Major Changes Expected To Be Made in Dumbarton Oaks Plan

SURRENDER BELIEVED NEAR

Sino Thrust Throws Japs Off-Balance

By LEONARD MILLIMAN
Associated Press War Editor

A general Chinese counter-offensive to route a four-pronged threat to the U. S. Chihkiang airbase threw Japanese armies into reverse on every front today.

One city was recaptured and 3,000 Nipponese killed in the initial thrust by Chinese including American-equipped airborne troops.

Only minor gains were reported against the heavily fortified Naha line in the Okinawa operation which has cost American forces 16,964 casualties, including 2,978 dead.

American losses were boosted by a new announcement of naval casualties for six weeks—5,551, including 1,131 killed.

Fifty to 100 Superforts struck the second successive neutralizing blow this morning against Southern Japanese bases for these attacks.

Paratroop-led British and Indian forces slogging through heavy rain were reported successfully wiping out Japanese in Rangoon, capital and key city of Burma which they entered yesterday. Nipponese have

Miners Ordered By President To Go Back to Jobs

WASHINGTON, May 4—(AP)—The American flag flew over 363 Pennsylvania anthracite companies today as the government took over and ordered striking miners to return to work by Monday.

Acting under Presidential direction, Interior Secretary Ickes seized the operations last night. At the same time he deputized the management of each as federal operators to keep the workings open while negotiations for a new contract continue in New York. The wage talks have been deadlocked since they began a month ago.

John L. Lewis and his United Mine Workers have not yet acceded to a war labor board directive calling for extension of the old contract. Its expiration Monday night precipitated the strike. The operators consented, but asked that the extension be limited to 30 days.

A few hours before seizing all the anthracite properties, Ickes took over three mituminous mines of the Carter Coal company in West Virginia. The solid fuels administration Ickes heads said strikes at the three mines resulted from "the company's failure to sign and accept the new wage contract executed by the remainder of the soft coal industry."

Two hundred thirty-six other bituminous pits have been held by the government as a result of strikes during the soft coal wage negotiations last month.

Ickes told the hard coal miners to get back on the job "producing fuel to avert cold homes and shops which would seriously handicap the war with Japan next winter."

In directing Ickes to act President Truman said "the war effort will be unduly impeded or delayed" by continued idleness.

UMW Secretary-Treasurer Thomas Kennedy said no meeting of the scale committee was scheduled.

No Sharp Cut in Army Inductions Expected

WASHINGTON, May 4—(AP)—Congressional hopes for a sharp cut in army inductions immediately after V-E day received a severe jolt today from Gen. George C. Marshall.

Not only will the army be unable to meet replacement demands for May and June under the present program, the chief of staff told Chirman May (D-K.Y.) of the house military committee, but the current shortage is expected to be increased "by some 50,000 men over the next three months."

Many congressmen have felt that as soon as Germany fails, army and navy manpower needs can be filled by taking only 18-year-olds. This would reduce sharply the current induction rate of around 120,000 man a month.

Within the last week, Marshall wrote May, "General Eisenhower has informed me that his losses are currently avaraging 2,000 men daily and he anticipates no reduction in his replacement requirements for June."

The letter did not explain the losses.

"While the success of our armies in Europe has recently exceeded our expectations," Marshall continued, "it is too early to assume that the replacement flow to Europe can be cut off.

"Norway, Denmark and sections of Holland remain unliberated and are occupied by strong and fanatical forces of the enemy x x x. It is urgently necessary to start an increased flow of replacements to the Pacific ocean area over and above those required to replace battle losses. Many veteran soldiers have been through several hard-fought campaigns in that area under very trying climatic conditions. We should return these men for release from the army as quickly as possible."

Election Planned On Conservation

Gray county has been granted an election relative to the proposed soil conservation district here.

A. L. Liles, admiinstrative assistant of the Texas state soil conservation board, has made a determination of need for the Gray county district (No. 125), and Irvin W. Cole has been nominated as polling superintendent for the proposed district.

It was explained that the state board will announce an official election date for the landowners of Gray county to cast their votes for or against formation of the district.

The announcement that the board has decided to grant the election follows the hearings that Howard Goss, field representative, held at Pampa and McLean April 23. It is the result of a campaign by a number of Gray county citizens that has been spread over an extended period.

Many More Americans Said Freed by Reds

MOSCOW, May 4—(AP)—The U. S. military mission said today from 2,000 to 3,000 Allied war prisoners were liberated near Neubrandenburg (Stalag 2-A) by Marshal Konstantin Rokossovsky's drive to the Baltic and that it understood many more were freed at Camp Barth (Stalag-Lumft 1) near Stralsund.

The mission said it believed many Americans were at both camps, but it had no official word on them yet.

Vicars Named To Head Rotarians

DeLea Vicars was elected president of the Pampa Rotary club in a meeting last night at the home of Marshall Hubbard. Grover Heard, outgoing president, automatically becomes vice-president.

A member of the club since 1927 when it was organized in Pampa, Vicars was formerly president of the First National bank in Pampa.

Other officers elected were Luke McClelland, secretary treasurer, and Dr. L. M. Hicks, sergeant-at-arms.

Elected to the board of directors for the coming year were Russell Chisholm, Marshall Hubbard, Hugo Olsen, Dr. Hicks, Irvin Cole, and the Rev. E. Douglas Carver.

Discharged Veteran Is Given Break Here

City Judge Dan McGrew this morning dismissed a traffic ticket given a Pampa man for driving without an operator's license, explaining the World War 11 veteran had not yet had a chance to purchase his license.

The man had been honorably discharged from the service eight months ago, but had been out of the hospital only two weeks.

One minor traffic fine was assessed.

Four intoxicants had been arrested by city police last night, the records revealed.

ON EDUCATION:

BI-COUNTY TEACHERS HOLD SPRING MEET HERE

Texas ranks only thirty-first in the union in educational opportunites, Charles M. Rogers, Amarillo school superintendent who was the principal speaker at a spring meeting last night of the Gray-Roberts unit of the Texas State Teachers' association, reported. He spoke at the high school cafeteria here.

Deploring the present ranking, Roberts reported that progress is being made in the legislature in school legislation, and he emphasized the part the Texas State Teachers' association is playing in the support of legislation for school improvement.

The Amarillo school head stressed in his talk to approximately 150 persons the relation of income to education, and reminded that good business in a community is to some extent dependent on school expenditures.

E. R. Reeves, superintendent of schools at LeFors, was re-elected president of the Gray-Roberts unit at last night's meeting, as were all other officers. Others re-elected were:

L. B. Pennick, principal of grade schools at LeFors, first vice president; Elizabeth Sewell, teacher at

Deadlocks in Conferences May Not Come

SAN FRANCISCO, May 4—(AP)—The Big-Four were reported near agreement today on major changes in the Dumbarton Oaks plan for a world organization designed to keep peace.

This accord was regarded by officials of the 46 United Nations in conference here as a long step toward preventing deadlocks even after Foreign Commissar Molotov sets out for Moscow, as he is now expected to do next week.

Secretary of State Stettinius has told friends he is extremely pleased with the progress made thus far in his talks about amending the Dumbarton Oaks charter with Molotov, Foreign Secretary Eden of Britain and Foreign Minister Soong of China.

There was no evidence that the Big-Four intend to favor any amendments which would alter the basic Dumbarton Oaks idea of concentrating in a security council authority to use armed forces to smack down trouble--making nations of the future.

But there are signs that the council may be permitted to recognize regional defense pacts which automatically would produce help for an attacked nation while the council was going through the process of deciding on longer-range measures.

Stettinius held last night the latest of a series of conferences with Molotov, Eden and Soong, going over proposed amendments.

Three members of the senate naval committee—Byrd (D-Va), Eastland (D-Miss) and Tobey (R-NH)—along with Senator Capehart (R-Ind) presented personally at the Big-Four meeting their proposals for a trusteeship system which would allow the United States to retain control of strategic islands in the Pacific.

Earlier, Commander Harold E. Stassen of the United States delegation met with representatives of the British, French, Chinese and Russian delegations to seek a formula on territoral trusteeships.

Talley Addition Citizenry To Vote

The long discussed issue as to whether Talley addition will be incorporated into the city limits will be voted on tomorrow.

Talley citizens will vote between 8 a. m. and 7 p. m. tomorrow at the Methodist church in the addition, with John Gray and Frank Carter acting as judges.

Neither the city nor county has any jurisdiction over tomorrow's Talley election, officials reported today, as they explained that the voting is supervised entirely by the Talley addition citizens who are conducting the election "on their own."

The city, however, will pass on the legality of votes after the election is completed, one spokesman said.

No suitable answer could be obtained as to who is eligible to vote, as officials said that it is a matter of legal interpretation that will be up to election judges to determine. Conflicting statutes give the laymen the impression that it cannot be determined with any certainty just who will be considered qualified voters tomorrow.

Talley judges will probably need to do a large amount of legal counseling before the polls open, and they may get various answers.

It was reported from Talley this morning that ballots are printed, all the materials obtained, and that all is in readiness for the election that has been the center of discussion at the addition for months.

200 Cases of Fruit Jars Made Available

County Agent J. P. Smith reported today that the extension service now has available for the district about 200 cases of all sizes of fruit jars.

May 15 has been set as the date for the distribution of the jars.

Citizens who want fruit jars should reserve them by calling Mrs. William Lovell, secretary in the county agent's office.

"Jars that have not been called for my May 15 will be disposed of," Smith said.

The place for distribution is to be announced later.

Reports of Negotiations Between Nazi Doenitz, Montgomery Not Confirmed

The Swedish newspaper Aftontidningen said in an unconfirmed report that capitulation negotiations for all German armies were believed under way near the Danish border tonight, as Gen. Eisenhower announced late today that all enemy forces in Holland and Northwestern Germany and Denmark, including Helgoland and the Frisian islands, have surrendered effective at 8 a. m. (1 a. m. Central War Time) tomorrow.

The Swedish newspaper said it was believed Grand Admiral Doenitz, new German fuehrer, and Marshal Montgomery, Allied commander of the 21st army group, were conferring at Flensburg.

Dispatches from Stockholm and Copenhagen itself said that nazzi grip on Denmark plainly was lost.

Only slight resistance was met by Field Marshal Sir Bernard L. Montgomery's troops ,a Stockholm dispatch said. What opposition the Germans put up was reported centered at the border city of Aabenraa.

In Berlin the Russians probed through the blazing chancellery of the Third Reich in the Wilhelmstrasse but failed to find the bodies of Adolf Hitler and Propaganda Minister Paul Joseph Goebbels, who were reported by the Germans to have committed suicide.

The U. S. Seventh army completed a circle when it joined the Fifth army. The first Seventh army divisions were drawn from Italy. The army was activated for the invasion of Southern France. After crashing through France, the Saar, Bavaria and Austria, Lt. Gen. Alexander M. Patch's men were back in Italy. The Fifth army had hammered its way up the Italian peninsula.

American Third army troops, advancing on a 50-mile front in Czechoslovakia, had outflanked the great Skoda munitions works at Pilsen, reaching points 44 miles to the southeast. Gen. Patten's troops also were besieging the Austrian fortress city of Linz and were reported nearing a junction with the Russians in that area.

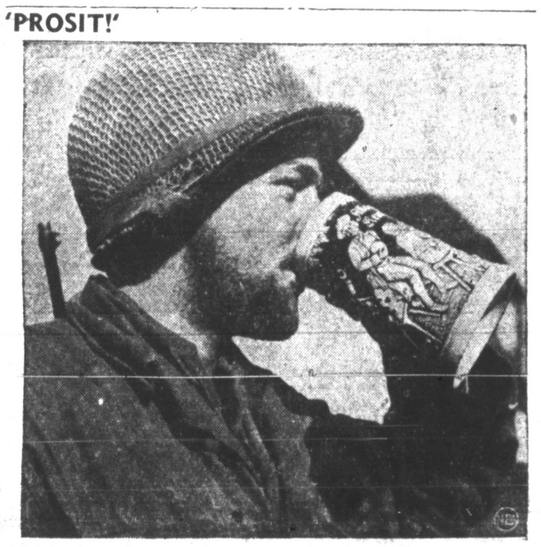

The capture of Germany virtually was completed. The only parts of the reich still in nazi hands consisted of narrowing pockets with a total area no larger than the state of Pennsylvania.

In northern Germany, where British and Russian forces have linked up, the enemy debacle was described as growing steadily worse. In two days a total of 500,000 Germans have surrendered in the north, including the commanders of two armies, Gen. von Tippelskirch and Lt. Fen. Kurt von Manteuffel. The enemy command declared Kiel and Flensburg, important German naval bases, open cities.

Chancellery Burns, Adolf's Body Has Not Been Found

MOSCOW, May 4—(AP)—The chancellery of the Third reich in the Wilhelmstrasse has failed to yield the body of Hitler and now the building is burning, a Red Star dispatch from the German capital said today.

The disclosure that the chancellery where Hitler had his offices was ablaze indicated that it might be difficult ever to prove that the fuehrer committed suicide along with Propaganda Minister Goebbels, as the Germans report.

The statement that the bodies were not found in the building, however indicated that it had been searched, and strengthened the theory that if Hitler did kill himself it was not in the chancellery.

Soviet correspondents reported how they, with Soviet soldiers, entered the building and found dead German machinegunners with Iron Crosses.

Hermann Goering's air ministry likewise was abaze.

Flames still licked at other buildings, and in the Tiergarten trees crackled and swayed in the heat blasts.

Izvestia's correspondent said: "I have been asking the question 'where is Hitler?' of German prisoners. They all answer 'Hitler and Goebbels committted suicide.'"

Looting was rampant.

There was no way of telling what the population of Berlin was at the moment, but unofficial estimates

KPDN, Mutual Set For V-E Coverage

The Mutual Broadcasting System has made arrangements for world-wide coverage of V-E Day events. Mutual, known as the "Network for News," will display its might in this slogan, on the day the world awaits. Radio correspondents are stationed throughout Europe and in the capitals of the world, waiting for the signal.

KPDN, The Pampa News station, outlet in the Panhandle for Mutual, will carry all of Mutual's complete coverage plus local coverage from the KPDN news room at The Pampa News.

KPDN will remain on the air around the clock from the time the official word comes of the surrender of Germany, according to Wayne Phelps, manager.

Bread or Hitler, They Take Bread!

SAN ANGELO, May 4 — (AP) — Twelve hundred German prisoners of war at Camp Brady who have been on a bread and water diet for a week because of refusal to comply with an order banning the nazi salute, ended their protest today.

Col. Robert G. Saxon, camp commander, said that the prisoners agreed at 10 a. m. today to abandon the Hitler salute, and were to receive their first regular meal in a week at noon today. He said the compound lined up at 10 a. m.

"I went down myself with quite a few staff officers. We received the most perfect American salute you have ever seen. It was tailor made," said Saxon.

The order, issued April 26, banned use of the nazi straight-arm salute and substituted for it the regulation side arm salute.

The prisoners were placed on the bread and water diet last Friday when they refused to obey the order. Only one compound was affected.

SALARY BOOST

AUSTIN, May 4—(AP)—A $2,000 boost in the salary of the state superintendent of public instruction was voted by the house which today renewed consideration of a $30,632,000 departmental appropriation bill for the next biennium.

Community Singers To Meet Here on Sunday

The Pampa Community singers will meet at the Pentecostal Holiness church Sunday afternoon at 2 o'clock, Jack Allen, reporter, announced today.

Re-organized a few weeks ago, the group is entirely non-denominational, Allen said, and anyone who is interested in activities of this sort, is asked to attend meetings.

New Stamps song books have been purchased, and the organization will be built on a community-wide basis, Allen said.

A group of singers from Borger has been invited to participate in the Sunday gathering.

Clean-Up Trucks Behind Schedule

Trucks are two days behind schedule in the present clean-up drive in Pampa, City Manager W. C. deCordova reported this morning, as he asked citizens to be patient until the trash they have piled is eventually picked up.

Don Eaton, chairman of the School Activties committee of the Jaycees, reported that Sam Houston school has won the contest among Pampa schools in connection with the clean-up drive.

Sam Houston children returned 91 percent of the leaflets, completed and signed, that were sent through them to parents. Woodrow Wilson finished second in the contest with 90½ percent and Horace Mann was third with 88 percent.

The Junior chamber of commerce is awarding cash prizes to the first and second place winners.

Leaflets were also distributed to Baker, Junior high, Senior high, Holy Souls and Carver.

Jaycee officials have expressed appreciation for the cooperation received in the clean-up campaign from school principals, teachers, children and parents.

TRANSPORTS MOVE

STOCKHOLM, May 4—(AP)—Aftonbladet quoted reports from Sweden's west coast today that three or four German troops transports have been observed daily moving northward toward Norway from the direction of Denmark under guard of submarines.

OCCUPATION

WASHINGTON, May 4—(AP)—The new American 15th army is the only one thus far designated as an occupation army in Germany.

SIGNS OF PROGRESS:

SEVERAL IMPROVEMENTS BEING PUT INTO EFFECT

Improvement activities in Pampa have shown marked progress in recent weeks, a check of the News' files reveals. Developments that were born in the local chamber of commerce and board of city development were particularly outstanding.

Highway promotion has taken its share in developments. At the present time, the completion of Highway 18, south of Pampa and north from Pampa to Perryton is the major project, under consideration.

A program is in progress for the establishment of a junior college for Pampa. The district has already been created and bonds for financing the program will probably be voted on this year.

The agricultural committee of the chamber of commerce and the county agent's office are working on the enlargement of the Junior Livestock show for 1946.

The county agent's office, in conjunction with the chamber of commerce, is working for the organization of a Top O' Texas Dairy association, which will be put into operation to further the production of milk and allied products for this section.

Greens Battle Golds in Intra-Squad Game Tonight

Tip Mooney Will Coach Greens; John Whinnery To Tutor Golds

Tonight at 8::30 at Harvester Park, the football wars begin. Tip Mooney's 'Greens" will battle Coach John Whinnery's "Golds" in an intra-squad game.

Athletic Director Otis Coffey has definitely stated that there will be no charge whatever for the game and that he especially wanted the parents of the squad members to come out.

In a game played Thursday afternoon, these two teams battled to a scoreless tie, but each one of the boys on the teams is determined that it will come out differently this time.

In the backfield for the Greens will be Winifred (Wimpy) Vaughn, reserve quarterback on the 1944 team, John Lindsey, another last year's reserve, Bill Washington, member of the 1943 team and Russell (Rusty) Neef, reserve back last year.

On the opposing backfield, the Greens will face George Johnson, who has little experience but is an excellent passer, Jim Wilson, Gorilla backfield ace last fall, Wayne Davidson, 200-pound fullback, and Phillip Anderson, Gorilla back from last year.

Here is the way the two backfields line up.

GOLDS	Pos.	GREENS
Johnson	QB	Vaughn
Wilson	LH	Lindsey
Davidson	FB	Washington
Anderson	RH	Neef

For the Golds, Charlie Beard, reserve last year, will start at left end, Burl Williams, huge but inexperienced, will start at left tackle, Don Humphreys, '44 reserve, will start at left guard, Maurice Lockhart, '44 reserve, will start at center, Virgil Fish will start at right guard, Stanley Simpson, reserve last year, will start at right tackle, and Jack Dunham, regular last year, will start at right end.

At left end on the Greens will be Laddie Mayes, who has no experience. At left tackle will be Jimmy Terrell, reserve last year. At left guard will be Billy Bain who has no experience, and at center will be Don Morrison, squadman last year. Squadman Jack Hood will be at right guard, Squadman Bernie Brown will be at right end, and Carlton Brooks, with little experience, will be at right tackle.

The two lines:

GOLDS	Pos.	GREENS
Beard	LE	Mayes
Williams	LT	Terrell
Humphreys	LG	Bain

Clay Goes To Finals Today

Although he did not have the best mark, Randall Clay of Pampa qualified for the finals in the discus throw at the state track and field meet. Clay's mark was 132 feet, 9 inches while Watt of Brackenridge (San Antonio) threw it 136 feet, 8 inches. Clay had been seeded the No. 1 spot in the state while Watt was given second place by marks in team competition.

By HAROLD V. RATLIFF

AUSTIN, May 4—(AP)—A repetition of last year's great duel but with the shoe on the other foot this time was in prospect today as Brackenridge's Eagles and Thomas Jefferson's Mustangs prepared to make it an all-San Antonio finish for the top places in Texas interscholastic league track and field.

Brackenridge, with 16 spots in this afternoon's finals, appeared due to bounce defending champion Jefferson from the pinnacle. But Jefferson, with 11 places, was capable of making it a very close finish and could, without creating an upset of magnitude, repeat with the title.

Far ahead of any other school in chances for points, Brackenridge had men in nine of the fourteen events while Jefferson had contestants in ten. But Brackenridge showed three in each of the hurdles with prospects of getting from 12 to 20 points in these two events alone.

The Eagles also put three men in the discus throw in yesterday's preliminaries although they did not appear due to cash in on more than one of them—hurdler Tom Watt, who showed his versatility by leading the platter-pitching event with 136 feet 8 inches.

Discrimination Is Charged in Drafting of Athletes; Investigation Will Be Made

WASHINGTON, May 3—(AP)—A complaint by Rep. Melvin Rice of Illinois that the professional athletes are victims of draft discrimination has started a war department investigation, and Price predicts a change in regulations "in a few days."

The congressman disclosed today that he had protested to the department that some athletes are being inducted into the army even though they cannot meet physical requirements.

He received a reply from Undersecretary of War Patterson saying:

"I have asked the Inspector General (Major General Virgil L. Peterson) to make an investigation into the manner in which the war department directives in regard to induction of professional athletes are being administered."

As War Mobilizer James F. Byrnes, since resigned, cracked down on professional athletes December 23, 1941, writing Selective Service Director Hershey to review the military qualifications of such persons.

Price said he is "not asking for a special break for athletes but only a fair deal . . . no man should be inducted if he is legitimately 4-F but in some instances athletes have been inducted without even their classification being changed from 4-F."

One regulation provides that when any professional athlete is rejected on account of physical condition his case must be sent to Washington for review.

"The history of many of these cases is that they are automatically inducted regardless of their physical condition," Price said.

He mentioned to Patterson the case of Danny Litwhiler, St. Louis Cardinal outfielder, now in service, saying that the following notation was placed on Litwhiler's service record:

"This registrant cannot be considered a soldier against your quota whether he is called by the army or navy because he does not meet the minimum requirements for military training."

Price said that Patterson told him there has been no lowering of induction physical standards. This is a particular point that the war department's investigation is expected to cover, Price indicated.

"If the army were not showing rank discrimination against ball players, it certainly would not accept a man for military service, like Litwhiler and numerous others, who can not meet the minimum physical requirements," Price said.

Price urged that induction of all players ordered in the past month be deferred until the war department's investigation has been completed.

Examination and induction of ball players has continued in recent weeks at a rate alarming to some baseball men, and Senator A. B. "Happy" Chandler, new commissioner, disclosed in an interview in St. Louis that he recently brought the matter up in a visit with President Truman.

Abilene and Woodrow Wilson (Dallas) were closest to the Flying Eagles and Mustangs but they had only five spots apiece in the finals. Reagan (Houston), El Paso, Austin, Wharton and Adamson (Dallas) each showed four.

Preliminaries were held in all events except the mile run yesterday with the semi-finals in the low hurdles.

There appears small chance of a record of any kind being set. August Erfurth, Brackenridge's great high hurdler, who had tied the state mark of 14.1 in a previous meet, seven-tenths of a second above that effort in yesterday's preliminaries.

In addition to the high hurdles, best chances for records appeared in the mile relay and 440-yard dash John Reagan (Houston) did 3:29.2 in the former event yesterday—exactly four seconds over the record. Desmond Kidd of Austin ran easily in the 440 to turn in a 50.8. He has done 49.5, whic his a half second over the state mark.

Two-Toned Passports to Summer

By EPSIE KINARD
NEA Staff Writer

NEW YORK—Bold contrasts of light and dark put a two-toned stamp of smartness on many of this summer's two-piece outfits, which answer the national cry for "something white" when the thermometer beginst o zoom.

Starchy white, to make you look and feel cooler, doesn't always top black, navy and chocolate brown, with which it is combined both to sharpen and restrain its pallor. Sometimes white plummets to the bottom to make a citified outfit of light skirt and dark coat, jacket middy or tunic top. One such example is the spa-linen outfit (left) which is topped with a navy tunic brightened by scarlet cap sleeves and leather belt.

But for many town-minded women, the classic, white jacket and black skirt will be their choice of a passport into summer. Typical styling of the new black and white outfits which introduce an accent of vivid color or print is shown in the Mollie Parnis-designed two-piece dress, shown right, or spun-linen brightened by a coin-dotted taffeta tie which fills in the deeply cut neck-line of the trimly tailored jacket.

Methodist Women Meet in Circles For Lesson Study

Womens Society of Christian Service of the First Methodist church met in circles Wednesday for varied programs.

Mrs. W. S. Exley was hostess to members of Circle One, and Mrs. Aubrey Steele gave the devotional on "War Memorials." Ten members and one visitor, Mrs. W. D. Waters, attended. The lesson was conducted by Mrs. Sam Cook and Mrs. G. F. Branson.

Circle Two met in the home of Mrs. R. K. Elkins with Mrs. J. E. Ward giving the devotional, "Rekindling Our Divine Gifts." Mrs. J. E. Kirchman and Mrs. C. W. Andrews gave the study from the book, "Christianity and the Social Order," by William Temple, Archbishop of Canterbury. Nine members and one visitor, Mrs. Hattie Hackett were present.

Mrs. R. W. Lane, chairman, presided at the meeting of Circle Three in the church parlor. The program opened with the singing of, "Oh, Jesus, I Have Promised." The lesson study was conducted by Mrs. Hugh Anderson, with Mrs. H. J. Davis and Mrs. Joe Hodge, Jr., assisting.

Thirteen members and two visitors, Mrs. C. C. Capps and Mrs. Harold Smith were present.

Circle Four met with Mrs. W. R. Ewing, and Mrs. Lloyd Hicks gave the devotional. The lesson study was given by Mrs. M. E. Cooper, Mrs. R. J. Epps, Mrs. Fred Carey, and Mrs. Henry Jordan. Eleven members were present at the meeting.

Hopkins Pupils Present Annual School Program

Hopkins school pupils presented their annual school program Friday night. A. W. Wakefield, principal, welcomed those attending, and Gladys Haden announced the program. Mrs. Sybil Thompson played the piano for the entire program, and presented musical selections between acts.

Mrs. Faye Flynn's first grade room presented the rythm band, in which each pupil took part. June Martin directed the band and announced the various numbers. Kenneth Morrison was drummer and Brantley Laycock and Nelda Flynn were mascots. Gwendolyn Thurmond sang a selection with the band.

Mrs. Huelyn Laycock's second grade presented "Tiny Tot Style Show Review." Mary Ellen Bird announced their program and models of long ago in colonial costumes were portrayed by Gale Herring, Jack Hewitt, Chalon Trussell, Fred Spalding, Joy Shumate, and Ray Smith. "Models of Today" were Mary Lee, Bobby Rice, Maxine Riggs and Jay Chisum. "Models in Sun Suits," were Gwendolyn Thurmond, Brantly Laycock, Elizabeth Mann, and Jan Smith. "Bathing Beauty Models" were Zona Ruttman, Donna Crossman, Nancy Harrison, Marelene Bowers and Anita White. Phillip Adamie acted as the "Comic Bather." "Evening Styles" were modeled by Leo O'Gormon, Jimmy Carter, Claudy Brown, and Melvin Martin.

Mrs. Alvie Davidson's third grade presented a play "Pennies for Uncle Sam." Jean Martindale was Uncle Sam and his helpers were: waste paper, Walker Bird; tin-foil, Donald Jay Phillips; pots and pans, Billy Rice; razor blades, Alton Flynn. Frances McDaniel was the mother, Carol, was played by Marva Sue Stone; Harriet, Yvonne Guthrie; Buddy, Donald Morton; Marjorie, Glenda Simmons, and Ada, Emeline Gilbreath.

Mrs. Sybil Thompson's fourth grade presented a flag drill, which was very colorful, and Jeanene Bowers led the group and pupils in singing "The Star Spangled Banner."

Miss Winnie Taylor's fifth grade room presented, "The Jolly Juvenile Ministrel," and Alton Flinchum from the sixth grade played a banjo selection.

Mrs. B. R. Nuckol's sixth grade room presented a play, entitled "Cornfed Babies." Verna Mae Hutsell acted the part of the young wife and Earl Parks as the father. "Lulu the Maid," was played by Dorothy Hewitt. The business man was played by Arthur Smith and the mother-in-law, by Millie Nell Brummitt.

Early traffic down the Mississippi was mostly by barges or keel-boats and the return trip was rarely attempted.

Exercise Will Banish Wings

GWEN BARLOW: Sheds wings.

By ALICIA HART

"WINGS" — those protruding shoulder blades which are despoilers of smooth round shoulders and often brought on by hunching—can be banished by a simple exercise.

The beauty of it—you merely raise shoulders to ear level and then roll them back and down—are the double benefits you reap, says radio's Gwen ("Crime Doctor") Barlow, who is getting her shoulders in shape for bareback fashions.

While the exercise is sloughing wings off your shoulders, she says, you'll find it also forcing you to throw out your chest and thus improving curves.

Another advantage is that you can practice it often and any time you choose. Gwen particularly recommends taking it to rout kinks from your spine if you sit hunched up over your work.

Amelia Bland Y.W.A. Meets for Program At Central Baptist

Amelia Bland Y.W.A. of the Central Baptist church met Wednesday night at 7:30 in the Young People's department of the church.

The Last Chance

Only a heartless handful of men stand between war and peace. Not a soul upon earth can honestly doubt that Germany's doom is at hand, or that the same doom awaits Japan. Yet a Hitler and a Himmler in Germany, a Hirohito and a cabinet of war lords in Japan prefer to darken each new day with bloodshed and destruction.

It must have occurred to everyone in the last few weeks to question why the Almighty Power that guides human destiny permits these men to live while good and great men die. It is scarcely within our province to sermonize. But we have shared this universal questioning and have found a possible answer which we doubtless share with others.

Since the forgotten dawn of human life, man has settled his disputes by bloodshed. The practice has continued while men grew in knowledge and understanding and compassion. As civilization became more complex the war-breeding dispute passed from individual men to their governments.

The men who fought war learned to hate it. And more and more men have come to know this hate as succeeding wars have involved greater portions of the world's populations.

Men have come to hate war. But not all men. Adolf Hitler did not hate it. Adolf Hitler, a failure and a bum, found in war a congenial atmosphere. And he led into war a people who 20 years before had lain exhausted in defeat and sighed, "Never again."

Men have come to hate war when war was upon them. But some have forgotten quickly. And others have turned from the hated thing as they do from death, and have said that this cannot happen. But still they have done nothing to prevent war even when they have seen its approaching shadow.

So today war has again returned, with an awfulness never seen or imagined. It has struck wildly and blindly, bringing death and destitution to millions who never fought or offended. It has ground to dust the cherished relics of centuries. It has found beauty and charm, and left ashes and ruin.

Today delegates of the world's nations are met to try again to put an end to war—not to settle a peace in the war still raging, but to bring peace for all time. And as they meet perhaps the Almighty allows the awful lesson to go on, day after day, so that they may not forget, so that their small disputes may be mocked by the daily evidence of a type of war that soils and degrades the name of mankind.

The Nation's Press

OFF TO SAN FRANCISCO
(The Chicago Tribune)

Sen. Connally and Sen. Vandenberg, delegates to the San Francisco conference which begins its work this week, have spoken their farewells to their colleagues in Washington. Mr. Connally said he had "every confidence" in the success of the mission. Mr. Vandenberg's language was a little more guarded but he had "faith that we may perfect this charter of peace and justice so that reasonable men of good will will find in it so much good that all lesser doubts and disagreements may be resolved in its favor."

These remarks have led some observers to conclude that the two senators have already abandoned hope of getting a good treaty and, instead, are preparing the public mind to accept a bad one. We trust this inference was not warranted, tho it is plausible. Men who hope to achieve something in conference do not, if they are wise in negotiation, give away so much in advance.

The plain fact is that today America is by long odds the strongest nation in the world in the military sense and the most productive in the economic sense. America has no immediate neighbors whose aggressions it has reason to fear, no ambition for great new territories to rule, and no desire to dominate alien populations. We have less to gain at San Francisco by way of security and more to lose than has any other nation. That being so, our negotiators ought to be taking the position that if the world wants us to join in an organization to keep the peace by force, the world should bid for our participation by offering terms which eradicate some of the causes of war, will not offend our sense of right and justice, and will not expose us to military adventures for the benefit of others. Instead of that, we get fond expressions of confidence that we shall be content with whatever the conference may decide.

What the country would like to have heard from its delegates, among other things, is a statement that the primary responsibility for keeping the peace in Europe (where the great wars always start) rests upon Europeans. There was ample force in England, France, and Russia to have prevented the rise of Hitler and Mussolini and to halt their early aggressions. There is ample force today in England and Russia to keep the peace of the continent as long ahead as any one can see.

If England and Russia will deal honorably with each other and justly with the smaller and weaker nations of Europe there should be little need for America to interpose in European affairs. The [illegible] will fail to quarrel over [illegible]

Common Ground

By R. C. HOILES

"Men loved darkness rather than light, because their deeds were evil."

Traditional Labor Unions And Violence

Most people who have not carefully studied traditional labor unions say they are for collective bargaining but against labor unions using violence.

When they make this statement they evidently do not know the real meaning of violence. They evidently think that violence consists only in doing physical harm to some individual. They evidently believe that threats of a conspiracy that would cause another party to have a financial loss do not come under the term, violence.

But this is the worst kind of violence. When labor unions conspire to quit simultaneously they do it for one purpose, and one purpose only—to compel a man to do something that he would not do if he did not face the loss that would follow simultaneous striking of his employees.

Quitting a job as an individual because a worker can better his lot or because he does not care to work is, of course, the right of every man. But conspiring to quit simultaneously with the idea of going back to work with a better arrangement is certainly a form of violence.

Webster gives as one definition of violence: "Strength or energy actively displayed or exerted, especially when destructive; vehement or forcible action." Another definition is "Vehemence in feeling, behavior or language; passion; ardor; fury; fervor."

Wester gives as antonyms of violence, "Softness, gentleness, weakness." Certainly this simultaneous stoppage is not to act in a soft, gentle way but in a forceful, powerful way. So every traditional labor union that gains a price increase by threats of simultaneous stoppage is using a most dangerous kind of violence.

Any agreement made under duress or threats is, in reality, not a bargain. It is simply exploitation. It is for this reason that collective bargaining cannot permanently raise wage levels as is erroneously claimed, but is one of the primary forces retarding the permanent rise of wage levels. It is the very antithesis of free enterprise or the Christian way of life.

Rev. Jones Refused Visa to India

The Christian Century reports that the British government has refused to grant a visa to Dr. E. Stanley Jones to return to India. Other missionaries are being allowed to return.

It is easy to understand why the British government refuses Dr. Jones a visa. It is men who advocate an expanded government, as he has done in this nation, that have caused untold misery, poverty and suffering. It is hard even to give him credit for good intentions when he deliberately refuses to answer questions about nostrums he proposes.

Again people are inclined to wonder whether Dr. Jones' vision that God wanted him in the United States when he left India was because there was too much danger in India of war for him to stay there. Now that the danger has somewhat subsided, the doctor seems to want to return.

Dr. Jones should realize that when people believe in an expanded government such as he has been advocating, it is only natural for that expansion to continue to such a point that the nation determines who can cross border lines. He is reaping exactly what he has been sowing—the results of an expanded government.

Goering's Goose—

NEWS BEHIND THE NEWS
The National Whirligig

By RAY TUCKER

SUPERSPY—A brisk controversy flames behind the bureaucratic scenery over which federal agency shall control the proposed National intelligence service, even though the organization for ferreting out domestic and foreign enemies will probably not be set up until after the end of the war.

The legislation offered by the White House would create an establishment in which war, navy, state, treasury and the repartment of justice would be represented, although it plans that the military, naval and diplomatic branches would have dominant influence.

Under this system the superspy group would devote itself chiefly to keeping an eye on foreign nations' plans and designs affecting the United States, the possible economic and diplomatic threats spotlighted along with actual war schemes against the safety and integrity of the Western Hemisphere.

CAIMS—Now, however, two formidable figures have entered quiet claims that they should top the contemplated intelligence unit.

The first is the brilliant William J. Donovan, who heads the mysterious but far-reaching office of strategic services. He wants his bureau, which combines investigative work with economic studies and outright military operations behind the lines, put on a permanent basis.

The other is J. Edgar Hoover, chief of the federal bureau of investigation. He has built a powerful and generously staffed organization for counterespionage purposes, and he believes that his is the logical agency to handle postwar sleuthing here and broad.

SERIOUS—The FBI's contention rests on the admittedly superb job it did in breaking up Axis rings in South America even before the United States entered the conflict. When socialites and amateurs attached to state, war and navy demonstrated their unfitness for this task, Hoover's agents were sent to key danger spots.

There was no authority in law for this action, but the crisis demanded emergency measures. They were appointed "legal advisers" to our embassies and legations. Their findings eventually led every Latin republic but Argentina to outlaw Japanese and German firms, clubs, propaganda, schools etc.

This spectacle of departmental and bureau heads squabbling to retain or expand their wartime power and personnel is nothing new to the Capital. No one wants to demobilize as V-E day approaches. But the tremendous importance of a National intelligence service, in view of the prospect that vast hordes of our enemies may dive underground, makes the current quarrel serious rather than merely spectacular.

ESPIONAGE—Of course, some form of international police force to stop aggressors may come out of the San Francisco conference. This may be adequate to nip surreptitious rearmament on a large scale. But we can never be sure about the future; some of today's buddies may have to be watched closely when the "hands across the sea" spirit has supsided.

We paid dearly for never having had a proper espionage system. It is still humiliating to admit that we did not know what the Japs were up to by reason of the blanket of enemy censorship in Truk and Formosa.

A nation under suspicion will use every trick to outwit watchmen. After the last war the Allied control commission thought itw as keeping tag on the reichswehr. But Berlin was fooling the outside world.

Advance armament research was carried on for the Germans in Sweden, Russia and other European states. Franco permitted his pals to build experimental submarines in Spain. General von Seeckt in 1922 loaned German experts to train the new Red army. In return his technicians were given the opportunity to study new weapons forbidden at home by the Versailles treaty.

In some ways economic finagling is even more difficult to detect than military monkey business; the term business covers deals by both governments and so-called private firms Most commercial transactions will be aboveboard, but we must have trained sleuths to pry into the devious ones affecting our safety.

If the San Francisco conference accepts the economic and social council proposed at Dumbarton Oaks, an institution to prevent economic score spots will be available to us. But we shall still require our own machinery to keep informed about cartels, trade barriers, commercial policies and other "secret weapons" which may be used against us.

Businessmen know that in many ways the Schachts, with their unorthodox financial schemes, were as dangerous to our welfare as the Goerings with their hidden Luftwaffe. Prewar ties between huge American corporations and their counterparts in foreign countries are now recognized as detrimental to American interests. We shall need agencies to see that like combinations are not formed again.

INTERNATIONALIST —Although Representative Charles L. Gifford of Cotuit, Massachusetts, hails from the second most eastern district in the U. S., he is an extreme isolationist, unlike so many New England associates. So he had a field day when Assistant Secretary of State Will L. Clayton urged extension of the reciprocal tariff agreement act as a houhe hearing. "You are an internationalist, aren't you?" drawled the Bay Stater.

"That depends on your definition of an internationalist,'" smiled the Texas cotton broker.

"An internationalist,'" defined Mr. Gifford, "is like a hen who cackles in her own yard but lays the egg in another."

UPTON CLOSE:
Could the World Get on Without Soviet Russia?

By UPTON CLOSE

San Francisco: Judging by the letters and wires received by the press and radio representatives here, the honest peace-lovers of this nation and its straightforward internationalist-minded people are getting pretty wrought up about the way this conference is going at things. They certainly expected some clean solution of the question of Polish representation. Instead of which, Molotov has been able to create the alternative that either his own made-in-Moscow Polish government be represented or Poland would have no representation here at all. Either way it is a victory for Stalinist bossism and a defeat for little peoples who are overshadowed by big bosses.

We have already come to the second week of the conference and not a single discussion has been held on the floor, not a single voice has been heard from it. Everything is steering - committee made; with the steering committee entirely taken up with the task of appeasing Molotov. He appears like a man, whether or not a likeable man; the others appear like mice. So the American reading and listening public see it, if I read my mail aright.

This must be quite different from the picture that America's peace-lovers and internationalists had in their minds. Certainly the elaborate propaganda selling job done by the OWI and state department between Dumbarton Oaks and San Francisco have failed to prepare the public for this picture. Here is a typical contribution from John Q. Public—this one in verse:

"Truth, in war, is the first laid low;
And under ruthless feet is trod,
And, in its stead, evasions go
Into a peace neglecting God."

It comes from Eugene Wachendorff, of lovely Peachtree street, Atlanta, Ga., and I accept his invitation to use it. It is a timely warning, classically expressed.

Now, what I would like the good people of America to know is that Molotov's tactics have drawn the American delegates together, and they have drawn the British and United States delegations together, and they are drawing all the middle-sized and little fellows from China to El Salvado together. Moscow's petty tactics are wiping the fluff and the slime off the words "liberalism" and "democracy" and letting them shine out again after the years of obfuscation since Hitler, in his pathetic ego, attacked Russia. Maybe Molotov is doing the world and honest language a great favor, however unintentionally. Perhaps it is the "effete democracies" after all who have been dishonest with themselves in pretending about "democratic Russia". Perhaps the rest of the world, aside from Soviet Russia, is learning in good time that it can get along without Russia quite well, if need be: that it is not hopeless without Russia, that Russia needs it more than it needs Russia.

Now the most hopeful thing is that if we learn that lesson, Russia is very likely to take it up, too.

There are persons here, some of them fresh from Moscow, who believe that Molotov's orders are to bring up every triviality and annoyance possible to stall for time until Stalin's generals can complete Russia's own security system; namely, military occupation from Denmark to and including Korea. And that when Stalin has these things he will say: "Thanks, gentlemen for the buggy ride. We have what we need, now, and you do what you please."

There are other persons here who think Stalin's orders to Molotov are to get everything he can through nuisance value, but to cut out the nuisance tactics if and when America and Britain really stand up to him.

Now, this conference started out with the great advantage to Russia. Since she was willing to be the hard trader, Britain has got to have an international world for reasons of very existence. The United States is in no such dire straits but is so sentimentally sold that it has got to have an international world or its heart will break. Russia has its heart set only on a Russian security system based on the areas where its footsoldiers can march. Beyond that, good—but not necessary, and not worth expenditure of real property or advantage.

But this conference could swing the change from British-American-Chinese internationalism to practical British-American-coalition or alliance. And the Chinese would be most mightily willing to settle for a real trans-Pacific political and economic alliance between the United States and China. There could be no more fruitful alliance in geography. There has been none more natural in history. America and China have no single interest that clashes. In trade and industry they can be more complementary than any other two.

Now, there is one thing Stalin would prefer to just such alliances. That is the internationalism he now plays horse with.

Out of this situation may develop the solutions in this conference.

WAR TODAY

By J. M. ROBERTS, JR.
Sub. for DeWitt MacKenzie

The war in Germany, if it may still be called that, has reached the point today where nazi activity has little further meaning.

Continued resistance by fanatics in the "surrender" area of Austria makes it clear that the mop-up must be continued, as it probably will have to be continued even after any general surrender order or V-E proclamation.

A general surrender order would be welcome for the effect it might have on the waverers, for saving some Allied lives. From the long-range standpoint, it probably would be just as well if the last-ditch nazis never surrender, but stand to be wiped out. Just as well if war's destruction is spread so that no German can live more than walking distance from a shell-torn reminder of what happens to those who place their faith in false leaders. Just as well that war's explosive calling cards be left in the last hideouts of Bavaria and the Sudetenland of Czechoslovakia as in the Ruhr and East Prussia.

So the activities of Admiral Doenitz, Werner Best and the other conquerors in Copénhagen, if they really are there, are of more interest than significance.

But it is very satisfying to hear that the remnants of the nazi overlordship now operate from the territory of a little neighbor against whom their might was powerless. Karl Doenitz, successor to der fuehrer, heir to the world, master of the master race, scorned by the newsboys who once again sell non-nazi papers on the streets of Copenhagen.

The building industry is the nation's number one field for postwar employment of returning service men and for re-employment of the vast number now in war industries. — Walter R. MacCormack, vice president American Institute of Architects.

Around Hollywood

By ERSKINE JOHNSON
NEA Staff Correspondent

HOLLYWOOD.—A GI writes a letter:

Dear Erskine;

The hottest spot in Paris for American GI's, and, for that matter, all of the Allies, is the Paris Canteen which opened exactly a month ago. Officially the place is called the Cabaret des Troupes Allees. It is the former Cafe Tyrol, on the Champs Elysees.

As the Cafe Tyrol, it had been one of the favorite hangouts of the German brass hats during their occupation of Paris. It had been decorated to look like the infamous Munich beer house from which the Hitler gangsters sprang.

None of that bunch of ratts would recognize the place now. A famed French artist, Paul Colin, redecorated the cafe completely to eradicate all traces of German influence and the Tyrolean motif.

Although the Canteen has been going for only 30 days, enough incidents, dramatic, comic and human, already have happened to fill several books. Producer Sol Lesser should have a cinch filming his movie, "Paris Canteen." There was the thrilling episode the day the canteen opened when painters were sloshing their brushes all over the place, carpenters banging away at the walls and supports.

ENTER TWO YANKS

....Amidst all this bedlam, Marlene Dietrich was rehearsing the show for the opening night performance. Two bewildered GI's wandered in, although the place was not yet open. Marlene stopped and said, "Sorry, boys. The place opens toniht. Come back and I'll be glad to see you then."

"Gosh, Miss Dietrich," answered one of the kids wistfully, "our leave is up at 6 o'clock and we go back to the front. We don't know when we'll get a chance to be here again. Can't we look around?"

Marlene smiled and shouted in French at the carpenters and painters to stop. Right then and there she did a complete show.

One of the big hits which probably will reach America shortly comes from the nightly appearance of 74-year-old Mistinguette, who features a number, 'Je Cherche Un Millionaire" (I'm Looking for a Millionaire), stops in the middle of the second chorus to inquire anxiously if there are any millionaires among the GI's present and then dates any of the boys who raise their hands. Her legs still look like a million prewar dollars.

TIPSY TAPPER

The Canteen even has had its running gag. Every night during the past week a little English sailor evidently achieved his saturation point in wine at about the same hour. For eight consecutive nights he staggered up to the stage during a dance number and went into a routine mimicking an overstuffed peasant woman doing a tap dance. His impersonation was hilarious, but every night for eight consecutive nights officials were compelled to remove him from the stage forcibly.

Oddly, there have been no other cases of drunkenness since the Canteen opened. When you consider that a bottle of wine costs $25 in Paris, the reason is obvious.

I'll be seeing you—in the Paris Canteen. Sincerely,

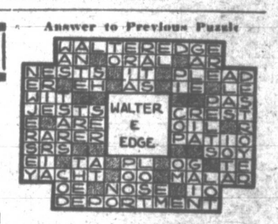

Jack.

THE AMERICAN HOUSE
By Virginia Chase

XI

WE got dinner ready the next Sunday, hoping for a miracle. No one had come at 12 o'clock. At 1, the people in the White Steamer called up from a farm house near a sign that announced the new restriction, and Benjamin went for them with the buckboard. The dinner was good, and they ate as heartily as ever, but we knew, somehow, that they would not be back again.

My father called up on Monday. Benjamin was to meet him that night at the Junction. He had a man with him, a man who was coming to stay.

"It must be a summer boarder," my mother said, more cheerful than she had been since the Town Meeting. "Be sure you don't tell your father what's gone on," she warned us.

It was dark when they came. We heard the wheels on the gravel, then my father's voice. "Where is everybody?" He sounded in high spirits.

We all ran out to meet him. "Remember, not a word," my mother said.

My father kissed us all. Then he turned to the man standing beside him. "Mr. Clayton Cutter, our new clerk," he said, looking quite proud of himself.

We simply stared. A new clerk when only that day my mother had been wondering if we could possibly manage without Ada.

Mr. Cutter bowed, and we all filed quietly into the house.

"How did you find Cousin Victoria?" my mother asked in a polite voice on the way.

"As usual," my father answered shortly. He had plainly expected quite a different welcome.

No one spoke as we crossed the piazza.

"Show Mr. Cutter his room, Susan," my mother said when we were inside.

NO. 10 was the room we had prepared. It was on the back corner of the second floor, overlooking the bay. It was a good room, ordinarily reserved for transients.

Mr. Cutter looked more like a transient than a clerk. He was short, but erect, with a bearing that suggested the military. He had thick, lively gray hair, a trim mustache, and a Vandyke beard, the only one we had ever seen outside of a portrait.

"This way, sir," Sue said. We could see she was awed.

"What's the matter?" my father began as soon as they were out of hearing. He was hurt and baffled and a little annoyed.

My mother had to tell him the whole story.

He took it hard. "If I had only been here myself," he said, groaning, "it would never have happened."

My mother always let him keep his vanities. "The first thing to do is to send this man back," she told him. "We can give him a week's pay."

My father hesitated. "All he wants is his board," he finally said.

"His board," my mother echoed. "That's all."

"Where in the world did you get a man for that?"

"That's all he wants," my father assured her.

My mother did not notice the evasion then. "Well, that's different," she said. "He looks presentable. We can try him out, anyway."

MR. CUTTER was more than presentable. He was impressive. Indeed, if it hadn't been for his hands, he might have seemed forbidding. They were very white, very soft, and very graceful. He moved them from the wrist with gestures so eloquent that he hardly needed to speak at all. A finger to the lips when someone was telephoning. A backward gesture toward an open door. A half-beckoning, half-welcoming sweep toward the register. A wide flourish in the direction of the dining room. One finger for the first floor. Two for the second. . . . At only one time was he really voluble. That was when he yawned. Then he tapped his lips gently with his fingers and emitted a loud "HI HO HUM."

At first he made quite a hit in the office. He gave it a real tone. Even the summer people were impressed. His clothes were always neat, his hair well brushed, and his hands and nails immaculate.

He made quite a hit with Ada, too. Here at last was the kind of man she had dreamed of. Distinctive, courtly, alone in the world. She gave him a clean napkin every day and always kept a vase of flowers on his table. Sometimes, when he wasn't there to see her, she slipped into the office with little lunches. A deviled ham sandwich, maybe, or a molasses doughnut, or a glass of buttermilk, which he fancied.

This irritated Mrs. Guptill. Food cost money. Ada wasn't paid three dollars a week to throw it away.

If Mr. Cutter had been a worker, she might have overlooked the lunches. But he wasn't—it turned out—a worker at anything. For hours at a time he would sit at the desk gazing at his hands or idly drawing circles on sheets of paper. Often he dozed in the afternoon, cupping his face in his hands so that his beard hung down like a cornucopia. The telephone might ring two or three times before he stirred himself to answer it.

We girls were very busy—dusting, wiping dishes, setting tables, berrying—and his idleness annoyed us, too.

"Mr. Cutter ought to do that," we often complained when my mother suggested some additional chore. "He's got plenty of time."

"Now, now," she would say. That meant "Enough from you."

But it provoked her a little, too, to come in and find him sleeping. "Of course," she said, "if we were paying him anything. . . ."

Peter Edson's Column:

WORLD PEACE-MAKING LIKE A GAME

By PETER EDSON
NEA Service Staff Correspondent

SAN FRANCISCO — World peace as being worked out at the United Nations conference, is going to be just like a game of parcheesi, also spelled pachisi.

This important discovery is announced after an elaborat 24-page, four-color booklet just put out by the state department. Title of the booklet is: "Proposals for a General International Organization as Developed at Dumbarton Oaks, 1944." To make it simple, 12 of the pages are given over to diagrams that resemble nothing so much as variations of old fashioned parcheesi boards. There are brown, green and black arrows all over the pages to show who what to do next. The whole thing is so simple and complete in its explanation, the only thing lacking to make it a real parcheesi board is a pair of dice to shake, or a spinner or wheel of fortune, to show you how many spaces you advance or retreat on each move.

Turn, for instance, to page 16, which shows a parchessi board pattern titled in small letters, "Functions of the Security Council," and then in bigger type, "Peaceful Settlement of Disputes."

It may be a little difficult to explain this to you without having the chart right before your eyes, but if you'll follow directions closely you'll get the general drift. Honest, this explanation is a lot simpler than the diagram which would only confuse you.

Just take it as a game of parcheesi. Instead of having a tiddledewink, which you call a "man" and move from one space to another on the diagram, just take a button and call it a "dispute." The idea of the game is to take a dispute and play it through successive stages of settlement—moving it through spaces marked general assembly or regional security agency, secretariat, international court or justice and security council—till you reach "home," which in this game is called "peace."

Of course, not al idisputes can be settled peacefully. In that case, the dispute leads to war. Go back and start over.

Disputes, according to the directions on page 16, start between two nations, which are indicated by two black squares on a blue globe at the bottom of the board.

Just as in parcheesi, you can put your dispute into play at several places. Shake the dice, or spin the wheel of fortune, and see what your first move will be in this game of "peaceful settlement of disputes." The dispute may be started towards settlement from space marked, "any state," "regional security agency," "secretariat" or "general assembly." All this means is that any of these four can recognize or call attention to the existence of a dispute.

Spin the wheel and see what you do next. If you don't have a war and have to go back and start all over, you move your dispute along any of the four brown lines to a space marked "one." This is temporary safety zone in an area marked, "security council."

Move on to "two." Your dispute is still in the security council, but from there are four possible plays. Spin the wheel.

The security council, according to the directions printed along the back arrow line leading from space "two," now "calls upon the disputants for direct peaceful settlement by (1) negotiation. (2) mediation. (3) arbitration. (4) judical settlement."

In other words, if you get any of these numbers on your next move you reach home on a short cut by achieving peaceful settlement and the game's over. But if you don't win on this move, the directions say, "parties are obligated to refer their dispute to security council." That means you have to follow the reverse black line arrow and go back to "two."

Your next move is then to "three." It's also in the security council safety zone. Spin the wheel and see what you get, following the green lines this time.

Again four possible plays, for the security council may move your dispute along four green lines to either (a) recommended procedure for direct settlement between disputing nations, (b) refer dispute for local settlement to regional security agency, (c) refer back to general assembly for recommendation, or (d) refer to international court of justice for advice.

What happens if none of these works, the directions don't say. But if along any of these lines your dispute reaches home and you achieve settlement, that's parchessi—also known as peace. "Ain't it wonderful?"

Approximately 70,000 people suffered some permanent disability from work accidents in 1944.

WALL STREET

NEW YORK, May 3—(AP)—Investment forces regained their courage today and selected stocks, mostly in the peace-benefitted class, led the market on a recovery push that put favorites up as much as 2 or more points at new highs since 1937.

The fall of Berlin and imminent collapse of remaining nazi battlers revived post-war prosperity thinking as a purchasing argument although many Wall Streeters still doubted that reconversion difficulties had been fully discounted. Transfers ran to around 1,300,000 shares.

Front liners included American Airlines, Eastern Air Lines, United Air Lines, U. S. Steel, Bethlehem, Caterpillar Tractor (aided by the winning of a patent suit), J. I. Case, Chrysler, Willys-Overland, Grumman, Spiegel, Texas Pacific Land Trust, Montgomery Ward, Sears Roebuck, Budd Mfg., Engineers Public Service, International Telephone, N. Y. Central, Great Northern and U. S. Rubber. Bonds were narrow.

. . . But One of His Songs Was Shade Off-Color, She Thought

(Third of Six Articles
By DOUGLAS B. CORNEL
(Associated Press Staff Writer who 'covered Mr. Roosevelt for 10 years).

WASHINGTON.—(AP)—Few people, even in Washington, realized how much infantile paralysis had ravaged the body of Franklin D. Roosevelt.

They didn't know the stark courage and physical effort it took for Mr. Roosevelt to get around. His legs were withered and useless. When he wore braces, he could walk only by shifting his weight and letting one leg, then the other, swing forward.

He pulled himself up a ramp onto his special train with the help of handrails. He hoisted himself with his hands from wheelchair to automobile. Sometimes he had to be carried.

His arms and torso were splendidly developed. Though he had no weight in his legs, he scaled around 190 pounds in his prime. By the time of his death, however, he was down to about 170.

For a long while Mr. Roosevelt was extremely sensitive about his crippled condition. He never said anything publicly, but to a small group he once talked angrily about a newspaper reference to his hand-controlled car.

In the last year or two he had mellowed about his infirmity. He permitted himself to be wheeled onto the platform at public functions.

But it was a tremendous surprise when he volunteered an interesting bit of information to three reporters aboard ship after the Yalta conference.

He told us how King Ibn Saud of Saudi, Arabia, had admired his wheel-chair and how he dug up a spare and presented it to the Arabian potentate.

"Be sure to say, though," he admonished, "that the king was wounded nine times in battle."

A Dutchess county style clambake for the president was an annual event at the nearby home of Secretary of the Treasury Morgenthau. Tables were spread beneath huge old oaks, and baskets of steaming clams, corn on the cob, yams and chicken were set before the guests.

Afterward there always were a few songs. The president joined in the barber-shopping, and sometimes he sang by himself.

One of his favorite songs was a meaningless little thing that ran like this:

"How sweet is the air;
"I wonder what's in it?
"Twicky-doodle, twicky-doodle, twicky-doodle, eye-eye."

Another of his numbers always brought a mild rebuke from Mrs. Roosevelt. It was something he had picked up on his first trip to Hawaii. Its lyrics were a shade off-color, and he wriggled in imitation of a hula dancer as he sang them.

"Why, Franklin!" the First Lady would exclaim. "Where on earth did you learn that?"

I never could have got through this business if I had not had with me a powerful band of men representative of the nation and bound together by a loyalty which rose far above party politics. — Winston Churchill.

Migratory Labor To Be More Efficient

COLLEGE STATION, May 4—(AP)—A statement that Texas migratory labor, chiefly of Latin American descent, is expected to be a more flexible and efficient element in Texas agriculture during 1945 than ever before has come from the Texas A. and M. college extension service.

D. D. Steele, assistant state farm labor supervisor, said the farm labor staff of the service had devoted winter and spring months to "laying a solid foundation of confidence and cooperation" between the more than 30,000 migratory workers, county agricultural agents, and the state extension farm labor office.

Objectives of the extension farm labor program were discussed by Spanish-speaking assistants assigned to 30 South Texas and Rio Grande valley counties where the majority of the workers live.

The purpose, said the service, was to "accustom crew leaders and workers to seeking placements through county agricultural agents, and especially depending upon them for accurate information regarding demands for their services.

New Commercial Ships Proposed

WASHINGTON, May 4— (AP) — Plans have been disclosed to use ships similar to armed forces landing craft for commercial operation in the intracoastal waterways of Texas and nearby states.

Two native Texans, Maj. Chester D. Bintliff, serving with the army transportation corps, and David C. Bintliff, Houston business man, told the interstate commerce commission in an application they propose using six craft similar to the L. C. T. (landing craft, tank) and L. S. M. (landing ship, medium) for the operations.

They said they selected the craft because of loading capacity, operation economy, ease of loading and unloading "whether docks, piers, or wharves are available or not" and because of shallow draft.

The application is to carry commodities on regular schedules and to serve the following ports: Mobile, Ala., Pascagoula, Biloxi, Gulfport, and Bay St. Louis, Miss.; New Orleans, Houma, Morgan City, Lake Charles, La.; Orange, Port Arthur, Beaumont, High Island, Anahuac, Galveston, Goose Creek, Baytown, Houston, Freeport, Matagorda, Placios, Port Aransas, Corpus Christi, Port Isabel, and Brownsville, Texas. Trinity river service would include Liberty, Dallas and Fort Worth, Texas.

Until completion of the intracoastal waterways between Corpus Christi and Brownsville, the application said, craft would use the open water between those ports. Similarly, it said, service on the Trinity river cannot be offered until completion of a navigation project, "moneys for which we understand to have already been appropriated."

Famous Postoffice Mural To Go Down

WASHINGTON, May 4— (AP) — President Truman has signed what amounted to an eviction order for those corpulent ladies on the wall of the Kennebunkport, Me., postoffice.

The President approved a $3,150,-00,0000 independent appropriations bill which carries a rider authorizing the government to accept a new mural for the postoffice.

The present mural, to recall the description which Senator White (R-Me) recently gave the senate, "is a picture which, to speak frankly, depicts a number of fat women, scantily clad, disporting themselves on a bench."

The picture, again quoting Senator White, "has been an offense to the citizens of that community ever since it was placed in the postoffice." Kennebunkport citizens have raised $1,000 for a painting which depicts historically the sea-faring and shipbuilding activities of the community.

Banquet Honors Cub, Boy Scouts

A banquet honoring the local Boy Scouts and Cubs who earned the General Eisenhower award in the last local paper drive will be held in the Junior high school cafeteria May 15, it was officially announced today.

The banquet is being sponsored by the Lions club, Rotary club, Kiwanis club, Junior chamber of commerce and the Business and Professional Women's club, in cooperation with the Senior chamber of commerce.

Huelyn W. Laycock has been named chairman of the ticket sales. It was reported that 175 tickets will be made available, including those for the fifty or more scouts who will be guests. The tickets will be sold first to parents of the honored boys and then to other interested persons.

to MOTHER

★ FOR SERVICE
★ ABOVE AND BEYOND
★ THE CALL OF DUTY!

American mothers are true home front soldiers. Theirs is a very important contribution to the war effort. Salvaged fat made ammunition for the Marines on Iwo Jima. Piles of salvaged paper wrapped equipment for our soldiers who fought the Battle of the Rhine. War bonds bought with pennies saved in so many ways are speeding Victory and the return of our fighting heroes. Mother has never asked for any recognition. She would probably laugh if she were presented with the medal she deserves for service above and beyond the call of duty. Her best reward . . . the only one she wants . . . is the love she sees in her son's eyes and the pressure of his hand as he whispers, "Gee, Mom, you're swell!" A bond bought on Mother's Day in her name is the best way of saying thanks for her many sacrifices.

SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

Scripture: I and II Samuel; 1 Kings 1-11

By WILLIAM E. GILROY, D. D.

The history of the Hebrew monarchy strikingly illustrates what strong leadership, achieving unity, or supported by an united people, can accomplish; and conversely the decay and downfall show how quickly a state can disintegrate and a people go down in ruin, when leadership fails, and when dissension and division disrupt the internal life, leaving the state and people a prey to aggressive enemies.

It seemed a great moment when Israel hailed its first king, and the bashful Saul, head and shoulders above all the people, was brought forth from his hiding place and proclaimed monarch, while all the people shouted, "God save the King." But within the one first reign all the dire things that Samuel had predicted, when the people turned from the prophet to demand a king, had come to pass. Saul had died, a suicide, slain by his own sword, in the ignominious hour of an overwhelming defeat of the armies of Israel. It was a dark hour, and it looked as if the monarchy was ended.

Then came David. Or rather, David, the young shepherd boy who had killed the giant Goliath with his sling-shot, emerged from the guerrilla warfare, and his leadership of a band of discontented men, to become the man of the hour, and the savior of his people. We picture David as the author of psalms, the sweet singer of Israel, playing on his harp. This he was, even as a warrior of today, General Patton, is a composer of music, and a song that has recently been sung over the radio. But actually David was a warrior, a man of action, and so much a man of blood that he was not permitted to build the temple—a task reserved for his son, Solomon.

But as David was a warrior as well as a sweet singer, he was also a statesman, and consolidator. From a kingdom in defeat, further disrupted by division, for some clung to Ishbosheth, Saul's son, and strove to make him king. David in his 40 years of rule established the kingdom securely, defeating external enemies and building the kingdom strongly from within.

Passages here and there reveal the strength of this amazing man, and the deep contrasts in which he appeared sometimes almost as a saint and at other times as a flagrant sinner. There was the affair with Bathsheba, wife of Uriah, and the foul conspiracy to do away with Uriah by setting him in the battle where he would be surely killed. Yet when the prophet Nathan fearlessly brought home his sin to him, instead of destroying the prophet he acknowledged his guilt.

And against that is that noble picture of his pouring out as an oblation to God the water from the well of Bethlehem, which three of his mighty men had brought at great risk to their lives. That story (II Samuel 23:14-17) is surely one of the most tenderly beautiful in all the annals of war and fighting men.

David passed on to Solomon a strong, united kingdom; and Solomon added to its magnificence, and the glorious building of the Temple. But he built at the cost of oppression and injustice, and the downfall of the kingdom began in the very hour of its glory.

Revival Services to Close at Methodist Church Sunday Night

Two services are being held each day in the revival which is now in progress at the First Methodist church. The morning service begins at 10 o'clock and the evening service at 8. The Rev. Joe Z. Tower, pastor of the First Methodist church of Wichita Falls, is conducting the evangelistic services, and Bob Watkins of Childress is leading the special music. The Sunday evening service will close the revival which began Monday night, and has continued through the week.

Sunday services will begin with the church school at 9:45 a. m. and church worship service, at 10:55 Special music will be given by the choir, under the direction of Dale Brock, and will sing, "Send Out the Light," by Gounod.

Baptist Revival To Continue Next Week With Guest Speaker

One week has passed of the revival which is being held at the First Baptist church, with Dr. F. B. Thorn pastor of the Second Baptist church of Houston as the evangelist. Attendance at the services has increased steadily during the week, at the two services each day which are conducted at 10 each morning and at 8:15 each evening. The revival will continue through Friday evening, May 11.

Thursday morning, Dr. Thorn spoke on the subject, "How To Be Happy," giving Paul's recipe for happiness. He related that Paul had many things to make him unhappy, and that he was still always happy regardless of them. He gave as definite proof of Paul's happiness, Philippians 4:8; "Finally brethren, whatsoever things are true, whatsoever things are honest, whatsoever things are lovely, whatsoever things are of good report; if there be any virtue, and if there be any praise, think on these things."

As a part of the recipe for happiness, Dr. Thorn advised the congregation to throw overboard their anxieties, which pertain to selfish motives and cease worrying over the sinful condition of the world because in due time God will take care of that.

Sunday school will begin at 9:45 and the morning hour of worship will begin at 11 o'clock Sunday morning. This service may be heard over radio station KPDN. Attendance goal for Sunday school has been set at 750.

Evening services will begin at 7 o'clock with the Training Union, with a goal of 215 in attendance. Dr. Thorn will preach at the worship service at 8 p. m. and R. Virgil Mott, director of music, has promised some surprise features for both services Sunday.

Christian Science Sunday Study Topic

"Everlasting Punishment" is the subject of the lesson-sermon which will be read in all Churches of Christ, Scientist, on Sunday, May 6.

The Golden Text is: "Have I any pleasure at all that the wicked should die? saith the Lord God: and not that he should return from his ways, and live?" (Ezekiel 18:23).

Among the citations which comprise the lesson-sermon is the following from the Bible: "Bring ye all the tithes into the storehouse, that there may be meat in mine house, and prove me now herewith, saith the Lord of hosts, if I will not open you the windows of heaven, and pour you out a blessing, that there shall not be room enough to receive it" (Malachi 3:10).

The lesson-sermon also includes the following passage from the Christian science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy: "Spirit blesses man, but man cannot 'tell whence it cometh.' By it the sick are healed, the sorrowing are comforted, and the sinning are reformed" (page 78).

Two Services Are Planned for Sunday At Central Baptist

Services at the Central Baptist church will be conducted Sunday morning by O. H. Gilstrap of the local church. Music will be under the direction of W. L. Ayres.

Guest speaker at the evening hour will be the Rev. Matthew Doyle, of Borger who is a Boy Scout executive.

Anyone who wishes to attend, receives a welcome at the Central Baptist church.

Church of Nazarene Will Hear Pastor at Two Sunday Services

The Rev. A. L. James pastor, will preach at both services Sunday at the Church of the Nazarene. The morning sermon topic will be, "Some of the Greatest Words of the Bible." Sunday school is at 9:45 a. m.

Young People's groups will meet at 7 p.m. and the evening service will begin at 8 o'clock.

Central Church of Christ Announces Services for Week

Sunday services at the Central Church of Christ will begin with Sunday school at 9:45, and church services at 10:50. Carlos D. Speck, minister, will teach on the "Qualifications of Deacons", at the morning service.

Evening services have been changed from 7:30 to 8 p.m. At the evening service, the minister will discuss, "The Great Commission".

Group meetings during the week include the Women's Bible class Wednesday afternoon at 2:30; prayer service, Wednesday evening at 8 o'clock; and Men's Training class Friday evening at 8.

Harrah Methodist Services Announced

Services at the Harrah Methodist church include Sunday school at 9:45, and morning worship service at 10:55. The pastor, C. A. Wells, will discuss the topic, "The Prodigal Son".

Evening services will begin with the meeting of the three Youth Fellowship groups at 7:30, and evening service is at 8 o'clock.

Brethren Church To Feature Singing at Services on Sunday

The worship service at 11 o'clock Sunday morning at the Church of the Brethren will be built around a program of speical music. The Broken Record male quartet of the high school, composed of Billy Hutchinson, Charles Beard, Jimmy Terrill and Jack Dunham, will sing "Steal Away", "Swing Low." "Nobody Knows the Trouble I've Seen," and "He Leadeth Me." These young men will also sing with the young women's quartet of the church, composed of Lucille Johnson, Eleanor Carruth, Marjorie Gillis and Waltine West, in singing "Ivory Palaces, "When they Ring Those Golden Bells," and "The Awakening Chorus."

As solos, Lucille Johnson will sing, "Ave Maria", and Billy Hutchinson will sing "I Had a Little Talk With the Lord." Miss Wanda Gordon will serve as pianist for the service. The pastor, Rev. Russell G. West, will preach on the subject, "Looking at Life's Last Hour."

There will be no public worship in the evening. Instead there will be a special supper and program at 7:30 for men only, sponsored by the Men's Work organization of the church, of which Archie L. Patrick is president.

Church Women To Be Given Scholarships

The National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis (120 Broadway, New York 5, N. Y.) calls attention of young church women to the need for 5,000 trained physical therapists for the treatment of orthopedic conditions, such as arthritis, tuberculosis of the bone, injuries affecting motion and infantile paralysis. The foundation announces scholarships available for qualified persons in its attempt to meet the growing call for trained workers. Graduate nurses, and persons with degrees in physical education or in biology are qualified to apply for the scholarships.

When the general convention of the Protestant Episcopal church meets in 1946, it will have before it for action a recommendation of the denomination's National Council that the church law be amended so as to make possible the ordination of certain women lay readers who now "read services" at missions and isolated places. The council points out that such licensing would "give further control and dignity to this work."

Miss Hsia Chih-jung, a graduate of Ginling college for women—a Christian institution founded by American women missionaries, and now "in exile" in Chengtu (from Foochow)—was the only woman among nineteen Chinese scientists recently given awards and cash prizes by the ministry of education for their contributions to science and technology. Miss Hsia's contribution was a formula for the processing of Chinese vegetable oil so that it may be used as a superheated cylinder lubrication and also as fuel for steam, gasoline, and Diessel engines. It has made it possible for buses to be run on available native vegetable products.

The Womens Society of Christian Service—organized in local congregations of the Methodist church not only in America but in Europe, Asia, Africa, and South America—is said to be "the largest women's club in the world." According to Mrs. Eloise A. Woolever, executive secretary, 772 new units were organized last year, and 63,680 new members were enrolled. This makes a total of 26,962 societies having a membership of 1,201,793 women. The activities of the societies include home and foreign missions; influence on public opinion; and benevolence and service in the local communities.

Commerce Solicitor Is Native of Texas

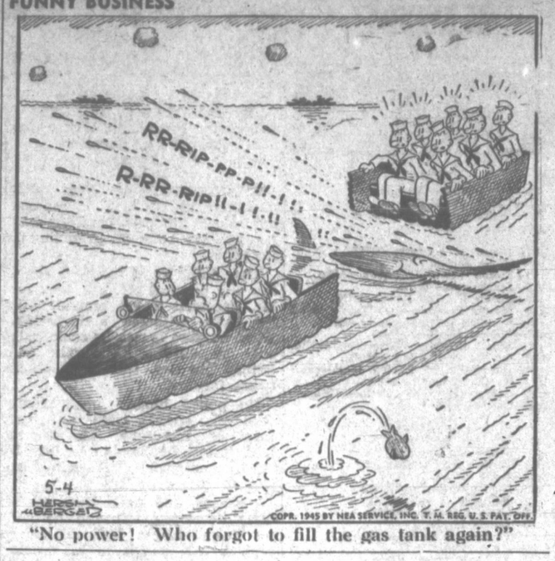

DALLAS, May 4—(AP)—Harold H. Young, nominated Thursday by President Truman as a department of commerce solicitor, is a native of Greenville, Texas.

He has been in Washington the past four years. An active Texas democrat, he worked for the election of the Roosevelt-Wallace ticket in 1940, and afterwards was named an assistant to Vice President Wallace.

Before going to Washington, he practiced law in Dallas.

Bonds Offered by Electric Company

NEW YORK, May 4—(AP)— The public yesterday was offered a new issue of $18,000,000 of Texas Electric Service company first mortgage 2¾ percent bonds by the First Boston corporation which heads a group of underwriters.

The bonds are due in 1975 and were offered at 101 percent and accrued interest.

The Texas Electric Service company operates in 36 counties in Northwest and West Texas. It is engaged in the generation, purchase and distribution of electricity.

The net proceeds from the new issue, together with funds from the sale of $2,500,000 of principal amount 2 1-3 percent 10-year serial notes, and cash from general funds of the company, are to be used to redeem $33,730,000 of principal amount first mortgage 5 percent bonds, due in 1960, at 103 percent.

Texas Electric is a subsidiary of the American Power and Light company and Electric Bond and Share company.

The American Power and Light company will make a cash contribution of $7,000,000 to the common stock equity in Texas Electric and surrender for cancellation 4,294,996 shares of the latter company's common stock without par value but having a stated value of $5 per share. The company will credit these contributions toward the creation of a capitol surplus of $28,474,982.

Gracie Reporting

Consolidated News Features

My goddness, I'll never get to understand those Japanese: Did you hear about the Tokyo broadcast which declared that our air raids were good for their morale? The theory was that the more private property was destroyed, the less property they would have left to worry about.

Gracie

I don't think that Japanese philosophy is going to work here, though. I tried it on George by suggesting that if he burned all his shirts he wouldn't have to worry about them not coming back from the laundry. He didn't say anything, but he keeps watching me suspiciously out of the corner of his eye.

The Jap reasoning so impressed me that I made up a little poem:

Every time we bomb the Jap,
Cries the pleased, slap happy chap:
"Honorable house has went—
So no more worry over rent!"

Dobie Criticizes Coke Stevenson On Two Issues

DALLAS, May 4—(AP)—J. Frank Dobie, University of Texas professor, author and folklorist, said Thursday in an interview with the Times-Herald:

"We will not have an open-minded administration until we have a change of governors."

Dobie did not elaborate on his statement about the present administration of Gov. Coke Stevenson in Texas.

He clarified his stand on two current controversal issues: The University of Texas board of regents dispute with the school's deposed president, Dr. Homer P. Rainey and the question of Negro education in Texas.

"The trouble with the regents is that they are 'anti-anything' liberal," he said.

"It is not just that the regents don't like Rainey. These men are reactionaries, and I do not believe the majority of the people of Texas are in favor of these reactionary forces which rule us.

"In the end the controversy will resolve itself into a political fight between the real democrats and reactionary plutocracy. In other words, a fight between democrats and the Texas regulars.

"It is an economic subject. The Texas regulars do not want to extend political democracy to economic democracy. They do not recognize evolution or revolution until after it comes."

Dobie said he was misquoted several weeks ago when a newspaper account of his speech before a Negro college placed him as favoring Negro attendance at the University of Texas.

"I do not advocate Negroes at the university at this time," Dobie said. "But personally I don't care if they do attend.

"I am for the voting privilege. I think Negroes or any other minority group should have this right, and if they get educational opportunities it will have to come through the vote."

Cattle Bloat Is Discussed Here

Feeding hay to cattle before turning them on pasture often has been recommended as a safeguard against bloat, G. G. Gibson, Texas A. and M. specialist who was in Pampa for demonstrations recently, reports.

Gibson, says cattle bloat when they fail to burp after eating their fill.

Experiments have shown that the rough, fibrous material in feed stimulates muscular activity in the walls of the stomach. Contraction of the walls serves to move the contents about so that unchewed portions of the feed can be raised to the mouth and ground into small pieces.

"The burp is outward evidence that the muscular contractions are working," Gibson explained. "Failure of the contractions result in bloat."

Feeding hay is a means of getting the necessary coarse material into an animal's stomach. Straw is not as effective, probably because cows do not like it as well as hay and therefore do not eat as much, Gibson says.

Cattle seldom bloat when they are on feeds high in fibre, he explains. It is possible to grind hay so fine that there is no scratchy action on the walls of the stomach to cause bloat. But when cattle on pasture fill up on the tender tops of good clover or alfalfa, which are low in fiber, bloat will occur.

There is less likelihood of bloat in pastures containing a fair amount of grass along with legumes. During experimental work, cases of bloat were noted which could not be explained on the basis of the amount of fiber, or scratchy material, in the feed.

"These exceptional cases," Gibson said, "were thought to have been caused by other factors affecting the activity of the paunch."

Moving of Grain To Be Speeded

WASHINGTON, May 4—(AP)—Increased grain shipment by boats from gulf ports and a new permit system for box car shipments east of the Mississippi may solve the midcontinent grain car shortage, an office of defense transportation official asserted.

Fred Keiser, associate director, said the ODT is doing everything possible to move wheat, some of which is piled on the ground, from the farms and country elevators before the next harvest.

The corn transportation situation also has worried him, he added, and he wants grain sorghums moved to prevent spoilage.

On April 1 there were 239,000,000 bushels of wheat stored on farms of the nation, 160,000,000 less than on January 1 and 20,000,000 less than a year ago.

With a large order from the war department and other government agencies, Keiser said he feared the stocks were "not enough."

Children Will Express Thanks

A wreath of flowers laid at the base of this marble monument Sunday afternoon, May 6, will be an expression of thanks from 7,066 children who have been treated for their handicaps at Texas Scottish Rite Hospital for Crippled Children, Dallas. The 18-foot statue on the hospital lawn is a memorial to the men and women who leave bequests in their wills to make possible the treatment of crippled children who come from throughout the state. The annual memorial services at 4:30 p. m. will be heard over a statewide radio broadcast. Governor Coke Stevenson will speak. Above, little Charles, patient from South Texas, stops at play with his nurse to admire the monument which bears the names of the benefactors.

House Members Get Allotment

WASHINGTON, May 4—(AP)—A tax-free $2500 annual incidental expense allowance for each member of the house was recommended Thursday by its appropriations committee.

The committee made its suggestion in a $50,722,147 appropriation bill to finance operations of the legislative establishment for the fiscal year starting July 1.

For many years, the committee report said, "members of the congress have been subjected to a myriad of expenses incidental to the efficient conduct of their respective offices," and the result has been a heavy drain on their finances "for matters not personal but directly incidental to public office."

Members of congress, senators and representatives alike—now receive $10,000 annually, in addition to allowances for clerical help and normal office expenditures.

The total in the bill was $2,845,260 over current year appropriations and $240,077 above budget estimates.

Military and lend-lease requirements for canned fish are 15 percent higher this year than last.

Gas Association Elects Amarilloan

DALLAS, May 4—(AP)—The board of directors of the Natural Gasoline association of America met here and elected officials.

J. H. Dunn of Amarillo was elected president and Paul M. Raigorodsky, Tulsa, Okla., H. A. Ells, Bartlesville, Okla., J. B. Atkins, Shreveport, La., and C. R. Williams, Houston, were elected vice-presidents.

Companies elected to serve on the board of directors for a two-year term are J. S. Abercrombie Company; Hagy, Harrington and Marsh; Sun Oil Company; Contintental Oil Company; Cities Service Oil Company; Barnsdall Oil Corporation; Lone Star Producing Company; Owens, Libby-Owens Gas department; Parade Company; Shamrock Oil and Gas Corporation; Shell Oil Company, Inc.; Union Oil Company of California, and Virginian Gasoline and Oil Company. The director-companies designate a representative to sit on the board.

The association gave the Hanlon award, highest honor in the natural gasoline industry and one of the ranking merit awards in the petroleum industry, to James E. Pew, director of the natural gas and natural gasoline division of the petroleum administration for war, Washington.

Black Market Versus Brighter Meals

I guess our town doesn't like rationing any better than other folks. But when a fellow went from door to door the other day, peddling butter, cheese, and bacon without points, he didn't find a single taker.

Ed Carey's missus, Sarah, summed it up. "I'd just be ashamed to have that butter on my table," Sarah says. "I'd a been rather have my family and guests put up with what I can serve honestly, than give 'em a treat from the Black Market."

These days, most people are agreed that a simple menu of unrationed foods and substitutes is a badge of honor . . . no apologies required!

And from where I sit, housewives can brighten limited meals with cheerful table decorations, sparkling cider or tangy ice-cold beer, or side dishes of homemade preserves and fruits and nuts. Those little touches can be mighty helpful to the appetite.

The Red army set up army bakeries for the people and put thousands of prisoners to work clearing the streets.

Dispatches said the reichstag still was smoking, with the roofs of the halls caved in but the skeleton of the cupola still standing and atop it the Red banner.

"I saw an old German digging in the ruins," said one of the Izvestia correspondents, "and asked what he was looking for. 'My family,' he replied. Fairly soon 10 persons came crawling from the ruins."

Mines and delayed action bombs still exploded.

Correspondents entering the underground headquarters of the German general staff said they found evidence that the officers left but one telegrapher to answer calls when they fled.

At the machines where he worked they found the ribbons bearing his last messages which told in a unique manner the story of the last hours of the capital. Some of them were:

"I have an urgent message for Oslo."

"Very sorry, we are not transmitting any more. You see in a few hours we shall be closing down."

"Is there nobody in Berlin who could bent sent with a dispatch?"

"No."

"My God, what is happening?"

"We've fought ourselves to a standstill."

"Here's an urgent message for Gen. Wiestel."

"I told you we are not accepting anything else."

"I should like to know what your situation is."

"Fine as ever. If you could see me now. I am sitting here in full uniform with my great coat and tommy-gun. They have all ratted. I am the last. Spirits below zero. X X X there is a noose around my neck."

"Have you got contact with Prague?"

"Idiot, of course not. I'm telling you I am the last. Ivan is here on my neck. I'm going to cut the wires. Lord, what we have come to. It's all over with Germany. Ivan is at the door. I'm cutting the wires."

Field Marshal Ewald von Kleist, who engineered the Germans' 1940 breakthrough in France, has surrendered to the U. S. Third army which was assaulting the largest and most formidable of the German pockets.

Linking up on a solid 65-mile front south of the Baltic sea, British and Russian troops wiped out the German pocket between Rostock and capitulated Hamburg, Germany's second city. The Germans in the north who had not surrendered were herded into the sea.

From almost every sector of the Russian front unit after unit of tired and beaten Germans surrendered to the Red army. The prisoner toll in Berlin stood at about 145,000 this morning, with hundreds of additional Germans giving up hourly.

Near the head of the Adriatic sea Yugoslav partisans completely occupied the big seaport of Fiume and the former Italian naval base of Pola at the tip of the Istrian peninsula, Marshal Tito announced.

in the plan worked out at Dumbarton Oaks last fall.

Paralleling the nine American objectives announced by Stassen yesterday for changes in the Dumbarton Oaks plan, the British were reported to have these six objectives in mind for amendments:

1. A preamble to the Dumbarton Oaks charter to set forth the high moral purposes and endorsement of human rights to which the world organization would be committed.

2. A provision to make certain that the organization has enough flexibility to handle any troublesome international situations which arise.

3. A provision to allow scope for regional action to maintain peace without impairing the prestige of the security council or weakening the Dumbarton Oaks principle that the security of all nations can best be maintained on a world-wide rather than a regional basis.

4. Elevation of the social and economic council to have equal importance with the security council.

5. A provision allowing a world organization to work out some rules whereby the so-called middle powers—like Australia, Canada and Brazil—would be assured of places on the security council in recognition of their military prestige.

6. A system of trusteeships for dependent territories which are considered international responsibilities.

The nine points of change which the United States proposed for the world organization charter cover guarantees of justice, conduct within international law, development of human rights, peaceful changes in world conditions, trusteeships, amending the charter itself as experience indicates, a modernized world court, inclusion in the charter of Atlantic Charter provisions, and a declaration of cultural objectives.

Hope for a reasonably early settlement of the dispute over reorganization of the Warsaw government of Poland continues, spurred along by reports that the Russians will be willing to confer with former Premier Mikolajczyk of the London Polish government.

In the background of current Big-Three discussions are American objections to the way in which the Soviet union set up a new government in Romania some months ago, and more recently, sponsored the creation of an Austrian government without consulting this country and Britain.

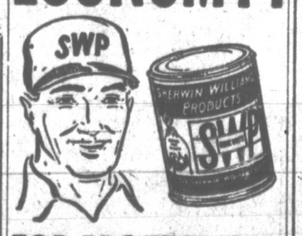

The sugar industry says there'll be no end to rationing before 1947. Reasons: Europe's needs are increasing, stocks are low and crop prospects are poor.*

Improvements

A fair association for the Top O' Texas is being organized now with the aim of providing an annual exhibition embracing the entire Pampa trade area.

Plans are under way for the improvement of the Pampa municipal airport, including the building of additional hangars, runways and other improvements to take care of the growing needs of aviation. Plans in this project are all on a tentative basis. Seven feeder line applications have been filed with the civil aeronautics board for permits to operate in this area.

A committee of economic development has been set up in Gray county and much work has been done regarding surveys.

An industrial survey of the Pampa area is now being compiled with the idea in mind of encouraging the industrial development in this area.

The junior chamber of commerce is this week sponsoring a clean-up campaign to make Pampa a cleaner and more beautiful city.

These are only the major progressive recent steps that serve to indicate that Pampa is already paving the way for post-war improvements and expansion.

The success of the Victory Garden campaign means whether there are enough fresh vegetables to go around this summer. . . . Crops that should be planted early are: peas, cabbage, lettuce, turnips, onions, early potatoes and such greens as kale and spinach.

Four British Carriers Now in Pacific War

GNAM, May 4—(AP)—U. S. Pacific fleet headquarters has disclosed that the British aircraft carriers Indomitable, Indefatigable and Victorious, as well as the Illustrious, are operating in the Pacific.

The announcement said that the first three, all 23,000 tons displacement, participated in British Pacific fleet attacks on the Ryukyu islands in connection with the American invasion of Okinawa.

court, effective immediately. No replacement was announced.

Dudley served through Friday as head of the police department, and Louie Allen, who was appointed temporary chief of police, took over the duties Saturday.

Only two patrolmen remain on the force, the others all announcing their resignations along with Dudley. Neither of the desk sergeants resigned. Those leaving with Dudley were Harry Hubbard, who has been a patrolman here one year; Jim Conner, who has served the department two years, Forrest Ritter, another two-year man; and Homer Doggett, re-employed only last month.

Staying are Louie Allen, Patrolman J. O. Dumas and Desk Sergeants Marian Parks and Aubrey Jones.

Dudley emphasized that he had advised all of the officers against resigning with him.

"I don't want any of them to quit on my account," he declared. "I don't do business that way."

The former chief of police has acted in that capacity here since Jan. 1, 1942, when he was appointed by the commission of Mayor Fred Thompson, H. C. Wilson and George Cree. He had been a patrolman since July 6, 1936, and has lived in Pampa since 1933.

McGrew, who is retired from the Magnolia Pipeline department, became municipal judge in 1939. He had retired from his regular occupation the previous year, after 40 years' service with the Standard Oil Co. and its subsidiaries. He was lived in Pampa since 1928, and owns his hom at 509 Magnolia as well as other preporty on Browning street. His plans are to remain in Pampa.

Following is the statement McGrew issued following his resignation:

"I have been in close contact with the law enforcement bodies of the Panhandle and adjacent counties, from the FBI down; and I have found during my connection with the city that Mr. Dudley is one of the most efficient officers that I have ever had the pleasure of working with.

"He had a fine organization built up, even though there was a great manpower shortage of men who would make good law enforcement officers.

"In tendering my resignation to the city manager, I was following an agreement made with Mr. deCordova before I went back to work with the city after by recent leave of absence—that I would tender my resignation at any time Mr. Dudley left the force or was replaced.

"I went to work for the city in 1939, when Ed Carr was mayor and Lynn Boyd and D W. Osborne were city commissioners. I continued through their administration and was reappointed judge when Mayor Fred Tompson, George Cree and H. C. Wilson were commissioners. I hope that the city will still be able to carry on and enjoy the protection derived from an efficient and progressive force."

CHARLES P. SLOAN

City Manager deCordova reported that emergency volunteer officers have been obtained, and that law enforcement will continue unhindered.

Mayor Farris Oden issued the following statement, prior to McGrew's resignation:

"We appreciate the service that has been given this community in the past by Ray Dudley. The commission has no intention of now relaxing Pampa's law enforcement. We have asked Louie Allen to serve as emergency chief until a successor to Mr. Dudley can be secured."

Dudley had appeared before the commission last week, when he says the "criticism" he refers to in his resignation was at its height. He indicated that the objections were based on what was termed "over-enforcement."

Dudley stated in an interview that Commissioner Cox had recently told him that "the Pampa police department is too progressive for the size town."

Cox later told the reporter that he did not believe he had used the word "progressive" in talking to Dudley, but that he may have said "aggressive." He further explained that the statement was made in answer to a question from the police chief concerning the nature of complaints and that he was quoting the opinion of some other citizens and not stating his own beliefs.

Commissioner Cox's authorized statement, which was also made before McGrew had tendered his resignation, follows:

"I still feel as I did when I last spoke to Ray—that he is a good officer and has done a good job with the force. I had not expected his resignation at this time. The commission intends to continue its policy of strict law enforcement."

Commissioner Williams, when asked for a statement yesterday afternoon, said that he had not been informed of Dudley's actual resignation. But he said he understood the matter had arisen from the chief of police's draft status.

"I understand that when the matter of a deferment came up, Ray said that he did not want another deferment but that he wanted to be placed in 1-A," Williams said.

A reporter was informed yesterday morning, by one of the desk sergeants at the police station, that he will no longer be shown the police records and that "from now on you will have to get your police information from the city manager or chief of police."

Police records everywhere are open to the public for inspection.

One spokesman reported that the "publicity the department has been getting in the newspaper" was included in the criticism. The publicity, it was said, had tended to "make the public conscious of 'over-enforcement'."

Dudley said he had no definite plans for the future.

V-E Prayer Services Are To Be Offered

Pampa churches will observe services of thanksgiving today because of the presumed nearness of V-E day, the Rev. Douglas Carver, president of the Pampa Ministerial Alliance, said yesterday.

Rev. Carver said that if today was not V-E day, prayers would be asked in all churches for its speedy arrival.

He urged all Pampans to attend some church, regardless of faith.

Amazing Pep For Men 40, 60 or More

If life apparently has lost its zest, you again may be able to enjoy life as you did in your youth. If added years have slowed down your vim, vitality and youthful pleasures, here is an inexpensive method that may change your whole outlook on life. Just ask your druggist for Casella stimulating tablets (either 48 or 200, the 200 size costs much less per dose). Take as directed on label and feel the thrill of living again. Don't feel old and worn out at 40, 60 or more. Take these tablets regularly until you feel that you have regained the pleasure of living you once enjoyed. Why be discouraged? Why not try Casella tablets and regain the verve and zest of a much younger man? Women too, will find Casella tablets beneficial.

Policy Endorsed On Philippines

WASHINGTON, May 5—(AP)—President Truman today endorsed the Philippine independence policy as laid down by the late President Roosevelt and named a committee of nine to accompany Sen. Tydings (D-Md) on a special mission to Manila to examine conditions there and report to him.

The chief executive in a formal statement expressed the hope that he would be able to accept the invitation of President Osmena to visit Manila at the inauguration of the Philippine republic.

As a result of discussions he has had with Osmena, Mr. Truman said he is "prepared to endorse and carry through to their conclusion the policies laid down by President Roosevelt respecting the islands and the independence of the Filipino people."

Mr. Roosevelt at a news conference April 5, a week before his death at Warm Springs, Ga., said he hoped to proclaim full independence for the islands this fall, when he expected all organized Japanese resistance will have ended in the islands. Legislation enacted last June authorized the President to grant independence sooner than the statutory date of July 4, 1946, when normal constitutional government was restored.

On Predictions

What this world needs today, it seems to us, is more people like Dr. Charles G. Abbot—or at least more people with Mr. Abbot's confident spirit.

Dr. Abbot is a 73-year-old astrophysicist who for many years has been observing the sun's variations of temperature and the earth's variations of weather, and noting what he claims is a cause-and-effect relationship between the two. As a result, he says that weather can be forecast far in advance, and that we can be a lot safer, richer, and happier by taking that into account.

For example, he predicts severe droughts in the Northwest United States in 1975 and 2020. He says we'll have some funny weather this year (as if we hadn't already), and he sees no reason why people shouldn't pick a sunny day for weddings or picnics months in advance.

"I am a bold man to try to change the fashion in thinking about the weather," Dr. Abbot admits. "But some day my theories will be accepted, and then farmers won't have their crops ruined and people will enjoy life more."

A group of the world's citizens will be meeting shortly in San Francisco in an endeavor to match in the world of politics what Dr. Abbot has attempted in the world of nature. It will not be their purpose to deny the capricious climatology of individual and national emotions, but to try to foresee their changes and, by wise preparation, render them harmless.

Through most of history men have deplored the evils of war without denying war's inevitability. Twenty-five years ago most of the world's nations banded together and, like King Canute, forbade the tide of war to advance. Yet as they did so they sat like Canute and stared in impotent fascination as the rising waters lapped about their feet.

Perhaps when the nations meet again they might be wise to adopt Dr. Abbot's attitude, rather than King Canute's. The world does not expect the nations' delegates to deny that storms will ever rise again in the breasts of peoples and of governments. It does expect them to evolve a way of foreseeing them in time to prevent another tempest such as that which spreads death and destruction throughout the world today.

The men and women of the San Francisco conference will have to match Dr. Abbot's boldness in trying to change the fashion in thinking about war. But if they can match Dr. Abbot's promise for the future of their theories, they will have done well indeed.

Mankind would certainly welcome a political climate in which "farmers won't have their crops ruined and people will enjoy life more."

$50,000,000 FREE LUNCHES

(Ed Erard in the Kingsville (Texas) Record)

The House of Misrepresentatives tied 88 to 88 on a vote to cut out free Federal lunches for starving American school children recently, and for a minute it looked like all kinds born prior to Pearl Harbor were going to have to get used to mammy-cooked, pappy-paid grub.

But providence, on a March wind, always provides a "Man of the Hour." This time, White of Idaho charged out of the cloak room like Blood and Guts crossing the Rhine, and scattered fifty million dollars worth of free lunch from LaGuardia's One-o'clock-Play-Town to Henry Kaiser's Round-the-Clock-Work-Town.

Fifty million dollars ain't hay, but the boy from the Golden West raked it up like Maud Miller with a storm in the offing.

This country has a youth problem with a 13-year-old top level that's been raised on government pap and Eleanor's yap. If we ever let them get out of the free lunch pasture and nibble in the fields of free enterprise, they'll start singing "Don't Fence Me In." Then who's going to form a combination with the Solid South to keep the rascals in?

P.S. The way the folks of the Smith and Wesson Line have been getting their States Rights and Social Equality ideas booted around, I am wondering if Washington isn't thinking of it as the "Sordid South."

Common Ground

By B. C. BOILER

"Men loved darkness rather than light, because their deeds were evil."

And This Is an Educated Nation!

An Associated Press dispatch reports that the present subsidy to meat producers is $560,000,000 a year. That is four dollars a year for every man, woman and child in the United States.

We are doing this while we have drafted soldiers and made them work for a fraction of their true value, while we have permitted those who stayed at home to combine and strike and get higher wages than they ever got before in their lives, and we are by law relieving them of even paying the full cost of their food.

Instead we will add this part of the bill to the national debt and will ask the soldiers when they come back to help pay for the meat the civilians used. And yet we call ourselves an educated nation!

This is a result of the belief that the state, that is local school districts, can educate its people. It can no more educate its people than a man can lift himself by his own bootstraps.

But subsidies like this and government planning and bureaucracy along with the loss of our freedom are only the natural fruits of the practices in every community that the parent has no responsibility to support and educate his children. When people in each community believe this, it is only natural for them to believe that the man who consumes meat need not pay its full cost.

It is a delusion and a snare to call this an educated people, let alone a Christian people, when we are so stupid or so wicked as to add to our national debt a large part of the food bill of the civilians.

Thanks, Reverend

I have a letter from a minister which gives me some hope. I quote from this letter:

"Speaking Methodistically, is there time for a word of testimony? I hope so for I desire to make a confession. I am a changed man. From being a life-long protectionist, I have been converted into a free trader! And I have the editorials of Common Ground and their author to thank for this new life that is mine."

Certainly every preacher in the land should be for free trade. If the preachers really understood many of the statements made by Jesus, they would understand that free trade not only pays spiritually but materially. Instead of lowering the standard of living of the American people, as those who have not carefully studied the subject so often erroneously think, it would raise the standard of living of all the people in America.

It is hard to conceive how any man could read the great thinkers of the ages, which of course includes the saying of Jesus, and still believe that one group of people can improve their lot by protective tariff.

The Nation's Press

PAGING THE CHIMNEY-SWEEP

(Fort Wayne News Sentinel)

We have just come across a little item here which, with spring housecleaning coming on, and all that, makes us shudder, as the sailor would say, from stem to stern.

Most of our shudders are for the men of the Nation who, on this fateful day which we have in mind, will be unable to sneak out the back door with their golf sticks or fishing rods, for a day's vacation.

What has happened is that there is a shortage of "carbon black," and carbon black is a very necessary item in the manufacture of tires.

In case you never heard of carbon black, it fails upon us to explain that carbon black is just a flossy scientific name for ordinary soot; the same smudgy, maddening substance which women in these parts spend half their lives brushing off window sills and washing out of their curtains.

Reading about carbon black, alias common soot, we have discovered astounding things. Such as, for instance, a speck of this soot the size of a pin head may contain a thousand billion basic particles. That is a lot of particles, in anybody's language—even basic English. Also, soot is almost as valuable as diamonds, which gives you an idea of how much money your wife is wiping off the window sills every day.

And think of the fortune which goes up the flue—no double entendre intended there—when you have the chimney swabbed out, come spring!

This news item also says that if all the particles from a pound of carbon black were flattened out and laid end to end and side by side, they would cover 10 acres. That isn't so hard to believe, for anyone who has lived in Indiana during the coal-burning season. The soot from one chimney will practically cover the earth.

But to get back to the point, it seems that carbon black is very important in tire manufacturing, because it makes a tire worth 30,000 miles or more, whereas the best the old-timers used to get was around two or three thousand. And now there is a severe shortage of carbon black, a disturbing factor of course, because it cuts down the production of tires.

What has given us the galloping shudders is this simple thought: We have been prevailed on to save aluminum, brass, old iron, old rags, old paper, old tin cans and old rubber, and assorted other items, to help alleviate shortages. Now there is a shortage of soot.

Do you suppose . . . could it be possible . . . ? No! Heaven forefend! Not that! They can't do that to us! . . .

Hey, boy! Page Tom, the Chimney Sweep. We are taking the next train to Florida!

NEWS BEHIND THE NEWS
The National Whirligig

By RAY TUCKER

HILLMAN—President Harry S. Truman's senatorial record and statements warrant the belief that he will not permit any labor union or faction to dictate the government's policies in this field. He always voted for measures advancing the workingman's status, but he played no favorites in managing the senate special committee to investigate the national defense program.

Labor leaders' study of his attitude inclines them to believe that there should be a shake-up in the ranks of their top men, especially in the congress of industrial organizations. It is thought that Sidney Hillman will eventually retire from that body, or at least slide into the background. On several occasions the new chief executive indicated that he did not approve Mr. Hillman's efforts to set himself up as a politico-labor boss.

Should a reversal of White House policy toward the C. I. O. and its ballot-box affiliate, the P. A. C., force the union executive into gradual retirement from public affairs, it would not be the first time that Mr. Truman clipped the New Yorker's wings. It is generally forgotten, but Sidney was forced to step out as co-chairman of the old office of production management because of sensational revelations before the Truman committee.

BLOCKED—The Truman investigators, while looking into the problem of providing living space for munitions plants workers in the congested Detroit area, discovered that the construction of three hundred prefabricated homes had been delayed for many months because of Mr. Hillman's interference. Employers and employes agreed that the deplorable housing conditions had cut down production of vital planes and tanks, and this gave the committee jurisdiction in the matter.

The Currier Lumber company of Detroit had submitted the low bid to the federal works agency, which had the awarding of the contract. The firm's figures meant that each dwelling could be built for six hundred dollars less than if the job were given to another company, a Hillman favorite. The streamlined building methods promised speedy completion. But Mr. Hillman, exerting official and unofficial influence, forced John M. Carmody, then federal works administrator, to delay action.

At that time the C. I. O.-er had negotiated a construction stabilization agreement affecting hours, rates and settlement of disputes with the American federation of labor, although he was then vice president of the C. I. O. It was charged that he blocked the award because the Currier work would have been performed by United Construction workers, who owed allegiance to a White House enemy, John L. Lewis.

TRUMAN—Mr. Hillman, however, told the committee that he intervened because certain uncontrollable and irresponsible elements of the A. F. of L.'s building trades would have resorted to violence if the contract had fallen to their rivals. Feeling between the unions ran high because the Currier people, prisoners in the prefabrication field, had signed a hard-and-fast agreement with the Lewis group.

"I cannot codemn Mr. Hillman's position too strongly," said the then Senator Truman. "The United States does not fear trouble from any source; and, if trouble is threatened, the United States is able to protect itself."

Many of the new President's friends regard this forthright declaration with its reflection of his deep feeling for the greatness, power and dignity of the United States, as the best key to his foreign and domestic policies.

"If Mr. Hillman cannot or will not protect the interests of the United States," he continued, "I am in favor of replacing him with someone who can and will—."

Two months later the object of the senator's wrath was ousted.

BOSS—In reporting the matter to the senate, Mr. Truman explained his stand:

"It is not what we owe to Mr. Currier, but to the people of this country. If we can't let this contract to the lowest bidder, and to a man employing union labor at that, then I don't know what this country is coming to."

Mr. Truman listened silently, and apparently approvingly, when Senator Ralph O. Brewster of Maine highlighted the daminant role which one segment of labor had been permitted to attain at that time. In quizzing Mr. Hillman about his part in the Currier affair, the "down easter" concluded:

"I would say, Mr. Hillman, that we have a labor government represented by you."

The C. I. O. boss did not dissent, but one newspaper reported that he "gave vent to a nervous chuckle."

MOURNING— Washington has buzzed with arguments over the proper position of the flag at half-staff. War department regulations are extremely liberal on this point.

Orthodox position is midway between the top of the pole and the ground. If local conditions prevent such a hanging, any point below the truck is regarded as satisfactory. A place one flag-width down from the peak is described as "graceful," and sticklers for military etiquette prefer that. The following regulation is mandatory: In raising and lowering the banner, it should first be hoisted to the top each time. And the phrase is "half-staff." Half-mast applies to flags on ships.

Plauen was the first nazi party center in Saxony.

Bunny was sponging makeup on June Haver's stomach and touching up Grable's legs on the set of "The Dolly Sisters." Betty and June were wearing scanty dancing costumes and there was a lot of beautiful scenery for Bunny to cover.

"What the wardrobe department doesn't hide," Bunny said, "I cover with makeup." And for a film-usical like "The Dolly Sisters," she confessed, the wardrobe department doesn't hide much.

Bunny has been covering the glamour front in Hollywood for nine years. She started making up faces and gradually worked her way down to become a success. Now she can shut her eyes, she said, and identify most of the movie queens by their curves. Bunny and her sponge really get around.

Betty was working hard on a dance routine with a sprained ankle. There was a pained expression on her face as she went through the rehearsals and an assistant director followed her around with a chair in which she collapsed during rest periods.

ENTER TRUMPETER

On another stage, Harry James was making movies the easy way.

He and Director Gregory Ratoff were sitting off-stage, talking, when a music department man said they needed a sound track of James playing "I Wish I Knew." His orchestra already had recorded the number—without James' trumpet.

The sound department rolled up a mike to James' chair.

A valet handed him his trumpet.

James stood up and played the trumpet part and then sat down, handing the trumpet back to his valet.

James plays his first real acting rôle in "Kitten" and Ratoff said he was absolutely "sanshational".

"Mah frien', thees James fellows, he ees but terriffic," Ratoff said. Then he told about James' first big scene in the picture. There was a lot of business and dialogue, but James was letter-perfect. Ratoff rushed up to congratulate him.

"Sanshational — sanshational," Ratoff beamed. "A deeficult scene and you do eet in one take."

James listened with a dead pan, then said:

"Gregory—to play the trumpet is difficult."

AUREEN MOHARA

Ratoff, as usual, is the best copy on the set. Working with Maureen O'Hara, he always addresses her as "Miss Mohara".

On Ratoff's birthday, Producer Jessel dressed up as a Russian and presented him with a cake as the James orchestra played the Russian national anthem. On the cake was a photograph of Stalin and Ratoff with the words, "From Joe to Gregory". Darryl Zanuck came down to the set and cut the cake with his cane, then said:

"This party will be charged to 'The Dolly Sisters.'"

WEED 'EM AND WEEP

BISMARCK, N. D., May 5—(AP)—It was a mild evening; victory gardeners were out in full force—and so was Bismarck's state guard unit—practicing the art of tossing gas grenades.

A gentle spring breeze wafted the gas from the maneuvers area into a residential area—and then quit blowing.

The gardeners wept. Tears splashed gently upon tender budding sprouts.

ROGER BABSON:

Noted Economist Urges People To Work Harder

BABSON PARK, Mass., May 4.—Mark Twain would say that money is something like the weather,—everyone talks about it; but no one does anything about it. Everyone wants money; only to exchange it for something else. Hence, few do anything to protect it.

WHAT IS MONEY?

The simple fact is that money of itself is no good. Certainly, this is true of paper money which has no use whatsoever except as a medium of exchange. Money is good only for what it can buy in food, clothing, shelter, education and happyiness. Yet, it is very difficult to interest people in these five important things.

Labor leaders talk some about working conditions; but 90 percent of this talk is about wages. They almost never discuss what wages will buy. Yet, while they get a 10 percent wage increase, they lead their union members to adopt some policy which increases prices 15 percent. Hence, in the end although the workers get 10 percent more money, they really get 15 percent less in food, clothing and shelter.

MOST PEOPLE ARE BLIND

Labor leaders are not the only ones to mislead the people by talking money, money, money. Bankers, brokers and others who sell securities are blind also. They say, "Give me your money to invest and I will make more money for you". So you let them invest for you. The stock you buy goes up in price or the dividend is increased and you have "made money". But are you any better off? No.! During the time you "made money", the cost of living went up more.

But then come along the "smart boys" in Washington who are also blind and say: "Leave it to us. We'll fix prices right where they are, so that when you get more money you can take this money to the stores and get more goods. Just leave it to us". Well, we have left it to them and they fixed the price of butter, sugar, canned goods and other foodstuffs. But with what results? We can't get any!

WHY WE CAN'T GET GOODS

These Washington boys give as an excuse that these things are going to the army. Of course the army is getting foodstuiffs, but are these soldiers getting any more than if they were home? How about women's stockings? Before the war you could get good stockings for $1 at which the price was "fixed". Now you go to the store to get these same stockings and the clerk says: "Sorry, but we haven't got any of those stockings". She offers you only a new brand, the price of which hasn't yet been "fixed".

It is easy enough to "fix" the price of some one grade of stockings, cotton dresses or handbags; but just as soon as the smart boys do this the manufacturers stop making that grade and get out another grade, or shape or color, the price of which has not yet been "fixed". "All right" you say, "then fix the price of every grade, shape and color". Well—dear reader—if you did this then the manufacturers would stop making them all. Under similar conditions farmers would stop raising food. If they must pay more wages, they must in some way get more money for their goods or else quit.

COST OF LIVING

However, the purpose of this article is not to criticize my Washington friends. They are doing the best they can. Only they should honestly tell you that while they can fix prices, they cannot fix both the cost of living and the standard of living. So long as people think only of money, one of these goes down just as sure as the other goes up. Jesus knew this when He told the world 2,000 years ago that the "love of money is the root of all evil".

"Well, what is the answer?" you ask. The answer is that we should worship money less and work harder. There is only one way to get more food, clothing and shelter. That is by raising more vegetables in your back yard, making more of your own clothes and building more houses. Our standard of living will never permanently be raised by getting more money. It will be raised only by thinking harder and working harder. I also get this answer from the Bible. Jesus said, "Give good measure". Paul said, "Unless a man work he shall not eat". It is okay for everyone to have a higher standard of living and better working conditions; but it is very foolish to have money which gives neither.

WAR TODAY

By DeWITT MacKENZIE
Associated Press War Analyst

V-E day, despite the fact that it is arriving as an anti-climax, still represents one of the most important moments in the lives of millions of folk.

It means the end of casualties which have continued even in the closing stages of hostilities. It brings countless thousands of homes closer to the glad time when their boys will come back.

V-E day indeed means great thanksgiving and rejoicing — and who would try to dampen that? The consensus of America seems to be, however, that the occasion shouldn't be one of unrestricted celebartion, because of the unfinished tasks before us.

It's well that we recognize our work isn't done, but there seems to be a tendency to underestimate its extent. To many people, the sole remaining job is that of completing the defeat of Japan — already so handsomely begun—and that's a mistaken idea which should be put right.

Europe is torn by an unprecedented destruction of human life and property. Its economic structure has been shattered. Much of it is suffering real hunger.

The whole set-up of balance of power as we knew it has been knocked into a cocked hat. Germany and Italy have disappeared as great powers. France is just beginning to recover. Russia is emerging as the dominant power of the Eastern Hemisphere.

Britain has ceased to be the policeman of Europe.

These volcanic changes have produced conditions which are altering the political complexion of much of the continent. Country after country, in its effort to find some remedy for its ills, is clutching at straws in endeavoring to establish a government which will meet the new situation. The swing is heavily to the left, and much of it is communistic. In some countries this search has been accompanied by violence.

Thus when we have V-E day behind us we must plunge immediately into an even greater work than winning the war—and that will be the winning of the peace. We shall have to maintain order under conditions which invite trouble. We must help rehabilitate a Europe which is struggling with hunger and other privations, while its political houses are rocking.

So They Say

We've found that both the big (black market) operators and the small ones have been a little careless about filling their income tax returns. They've proven a very fertile field for our work.
—Treasury Secretary Henry Morgenthau.

It is inevitable that our losses in the Pacific will go up as we swing heavier blows at Japan.
—Assistant Secretary of War John J. McCloy.

Yesterday Goebbels assured us we have not lost the war. Ach, what a psychopathic case!
—Berliner behind Russian lines.

We could have it all over by May 20 or June 1 in Europe if we wanted to run our men into those dangerous pockets.
—Rep. J. Buell Snyder (D) of Pennsylvania, chairman Sub-committee on War Department Appropriations.

THE AMERICAN HOUSE
By Virginia Chase

XII

AS the summer passed, Mr. Cutter ate more, slept more, and worked less. Any hour of the day you might find him dozing on his stool, his face supported by his two white hands. If you went to tell him that the water was low, he would pick up his pen and nod with a weary, harassed look as if to say he would come when he could ever get clear of what he was doing. Half an hour later, when you went again, you couldn't find him.

He began to get irritable. One of my favorite pastimes was poring over the hotel register, especially its early pages.

I liked to finger the copper paper weight while I read. Mr. Cutter allowed me to take both that and the register less and less willingly. Often after no more than 10 minutes he began to tap on his desk and beckon. When I put them back, he would straighten them with exaggerated care and then would return to his nap or his circles.

I used to complain a good deal about him. "He's crabby," I said, vehemently. "And Papa is always just so nice to him."

"Your father is nice to everyone," my mother reproved me.

But she must have noticed, as I did, that my father was especially nice to Mr. Cutter. Every noon he took the paper to him, and every evening he sat with him for a time in the office, though they seldom talked.

"Mama," Sue said one day, looking puzzled. "Is Mr. Cutter Ada's fellow?"

"Of course not," my mother answered.

"She likes him anyway," Sue argued.

* * *

THIS was getting more and more apparent to us all. She had made him a beaded napkin ring, and then, undaunted by his indifference, a sweet-grass basket for his handkerchiefs.

"All of us like him," my mother said, being very careful.

"I don't," Julia put in.

"But Ada shows it," Sue persisted. "She ought not to do that, ought she, Mama?"

"It isn't up to us to pass judgment," my mother said. "Of course, if it were one of you girls. . . ."

My cheeks warmed. I showed how I liked Benjamin. I showed it all the time. But Benjamin—whose eyes always went wandering off after Ada—didn't notice. He didn't notice anything any more. He was growing very glum. Once he had done his pumping after supper while Ada was washing the dishes, and they had had a great time plaguing each other.

"You're slower than cold molasses," Ada would taunt.

"Slow, am I?" He would go faster and faster, his big muscles bulging. "A slow-poke, am I?" His face would get red and his breath come hard. Sometimes he wouldn't stop until the water came bubbling from the overflow in the sink. After that he would sit down on the stairs, blocking her way when she started up.

"You let me by, Mister."

"Did you say something?" he would ask, seizing her wrists. "I don't hear very good tonight."

But Ada had no time for him now. Every spare minute went in making things for Mr. Cutter or just sitting on the steps outside of the office.

Benjamin began to do his pumping in the morning. He didn't have a thing to say to Mr. Cutter. If there was a message that had to go to the office, he sent it by Boshy. Day after day he would drive out alone in a carriage, not even seeing me waiting—hoping—on the steps.

MRS. GUPTILL kept her eye on everything Mr. Cutter did, ready to find fault. It wasn't just that he was lazy, she said. He was wasteful, too. He left the office inkwell open. At meals he reordered, then neglected to clean his plate. Moreover, he was using too much kerosene. Every morning Ada brought his lamp down, bone dry. All of the other lamps were more than half full. Such extravagance! He must be burning it all night, she said.

Suddenly one day she noticed something. The lamp was bone dry, but the wick barely needed trimming. It didn't make sense. Something funny was going on, she decided.

She lit into Ada, demanding an explanation. Ada flared right back. Let people mind their own business. . . .

This had gone far enough, my mother decided.

That night she spoke to my father about it. "Mr. Cutter is turning this place upside down," she said, "and I think you should discharge him."

"It isn't his fault, is it?" my father demanded.

"Maybe not, directly," my mother granted. "But he is the disturbing influence. Besides, we haven't enough business to warrant his staying."

"Oh, I don't know about that," my father said, picking up his paper. He never liked to face unpleasant facts.

"I know," my mother said. She had gone through a lot that summer, and her patience was getting sorely tried. "He's no earthly good, anyway, and it's costing us money to keep him. I'm going to insist that you send him back." My mother seldom took a real stand.

There was a long, strained silence.

My father got up and folded his paper. "I can't send him back," he said quietly. "I couldn't even if I made up my mind to it."

He went out and closed the door.

Peter Edson's Column:

CHARTER WILL BE NO ONE MAN'S WORK

By PETER EDSON
NEA Service Staff Correspondent

SAN FRANCISCO. — One thing different about this United Nations charter being written at San Francisco is that no one Thomas Jefferson or James Madison is going to be able to take all the bows when the Muses of history put in a call for "author! author!"

Instead, every one of the 250 delegates and a lot of their 1100-odd advisers and experts may be able to go home and tell the family in all honesty, "This deathless prose sentence was written by papa!" or "Observe the noble comma which I placed between the clauses of this most important subparagraph."

First week of the conference, as you may have noted with some boredom, has given over to oratory in which heads of the 46 nations' delegations got keynote speeches off their chests. All were no doubt important, but pretty middling dull by the time they got through second or third translation.

There was applause from time to time, as some national spellbinder restated a platitude, but no ovations and no one got lifted out of his plush seat in wild acclaim over the inspiring thoughts or beautiful phrases of any speaker. Oratory at this clam-bake is pretty dead, which is probably just as well, for it's the substance and not the flourishes that will be most enduring and now the more than 1300 Joe Doakes co-authors have to start producing. Dumbarton Oaks proposals have to be completely rewritten.

Deadline for representatives of the 46 nations to submit their ideas for amending the Dumbarton document is Friday. In other words, the noble sentiments expressed by the orators will have to be reduced to writing and submitted to the general secretary of the conference, young Mr. Alger Hiss. The complete file of suggested changes may fill more than 1000 pages.

All these proposed amendments won't be considered by the full conference. There will be a lot of duplication. First job of the secretary general will be to take the several hundred proposed amendments and classify them according to four main divisions of subject matter.

First those dealing with the general provisions of the charter—preamble, and purposes, membership and general secretariat. Second, those dealing with the general assembly—its structure and its political, economic and trusteeship functions. Third, those dealing with the economic council—its structure and its functions in making peaceful settlements, enforcing decisions and handling regional security arrangements. Fourth, those dealing with the judicial organization—the world court and international law.

The full San Francisco conference has been split up into four commissions, each of which will be responsible for the drafting of one of the four main parts of the charter, as outlined above. All the proposed amendments will therefore be referred by the secretary general to the appropriate commission. The commissions will meet in open session.

But the four commissions, in turn, are divided into 12 technical committees, two for the first and fourth commissions, four for the second and third commission. Each of the four commissions will therefore take all the proposed amendments referred to it by the secretary general and sub-divide them by technical committee. Every nation gets to name its own members on any commission or committee.

Actual work of drafting the United Nations charter, section by section will be done in secret meetings of the 12 technical committees. As each committee polishes off its section—combining, incorporating or throwing out the proposed amendments referred to it, and drafting them on the matching Dumbarton Oaks suggestions—that section will be reported back to the commission. Each of the commissions may approve the drafts of its technical committees or send them back for rewriting.

When each of the four commissions has completed the drafting of its part of the charter, That part will be reported out to the full conference, which will meet in open, plenary session to consider it. Any section, sub-section, article, sentence, clause, phrase, word or punctuation mark may be fought over and changed in plenary session.

But when the conference finally agrees on a draft of the charter that will be it—and the delegates can go back where they came from to try it out on the home folks.

Market Briefs

WALL STREET

NEW YORK, May 5—(AP)—Selective strength continued to buoy today's stock market as the approach of all-out victory in Europe inspired further investment demand for issues of companies that stand to prosper with the return of normal operations.

Dealings were fast at intervals after the opening and, while profit taking on the lengthy drive kept most advances in a fractional range, numerous 8-year highs were in evidence near the close. Scattered leaders slipped into the minus column toward the close. Scattered leaders slipped toward the close. Turnover of around 1,000,000 shares was one of the largest for a short session this year.

Rails had the benefit of the passage of a bill in the house for abolition of the special "land grant" rates on federal traffic.

Ahead the greater part of the proceedings were Great Northern, Southern Pacific, Hudson Motors, Certain-Teed, Grumman Aircraft, Hupp Motors, American Can, American Radiator, U. S. Steel, Texas Pacific Land Trust, Goodyear, Montgomery Ward, Sears Roebuck, J. I. Case, Western Union "A", American Smelting, Anaconda, Consolidated Edison and Texas Co.

Occasional stumblers included Bethlehem, Standard Oil (NJ), Douglas Aircraft, Pan American Airways, Caterpillar Tractor, Glenn Martin, Youngstown Sheet, U. S. Rubber and American Improved.

Commodities held to a slim groove. Bonds improved.

Propped in the curb were Associated Telephone "A," Electric Bond & Share, General Finance, Universal Pictures and Transwestern Oil.

Jenks Services Are Scheduled for Today

Memorial services for Lt. Russell D. Jenks who was killed in action April 19 in France, will be held at the Central Baptist church this afternoon at 3 o'clock.

The Rev. Bracy Greer of Pelly, Texas, formerly of Pampa, will conduct the services.

The son of Mr. and Mrs. P. M. Jenks, Pampa, Lt. Jenks was employed here by the Cabot company as a welder before entering the army air corps in February, 1943. He received his commission as second lieutenant at Ft. Sumner, New Mexico in June, 1944, and went overseas in September of last year.

He was a pilot on a B-26 bomber with the Ninth air force, and was the holder of the Air Medal for meritorious service.

He is survived by the parents, one brother, Lt. Paul Jenks, Hondo, Texas, and three sisters, Mrs. Mary Griffitts, Peggy Jean and Betty Joe Jenks, all of Pampa.

Lt. Jenks' father is a veteran of World War I.

Effect of V-E

most urgent requirements are steel, textiles, lumber, lead mining, aluminum and foundry and forge shops.

The problem in meeting these needs, it was stated, is mainly in getting workers to move from areas where cut-backs are occurring, to places where war production is expanding.

Manpower officials are confident that this situation will be the last of the shortage problems that have plagued them for over two years.

They estimated that within six months after V-E day there will be only about a dozen tight labor areas in the country. In these regions job controls will be retained.

March Sheep, Swine Shipments Are Up

AUSTIN, May 5—(AP)—The Texas bureau of business research reported a drop in sheep and swine shipments but a considerable rise in cattle shipments, for this March compared with March 1944.

During March 1945, swine shipments totaled 54,425 head compared with 145,115 for March 1944; 149,625 head of sheep compared with 71,061; and 34,691 calves compared with 71,061.

Abbott and Costello Cavort Through 'Here Come the Co-Eds' at LaNora

In one of their best pictures, Bud Abbott and Lou Costello reach new heights of mirth and merriment in "Here Come the Co-Eds," which opens today at the LaNora.

An all-star cast, consisting of Peggy Ryan, Martha O'Driscoll, June Vincent, Donald Cook and Lon Chaney makes the flic tops in entertainment.

Abbott and Costello are cast as caretakers at an exclusive girls' school of which Donald Cook is the head. What happens is typical "A-C" stuff but it's still good entertainment.

Rex

Republic's pride anl joy, the musical "Brazil" opens at the Rex theater today for a three-day engagement. Stars are lovely Virginia Bruce, Tito Guizar, Latin lover, and Robert Livingston.

Edward Everett Horton, Fortunio Bananova, "Going My Way" orchestra conductor, and Richard Lane head a fine supporting cast.

Roy Rogers steps out of the Westerns as a guest star and sings some very nice songs. All in all, "Brazil" is good, lighthearted entertainment.

Crown

Miss Lamour is ably supported by Eddie Bracken, Gil Lamb and Barry Sullivan. Sullivan has since reached stardom for his work in "And Now Tomorrow."

Anything that Bracken and Lamb are in is bound to be funny and "Rainbow Island" is no exception. If you like music, there are some nice songs in it, too.

Coming

A must-see on your list is "the Fighting Lady" navy narrative film of a historic aircraft carrier, a part of the famous Task Force 58. Lt. Robert Taylor narrates the technicolor film. It shows along with the thriller "Hangover Square" at the LaNora Thursday, Friday and Saturday.

Out-of-Town

Vogue, Skellytown: Gypsy Rose Lee, Randolph Scott and Bob Burns in "Belle of the Yukon."

Liberty, Shamrock: "Having Wonderful Crime," starring Pat O'Brien, Carole Landis and George Murphy.

Rogue, LeFors: Maria Montez, Jon Hall and Sabu in "Cobra Woman."

Capeskin is named for its port of embarkation, Capt Town, South Africa, and comes from a small African sheep.

Swiss Say German Fleet Surrenders

NEW YORK, May 5—(AP)—CBS quoted the Swiss radio tonight as reporting that the German Mediterranean fleet had surrendered unconditionally. The broadcast said this force included "several light cruisers" but enemy ships of that size have not been reported in action since the Italian surrender in 1943.

The Germans have had some former Italian destroyers and some motor torpedo boats in the Mediterranean, however.

Oil Production To New Figures

HOUSTON, May 5—(AP)—A new all-time peak in oil production was set for the week ended today when, according to figures compiled by the Oil Weekly, the daily average was 4,824,555 barrels. This represents a gain of some 18,000 barrels over the previous peak which was reached during the week ended April 21 when the daily production averaged 4,806,950 barrels. Prior to that the high was for the week ended March 24 when the average was 4,793,500 barrels.

Production reflects the tremendous war demand for petroleum, with no particular drop looked for even after V-E day, it is pointed out by the magazine which quotes Petroleum Administrator Ickes as saying "we will need a terrific lot of oil in the Pacific war."

VENEZUELON OIL

Price is expected to be a factor in post-war international oil trade, Arthur T. Proudfit, president of Creole Petroleum, believes: competition probably will be the stiffest ever. Discussing prospects for Venezuela, he said:

"In the post-war period the outlook for Venezuela in world markets will depend upon Venezuela's ability to supply the types of crude which are then in demand, and to deliver them to the chief markets at a price which is competitive with crudes coming from other large producing areas. Strong competition, especially in European markets, must be expected from the middle east where production has been substantially increased—"

ROAD OIL CURB

PAW has ordered refiners to reduce the number of grades of asphalts and road oils from 55 to 22. Such reductions will step up refinery operations, reduce the types of tankcars needed, and expedite use of tankcars.

Under the new directive there will be eight grades of paving asphalt, nine grades of "cut-back" asphalt, and five grades of slow-curing road oil.

Paving asphalt is used to construct hard-surfaced roads; "cut-back" asphalt is used on road mats and hardsurface roads, and slow-curing road oil is primarily for road mats on farm-to-market highways and dust palliatives.

United Nations conference by a single thread. Poland will have a seat at the deliberations now in progress, if the Big Three smooth out their squabble over reorganizing the Russian - sponsored Warsaw government which Britain and the United States do not recognize.

The single gleam of hope for any immediate progress was that Foreign Commissar Molotov plans to remain at the Golden Gate a few more days.

It was Molotov who first informed Stettinius and Eden of the arrest of the Polish group. That was Thursday night.

Last night, pressed for reasons, he said it war for "diversionist activities against the Red army."

One authority reported that as the Big Four were dining seated for dinner in Stettinius' apartment the foreign commissar casually remarked "Details will come out at the trial." This, it was said, came close to upsetting some famous appetites.

Eden described the arrests as "most serious." Stettinius issued a formal statement saying:

"We told Mr. Molotov of our great concern on learning after such a long delay of this disturbing development which has a "direct bearing on the working out of the Polish problem.

"The Crimea agreement on Poland at the Roosevelt-Churchill-Stalin meeting at Yalta) provided for consultations with representatives of the Warsaw provisional government and with Polish democratic political leaders from within Poland and from abroad.

"We have asked Mr. Molotov for a complete list of the names of those Polish leaders who have been arrested and a full explanation of this action. Further discussions must await a reply."

One responsible official said this was the way the newest Polish crisis originated:

The group of men, since arrested, was invited to a conference at Pruszkow, Poland, and three arrived March 27, the rest the following day. They were members of a resistance movement.

Having heard nothing from them by April 1, the British and American government started a series of notes to Moscow. They went unanswered until Molotov, out of a clear sky, mentioned the arrests Thursday night.

Ab Pinzin, reporter for the present Warsaw government's news agency, Polpress; challenged Stettinius' reference to "prominent Polish democratic leaders." He asked whether it was not true some were fascist or semi-fascist.

The secretary said he had no further information. But he said there were democratic elements among them.

Stettinius told the news conference the amendments agreed on by the Big Four took cognizance not only of individual but also of national rights. They would permit election of six non-permanent members to the world security council in accordance with geographical distribution and their ability to contribute to international security.

This, Stettinius said, will give "fair representation for the so-called middle-sized nations and the small nations on the security council." It goes at least part way in answering claims of lesser powers for a bigger hand in security enforcement.

the fighting manpower of Nippon.

The Japanese suicide air, sea and land counterattacks on Okinawa Friday, Tokyo time, were viewed by one American commander as the desperate acts of an enemy facing defeat there. Maj. Gen. John R. The decisively beaten and badly disorganized Japanese in Burma faced eventual capture or death as British forces pursued the invaders beyond Pegu, 50 miles north of Rangoon, another struck for the Eastern Burmese mountains blocking the Thailand escape route.

Meanwhile it was disclosed at Chungking that the pipeline from Calcutta, made possible by Allied victories in Northern Burma and Southwestern China, is already carrying oil and gasoline to American and Chinese forces in China.

Small Crowd Sees Golds Beat Greens Friday Night 12-7

Wilson, Anderson, Washington Score Touchdowns in 12-7 Win

By SCOTT RAFFERTY
News Sports Writer

Before a small but enthusiastic crowd of fans, the Greens dropped a 12 to 7 decision to the Golds in an intra-squad football game under the lights at Harvester Park Friday night.

Phillip Anderson and Jimmy Wilson handled the scoring chores for the Golds while Bill Washington raced 60 yards for the only Green touchdown and also ran over the extra point.

Coaches Otis Coffey, Tip Mooney and John Whinnery seemed secretly pleased over the results of the game. Although the backs usually get all the "glory", the coaches praised the work of the linemen on both teams.

A second-quarter pass-in-reception by Anderson resulted in the first Gold touchdown. Winfred Vaughn fired one out on the flats from his own 20 yard line but Anderson grabbed the ball and raced through a flock of would-be tacklers for 30 yards and pay dirt.

Wilson's try for extra point went wide.

The Greens retaliated a few minutes later, however, with Washington's sensational 60 - yard dash. From the stands, fans said that it looked as if the Golds didn't even know who had the ball.

Washington made it a day by plowing through the heavy Gold line for the extra point and the half ended with the Greens leading 7 to 6.

In the third period, a series of runs by Anderson, George Johnson and Wilson set up the second Gold score climaxed by Wilson's 15-yard jaunt around right end for the touchdown. Vicious blocking by the Green line caused Wilson's attempted run-over for the extra point to be impossible.

A late scoring thrust in the fourth quarter failed as the Greens fumbled the ball on the Gold three-yard line and the Golds had only to run two plays before the gun sounded.

The starting line-ups:

NEW YORK, May 5—(AP)—So far this season nobody has fired a baseball manager—even unofficially—but any club owner who is contemplating such a move might do worse than get in touch with Paul Waner who was just cut adrift by the Yankees—noted as a smart ball player, Waner has had the benefit of 23 years in the majors—and its a sure thing that no player could put anything over on Paul in the matter of breaking training rules—Fight Manager Tex Sullivan has just signed up two 18-year-old Golden Gloves champs, Eddie Murphy and Roland La Starza.

Texas Meat Prices Are Reported Up

AUSTIN, May 5—(AP)—The United States department of agriculture reported today that mid-April prices of products sold by Texas farmers and ranchers showed further increases for most meat animals and poultry, but moderately lower to unchanged prices for most crop items.

Forty-four times as many people between the ages of five and 19 died in the United States in 1942 from accidents as died from infantile paralysis.

Despite Smiling Face, Chandler Will Rule Game With Iron Hand

By HARY GRAYSON
NEA Sports Editor

NEW YORK, May 5—In his exuberance at being named commissioner of baseball, the inimitable Sen. Albert Benjamin Chandler cavorts before the camera with players, owners and even Nick Altrock, the game's zaniest comedian.

Happy Chandler has already come dangerously close to converting many fans to the belief that a clown has come to rule the game. Some of the more conservative, realizing baseball's uncanny aptness for applying appellations. View with alarm the moment when the senator's moniker might be changed from Happy to Slap Happy unless he changes his tactics.

You hear cracks like "If they wanted a comedian, why did they have to go out of their own ranks when they have Altrock and Al Schacht?" And "Judge Landis' job calls for a little dignity even if the governorship of Kentucky and a seat in the United States senate don't."

A lot of people take their baseball seriously, you know, but even commissionership of baseball can't wreck a metamorphosis of Chandler at 46. The dignity of the office never will wipe the smile off Happy's face. It never has, and he's held public office for 16 years.

Despite his singing and happy-go-lucky, jovial mien, Chandler is vastly more than an entertainer, back-slapper and handshaker, far from being a clown. The hustler from the dark and bloody ground must have the germ of greatness, must indeed have plenty on the ball, to have come from precisely nowhere and attain the high positions to which he ascended.

Judged on past performances, the new czar, possessed of wide legal and political acumen, a nimble brain and abounding vitality, will make an outstanding executive in his new post. He has not flunked yet.

In addition to having been one of the youngest governors of modern times, Chandler was the finest Kentucky ever had. In the senate he had outstanding influence on legislation.

A new deal democrat but no rubber stamp, he split with the administration on a lot of things.

Baseball magnates will find that he will speak his piece, do what he believes to be right.

When James F. Byrnes was director of war mobilization, he said of Chandler: "A great fellow to have with you and a tough opponent."

Commenting on Chandler's appointment as commissioner, the veteran Sen. Hiram W. Johnson of California paid him this tribute: "He is a man of undisputed guts, stands on his own feet and permits himself no favoritism. Under his supervision, baseball will be conducted with strict impartiality."

Chandler does not fancy himself as another Kenesaw Mountain Landis.

"I could never hope to be like him," he says, simply. "I'm just Happy Chandler and will handle problems in my own way."

That way has been highly satisfactory in the past.

There is no reason why it should not continue to be administrating the office of commissioner of baseball.

SIDEWALKS TO LET

NEW YORK, May 5—(AP)—Remember the smart operator who used to "sell" Brooklyn bridge?

The latest wrinkle is renting Manhattan sidewalks.

Magistrate's court ruled that Sam Lowenkran had no right to rent a patch of sidewalk in front of his store to a novelty peddler for $100.

Man Dies of Burns Received Friday

HOUSTON, May 5—(AP)—Norris Holloway, 27 of Pelly, died in the Humble Oil and Refining company's hospital at Baytown last night as a result of burns received in a laboratory fire at the company's rubber plant Friday morning.

Miss Jean Martin, 22, of Baytown, and Miss Lena Bellfore, 22, of Baytown, both burned in the same accident, were still in serious condition today at the hospital.

The losses by fire in the United States for 1943 amounted to $380,235,000.

PAW Releases Pumps Tanks for Civilians

WASHINGTON, May 5—(AP)—The petroleum administration for war announced today that gasoline pumps and storage tanks now held for military use would be released to retail filling stations and bulk petroleum plants.

Under the amended control order the pumps and tanks may be installed in retail service stations, and other improvements made, when the combined cost of the installation does not exceed $1,000. Bulk petroleum plants may make the same improvements if the cost does not exceed $5,000.

The action does not permit the manufacture of new tanks and pumps for civilian use.

Cool Cottons for a City Summer

Designers Combine Rayon With Cotton To Stretch Supply

NEW YORK.—Cotton is going to war in vast quantities. Amounts may be stepped up even more to meet war demands in the Pacific theater, with the result that supplies of summer cotton fashions are limited, and may take further cuts.

When shopping for cotton fashions you'll find there is a scarcity in sheer fabrics such as organdies and dotted Swiss; in drills, twills and denims; also in bird's-eye pique and other novelty weaves.

The greatest selection of styles this season are made of pin-wale and waffle-weave pique, chambray, gingham, shirting and seer-sucker. But to make these classic weaves stretch as far as possible, designers often combine them with rayon.

Used as the important upper half of the suit, the cotton top appears as a peplum-pleated overblouse; as a Mandarin-styled coat of pique buttoned up one side; as a natty jacket teamed with a matching bandeau bra, which can step out to take its spot in the sun.

Example of this bra-teamed number—a last summer's fashion hit which has been encored back—is shown left in an Adele Simpson-designed suit with a top of blue chambray and skirt of black rayon crepe. All you see of the sun-inviting bra when worn with the jacket is its big butterfly bow edged with white lattice braid, an accent that is repeated on the snappy jacket which has the same expert cut and tailoring as you find in a wool or "silk" suit.

The same attention to good tailoring is found in the tunic top suit, shown right. Another Adele Simpson design, of spun cotton in bold black and white awning stripes, is tied in at the loose waistline with a silk-tasselled sash, and combined with a black rayon skirt.

But not all cotton suits divide fashion honors with rayon. The stylized beauties in one collection are made of chambray that shimmers from bottom to top like changeable tafeta. One of the season's sure-fire hits is the Charles Armour - designed model, center, with low-cut square neckline as extravagantly pleated as a petti-coat flounce.

Pupils Win Certificates in Piano Playing Auditions Held in Amarillo

Twenty-four pupils of Mrs. H. A. Yoder participated in the National Piano Playing auditions, sponsored by the National Guild of Piano Teachers, Wednesday in Amarillo. These auditions are held in hundreds of cities all over the United States and provide definite goals toward which piano pupils may strive, not only for the specially gifted but for the average pupil as well.

Local winners certificates are offered for a two or three piece program; district certificates for a four, five or six piece program; state certificate for seven, eight or nine pieces; and national for 10 or more pieces with the color of the star varying from red, blue to gold, according to the certificate awarded. Pupils at any level of advancement may work toward any of these goals.

National certificates, with the red star for 10 pieces, were received by the following pupils. Charlotte Ann Call, Mickey Casada, Carol Culberson, Dorothy Dixon, Patricia, Delma and Zelma Franklin, Sammie Frierson, Betty Ruth Garrison, Joyce Harrah, Darlen Olsen, Ann Sidwell, Patsy Stovall and Betty Ann Williams.

State certificates, with the red star for seven pieces, were received by Shirley and Donald Cook, Marilyn Fitzgerald, Ann Jordan, Tiny Hobart, Virginia Gay Marlowe, and Carol Deen Rankin.

Etta Frances Haney was awarded the district certificate with a gold star of six pieces.

No numerical grades were given but each pupil received in addition to the certificate, a constructive analysis of his or her playing with helpful comments by the judge.

Tri-County Council Plans Program and Names Committees

Tri-County Council of Parents and Teachers met Thursday at 4 o'clock in the office of Huelyn Laycock, county superintendent of schools. The president, Mrs. N. S. Daniel of LeFors, conducted the business meeting.

Officers of the council for the next year are Mrs. J. R. Bright, LeFors, first vice-president; other vice-presidents are Mrs. Clyde Mason, Hopkins; Mrs. J. L. Mullinax, Pampa; Mrs. W. R. Campbell is publicity chairman; Mrs. Blalock, treasurer; and Miss Josephine Thomas, secretary.

H. A. Yoder, Winston Savage and Mrs. Roy Holt will serve as the program committee.

Plans were made for the year, and the next meeting will be Oct. 11 at Sam Houston school.

V Notes
RED CROSS VOLUNTEERS

By MRS. H. H. HAHN

DID YOU KNO WTHAT. . . . the primary responsibility of Red Cross Home service is to assist the families of servicemen and veterans in meeting those needs which arise from the man's service in the armed forces? 'Tis true, and it is met through six types of service:

1. Communications
2. Information
3. Reporting
4. Benefits and Claims
5. Consultation and Guidance
6. Financial Assistance

These services are available to all men and women in the United States armed forces and their dependents, to ex-servicemen and their dependents, to the dependents of deceased servicemen, and, with the exception of financial assistance, to civilian groups Allied with the armed forces (civilian pilots, members of the merchant marine, etc.) Certain of these services, such as communication, are also available to civilians.

These services or functions of Home Service were among the subjects discussed at the meeting last week of the Home Service committee. Members of the committee present included: Mrs. M. F. Roche, Mrs. J. B. McCrery, Mrs. J. L. Alias, Mrs. J. B. White, executive secretary of Pampa Chapter, B. Wolding, Red Cross field director at PAAF, Major Ray Casey, Aubrey Steele, Mrs. Charlie Thut, the Rev. Guy Caskey, Mrs. T. F. Griffith, Mrs. W. G. Breining, Mrs. B. A. Sumner, Mrs. J. B. Massa, Mrs. F. M. Culberson, chairman of Home Service committee presided.

Visitors present at the meeting were Mrs. James A. DeMarco, wife of Pampa Army Air Field Commanding officer, Lt. Clouster, personal affairs officer at PAAF, and W. C. Breining.

The program included an explanation of the Red Cross organization by Aubrey Steele, chapter chairman; the need of the Home Service committee by Mrs. Roche; the relationship between Home Service and personnel of the army field by Mr. Wolding; volunteer service work of the army wives reported by Lt. Clouster; explanation of the functions of Home Services by Mrs. Betty Shyrock Hast-

Dunlap-Gaskins Vows Are Read Kansas Ceremony

Miss Nadine Dunlap, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R. S. Glascock of Tulsa, Okla., and Lt. Johnnie F. Gaskins, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. J. F. Gaskins of Beeville, were united in marriage Saturday, April 28, at 4 p. m. in the parsonage of the First Baptist church of Dodge City, Kans., with the pastor, the Rev. E. M. McCracken, officiating.

For her wedding the bride chose a powder blue suit with black accessories and carried a bouquet of pink carnations.

Mrs. W. G. Abolt, matron of honor, wore a black street length dress, and her corsage was of red roses.

Lt. W. G. Abolt attended the bridegroom as best man.

Before her marriage Mrs. Gaskins attended Mobeetie high school and was employed by the Fatheree Drug Co.

Mrs. May Foreman Carr Announces Three Piano Recitals for Week

Mrs. May Foreman Carr is announcing three piano recitals to be given by her students in the Church of the Brethren during the coming week. Bonnie Nell McBee, winner of highest honor in the recent National Piano auditions in Amarillo, will give a recital, Tuesday evening, at 8 o'clock. Miss McBee will be assisted by Miss Evelyn Thoma and Miss Sharlyn Rose Pocock, violinists.

Miss McBee will present the same program she gave in the National auditions, which includes the famous "Racozy March," (15th Hungarian Phapsady) by Liszt. Other features of the program will be the Bach Double Concerto to be played by Misses Thoma and Pocock, with Mrs. Carr, accompanist, and the "Espana Rhapsody," by Chabrier, played by Miss McBee and Mrs. Carr.

Thursday evening Mrs. Carr will present the students of the elementary and intermediate departments. Featured on this program will be the outstanding numbers given by the winners in the National auditions in Amarillo. A prize will be given to the students who havem ade the most progress during the past year, and certificates won in the tournament will be presented.

The advanced students of Mrs. Carr's class will be presented Friday evening in an interesting recital of classics, romantic and modern music.

Features of this program will be the rendition of three cencertos. Tracy Cary will play the familiar Grieg Concerto in A minor; Miss Jean Paxson, will play the MacDowell Concerto in D Minor, and Miss Sharlyn Rose Pocock will play the Saint Saens Concerto op 22. Mrs. Carr will paly the orchestral parts of the concerto at the second piano.

The public is invited to attend the recitals.

Council of Church Women Meets for May Fellowship Luncheon, Program

The May Fellowship luncheon of the Pampa Council of Church Women was held Friday in the McCullough Methodist church. Mrs. R. H. Nenstiel, president, conducted the business meeting, during which Mrs. Walter Purviance was elected first vice-president, and Mrs. Harold English was appointed chairman of the project committeee.

Mrs. Charles Madeira, chairman of the Community Issues area, was in charge of the program with the theme, "Our Town." R. Virgil Mott, music director of the First Baptist church, sang "A Heart Like Thine," accompanied by Mrs. B. N. Franklin. The devotional was given by Mrs. H. H. Boynton, of the First Methodist church.

Mrs. Boynton stated, "A town is what the homes are. We must put spiritual values first in our homes, teaching children tolerance and brotherhood, the great truth of unselfishness, and these values will reach out to influence our town."

Dr. Douglas Nelson, pastor of the First Presbyterian church, was the guest speaker. He said, "We must try to make this town and others as clean and devoted to Christian ideals as we can."

In speaking of some problems in Pampa, he stated, "We must work with the Negro, and not for him, to solve his problems, otherwise we will get nowhere."

"In helping to solve juvenile delinquency we must do it from the standpoint of making Christian people, otherwise we will fail.

"The 27 churches of Pampa must worship together for real Christianity and not let bickering keep them apart, otherwise the returning soldier will question the Christianity of Pampa."

Lt. S. M. Claster Speaks to PAAF Woman's Group

First Lieutenant Stanley M. Claster, assistant personal affairs officer, spoke on the activities of the Volunteer Utilization Branch at a meeting Thursday afternoon of the PAAF Woman's club at the officers' mess. The Volunteer Utilization Branch represents the informal and supplemntary part played by members of the Woman's club in the official functions of the personal affairs office. Included in this work are vocation guidance, housing, maternity calls and visits to families in the Pampa district that have suffered war casualties.

The luncheon hostesses were Mesdames Rob. A. Scholton, James F. Mattox, J. C. Partain, Finch Duffy and H. M. Breneman.

Mrs. De Marco, wife of Col. James A. De Marco, PAAF commanding officer, introduced the following guests of honor: Cleo Davies, Jeanne Burke, Betty Carroll, Phyllis Hoose, recently retired officers of the Junior Matrons' League; Mrs. Harold E. Schwartz, Mrs. E. J. Hanna, and Mrs. Paul S. Tabor, civilian sponsors of the league.

The luncheon table centerpiece was a miniature Maypole, with yellow, white, and green streamers anchored to the table with yellow roses and white carnations. W/O George T. Covell, pianist, played during the luncheon.

Members of the Woman's club are taking an active part in the current Seventh War Bond campaign on the post. Mesdames Gilbert S. Friederichs, H. W. Rowe, J. W. Snyder, Daniel M. Adams, D. E. Sheridan, J. L. Ruddick, Jack Swift, and Roger Terwilliger had charge of the bond booth in the Officers' mess the last week. In addition, members of the club and the Junior Matrons' league sold bonds in the pay lines of the various squadrons last Monday.

An interesting display at the luncheon was 18 layettes which had been completed by members of the club. Mrs. Terwilliger has charge of this project.

American Legion Auxiliary Invites Wives, Mothers of Discharged Servicemen To Join

Continuing war efforts unslackened and preparing for the great work peace will bring will be the program of the American Legion Auxiliary during the year ahead, said Mrs. L. K. Stout, president of Pampa unit of the auxiliary, as enrollment of 1945 members went forward.

"Until the surrender of the enemy, the women of the auxiliary will devote their first endeavors to victory," Mrs. Stout said. "Our war activities are now well developed and are performing their part in the nation's war effort. Members enrolling now will find a place ready for them in this work; a place where they can serve effectively to speed the victory.

"As our war program goes forward with safety determination, the work of relief and rehabilitation of war disabled, their families and the families of the dead already has begun," continued Mrs. Stout. "Vast human problems will be left in the wake of this war as they were by the last one. The auxiliary's experience in helping individuals solve those problems is enabling it to serve well the victims of the present conflict. Already auxiliary aid has gone out to many thousands of families and returning service men.

"When peace comes, this work of aid for those who have borne the battle will be a tremendous task—one which will require the understanding efforts of the women whose families have served. We want all such women with us now as the work is getting under way, those whose families served in the first World War and those who have completed service in this war.

"Eligible to join us now are the mothers, wives, sisters and duaghters of men who have been honorably discharged and who are members of The American Legion. Also eligible and with a place of special honor waiting them are the women who have lost a son, husband, father or brother in the country's service. Eligible, too, are the women who themselves have served and have been honorably discharged. We are inviting all into auxiliary membership for the vital and interesting avtivities ahead."

Expecting a Baby?

Mother's Friend helps bring ease and comfort to expectant mothers.

MOTHER'S FRIEND, an exquisitely prepared emollient, is useful in all conditions where a bland, mild anodyne massage medium in skin lubrication is desired. One condition in which women for more than 70 years have used it is an application for massaging the body during pregnancy . . . it helps keep the skin soft and pliable . . . thus avoiding unnecessary discomfort due to dryness and tightness. It refreshes and tones the skin. An ideal massage application for the numb, tingling or burning sensations of the skin . . . for the tired back muscles or cramp-like pains in the legs. Quickly absorbed. Delightful to use.

Mother's Friend

Highly praised by users, many doctors and nurses. Just ask any druggist for Mother's Friend—the skin lubricant. Try it tonight.

THANKS FROM THE YANKS

Exemplifying the appreciation of servicemen who have received kit bags is this letter to the Victoria County, Texas, Chapter, American Red Cross:

"Just a few lines to express my thanks for the utility kit I received. My buddies and I are more than thankful, not alone for the usefulness of all the articles, but also for the fact that it was a gift from the folks back home."—Cpl. Thomas Petrolis, Somewhere in England.

Which reminds us to remind you that the production department and Mrs. Raymond Harrah, kit bag chairman, have accepted a quota of 432 kit bags. Mrs. W. D. Waters, sewing chairman, tells us that 96 kits have been cut out and are ready to be stitched. "We should like to have some help in getting these kits made," Mrs. Waters said. "Boys leaving for the Pacific will need these kits, and everyone knows of their value as morale builders."

IMAGINARY MONOLOGUE OF PRIVATE X

"The wind seems to be trying to tear the roof from the hospital or something, anyhow it's making an awful noise. There's nothing a fellow can do here in bed. Bored? You bet I am. Seems like I'm a million miles from home, and it's my birthday. Always before on my birthday Mom would bake me a big cake with lots of thick frosting. Gee! I can't stand this much longer."

It is to combat this kind of ennui and loneliness that the camp and hospital entertainment committee stay awake nights trying to think of something for hospital patients at PAAF to do. Not long ago someone had an inspiration: why not give a birthday party occasionally for the patients, with cake 'n everything? Accordingly, plans have been made, details worked out, and soon local organizations will take turns giving such parties.

Need for qualified women to serve with the American Red Cross overseas continues to be urgent, Aubrey Steele, chairman of the Pampa chapter, American Red Cross, announced today.

"Men in the Midwestern area have responded well to the Red Cross appeal, but the recruitment of women for hospital and club work has lagged," Mrs. Steele said.

Greatest need at present is for women to serve as staff assistants in Red Cross clubs and clubmobiles. These positions are open only to women between the ages of 25 and 35. A college education is prefrered, but is not required when the applicant has had unusual experience in recreation, music, arts and crafts, physical education, dramatics, or other recreational arts. Qualifying applicants will receive a two-week training course in Washington, D. C. prior to their assignment.

There is also a continuing need for recreation workers, social workers, and staff aides to serve in military and naval hospitals and on hospital ships. Soical workers must be between the ages of 25 and 50, recreation workers between 25 and 45, staff aides between 25 and 40. Social workers perform some of the same services in hospitals as field directors do for the able-bodied troops, assisting with personal and family problems of servicemen. Recreation workers in hospitals arrange parties, distribute comfort articles in the wards, and teach crafts as the major part of their duties. Staff aides assist both recreation and social workers. Staff aides and social workers receive a three-week training course, and recreation workers, a six-week course at Red Cross national headquarters, Washington, D. C.

All workers hired at this time comprise a temporary staff serving for the duration of the emergency.

"I am confident that there are women in Pampa who could fill these positions," Mr. Steele said. "I should like to urge them to apply at chapter headquarters at once. There is no greater service they can perform for their country at this time."

Pakan Club Studies In Home Mrs. Seago

Special to The NEWS

SHAMROCK, May 5.—"To combat the sucking and chewing garden insects, use either rotenone (.75) or prethrium (.15)," said Mrs. V. J. Zeman, County Home Demonstration agent, when she met with the Pakan Home Demonstration club at the home of Mrs. Cecil Seago, Friday.

"Make sure that the insecticide you buy is of that strength," cautioned Mrs. Zeman.

Mrs. Zeman gave a demonstration on the use of sewing machine attachments. "When making tucks with the tucking attachment, make certain that your first tuck is made on the straight of the material," stated the agent.

Mrs. W. L. Walker presided over the business session, and a new club was organized in the Lela community.

Upon the election of Mrs. Helen Seago as temporary president, the meeting was turned over to the Lela group, and Mrs. George Crow was elected temporary secretary and temporary council delegate.

The group will meet again on May 10, in the home of Mrs. G. M. Seago to complete the organization and to elect permanent oficers. Mrs. Zeman will give a demonstration at the meeting.

Those present at the meeting were: Mrs. Harry Barnes and Mrs. Jack Pevey of Hollis, Okla.; Mesdames G. M. Seago, J. C. Nix, Van Purcell, Cecil Seago and George Crow of Lela, Mrs. V. J. Zeman, Home Demonstration agent, and Mesdames W. B. Bertram, C. C. Winters, W. A. Allen, W. L. Walker, John Hrnciar, Sr., Paul Macina, J. W. Stauffer, Misses May Ruth Stauffer, Christine Macina and Louise Risian, all of Pakan.

SIDE GLANCES

"It wasn't his fault he broke his arm! He wouldn't have tried to do a trapeze act in the old tree if that silly girl down the street hadn't been egging him on!"

Demonstration Club Meets for Luncheon With Mrs. Taylor

Mrs. H .B. Taylor, Jr., was hostess to members of the Wayside Home Demonstration club recently for a covered dish luncheon. The business session was held before lunch, and plans were made by the hospitalization commtitee to take a program to the Pampa army air field hospital.

During the afternoon, a hat clinic was held under the direction of Miss Millicent Schaub.

Members present for the luncheon were Mrs. W. A. Greene and Nellie Beth; Mrs. Harold Osborne, Mrs. Gus Greene and Sue; Mrs. Doyle Osborne and Jeanette; Mrs. W. F. Taylor, Mrs. R. E. Montgomery, and Wyeth; Mrs. Homer Taylor, Mrs. H. B. Taylor, Jr., and Lou Ann; and three visitors, Mrs. Watt, Miss Schaub, and Miss Dora Taylor.

The next meeting will be May 11 in the home of Mrs. W. F. Taylor.

We, the Women

By MILLETT MILLETT

If we really wanted to get some feeling into our speech today, we'd discard some of our old comparisons for new ones.

We'd say, for instance, "He hasn't a red ration point to his name."

Or, "He'd give his last cigaret."

And how about, "As welcome as a V-letter."

Or, "About as dependable as a tire running on its third re-tread."

Or even, "She's the kind of woman who feeds her kids oleo and serves butter to her important guests."

Or, "As long as a cigaret line."

Or, "An under-the-counter customer."

You'd get the idea just as quickly if someone said, "You're as welcome as a T-bone steak."

STREAMLINED SIMILES

Or, "As cautious as though she were spending her last shoe stamp."

Or, "She treats her husband as though she expected him to give notice."

Or, "Careful as a woman putting on her last pair of nylons."

Or, "As unpredictable as the army."

Just as graphic would be "Short as a leave."

Or, "A dress that should have been given to the United Nations relief drive."

Or maybe, "Scarce as a furnished apartment."

And certainly, "I'd rather face the ration board."

By W. G. ROGERS

"AMERICAN GUERRILA IN THE PHILIPPINES," by Ira Wolfert (Simon & Schuster; $2.75).

The thing most people bring back from the Pacific, it seems, is not souvenirs, medals, service stripes or wounds, but books. There have been Shelley Mydans, George Tweed, Joseph St. John and the AP's Russell Brines just in the last few months.

Now there's Lt. Iliff David Richardson, who tells his story to Ira Wolfert (of "Tucker's People" fame) who tells it to us. And it's worth telling, and so extremely well told that it becomes almost as thrilling to the reader as it must have been to Richardson.

Men like Richardson, a PT boatman who stayed in and near Leyte after the American surrender in 1942 until MacArthur returned last October, provide convincing proof of the fundamental error made by Axis chiefs in going to war; they believed we were too soft to fight. They thought the "have not" powers did have the grit, the "have" powers did not. Our indebtedness to our Richardsons is too deep to express.

This colorful and glamorous tale of extraordinary adventure has a lot of interesting information. Guerrillas had to organize; Richardson was with Kangleon, the valiant Filipino leader. Until supplies reached them by submarine, they made equipment, often crude, without which they could have accomplished nothing against Japanese guns and armor.

They ran incredible dangers; day after day they were one jump ahead of the enemy; some of their friends and comrades were caught and suffered tortures the description of which makes your blood run cold.

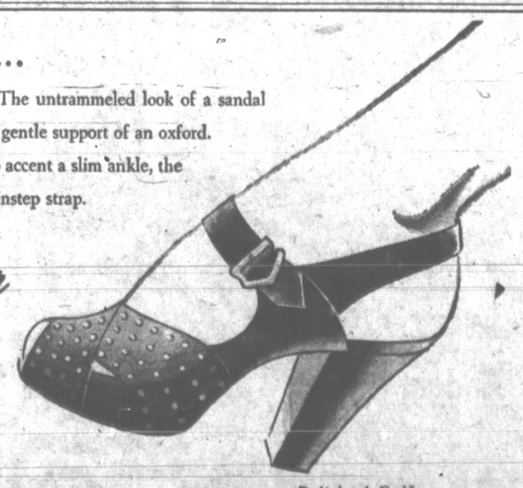

But other passages make your blood run hot. Richardson fell in love. He didn't spend every minute saving his neck; before the adventure is over he's trying to save it not only for his country but also for his family.

"LITTLE STAR OF MEXICO," by Hazel Hope (Humphries; $2.50).

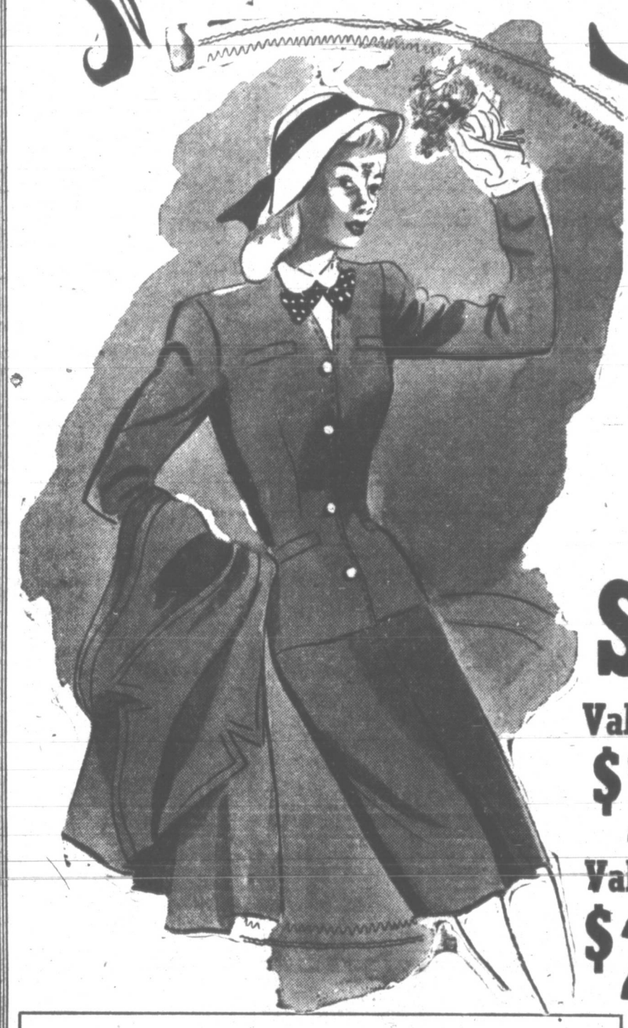

A florid tale of love and intrigue in Mexico, this has a hero, a villain and a beautiful girl, enough in theory for any novel.

In 790, Emepror Charlemagne granted rights to all monks of the Sithin Order to procure skins and make gloves, girdles, parchment and book coverings.

Landlords Given OPA Directions

F. S. Brown, rent control director for Gray, Carson and Hutchinson counties, yesterday said landlords acquiring property on or after May 1 should comply with the following instructions:

Where there has been a change in the identity of the landlord prior to May 1, the present landlord must, prior to May 15, file Form D-61.

Where there is a change in the identity of the landlord on or after May 1, or the effective date of regulations (whichever is the later date), the new landlord shall file Form D-61 within 10 days after the change.

A separate form must be filed by the landlord for each registration statement affected by the change in identity of the landlord; provided, however, a landlord may file a single report with an attached schedule of addresses, tenants and rents charged where multiple dwelling units are located either in a single structure or in a single project under one management. (If accommodations are registered under the hotel and rooming house regulations, attach only a schedule of the addresses of such accommodations.)

Give all the information requested on the report. This information should either be typed or printed in ink and filed with the rent director.

Add vegetables to homemade soups for the last hour of cooking only, because they absorb the flavor of the meat.

Before purchasing new clothes for spring, take an inventory of your closet and be sure you really need what you plan to purchase.

13 Pampans Inducted Into Armed Services

The draft claimed 13 Pampans last week as ten were inducted into the army and three into the navy May 1, the local draft board announced.

Entering the army were Christal Eugene Christian, Carl Preston Blue, John Boyd Schoolfield, Olen Buster Sechrist, Paul Edward Haymes, James Lewis Romines, Robert Perry Evans, Elmer Harold Lehnick, Owen Wilson Long and Bobby Gene Kelly.

The new navy men from Pampa are William Paul Hugg, Stephen William Goodwin and Thomas Virgil Dean.

British Reaction To Italian Peace Is Indifference

By GEORGE PALMER

WITH THE BRITISH EIGHTH ARMY IN ITALY, May 4—(AP)—The reaction of an overwhelming majority of British Eighth army troops to the surrender of the Germans in Italy and Western Austria was indifference.

For most of Lt. Gen. Sir Richard L. McCreery's soldiers it has been a long and bloody war since El Alamein. The knowledge that peace in Italy is in fact only a partial peace in relation to the global war was perhaps the biggest single factor which held the celebrations to a minimum.

The first tommy I spoke to after the announcement of the surrender merely shrugged his shoulders, hesitated a moment, and said: "Peace is good, but it is not getting me home much faster than if we still were fighting. I don't know whether I'll like Austria very much."

The end of the costly Italian campaign still is not an end to war and most of the tommies face the prospect either of occupation assignments or of transfer to the orient for more fighting.

It seemed apparent in the Eighth army sector that some of the air force men were more eager to celebrate than the long suffering foot soldiers and armored outfits. Occasionally a fighter pilot would fly over the troops at tree top level, do victory rolls and buzz camp sites, and this would bring smiles and waves from the troops. But when the planes left the men returned with straight faces to the tasks of tinkering with truck motors, packing equipment, standing in chow lines or talking calmly in small groups.

Pampan Will Attend Amarillo Banquet

Governor Robert S. Kerr of Oklahoma will be the principal speaker in the annual meeting and banquet of the Amarillo chamber of commerce which will be held at the Herring Hotel at Amarillo.

Pampa Chamber of Commerce President C. P. "Doc" Pursley and his delegation will attend the meeting.

YOU ARE INVITED TO ATTEND A MEETING
AT THE CITY COMMISSIONERS ROOM, CITY HALL
May 7th, 8 p. m.
IT IS AS MUCH YOUR MEETING AS ONE COULD BE.
IT IS SPONSORED BY THE AMERICAN LEGION.
IT CONCERNS WORLD WAR II VETERANS

DO YOU HAVE A SON, DAUGHTER, BROTHER, SISTER, HUSBAND, WIFE, FATHER, NEPHEW OR NIECE IN THE ARMED FORCES? HAVE YOU LOST A RELATIVE IN SERVICE OR HAD ONE WOUNDED? ARE YOU A DISCHARGED VETERAN?

THIS MEETING IS FOR YOUR INFORMATION AS TO THE RIGHTS OF OUR BOYS AND GIRLS WHEN THEY COME HOME, AND FOR THE DEPENDENTS OF THOSE WHO WILL NOT COME HOME.

WHAT ARE YOUR RIGHTS? THE VETERANS RIGHTS?

What should a Veteran do immediately after discharge?
How can Government Insurance be collected? Private insurance?
Will the Veteran get his old job back?
Will he have unemployment compensation? How much and when?
Will the Veteran get a new job? How? A Government job?
What are his rights under civil service, both Federal and State?
Will he be entitled to apprentice training? Vocational training?
Will he be entitled to a LOAN for home, farm, ranch or business?
How much? When can he get it? Where? How?
Will he be given an opportunity to get High School, College, Industrial Education?
What schools can he attend? Who pays the bill?
Will his wife, children and dependents be taken care of while he is in school?
Is the Veteran entitled to Hospital care? Will he have medical attention?
How does he get this? Is there any red tape?
Which Veteran is entitled to disability pension? Will there be homes for disabled?
What is the soldier's legal right, now? What will be his rights later?
How will his pay and income be affected by income tax?
What becomes of back pay due him? Can he get his discharge reviewed?
How can he get the discharge button? If he dies, who will bury him?

DEPENDENTS RIGHTS.

The same questions in regard to jobs, pensions, social security, government insurance, vocational training, education, disabled dependents, death gratuity, deceased back pay, allotments, allowances. How can prisoners of war be contacted? Who gets their pay?

One word incorrectly put in an application balls up the procedure, may mean disallowance of claim. BE CAREFUL. SEE THE RIGHT PERSON. IT IS UNLAWFUL FOR ANYONE TO CHARGE for services in filing claims.

HEAR ABOUT STATE RIGHTS.

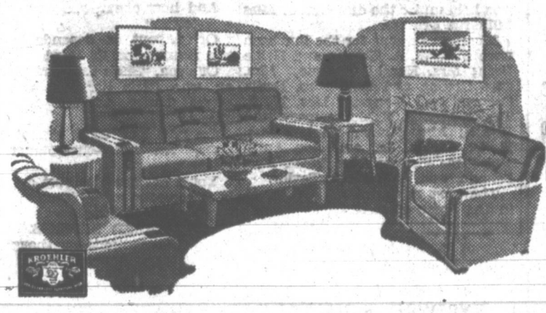

In many cases the State laws are much broader. Your state allows for a county Service Officer, specially trained to help you. Red Cross Representatives are invited to attend.

You are especially urged to be at this meeting. State and Federal Representatives will be here to help you.
