Pilot Reports Being Fired On Eight Times Over Arkansas

HOUSTON, July 6. (AP)—The balloon, United Van Service of Cleveland, landed at Kirksmanville, Ky., about 200 miles southwest of Louisville, some time late today, according to a telegram received at 10:25 p. m. That left only one of the 15 which started to be accounted for.

HOUSTON, July 6. (AP)—Thirteen balloons of 15 which, rudderless and at the mercy of chance, set out on the national elimination race from Houston Friday were down and out of the running this afternoon, and two others at last reports were floating northeastward to eastward over Kentucky.

Thunderstorms in a 75 mile area around Texarkana brought 10 to earth late yesterday, despite the desperate hostages which at least some of the pilots gave to fortune by throwing away all available ballast. One, Dr. George LeGalle, in the Kelvinator of Detroit, even cut away part of his basket after throwing away "food and such equipment," the headquarters race committee here was advised. Warmed by Dr. Le Galle's gallant stand against the elements, Captain Fred S. Wilbur, secretary of the committee, sent him a wire of congratulation.

Stories of Courage

There were other stories of courage that availed nothing.

The City of Houston, piloted by Sergeant Otto Weinecke of San Antonio, with W. N. Fox of Houston as aide, was the tenth to report its descent. It came down at Hochatown, Okla., about 75 miles from Texarkana, at 6:45 p. m. yesterday.

The eleventh was the navy entry piloted by Lieut. W. Bushnell, with

Little Hope Held For Joe Mayfield

The condition of Joe Mayfield, prominent Wichita Falls oil man who has been ill for some time, was reported extremely critical at the Wichita General hospital Sunday night. Another blood transfusion, marking the fourth such administration in an effort to save his life, was given Saturday, attendants said. Mr. Mayfield has undergone two major operations, having been removed to his home in an improved condition following the first but subsequently brought back to the hospital when the improvement failed to continue and his condition grew more serious. Physicians said there was little hope for his recovery Sunday night.

Survey Shows Children At Work in Canneries

WASHINGTON, July 6. (US)—A survey of fruit and vegetable canneries by the children's bureau of the labor department found 8,304 children under 16 years of age at work, it was announced today.

One-third of the number were under 14. More than 300 were under 12, 57 were under 10, while nine were not yet eight years old.

The working day in almost all of the canneries visited was at least 10 hours, while in some it was 12 hours and more, the report stated.

First Picture of Chicago Fliers After 23 Days Aloft

OUTSIDE LOOP RECORD MADE

Dale Jackson Turns Ship 36 Times in Row

SAN MATEO, Calif., July 6. (AP)—Paul Mantz, aviation school chief pilot, set a new world's record for consecutive outside loops at the Curtiss-Wright airport here today when he completed 46, 10 more than the record set earlier in the day at Chicago by Dale "Red" Jackson.

CHICAGO, July 6. (AP)—Dale (Red) Jackson, former co-holder of the endurance flight record, today made 36 outside loops in an airplane at a flying field near Glenview with Maj. Luke Christopher, an official of the National Aeronautical association, said established a new world's record.

Jackson performed the feat without maneuvering between loops. The old record was 19 loops, Major Christopher said, and was made at Poreland, Ore., about a month ago by Tex Rankin.

The stunt was officially watched by Major Christopher, Maj. R. W. Schroeder, former holder of the altitude record, and by several army air officers.

Jackson flew into the aeronautical hall of fame just a year ago when he and Forest O'Brine established a world's record refueling endurance flight of 420 hours in the St. Louis Robin. This record was broken this week by the flying Hunters of Sparta, Ill., with 553 hours in the air. Jackson and O'Brine plan to take the air soon to try to establish a new refueling endurance record.

AMELIA EARHART SETS SPEED MARK

DETROIT, July 6. (UP)—Amelia Earhart, the first girl to fly across the Atlantic, established her second international woman's airplane speed record within a week here today. Flying a standard metal Lockheed-Vega, she averaged 181.18 miles an hour over a three-kilometer course.

Earlier in the week she established a speed record for the 100 kilometer course in the same plane, averaging 174.9 miles an hour.

Instructor and Student Die in Plane Crash

NEW YORK, July 6. (AP)—Martin Wilaka, 19, student pilot, and John W. Gorman, 40, instructor, were killed late this afternoon in an airplane crash at Floyd Bennett field, the municipal airport on Barren Island.

The men, who both live in New York, were flying at 700 feet when their low-winged monoplane went into a flat spin and crashed.

The field where the accident occurred was recently dedicated by Rear Admiral Richard E. Byrd in honor of Floyd Bennett, pilot on Byrd's North Pole flight.

Two Veteran Airmen Die in Plane Crash

SOUTH HAVEN, Mich., July 6. (UP)—Two veteran aviators were killed today when the airplane in which they were mapping a new air line from Chicago to Mackinac island, plunged into Lake Michigan during a heavy fog.

Coast guardsmen recovered both their bodies and pieces of wreckage hours later. The aviators were identified as Don Heller and Bert Keble, employed by the Continental airlines to make a trial flight on the projected Mackinac route.

Youth Slays Sweetheart and Shoots Self to Fulfill 'Murder-Suicide' Pact

Pair Seek 'Happiness in Death' When Parents Thwart Love Of Banker's Son for Pretty Waitress

PATERSON, N. J., July 6. (US)—The tragic drama of the thwarted love of a banker's son and a beautiful girl below his station unfolded today with the finding of the young man stumbling through the woods near Echo Lake, N. J., two bullet wounds in his head.

He killed the girl he loved after a honeymoon that was a bittersweet prelude to death. He sought to follow her and had bungled.

The body of the girl, Jennie Brauer, blond and beautiful, was found Saturday night in an automobile in a lovers' lane off the Mariontown road in the woody wilderness near Echo and Pompton lakes. Jennie was 22 and until a week ago had been a waitress.

Parents Disapproved

Her sweetheart was Roderic Meakle, 28, a brilliant violinist and concert master. His father is William R. Meakle, vice president and treasurer of the Paterson Savings institution.

In piecing together the tangled sequences that led to a re-playing of the tragedy of Romeo and Juliet, state troopers brought in the name of Jessie Murphy, a Paterson school teacher. They said young Meakle had been virtually engaged to Miss Murphy, who had the approval of his parents.

The elder Meakle, the investigators declared, wanted his son to marry Miss Murphy. But Roderic already had lost his heart to the blond little girl who came from Germany only a little more than a year ago.

Planned Death

Feeling that their mutual adoration would lead them only to unhappiness and frustration, they planned together a honeymoon that was to end in murder and suicide. That the girl knew she was going to be killed as she was held in a last embrace is indicated by a note that both signed. This said:

"Fate has denied us the right to happiness in life, so we go happily to death.

"We hope our friends can now realize the existence of true love."

As police reconstruct the story, they drove Fourth of July night in Roderic's car to the death spot on lovers' lane. There they pledged for a last time their love.

Suicide Fails

Then as Jennie sat with her head nestled against his shoulder, Roderic took a revolver from his pocket. He placed the pistol against her forehead. He fired. She was killed instantly.

Roderic wrapped a coat about her head to cover the wound and propped her head in a corner of the car.

With a hand that must have been trembling, he placed the pistol against his own forehead and pulled the trigger. The bullet tore through the front part of the skull and emerged on the other side.

But the death he wanted was denied him. Wounded and half conscious he opened the door of the car and vanished into the night.

A search that extended through the night was immediately started for Roderic. About 5 a. m., Sunday, just after a violent electrical storm, two troopers saw a man wandering aimlessly through the woods.

He was blabbering incoherent words to himself when they came upon him. They believe that he had lain unconscious for almost 24 hours and had been revived by the rain.

He was taken to St. Joseph's hospital at Paterson where physicians said his chances of life were exceedingly slight.

CRACK-UP ENDS OCEAN FLIGHT

British Aspirant Hurt In Trial Cruise

ST. JOHNS, Newfoundlnd, July 6. (US)—Disaster ended the proposed Atlantic flight of Wing Commander Wynne-Eyton today. The British aviator narrowly escaped death when his plane crashed and burst into flames on a trial cruise.

Wynne-Eyton took off from Lester's field for Harbor Grace where the oceanic flight was to start. He drove the plane uphill against a light north wind. As it left the ground, the propeller faltered. Wynne-Eyton dropped his landing wheels to decrease weight, but at 25 feet the engine went dead and the plane dived to earth.

Flames destroyed it but spectators dragged the pilot from the wreckage. He was taken to a hospital, slightly injured.

Doughboys Rate High In Shooting Tests

WASHINGTON, July 6. (US)—The present-day American retains the straight shooting heritage of his pioneer forefathers.

This fact was emphasized by Maj. Gen. Stephen O. Fuqua, chief of infantry, in announcing today that out of 24,742 doughboys, 23,414 qualified as marksmen or better last year.

Of the 23,414 who qualified, 3,772 were rated as expert riflemen, entitling them to $5 a month additional pay; 6,667 qualified as sharpshooters, giving them $3 extra, while 12,975 qualified as marksmen.

Woman Faces Trial In Fake Holdup Conspiracy

CHICAGO, July 6. (US)—Mrs. Laura B. Price, the wife of Edwin B. Price a wealthy Chicago woodenware manufacturer, faces trial tomorrow on a charge of having surrendered $18,000 worth of jewelry in a fake holdup planned to enable her to collect from an insurance company.

Maurice A. Barnett, jewelry salesman, and Max Krakow, a manufacturing jeweler, have already been convicted on charges in connection with the same case, and sentenced to jail in addition to being fined.

English Sovereigns Celebrate Anniversary

LONDON, July 6. (AP) — King George and Queen Mary today celebrated the 37th anniversary of their marriage.

Their majesties spent the day quietly in Buckingham palace after attending service in the palace chapel. They received messages and congratulations from friends and subjects in all parts of the world.

Black Killed in Shooting At Railway Station At Narchetta

EMELLE, Ala., July 6. (AP)—Two negroes slain early today by posses searching for four others in connection with the killing of two white men brought to six the deaths growing out of disorders arising here on the Fourth of July.

Quiet again prevailed late today with roving bands of more than 200 men quitting the hunt after a night of running down wild reports that the four negroes had been sighted at various places. Leaders said they were convinced the negroes, Tom Robertson and his sons, Esau, Ollie and John, had fled into Mississippi.

Negress Killed

Those killed early today were an unidentified negro in the railway station at Narchetta, Miss., and a negro woman, whose husband, James Eyer, failed to heed a command of a posse to stop his automobile on a road near the Alabama-Mississippi state line.

The previous death list included: Grover Boyd, white, storekeeper; Charlie Marrs, a white farmer; John Robertson, negro, brother of Tom; Jacob Robertson.

The negro killed at Narchetta was shot after he fired at the possemen and wounded Clarence Bush of Emelle in the elbow. Bush returned the fire, killing the negro.

Showers Break Oppressive Heat

Oppressive summer heat was once more checked in Wichita Falls and neighboring communities Sunday by scattered showers which brought abrupt temperature drops and material benefit to cotton and corn crops over the section.

The fall in Wichita Falls early in the evening amounted to only .04 inch but at midnight the rain was renewed in the form of a sporadic downpour. At Henrietta a full inch of rain fell early in the evening in a two-hour downpour while the showers measured half an inch at Electra and Byers.

Dispatchers for the Fort Worth and Denver reported rains all the way from Electra to Fort Worth. Rains were also reported at Loveland and Grandfield, Okla., along the Katy road.

The local shower sent the mercury dropping from its maximum of 98 degrees during the day and clouded skies left a promise of more rain within the next 24 hours.

The showers extended to the southwest of Wichita Falls, .60 inch falling at Seymour with low-hanging clouds indicating more rain for the section.

Flier Talks to Radio Depot 5,300 Miles Away

BUENOS AIRES, July 6. (AP)—While flying 3,000 feet above the airfield here last night Capt. Lewis Yancey, American aviator, held a 30-minute radio conversation with the wireless station of the New York Times, 5,300 miles away. The conversation established a record for distance between a plane and a land station.

Score Of Persons Injured In Headon Collision Of Two Trains At Baird

BAIRD, Texas, July 6. (AP)—A score of persons, most of them passengers, were bruised and shaken when a Texas and Pacific passenger train crashed head-on into a freight train in the railroad yards at Baird at 4 o'clock this morning. The passenger train, T. & P. passenger No. 6, eastbound, was leaving Baird and ran through an open switch to strike head-on the locomotive of a freight train that was standing on a spur track.

Neither engine and none of the cars of either train left the tracks, and no serious injury was sustained by any of the injured, all of whom came to Fort Worth on the train. None required hospital treatment.

The passenger train continued to Fort Worth, pulled by another engine out of Baird, making its regular stops, and arrived at Fort Worth at 1 o'clock this morning, little more than two hours late.

That none was badly injured, and no cars left the rails, was attributed by railroad officials at Biard to the fact that the train was just pulling out of town and was going slowly.

WHEN IS ENOUGH?

Endurance Champions Take Plane Ride As Diversion

CHICAGO, July 6. (AP)—John and Kenneth Hunter, who hold the world's refueling endurance flight record, enjoyed an aviator's holiday today. They went for an airplane ride.

Although not fully recovered from the rigors of the 554-hour flight they ended Friday, the champions spent a happy period in a borrowed plane above Sky Harbor airport, scene of their epic conquest.

The Hunters will appear in the Cook county circuit court Tuesday to answer a suit seeking to enjoin them from selling their plane or handling the profits of their flight until an accounting is rendered the stockholders of a corporation which sponsored their endurance attempt last November at Chicago.

CLINE BOOSTS CLINT SMALL

Letter Endorses West Texan to State Voters

Endorsement of the candidacy of Clint C. Small in the Texas gubernatorial race on the basis of his background, his experience, record, and platform, is contained in a letter from Walter D. Cline addressed to the Small-for-Governor club here and released for publication Sunday.

Mr Cline, who declined to enter the race himself with the understanding that he would throw his influence to another candidate, repeated in the letter his desire to see a Democratic nominee who "would have something more than his own consent, a campaign fund, an a bucket of mud," and to watch a political campaign with some "more important business than the settlement of personal grudges or an appeal to political prejudices."

"With the above thoughts in mind and having made a rather careful survey of those citizens offering for the Democratic nomination, and having given some attention to their political platforms, I have definitely decided that Clint Small of Wellington is the best material for governor," Mr. Cline wrote.

His letter is quoted in full below:

Believing that our present government represents the result of the ideals, ambitions, sacrifices and accomplishments, together with the disappointments, differences and some times prejudices of our ancestors, I am convinced that to perpetuate this government it is essential

Samitaritan Leaves Lepers After 44 Years

HONOLULU, July 6. (AP)—Ira Dutton, bearing the ecclesiastical name of Brother Joseph and known as the "Samaritan of Molikai," rested here today at St. Francis hospital, a feeble, broken man.

In 1886, a comparatively young man, Brother Joseph went to the little leper village of Kalawao, on the island of Molokai. He labored among the colony's inmates for 44 years and surrendered his cloistered life only when health board officials obtained his promise to come to Honolulu for medical attention.

Chinese Government Claims Fresh Victory

SHANGHAI, July 6. (AP)—The government, hard-pressed by rebel forces and bandit hordes, today gained another victory.

Advices said the government definitely crushed the Kwangsi province rebellion after a severe five-day battle in southern Hunan province near the Kwangsi border. The Nationalists claimed they reduced the insurgent ranks from 25,000 to 10,000, the surviving rebels fleeing into Kwangsi. Government casualties also were heavy.

Escaped Wichita Convict Captured

A search for an escaped convict lasting over a period of several months was brought to a close Sunday when T. O. Cagle, sentenced to more than a score of years in the penitentiary following his conviction on charges growing out of a series of burglaries here about a year ago, was arrested in Amarillo by Charlie Gant, deputy sheriff.

Deputy Gant with his prisoner was to have arrived at the county jail here during the early morning hours Monday. Cagle was sent to the penitentiary following his conviction in district court here and escaped soon after he had been placed in prison. A few weeks ago he was arrested by Shawnee, Okla., officers and Sheriff W. G. Bralley here was notified he was being held. But Cagle broke jail in that city the night following his arrest. He had been at liberty since that time.

A search for another man had led Deputy Gant to the Panhandle city, the arrest of Cagle having been almost accidental. The escaped convict walked into a room where Gant was seated and was immediately recognized and arrested by the officer.

Portugal Nips Budding Revolutionary Plot

LISBON, Portugal, July 6. (AP)—Almost without display of force, the Portuguese government nipped in the bud Friday night a serious revolutionary movement headed by Col. Joao Almeida, a monarchist leader.

An official note announcing Colonel Almeida's arrest, and that of several civilians late last night gave the first news that a plot had been formed to overthrow the virtual dictatorship of President Oscar Carmona.

Daredevil Dies In Attempt to Ride Rapids

NIAGARA FALLS, N. Y., July 6. (AP)—George Stathakis was suffocated in the barrel in which he attempted to navigate the rapids above Niagara Falls and plunge over the cataract, according to Coroner W. W. Thompson of Niagara Falls, Ont. The body was removed from the barrel this afternoon. The barrel, intact, was sighted early today at the Canadian end of Falls View bridge bumping against the rocks.

Score Wounded In Mexico Party Fights

MEXICO CITY, July 6. (UP)—About 20 persons were wounded as a result of six fights today between adherents of the revolutionary and the labor parties. Troops were called out and quickly suppressed the disturbances.

NEW YORK, July 6. (US)—The American Eugenics society in a statement today advocated the universal extension of information concerning birth control.

POISON VICTIM SLIGHTLY HURT IN COLLISION

Woman Being Rushed To Hospital When Two Machines Hit

MAN SERIOUSLY HURT

Two Passengers and Conductor of Trolley Also Bruised and Cut

Six persons were injured, one of them seriously, when an ambulance bearing a woman who had taken poison a few minutes before and a Southland street car crashed together at the intersection of Thirteenth and Holliday streets about 8 o'clock Sunday evening.

The injured are Lawton Whitehead, employe of the Albert's Funeral home; C. R. Jones, motorman of the street car; H. Albert owner of the funeral home and driver of the ambulance at the time of the crash; Mrs. Frances E. Crawford, 1608 Lucille street, a passenger on the street car; Mrs. W. M. Snow, 1414 Fourteenth street, also a passenger; and the woman who was said to have taken bichloride of mercury tablets.

Mr. Whitehead, who suffered the most serious injuries, sustained severe cuts on the head, face and ear, necessitating several stitches to close the wounds. Physicians at the Wichita General hospital, where the young man was rushed immediately after the crash, said he also suffered injuries to his shoulder, side and back, with probable fractured ribs and possible serious injury to his back. The shock of the crash, it was said, prevented making an X-ray examination Sunday night but pictures will be taken Monday morning to determine the extent of his injuries when he is resting more quietly.

Woman Improving

The woman, who had been placed in the ambulance only a few moments before the accident, was rushed to the Wichita Falls Clinic hospital where physicians at once used a stomach pump to remove the poison she was said to have taken. Her injuries as a result of the crash were said to be slight, although there was a possibility of injury to her chest. She was reported resting well at a late hour Sunday night. She was alone on the street when she collapsed, persons nearby having summoned the ambulance.

Mr. Jones, operator of the street car, suffered numerous cuts, with one severe gash on the top of the head. He was taken to the Wichita General hospital. Physicians said his condition was not serious.

Mr. Albert, driver of the ambulance, suffered only slight cuts on the body and head, despite the fact that he was in the front portion of the ambulance, which was practically demolished by the terrific impact of the crash. He was taken to the General hospital.

Mrs. Crawford, a passenger of the street car, suffered severe shock. She was taken to the Clinic hospital where attendants said she was not in a serious condition.

Both Machines Damaged

Mrs. Snow, another passenger of the street car, suffered a cut on the leg. She was taken to her home, accompanied by her husband, and

Youth at Loss to Sever Bonds of 'Marriage by Proxy'

Bride's Sister Says 'I Do' But the Other Takes Honeymoon

NEW YORK, July 6. (US)—The bewildered Ernest T. Sherry Jr., nephew of the millionaire restauranteur, still was without word from his lawyers today as to whom he had married, and, consequently, from whom he must seek a divorce.

When young Sherry went to the municipal building here last January 22, to get married, he was accompanied by Audrey Baker, 19, hostess in Tex Guinan's night club. She held his hand and murmured: "I do."

But Sherry believes he became, thereupon, the husband of Nedra Baker, Audrey's 23-year-old sister, a model, for Audrey gave Nedra's name and age, and was, she understood, merely acting as a proxy for her sister.

It seems Nedra, who wanted very much to marry young Sherry, was busy modeling that day, and could not get time off to attend her wedding. So Audrey obligingly took her place. And then, when Audrey had done her part, and her sister had finished her day's modeling Sherry and Nedra sped away to Montreal on their honeymoon.

Now, it appears, the young Sherrys have parted, and the youth wants a divorce. He thinks he ought to divorce Nedra, companion of his honeymoon. His father told Audrey, the girl said, that it was she who ought to get the divorce. But Audrey says:

"If I do that, where will that leave my sister. I've never been his wife. The records show that Nedra is his wife."

Lawyers are puzzling over the status of Sherry, whose uncle is Louis Sherry. His father, Dr. Sherry, has given up the problem. He declares he has "washed his hands" of the youth and insists that young Ernest get out of his marital mix-up as best he can.

Mr. And Mrs. Gilbert Give Patriotic Dinner-Bridge

Shasta daisies used in profusion made the home of Mr. and Mrs. H. T. Gilbert on Brown street a pretty summer picture when they entertained Friday night with a Fourth of July dinner-bridge.

Shasta daisies were used as a center for the pretty table with its madeira cloth and patriotic place cards and favors.

In the games following, Miss Elfie Savage won high and received a bridge set. The second prize went to Mrs. E. M. Walker.

Covers were laid for Messrs. and Mesdames R. O. Jonas, R. L. Lowry, H. J. Peterson, Mrs. Ida Hartin and small daughter, Corinne; Mrs. E. Ethel Owen, Mr. and Mrs. E. M. Walker, Mrs. Kerley, Mr. and Mrs. A. K. Presson, Misses Lena McKee, Jane McCulloch and Elfie Savage with the host and hostess.

PEEPS AT PEOPLE

By MRS. L. N. CASON

The patriotism symbolized by the celebration of the Fourth of July and political speeches made on that day made us remember a time when we visited a hospital and found a patient chuckling to himself over what a passing friend had just quoted to him. "Some people believe they are thinking when they are just re-arranging their prejudices."

We always feel when we begin to talk of other people's thougnts and prejudices that we appear to be lacking in that one thing that seems to us the prime requisite for real character—tolerance.

◇ ◇ ◇

In all humility, we acknowledge we have prejudices, but we are not trying to force our prejudices on other people. And what we like, we do not insist on making a law.

◇ ◇ ◇

It is the radical with whom we have no patience, the man who is fiery in denunciation of all but his own opinions. Just the other day we read in Times' "Milestones," of the death of James K. Vardaman at Birmingham, Ala. Vardaman, whose name when we first moved to Mississippi was a symbol of power. A man gifted with oratory, but unable to see anything but his own side. He had the courage of his convictions, biased as they often were. He was a good governor, but as United States senator, he seemed to be drunk with power. His end in politics came when he said that the United States stabbed Germany in the back while Engand and France held her down.

If all the world were honest, (that part that can think, we mean), life would be sublimely ridiculous. Fancy each person telling every other he met just exactly what he thought. Courtesy has done away with much of that sort of honesty.

Of course in political campaigns, courtesy has little part. That man who believes the rich are treading on the poor is going to throw every brickbat he can to try to keep the trusts from crushing the life out of the individual—or at least to try to put himself where he may have a say about it.

And even in this enlightened time, there are still men running on a platform that fears the pope and that believes Tammany is an arch enemy about to be forced upon Texas. No wonder William Lyon Phelps says "We look backward too much and we look forward too much. Thus, we miss the passing moment."

◇ ◇ ◇

Passing moments are making time; they go more swiftly with every year of life. Men to be chosen for office in Texas, should be chosen carefully—always eliminating the man who wishes to force biased prejudice upon the state.

◇ ◇ ◇

Not enough people vote. We believe no person has a right to express himself or herself on political matters unless he casts his vote. Then he has done at least part of what he could.

Bolitho said in the last Golden Book, "A gambler, to my mind—is nothing but a man who makes his living out of hopes. We make our living out of hopes; when hope is gone, why live?" But, sticking to our subject, according to Mr. Bolitho's argument, Texas today is full of gamblers.

Floral Heights Group Continues Bible Study

In the absence of the president, Thomas C. Scott Sunday evening, the meeting of the Epworth Young People of Floral Heights Methodist church, was presided over by Phoebe Jane Filgo. Following the opening song, the Scripture lesson was given by Elizabeth Albritton and sentence prayers, begun by Estelle McPhail were closed by Leon Deaton.

Margaret Bone sang "Trees," with Lenora Walker at the piano and Martha Johnson gave a pretty piano number, "The Butterfly."

"The Story of Our Bible," lesson seven, was told by Estelle McPhail and Helen Simpsop, the former telling of Luke's visit to Jerusalem and the latter phases of the gospel of Luke.

In the business session, Mrs. Val Land, who will have charge of the program at the next meeting, was introduced and approximately 25 members were dismissed with the benediction.

Grandfield Park To Be Dedicated

Special to The Record News

FREDERICK, Okla., July 6.—Dedication of the kiddies' wading pool at Reed park in Grandfield will take place Wednesday. The Grandfield Lions club, which is sponsoring the park, will have charge of the ceremonies. This will include a bathing beauty revue of boys and girls ranging in age from one to six years. This will be divided into two divisions, one for boys and girls from one year to three years and the other division for boys and girls from four to six years.

Frank H. Reed of Neosho, Mo., donor of the wading pool, has ordered 150 gallons of ice cream so that all kiddies attending can be served ice cream cones.

The dedication services will take place from 1:30 to 4 p. m.

Australian Explorer Silent on U. S. Claims

LONDON, July 6. (US)—Sir Douglas Mawson, Australian explorer recently returned from the antarctic, today refused to comment on the validity of American claims in Antarctica resulting from the Byrd expedition plus the previous Wilkes' discoveries in 1839, according to dispatches from Melbourne.

Sir Douglas is busy arranging the personnel for his next antarctic expedition, scheduled for the fall.

Iowa Park Society

Mrs. T. C. Murphree was hostess to the Athletic club in its final meeting for the season at her home Thursday evening. Assistant hostesses were Mrs. J. H. Hatton, Mrs. Noel McKinney, and Mrs. W. H. D. Dix Consoles Maiden Lady Who Finds Life Lonely

Dear Miss Dix—What is there for a woman to live for is she has no husband and children and grandchildren? What can I do to keep happy and contented when I get old?—MARIA.

Answer: Undoubtedly, Maria, the greatest happiness that comes to a woman is to be married to the man she loves and who loves her, and to have fine and worthy children and grandchildren about her to bless her old age.

But do you ever think, Maria, how seldom that happens? To wish for that is almost like wishing that a fairy tale would come true, or wishing that you might be a glamorous motion-picture actress with a million-dollar salary, or that you might be as beautiful as Dolores Costello, or as famous a tennis player as Helen Wills, or that you might have any other of the preferred roles in life.

I suppose it is a proof of the old truth that hope springs eternal in the human heart, but it never seems to occur to any middle-aged unmarried woman, who sees with horror a solitary old age closing in on her, that by any chance she could possibly have made an unfortunate marriage, or even one of the indifferent marriages that are nothing but a sort of endurance contest.

No, these unwed women are perfectly sure that they never would have made the kind of marriage that their mothers and their sisters and their cousins and their aunts did. They are sure that they would have got the ideal husband and would have lived forever after in a trance of bliss. Absolutely.

When they look around they do not see much to make whoopee over in the lots of their married friends. There is Mary, whose husband is a drunkard. There is Sally, whose husband is too tired to work, so that poor Sally has to go out and support him and the children. There is Angela, who has a baby every other year, and who is dragged down and washed out and looks twenty years older than her age, and who has never done a thing but walk the colic and listen to howling brats since her first baby came.

There is Maud, whose husband is a chronic grouch. And Isabel, whose husband thinks a woman should never go outside her door, and all that she is good for is to cook and have children. And Hannah, whose husband is a tightwad, and who works ten times as hard as she did in the office and who never has a nickel of her own to spend as she pleases.

In comparison with the lot of a vast number of married women, that of the unmarried woman with a good job and her own latchkey and her own pocketbook and no husband to boss her and snarl at her and find fault with her is far preferable. She has less work to do, more money to spend on herself and far greater peace of mind, because she does not have to watch for the drag of a drunken footstep, nor endure the insults and abuse of a man who considers that it is the privilege of a husband to be as rude and brutal to his wife as he likes.

Nor are children the unmixed blessing that old maids seem to think they are. There are, of course, children who are a crown of honor to their parents and who are loving and dutiful to them and cherish their old age. But there are, also, unfortunately, children who drag their parents' gray hair in shame to the grave, prodigal sons and daughters who tear their parents' hearts to tatters and impudent and ungrateful children who take everything and give nothing in the way of filial duty. If you will observe the way your friends' children treat them and listen to how they talk to mamma and papa, you won't feel that you have missed much joy in not having any sons and daughters.

So, Maria, why not try to look at the situation with a clear unjaundiced eye and see that if you missed getting the greatest happiness in the world, you have also missed a lot of potential misery. And that, really, there was no more certainty of your having drawn a capital prize in matrimony than there would be that you would draw the capital prize in a lottery if you took a ticket.

As to what a woman has to live for who doesn't marry and hasn't any husband and children and grandchildren, why, there are a million things she can do to make life interesting and worth while. She can have a good job and the unending delight there is in following a congenial occupation. She can have her own home. She can travel. She can have a congenial circle of friends. And if the mother hunger is too great, she can adopt some poor little homeless babe and expend on it her love and care and receive in return a child's devotion.

—DOROTHY DIX.

Dear Dorothy Dix—I am a boy 19 years old, the youngest son in a family of six children, all of them married and living in homes of their own. I live with my parents on a small farm. They are too old to work and I manage the farm. But I don't want to be a farmer. I want to go to college, but my parents demand that I stay with them. They will not consent to my leaving the farm and my mother tells me that I can never marry because two families shall never live together under her roof. I hate the farm and I know that I will never make a success of it. What shall I do? Must I stay at home with my parents, or would you advise me to go on to college?—JIMMY.

Answer: I urge you by all means not to sacrifice your life to your parents' whim, but to strike out for yourself. If they want to live on the farm, let them stay there. Old people are not half so helpless as young ones think they are, and nearly always they are far happier if they are left to themselves to do their own way than they are if their children upset their plan of living by taking them into their own homes.

But if either your parents or yourself have to sacrifice the thing they want to do, it is they who should make the sacrifice instead of you. They have had their lives. Their race is nearly run, but you are just starting on yours and you have a long career before you. And what you decide now will determine whether you are to be happy or miserable, a succes or a failure.

If you go away to college, or if you get into some occupation you like, the chances are that you will be successful, but if you stick to a little farm, disliking farming and having no talent for it, you are a predestined failure, grubbing to your dying day for a mere pittance.

Among my friends was a young boy who was confronted with exactly the same problem that you have. Only he had gone out into the world and had got a fine start with a big firm for which he worked. He was a born mechanic with genius in his fingertips, and his employer had just given him a big promotion and sent him to be in charge of the machinery in a huge plant he was installing.

But on the way to his new place of business this young chap stopped to visit his parents on the little farm on which they lived. The father told a pitiful tale of how he had got behind and had mortgaged the place and they begged the boy to stay and take charge of it and told him it was his duty to cherish them and look after them in their old age, and so on. Finally the mother wept the boy into submission and he gave up his good job and stayed with them.

He knew nothing about farming. He loathed it, and although he worked like a slave, he never made expenses and they got deeper and deeper into debt until finally the sheriff sold them out. But by that time the boy was a middle-aged man broken in spirit, disgruntled, his opportunity gone, his life ruined by his foolish sacrifice of himself to his selfish parents.

And all the sacrifice was to no avail, for if he had kept on with the work for which he was destined, he would be able now to buy his parents half a dozen farms and keep them in luxury, instead of their all being forced to live on the mere pittance that he is able to earn.

Nearly all sacrifices are futile. Don't give up your life for your parents. You will best help them by fitting yourself to make more money.—DOROTHY DIX.

Dear Miss Dix—It seems that according to astrology a person born between certain dates should have as his friends persons born between certain other dates. That one born, say, the latter part of May or the first of June, should marry one born between the 1st of January and the 19th of February. What do you think about it? Should one go by birth dates? Is there anything to it?—X.

Answer: Astrology is almost the oldest of all sciences and many peosons in all ages have believed in it, but it has never appealed to me. If I were going to marry, I would look at a man's morals and his disposition and whether he was a go-getter or not, and I wouldn't bother about his birthday.

The Cape Mode Is Lovely

Pattern 1953

By ANNE ADAMS

Combining the chic of pointed details with the charm of the cape collar, this ravishing summer frock would become any figure. There are long sleeves with the pattern if you prefer them. The narrow fabric belt ties in front in a pert knot.

Pattern 1953 makes up beautifully in flat crepe, shantung, georgette or chiffon. The color successes of the season are yellow, turquoise blue, rose and all the pastel shades. A solid color or a print may be selected with equally delightful results.

May be ordered only in sizes 14, 16, 18, 20, 32, 34, 36, 38, 40 and 42. Size 16 requires 3⅞ yards of 40-inch material.

No dressmaking experience is necessary to make this model with our pattern. Yardage for every size, and simple, exact instructions are given.

Send 15 cents in coins carefully wrapped, or stamps, for each pattern. Be sure to write plainly your name, address, style number and size wanted.

Our book of patterns for adults and children, also transfer patterns, is 15 cents, but only 10 cents when ordered with a pattern. Address all mail and orders to Record News Pattern Department, 243 West Seventeenth Street, New York City.

CLASS TOLD OF FAITH'S POWER

Barron Addresses Bible Class Sunday

John Daniel, Barron spoke upon "The Nature and Power of Religious Faith" in addressing the Kay Bible class Sunday morning. The text of the lecture follows:

"The other day I read accounts of the heroic medical and orphanage work of Dr. Wilfred Thomanson Grenfell among the fishermen on the bleak and lonely coast of Labrador, and the amazing life, and pioneer explorations of Africa by David Livingstone, in which he traveled over 30,000 miles through the trackless jungles, exposed to wild animals, torrid heat, drenching rains, and menacing natives. I recalled the story of Albert Schweitzer, the noted New Testament scholar and musician, who, at the age of 30, left his vocations; obtained his medical degree and went to Africa at his own expense to do medical work. I recalled all the biographies of great men that I had read, and I saw running through them all this common factor—faith. And I reflected further on these lives and saw that this common factor at the heart of each life was the fundamental factor that gave them the power to soar so high in character and achievement. For a long time I have been trying to define what faith is, but faith, like love, has meanings which will not submit to definition. We cannot give satisfactory definitions of faith and love but we recognise them when we meet such men as Abraham, Jesus, Paul, Livingstone and Schweitzer. They launch on beyond where men have gone before to conquer new realms of life. They go 'sustained and soothed by an unfaltering trust' in the reality and the adequacy of a power outside themselves to give them victory. Their faces are lighted up with the beauty and simplicity of little children.

"Let us look at the case of Abraham.

"Here is his distinguishing characteristic: he acted on the belief that the universe is on the side of right; that the ultimate power of the universe, God, is friendly to and will sustain the righteous, and therefore it is always safe to do what is right. That is the heart of religious faith. It is an attitude of trust in the moral goodness of the universe and then yielding to that trust, or acting upon it.

"His faith in the friendliness of God toward the righteous enabled him to go out not knowing where. He acted upon his belief in the providence of God and in so doing he exercised faith. There was a reality in the world, though he could not perve it, which was as valid to him as his material possessions. That reality was God. He acted upon his belief in that reality and thus won for himself the title of the father of the faithful. It gave him power, dash and courage. Faith does that. While those who lack faith sit still timidly fearing to venture on their half beliefs, the faithful ones sweep on to take the victory in every field. Abraham's faith made him Israel's father and greatest hero, and a source of great inspiration to the Christian of every age.

Living Too Close

"We see Abraham's faith in action in his relation to his nephew, Lot. Trouble arose between the herdsmen of Abraham and those of Lot. It has never been wise for even kinsfolk to live too close together. Abraham saw it was better for them to separate. It was the logical thing for him to do, from our industrial point of view, to demand that the younger man take what he gave him, and for him to take what he pleased, since he was older and in charge. But he did not do so. He gave Lot the choice of the country. In so doing he acted upon his faith in the goodness of God. If the universe, so faith says, is on the side of right, why contend for the best territory? Give the other fellow the choice and trust in Providence to make the thing come out right. I say it takes a strong faith to live that way. We usually push God aside and say: 'Sir, let me attend to this affair. I am afraid you do not know anything about it and you might get it all messed up and cause me a lot of unnecessary trouble. Go on. I will attend to this; see you at church next Sunday.'

"Did it work out for the best interest of Abraham? Well, the records testify that it did. Lot chose the best selfishly and went straight to the devil. Abraham chose unselfishly and became the friend of God, the father of the faithful. We study Lott as a case not to imitate, and Abraham as one to imitate.

"Abraham's generous and peaceful temper, which were the result of his faith, and expressed in his separation from Lot, is one of the most beautiful virtues known among men. This type of character was what Jesus had in mind when he said: 'Blessed are the meek; for they shall inherit the earth. Blessed are the peacemakers; for they shall be called the children of God.' I suppose most of the wars have been fought over the very thing Abraham refused to fight for. A large part of our frictions and troubles of life are the result of our failure to live the life of faith in doing what is right and trusting to the moral principles of the universe to work out what is best. Teach thou us this faith, oh Abraham!

"Such a faith as that of Abraham's is necessary to the real living of the Christian teachings.

Golden Rule

"Take, for instance, the golden rule. It requires supreme faith in the goodness and reality of God to live this rule. If we do unto others as we would have them do unto us, we must first believe that God is real and is friendly to such conduct and will sustain those who practice it. We have to believe that the universe is so constituted that evil men cannot rob us and get by with it; that our moral acts have significance beyond the immediate relations with men. If we do not believe in the moral order and ultimate vindication of moral conduct, then we will continue to live other than the golden rule teaches. Jesus was able to live the rule He laid down because of His faith in God; His belief that nothing evil would come to the man who trusted God and did what was right.

"Likewise, faith is necessary to live the life of non-resistence. Jesus taught that men were not to return evil for evil, but rather good for evil. If we are slapped on the cheek do not retaliate by slapping back. That is the principle of non-resistance, and takes the highest and rarest type of courage to live it. It is much easier to club back than to submit and return kindness instead. He who would live this way must believe in the ultimate success of moral conduct in an evil world. If he believes this and acts upon it, then he shows a type of faith like unto that of Abraham's. This faith enabled Jesus to live his life on non-resistence.

"Also, faith is necessary to live the life of self-sacrifice. Jesus taught that those who came after Him must deny themselves; that is, they must give themselves; must not place themselves first. It requires a great deal of faith to plant yourself as a seed in the furrows of the world. You must believe in God, trusting that He will bring you to life again. The unselfish life must be related to something beyond and greater than temporal things. The unselfish see the invisible, and if they lose sight of the invisible and fix their attention only upon the visible they become like the rest of us. Abraham saw and ventured his life upon the invisible. The son of man did likewise. Those of us who would realize this supreme principle of Christian living must do so through faith.

"I call your attention to one more truth suggested by this study of Abraham. He was a great and good man in his day. Judged by the world in which he lived, we are justified in saying that he was a perfect man. He lived up to the light he had, and therefore discharged his moral duty. But he was not perfect if we judge him by the light of today. He would have to change his way of living or go to jail if he were an American citizen today. He would have to give up some of his wives, free his slaves, and resign his clanship, for instance. The Bible tells the facts of his life just as they were. Perhaps those who wrote of him in the long ago did not see anything wrong with him but we do today. But that is a compliment to the Bible. It is the only source of biography which tells both the good and bad on its heros. We are growing in moral and religious enlightment. We have outgrown some of this great man's ways, just as those who live 300 years from now will have outgrown some of our ways. We are not to measure our lives by his in every way but by the light we have. The lawyer who pleads for capital punishment by quoting the Old Testament concerning a life for a life shows his ignorance of this truth. We are not living in the light of the Old Testament but in the light of Him who said: 'Ye have heard it said by them of old time . . . but I say unto you.' Our duty is to cleave to that which is great in Abraham and go beyond him to Christian living."

Aged Candidate Visits Frederick

Special to The Record News

FREDERICK, Okla., July 6.—State Treasurer R. A. Sneed of Oklahoma City, Democratic candidate for secretary of state, was campaigning in Tillman county Saturday. Sneed served in the Confederate army during the war between the states and was honored by being elected as commander of the Confederate veterans last year. Despite his age, about 90, he is as erect and alert as a young man.

Colonel Sneed, as he is familiarly known, came to Oklahoma from Mississippi in 1885 and located at Fort Sill where he traded with the Indians for many years. Later he moved to Lawton and was elected register of deeds of Comanche county. From 1914 to 1919 he was superintendent of the Platt National park. He was elected secretary of state in 1922, serving until 1926 when he was elected state treasurer.

WATCH CHILDREN'S APPETITES DURING SUMMER MONTHS

Loss of Appetite Can be Prevented by Improving Flavor of Diet

Mothers are often confronted by the problem of getting their children to eat what is good for them in hot weather. When they notice that this objection to wholesome food results in lassitude and lowered vitality, they are naturally disturbed.

The lack of taste-appeal of the food served, as well as the heat, is often the cause of poor appetites. The cereal may be tasteless; the fruit juice or stewed fruit too sharp; the vegetables uninviting in flavor.

By adding a dash of sugar to these foods, they will be much improved in flavor. Doctors and dietitians approve this use of sugar, because it makes many foods which are rich in vitamins, minerals and roughage more enjoyable.

A dash of sugar to a pinch of salt is a popular way to season string beans, spinach, carrots, cabbage, peas and other vegetables as they cook. And raw vegetables used in salads are much more palatable when served with a dressing in which such a combination of sugar and salt is used. Most foods are more delicious with sugar. TRAMPLING ART FOR PROFITS

FOR all its virtues, modern industrialism can run amuck under the spur of greed for profits. Witness, the ruin threatening the Art of Music.

300 musicians in Hollywood supply all the "music" offered in thousands of theatres. Can such a tiny reservoir of talent nurture artistic progress?

The true function of the machine is to increase the value of the product fed into it—not to debase it. Therefore mechanical music, as a substitute for Living Music, is a spurious form of progress—Like a loom converting good wool into shoddy.

The grind organ, however operated, is a grind organ still. For music is an emotional art, a form of social intercourse, and hence dependant upon human contact.

Who profits by the elimination of genuine music from the theatre? Not the music-loving public!

If you agree that theatre patrons are entitled to real music—in addition to talking and sound motion pictures, for the price they pay—HELP SAVE THE ART FROM RUIN. Enroll with millions of others in the Music Defense League. When the public's voice is raised its will must be served!

NOW and ...THEN

The Age of Conquest—
Pulpit Boldness—
Faith in an Idea—
Lynching Lynchers—

By EMILE CAUVEREAU

Hardly does the world cease to wonder at one great feat than another is accomplished. Kingsford-Smith, conquering the Atlantic westward, follows on the heels of Admiral Byrd, who conquers the south pole. Roger Q. Williams, flying to Bermuda and back without stopping, follows on the heels of Kingsford-Smith. Man is building faster in the flying age even than a dream can vouchsafe. He has hitched his wagon to a star and the wheels are ablaze with the speed of an incredible motion.

Rev. Lon Ray Call, sermonizing in the West Side Unitarian church, says:

"If we seek truth we shall not be content to stop where Moses stopped, nor where Paul stopped, nor where Jesus stopped. Our own minds shall lead us and we shall feel that truth is ours . . . because it has come to us through natural rather than revealed channels."

Such boldness will comfort some people. When the church sets the pace in liberal thinking it will find its pews filled again with worshipers.

From a 400-year-old manuscript, just unearthed, we learn that Columbus was a dealer in books in Andalusia. That he was born in Milan, and not in Genoa; that he was an Italian, there not a Spaniard. An obscure dealer in books, he was possessed with an idea in which he had complete faith. He convinced a queen, who pawned her jewels to sponsor what was then regarded as a madman's venture.

The idea carried the obscure book dealer over a vast unexplored ocean, through weary months of hunger and thirst; through mutiny, darkness and storm. His faith rewarded him with a sight of the promised land. His dream opened up a new world. He believed that what he imagined he could do.

Men with ideas and the courage to see them through open up new worlds daily. Scientists, philosophers, statesmen, business leaders and inventors discover Americas every time they achieve a vision begotten by faith.

If lynching in the South accomplished its ends, it might be sanctioned. But, like all forms of summary punishment, it fails. This is the way "Wild Bill" Covington, Texas sheriff, looks at it. He stops a lynching mob at Beaumont with a good wallop on the jaw delivered to the leader. Perhaps he should have gone further and lynched him. It would not have been more illegal than an ordinary lynching. Lynching lynchers might be an effective remedy.

In La Paz, Bolivia, the students are to have their own republic. This is pledged to them by the new regime as a "tribute to the youth of the country who inspired the revolution and shed its blood to the end that the country might be free." During the world war the students in Moscow and Berlin shed their blood, too. They died for their idea of freedom, and were shot down like dogs. In Bolivia the revolution succeeded. That's the difference.

Dr. Rhondda Williams, visiting British pastor, says:

"Wash your hands of all armed conflict. All wars are unjust, no matter how noble the aim." Those listening to his sermon in peacetime will agree. In war-time they would have the reverend gentleman arrested for talking that way. With England at war he would either have had to quit the country or remain in it behind parallel bars. Patriotism and "Thou shalt not kill" do not mix.

Performance of an operetta attracted 19,000 persons to the outdoor theater of the St. Louis Municipal opera.

Farmers hain't got no kick comin'. Ther's a livin' in farmin', an' that's more'n I kin say fer a lot o' other businesses. "Oh, jest watchin' Standard o' New Jersey," replied Tilford Moots, when asked what he wus doin' these days.

In France there are 10 times as many bicycles as autos. The same proportion might exist here if we also had an opportunity to handle bars.

Lord Derby told folks back in England that prohibition and not money was our national topic of conversation. And the curious thing about it is that we have neither.

Flying for a Record

IT IS a little bit hard to join hands with those solemn commentators on current events who profess to be terribly, terribly bored by the record-breaking endurance flight of the Hunter brothers in their City of Chicago airplane.

To be sure, these people are probably quite correct when they point out that the value of this feat to aviation is practically nil. They are probably correct when they say it is simply a "stunt," promoted for personal gain by young men who might better have been doing something more useful. They are probably correct in complaining that this flight will breed other endurance flights, so that every idle aviator in the land will be buying a basket of sandwiches and sailing off in the effort to keep away from the ground longer than anyone else has done.

These things are very likely perfectly true; yet, for all that, we have a vague feeling that these tired, nerve-wracked young fliers have fully earned all the plaudits and all the money that they are going to get.

Their fight wasn't really useful? Well, a great many citizens of this republic find themselves in callings that deserve the same comment. . . . There is, for instance, the business of writing editorials for newspapers and magazines. . . . Besides, there is a good bit of unemployment in the land, and we often tend to go in for efficiency a little too strongly anyhow. So why shouldn't four brothers set out to break the endurance flight record if they feel like it?

After all, the thing was rather exciting to watch. There is something fascinating about the thought of two young men staying off of the earth for upwards of 23 days. We may be used to it, but it is a sort of miracle, none the less. No living human being ever did it before. Even to have dreamed of such a thing a century ago would have marked a man as being in league with the devil.

Furthermore, the young flyers did, after all, risk their lives. Piloting an airplane calls for keen, steady nerves, clear eyes and a sound physique, unless the army and navy and department of commerce are all wrong in their requirements. When you read of those lads drinking quarts of black coffee in a frantic effort to stay awake, and taking their airplane around through the darkness while they fought off fatigue, tired muscles and frayed nerves, you cannot help admiring them.

On top of all of this, moreover, is the fact that this sort of thing does have a practical value for aviation, despite the complaints of the critics. We need planes that are so dependable that they can almost be treated with contempt. Every endurance flight of this kind proves—and the proof is needed—that we are beginning to get that sort of planes. When two men can take an ordinary plane and keep it off the ground for more than a fortnight, the capabilities of the average airplane must be pretty high.

To sum it all up, we think these Hunter brothers deserve the applause and the money their flight has won for them. These lofty criticisms of their achievements give us a bit of a pain.

The World Does Move

THE late Senator "Bob" LaFollette used to remark humorously that most of the "ultra-radical" measures he sponsored at the beginning of his political career were ultimately adopted by the conservatives who continued to look on him as a dangerous theorist. What seems socialistic and subversive to one generation seems only common sense to the next. Human notions change rapidly.

All of this is called to mind by the fact that the conference of American governors at Salt Lake City the other day devoted a good share of its time to the discussion of old age and unemployment pensions.

A few years ago no one but a group of socialists would have talked of such measures seriously. But now the governors of the individual states—surely a conservative enough crowd, taken collectively—give these matters their attention, and no one gets in the least alarmed.

Our children, very likely, will be equally hospitable to some of the things that we today look on as revolutionary and dangerous. The world—though we don't always realize it—does move.

A Sensible Decision

HATE pacifism as much as you please, you must admit that the United States court of appeals acted sensibly in admitting to citizenship Prof. Douglas MacIntosh of Yale and Miss Marie Averill Bland, war nurse, whose applications had been turned down by lower courts because they refused to swear that they would take up arms in defense of their adopted country in case of war.

"The rights of conscience," said the appellate court, reversing the action of the lower ones, "are inalienable rights which the citizen need not surrender and which the government or society cannot take away."

That is a thing that needed to be said. The lower court's decisions were peculiarly silly in that Dr. MacIntosh is a clergyman and Miss Bland a woman—a woman who said she would go to the front as a nurse in any war this country engaged in.

A Very Useful Citizen

IN THE death of Dr. Harvey W. Wiley the United States has lost an extremely useful and able citizen.

Every inhabitant of the United States for the last two decades has had purer, better food than he might have had if Dr. Wiley had not lived. That, when you stop to think about it, represents quite an achievement. Few men can hope to serve their fellow-citizens any better.

Quotations Worth Noting

"There is a new spirit which spurs men to seek for a better and happier way of living than has yet been known. To men and women who are college trained, whose minds have been quickened by contacts with the great prophets of the race, the task is committed of bringing in the new day."—Raymond C. Knox, chaplain of Columbia university.

"SHEILA"

Love and Mystery
Humor and Tragedy

A Story of Wichita Falls
By GORDON TURNER

CHAPTER XXXV

Edna Rogers' brain was a whirl. It was almost unbelievable, this strange secret chapter in her mother's life. She sat as one enthralled while the startling story poured from Mrs. Rogers' lips. She listened without interruption, but beset by conflicting emotions—flaming anger against her mother's betrayer, sympathy for her suffering, pride in her courage and exultation in the self-sacrifice of her confession. Mother and daughter talked until late in the night, and the close bond between them was knit even closer.

Edna still was in a daze the next day as she went about her preparations for entertaining her guests of the evening. She would have been glad to postpone the dinner, but she did not want to break her promise to Sheridan. She had called Sheila by telephone immediately after Sheridan had made his request. To her surprise, Sheila accepted without demur. Sheila, in truth, was feeling the utter loneliness of her self-immolation and eagerly seized this opportunity again to be with her chum. Wilber was easily persuaded—he had become more than interested in the charming Mrs. Rogers. In addition he was delighted with Sheila's willingness to resume her social activities.

Sheridan was the first to arrive at the Rogers home. Edna, on the lookout, met him as he ran up the veranda steps. She took him by the arm and led him to a bench under the trees.

"Mr. Sheridan," she said softly when he had taken the seat she indicated beside her, "I want to have a talk with you before the others come. I want to thank you for your kindness to mother. She has given me her full confidence. She has told me of her visit to your office and why. It was a tremendous surprise to me, but I want you to know that I am not the least bit shocked and I glory in the mother-love that makes her willing to risk all she has in the world to—for—"

"I knew it!" Sheridan exclaimed exultantly. "I knew you would take it that way. I had no hesitation in advising your mother to tell you because I was sure you would understand. You, my dear girl, have been fortunate in your heritage of character from such a mother. As your mother's daughter, you could not think otherwise."

Edna's eyes glowed. "You, yourself, then, knowing what you do, feel no different toward her—us?" she asked.

"Feel different? No! Yes, I do, too. I have a much greater feeling of respect and admiration. Have you analyzed the compelling urge that led your mother to seek out and help, if need be, this unwanted child of her past? It is not the mere instinct of motherhood. Let me explain: Your mother was fortunate at the most critical time in her life in having fallen into the hands of a woman whose own life was guided by the greatest precept ever given to humanity. She did unto your mother as she would have been done by. She shielded a blameless fellow-creature from disgrace and removed the evidence. She evaded the law of man to obey the law of God. She practiced the Golden Rule as few who profess orthodox religion practice it. It is true, that in taking your mother's baby and caring for it as her own she, too, was obeying the maternal instinct, but that was not all. I have been privileged within the past few weeks to read a marvelous document written by her—it relates the same story that was told you by your mother. She kept a diary of those long-ago events that changed the course of three lives. Into it she poured her innermost thoughts. They reveal a beauty of character that is inspiring. She wrote in detail of her conversations with your mother and I am convinced that her example of love and charity has been the guiding star in your mother's subsequent life. Your mother, too, does unto others as she would be done by and it was this great moral urge that led her to insert that advertisement in The Record News and to follow it through, even tho it evoked all of the ghosts of a buried past."

Edna's eyes were wet, with happy, grateful tears.

"I do not know how to thank you," she said. You had given me great peace of mind. I brought you out here that I might defend my mother—to justify her in your eyes. You have turned the table on me. You have taken the words from my lips. I now fear nothing from the past, but I tremble somewhat for the future. Who is this girl, Mr. Sheridan? Has she been well-reared? Is she one my mother can recognize and accept as her own—without regret? Oh, we will go through with it no matter who she is, but I can't help being a little bit worried."

"You need have no fear," Sheridan replied. "I have met her and can vouch that she is all you could wish in a sister. The great pity is that the relationship cannot be publicly acknowledged, but it will be a wonderful secret between you. You already know—but I must not say too much; my lips are sealed for just a little while longer. Be patient and of good heart."

A car purred up the driveway and came to a stop at the house. Edna started to her feet.

"It's Mr. Wilber and Sheila," she said. "We must go in."

"Just a minute," Sheridan said. "You have guessed, of course, that I had a purpose in asking you to give this dinner and you have been very considerate in repressing a natural curiosity, I—"

"Oh, not at all," she interrupted with a flash of her usual gay spirits. "My curiosity was submerged by this other development. I had intended putting you on the grill. Out with it."

"Not so fast," he retorted, "all in due time. First, I want you to do me another favor. I want to see your mother alone for a few moments before dinner. When we go in the house, will you ask her to slip into the library and wait for me there?"

They had been walking toward the house as they talked, Edna a step in advance of Sheridan. She whirled upon him.

"Mr. Sheridan—Frank! Is it about—"

"Yes, I think I shall be able to give her some good news."

Mrs. Rogers was greeting her guests as Edna and Sheridan entered the living room. A few moments later, at a quiet word from Edna, she excused herself and left the room. Edna turned to Sheila and in their joy of meeting the girls gave the two men scant attention. Sheridan touched Wilber on the arm and said in a low voice:

"Will you come with me into the library? I have a surprise for you." He led the older man through the door. Mrs. Rogers rose from her chair.

"Mrs. Rogers, Mr. Wilber," Sheridan said quickly, "I want to make a strange, but, if I am not badly in error in my judgment of both of you, an agreeable introduction. Mrs. Rogers, this is William Johnson; Mr. Wilber you are honored in again meeting Mary Crane."

He stepped to the door and softly closed it behind him. In one backward glance he saw the two occupants of the room standing as if petrified, wordless in their mutual amazement.

Edna and Sheila still were deep in absorbed conversation and Sheridan stole out of the living room to the veranda.

I hope neither of them has a weak heart," he muttered to himself as he nervously paced the porch, "but it was the best, the least embarrassing, course to follow."

It was a half hour later that the library door was opened by Wilber. There was a joyous lilt in his voice as he called:

"Edna, your mother wants you; you, too, Sheila."

Wonderingly, the girls obeyed the summons. The library door closed upon a new-found mother, two rapturous sisters and a delighted foster-father.

Dinner was served very late that night in the Rogers household. It was a supremely happy but quiet group that finally gathered around the table. There was little effort toward conversation in the presence of the maid who served the dinner. Afterward in the living room—but why attempt to describe emotions that are indescribable? The atmosphere was electric, surcharged, pulsating. An interchange of happy, excited, and, in Sheila's case, almost hysterical exclamations. To Sheila, the startling news had given the greatest surprise; she still was a-tremble. Mrs. Rogers and Wilber and Edna had been somewhat prepared in their knowledge that a denouncement was impending. Sheila was drunk with excitement. She darted to the middle of the room and waved her hands.

"Listen, family—we are all one family now, aren't we? You, too Mr. Sheridan, because I here and now adopt you as a brother. Listen, where do we go from here? Why, to our house, of course, for a real home-coming party. No, no, I don't mean tonight, but say, day after tomorrow for dinner?"

"I gladly accept the adoption," said Sheridan, smilingly, "and I highly approve of the plan, but I'm afraid you will have to count me out. I must leave town tomorrow or the next day. I have arranged to go to New York and I will be unable to return within a week. I wouldn't like to miss the celebration; can't you postpone it until a week from tonight?"

"That's a long time," Sheila replied, "but you win; the family circle would not be complete without you after tonight."

"Good girl, Sheila! And in return I think I can promise you another very pleasant surpirse for that occasion."

A.—It means a plain at the foot of a mountain.

Q.—What race do the Moors belong to?—T. E. C.

A.—The present day Moors are a mixture of the Mauri, Numidians, Phoenicians, Romans, and Arabs.

Q.—When was Biltmore built?—M. P.

A.—It was built by George Vanderbilt between 1890 and 1895. Since March of this year, this mansion has been open daily to the public. A fee is charged. The proceeds are designed to help pay for the upkeep of this magnificent estate.

Q.—Who invented Tom Thumb golf?—N. P. C.

A.—It is the invention of Garnet Carter, of Lookout Mountain, Tenn.

Q.—What is the trend of population from the country to the city and vice versa?—S. K.

A.—Last year the net emigration from farm to city was 619,000. During the year 1,876,000 people moved from the country to the city, while 1,257,000 left the city for the farm.

Q.—Why won't white rats live with brown rats?—J. T.

A.—White rats will not live with brown ones because they are two different species of rat and the brown ones are inclined to be much more vicious than the white ones.

Q.—In what line of engineering are the most people graduated?—F. W.

A.—In 1927-28, electrical engineering led with 2,565; civil engineering was next with 1,874; then mechanical engineering, 1,622; chemical engineering, 702; general engineering, 387; mining engineering, 286; architectural engineering, 172.

Q.—Is Charley Chaplin an American citizen?—A. R.

A.—He is not a citizen of the United States. He is a British subject.

Q.—How much current does an 8-tube radio set consume? As much as a 75-watt light?—J. P. W.

A.—The Potomac Electric Power company says an 8-tube radio set consumes between 90 and 100 watts and costs about half a cent an hour. It consumes as much power as a 90-watt light.

Things to Do With an Orange or Lemon

It is surprising how many delectable concoctions have oranges and lemons as their basic ingredients. There are 48 pages of recipes in the booklet now available to readers of the Record News and many of them are new and unusual.

The section devoted to hot weather drinks is especially interesting, and just now is timely. Specifications for some 25 or 30 libations are to be found there, including everything from a "Piazza Punch" to a "Red Cross Cocktail." None of them calls for anything stronger than ginger ale, in addition to the fruit juices, to make it altogether refreshing.

Fainting

When a person faints in a public place, as is usually the case, everybody in the vicinity develops an immediate kindness of heart toward the unfortunate victim, trampling on each other's toes and interfering with the circulation of fresh air to the faintee. Some motherly person picks up the victim's head and holds it high so that the small amount of blood, which may be remaining in the brain, will drain out, producing an even greater loss of consciousness.

Most people have been told often enough what to do when a person faints, and yet the usual procedure of crowding around and supporting the head are exactly the wrong things to do.

Many cases of fainting are brought on by a lack of oxygen in a congested room, and in these cases it is important that the individual receive a large supply of fresh air. Fainting is always caused by a lack of blood in the brain and can usually be relieved by moving the patient quickly to an open window where a plentiful supply of air may be secured, allowing the person to lie flat on the floor without raising the head. The blood flows with gravity just as liquid outside of the body does, and the head should be lowered to allow a flow of blood to temporarily crowd the brain. All of the clothing about the neck and throat should be loosened, and above all it is important to avoid excitement when someone has fainted.

Fainting does not usually result in death even when nothing is done, but the return of consciousness may hastened by dashing cold water on the face and fanning fresh air toward the nose. If no cold water is available, slapping may be resorted to, and it is advisable to raise the arms and legs slightly so that the blood will flow to the head. Spirits of ammonia held to the nose will stimulate the breathing, but it is not advisable for one who has a tendency to faint to resort to the continual use of smelling salts, which is certainly an objectionable habit.

Fainting in a crowd of people is an embarrassing situation and persons who feel that they are going to faint can often avoid doing so by lowering the head so that a larger amount of blood will flow into the brain. If you are sitting, it is a good plan to lower your head to beneath the knees. You can pretend to be searching for some object on the floor. If you are standing, and wish to avoid embarrassment, you can pretend that you are tying your shoelace, until the faint feeling has passed.

If you have a continual tendency to faint, you may be sure that you are suffering from some serious disorder of your circulation, and you should have a thorogh examination to determine the cause of this. Since your brain center controls all of the functions of the body, it is important that it be supplied with an abundance of pure, wholesome blood. Our consciousness stops if the blood supply is shut off, or if the blood becomes too toxic in nature.

Heart trouble and anemia are two of the most common causes of fainting, but any disease which lowers the vitality or causes a congestion of blood to some other part than the head may produce this symptom. In every case the original disease should be cured, and measures should be taken for improving the circulation and building the general health. It is important that the right foods be used and that sufficient exercise be taken to encourage the circulation.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

Pains in Stomach

Question:—Mrs. C. L. asks: "What is the cause of a pain in the stomach at night which disappears upon arising? Have been bothered with this for about six years. Am 26 years old, 5 feet tall, and weigh 107 pounds."

Answer: Such pain is often caused simply by the formation of gas which is generated during the night. Do not expect me to diagnose your trouble in this column, as it would be unwise for me to attempt to do so. Go to a good physician and have a diagnosis made. If you are not improving under his treatment, write me again, giving me the diagnosis, also a large self-addressed stamped envelope, and I will be glad to send you what advice I can.

Lemons

Question:—Mrs. H. P. asks: "Does abstinence from sugar and starch, and the eating of lemons help a person troubled with hives and kidney compiaints?"

Answer: It is always better for anyone suffering from kidney complaint to eliminate temporarily starches and sugars from the diet. A lemon or orange juice fast is often helpful in the cure of both hives and liver compiaints, but it is not wise to use the lemons with other foods.

Failing Memory

Question:—H. R. asks: "What is the cause of memory failing, and is there a cure for it? A friend 67 years of age is apparently in good health, but his memory is failing."

Answer: Your friend's trouble is an evidence of decreased vitality and a general breaking down of the nervous system. The trouble can be kept from getting worse by the patient living on a good diet and keeping up a free elimination of toxins from the body.

GUNMAN KILLS PROHI AGENT

Colorado Officer Slain From Ambush

TRINIDAD, Colo., July 6. (UP)—Dale F. Kearney, 31, federal prohibition agent, was shot and instantly killed early today on the main street of Aguilar, 20 miles north of Trinadad, by an unidentified assassin who escaped in an automobile.

Kearney was walking down the street toward his parked automobile shortly after midnight when the slayer, hiding behind a high board fence on the opposite side of the street, let loose a volley of buckshot at the officer.

Automobile Seen

J. G. Lile, night manager of the Aguilar Motor company, told police he saw a machine drive down the street after the reports of the shots rang out, pick up a man and then speed away.

The officer's body was found 10 feet from his automobile. It was riddled with 24 slugs from the killer's shot gun. Acting Coroner Ben Beshoar of Trinidad said death was instantaneous.

Kearney, unaccompanied, left Trinidad last night at 11 o'clock and drove to Aullar. His automobile developed motor trouble and he called a Trinidad garage for assistance. He then went to a cafe for lunch.

While in the cafe, police learned he told a waiter he was on the trail of a truck load of liquor which was scheduled to pass through the town early this morning.

Received Warning

Last Wednesday night, authorities said, the officer received a note warning him to "lay off" southern Colorado bootleggers. They said the warning was repeated later over the telephone.

Kearney was transferred from the Denver to the Trinidad district several months ago. He directed a number of sensational raids in Huerfano and Las Animas counties and just three weeks ago confiscated a huge still in Aguilar.

Sheriff E. A. Duling, who is heading the investigation of the slaying, said Kearney unquestionably was killed because of his unceasing activities against bootleggers.

Southern Colorado has been notorious the last few years for its almost constant warfare between gangsters for control of the liquor business.

Kearney is survived by his widow and two young daughters.

Child Breaks Arm In Tumble From Donkey

Bertrand Arbuckle, 5-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. H. C. Arbuckle, 1203 Holliday street, suffered a broken arm when he fell from the back of a donkey on which he and several other children were riding about 8 o'clock Sunday evening. The child was taken to the Wichita Falls Clinic hospital where physicians reported the boy was not seriously injured and that the broken bone had been perfectly set. The accident to the child occurred a few minutes before the ambulance-street car crash at Thirteenth and Holliday streets and less than half a block from the scene of the accident which resulted in injuries to six persons.

Dixon Nine Defeats Laundrymen, 20 to 11

The Dixon Motor company team of the Major City league Sunday afternoon defeated the Pond Laundry team, 20 to 11 in a loose hitting spree staged on Debus field. Harris and O'Neal made up the Dixon battery while Anderson and Belcher worked for the laundrymen.

HELD FOR TEXAS

OKLAHOMA CITY, July 6. (AP)—H. K. Clark was arrested here tonight at the request of M. B. Thomas, sheriff of Erath county, Texas, who said he held a felony warrant for the man. Clark said he would waive extradition.

SIX HURT HERE IN COLLISION

Ambulance and Street Car In Crash

a physician from the Clinic hospital sent to give first aid treatment. Her husband, with her on the street car, was not hurt.

The ambulance had only a few minutes before picked up the woman and was heading for a hospital when the crash occurred. The street car was going out Thirteenth street, the two vehicles having come together almost in the center of the intersection and both having been badly damaged. The street car was thrown from the tracks and almost into the curb at the northwest corner of the intersection. All windows and glass on one side of the car were shattered. The ambulance was practically a total wreck, with the front portion crushed back into the body and one side badly damaged.

Hundreds of persons gathered at the scene of the wreck within a few moments and police were kept busy for almost an hour directing traffic. A wrecker was called to remove the demolished ambulance and traction company workers were summoned to clear away the damaged street car and resume travel over the tracks.

The woman who was said to have taken poison had been living at a hotel here for the past three days. Her husband, who was not with her at the time she registered, visited the hotel early Sunday morning but the woman was not there, the hotel clerk said. Her five children, ranging in age from 3 to 14 years were at the hotel Sunday night, the mother having left Saturday without giving notice of when she would return, it was reported. She had said she was from Graham, the clerk said. Her husband could not be located Sunday night.

SPUDDERS DROP NIGHTCAP TO SPORTS AFTER WINNING FIRST

SECOND PLAYED DESPITE STORM

Champs Win Opener, 12-10; Lose Second, 7-2

By FRED D. THOMPSON

And then the wind started blowing the sand . . . . and then the rain came . . . . .

But the Spudders and the Sports proved excellent sand dodgers and mud dobbers Sunday afternoon, and ploughed through a double-header, the Spudders winning a hefty slugging match in the opener, 12 to 10, and dropping the nightcap, which was temporarily halted by a downpour, by the score of 7 to 2.

Fans Desert Park

The second game was witnessed by only a handful of the Sunday afternoon crowd of about 2,000 which packed in the stands for the first, the bulk of the fans having left when the rain approached storm-like proportions towards the fifth inning. The rain, however, was welcomed after the terrific sandstorm, which came up in the eighth inning of the first game, and after the shower had spent its force in the second the game continued, lasting until 6:45 p. m.

The first contest was notable for its heavy hitting, each team collecting 13 bingles. Steengrafe bore the brunt of the Sports' attack in the first, being relieved by White in the sixth. Dick Florrid started the second, but White was again called on to finish the battle. Kloza, Storti and Levey hit for the circuit in the first, each swat coming with a mate aboard, while Holman and McClanahan duplicated the feat for the Sports, McClanahan's blow scoring another runner besides himself. In the second game Perry accounted for four runs with two homers, each with a man on base, and McClanahan swatted another. Levey drove in the Spudders' only tallies with a home run with Geygan on the paths.

Five in First

To open the first game, Steengrafe retired the Sports with ease. The Spudders, however, bunched four hits off Moulton for five runs. Levey and Storti were retired on infield outs. Fitzgerald walked and Kloza hit one over the center field wall, scoring Fitzgerald and himself. Burns singled to center. On Huarte's error, Bettencourt went to second and Burns went to third. Crouch doubled to left, scoring Burns and Bettencourt. Geygan dropped a single into right field, scoring Crouch. Steengrafe grounded out, second to first, closing the inning.

The Sports tallied in the second when Holman lifted one over the left center field fence, but the Spudders came back to score two more on Storti's home run which found Levey on first by virtue of a single to second. In the third the Sports rallied to score three more. Moulton opened it by striking out. Whelan singled to center. Hutson doubled to right and Whelan took third. Baker hit to Geygan, and Whelan was tagged out between third and home Geygan to Crouch to Levey, Hutson taking third and Baker second on the play. Perry then doubled to left, scoring Hutson and Baker. McClanahan singled to center, scoring Perry. Holman and Huarte singled, loading the bases, but Krauss flied out to Fitzgerald to strand the runners.

In their half of the frame two more Spudder runs came in when Levey smacked one over the left field boards with Geygan on first. This proved the undoing of Moulton, who was relieved by Estrada.

The Sports went scoreless in the fourth. But the Spudders scored two more. Fitzgerald opened with a double to left. Kloza popped out to third. Burns singled past second, Fitzgerald taking third. Bettencourt singled in the same direction, scoring Fitzgerald and advancing Burns to second. Burns stole third. Then on Estrada's balk, Burns scored and Bettencourt took second. Crouch grounded to third, who tagged Bettencourt out, and doubled Crouch at first to close the inning.

Big Inning

The Sports had their biggest inning in the fifth, when they scored four runs. Perry led off with a single to left. McClanahan forced Perry at second, Geygan to Storti. Holman walked and McClanahan took second. Huarte singled to short, filling the bases. Krauss forced Huarte at second, Levey to Storti, McClanahan scoring and Holman going to third. Estrada doubled to center, scoring Holman and Krauss. Whelan singled to left, scoring Estrada. Hutson forced Whelan at second, Storti to Levey, to retire the side. The Spudders went scoreless in their half.

In the sixth, McClanahan smote a home run over the left field palisades with Perry aboard, and White came in to relieve Steengrafe. White held them scoreless the rest of the game. The Spudders made their last tally in the seventh on Geygan's base on balls. White's sacrifice and Levey's single.

By the time the second game started the lot was a-whirl with dust and sand and patrons began to leave the park. The game went on, nevertheless, both pitcher and batter being forced at intervals to shade their eyes from the blistering wind and dust. The Sports got two runs in the first inning on Perry's homer with Whelan aboard, and they added to them in the fourth with another, scored on McClanahan's single past third, Holman's sacrifice and Huarte's single past short. In the fifth they scored again on Perry's double to center, McClanahan's sacrifice to center, and Holman's single past short.

Levey's home run in the fifth which found Geygan on first accounted for the Spudders' only runs in the second game.

In the seventh Perry hit a home run over the left field wall with Baker on base, and McClanahan followed with a home run over the left field wall for the final Shreveport tallies.

Panthers Win Pair From Dallas Steers

DALLAS, July 6. (AP)—Grover Cleveland Alexander was tried out by the Dallas Steers for his third game today and as a result the Fort Worth Cats went home with both scores of a double-header 7 to 5 and 10 to 8. Alexander was charged up with the first game, having been wild and hit rather freely. The Cats gained six earned runs off of him before he was derricked in favor of a pinch hitter. The second contest was a free-hitting affair in which both teams used four hurlers apiece. A seven-run rally in the sixth frame gave the visitors the game. Scores, first game:

Giants Take Double Bill From Phillies

NEW YORK, July 6. (AP)—Between showers the Giants took a double-header from the Phillies 10 to 8 and 6 to 2. Pete Donohue, who hurled the second game, settled down after a poor start and held the Phillies in check. Lindstrom and Leach both hit homers, the latter coming with a man of base.

The Phillies gave the Giants quite a scare in the ninth of the first game, rallying for five runs. Chuck Klein found Mitchell for his 23rd homer with two aboard before he retired. Scores, first game:

Robins Defeat Braves, 10 to 4

BROOKLYN, July 6. (AP)—Ike Boone, redoubtable Coast league slugger, made his debut with the Brooklyn Robins against the Boston Braves today and starred as the Robins pounded out a 10 to 4 victory. Boone hit a single and a home run and turned in the fielding gem of the game in the first inning as he caught Walter Berger's bid for a home run and held on to the ball as he fell head first into the left field bleachers. The second game of the scheduled double-header was called in the Brooklyn half of the third inning as Boston led, 1 to 0. A sudden shower drenched the field. Score:

Still at it! Spit is a horrid word, but it's worse if on the end of your cigar

One of many actual photographs of "spit-tipping" cigar makers. The above picture was taken in Philadelphia, Pa., April 15, 1930. An affidavit from the photographer is on file, showing that this workman used spit in making cigars.

. . . the war against Spitting is a crusade of decency . . . join it. smoke CERTIFIED CREMO!

Over 7,500 cigar factories are registered by the U. S. Government. Over 7,400 of these hand-roll cigars, producing 50 percent of the output. Every hand-rolled cigar—made by American Cigar Co. or anyone else—is subject to the possible danger of "spit-tipping." Certified Cremo is absolutely free from spit-tipping—No Cremo is made by hand.

The choicest, tenderest leaves that the crop affords are scientifically treated by methods recommended by the United States Department of Agriculture. Certified Cremo's purity is safeguarded along every step of the way by amazing inventions that bind, roll, wrap and tip the cigars!

TWO BALLOONS LEFT IN RACE

13 Entrants Down Two Days After Start

Lieut. J. A. Greenwald as aide, which came down at 10:40 a. m. today at Piggott, Ark.

Two sat down in Texas, the Cleveland Chamber of Commerce, C. H. Roth, pilot and W. P. Carey, aide, and the army entrant piloted by Lieut. W. R. Turnbull with Lieut. C. M. Brown as aide. The Cleveland Chamber of Commerce dropped down at Talco and the army bag near Bogata.

Pass Paducah, Ky.

George Hineman and Milford Vanik in the United Van Service of Cleveland dropped a message at Paducah, Ky., in which they said they had sighted E. J. Hill and A. C. Schosser in the Detroit Times at a high altitude moving east.

Hill and Vanik reported in addition that they had lost ballast and gas "getting away from a moron farmer in Arkansas who seemed determined to shoot us; eight bullets whistled past the bag." It was the second report of such treatment, the Aero Digest having been fired on, unsuccessfully, near Conroe, Texas.

The navy balloon unheard from was Lieut. T. G. W. Settle's craft. Settle's aide was Lieut. R. G. Mayer.

Winds Turn

Captain Wilbur said a high pressure area over the southeastern Atlantic states apparently had turned the winds behind the leaders, pushing them up the Ohio river valley. Lieut. Haynie McCormick of Fort Sill, Okla., operations officer for the army crews, believed this afternoon that the balloon would not have enough gas to get over the Allegheny mountains and possibly would drift down a "trough" directly east from that last reported position directly toward the Maryland and Virginia coast.

The two among the 15 which landed at the greatest distance away from Houston will join Ward Van Orman on the American team to participate in the international race to begin Sept. 1 in Cleveland. Additionally, the first prize winner will receive the Litchfield trophy and a $1,000 cash prize. There are six other cash prizes ranging from $800 down to $100.

The record distance for a national race was set in 1924 from San Antonio by Van Orman, who went 1,047 miles.

He won the last international, however, with only 341 miles and by virtue of that victory automatically is a contestant in the next world event.

Mity Nice Bakers Beat Sullivans Nine, 7 to 3

Airtight relief pitching by Clyde "Red" Nichols, saved the day Sunday afternoon for the Mity-Nice Bakery team of the Major-City league and the Bakers defeated Sullivans grocery 7 to 3 on Jalonic street diamond. Country Smith and Fritz Taylor both came through with home runs. L. Anderson led the attack for the losers with two hits while Taylor, Johnson and Smith led the attack of the Bakers, each getting two hits. Score:

More Air Police

DENVER.—Denver has followed the footsteps of New York, since the Lamar bank robbery, and now employs a force of air policemen. The force is now composed of 17. Five of the men are experienced pilots, and others are now in training to learn to operate a plane. The training also includes the use of machine guns, shoulder weapons and other guns in the air.

P. B. M. Nine Wins First Half Crown

The P. B. M. baseball team Sunday took the third and final game of the play-off series from the Texas Electric Service company baseball team for the championship of the first half of the Merchants league race by the one sided score of 18 to 3. Slim Kellogg did the pitching for the Clothiers and did a very good job of it for the eight innings he toiled before the game was called. A triple by Paul Whatley with two mates on the bases and Mack Mathews' home run was all that robbed Slim of a shutout.

Paul Whatley, manager of the Kilowatts, played the game under protest on Harry Costley, P. B. M. outfielder, and a hearing on the protest will be held Monday.

Planes for Election

OTTAWA.—The practice of using airplanes in elections has been employed in Canada during the past few general votings. Out-of-the-way parts of the Dominion have been receiving ballot boxes and other requisites by airplane from Edmonton. After the returns are all in they are carried back to large towns. In this way the complete returns are known within a few hours instead of weeks as in the past.

POSSES SLAY TWO NEGROES

Alabama Race Riot Toll Reaches Six

Members of the posse said they had found the negro in the station house and had sought to search him. Ordered to raise his hands, he opened fire instead.

Woman Deserted

Eyer apparently became panic-stricken when ordered to halt. Shots were fired in an effort to halt him and, as the machine rolled to a stop, other occupants of the car fled. It was then discovered the woman had been killed.

The trouble had its inception the afternoon of July 4 in an argument between Esau Robertson and Clarence Boyd, nephew of Grover Boyd, who took a battery he had sold the negro from the car when he could not pay for it. The negro later appeared at Grover Boyd's store and asked to talk to Clarence.

When the younger Boyd went outside he was attacked by Esau, his father and brothers. Grover Boyd, running to his nephew's aid, was shot down from behind by Jacob.

Slayer Hanged

Bystanders grabbed Jacob, but the other negroes fled. Jacob was held in custody by a crowd that gradually grew as word of the shooting spread and that night he was taken to the woods and hanged.

Sheriff W. D. Scales and deputies arriving later took up the search with many of the crowd joining them. At the home of John Robertson, brother of Tom, they asked to search the house and were met with gunfire. The fire was returned and John was killed.

John's fire dropped Marrs and wounded Jim Ayers, another white man, in the cheek. The crowd applied a torch to the Robertson house.

Rewards of $300 for the capture of each of the four negroes wanted in connection with the slayings were offered late yesterday by Governor Graves.

Longhorns Whip Electra To Open Second Half

The Panhandle Refining company baseball team, winners of the first half of the Wichita Valley league race, started the second Sunday at Katy park with a 5 to 2 win over Electra. The game was featured by the defensive work of both teams. Francis and Woodridge led the hitters with two each. Score:

that we have the cooperation of an intelligent, honest, courageous and interested citizenship under the best leadership offered.

Believing also that we contribute to and are influenced by the atmosphere in which we live, I am convinced that serious attention should be given the background, former associates and accomplishments of those offering for high office; while at the same time giving thought to their platforms offered as a declaration of their future activities.

"Last fall in a statement issued I made this observation: "I would like to see the time come when a candidate for high office as the nominee of the Democratic party, would have something more than his own consent, a campaign fund and a bucket of mud. I should also like to see a political campaign with some more important business than the settlement of personal grudges or an appeal to political prejudices." I might also have added that it would be helpful to know that those offering for high office would follow the example of one of our most distinguished Americans and install his hobby horse in the garage or basement rather than undertake to get his exercise on the public pack pony.

With the above thoughts in my mind, and having made a rather careful survey of those citizens offering for the Democratic nomination for Governor of Texas; and having given some attention to their several platforms, I have definitely decided that Clint Small of Wellington is the best material for governor.

His background of ancestry shows an honest, intelligent, industrious and courageous "fair to middlin'" Texas stock. His experience and associations in and immediately near his home have been with the same kind of folks. His public training or experience in public office has been sufficient to give him an intelligent insight into the way things are done, without having so monopolized his time that he might be properly classed as a professional politician.

His platform, which I accept as the guide for his conduct after election, is sufficiently definite and comprehensive to afford opportunity to look over the course he has planned. We find no appeal to personal or political grudges or prejudices. We find platform declarations of construction and not obstruction. We find an expressed desire for an honest, economical administration of public affairs and funds, without fault finding or condemnation of the efforts of former administrations. We find an intelligent understanding and a definitely expressed attitude on such important matters as education, penitentiaries, state highways, court reform and law enforcement.

Agreeing with him absolutely in all the major points in his platform, there is just enough of Clint Small's individuality written into it, with which I am not in entire accord, for me to appreciate his personal independence of thought and action, and also to admire his political courage.

He is sometimes referred to as the West Texas candidate for Governor. He is. We can not move his place of residence and do not want to. He would not dare offer for state office without West Texas' endorsement.

Let us say to all Texas that we who know him best, his home folks, offer Clint Small to all Texas approving his private life and personal character and applauding his public record. Yours very truly, (Signed) Walter Cline.

Navy Near Solution To 'Blend' Landing Problem

WASHINGTON, July 6. (US)—The problem of landing an airplane safely under conditions of no visibility is about to be solved, the bureau of aeronautics, navy department, revealed today.

This was the last obstacle to complete blind flights. Already the pilot is able to maintain a steady course and to make proper turns, climbs and glides without seeing anything but his instrument board, and to locate his position with respect to a known point.

The blind landing problem has already been all but solved by Capt. Arthur Page of the marine corps, winner of the recent Curtiss race and the details will be revealed in the near future, it was stated.

STATE: Fannie Brice and Harry Green in "Be Yourself." Talking short subjects and sound news.

STRAND: "The Texan," with Gary Cooper and Fay Wray. "Our Gang" comedy, "Tough Winters," Eddie Cantor novelty, "Getting a Ticket," and sound news.

MAJESTIC: Alice White in "Sweet Mama." Harry Langdon in "The Head Guy." Screen novelty, "Caviar."

GEM: "Bulldog Drummond," with Ronald Coleman. Comedy, "Carnival Man."

A study of Wichita Falls theater programs for the past two weeks and the two weeks to come present an interesting comparison to the old-timer whose mood is reminiscent and incidentally prove that funerals are sometimes no more permanent than weddings.

◇ ◇ ◇

Almost everyone can remember, for example, the sad last words which were said over the remains of the old "western." Somebody shed a tear or two for the two-gun man who would never again gallop across the screen to rescue the ranch foreman's daughter from a bad hombre. The talkies would take outdoor scenes out of the movies, according to all authorities.

◇ ◇ ◇

Today there is almost never a time when none of the better theaters are featuring a talking western movie. There is a difference, of course. The bad hombre isn't the villain today, but the hero. Consider, for instance, the fascinating Warner Baxter in "The Arizona Kid", a recent production here, and Gary Cooper as "The Texan." Purged of its melodrama, the old-time cowboy thriller has been resurrected to become one of the most popular types of scenarios.

◇ ◇ ◇

There was another funeral, with the burial in the potter's field and a conspicuous absence of mourners. The Wicked Wampire, executed by public opinion, passed into complete oblivion—heavy mascara, willowy slinky figure, decollete, slithering clothes and all. Theda Bara's followers didn't last long.

◇ ◇ ◇

And now the vamp is back too—not with the soot eyelids and the long earrings, but in several different guises. There is, for instance, the baby type best portrayed by Nancy Carroll, Clara Bow and Alice White, who leave some doubt as to their wickedness (there was never any doubt about the Theda Bara type) if also to their intelligence.

◇ ◇ ◇

In "A Lady of Scandal," opening at the Majestic next Saturday, Ruth Chatterton is said to use a far more subtle technique than was ever thought of by her predecessors. Where Nancy, Clara and Alice roll their expressionless eyes adoringly at some helpless big brute and topple him over, Miss Chatterton employs the rare charm, physical and mental, to completely ensnare the really intelligent man.

◇ ◇ ◇

Of course Joe Brown and Harry Green could never be completely won and held by any other method than the hefty mauling technique of Winnie Lightner and Fannie Brice. Harry and Fannie are good examples of this type of romance in "Be Yourself," now showing at the State.

◇ ◇ ◇

All of which may or may not prove something. I would hesitate, however, to say the last rites over anything in the movies. The critics even said that slapstick comedy was dead not so long ago!

6,379 ATTEND SUNDAY SCHOOL

Floral Heights Church Leads Class Gains

Nearer approach to mid-summer accounted for a decline of only 133 in combined Sunday school attendance in Wichita Falls for the first Sunday in July. There were 6,379 persons present on July 6, as compared with a total of 6,512 on June 29.

Approximately a 50 per cent increase in attendance, based on its average, was registered at the Floral Heights Presbyterian church school Sunday morning, in connection with the opening of the new church building.

County Candidates To Meet Tonight

The question of speaking tours for Wichita county candidates will again be brought up Monday evening when all office seekers will meet in the 78th district courtroom at 7 o'clock for the purpose of continuing discussions which were begun at a meeting several weeks ago when all action was deferred.

At the previous meeting of the candidates, talks both in favor of and against having speaking tours were made by several of those present. The majority expressed opposition to beginning the speaking tours so far in advance of the primaries and for that reason a vote of the candidates deferred all action until the meeting set for Monday evening, when dates and places for speeches to be given by the various office seekers will be outlined.

Floral Heights Presbyterians Open New Church With Attendance Gain

23 New Members Added to Rolls as Grafton Assumes Post; New Officers Elected

An increase of 50 per cent in Sunday school attendance and of 33 per cent in church membership at Sunday morning's services marked the opening of the new Floral Heights Presbyterian church home at Buchanan street and Avenue J. Congregations which taxed the capacity of the auditorium attended both morning and evening services when Dr. Nat F. Grafton preached the first sermons in his new charge.

Officers of the congregation were elated Sunday over an initial jump from an average of 70 in Sunday school attendance to a total of 114, and the reception of 23 new members of the church at the conclusion of the 11 o'clock worship service. Dr. Grafton chose as the subject of his first sermon in the Floral Heights Presbyterian pulpit the subject of "Concentration," and used as his text the words of Paul, "This one thing I do: pressing on to the high calling of Jesus Christ." His sermon charged the congregation with the responsibility imposed by its erection of a church edifice and community center in that section of the city, and anticipated in its treatment the two-weeks' revival campaign which opened Sunday night with a goal of 150 members as its objective.

At a congregational meeting held at the church at 4 o'clock Sunday afternoon, Otto Stehlik and R. D. Bone were added to the board of elders, and Curtis Young was elected general superintendent of the Sunday school. The principal object of the meeting was the reorganization of the Sunday school staff. Elections resulted as follows: Cradle roll, superintendent, Miss Helen Leach; beginner's department, superintendent, Mrs. W. D. Corn; teacher, Miss Lorena Wilson; primary department, superintendent, Miss Virgie Eason; teacher, Miss Ida Weaver; junior department, superintendent, Mrs. J. R. Eason; teacher, Mrs. E. B. Morrow; intermediate department, superintendent, Miss Ruby Nipper; teacher, Edgar L. V. M. Blakeley; senior department, superintendent and teacher, Ralph Dick; young married people's class, teacher, Mrs. Frank Ray; adult department, superintendent, Otto Stehlik; teacher, Mike Newman; associate teacher, J. S. Pitman.

Mrs. D. W. Corn was elected general secretary, Mrs. L. L. Davis as pianist, and Miss Fay Weaver as departmental pianist.

Mrs. W. M. Priddy, soprano, sang "The Holy City" at the morning church service, accompanied by Mrs. Davis. A choir of more than 20 voices assisted in the musical service. R. E. Shepherd assumed charge of the singing Sunday night, with Mrs. Shepherd at the piano, and will continue to direct the music nightly throughout the revival meetings, which will close on Sunday night, July 20.

GRAND JURY MEETS TODAY

District Attorney to Present 50 Complaints

The grand jury for the July term of the 30th district court will be convened Monday morning by Judge Allan D. Montgomery for consideration of one of the heaviest criminal dockets to await a grand jury here for several months, according to Sam B. Spence, district attorney.

About 50 cases will be presented by the district attorney's department, with almost half of this number involving charges of wife or child desertion. Criminal cases will probably be set for call during the week of July 21, Mr. Spence said. In addition to several charges of liquor violations, theft, robbery and the other cases usually brought before a grand jury, the district attorney's department will present the bribery case against former Constable J. P. Williams of Iowa Park and Mrs. Georgia Lynch, accused of conspiracy to commit bribery in connection with Williams' alleged "protection" of beer sellers. The murder charge against Jess Ellison, negro, in connection with the slaying of Cecil Sweeney, another negro, will also be presented.

A lunacy hearing before a jury of 12 men in the 89th district court on a complaint filed against Otis Akers, under life sentence for robbery from Wichita county, will occupy the attention of the district attorney's department Monday, July 14. The charges against Akers, filed by penitentiary officials, will be contested by the district attorney's department on the grounds that the prisoner is not insane and that his escape could be effected more easily from an institution for the insane than from the state prison.
