Solution In Panama Predicted

By HARRY KELLY

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States and Panama appeared today to be moving toward a settlement of their bitter dispute over the Panama Canal.

Panama's President Roberto Chiari announced Monday night that he believed President Johnson had opened the way for a solution of the seven-week-old crisis.

Almost immediately a five-member mediation team of the Organization of American States went into a midnight session here with Panama's OAS Ambassador Miguel J. Moreno.

Afterward the negotiators said the two countries were "moving fast and courageously" toward a settlement.

"I think we are getting close to a meeting of minds—I am optimistic," Ambassador Juan Plate of Paraguay, head of the mediation group, told The Associated Press.

Johnson launched his new effort to break the deadlocked dispute Saturday. He told his news conference the United States realizes the 1903 Panama Canal treaty "perhaps would require adjustment."

He added that diplomatic relations would have to be resumed without any preconditions before any changes could be considered.

Chiari said Johnson's remarks "were not in conflict" with Panama's basic position on the canal dispute.

Chiari said in a statement that in spelling out his country's position he was not "establishing prior conditions to the contents of the said treaty."

"The important thing now, the cardinal matter, is to express a willingness to negotiate without prior conditions," Chiari said.

Forecast For Snow Told In Panhandle

By The Associated Press

Heavy snow warnings went out for the Texas Panhandle as an intensifying storm surged toward the southeast off the Southern Rockies today.

The Weather Bureau predicted 3 to 6 inches of snow would accumulate before the fall stopped Wednesday. It forecast lighter snow, rain or sleet in West Texas from the Panhandle southward, cautioning motorists against hazardous driving conditions.

As the latest forecasts were issued at midnmorning, the wind was quickening, skies were cloudy and the temperature stood at 36 degrees at Perryton in the upper Panhandle.

Scattered showers or thunderstorms were promised other sections of the state tonight and Wednesday as a Pacific cold front billowed southward to collide with warm, moist air pushing inland from the Gulf of Mexico.

Colder weather was in prospect throughout the state. Temperatures were expected to range down to 25 degrees overnight in Northwest and Southwest Texas.

The potent storm rumbled through the Southwest today, plaguing a seven-state area with snow, plummeting temperatures and strong winds.

The U.S Weather Bureau issued hazardous conditions for motorists and stockmen.

In the Southeast, another storm zipped along the Atlantic Coast, soaking the area from northwestern Florida to the Carolinas with drenching rain.

The southwestern storm hit portions of Utah, Arizona, Wyoming, Colorado, New Mexico, Nebraska and Kansas.

Tucson, Ariz., received a 2-inch snowfall in two hours Monday night, where the snowfall annually averages 1.1 inches. It was the first measurable snowfall since 1958. Some parts of the city measured up to 3 inches.

Heavy snows were welcomed in northern Arizona, where an unusually dry winter has threatened the area with water shortages.

Five inches of wet snow fell in the Denver area as the storm moved eastward across Colorado, creating hazardous driving conditions on extremely slick highways.

Winds measuring more than 30 miles an hour accompanied the snow with gusts causing snow flurries.

In the Southeast, rain-packed storms ranged over a 16-state area from the Ohio Valley to the Gulf and from Louisiana to Virginia.

In Louisiana, 12 families were evacuated in the Baker area 15 miles north of Baton Rouge after 4.60 inches of rain fell in a 24-hour period. Some flooding was expected from the swollen waters of the Amite and Comite rivers and emergency units stood by.

The Midwest braced for a cold wave as arctic air moved out of Canada. The Weather Bureau issued cold wave warnings for an area from Wyoming to northwestern Wisconsin.

Woman Accepted

Ruby Jury Now Shy 1

By RELMAN MORIN

DALLAS (AP)—The 11th juror, a woman, was accepted today for Jack Ruby's murder trial with a substitute judge sitting on the bench.

She is Mrs. Aileen Shields, a 1934 divorcee employed by the telephone company in the engineering department.

Asked whether she favors capital punishment, Mrs. Shields replied firmly, "I do. I do."

Asked whether she has any scruples against the death penalty, she said, "None whatever."

Before Mrs Shields was sworn in, Ruby's chief lawyer, Melvin Belli, had another altercation with Judge Frank Wilson.

Wilson took over Ruby's trial today when Judge Joe Brown, who had presided from the beginning Feb. 17, became ill with a cold.

Belli, obviously opposed to accepting Mrs. Shields as a juror, asked if Wilson would grant the defense still more peremptory challenges.

Wilson refused.

Belli then challenged Mrs. Shields "for cause" and Wilson overruled him.

The state had accepted Mrs. Shields and the defense was unable to prevent her being placed on the panel.

Ruby is on trial for the murder of Lee Harvey Oswald, accused assassin of President Kennedy.

Mrs. Shields, third woman on the jury, is a Methodist.

When challenging her, Belli rose to his feet. He asked Wilson whether the judge wanted him to stand, pointing out that Judge Brown had not always required this.

"You may stand," Judge Wilson said, "but when the court orders you to sit, sit down."

There now are eight men and three women chosen to hear Ruby's trial.

Hoffa Gets Reprimand

By GAVIN SCOTT

CHATTANOOGA, Tenn. (AP)—James R. Hoffa received a public reprimand in court today from the federal judge who will send Hoffa's jury-tampering case to the jury before nightfall.

When court resumed this morning, Dist. Judge Frank Wilson said he had heard the Teamsters Union president shouting in the corridors outside the courtroom. With the jury absent, he declared:

"I sent a marshal to find out what was going on. He reported back that Mr. Hoffa was complaining very bitterly about the way the marshals were handling the jury."

Hoffa started to reply, but was cut off by a wave of the judge's hand.

"This has happened repeatedly during this trial," the judge said. Peering down at Hoffa, he added: "Let's discontinue these extremely loud arguments both in and out of the courtroom."

Redistrict Order Recieved Calmly

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — Top Texas officials have optimistically accepted the U.S. Supreme Court's order to reapportion congressional districts, predicting that the painful reshuffle will be postponed until after the 1964 elections.

The Supreme Court agreed Monday with a Houston federal court that Texas congressional districts are improperly balanced and should give more voice to the big city voters.

It favored a request by the state's Democratic administration that redistricting be delayed until next year. The Houston court now must set an effective date on its order, and the state has until April 1 to ask for a delay.

The five Republicans who brought the suit, however, said they will urge the court to order Texas' 23 congressmen to run at large this year unless districts are redrawn before the elections.

Gov. John Connally, who has insisted that such a thorny problem as redistricting cannot be handled in a 30-day special session of the legislature, said "I am sure the district court will give careful consideration to the circumstances elections underway in reaching an equitable decision."

Texas Atty. Gen. Waggoner Carr called the ruling "a good decision for Texas, if the lower court will recognize our problem."

Twelve congressional districts have remained intact since 1933, and the population shift to cities has created the most disportionate districts in the United States.

They range in population from Dallas' nearly one million to 216,000 in a neighboring district of Rep. Ray Roberts.

Only four or five Texas districts approach the average population of 416,000.

U. S. Dist. Judge John R. Brown of Houston said the court will hear arguments at the earliest date asked by either the state or the Republicans.

A redistricting bill that would have given Dallas a second congressman died in the final minutes of the last legislature. Dallas is a Republican stronghold and has been represented by a Republican in Congress for nearly a decade.

One of the Republicans who filed suit, George Bush, now a candidate for the U.S. Senate, hailed the Supreme Court's decision as "a great victory for all the people of Texas as well as a personal victory."

Bush said Democrats "have stalled on redistricting for 25 years and it is time to stop stalling."

France Asks China Admission To Group

GENEVA (AP) — France today demanded the admission of Communist China to the United Nations World Health Organization.

The French announcement on the opening day of the annual WHO assembly indicated that France will take a similar position in the U.N. General Assembly and in all organizations affiliated with the United Nations.

Council Opens Bids On Two Fire Trucks

The Snyder City Council opened bids on two new fire trucks last night. Ultimately they accepted the low proposals on chassis for the two pieces of equipment, but delayed a decision on the firefighting equipment itself until a thorough check of specifications could be made.

Wilson Motors of Snyder submitted the lower of two bids on the fire truck chassis. The firm's net bid for a truck cab and chassis for a pumper truck was $6,988.43 and its bid for a truck cab and chassis for a booster truck was $4,545.43. Snyder Truck and Tractor Co. submitted net bids of $7,700 and $5,372.53, respectively.

Apparent low bid for the pumper truck equipment was Central Fire Truck Corp. of Manchester, Md., with a proposal of $11,155.89, while the apparent low bidder for the booster equipment was Fire Appliance Co. of Wichita Falls with a net bid of $6,500. In all, four proposals were received on equipment for each truck. Since the specifications vary on many items used by different manufacturers, the council requested that City Manager George Patterson and Fire Chief Warren Boyd make a complete tabulation of the bids, along with a check of specifications, and report back to the council within the next two or three days.

The council also opened bids on construction of a self-supporting tower and antennas to be installed at the new fire-police and Civil Defense center. Jay Huckabee of Snyder submitted the lowest of four proposals at $2,949 for a painted tower. Since the actual contract will not be awarded until approved by Civil Defense, the council asked Huckabee to present a quotation on a galvanized tower so that a selection may be made.

The city board of tax equalization for 1964 was appointed. Serving on the equalization board will be Bob Melton, J. L. Browning and R. E. Weber.

The council passed on second and final reading an ordinance closing and abandoning a portion of unused right-of-way adjacent to Block 1 of the A. B. Dodson Addition. Also, paving leins were released on a portion of Lot 1, Block 22, Blankenship Addition, and on a portion of property adjacent to Avenue T and the Lubbock Highway. In each case, the obligation had been paid off but releases had not been issued previously.

City Plans New Garbage System

A completely new system for handling garbage in business areas of Snyder will be put into operation in June.

The city council last night voted to enter into a contract for installation of the Dempster Dumpmaster Garbage System. The equipment will include a specially equipped truck, with 93 collection receptacles at the outset.

The system will replace the Dempster Dumpster system now in use and provide for expansion as needed.

The new system will differ from that now in use in that containers at the various locations in the city will be emptied by special equipment on the truck with the garbage being deposited into the truck's huge container. The present system involves hauling the containers themselves to garbage disposal area.

Sid Patterson, representative of the supplier, told the council that the system could do the work of six men and two conventional trucks. Only a driver is required to operate the new system.

Patterson showed films of the system in operation in Amarillo, Alpine and Fort Stockton. Local city officials had seen a similar system in operation recently at Andrews.

Patterson offered a purchase plan stretching over four years. Total cost would be about $52,000, but a trade - in allowance on the old Dempster Dumpster System here would reduce the purchase price by $10,000.

However the city council did not decide on a specific purchase plan, preferring to base their decision on the city's financial situation near the time of delivery.

"We want to pay for the thing as fast as we can without jeopardizing our operations," said Mayor John Hamblen.

City Manager George Patterson said the city has had numerous requests for expansion of the present Dempster Dumpster System, and these requests led to consideration of a new system at this time.

"We had reached the point where we had to either expand the old system at considerable expense, or go to the new, improved system," the city manager said. "The new system is more efficient and more conomical to operate and at the same time it may be expanded more easily in the future."

Clean-Up Plans Get Endorsement

Snyder City Councilmen gave enthusiastic approval last night to a sustained clean-up program.

City Manager George Patterson said some surveys had been made to pinpoint areas which need attention. These include not only fire and health hazards but general "eyesores," the city manager said.

The city hopes to initiate a concerted drive toward improvement, and Patterson said several civic organizations already had expressed interest in helping to promote the project.

"We are not talking about a clean-up campaign of three days, or a week, but something that will continue on through the entire spring and summer," the city manager said.

Much of the work which needs to be done is covered in city ordinances which require proper maintenance of property for safety and health reasons. Officials noted that there had been a general laxity, not only among the population in general but by the city itself.

Consequently, the city is going to appeal to residents who own property which needs attention to make arrangements for improvements. In cases where the residents encounter unusual problems, they will be encouraged to discuss them with city officials.

Some of the problems cited last night included vacant or abandoned structures which have been allowed to deteriorate and harbor rubbish, old automobile bodies and other equipment allowed to rust and erode in public view, vacant lots with abandoned building foundations and other rubbish, and, of course, the general run of weeds and trash that collect over the city.

Pledging their endorsement of the campaign, councilmen said they felt that not only the property owners, but all citizens of the town would reap benefits.

Viet Red's Attacks Are Strengthened

By PETER ARNETT

TAN CHAU, South Viet Nam (AP) — Communist guerrillas severely mauled two crack Vietnamese airborne battalions today, inflicting the heaviest casualties on government forces in a single engagement in months. A U.S. adviser was among the dead.

In an hour-long battle which one U.S. officer described as the "damnedest firefight I have seen since World War II," 85 government troops were wounded and 15 killed, including an American captain advising an airborne battalion.

Vietnamese authorities claim more than 100 Viet Cong guerrillas were killed in the engagement, which began soon after dawn. But American advisers at the scene could not confirm the report.

The battle took place in Kien Phuong Province beside the Mekong River, barely 2,000 yards from the Cambodian border.

Negro Will Face Charge

Charges were filed this morning by District Attorney Wayland Holt against Robert Durst, Snyder Negro.

The charges allege aggravated assault with intent to murder, and also two counts of failure to stop and render aid. The charges came about as the result of an incident at 10:30 Monday morning in the 1200 block of Avenue N, in which Floyd (Dad) Wellington, 67-year-old Snyder Negro was struck by a 1959 Chevrolet station wagon driven by Durst.

Investigating officers said that the evidence indicated that the striking of the pedestrian by the auto may not have been accidental.

Wellington was taken to Cogdell Hospital by Bolger Ambulance where he was treated for abrasions of the head and a back injury.

Bond for Durst had not been set at noon today.

Suit Filed In Gas Sales

FORT WORTH (AP)—Eleven major firms filed a federal suit Monday charging breach of contract on an agreement to sell them natural gas from Oklahoma.

Named defendants were W. W. Harvey of Fort Worth and W. C. Sojouner of Abilene. The plaintiffs alleged a lawyer for the two men notified all but one of them Jan. 17 that the 1962 contracts would be cancelled.

Firms suing are Cerro Corp., American Oil Co., Granite City Steel Co., Laclede Steel Co., National Lead Co., Pittsburgh Plate Glass Co., C. K. Williams and Co., Olin Mathieson Chemical Corp., American Zinc Co. of Illinois, Dow Chemical Co., and American Steel Foundries.

About That Coliseum

Are coliseums something new to this part of the world?

They are comparatively "new" to this region of Texas, but have long since advanced beyond the experimental stage. There are now several coliseums scattered over West Texas in various sized cities and towns and in centers of varied economic resources.

There are now coliseums in such places as Borger, Odessa, Sweetwater, San Angelo, Brownwood and Lubbock. None of them is exactly like another, in either size or design.

The largest in this area is at Lubbock. The coliseum there is a municipal facility which was constructed by the City of Lubbock on land furnished by Texas Tech on its campus.

The others are smaller facilities, yet substantially larger than anything else for public use in their respective areas. Local interests who have inquired about these facilities have found no inclination on the part of anyone who has a coliseum to give it up.

There has been some discussion here relating a coliseum to educational institutions. Judging from the use of such facilities in many other places, this appears pertinent. The junior college issue is not dead here, and although there would be no clear-cut relationship, it is not dificult to imagine that a coliseum would come in handy for many functions which might be associated with the operation of a junior college if one should ultimately be founded here.

There also is a potential relationship to the established public schools, but this will be dealt with at greater length in a future article.

The potential value of a coliseum spans a broad range of community life. Wherever one is located, it is regarded as a "plus" factor in the community — a source of pride.

Wilson Has Frank Talks With LBJ

WASHINGTON (AP)—British Labor party leader Harold Wilson ends his Washington visit today after having what he called "a very good, frank talk" with President Johnson.

He declined to spell out just what they discussed Monday, but told reporters he couldn't think of any important subjects they hadn't touched on.

"We had a very enjoyable talk," he said. "It was very frank. There were no difficulties of communication or lack of words."

Wilson holds a news conference today in the British Embassy then leaves the capital to receive an honorary degree from Bridgeport University in Connecticut. He arrived here Saturday.

Wilson, who would become prime minister if the Labor party wins the forthcoming British election, said his trip here had two purposes: to bring himself up to date on American thinking and to answer any questions put to him.

Asked for his evaluation of Johnson, the Labor party leader said: "I felt the Western Alliance and the United States are in good hands."

Wilson wouldn't be drawn into a discussion of British politics but did say he thought the British election would be held soon, rather than in the fall.

Although Prime Minister Sir Alec Douglas-Home could put the voting off until fall, there have been reports it may be held in June.

Before conferring with Johnson, Wilson talked with Secretary of State Dean Rusk, Undersecretary George W. Ball, Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara and McGeorge Bundy, the Presidents' special assistant on national security affairs.

Wilson was accompanied here by his wife and 15-year-old son. While he and Johnson had their conference, Mrs. Johnson and Mrs. Wilson talked over tea.

Sinatra Kidnaper Tells Story

LOS ANGELES (AP)—A government prosecutor resumes today his cross-examination of Joseph Amsler who describes himself as the reluctant participant in the kidnaping of Frank Sinatra Jr.

"At one time," said Amsler Monday, "I thought I was going nuts. I kept hearing the radio calling us 'mad dogs.' Frank Jr., soothed me—told me to get a grip on myself. He cheered me up."

Asst. U.S. Atty. Thomas R. Sheridan attacked Amsler's testimony that his statement to the FBI was false.

The statement, previously read into evidence, began: "Last Sunday we kidnaped Frank Sinatra Jr., at gunpoint."

Sheridan took the statement phrase by phrase. Amsler testified most of it was true.

Amsler, 23; Barry Keenan, 23, and John Irwin, 42, are charged with kidnaping young Sinatra from his Lake Tahoe, Nev., motel room last Dec. 8. The 20-year-old son of the famed singing star was returned unharmed after payment of $240,000 ransom.

Living Cost Up In Jan.

WASHINGTON (AP) — The government announced today that a newly broadened sampling of prices in the nation showed living costs rose in January by about one-tenth of 1 per cent.

The new consumer price index, announced by the Bureau of Labor Statistics, showed it costs $10.77 to buy the items that cost one cent less in December.

A spokesman said the new index covers a range of 400 typical consumer items, compared with about 325 in the old statistical measuring device.

The old index showed no change over the month.

"The new index more accurately reflects the movement of prices," said Arnold Chase, the bureau's assistant commissioner for wages and prices.

Increases in food, fuel and gasoline prices were largely responsible for the increase.

Food advanced four-tenths of 1 per cent. This was largely due to green vegetables, which were up more than 20 per cent; eggs, which were up more than 6 per cent, and sugar which also rose.

Chase said the new index will raise some legal problems in connection with labor contracts that provide for wage increases based on the cost of living.

Dear Abby...

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: A neighbor of ours rides to and from work with my husband every day. They don't work at the same place, but he drops her off at her place of employment in the morning, and at night she walks to where he works to catch a ride home with him. This woman is divorced, is in her early 40's, but acts like a school girl around my husband. She is very forward, quite loud, and is not my husband's type. He says she means nothing to him, but there was a time when he was on more than just speaking terms with another woman who also "meant nothing" to him, and I don't care to go through that again! We are happy now, and I want to keep it that way. I would have more peace of mind if my husband quit giving this woman rides. How does one end that sort of thing?

SEE THE SIGNS

DEAR SEE: You know your husband better than I do, and if you "see the signs," don't ignore them. Tell your husband that since this woman means nothing to him he should tell her that he is married to a jealous, possessive old witch (that's you!) and in order to preserve the peace at home he can't provide her with transportation anymore. Period. She probably won't ever speak to you again, but as long as she quits speaking to your husband, who cares?

DEAR ABBY: Can you tell me why it is almost impossible to get a woman to pay off a bet to a man? Women make bets right along with men, and they always collect when they win, but they rarely pay off when they lose. Why is that?

AL

DEAR AL: There are no statistics on the subject, but it is my observation that when a woman bets with a man, and loses, she will offer to pay, but the man, not wishing to accept money from a woman, usually says, "Oh, forget it."

DEAR ABBY: Two weeks ago we took our beautiful little 10-year-old daughter to a doctor and he said she had leukemia. We didn't want to believe him so we took her to another doctor, and he said the same thing. Abby, our world has fallen apart. Our daughter may live a year, maybe less, but the doctors say not longer. I don't want to tell my parents. It would just kill them. I know they will have to know some time, but I want to spare them all I can. It's bad enough that our hearts are broken. My husband says I am wrong, that I should tell my mother right away. What should I do, Abby?

BROKEN-HEARTED MOTHER

DEAR HEARTBROKEN: Your husband is right, dear. Tell your mother. You need the support now of those who love you. Heartaches shared are somehow more bearable.

2 Mishaps Reported

Snyder police investigated a two-car mishap at 2:56 p.m. Monday in the 2600 block of Avenue F. Involved were a 1957 Chevrolet driven by Charlene P. Buckle, 219 Thirty-sixth Street, and a 1961 Chevrolet driven by Andrea Lynn Moore, Rt. 2.

Damage to the Buckle car was estimated at $150 and to the Moore car at $65.

Shortly after midnight the police department also investigated a mishap at Ballard's service station on the East Highway. A 1953 Buick driven by Chester L. Bilbo, Post Road, had collided with a gasoline pump, causing a fire. Damage, however, was not believed to be extensive.

There were no injuries reported in either mishap.

orized to call for bids on seal-coating of city streets. The city plans to begin the seal-coating project in May this year, and approximately 150 blocks will be involved.

Relocation of crossing signals at the intersection of Twenty-fourth Street, Avenue E and the Santa Fe tracks was discussed. Avenue E has been widened there and the railroad crossing signals are now well inside the outer edges of the street. Patterson told the council that Santa Fe officials had advised that they felt the city should share in the cost of relocating the signals. The council agreed to participate up to a maximum of $500.

The council decided to take bids on Lot 6, Block 15, Gross Subdivision, which is owned by the city. The action was taken following an inquiry from E. D. Walton as to whether the property would be for sale.

A request by Texas Electirc Service Co. for a resolution approving electric rates paid by the city for water works pumping, sewage disposal, street lighting, etc, was tabled for further study.

Terraria And Dish Gardens Defined At Garden Club

Snyder Garden Club met Thursday, Feb. 27th at Martha Ann Woman's Club with the president, Mrs. Jay Huckabee, presiding.

A very interesting program was presented by Mrs. F. G. Sears and Miss Fay Herrell on Terrarias and Dish Gardens.

Mrs Sears defined a Terraria as a transplant box or proagating box. Containers for these miniature gardens or greenhouses may be such things as a fish bowl, bottles, or any glass container which may be covered. The bottom and sides of the container should be lined with green moss. A layer of gravel is then placed over the moss at the bottom of the container. One inch of potting soil should cover the gravel. Plants are then placed in holes which have been punched into the soil. Tongs or long tweezers are needed when placing these in a bottle container. Plants should be of different heights, and should be those which need the same amount of water and light. Water should be sprayed on when soil is dry. A piece of glass or plastic is placed over the top of the container, but this should be moved occasionally for ventilation. Bottles do not need a cover.

Miss Fay Harrell gave a demonstration of a Terraria. She named her design, "Little Brook in Missouri." This very interesting demonstration was made with the use of a tinted fish bowl and varied sizes of plants. In the design was a small hill and brook. The design was further enhanced by the use of small pieces of driftwood, rocks and a tiny frog.

Miss Harrell then gave a demonstration of a Dish Garden, using a low container, which was compatible in color, and texture with the plant material. The soil mixture for the Dish Garden was the same as that of the Terraria. Plant material had a nice variety in sizes and stressed succulents. Accents of driftwood and rocks completed the picture.

Following the meeting, members took Dish Gardens which they had made to the Geriatric Hospital.

Mr. Michael Bardis of Midland, who spoke to the club recently recommended the following fertilization program:

LAWN

Fertilization: 16-5-5 complete organic fertilizer with poison or equal at the rate of 80 pounds per 2000 square feet — April; Light application of ammonium sulfate in May and June; 16-5-5 complete organic fertilizer or equal — July; Light application of ammonium sulfare in August and September.

Mowing: Improper mowing is responsible for the deterioration of many lawns. The lawn during growing season should never be cut lower than 1½ inches.

Watering: Lawns should never be watered until the grass shows a definite need. When this occurs, the lawn should be thoroughly soaked to a depth of six inches or more. Deep watering encourages development of a deep root system capable of utilizing more efficiently the nutrients available deep in the soil. During dry periods a good watering once every seven to ten days is usually sufficient.

PLANTING AREA

Fertilization: Ferti - lome complete organic fertilizer — April; Carl Pool BF-61 in May and June; Ferti - lome complete organic fertilizer — July; Carl Pool BR-61 in August and September; Copperas, soil sulfur and super - phosphate — Winter.

Watering: This varies in accordance with the time of year. During hot spells watering daily is recommended. In the early spring and fall once a week is usually sufficient.

TREES

Fertilization: Use fertilizer pellets every three feet around the drip line eight inches deep. Fertilize in the early spring and can be repeated in late summer as desired. From May through September spray once a month with Isotox General Purpose ground spray. This is a plant disease and insect preventative.

Chocolate and orange are extremely compatible flavors. So to flavor change a batch of brownies, frost them with an orange butter icing.

Ira P-TA Has Founders Day Program

The Ira PT-A met February 26, at 3:40 in the High School study hall with 24 members present. The meeting was opened by Mrs. J. L. Byars, president. Mrs. Lyndon Solomon led the group in the singing of an original song, to the tune of "Let Me Call You Sweetheart."

A report was given by the committee that folding steps for the stage had been ordered.

The following were elected to a nominating committee: Chairman, Mrs. Leon Sterling, Mrs. Steve Cox Jr. and Mrs. Houston Kimbrell. A committee to select a Life Member was elected as follows: Chairman, Mrs. O. W. Holliday, Mrs. Pete Hester, and Mrs. Howard Sterling. Life membership will be presented as a surprise at Spring Conference.

In other business it was decided to serve coffee at Spring Conference in Snyder if needed.

Program on Founder's Day was brought by Mrs. J. D. Hooker, program chairman. A table was laid with a blue cover and a band of gold. The center piece was an oak tree, with leaves and acorns and at the base in large gold numerals 76, noting the years of PT-A. A banner behind the table had pictures and dates of our founders, and telling that the oak tree trunk represents the national, the limbs, state, the branches, districts and councils, twigs local units, leaves each member and acorns represents fruits of work.

Mrs. Hocker gave an interesting talk using charts to review PT-A history and to give some of the ways we can help to make a better world for our children today. Undesirable books and movies were mentioned as the most pressing problems of our day.

The first grade won the room count.

The March meeting will be a night meeting in cooperation with open house at Ira Independent School.

Turn leftover plain cake into a delectable mock English trifle. Slice the cake thinly and spread half the slices with strawberry jam. Cover the jam slices with the plain slices and cut into small cubes. Dip the cubes quickly in orange juice. Prepare instant vanilla pudding according to package directions and gently fold in the cake cubes. Chill and top with whipped cream to serve.

Hot Tempers Flare In Judge Joe Brown's Court

By SID MOODY
AP Newsfeatures Writer

Dallas (AP) —
The tempers in court
Are running short
Deep in the heart of Texas.

Maybe it was just the heat the stuffy courtroom where Jack Ruby is on trial for his life. But Monday's session was one of the wildest yet.

Joe Tonahill, one of Ruby's defense lawyers, was fined $25 for throwing a ballpoint pen to the floor in anger. Ruby's head lawyer, Melvin Belli, hollered that Atty. Henry Wade was "quite livered" during a session in Judge Joe B. Brown's chambers.

And the day ended with a passage-trigger-twisting exchange between Belli-Tonahill and a brand new entrant in the case, Dr. James A. Ayres, over something called psychomotor epilepsy.

It all began when the National Epilepsy League, through the Dallas public relations firm of Ayres Compton Associates, began handing out information packets on epilepsy to newsmen covering the Ruby trial.

Belli has indicated he'll claim Ruby shot Lee Oswald, President Kennedy's accused assassin, during a siege of psychomotor epilepsy.

Deep in the release was the following phrase quoted from a Dr. Frederick A. Gibbs' book on epilepsy:

"You don't have to worry too much about a patient in a psychomotor seizure. You will read in novels and see in movies all kinds of dramatizations about what psychomotor epileptics will do. Murders, criminal activities, etc. That is nonsense."

Belli, seated at the defense table, was reading casually through the release until he came across that. He jumped as though he'd been stabbed.

There followed a blinding succession of charges by Belli that the pamphlets had been circulated to prospective jurors in the hallways, a demand for a mistrial. Brown overruled it, a raucous argument in Brown's chambers on the mistrial motion, the subpoenaing of two employees of the public relations firm and the director of the National Epilepsy League, Maurice Medlock, as witnesses in the trial, and the battle between Belli and Tonahill and James, who had been hastily summoned to the court building as counsel for Ayres Compton.

Court had just adjourned for the day and Belli was getting ready for the usual interview with newsmen and TV reporters when James appeared to explain that Ayres Compton had only handed out the epilepsy information kits to newsmen, not to the prospective jurors.

"They were just public relations employes doing their job," said James. Tonahill, who can roar with the fervor of a Fourth of July orator, did just that.

"That may be public relations in Russia but not in America. Do you think they have a right to hand this censored to jurors? If they do, your clients are subversive and don't have a right to live in Texas!"

TV cameras whirred and reporters crowded around as Belli seated across the table as James. Belli generally adheres to his reputation as a meticulous if sometimes bizarre fashion plate, but now his tie was loosened and his grey locks were askew.

"I've been bridled here against saying anything about Ruby's mental tests and here I see this sandwich man from a convulsion league trying to undermine the jury."

James shot back that this was "a lot of Los Angeles oratory."

Belli is from San Francisco but has an office in LA and in an aside to newsmen said Belli himself had contributed to the epilepsy league.

Belli's slandering the million or more epileptics who live in the United States by saying this is necessary consequence of epilepsy—that an epileptic is a man who will go out and commit murder."

Gradually the TV lights were doused and Belli packed his maroon velvet satchel and left.

In the ensuing quiet, a reading of the release turned up a description of psychomotor epilepsy as an affliction "which involves periods of peculiar behavior."

Maybe it's catching.

Prof. Also Accuses Earl Warren

URBANA, Ill. (AP)—University of Illinois Prof. Revilo P. Oliver, who attacked the late President John F. Kennedy in a John Birch Society magazine article last month, says some Americans regard Kennedy with the same kind of awe which some Germans lavished on Hitler.

Oliver, writing in a bulletin Monday addressed to "Fellow Americans," also accused Earl Warren, chief justice of the United States, as being a pal of Nikita Khrushchev.

Replying to his critics in the bulletin distributed by a Mount Zion, Ill., organization sponsoring one of his lectures, Oliver wrote:

"It is indeed alarming to see that some inhabitants of the United States today have been so confused by emotional propaganda that they regard the late Kennedy with the awe that the National Socialist regime in Germany induced unthinking Germans to feel toward Adolf Hitler.

"It is assumed that Americans, conditioned by theatrical propaganda, must give to the late President the unreasoning adulation which puppies give their owners.

"Last month Oliver created a furor when he wrote in the 'American Opinion,' a John Birch Society publication, that Kennedy's memory 'will be cherished with distaste.' He claimed the President was assassinated because of his inability to help what he called a Communist conspiracy to take over the United States.

In the current article, Oliver charged that the commission appointed to investigate the facts concerning the assassination is unconstitutional.

The commission is headed by Warren, who Oliver said spends most of his vacations "in Soviet Russia as the guest of his pal, Nikita Khrushchev."

Mother, Tot Begin Term Behind Bars

MILWAUKEE, Wis. (AP)—A 36-year-old mother who said parking fines were "unconstitutional and degrading," has spent her first night in jail rather than pay $135 in penalties.

After she was sentenced Monday, Dorothy Horvath and her husband decided their 18-month-old daughter, Lisa, would be better off in jail with her mother. Jail matrons took another view and the father agreed to take the child home.

Mrs. Horvath, the mother of three, was sentenced to 55 days by County Judge John E. Krueger. Police said she accumulated 11 parking tickets in a five-month period late last year.

Mrs. Horvath is a student at the University of Wisconsin-Milwaukee, studying for an advanced degree in guidance and counseling. Her husband, William, 42, teaches economics at the Milwaukee Vocational School.

Scope Of Baker Probe Enlarged

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senators investigating the Bobby Baker case seek additional information today about gambling concessions in Caribbean resort casinos.

Called as witnesses by the Senate Rules Committee were Diego Bordas, former finance and industry minister in the Dominican Republic, and Gary E. Mazza, Bordas' secretary.

At a hearing Monday Edward Levinson, Las Vegas, Nev., hotel and gambling casino operator declined to say whether he has had any dealings with Bordas or to answer other questions.

A friend and business associate of Baker's for whom the committee had conducted a widespread search, Levinson invoked his Fifth Amendment protection against possible self-incrimination about 75 times.

He also protested that while he sat in the Senate caucus room waiting to testify, an Internal Revenue Service agent had handed him a subpoena to appear in Las Vegas on March 16 for a hearing on Baker's "tax liability" for the years 1958 through 1962.

Baker, who resigned last Oct. 7 as secretary to the Senate's Democratic majority, told the committee last week in invoking his Fifth Amendment protection that he was being investigated by the Internal Revenue Service.

The summons served on Levinson also brought a protest from Sen. Howard W. Cannon, D-Nev., who was presiding.

Cannon said he deplored any federal agency "taking advantage of a witness" appearing before the committee to serve him with a summons. "The service of a subpoena in the Senate caucus room is wrong," he said.

Wilkinson Begins Senate Campaign

By CARL ROGAN

NORMAN, Okla. (AP) — "You don't have to tell me who you are, Bud," said a woman in a supermarket, one hand clutched to the handle of a grocery cart.

A man around retirement age asked, "Can a Democrat vote for you?"

These and other residents of the prosperous wheat and cattle country of the Oklahoma Panhandle seemed less impressed with issues than with the fame of the handsome visitor who told each person he met, "I'll appreciate your vote."

Charles (Bud) Wilkinson's record during 17 years as the nation's winningest football coach made him well known in the area. But until he quit as football coach at the University of Oklahoma and launched his campaign for the Republican nomination for the U.S. Senate he had never visited the area.

Wilkinson chose to launch his campaign in the panhandle and northwest because the area has one of the largest concentrations of registered Republican voters.

It was his first real venture into politics, although he repeated over and over in his first dozen or so speeches: "I've been in Washington working on the nation's physical fitness program and observed, at least in a limited way, the course our country was taking."

When Wilkinson, silver-haired at 47, reaches to put on a pair of thick, black rimmed glasses, there's a startling resemblance between him and the man he wants to see elected president of the United States this year, Arizona Sen. Barry Goldwater.

His backers concede that Wilkinson's fame as a football coach can't do anything but help.

"His personal prestige alone will get him votes," said a rural mail carrier and active Republican campaigner.

On his second day on the campaign trail, he munched on an apple while walking from door to door through business districts.

"I'm Bud Wilkinson," he repeated over and over. "I'll appreciate your support."

He shook hands until it hurt.

Wilkinson seemed content to make his initial venture into politics simply a "howdy" affair. He avoided political controversy in his speeches. When he did volunteer to answer questions, it was rare that issues were injected into the meetings.

Many of the persons who went to see and hear Wilkinson were Democrats.

At Boise City, in freezing weather, he spoke to 375 persons in the high school auditorium. Boise City has a population of about 2,000 persons. The whole county has just under 600 registered Republicans.

His campaign day started before dawn and lasted until long after dark. He drank gallons of coffee.

Between towns, Wilkinson sat in the rear seat of a borrowed car, reading political literature.

"I'm a conservative," he repeated at each stop. His great concern, he added, is: "Does man belong to the state or is the state the servant of the people?"

Whatever the outcome, Wilkinson says he won't go back to coaching if he fails to win a two-year term in the Senate.

The seat he seeks is held by former Gov. J. Howard Edmondson who was appointed to the Senate after the death of Democratic Sen. Robert S. Kerr whose term was to expire in 1966.

RETURNS FROM CUBA—Trevor Burns, a 43-year-old Syracuse, N. Y., salesman, kisses the asphalt ramp at a Hollywood, Fla., airport after returning from Cuba. Burns had to ditch his plane in the Caribbean and was held in Cuba for two weeks. Burns said he spent 28 hours in the water before being rescued by a Cuban Navy ship. Young Ex-Marine Admits Slaying Of His Family

BOYNTON BEACH, Fla. (AP)—Police say a 19-year-old AWOL Marine has admitted the ax-killing of his father, mother and sister in Decatur, Ill.

Michael Lee Gambrill, object of a nationwide alarm broadcast after the mutilated bodies were discovered Monday, was picked up Monday night as he hitchhiked along U.S. 1 near this south Florida town.

Police Sgt. William R. Hamilton said Gambrill seemed relieved to be taken into custody and volunteered that he had done "a terrible thing."

Hamilton said Gambrill told him he had been absent without official leave from his unit at San Diego Marine Corps Recruit Depot, San Diego, Calif., since Feb. 22.

Gambrill told police he abandoned the family's 1959 automobile at Fort Pierce, Fla., and started south along U.S. 1.

At Decatur, Police Chief James May said murder warrants were issued for Gambrill after the bodies of Everett Gambrill, 49; his wife, Eileen, 46, and their daughter, Anna Belle, 13, were found.

May said Gambrill was in the Decatur area Thursday afternoon. The slayings are believed to have occurred Friday. The Gambrills had one other child, an 8-year-old boy who is in a state school for the mentally retarded.

In Decatur, a neighbor of Mrs. Gambrill said Michael was angry because his parents refused to help him get out of the Marine Corps.

You cook for pennies...

when you cook electrically

You'll be delighted to find out how little it costs to cook the modern electric way. Surface units cook by direct contact with utensil bottoms, use heat thriftily. The electric oven, insulated all around including the bottom, keeps heat inside where it belongs. And once the oven reaches the temperature you select, it uses electricity about one-fourth of the cooking time. It costs the average family only about 3¢ a meal to cook with flameless electricity. Michigan In Second Spot

By BEN OLAN
Associated Press Sports Writer

Michigan's Wolverines moved into the runner-up position behind all-conquering UCLA in The Associated Press major-college basketball poll today.

UCLA piled up 398 points on 38 votes for first place and two for second from the 40 regional selectors participating in the next-to-last poll of the season. Duke and Oregon State collected the remaining first place votes. The final poll will be taken next week.

Michigan switched places with Kentucky's Wildcats. The Wolverines had 322 points and Kentucky 300 on a basis of 10 for a first place vote, 9 for second etc. The balloting was based on games through last Saturday.

UCLA lifted its record to 24-0 last week by defeating Washington and Washington State. Michigan beat Illinois for a 19-3 mark while Kentucky lost its third game of the campaign, 65-59 to Alabama, and then whipped Tennessee 42-38. The Wildcats have won 21.

Duke, Wichita and Oregon State followed Kentucky, holding their positio s in the same order as last week.

However, Davidson's 81-82 setback by Virginia Military resulted in a shuffle in the final four places in the Top Ten. The Wildcats from Davidson, N.C. tumbled into the 10th spot while Villanova, DePaul and Loyola of Chicago each climbed one notch, to seventh, eight and ninth, respectively.

The Top Ten, with first place votes in parentheses and points on a 10-9-8-7-6-5-4-3-2-1 basis:

1.	UCLA (38)	398
2.	Michigan	322
3.	Kentucky	300
4.	Duke (1)	273
5.	Wichita	209
6.	Oregon St te (1)	203
7.	Villanova	125

No Friday TV Games, Says Rozelle

NEW YORK (AP)—The National Football League says there will be no national television of its Friday night games. College and high school leaders say that's just dandy, and all is sweetness and light today in the undeclared and unofficial dispute.

"We are very pleased by the decision by the NFL," said Asa Bushnell, head of the NCAA television committee after the statement by NFL Commissioner Pete Rozelle Monday.

"We feel it was the wise decision to make to avoid overexposure of football on television," Bushnell continued. "It leaves Friday night to the high schools and the few colleges that play on that night."

The NFL had put a "premature" label on published reports of a possible national telecasting of a series of five Friday night pro games but didn't get around to a concrete statement on it until Monday. Those reports had brought considerable fire from the National Collegiate Athletic Association through Executive Director Walter Byers and Bushnell, as well as leaders of various high school groups.

A league spokesman pointed out, however, that the decision in no way disturbs a long-standing NFL provision allowing individual clubs to televise their road games baek to their home areas, regardless of the day of the week the game is played.

Wichita, Drake Set For Play Off On Friday Night

By The Associated Press

Fifth-ranked Wichita, powered by Dave Stallworth, has earned a share of its first Missouri Valley basketball championship and will face Drake in a one-game playoff at Lawrence, Kan., Friday for an NCAA berth.

The Shockers beat last-place North Texas 90-83 in a hot shooting match before a packed house of 10,704 at Wichita Monday night. Stallworth hit 34 points and won the Valley scoring title for the second straight year, this time by seven points over Ron Bonham of Cincinnati. He beat Bonham by 20 points last season.

It was Wichita's first title since joining the Valley in 1945. Drake's last crown was shared with Oklahoma State in 1939. Both finished 10-2 in the Valley. Wichita is 21-5 for the season, the second best record in school history, while Drake is 20-5, best ever at the Des Moines school.

The playoff in the 17,000-seat Kansas fieldhouse is set for 8 p.m. CST. The winner advances to the Midwest Regional at Wichita March 13-14 and will play the winner of the Creighton-Oklahoma City first round game set for Dallas next Monday. Kansas State, the Big Eight champ, meets the winner of the Texas Western-Texas A&M game.

Stallworth finished with 297 points in 12 league games for a 24.8 average, Bonham with 290 for 24.2. Bill Kusleika of Tulsa is third at 21.9. Bradley plays at St. Louis in the only remaining league game Saturday. The game will do little to change the scoring and rebounding leaders.

St. Louis upset Kentucky's NCAA-bound Southeastern Conference champs 67-70 Monday, handing the Wildcats their first home court defeat of the season. Rich Naes hit 21 points and Gil Beckemeier 19 for the Bills.

Garland Bailey of North Texas moved to fourth place in league scoring with 30 points against Wichita, giving him a 19.2 average.

Joe Strawder of Bradley has 18.3. Dave Burns of North Texas 17.6 and John Savage of North Texas 16.8, in league play. Drake's McCoy McLemore leads in rebounding with 12.8, George Wilson of Cincy has 12.5, Savage 11.5, Strader 11.0 and Wichita's Nate Bowman 10.3.

Tulsa Rick Park leads in field shooting at .567 with Stallworth second on .546. Bailey's 8-for-8 lifted his foul shooting average to .886. Bradley's Lavern Tart is next at .863 and Park has .860.

For the full season, Stallworth has a commanding 26.3 scoring average, Bonham 24.1, Kusleika 22.6, John Reuther of Louisville 19.3 and Savage 18.4. In rebounds, it's Wilson 12.5, McLemore 11.6 and Savage 11.4. Park leads Stallworth .573 to .541 from the field and leads Bailey at the foul line, .903 to .872.

Boys Club Sets All-Star Games

The Falcons posted a won-lost record of 8-0 to win the fifth grade division and the Eagles and Wildcats finished in a tie at 7-3 at the top of the sixth grade division of the Boys Club Basketball leagues.

Plans are now underway for the all-star games set for Friday in the Travis Junior High Gym. Two all-star squads were named in the sixth grade league, and a fifth grade all-star team will play the Falcons.

In the last round of play the Falcons defeated the Bobcats, 35-8, and the Mustangs, 25-10. The Tigers, 8-2, took second place winning their last two games, 25-8 over the Cyclones and 36-8 over the Mustangs. This left the Mustangs in third place at 5-5 and the Cyclones in fourth with a 3-4 record. The Rockets won a 14-13 decision over the Cyclones and lost 10-11 to the Bobcats. The Cyclones and Rockets ended with 2-8 records.

In the sixth grade league, the Eagles finished strong with a 26-19 victory over the Wildcats and a 25-11 decision over the Stallions. The Wildcats downed the Bombers, 28-12. The Stallions ended in third place losing to the fourth place Lions, 17-33. The Tornadoes outscored the Lions, 32-7, to tie the Bombers for the last place at 3-7.

Falcons who will play the fifth grade all-stars from the other five teams in their league include Robert Weaver, Bobby Thompson, Bruce Allmond, Glenn Rambin, Gary Gallman, Gary Hicks, Gordon Gray, Jeffrey Stewart, Larry Wall and James Langridge. They are coached by Buck Rambin and Mutt Thompson.

On the fifth grade all-star team are Bid Cooper, Rickey Freeman, Mike Shearburn, Gary Shields, Mike Stephens, Kenneth Worley, Dennis and Tony Breedlove, Eugene Morris, Harvey Pinkerton, Mike Blythe and Jay Mata. They are coached by Avon Rushing and Charles Freeman.

The fifth grade all-stars will play the Falcons at 7 p.m. Friday in the Travis Gym, and the Blue and Gold sixth grade all-stars will tangle at 8 p.m. on the same floor.

The junior colleges, 11 teams, will swing into action with preliminaries Friday morning. In the afternoon and high schools will run through their trials.

The colleges and universities hold preliminiaries Saturday morning while the high schools and junior colleges decide championships Saturday afternoon.

Confusion Fails To Halt Rudolph

By BEN THOMAS
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW ORLEANS (AP)—"This has been some day," said Mason Rudolph, pocketing the $7,500 first place check in the Greater New Orleans Open Golf Tourney.

"We almost didn't start, almost didn't finish and almost everything happened in between," said the bespectacled pro from Tennessee's dark-fired tobacco country, who came close to blowing a four-stroke lead in the wrapup of the $50,000 tourney Monday.

The 29-year-old Clarksville belter had to scramble for a final three-over-par 75. It gave him a 72-hole total of 283, one stroke in front of Masters and PGA champion Jack Nicklaus, Puerto Rican Jan (Chi Chi) Rodriguez and unknown Glenn Stuart, a Michigan club pro.

The final round was nearly rained out. At 9 a.m., the scheduled starting time, a hard rain was falling on the 7,020-yard Lakewood Country Club course.

An hour later the rain stopped and after another hour the greens had dried off enough to permit play.

Then defending champion Bo Wininger, confused over the delay, showed up three minutes late for his tee off time and was disqualified. He was out of contention, however, with a 54-hole total of 220, which was 12 strokes behind Rudolph.

Rudolph had his troubles. He started out with a bogey five on the second hole and was constantly in trouble because of the fairway bunkers—he was in six of them during the round.

Turning for the final nine, Rudolph was two strokes over par.

Decidedly, 1962 Kentucky Derby winner, was the top money winner during Monmouth Park's 1963 season. He earned $72,345.

All-Staters Dot Tourney Teams

By JACK KEEVER
Associated Press Writer

AUSTIN (AP) — When the two top divisions swing into action at the boys state basketball tournament Thursday and Friday, fans will get a look at six first-team all-state players.

In Class AAA, which begins play Thursday night, the all-state players are Jimmie Lenox, 6-2, of defending champion Clear Creek; 6 foot 8 Mike Lochner of Graham, and Larry Black, 5-11, of South San Antonio. All are seniors.

Ken Spain, 6 foot 7 junior from Houston Stephen F. Austin, heads the trio of Class AAAA all-state players in the state tournament. The other two are seniors 6 foot 2 Billy Arnold of Fort Worth Haltom and 6 foot 3 Larry Miller of San Antonio Lee.

Clear Creek also had a third-team selection in 6 foot senior Bill Howard. The fourth team in AAAA, Dallas Adamson, also had a player on the third team all-state. He was 6 foot 1 senior guard Norman Grey.

Graham making its first trip to the state tournament, and South San Antonio, making its seventh consecutive appearance here, open AAA competition at 7:30 p.m. Thursday.

Clear Creek, the AAA favorite, plays Kilgore at 8:50 the same night.

Class AAAA play begins at 2:30 p.m. Friday with Adamson matched against Lee. Haltom and Houston Austin, the favorite, play at 7:30 p.m.

In Class AA, Canyon is the only team with state tournament experience, winning the title in 1950. The other entries are Lancaster, Hardin-Jefferson of Sour Lake and San Diego.

All the teams in Class A are newcomers. Talco, which upset defending champion West Sabine in regional and East Chambers, which took out another former champion, Woodsboro, look like the teams to beat.

Defending champion McAdoo could take the Class B title again, but tournament veteran, Frankston state champion in 1961, should contend for the crown.

Workers Begin Grim Task Of Recovering Crash Dead

By BILL STALL

MINDEN, Nev. (AP)—Workers began the grim task today of recovering and identifying 85 Lake Tahoe plane crash victims as this tiny western Nevada town opened its doors and kitchens to relatives of the dead.

The 81 passengers and four crew members died Sunday in the crash of a Paradise Airlines Constellation against a lofty, snow-covered peak on a flight scheduled from San Jose, Calif. to the gambling and winter sports center on the south shore of Lake Tahoe.

The path for recovery operations was cleared by a bulldozer and crew which followed an old logging road, then pushed through rocks and snow to the crash site.

Relatives and friends of the victims thronged into Minden, a Basque-German town of 550 residents located six miles east of the crash site and seven miles south of Carson City, the state capital.

The fire station became an information center; the Carson Valley Improvement Club became a morgue and Douglas County courthouse became headquarters for recovery posses.

While the bodies were carried out, Federal Aviation Agency and Civil Aeronautics Board investigators were to examine the crash scene in an attempt to learn why the plane crashed.

The victims, all Californians ar mostly from the Salinas and San Jose areas, were headed for a day at Nevada gambling casinos when the plane was caught in a blinding snowstorm.

Pilot Henry Norris, 43, took his plane to the north end of the 6,228-foot-high lake for a routine approach to Lake Tahoe Airport.

He radioed at 11:29 a.m. Sunday that he had spotted the lake through a break in the storm and was over the last approach marker to the airport. Two minutes later he began a message, "Flight 901—" Nothing more was heard.

Air and ground searchers, hampered Sunday by the snowstorm, did not find the plane until 7:30 a.m. Monday—when it was spotted on a ridge near the south end and several miles east of the lake.

Authorities speculated that at the last minute Norris changed his flight plan and headed for Reno or Carson City.

The biggest piece of wreckage was the tail section. Most of the other pieces were so small they were hard to distinguish from tree stumps and rocks.

Helicopter pilot Leroy W. Marx, who spotted the wreckage said: "If he (Norris)had been 25 to 30 feet higher he would have cleared the peak."

THE "Write" WAY

By RUTH FOWLER BROWN

Dear Ruth:

I am a recent high school graduate and because I have to help support my mother and sisters, I won't be able to enter college for a couple of years. Most of the jobs open to high school grads hold out very little inducement, either in opportunity or earnings.

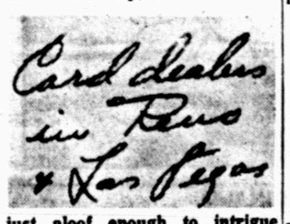

After investigating a number of fields, I've come to the conclusion that bartenders make good money and, if they have the personality, get good tips. Card dealers in Reno and Las Vegas are also highly paid, but the odds of getting a job of this sort are high. As a bartender in a gambling establishment, I'd have the opportunity to meet influential people who could get me in as a dealer.

I would be grateful to know whether my handwriting would indicate temperament and ability for these jobs. Thank you.

Job Hunter

Dear Job Hunter:

I'd say "set 'em up, Joe !." You're firendly, courteous and just aloof enough to intrigue people — traits which should place you high on the tip scale as a bartender. With your clever mind, perceptiveness, foresight and mathematical ability, the deck is stacked in your favor—as a card dealer and whatever field you plan to pursue in college. And you have the stamina to follow through on your chosen course.

Dear Ruth:

My neighbor is rather attractive, about 35. She rarely goes out, but men frequently call at her house. I'm not quite sure everything is on the up-and-up next door. What can you tell me about her from the note she left the milkman?

Civic Pride

Dear Civic:

She wants two quarts of milk!

Dear Ruth:

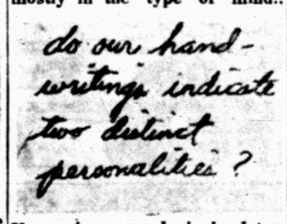

I've always admired one of my sisters in particular, and in my teens I was so impressed by her handwriting that I attempted to copy it. I wasn't too successful, but I still think there is a similarity in the way we write. Did I also copy her personality traits, or do our handwritings indicate two distinct personalities?

An Individual

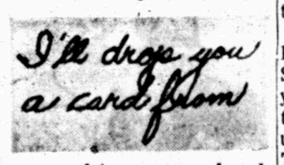

Dear Individual:

You and your sister share various traits of character, "family characteristics", passed on to you by inheritance. You both have high ethical standards, sympathy, and thoughtfulness. Both scripts reveal energy and drive, enjoyment of the outdoors and sports such as skiing and swimming.

Where you begin to differ is mostly in the type of mind..

Yours is more logical, determined and progressive. Your sister tends to take things a little less seriously — she'd just as soon let someone else do the fighting or thinking for her!

Debaters Place High

The debate section of the Snyder High School Forensic Squad challenged its best competition of the year in El Paso last Saturday at the Irvin High School Debate Tournament. Seventeen class 4A schools from Texas and New Mexico brought more than 80 teams to compete in the day long tournament. The Snyder debaters represented the only class 3A school in the tournament.

Debaters Fredrica Josephson and Rita Harless continued the Forensic Squad's winning streak in their division by tying for the 4th place position. The Snyder boys team of Jim Rannefeld and Dan Brunken, two first year debaters, won 136 speaker rating points for the highest number of points in the qualifying rounds with the exception of the finalists. The team finished with the 9th place rank.

The debaters are coached by Bob Taylor. The Forensic Squad's first year debaters, first year public speakers, and mixed teams will complete next Saturday at the Texas Tech Speech Tournament in Lubbock.

LONDON (AP) Britain is spending $106 million in the next year on Polaris submarines, the House of Commons was told Monday.

Demos Press For Farm Bill Vote

WASHINGTON (AP)— Senators were being pressed by their leaders today to shorten campaign year oratory on a controversial cotton-wheat bill and start voting.

Pending was the first of more than 20 amendments on enough different subjects to keep the wheels of debate spinning for weeks.

Democratic leaders had hoped to get the farm bill wrapped up in the senate by Wednesday to clear the decks for the battle over civil rights legislation. But the dispute over the farm proposals appears to have upset that timetable.

Sen. Allen Ellender, D-La., has offered a proposal that would substitute for the administration's plan for subsidies to domestic cotton mills and handlers, and payments to cotton farmers.

Involved is a multimillion move to let domestic mills pay the same low prices for U. S. cotton that foreign buyers have been paying for several years.

Ellender, chairman of the Senate Agriculture Committee, opposes the administration cotton plan which was approved by his committee.

The administration proposal would let the domestic trade buy cotton at about 24 cents a pound, some 8½ cents less than the 32¼ support level to growers on recent crops.

It also would lower supports to 30 cents a pound on the next crop but allow a payment to farmers of up to 4½ cents more for their share of domestic consumption.

Contending the mill subsidy would cost taxpayers $312 million the first year, and more in the three succeeding year of the program, Ellender said his substitute would be less expensive.

He would limit the mill and trade subsidy to cotton consumed above that recently used, with a cutoff on the discount after an increase of 20 per cent.

For cotton farmers, Ellender proposed extra payments only on their first 10 bales.

Sen. James Eastland, D-Miss., flood manager for the cotton section of the legislation, and most other Southern senators expected to defeat Ellender's substitute with the help of administration senators from other regions.

Sen. Carl Curtis, R-Neb., urged that a compulsory cutback on foreign meat imports be added to the cotton-wheat bill.

IT'S A LONG SIT TILL NOVEMBER

Coming Election Campaign Lacking In Tension, Drama

By JAMES MARLOW
Associated Press News Analyst

WASHINGTON (AP) — This 1964 campaign year will have the usual chatter but may wind up ho-hum, lacking the tension and drama of recent presidential contests.

In three of the past four elections the issues and problems which gave the voters passionate concern seem muted so far this year.

For instance: war, Communist aggressions, McCarthyism, worry about internal security, the question of taking a new direction into a new era, and more heat about and by the candidates than has been shown yet in 1964.

Since President Johnson has the inside track for the Democrats' nomination, there's no excitement about their convention. It must be real stirred up next summer. This could change if he pulls some boners, but there's nothing like that in sight.

Although the Republican nomination is wide open, the two men working for it hardest apparently haven't built major fires. New York's Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller, and Arizona's Sen. Barry Goldwater.

The two who may have the best chance for the prize don't even admit they're candidates, although they do a lot of talking: former Vice President Richard M. Nixon and Pennsylvania's Gov. William W. Scranton.

If Nixon is the man, the little element of mystery which gives a campaign zest before won't apply. He laid down his campaign manners and methods in 1960.

Scranton, for a man being mentioned, shows a strange indifference. Last month he said a candidate for president to be effective must be "real stirred about the issues." He says he is not stirred up enough now.

It wasn't like this in what former President Harry S. Truman might now consider the good old days of 1948 when to practically everyone's surprise, but not his, he beat New York's Gov. Thomas E. Dewey.

In that year the country's jitters about the Communists-in-government issue was only part of the national anxiety. Earlier Truman had blocked the Communist pressure on Greece and Turkey.

But in 1948 tension climbed like a thermometer in a boiler room: the Communists had grabbed Czechoslovakia just before the campaign began and during the campaign Truman was trying to smash the aggressive Soviet blockade of Berlin with an airlift.

Even that was only part of the voters' concern. They had to ask themselves: Was this to the end of an era that began 16 years before with Roosevelt? Was it time for a change? The voters decided no.

Their mood was far different in 1952 when Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower beat Adlai E. Stevenson, governor of Illinois. By then the country was torn apart over McCarthyism, communism in this country, and the war against communism in Korea.

Stevenson gave the campaign dignity and intellectual agility far above most campaigns in history. He held interest. But by then the voters really wanted a change and chose the less articulate Eisenhower.

When Stevenson ran against Eisenhower in 1956 he never had a chance. By then, under Eisenhower, the country had recaptured its sanity and stability. Both McCarthyism and the Korean war were over.

The duel between Nixon and Sen. John F. Kennedy gave the 1960 campaign spice, particularly the television debates. Interest was high, so high the voters were almost equally divided between them, as Kennedy's hairline win showed.

Junior Editors Quiz on ELECTRICITY

QUESTION: How does electricity cause things catch on fire?

ANSWER: The almost magical force called electricity is of enormous value to us, but it is very powerful, and we must know how to use and control it. The drawing at top suggests some of the appliances which many of us have in our houses today. Insulating wrapping keeps the wires which carry the current from touching each other, and causing a flash of flame which might start a fire. However, this insulation may get worn, and then, as in (2), the two "live" wires inside an electric cord may touch each other, throwing out dangerous sparks and flame. For this reason, wires should never be led under a rug, where people walking on them might wear them down.

If too many appliances are plugged into a wire which is not made to handle them all, the wire may heat up dangerously. A simple little object called a "fuse" takes care of this danger. (3) is a cross section of a fuse plug, showing a wire of easily melted material running through it. If too many appliances are plugged in on the circuit, this soft wire will melt and break the circuit (4), removing the danger. Then a new fuse must be screwed in, but the number of appliances used must be reduced or this will burn out too. 3-3

FOR YOU TO DO: You can help keep your house free from electric fires by reporting to your parents all worn places you find in electric wiring. Don't try to repair electrical equipment—that's a job for an expert.

(Donna Draves of Rochester, Minn., wins today's grand prize of a 20 volume set of the World Book Encyclopedia for this question. Mail yours on a postcard to Junior Editors in care of this newspaper and you may win a set too.)

Pavement Plato's Philosophies

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP)—Curbstone comments of a Pavement Plato:

There are two kinds of goals in this world—those you do something about, those you don't.

It is the goals you try to achieve that often turn life into a nightmare. It is the goals you only daydream about that sometimes give you your greatest satisfaction.

Everyone has ambitions he prefers to pursue more in phantasy than in real life. They are a portion of childhood's wonderful world of make-believe that we carry over into adulthood and help keep us young.

Sometimes these desires are spoken. Sometimes, for fear of being ridiculed, we hide them in a secret corner of the heart. And whether such dreams come true is really unimportant.

I have a friend whose hobby for more than 30 years has been trumpet playing. During all that time he has entertained a dream—to give a solo concert in Carnegie Hall.

"I don't want to make any money out of my concert," he says. "I don't even want tickets to be sold—not even as a charity benefit. I want to rent the hall with my own money, and invite only the people I want to be there—fellows like Satchmo Armstrong, Miles Davis, Al Hirt and Harry James, people who know an honest trumpet when they hear one.

"I don't even want any other instrument lousing up the background. I just want to stand up there in that big spotlight and blow my brains out on that trumpet for three hours."

Intermittently, this friend goes back and takes fresh lessons to keep his lip sharp. But over three decades, he's as bad as he ever was.

There is no chance whatsoever he will give a concert in Carnegie Hall. If he did, he'd set jazz music back half a century. But he's happy with his dream.

I have another friend whose ambition is to beat to a pulp the lieutenant he served under in World War II, a wish common to many ex-enlisted men.

Actually, he'd do no such thing. If he did meet up with his old looey, they'd be backslapping each other in five minutes and talking about what a great war they had together. Meanwhile, he enjoys his harmless revenge dreams.

I have one of these self-tranquilizing aspirations, too. It's to write the great American novel.

Had this goal since I was 12. Started to write it a thousand times. Never got beyond the first paragraph. After the opening sentence, I start daydreaming about how I'll sell 10 million copies, sell it to the movies for $5 million and—

Why wear your mind out trying to write a book that may turn out to be lousy, when I can just sit there and enjoy spending dream money? So the rest of the page stays blank.

Dreams are best while they remain but hopes.

City Manager Scores High In Handwriting Analysis

City Manager L. A. Patterson's handwriting reveals a combination of anlytical, executive and practical characteristics which well adapt him to his job of running Snyder smoothly.

This anlysis of Patterson's script was given by Ruth Fowler Brown, noted graphologist, whose column THE "WRITE" WAY appears daily in this paper.

The analysis gave the manager a pretty high score: 'He's a good organizer and administrator with an analytical mind which delves deeply into all subjects. He handles situations in a tactful and efficient manner, and is at his best solving problems.

"He's a family man — proud of his children. He takes a vital interest in education and training of youth, and has a great deal of sympathy and understanding for adolescents. While I've never met Mr. Patterson personally, I feel sure he's interested in the Boy Scouts, and is a 'good scout' himself."

(The city manger confesses that he was an adviser to a scout troop in Pecos once, but wonders how in the world Ruth Fowler Brown pulled that one out of his penmanship.)

The remainder of the analysis follows:

"Culturally, Mr. Patterson keeps pace with the times. Taking an interest in the finer things in life, he often gets involved in projects devoted to the arts, music, world peace, or anything which, in his opinion, helps to better human existence.

"Consistent, observant and practical, Mr. Patterson is a genuinely sincere and cordial person. No doubt he ranks high in the esteem of his fellow citizens."

Graphologist Is Kind To Reporter

BY DICK ROBERTS

Don't look now, but your personality is showing! Every time you dot an "i" or cross a "t" you display your personality.

I was a bit apprehensive when I sent a sample of my writing to Ruth Fowler Brown, noted graphologist, writer and TV personality whose column THE 'WRITE' WAY is now appearing in the Daily News. I had gotten a look at the sample handwriting City Manager Patterson wrote out for Mrs. Brown, and I asked her "Please be kind — my handwriting isn't as pretty as Mr. Patterson's, is it?".

Well, I want to tell you she really is a kind lady! She pointed out that the layman looks at handwriting with an entirely different eye than the graphologist. You and I might admire a flowing, graceful-hand — the style we remember from the copybooks when we learned our ABCs. But Ruth says that even if you write pen scratchings like mine; you may exhibit many good character traits.

She says I'm the type who wants things done yesterday! "Impatient, but the kind of impatience that results in stirring others to the point of action."

She also pointed out that I'm mentally constructive — because my capital D, R and S are print - like and constructed with originality. I think straight to the point because my y's and g's have no loops — and she says she likes my signature because it reveals drive and a magnetic personality. Wow!

To continue with Ruth's anlysis:

"Dick's viewpoint is sanguine and he's willing to live and let live. His high third stroke on the capital M indicates he's something of an individualist, highly sensitive and sometimes a trifle selfish, but always interesting. This type of M also indicates an appreciation of form, color, and things of beauty (especially girls.) Dick is definitely the creative - constructive type and should go far in his chosen profession."

Ruth Fowler Brown has analyzed the handwriting of hundreds of famous people, screen and TV stars, worldwide notables, political figures, financiers and businessmen. She pointed out that handwriting analysis is being increasingly used in business, personnel departments, courts of law, and by docgors and psychologists.

"Many people who write to me," says Mrs. Brown, "have specific problems of temperament which they want to improve or overcome. Other seek information about compatibility. Many ask about their talents and capabilities for future careers.

"Others are just curious and want to see if I can back up their opinions and beliefs about themselves. I'm interested in every person who writes to me. I try to point out the good things in their makeup which are helpful and the faults that hinder. Only through understanding ourselves and others can we attain full personality expression and reap the happiness and success we deserve."

I for one am thoroughly convinced of Ruth Fowler Brown's sincerity, and completely intrigued about graphology. I'm going to read her witty column THE "WRITE" WAY every day — to learn more about this fascinating subject.

Colorado Governor Plans Redistricting

DENVER (AP)—Gov. John Love is calling the Colorado Legislature into special session sometime in April to reapportion the state's four congressional districts.

Love disclosed this Monday night at the end of a 95-day regular session during which a three-cent state tax was levied on cigarettes. Some deductions were removed from the state income tax to provide $5 million in new revenue.

One Body Found In Earth Slide

TUSCALOOSA, Ala. (AP)—Rescue workers dug through the night to determine whether any other persons were buried in an earth slide which killed one man.

The body of Tillman Webb, 33, was recovered from beneath tons of earth at the Holt lock and dam site six miles northeast of here on the Warrior River.

Six persons were hurt when heavy rains caused a 200-foot section of a 40-foot high cofferdam to collapse Monday.

Confiscated Sugar To Help Fight Polio

COLUMBUS, Ga. (AP) — Plans are being made to donate sugar confiscated during moonshine raids to 'Operation Sugar Lump," an anti-polio drive beginning March 8.

The sheriff's office says bulk sugar found around illegal stills will be swapped to various restaurants for lumps of sugar used in administering Sabin oral vaccine.

Polio drive sponsors stimate the free sugar will lower the cost of administering the vaccine by about $2,000.

Tug Of War Predicted In Trend To Higher Interest

By SAM DAWSON
AP Business News Analyst

NEW YORK (AP)—The power of the pull toward higher interest rates should be tested in the next few weeks.

On one end of the rope in this tug of war are the federal income tax cut's touted boost to the American economy and the trend in Europe toward higher interest rates. On the other end of the rope is reluctance of government planners to see higher rates cramp a business boom before it gets well started.

The U.S. Treasury has urged the money market not to speculate on a raise here in the discount rate, similar to that just ordered by the Bank of England. But some Wall Street credit and security dealers already talk of the prospects that the Federal Reserve Board will sooner or later raise the present 3½ per cent discount rate—the charge for borrowing by its member banks.

The Federal Reserve never telegraphs its punches. It won't say when, if ever, it will raise the rate to which most other short-term interest charges are tied. So the dealers just guess. And the yields on some short-term debts already have risen a little in anticipation.

The Federal Reserve has other weapons in controlling the amount of credit and influencing the size of interest charges. One is to increase or lower the amount of reserves the member banks must keep with it. This gives them either less or more funds they can lend, regulating the supply of credit in terms of current demand.

Another is to enter the government securities market and buy or sell. This, too, either builds up or decreases the amount of bank deposits which can be used for extending credit. The tighter the supply of lendable funds the higher interest rates are likely to go.

Some are betting that the Federal Reserve will do nothing for the time being. This theory is that the board will wait to see what effect the last week's twin actions—the tax cut and the British interest hike — may have on American money markets.

The tax cut's effects could be to set off a business expansion and a consumer buying spree that would, in time, inflate prices and boom the demand for easy credit. Many think it will not work that way at all, but have only a gradual and healthy effect. In that case the increased demand for credit would lead naturally to slowing rising interest rates.

These are the present uncertainties that both Washington and Wall Street are striving to assess. The next few weeks should tell how the American economy and bankin, and security markets will react.

Flogging Is Favored In Britian's Eton

ETON, England (AP) — A sampling of students at Eton, one of Britain's most fashionable prep schools, shows that fewer than one in four of the young gentlemen want flogging abolished.

A few lashes with a cane is standard punishment for wrongdoers at the school, training ground of Britain's social and political elite.

LIGHTEST MEXICO

BY JOHN ABNEY

MEXICO CITY — Well, here it is 8 a.m. and everybody is sitting around anxiously wondering about the powers of mistletoe. While scientists are not quite sure how mistletoe was first manufactured, ancient documents found in an extinct barber shop indicate it was discovered by the high priest of an unknown Indian tribe in central Mexico.

Apparently this high priest, whose name was Quincy, was sitting in a tree one day contemplating various tribal matters when he noticed a curious plant growing on the limb beside him.

And almost simultaneously he saw a beautiful maiden come running down the trail and kiss his bodyguard right where he smoked cigars. Since the warrior was standing directly beneath the mistletoe (Central Standard Time), Quincy felt the plant had some pretty potent powers. He was sure of it when the bodyguard moved from beneath the mistletoe and the girl immediately blushed and slapped him.

This incident led to some intensive investigation and remarkable discoveries which scientists still know nothing about. Quincy found, among other things, that a sprig of mistletoe had an interesting effect on the size of families. A tribal lady would come to him and say, "Your Elegance, I have been childless these many years and beg you to do something about it."

So Quincy would look at her sternly and say "You think I want your husband to kill me? Get outta here."

The lady would say, "No, no, I mean give me some kind of a talisman or a cup of parrot feather tea that bears your blessing so I can present my husband with a fine son."

Then Quincy would sigh with relief and give her a sprig of mistletoe which he told her to keep on her person day and night. And sure enough, along the middle of September she would come walking in from the corn patch where she had been plowing and call to her husband, "Hey, Ike we got a beautiful little boy. Put him in the hammock with you so I can finish my work."

The procedure was so successful that everybody began coming around to Quincy for a sprig of his blessing and a few years later the tribe had grown so large there wasn't enough food.

So Quincy reasoned that if mistletoe would work for people it should work for animals. And he told the farmers to make a potion of mistletoe leaves (which he sold) and sprinkle it on the hay for their cows.

The herds increased and everybody was eating top sirloin three times a day shortly after. Of course this was thousands of years ago but prosperity is prosperity no matter what kind of a cave you live in.

At any rate, Quincy's fame made some of the medicine men jealous and they began acting like soreheads and saying the whole thing was superstition that would bring only negative results.

Historians believe this attitude was due largely to the fact that Quincy declined to tell anyone where mistletoe grew. And while everyone was out scouring the bushes and looking under rocks, it was right there in the tree.

The whole matter came to an abrupt end when the tribal chieftan called Quincy over to his cave and told him there would be a hearing that night on this mysterious plant that made people kiss beneath it.

Quincy showed up for the hearing with a sprig of mistletoe pinned on his coat tail and was run out of town when he turned his back to the board of directors. Probably just as well because the town was getting awfully crowded and the first housing crisis was being invented.

Chile Town Destroyed By Volcano

By JOSE MARIA ORLANDO

SANTIAGO, Chile (AP) — An Andean volcano was reported today to have erupted and triggered avalanches that destroyed the little town of Conaripe and threatened a 60 - mile area of southern Chile containing 20,000 persons.

Press reports from the stricken area said at least 25 persons had been killed after the fiery eruption of 9,325-foot Villarrica volcano early Monday, but police said only seven deaths had been confirmed.

"Nothing is left of Conaripe," a civilian pilot said after flying over the mountain valley about 500 miles south of Santiago Monday. "There is only mud and water where the town was."

Other reports said 80 per cent of the town's buildings, including three hotels, were destroyed.

Police at Temuco, 60 miles northwest of the volcano, said "many people are missing and we do not know what their exact fate has been."

Conaripe, a resort and lumbering center, had a population of several hundred. It was on a southern slope of the volcano in the heart of the towering southern Andes.

A radio report said a group of about 150 persons were huddled on a patch of high ground near the site of the destroyed town.

Police patrols were dispatched but were delayed because heavy rains since Friday have washed out roads and bridges.

It was feared that the missing included tourists, who flock to fishing and yachting resorts in the area at this time of the year, the end of the Southern Hemisphere's summer. Most tourists, however, frequent the larger towns of Valdivia and Pucon, which were reported outside the danger area.

The avalanches and steams of lava pushed several rivers out of their banks. Already swelled from four days of violent rains, the rivers inundated much of the valley around Conaripe.

Conservatives Are Praised

DALLAS (AP) — Gordon McLendon, campaigning for the Senate, says "conservative government has done great things for the conservative state of Texas."

"Texans who "want it continued" should vote not only for him, McLendon said, but for John Connally, Waggoner Carr, Preston Smith and Byron Tunnell.

McLendon told an opening campaign dinner Monday night the nation's free enterprise system must be unshackled or else it will suffocate.

He advocated a ceiling on the present national debt of $309 billion and channeling one-tenth of the national budget each year into retiring the debt.

Economies could also be made in the armed forces appropriations and by streamlining government bureaus, McLendon said.

Ask Cut Of Beef Imports

SHENANDOAH, Iowa (AP)— Some 5,000 Midwest cattlemen have called on Congress to put the brakes on beef imports.

Meeting here Monday, they asked that imports be trimmed to 1960 levels to counteract falling prices.

The crowd shouted and applauded its approval of a proposed investigation of retail meat prices. It approved a resolution recommending the cattle industry itself undertake more orderly marketing and production.

Speakers recounted that in 15 months live beef prices have fallen from about $30 a hundredweight to about $20. During the same time imports have hit new records.

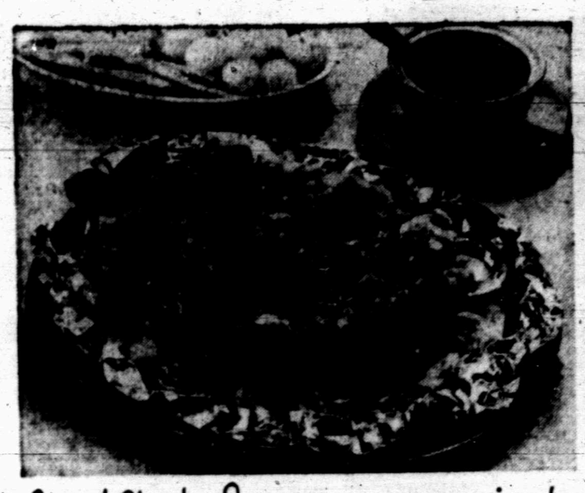

George Mehren, assistant U.S. secretary of agriculture, asserted a big part of the trouble is the massive increase in meat supplies generally and in poultry.

DEBATE WINNERS — Pictured following a school debate tournament at Lamar Junior High School last week are speech students Barbara Crowell, Karen Robertson, Sammie Raines and Donna Davis. Miss Robertson and Miss Raines were judged the top debaters of the school. The two winners had earlier participated as a team against high school students.

LAMAR DEBATERS—This boy's debate team of Ronnie Climmer, Troy Lilly, Terry Looney and Joe Bass, will present a debate entitled "Optimism — Formula For Freedom" at a meeting of the Snyder Optimist Club. Debate is just one area of training provided by speech departments of the Snyder schools.

TEXAS PUBLIC SCHOOL WEEK

Speech Program Contains Wide Area Of Activities

(EDITOR'S NOTE — Recently a News reporter was privileged to hear a part of a debate program at Lamar Junior High School. The program was well done, and was well received by the Lamar student body. Feeling that this area of school activity might not be too well known or understood, Charlie Anderson, Lamar speech instructor, agreed to furnish details on the speech program at the school. The following article was prepared by Mr. Anderson for the Daily News.)

We use our speech to sell, entertain, persuade, inform, and inspire. All of us, whether we are students, salesmen, politicians, teachers, newscasters, actors ministers, housewives, lawyers or a hundred other occupations find speech our best, sometimes our only, way to reach others. Therefore, the main purpose of the speech program in Snyder Schools is to help each student develop his ability to communicate more effectively in all situations of life.

Speech is first offered in junior high for ninth grade students. It is a fundamental course which attempts to give the student a well rounded program in speech activities. It is an elective course and is considered a solid, as far as credit is concerned. Students are not required to take speech, but many of them choose to do so.

The first nine-weeks of the speech course deals with general speech. This takes in the study of the importance of speech and its functions in our everyday activity. Strong emphasis is placed on helping students overcome stage - fright at the very beginning of the course. The students are taught that it is natural to have some stage fright (almost everyone does), but that each person can control this fright and use it as a motivating force in speech. Most students conquer extreme stage fright by the end of the first nine-weeks. They do this through various activities, including six or seven different types of speeches. The first speeches are usually about familiar subjects, since students find it easier to speak about things with which they are familiar.

Once a student learns to conquer stage fright, he will not likely go through life avoiding certain speech situations. He is taught that everyone can conquer fear by using a few basic rules of good speech. Some of these are correct breathing for speaking, posture, speech outline, practice and setting good mental attitudes. Students learn to be helpful to those with a great deal of stage fright. The understanding of mutual problems in class does a lot toward helping a student overcome any speech difficulty.

Special emphasis is also placed on certain speech problems such as nasality (more common in Texas than many other states) monotones, and mispronouncing of words. Common mispronounced words for this area are 'thank' for 'think,' 'sang' for 'sing' 'thang' for 'thing', and many others. It is also a common practice to run words together as one word. Students often come out with a word like "jeet" when they really mean "Did you eat?" The tape recorder is used in overcoming some of these problems.

The second nine weeks of speech work includes oral interpretation of poetry and prose. Students do oral readings from such authors as Longfellow, Poe, Frost, and others. Well known readers of the community are invited to demonstrate good oral interpretation to the class. Also each student attends a workshop in Abilene to help further develop their speaking and oral reading skills. Each student ends the semester with an eight to ten minute speech on a current issue of the world.

Debate is usually introduced at the beginning of the second semester. Students debate both the negative and affirmative sides of the proposition. Subjects for junior high debate are usually "Capital Punishment," "Foreign Aid," and "Social Security Health Benefits." Junior high speech students learn some of the basic fundamentals of debate and many continue in high school debate activities. Valuable experience is gained through actual debating for other student groups in school. Good sportsmanship, debate research, and the ability to think fast are just some of the benefits gained in the study of debate.

A short study of radio and television gives the student an overall view of the things that go into good radio and television speech. Students learn, through visiting the local radio station, some of the techniques of radio speech. Some of the same procedures learned at the station are used in student radio work. Students write their own scripts and broadcast them through the use of tape recorders.

The Snyder schools are very fortunate to have television to use in actual broadcasting. The television camera and monitor are set up very much as a real television station might operate. The students write their own programs and present them through the television unit. Students usually enjoy this phase of speech and are often very creative in this type of work. Programs for television consist of newscast, panel discussions, commercials, interviews, dramas, and many other types.

About a six-weeks period of the speech course is devoted to dramatics. Each student learns about the history of the theater, theater make-up, pantomime, projection of voice on stage, and other techniques of action. Every student has a part in a play during this time. These plays are produced at the end of the sixth week. Drama gives many students a sense of belonging to something important. However, drama is only a minor part of the speech fundamentals course. Many students, however, gain an interest in drama through this study and continue in it through high school.

The last three weeks of the school term are spent in the preparation and delivery of final speeches. Each student is required to present a ten minute speech on subjects of current interest. These subjects range from Viet Nam to Barry Goldwater or Lyndon Johnson. The students compare this presentation to the first speech made earlier in the school year. Most of them can see a tremendous gain in their speaking ability.

Good speech is gaining in importance each year. Many young people are realizing this fact. They know that the ability to express themselves effectively is a worthwhile attribute. They find it especially helpful in meeting the challenges of high school and college, as well as the challenges of their chosen profession. The students of Lamar Junior High, who study speech, find it not only interesting, but also one of the basic fundamentals for a well rounded education.

Farmers Kept Indoors By Moist Weather

AUSTIN (AP) — Cool moist weather kept Texas farmers indoors and retarded spring field work last week, the U.S. Department of Agriculture says.

Cotton planting in the lower valley continued to lag, totalling only 9 per cent of the intended acreage, compared to 18 per cent a year ago at this time, the USDA said Monday.

Sorghum planting in the lower valley was at 23 per cent of the anticipated level.

Wheat on the High Plains remained dormant, with top growth at a virtual standstill.

Livestock feeding increased. Lambing and kidding remained active but some new born lambs and kids were chilled by the weather.

Wet fields slowed harvesting in the Rio Grande Valley early in the week. By mid-week, cabbage, carrots, lettuce and leafy green vegetables were available in good volume.

Demos Speechless Over New Order

ATLANTA (AP)—The 29 candidates in the Catoosa County Democratic primary election March 10 have been ordered by the county Democratic committee to make no speeches.

The order left most of the residents in the northwest Georgia county speechless.

County Chairman Cortez Lamb said 17 of the candidates voted in a secret ballot to eliminate speeches. He said the county committee would be asked to reconsider the order.
