Miners will visit Georgetown, which advanced by beating Arizona State 78-68 Thursday, on Tuesday night. The Cougars, who were aggrieved by NCAA Tournament snub, ended their season at 21-9.

The Miners overcame a 23-4 run by the Cougars, which began with about 16:20 left in the second half with a Diaz 3-pointer. The Miners batted back to take a 56-55 lead on a jumper with five minutes remaining by Eddie Rivera, who contributed 12 points.

Jackson St. 90, Connecticut 88

STORRS, Conn. — Lindsey Hunter scored nine of Jackson State's 10 points in overtime and finished with 39 points as the Tigers won their first Division I postseason game.

The Tigers let Connecticut hit three 3-pointers in the final 50 seconds to force the overtime. But Hunter, who had just five points at halftime, hit a pair of free throws with 4:25 left in overtime to tie the score at 84-all, a jumper from the left corner with 2:54 left to give the Tigers an 87-86 lead.

Cal-Duke game showcases guards

Associated Press

ROSEMONT, Ill. — If Dale Brown doesn't mind, Jason Kidd will show up tonight. If it's OK with Brown, Kidd will see for himself if he really has no chance against Bobby Hurley.

"I just can't wait for tomorrow," Kidd said Friday as he and California prepared to meet Hurley and Duke in the NCAA Midwest Regional.

Kansas (26-6) plays Brigham Young (25-8) at the Rosemont Horizon before Cal (20-8) meets Duke (24-7).

Only minutes after Kidd's last-second difficult shot beat Louisiana State in Thursday's opening-round game, Brown, LSU's outspoken coach, said the point-guard matchup between Cal's fabulous freshman and Duke's All-American won't be much of a matchup at all.

"Hurley's a better offensive player. Jason's a good deliverer of the ball, but he's not a very good shooter," Brown said. "And Bobby's a better defensive player."

Brown also said California doesn't "have a prayer of beating Duke," leading Golden Bears coach Todd Bozeman to respond: "We could care less about what coach Brown feels. All I know is we're still here. We're not flying home."

No, upstart Cal is flying high going into its game against the two-time defending champions.

"This is California versus Duke," Bozeman said. "This is not a Jason Kidd-Bobby Hurley matchup or a Coach K-Todd Bozeman matchup."

That being said, the game-in-the-game matchups are intriguing.

There's Kidd, one of the most celebrated newcomers in recent college basketball history, with a chance to remind Hurley that a freshman can make an impact — just as Hurley did in helping Duke reach the title game in 1990.

And there's the 29-year-old Bozeman, who only three days ago was named permanent replacement for fired Lou Campanelli, with a chance to prevent Mike Krzyzewski from taking the Blue Devils to the Final Four for the sixth successive season.

During Friday's press conference, Bozeman and Kidd tried to downplay the point-guard matchup. But afterward, Kidd admitted that he was looking forward to playing against a guy he has watched on television for years.

"Right off the bat, (Hurley's experience) is going to mean a lot," Kidd said. "It's going to be a natural thing for him, while I'll be sweating and shaking. But you don't want to have a player take over a game without you coming back and making a statement."

Hurley wasn't at the press conferece, so Krzyzewski had to speak for him. And the coach said his guard would be ready.

As always.

"I know Bobby respects Jason Kidd, but Bobby doesn't need an individual matchup to motivate him," Krzyzewski said. "That kid comes motivated to practice."

He said the 6-foot-4, 205-pound Kidd is much more physically advanced as a freshman than was the 6-0, 165-pound Hurley.

Steffi Graf defeats Gabriela Sabatini 6-0, 6-2 to advance to the finals.

Rain can't cool off Graf

Associated Press

KEY BISCAYNE, Fla. — It took Steffi Graf six hours to beat Gabriela Sabatini in a hurry.

Five rain delays couldn't cool off Graf, who won 6-0, 6-2 in Friday's semifinals at the Lipton Championships.

Graf had lost eight straight matches to Sabatini in Florida, and had never beaten her so badly anywhere.

"She played great," Sabatini said. "It was one of the best matches I've seen from her.

"I was very frustrated. Losing that way, that score, and not being able to play well is the worst feeling."

The top-seeded Graf advanced to Saturday's final against defending champion Arantxa Sanchez Vicario, the No. 2 seed, who beat No. 16 Kimiko Date 6-2, 6-1.

No. 2 Pete Sampras will face No. 5 Petr Korda in one bracket of the men's semifinals Saturday. The other match will be between unseeded South African Marcos Ondruska and the winner of Friday's late match pitting unseeded Patrick McEnroe against No. 14 Malivai Washington.

Korda won the first men's quarterfinals match, edging No. 3 Stefan Edberg 7-6 (7-3), 7-6 (7-5). Their match was delayed four times, including briefly at match point in the second-set tiebreaker.

Edberg failed to convert three set points with Korda serving at 5-6 in the second set.

"It's tough to play on a day like this," Edberg said. "Anybody could have won today because it's so tough coming on and off the court."

Sampras swept No. 10 Richard Krajicek 6-3, 7-6 (9-7). Rain interrupted their tiebreaker with Krajicek leading 5-4; when play resumed more 90 minutes later, he double-faulted twice to lose the match.

"That was definitely one of the weirdest ends to a match that I ever played," Sampras said. "It's the most bizarre day I've ever been associated with."

Ondruska, an earlier winner against Michael Stich and Michael Chang, beat Mark Woodforde 6-4, 6-2.

The top-seeded Graf and No. 3 Sabatini were driven from the court by rain twice during warmups before their match. Play was suspended after they played one game, again during the second game, and again in the second set.

■ Lipton Tennis

The match itself took just 68 minutes. Graf spent the rain delays talking and reading U.S. newspapers and German magazines.

"Going out on the court six times — that's a lot," she said. "But both of us have to sit around and wait, so it's the same."

Sabatini, playing as though she were wearing galoshes, won just seven points in her first four service games as Graf took a 6-0, 2-0 lead.

"We go out there; we stop. Stop and start," Sabatini said. "It never happened to me before. Maybe once, two times at the most. But not so many times as today."

Sabatini fell to 11-23 against Graf.

The second-ranked German has lost just 12 games in her five matches. No. 1 Monica Seles may have been wise to withdraw from Lipton because of the flu, because Graf's feared forehand is looking unstoppable.

"It's the best it's been for a long time, definitely," Graf said. "I'm going for my shots down the line and making very few mistakes."

Officials were hoping for mild weather that would allow Saturday's three matches to be held on the defective stadium court.

Edberg and Korda played one point there before officials decided that the hard-court surface was unplayable. The court also was out of commission for five hours Thursday, when heat and moisture caused it to soften and develop rough spots.

Thousands of fans were inconvenienced when the Edberg-Korda match was moved to Court 1, which has 8,000 fewer seats than the stadium.

"It's all happened at this tournament," Edberg said.

Later, when the weather turned cooler, the women played on the stadium court without any problems.

McCarty sizzles, Fernando cooks

Associated Press

It was a good day for young and old alike around spring training camps on Friday.

David McCarty, the college baseball player of the year in 1991 at Stanford, had three hits, including a homer, and drove in three runs as the Minnesota Twins beat the Texas Rangers 10-6 at Fort Myers, Fla.

McCarty is hitting .345 with three homers and 11 RBIs, tops this spring for the Twins.

Meanwhile at Clearwater, Fla., Fernando Valenzuela continued his strong comeback bid with his third straight shutout performance since signing with the Baltimore Orioles.

McCarty, a non-roster player, has only seven games of Class AAA experience.

Last spring, he hit .296 with one homer and three RBIs. At Class AA Orlando of the Southern League in 1992, McCarty hit .271 with 18 homers and 79 RBIs.

McCarty, 23, doesn't expect the Twins will keep him as a spare outfielder. The team's starting outfield of Shane Mack, Kirby Puckett and Pedro Munoz is set.

"They're not going to have me around to play once a week," McCarty said. "I can tell a difference just from last spring. I had some at-bats last spring where I was just overmatched."

Valenzuela allowed two hits in five scoreless innings in the Orioles' 3-1 loss to the Philadelphia Phillies. In three games with Baltimore, he has pitched 10 shutout innings and allowed five hits and three walks with two strikeouts.

■ Baseball Roundup

"I don't have to make a decision right now," said Orioles manager John Oates when asked where Valenzuela ranked in the competition to be the club's fifth starter.

Valenzuela, 32 at least, is competing with Mark Williamson, Anthony Telford, and non-roster invitees Mike Cook, Steve Searcy, Wayne Edwards and Jamie Moyer.

Back to the kids, left-hander Mike Myers helped his chances of being a part of the Florida Marlins' starting rotation by giving up one unearned run and three hits in five innings against Atlanta at Cocoa, Fla.

It was the second start, fourth appearance and longest outing of the spring for Myers. He has given up four earned runs in 15 innings.

Myers was selected in the 1992 Rule 5 Draft by Florida from the San Francisco Giants organization. He split the 1992 season between the Giants Single A affiliates in Clinton, Iowa, and San Jose, posting a combined record of 6-3, with a 1.87 ERA.

With numerous injuries depleting Florida's pitching corps, only two pitchers, Charlie Hough and Jack Armstrong, are sure to be a part of the team's five man rotation if they remain healthy.

On the injury front, Kevin Mitchell, acquired by Cincinnati during the offseason from Seattle, returned to the lineup Friday and went 3 for 4 in a 7-3 victory over Detroit at Lakeland, Fla. Mitchell had two singles and a double and drove in four runs.

Mitchell is the Reds' other injury concern. He showed up for training camp late and overweight, then broke a bone in his left foot March 10 in his only spring game.

His shoe has been fitted with a plastic insert and his spikes have been rearranged to take pressure off the injured bone.

"It's been sore and there has been some swelling," Mitchell said Thursday. "But it feels great now."

California Angels starter John Farrell, trying to come back from reconstructive elbow surgery, pitched two-hit, shutout ball for five innings Friday against Seattle at Tempe, Ariz.

Farrell hasn't appeared a big-league game in more than two years, but his 0.82 ERA this spring has gotten the attention of manager Buck Rodgers.

"Farrell's sticking himself right in the middle of contention for a spot in the rotation," Rodgers said. "There's a point where we have to say, 'Can you go 100 or 125 pitches?' We need to know if John Farrell is ever going to throw that many pitches in a game."

Farrell, 30, says he can.

"The elbow thing is behind me, and over time, hopefully it'll be behind me in terms of other people thinking about it, too," he said. "Now it's just down to pitching, and I'm pleased with the results I'm getting."

Kile tries to work despite father's death

Associated Press

KISSIMMEE, Fla. — Darryl Kile sat, arms crossed, in front of his locker, oblivious to the din being created around him by his Houston Astros teammates.

The look on his face said his thoughts were far away.

"As far as my personal life, I try not to bring it to the park with me," Kile said. "I just work on what I've got to do."

Kile reported to Houston's spring training with enough on his mind, as a candidate for the Astros' No. 5 starter. Shortly after he arrived in camp, Kile received word that his father had suffered a heart attack.

He died the following day, leaving Kile in a personal turmoil as he starts the season.

"Your work and your personal life can't mix," Kile said. "You have to keep them separate. My main concern right now is trying to get ready for the season. Whether its Houston or Tucson, I'm getting ready.

"I know my dad would want me to keep trying my best to win the job."

Kile has had some outstanding starts in parts of two seasons in the Astros' rotation, but he's also shown as much inconsistency.

He had a 5-10 record and 3.95 ERA in 22 starts last year. Kile was 2-2 in April but an 0-4 streak followed and caused manager Art Howe to send Kile to Class AAA Tucson to work out his problems.

Kile finished the season with a 3-4 record but never was consistent.

"The last two years I've thrown games that showed I'm capable of pitching in this league and I've thrown games that showed I'm not," Kile said. "I've just got to be consistent and throw all my pitches for strikes."

Kile has grappled with control through his brief major league career. He is the only National League pitcher who has averaged 4.5 walks per nine innings over the past two seasons.

He had 15 walks in the first inning of his 22 starts last season and the Astros' offense didn't help Kile, scoring seven runs in his 10 losses.

"A major league pitcher can't go good-pitch, bad-pitch, good-inning, bad-inning," Kile said. "You want to have quality starts four out of five times. That is what I need to do."

Kile, competing with Brian Williams and Jeff Juden for the No. 5 starting spot, could end up at Tucson regardless of his success this spring. Howe is considering starting the season with a four-man rotation.

The addition of Doug Drabek and Greg Swindell to the starting rotation, also has lessened Kile's chances of starting the season in the major leagues.

"You can't worry about that. You come in with the idea of making the team and helping it compete in the league," Kile said. "You start worrying, it will come up and bite you in the rear.

"This is going to be a great young team and it's going to be a lot of fun playing on it. I'm working hard to make it."

Long-toothed hurlers try to keep Rangers out of hairy situations

N.Y. Times News Service

PORT CHARLOTTE, Fla. — Sitting side by side by side in the Rangers clubhouse, they look like a "before" ad for a new hair restorer formula.

When they bend over to tie their shoes, passers-by just naturally shield their eyes from the glare.

Charlie Leibrandt, Tom Henke, Nolan Ryan.

Cueballs, every one of them.

Craig Lefferts, in the locker to Leibrandt's left, likes mingling with the threesome.

"Makes me feel like Tom Cruise," the 35-year-old Lefferts laughed, sweeping a hand over his own thinning locks. "Compared to them, I've got a full head of hair."

Ryan has been here for a while, but the others are all part of general manager Tom Grieve's restructuring of the Rangers' pitching staff. Gone are the wild and woolly days of Bobby Witt and Mitch Williams. Welcome to Control Central. Rest assured, the Rangers will "not" lead the civilized world in walks in 1993.

Along with lefty reliever Bob Patterson, the new arrivals have one thing in common: They throw strikes.

"The one thing you never want to do," Leibrandt said before his start yesterday against Minnesota in Fort Myers, "is beat yourself. I'm going to make the hitter put it in play."

That was a dangerous thing for a Rangers pitcher to allow last season, when Texas' defense sprang more leaks than a fraternity keg party. But Grieve was there again this winter, signing shortstop Manuel Lee and trading for second baseman Bill Ripken to improve the team's up-the-middle defense.

These pitchers, particularly Leibrandt, Lefferts and Patterson, will live or die by their defense.

"They pitch," Rangers pitching coach Claude Osteen pointed out, "the way I used to pitch."

HELP!

The Midland High School Agriculture Booster Club is sponsoring its first Junior Rodeo to be held at the Fairgrounds arena April 9-10. The proceeds of this rodeo will go towards scholarships and teaching aids for MHS Ag students.

We need your help! While our kids have been out soliciting donations to make this rodeo a reality, we're still behind in our goal. Please help us sponsor our rodeo. This alcohol-free event promises to be clean, wholesome fun for the whole family as well as benefitting the students of MHS. The dance afterwards will feature Jody Nix!

Send your donations to us at the address below. Any contribution will be gratefully appreciated. Those who contribute $250 or more will receive free 5 rideo tickets, 5 dance tickets, and seats in our VIP section.

MHSABC JUNIOR RODEO

BASEBALL: Bulldogs look for first 4-5A win

(From 1B)

"But Odessa High is Odessa High and we are a team that's capable of playing bad games too. We have got to go out and treat it like any other district game. We have to get ready like we were playing Abilene Cooper."

If the Rebs' bats stay as lively as they have been in the first two 4-5A games, the Bronchos (3-9 overall) will have to score plenty of runs to pull off the upset.

Through the first two league outings Lee is batting .469 as a team. Senior pitcher/designated hitter Julian Urquidez is on an .833 pace in that span, while catcher Brian Graham used a 3-for-4 effort against San Angelo for a .750 average. Kirk Ulrich is hitting .667, and first baseman Sean McIntosh is on a.571 clip.

Third baseman Alex Hale is right at .500, and is tied with McIntosh for the team home run lead with three. The Rebs have also launched 10 homers in their 15 games.

Senior righthander Jason Baker owns a 3-1 record, though he has yet to throw in 4-5A competition this season. He will get the start against OHS, Benavidez said. OHS is expected to pitch Cesar Nieto (0-0).

FOR MHS, today's game (also at 2 p.m.) offers a chance for the Bulldogs to pick up their first league win of the 1993 season. The Bulldogs (4-7) fell 16-5 to Lee in their district opener, then won a non-district game at Hobbs, N.M., Tuesday, 14-13.

The victory snapped a four-game losing streak for the youthful Bulldogs, and showed signs the MHS order is coming around.

"I was happy with the way we swung the bat. I thought the kids competed a whole lot better at the plate," said MHS head coach Rick Wood. "And really, I was very happy with the way we pitched (all 13 Hobbs runs were unearned because of 10 MHS errors).

■ More Sports, 8B

"We only gave up five hits and Hobbs is not a bad ball club. They were 5-1 before we played them, so they have beaten some people."

And while the Bulldogs have committed 36 errors in their last five games (averaging more than seven a game), it is the medical ward that has Wood worried more than anything.

"Our major concern is health. Ricky Flores and Abel Sanchez have been out since the Tournament of Champions and Brad Heidelberg strained a knee against Hobbs (all three are infielders). And Joe Urquidez (pitcher/third baseman) caught a ball in the mouth and a tooth went through his lip against Hobbs. But we're thinking Joe will be back."

After the first 4-5A game, the 'Dogs are hitting .286 in district. Left fielder Chad Benson, shortstop/pitcher Mike Melzer and Urquidez are all hitting .500. Justin Duffield, Tim McLaughlin and Todd Tredaway are at .333. McLaughlin also is the only MHS player to homer this season and has two for the year.

Urquidez (2-2) and Melzer (0-0) both pitched against Hobbs, and one of the two should start against Permian.

"Both pitched three innings. That's not so much that I don't think they can come back Saturday," Wood said.

Permian's scheduled starter is Donnie Bivins (5-1), who has recorded one no-hitter and two one-hitters this season.

Patience pays off for Love

Associated Press

ORLANDO, Fla. — Davis Love III used a combination of patience and power to extract a 3-under-par 69 from blustery winds for a one-shot lead Friday at the halfway point of the Nestle Invitational.

"On a day like today, being real patient is the main thing," Love said shortly after finishing in a cold drizzle.

Love, one of the longest hitters in the game, also said his great length was an advantage in the windy conditions.

"In the wind, if I get a good drive I'm hitting 4-5-6-irons in where other guys are hitting woods, and that's a big difference," Love said after making two trips over the 7,114-yard course in 140. He's 4 under par in the $1 million event.

Patience was the key.

"You just try to hang in there, be patient," Love said. "It's a long, hard golf course and in these conditions if it starts going bad you can go for a big number."

Fred Couples, Jack Nicklaus and Tom Purtzer served as examples as Arnold Palmer's Bay Hill Club became the stage for a golfing horror show.

Couples, a winner last week and the defending champion here, took an 8 on the par-5 sixth hole, shot 81 and missed the cut at 154.

Nicklaus bogeyed his first four holes in the 30-mph winds, shot 78 and missed the cut for the second week in a row at 150.

Purtzer hit two into the water on the 18th then scrawled a "9" on his card. He had an 82 for the day and a 156 total.

Even the 63-year-old host could not escape without misadventure, though his damage was self-inflicted.

■ PGA Nestle

Palmer double-hit a 6-foot second putt on the 17th green, missed it and then made a 2½-footer coming back. It cost him a double bogey, but he qualified for the final two rounds at 76-149, the cutoff figure.

At the other end of the standings, Ben Crenshaw, Mike Allen and Bernhard Langer of Germany shared second at 141.

Both Crenshaw and Langer shot 70 in the difficult conditions and Allen matched par.

Crenshaw and Langer had a share of the lead until they bogeyed the 441-yard, par-4 18th, a hole that demonstrated the advantage of Love's great length.

Langer hit a 3-wood second shot into the water and had to get up and down to save a bogey. Crenshaw hit a 1-iron second shot into the left bunker.

Love made par off a 4-iron second shot.

The group at 142 included Dan Pohl, Vijay Singh of Fiji, Ed Humenik, Bill Kratzert, Joey Sindelar and Kirk Triplett. Pohl and Singh had 72s, Triplett 71, Kratzert and Sindelar 70s and Humenik 69.

Tom Watson had the best round of the tournament, a 68, and passed 61 players. He advanced from a tie for 78th to a tie for 17th at 144.

Love, a winner of six titles around the world in the last 12 months, was even for the day through the first 11 holes before hitting short-iron approaches to birdie range, 10-15 feet, on the 12th and 13th.

He got both of those, then went in front — again, courtesy of his length — on the downwind, par-5 16th. He needed only a 7-iron for his 195-yard second shot, and two-putted for the go-ahead birdie in the tournament he owes to himself.

Love lost this title in a playoff to Tom Kite in 1989 after Love made double bogey on the last hole of regulation.

"I feel like I threw that one away. I feel like I owe myself one," he said.

GOLF: Teams move to HPGC for final round course play long, and the course is long enough as it is.

Cox, who was playing in the foursome with Pursley, said, "It was raining when we started and I thought a 75 would be a good score. My second shot went into the water, but I got out of it with a par and ended up with four birdies, three bogeys and a double bogey on the day. Thank goodness I putted well."

Three players — Chad Wellhausen of Abilene Cooper, Dan Wilson of Abilene High, and Jason Garduno of Monahans — all ended tied for third with 75s.

Garduno, who came into the tournament as a slight favorite for the medalist race, played with Wilson. They were mirrors with both two over par on the front nine and even on the back. Wilson also eagled No. 18 to pull into the tie with Garduno. Garduno is probably the best driver in the field and he missed only one fairway all day. That came on No. 18 and he still had a birdie on the hole.

"I'm pleased with where I finished because I really didn't have confidence in my driver," AHS' Wilson said. "I hit my 2-iron on some holes and kept the ball in play."

Cooper's Wellhausen had an unusual round for his 75. He had pars on 14 consecutive holes, beginning on No. 4.

"I was all around the lip of the cup for some birdie putts, but they didn't go," Wellhausen said. "I three-putted for par on No. 18."

Midland Lee's third place standing was paced by a 76 from Gene Ivie and a 77 from Mitch Spence, both seniors. Midland High is in seventh place with a 334. Jeremiah Luttrell led the Bulldogs with an 82.

Andrews golf coach George Boynton likes his Mustangs at the top of the leader board, but isn't ready to claim a championship.

"The winner will be whoever is at the top after play Saturday," Boynton said. "Still, I'd rather be in this position than trying to catch up to the field. Conditions were a little tough out there today. There were some really good players with high scores."

Action moves to Hogan Park for a bright and early 7:30 a.m. wake-up call today for the final round.

"Hogan is a much shorter course and things can turn around," Garduno said. "I just don't know if a shorter course is to my advantage. We'll see."

TENNIS: Spring break narrows field

(From 1B)

sets in both. We lost to MHS in both sets but both were in three sets. And to have all the finalists in the singles really gave us a lot of good help. MHS is probably hurting with Bonnie (Terrazas) out of the picture now."

Terrazas, a junior and MHS' top girls singles player, missed the tournament and will remain out the rest of the season with torn ligaments in her ankle.

"We did real, real well," Buck said. "We dominated the B division. We had an awful lot of kids do well."

The field was small and the tournament abbreviated due largely to many schools being on spring break this year. Only eight teams — Lee, MHS, Greenwood, the two Midland freshman schools, Clyde, El Paso High and Odessa High — were formal school entrants in the tournament. Four players from Midland Christian competed on an individual basis.

In the C Division, Midland Freshman's Carrie Geltemeyer defeated teammate Molly Cowell, 6-0, 6-2 in the finals. MFHS' teammates Shane Burgin and Allan Barrett will meet Monday to decide the championship in the C boys singles.

Lee will host the District 4-5A tournament, April 16-17.

Coe-Jones leads at LPGA Ping

Associated Press

PHOENIX — Dawn Coe-Jones overcame what seemed to be an obligatory bogey on No. 17 Friday for leaders of the Standard Register Ping, and escaped with the lead halfway through the $700,000 LPGA event.

The Canadian-born golfer, who has finished no lower than 16th in three tournaments this season, had a 4-under-par 69 and a second-round score of 8-under 138.

"I feel similar to where I was last year at this time," Coe-Jones said, attributing her quick start to play in the offseason since a move from Houston to Tampa, Fla.

"I just think I'm better prepared," she added. "Mentally, I've always been prepared. I try to believe in my ability to hit shots, but, oftentimes, if you physically don't go out there and hit balls, it doesn't matter how many times you tell yourself you're a good putter or a good chipper."

Annika Sorenstam and Patti Rizzo were second at 139.

Mansell excels in first IndyCar competition

SURFERS PARADISE, Australia (AP) — Indy racers were wondering how Nigel Mansell of Britain would do when he switched over from Formula One. They were wondering, that is.

On Friday, Mansell broke the single-lap track record and grabbed the provisional pole for the Australian IndyCar Grand Prix, his first race since making the switch.

The 1992 Formula One champion blazed around the 2.8-mile street circuit at 102.095 mph. The race is scheduled for Sunday, with more qualifying today.

"I'm delighted," the 39-year-old Mansell said. "But I think everyone will go quicker on Saturday, perhaps by up to half a second."

Mansell did the rest of his talk from behind the wheel of his Newman-haas Rcing Team Lola Ford Cosworth.

He set the record on the second-last lap of the qualifying session, bettering the one-lap record of 101.900 mph set by Al Unser Jr. last year.

Although rain from the now-diminishing Cyclone Roger plagued the morning's practice session, the sun returned to the area by the time the two half-hour qualifying sessions began in the aftenoon.

The cyclone, now more than 375 miles off the Australian coast, is still having its effect on the mainland, with the possibility of showers still in the forecast for Saturday's second session of qualifying.

Emerson Fittipaldi of Brazil was second-fastest in his Penske Racing Team Chevy in 101.472 mph, while Penske teammate Paul Tracy of Canada was third in 101.321.

Robby Gordon, in his A.J. Foyt Enterprises Lola, was fourth, followed by Mario Andretti, Mansell's Newman-Haas teammate, and Canada's Scott Goodyear in his Walker Motorsports Lola.

Mansell was flanked by a pair of 24-year-olds — Gordon and Tracy — in the postsession news conference.

Younger Waltrip feels he has to prove self

■ NASCAR

HAMPTON, Ga. (AP) — When rumors about impending driver changes pop up, Michael Waltrip's name is often mentioned.

Waltrip, the younger brother of three-time Winston Cup champion Darrell Waltrip, is in his seventh year driving for Bahari Racing, owned by Chuck Rider, and his ninth season in NASCAR's elite stock car series.

Going into today's rescheduled Motorcraft Quality Parts 500 at Atlanta Motor Speedway — postponed from last Sunday by the Blizzard of '93 — the best finish for Waltrip in 177 races for Rider's team — and 210 overall — is a second-place at Pocono June 19, 1988. There have been only 11 top-five finishes, and time seems to be running out on Waltrip to prove that he belongs at the top level of stock car racing.

But Waltrip, 29, remains confident of his ability and hopeful that some of the misfortune, in the form of crashes and mechanical problems, that has dogged him in recent seasons is ending.

After Waltrip qualified 22nd in the 40-car field, he insisted he wasn't feeling any extra pressure to win but was determined to become more competitive after finishes of 16th, 21st and 24th this year.

"Obviously, we owe our sponsor (Pennzoil) some results," Waltrip said. "That means me and the team. There is pressure on the whole situation, not just me. I don't think it's fair to just point at me."

One thing that Waltrip is basing his confidence on is the presence of crew chief Doug Hewitt, who joined the team late last year.

"He has been just what we need to come in and run the show," Waltrip said. "Now I have a situation that I can be comfortable with."

"My No. 1 goal is to have this team be together again in '94. For that to happen, we have to start competing again — running up front again."

Waltrip, who finished second in the 1986 Rookie of the Year race to current defending Winston Cup champion Alan Kulwicki, was once considered a rising star of the Winston Cup series. In recent seasons, though, he has slipped into the journeyman category in the minds of many.

But Waltrip isn't willing to accept that assessment.

"I've never gotten a great deal of respect," Waltrip said. "I came into this deal in 1986 with a very low budget and ran against Alan for rookie of the year.

"I came directly to Winston Cup from the Dash series because it was the only chance I had in 1986 to drive a race car. I didn't start running Grand National until '88, and I've had quite a bit of success there. I've got five wins and I think my percentage of wins to starts in that series stacks up with anybody. That's where the talent that's so in demand in this (Winston Cup) garage area comes from."

Eyes turn to possible Derby field

Associated Press

If trainer Gerald Romero goes to the Kentucky Derby with Dixieland Heat, he will take brother Randy along for the ride.

Dixieland Heat could move an important step closer to giving Randy Romero his seventh Derby starter with a good showing in the 1 1-16-mile Louisiana Derby at the Fair Grounds today.

The colt will be seeking a fifth straight victory at the track. He will carry 117 pounds and meet 12 rivals. They include O'Star, 114, second to him in a division of the 1 1-16-mile Risen Star March 6, and Dry Bean and Apprentice, 117 each, the first and second finishers in the other Risen Star division.

"He's impressive," Randy Romero said of Dixieland Heat after the Risen Star. "Me and Gerald's got a couple of things we need to work on. We'll go day by day and see what happens."

Randy Romero's best Derby finishes have been two seventh places. Dixieland Heat would be Gerald's first Derby starter.

Two other races for 3-year-olds also are on tap Saturday, and both are at Gulfstream Park.

All 13 starters in the 1⅛-mile Florida Derby are eligible for the May 1 Kentucky Derby. The leading contenders figure to be Storm Tower, Living Vicariously, Duc d'Sligovil, Silver of Silver and Hidden Trick.

Storm Tower is unbeaten in four starts, three this year. In his only stakes start, he won the second division of the 1 1-16-mile Fountain of Youth Feb. 27 at Gulfstream Park.

Living Vicariously, fourth in the 1 1-16-mile Breeders' Cup Juvenile Oct. 31 at Gulfstream, was impressive in winning a 1 1-16-mile allowance Feb. 14 in his last start.

Duc d'Sligovil finished second in the 1 1-16-mile Tropical Park Derby Jan. 9 at Calder, then, with blinkers on, he won a seven-furlong allowance and the first division of the Fountain of Youth.

Silver of Silver was third in the Tropical Park Derby and third in Duc d'Sligovil's division of the Fountain of Youth.

Hidden Trick finished third in the six-furlong Spectacular Bid and won the seven-furlong Hutcheson Feb. 6 at Gulfstream.

SATURDAY SHORT TAKES

Kevin Costner

New feature

Principal photography on "A Perfect World," a new film for Warner Bros. starring Oscar-winner Kevin "Dances with Wolves" Costner and this year's acting and directing Oscar nominee Clint "Unforigven" Eastwood, is set to begin April 27.

The story concerns Butch Hayes (Costner), an escaped convict who takes a child hostage and then discovers that the fatherless young boy has never permitted to enjoy himself at a fair, birthday party or holiday celebration because of his mother's strict religious faith. The pair build an unusual but moving father-son relationship during their flight from Red Garnett (Eastwood), a grizzled Texas police chief who knows an important truth about the convict's past.

'Fire' under fire

The Committee for the Scientific Investigation of Claims of the Paranormal (CSICOP) has challenged the claim of Paramount Pictures that its new film "Fire in the Sky" is based on a true story.

The movie is based on the claim of Travis Walton of Snowflake, Ariz., that in late 1975 he was "zapped" and abducted by a UFO and held hostage for five days. Philip J. Klass, chairman of CSICOP's UFO subcommittee spent many months investigating the alleged incident and uncovered extensive evidence to indicate the incident was most likely a hoax, according to a release from the group.

Stars honored

The National Association of Theater Owners recently honored eight film stars with awards at the group's ShoWest Convention in Las Vegas. Mel Gibson and Whoopi Goldberg were named stars of the year; Brad "Thelma & Louise" Pitt and Juliette "Cape Fear" Lewis, were named stars of the future; Clint Eastwood, director of the year; Arnold Schwarzenegger, international star of the year; and Jack Lemmon and Walter Matthau received the group's lifetime achievement award.

Among the NATO members in attendance at the convention were Gary and Kris Moore of Big Spring, owners of the Cinmore 4 Theater in Midland.

Fonda's dressed to kill in 'Point'

Little black dress, pearls and a big gun chic

By Janet Maslin
N.Y. Times News Service

■ Review

Of all the French films that have recently been remade for American audiences, "La Femme Nikita" is the one that has changed least.

There's a good reason for that: In spirit, "La Femme Nikita" was half American in the first place.

Luc Besson, the original filmmaker, achieved a stunning synthesis of French contemplativeness and American violence in his slick, manipulative story of a feral punk who is saved from extinction and then trained as an assassin.

His film's secret weapon was the punk herself, a leggy heroine who exuded both glamour and viciousness and performed some of her most savage deeds wearing pearls and a skimpy black dress.

In Besson's calculating tour de force, this woman could behave shockingly while looking like a fashion model. And when Nikita began to soften, discovering her romantic side for the first time and rebelling against the violent, dehumanizing life that had been imposed upon her, the film took on the pomposity of a conversation piece without sacrificing its commercial verve.

For all its pretensions, "La Femme Nikita" worked most cleverly as a showcase for Anne Parillaud. A striking actress (quite literally, in this role), she captured a provocative range of feminine attitudes and combined violence and seductiveness in tantalizing ways.

Thanks to that characterization, "La Femme Nikita" still casts a long shadow over other recent femme fatale films, particularly those that concentrate on treachery, manipulativeness and hostility between the sexes.

Remade crassly and effectively as "Point of No Return," this story still packs a wallop, as does its heroine. Bridget Fonda, confirming her status as a captivating new star, fits in effortlessly with the story's other basic ingredients: little black dress, great big gun.

With her flirty, incandescent smile and a frame that looks great when truly dressed to kill, Ms. Fonda gives a disarming, believable performance in a role that now seems a shade more peculiar. The change in context makes a big

Movies on demand far from ready

N.Y. Times News Service

Suppose you could watch any movie at any time simply by punching numbers on a telephone or a television remote control. That prospect, referred to as video on demand, has got so much publicity lately that some consumers and video dealers are under the impression that video on demand is here and about to do away with the video store.

"Some dealers think it's already affecting them," said Don Rosenberg, the executive vice president of the Video Software Dealers Association.

In fact, video on demand, beyond localized test areas, is from several years to perhaps a decade away, say analysts of cable and telephone companies that are racing one another to develop various delivery systems.

With digital compression and fiber optics, carriers will transmit thousands of signals. Eventually that capacity could enable the ordering of thousands of movies, and many other services, at the touch of a button.

At present, though, carriers need time to install systems that will cost them billions. To adapt services to the television screen, a consumer in many cases will have to spend several hundred dollars for a converter box and other equipment, depending on the system.

Cable companies are unsure how consumers will react to that expense. On top of it are user fees for services. With a limited choice of movies and fees that average about $1 higher than rental rates at video stores, standard pay-per-view ranks far below stores in consumer popularity. How far the expanded movie services will lift pay per view's standing is unclear.

Since July in Denver, Tele-Communications Inc. — the nation's largest cable company, with systems in 49 states — has been testing a service in 150 homes that approximates true video on demand.

By punching buttons on their remote controls, viewers can order any of 1,700 films or other programs at any time. Within 10 minutes the movie starts. Fees range from 99 cents to $4 per film.

The company will not say what it has learned. "We're testing the interest, to see how often people use the system," said Lela Cocoros, a spokeswoman for the company. "We're not sure it's what people want."

Dates could change, but four of the five films nominated for the Oscar as best picture will begin to arrive on tape in June. "Howards End" and "A Few

Amos & Andrew' bring loopy laughs

By David Kronke
N.Y. Times News Service

■ Review

LOS ANGELES — The time is certainly ripe for a good social comedy on racial prejudice, and "Amos & Andrew" can be certainly ripe. Though it examines both rampant, latent racism in whites and the assimilation-vs.-heritage conflicts confounding African-Americans, it couches the material in broadly farcical strokes and employs more than a few stock, stereotypical characters.

Still, good intentions can go a long way, and the film succeeds often as a loopy comedy and occasionally as social commentary. In his directorial debut, screenwriter E. Max Frye relies more on witty dialogue than logic to carry his parable. The film boasts a solid cast — Nicolas Cage, Samuel L. Jackson, Dabney Coleman, Michael Lerner, Brad Dourif, Giancarlo Esposito and Bob Balaban among it — though not all are put to optimal use.

Jackson stars as Andrew Sterling, a Pulitzer Prize-winning playwright (for the portentously titled "Yo Brother, Where Art Thou?") and self-proclaimed "thorn in the side of the white man." But Sterling has become a little too comfortable with the trappings of the white man's culture, buying a home on a lily-white New England resort island.

Bigoted neighbors (Lerner and Margaret Colin) — so broadly drawn that they keep a lawn jockey on which their pet pooch unceremoniously urinates — see Sterling in the house. Not knowing he has

1993 Oscar fever a low-grade affliction

N.Y. Times News Service

HOLLYWOOD — Unless your name is Clint or Barbra or Arnold, unless you're viewed as Somebody Important, you're usually relegated to the back room of Spago — the restaurant off Sunset Boulevard that has long been a movie colony hangout — and treated like a tourist from North Korea.

But this week, Hollywood's writers, who view themselves as outsiders anyway, took over Spago's back room to celebrate some of their brethren nominated for the coming Academy Awards, to be presented on Monday, March 29. Neil Jordan, the director and writer of "The Crying Game," huddled in a corner with David Webb Peoples, who wrote "Unforgiven."

The reclusive Peoples, who lives in Berkeley, acknowledged that he was a little nervous about all the hoopla. Jordan, who lives in London, seemed a bit dazed. "All these little minor hurdles before the big jump," said Jordan, who is now preparing a film adaptation for the producer David Geffen of the Anne Rice best seller, "Interview With the Vampire." "It's a bit unnerving, disorienting. Like having a fever."

Like Jordan, Hollywood is being gripped by Oscar fever, but a low-grade one. Although the daily trade papers are filled with advertisements promoting various nominees, the 65th Awards Presentation seems, for the moment at least, a subdued affair. Part of the reason is that so many non-Hollywood, low-budget films have walked off with so many nominations, including "Howards End" and "The Crying Game." Because it is such a personal picture, even Clint Eastwood's revisionist western, "Unforgiven," a major contender for top awards, is considered outside the mainstream,

NOTE: Rating system for the film list is: 4 stars — Don't miss it; 3 stars — worth your while; 2 stars — Has it moments; 1 star — If you must

N.Y. Times News Service

ALADDIN: Another endlessly entertaining animated feature from Walt Disney, buoyed by Robin Williams' energetically inventive turn as the Genie who helps a poor street kid named Aladdin surmount the evil plotting of Jafar and win the love of the Sultan's daughter Jasmine. Dazzling color and breathtaking animation combine with nonstop laughs and spritely songs. G. Rating: 4 stars.

CB4: Chris Rock co-wrote and stars in this scattershot satire of the rap music world. He plays a nice, middle class kid who makes a fortune pretending to be a gangsta rapper. Phil Hartman and Chris Elliott are part of the talented ensemble, but the movie is surprisingly toothless and too diffuse to be an effective showbiz comedy. R. Rating: 2 stars

THE CRYING GAME: Irish director Neil Jordan has crafted the most surprising and humane film of the year out of the unlikely building blocks of death, loss, blind hate and aching loneliness. Stephen Rea plays an unwisely compassionate, Irish Republican Army terrorist who's drawn to the girlfriend (Jaye Davidson) of a black British soldier his cell kidnapped. The political becomes profoundly personal as the mismatched couple discovers one another's secrets. R. Rating: 4 stars

FALLING DOWN: Michael Douglas plays an everynerd who snaps one day in a traffic jam, starts walking through L.A. and collects a growing arsenal of weapons and hysterical white guy complaints. Joel Schumacher's ("Flatliners") film is superficial, prejudicial and intriguingly gripping — this guy may be a mental case, but there are too many of us who know exactly how he feels. Robert Duvall plays the easygoing cop on his trail; Barbara Hershey is the worried ex-wife he's determined to visit. R. Rating: 3 stars

A FAR OFF PLACE: Alternately too violent or too slow for kids, this family drama about two kids and their native guide escaping from murderous African poachers plays a little like an African version of "The Night of the Hunter," only with a boring villain. Adults will likely find the movie rather pedestrian and film with grating lapses in logic. Preceded by the fairly amusing Roger Rabbit short "Trail Mix-Up." PG. Rating: 2 stars

FIRE IN THE SKY: A big bore on the screen. Supposedly based on the true story of an alien abduction in 1975, this tepid sci-fi adventure stars D.B. Sweeney as Travis Walton, a guy who claims to have been groped by aliens. While the ads have pushed Walton's too-close encounter with saucer-eyed experimenters, most of the movie is about the guys left behind by the saucer, i.e., a bunch of Arizona loggers who find that their neighbors and the authorities commercial verve.

For all its pretensions, "La Femme Nikita" worked most cleverly as a showcase for Anne Parillaud. A striking actress (quite literally, in this role), she captured a provocative range of feminine attitudes and combined violence and seductiveness in tantalizing ways.

Thanks to that characterization, "La Femme Nikita" still casts a long shadow over other recent femme fatale films, particularly those that concentrate on treachery, manipulativeness and hostility between the sexes.

Remade crassly and effectively as "Point of No Return," this story still packs a wallop, as does its heroine. Bridget Fonda, confirming her status as a captivating new star, fits in effortlessly with the story's other basic ingredients: little black dress, great big gun.

With her flirty, incandescent smile and a frame that looks great when truly dressed to kill, Ms. Fonda gives a disarming, believable performance in a role that now seems a shade more peculiar. The change in context makes a big difference.

American audiences may be used to savagery from their action heroes, but a woman who can casually stab a man with a pencil is something else again.

Most of this heroine's violent, amoral behavior is confined to the story's early sections, which is part of the film's ingenuity.

Maggie (Ms. Fonda) appears first as a dazed, sullen junkie and participates in an ugly murder, for which she is tried and convicted.

Sentenced to die, she gets a reprieve from a mysterious government agency, which decides to recruit her for its top-secret punk-recycling program.

Bob (Gabriel Byrne), a supervisor at this agency, has looked on appreciatively while Maggie attacks anyone who comes near her. He decides she has great potential and, as played by Ms. Fonda in Marlene Stewart's seductive costumes, she certainly does.

As directed by John Badham with flashy pulp intelligence, "Point of No Return" is noticeably fancier than its predecessor. The agency's Washington headquarters, which formerly had a dull, bureaucratic look, has been made to resemble a chic downtown health club.

Maggie's surly behavior stands out all the more in this setting, as does her gradual transformation from a frightening free spirit into a carefully socialized dinner date. Some viewers will find this latter change the story's scariest aspect.

Anne Bancroft, very well cast in the role first played by Jeanne Moreau, appears as a modified charm school doyenne who teaches Maggie the basics, like how to eat chocolate mousse with something other than her hands.

Ms. Bancroft, combining a maternal smile with her best Mrs. Robinson whip-cracking mode, has been given a lavish, tapestry-lined lair in which to deliver these lessons.

Also overseeing Maggie's progress is Miguel Ferrer, lively and snappish as Bob's impatient supervisor. "I want immediate improvement or she gets a bullet in the brain," he says briskly.

Eventually, Maggie is renamed Claudia and sent to Venice, Calif., where she awaits assignments that will have her dressing up in a maid's uniform and red satin hot pants to perform various covert tasks.

In Venice, she charms the appealingly raffish J.P. (Dermot Mulroney) by not knowing how to shop in a grocery store. (Even little touches like this come right out of the earlier film, as does much of the dialogue in Robert Getchell and Alexandra Seros's screenplay.)

Once the story settles down to wondering whether Maggie/Claudia can find happiness in romantic love, it becomes noticeably less interesting. Ms. Fonda sometimes verges on the mechanical in mouthing her character's nobler sentiments (the film also relies heavily on Nina Simone records to express its heroine's feelings), but that is to be expected.

At heart, this woman is little more than a laboratory specimen with great legs, so it's miraculous to find an actress breathing life into her at all.

"Point of No Return" also features Harvey Keitel in a brief, effectively weird appearance as a tight-lipped operative who calls himself "the cleaner."

"Point of No Return" is rated R (Under 17 requires accompanying parent or adult guardian). It includes sexual situations and considerable violence.

AMOS: Cage provides movie's big laughs bought the place, they suspect the worst and alert the police. Chief Tolliver (Coleman), in the middle of a political campaign, and a group of nincompoops (including Dourif, as the inept Donnie Donaldson) shoot first and don't bother asking questions.

Eventually, Tolliver discovers Sterling's identity, and sensing an impending political catastrophe, enlists a prisoner, Amos (Cage), to turn the fiasco into political hay. Amos is dispatched to take Sterling hostage, then give up, making Tolliver look a hero. Obviously, a requisite batch of zany, comically escalating complications ensure that that isn't how things end up.

Frye's script keeps the proceedings in the pithy mode, but he's not exactly able to maintain a firm grasp on all the far-fetched mayhem that surrounds Amos and Andrew (he doesn't have much of an eye for detail, either, resulting in a few distracting continuity errors). The media arrive in droves soon after the occupation begins, only to virtually disappear until they're needed again at the film's finale. And it's not exactly clear what the Al Sharpton-like sharpie Fenton Brunch (Giancarlo Esposito) and his minions are doing or protesting when they turn up on the island.

Cage, though not on the adrenaline charge of his character in "Honeymoon in Vegas" nor as intellectually anesthetized as his character in "Raising Arizona," again provides the movie's biggest laughs with another studiedly eccentric performance.

Amos, to put it mildly, lacks navigational skills — he landed in his present predicament in search of Canada ("I must have been thinking of some other island," he surmises). And his blissfully weird monologue on having sea monkeys as a child ("They looked really happy in the pictures. . . . I wanted my family to be more a sea monkey family") is the movie's strangest, funniest detour.

Jackson alternates between mellow self-satisfaction and bemusement and hypertense self-righteousness as the bristling Sterling. Coleman and Lerner go through serviceable motions in subtle-as-a-train-wreck roles. Balaban is amusing in a small role as a fatuous, gratingly Leo Buscagliaesque "freelance hostage negotiator" who blathers away about his own troubled childhood to whoever he thinks might be interested.

"Amos & Andrew" — a vaguely uninspired play on the title of the old, stereotypical radio comedy — attempts, as it is a social satire, to offend some folks' sensibilities, while simultaneously endeavoring to maintain a tamely politically correct stance. Its efforts to inject some insight into its broader elements is laudable, but perhaps most heartening is the fact that humor can still be mined from a problem that perpetually threatens to erupt.

"Amos and Andrew," which has been rated PG-13 (parents strongly cautioned), has vulgar language.

MANIA: Confusion rampant in odd Oscar year

(From 1C)

though it was made by Warner Brothers.

The fact that Hollywood actually seems confused about this year's Academy Awards is underscored by what happened at Tuesday's annual luncheon for nominees sponsored by the Academy of Motion Picture Arts and Sciences at the Beverly Hilton. Normally this is a star-studded affair, but Tuesday the star turnout was sparse, with only seven acting nominees attending: Robert Downey Jr. for "Chaplin"; Eastwood; Denzel Washington for "Malcolm X"; Joan Plowright for "Enchanted April"; Jack Nicholson for "A Few Good Men"; David Paymer for "Mr. Saturday Night" and Marisa Tomei for "My Cousin Vinny." But many other stars as well as directors failed to show up, including Michelle Pfeiffer, who is nominated for "Love Field," Al Pacino for "Scent of a Woman" and "Glengarry Glen Ross," and Gene Hackman for "Unforgiven."

The mood of some was upbeat. Paymer and Ms. Tomei said happily that more scripts were coming to them following their nominations. And Eastwood, the odds-on favorite for best director, said, "It feels OK," when asked about his nomination. For Eastwood, that qualifies as upbeat.

Washington, who portrayed Malcolm X, the black nationalist leader, in Spike Lee's film, seemed a bit disgruntled, however. Standing in a press room, he was asked by a television reporter why Lee was not nominated, too.

"You tell me, why do you think it is?" Washington replied quickly. "I'm asking you a question." After a moment, he said: "The other films that have dealt with black themes, 'The Color Purple' or 'Driving Miss Daisy' or 'Soldier's Story' or 'Cry Freedom' and now 'Malcolm X' — those films have had a total of 50 or 60 nominations. But somehow or other none of the directors of those films were nominated. Isn't that a coincidence?"

Asked why "Malcolm X" had proved disappointing at the box office, Washington replied with some heat that the movie had performed better than most biographical films. "Everybody keeps saying it hasn't done well," he said. "We made 5, 10 times as much money as 'Hoffa' or 'Chaplin.' If you keep saying it hasn't done well, then people will keep saying it."

Washington has a point. "Malcolm X" has grossed $48 million domestically. In contrast, "Hoffa," which has grossed $23 million, and "Chaplin," which grossed only $9.2 million, are major flops. But "Malcolm X," which received strong reviews, remains a big financial disappointment for Warner Brothers, which had much higher hopes for it.

The mood of peevishness was not limited to Washington. For the first time in years, leading studio executives are denigrating the Academy Awards, largely because so many of the nominees are out of the Hollywood mainstream. But some of the same executives acknowledge that many Hollywood pictures are trashy or derivative and undeserving of an award.

At the moment, the common wisdom here is that the five pictures nominated as best film will each pick up some major awards. Besides "The Crying Game" and "Howards End" they are "Scent of a Woman," "Unforgiven" and "A Few Good Men."

The early odds are that Emma Thompson will win best actress for "Howards End," with Susan Sarandon a long shot for "Lorenzo's Oil." Pacino is favored as best actor for "Scent of a Woman," although this competition could be close with such other contenders as Washington, Eastwood, Stephen Rea in "The Crying Game" and Downey for "Chaplin."

REVIEWS: Local screens offer variety of choices

(From 1C)

(led by an uncomfortable James Garner) suspect them of either staging a hoax or, worse, murdering their missing friend. Luckily, Walton shows up after five days and we get about 10 minutes of goop-filled flashback in which he recalls having everything done to him aboard that spacship short of a rectal probe (that was in "Communion"). This movie only proves the old adage that most alien encounters are better read about than made into movies. PG-13. Not yet rated.

GROUNDHOG DAY: Bill Murray's ever-funny unpolished glibness carries this comedy about a jerk weatherman who is forced to live one day — Groundhog Day — over and over, and the hilarious ways in which he deals with his bizarre situation. Andie MacDowell and Chris Elliott co-star. PG. Rating: 3 stars

HOME ALONE 2: LOST IN NEW YORK: The same movie as the all-time comedy hit, but it cost more. This time, Macaulay Culkin defends Manhattan against the hapless crooks played by Joe Pesci and Daniel Stern, but it's amazing how little invention writer John Hughes and director Chris Columbus fit onto the presumably wider canvas. "Another Christmas in the trenches," the 12-year-old hero mutters at one point. Parents whose undiscerning kids drag them to this will know exactly what he means. PG. Rating: 2 stars

HOMEWARD BOUND: THE INCREDIBLE JOURNEY: A remake of the Disney nature adventure, in which two dogs and a cat travel through the wilderness to get back to their owners. This time, the animals sound like Michael J. Fox, Sally Field and Don Ameche. More comic than the original, but with the same, kid-pleasing blend of action and maudlin sentimentality. G. Rating: 3 stars

HOWARDS END: Adapted from E.M. Forster's 1910 novel by the Ismail Merchant-James Ivory team ("A Room With a View"), the film is a tale of two families. The Wilcoxes — Henry (Anthony Hopkins), a turn-of-the-century Master of the Universe, his frail wife, Ruth (Vanessa Redgrave) and their snobby grown-up children — are the stuffy soul of England. The Schlegel sisters, Margaret (Emma Thompson) and Helen (Helena Bonham Carter), are passionate free-thinkers. Airily self-confident and blessed with a superb cast, "Howards End" is one of those rare movies that grows more subtly complex as it goes along. PG. Rating: 4 stars

MAD DOG AND GLORY: Exasperatingly uneven comedy-drama starring Robert De Niro as a timid cop who saves the life of a Chicago gangster (Bill Murray), who repays him by loaning him the services of a young woman (Uma Thurman) for a week. The filmmakers couldn't possibly have been advocating such behavior, nor could they genuinely have been frowning on De Niro's nonviolent nature, yet the way things shake out (the movie strongly feels as if studio interference has gotten the best of it), objectification of women and macho bluster carry the day. R. Rating: 2 stars

NATIONAL LAMPOON'S LOADED WEAPON I: It was bound to happen: a spoof that isn't as funny as the movies it makes fun of. Emilio Estevez is a cop on the edge. Samuel L. Jackson is his by-the-book partner with two days until retirement. Together, they make Mel Gibson and Danny Glover look like comic geniuses. This film's director, Gene Quintano, does the same for the Zucker brothers, Mel Brooks and whoever makes "The Hat Squad." PG-13. Rating: 1 star

NOWHERE TO RUN: Misguided Jean-Claude Van Damme vehicle incongruously and unsuccessfully attempts to blend mayhem and sentimentin this story of a prison escapee who helps a single mother (Rosanna Arquette) and her rheumy-eyed son (Kieran Culkin) protect their farm from a sinister land developer (Joss Ackland). R. Rating: 1 star

RICH IN LOVE: Perhaps the first movie to turn a dysfunctional family into a warm fuzzy, this movie from the makers of "Driving Miss Daisy" (director Bruce Beresford and screenwriter Alfred Uhry) strives for the sort of warm magic their earlier collaboration engendered, but instead create a work far too mannered to connect emotionally. It's the story of a young girl (Kathryn Erbe) who learns that change may actually be good for you after her mother leaves her father. It's a creditable message, but delivered here too benignly to have much impact. PG. Rating: 2 stars

A RIVER RUNS THROUGH IT: Robert Redford's third directing effort is a respectful and often moving adaptation of Norman Maclean's Montana memoirs. Set mostly in 1926, it depicts Norman and his brother Paul's (Craig Sheffer and Brad Pitt) love of fly fishing, their hard affection for a stern, minister father (Tom Skerritt, who is wonderful) and their differing attractions to sustenance and destruction. Tough-minded nostalgia laced with quiet, forgiving grace. PG. Rating: 3 stars

SOMMERSBY: Richard Gere is the laconic Confederate soldier whose return triggers a profound change in his town's ailing fortunes. Jodie Foster portrays Laurel, the self-reliant woman who had been expecting widowhood to the extent that she had formed a bond with a pious farmhand named Orin (Bill Pullman). In nearly every technical respect, "Sommersby" is handsomely constructed — there's a grace and sense of scale that instills the film with a nobility the narrative itself doesn't earn. PG. Rating: 2 stars

TEENAGE MUTANT NINJA TURTLES III: More hard-shell hard sell from the decade's most popular reptiles. (Barney may have something to say about that. . .) PG. Rating: 1½ stars

Ratings for children are by the Motion Picture Association of America: (G) general audiences; (PG) parental guidance suggested as some material may not be suitable for children; (PG-13) special guidance for children under age 13 as some material may be inappropriate for youngsters; (R) restricted, under 17 requires accompanying parent or adult guardian; (NC-17) no children under 17 admitted; (NR) not rated by the MPAA.

VIDEO: Recent, upcoming releases recapped for viewers

(From 1C)

Good Men" will be the first released; "Scent of a Woman" is scheduled for July, and "Unforgiven" will be available later in the year.

In the middle of a strong theater run, "The Crying Game" officially has no video distributor, but industry sources say it will be Warner and the release date will be in July.

All the 1992 Oscar films, along with almost 300 other nominated movies on tape dating to 1927, are included in "The Complete Oscar Video List," a section in a new catalogue supplement from Movies Unlimited of Philadelphia. Information: (800) 523-0823.

New & noteworthy

Wind, 1992. Columbia Tri-Star. PG-13.

Will Parker (Matthew Modine) lost the America's Cup yacht race and now wants to redeem himself by skippering the 12-meter yacht that will win the rematch in the Indian Ocean off Australia. A crew of bright young eccentrics is signed on, including Will's former girl friend (Jennifer Grey) and her current lover (Stellan Skarsgard), who designs the craft and helps to build it in an aircraft hangar on the Utah salt flats. But the real action, blustery and spectacular, takes place during tacking duels and spinnaker runs in a film that is part teen-age adventure fiction, but "is played by adults with recognizable passion and genuine humor" (Vincent Canby).

Bebe's Kids, 1992. Paramount. 1:34. PG.

Bruce Smith's film, written by Reginald Hudlin, refers to itself as "animation with attitude," but about all it manages is irreverence. Robin, based on the comedian Robin Harris, who died in 1990, sends three unruly children, modeled on Harris' own rambunctious offspring, to an amusement park for a series of misadventures that amount to a sort of "House Party" for the grammar-school set. Though it has a message about caring for children, "the film isn't as much fun as it might have been if Harris' brash presence had been live on screen" (Caryn James).

The Last of the Mohicans, 1992. Fox. 1:14. R.

Michael Mann's film finds several ways to make a virtual bodice ripper of James Fenimore Cooper's clunky novel. A lively if choppy screenplay bothers with only those parts of Cooper's story that move the narrative. It is 1757, but the woodsmen have a contemporary look and attitude. There are splendid vistas and the fine-featured Madeleine Stowe as Englishwoman in peril. But mostly there is the bare-chested Daniel Day-Lewis loping through the forest as the hot-blooded frontiersman called Hawkeye. Stir in violent exploits and, Janet Maslin wrote in The New York Times, a ponderous tale of British-French warfare becomes a "swashbuckling, peculiarly prescient epic."

The Great Madcap, 1949. Water Bearer. Spanish with Enlish subtitles. 1:30. No rating.

Rare is the sunny Luis Bunuel film. To get at the fortune of a drunken Mexican millionaire, his scheming relatives try to convince the forgetful old fellow that he has lost all his money and landed in poverty. When the millionaire, in a trick of his own, convinces the family that they really are poor, everybody knuckles down and gets to work. A delightful tale "might have amounted to only the airiest of fluff had not Bunuel taken merry advantage of the plot's several levels of deceit" (Maslin).

Hot renters

Movie rentals are reportedly higher than they were this time last year. Here are some films in the top 10 on various best-renter lists.

A League of Their Own. Geena Davis, Madonna et al. play ball in Penny Marshall's film. 1992. Columbia Tri-Star. 2:06. PG.

Unlawful Entry. A wayward police officer on a burglary call (Ray Liotta) outstays his welcome in the home of grateful suburbanites (Kurt Russell and Madeleine Stowe). 1992. 1:50. R.

Mo' Money. A street hustler (Damon Wayans) opens the door to new scams when he lands a job at a credit card company. 1992. Columbia Tri-Star. 1:31. R.

Housesitter. An architect (Steve Martin) builds a dream house for his love (Dana Delany) only to find it taken over by a charming squatter (Goldie Hawn). 1992. MCA/Universal. 1:42. PG.

Patriot Games. An ex-CIA man (Harrison Ford) and his family are pursued from Britain to Maryland by vengeful terrorists of the Irish Republican Army. 1992. Paramount. 1:57. R.

Single White Female. Allison Jones (Bridget Fonda) picks the wrong roommate (Jennifer Jason Leigh) in Barbet Schroeder's film. 1992. Columbia Tr-Star. 1:47. R.

Raising Cain. On the advice of his several other selves, the child psychiatrist Dr. Carter Nix (John Lithgow) kidnaps young ones and chloroforms their mothers. 1992. MCA/Universal. 1:31. R.

Diggstown. A fight hustler fresh out of prison (James Woods) and an old club fighter (Louis Gossett Jr.) team up for a sting in the Georgia lair of the murderous local Mr. Big (Bruce Dern). MGM/UA. 1:38. R.

HELP US SET A RECORD
This year the Midland Downtown Lions will "shoot for the stars" as it attempts to set a record never before achieved in the 37-year history of the Pancake Jamboree — to feed 10,000 hungry pancake eaters. The closest this record has come to being broken was in 1984 when 9,640 were served.
If all these pancakes were put into a single stack it would be as tall as a ten story building. This record breaking feast will require a ton of sausage, 1,400 pounds of buttermilk pancake mix, 300 pounds of butter and 750 quarts of syrup.

LYDIA-EUROPE'S FIRST CHRISTIAN CONVERT!

WHEN PAUL MADE HIS SECOND MISSIONARY JOURNEY HE CAME TO THE CITY OF PHILIPPI IN MACEDONIA (GREECE). PHILIPPI WAS A LARGE CITY DUE TO THE GOLD MINING INDUSTRY IN THE NEARBY MOUNTAINS. ALTHOUGH THERE WERE JEWS LIVING HERE, APPARENTLY THERE WAS NO SYNAGOGUE FOR PAUL HAD TO GO OUTSIDE THE CITY ON THE SABBATH TO A NEARY RIVER WHERE WASHINGS, NECESSARY TO THE RELIGIOUS CEREMONIES, COULD BE PERFORMED. HERE, HE FOUND ONLY A GROUP OF WOMEN ENGAGED IN WORSHIP AND TO THESE HE BEGAN TO PREACH HIS MESSAGE. LYDIA, WHO WAS AMONGST THEM, WAS SO TAKEN BY PAUL'S PREACHING THAT SHE IMMEDIATELY ASKED FOR BAPTISM, INCLUDING HER ENTIRE HOUSEHOLD!

LYDIA WAS NOT JEWISH, HERSELF, BUT WAS A FIRM BELIEVER IN GOD AND WORSHIPPED WITH THE JEWS. SHE WAS A WOMAN OF WEALTH, DEALING IN THE PURPLE-DYED FABRICS MANUFACTURED IN THYATYRA, ONE OF THE LARGE GARMENT CENTERS IN ASIA-MINOR AND FROM WHENCE SHE ORIGINALLY HAILED. AFTER HER BAPTISM, LYDIA PUT HER PALATIAL HOME ENTIRELY AT THE DISPOSAL OF PAUL AND HIS ENTOURAGE FOR THEIR ENTIRE STAY IN THOSE PARTS! (ACTS 16: 12-15)

Minister: Country plunges toward faithless, moral ruin

By George W. Cornell
Assciated Press Writer

NEW YORK — Charles W. "Chuck" Colson, a man who has ridden a symbolic roller coaster from high to low and back to a peak again, sees the country as plunging from high moral ground toward faithless ruin.

"We are stripping religion away from public life to our great and everlasting peril," he said. "It is the most self-destructive process the nation could embark on.

"We are trying to erase the indispensable role of religion in informing the moral consensus by which civilized society has survived."

Colson once hit bottom himself, spiritually and physically, a cynical White House counsel sent to prison. But he has regained a height, in service and honor, building an acclaimed, worldwide ministry in behalf of prisoners.

As winner of the $1 million 1993 Templeton Prize for Progress in Religion, the previously imprisoned "hatchet man" for President Nixon in the Watergate scandal, said he was reclaimed by God's "amazing grace" to serve his truth.

Besides building Prison Fellowship into an international network for mending lives of prisoners and their families and seeking prison reforms, Colson also has turned out a dozen books on contemporary culture and faith.

"We live in a post-Christian age today," he said in an interview. "We've attempted to become a city of man without a city of God. We're stripping away our religious roots."

Noting that the late world historian Will Durant concluded that no nation in history has survived without a strong moral code.

RELIGION IN BRIEF

■ Coleman to speak

Greater St. Luke A.M.E. Church, 401 S. Adams St., will hold its annual Women's Day at 3 p.m. Sunday.

Coleman

Dr. Viola Coleman will be the guest speaker. The theme is "God's Plan for Women."

Dr. Coleman, a long time resident of Midland and active members of St. Paul C.M.E. Church, is the only black practicing medical doctor in Midland. She has made her presence felt in all activities of civic life in Midland — in religion, education, politics and economics.

The program is one of the church's highlights of this lenten season. Program director is Jennell McGowan.

The church's pastor, the Rev. I.C. Cooper, invites the public to attend.

■ Kids Choir to perform

"There's crickets and tadpoles, turtles and frogs, down by the creek band by the old holler log."

The Rainbow Kids Choir of Christian Church of Midland will present Dottie Rambo's "Down by the Creekbank" at 6 p.m. Sunday at the church, 2608 Neely St.

The 25-voice children's choir is made up of first through sixth graders. The pubic is invited to attend.

■ Spring retreat planned

Jenny Broughton, motivational speaker and retreat leader, will be the guest speaker for the West Texas Area of Stonecroft Ministries Spring Retreat being held here Friday and March 27 at the Ramada Inn.

Broughton

Mrs. Broughton and her husband recently moved from Houston to Midland where he serves as minister of Wilshire Park baptist Church.

Mrs. Broughton, a graduate of Howard Payne University, was a public school teacher for 12 years. She and her husband have three daughters.

Host for the event, which begins at 6 p.m. Friday and runs through 11:30 a.m. March 27, is the Midland Christian Women's Club. Registration is $14 and includes the evening meal.

For more information about this non-denominational program call Julie Cole, 682-5851.

■ Revival scheduled

Revival services at the First United Pentecostal Church, 5110 W. Illinois Ave., are planned for Sunday through Wednesday.

■ Group elects president

Omar H. Pachecano of El Paso has been elected president of Hispanic Baptist theological Seminary, San Antonio, by the State Missions Commission of the 2.5-million-member Baptist General Convention of Texas.

He will become president-elect April 1, succeeding Joshua Grijalva when Grijalva retires May 31.

Pachecano, who has been director of missions for El Paso Baptist Association since 1988, long has been associated with Hispanic Seminary, having served on the school's board of trustees and as chairman of that board.

A graduate of Dallas Baptist University, Pachecano has been selected to receive that school's distinguished alumnus award in November.

Pachecano was twice president of the Mexican Baptist Convention of Texas, in 1972 and 1979; vice chairman of the Southern Baptist Home Mission Board trustees; a member of the BGCT executive board; and vice moderator of the San Antonio Baptist Association.

■ Rooms focus on author

BOSTON — March is National Women's History Month, and many Christian Science reading rooms will be focusing on the writings of Mary Baker Eddy, an author whose work "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" was recently recognized by the Women's National Book Association.

"Reading rooms are always a good source for information on Mary Baker Eddy," said Virginia S. Harris, publisher of Mrs. Eddy's writings.

In addition to Mrs. Eddy's autobiography "Retrospection and Introspection," there is additional information published by the Christian Science Publishing Society available at local reading rooms.

The local Christian Science Reading Room, 201 W. Wall Ave., is sponsored by First Church of Christ Scientist.

The theme for this year's National Women's History Month is "Discover a New World: Women's History."

■ Prayer night begins

SAN ANGELO — A city-wide "Prayer and Praise Night" begins at 7 p.m. April 1 at the San Angelo Convention Center.

Then, evangelist R.W. Schambach speaks at 7 p.m. April 2. Also speaking April 2 at noon is Donna Schambach.

The event is sponsored by Faith teaching Ministries and area churches. For more information call 1-944-2075.

■ Singles plan seminar

The Singles Ministry of Golf Course Road Church of Christ presents its semi-annual divorce recovery seminar, entitled "Some Answers to the Divorce Dilemna," today in the church's family center.

Registration begins at 8:30 a.m. The seminar will cover such topics as the adjustment journey, the emotions of divorce, God's healing and the effect of divorce in children. The seminar concludes at 3:30 p.m.

Traditionally, following each seminar, the participants are invited to become involved in small support groups meeting from 6 to 7 p.m. Sundays for six weeks. These groups are led by those who have experienced divorce in the past and are able to offer support, understanding and caring fro those who are in the midst of the process. Dress is casual and the meetings are informal.

■ Church hosts revival

Bellview Baptist Church, 1710 N. Big Spring St., is hosting a "Victory in Jesus" revival at 7:30 p.m. Sunday through Wednesday.

In addition, meetings will be held during the lunch hour in the CLC Building beginning at 11:45 a.m.

The guest speaker is the Rev. George Brock, III, pastor in Oklahoma City. Jim McNiel of Missouri will be leading the singing.

The public is invited. A nursery will be provided. For more information call 682-9474.

■ Church shows videos

Kelview Heights Baptist Church is presenting best selling author Max Lucado video series, "Finding Peace in a Troubled World," at 5:45 p.m. Sundays.

Based on Lucado's latest book, "And the Angels Were Silent," this video series points out Lucado's perspective on such concepts as God's solutions for stress, simplifying faith, living each day as if Christ were coming tomorrow, handling betrayal and recognizing miracles.

A nursery will be provided.

■ Church hosts groups

First Baptist Church, 2104 W. Louisiana Ave., is hosting "Breakthrough" groups from 7 to 8:30 p.m. Tuesdays.

The groups include "Divorce Recovery," "Loss Through Death," "Supporting the Single Parent" and "Stress or Distress."

All are invited to attend. For more information call 682-1646.

■ Festival scheduled

BIG LAKE — A Festival of Faith, sponsored by the Big Lake Ministerial Alliance, is set for the Reagan County Community Center, 12th Street at Utah, Sunday through Wednesday.

Guest speaker will be the Rev. Richard Jackson of North Phoenix Baptist Church, Phoenix, Ariz. Jackson graduated from Howard Payne University with a bachelor of arts degree in May of 1960. He completed graduate work at Southwestern Baptist Theological Seminary in Fort Worth with a master of divinity degree. In the years at his current church, the membership has grown from less than 1,000 to 21,000, with 20,000 being baptized.

Minister of music for the Festival of Faith will be Forbes L. Woods, Duncanville. Woods is a member of Phi Mu Alpha, Alpha Chi, the American Guild of Organists, the American Guild of Variety Artists and the Choristers Guild. He is a tenor and has sung in many musical theater and opera productions.

Services will be held at 7 p.m. daily with the opening service set at 10:45 a.m. March 21.

■ Church observes Lent

Special services are being held this month at Our Savior's Lutheran Church, 3309 Neely, in observance of the season of Lent at 7:30 p.m. Wednesdays.

In dialogue sermons, the Rev. Robert Walter is presenting a series on "The Body of Christ."

The remaining topics include are "The Eyes of Christ to See Our Needs" on Wednesday and "The Heart of Christ Beating with Love," March 31.

■ Study class to meet

The Growing in Grace study class at First Baptist Church, 2104 W. Louisiana Ave., meets at 5:15 p.m. Sunday in the Fellowship Hall.

The class is presented by the Rev. James C. Denison, pastor of the church. The topic is "Evidence for Jesus' Resurrection," from the Bible and history.

■ Spring revival planned

Evangelist for the services will be the Rev. Kenneth Patrick, pastor of First Baptist Church, Big Spring. David McReynolds, music and youth director for Ranchland Heights, will lead the music.

The church's pastor, the Rev. Lucian Rudd, invites the public to attend.

Nuns give prison mothers place to heal

By Francis X. Clines
N.Y. Times News Service

NEW YORK — For more than a decade now, New York City's power to adapt to hard times has been quietly advanced by a gritty, unusual ghetto community — half underworld and half otherworld — made up of adventurous nuns, female ex-convicts and the women's prison-born babies.

More than 5,000 ex-convicts and infants, in parallel with the modern increase of women in penitentiaries, have been given readjustment shelter of a year or more in old Roman Catholic convents and rectories around the city that the religious sisters have saved from urban erosion and converted to a new church mission. The living arrangements represent a revolution for nuns as much as for ex-con mothers.

"A real 'nunny' thought, huh?" Sister Elaine Roulet commented with an apologetic smile about the Providence House chain of nine shelters that she started 14 years ago when she began worrying about the post-prison life of the young mothers she works with in the Bedford Hills prison nursery.

Sister Elaine, known by nuns and corrections officials across the state as one of the most determined and least "nunny" executives in the prison system, lives in one of the Providence Houses on a tough, largely abandoned block in East New York in Brooklyn.

Her current enjoyment of the place — aside from her 5 a.m. departure for prison and cautious check on whether her car has been once more vandalized outside the convent — includes baby Makeeta Brown.

The infant's 15 months of life have been marked by a healthy birth on Rikers Island, a playful infancy at Bedford Hills and, now, weeks and weeks of smiles and attention from her ad hoc family of sisters and ex-convicts in the former Our Lady of Loretto convent on Sackman Street.

"We can always confide in one another," the baby's 31-year-old mother, Lynette Brown, said of the enlarged family of Providence House. "When I leave here, I will miss them all. I heard about this place when I was in prison. And it turned out to be true — it's very special."

Sister Elaine and other nuns who live in the houses use the salaries of their daily professions as social workers and teachers to subsidize the costs of the shelters.

It is classic old-fashioned charity, barely noticed in the city and carried on without benefit of bureaucratic folderol. "A community board appreciates it when you testify to open a new house and say that you'll be living there personally," Sister Elaine said.

■ Forest Service tries to protect wildlife

WASHINGTON — Logging cutbacks beyond those planned to save the northern spotted owl are necessary to protect hundreds of other species dependent on old-growth forests, the Forest Service said Friday.

The agency, in response to a federal court order, acknowledged its preferred plan to protect the threatened bird would not go far enough to ensure the survival of other troubled fish and wildlife living in the centuries-old forests of Oregon, Washington and northern California.

The findings were included in an internal scientific team's report the service submitted Friday to U.S. District Court Judge William Dwyer in Seattle.

The report said that in protecting the additional species there was no way to avoid additional impacts on timber harvests, grazing and big-game production.

Dwyer issued an injunction two years ago banning logging across millions of acres of national forests when he found government logging operations to be in violation of federal environmental laws.

■ Survivor celebrates rent reduction

PHOENIX — An 83-year-old Holocaust survivor said Friday she'll throw a party for the staff of her retirement home to celebrate her victory over the federal bureaucracy.

Fanny Schlomowitz had just found out the Department of Housing and Urban development is changing a policy that nearly quadrupled the rent in her subsidized apartment because of compensation payments she gets from Germany.

"I was dancing in the middle of the room," Mrs. Schlomowitz said. "My leg hurts me but I still dance."

Mrs. Schlomowitz has been scrimping for nearly a year to make the rent at her apartment in the Kivel Campus of Care housing project for the elderly. The Department of Housing and Urban Development raised her share of the rent from $63 to $227 a month in April 1992 after officials found she gets a compensation check from the German government in addition to Social Security.

News stories brought her story to the attention of Sen. Dennis DeConcini, D-Ariz., who complained to HUD officials. On Thursday, Housing Secretary Henry Cisneros announced the rules would be changed to exclude the compensation payment from the income used to determine her rent.

She gets a $500 check each month from the German government in compensation, and isn't required to report it as income for tax purposes, she said.

■ Company donates 'pollution credits'

WASHINGTON — The American Lung Association got an unusual gift from a utility company Friday — a $3 million legal right to pump 10,000 tons of pollutants into the air.

The idea, pending government approval, is that by obtaining ownership of that right, the lung association can prevent some other company from buying it — and thus stave off that much air pollution in future years.

Northeast Utilities, which serves 406 communities in Connecticut, Massachusetts and New Hampshire, donated federal "pollution credits" for the years 2000 to 2004 to the charity.

The credits are based on provisions of the 1990 Clean Air Act, that allow particularly efficient utilities — those that emit less sulfur dioxide than allowed by law — to sell the rights to the difference to companies that have more difficulty meeting the standards.

■ First lady's father suffers apparent stroke

LITTLE ROCK, Ark. — Hugh Rodham, the father of first lady Hillary Rodham Clinton, suffered an apparent stroke Friday and was hospitalized in stable condition.

"His condition is stable. We suspect that he has had a stroke," said Carolyn Lindsey, director of communications at St. Vincent Infirmary Medical Center.

Rodham, 81, arrived at the hospital shortly after noon, Lindsey said. She said Mrs. Clinton visited her father in the early evening.

White House spokesman Arthur Jones said the Clintons got word Friday afternoon that Rodham had been hospitalized. The president remained in Washington Friday night.

Rodham and his wife, Dorothy, live in Little Rock.

■ Study: Margarine linked to heart attacks

SANTA FE, N.M. — Men and women who ate the most margarine and certain processed foods had more than twice the heart attack risk of those who consumed the lowest amounts, a study found.

Earlier studies linked margarine consumption to higher blood cholesterol levels, which in turn pose a risk of heart disease. This study, presented Thursday at the American Heart Association's annual epidemiology meeting, is one of the first to link margarine directly to heart attacks.

Dr. Alberto Ascherio of the Harvard School of Public Health in Boston analyzed the diets of 239 heart attack victims and 282 people who hadn't had heart attacks. In particular, he assessed their intake of so-called trans fatty acids, which are contained in hydrogenated and partially hydrogenated oils.

Clinton urges leaders to push economic plan

ATLANTA, Ga. — President Clinton, buoyed by passage in the House of his economic revitalization plan, appealed to business leaders here Friday to keep up the pressure on the Senate, which is expected to vote on his program next week.

Calling the House vote "a victory" for all Americans, he said his plan to rejuvenate the nation's economy and cut the deficit "was halfway home" and would help Americans realize that "their government can work for them again."

"I hope and believe that the process of real renewal has begun. . . . The people of this country are back in the driver's seat. It's time to put your foot down on the accelerator and stay in the middle of the road," he told about 250 business people in a speech at the Atlanta Apparel Mart.

The president, who seemed almost cocky in the afterglow of the House vote that came late Thursday night, described his economic plan as a "thoughtful" package of tax increases, spending cuts and new government "investment" that was "built piece by piece" to create jobs, reduce the deficit and strengthen America's position in the global economy.

He said he was confident of victory in the Senate, but acknowledged the tough decisions that are having to be made in order to approve his program.

Praising the 235 members of the House who supported him, Clinton observed: "They had to vote to raise taxes after more than a decade of being told that was always a bad thing to do. And they had to draw clear distinctions between different kinds of government spending."

He said the opposition to tax increases and more government spending is still strong in the Senate, even among some conservative Democrats.

A key Democratic senator who still has to be convinced of the plan's worth is Sam Nunn of Georgia, the powerful chairman of the Armed Services Committee. Nunn helped defeat a Republican amendment in the Senate Thursday night that sought to change some aspects of the Clinton program. But his aides said there is no guarantee Nunn will back Clinton in a final vote next week because he is opposed to many of the president's Pentagon budget cuts.

Clinton also used his appearance here to tout his wife Hillary's efforts at devising a universal health care plan that will guarantee medical coverage to every American while at the same time reducing the high costs of care.

Teens raped girls to amass points, police say

LAKEWOOD, Calif. (AP) — A gang of high school students awarded its members points for forcing girls as young as 10 to have sex, sheriff's deputies say. Eight members have been arrested on assault charges, but some of their fellow students say the girls were willing partners.

Mike Hynes, an 18-year-old senior who played football with some of those arrested Thursday, wore a T-shirt to Lakewood High School on Friday reading, "We support you, Kris," a reference to Kristopher Belman, the only adult arrested.

"People who know them close, know the truth," said Hynes. "They were the victims, not these girls. The (girls) consented."

But Los Angeles County sheriff's investigators paint a much grimmer picture of the teens. And some students said the teens were in a rough group that picked on minorities and got into fights.

"They were known to do crazy stuff," said a student, who spoke on condition of anonymity. "They beat up my friend because they thought he was Hispanic."

On Thursday, sheriff's deputies arrested six Lakewood High School students and two students from other schools for investigation of being members of a gang called the Spurs Posse that raped and molested girls and committed other crimes.

Except for the 18-year-old Belman, they're aged 15 to 17. All remained in custody at a juvenile detention center, including Belman who will be prosecuted under juvenile law since he was underage at the time of the alleged incidents. All of the alleged victims were under 17, including a girl who was 10.

Several of the teens were arrested at the school in front of other students and television cameras in this Los Angeles suburb.

The arrests caused shock along the quiet streets lined with trees, hedges and well-kept lawns where crime — especially by gangs — is something people usually just read about.

Street signs in the area posted by neighborhood watch groups show a silhouette of a crook and read, "Warning: Lakewood looks out for its own."

Investigators themselves were surprised to find out about the Spurs Posse, and even that such groups existed. Gangs, as traditionally described by authorities, mostly comprise black and Hispanic inner-city youths or Asian immigrants. This posse is made up of white suburban students, authorities said.

The Spurs Posse, named after the San Antonio team in the National Basketball Association, was formed about two years ago. Among its activities: allegedly accumulating points for forced sex acts on students at Lakewood High School and other schools.

"It was based on whoever could get the most points," said Lt. Joe Surgent, head of the sheriff's child abuse detail. "It could very well be that they did this for status among the group."

Authorities made the arrests after several alleged victims came forward.

"We're not talking about one act of consensual sex among teenagers. We have numerous victims, numerous acts," said Surgent. "Based on the statements from the young ladies, it was not consensual. This is beyond that. There is intimidation involved, forced (acts)."

But on Friday, as students streamed into class, several students doubted the alleged victims' claims.

Limited doctor-choices unpopular for health reform

NEW YORK (AP) — Two-thirds of Americans think a national health program should allow people to choose their own doctors, but just as many are willing to accept some restrictions to hold down costs, an Associated Press poll found.

Twenty-four percent said they would be very willing and 42 percent somewhat willing to go along with unspecified limits.

But in a follow-up question, only 30 percent backed a restriction that could result from the Clinton administration's emerging heath reforms — plans that would pay only for doctors on the insurance organization's approved list. Sixty-five percent said that a program to extend health coverage to all Americans should let people choose their own doctors. The remaining 5 percent were not sure.

Limiting doctor choice was especially unpopular among rural residents, women, low-income people and those over 65.

"These people are really thinking of second-class medicine," said Uwe Reinhardt, a health-care economist at Princeton University. "This country has a history of reserving pretty shoddy facilities for the poor."

Reinhardt said the poll indicates President Clinton could sell the American people on giving up some doctor choice. But even a presidential teach-in won't work if the people perceive the plan as one in which the lower middle class and the poor get a bare bones package and the rich have more options, he said.

The national poll included 1,008 adults selected at random and interviewed by ICR Survey Research Group, part of AUS Consultants, on March 12-16. The results have a margin of sampling error of plus or minus 3 percentage points.

Past polls have shown Americans overwhelmingly consider cost to be the biggest problem in health care. Desire to have the government do something has translated into majority support for national health insurance even though polls show widespread doubt that the government could manage health insurance better than private industry.

In some countries, such as Canada, people go to the doctor or hospital of their choice, and the government pays the bills from tax money.

The Task Force on National Health Care Reform chaired by Hillary Rodham Clinton is expected to propose a different system in May. Most Americans might get their insurance privately from big, new "cooperatives" that would compete to provide high quality health plans at a fixed yearly price for all services.

The 37 million people without health insurance would gain tax-subsidized coverage. Those already covered might also benefit from more preventative care, less paperwork and less worry.

The catch with these plans is reduced coverage for medical services outside their own networks of "preferred" or "approved" doctors and hospitals.

SATURDAY, MARCH 20, 1993

HAPPY BIRTHDAY! IN THE NEXT YEAR OF YOUR LIFE: A reluctance to settle down with one person is an issue that must be resolved if an intimate relationship is to flourish. Beginning in June, those who make their living writing or teaching will reap new financial gains. Check the credentials of someone who offers you a too-good-to-be-true deal. No salary will ever be enough if you do not enjoy your work. Look around. Start 1994 with a fresh sense of purpose.

CELEBRITIES BORN ON THIS DATE: Canadian Prime Minister Brian Mulroney, actor William Hurt, actress Holly Hunter, hockey star Bobby Orr.

ARIES (March 21-April 19): Things may not be going too well at home. In fact, you could be tempted to take a trip. Act and think positive! Handle your mate with kid gloves until tensions ease.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20): Timely talks and trips can be your ticket to success if you take a bold approach. An out-of-town visitor provides special fun. Small social gatherings are favored over large ones.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20): Today your spirits will soar, even if you do not fly far. Newcomers will admire your dynamic personality and quick wit. Roll out the red carpet for a small but influential group.

CANCER (June 21-July 22): A party at your house could be just the thing to cheer up you and your pals. Resist the urge to talk shop, even if a VIP attends. Cut down on desserts.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22): A romantic setting could lead to an impulsive declaration. Avoid promising more than you will want to deliver. Sharing a secret with a loved one brings you closer together.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): Your home or neighborhood could be the scene of great activity today; join in the fun but avoid taking on too much. Keep things light and easy. Spend more time with teenagers.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): A local contact could lead to an important new alliance. Go ahead and be a "couch potato" this afternoon! You need the rest. Have a candid chat with your mate tonight.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): Home is where your heart is today; after an up-and-down week, you want to relax. Be content to pass up a last-minute invitation this evening. Write in your journal.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): Not a good day for making major statements. Playing a quiet role safeguards your interests. Thrift counts heavily. Silence is golden where family matters are concerned.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): The business terrain could be a trifle rocky now. Curb an impulse to insist on having your way. Forcing an influential person's hand would be a mistake. Easy does it!

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): Today's communications should bring love and luck your way. Call or write now — business and social relationships will fall into place beautifully.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20): Team effort will grease the wheels of progress in a real estate transaction. Turn to folks whose values match yours. A breakthrough with an artistic project is likely.

TODAY'S CHILDREN are hard workers with a tendency to procrastinate. Greater self-discipline will save these Pisces the stress of having to work right down to the wire. Somewhat excitable by nature, these children tend to dramatize the highs and lows of everyday life. They pride themselves on being good storytellers and may decide to pursue a writing career. Sentimental and tolerant, these Pisces find it easy to overlook their loved ones' foibles.

Eddie Murphy ties the knot

NEW YORK — Actor-comedian Eddie Murphy married his longtime girlfriend and the mother of his two children, model Nicole Mitchell, at a lavish wedding Thursday evening.

The ceremony at the Plaza Hotel near Central Park was planned for 500 guests, including Quincy Jones, Donald Trump, Bruce Willis, Bill Murray, Arsenio Hall, Robert Townsend, Stevie Wonder, Wayne Newton, Queen Latifah, Sugar Ray Leonard and Paramount head Sherry Lansing.

Murphy, the 31-year-old star of "Beverly Hills Cops," "Trading Places" and other movies, met Mitchell five years ago. They have two children — daughter Bria, 3, and son Myles, 4 months.

The ceremony, which started more than an hour late, was performed by the Rev. Calvin Butts of Harlem's Abyssinian Baptist Church, said Joe Cooney, a spokesman for Murphy.

The reception also was held at the Plaza.

The couple's honeymoon destination was a secret.

NEW YORK — Adolfo, whose fashions have graced Nancy Reagan and Betsy Bloomingdale, is calling it quits on designing to concentrate on his licensing business.

He said he'll miss his clients.

"They became like part of my family," Adolfo said in Friday's New York Times. "I never socialized with them — I don't go to parties — but I did enjoy very much the confidence and trust and help they always gave me."

The 60-year-old, Cuban-born Adolfo Sardina, who has never used his family name professionally, licenses his name for royalties to manufacturers of men's wear, luggage, handbags, shoes, jogging suits, furs, sportswear, perfume and hats.

REDWOOD CITY, Calif. — John McEnroe agreed to pay an airline worker an undisclosed sum to settle her lawsuit claiming he shoved her against a wall when she refused to hold a flight for him and his family.

Diane Lempke was "pleased and relieved" by the agreement reached Wednesday, said her lawyer, Tom LaLanne.

Lempke, a customer service representative for United Airlines, said in her Superior Court lawsuit that the tennis player grew angry when she refused to hold a Hawaii-bound flight until McEnroe's wife, Tatum O'Neal, their two children and their nanny arrived at the gate.

Lempke said she suffered a broken finger in the December 1990 racket at San Francisco International Airport. McEnroe was questioned by airport police but not arrested.

Judge Gene McDonald ordered the terms of the agreement to remain confidential.

LONDON — Princess Anne may or may not be expecting a baby.

Princess Anne

Buckingham Palace wouldn't confirm or deny a report Friday in the Daily Express that the princess apparently is pregnant.

The writer of the tabloid story, columnist Ross Benson, said he based the observation on circumstantial evidence.

Anne's husband, Navy Cmdr. Timothy Laurence, told friends he wants a child, Benson said. Benson also reported that Anne felt faint while shopping recently and isn't riding regularly anymore.

"When a member of the royal family becomes pregnant, an announcement is made at a time of their choosing," a palace statement said.

Laurence, 37, was a bachelor until his marriage in December to Anne, 42, the only daughter of Queen Elizabeth II. Anne was divorced last year from her first husband, Capt. Mark Phillips, and has two children.

BONN, Germany — Prince Charles met privately with Chancellor Helmut Kohl on Friday before reciving an award for his environmental efforts.

The two met for more than an hour at Kohl's office. A government spokesman said the talk was of a "private character" but covered international affairs, particularly world environmental policy.

The international group Artists for Ecology honored the British crown prince with an award to be given later Friday at the government's palatial, mountaintop guest house.

APPLE VALLEY, Calif. — Skip Young, who appeared in the television series "The Adventures of Ozzie & Harriet" as Wally, a buddy of the Nelson family boys, died at his home. He was 63.

Young was found by family members Wednesday morning, said San Bernardino County deputy coroner Linda Myers.

The exact cause of death was undetermined pending a medical report, but it appeared to be natural causes, she said.

Young, who was born Ronald Plumstead, played the character of Wally Plumstead from 1957-'66 on the ABC series. It starred real-life couple Ozzie and Harriet Nelson and their sons, David and Ricky.

In recent years, Young was a radio personality and was involved in judging events such as beauty pageants and chili cookoffs.

A memorial service will be held at 11 a.m. Saturday at Our Lady of the Desert Catholic Church in Apple Valley.

Fundamentalist violence points to deep problems in Egypt

CAIRO, Egypt (AP) — President Hosni Mubarak says the growing Islamic fundamentalist violence in Egypt is an international problem.

Many critics, however, believe its roots are at home. The movement emerged, they say, because of corruption, unemployment and growing middle-class despair.

Whatever the causes, the stakes are high. Egypt is the traditional leader of the Arabs, Washington's best Arab friend, and the only Arab country linked by treaty with Israel.

An antagonistic Islamic government in Cairo could be catastrophic for the West, especially given the radical Muslim government in Sudan and fundamentalist movements operating in Algeria and elsewhere.

In recent months, religious extremism has seeped through the Nile valley from Aswan near the Sudan border to Alexandria on the Mediterranean. The state has applied increasingly harsh countermeasures.

"There's been a proliferation of military mentality in all branches of Egyptian life," said analyst Nabil Abdel-Fattah. That precludes a political solution, he said, "we're left with either a Muslim or a military solution."

The current upsurge by the extremist organization el-Gamaa el-Islamiya — the Islamic Group — began early last year. More than 130 people have died in extremist violence or in government reaction to it.

Some commentators use variations on the word "war" to describe the conflict.

Mubarak's government says it's winning, though Mubarak believes terrorism is an "international phenomenon, contaminating the whole world" and requiring a global response, according to his spokesman, Mohammed Abdel-Moneim.

But it's no longer unusual to read commentators in the government-owned press counseling increased attention to the causes of the movement, rather than relying on violence to put it down, or blaming other countries.

Even the governor of strife-torn Assiut province, Maj. Gen. Hassan el-Alfi, says jobs are vital to fighting terrorism.

"The reason we're having trouble with these groups is that the economic and social conditions are deteriorating for the middle class," political scientist Mustafa Kamel el-Sayyed said.

Even if the superior government firepower prevails, el-Sayyed said, "if the causes that led to extremist violence in the first place are not dealt with, these groups or new groups will come up again."

The violence began in el-Alfi's southern province in 1981. Islamic extremists killed Mubarak's predecessor, Anwar Sadat, but were squashed with scores of dead when then tried to use Assiut as a base for a coup plot.

Assiut remains the most active region. Police killed 10 suspects there in a huge shootout Wednesday.

El-Alfi said the extremists can be beaten. To do it, he said, Egypt must stop infiltration, provide jobs, increase security and "preach the correct version of Islam," he said in the government newspaper Al-Ahram Weekly.

Besides the gun, the government's principal tool against the militants is its piety.

Cairo's Al-Azhar Mosque has been Islam's center of learning for 1,000 years. Extremists deride the rector, Sheik Gad el-Haq Ali Gad el-Haq, who holds Cabinet rank within the Egyptian government.

"We are not secular people, and Egypt is not a secular country," Gad el-Haq recently told Islamic scholars. "Secular people believe that religion is just a question of faith. . . . If some religions comply to this point of view, Islam is not like them."

Naguib Mahfouz, the Nobel Prize-winning novelist, wrote in his newspaper column recently that he initially welcomed the reawakening of the Islamic faith.

"It never occurred to us to fear what it might do to our modern heritage," Mahfouz wrote, but it brought "authoritarianism, corruption, military defeats, economic crises, injustice and nepotism, a considerable degree of extremism."

Red Cross relief aid

Muslim refugees and their children carry bags of relief aid donated by the Bosnian Red Cross, in Dubrave, 50 miles north of Sarajevo, and just east of the beseiged town of Srebrenica, Friday. Bosnian Serb forces launched a blistering artillery barrage around Srebrenica Friday, even as they promised to permit an aid convoy to reach thousands of desperate people in the region.

Chemical tanker burns in North Sea

AMSTERDAM, Netherlands (AP) — A Japanese-owned tanker carrying toxic chemicals exploded and caught fire in the North Sea on Friday, killing at least one crew member and critically injuring two, Dutch authorities said.

There were no reports of leaks from the 2,700-ton cargo, although an explosion ripped a large hole in the ship. Dutch television reported that the blaze was extinguished hours after the initial blast, and the burnt-out vessel was upright and afloat.

The cause of the explosions was not immediately known.

Flames as high as 160 feet had spread over the hull while the fire was raging, according to a Dutch Navy official at the coastal Eelde air base.

A Dutch coast guard spokesman said at least one crew member was dead and the remaining 21 sailors were rescued by navy helicopters. Two were in critical condition, spokesman Don Pimentel said.

The multiple explosions rocked the Panamanian-registered Shiokaze 50 miles off the Dutch coastal island of Terschelling. The area is rich in marine life and is home to the only 150 gray seals in the Wadden Sea, according to the Seal Hospital in Pieterburen.

Greenpeace said the Shiokaze was carrying ethylhexanol and dioctylphtalate, chemicals used to make plastics. It can take up to five days for the substances to dissolve in seawater, said a spokeswoman for the environmental group, Fransce Verdeuzeldonk.

If there were any spilled chemicals, southerly currents were expected to carry them out to sea, and Minister of Transport and Waterways Hanja Maij-Weggen said there was no danger to the Wadden Sea.

The tanker sent an emergency signal at about 2:20 p.m. (8:20 a.m. EST) after the first explosion. Local Radio Noord Holland said a second blast occurred about three hours later.

The tanker was sailing along the coast of the Dutch Wadden islands in one of Europe's busiest shipping channels.

According to the Lloyd's register of shipping in London, the Shiokaze has a dry weight of 16,

Abortion pill to be tested on U.S. women

PARIS (AP) — An abortion pill will be tested on thousands of American women in hospitals and clinics, the drug's manufacturer said Friday.

"We project that between 10,000 and 20,000 women will receive the pill as patients in certain American hospitals and clinics," said Dr. Andre Ulmann, director of endocrinology for the French firm, Roussel-Uclaf.

It is not clear how the women will be selected. Ulmann said more details might be available in a few weeks.

The pharmaceutical company is reviewing offers by a few medical organizations in the United States to test the RU-486 pill on American women, said Ulmann.

"If things go well, the organization that is finally selected to do the testing could begin in as few as two months," said Catherine Euvrard, Roussel-Uclaf's communication director.

The proposed clinical trials will not focus on the pill's medical properties — they have been well-established in Europe — but how to safely administer it in the health system in the United States, Euvrard said.

"A system for controlling the administration of the drug, avoiding black market distribution and training doctors, must be developed and tested," Euvrard said.

The Clinton administration has expressed interest in making the pill available to American women.

The pill is available in France, Britain and Sweden.

A version of the pill is also available in China, which has proposed bringing it into the United States for testing.
