2 Killed In Red Martyr's Day Celebration In Japan

SAILING, SAILING

The two men on this raft are Dr. Alain Bombard (left), 27-year-old French doctor and musician, and his "crew," British-born Panamanian Jack Palmer, 38. The venturesome seamen head out into the Mediterranean from Monte Carlo aboard their triangular rubber raft, heading for Gibraltar in an attempt to prove that shipwrecked sailors can live off the sea indefinitely. The men hope to sail their tiny craft, equipped only with a sail and a gadget to press juice out of fish they catch, across the Atlantic if the initial trip to Gibraltar is successful

Red Prisoners Killed Today On Koje Island

KOJE ISLAND, Korea, May 30 (AP)—Eight Red prisoners were killed and 17 wounded in bloody incidents at United Nations prisoner of war camps on riot-torn Koje Island and on the Korean mainland yesterday and today.

Prison camp authorities said no U. N. Personnel were killed or wounded.

The killings raised the toll of reported deaths from violence to 245 prisoners. The Army said 115 of these died at the hands of fellow prisoners after drumhead trials in compounds dominated by hard-core Communist POWs.

Four North Korean prisoners were killed and three wounded today when a 15-man POW work party attacked two U. S. and two South Korean guards on Koje.

Three Korean civilian internees were killed and 13 were injured yesterday in a brawl among captured personnel moved recently from Koje Island's massive prison camp to a new compound at Yongchon.

One North Korean prisoner was killed and another wounded yesterday by bullets from a U. S. soldier's automatic rifle, fired accidentally during a guard change in compound 66 on Koje.

Taft Backers Open Fire On Ike's Record

(By The Associated Press)

A frontal attack on Dwight Eisenhower's record, launched by Sen. Robert Taft's forces in South Dakota today heightened the political clamor greeting the general's imminent arrival home.

The Ohio senator's supporters bought newspaper advertising space to assail Eisenhower, due in Washington Sunday. The general resigned as allied defense chief in Europe to be available for the Republican presidential nomination if offered.

Citing Taft's stand on top issues, the ads said Eisenhower is on record for universal military training (UMT) and the draft of women in wartime. They linked Eisenhower to what was called the Democratic administration's "plan for unnecessary foreign aid and wasteful spending."

Ike's Views Will Be Made Available

WASHINGTON, May 30 (AP)—Gen. Dwight Eisenhower's campaign headquarters reported today the head of every state delegation to the Republican national convention has been invited to call on the general before the covention to learn his views on the major issues of the day.

A spokesman said the talks will be held in Abilene, Kan., New York and Denver.

"They'll be give-and-take sessions," he said. "The delegates can ask the general anything they want."

Eisenhower turned over his European defense command to Gen. Matthew Ridgway in Paris today and told newsmen he will shed his uniform Tuesday but won't take part in any active campaign for the nomination.

The spokesman said Eisenhower meant "he won't go on any transcontinental train trips or go around shaking hands."

But, he said, "He will talk to anybody who comes to see him. And that includes party leaders as well as delegates."

The first conferences with convention delegates will be held in Abilene next week.

Eisenhower's first speech after his return from Europe Sunday will be at his home town of Abilene next Wednesday.

The spokesman said delegate leaders from a number of states are expected to call on the general then.

During the week of June 9, he'll be at his residence at Columbia University, the spokesman said. Eisenhower took a leave of absence as president of Columbia when he was chosen to head the North Atlantic Treaty Organization (NATO) in Paris.

Other meetings will take place in Denver after Eisenhower sets up his headquarters.

Odessa Triangle Shooting Is Fatal To 2, Injures Another

ODESSA, May 30 (AP)—A shooting behind a downtown Odessa cafe last night brought death to two persons and left a third critically wounded.

Mrs. Elsie Sanders, 34, owner and operator of the cafe, was dead on arrival at a hospital shortly after the shooting at 11 p.m.

Roy A. Ray, 41, oil field roughneck from Odessa, died in a hospital at 7 a.m. This morning. Marion (Ace) Gilcrease, 43, car salesman from Santa Fe, N. M., was critically hurt.

Police Chief J. J. Heaton said Ray walked up to the car where Mrs. Sanders and Gilcrease were sitting, shot the two and then stuck the barrel of the .38-caliber revolver in his mouth and pulled the trigger.

Heaton said "apparently there was a jealousy angle." He quoted Gilcrease as saying he did not know Ray nor know why Ray shot him.

Gilcrease came here from Santa Fe several months ago and had been unemployed.

Laura Singler, 23, a waitress in the cafe, said she heard shots and walked out to the car.

"The son of a gun shot us," she quoted Gilcrease as saying as she looked in the car. Mrs. Sanders was in the driver's seat.

Miss Singler returned to the cafe to call an ambulance. Gilcrease followed her, saying "He shot us both." He fainted at the front door of the cafe.

The police chief said Mrs Sanders was shot once through the chest, twice in the left arm, and that a fourth shot tore off the end of her nose. He said Gilcrease was shot once in the back.

Heaton said Mrs. Sanders' husband is working as an oil field driller at Freer in South Texas.

Gilcrease was quoted by the police chief as saying he had offered Mrs. Sanders a ride to another cafe and the shooting occurred on their return to Mrs. Sanders' cafe about 20 minutes later.

Big Effort To Overcome Veto Of President On Tideland Bill

(By The Associated Press)

Texas and Louisiana state officials promised President Truman that every effort would be made to override the President's veto of the tidelands bill.

Sen. Long (D-La) said last night he believed there was a chance the Senate would cancel the veto.

Sen. Tom Connally (D-Tex) said he would work toward that goal.

In the House, several representatives predicted the veto would be outvoted by a big margin.

The President vetoed the state ownership of tidelands measure yesterday saying he could see "no reason for the federal government to make an outright gift, for the benefit of a few coastal states, of property interests worth billions of dollars."

A Senate vote on passing the bill over the veto, which requires a two-third majority, is not expected before June 10.

"Of course I do not agree at all with the President's position on the tidelands," Sen. Connally said. "I have always believed the states were the rightful owners of these lands. . . and I shall vote and work to override the President's veto."

Sen. Nixon (R-Calif) said the President's statements in the veto message were "so intemperate and so misrepresentative of the facts they will help those who favor state ownership."

Sen. Long said the President indicated that he was willing to give the states all resources in the lands except oil, thus recognizing the impropriety of claiming the off-shore areas.

He said he hoped the veto will be brought before the Senate when there is a full attendance.

"It is my belief that it will be close but I believe we have a chance to override the veto," Long said.

Three top Texas officials blistered the President for the veto.

Gov. Allan Shivers, Attorney General Price Daniel and Land Commissioner Bascom Giles make up the state school land board which had control of the submerged lands until the federal government laid claim to them.

Shivers accused the President of making use of "the doctrine that might makes right—a doctrine new to America but old in the history of dictatorships."

Daniel accused the President of substituting "his will for that of the people's elected representatives."

Giles said Congress would be urged to override the veto.

SAN ANTONIO, May 30 (AP)—"Shall we dance?" asked the man.

"Why, yes," replied his girl friend.

So they danced in a San Antonio tavern last night but not for long.

Shortly after the number was over, the boy friend disappeared and so had $20 from her pocket which he picked while they danced.

Deputy Sheriff Shot and Killed

LAS CRUCES, N. M., May 30 (AP)—A red-mustached gunman shot and killed a Southern New Mexico deputy sheriff early today and wounded another.

Seven hours later a man was arrested for questioning in the case as he fled from a bullet-punctured auto near Caballo Dam, 20 miles from the shooting scene.

The shooting happened as the officers sought to question a man for speeding at Hatch, little farm community 36 miles north of here.

Sirened to the curb shortly after midnight, the gunman fired from his car window as officers approached, then sped away.

Deputy Sheriff Ralph Higginbotham, about 30, fell mortally wounded. He died an hour later.

Marshal Guy Dunivan of Hatch received a minor shoulder wound as he emptied his pistol at the fleeing auto.

The middle-aged man who was arrested was brought to County Jail here. He refused to answer officers' questions. He does not have a mustache.

The single identifying clue supplied by Dunivan was a red mustache. The patrol car spotlight was focused on the stopped car, he said, "and all I could see was this guy's red mustache."

State Police Sgt. Jerry Brunk said the car from which the man fled had been licensed by Oliver Max Morgan, El Paso.

In it, he reported, was found a .45-caliber automatic pistol—the same type of weapon with which the officer was killed. The car had six .38-caliber bullet holes in it.

Higginbotham, before he died, and Dunivan both shot at the car with their .38-caliber police revolvers.

Texan Injured By Acid Bomb In Riot

TOKYO, May 30 (AP)—Two persons were killed today in Tokyo as Communist Martyr's Day demonstrators clashed with steel-helmeted police.

The two died and another was injured when police opened fire on a crowd of about 200 demonstrators who advanced on a police box in a northwestern suburb, Itabashi.

Police had warned the crowd they would shoot if the demonstrators advanced any closer. They had reached a point about 10 feet from the box.

The crowd surged forward, throwing bottles of acid and stones. Police opened fire. The crowd scattered.

Small demonstrations were reported throughout Japan.

Latest reports placed the number of arrests at nearly 100, but the number of injured was small.

Demonstrators threw flaming fuel oil torches and squirted sulphuric acid from water pistols in a flareup at Shinjuku Station in western Tokyo.

Japanese police, alerted for such an outbreak, held the upper hand late tonight as they systematically herded demonstrators away from the station plaza and down narrow side streets.

Two policemen and three newspapermen were injured at Shinjuku. About 16 demonstrators were arrested there.

At about 10 p.m. (7 a.m., CST; police loudspeakers warned the demonstrators to disperse within 30 minutes or be doused by streams of colored water from tanks on fire engines. The colored water easily would identify anyone caught in the stream.

Nearly 2,000 police remained in the area.

One of the newsmen hurt was Associated Press Correspondent William C. Barnard. The others were a Japanese reporter and a Japanese news photographer.

Barnard is a Texan, the son of Dr. W. C. Barnard of Corpus Christi. Before going to the Far East on a Korean War assignment, he worked in The Associated Press Bureau at Dallas. Previous to that he worked for the Corpus Christi Caller-Times and the San Antonio Express.

The 38-year-old Texan has been in the Far East nearly two years. He has risked danger many times in getting news from the war front. Some of these stories were gathered by flying with jet fighters over the battle lines.

Barnard had just finished telephoning a report to the AP Tokyo Bureau when he was hit on the neck by a sulphuric acid bomb with a sputtering fuse.

Barnard said he was standing near Shinjuku Station "where several hundred Communists were penned up.

"They were yelling and raising hell.

"Suddenly I saw this thing coming at me. It was flung out of a crowd of Communists. It sizzled like a sparkler. It missed Max Desfor (AP photographer) and was coming right square at my face.

"I ducked and it caught me on the side of the neck. It burned a hole in my shirt collar. I had to cut off the collar.

Memorial Day Observed Over Nation Today

WASHINGTON, May 30 (AP)—While the nation mourned its war dead this troubled Memorial Day, American troops fought in Korea, other U. S. soldiers in Europe paid tribute to fallen comrades of past wars and Communists rioted in Japan.

Two were killed and several injured in the rioting, a part of a Martyr's Day ceremony. The two died when police opened fire on a crowd of 200 demonstrators in Itabashi, a Tokyo suburb.

Two policemen and three newspapermen were injured in other melees in Tokyo. About 16 persons were arrested in Tokyo and scores of others in similar smaller demonstrations throughout Japan.

In both the Orient and in Europe, military leaders called for renewed devotion to ideals for which Americans have died.

"We best honor our fallen comrades by our devotion to the great causes for which they died and for which we continue to do battle," said Gen. Mark Clark, supreme Allied commander in the Far East.

"We can pay no greater tribute to our honored dead than to rededicate ourselves to the cause for which they died," agreed Gen. Thomas H. Handy, commander of the U. S. European Command.

On the green hills of Arlington National Cemetery across the Potomac from Washington, wreaths from President Truman were placed at the tomb of the Unknown Soldier, and at memorials to dead of the Spanish - American and Civil Wars—both Union and Confederate.

Traditional services—attended by crowds despite threatening skies—were held in the Memorial amphitheater just behind the Tomb of the Unknown Soldier. More than two score veterans organizations participated.

Throughout the nation, shops and offices were empty. The workers and their families paid tribute to war dead, then relaxed for the holiday.

Daniel Steps Up His Campaign To Keep Pace With Beckworth

(By The Associated Press)

Two hard-working candidates for U. S. Senate squared off today in the heavyweight campaign on the current Texas political season.

Gubernatorial Candidate Ralph Yarborough hacked away at his contention the state administration was corrupt and pointed to a grand jury report.

In the Senate race, it was Attorney General Price Daniel of Liberty versus Congressman Lindley Beckworth of Gladewater in a chips - down fight for the post held by Tom Connally of Marlin.

Daniel was to be in Corsicana Kerens, Athens, Trinidad and Tyler following his "opening campaign speech" last night in Waco. Beckworth hit the hill country trails today for speeches at Sonora, Junction, Menard, Eden and Ballinger.

Daniel trekked into East Texas—the Beckworth stronghold—moving at a fast pace, a pace Beckworth has maintained since three days after his first announcement. The attorney general was to make a morning speech at Corsicana, move eastward to Kerens by noon, attend the Old Fiddlers Reunion at Athens late in the afternoon, and back to Trinidad for a press and radio barbecue at nightfall.

Tonight Daniel was to speak before the Smith County Bar Association in Tyler.

The same brisk pace was to keep the two Senate candidates busy tomorrow. Beckworth scheduled his sound wagons and personal appearances, complete with ranch music and western tunes, at Coleman Brady, Mason, Fredericksburg, and Llano.

Daniel was to have breakfast with Tyler friends followed by appearances at the Lindale Blackberry Festival and dedication of the new Anderson County Hospital at Palestine. Daniel's press representative Herschel Hunt, said the candidate would make a "non-political" speech at the hospital dedication.

Daniel's plans for next week were unannounced but Beckworth had 31 speeches scheduled across South Texas and the Lower Rio Grande Valley in five days, beginning Tuesday morning at San Augustine.

In his speech at Waco, Daniel used one-third of the 10½-page document to flay federal seizure of the tidelands. He called the act, and President Truman's veto yesterday of the state ownership bill, "the blackest page in all this era of centralization and lack of moral integrity."

Both Beckworth and Daniel say they favor state ownership of the submerged lands most persons believe to be rich in oil deposits. Daniel has made a running fight in Texas and Washington for retention of the tidelands. Beckworth interrupted his campaign recently to fly to Washington to vote for state ownership. He says he will be back there to vote for overriding the veto.

Daniel said in his talk on the McLennan County court house lawn that Congress should redefine the powers of the presidency. This must be done, he said, to prohibit federal seizure of property under the theories of "inherent powers" and "paramount rights."

"The President's seizure of the steel industry and his attempt to take the tidelands away from the states have brought on the most serious constitutional crisis in modern American history," Daniel told about 2,000 listeners and a statewide radio audience.

He said the Department of Justice is supporting Mr. Truman with a "new and dangerous doctrine that the President is above the Congress, above the courts, above the constitution, and therefore above the people, in his new and unlimited power."

The state attorney general outlined this eight-point platform:

1. Establishment of preferential primaries in Texas to give the people a more direct vote in selection of presidential candidates.

2 Recapture and exercise of policy - making power of Congress assigned to it by the constitution.

3. Change in the electoral college system to give the people a more direct voice in the actual election of a president.

4. Removal of censorship of non-military information imposed last year.

5. "Regain for Congress control of the nation's purse strings."

6. Assertion of influence by Congress to establish positive and understable foreign policy.

7. Redefinition of the powers of the President to prevent property seizures.

8. Adoption of a policy of returning to the states and local government units every power not necessarily connected with federal functions.

Candidate for Governor Ralph Yarborough said an Austin grand jury report supported his claim that there is corruption in the state government. A former district judge, Yarborough said the grand jury criticized state officials for failure to report "obvious violations" of the law for "political reasons or otherwise."

The grand jury foreman, George C. Quinn, said, "No such implication was intended and there was absolutely no evidence before us that would justify such an assertion."

Some Pan American Workers Back At Their Jobs Today

The regular work schedule will be resumed at midnight tonight at Pan American Pipeline which will mark the end of the union workers' strike there. The strike has lasted three weeks.

Company officials said the strike was ended at midnight last night, adding that the firm's administration in Houston, which had previously granted the workers a holiday on Memorial Day, is giving employes credit for pay today. Those who must work today will receive double pay, officials said.

One company official said that everything is now in order and that all employes have been notified that the strike has ended. He added that Pan American refinery workers went back to work Tuesday and are now in the process getting refineries back into operation.

Primary American Interests Lie With Atlantic Community

By WALTER LIPPMANN

When we put ourselves in the position of making up our minds about what lies ahead, we move into the realm of speculation and argument. It is the essence of the matter that our policies are not formed but are in the process of being formed. All I can do here is to describe in broad outline the course which I believe we can best take.

We were on the right course, as I see it, during the war—specifically, between 1942 and 1945, in the period between Mr. Churchill's visit to Washington immediately after Pearl Harbor and until the death of Roosevelt and the defeat of Churchill in 1945. During those years we had a close partnership, one might call it an organic alliance, which managed the business of war and peace in the western world—managed it for what we have come to call the Atlantic Community.

The Atlantic Community had its combined staffs, its combined boards, its unified commands, and perhaps most important of all its agreed diplomatic actions. The Atlantic Community had a foreign policy. It was affiliated with the Soviet Union for the purposes of the war. For want of a better word I use the word affiliation. The relation was certainly not a partnership. It was not really an alliance. It was a kind of co-belligerency among rival and not friendly great powers who, until they had been attacked by the same enemy, had just about managed to coexist.

* * *

The Atlantic Community was affiliated also with China not much more intimately or candidly than with the Soviet Union.

These kinds and degrees of partnership, alliance and affiliation were not invented a priori. They grew out of the realities of our position and the necessities. They represented the true structure and in the world that we are living in. They showed that structure, not as it might have been designed in theory, but, as experience was showing that structure to be.

Had we done that, had we made the wartime structure of relations the foundation of the post-war system, had we made it plain before the war had ended that we were resolved that the Atlantic partnership was to continue and was to endure, then it would have been as the Atlantic Community, rather than as separate states, that we could have entered the post - war negotiations to make the peace treaties and to establish the United Nations.

Why we did not do this is a long and complicated story, and much of it still obscure. But what I have been saying was proposed and pressed upon our governments. There were men on both sides of the ocean who argued that the Atlantic Community should be consolidated prior to a settlement with the Soviet Union about the future of Germany, prior even to the organization of the United Nations.

The proposals were rejected. They were held to be a departure from, they were held to be in conflict with, the Wilsonian principles of a universal society.

* * *

Mr. Hull was then the Secretary of State, and Mr. Hull was a disciple of President Wilson, more orthodoxly Wilsonian than President Wilson himself had ever been. Moreover, Mr. Hull had played no important role in the partnership by which the war had been conducted. Yet he was President Roosevelt's main, and in fact his indispensable, liaison with the Congress of the United States in all matters that dealt with post - war policy.

In Mr. Hull's mind, the mere notion of maintaining the Atlantic Community after the war was over, and of entering the United Nations as a community, was a vicious heresy—a violation of the Wilsonian commandment against alliances, against spheres of influence, and against the balance of power.

We plumped for what was, as I have said, the internationalism of the isolationists. In their conception of the world, when it is pure and ardent, when they have not been pushed into compromises with the hard substance of things, there are no legitimate entities between national states on the one hand and the universal society on the other, between the atom and the cosmos. The whole drift and impulse of their doctrine, moreover, is to make more and more national states out of the larger existing political units, to propagate new states by fission, and thus to populate the universal society with an ever-increasing number of feeble governments.

That this plunge into unmitigated universalism was the wrong course to take in 1945 became clear in 1947 and 1948 when, finding it necessary to set up the Marshall Plan and the North Atlantic Security Pact, we turned back to the Atlantic Community. In doing that we were admitting that the post-war policy of 1945 had been a painful and a costly detour, and that we must now work our way back to the right road.

After the detour into universalism, we are now back on the main road, and I think I may say that increasingly our interests in the Atlantic Community are tending to be the deciding consideration of our foreign policy.

BUSINESS OUTLOOK

Republicans Due To Get Same Tag They Had In 1948 Vote

By J. A. LIVINGSTON

When the chips were down in the 1948 Presidential campaign, when voters finally had to pull the lever or "x" the square, they followed their social and economic dictates. If their leanings were "big business,' they voted for Dewey, if their leanings were "common man," they voted for Truman.

That's the big finding of a study by the Survey Research Center of the University of Michigan, just released in brochure form. It repudiates the common belief among Republicans that Dewey lost the Presidency because many Republicans stayed at home on election day. On the contrary. Truman lost more votes by absenteeism than Dewey.

Truman, according to the survey, won in the last two weeks, when 12 per cent of the ultimate voters made up their minds. Three out of four of these late deciders voted for him. But that doesn't mean that Truman's campaign carried the day, or that Dewey's campaign lost it. The majority of these late deciders had Democratic leanings to begin with. They'd been vacillating about Truman. But on election day, they returned to their economic roost.

The survey describes the typical Truman voter as an unskilled worker or farmer, 21 to 34 years old, with a grade - school education and an income of less than $2,000 a year. The typical Dewey voter was 45 to 54 years old, a manager of a business or a professional man, with some college education and an income of $4,000 or more.

Dewey got nearly four votes to every one for Truman from the managerial and professional group. He broke even with Truman in the white - collar vote. The survey says this "reflects the more ambiguous position of the white-collar group in the social-economic order." They are neither big shots nor little shots. Some are on their way up, some down.

Skilled and semi - skilled workers gave Truman a better than 3-to-1 margin and unskilled workers somewhat less than 3-to-1. Here membership in labor unions, concentrated among skilled workers, influenced behavior. Truman got nearly five votes to every one for Dewey from union members. Among nonunion workers, Truman's margin was only 2-to-1. The unions got out the vote, to. Only 28 per cent of union members failed to vote ,as against 42 per cent for nonunion workers.

Among farmers, Truman's margin was 2-to-1. Here, the south accounts for the Democratic preponderance, not Iowa or the Dakotas. Non-voting among farmers was the highest of any occupational group — 54 per cent. Absenteeism among white - collar workers was lowest, only 18 per cent. Next came the professional and managerial group, 25 per cent; next, the skilled and semi - skilled workers, 29 per cent, and the unskilled, 49 per cent. Average absenteeism was 36 per cent — 40 per cent for women, 31 per cent for men.

Among men, Truman's margin over Dewey was 5 to 4, among women it was almost a standoff. The presumption is that a higher proportion of wives of professional and managerial men voted than wives of workers or farmers. They have more time and presumably a greater political alertness. The further assumption is that they reflect their husbands' sociological preference at the polls.

The survey showed what people thought Dewey and Truman stood for, regardless of party. Truman was identified with the common man by 31 per cent of the respondents; with labor by 24 per cent; with farmers by 18 per cent; with Negroes by 5 per cent; with machine politicans by 4 per cent; with government employes by 1 per cent; with liberals, progressives and radicals by 1 per cent; with business and big money by 1 per cent. Some of these identifications, such as "machine politicians" and "radicals," are vote-repellent. But for the most part, they're vote - getting. Dewey had only a limited group identification. Two per cent identified him with conservatives and reactonaries (vote-repellent), 1 per cent with Negroes, and 24 per cent with business and big money, which among workers is vote - repellent.

The surprise of the survey was the small influence foreign affairs had on the Presidential choices. Few mentioned it as a factor in their decisions, even though, in November, 1948, the Berlin airlift was four months old.

The survey was based on a small sample — less than 700 persons. But that doesn't mean it can be dismissed. The sample was chosen for wide economic, social, and geographical distribution. The interviews were conducted by specialists, and a pre - election study in October, 1948, revealed a standoff between Truman and Dewey. This was contrary to the Gallup, Roper and other polls at the time. What's more, the results square with, indeed, they point up, accepted theories of trained political analysts.

The survey re - emphasizes that the Democratic Party today is the majority party, that it has a broader economic base than the G.O.P., and that the Republican Party is tagged, even by many of its supporters, as the party of big business. In other words, that's what the 1952 Republican candidate will be up against in November.

Willbern Talks On Park Bonds

Clyde Willbern, Snyder attorney and president of the Junior Chamber of Commerce, met with the Rotary Club yesterday at their regular luncheon meeting to explain the park bond issue, which will come to vote June 7.

Willbern outlined the work done by the Chamber of Commerce recreation committee and various civic organizations in preparing the proposal for the bond to build a county park, explaining what the $350,000 issue would include.

"Based on the investigation I have made and the little work I have done in the program, my personal feeling is that the building of the proposed park would help to make Scurry County a better place in which to live and raise a family," Willbern told the group.

The proposal calls for bonds up to $350,000 be issued for the building of a park, centrally located in the county, to include a swimming pool, livestock pavilion and arena, picnic pavilions, 20 barbecue pits, three tennis courts, three softball diamonds, a wading pool, and playground equipment.

Mississipian Wins Contest About Texas

MADISONVILLE, May 30 (AP)—A Mississippi sailor stationed in California was announced today as the winner of the Madisonville Sidewalk Cattlemen's Assn. letter writing contest.

The contest theme: "Why I would like to live in Texas."

Walter M. Breeland of Biloxi, Miss., stationed at San Diego, Calif., (which he called "this God-forsaken place") won the contest with a letter praising Texas people and opportunities.

"The first of last month I was hitch-hiking home and in several Texas towns some of the local citizens picked me up in their cars and went as much as five miles out of their way to put me out at a good hitch-hiking spot. Believe me, friends, I don't know of any other state in the Union where you can get that kind of service.

"My second reason why I'd like to live in Texas is because, as Arkansas so boldly puts on their license plates, it is 'the land of opportunity!' I believe this because I've seen with my own eyes the oil fields, cattle ranches, growing industries and various types of farming."

Breeland will be flown to Houston Tuesday, will be met there at 8:50 a.m. by a Madisonville welcoming party which will outfit him as a Texas cowhand. He will be honor guest at the association's annual barbecue and rodeo June 5.

Army Sgt. Charles E. Rogers of Shreveport, La., had previously been announced as winner of the preliminary contest to select the contest theme. Breeland said he read in the Houston Post about Rogers winning a pair of cowboy boots and western hat in the preliminary contest. Rogers disqualified himself from the final contest by saying "I can't think of a single reason why I'd like to live in Texas."

Korean Missionary Is Given Sergeant's Rank By Demand

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP)- Ever hear of a man being made a buck sergeant in the American Army by popular demand?

Father Frank Woods, an Irish priest who spent 17 years as a missionary in Korea, holds that unique honor. He also holds the American Medal of Freedom, awarded for his work with front-line troops.

"But every G. I. in Korea should have been given it before me," he said yesterday before boarding the liner Mauretania for his native Ireland. He sailed with five other Far East missionaries to attend the election of a new head of their order, the Columban Fathers.

Father Frank, a ruddy-faced, graying man of 48, became the best-known chaplain in Korea as a result of his legendary battlefield exploits.

Shortly after the U. S. troops landed in Korea, the stocky priest volunteered his services. Because he was a non-citizen, he was told he couldn't be put on Uncle Sam's pay roll as a chaplain.

That made no difference to Father Frank. For more than a year he served without rank or pay with the Second Battalion of the U. S. Second Infantry Division, an outfit that saw some of the hardest fighting of the Korean campaign.

Carrying a rifle for his own protection, he went on dangerous patrols to act as interprter. He gave the last rites to hundreds of American wounded men. Sleeping with the officers, eating with the enlisted men, he became the most popular man in the division.

Once, after a fire fight, he called on a wounded Korean in a rice paddy to surrender. To his startled surprise 70 fully-armed, unwounded Korean soldiers hiding in the paddy rose to their feet, their hands lifted.

Division officers finally began to worry about Father Frank. They didn't want to lose him.

"They watched me like hawks," he said. "They wouldn't allow me to go on patrols any more, or even to get up front."

Before he left the division, he commented that he thought being a sergeant in the American Army was about the finest job in the world.

The next day, an order was posted on the headquarters bulletin board unofficially promoting him to the rank of "buck sergeant." Every soldier in the company immediately signed his name to the order and Father Frank at last had rank—by popular demand.

Mary Jim Stinson and her mother, Mrs. Lee Stinson, have a perfect place for afternoon cokes in the breakfast room space of the kitchen. The kitchen is done in gray, pink and green. (Staff photograph.)

TALK OF THE TOWN

By SUE HOLMES

Back in the '30's, architects delighted in designing dark, sunless kitchens just full of glass-doored cabinets.

Such a kitchen confronted Mrs. LEE STINSON when she and her husband decided this year to revamp the most used room in the house.

Help and advice came from a friend architect, but the color choices of gray, pink and green were their own. The glass doors were replaced with handsome wooden ones with hard-to-get stainless steel handles and knobs. The service porch area — once so indispensable in a new home—housed the refrigerator and many were the miles Mrs. Stinson walked back and forth during the time she was preparing meals. Now the refrigerator stands opposite the sink, very conveniently. A little bar divides the drain board and working surface from the dining area. An old-fashioned drug store table is used for breakfasts and dining. It fits right into the quaint but modern scheme. Dishes and silver are stored in the same cabinet in the dining area, one of the few original fixtures that could stay.

One of the handiest additions to the kitchen is the way in which wall plugs are spaced at two-foot intervals along the cabinets. There is a place for innumerable electric appliances, from the toaster, percolator and mixer on up.

A serviceable and attractive design of linoleum covers the floor, and wallpaper is a green and pink leaf design.

No wonder teen agers are attracted to the Stinson home!

Nine women interested in art lessons met with JIM McCULLOUGH and his attractive wife Wednesday to talk over the possibilities of starting such classes. Result was that the artists will be back tomorrow at 2 o'clock in the afternoon. Anyone interested, man or woman, can drop by the junior high school at Twenty - eighth Street and Avenue O to see what's going on.

All you need, besides the fee, are willing hands and an imaginative mind. Jim takes it from there and will show you brush techniques, sketching procedures or if you're more advanced, just take your oils and canvas.

Ask Mildred

Send your questions to Mildred Sparks, county home demonstration agent, courthouse, or to the Snyder Daily News.

My parents want to come to see me this summer, but they have never left the house closed up for more than two weeks. There is no one to look after the place daily, and I just thought perhaps you could give me some pointers to send my mother to ease her mind and help her decide to come on. Emma G.

You didn't say in which section of the country your mother lived, but if it is where mildew is bad, you'll have to tell her to store anything subject to mildew carefully. There is a plastic spray you can buy which will make things mildew - proof.

The problem of leaving furniture is largely one of providing adequate protection from dust and moths if it has wool coverings or stuffing which may be damaged by moths. Furniture should be cleaned with a vacuum cleaner attachment or brush, or dusted well and covered with old sheets or with paper. Cover in the same way books, mattresses, lamp shades, or any bric-a-brac that cannot be washed easily.

As a protection against moth damage, spray wool upholstered furniture with a liquid insecticide, and you will have protection for several months. If the rug is valuable, the safest course is to send it to a reliable cleaner and store it. If this is not possible, vacuum rugs thoroughly and provide adequate protection from moths.

Anything in the line of cotton linens should be stored clean, but never starched, since silver fish like starch.

Dispose of all perishable food. Disconnect all gas and electrical appliances. If the refrigerator is a new one merely pull the plug. For an open unit, call the service man and let him give the refrigerator whatever care it needs. Shut off the water and gas supplies. Ask the gas and power companies to disconnect their services on the last day before they leave. Have the telephone disconnected.

Always have newspapers and milk stopped. Leave a forwarding address at the post office and ask the local police to keep an eye out for prowlers.

Check up on the insurance to be sure the fire, burglary and public liability make the house and its contents safe, even though the residents are absent.

A very real, but seldom recognized, fire hazard, is oily polishing cloths and greasy or paint-smeared rags. Matches should be stored in metal cans.

George Sees Shivers' Men Being Seated

WASHINGTON, May 30 (AP)—Sen. George (D-Ga) says Sen. Russell (D-Ga) will get Texas' 52 votes for the Democratic presidential nomination.

George heads the Russell for President Advisory Committee.

"The so-called walkout by dissident forces at the Texas convention was a fiasco," George said in a statement yesterday. "Only 41 official votes from a total of 1,227 left the regular convention. We are assured the 52 Texas delegate votes will go with Russell all the way in Chicago."

"The Texas delegates are officially uninstructed but for their guidance, the state Democratic convention passed a resolution laying down specifications for a nominee that can be met only by Sen. Russell among the announced candidates."

George pointed out that both Gov. Shivers and national Committeeman Wright Morrow again stated at the convention their personal preference for Russell.

Czechoslovakians Not Under Thumb Of Russians Anymore

By JOSEPH and STEWART ALSOP

WASHINGTON — For the first time in some years of weary waiting, the experts are weighing the possibility that a major satellite is not absolutely under the Kremlin's thumb. The regime is that of President Klement Gottwald of Czechoslovakia.

The most striking facts are simply those concerning the composition of the Gottwald government. The Czech President, who has never been known as a true 100 per cent Stalinist, now has his own men, reporting directly to him, in the three key positions of his totalitarian state.

His son-in-law, Cepicka, is Minister of Defense, and thus controls the armed forces. His old comrade-in-arms, Nosek, is Minister of the Interior, controlling the apparatus of justice. Like Gottwald himself, Nosek is generally regarded as a "nationalist" Communist, and he has committed the grave indiscretion, from the Kremlin's standpoint, of spending the war in London instead of Mascow.

* * *

Finally, Gottwald has also appointed another henchman, a certain Basilek, as Chief of the Secret Police. The man who holds this most vital of all posts in the state apparatus is famous both for his absolute ruthlessness and his blind obedience to Gottwald. Basilek's position is also significant in another way. For his predecessor was one Kopriva, an equally blood - thirsty hatchetman who owed his job, not to Gottwald, but to Rudolf Slansky. Slansky, of course, was the Stalinist Secretary of the Czech Communist Party whose denunciation by Gottwald and arrest late last year, were a major and most astonishing sensation.

The strongest interpretation of the mysterious Slansky denunciation and arrest has just appeared in the official Yugoslav magazine, Foreign Affairs. This article was written by Ivan Karaiuov, who is the top Yugoslav expert on the Cominform, and has a noteworthy reputation for being well informed. Karainov stated flatly that a bitter, still-concealed struggle for power has been going on between the Kremlin and the Gottwald regime for some time. He reported that since Slansky's arreat, Gottwald had already purged no less than 6,000 loyal Stalinists in the state apparatus. He pictured Gottwald as defying the Kremlin to seize total control of the state and party in Czechoslovakia.

Karainov has often been right before. The Yugoslav intelligence concerning the satellite area is undoubtedly the best in the world. And it must be added that the simple circumstances of the Slansky arrest appear to support Karainov's interpretation of it and of the events which have followed it.

* * *

The fall of Slansky caught all Western intelligence experts flat-footed. Slansky had always been accounted the Kremlin's chief and most trusted agent in Czechoslovakia, and the real ruler of the country. The number two Kremlin agent, Cedrich Geminder was arrested at the same time as Slansky, and Slansky's police chief, Kopriva, met his fate a little bit later.

The arrest of Slansky, moreover, followed hard on the heels of the arrest, last spring, of the former Czech Foreign Minister, Vlado Clementis. This old friend and close associate of Gottwald was a Slansky victim. There is good reason to believe that Gottwald at first did his best to protect Clementis when the Kremlin's order to purge the Foreign Minister first came through. At that time, Clementis was simply removed from the Foreign Ministry, and quietly placed in a safe sinecure in the Czech State Bank.

* * *

Then Slansky, with the full backing of the Kremlin, insisted that Clementis must be put in jail. It is now believed that an emissary of Gottwald warned Clementis of the fate in store for him. Clementis thereupon tried to flee the country, and actually came within four short miles of the Czech border before the secret police caught him. Since then, he has never been brought to trial.

Add to all this Gottwald's own background. As far back as the '20s, Gottwald was neutral in the crucial Stalin - Trotsky struggle. This is one error which the Kremlin never forgets. In 1947, Gottwald accepted the Marshall Plan offer without consulting Moscow. The Kremlin brutally disciplined him for his mistake. Since then, his public pronouncements have continued to strike a suspiciously nationalist note. And this is the note which the Kremlin does not tolerate.

DOROTHY THOMPSON SAYS

Problems Of World's Newest State Are Many And Complex

By DOROTHY THOMPSON

BENGASI, Libya — In this newest state which shortly will be knocking again at the doors of the United Nations, sponsored by its Arab and Moslem members, national life must literally begin from scratch.

One may ponder the 50 years of Italian rule so hated by the desert and Arabic population. It never returned the Italians a cent, but year after year was a drain on the Italian budget. It would probably have taken at least a century to amortize the investment which provided fewer than 100,000 Italian settlers with a livelihood.

Count Carlo Sforza, Italy's first foreign minister after World War 11, always questioned the advisability of the venture, pointing out that the same amount of money invested in the reconstruction of the lands of southern Italy and Sicily would have involved far less risk and brought greater returns from within Italy's own boundaries. History proved him right: the whole investment was lost, and nobody profited on either side.

Now, the new state is also not self - supporting. Great Britain, which liberated it, pays its deficit which amounts to some 45 per cent of the budget, and furnishes it with a certain number of technical and political advisers. This too, is resented by certain Libyan leaders, who incline to interpret it as a new kind of veiled imperialism, claiming that they would rather choose their own advisers. But one cannot exactly choose anyone to pay ones bills. And nobody in Libya claims that the country is ripe and ready for complete self-government, without external aid.

A state requires first of all educated leadership and a trained technical personnel. But even primary education was lacking when Libya was liberated. As far as female education is concerned, there was none at all when the new state came into being. Now that has begun, but not more than 2 or 3 per cent of the girls in the Cyrenacia province, and not more than 4 to 10 per cent of the boys in all Libya, have the most primitive education. The problem is not only money and buildings. It is teachers.

I visited a primary school for girls, of which Cyrenaicans are justly proud. But all the teachers except in a kindergarten, were either Egyptians or Arab refugees from Palestine. The people of western nations cannot teach in Arabic, and no Arabic nations, except Egypt, have any teachers to spare, for all, in lesser degree, are confronted by the same problem.

Educated Palestinian Arabs are in great demand, for the British, during their mandate over Palestine, prepared Palestinians for all kinds of social and civil services making them one of the most advanced Arabic populations. I have found them teaching not only in Libya, but, on my last journey through this area, some 18 months ago, in Lebanese and Syrian schools as well. Their dispersal, through the creation of Israel, is not, therefore, without cultural advantages to some of the Arab states neglected by previous empires. But it is a disadvantage to Israel and to peace, because they carry with them and transmit to others unquenchable hatred of the Jewish state; of Britain; who they think, let them down and sold them out to the Zionists; and of the United States, whom they hold in the first line responsible for a policy which has made nearly a million of them homeless.

There was a considerable Jewish population in Libya itself—some 5,000 — and they were among the more prosperous and better educated. In Bengasi they were permitted by the Italians to have their own school, and the first girl's public school in Libyan history is now housed in their building, one of the best in the city. They might have played an important role in the building of the new state, but 90 per cent of them have left for Israel and the few remaining keep very quiet.

The basic organization of Liby an life is tribal, religious, and bedouin. Libya is a nation of herdsmen. These tribal leaders, though they are in most respects out of another century, are, in other respects, extraordinarily in this one. They travel in airplanes, and listen to radios.

When the Cyrenaican government gave Dr. Hopkins and me a large reception in the handsome house that formerly sheltered the bank of Italy, attended by all the "notables," and members of the diplomatic crops (who were not in the other capital, Tripoli) I noticed 12 patriarchal figures sitting in a row and looking very much like a frieze of Durer's old testament prophets. Engaging them in conversation, one of them became a spokesman for the others and expressed his commiseration on the recent Missouri river floods.

Now, water is the greatest problem of most of this part of the world, and a country periodically threatened by flood greatly interested them. They wanted to know about the "mother of American rivers," the Mississippi, and why it breaks its levies, and I found myself— I am afraid not very accurately — describing the various attempts, failures, and theories involved in its restraint.

The new state has now opened a boarding school for sons of these tent - dwellers, whose nomadic shepherd life makes it impossible for them to attend day schools. I am told they are exceptionally good and eager students

Plans For Two New Churches In Southwest Snyder Revealed

Two new church buildings are expected to be started soon on donated tracts near the Highland Park and Towle Place additions in Southwest Snyder.

The Calvary Baptist Church, Thirteenth and Avenue I, has its present building for sale because of intentions to construct a new meeting place about a block west of Avenue V and a block north of Thirty - seventh Street. The two-acre tract was recently given to the church by Mrs. Pearl Yoder. Before she offered it to the church as a donation, it had been priced at $8,000.

The Church of Christ congregation on Twenty - fifth Street is planning to build a new edifice on a 7-lot tract on Thirty - seventh Street, five lots of which were given by Miss Fay Harrell and her sister, Miss Myrtle Harrell. The church plans to begin the new building within the next 60 days, according to Earl McDow, a member of the building committee, but the congregation will keep its present building, organizing a new church for the new one.

Boyd Fanning, minister, will remain with the present church, and a new minister will be chosen for the new organization, McDow said. Plans for the new building have been drawn, and the architect's estimate on construction cost is $100,000. The building will have 10 classrooms, a study, and will seat about 520. The lots given to the church were valued at a total of $6,250, and the church purchased two of the lots from two parties for a total of $2,500. The tract is on the north side of Thirty - seventh Street, near the line dividing Towle Place and Highland Park additions.

Mr. Cates said the Calvary Baptist group had not yet decided on specifications for its proposed new building. Discussions, however, indicate the congregation is anticipating a building about 70 by 40 feet with a basement. The pastor said the church would sell its present property before starting the new building, however.

Religious Films Are Available To Churches

The Rev. Victor D. Wood, pastor of the Fairview Baptist Church, has announced that he now has religious films which will be loaned without charge to church groups.

Mr. Wood also has a sound movie projector, and said he would arrange to meet with groups to show either his films or films of their own. There will be no charge for the use of the projector.

Mr. Wood may be contacted by mail through general delivery, Snyder.

BOYD D. FANNING

THE TROUBLE IS IN OUR HOMES

You may talk about the influence of universities all you wish, and how damaging they are to the religion of modern youth. But I tell you that the main source of such damage is in that considerable section of American homes where golf, cocktails, bridge parties, and such things, have extensively replaced the worship of God on the Lord's day. It is the humoring indifference in the home toward the church and religious duties that hurts more than the "free-thinking" of some crack-brain professor chattering about his monkey ancestors.

It is a popular thing to blame the colleges with the irreligion of some modern youths. But the college is not nearly so strong as the home can be in formulating faith and character. "Train up a child in the way he should go, and when he is old he will not depart from it."

But a home that is disgraced by a cigarette-smoking, liquor-drinking, gambling mother, who either whiles away her time reading sex magazines and love stories, or by consuming her thought and energies at bridge parties and dances—if such things require thought—is a rather pitifully weak bulwark for the character and faith of youth.

It is not the plan of God for women to neglect the home. Home is the very backbone of civilization. It is essential to liberty, decency and morality. It is in the home that woman is a queen, enthroned with the power to wreck or ruin a nation, and to wield a power over human destiny she cannot possibly realize. She can forever preserve or eternally destroy the religion of her children. That is how strong she is in her place. There is nothing more lovely, more saintly nor more wonderul in the sight of men amidst all the creation of God, than a faithful Christian mother training up children to honor God, country and home. There is nothing more wholesome for the church or the U.S.A.

It takes more care, more diplomacy, more tact, more energy and character to be a godly Christian mother rightly ruling a home and training children, than it does to be governor of Texas or president of any Ladies Aid Society in the world. In any place else a woman loses ground, but in the home she has "arrived," the most glorious and admirable queen on earth, and at the very top of the ladder of human attainment and power. "Train the young women to love their husbands, to love their children, to be sober-minded, chaste, workers at home, kind, being in subjection to their own husbands, that the word of God be not blasphemed" (Titus 2:4-5).

List Expenses Of Candidates In State Races

AUSTIN, May 30 (AP)—Expense reports in the state's major political races so far have ranged from 21 cents to $45,744.48.

Those are the low and high figures filed with the secretary of state as required by law 60 days before the first Democratic primary July 26.

Low man is Matt Davis who says he is a candidate for attorney general. His low expenses are partly explainable by the fact that he hasn't paid his filing fee. For that same reason, part, officials say, he isn't a candidate.

High man is Price Daniel, candidate for the U. S. Senate. Daniel reported contributions from 611 persons have totalled $56,629.23 to keep him ahead of his $45,744.48 expenditures.

Other expense reports:

Standard Oil Co. of Texas has reported completion of two new producers in the Kelley - Snyder-Cisco field.

Standard No. 1-S-11 Mrs. Jessie W. Brown pumped 24 hours for a potential of 132 barrels of 42.7 gravity oil with no water. Gas-oil ratio on the test was 653-1. Production is natural from open hole between 6,252-294 feet.

Mangrum And Bolt Top Field

ST. LOUIS, May 30 (AP)—Lloyd Mangrum of Chicago and Tommy Bolt of Durham, N. C., each with a two-under-par 68, held the lead today in the 49th Western Open Golf Tournament. But no one is ready to pick the winner in the 72-hole, $15,000 competition.

The two old pros and newcomer Earl Wilde of Rock Island, Ill., with a 69, were the only members of the 120-man field to win the first-round encounter with Westwood Country Club's long and troublesome par 70 course yesterday.

Most of the entries settled for scores in the low and middle 70s. They included Sam Snead, the White Sulphur Springs, W. Va., slammer who was a pre-meet favorite. Snead, with seven others, wound up with a 72, good only for an eight-place tie after 18 holes.

Sherman Still Finding Going Tough In Sooner State League This Year

(By The Associated Press)

Ada and Chickasha closed in on front running Pauls Valley with the aid of seventh-place Lawton last night in the Sooner State League.

Ada beat Sherman, 6-5, on Harry Belfuss' seven-hitter to surge to within one game of Pauls Valley's Raiders, who dropped a 4-1 decision to Lawton.

Chickasha, one game back of the Herefords in third, got six runs in the first three innings and held on for a 6-5 victory over Shawnee.

Ardmore, the tail-end club, enjoyed a good night at the plate, getting 12 hits to outscore McAlester, 10-3.

NICE TRY

Gil Hodges, Brooklyn Dodger first baseman, closes his mitt on the balmy spring air as a box seat customer grabs a foul from the bat of Jim Hearn, New York Giant pitcher, in the fourth inning of Brooklyn-New York game Wednesday. Hodges claimed the fan stole ball from him. The fan was ejected from park. Giants won 6 to 2.

Agabashian In 500 Pole Place

INDIANAPOLIS, May 30 (AP)—Freddie Agabashian of Albany, Calif., flashing a white-tooth grin he inherited from Armenian ancestors, led the fastest 33-car field to the starting lineup today for the 36th annual 500-mile auto race.

He was shoe-horned into a red and yellow race car only 29½ inches high, a Cummins Diesel Special that was the first oil-burner to win the pole position in the Memorial Day classic.

Back in 19th position was the first foreign driver in the race since 1946, European Champion Alberto Ascari of Milan, Italy, in a V-12 Ferrari.

Alongside Agabashian in the front row, in positions they won with fast qualifying runs, were Andy Linden of Los Angeles in a super-charged four-cylinder Miracle Power Special and Jack McGrath of Pasadena, Calif., in a Hinkle Special.

The concensus at the pre-race drivers' meeting Thursday was that McGrath, Agabashian and Ascari will be the men to beat. There also was considerably enthusiasm for the rebuilt Novi V-8s piloted by Chet Miller of Glendale, Calif., oldest driver in the race at 49, and Duke Nalon of Fort Worth.

No Runs For Two Teams

The first no hit - no run game of the season in the Snyder Fastball League was hurled last night by Zelmer Glover, pitcher for Pasotex, and his team won 13-0.

Pasotex managed eight hits to the hurling of Jim Moring, and their winning the game evened the record with that of Pan Am, both teams now having 4-2 records.

Sun Oil won its second game of the season after four losses, defeating West Texas State Bank 13-0.

The one home run of the game was hit by Johnson, while Charlie Franklin, pitcher for the winning team, allowed the West Texas nine only two hits. Sun had seven hits, and each team committed two errors. Frankie Minton was losing hurler.

Only one game will be played tonight when West Texas Concrete (1-5) meets Snyder Steam Laundry (3-3) at 7 o'clock. Tomorrow night, the two games rained out Wednesday night will be played. They are Hermleigh vs. Diamond M and Humble vs. Texaco.

San Angelo In LonghornDrop

(By The Associated Press)

Odessa, getting a boost from the tail enders now and then, apparently wants the Longhorn League all to itself.

All the other clubs keep getting stuck on the losing side of the ledger. Last night San Angelo, the only team besides Odessa above .500, saw its percentage fall to .514 with 19 wins and 18 losses when Artesia edged the Colts, 2-1.

The win moved Artesia into seventh place without dispute. Odessa built up its first-place lead to six and a half games over San Angelo, with an emphatic, 18-11 triumph over Sweetwater.

Keith Nicolls blanked Roswell, except for two-run uprisings in the sixth and seventh, on nine hits as his Midland teammates collected a 6-4 victory.

Big Spring plumped Vernon into the cellar by winning, 7-5. Bert Baez relieved Winner Gil Guerra in the ninth with Vernon players on every base and none out, then Baez struck out the last two batsmen after allowing a single and two runs.

McDermott In One-Hitter

By JACK HAND
Associated Press Sports Writer

Wild man Maury McDermott, erratic Boston Red Sox lefty, has joined Bobby Feller, Bob Cain and Art Houtteman in the American League's one-hit club.

Last night he faced only 27 Washington batters.

A base on balls and a triple gave Boston its 1-0 win in the sixth inning.

Batters enjoyed a field day in Detroit where Cleveland mauled the Tigers, 11-4.

The New York Yankees had to use a little "Yankee luck" to get past Philadelphia, 3-2, even with Vic Raschi, the A's jinx pitcher, on the mound.

The New York Giants' seven-game win streak was snapped by Philadelphia, 6-5. Combined with Brooklyn's 7-3 edge over Boston, the Giants' National League lead was clipped to 1½ games.

Ralph Kiner's fifth homer and Murry Dickson's pitching reversed Pittsburgh's backward motion to whip Cincinnati, 4-2.

Clovis Holds Its Lead In League With Win Over Lamesa Of 11-1

(By The Associated Press)

If you dislike pitchers' duels, take the West Texas-New Mexico League.

The hurling was a little one-sided last night. So were the scores—62 runners tallied in all.

Clovis ran up a 11-1 win over Lamesa to preserve its first-place hold by three and a half games. And the winners got the top pitching in the league, a five-hit performance by Bill Hair.

Albuquerque pasted Lubbock, 13-3, on 18 hits from three Hubber hurlers.

Two-Hitter In Little League Last Night; Yanks, Cards Win

Dick Hayes, hurler for the Whiteway Yanks, struck out 12 players last night in the Little Baseball League when the Yanks beat the Kiwanis Braves 7-4.

Hayes allowed the Braves only two hits during the game, while his own team managed eight hits over Bud Morgan, losing pitcher. Morgan struck out nine.

The Braves committed two errors, while the Yanks had one.

The game gave the Yanks a 1-1 record, while the Braves were playing their first in the league.

The Optimist Cardinals also playing their first of the season, won over the Holder Indians 7-4, with Tucker, the winning hurler, fanning 11 and giving up four. McDaniels, starting pitcher for the Indians, struck out eight and gave up three, while Martin, losing pitcher, fanned one and allowed one hit.

The Cardinals committed three errors, and the Indians went through the entire game without an error.

No Hit, No Run Game Recorded

(By The Associated Press)

Red-faced Tulsa got its name put in the Texas League record book last night, thanks—or no thanks—to the Dallas Eagles.

The hapless Oilers earned their niche, shared with three others, by failing to produce a run in three consecutive games; Dallas blanked them last night, 3-0, with Don Mossi throwing six-hit ball.

Fort Worth applied the first two whitewash jobs in the present Tulsa string, 5-0 and 2-0, in the two nights previous. And the Oilers are still in the running, for most consecutive scoreless innings of 37 held by Galveston's 1931 club. Tulsa's runless innings total 29.

Dallas' win boosted it within a game and a half of Beaumont at the top of the league race. Beaumont fell a second straight time to San Antonio, 5-3. Fort Worth, moving back into the first division, beat Oklahoma City, 7-2, and Houston clipped Shreveport, 6-2.

Mossi left 10 stranded and fanned five as the Tulsans were zeroed their eighth time this year.

Laredo's Win Streak Cut At Five Games By Brownsville Last Night

(By The Associated Press)

Brownsville's scorching Charros became the hottest club in the Gulf Coast League last night when they stopped Laredo's winning streak at five games and ran their own to six victories in the last seven outings.

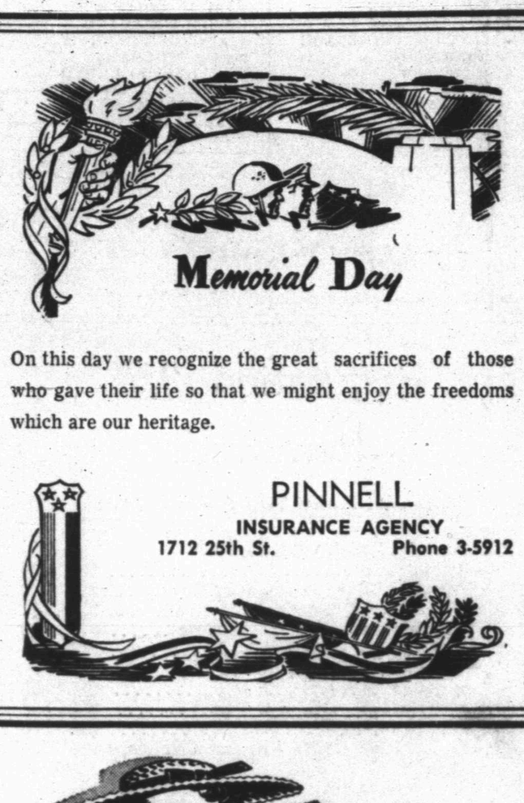

Brownsville, playing good and bad in streaks, set down the league leading Apaches, 12-5, and enabled second-place Harlingen to move back within three and a half games of first. A week ago, Brownsville had lost seven straight.

Harlingen nudged Corpus Christi, 8-7, while third-place Port Arthur beat Galveston, 5-1. It took Texas City's 5-foot-6 Armin Somonte to turn in the best mound performance of the night, his five-hitter being good for a 2-0 victory over Lake Charles.
