Farm Bill Is Feared Killed In Congress

(By The Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, Oct. 17. — Senate conferees broke off negotiations with House members tonight for a compromise on farm price support legislation.

Whether attempts will be made to reconcile the dispute before Congress adjourns was left up in the air.

The Senate members of the conference committee voted 5 to 2 at a night session of the group to report back to the Senate that they were unable to reach an agreement with the House.

Solon Is Hopeful

But the House members refused to vote a disagreement, and Rep. Pace (D-Ga) told reporters he hoped the senators would reconsider tomorrow and agree to a resumption of negotiations.

Senate Democratic leader Lucas of Illinois said he didn't know whether the conferees would hold another meeting.

Senator Elmer Thomas (D-Okla), chairman of the Senate Agriculture committee, said that he felt the matter was closed until next January when Congress meets for its next session.

Should he be right and no new farm legislation be passed before adjournment of this session, the Aiken law enacted last year would go into effect next Jan. 1.

Provides Sliding Scale

It provides for a sliding scale of price supports ranging from 60 to 90 per cent of parity.

Thomas said that if the matter goes over to January, farm prices will have "tumbled" so much that there would be no trouble in reaching agreement on a farm bill.

Thomas, an advocate of high price supports, was one of the two senators who voted against ending the conference negotiations. The other was Senator Young (R-ND).

The House has voted to continue 90 percent of parity support for most major crops for another year, while the Senate has passed a bill that would establish a flexible support program geared to supplies.

Pace, noting that the present Congress still had another session ahead of it next year, said that if the House and Senate should be unable to agree now

COOL WEATHER COVERS PLAINS

Showers Halt Cotton Harvest In Area; More Moisture Forecast

COTTON pulling came to a stop over most of the South Plains Monday as rain, sprinkles and mist took control of the harvest, and the same damp weather may continue this morning, the Weatherman said.

Although the official forecast for today called for partly cloudy skies with little change in temperatures, the forecaster said low cloudiness this morning might produce fog, light drizzles or even small showers.

Interjecting a bright note for cotton farmers, the Weatherman said that if moisture should come during the morning, skies probably will clear around noon.

On Wednesday, skies are expected to continue cloudy, the forecaster said, with the possibility of scattered showers still holding.

Heaviest rainfall reports for Monday came from Slaton, Post and Lamesa, with shower and sprinkle reports in all directions on the South Plains.

At Lamesa, a series of afternoon showers totaling .27 drove cotton pullers from the fields.

58 Group Air Force Okayed By Conferees

(By The Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, Oct. 17.—Advocates of a bigger Air Force won a major victory tonight as senators who had been holding out for 48 air groups gave in at last to House demands that Congress vote money for 58.

The long-standing deadlock had been one of the major obstacles to early adjournment of Congress. Differences between Senate and House had blocked approval of a $15 billion bill to finance the armed services for this year.

The senators' capitulation to House demands still must be approved by the full Senate and House. Differences between the two branches have held up approval of funds for the armed forces for this year.

HST Sides With Senate

Mr. Truman had sided with the Senate in the dispute over Air Force funds.

He last week he said that 48 were enough, and that there need to spend the $741,- additional necessary to the force up to 58 groups.

Air Force group varies in according to the type of planes. A group of B-36 bombers has planes; one of fighters has 75.

The amount of money which was in dispute is estimated to provide an added 400 combat planes of all types for the Air Force.

The break came shortly after the Senate Appropriations committee approved the full $1,314,010,000 the Truman administration asked to help re-arm non-Communist nations. Senate passage is expected. The House has already voted a similar sum.

In addition to approving the foreign arms program money, the Senate committee okayed funds to build a radar screen around the United States, and for military construction in Alaska and Okinawa.

The vast radar screen—a system of mechanical eyes watching the skies for enemy planes—would cost millions. The committee voted $17,000,000 in cash and $33,000,000 in contract authority for the first year's construction.

Pardon Is Sought By Lifetimer Who Wrote 'Big Spring'

(By The Associated Press)

NASHVILLE, Tenn., Oct. 17 Frank Grandstaff, Tennessee's convict-composer, who gained national prominence with the cantata he wrote behind bars, applied today for a pardon.

Grandstaff, who is serving a life term under Tennessee's habitual criminal act, filed the petition with the state pardon and paroles board through his attorney, William B. Marr.

He said he had tried to improve his "thinking and outlook" while in prison and that "opportunities in Texas and elsewhere for employment will redeem and put me on a plane of higher endeavor."

Earlier this month, Grandstaff flew to Big Spring, Texas, as guest of honor, to hear for the first time his mammouth 75-page choral work which depicts the history of the Texas town. The cantata was performed as the highlight of the Big Spring centennial.

The hearing on Grandstaff's pardon plea was set for Nov. 3.

Man Arrested Near Dalhart On Boy's Tip

(By The Associated Press)

DALHART, Oct. 17. — Lenard (Lucky) Hawkins, murder suspect who had dodged scores of officers for five days, was captured today because a small boy recognized him and didn't get scared.

Officers who answered a frantic call from the child's mother flushed Hawkins out of a clump of trees at Middle Water, a railroad section community about 20 miles west of here.

Hawkins, 34, is charged with murder in the shooting of Alfred Clark, 23, of Boise City, Okla. Clark's body was found last Wednesday near Jerseyville, Ill.

Luck Runs Out

Hawkins' luck ran out when he asked John William Smith, 10, to bring him some matches.

John cooly sauntered into the house, awakened his mother, Mrs. W. S. Smith, and blurted out:

"Mother, there's a man out there who wants some matches. I think he's the man they're looking for."

Mrs. Smith rushed to a window. She recognized Hawkins from newspaper pictures.

"I was sure it was he," she said. "I could hardly wait to get to the phone and call the law."

Boy Is Given Matches

But first Mrs. Smith gave John some matches.

The 10-year-old calmly took them to Hawkins, who retired to the clump of trees, about 30 yards from the house.

Eight officers sent by Sheriff W. L. Stout arrived at the house at 4:45 p. m. Mrs. Smith pointed out the clump of trees.

The officers moved in on Hawkins. He gave up quietly, and they pulled a loaded .32 caliber automatic pistol from the waistband of his trousers.

Hawkins was brought here for questioning.

Big Man Hunt Ends

Thus ended one of the biggest manhunts in the history of the Texas Panhandle. Some officers had been on duty 48 hours without sleep. New Mexico and Oklahoma police helped Texas officers.

A cordon of officers had been guarding Dalhart since Saturday, when Hawkins was seen here. It

High Official Blasts Criticism By Navy

Johnson's Defense Policies Are Upheld

BY JAMES LEE
INS Staf Correspondent

WASHINGTON, Oct. 17. — Assistant Secretary of Defense Paul H. Griffith declared tonight that only imminent war, new weapons or an act of Congress will alter unification policies now under savage attack by the Navy and Marine corps.

Griffith asserted that critics of Defense Secretary Johnson are "howling like banshees" and that the Navy's high command has "done material damage to the cause of national defense."

The defense official's blast at the Navy followed a charge by Gen. Clifton B. Cates, Marine Corps commandant, that Johnson has approved an Army plan to destory the fighting power of the Marines by "striking into the heart" of their combat forces.

Speaks In Texas

Griffith spoke at the Longhorn tin smelter in Texas City, Tex., but his speech was widely circulated in Washington in advance of delivery and regarded as a clear indication of Johnson's answer to Navy charges that present defense policies menace national security.

The assistant secretary quoted a Johnson speech in denial of Cates' charge today before the House Armed Services committee that the Marine Corps is doomed as a fighting force unless Congress overrides the Defense department.

Griffith quoted Johnson as telling the national war college in a recent address.

Speech Is Quoted

". . . I reaffirm the birthright of the United States Marine Corps and its air arm. The Marine Corps role in the future is guaranteed not by sympathy for its historical tradition but by the proven necessity for equipping fleets with assault forces for the seizure or defense of naval bases essential to the conduct of naval campaigns."

In the same speech, Johnson accused Navy partisans of conducting a "campaign of terror against further unification" and Griffith said he agreed with that description of "die-hards" attempting to flout the "will of the people."

Griffith declared that Navy criticism of the Air Force and the Army will not force a change in

Ruling On Rent Controls Slated

WASHINGTON, Oct. 17. (INS)—The Supreme court agreed today to decide whether federal rent control is unconstitutional. The issue affects tenants in 14 million housing units.

The high tribunal will rule on the decision of Judge Elwyn R. Shaw of Chicago that Congress exceeded its constitutional authority in writing "local option" into the 1949 rent law and that the entire act therefore is invalid.

In other actions today, the court:

Reds Appeal Rejected

1. Rejected appeals of three of the 11 convicted Communist leaders in New York for review of their imprisonment for contempt during their trial on charges of conspiring to bring about the forcible overthrow of the U. S. government. The three are Gus Hall, Henry Winston and Gilbert Green.

2. Held in effect that William Rosen, a figure in the Alger Hiss perjury trial, had a right to refuse to testify before a grand jury on grounds of possible self-incrimination.

3. Ruled that the government can continue its fraud investigation of Otis & Co., Cleveland investment firm, and Cyrus Eaton, its controlling stockholder.

4. Refused to pass on the legality of an Iowa state fund to help farmers pay their school taxes.

Solicitor General Philip Perlman asked review of the Chicago ruling on rent control.

Perlman told the court that if the Chicago decision is allowed to stand tenants in 14 million housing units "will be left defenseless" against rent increases and evictions.

The government asked the Su-

Texan Is Found Innocent Of Transporting Stolen Cattle

SAN ANGELO, Oct., 17 (AP)—A federal jury tonight found William L. Bales of San Angelo and Lampasas innocent of transporting stolen cattle in interstate commerce.

The jury retired without returning a verdict on another charge against Bales — intimidating a government witness.

W. W. Braidfoot of Afton, N. M., first witness in the trial, said he gave no one permission to take 24 head of cattle off his property.

Braidfoot testified he notified authorities in El Paso he had lost cattle and learned the animals were in San Angelo.

He said he came here and contacted Ranger Ralph Rohatsch. He estimated the cattle were worth $3,000 to $3,500.

Seventeen Are Rescued At Sea

SEATTLE, Wash., Oct. 17. (I... Seventeen seamen who abandoned their blazing lumber schooner early today 160 miles off the Washington coast were pulled to safety aboard the fish and wildlife service vessel Black Douglas.

The survivors were crewmen from the old lumber schooner Salina Cruz which rolled over and sank this afternoon after blazing at sea since shortly before 7 a.m.

Seas In Area Rough

The rescue was effected just in time, according to radio reports to Seattle Coast Guard headquarters. Seas in the rescue are gradually grew rougher during the afternoon, forcing the lifeboats occupants to bail out water, and tonight winds of from 50 miles an hour up were reported whipping the north Pacific into huge waves.

The Black Douglas effected its rescue shortly after darkness, aided by flares dropped from Coast Guard patrol planes which had stood guard over the drifting seamen since they abandoned ship.

The rescue vessel radioed the Coast Guard in Seattle that it was proceeding to San Francisco with the survivors, but said that if the sea continued to build up it probably would head instead for Astoria, Ore., at the mouth of the Columbia river.

The survivors were in two lifeboats when the Black Douglas reached them. The first boatload

Hope For Greek War Settlement Ends As Reds Reject UN Plan

LAKE SUCCESS, N. Y. Oct. 17. (INS)—Hopes for a settlement of the Greek civil war collapsed tonight when Russia and Soviet-controlled Albania rejected a compromise formula offered by the UN to all seven nations concerned.

The shattering of hitherto bright prospects for a Balkan solution was attributed in UN delegation circles to an evident Soviet decision over the weekend to use all available means of pressure to induce the United States to drop support for Yugoslavia's candidacy to the 1950 Security council.

OFFICIALS FACING DECISION

Commission Resumes Study Of City Limits Extension Today

THE Lubbock City Commission meets today at 10 a.m. for another attempt at reaching a final decision on 12 city limits extensions recommended by a citizens' committee, a meeting which will have far reaching effect on the city's official federal census figures for the next 10 years.

The meeting is the second called session within five days for a study of the proposed annexations. A meeting last Friday resulted in today's called session.

The annexations must be completed before Jan. 1, if the populations of such areas are to be included in that of the city of Lubbock when the federal census is taken next year. The legal technicalities involved in such an extension of the city's boundaries require about two months.

The annexations recommended by the chamber committee, membership of which is composed of business and civic leaders, both in the city and in the suburbs, are:

No. 1. North Lubbock—An irregularly bounded area extending from North Tyler Ave. eastward to include the Country club addition. This area extends about two miles from east to west and would extend the city's boundaries about

The father, waiting at Rhein-Main airport, Germany for the plane to complete its mission, told reporters, "gosh, this floors me."

The child was born in the crew's compartment of the American Overseas airlines' "Flagship Scotland," enroute from New York to Frankfurt, while most of the 43 passengers dozed.

Capt. John J. Hennessy of Newtown, Conn., in command of the plane, said "I took careful check of our position, and we were right over the British weather ship JJJ-For-Jig. The little boy may want to know some time where he was born.

French Premier Quits After Failure To Complete Cabinet

PARIS, Oct. 17 (INS)—Socialist Premier Jules Moch resigned tonight from the post he has held four days because of failure to fill the critical financial portfolio in a French coalition cabinet.

His resignation was accepted by President Vincent Auriol, who conferred immediately with Foreign Minister Robert Schuman, a Popular Republican (MRP), in an attempt to break the crisis.

Auriol also was understood considering former Premier Henri Queuille or some other Radical Socialist as a possible candidate for the premiership.

Federal Pay Boost Approved By House

WASHINGTON, Oct. 17. (AP)—Compromise bills raising the pay of 1,385,000 government workers at an annual cost of $239 million were passed today by the House and sent to the Senate.

The raises for about 885,000 civil service workers would average $140 each.

About 500,000 postal employes would receive raises of $120 annually each. They would not, however, get uniform allowances or extra annual leave as originally voted by the House. Employes hired on a temporary or part-time basis would receive percentage raises instead of a flat increase.

$20,000 Bond Is Set For Suspect

WHITEFACE, Oct. 17. (Special) Bond of $20,000 was set here today by Justice of the Peace H. B. Robbins for Leo Nichols, 37, charged with assault with intent to murder in the Friday night shooting of his wife.

Nichol's only comment when the amount of bail was announced was "that's a pretty high bond, isn't it?"

The suspect has been held in the Morton jail since shortly after the shooting following his arrest by officers summoned by his nine-year-old son, Bobby Jack.

Mrs. Nichols, meanwhile, remained near death in Phillips-Dupre hospital at Levelland, a bullet which entered her chest and severed the spinal cord still is lodged in her body. Her condition has remained unchanged since she was brought to the hospital a short time after the shooting.

Mrs. Nichols earlier told Sher-

The Moscow raido said the marshal died yesterday after a prolonged severe illness, the nature of which was not specified.

Green Rejects Labor Unity

(By The Associated Press)

PITTSBURGH, Oct. 17—AFL President William Green today told John L. Lewis that pooling of labor's resources while labor is divided is "impossible and impractical."

However, Green wrote the United Mine Workers chief that AFL's 105 unions manage their own affairs and will have to decide for themselves whether to go along with Lewis' plan to throw a giant war chest behind the striking CIO United Steelworkers.

Lewis proposed in a labor unity move toward the rival Green that they give USW $2,500,000 a week. He suggested that nine AFL unions each match a $250,000 contribution by the UMW.

Aid Request Questioned

Green questioned whether President Philip Murray of the CIO and the steelworkers had asked for help.

Murray's own reaction to the Lewis plan was sympathy for unity and a counter proposal that AFL, CIO and UMW pool their resources for a "common defense" in the great coal and steel strikes as well as any other union walkouts.

Murray's aides said he will have no comment on Green's action. There was nothing from Lewis immediately.

Discontent Grows

Two Stabbings Reported Here

Police Monday were investigating the stabbings of two negroes, one a 16-year-old Lubbock girl, the other a 20-year-old St. Louis youth.

A 17-year-old negro girl was under investigation of juvenile authorities in connection with the Sunday night icepick attack on another negro girl, Mary Washington, who according to officers, had a knife in her possession at the time of the altercation.

The victim was given emergency treatment at Lubbock Memorial hospital for three minor wounds of the upper body and released.

Suffers Minor Wound

The St. Louis negro, Bartamus Hicks, who has been living in the 1800 block Ave. A, was treated for a minor cut on the lower left chest about 7 p. m. Monday.

He told officers he had been stabbed by a white man with whom he had been riding in a car. Hicks was unable to identify his companion, but said the rear seat of the man's car had been converted into a bed by use of iron bars and wire.

Several thefts were reported.

Andrew Phillips of Idalou said two batteries were taken from irrigation well houses of that section.

A 1940 green Chevrolet coach, license AM 312 was reported stolen from George C. Yardley of

FARM, LABOR SUPPORT SOUGHT

Truman Builds Strong Political Fences For Presidential Race

By LYLE C. WILSON
United Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, Oct. 17.—Every day and in every way President Truman looks more like a confident candidate to succeed himself in 1952.

The present frantic windup of Congress in a scramble for the farm vote is one of the factors influencing the judgment of political observers on that. Mr. Truman's overall strategy for the 1950 congressional elections has formed a pattern. The same strategy will be followed if he again is a candidate for president.

Plays For Leftish Support

It is to break forever the clutch of the solid south on the Democratic party and to make a farmer-labor coalition the party's future foundation. That strategy includes holding the negro and left wing vote to the Democratic party —the left wingers, that is, outside the Communists. Mr. Truman is shooting at that target.

Republicans are congratulating themselves as Congress nears adjournment that with the help of conservative Democrats they rejected or basically modified a lot of Mr. Truman's democratic program.

While their spokesmen point to these achievements in a Democratic congress over a Democratic president, Republicans are uneasy in their minds. They know that the political strategy Mr. Truman has been following is very like the late FDR's triumphant politics.

Assuming that business and employment continue at a high level, just about the only question regarding the likelihood of Mr. Truman running again for president is his age. He would be 68 years old Jan., 20, 1953.

The farm vote scramble split both parties wide open. But Mr. Truman and Vice President Alben W. Barkley are for the House bill and against the Senate bill which was sponsored by Sen. Clinton P. Anderson, (D.-N.M.), who used to be Mr. Truman's secretary of agriculture.

Chairman Elmer Thomas, (D-Okla.), of the Senate Agriculture committee, contributed some interesting figures to the farm bill debate. He said the rigid high price guarantees of the House bill would give farmers a 1951 take of $21,000,000,000 for all crops. He said the Senate bill would give them only $14,000,000,000. Thomas is for the House bill.

Brannan Plan In Reserve

As a further bid for farm support, the administrator has in reserve the Brannan farm plan. It would subsidize farm prices so that they could be high on the farms and low to the consumer of processed food.

In direct appeal to labor, the administration has its postponed Taft-Hartley repealer, a hike of 35 cents an hour and greater coverage in the minimum wage, larger and more widely distributed social security benefits—all plus Mr. Truman's easy assumption of the role of friend to the little guy. And the administration gets endless headlines on its anti-trust suits.

Negro votes are a balance of power in nearly a score of industrial states in any close election. Mr. Truman has just named Gov. William H. Hastie of the Virgin islands to the federal circuit bench. Some votes should flow from that.

Woman Named Envoy

The President has just made some political time with Americans for Democratic Action by naming one of its members — and a woman — to be ambassador to Denmark. She is Mrs. Eugenie Anderson of Minnesota.

The most spectacular administration gesture to the left wing came with nomination of Leland Olds to another Federal Power commission term. Despite strong likelihood that the Senate would reject Olds, Mr. Truman cracked the party whip for his support. That put a lot of Senate Democrats on the spot but made political hay which will come in handy next year and in 1952. Olds was rejected.

Mr. Truman was quoted the day after his election last November as saying: Labor did it. After thinking it over, he probably would credit the farmers today with the put-out of Gov. Thomas E. Dewey and labor with only an assist.

Winston Churchill's Daughter To Marry British Cameraman

SEA ISLAND, Ga., Oct. 17. (AP)—A British society photographer, Anthony Beauchamp, and Miss Sarah Churchill, daughter of Britain's wartime prime minister, announced today they will be married tomorrow.

The couple said they had been secretly engaged for a week and that they had the approval of her parents.

Churchill Okays Plan

Beauchamp, 32, said he arrived in this country three weeks ago after conferring with former Prime Minister Winston Churchill and obtaining his endorsement of the proposal.

The 34-year-old Miss Churchill, divorced from Vic Oliver in October, 1945, made her stage debut in this country last June.

She has been touring America in summer stock with the lead role in "Philadelphia Story."

Oklahoma Governor Ignores Bid By Drys

OKLAHOMA CITY, Oct. 17. (AP) Governor Roy J. Turner today declined to ask a special session of the Oklahoma legislature to consider stricter liquor law enforcement.

The United Dry association of Oklahoma had asked him to open the session — expected to be called in early December — for consideration of local option on 3.2 beer, abolition of the beer tavern and higher fines and longer prison terms for liquor law violations.

Turner said he wants the special session as short as possible. The legislators will be asked only to vitalize the $36 million state building bond issue approved by the Sept. 27 special election. At that election, proposed repeal of the state dry laws was defeated.

1949 Expected To Be Worst Year For Polio

ATLANTA, Oct. 17. (U.P.)—Surgeon General Leonard A. Scheele predicted today that 1949 will be the worst polio year in United States history with the total number of cases reaching 40,000 to 45,000.

In a speech prepared for delivery at a U.S. Public Health service conference here, Dr. Scheele said that this year will see a 50 per cent rise over the 27,680 cases of polio reported in 1948.

And the incidence of polio may go even higher next year and in years to come, the surgeon general said.

"The end is not in sight," he said. "This is a case where knowledge is urgently needed so that steps can be taken to control poliomyelitis."

In the 10 years before 1943 there was only a "moderate incidence" of polio, Dr. Scheele said, but since then there has been "a marked upward trend."

The surgeon general explained the nationwide research program, directed from the Communicable Disease center in Atlanta, which is attempting to solve the problem by finding out how the malady is spread.

Shivers Names Weslaco Man As New State Board Member

AUSTIN, Oct. 17. (U.P.)—William C. Baxter of Weslaco was named today by Gov. Allan Shivers to the State Board of Architectural examiners.

expiring July 26, 1955, to succeed John Thomas Rather, jr., of Houston on the three-member board.

Baxter was appointed to a term

Use Of Large Planes Planned If Possible In Parks System

WASHINGTON, Oct. 17. (U.P.)—Ozark airlines testified today that its plan for operating Parks airlines system included the use of DC-3 planes "wherever airport facilities and traffic made use of larger planes feasible."

Ozark is one of 10 airlines which have applied for authority to take over all or part of the Parks system which was thrown open for recertification when Parks failed to meet a CAB operation deadline last July 1.

Company officials, however, stressed the advantage of single-engined planes on most of the Parks route "until adequate airports are avilable."

Ozark is presenting its case in opposition to a proposed merger of Parks with Mid-Continent airlines.

Braniff airways, which operates a route out of Chicago south to Brownsville, Texas and west to Denver, Colo., is scheduled to testify tomorrow in support of an application to operate the Mississippi Valley segment of the Parks system.

New Zealand's traffic accident rate, 5.2 per 1,000 vehicles, is the world's lowest.

It's built like Lincoln

THE HIGHEST COMPLIMENT YOU COULD PAY ANY CAR

THE LINCOLN COSMOPOLITAN SPORT SEDAN
White side-wall tires, road lamps, and HYDRA-MATIC* transmission optional at extra cost

EVEN in this hurried age, there is still an automobile built the way a fine automobile should be built.

With craftsmanship . . . with quality . . . with integrity. And we are proud to say it is the Lincoln.

Here is a fine car whose standards of engineering and workmanship have set new records of achievement this year.

Its luxurious new "Salon Styled" interior is unquestionably the most beautiful interior yet fashioned for any automobile.

Its magnificent combination of Lincoln power and HYDRA-MATIC* contribute hitherto unheard-of ease and smoothness to motoring today.

Its superbly exclusive body styling definitely stamps it as being the most distinctive car on the road.

This Lincoln Cosmopolitan is, in short, the one fine car designed for you who frankly want the very finest.

And incidentally, you can own one for much less than you may think.

For a truly memorable experience in motoring, why not get in touch with us now?

Lincoln makes America's most distinctive cars

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

About Lubbock Community Chest

EDITOR'S NOTE: Lubbock's Community Chest campaign opens today and already leaders in the campaign are answering questions about the Chest organization from workers who do not fully understand all the facts about the drive. In order that Avalanche-Journal readers may know all about the Community Chest the following question and answer article has been prepared by A. B. Watkins, publicity chairman of the Chest drive.

Question: Why a Community Chest?

Answer: A Community Chest saves time and money. By relieving the executives of the various member agencies from the necessity of preparing for individual campaigns it permits them to spend full time on the job for which they are employed. Campaign costs are approximately the same whether the goal is for $10,000 or $100,000. So if each of the eight agencies conducted separate campaigns the campaign costs would be multiplied by that amount. Eight separate campaigns would require the volunteer workers to spend eight times as long working to raise the funds needed by these member agencies.

Question: Who benefits?

Answer: Everybody. Surveys show that one family out of each three in Lubbock benefit directly by having a son or daughter who participates in the program of one or more of the agencies. All families benefit indirectly through the wholesome influence these services have on the youth of the Community.

Question: Who Gives?

Answer: Everybody. Every citizen has an obligation to help support these worthwhile programs.

Question: Where does the money go?

Answer: The money raised in your Community Chest drives go to the member agencies to support their work. The goal of the Community Chest campaign is set by obtaining the total of the approved agency budgets.

Question: Who decides how much each agency will receive?

Answer: The board of directors of the Community Chest makes the final decision after receiving the recommendation of the budget committee who have made detailed studies of the needs of the agencies.

Question: Who are the member agencies of the Chest?

Answer: The Boy Scouts, The Lubbock Boys Club, The Girl Scouts, The Jr. Optimist Boys Club, Milam Home, Carver Heights Nursery, The Lubbock Service Organization, and the Salvation Army.

Question: Is all the money accounted for?

Answer: Yes. All receipts are audited by licensed accountants immediately after the campaign is over.

Question: What is my fair share?

Answer: Your fair share must of course be determined by you. What would you give to each of the member agencies if they each asked you separately? The accepted standard of giving is one (1) day's pay. The volunteers who call on you are giving more than that, plus their time working on the Campaign.

Question: What do business men think of the Chest?

Answer: That can best be answered by listing the names of the men who give their time throughout the year as members of the Board of Directors:

Roy Riddel, V. Pres., First Nat'l Bank, president; Raymond Burford, Mgr. Baldridge Bakery, vice president; A. B. Watkins, Dunlap's, vice president; Charles F. Maedgen, jr., V. Pres. Lubbock Nat'l Bank, Treasurer; and Charles Bacon, Investments; R. F. Bayless, retired; B. H. Bird, St. Francis Hotel; K. N. Clapp, Cotton; D. O. Dawkins, Luther Transfer & Storage; J. Ray Dickey, Scoggin-Dickey Buick Co.; P. T. Glazer, Davis & Humphries; J. D. Hassell, jr., Hemphill-Wells; Wyatt Hester, Hester's Office Supply; Irving L. Jones, Investments; Retha Martin, Dunlap's; E. T. Pope, Hanna-Pope Co.; Garnet Reeves, Garnet Reeves Ins. Agency; J. C. Sanders, Lubbock Tailoring Co.; Newton Walton, Walton's Men's Store; C. A. White, Cornell & Co. Auditors; Neil Wright, Jr., Oldham-Wright Ins. Co., directors.

Question: What does Labor think of the Chest Movement?

Answer: Nationally the Community Chest campaigns have been endorsed by Mr. W. P. Kennedy, Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen; Wm. Green, A. F. of L.; John L. Lewis, U. M. W. and Phillip Murray, A. A. W. U.

Question: Why don't the agencies pay their own way?

Answer: Their services are free to all who need them.

Question: What do I get out of it?

Answer: A better community in which to live. The satisfaction of doing your share to lighten the burden of the under-privileged, and worthwhile recreational facilities for your children.

Question: Can I give through the Chest to some of the agencies but not all?

Answer: Yes. You can make your check payable to the agency you wish to receive it.

Question: Do I have to pay all cash now if I give?

Answer: No. The Chest doesn't need all cash at once. You can pledge an amount you wish to give and pay anytime during the next year, at whatever time you wish.

About six and a half billion glasses of iced tea are consumed in this country every year.

Six Persons Killed In Louisiana Crash

FERRIDAY, La., Oct. 17. (U.P.)—Six persons, including a woman and her two small sons were killed near here last night when two autos collided after one of them had hit a stray horse.

A seventh passenger, a Winnsboro, La., nurse, was the only survivor of the crash. She was taken to a Natchez, Miss., hospital in serious condition.

Police identified the dead as:

Cecil S. Camp, Baton Rouge, La., an engineering teacher at Louisiana State university.

Mrs. Cecil S. Camp and her two sons, aged eight and 10.

Leo Jackson, Rayville, La.

Francis E. Mitchell, Baton Rouge, engineering student at LSU.

The injured nurse was Miss Mabel Fussell, 30.

State police said the accident happened on state highway 15 when one car, heading south, hit the horse and swerved across the highway. The other auto, headed north, crashed into it.

Trial Of Former Delta Sheriff Charged With Murder Begins

GREENVILLE, Oct. 17 (AP)—The murder trial of Nolan Maynard, former sheriff of Delta county, began today.

Maynard is charged in the death of Miss Dorothy Palmer of Cooper, May 26, 1948.

The case was transferred to Hunt county on a change of venue.

Miss Palmer died from a bullet wound in the throat allegedly inflicted while she and Maynard were sitting in the latter's car.

Five Die In Crash Of Air Force Plane

CHINO, Calif., Oct. 17 (INS)—A board of air officers met today to determine the cause of the crash of an Air Force B-26 bomber which plunged into high tension wires near Chino last night killing its five occupants.

The plane was en route to the Long Beach, Calif. Army Air base from Sheppard Field, Wichita Falls, Texas. It had refuled at Williams field, near Phoenix, Ariz., a few hours before the mishap.

The plane ripped into power lines, blacking out the entire Chino area, but did not explode.

Power company officials were the first on the scene. Looking for the cause of the blackout, they found the wreckage and sighted two bodies. The three other bodies were found by rescue crews from March Field Air base.

M. L. Godfrey, of the nearby "Rolling M" ranch, said he saw the plane flying at what he thought to be an "extremely low altitude" at 5 p. m., only 15 minutes from its destination.

Officials at the base said one of the victims was a civilian employee of the Air Force while the other four were military personnel.

Air Force officials at Sheppard field identified the victims as:

First Lt. Pedro V. Galvez, pilot, of Stockton, Calif., First Lt. Jesse R. Hartland, co-pilot, Everett, Wash.; First Lt. Daniel R. McGee, 27, passenger, of Wichita Falls; Maj. Thomas B. Carnahan, jr., 45, passenger, of Wichita Falls; Ralph J. Lane, civilian, 57, of Seymour, Tex.

Milk used for cooking should be measured and the container holding the rest of the milk returned at once to the refrigerator.

Allred To Be Sworn In As Federal Judge On Oct. 29

HOUSTON, Oct. 17. (AP)—James V. Allred will be sworn in October 29 in Corpus Christi as federal district judge, according to plans completed this morning.

The man who succeeded him as federal district judge, Allen B Hannay, will administer the oath. Allred resigned in 1942 to run for the Senate.

Judge Allred will then hold court beginning October 31 in Corpus Christi, for two weeks.

He will open court for the regular term in Laredo November 4, and the regular term in Brownsville December 5.

Allred said today that he will move his official residence to Corpus Christi October 29.

Circus Worker Suffers Broken Neck When Wagon Tongue Falls

FORT WORTH, Oct. 17. (U.P.)—William E. Davis, 48, Ringling Bros. and Barnum & Bailey circus worker, suffered a broken neck in an accident early today as the show preparaed to leave town after a weekend performance.

Davis, who is from San Bruno, Calif., was injured when a wagon tongue fell on him during loading operations. His condition at St. Joseph's hospital here was reported fair.

The Woman's Angle
By Margaret Turner

IF WE were Lubbock mayor (and it's just as well for the town that we are not) we'd declare Friday a holiday, sponsor a special train to Amarillo and head a delegation of thousands to the Westerner-Sandie game. It seems this is to be OUR year, my friends.

As someone remarked Monday afternoon, "If we don't win this time, there should never be a next time!"

GOOD POSTURE

INFANTS and animals get around all right on their all-fours, but, entirely apart from evolutionary theories, we make monkeys of ourselves when we depart from human posture.

This is annual posture week and from what we have gleaned by reading the articles you are supposed to concentrate on improving your bearing this week and if you get in the habit it may continue for 51 other weeks.

Here are some ideas about improving the posture: First of all don't forget the elementary rules of good health—eat enough but not too much—get enough rest, relaxation and sleep—get out for some outdoor play and exercise but don't overstrain—declare a moratorium on worry.

Don't try to be your own doctor, or you will have an idiot for a patient. If you suffer from chronic backache, muscular pains or other symptoms, make sure to see your doctor.

1. Stand with heels about four inches from the wall. 2. Tilt pelvis upward, flattening your back against the wall. 3. Retaining this posture, push yourself away from the wall, relax arms and walk.

HOUR GLASS

IS there a standard hour glass in Lubbock that someone would be willing to let a church society borrow for a program. We mean a regular hour glass, not the small three minute kind that women time boiling eggs by.

If so, will the owner please get in touch with the Woman's Angle?

MRS. TOM J. SETTLE

MRS. Tom J. Settle, a young matron who contributed much to the religious, educational, civic and social life of Lubbock when she made her home here until a year ago, is ill in Immanuel hospital in Omaha, Neb., following major surgery. She would like to hear from her friends in order to help to while away the long hours that will be necessary for her convalescence.

The Settles moved to Lubbock from Slaton where Mrs. Settle had been president of the parent-teacher association and a member of the district board. Here she was president of the Roscoe Wilson P-TA and active in the Jaycee-Ettes, the Clement-Sorosis study club and St. Paul's Episcopal church.

In addition to these many tasks, Mrs. Settle concentrated her main interest in the rearing of her four lovely and talented children.

WHAT NEXT?

PACKAGES with aromas to match their contents may be on the way.

Many paper manufacturers are now adding small amounts of vanilla-like chemicals to their products. Reason is the demand from manufacturers of candy, cookies and ice cream for "tasty" packing and shipping containers.

If this comes to pass, it will make it more difficult than ever to get cooperation when a mother yells to her youngster, "Stop chewing on that box lid!"

Class Anniversary Observed At Lunch

Aqui-Pri class of Asbury Methodist church celebrated its first anniversary Sunday with a covered dish luncheon after the 11 a. m. service.

A business meeting was directed by H. M. McCullough, president. Chairman of commissions which were appointed include Messrs. and Mesdames Clyde Gee, study and worship; H. A. Williams, evangelism and church loyalty; D. C. Pollard, recreation and life; A. S. Westbrook, social action and world service.

A gift of eight serving trays was presented to the retiring president, Mrs. Westbrook. Attending the luncheon were about 40 persons.

Talk By Missionary, Other Programs Held

The regular Monday meetings of women's church organizations were held yesterday at churches and in homes. Lessons and programs were presented, social meetings were held, and three missionaries met with one group.

BOOK REVIEW TEA IS ATTENDED BL COUNCIL

First Christian Fellowship hall was scene of a Monday afternoon book review and tea given for the Women's council, with 60 members and 10 guests attending. Mrs. W. P. Jennings discussed the book, "Roots Out of Dry Ground," (Briggs).

Two vocal numbers were presented by Mrs. Frank C. Goodwin, accompanied by Mrs. John C. Oldham.

Table decorations were in the autumn theme and featured a cornucopia filled with fruits and vegetables. An ecru lace cloth was used. A pumpkin coach, filled with fruits and vegetables and drawn by two turkeys, decorated the piano. Mrs. Grady West served guests and Mrs. Fred Childress played piano numbers during the tea hour.

Mrs. Lewis B. Cooper, assisted by Mrs. Jimmy Yates and Mrs. Wayne McMurry, made arrangements for the event.

MISS LILLIE HUNDLEY SPEAKS FOR WMS

Miss Lillie Hundley, a missionary to China, discussed her work there when she met with Calvary Baptist Women's Missionary society Monday at the church. She and the other two missionaries attending the meeting, Rev. Blonnye Foreman of Brazil and Rev. J. O. Wells of China, are on furlough.

Forty-eight members were present for the talk. Thirteen Sunbeams had a meeting at the church also.

STUDY ON JAPAN IS CONTINUED

The fourth and fifth chapters of the book, "Japan Begins Again," were presented by the study leader, Mrs. Mary Houston, assisted by Mrs. J. E. Crawford and Mrs. Paul Brenneman, for the Afternoon circle of Forrest Heights Methodist WSCS Monday. Mrs. Grace Holden was hostess.

Rev. Burgin Watkins, a visitor of the circle, led the opening prayer and Mrs. O. A. Baker gave a devotion. The benediction was by Mrs. Crawford.

DISTRICT SECRETARY SPEAKS AT LUNCH

Mrs. B. E. Young, Methodist district secretary of missionary education, spoke on "Home Missions" at a luncheon meeting of St. John's Methodist Woman's Society of Christian Service Monday afternoon at the church.

Mrs. G. E. Crosby and Mrs. Hubert Bratcher sang a duet.

Fourteen women attended.

JAPANESE ARTICLES SHOWN BY GUEST

Mrs. A. L. Hewitt, a guest of Asbury Methodist Woman's Society of Christian Service Monday afternoon, spoke on "Japan Today." She also displayed Japanese articles which she brought home with her after living in that country for some time after the war.

The fourth lesson of the study "Japan Begins Again," was taught by Mrs. Russell Denison. Mrs. Elmo Collins brought a devotion and Mrs. E. C. Price offered special music. The meeting was conducted in the church parlor.

Town Talk

MISS SARAH ANN WILEY was honored Sunday on her thirteenth birthday with a luncheon given in the home of her parents Mr. and Mrs. H. T. Wiley, 2814 Thirty-sixth, by her mother.

Roses were arranged as a centerpiece on the luncheon table and colorful nut cups completed the decorations.

Covers were laid for the honoree, Ava Sue Shropshire, Yvonne Skinner, Zora Lee Kennedy, Orvinille Lambert, Gwendolyn Wiley and James Wiley.

Mrs. George Etz, the former Miss Carolyn Cole, writes from her home in Norman, Okla., that she is having lots of fun keeping house.

Her friends may write to her at the following address: "Mrs. George H. Etz, jr., 1215 Clossin, Apt. 4, Norman, Okla."

Mr. and Mrs. Julius Hegyi of New York City will leave this morning to drive to Texas for a week's visit in the home of her mother, Mrs. R. T. Bucy, 2219 Seventeenth.

Mrs. Hegyi is the former Miss Marta Bucy.

In town for Tech Homecoming activities over the weekend was Mrs. Bucy's son, Ralph, and ex-Techsan who is now studying for the ministry in Austin.

Miss Elizabeth McDonald, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. A. McDonald, 3517 Twenty-ninth, and Miss Jane Jung, 1403 Fourteenth, have just returned from a two weeks' vacation in Chicago.

Besides visiting art museums, which was their main interest, the young women attended several different radio shows and stage performances.

Principals of Lubbock Public schools are having their first dinner of the year tonight at 7:30 o'clock in the Yaqui room of the Hilton hotel.

Administrators of the schools have been invited as their special guests, and Dr. James Russell of West Texas State college will be the principle speaker.

Officer of the principals' organization are Alfred Smith, president, principal of Central Ward school; Mrs. Ivy Savage, vice-president, principal of Roscoe Wilson; and Howard T. Day, secretary, principal of Chris-Harwell.

LLL Class Officers Are Installed At Service In Church

Mrs. Abe Hester installed officers at a recent meeting of the LLL class of College Avenue Baptist church at the church.

Taking offices were: Mesdames W. E. Williamson, president; Roy Tonroy, membership vice president; Herman Couch, fellowship vice president; W. H. Nelson, personal ministries; Miss Zena Brown, stewardship; Mesdames W. A. Spence, secretary-treasurer; A. T. Wells, assistant secretary-treasurer.

Group captains: Mesdames T. L. Visage, Aycock, Lofton Bennett and J. E. Smith.

A Hallowe'en motif was carried out in refreshments served by Mesdames Nelson and J. C. Perser.

BUFFET SUPPER SET

Honoring prospective members, the Jaycee-Ettes will have a buffet supper tonight at 7:30 o'clock in the home Mrs. Leroy Land, 2224 Main.

Changes In Meetings Of Womens Clubs Are Announced Here

A meeting of Lubbock Woman's club will be held this afternoon at 3 o'clock at the home of Mrs. Irl Robertson, 2411 Twentieth.

The program originally was planned for the Lubbock Women's clubhouse but was re-set because the piano donated by Allegro Music club has not been moved there.

Mrs. E. S. Price will talk on "Music Progress" and Mrs. J. J. Kendrick will discuss "Our Musical Outlook."

Musical selections will be presented.

Altrusa To Meet

Altrusa club will attend a dinner and program meeting at the Hilton hotel Thursday night at 7 o'clock. Mrs. A. W. Young and Mrs. O. C. Southall, guests, will discuss "Do We Want Federal Aid For Our Schools?"

Semi-Annual Meeting Held

Talks on flowers, travels and education and a musical program were presented at a semi-annual meeting of the County Federation Saturday at the Shallowater clubhouse. A covered dish luncheon was served in the new addition to the club.

Mrs. John Redwine presided. Welcome was given by Mrs. H. G. Preston, with response by Mrs. W. O. Stevens.

Roll call was answered by club representatives giving brief forward looking reports of the year's programs.

Mrs. Godeke Presides

Mrs. H. F. Godeke, program chairman, presided for the program which was opened by a talk on the history of flower arrangements given by Mrs. John V. Powers. She showed how flower arrangements were started in the Old World and have influenced modern design and displayed various types of arrangements.

Mrs. Pearl Watson gave a travel talk on her trip to Scotland, England, France and Italy last summer and described the university where she and 100 other teachers attended classes at Lausanne, Switzerland.

After lunch Ishmael Hill, assistant superintendent of schools, spoke on "The Provisions and Effects of the Gilmer-Akin Bill."

A musical program given by Shallowater residents included a negro spiritual by C. H. Brown; two duets, "Whispering Hope" and "Forever and Ever," sung by Glenda Ann Reed and Glenda Ruth Sport and piano selections by John Evans.

Rev. Secil Ottinger, pastor of the Shallowater Methodist church, asked invocation at the luncheon. The last number was a humorous reading by Miss D'Ruth Hopping, a Tech student.

FUTURE BRIGHT BUT UNCERTAIN

U. S. Farmers Must Not Expect Too Much, FCA Directors Told

NEW ORLEANS, Oct. 17. (AP)—District directors of the Farm Credit administration were told today that despite a bright future in sight American farmers must not expect too much.

Dr. W. I. Myers, dean of the New York State College of agriculture at Cornell University, urged the directors to "forget postwar peaks and begin to think in terms of what can reasonably be expected over the next few years."

Economic Future Uncertain

"Though the nation's economic outlook is full of question marks," he said, "there is no real justification for pessimism based on developments thus far in the forseeable future.

"Recovery, however, has been affected by strikes in the coal and steel industries. After the present readjustment has been completed and we regain stability, there are prospects for several years of active business with high urban employment and production to make good the shortage of durable goods of the last two decades of depression and war.

"The biggest job now is the orderly downward readjustment of prices and costs by agriculture and other business to a basis on which our economy can move ahead with confidence."

Lower Income Expected

Earlier FCA Governor I. W. Duggan told the directors that "although agriculture will continue prosperous, agricultural net income during 1949 will be from 10 to 15 percent lower than in 1948."

Duggan pointed out that "price supports, at least as they are now provided, do not guarantee income" and that "prices of what farmers sell have been declining more rapidly than prices of what they buy, resulting in declines in net incomes."

But, he pointed out, "on June 30, 1949, farmers and farmers' cooperatives owned capital stock in institutions and associations of the FCA totalling $132 million the largest amount in history."

The district directors opened a four day conference here today.

Missing Dallas Man Believed Lake Texoma Drowning Victim

DENISON, Oct. 17. (AP)—W. C. (Paul) Young, of Dallas, was missing today on Lake Texoma and believed drowned.

The fisherman came to Texoma Sunday afternoon and when he failed to return home Sunday night his wife contacted Wayne Williams of Walnut Creek resort.

U. S. engineers and the Coast Guard joined in the search and Young's boat was found overturned in the lake today.

Miss Sims Is Bride Of Jack Tannery

SLATON, Oct. 17 (Special) — Mrs. O. V. Sims, of Slaton, is announcing the marriage of her daughter, Elizabeth, to Jack Tannery, son of Mr. and Mrs. Z. Z. Tannery, of Lubbock.

The ceremony took place Friday night, October 7, at the Methodist church in Clovis, N. M. The ceremony was read by Rev. F. D. English at 8:30 p. m.

The couple was attended by the bride's brother and his wife, Lt. and Mrs. O. V. Sims, jr., of Albuquerque, N. M.

The bride wore a beige lace dress with brown velvet accessories, and carried a white Bible topped with a purple orchid. The matron of honor wore a black suit with black accessories.

After a brief honeymoon to Albuquerque, the couple are temporarily at home at 435 West Lubbock, Slaton.

First Methodist Church Okays New Location For Construction Of Proposed Building

With the aim of having a new church building available as quickly as possible, the first Methodist church congregation Sunday afternoon voted to change location of its proposed church plant from the south to the north half of the block owned by the church and to utilize the present structure.

A new sanctuary seating 1,250 persons will be built on the west end of the block owned by the church between Broadway and Thirteenth and Ave. M and Ave. N.

To Face Broadway

The sanctuary, facing Broadway, will be located alongside the present church building, which will be converted into an educational building. Both will be of gothic architecture. They will take up the entire Broadway side of the block. Under the original plans, the church would have faced Thirteenth street.

The sanctuary will be situated on the site now occupied by the church parsonage. Another parsonage will be obtained on a site not yet decided.

The estimated total cost of construction of the sanctuary and gothic "face lifting" of the present building is $750,000, or one-half million dollars less than the original estimated cost of $1,250,000 for construction of a completely new church plant.

Design Followed

The plan will conform to the original design so far as possible. On the outside, it will be almost identical to the original design drawn for the new plant. On the inside, some changes will be made in the educational building plan so that the present church structure may be used.

In the Sunday meeting, attended by approximately 350 members, authority was given to the building committee to build a parsonage in keeping with needs of the church in another location.

It was brought out Sunday afternoon that the committee will employ a church architect from approximately 20 architects in the nation who specialize in church architects.

Members of the building committee are W. G. Alderson, chairman, Paul Hardwick, Dr. M. C. Overton, C. H. Hamilton, W. G. McMillan, J. H. Felton, R. P. Fuller, Roy Furr, M. B. Hilburn, C. E. Maedgen and Ruel C. Martin.

Will Raise Money

The building committee will observe its intention of waiting to start construction until money to pay for it is in the bank, it was stated following the session. A total of approximately $337,000 already has been placed in the building fund and the church will seek to raise the remainder in the next few months.

The total needed may be available by April 1, allowing construction to start next spring if architectural plans are ready and other preliminary work completed.

The building materials, design or building methods will be no cheaper than those used in construction of the originally designed plant. The cost will be less only because the present structure will be used, said church representatives.

Construction of the sanctuary will be the first stage of the building program. McMillan said in the Sunday meeting that, "The construction of the first unit of the sanctuary can be accomplished without a member so much as walking under a scaffold."

The originally planned tower will rise from the sanctuary, and in it will be located the carillon for which arrangements already have been made. A church committee has been assured the one of the carillon will carry 16 miles.

The chapel of the church will be located on the east end of the block on a site obtain by removing the present steps to the auditorium and also the foyer.

Phantom Slayings Probe Is Reopened

TEXARKANA, Oct. 17. (AP)—Officers began investigating Texarkana's phantom slayings of 1946 again today after a little girl found a rusted pistol.

The gun was near the scene of the double slaying which began this city's "phantom" terror. Five persons were shot to death in the spring of 1946. None of the slayings has been solved.

Constable A. S. (Red) Harrington received the gun from the father of a 10-year-old girl. The child, whom Harrington declined to identify, said she found the weapon in a clump of grass.

Harrington said the weapon was a .32 or .38 caliber.

The constable called in Texas Ranger Stewart Stanley of Clarksville to help him examine the gun. The ranger helped investigate the murders which began March 26, 1946. Polly Ann Moore, 17, and Richard Griffin, 29, were slain in a parked car.

They were shot with a .32 caliber gun. On April 14, Betty Jo Booker, 15, and Paul Martin, 17, were slain in a similar fashion.

On May 3, Miller county farmer Virgil Starks was slain with a .22 caliber bullet. His wife was shot twice in the face, but recovered.

Red Troops Sweep Caucasus Clear Of Foreign Population

WASHINGTON, Oct. 17. (INS)—The U.S. government today made public reports that the Russians have forcibly moved virtually the entire foreign population from the Caucasus region identified by some sources as scene of the Red atomic explosion.

The State department, which released the reports, said that the affected population consisted mainly of 17,000 Greeks who were removed to Soviet central Asia under "circumstances of extreme hardship."

State department spokesman Lincoln White said Russian troops suddenly removed the entire foreign population of the Caucasian town of Gagry. White said wives were separated from husbands and parents from children.

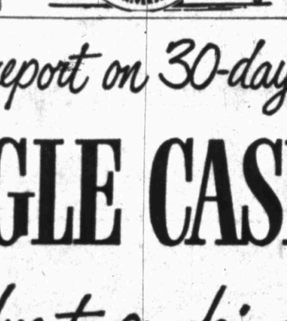

The Soviet Caucasus has been reported by some quarters both in Washington and in Europe to be the region of the Soviet atomic explosion by which the world became aware that Russia has acquired the A-bomb. The State department made no connection between the forced migration and the A-bomb blast.

Community Center Draws Total Of 572 Lubbock Youngsters

The Community center at Sixth and Ave. B, supervised by the City Recreation department, has reported a total attendance of 572 persons during the first three days of operation for the fall season.

The center reopened Thursday after having been closed during the summer.

Highlight of the opening week was a meeting of the girls' Polly Pig Tails club. A number of games were played. Yvonne Seymour won a prize for having made the best sailor hat.

Regular Meeting Held

The club is under direction of Mrs. Elizabeth Martin. Membership is open to all girls between the ages of six and 12 years. Meetings are held at the center each Friday afternoon from 4:30 until 6 o'clock.

Horseshoes, washers, and rope-jumping were the special activities for the week, with preparations currently being made for the tournaments in each of these activities which are to be held Thursday.

Men and boys may enter the horseshoe and washers tournaments. All who are interested in competing in these events should register with the directors at the Community center this afternoon.

Boys and girls are eligible to enter the rope jumping tournament. However, they must qualify by this afternoon in order to be eligible.

The library at the Community center will be opened later this week. A librarian is to be provided by the Church Women's federation.

Mrs. Martin and Bill Selke, directors of the Community center, have announced the following hours of operation of the recreation center:

Tuesdays, 4 p. m. to 9:30 p. m.; Wednesdays and Thursdays, 4 p. m. to 7 p. m.; Fridays and Saturdays, 4 p. m. to 9:30 p. m.

New Zealand's Government is investigating the services rendered and incomes received by medical practitioners, according to the Minister of Health, Miss Howard.

Noted Throat Specialists report on 30-day Test of Camel Smokers...

NOT ONE SINGLE CASE OF THROAT IRRITATION due to smoking CAMELS!

Yes, these were the findings of noted throat specialists after a total of 2,470 weekly examinations of the throats of hundreds of men and women who smoked Camels—and only Camels—for 30 consecutive days.

Meet MISS RITA TENNANT, Seattle secretary, who recently made the 30-Day Test of Camel MILDNESS under the observation of a noted throat specialist.

ALTHOUGH SHE'S SMOKED many brands, Rita changes to Camels for her 30-Day Test. Like the other smokers in the nationwide test, her throat is examined every week by a specialist.

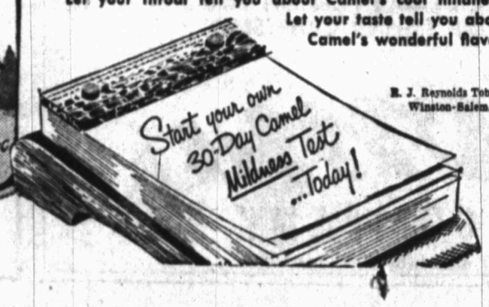

AH! SATURDAY—OFFICE CLOSED! Off to the tennis courts for Rita! She calls time-out for a Camel and confides: "I am really delighted to be making the test. Every Camel tastes so good!"

30TH DAY...FINAL EXAMINATION! Her doctor reports NO SIGN OF THROAT IRRITATION due to smoking CAMELS! Rita remarks: "And smoking is really fun with Camels!"

IT'S FUN! Smoke Camels—and only Camels—for 30 days. Compare them in your "T-Zone" (T for taste, T for throat). Let your throat tell you about Camel's cool mildness. Let your taste tell you about Camel's wonderful flavor.

SUBS CLAIMED AS CHIEF HAZARD

Navy Officer Denies Possible Use Of A-Bomb In Future War

By FRANK NEIL
INS Staff Correspondent

WITH THE WESTERN TASK FORCE IN THE PACIFIC, Oct. 17—One of the Navy's veteran fighting men, a wartime submarine commander, wrote off the atomic bomb today as a weapon in a possible World War III.

Navy Comdr. John S. McCain predicted that "atom bombs will not be used in the next war any more than poison gas was used in the last war."

His confident forecast was made aboard a vessel in the western task force steaming for Hawaii in the nation's biggest amphibious maneuver in peacetime history.

Cmdr. McCain believes the next war will "pickup where World War II left off, with few radical changes despite the atom bomb."

The submarine commander whose underwater fleet harassed enemy shipping with deadly effect in the last war, said civilization "simply will not destroy itself by wiping out vast populated areas."

He said the greatest hazard facing the U.S. in the event of war will be enemy submarines.

The western fleet, transporting a land force which will try to erase an "aggressor" that has theoretically seized the Hawaiian islands, sank three "enemy" submarines yesterday.

Plane Sinks Sub

One was sunk by a plane from the carrier Valley Forge, one of the 100-ship armada—and a PBM sank another. A destroyer accounted for the third "kill."

A "wolfpack" of 14 underwater craft is attacking the task force as it plows westward in full battle formation. Some 50,000 troops will participate in the amphibious assault to liberate the islands.

Army Reserve Flier Survives Flaming Crash Of Light Plane

FORT WORTH, Oct. 17. (U.P.)—An Army reserve pilot lay in his hospital bed here today and recounted his luck that enabled him to survive a flaming crash landing of his plane.

Joe Ray Kemble was burned severely on his face, hands, and ankles before he managed to fight his way free of the flaming cockpit of his single-engined Taylorcraft.

The crash landing was made in an open field near the Diamond L ranch south of Fort Worth late yesterday, and happened on Kemble's 29th birthday.

It was witnessed by his horror-stricken wife, who was at Russell field on the Waco highway with their two children, Katherine, 4, and Rusty, 2.

"I saw him spin down," Mrs. Kemble related. "I could see the flames, and then I saw the puff when he hit. I was never more scared in my life."

Bus and truck competition are putting the Swiss Federal Railways "in the red."

Tech Judgers Place Sixth In Contests

Texas Tech's senior stock judging team, after competing against 22 teams from top U.S. agricultural colleges, returns to Lubbock this afternoon from Kansas City with a sixth place ranking in the livestock judging contest conducted at the American Royal Live Stock show there Saturday.

A ranking among the ten high teams in the contest is always considered high, Ray C. Mowery, professor of animal husbandry, who has coached livestock judging teams since Tech was founded until this year. This year's team was coached by Stanley E. Anderson of the animal husbandry department.

Not only did the stock judging team make the first ten, but the wool judging team, coached by H. Ray Burkhart, won first place in the wool judging contest.

Buddy Winters, Lamesa, was second high man in the livestock judging contest, in which 110 contestants competed.

Placings in the contest were as follows: Iowa, Mississippi, Oklahoma A.&M., South Dakota, Purdue, Texas Tech, Kansas, Ohio, Nebraska and Michigan.

Tech placed third in hogs, fourth in sheep, ninth in cattle and tenth in horses.

Besides Winters, other members of the team were: J. P. Heath, Holly, Colo.; W. G. Rodgers, Lubbock; W. C. Davis, Sterling City; Robt. F. Fee, Colorado City and Doyle E. Lane, Pampa.

Davis was high point man on the wool judging team and other members included Winters, James Waddell, Sweetwater; and Ewing F. McEntire, Sterling City.

Pilot Charged With Negligent Homicide In Death Of Worker

SAN ANGELO, Oct. 17. (AP)—An airplane pilot was charged with negligent homicide today in the death of a construction worker.

David F. Williams, about 30, was alleged to have piloted a plane which buzzed over a 12-ton grader operated by George Miller, 25, north Concho dam project worker.

The third pass by the plane was said to be so low that Miller jumped from the grader, failed to clear the wheels and was crushed to death.

Miller died Saturday night.

Paving Work Is Slated In Terry

BROWNFIELD, Oct. 17 Spl.)—Twenty-three miles of Terry county roads are scheduled for paving improvements in 1950 at an estimated cost of $7,500 a mile, County Judge H. R. Winston has announced.

The paving will be included in thre separate projects. One project of three and one-fourth miles will afford an all-weather cutoff from the Levelland highway to the Seagraves highway via the cemetery road, which is already improved.

A total of $18,322.81 for this project is available to the county through a surplus in the State Board of County and District Road Indebtedness. The State Highway department has agreed to put up 25 per cent of this amount to be spent by the county, and also provide an engineer and build the road.

Projects Are Listed

Another project of eight and one-third miles is from Union, in southeastern Terry county, east to the county line and a connection with an improved road to O'Donnell. A fund of $30,000 for this improvement has been allocated Terry county through a state appropriation for such roads.

A third project is for two and one-half miles west from Union to the Brownfield-Lamesa highway, and for nine miles from the Johnson farm-to-market road to the Wellman farm-to-market road. Funds for these projects are provided through a federal appropriation.

Mexican Government Orders Crackdown On Canasta Games

MEXICO CITY, Oct. 17. (AP)—Canasta is gambling, and is prohibited by federal law, the Mexican government ruled today.

The government sent a circular to all state governors reminding them of the 1947 law prohibiting gambling and lotteries except where a special license has been issued.

The gambling law applies to advertised or publically operated gambling, but has not been interpreted into interfere with popular canasta games and private homes.

Last Rites Held For Lubbock Fire Victim

Services were conducted at 4 p.m. Monday the First Baptist church at Breckenridge for James C. (Jake) Stephens, 35, who died in flames that gutted his one-room house east of the Tahoka highway on Forty-eighth street about 12:45 a. m. Sunday.

Rev. Truman Aldridge officiated. Burial was in Breckenridge under direction of the Sanders Funeral home of Lubbock.

Survivors are two daughters, Letha Ann, 17, and Phyllis Jean Stephens, 15, both of Breckenridge; three sisters, Mrs. T. J. Vallas, sr., 1811 Eighteenth; Mrs. Herbert Schlitler of Crane and Mrs. E. E. Parkhill of Fort Worth, and three brothers, F. J. of Houston, R. L. of Dallas and Melvin Stephens of Fresno, Calif.

Firemen believe a faulty stove or a cigaret may have caused the fire which took Stephens' life and caused $1,500 damage.

Burglar Uses Meat Cleaver To Carve Entrance Into Cafe

AUSTIN, Oct. 17 (AP)—A burglar wielding a meat cleaver carved his way through two doors and burglarized the Downtown Texas cafe today.

Manager J. L. Stroble said the burglar got only $47.10, overlooking hundreds of dollars plus a large number of hard-to-get University of Texas football tickets.

Estonian Refugee Couple To Make New Home In Lubbock

Oskar Varik, 28, and his wife, Helene, 30, refugees from Estonia, will arrive in Lubbock the latter part of this week to begin their lives anew as future American citizens.

The couple, who arrived in New York City Monday under clearance as displaced persons, are coming to the Lubbock home of Mr. and Mrs. Fred D. Mueller of 2521 Twenty-second.

Mueller, owner of the Lubbock Glass and Mirror company, said Varik will be caretaker of his home and Mrs. Varik will be housekeeper.

Mrs. Mueller said the couple will live in a two-room house at the rear of the Mueller home.

The Variks are coming here under sponsorship of the Shepherd King American Lutheran church and the Muellers, according to Mueller.

GOVERNMENT REGULATION HIT

Texan Claims Spanish People Blocked From U. S. Products

WASHINGTON, Oct. 17. (Special)—The Spanish people are kept from buying their normal annual take of 300,000 bales of cotton and other products from the United States because of their government's policy of interference with business, Rep. W. R. Poage, Waco, 11th district, said here today.

Poage, member of the House Agriculture committee, recently returned from a six weeks tour of European countries in which he studied business and agricultural conditions. He spent two weeks in Spain.

Most of the cotton Spain formerly bought came from Texas. Now she is not buying any cotton here. She claims it is lack of dollars. Poage said cotton could be spun in Barcelona mills, which he found in excellent condition, and re-exported to other countries to bring in a cash value to the Spanish people, also consumer's goods for her citizens, through mortgage arrangements which could be worked out with American business men but for one thing. That is the fact that the Spanish government would demand its take of the income of the Spanish merchant who re-exported.

"No American business man is going to enter into an arrangement with a Spanish bussines man under such hazardous conditions," he said.

The Spanish government allocates its cotton and just takes the foreign exchange and reallocates it. Why? Poage said he supposed it was like many other governments, including the U.S.—its officials sometimes think they know better than anyone what is good for the people.

Poage said he did not think this country should give Spain any loan, unless it is going to further American business interests, and get markets for American goods.

"Spain thinks she needs a loan; I think she needs only to change her regulations to improve her general economy."

Poage said Spanish stores were filled with Spanish-made goods while other European countries exhibit American goods. Spain has had to exist on her own.

"Spain is the nearest approach to a welfare state of any place I saw next to England," he said. "The government tries to control every thing and everybody. Theirs is a dictatorship but one which seeks to give the people everything. The country has social security, hospitalization and other welfare provisions far beyond the reputedly far leftist countries of Norway and Sweden.

Poage told Spain's dictator, Francisco Franco, that he hoped conditions would improve so that Spain could continue to buy Texas cotton. Franco said he hoped so, and continued to lecture the U.S. congressman on world affairs.

Spanish people seemed happy and were harder working than the French and worked longer hours than the British, he found.

Other European countries would be worse off than Spain today if it had not been for the Marshall plan which is definitely working. Poage found that European countries, benefiting from the Marshall plan, were much more prosperous this year than last.

Two Houston Men To Face Gang-Style Murder Charge

HOUSTON, Oct. 17. (AP)— Police believed they were on the road to solving a gang-style slaying today with the arrest of two Houston men.

Vincent Vallone, sr., one-time racket boss here, was slain on lonely Chocolate Bayou road July 15.

Police arrested and charged with murder Diego Louis Carolino, 28, and Louis J. Marino, 37, over the weekend.

Marino denied knowledge of the shooting. When he was arrested Sunday, officers said he had one pistol stuck in his belt and another was in his car. He was charged with carrying a pistol.

Officers said Carlino made a written statement in which he said he was the "trigger man."

West Texas State Plans Homecoming Festival Oct. 21-22

CANYON, Oct. 17 (WTNS — West Texas State college is getting set to welcome over 5,000 exstudents back to the campus next Friday and Saturday, Oct. 21 and 22, when the annual homecoming celebration will be held.

Plans for the gigantic festival are nearing completion and according to the Homecoming committee it is expected that this will be one of the greatest celebrations in the history of the college.

Western week will start on the campus Wednesday, Oct. 19 and students and townspeople alike are expected to don cowboy regalia in order to avoid the horsetank set up near the Administration building.

Pep Rally Planned

A giant-sized pep rally with the traditional bonfire will take place Friday night at 7 o'clock north of Conner hall. Immediately following the bonfire will be the presentation of the homecoming play, a three-act comedy entitled "The Tightwad." This will be presented in the Administration auditorium. In an invitation from William A. Moore, director, he says, "Come on in the way you are. If you have cowboy clothes on or evening attire, you will be welcomed and will feel right at home."

A three-mile long parade will start winding its way through downtown Canyon at 10 o'clock Saturday morning. Over 10 bands, dozens of floats, comedy entries, horses, the football queen and countless other selections are planned for the parade. Ted Reid, veterans co-ordinator, is chairman of the procession which will be led by the famed Buffalo Band.

Feeding of the barbecue to exstudents and friends will commence immediately following the parade. Buff Morris is in charge. All feeding will take place at the tennis courts just north of the English building.

Just prior to the West Texas State-Trinity university football game at Buffalo stadium at 2:30 o'clock, the football queen will be crowned. The queen will be elected next week by the T-club.

After the ballgame, ex-students will have time to visit with friends, stroll over the present campus and gather at club and organization reunions.

At 8 o'clock Saturday night two big dances will begin the evening's entertainment. Playing for modern dancing in the new cafeteria will be the Collegians, college band. A western dance will be held in Burton gymnasium with a string band furnishing the music. Admission to the dances is $1 for the men with all ladies admitted free of charge.

Dancing will close when the exes get tired enough to call it a day and head for home.

Groups of low-cost homes to be built on the river shore just outside the downtown district of Montevideo, Uruguay, will cost $5,300,000 and house thousands of people.

20 Democratic Clubs Granted Charters By State Committee

FORT WORTH, Oct. 17. (U.P.)— Twenty Young Democratic clubs of Texas today held charters from the state executive committee, following its weekend meeting here.

Charters were received by groups in the following counties: Caldwell, Bowie, Cherokee, Collin, Falls, Grayson, Henderson, Hidalgo, Hill, Houston, Jefferson, Jim Wells, Liberty, McClennan, Milam, Navarro, Tarrant, Panola, Rockwall, and Webb.

A charter also was given to a University of Texas group.

Husband To Okay Bergman Divorce

ROME, Oct. 17. (INS)—Ingrid Bergman said tonight that her husband, Dr. Peter Lindstrom, finally has agreed to file for a divorce which will leave her free to marry Italian movie director Roberto Rossellini.

The Swedish film star refused to disclose details of this latest development in the trans-Atlantic triangle, but a friend said she has expressed appreciation privately for Dr. Lindstrom's "understanding."

(Hollywood dispatches reported that Lindstrom in agreeing to free the movie star had stipulated one condition—that she be on hand for a face-to-face meeting when a divorce is granted.)

It was understood Dr. Lindstrom agreed to seek the divorce in any city of the United States or virtually any other country.

Recently he made it clear he was reluctant to discuss details of the divorce with emissaries of the film beauty.

A lawyer sent to Hollywood from Rome failed to reach a final agreement with the Hollywood doctor and a number of matters are reported still hanging.

These include custody of the actress' daughter and financial arrangements.

Miss Bergman was reported hopeful, however, that an amicable agreement will be reached soon without any difficulty, paving the way for filing of the divorce action.

Youth Admits Slaying Brother To End Suffering From Wound

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 17 (AP)— Police today said that a 15-year-old boy killed his ten-year-old brother who lay groaning from an accidental bullet wound suffered only moments before—"to put him out of his misery."

Dead with two bullets in his head is Robert James Elliott, 10. His brother, Richard Manning Elliott, 15, is booked on suspicion of murder.

Police Lt. Edward Ream gave this account:

The two brothers, alone in their home last night, watched a western movie on television. Afterwards, the older boy showed his brother an old-fashioned .32 caliber revolver he had bought from a school friend for $6 and had kept secretly in his room.

As he took the gun from a drawer, it went off.

"Robert fell down groaning," Richard said, adding:

"I couldn't stand to see him suffer like that. I backed up two or three steps.

"I shot him again in the head to put him out of his misery."

Richard then called west Los Angeles police and sobbingly reported:

"I have just shot my brother."

PILGRIM'S HOUSE LASTS

DUXBURY, Mass. (U.P.)—Nearly 330 years have elapsed since the Pilgrims landed on Plymouth Rock. Yet still standing here, and well preserved, is the home of one of the Mayflower's passengers. The John Alden House was built in 1653.

Westerners Face Amarillo Sandies Friday

Full House Is Expected

The sternest test facing the Lubbock Westerners so far this season will be met Friday evening when the local eleven invades Amarillo for a meeting with the always-dangerous Sandies.

The two teams are rated high among the powers in the state, and Lubbock has an unbeaten record to protect, having won the first five games of the season. The Sandies, on the other hand, have lost one game to Odessa and won their other four starts.

Coach Pat Pattison's Cowpokes will be trying to end the long drouth of defeats that began in 1940, with the Sandies running up a string of nine straight victories over the locals in District 1-AA competition.

Rivalry Still Strong

This year the game will have no significance in district competition, the Westerners being in District 3-AA. But the strong rivalry between the schools still exists where athletics is concerned, and a bruising battle is expected.

Westerner practice this week will probably be no different than preceding weeks, but the defensive angle may come in for more attention because of the caliber of the Sandie offensive which has run up an average of 29.4 points per game, including the contest lost.

Last week the Pampa Harvesters surprised Lubbock with a smashing ground game and a fair passing attack which came near to turning the tables on the Westerners. The none-too-spectacular passing set up one Pampa touchdown and accounted for another, with the latter finding the receiver completely in the open. Mistakes such as this could easily mean the difference in a close game.

Routine Drills Held

Monday afternoon a routine practice was held, with offensive and defensive maneuvers coming in for attention. The different teams alternated so that all could participate in the drills.

The Cowboys came out of the Pampa game in good shape, and today's workout may see a full-fledged scrimmage.

Yesterday's drills were run at three-quarter speed so that mistakes could be pointed out easily.

Additional Tickets Available For Game

An additional 600 football tickets for the Lubbock-Amarillo encounter Friday in Amarillo will be available this morning at the athletic office in Lubbock High school, E. J. Lowrey, athletic business manager, said late Monday.

Following a sellout of the alloted 2,652 reserved seats early Monday, Lowrey contacted Amarillo officials who agreed to send 600 end zone ducats. Price of the additional tickets will be $1.20 each, and after these are gone there will be no more available for the general public. One thousand student tickets will be sold later this week.

The local demand indicates that people here are solidly behind the Westerners and are going to Amarillo in force, with 4,252 ducats made possible for Lubbock fans. Amarillo reports all tickets sold there.

From the Santa Fe railroad office comes word that a special football train will be run Friday, leaving here at 4 p. m. and arriving in Amarillo at 6:30 o'clock. The return trip to Lubbock will require two hours and 30 minutes, with departure from Amarillo scheduled 45 minutes after the game.

Round trip fare will be $6.33, including tax, with children under 12 being taken for half fare.

Persons wanting passage on the special should call 4472 or 4862 at the earliest opoprtunity or go to the Santa Fe depot here and pick up tickets so that the proper number of coaches may be provided.

The Amarillo Bus company will have busses operating at frequent intervals between downtown and the stadium at the fair grounds. Busses from the stadium will leave the north entrance and pass within one block of the depot at the corner of Third and Grant streets.

Methodists To Face Kentucky

Rice Owls Have No Bad Injuries

DALLAS, Oct. 17. (AP)—"Southern Methodist might as well take the week off," Coach Matty Bell observed today. "There's no use practicing if you're going against something unbeatable."

He referred to Kentucky, the team his Methodists play here Saturday.

But the SMU skipper sent his squad through a hard practice session anyway. There were no injuries and he expected to have Walt Roberts, regular guard who has been out a couple of weeks, back for the game with Kentucky.

"My scout tells me Kentucky has everything and that we don't have much chance against that outfit," Bell commented. "You know Kentucky beat Louisiana State which beat Rice and you know what Rice did to us."

RICE COMES THROUGH TILT WITHOUT SERIOUS INJURY

HOUSTON, Oct. 17. (AP)—Rice suffered no serious bruises in its victory over Southern Methodist, Coach Jess Neely said today after the squad had run through a light workout.

The players who took part in the Saturday game didn't do much but limber up today, while the rest of the squad was scrimmaged against the freshman team.

Assistant coach Joe Davis, who scouted Texas against Oklahoma and Arkansas, came away convinced that the Longhorns have been undersold this season.

TWO TCU DEFENSIVE PLAYERS RECEIVE KNEE INJURIES

FORT WORTH, Oct. 17. (AP)—Two TCU defensive regulars, Tackle Clarence Marable and End Wayne Rogers, will probably miss the Frogs' Saturday night game with Mississippi.

Both received knee injuries in last week's victory over Texas A&M.

Roger McCauley, regular defensive right guard, and his relief, Douglas Conaway, will be shifted to Marable's right tackle spot. Bobby Moorman and Rex Alford will fill in for Rogers at right end this week.

LONGHORN ELEVEN SAID TO BE IN TOP CONDITION

AUSTIN, Oct. 17. (AP)—Texas varsity members who saw action against Arkansas took it easy today as the Longhorns started preparing for their Southwest conference tangle with Rice here Saturday.

Texas came out of the Arkansas game without any serious injuries and the squad was in good physical shape today.

Fullback Ray Borneman, who has seen little action most of the season due to an injured knee appeared to be in sound shape. Trainer Frank Medina said Billy Pyle's ankle was in the best shape that it had been since he injured it in a pre-season scrimmage.

AGGIES GO AGAINST TOP PASSING OF BURK SATURDAY

COLLEGE STATION, Oct. 17. (AP)—Adrian Burk is the sharpest passer Baylor has had since Bill Patterson, one of the best all-around backs in the Southwest conference and as long as the tall boy is in there pitching, the Bears will make trouble for any team they play.

The Texas Aggies received this bad news from their scouts today. Then they went to the practice field and worked at length on ways and means of plugging the leaks in their pass defense. Safety man John Christensen remains on the injury list with a shoulder separation.

THREE RAZORBACK PLAYERS SUFFER INJURIES IN GAME

FAYETTEVILLE, Ark., Oct. 17. (AP)—Three first stringers were on sidelines with injuries today as the Arkansas Razorbacks had their lightest football practice of the season.

It appeared doubtful that Leon (Muscles) Campbell, hard-hitting fullback, would be able to play against Vanderbilt Saturday. He suffered a wrenched knee in last week's 14-27 loss to Texas.

End Frank Fischel, one of the few Porkers used on both offense and defense, turned up with foot and rib injuries, and Tackle John Lunney has a leg ailment.

DIVIDEND IS DECLARED

CHICAGO, Oct. 17 (AP)—Sears, Roebuck and company today declared an extra dividend of 25 cents a share and a regular quarterly dividend of 50 cents a common share, payable Dec. 10 to stockholders of record Nov. 10. This will bring total payments in the fiscal year ending Jan. 31, 1950, to $2.25, the same as last year.

Freshmen Prove Tough In Drill

Tech Squadmen Hold Light Grid Practice

Texas Tech's Red Raiders enjoyed the first holiday of the football season yesterday, Coach Dell Morgan excusing players who saw the most action against Baylor, although they suited up and did wind sprints.

The remainder of the varsity squad went through a rough scrimmage against the freshmen in a practice game. The only thing missing was the kickoff, one team taking the ball on the 40-yard line and trying to move it the length of the field.

Varsity Has Hands Full

Raider varsity men were having their hands full with the freshmen, but managed to eke out a two-touchdown victory. The varsity scored first, only to have the first year men bounce back to score on a long run by W. H. Barker. Two more touchdowns by the varsity completed the session.

Coach Morgan was in a quietly observing mood, not saying much, but not missing anything. He occasionally talked plays over with Bill Lyman, quarterback and he corrected errors that linemen made. Otherwise he merely made mental notes on the ability of the various players to follow assignments and to make blocks.

The freshmen made it rough on the varsity. They opened holes consistently and only in their passing game did they fall down badly. It probably was the best showing of the year so far by the freshmen.

Few Injuries Sustained

Tech came through the Baylor game with minor injuries to several men, including Ends Dick Pirtle and Jack Davis, Tackle Jerrell Price and Guard Bill Stallings. None of the injuries are serious and all are expected to be ready for action in the Arizona game Saturday.

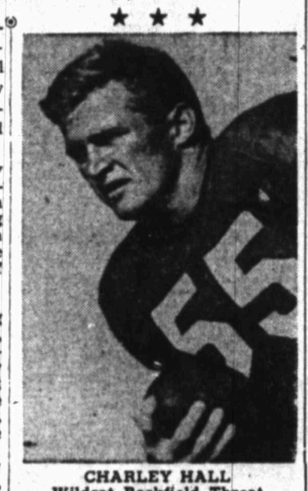

Pirtle and Stallings both have minor ankle sprains, but took light workouts. Davis re-injured his left arm, although it is not serious. And Price worked out without pads, although he saw no action.

Arizona will bring a team here that is entirely different from the one Tech beat 31-0 last year. Under a new head coach, Bob Windslow, and with a newly installed T formation, the Wildcats are capable of making it unpleasant for Tech.

Foe's Record Fair

So far the Wildcats have little on the record, with a 12-12 tie against Utah, a lopsided win over New Mexico Aggies and two losses to Border Conference teams, Hardin - Simmons and Texas Western.

But the Wildcat attack still is capable of being potent and in Charley Hall they have one of the top fullbacks in the conference. Hall gained 718 yards on 158 plays last year to rank second on the Wildcat team. He stands six feet, one inch and weighs 190 pounds and is a senior this year. In his Sophomore year, Hall gained All-American mention and his work last year showed him as a top star on the Arizona eleven.

Raiders Meet Arizona Saturday

TUCSON, Ariz., Oct. 17. (Spl.)—Approximately 35 University of Arizona football players will leave Tucson by train early Friday morning for Lubbock and their Border Conference game Saturday (Oct. 22) with defending conference champion Texas Tech.

The game will be the first of three consecutive afternoon contests for Arizona. On Oct. 29, the Wildcats play Denver University in an afternoon tilt at Denver, and return home Nov. 5 for the annual Homecoming game with New Mexico University, the kickoff for which is scheduled at 2:30 p. m.

Enroute to Lubbock, the Arizona team will stop over in El Paso for a Friday morning workout in the Texas Western stadium. The Wildcats will arrive in Lubbock at 8:35 a. m. and leave early Saturday evening, returning to Tucson at 7:35 p. m. Sunday.

The game at Lubbock will be the 11th meeting of Texas Tech and Arizona on the gridiron. Of the previous games, Arizona has won only one, with the Red Raiders coming out on top eight times, and one game, in 1936, ending in a 7-7 tie. Arizona's lone victory was scored by a 7-6 margin in 1935. Of the eight defeats administered by Texas Tech, five have been by shutout scores, including last year's 31-0 Red Raider victory in Arizona Stadium.

For Texas Tech, the game will be the second Border Conference contest of the 1949 season. The Raiders, who this past weekend met a strong Baylor team, defeated West Texas 35-19 in their first conference game. In other games, Tech has lost to Texas University and Texas A&M and defeated Tulsa and Abilene Christian.

Arizona will be playing its third consecutive game against the three top rated conference teams. The Cats lost to Texas Western in Arizona Stadium last weekend 28-0 and the previous Saturday dropped a 35-0 game to Hardin-Simmons at Abilene. The Wildcats' performance against Hardin-Simmons marked a sharp reversal of form following their 12-12 tie with a highly rated Utah University team in a game which easily could have gone to the Cats had passes not gone astray on several scoring drives. Arizona opened its season with a 40-7 victory over New Mexico A&M.

Arizona's offensive standouts have been fullback Charley Hall, whose three-game record shows 159 yards on 26 plays, and left halfback Eddie Wolgast, who has handled the ball 38 times for 177 yards. Because of a broken nose, suffered in the Hardin-Simmons game, Wolgast is a doubtful starter against Tech.

A long scrimmage featured Monday's workout and only two players failed to appear. They were Halfback Oscar Carillo and Quarterback John Fowler.

Carillo suffered bruised ribs Saturday and Fowler has a finger bruise. But to take their places, Halfback Ed Wolgast and End Tom Woodburn were in uniform. Wolgast has been out since the Hardin-Simmons game and Woodburn recently underwent an appendectomy.

Coach Bob Winslow sent the entire squad through the scrimmage session and scheduled more for Tuesday and Wednesday.

P. F. Brown School Defeats Dupre Football Team, 35-0

P. S. Brown school won its fifth straight game without a defeat and its third in the Lubbock schoolboy conference by defeating Dupre yesterday afternoon, 35-0.

It was the last conference game for Brown, which is in one of two quadrants in the south half of the Conference. Brown will now meet the winner of the other south quadrant, which will be either Hunt, Bean, or Chris Harwell. The winner meets the winner of the playoff between the two northern quadrant winners.

Brown won its way to the championship by beating Dupre, Wilson and Overton schools.

Cuban labor unions now are fighting to maintain wages at current levels.

Rice To Tangle With Longhorns

AUSTIN, Oct. 17. (AP)—Give the scoreboard operator an adding machine for that Rice-Texas football shindig Saturday. He may need it.

Both the Owls of Rice and the Longhorns of Texas are offense-minded elevens. The outfit that crosses the goal line most often in this week's Southwest conference headliner will go way out front as the Southwest conference title favorite.

The opposing coaches, Jess Neely of Rice and Blair Cherry of Texas, each said today their boys would have to play better than they did last Saturday to win.

That may be right. The Owls' stock skyrocketed when they chopped down mighty Southern Methodist, 41-27. Texas stopped the University of Arkansas, 27-14. But in each instance, the winners spotted their adversaries 14 points before opening up with deadly passing and sound running attacks that could not be halted.

"We'll have to play a better game over a 60-minute period than we did against SMU to win over Texas," Neely said warily.

"We believe Texas has a better line and a better pass defense than the Ponies. We believed we could pass against SMU, and did pretty good. . . against Texas, we're not so sure."

Texas let Arkansas complete five of 20 passes for only 33 yards and ran back four interceptions for 38 yards.

Cherry sounded ready to concede the forthcoming contest.

"There's no question but that Rice has a great team and great personnel. Their showing against SMU proves they are terrific," he said.

"Our team is not of championship caliber. We have to depend too much on sophomores, and they can't always deliver in the clutch. We will have to play a wide open game and just hope we can slow them down."

Both teams have dropped a game. Oklahoma beat Texas 20-14 and Louisiana State dropped Rice 14-7.

Cherry said he did not have the manpower to match such Rice standouts as Center Joe Watson, Linebacker Gerald Weatherly, James (Froggie) Williams, the great left end, and the two tackles, Murphy and Wyman.

Football followers will take Cherry's evaluation of the two lines with caution, for the record indicates the Longhorns have one of the top forward walls in the Southwest.

Rice and Texas, both "T" formation teams, will slug it out for the inside track to the championship before some 65,000 fans in Memorial stadium.

Pattison Is QB Speaker

"No jinx, no pressure, is going to be the cause if we get beaten by Amarillo Friday," Coach C. R. Pattison, Lubbock High school coach, told members of the Quarterback club last night at their meeting in the Hotel Lubbock.

Pattison joined Coach Dell Morgan, Texas Tech coach, Dr. W. M. Wiggins, Tech president, and Hurley Carpenter, Tech alumnus, in addressing the club. Coach Damon Hill of Dunbar High school was not present.

Coach Pattison said "We're going up to Amarillo Friday with one thought in mind—to beat Amarillo. Of course, we know that Amarillo is going to have only one thought on their minds—to beat Lubbock. I look for a good, hard game."

Weaknesses Pointed Out

The Westerner mentor pointed out weaknesses in the Lubbock victory over Pampa, explaining that the line had looked bad for much of the game. At the same time, he declared that it was the best line the Westerners had faced all year and that the Harvesters were outcharging Lubbock.

Pampa also was thinking one jump ahead of the Westerners all through the game and Coach Pattison thought that after the first Lubbock score, his team, intent on avenging last year's defeat, became too eager.

"The only difference Friday and in other games," Coach Pattison declared, "was that we made the same mistakes in the line we've made before; only this time we were playing a better team and the mistakes showed up more fully."

Pattison praised Jack Newby of Amarillo, saying that it was unbelievable that a back could improve so much in one year. He said that Newby virtually had averaged three touchdowns a game this year and that he could do anything.

Coach Morgan commented that Texas Tech had played a good game against Baylor and that he thought the team had played well. He said that their own mistakes helped to beat them, the same mistakes the players had been making all year, along with fumbles. He paid tribute to the fine passing of Adrian Burk and the receiving of J. D. Ison, the Bears' great end.

Dr. Wiggins told the crowd that he liked to be with a winner, but that he liked competitive athletics, for all the things for which it stood, even more. He said that it was competitive business just as members of the audience were engaged in competitive business.

He drew a fine parallel between business and athletics by pointing out that "When you become interested only in making money, then you have lost a tremendous thrill, the thrill of competitive business."

Dr. Wiggins also commented that he was in a pivotal position. He said that he was in one of three categories, all unpopular; coaches, referees and college presidents. He first had been a coach, then a referee and now a college president.

"As a college president, I find myself still in a pivotal position," Dr. Wiggins asserted. "There are those who think football and winning is all important. There are others who think that the arts, music, science and culture are all important. And there are a few old fogies left, like myself, who think that the part a college plays is to prepare an individual with an all-around education so that he can take his place in society."

The Tech president also pointed out that students from a Double A high school were far better equipped for college than were those from smaller schools. He also drew the parallel between football players from big schools and those from little ones.

"It takes them much longer to learn and to assume their positions," Dr. Wiggins stated. "They are working under handicaps and some never develop fully. They make mistakes. But, after all, as in business, it's the mistakes that make life interesting. If you didn't make mistakes, if your staffs didn't make them, how uninteresting life would be—and how easy."

IT'LL BE DIFFERENT TONIGHT — Bill Henderson, left, and Manny Ortega were all smiles Monday as they struck a hand-shaking pose, but tonight they'll square off in the 10-round main event of the VFW boxing card at Chapman fieldhouse. Henderson, who will be trying for his 27th win in 29 pro starts, will enjoy a four-pound weight advantage over Ortega, a veteran of 51 pro ring battles. (Staff Photo.)

Henderson, Ortega To Tangle Here Tonight

Avalanche Sports Writer

A late rush for tickets Monday indicated that a fair-sized crowd will be on hand tonight when Bill Henderson, popular Levelland lightweight, goes against El Paso's Manny Ortega in the headline event of the VFW boxing card at Chapman fieldhouse.

Ticket sellers reported a brisk business Monday, as interest in the Henderson-Ortega go began to climb. Ringside tickets sold especially well, VFW officials said, but there are still plenty of ducats available in all price classes.

Tonight's card will start at 8:30 o'clock.

Henderson and Ortega romped through their final pre-fight drills at City Club gym in impressive style.

Henderson Heavier

Ortega, one-time national Golden Gloves champ, said he expected to hit 126 pounds at today's weigh-in ceremony.

Henderson was mildly concerned about making the 130-pound limit to which he agreed for this bout. He scaled exactly 130 after his Monday workout, however, and shouldn't have much difficulty reaching that figure again today.

With Henderson and Ortega pronouncing themselves in top physical form, a slam-bang battle is in the offing. Both are known as aggressive hitters who like to slug it out, and both pack a KO wallop. Ortega, particularly, is a hard puncher, while Henderson perhaps is a shade more durable when it comes to taking punishment. Henderson's youth advantage of several years is expected to offset Ortega's greater experience, so it shapes up as a virtual tossup affair.

James Meets Brown

Gene James, undefeated Lubbock heavyweight, tangles with Dickie Brown, Amarillo, in the eight-round semifinal. Brown dropped a fairly close decision to James here several weeks ago, and since that time has campaigned successfully in the Midwest.

A six-round special bout matches Leonard Duncan, Hale Center middleweight, with Dick Smith, ex-Golden Gloves ace from Oklahoma City.

Charley Forbes, a newcomer to the pro ranks from Brownfield, will meet Billy Cornelius, Oklahoma City, in another middleweight scrap.

Roach To Referee

The four-round curtain raiser will pit Charley Neff, Petersburg, against an opponent yet to be named.

LaVern Roach, former world's middleweight title contender, will referee the bouts.

Tickets for the show will be on sale today at the Hilton hotel, Hub clothiers and City Club gym, all in Lubbock, and at Talley's Barber shop, Levelland. Prices are $3.50 ringside, $2.50 reserved, and $1.50 general admission. Profits from the program will be shared by the local Goodfellows fund and Girlstown, U. S. A., near Whiteface.

WELTER FIGHT SLATED

Campbell Leads SWC Ball Toters

DALLAS, Oct. 17. (AP)— Pounding Leon Campbell of Arkansas has moved back into the ball-carrying leadership in the Southwest Conference.

He didn't play all the way against Texas last week but, before an injury, made 63 yards and that shot him to the top.

Campbell now has 384 yards on 45 carries. Bob Smith of Texas A. and M., leader last week, dropped to second place with 345 yards on 75 tries. Gordon Wyat of Rice is third with 321 on 49 runs.

Lindy Berry of TCU continues as the only two-department leader. The Horned Frog quarterback tops in total offense with 912 yards on 172 plays and leads in passing with 62 completions in 114 tries for 825 yards and five touchdowns. Second in passing is Paul Campbell of Texas with 45 connections in 81 throws for 747 yards and four touchdowns. Third place goes to Adrian Burk of Baylor who has completed 45 out of 68 for 489 yards and rung up seven touchdowns. Burk has the highest percentage in the league —.662.

Second in total offense is Campbell with 661 yards on 95 plays.

Doak Walker of SMU has taken the lead in punting with an average of 38.6 yards on 11 kicks but he's just one-tenth of a yard better than Don Wilde of TCU on 14 boots. Wilde is one-tenth to the good over Burk on 15 boots.

In punt returning Wilde leads with 126 yards on five for an average of 25.2. Rex Proctor of Rice is second with 20.2 on seven and Berry is third with 18.6 on 11.

Ben Procter of Texas has moved into the lead in pass-receiving, taking 19 throws for 351 yards and three touchdowns. Morris Bailey of TCU has caught the most — 23 — but for only 285 yards. Third is George Boal of TCU with 18 for 244. J. D. Ison of Baylor has taken 22 for 235 yards and three touchdowns— and fourth place.

Texas holds a wide lead in total offense with 2094 yards in five games — an average of 419. Rice is second with an average of 380 in four games and SMU is next with 351 in four.

In defense it's TCU which has given up only 184 yards per game. Texas has granted 221 for second place and Baylor 234 for third.

Baylor has an amazing pass average. The Bears have completed 46 of 77 for an average of .597. Texas has an average of .558.

Three College Teams Undefeated, Untied

(By The Associated Press)

Just three Texas college football teams are undefeated and untied as the season enters the home stretch.

Hardin, Texas Western and Baylor are the only teams out of 29 colleges that started the campaign to boast unblemished records.

Falling last week were Sul Ross, Texas A. and I. and Southern Methodist, the former losing to Trinity 20-14, A. and I. being licked by McMurry 39-14 and Southern Methodist bowing to Rice 41-27.

Hardin rolled its win streak to six games by beating Southwest Texas State 19-6, Texas Western stayed in the select circle by licking Arizona 28-0 and Baylor kept its place with a 28-7 decision over Texas Tech.

None of the three appears in any great danger of falling this week. Hardin plays East Texas State, Texas Western takes on New Mexico and Baylor engages downtrodden Texas A. and M.

Standings of the unbeaten teams:

Teams	W	L	Pts.	Op.	Pct.
Hardin	6	0	185	23	1.000
Texas Western	5	0	156	27	1.000
Baylor	4	0	97	32	1.000

Idalou Girls Basketball Team Wins Two Games From Petersburg

PETERSBURG, Oct. 17. (Special)—Idalou's "A" and "B" girls' basketball squads tonight scored a clean sweep of a basketball doubleheader with Petersburg.

The Idalou "A" quad paced by Magness' eight-point performance, downed the locals, 21-17. Jo Ann Fulgham was the high Petersburg scorer with eight points.

In the "B" game, Idalou took a 25-18 decision. Hearn paced Idalou with 16 points, while Betty Scarborough tallied seven for the losers.

Casey Stengel Gets Warm Welcome

GLENDALE, Calif., Oct. 16. (INS)—Casey Stengel, manager of the world series winning New York Yankees, was given a hero's welcome upon his return to his home in Glendale today.

His train was met with two bands in Pasadena and after a parade through downtown Glendale, Stengel was escorted to the city hall where Mayor George R. Wickham received him and presented him with the key to the city.

The mayor acclaimed the Yankee pilot baseball's Manager Of The Year and Glendale's first citizen.

A public welcome home dinner for him will be given tomorrow night at the Oakmont Country Club.

Stengel said he would rest until December and then would attend the major and minor league meetings.

Six Louisiana, Texas Cities Planning Gulf Coast League

LAKE CHARLES, La., Oct. 17 (AP) — The Gulf Coast Baseball league is in the planning stage.

Representatives of six Louisiana and Texas cities gave definite commitments to have available requirements for fielding teams.

Lake Charles, Opelousas and Crowley, La., Galveston, Port Arthur and Orange, Tex., were represented.

Howard Green, former president of the Longhorn league in Texas and prime mover in the Gulf Coast league's organization, said a meeting will be held here Sunday.

Around and about the Southwest, they're beginning to tout Baylor's Adrian Burk as the best passer since Sammy Baugh.

After watching Mr. Burk punch holes in Texas Tech's pass defense from 2:30 until 5 p. m. last Saturday, I am ready to climb aboard the Burk bandwagon.

The guy has it. Or, at least, he had it last Saturday afternoon, to the great dismay of the Tech secondary and the vast homecoming throng which witnessed his needle-threading exhibition.

There are, of course, several factors operating strongly in Burk's favor. For one thing, he has some of the most adept receivers seen here in the last decade. Chief among these is one J. D. Ison, who hangs onto a football as though it were a sack of money. The records show that Burk has thrown to Ison 25 times this season, and on 24 of these occasions Ison has come up with that pigskin.

Also helping able Adrian along is Baylor's smooth set of pass play patterns. As was clearly obvious to fans here Saturday, at least one Bear receiver usually manages to get into the clear. Burk's big job, it seems to me, is locating that open man. The rest is easy.

Some fans are so impressed by Burk's showing this fall that they are calling him "better than Baugh."

At this point, I'm forced to abandon ship, because in my books Slingin' Sammy is still the old master. I've seen movies of several games in which Baugh played, and he's the nearest thing to perfection I've come across.

No passer should be rated above Baugh until he has passed the test of time, as has the Sweetwater slinger. Just last Sunday, for example, a big throng turned out to see an anticipated passing duel between Harry Gilmer and Bobby Layne in Washington-New York game. Instead, they saw Baugh—a veteran of 13 campaigns in the pro game—cut loose with a four-touchdown aerial barrage.

The ironical twist in Baugh's career is that Sammy never has been chosen as the National Football league's "most valuable player." Yet coaches and players throughout the circuit for years have agreed pretty generally that Baugh meant more to the Redskins than any other player meant to his club, and the Texan invariably is named to "all-time, all-pro" teams as they are selected.

An interesting point in comparing Burk and Baugh is that both are named "Adrian" (that is Sam's middle moniker) and they bear a remarkable physical resemblance viewed at a distance. Both are slim, supple and unusually relaxed in their movements.

Bill Henderson, the likeable lightweight from Levelland, goes after bigger game tonight when he squares off against Manny Ortega at Chapman fieldhouse.

Personally, I consider Ortega a better fighter than Jean Mougin, the Frenchman who twice defeated Henderson. This does not necessarily mean that Ortega should whip Henderson, because Bill has vastly improved since he fought Mougin. Moreover, Henderson certainly was not at his best in the second Mougin bout.

Ortega's record far overshadows that of the Frenchman, who was little more than a gamester.

If Henderson comes through with a victory tonight, you can rest assured that it's because of his own improvement—and not because he was operating against a setup. Ortega has beaten some of the best in the business, and while he isn't at the peak he reached a couple of years ago, he still is far above the "pushover" class, as fans at Chapman fieldhouse tonight will see.

Someone is dusting off the bookshelf in an effort to stir up tempers for next Friday night's Lubbock-Amarillo game. The current story circulating around Amarillo is that a Westerner player has written a "threatening" letter to a Sandie gridder. That one's as false as a chorine's eyelashes, I assure you.

When I mentioned the rumor to Lubbock Coach Pat Pattison, he laughed it off, then added in all seriousness, "In 12 years of coaching, neither I nor any of my boys have ever stooped to anything that low. And we never will."

Incidentally, Pattison doesn't seem too worried about "firing up" his boys for this one, since they apparently are at peak mental and physical form of their own accord.

Monday afternoon, Pattison remarked, "If the Sandies beat us, it will be because they have a better ball club. We are ready."

'Nuff said.

Pro Attendance Said Declining

By CHARLES EINSTEIN
INS Sports Writer

NEW YORK, Oct. 17. (INS) — Hard-boiled professional football clubowners, who resolved last winter to retain their inter-league estrangement or die trying, are coming through nobly, and dying handsomely.

Though publicity releases from headquarters of the All-America Conference and the National League proclaim crowds said to be bigger than ever, or at least better than last year's, the untold fact is that overall paid attendance in pro football has declined. This is not true for one league, but for both.

Two clubowners had champions and couldn't make a nickel; two of the best-known and most deeply- established teams have gone in hock, one to the government on back taxes and one to a bank on a vital loan.

The All-America Conference, which assumed a tactical advantage over the National League last winter by pitting its own Yankee Stadium team against two National League elevens staggering their dates at the Polo rounds in New York, has fallen into disrepair in Los Angeles.

There, the Rams of the National League are a powerhouse, while the All-America Dons, who've outdrawn the Rams in the past, have slipped badly.

SAME OLD NUMBER—Yep, Sammy Baugh didn't have any trouble talking Kelly Millie, Washington Redskin equipment manager, into issuing him his old number, 33, at fall training camp in Los Angeles. Since then he's done nothing to make people think he should change, throwing passes with deadly accuracy for the Redskins. The old TCU star is having one of his best years.

BEAR CAGERS OPEN DRILL

WACO, Oct. 17. (AP)—Six lettermen reported to Coach Bill Henderson as the Baylor Bears opened their basketball training tonight. Don Heathington, Odell Preston, Bill Hickman, Bill Srack, Bill DeWitt and Gerald Cobb were the returning veterans.

Women's Golf Tourney Opens

FORT SMITH, Ark., Oct. 17 (AP) —Two veterans and a teen-aged sensation will be favorites when a field of 80 or more tees off tomorrow in the qualifying round of the Hardscrabble Women's Open golf tournament.

The seasoned campaigners are pros Patty Berg of Minneapolis, the defending champion, and Babe Zaharias, Denver, last year's runnerup and the 1947 titlist. Both are former National Open champs.

The youngster is 15-year-old Marlene Bauer, the Long Beach, Calif., amateur who was runner-up in the recent Texas Open.

This top-ranked trio, however, may get strong competition from such amateur stars as Marjorie Lindsay of Decatur, Ill., who shot a four-under-women's par 71 in a practice round today, and Betty MacKinnon, Arkansas amateur champion from Texarkana.

BAYLOR ENROLLMENT HIGH

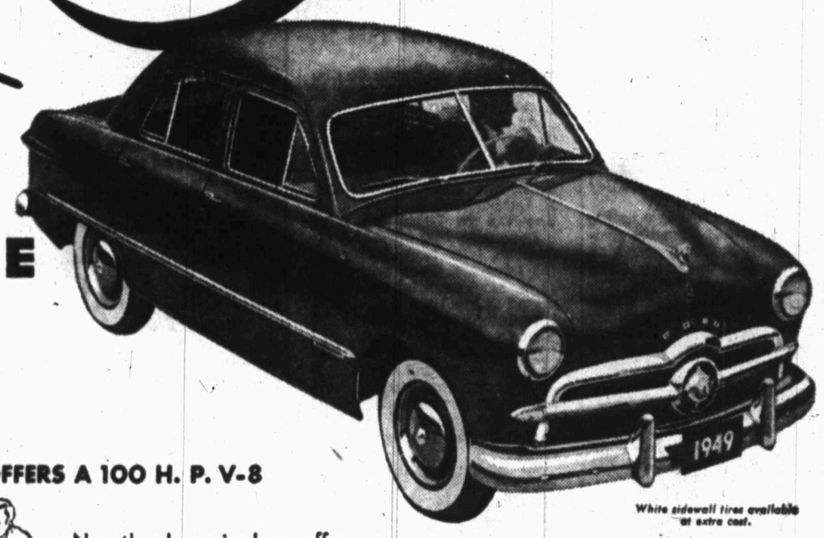

WACO, Oct. 17 (AP)—President W. R. White today announced a new high record enrollment of 5,282 students for Baylor university, Waco. An additional 720 students in the Baylor school of nursing and college of dentistry at Dallas and the college of medicine at Houston makes a total of 6,002 —also a record—for all of Baylor branches, he said.

Fugitive Nabbed Near Dalhart

was believed he was hiding somewhere in this Panhandle town.

Texas Ranger Capt. Bob Crowder, of Lubbock, who was in on the capture and questioned Hawkins here, said the suspect told officers the shooting of Clark was an accident.

A farmer found the body Wednesday sprawled beside a country road near Jerseyville.

Clark was lured from his job in Clayton, N. M., by a man who offered to split a set of world series tickets with him, if Clark would use his car for the trip to St. Louis. They believed the series would be played there.

Kidnapping Reported

The first concern for Clark was felt Oct. 7, when a Dalhart girl reported she had been kidnapped in Clark's car.

The search for Hawkins began after Clark's body was found Wednesday.

Game Warden Jess (Shorty) Felts of Dalhart, another officer who helped in the capture, reported Hawkins said he would go back to Illinois to "explain Clark's death the best he could."

Felts said Hawkins told him he had been hiding in a maize field at the northeast edge of Dalhart since Saturday. Last night, Hawkins told the officer, he made his way through deep, rugged gullies to Middle Water.

Dalhart officers said Hawkin's parents lived in Pittsburgh county, Oklahoma, but that according to their information Hawkins had not made his home with his parents for a number of years, wandering through Montana, Wyoming, Oklahoma, Colorado, and New Mexico as well as Texas.

Juanita Groves, 19, of Dalhart tipped officers that Hawkins was in the Texas Panhandle. She said she had known the suspect in New Mexico and Montana and that she had been kidnapped Oct. 7 in a car containing papers which identified it as Clark's.

The girl said she escaped at Vega, Tex., by hitting Hawkins on the head with a fire extinguisher.

Approached At Cafe

Hawkins appeared last Saturday in a Dalhart restaurant where the girl was eating breakfast. He was carrying a pistol.

She screamed and fled to the rear of the cafe, with Hawkins in pursuit. Cook Jack Woodruff tangled with Hawkins in the kitchen. Hawkins clouted the cook on the head with his pistol and got away, but the girl had escaped in the confusion.

Within hours roadblocks were thrown up around Dalhart. Hawkins, a former bush league baseball player, appeared late Saturday night at a Dalhart liquor store.

That was his last appearance until his arrest today in the grove of trees.

Purdue Educator To Speak At Lubbock Rotary Club Meet

Dr. George E. Davis, director of student affairs at Purdue university and widely known authority on the life of James Whitcomb Riley, will address over 100 members of the Rotary club and their wives or dates at a Ladies' night program at 7 p. m. today at the Lubbock Country club.

Dr. Davis is expected to recite a number of the famous Riley poems for his audience. He is considered one of the best informed on the life of the Hoosier bard other than those who knew Riley intimately.

The Purdue educator is a native of Ohio, graduating from the University of Iowa and later receiving his master's degree there after serving with the Army of Occupation in Germany after World War I. He completed his work for the doctors degree at Iowa in 1937 and immediately joined the Purdue faculty in charge of teacher placement.

A former high school superintendent at Keokuk, Iowa, Dr. Davis was advanced to his present position in 1944, in charge of all matters pertaining to student life and activity on the campus.

He has spoken many times in Indiana communities, usually including readings of several Riley poems. He is said to interpret the writings better through his knowledge of the bard's life.

Reserve tickets for the ladies' night program may be purchased until noon today, according to Roy Furr, chairman of the ladies' night committee.

A dance will be held following Davis' talk. Music will be furnished by Burl Hubbard and his orchestra.

Second Tucker Trial Gets Under Way In Federal Court

CHICAGO, Oct. 17. (INS)—Four jurors were selected today as the second trial of Preston Tucker and seven associates got under way in Chicago federal court.

Judge Walter J. Labuy declared a mistrial last week when a government witness identified one of the defendants as an ex-convict.

The would-be automobile magnate and his associates in the $28 million venture to produce a "dream car" are accused of using the mails to defraud and of violation of the securities and exchange act.

Farm Bill Deadlock

a farm bill it could resume its efforts next January.

He added that he was hopeful that the Senate conferees tomorrow "will reconsider and agree to negotiate further."

Senator Ellender (D-La) said the senators offered to continue 90 percent supports under the present parity formula for one year and then to allow the Senate's sliding scale of 75 to 90 percent supports, still under the present parity formula, to go into effect for four more years.

After that, the Senate's flexible support program would be in operation under the modernized parity formula provided in the Senate bill.

Senators Decline Plan

Ellender said the House conferees rejected that and countered with a proposal for supports under the present parity formula of 90 percent for one more year and at 80 per cent for two additional years, with the Senate plan to follow. The senators declined to take that.

Ellender said he thought it was possible that the House members, after considering the Senate offer overnight, might be willing to accept it.

Parity prices under the formula now in use are generally higher for the so-called basic crops like wheat, corn, cotton, tobacco, rice and peanuts than they would be under the revised formula used in the Senate bill.

Compromise Rejected

Earlier tonight the Senate conferees were reported to have rejected a House compromise which would have put flexible price supports into effect after two more years of the present 90 percent level.

House Speaker Rayburn of Texas said there was talk that the two sides were far apart and there was some doubt they could get together.

Asked if President Truman at his conference with Democratic Congress leaders today had said what kind of farm bill he wants, Rayburn said no, but added:

"He wants 90 percent; he has always wanted 90 percent. He made a campaign on that."

Idalou Lions Club To Back Grandstand

IDALOU, Oct. 17 (Special) — Members of the Idalou Lions club held their weekly dinner meeting in the City clubhouse here tonight, followed by a talk on newspaper production by Tom Davis, staff member of the Lubbock Avalanche-Journal.

In a business session following the program, Lions followed up action of last week by voting to sponsor installation of a 500-seat, steel frame grandstand at the high school football field at an approximate cost of $3,500.

In his talk, Davis outlined methods and problems of news gathering, and explained some of the editorial and mechanical processes involved in the production of a newspaper. A question and answer period followed the talk.

Lion President Floyd Whitney presided at the meeting, attended by 25 members and guests.

Invocation was by the Rev. Charles Gates, club member. Foy Hudson, Idalou mayor, led group singing.

Miss Georgia Faye Cochran, club sweetheart, played a piano solo.

In Slaton, the Santa Fe dispatcher reported .25, most of it coming around noon.

At the Weather Bureau station north of Lubbock, scattered sprinkles through the day left a total of .06, and about the same amount fell in Lubbock.

Showers In Levelland Area

Levelland had sprinkles up to noon, with rain during the Oil Progress Week parade at 11 a. m. The total was estimated at less than .10.

Muleshoe reported no moisture in the town itself, but sprinkles fell during the day in the area around there.

Light showers stopped cotton pulling at Morton, and Plainview reported misting and sprinkles during the evening.

At Idalou, sprinkles and showers checked the cotton harvest, while slow drizzles at Dickens about 3 p. m. had the same effect.

To the southwest, Denver City got an estimated .10 from off-and-on drizzles, with a shower at noon and a sprinkle early last night.

The Lubbock mercury went no higher than 64 on Monday, but the coolness was caused by cloudiness and not a cold front, the Weatherman explained.

A cold front which had been expected to arrive Monday night braked to a halt in northern Kansas and Colorado on Monday, and the forecaster said the South Plains could forget about it.

Low morning temperatures today and Wednesday are expected around 50 degrees, which was the Monday morning low.

Today's high is expected to reach into the low 70's, the forecaster said, with a slightly higher mark on Wednesday.

End To Missouri-Pacific Rail Strike By Saturday Indicated

ST. LOUIS, Oct. 17. (AP)—Union sources indicated today that the Missouri Pacific railroad strike may end next Saturday.

Encouraged by progress of negotiations, they said a three-day inspection of locomotives probably will begin Wednesday. Such an inspection is required by federal regulation.

The possible back - to - work movement was announced as negotiators met again to consider the last 32 claims of 282 claims that caused the 39-day walkout.

Poppy Sales Talked At Auxiliary Meeting

Members of the local American Legion Auxiliary held their weekly meeting last night in the Legion hall. Mrs. O. G. Drake, president of the organization, presided.

Howard Davison spoke on the Memorial Poppy, stressing poppy sales which are to be held Nov. 5.

Officials of the auxiliary stressed that money collected from sale of poppies will go toward rehabilitation and child welfare projects sponsored locally by the auxiliary.

A report given at last night's meeting showed that the auxiliary this past year has spent a total of $495 on rehabilitation projects and $349 on child welfare.

Final plans were made for members of the auxiliary to help today in the Community Chest drive.

Plans also were discussed for a "Welcome to Lubbock" party which will be held in cooperation with the Legion at LAFB on Tuesday, Oct. 25.

The auxiliary also will join the Legion in a covered dish supper and Hallowe'en party on the night of Oct. 31.

Approximately 20 members attended. Refreshments were served by Mrs. Lois Harwell and Mrs. Floyd Lebow.

In the Rosen case, the high court rejected a government plea for review of an appeals court decision clearing Rosen, who refused to tell a New York grand jury about a 1936 deal in which he allegedly bought a car belonging to Hiss.

The automobile figured importantly in the testimony of Whittaker Chambers, confessed ex-Communist spy courier. Chambers accused Hiss, a former State department official, of giving him government secrets for transmission to the Red espionage apparatus.

Rosen has promised to testify at the second Hiss trial. The first trial ended in a jury deadlock.

tion program, which has House approval, would get $157,611,700.

The Senate-House stalemate over Air Force funds has gone to extraordinary lengths.

Appropriations bills are supposed to be passed by July 1, when the new fiscal year begins. Failure to agree had necessitated four emergency extensions of spending authority for the armed forces.

At one point last week the conferees were so adamant that the Senate Appropriations committee approved another stopgap which would have been good until Jan. 15, after the legislators come back for the new session. But the House balked at that.

The bill on which the conferees finally agreed carries $15,585,863,498 in funds for the armed forces for this year.

Senator Cordon (R-Ore.) was reported to be the only senator who held out to the end against the House demands. He told reporters, "I just couldn't surrender to the arm chair strategists."

In line with the President's request, the armed forces had asked funds only for a 48-group Air Force, although it is no secret the Air Force would like more.

Rep. Mahon (D-Texas), who headed the House conferees, was jubilant.

"In view of recent developments abroad," he said, "58 groups are necessary for the Air Force to discharge its responsobilities. It could mean the difference between war and peace at some time in the future. I regard this as a great victory for American military security."

HST Faces 'Mandate'

Some senators have said they do not expect Mr. Truman to release funds for the extra 10 groups. But House members, pointing to a 305 to one vote by which the House refused to back down, said the President is obligated to follow that mandate.

The House conferees backed down part way on a secondary dispute.

It involved money for stockpiling strategic war materials. The Senate had cut about $275,000,000 off the amount the House voted for this purpose. The conferees finally agreed on a $100,000,000 cutback.

The breakdown of the total in the huge money bill showed a cash outlay of $12,949,562,498 plus contract authority of $2,636,301,000. It would be split among the armed services this way:

Army $4,380,644,298 in cash.

Navy, $4,285,382,200 in cash and $643,546,000 in contract authority.

Air Force, $4,088,386,000 in cash and $1,992,755,000 in contract authority.

Contract authority means the right to make contracts for which Congress will furnish the money later.

The $15,585,863,498 approved by the conferees is $261,356,798 more than President Truman and the armed forces had asked. The original budget request totalled $15,324,506,700—the highest peacetime military budget in America's history.

Meetings Set

Top Federal Mediator Cyrus S. Ching asked officials of the giant United States Steel corporation to meet with him in New York Wednesday afternoon. "Big Steel" immediately accepted.

New contract talks in the 29-day coal strike resume tomorrow in West Virginia. One operators' spokesman saw little reason for any optimism concerning an early end to the strike.

The CIO United Steelworkers, locked for the past 17 days in a free pensions fight with the basic steel industry, called out 16,000 to 20,000 workers in nine plants of the Aluminum Company of America. About one-quarter of the nation's aluminum was shut off. This strike also is for pension and insurance.

Ching's mediation service is talking separately with leading steel men. Later, he will discuss the issues with the union. In that way, Ching is hopeful of getting steelworkers and steel executives back at the bargaining table. Three previous peace attempts all were fruitless.

Murray On Tour

Steelworker President Philip Murray left Pittsburgh for Gary, Ind. and a fourth appearance among his approximately 450,000 striking members. He is taking the stump to make sure his men know exactly what the strike is all about.

Murray told cheering crowds in Youngstown, O., Homestead, Pa., and Bethlehem, Pa., that the strike was called October 1 because of the steel industry's "adamant" refusal to pay costs of workers' pensions and insurance.

The strike against the mills that make the basic iron and stell is spreading to the fabricating companies which use the raw steel to make finished products. But no one knows just how many fabricators are struck.

TEEN-AGER WINS $25,000

NEW YORK, Oct. 17. (INS) — Fourteen-year-old Nancy Jett of Wichita, Kan., won $25,000 tonight by identifying Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower from clues on the "Kate Smith Calls" ABC program.

Permian Group Holds Meet Here

Members of the Texas Tech student chapter of the American Institute of Mining and Metallurgical Engineers joined members of the Permian Basin petroleum section of the organization for a dinner meeting last night in Hilton hotel.

Approximately 200 persons attended.

Discussion was held on the possibility of organizing a Lubbock chapter of the society. More detailed plans will be presented at a meeting to be held soon.

Midland Man Speaks

A talk on "The Engineer as a Supervisor" was made by Tom Frick of Midland, chairman of the Permian Basin section of the A. I. M. E., who is supervisor of the Atlantic Refining Co. in the Midland area.

Frick's talk concerned the importance of proper and careful handling of problems which confront a supervising engineer, particularly problems in human relations and personnel management.

His talk was illustrated with motion picture slides.

Following, E. D. McMurray, representative of the Garrett Oil Tool Co., of Houston, spoke on the use of gas lift equipment as a means of lifting fluids from well bores. He demonstrated equipment manufactured by his firm for this work.

Riley V. Carlton, president of the Tech chapter of A.I.M.E., who presided at the dinner, welcomed members of the Permian Basin section of the society and other guests.

Guests Are Introduced

Carlton introduced guests, among whom were the following: Joe Alford, Dallas, editor of the Petroleum Technology magazine; Paul Johnston, member of the Tech petroleum engineering faculty; Jack Moore, secretary-treasurer of the Permian Basin section of A. I. M. E.; W. N. Little, vice chairman and program chairman of the Permian Basin section; W. L. Ducker, head of the Tech petroleum engineering department; Phil Johnson; Frick; and C. V. Millican, chief engineer of the American Petroleum Co. in Tulsa.

Officers of the Tech chapter of A.I.M.E. also were introduced. They are: Carlton, president; Ward Killingsworth, vice president; Bill Koy, secretary; Johnny McClellan, treasurer; Lloyd Dowd, corresponding secretary; Dan Beem, reporter; and Truitt Enlow, parliamentarian.

Members and guests who attended last night were from Midland, Odessa, Brownfield, Levelland, Sundown and Lubbock, and adjacent areas.

City Limits Study

a mile north of the present limits.

No. 2 North Lubbock—From the east boundary of No. 1 eastward to include the Clayton Carter addition. This area measures about a mile both from east to west and from north to south.

No. 3. East Lubbock between Fourth and Nineteenth streets, extending about two miles eastward from the present city limits, but excluding the Puckett and Morning View additions.

Includes Southeast Lubbock

No. 4. Southeast Lubbock, including the Sieber subdivision and a portion of the aljoining 2nd Wheelock addition.

No. 5. Southeast Lubbock from the present city limits southward to Thirty-eighth street, about three-quarters of a mile and eastward from Avenue A to Clutter's second addition, about a half mile, and including Berry addition.

South Lubbock Affected

No. 6. South Lubbock, between Avenues A and H and from the present city limits southward almost two miles to the traffic circle.

No. 7. South Lubbock between Avenues H and Q and southward from the present limits beyond the traffic circle, more than two miles.

No. 8. South Lubbock, a quarter section of land adjoining No. 7 owned by J. C. Davis.

No. 9. South Lubbock between Avenue Q and Monroe avenue, nearly 1½ miles, and extending southward from the present city limits at Forty-second street to Fiftieth.

Other Areas Involved

No. 10. Southwest Lubbock, between Thirty-fourth and Forty-second streets and westward to the Slide road, more than two miles.

No. 11. West and Southwest Lubbock, a large triangular area bounded on the east by the present city limits, the south by Thirty-fourth street and the northwest by the Brownfield highway.

No. 12. An additional section of the Texas Technological college campus and a portion of the "Westchester" area extending about three-quarters of a mile west from the present city limits to the eastern edge of Boblet addition, which would remain outside the city. The proposed area is bounded on the north by approximately Fifteenth street and on the southeast by the diagonal formed by the Brownfield highway.

No. 12 includes, among others, the Rushland park and Cain terrace additions.

Rescue At Sea

of ten men was reported in good condition, but by the time it had located the second craft in the darkness, the boat was on the verge of sinking. Its seven occupants were "wet, cold and exhausted" when pulled aboard the Black Douglas, the rescuers radioed. However, it said later that all seven had responded rapidly to food and warm clothing.

The 1348 ton schooner was en route from Vancouver, B. C., with lumber and food for Honolulu when the blaze broke out in her engine room. And captain and chief engineer were the only Americans aboard. The rest are Latin-Americans.

Stabbings Probed

Lorenzo.

Lubbock police said Morrow Thomas Hardware store at 1402 Ave. G reported a burglary, but nothing apparently was removed from the place. A box of washing powder was overturned and tracked over the floor.

Mrs. Ray Crenshaw, of 2406 Main, told officers her purse had been stolen from the counter of a downtown department store about 5:15 p. m.

She said she had placed the purse, valued with contents at $50, on the counter briefly, and turned later to find it gone.

Foglights Stolen

A pair of foglights were stolen from a car at 313 Ave. W., owner of the vehicle, M. W. Foster, complained.

J. W. Duke, 45, a negro of 2822 East Ave. K, was arrested by Deps. Sheriff Frank Mitchell and Tom Cannon on a warrant charging liquor law violation. He later posted $500 bond.

Liquor Control board inspectors and city police had raided Duke's premises earlier and seized 336 12-ounce containers of beer, 15 four-fifths quarts of wine and 36 half-pints of whisky, said Fred Prestage, deputy supervisor of the liquor board and commanding officer of the Lubbock board district.

Duke told sheriff's deputies he was pulling bolls and "somebody just put that suff in my house."

Liquor Charge Filed

County Attorney Waggoner Carr said a charge of liquor law violation also had been filed against Melvin Steen.

Sheriff's deputies and the liquor control board seized 960 12-ounce containers of beer, five four-fifths quarts of wine, eight half-pints of whisky, and eight half-pints of gin from Steen's possession, Prestage said.

In 99th district court of Judge G. V. Pardue, forfeiture to the state of 2,328 containers of beer seized Oct. 8 from Fred Albidrez was ordered.

Justice C. E. Lynn placed Trinidad Flores, 26, of Lubbock under $250 peace bond after a hearing Monday afternoon of an affidavit charge of Flores' former wife that he had threatened her life.

Defense Policies

assignments given the armed services.

He called the present controversy "ill-considered bickering" from which "many of our citizens could develop honest doubts about the adequacy of our present defense program." He added:

"For the assurance of any who may harbor such doubts, let me emphasize right here that we are building our ramparts so strong that no aggressor will care to attack us."

Griffith said that under unification U. S. military power has been rebuilt from a point where it was "stripped down like a model T Ford in a junk dealer's yard."

He also declared that Russian development of the atom bomb did not catch the Defense department napping. He said:

"You may be assured that our military planners have always assumed that we would never be attacked by any powerful enemy that did not hove the atom bomb. Consequently they have planned accordingly."

Solon Is "Shocked"

Cates' testimony was called "shocking" by Rep. Short, Mo., ranking GOP member of the House Armed Services committee. It brought the Navy's case against the Defense department to a bitter climax.

The Marine general asserted that Gen. J. Lawton (Lightning Joe) Collins, Army chief of staff, is the author of a plan for "liquidation of the greatest fighting force the world has ever known."

Cates pleaded with the committee to thwart what the general called Johnson's "persistent attempts to circumvent" the unification law.

The four-star Leatherneck, referring emotionally to the proud history of the corps, traditionally first to fight, said the Collins plan would transfer Marine aviation to the Air Force and assign all amphibious warfare to the Army, reducing the marines to mere police work.

Committee Recesses

After hearing Cates and Gen. A. A. Vandegrift, former marine commandant, the committee recessed until 9 a. m. (CST) Tuesday, then Air Secretary Symington and Air Force Chief of Staff Hoyt S. Vandenberg will testify.

Later in the week, Gen. Collins, who has ordered back form Japan to appear before the committee, will be heard and Johnson himself will take the witness stand in an attempt to refute Navy charges that his policies gravely endanger national security.

FUND AUTHORIZED

WASHINGTON, Oct. 17. (AP)—The Senate passed a bill today authorizing $1,500,000 federal contribution to the construction of a general hospital at Albuquerque, N. M. The legislation was sent to the House. The federal contribution, which must be provided in a subsequent appropriation bill, would assist Bernalillo county, N. M., in the hospital construction.

NEWS BRIEFS

Offices of the City Recreation department, which are housed in City hall, have been connected to the City hall telephone switchboard, it was announced Monday afternoon. Henceforth, the department may be reached by telephone by calling No. 9371 and asking for the City Recreation extension.

Dr. D. M. Wiggins, president of Texas Technological college, will speak at a Rotary club dinner in Memphis Wednesday, it was announced Monday.

Text of Dr. Wiggins' address was not revealed.

Firemen said only minor damage was caused by a small blaze at 1:45 p.m. Monday in an air conditioner at the Chambers Lumber company located about two blocks east of Ave. A on the Slaton highway. The department listed as a false alarm a 2:05 p.m. call to 302 Uvalde.

Jack Waldrop, about 50, a Santa Fe Railway mechanic, was taken to West Texas hospital about 9:30 p.m. Monday after he had lost consciousness while working in the unused fire box of an engine in the railroad yards. Attendants listed Waldrop's condition as good, but said he would be held until sometime today for observation. It was believed he was overcome by heat in the closed compartment.

An eight-head string of Texas Holsteins exhibited under the care of Glenn Hackney of Lubbock took the $300 premium for the best state herd at the four-state regional Holstein-Friesian show Monday at the State Fair of Texas, according to an Associated Press dispatch last night from Dallas.

Oklahoma Publisher, Eugene Lorton, Dies

TULSA, Oct. 17. (AP)— Owner-publisher Eugene Lorton of the Tulsa Daily World, a forceful figure in Oklahoma journalism and politics for more than three decades, died in hospital today at the age of 80.

He had been ill for two weeks of a heart ailment with which he was seized soon after his return from a summer visit with Mrs. Lorton to California.

His condition became critical last week.

Lorton owned and published the World since 1917.

His death brought to a close a colorful career that included stints as a telepgraph operator, actor, politician, railroad worker, rancher and farmer as well as newspaperman.

Lorton came to Tulsa, then a lusty boom town of 18,000 from Walla Walla, Wash., in 1911, as managing editor of the World, founded only six years before.

Airborn Baby

ergency in the crew's compartment.

There was no anesthetic, and Dr. Henschell had no instruments, "not even a paper clip."

But the stewardess boiled water on the tea cooker and came out with stocks of diapers carried in case any baby passengers might forget to put any in their luggage.

By the time they arrived at Shannon the baby was snuggled in a cook's white apron. Dr. William O' Flynn, superintendent of Clare county hospital, 16 miles away, had been summoned with a nurse, but there was litle for them to do.

Didn't Need Oxygen Tent

"The child, somewhat premature, didn't even need an oxygen tent. This Irish air is all he needs," said Dr. O'-Flynn.

Mother and child were bundled off to the hospital where they were reported in good condition.

Dr. O'Flynn gave her an envelope. It contained $26 which passengers on the plane had donated to start a bank account for the baby.

Dr. Henschell said, "it was one of the most unexciting deliveries of my experience — but my first one in an airplane. It only goes to show that a doctor ought never to go abroad without his little black bag."

Miss Hinckley said she always had hoped something of the kind would happen.

Capt. Hennessy thought it was the second time in history a child had been born in a plane.

An airport attendant suggested the headline for the story: "Air-born."

Raid For Beer Turns Up Dope Cache Of Shallowater Negro

Elmo Stewart, 32, a Shallowater negro, was all set for the harvest season—and he didn't intend to use a cotton sack, the sheriff's department charged Monday.

Stewart was arrested by Sheriff's Deputies Earl Horton, Frank Mitchell and Tom Cannon, who raided his premises in search of beer and found instead two gallons of what they charge is marijuana.

At $1 a cigaret fashioned from the weed, Stewart would have made far more money than he could have made in the fields, it was conceded.

He told Mrs. Olive Fluke, who set bail of $1,000 on a charge that Stewart "acquired a quantity of marijuana without having paid a transfer tax," that he had paid $90 a pound for the four pounds of the narcotic drug.

The complaint was filed by Sheriff Grady Harrist at request of government narcotic agents who were busy in court in North Texas.

at Furr's

Again Furr's will be an active participant in Lubbock's great Community Chest campaign. In all such worthy community projects, Furr's personnel is not only sympathetic through giving but shares in the actual operation of the task.

And one of them is you. The other one is a man who is giving a lot of his own time to help his neighbors. He's giving his energy, too—out calling on people at their homes and offices, telling people about the Red Feather services of our Community Chest.

It really isn't his job alone. It's everybody's job. But he is a Red Feather volunteer, asking for money for a cause that shouldn't require any begging or grovelina.

Where do YOU come in Why, YOU are the man who doesn't flinch or duck or hide behind a lame excuse when the first chap says "Red Feather." Instead, you smile and make him feel welcome. Then you dig down deep for all you can afford to give.

That brings your size up to his!

Writer Sworn Into 'Order Of Yellow Dogs' By Noble Chief Cur In Aging Vermont Barn

By HARMAN W. NICHOLS
United Press Staff Writer

FAIRFAX, Va., Oct. 17.—From now on I'll lead the life of a cur, sir.

I have just been made an honorary dog. I was sworn in by the most noble chief cur, pudgy Gerald Ryan, who happens to be the chief clerk of the Treasury department.

The society is known as the Order of the Yellow dogs — Washington Kennel No. 2 of the U. S. Department of commerce, although a lot of other government workers, great and near-great also belong.

Love For Dogs Required

"You have to love dogs to be one of us," Ryan explained before the initiation which was held on the country estate of John Collins near here. "Mostly, though, it's a semi-annual outing where we eat a lot of hotdogs and have a lot of fun."

The thing has grown considerably since it was started back in 1930. Now the members carry yellow cards certifying that cur so-and-so is a member of the kennel in good standing. The card gives the date of acceptance "dog day" plus the "dog year."

On the card is a drawing of a dog baying at the moon — or perhaps another yellow dog.

Wooden Dogs Sold

Most of the members at the outings wear bright-colored ties with a yellow dog painted on the front. The day I went in, a huckster was peddling large wooden dogs for $2 apiece, rubber bones for half a buck and fire hydrants for whatever the traffic would bear.

Ryan, who signs all communications "K9ly yours," called the 20 or so candidates together and made us count off by 10s. It was something like a college fraternity hazing, except that nobody was sent out in search of a left-footed dinosaur or a two-tailed mouse.

The first 10 men were blindfolded and the rest of us stood in the weeds, about-faced.

Hollow Logs Paddled

The "active" yellow dogs then hammered paddles against hollow logs like Thumper the rabbit and kicked up an awful racket —calculated to scare the daylights out of us puppies.

Since most of us prospective hounds were sporting pot-bellies, there was no rough stuff.

I was in the second group. An old hand in the society took each by the hand and barked like a dog. Then we went through an obstacle course. The usual nonsense which looked a little silly after the blind was taken off. Like stepping over a stick and thinking you were climbing a high fence, and climbing a fence that wasn't a fence.

The ceremonies were held in a weather-beaten old barn. Once inside, the blinds were removed and Ryan, who was running the show, impressed us with the seriousness of the thing.

"Love thy dog," was the theme.

Ryan, wearing a baseball cap, a bright red sweater and other formal gear, read a prepared statement.

Once this impressive business was completed each candidate was forced to place his left hand on a two-foot long initiation dog bone, raise his right hand in the direction of the hay mow and take solemn oath.

The "Amen" was what was supposed to pass for a bark.

Livestock Men Unimpressed By Reported Find Of Dwarf Cattle

OKLAHOMA CITY, Oct. 17.(U.P.) —Oklahoma livestock men were unimpressed today with dwarf cattle reported found in a "lost canyon" of the southwest.

"We've seen lots of 'em," a veteran observer at the Oklahoma City stockyards commented. "They how up here every few weeks. This looks like a publicity build-up to me."

Dr. R. C. Surface, veterinary inspector for the U. S. Bureau of Animal husbandry, said such cattle "aren't a rarity."

"They are freaks," he said, "but they crop up from time to time and we see them on the markets quite often."

Price Cochran, who has spent 30 years in the livestock commission business, said he sold two such dwarfs within the last several weeks, "and they came out of good herds of commercial cattle."

Jim McClum, a 40-year veteran of buying and selling stock, said he has seen "numbers of them, both on the Detroit market and here—they occur just like dwarfs in the human race."

Pennsylvania And Kentucky 'Feud' Over Long Rifle

LANCASTER, Pa., Oct. 17 (AP)—Was the Kentucky rifle of Daniel Boone's day really the Pennsylvania rifle?

That question has two states up in academic arms today.

Dr. S. K. Stevens, Pennsylvania's state historian, claims the famed "long rifle" was first made in the Keystone state and erroneously became known as the Kentucky rifle because it was the favorite weapon of daring mountaineers operating in the blue grass country.

In an effort to correct this misconception, Gov. James H. Duff proclaimed Oct. 16 "Pennsylvania rifle day" as part of a week-long celebration to tell the world of Pennsylvania's greatness.

Claim Is Disputed

A. B. Ransdell, rifle editor of the Louisville (Ky.) Courier, bounced right back with the claim that the Kentucky rifle belongs only to that state.

"Pennsylvania is attempting to commit on the fair name and proud tradition of Kentucky the greatest rape since the Roman spearmen carried off the Sabine women," Ransdell wrote in a special dispatch carried in the Pittsburgh (Pa.) Post.

To back up its claim, Pennsylvania yesterday produced an official "O. K." from two state officials, the republic of Switzerland and the U. S. Army.

Gunmaker Honored

They all paid tribute to Martin Meylin, Swiss Mennonite immigrant gunsmith credited with making the first U. S. "long rifle" in his shop at Lancaster.

At ceremonies held beside Meylin's former shop, Maurice Rohrbach Swiss consul; Gen. Jacob L. Devers, former chief of the Army ground forces; Pennsylvania's Lieut. Gov. Daniel B. Strickler and Dr. Stevens all paid tribute to Meylin's gunmaking genius.

Dr. Stevens said Kentucky could have its assorted colonels and mint juleps, but Pennsylvania will retain its rifle.

"Kentucky probably never would have heard of the long rifle," he said as a parting shot, "much less become enamored of the illusion that she produced it, if it had not been for Daniel Boone, the Pennsylvania-born wilderness scout who took one of his native state's great rifles down there and demonstrated to those people some really fine shooting."

Kentucky—you take it from there.

Texas Child Makes Desperate Fight Against Asthma Attacks

ALBUQUERQUE, N. M., Oct. 17 (AP)—Janet Latsha, six-year-old Nacogdoches, Texas girl, is making a last desperate effort here against the asthma which has wasted her away to a mere 34 pounds.

She flew here yesterday with her mother, Mrs. Wilma Latsha, from Oklahoma City in hopes that the climate would help her. Doctors say the girl's condition is critical.

Janet cried when doctors tried a new medicinal spray, but her mother saw hope in her tears.

"For such a long time she was too weak to cry at all," Mrs. Latsha said.

The disease has kept Janet in hospitals all but three months of her life. The mother and her family have done everything possible to help the little girl.

Donations were sent to Oklahoma City from Texas and several other states to help financially in sending the two to New Mexico.

Mrs. Latsha was given a job at the hospital (St. Joseph's) and spends all her odd moments with Janet.

"I'll never get too tired that I'll stop thanking those who are doing so much for Janet," she said last night.

Californian Denounces Sen. Anderson For Opposing Administration Stand On Farm Bill

By SARAH McCLENDON

WASHINGTON, Oct. 17.—Rep. Cecil White (D-Calif.), formerly of Texas, denounced Senator Clinton Anderson (D-N.M.) today for what he termed "running out on the administration" in sponsoring a flexible price supports farm bill instead of a permanent 90 per cent parity measure.

White, born in Temple, and later a cotton man at El Paso, confirmed from his own experience today that there is a definite break in relations between President Truman and Senator Anderson, the former secretary of agriculture, on this very thing.

Solon Raps Senator

White accused Anderson of wanting to be both senator from New Mexico and secretary of agriculture and of having aspirations to become president. When he found that the new secretary of agriculture, Charles F. Brannan of Denver, whom Anderson had picked for the job was a possibility for future presidential material due to his popularity, Anderson quickly tried to scuttle the Brannan agricultural program, White said.

White visited the White House recently where he said President Truman assured him it was his desire to keep his campaign promises about striving for a law to make price supports of 90 per cent of parity permanent on cotton, corn, wheat, tobacco, rice and peanuts. The President said he backed the Pace bill, which incorporated this feature, also the Brannan plan in part. The Pace bill would have permitted direct subsidies to farmers on some perishables as an experiment with the Brannan plan. President Truman, White said, hopes to get this bill passed in the next session of Congress. The House turned it down in favor of the Gore bill, which keeps the price supports at 90 per cent on the six commodities, but only for one year.

Anderson Bill Okayed

The Senate passed Anderson's bill which calls for the same 90 per cent of parity for one year, then flexible price supports from 75 to 90 per cent. White said this is virtually an extension of the bill written by Senator Aiken (R-Vt.) which passed the Senate in the 80th Congress. He believes then Agriculture Secretary Anderson wrote it.

White termed the Brannan plan the best solution for handling perishable farm commodities ever seen in this country. He said Brannan planned to control market prices at the same time the government handed out cash subsidies to cover the margin between the market price and a price level sufficient to keep the farmer's standard of living up.

White went further in his denunciation of Anderson. He said it is definitely true that President Truman and other administration leaders have decided Anderson is on the side of "the big interests." Asked what these could be, White mentioned the insurance business. Anderson has been in the insurance business. Then White mentioned the Farm Bureau. That organization has always been on the side of big business, the Republican party and the Chicago Board of Trade, which likes for fluctuations to occur so that its members may make money, White said.

"Anderson picked a little man like Charlie Brannan because he thought he had a brain but also because he thought he would not be an outstanding personality in the cabinet post of agriculture," said White. "He found out that Brannan can stand firm and has ideas of his own."

The House and Senate versions of the farm bill appear scheduled for a long siege in the conference committee. A bitter fight is expected. House Agriculture committee members are determined to squelch the Anderson bill. They believe they could extend the Gore bill next year and expand its facilities but that it would be harder to vote off the Anderson bill, once it is on the law books.

Three Persons, Including Two Texas Residents, Die In Crash

BROWNSVILLE, Tenn. Oct. 17. (AP)—A truck and an automobile collided head-on a curve near here yesterday and three persons died.

The truck burst into flames after the crash and its two occupants were burned beyond recognition. After hours of checking, state highway patrolmen identified them today as Herman Hanson, 23, of Chandler, Texas, and Charles Pense, 48, of Tyler, Texas.

The driver of the car, killed in the crash was identified as E. R. Sanford, 73, of Como, Miss.

Members of the Brownsville Fire department, who put out the blaze, said Hanson and Pense were trapped in the truck's cab. The vehicle was carrying a load of seed catalogues for a Tyler firm.

New Coplon Trial Slated For Nov. 9

NEW YORK, Oct. 17. (AP)— Federal Judge Vincent L. Leibell today set Nov. 9 for the trial of Judith Coplon and Valentin A. Gubitchev on charges of conspiring to spy for the Soviet Union.

Gubitchev, a Soviet engineer who has been suspended from his United Nations post, told the court he would act as his own lawyer.

Miss Coplon, former Justice department employe, will be represented by Archibald Palmer, her lawyer in her Washington trial.

That trial ened June 30 with her conviction of stealing confidential FBI documents with the intention of transmitting them to Soviet agents. She was sentenced on that charge to 40 months to 10 years. An appeal is pending. She is at liberty in $20,000 bail on that conviction and an additional $20,000 on the New York indictment.

She and Gubitchev now are to be tried on conspiracy charges in connection with the same alleged leakage of secrets.

South Plains Employment Shows Sharp Increase

U.S. TROOPS STILL WANTED

Lubbock Man Plans Return To Germany After Visiting Here

By BILL CLARK
Avalanche Staff Writer

Hudson Powell, who during three years in Germany has acquired an intimate acquaintanceship with the German people, will leave Wednesday to return to his post after nearly a month spent visiting in this country.

Powell, a graduate of Lubbock High school in 1936 and a former Texas Technological college student, has been visiting his mother, Mrs. Pearl McWhorter of 2314 Main street.

Army Depot Managed

For three years he has been with the U. S. engineers in Germany. For two years he ran an engineers depot in Schleissheim, Bavaria, near the famous concentration camp of Dachau.

More recently he has been an inspector for the chief engineer, travelling all over Germany and in other countries, inspecting projects and depots and doing contracting and procurement work.

Although his headquarters is in Heidelberg, he lives in Murnau, in the corner where Germany, Austria and Heidelberg join.

Speaking of his personal observations during three years in Germany, Powell says that the Germans don't enjoy being occupied any more than any other country. He finds that most of the Germans are anti-communist, and don't want the Americans to pull out right now.

"There is a normal amount of griping and criticism from individual Germans," Powell says, emphasizing that he speaks as an individual and not as an official.

"The Germans have had freedom of press and freedom of movement for some time, and the police duties have been increasingly turned over to German police."

The displaced person problem seems to be resolving itself, Powell believes. Many European DP's are moving to South America, Australia, the United States and Jerusalem.

"Germany was probably the most totally defeated country in the history of the world," Powell said. "But in the last 12 months the Germans have made great strides. The stores in Germany now are almost as full as those in this country.

"The German people are industrious and are working day and night to rebuild that country. By that I don't mean that Germany is back to normal economically, but it is making progress."

In response to a question he said there had been some evidence of anti-Semitism in Germany recently, especially in Munich where a recent disturbance occurred.

Powell will leave Lubbock Wednesday for St. Louis. He will stop there briefly, then go on to New York, where he will sail for Germany Saturday night, Oct. 22. Before leaving he plans to purchase a new automobile to replace the French-made convertible he has been driving recently.

Labor Surplus Cut By Harvest

A decided upturn in employment in the Lubbock area was noted Monday by B. T. O'Connell, manager of the Texas Employment commission, who estimates total employment at 25,750, or an increase of 750 over last month.

O'Connell's office expects a further net increase of approximately 550 during the next two months.

Concurrently with a sharp rise in total employment figures, local unemployment has shown a decrease from 950 to 700 during September, chiefly because of the demand for workers in the cotton fields.

"This year the harvest season is exerting more influence on the labor market and adding more weight than usual to the employment side of the scale," O'Connell commented.

"As a result, unemployment is expected to hit a new low in Lubbock county for the fall months."

Labor Surplus Decreasing

"This is a welcome situation, for local economy is only just now recuperating from the slump of last winter and spring. Hiring was remarkably low during the summer months and employers in general seemed to be reluctant to start fall hiring. It was evident that local unemployment was on the increase for a time.

"This situation has been checked at least temporarily by the beginning of the harvest season."

The increase in employment has been general in nature but has been most noticeable in construction, wholesale and retail trade and service establishments.

The surplus of local labor has been decreasing during the past month. Supply and demand probably will become more nearly balanced during October and November than at any other time during the year, O'Connell believes. A demand for 550 additional workers during the next two months has already been made evident.

Harvest Boosts Trade

The effect of the cotton harvest on non-agricultural employment was explained by O'Connell. It is estimated that 100,000 workers will come into the South Plains area for the harvest. This will stimulate trade, thus causing a demand for non-agricultural workers.

"The South Plains area has on order more than 20,000 Mexican nationals for cotton harvest, and there is already a demand for a number of Spanish-speaking salespersons to take care of Mexican trade," said O'Connell.

HOUSING UNITS OKAYED

WASHINGTON, Oct. 17 (AP)—Assignment of 2,800 low rent public housing units to the Dallas housing authority was announced today by the Public Housing administration.

Five Sentenced By Court Here

Sentences totaling 23 years were pronounced Monday after five persons had pleaded guilty of felony offenses, before 99th District Judge G. V. Pardue.

The court allowed probation terms totaling 17 of those years and affecting four of the defendants.

Georgian Gets Six Years

John Henry Bigbie, 21, of Columbus, Ga., was sentenced to serve six years in the penitentiary for forgery. He recently was returned from Bowie county, Texas, upon a bench warrant.

At the afternoon session of court, Jack Lewis, 21, a negro of Brenham, was allowed probation of five-year sentence for forgery.

These sentences were probated at the morning session:

William Clinton Long, 35, of Lubbock two years for drunk driving, second offense; A. L. Archer, 22, five years for swindling by worthless check, and Charles Edward Whatley, 21, of Lubbock, five years for swindling.

Several cases, said E. G. Pharr, assistant district attorney, are slated for trial today: J. D. Wilburn, jr., charged with theft from the person; J. A. Avery, burglary; Osby James, burglary; and Leroy Ralston, drunk driving, second offense.

Other cases are on the calendar for Wednesday and Friday.

Program Given At Toastmasters Club

Members of the Toastmasters club heard a varied program in their regular meeting in the Hilton hotel Monday night.

Winston Robertson spoke to the group concerning women jurists, Dr. Marshall Harvey gave a humorous talk; Larry Copenhaver spoke of a pheasant hunting trip in North Dakota, and Dr. M. H. Benson spoke to the group of the Community chest drive.

Guests of the club were LAFB officers, Maj. S. W. Newman, personnel officer; Maj. William S. Hale, assistant adjutant; Maj. Dale A. Shaver, adjutant and Maj. Dean B. Brown, military personnel officer. Dr. Nelson Nichols, D.D.S., was guest of Dr. J. M. Reynolds.

BROWNFIELD QUEEN CANDIDATES — One of these three candidates will be crowned 1949 Harvest Queen at 8 p.m., Wednesday at the Brownfield Rotary club's third annual Harvest Festival and Merchants Jubilee. The candidates are, left to right, Elizabeth Jo Anthony, sponsored by Howard-Henson Post No. 269 of the American Legion; Margaret Goza, sponsored by Beta chapter of Epsilon Sigma Alpha, and Ann Snedeker, whose candidacy is sponsored by the Brownfield Lions club. This year's Harvest Queen will receive as one of many prizes her choice of a trip to Hawaii, Florida and Cuba, Hollywood, or New York. The runner-up's prizes will include a trip to the Sun Bowl at El Paso New Year's Day. Motion picture actor Rod Cameron, who will be here all day for the festival, will crown the queen.

College To Offer Doctors Degrees

Graduate Studies Expansion To Raise Tech's Standards

Offering of the doctors degree in various fields at Texas Technological college will "improve the standards of undergraduate studies," Dr. E. N. Jones, vice president, said Monday in outlining plans for such studies to begin next fall.

Under standards set up by the Southern Conference of Graduate Schools, any institution offering the doctor's degree must have at least seven faculty members in that department with such a degree.

Since the English and history departments will have the required number next fall is one reason they were chosen to start the program, Dr. Jones said. Geology and chemistry will be added in 1951 and other fields will follow, he declared.

Only the doctor of philosophy degree is to be conferred at the present time, with students being accepted next September in English and history. Any phase of those subjects for which faculty personnel is trained can be studied for the degree.

The history of the South Plains and adjoining territory will be one of the things stressed in that department, Jones said. The West Texas museum located on the campus will provide a convenient means for research, he pointed out.

Other than the addition of more better-trained teachers, the inauguration of the doctorate program will also make necessary the addition of journals and publications in the subject matter field to the library. With the addition of science later to the doctorate program, more and larger scientific equipment will be needed.

Emphasis in the graduate work will be laid on quality, with training "thoroughly standard," Dr. Jones emphasized. If necessary, he said, the number of students accepted for such studies will be limited to the number which can be most efficiently handled by trained professors.

All work toward the doctor's degree will be under the supervision of Dr. W. C. Holden, dean of graduate studies, and the graduate council. Dean Holden will present the college's plans to the Southern Conference of Graduate schools at a meeting in New Orleans Nov. 14 and 15.

New Legislative Body Sets Meet

By DAVE CHEAVENS
Associated Press Staff Writer

AUSTIN, Oct. 17 — A new state agency with vast potential powers goes to work this week.

It is the 17-member Texas Legislative council, created by the 51st Legislature. Chairman Grover C. Morris of Greenville, acting lieutenant governor, today called the first session for Wednesday at 10 a.m.

The council has clearly-stated, specific powers to delve into almost any state agency. It may subpoena witnesses and records under court compulsion and take testimony under oath.

Given $25,000 Fund

It has a fund of $25,000 to finance its operations during the first 11 months of its existence.

These are its detailed powers and duties as stated in Senate bill 316 that created it:

1. To investigate departments, agencies and officers of the state and study their functions and problems.

2. To make studies for the use of the legislature and its individual members.

3. To make such other investigations, studies and reports as may be deemed useful to the legislature.

4. To function between sessions of the legislature.

5. To make reports and recommendations to the legislature, including drafts of proposed laws.

The important caption of the bill, setting forth its purposes, stressed the need for an agency to assist the legislature in obtaining information on specific legislation and on "problems and matters affecting the general welfare of the state." That covers lots of territory in outlining what the council could do and stay within the bounds of its creating statute.

In addition to Chairman Morris, members are Vice-Chairman Durwood Manford of Smiley, speaker of the House; Reps. Callan Graham of Junction, Lamar Zively of Temple, Jim Lindsey of New Boston, Sam Hanna of Dallas, James B. Pattison of Pattison, Andy James of Hillsboro, Pearce Johnson of Austin, Newton McCann of Texarkana, Louis J. Ivey of El Paso, Dolph Briscoe of Uvalde.

Senators R. L. Proffer of Justin, Searcy Bracewell of Houston, Wardlow Lane of Center, Walter Tynan of San Antonio, Ottis Lock of Lufkin.

Red Military Strength Estimated As Greater Than At End Of War

By J. M. ROBERTS, JR.
Associated Press Staff Writer

General Omar Bradley, estimating Russian military strength for the Senate Appropriations committee, indicates that the Soviet army is about the same size, numerically, as in 1941 when Europe already was at war.

That the Red army is more modernly equipped can hardly be doubted. The Red air force, which had few medium bombers and a relative handful of what were then called long range bombers, undoubtedly is vastly superior now.

Fighting Strength Estimated

Bradley estimates that Russia now has 175 combat divisions, could put 300 into the field within 60 days, and could have 500 in a matter of months. He credits the Russian air force with 16,000 planes.

According to figures given the United States by Stalin in July 1941, he had 180 divisions when the Germans attacked in June of that year, but only 160 were near enough to help withstand the Germans. The Russians mobilized 260 divisions within six weeks, but 80 of them were still too green for use. Stalin estimated that by the spring of 1942 he would be able to use 350 divisions.

20 Million Men Called

Russia's peak army strength before the war ended was believed to have surpassed 500 divisions. In all, she mobilized something like 20 million men.

Russia had more than 7,000 fighter planes, but of old types. She was producing 1,000 tanks per month, 1,200 fighters, and hoped to get plane production up to 2,500 per month by June 1942.

After drastic reductions in the army following the war, Russia's last annual budget indicated that she was speeding up her preparedness program. She is quite possibly spending as much as all the western powers combined.

To save clothing and mending time, fasten buttons and other fastenings right in the first place. Then ordinary wear or washing and ironing shouldn't loosen buttons.

Nursing Of Children Discourages Cancer, Noted Surgeon Says

CHICAGO, Oct. 17 (INS)—A noted surgeon asserted today that women who nurse their children are less likely to have cancer of the breast than those who do not.

Dr. W. P. Nicholson, chief of surgical service, St. Joseph's infirmary, Atlanta, told the American College of Surgeons, meeting in Chicago that there are three things women can do to help prevent breast cancer, which accounts for more than half of all cancer in women.

He declared:

Definite Purpose Planned

"The breast was put on a woman for the purpose of secreting milk and when it carries out that purpose, she is less likely to have a carcinoma (cancer)."

He listed as the second thing women can do to prevent the incidence of breast cancer is to wear a properly-fitted brassiere. Said Dr. Nicholson:

"Since man was created for a four-footed existence, he fell heir to certain diseases when he decided to walk in an upright position. Carcinoma of the breast is definitely influenced by this position."

Advance Causes Trouble

Most of the breast cancers, according to Dr. Nicholson occur in the upper outer fourth of the breast. He suggested that this might be because a pendulous breast cuts off circulation of the blood and leads to inflamation of the mammary glands and sets the stage for cancer to begin.

Dr. Nicholson said a third cause of cancer in the breast is lack of stimulation. He declared:

"Few doctors realize that the use of the breast pump is almost as important as that of a toothbrush for the teeth or soap and water for the skin . . . If (women) will empty the breast by use of hot applications and the breast pump I think they will definitely cut down on the instance of carcinoma of the breast."

Two St. Louis doctors asserted in another paper that so far as the body is concerned its apparently makes no difference if in bone grafting operations bone from the patient's own body or from a donor is used.

Minnesota Man Given 140 Year Sentence For Slaying Officer

MINNEAPOLIS, Oct. 17.(INS)—Hennepin county District Judge Harold N. Rogers today sentenced Gustav H. Johnson, 29, of St. Paul, to 140 years at hard labor for the gun slaying of Patrolman Fred Babcock, jr., last June.

Babcock, a suburban Richfield policeman, was shot fatally when he surprised Johnson and three other men burglarizing a food market.

A shot was fired and Babcock fell wounded.

Johnson was captured a half hour later by police squads blanketing the Richfield area.

His three companions, Carl and Arthur Bistrom, and Allen Hartman, fled in a stolen car, kidnapped a Fargo, N. D., policeman and several other persons in a dramatic chase through several midwest states.

The trio was captured, and have pleaded guilty at Mandan, N. D., and are awaiting sentencing on kidnapping charges. They are under indictment in Minneapolis for first degree murder.

Roulette, fan-tan, poker, blackjack and dice games were in full swing.

3,000 Attend Opening Of Oil Progress Week

LEVELLAND, Oct. 17 (Special)—Oil progress week began here today when a crowd of about 3,000 people stood through a chilling downpour to witness a parade through the downtown district, led by high school bands from Levelland and Sundown. The Whiteface band was scheduled to appear but the weather prevented its arrival.

The week, Oct. 16 to 22, is being sponsored by local oil companies and the Lions, Rotary and Jaycee organizations here.

The parade featured floats depicting the various phases of the oil industry; discovery, production, transportation, refining, wholesale and retail. Murray C. McNichol was chairman of the parade committee. Tommy McSpadden, L. L. Cox and Sam Billingsley were committee members. George C. Price was parade marshal.

Activities during the week will include an open house at the Stanolind gas plant near Sundown Tuesday and Wednesday. Tuesday night the Lions, Rotarians and Jaycees join in sponsoring an Oil Progress banquet.

Old Fashioned Cemeteries Soon May Be Things Of Past

SAN ANTONIO, Oct. 17 (AP)—The old-fashioned, run-down deserted cemetery, long a favorite of horror story and mystery writers, will soon be a thing of the past.

That's the report from the Texas Cemeteries association, in convention here today.

John T. Bailey, president of the association, said the trend is all toward the making of cemeteries into beautiful parks for the living as well as resting places for the dead.

Under discussion at today's business session was what was described as the world's first successful grave digging machine.

NEHRU GIVEN WARM WELCOME

U. S. Expected To Seek Support Of India In Halting Red Advance

By PIERRE J. HUSS
INS Staff Correspondent

LAKE SUCCESS, N. Y., Oct. 17.—The super-special welcome given Pandit Jawaharlal Nehru last week showed clearly that the United States is hitching its wagon in the far east to the brilliant star of India.

United Nations delegates agreed almost without exception that the fanfare and trumpeting given India's prime minister heralds a U. S. bid to counteract through him any Kremlin-powered Communist drive out of China for mastery of Asia.

This means also that the United States finally has written off Chiang Kai - Shek.

Triumph Continues In UN

Nehru's triumph continues in New York this week, particularly in the halls of the UN. It must be kept in mind that this event brings together at Lake Success the two key men in the battle between Russia and the United States for dominating influence in the Asiatic sphere.

The man next to Nehru in importance on that score is of course UN Assembly President Carlos P. Romulo of the Philippines.

It is common knowledge that Nehru, brilliant disciple and heir of Ghandi, is far from sympathetic to Kremlin-directed Communism or capitalistic western anti-Communism. He has stayed aloof from both camps, although fiercely determined to prevent the swallowing of southeast Asia by Stalin.

Anti-Red Front Wanted

Romulo, on the other hand, was given the task by Philippine President Elpidias Quirino of binding the nations of southeast Asia into an anti-Communist front. Since then, Romulo has devoted much effort to insisting that his task is to tighten the bonds between "non-Communist" nations in the Pacific.

The play on words, insignificant as it may seem, may well mark the difference between a split or an understanding between him and Nehru.

There is another stumbling block to full-scale cooperation between Nehru and Quirino on the non-Communist front in Southeast Asia. That is the faux pas which Quirino made in western eyes when he paid a formal visit to Chiang Kai-Shek and sought him as his partner.

Well-Tried Theory Held

Diplomats cling to a well-tried theory that in the world of politics there is nothing worse than sticking to a discredited hero and former leader. They point out at the UN that the old royalist slogan, "the king is dead. Long live the king!" has much purpose and wisdom in it.

However, the information is that Quirino was among the first to spot his error and mend it.

He is understood to be quietly living down that part of his non-Communist front endeavors, concentrating on strengthening the ties of the Asiatic nations now faced by the knowledge that China is merely an operations base for the Kremlin-powered Communist forces.

Support by the United States and awakening in the western world to the grave menace creeping upon Asia has become the keynote of his aims.

That may align the viewpoint adn aims of Nehru and Quirino on a level better suited to future cooperation. It can be taken for granted that Romulo in his capacity as travelling ambassador for Quirino will make the most of his opportunity during Nehru's presence at the UN in the role of assembly president, Romulo of course must toe a neutral line.

But Romulo is not alone in his fishing for Nehru's partnership to hold Southeast Asia against the Kremlin. There is Philip C. Jessup to keep the American iron in the fire.

Dr. Jessup is the one who shaped and edited the U. S. State department's white book on China.

Romulo himself has a vast understanding for America and Americans and has been in a position to explain his idea fully to Jessup. So there is a combination here which will enable Jessup to keep the American viewpoint alive in Nehru's thoughts, steeling him perhaps for the equally busy approach planned no doubt by Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Vishinsky.

Seller's Market Is Dead, Jaycees Told

Burritt S. Mills, industrial and sales engineer, Monday told Jaycees "now is the time to get off the gravy train and board the work train."

Speaking at a luncheon meeting in the Hilton hotel, Mills said "the days of the seller's market are over."

"For the past eight years the consumer has been pushed around unmercifully," he pointed out, but now the situation has changed to a buyer's market."

"No longer can a businessman show indifference to his customer," Mills explained, "because the competitor across the street has the same goods to offer."

Survey On Courtesy

Mills said he completed a survey recently of 200 West Texas stores to find that personnel in 46 per cent of the establishments didn't even have the courtesy to greet him or ask him what he wanted."

"When a person enters your place of business, he is half sold before he comes in or he wouldn't be there," Mills said, "but he will leave quickly if he is shown indifference. He might se sold some small article but he won't ever come back," Mills added, "but how many businesses can last on that basis?" he asked.

Dr. L. B. Millsap, chairman of the circus committee, said the Rogers Brothers circus netted the club between $600 and $700 last week.

Norman Igo, chairman of the membership committee, awarded Jaycee pins to 17 new members.

R. S. Wilkinson presided.

PULLS HIS WEIGHT

EAT PLENTY AND TAKE OFF UGLY FAT

When you buy Barcentrate, you buy a preparation for taking off weight. You do not pay for any printed diet or for vitamins to fortify you against weakness while on a starvation diet. You need never know a hungry moment while taking this preparation. Barcentrate is the original grapefruit juice recipe for weight reduction.

Just go to your druggist and ask for four ounces of liquid Barcentrate. Pour this into a pint bottle and add enough grapefruit juice to fill bottle. Then take just two tablespoonfuls twice a day. That's all there is to it.

Lost 56 pounds

Here is what Mrs. L. J. Bryant, P. O. Box 56, Whitewright, Texas, wrote us:

"I want to tell you what Barcentrate has done for me. I weighed 268 pounds when I started taking it. I now weigh 212.

"I have taken my dress size down from size 50 to 44 and never felt better in my life and everybody tells me how much nicer I look than I did.

"I am still taking Barcentrate as I want to get my weight down to 165 or 170 pounds."

Take The Fair Way!

IN ANOTHER special meeting today, the Lubbock City Commission is supposed to act on extension of city limits, kicked around now for months.

Whether the commission finally will act today, or whether it won't, is difficult to say in the light of its past vacillating in this regard. But this much is certain: The commission is going to have to act — either today or soon; it can't keep on procrastinating. Furthermore, it is going to have to extend the city limits soon, or rob Lubbock of the best possible federal census figure for 10 long years — from 1950 to 1960.

There is a great deal more at stake in the matter of census figures than just "chamber of commerce hoorah," or home town pride. Much business hangs on census figures, in many lines of trade. Manufacturers and distributors make better deals with agents in larger cities than with those in smaller ones and many business men are involved. Further, as we all know, the political agencies — state and national — are much more generous in expenditures where the votes are, than in expenditures where the votes aren't.

When members of the Lubbock City commission sit down this morning to talk again — and perhaps finally act — on the city extension problem, they should not lose sight of the fact that public opinion, overwhelmingly, favors extension of city limits to give Lubbock the best possible 1950 census figure. They should remember majority wishes — and the good of the whole — every time their own personal interests come into the picture and every time they start yielding to pressure applied by a selfish few.

THE RANK-and-file of Lubbock has its eyes on the City commission in the city limits extension problem. They are not going to be fooled by any temporizing. They are going to know, when the City commission finally acts, if it acted in response to majority desires — and for the best interests of all Lubbock. They are going to know if it allowed itself to be stampeded by a handful of individuals who don't give a hoot about anything except the possibility of their avoiding their fair share of taxation in the city which has made them what they are.

And here's something else the citizens of Lubbock are going to know, too.

They're going to know, by action of the commission, whether their own taxes are going to continue to go up and up while others, who enjoy all the advantages of Lubbock citizenship, are relieved of paying their proper part of the cost of municipal operation. Lubbock citizens aren't going to be very happy if their city officials decide to exempt from taxes some people who should be paying them — and, in effect, say to present taxpayers: "You're going to have to carry your load, and that of these others, too!"

WE REALIZE, of course, that considerable pressure has been applied to the City commission by a relatively few individuals of considerable financial power — in the so-called "Westchester" section, and in a few other areas, too. We realize that personal friendships are involved between members of the commission and some of those seeking to safeguard their selfish interests. That makes it tough on the commission, whose members naturally like to get along with a minimum of difficulty, just as all of us do.

But we realize, and so does every Lubbock citizen, that it sometimes is impossible for public officials to sidestep unpleasant duties and the city limits extension problem is one of those occasions. The commission has to act, one way or another: for the people as a whole, or for the few who have made the most noise and have exerted the most pressure.

Like most people, we have been disappointed to date over the City commission's failure to accept the problem and to act on it quickly, without fear or favor. But having confidence in the fairness and the courage of the members of the commission, we still believe they will, in the final analysis, side with the many and against the few.

After all, that is the democratic way. That is the American way—and it is the only way that rank and file of our people will accept as just, and as right.

Someone To Love

BY IRENE LONNEN ERNHART
Distributed By NEA, Inc.

(THE STORY: Although Tod Duncan has married Jenny, he still is unable to forget being jilted by Liz Conover. Jenny finds her struggle for happiness difficult when Tod takes her to live with his family. There are quarrels and they finally move to a trailer camp while Tod is finishing his college education. Jenny discovers that she is going to have a baby and must quit her job as a model which has given them money to live on. Then Tod meets an old friend from State University, Rick Morris. Rick is quite taken with Jenny and Jenny hopes that Rick comes often to see them—Rick is good for Tod and for her, too.

XIV

JENNY and Rick had a lot of fun in the super-market. He insisted on paying for the groceries, because of so many extravagant items he'd selected himself, mushrooms, some terribly expensive cheese and a bottle of wine.

When Tod returned from his last class Rick, with one of Jenny's ruffled aprons tied around his middle, was in the kitchenette cooking dinner.

Tod was in an extra good humor. He and Rick sampled the wine and had a high time kidding each other.

They had just finished the dessert and lit cigarets when Rick said to Tod, out of a clear sky, "Say, you know Liz Conover—"

"Yes."

"I heard she's getting a divorce already from the Courtney fellow she married last spring."

No one said anything for a second or two. Rick looked from one to the other of them. "Did I say something wrong?"

"No," Tod said. He rose and began hunting for an ash tray.

"The ash tray is right behind you, on the desk," Rick said quietly. "And now tell me what's wrong with my mentioning Liz."

"Well, if you must know Ricky" Jenny said, turning the water on in the sink for the dishes, "Tod was engaged to Liz last spring, and she jilted him, and then I caught him sort of on the rebound." She ducked down then to get the soap flakes out of the cupboard, because she couldn't face the angry look on Tod's face.

"That's not true, Jenny, and you know it."

Rick looked uncomfortable. "I didn't mean to bring any skeletons out of the closet."

"It's all right, Rick," Jenny said. She was sure of herself now. "Skeleton or not, it's better to have things out in the open, isn't it. Anyway, I love Tod, and even if I did get him on the rebound, I'm glad I did. We're going to make a success of our marriage."

"Jenny's right," Tod said. His eyes met Rick's briefly as he set the ash tray down on the table. "Want to drive down to the drug store with me," he said. "I'm out of cigarets."

"I've really got to be going," Rick said.

JENNY protested, but only half-heartedly, and after the usual things were said, Rick left. Tod drove him to his rooming house.

"I didn't know you and Liz were engaged last spring," Rick said as they got in the car.

"We were supposed to be married as soon as I got home from that hospital in New York," Tod said. "She and Courtney eloped the day before I got back."

"You were lucky," Rick said.

"Lucky?" Tod said. "To marry Jenny you mean."

"And to have escaped marrying Liz. She's no good. She'll be married to half a dozen fellows before she's through. You'd better get her off your mind and be happy with Jenny. She's a swell kid.'

Jenny was all finished with the dishes when he got home.

"There's nothing to apologize for, Jenny." He looked down at her, seeing the trembly sweetness of her lips, the softness of her eyes, dark-circled in her thin face. He ought to be ashamed for even thinking of Liz when Jenny was so sweet.

"I guess it's just nerves that makes me fly off the handle so."

"Sure." Tod got out his books and notebooks and sat down at his desk to study. He couldn't get Liz out of his mind.

Aware suddenly that Jenny had been saying something to him, he looked up. "What was that, Jenny?"

"You mean you didn't hear a word I said?"

He shook his head. Her brown eyes were stormy again.

"I said your mother phoned and wanted to talk to you today. They told me at the office. She wouldn't talk to me, but she left her number."

"Maybe I'd better go call her."

AT the trailer camp office he found the slip with the phone number on it in his mail slot.

Ma's querulous voice came loudly and reproachfully over the phone.

"We figured you was pretty busy, but like I told Harriet today, looked like you didn't care what become of us. We ain't seen hide nor hair of you for weeks and weeks."

"I've been thinking I must look you up."

"I know Jenny's probably doin' everything she can to keep you away from us, but it looks like—"

"Look Ma, if you phoned me to pick a quarrel let's break it off right now. I've been meaning to come around and see you. We sold the shack that belonged to Jenny's father and got $500 for it. I could let you have some money if you're hard up. Jenny wouldn't care if you really needed it."

"No, thanks. Joe's got a good job with a friend of his. He says soon as he can he's goin' to get us a nice place again. Joe'll take care of his old mother even if you don't think enough of her to come around."

"I been busy with school, and Jenny's had to quit work. We'll be over to see you though soon, maybe tomorrow night."

"You don't need to bring her to see me!" Mar said firmly.

He walked back to the trailer slowly, feeling a miserable sense of guilt.

LIKE most people you are probably too busy either with making a living or with your household duties to do much reading besides your daily paper.

BRANDEIS

But there are times when you want to spend an hour or so with a good book.

You may hesitate to start a novel, because a novel is usually too long to read between chores, and you may not have time to finish it until goodness knows when.

So let me make a suggestion.

There is no better book to read for a half hour's or an hour's relaxation than the Bible.

I do it often, not as a matter of religion, but for its sheer beauty, and as a most wonderful tonic.

Of all the literature in this world nothing more beautiful than the Bible has ever been written.

No mater where you open it, you will find something to satisfy you, to inspire you, to put your mind at ease.

Early last evening I was tired. I didn't feel like reading anything heavy, listening to the radio, looking at television. I didn't even want to talk.

So I took my Bible, lay down on a couch, and opened it at random.

My wife was in the next room, doing some sewing, and before I opened the book I was thinking how wonderful life is when you have a companion whose nearness, by her nearness alone, gives you happiness and peace.

Then I looked at the page to which I had opened the Book.

It happened to be the fourth chapter of Ecclesiastes, and this is what I read, as I started on the ninth verse:

"Two are better than one; because they have a good reward for their labour.

"For if they fall, the one will lift up his fellow; but woe to him that is alone when he falleth; for he hath not another to help him up."

I WENT back a couple of pages to the thirty-first chapter of Proverbs.

Something again stopped me, just as my wife came into the room to ask me how soon I would be ready for dinner:

"She will do him good and no evil all the days of her life . . .

"Strength and honour are her clothing; and she shall rejoice in time to come.

"She openeth her mouth with wisdom; and in her tongue is the law of kindness.

"She looketh well to the ways

"I hope you don't mind—I can't afford models!"

FOR BRITISH INDUSTRY

Trade Improvements

By RAY TUCKER
Special Correspondent

WASHINGTON — British politicians, financiers and industrialists have taken to heart the violent American cirticism of their outworn and old-fashioned technique of production, salesmanship and distribution which the dollar crisis provoked several weeks ago.

Their modernization of their economic and industrial plant, however, may become a disadvantage to U.S. competitors for world commerce.

Under the auspices of an Anglo-American council sponsored by the Administration, the British are making a serious study of our mass production and mass sales system. Select committees consisting of ownership, managerial, foreman and working groups are scouring our factories in the same way that their purchasing commissions investigated and lived in munitions plants during the war.

TUCKER

British experts, mostly young and forward-looking men, have penetrated our steel, textile, automobile, mining, shipping and financial districts. They have been given full access to government reports in those fields. Only the most guarded trade secrets have been withheld from them at Washington and in our great industrial centers.

GENEROSITY: It is doubtful if any nation ever opened up so completely on the human and material resources which made it great as the United States has within recent months. As one prominent British visitor said after one of these surveys:

"Your generosity in letting us try to catch up with you in the field of world commerce means more to us in dollars and cents than all the loans and outright grants you have given us since 1914.

"It makes us realize how smart we were to lose to your George Washington in that little war we had back there in the 18th century when, as you Yanks so frequently forget, we were getting ready to expend our resources in beating down another would-be world dictator—Napoleon."

COMPLAINTS: The British representatives admit quite frankly that they have run into some opposition and resentment on their rounds of our plants. Despite the welcome and introductory letters they received from their friends in New York and Washington, a few domestic manufacturers have understandably questioned the wisdom of such all-out cooperation.

Recognizing the British spirit of thoroughness and doggedness once the island people awake to a crisis, as after the battles of Trenton, Austerlitz and Dunkirk, American manufacturers and traders fear the effect which this course of instruction will have on their own world markets. Many have voiced these complaints in letters to their Representatives and Senators.

ALIBIS: In other words, the feeling of "isolationism," which is beginning to manifest itself in the field of politics, as witness the attitude of such Republican candidates as Senator Taft of Ohio, Senator Dulles of New York and former Congressman Everett Dirksen of Illinois, who will run against Senate Majority Leader Scott Lucas next year, is beginning to show itself in the economic realm.

And should the Administration's "free trade" theories have an adverse bread-and-butter effect in the form of unemployment, reduced purchasing power and an industrial backup, Democratic office-seekers in 1950 or later may experience a difficult time.

So much so that numerous Administration loyalists on Capitol Hill, especially those from industrial states, are thinking up alibis for their support of these policies.

CRITICISM: The attitude of 800-odd members of the Washington press corps toward President Truman after his characterization of many of them as "broken down reporters turned columnists, radio commentators and editorial writers," or words to that effect, is a remarkable tribute to the ex-Senator from Missouri. Nobody got sore at him.

His criticism, naturally, has been the subject of talk at every gathering of politicians, newspapermen and their wives. But the reaction has not been bitter, as it used to be when Franklin D. Roosevelt sought to demean what Calvin Coolidge called "those writing persons." The little Vermonter did not mean to be derogatory, either.

CHIN: The presidential fling at us is hardly worth comment, for newspapers and newspapermen do not believe in airing their troubles in public. It deserves some attention only because it has amazed our reader friends, politicians and Mr. Truman's closest associates.

Several Cabinet members have dared to question the wisdom of such a statement, thinking that it might react against him politically.

It will not, of course, inasmuch as he and his predecessor have attacked and blasted almost every group of Americans except those who control so many votes that they are influential on Election Day. As one of the most solid and distinguished members of the corps commented:

"Since we dish out or report so much criticism of public officials and politicians, from General Eisenhower down to General Vaughan, we ought to be able to take it when somebody smacks us on our collective chin."

Down Memory Lane

(Taken from the files of The Lubbock Morning Avalanche, Oct. 18, 1929.)

A number of the local women attended the district meeting of the Women's Auxiliary of the First Presbyterian church at Lorenzo Thursday.

The meeting opened at 10 o'clock in the morning, with Mrs. Joe Wilson of Lubbock, district president, presiding. Mrs. C. J. Wagner had charge of the Bible study feature of the program and the campaign for next year was discussed by Dr. J. M. Lewis. Dr. W. K. Johnson talked on the Presbytery work, speaking on the subject of "Despise Not the Day of Small Things." A vocal trio was sung by Mesdames H. E. Blocker, J. H. Howze, and O. K. Peters, the selection being "Have Thine Own Way, Lord" Mrs. Jerry Clements spoke on church paper work and Mrs. Pessley on Presbytery work.

Those attending from Lubbock were Mesdames Temple Ellis, Pessley, C. J. Wagner, O. K. Peters, Melton, J. A. Gordon, J. M. Gordon, Blackard, Howze, Ainsworth, Jerry Clements, R. S. Rodgers, E. L. Reed, Joe Wilson, Stevens, and Calvin Henderson.

The members of the Anoliwaki Camp Fire group were entertained with a surprise Hallowe'en party given by Mrs. H. D. Phillips.

Those attending the affair were Irene James, Katherine Bell, Kathleen James, Mary Margaret Carter, Regina Merle, Earnestine Sumner, Joan Johnson, Dorothy Skelton, Billie Macha, Ruthanna Jackson, Newma Mae Roberts, Pauline Phillips, Mrs. Mike Barrier, and Mrs. Bell.

Believe It Or Not -

NOBEL PRIZE WINNER LAUDED

Peace Goal Is Not Impossible

By THOMAS L. STOKES
Special Correspondent

WASHINGTON—True greatness of mind and soul can be felt instinctively. It is rare, to be sure.

It is sensed in the presence of the towering Scotsman we used to know around here as Sir John Boyd Orr, now Lord Boyd Orr, who has been awarded the Nobel peace prize for 1949 for his courageous pioneer work to solve the world's food problem and for his equally courageous leadership in the growing movement for World Federal government.

STOKES

It is only occasionally in a long and varied life of meeting many people that a reporter encounters such a spirit, and it is only occasionally that he gets the inspiration that came from listening to Sir John as he thought out loud about the fundamental problem of food for the people of the world, and all it can mean if we will only solve it.

Food Basic Problem

Simply, yet fascinatingly and vividly, he made it the most important single task before the world, as it is, and he had a way of saying that if the world could not solve this basic problem of making it possible for everybody to have enough to eat every day, then it is a hopeless outlook for the human race.

By the same token, as he has said many times, if the world can solve this fundamental difficulty, then it can go on to solve other problems and so save itself, its people and its civilization. As first head of the United Nations Food and Agricultural organization, he left a monument to himself in that now active and effective organization. Likewise he is building another monument in his work for world federal government to which he now devotes himself and for which he will use the proceeds of the Nobel prize. A few weeks ago he presided over the Congress of World Federalist organizations at Stockholm.

BY recognizing his endeavors in this field, the Nobel prize committee has pointed dramatically to this only sure and certain road to world peace, and has given an impetus to the world federal government movement.

When you hear the rugged Scotsman talk about the problems of food and of world federation you become confident that both can be solved, that these are not idle dreams. For there is nothing of the theorist about him. He possesses that fine combination of common sense and vision of one who has come up from the soil and has devoted his life to the problems of agriculture and nutrition, in which he is a scientist, and, at the same time, he is a practical sort of philosopher who instills trust by his warm, human approach, and by a penetrating wit that quickly recognizes the foibles of human beings. As, for example, when he said:

"I can get farmers interested in the nutrition of their animals because I can prove it returns dividends in hard cash. But I cannot get them interested in the nutrition of their own bairns, far less in the bairns of other folks. Think, man, the dividends that can pay in human well-being, in lives fulfilled—aye, and in hard cash."

Must Have Co-Operation

He is fully aware of the ways of men and nations, of how they raise barriers against one another that hinder development and distribution of resources, including food, and aware, too, that it is the resulting poverty and hunger that cause people to revolt against their condition and cause wars.

"If," he says, "the governments of the world would begin to co-operate to develop the resources of the world, that would be the first step toward world unity and peace."

AS a practical man he believes this is possible, as he has demonstrated by taking up in his advanced years—he is now 69—the cause of world federal government. When he was director of FAO he gave up his British citizenship and became a citizen of the world so that he might have no ties or restraints, just as a much younger man, Garry Davis, who is also promoting the cause of world citizenship in Paris, gave up his American citizenship.

These, the young man and the older man, are the really practical persons in the world today. Their objectives are based in plain common sense, if the politicians and diplomats would only come down out of the clouds of obsolete tradition and listen to them.

It is good that the Nobel prize has brought the staunch Scotsman into our ken again.

To remove chewing gum from rayon fabrics, hold a piece of ice directly under the stuck-to part. This freezes the gum which can then be picked off easily. Then sponge with cleaning fluid.

Broadcast: October 15, 1949

½ cup Pet Milk
1 envelope unflavored gelatin
½ cup cold water
½ cup canned peach juice
2 tablespoons sugar
¼ teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon grated lemon rind
16 marshmallows, halved
1 slightly beaten egg
2 tablespoons lemon juice
1½ cups canned, sliced cling peaches, drained

Chill milk until ice cold. Soften gelatin in cold water. Mix peach juice, sugar, salt and lemon rind. Add marshmallows. Cook and stir over very low heat until marshmallows are just melted, about 3 min. Stir in softened gelatin. Then stir into beaten egg. Add 1 tablesp. lemon juice and 1 cup peaches. Chill until slightly thicker than unbeaten egg whites. Whip chilled milk with cold rotary beater, or electric beater at high speed until fluffy. Add remaining 1 tablesp. lemon juice; whip stiff. Fold into peach mixture. Put into cold 9-in. baked pastry shell. Garnish with rest of peach slices. Chill until firm.

LITTLE CHANGE REPORTED IN TEXAS KEY POINTS

Rent Bill For Nation Goes Up Slightly As Effect Of Wide Decontrols Are Felt, Survey Discloses

(By The Associated Press)

Lifting of rent controls in more than 500 areas across the nation did not result in wholesale rent increases.

This finding was made by the Associated Press after a survey of key spots to learn just how landlords reacted once the ceilings were taken off.

Lifting of controls, put into effect during wartime, began last April 1.

If all key decontrolled areas were taken as a whole, however, the survey indicated, their aggregate rent bill went up a little.

Landlord reaction to decontrol was spotty. One major factor in the overall rent picture was the amount of vacancies available.

Some Tenants Moved

Some landlords raised rents but had to cut them again when their tenants moved out. Also, some landlords are still bound by leases issued in the period before decontrol.

In seven of the more than 30 areas surveyed, no more than a scattering of rent increases were reported. There were even a few cuts, mostly in higher rental units.

In five other key areas rent increases were reported as fairly general. They ranged up to 25 per cent, with a few isolated higher boosts. Enid, Okla., reported some few boosts as high as 200 per cent.

Increases were scattered rather than general in most other places.

At Omaha, Mayor Glen Cunningham has asked Gov. Val Peterson to call a special legislative session to reconsider a state law decontrolling rents effective Nov. 1. The mayor claimed some Omaha landlords are trying to hike rents as much as 100 per cent.

Some Areas Show Hike

The survey indicated that rent increases were fairly general, at least in low priced units, at Duncan and Enid, Okla.; Salem and Eugene, Ore.; Amarillo, Texas, Salt Lake City, Utah, and Wabash, Ind.

There were no reports of a trend toward increases in Boise and Nampa, Idaho, Newport Beach-Balboa Harbor, Calif.; Daytona Beach, Fla., Chattanooga, Tenn.; Gulfport, Miss., and Hobbs, N. M.

The Associated Press survey showed these conditions in key centers:

Miami Beach, Fla.—Rents skyrocketed immediately after decontrol. But year-round residents began streaming to Miami, sister city across Biscayne Bay, where rental property is plentiful. Miami Beach landlords then cut their rents. The trend in rents is downward.

Topeka, Kans.—No general rent boosts reported. Property owners' representatives say most increases—some as high as 100 per cent—aimed at ejecting undesirable tenants. Deactivation of Air Force base here coincided with lifting of rent ceilings.

Rent Boosts Small

Salt Lake City—Rent boosts generally have been 10 per cent or less.

Medford, Ore.—Property owners representatives say rentals in only 10 to 15 per cent of the city's units have been raised.

Austin, Texas—State Real Estate commission says rents unchanged in 95 per cent of the cases in the Austin area. Some reports of increases. Completion of 8,500 new units in Austin eased the housing shortage.

Muskogee and Shawnee, Okla.—Rents generally maintained same levels.

Duncan, Okla. — One rental agency estimates rental of its units increased average of 30 per cent. Largest single apartment project ordered boosts of 10 to 20 per cent. Many landlords who raised rents were reported improving their property.

Norman, Okla. — Some lower renting properties been hiked 25 to 30 per cent. Some high rents down as much as 20 per cent.

Ponca City, Okla.—Real estate men estimate many rental units are now 20 to 25 per cent higher. However, many other landlords have not raised rents. Some landlords reportedly doubled their rents to get rid of undesirable tenants and then lowered them.

Enid, Okla.—Enid real estate board, promoter of decontrol, places average rent increase at 10 to 15 per cent with a few 100 to 200 per cent boosts. The rental market has eased, with more apartments available.

Meridian, Miss.—One realtor said decontrol had caused numerous movings among families who were given drastic rent increases.

Bangor, Me.—A spokesman for the Bangor board of realtors said some rents have been raised slightly.

Charlotte, N. C.—Scattered increases averaging five per cent were reported.

Washington, D. C.—Dr. L. H. Swindell, mayor, reported lifting of rent ceilings has had "no effect, either way."

Yakima, Wash.—The Yakima Fair Rents committee reported 11 written tenant complaints on boosts ranging from 20 to 30 per cent.

Aberdeen, S. D.—The local rent advisory board says it has more than 50 written complaints and "hundreds" of telephone complaints.

The board said the average boost on the complaints was 42 per cent.

Gainesville, Ga.—Localized rent boosts from 15 to 300 per cent immediately followed lifting of controls Aug. 5.

Upstate New York—Five areas were decontrolled but there are very few reports of increases.

Four Tech Officials Tour Texas Schools

Four members of the Texas Technological college science faculty are touring Texas colleges and universities this week gathering data for use in construction of a proposed science building on the Tech campus it was revealed Monday.

Preliminary plans for the building are expected to be discussed in a meeting of the Board of directors not later than Dec. 10, Frank Junell, assistant to the president, said.

The faculty members making the inspection tour are visiting Southern Methodist, Baylor, Texas A. & M., and several other campuses over the state. Object of the tour is to find the most practicable way of constructing a science building.

Making the tour are Professors C. C. Schmidt of the physics department, R. A. Studhalter, botany; J. Q. Sealy, biology; and Ralph Bond, geology.

Dr. Jones Is Named To Group To Explain Amendment Plan

Dr. E. N. Jones, vice president of Texas Technological college, has accepted membership on a statewide Citizen's committee to explain a proposed amendment to the state constitution regarding the mentally ill, it was announced Monday.

Appointed by the governor, it will be the committee's job to inform the public before the Nov. 8 constitutional balloting of the amendment's meaning, Dr. Jones said.

The proposed amendment would permit the mentally ill to be committed voluntarily by their family to state hospitals without the necessity for jury trial, the vice president said.

Such action would permit the avoidance of lunacy trials, which have been proved medically unsound, Dr. Jones said. Texas is the last remaining state to have a law requiring trials in all cases, he declared.

20 Tech Students Get Dunlap Scholarships

Names of 20 students of Texas Technological college who have been chosen for the annual Dunlap scholarships this year have been announced by college officials.

Consisting of $50 each semester of one year, the scholarships were awarded by the Dunlap department store chain to graduates of Lubbock and eight surrounding county schools.

The fifth year of the awards, this fall's scholarships will not be given until each student shows a 2.00 average on his semester's college work. Sixty-seven students from 38 schools in the area were given three objective tests this summer and the winners selected by specialists who graded them, college officials said.

Widely Known Pianist To Play Here Tonight

Jacques Abram, internationally known pianist, will appear in concert at 8 p.m. tonight at the Lubbock High school auditorium as the first of eight Texas Tech artist course productions this year.

Admission to the concert will be $1.80 for adults and $1.50 for children. Season tickets to the productions are $7.50, R. A. Mills, head of the artist course, said.

Abram is a native Texan, born in Lufkin and later living in Houston. He was the winner in 1938 of the coveted National Federation of Music award, appearing for the first time in Carnegie hall that year.

He served in the Army during the war and has since made tours of the United States, Europe, Canada, Mexico and South America. He has also played with both the National and American broadcasting company Symphony orchestras.

Federal Workers To Hold Meeting Here

A meeting of federal employes in the Lubbock area will be held at 7:30 p. m. today in the district court room of the Lubbock county Court house.

They will hear a report on the latest developments in Washington on federal salary legislation which will soon go to the Senate for action.

At the meeting, also, the Lubbock Air Force local of the National Federation of Federal Employes will be reorganized.

In urging all federal employes in the Lubbock area to attend tonight's meeting, the following statement was made by L. M. Walker, N. F. F. E. representative:

"The House of Representatives Monday afternoon adopted the conference report which had been agreed to on Saturday, Oct. 15. The measure now goes to the Senate and if finally approved and signed by the President, would bring a salary increase of slightly above $100 per annum to approximately 800 federal employes in the Lubbock area."

Walker will make the report to the assembled group on the latest developments on salary legislation.

Two Persons Injured Slightly In Lubbock Traffic Accidents

Two persons were given emergency treatment at Lubbock hospitals Monday for minor injuries suffered in traffic accidents during the day.

Mrs. Henry P. Aufill of 2819 Thirty-fourth was taken by McDonald ambulance to a hospital for treatment of bruises, after cars driven by her husband and Katherine B. Harris, of 1204 Twenty-third were in collision at Nineteenth and Ave. T.

Each driver was given a ticket charging a traffic offense, City Patrolman H. A. Cunningham said: Aufill with cutting a corner in making a left turn, Miss Harris with negligent collision by failing to yield the right of way.

Rebecca Shaw, 1 year old, was taken to West Texas hospital for examination of a head injury suffered when another car backed into one driven by Mrs. C. O. Griffin of Littlefield on Texas Tech campus, police said. The child was in Mrs. Griffin's car.

Wall Street

MARKET SUFFERS SETBACK

NEW YORK, Oct. 17 (AP)— In its sharpest set-back in a month, the Stock market today lost fractions to more than 2 points.

The reversal was not one of major proportions, however, and did not come as an unexpected development to Wall street.

With the market around its highest point of the year, there has been steady profit taking for several days. Today there was a little more than usual, brokers said, and that helped along the drop.

Prices were down right from the beginning of the market.

Rails were the hardest hit of the major groups. Before the day ended, they had come back part way but ended off fractions to more than 2 points.

The radio-television issues bounced around considerably. At one time losses here ran more than a point. They were the first to short in recovery and finished with fractional losses and similar gains.

Oils backed and filled without concerted direction as a group. The close found them all down but with the most extended losses partially recovered.

Strikes and the unsettlement of business coming in their wake continued to be the chief cause for Wall Street caution.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks listed .7 of a point at 66.5, with the industrial component off .9, rails off .6 and utilities down .1 of a point.

The average went down more sharply at any time since Sept. 20 when there was a break after devaluation of the British pound sterling and the start of the coal strike.

Of 1,071 issues traded, 754 declined and only 137 advanced. The number of new highs made during the day was lower than usual—only 23— and the number of lows for the year expanded to 5.

Some of the wider losses and closing prices follow: Youngstown Sheet & Tube off 1⅝ at 66⅝, General Motors 1⅛ at 63½, Allied Chemical 2 at 187½, International Paper 1¼ at 61¾, American Tobacco 1½ at 72, Nickel Plate 2⅜ at 81¾, Du Pont ⅞ at 83⅛, Anaconda ⅝ at 27½, Santa Fe ⅞ at 97½, Southern Pacific ⅝ at 43½, Lion Oil ⅞ at 31¾, and United Air Lines ⅝ at 13¼.

Others lower included U. S. Steel, Bethlehem Steel, Chrysler, Goodyear, Sears Roebuck, Douglas Aircraft, Admiral Corp., Philco, Motorola, Ohio Edison, American Smelting, Homestake Mining, Union Carbide, American Can, Philip Morris, Southern Railway, Standard Oil (NJ), Paramount (Old), and Celotex.

Emerson Radio and Phonograph, the day's most active issue, gained ½ at 18, and Magnavox, second most active, also gained ½ at 11.

Pacific Mills lost 2¾ at 38 after directors declared a dividend of 50 cents for the fourth quarter as against $1 previously paid.

The curb market was moderately active.

The bond market went irregularly lower with top losses running about a point.

Corn No. 2 white; Texas only 1.51½-55½.

Sorghums No. 2 yellow milo, per 100 lbs. 2.20-25.

Daily replacement of worn-out currency in the United States is approximately $10,000,000.

Cotton

NEW YORK REPORT

NEW YORK, Oct. 17 (AP) — Cotton futures were lower today under moderate pressure of local selling and hedging. New crop deliveries held steady in early dealings on the belief that Congress will eventually adopt 90 per cent of parity loans on basic 1950 crops. Offerings were absorbed principally through mill buying.

The American Cotton Shippers association reported that Japan had entered the market for 50,000 to 60,000 bales of United States cotton for November through January shipment, with prices to be based on the May, 1950, futures.

Hedging pressure was associated with the peak harvesting period for the 1949 cotton crop.

Cotton closed steady:

Two Are Hospitalized After Butane Blast

Wiley W. Roberts, 41, and his son, Leon, 9, remained in St. Mary's hospital last night as the result of burns suffered in an early Monday butane explosion at their farm home seven miles north of Lorenzo.

Mrs. Roberts and a daughter, Glenda Sue, 5, were released from the hospital after emergency treatment for minor burns. Condition of the elder Roberts, who suffered third degree burns over the body, was described as "still serious."

The explosion occurred when Leon, who was sleeping on a pallet on the floor accidentally kicked open a gas jet.

"The blast awakened my husband and me," Mrs. Roberts said, "and to our horror we saw flames enveloping the sleeping togs and bedding of Leon." Roberts was burned while rescuing the boy.

The family was taken in a Marr Funeral home ambulance from Ralls to St. Mary's hospital here.

Attendants said Roberts will not be able to walk for three or four months because of severe burns on the soles of his feet. His son suffered third degree burns on his ankles and lesser burns on various parts of his body. Damage to the four-room frame house was slight.

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN That by virtue of a certain execution issued out of the Honorable 99th District Court of Lubbock County, on the 22nd day of September, 1949, by Royal Purgeson, Clerk of said 99th District Court for the sum of Six Hundred Forty-three and 91/100 ($643.91) Dollars and costs of suit, under a judgment, in favor of U. S. Airconditioning Corp. vs. E. H. Edwards and J. M. Edwards, placed in my hands for service, I, Grady Harrist as Sheriff of Lubbock County, Texas, did, on the 23rd day of September, 1949, levy on certain Real Estate, situated in Lubbock County, Texas, described as follows, to-wit: The South one-half (S½) of Lot Seven (7) and all of Lot Eight (8), Block 200, Original Town to Lubbock, Lubbock County, Texas, and levied upon as the property of E. H. Edwards and that on the first Tuesday in November, 1949, the same being the 1st day of said month, at the Court House door of Lubbock County, in the City of Lubbock, Texas, between the hours of 10 A.M. and 4 P.M., by virtue of said levy and said execution I will sell said above described Real Estate at public vendue, for cash, to the highest bidder, as the property of said E. H. Edwards.

And in compliance with law, I give this notice by publication, in the English language, once a week for three consecutive weeks immediately preceding said day of sale, in the Avalanche-Journal, a newspaper published in Lubbock County.

Witness my hand, this 4th day of October, 1949.

REDS DRAIN NATION'S ECONOMY

Russia Takes Firm Grip Upon Austria's Oil, Key Factories

BY SEYMOUR BERKSON
General Manager, INS

VIENNA, Oct. 17. — Soviet Russia has taken a firm grip on the oil resources and key factories of eastern Austria and seems determined to drain the Austrian economy of its productivity by shipping as much as possible to the USSR and its satellites.

On the other hand, in western Austria, the United States has taken the principal enterprises under a benevolent trusteeship whereby Austrians operate them; a portion of profits can go back into the enterprises for improvements, but the balance of profits is held in a blocked account for future disposition after the Austrian independence treaty is signed.

Policies Are Contrasted

Those are the broad highlights of the contrasting occupation policies of Russia and the United States as outlined to me in an exclusive interview with Lt. Gen. Geoffrey Keyes, U. S. high commissioner for Austria.

Keyes pointed out that the Russians claim they have a legal right under the Potsdam agreement to take any or all the resources of eastern Austria "lock, stock, and barrel."

From the rich Zistersdorf oilfields, Russia has been shipping oil not only to the USSR but to her satellite, Czechoslovakia, as well.

As a result, Keyes said, Austria has had to import oil products during the past four years, although she would normally be able to supply her own needs if permitted to use her own petroleum resources in the Soviet zone.

Oil Used For Bargaining

Russia does allow a small quantity of oil to filter into the Austrian economy. But even this she controls rigidly — opening and closing the flow to suit her own bargaining purposes when she wants to force Austria to supply certain raw materials for the Soviet controlled factories in the east.

In addition to the fields actually in production, Russia has been claiming 60 per cent of the exploratory fields for future oil production. When the USSR drew the boundaries for this it was discovered that it was 60 per cent of the general area but by clever manipulation included virtually 100 per cent of the most promising fields.

On the surface, the four power occupation of Austria presents a much more calm facade than that of neighboring Germany.

Central Government Stable

This is explained by Keyes as partially due to the stable central government that has been established during the past four years.

But the veteran general — a wily strategist himself, fully familiar with the unpredictability of the Russians — attributes the present calm in even larger measure to the Soviets themselves. He said candidly:

"We don't know from day to day what their policy is going to be or why they behave the way they do.

"Austria could have been turned into another Germany, split into two parts, if the Russians were determined to have it that way; Vienna could have become another Berlin, blockade and all. But the Russians for reasons of their own chose not to have it that way here."

Coming as I had from Frankfurt and Berlin in a few hours flying time, the contrast was amazing. Although the presence of troops of the four occupying powers — U.S.A., Britain, USSR, and France — is visible everywhere in Vienna, there is little or no tension in the atmosphere.

The Austrian capital itself is criss-crossed into Russian, American, British and French "sectors" with their respective banners, insignia, and military staff cars — but somehow the Austrians go about their daily business unmindul of all this.

Life seems much more normal than it does in Frankfurt or Berlin. The people look more cheerful, the shops brighter, and over all the spirit of Viennese gaiety seems to have been rekindled.

The Austrian capital is still pockmarked with the ruins of many buildings wholly or partly destroyed by the air raids of World War II — but not as badly as Berlin or Frankfurt. And the Austrians have managed in some places to perform miracles of reconstruction especially of their damaged national monuments; and in others, they have devised artistic ways of camouflaging the bomb damage by attractive new facades.

If the average Austrian is terrified of having the Russians around, he does not show it in Vienna as he goes about his daily tasks. When he grumbles about the occupation, he usually excludes the Americans — and judging by the Austrians I've seen here they would like all the occupying powers to go home, except the Americans.

They seem to like the Americans for many reasons — not the least of which is that the U. S. Army and civilian personnel in Austria represents the equivalent of 10,000 year-round tourists, all of whom are paying their own expenses in American dollars.

Services Slated For Official Of Dallas Internal Revenue Office

DALLAS, Oct. 17. (AP)—Cam L. Fannin, chief of the income tax division in the office of the collector of internal revenue here, was to be buried today in Marlin, Texas.

Fannin died Saturday.

As a field deputy collector he was stationed at Big Spring and Abilene.

HIZZONER THE MAYOR: O'DONNELL — R. O. Stark has been mayor of O'Donnell for seven years following a long tenure as city councilman. Now retired Stark put in 33 years with the Santa Fe railroad—23 in O'Donnell as agent. Mayor Stark was born at Mapleton, Kansas, Nov. 16, 1891. He obtained his schooling in Kansas and at the old Simmons College, Abilene. Stark came to Texas in 1892 and to O'Donnell in 1925. He married Helen Mae McGehee at Lockney, Aug. 12, 1922. The Starks have no children. The mayor's hobby is cross-word puzzles. He estimates the population of O'Donnell to be 2,500 and heads a five-man council. (Staff Photo by Edward Welsh.)

Taft Declares U. S. Must Draw Line On Federal Expansion

NEW YORK, Oct. 17 (INS) — Sen. Taft (R-Ohio) warned today "we are close to the line where government expansion must stop, or our free enterprise system is lost."

The twin threats to the existence of free enterprise, the Senate Republican leader declared, are "excessive taxation" and regulation.

In an article in the current issue of Collier's magazine, Taft asserted:

"Economic freedom is only one feature of that over-all liberty which permits people to live as they wish to live, which guarantees to them freedom of thought, of speech and of religion.

"But it is an essential feature. If we lose it, we are likely to lose other freedoms."

Taft recited what he described as a "long list of justifiable regulations," among them the Sherman Anti-Trust act, Federal Trade Commission act, and laws setting up the Securities and Exchange commission and Federal Communications commission.

But he added:

"Unfortunately, the New Deal philosophy of the last 15 years has resulted in the drafting of laws with vague and indefinite powers which can be and frequently are abused."

And along with regulations which are justifiable, Taft continued, other powers have been sought which would end economic freedom. The senator asserted:

"The President has continuously demanded the power to reimpose price controls, wage controls, allocation controls. Through the appointment of the steel board, he has tried to impose a wage fixing on industry.

"Free enterprise cannot survive government regulation in the form of production control, allocation control, price fixing and wage fixing. Too much regulation not only stifles operations, but chokes off the enthusiasm of those who want to start businesses of their own."
