State Drops Bombshell In Move To Bar NAACP

SNYDER SPOTLIGHT

By WACIL McNAIR

It always rains, sooner or later, and it's nearly always later in West Texas. Our confidence has been shaken with the passing of the autumnal equinox without any evidence (well, not much, anyway) of a fall rainy season. Hurricane Flossy even turned on us and took an easterly course instead of pushing some water-laden clouds in this direction.

Oh, well, there'll be more equinoxes and more hurricanes and, we confidently predict, more days of sunshine.

We are told that women shoppers have an ultra pet peeve these days: Stores that indicate that they give trade stamps but fail to fork them over unless the customer requests them.

Abe and Jay Rogers ran into unexpected trouble the other day. Winner of one of the daily prizes in their 40th anniversary event was Grady Elder, the Chamber of Commerce manager. The prize for that particular day was two pairs of shoes, which ordinarily would not be a problem for a concern like Rogers. But Elder can't squeeze his puppies into anything smaller than a size 14, and son, you don't find 'em that big on every corner.

Snyder will know definitely within a few weeks whether it will have an industrial foundation. Several businessmen serving on a steering committee at the request of the Chamber of Commerce appear confident that such an organization can operate successfully here. The industrial foundation idea is not new in Snyder, but this time there has been more investigation and more information gathered than ever before. At the same time, more foundations have been put into operation in other cities, and local people have had an opportunity to study some of the results.

• • •

Another move is afoot to attract industry to the Southwest on a regional basis. The Texas Real Estate Association plans to recommend at the next legislative session that a state industrial commission be formed. This will require an amendment to the state constitution, but the real estate men figure that Texas has been on the sidelines long enough and that most citizens are ready for the Lone Star state to join others in such a project. Officials say an industrial commission would acentuate, rather than diminish the role of community Chamber of Commerce and industrial foundations.

The state commission would simply "sell" industry on moving to Texas from other sections. It would be up to local organizations in the various cities and towns to attract them to specific locations.

Agreement On Saar Reached

BONN, Germany, Sept. 29 (AP)—Chancellor Konrad Adenauer and French Premier Guy Mollet concluded tonight an agreement to return the strategic Saar to West Germany.

They put the finishing touches on the historic pact in 12 hours of hard bargaining in this West German capital.

The Saar agreement eliminates the last dispute between France and West Germany and paves the way for a joint drive to weld Europe into a powerful federation.

The target date for the transfer of the tiny but industrially rich Saar to Germany is Jan. 1, 1957.

The transfer will be in two stages. First, the area will be politically united with the German fatherland.

Then for the next three years France will have diminishing rights in the area rich in coal needed for France's economy. Thereafter, the Saar's economy will be fully integrated with West Germany's.

The agreement was considered a great victory for the aging Adenauer. It was expected to shore up his sagging political prestige in Germany ahead of next year's national elections.

The 80-year-old Adenauer, looking weary after the long hours of negotiation, and Mollet appeared at a joint news conference. They issued a communique saying they will sign the pact as soon as possible.

The Saar, an area of 991 square miles, was taken by France as a prize of war in 1945.

Adenauer and Mollet agreed in Luxembourg June 14 that the Saar should be returned to Germany. But the drafting of a treaty spelling out the terms of the transfer involved months of hard bargaining.

The new arrangement replaced the doomed plan by Bonn and Paris to "Europeanize" the Saar. This was overwhelmingly rejected by the Saarlanders in a plebiscite last October. Then, in December, the Saar elected a government committed to early union with Germany.

A last-minute snag threatened to shatter German hopes of winning back the Saar in time for the 1957 national elections.

After hours of bargaining, Adenauer and Mollet by early evening had been unable to settle the question of how to handle the currency of the coal-rich territory.

The French franc is now the legal tender in the area and the francs must be converted to the German mark. The French insisted on the legal rate of 85 francs to the mark. The Germans said this was unrealistic and asked for 73 to 1.

The communique said simply that Adenauer and Mollet reached a "satisfactory solution" of this problem.

Associate Justice Is Selected By Ike

WASHINGTON, Sept. 29 (AP)—William Joseph Brennan Jr., New Jersey jurist and a Democrat, was chosen by President Eisenhower today to succeed Associate Justice Sherman Minton on the Supreme Court.

Minton, a Democrat from Indiana, is retiring Oct. 15, five days in advance of his 66th birthday, because of failing health.

Brennan's selection, if confirmed by the Senate when Congress convenes in January, would leave the high court's political lineup unchanged at six Democrats and three Republicans. Although a registered Democrat, Brennan told reporters he never has taken an active part in politics.

The 50-year-old Brennan, now an associate justice of the New Jersey Supreme Court, attended a White House news conference at which press secretary James C. Hagerty announced that Eisenhower will make the actual appointment within 10 days.

The announcement was made as members of the Supreme Court were reassembling in Washington for the opening of the fall term Monday.

Minton plans to serve for the first two weeks, and then he will step aside for a man who will become the court's youngest member and the first Roman Catholic on the bench since the late Justice Frank Murphy, who died in 1949.

Brennan will serve under a recess appointment, pending action by the Senate.

The appointment, which came as a complete surprise to Brennan and many others, will be Eisenhower's third. He named Chief and Associate Justice Harlan on Justice Warren on Sept. 30, 1953 Jan. 10, 1955.

Brennan, a small, mild-mannered man who lives in Rumson, told reporters he got a telephone call from Atty. Gen. Brownell late yesterday summoning him to Washington. He said he did not know the reason until Eisenhower told him shortly before Hagerty's announcement.

Six Negroes Are Quizzed

DALLAS, Sept. 29 (AP)—Two assistant state attorneys general questioned six Dallas Negroes involved in the federal district suit to admit Negro children to white Dallas schools in a court of inquiry today.

All five Negroes, listed as "friends of the plaintiffs"—relatives of children for whom the suit was filed—denied ever having discussed the matter with any attorney or authorizing any attorney to file the suit in their name or the names of their children.

The sixth witness, Mrs. Minnie Ada Flanagan, had first brought the matter up separate in discussions with the other witnesses at their homes.

She testified that she had been a member of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People for about 20 years, but said she did not know how NAACP attorneys had obtained permission to use specific names in the court suit.

The court of inquiry was held in justice of the peace Bill Richburg's court. Questioning of the subpoenaed witnesses was handled by Asst. Atty. Gen. L.W. Gray and Asst. Atty. Gen. John A. Wild.

Gray said the court was called to determine if Article 430 of the Penal Code of Texas had been violated in the filing of the federal suit in September, 1955 by the NAACP. The federal case comes up in U.S. Judge H. Atwell's court Monday.

Contract Disclosed

TYLER, Sept. 29 (AP)—State testimony showed today the NAACP agreed to pay $11,000 to Heman Sweatt, the first man to crack the color line in Texas colleges.

The testimony came out in an injunction suit by which the state seeks to bar the NAACP from operating in Texas.

Dist. Judge Otis T. Dunagan recessed the hearing late today until Wednesday to permit NAACP attorneys to keep a previous commitment in Federal District Court at Dallas Monday.

Texas Rangers guarded the courtroom.

Thurgood Marshall, chief counsel for the National Assn. for the Advancement of Colored People, calls it the greatest crisis in NAACP history.

The testimony showed the $11,000 was to maintain Sweatt through three years of college. A contract was signed by Sweatt and Macéo Smith, executive secretary of the Texas State Conference of Branches, NAACP, in Dallas.

The contract, read by John Minton as a witness, said the organization agreed to pay Sweatt a "salary of $3,500 a year for three years," and "another $500 when the contract is signed."

Minton is an assistant state attorney general who investigated records of the regional NAACP office in Dallas.

Minton also placed in evidence a letter from Tate, to the Rev. R. H. Hines at Amarillo which stated an added "$20,000 was spent for legal fees in the Sweatt case."

Sweatt, a Houston mail carrier, filed suit May 16, 1946, seeking to enroll in the law school of the University of Texas, then all white and now integrated.

The case was fought through state courts, where Sweatt lost. The U. S. Supreme Court held in 1950 that there was no law school in Texas available to negroes equal to the university's, an action which forced the school to admit him.

Sweatt, then 37, enrolled in September 1950 and left school the next spring after scholastic difficulties. He is now working for the Urban League in Ohio.

Sweatt received $7,500 for the two years he attended the University of Texas, a report released by the Sweatt Victory Trust Fund at Houston said today.

Carter Wesley, Negro publisher who was a chairman of the fund raising drive, said a group of citizens heard that Sweatt was having financial difficulties in Austin after he enrolled at the University.

"Somewhere before we came into the picture it was estimated Sweatt would need $11,000 to $11,500 to go through through three years at the university," he said. "Apparently the NAACP had verbally agreed to pay this money to him but wasn't able to raise all the money."

Wesley said he was the one who insisted that a formal contract be drawn and signed by Sweatt and the NAACP.

The state hammered at its contention that the NAACP is a foreign (out-of-state) corporation operating in Texas and that the organization "is soliciting students to enter all-white schools unlawfully."

The state also alleges that suits were filed by the organization in behalf of students without their or their parents' permission.

Top legal authorities of both the state and NAACP opposed each other. Marshall, represented the NAACP, and Texas Atty. Gen. John Ben Shepperd represented the state, although both were in advisory positions to lawyers actually speaking in the case.

The state sought to cut through the time consuming objections of the NAACP to documents presented in evidence.

Asst. Atty. Gen. Elbert Morrow read a letter signed by Tate to Hines, in answer to a letter asking about the possibility of Negro students attending West Texas State College in Canyon.

Key UF Chairmen Are Selected Here

Two key chairmen were named for the coming Scurry County United Fund drive yesterday at a meeting of the campaign committee, Herbert Feather, United Fund president, has announced.

H. A. Johnson, Jr., will be general campaign chairman, while Claude McCormick will be chairman of the advance gifts division.

Several other division chairmen are to be named at meetings early this week. The campaign committee is headed by Dr. Cecil Yarbrough. In addition to the advance gifts, divisions in the United Fund will include business, industrial, employes, schools, and residential.

Both Johnson and McCormick have been leaders in United Fund campaigns since the organization started here two years ago.

Definite date for beginning of this year's drive has not yet been set but will be sometime early in October, Feather said, adding that the date is expected to be set this week.

The United Fund budget for this year is $36,970. Agencies represented in the United Fund are Salvation Army, Girl Scouts, United Service Organizations, American Red Cross, Boy Scouts, American Heart Association, West Texas Boys Ranch, Scurry County Boys Club, and Gonzales Warm Springs Foundation.

City Council Sets Meeting

Second reading of four ordinances will be on the agenda of the city council for consideration in its regular meeting for October at 7:30 o'clock tomorrow night.

One of the ordinances, which if passed on second reading becomes final, is one which will eliminate all payback to developers for their cost of the laying of water and sewer pipe, but would not void contracts the city presently has.

Another ordinance would give final approval to the city budget for 1956-57, and another would set a city tax rate of $1.65 per $100 valuation for the coming year.

The fourth ordinance up for second reading is a new parking ordinance which would call for raising the courtesy fine for parking violation from 25 cents to 50 cents but would allow 24 hours in which the violator could pay the courtesy fine instead of the one hour as it is at present. The ordinance would also permit the city to install courtesy ticket collection boxes throughout the meter district so that violators could dispose of their tickets at the boxes rather than having to go to the police station.

Inspection To Be Held Here

Snyder's National Guard unit will undergo its annual Inspector General's inspection here Monday.

Officers from the Inspector General's office of the Fourth Army will be here to make the inspection of Co. D, 112th Armored Calvary Regiment, according to Capt. John Lynch, company commander.

This is one of two inspections each year when the local unit is graded by the regular Army. The other annual inspection is made at the summer camp.

There will be a full two-hour inspection of troops and personnel, and of the unit's training program Monday night. During the day the inspecting officer will inspect records of the company.

Officials Say Tito To Aid Krushchev

BELGRADE, Yugoslavia, Sept. 29 (AP)—Top Yugoslav Communists said today President Tito is in the Soviet Union to help strengthen Nikita Khrushchev's hand—but not to the point of sacrificing Yugoslav independence.

Khrushchev, the Soviet Communist party boss, is reported at odds with old Stalinists in the Kremlin who think he has gone too far in downgrading Stalin.

Communist sources said Tito's aid to Khrushchev would not extend to the point of sacrificing Yugoslav independence in the fields of foreign relations, economic matters and party affairs.

Informed sources say Tito has received a strong warning from U. S. Secretary of State Dulles that signs of Tito's possible return to the Soviet camp might jeopardize further American aid to Yugoslavia.

There was no immediate confirmation or denial by the U. S. State Department in Washington of such a warning.

Tito and Khrushchev are at the latter's villa at Yalta on the Black Sea. Khrushchev came to Yugoslavia for an eight-day visit that ended on Thursday, then Tito accompanied Khrushchev back to Russia.

Officially, Krushchev's trip here and Tito's return visit were described as "vacations." But general opinion in Belgrade was that important issues were at stake.

Moscow radio said Tito and other members of his party were entertained at a dinner last night at which Soviet President Klementi Voroshilov and Gen. A. I. Serov, head of the Soviet secret police, also were guests.

Branko Draskovic, spokesman for Tito's Foreign Office, told reporters in the Yugoslav capital today that Tito and Khrushchev held political talks "of an informal character" and with free exchange of opinions.

Belgrade radio quoted Draskovic as saying Yugoslavia knew about circulation of a letter sent to Soviet satellite countries warning them against embracing "Titoism" too wholeheartedly.

Old time Bolsheviks — among them Lazar Kagtnovich and former Foreign Minister V. M. Molotov — were said to be opposing Khrushchev's downgrading of Stalin and forging new friendship with Tito. Soviet Premier Bulganin and Deputy Premier A. I. Mikoyan have been portrayed as undecided between the anti-Stalin group and the Khrushchev supporters.

Yugoslavia was known to be irked over the letter and it was believed Khrushchev may have come here in an attempt to placate Tito.

Swift Strike Is Settled

CHICAGO, Sept. 29 (AP)—Swift & Co. and leaders of its 25,000 strikers announced today they had reached agreement on a new contract.

The two unions involved said a "tremendous victory" had been won.

The 25,000 workers in 38 Swift plants in 37 cities walked off their jobs Sept. 20 in support of demands for a "considerable" wage increase, a union shop and other benefits.

The general wage increase was a 25-cent-an-hour package spread over two years of a three-year contract—10 cents immediately, 7½ cents on Sept. 1, 1957 and another 7½ cents on Sept. 1, 1958.

This followed the pattern set in contracts signed earlier this week with other major packers—who were not struck—by the two unions, the Amalgamated Meat Cutters and Butcher Workmen and the United Packinghouse Workers.

However, the company did not give in on the unions' request for a union shop, or at least a modified version of one.

Gulf Spawns New Storm

By The Associated Press

The upper Texas coast prepared for scattered squalls and winds of 30 miles per hour Saturday night as a new tropical storm formed in the Gulf of Mexico.

But inland the Texas weather was generally fair and clear.

The New Orleans Weather Bureau said at 6 p.m. Saturday the new tropical storm, unnamed thus far, was located 300 to 350 miles south of New Orleans. It was moving northward at 10 to 15 miles per hour and was expected to intensify during the night.

Small craft from Galveston, Tex., to Apalachicola, Fla., were advised to remain in port Saturday night and Sunday.

The Weather Bureau said it planned another report on the storm Sunday morning unless developments warranted an earlier report.

Senatorial Race Has Top Interest

By The Associated Press

The trend of Texas politics shifted during the past week from a complicated governorship race tangle to a complicated senatorial race tangle.

Sen. Price Daniel, Democratic nominee for governor, was the key figure both coming and going.

A brief district court session Friday in Austin apparently ended formal efforts of the Constitution Party to put either W. Lee O'Daniel or his wife on the general election ballot as its candidate for governor. The constitutionalists said they would urge a write-in campaign for the former governor and senator.

At the court session a suit questioning the eligibility of Daniel was dismissed. "All we were interested in was getting Daniel to resign," State Constitution Chairman Joseph Rummler said.

Whether Daniel actually had resigned the Senate post was a controversy fanned into flames Saturday by the Republicans.

Daniel offered Gov. Shivers his resignation Thursday to be effective Jan. 15 or when his successor was elected. Shivers "acknowledged" the offer before leaving on a two-weeks hunting trip to Alaska but delayed action on a special senatorial election until some legal questions were answered.

Then came GOP senatorial candidate Thad Hutcheson of Houston with a threat to file suit if Secretary of State Tom Reavley didn't accept his $50 filing fee for a special election which he said was required on Nov. 6. Reavley said the application was "premature."

Hutcheson said he might file "a mandamus against the acting governor (Lt. Ben Ramsey) to 'accept' the Price Daniel resignation and 'immediately' set the special election."

Hutcheson said he believed that the Supreme Court, if the suit ever got there, would find that Daniel's resignation was "so conditional as to be ineffective, in which event the responsibility will be clearly returned to Sen. Daniel to resign unconditionally now."

All of which may or may not be settled before the new state Democratic Executive Committee meets Thursday. It had been expected the committee would spend most of its session planning a party primary in which a Democratic nominee would be picked to oppose Hutcheson and other party or independent candidates.

Kefauver Will Make Bid For Votes In Swing Across State

WACO, Sept. 29 (AP)—Sen. Estes Kefauver brings the Democratic party's bid for the big Texas farm vote to a drought-parched segment of blackland cotton counties Monday.

It may be the only in-person appeal by either member of the party's presidential team. There are no immediate plans for Adlai Stevenson to speak in Texas.

Kefauver's one-day drive in North and Central Texas in the Democratic effort to win back the state's 24 electoral votes that went to the Republicans in 1952 will begin at Dallas.

After arrival there at 11 a.m. Monday, the vice-presidential nominee flanked by Sen. Lyndon Johnson and other party big wheels will roll southward toward Kefauver's Heart o' Texas Fair speaking appearance here that night.

In Dallas—where Eisenhower was an overwhelming favorite in 1952—Kefauver will begin his day of speaking, handshaking and backslapping at Love Field, then hold a news conference and head for the farm country.

In Ellis, Hill and McLennan counties, where he will meet the voters, he will also be appealing indirectly to Democrats all over the state who followed the GOP party line four years ago. Stevenson carried Ellis, Hill and McLennan in 1952, but all gave the Republican ticket an abnormally heavy vote.

They are all usually rock-ribbed Democratic.

Kefauver's appearance is a vital part in the party's supreme bid to get Texas back. A statewide organization is being perfected with emphasis on close and frequent voter contacts, and on finances.

Spearheads in the driver are Sen. Johnson and Speaker Sam Rayburn, who had vowed after their 1952 licking that they would bring Texas back into line this year.

Rayburn was in Washington and will not accompany the Kefauver party.

After he leaves Dallas, the Tennessee senator will speak at Waxahachie from 1 to 1:30 p.m. Then he moves on to Italy and Milford for handshaking stops. He will speak and visit in Hillsboro, move to West, and then to Waco.

Kefauver is due to arrive in Waco at 4 p.m. where he will rest at the Roosevelt Hotel before his 6:30 p.m. televised fair speech.

He will make another TV appearance and have dinner after being introduced to a rodeo audience at the fair at 8 p.m. Kefauver will spend the night at the Roosevelt and leave for New Mexico early Tuesday.

Rescue Plan For Lake Worked Out

A more effective rescue plan for Lake J. B. Thomas was worked out in a meeting of rescue officials at the lake yesterday afternoon, and new rescue equipment was tested.

Members of the Snyder and Big Spring fire departments and officials of the Colorado River Municipal Water District met at the lake at 2 o'clock to attempt to perfect the lake's rescue organization.

R. A. (Skeet) Schooling, lake superintendent, said that a new method of reporting accidents at the lake was worked out wherein all accidents would be reported directly to the Snyder and Big Spring fire departments simultaneously so that initail rescue teams of two or three men could be dispatched immediately from the two towns to the lake, with calls to go to the departments later if more help were needed.

A new oxygen rescuscitator and skin diving equipment were added to the lake's rescue equipment and tests of the new equipment were made.

"There is good evidence that more stringent enforcement of the lake's safety rules has paid off in lives saved in the past two months, Schooling said.

He pointed out that in the past two months there have been five accidents at the lake which could have been serious, but that in all cases the victims of the accidents were saved by life jackets they were wearing and easily stayed afloat until picked up by other boaters.

"The lake is being rigidly patrolled now to enforce the rule that all persons in boats wear life jackets while on the water," he said.

LAKE J. B. THOMAS RESCUE facilities were expanded in a meeting of rescue officials at the lake yesterday afternoon. An oxygen rescuscitator was one of the pieces of new equipment added to the rescue equipment. It is being examined above by rescue officials from Snyder and Big Spring. Skin diving equipment was also added to the rescue facilities. Shown above from left are: H. W. Clawson, captain of the Big Spring fire department, D. A. Porter, Snyder fire chief, H. V. Henry Rites Set Today

Funeral services for Elmer Eugene Henry, 48, who died in an Amarillo hospital Friday from injuries suffered in a traffic accident, will be held at 2:30 p.m. today in the Hermleigh High School auditorium.

Byron Taylor, minister, will officiate.

Mr. Henry was injured in a traffic accident in Lubbock on Sept. 16 and had been in a hospital there until last Thursday when he was moved to Amarillo to undergo surgery.

In addition to his wife, Mr. Henry is survived by twin sons, Lonnie and Tommie Henry of Hermleigh; his parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. J. Henry of Hermleigh, and a sister, Mrs. Emory Hall of Snyder.

Burial will be in the Pyron Cemetery, under direction of Bolger Funeral Home. Pallbearers will be Ottis Bell, Grover Wall, O. B. Paty, E. A. Sturdivant, G. E. Chorn and Ivy Sturdivant.

Scout Commissioners Slate Meeting Here

A monthly commissioners meeting of the Lone Buffalo District will be held at 7:30 p.m. tomorrow, according to W. A. Smallwood, district commissioner.

The meeting will be held in the office of the city manager in the city hall. All commissioners have been urged to attend the meeting, where discussions will be held on the Boy Scout Exposition to be held Oct. 27 at the exhibit barn in Towle Park.

Plans will be made to visit each Cub Scout pack, Boy Scout troop, and Explorer post throughout the district. While visiting the unit leaders, commissioners will deliver program quarterlies, program notebooks, Jamboree literature, training course information, and will endeavor to secure reservations for booths at the planned Exposition.

Man Paroled By Shivers

BRADY, Tex., Sept. 29 (AP)—David Dutton, 50, Brady rancher convicted of the July 4, 1954, mutilation of Sgt. Clyde M. Bennett at a ranch in Mills County, Tex., today was headed home after Gov. Allan Shivers Thursday approved his prison parole.

Dutton had been serving a 5-year prison term at Huntsville since Oct. 21, 1955.

He and a companion involved in the emasculation case, Roy Barton, 60, also a Brady rancher, were convicted of the mutilation in 26th district court at Georgetown, Tex., in December 1954 and assessed the 5-year term.

Sgt. Bennett, 35 at the time, was stationed at Ft. Sam Houston in San Antonio. He died of a heart attack last Jan. 21 at his home town of Middletown, Pa. He received a $32,000 dollar civil settlement from Dutton and Barton and was discharged from the army.

Barton is still serving his term in the penitentiary.

Elected To Council

KILLEEN, Sept. 29 (AP)—A. W. Stewart and Davis Bragg were elected to the City Council yesterday in a special election.

Glass Plant Strike Ends

PITTSBURGH, Pa., Sept. 29 (AP)—A 27-day strike by 7,000 workers at seven glass plants ended yesterday with agreement on a new one-year contract.

Federal mediator William Rose said the agreement was reached between the American Flint Glass Workers Union and the National Assn. of Manufacturers of Pressed and Blown Glassware, representing the seven firms.

The contract is retroactive to Sept. 1 and provides a six per cent hourly pay increase. Rose said this will mean a minimum of a 10-cent-an-hour hike for the workers, who averaged about $1.75 an hour before the strike.

Plants are at Washington, Jeannette and Greensburg, Pa., Winchester, Va., and Lancaster and Toledo, Ohio. They were expected to be in operation Monday.

Child Is Apparently Strangled To Death

AMARILLO, Sept. 29 (AP)—Anna Fields, 2-months, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Orville Fields, died early today when she apparently strangled between her crib and the wall.

Fields, an airman at Amarillo AFB, found the child's head stuck between the rails of the bed and turned around between the bed and the wall.

Police said the child apparently had been dead from 3 to 5 hours.

Racial, Red Appeals Face High Court

WASHINGTON, Sept. 29 (AP)—The Supreme Court opens a new term Monday confronted with problems developing from racial integration in public schools and renewed attacks on laws aimed at Communist party acitivities.

Troubles arising from the high tribunals's 1955 order to end enforced segregation of pupils "with all deliberate speed" are reflected in three appeals filed during the summer.

Many more on the racial issue are expected to reach the court during its nine-month term.

The justices early in October will take a new look at the Smith Act, the government's main anti-Communist weapon.

Arguments will be heard then on appeals by 14 California Communist leaders, all of whom were convicted of advocating violent overthrow of the government. The act makes such advocacy a criminal offense.

In the same month, arguments will be heard on validity of another major provision of the Smith Act. This provision makes illegal membership in the Communist party by persons who know it to be a subversive organization.

The court then will decide appeals by Claude M. Lightfoot, Chicago Negro who was the first person convicted under the "informed membership" provision, and by Junius I. Scales, Communist party leader in Tennessee and the Carolinas. Lightfoot, an officer of the Illinois Communist party, faces a five-year prison term for his party membership. Scales got a six-year term.

The appeal of Steve Nelson, Pittsburgh Communist, and four alleged associates from a Smith Act conviction was scheduled for argument the week of Oct. 8 but probably will be postponed. The Justice Department yesterday asked the court to send the case back to a lower court for a recheck on the veracity of testimony by Joseph D. Mazzei, a government witness whose testimony helped convict two of the defendants on charges of advocating violent overthrow of the government.

Texas Forest Fires Are Out Of Control

COLLEGE STATION, Sept. 29 (AP)—The Texas Forestry Service said last night 18 forest fires were out of control in the state and that a lack of personnel and equipment hampered fire-fighting efforts.

Tinder-dry conditions continue in all of East Texas. No rain in forecast for that section.

The Forestry Service said several people known to have started fires carelessly have been arrested.

Northeast Texas is hardest hit by the fires. About 400 acres have been burned.

Here's why the new '57 Ford body rides so silent, solid and secure

"Sculptured from solid steel!" That's the feeling you get when you feast your eyes on the new kind of Ford. And that's the feeling you keep through thousands of miles of road travel . . . come rough or smooth.

The doors swing shut with the polished precision of a bank vault. Inside, you sink back luxuriously into seat comfort such as you'll rarely meet even in the finest of living rooms. The engine starts . . . you're off. But wait, something's missing . . . where's the noise?

That's right, let the traffic roar, you can talk in whispers inside the new Ford. It's sound-conditioned against outside and inside noise. More than that, it's insulated and sealed. And, it's solid! Never before in Ford's field has there been a body with so much extra bracing, so firmly anchored to its foundation.

For a totally new kind of ride in a totally new car, see your Ford Dealer Wednesday! Be among the very first to Action-Test the new Ford.

Passengers ride low, between the new contoured frame members of the new '57 Ford for greater safety and comfort. The whole car's so low it hugs the road like a coat of paint. There's even more room inside . . . and you can get in or out easier than ever. Here's a car with a difference . . . that you'll love!

Your Tomorrow Starts with a New Kind of Ford—see it Oct. 3rd.

Serious Drought Poses Threat To Widespread Area

By ROBERT E. FORD

DALLAS, Sept. 29 (AP) — Everywhere in the Southwest today the cry is for rain while farmers and ranchers stagger under what some experts have termed the worst drought since the vast region was settled.

In Texas, Arizona, Oklahoma and New Mexico, ranchers are selling their livestock, sometimes including their breeding herds, because there is no feed for them.

In this great wheat area, which also includes Colorado and Kansas, farmers are "dusting in" their seed and hoping enough rain will fall to bring up the crop. In Kansas, where showers have brought up some wheat, the springs have died for lack of rain.

Most of these states are in the "dust" area, but the fear of wind erosion is not so great in the fall because the severe winds do not occur. There has been some local blowing.

Cities and forested areas also are suffering. Water supplies are extremely low, for many cities, while forest and prairie fires are a constant threat, and often occur, when there is no moisture.

The drought actually dates back to 1947. There hasn't been much rain since, except in 1949, and most experts say this is the worst year yet.

G. G. Gibson of the Texas Extension Service this week said "farmers and ranchers now face probably the most severe situation in their history." He listed the problems as lack of stock water, pastures, short summer and fall crops and no moisture to germinate seed.

Only in areas irrigated by wells —and there's a great deal of that operation in parts of west Texas— are crops good to excellent. Irrigation from streams has almost stopped in Texas because there's no water in the streams. In the intensely irrigated Lower Rio Grande Valley on the Mexican border, it's a struggle to keep citrus trees alive.

The New Mexico drought remains unabated with farmers disposing of breeding herds and talking of leaving the business "until it starts to rain again." Prospects for winter forage are poor and supplemental feeding is under way in nearly all areas.

Prospects of Rio Grande runoff in New Mexico is poor, with only 13 per cent of normal flow expected for the current water year from Colorado watersheds.

In Oklahoma, a large number of towns are restricting water usage, as Txas towns have done. United States engineers report all reservoirs far below normal, both in Texas and Oklahoma. The Grand River—eastern Oklahoma—watershed, which extends into Kansas and Missouri, is said by the engineers to be the "driest in history."

In Oklahoma City, Houston and Dallas and surrounding areas, rainfall this year is only about half normal.

The drought is intensifying in Kansas, which has had almost no effective rain during September. Hot, drying winds have made the situation worse.

The Kansas drought cut the corn crop to the lowest level in 20 years.

Kansas pastures are seared and providing almost no feed. Two major prairie fires in eastern Kansas pasture areas yesterday swept through tinder-dry grass. One burned an estimated 10,000 acres.

The Weather Bureau in Arizona calls it one of the worst drought periods on record there. Reservoirs and stream runoff are at record lows. The entire state has been declared a drought disaster area, with ranchers eligible for aid in buying stock feed.

Missouri is one of the bright spots in the area, although some ranchers are selling cattle to relieve pastures. Farmers are delaying fall planting, hoping for rain and an August dry spell cut into production of soybeans and corn.

Colorado, already suffering, underwent one of the driest Septembers in many years. The Denver weather station says precipitation in this area is only .01 inch so far this month, .99 below normal. Sugar beet and potato yields look good, but wheat prospects are poor.

Veep Carries His Drive To Florida

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla., Sept. 29 (AP)—Vice President Nixon came to this resort city of the old folks today to outline a five-point program he said would do "an effective job for our older citizens to enable them to enjoy a full life."

He ended the second week of his 22-state campaign tour with a blast at Adlai Stevenson for what he called the Democratic presidential nominee's "pie in the sky promises" and the Stevenson-Kefauver "Santa Claus bag full of bright but empty promises for every segment of our society."

"We don't believe in kidding anybody," Nixon said in a speech prepared for delivery here at 8 p.m., EST, "especially those people who have worked hard all their lives and saved their money either personally or through paycheck deductions."

The speech had advance billing from Nixon aides as a "major" utterance on the Republican social security program.

The five pledges Nixon made in the field of social security:

"1. The Eisenhower dollar will remain stable and steady, because a rubber dollar is no foundation on which to plan for the future.

"2. More and better jobs for older workers through a program of research and action, leading to employment for workers over 45 years of age.

"3. Better housing for older persons and we are working vigorously toward this end.

"4. All-out efforts to improve the health of our population during its later years, through research and provision of health services.

"5. Increased opportunities for senior citizens to share in community activities and thereby insure the individual dignity which all Americans deserve."

The Democrats, including Stevenson, he said, "talked a good game, but while they were talking about the dollars they were going to pay in benefits, the value of that dollar collapsed. And this brought terrible hardship to millions of persons on fixed incomes."

He noted that Stevenson recently complained that "only nine persons are working on problems of older persons."

That statement, he said, demonstrated Stevenson's "appalling lack of knowledge about the structure of the federal government which he is so eager to head."

Indian Voting Guide

ALBUQUERQUE, N.M. (AP)—The All Pueblo Council is preparing for distributing among New Mexico's 50,000 Indians a voting guide to spur Indian registration and voting in November. The pamphlet contains both the Democratic and Republican platform statements on Indian affairs, tells how to register and gives tips on voting.

Conservation Vital

Regents of the University of Texas have allocated $10,800 toward a one-year study of weather factors in a practical step toward a solution of the state's No. 1 problem: Water.

Regents expressed the hope that Texas foundations would contribute, too, toward a research fund to finance basic studies of elements relating to weather. Among the studies to be undertaken are such practical matters as the number of cloud formations passing over the state and a better classification of cloud structures. Rainfall measurements, winds and temperatures will be recorded. Much research will be done in the field of natural rainfall, studying the effect of rainfall collision, coalescence and ice-crystals as factors in natural precipitation.

By financing this study and taking the lead, University of Texas regents heavily underlined a vital point: We do not yet know enough about the complex factors affecting Texas weather to answer the question of whether or not man-made rain can be successful.

At a University of Arizona conference on the scientific basis of weather modification, considerable cautious optimism was expressed by meteorologists who took part. Doubts were expressed as to the effectiveness of ground-released nuclei from silver iodide generators. In summarizing the conference, Dr. James E. McDonald of the University of Arizona's Institute of Atmospheric Physics, said, "the conclusion can be drawn that the past decade of effort counsels greater conservation regarding the extent to which coluds may be made to yield precipitation than was originally manifested by enthusiastic exponents of seeding."

The question of how well man's efforts to increase rainfall have succeeded was epitomized by a magazine cartoon depicting two clergymen looking through a church window at a rain outside. One of the clergymen asked the other: "I wonder if it's theirs or ours?"

Meteorologists in general concede that we cannot answer that question at the present time. Much more research is needed. The action of regents of the University of Texas points the way.

Beyond this study of weather modification, however, lies the practical and inescapable problem of what Texas must do to conserve the water resources it now possesses. This generation may yet witness an abundance of man-made rain. But the fact that it is not possible to forecast results in this field in terms of months or years makes it imperative that action be taken by the next Legislature to protect and conserve our water supplies on a long-range, state-wide basis. The Legislature can neither sidestep nor ignore this vital problem.

McLaughlin On Team

The appointment of C. T. McLaughlin as finance chairman for the Stevenson-Kefauver campaign in Texas brings the new Democratic party trend in this state into sharper focus.

McLaughlin, who takes far greater pride in his Snyder ties than many people suspect, is no novice in politics, although the new post probably will put him farther toward the "front" than he has ever been before. He is a former member of the state Democratic executive committee and headed up the campagin to honor Sam Rayburn last year in Washington.

However, most of McLaughlin's political work has been of a "behind-the-scenes" nature, and he is known throughout the state and throughout the Democratic party as an astute political observer and practitioner.

He has long been known as a conservative, but not a radical, and in the present-day political lingo, he probably is best described as a "moderate."

And therein lies the new trend of the Democratic party in Texas. An expansive breach developed between the "conservatives" and the "liberals" which probably reached its zenith four years ago. Today, "moderate" elements of both splinters have joined hands in general, if not in detail, to lay a new keel for the party. Many ultra-conservatives and die-hard liberals remain on the sidelines, but the coalition down the middle appears to have the party machinery under control and a majority of the voters pledged to its support.

McLaughlin is not only a part of this coalition, but he helped weld it, along with Sen. Lyndon Johnson, Sam Rayburn, Price Daniel and others.

The post of finance chairman is not exactly honorary, because it will require some hard work. However, it most assuredly is an honor to have a Snyderite named to this vital post in an important campaign, and C. T. McLaughlin can be depended upon to take care of the work attached to it.

Tight Money, Long In Villain's Role, Still Has Plenty Of Defenders Today

By SAM DAWSON

NEW YORK (AP) — Tight money has been cast in the villain's role in recent months. It has been blamed for everything from the drop in stock prices to the difficulty young couples have in moving into their dream house.

But today some defenders of tight money step forward to insist that it may be our saviour rather than our foe.

A home mortgage spokesman says it may be better for lenders to forego a few loans right now. A life insurance official says tight money will assure a healthier growth of the economy. And a bank economist contends that to ease money would invite really serious trouble later on.

Mortgage lenders naturally would like to see the dollars in which they are repaid be worth as much as the dollars they lend. Life insurance salesmen would like to assure their prospects that benefit payments would be made in money that would buy as much in goods and services as the dollars used to pay premiums. And bankers have a natural fondness for stable money conditions as well as profiting by the higher interest rates that tight money usually brings.

But the three don't attack the problems solely along these lines. Their larger idea is to protect good times and stretch them out.

Let's look at their arguments, now that so much is being said—and with perhaps equal authority—on the other side:

The Guaranty Trust Co. of New York in its October survey out today says that present tight money conditions are a natural development and not contrived by the Federal Reserve Board, which has merely refrained from intervening to prevent money from tightening itself. The bank says the money market is behaving "very much as a completely free market would behave."

The bank's economist notes that "saving constitutes the basic source of supply of loanable funds." The source of demand comes from the business concerns, individuals and governments wanting to borrow for investment in plants, raw materials, inventories, housing or public works.

When the demand for investment outruns saving, the money gets tight and interest rates rise. That's what has been happening. And the bank says it's a healthy thing.

On a more earthy level, the life insurance and mortgage lending men attack the problem as it affects inflated prices and future savings.

A reasonably stable price level is necessary for continuous economic growth, Ray D. Murphy, board chairman of Equitable Life Assurance Society, says. He tells the annual meeting in Washington of the National Assn. of Life Underwriters that insurance men mustn't sit idly by if in the future the government should "adopt policies which rob policyholders and annuitants of their savings."

Giving up a few loans on houses now is better than risking more inflation, according to Walter H. Dreier, president of the U.S. Savings & Loan League. The Chicagoan says "unless we can promise that the dollar will remain stable and retain its purchasing power" people won't save.

And if they don't the league members and the bankers won't have the money to lend to would-be buyers of homes.

LITERARY GUIDEPOST

OFF THE BOOK BEAT — A young woman with pitch black hair and the intriguing features — the shape of eyes, nose, check bones — which are part European and part Asiatic, has written a novel saying in effect that what looks intriguing to the rest of us did not intrigue her at all; in fact, was a symbol of her principal problem.

The girl was the problem is Diana Chang; her novel is "The Frontiers of Love," out this week; and the problem was this sort of double identity. Which side did she belong on? Was she European? — the European part is Irish, too. Or was she Chinese?

She was born in New York City, and she and her parents have returned to the city now; but from her babyhood until the close of the last war she lived in Shanghai, the setting of her novel, and in Peiping and Nanking. She spoke Chinese "but not well," she claims; her chief language was English.

"I felt after I grew up," she says, "that I was constantly stooping under a low ceiling of anxiety. Who was I? It wasn't a question of race except in general terms. In more immediate ways it was personal and intimate. I had two bases to work from, two contrasting backgrounds, on each side of the Pacific, and I had to find out which I could settle for, and what, by itself, it could do for me."

She solved her personal problem by posing and solving a literary problem: As she wrote about Eurasians in Shanghai and arbitrarily arranged their lives for them, she discovered she was arranging her own to her satisfaction, too. Her home now is New York.

WASHINGTON LETTER

Former Lady Mayor Has Wide Interests

By JANE EADS

WASHINGTON — Dorothy McCullough Lee, former first lady mayor of Portland, Ore., recently appointed a member of the Subversive Activities Control Board, confesses to "quite a streak of domesticity."

She also likes to fish in mountain streams.

It's been a long time however, since she has had time to cook and sew, or fish, the gentle voiced very feminine former lawyer and jurist who fills the vacancy on the board left by the retiring former Sen. Harry F. Cain of Washington, explains.

Mrs. Lee says she can't remember when she last had a vacation. The wife of an oil company executive and mother of two children, both adopted, she has made her home in Washington since coming here three years ago as a member of the Federal Parole Board.

Yousie Fujiwara, who formed the Fujiwara Opera Company of Tokio, now appearing in the United States, is hoping for a big success in this country.

An opera star who made his debut in "La Boheme" at L'Opera Comique in Paris, he said while in the capital: "If you are successful in Washington and New York the rest of the world hears about it." The company formed in 1933 last appeared in the United States three years ago.

Three Americans are singing the English roles in the company's presentation of "Madame Butterfly." They include Edwin Dunning of New York and his wife, Polly Pell, whose uncle Robert Pell, and cousin, Claibourne Pell, are with the State Department here. The regular cast also includes one of Japan's leading movie idols, Satoshi Nakamura, seen by American audiences in the film "Madame Butterfly," and pretty Masako Toda, leading opera star of the Cherry Blossom land.

Fujiwara commented to a cocktail party group that "as usual, the women in the company are more temperamental than the men," and added, "I'm their bellboy, manager, sometimes a singer, a producer, and now in this country, often the interpreter."

Many Unsuspected Aspects Are Being Revealed Today About Desegregation

By HOLMES ALEXANDER

WASHINGTON, D. C. — Among the other sins for which Adolph Hitler presumably is now roasting, there's the damage he did by associating his name and methods with the subject of racial differences.

Yet the sin is partly his, and partly our own. For going on a quarter-century now, Hitlerism and racism have been identified in the same family of thought. A whole generation has grown up in the muddle-headed emotionalism of hate one, hate the other. People with brains enough to know better argue that Hitler was a fiend, ergo racism is a fiendish idea. It's guilt by association on the ideological level.

But Hitler's been dead for more than a decade, and surely it's time for clearer thinking. It's time we saw that in making war on racism, as in making war on Hitlerism, we are allying ourselves with Communism, a far greater menace to the USA than Der Fuehrer ever was.

Racism, as we use the word today, means that there are differences between one race and another. The differences may be in pigmentation, physical characteristics, intellectual dexterity, tolerance to heat and cold, and so forth. These are scientific facts, not moral judgments. Yet people and organizations with a special interest in smudging the facts of racism make a habit of charging their opponents with moral Hitlerism — or with some atrocious equivalent.

But the truth will out. A House subcommittee is now revealing the regrettable but undeniable facts arising from two years of desegregated schools in the District of Columbia. Just before the subcommittee convened, a national magazine had the effrontery to publish a scientific study of racism by a Villanova professor. His survey was based on information gathered from testing young people in drafts of the two World Wars and in the nation's schools. Antedating both the House hearing and the magazine article, there appeared some paragraphs in this column where "racial prejudice" was identified as the wisdom of the ages. General rules, of course, do not apply to gifted individuals. But there is no getting away from the run of averages. By practical experience, by scientific testing, by common knowledge, we reach the unavoidable and (to some people) the unwelcome truth that American Negroes in some sections of the country at the present time are of a lower intelligence average than American whites.

This is not a disgrace to the Negroes, but it is an important social fact. To ignore it, or deny it, or conceal it, would be an act of incredible unwisdom or of criminal intent. There is proof already that misled Americans too often become the dupes of Communist saboteurs. One way and another, we have turned up Americans willing to rescue Communism from military defeat, to supply Communism with atomic secrets, to argue Communism's case under the protection of the Constitution. It is no wonder that many kind-hearted Americans, who haven't thought the thing through, are being deceived into believing that there is something Hitlerian about acknowledging the racial facts of life.

The Communist revolution has a number of pretty well-defined objectives. Among these are to destroy the will to think, to destroy belief in God and love of country, to level down such distinctions as men may have gained by reason of wealth, education, cultural or biological advantage. Only when this process of level-down has been achieved, or at least advanced to an optimum degree, as in a subjugated or seduced nation, can the Marxian utopia be obtained.

While the utopian goal is probably unobtainable the condition of being a subjugated or seduced nation is not. Popular education, the level-down kind, has already gone a distance toward making another generation of Magi like the Founding Fathers unlikely. Desegregated education, which is a further level-down, carries the process of national debilitation ahead. When you get desegregation as the result of a judicial ruling, rather than a legislative action, you have an example of self-government beginning to go to seed. And when, on top of it all, you have the principle of level-down forced upon one-fourth of the American Union by a combination of pressure groups and propagandists, then your country is in a bad way.

There must be others, like myself, who did not comprehend these things until the issue was actually joined. If we see more clearly now, with the truth about racism beginning to be accepted, it's mainly because the South has stood and fought, as it has before, against insuperable odds, preferring death before dishonor of its blood.

The South will not give in, will not run away, will not accept any shameful terms of face-saving. If the fight is pressed, the South will certainly suffer and much that is best about America, resident in the South, may well be destroyed. It would be a victory for Hitlerism and Communism both.

West Exhausts Ideas On How To Cope With Nasser

By JAMES MARLOW

WASHINGTON (AP) — Egypt's strong man, President Nasser, has the West in knots. The United States, Britain and France seem to have run out of ideas on how to handle him.

Ever since Nasser seized the Suez Canal July 26 — he called it nationalizing the canal on the ground that it belongs to Egypt — the Western powers have squirmed to find some way to make him loosen his grip.

Although the canal lies in Egypt it has been under the international control of the Suez Canal Co. for 68 years. Throughout the time it collected tolls which mostly went to the company. Egypt got only a part.

Nasser says: enough of that. Egypt will take over the company and collect the tolls. There will be no more international control of the canal, he says. And there he stands, letting the West do the talking.

The Western powers, whose ships are the main users of the canal, want some kind of international control. They know that if Nasser alone runs it, he can keep out their ships anytime and put an economic strange-hold on them.

They argue that he has violated an international agreement made in 1888 by nine nations — which didn't include Egypt since Egypt was under the thumb of the Turks and British at the time — that the canal is an international waterway.

If the Western powers had shown as much interest in keeping the canal truly open to all powers — before they themselves were involved — Nasser might not have been able to get away with his seizure now.

Egypt has barred Israeli ships and ships bound for Israel, ever since 1948, before Nasser came to power in Egypt. Egypt's explanation for that action: she was at war with Israel and never made peace.

This is the story since Nasser took over the canal in July:

Britain and France talked at first of blasting Nasser loose from the canal if he didn't let go. If they tried it — and Nasser says he would fight back — it might mean world war.

The rough talk of the British and French worried Secretary of State Dulles, who said this country wouldn't try to shoot its way through the canal. He went to London for a meeting with Britain. France and other nations. Eighteen of them agreed on a plan which they submitted to Nasser and which anyone could have predicted would fail.

They proposed an international board, including Egypt, to run the canal. Nothing doing, Nasser said. No international control for him. Dulles in the meantime came home. The French and British started talking tough again.

Dulles had an idea: create a canal users association. He rushed back to London. Another meeting. Another agreement; this time that there should be a Suez Canal Users Assn.

Last Friday they issued their explanation — a hodgepodge of vague phrases that seemed to have no practical meaning except that it was hoped this might start negotiations with Nasser.

Comedians Have A Reason For Wearing Eye Glasses

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP)—Ever wonder why so many comedians wear glasses?

A Broadway cynic might say the reason was "so they can make their audience look larger." But if this were true most comedians would wear hearing aids, too, in order to convince themselves they were getting louder laughs.

Phil Silvers says this is why he first started wearing specs as stage props 25 years ago:

"I learned people like a sign of weakness in a performer. It makes him seem more human, and gives them more of a fellow-feeling toward him."

Phil wore only empty frames when he originally donned his trademark glasses as a young burlesque comic. But now, at 44, he finds it convenient to wear lenses in them. He finds they are a great help in reading the fine print on racing forms—and to see where he is going.

Just where he is going is very much on Phil's agile mind these days.

After 30 hectic years as an entertainer, he feels he is in the position of a sophomore at the moment.

Before the opening of the 1955 television season CBS gambled nearly a million dollars on a new network series called "You'll Never Get Rich," starring Silvers as Sgt. Bilko.

They hadn't even lined up a sponsor, but their goal was to end the eight-year-reign of NBC's Milton Berle as TV's Tuesday night king.

Phil succeeded where Red Skelton, Red Buttons, Gene Autry and Frank Sinatra had failed. He dethroned Miltie, became the comedian of the year. But this year?

"I'm a sophomore now," said Phil, wryly. "And the brickbats are sure to come."

25 YEARS AGO

(Taken from the files of the Scurry County Times, Oct. 1, 1931)

King Cotton is just a has-been in the project program planned by 23 members of the Future Farmers' Club of Snyder High School. Calves, pigs, chickens, cows, gardens and feed reign supreme in the plan outlined by those boys who are taking vocational agriculture under the directions of A. C. Hammond.

After 21 years of continuous business in Snyder, J. H. Sears and son, Forest Sears, have announced that their entire stock of clothing and dry goods will be sold out. Saturday is the opening day for their "quit business" sale. J. H. Sears and Company is a Scurry County institution. The Sears family has helped this section grow to its present place in the sun, for its civic, social and religious activities have been continuous and upbuilding.

• • •

Mr. and Mrs. H. L. Alderson and little daughter, formerly of Lamesa, have become new residents of Snyder, where Mr. Alderson has accepted a position with Bryant-Link Company. Mr. Alderson is with the dry goods department in the local store.

• • •

Most of the rural schools in Scurry County will not open until late October and early November, according to A. A. Bullock, county superintendent. Exact opening dates are uncertain, and probably will not be set until most of the cotton crop is picked. Use of home pickers almost exclusively this year will keep most children in the fields for a few weeks yet.

Hollywood Today

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—The first anniversary of James Dean's death recalls other young stars whose careers have been cut short by tragedy.

Carole Lombard had reigned for a decade as perhaps the greatest light comedienne the screen has known. She was 32 when she died in a plane crash on a snow-capped Nevada mountain Jan. 17, 1942.

She was returning from a war bond tour in the East. Her death was a stunning blow to her husband, Clark Gable.

Another lively star was erased from the Hollywood scene Dec. 14, 1944, this time by her own hand. She was Lupe Velez, fiery Mexican actress. She had arrived in Hollywood at 16 in 1926, and her hectic romances kept her in the public prints.

She was so full of life Hollywood found it hard to believe she had killed herself. In a bitter farewell note, she accused French actor Harold Ramond of abandoning her and the unborn child she carried with her to death. She was 34.

Caroline Landis did a lot of living in her 11 years in Hollywood. She was married and divorced four times. She was 29 when her body was found by actor Rex Harrison July 5, 1948, in the bathroom of her Pacific Palisades home. An empty sleeping pill bottle was nearby. A note to her mother gave no indication as to why she chose suicide.

Robert Walker was a serious, intent actor when he came to Hollywood with his wife, who later became Jennifer Jones. He found fame in "See Here, Private Hargrove," Then she won an Oscar, divorced him and married her producer, David Selznick.

Feeling "I didn't deserve happiness," Walker went on a lengthy bender. He sought psychiatric aid at Menninger's clinic in Topeka, Kan., and returned to pictures He died suddenly Aug. 28, 1951, at with apparent emotional stability. 32, following a freak reaction to a sedative.

Robert Francis was a postman's son who found sudden success as Willie Keith in "The Caine Mutiny." At 25 he was destined for a bright career when the light plane he was piloting crashed into a parking lot after taking off at Lockheed Air Terminal July 31, 1955.

Five days later, death again struck a young star. She was Suzan Ball, whose valiant fight against cancer had cost her a leg, and then her life. Hopeful to the last, she died at 21.

Adlai Says Draft Wasteful, Unfair

By ED CREAGH

MINNEAPOLIS, Sept. 29 (AP) — Adlai Stevenson said tonight that the military draft is "a wasteful, inefficient and often unfair" way of maintaining armed force strength and chided President Eisenhower for his stand that drafting of men cannot be ended in the immediate future.

In his last major speech on the first formal campaign trip he has undertaken this election Stevenson also called for a "new approach" to meeting the problem of the hydrogen bomb.

He said he was "distressed" that Eisenhower has rejected his suggestions on both the draft and the H-bomb problems.

Stevenson compared the draft with the Maginot Line on which France defended in World War II —and which crumpled under the German onslaught.

"We must not let Selective Service become our Maginot Line," Stevenson declared in an address prepared for Minneapolis' "Bean Feed" following a day of motorcade speeches in the Minneapolis St. Paul area.

In one talk, Stevenson repeated an attack he made last night on the Eisenhower administration's policy toward keeping living costs down and denied a charge by Secretary of Labor Mitchell that he has engaged in "distortion" and "false and irresponsible statements."

Stevenson said his contention that living costs have reached an all-time high are based on the administration's own figures. And he declared Mitchell "has tried to confuse the voters" by challenging the figures Stevenson gave in an address last night.

Tonight, turning to foreign affairs for his theme, Stevenson first said the draft "is fast becoming an obsolete way" of getting the needed manpower into the armed services.

"What I am suggesting," he said, "is that we ought to take a fresh and open-minded look at the weapons revolution and the whole problem of recruiting and training military manpower. We may very well find that in the not distant future we can abolish the draft and at the same time have a stronger defense and at lower costs."

Stevenson also renewed his controversy with Eisenhower over the Democratic nominee's proposal that the United States take the lead in halting future H-bomb tests. Eisenhower told a recent news conference that a proposal along that line was only "a theatrical gesture."

Stevenson said he was "shocked" that Eisenhower "brushed off" his suggestion.

Stevenson said some measure of disarmament including control of the H-bomb, is the first order of business in the world today.

"It is not enough to say, well, we have tried and failed to reach agreement with the Russians," Stevenson said, "It is not enough to throw up our hands and say it's no use to try this or that new approach. This is one time we cannot take no for an answer, for life itself depends on our ultimately finding the right yes."

In one of his speeches along the way, Stevenson took notice of a layoff at the farm machinery plant of the Minneapolis-Moline Co. here which put 1,250 persons out of work. He spoke of this, the third layoff at the plant in three years, as reflecting bad times in agriculture.

Sherman Junior High Auditorium Is Burned

SHERMAN, Sept. 29 (AP)—Fire destroyed the auditorium of Sherman Junior High School last night and heavily damaged the rest of the building. Damage was estimated at $250,000.

Supt. Byron Davis said the school building had been undergoing more than $80,000 worth of refurbishing. The last classroom paint job was completed Friday.

Suit Is Dismissed

BEAUMONT, Sept. 29 (AP)—A $253,814,800 patent suit against Humble Oil, filed by Kinnear-Weed Corp. of Beaumont, was dismissed yesterday by Federal Judge Lamar Cecil. Kinnear-Weed contended its president, C. D. Kinnear of Houston, invented jet-type drill bits used in the oil industry and claimed Humble infringed on the patents.

Telephones, an invention of Alexandar Graham Bell, remained silent for one minute throughout America during funeral services for the inventor in 1922.

MISS PERMIAN BASIN OIL OF '56—is fetching Miss Judy Cranfill of Odessa. Her job will be to help publicize, as attractively as possible, the Permian Basin Oil Show, scheduled for Oct. 18-21 in Odessa. Even though Judy is not to be included among exhibits of the latest oil-field equipment and services, record crowds are expected for this oil-field workers' show. Billed as the world's biggest observance of Oil Progress Week in 1956, the event features a round of Hollywood entertainers and side attractions.

Motion To Release Gambler Is Denied

SAN ANTONIO, Sept. 29 (AP)—A motion to release gambler Benny Binion from the federal penitentiary at Leavenworth, Kan., was denied yesterday by Federal Judge Ben Rice Jr.

Jacob Kossman, who filed the motion, argued that the five-year concurrent terms imposed on three income tax fraud counts should have been a maximum of one year each.

Binion, of Las Vegas, Nev., and formerly of Dallas, pleaded guilty in 1953 to an attempt to evade "a large part of his and his wife's income taxes" on returns for 1947 and 1948. He was sentenced Dec. 14, 1953 to five years and $10,000 in fines.

Services Announced

STAMFORD, Sept. 28 (AP)—Services for William Simpson, airman killed in the crash of an Air Force plane near Buena Vista, Colo., Monday, will be held here at 2 p.m. Sunday.

Battle For Senate Control Is Centered In Six States

WASHINGTON, Sept. 29 (AP)—The battle for control of the Senate the next Congress now centers in six states, in the view of campaign strategists of both parties here.

Experts for the Republican and Democratic Senate Campaign Committees, who supply much of the ammunition fired far from Washington, list the battlegrounds as Connecticut, New York, Pennsylvania, Kentucky, Idaho and Oregon.

Democrats appear to feel their best chances to oust Republicans are in the states now represented by Sens. Bush (R-Conn), Duff (R-Pa) and Welker (R-Idaho).

Republican strategists are pinning much of their hopes on the possibility of defeating Sen. Morse (Democrat-Ore), a one-time Republican, and on picking up the posts left vacant by the retirement of Sen. Lehman (D-Leh, NY) and the death of Sen. Alben W. Barkley (D-Ky.)

However, the Democrats believe they also have good prospects of overturning GOP senators in Ohio, and California, while Republicans think they may be able to take over seats held by the Democrats in Nevada and West Virginia.

Both sides concede the fight for Senate control is tough. Sen. Knowland (Calif), the GOP Senate leader, said he believed that whichever side emerges victorious will have only the two-vote edge the Democrats mustered through the 84th Congress. The lineup is now 49 Democrats, 47 Republicans.

Sen. Smathers (Fla), head of the Democratic Senate Campaign Committee, agreed that he looked for no landslide victory.

In the races where the Democrats are most confident, they have Rep. Thomas J. Dodd (D-Conn.) running against Bush, former Mayor Joseph S. Clark of Philadelphia against Duff, and Frank Church, 32, a Boise attorney, against Welker.

The Republicans in the races where their hopes are highest, are pitting former Secretary of the Interior Douglas McKay against Morse, New York Atty. Gen. Jacob K. Javits against Robert F. Wagner of New York, and former Sen. John Sherman Cooper (R-Ky) against former Kentucky Gov. Lawrence W. Wetherby.

Democratic candidates in other races where Democratic optimism is high are Frank Lausche, five term governor of Ohio, who is opposing Sen. Bender (R - Ohio); George P. Mahoney, running against Sen. Butler (R-Md); and State Sen. Richard Richards of Los Angeles, opposing Sen. Kuchel (R-Calif).

In the two states where the Republicans feel they have excellent prospects aside from their top three, they are pitting former Sen. Revercomb (R-WVa) against Gov. William C. Marland of West Virginia, and Rep. Clifton Young (R-Nev) against Sen. Bible (D-Nev).

Four other Democratic senators running for re-election this time have fights on their hands, but the party's strategists consider them well ahead. These are Sens. Clements (D-Ky), Hayden (D-Ariz.) Hennings (D-Mo) and Magnuson (D-Wash).

COTTON BURRS are spread on the Leonard Spence farm northwest of Snyder. This is one of many farms here which have been using the burrs for soil building and other purposes. (Lee Watson photograph)

98 PER CENT

Cotton Burrs Put To Use

Cotton burrs are being put to good use this year instead of being burned, a recent suvey of gins in Scurry County reveals.

Some gins reported all their burrs are being applied to the land for soil building and protection, while other gins' reports are that about 75 per cent of the burrs are being hauled away for cattle feed.

With the exception of one gin in the county, some 98 per cent of the burrs have been hauled back to the farms, or will be before the ginning season ends.

The Planters Gin east of Snyder has had more burrs than they had demand for, but it appears that most gins have more demand than burrs. It has been necessary for some gins to ration burrs out, since some landowners would take about as many as they could get locally during a dry year.

The burrs are being applied to the land by burr loaders, scoops, forks, and trailers, They are used primarily to reduce evaporation, keep down blowing, and to build up the organic matter of the soil. Increased production from crops, as well as increases in size of stalks, have been noted following application of burrs.

Irrigation farmers west of Snyder are making it a practice to fertilize legumes, following this in the fall with an application of burrs. Four tons or more per acre are applied to give uniform coverage of the land.

Cooperators of the Upper Colorado Soil Conservation District who are applying burrs or plan to before harvest ends, according to Guy Moore, work unit conservationist for the Soil Conservation Service, include Ben Brooks, Carmon Hobbs, Claude McCormick, J. B. Patterson, Vernon Stipes, Herman Hundsnurcher, T. A. Echols, Perry Echols, and others.

All the gins in the county have fans which run at the speed required to destroy the pink boll worm. Ginners said they are glad to have farmers haul the burrs away, since this saves burning the burrs. The gins have speaial loading outlets where farmers can park their trailers until they fill with burrs.

Irrigated Winter Covers Are Urged

Now that farmers have completed irrigation of their summer crops, what are they going to do with their irrigation equipment?

A sizeable investment is represented by irrigation systems alone. Some farmers will stock their equipment and wait until next spring to use it again. Others have planted, or will plant, winter crops and use their irrigation systems to water these crops, which are used for improving the soil and providing protection against blowing. In many cases a good winter crop can be turned into cash.

Most farm irrigation systems represent an investment of about $10,000, some of them running as much as $20,000. To get the most for their money farmers should operate their irrigation systems as many hours as possible. It is hard to justify that much expenditure for only three months of use.

By irrigating a winter crop according to plant and soil needs and maintaining a safe reserve of moisture in the soil at all times the job of preplanting irrigation will be reduced by the amount of moisture in the soil planted to a winter crop. If all the irrigated land is in cover crops and the soil moisture is maintained at 50 per cent field capacity or above, then only half as much water will be required before spring planting as would be required had no winter irrigation been done.

The winter cover crop when properly incorporated into the soil will help reduce evaporation from the soil surface and increase water-holding capacity will permit application of larger amounts of water at each irrigation and longer periods between irrigations. Everyone knows the advantages of increased fertility.

Soil Conservation Service technicians assisting the soil conservation district are offering their aid to farmers in planning irrigated winter cover crops and indeterming when and how much water to apply at each irrigation. It is just important to do an efficient irrigation job on winter cover crops as on cotton. A good co dreiurngv as on cotton. A good cover during the blowing season can keep the soil at home to grow a crop on instead of letting it blow onto the neighbor's farm.

Drought Reporting Must Be Accurate

HOUSTON, Sept. 29 (AP)—The long drought is a challenge to Texas journalism, an editor from dry West Texas told the Houston Journalism Assembly meeting at the University of Houston today.

Dean Chenoweth, editor of the San Angelo Standard Times, said Texas journalists must accurately report the facts about the impact of the drought.

Water is a valuable resource and its scarcity is a statewide problem, Chenoweth declared. East Texas with plentiful rainfall is also affected by the drought problem, he declared.

State water laws, including water rights and development policies must be re-examined, the editor said.

People all over the state must be informed of the real impact of the water problem, and that is a job for the press, he said.

Chenoweth paid tribute to West Texans who have withstood seven years of drought. Many have been forced from farming and ranching but they have found other livelihoods and have stayed, he said.

DAIRYMEN in this area are buying feed from every source now to keep milk production going, including using ensilage. Here, Wayland Mathis, Fluvanna dairyman, shown on the ground, and his employe, John Rogers, shown on the truck, are loading feed from a trench silo owned by Billy Huddleston, five miles north of Snyder. This is one of three trench silos owned by Huddleston from which Mathis bought ensilage. Mathis has 75 head of Holsteins to feed. Ensilage is selling in this area for about $10 per ton. (Lee Watson photograph)

Farmers Face Most Severe Situation In Their History

COLLEGE STATION (AP)—The Texas Extension Service said today that Texas farmers and ranchers now face probably the most severe situation in their history and the lack of rainfall causes conditions to worsen daily.

Drought has caused a critical shortage of range, pasture and feeder crops for livestock, and below average crop yields. The moisture shortage also is delaying planting of winter feed crops, Director G. G. Gibson said after a report from district agricultural agents.

Many farmers are preparing land and some are dry-planting seed to have them in the soil for a fast start when moisture does fall. A shortage of stockwater is adding to the cause of increased movement of livestock to market.

Only a few widely scattered showers have been reported, bringing with them encouragement but very little relief to the Panhandle, South Plains and Central Texas. Cotton harvest has moved into the irrigated fields in the El Paso and South Plains areas.

"The shortage of stockwater is developing into the most critical condition in North Texas," Ted Martin said at Denton. "Shortage of feed all summer and the present shortage of hay and the high price of it is causing the number of cattle marketed to increase rapidly."

Farming operations in South Texas are at a standstill except in irrigated areas, Joe Rothe at Weslaco said. Supplemental feeding of livestock and reduction of foundation herds continues in all inland counties in South Texas.

Cotton and grain sorghum in the intensely irrigated South Plains is maturing rapidly, reported W. H. Jones at Lubbock. Sorghum harvester is around 20 per cent complete in some counties and cotton harvest ranges from 5 per cent to 20 per cent complete with yields about normal.

Knox Parr at Amarillo said showers in the western part of the Panhandle were encouraging but were not enough to relieve the extremely dry conditions which have caused wheat seeding to stop, pastures to dry and more cattle to go to market. Cotton, silage and alfalfa is being harvested, and carrots in Deaf Smith and Parmer counties and potatoes in the Texline area are moving to market.

In the hard-hit Edwards Plateau, Runnels County reports the lowest cotton crop on record, and Goncho County estimates only about 500 bales from 25,000 acres, said V. G. Young at San Angelo. Concho County also reports most of the lambs and many ewes have been sold, and movements of goats from Kimbell County to market are large.

East Texas pastures are drying up fast, hay is scarce and cattle are losing weight with large numbers going to market each week, John Surovik at Mount Pleasant said.

A large amount of the rolling plains wheat acreage is going into the soil bank, James Simmons reported at Vernon. Grain sorghum and cotton yields continue low and six or more counties report shortage of pickers. Ranges are dry, stockwater is being hauled in many sections and alfalfa stands have been severely damaged in Foard and some other counties.

The Gulf Coast grain and cotton harvest is near complete with stalks being grazed or destroyed, said Silver Whitsett at Richmond. However, a lack of moisture and high temperatures has pastures in bad condition and cattle in poor to fair condition. Rice yields are good.

Election Is Declared Void In Starr County

RIO GRANDE CITY, Sept. 29 (AP)—An election of delegates to the Starr County Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Convention has been declared void.

Notices that the results are void were received Wednesday from G. C. Caruthers, state administration officer for the ASC, Starr county attorney F. R. Nye Jr. said.

Farmers filed complaints in the county attorney's office in which they said they were dissatisfied with results of the election and questioned the number of absentee ballots cast.

Van Zandt Trying For Winter Crop

By SAM WHITLOW
Texas Editor
Farmer-Stockman Magazine
Written For The Associated Press

Canton, Tex., Sept. 29 (AP) — Planting of oats and vetch in this Van Zandt County area of East Texas is getting lots of attention from farmers. They'll plant and hope for favorable moisture conditions.

Todd W. Berry, Van Zandt County agricultural agent, says the Nortez and Mustang varieties of oats are used largely, and will be used for both grazing and hay.

Vetch and oats are also planted together, and can be used for grazing, as well as a seed crop. Heaviest plantings are expected during the period of Oct. 1.

"Coastal Bermuda grass has been successful in our county," Berry said. Several hundred acres were planted this year, and an increase in the plantings is anticipated for 1957. The grass is reported to stand drought periods well and furnishes abundant grazing and hay where moisture conditions are anywhere near favorable.

This coastal bermuda grass is gaining many followers through wide regions of Northeast Texas.

Berry said that interest in irrigation is spreading in Van Zandt County, where some 40 to 50 sprinkler irrigation systems were in use this year. He believes this number will increase to 50 to 60 systems in 1957.

Principal crops irrigated in the county are vegetables. Under Irrigation, the crops receive heavier applications of fertilizers.

Due to dry weather, the sweet potato crop in the county this year is light.

Livestock plays an important part in the agricultural economy of the county, where there are some 45,000 beef cattle.

OIL NEWS

Full Oil Picture Will Be Discussed

DALLAS, Sept. 29—The nation's economy, plight of the domestic oil producer, and the world-wide oil picture will be covered by industry leaders and a top government official at the 37th annual meeting of the Texas Mid-Continent Oil & Gas Association, Tuesday and Wednesday in Houston.

Approximately 1,000 oil men from Texas and over the nation are expected to attend the two-day meet at the Rice Hotel. An added feature of the meeting will be courtesy helicopter service from Houston International Airport to downtown Houston.

Speakers will include U. S. Secretary of Commerce Sinclair Weeks; M. J. Rathbone, New York, president, Standard Oil Co. (NJ); Association President French M. Robertson, Abilene; L. L. Colbert, Detroit, president, Chrysler Corp.; and L. F. McCollum, Houston, president, Continental Oil Co.

Robertson, McCollum, and Colbert are native Texans.

Two highlight events will be the presentation of the Association's Distinguished Service Awards to Robert B. Anderson, New York, former Association president, Deputy Secretary of Defense, and Navy Secretary, and Ben C. Belt, Houston, who retired last year as vice-president of production, Gulf Oil Corp., Houston division.

The opening day session will include addresses by President Robertson and McCollum, who will speak on "Casting Up the Ledger." Tuesday's Distinguished Service Award presentation to Belt will be made by I. P. LaRue, Athens independent operator.

Wednesday speakers include Rathbone, who will speak on "The Job of Meeting the World's Rising Demand for Oil"; Colbert, whose talk will be "The Dynamics of Confidence"; and Secretary Weeks, who will address the group on "Today's Challenge."

Anderson's Award will be presented Wednesday morning by Hines H. Baker, Houston, president, Humble Oil & Refining Co. A native Texas who once managed the W. T. Waggoner Estate's oil and cattle interests at Vernon, Anderson now is president of Ventures Ltd., a Canadian holding firm with extensive mining interests.

Belt, a pioneer oil man, now serves as president of the Houston Chamber of Commerce and is chairman of the Texas Research League. The Award is presented every year to an independent producer and a representative of a major company for outstanding contributions to the oil and gas industry.

The afternoon of the opening day will be devoted to committee meetings: O. P. Nicola, Bartlesville, Okla., director of proration, production department, Phillips Petroleum Co., will address the Forms Committee.

On Tuesday night a reception will be held in the Houston Petroleum Club, followed by the Association's annual dinner in the Crystal Ballroom, Rice Hotel.

Business sessions will end Wednesday noon. The Association's annual golf tournament will be held in the afternoon at River Oaks Country Club.

Borden Well Is Completed In Spraberry

Robert S. Brennand, Jr., of Midland No. 1 J. R. Roper, Central Borden County wildcat, five miles southwest of Gail completed as a producer from the Spraberry for a daily pumping potential of 149 barrels of 38 gravity oil plus eight per cent basic sediment and water. Gas-oil ratio was 245-1. The production was from perforations at 6,475-6,540 feet. That interval had been fractured with 25,000 gallons of oil mixed with 50,000 pounds of sand.

This discovery is one and one-half miles southwest of the Apclark (Spraberry) field and is 1,980 feet from south and west lines of section 9, block 31, T-4-N, T&P survey.

It drilled to 8,258 feet and set 5½-inch casing at that point. The Pennsylvanian reef zone at 8,124-42 feet swabbed and flowed 140 barrels of new oil in 12 hours after being washed with 500 gallons of mud acid and treated with 3,000 gallons of regular acid.

That zone is now shutoff with a temporary plug between it and the Spraberry shot holes.

North Scurry Test Plugged At 5,224

Arthur Finston and Apache Drilling Co. drilled to 5,224 feet in red beds at No. 1-560 Fuller Ranch, North Scurry County wildcat, and found no shows of commercial production. The tester was plugged.

Location was 660 feet from north and east lines of section 560, block 97, H&TC survey, 18 miles northeast of Snyder.

Howard Wildcat Quit

A. K. Turner, Jr., of Big Spring quit No. 1 John H. Weber, Northwest Howard County wildcat, at 276 feet in red beds.

Drillsite was 330 feet from north and west lines of section 35, block 33, T-2-N, T&P survey, and 11 miles northwest of Big Spring.

Outposts In Borden Set

Continental Oil Co. and Seaboard Oil Co. et al staked location to drill two outposts to the Arthur Spraberry pool in Southwest Borden County.

Continental will drill No. 2-34 Good as an 8,100-foot test, ¼-mile east of the pool and 660 feet from south and east lines of section 34, block 33, T-4-N, T&P survey.

Seaboard scheduled No. 1-35 T. J. Good as a ½-mile east outpost to the pool, and 660 feet from north and west lines of section 35, block 33, T-4-N, T&P survey, an 8,400-foot test.

These operations are approximately seven miles northeast of Ackerley.

349 Oil Wells Are Completed In State

AUSTIN, Sept. 29 (AP)—The Railroad Commission said today 349 oil well completions making a yearly total of 12,420, compared to 11,323 last year.

There were 36 gas well completions and 198 dry holes. The weekly totals showed 13 oil wildcats drilled and 2 gas wildcats, with 108 wildcats ending up as dry holes.

The total average calendar day allowable was 3,379,982 barrels, compared to 3,366,876 Sept. 22.

Northwest Stonewall Venture Scheduled

Cities Service Oil Co. No. 1 Ward is to be a 6,600-foot Ellenburger test in Northwest Stonewall County, five miles north of Swanson.

It is 1,467 feet from south and 687 feet from east lines of section 249 block D, H&TC survey. The location is a northwest offset to a recently completed three-quarters of a mile southwest extension to the Mullen Ranch (Ellenburger) field.

Suez Crisis Having Little Effect On Production Trend

By MAX B. SKELTON

HOUSTON, Sept. 29 (AP)— Suez Canal developments could force hasty revisions but three major oil producing states plan very little change in output for October.

Texas has placed its October allowables at 75,160 barrels daily below September but the decrease primarily is a result of October having an additional calendar day.

A minor reduction of 22,000 barrels daily also is planned in Oklahoma. Louisiana is to maintain its September schedule except for an additional 5,000 barrels daily resulting from new production.

Relatively minor production and refining cutbacks have been ordered in recent weeks because of excess crude and gasoline being held in storage.

The situation also has affected the Canadian crude market. The Alberta Conservation Board has been asked to lower October allowables 8,000 a day. The primary reason is that Chicago area refineries have indicated they want to reduce their requirements for Canadian crude by 27,000 barrels daily.

Despite recent adjustments, crude production last week averaged 7,063,100 barrels daily, a decline of less than two per cent since the United States record was set in late February.

Crude oil processed at refineries continued at an average of 8,041,000 barrels daily, also less than two per cent below the early September high.

Massena Murray, Oklahoma state conservation director, recommended an October allowable of 580,000 barrels daily, compared to 602,000 in September. Phillips Petroleum Co. said it would reduce its Oklahoma purchases. Gulf Oil Corp. and Rock Island Oil & Refining Co. also called for reductions in well allowables.

John Hussey, Louisiana conservation commissioner, set his state's allowable at 749,282 barrels daily. Offshore quotas were increased to 108,651 barrels daily—15,273 above September—but the state's net increase was only 5,083 for new production.

By continuing on a 15-day producing schedule, Texas' allowable was placed at 3,279,697 barrels daily. Olin Culberson, one of three members of the Texas Railroad Commission, voted against the schedule when it was adopted last week. He wanted 16 days, explaining that he is "unhappy with this situation in which imports control the allowable we set in Texas."

Purchasers of Alberta crude called for an October allowable of 412,711 barrels daily, compared to September's 420,927 and 351,000 a year ago.

Government and industry officials continue to study plans for supplying Western Europe with oil should the Suez crisis make Middle East crude unavailable.

Conservation officials in Texas, Louisiana, Oklahoma and New Mexico have assured Washington their production could be increased sharply with a minimum of delay should such an emergency develop.

Explorations Chief Named

FORT WORTH, — Lawson F. Jacks, Jr., has been named district geologist and supervisor in charge of exploration activities of Stanolind Oil and Gas Company's Abilene District, Wm. J. Nolte, division exploration superintendent of North Texas-New Mexico Division announced today.

Jacks replaces William T. Smith who was transferred to Fort Worth as division geologist.

A native of Brinkley, Ark., Jacks graduated from Ouachita Baptist College at Arkadelphia, Arkansas, with a B.A. degree in mathematics and, after service during the war as a Calvary officer in the Army, earned a Bachelor's degree in geology from the Univeristy of Tulsa.

Jacks joined Stanolind at Amarillo, in 1951, as a junior geologist, and, since that time, has served in various geological capacities at Fort Worth and Lubbock. He was serving as area geologist in Lubbock prior to this move.

In his new capacity, Jacks will have over-all responsibility for exploration activities in Stanolind's Abilene District.

Shallow Wildcat Slated In Concho

Davis & Davis, Inc., of Coleman and associates No. 1 F. A. Fuller is a 2,550-foot wildcat in Northeast Concho County, two miles northeast of Millersview.

It is 990 feet from south and 2,253 feet from west lines of the Fisher & Miller survey No. 2785.

Following the urge of people who want "a little place in the country," more non-farming people are living in rural areas in the U. S. today than there are actual farmers.

Four Shallow Wildcats Set

Sun Oil Co., Dallas, staked location to drill four shallow wildcats in Mitchell, Howard and Sterling Counties.

No. 1 Sarah M. Hayman Southwest Mitchell Test, is to be drilled 330 feet from north and west lines of section 47, block 17, SPRR survey.

Another Southwest Mitchell project is No. 1-A Sarah H. Hayms, 330 feet from south and east lines of section 29, block 17, SPRR survey.

In Southeast Howard County, No. 1 Nellie G. Parramore is 330 feet from north and west lines of section 119, block 29, W&NW survey.

The Sterling wildcat will be drilled as No. 1-A Nellie G. Parramore, 330 feet from the north and east lines of section 147, block 29, W&NW survey.

These projects are all approximately 20 miles southeast of Big Spring. Contract depth is 1,500 feet.

Dodgers Rap Bucs Twice

BROOKLYN, Sept. 29 (AP)—Brooklyn's old pros battled back to within reach of their second consecutive National League pennant today, sweeping a doubleheader from Pittsburgh 6-2 and 3-1 behind the great pitching of Sal Maglie and Clem Labine. The double victory hoisted the Dodgers into a full-game lead, with but one more to play, after Milwaukee tumbled to its second defeat in a row at St. Louis.

A victory over the Pirates in today's final regular season game would win the flag for the world champs—who as late as yesterday virtually were dead. But Milwaukee failed to strike the death knell—losing 5-4 Friday night and again, 2-1, last night to the Cards.

Brooklyn now is 92-61 for the season. Milwaukee is 91-62, and needs a victory against St. Louis today plus a Brooklyn defeat to salvage as much as a tie. That would call for a pennant playoff, with the best-of-three series opening in Ebbets Field Monday.

By taking the doubleheader, the Dodgers also eliminated Cincinnati from the race. Although the Redlegs won today at Chicago, they are only 90-63 for the season, and even a victory in tomorrow's finale would leave them short of Brooklyn's victories.

Maglie, the comeback wizard who pitched a no-hit shutout against Philadelphia in his last start on Tuesday, knocked over the pesky Pirates and Dodger killer Bob Friend with a six-hitter in the opener. He was backed up by a two-run homer by Sandy Amoros that clinched things in the first inning.

Until then, Sandy had been the "goat" of Brooklyn's pennant scramble off his muff of a fly ball in Wednesday's loss to the Phillies.

After Sandy's shot, which capped a three-run outburst which overhauled a 2-0 Pirate lead built on Frank Thomas' 25th home run, the 39-year-old Maglie was in command.

Labine, a 30-year-old righthander who has been Brooklyn's relief ace, was making only his third start of the season—and came through with a seven-hitter jammed with 10 strikeouts for his first complete game since July 4, 1955.

He was hooked up in a pitching duel with Ronnie Kline most of the way, getting the edge when Roy Campanella socked his 20th home run into the lower left-field seats to lead off the third inning.

Cardinals Again Jolt Milwaukee

ST. LOUIS, Sept. 29 (AP) — The skidding Milwaukee Braves' pennant hopes suffered a vital body blow tonight as the St. Louis Cardinals won a 12-inning thriller, 2-1, on Rip Repulski's double and the steady pitching of big Herm Wehmeier.

The defeat put Milwaukee one full game behind the Brooklyn Dodgers, who swept a doubleheader from the Pittsburgh Pirates. Milwaukee has a 91-62 record to 92-61 for the Dodgers with just one game remaining for both clubs tomorrow.

Repulski's game-winning blow was only the fifth hit off southpaw Warren Spahn.

The final inning started when Alvin Dark grounded out but Stan Musial then lined a double to right center. Milwaukee decided to issue an intentional walk to Ken Boyer to bring up Repulski.

Rip then drilled the ball off third baseman Eddie Mathews' glove into left field with Musial scoring the winning run.

Wehmeier allowed the Braves nine hits but five of those came in the first three innings. The big righthander fanned three and walked three to pick up his 12th victory against 11 defeats.

Milwaukee, battling desperately to win this vital game, saw center fielder Bobby DelGreco make two sensational catches in the ninth inning.

He raced to deep center field to haul in a drive by Mathews, leading off the inning, and then bounced off the wall at the 422-foot mark.

Joe Adcock then singled but Bob Thomson was called out on strikes. DelGreco next took a hit away from Jack Dittmer with a one-handed running catch about 380 feet away from the plate to retire the side.

Spahn, an old Cardinal nemisis with a 43-24 lifetime mark against the club, was almost perfection itself on the mound for the first five innings. Only one man reached base against him and that was DelGreco on a walk in the third inning.

First Period Safety Wins For Tech

By HAROLD V. RATLIFF

DALLAS, Sept. 29 (AP)—A brow-beating line, great kicking and the runs of little Jimmy Thompson carried Georgia Tech to a hair-line 9-7 victory over Southern Methodist tonight.

Georgia Tech, the nation's No. 2 team, was hanging up its sixth straight triumph over an SMU team that created a major upset last week in beating Notre Dame, rising to fifth place in the rankings as a result.

And the game tonight was just about the difference in the rankings indicate. The unyielding Tech line followed up a great quick-quick by Dickie Mattison, Tech fullback, to block a punt that stacked up as the difference for the night—a safety.

It happened in the second period as Mattison's quick - kick that caught SMU flat-footed, died on the Methodist three. SMU managed to get out to the 10 with three runs, then Don Stewart stepped into the end zone. A wave of Yellow Jackets smashed through and in the middle was big Don Miller, substitute Tech guard and brother of a former Tech football great, Hal Miller. He blocked the kick, the ball skittered out of the end zone and it was a safety for Tech.

In the third period Tech scored a touchdown on a 77-yard drive with Thompson doing the job with a 32-yard run that carried out of bounds on the SMU three, then whirling around left end for the score. Wade Mitchell converted and Tech led 9-0.

SMU smashed to the Tech 8 and to the 17 in a couple of desperate drives in the fourth period but a fumble set up the Methodist touchdown. Stan Flowers dropped the ball on the Tech 41, Tom Koeing, SMU guard, recovered and Charley Arnold, the busy SMU quarterback, passed to Lon Slaughter on the Tech 18. He ran across for the score and Tommy Gentry converted.

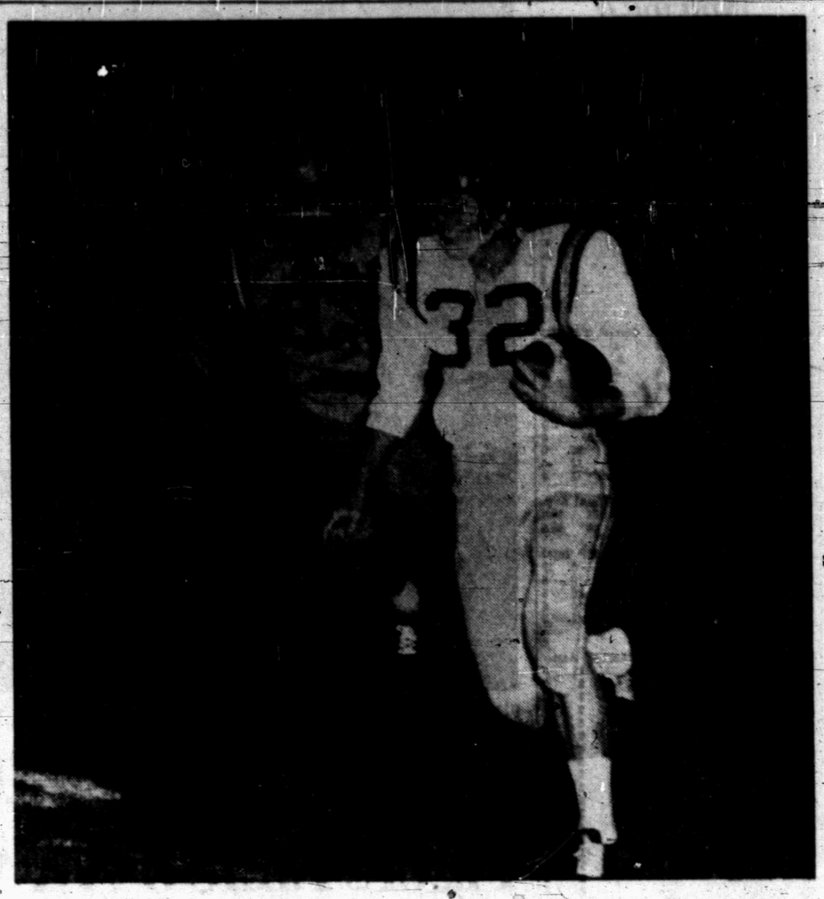

There was a roughing penalty on each side as the two teams hammered at each other from the floor on every play. In the second period Ken Owen, Tech fullback, tied into Willard Dewveall, big SMU wingman, after Dewveall had blocked a pass then jammed into the Tech back. But Charley Leyendecker, big SMU tackle, shoved Owen away to prevent fisticuffs.

Tech stormed to 249 yards on the ground while SMU made 105. The Methodists, with Arnold completing 12 passes for 172 yards, rolled up 184 yards in the air to 17 for the Yellow Jackets. Tech intercepted two of the SMU passes—Mitchell and Toppy Vann doing the honors—and they halted SMU surges.

Georgia Tech	2	0	7	0	—9
SMU	0	0	0	7	—7

Georgia Tech scoring—Touchdown: Thompson (4, run). Saf Stewart (punt blocked by Miller in end zone). Conversion: Mitchell.

Southern Methodist scoring—Touchdown: Slaughter (30 pass, 18 run). Conversion: Gentry.

ALMOST GONE—Bud Morgan, No. 32, Tiger halfback, nearly went all the way on the above play on a punt return in the fourth quarter of Friday night's game at Big Spring. Morgan raced 42 yards with the ball before being shoved out of bounds on Big Spring's 30. Giving chase is Steer end Ricky Terry. The Tigers triumphed, 39-0. (Lee Watson photograph).

Texas Ags Shade LSU 9-6

BATON ROUGE, La., Sept. 29 (AP)—Texas A&M scored a quick first quarter touchdown on two breaks, added a safety on a blocked kick and fought off a furious rally to down Louisiana State 9-6 tonight.

A record 61,000 fans saw the LSU offense sputter for more than three periods, then rip off an 81-yard scoring drive in the last two minutes and threaten again as time ran out.

Sophomore halfback J.W. Broadnax scored the LSU touchdown on a 10-yard burst around right end.

LSU got the ball again with less than a minute to go on an onside kick which rolled just over the 50-yard line before a host of LSU players fell on it. Quarterback R.C. Reynolds began a passing barrage that carried inside the Aggie 20 as the game ended.

Texas A&M, ranked 11th nationally and counted a top contender in the Southwest Conference, scored its touchdown midway in the first quarter. Following a punt, LSU was penalized back to its 27. Aggie Roddy Osborne tossed a 12-yard pass to halfback Bobby Conrad who juggled it as he fell out of bounds, finally dropping it.

Officials ruled the pass was complete, giving the Aggies a first down on the LSU 12. One play later, Conrad threw a 14-yard scoring pass to halfback Carlos Esquivel.

The Aggies scored their final two points in the third period when center Dee Powell broke through to block a punt by LSU halfback Olin Renfroe. The punt bounded out of the end zone for an automatic safety.

WACO, Sept. 29 (AP)—A father and son cheered at the Baylor - Texas Tech football game today but for different teams. On one side of the field was Dr. E. N. Jones, president of Texas Tech. On the other side was his son, Allen, a Baylor freshman.

COP-Kansas Tie

LAWRENCE, Kan., Sept. 29 (AP)—Kansas' Jayhawks scored on Homer (Hot Rod) Floyd's 31-yard sprint with a minute and seven seconds remaining to tie the College of the Pacific Tigers 27-27 in an intersectional football thriller today.

Tiger B Whips B-Spring B 50-13

The Tiger B team made it two in a row last night with a resounding 50-13 victory over Big Spring B at Tiger Stadium.

The Tiger B scored on the first and last play of the game and sandwiched six more touchdowns in between.

Richard Mahan gathered in the opening kickoff on his own 10 and raced 90 yards for a touchdown to give the Snyder lads the first of eight touchdowns for the night.

With one second to play in the game, Dick Hayes broke through the middle of the Big Spring line on a draw play and dashed 50 yards for the final Tiger B touchdown.

Kenneth Drake, Hayes and Mahan each scored two touchdowns for Snyder B with Dickie Martin and James Vincent each scoring one. Vincent's TD was on a pass from Martin that covered 20 yards.

Hayes kicked the two Tiger B conversions.

Snyder B led 32-0 at halftime.

It was the second win in as many starts for Snyder B, the locals having won over Lamesa B, 34-7, last week.

Coaches Jim Stehley and V. V. Shearburn cleaned the Tiger B bench last night as they dress the opener against Lamesa B.

The Tiger B team goes to Sweetwater next Saturday for their third game of the campaign.

Chisox Down A's To Clinch Third, 5-1

KANSAS CITY, Sept. 29 (AP)—The Chicago White Sox clinched third place in the American League tonight by defeating the Kansas City Athletics, 5-1, as Dick Donovan pitched his 12th victory.

Tigers Romp To 39-0 Victory Over Big Spring

Charging Line Highlights Win

By BUCK FRANCIS
News Sports Editor

BIG SPRING, Sept. 29 — Snyder's battling gang of Tigers scored in the first 55 seconds of play here Friday night and then went on to a 39-0 victory over the Big Spring Steers before an estimated 7,000 fans.

The game officially dedicated the spacious new Big Spring 10,000 seat football stadium.

The victory was the third of the season for the Tigers against no defeats and its was also the third win over Big Spring in seven outings with the Steers. Friday's 39-point romp was the most points scored by either team in the 7-game series that began in 1928.

Snyder electrified the crowd in the opening seconds when she scored the first time she had the ball.

Little Bobby Pollard paved the way for the opening score when he pounced on a Big Spring fumble on the Steer 35 and then swept wide around right end on the Tigers' first scrimmage play for the touchdown.

Beautiful faking on the part of Quarterback Powell Berry enabled Pollard to get into the Steer defensive secondary before being noticed and Pollard outraced a couple of Steers who gave chase for the goal line.

The tally came with only 55 seconds having ticked away and it was just a sample of what was to follow. Joe Reaves, who kicked three of five attempts, missed on his first try that left the score at 6-0.

Lead 25-0 At Half

The Tigers scored again in the first quarter, added two more TD's in the second for a 25-0 halftime lead and then tallied twice again in the third to complete their scoring.

Berry led the Tiger scoring parade with three touchdowns, scoring on runs of 31, 15 and 2 yards. Other Tigers getting into the scoring act were Pollard, Bud Morgan and Israel Hinojos, each scoring one TD with Reaves three conversions rounding out the scoring.

Berry also was the leading Tiger ground gainer with 65 yards in six trips with sophomore Mickey McGrew the second top Tiger ball toter with 53 yards in three attempts.

Wayne Fields was the top Big Spring carrier with 58 yards in 14 shots at the line with Quarterback Billy Johnson picking up 40 yards in 17 tries for second top Steer ground gaining honors.

The deepest penetration Big Spring made in the game was the Tiger 19 late in the game. Johnny Janak powered his way across for a potential Steer TD from this point but Big Spring was offsides on the play and the Steers never got inside the Tiger 20 again.

Hill Stars On Defense

Guard Gary Hill was the Tiger defensive standout, being credited with nine tackles and six assists. Linebacker Bill Fowler was next in line on number of tackles for the Tigers, making five and assisting on four others.

End Ricky Terry with five tackles and two assists sparked Big Spring's defensive game.

Big Spring's Bunky Grimes, 190-pound tackle, was ejected from the game in the second quarter by the referee for unnecessary roughness.

The Tigers led in first downs, 14-11, and in yards rushing, 242 to 146.

After Pollard's TD in the early seconds of play, the Tigers racked up TD No. 2 with 3:40 minutes left in the first period with Berry faking a pass and dashing 31 yards to paydirt.

The touchdown was set up when Larry Page recovered a Steer fumble on the Big Spring 39. Reaves' kick was good and the Tigers led 13-0 at the first quarter mark.

Another Steer fumble put the Tigers in business again early in the second with Hill doing the recovering honors this time on the Big Spring 40.

Six plays later the Tigers scored their third touchdown when Berry, on another fake-pass-and-run play, scooted 15 yards into the end zone. Reaves' kick was wide but the Tigers held a commanding 19-0 lead one minute deep in the second period.

Fine defensive work by End Milton Ham and Tackle Denson set up Snyder's next tally. Ham and Denson combined to down Johnson, attempting to pass, for a 12-yard loss that gave the ball to the Tigers on downs on the Big Spring 48.

Eight plays later the Tigers scored No. 4. It was in this series of downs that Big Spring's Grimes was ejected. In addition to costing Big Spring the services of Grimes for the remainder of the game, the Steers drew a 15-yard penalty that hurried the Tigers along to a touchdown.

Fowler scored on a one-yard smash at the line to climax the drive. Hinojos' kick was short and wide and the Tigers led 25-0 with 4:00 minutes remaining in the first half.

Exchange Fumbles

The Tigers resumed their scoring early in the third, another Steer fumbled setting up the tally. Denson pounced on a Big Spring fumble on the Steer 11 but two plays later the Tigers gave the ball back to the Steers on the Big Spring 3 on a fumble.

However, not to be denied, the Tigers took the ball back on the ensuing play on a fumble at the Steer 2. Berry went over on a quarterback sneak for the tally. Reaves kicked the point for a 32-0 Tiger lead with only 3:55 minutes gone in the third.

The charging Tigers defense again set up a Tiger tally that completed the scoring for the night midway through the third. The Steer's Bobby Sugg, back to punt, was rushed too badly and he elected to run but was nailed for a six-yard loss, the Tigers taking over on the Big Spring 23.

Six plays later, Hinojos swept wide around left end for the final six yards. Reaves' kick made it 39-0 and the night's scoring was over.

The Tigers threatened again late in the third when McGrew picked up 45 yards to the Steer 14. Jimmy Allen made it to the 12 on the next play but the Tigers drew a 15-yard penalty on the second play and the Steers managed to halt the Tiger march.

Score by periods:

TIGERS	13	12	14	0—39
BIG SPRING	0	0	0	0— 0

Scoring: Touchdowns — Tigers-Powell Berry (on runs of 31, 15, 2); Bud Morgan (1-yard run; Bobby Pollard (35-yard run); and Israel Hinojos (6-yard run).

PAT — Tigers: Joe Reaves (3) placement.

Tigers Lone 3-AAA Team To Emerge Victorious Friday

The Tigers registered the only victory among District 3-AAA teams in Friday night's football action.

Coach John Conley's Snyder 11 crushed Big Spring, 39-0, at Big Spring while the other 3-AAA teams seeing action were defeated.

Sweetwater dropped a close 7-6 decision to undefeated Stamford; Colorado City was upended by Monahans, 20-7; and Lamesa dropped a 27-12 verdict to Kermit in other games involving 3-AAA teams.

Lake View, the fifth 3-AAA team, had an open date Friday.

Stamford's all-stater, Mike McClellan, raced 10 yards for a touchdown and Dallas Christian converted to hand the Bulldogs their 21st straight victory.

Sweetwater fought back to score in the third quarter on a six-yard run by Donnie McNeal but Jimmy Feagan's placement was low and that was the ball game.

The Mustangs later had a 35-yard touchdown run by Adolph Olvera called back by a backfield in motion penalty.

Sweetwater led in first downs, 14-12, and in yards rushing, 222-183.

Lamesa drew first blood in its game with Kermit but couldn't hold off the undefeated Yellow Jackets who rode to victory on the arm of Jackie Probst.

Halfback Roger Shipp climaxed a 63-yard drive to give Lamesa an early 6-0 lead in the first period. But Probst came right back to pitch the Jackets back into the game with two passes good for 42 and 32 yards to Sammy Cates, the later for a touchdown. Both teams missed their extra point tries and the first period ended at 6-6.

Halfback Charles Thompson went 59 yards to put Kermit in the lead for good. Jay Spikes converted to make it 13-6. John Middleton sped 56 yards for a Lamesa TD to cut it to 13-12.

But Kermit pulled away on a 31-yard scoring gallop by Glen Haggard and a two-yard thrust by Gary Williams for a TD, the latter with less than a minute to go.

Monahans scored twice in the second and once in the forth to down Colorado City with the Wolves getting their lone marker in the third.

Lanny Bihartz went 50 yards after faking a pass for the first Monahans touchdown in the second period. Monahans moved ahead 13-0 at halftime on a 61-yard pass play from Benny Milburn to Johnny Winder. Bill Hartz travelled 84 yards for the final Monahans TD in the fourth.

Colorado City recovered a Monahans fumble on the Lobo 21 and went from there for its TD, Bob Caffey passing to Bancker Cade from the five for the tally. James Showmaker converted to put C. City back in the game but Hartz' 84-yarder in the fourth iced it away for Monahans.

Penn State Breezes Past Penn, 34-0

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 29 (AP)—A new season and an old story unfolded on Franklin Field today as Penn State walloped Penn 34-0 to extend the peaceful Quakers' losing streak to 19 straight games, longest major college losing skein in the nation.

It would be an understatement to say Penn never had a chance as the rugged Nittany Lions from Central Pennsylvania unveiled a fast, hard - hitting aggregation, which appears to be a definite contender for Eastern football honors.

Coach Rip Engle used two teams in alternate quarters and if there was any letup in the offensive or defensive prowess of either unit, it went unnoticed by the 23,390 fans who turned out on a cloudy but warm afternoon.

Penn, reportedly improved for this first year of Ivy League competition looked as helpless and hapless as it has in the past few years, registering only two first downs and passing midfield into State territory only five times—twice on intercepted passes and twice on fumbles.

Redlegs Rally For 9-5 Win Over Cubs

CHICAGO, Sept. 29 (AP)—Third-place Cincinnati kept its faint National League pennant tie chances alive momentarily with a 9-6 victory over the Chicago Cubs on a five-run, last-inning attack today.

Texas Nips Tulane 7-6

By JAMES BAGGUS

NEW ORLEANS, Sept. 29 (AP)—Halfback Walt Fondren kept his bewildered Texas teammates within striking distance today and added a conversion to give the Longhorns a 7-6 football victory over Tulane.

Fondren, a hard - running 170 pound junior, was the only Texas runner able to penetrate Tulane's tough defenses, and his fleet dashes kept alive Texas' chances when his team seemed headed for defeat through more than half the game.

Texas capitalized on a break to push across its touchdown two minutes before the third quarter ended. Fullback Ronnie Quillian of Tulane got off a poor punt, which went only 22 yards to the Tulane 39.

Quarterback Joe Clements hit his stride for the only time in the game, as he engineered the eight-play touchdown drive. He passed three times for a total of 25 yards, including the touchdown toss to halfback Jack Hobbs, and ran twice for seven yards.

Fondren's conversion after the touchdown seemed to fire up his team and the Texans battled Tulane on almost even terms the rest of the way.

Tulane scored early in the third quarter on a 76-yard drive that required less than four minutes. Quillian, who accounted for 41 yards during the march, plunged for the final yard, but tackle Emmett Zelenka's conversion attempt was blocked.

Duke Thumps Virginia 40-7

CHARLOTTESVILLE, Va., Sept 29 (AP)—Duke rediscovered its mislaid offense here today, and, blending a fierce rushing attack with deadly jump passes, flattened Virginia 40-7 for its first 1956 football victory.

Coach Bill Murray dipped all the way down to his fourth string without success in holding down the score as the Blue Devils, angered by last week's 7-0 upset at the hands of South Carolina, took out their wrath on the hapless Cavaliers.

Three of the Duke touchdowns came on passes, two on intercepted passes and the other on quarterback Sonny Jurgenson's 2-yard smack down the middle at the end of a drive that started with recovery of a Virginia fumble.

Only in the first quarter, when Jurgenson's plunge represented the only difference, did Virginia make it close After that, with halfback Bernie Blaney running wild around the ends and Jurgenson and second-string quarterback Bob Broadhead connecting on almost every short pass, the Blue Devils ran practically unchecked up and down Scott Stadium.

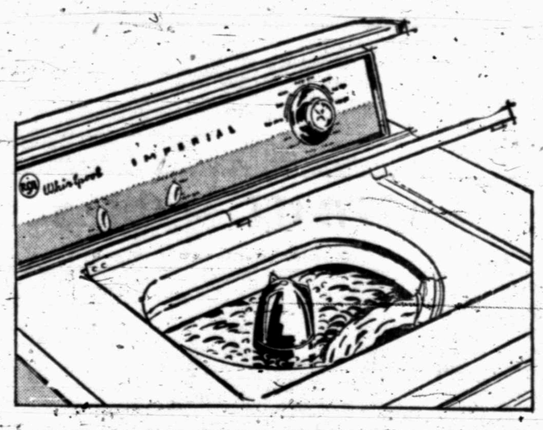

Duke	7	13	6	14	—40
Virginia	0	0	7	0	—7

Duke scoring — touchdowns: Jurgenson (2, plunge); Bass (23, pass-run from Jurgenson); Lattimore 2 (36, pass interception; 9, pass from Millner); Cushion (23, pass-run from Brodhead); Long (27, intercepted pass). Conversions: Bass, Blaney, Harris 2.

Virginia scoring — touchdown: Gunderman (15, pass-run from Yarbrough). Conversion: Bakhtian.

Howard (Hopalong) Cassady of the Detroit Lions scored 34 touchdowns during his four-year grid career at Ohio State. Fifteen of them came in his final season for the Buckeyes.

Brown Trips Columbia In Ivy Opener, 20-0

NEW YORK, Sept. 29 (AP)—Brown, led by a trio of sophomore backs, defeated Columbia today 20-0 in the first football game of the newly organized Ivy League.

The Brown sophomores, Dick Beland, Frank Finney, and George Gorgodian, operating behind a veteran line, were too fast for a Columbia team that boasted only passer Claude Benham as a threat.

Finney threw a 29-yard touchdown pass to Capt. Dick Bence for the first score in the second period, with Joe Miluski carrying over from the 2.

Another sophomore, Tom MacDonald, tossed a 14-yard touchdown pass to Augustus White for the third Brown touchdown in the last period.

BUCKIN' THE LINE

ONCE AGAIN WE WERE forced to bow our head in shame Friday night at Big Spring.

We figured the Tigers were going to have the battle of their lives against the Big Spring Steers and the way we saw it the Bengals would have to scrap all the way for a two-touchdown victory,13-0.

You all know what happened: Snyder 39, Big Spring zero.

And the Tigers did it with Coach John Conley sweeping his bench.

It didn't look like to us that the Steers were any more "fired up" than the Tigers. If anything, the Tigers showed more "fire".

It's true that most of the breaks went the Tigers' way. But Snyder's hustling defense made those breaks and the offensive unit proceeded to capitalize on them.

Defence Continues To Sparkle

This, by the way, is a good combination. It doesn't help much to make the breaks if you can't capitalize on 'em. In the three games the Tigers have played to date, the Bengal defense has set up numerous scoring opportunities with fumble recoveries and the offense took it from there for touchdowns.

Even though the Tigers have averaged a little better than five touchdowns per game in their first three outings, the defense has impressed us as much as the offense.

It has been generally agreed that the Tigers are yet to be "tested." There may be a small truth in this but we believe you can get a little idea on the Tiger strength in noting the ease in which the Black and Golders have breezed to their victories.

Coach Conley has been able to play all available hands in each game to date. In most instances Conley and his aides, Hal Battle and Horrace Bostick, began substituting freely as early as the second quarter.

We're not saying the Tigers are "world beaters", yet, but it looks like the Bengals may now be mentioned in the same breath with the 1955 outfit.

With three 1956 Tiger games already history, a majority of the fans here are still wondering just how strong are the Tigers.

Tough Lobos Next

If the Tigers have been on a "gravy train," it certainly has to come to the end of the line. The going will be rough for the next four games, starting with next Friday at Levelland.

Levelland, like the Tigers, is undefeated in three games. The Loboes, we hear, are better than last year's Levelland team that lost only one game — that to the Tigers.

After Levelland comes Breckenridge and Dumas, these two slated for Tiger Stadium. Then comes the District 3-AAA game with Sweetwater.

There's a small possibility that a special train will be run to Levelland Friday.

The Quarterback Club is working on the special but as of yesterday QB prexy Dan Cotton hadn't received confirmation from Santa Fe officials on whether or not a train would be available.

We'll pass along any developments on the matter.

END OF LINE—Wayne Fields of Big Spring's Steers is topped at the line of scrimmage by an unidentified Tiger in the second quarter of Friday night's game. Coming in to assist on the play is Joe Reaves, Tiger center. (Lee Watson photograph)

Pro Loops Begin Play For Keeps

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 29 (AP) — The 37th annual National Football League season opens tomorrow with Commissioner Bert Bell predicting the closest race and the most successful financial year in the history of the pro circuit.

Six games are on tap for tomorrow, with the world champion Cleveland Browns opening against the Chicago Cardinals in Chicago, and the Western Conference champion Los Angeles Rams meeting the Philadelphia Eagles on the West Coast.

Other games send the Chicago Bears against the Baltimore Colts at Baltimore, Detroit to Green Bay to face the Packers, the New York Giants against the 49ers at San Francisco and Washington against Pittsburgh in Pittsburgh.

A quick look at the two conferences gives this preseason outlook:

The East—New York and Washington should challenge the reign of the Browns. Both the Giants and the Redskins are improved and have the "horses" to win it all. The big question is, how good will Cleveland be without its master quarterback and passer, Otto Graham? Philadelphia, Pittsburgh and Chicago's Cards appear to be also-rans.

The West—the balance of power in the league seems to be in the West. Any of the six teams could win the conference crown, although the power-laden Bears and the Rams appear to be the favorites. Baltimore, with George Shaw at quarterback, Alan Ameche at fullback and the sensational outside running of rookie Lenny Moore and L. G. DuPre, must be considered a real threat. Green Bay, San Francisco and Detroit all have rugged teams.

Baylor Topples Raiders, 27-0

By DAVE CHEAVENS

WACO, Sept. 29 (AP) — Baylor's pass-and-run combination led the way today in giving the Bears an easy 27 to 0 football victory over Texas Tech.

The Red Raiders muffed two scoring chances and could not go against the stout Baylor line in a game played before a small, sweltering crowd of 15,000 in 95-degree weather at Baylor Stadium.

A towering 46-yard pass from Traylor to rangy Del Shofner put Baylor into the lead in the first period. Shofner slanted across from the four for the touchdown. Junior Beall's try for the extra point was wide.

Bobby Jones' 56-yard punt return, also in the first period, carried to the four and set up the next touchdown as Jones sneaked through for the score. End Earl Miller of Belton threw a key block to help hustle Jones into scoring position. Bell's extra point kick was good.

Early in the third, the Traylor to Shofner combination hit again on a 17-yard pass and 10-yard run on a scoring series that started from Tech's 45. Bobby Jack Oliver kicked the extra point.

Third string sophomore fullback Larry Hickman picked up an efficient escort of blockers for a 46-yard run for Baylor's fourth touchdown, and Kenneth Helms' place kick was good.

Baylor	13	7	7	0—27

Baylor scoring — Touchdowns: Shofner (50, pass-run from Traylor). Jones (1, run). Shofner (27, pass-run from Traylor). Hickman (46, run)

Army Crushes VMI, 32-12

WEST POINT, N. J., Sept. 29 (AP)—Army unveiled a football team with great potential power but an inadequate pass defense today and crushed outmanned Virginia Military Institute, 32-12.

Halfback Dick Murtland scored three Army touchdowns, all on short plunges at the end of long drives down the field. He also did a lot of running between scores. Sophomores Gene Mikelonis and Harry Walters made the others.

The superb passing of Duke Johnston and the receiving and running of Bobby Jordan accounted for the two VMI scores and made the Southern Keydets a real threat until the late stages of the game. Army Coach Earl (Red) Blaik had to keep his first-string players in action virtually all the time until Army's greater power finally wore VMI down.

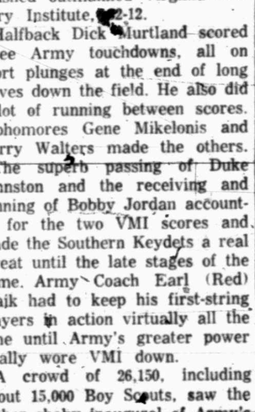

A crowd of 26,150, including about 15,000 Boy Scouts, saw the rather shaky inaugural of Army's 67th season. After rolling up a 13-0 lead in the first quarter, Army saw VMI get two back in the second and then punched out three more with steady gains through the weakening VMI line.

VMI	0	12	0	0	—12
Army	13	6	6	7	—32

VMI scoring—touchdowns: Jordan 2 (19, run; 19, pass from Johnston). Army scoring—touchdowns: Murtland 3 (1, plunge; 1, plunge; 2, plunge) Mikelonis (5, run); Walters (1, run). Conversions: Murtland, Cygler.

A good part of the St. John's University basketball team will be a family affair this season. The roster includes brothers Hal and Bernie Pascal and cousins Dick Duckett and Bill Chrystal.

Pitt Nudges Syracuse 14-7

PITTSBURGH, Sept. 29 (AP) — Senior quarterbacks Corny Salvaterra and Darrell Lewis, operating behind a mobile owerhouse line and calling the shots for a host of fleet backs, guided the Pitt Panthers to a 14-7 victory over seventh ranked Syracuse today in a battle of Eastern football giants.

Salvaterra and Lewis, alternating at the key slot in Coach John Micholosen's split-T offense, kept pounding at an Orange line weakened by constant battering. Lewis, a southpaw, passed 19 yards to end Joe Walton for the decisive touchdown in the third period. Salvaterra capped a 39-yard Pitt drive in second quarter with a 1-yard sneak for the score.

Syracuse tallied its lone touchdown early in the second quarter as fullback Ed Coffin intercepted a Lewis pass and scooted 55 yards.

A home-opening crowd of 49,287 saw a totally different team than the one that needed two fumbles to squeak past West Virginia 14-13 last week.

The victory was a big one for the Panthers, rated No. 10 in the nation, tightening their grip on the Lambert Trophy then won last season as the best in the East.

As it did last year in beating Syracuse 22-12, Pitt shackled All-America hopeful Jimmy Brown, holding him to only 52 yards rushing in 14 tries. Brown ran wild in the Orangemen's 26-12 triumph over Maryland last week.

Syracuse	0	7	0	0—7
Pitt	0	7	7	0—14

Syracuse scoring — touchdown: Coffin (55, pass interception). Conversion: Brown.

Pitt scoring — touchdowns: Salvaterra (1, sneak); Walton (10, pass from Salvaterra). Conversions: Bagamery 2.

Terps Defeat Deacons 6-0 On Early TD

WINSTON-SALEM, N. C., Sept. 29 (AP)—Maryland sophomore halfback Ted Kershner tossed a fourth-down, 6-yard pass on the goal line to halfback Jack Healy in the opening minute of the second quarter today and the embattled Terrapins made it stand up for a 6-0 Atlantic Coast Conference victory over Wake Forest.

A crowd of 13,000 saw Wake Forest stopped six times within the Maryland 16-yard line, the last time about one foot from the goal within four minutes to play. The underdog Deacons moved into Maryland territory eight times in all, but lacked the scoring punch when the chips were down.

Sophomore Bob Rusevlyan, Maryland halfback - quarterback, saved the bitterly fought game with a last play interception on his 8-yard line.

Maryland, still seeking to iron out the backfield kinks occasioned by the loss of ace quarterback Frank Tamburello to the Army and injuries to other players, had only three real scoring threats and managed to realize one. A 10-play 60-yard drive that began in the closing minutes of the first period paid off when Kershner hit Healy from the 6 with goal to go after 35 seconds of the second period.

Standout individual was Wake Forest fullback Bill Barnes, who turned in the day's longest run, a 52-yard sideline sprint to the Maryland 28 late in the third period. This drive was thrown back at the 7 with Barnes, who had been shaken up on his run, resting on the bench.

Wake Forest's last big chance came when end Jack Ladner recovered a fumble on Maryland's 20 but Maryland, after yielding to its 1, threw back Barnes a foot from the goal on the fourth down.

Maryland	0	6	0	0—6

West Virginia Clips Richmond By 30-6

MORGANTOWN, W.VA., Sept. 29 (AP)—West Virginia, held in check for the first period, uncorked a three-touchdown splurge in the second quarter today to defeat the University of Richmond 30-6.

An estimated 17,000 watched he Mountaineers notch their 17th consecutive Southern Conference football victory and get off on the right foot toward annexing their fourth straight conference title.

Defensive halfback Milt Davis of the Detroit Lions always played defense during his three-year career at U.C.L.A.

Illini Overcomes 20-Point Deficit

CHAMPAIGN, Ill., Sept. 29 (AP)—California rolled up a 20-0 halftime bulge today and then rolled over and died as Illinois lashed across four touchdowns within 6½ minutes of the third period en route to a 32-20, season-opening football victory.

The Golden Bears, 13 point underdogs, displayed such passing and running finesse in the first half it looked as if the Illini would be disgraced before 54,833 fans, a record home opening crowd.

Then the Illini's ineptness turned into alertness and California—beaten 7-6 by Baylor a week ago—collapsed into futility.

The third quarter was only a little more than five minutes old when Don Gilkey's poor 19-yard punt for the Bears was taken by Illinois on the California 38. In four plays the Illini scored when fullback Ray Nitschke romped 26 yards, fumbled on the 5, and Abe Woodson recovered the bounding ball in the end zone.

Then, in trip-hammer fashion, three more touchdowns were made in the same fashion Bob Allen recovered Gus Gianulias' bobble on the California 19. Four plays later, Hiles Stout scored on a quarterback sneak from the 1.

Dave Walker captured Herb Jackson's fumble on the Bears' 23. On the second down, Stout passed 15 yards to Woodson, who sped the final 5 yards.

Joe Contestavile's attempted pass was stolen by Ken Sutter, second-string Illini center, on the Bears' 20, and he galloped into the end zone.

Illinois scoring—touchdowns: Woodson 2 (recovered in end zone; 20, pass-run from Stout); Stout (1, plunge); Sutter (20, interception); Jefferson (11, pass from Stout) Conversions: Miller, Haller.

TOP STEER GAINER—Wayne Fields, No. 31, 175-pound halfback for the Big Spring Steers, looks for running room in Friday night's game with the Tigers. Fields gained five on the above play and wound up with 58 in 14 carries. Billy Johnson, No. 11, leads interference for Fields. The lone identifiable Tiger is Larry Mullins, No. 74. The Tigers won, 39-0. (Lee Watson photograph)

Razorbacks, Browns Win Pee Wee Tilts

The Razorbaeks and Browns won Pee Wee League football games yesterday at Tiger Stadium. Furman Guinn's Razorbacks became the first team to win two games by nicking Bill Valentine's Winky Dinks, 6-0.

The Borwns, coached by Bob Beams, also won by 6-0 yesterday, defeating the Bulldogs.

Stuart Long scored the only touchdown for the Razorbacks while Dean Howard tallied the Browns' TD.

The standings, after two weeks, shows the Razorbacks leading with 2-0. The Browns and Winky Dinks are tied for second with 1-1 marks with the Bulldogs trailing with 0-2.

Games next Saturday will pit the Razorbacks and Browns and Bulldogs and Winky Dinks both games set for 9 a.m.

Guy Sullivan, director of the Pee Wee football program, announced Saturday that if any boys of 12 years and under and who are in grades 4-6 that want to play Pee Wee football may contact him sometime this week.

Sullivan says he lacks a few boys of forming two more teams. Sullivan may be contacted at the Scurry County Boys Club any day between 4-6 p.m.

Vols Chill Auburn, 35-7

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., Sept. 29 (AP)—Brilliant work by star halfback Johnny Majors and Auburn fumbles gave Tennessee and overwhelming 35-7 Southeastern Conference football victory here today.

The sellout crowd of 44,000 sat stunned as Auburn lost the ball six times by dropping it. Majors, as long as he was in the game, was quick to take advantage of the errors.

The Tennessee All - America candidate sneaked one yard for one touchdown and threw touchdown passes to ends Buddy Cruze and Ed Cantrell for two more.

The victors' other scores, both on one-yard gains, were by fullback Tommy Bronson and Majors' substitute Al Carter. They came after Tennessee's 21-0 first half lead already had decided the issue.

Halfback Lloyd Nix, one of a host of sophomore backs, counted for Auburn in the final period to climax a 97-yard drive. Until that march, the losers had been in Tennessee territory only once.

Majors completed eight of 11 passes for 118 yards and ran for 57 more before he left the game early in the third quarter.

Cruze grabbed five of the passes for 92 yards, including a 34-yarder for his touchdown. On that one, he outfought several Auburn defenders to make the catch in the end zone.

The game had been billed as likely to have great bearing on the conference title, with both clubs rated as contenders.

Wisconsin Batters Marquette, 41 To 0

MADISON, Wis., Sept. 29 (AP)—Wisconsin, operating without a grade A passer for the first time in many years, reeled off five touchdowns on the ground and one by air today to trounce inexperienced Marquette, 41-0.

A Camp Randall stadium crowd of 52,700 watched the Badgers, led by dashing Danny Lewis, of Freehold, N.J., score their 13th straight victory over their intra-state rivals from Milwaukee.

Nats Down Orioles

WASHINGTON, Sept. 29 (AP)—Evelio Hernandez, 24 - year old Cuban rookie righthander, brought Washington's 11 - game losing streak to a halt tonight when he held Baltimore to six hits and the Nats won, 7-1, before 1,129 fans.

Casey Cleans Bench; Yanks Bow In 13

NEW YORK, Sept. 29 (AP)—Mickey Mantle virtually clinched the American League batting title as an all-time record for players used in one game was set today in the course of the Boston Red Sox' 7-5 victory over the New York Yankees in 13 innings.

Manager Casey Stengel of the Yankees set a one-team high by employing 26 men and Mike Higgins of the Sox tossed 18 into the battle. The second-last Boston man to enter the game was the winning pitcher, Rudy Minarcin. Boston scored two unearned runs in the final frame to make Sonny Dixon, sixth New York hurler, the loser.

Iowa Clips Hoosiers

BLOOMINGTON, Ind., Sept. 29 (AP)—Iowa capitalized on Indiana errors for two early touchdowns today and then mauled the Hoosiers with the one-two punch of halfback Don Dobrino and quarterback Kenny Ploen, 27-0.

The result, unexpectedly lopsided, made the Hawkeyes at least temporary leaders of the Big Ten football race.

OU Overpowers Tar Heels, 36-0

NORMAN, Okla., Sept. 29 (AP)—National champion Oklahoma opened a new football season today but it was the same old story—the Sooners won their 31st straight game by pummelling North Carolina 36-0.

The triumph before a partisan sellout crowd of 30,000 tied Oklahoma's national college record of 31 straight victories set by the 1948-49-50 teams of Coach Bud Wilkinson.

It was an especially bitter defeat for North Carolina Coach Jim Tatum—coaching his first year for the Tar Heels—returning to the gridiron where he gained recognition as the Oklahoma coach in 1946 when Wilkinson was his backfield assistant.

Oklahoma started out today playing sluggishly and couldn't settle down untill the last half of the second puarter. Suddenly the Sooners exploded with three touchdowns in four minutes and from then on it was all Oklahoma except for one brief time in the third quarter.

Wilkinson used all 61 of the players who suited up in an effort to keep down the score.

Oklahoma's two halfbacks, all America Tommy McDonald and Clendon Thomas, did a terrific job of piling up yardage when it counted as the Sooners made 344 yards rushing and added 61 more passing.

McDonald made two touchdowns and Thomas added another.

Second team quarterback Jay O'Neal and third team quarterback Lonnie Holland added the fourth and fifth Oklahoma TD's.

Oklahoma added two more points on a safety when Doyle Jennings tackled Ron Marquette behind the goal in the closing minutes. Fullback Billy Pricer got three conversions and Carl Dodd added a fourth points.

Oklahoma	0	21	0	15	—36

Oklahoma scoring—touchdowns: O'Neal (17 yard lateral from Baker) Thomas (12 yard run); McDonald (3yard plunge, 4 yard pass from Harris Holland (13 yard run). Conversions—Dodd, Pricer e.

Navy Takes W&M, 39-14

ANNAPOLIS, Md., Sept. 29 (AP)—Navy combined a pounding ground game with its vaunted passing attack today to snatch a 7-6 first-quarter lead from William and Mary and roll to a 39-14 opening football victory.

Sophomore fullback Dick Dagampat and halfbacks Paul Gober and Ned Oldham rambled almost at will against the Indians, who failed to threaten after the first period.

Quarterback Tom Forrestal and Gus Prahalis took care of the passing.

The Middies struck for a touchdown the first time they got the ball, marching 81 yards under the direction of Forrestal who passed 5 yards to end Earle Smith for the TD. Oldham's try for the point was blocked by fullback Jay Sanner.

William & Mary	7	0	0	7	—7
Navy	6	13	13	7	—39

William and Mary scoring — touchdowns: Peceptiello (25, pass from Sidwell); Sidwell (76, pass-run from Thomas). Conversions: Oliver, Brodie.

Arkansas Porkers Outduel Oklahoma Aggies, 19-7

By TOM DYGARD

LITTLE ROCK, Ark., Sept. 29 (AP)—Little Rogers Overbey, perhaps one of the smallest players in major college football, sparked the Arkansas Razorbacks to two touchdowns in a 19-7 intersectional triumph over Oklahoma A&M tonight.

Overbey, a 146-pound senior, grabbed a lateral and zipped 46 yards down the sideline to set up Arkansas' first touchdown. He fired a long pass to Teddy Soutet, a play that covered 42 yards and carried to the Oklahoma A&M one, opening the way to the Razorbacks' second touchdown.

Big Gerald Nesbitt, a brawny fullback, bulled over for the touchdowns following Overbey's setup plays. Nesbitt went over from the 12 on the first score and dived one yard for the second.

Arkansas got its third TD on the first play of the fourth period. Don Christian, elevated to first string quarterback after a knee injury sidelined George Walker, teamed with Ronnie Underwood on a 67-yard pass play that gave the Porkers their third score.

Underwood, a halfback playing in his hometown, gathered in the short pass and fought his way to the goal.

The sophomore - laden Aggie team's lone touchdown drive fizzled twice before they moved across the Arkansas goal in the third period. On the third try they made it in eight plays with Duane Wood driving the last yard.

A crowd of 32,000 watched the Porker's first appearance in Little Rock.

Cowboys Clip Wichita 20-7

WICHITA, Kan., Sept. 29 (AP)—The Hardin - Simmons Cowboys, noted for their passing game, switched to a powerful ground attack tonight and defeated Wichita University 20-7 in a nonconference football game.

The Cowboys rolled up 335 yards rushing and gained only 28 by passing. Wichita netted 236 yards on the ground.

Charles Massagee sprinted through left tackle 33 yards for Hardin-Simmons' first score in the second quarter. The Cowboys then grabbed a fumble on Wichita's 36 and tallied again, with Keith Hart making the last two yards. Hart also scored again in the fourth period on a 15-yard run. Joel Honeycutt kicked two conversions.

Ole Miss Crushes Kentucky By 37-7

MEMPHIS, Sept. 29 (AP)—Substitute quarterback Ray Brown broke a tight football game wide open by returning an intercepted pass 35 yards for a touchdown and his Mississippi Rebels rambled on to a 37-7 win over Kentucky tonight.

Antonelli Wins 20th

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 29 (AP)—A first-inning homer by outfielder Jackie Brandt after Don Mueller had singled was all Johnny Antonelli needed for his 20th victory as the New York Giants whipped the Philadelphia Phillies 2-0 before 4,067 tonight.

BEFORE 56,000

Houston Trips Miss. St. 18-7

HOUSTON, Sept. 29 (AP)—Quarterback Don Flynn plunged for one touchdown and passed 44 yards to halfback Harold Lewis for another tonight in leading a slow starting University of Houston football team to a 18-7 season opening intersectional victory over Mississippi State.

A crowd of 56,000, largest in 11 years of football at Houston, saw the Cougars play the first 19 minutes without making a first down and without advancing beyond their 27 yard line.

Flynn then directed a quick 70-yard second period scoring drive, plunging over from the one. His third period scoring pass to Lewis came on the first play after Houston recovered a State fumble.

Mississippi State had dominated the opening minutes but did not score until it launched a late fourth period 80-yard march, with quarterback Bill Stacy passing 26 yard to end Ronald Bennett for the touchdown.

Houston then took the kickoff and moved 66 yards in 10 plays for its third touchdown, with Lewis ramming over from the one.

Fullback Frank Sabbatini kicked State's extra point. A penalty nullified Flynn's first conversion attempt and fullback Donne Caraway missed from the 18. Flynn's third period attempt was wide, as was quarterback Sammy Blount's fourth period try.

Before Houston started rolling, Mississippi State had moved to the Houston, 33, 22 and 14 before being held. Tackle Bobby Tribble tried a field goal attempt when the Maroons reached the 14 in the first period but the kick was wide.

Mississippi	0	0	0	7	—7
Houston	0	6	6	6	—18

Mississippi state scoring—Touchdowns; Bennett, (26-yard pass from Stacy).

Conversion: Sabbatini.

Houston scoring—Touchdowns; Flynn (1-plunge) Lewis 2 (44 - yard pass from Flynn; 1-plunge.

Purdue Wins 16-7 Over Missouri

LAFAYETTE, Ind., Sept. 29 (AP)—Tommy Fletcher ignored a bad leg and gave Purdue the breakaway running it needed to beat the Missouri Tigers in the Boilermakers' football opener, 16-7.

With quarterback Len Dawson throwing over the Missouri line and fullback Mel Dillard pounding up the middle, Fletcher's elusiveness was just what Purdue needed. He carried the ball on seven of the 17 plays in Purdue's first-quarter touchdown drive, and he cut 35 yards through the Tiger defense for the game-winning margin in the third period.

Northwestern Ekes Past Iowa State

EVANSTON, Ill., Sept. 29 (AP)—Bob McKiever, a home town product who starred at Evanston high school, scored two touchdowns and added both extra points today in leading Northwestern to a 14-13 victory over Iowa State in the Wildcats' football opener.

McKiever gained 120 yards in 22 carries and made Coach Ara Parseghian's debut in Big Ten circles a successful one although Iowa State battled down to the end and fumbled on Northwestern's 7 as the final gun sounded.

The Cincinnati Redlegs have renewed their working agreement with Seattle in the Pacific Coast League.

Ira, Hobbs Win 3rd Game; Hermleigh Suffers 1st Loss

The Snyder area football teams batted .500 over the weekend with two emerging victorious and two meeting defeat.

Ira's Bulldogs and the Hobbs Panthers racked up victories while Hermleigh's Cardinals and the Gail Coyotes were defeated.

Ira tripped Klondike, 34-20, for its third win in as many starts and Hobbs edged Loop, 28-21, for its third victory in four outings.

Hermleigh met its first defeat after three wins by bowing to the Rochester Steers, 25-6, at Rochester. Gail went down to Garden City, 43-6, at Garden City.

The Etheredge boys, Bermon and Mac, combined to score all of Hobbs' touchdowns in its win over Loop, each making two TD's. Bermon and Mac are cousins.

Bermon opened the scoring with a 50-yard run in the first quarter with Mac scoring TD No. 2 on a 20-yard pass from Doyle Hayes. Mac then scored again on a five-yard run to put Hobbs ahead 22-0 at halftime. Hayes kicked the extra points after the second and third touchdowns.

Loop battled back to cut it to 22-14 in the third but B. Etheredge put it on ice for Hobbs with a 50-yard TD scamper.

Tommy Echols led Ira to victory with four touchdown gallops and passing for a fifth.

Echols scored on runs of 12,18, 20 and 35 yards and passed to William Autry for 35 yards for the other Ira TD.

Klondike led Ira at Halftime, 13-12, but the Bulldogs caught fire in the second half for the victory. It was 20-20 untill late in the third when Echols broke the tie and the Bulldogs held on to the finish.

Aubrey Wolf was too much for Hermleigh as he led Rochester to victory with three touchdowns on runs of 14, 4 and 85 yards.

Wolf's 85-yarder came on a kickoff return just after Hermleigh had tied the score at 6-6 in the second quarter. The Cardinals drove 96 yards for their lone TD with Morris Light climaxing it with an 11-yard run.

But Wolf put Rochester ahead by returning the Cardinal kickoff all the way and the Steers led the remaining distance.

Gail's inexperienced Coyotse found rough going at Garden City. The defending regional 6-Man champs raced to a 31-0 halftime lead and coasted home.

Freshman Raymond Walton dashed 55 yards for Gail's lone score in the fourth quarter.

Most of Gail's squad is composed of freshmen and sophomores.

THE BABE STARRED IN MANY SPORTS—Mildred (Babe) Didrikson Zaharias participated in many sports. From the left she golfs at Des Moines in 1946, she boxes in New York in 1934, keeps in trim at White Sulphur Springs, W. Va., in 1932, the year she turned pro, and reaches for a shot at a tennis workout at Beverly Hills, Calif., in 1934. She died of cancer in a hospital in Galveston Thursday.

Babe Had Few Fem Instincts, Too

(EDITORS NOTE: Last in series of articles on the life of the late Babe Zaharias, famed woman athlete. Babe lost her battle with cancer Friday when she died in John Sealy Hospital in Galveston. Final rites were held yesterday in her home town, Beaumont.)

By WILL GRIMSLEY

NEW YORK (AP)—Sports writers covering a women's golf tournament a couple of years back were jolted by the sight which greeted them at the first tee.

There was Babe Didrikson Zaharias, a driver dangling from beneath her arm, busily applying rouge and lipstick before taking her first swing.

The newsmen edged closer to be sure their eyes weren't deceiving them. The Babe noticed their consternation and quickly cleared the atmosphere.

"Sure," she said hoarsely, "and I've got silk underneath. And I like it."

This was indeed a far cry from the tomboyish daughter of a Norwegian ship carpenter who used to say to the toughest boy in the neighborhood, "I'm going to lick you." And then did.

Hated Dolls

As a young girl, the Babe was a bit gawky-lean and tough as a buggy whip. She hated dolls and her favorite playthings were balls and bats and a weight-lifting machine made of broomsticks and her mother's flat irons.

But as she grew to womanhood—leggy, green-eyed and statuesque—she saw her tastes veer sharply to feminine finery. She liked the name "Mildred" in preference to "Babe."

She met a 300-pound wrestler named George Zaharias, once billed as "The Crying Greek of Cripple Creek." But the Babe was so busy touring the country winning golf championships she had no time for romance.

Married On Friday

So one day George cornered the Babe and said, "We get married Friday or we're through." They married on Friday.

They lived first in Denver's fashionable suburbs where the house contained an eight-foot square bed. Later they moved to Chicago and then transferred to Tampa, Fla., where they bought the Tampa Golf and Country Club.

The Babe had the stucco house painted pink and she did her cooking in a frilly yellow kitchen with curtains which she made by hand.

But through this feminine veneer the old, rough-and-tumble Babe frequently popped out.

Flying Mare

Once speaking fondly of her husband, she said, "Yeah, I threw him last night with a flying mare."

She became a graceful ball room dancer. On the women's golf tour, she always was the life of the party. She teamed with Betty Dodd, another golfer, to give shows which would do credit to a vaudeville bill.

The Babe played a harmonica while Miss Dodd strummed a guitar and often the two of them would burst into song—the hillbilly airs. She was so good that once she went on the stage with her harmonica act but retired because, she said, "I want to see the sky again."

Woman's Whim

Except for a sudden woman's whim, the Babe might have followed gentler pursuits and the world might have been denied its greatest woman athlete.

On a humid summer day in Dallas in 1931, Mildred, 18, was walking down the main street looking for a party dress. Suddenly her attention was attracted to a green-trimmed golf bag with shiny, steel clubs.

"That was it," the Babe said later. "The bug got me."

Clemson Ties Florida 20-20

GAINESVILLE, Fla., Sept. 29 (AP)—Three penalties in the final 28 seconds produced one of the wildest football finishes ever seen on Flordia Field and left Flordia and Clemson in a 20-20 tie today.

The tricky quarterbacking of Charlie Bussey brought underdog Clemson two early touchdowns and a 14-0 lead. After another clever quarterback, Flordia's 142-pound Jimmy Dunn, wiped that out and sent the Gators ahead, 29-14, Bussey led Clemson 68 yards to a tie in the dast 3½ minutes.

The 28,000 fans thought Florida had the victory salted away but Bussey doggedly ran Clemson down field against the clock.

With 28 seconds to play he had his team at the Florida 18. Officials called a holding penalty on Florida at the 16, giving Clemson a first down only a yard from the goal and Bob Spooner rammed across.

Clemson had trouble getting the kecking tee in the game for a try at the 21st point and lost 5 yards for delay of game.

Horace Turbeville, sub quarterback, kicked the point and ran off the field leaping and shouting with the joy of apparent victory.

Colgate Rolls Over Cornell By 34 To 6

HAMILTON, N. Y., Sept. 29 (AP)—Fullback Ed Whitehair rocketed with ease through and around the Cornell line today to score three touchdowns as Colgate defeated the Cornell football team, 34-6.

Quarterback Guy Martin passed beautifully for one touchdown and to set up another. His shrewd signal-calling, seldom gambling, was an overwhelming factor in the Red Raider victory.

Al Lopez Quits After Six Years As Cleveland Manager

CLEVELAND, Sept. 29 (AP) — Al Lopez, the patient and popular Senor who managed the Cleveland Indians to one American League pennant and five second-place finishes, resigned today after "six trying years."

"I'm sorry we didn't go better," said the 48-year-old Lopez, whose team will finish second behind the New York Yankees again this year.

"There's a feeling in Cleveland that we should have finished higher than second," he said. "The tension has been a devil of a thing. I have no plans. I'm going home Monday." Home is Tampa, Fla., where he was born.

Players Stunned

The players seemed stunned when they heard the announcement as they arrived at the ball park for today's game against the Detroit Tigers.

General Manager Hank Greenberg said Lopez' decision came as a surprise and a "great disappointment."

(The Associated Press reported six weeks ago that Lopez would resign at the end of the season)

"We hadn't talked contract," Greenberg said, "but I expected to have him back. His record is outstanding from anybody's standpoint. As far as his ability is concerned, I feel as I've always felt. His cooperation has been ideal. His resigning doesn't preclude the possibility of his ever coming back."

Replacement Rumors

Greenberg would not discuss a replacement. There have been rumors he would try to sign Leo Durocher, former manager of the Brooklyn Dodgers and the New York Giants, who is now a television executive. Kerby Farrell, manager of the Indians' affiliate at Indianapolis, is another possibility.

It was learned that Durocher would not be inclined to come to Cleveland unless he could buy shares in the ball club.

Another baseball source dropped a hint that Paul Richards, General manager and team manager at Baltimore, might come to Cleveland. In that case, third baseman George Kell was reported as a likely successor as manager of the Orioles.

Lopez is the second American League manager to resign this week. Stanley W. (Bucky) Harris quit the Detroit Tigers Thursday, saying he couldn't be the "fiery, aggressive" skipper the club's new owners wanted.

There was some talk that Lopez might succeed Harris, even though the Senor seldom is credited with being very "fiery."

After 17 years as a catcher in the National League, with Brooklyn, Boston and Pittsburgh, Lopez came to Cleveland as a second-string receiver in 1947.

Wolverines Roll Past UCLA, 42-13

ANN ARBOR, Mich., Sept. 29 (AP)—Michigan's ball-hawking Wolverines forced a power-stripped and inexperienced UCLA team into one mistake after another today and thundered to a 42-13 football victory.

A pair of husky sophomore backs playing behind an all-veteran line had a big part in the Michigan triumph in the Wolverines' 76th opening game played before 67,739 fans.

It was the first defeat for the Pacific Coast Conference champions who opened their season last week with a 13-7 triumph over Utah. Sapped of most of its veteran strength by conference penalties for illegal aid to athletes, UCLA fumbled four times and each time Michigan recovered. Three times the bobbles led to Michigan touchdowns.

Another Michigan score followed an 11-yard UCLA punt.

Sophomore fullback John Herrnstein, whose father and uncle starred on Michigan teams of yesteryear, scored twice for Michigan and sophomore halfback Bob Ptacek, a 205-pound tailback, from Cleveland, passed for another.

The Wolverines scored the second time they had the ball. UCLA halfback Louis Elias punted badly out of bounds on the Bruin 29 and six playes later Herrnstein drove into the end zone from 6 yards out.

Less than two minutes later, the early favorites in the Big Ten struck again. Terry Barr, senior halfback, set up the score with a 43-yard return of a quick kick to the UCLA 15. Herrnstein carried on three successive plays, finally pulling across from the 4.

The Bruins could not get a first down until the second quarter while the Wolverines controlled the ball from their mighty single-wing attack and rolled to a 28-0 halftime lead.

UCLA	0	0	7	6	—13
Michigan	14	14	7	7	—42

UCLA scoring—touchdowns: Billington (1, plunge); Wallen (4, pass from Brudley). Conversion: Elias.

Michigan scoring—touchdowns: Herrnstein 2 (6, plunge; 3, plunge); Van Pelt (15, pass from Ptacek); Shannon (5, plunge); Kramer (70, pass from Barr); Dickey (4, plunge). Conversions: Kramer 3, Maitock 3.

Lary 1st AL Pitcher To Win 21 Decisions

CLEVELAND, Sept. 29 (AP)—The Detroit Tigers' Frank Lary became the American League's winningest pitcher today with his 21st victory, a 9-1 decision over the Cleveland Indians.

OUTDOOR FLASHES

Leon Sterns, Big Spring, got a 7-pound bass to set the pace for fishermen at Lake J. B. Thomas during the past week. He also got his limit on crappie. So did a lot of other people.

A new sport has developed at the lake—carp fishing. Joe Cramer and Bob Hale of Coahoma caught 20 carp weighing from 3 to 9 pounds, an aggregate weight of 72 pounds. Hiram Reid, lake patrolman, said that this sport was being encouraged to hold the rough fish population in proper ratio—and a test run by the game commission during the week showed that the rough fish ratio is within safe levels.

Henry Moates, Big Spring, is still a catfisherman from way back. He hooked a 12-pound and a 16-pound yellow cat Wednesday night.

R. A. (Skeets) Schooling, lake superintendent, reported that fishing appeared best ever at the lake. Except for Friday, weather has been favorable. Crappie and black bass have been biting in the shallow water of the upper end.

Some catches reported in at Lake Thomas Lodge were:

R. E. Markham, Seminole, five channel cat weighing about 2½ pounds. He had one yellow cat at 6 pounds.

E. D. Findley, H. V. Stanford and J. C. Cochron, Denver City, hooked 50 crappie ranging up to two pounds and three channel cats up to three pounds.

Walton Hale and J. A. Arwine, Floydada, had 10 white bass which they took on a white bomber while trolling.

M. L. Raney, Andrews, had a pair of 4-Pound channel cat, plus 10 crappie of 1¼-pound average.

C. C. Willis, Snyder, came in with three black bass weighing up to 3½ pounds using a top water black chugger.

The Legend of the Rose

Yseult, the little sister of Airols, a shepherd, was sad because she had no gift to present to the Christ Child.

Disheartened, she decided to leave the multitudes in the village and return to her sheep on the hillside. Yet, before she had gone far, an angel garbed in light stood before her and asked: "Why do you sorrow when all others are glad?" And Yseult answered: "My heart is heavy because I might carry no joy to the Babe of Bethlehem." Then the angel waved a lily over the fields and suddenly they were abloom with Christmas roses. And Yseult, kneeling down joyfully, picked the most beautiful rose and hastened back to the village.

Meanwhile, the train of the Maja kings, with its dromedaries and treasure-chests, its bodyguards and pages, had reached its destination.

Impressive gifts were being showered upon the Christ Child. Melchoir the Nubian brought apples of gold signifying "delections of love" and royal dignity, a token of the sin of Paradise which made His coming necessary.

Caspar of Tarsus offered the precious "Black Myrrh" of the balsamodernaron tree, symbol of the suffering and death to come.

Ballasar of Godolfa presented frankincense, embodying the thought of the sacrifice, the orison or prayer "of the soul right devout" and the divine nature of the Babe, completing the human element typified by the myrrh.

And so the kings paid homage with their rich gifts, more precious still because of their symbolic promise. However, the glance of the Christ Child had strayed to the door, where Yseult the little shepherdess had just entered with the beautiful Christmas rose in her hand. And the Holy One forgot the costly gifts of the Maji, and while the golden apple slipped from his grasp, reached forth his tiny hands for the blossom. He smiled as Yseult placed the rose between his fingers.

Make Compost Pile To Aid In Building Up The Soil

A local Snyder Garden Club member has given us the following information. With fall planting in the minds of many of our club members, she contributes this item of interest.

Improving soil, making compost heap soil, is one of man's most important natural resources, for it is the original source of much of his food and clothing.

One of the best ways of getting good humus, at least a limited supply...is to make your own, with a compost pile. This is perhaps the most useful of all gardening practices. a compost pile is made of organic matter, chemicals soil manures and moisture, prepared so that decomposition will be speeded up. Build your pile in a remote corner of your property. The best size for the average home owner is four feet wide and four to six feet long.

Dig a pit a bit smaller than this and as deep as the topsoil, usually six to 10 inches. Pack the pit full of organic garden waste....vegetable plant material, flower plant tops, and so forth. Construction a board framework around the pit.

Sprinkle one pint of limestone and two pints of a complete garden fertilizer on top of plant debris, followed by a three-inch layer of soil dug from the pit. Add the same amounts of lime and fertilizer, then water the pile well. Similar alternate layers may be added at any time. Leave a slight depression in the center to catch rainfall.

Although all plant materials will decay in a compost pile, some are more desirable than others because they decompose more rapidly. For example, grass clippers are much better than cornstalks to rose branches, because the latter are tough and fibrous.

The pile should be turned over or thoroughly mixed at least twice a year. Be sure it is kept wet at all times. It requires the mixture at least six months or longer for the material to rot, and be ready to feed the soil and plants.

When using compost as top dressing or for pots or seeds it's best to screen by rubbing through half-inch mesh screen, as it will mix much better in the soil.

Use two bushel of compost to 100 square feet of ground space.

If you don't have enough space for a compost pile, or if it doesn't provide enough humus for your needs, and if manure is not available, peat moss is very suitable. It is a partially decayed forest organic matter that has been commercially prepared. It is almost odorless and is clean and easy to handle. Though it doesn't supply much plant food, it improves the soil texture and increases moisture retention.

Mrs. Yandell Has New Granddaughter

Mrs. Adna Yandell, Lamesa Highway, returned Friday evening from Lubbock. Mrs. Yandell has been caring for her new granddaughter, Pamela Ann.

Pamela's parents will be known to everyone as Mr. and Mrs. Ned Underwood, formerly of Snyder.

Mr. Uuderwood is attending Texas Tech. Mrs. Underwood is the former Pauline Yandell.

The new daughter was born Sept. 20 and weighed six pounds.

P-TA At Ira Holds Meeting

The Ira P-TA met Thursday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock in the school gym for their regular meeting.

The meeting opened with a duet "Jesus Revealed in Me" by Mrs. O. W. Holladay and Mrs. H. L. Holladay.

Mrs. Houston Drimbrell, president, conducted the meeting, with Mrs. Leon Sterling being elected as treasurer, due to the vacancy made by Mrs. Joe Thompson, Jr., who has moved away.

The guest speaker was Mr. Roy Sallee, superintendent of the school, who chose for his topic "The Requirements of a High School graduate".

Mrs. Bernard Bishop, chairman of the refreshment committee, served 38 members.

The average summer temperature in Jerusalem is 74.5 degrees.

MR. AND MRS. BOBBY GERALD JAMES

Patsy Ann Davidson Wed In Hermleigh Ceremonies

Miss Patsy Ann Davidson became the bride of Bobby Gerald James in a candlelight service in the home of the bride's parents, Saturday evening Sept. 22nd at 8 o'clock.

The double ring ceremony was read by W. C. Davidson, grandfather of the bride.

An arch of greenry was banked with baskets of white gladiolio and carnations, and tall blue candles in white candlelabras.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Davidson of Hermleigh. Parents of the bridegroom are Mr. and Mrs. Clifford James of Knapp.

Ray Hardin sang, "Because" and "Always", accompanied by Miss Sue Ann Mayo.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, was wearing a ballerina length dress of pearl brocaded white satin, fashioned with princess lines. The long sleeves came to a point at the wrist with accents of small covered buttons. Her fingertip veil of illusion was trimmed in lace, and caught to a tiara of lace and seed pearls. The bridal bouquet was a white orchid centered atop a white satin Bible, surrounded by a cascade of white fringed carnations. The Bible was a gift from the Rainbow Girls.

For something old the bride wore a gold wedding band over 60 years old, belonging to her great grandmother, Mrs. A. P. Gamaway. Something new was pearl ear screws, something blue, a garter, a gift from the bride's class mates, Sue Ann Mayo and Jean Robinson. She wore a penny in her shoe for luck.

Betty Jo Barnfield of Houston, attended her cousin as maid of honor. She was attired in a ballerina length dress of blue brocade satin, fashioned similar to that of the bride, with which she wore a blue hat trimmed in rhinestones. She carried a colonial nosegay of white carnations, backed by blue net and blue satin bows.

Candlelighters were Vivian Ellen Hargrove of Abilene, and Frankie Potts, cousins of the bride. Their dresses were of blue taffeta covered, with net. They wore wristlets of white fringed carnations.

E. L. Franklin of Knapp served as best man.

The reception followed the wedding. The table was laid with a blue satin cloth cover with blue net, caught up in scallops by nosegays. Mrs. David Williams of Rotan served the cake, while Mrs. Dean Cockran of Snyder ladled the punch, Miss Dixie Lee Kimmel of Snyder registered guests.

For her going away ensemble the bride chose a two piece brown dress, trimmed in red with brown accessories. She wore an orchid corsage.

After a short wedding trip, the couple will make their home in Snyder where both are employed.

Business And Professional Women End Good Year

Completing a full week of activities, in connection with National Women's Week, the Business and Professional Women of Snyder chart down another successful year.

The club women gathered together at least once a day for a social and some day's twice, to round out the heavy schedule they had planned.

With "Better business women for a better business world" as its motto, the organization emphasized the professional outlook and community service, the local B& PW club was organized in 1950. Years before, in 1928, a group had been organized here, but it had long since ceased to meet.

Nine charter members are still in the group. They are Mrs. Forrest Beavers, Mrs. Ethel Eiland, Mrs. Sis Ketner, Miss Mantha Landfried, Mrs. John Leftwich, Mrs. Carrie Line, Miss Vera Periman, Mrs. Mollie Pinkerton and Mrs. Raymond Williams.

From its beginning, the present club has been closely associated with community, state and national programs. It has sent delegates to state conventions consistently, and is now represented among the district officers, with Miss Zaida Brown being recently elected to district director, at the conference in Abilene last weekend.

On May 11, 1950, Mrs. Forrest Beaver was elected president, and the establishment of a branch of this nationally powerful women's group was aproposed, for with the town's increase in industry and population, more and more women were entering the business world shoulder to shoulder with the men.

The skeptical comments of a generation ago woman's forging into man's sacred precincts, his office, are sufficiently squelched by now, with women popping up blithely here in practically any walk of life you might name.

Fortified with a list of successful working women in this town, a few leaders met over iced tea one summer night and drew up the first plans for the business women's club here. The idea grew and within a month's time officers were elected, meeting nights set, by laws pored over, and Snyder saw the birth of a new club.

By now the twice-monthly meetings are so well attended that dinner reservations must be phoned in ahead of time.

As is the policies and goals of the Business and Professional Women all over the nation, this club strives to keep virile projects working constantly. Their ultimate goal is in some way to make themselves, as a unit, felt in Snyder and the nation. No project seems too small or large for their undertaking, even though the needs are great, the spirit is always ready.

In October, 1950, 72 members and guest gathered at the Country Club to witness Mrs. Addie V. Payne, of Colorado City, present the charter and install Miss Winnie Garner as president. Miss Garner was in the hospital at the time, so the installation was by proxy.

Other officers installed at that time were: Mrs. Sis Ketner, first vice-president; Mrs. Vera Miller, second vice-president; Miss May Lyons, recording scretary; Lyndal Allen, (now Mrs. Walter Ellerd, of Lubbock) corresponding secretary; Mrs. William L. Haney, treasurer; and Mrs. Raymond Williams, parliamentarian.

Newly installed officers of the club include: Miss Ethel Roberts, president; Mrs. Mary Killam, first vice-president; Mrs. Billie Parks, second vice-president; Mrs. Oran Henderson, recording secretary; Mrs. Dorothy McGaw, corresponding secretary; Miss Mantha Landfried, treasurer; and Mrs. Lida Rhoades, parliamentarian.

Farewell Party Is Given Mrs. Lambert

The Hannah Sunday School class of the First Baptist Church, honored Mrs. D. L. Lambert with a farewell party, Wednesday morning at 10 a.m.

Mrs. A. E. Duff, Jr., was hostess for the group in her home, 809 Twenty-sixth Street. Fourteen members were present.

Mrs. Lambert was presented a gift of sterling silver. Mrs. Lambert is with the Morton Potato Chip Co., and has been transferred to Clovis, N.M.

Group Elects Officers Here

The County-Wide 4-H committee held a meeting Saturday morning at 10 o'clock in the County Agents office. The purpose of the meet was election of officers.

Miss Jacqueline Martin, presided at the meeting. Those elected were: Barbara Martin, chairman; Jacqueline Martin, vice-Chairman; Barbara Thornburg, secretary; Tennie Eades, corresponding secretary; Betty Pylant, treasurer; Ginger Austin, reporter; and Lorita Stirling, radio chairman.

It was decided to have a 4-H newspaper, with the staff consisting of the staff members, headed by Peggy Brown as editor.

Eight members and Miss Ruby Betts, home demonstration agent, attended.

Snyder Homecoming Activities Planned

Snyder High School Homecoming Day will officially get under way Oct. 12, with a reception for the exes to be held in the high school cafeteria.

Homecoming, which is held every three years, will include the reception from 4 to 6 p.m., the Snyder-Breckenridge football game with the presentation of the homecoming queen, and a party in the cafeteria after the game. The Queen will be one of five candidates elected by the student body. All sophomore, junior and senior girls are eligible.

The Student Council, which sponsors homecoming, urges all the Snyder High School exes to attend and to remind their classmates to do the same.

Rubber Webbing

A new webbing of molded rubber has been designed for use as a base for cushioning chairs, sofas, love seats and sleeping equipment. The all-white rubber webbing also eliminates the need for steel springs. A metal clip is bonded to each end of the rubber strips so that it may be quickly attached to furniture frames. It is designed to be used primarily with foam cushioning.

Flash Frozen Food

The new, method of flash freezing foods such as with shrimp is done in two minutes at 60 degrees below zero. This new method prevents ice crystals from falling which may rip open package walls in ordinary package freezing, allowing moisture and flavor to escape. The new shrimp that are flash frozen in individually require no thawing, may be put directly into the pot.

Both Miss Rodgers and Mr. Ford are students at Hardin-Simmons University.

Church In Arkansas Gets Surprise Gift

ROGERS, Ark. (AP) — When Mrs. Emma Jackson and six other church women began sorting the effects of a woman who willed her possessions to the Central Baptist Church, they did not pay too much attention to one bundle of old clothing.

However, Mrs. Jackson finally got around to the bundle and opened it.

Out fell $4,000 in cash.

Further search turned up another $2,996 hidden in some trunks.

The money apparently was left by the late Mrs. Ollie Graham. It was turned over to the church.

FUNCTIONAL FURNITURE

END TABLE CAN MAKE LIFE MORE PLEASANT

By BILL BAKER

Beautiful end tables can do a lot to make life more pleasant. They can put reading lights at the right spot, hold books and magazines, act as an aid for informal dining and serve generally as boon for carefree living.

Usually good, functional furniture is very expensive. But you can add a pair of modern two-level end tables to your living room for only a few dollars by building them yourself. And you can do just that with the help of my pattern package number 104.

Notice the table in the picture above. Good, isn't it? Two wide surfaces give double the space of many end tables. And you won't be able to find a single dust-catching corner on this smart unit.

What about size, you ask? Well, we've taken care of that by including two different dimensions for the table in the pattern package. A big table on each side of your sofa can be used, or smaller models built if you have a tiny room.

Like all patterns in this series, exact-size paper pattern pieces are included to make it a tack, trace and cut job. So easy! Even children with little woodworking experience can turn out professional-looking finished tables.

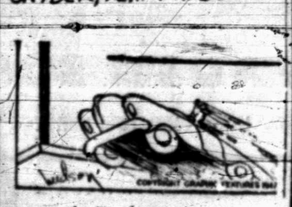

Complete material list, step-by-step directions, finishing hints — these are also included in the package. It'll be easy to build this table.

Your two-level end table pattern package will be on the way to you when you send your name and address (clearly printed), together with only one dollar ($1) to Bill Baker, Snyder Daily News, P.O. Box 1111, Los Angeles 53, California. Ask for number 104. For Provincial design, ask for number 143; also one dollar.

Ziegfield Follies Alumnae Pop Up In Strange Places

By DOROTHY ROE
Associated Press Women's Editor

You never know where you'll meet a Ziegfeld girl.

The alumnae of the Ziegfeld Follies, probably the most famous group of gilt-edged beauties in the history of the American stage, keep popping up in the most unexpected places.

Take Gertrude Vanderbilt, for instance. Now a fashion publicist, dignified, poised and charming, she dropped in at my office the other day. Said I:

"You're not by any chance the Gertrude Vanderbilt I used to do Sunday features about are you? The dancing darling of the Terrific Twenties?"

Said she: "That's me."

Gertrude ran away to join the chorus of a George M. Cohan musical at the age of 14, graduated to the Ziegfeld group, formed a dance duet with Rosie Green, broke hearts right and left, collected several fortunes and gave them away and now is a successful business woman who could give etiquette pointers to any woman's club.

Then there's Barbara Joyner, now Mrs. George Kingdon Parsons and partner in a Wall Street brokerage firm.

The beautiful Mary Mack is another successful broker who made good on her own ability after she quit the footlights.

Marguerite Stanley who owns a bank in Stockbridge, Ga., in partnership with her husband, Charles Loder.

Janet Lawson is in the millinery business in a swank New York shop.

Pearl Shepard married an Egyptian prince, but now is back with her sister, Florence, another Ziegfeld alumnae, who is happily married to Harry Miller of Rye, N.Y.

Florence O'Denishawn, the famous dancer, now owns a lingerie business.

Consuelo Glowerton (Mrs. Flowerton Foch) has gone back to show business after a successful stretch as executive in a textile company.

The girls get together regularly at meetings of the Ziegfeld Alumnae Assn., talk over old times in the Follies and sometimes go into their acts.

South Korean Women Are Ready To Shoulder Guns

By DON BALDWIN

SEOUL (AP) — If war comes again to South Korea a force of several hundred young women will be ready to shoulder rifles if needed — but in the meantime each woman in uniform is replacing up to six men in behind-the-front jobs.

Members of South Korea's Women's Army Corps also are playing a key role in winning equality for their sex in this land where for centuries women have been second class citizens.

The Korean WAC, now 729 women strong, is organized along lines almost identical with the American WAC, but in Korea each recruit must become an expert shot with a carbine. American WACs may volunteer for a few hours of rifle practice.

While women fought shoulder to shoulder with frontline troops during the Korean war, the emphasis now is on clerical and cummunications jobs.

A teen-age WAC with a few weeks' training on an American-built Korean languages typewriter releases six male clerks for duty elsewhere. And young women who until recently thought radios were strictly for entertainment are making outstanding communications technicians.

All WAC recruits must be middle school (junior high) graduates, while officer candidates must have graduated from high school.

"Because of our tough educational requirements almost all members of the WAC come from the cities," says Lt. Col. Lenore Price of Los Altos, Calif., American adviser to the WAC. "Farm girls in Korea just don't get that much education."

But Col. Price and Col. Kim Hyun Sook, director of the WAC, are hopeful that the educational requirements, plus snappy new uniforms and better equipment will give Korea's WAC new esprit d'corps.

"Korea doesn't offer women a wide choice of opportunities," Col. Price points out, "and the WAC can provide an attractive career."

Until recently Korean WACs wore only unattractive khaki trousers and blouses. But now they're being issued summer uniforms worn by American WACs and new winter uniforms are on the way.

Size-wise the Korean WACs are considerably smaller than their American counterparts. Most wear sizes 8 and 10, whhle the average American wears 12 or 14.

Women who join the WAC are trained at a small camp not far from U. S. 8th Army Headquarters on the outskirts of Seoul.

The recruits live and work in neat cinder block buildings on a hillside overlooking a big parade ground and athletic field.

The camp is equipped to give groups of 100 women a two-month basic training course but few recent classes have been full and an intensive recruiting campaign is planned for early autumn.

Women getting specialized training stay on at the camp, as do officer candidates who take a special 16-week course.

"These young women will never again accept inferior status," Col. Price declares, "and they're playing an important part in a revolution which will contribute to the welfare of all Korean women."

On the tablet which the Statue of Liberty carries in its right hand is inscribed: "July 4, 1776."

Guest were Mr. and Mrs. T. D. Wiman, Jr., Mr. and Mrs. Dan Martin, former D. E. coordinator and Miss Katherine Northcutt.

Others attending included Ronald Holister, Lucky Blacksher, Donald Holister, Mary Green, Arnold Dorman, Alice Weber, William Mobley, Patsy May, Jack Harvey Stevens, Linda Stephenson, Patsy McDowell, Carol Sue Davidson, Shirley Watson, Durwin Thompson, Sandra Nichols, Jo Ann Lane, Ronnie Wilhelm, L. F. Cox, and Weldon Smith.

Ike Hopes To Attend Series

WASHINGTON, Sept. 29 (AP)— President Eisenhower hopes to attend a World Series game, but no definite plans can be made until the close National League pennant race is decided.

Press secretary James C. Hagerty made this announcement at a news conference today. He added the President wants to see one of the championship games regardless of whether the Brooklyn Dodgers or the Milwaukee Braves win in the National League.

Hagerty himself is a fan of the New York Yankees, who won the American League pennant.

Hagerty said a final decision on the President's plans will await the outcome of the crucial series between the Dodgers and Pittsburgh Pirates, and the Braves and St. Louis Cardinals.

Altrurian Club Has Assembly Luncheon

The home of Mrs. R. D. English, 2304 Thirtieth Street, was the setting for the Assembly luncheon of the Altrurian Club, Friday noon.

The president, Mrs. C. C. Miller, gave the greeting and plans were set for the year.

An informal travel-log program on "Where've You Been" was conducted with each member of telling of the places they had visited during the summer months.

Mrs. English used an arrangement of red carnations on the dining table, with fall chrysanthemums and autumn leaves bedecking the other parts of the home.

There were 21 members present.

Mrs. Herman Bond Given Tea In Dickey Home

A tea honoring Mrs. Herman Bond, the former Miss Carolyn Sturdivant, was given in the home of Mrs. Owen Dickey, 317 Thirty-third, Friday afternoon from 3 to 6:30 o'clock.

The bride's color scheme of pink and white was carried out in the table decorations.

Mr. and Mrs. Bond were married Sept. 12 in Carlsbad, N. M.

The table was laid with a white Irish lace cloth imported from Ireland. The table was decorated with a centerpiece consisting of a bride and groom under an archway, made on stayfoam square. Surrounding this was a ruffle of pink profusion accented on one side by a white umbrella and the other side holding a maypole with three white bells.

Pink punch and white cake, iced in pink, was served to 40 guests.

The bride was attired in a pink taffeta dress trimmed in pearls and wore a corsage of white carnations, pink ribbon and net. Mrs. Clyde Sturdivant, mother of the bride wore a navy crepe dress with white lace color. Mrs. L. H. Bond, Sr., mother of the groom wore a navy crepe trimmed in white. Their corsages were of white carnations with pink ribbons, similar to the bride's.

The receiving line consisted of Mrs. Alvin Koonsman, Mrs. Bond, and the bride and bridegroom's mothers.

Mrs. Jimmy Rodgers served the cake, while Mrs. Raymond Prather ladeled the punch. Miss Gwendolyn Sturdivant, sister of the bride registered the guests.

Hostesses for the tea were Mrs. Owen Dickey, Mrs. Alvin Koonsman, Mrs. Clarence Moore, Mrs. Lynn Fenton, Mrs. Kenneth Smith, Mrs. John Martin, Mrs. Raymond Prather, Mrs. Preston Nokes, Mrs. Carla Smith and Mrs. Jimmy Rodgers.

Out-of-town guest were Mrs. Earl Johnson, Hamlin, an aunt of the bridegroom.

Corn Meal Waffles Are Good Family Breakfast

Wise mothers serve a nourishing, hearty breakfast before the the school bell rings.

No urging to eat is needed when corn meal waffles are on the breakfast menu. Appetites of youngsters and grownups are whetted by the prospect of their golden goodness. Served with apple juice and pork sausage, this delicious breakfast supplies energy plus B vitamins and minerals.

Bring the waffle iron to the table and let the whole family join in the fun of anticipation. This breakfast bread is distinctive. Brown sugar gives natural delicacy to the texture. These corn meal waffles are dependably light and tender.

The one-bowl method of mixing is quick and ever so simple. The salt and baking powder are already accurately measured and blended in the partial mixes of self-rising corn meal and self-rising flour, saving even more time.

CORN MEAL WAFFLES
1½ cups self-rising corn meal
1½ cups self-rising flour
6 tablespoons brown sugar
¼ cup plus 2 tablespoons
½ cup melted margarine or shortening
1½ cups sweet milk
3 eggs

(If plain corn meal and flour are used, sift 4 teaspoons baking powder and 1½ teaspoons salt together with flour before adding cornmeal.)

Mix self-rising corn meal and flour and brown sugar well. Add the milk, eggs and melted margarine or shortening. Beat with a rotary beater, until smooth—about one minute. Bake in a hot waffle iron until golden brown. Allow waffle to remain in iron a few seconds longer for added crispness.

Draft Quota Is Released For November

AUSTIN — The state draft quota for November calls for 858 men, Colonel Morris S. Schwartz, state Selective Service director, said Thursday.

The quota of 858 for Texas compares with a call of 847 for October, previously announced. The November quota is the biggest monthly call received since December 1955.

The November quota is the state's share of a national call of 17,000 men, all for the Army.

At the same time he announced the November induction quota, Colonel Schwartz also announced a November call on approximately half the state's local boards for 1,500 men to take pre-induction physical and mental examinations for future calls.

He said that the boards not receiving a quota for these examinations already had been called upon to furnish men for examination in October.

Locad board quotas for the November induction and pre-induction examination are scheduled to be mailed from state Selective Service headquarters on Tuesday, October 2.

The November quota will be filled with men who are 22 years of age or older on November 1, with the exception of delinquents or volunteers, who may be younger.

Colonel Schwartz said he expected the November call to be filled with volunteers and men without children. Delinquents are liable first, he pointed out, but there are not many.

He warned young fathers the law requires them to advise boards about their children, or an expected child.

Don't Be Scared By Jokes, Mother-In-Law Human Too

By VIVIAN BROWN

ANYBODY ever hear tell of a wicked old father-in-law? Nope. But mama-in-law is somebody else. She manages to keep alive some very stale jokes and haunt the dreams of every bride-to-be.

Silly, isn't it? You've just acquired one of her prized possessions. Why not relax and try to understand it:

Drop that chip from your shoulder and try to win Mom over. Your spouse will like you for it and if truth be known Mom is ready to be won.

Sure there'll be those moments when she wants to darn his socks, give you advice on how to make gravy or how to make a bed. But why not? Even if you do it better what can you lose trying to be a good sport when she's around? You'll find too, when you cooperate, that Mom can be a good sport, too, and maybe some of her tips are worth the trouble.

Of course there are mothers-in-law who are problems. Just as many perhaps as daughters-in-law. The world is full of tactless, selfish people and they're not limited to one sex, either.

Your rule of thumb should be to rise above the situation, whatever it is. What's wrong with saying "thanks Mom I'll try that." Or calling her occasionally and suggesting that "it's been so long since you've seen her" instead of putting her in the position of finding some excuse to visit you. After all, she may be lonely.

If you feel you are competing with your mother-in-law for your husband's affections, you are immature. He might love his mother's apple pie and biscuits, but it didn't keep him from marrying you.

If your mother-in-law lives with you there probably will be problems accasionally. They are similar to those you'd face with roommates or your own family if you had to live with them after marriage. People like to meddle into other people's business. Don't let it get you.

You'll need to be firm, to overlook many things, to have a sense of humor and to impress your mother-in-law with a fact — it is your home. Plan the meals, order the groceries and make the decisions. Accept your mother-in-law's advice graciously. But never make her feel she is your dependent.

Maple Cookery By French Chef Is Declared Success

TODAY WOMEN
By DOROTHY ROE

We Americans love our baked beans, clam chowder, apple pie and flapjacks with maple syrup.

But the professional French chef is likely to view these viands with a jaundiced eye. And to ask him to cook them can be as deadly an insult as questioning his mother's ancestry.

So it was with lively interest that I accepted a recent invitation to attend a maple syrup luncheon aboard the liner Ile de France, a ship noted for the elegance of its French cuisine.

This, the man said, was to be a traditional French menu with all the main dishes cooked with pure maple syrup.

The great dining salon of the liner was deserted except for one perfectly appointed long table when the dozen reporters arrived, all looking as secretly excited as I. We were served the following:

Broiled grapefruit with maple syrup
Roast duck with maple syrup sauce
Salad with maple syrup dressing
Pure maple baked Alaska

And instead of sugar they served maple syrup with the demitasse.

Vintage wines accompanied each course, the service was perfect, the succeeding dishes superb.

But it seems that before the lupcheon was produced, international amity was threatened and for a time high drama reigned in the kitchens of the Ile de France, when Chef Jean Reguere stared in horror at the menu presented to him, tore off his spotless chef cap, waved his arms, pounded the table and shouted:

"No! I will not do it! My honor and my reputation are at stake! Pour maple syrup all over my superb food? Nevaire!"

Feats of diplomacy worthy of a conference at the summit were required to calm the shattered nerves of the wild-eyed Jean, who, it seems, kept muttering: "What would Escoffier say?"

But when the luncheon was served the next day as scheduled, there were no signs of the preliminary strife, and all seemed sweetness and light. Most of those present were food experts, and all pronounced the maple cookery a roaring success.

Spadea's International Designer Pattern

John Cavanagh is one of London's outstanding young designers. His Paris training combined with his British conservatism have resulted in clothes that have the ultimate in chic and utility.

This princess sheath dress has set-in sleeves. They can be cut short or long. The waist is bias cut and has slanted button holes on the straight grain. Machine top-stitching trims the curved bust dart and continues on seam of front panel. Made in linen, novelty cottons, shantung, faille, plain or printed silks, light weight woolens.

Size 16 requires 4⅞ yards of 39 inch material for dress and ½ of a yard of 35 inch material for interfacing. To order Pattern No. S-321, state size, enclose $1.00. Airmail handling requires 25c extra. Adress, INTERNATIONAL DESIGNER PATTERNS, Box 993, G.P.O. Dept. SX-13, New York 1, N.Y. 96 page Pattern Book "B" 50c. If paid by check add 4c. 'I Love Lucy' Goes Into Sixth Season Monday

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — These all-time TV champs, Lucille Ball and Desi Arnaz, are swinging into their sixth season Monday with a whole new bag of tricks.

Lucy and Desi have never been ones to rest on their laurels. When the novelty of their domestic tangles began to wear off, they took a trip to Hollywood and brought guest stars into the show. When that gold mine had been exhausted, they journeyed to Europe.

The Ricardos of "I Love Lucy" will be back in their old apartment this season—but not for long.

"We will be taking off for Florida," Desi explained. "Then we will go to Cuba, where Ricky will have a triumphant return to his native land—it's sort of like my life. We'll visit New Orleans and later in the season we'll move to the suburbs."

The suburb episodes will be taken largely from life, he indicated. He and Lucy regaled each other with tales of their ranch in nearby Chatsworth. Such as the time Desi bought a hundred chicks, then discovered he had to have an incubator to keep them warm. So he sheltered them in the unused guest room.

I met the Arnazes in the fancy new office Desi has at Motion Picture Center, which he now owns. Before lunch, he insisted on showing me the set where they film the show every Thursday night. I found a cabin cruiser floating in a studio tank.

"This will be beach over here and cabanas over there," he said, pointing at the sides of the tank. "And think of it—last night our apartment stood on this spot."

Little Ricky will appear in more of the scrips this year. He'll be played by talented five-year-old Richard Keith.

"We hunted almost a year for the kid before we found the right one," said Desi. "This boy is really great. We have a scene in the show where I go back to Cuba. The boy puts on a drum and does 'Babalu' with me. It's a killer."

Luigi Faints When He Becomes Father

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—Luigi Caresu, 21, became a father for the first time and after a look at his new-born son, fainted.

When he was revived, the exuberant Luigi put his hand through a glass telephone booth in the hospital corridor.

When police came to see what the noise was all about, Luigi, who doesn't speak English, feared he was in trouble and ran up to the hospital roof. He refused to come down until the police went away.

When he came down, doctors gave him a sedative and he was sent home to calm down.

Mother and son were doing much better, the hospital reported.

Tyler Symphony Man Says Concerts Mean Business

By MARSHALL COMERER
Associated Press Staff

W. M. Holmes, president of the East Texas Symphony Orchestra, estimates a symphony concert attended by 1,000 persons in a city of 50,000 means an extra $3,000 worth of business to stores.

Thus he estimated his orchestra's four subscription concerts this season will bring Tyler businessmen $10,000 more in revenue.

Holmes bases his estimates on a study by the American Symphony Orchestra League. He said $3,000 is spent per concert this way: Women's clothes $2,250, men's clothes $200, taxicabs and cost of taking the family car $250, snack at a restaurant and home entertaining $450, corsages and floral decorations $60, records and music $90, and baby sitters $150.

A symphony orchestra is a community asset, says Holmes, because it helps attract new industries.

"Many communities have good transportation, adequate water and housing potential," says Holmes. "Companies nowdays are largely concerned with whether a community has what it takes to keep their key personnel satisfied."

The Amarillo Civic Ballet Co. is the newest organization in the field of resident arts. The company, announced last week by director Gene Galle, proposes to establish a civic ballet of Amarillo and Panhandle residents and to present recitals by national ballet companies.

Port Arthur's Little Theater is bouncing back after its disastrous Fire July 14. About $1,200 has been raised in his drive for $25,000 to build a new home. The theater has set its first production of the season, "Time of the Cuckoo" for Oct. 13-18.

The Abilene Community Theater plans an expanded program this season. It will present four or five plays. "Mrs. McThing" is slated for late October. A new project will be a workshop project to find and develop talent. Its one-act plays will be available as entertainments in Abilene. The first workshop production is to be "Fumed Oak" by Noel Coward.

The Baylor Theater opened its new season last week with a revival of the 1890's melodrama "Dirty Work at the Crossroads." The play was the big success of the Southwest summer theater's season at Waco.

The Greater Fort Worth Community Theater is casting and rehearsing "Anastasia."

The Marshall Civic Orchestra had a turnout of 29 musicians for its first rehearsal and plans to have 60 members.

The Wichita Falls Symphony Orchestra is seeking 3,000 members. The season will include six subscription concerts, two children's concerts, twilight concerts in the spring and the annual community "Messiah" Dec. 2. Dr. Arno Daniel is the conductor.

The Lubbock Symphony Orchestra, preparing one of its most ambitious seasons, reports 80 musicians have joined the all volunteer group.

The Austin Symphony Orchestra will open Oct. 29. Ezra Rachlin again will be the conductor.

Jayne Looks Okay During Hairdressing

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Jayne Mansfield passed the acid test: she managed to look glamorous even while two hairdressers were applying bleach to the roots of her blonde hair.

That is how I found her in the makeup department at 20th Century-Fox, a studio that has been a haven for sensational blondes (Betty Grable, Marilyn Monroe, Sheree North, etc.). Covered with a smock and with her hair a foamy, multishaded mess, Jayne still looked great.

Maybe that's because happiness was written all over her face. When I saw her in New York a year ago, she was yearning to get back to her pink Jaguar and her movie career. I noticed the car parked outside the makeup building. And there's no doubt that her career is in the pink as well.

"Oh, I couldn't be happier," she said. "The studio is so nice. Just to get out of the play, they bought it, even though they didn't want it."

How's that again?

She explained: "Buddy Adler (studio head) said he didn't want 'Will Success Spoil Rock Hunter.' He didn't think it would be good as a movie. But Frank Tashlin (writer-director-producer) saw my test for 'The Wayward Bus' and flipped.

"He said he had to have me for 'Do Re Mi' and he told Buddy he had a way to lick the 'Rock Hunter' script. So they bought the play and got me out of it and here I am. Isn't it wonderful?"

"The clothes in this picture are fabulous," she enthused. "For the first time, people will be able to see that I do have a 40-inch bust and a 21½-inch waist."

Actor's Will Filed For Probate In LA

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Once wealthy actor Bela Lugosi, who died Aug. 16 at 74, left an estate worth $2,900.

His will, filed in Superior Court for probate, left everything to a son, Bela Jr., 18. Under California community property law, the son must share the property with Lugosi's widow, Mrs. Hope Liniger Lugosi, to whom he was married Aug. 24, 1955. The will was dated Jan. 12, 1954.

Center Dedicated

BELTON, Sept. 29 (AP)—A $250,000 physical education center at Mary Hardin - Baylor was dedicated yesterday.

Final Service Is Held For Babe Zaharias

BEAUMONT, Sept. 20 (AP)—Heart-broken George Zaharias buried the ashes of his wife, Mildred "Babe" Didriksen Zaharias, at private services today at Forest Lawn Cemetery.

The Denver wrestling promoter and wealthy real estate man said he "wanted to thank the President of the United States for his very kind message on Babe's passing, as well as all people and friends from all over the world."

"She would have been thrilled to know, and I know she must know," he said. "She would have been as grateful as I am for the outpouring of sympathetic messages."

Zaharias said he had been asked what he was going to do "now that the Babe is resting in peace."

"I am going to carry on her wishes to fight this terrible disease, cancer. I am going to do everything in my power to help find the answer and the cure for all humanity."

He is going to Miami Beach Oct. 3 to appear at a televised fight. Zaharias said the IBA show is to be shown nationally and will be a benefit for the Babe Zaharias Cancer Fund.

"I intend to move slowly in the future," he said. "I have no immediate plans to return to the home Babe built in Tampa. But I do intend to go back to Colorado to see my family and friends in the near future."

The one-time wrestler said he wanted to thank The Associated Press for its "splendid and dignified handling of the Babe story."

"I feel like the AP was a friend and its reporters were always kind to me and the Babe," he said.

Asked if it could be said that he was "heart broken," Zaharias said "It's worse than that. The Babe had something, something indescribable. She always made me feel better but she had an especial way of making me feel that I was an important person."

Election Is Slated For Choosing Union

NEW YORK, Sept. 29 (AP)—The National Labor Relations Board has set Oct. 17 for New York dock workers to choose between the International Longshoremen's Assn. (Ind) and the AFL-CIO International Brotherhood of Longshoremen. The AFL-CIO union was set up after the ILA was kicked out of the AFL for allegedly failing to rid itself of criminal elements.

Red Chinese Pushing Large Amount Of Dope To Troops

WASHINGTON, Sept. 29 (AP) — Harry J. Anslinger, U. S. narcotics commissioner, said today Red China is pushing large amounts of narcotics into the free world with twin aims of making money and causing debauchery, particularly among U. S. troops and civilians in the Far East.

Anslinger told of Communist Chinese land, air and sea smuggling of tons of opium, morphine and heroin in a symposium published by the House Committee on Un-American activities.

The 475-page volume, the second of a two-part series entitled "Soviet Total War," also contained writings by other well-known figures describing different aspects of the Communist menace.

Anslinger said that while the Peiping government aims at making a huge profit by peddling narcotics, a "far more important" Red target is their use "as a vehicle of physical deterioration and moral debauchery."

"Particular attention is being paid to American military and civilian personnel in the Far East," he said. "At the same time, Red China's opium has been discovered on both the West and East Coasts and as far inland as St. Louis, Mo."

Anslinger listed just one specific instance concerning GIs. He said a U. S. soldier "recently" stated that while stationed at Taegu, South Korea he and 30 fellow servicemen were given almost pure quality heroin free. The GIs became addicts and had to get hospital treatment upon return to the United States, Anslinger said.

The narcotics chief said the Communist drugs pour out to the world through the Red Chinese ports of Tientsin, Tsingtao and Canton, and through Yunnan Province which is north of Burma and Thailand.

He said the traffickers use whole sections of ship crews, such as the engine or deck crews, to smuggle the goods. Both aircraft maintenance crews and passenger "couriers" were said to be employed when the narcotics go by air.

Anslinger said from 200 to 400 tons of Chinese Communist raw opium move through Thailand annually. Consumers pay an equivalent of $350,000 a ton for the smoking variety. At any time at a point outside Bangkok harbor, he said, traffickers can buy three to four tons at $40,000 a ton.

"Millions of dollars obtained through the sale of opium and other narcotics," he added, "are used by the Communist regime in mainland China for political purposes and to finance agents."

Advances Made In Electron Research

PASADENA, Calif., Sept. 29 (AP) — Man has succeeded in pushing electrons virtually up to the speed of light.

This amazing announcement was made today by President Lee A. DuBridge of California Institute of Technology.

The speed of 186,000 miles per second—never before reached by man-produced particles—has been attained in Caltech's souped-up synchroton.

"We're just about one ten-millionth behind the speed of light," is the way Dr. Robert F. Bacher, vision, put it. The speed of light is 186,324 miles per second.

Moreover, the synchroton has accelerated electrons to a high energy of 1,200,000,000 electron volts, giving great hope for future discoveries about the atom.

"This new high energy level," Dr. DuBridge said, "will greatly extend our ability to pursue research on the nature of the atomic nucleus."

Dr. Bacher said the synchroton —a circular atom-smashor, 105 feet in circumference—will be operated in the 1 to 1 billion-volt range in an "attempt to produce and examine some of the most fundamental particles in nature."

The purpose of the synchroton is to produce X-ray beams powerful enough to blast atoms apart.

When the machine is going full tilt, the electrons traverse the circular vacuum chamber two million times—a distance of over 37,000 miles—in one-fifth of a second, Bacher says.

When these electrons hit atoms of liquid hydrogen or liquid deuterium, the result is expected to be particles known to physicists as mmesons, hyperons, anti-protons and anti-neutrons.

Some of these have been produced elsewhere as by-products of collisions between protons, but Caltech hopes the high-powered X-rays will tear further secrets out of the heart of the atom.

Two more powerful atom-smashers, both cyclotrons, are in use in the United States. The University of California's Berkeley cyclotron has produced energies of six to seven billion volts. The Brookhaven, L. I., Research Lwboratory has a three-billion volt model.

What is the practical application of the new speed and high energies?

At this point, none, says Bacher. But who knows what fields may be opened by nuclear researchers?

Business Activity In State Drops Off

AUSTIN, Sept. 29 (AP)—Texas Business News reported today that Texas business activity in 1956 is slower than expected.

The index of business activity compiled by the Bureau of Business Research at the University of Texas showed August business was below the average for the first eight months of 1956 and below the average level of 1955.

August figures were about the same as in July, John Stockton, director of the bureau, said today in the publication.

"For the past two months the index of business activity has been below the same month of 1955," Stockton wrote. "The prediction has been made in previous issues of the Texas Business Review that 1956 would show a somewhat higher level of total business than 1955, but if the trend of the last two months continues, this forecast may be too optimistic.

"There is evidence that the rising level of Texas business has been held back by the growing restrictions on credit. Apparently the same conclusion can be stated concerning the level of business in the country as a whole, for in this case there appears to be nothing distinctively different in the Texas business situation. Interest rates have been steadily increasing, and in some cases loans are becoming difficult to secure, even at the higher interest rates."

Business News reported sales of durable goods in Texas during the first eight months were 16 percent lower than in 1956. Auto dealers reported a decline of 20 per cent while lumber, building material and hardware store sales were down 11 per cent and furniture and household appliances were off 6 per cent.

Non-farm housing starts under FHA loans were off 30 per cent in August over a year ago and VA loans were down 40 per cent. Other housing loans, with higher mortgage interest rates, increased 5 per cent.

For the first eight months of the year new residential building declined 26 per cent while non-residential building was up 12 per cent.

Consumer prices rose in August. Some food prices were higher and higher prices were posted on most articles with steel and aluminum components, such as car, electrical household appliances, hardware and construction and office equipment. Clothing and other textile products, such as carpets, show a rising trend.

CRMWD Has High Revenue And Expenses

Both revenues and expenses continued high for the Colorado River Municipal Water District during August.

The monthly revenue fund statement shows $123,865 in revenues, of which $122,127 came from sale of water and $1,737 from recreational facilities. Expenditures aggregated $77,684, leaving a net of $46,180. This left the total transferred to the net revenue fund during the year at $433,075. These funds are applied to the interest and principal requirements of the bonds.

The City of Odessa paid $44,921 for 413,350,000 gallons of water; Big Spring $28,709 for 254,490,000 gallons, Snyder $12,265 for 84,765,000 gallons, SACROC unit $28,897 for 240,809,000 gallons Sharon Ridge unit $5,657 for 47,145,000 gallons, Texas Gulf Producing Co. $767 for 4,388,000 gallons. Rural users and rural installations accounted for another $900 revenue.

Expenses included $2,251 for operation of City of Odessa wells, $561 for operation of City of Big Spring wells, $3,257 royalties on water. The big items were for maintenance — $36,260 — and for operating expenses, $27,677. Administrative expense stood at $4,394, and the recreational expense was $3,301.

Gross receipts for the year now stand at $858,581.

Total sales in gallons topped the billion gallon mark with 1,044,947 billed out during the month. This pushed the year's production to 5,607,901,000 gallons. During August, 56 per cent of the production came from Lake J. B. Thomas.

Cancer Society To Meet Here Tuesday

A meeting of the Scurry County unit of the American Cancer Society has been scheduled for Tuesday afternoon.

The session will be held at 4:30 p.m. in the board room of the West Texas State Bank.

Nancy James, regional coordinator for the American Cancer Society, will be here to attend the meeting.

Postponement Is Requested

AUSTIN, Sept. 29 (AP)—The Texas Independent Producers and Royalty Owners Assn. urged today no postponement of oil import hearings because of the Suez crisis.

President A. E. Herrmann told Defense Mobilizer Arthur Flemming that possible remifications of the Suez crisis should not affect the hearings scheduled for early in October. The hearings were sought by 19 oil associations.

"That the Suez crisis could result in a sharp curtailment of petroleum imports into the United States is insufficient reason, in our judgement, for delaying the affirmation of a formal policy defining the role whcih imports may play in supplying the domestic demand," Herrmann said.

"The fact that with crisis abroad imports are reduced to the point where they temporarily cease to create an economic problem here only emphasizes the need for limiting them by formal action during periods when foreign oil is available."

Strawn Is Awarded Judgment By Jury

A county court jury yesterday awarded Earl Strawn who lives northeast of Snyder, $104.25 for right-of-way for a farm raod being built by the north side of his farm.

The award was made just before noon in a condemnation suit. Strawn had been offered $50 for his right-of-way by the county's special right-of-way commissioners.

The award figured at the rate of $250 per acre for the land. The road project is that which includes Eighth Street in north Snyder and a country road running east and west on the north side of the Snyder Cemetery.

Members of the jury were Kenneth Snyder, Vance Clift, Audrey Head, Horald Wade, H. R. Gannaway, and Mrs. Marcus Johnston.

Cauble On Assault Charge

A county court jury Friday afternoon found William E. Cauble of Snyder not guilty of a charge of aggravated assault.

Cauble had been charged with assaulting M. C. Burcett.

LEGAL NOTICE

TO: Marie Bostenhamer

GREETING:

You are commanded to appear by filing a written answer to the plaintiff's petition at or before 10 o'clock A. M. of the first Monday after the expiration of 42 days from the date of issuance of this Citation, the same being Monday the 28th day of October, A. D., 1956, at or before 10 o'clock A. M. before the Honorable district Court of Scurry County at the Court House in Snyder, Texas.

Said plaintiff's petition was filed on the 3rd day of July, 1956.

The file number of said suit being No. 6586.

The names of the parties in said suit are: J. D. Bostenhamer as Plaintiff, and Marie Bostenhamer as Defendant.

The nature of said suit being substantially as follows, to wit: Divorce.

If this Citation is not served within 90 days after the date of its issuance, it shall be returned unserved.

Issued this the 11th day of September A. D., 1956.

Given under my hand and seal of said Court, at office in Snyder, Texas, this the 11th day of September A. D., 1956.

CANDALON
Foam-Cushon Carpeting
100% Nylon and Foam Cushioning
All-in-one
$7.95 SQ. YD. INSTALLED
ONLY

Your choice of many patterns in these colors:
Sandalwood Tan, Spruce Green, Hunter Green, Turquoise, Cathedral Red, Old Gold, Gray and Beige.

You save all underpadding costs —Pure foam cushioning is built right into the carpet. You save $1.00 to $2.50 a yard right there. And this cushioning never mats or crushes—stays springy. That's one reason Candalon Foam-Cushon Carpeting outlasts other carpets costing twice as much.

Bulk-free pile is super-strong— The 100% nylon pile of this new kind of carpeting is amazingly bulk-free. Yet it's super-strong. That's proved by wear-tests conducted in busy hotel lobbies and department stores.

Doesn't catch dirt—sheds stains —Its unique bulk-free pile makes Candalon Foam-Cushon Carpeting a cinch to clean, too. It can't trap dirt. It won't lint. Stains wipe right off. And it vacuums in nothing flat!

Mothproof—mildewproof—non-allergenic—Since both the nylon and foam are chemically formed, they are absolutely proof against moths, silverfish and mildew. Non-allergenic, too!

See The Scissor Test!
Watch us take a sharp-pointed scissors, scrape the carpet hard —again and again. It has absolutely no effect on its bulk-free 100% nylon face!

See The Ink Test!
See how stains like coffee, tea, ice cream—even ink—wipe right off. And the 100% nylon face dries fast!
