Six Of Eleven Members On Wickersham Commission In Favor Of Change In Prohibition Amendment

(By The Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, Jan. 20. — The long-debated report of the Wickersham commission, broadly upholding constitutional prohibition but leaving the door ajar for basic revision, was put on the crowded calendar of a divided congress today by President Hoover.

The president agreed with the commission that the Dray amendment should not be repealed. He disagreed with a suggestion that revision might be the better part of wisdom. He pointed out to the lawmakers that all the commissioners favored large expansion of enforcement facilities, and said he hoped congress would consider that at some appropriate time.

Sets Off Explosions

The arrival of the report on capital hill set off explosions there that promised to be heard in the next election.

Senator Borah of Idaho, an advocate of prohibition, said repeal or no reepal of the Eighteenth amendment was the issue and demanded that it be taken to the people.

"I should like to see those opposed to the Eighteenth amendment present their alternative and let the people choose between them in an orderly and proper fashion," he said.

Senator Blaine, Republican, Wisconsin, an opponent of the dry law, introduced a resolution for a substitute prohibition amendment similar to that the commission out-

The slain witness was Mrs. Maude Martin, sister of Mrs. Esther Nidiffer, 18-year-old wife who died following an illegal operation. Miss Sullivan said she received only $85 for the killing which she was hired to do by Paul Jones, a bootlegger, who in turn was hired by Dr. S. A. Brainard, charged with the murder of Mrs. Nidiffer the operation victim.

Sterling Introduced By Dan Moody Before Crowd Of Ten Thousand Persons; Edgar Witt Also Takes Oath

(By The Associated Press)

AUSTIN, Jan. 20.—Ross S. Sterling of Houston, wealthy newspaper publisher, builder and former oil man, today became Governor Sterling, chief executive of Texas.

As if the fates which had sided him from a barefoot farmer boy to his present position of wealth and power were still with him, the weather was ideal for the inauguration ceremony. The exercises were held on an improvised platform in front of the capitol, before and around which 10,000 or more of Mr. Sterling's admirers crowded.

Introduced by Moody.

Governor Sterling was introduced by Dan Moody, the retiring governor, who was inaugurated on the same spot four years ago. The oath was administered at 12:20 o'clock this afternoon by C. M. Cureton chief justice of the supreme court. A few minutes earlier Judge Cureton had administered the oath to Edgar E. Witt of Waco, new lieutenant governor.

Two former governors, W. P. Hobby, who is associated with Governor Sterling on the Houston Post-Dispatch, and Pat M. Neff, at present chairman of the railroad commission, were on the platform. The

Three Hundred Men And Women Raid Grocery In Oklahoma City; Mob Is Dispersed By Police With Tear Gas

(By The Associated Press)

OKLAHOMA CITY, Jan. 20. — Three hundred men and women who shouted they were hungry and jobless raided a grocery store near the city hall here today.

Twenty-six of the men were arrested. Several hours later scores of men loitered near the city jail, well out of range of the fire hose lines made ready in case of another disturbance.

The grocery was entered shortly after noon by a throng of more than 300 unemployed who just had left the city hall, nearby, where leaders demanded of City Manager E M. Fry that city authorities furnish them with immediate relief.

They disregarded efforts of H. A. Shaw, store manager, to quiet them in a play for time to prevent damage, leaders shouting "it is too late to try to bargain with us." Then they raided the shelves.

Police hastily assembled emergency squads at the scene and dispersed the crowd around the store with tear gas.

Only those who were trapped in the wrecked store were arrested. Five women among them were released.

Windows of the store were smashed as the demonstrators attempted to flee.

One Dead And Five Held In Robbery Trap

Hammond, Ind., Police Are Tipped Off Of Proposed Robbery Of Money Truck; One Crashes To Death

(By The Associated Press)

HAMMOND, Ind., Jan. 20. (AP)—Hammond police today set a trap for a gang of bandits they expected to attempt the robbery of a bank money truck. When the trap closed one unidentified man was dead; five others, alleged members of the gang, had been arrested, and the plot frustrated.

Tipped in advance of the intended robbery, police sent the money truck, enroute to Chicago escorted by three squad cars.

Bandits Surrender.

Shortly after the truck left the First Trust and Savings bank of Hammond, loaded with worthless paper instead of the $50,000 to $60,000 it usually carries, a touring car without license out in behind. The police car trailing in the fear immediately shot ahead forcing the bandits to the curb. They surrendered without a shot.

As the entourage proceeded on, a red sedan drove in front of the truck, apparently to intercept it. Recognizing the accompanying police car, the driver sped on. A police car started pursuit. After a chase of about 20 blocks bullets from one of the police guns punctured a tire, causing the bandit's car to turn over at a high rate of speed crash into a building. The driver, his skull crushed, was killed.

Three men were arrested in the first car. They gave their names, as John McCarty, 35 years old; Charles Murphy, 38, and Albert Willardo 33, all of Chicago. Ashley Schultx, 30, and George Spencer, 29, both of Chicago, were arrested later at Whiting.

Dispose Of Four Criminal Cases

Four criminal cases were disposed of by juries in the 99th district court Tuesday when one man was given a suspended sentence, another sent to jail and two to the state penitentiary.

Lonnie Patterson was found guilty by a jury on a charge of forgery and passing, was given a three year term in the state penitentiary.

Joe Anderson, accused of the theft of chickens, was found guilty and given six months in the county jail.

Last case for the day was that of A. Lopez, on a charge of violation of the prohibition law. Lopez was given a year in prison.

Children Burn To Death When Home Is Razed

Bodies Of Two Child Victims Found In Ashes Of Small House; Mother Away From Home At Time

(By Associated Press)

BEAUMONT, Jan. 20.—Two children of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Graham were burned to death when their one room home was destroyed by fire at Vidor, six miles east of here. The children were Frank, jr., aged 2, and John J., age one. Their bodies were found in the ashes after the house had burned to the ground.

Mrs. Graham had gone to the home of Mrs. Albert Johnson, about 100 feet away, leaving the children in the house. A gasoline heater was burning. About ten minutes later Mrs. Graham noticed cars in front of her home and a disturbance among the crowd. She ran out and saw her home afire, the flames bursting from the windows.

Hears Children

R. J. Plaisance, who operates a small store about a block away, was first to reach the house. He kicked in the front door, and the flames shot out. It was too late to prevent the fire from destroying the house. He said he heard a noise in the house when he ran on the porch, apparently that of the children running around in the room.

The bodies were removed from the ruins. The youngest child's body was found near the gasoline heater in the center of the room. The body of Frank, Jr., was found under the bed.

The father, who is a trapper, was away from home.

Johnson Slaying Case Probed By Grand Jury

BEAUMONT, Jan. 20. (AP) — The Jefferson county grand jury investigated the case of A. B. Johnson, who killed Ottis Lee Adams, all day today, and recessed this afternoon until Friday without making a report.

The recess was interpreted unofficially as meaning the inquiry had been rounded out, but a grand juror, asked if that was true, replied he could not "say anything."

The body was ready to make a report of some nature—possibly not connected with the slaying—on one occasion, it was learned, but did not do so because District Judge R. L. Murray already had gone to his home in Port Arthur.

"Live At Home" Keynote Of Talk; Raising Of Own Feed And Food Urged By Incoming Chief Executive

(By The Associated Press)

AUSTIN, Jan. 20.—Governor Ross Sterling in his inaugural address today characterized agriculture as the "back bone of civilization," and said that Texans, through development of agriculture and other natural resources, should first start building Texas.

He hammered home a message on farm relief. He said it could best be attained by relieving Texas farmers and stockmen of their terrible tax burdens.

"Live At Home"

"Live at home," was a keynote in his message on farm relief.

Governor Sterling said farm relief by legislation seemed a difficult undertaking.

In this live at home plan he said the farmer should be encouraged to raise his own feed and food. His children should be given the best educational advantages. Harmony in the home, on the farm, as he emphasized harmony in state affairs, so that farmers and farmers' families would be content to live on and love the farm, was another high light of his speech.

"Thus can Texas be made a greater agricultural state, and thus

Long Hunt By Men And Planes Reveals Body Of Lubbock Publisher

Mr. And Mrs. Charles A. Guy Found Safe After Being Missing Nearly Two Days

LINVILLE HERBERT QUINN, 32, publisher of the Lubbock Avalanche-Journal publications was found dead shortly after 5 o'clock yesterday afternoon on the Tom Ivey ranch in Yoakum county, about eighty miles southwest of Lubbock.

He had been missing since Sunday afternoon when he and Mr. and Mrs. Charles A. Guy left Lubbock for an automobile trip into Cochran county. Mr. and Mrs. Guy were found about 11 o'clock yesterday morning, having been missing almost forty-eight hours.

Body Is Found Face Downward

The body of Mr. Quinn was found face downward by Hurley Sampson and Aaron Morris, cowboys on the Ivey ranch, climaxing a search of more than twenty-four hours which led rescue parties over a wide expanse of sand hill territory in Cochran and Yoakum counties. Ten planes and scores of Lubbock and South Plains automobiles participated in the search.

Physicians who examined the body attributed the death to heart failure with exhaustion a contributing factor. Freezing, which at first was believed the cause of the death, later was discredited. It was believed that Mr. Quinn did not move after falling into the sand.

Mr. Quinn was last seen alive at 6:40 o'clock Sunday afternoon. He left the Guy car, in which the three made the trip, in an effort to obtain aid after the car became stuck in the deep sand.

Starts Out For Windmill

The party sighted a windmill about three or four miles away. Mr. Quinn left about dusk hoping to sight a light from a ranch house from the top of the mill and seek to obtain aid. His tracks indicated that he reached the windmill but became lost after that and wandered aimlessly for hours. He was believed to have died early Monday morning.

Searchers who later picked up the tracks estimated that he walked twenty-five or thirty miles, walking in a circle and crossing his path several times. At one time he is thought to have been in a quarter of a mile from the Ivey ranch headquarters.

When found the body was about ten miles from the automobile and half a mile from the ranch headquarters. It was about ten miles north of Plains.

The body was brought to Lubbock last night in a Rix-Sanders ambulance. No funeral arrangements were announced.

After Mr. Quinn failed to return to the car, Mr. and Mrs. Guy started out walking Monday but returned to the car after walking only about two miles. They spent Sunday and Monday nights in the automobile, without fire, food or water. Tuesday morning they again started out. After walking some four miles Mrs. Guy fainted. She was revived shortly however and they walked about two miles farther when they were met by Mrs. John Robertson, a ranchwoman who had not heard of the search. She took the stranded victims in her car until they met Poole Earnest and Ted Lefner.

Return With Body

Mr. Guy returned with the other two men to get the car out of the sand while Mrs. Guy was taken to Whiteface where she was given food and sent to Lubbock. Mr. Guy remained and joined the searchers of Mr. Quinn. He, Jed Rix, and Bill McMillan accompanied the body to Lubbock.

Mr. and Mrs. Guy were ordered to bed after their arrival here. Although suffering from hunger and exposure and shock over the death of their companion their conditions were held not serious.

Fear began to be felt for the safety of the missing trio Monday morning when no trace of them could be found. They had planned to return by 6:30 o'clock Sunday night. As hours passed without word of the three, Dr. Sam Dunn, brother-in-law of Mr. Guy, and T. B. Duggan, jr., chartered a plane with Jimmie Cole at the controls. A thorough, but futile search was made of southern Cochran county. Later an automobile containing Guy Hughes, C. W. Ratliff, and Charles Watson of the Avalanche-Journal staff left to continue the search.

Searchers Organize

Monday night another rescue party was organized, headed by Fred Snyuer, landowner of that section, Chief of Police John Lemond and others familiar with the territory to be searched. Another posse left Lubbock at 4:30 o'clock Tuesday morning and additional cars joined the cause throughout the day. The searchers, spreading fanwise across sections of the territory, scoured it minutely until forced to give up the hunt until daylight Tuesday. A majority of those included in the party anxiously awaited the coming of daylight at the ranch of Tom Duggan and at what is known as the Gourd Vine camp. Others drove into Lubbock for additional help, the search being continued about 6:30 a. m. yesterday.

With arrival yesterday of additional men for the hunt, a more thorough canvass of the country was inaugurated. The ground party was enhanced by the addition of five army planes from Fort Sill, Oklahoma, who answered a call for aid and took up the hunt. With the five ships from Fort Sill a total of ten planes were engaged, three being local ships and two others from Fort Bliss at El Paso.

Search Intensified

Shortly before noon Tuesday members of the automobile searching party started to abandon the hunt to airplanes but leaders decided to make one last trip through the sand hill country which had not been visited before. En route to this part of the area the car, bearing Mrs. Guy and Mrs. Robertson, was met by those in the party. Mrs. Guy told the story of two long nights of watchful waiting in the automobile when she and her husband looked anxiously for Mr. Quinn's return.

Following the discovery of two of those missing the search in Yoakum and Cochran counties was in-

Phantoms Of Gay Life Of Clara Bow Paraded Before Jury In Theft Case

(By The Associated Press)

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 20. — Phantoms of the gay life of Clara Bow, boy friends, liquor and poker, paraded before a jury of elderly men and women today as the taking of testimony in the trail of Daisy De Boe of grand theft charges came to an end and counsel launched closing arguments.

The case was expected to be given to the jurors tomorrow afternoon and may send the former secretary of filmdom's dashing red head to the penitentiary for one to 10 years or free her of the alleged theft of $15,300 from Clara. If convicted, she also might receive probation.

David Clark, chief prosecutor, in a brief opening argument, accused Miss De Boe of deliberate perjury. While she went everywhere with the actress under the guise of a companion, Clark said, "she was in reality a thief, stealing from Miss Bow right and left."

"If you believe Miss Boe's testimony," he concluded, "then

SAN ANTONIO, Jan. 20.—Testimony that they had been kept virtual prisoners by their manager and guardian, Myer Myers, and his wife was given here today by Violet and Daisy Hilton, Siamese twins, in their suit for a receivership and accounting of property against Myers. They said they had not been allowed to keep any of the money they earned.

Mrs. Myers told a dramatic story of the history of the twins from the time they were placed in her arms when five days old until they left her in December. She denied the girls had been restrained and said she permitted them to have company and often left them alone. They could have left at any time, she said. She denied she ever heard Myers threaten to place the girls in an insane asylum or have them deported.

J. B. Austin, traffic manager for the Al G. Barnes circus, said he had known Myers for some time and that Myers had taken the twins from carnival

Prince Louis, Dictator Of World's Smallest Nation, Is Now Ruling Monaco With Army Of 100 Men, One Cannon

By NEA SERVICE

MONTE CARLO, Jan. 20.—Prince Louis II, ruler of the trouble-torn principality of Monaco, is quite at home in his new role of dictator, even though he has only 100 soldiers and one cannon with which to enforce his policies.

The 60-year-old soverign of the world's smallest country, who temporarily put on end to the recent political uprising by suspending the nation's legislative bodies is well trained in the art of military rule, having distinguished himself in 30 years' service as a soldier of France.

When Prince Louis ascended to his late father's throne in 1922, he held the rank of brigadier general in the French army. He was exceedingly popular with his fellow officers because of his bravery and his unaffected simplicity and comradeship.

It was in the French Foreign Legion that Prince Louis first won the appreciation of France. He was famed for his gallantry in military operations in northern Africa which were necessary to bring the Sultanates of Morocco and Tunis under French domination and to put down uprisings among fierce border tribes of southern Algeria.

The prince, an able horseman, spent much of his time in the saddle and won promotion in rank. He also advanced in the various higher grades of the Order of the Legion of Honor, not as an honor bestowed upon a member of a reigning house, but as a daring soldier.

During the World War, he won acclaim as a French cavalry officer, taking part in many engagements, including the fierce battles at Verdun. At the time he became Monaco's ruler, he was serving on the staff of the French commander of the allied troops stationed in Silesia for the purpose of preserving peace between the Poles and the Germans.

Monaco is situated on the Mediterranean near Nice and has a population of 25,000 and an area of only eight square miles. The entire country could be set down within the confines of Chicago's business district with plenty of room to spare.

The nation's residents, both subjects and foreigners, pay hardly any taxes. Virtually all bills are paid by the income from Monte Carlo gambling concessions, which runs from $250,000 to $500,000 annually. This has been the enviable situation since 1869 when Charles III abolished all taxation in the kingdom.

The famous gambling houses draw patrons from all over the world but inhabitants of Monaco are forbidden to enter them.

When Louis became ruler in 1922, he did away with as much regal pomp and ceremony as possible.

Although the country derives its support from Monte Carlo, Prince Louis is opposed to gambling and extravagance. As soon as he could arrange affairs of state he deserted the palace and since has been an absentee ruler, prefering to spend most of his time on his estate near Paris. He enjoys traveling and hunting and spends many pleasant evenings chatting with old army comrades.

Typical of his simplicity is the bedroom of his palace, where he lives when in Monaco. Over a hard military couch hangs his most cherished possesisons, the hat of Napoleon Bonaparte.

The prince is wealthy, owning mining interests in Belgium as well as millions of dollars worth of investments in England and the United States, but he has known the pinch of poverty.

While serving as a soldier, he was forced to content himself with an exceedingly restricted income owing to strained relations with his father, the late Prince Albert, who had married Lady Mary Douglas Hamilton, daughter of the English Duke of Hamilton in 1869.

After the birth of Louis in 1870, Lady Mary and Albert quarreled violently and the mother was obliged to leave Monaco and carry her two-year-old son to Italy, and later to Germany. Russia and England, where he spent many years of his boyhood.

When he was 18 and stationed with the French army in Algeria he fell in love with an extremely pretty young girl, Juliette Louvet, of French peasant parentage, and married her. A year later she gave birth to a daughter, who received the name of Charlotte.

The young prince's father, however, refused to recognize the marriage. Later difficulties were settled when Louis' wife relinquished her claim to the child. Not long ago, Prince Louis proclaimed Charlotte's son, Prince Ranier, as heir to the throne.

EASY TO REMEMBER

J. Edd McLaughlin of the Security State bank at Ralls, has a motor car tag that is easy to remember. Edd by some hook or crook, has a tag with four "7's" in a row behind the letter. Now comes Percy Ralls, who has tried to get the "8's" but so far his efforts are unsuccessful.

McCLURE ELECTED

Directors of the Ralls Chamber of Commerce met Monday night and after electing Jap McClure as president, began to try and get the new president to name his committees. Jap demurred, but did go so far as to announce one committee chairman." Perce Ralls will be chairman of the committee on planting blue grass on the municipal park lawn, announced the new president.

VOLUNTEER FLOWER GARDEN

Jack Suits, genial editor of Lorenzo's palladium of liberty known as the Tribune, has a volunteer flower garden on the east side of his printing office. Jack planted a flower garden two years ago, but failed to do so last year. The flowers came up anyhow and now Jack says they are starting on their second volunteer year.

LEFT HANDED CHAMP

Jodie Swift, of Post, champion left hander golfer of the South Plains, has issued an invitation or a challenge to all left handed followers of the Scotch game to meet him, "come one, come all." Jodie has painted his clubs a brilliant red. He says that that type of club makes him all the more distinctive on the golf links and that he is able to compete in color combination with the Scotch plaid of "go easy" McPherson, Post's best dressed golfer.

SOME CIGAR!

Bruce Spencer, the pleasant dispensor of pharmaceutical products at Ralls, has a new smoke, that he is dispensing. "We are selling half a foot for five cents" he declared. By actual measurement, the five cent cigar measures six and three eights inches long. So far, the new smoke has gone over in first class shape.

Indiana Digs Up A Mastodon

If you had lived several million years ago in what is now Indiana, probably you would have met monsters like the one shown above, for near Cromwell, Ind., scientists are now digging up the bones of a recently discovered mastodon. Dr. Ira Edwards, of the Milwaukee public museum, is shown with a leg bone almost as big as a man's body, Donovan Harper, 10-year-old farm boy, is holding an eight-pound molar tooth which he found while playing in an old bog on Charles Feldheiser's farm and which led to the discovery of the huge skeleton. The picture of a mastodon, loaned by the Field Museum, Chicago, showns what these great mammoths looked like.

Interpretation Of Report Is Bearish

NEW YORK, Jan. 20. (AP) — The Wickersham report caught the stock market on the rise today, and what speculation interpretation was placed upon it if any, was apparently bullish.

At least one issue seemed to gain a foreward impetus from the report. National distillers products, which had moved narrowly for several weeks, shot up $3.62 a share and closed up $3, net, at a price of $34. The company owns the American Medicon Spirits Co., which is engaged in making and selling distilled medical spirits to druggists under government perimt.

The non-alcoholic beaverage, or soft drink stocks, were strong along with the general market, but the only out-and-out whisky stock enjoying an active market in New York was apathetic. Hiram Walker, Canadian distillery issue traded on the curb market, closed at 8.37 a share, a gain of 25 cents, but only 800 shares were traded.

Gifford Pinchot Becomes Governor

HARRISBURG, Pa., Jan. 20. (AP) —Gifford Pinchot, aggressive independent Republican who was elected governor of Pensylvania despite defections in the ranks of the regular Republican organization, was inaugurated amid picturesque ceremonies today.

Wearing his battered brown campaign fedora, he drove with the retiring chief executive, John S. Fisher, from the executive mansion to the capitol in an open victoria of the vintage of 1899, drawn by two white horses.

In a characteristic speech he reiterated his attacks on the public utilities which he accused throughout his campaign of attempting to dominate the government.

Slaton Plans Auction Sales

Chamber Of Commerce To Hold Free Events In Connection With Monthly Sales Day For Next Three Months

(By Staff Correspondent)

SLATON, Jan. 20.—To stimulate business in Slaton and also to meet the present contingency, the Slaton Chamber of Commerce has planned for a series of free auction sales in connection with a monthly sales day for the next three months.

Action to this effect was taken by the board of directors at the meeting Tuesday night when plans were started for the sales. The decision came after a thorough discussion of the program.

Dates Announced

Dates as announced for the auction and sales are: Monday, January 26; Monday, February 16 and Monday, March 2.

Clarence Johnson will be the auctioneer. No charge is to be made for his services.

"Our sales probably will be held on the east side of the city square," J. Payne, secretary of the chamber of commerce said. "We are hopeful of having a large number of people who will participate in the sales."

The directors also decided to make plans for the organization of a municipal band, provided the services of a competent bandmaster can be obtained at a reasonable price.

Director Davis, of Lubbock, who is head of the Slaton High school band and also teacher of band music in the school, has been mentioned as the possible leader.

Slaton formerly had a band organization with a number of citizens as members. The work was a popular one for many years and the band established a reputation over this section of the South Plains, local business men state.

Loss Keenly Felt

Directors in discussing the organization of the band said they had felt keenly the loss of the group and also were of the opinion that another band could be organized at this time that would become popular with residents of the territory.

It is expected that at the next meeting a definite report will be made on the organization and the obtaining of a director.

Considerable time also was devoted to the discussion of state designation for the highway connecting Slaton and Idalou and Slaton and Tahoka. This was a resumption of an old issue that had not been active for some time.

There is a county highway between Slaton and Idalou, some 15 miles away. The roadway is 60 feet wide and the county has built and is keeping in good condition a county road, a part of the Lubbock county system.

South to the Lynn county line there is also a county road and Lynn has built and is keeping up a highway into Tahoka, 20 miles south and west. Wilson also is reached from Slaton over this road.

It is planned to make an attempt to obtain state designation of this road. The necessary additional right of way can be obtained, it is believed.

Election of five new directors out of a list of 15 named by the members at a recent meeting, may be taken up at the next meeting, it was indicated. Next meeting will be January 27.

Governor Moody said Judge Brucks was indicted by a grand jury for driving while drunk. The indictment was quashed and the issues of fact were not submitted to a jury, the governor said. Relief from Gas Stomach Pains Dizziness

The doctors tell us that 90 per cent of all sickness is due to stomach and bowel troubles. You can't be well if your digestion is bad; you are likely to get sick unless you relish food and digest it properly.

Tanlac has a wonderful record as a relief from digestive troubles, even those of years' standing.

Mr. L. B. Simmons, of 1434½ Larimer St., Denver, Colo., says: "Tanlac made me relish and digest my food fine. It also cured me of gas, dizzy spells and nervousness. Now I sleep well and can put in as good a day's work as a youngster."

If you suffer from gas, pains in the stomach or bowels, dizziness, nausea, constipation, or torpid liver; if you have no appetite, can't sleep and are nervous and all run down, you need Tanlac. It is good, pure medicine, made of roots, herbs and barks. Get a bottle from your druggist today. Money back if it doesn't help you

Interlocking Project Used

Construction Started On New Automatic System At Crossing Of Santa Fe And Fort Worth And Denver Lines

(By Staff Correspondent)

SLATON, Jan. 20. —Construction has started at Lubbock on what is said to be one of the first, if not the first automatic interlocking systems installed on Texas railroads at the Fort Worth and Denver South Plains crossing of the Panhandle and Santa Fe tracks, several miles south of Lubbock.

In fact, so new is the automatic interlocking device in this section of the country that before the Railroad Commission of Texas would give formal approval to the project it sent its chief engineer, L. A. Gueringer, to the east where he studied the plans for several weeks.

Operates by Electricity

The interlocking device will be operated by electricity. It is a brand new project, but has been successfully operated on eastern roads for several years.

"It is the latest thing in interlocking systems," one railroad official explained. "We don't know much about its operation yet. There will not be any man connected with the handling of the device, all of it being operated by electricity."

The installation was approved a month or two ago by the state railroad commission after considerable study. Previously it had approved a plan for the control of the interlocking system from the Santa Fe passenger depot in Lubbock.

W. H. Rife, division signal engineer, is supervising the construction. The cost is being appropriated between the two roads, the crossover road paying for the installation and the other road doing the construction work.

APPEAL DISMISSED

WASHINGTON, Jan. 20 (AP) — Appeal of the Bain Peanut company and others of Tarrant county challenging validity of the Texas statute under which a suit for alleged breach of contract was tried in Comanche county, Texas, instead of Tarrant county, was dismissed today by the supreme court for want of a properly presented federal question.

Increase Seen For Business

Installation Of New 29-Hour Service Between Ft. Worth And Dallas And South Plains Is Held Reason

(By Staff Correspondent)

SLATON, Jan. 20.—Insctallation of the new 29 hour service between Fort Worth and Dallas and the South Plains distribution center at Lubbock, has resulted in an increase of merchandise business, according to railroad officials here.

"We have had a nice little increase in business at Lubbock and Slaton," one official said. "There also has been more merchandise handled for the Lamesa district and for the branches out of Lubbock the Seagraves, Bledsoe and Crosbyton branches."

Officials said they would not state whether the increase in business was due to some being taken away from competing lines or because of an increase in general merchandise purchasing.

"I would not state that we were or were not taking business from our competitors," the same official said. "I will say this, that it seems to me there is a more general purchasing of merchandise lately than for some time. I believe that our merchants are beginning to buy more stocks than they have been doing recently."

American mixed feeds for livestock are now used in 50 countries.

Three Culture Clubs Meet Tuesday Afternoon In Regular Programs

The Woman's Angle

BY BLANCHE E. BEAN
Avalanche Woman's Editor

ONE OF the most disgusting things that has occurred recently has been the trial of Daisy De Boe and the sensational charges that she has made against Clara Bow. Whether or not the charges are true, I can't see that they are a part of the trial. So far, one cannot determine which of the two young women is on trial and the revelations have more the appearances of scandal to satisfy a gullible public than anything else.

FOR HOUSEWIVES

HERE IS an idea: In St. Louis, Mo., housewives have formed an association to aid in answering the door bell. One ring means solicitor or salesmen, two, mailmen and delivery, three, visitors and four rings, an appointment.

OUR FLOWER

THE OTHER day I learned something that I had not known before. That is that Lubbock has a flower — the red verbena. Since I had never heard of it before, I asked some questions and was informed that some clubs had selected the flower.

That is something we should all know. Verbenas are not hard to grow and they can symbolize the town as well as anything else.

We are growing more conscious of beauty out here. The garden club is stimulating interest in flowers and trees and landscaping, which might not otherwise flourish. The club here is young but it has some worthy plans. A better gardens contest and a flower show for next summer and the planting of more trees. Organization into a club is assisting people other than the members because those who are in the organization have made it possible for information to be centralized and later disseminated among the people, such as formulas for soil preparation and fertilization.

FOR THE LINOLEUM

LINOLEUMS that are hard to keep clean may be refinished so that the problem is simplified. First, they should be scrubbed thoroughly. White shellac should then be applied and when the coat is dry another should be brushed on. When this is dry, wax floor polish can be applied and then the linoleum can be easily cleansed by wiping with a damp cloth.

FOR OUR SOILS

BEFORE long, people in the section should have more success in growing a variety of plants here. Prof. H. J. Bower, of Texas Technological college, has just been down to discuss soils and fertilization. He is going to make some more tests soon to determine the exact alkilinity of the soils and this information will be available to the people of the section.

The reason that plants imported from the East are hard to grow in Lubbock is that the soil here is alkiline and these plants are acclimated to an acid soil. So acid must be added to the soil here to make a neutral or slightly acid condition, he said. Roses, particularly need this acidity.

There are several ways of securing this condition. The easiest is to cultivate turnips. They may be planted in the fall when the garden plants die and then chopped into the soil when the tops are luxuriant. This same plan may be followed now, since the turnip season has passed, by planting rape seed. This is a cabbage-like plant and the leaves should be chopped into the soil while they are green.

Since there is so little rain in this section, the leaves that fall in the autumn do not decay rapidly enough to be satisfactory. However any green leaves will aid materially as they decay more rapidly, Mr. Bower said. Leaf mold may be imported but it is a more expensive process and ammonium sulphate may be sprinkled on the soil although quantities necessary vary in the different sections.

The growth of legumes, which thrive in an alkaline soil, are good for the soil and may be used in a plant rotation process, Mr. Bower suggested. Cotton seed fertilize the soil but do not aid in neutralizing the alkalinity, he said.

Carrots might serve as well as turnips in creating the soil condition.

CHARM CHATS

by Nancy Earle

» Noted Authority and Writer on Health, Charm and Beauty. «

(Miss Earle will be in Lubbock January 26 to 29)

If Venus de Milo had strolled into your drawing room the other afternoon when you were entertaining at cards, what do you think would have happened?

Not Venus in her usual garb of a thoughtful expression plus a wispy nonchalent drape of scarf. But Venus in a smart afternoon gown of opaque crepe, and shoes and stockings and gloves and hat.

Do you know what would have been whispered as heads were drawn together and eyes focussed on the newcomer?

Would it have been, "Ah Venus the loveliest woman of all! How beautiful! What a perfect figure?" (Venus is said to have the most perfect figure any poet ever dreamed about, you know).

No, indeed! That isn't what would have been whispered at all.

Not an envious glance would have been cast in her direction. Not a green eye would have appraised her figure. Not a sigh of admiration. I dare say, would have emerged from any feminine heart present.

And yet the very name of Venus is synonymous with beauty. Venus remains the symbol of feminine loveliness unchallenged through the ages. Where would the discrepancy in your drawing room have occurred?

But first let me tell you what probably would have been said as this perennial grand dame entered the room. Feline heads would have bobbed together, and feline eyes would have narrowed with relief, and feline tongues would have wagged.

"Why, my dear, she's fat!"

That's the comment that would have greeted the siren of the ages.

That is to say, if she appeared in a contemporary costume involving skirt and blouse and shoes and hat and the rest of it.

But Venus has not changed. Is she not still beautifully, perfectly proportioned? Is her figure not the sculptor's ideal? Does she not embody every detail of mathematical purfection of body? Certainly not if the indictment of our drawing room guests is correct? She can't be "fat" and be the world's most perfect specimen of physical perfection.

The discrepancy lies in our own distorted conception of beauty. We have come to regard as "fat" any figure upon which the garments do not hang as from a clothes hanger. Our ideal of beauty is an almost pathological thinness. More than thinness we desire. We yearn for complete emaciation.

I am at a loss to understand this admiration for a body utterly devoid of hips and arms and legs and any other appurtenances. Certainly it violates every esthetic concept of bodily beauty, every artistic conception. It makes the wearing of clothes a mere clothes-rack affair; such a thing as fit is impossible. And certainly it places the health in extreme jeopardy.

Now I hasten to protest that I do not yearn for billows of fat. I do not think that pads upon pads of fat are lovely. Excessive fat likewise jeopardizes the health.

But I do not maintain that the body which is softly rounded, gently curved, delicately padded with flesh is more beautiful than the angular rail with only one dimension.

Aside from the artistic implications, there is a sweetly feminine quality about the soft curves of the figure that is lost in the one dimensional straight up-and-downness.

Clothes are more effective moreover upon the delicately full figure. The character of a gown is lost when it hangs lankly upon the usual bony shoulders, with no flesh to hold it in shape. The contour of the gown, the design, the individuality, is shrouded in a maze of loosely hung folds and creases and sags.

Venus wouldn't be "fat" in her new Easter frock. She would be her own beautiful self. It's only skeletons who would rattle their bones and croak "She's fat."

Leta's remember Venus and cease counting our ribs so pridefully.

Kotex is safe

That's why millions of women prefer this modern sanitary pad

BECAUSE Kotex absorbs by a scientific method, it is safer than ordinary sanitary protection. It is soft—not a deceptive softness that soon packs into chafing hardness, but a delicate, lasting softness. That's because it absorbs laterally, giving it a larger area of protection than ordinary pads.

Kotex may be worn on either side, with no possible danger of embarrassment. It is adjustable. You can remove layers of the filler as your needs change. It deodorizes, as you probably know. It gives safe, secure protection. And it is, of course, disposable.

Last year 85% of our great hospitals bought Kotex absorbent in great quantities. What a tribute to its hygienic superiority!

NANCY EARLE

BIOGRAPHY

Nancy Earle's life has been divided into three major classifications:

Cultural Training-Newspaper Columnist
Dramatics and Social Leadership
Lecture Work.

Miss Earle, the daughter of influential southern parents, was given every opportunity to develop her talents. Her early education was followed by study in leading universities which led to three college degrees. While in college Miss Earle won distinction, both in her studies and in outside activties, which included research work in fashions, dietetics, and kindred phases of work.

Because of her concrete knowledge of those things of universal interest to women she was secured by a large newspaper syndicate to pass on her knowledge to their women readers. Her articles and personal column proved of great interest to women in all parts of the country.

Dramatics and social work took a large portion of Miss Earle's time for a number of years. President and director of five women's organizations, acting and directing in Little Theatre work, professional stage work, a continuation of her newspaper articles, together with further research work in the three cornerstones of woman's life—fashions, health, and homemaking—occupied Miss Earle's time for a number of years.

On account of her exceptional groundwork and past success Miss Earle was secured to take her messages direct to the women of the United States. Her itinerary carries her to every part of the country and her talks have been the means of entertaining and helping thousands of women.

Inspiring Confidence

PUBLIC admiration and confidence are called forth by the action of the largest bank in the second city in the land in authorizing its board of directors to withdraw from the bank's $8,000,000 surplus $4,000,000 for charging off overdue paper and other accounts of doubtful value and to hold the remaining $4,000,000 as a reserve for possible contingencies.

Here is a great financial institution playing fair with the public; exacting from itself the same kind of square-dealing it demands from those to whom it extends credit. It feels that it is right and proper at this time to present to its depositors and stockholders a statement of its position similar to the statements which banks request from those borrowing money from it.

Perfect candor on both sides always makes the best business bargain, regardless of the kind of transaction. Everyone knows that many banks have been hard hit by the collapse of the bond and stock market, by deflated real estate values and by business failures and near-failures, so concealing their condition destroys rather than maintains public confidence. There never was a run on a bank of whose solvency there was no doubt.

This attitude of the banking world is so stimulating that it cannot fail to inspire public confidence. Truth is a potent antidote for the poisonous whisperings and rumors circulated about many of them, and with disastrous consequences for some.

SCARCITY OF THINKERS

The hardest job is not to teach men to believe, or to obey, or to work, but to teach them to think. That is the real purpose of every educational institution and system, and because they so often fail in that they are generally criticized.

For the same reason that rare books, antiques and original manuscripts are priceless, the man who thinks can set his own price in the business world. A few more dollars or a little better position will not set one apart from his fellows, but a little more of the ability to think makes a man a giant towering above the heads of the masses. Thought is as rare as ambergris.

Dr. Nicholas Murray Butler, president of Columbia University, explains this. Thinking, he says, men hate, because they cannot do it. They cannot do it because it is hard work, and man is mentally lazy. The hardest mental labor of the average person is remembering, which many, in their innocence mistake for thinking.

"For want of thought, he whistled as he went," wisely the immortal Bard of Avon. Legion are the whistlers.

To thought the world must give credit for most of its blessings; to lack of it it must attribute most of its ills and evils.

A little thought is a dangerous thing because only a lot of thinking will do in this complex world.

Practical Health Problems

CHILDREN SOMETIMES CONTRACT TUBERCULOSIS FROM ADULTS

BY DR. MORRIS FISHBEIN
Editor, Journal of the American Medical Association, and of Hygeia, the Health Magazine

Years ago a German investigator, basing his opinion on a tremendous number of postmortem examinations, issued a statement that practically every child became infected with tuberculosis before reaching the age of adolescence.

Modern methods of hygiene, the use of preventoriums in which malnutrition is controlled, and similar methods of study have unquestionably lowered the incidence of tuberculosis among children in most communities.

The San Francisco Tuberculosis Association, through Drs. L. B. Dickey and R. P. Seitz, has just made available the results of an examination of 3500 children in that city in an attempt to find out how prevalent tuberculosis is among boys and girls in that community.

The method used was the tuberculin test, in which small amounts of the sensitive substance is injected into the skin. Of the 3500 children tested, 824 or 23.5 per cent reacted positively.

It is the general belief that infection in childhood is probably acquired in large part by contact with cases of tuberculosis in other members of the family. Girls still spend a larger part of their time than boys in the house. They are thus exposed to more intimate contact with members of the family who suffer with tuberculosis.

Doctor Seitz believes that boys have probably just as much of a chance, because they circulate more and are more likely to come in contact with a number of people than are girls.

Similar studies made by other investigators throughout the world show an incidence of tuberculosis in children varying from 31 per cent in Iowa, to 46 per cent in Philadelphia, 50 per cent in Minneapolis, 43 per cent in New York, 75 per cent in Buenos Aires and 94 per cent in Vienna.

The authors are convinced that the most plausible explanation of the lessened amount of infection among children throughout the world is early recognition of cases of tuberculosis in adults as sources of infection and their early removal from the environment so that they no longer serve as permanent sources of infection to children who may be members of the same family.

Norris Packs Punch

BY CHARLES P. STEWART
Central Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, Jan. 20.—Whenever a wail of lamentation goes up from the reserved seat section surrounding the ring where the Muscle Shoals fight-to-the-finish has been raging for so long, one knows that the Battling Senator has just landed a wallop on the Power Trust Kid.

Not that it is a lop-sided engagement.

The kid has rather more than held his own for a dozen years, and inflicted a fair share of the punishment, too. Indeed, it would take a bold sports critic, even now, to predict that he will not outlast (that is to say, outlive) the senator, though the latter still keeps boring in.

The senator's partisans, however, have learned to take it in grim silence when the kid scores off their champion; the kid's crowd yell their horror when the senator hooks their boy on the chin.

And, for a fact, it was a stiff jolt the senator drove to his adversary's midriff the other day.

In less technical language—

The senator (Senator George W. Norris of Nebraska, as he is known in private life) succeeded in getting, at least temporarily, a compromise clause into the congressionally pending Muscle Shoals bill, providing for government construction and operation of transmission lines, to carry Tennessee river power from the Shoals to consumers—whereas the kid is fighting to keep the job of transmission in private hands.

Of course the kid fell into a clinch immediately; he tied the compromise agreement up in a lot of parliamentary tactics and no one can guess what will become of it finally. Oh, the fight is not over by any means.

Nevertheless, the kid's friends were scared for a minute. That was the explanation of all those cries of "Socialism!" "Communistic influence!" and so forth.

As most people, I think, are aware, the government launched the $150,000,000 Muscle Shoals power project on the Tennessee river (flowing mainly through Tennessee and northern Alabama), in wartime, for nitrate-fixation purposes, looking toward the production of explosives.

On the one side, private interests were eager to acquire it.

On the opposite side, certain statesmen, notably Senator Norris, wanted the government to operate it, for the Tennessee river valley public's benefit.

That's what the fight's about; it has lasted ever since.

To begin with the enterprise was referred to chiefly in connection with its nitrate-fixation possibilities.

True, nitrate no longer was needed in large quantities after the war, as an ingredient in explosives, but it was argued that it is fine stuff to make fertilizer, and it is to manufacture cheap fertilizer that the private interests, which covet the Shoals' power, still profess to want it.

What private interests? Well, they are rather hazy, and remain to be better identified by the processes of so-called competitive bidding when the proper time comes. At present it is more convenient to mention them under their ring name—Kid Power Trust.

Senator Norris refuses to be convinced that the power folk care anything about fertilizer making. He says new methods have been devised, by which fertilizer can be produced far more cheaply than at Muscle Shoals. His argument is that the power itself is what the power folk is after—to sell as power. He wants the government to make and sell it instead.

The power folk have tried to prove their good faith by undertaking actually to manufacture fertilizer, up to any reasonable amount—though they do say they want to sell the surplus power, after supplying the fertilizer demand.

The senator's answer to this proposal invariably has been that the power folk doubtless will turn out the stipulated amount of fertilizer, but it will be so expensive that it will remain forever on hand—and that then the power folk will become power interests exclusively, except for a large stock of fertilizer stored away, in fulfillment of their bargain.

As an alternative, he says he is willing to acquiesce in a grant to the private interests of as much power as they need to make fertilizer, but insists that the government shall market the surplus power—and this does not suit the private interests.

After all these years of wrangling, the Muscle Shoals question had simmered down recently to a semi-understanding contemplative of government operation of the power-generating plant, but the wholesaling of the power to private interests, to retail.

It was into this sort of a compromise that Senator Norris contrived, a few days ago, to slip his little joker providing for governmental transmission of the power from the Shoals to the market—and it was the joker, in turn, which provoked so much hollering, for the private interests had expected to get their power at the Shoals switchboard and transmit it themselves.

Can it be that transmission was on what they had planned to make their big money? And that there is not enough leeway for the profit they want, in simply peddling power out locally?

AND ANOTHER THING:

Why do the power folk care so much about Muscle Shoals—a large project, to be sure, but only a teaspoonful in comparison with our sum total of national power resources.

I can only surmise, as to the power folk, but I know why Senator Norris cares.

He has noticed that power is being sold (and at a profit) in the Canadian province of Ontario for considerably less than half its average price to consumers on this side of the border, and he wants to see whether government management cannot accomplish the same thing here.

Often that preference for blondes is a chemical reaction.

But in a great house there are not only vessels of gold and of silver, but also of wood and of earth; and some to honour, and some to dishonour.

EXPLANATION OF YESTERDAY'S CARTOON

"CICERI".—On Easter morning, March 30.h, 1282, the inhabitants of Palermo, Sicily, rose in rebellion against the oppressive rule of Charles of Anjoy and his French cohorts. Every person of Frech extraction on the island was massacred that day. Armed bands circulated on the streets of Palermo and every passer-by was required to pronounce the word "Ciceri", (An Italian word meaning "dried peas"). The correct Italian pronounciation of the word is "cheecharee", but a Frenchman would invariably pronounce it "seesaree". Eight thousand Frechmen, who could not pass this test of pronounciation, were slain that day. This massacre is remembered in history as the "Sicilian vespers", as the first stroke of the vesper bell in the Church of the Holy Spirit in Palermo was the signal for the uprising.

ICE WILL BURN.—During extremely cold weather a pipe line of the Lone Star Gas company, Dallas, Texas, froze solid, and the ice taken from it was found to be inflammable. This was due to the high pressure in the pipe, which caused the moisture and natural gasoline in the gas to emulsify and freeze solid. The lighter liquid hydrocarbons, such as butane, pentane, and hexane, can be frozen in the laboratory into solid ice, which will ignite and burn freely.

THE EAST WIND IS HEAVIER THAN A WEST WIND.—A given mass of air in a west wind of 50 miles per hour weighs less than an equal volume of air in an east wind of the same velocity. That is why an east wind will always underrun an adjacent west wind. The difference in weight is due to the centrifugal force of the earth's diurnal motion on its axis, known as the earth's rotation, causing a corresponding variation in the intensity of graviation. Murder At Bridge

by ANNE AUSTIN author of "THE BLACK PIGEON," "THE AVENGING PARROT" and "MURDER BACKSTAIRS"

©1930 BY NEA SERVICE, INC.

BEGIN HERE TODAY

JUANITA SELIM is murdered at bridge. Suspicion rests on LYDIA CARR, the maid; FLORA MILES, in Nita's closest at the time of the murder reading a note she thinks is from her husband, but which is from DEXTER SPRAGUE, probably Nita's lover and partner in blackmail, and on RALPH HAMMOND, engaged to Nita. All but Flora have been practically cleared.

Lydia says she doesn't know whom Nita feared, and tells of a bell Sprague contrived near Nita's bed which rings in Lydias room, and of which others may know. Acting on a hint from Lydia, DUNDEE finds at the Selim house, in the guest closet, a secret shelf.

Investigating the $10,000 Nita received, probably as blackmail, Dundee asks PENNY CRAIN, former society girl, now the district attorney's secretary, if any of the girls in her set were in a scandal at the Forsyte School, where Nita directed the Easter play. She assures him none was, but he is not convinced.

Dundee drives out to find out from LOIS DUNLAP why Nita came to Hamilton, and learns that she came only after seeing photographs of the crowd as they appeared in "The Beggars Opera." NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

CHAPTER XXXIII

"I had to hunt quite a bit for them," Lois Dunlap apologized as she resumed her seat at the tea table and spread the glossy prints of a half dozen large photographs for Dundee's inspection. "Do you know 'The Baggar's Opera'?"

"John Gay—eighteenth century, isn't it? . . . As I remember it, it is quite—" and Dundee hesitated, grinning.

"Bawdy?" Lois laughed. "Oh, very! We couldn't have got away with it if it hadn't been a classic. As it was, we had to tone down some of the naughtiest passages and songs. But it was lots of fun, and the boys enjoyed it hugely because it gave them an opportunity to wear tight satin breeches and lace ruffles. . . This is my husband, Peter. He adored being the highwayman, 'Robin of Bagshot,' " and she pointed out a society, belligerent-looking man near the end of the long row of costumed players, in the photograph which showed the entire cast.

"You say that Selim accepted your proposal that she come to Hamilton to organize a Little Theater, after she saw these photographs?" Dundee asked. "Had she refused before?"

"Yes. I'd gone to New York for the annual Easter play which the Forsyte School puts on, because I'm intensely interested in semi-professional theatricals," Lois explained. "Nita had done a splendid job with the play this year and I spoke to her after it was over. She was not at all interested then, but polite about it, so I invited her to have lunch with me the next day, and showed her these photographs, in the hope that they would make her take the idea more seriously. We had borrowed a Little Theater director from Chicago, and I knew we had a really good job of 'The Beggar's Opera.' The local reviews—"

"These 'stills' look extremely professional. I don't wonder that they interested Nita", Dundee cut in. "Will you tell me what she said?"

"She rather startled me," Lois Dunlap confessed. "I first showed her this picture of the whole cast, and as I was explaining the play a bit—she didn't know 'The Bagger's Opera'—she almost snatched the photograph out of my hands. As she studied it, her lovely black eyes grew perfectly enormous. I've never seen her so excited since—"

"What did she say?" Dundee interrupted tensely.

"Why, she said nothing just at first, then she began to laugh in the queerest way—almost hysterically. I asked her why she was laughing— I was a little huffy, I'm afraid—and she said the men looked so adorably conceited and funny. Then she began to ask the names of the players. I told her that 'Macheath'—he's the highwayman hero, you know—was played by Clive Hammond; that my Peter was 'Robin of Bagshot,' that Johnny Drake was another highwayman, 'Mat of the Mint,' that Tracey Miles played the jailor, 'Lockit'—"

"Did she show more interest in one man than another?"

Wild Well Shut In In Oklahoma

OKLAHOMA CITY, Jan. 20. (AP)—Another roaring menace of the oil field at Oklahoma City's doorstep—the Wind number 1 Wespaco oil well was snuffed late today.

The well, wild since morning was shut in at 5:30 by John Gordon, tamer of the wild number 1 Stout of the Morgan Petroleum company, which sprayed oil over the state capital for three days last November.

Gordon also worked on the famous "Wild Mary" Sudik, Oklahoma's most notorious outlaw well, which ran wild for eleven days before shut in.

With the flow of the number 1 Wespaco under control, firemen and national guardsmen took precautions against the danger of fire in the area soaked by oil from the wild gusher.

WORKMAN SUFFOCATED

BRADY, Jan. 20. (AP)—J. R. Leverett, 50, a workman at the McCulloch county oil mill, was suffocated today under seed which fell upon him as he struggled to free himself from a conveyor in which his foot had been caught. His widow and two children survive.

ATTACK BEGUN

GALVESTON, Jan. 20. (AP)—Southwestern carriers today opened an attack before interstate commerce commission examiners here on proposals of West Texas interests to abolish differentials. E. G. Boyd of Chicago, general counsel for the Santa Fe lines, outlined the position of the railways. He said the carriers had no intention of submitting proposals for readjustment.

This Baby Swallowed A Pin

When seven-month-old Bonnie Jean Black of Chicago swallowed a safety pin, her life was despaired of. However, she was taken to Presbyterian hospital, where physicians located the pin by using a biplane flouroscope, an X-ray device used for the first time by the medical profession. Then, by using a bronchoscope, the pin was removed. This shows Dr. Edwin McGinnis performing the operation which saved Baby Jean's life.

Truce Of France And Italy Ended

PARIS, Jan. 20. (AP)—The naval truce between France and Italy has come definitely to an end, it was learned in official quarters tonight, and both countries now are free to engage in whatever warship building they wish.

So far as French official circles are aware, the hopes for pour parlers between the French and Italians at Geneva have not been resumed, following their breakdown last summer.

The French say they have not lost hope of an agreement, but seem to see no immediate chance of successful negotiations.

Tonight's announcement that the truce definitely was ended is regarded as significant. France has been ready to accept parity with Italy in the Mediterranean, it is understood, but wants an additional 150,000 naval tons to offset the projected German fleet and another 100,000 to keep up communications with her distant colonies.

STORM DOES DAMAGE

ISTANBUL, Turkey, Jan. 20. (AP) A severe Mediterranean storm during the night did considerable damage in Smyrna where falling houses killed four persons. Many small Turkish craft were wrecked.

Prohibition

lined. His proposal would give congress the power to regulate liquor traffic, but not to prohibit.

After the first storm of words subsided, congress turned back to its burdensome legislative task. The report was sent to the judiciary committees of the house and senate with indications that it would remain there until next session at least.

No Action Expected

Chairman Norris of the senate judiciary committee said he expected no action by it at this session, although he would name a sub-committee to study the Blaine proposal if the Wisconsin senator desired.

With the report went the letter of President Hoover. The president briefly reviewed the personnel of the commission and the scope of its 18-month study.

Mr. Hoover made no direct reference to the fact that six of the eleven commissioners asked for repeal or modification. Nor did he mention the statement by the whole commission that a revision to give concurrent power to the state and and nation would be wise.

He reviewed the general recommendations for improvement of the enforcement machinery and said:

"The commission by a large majority does not favor the reepal of the 18th amendment as a method of cure for the inherent abuses of the liquor traffic.

"I am in accord with this view. "I do, however, see serious objections to, and therefore must not be undesrtood as recommending, the commission's proposed revision of the 18th amendment which is suggested by them for possible consideration at some future time if the continued effort at enforcement should not prove successful.

Urges Enforcement

"My own duty and that of all executive officers is clear—to enforce the law with all the means at our disposal without equivocation or reservation."

Of the commissioners, two advocated outright repeal of the 18th amendment, four urged revision of the constitutional clause and the remaining five favored further trial and strict enforcement. All of the commission except one, however, joined in proposing strengthening of enforcement agencies.

The commission opposed the return of the saloon, or federal or state liquor sale.

One of its members, Henry W. Anderson, presented a plan for federal controlled privately operated mercantile liquor establishments. Three members endorsed the idea, and two others gave qualified recommendations that it be considered.

The commission opposed modification to permit light wines and beer.

Views Diversified

Widespread diversity of views as to the best solution of the problems were spread over 100 pages of the full document, comprising the 11 reports of the individual members.

Standing flatly for outright repeal of the Eighteenth amendment were Newton D. Baker, of Cleveland, former secretary of war, and Monte Lemann, New Orleans lawyer. The former declared in favor of having the "whole question of policy and enforcement with regard to prohibition remitted to the states."

The four members united for early revision of the prohibition laws were Anderson, Miss Ada Comstock, president of Radcliffe college; Dean Roscoe Pound of Harvard, and Frank J. Loesch, Chicago Attorney.

Miss Comstock declared herself "convinced that adequate enforcement—is impossible without the support of a much larger proportion of our population that it now commands," but that in the hope federal regulation would be more effective than that of the states she favored "revision rather than repeal."

Favors Change

Dean Pound said he believed it "futile to seek a nationally enforced general total abstinence." In order to preserve the gains of prohibition and eliminate its abuses he said he favored a "redrawing of the amendment" to eliminate the saloon but to allow control adapted to local conidtion.

Loesch set forth that experience had led him to the conclusion that "effective national enforcement of the the Eighteenth amendment in its present form is unattainable; therefore steps should be taken immediately to revise the amendment."

In contending for a further trial of the present prohibition system, with a national referendum to determine "the felling of the people," Federal Judge William S. Kenyon, of Fort Dodge Iowa said he would favor change if these tests demonstrated further unenforceability.

Joining in this stand, Federal Judge Paul J. McCormick, of Los Angeles, said prohibition's [illegible] should not be jeopardized [illegible] has been demonstrated after [illegible] fairest possible trial that the [illegible] iment is completed and has [illegible] to be a failure."

The remaining three members, Chairman Wickersham, [illegible] Judge William Grubb, of Birmingham, and Former Judge [illegible] Mackintosh, of Tacoma, Washington, declared for further trial and stricter enforcement.

PERSIANS TURN MODERN

Health Is At Your Open Window

Oxygen is necessary to breathing. Oxygen is taken from the air by a gas flame just the same as by any other kind of flame. Fresh air supplies oxygen.

So, for your health's sake, let a little fresh air in.

If you must have a fire to dress by, have it in another room. If you live in a small apartment and sleep in your living room, turn out the fire and raise the windows when you go to bed.

Water Heaters Without Flue Pipes Are A Menace

Many gas appliances, including some well-constructed room heaters, are safe to use without flue connections in WELL-VENTILATED rooms. However, it is advisable that all appliances using gas in considerable quantities should be connected with flues, for even the most efficient types may produce poisonous gas when the flame is first lighted.

If your water heater—or any other kind of a heater—is in the bath room, turn it out when you are ready for your bath. It requires approximately 10 cubic feet of air to supply sufficient oxygen to burn one cubic foot of gas—and there usually is little or no fresh air coming into the average bathroom.

Natural gas, when properly used, not only is efficient and economical, but it also is safe.

West Texas Gas Company places a higher value on the health, safety and good will of consumers than upon any revenue it might derive from gas that is not properly used.

Tech Forwards Can't Miss As Matadors Win

Captain Hodges, Leon Fisher Hot On Scoring To Surpass Abilene Christians Even After Score Tied

(Special To The Avalanche)

ABILENE, Jan. 20.—Hodges and Fisher, veteran basketeers of Texas Technological college, could not miss tonight in their tosses at the goal, and the result was a defeat for the Abilene Christian college Wildcats, 31 to 25. Hodges tabulated fourteen points, including six hits from the foul line, and Fisher rammed in five markers from scrimmage.

After playing erratically through the first half, the end of which found them trailing, 16 to 8, the Christians rallied to knot the count, 24 to 24. But the Matadors countered with a finish that was too fast for the Abilene defense.

Liberal Arts Gridders Win

Coach Wooldridge's Artists Set Pace In Intramural Race At Tech With 20-7 Victory In First Game

Liberal Arts chances for an intramural championship soared high Tuesday afternoon when they defeated the Aggie team on the Tech practice field by a score of 20 to 7 in the opening game of intramural football for the 1931 season.

The game was a fight to the finish and both teams had their share of stars. From the starting whistle both goals were in constant danger and risky passes made the game as uncertain as wintery weather. The Liberal Artists held the edge during the first, second and third quarters but the Aggs failed to weaken and made a flashy comeback to score a touchdown in the fourth quarter of the game.

L. A. Backfield Shines

Watkins, Roberts and Neese, backfield men for the Liberal Artists played a good brand of football, many times going through center and around ends for long gains. Oswald, fullback for the Liberal Artists, was outstanding with his ground gaining center plunges and powerful defense.

The Aggs, too, were not without stars. Ratcliff, quarterback, was a good ground gainer and an accurate passer. Hitchcock, end, stood out for his exceptionally good pass receiving and was a strong defensive player. The lines were about evenly matched with outstanding men on both teams doing neat tackling.

The Liberal Arts team wasted little time in scoring before the second quarter was very old. Roberts took the ball across on a neat play around left end. They scored again in the second and third quarters.

After completing a long pass from Ratcliff to Banner, the Aggs had the ball on the Liberal Artists seven yard line. A pass from Ratcliff to Hitchcock was good for a touchdown for the Aggies. This ended the scoring for the remainder of the game.

Wooldridge, Durham and Teal are the coaches the Liberal Arts team while Vinzant, Langford and Moffitt handle the Aggie team.

Boxing Rings To Undergo Changes

New York, Jan. 20. (AP)—The New York Athletic Commission today provided for a resting place for those boxers who are either knocked, pushed or fall out of a ring, by decreeing that the rings over which they have jurisdiction must extend three and one half feet beyond the ropes. They now extend only one and a half.

The new rule grew out of the unusual circumstances surrounding the battle of the short count between Tom Heeney and Max Baer in Madison Square Garden last Friday night. Heeney was pushed out of the ring by Baer, helped back in by Jack Dempsey, the referee, and some others and then declared "out" by the knockdown timekeeper while Dempsey was telling "eight" in his ear.

The salary of none of the New York Yankee players was cut for the 1931 season despite the fact the club failed to finish 1-2 last year, according to Ed Barrow, business manager.

Big Spring Cagers Beat Westerners, 25 to 12

Tall Visitors Outclass Bill Keeling's Set

Hutto Is Good For Thirteen Points And Steers Of Big Spring Shoot Hard; Second Game Tonight At 7:30

Coach Bill Stevens' Big Spring High school Steers, one of the most powerful high school basketball units of West Texas and leader in the sport of the Oil Belt district, won their third victory over the Lubbock High school Westerners and their eighth straight victory of the season when they downed Bill Keeling's cagers, 25 to 12, here last night.

It was a fast game, regardless of the failure of the locals to score. The twelve points were evenly divided by the periods. Brown, Lubbock guard, scored three field goals in a row late in the last half to take scoring honors for Lubbock. Hutto, lankly forward for Big Spring, hogged all scoring honors and led his team with four field goals and five free ones. The fine footwork and floorwork of Flowers and Phillips, Steer guards, was a feature of the game.

Captain Knight for Lubbock played a good game, though his scoring was low. The teams meet again tonight on the Tech floor for the second and final game of the series.

Twenty-Four Team In Ralls Tourney

RALLS, Jan. 20. (Special.)—Twenty four teams from over the South Plains have entered in the annual invitation basketball tournament given by the Ralls High school, A. B. Sanders, superintendent of the Ralls schools, announces.

M. L. Penn, coach of the Ralls girls, is host to the visiting teams and is arranging the schedule. He is director of the tournament.

First game is scheluded for Thursday evening at 8 o'clock when the Fairview and McAdoo teams are to play. This setting was necessary in order that the entire brackets can be handled Friday.

Play starts Friday at noon and the first round is to be completed by night.

Saturday morning the second round begins, with the semi finals to start in the afternoon. Finals are to be played at 8 o'clock at night.

Coach Holley of Whitney will referee the contests. Ralls people are planning to entertain the out of town teams from a distance Friday night in their homes. Teams from nearby towns will return home after the games;

An attendance of around 200 to 250 from out of town is expected. More than half of that number are expected to be entertained in the homes Mr. Sanders said.

Sixteen pitchers are included in the 33 players the New York Yankees will take to St. Petersburg, Fla., for spring training this year.

Bad weather hurt Stetson university's football receipts this year, so the deficit was made up by giving a play.

Woman's Hand To Guide Tulsa Club Of Western League; Plans Changes

MRS. LUCILLE R. THOMAS

BY CLAIRE BURCKY
NEA Service Sports Writer

The civic-spirited, baseball-minded citizenry of Tulsa, Okla., owe Mrs. Lucile R. Thomas an oil well for restoring that city to good standing in the Western Baseball League. If she gives them a pennant right off the bat, they might throw in another gusher to show their appreciation.

Tulsa, center of one of the world's wealthiest sections, was humiliated when its baseball franchise slipped over into Topeka, Kan. Several tried to bring it back but ran against political resistance within the city. Mrs. Thomas' calculating business head and winning personality surmounted this obstacle.

But Tulsans won't know the game Mrs. Thomas' employes are going to play. There will be an entire change of scenery and a new cast of characters.

First of all, Mrs. Thomas is supervising construction of a new baseball plant. The city confiscated the other site, which made necessary the original move to Topeka.

Second, the game will be night baseball. Mrs. Thomas made careful study of night games in the Western League last season. She was impressed by the way fans supported the evening entertainments. Her plans for lighting the new Tulsa plant are copied from the Topeka park.

Third, the fans will be guided to their seats by attractive neatly-uniformed usherettes. Whatever peanut and pop purchases they make during the contests will be done from winsome sales girls. Mrs. Thomas believes spectators, at least those of the male sex, will vote this combination theater-night club idea an expellent one.

Fourth, the Tulsa team will provide "family" entertainment. Her athletes will be instructed to fight "like everything" to win but with a minimum of jockeying, razzing and rowdyism.

Tulsa's baseball magneteess, the second in organized baseball and actually the first to buy her way in, is the wife of an oil operator and a businesswoman in her own right. She taught school in Wichita, Kan., and later operated a string of moving picture houses in Missouri and Kansas. After moving to Tulsa, Mrs. Thomas opened a chain of drug stores and directed their activities.

Mrs. Thomas has always favored baseball. She played the game in her girlhood. Later on, convention restricted her interests to those of a spectator. The Wichita franchise took her eye last summer but Owner Art Grigg's price halted the negotiations. Then Phil Ball, owner of the St. Louis Browns and holder of the Topeka club as a farm for his young players, indicated a willingness to sell. She bought the franchise and 21 Topeka players and extracted a promise from Ball to send her on option several embryo big leaguers.

From Wichita Mrs. Thomas selected her manager. He is Howard S. Lindimore, veteran minor league infielder who once belonged to Detroit but never played a major league game.

Lindimore's job is cut out for him. Mrs. Thomas has ordered a winner. In addition, she has demanded that Tulsa players show gentlemanly spirit and say "I have it," instead of "I got it."

Chris Cagle Is Claimed By Wall Street Brokers

(By The Associated Press)

NEW YORK, Jan. 20.—The thrill-thirsty crowds that follow professional football—and the rank and file of the pigskin citizenry who still remember a glamorous figure in the Blue and Gold of Army—have lost a hero. The stock exchange, amphitheater of high finance and the big league of big business, has gained a modest, hard working rookie.

Some day Christian Keener Cagle, the red rover of the gridiron, may gain the same rank in the financial world that he held in football for four sensational years at West Point and another as a pro star with the New York Giants. If he fails to make the stock market grade, then the celebrated red head will think again of football. But until they stop him for a loss, the Louisiana lightning is going to give the Wall Street game all the get and go that sent him blazing along the pigskin heights for five dizzy years.

You'd never recognize in the soft voiced, moderate sized Southerner skidding from one traders' booth to another on the floor of the 'change, the carrot-topped terror who bulked so large on a football field. For that matter you'd never look twice, either, at John Law, Notre Dame's captain and all-American guard of a couple years back.

Law, short and dark, is serving his financial apprenticeship in one firm, Cagle in another that has its booth on the exchange floor nearby. Cagle races about with orders. Law pushes his way around as a guard should. They both take plenty of hard body checking and have no interference.

When the gong clanged at 3 p. m. to end the day, Cagle gladly tumbled into a seat, caught his breath, and turned his thoughts toward football.

"This is wonderful," he drawled. "The excitement gets you. It's different from anything I ever tackled before. It's amazing how fast they handle things down here."

Sophs Measure Seniors, 12-0

Neat Passing Results In Win For Sophomores Who Meet Juniors Friday In Battle For Intramural Title

Coach E. M. Barnett's Sophomores, high school intramural grid team, downed the Seniors, 12 to 0, on the high school field yesterday afternoon to win the chance for the championship. On Friday the Sophs will meet the Juniors, coached by Pinkey Lowrey, for the high school intramural championship.

Accurate passing by Bill Davidson, Sophomore back, was responsible for the touchdowns by which the second year slimes won. One went to Williamson, and another to Nelson.

The line play on both sides was good. The punting of Scott, Senior back, was almost sensational. Once he batted the ball out of bounds on the 3-yard line to help the cause of his team. Duncan, soph guard, played a good game, as did Allen McCrummen and Christy Carrouth.

Lamesa Cage Meet Promises Crowds

LAMESA, Jan. 20. (Special.)—F. T. This is the fourth annual tournament, and liberal prizes and awards have been arranged for first and second winners, and for the consolation winner of the tournament members of the winning team.

"You Will Benefit Public Health"

Says

DR. J. F. X. STACK

Health Commissioner, City of Hoboken, N. J.

DR. J. F. X. STACK
212 GARDEN STREET
HOBOKEN, N. J.

June 17, 1930.

American Cigar Company,
111 Fifth Avenue,
New York, N. Y.

Gentlemen:

I have seen your advertising displays in the newspapers and on billboards, telling people about the harm spitting may cause and the dangers lurking in cigars when the tips are sealed with spit. Your efforts to teach the public and thus prevent suffering will do more than sell cigars. You will benefit public health, and for that reason I want to give my enthusiastic approval to your campaign.

As a health commissioner, I am interested in seeing information of this sort brought home to everybody. Human ills would be greatly lessened if every person knew what danger there is in spitting in public places and in using the tongue to seal or moisten anything in manufacturing. Your campaign is indeed a "Crusade of Decency" and my department wishes you success in your efforts.

You are welcome to use this letter in your plan of public education, if you wish, with the understanding that I am not publicly endorsing your product in preference to any other, but that I am heartily in favor of your campaign to better your industry by making it cleaner.

Very truly yours,
J. F. X. Stack M. D.
Health Commissioner,
City of Hoboken, N.J.

. . . one of 56 health officials from 56 different points approving Cremo's crusade against spit or spit-tipping.

Every smoker, every wife whose husband smokes cigars, should read Dr. Stack's letter.

"Who are the friends of 'Spit'?"

YOU MAY WELL ASK THIS QUESTION WHEN 56 IMPORTANT HEALTH OFFICIALS HAVE WRITTEN SO STRONGLY AGAINST THE EVILS OF SPIT OR SPIT-TIPPING.

Dr. Stack writes: "I am heartily in favor of your campaign to better your industry by making it cleaner."

The war against spit is a crusade of decency. Join it... Smoke Certified Cremo — a really wonderful smoke — mild — mellow — nut-sweet! Every leaf entering the clean, sunny Cremo factories is scientifically treated by methods recommended by the United States Department of Agriculture.

In this period of cold weather and cracked lips, above all insist on a cigar—free of the spit germ.

Murder At Bridge

"Yes. When I pointed out Judge Marshall as 'Peachum,' the fence, he cried out suddenly: 'Why, I know him! I met him once on a party . . . Is he really a judge?' and she laughed as if she knew something very funny about Hugo—as no doubt she did. He was an inveterate 'lady killer' before his marriage, as you may have heard."

Do you think her first excitement was over seeing Judge Marshall among the players' pictures?" Dundee asked.

"No," Lois answered, after considering a moment. "I'm sure she didn't notice him until I pointed him out. The face in this group seemed to interest her most . . . Flora Miles', Flora played the . . . of 'Lucky Lockit,' the jailor's daughter, and Karen Marshall the other feminine lead, 'Polly Peachum,' you know. But it was Flora's picture she lingered over, so I showed her this picture," and Lois Dunlap reached for the portrait of Flora Miles, unexpectedly beautiful in the 18th century costume—tight bodice and billowing skirts.

"She questioned you about Mrs. Miles?" Dundee asked.

"Yes. All sorts of questions—her name, and whether she was married and then who her husband was, and if she had had stage experience," Lois answered conscientiously. "She explained her interest by saying Flora looked more like a professional actress than any of the others, and that we should give her a real chance when we got our Little Theater going. I asked her then if that meant she was going to accept my offer, and she said she might, but that she would have to talk it over with a friend first. Just before midnight she telephoned me at my hotel that she had decided to accept the job."

Dundee's heart leaped. It was very easy to guess who that "friend" was! But he controlled his excitement, asked his next question casually:

"Did she show particular interest in any other player?"

"Yes. She asked a number of questions about Polly Beale, and seemed incredulous when I told her that Polly and Clive were engaged. Polly played 'Mrs. Peachum,' and was a riot in the part. . . . But Nita's intuition was correct. Flora carried off the acting honors. . . . Oh, yes, she also asked, quite naively, if all my friends were rich, too, and could help support a Little Theater. I reassured her on that point."

"And," Dundee reflected silently, upon a point much more important to Nita Selim." Aloud he said: "I don't see you among the cast."

"Oh, I haven't a grain of talent," Lois Dunlap laughed. "I can't act for two cents—can I, Peter darling? . . . Here's the redoutable 'Robin of Bagshot' in person. Mr. Dundee —my husband!"

The detective rose to shake hands with the man he had been too preoccupied to see or hear approaching.

"You're the man from the district attorney's office?" Peter Dunlap scowled, his hand barely touching Dundee's "I suppose you're trying to get at the bottom of the mystery of why my wife brought that Selim woman—"

"Don't call her 'that Selim woman,' Peter!" Lois Dunlap interrupted with more sharpeness than Dundee had ever seen her display. "You never liked the poor girl, were never nice to her—"

"Well, it looks as if my hunch was correct, doesn't it?" the stocky, red-faced man retorted. "I told you at the beginning to pay her off and send her back to New York—"

"You know I couldn't do that, even to please you, dear," Lois said. "But please don't let's quarrel about poor Nita again. She's dead now, and I want to do anything I can to help bring her murderer to justice."

"There's nothing you can do Lois, and I hope Mr.—ah—Dundee will not find it necessary to quiz you again."

Dundee reached for his hat. "I hope so, too, Mr. Dunlap. . . . By the way, you are president of the Chamber of Commerce, aren't you?"

"Yes, I am! And we're having a meeting tonight, at which that League man's bid on making a historical movie of Hamilton will be turned down — unanimously. Now that the Selim woman isn't here to swamp my fellow-members into doing anything she wants, I think I can safely promise you that Dexter Sprague will have no further business in Hamilton—unless it is police business!"

"Thanks for the tip, Mr. Dunlap," Dundee said evenly. "I hope you enjoyed your fishing trip. Where do you fish, sir?"

"A tactful way of asking for my alibi, eh?" Dunlap was heavily sarcastic. "I left Friday afternoon for my own camp in the mountains, up in the northeast part of the state. I drove my own car, went alone, spent the week-end alone, and got back this noon. I read of the murder in a paper I picked up in a village on my way home. I didn't like Nita Selim and I don't give a damn about her being murdered, except that my wife's name is in all the papers. . . . Any questions?"

"None, thanks!" Dundee answered curtly, then turned to Lois Dunlap who was watching the two men with troubled, gray eyes. "I am very grateful to you, Mrs. Dunlap, for your kindness."

The detective's angry resentment of Peter Dunlap's attitude lasted until he was on the road into Hamilton. Then common sense interposed. Dunlap was undoubtedly devoted to his wife, Penny had said that he "never looked at another woman." It was rather more than natural that he should be in a furious blustered rage at the outcome of her friendship for the little Broadway dancer. . . .

In the case of anger, his mind reverted to the story Lois Dunlap had told him. For in it, he was sure, was hidden the key to the mystery of Nita Selim's murder. Not at all interested in the proposition to organize a Little Theater in Hamilton, Nita had been seized with a strange excitement as soon as she was shown photographs of a large group of Hamilton's richest and most prominent inhabitants. . . . But there was the rub! A large group! Would that group of possible suspects never narrow down to one? Or course there was Judge Marshall, but if Lois Dunlap's memory was to be trusted Nita had not noticed the elderly Beau Brummel's picture until after that strange, hysterical excitement had taken possession of her. And if it had been Judge Marshall whom she had come to Hamilton to blackmail would Nita not have guarded her tongue before Lois? The same was true about her unusual interest in Flora Miles. . . . .

Dundee tried to put himself in Nita's place, confronted suddenly with a group picture containing the likeness of a person—man or woman—against whom she knew something so dreadful and so secret that her silence would be worth thousands of dollars. Would he have chattered of that very person? No! Of anyone else but that particular person! It was easy to picture Nita, her head whirling with possibilities, hitting upon the most conspicuous player in the group—dark, tense, theatrical Flora, already pointed out to her as one of the two female leads in the opera. . . . But of whom had she really been thinking?

Again a blank wall! For in that group photograph had appeared every man, woman and girl who had been Nita's guest on the day of her murder. . . .

Dundee, paying more attention to his driving, now that he was in the business section of the city, saw ahead of him a second-rate hotel where Dexter Sprague had been living since Nita had wired him to join her in Hamilton. On a sudden impulse the detective parked his car in front of the hotel and five minutes later was knocking upon Sprague's door.

"Well, what do you want now?" the unshaven, pallid man demanded ungraciously.

Dundee stepped into the room and closed the door. "I want you to tell me the name of the man Nita Selim came here to blackmail," Sprague."

"Blackmail?" Sprague echoed, his pallid checks going more yellow. "You're crazy! Nita came here to take a job—"

"She came here to blackmail someone, and I am convinced that she sent for you to act as a partner in her scheme. . . . No, wait! I'm convinced, I tell you," Dundee assured him firmly. "But I'll make a trade with you, in behalf of the district attorney. Tell me the name of the person she blackmailed and I will promise you immunity from prosecution as her accomplice."

"Get out of my room!" and Dexter Sprague's right forefinger trembled violently as it pointed toward the door in a melodramatic gesture.

"Very well, Sprague," Dundee said. "But let me give you a friendly warning. Don't try to carry on the good work. Nita got $10,000, but she also got a bullet through her heart. And the gun which fired that bullet is safely back in the hands of the killer. . . . You're not going to get that movie job, and I was just afraid you might be tempted! . . . . Good afternoon!"

SORE AND FRETFUL, A NERVOUS WRECK

Oklahoma Lady Says She Took Cardui Until the Soreness Was All Gone.

McAlester, Okla.—"When just a girl, at home, I was in a run-down condition, had severe pains in my side, and would have to go to bed for a day or two at a time," writes Mrs. G. C. Worsham, 217 West Cherokee Street, this city. "My mother gave me Cardui. It built me up, and it was years before I had any more trouble.

"After I was married, I had an illness, after which I suffered a great deal with soreness in my sides and in the lower part of my body. The weight of my hand on my body would hurt me.

"I just could not stand on my feet any length of time. I fretted until I was a nervous wreck. I tried different remedies, but could not see any improvement.

"My mother reminded me of how much good Cardui had done me at home, and so I began taking it again. After my first bottle, I was better. I could tell it by the soreness being less. I kept on taking Cardui until the soreness was all gone. I felt well and strong." B-79-48

Wheat Farmers To Cut Crop Acreage

AMARILLO, Jan. 20. (AP)—Wheat farmers of the Panhandle in a mass meeting here today agreed to the plan of cutting acreage 40 per cent this year, and pledged themselves to back a similar movement throughout the wheat producing states.

Going on record that the issue confronting the wheat producer is that of over-production and that prices will not be higher until the surplus is moved, the several hundred farmers voted unanimously to reduce their acreage.

Indorsement of the plan, as outlined by Lester Stone, Amarillo, also was given by bankers, county farm agents, grain dealers and others who attended the meeting.

Gay Life

The testimony of every prosecution witness was deliberate perjury."

Clark brought forth points in the testimony dealing with the lives of the two women and their boy friends, Rex Bell, the cowboy in Clara's heart, and curly headed Alfred Mathes, whose sweetheart is Daisy. Purchases of liquor, gambling debts and other episodes in their lives also were called to the jurors as Clark sought to show how Miss De Boe committed the alleged theft.

Clara was not in the courtroom for this last scene although the state would have had her there if her physicians had permitted her to leave her home, where she is ill with a cold.

Taking the stand to complete her testimony today Miss De Boe said that motion pictures paid Clara Bow a princely sum for what the film fans call "It," but all she saved was what the actress' former secretary put out of the reach of the demands of a gay life.

CONROE, Jan. 20. (AP)—Without a word of testimony being offered in the defense, the case of J. H. McDonough, charged with burglary of $200 on January 12, was placed in the hands of a Montgomery county jury today.

Confronted with the testimony of P. Ammons, Houston, also charged in connection with the bank robbery, defense attorneys submitted their case to the jury after the state had offered testimony from three other witnesses.

Cotton Trading Heavier In Cotton Mart — Livestock Moderate Activity In Market Circuit — Grain Fair Demand For Light Offerings

Cotton

NEW ORLEANS COTTON

NEW ORLEANS, Jan. 20. (AP)—There was more trading in cotton here today than for several days past, but business was far from brisk, except for a spurt at the end. After opening easier prices later rallied and recovered all the early decline and ruled steady most the morning and into the early afternoon around the previous day's closing levels. In late trading, active positions made new highs 14 to 16 points above the early lows and the market closed at the highest showing net gains for the day of 10 to 12 points.

Port receipts 15,264, for week 30,726; for season 7,310,364; last season 7,326,476. Exports 6,906; for week 44,491; for season 4,227,106; last season 4,619,279. Port stocks 4,189,466; last year 2,566,993. Combined shipboard stock at New Orleans, Galveston and Houston 86,109 last year 124,200.

Spot sales at southern markets 9,148; last year 9,214.

NEW YORK COTTON

NEW YORK, Jan. 20. (AP)—An early decline in response to lower cables was followed by advances in cotton today on covering combined with trade and commission house buying. March after declining to 10.10 during early trading advanced to 10.29 and closed at 10.24 compared with 10.17 at the close of Monday. The general market closed firm at net advances of 2 to 13 points.

Business was more active today than recently, with rather more Southern selling in evidence during the early trading while there appeared to be some broadening of trade demand, although much of the buying was attributed to covering and no special news factor was mentioned in connection with the advance.

Liverpool said that continental buying in that market had been supplied by local liquidation and cable advices received in the trade here from Manchester said that the organization of master spinners had recommended curtailment of production in order to prevent an accumulation of yarn stocks. Exports today 6,906, making 4,347,724 so far this season. Port receipts 15,264.

Stock Prices Are Given Upward Flip By Leisurely Short Covering Tuesday

BY JOHN L. COOLEY
Associated Press Financial Writer.

NEW YORK, Jan. 20. (AP)—Leisurely covering by the shorts gave stock prices an upward flip today.

The advance, averaging about 2 1-2 points, was regarded more as the result of the market's own technical condition than of outside developments for the Wickersham report contained little that could be translated into stock market activity and the general easing of interest rates was of greater benefit to bonds than to equities.

Survey Scanned.

Professional traders spent considerable time in scanning digests of the prohibition survey and impartially piled up bearish as well as alcohol stocks. Trading proceeded quietly, although the upward trend received a boost in the last hour when the day's best prices were made. Sales totaled 1,286,300 shares, about 200,000 more than yesterday.

U. S. and Bethlehem Steels rallied 2 points net, while National Biscuit, Loew's, Electric Power and Light, Standard Oil of New Jersey, American and Foreign Power, Sears Roebuck, United Corp., North American, Pennsylvania, Baltimore and Ohio and General Electric were up 1 to 1 1-2 at the close. American Telephone, Johns-Manville and Westinghouse gained 3, New York Central 4, American Can 2 3-4, Auburn Auto 5 1-2 and Allied Chemical 5 3-4. Coca Cola and National Distillers advanced 3. U. S. Industrial Alcohol 2 and Canada Dry 1.

Inauguration

Republic of Germany was represented by Capt. Gard Von Massow.

Three Bands Play.

Three uniformed bands were massed in front of the platform. They represented the Arabia Temple Shrine of Houston, of which Governor Sterling has been a member for many years; the University of Texas, and Texas A. and M. Seats were reserved for members of the legislature, their wives and guests, state officials with their wives and guests and the guests of Governor Sterling and former Governor Moody.

The band struck up appropriate music from time to time. After Sterling had delivered his inaugural address the musical organizations played "The Eyes of Texas Are Upon You," "Texas, My Texas," the official state song and "The Star-Spangled Banner," were other musical offerings.

As Mr. Sterling finished repeating the oath of office, the governor's salute of 17 guns boomed from a cannon on the Capitol hill.

In administering the oaths to Governor Sterling Lieutenant Governor Witt, Judge Cureton used the Bible which had been employed in inauguration ceremonies for 60 years.

OLD SOUTH REVIVED

AUSTIN, Jan. 20. (AP)—The Old South lived again tonight as brilliantly dressed ladies and decorously attired men paid homage to a new governor of the Lone Star state and his wife at the governor's inaugural ball. The social season of the capitol reached its zenith tonight with the renewal of the historic custom.

Gregory gymnasium, imposing athletic plant of the University of Texas, was jammed with the social elite of the state and those from the more ordinary highways and by ways of life.

The grand march, led by Texas' new governor, Ross S. Sterling, escorting the wife of Texas' most recent governor, and Dan Moody, retiring chief executive and Mrs. Sterling, the new first lady, started at 11 o'clock after Governor and Mrs. Sterling and former Governor and Mrs. Moody had received the nearly 6,000 guests.

shows and gotten them into the "big time" theaters. He thought the $500 paid the twins under their contract with Myers very liberal.

Martin Arnold, attorney for the twins chose Violet as his witness, because, he stated, she was nearer the court than her sister.

Violet declared she and her sister never knew Myers had been appointed their guardian until they heard it in court. They signed many papers not knowing what they contained, she said, because they were afraid of Myers.

The witness had difficulty in separating her own experiences from those of her sister and usually used the pronoun "we" when replying to questions. Daisy sat listening intently and now and then she prompted in a whisper until warned not to do so.

Mrs. Erna Wynns of Schertz, a former housekeeper at the Myers home, said she once saw Myers try to strike the twins.

Exposure of the Soviet plan for the formation of the Anglo-Soviet Trade Corporation, the capital for which was to be subscribed by the British public, caused underwriters to refuse to support it, and thus postponed its launching.

One important company in France produced in 1930 as many automobiles as it did in 1929.

Livestock

MIDDLEWESTERN LIVESTOCK

KANSAS CITY, Jan. 20. (AP)—Moderate activity developed around the eleven market circuit on hogs at strong to 25 higher prices. Chicago reported a slow close with the early advance lost. The day's extreme top of 8.50 was paid at St. Louis. Total offerings were around 124,500 as compared with 126,498 a week ago and 129,521 the corresponding day last year.

Increased supplies of sheep tended to slow up the fat lamb trade, and prices were unevenly steady to 25 lower. Bulk good to choice fat lambs in Chicago turned at 9.00@9.25. The supply numbering around 64,900 was 1,500 heavier than last Tuesday and 12,500 more than a year ago.

Fed steer and yearling trade was slow at values steady to unevenly lower, the inbetween grades at some centers where receipts were liberal showing losses of fully 25. Chicago had a top of 13.50 on long yearling steers and secured 12.00 for 1,322 lb. matured steers. Bulk of short fed steers at the river markets are selling from 7.50@10.00 kinds around 9.50@10.00 showing the effects of the 120 days or more turn in the feed lots.

Stockers were generally steady. Aggregate receipts were estimated at 35,000 against 36,071 a week ao and 41,546 a year ago.

FORT WORTH LIVESTOCK

FORT WORTH, Jan. 20. (AP)—Hogs—800: trucks hogs strong; no rail hogs; truck top 8.00; other sales better grade 170-240 lb. truck hogs 7.80@7.90.

Cattle — 2,300, including 700 calves. Steady to easier; 2 loads fed steers 7.35; others 5.10@6.65; choice fed yearlings 10.25. Fairly good fat cows 4.50.

Slaughter calves, good heavies 7.50@7.75; weighty plainer grades 6.50 down.

Sterling

will her vast undeveloped lands be settled and cultivated, supplying food and other commodities to the markets of the world, and wealth to her own citizenship," he said.

Praises Moody

In opening, Governor Sterling had spoken of the high tide of Governor Moody's efficiency in office.

"A high mark of ability and service has been set for me to shoot at by our retiring governor, Dan Moody," he said.

"Heads of departments, elective or appointive should be accorded their full authority," he stated. "At the same time I believe that all should bear in mind that they are working on the same job, for the same employer, and should cooperate with each other in every possible way to advance the employer's interest. I don't know why the chief executive and the state department heads should not hold regular meetings together to discuss their problems and advance the business of government just as the directors and officers of private corporations do."

"Building Texas"

Not only did Governor Sterling stress the importance of carrying out an agricultural program in Texas but he said this, in reference to building Texas in general:

"I think the most important function of this government is to build Texas. Build it industrially, economically, physically, mentally, socially and spiritually. If we cease building, we suffer and die; if we continue we have prosperity, and prosperity means happiness. Happiness is the ultimate goal of all and only true happiness lies in development—progress."

In speaking of building Governor Sterling spoke of Texas' supply of mineral resources. Oil, sulphur, both of which should be conserved but developed, should contribute toward the support of Texas government, he said.

PIONEER COWMAN DIES

Frank Gen Crushed By Wheels While Moving House

WICHITA FALLS, Jan. 20. (AP)—Frank Gen, 57, old time cowman of this section, died at a hospital here Tuesday night after he had been crushed beneath the rollers of house moving equipment. He was helping move a house from the diversion lake to the Herbert Griffin ranch near Dundee, where he had been foreman for the past 18 years.

As the house moved down a hill on a muddy roadway, Gen lost his footing and fell into the path of the rollers which passed over his body, fracturing ten ribs, a shoulder blade and inflicting internal injuries.

IRISH BRICKS BRING PEACE

Tired of the "ceaseless banging" of the guns of game hunters, people living in the vicinity of a lake in Cork, Ireland, restored peace by use of stones, bricks and sods. Since the opening of the present hunting season there was a fusillade at dawn and dusk. As the district is not regarded as a public road, fowlers who shot birds could not be touched by law. City officials told the protestants that they were powerless and the City Corporation met and gave the same reply. Alderman Daly moved to request the Minister of Justice to issue an order declaring the lake a sanctuary. But the peace-seekers could not wait that long. When the sportsmen next appeared, men, women and children met them with a fusillage of missiles. Sportsmen and dogs beat a hasty retreat, some men dropping their guns as they ran.

Grain

FORT WORTH GRAIN

FORT WORTH, Jan. 20. (AP)—Fair demand for the light offerings on the cash grain market here continued today. No. 1 hard wheat of any protein was probably worth 79@80c.

Quotations on coarse grains ranged as follows, basis carloads delivered Texas common points, freight paid:

Corn, No. 2 mixed 76@77c; No. 2 white 78@79c. No. 2 95 per cent white 77@78c; No. 2 yellow 77 1-2@78 1-2c.

Oats, No. 2 white 43@45 1-2c.

Barley, No. 2 60@61c.

Sorghums, No. 2 milo per 100 lbs. 1.30 @1.31; No. 2 kaffir 1.29@1.30.

CHICAGO GRAIN

CHICAGO, Jan. 20. (AP)—Bearish aspects of the Wickersham prohibition report tumbled grains downward today, especially corn. The fact that the report omitted any statement looking to changes which would indicate immediate enlarged use of grains for beverage manufacture led to selling by traders whose hopes had been overthrown. Corn, which would be chiefly affected by resumption of beer making, underwent a maximum drop of 1 1-2 cents a bushel.

Corn unsettled 7-8 to 1 1-8 cents lower, wheat at 1 cent decline to 1-8 advance, oats 1-4 to 1-2 down, and provisions unchanged to 10 cents up.

Preceding the news regarding the wickersham report, wheat and oats as well as corn had declined owing largely to downturns in wheat quotations at Liverpool, where Argentine wheat offerings were reported urgent and demand poor.

Provisions advanced with hogs.

Closing indemnities: Wheat, May (bids) 82 3-8; July 65, 66 3-8.

Corn, March (offers) 67 3-4, May 68 3-8 to 1-2, 69 7-8@70, July 69 3-4, 71 1-8@1-4.

To Renew Fight Against Cannon

WASHINGTON, Jan. 20. (AP) — Representative Tinkham announced today he planned to renew before the senate campaign funds committee his fight to compel Bishop James Cannon, Jr., to explain how he spent $65,300 in the 1928 presidential election.

The Massachusetts Republican said he would renew charges he made before the senate lobby committee in a speech in the house and to the attorney general.

He will appear, he said, and place the "facts before Senator Nye's expenditure committee whenever it is ready to received them."

Tinkham's principal point of criticism of Bishop Cannon has been the latter's refusal to account for $65,300 contributed by anti-Smith Democrats during the presidential election. He has accused the Bishop of a "shameless violation of the corrupt practices act."

Appointment Of Baldwin Opposed

AUSTIN, Jan. 20. (AP)—Protest against the appointment of Frank Baldwin, Waco editor, as a member of the state board of education was filed with the secretary of the senate today. Representative Ray Holder said 32 members of the house of representatives signed the protest.

Baldwin was named last week by Governor Dan Moody to the post.

The protest, addressed to Tom Pollard, chairman of the senate committee on governor's nominations, asked that action on the appointment be postponed and a hearing date set.

Representative Holder said Baldwin had maligned and impugned the motives of the house of representatives and several of its members.

All Day Fight On Pro Issue Looms

WASHINGTON, Jan. 20. (AP)—An all-day battle will be waged in the supreme court tomorrow around the citadel of prohibition—the Eighteenth amendment to the constitution.

The supreme court, which up to this time has consistently upheld the amendment against all attack, will hear arguments supporting and opposing the recent decision of Judge Clark of New Jersey holding it invalid.

The attacking forces claim they have a weapon new to the warfare which has been waging for 11 years, and will be able to batter down the bulwarks.

The defending forces, with equal confidence, declare the battering rams which will be used are not new, and defeat will attend the assault.

Checks Check Clara's Happiness

If Clara Bow, the screen's "It" girl, inset, doesn't feel well and needs a vacation, the checks which her former secretary, Miss Daisy De Voe, paraded in court, during Miss De Voe's trial on a charge of grand laceeny, may be partly responsible. Miss De Voe told of writing $2,000 checks for gifts to her employer's male admirers and many for gambling debts and liquor. Photos show Daisy looking over some of the 1,552 checks submitted as evidence, which totaled nearly $350,000 in a little more than a year.

L. H. Quinn Found Dead Tuesday After Long Search; Chas. Guy And Wife Safe

tensified. Starting at the point where he left the car, expert trackers took Mr. Quinn's trail and followed it from late in the forenoon until about 5:30 o'clock yesterday afternoon when the body was found.

Course of the man's route lay in a northwesterly direction after leaving the car and stopping once at the windmill. From this point the tracks revealed that he did not stop again but continued a steady gait over the endless sand dunes and lonesome prairie. Trackers were surprised to find that not once did the man, after becoming apparently lost, follow a road or a fence but on every occasion of encountering such, crossed and continued across the wide expanse of open territory.

Did Not Stop

Tracks showed that he did not stop once after leaving the windmill, not even a momentary stop for breath. At times the trail led in straight course but most of the time it veered to the right or left. A complete circle was made in the trail after which the tracks turned due west as if a definite point had been established in the mind of the lost man. Those who led yesterday's search expressed opinions that glare of lights from the town of Hobbs, N. M., attracted him and these lights were picked as his objective.

At no time did the wanderer attempt to light a fire with which to keep warm, according to signs revealed to those who relentlessly carried forward the trail yesterday. At some points, near the end of the trail, his steps seemed to become a bit shorter as if he were tiring, also weaving at brief intervals from side to side.

Those who conducted the search pushed forward rapidly as sundown neared, hoping against hope that some definite trace of the man might be found before dark. However, in the event that darkness caught the trailers before the objective was reached, preparations had been made to continue onward Tuesday night. A number of lanterns, flashlights and other lighting apparatus had been obtained.

Searchers Treated

Often during Tuesday as the rescue party passed or came near to ranch houses, they were called in to partake of steaming hot coffee which had been prepared for them. The entire countryside had been notified of the search and either contributed men to the hunt or lent means of encouragement to those who labored on.

Trailers became confident that they were nearing the end of their goal as the headquarters of the Tom Ivey ranch came into view about 4:45 o'clock and a short time later a hard riding cowboy appeared over the hill with the news that the body had been discovered. All speed was made to the scene, a scant two miles farther.

As the relief party came to a halt a short distance from the body, which lay outstretched on the hard ground near a fence, hardly a dry eye could be discerned in the entire group. Young and old men alike stood with bared heads for a brief moment of silent tribute.

Indicating that death came almost immediately, no traces could be found near the body of movements made after the man had fallen.

Less than a half mile away in full view lay the Ivey handquarters and members of the party stated that Mr. Quinn had evidently passed to this point under cover of darkness and had not seen the house. Had he passed in daylight a bare bit of reserve strength would have carried him to safety.

Among those who were in the party arriving at the scene were Charles A. Guy, John Jarrott, Charles Bacon, Gregg James, "Big Jim" Robinson, Ross Edwards, Bud Roberds, Hub Jones, Ross McWhorter, Weldon Hankins, Jed Rix, Henry Crosby, Lawrence Bacon, Jack Copeland, Fred Snyder, John Lemond, H. T. Boyd and Chas C. Watson.

Mr. Quinn, who weighed almost 200 pounds apparently was in good health but had suffered of high blood pressure.

Most of the searching parties worked only in Cochran county while it developed later the objects of the search were in Yoakum county, farther west.

Dorrance Roderick Here

Dorrance D. Roderick, publisher of the El Paso Herald-Times, reached here Monday afternoon and joined in the search. He estimated that he passed over the pasture where the missing party was marooned. He formerly was associated with Mr. Guy and Mr. Quinn in business here.

A plane piloted by Ben Brannon and containing Irving Hall and A. B. Brown made two flights over the area under search. Another ship with R. F. Hinchey and S. T. Shoff, pilot, also aided in the hunt.

Five army ships from Fort Sill aided in the search at the request of Dr. Dunn, Major L. H. Brereton was in command of the nine other fliers in the fleet. The planes reached here from Lawton, Oklahoma, in two hours despite a strong headwind, then began to scour southern Cochran county.

Coming to Lubbock from Green Bay, Wisconsin, in March, 1927, Mr. Quinn joined the advertising staff of the Avalanche-Journal and since that time has been active in various civic enterprises.

After a few months here, he was made advertising manager in which capacity he served until becoming publisher when Dorrance D. Roderick became publisher of the El Paso Herald-Times.

While in Green Bay, Mr. Quinn served on the staff of the Press-Gazette and prior to that time was a member of the staffs of the Daily-Phoenix and Times-Democrat in Muskogee, Oklahoma. He was a graduate of Westminister College at Fulton, Missouri, having been a star athlete while in school. He was a member of Beta Theta Pi fraternity.

Mr. Quinn was a member of the First Presbyterian church. He was an active member of the Lubbock Kiwanis club, a director of the Lubbock Board of City Development and secretary of the Lubbock Country club.

He was a member of the Masonic lodge.

A number of out-of-town people are to arrive here for the funeral. Included among them will be Mr. and Mrs. Charles A. Guy, Sr., of Tulsa, parents of Charles A. Guy of this city; Mr. and Mrs. Harry Meyers, Dr. and Mrs. George Ingham, Gene Howe and Wilbur Hawk, business associates of Mr. Quinn, all of Amarillo.

J. Lindsay Nunn of Amarillo also is here.

Only a brother and sister are said to survive. The sister is believed to be in Chicago while the address of the brother is not known.

Mr. Quinn was to have been married within the next few weeks to Miss Francis Bagot, 342 West Eighth Street, Anderson, Indiana. She was notified of his death and is likely to attend the funeral here. Word is expected from her today.

Ex-Postmaster At Borger Is Charged

AMARILLO, Jan. 20. (AP)—Harold Rothchild, former Borger postmaster, today made $4,000 bond before the United States commissioner here on a charge of conspiring with unknown persons to steal $3,292.63 from the postoffice department last November 20. He was arrested this morning in Borger.

When the robbery was reported, last November, Rothchild told Amarillo postoffice authorities that two armed men came to his home shortly after 6 p. m., and that one of them took him to the postoffice to open the safe, while the other remained at his home to guard Mrs. Rothchild and a nephew.

After the postoffice safe was robbed, he was returned to his home and placed in the bathroom where his wife and nephew were held prisoners, according to his story.

Bandits Escape Despite Work Of Texas Posse

BOYD, Jen. 20. (AP)—Although trailed to a filling station four miles west of Springtown by a posse headed by Constable A. J. Scroggins of Boyd, two armed men who held up and robbed the Continental State bank here of $2,700 this morning were thought tonight to have made good their escape among the little used roads of this vicinity.

Men answering the descriptions of the robbers obtained gas at the filling station near Springtown, but no further tangible clues as to the route of the flight were found.

Lorenzo Aid Unit Formed

Families In Need Are To Be Helped In Showing Of Films; Committee Will Sponsor Work

(By Staff Correspondent)

LORENZO, Jan. 20. Lorenzo residents have formed a group for the purpose of rendering aid to those families in the community who are in need of assistance and as one of the means of raising funds, a picture show may be given provided the film companies are willing to do their part.

R. J. Terrell, city secretary and a member of the committee, has written to half a dozen of the distributors, asking them if they would be willing to send films to Lorenzo for the purpose of giving a show in the Crystal Theater. Tentative dates are January 30 and 31.

Agrees To Building

"Greek" Davis, the manager, has agreed to give the free use of the building for as many shows as films are secured for. Electric power for lights and the operation of the projector will be donated by the Texas Utility company while the West Texas Gas company is said to have agreed to furnish gas for the heating of the showhouse.

"We expect to use all of this money and more too, in relief work," Mayor A. C. Woodward explained. "We organized the committee for relief work. E. N. Baker, Emily Pieratt of the bank and R. J. Terrell, city secretary, are on the committee.

One Family In Need

"Lorenzo does not have much of a problem just now, but we will, I am sure. There is one family here where the husband and father was badly hurt, and is so far unable to work. We are looking after him. Calls are beginning to come in for aid and we are going to need every bit of help we can."

The committee was formed at the request of committees from the several churches who asked the city officials to make plans for relieving distress. Appeals have been issued for food, clothing and work, as well as cash.

The city ofice has been used as a clearing house of relief work. Persons who have work to be done call on the committee or at the office or Mayor Woodward and leave their names. Similarly, these who want work as reporting to the city.

Home Makers Of Hale County Chase "Old Man Hard Times" Out Of Sight

PLAINVIEW, Jan. 20. (Special)—The home makers of Hale County did their part during 1930 to beat "Old Man Hard Times." This fact is revealed in the annual report of Mrs. Julia Kelley, Hale County home demonstration agent.

There are twenty-one women and girls clubs partaking in the work in this county, which have a membership of approximately two hundred.

Mrs. Kelley's report shows a total of 84,000 No. 2 tins, 89,000 quart tins of food exclusive of that in glass containers, were put up by the house wives doing club work. This, according to Mrs. Kelley's estimate, is about one-third of the food preserved by the club ladies of this county.

This pantry work together with poultry, dairy and home improvement formed the basis of the county work. Home gardens are perhaps the most important factor in the development of the 4-H pantry, which involves food preservation, and storage of home grown products.

Improvement of poultry flocks in breed, shelter and care are the things stressed in this study. Records kept for eight months by ten poultry demonstrators in the county show a profit of $2,618.84.

Over 600 pounds of American cheese for home use was made during 1930.

Much thought has been given to improvement of the home both inside and outside in this work. The homes following out this work are not worrying about low prices or business depression.

STUDY BREAD PRICES

Senate Shows Price Of Wheat Down And Bread Up

WASHINGTON, Jan. 20. (AP)—The senate's investigation of food prices opened Monday with presentation by Senator Wagner, Democrat, New York, of what he called "Prima Facie" evidence the retail price of bread has failed to reflect the decline in the prices of wheat and flour.

Wagner, author of the bread inquiry offered department of labor index figures to show the average cost of bread dropped only from 158.9 to 153.6 from October 1929 to October 1930, while four dropped from $6.10 to $4.30 a barrel.

The Rev. Henry W. Haynes, who has been appointed to fill the pulpit of Christ Church, Eastbourne, England, worked for 46 years in a brewery office, and took holy orders at 62.
