Babe Hickman Acquitted On Murder Charge By Clay Jury

RANCH SLAYING CASE FINISHED LATE FRIDAY

Speedy Trial in Henrietta Court Lasts Only 36 Hours

DEFENDANT IS HEARD

Accused Man Says He Was Told of Duncan's Attention to Wife

HENRIETTA, Texas, March 8.—Babe Hickman, 30, was acquitted of a charge of murder by a jury which reported to Judge Vincent Stine in 97th district court here at 9:30 o'clock tonight. Hickman was indicted in the fatal shooting of Bill Duncan, his brother-in-law.

The trial was a speedy one, as the case opened at 9 o'clock Thursday morning.

Hickman Testifies

The testimony of the defendant featured the morning session of court Friday. Babe Hickman testified that he intended to kill Duncan five years ago when Duncan made improper advances toward Mrs. Hickman, but spared the man's life when Duncan and Mrs. Duncan, who is Hickman's sister, promised that the advances would cease.

He stated that after his wife told him on last Christmas morning of Duncan's threat to "get her if he had to kill Babe," that he went to the Duncan home with Ben Hickman and killed Duncan as the latter started up with an open knife in his hand.

During the late morning and afternoon sessions attorneys for both the state and the defense strove to to impeach witnesses used by the other side.

Statement Denied

D. J. Wooten said that Ben Hickman told him he tried to take the gun away from Babe before the slaying and that Babe acted like he was going to hit him with the gun. Ben Hickman denied making this statement. Both Wooten and Ben Hickman were called to the stand three times before the state finished examining them on this detail.

Heated arguments between council for the state and the defense featured the noon recess. Judge R. E. Taylor and his son, Cedric Taylor, attorneys for Hickman, maintained that they had the right to see statements made before an alleged court of inquiry and signed by several of the witnesses in the case.

Judge Vincent Stine ruled for the defense, which later introduced statements held by the prosecution and signed by E. Moore and Wooten. Moore corroborated Wooten's testimony regarding the conversation between Wooten and Ben Hickman.

R. T. Hickman, brother of the defendant, and Mrs. R. T. Hickman, sister of the defendant's wife, both took the stand and told of carrying a message from Mrs. Duncan to Mrs. Babe Hickman warning Mrs. Hickman that if she accepted the present from Will Duncan "there would be a death before night." This message was delivered on Christmas morning a few hours before the slaying.

The case closed a few minutes before 3 o'clock in the afternoon. The charge was delivered shortly before 4 p. m. and Judge Stine allowed two hours to each side for argument. William J. Glasgow, Clay county attorney, and Temple Houston Yarbrough, Montague county attorney, representing the state.

J. E. McKanna's Third Big Oil Sale Brings $2,000,000 in Empire Deal

Wilbarger County Tract With Six Wells Changes Hands in Empire's Second Purchase

Culminating six years of oil exploitation in the North Texas fields, and running the total of his sales during that period to more than two and a half million dollars, James E. McKanna Friday announced the sale of his Waggoner Ranch holdings to the Empire Gas and Fuel company for approximately $2,000,000.

Purchase of the McKanna properties by the Empire marked that concern's second major acquisition in this district. The company paid approximately $3,000,000 for the old Gladiolous lease south of Electra several years ago.

The properties acquired Friday by the Empire consist of 500 acres out of the west half of section 32, block 4, and the northwest quarter of section 25, block 4, H. & T. C survey in Wilbarger county.

Six producing wells on the lease are making 800 barrels daily from the three sands at depths of 1800, 2360 and 2400 feet.

The tract is considered one of the most promising in Wilbarger county. It is located between the Rock Crossing and Greyback pools, two of the county's most prolific areas.

William M. Nicholls, head of the geological department of the McKanna interests and a member of the firm, worked out the structure on which the rich production was found.

The McKanna interests within the last two years have sold tracts in Brown county for $450,000 and on the Lawson land in Wilbarger county for $250,000.

M. A. Rutta, who has been superintendent of operation, has become a member of the firm, Mr. McKanna announced following the sale.

NEW INDUSTRY PLAN FAVORED

Small Investors Back C.-C. In New Program

Ninety per cent of the main body of Wichita Falls citizens are ready to invest amounts ranging from $50 to $5,000 each in the establishment here of reputable, proven industrial enterprises during the current year, according to responses now being received by the chamber of commerce to questionnaires sent out this week from the office of J. W. Chatham, industrial and traffic manager.

Since last Tuesday, when the work of mailing out the questionnaire and explanatory letter began, more than 1,900 have been placed in the hands of citizens of this community. A total of 8,000 questionnaires are to be distributed. A large number of the blanks, completely filled out, already have been received, and according to Mr. Chatham, reflect a surprising degree of willingness to cooperate both with funds and personal activity in the furtherance of future industrial development in this city.

The decision to inaugurate such a movement during the year 1929 was incorporated in the report given by the program of work committee to the board of directors in January. According to records of the establishment of numerous large industrial plants here during the last few years, it was stated, approximately 100 persons in this community had invested the funds required to obtain location of those plants here and start them in operation. Following the completion of each such project it was said that numerous inquiries were received from other local citizens, expressing a willingness to have participated in the enterprise. It was suggested last December in the program of work committee's meetings that a large number of potential investors could best be afforded an opportunity to participate in future industrial development in Wichita Falls by arranging for securities to be sold in small blocks. The recommendation, adopted by

HIGHWAY BOND PROPOSAL LOST BY TWO VOTES

Backers of Amendment To Renew Battle for Passage in House

FIGHT IS AVERTED

Minister's Remark Brings Two Colleagues To Their Feet

AUSTIN, March 8. (AP)—Beaten by failure to muster two additional votes, house proponents of the $175,000,000 highway bond issue tonight planned for one more determined effort next week to marshal the ballots of 100 lawmakers necessary to submit the constitutional amendment to a vote of the people.

After a day of oratory, climaxed by a near-fight between Representatives Snelgrove of Henderson and Harper, Mount Pleasant minister, the bond plan failed to pass finally by a vote of 96 to 37.

Fight Slated Monday

Petsch of Fredericksburg, a leader in behalf of the plan for extending the state's credit for a highway system, said another attempt to bring it to a vote likely would be made Monday. Petsch declared four legislators pledged to the plan were absent when the vote was taken today, and expressed belief that they would be brought to Austin to take part in the final attempt toward sanction of the amendment.

An opinion of former Atty. Gen. B. F. Looney, written in 1917, and supplemented by another from Atty. Gen. Claude Pollard, will be presented if there arises the contention that the amendment cannot again be acted on, Petsch explained.

Minister Starts Row

The row between Snelgrove and the Rev. Mr. Harper was precipitated by the remark of the minister, speaking in behalf of the plan, that "this is a chance for you who have been advocating 'farm relief' to show whether you are a friend to the farmer or a dirty hypocrite," he shouted.

Snelgrove and Veatch, 73-year-old member, leaped to their feet shouting demands that Harper apologize, while an assistant sergeant-at-arms hurried to the members' desks to prevent further disturbance.

While Acting Speaker Minor was pounding his gavel for order, Snelgrove pointed his finger at Harper and declared "if anybody's a hypocrite, it's him."

Later Harper said that his remarks were not "personal" in their nature.

Action on the bond plan came after its engrossment yesterday by a vote of 94 to 41.

Reporters Dodge Bullets Whole Day But Horse Is Only Casualty Observed

By H. WORTH JONES
Correspondent for the El Paso Herald and the Associated Press

JUAREZ, Chihuahua, Mexico, March 8.—El Paso newspaper reporters snuggled to the floor at the home of Harry Mitchell, Juarez cafe proprietor, today while bullets whizzed into the walls and on all sides of the house as rebels and federal soldiers met in combat during the battle at Juarez.

At times the opposing soldiers fought hand to hand directly in front of the house.

During the fighting bullets crashed through the windows and others buried themselves in the pavement of the street, sending up little puffs of cement dust.

Crawling on their hands and knees, sometimes rolling from place to place, the reporters and members of the Mitchell family spent their time between peeping hurriedly out of windows and running into the basement when the fire grew more intense. Reporters who telephoned their papers called from a position flat on the floor.

Close fighting occurred when a group of about 15 cavalrymen charged toward Lerdo street on the west from Ochoa street. The Mitchell home stands on Lerdo, directly in the face of Ochoa street.

Infantrymen hiding behind posts waited until the horsemen approached within 75 yards of the house before they opened fire. Several hundred shots must have been fired in this encounter, but so far as watchers could see, a horse was the only casualty.

All the newspapermen who were able to get early reports to their

SHERIFF FACES $20,000 SUIT

Illegal Arrest Charged To Archer County Officer

Damages totaling $20,000 for alleged illegal arrest are sought in two suits filed against C. E. Goodwin, sheriff of Archer county, in the 30th district court Friday afternoon.

The plaintiffs, each seeking to recover $10,000 in actual and exemplary damages, are W. S. Powell, oil field worker, and P. D. Dittoe, dairyman. Both claim to have been illegally arrested and thrown in jail in Archer county, and both allege personal and business injuries due to the accompanying "humiliation and disgrace" to themselves and families. Both petitioners are married and each is the father of three children.

Tells of Arrest

According to the petition of W. S. Powell, 30, he had gone to bed on the night of Dec. 14, 1928, when he was awakened and taken from his room by Sheriff Goodwin, incarcerated in the Archer county jail until he made a $1,000 bond, and for a time was kept from communication with his family and his lawyer. The plaintiff alleges that he called for the warrant for his arrest and that Sheriff Goodwin answered: "I don't need any warrant." Mr. Powell asks for $5,000 actual damages and $5,000 exemplary damages against the officer.

P. D. Dittoe was arrested in Wichita Falls on Dec. 19, 1928, "without probable cause or legal authority," his petition says. His Ford car, with an alleged market value of $400, was also seized, he claims, and converted to the use of the defendant. He was illegally held in the Archer county jail until he was able to make a $1,000 bond, the petition goes on.

Second Suit

The plaintiff has been a dairyman in Archer county for the past eight years, and has suffered $5,000 damages to his good reputation, to his business standing, and for the "mental anguish" and suffering of himself and family arising from the affair, his petition asserts. He also asks $5,000 exemplary damages.

Both plaintiffs are represented by Bob Crain, attorney.

Senate Kills Drastic Search and Seizure Bill

AUSTIN, March 8. (AP)—Search and seizure legislation, demanded by the W. C. T. U. and other dry organizations, probably breathed its last for this session today when the senate killed the Graves house bill, which would have permitted issuance of search warrants on information and belief. The senate voted it down 12 to 9 with four pairs.

Lieut. Gov. Barry Miller earlier in the day temporarily had saved the bill by voting against tabling it after the senate vote was tied.

REBS MURDER U. S. ENGINEER

Cleveland Man Slain By Three Bandits

NOGALES, Ariz., March 8. (UP)—Floyd Thompson, Cleveland, Ohio, engineer, whose body was found Thursday on the Mexican side of the international boundary here, was killed and robbed by three rebel soldiers and not by persons on the American side of the line, Criminal Investigator Jim Hathaway announced tonight.

Hathaway declared that three Mexican citizens, two men and a woman, saw the soldiers batter Thompson to death with rocks.

AERIAL ATTACK IS THREATENED

MEXICALI, Lower Calif., Mexico, March 8. (AP)—Aerial bombardment of Nogales, Sonora, headquarters of the Mexican revolutionary forces, was threatened today by Gen. Abelardo Rodrigues, governor of Lower California.

The governor was awaiting return of the military plane which he dispatched this morning to Nogales to drop circulars warning the troops and civilian population to return to the Mexican colors.

"Yes, I sent the plane," the governor told the Associated Press correspondent, "and the next time there will carry something more effective than circulars."

The airplane threw the populace into excitement at first, as fear of an air attack arose. The sight of the handbills fluttering earthward calmed the residents, and they read the messages eagerly. The text of the handbill read:

"Soldiers: The order of the day makes known to us that a rebellion was brought on by superior officers who are misleading you.

"We, the soldiers of the ninth zone, comply with our duty. We shall defend the supreme government, and shall sacrifice our lives when necessary, but never will be tools in this rebellion, started by politicians who never expose themselves.

"We invite you to present a solid front, for peace and order by the straight road and discipline.

"In a few words, return to your duty; be patriotic. Do not leave to your children the shame of having been traitors.

ORPHANED GIRL BLAMES NEGRO

Man and Wife Killed As Baby Sleeps

WACO, March 8. (AP)—Lisping a "nigger did it," 4-year-old Eva Mae Pedigo who spent last night in a room with her murdered mother while her father lay dead outside the house, today gave the only clue to the murderer of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Pedigo, farmers of Moody, near here.

The couple was found dead this morning by J. C. Jones, landlord, when Pedigo did not report for work. Pedigo was shot twice in the back. The mother, lying beside the bed in which the baby slept, was shot through the head. District Attorney Dick Holt dismissed robbery as a motive when it was discovered Pedigo's watch and money had not been taken.

Showers Follow Warm Days Here

A cool northeast breeze brought showers in its wake here early Friday night.

Clouds, which had been scattered for the most part all day, grew blacker as the day closed, and intermittent rainfall began here about 9 o'clock.

The rain follows by two days the hottest "winter" weather here, which came last Wednesday, when the temperature reached 91 degrees.

Indications were Friday night that colder weather would prevail Saturday, as forecast in the official government report. Sunday, however, a warmer, though partly cloudy, day is forecast.

The showers apparently were local, train dispatchers having no report of rain in other nearby towns.

Ousted Indiana Oil Head to Take Rest

CHICAGO, March 8. (UP)—Col. Robert W. Stewart, deposed chairman of the board of directors of the Standard Oil company of Indiana, left Chicago today "for a rest." His destination was not announced.

Stewart, who yesterday was ousted from the board chairmanship by stockholders supporting the John D. Rockefeller Jr. group of the company, conferred today with his son, Robert G. Stewart, president of the Pan-American Petroleum and Transport company.

JUAREZ, Chihuahua, March 8.—Revolters against the Mexican government carried their battle cry to the Rio Grande today with a machine gun and rifle barrage through the streets of this battle scarred border city and tonight were in complete possession of the prized railroad center.

Descending on the city after a machine gun barrage, the rebels, 2,000 strong, fought back some 600 federal soldiers; captured in quick succession the seven places of fortification they had set up, and forced a truce a few hours afterward, with the federals in full retreat on the banks of the Rio Grande.

Baby Girl Killed

American artillery lined the American banks of the river that borders Mexico and Texas, presenting a steady reminder to the fighting forces that no menace to American life and property would be countenanced.

One American casualty, however, was reported on the Texas side of the river. Baby Lydia Roberts, 2-year-old infant, whose parents are American citizens, was killed by a stray bullet.

Another American, Teddy Barnes, was found dead in Juarez after the battle. His body lay beneath several slain soldiers near federal headquarters at the Rio Bravo hotel. Barnes was a bartender in the Mint cafe.

The battle began just after dawn and by noon the federals were ready to quit.

Truce Arranged

Driven to the banks of the river after a sharp street battle in which guns and rifles popped briskly for two hours, federal soldiers under Gen. Mathias Ramos sent word to the American side through Brig. Gen. George Van Horn Mosely, commander at Fort Bliss, that hostilities were over. Within a short time a truce was arranged between rebel and federal chieftains. Casualties for the government were estimated at 13 dead and for the rebels nine dead. Many of each side were wounded.

Rebels with red bands on their arms, to distinguish them from their former fellows in arms of the Mexican army, slipped close to Juarez under cover of darkness today and when the mists of the early morning were rising the battle of gun fire was on.

Three Entries

Moving to Juarez from the east and west, the rebels opened fire simultaneously from both sides and at the same time a train of box cars backed down the tracks of the Mexico National railways into the heart of the city. There was a lull after the first onslaught as federals withdrew from house tops where they had posted machine

Manager Whacks $93,000 From City Budget to Match $1,011,000 Income

Operating funds for the city of Wichita Falls will be $68,451.91 less for the fiscal year which opens April 1 than it was for the past year, according to George D. Fairtrace, city manager.

Revenue for the coming fiscal year is anticipated at $1,011,348.75, while the anticipated revenue at the beginning of the closing year was $1,079,800.66, Mr. Fairtrace said.

The fall in the city's income is due chiefly to the elimination of the sewer tax, which was removed last year after collections for this year had already been made, and to the decrease in the city's water sales, Mr. Fairtrace said.

Almost a 13 per cent increase in the tax rate would have to be made if the city's revenue were raised to its former capital, Mr. Fairtrace said.

The decrease in the city's funds will require the city manager to cut budget requests of the city departments $68,440.87 to make them fit the revenue.

Requests for budgets for the coming fiscal year totaled $1,104,790.80. The work of approving the budget requests and cutting them down to fit the city's revenue will get under way next week, Mr. Fairtrace said.

Aimee Still Has More To Say on Kidnaping

LOS ANGELES, March 8. (UP)—Aimee Semple McPherson still has a confession to make in connection with her kidnaping in 1926, a special dispatch to the Los Angeles Record, quoting Rhavine Burbeck, secretary to the evangelist's mother, Mrs. Minnie Kennedy, said today. "Until that confession is made a reconciliation is not possible between Mrs. McPherson and Mrs. Kennedy," Miss Burbeck said in Kelso, Wash.

Ministerial Alliance Approves Annual Sunrise Easter Services

A sunrise Easter service for the people of Wichita Falls will be given at 5:30 a. m., Sunday, March 31 on the bluffs near the Seymour road west of the city by the local churches, according to plans adopted by the Wichita Falls Ministerial alliance at a meeting held Friday noon at the Y. W. C. A.

The outdoor union meeting on Easter Sunday morning follows a custom of several years standing here. It was stated by Dr. Floyd Allan Bash, pastor of the First Christian church, who was appointed chairman of a committee to make arrangements for the event, that a program similar to that used in former years would be followed. Members of the Reader's club, it was said, under the direction of Mrs. Sterling Crumpler, will present a dramatization of the resurrection story, while prominent musicians of

Eaker's Flight Across Mexican Wilds Delayed Because of War

WASHINGTON, March 8. (AP)—Capt. Ira C. Eaker's proposed dawn-to-dusk flight from Brownsville, Texas, to Panama, has been indefinitely postponed because of complications arising out of the Mexican revolution.

Assistant Secretary Davison of the war department announced postponement of the flight, after he had been in conference with officials of the state department for several hours. While Mr. Davison declined to give any reasons for the flight's postponement, it was understood that the uncertainty of air travel through the regions affected by the revolt forced the decision.

Captain Eaker has been instructed to "stand by" at San Antonio to await further instructions on the flight. It is understood that he will carry out the proposed good will flight to Panama, making several stops for re-fueling en route, just as soon as conditions are favorable.

Oklahomans to See Eaker Plane Christening

SAN ANTONIO, March 8. (AP)—A group of Oklahoma men, headed by Mayor Dan Patton of Tulsa, arrived here this afternoon and after refueling departed for Brownsville to attend the christening of the plane to be used by Capt. Ira C. Eaker on his flight to France field, Panama. The party also planned to fly along the border in an effort to see some Mexican revolutionary parties.

Johnston Says He Acted in Good Faith

OKLAHOMA CITY, March 8. (AP)—In issuing deficiency certificates which form the basis of six articles of impeachment preferred against him, Henry S. Johnston, suspended governor of Oklahoma, testified in his impeachment trial today, he acted in good faith, in the conviction, never shaken, that they were necessary and with consideration of precedent established by other governors.

Blast Robs Texas Town Of Light and Power

SANDERSON, Texas, March 8. (AP)—Sanderson tonight was without lights, power and ice making facilities as the result of an explosion and fire which destroyed the Texas-Louisiana power plant here today. The loss was estimated at $50,000.

Oil and gas in the firebox of a boiler furnishing steam for a hoist exploded and the flames spread to all parts of the plant.

Ministerial Alliance Approves Annual Sunrise Easter Services

A sunrise Easter service for the people of Wichita Falls will be given at 5:30 a. m., Sunday, March 31 on the bluffs near the Seymour road west of the city by the local churches, according to plans adopted by the Wichita Falls Ministerial alliance at a meeting held Friday noon at the Y. W. C. A.

The outdoor union meeting on Easter Sunday morning follows a custom of several years standing here. It was stated by Dr. Floyd Allan Bash, pastor of the First Christian church, who was appointed chairman of a committee to make arrangements for the event, that a program similar to that used in former years would be followed. Members of the Reader's club, it was said, under the direction of Mrs. Sterling Crumpler, will present a dramatization of the resurrection story, while prominent musicians of

Backers of Amendment To Renew Battle for Passage in House

FIGHT IS AVERTED

Minister's Remark Brings Two Colleagues To Their Feet

AUSTIN, March 8. (AP)—Beaten by failure to muster two additional votes, house proponents of the $175,000,000 highway bond issue tonight planned for one more determined effort next week to marshal the ballots of 100 lawmakers necessary to submit the constitutional amendment to a vote of the people.

After a day of oratory, climaxed by a near-fight between Representatives Snelgrove of Henderson and Harper, Mount Pleasant minister, the bond plan failed to pass finally by a vote of 98 to 37.

Fight Slated Monday

Petsch of Fredericksburg, a leader in behalf of the plan for extending the state's credit for a highway system, said another attempt to bring it to a vote likely would be made Monday. Petsch declared four legislators pledged to the plan were absent when the vote was taken today, and expressed belief that they would be brought to Austin to take part in the final attempt toward sanction of the amendment.

An opinion of former Atty. Gen. B. F. Looney, written in 1917, and supplemented by another from Atty. Gen. Claude Pollard, will be presented if there arises the contention that the amendment cannot again be acted on, Petsch explained.

Minister Starts Row

The row between Snelgrove and the Rev. Mr. Harper was precipitated by the remark of the minister, speaking in behalf of the plan, that "this is a chance for you who have been advocating 'farm relief' to show whether you are a friend to the farmer or a dirty hypocrite," he shouted.

Snelgrove and Veatch, 78-year-old member, leaped to their feet shouting demands that Harper apologize, while an assistant sergeant-at-arms hurried to the members' desks to prevent further disturbance.

While Acting Speaker Minor was pounding his gavel for order, Snelgrove pointed his finger at Harper and declared "if anybody's a hypocrite, it's him."

Later Harper said that his remarks were not "personal" in their nature.

Action on the bond plan came after its engrossment yesterday by a vote of 94 to 41.

Reporters Dodge Bullets Whole Day But Horse Is Only Casualty Observed

By H. WORTH JONES
Correspondent for the El Paso Herald and the Associated Press

JUAREZ, Chihuahua, Mexico, March 8.—El Paso newspaper reporters snuggled to the floor at the home of Harry Mitchell, Juarez cafe proprietor, today while bullets whizzed into the walls and on all sides of the house as rebels and federal soldiers met in combat during the battle at Juarez.

At times the opposing soldiers fought hand to hand directly in front of the house.

During the fighting bullets crashed through the windows and others buried themselves in the pavement of the street, sending up little puffs of cement dust.

Crawling on their hands and knees, sometimes rolling from place to place, the reporters and members of the Mitchell family spent their time between peeping hurriedly out of windows and running into the basement when the fire grew more intense. Reporters who telephoned their papers called from a position flat on the floor.

Close fighting occurred when a group of about 15 cavalrymen charged toward Lerdo street on the west from Ochoa street. The Mitchell home stands on Lerdo, directly in the face of Ochoa street.

Infantrymen hiding behind posts waited until the horsemen approached within 75 yards of the house before they opened fire. Several hundred shots must have been fired in this encounter, but so far as watchers could see, a horse was the only casualty.

All the newspapermen who were able to get early reports to their

SHERIFF FACES $20,000 SUIT

Illegal Arrest Charged To Archer County Officer

Damages totaling $20,000 for alleged illegal arrest are sought in two suits filed against C. E. Goodwin, sheriff of Archer county, in the 30th district court Friday afternoon.

The plaintiffs, each seeking to recover $10,000 in actual and exemplary damages, are W. S. Powell, oil field worker, and P. D. Dittoe, dairyman. Both claim to have been illegally arrested and thrown in jail in Archer county, and both allege personal and business injuries due to the accompanying "humiliation and disgrace" to themselves and families. Both petitioners are married and each is the father of three children.

Tells of Arrest

According to the petition of W. S. Powell, 39, he had gone to bed on the night of Dec. 18, 1928, when he was awakened and taken from his room by Sheriff Goodwin, incarcerated in the Archer county jail until he made a $1,000 bond, and for a time was kept from communication with his family and his lawyer. The plaintiff alleges that he called for the warrant for his arrest and that Sheriff Goodwin answered: "I don't need any warrant." Mr. Powell asks for $5,000 actual damages and $5,000 exemplary damages against the officer.

P. D. Dittoe was arrested in Wichita Falls on Dec. 19, 1928, "without probable cause or legal authority," his petition says. His Ford car, with an alleged market value of $400, was also seized, he claims, and converted to the use of the defendant. He was illegally held in the Archer county jail until he was able to make a $1,000 bond, the petition goes on.

Second Suit

The plaintiff has been a dairyman in Archer county for the past eight years, and has suffered $5,000 damages to his good reputation, to his business standing, and for the "mental anguish" and suffering of himself and family arising from the affair, his petition asserts. He also asks $5,000 exemplary damages.

Both plaintiffs are represented by Bob Crain, attorney.

Manager Whacks $93,000 From City Budget to Match $1,011,000 Income

Operating funds for the city of Wichita Falls will be $93,451.91 less for the fiscal year which opens April 1 than it was for the past year, according to George D. Fairtrace, city manager.

Revenue for the coming fiscal year is anticipated at $1,011,349.75, while the anticipated revenue at the beginning of the closing year was $1,079,801.66, Mr. Fairtrace said.

The fall in the city's income is due chiefly to the elimination of the sewer tax, which was removed last year after collections for this year had already been made, and to the decrease in the city's water sales, Mr. Fairtrace said.

Almost a 13 per cent increase in the tax rate would have to be made if the city's revenue were raised to its former capital, Mr. Fairtrace said.

The decrease in the city's funds will require the city manager to cut budget requests of the city departments $93,440.87 to make them fit the revenue.

Requests for budgets for the coming fiscal year totaled $1,104,790.60. The work of approving the budget requests and cutting them down to fit the city's revenue will get under way next week, Mr. Fairtrace said.

Humble Buys 750 Acres For Storage Ditches

INGLESIDE, Texas, March 8. (AP)—The Humble Oil and Refining company here today announced purchase of more than 750 acres for additional crude oil storage and drainage ditches.

Plans for seven new stills are here, and foundations for the new cracking coils are being laid. Thirty new storage tanks here and at Port Tank farm also have been authorized.

Aimee Still Has More To Say on Kidnaping

LOS ANGELES, March 8. (UP)—Aimee Semple McPherson still has a confession to make in connection with her kidnaping in 1926, a special dispatch to the Los Angeles Record, quoting Rhavine Burbeck, secretary to the evangelist's mother, Mrs. Minnie Kennedy, said today. "Until that confession is made a reconcilliation is not possible between Mrs. McPherson and Mrs. Kennedy," Miss Burbeck said in Kelso, Wash.

Senate Kills Drastic Search and Seizure Bill

AUSTIN, March 8. (AP)—Search and seizure legislation, demanded by the W. C. T. U. and other dry organizations, probably breathed its last for this session today when the senate killed the Graves house bill, which would have permitted issuance of search warrants on information and belief. The senate voted it down 12 to 9 with four pairs.

Lieut. Gov. Barry Miller earlier in the day temporarily had saved the bill by voting against tabling it after the senate vote was tied.

Man and Wife Killed As Baby Sleeps

WACO, March 8. (AP)—Lisping a "nigger did it," 4-year-old Eva Mae Pedigo who spent last night in a room with her murdered mother while her father lay dead outside the house, today gave the only clue to the murderer of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Pedigo, farmers of Moody, near here.

The couple was found dead this morning by J. C. Jones, landlord, when Pedigo did not report for work. Pedigo was shot twice in the back. The mother, lying beside the bed in which the baby slept, was shot through the head. District Attorney Dick Holt dismissed robbery as a motive when it was discovered Pedigo's watch and money had not been taken.

Showers Follow Warm Days Here

A cool northeast breeze brought showers in its wake here early Friday night.

Clouds, which had been scattered for the most part all day, grew blacker as the day closed, and intermittent rainfall began here about 9 o'clock.

The rain follows by two days the hottest "winter" weather here, which came last Wednesday, when the temperature reached 91 degrees.

Indications were Friday night that colder weather would prevail Saturday, as forecast in the official government report. Sunday, however, a warmer, though partly cloudy, day is forecast.

The showers apparently were local, train dispatchers having no report of rain in other nearby towns.

Ousted Indiana Oil Head to Take Rest

CHICAGO, March 8. (UP)—Col. Robert W. Stewart, deposed chairman of the board of directors of the Standard Oil company of Indiana, left Chicago today "for a rest." His destination was not announced.

Stewart, who yesterday was ousted from the board chairmanship by stockholders supporting the John D. Rockefeller Jr. group of the company, conferred today with his son, Robert G. Stewart, president of the Pan-American Petroleum and Transport company.

Cleveland Man Slain By Three Bandits

NOGALES, Ariz., March 8. (UP)—Floyd Thompson, Cleveland, Ohio, engineer, whose body was found Thursday on the Mexican side of the international boundary here, was killed and robbed by three rebel soldiers and not by persons on the American side of the line, Criminal Investigator Jim Hathaway announced tonight.

Hathaway declared that three Mexican citizens, two men and a woman, saw the soldiers batter Thompson to death with rocks.

AERIAL ATTACK IS THREATENED

MEXICALI, Lower Calif., Mexico, March 8. (AP)—Aerial bombardment of Nogales, Sonora, headquarters of the Mexican revolutionary forces, was threatened today by Gen. Abelardo Rodrigues, governor of Lower California.

The governor was awaiting return of the military plane which he dispatched this morning to Nogales to drop circulars warning the troops and civilian population to return to the Mexican colors.

"Yes, I sent the plane," the governor told the Associated Press correspondent, "and the next time they will carry something more effective than circulars."

The airplane threw the populace into excitement at first, as fear of an air attack arose. The sight of the handbills fluttering earthward calmed the residents, and they read the message eagerly. The text of the handbill read:

"Soldiers: The order of the day makes known to us that a rebellion was brought on by superior officers who are misleading you.

"We, the soldiers of the ninth zone, comply with our duty. We shall defend the supreme government, and shall sacrifice our lives when necessary, but never will be tools in this rebellion, started by politicians who never expose themselves.

"We invite you to present a solid front, for peace and order by the straight road and discipline.

"In a few words, return to your duty; be patriotic. Do not leave to your children the shame of having been traitors.

Oklahomans to See Eaker Plane Christening

SAN ANTONIO, March 8. (AP)—A group of Oklahoma men, headed by Mayor Dan Patton of Tulsa, arrived here this afternoon and after refueling departed for Brownsville to attend the christening of the plane to be used by Capt. Ira C. Eaker on his flight to France field, Panama. The party also planned to fly along the border in an effort to see some Mexican revolutionary parties.

Sliced School Funds To Be Aired at Parley

AUSTIN, March 8. (AP)—Presidents of the colleges affected, members of the senate finance committee and Governor Moody will confer tomorrow on the governor's action in cutting all except about $300,000 from the $1,447,807 emergency educational appropriation bill.

Eaker's Flight Across Mexican Wilds Delayed Because of War

WASHINGTON, March 8. (AP)—Capt. Ira C. Eaker's proposed dawn-to-dusk flight from Brownsville, Texas, to Panama, has been indefinitely postponed because of complications arising out of the Mexican revolution.

Assistant Secretary Davison of the war department announced postponement of the flight, after he had been in conference with officials of the state department for several hours. While Mr. Davison declined to give any reasons for the flight's postponement, it was understood that the uncertainty of air travel through the regions affected by the revolt forced the decision.

Captain Eaker has been instructed to "stand by," at San Antonio to await further instructions, on the flight. It is understood that he will carry out the proposed good will flight to Panama, making several stops for re-fueling en route, just as soon as conditions are favorable.

JUAREZ, Chihuahua, March 8.—Revolters against the Mexican government carried their battle cry to the Rio Grande today with machine gun and rifle barrage through the streets of this battle scarred border city and tonight were in complete possession of the prized railroad center.

Descending on the city after a machine gun barrage, the rebels, 2,000 strong, fought back some 600 federal soldiers; captured in quick succession the seven places of fortification they had set up, and forced a truce a few hours afterward, with the federals in full retreat on the banks of the Rio Grande.

Baby Girl Killed

American artillery lined the American banks of the river that borders Mexico and Texas, presenting a steady reminder to the fighting forces that no menace to American life and property would be countenanced.

One American casualty, however, was reported on the Texas side of the river. Baby Lydia Roberts, a 2-year-old infant, whose parents are American citizens, was killed by a stray bullet.

Another American, Teddy Barnes, was found dead in Juarez after the battle. His body lay beneath several slain soldiers near federal headquarters at the Rio Bravo hotel. Barnes was a bartender in the Mint cafe.

The battle began just after dawn and by noon the federals were ready to quit.

Truce Arranged

Driven to the banks of the river after a sharp street battle in which guns and rifles popped briskly for two hours, federal soldiers under Gen. Mathias Ramos sent word to the American side through Brig. Gen. George Van Horn Moseley, commander at Fort Bliss, that hostilities were over. Within a short time a truce was arranged between rebel and federal chieftains. Casualties for the government were estimated at 13 dead and for the rebels nine dead. Many of each side were wounded.

Rebels with red bands on their arms, to distinguish them from their former fellows in arms of the Mexican army, slipped close to Juarez under cover of darkness today and when the mists of the early morning were rising the battle of gun fire was on.

Three Entries

Moving to Juarez from the east and west, the rebels opened fire simultaneously from both sides and at the same time a train of box-cars backed down the tracks of the Mexico National railways into the heart of the city. There was a lull after the first onslaught as federals withdrew from house tops where they had posted machine guns and the fight concentrated in the main streets of the city, Calle Commercio and Sixteenth of September.

These thoroughfares, lined by open bars and gambling houses, went to be patronized by folks from the American side, were the scene of spectacular fighting. Some dead were left in the street and windows of buildings were shattered by bullets.

Federals Retreat

Federal soldiers gradually withdrew and by 8 a. m. their forces were driven to the river bank and into an irrigation ditch west of the city. There they maintained desultory fighting throughout the morning. Stray bullets from the battle fell in El Paso where two children were reported wounded shortly after the conflict was under way.

A bullet went through the car of American army officers parked on the El Paso end of the international bridge and some bullets flew 20 or more blocks into the city.

The shooting became more desultory as the rebels slowly spanned the city. Shortly before noon Brig. Gen. Moseley crossed the international bridge and conferred with the federal commander, General Ramos, asking permission to cross the federal lines to warn Gen. Miguel Valles, in charge of the rebel forces, against firing across the river.

Mosely Makes Peace

General Ramos suggested to Moseley that the federal position was such that it seemed hopeless to continue the battle and that he would be willing to quit if the rebels would cease firing and consent either to grant guarantees of safety or permit the federals to be interned on the American side.

Brig. Gen. Moseley then walked to the rebel headquarters in the Mesa hotel, where he met General Valles, who accompanied him to the customs house, which the rebels took after a brief skirmish late in the morning. Here the details of capitulation were discussed, and a truce called.

Gen. M. J. Limon, one of the Juarez military commanders, narrowly escaped being shot when rebels fired with a machine gun from the top of a hotel building while the general was riding on a caboose. One of the trainmen was killed but General Limon was uninjured.

Crowds See Fight

All morning the federal line, including about 50 soldiers and citizen volunteers and Fifth cavalry men held the line along the river. There were frequent outbursts of rifle and machine gun fire interspersed with bugle calls.

On the international bridge and at the ends of El Paso streets meeting the Rio Grande, there were large crowds braving chance bullets to witness the show. The occasional whine of a bullet sent scores scurrying behind buildings for shelter.

After the tide of battle ebbed, Mexicans thronged the streets of Juarez. Rebel officers took charge of affairs with the retreat of the federals to a dike at the river, and issued strict orders against looting. Conditions were orderly. Saloons were closed and business was suspended.

Parley Held

When General Moseley, accompanied by two aides and a number of newspapermen, drove with General Ramos to the headquarters of general Valles, a great throng of curious Mexicans swarmed about his automobile. The conference between the two was dramatic. General Moseley, opening the meeting, said:

"The first consideration that brought me over was that several bullets fired perpendicularly with the river's course, crossed the line and wounded some persons. I wish to get assurance that this shall not be repeated."

Through an interpreter General Valles said he was sorry for this, but that it could not be helped. He declared he had issued strict orders that no American lives be endangered.

General Moseley then added:

"General Ramos authorized me to say that he realized lack of hope in continuing defense in his position and that he would be glad to enter the United States territory and be interned if General Valles would issue an order to cease firing."

After further discussion General Valles accompanied General Moseley to the Mexican consulate. There an extended discussion was held over the question of whether the federals should cross in American territory or lay down their arms in Juarez under guarantees from rebels. It was reported that an agreement was made to intern the federal soldiers at Fort Bliss.

SITUATION SAID TO FAVOR GOVERNMENT

MEXICO CITY, March 8. (US)—Developments in the Mexican revolution today were distinctly in favor of the federal government, especially in so far as localization of the conflict with the rebels was concerned. With rebel activity at Vera Cruz and Coahuila eliminated, and the lines of communication almost entirely reestablished, Gen. Plutarco Elias Calles, in his capacity as war minister, completed plans for an aggressive campaign on the rebels in the northwest.

Southern Coahuila has been entirely cleared of the rebels under Gen. Gonzales Escobar, and the remaining 1,600 men under Gen. Jesus M. Aguirre, who held Vera Cruz, are assumed to be nearing doom between the strong federal contingents converging upon them.

Defections No Surprise

While the defection of Generals Amaya, Urbalejo and Caravero were no part of the government's problems until yesterday, the fact is that they were deemed doubtful all along with the result that their support was discounted since last Sunday. The effect of this was, however, that the main core of the revolution in Sonora had more room to expand than would otherwise have been the case.

The rebel generals so far prominent in the revolt are those who actually command federal troops. During the last two days, however, a number of generals without forces have cast their lot with the rebels, among these being Gen. Antonio I. Villareal who until this act was one of the pre-convention candidates for the presidential nomination. Another is Gen. Raoul Madero, brother of the late president Francisco Madero. Gens. Manuel Amaya and Luis Gutierrez also joined the rebels.

North to Decide

On the northern front is where this revolution is to be decided, the war office asserts, with the outlook good at this moment that the line will be established by hostile contact within three or four days, after which it will rapidly move northward.

A survey of the situation from the air, as made yesterday and today by war department planes, shows the Sonora rebels effecting a forward moving concentration southward from the north and center of Sonora, the chief feature of which is that a strong column is moving toward the Pacific coast north of the city of Durango for the purpose of blocking the rebel line advance toward the south.

In this initial maneuver the loyal forces have the advantage of rail communication which is much superior to rebel rail facilities.

It is the intention of the federal commanders to make the greatest possible use of motor transportation. Many trucks are being sent toward the front, which are capable of carrying 60 men each. Six of these form a unit, and are able to move forward at a good speed for a Mexican batallion.

HEATHS GAIN VIGOR AND NEW ENERGY ON TAKING SARGON

"My 'phone number is 4-4135 and anyone may call and I'll be glad to tell them what I think of Sargon—and that ought to be proof of its worth."

Mrs. W. J. Heath, 1908 Cockrell St., Dallas, made the above statement recently to the Sargon representative. Her husband, civil engineer for the Proctor-Gamble Co. said:

MRS. W. J. HEATH

"I don't believe any two people ever suffered more with stomach trouble than my wife and I. I could scarcely eat anything and my wife had to live on corn-flakes, milk and liquid foods. Nothing agreed with us. We always carried soda about with us so we could get a little temporary relief after meals. We had to use strong laxatives continually. Extreme nervousness, biliousness and headaches harassed both of us and many a time we'd walk the floor, unable to sleep. Many days I couldn't go to work.

"Recently I came home and found two bottles of Sargon and Sargon Soft Mass Pills on the mantel. My wife said: 'I'm tired of suffering and know you are. I've heard so much about this Sargon that we are going to try it.'

"Very shortly after we started taking it we both began to improve and now we can eat anything without bad effect. Our nervousness left us; also the aches and pains. Our strength and vigor returned and we now sleep soundly, and get up filled with energy and hearty appetites.

"Our liver troubles were overcome almost at once by Sargon Soft Mass Pills and our biliousness and headaches disappeared. These pills are wonderful for they don't sicken or purge in the least. They are dependable too.

"We are in fine shape and I don't believe either of us ever enjoyed better health."

Sargon may be obtained in Wichita Falls from the Renfro Drug Co., Eighth and Scott streets, No. 1 main store, and Seventh and Indiana, No. 2; and in Electra from Clough's Drug store.—Adv.

papers highly praised the telephone girls who remained on duty at their posts in the telephone exchange until communication was cut off. There was considerable fighting just outside the telephone exchange before the wires were cut.

To watchers in the Mitchell home it appeared the heaviest fighting of the day occurred about 9:30 this morning. The engagement seemed to center at Sixteenth of September street and Lerdo. Machine gun fire added its steady rumble to what seemed to be the popping of hundreds of pistols and rifles as the rebels charged west on the main street toward Rio Bravo hotel, federal headquarters. Horsemen and infantry charged across the street in full view of spectators in the Mitchell home.

Suddenly several foot soldiers came north on Lerdo street and stopped directly in front of the Mitchell home. They moved on down the street into the midst of intermittent fighting. A group of federal cavalry charged up to the soldiers in the street with pistols and rifles levelled at them.

"Who are you for" yelled an officer.

"For the government," came the answer.

"Well, that's all right," the cavalry leader replied.

For a moment it seemed the two groups were on the same side. Then, without warning, both sides opened fire simultaneously.

Inside the Mitchell home reporters took chances with stray bullets and others crawled to safer positions behind the walls. Members of the Mitchell family joked with them. "Sounds just like Chicago," someone observed casually, and laughter drowned out, momentarily, the sound of firing.

About this time foot soldiers were blazing away within 25 feet of the house. One soldier, who appeared to be a federal, spotted himself on the curbing in front of the house and lit a cigaret while bullets whizzed past him.

The antics of that lone warrior amused watchers from the Mitchell home. He'd duck take a puff at his cigaret, and then with a loud yell would throw his gun to his shoulder, take aim and blaze away. He repeated the performance several times and then sauntered away, still puffing the cigaret.

Several men, apparently officers, drove slowly past the house in an automobile, firing casually as they proceeded. From a rear window the spectators saw two soldiers sniping from the Rio Bravo hotel. Both remained there until the battle was nearly over.

About a block down the street from the Mitchell residence infantry rebels and federals met in hand-to-hand conflict. One rebel on horseback, carrying a machine gun, swooped down in the midst of the federals and opened a rat-tat-tat with his gun. The federals scattered. One man fell in the fight but was picked up by his comrades and carried away.

The observers watched a group of rebels capture some federal snipers in a house a block from their position. The capture came about after the insurgents had searched carefully, expecting to witness an execution, but instead the prisoners walked calmly away with the rebels marching behind them.

A little later firing broke out afresh at the Rio Bravo hotel. On all sides came the tinkle of glass shattered by bullets.

"Come out of there, you dirty, double-crossing diablos," a soldier yelled from a sidewalk in front of the Mitchell home as the fighting was at its height in the center of the town. No one answered.

A moment later five shots rang out and reporters peeped out in time to see the lone challenger fleeing up the street with bullets kicking dust at his heels.

The most exasperating part of the whole battle was the fact that the reporters would not distinguish rebels from federals. One couldn't tell who was winning the fracas.

On more than one occasion the non-combatants huddled in the Mitchell home thought the battle was over when lulls in the firing came. More than once they sallied out into the street only to plunge pell mell for safety as firing broke out anew.

At 10 a. m. telephone communication went out. Then about a half hour later when firing had ceased curious residents of the neighborhood began poking their heads out doors and windows. Cautiously residents began to appear on the streets. The reporters followed.

Newspaper men felt more secure when no more shots were heard and they walked toward the main part of the town. There the city still was in panic. Rebel generals stood about in front of the Rio Bravo hotel, the building that a few hours earlier had housed the government commanders.

Along came Albino Frias, former chief of police of Juarez, turned rebel. He came in company with a detachment of federals, evidently prisoners.

Frias was in high good humor as he bantered with the rebel generals and took a drink out of a bottle offered him by the rebel general, De la Vega, who sat on a horse. A reporter bustled up to Frias and asked for a statement. "Aw, get away from here; we're too busy," said the former chief of police, taking another drink.

Forum Auditorium Crowded To Hear Artists in Religious Drama

By MARJORIE MATHIS
The Record News Staff

Before an audience which filled every seat in the Woman's Forum and overflowed into the passageways, Charles Rann Kennedy and Edith Wynne Mathison, working with the support of Miss Margaret Gage, Friday evening put the full measure of their delicacy and power into their presentation of "The Chastening."

The three artists, working through a vehicle of universal spiritual significance and against a background of austere simplicity, held the large audience engrossed in an absolute silence throughout the two hour single act of the drama.

"The Chastening," is an interpretation of the humbling of human pride before the splendour of divine revelation. The cumulative power of the play, rising to a tremendous climax in the prayer of Mary, the mother of Jesus, depends entirely on the authentic artistry of the players. None of the accessories of the spectacle are present to give it support, and in the hands of the three who offered it Friday night, none are needed.

Edith Wynne Matthison brings to her interpretation of the mother of Jesus, wrung with the realization of her son's inevitable martyrdom, the full, sure touch of her matured artistry. Around her the more struggling Joseph, drawn blindly toward his own realization and resignation, and the radiant boy Jesus, played by Kennedy and Miss Gage.

"The Chastening" is one of the first of Charles Rann Kennedy's own plays, written for himself and his wife and their company. It was offered under the sponsorship of the Forum, and is representative of the movement in the drama being led by Kennedy and his followers.

New Industry Plan Backed

the board of directors, became a plank in the constructive platform of the chamber of commerce for 1929, and the analysis now being made through Mr. Chatham's office is expected to result in a number of industries being established here during the coming 12 months with the securities sold in small denominations.

The plan, as outlined in the letter accompanying the questionnaire, will provide a partial payment plan for the purchase of even the smallest stocks or bonds. A local investing committee of sound, successful business leaders will pass upon such enterprises before any of their securities are offered for sale here, it was stated.

The information given on the questionnaires is to be treated as strictly confidential by chamber of commerce officials. Mr. Chatham said, and conveys no obligation of any kind on the part of the citizen to purchase any stocks or bonds which may later be offered for sale.

So far as is known by officials of the local organization, no other chamber of commerce in this part of the country has evolved a plan similar to that now under way here for the capitalization of new industries. Several weeks will be required, it was stated, to complete the analysis through the means of the questionnaires, but the returns thus far received were said to indicate that thousands of local citizens will be stockholders in manufacturing establishments which it is hoped will be in operation in Wichita Falls within a year from this time.

Sunrise Easter Service Planned

the city will furnish the musical service. Detailed plans will be announced within the next few days, Dr. Bash stated.

The alliance also voted to hold special passion week services on Friday, March 29, from noon to 3 o'clock at the First Christian church. The meeting will be for members of all local congregations, and will be devoted to short sermons and musical numbers presenting the seven sayings of Jesus while on the cross. Pastors and choirs of seven churches in the city will be asked to prepare that part of the service, it was stated.

The luncheon meeting closed with an address by Miss Doris Shelton, formerly a missionary in Tibet. Miss Shelton discussed the customs, culture, and religious beliefs of the Tibetans, in whose land she and her parents have spent most of their lives. Her father, a physician had been admitted originally to residence within a country which forbids the entrance of foreigners through his ministrations to subjects, and a subsequent friendship with the grand Llama, as their ruler is styled. Dr. Shelton was martyred in that country seven years ago, the speaker stated.

Among the Tibetan customs regarded by western people as unusually peculiar Miss Shelton mentioned their fear of persons having blue eyes. To such men the dark-eyed Tibetans ascribe the power of penetrating visually to a depth of several feet under ground; and since their strongboxes are kept in shallow underground hiding places, the blue-eyed visitor is regarded as a potential thief. A unique feature of their native religious practice is the insistence upon constant prayer, and a four-way method of offering such petitions. If the supplicant be too busy talking for vocal utterance of prayers, prescribed motions of hand or foot are substituted. The fourth method of praying is by means of a small box mounted on a stick on which it easily revolves. Revolution of the prayer box in one direction constitutes an orthodox prayer, while whirling it in the opposite direction is the chosen method of cursing. According to their belief, the "Great Uncle" who will appraise the completed life of a Tibetan will measure their attained worth in terms of constant prayer and unfailing hospitality while alive.

The members of the Ministerial alliance will meet on the second Friday of each month, it was stated, at the Y. W. C. A. Rev. W. D. Bratton presided at Friday's meeting in the absence of the president, Rev. W. D. Townsend.

NOTED RABBI SPEAKS HERE

Temple Israel Crowded For Talk on Peace

Members of the congregation of Temple Israel, a body of American Legion members and visitors from civic organizations filled the temple auditorium Friday night at the Sabbath services, during which Rabbi Michael Aaronson of Cincinnati, Ohio, delivered a sermon on the subject, "A Way to Peace."

Rabbi Aaronson is the national field representative of the Union of American Hebrew Congregations, and also field secretary for the Hebrew Union college, which is located in Cincinnati. The former organization is made up of the liberal Jewish congregations of the United States, and the college is devoted to the training of rabbis for their pulpits.

In his sermon, the speaker sought to show the relationship between the problems of crime, marriage and divorce, and world peace.

"These are all fundamentally religious problems," Rabbi Aaronson said. "If the United States is to aid in outlawing war among the nations of the world; if we are to make war a loathsome anachronism, we must give particular heed to the moral structure of the nation."

Rabbi S. J. Schwab presided during the services. At the beginning of the hour, members of the local American Legion post marched to a reserved section preceded by a guard bearing the national colors. Vocal numbers were given by Mrs. A. H. Mahaffey and Baldwin Montgomery, with Mrs. Carrie E. Wilcox at the organ.

Rabbi Aaronson, accompanied by his sister, Miss Dora Aaronson, will remain in Wichita Falls until Monday afternoon. He will speak Saturday morning at 10 o'clock at the Sabbath school assembly at Temple Isreal, and again on Sunday morning at junior assembly.

Six Building Permits For $6,300 Issued Here

Six building permits for $6,300 were issued Friday by the city engineering department.

Permits for the construction of residences at 505 and 503 Welch street were issued to Walter and Homer Thompson, respectively. The houses are to cost $1,500 each and the McAbee Building and Lumber company was named as contractor for both jobs.

A permit for repair work amounting to $2,000 on a residence at 2702 Ninth street was issued to C. E. Basham. Charles Hill was named as contractor.

A permit for $500 repairs at 1515 Kemp boulevard was issued to W. A. Stuckey while a permit for repair work of $300 was issued to Mrs. W. W. Mann of 1409 Austin street. The Lydick Roofing company was named as contractor for the latter job.

Tom Anderson was issued a permit for $500 repair to a residence at 711 Jalonic street. The work is to be done by the McAbee Building and Lumber company.

WASHINGTON MOVES TO AID FEDERALS

WASHINGTON, March 8. (UP)—The Hoover administration moved three times today to aid the Mexican government while rebel troops stormed and took the city of Juarez across the border from El Paso.

Despite Juarez' fall before the rebel attack, official opinion here was confident of President Portes Gil's ability to cope with the rebellion. It was pointed out that Juarez was an isolated city held by a comparatively small body of federal forces.

The real test of federal and rebel strength still is to come, it was believed here, when loyal troops attack the rebel General Escobar, in the vicinity of Torreon, state of Durango. And on the west coast a rebel army which was reported advancing slowly southward remains to be disposed of.

Developments today were as follows:

1. Commercial airplanes were placed on the embargo list by the state department to prevent rebels from obtaining wings in the United States.

2. Licenses were issued by Secretary of State Kellogg to private arms manufacturers to export arms to the Mexican government.

3. The United States government approved a Mexican government request for permission to purchase some of the rifles and ammunition held in reserve for the American army.

CAMPBELL TO SPEAK TODAY

Boys' Worker to Outline Survey at Luncheon

The prospects of organizing clubs here for underprivileged boys was discussed by Alexander Campbell, national field director of boys work, at a meeting of several members of the Community chest Friday afternoon.

Definite plans as to what steps will be followed in the organization of boys clubs here will be discussed by Mr. Campbell at a luncheon at noon Saturday at the Wichita club.

Mr. Campbell arrived in Wichita Falls Friday to make a survey and to recommend the steps in the organization of clubs here.

Among those who were present at the meeting Friday afternoon were J. T. Harrell, J. L. Jackson Jr., H. A. Gray Jr., J. H. Allison, W. D. Cline, Mrs. W. W. Cook, Mrs. C. Joline and Miss Myrle Neely.

DON'T NEGLECT DAILY ROUGHAGE

Kellogg's ALL-BRAN Will Supply It in Generous Quantities

There's danger in diets that lack bulk. This roughage is absolutely necessary to keep well. Without it constipation begins its deadly work. Unless prevented its poisons will ruin health, steal beauty, blast hopes.

Sallow complexions, headaches, listlessness are signs that constipation is present. But these can be banished—health and vigor can be regained by eating Kellogg's ALL-BRAN.

Kellogg's ALL-BRAN is 100% bran and is 100% effective. It is guaranteed to bring natural, sure relief. Eat two tablespoonfuls daily—chronic cases, with every meal. Doctors recommend it.

A delicious cereal to serve with milk or cream. Delicious in cooked dishes. Recipes are on the package. Your grocer sells ALL-BRAN. Hotels, restaurants and dining-cars serve it. Made by Kellogg in Battle Creek.

SENATE FAVORS LAND TAXATION

Levy on University Tracts Engrossed

AUSTIN, March 8. (AP)—A house joint resolution by Representative Penrose Metcalfe of San Angelo, proposing a constitution amendment to permit taxation of university lands for county purposes was engrossed by the senate today by a viva voce vote.

Talks in favor of a referendum on the subject were made by Senator Thomas B. Love of Dallas, and Senator Walter C. Woodward of Coleman.

The constitutional amendment proposed by Senator Hyer designed to remove all doubts as to the constitutionality of statutes like the Small land title validating bill, passed over the governor's objection, was finally adopted by the senate, 27 to 3.

Senator C. C. Small of Wellington, author of the land bill, opposed the resolution as unnecessary despite the fact the attorney general held his measure unconstitutional.

Senator Woodward had an amendment adopted which would prevent the legislature from validating patents obtained through fraud or in violation of constitutional inhibitions.

Naval Command Changes Are Made

WASHINGTON, March 8. (INS)—Coincident with the change of administrations, a number of changes were made today in the high commands of the navy.

Admiral William V. Pratt becomes commander in chief of the United States fleet, succeeding Admiral Henry A. Wiley, and Vice Admiral Louis N. Nulton becomes commander in chief of the battle fleet.

The new fleet commander, Admiral Pratt, is a native of Maine, and was one of the naval experts who accompanied President Wilson to Paris.

Death Proves Sex Of Woman's Roommate

ST. LOUIS, Mo., March 8. (UP)—When the body of Mrs. Rose Dickburn, former able housekeeper and cook, was taken to the city morgue after she had committed suicide in a gas-filled room, she proved to be a man, Stanley Rhover of Lexington, Ky.

A woman who roomed with "Mrs. Dickburn" for a month told police she never suspected "her" sex but that "she" had acted queerly and at one time offered to wash "her" roommate's back but was curtly refused.

Huge Wedding Cake Mailed to Mexico

EVANSVILLE, Ind., March 8. (UP)—A wedding cake, so large that its postage cost $38.75, addressed to Miss Anne Spencer Morrow, Mexico City, Mex., passed through here today via airmail.

The cake, assumed to have been baked for Miss Morrow's marriage to Col. Charles A. Lindbergh, was made in Nashville, Tenn. It was said that the cake would be sent from here to Chicago on an interstate airline plane where it would be transferred to another ship for its trip to Mexico City.

Farmers Holding More Grain, Report Shows

WASHINGTON, March 8. (INS)—Farmers in the United States held approximately 43,800,000 tons of wheat, corn, oats, barley and rye on their farms on March 1, compared with 39,900,000 tons last year, the crop reporting board of the department of agriculture announced today. The estimate includes grain for sale, as well as the amounts used for seed, feed and other farm uses until the close of the crop season.

Wood Alcohol Held Cause of 20 Deaths

CHICAGO, March 8. (UP)—Wood alcohol, testing 95 per cent, was responsible for the 20 poison liquor deaths in Peoria, Ill., and neighboring communities, a government chemist's report said today.

The report of the analysis of the Peoria liquor was submitted to George H. Huribut, deputy prohibition administrator of the Chicago area. Huribut said the analysis showed the liquor to be "some of the finest wood alcohol obtainable."

Coolidge Magazine Article Published

NEW YORK, March 8. (UP)—Calvin Coolidge, author, opened his mind and heart to the American people for the first time today and revealed that he found tragedy instead of glory in the White House.

In an article published by the Cosmopolitan magazine Coolidge mentions the death of his son, Calvin, and the passing of the president's father as two severe burdens he was called upon to bear while directing a nation's destiny.

Combined New York and Chicago Probe Solves 'Hired' Massacre

CHICAGO, March 8. (UP)—A connecting link between two unsolved murders in New York and the massacre of seven members of the "Bugs" Moran gang here on Feb. 14 was definitely established today as Chicago and New York police officials concluded a series of conferences on the ratifications of the "murder for hire" traffic.

Assistant States' Attorney Stansbury said today that developments in the massacre investigation had progressed to a stage where officials here were convinced that the men who instigated the St. Valentine's day murder also engineered the slaying of "Frankie" Uale, late Brooklyn, N. Y., booze nabob, and Arnold Rothstein, nationally known gambler.

BANK ROBBERY SUSPECT HELD

Man Wanted at Texas City Jailed at New Boston

NEW BOSTON, Texas, March 8. (AP)—Johnny Martin, wanted in connection with robbery of the First National bank at Texas City, was in jail here today. Martin was taken into custody by Sheriff G. H. Brooks and two officers while he slept in the home of a neighbor near De Kalb Thursday.

Sheriff R. E. Kirk of Galveston county was expected here late today to take Martin back to Galveston for trial.

Sheriff Brooks said he had heard Martin was seen near De Kalb in the company of a woman who lived in that section, and made plans to arrest him. With Deputy White, the sheriff went to the home of a man who lived near where Martin was staying and found Martin asleep.

"Sheriff Brooks threw his gun on Martin," Deputy Sheriff Elliott said today. "He found Martin had a pistol under his pillow."

Martin readily admitted his identity, Deputy Elliott said. His arm, shot in a hotel fight in Birmingham, still was sore.

Reporter Worries About His Coffee As Bullets Whiz

EL PASO, Texas, March 8. (AP)—History records that Nero fiddled while Rome burned, but his nonchalance was no greater than that of Lester B. Sutcliffe, a reporter for the El Paso Herald today in Juarez, who though bullets from revolutionary rifles were flying about him, thought of lack of cream for his coffee.

Concealed in an adobe house in Juarez directly in the line of opposing fire, Sutcliffe spent the night and morning giving telephone reports on the progress of the battle for possession of the city to the editorial rooms of the Herald.

There was little doing during the night, but with the coming of dawn there came the put-put-put-put of a machine gun.

"Things are flying rather thick and fast here," Sutcliffe told his office.

As the firing increased, Sutcliffe could see the rebels advancing.

"Here comes the milk man," shouted Sutcliffe through the phone, "now for our morning coffee."

The milk man approached the house from his wagon, which he left parked in the street. As he approached closer the women residents of the house started to the door to take the delivery. At the same time machine gunners got the range of the house.

The milk man started to flee, dropping the cream meant for Sutcliffe's coffee. The horses took their cue from the milk man and started down the street.

"Oh," said Sutcliffe over the phone, "there goes the cream for my coffee."

Then he continued an account of the battle.

Federal Court Dismisses Cotton County Suit

Special to The Record News

WALTERS, Okla., March 8.—The cause of the Green River Trust bank of Dallas vs. the city of Devol and the excise board of Cotton county, filed in the equity division of the federal court sitting at Oklahoma City, has just been dismissed by that order on the ground that action should be taken in the law division of federal court, preferably at Lawton.

The bank began this action to force the county excise board to levy sufficient taxes in the city of Devol to pay bonded indebtedness of the city which had matured. Judgment against the city will be necessary before the board may be required to levy the additional tax.

Rotary Club to Be Formed at Breckenridge

Special to The Record News

BRECKENRIDGE, Texas, March 8.—Breckenridge is to have a Rotary club. Signatures have been secured to a charter membership list and a meeting will be held Tuesday for organization purposes, following which application will be made for a charter. It is the hope of those enrolling to secure the charter in time to go to the district convention to be held at Ranger on March 22 as the "baby club" of the forty-first district. Rotarians from Abilene, Cisco and Mineral Wells were here Tuesday night in a meeting before the prospective members and put on a "Rotary education" program.

A Great Discovery

When Pasteur discovered, in 1852, that the infection of wounds was caused by malignant bacteria, he performed a service of inestimable value to mankind. Since then medical science has been producing better and better antiseptics, to kill these germs that may enter the smallest cut and give us diseases such as typhoid, tuberculosis and lockjaw. Now, all you have to do to be sure that these dreadful germs will not infect a wound, is to wash that wound, however small, thoroughly with Liquid Borosone, the modern antiseptic. You can get Liquid Borosone, in a size to fit your needs and purse, from Miller Drug Store.

Dr. Michelson's correction is expected to benefit civilization to the tune of billions.

SIN IS NOT only paying record wages, but apparently handing out juicy bits on the side. The grey wolves of politics are taking their vulpine share, and ugly whispers of connivance with outlaw interests even pollute the court-room.

Assassination, kidnaping and extortion are now more prevalent in these United States than in the Dark Ages. They have become organized sources of livelihood, just as the trade of "bravo" was a recognized profession throughout Renaissance Italy.

Violence is roving streets and highways, pouncing upon payrolls and bank collections, as brazenly as Rhine barons once raided goods-trains and pilfered the packs of traveling merchants.

Pint-selling bootleggers begin to fill the "life" cells of state penitentiaries—but the snares of justice and the trap-lines of prohibition continue empty of big game.

A new generation is maturing in utter contempt of the community's punitive power.

An outfit of knee-pants burglars has just been caught in Illinois. A 12-year lad is the oldest in the lot. Each of them was a gun-toter and confessedly prepared to shoot his way to freedom.

The unchecked spread of homicide and banditry suggests that society can well afford to abate its pursuit of criminal germs and untamed energies, to devote more of its investigative genius to the underworld.

It's all right fer a girl to be intelligent if she's figurin' on a business career, but if she's goin' to marry instead o' settlin' down it won't help her any. Who recalls when theater shows used to advertise an' guarantee an' make a great ado over not offendin' the most fastidious?

A New York man arrested as a burglar, who told police he slipped on an orange peel and in falling broke the lock of a tailor shop door, then took $12 from the cash register because the tailor owed him that much for running errands, ought to go to Hollywood. That's the stuff of which movies are made.

Dr. Zinser of Harvard urges the underpaid pioneers in medical science wed heiresses. That ought to be a nice plan for newspapermen too.

Conservation and the Walton League

TWO RECENT movements sponsored by the Izaak Walton league of Wichita Falls are deserving of public support and commendation. The first of these, a movement that has been in progress for some time, is the establishment of chapters of the league in many towns in the Wichita Falls neighborhood. Nothing but public good can come of such expansion.

The work of the Izaak Walton league is devoted not solely to the sports of field and stream, although it numbers many devotees of the rod and gun among its members, perhaps because these men (and women) realize more keenly than others the rapidity with which our stocks of game and fish are being depleted. More important than this, however, the league stands for conservation of natural resources, of a few beauty spots and natural playgrounds for the benefit and pleasure of the public. It would perpetuate, so far as is possible under modern conditions, the few remaining majestic works of nature that once distinguished this country. At times it has stood with courage for the rights of future generations against the thoughtless and rapacious demands of the present. Its program is and has always been one that could command the admiration and aid of every public spirited citizen.

A second movement, launched at the last meeting of the league, seeks the establishment of a brooding pond at Diversion lake for the growing of fish for the lakes and streams of this area. The league asks the state's cooperation in this, and in the securing of a large number of fingerling bass for the three Wichita lakes. This project will have an immediate benefit to Wichita Falls and Northwest Texas. It is doubtful if any other section has so many enthusiastic fishermen, or if any other section has such a large percentage of its population devoted to the sport. These anglers deserve to have well stocked lakes and streams as an incentive to their recreation. If reports of game wardens are taken as a basis, few other areas can boast of such strict adherence to the law governing closed seasons as marks the majority of the residents of this section. And in the final consideration, this latter practice should outweigh all others in the support and cooperation given the league's program both by the state and by the public at large.

Madness in the Crowd

THE PLATFORM of a New York subway station was jammed with a crowd of home-going workers. Packed closely together, men and women waited restlessly for their trains.

Suddenly a panic broke out. A stocky laborer, demented, drew a long knife, and began slashing indiscriminately at those about him. There was no chance for anyone to get away; indeed, the jam was so dense that half a dozen or more people were cut before the madman could be subdued.

All of this made only a brief newspaper item. Yet the story gave a graphic picture of the terror that held that crowd during the few moments that the maniac wielded his knife. It was easy to see the whole thing; the mass of people, waiting for a train just as they always did, suspecting nothing, suddenly driven wild by fear when one of their number went insane and drew a knife. None of us would envy any man his place in that mob that night.

Nothing terrifies us so much as madness. We can understand downright malice, hatred or wickedness; a tincture of those qualities is always present in our own hearts. We know how to cope with such things. But the thought that a man has lost all reason and has become uncontrolled fury, unpredictable and unreasoning, is supremely unnerving.

Yet the psychologists tell us that our modern life breeds madness more than any former era. The pace is so fast that only the hardy can stand up under it. The weak, who might get along well enough in a more leisurely, placid time, give way—and we have horrible outbreaks ranging all the way from this subway slashing to the Hickman case.

That is one of the prices we pay for trying to move so fast. We may not know exactly where we are going, but we are all quite sure that we want to get there quickly. So even the business of getting to and from our daily jobs becomes a matter of jams and hectic confusion. We never get a chance to get away from one another. Always, from one year's end to another, we are the victims of crowds.

In most people, of course, this produces little more than a mild, nervous irritation. But it is small wonder that occasionally a man breaks down and goes on a rampage. The New York man, cutting indiscriminately at the crowd that oppressed him, was only doing what a great many perfectly sane people have often felt like doing.

Probably it will be a long time before we get this matter of crowds and hurried movements settled. But settle it we must, sooner or later. The human soul has few needs more imperative than the need for frequent personal isolation. As long as we continue to step on each other's toes every morning and evening we shall continue to be under a strain that will irritate us all and madden a few.

"No more crowding" would be a fine slogan for someone to put on a banner and wave up and down the land like a war flag. It would draw a huge army of eager, if slightly tired, recruits.

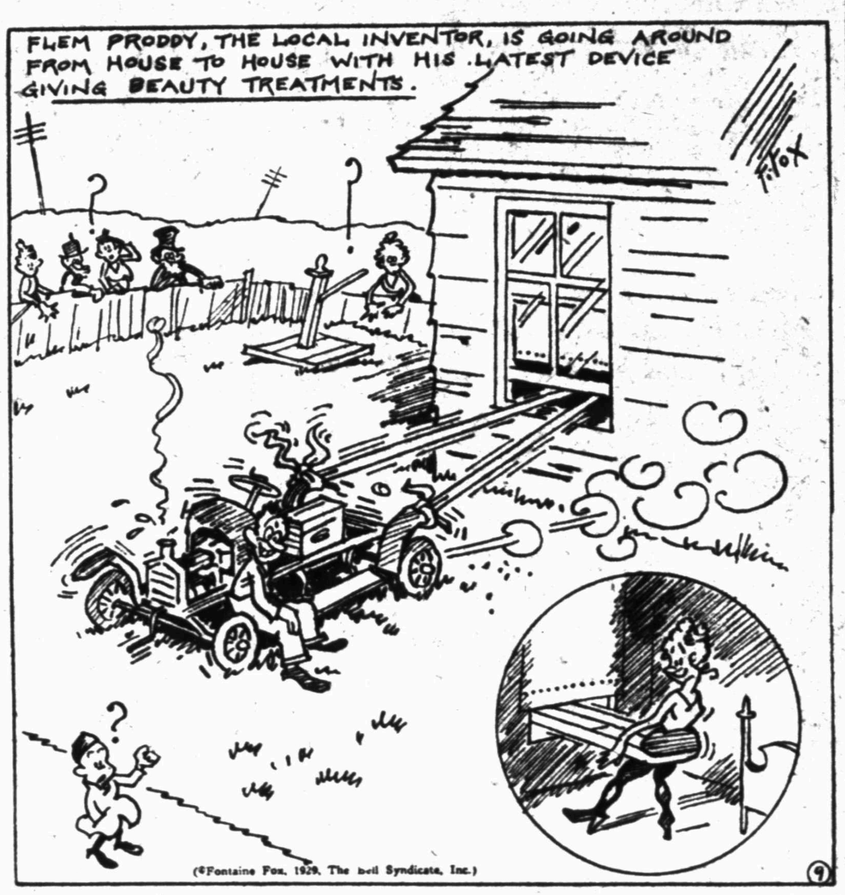

The Sky's the Limit

ORGANIZATION of a junior chamber of commerce in Wichita Falls, if successfully completed, should mean much in the early rejuvenation of our "spirit of faith," as well as in the future progress and growth of the city. Happily for the proposed new division, its members will reap as much benefit from its work as will the city. Younger business and professional men will be given a greater opportunity for preparation for future careers. They will gain experience in new problems and new undertakings, and wisdom from those who have followed similar paths. They should grow with their organization, for no man can sincerely enter into such a work of public service as that of the chamber of commerce without becoming bigger and better for it.

From the viewpoint of the city as a whole, Wichita Falls will gain new blood and new manpower in its program of expansion. Enthusiasm, determination, hard work and a certain element of daring to be expected from the junior division of any organization probably accomplishes as much as wisdom, experience and tradition. Vision, backed by the inelegant word "guts," has accomplished as much as dollars, backed by training, practice and brains.

If The Record News understands the new program correctly, it is the hope of Wichita Falls leaders to combine all these elements into two coordinating groups working for the city's advancement. Such a program is bound to push a city forward. Without one, a community's efforts might be wasted in futile enterprises; without the other, it must surely stagnate. With both, as we hope to have in Wichita Falls, the "sky is the limit" of the possibilities of accomplishment.

The Day Book of a New Yorker

Broadway Chatter by Grant Dixon

NEW YORK, March 8.—The other afternoon there was a great crowd, composed largely of women, blocking traffic in West Forty-Eighth street. It seemd very likely that somebody with a grudge against humanity was denouncing something, or that a vendor was selling a new kind of a trick necktie, or even a street organ grinder might have been grinding away. Such things, trivial though they may be, attract crowds in New York.

Investigation, however, revealed the populace was breathlessly awaiting the emergence from a theater of an actor. This struck me as curious for I had assumed that the day of the "matinee idol" had passed away, except for small towns where the appearances of famous stage and screen stars are few and far between. Least of all, it was not anticipated that Broadway, always referred to by the colorful writers as "blase," could work itself into excitement over one of but many, many of those who trod its pavements.

On the other hand, in view of all the present talk of hard times in the theater, it may have been this particular fellow was attracting attention as the only actor in New York who has a steady job.

Once, in a little upstate town, I recall that a bunch of us used to gather every night in a restaurant and discuss the gossip of the day, particularly the goings on in our town. The thought of it came back when I went into Sardi's restaurant to dine. Sardi's is one of New York's gathering places for the great and near-great of the theater and writing professions.

The Cheese club, composed of press agents and others connected in a literary way with the theater, dine regularly there. While I'm not one of those who go around with a notebook, jotting down conversations, it is a fact that most of the gossip of Broadway filters out of the mouths and into the ears of those in the vicinity of the Cheese club. It is there the enthusiasms and prejudices of Broadway are ventilated.

Their conversations, overheard one lunch hour, struck me as being about the same as those that used to pass over the tables in our restaurant back home; the only difference being that we used to appraise the comedies and tragedies of actuality, while the Broadway Boswells reach no higher level of psychological discourse, usually, than the comedies and tragedies of the stage.

In this same mood, I noticed something familiar about the young gentlemen in Times Square who lean against lamp posts and stand on curbings for minutes, even hours, at a time, staring at nothing in particular. They had, it is true, fresh spats, canes, derbies and a certain look of harsh contentment. These things were foreign to my home town.

But there they were, like the young fellows of other days, who used to park their spines against barber shop poles and drug store windows and watch the passing parade, interrupting their reveries with comments upon the passing throng. The Times Square chappies did the same.

Some day, when I have sufficient time, I intend to take a few hours and spy on these fellows in the so-called brightlight district and attempt to discover just what the idea is, anyway, of standing on a curb, or leaning against a pole, staring into space. I shall report my findings to the Society for Psychological Research, or the psychopathic ward on the police department.

Each day the fad of establishing homes on Manhattan's highest peaks becomes more popular. The majority of great buildings in the midtown section have huge apartments on the top floors, occupied by celebrities of the town.

There is a beautiful building, with a striking color motif of gold and black. It is called the American Radiator building, in West Fortieth street, at least 40 stories high. They say a mysterious lady, known as "Elaine," whoever she is, lives up there all alone. Many other giant buildings, whose offices are dark by night, house up near the rooftops people who can see their names in the social registers and Who's Who and still yawn with fatigue.

This is a rather morbid subject so, if it's a nice day, there'll be no objection if you pass it by. But it has a humorous side, too. It appears that for a number of years subway passengers have been horrified to find men and women committing suicide by jumping in front of incoming trains.

Lately, however, the practice has been so frequent that subway strap-hangers have become chagrined. No matter how convenient this may be to would-be suicides, it is decidedly inconvenient for passengers. One passenger, a resident of Brooklyn, became so enraged at people who jump in front of subway trains, he wrote a letter to the police commissioner demanding that trains be equipped with scoops so that the would-be suicides can be tossed easily into a "trough."

The idea of all this isn't to save people from death so much as it is to enable passengers to get to their offices on time. Many a boss has had to listen to a tardy employe who, with tears in his eyes, recounts some horrible tale of tragedy in the subway. You see, they don't have to depend upon the dead grandmother gag in these parts.

As Told by Them to FRANK E. NICHOLSON

By JEAN HERSHOLT

You know Jean Hersholt, the big laugh-and-cry character man of the movies. Well, Jean knows another Irish story.

JEAN HERSHOLT

"The Irishman was so ill," as Hersholt tells it, "that the priest was summoned to administer the last rites of the church to him.

"As he left the rector arrived. He looked at the patient, and when he went out of the room said to the man's wife:

"'I'm sorry to tell you, but there is absolutely no hope for your husband. The only thing to do is to give him anything he asks for and let him be happy for his last few minutes.'

"Shortly after the doctor had departed the dying man turned to his wife.

"'Sure, me darlint, and ain't that corned beef and cabbage I smell cooking?'

"'Yes, Pat, it is.'

"'Couldn't I be having a plate of it?'

"'Certainly not,' she replied vehemently, 'that corned beef and cabbage is for the wake!'"

Canyon Stock Judges Leave for Fort Worth

Special to The Record News

CANYON, Texas, March 8.—The stock judging team of the West Texas State Teachers college left Thursday night for Fort Worth to attend the thirty-third annual fat stock show.

The men are under the direction of Professor Frank R. Phillips of the agriculture department. The three judges who compose the team are John Gilham, Hereford; Vinson Younger, Newark, and Robin A. Byars, Lockney. J. T. Gilbreath Jr. of Hereford is the alternate.

Two Dalhart Men Held On Cattle Theft Charges

DALHART, Texas, March 8.—Tom Burgess of this county was released on $1500 bond here Thursday and a brother, Charlie Burgess, is still in jail in default of $2000 bond, both being charged with cattle stealing from the Andy James headquarters ranch north of Dalhart. Sheriff Alexander, after an extensive investigation of three months has succeeded in locating 12 valuable calves alleged to have been stolen.

Sally Phipps Asks Income Guardian

LOS ANGELES, Calif., March 8. (INS)—Charging that her stepfather was squandering her income, Sally Phipps, petite film actress, today sought the appointment of a guardian for her estate and asked that she be freed from the alleged cruel influence of her parent.

Accusing her stepfather, Albert S. Beutler, of cruelty, Miss Phipps declared she has been self-supporting since she was 13 years old, when she went to work in a San Francisco department store.

It was not until she made a name for herself in pictures and began earning a large salary, Miss Phipps complained, that her stepfather took an interest in her welfare.

BANDIT COLLECTS $2,000

CHAUTAUQUA, Kan., March 8. (UP)—A bandit who entered the State bank of Chautauqua late yesterday bound Floyd Storer, the cashier, and escaped with $2,000 had made good his escape today.

It was the bank's second robbery this year.

Villa Once Halted Attack on Jaurez For World Series

SAN FRANCISCO, March 8. (AP)—The attack on Juarez today recalled the story of how Francisco (Pancho) Villa, Mexican revolutionary leader and bandit chieftain, postponed an advance upon the border town because of the 1913 baseball world's series.

Villa was encamped south of Juarez and desired possession of the border town because of its wealth producing sources, including gambling concessions and customs receipts.

An American newspaper man, Norman Walker, knew Villa intimately and made his way to the chieftain's camp. Villa told him he expected to attack Juarez on a certain day in October, a date that coincided with the opening game of the world's series.

"Pancho," said Walker, "you are foolish to do that. Don't you know that the American newspapers will be filled with baseball and nobody will pay any attention to your battle? You can't run a war without publicity any more than you can run any other kind of a show."

Villa saw the point and laughed. He agreed it was a good idea and promised to wait. Ten days or so later Villa advanced upon Juarez and captured it.

TWO MIDLAND PAPERS MERGE

Afternoon and Sunday Morning Editions Planned

MIDLAND, Texas, March 8. (AP)—The purchase and consolidation of the Midland Daily Telegram and the Midland Reporter by the Hawk-Howe interests of Amarillo was announced here today.

The new paper, the Reporter-Telegram, will be published from the plant of the Telegram by the Midland Publishing company for which a charter has been asked.

T. Paul Barron, publisher of the Reporter for the past four years, will be president of the company and editor of the paper. Melvern Taggart, formerly of Amarillo, will be secretary-treasurer. C. C. Watson, former owner of the Telegram, has sold his interest to the Telegram.

The first issue of the new paper will be Sunday morning. Thereafter it will be issued every afternoon, except Saturday, and on Sunday morning.

Economics Club Meets at Burk

BURKBURNETT, Texas, March 8.—The District Home Economics club held the regular monthly meeting at Burkburnett high school Saturday, March 2. Representatives were sent from Olney, Wichita Falls, Burkburnett, Henrietta, Fairview and Vernon.

The following topics were discussed: "Why Study Fashions?" "History of Fashions," "Effect of Clothes on the Modern Girl" and "How Much Should We Spend for Clothing?"

Miss Dera Walker of Burkburnett was elected song leader and Miss Lorena Morris of Vernon was elected reporter.

The next meeting will be held at Bowie in April. Delegates are expected from all home economics clubs in the district.

Okla. Bill Seen As Promise of New Bridge

Special to The Record News

VERNON, Texas, March 8.—Action of the Oklahoma house in passing the interstate toll bridge bill, authorizing the Oklahoma highway commission to acquire by purchase or condemnation portions of structures within the state, is viewed here as a probable means of expediting action on the construction of a new bridge across Red river to connect highway 23 in Texas with highway 34 in Oklahoma. The Texas highway commission has already committed itself favorably on the building of the proposed bridge, about 20 miles north of Vernon, contingent upon Oklahoma's sharing in the expense of the project and the improvement of highway 24, in Jackson county to connect with the Texas highway at the bridge.

MELLON DREAM COMING TRUE

Aged Secretary to Complete His Program

WASHINGTON, March 8. (INS)—Andrew W. Mellon, who celebrates his 74th birthday this month, plans to remain in the cabinet until he completes his program of treasury reform, which he began eight years ago.

One year, two years, even four, it doesn't matter, so far as Mellon is concerned. No agreement or understanding exists between President Hoover and his secretary of the treasury as to how long he will remain, International News Service learned this today on unimpeachable authority.

May Beat Record

How long he remains depends upon future developments. Mellon himself does not know. He may even beat the 11-year record held by another Pennsylvanian, Albert Gallatin, secretary of the Jefferson and Madison cabinets.

Mellon has his private business affairs organized to such a point that he gives them little attention, having his entire time to devote to the government.

The general belief prevails that Mellon will not serve out another four-year term. He will be guided by the progress made in carrying out the $300,000,00 building program, improvement in the administration of the revenue laws, and further revision of the tax laws.

Mellon hopes to see another substantial reduction in income taxes before he quits the treasury.

Hopes for Revision

The secretary anticipates the introduction of a tax revision measure at the December congress, although he does not yet have sufficient data at hand to determine whether a reduction in rates will be possible.

Continued high productivity of business, with the consequent yield of revenue to the government, may mean reduction in rates, provided the March collection of taxes, disclosing for the first time the complete effect of the 1928 revenue act, shows no reduction from last year.

The spectre of heavy appropriations by the special session of congress for farm relief, and future expenditures for the naval program, however, loom large as a threat against tax cutting.

If congress enacted a bill setting up a $500,000,000 revolving fund for agriculture, that would cost the government an average of about $31,000,000 annually. The sinking fund would be increased by about $20,000,000 annually while average interest would be $11,000,000, assuming that a bond issue were provided to secure the capital.

Wants Buildings

Mellon also is taking a keen personal interest in the government's building program and wants to see it farther advanced before he gets out of office.

While well satisfied with the present treasury organization the secretary believes that there are imperfections in operation susceptible of improvement.

Mellon faces a far different situation at the opening of the Hoover administration than in March, 1921, when he took office. At that time business was in depression, unemployment general, the country was in debt over $26,000,000,000—$12,000,000,000 in war debts were unfunded and maximum tax rates were taking over 50 per cent of large incomes.

Today each of those problems virtually is solved, leaving Mellon in a position to perfect his machine in the more detail features of administration.

Contract Let for New Water System in Blair

Special to The Record News

ALTUS, Okla., March 8.—A contract for the construction of a sewer and water system in the town of Blair was awarded by the board of trustees of the town to the Western Construction company of Oklahoma City, low bidders, Tuesday. The bids of $24,100 for the sewer and $23,000 for the water system were accepted.

Other bidders were Benson & Farrar of Guthrie, the Ashland Construction company of Enid, Sherman Iron and Machine company of Oklahoma City, Koehler Construction company of Oklahoma City, Roebuck & Co. of Oklahoma City and Earl W. Baker company of Oklahoma City.

According to John C. Milliken of Milliken & Whitenack, engineering firm of Oklahoma City, who drew the plans and will oversee the construction, work will be started on the project soon.

Duke, Okla., School Pupils Set Record

Special to The Record News

ALTUS, Okla., March 8.—A total of 215 students at Duke achieved records of perfect attendance for the sixth month of school, according to a report made by J. W. Dungan, superintendent.

With 420 pupils enrolled at the end of the sixth month, this number slightly exceeds half of the school enrollment. A total of 826 students has been registered in the school to date.

A second record was scored by the school with an average daily attendance of 399.5, or 91.8 per cent. There were 29 tardies, no truancies and no teachers absent indicated in the report.

The report further shows that 86 boys and 78 girls in the grades and 26 boys and 22 girls in high school attended every session of school during the month.

Customs Agents Get Ship's Rum Supply

NEW YORK, March 8. (AP)—An extraordinary force of 123 customs men searched 400 passengers of the liner Shawnee, arriving today from Havana via Miami, seized large quantities of liquor and imposed fines aggregating $800.

A fine of $3 for every large bottle found was imposed and $2 for each small one. In addition 200 bottles were found in cabins, but on which no fines were levied, as it was considered useless to try to find claimants.

The passengers were greatly surprised as they began to disembark. Ordinarily they would have been permitted to walk ashore with their baggage without a search, as their bags had been inspected by the customs at Miami.

Seated Tea And Program Is Given At Music Studio

Complimenting wives of the advisory board and the patronesses, members of the Wichita Falls Conservatory of Music entertained with a delightful informal seated tea and program at the studio Friday afternoon from 4 o'clock to 6 o'clock. The studio was attractively decorated with baskets of cut flowers with red carnations predominating.

The program for the afternoon consisted of several vocal numbers by Mrs. C. N. Cameron and Miss Harriet Bradley. Little Miss Eva Marie Ferguson, dressed in a Spanish costume, sang "Carmencita" and "Mercedes." Miss Katherine Orr accompanied the entertainers at the piano.

Following a social half hour, dainty refreshments were served to about 25 guests.

Demos to Take Middle Road on Tariff Question

WASHINGTON, March 8. (UP)—The Democratic minority of 163 in the next house probably will take the "middle road" on tariff revision—moderate duties but not free trade—according to Representative John McDuffie, Alabama, new minority whip.

Minority Leader Garner, Texas, will call a conference of his lieutenants 10 days before the special session convenes on April 15 to draft the Democratic attitude on remodeling the tariff law, McDuffie said.

Oh, These Women

By LEOLA ALLARD

NEW YORK, March 8. (UE)—Every March 4 reminds all mothers how much good it did almost all of them to raise their boys to be presidents.

The wives of presidents have an overabundance of honor and very little fun.

The wife of a recent president when buying some dresses in Washington expressed her desire to have bobbed hair and skirts a little shorter, but said the president wouldn't let her.

The wives of ordinary men should count their blessings.

There was much comment by those who suffer from short memories because Alice Longworth gave a presidential dinner and had pot roast and pumpkin pie. But being smart and regular both, Mrs. Longworth had not forgotten what presidents are [illegible] on, and an especially good [illegible] was had by the president and past presidents fortunate enough to be at the party.

A man who has to shake hands with thousands of casuals, and talk to and eat with people who don't interest him a little bit, gets pretty well fed up on broiled mosquito wings, and nothing can give him a thrill like an old-fashioned pot roast.

Mrs. Longworth is one of the few women who knows what ticks inside a president. She should know. And nothing takes a president out from under the Klieg lights, away from the strain of responsibility, like a pumpkin pie and a hunk of savory meat cooked in an old iron kettle.

You never find women who know about pot roasts and pumpkin pies in a divorce court. Never! The small of a dinner like that affects marital discord like sunshine affects mist.

It's strange that when other men make such mistakes in their mate choosing, presidents always get such fine women for partners. Women who are tactful, kindly generous, dignified, intelligent, altogether agreeable! But that, no doubt, is one of the reasons why their men become presidents.

Many a talented ambitious man has had his future checked by an extremely selfish, nagging partner, who wanted him to be with her—at home, when he wanted to be doing worth while things that took time and thought and energy. When a man gets to be president, you can bet all you have that his wife had a great deal to do with it.

How much could Thomas Edison have accomplished, if Mrs. Edison had been forever whining and scolding because he wasn't spending more time with her. And he was forever forgetting to come to meals. She took the meals to him when he abstained from food too long, but she never fussed at him. She didn't tell him he was ruining his health staying up till 2 a. m., working out electrical problems. She went to bed and to sleep and left him to his thoughts. Half the laurel wreaths should, by all rights, go to Mrs. Edison.

Now closing 7 p. m. Saturday. P. B. M. company.—Adv.

"LOOK SMART ABOUT THE HOUSE"
Pattern 8508

There is something extremely smart about this house frock, yet it is simple and very easy to make. Perhaps it is the striped fabric that creates that slender, chic effect. Then, too, the narrow banding that trims neck and waist, is trim and attractive. The belt causes slight blousing at sides and back.

Colorfully striped silk, broadcloth, percale, gingham, linene or rayon are suitable fabrics to fashion Design 8508. Contrasting plain color pique will be lovely for the trimming.

May be obtained only in sizes 32, 34, 36, 38, 40 and 42.

Size 36 requires 2¾ yards 54-inch printed fabric.

This model is easy to make. No dressmaking experience is necessary. Each pattern comes to you with simple and exact instructions, including yardage for every size. A perfect fit is guaranteed.

Patterns will be delivered upon receipt of fifteen cents (15c) in coins carefully wrapped or stamps. Be sure to write plainly your name, address, style, number and size wanted.

Our latest fashion book will be sent upon receipt of 10 cents in coin. Address all mail and orders to Record News Pattern department, 243 W. 17th street, New York city.

Family Trees Are Made of Dead Wood, Miss Dix Advises Troubled Maiden

Folly of Picking a Husband for His Family Tree. Sure Cure for Whining Wives—Why Brooding On a Wrong Exaggerates Its Importance

Dear Dorothy Dix—I am in love with a fine young man who has intelligence, energy and initiative and who is making good in the business world. My mother objects to this young man because he has not my social standing. She says that I would always feel embarrassed when I introduced his friends and relatives to mine. Must I sacrifice my happiness for fear of being embarrassed a few times?

—A. B. C.

Answer: I should say not. A man like that will make his own social position, and the chances are that he will lift you up instead of pulling you down.

Family trees are undeniably ornamental and useful for dodos to roost in, but don't forget they are dead wood and mighty apt to give way under the weight of those who hang on to them for support.

For my part I would a million times rather marry an up-and-coming young man who is doing things for himself than one who depends for his prestige on the things that his ancestors have done. It is all very well to have had a famous grandfather, but it is a lot better to be making a name for yourself that your grandchildren will be proud of.

In reality no people in the world are more pathetic than the down-and-outers who sit in their shabby homes and tell you of the splendor and lavishness in which their families used to live, or those futile folk who have so little stamina themselves that they cannot even hold down a good job, but who boast continually of the prowess of some relative who has been dead a hundred years.

It is well enough to consider the family you are marrying into and the sort of heredity you are going to give your children, but it is far more important that your husband's blood should be red than it is for it to be blue, and it matters more that he should have a record of clean living and honest dealing and of being a go-getter than it does for him to be in the social register.

As a matter of fact, little stress is to be put on social position in these times and in this country, when the wheel of fortune turns so swiftly that those who were up today are often down tomorrow and those who were in the depths are on the pinnacles. Nearly all the men and women in this country who are running things, from the president of the United States to the president of the country club, came from poor and humble families. Nearly every millionaire began life as an office boy or newsboy or a barefoot farmer boy or a boy who worked on a slag pile. Nine-tenths of the women who live in palaces and dress in Paris confections used to do their own housework and wore gingham aprons and haggled over soup meat with the butcher when they were first married.

That is right and fine and American. And it is fine that we all have a chance at the good things of life and that we live in a country where we can make of ourselves what we will, but it does make snobbishness out of place among us. It's to laugh when we talk about social pretensions that seek to bar a girl from marrying a fine young man because mother doesn't consider him in her set.

It makes me think of a case that I once knew where a boy and girl in school together fell in love with each other. The boy was a brilliant chap who carried off all the honors in his classes and he was ambitious and hard-working and determined to succeed, and it seemed as if any one should have had enough sense to know that he had a future before him.

But he was the son of a poor carpenter and the girl belonged to one of the best families in the little town, and when the girl wanted to marry the boy her family were simply horrified and browbeat her into giving him up. They lived to see the girl a soured, bitter old maid earning her own living and the boy go up from lawyer's clerk to be a great legal authority and from the legislature to the governor's chair and to the United States senate.

So if your man is all right in other ways don't turn him down because of his social position. He can make that what he will.

DOROTHY DIX.

Dear Dorothy Dix—I am about to be married, and my prospective husband and I have decided that as long as possible, we shall both work, but we shall also go to some school and study something constructive. The trouble with most wives is that they are not learning anything new. They usually revert to the time-worn phrase, "If only I had done so and so," whereas they should have learned the latest phrase, which is, "I shall do so and so." Ignorance brings misery, so why not be educated? You don't see women who are interested in current events, music, drama, business, politics, community affairs, etc., degenerating into bored, whining wives, do you.

—M. N.

Answer: You do not. The woman who whines is the weakling who is too big a coward to fight life and too poor a sport to accept the conditions that fate hands her. She wants things, but she hasn't the energy and initiative to go out and get them for herself, and she excuses her inertness by pitying herself and laying the blame for everything that goes wrong on others.

All of us know whining wives that we dodge when we can, because we know that they are going to pour a tale of woe into our ears about their husband's shortcomings and tell us how he drinks or how he chases other women or how stingy and cross and grumpy he is. Yet the wining wife never gets up and bangs the door behind her and leaves. She eats his bread and wears the clothes he gives her and pays him back by vilifying him.

All of us know women who sap their husbands' morale by whining because they can't have automobiles and pearls and all that rich women have, but these women never go to work to supplement their husband's income and earn for themselves the luxuries they crave.

The remedy you suggest for the whining wife, education, is one that will work, because the woman who really is intelligent doesn't waste her time in futile complaints. She remedies the situation if she can and if she can't she accepts it philosophically. Moreover, if she has a hundred interests in the outside world she does not become self-centered and spend her time in dwelling on her own little grievances and disappointments. She has a broader outlook than the purely personal.

I congratulate you and your husband upon your wisdom in deciding always to be studying something constructive. If you do you will keep the same interests, you will keep abreast of each other, you will keep alert and you will never bore each other. You will always be pals and companions and marriage to you will be truly a great adventure.

DOROTHY DIX.

Dear Miss Dix—I married a girl who in her past had made a terrible mistake. I thought I could forgive her and forget. I do forgive her, but try as I do I cannot forget it. I brood over what she has done all of the time. I am filled with suspicions for which I have no grounds. I try to make her happy, but this thing is always between us. Do you think that I will ever be able to forget? What should I do?

—A. S. R.

Answer: Just face the fact that you have become morbid on this subject and that you must snap out of this frame of mind or else you will ruin your whole life and that of your wife.

We can forget if we try hard enough to do so, but the trouble with us is that we get a curious half pain, half pleasure thrill out of dwelling on an unpleasant subject. It is the same instinct that makes us press on a sore place until we turn it into a raging abcess and sometimes a cancer that destroys us. On the other hand, we can wrench our thoughts away from a topic that distresses and refuse to think of it until gradually it dims in our minds.

Just think of what is good and sweet in your wife and refuse to consider the blot on her past. Keep in mind the thought that the girl who has stumbled off the straight and narrow path, and who has repented it, has had a lesson that makes her forever after walk warily and that she makes a wife who is absolutely to be trusted.

ARMS PARLEY SURE TO FAIL

Chief Nations Do Not Dream of Disarming

By KARL H. Von WIEGAND

GENEVA, March 8. (UE)—Europe will not disarm. Its chief military powers do not dream of reducing their armament at present. The preparatory disarmament commission which meets here soon is condemned in advance to another failure.

That's the unanimous opinion in Geneva. At the league headquarters there is an utter despondency over the prospect of another futile effort. Those who have the task of working up another meeting report that with the exception of Germany and some of the smaller states, there is an utter absence of interest in the subject.

Some of the larger powers, it is believed, are not even giving the matter serious study this time. Great Britain's attitude is understood to be that as long as the naval controversy is unsettled between the chief naval powers it is useless to discuss disarmament at Geneva.

France and Italy contend that they cannot take up the reduction of armament on land and in the air, unless such disarmament is coupled with naval reductions.

Lord Cushendun will again head the British delegation, while the French, it is understood, will not even send a prominent man as their chief delegate at the coming meeting of the commission.

Ambassador Gibson is expected to represent the United States again.

In a conversation with Universal Service, Count von Bernstorff, head of Germany's delegation, commented:

"The disarmament movement has come to a complete standstill. The outlook is discouraging indeed."

Zoological Society Sets Goals In Organization Meeting Here Friday

Dr. R. H. Graham Elected President of New Association; Formal Opening on Easter Sunday

A declaration of the purposes of the Wichita Falls Zoological society and naming of various memberships featured the meeting of the recently formed organization held at the Wichita club Friday noon when a temporary organization was effected.

The society, which was inaugurated at a meeting of local business and professional men Tuesday, named the following objectives:

Enlargement of the Wichita Falls zoo.

Favorable conditions for exhibition of animals.

Fostering of zoological research.

Increased public interest and knowledge in wild animals.

Better protection for animal life through educational methods.

To attract visitors from other communities.

Memberships are to be life, honorary and annual, for which the fees will be $250, $100 and $5, respectively. A goal of 1,000 members was set by those present Friday. Preparation of articles of incorporation was given to Walter Nelson Jr.

Officers and directors elected Friday are: President, Dr. R. H. Graham; first vice president, B. D. Donnell; second vice president, J. L. McMahon; secretary, Ira Brown; treasurer, Lester Jones; other directors, J. T. Harrell, R. O. Kenley, J. H. Allison, H. P. Hodge, R. E. Shepherd, Walter Nelson Jr., J. M. Spoonts, C. H. An Easter egg hunt will feature the formal opening of the zoo for the season at Scotland park on Easter Sunday, March 31, it was said. An offering will be taken on that date for the benefit of the zoological society's work.

$1,430 Damage Suit Based on Auto Crash

Damages in the sum of $1,430.10 are sought in a suit filed against the K. M. A. Fuel Oil company by J. O. Leath and others in the 30th district court Friday afternoon. The suit grew out of an automobile accident alleged to have occurred at the intersection of Indiana avenue and Fifth street on Jan. 9, 1929.

The plaintiffs allege that Mrs. Leath suffered painful and permanent injuries when the car in which she and her husband were driving was struck by a truck belonging to the K. M. A. company.

Special Court Called To Try Mail Fraud Cases

FORT WORTH, March 8. (UP)—A special term of federal district court to try a heavy docket of mail fraud cases was ordered today by Judge Jas. C. Wilson to begin April 22.

Judge Wilson is seeking two extra judges to preside in the fraud cases, since he will be engaged during the period in trials at Abilene, Lubbock, and Amarillo.

Peggy Remembers Only Those Who Buy Her Cars

PARIS, March 8. (UE)—Peggy Joyce, the much married and golden haired American beauty, sighed when asked here what she knew about the brothers Locke who are accused of having used the mails to defraud in connection with an eight million dollar stock exchange fraud. She barely remembered them, she said.

"I may have met them," she declared, "but neither of them ever bought me an Isotta Fraschini car. What? Oh, my affair with Lord Northesk. Why, that broke up months ago. Yes, he was a nice boy."

Slain Soldier's Body To Be Sent to East

Special to The Record News

LAWTON, Okla., March 8.—Funeral services for Private Edward W. Sawickas, Fort Sill soldier, who was shot and killed Monday night by Private Frank B. McClain, following an altercation at the theater, will be held at Fort Sill Saturday morning and the body will be shipped to Worcester, Mass., home of the youth's mother, for burial.

Sawickas was shot when he attacked McClain with a rock, witnesses say. McClain says he shot to scare Sawickas and did not intend to kill him.

Former Pals to Care For Son of War Victim

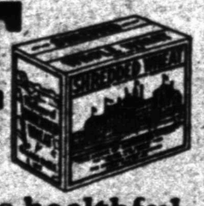

HINSDALE, Ill., March 8. (UP)—Former army buddies of Anton Kosar were planning today to care for Anton Jr., 5, who was ophaned when the shell-shocked mind of the elder Kosar caused him to become crazed, beat his wife to death and commit suicide.

The boy told authorities today how his father, who had been released from a government hospital a year ago, began again last night to mumble about the noise of bursting shells.

The cause of overweight
Not due to any one food alone

THERE has been so much discussion in this country about the cause of being overweight that we decided to go to one of the leading scientific authorities on diet. We requested him to state the facts for the benefit of the public.

"It is the fashion to blame sweets for everything," he said. "Overweight is not due to sweets alone."

"If the dietary habits of overweight individuals are scrutinized," he went on to say, "it will be found that sugar is the foodstuff gorged by some, starches by others, fats and oils by others, and meats by others."

"Strictly speaking," he said, "the average increase in overweight cannot be attributed to increase in intake of sugar or any other single foodstuff."

Note that he speaks of gorging. How intelligent it would be if everyone in the United States would refrain from gorging any one kind of food, and ate in moderation a great variety of all kinds of healthful foods.

It is clearly up to the women in the home to see that all adults and all children are furnished a variety of appetizing foods and to remember that sugar is the mainstay for making healthful foods delicious and appetizing.

One excellent way to prevent gorging is to feed your family a varied and well-balanced diet. Sugar develops the incomparable flavors of cereals, vegetables, fruits and many meats. It makes vegetables taste fresher and improves their color. Nothing can take the place of intelligent cookery. The best cooks are generous with sugar. The Sugar Institute.

Weak, Restless

MRS. H. E. DUNAWAY, whose picture appears above, and who lives at 821 Pearl River Ave., McComb, Miss., writes the following report of her use of Cardui:

"I was sick and rather discouraged. I was so weak and thin, I was not able to do my work as it should be done. This made me fret a good deal, and did not help my condition.

"I had pains across my back. My nights were spent in rolling from one side of the bed to the other, hoping I would soon go to sleep. Then when morning would come, I would be just as tired as when I went to bed.

"A neighbor, seeing how badly I felt, told me to try Cardui. After I had taken one bottle, I was much better. I kept on taking Cardui, and I was stronger and slept much better at night. I have been recommending it ever since."

SPUDDER VETERANS BAT HARD TO TROUNCE YANNIGANS, 9-6

FRED BENNETT POUNDS FENCE

Turgeon, Spiers and Fitz Also Start Hitting

By LARRY DAILEY
Record News Sports Editor

The athletes have started hitting the ball out at Athletic park. A seven-inning game yesterday showed several Spudders, particularly the veterans, macing the ball, the first day in which evidence has been given that the dominance of the pitchers has been about ended.

Thanks to some terrific clouting, the regulars defeated the yannigans, 9 to 6, though all the hard hitting wasn't confined to the vets.

Red Bennett, Pete Turgeon, Howard Fitzgerald and George Spiers were the leaders in the clouting. Bennett, playing after a layoff of two days due to a stiff neck, whaled a pair of doubles and a harshly-hit single that caromed off the opposing first sacker's glove life a rifle shot. Fans who saw Bennett hit yesterday now know why he has the monicker of Powerhouse.

Spiers banged a triple and double, Turgeon a brace of two-base smacks and Fitz a pair of singles. Drives by Fitzerald and Bennett crashed the boards in the outfield.

Bradbury Hits Homer

Arthur Bradbury, a rookie catcher, smote the first home run of the season, a drive over the left field wall in the seventh inning that scored two colts ahead of him.

Cromer, Roberts and White, big righthanders, and Hawthorne, another huge fellow, a southpaw, did the chucking, which despite the hard hitting was good enough. Some loose support helped contribute to the run-getting of both nines.

Jack Crouch, the catcher from Abilene who is regarded as the likely understudy to Pete Lapan, worked in his first game here. He looked like a receiver who knows what it's all about back of the log and takes a nice cut at the ball when up there at the dish.

Red Anderson furnished the fielding feature, when he went to the fence to pull down a smash by Garland Orr. Jack Wright, a third baseman and another aspirant for a Spudder berth, got into his first game. Wright has played previously in the International and Western leagues.

Cromer limited the yannigans to three runs in four innings and clouted a double and a single at bat.

Foreman Galloway will send the regulars and colts through a nine-inning game tomorrow, starting at 2:30 o'clock. The lineups will be similar to those of yesterday, which were as follows:

Regulars—Spiers, ss; Garms, as; Turgeo., 2b; Roberts, 2b; Fitzgerald, cf; Bennett, lf; Swenson, 3b; Gordon, 3b; Clements, 1b; Orr, rf; Brown, rf; Crouch, c; Fant, c; Cromer, p; Hawthorne, p.

Yannigans—Norek, ss; Anderson, cf; Wright, 3b; Best, rf; Sullivan, lf; Allday, 2b; Cox, 1b; Bean, 1b; Baxter, c; Bradbury, c; Roberts, p; White, p.

Buddy Lewis Reports

Buddy Lewis, utility infielder of the champion Spudders of 1927, reported yesterday. Buddy was ill and out of baseball last season. He has been working in an automobile plant at Atlanta, Ga., for the past half year and says he's ready to bid for another job with the Spuds.

George Payne was out yesterday for the first time this spring. George has little if any surplus weight to take off and so will be ready to start throwing a few innings.

Jim handed out seven releases yesterday, to the following: Wesley Thompson, third baseman; Tom Hall, pitcher; Johnny McMahan, shortstop; Elmer Winninger, catcher; Leslie Schrimisher, first baseman; Raymond Meurer, pitcher, and Long, an outfielder.

McLarnin-Miller Fight a 'Natural'

Meeting of Lightweights To Draw Great Crowd

NEW YORK, March 8. (US)—Now and then they come along in the boxing business, the "naturals," as they are called. One cropped up here when the Madison Square garden closed for a 10-round match between Jimmy McLarnin and Ray Miller on Friday night, March 22.

Before the ink had dried on the contracts, Matchmaker Tom McCarthy was fighting off customers. Hal Hixon, who manages Miller, and scores who realized the scalping possibilities, were battling for the right to put in the first orders.

Two years ago the garden had a similar experience with a bout between Jimmy Maloney of Boston and Jack Delaney, the Bridgeport light heavyweight. Delaney was at the top of his form just then and Maloney was red hot. Many thought he was the next heavyweight champion.

A McLarnin-Miller fight is as popular today as the Maloney-Delaney affair was two years ago. McLarnin has belted out almost every one of consequence in the lightweight division during the past 18 months, excepting only Sammy Mandell, the champion, and Miller. Mandell defeated him in a match for the title, but it was Miller who gave him his greatest setback. Miller was awarded a technical knockout over him in eight rounds at Detroit on Nov. 30, 1928.

Mickey Riley Boxes Fink or Monte Here

Mickey Riley will meet one of two leading junior lightweights of the southwest here next Wednesday night, according to his manager, Bobby Burns. Frankie Fink, who has been boxing successfully in the East in recent years or Wildcat Monte, the local boy who hasn't appeared here for some time, will meet Mickey in the feature event of a boxing show at the Palace theater.

Both Fink and Monte are well known here and either would be a highly acceptable foe for the clever and hard-punching Riley.

IT WOULD be appropriate if some gifted bard would take pen in hand and write an Ode to Knees. I am referring, not to chorus girls' knees nor of housemaid's knee, but to ball players' knees. George Moriarty, the baseball man-lyricist, should be able to compose a touching ballad entitled, "I Need My Knee, My Knee Needs Me."

A knee is a serious matter with a ball player. Indeed, in recent years it seems that knees are the most fragile part of a diamond athlete's anatomy. More permanent or serious knee injuries have been sustained by ball players than accidents suffered to other parts of the leg or arms.

Knee injuries are easily received and difficult to heal. In fact, there are cases of several tossers whose ability was impaired and big league service curtailed by knee injuries.

JOE HAUSER was a star first baseman for the Philadelphia Athletics. He was a mighty hitter. Hauser sustained an injured knee, three or four years ago in the Mack's training camp. He was idle a year and in the minors a season or two. Joe tried the big league whirl again last season. It was no go. The old keen batting eye, the driving speed of his throwing arm is the same as ever. But the knee wouldn't stand the strain.

Jumpin' Joe Dugan, a great third baseman, has been troubled several years by a weak knee. Indeed, that defect slowed him down to a great extent; probably hastened his departure from the New York Yankees.

Right in our own Texas league we have an example of a ball player whose career has been hampered by a bad knee. He is Billy Mullen, one of the greatest third basemen who ever played in the Texas circuit. Mullen was sent back to the Texas league last year by the St. Louis Browns. He had played only a few games for the Dallas Steers, when on June 17, Billy suffered a recurrence of an old knee injury, in a game here.

GEORGE STANTON, brilliant young Spudder first baseman, sustained a knee injury late last season that kept him out of the league championship playoff with the Houston Buffs. The other day, down at the St. Louis Browns' training camp at Palm Beach, Fla., where George was bidding for a big league job, he injured the knee again.

Now he is on his way to St. Louis, where he probably will undergo an operation on the injured member. If the injury is a chipped bone, which physicians at Palm Beach have indicated, it can be remedied. Removal of the chip will not permanently injure George. But a floating cartilage, such as some other athletes have suffered, is an injury that at any time may come back.

The cheering words from Florida, however, that George's knee trouble is caused by a chipped bone, somewhat dispelled the gloom of his admirers here, who feared that he had suffered a more serious hurt. Proper care, such as he of course will receive, will put the pink-cheeked kid back on his feet, as fit as ever.

A movie director was discussing with a woman the difficulty of filling a particular part in a forthcoming play.

"I want," he said, "a young man who looks like Lindbergh, is tall, blue-eyed and has sex appeal, a sense of humor and an air of distinction."

Florida Race Track Interests Seek Legalization of Pari-Mutuel Betting

Runyon Prefers Machines to Oral System of Wagering That Now Prevails Down at Miami's Oval

By DAMON RUNYON
(Copyright, 1929, by Universal Service, Inc.)

NEW YORK, March 8.—In Florida and several other states, the racetrack people are trying to get the pari-mutuel system of betting legalized. In Maryland, where it has been legalized for some time, certain reformers are seeking to have it erased entirely.

In Florida, as in New York state, the so-called oral system of betting is employed at the horse racing track, though a species of pari-mutuels seemed to be in vogue at the greyhound track.

Under the grandstand at Hialeah, the bookmakers hold forth displaying their programs with the odds written thereon. A client known to a bookmaker merely hands the bookie a slip of paper with his wager noted on it, the bookie sticks the slip in his pocket, and there is a settlement one way or the other the next day.

This is about the same system as is employed on the tracks in New York state, save that the bookmakers make no ostentatious display of their prices. And in Florida, a bettor who is known to a bookie can make his wager by putting cash in an envelope and handing it to the bookie, a transaction that wouldn't be countenanced in New York, where cash is never flashed.

Now under the legalized pari-mutuel system, there is a fixed and definite return to the state, a certain percentage of the "handle." Under the oral system, as above, the state gets nothing for it doesn't recognize the system. It doesn't recognize betting at all.

Bookies Better for State

I have listened to many arguments as to which is the better system for the racing game. Speaking for my own convenience, I like the pari-mutuel system best, because there is less trouble involved in stepping up to window and buying a ticket than in running around looking for a bookie, and getting your corns stepped on.

But to my way of thinking the bookmakers are better for a community, if there must be betting on the horses. As against the tax the pari-mutuels produce to the state, there is the disadvantage of the gradual "milking" of a community of all its loose cash.

Under the pari-mutuel system, with its $2 tickets, the small salaried wage earners of a community can bet on the races. The very newsboys in the streets, the clerks in the stores, the waiters, and laborers put their money in the cheap tickets on the "iron men." The result is a town where the mutuels exist is apt to be impoverished.

Now of course it is possible for this same class of people to bet with certain types of bookmakers, such as the petty larceny handbook makers who infest every racing town, and who will take bets from two bits up to a dollar. But these handbook makers are a minor evil, easily discouraged with the proper effort.

Sport for Wealthy

The class of people I'm speaking of cannot go to the track and bet their small means with the bookmakers there, because the track bookmakers do not take small bets in any great numbers. Furthermore, the admission charged at oral tracks to make up for the lack of the percentage returned to the track management by the mutuels is beyond the ordinary pocketbook.

Naturally the majority of the track owners prefer the mutuels to the oral books. They get comparatively little return from the latter, especially in small towns, and the attendance is not as big. But I am quite sure that the oral system produces a better class of attendance than the mutuels.

In the case of a town like Miami, Fla., for example, where the bookmakers are mainly New Yorkers, each bookmaker must take his own crew of assistants there with him for the racing season. Through the money that these men spend for their living, I am inclined to think that the community benefits more than it would from the mutuels, which take in, rather than give out.

But of course I am merely expressing my own individual opinion. You will find a great many race track people who will tell you that the mutuels system is far and away the best, if only because of the absolute guarantee to the public that it will be paid off if, and when, it wins, whereas bookmakers have been known to fold up on their clients between suns.

This May Not Be Profit

I have somewhere noted an estimate of the amount of money derived by the state of Maryland from its race tracks through the pari-mutuels at $750,000 per year, an income not to be despised.

But a tax return of this amount means that millions must have been poured into the machines by the public, and I am wondering how much more than $750,000 was taken out of the cities of the state, out of the pockets of its wage earners, never to be seen again in Maryland?

I doubt if the owners of the New York race tracks want the mutuels. The enormous population of the greater city would soon be pouring into the machines an amount of money that would appall the public mind, and result in the speedy abolition of all racing entirely.

Under the oral system, the game prospers without attracting too much attention, and the race track owners are rich enough to desire their favorite sport without looking for any tremendous return. Their attitude seems to be "let well enough alone." And as a result there is never any particular agitation against racing in New York.

CATS TO MEET OKLAHOMA CITY

Play at Fort Worth, Today And Tomorrow

FORT WORTH, March 8. (AP)—Two of the snappiest baseball outfits in these parts will clash here Saturday in their first exhibition of the season. They are the Fort Worth Cats of the Texas league and the Oklahoma City Indians of the Western league training at Weatherford.

Both clubs have a flock of youngsters.

PITCHER TOM ESTELL REPORTS AT BEAUMONT

BEAUMONT, March 8. (AP)—Tom Estell, spitballer bought from Wichita Falls, reported to the Exporters today but not in time to take the noon-day workout.

Word was received from Elmer Hasen, pitcher, that he is driving through from Los Angeles. He is expected Sunday.

Hunter Beats Hennessey To Take Florida Crown

PALM BEACH, Fla., March 8. (AP)—Francis T. Hunter, New Rochelle, N. Y., second ranking tennis player in America, won the Florida men's singles titles late today, defeating John Hennessey, Indianapolis, fourth ranking player, 1-6, 6-1, 9-7, 7-5.

REAGAN, ZUNDY FIVES TO MEET

Details for Series to Be Completed Next Week

Details for the holding of the annual basket ball series between Reagan and Zundelowitz junior high schools will be perfected at a meeting early next week of the officials of the two schools.

Play probably will be started next week. The series will be for three or five games.

Ineligibilities have hit the Reagan squad hard and Coach Beck is reorganizing his squad for the city title series.

Training Camp Chatter

DALLAS, March 8. (UP)—The Chicago White Sox won their opening game with the Dallas Steers in training camp here today, 4 to 2. After the game Manager Lena Blackburne commented that the White Sox were in "exceptional form for this time of the year."

George Cox, former McKinney high school player, pitched the first four and one-half innings and was relieved by Leslie Cox, who came up from San Antonio last year. Autry caught. Will Harrin, last year's Nashville hurler, and Haraway, Enid semi-pro, pitched for the Steers.

Art Shires, Texas youth, has been named field captain of the White Sox to succeed Willie Kamm, who resigned.

GIANTS PLAY SANTONE

LAREDO, Texas, March 8. (UP)—Accompanied by Manager John J. McGraw, the New York Giants will reach Laredo by bus from San Antonio Saturday at noon to play exhibition games Saturday and Sunday with the San Antonio Bears at their training grounds in Laredo. Reservations have been made for 40 persons in the Giant party.

ROBINS SEEK FARRELL

CLEARWATER, Fla., March 8. (UP)—Talk of a trade between the Brooklyn Robins and Boston Braves was revived today when Manager Wilbert Robinson of Brooklyn returned from a short visit to St. Petersburg, the camp of the Braves. He admitted he is interested in Dr. Eddie Farrell, the Braves' holdout shortstop.

NEURITIS LEAVES MILJUS

NEW ORLEANS, La., March 8. (UP)—Ten Cleveland pitchers and catchers took their next to final workout today before the regulars arrive here Monday. John Miljus, obtained last summer from Pittsburgh on waivers, has reported that his arm has shown no signs of the neuritis which handicapped him with the Pirates.

CUBS BEAT ANGELS

LOS ANGELES, March 8. (UP)—The Chicago Cubs got off to a three-run lead in the first inning and defeated the Los Angeles team of the Pacific Coast league, 11 to 8, today in the Cubs' first practice game of the season. Rogers Hornsby, Cub second baseman, hit a home run in the first inning, scoring two men ahead.

NAT KEYSTONE SET

TAMPA, Fla., March 8. (UP)—The Washington Senators' keystone combination problem is apparently solved by the fine showing of Ossie Bluege at shortstop and Jack Hayes at second base. Bluege, shifted from third base, has found his new position to his liking and has been performing capably with Hayes on double plays.

CARDS AGAIN TRIM A'S

FORT MYERS, Fla., March 8. (AP)—The St. Louis Cardinals made it two straight from the Philadelphia Athletics when the National leaguers defeated the Americans here today, 11 to 6. St. Louis won the opening game at Avon park yesterday.

Holm, Douthit and Selph of St. Louis and Simmons of Philadelphia had triples, while Boepper, Bottomly and Gelbert of the Cards made doubles. Score:

St. Louis (N)	300	120	023	—	11	12	2
Philadelphia (A)	100	101	210	—	6	11	1

Alexander, R. Cochran, Skelton, Ryba and Smith, Wilson and Carlson; Rommel, Quinn, Grove and Perkins.

TWO BRAVES HURT

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla., March 8. (UP)—Two accidents marred the Boston Braves' workout today. Lance Richbourg, outfielder, wrenched his right leg in sliding to the plate. Bruce Cunningham, recruit pitcher, ran into a barbed wire fence, a strand of wire piercing the third finger of his pitching hand.

TIGERS HIT HARD

PHOENIX, Ariz., March 8. (UP)—In tapering off their first week of real training today five of the Detroit Tigers—Johnson, Alexander, Fothergill, Heilmann and Gehringer—smashed the horseside out of the park.

The regulars and Yannigans will play a practice game tomorrow.

TWO PHILS ABSENT

WINTER HAVEN, Fla., March 8. (UP)—With almost all regulars in camp for the fist time, the Phillies today went through a long batting practice followed by an extended defensive drill. Frank O'Doul and Phil McGraw are the only players still unreported. McGraw is a holdout, but Manager Burt Shotton knew of no reason for O'Doul's delay.

PIPGRAS IS READY

ST. PETRSBURG, Fla., March 8. (UP)—Gene Robertson's hit in the seventh inning enabled the New York Yankee yannigans to beat the regulars today, 3 to 2. The pitching of George Pipgras, who went four innings for the yannigans, featured the practice game. Babe Ruth played first base for the rookies and made a single.

Justice Holmes Spends 88th Birthday Working

WASHINGTON, March 8. (UP)—With complete lack of ceremony, Justice Oliver Wendell Holmes of the supreme court today celebrated his 88th birthday by working as usual.

Something over 20 years ago Gilbert, of Yale, set a new pole vault record. There may have been a Yale man before him holding the mark. Any way, Gilbert was Olympic champion. Then Bob Gardner came along and lifted the mark to higher figures. Gardner was intercollegiate champion and world's record holder for some years. There were other star pole vaulters from Yale in the interim and then Sabin Carr arrived in time to beat 14 feet and win an Olympic championship. Now as Carr passes on from college, Yale has a young entry named Sturdy, who may set a mark that won't be equalled for a few years, before he is through. Yale has had more good pole vaulters than any two universities combined and this pole vaulting habit has been a big part of the Blue program for more than 25 years.

What About the Yankees?

Ball players down south had more to say about the Yankees than any other ball club. And their opinions were more varied than the opinions offered about any other big league outfit.

The Yankees have been different from any other team in baseball history. They won pennants in 1922, 1923, 1924. A 3-year record is about all that any club can hope for. As predicted, they fell away in 1925 and 1926 when Washington paddled its way to the top. But where it usually takes years to rebuild a pennant winner the Yankees fell heir to three such youngsters as Gehrig, Lazzeri and Koenig, and in 1927 they were on their way again, leading the march. Now they have three more pennant years to add to the other string, making a total of six pennants in eight years, well beyond the mark of any other ball club.

Last season a series of injuries and accidents almost blocked the road, but they rallied in time to win out, and then beat the Cardinals four straight.

More than a few ball players believe they are due again to find their way to the soapy chute with Pennock, Lazzeri and others still uncertain quantities.

Others are waiting to see just how Babe Ruth is feeling about the matter when the season opens. If Ruth is in for another year the Yankees will have no great amount of bother ahead. The old Ruth-Gehrig combination is still the big artillery of the game, and it will take a bad pitching collapse to bring them down. But the Yankees, with eight straight world series victories in as many starts, are one of those ball clubs who can travel at top speed in either direction. If they ever start detonating, the noise won't be muffled.

The Strongest Field

The strongest field, the best all around cast, that will meet for any championship in sport this season will get together in the next open golf championship at Wing Foot in June.

What other field of sport can turn out as many stars in one big championship test as that offered when you bring together such talent as Bobby Jones, Walter Hagen, Gene Sarazen, Bill Melhorn, George Von Elm, Tommy Armour, Bobby Cruickshank, Mac Smith, Horton Smith, George Voight, Johnny Farrell, Joe Turnesa and so on, indefinitely?

There will be around 1,200 entries before the qualifying rounds and the survivors will gradually work their way along until one is left. And that one will have played his share of golf.

Most of the leaders have seasoned their competitive play from California on into Florida, where an all-star group is still hard at it.

The Northern march starts soon, with Pinehurst one of the main centers.

Out of the 150 or 160 survivors who qualify for the Winged Foot test there will be 20 capable of winning—combining the necessary qualities of skill and competitive determination and concentration. These professional golfers haven't been playing for any heavy guarantees. For any guarantees. They have had to fight for what they got. That makes all the difference you can think about.

In the spring a lover's fancy often turns upon the rose.
In the spring the young fan's fancy quickly turns to four-base blows.

Golf, says an expert, is largely a matter of balance. Balance in the bank.

The amount of gameness required for front running is rarely given its full due.

The name of the next heavyweight champion still looks to be at least a year away from the headlines.

Dartmouth's skiing team and Stanford, U. D. C. and California's football teams are still enjoying spring practice.

You can't keep your head still through a golf swing when the back of your neck is locked to your spine.

BARBUTI CASE IS UNSETTLED

A. A. U. Deliberates Over Charges of Runner

By GEORGE KIRKSEY

NEW YORK, March 8. (UP)—After 4½ hours of investigation tonight by the A. A. U. the status of Ray Barbuti's case remained the same—he is under suspension until he proves or retracts statements attributed to him in a New York newspaper.

The Olympic 400-meter champion appeared before the registration committee of the Metropolitan association with his attorney, Benjamin Crowley, and testified that he did not make the most serious statements attributed to him.

Charles Parker, the newspaper man writing the article which caused Barbuti's suspension, testified he had quoted the runner correctly. Another newspaper man upheld Parker, while others denied Barbuti made the statements or said they were not sure what he said.

Barbuti refused to name the captain A. A. U. official mentioned in his letter of March 1 to Chairman John J. Deignan, who is claimed to know that athletes receive more than their expenses.

In answering this question, Barbuti said:

"I refuse to answer on the advise of counsel and on further ground that it would be very unsportsmanlike."

This question was repeated to Barbuti many times in various forms and always brought the same answer, the official report of the meeting said.

Thieves and Burglars Net $250 in Raids

Clothing and money valued at $250 was stolen by local yeggs and house prowlers Thursday night, according to reports received at police headquarters Friday.

Two suits of clothing, an overcoat, a pair of pants, a pair of shoes, several articles of ladies clothing and a suit case, were stolen from the home of C. G. Hammond, 2143 Avenue G.

About $160 in cash and checks was stolen from the Orient Filling station at 1901 Holliday street. The money was hidden in three different places in the store and was all gone when the station was opened Friday morning, officers were told.

An overcoat owned by G. A. Jennings of Electra was stolen from his automobile which was parked at Eighth and Scott.

Two Slightly Hurt When Car and Wagon Collide

Two men were slightly injured and one mule was killed when an automobile collided with a wagon about one mile east of Iowa Park Friday morning, according to Deputy Sheriff Dick Morris.

J. N. Derrick, who was in the wagon, suffered minor cuts and bruises, while the driver of the automobile was given first aid treatment by a doctor in Iowa Park, Mr. Morris said.

KILOWAT QUINT LOSES, 31-27

Francis and Woolridge Star In Hard-Fought Game

Special to The Record News

FORT WORTH, March 8.—Kelsey Lumber Company basket ball team, Fort Worth champions, came from behind tonight to defeat Texas Electric Service company, Wichita Falls titleholders, in the first of a three-game series in the State Amateur Athletic federation tournament. The score was 31 to 27.

Texas Electric led until the last three minutes of play when the locals forged to the front to win the nip and tuck battle. The Electrics led at the half, 17-9, but hard luck in their basket shooting brought about their defeat.

Two games, if necessary, will be played Saturday night.

Woolridge and Francis starred for Wichita Falls tonight, while McCullough and Millikin featured for Fort Worth. Lineups:

Millen Wins Reagan Kite Flying Contest

Here's a new sport in Wichita Falls—kite flying. More than 400 persons watched a kite flying contest of Reagan Junior high school students yesterday at Wilson field. There were more than 50 participants.

Joe Millen won first place, Loyce Watson was second and Gregg White and Paul Brooks tied for third.

Judges were Miss Mabel Cole, J. T. Ryle, T. B. Parnell, J. Hinze and Frank Creighton.

Estelline Five To Semi-Finals

Bears Beat Bryan and San Jacinto in State Meet

COLLEGE STATION, Texas, March 8. (AP)—High school teams representing Athens, Cisco, Denton and Estelline will meet here tomorrow in semi-finals in the ninth annual state interscholastic basket ball tournament.

In tonight's play, Estelline beat San Jacinto of Houston 37 to 33; Athens beat Knippa 38 to 11; Denton beat Corsicana 35 to 24, and Cisco beat Denison, 32 to 26.

Athens meets Cisco tomorrow at 10 a. m.; Denton, Estelline at 11 a. m. The finals start tomorrow night at 8 p. m.

ESTELLINE BEATS BRYAN, 27 TO 25

Special to The Record News

COLLEGE STATION, Texas, March 8—The Estelline Bears, who made one of the longest journeys to participate in the ninth annual state championship basket ball tournaments of the Texas Interscholastic league, upset the dope in the final game of the first round here Friday afternoon to defeat the Bryan Bronchos, 27 to 25.

A big crowd of Estelline rooters cheered their warriors on to victory. By virture of the victory over Bryan, Estelline will meet San Jacinto of Houston in the second round late Friday night.

San Jacinto drew a bye and in consequence did not have a game in the first round.

Curtis was high scorer with eight points. Lineups:

UPSETS MARK OTHER GAMES

COLLEGE STATION, Texas, March 8. (AP)—Although most of the favored teams came through the opening round of the ninth annual Interscholastic league basket ball tournament here today without extending themselves, the dope was upset to some extent when the strong El Paso and Main Avenue of San Antonio quintets dropped by the wayside.

El Paso, which in past years has never failed to make a strong bid for the state schoolboy title, was eliminated by Denison, 36 to 34, in an extra-period game. Main Avenue bowed to Cisco, 37 to 24, in another thriller.

Athens, 1927 champion, displayed a wealth of power in defeating May, 44 to 15. Denton, runnerup in 1927, trimmed McAllen, valley representative, 34 to 17, and Corsicana, one of the most feared teams in the tournament, trounced Perryton, 55 to 26.

Estelline sprang probably the biggest upset of the tournament so far by nosing out the favored Bryan team, 27 to 25, in the first game of the first round, gaining the right to meet San Jacinto of Houston in the second round tonight.

HEALTH AND DIET—SAT . . . .

Organic vs. Inorganic Salts

In my articles I frequently mention the need of organic salts. These salts are not the same as table salt. Organic salts are inorganic mineral salts which have been absorbed and "organized" by living plants. These salts are absolutely essential to life and are abundant in the fruits, milk and non-starchy parts of the green vegetables, etc.

Table salt is not essential to life. A small amount to make the food palatable does not seem to harm, and may stimulate digestion, but my experience with thousands of patients convinces me that an excessive amount of salt will retard or prevent the cure of many diseases.

Chemically, the elements are always the same whether they are found in earth, grass, plant or animal, but as they are found in the earth they are unable to sustain life. The lime which the plasterer uses, the potash used in lye, and the iron of the steel mills cannot be taken up by the body and converted into cell structure. This is likewise true of common table salt which imparts an agreeable flavor to impoperly cooked food.

Only plants have the power to digest and utilize the elements of the soil. The animal can only use these elements after they have been so changed by plants or after they have been absorbed from the plant by some other animal. It seems that these elements go through some sort of change that is too delicate for the chemist to discover and for this reason many medical text books are misleading when they speak of inorganic salts.

It is true that these salts are inorganic chemically, but they are organic physiologically. The final test tube is not in the laboratory, but in the human body.

As inorganic salt is eaten with food it gets into the blood circulation and may really deprive the cells of other minerals which they need more. Large quantities of salt are also irritating and to combat this tendency, an excessive thirst is created. This is why so many people find they must drink liquids with their meals. The body is calling for extra liquid to wash out irritating salt or other unnecessary additions to the diet, such as condiments, pickles, spices, etc.

When cattle are fed salt they will drink large quantities of water. This is a good thing for the dairyman when he wishes the cows to produce more milk. When salt is distributed around the ranges cattle, after licking the salt, will go great distances to find water where they otherwise would be so indifferent to thirst for such a long time that they might finally become sick from the lack of water.

Many observers have pointed to the fact that all animals like salt and cite this as a reason for its use, but you must remember that animals will eat anything which has a good taste and cannot be depended upon for giving us our scientific lessons in dietetics.

I am sure that a small amount of salt is not injurious, but the average person has probably used too much and it is a good plan to try to gradually decrease your salt intake until you will find that you can get along almost entirely without it. Many vegetables, if properly cooked, have a delicious flavor that does not require extra seasoning. The large amount of salt often used in food actually sometimes takes away the more delicate flavors.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

Dreaming

Question: Mrs. F. L. writes: "I would like to know the causes for dreaming at night and what to do to stop it. I dream every night and all night and in the morning I feel as though I haven't had any rest. I don't eat before going to bed, and I don't have anything on my mind, as some have said are the causes of it."

Answer: Dreaming is usually caused by indigestion and I believe it would be a good plan for you to follow out the fasting and dieting regime outlined in my article called "A Cleansing Diet" which will be mailed to you upon receipt of a large stamped self-addressed envelope.

Cooking String Beans

Question: F. S. B. asks: "Will you please tell me how to cook just plain string beans? Most people boil them with a small piece of salt bacon. Is that right?"

Answer: The best way is to cook them in a very small amount of water or without water in a steam or pressure cooker. The cooking time varies from between 20 to 30 minutes according to the kind of vessels you use and the method of cooking. String beans are not as digestible if cooked with any kind of fat. Many of my patients who formerly thought they could not digest string beans are now using them but without the salt pork or bacon.

Reducing

Question: Mrs. A. S. writes: "I have been following your instructions for the orange juice fast, except that I seem unable to resist 'peacing' between meals, a habit I have always had, and I have gained three pounds this week. But I want to lose 15 or 20 pounds. Also, I wish especially to reduce my hips. Are there any special exercise for that?

Answer: If you wish to get the best results from the use of the orange juice fast you must avoid taking any other food. You will have good results within a short time if you will stick to his regime. The best methods of reducing the hips are the deep knee bending exercise and walking.

MORAN AND MACK

MORAN: Big Boy, what is yo' doin' with that telephone book.

MACK: I'm lookin' up a number.

MORAN: I thought yo' let yo' pet dice look up yo' numbers.

MACK: That's why I'm lookin' 'em up now.

MORAN: Ain't yo' got no money?

MACK: Egghead, if I was in Australia, I would get arrested fo' pickin' a kangaroo's pouch.

MORAN: What number is yo' lookin' up?

MACK: A reliable poorhouse.

MORAN: They is all reliable, ain't they?

MACK: Nope. Some of 'em expects yo' to work.

MORAN: How is we goin' to get outta Washington?

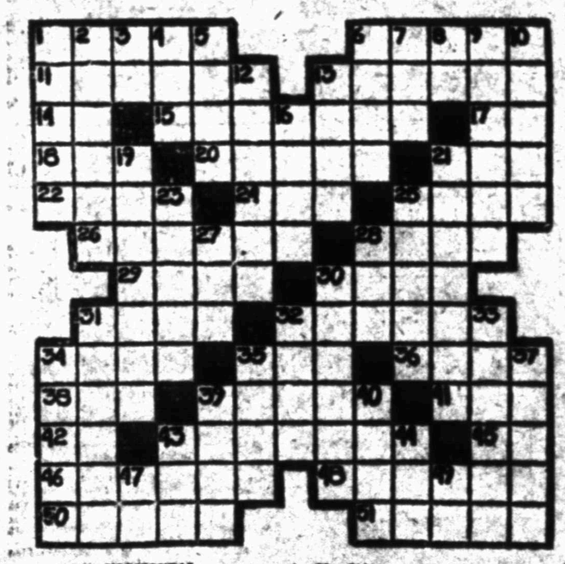

MACK: Kin yo' walk?

MORAN: Sure.

MACK: Yo' is got th' answer in yo' shoes.

The Two Black Crows are still in Washington with Mr. Hoover. The only trouble is that Mr. Hoover doesn't know it. But the chief of police does and it looks as if Moran and Mack will soon be hiding by invitation only.

COOKE COUNTY GETS PREMIER

Shell Producer Flows 62 Barrels Hourly

Flowing by heads and swabbing at the rate of 1500 barrels per day from the sand topped at 1178 feet the Shell Petroleum Corporation's No. 3 H. L. Dennis located 1050 feet south and 150 feet of the northwest corner of T. J. Hutchinson survey, abstract 484, in the Bulcher pool of northwest Cooke county, was completed Friday morning and is surpassing in production the Texas company's No. 5 Dennis the county's record producer.

The well, which is a north offset to the Texas company No. 5 Dennis, picked up the pay at 1178 feet, where casing was set and cemented. Friday this was drilled out and 26 feet of solid sand was penetrated when the well came in filling the hole and making heads, a gauge showing an average of 62 barrels per hour.

Boys' Meeting Sets Record

518 Attend Conference At Childress

CHILDRESS, Texas, March 8.—"The Creation of a Contagious Christian Character Among the Young Men of the Land" is the theme of the West Texas Older Boys' conference, which opened here today with 518 delegates present.

The high attendance mark is said to have set a record for Older Boys' conferences in Texas.

The conference is sponsored by the Y. M. C. A., and is in charge of Grover C. Good, worker for this organization.

First sessions opened this afternoon, with Homer Bell, Gainesville, president, in the chair, and politics is already in the air, heralding the election of new officers, scheduled for Saturday.

One of the strongest candidates for president is Moulton B. Harrison, son of Hubert M. Harrison, manager of the Wichita Falls Chamber of Commerec. Harrison accompanied a group of 75 Wichita Falls delegates to the conference.

The purpose of the conference, as stated by leaders, is to "help older boys solve the problems of life."

TEXAS COMPANY-PARKEY.

The Texas company made location and is rigging up on No. 3 J. R. Parkey test to be drilled 450 feet north and 300 feet west of the No. 1 Parkey dry hole in Archer county.

JACK COUNTY TEST.

Petroleum-Producers and Texas company are drilling out the plug from the sand at 3066 feet in their No. 2 G. L. Jones deep test located in the I. Hughson survey, north of Bryson in Jack county.

CHECKED UP A DUSTER.

Ted Harris and associates completed their No. 3 J. E. Roller estate test, located in northwest corner of W. C. Watts survey, abstract 1115, Archer county, as a dry hole at a total depth of 1306 feet.

HINES-BURNETT.

Harry Hines spudded in the first of the week on his No. A-1 Tom L. Burnett et al. located in the G. R. Meade survey, south of Fowlkes station, and is drilling at 875 feet.

PINK PULLS PIPE.

L. P. (Pink) Hammond is pulling pipe to drill deeper after testing a small show of oil at 1001-06 feet in his No. 1 Overall test, located in the D. L. & C. survey, abstract 711, southwest of Sunshine Hill pool in Wichita county.

The new underground railway station at Piccadilly Circus, London, was officially opened on December 10, 1928.

Voodoo Doctor Lands in Jail Here

Mexican "Prayed Away" Witches for Fee

One "conscientious" voodoo doctor who claimed that he could pray off witches, hoodoos jinxs, and heal the crippled with his queer mutterings and peculiar antics and movements was interrupted in the work of dispersing all bad omens from residents of the Mexican district Friday and lodged in the city jail on charges of vagrancy and swindling.

The voodoo doctor had been traveling about the Mexican homes and praying away their ills for a sum of money and had made quite a small financial start from his "profession" when he was arrested by Officer Fred Fountain.

When investigated at police headquarters by Chief of Police Frank Burns the jinx doctor and cripple healer maintained strongly that he was "conscientious" in his work and and really believed that he had the power, for a small consideration, to cure the ills of Wichita Falls Mexican residents.

Chief Burns said that the man had a crude method of producing fake pictures of people which he told his clients were the persons who had cast a voodoo over them. He was being held for further investigation, Chief Burns said.

SERVICES FOR MRS. HARVEY

Wichita Woman Succumbs To Auto Injuries

Funeral services for Mrs. J. G. Harvey, who was fatally injured Tuesday in an automobile accident on the K. M. A. road, will be held at 3:30 o'clock Saturday afternoon from the Floral Heights Methodist church by Rev. Edward R. Barcus, pastor, and Rev. Finis J. Crutchfield, of Denison. Burial will be in Rosemont cemetery.

Mrs. Harvey and her small son were returning from a visit to her brother in K. M. A. when the automobile overturned. She died in a local hospital early Friday morning while her son escaped the wreck uninjured.

Pallbearers were announced as follows: Felix Gose, T. J. Waggoner, Gose Waggoner, S. M. Gose, Leo Sellars, of Wichita Falls, and R. W. Harvey, of Dallas.

She is survived by her husband, and one son, Joe Jr., of 3113 Milby street; one sister, Mrs. W. W. McIroy of Amarillo, and a brother, L. W. Hopper, who resides near Wichita Falls.

CHARLES STRAND

Funeral services for Charles Strand, 65, who died Wednesday at his home on the Iowa Park road, will be conducted from the Merkle Undertaking company's chapel Saturday morning at 10 o'clock. Burial will be in Riverside cemetery.

Members of the Wichita Falls lodge No. 635, A. F. and A. M., will officiate at the services. All master Masons are requested to meet at Tenth street and Scott avenue at 9:30 o'clock to attend the funeral in a body.

Mr. Strand was a blacksmith at Holliday for many years and was a member of the Masonic lodge No. 58 of Malvern, Ark.

He is survived by one sister who resides in Chicago.

JOHN J. LATHAM

John J. Latham, 69, of Crosbyton, Texas, died in a local hospital Friday afternoon. The body was taken in charge by the Hines mortuary where funeral arrangements are being held pending the arrival of his son, E. E. Latham of Crosbyton.

Bus Hearing Called Here

Rail Commission to Okeh Sale of Line

AUSTIN, March 8. (AP)—Hearing on applications to sell bus lines will be held by the railroad commission in Wichita Falls and Amarillo on March 22 and 23, Mark Marshall, director of the motor bus division, announced today.

The Wichita Falls hearing March 22 will be on the application of C. C. Wells to sell to the Wichita Falls Bus company the line from Vernon to Amarillo via Chillicothe, Childress, Memphis and Clarendon.

Applications to be heard at Amarillo on March 23 are as follows: Oklahoma City-Amarillo Bus company to sell to the Safety First Bus company the line from Pampa to the state line.

C. A. Hale to sell to the Safety First Bus company the line from Amarillo to Higgins via Pampa.

DEAL WAITS OFFICIAL STATE APPROVAL

T. J. Wynne, manager and part owner of the Wichita Falls Bus company, was out of the city Friday, but members of his family stated that purchase of the C. C. Wells Vernon-Amarillo bus line has been consummated pending approval of the state railroad commission. The hearing has been set for March 22 in Wichita Falls, according to Associated Press dispatches from Austin.

The Wichita Bus company now operates bus service between this city and Burkburnett, and between Wichita Falls and Vernon. Mr. Wynne also is interested in the Southern Bus company, which operates from this point to Archer City, Olney, Graham and Breckenridge.

The Wells bus line has been two cars daily each way between Vernon and Amarillo.

Weeks Gives Farming Talk at Auditorium

Approximately 200 persons gathered at the Memorial auditorium Friday night to hear a lecture by Charles Weeks, intensive farming expert, and to see his methods of truck growing, fruit culture and poultry raising reflected on the screen through the medium of colored slides.

The illustrated lecture Friday night was one of a series which will be given regularly here on weekends throughout the spring months, according to Mr. Weeks. They will be devoted to an explanation of the methods developed by the California small-farm specialist in 26 years of experience for producing from one acre of ground a comfortable income for a family of average size, it was stated.

The speaker was introduced by O. K. Barnes, agricultural agent of the chamber of commerce.

LATE AND LATER

Park Patrolman (to young couple): Sorry to disturb you, but it's too late for you to be sittin' 'ere.

Bashful Youth: We didn't know it was so late. You see we're going to be married next year.

Park Patrolman: Do you think I'm fool enough to be supposin' you were married last year?

PROTECTED

Woman Jailed When Her Shouts Arouse Cops And Others

An extremely inebriated woman who rode past the police headquarters late Friday afternoon screaming and shouting deliriously for "protection" got her ample share of it about five minutes later when she was overhauled by Homer Bentley, city motorcycle officer, and confined to the safe walls of a cell in the city jail.

Two men who had the drunken woman between them in the seat of a roadster had to exert no little strength in holding her in the car, and despite their efforts to hold a hand over her mouth the piercing screeches, "I want protection and I want it quick," with which she rent the air drew a crowd of spectators and a trail of about half of the city police department.

She and both her companions were jailed.

BURNS FATAL TO BOY OF 12

Funeral Services Today For Alfred Poore

Funeral services for Alfred Poore, 12, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Poore, 514 Mississippi street, who died in a local hospital Friday morning from injuries received from burns which he suffered about two weeks ago, will be conducted from the Lory Memorial Baptist church Saturday at 2 o'clock by Rev. J. L. Walters, pastor. Burial will be in Riverside cemetery.

The injuries were received from an explosion which occurred while he and several of his compaions were playing with gasoline.

He is survived by his parents, his grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Broyles, and Mrs. M. Poore, and two brothers, Cecil, 6, and Harold, three.

Parade Opens C. E. Meeting

Graham Host to Christian Endeavor Delegates

Special to The Record News

GRAHAM, Texas, March 8.—A parade through downtown streets of delegates attired in white uniforms opened the Wichita district Christian Endeavor convention here late this afternoon. Approximately 130 delegates are attending, with many late arrivals due here early Saturday.

The parade was photographed by representatives of a motion picture concern.

Tonight the first session was held, with J. T. Morrow, secretary, presiding. Shirley Donnell, of Wichita Falls, is president. About 75 other delegates from Wichita Falls are attending.

Principal speakers at the meeting tonight were E. S. Huppertz, state secretary, of Dallas, and the Rev. J. E. Montgomery, pastor of the local Christian church.

The session will open Saturday with a period of worship, followed by a conference, scheduled to start at 9:15 o'clock. The election of officers will be held in the business session Saturday.

Dairy Association To Meet at 10 Today

A meeting of the recently organized dairymen's association will be held Saturday morning at 10 o'clock at the courthouse here for the purpose of completing plans for a permanent organization and adoption of by-laws which have been drawn up by a committee appointed last Tuesday, according to officials of the association.

M. K. Emmert, well-known dairyman of this city, was chosen president of the organization at a meeting last Tuesday morning when more than 40 dairymen representing Texas and Oklahoma counties in the Wichita Falls area met here. Cooperative purchasing of feed for dairy herds, and united efforts for the betterment of the milk producing industry, were mentioned at that time as the objectives sought by the association.

Coast Guards Search For Trio Lost in Gale

WAUKEGAN, Ill., March 8. (UP)—Coast guard crews from Illinois, Wisconsin and Michigan continued their search today for Nels Jensen, his wife, Anne, and his younger brother, Charles, who were fishing in a small launch Wednesday when a fierce gale swept Lake Michigan.

A seaplane joined the search but failed to find a trace of the fishermen, although it cruised for hours over the wind-swept lake.

Wichita County Road Contract to Be Let

AUSTIN, March 8. (AP)—Approximately $2,500,000 in highway contracts, for work in 22 counties involving about 185 miles of construction, will be let by the state highway commission on March 18-19.

Lettings advertised include: Eastland county, 11 miles bituminous surface treatment, highway 23; Wichita county, approaches to spillway, highway 79.

NEW YORK COTTON

NEW YORK, March 8. (AP)—Further sharp advances occurred in cotton today on continuation of the recent buying wave. The advance was promoted by relatively steady cables and reports of small fertilizer sales in February.

Reports of Mississippi river overflows on unprotected lands at Cairo, Ill., and of a levee break north of Blytheville, Ark., also were mentioned as a factor in the afternoon upturn. Prices for all months made new high ground for the movement. May contracts sold up to 21.40, or 24 points net higher, and closed at 21.39. The general market closed very steady at net advances of 23 to 27 points.

The opening was firm at an advance of 7 to 12 points. Active months showed net gains of 10 to 12 points right after the call in response to the relatively steady showing of Liverpool and reports that February fertilizer tag sales showed a falling off of 24.4 per cent compared with last year.

The advance attracted realizing and a little more southern selling. Prices eased off several points after the first demand had been supplied, but firmed up again on renewal of demand from Wall street and commission houses.

Trade buying of near months also was reported on the advance which followed. Demand seemed to be stimulated by a bullish view of the week-end figures.

The highest prices of the day were reached in the late trading, when March sold at 21.39 and the new October contract at 20.55, making net advances of 23 to 28 points on the more active positions. The close was within a point or two of the best.

Week-end figures showed a decrease in the world's visible supply of American cotton of 184,330 bales for the week, compared with a decrease of 136,974 for the same week last year. Private cables reported covering, trade calling and some rebuying in Liverpool. They also said there had been encouraging sales of cotton cloths to China, but there were reports that Manchester spinners had decided to ballot on a proposal for stopping on Saturdays and Mondays during April.

Exports today, 23,290 bales, making 6,454,302 this season. Port receipts, 17,513. United States port stocks, 1,888,571.

NEW ORLEANS COTTON

NEW ORLEANS, March 8. (AP)—Prospects for a return of unfavorable weather, good weekly statistics and a bullish consumption estimate by a private authority caused cotton prices to advance practically $1.50 a bale here today. Realizing and some hedge selling appeared, but was absorbed quickly and in the late trading May sold up to 20.71, compared with 20.42, the day's low. The option closed at 20.66 for a net gain of 24 points. The general market closed steady at net advances of 24 to 29 points. First trades showed gains of 8 to 11 points, with May at 20.53, July 20.56 and October at 20.24. A report by a prominent private authority making the 594,569 bales was construed as bullish and domestic consumption during February helped the initial advance.

All of this gain was lost, however, in a wave of profit-taking which was absorbed around yesterday's closing levels. Towards noon the market rallied again under buying promoted by the unfavorable weather outlook, bullish weekly statistics and a reported break in the Arkansas levee.

Demand continued aggressive for practically the remainder of the session, prices reaching new highs in late trading, with May at 20.71, July 20.75 and October 20.42, or 27 to 29 points net up. Near positions closed 4 to 5 points under the top, while December showed the maximum gain, closing at 20.47, compared with 20.18 at yesterday's close.

Receipts, 17,080 bales; for week, 89,855; for year, 8,477,444; last year, 7,253,935. Exports, 17,290; for week, 144,820; for year, 6,237,290; last year, 5,287,306. Stocks, 1,928,944; last year, 1,968,584. Stock on shipboard, 113,801; last year, 129,939. Spot sales, 26,107; last year, 13,362.

Group Work in Individual Stocks Has Influence on Strong Market

By BROADAN WALL

NEW YORK, March 8. (US)—Group work in individual industrial stocks, regarded as an answer to independent banking criticism of stock market activity and the federal reserve, influenced a strong market today.

Although overnight news of brokers loans increase, etc., was bearish favored specialties started moving higher right at the opening. Radio was the feature and the old stock climbed 38 while the new gained 7¼ more in excited trading. As bankers eased the money reins a little and let the call rate drop to nine from renewal of 10 per cent some outside demand appeared and enhanced the influence of professional activity.

Kennecott held a leading place as it climbed closer to American Smelting into which it is expected to be exchanged on a share for share basis. Steel gained two points and Can advanced three, while other standard industrials moved up a point on the average. Rails were quiet and somewhat irregular while the oil group showed a slightly firmer tone. Turnover again fell under the 4,000,000 share level.

The stock exchange is planning to cooperate in the campaign to correct strained credit conditions. It was learned that a representative of the most powerful industrial group in the country had held conversations with the leading officials of the exchange in connection with this plan. Prior to talking with the exchange officials, it was rumored, he learned the ideas of bankers as well as of important officials in Washington. As a result of these conferences measures have been proposed which, when officially announced, will show that the stock exchange authorities recognize the need for corrective activity. The most important proposals are to keep the amount of new listings as small as possible for the near future and to discourage the issuance of new securities. The amount of funds tied up in new security issues is in part responsible for the overrapid increase in brokers' loans.

Radio's continued strength was due to operations of insiders and was based mainly on the short interest which those most active in the Raido group found caught in their stock on their return from the South. W. C. Durant again was responsible for most of the activity in Chrysler guiding the operations of his brokers from his home. He is expected back in his office next week as he is almost fully recovered from an illness. Walter Chrysler is now on his way back from the coast so that the Durant operations in the stock may be augmented when he arrives early in the week.

Hudson was helped by an estimate of favorable earnings, as was Nash. The Nash people expect a net of $5 a share at least for the quarter to end May 31. This would mean net of about $3 a share for the current calendar quarter.

Covering in Steel was accompanied by revival of reports that the directors had further good news in store for stockholders as soon as a stock increase to provide for redemption of bonds is approved. At the right time, it was claimed, the directors will declare another stock dividend. Colorado Fuel's strength was characterized as pool work by those who declare there is no likelihood of the Steel corporation seeking control. Group work was resumed in Holland Furnace coincident with report that the outlook promised record earnings for the first half of this year.

There was no more reason for easing in the call money market today than there was for the advancing rates of previous sessions. All conditions warrant even easier money conditions for the moment. That is all except the determination of the reserve board and its banking colleagues to force reduction in brokers' loans and return the money and investment markets to something nearer normalcy. In easing rates, today, the money powers demonstrated they are not going to provide the material for a bearish field day. Whenever a short interest of consequence is found in the market somewhat similar tactics are likely to be pursued as the reserve board wants an orderly correction and not a bear market.

TEXAS REVIEW

FORT WORTH, March 8. (AP)—Slaughter cattle moved scaleward at values about in line with those paid yesterday; slaughter and feeder sheep steady with practically no sales of hogs during the morning hours with buyers bidding about half dollar lower than Thursday's decline. Few sales in truck section on that basis.

Slaughter steers sold at $10.85 and less, with a very light supply on hand.

No bulls of any consequence offered and they sold at unchanged prices with the better heavy bulls around $8.25 and common lights around $6.75.

On paper the prices paid for some slaughter yearlings and heifers looked higher but quality considered values mostly steady. Carlots sold at $12.50, while good heavy heifers sold at $11.60. Some experimental feed lot yearlings sold at $11.25, $12.00, $12.50 and $13.00.

Cows generally scarce and those that arrived sold at unchanged values with butcher and beef cows at $6.50 to $8.00 and canners and cutters at $5.00 to $6.00.

Very few calves around for the day's trading and they were mostly common in quality. Prices, however, generally steady with a few of the better ones around $11.00 and cull calves around $7.00.

Some stocker steer calves of good quality and light weight sold at $13.00, a car of stocker cows at $8.00, with other loads of stocker cattle on country contract price.

Sheep sold at steady prices with mixed lambs and yearlings at $12.50 and some lambs at $14.00.

No early sales of hogs of any consequence. Buyers bid $10.25 on good to choice rail hogs or about half dollar lower, than yesterday's top. Sellers holding out for more money.

MIDWESTERN REVIEW

KANSAS CITY, March 8. (AP)—(United States Department of Agriculture)—Livestock trade around the 11-market circuit was featured by another erratic session in the hog alleys. Curtailed shipping orders gave the packers an opportunity to reduce their costs, as trade was slow at prices unevenly 25c to 75c lower than Thursday's average. The day's extreme top of $11.80 to shippers was paid early at St. Louis. Total offerings were around 78,900, a decrease of 13,500 from a week ago and 18,000 short of the same day last week.

Fat lambs found a fairly active outlet at steady to 25c higher values, but no material change was registered on the light supply of aged stock. Choice lambs in Chicago cleared at $17.50 and at Omaha a top of $17.15 was obtained. The supply approximated 41,800, as compared with 40,205 last Friday and 38,873 a year ago.

Aggregate receipts of cattle were estimated at 8,800, around 2,000 less than a week ago, but about the same as a year ago. Trade on killing classes at most points was largely a cleanup at steady to strong prices. No highly finished fed steers or yearlings were available. Demand at eastern dressed beef markets was sluggish with a weak undertone prevailing. Live cattle receipts the forthcoming week should be light to moderate if the recent sharp upturn on light-weight steers and yearlings is maintained and the decline on weighty steers checked.

CHICAGO, March 8. (AP)—Hogs—25,000; 50@75c lower; top $11.65 for choice 170 to 210 pound weight early; packing sows $10.00@10.50.

Cattle—2,000; calves 1,000; strong; steers, good and choice 950 to 1,500 pounds $12.75@14.75; fed yearlings, good and choice 750 to 950 pounds $13.25@15.00; cows, good and choice $9.00@11.00; vealers (milk fed) good and choice $15.00@17.50.

Sheep—11,000; strong to 25c higher; lambs, good an dchoice, 92 pounds down, $16.40@17.65; ewes, medium to choice, 150 pounds down, $8.25@10.00.

KANSAS CITY, March 8. (AP)—Hogs—4,500; 25@50c lower; top $11.20 on choice 190 to 225 pounds; packing sows $9.00@10.00.

Cattle—700; calves—100; steady to strong; slaughter steers, good and choice 950 to 1,500 pounds $11.65@14.25; common and medium 850 pounds up $9.00@12.00; fed yearlings, good, choice 750 to 950 pounds $12.00@14.50; cows, good and choice $8.50@10.25; vealers (milk fed) medium to choice $11.00@16.00.

Sheep—1,000; lambs strong to 10c higher; lambs, good and choice (92 pounds down) $15.50@17.00; ewes, medium to choice (150 pounds down) $7.25@9.25.

FORT WORTH, March 8. (AP)—Hogs—2,500; 50c lower; better 175 to 250 pounds $9.40@9.60.

Cattle and calves—1,300; steady; choice fed yearlings $12.50@13.00; heavy heifer yearlings $11.60; cows $7.00; few steers $10.85 and less; heavy calves $9.85@11.00.

Sheep—1,800; steady; fresh shorn fat and feeder lambs $12.50; fresh shorn fat wethers up to $10.00; wooled feeder wethers at $9.00.

CHICAGO GRAIN REVIEW

CHICAGO, March 8. (AP)—Correctly judging in advance that government figures on United States farm stocks of wheat would prove bearish, wheat traders today leaned to the selling side. Official returns both as to wheat and oats farm reserves turned out to be almost exactly as looked for, coming within 1,000,000 to 2,000,000 bushels of the average of private forecasts. The government report about corn reserves was construed as bullish, totaling 12,000,000 bushels less than unofficial estimates had indicated.

Closing quotations on wheat were nervous at ⅛c to ½c net decline. Corn finished ⅜c to ⅛@⅜c advance, oats unchanged to ⅛c up and provisions varying from 20c setback to a rise of 2c.

In addition to expectance of a bearish exhibit as to rural stocks of wheat, weather conditions prevailing today over the domestic winter wheat belt were generally regarded as somewhat improved, notwithstanding that freezing temperatures were predicted for tonight. Increased estimates of the Argentine exportable wheat surplus were received, making the aggregate 261,000,000 bushels, compared with previous indications of 220,000,000 bushels. Emphasizing the increase was announcement today that Argentine wheat exports for the last week amounted to 10,920,000 bushels, the largest total ever known, and 3,087,000 bushels in excess of the figures of the week previous.

Farm relief developments at Washington were being watched, and notice was taken that primary receipts of wheat today were but 854,000 bushels, against 1,281,000 bushels a week ago and 1,140,000 bushels on the corresponding day last year.

Corn values were given substantial support throughout most of the day. On the basis of the government estimate, there is 1,064,000,000 bushels of corn available for the remainder of the season, against 1,050,000,000 bushels last year. Apparent disappearance of oats during the last seven months is 877,000,000 bushels, compared with 863,000,000 bushels last season.

Weakness of the hog market pulled provisions down.

Confidence In Ruggles Held

TULSA, Okla., March 8.—The McComb Ruggles area of Pottawatomie county may yet develop a rich oil field and widen out the Seminole area considerably. Many oil me feel this way about the district in spite of the Superior Oil corporation's failure at No. 1 Herminghausen, in 24-8-3E, that had a show in the Hunton lime, but after a long fishing job, and after lost tools and drill pipe had been sidetracked the well was drilled in for nothing. Early Friday the Tom Slick, Inc., at No. 1 Sailor, in 12-8-3 to the northeast of the Superior failure, had the Hunton lime at 4305 feet and in it 10 feet, had a show of oil and gas.

The government of Venezuela has built a highway connecting Caracas, the capital of the country, with the western states.

EGG PRICES HOLD STEADY

50-Cent Advance on Case Marked Up Here

Egg prices remained steady Friday with local dealers reporting average deliveries, and offering 50 cents more per case than was shown on Thursday's listings. A considerable increase in the delivery of chickens, turkeys, etc., to local buyers was reported.

Cotton continued its upward trend, moving another 20 points Friday to offer 19.40 cents per pound on the local market. The present price is almost $2 per hundred pounds more than that posted three weeks ago.

Phone Your Classified Ads to

Our courteous ad taker will receive your Classified Ad and help you to word it, then our collector will call the next day. These accounts are "accommodation accounts" for the convenience of our patrons in transacting business over the telephone.

Classified Ad patrons desiring to have ads charged must have a telephone listed in their own name. No book record is made by the publishers on account of the great number of transactions, hence the necessity of collecting promptly.

Correction of errors in Classified Ads must be made before the second insertion. No allowance will be made for more than one incorrect insertion.

Cancellations and adjustments regarding errors should be telephoned to the Classified Ad Department between 8 a. m. and 6 p. m.

Ads accepted for afternoon papers up until 11 a. m. same day.

Morning paper up to 6 p. m. for the following morning.

Sunday paper up to 7 p. m. Saturday night.

Same copy in both papers.

THE CLASSIFIED DEPARTMENT IS OPEN ON SUNDAYS from 4 to 6 p. m. And telephone orders for classified ads to be inserted or to be discontinued will be accepted.

Exceptions: Want ads will be accepted over the telephone for all excepting the following classifications: Situations Wanted and Wanted to Rent. Ads for these classifications are cash with the order and will not be accepted over the telephone.

The Times reserves the right to classify all Classified Ads under the appropriate headlines and to revise or to withhold from publication any ads deemed objectionable.

Notice is hereby given that the annual meeting of the board of directors of said Wichita Falls & Southern Railway Company will be held at the same place and on the same day immediately after the adjournment of said stockholders' meeting.—Frank Kell, president; C. W. Snider, secretary.

102. LEGAL NOTICES

THE STATE OF TEXAS: To the Sheriff or any Constable of Wichita County, Greeting: You are hereby commanded to summon A. L. Holcomb by making publication of this citation once each week for four successive weeks previous to the return day hereof, in some newspaper published in your county, to appear at the next regular term of the 30th district court of Wichita county, to be holden at the court house thereof in Wichita Falls, on the first Monday in April A. D., 1929, the same being the first day of April A. D., 1929., then and there to answer a petition filed in said court on the 1st day of March A. D., 1929, in a suit, numbered on the docket of said court No. 23427-A wherein, Mrs. J. H. Holcomb, is plaintiff and A. L. Holcomb is defendant and said petition alleging, that plaintiff and defendant were married January 13th, 1922, in Wilbarger county, Texas, and lived together as man and wife until on or about December 13, 1924, when defendant left plaintiff with intention of abandonment and that he has continued to live separate and apart from her with intention of abandonment since said date, for which reason plaintiff seeks divorce. Herein fail not, but have before said court at its aforesaid next regular term, this writ with your return thereon showing how you have executed the same. Given under my hand and the seal of said court at office in Wichita Falls, Texas, this the 1st day of March A. D., 1929. Eunice Jackson, Clerk, 30th District Court, Wichita County, Texas. By Nina McDowell, Deputy. (Seal.)

COUNTY CALLS $26,000 BONDS

Gasoline Supplies for Four Precincts Purchased

Retirement of $26,000 worth of additional county bonds may result from a financing plan submitted to the county commissioners court Friday by Tom McHam, county treasurer. Upon the ruling of the court, Mr. McHam was authorized to inform the holders of the bonds that the county will buy the bonds back at par with accrued interest, refusing to pay any premiums. Final action on the proposal is expected at the regular meeting of the court Monday. The retirement would result in the saving of several thousand dollars in interest covering a long period of time, Mr. McHam said.

The court, meeting in special session Friday, accepted oil and gas bids for the county's supply. The bid of the Kent Brothers company of Burkburnett, to supply 50,000 gallons of gas to precinct No. 2 was accepted. The contract for supplying oil to precinct No. 4 was awarded to the Continental Oil company and the contract for gas to the Magnolia Petroleum company. Precinct No. 4 called for 12,000 gallons of gas. The Boardman Oil company was awarded the contract for supplying oil to precinct No. 1, and the gas supply was split between the Hines Oil company, the Pierce Petroleum corporation, and the Continental Oil company.

The court decided to defer action on the stationery and office supply bids until the meeting Monday.

M. A. Bundy, commissioner from precinct 1, presented to the court a copy of a resolution passed by the city council in which it instructed the city engineer to make a contract with the county, agreeing to let the engineer decide the city's proportionate share of the cost of raising the level of the bridge at the Lake Wichita spillway in order to complete the Archer county paving. The court took no action on the matter.

Junior C.-C. Seeks First Members

Definite work in obtaining enrollments in the recently formed junior chamber of commece got under way Friday following a meeting of the membership committee with chamber of commerce officials at which campaign team captains were appointed and plans made for a meeting of all members of the junior division on Friday, March 15, at 6:30 o'clock in the Wichita club. Charles W. Nolen was made general chairman of the campaign.

Jerry Vinson, James V. Allred, F. L. Randel, C. E. Deaton, Dr. Bailey R. Collins, H. B. Dudley, H. D. Mason, Ralph D. Pittman, R. K. French and Alvah Conner were named as team captains, each to select his own workers.

It was decided by the meeting Friday to make all business men in the city under 35 years of age eligible to membership. Representatives of this group who attended expressed a lively interest in the new project, and predicted that it will have a membership of several hundred within a few months. The membership fee will be $12 annually.

Water District Asks Judgment in Suit

A motion asking for judgment in favor of the defendant was filed Friday in the suit of Mrs. J. M. McGrath against the Wichita county water improvement district No. 1, trial of which was completed in the 89th district court Tuesday. The water district bases its claim to victory on the jury's answers to 71 special issues submitted in the judge's charge.

Counsel for Mrs. McGrath has also announced intention to file a motion for judgment in her favor, claiming that an analysis of the jury's replies awards the plaintiff $12,300 damages to her land for injuries from seepage.

The plaintiff's motion will be filed early next week and Judge P. A. Martin is expected to set a date for a hearing before the end of the week. Mrs. McGrath asked $68,000, claiming that seepage from the irrigation canal water-logged her land.

Greenville Man Burns To Death in Residence

GREENVILLE, Texas, March 8. (AP)—J. F. Payne, 65, was burned to death early today when fire of undetermined origin detroyed his home at Wolfe City, 20 miles north of here. He lived alone.

COOLIDGE MEN TAKING RESTS

Cabinet Members Fade Out Of Panorama

WASHINGTON, March 8. (UP)—Members of the Coolidge cabinet, except the three held over by President Hoover, have faded from public attention like mist before the morning sun.

A checkup today showed that most of those who directed government activities in the past administration were doing one thing—resting.

Only three of the men whom President Coolidge used to call to his office twice a week for advice remain in their old offices. One of these—Secretary of State Kellogg—will retire to the practice of law in St. Paul within a few weeks, when Henry L. Stimson arrives from the Orient.

Secretary of Treasury Mellon is still smoking his thin cigars in an office on the third floor of the treasury building, and robust James J. Davis, secretary of labor, continues to direct labor activities of the new administration. Davis, however, is expected to be replaced at the end of a year.

Former Secretary of War Davis is taking what he terms a "glorious rest." He plans to stay around Washington for a few weeks and then start traveling.

"I want to go to Florida, fish and continue resting until June at least," Davis said. Friends predict he will return to his home in St. Louis after his vacation and clip coupons, for he is independently wealthy. He is the donor of the Davis cup, emblem of tennis championship.

The day following the dnaugural, former Attorney General Sargent was on board a train headed for his home in Ludlow, Vt. The former head of the justice department said he liked a small town and so he has returned to one to resume practice of law.

Former Postmaster General New is resting at his country home in nearby Maryland.

"I am not going to do a thing for several months at least," New explained, except hunt and fish and feed the birds."

Former Secretary of Navy Wilbur, whose brother continued the distinction of keeping the family name in the cabinet, also is resting and incidentally waiting around Washington to see what is going to be done about the federal judgeship promised him by the retiring president and which the senate failed to confirm.

As soon as his successor was sworn into office, former Secretary of Interior West went back to Chicago to practice law and pick up business where he left it a few months ago.

Former Secretary of Agriculture Jardine has joined former cabinet officers here as counsel for the Federated Fruit and Vegetable Growers' Association.

William F. Whiting, who held down President Hoover's old job as secretary for a few months, is back in Holyoke, Mass., manufacturing writing paper. He is one of the largest paper producers in the country.

Dynamite Store Fire Causes Four Deaths

SCRIBNER, Neb., March 8. (UP)—Fire in a dynamite storehouse believed to have been caused from an overheated automobile in an adjoining garage, caused the deaths of four volunteer firemen, probably fatal injuries to five others and serious injuries to 17 other members of the local department last night.

For Aches and Pains That Accompany Colds

When you feel those chilly sensations, aching back and limbs, or neuralgic pains, take a dose of Capudine at once. Being liquid, it acts almost instantly, giving quick and delightful relief from the aches and pains. The prompt use of Capudine often breaks up the cold. If there is fever or pain in the chest, send for your physician.

The thing to fight in bad colds is congestion. You will find Capudine effective for this purpose, and will be delighted with the comfort it affords. Millions have used Capudine with satisfactory results. Sold at drug stores—30c and 60c sizes. —Adv.
