San Antonio Bus Hijacked

SAN ANTONIO (AP)-An escaped mental patient commandeered a city bus, threatened the driver and lone passenger with a sharp stick, and drove it about 10 miles before he was apprehended Wednesday, officials said.

The 26-year-old man hurled a potted plant through the opening, outran guards and attendants at the San Antonio State Hospital and boarded the city bus, a hospital spokesman said.

Shah Subpoenaed

SAN ANTONIO (AP)-The deposed shah of Iran has been subpoenaed to tell what he knows about a labor dispute between Bell Helicopter International Inc. and 69 former pilots.

The pilots, in a $6 million suit, allege Bell Helicopter violated the pilot's contracts to train Iranian military recruits in 1975 at a Bell facility in Isfahan, Iran.

The suit, filed in August 1976, contends Bell fired the pilots after they organized a union to enforce the terms of their contract and remedy what they claimed were unsafe training operations.

About-Face On Kennedy

TEHRAN, Iran (AP)-A leading Tehran newspaper did an about-face and published a condemnation of Sen. Edward Kennedy today after his disavowal of a bogus letter expressing his support for Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini.

"It would be dangerous for the Iranian nation to think that there is any difference between Kennedy and Carter," the newspaper Islamic Republic said.

Wins Stay Of Execution

COLUMBIA, S.C. (AP)-Convicted murderer Joseph C. Shaw, who had been scheduled to die in the electric chair at 5 a.m. Friday, won a stay of execution today from a federal appeals judge.

U.S. Fourth Circuit Court of Appeals Judge J. Dickson Phillips issued his ruling in Durham, N.C., at 11 a.m. shortly after hearing arguments.

Loses Parental Rights

LONGVIEW (AP)-A unidentified woman has lost all parental rights to a baby she abandoned near a manger scene at the First Baptist church here.

State District Judge William Martin announced he has terminated "all parental relationships affecting the child known as Timothy Christmas. The action cleared the way for adoptions proceedings to begin.

55 Saves Lives, Says TSA Chief

AUSTIN (AP)—An estimated 1,400 lives have been saved in Texas since the 55 mph speed limit went into effect, the head of the Texas Safety Association said today.

"There has been a 60 percent decrease in spinal cord injuries from automobile accidents and we are saving an estimated 5 million gallons of gasoline a day," said George Gustafson, executive director of the association, which is financed by 1,100 member companies.

The SDN Column

Pity the poor Pittsburgh Steelers!

Those inept officials did them in down at Houston Monday night. If you don't believe it, ask Howard Cosell and Fran Tarkenton who did the TV talkathon on ABC. or Jack Buck and Hank Stram who did the same for CBs on radio.

This was the situation: After trailing the Houston Oilers, 20-10, the Steelers suddenly scored a touchdown in the final minutes on a long pass, pulling up to 20-17. An onside kick try was ruled short. A replay on television indicated that it could have been a bad call. However, when the play actually occurred, Buck and Stram on the radio both declared that it looked short, even before the official made his decision. Cosell, whose Steeler blood was manifest throughout the evening, was incensed and Tarkenton agreed. Buck and Stram said it would cause a big controversy. All predicted that it would go in the books as a tainted victory for Houston.

Dallas Cowboy fans viewed it from another perspective. Nothing was said about the pass interference call in last January's Super Bowl which turned the game in Pittsburgh's favor—a decision that no less authority than NFL Commissioner Pete Rozelle later announced was incorrect.

So, for the Monday night incident at Houston, Cowboy fans could react only with a ha ha ha ha ha ha ha ha ha ha.

Oiler Coach Bum Phillips probably rationalized it best. He said he couldn't question the call on the onside kick try without also questioning a couple of pass interference calls against Oiler receivers earlier in the game. They say these things balance off eventually, even in Pittsburgh.

For all Texans, Monday night's game meant that for two more games, at least, there's a chance for an all-Texas Super Bowl. If that comes to pass we can send wreaths of condolence to Howard Cosell and Jack Buck.

And while we are on the subject of pity, what about the Iranian students in San Antonio who vowed they were on a hunger strike? So far as we are concerned a little food saved is a little food gained. What they don't eat could be sent to Cambodia or some other place where people are hungry. And we are willing to let them turn down all food so long as they want.

ICE TAKES A TOLL—Ice was beginning to take a toll on trees and shrubbery as the second day of sleet and rain kept the Snyder area in its grip. This fallen tree limb all but covered the pickup truck of Johnnie Walker at 2317 Sunset. (SDN Staff Photo)

Ask Us

Q—What are the items covered under the Texas "Blue Law?"

A—There are some three dozen of them—more than we can list in this space. However, we are listing them on page 13 of this issue of the SDN and if you will turn there you will find them.

Buildup Of Ice Taking A Toll

A tenacious icy spell maintained a firm grip over the Snyder area this morning, but forecasters promised that the situation would ease by Friday.

Slow rain that froze on trees, shrubbery and utility lines as it fell, continued this morning as a high pressure ridge covered the state.

Temperatures hovered around the freezing mark. This led to some thawing on streets and roads, but bridges were still reported to be dangerous and ice still formed on windshields and cars along with trees and shrubbery.

The overnight low was only 28 degrees, but there was little warming during the day Wednesday and this morning.

The cold did produce some welcome moisture, although it put a damper on the cotton harvest. Fortunately, much of the area's cotton crop has either gone to the gins or is packed into modules in the fields. Some damage was expected to crops that had not been harvested prior to the beginning of the weather spell.

Skies were beginning to clear in the Panhandle early today and the clearing trend was expected to gradually move across the state. Early morning temperatures ranged from the 20s in the Panhandle to the low 50s in South Texas.

Accumulation of ice were beginning to snap some tree limbs in the Snyder area.

Wreck Victim's Rites Set Friday

Funeral service has been set for 2 p.m. Friday at the Fluvanna Church of Christ for Teddy Lloyd Keith, 8-year-old North Elementary School pupil who was killed Wednesday morning when a school bus overturned.

Don Campbell, minister, will officiate, and burial will be in the Fluvanna Cemetery, under direction of Bell-Seale Funeral Home.

The child's body was found under the bus after the vehicle had skidded on icy pavement and overturned 9.8 miles west of Snyder on U.S. Highway 180. He apparently had been thrown through a door or window of the bus when it overturned. The other 14 students on the bus went on to their respective schools, most of them unaware that there had been a fatality in the accident. The child was pronounced dead at the scene by Dan Callaway, justice of the peace.

"There were a lot of red-eyed students in North Elementary School today," said Jim Erwin, principal. Erwin said that the young victim of the tragedy had a lot of friends in school among both faculty and student body.

Other North Elementary pupils on the bus were Valentino Gonzales, Josie Gonzales, Cynthia Gonzales, Felix Gonzales, Henry Bilano, Rocky Costillo, Jennifer Eytchison, Mark Stansell, Gregory Stansell and Jaymie Gregory. Also riding the bus, which was en route from the Fluvanna community to Snyder, were Patricia Gregory, a Snyder Junior High Student, and Dawn Weller, Noah Bilano and Vickie Gregory, high school students.

TEDDY LLOYD KEITH

Teddy Lloyd Keith is survived by his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Shonie C. Keith; a sister, Carrie Maybelle Keith; a brother, Chad Colin Keith; and grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Ainsworth of Snyder and Harley Keith of Chilchinbeto, Ariz.

Pallbearers will be Jack Ainsworth, Ronnie Beaver, Clyde Smith and Don Jones. Lunch for the family will be served at noon Friday at the Fluvanna Community Center.

College Board To Meet Friday

Trustees of the Scurry County Junior College District will hold a special meeting at 7 a.m. Friday in the faculty dining room at Western Texas College.

The meeting has been called to receive the annual audit report for the college district for the fiscal year which ended Aug. 31. The board also will discuss a proposal to build some racquetball courts at WTC.

SNYDER TEMPERATURES: High Wednesday, 33 degrees; low 28 degrees; reading at 7 a.m. today, 32 degrees; precipitation, .63; total precipitation for 1979 to date, 19.33.

West Texas—Considerable cloudiness with scattered light and chance of few thunderstorms south. Fair north. Decreasing cloudiness with precipitation ending tonight, becoming fair over most of area except southeast Friday. Cold today, slightly warmer Friday. Highs upper 30s north to mid 50s south. Lows low 20s north to mid 30s south. Highs Friday mostly 50s except 60s Big Bend.

Saudis Confirm Oil Price Hikes

BRUSSELS, Belgium (AP)—Oil Minister Sheik Ahmed Zaki Yamani said today Saudi Arabia will raise oil prices even before next week's OPEC pricing meeting. Another Arab oil chief said the Saudis and some other producers plan $6-a-barrel hikes, but he said they would not take effect until Jan. 1.

If applied across the board by all 13 nations of the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries, increases in that range could add 5 to 10 cents to the price of a gallon of gasoline or heating oil in the United States.

In comments reported by the United Arab Emirates news agency, UAE Oil Minister Mana Said al Oteiba said the UAE, Saudi Arabia and Qatar would raise the per-barrel price by $6 at the end of the year. This would be a 33 percent increase over the current Saudi base price of $18.

Yamani, asked by a reporter to confirm this, said, "Part of that report is true." But he would go no further.

Asked then whether his country would raise prices before the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries' winter meeting, which begins Monday in Caracas, Venezuela, he replied, "Yes."

The Saudi minister would not elaborate. He was in Brussels for talks with Foreign Minister Henri Simonet and other Belgian officials.

The newspaper Al Fajer in Abu Dhabi, one of the emirates in the UAE, had reported that several major OPEC members were planning to raise crude oil prices by $8 a barrel by the end of the week.

A $24-a-barrel Saudi price would be 50 cents above the OPEC ceiling set in June.

Winter's Worst Hampers Rural Mail Carriers

Rural mail carriers expect to deal with more than their share of snow and sleet and freezing rain, but Postmaster Jack Tilson today reminded customers in the Snyder area that his carriers will need some assistance during winter months.

Rural (and highway contract route) carriers will make every reasonable effort to serve as many customers as possible during severe winter weather, but Tilson said carriers are not expected to leave their vehicles and provide service on foot when roads, entire blocks, or other large portions of their routes are impassable.

"Rural (and contract carriers) are expected to leave their vehicles to serve temporarily blocked individual boxes where there is no risk of personal injury or unusual physical exertion," Tilson said, "but not when access to several mailboxes along a continuous segment of a route is blocked."

Tilson said his office keeps in close contact with traffic and weather advisories to determine if delivery should be suspended on a particular day, and with highway department officials to make sure public roads are passable and in good repair.

"We need everyone's cooperation in keeping approaches to boxes clear of snow and any other obstructions," Tilson said, "so we can avoid cutting anyone's mail delivery even temporarily."

Police Hunt For Missing Money Bag

Police are probing the disappearance of a money bag containing $722 in cash.

The theft is reported to have occurred last night at the Lamesa Highway Food Basket. Reports indicate the money bag was taken while clerk Linda Elam was occupied in another part of the store. The theft was reported at 9:50 p.m.

In another matter, police reported recovering the stereo equipment stolen last month from Troy Whetsel. Police said they anticipate charges will be filed in the incident, although none have been filed to date. The stereo equipment was valued at $750.

Two juveniles were picked up at TG&Y for allegedly shoplifting several items. The youths were later released to the custody of their parents. That matter was reported about 1:25 p.m.

Only one minor traffic accident was worked. It involved a parked 1974 Ford owned by Anice Wallace and another vehicle which fled the scene. It was reported at the parking lot of the Spanish Inn Restaurant at 11:05 a.m. and was investigated by Officer Don Cheek.

time to scale down

Good news. For the first time in 30 years tax money is going into state and local government at a smaller rate. A recent Rand Corporation report indicates that since 1975 the fraction of the gross national product consumed by local and state bureaucracies has decreased. This, according to the think tank, is due to national epidemic of state-imposed fiscal controls - a brushfire sparked by public indignation over increased taxation and governmental waste.

Rand found that half of all states have imposed some sort of limit on local or state taxes; 16 have adopted their controls since 1975. Tax limitation is not confined to an particular kind of state. Urban states and rural ones have enacted such legislation. States with traditionally high taxes (Alaska) have passed such laws, as well as ones with historically low tax levels (Indiana). The movement seems to reflect a national mood of voter disapproval of bond issues and even the ousting of free-spending incumbents from long-held public offices.

The tax revolt, as Rand sees it, may have been ignited by the public perception that people are not getting their money's worth for the taxes they pay. By 1978, seven out of 10 people felt that way. This change is due to more than the increased tax load.

Over the last 20 years there has been a shift away from government spending for programs such as road construction and maintenance to new spending plans that aid specific groups rather than the general taxpayers themselves.

Exemplifying this is the expansion of health and welfare spending. Simultaneously, there has been an increase in the number of higher-paid public employees and a decrease in the number of lower-paid public employees and a decrease in the number of lower-paid government workers, the ones usually doing the busy work.

In the past five years prior to the passage of Prop. 13 City of Los Angeles spending increased $400 million, yet services did not increase. Rand Corporation researchers found the number of police officers, firefighters, sanitation and street maintenance workers hardly changed. What increased was the number of employees of "overhead" agencies such as the offices of the major, city council, city attorney and controller. So what the taxpayers received for $400 million was more overhead, something to be grateful for - if you are part of the overhead.

The inflation rate has exacerbated the situation, pushing people into higher tax brackets. Coupling higher tax brackets with a decrease in services has created a public discontent that Rand predicts will result in much more than a fleeting expression of protest. The change in public mood could, the think tank speculates, be the beginning of a "new era of scaled-down government."

We hope the prediction is correct that American taxpayers have finally wised up, and this will result in "scaled-down government." But it must always be remembered that politicians with something-for-nothing promises got us into the current economic mess. As long as they are around to tempt the public, the problem will still be only a voting box away.

hot item from kitchen

Here's what could be a hot item.

A seafood specialist at Texas A&M University, Annette Reddel, is hoping to set America's stoves and grills to sizzling with a new delicacy - shark. Shark steaks, shark teriyaki, shark kebobs, you name it.

Whether you want to taste it, of course, is another matter but one Ms. Reddell believes can be handled with a bit of education. Supporting her contention that the shark's acceptability as a food source has been too long ignored, she points out that the flesh is firm, there are no bones, it lends itself to a variety of preparations and there is a plentiful supply of several species in U.S. waters, particularly off the Gulf Coast.

Utilization, she maintains, is simply a matter of overcoming a psychological block. Which, if managed, might not only expand culinary art but rewrite the definition of what makes news:

Man bites shark.

modern slavery

Alex Haley, retracing the roots of his own family, made Americans rightly ashamed of their own selfish ancestors who, 150 years ago, sought, bought and brought African blacks to the United States to do stoop labor, field work which white people were too lazy to do.

Shame on us, we said.

And yet -- in now opening our nation to the importation of foreign workers who are willing to do work that homefolks are too lazy to do -- are we not repeating the greed of our grandfathers and inviting again all the problems that inevitably eventually explode when one race seeks to make servants of another?

Across the Rio Grande in a flood tide come illegal Mexican farm workers because there are American landowners eager to employ them for stoop labor in fields that otherwise might go unharvested.

Into our country from a hundred other countries come immigrants, legal and otherwise, because homefolks don't want to work as dishwashers and maids and gardeners.

At this moment in concealed coves along the Florida coast blacks in rags stumble ashore -- most of them from Haiti -- have survived open and often stormy seas in flimsy boats or rafts made from the lashed-together trunks of trees.

Immigration officials profess inability to intercept the incoming tide and inability to deport even those they catch.

Those who smuggle these blacks into the United States may demand up to a thousand dollars for their clandestine service.

So most of the Haitians, for money to pay the smuggler, made the 800-mile trip to the United States in two stages. First they go to one of the islands in the Bahamas where they work at menial jobs, living in squalor, saving every penny.

I'm advised that some smugglers, if spotted by the Coast Guard, have no reluctance to dump their human cargo overboard in order to conceal their crime.

One way or another, many are lost at sea.

More than 25,000 have made it to Florida; nobody knows how many more.

Other tens of thousands have disappeared into the ghetto areas of New York City and Montreal.

United States efforts to deport those who get caught are frustrated by civil rights organizations initiating interminable court fights which, so far, they are winning.

Meanwhile, just in the Miami area, illegals resisting deportation are a $2.7 million annual burden on taxpayers who must provide for their welfare, health care and other services.

Most of the Haitians illegally in the United States are not unlike the African slaves of 150 years ago. They are poor, black, cannot speak English. Many have tuberculosis, venereal diseases.

Because they are in the country illegally -- not wanting to get caught -- in effect they become indentured servants to anybody willing to hire them at any wage; in effect, slaves.

Thus, in our inglorious quest for another "servant class," again lazy Americans are sowing for subsequent generations the seeds of civil strife.

commentary

donald f. graff

A lot of young Americans who have long thought school a drag have been seconded by some influential older Americans.

The Carnegie Council on Policy Studies in Higher Education has taken a close, hard look at secondary education, American style, and some to the conclusion that, in the words of Chairman Clark Kerr, for many young people "high school is an alienating experience... like a prison."

The consequences are in the statistics. The dropout rate in a national system enrolling some 14 million students has reached 23 percent, with figures for blacks and hispanics going much higher -- 35 percent and 45 percent, respectively.

Of those remaining in school, some 20 percent are deficient in language skills and in basic mathematics. Truancy is chronic and preparation for permanent employment increasingly inadequate.

Overall, the council found "about one-third of our youth are ill-educated, ill-employed and ill-equipped to make their way in American society."

The council's report, entitled "Giving Youth a Better Chance," has a few suggestions for remedying the sifuation.

To start with, it would break up what Kerr terms "the monolithic high school and its deadly weekly routine." It proposes smaller schools and rescheduling to avoid the rigid five-day week. Classroom instruction would alternate with one or more days of education-related work or community service.

High-school curricula would no longer include vocational programs, which would be located instead in actual work environments or in "skills centers" associated with community colleges and similar institutions emphasizing specialized instruction.

Sweeping as they are, the proposals should not be considered utopian, coming as they do from an institution that already has made its mark on American education. The Carnegie Council has been a powerful force in the rapid expansion of the two-year community-college system during recent decades.

The cost -- estimated at up to $1.9 billion -- if not the concept may give the public and school authorities pause, however. But should the effort slow or reverse to any significant extent the long-term and serious deterioration in the quality of public education, it would be a bargain at several times the price.

Remember black studies?

They were one of the fruits of the turbulent campus '60s, a time when raising racial consciousness vied with the anti-war movement as a cause of student defiance of Main Hall administrators.

Time now seems to be passing the black programs by. Harvard is the latest institution reported to be reassessing its efforts in this area.

The road has been downhill almost from the start of the black-studies movement. Programs have been isolated, or have isolated themselves, from the campus mainstream.

They have experienced difficulty in attracting qualified faculty, adequate financing and, most important of all, students. Participation if not always interest tended to fall off rapidly under the hard judgment of the job market, where a grounding in engineering counts for far more than a thorough grasp of medieval Hausa history.

There are still some 200 black-studies programs on U.S. campuses, but thriving is certainly not the word for the movement as a whole.

Harvard is reportedly considering restructuring its Afro-American Studies Department as a degree-granting academic committee integrated with other departments and the instructional main stream.

Perhaps that's where it should have been all along.

To The Daily News:

Human rights: A philantropist is one who believes that the duty of man consists of equal justice to all, rich and poor alike. In this country our courthouses have this slogan, "Equal Justice to All." There are two justices in this country, justice to the rich, justice to the poor. Example of this justice was the trial of Cullen Davis.

A guest is one who is entertained at one's house and table as a friend. There are two kinds of guests, the invited and the uninvited. Some of the famous uninvited guests, the Spanish when they entered Mexico, Leon Trotsky, Fidel Castro, a guest of this country, Ho Chi Min, a guest of the French government, the Shah, a guest of the U.S. government.

The taxpayers of this country are spending more money to protect this guest than the president of this country. The question of human rights of men, one is a former king with estimated wealth of about six billion dollars, the other is fifty men of no rank in life and no wealth. The question of human rights is do we trade one man's life for fifty lives?

thoughts

The petrel, a small sea bird, receives its name from Peter's walking upon the Sea of Galilee. Petrels are said to be most active before a storm and a "stormy petrel" is a modern description of one who is fond of trouble.

"And he said, Come, and when Peter was come down out of the ship, he walked on the water, to go to Jesus." — Matt. 14:29

my turn

by john long

I've had two animal stories come my way recently. One is about birds and cold weather, while the other concerns the loyalty and devotion of a dog.

The cold weather Wednesday morning caught not only people by surprise but birds, too. Mrs. Rex Glass from Hermleigh called to report that birds were literally frozen to the branches of trees in her back yard.

"I just thought birds survived," she said. "I didn't know they could freeze on the branches."

Some of the birds were dead, but frozen stiff and still perched on the tree branches. Some were still alive, but the intense cold had made their legs brittle and any attempt at lifting the birds from the branches resulted in their legs being snapped off.

Other birds, Mrs. Glass reported, were alive and on the ground, but so numbed by the cold they couldn't fly.

Animal stories, I guess, are a dime a dozen, but I had to agree with Mrs. Glass that I had never heard of birds being frozen to branches of trees in this part of the country.

The next story isn't bad either.

B.J. Price called several days ago to relate the story of two dogs dumped out on the highway near Ezell-Key Feed and Seed.

One of the dogs had been run over, but the other dog, despite his friend's death, refused to leave. He had been at his dead friend's side for two days when Price called.

"I guess he'll stay there till he starves to death," said Price. "It kind of got my sympathy."

I haven't heard any update on the story since then, but would be interested in knowing whatever became of the animal.

Price also questioned the morality of dumping dogs out on the highway.

"If they just take them out and kill them it would be more humane than dumping them like that," said Price.

When today's hand was played some years ago in a local duplicate, only one pair reached the cinch three-notrump contract. Everyone else played at some number of clubs. They all played exactly 10 tricks so those who stopped at a part score were plus 130, those who got to five were minus 50 and the one pair that bid a slam was minus 100.

The one pair that reached three notrump got there rather peculiarly. It seems that South elected to bid one spade over the heart overcall. For some unaccountable reason, West failed to raise his partner's heart overcall. Then North looked at his hand and decided to bid two diamonds, whereupon South jumped to three notrump and naturally made an easy nine tricks.

When we were given the hand we decided to start proceedings with a heart cue bid by South. Then West went to three hearts, North and East passed and we simply bid three notrump with the South hand.

Of course, South has no diamond stopper. But he does hold the ace of hearts and can really expect a heart lead. That gets him right on lead and North's minimum opening includes just the right cards to let South collect a quick nine tricks.

Marriage Announced

Theresa Dennis and Mark Bawcum exchanged marriage vows in a 5 p.m. ceremony in the parlor at First Baptist Church Nov. 30.

Parents of the bride are Mr. and Mrs. J.C. (Bud) Dennis. The groom's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Don May of Hermleigh and Richard Bawcum of Houston.

The bride's attendant was Anne Beuerline and serving as best man was Tony Cagle.

Couples involved in re-marriage often have older in-laws for whom they may be responsible, says Dorthy Taylor, a family life education specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, The Texas A&M University System.

This may become a stressful situation for some but enjoyable for others, she points out.

Minnelli Resting After Miscarriage

NEW YORK (AP)—Singer-actress Liza Minnelli is resting at a friend's midtown Manhattan apartment after suffering a miscarriage, according to a friend.

Miss Minnelli, who was two months pregnant, was rushed to New York Hospital-Cornell Medical Center on Monday morning and was released late that night. She was recently married to Mark Gero.

FUNNY BUSINESS

His Last Letter Was First Class

By Abigail Van Buren

© 1979 by Chicago Tribune-N.Y. News Synd. Inc.

DEAR ABBY: I'm sitting here on the plane reading the letter in your column about the son who didn't want to put his father up temporarily because he felt his father's visit would be an invasion of his privacy.

That item caught my eye because I am on my way to visit my son in Omaha for two weeks—at his insistence. I was reluctant to do so initially because I felt I might be interfering with his personal activities.

I wonder if the son who wrote that letter ever gave a thought to the privacy his father might have forfeited during his son's time at home?

There were times during my children's lives when, given my druthers, I'd have preferred some alternative activity, but now I don't regret one minute of the time I spent with them. I'm only sorry it couldn't have been more. Their time at home seems to have been so brief.

I won't mail this, of course, since I realize you will receive thousands of more articulate letters on the above. This is just my way of

DEAR ABBY: My father died suddenly of a heart attack, and this unfinished letter was in his pocket. My wife and I will miss him very much. Sign this . . .

"A SON WHO REALLY WANTED HIS DAD TO COME."
WILLIAM SMZYK, OMAHA, NEBR.

DEAR ABBY: My husband is 33 but sometimes acts like a child. He refuses to shave or comb his hair on weekends, thinks deodorants are for women, walks around barefoot, slurps his coffee, blows on his food, cracks his knuckles, and when he belches he never says, "Excuse me."

We've been married for seven years and he seems to get more gross every year.

I am fairly neat and well-mannered. When I try to correct him, he blows up and picks a fight with me. He wasn't this way when I married him. What shall I do?

ANGRY IN SAN MATEO

DEAR ANGRY: How you "correct" him is important. Take one offense at a time, explaining that his slovenliness offends you and his rudeness hurts and irritates you.

When you attack a man, he'll instinctively either try to defend himself or counter-attack. Anger generates anger. Love generates love. Think about it.

DEAR ABBY: Thank you for printing the letter from the 16-year-old girl who had recently undergone a hysterectomy as a result of gonorrhea. So many people believe gonorrhea is a minor infection that's easily detected and quickly cured.

Like the girl who wrote to you, I wasn't a "sleep-around" type either. I had only one boyfriend, but even though he KNEW he was infected, and had seen his doctor for treatment, he didn't mention it to me. My doctor misdiagnosed my symptoms, and even though I was 24, I was naive and uninformed, which resulted in my having a hysterectomy, too. I'm still single, but I plan some day to adopt because I want a family.

Please keep warning your readers of the consequences (and symptoms) of VD. This letter is sincere, but please forgive me for not signing my name.

A READER

DEAR READER: VD is still a serious epidemic. Anyone reading this (regardless of age) who suspects that he (or she) has it should phone the VD hotline (toll-free) 800-523-1885. All questions will be answered by trained persons, and you'll be told where to get an examination and treatment free!

CONFIDENTIAL TO "ALL CONFUSED IN SATELLITE BEACH, FLA.": Don't mistake that "ringing" in yours ears with wedding bells. When a man tells you to date other guys, it usually means that he wants to date other girls.

Getting married? Whether you want a formal church wedding or a simple do-your-own-thing ceremony, get Abby's new booklet, "How to Have a Lovely Wedding." Send $1 and a long, stamped (28 cents) self-addressed envelope to Abby: 132 Lasky Drive, Beverly Hills, Calif. 90212.

In 1776, American Navy ships raided Nassau to seize arms, powder and ammunition for use by the Revolutionary Army. The Americans occupied the town for two weeks and took away the governor and the Royal Inspector General of North American Customs as hostages.

SALT Skeptics Like Defense Plan

WASHINGTON (AP)— President Carter's blueprint for sharply increased defense spending through 1985 appears to come close to meeting some demands of key skeptics of the SALT II treaty.

Carter sent Defense Secretary Harold Brown to the Senate Armed Services Committee today to sketch in details of the program, which emphasizes increasing U.S. ability to rush troops to remote trouble spots such as the Persian Gulf.

Previewing Brown's testimony, Carter told a group of businessmen Wednesday that he is proposing annual increases in defense spending authority of more than 4.5 percent for the next five years. That is 4.5 percent above inflation.

The fiscal 1981 budget will propose $157 billion in budget authority, an increase of more than 5 percent, he said.

Under normal circumstances, the defense budget would not be announced until January. However, Carter apparently tipped his hand, now in hopes of winning Senate votes for the arms limitation treaty with the Soviet Union.

Sen. Sam Nunn, D-Ga., expected to play a pivotal role in the SALT debate, said Wednesday he had been briefed by Brown on the administration's proposals, but was not ready to say whether he would support the treaty.

Nunn and former Secretary of State Henry Kissinger, along with others, have been demanding a 5 percent increase in defense budget authority. Among other demands, Nunn also called for money to compensate for unpredicted increases in inflation. Carter said Wednesday he would do that.

Nunn is not expected to announce his position on SALT II before Christmas, and perhaps not until the state of debate on the treaty next year.

A high adminstration official, who asked not to be named, said Carter's address to the Business Council "indicates a mutuality of perspective" with Nunn.

"I will not claim that it involves this or that program or the size of it," the official said. "But there is a common recognition of the need to do more."

Claims Carter...

Missiles In Europe To Aid Arms Control

BRUSSELS, Belgium (AP) — The North Atlantic Treaty Organization's decision to station new American nuclear missiles in Western Europe is a step toward arms control, officials of the Carter administration claim.

They contend that the best way to get the Russians interested in decreasing military tensions in Europe is for the West to show resolve.

The Soviets have more than 100 SS-20 missiles aimed at Western Europe. Because of the action taken Wednesday at NATO's winter meeting, the United States will deploy 572 Pershing II and Tomahawk cruise missiles in West Germany, Britain and Italy, and possibly in the Netherlands and Belgium, beginning in 1983.

A new round of arms control negotiations to scrap those missiles and the Russian SS-20s begins with the publication of this communique, said a U.S. strategist after the announcement of the NATO decision.

It's a tricky, two-track approach the United States is taking with its allies — building up nuclear weapons to convince the other side to join in slowing down the arms race.

To demonstrate the sincerity of its commitment to arms reduction while deploying the missiles, the United States will withdraw 1,000 old nuclear warheads from Western Europe. And Secretary of State Cyrus R. Vance said it is ready to negotiate cutbacks with the Russians right away, even before the Senate votes on the SALT 2 treaty.

The question is how the Soviets will view NATO's decision.

Last week, foreign ministers of the seven Warsaw Pact countries switched from harsh warnings against new Western nuclear arms to an appeal for broad East-West disarmament talks.

Poet Marianne Moore was born in 1887.

One Room Schoolhouse Surviving In Michigan

By ANDREW ANGELO
Associated Press Writer

SHILOH, Mich. (AP)-"I just think they learn more."

That's the opinion of a parent who has sent five children to a one-room wooden schoolhouse painted fire engine red.

This year, 26 families are sending 29 children to the 100-year-old Shiloh School, where teacher Linda Hausserman handles kindergarten through sixth grade.

"It's just one way, and we'll be here until the state forces us to close," said June Leland, treasurer of the three-member school board for Shiloh, 30 miles east of Grand Rapids. Barbara Beamon, the mother whose five children have attended Shiloh, is school board president.

But closing is unlikely for Shiloh School. While other such schools have fallen prey to district annexations and consolidations, Shiloh keeps going strong. It is one of 35 one-room schoolhouses left in Michigan, seven of which are here in Ionia County.

The school provides an education the parents consider worth holding onto and that is how the school survives. The parents supply the more than $30,000 a year needed to run the school.

Because there is only one teacher at Shiloh, involvement among parents, children and teacher is greater than at a larger school.

"I have parents coming in all the time," said Ms. Hausserman. "Before school, after school—they want to know how their child's doing. They even bring in Kleenex for the school."

The job of teacher at a one-room school today is much as it was 50 or 100 years ago, says Linda Emelander, who teaches at the one-room Piper School two miles north of Shiloh School. More than 110 years old, Piper has only 14 students.

"You have to be very loyal and ready to put forth many more hours," said Ms. Emelander. "You have to have a willingness to do everything, from being a janitor to a nurse. We mend clothes, the whole bit."

Ms. Emelander acknowledges that one-room schoolhouses cannot offer modern science equipment and other perks readily available at larger schools. But she believes country schools excel at giving children the opportunity to be independent and to feel secure with basic math, reading and writing.

"They know they aren't going to be led by the hand through things," she said. "It's coming back to the basics. Kids must have them. And you find the basics stressed very much at the country school."

Changes Insurance Status, Says Supreme Court...

Touring Taverns In Company Vehicles Taboo

AUSTIN (AP)—Driving a company truck with the boss' permission is one thing but touring local taverns in it is another, the Texas Supreme Court says.

The court laid down new law Wednesday on insurance coverage of employees who have accidents while driving company-owned vehicles for non-business purposes.

In a 5-3 decision, the court denied a claim against Employers National Insurance Co. by Betty Coronado, whose husband, Reynoldo, was killed in a collision near Monahans with a pickup truck owned by White Well Service.

Employers carried White's liability policy.

Mrs. Coronado previously had won a $325,000 judgment against the driver of the truck, Fernando Garcia Sotelo, a crew leader for White.

According to case records, Sotelo was driving his three-man crew home to Monahans from the company yard at Wickett on Aug. 23, 1974, when they stopped at a tavern about 4 p.m. or 4:30 p.m. Sotelo stayed three or four hours then moved on to another bar where he stayed until after midnight.

Shortly after leaving the second bar, Sotelo -- still driving the company pickup -- collided with Coronado's car, killing Coronado.

White Well Service's insurance policy covered an employee while using a company vehicle with the company's permission.

The Supreme Court said it never had adopted a rule on cases involving deviation from business purposes while driving a company vehicle. It said henceforth it would use a "minor deviation rule" that an accident is covered if the unauthorized use was "not a material or gross violation of the terms of the initial possession."

It said the advantage of the "minor deviation rule" was it required a case-by-case examination of the facts.

The court said it could not conlcude that Sotelo had permission "to use the company vehicle for an eight-hour drinking spree wholly unrelated by time, place or purpose from the objectives for which he was granted use of the vehicle."

One brief received by the court said the large number of company trucks seen outside West Texas bars after working hours show oil well service firms condone the practice.

Chief Justice Joe Greenhill said in a dissenting opinion there was ample evidence White did not mind Sotelo using the truck to visit bars after work.

The First World War came to an end at 11 a.m., Nov. 11, 1918.

ASTRO-GRAPH

Bernice Bede Osol

Your Birthday

December 14, 1979

Your greatest successes are likely this coming year through arrangements you'll make with others. With a team you'll move ahead faster than you could if you were to act alone.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Your restless spirit will be happier around people today, so don't attempt to be a loner. The larger the group you're involved with, the better. Find out more of what lies ahead for you in the year following your birthday by sending for your copy of Astro-Graph Letter. Mail $1 for each to Astro-Graph, Box 489, Radio City Station, N.Y. 10019. Be sure to specify birth date.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Your chances for fulfilling today's ambitions and goals are very promising. You'll instinctively know how to skirt roadblocks or pitfalls.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) You are able to size up the qualities of others accurately today. You are also a good learner. Later, you'll effectively use the positive things you saw in them.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) Don't be overly disturbed by changes or shifting conditions today. They are likely to work out to your best advantage, even though you may not have instigated them.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Try to keep everything in balance today. Be neither overly aggressive nor too complacent. Your safest course is the middle road.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Coworkers will mirror your moods today. If you show them you're willing to cooperate, they will treat you in a similar fashion.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) In situations where you find yourself in a managerial role, bend over backward to be just and fair. This will win you loyal allies and admirers.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) Give family and domestic matters top priority today, especially if you feel there is something important which should be quickly put in proper order.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) In addition to your other assets, your diplomacy and tact will work greatly to your advantage today. Pour on the charm and you'll have others purring.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) It's possible that you could derive financial or material benefits today through some sort of partnership arrangement. Associate with moneymakers.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Your leadership qualities are quite pronounced today, so be a take-charge type if you find yourself in situations that appear to have no general.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Keep a low profile today. You'll find you can perform more effectively by pulling the strings from behind the scenes. Let associates enjoy the spotlight.

Texas Drivers, Troopers Dislike 55mph Limit

AUSTIN (AP)—Texas motorists don't like the 55 miles-per-hour speed limit and state troopers don't get any thrill handing out the tickets, Joe Milner says.

Milner, head of traffic law enforcement for the Department of Public Safety, testified Wednesday before a task force of the National Highway Safety Advisory Committee. The group was in Texas to check on the state's compliance with the 55 mph national law.

Milner said lack of public support was the No. 1 problem in Texas.

"You have to have most drivers believing and obeying a traffic law before it can be effective," Milner said, and that is not true in Texas.

This situation produces a "negative morale pressure" on state troopers which must hand out the speeding tickets.

"When the law is so unpopular with the people, it produces a feeling among troopers that they are not accomplishing anything, although they work hard. They have no self-satisfaction in doing a good job," he said.

Still another effect of the unpopular 55 mph law is that it takes more troopers to enforce it. "The more unpopular a law is, the more persons it takes to enforce it. There is almost no voluntary enforcement ... I have only about one patrolman for each 129 miles of Texas highways, so it is no surprise that you can drive long distances without seeing one," said Milner.

Under the congressional act, Texas must have at least 20 percent compliance with the 55 mph rule this year or lose up to $8 million in federal highway funds. By 1983, a state must have 70 percent compliance.

Dr. Quinn Brackett, speaking for the Texas Transporation Institute at Texas A&M University, said the 1978 congressional act actually was discriminatory for some states.

"Enforcement is not a universal solution," he said. "The design of highways, the weather and population density can affect traffic speeds. States that have a large number of bad weather days will have lower speed averages," he said.

Charles J. Keese of the Transportation Institute said "there is little hope the speed curve in Texas can be reduced in the time the federal government specifies."

Roundup Of Cotton For Rehab Center

One bale of cotton can equal many hours of therapy for a handicapped child, leaders of the Cotton Roundup for Crippled Children have reminded.

Contribution of one bale, or proceeds from one bale, will help children receive treatment at the West Texas Rehabilitation Center's campuses in Abilene, San Angelo and Snyder.

Co-Chairmen of the roundup, Herman A. Propst of Anson and Elmer Martin of Colorado City, note that 1979's cotton crop has been good, so farmers should be in a good position to contribute generously to the center.

To donate, contact Propst, Martin, J.B. Adams of Childress, Hale Farm Supply in Haskell, Chub Richards in Stamford, Max von Roeder in Snyder, or the West Texas Rehabilitation Center in Abilene.

The Rehab center is a private, non-profit facility. In 1979, more than 7,000 handicapped children and adults from all over the Southwest will receive treatment free of charge.

Driving Class Begins Dec. 17

The Community Services department of Western Texas College will offer Defensive Driving in classes meeting from 6-10 p.m. on Dec. 17 and 20.

Students must attend both sessions to qualify for certificates entitling them to discounts on automobile insurance. Fees will be $12 per person.

Persons wishing to reserve space in the class are to call the Community Services office at 573-8511, extension 240.

VFW Christmas Parties Slated

Continue Hunger Strike

By KEN HERMAN
Associated Press Writer

SAN ANTONIO (AP)— Five Iranian students, yanked from the steps of City Hall as a cursing mob swarmed around them, have decided to continue their hunger strike in jail.

"It's unfortunate there's enough trash in this town to make such a scene," City Manager Tom Huebner said of the mob that was closing in on the students when police hauled the Iranians away.

The angry crowd of about 20 persons was led by a former Marine who claimed his brother is among the 50 American hostages at the U.S. Embassy in Tehran.

The San Antonio College students, charged with obstructing a passageway, were on the third day of their protest fast on the steps. For two days, they sat silently on the side of the wide entrance as crowds taunted and threatened them.

The student's lawyer, Louis Lindén, feared the charges would jeopardize the students' visas.

However, Richard Casillas, district director of the Immigration and Naturalization Service in San Antonio, said his investigation had determined that the students' action was not a deportable offense.

"I was hoping it would be. We'll just have to grin and bear it," Casillas said.

Linden said the students chose to remain in city jail Wednesday night and continue their fast.

"They feel they were unjustly arrested," he said.

At noon Wednesday Steven Kyle, who said his 26-year-old brother Pfc. John Kyle is a hostage in Tehran, demanded the students take down anti-shah signs and a picture of Ayatollah Khomeini.

The students silently refused, and Kyle led the crowd into City Hall. Both City Attorney Jim Macon and an assistant to the mayor tried to calm the crowd.

The University of Michigan food stores handle some 144,000 loaves of bread, 344,000 pounds of ground beef and 60,000 pounds of coffee in a single year.

Fitness and heart rate

By Lawrence Lamb, M.D.

DEAR DR. LAMB — I'd like some information about heart rate. I'm a female, age 50. At night after I have been in bed my heartbeat is only 55. During the day when I'm doing housework, it varies between 60 and 70. I'm a farmer's wife and I've always worked hard and long hours. Can your heart beat too slow? I sometimes have light pain in my chest. In summer's extreme heat when working outside I sometimes become weak and break out in a cold sweat. I need to lose about five pounds.

DEAR READER — First, about the heart rate. A person who is physically fit, as you may well be from doing a lot of work on the farm, and who has no medical problems or bad habits often has a relatively slow heart rate.

I often cite the example of Dr. Roger Bannister, the British neurologist. When he was a young man and not in peak physical condition, his resting heart rate was in the middle 70s. When he was in top physical condition just before being the first man to break the four-minute mile, his resting heart rate was only 38 beats per minute. I repeat this history because it emphasizes the point that vigorous athletes in optimal health often have relatively slow resting heart rates. It can be a sign of a high level of physical fitness.

Certainly a heart rate of 55 per minute at rest lying down in a person who is physically active all the time is quite within the range of normal.

Now it is true that there are a few heart conditions that can cause a very slow heart rate. One of these is called heart block and it's more apt to occur in older people, although it can occur in younger people with certain disorders of the heart. I doubt you have that because your heart rate during the day is entirely too normal.

Your other symptoms may have nothing to do with your heart but would require an evaluation by your physician and a more complete story to assess what they mean. You may be suffering from heat problems rather than heart problems. Or you may be starting to faint for any number of reasons. I would suggest you have a medical check-up, but I'm not very much concerned about your heart rate.

To give you more information about how the heart rate can vary, I'm sending you The Health Letter number 9-8, Your Heart Rate: What It Means. Other readers who want this issue can send 75 cents with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for it. Send your request to me, in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, NY 10019.

In a person who does not have any illnesses the pulse rate is a good simple indicator of a person's level of fitness and lifestyle. Many people would have much slower resting heart rates if they didn't smoke or use coffee or other beverages that contain caffeine. Both of these bad habits lead to a faster heart rate.

Individuals who are in poor physical condition also tend to have a fairly sharp increase in heart rate when they stand up as opposed to when lying down.

Senior Citizens Set Garage Sale

The Scurry County Senior Citizens Center will sponsor a garage sale from 8 a.m. to 6 p.m. Saturday in the Towle Park barn. A variety of items will be offered for sale, and the public is invited to come shop at the sale. Persons who have merchandise they would like to donate to the Senior Center for the sale may take it by the Center at 2603 Ave. M or call the office at 573-0104 to have the items picked up.

Tyler Sheriff Convicted

TYLER (AP)—A grim-faced Sheriff Tom Welch walked out of a federal courtroom with nothing to say after he and four other Gregg County officials were convicted of corruption in public office.

"You'll have to talk to my attorney. I have no statement to make at this time," said Welch, who could be sentenced to 30 years in prison and fined of up to $65,000.

The four others face maximum punishment of 25 years in prison and $45,000 in fines.

They were found guilty of racketeering and facilitating illegal gambling in and around Longview, the county seat of Gregg County.

A jury found the five guilty Wednesday "on all counts," and U.S. District Judge William Steger set sentencing for 10 a.m., Jan. 3.

Convicted with Welch were Justice of the Peace Charles Cashell, County Commissioner Bill Satterwhite and former sheriff's deputies Jim Cochran and Bill Roach.

Included in the racketeering count against Welch, Cochran and Roach was one charge of conspiracy to commit murder.

"We plan to appeal," said Dale Long, one of two attorneys for Welch.

The jury of seven men and five women delivered the verdict at 5:40 p.m., four hours and 10 minutes after the case was turned over to them.

In his closing arguments, U.S. Attorney John Hannah looked at the jurors and said, "They (the defendants) took an oath ... that they would uphold and defend the laws and constitution of the United States and Texas.

"They sullied and spoiled that oath just as surely as though they had spat upon that flag," Hannah said, pointing to the U.S. flag in the courtroom. "There is nothing more deadly to a society than a totally corrupt law enforcement group."

Steger told the jurors they did not have to talk with anyone, then ordered those involved in the trial not to discuss proceedings of the 13-day trial.

Wednesday's convictions ended the second trial arising out of a federal probe in Gregg County, which began more than two years ago.

Steelers Donimate AFC All-Stars

NEW YORK (AP)-Franco Harris, Pittsburgh's perennial 1,000-yard rusher, was among 10 Steelers named today to the American Conference All-Star team for this season's National Football League Pro Bowl.

The Steelers' total represents exactly one-fourth of the 40-man AFC squad that will play the National Conference All-Stars Jan. 21 in Honolulu, Hawaii.

The defending Super Bowl champions, playoff participants for a record-tying eighth straight time this season, will be represented by two other starters on offense - wide receiver John Stallworth and center Mike Webster.

Also, five Steelers will start on defense: end L.C. Greenwood, tackle Joe Greene, outside linebacker Jack Ham, middle linebacker Jack Lambert and safety Donnie Shell.

San Diego quarterback Dan Fouts, the AFC's No. 1 passer, is one of six charges on the AFC team. Fouts will start along with wide receivers John Jefferson and tackle Russ Washington.

The Houston Oilers also had six players picked, including two starters on offense, AFC rushing leader Earl Campbell and tackle Leon Gray. Campbell and Pittsburgh's Webster were the AFC's only unanimous choices.

Oakland tight end Dave Casper, Buffalo guard Joe DeLamielleure and New England guard John Hannah round out the offensive unit.

The five Steelers starting on defense will be joined by two members of the Houston defense, outside linebacker Robert Brazile and safety Mike Reinfeldt, New England cornerback Mike Haynes, Denver cornerback Louis Wright and a pair of Pro Bowl newcomers, Miami tackle Bob Baumhower and San Diego end Fred Dean.

Kansas City's Bob Grupp is the punter, Houston's Toni Fritsch, the kicker and Denver's Rick Upchurch the kick returner.

Playoff Picture

By The Associated Press

Here is the status of the six divisional races in the National Football League and how the possible playoff teams stand entering the final weekend of the regular season.

AFC EAST

Miami (10-5) has clinched the division. No other team from this division can qualify for the playoffs.

AFC CENTRAL

Pittsburgh and Houston, both 11-4, have clinched at least a wild card berth.

If Pittsburgh and Houston finish the season at 12-4, the Steelers win the division title on the basis of best net points in division games.

If Houston and Pittsburgh finish the season tied at 11-5, the Oilers win the division title on the basis of a better conference record.

Cleveland, 9-6, can be a wild card if the Browns win and both Oakland (9-6) and Denver (10-5) lose.

AFC WEST

San Diego, 11-4, has clinched at least a wild card berth.

If San Diego defeats Denver (10-5), the Chargers win the division title on overall record.

If Denver defeats San Diego, the Broncos win the division title because of a two-game sweep over the Chargers.

If Denver loses to San Diego, the Broncos can be a wild card if Oakland and Cleveland lose.

If Oakland loses and Denver and Cleveland finish tied at 10-6, the tie would be broken on the basis of best net points in all games. Denver has plus 37 points and Cleveland plus 11.

If Oakland wins and Denver loses, the Raiders clinch a wild card berth regardless of the outcome of Cleveland's game. If Oakland finishes in a two-way tie with Denver or a three-way tie with Denver and Cleveland, the Raiders clinch the wild card because of a better head-to-head record.

NFC EAST

Dallas (10-5) and Philadelphia (10-5) have clinched at least wild card berths.

If Dallas defeats Washington (10-5), the Cowboys win the division title even if Philadelphia ties the Cowboys at 11-5 because of a better conference record.

If Washington defeats Dallas, the Redskins win the division title even if Philadelphia ties the Redskins at 11-5. The Redskins would win the division title on the basis of best net points in the division.

If Washington and Chicago (9-6) finish tied at 10-6, the tie would be broken on the basis of best net points in all games. The Redskins have plus 54 points and the Bears have plus 21.

NFL CENTRAL

If Tampa Bay defeats Kansas City or Chicago loses to St. Louis, the Buccaneers win the division title. If Tampa Bay and Chicago finish tied, the Buccaneers would win the division title on the basis of a better division record.

If Chicago wins and Tampa Bay loses, the Bears win the division title on overall record.

If Chicago doesn't win the division title and finishes tied with Washington for the remaining wild card berth, the tie would be broken on the basis of best net points in all games. The Redskins have plus 54 ponits and the Bears have plus 21.

NFC WEST

Los Angeles has clinched the division title. No other team from the division can qualify for a playoff spot.

WTC Is No. 1!

HUTCHINSON, KANSAS--Western Texas College has moved from second to first place in the weekly NFCAA basketball poll, replacing Tyler Junior College.

Three Rivers of Popular Bluff, Miss., takes over second position with a 9-0 record.

"We've been working real hard, and it's an honor to be number one in the polls," said WTC's Coach Nolan Richardson. "Hopefully we'll finish the 1979 part of our season 14-0 and this will all be a terrific Christmas present. What we have to do now is maintain what we're doing. We'll have to work at staying No. 1. This gives us some things to come back and work for in 1978."

WTC also ranks second in total team offense behind Golden Vallen Luthern of Minn. WTC averages 104.2 points per game (10 games), while Golden Valley has averaged 107 in two games.

Here is the latest NJCAA Basketball Poll, with first place votes in parenthesis, records and total points received. The poll is taken from regional directors of the NJCAA.

1	WTC, Snyder, Tx (6)	13-0	160
2	Three Rivers, Miss (5)	9-0	153
3	Tyler JC, Tex (5)	10-1	123
4	Jackson Coll, Mich	9-1	99
	Pensacola JC, Fla (1)	9-1	99
6	Hiwassee, Tenn	9-0	75
7	Broome CC, NY (1)	6-0	57
8	Westchester, NY (1)	4-1	50
9	Carl Albert, Okla	12-1	37
10	Gloucester, N J (1)	4-0	35
	Cooke Cty, Tex	10-2	35
12	Kankakee CC, Ill	10-0	31
13	Mass Bay CC, Mass	7-1	30
14	Gadsden St, Ala (1)	5-1	27
15	Brewton-Parker, Geo (1)	10-1	26

Westerners Attempt 14-0 'Season' Here Tonight

Everyone knows the old saying, "you gotta' lose sometime," but Coach Nolan Richardson and the Western Texas Westerners don't intend too - at least not in the fall of '79.

The Westerners, 13-0, can keep their perfect record intact for a while by defeating New Mexico Junior College here tonight at 8 in Scurry County Coliseum. It is the final game of 1979 for the Westerners. The schedule calls for a holiday break, then a return to Big Spring on Jan. 10 where the team will try for it's fourth straight ABC Tournament title.

But first, there's the matter of tonight's game.

"This will be our final home game until January 17," pointed out the coach. "I hope the fans will come out and help us beat New Mexico. It would give us a big, big lift to be 14-0 when the season starts up again. The crowds so far have been great. They mean a lot to our program. It's much earlier when you have that 'twelfth man' out there rooting for you."

New Mexico Junior College will be the fifth straight WJCAC opponent to try and upset the highly rated Westerners, and Richardson admits he's not exactly sure how the Thunderbirds will take on his group.

"There are not many teams in the conference that can run with us. I'm not sure what New Mexico will do, but they'll do everything they can to win the game, I know that. I imagine they'll try to freeze it up, keep us from controlling the tempo of the game. That's what I'd do if I had to play against us."

Tickets for tonight's shootout are $2 for adult and $1 for students. The game will be a single one. WTC's Dusters travel to Ranger tomorrow.

Dusters To Try Ranger

RANGER—Coach Joe Cushing's Western Texas College Dusters, 11-3, will be looking for a twelfth victory here Friday as they take on the Rangerettes of Ranger Junior College.

The game, a non-conference contest, will be held at 6 p.m.

WTC has another game scheduled at Plainview against Wayland JV on Dec. 17, then will break for the holidays until Jan. 8.

Tigers Teams Are Tourney Bound

Snyder basketball teams were scheduled to enter tournament competition in three West Texas towns today, Sweetwater, Big Spring and Graham.

In other action, Snyder freshman's girls will play in Coahoma tonight at 6, and the local boys junior varsity opens tournament play Friday in Seminole, taking on Fort Stockton at 6:30 p.m.

Coach Ken Housden's Felines, 7-3 on the season, were to begin tournament play in the annual Hawk Queens Classic at Big Spring today, taking on Odessa High at 2:30.

Meanwhile, Coach George Byerly's boys varsity team, also 7-3, was to play Stephenville at 11:30 this morning in the Graham Tournament.

At Sweetwater today, Snyder eighth grade boys and girls Black and Gold Teams were to begin tournament competition.

Stenmark Claims Another World Cup

MADONNA DI CAMPIGLIO (AP)—Sweden's Ingemar Stenmark posted his second World Cup victory in as many days, capturing a men's giant slalom race.

Stenmark, fifth after the first heat, turned in the fastest second run and finished more than three-tenths of a second in front of Switerland's Ues Luethy. The Swede had a combined time of 2 minutes, 49.71 seconds.

Bojan Krizaj of Yugoslavia finished third, more than a second behind Stenmark, while Austria's Hans Enn, the leader after the first-run, was fourth.

Items Covered In 'Blue Law' Listed

The Texas "blue law" prohibits the sale of certain items on "the two consecutive days of Saturday and Sunday."

In response to questions submitted to the "Ask Us" column of The Snyder Daily News, the specific prohibited items are enumerated here:

Clothing; clothing accessories; wearing apparel; footwear; headwear; home, business, office or outdoor furniture; kitchenware; kitchen utensils; china; home appliances; stoves; refrigerators; air conditioners; electric fans; radios; television sets; washing machines; dryers; camera; hardware; tools, excluding nonpower driven hand tools; jewelry; precious or semi-precious stones; silverware; watches; clocks; luggage, motor vehicles; musical instruments.

Also, recordings; toys excluding items customarily sold as novelties and souvenirs; mattresses; bed coverings; household linens; floor coverings; lamps; draperies; blinds; curtains; mirrors; lawn mowers; cloth piece goods.

The statute states that any person, on both the two consecutive days of Saturday and Sunday, who sells or offers for sale or shall compel, force or oblige his employees to sell any of these items is guilty of a misdemeanor and each sale constitutes a separate offense.

First offense is punishable by a fine up to $100, and subsequent violations may result in a six months jail term, a fine up to $500, or both.

183 Iranian Diplomats Told To Leave U.S.

WASHINGTON (AP)- Carter administration, in its latest turn of the screws against Iran, is telling most of the Iranian diplomats in the United States to get out.

About 183 Iranians will be leaving within the next four days, leaving only skeleton staff at Iran's embassy in Washington and its consulates in New York, Chicago, Houston and San Francisco, according to the State Department.

Undersecretary of State David Newsom called Iran's charge d'affairs, Ali Agah, to the department Wednesday afternoon, and told him of the American demand for staff reductions, department spokesman Thomas Reston said.

Iran must reduce its embassy staff to 15 persons, from the current level of 57. Its consulates, with a combined staff of 161, will be left with only five staff members each, Reston said.

Freezing Rain, Snow Covers Nation

By The Associated Press

Freezing rain glazed parts of the Midwest and the Southwest today, snapping power lines in Southern Missouri and making travel extremely hazardous.

Freezing rain advisories were posted for parts of Illinois and Missouri, and travelers advisories were issued for portions of Kentucky, Arkansas, Oklahoma and Texas, where ice sliced roads, especially on bridges and overpasses.

OBITUARIES

O. F. Hawkins

Oliver Franklin Hawkins, 65, of Leisure Lodge died at 7 p.m. Wednesday in Cogdell Memorial Hospital.
