Council commits to cooperation with law enforcement agencies

The Colorado City Council smoothed out relations with the Department of Public Safety but failed to take any action following a two hour meeting, mostly in closed session, Tuesday night.

"The most important thing is that the council is striving to have a cooperative relationship with all the agencies and we are all confident that there can be that cooperation," said Mayor Jim Baum at the conclusion of the meeting.

The meeting was announced as being an executive session concerning personnel matters. Local residents have surmised that the city manager and/or police chief were the topics of discussion after Mayor Jim Baum apologized for the way the city handled criticism of a local DPS trooper last week.

City Manager Steve Shutt and Police Chief David Montgomery denounced local DPS trooper Mark Negri during a council meeting and in the media for a recent high speed chase that ended in a fatality. Chief Montgomery wrote a letter of complaint to Negri's sergeant. Department of Public Safety Lieutenant Campbell of Abilene and Negri's immediate supervisor, Sergeant Don Graham of Sweetwater, attended Tuesday night's meeting.

Following an hour and a half closed session, the DPS troopers discussed the issues with the council and answered their questions.

Lt. Campbell said that the DPS does not have a broad policy concerning chases but leaves the decisions and responsibility up to the individual trooper to initiate or disengage a chase depending on the circumstances.

Shutt said that the city has a limited chase policy.

"It's definitely not a catch 'em at any cost policy," said Shutt.

The lieutenant replied that that wasn't DPS policy either and soon afterwards said that if the city didn't want

DPS supports trooper

Prior to Tuesday's meeting, Sergeant Graham affirmed that Trooper Negri had followed DPS policies and procedures and had responded properly in the situation.

Graham was at the scene of the accident soon after it happened. He said he talked with witnesses during an initial investigation.

"We didn't initiate this chase. They initiated it when they failed to stop," he said.

Graham said that troopers are trained to make decisions based on the circumstances and he found no fault in Negri's handling of the situation.

"There were no other cars on the road and only one major intersection which was blocked by police," he said.

Graham discounted insinuations that the pursuit was so close that it caused the accident.

"The closest he ever got to the vehicle was 1/8 of a mile and most of the time he was much further from him. The driver had plenty of opportunity to slow down," he said.

Q. Why are the TDCJ employees offered a discount at the Healthstyle Center and why aren't employees from other businesses also offered a discount?

A. Mitchell County Hospital District administrators approached several businesses about programs to enable employees to utilize the Healthstyle Center.

The monthly fee is currently being evaluated and special rates for large employee groups may be expanded, according to MCHD Hospital Administrator Wendell Alford.

Weekend fires burn approximately 1000 acres

Colorado City firefighters were assisted by Westbrook, Loraine, Robert Lee and Snyder fire departments as they fought grass fires that burned almost 1000 acres Sunday afternoon.

Between 800 and 1,000 acres burned on the Wulfjen Ranch in the Seven Wells Community. The fire rekindled at 11 p.m. Farmers with tractors and county workers with road graders helped cut fire lanes to control the fire.

A grass fire was reported on Old Hwy. 80 East at John Williamson's house at 2:04 p.m. and fires were reported 1/2 mile from the city on South Hwy. 208 at 2:10 p.m., 4-1/2 miles south at 2:16 p.m., 2-1/2 miles south on Hwy. 208 at 2:20 p.m.

An out-of-town visitor told Railhead Trade Days vendors that he had driven in to town on Hwy. 208 before the firemen arrived and saw what appeared to

Local cable company plans to sell assets

Thackerson optimistic

Tele-Media Cable Company tentatively plans to sell its assets to Time Warner Fanch-One Co., according to Tele-Media officials.

Rex Thackerson, local Tele-Media manager, appeared before the Colorado City and Loraine city councils last week to request the councils to transfer the franchise from Telemedia to TWFanch One Co.

TWFanch-One Co. is a general partnership whose partners are Time Warner Entertainment Company, L.P., Fanch Cablevision of Indiana, L. P., and Hornell Television Service, Inc. Hornell will have the minority interest.

Time Warner is the second largest cable company in the U.S. Their multi-entertainment holdings include Time, Inc., Warner Music Group, Filmed Entertainment-Warner Bros. and Six Flags, and Home Box Office (HBO).

All of Telemedia's cable systems, located in many of the southern states including the 17 systems in this district, are included in the tentative sale which is expected to be complete May 31.

Colorado City Council, meeting on last Tuesday's election night, tabled any action until a called meeting Thursday, March 21 because Mayor Jim Baum and City Attorney Tom Rees were not present.

Council members in both cities questioned Thackerson on whether local subscribers would benefit with additional programming or lowered rates. Thackerson was very optimistic about the possible impending sale, calling it a big opportunity.

"We can't beat this," he said. "Time Warner is a dream company."

However, he said it was too early to know any details about how the change would affect local subscribers.

"It makes sense that with their track record they're going to do what they need to do to be competitive," he said.

Thackerson provided council members with copies of Time Warner's 1994 Annual Report which showed revenues of $7 billion.

According to the report, Time Warner recovered from government rate re-regulation and during 1994 and early 1995 made acquisitions that increased their subscribers from 7.5 million to 11.5 million.

Utility increase marked for City of Loraine

Loraine City Council approved a $4 a month increase in utility rates at the regular city council meeting Friday night.

The increase is effective April 1.

The action followed approval of the city's $281,431 budget for 1996-97 which depended on the rate increase.

The water rate will increase $2 per month/customer and the sewer rate will increase $2 per month/customer for the $4 total utility increase.

Cleanups planned

Colorado City and the City of Loraine are both planning cleanups to coincide with Christmas In April.

A city-wide cleanup in Colorado City will be held the week of April 20 through April 27, beginning the Saturday before Christmas In April and continuing through the CIA weekend.

A motion was passed at the March 12 city council meeting to open the landfill to residents of Colorado City and workers from Christmas In April disposing of garbage from the CIA projects throughout the county.

City Councilman Patrick Parker said he hopes a local civic organization will adopt a project of helping the elderly by taking trash to the landfill for them during the RENOVATION IS UNDERWAY on the old Lions Club building in Loraine, the future site of the health clinic. Work crews from the Wallace Unit are helping the city hold down costs on the project. The renovations are expected to take about 60 days to complete.

Work continues on building for Loraine Clinic

Walls partitioning off the examination rooms, waiting rooms, lab and receptionist area were put up last Monday by work crews from the Wallace Unit.

Loraine city council members were given a tour of the facility by Rick Bailey, city public works dept., following their regular city council meeting Friday night.

"I can't believe how fast it's changed," said one council woman.

Mitchell County Hospital Safety Officer Sam Parham is directing the renovation construction project on the MCHD satellite facility.

Workers are in the process of doing the plumbing work and electricians began work Tuesday.

Greetings to everyone!

I hope you came downtown Saturday. If not, you missed seeing the town the way the oldtimers talk about it—full of people. There was no parking, traffic jams and people sitting on all the benches of the sidewalks. I think it was great. I did hear there was some rumbling from a couple of merchants, but remember, the more people downtown, the more business for everyone. I saw people going in and out of businesses all day. Way to go, Railhead Trade Days committee. You did a great job!

***

March is Women's History Month. To celebrate, the Business and Professional Women's Club has decorated the windows at the Mitchell County Library. Glenna Garrett and Dee Hearn did the decorating. If you get a chance, stop by and see it.

***

If you weren't outside around 8:00 p.m. Sunday evening, you might not know that it did rain (if you can call it that) in the county. I was taking my mother home to Loraine and it actually sprinkled on my windshield.

***

R.J. and Mary Lloyd are great grandparents again. Darren and Lisa Lloyd of San Angelo had a baby girl on February 21st. The baby was born the day after Mary's birthday. Grandparents are Bob and Wanna Lloyd of Cap Wood, Texas.

***

I had lunch with Dori Shutt Monday. She said she is enjoying her new job, although she is only home every fourth week. The last three week she drove a little over 1800 miles in South Texas. She said the job was fun, but it is always good to get home.

Debra Seal's art students from last year got a big surprise a couple of weeks ago. They all wrote the southwestern artist Pena last year. They never heard back from him until a couple of weeks ago. He wrote to tell them he appreciated their letters and was touched by what some of them had to say.

He told them that one day on his way to Dallas he would stop by to meet them. He also sent them six signed prints. The school hasn't decided what to do with the prints, but it certainly was a nice gift.

***

Lula Leach and her son Clifford didn't have a very good week last week. She was put in the hospital one day last week for an infection which affected her sugar level. Not one hour later, Clifford had an accident on his bicycle and broke his shoulder. You know what they say—when it rains, it pours!

***

Two new businesses are locating in the downtown area. AMCO Medical Supply and a furniture rental business will be opening soon. Watch for them!

***

A big thank you to Doris Henderson! She invited me to have breakfast with the ladies from the First Baptist Church in Loraine at Mulberry Manor Saturday. I'm looking forward to it. My mother is also going, but she didn't invite me. She is going to ride with me though!

***

Mary Kay and John Williamson got a big scare over the weekend. The pasture and garden area in front of their house caught on fire Sunday afternoon. From all signs, it started at the road and moved toward their house. Mrs. Chaney next door saw the fire and called the fire department. John and Mary Kay were downtown at Railhead Trade Days, but their two children were home with a babysitter. Mary Kay said the cotton burrs they had piled up beside their garden burned all night.

COOK'S CORNER

by Sheila Plagens

If you enjoy baking bread, you have something in common with Frances Quiett. Bread is her second favorite thing to make. Her first favorite thing is for husband Howard to cook, because then he ends up taking her out!

Seriously, Frances does enjoy all aspects of cooking, bread baking being her favorite. She learned to cook at the age of 11, when her mother went to Hardin-Simmons to finish her degree. Frances was the older girl, so it was her responsibility to see that everyone was fed.

Frances' father encouraged her in her tries, saying everything she made was good. That was until she made macaroni and cheese once. The recipe called for a dash of salt and she thought it said "dish" of salt, so she filled a bowl with salt and added it to the other ingredients. Needless to say, it was a "little" salty.

After teaching school for 30 years and raising three children, Frances is enjoying her time with activities she enjoys. She stays busy at First United Methodist Church, where Howard is the pastor. Frances is vice president of United Methodist Women and teaches the Philathea Sunday School Class at the church.

Frances also enjoys painting, sewing and presenting book reviews. Frances does some of her painting in Colorado (the state). She and Howard go camping and while he fly fishes, she paints.

The couple's three children are all married. Cindy, married to Darrell Woodard, has two children, Adam and Kevin; Riggie and Dora also have two children, Kelcey and Kerri; and Missy and Britt Mayfield have one child, Melynn.

Frances is sharing three recipes with us today. You might notice this week we have formatted the recipes a little differently and added a small nutritional analysis. Let us know if you like this new "ingredient" in our Cook's Corner column. See you next week!

CHIEF LONE WOLF

By Jim Baum

There's an old phrase, "How you gonna keep 'em down on the farm?" Assuming that question arose when youngsters started leaving the fields to seek better futures in the city, we ask the question, what kept them on the farm so long?

Those farm families of the early part of this century had it rough. The late M.C. Bynum remembered when he and his wife, Geneva, once moved into an old house "and you could stick your hands through the cracks!"

Mildred Free says such a claim is probably no exaggeration. "Some of those old houses had cracks big enough you could throw a dog through 'em," she said, probably slightly exaggerating. Mrs. Free said her mother would take rags and stuff them in the cracks.

"Then she would take newspapers and paper the walls. And if we could get a hold of enough money, we'd paint the walls. We always had nice places when mother got through with 'em."

Keeping those old farm houses warm in the winter was no easy task, either. Ola Swann remembers her parents had a wood burning stove. "We hauled wood all winter," she told us. "We couldn't have kept warm in the old houses back then [without the stoves]. They didn't have any insulation or storm windows."

M.C. Bynum could tell us a thing or two about trying to keep a house warm. "We burned corn cobs and cow chips from the pasture," he stated without a trace of a smile. "We kept pretty warm by putting up quilts over the cracks and windows."

Mrs. Free can remember seeing her dad take an axe each morning during the winter "and go out and break a hole in the horse trough for the horses to drink water."

And at night, when bedtime rolled around, "we had ol' smoothin' irons. We would heat 'em on the fire. Then, put 'em under our covers to heat our feet at night." Mrs. Free said they would have so much cover on them that they couldn't turn over.

Ah, the good old days. Whatever kept them down on the farm? Those were the days when horsepower had four legs. Mule skinner M.A. Dunnahoo once told us how his team responded to calls of "Gee" and "Haw." Gee was a command for the mules to turn to the right while Haw meant take a left.

Farm families in the old days went to bed listening to the sound of their Eclipse windmill, if they were lucky enough to have one. The unlucky hauled their water by wagon in barrels.

"The oldtimers way back then wouldn't have a steel mill," Bill Justice, who quit working on windmills in 1977, told us. "They wanted one of those old wooden Eclipse windmills. They had steel mills, but they wanted the Eclipse because they had the reputation of lasting pretty good."

Then there was wash day. The grueling experience of washing clothes by hand. "I really don't even like to remember it," Rosa Barron said in a 1988 interview. Then she told us about it.

"We got out and built a fire around our wash pot and got our water hot. Then we went to work with our washboard." Washpot? Washboard? Backbreaking work! How did the washboard work?

"You put it in the tub of water," Mrs. Fred Acuff explained patiently, "and you get some soap and go to work. That's what you do." Just like that.

Mrs. Leonard (Maxine) Morris had her share of bending over a washboard, too. She remembers her mother had a black washpot, plus the washboard, of course.

"It wasn't easy, but we had nice clean clothes. Mother was very particular about her laundry. We had about three tubs of rinse water. We'd rinse 'em through one, then another, then another 'til we got all the soap out and they were ready to hang."

Then when the washing was finished, they would take the wash water and scrub their floors. Those early-1900s farmers knew about conservation. It was also spelled "survival."

This is Agriculture Appreciation Week. What early day farmer families really appreciated were store-bought dresses and electricity.

Next week: flour sack dresses, kerosene lamps and more on wash day.

City does have contingency plans in case of drought

What if it doesn't rain?

That's the question City Councilman Walt Staats brought up during the portion of last week's council meeting when the members make reports or ask questions.

Staats asked if the city could use water from Lake Spence if necessary.

City Manager Steve Shutt said he doubted that would be necessary but that the city has contingency plans in case of a drought. He noted that there were water rights, an aquifer and wells.

"We're not at that stage yet," said Shutt.

City master plan is viewed

Approximately 35 people viewed a slide show presentation of how downtown Colorado City could look after revitalization during a town hall meeting Thursday evening.

Mario Alaniz, a San Angelo architect, presented a master plan for revitalizing the downtown area. He and interior designer Donna Crisp came up with the plan after researching the area and touring the city.

"This area is unique," said Alaniz, who pointed out some of the city's strengths during his presentation.

Calling the Baker Hotel "a treasure" and the Dulaney Building "a show stopper", Alaniz and Crisp said that people had to look beyond the broken windows to see the beauty in many of the local buildings.

Alaniz pointed out the continuity of the buildings and said that their design ideas are intended to fit so well into the city's present structures that no one would be able to tell that there had been new additions.

He called for citizen feedback on the 11 points of the concept.

After altering the sketches based on ideas from the community, Alaniz said he could then provide more precise cost estimates.

Forms are available at the Colorado City Area Chamber of Commerce.

The plans are designed to fit into the $750,000 Texas Department of Transportation Transportation Modem money, commonly called ice tea, grant. This is the final year of the grant.

Colorado City plans to submit an application for the funds by the May 5 application date. The grant requires a 20 percent, $150,000 to $200,00, match from the city which does not have to be only a cash match.

Certificates approved by board

Colorado High School students who are unable to pass all of the TAAS test will still be able to graduate and receive a certificate of coursework completion, according to a unanimous vote by CISD board of trustees at their regular meeting Tuesday.

The proposal, submitted by the CHS Campus Improvement Committee, allows students who have successfully completed the curriculum requirements but have not passed one or all of the TAAS test to receive a certificate of coursework completion transcript.

Eight members of the Class of 1996 may meet the certificate criteria, Walt Staats, committee member, told the board.

"This opens up more doors instead of shutting them," said Debbie Blair, committee member.

Blair said she believes the benefits of the proposal outweigh the negatives. In the past there have been several occasions when students who had worked hard all four years could not graduate because they could not pass the test, she said.

Graduates who receive the coursework completion transcript will be able to enter most colleges and pursue a non-degree program.

"Maybe this will encourage them to come back later and pass the TAAS test," said Jim Igleheart, CHS principal.

The new education code from Senate Bill 1 allows school districts to choose to issue the certificate and then participate in graduation ceremonies.

CISD awarded grant

The Colorado Independent School District has been awarded a $150,000 Academic 2000 grant from the Texas Education Agency, Kitten Arthur, CISD curriculum director, announced to the school board Monday.

The purpose of the grant is to insure that all fourth grade students have the basic academic skills by improving early childhood education.

Research has shown that true learning begins with experiences and points to the importance of experiences for two to three year olds and how their experiences affect their ability to learn and future academic success, according to the grant application..

Grant funds will be used to enhance learning for children from early childhood to fourth grade, reflecting Kelley Elementary's Integrated Thematic Instruction approach.

The grant will cover :

•Parent training--parents with children from 18 months to three years old;

•Teacher training with the originator of Integrated Thematic Instruction, Susan Kovalik. One-third of the staff have had training in the Kovalik model.

•Tots Across Texas program-a six week accelerated learning camp during the summer; field trips to the major regions of Texas; giving children an opportunity for real life experiences.

The grant is for one year. "We're hoping the program will continue to be funded for four years," said Arthur.

Public input sought on curfew possibility

The public is invited to attend a meeting April 10 at 2 p.m. in the Mitchell County Courthouse to express any opinions they have on curfews. The purpose of the meeting is to determine any interest in curfews in the various communities.

Some of the questions that may be discussed include whether a curfew is needed, what it would be designed to do, what age group it would apply to, what time period it would cover, whether other communities have successfully implemented curfew plans and what the extra cost or savings would be to taxpayers.

A group of twelve representatives from local law enforcement, juvenile probation, judges, prosecutors, school officials, and the prison system met March 13 to discuss their ideas on teaching responsibility and accountability to children.

The group decided to place only the pros and cons of a curfew on the April 10 agenda.

Public input is important. Please plan to attend the April 10 meeting.

Hotel/motel tax hearing set March 21

A public hearing on hotel/motel tax allocations will be held during Thursday's city council meeting.

Other items on the agenda include a second public hearing on the 1996 Texas Community Development Program grant application and possible action on assigning cable franchise from Tele-Media to Time Warner Co.

The March 21 meeting at city hall will begin at 5 p.m.

Barber misses chance at runoff by 693 votes

Colorado City attorney Pat Barber had to wait until Thursday morning to find out he had missed the runoff for Texas Court of Criminal Appeals judge by only 693 votes.

Computer problems in Dallas County Tuesday delayed the vote counting for 24 hours. When the final results were reported for the Place 2 Republican race, Williamson County prosecutor Paul Womack came in first with 32 percent of the votes; Judge Mike Keasler from the Dallas area garnered 122.03 percent-148,052 votes; and Barber had 21.93 percent - 147,359 votes.

Five candidates ran for the Place 2 position in the GOP primary.

Barber did not ask for a recount but has reportedly indicated that he may run again.

The local attorney ran for the Democratic nomination to the court six years ago, receiving 43 percent of the votes in the two-man race.

Operation Outreach program announced

State Representative Robert Junell and Warden Rodney Cooper announced the new Operation Outreach program at a press conference in San Angelo Friday.

Operation Outreach is designed to give young people ages 10-16 a glimpse into the everyday life of a Texas prison inmate.

The program is a cooperative effort between the TDCJ "80 John" Wallace Unit, Representative Junell, Tom Green County Juvenile Probation and the San Angelo Independent School District.

Approximately 20 San Angelo students will take a one-day field trip to the Wallace Unit to experience "a day in the life of a Texas prison inmate".

The first group of students to participate in the program will be at the Wallace Unit Wednesday, March 20.

During the day, students will follow a schedule similar to TDCJ prisoners, which will include work detail, monitored movements, 20-minute meals, and tours of the cell blocks. In addition, students will hear personal remarks from selected inmates incarcerated at the prison.

All related costs are being paid by Rep. Junell.

Graham said that Trooper Negri has never been reprimanded during his two and a half years with the agency. During a chase in 1994, Negri was off duty when he reported a speeding vehicle. He then went home, changed into his uniform and police car. With the time involved he was not part of the chase and was 12 miles behind the victim when the fatal accident occurred.

The sergeant also answered the accusation that emergency workers at the scene of the accident were critical of Negri. Graham said that he has interviewed the ambulance employees who have said that Negri only followed standard procedure of notifying them if an accident victim has been put under arrest.

Wendell Alford, Mitchell County Hospital Administrator said, "From the standpoint of the Mitchell County Hospital District and the ambulance service, the procedures that were enacted followed appropriate protocol."

According to State Comptroller John Sharp, sales tax rebates to date in 1996 are higher than last year's comparable payment period. Sharp also reported that the Texas economy continues to outpace that of the nation as a whole.

Mitchell County enjoyed part of that growth as it saw an increase of 38 percent in sales tax rebates for this payment period. The county receives $12,872 for this payment period.

Colorado City received a rebate of $28,690.11 which is nearly a 50 percent increase over last year's payment for the same period. Payments to date for 1996 total $95,089.15, which is a 4.7 percent jump over last year.

Loraine residents seem to have spent more at home. Their rebate received was $519.35 as compared to a payment of $307.30 last year.

Unfortunately, Westbrook did not fare as well. The town saw a six percent drop in their rebate compared to last year at this time. The payment received this period totaled $939.77.

Surrounding towns felt a boost in sales tax rebates. Sweetwater's payment increased over 30 percent from last year. Snyder and Lamesa also noticed a definite increase of 22 and 26 percent respectively. Big Spring received a payment of $243,792.27. The increase over last year's rebate was nearly 10 percent.

To the citizens of Nolan, Mitchell and Fisher Counties...
A FAIR TRADE?
Shall we trade Frank Conard, a fighting district attorney with a tough reputation as a prosecutor for a young man with virtually no experience either in defending or prosecuting criminal or civil cases?
In four years in Sweetwater, Frank's opponent, Mark Edwards, has apparently tried only a couple of minor district court civil cases and no criminal cases to a jury. Edwards' record as an assistant district attorney in San Angelo shows only 3 felony jury trials, one of which was reversed on appeal and one of which resulted in a not guilty verdict.
In short, Frank has had more jury trial experience in six months than his opponent has had in his entire career in the three towns where he has lived.
Frank Conard is a strong man who has served his nation and his state honorably and consistently throughout his adult life, as a paratrooper in the U.S. Army's Special Forces, as a no-nonsense law enforcement officer and, for the past seven years, as a fighting district attorney.
Do we really want to trade a stong prosecutor with a solid record of accomplishment and service for a brash-talking young man whose campaign has been built on negative attack ads and half truths?
Let's keep a strong prosecutor in office and re-elect Frank Conard district Attorney.
This ad was prepared by friends and supporters of Frank W. Conard.

Loraine News

By BESSIE ANN VAUGHN

Greetings from Loraine.

In days past this dry weather might have been just something to bring up during idle chit-chat but it's a mighty serious thing to talk about now. Every day that goes by without rain creates a bleaker picture for farmers, ranchers and gardeners.

We all know that when farmers and ranchers don't do well in this part of the country, then neither do the rest of us for very long. A domino effect sets in and touches us all.

I'm certainly not an omnipotent seer or advisor but I know we must "keep the faith" and keep on talking to the "maker of rain".

It will rain again, we just hope it's sooner than later.

Bro. Dan Marshall, pastor at First Baptist Church in Loraine, along with his nine-month-old son, Treston, came down to visit and eat with us last Friday.

I sat across the table from Treston and really enjoyed watching him eat. (He's slowly being introduced to foods other than jarred baby food.)

He really is cute and very pleasant to be around.

Senior Center News

Last Wednesday it was good to have Darlene Hamrick come in to visit and have lunch at the center. She said she planned to spend her time between Loraine, Oklahoma and Nevada during the year, so this means she will be around town quite a lot.

We celebrated St. Patrick's Day last Friday and had fun. Everybody who wore green was eligible to take part in a drawing. Blondie Hamilton was the winner of a nice cassette tape of the Roscoe Pot Bellied Band.

Those forgetting to wear green were fined .25 to go toward the nutritional program.

Last week Joan Long had three very pretty granddaughters visit her while at the center...and while we speak of granddaughters, Brittany Sadler, another very pretty girl, was with her grandparents, J.A. and Y. Sadler.

* * *

Recent visitors have been Bertie Colson from Sweetwater, Billie Derryberry, Odessa, and Mrs. Tillison, who says she will come again.

Recent memorials made to the center in memory of loved ones honor J.C. Barkley, Lula Lafevre and Trinidad Chavez.

When you come to the birthday party lunch Wednesday the 27th, please look at the place cards (or name cards) that Iva Armstrong made. She is always making something nice for the special table but these are extra cute.

"Charlie, I told you your mother wasn't sick! We put up with seven days of moaning and groaning and me waiting on her hand and foot.

"Anytime anyone is persistent about wearing "ear-bobs" the same color as her gown they can't be very sick.

"She had the hospital room smelling like her "Passion" perfume and every time the doctor went in to check on her he started coughing."

Wilma and Charlie had worked out a plan on how to make Mama Myrtle want to go home and as soon as they took her home from the hospital they put it into action.

Wilma said, "Mama Myrtle, lunch will be ready in 30 minutes and I want the three of us to eat at the table together for a change."

In no time, Wilma was ringing a little crystal dinner bell and the three of them gathered at the table.

Eating fast, Charlie kept asking for more meat patties and so did Mama Myrtle.

Wilma said, "Mama, I'm so glad you like the rattlesnake meat. It tastes a lot like chicken, don't you think?"

Mama started coughing, choking, spitting, and her face turned red, but Wilma, ignoring her, said that the next morning they would have snake and eggs. She added that they had 22 lbs. of snake meat they had to eat.

Mama left the table and in no time was fully dressed and had her bags packed. She told the children she felt so good she wanted to go home. Charlie and Wilma made eye contact and smiled.

As Mama was leaving, Wilma handed her a brown paper bag.

"Just in case you get hungry on the bus," she said, "I made you a sandwich."

. . . Three Wolves headed to State Meet

"We had an excellent meet," said powerlifting coach Larry Hartwick. "I could not have asked for a better effort from these guys," he added.

At the meet, Marcus Sanchez set the super heavyweight bench press record by pressing 355 pounds. Dan Morgan also tied a meet record with a 210 pound bench press in the 123 pound division.

Micah Brannan, 290 squat, 150 bench, 300 deadlift, 740 total for third place in the 114 lb. class. Dan Morgan, 285 squat, 210 bench, 330 deadlift, 825 total, fourth place in the 123 lb. class. Jerry Melendez, 450 squat, 300 bench, 400 deadlift, 1,150 total, fourth in the 274 lb. class.

Stedman Jones, 370 squat, 275 bench, 530 deadlift, 1,175 total for second place in the 198 lb. class. Marcus Sanchez, 500 squat, 355 bench, 510 deadlift, 1,365 for second in SHW. Zack Love, 475 squat, 325 bench, 500 deadlift, 1,300 total for first place in the 275 lb. class.

"I would like to thank everyone who helped with powerlifting this year," said Coach Hartwick. "I would also like to personally thank T.C. Love for his time and effort this year.

Qualifying for the state meet were Zack Love, Marcus Sanchez and Stedman Jones. Micah Brannan is an alternate.

The state meet will be in Houston on Saturday, March 30.

"Forever In Our Hearts"

We weep not, she's just gone on ahead
We don't think of her as being dead.
She's out of sight for a little while,
And we'll miss her touch and her wonderful smile.
But we know she is safe in the Home above
Where there is nothing but Peace and Love
And we would not deny her peace,
For we are glad she has found release.
We think of her as a soul that is free--
