Two Boys From Burk Attending Scout Jamboree

Took Burk Stars For Bartering Material

Two Burk Burnett Scouts, Rudy Robinson, III, and John Robinson, left last Thursday for the International Scout Jamboree in Valley Forge, Pa. They are the only boys to attend from Burk Burnett.

Each year Scouts from all over the world gather for a big jamboree and get-together. The number runs well over 100,000.

It is customary for each boy to take something with him to barter with other boys for something from their locality. Boys from East Texas would probably take pine cones; boys from New Mexico or Arizona, semi-precious colored stones.

No one would have ever guessed what Rudy and John took.—BURK STARS! They had been saving papers for many months and felt that the editions immediately preceding the rodeo would bring a premium.

That is a fine compliment to the Star and we hope the boys had lots of profitable trading.

The boys left by bus for a tour of the Southern states. During the encampment, the boys will visit Washington, Niagra Falls, then they will tour New York City and visit the World's Fair.

Many warnings have been made over the radio, via TV and the newspapers, about abandoning old refrigerators with doors still in operating condition and many times these warnings have gone unheeded only to end in tragedy.

Yet some persons still risk the lives of their children by setting their refrigerators in the yard, unused, with the door attached and in easy reach of the children.

Why am I writing this? Because just today, July 10th, I have seen such an unused refrigerator in someone's yard and a small child playing nearby.

If this article causes this family to remove the door, or the refrigerator to where there will be no danger to their children, then it is well worth the time it has taken to write it.

I just hope the message will reach the correct persons.

First Swim Club Lessons End July 10th

Those wishing to participate must sign enrollment cards at the pool. If under 18 years old, the parents will be requested to sign the cards. Classes will be from 7 p. m. to 9 p. m.

Everyone connected with the Swim Club is very grateful to the anonymous donor of 12 chairs recently received for use at the pool.

WIS 'N' THAT

R. E. Hodges of Linden had as her guest over the weekend, her sister, Mrs. Tanager of Temple, Tex. Hodges accompanied her for a visit and later, they went to Houston to visit another sister.

On the return trip, they will visit Mrs. Tanager's daughter and family.

Each year Scouts from all over the world gather for a big jamboree and get-together. The number runs well over 100,000.

It is customary for each boy to take something with him to barter with other boys for something from their locality. Boys from East Texas would probably take pine cones; boys from New Mexico or Arizona, semi-precious colored stones.

No one would have ever guessed what Rudy and John took.—BURK STARS! They had been saving papers for many months and felt that the editions immediately preceding the rodeo would bring a premium.

That is a fine compliment to the Star and we hope the boys had lots of profitable trading.

The boys left by bus for a tour of the Southern states. During the encampment, the boys will visit Washington, Niagra Falls, then they will tour New York City and visit the World's Fair.

OCEAN GOING SUCCESS STORY

Segments of our merchant marine face a decline even though the American flag now flies over the fastest and finest cargo and passenger liners that sail the seas of the world today. The latter are under rigid government contracts to operate under the U. S. flag regularly, in good times and bad, on foreign trade routes the government designates as essential. Explaining this situation, an official of one of our leading shipping companies has pointed out that we have four distinct merchant marines, each operating in a different manner, serving a different market and facing different earnings and growth prospects.

The Merchant Marine Act of 1936 recognized the fact that long term American flag liner operation on for-ign trade routes would be impossible without government providing a cushion against competition of foreign shipping which has the advantage of lower construction and operating costs. Differential subsidies were provided for one segment of our merchant marine to ensure that the United States would have control of a fast modern fleet of cargo and passenger liners operating on world trade routes deemed essential to this country's economic and military security. This legislation has been successful in achieving its purpose.

But the other segments of our merchant marine presents a different picture. They are the contract and bulk carriers, commonly known as tramp steamers, tankers engaged in the domestic trade. The Merchant Marine Act was not intended to include these and they have been up against lower cost foreign shipping and in the case of coastwise trade the natural competition of alternative land transport as well. Some extensions of the subsidy program may become necessary as, for example, in the case of routes of our overseas states and territories which should not be left dependent on foreign flag shipping.

But let's recognize that our national maritime policy has been highly successful in the area it was intended to cover. If changes are needed, they should be made as the shipping spokesman states, "... deliberately, with full knowledge of specific problems and prospects and after realistic assessment of our National desires, objectives, costs and benefits."

Grass Roots Opinion

MABELTON, GA., MAIL: "The Administration's war should not blind us to the need for another assault—an all-out war on federal prodigality. Wasteful spending of taxpayer's funds is the arch enemy of national well-being and we strongly recommend that the Congress mount a hard-hitting, unrelenting campaign to rout it."

IT'S UP TO YOU

By
Howard E. Kershner, L.H.D.

SOME classes of workers are talking about annual vacations of three months, then expect a year's pay for nine months' work. Other advocates of less work and more pay are seeking retirement at age 60 and even at 55 and 50. As there would be no Social Security payments at such ages, the unions are expecting the employers to retire any worker after 25 years of service at half pay. It is also proposed that the worker have the option of working for 30 years and then retiring on two-thirds pay.

These are extreme forms of the old fallacy that one's reward has little if any relationship to the amount of service rendered. Surely it does not need to be proved that if all of us are planning to work for only 25 years, we can not have as much as if we worked for 40 or 50 years. If one works for 25 years and then draws pay for another 25 years while in retirement, it means that his remuneration during the 25 years of service is somewhere between 50 and 100 percent larger than his wages during his 25 active years. That necessarily forces prices far above present levels as the output of each worker in comparison to wages received and retirement benefits received would not be much more than half of what it is at present. Since one cannot receive wealth that is not created, this could be done only by disastrous inflation. That might do it in dollars, but it would not do it in real wages or actual purchasing power.

It just is not possible to have more by producing less and if people have made up their minds that they want to work only half of their productive lives they must reconcile themselves to having a standard of living only half as high as it otherwise might be. Surely, those who want to work a greater number of years and have more should have the privilege of doing so.

If your dog is kept in a confined area such as a small pen, droppings become a major problem. One answer is to keep four or five land terrapins inside the pen. They will keep the pen cleaned nicely.

Adult leaders responsible for teaching the workshops and subject matter groups are: Mrs. Beth Morris and Leon Holding, Wichita Falls; Mrs. J. H. Bentley, Mrs. Clarence Endres, Mrs. N. T. Crane and Mrs. S. L. Johnson, Burk Burnett; Mrs. Roy Burbank and Mrs. Ray Gullett, Friberg; Mrs. Floyd Rodgers and Mrs. Jack Hamilton, Electra; and Mrs. James Featherston, Wichita Falls. Also working with younger girls were Jr. leaders, Diane Bentley, Louise Bentley and Linda Taylor. Miss Sandra Herrell, assistant county home demonstration agent trained leaders for teaching the workshops and groups.

Junior and senior division winners will be announced following the dress revue. Each girl will have been judged the day prior to the revue on garment construction, appearance of the garment on the girl, grooming and poise.

The public is cordially invited to attend the event.

Here's some information about new products on the market or soon to appear on the market, says Thelma Wirges, county home demonstration agent. Shoppers of the near future can look for:

Dehydrofrozen foods — products that are frozen after partial drying. The quality of fruits or vegetables equals that of frozen products, the agent says.

Freeze-dried foods—the water is removed after freezing and the products are stored without refrigeration. When reconstituted, these products change little in color, taste and form.

Heat in the Pouch frozen foods — to be heated in the pouch, thus pre-serving nutrients and flavor.

Radiation sterilization — Nearly all micro-organisms are destroyed by small exposure to radiation enhancing preservation qualities of products.

Enzymes — added to preserve vegetable flavors and for meat tenderness.

Powdered vegetables — dehydrated commercially for home preparation of purees, dips and soups.

Explosion puffing — new dehydration process provides quick cooking vegetables and fruits that taste fresh.

Look for new products as you do your food shopping, the agent suggests. Convenience is becoming an accepted part of our technically oriented society. Our need for time and energy saving foods probably will increase in the future, the agent predicted.

Keeping Tissue Dry

To keep toilet tissue dry in camp put a roll in a discarded two-pound coffee can. It fits the roll and serves the purpose. Use the cans with the transparent plastic caps for easy identification.

New Low-Voltage Home Lighting System

LOS ANGELES—Showing that night lighting of a garden, patio or terrace is now a simple, inexpensive thing to do is Miss Diane Whitaker, 1964 California Fashion Model of the Year. Making it so simple is a new, complete low-voltage home lighting system introduced by American Machine & Foundry's Los Angeles subsidiary, Wen-Mac Corporation.

Simply called, "California low-voltage Garden Lights," the system brings to home owners across the country colorful outdoor "home lighting" so popular in California.

However, rather than an expensive $200-$300 conduit installation, this new low-voltage AMP complete system costs under seventy dollars and can be hooked up in minutes. Neither building permit or permanent conduits are needed.

The unique feature of the AMP/Wen-Mac system is the use of a current-reducing transformer which puts out only 12 volts of power. It costs but 20¢ per night to operate.

Any ordinary 110 volt household outlet serves as the power source for the California Garden Lights.

Power from the transformer is sufficient to light up six varicolored garden lights which use a common "automobile-type" sealed-beam unit. Six different colored lens covers fit over the sealed beams and may be changed on a minute's notice.

The California Garden Lights clip onto a heavy 100 foot cable much like Christmas tree lights. They are anchored in the ground with a simple ground spike.

An automatic timer turns the shock-proof lights on and off at any designated time. Of news to gardeners is the ease in moving the lights. Additionally, it is no problem to install lighting after the garden is completely planted.

Any home can be more beautiful at night with light. Soft colored light, not harsh white floodlights, has that great advantage of the "dramatic." It shows only what the home owner wants to show. A yard without night lighting becomes useless at night. But, with colored lights it becomes either a view to be seen and admired from inside the home or an area to enjoy outside.

It is expected that housewives across the country will now turn their attention to "outdoor decorating" with light. They will, no doubt, insist on blue lights for winter snow, green light for spring leaves, pink light for summer flowers and yellow light for autumn leaves. Party givers will find this new "instant light" will glamorize any barbeque, swim party or even wedding reception.

California low-voltage Garden Lights will make leisure-time outdoor living more of a pleasure and a leisure in any season, around the clock.

Question: We're right in the middle. Middle income — middle aged — although our friends say we don't look it. We're putting three children through college on the tightest budget you ever saw, but it's worth it. The question is — if anything happened to my husband or me they'd never finish. Could we take out an insurance policy just to cover the years they would be in school?

Answer: Yes. What you are looking for is called term insurance. It's a form of temporary insurance against untimely death. You buy it for a certain period and when that period ends it goes out of existence. Term insurance is the lowest premium form of life insurance. Although it's not generally recommended as the only form of insurance a family should have, it's available for certain temporary situations such as you describe — and it would help ease your mind about your children's education.

Question: Does term insurance provide any other insurance benefits such as cash values?

Answer: No. The value of this policy is solely its protection for the term. This explains why term insurance is generally cheaper to begin with than other insurance; on the other hand, the net cost is higher.

Question: If I want to renew term insurance, does the price go up?

Answer: Always — since the price is based on your age.

Outstanding Sportswriter

Governor Terry Sanford of North Carolina, right, presents the Martini & Rossi Sportsman's Sportswriter Trophy to Allison Danzig, New York Times tennis writer, at the Sportscasters and Sportswriters Awards Program in Salisbury, N. C.

SALISBURY, N. C.—For five years now the nation's top sportswriters and sportscasters have been assembling in this pretty little town of 25,000 each spring to participate in an annual awards program which honors the top men in their profession.

For three days Salisbury becomes Sportstown, U.S.A. You can find such top sportswriters and sportscasters as Red Smith, Lindsey Nelson, Chris Schenkel, John Carmichael, Vince Scully, Jim Murray breaking bread with the friendly folks down here who revel in playing host to these sports chroniclers. Nearly a hundred of their fraternity journey here from all parts of the nation each year. This year a new award was added to the National Sportscasters and Sportswriters Awards Program which is climaxed by the actual awards presentations which were held in the huge new Catawba College Auditorium. The new award is a Martini & Rossi Trophy presented to the outstanding writer on a sportsman's sport.

The first winner of the award, a beautiful Tiffany designed silver replica of a magazine electrotyping plate with a replica of the printed page on the reverse side, was Allison Danzig, tennis writer for The New York Times. The award was presented on the basis of votes polled from more than 6,000 of his fellow sportswriters and sportscasters all over the country.

Tips for the WEEK-END PAINTER

FEW problems puzzle or exasperate the homeowner more than chronic house paint peeling. "Why can't I get paint to stick to my window sills?" "Why does the paint come off around the base of my porch columns?"

The answer is almost always the same—moisture behind the coating of paint. And the cure is almost always the same—block the entry points of the moisture.

Sometimes it's easy. Take the case of a peeling window sill. Chances are the caulking under the sill has dried out and cracked, allowing moisture to reach the bare wood. If so, the cure is easy. Scrape out the old caulk and fill with new compound.

Remember, too, that butt ends of wood are extremely absorbent areas which literally "wick up" moisture. Any peeling observed adjacent to butt ends—such as window sills, corner boards, or clapboards—can best be prevented by a blister-resistant system, which includes the scraping and sanding of peeled areas as well as liberal applications of both primer and the proper finish coat.

Blistered shutters are invariably the result of moisture being moisture-vapor which gets into the outside walls from inside the house. Unfortunately, the tighter the construction and the more complete the insulation, the more likely this is to happen.

A wet basement, an unvented clothes dryer, excessive steam from cooking or bathing may send vapor into the outside walls where lack of ventilation will trap it. When moisture tries to escape, peeling is the result.

Paintchemists have been working on this problem—and have done something about it. They have developed new paints that are far less likely to blister than old-fashioned linseed oil paints. "Lucite" house paint, for example, is formulated so that it "breathes." That is, it allows moisture vapors to escape without blistering. When used as a part of the blister-resistant system, blistering is practically stymied.

GET INTO THE SWIM WITH EXERCISE

Did you know that although three-fourths of the earth is covered with water, the majority of people can't swim or even float? So says Florence Chadwick, the lady who has established world-wide swimming records for both men and women across the most turbulent waterways of the world—the English Channel, Catalina, The Straits of Gibraltar, Bosphorus, and the Dardanelles. And yet Florence finished last in her very first race. She was six. In her second race she came in next to last because she stopped to pick up her chewing gum!!! Her first win was at the age of eleven. Verily, champions are made.

Florence says that even the most knowledgeable swimmer may find his know-how inadequate in certain situations and that there is always room for improvement.

Whether you are average, a beginner or a pro, she holds that these light exercises will help to improve your style, your skill, your strength and your enjoyment of the water.

So try these on your beach-mat. And don't forget to take along bronzed cream-lotion or clear, for four-hour sun-protection of all exposed skin. It lasts even after a dip in the water and the shade of your tan will be luscious.

TO DEVELOP LEG MUSCLES

When Florence Chadwick is training, she walks at least three miles a day. It's just as good for your legs, too. So in or out of competition, walk at a brisk pace on a flat beach. (Not uphill or up steps because this tightens the muscles and you want to keep them loose and flexible.)

A. TO DEVELOP A GOOD LEG KICK

Hold on to something for balance—like your beach umbrella. With knee straight but relaxed, kick from the thigh (not from the knee), forward and back—forward and back, (eight times with each leg, longer if you feel like it).

B. TO LOOSEN THE ANKLES

It is important for swimmers to develop loose, flexible ankles. Sit on a high stool, a fence, a rock, a pier, a porch, a piling, a diving board, or anything high enough so that the feet will hang free. Shake the ankles in a sideways movement to develop flexibility. Swimmers in competition should keep this up consistently.

C. TO STRENGTHEN THE SHOULDERS AND ARMS

1. Standing in swimming position, with elbows straight and a book in each hand, swing both arms forward, then back, continuing forward and back. (See Photo)

2. Variation: Alternate the motion of the arms, that is, one swings forward while the other swings backward. Continue swinging forward and back.

3. Variation: Stand tall. Holding books straight in front of you, swing both arms at shoulder height straight out to the sides. Return to front position and continue . . . side-front-side-front-etc.

D. TO LOOSEN SHOULDERS

A good swimmer must be relaxed. Loose shoulders are just as important as loose ankles. Practice rotating the shoulders. Pull them back, then up, forward, and relax. Repeat in continuous motion. Then reverse the movement: forward, up, back, and relax. Repeat.

E. FOR BACK AND STOMACH MUSCLES

Take a good stance with feet spread wide. Keeping the knees straight, touch fingertips to opposite foot, swing-

E. (cont'd) ing from side to side. Continue as long as you like.

F. ALSO FOR BACK AND STOMACH MUSCLES

S-T-R-E-T-C-H arms straight up, then touch the ground with finger tips, or the flat of your hand if you can make it. Keep the knees straight. Repeat and repeat.

G. FOR THE BACK AND OVERALL BODY STRETCHING

Lying flat on your back, keep legs parallel and swing them up and over the head. Touch toes to the sand back there, if you can. (Support comes from arms and hands pushing against the ground. Bring hands up to the back if you need extra support.)

H. TO STRENGTHEN THE THIGHS

From position flat on your beach mat, lift the legs into vertical position, as shown, supporting the back with the hands. Then pretend to ride a bicycle in the air. Keep it!

Household Hints by Joan March Warden

Director, Fine Cleaner Information Center.

Sports enthusiast in the family? A good sport keeps his gear in topflight shape. From back yard to boat, pine oil cleaners and disinfectants go to work at cleanup jobs for the sportsman, dissolving grease and banishing dirt with a whisk of the sponge.

BOATING — The best boat-keepers hold cleaning tools to a minimum: scrub brush, wet mop, plastic bucket, sponges, an all-purpose pine oil cleaner, paper towels, an all-purpose wax and polish. Areas where pine oil keeps a boat shipshape are decks, galley, head, plastic upholstery — and bottom and topside scrubbing to keep boat free of grime and marine growth.

FISHING — Bait boxes, pots, and pans — everything fishy should get a pine cleaner bath. If you're cooking the catch, your kitchen will be a lot more fragrant if you dump the pans from fish cookery into the sink immediately after cooking. Then, while you're eating the prize catch of the season, soak the pans in warm water with a little pine oil cleaner in it. Rinse well.

TENNIS — Increase tennis ball life and refurbish the nap by tossing tennis balls into the washing machine with the regular wash. Visored caps can be cleaned best with an old toothbrush and a pine oil cleaner solution. After brushing, go over the cap with a clean damp sponge and dry it in the sun. To prevent warping, keep your racket in the press when not in use.

SWIMMING — Pools, back yard variety — Second only to safety around the pool is cleanliness. You can keep concrete decks, ladder stairs, and other poolside places clean and germ-free by quick, frequent once-overs with a sponge soaked in a pine oil cleaner disinfectant solution.

Clara - Fairview HD Club

The Clara-Fairview Home Demonstration club met in the home of Mrs. J. F. Vogel on Thursday, July 9, 1964, at 2:00 p. m. Mrs. E. J. Simons, President, called the meeting to order and the members repeated the Lord's Prayer and sang, "May the Good Lord Bless and Keep You." The roll call was answered with a current event. The thought for today is "A sense of humor is the oil of life's engine." Minutes of last meeting were read and approved, and treasury report given. A report was given by the chairmen of each standing committee.

Mrs. Elmer Klinkerman reported on the fun night to be held by the Wichita County 4-H Clubs on July 25th. Final plans were made for the family night ice cream social which will be held August 21st at the Community House. Final plans were made to serve refreshments at the dress revue to be held July 16th.

Mr. Newton Crane brought the program on "Pictures and Accessories." Pictures should be chosen carefully. Choose pictures you enjoy, pictures that go with your home. Choose the picture for the picture, not the frame. Frames should harmonize with picture and should be lighter in color than the picture. She also told us about antiquing picture frames.

Mrs. Crane also brought a short program on safety. She passed out questionnaires to the members on "How Safe Is Your Home?" She read an article on the fire statistics of Wichita Falls for 1963. She gave us rules to follow in checking for fire hazards in the home, and also rules for using and taking care of aerosol cans.

Game prize was won by Mrs. J. H. Bentley. Mrs. W. Ray Simpson won the door prize.

Refreshments were served to two visitors, Miss Sharon Gellner and Miss Diane Bentley and to twelve members, Mesdames J. H. Bentley, Newt Crane, Mary Blauer, J. D. Dillbeck, E. D. Gellner, Elmer Klinkerman, Paul Loveless, R. C. Gilbow, Frank Kelley, W. Ray Simpson, E. J. Simons, and J. F. Vogel.

Next meeting will be September 1st with Mrs. W. Ray Simpson as hostess.

News From The County Agent

Wichita cotton farmers are urged to make weekly cotton insect checks. Some thrip and fleahoppers are showing up in cotton fields.

Farmers are urged to enter hay in the Wichita Falls area hay show to be held at the 4-H barn on July 27th. The hay should be in the barn by 10 a. m. Dr. Neal Pratt, Agronomist from Texas A and M University, will judge the show. Ribbons will be awarded. This will be held in connection with the Coastal Bermuda Field Day. All varieties of hay may be entered.

The 1964 Texas Spring pig crop totaled 532,000 head, a drop of 16 percent from the 1963 total, reports the Texas Crop and Livestock Reporting Service. An estimated 76,000 sows farrowed and averaged 7 pigs per litter compared with the 6.8 pigs per litter farrowed in 1963. Nationally, the 1964 spring pig crop was down 8 percent from 1963. The cut-back in the pig numbers is expected to strengthen the hog market later in the year.

U. S. Secretary of Agriculture, Orville Freeman, has proclaimed a national wheat allotment of 49.5 million acres for the 1965 crop. It is the same as the 1964 allotment. Allotments to the states were also announced by USDA. The 1965 Texas allotment is only slightly larger than for the year before.

BAD EXAMPLE

The FBI says it worked its G-men on the average of two hours and twenty-six minutes overtime, daily, but paid them for only one hour, twelve minutes. The Wages and Hours Division of the government would crack down if that happened in a private industrial plant.

SPACELESS

The House Science Committee, which deals in outer space problems, has problems in inner space. The committee is confined to cramped basement quarters because its new quarters are not ready for occupancy.

Plenty of ROOM!

Have you ever, when on a vacation, in the peak of the tourist season, looked and looked along the highway for a roadside park with an empty table so that your family could have a picnic lunch and rest? Then, of course, all might travel refreshed. How nice it is to come upon a park like this one, with the breeze blowing across the water.

Isn't it wonderful that there is always plenty of room at the House of God? There is always a church where you can receive spiritual food, and sweet rest of the soul. The church holds out its arms in welcome to all, inviting everyone to come and learn of God. Won't you attend this week?

"Come unto me, all ye that labour and are heavy laden, and I will give you rest." Matthew 11:28.

The Church is God's appointed agency in this world for spreading the knowledge of His love for man and of His demand for man to respond to that love by loving his neighbor. Without this grounding in the love of God, no government or society or way of life will long persevere and the freedoms which we hold so dear will inevitably perish. Therefore, even from a selfish point of view, one should support the Church for the sake of the welfare of himself and his family. Beyond that, however, every person should uphold and participate in the Church because it tells the truth about man's life, death and destiny; the truth which alone will set him free to live as a child of God.

Roger W. Babson Weekly Report

ROGER W. BABSON

Babson Discusses Japan

Some time ago I promised my readers a column on Japan. This week's release represents my own opinions, but I have given considerable study to the subject.

Japan Does Not Want Peking To Break Tru South Vietnam

Japan realizes that she could be swallowed up by Red China if the Chinese should break through and overrun all Malaysia. Japan would surely have to get into the fight and this could wind up with World War III, involving the U. S. and Russia as well. This is possible, but not probable.

At a reception given Henry Cabot Lodge on his return, he was asked a multitude of questions, which — by the way — he handled very splendidly. His audience apparently felt that he had been brought back here to prevent the nomination of Senator Barry Goldwater. Mr. Lodge insisted that he wasn't "agin' anybody, but that he had come home to help Governor Seranton of Pennsylvania secure the nomination. What success he will have will be decided soon at the Republican Convention. But let me get back to my subject of Japan.

Japan Is Tired of War

The Japanese at one time thought the way to success was through connivance and politics, without regard for right or wrong. Hence, while their chief men were in Washington talking peace terms with President Roosevelt's representatives, the Japanese admirals had already left Japan prepared to blow up our Navy at Pearl Harbor. This move, which brought Japan into conflict with the U. S. in World War II failed miserably; but I feel it taught Japan a lesson which is very valuable to her.

Japan nearly lost everything at the close of World War II. Her whole experience then made the Japanese people sick of war and anxious not to have anything more to do with it— not even to the extent of helping out, or protecting their interests, in the Vietnam situation. It has been only her strategic position and her great industriousness which has since saved her. The two cities—Hiroshima and Nagasaki upon which Truman allowed atomic bombs to be dropped were almost annihilated. Japan is now capable of making atomic bombs of her own, and has agreed not to do so, and in fact to stay out of the atomic field.

Japan Wants Business

In order to avoid any possibility of being swallowed up by the Chinese or the Russians, or even the United States, Japan is now following a new program. She is no longer looking for military or similar honors. She is looking for business, and more business—and business in every part of the world. Japan is not mercenary, except as this involves bringing more business to Japan.

Japan is well represented at scientific conferences, but concentrates on those which will help her secure more business. Japan's new program calls for her to cease putting all her life lines into industry and wealth on the little island of Japan. She has decided, instead, to spread out and have hundreds of "little Japans" in different parts of the world. I base this belief of mine on careful study and in interviews with numerous people acquainted with the situation. I think it was confirmed by answers which Henry Cabot Lodge gave in his question period.

Japan Materialistic, But Devout

The Japanese, as I have said, are determined to spread out all over the world—to get business and to get more business—instead of building a small industrial Japan as their predecessors did. The Japanese are determined to make more pro-

SHELTER AREA for employees of the Rohm & Haas Co. at Bristol, Pa., provides both blast and fallout protection for all of the plant's workers. ducts, and to make them cheaper; to sell more at lower prices; and to become the greatest manufacturers and merchandisers in the world.

I should think they might succeed in this program, except for one thing: In their eagerness for business and wealth they appear to have left "morality" and "spiritually" out of the picture for the moment. That is to say, they seem to be putting all emphasis on the materialistic. However, my Japanese friends tell me that their people are deeply devout. Only a very few of them are Christians. The vast majority accept Jesus on the same basis as they do Confucius, Budha and Mohammed—as a Great Prophet, but not as a part of the Deity. As to what effect Japan's religious beliefs should have in this article I leave each reader to decide for himself.

Keeping Sinkers Tight

To prevent a clinch-type sinker from slipping on monofilament line, simply put a rubber band into the groove of the sinker before putting it on the line. Clamp down tight and trim off excess rubber. Your sinker will hold its position firmly.

NEW STEP FORWARD IN HOSIERY

A sheer new hosiery fiber, said to give three to four times the snag resistance than conventional hose, may soon make it easier for you to put your best foot forward.
Vectra polypropylene olefin — you can call it Vectra for short — is being introduced in stores throughout the nation in Polyvel brand hosiery.
Made by the Vectra Company, a division of National Plastic Products Company, Vectra is the first new hosiery fiber since the introduction of nylon around 1940. Researchers put it through abrasion tests much like the kind of punishment you give your stockings in normal wear.
Test results indicate that stockings made of Vectra olefin fiber are three to four times more snag-resistant than other fibers of the same denier.
Ruggedness isn't the new fiber's only advantage. Vectra has a soft and silky "hand"; it's said to be the first man-made hosiery fiber that can compete with silk in smoothness.

government with $50 billion of our own money, we have provided the weapon by which the bureaucracy can force through Congress practically any legislation it desires. For what Congressman can optimistically face re-election when every penny of his share of pork barrel legislation has been cut off?

It is we who have created the "civil rights" bill and it's we who must undo the system that makes it possible.

There is only one solution on the American scene today — the proposed Liberty Amendment. It has already been approved by seven states; and action is under way to persuade many more state legislatures to approve it next year.

When ratified into the Constitution, the Liberty Amendment will put an end to the bureaucracy's economic empire. It will outlaw every federal economic enterprise not specified in the Constitution — foreign aid, farm subsidies, etc. — and force the government to stick to its constitutional affairs, such as national defense.

The Liberty Amendment is the only way to take bribery and political influence out of our economic affairs — and to remove the blackjack from the

Why The Civil Rights Bill Couldn't Be Stopped

By the time you read this, the "Civil rights" bill either will have been signed by the President or at least the signing will be inevitable.

Probably no other piece of legislation in the history of America has met such determined opposition. Literally thousands of newspapers and millions of letters to Congress have objected to it.

And yet the bill has already been given overwhelming approval by both houses of Congress.

Why? Why—with such opposition—has this bill still managed to be voted into law.

The answer lies with us—every American who has been a party to fifty years of creeping socialism.

We have stood by and watched—even approved—as the federal government has built the largest political empire in the history of the world. We have gleefully accepted subsidies from the public trough—and criminally accepted the idea that the government can tax others to provide benefits to us.

And now the chickens are coming home to roost.
Pressure money
Now we suddenly awake to find that the bureaucracy in Washington has a "slush fund" of $50 billion a year (outside of the money needed for defense) with which to bribe and threaten Congressmen.
