NEARING COMPLETION — With the cold weather that we have been having, construction of the vocational education building has been slow for the last month or so, but it is beginning to pick up again. If all goes well, the roof will be put on today and the whole building will be completed by April. Officials hope Old Man Winter will leave us for awhile and let the construction go on as scheduled.

AGAINST OSORIO

Astronauts Called To Give Testimony For Fraud Case

AMARILLO, Tex. (AP) — Six American astronauts waited in the wings to testify today as the government pursued its conspiracy-embellishment case against John Osorio.

Osorio, 50, former state insurance commissioner, is being tried in U.S. District Court on charges growing from the far-flung Texas stock fraud scandal.

He is accused in a scheme that the government says involved a $641,250 stock purchase with money questionably collateralized through the retirement fund of National Bankers Life Insurance Co.

Osorio once was president of the company, owned by Houston financier Frank Sharp, the target in a Securities and Exchange Commission investigation that uncovered the scandal.

The stock involved here was purchased originally in the names of five Apollo astronauts, all veteran spacemen who subsequently refused to accept the securities.

Among a large number of witnesses sworn in Monday were astronauts James Lovell, Alan Bean, Richard Gordon, Fred Haise, Charles Conrad and Thomas Mattingly.

The six waited outside the courtroom Monday as prosecutors opened their case with testimony from three former members of Ling & Co., Inc., a Dallas stock brokerage firm.

William Strange, Phillip Proctor and Bobby Spurlock devoted most of their testimony to the mood and mechanics surrounding the purchase by Ling of 22,500 shares of NBL stock during the 1969-1970 period in question.

Names of Sharp and a former Ling official, John Quincy Adams, came up frequently, but prosecutors told the court neither will be called to testify.

Outside the courtroom, Osorio's chief lawyer, Emmett Calvin Jr. of Dallas, said, "They cannot rely on him (Sharp). They are afraid of Sharp. That's why they don't have him up here."

Of Adams, Calvin said, "He apparently doesn't remember much about this (SEC hearings)."

When someone said, "That's convenient," he replied, "You said that, not me."

As the first day's session ended, Spurlock was the state identifying Ling records indicating the NBL retirement fund purchased the NBL stock for $641,250 after the sale to the astronauts fell through.

Among the things prosecutors said they intend to prove is that the pension funds were used illegally to buy the stock and that the retirement plan lost $28,000 in interest and a subsequent $56,000 through manipulation of Master Control, Inc. stock, a spinoff of NBL.

The indictment against Osorio also names Sam Stock of Dallas and Donald Atkins of Gilbertsonville, Ky., both former officials of the insurance company.

Each pleaded guilty to a single criminal allegation in their indictment and will be sentenced sometime after the end of the Osorio trial.

Atkins at the time was executive vice president of NBL and president of Dallas Bank & Trust Co., which prosecutors contend was controlled by Osorio and the source of the loan by which the NBL pension plan purchased the NBL stock.

Gregory had testified earlier that he was at the campaign headquarters of Democrats Edmund S. Muskie and George McGovern during the Democratic presidential primary campaign to gather intelligence for the Republicans.

Alch asked Gregory if he were working in the McGovern headquarters at the time a bomb was exploded in the Pentagon last May and when demonstrations and violence erupted in Washington, Gregory replied, "I don't know."

He gave a similar reply when asked if he was at McGovern's headquarters last May during demonstrations on Capitol Hill, DuPont Circle and at Andrews Air Force Base in nearby Maryland.

Gregory also said that, during a time he was helping process McGovern campaign contributions, he did not recall seeing any from the Vietnam Veterans Against the War and that "I am not sure" there were any from the National Peace Action Coalition.

Gregory said, however, the envelopes were coded according to the mailing list from which they were drawn and that some of those bore the code of the liberal Americans for Democratic Action.

Gregory testified that, as a Brigham Young University student and former Mormon missionary to Brazil, he was influenced to take a spying assignment by a $475 salary promised him by E. Howard Hunt Jr., former White House consultant who pleaded guilty last week at the trial.

Peter Maroulis, attorney for G. Gordon Liddy, former counsel to Nixon's campaign finance committee and with McCord, the only other remaining Watergate defendants, sought to discredit Gregory's identification of Liddy as one of the men who planned an attempt to plant electronic bugs at the McGovern headquarters.

However, Alch began his cross examination by saying, "I accept as truth whatever you say you saw and heard."

Attorney Seeks Need For Spies

WASHINGTON (AP) — A defense attorney in the Watergate political espionage trial sought to convince the jury today of the necessity of Republicans planting a spy among Democratic presidential candidates last year.

Gerald Alch, attorney for James W. McCord Jr., former security chief for President Nixon's re-election campaign, questioned key prosecution witness Thomas Gregory extensively about antiwar demonstrations during the spring of 1972.

Gregory had testified earlier that he was at the campaign headquarters of Democrats Edmund S. Muskie and George McGovern during the Democratic presidential primary campaign to gather intelligence for the Republicans.

Alch asked Gregory if he were working in the McGovern headquarters at the time a bomb was exploded in the Pentagon last May and when demonstrations and violence erupted in Washington, Gregory replied, "I don't know."

SAIGON (AP) — A cease-fire will be declared by the United States and South Vietnam on the eve of President Nixon's inauguration Saturday to pave the way toward signing of a peace agreement to end the Indochina war, South Vietnamese sources said tonight.

Nixon was said to have advised President Nguyen Van Thieu that an international agreement has been reached to preclude further hostilities by North Vietnam, and to have told Thieu to "trust in me."

At the Florida White House, administration spokesmen had no comment on the report. "There will be a great number of these reports. We are not going to have comment. We are not going to discuss the subject," Deputy press secretary Neal Ball said.

The unilateral cease-fire would be designed to set the stage for an exchange of prisoners and for the signing by the foreign ministers of the United States, North Vietnam, South Vietnam and the Viet Cong of the peace settlement drafted at Paris, the informants said.

There was no clear understanding of whether Hanoi and the Viet Cong had agreed to the allied cease-fire. However, the sources, who have had access to discussions by Thieu and other top-level South Vietnamese leaders of the last est draft proposal, said concessions had been made by both sides on essential issues blocking the peace treaty.

These reports came after Gen. Alexander M. Haig Jr. conferred for 2½ hours with Thieu on the draft proposal worked out by Henry A. Kissinger and Hanoi's Le Duc Tho in Paris.

The sources said that some "ambiguous points" of the peace agreement will remain to be settled following the cease-fire and before the pact can be signed. They added it was hoped this could be accomplished before the end of January.

The informants went on to say that the Saigon government may have reservations about the final draft agreement, but that it was recognized that with Nixon applying pressure for a settlement and Congress threatening to cut off aid, Thieu is faced with no choice but to go along.

Nixon's reported allusion to an international arrangement to guarantee peace was said by the sources to have been contained in a letter to Thieu, delivered either by U.S. Ambassador Ellsworth Bunker last week or by Haig, Nixon's special emissary.

According to the sources, the letter urged Thieu not to worry about the terms of the peace settlement because of the arrangement which would assure that any fresh effort by North Vietnam to start another war after a peace agreement would get nowhere.

There were no details given on the agreement to which the letter supposedly referred, but one South Vietnamese official said:

"Both sides are under pressure. We are under pressure from the United States."

Official sources said North Vietnam and the United States had agreed on the size of an international force to supervise the cease-fire. South Vietnamese sources said the new draft still left unresolved such basic Saigon demands as the withdrawal of all North Vietnamese troops from South Vietnam and restoration of the demilitarized zone between the North and South. But progress toward agreement was reported on those also.

Briscoe, Hobby Take Over Jobs

AUSTIN (AP) — Texas got a new governor and lieutenant governor today, each dedicated to reform in government and a bigger say in running the state for all voters.

Gov. Dolph Briscoe and Lt. Gov. Billy Hobby, both Democrats taking statewide offices for the first time, were sworn in shortly after noon by Chief Justice Joe Greenhill of the Texas Supreme Court.

With God's help I shall do my best to serve you to the utmost of my ability," Briscoe said shortly after taking the oath with one hand on an antique Bible used in 41 gubernatorial inaugurations.

Briscoe immediately repeated his pledge given during the long spring and summer campaigns that he would fight any new taxes this year.

"It is my firm belief that our present tax resources are sufficient to operate an effective, efficient government that meets its responsibilities without choking the initiative out of the working people and the businesses of Texas by constantly demanding more and more taxes. Our goal will be no new taxes in 1973," Briscoe said.

High Total Expected In MOD Campaign

The preliminary total garnered in the Mothers' March for the March of Dimes last night is $3,708,631.

Officials of the Gray County Chapter, National Foundation March of Dimes, expect it to go considerably higher. Many of the women had not reported to their chairmen at press time today.

Almost 4,000 mothers canvassed Pampa homes by school districts Monday evening, showing their credentials and receiving the financial expressions of the concern of Pampa citizens for those stricken with polio, myelitis and birth defects.

In addition to the unreported funds, it is believed that many homes in the city were not reached despite the impressive task force that turned out for the March.

Hobby, who today announced he is taking a leave as president of the Houston Post, was sworn in first and used the opportunity in his brief address to push for constitutional revision, a key issue of his campaign. He compared the current legislature with the delegates to Philadelphia almost 200 years ago when the U.S. Constitution was written.

"The citizens of Texas have directed the men and women seated here on this platform to perform a similar task," Hobby said. "For like those delegates who met in Philadelphia, these men and women represent a region larger and more diverse in its history, geography and people than most nations of the world."

"Our forefathers found solutions appropriate to their times. We shall find solutions appropriate to ours, and our children will find solutions appropriate to theirs," Hobby said.

The new governor said his inaugural address would cover only "certain basic principles of performance" while his first speech to the legislature Wednesday would lay out specific goals of his administration.

Too the First National Bank of Pampa has agreed to be a steward of funds for the March of Dimes for those not reached by the Mothers' March. Those wishing to contribute to the fight against polio and birth defects through research and treatment may take their gifts to the bank and note that they are for the current campaign.

The next step in this annual fight will be the Buckle Brigade on Saturday. Members of Pampa's civic clubs will be stationed at strategic intersections throughout the city to gather additional help.

Those civic clubs and local organizations wishing a program on the work of the National Foundation, March of Dimes, can obtain material from Al Bassett at the Pampa News, phone 669-2525.

Jury For Corona Trial

Deadlocked, Tries Again

FAIRFIELD, Calif. (AP) — The jury in the Juan Corona mass murder trial has reported an 8-4 deadlock, but the panel has been ordered to continue trying to reach a verdict.

Judge Richard E. Patton instructed the jurors on Monday not to reveal whether the majority favors conviction or acquittal for Corona, who is charged with the slayings of 25 men.

After 28 hours of jury deliberations in four days, jury foreman Ernest Phillips told the court, "We have reached what appears to be an impasse. We cannot decide one way or the other about the guilt or innocence."

Patton ordered the jurors in the 14-week trial to continue their efforts and not to report back before noon today.

Corona, 38, was expressionless as the announcement was made in a makeshift courtroom at the state medical facility in Vacaville, where he has been recuperating from heart trouble since Friday night. Because he was considered too ill to be moved to the Fairfield courtroom, the judge ordered the jury bused eight miles to the Vacaville facility to make the announcement. It was the first the jury knew of Corona's illness.

Corona, a Mexican citizen and a farm labor contractor, is charged with murdering 25 farm workers and drifters whose hacked and stabbed bodies were unearthed in a peach orchard north of Yuba City in the spring of 1971. It is the largest single mass murder charge in U.S. history.

Patton urged the jury not to "sacrifice your honest convictions" simply because they may be opposed to the majority. "Do not violate your individual judgment."

Prosecutor G. Dave Teja said in case of a hung jury, a second trial would be automatic.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Harold E. Hughes, protesting lack of information on the Vietnam war, says he will try to block until Inauguration Day the Senate confirmation of President Nixon's nominees to top intelligence and defense positions.

In addition, Hughes called for public hearings before the Senate Armed Services Committee on the financial holdings of Elliot L. Richardson and William P. Clements Jr.

Richardson, now secretary of health, education and welfare, has been nominated to succeed

Melvin R. Laird as secretary of defense on Jan. 20. Clements, a Dallas oil-drilling contractor, has been named deputy secretary of defense.

Chairman John C. Stennis, holding out for private examination of the nominees' financial holdings, said he hoped to bring the nominations to a committee vote today.

Meanwhile, three other Nixon nominations were approved by the Senate Commerce Committee Monday's action clears the way for Senate votes on Claude S. Brinegar, named transportation secretary, Egil

Henry To Stay

KEY BISCAYNE, Fla. (AP) — The Florida White House said today Henry A. Kissinger will not return to the Paris peace talks before next week — and perhaps not then.

Press Secretary Ronald L. Ziegler also told newsmen that President Nixon will make no statement to the nation or Congress this week on the subject of the Vietnam negotiations.

However, Ziegler left open the possibility Nixon would have something to say about Vietnam in his televised inaugural address Saturday.

The White House spokesman was adamant in declining to comment on a report from Saigon in which South Vietnam sources said a cease-fire will be declared by the United States and South Vietnam on the eve of Nixon's inauguration.

Ziegler said, "We have an agreement with the other side not to discuss the substance of the negotiations and we're sticking by that agreement."

This was his response to virtually all questions on the subject of the search for a Vietnam accord.

Clements, founder and board chairman of Sedco, Inc., said he believes his holdings already are a matter of public record since he headed a public corporation.

Hughes, a member of the Senate Armed Services Committee, said his demand for financial disclosure by officials in sensitive positions is unrelated to his move to block confirmation as a protest against the war and the lack of explanation of the intense bombing last month.

Richardson told newsmen that he is willing to have public disclosure of his financial inventory, but that he has not known what it contained since a blind trust was established in

Hale-Carlos Vows Exchanged In Dallas

Miss Paula Lynn Hale of Dallas, became the bride of Johnny Carlos of Waco, Saturday, Dec. 23 at 4 p.m. in North Lake Baptist Church.

Parents of the bride are Mr. and Mrs. Donald Hale of Dallas, and the bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. A.B. Carlos, 204 N. Sumner, Pampa.

THE CEREMONY
Rev. Bill Nichols, interim pastor, officiated for the double-ring ceremony.

The organist played a medley of Christmas carols and as the bride entered the church, "Trumpet Processional" and the recessional "Trumpet Tune."

The altar was decorated with a center arrangement of two large candelabra entwined with ivy.

THE BRIDE

The bride, given in marriage by her father with the "her mother and I avowal," was attired in a Victorian styled formal gown of ecru lace designed with a high neckline, Empire waist, and long fitted sleeves, which were highlighted with scallops, lace and seed pearl trim. Her two-tiered waist-length mantilla was edged in lace and she carried a bouquet of white roses, centered with a white cymbidium orchid.

ATTENDANTS

Maid of honor was Cathy Hale, sister of the bride, and bridesmaids were Eva Jo Hale, Cathy Carlos, both of Pampa and Sharon Moss, Karen Ford and Debbie Wallace, all of Dallas. Their gowns were green velvet skirts with matching satin cummerbunds and ecru crepe. Victorian style blouses featuring cameo brooches at the collar, a gift of the bride. Their flowers were nosegays of feathered red and white carnations with holly and zyphiophilla. They wore holly in their hair.

Mark Finley, Dallas, served as best man and groomsmen were Don Conley, Borger, John Lawn, Bryan, David Ledyard, Paul Kneekley, all of Dallas, and Jim Cornutt of Pampa.

Chris Hale, brother of the bride, lighted the candles.

MOTHERS

The bride's mother wore a green crepe floor length gown, featuring a center front of beige, and the bridegroom's mother wore a hot pink velvet floor length gown with matching accessories. Each wore an orchid corsage.

RECEPTION

For the reception in the bride's home, the serving table was covered with an ecru linen cut-work cloth, centered with silver candelabra and white flowers. A silver punch bowl and three-tiered wedding cake, decorated with red roses and white wedding bells, completed the setting.

The couple traveled to New Orleans, La., for a wedding trip.

AFFILIATIONS

The bride attended Texas Tech University for three and

The four level transfer response to an opening no-trump bid was invented around 1951 by David Carter of St. Louis and independently by Ole Willner of Stockholm. Willner also extended it to the three level and Richard Troxel of Minneapolis extended it down to the two level.

In 1955 Oswald Jacoby took Troxel's idea, amplified it and developed the Jacoby transfer bids that are now in general expert use in every part of the world.

The basic principle of the Jacoby transfer is that a two-diamond response to a no-trump opening says nothing about diamonds, but guarantees that responder holds at least five hearts. In similar manner the two-heart response guarantees at least five spades.

Today's hand shows the Jacoby transfer at work. North's two-diamond bid tells South to bid hearts. North's rebid to three hearts invites a game contract and South is delighted to accept the invitation.

Four hearts makes easily and would also make if North were declarer, but the transfer bid gave North a chance to invite game. Without the transfer bid North would probably have contented himself with a two heart response and game might not have been reached.

(NEWSPAPER ENTERPRISE ASSN.)

CARD Sense

The bidding has been:

West	North	East	South
Pass	3 N.T.	Pass	3 ♥

You, South, hold:

♠ 2 ♥ A Q 8 7 5 ♦ A 12 ♣ K Q 7

What do you do now?

A—Pass. If the heart suit doesn't work, you won't make four hearts, but your partner might still be able to make nine tricks at no-trump.

TODAY'S QUESTION

You do pass. West doubles and North and East pass. What do you do now?

DEAR ABBY: I am pregnant for the first time and a neighbor of mine is trying to talk me into having my baby the "natural" way. She said she took this course at the "F" in her sixth month, and learned some breathing exercises and muscle control, and had her baby without taking even an aspirin. She said there was some pain, but not nearly as bad as she thought it would be. Also, her husband took the course, too, and he stayed with her during the labor and delivery, which made it a shared experience.

I am undecided as to whether to have my baby the natural way or not. My husband says I'm crazy to suffer any pain at all if I can avoid it, and I'm inclined to agree with him.

On the other hand, if your husband is right there and goes what you have to go thru, it might make him appreciate you more. Please be honest. My doctor says it's up to me. DEBBIE

DEAR DEBBIE: It is up to you to decide whether you want to give and bear it, or take an anesthetic. [The proponents of the "give and bear it" method swear by it.] As I see it, childbirth will be a truly "shared experience" only when a couple has twins—the wife giving birth to one and her husband giving birth to the other.

DEAR ABBY: All my life I have been worried about what other people think, but now that I've reached middle age, I have decided not to be bothered by those bugaboos, and I must say it's a great feeling.

I recently married for the third time. It all happened very fast, but I'm sure this time I've found the right man. Instead of seeing the conventional formal marriage announcements, we had our marriage license photographed

Plumber's Woes: Pipes And Gripes

By HAL BOYLE
NEW YORK (AP) — Remarks a plumber gets tired of hearing: "You plumbers are getting like doctors — you have to make house calls anymore."

"Sam Turnjoint, the only difference between you and Jesse James is that Jesse had to use a gun to get his."

"I've got an unemployed brother-in-law who is looking for an easy way to make a living. Sam. Could you put him on as a helper?"

"As your physician, Sam, I suggest we use a little common sense in our business relations. Remember, I can raise my fees too."

"Just because I flunked you out of high school your first year, Sam, you're not going to refuse to come and fix my leaky toilet, are you? Please Sam, your old teacher needs you. Can't we let bygones be bygones?"

"You say you want Sam, my son, the plumber? Can you call back later, please? He's in consultation now."

"Why is it you always forget some of your tools, but you never forget to send your bill?"

"Yeah, I'm a real old-timer. Sam. I can remember way back when I was young and plumbers made about a dollar an hour, and most of them had calluses all over their hands."

"Sam has been spending the winters in Florida so long he wouldn't know how to fix frozen pipes anymore."

"Yes, it's a real desirable neighborhood to move into. We've got three internists living here; a surgeon, a well-to-do undertaker, a banker, a retired admiral — and two plumbers. But don't get your hopes up too high. The plumbers won't accept emergency calls except at their offices."

"Hello, is this the plumber? A pipe in our kitchen has burst and the water on the floor is already six inches deep. When could I make an appointment with you?"

"Sam, as your wife you know I don't like to interfere in your business, but I think you're creating some resentment in your clients by driving up to their houses in your new limousine. Don't you think it would be more diplomatic to go back to the old station wagon?"

"Congratulations, Sam. You're the first plumber the bank has ever had on its board of directors."

"My mommy sent me here. Mr. Turnjoint. She says she knows you're far too busy to come yourself, but would you mind lending us a big wrench and we'll fix it ourselves?"

"I tell you I can't see you any more often, Sam. My neighbors are bound to suspect something if they see a plumber go into a house more than once a month. That never happens."

"Yes, my son has decided to become a plumber instead of a dentist. He can't stand the thought of staring into people's mouths all day. Besides, as a plumber he'll make more money and have shorter hours."

"Mississippi has the same plant as its state tree and state flower — the magnolia."

Moderation Watchword For Phase 3

By JOHN CUNIFF
AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — What little is certain about Phase 3 of the Nixon economic policy is that a lot remains to be seen. It is even suggested that doubt and uncertainty are among its weapons.

We still have controls, no matter how enthusiastically Phase 3 was welcomed as a major step toward free enterprise. Presumably, the same anti-inflation goals are sought too. These have not changed.

What is different is that the mandate and the penalties may not be spelled out as sharply as in the previous phases, but the threat exists that if you want the spelling, just step out of line and you'll get it letter by letter.

There is even some question of whether this is really a phase in the same program or whether the program has been changed. The Nixon program was introduced, you will recall, to restrain rising prices.

Much headway was made toward that goal. The inflation rate has been reduced from 5 to 6 per cent to 3 to 3.5 per cent a year, the lowest at this time among the world's highly industrialized nations. Still, the problem has not been overcome. In fact, just prior to the announcement that mandatory controls were being lifted on wages and prices, the wholesale price index recorded in December its highest rise in 22 years.

It is the timing, therefore, that provokes the doubts. Mandatory controls were introduced to restrain inflation, but in the midst of one of the most alarming threats to price stability they are lifted — in the name of stability.

While the 1972 annual rate of price increase in December is not likely to be repeated this month or next, it does suggest that the boom-like conditions now developing could get out of hand without restraints.

In its quarterly economic summary, "Economic Prospects," The Commercial Credit Co. makes these observations about the consumer segment of the economy late in 1972:

—Plans to purchase new and used autos moved up strongly to an all-time high.

—Plans to purchase household durables and furniture also have reached record levels.

—Plans to purchase single-family housing, which had already attained new highs in the past two quarters, took another substantial jump close to 10 per cent.

—Retail sales have been rising at a 15 per cent annual rate since the first of the year (1972), and close to 17 per cent since June.

—Extensions of installment credit and net changes in installment loans outstanding continue to set new records.

It is conditions such as these, among many others, that causes Henry C. Wallich, the Yale economist and analyst for the summary, to make this pre-Phase 3 comment: "Moderation, not record gains, must be the watchword from here on out."

Whether Phase 3 is a continuation of restraint, as suggested by its name, or a return to a hands-off policy, is up to the President. The guessing is that, of necessity, it will mean more restraint than is now imagined.

Children Of God File Slander Suit

DALLAS (AP) — A $1.1 million libel and slander action brought by the controversial Children of God Group against parents of some of its members will go to jury trial here June 25. District Court Judge Dee

Brown Walker granted a continuance of the case, originally set for hearing today, when defense lawyers argued the scope of the allegations had been broadened by the plaintiff submitting two amended petitions.

The suit, which described the Children of God as "a voluntary non-profit association for teaching the truth of the Bible and the evangelization of the world," asked $100,000 in actual damages, $500,000 in exemplary damages and a further $500,000 in special damages from members of the Parents' Committee to Free Our Sons and Daughters from the Children of God Organization.

The suit arose from picketing by parents of the Dallas Federal Building Oct. 15, 1971.

It was alleged that the defendants said within the hearing of press and public that:

—The Children of God is a subversive group out to overthrow the government and organized religion.

—That they kidnap young persons.

—That they drug young persons.

—That they are part of a $1 million racket to extort money from converts.

Today In History

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Today is Tuesday, Jan. 16, the 16th day of 1973. There are 349 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history: On this date in 1920, the 18th Amendment of the United States Constitution went into effect. Prohibition became law.

On this date: In 1778, France recognized the independence of the United States.

In 1815, Portugal's South American colony of Brazil became a kingdom.

In 1863, the U.S. Civil service was formed.

In 1893, U.S. Marines landed in Hawaii to restore order in a revolution in which the islands' monarchy was overthrown.

In 1942, screen star Carole Lombard and 21 others were killed in a plane crash near Las Vegas, Nev.

In 1971, the Swiss ambassador to Brazil, Giovanni Enrico Bucher, was released in Rio de Janeiro after being held by kidnapers for 40 days.

Ten years ago it was announced that President John F. Kennedy would visit Italy.

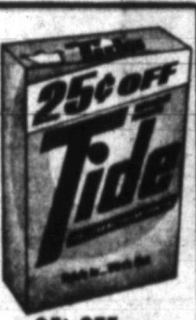

Five years ago, in an economy move, Britain ended its 150-year military role, scrapped an order for U.S. bombers and cut social services at home.

One year ago President Anwar Sadat of Egypt named Dr. Aziz Sidky as premier to head a new Cabinet.

Today's birthdays: Muscial comedy star Ethel Merman is 64. Auto racer A.J. Foyt is 39.

Thought for today: Prohibition makes you want to cry into your beer, and denies you the beer to cry into — Don Marquis, American journalist and humorist, 1878-1937.

Consensus Says 'Skins Were Emotionally Spent

DALLAS (AP) — The big discussion Monday among coaches and players readying for Sunday's Pro Bowl game was whether Washington had spent itself emotionally against Dallas before losing to Miami in Super Bowl VII.

"I think the Redskins goal this year was to beat Dallas," said defensive tackle Joe Greene of Pittsburgh. "They didn't seem to be emotional against the Dolphins. This is an emotional game, you know, and Miami was not to be denied."

Miami dominated Washington 14-7 in a game that wasn't as close as the score.

Dallas Coach Tom Landry, who is the mentor for the National Conference All-Stars, said "Washington didn't have that great edge that they had against us... they didn't seem to have that enthusiasm or fire."

Landry said "Going into the game I thought Miami had more talent and it showed. And (Washington coach) George Allen is right about the carnival atmosphere. You don't know what it's like unless you go through it... the daily press interviews and all."

"I think it bothered the Dolphins some last year and I know it distracted us the first time we were in the Super Bowl. Don Shula (Dolphin coach) took the attitude this time around that it's just something you've got to bear with."

Pittsburgh Coach Chuck Noll, who heads the American Conference All-Stars for the 3 p.m. CST kickoff, said "I thought the game was a tossup going into it, but Washington didn't seem to have any zip. It was warm and Miami's a warm weather team. Maybe that had something to do with it. But I do know this—Miami played like it has all season—very consistent."

Bob Brown, defensive tackle from Green Bay, said "It didn't look like the same Washington team. Their defensive line played very well against us. For some reason, Miami was able to do the job on them. The game was won in the line—Miami's offensive line just outlasted Washington."

Aside from player comments on Super Bowl VII, there were two roster changes for the third game between the NFC and AFC.

John Hadl of San Diego was named to replace injured Joe Namath of the New York Jets at quarterback for the AFC and Alan Page of Minnesota was tabbed to replace injured Bob Lilly of Dallas at defensive tackle for the NFC.

The Miami and Washington players were expected to be in uniform today for practice.

Shula Talks About Super Bowl Victory

LOS ANGELES (AP) — "God almighty, I'm not sure I would have walked away at all. Someone had asked Miami Coach Don Shula how he would have felt, walking away from Super Bowl VII, if his Dolphins hadn't beaten the Washington Redskins.

He had to walk away from two other Super Bowls as the losing coach. "I don't think I could have stood for banquet emcees to introduce me by saying, 'Here's that three-time loser.'"

He doesn't have to worry about that anymore. All he's got to worry about is living up to the title, "Most Perfect Coach."

"This is a totally unfamiliar experience," he said jokingly as he began his press conference Tuesday, the taste of the 14-7 victory over the Redskins still sweet.

Then suddenly, he turned serious, almost bitter, as he thought of Carroll Rosenbloom, the former owner of the Baltimore Colts who now owns the Los Angeles Rams.

"It's especially nice to win the Super Bowl in the backyard of the guy who said I couldn't win the big game... his saying that I freeze up in the big ones is just another in a three-year series of brutal attacks on me and my family."

But having to put up with those kinds of comments wasn't as bad as not having the victory to prove them wrong. "There was always the frustration of that final hurdle," he said.

His "unbeatable" Colts had been beaten 16-7 by the New York Jets in Super Bowl III in 1969. And last year the Dallas Cowboys had humiliated his Dolphins 24-3.

Perhaps it was that later defeat that brought Miami to this pinnacle, the National Football League's first perfect team.

"I think we learned a lot in the lesson we got from Dallas," Shula said. "There was that naked realization that there's only one winner... after you get beat in this thing you're reduced to almost feeling you haven't been here at all. After it's all over there's just one team left—the winner....

"Our aim this year wasn't just to get back into the Super Bowl but to win it."

They won it with a game plan that worked almost to perfection. With Larry Csonka, Jim Kiick and Mercury Morris plunging steadily through and around the Washington line, the Dolphins loosened up the Redskins' defense just enough to give quarterback Bob Griese the gaps he needed to pierce the secondary.

And by shutting down Larry Brown and the rest of the Redskins runners, the defense forced Billy Kilmer to go ineffectively, damagingly, to the air.

Only two things in the game seemed to sour Shula—albeit not very much. There was that nullified fumble recovery by Washington's Harold McIntain as Miami prepared to punt in the first time it had the ball. McIntain had slapped the ball as center Howard Kindig began to snap it.

It was a move Shula wasn't expecting from Allen's Redskins. "The call was for-of-

"I saw the kick blocked," Shula recalled. "Then I thought, 'Oh, good,' when I saw the ball bouncing back toward us. Then I saw Garo running with it and I kept thinking, 'Fall down, fall down' then I saw him trying to pass. Then I saw the ball go up in the air and Bass catch it and start running. Then I thought about a lot of things, not one of them very nice."

"I'll tell you one thing," the coach added with a grin. "Garo's never going to throw the ball again. In fact, he usually plays catch with my son, David, in training camp. I'm going to stop that, too."

While Allen and his Redskins were preparing to take their long flight back to Washington, Shula was on the phone with President Nixon. The President, who had rooted for the Dolphins last year against Dallas, had switched allegiance this time and came up with another loser. He'd been pulling for the Redskins. "I didn't remind him of that," Shula said with a smile.

"He wanted me to know how he understood how I felt—that he had experienced losing, then had experienced the other side," Shula said. "He congratulated me and told me he knew how important the victory was, both for the team and for me personally."

The Virginia Squires formally announced that they drafted George Gervin, formerly of Eastern Michigan. Gervin dropped out of school last year after becoming involved in a fight in the championship game of the NCAA College Division Tournament. He has been playing for the Pontiac team in the Continental League in Detroit.

The Norfolk Virginian-Pilot reported it is believed that Gervin has already signed with the Squires.

sidest but I think it should have been for unsportsmanlike conduct," he said. Then turning to the subject of Allen, he added: "I don't agree with how he's done some things. I don't condone them but that's his life."

The only other unpleasant memory—one which Shula could laugh about—was Garo Yepremian's busted field goal attempt with barely two minutes to play. Bill Brundige blocked the kick and, when Yepremian recovered the ball and tried to throw it, Mike Bass caught the mid-air fumble and galloped 49 yards for the touchdown that prevented the Dolphins from becoming the first Super Bowl shutout victor.

"I saw the kick blocked," Shula recalled. "Then I thought, 'Oh, good,' when I saw the ball bouncing back toward us. Then I saw Garo running with it and I kept thinking, 'Fall down, fall down' then I saw him trying to pass. Then I saw the ball go up in the air and Bass catch it and start running. Then I thought about a lot of things, not one of them very nice."

Harvesters End Non-District Play

Coming off a 73-51 victory over Canyon Eagles Friday night, the Pampa Harvesters host Lubbock Monterey tonight at Harvesters Fieldhouse in the last non-district game of the season for Pampa.

The Harvesters sport an 11-7 record going into tonight's tilt while the Plainsmen try to improve on a 13-7 mark. Pampa and Monterey have met once before this year. That was in Lubbock where the Harvesters won 58-51 back on January 2.

Randy Warner and Freddy Wilbon were the top players for the Harvesters in that game. Warner held Dan Irons, Monterey's 6'6" inside stalwart to only nine points in the game.

Irons, incidentally, was a second team all-state pick at tight end for Lubbock this past football season.

Wilbon led Pampa scorers in the first game against Monterey with 18 points. A.J. Brewer and Warner each made 10 points in that meeting.

Joe Davidson, a 6'6" post man was the high point man for the Plainsmen with 16. Alvin Wade made 10 and Iron shot for nine.

Starting for the Harvesters tonight will be Freddy Wilbon at high post, Warner at low post, Brewer at guard, and Billy Wilbon and Steve Richardson at the forward slots.

The two Wilbons led Pampa scorers in the win over Canyon Friday night. Sophomore Billy made 15 points in the game while senior Freddy tossed in 14.

Tip-off time for the game is 8 p.m. Preceding the varsity contest will be a Shocker game at 6 o'clock and a C-team tilt at 4:30.

The Harvesters begin District 3-AAAA play this Friday night against the Caprock Longhorns in Amarillo.

North Carolina State Gets First Place Vote

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS They're in a different sport but they share the same nickname and that's enough to make Jacksonville's Dolphins act every bit as super as the football variety from Miami.

Jacksonville, ranked 15th in The Associated Press poll of college basketball teams, rolled to a 96-64 victory over Pan American Monday night. Butch Taylor led the romp with 25 points as the Dolphins ran their season's record to 12-2 with their seventh consecutive victory.

Most of the teams at the top of The AP rankings took Monday night off but No. 8 Missouri, No. 11 Alabama, No. 13 Southwestern Louisiana, and Jacksonville all were in action.

UCLA continues to lead the rankings but for the first time, the Bruins were not the unanimous choice of the sports writers and broadcasters for the No. 1 slot.

UCLA, undefeated in 57 consecutive games, received all but one first place vote, and totaled 778 points. The other first place ballot went to unbeaten North Carolina State, ranked second after 11 straight victories this season. Maryland, 10-0 through the period covered by the poll but beaten Sunday by NC State, is No. 3.

North Carolina jumped to fourth place, followed by Long Beach State, Minnesota, Marquette, Missouri, Providence and San Francisco to complete the Top 10.

Of that group, only Missouri saw action Monday night and the Tigers would have been smarter to take the night off like the other members of the first 10. Beaten for the first time Saturday night following 13 straight victories, the Tigers dropped another, bowing to Colorado, 81-79 in overtime. To their credit, however, they didn't go down without a battle.

Colorado had to come from behind four times in the extra period to overtake Missouri. Lee Haven had six points in the extra period for the winners after combining with Scott Wedman to help Colorado wipe out an 11-point deficit in regulation time.

Missouri, guilty of 31 turnovers, almost won the game anyway. Steve Blind tied the score at 72 with 48 seconds left but then missed a free throw with 11 seconds left that would have put the Tigers on top. Haven finished with 28 points and Wedman had 23 for the Buffaloes, now 5-8 for the season.

Bradley Selected By NBA Coaches

NEW YORK (AP) — Bill Bradley has been selected by the East Coaches to play in the National Basketball Association's All-Star Game at Chicago on Jan. 23 for the first time in his career. It was announced today by NBA Commissioner Walter Kennedy.

Bradley will be joined by Elvin Hayes of Baltimore, Jo Jo White of Boston, John Block from Philadelphia, Jack Marin of Houston and Bob Kauffman as substitutes for the East Squad.

The West coaches selected Chet Walker of the Chicago Bulls, Dave Bing and Bob Lanier of Detroit, Gail Goodrich of Los Angeles, Nate Thurmond of Golden State, and Bob Dandridge of Milwaukee.

Coach Tom Heinsohn will have an East squad loaded with strong cornermen to cope with Coach Bill Sharman's more balanced squad. The West will have a height advantage up front but the East has the edge in the back court.

The East will open with John Havlicek and Dave DeBusschere at the forwards, Dave Cowens at center, and Walt Frazier and Pete Maravich at the guards. Lenny Wilkens, Lou Hudson and Wes Unseld complete the squad.

The West will counter with Spencer Haywood and Rick Barry at the forwards, Kareem Abdul-Jabbar at center, and Jerry West and Nate Archibald at the guards. Sidney Wicks and Wilt Chamberlain round out the West squad. West and Laker teammate Wilt Chamberlain were selected to play for the 13th time, tying Bob Cousy, the all-time leader.

Tied for second place going into Tuesday's final round were Curt Cox, a young San Antonio Spursman, and Larry Thomas of Dallas. Both had two under-par 69s.

The annual Tony Lama Memorial golf tournament at Marco Island, Florida is scheduled for March 12.

Johnston Has Tourney Lead

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (AP) — Two-time winner Ralph Johnston of Decatur, Ga., chopped three strokes off par to maintain a share of the first round lead Monday while three-time winner Orville Moody failed to show up for the last of 10 weekly $30,000 Professional Golf Management tournaments.

Johnston was out in 32 and in 36 at Pecan Valley Golf Club's par 71 layout. He is tied with Don Maddox of Oklahoma City in the 36-hole chase for $5,000 top money.

No reason was given for Moody's absence, but the former U.S. Open champion joined the PGA tour last week at Phoenix after playing here to help reshape his game and end a prolonged slump.

By not playing in the last PGM event of the current series, Moody apparently dropped a chance to pick up extra cash by winning the aggregate stroke competition for all 10 tournaments. Johnston, with a 71.5 average through seven tournaments, looks like the winner.

Monday's round, played in unusually mild weather, saw six players break par and two others equal it.

Tied for second place going into Tuesday's final round were Curt Cox, a young San Antonio Spursman, and Larry Thomas of Dallas. Both had two under-par 69s.

TV Awards Precede Pro Bowl

Top 4 NFL Players To Be Honored

Fred Biletnikoff

Joe Greene

Larry Brown

Chris Hanburger

DALLAS, Tex. — (NEA) — The greatest players in football will convocate here for the Pro Bowl on Jan. 21, the absolute end to the long season.

But the prelude to the game itself focuses special attention on those chosen by their peers for outstanding achievement — the most valuable offensive and defensive players in the National and American Football Conferences.

The CBS television network will present a half-hour special before the game: NFL Today Presents the 1977 All-Pro.

The four players singled out for special game footage and interviews, conducted by Pat Summerall, are as follows:

the Year — Larry Brown, Washington Redskins

AFC Offensive Player of the Year — Fred Biletnikoff, Oakland Raiders

NFC Defensive Player of the Year — Chris Hanburger, Washington Redskins

AFC Defensive Player of the Year — Joe Greene, Pittsburgh Steelers

Awards will be presented to them by CBS in conjunction with NEA, which polled the players of the National Football League.

The climax of the show will be the presentation of the Jim Thorpe Memorial Trophy to the most valuable player in the NFL, Larry Brown, by Murray Olderman of NEA.

Brown was a natural for his honors for his part in bringing the Redskins to Super Bowl VII. Despite the fact he missed the last two games of the regular season, he gained 1,216 yards rushing and was a vital pass receiver. The 202-pound runner from Kansas State stands at the pinnacle after four years of pro ball.

Biletnikoff might be a surprise choice to some in the AFC because his closest rival, O. J. Simpson of the Buffalo Bills, led the NFL in rushing. The sure-handed wide receiver of the Oakland Raiders led the NFL himself, in pass catching, with 58 during the regular campaign, although every team gave him double coverage. He has been a consistently outstanding receiver since he joined the Raiders from Florida State.

Hanburger, a nine-year man from North Carolina, was not a highly prized prospect because they don't look for linebackers who weigh 195 pounds. But when George Allen took over the Redskins last year, Hanburger was already entrenched as one of the fine weakside linebackers in the game. He brings great mobility to his job. And he has filled out to 218 pounds.

The rise of the Pittsburgh Steelers was coincident with the drafting of Joe Greene, an All-America tackle at North Texas State four years ago. Mean Joe Greene they called him, and still do, and his ferocious pass rush sparks the highly respected Steeler defense.

The NFL Today show, devoted entirely to the above quartet's exploits, is produced by Bill Pitts of CBS.

The 'Supreme Court'

One of the basic rights of Americans while not specifically defined in the Constitution and never exercised by the vast majority of citizens, but valued nevertheless, is the right to "take it all the way up to the Supreme Court."

A proposal to establish a new court—a "National Court of Appeals"—just below the Supreme Court but above all others would seriously curtail this right and impair the integrity of the Supreme Court as well, critics of the plan say.

The proposal was made in December by a study group of noted lawyers and law professors, appointed by Chief Justice Warren E. Burger to make recommendations for easing the growing burden of cases being appealed to the Supreme Court each year. The number has increased from about 1,400 cases to more than 4,500 annually in the past 20 years.

The National Court of Appeals would be made up of seven members drawn from the 11 federal circuit courts, who would serve staggered three-year terms. It would screen all cases sent up for review by the Supreme Court.

forwarding only those it considered most important.

The other cases it would either decide itself, deny a review or send back to a lower court for further adjudication.

But to insure that the authority of the Supreme Court would not be undermined, the high court would still have the ultimate power of review. It could reach down and pluck up any case it wanted to hear, whether passed on by the new court or not.

And here is where the critics seem to have their most telling argument.

To exercise its supreme judicial function, the Supreme Court would have to know what was going on in the National Court of Appeals and to familiarize itself with all the cases that came before that court.

Yet that is precisely what it is doing now, as it selects some 150 cases to hear and deliver opinions upon each session out of the thousands that are appealed to it from lower courts.

If it no longer did so, if it relinquished or delegated even part of its constitutionally established duties to another court, it would no longer be the "supreme" court.

Social Catastrophe

The U.S. Treasury now announces that if you buy a Series E bond after Oct. 1, 1973, you will have to give your Social Security number.

In 1972, the treasury started requiring Social Security numbers for newborn infants. Also it assigned Social Security numbers to aged widows who had been receiving checks through their late husband's number. So there is a tightening of the screws down the line. But it probably doesn't make much difference.

For earlier, the treasury was demanding that buyers of Series H bonds subject themselves to numerical designation. Thus the process of dehumanization proceeds by perceptible degrees to that prophetic instant at which "no man might buy or except he had the mark, or the name of the beast, or the number of his name."

Interestingly, we have been told that the computer was originally developed so that Social Security could handle its huge caseload. Social Security now appears to have become the instrument whereby a political agency can keep track of every living person. We wonder how many liberals knew that this grim portent was what they had been working toward? Maybe it's time to look at those blueprints again.

Sincerity And Success

The most successful politician is the one who has learned to lie with the greater sincerity.

Eternal Vigilance

John Stewart Mill once said, "A people may want a free government. But, if from carelessness, cowardice or want of public spirit, they are unequal to the exertions necessary for preserving it, if they will not fight for it when attacked; if they can be induced to lay their liberties at the feet of those with enough power to subvert their institutions—then they are unfit for liberty, and they are unlikely to enjoy it very long."

BERRY'S WORLD

"O.K. Crime is up in the suburbs. So what do we do now—move back to the city?"

Public TV Hassle Is A Hot One

By DON OAKLEY
NEA Staff Writer

Despite thinly veiled and not so thinly veiled threats from White House spokesmen, the immediate danger of the government laying a chilling hand on the content of programs beamed over the nation's airwaves is not in the commercial sector but in the area of so-called public broadcasting.

There are two entities involved here. One is the Public Broadcasting Service—P.B.S.—a network of some 225 public and educational television stations.

The other is the Corporation for Public Broadcasting—C.P.B.—whose members are appointed by the President under the Public Broadcasting Act of 1967 and which provides most of the funding for P.B.S.

The two are currently pitted against each other in a controversy over programming authority. Up to now, P.B.S. has been more or less independent of C.P.B.

However, Henry W. Loomis, recently appointed head of C.P.B., has announced a policy of more direct involvement by the corporation in programming decisions. He has declared that programs of a "controversial" nature in news and public affairs are no longer in favor.

Programs which have been dropped, or which may be dropped, from the public broadcasting schedule include "Washington Week" and columnist William F. Buckley's "Firing Line."

Loomis believes that public television should refrain from controversial programming and devote more of its energies to educational shows and programs directed at the needs and interests of small, localized, and specialized audiences.

Building strong and independent local public TV stations is a commendable goal, agrees the outgoing chairman of P.B.S., James L. Loper, who is president and general manager of KCET in Los Angeles, one of the top half-dozen public TV stations.

But the way the Corporation for Public Broadcasting is going about it, he says, threatens to wipe out the very support local stations need to provide balanced programming.

"I am a strong believer that in addition to local programming you must have strong national, high-quality programs," says Loper. "If you want to destroy public television, then all you need to do is take away national public broadcasting programs."

He attributes a 200 per cent growth in KCET's audience in the past two years primarily to the fact that many people were attracted by the high-caliber material available from Public Broadcasting Service.

One good success, such as the series on Henry VIII, pulls up everything else, says Loper—raises new programs, new subscribers and has a mushrooming effect of a constructive nature that influences commercial television as well.

In one way, the problem faced by public broadcasting stations is similar to that faced by commercial outlets: Except for those in a few large cities, local stations simply do not have the facilities or the talent—or the money—to originate the bulk of their programming.

In addition, because of the controversy between P.B.S. and C.P.B. and the uncertainties surrounding the future of network programming, business has lately tended to back away from underwriting public television programs.

One need not harbor dire thoughts about government censorship and Big Brotherism to wonder whether the administration's goal of "freeing" local stations from their close association with the networks, whether public or commercial, may not actually result in degrading the quality of television enjoyed by Americans (low enough as it is, some critics would say) rather than improving it.

Judgment Is The Key For Youth Of Today

By PAUL HARVEY

I'm on a campus somewhere speaking and listening almost every week. Also Angel and I sit across the dinner table from the young generation every night that I'm home. We have thus developed an immense respect for much of what today's young people stand for—and for some of the things they're refusing to stand for, too.

They are taller, handsomer, healthier, smarter and more capable than any generation which preceded theirs.

But their judgment has not increased that much.

At the risk of some jeers, it is in their interest that we expose the wet behind the ears.

The law now says you're old enough to vote at 18 and old enough to go to war at 18. States debate when you're old enough to drive, to drink and to get married.

So what the unprecedentedly knowledgeable young might well do is to learn the odds—and play the averages.

H. L. Hunt Writes

Natural Disaster

A force of nature has struck a cruel blow to the people of Nicaragua. As this is written, the plight of the populace is still desperate as it attempts to recover from the shock of a devastating earthquake that virtually destroyed Managua, killed and maimed thousands, smashed utility systems and generally wreaked havoc with all institutions of the city. Our thoughts go out to the suffering people of Nicaragua.

The United States awoke to the news of the plight of its neighbors to the south with a fast response. Aid in all forms was quickly mustered. Food, clothing, medicine, emergency hospital facilities and trained personnel were promptly dispatched in giant government planes. This was foreign aid that was needed by a people badly stricken by an act of nature. It was unlike the give-away program of aid launched shortly after World War II. Not only did our government lend succor to Nicaragua but also private organizations and citizens responded. All was done in a spirit of helping an aggrieved neighbor and it was fitting.

Other nations also heeded the call for help. Those responsive governments are worthy of praise. Once the acute problem of survival is overcome by the Nicaraguans, the vast job of rebuilding will have to be started and it is here that the forces of industry should be put to work. We can only hope and pray that the little country does not suffer a fresh cataclysmic stroke that would destroy what is left and claim more lives.

Science has made great strides in understanding the mysteries of nature, including those that pose mortal danger to mankind. These accomplishments of science still do not lend to prevention of disaster. In some cases, they can be forecast and that helps some. Aiding the suffering and repairing the damage are our main answer now. That is the regimen for Nicaragua.

Immature judgment is your only vulnerability.

This fact is confirmed by automobile accident statistics.

Last year there were 117 million registered drivers under 20.

More than a third and almost half of them—4.7 million—had accidents.

That is why automobile insurance costs three to four times more before you're 21.

Immature judgment is reflected in teen-age divorce statistics.

Of men who marry after age 21, 13 per cent divorce.

Of men who choose a bride sooner than that, 28 per cent divorce.

And the ratio for young women is similar.

Of all cases of venereal disease, 80 per cent are under 30.

One in five is between 15 and 19.

Judgment

There are 9 million alcoholics in the United States. A generation ago there were almost none under 21. In recent years, the statistics have found it necessary to include figures on confirmed alcoholics down to the age of 12.

And most drug users get hooked—in high school.

You can fly an airplane as a student pilot at 16. You have the benefit of quicker reflexes, keener eyesight, nimble wits.

But in the Per-Hundred Flying-Hour accident rate, your judgment is conspicuously lacking. You are 10 per cent of our population; you have 43 per cent of all snowmobile accidents.

Crime? More than half of all major crimes are committed by persons under 21. In Chicago the No. 1 cause of death among school-agers is murder.

You are 10 per cent of our population yet teen-age mothers have 40 per cent of all out-of-wedlock babies.

I guess I had hoped that your admittedly superior intelligence might learn these facts a recognition of your own weakness so that you could think on that before you drink or drive or marry.

The rookie in the pro leagues may be younger, stronger, quicker—yet worthless until judgment.

Your Health

Caffeine is a strong stimulant

By Lawrence Lamb, M.D.

Dear Dr. Lamb—I am writing to you about coffee and its effect on the blood pressure. You wrote in your column that it was not good for the digestion, but I would like to know what it does to the blood pressure as well.

Dear Reader—The principal effect of coffee on the circulatory system is from its caffeine content. Caffeine belongs to the group of brain stimulating drugs called analeptics, which includes the amphetamine group known as "speed" or "uppers." The effects of caffeine on the heart and circulatory system are highly variable. It will cause some of the arteries to dilate, which should mean that the blood pressure would drop. In contrast, it causes the arteries to the brain to contract and diminishes blood flow to the brain. This latter effect is often useful in relieving headaches, since many headaches are caused by overdistention or dilation of the cerebral arteries.

When these arteries are dilated, they pull on the little nerve fibers in their walls and set up a pain pattern.

Caffeine also stimulates the heart rate to increase, and in general, causes an increased amount of blood to be pumped by the heart. Blood pressure is a balance between the capacity of the arterial system and the amount of blood pumped into it. Blood pressure falls when the heart stops pumping enough blood or when the arteries are over dilated.

In the case of caffeine, the increased amount of blood pumped by the heart is balanced off by the dilation of the arteries. Thus, you never know for certain whether a person will have an increased blood pressure, or whether it will remain unchanged.

There are some individuals who definitely have an increased blood pressure from the effects of caffeine. This is particularly true in individuals in whom the blood pressure is affected by their nervous activity. In general, the effects of caffeine on the heart and vascular system are outweighed by its actions on the nervous system.

The response of the heart and vascular system is in relation to what happens in the nervous system.

Caffeine has the opposite effect of tranquilizers, to the extent that tranquilizers are useful in lowering blood pressure by decreasing nervous tension and nervous activity.

For this reason, in general, I feel that individuals who have elevated blood pressure should not be using caffeine or any of the amphetamine group; and consequently they should not be drinking coffee. For the person with normal blood pressure, this consideration is of little or no importance.

Inside Washington

Lame Butler Against Congress' Pay Hike

By Robert S. Allen

WASHINGTON—There may be "many a slip 'twixt cup and lip" on that juicy congressional pay hike being quietly plotted.

Two "slips" already have developed — thanks to Rep. H.R. Gross, R-Iowa.

The veteran economy advocate has introduced legislation designed to prevent a pay boost being sneaked through — as was pulled off in 1969 when a $12,500 increase was engineered without a record roll call.

If there is to be another big salary grab, it is Gross' determined intention to force his fellow legislators to vote on it out in the open.

Whether he succeeds remains to be seen. So far, the prospects aren't too promising.

Gross' legislation has been completely ignored by the media. There hasn't been a line about it. And the only encouragement has come from one colleague — Rep. Vernon Thomson, R-Wis., who has declared against raising congressional pay on the ground "it would rekindle the fires of inflation."

But if there is a hike, it's got to be done open and aboveboard. Says Thomson:

"Public accountability demands public knowledge. On a decision involving such obvious self-interest, members of Congress should be willing to declare their position and defend it."

That is decidedly not the intent of those quietly scheming to jump congressional pay to $50,000 from the present $42,500.

That would make an overall $20,000 increase since 1969.

Two Possible 'Slips'

As recently revealed by this column, the stage for putting over this pay boost was foretold last October in the stormy closing days of the last (92d) Congress.

It was done by Rep. Morris Udall, D-Ariz., loudly vocal liberal and clamor for "congressional reforms," who sponsored the original legislation by which Congress is able to wangle hefty pay hikes without directly voting on them.

That was the cozy method by which the pay rate was zoomed from $30,000 to $42,500 four years ago.

Udall's obvious intent is to use the same technique to grab for $50,000.

The self-righteous Arizona started the ball rolling for a deft replay by attaching an amendment, to a catch-all appropriation bill, providing $100,000 for the expenses of a "Commission on Executive, Legislative, and Judicial Salaries."

Under another Udall act, this nine-member body has six months in which to study the pay scale of these three branches of government and submit recommendations to the President. He in turn has another six months to send them to Congress — or junk them. If the President sends the Commission's findings to Congress, it has 60 days in which to act.

That is done in this round-about way if Congress does nothing, the commission's recommendations automatically go into effect. In other words, if Congress merely sits tight the commission's salary proposals become law.

That's what happened last time, and that's what Udall, et al hope to put over again.

To block this backstage scheme, Rep. Gross is pressing two bills:

(1) To abolish the Commission on Executive, Legislative and Judicial Salaries — and thus, as he says, "return squarely to Congress the essential pay-fixing duties and responsibilities." In other words, no more hanky-panky in circuitously slipping through a pay raise.

(2) In the event this forthright direct attack gets nowhere, Gross then proposes to require a "mandatory yea and nay vote in each House on the submitted pay recommendations." That is, there would have to be record roll calls in the House and Senate on any change in pay.

Says Gross, "At a time when we are asking all Americans to hold the line on prices and pay, and to endure personal sacrifices in order to stabilize the economy, we shouldn't even be thinking of granting ourselves and other top government officials inflationary salary increases."

To which Udall averred, "I join the gentleman from Iowa in preaching economy. But he has departed from preaching and gone to meddling. The fact is that the compensation of members of Congress in terms of purchasing power is not $42,500. In 1969 terms, it is now down to something around $38,000 or $37,000."

Actually, members of Congress already get more than $50,000 a year in compensation.

In addition to their $42,500 base pay, they receive another $8,511 in a number of fringe benefits — including a $3,400-a-year government contribution to a highly generous pension system; a $1,918 tax deduction to meet the cost of maintaining two residences, in their home district and Washington; $1,000 travel allowance; $500 for miscellaneous expenses; $540 for parking; $512 government contribution for life insurance; free medical care, health insurance; gymnasium; free mailing privileges; fully-equipped offices both in Washington and in home area; telephone service; special delivery postage.

In addition to all this, each legislator has a large clerical allowance — for House members, around $250,000 a year; for Senators, up to as much as $1 million, depending on state populations.

Long Overdue

For the second time in his illustrious career, Adm Hyman Rickover, "father" of this country's nuclear submarine fleet, is headed for a long-merited promotion and retention on active duty — at direct congressional prodding.

Under an unnoticed bill, Rickover, 72, would be elevated to full admiral and kept on active duty.

Sponsor of this legislation is a decorated World War II Navy veteran — Rep Samuel Stratton, D-N.Y., a ranking member of the powerful House Armed Services Committee.

Actually, Rickover was officially retired in 1964, but was immediately recalled to active duty — and still is.

Pilot Presumed Dead

LISBON (AP) — American sources at the Lajes Air Force Base on the Azores island of Terceira confirmed today that an American civilian pilot from Texas disappeared at sea about a week ago and is presumed dead.

They said he was Robert Clark, who was flying a small single-engine AC6 plane used on a flight from Newfoundland to Texas. Other sources said Clark was employed by the Texas Dusters Co. of Harlingen, Texas.

Clark and a pilot named Paul Brady flying another AC6 were on a flight from Newfoundland to the Azores. Late on the night of Jan. 6, they radioed they were lost and having navigational trouble.

Rescue planes from Lajes found Brady's plane and guided it to Terceira but were unable to locate Clark's plane.

Ellington Hospitalized

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Jazz musician Duke Ellington is hospitalized here with a virus infection that doctors attribute in part to his rigorous schedule.

Ellington, 72, was hospitalized last Wednesday with London flu shortly after he completed taping of a television special in his honor.

The zero milestone is a small marker just south of the White House in Washington, D.C., from which all federal highway distances are counted.

FUNNY BUSINESS

By Roger Bollen

Early End Seen

NEW YORK (AP) — ABC's television reporter said today that "highly reliable palace sources in Saigon" expect the United States and North Vietnam to sign a cease-fire agreement in South Vietnam "as early as this week."

Richard Wagner, the network's Saigon correspondent, also said the sources told him that South Vietnam President Nguyen Van Thieu will accept the agreement "after making a few superficial changes to suggest that he took an active part in the drafting of the accord."

Gen. Alexander M. Haig Jr., President Nixon's representative now en route to Saigon, was said to be carrying an updated version of a draft agreement that Ellsworth Bunker, the U.S. ambassador to South Vietnam, presented to Thieu on Saturday.

Medical Deductions Should Be Claimed

By RAY DE CRANE

(Seventh in a Series.)

It is possible to have a medical deduction on your income tax return even though you may not have been sick, bought any prescriptions, or paid any doctor or dentist fees in 1972.

If you paid for hospital or health care insurance last year, one-half of your cost (but not more than $150) is immediately deductible.

Include in your cost of health insurance the cost of the medical insurance portion of your automobile insurance. If you are on Social Security also include your Medicare premiums (for your wife, too, if this is a joint return).

Your remaining medical expenses must be greater than three per cent of adjusted gross income before there is a deduction. Prescriptions are included in your tabulation to the extent their cost is greater than one per cent of adjusted gross income.

Should your medical expenses be sufficiently large to permit a deduction, don't forget to include the remaining portion of your hospital and health insurance which was not immediately deductible.

Don't ignore these frequently overlooked possibilities:

Ordinarily, medical expenses are considered only if they are for the taxpayer, his wife and his dependents. A notable exception is a transplant recipient who pays his donor's expenses in relation to the transplant. It is deductible.

If you pay a private duty nurse for services in the home and you furnish her meals and pay her Social Security taxes, include those items with the fee. Include also the proportionate share of a housekeeper's salary if her duties also include nursing care.

The cost of oral contraceptives if prescribed by a physician as necessary to health should be included in the medicine and drug expense. So, too, is the cost of whiskey prescribed by a physician for a heart patient and the special food and beverages prescribed as an addition to normal diet.

Among the special aids and supplies that can be listed as medical expenses are: oxygen and oxygen equipment for heart and asthma patients; iron lung equipment and operating expenses; special mattress and plywood bed board for treatment of arthritis; air conditioning units (less resale or salvage value) plus operating expenses if primarily for medical treatment and they do not become a permanent part of the building.

And don't forget these: ambulance hire, cab fare, bus fare or six cents a mile for the use of your own car in trips to and from hospitals, doctors' and dentists' offices, even trips to the drug store to obtain prescriptions.

It is generally recognized that contributions to churches, hospitals, educational institutions and other recognized charities are fully deductible.

Often forgotten is the fact that in addition to cash contributions, the fair market value of furniture, clothing and appliances contributed to a charitable organization are also deductible.

Transportation and other out-of-pocket expenses may also be claimed by a volunteer worker for a church or charitable organizations.

Court Reviews Pollution Case

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Supreme Court Monday agreed to review a lower court order forbidding pollution of clean air.

The high court in a brief order without dissent agreed to hear the government's appeal of a decision by the U.S. Circuit Court here requiring federal enforcement of a policy of "nondegradation" of clean air.

The Environmental Protection Agency was poised in November to reluctantly issue regulations to comply with the decision when the high court blocked its effect pending appeal.

Environmentalists set out to protect those areas with air cleaner than that required by federal standards, but the government claimed the effect will be to hamper economic development and make the task of lessening pollution elsewhere more difficult.

Under the Clean Air Amendments of 1970, EPA has established air quality standards setting limits on the permissible levels of pollutants.

several children. "My mother," this teen-ager continued, "then started following your daily column when she was in Junior High. She married when she was 18."

"And urges us to read the column every day!" "So this really makes 3 generations you have helped in my own family!"

Newspapers thus deserve a "Freedom's Foundation Award" for having pioneered this modern idea of "Family and Marriage Counseling."

Several million copies of the various booklets offered via the "Worry Clinic" are circulating in America and many foreign countries.

For this mail service is an added "fringe benefit" for millions of readers who face crises that sometimes drive people to suicide.

We have no exact figures but from your letters, I would estimate that these newspapers have stopped hundreds of thousands of divorces!

And eliminated many suicides, illicit sexual affairs, unwed pregnancies, venereal diseases, and inferiority complexes.

The latter, when allowed to continue, often drive their victims into mental institutions.

Your 25 cents per booklet doesn't finance this non-profit service, so I donate all my speaking fees to make up the deficits annually!

Send for those "Tests for Sweethearts," enclosing a long stamped, return envelope, plus 25 cents, and see the type of scientific counseling this progressive newspaper offers your wide area.

"Dr. Crane," a high school sophomore recently argued, "you have even helped rear 3 generations in my family!"

Then she mentioned that her grandparents, while college students, had dated each other in the "Test for Sweethearts" column.

Buffies Plod Their Way Into American Homes

By HUGH A. MULLIGAN

AP Special Correspondent

SAIGON (AP) — War or peace, build-up or draw-down, herds of buffies inexorably plod their ponderous way to the hearts and attics of America.

Several thousand buffies a day migrated when U.S. troops in Vietnam numbered more than half a million. Now, with troop strength around 24,000, more than 1,000 a week still make the journey.

A buffy, rhymes with stuffy; is an enormous, ornate glazed ceramic elephant. Depending on one's esthetic sensitivity, it represents either the highest camp or the lowest kitsch in Vietnamese folk art.

The name derives from the acronym b-u-f-f-y, for bloody useless foul-word elephant, and supposedly was conferred on these outsized objets d'art by Rear Adm. S. R. Smith, then the officer in charge of construction in Vietnam.

Smith couldn't believe the number of U.S.-bound buffies being loaded on cargo planes at air mail depots at a time when jeeps and bulldozers were being sold as surplus scrap metal for want of shipping space back to bases in America.

Buffies, all with garishly painted toenails and elaborately tasseled saddles and harnesses, come as tall as 2½ feet and can weigh up to 70 pounds, which is the limit an Army post office overseas will accept.

Available with trunks raised — buffy erectus — or distended — buffy impotus — they come in colors from royal blue to hangover pink, not excluding the white elephant — buffy albinus.

Until ultimately relegated to the attic or garage, they stand at ridiculous attention on the porches of West Point, alongside the backyard swimming pools of suburbia, on the terraces of high-rise urban apartments or wherever men feel the need to proclaim a past communion with the culture of Vietnam.

"What did you do in the war, Daddy?"

"I shipped home a buffy, unbroken."

The Vietnamese use buffies to decorate the graves of their ancestors, or for interior decoration to hold plants or an incense urn. The Americans find the big ones just the right height to place a martini at elbow's distance beside a favorite arm chair. Two bearing a plexiglass tray make a particularly repulsive coffee table. Three, placed trunk-to-tail in circus configuration, can effect a mind-blowing arrangement of hi-fi gear and stereo speakers.

Most buffies leave the Army postoffice without a packing crate, adorned only with mailing labels, stamps and a bit of protective masking tape over the tusks, trunk and ears. Part of the buffy mystique is the belief that mail handlers around the world will be gentle at the sight of such naked fragility. The other part of the legend is that wooden crates were banned at the APO when one fell apart and a crashing buffy busted the big toe of a mail clerk.

On the far side of the runway from the APO, Saigon's aerial mail port has the responsibility for loading the buffies on chartered Flying Tiger and Pan American cargo planes every day except Sunday.

T. Sgt. Jesus Babauta, an enormous Guamanian who can heft two of the biggest buffies at a time on his broad shoulders, arranges them in a row of 30 inside a metal cocoon called an igloo, then piles on their saddles 25 to 30 mail bags, "for protection." A hydraulic loader then lifts the pallet onto the plane.

Saigon's airport has been rocketed and shelled any number of times without damage to a single buffy. There is no postal insurance for shipping buffies and no elephant graveyard for those that don't make it.

"We just sweep the pieces without notifying next of kin," laughs Sgt. Babauta, who figures less than half make it to San Francisco or Seattle.
