Manhunt Ends Without Incident

LAMAR COUNTY sheriff Roger Peterson handcuffed and took into custody Tuesday afternoon Scott Loveless, who was charged with attempted capital murder when shots were fired at a Lamar County Deputy who answered a disturbance call at the Loveless home. A 16 hour search and siege was conducted by officers before Loveless voluntarily gave himself up. (Staff Photo)

An intense manhunt on the Sylvan Road near Blossom ended suddenly Tuesday afternoon when the object of the hunt, Scott Loveless, quietly gave himself up to officers. Loveless appeared from behind his house and walked up to a group of officers who had gathered there to reorganize.

The manhunt began Monday at approximately 9 p.m. when a Lamar County Deputy Sheriff answered a routine disturbance call at the Loveless home, then called for assistance when shots were fired from the house at the officer. A warrant for attempted capital murder was issued for Loveless, and a dozen officers joined in the search through the woods near the house.

Peterson said the safety of his officers was the prime consideration in calling off the search at midnight.

Lamar County Sheriff Roger Peterson conducted the search, but called it off at midnight because of the darkness and the density of the woods. The area was sealed off until the next morning, when the search was resumed with additional manpower and a Department of Public Safety helicopter.

Helping with the search were two liquor control board officers, three Paris city police officers, eight Lamar County Deputy Sheriffs, one Lamar County Reserve officer, Deport City Marshall Bud Nobles, Texas Ranger Frank Kemp, three DPS officers and Billy Peace in the DPS helicopter.

Officers said they must have walked within 10 feet of Loveless during the search, but didn't flush him out. Another sweep through the woods was being organized when Loveless appeared within 30 feet of the startled officers.

City Tax Repeal Due Sept. 10

State Comptroller Bob Bullock today reminded city governments that they have until September 10 to notify his office if they wish to repeal the one percent city tax on residential gas and electric bills October 1.

"It's absolutely essential that we be notified by that date if the tax break is to become effective on October 1, the earliest possible date under the new law," Bullock said.

Bullock said those cities that repeal the tax after that date will have to wait a full calendar quarter before the tax break goes into effect.

The Texas Legislature passed a law during its recent special session repealing the four percent state tax on residential utility bills effective October 1.

That law also automatically repeals the one percent city tax on residential utilities October 1, 1979, unless the city government votes to continue the tax.

Cities that wish, however, can by majority vote of the council repeal the city tax effective October 1, 1978,--the same day the state tax exemption becomes effective.

Bullock said that 39 cities have informed his office that they intend to repeal the city tax, while another 45 said they will retain it.

Meat Packers Charged With Violating P&S Act

American Meat Packers, Inc., of Mount Vernon, Texas and its president-manager, Hollis E. Carter, have been charged with violating financial and payment requirements of the Packers and Stockyards (P&S) Act.

The firm is a meat packer which purchases livestock for slaughter throughout northern Texas, southern Arkansas and Oklahoma, and western Louisiana.

In an administrative complaint filed under the P&S Act, the U.S. Department of Agriculture (USDA) charged that American Meat Packers, under the direction and control of Hollis E. Carter: Operated its packing business while its current liabilities exceeded its current assets; and failed to pay, when due, for more than $39,000 worth of livestock purchased during April.

The firm and Carter have a right to a hearing. If the charges are proven, they would be placed under a cease and desist order.

Meat packers are required under the P&S Act to maintain a solvent financial position and to pay promptly for livestock, unless credit has been arranged in advance.

The Act is a fair trade practices law. It promotes and maintains fair and open competition in the marketing of livestock, poultry and meat. The Act is administered by the packers and stockyards program of USDA's Agricultural Marketing Service.

The P&S Act is administered in Texas and Oklahoma by Marion L. Marshall, Agricultural Marketing Service, Packers and Stockyards Program, Room 8A36, Federal Building, 819 Taylor Street, Ft. Worth, Texas 76102.

ASCS News

By James B. Allcorn

Area livestock owners who suffered at least a 40 percent loss in feed production are eligible to sign up in the Emergency Livestock Feed Program. The program is designed to assist livestock owners in feeding their eligible livestock during the period when feed is not available.

A number of questions have arisen about the program and are as follows:

Q: I raise grain sorghum as a cash crop. Can I sign up and will it be worth my time to sign up?

A: It is to your benefit to sign up in the program because that is the only way you will ever know if you are eligible. However, if you do not have many cows and raise a large amount of grain, you probably will not be eligible.

Q: How will the ASCS office know the difference if I report less hay on hand when I apply?

A: We will spot check a certain number of applicants. This spot check will include counting cattle numbers, hay, measuring grain on hand, and inspecting the condition of each pasture as well as checking to see if you have any winter cover crops. Our findings will be presented to the County Committee who will take appropriate action.

Q: How much will I be paid? I heard it will be two cents per pound for hay.

A: Cost shares are one-half of the cost, not to exceed two cents per pound, based on grain equivalent. All grain is considered pound for pound but hay is converted to grain equivalent. For example: You buy 10 tons of coastal hay due to the drought at the cost of $33.30 per ton. 10 tons X 2,000 per ton equals 20,000 pounds X 64 percent grain equivalent factor, equals 12,800 pounds of grain equivalent. Total cost is $333 for the 10 tons. $333 cost divided by 12,800 pounds grain equivalent is $0.02602 per pound. Since cost sharing is one-half the cost not to exceed two cents per pound, the cost share would be $0.02602 X 50 percent X 12,800 pounds grain equivalent, equals $166.53 total cost share payment or $16.65 per ton. In this example, ASCS is paying only $0.013.01 cents pound, not two cents per pound as is being rumored.

These are only some of the questions that have been asked. For more information, contact ASCS.

Most Common Allergy Is Asthma

By Wilma Hall

Allergies affect one in five Americans. The most common allergies are asthma and hay fever, and both appear seasonally or year round.

Most serious of the common allergic diseases is asthma. About nine million Americans suffer from it. It usually appears as a shortness of breath with coughing and wheezing.

Asth ma may occur in acute attacks which last from minutes to days, or it may be almost constant. Though asthma can begin at any age, most of its victims are afflicted in childhood.

In most, the very young symptoms of asthma may be rapid breathing and coughing spells or recurring cough with or without fever.

Asthma may be caused by pollen, house dust, grasses, weeds, animals or foods. Infections of the sinuses or of the bronchial tubes can also be made worse at times by emotional reaction to stress.

Some allergic factors that bring on asthma in one victim may bring on hay fever in another. Symptoms are sneezing, itching, weeping eyes, runny nose, burning palate and throat. Hay fever, which affects an estimated 15 million Americans, may occur in spring, summer or fall and may last until frost.

Early diagnosis of allergies is important. Treatment for allergic diseases includes immunizing injections for allergens that cannot be removed--such as dust, pollen and mold spores. Shots must be given at intervals over a long period.

Other remedies may include removing feather pillows or dust catching furniture. Sometimes pets--cats, dogs, birds must be removed.

If certain foods cause allergies, they too, must be removed from the diet. Many medicines are available to relieve symptoms of allergy.

Congressman Hall Appointed To Delegation To Visit Vietnam

House Speaker Thomas P. O'Neill, Jr. has appointed Congressman Sam B. Hall, Jr. of Texas' First District as a member of a special delegation to visit Laos and Viet Nam during the end of August.

"As the result of an invitation received from Phan Hien, Vice Minister of Foreign Affairs of Viet Nam, I am today appointing an Ad Hoc Committee of the U.S. House of Representatives to visit Southeast Asia beginning August 18. They will also conduct talks in Laos as the result of interest expressed by Lao officials," Speaker O'Neill said.

The official delegation will be headed by Congressman G.V. Montgomery (D-Miss.) Scheduled stops include Hanoi and Ho Chi Minh City in Viet Nam and Vientiane in Laos. The tentative date of return is August 28.

"I want to emphasize that the House of Representatives has taken the lead from the very beginning in trying to resolve the MIA issue starting with the creation of the House Select Committee on MIAs in the 94th Congress. This Ad Hoc Committee is a further indication of our concern and interest," O'Neill emphasized.

The Speaker explained that the purpose of the mission will be to continue ongoing discussions on information involving missing persons in Viet Nam, as well as other matters and issues of mutual and equal concern to our two countries. "The delegation will also meet with government officials in Laos where they will place particular emphasis on the fate of missing Americans."

"The mission will help provide the House of Representatives with first hand information on steps being taken on behalf of missing persons and also foreign policy objectives of Viet Nam and its relations with other countries in Southeast Asia and Asia as a whole," O'Neill commented.

Other members of the delegation include George Danielson (D-Calif.). John P. Murtha (D-Pa.), Ike Skelton (D-Mo.), James Broyhill (R-N.C.), and Henson Moore (R-La.). Rep. Hall was one of two first-term members chosen by Speaker O'Neill.

House Destroyed By Fire

Total loss was estimated in the fire which swept the five room house of the J.D. Martin family at 3 a.m. the morning of Sunday, September 3.

The fire of undetermined origin ripped through the frame structure enveloping the entire home before being reported by some boys.

Martin reported that he and his two sons, Ricky and Randy, had spent the night fishing at TP&L Lake. Mrs. Martin had spent the night with her mother, Mrs. Lula Whitney, just two doors down the street.

The Talco Volunteer Fire Department answered the alarm. However, upon arrival at the home, firemen could do little, but tried to keep the flames confined to the house. Part of the exterior walls are still standing.

A return trip was made to the site later Sunday at approximately 10 a.m. when hot embers fanned by the wind burst into flames again. Firemen extinguished the flames in a short time.

THE GOOD WORD from the Bible

Love God, love thy neighbor.

If we do this, we shall keep the ten commandments. To do it properly, we must remember the parable of the Good Samaritan, which reminds us that every man is our neighbor.

It is difficult to love those who offend us in some way, who get the promotion that we were after, who boast too much, who are different in some way. Difficult—but essential.

God's love is universal, for all men, for all nations. Christ came for the salvation of all, setting the example, showing the way.

you and the LAW

PRESENTED BY THE STATE BAR OF TEXAS

Q: My father, who lives in Arizona, has willed me an estate. I am married and a resident of Texas. Will this inheritance be considered my separate, or community, property?

A: Separate property in Texas is defined as property owned before marriage or property received by gift or inheritance after marriage; the owner of separate property is free to manage and own it independent of the spouse. Income from separate property, such as interest on a savings account or fees from a rent house, is community property and is owned jointly by the husband and wife.

Q: I fell while getting off an exercise machine at a health spa and injured my back. The manager told me to see my doctor at my own expense since they were not liable for accidents unless caused by a malfunction of their equipment. I feel that they are responsible for my medical expenses. Are they?

A: Probably not. By going to a spa to exercise you assume the risk of injury. If you signed a contract with the spa, you should check your copy carefully to see what provisions were made regarding accidents and injury before pursuing the matter further.

Q: I bought a TV on credit but never finished paying for it. The appliance store won a lawsuit against me but could not get the TV back because it was ruined in a fire. Can the sheriff take my car to pay off the judgment?

A: No. The sheriff cannot seize your car to satisfy the judgment, since you did not give the store a lien on your car. Texas law exempts certain property from seizure to satisfy debts, including two vehicles, clothing, home furnishings, and tools of the trade. But remember that this exemption does not apply if you voluntarily give the store a lien, or security interest in the property.

Q: I have five children. If I omit one child when I make my will, does he have to be mentioned in the will? I have been told you have to leave at least one dollar to him to make this legal.

A: No. You are not required to include anyone as beneficiary in your will that you don't want to. However, if you were to die without a will, each of your children would be entitled to an equal share of your estate.

Send your questions to "You and the Law," State Bar of Texas, P.O. Box 12487, Austin, 78711. Answers may appear in columns in hypothetical terms; personal answers not possible.

Man Still Lends City A Helping Hand

When the city of Peabody, Massachusetts has a difficult surveying job, they turn to 90 year old Osborn Palmer, who officially retired as city surveyor in 1962.

As the first surveyor to use aerial photographs in this country, Palmer is well-known and respected for his skills as a land surveyor.

After serving in both World Wars I and II, Palmer began his career as land surveyor for the city of Peabody.

"I almost didn't get the job, though," Palmer told a writer from the National Council on the Aging. "The city had allotted $25,000 to have assessor's maps made, but the bids were for $54,000 to $65,000. I told them if they changed the specifications a little, that I could do it for $21,000. They were kind of skeptical as to how I could do it for so little, but when I explained that I was going to use aerial pictures, they gave me the job."

Using aerial photographs was nothing new for Osborn Palmer. While serving in the Army Engineer Corps in World War I, he used aerial photos to locate the enemy's position.

With the help of Curtis Wright Flying Service, Palmer completed the maps of Peabody in less than a year. "We found $125,000 worth of unassessed property that no one even knew about," said Palmer.

After Palmer's retirement in 1962, the mayor of Peabody asked him to do some work on the planning of a new interstate highway. He took the job and charted the route of what is now I-95.

Again, in 1970, the city requested Palmer's services: They needed him to update the old maps.

"I helped them change some maps from the 30's and made new ones for West Peabody," Palmer said. "West Peabody hadn't been included in the first maps because at that time it was still only farmland and woods. The city thought it would be a waste of money."

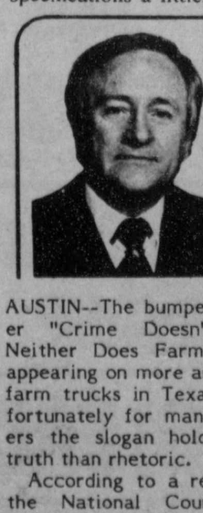

At the moment, Osborn Palmer is retired, although it's certain he'll be called on again.

"I still help the city locate property that no one else can find," said Palmer. "I am available whenever they need me."

IN SACRAMENTO, CA, Homer Fahrner has organized a group of older persons to harvest leftovers. Called the Senior Gleaners, they get together to collect discarded foods from grading stations, packing houses, canneries and other places. These foods do not meet state regulations, but are still edible.

Homer spends most of his time lining up fields and orchards to glean. Once he finds a site, the area is checked, an operation is planned and gleaners are trained. It is important to know how to glean in order to avoid injury to trees or plants.

Gleaners give surplus food to the Salvation Army, S.O.S. (Save Our Seniors), the Red Cross, churches and other groups.

The Speaker Reports

by Bill Clayton

AUSTIN--The bumper sticker "Crime Doesn't Pay, Neither Does Farming," is appearing on more and more farm trucks in Texas. Unfortunately for many farmers the slogan holds more truth than rhetoric.

According to a report of the National Council of State Legislatures, in the past 20 years, 2 million farms have been lost and 30 million people have been forced into our already overcrowded cities. America is losing 400 million acres of farmland each year, and every month the lights go out in another 2,000 to 3,000 family farms.

The reason is economic. In the past five years, farm machinery costs have gone up, fertilizer and chemical costs have almost tripled, energy costs for irrigation have skyrocketed and freight prices are continually on the increase.

Although the cost of farm products has risen slowly, it has not equalled the nation's inflation rate. The farmer's share of food price hikes seems to get smaller and smaller while his costs of production get larger and larger.

How long can the farmer take a loss year after year and stay in the farming business?

What all Americans need to realize is that we're one. We're compact. We're all a unit. If you tear one of us apart, it hurts us all, not just one of us. There can be no Sunbelt vs. Frostbelt, Farmer vs. Consumer, Federal Government vs. State Government, North vs. South; if we hope to solve our economic and social problems.

The time for debate is over. The American people are tired of talk. It's time for the governments and private industries to settle their differences. Our future depends solely on our ability to work with one another.

CONSUMER GUIDELINES

If you're buying home insulation, look for the "R" number, which rates resistance to winter heat loss and summer heat gain in your house. One brand of insulation may be slightly thinner or thicker than another, but the R-number is what really counts. R-numbers should be clearly marked on all insulation. If they aren't, don't buy that product.

Have You Registered To Vote?

(AN EDITORIAL)

"What would you say if on election day you were told you could not vote? How precious would this right become if you no longer had the option to exercise it? Many people in this state have made this decision, most unknowingly, and removed themselves from the electoral process by not registering to vote. On election day the highest percentage of citizen participation is in voter apathy. People have found it easier to not be involved in the politics and policies of their community, state and nation. But these citizens fail to realize this democracy in which we live affords us the proposition of governing ourselves through the rightful election of our leaders. With this freedom comes the responsibility to choose the best one. If a candidate for public office is mediocre, this is his fault; but if the mediocre candidate wins, this is the fault of the free system which elected him.

"By saying 'I don't vote because my ballot does not count' and then exercising this prerogative, you have automatically removed yourself and your voice from the political decisions which will affect you directly. This vacancy at the poll is, and will continue to be, filled by a small percentage of citizens who take the time to vote. It will be their decision, made by ballot, which will determine the political destiny of your community, by deciding your elected leadership.

"The first part of a voting equation is registering to vote. Texas, through recent changes in its voter registration laws, has made registration easier and more convenient than ever before. The voter registration application is postage-free, bilingual, and available at many locations frequented by the public throughout this state or at your county tax assessor-collector's office.

"Today, there are over eight million eligible voters, but only five million have registered to vote. This leaves over three million eligible citizens who are not registered to vote and are therefore silent on election day. I do not believe these unregistered citizens have made a deliberate commitment to not exercise their franchise and register to vote. I do not believe these citizens represent a conscious expression of a loss of faith in our democratic form of government. I do believe these unregistered citizens were unknowingly disinfranchised, and given the opportunity, will reinstate themselves in this state's electoral process.

"There are only a limited number of days in which you can register and be eligible to vote in the November 7th general election. All voter registration applications must be received no later than midnight, October 8th. The time is short, but with your support and assistance as a concerned citizen, this project will enable eligible persons to register to vote. If you are not registered to vote, register! If a member of your family or a friend is not registered to vote, make the commitment to have them register by filling out a voter registration application before the October 8th deadline.

"Voter apathy can only be overcome through individual participation in seeking to include all people in the decision-making process known as democracy. If a person is not included in the democratic system, a fellow citizen should take the responsibility to assist that voter in reinstating himself in the affairs of his community, state, and nation. It is the role of government to furnish, by direction of the people it serves, the means for its citizens to remain involved in the decision-making process of government; but it is the role of citizenship to insure the involvement of all our people. Register and then Vote! It will be time well spent; not only to insure your future, but to insure a future of freedom for state and nation. If you have any questions concerning voter registration or need assistance, please contact the Secretary of State's office at the toll-free number of 1-800-252-9333."

Listening At The Library

By Bosley Bookworm

You can't imagine the excitement down here when there was a call last Thursday from the Baker & Taylor Company, telling us to come out and make a selection of books they were donating to our library. My stars, I got so excited that my spectacles dropped off my nose and fell clear to the floor--and I was on the third shelf up!

Sharla Black, who is chairman of the book selection committee, rounded up some helpers: Eleanor McCluer, Ann Black, Lela May Beadle, Kathy Ribble and Marguerite Beadle, and they spent many hours selecting wonderful books that will be just right for our library and will be enjoyed by everyone for years to come. You know, an occasion such as this is something all we bookworms just dream about and talk about when we get together, so may I say "Thanks a million, Baker & Taylor-- and Marion Lowe" from ol' buddy Bosley and from all the folks in Red River County.

Byron Black gets a pat on the back too, for being responsible for picking up the books and unloading them as well as helping in the selection and sorting them by categories.

Let me tell you about just a few of our beautiful new volumes. Of course, there are many children's books, novels, non-fiction and beautifully illustrated books such as "Shells", "Goldsmiths and Silversmiths", "Art of Jewelry", "Encyclopedia of Gemstones", "The World of Matthew Brady", "Volumes of Family, Life and Health Encyclopedia", "Portraits of Tropical Birds", "Creative Horsemanship", "Adventures in Archeology", "Wild Flowers of the U.S.", and "The Encyclopedia of Jazz", to name just a cross-sample. Then there are books of famous artists' works by Gainsborough, Modigliani, Rembrandt, Monet and all the renowned artists you can possibly want. The workers will try to get all these books processed and on the shelves as quickly as possible, so come by and look through all these wonderful books.

Mr. and Mrs. Michael K. Smith of Dallas dropped by the library this week to get acquainted and to do some research on the history of our county. Mrs. Smith is a member of the Jackson family of the Lone Star Community and also is a member of the Bateman family. Mr. Smith has found that there is very little written about Red River County which does have a long and illustrious past, so he plans to remedy that oversight by writing a book and also doing his dissertation for his PHD on the history of Red River County. I'll be anxious to read his work.

Have a good week, and Happy Reading!

Auto Service Tips

Two important automobile maintenance jobs are often overlooked by owners who never fail to change oil and filters on a regular basis. They are: draining and flushing of the cooling system and changing transmission fluid and filter. Neither is expensive; both can bring on major repair bills if left undone.

Creative stitchery will include free hand machine embroidery performed on the zig-zag machine. Students will learn to use the sewing machine to monogram and create designs letting the machine needle be a paint brush, Mrs. Burrows said.

Beginning Monday, Sept. 11, Mrs. Roy Anderson will teach an afternoon and evening class in Beginners I Sewing. Classes will be from 1 to 4 p.m. or from 6:30 to 9:30 p.m. Fee for six weeks of classes will be $38. The course is designed to teach basics for the beginner to learn to sew.

Sweater knits, beginning Wednesday, Sept. 13, will be taught from 9 to 11:30 a.m. for four weeks. Fee is $26. In the course, Mrs. Anderson will teach students to make T-shirts for the entire family, including techniques for measuring to make a pattern and constructing three shirts in class. Each shirt will cover principles for working with the stretch knits or sweater panels, Mrs. Anderson.

Mrs. Anderson will begin a class in Tailoring on Friday, Sept. 15, from 1 to 4 p.m. Fee for six weeks of lessons is $38. The course will include techniques for tailoring a blazer, using the true methods of construction for a professional look. Before the jacket is started, a muslin, altered to fit the individual, will be constructed.

This document is the second of two volumes which comprise the Water Quality Management Plan for the Sulphur Basin. Volume II. Plan Summary Report, presents the recommended plans for water quality management and the legal, financial, and institutional requirements of each plan. Also included in Volume II are descriptions of feasible alternatives, an environmental assessment, and a summary of the public participation activities conducted during the development of the plan. The Water Quality Management Plan for the Sulphur Basin has been developed to satisfy the requirements of Section 26.036, Texas Water Code, as amended, and Section 208 of the Federal Water Pollution Control Act, and pursuant to Title 40 Code of Federal Regulations Parts 130 and 131 and the State of Texas Continuing Planning Process. The public hearing shall be conducted in compliance with Section 26.037, Texas Water Code, as amended.

The study area for this plan includes most of the Sulphur Basin. This plan does not address the planning required in the Texarkana Designated Areawide Planning Area; detailed planning within that area is being provided through the development of the Texarkana Areawide Waste Treatment Management Plan and will not be considered at this hearing.

Copies of the Volume II, Plan Summary Report, are available for public inspection. Delegates Vote On Priority Areas

More than 180 delegates representing low income people from nine Texas and Arkansas counties gathered August 19, 1978, at Southwest Community Center to vote on priority areas for the Texarkana Office of East Texas Legal Services.

The ETLS Texarkana Office, opening September 1, 1978, will provide legal assistance to eligible low income residents of the following counties: Bowie, Cass, Red River, Morris, Titus, and Miller, Little River, Hempstead, Lafayette counties.

The ETLS Texarkana Office currently has a full-time staff of four attorneys, two law clerks, two paralegals and a small support staff. To determine how to best utilize staff time and resources, ETLS community consultants asked low income people what they felt were the most important needs of their respective area at approximately 60 community meetings held this summer throughout the nine county service area. Community delegates from each of the small meetings then met August 19, 1978, at the large Priority Planning Session to vote and set priority areas which will be major concerns of the Texarkana Office at ETLS.

Major priority areas as determined by delegates are : (1) municipal services, (2) health care services and facilities, (3) employment discrimination, (4) problems unique to senior citizens, (5) utility complaints, (6) public school supervisors and disciplinary procedures, (7) representational government, (8) housing, (9) consumer problems, and (10) government entitlements.

To qualify for legal help from ETLS, a low income person must live in one of the nine counties listed; must meet with ETLS financial eligibility guidelines; the legal problem should be non-criminal; and the legal problem should be within the list of priorities set by the ETLS Priority Planning Session.

Starting September 1, 1978, low income people seeking legal help who live in the nine counties may make an appointment by calling (214) 793-7661 or by writing ETLS, P.O. Box 170, Texarkana, Texas 75501.

ETLS is a non-profit corporation funded through Legal Services Corporation in Washington, D.C. Legal Services Corporation was established by Congress to provide financial support for legal assistance to the poor in civil matters. Public defender offices and court-appointed private lawyers assist those unable to afford private counsel in criminal cases.

Congress, enacting the Legal Services Corporation Act of 1974, mandated Legal Services Corporation:

To provide high quality legal assistance to those who would be otherwise unable to afford adequate legal counsel. "That mandate was founded on the judgement that "Equal access to the system of justice in our nation" must be provided for all."

The Legal Services Corporation is governed by an 11 member Board of Directors, appointed by the President of the United States, with the advice and consent of the Senate.

The Legal Services Corporation distributes grants to more than 300 legal aid programs across the country. Many legal services offices are similar to East Texas Legal Services because they have multiple offices serving a number of cities and counties within a state.

ETLS is composed of four service offices. The Longview office serves low income clients in Gregg, Harrison, Rusk and Smith counties. The Nacogdoches Office provides legal services to eligible clients in the counties of Angeline, Cherokee, Nacogdoches and San Augustine. The Beaumont Office staff serves low income residents of Orange and Jefferson counties.

Carpooling Save $

According to the Federal Highway Administration, carpooling can save commuters at least $281 annually if you're sharing your subcompact with one person on a 10 mile home-to-work trip five days a week. Approximately $1,400 in auto expenses can be cut each year if you're sharing a standard-sized car on a 25 mile commute.

"Do you mind if I walk with you while you take the garbage cans out, dear?" the wife queried.

"Why do you want to do that?"
