Bond Issue Would Add 15 Cents To School Tax Rates

By Pat Blair

[Editor's note: this is the first in a series of articles on the proposed Aransas County Independent School District's proposed bond issue. Future articles will provide more detail on each of the three propositions in the upcoming bond election.]

If all three propositions are approved in the September 13 school bond issue, the resulting bonded indebtedness will mean a 15 cent increase in school taxes in Aransas County.

That's the information from an Aransas County Independent School District "Newsletter" for parents of students in the ACISD system.

The bond issue — totaling $3.6 million if all propositions, with voters having the option to vote for or against each proposal.

Absentee voting will begin Monday, August 25, in the School Administration Building, and will end Tuesday, September 9.

Proposition 1 would authorize issue of $1.7 million in bonds for improvements to all five schools in the Aransas County school system.

Included would be replacement of roofs, exit doors and panic hardware and windows at Rockport-Fulton High School plus remodeling of several rooms to create additional classroom space, a biology lab and a new library for the school.

Ceiling fans would be installed in all five schools under this proposition and the ceiling material would be sealed at Rockport-Fulton Junior High School and two of the elementary schools.

Under Proposition 2, $170,000 in bonds would be issued for installation of air conditioning in the high school.

Proposition 3 would authorize issue of $1.7 million in bonds for construction of a new 1200-seat auditorium and the remodeling of the existing auditorium into a band hall.

Voting in the Saturday, September 13, election will be in the R-F Junior High cafeteria from 7 a.m. until 7 p.m.

School Superintendent Joe Randow said any clubs or organizations interested in a program on the bond issue can contact him or Delmar Hiller, chairman of the Bond Program

Fulton Anticipates 1980 Budget Surplus

The City of Fulton can expected to end the 1980-81 fiscal year with more than $14,000 surplus if preliminary budget figures hold true.

That was the good news presented to members of the Fulton City Council Tuesday night, August 19, when a preliminary budget of $13,525 was presented for the council's consideration.

That figure represents anticipated expenses during the coming fiscal year that begins October 1. The city expects revenues of some $28,200 to cover those expenses — with funds left over.

The budget will not be finalized until after a public hearing on the matter — probably on the Fulton council's next meeting date, Tuesday, September 9.

School Bond Issue

Headlining today's Pilot is an article on the proposed Aransas County $3.6 million school bond issue, pointing out how the issue, if approved, will affect county school taxes.

As the introduction indicates, this is just the first in a series of articles the Pilot plans to carry on the bond proposal.

At this point, we are neither for nor against the bond issue. Our aim is merely to present the facts to you, the voters of the Aransas County Independent School District, to give you a basis for casting your vote in the September 13 bond election.

In succeeding issues of the Pilot, we will look at each of the three propositions on which you will be asked to make a decision. Voters may mark their ballots for or against each proposition; if all three proposals win approval, the total bond issue will be for $3.6 million.

This bond issue is an important one for all of Aransas County. Your decision at the polls on September 13 will affect the school system — and your taxes — for years to come. This is why we at the Pilot feel strongly about our obligation to present you with as many facts as possible on this matter.

We want to be sure, when you go to the polls, that we have done our part in providing the information you need to make an intelligent decision on this issue.

Bid System Threatened

Highway transportation is unique in Texas. One of the things that makes it unique is that, while the state highway system is paid for with public funds, the roads are actually built by private industry. The state — and federal government — collect taxes from those who use the highways.

In Texas the revenue comes from motor fuel taxes, vehicle registration fees, and from the automobile sales tax. The revenue is collected in advance to build and maintain the roads, and not one cent of debt is incurred by the state for that purpose.

The State Department of Highways and Public Transportation, using the funds allocated to it by the legislature, designs the roads and invites bids from private contractors to do the construction. The construction projects are awarded to the low bidder. The Department inspects the work to see that it is done according to the plans and specifications.

The key to the system is that the contracts are awarded solely on the basis of competitive bids. State law requires that the contracts be awarded to the low bidders. Contractors must satisfy the Department that they have the capacity to do the work and are required to post a bond to guarantee that the work will be completed. The competitive bidding system, with all its safeguards, insures quality work will be done at the lowest possible cost.

The system protects the interest of the taxpayer. For more than three decades, Texans have enjoyed the benefits of the nation's finest highways, while paying lower highway user taxes than any other state.

The 71,000 mile Texas highway system is a tribute to the integrity of the State Department of Highways and Public Transportation and the skill and efficiency of the highway construction industry. Not since the days of Ma Furguson have Texans had to worry about political chicanery and corruption in their highway program.

Enter the federal bureaucrats. Legions of beady-eyed Washington bureaucrats are busy stamping out efficiency and cost effectiveness where they find it. The scenario is a familiar one. The feds collect taxes from highway users in Texas. As a condition for returning about sixty cents of every dollar they collect in Texas, they impose myriads of requirements which must be met.

In the federal aid highway program, the bureaucratic maze causes endless delays and adds at least 25 percent to the cost of each project. Failure to comply with the federal edicts — such as enforcement of the 55-mile-per-hour speed limit, truck weight laws, billboard control laws, screening junkyards, and meeting arbitrary EPA clean air standards - results in withholding federal highway funds.

The latest creation of the federal bureaucrats is a system of quotas for minority businesses. Under the new Minority Business Enterprise regulations of the U.S. Department of Transportation, a certain percentage of each highway construction contract is reserved for minority businesses.

Under the DOT scheme, highway construction contracts will not be awarded to the lowest competitive bidder, but to the one who promises to subcontract the most work to minority subcontractors. The state is expected to negotiate with contractors after they bid to decide who gets the contract. The amount bid by contractors to do the work becomes secondary to the exercise of meeting the minority subcontracting quotas.

This outrage of bureaucratic stupidity overlooks the fact that the Texas highway construction industry has done an exemplary job of training and employing minorities. Over half of the industry's work force is minorities. Any system which requires the award of contracts to any other than the lowest responsible bidders is definitely not in the public interest.

Austin At Wharf

HURRICANES ALWAYS GIVE ME, TO COIN A word, an unsummery feeling. Don't please, ask me to describe what I mean. I have to copy someone else's coined word, a sort of fixation on the subject.

The weather is betwixt being too humid and too cool. The sky changes. Kids should be back in school. Time for football to start. Time to sock away summer clothes, swim suits and boaters gear. None of this makes sense in a land of, well, almost eternal summer.

A WEEK AGO I NOTED THAT ALMOST EVERY-one was having a single word to say on the score of Hurricane Allen (Alenee). "Lucky." True enough.

There's nothing on earth that always couldn't be worse. I know that by the time I'd trekked all those precious things, mementos to silver, down the stairs at our island home that I was muttering audibly. "This hurricane had jolly well be a good one."

That was Friday a week ago. Through Sunday my muttering became more audible.

We found refuge in Refugio and I more than suspect that my "muttering" on Monday when I determined to return to the island was little more than a polite gesture, stuff and stuff about safety and good sense, neither of which have given me cause or pause for much concern in three-score years.

Enough to keep her safe through a seven or eight foot rise of tide -- unless someone's roof landed aboard. I congratulated myself for superb seamanship!

The house was another matter. It remains one. No real damage, but a heck of a lot of work ahead, a mere share of which I've so far accomplished. Plywood over windows is down, but not stored.

The drive — under an inch of muck — is cleaned, pictures (some of them) stuck under beds and chairs lest they be shaken from walls are half hung, and worst of all brown grass is turning greeen which means you know what.

I'VE A FEELING, ALTHOUGH I'VE NEVER BEEN there, that confinement during a hurricane is like being enceinte. Flake out the body and wait. Nothing else to do.

Well, I did watch the boob tube. Never enjoyed it so much in all my life. Most all the regularly scheduled programs were canceled and I watched a mess of old films. best of all one from an old Damon Runyan story.

Meanwhile, as Dorothy Stanich, whom I have long called First Lady of Television, reported Sunday, the telly kids did a very creditable job of reporting progress of Alenee.

Their act was dramatized by open shirt collars, loose ties, appearing in vests without jackets, and oh dear! Some of those magnificent hairdos were mussed! For shame.

THE GOP CONVENTION WAS PRETTY LOUSY. the demos do even worse, but that may not be quite fair. One always expects more from the Demos, color, drama, excitement.

The '80 demo show broke with tradition. Partisans of the hero of Chappaquiddick worked up a bit of steam over his speech, true. But after all, what did he say? A repeat of a lot of stuff Karl Marx wrote almost 200 years ago, stuff said and heard again and again.

I forced myself, because I try to be a fair sort of guy, to sit down and read a resume of Teddy's blabber. Almost lost my lunch.

For all of that, political conventions are fun, and meaningful. No matter how planned and orchestrated they may be, they are history, history of this country in the making.

No doubt, as I have said, the orchestration this year was often horrible beyond imagination. Makes me think. Let's get back to the smoke filled rooms! Seems now, and admittedly from a short distance they made for better government. Certainly at least for more excitement and speculation.

Oh yes, the GOP show had speculation alright, what with a positive rumor that Jerry Ford would be Number Two, but to me it indicated only a need for real, genuine paunchy cigar chompers. They would have certainly sharpened up the act.

Old timers, we need you. Conventioners today are riding the Chatanooga Choo Choo. They need to get with the jet age.

MY FAVORITE POLITICAL CARTOONIST THE other day depicted Ronnie Reagan floating on Cloud Nine. "Let's see," he ponders, "does the cloud make rain or does the rain make the cloud?" Beneath him, on terra firma, Jimmy Carter ponders the same question.

On the surface things appear to look mighty good for Ronnie and I'm therefore thankful that he's not exuding overconfidence. Jimmy may not be much as a president. but say what you like, "Jimmy Who" is "a politician" when it comes to collecting votes!

I'M HEARING MORE AND MORE FROM PEOPLE who are miffed because Commissioners Court on "Hurricane Allen Monday" voted to increase taxes 34 percent.

The disgruntled will have their day on August 27 when a hearing will be held. A 34 percent hike. Quite a mouthful, but I wonder. Do commissioners perform sometimes like Washington agencies?

When the Pentagon, for example, wants a billion dollars it asks for three. That gives the congress something to argue about, gives the non-military boys a chance to cover themselves by reducing the actual outlay. And I suppose, everyone's happy.

So then, how much do the commissioners really want? Fair question? -- ahab

Constitutional Amendments

In Depth Study - Part 2

AMENDMENT NO 2

House Joint Resolution 97, proposing a constitutional amendment to grant the state the right of appeal in criminal cases from certain rulings of the trial court.

The proposed amendment of Article V, Section 26, of the Texas Constitution grants the state and the defendant in a criminal case the right to appeal before the conclusion of the trial from a pretrial ruling of the trial court on certain motions or on the constitutionality of a statute.

The constitution currently denies the state any right of appeal in criminal cases. The main purpose of the amendment is to grant the state a limited right of appeal. The state's appeal will always precede the conclusion of the trial. The defendant's right of appeal is also affected by permitting appeal of those same matters preceding the conclusion of the trial, whereas under existing law the defendant must want until the conclusion of the trial to appeal.

BACKGROUND

Article V, Section 26, has been construed to deny appeals by the state not only from acquittals but from pretrial rulings as well. Even if the section were repealed, an appeal by the state from an acquittal would be prohibited by the double-jeopardy clauses of the state and federal constitutions. The prohibition of a state appeal in criminal cases developed from the English common law along with the guarantee against double jeopardy and eliminated the question of what kinds of appeals would be permissible without invoking double jeopardy.

The state was afforded a limited right of appeal in criminal cases during part of the last century. The 1876 constitution was the first Texas constitution to prohibit appeals by the state in criminal cases.

ARGUMENTS

FOR:

1. Granting the state this limited right of appeal provides the only effective way of testing the constitutionality of certain statutes and the legality of certain pretrial practices. The state, like the defendant, should be afforded a fair trial free of error.

2. The amendment will provide a criminal defendant with a method of terminating the criminal action at any early stage if the defendant's contentions on appeal are meritorious.

3. Granting the state a right of appeal will eliminate to some extent the tendency of some judges to rule in favor of the defense, when in doubt, to avoid appellate review of their rulings.

AGAINST:

1. The duration of a criminal trial will be substantially lengthened when the state makes an appeal. The trauma and expenses incurred by criminal defendants and their families will be increased.

2. The amendment would cause an increased case load for the court of criminal appeals and a greater work load for prosecuting authorities and court-appointed attorneys. It would accordingly increase the cost of the criminal justice system.

3. Granting the defendant a right to appeal before the conclusion of the trial is a mistake because frivolous appeals may be used as a stalling device.

By JOE CRUMP

"Low Down"

Representative John M. Ashbrook (Ohio)"...It is a truism that whenever the Federal Goverment gets its nose under a particular tent, like a camel it soon begins to take up more space.

"The most recent glaring example of this phenomenon involves the Corporation for Public Broadcasting and its affiliate the Public Broadcasting System, which were originally conceived as publicly financed and tax-supported information and entertainment operations for television and radio.

"Now we learn, through a high-powered and well-financed advertising campaign ...plans to launch into a new venture in the area of print media -- namely a slick monthly magazine called 'Dial.'

"When Congress originally enacted legislation to put the Federal Government into the broadcast media, it was neither intended nor imagined that what was being formed was a new media empire...

"While magazines like Harper's are going under because of lack of advertising revenue, here we see the Federal Government subsidizing a venture in the print media that will compete for advertising dollars with other privately operated publications struggling to stay in business...

"The Federal Government has no business subsidizing any media, electronic or print, that operates in direct competition with privately owned enterprise.

"The Corporation for Public Broadcasting and the Public Broadcasting System were created by Congress and it remains for us to limit their expansion into an area of media operations neither contemplated nor authorized in their original charter.

ITEM from the "Washington Post:"

The Washington Magazine has asked the Federal Communications Commission to bar public television station WETA from on-the-air promotion of the "Dial," a monthly magazine scheduled to appear in September.

"A glossy monthly of approximately 100 pages including a program guide published by the nation's four largest public television stations, WETA in Washington, WNET in New Yrok, KCET in Los Angeles and WTTW in Chicago.

CRUMP'S GRASS ROOTS COMMENT

This looks like a need for the Sunset Law; a law not yet enacted.

The proposed Sunset Law would mandate that after a stated period, a program would be reviewed by the Congress to guarantee that the program was accomplishing what it was intended to do. Nothing more and nothing less.

It would give Congress the opportunity to continue the program for a stated period, or drop the project.

Live Oak Philosopher

Editor's note: The Live Oak Peninsula Philosopher on his grassburr ranch lives up to his word and reports on the Democratic National Convention.

Dear editor:

Like I said I would after I struggled through the Republican Convention on television, I struggled through the Democratic one the same way. Some conclusions:

If a network is going to televise a speech, why doesn't it?

Instead, it starts out focusing on the speaker, then after a little bit the camera silently shifts to some delegate caught yawning or eating a hamburger.

The speaker's voice still comes through, but even if he's saying something you want to hear, those roving camera shots are so distracting you can't do it. Somebody in the convention hall was bound to be listening to the speech but the cameras never found him.

What would happen to a local television station if, while it was carrying Sunday morning church services, the camera shifted from the preacher and his sermon and focused on some member fast asleep?

I guess the most unexciting thing at a convention is a roll call vote when everybody already knows the outcome.

Instead of hurrying the thing along by announcing a state's vote and getting it over with, a delegation's chairman almost invariably tries to make a speech. "Madam Chairman, the great state of so-and-so..."

I've often wondered, what would happen if some delegate began, "Madam Chairman, the inferior, Federal help-seeking state of so-and-so...?"

But what a political convention needs most of all is a behind-the-scenes manager who can think up more and better rumors to feed to those swarms of TV reporters with antennas sticking out of their ears all gasping to get on the air first with nothing.

A canny manager with plenty of sly imagination and a few henchmen planted around the hall could keep them turning flips for hours.

The best thing about national political conventions is they occur just once every four years. There is a movement on to elect a President for six years instead of four. I can see the point.

Because of the actors' strike in Hollywood there's talk that the networks will be forced to use nothing but re-runs this Fall. Don't tell me they're thinking of re-running the two conventions.

Yours faithfully,
J.A.

'Allen' Destroys Park Road

CORPUS CHRISTI -- Hurricane Allen destroyed large sections of Park Road 53 which connects Port Aransas to Park Road 22 and the Kennedy Causeway.

State Department of Highways and Public Transportation Maintenance Supervisor Jim McNeill has said that State Maintenance Forces, supplemented by heavy equipment leased from The Goldston Company, are working seven-day weeks to rebuild the roadway so that travel can be restored.

Until the road is rebuilt, this road is closed to all traffic. Motorists are asked to take the alternate route to Port Aransas via Aransas Pass and the Ferry System.

Although no firm date can yet be established for completion of the rebuilding project, it is hoped that the road will be opened for traffic by Labor Day.

Today your boy's world is a wonderful place of trees and blue sky, puppy dogs and best friends. Perhaps his greatest decision is which tree to climb and how high to go.

But it won't always be so. As he grows, his choices must grow in scope and seriousness also.

Just as you today can't choose for him which tree to climb and how high; so also, as he grows in wisdom and stature, you cannot choose for him the proper values and goals for his life. But you can guide and direct him in the ways you have found to be good and right.

Attend the church or synagogue of your choice and take your child with you.

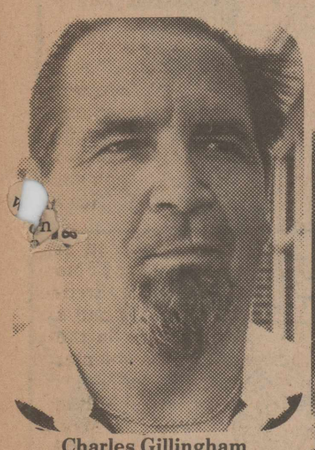
Speaking Out

Did you evacuate during Hurricane Allen and would you stay or go in the next one?

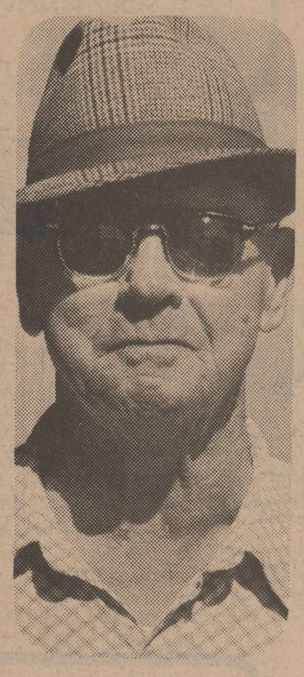


Charles Gillingham
Rockport
We did evacuate. I shouldn't have, because I'm a ham. We received so much criticism, because you couldn't get communication from Rockport. We went to San Antonio, and I could communicate with all the other communities in this area — they all had hams. No, (next time) I will stay and set up my equipment.

Pat Faber
1708 Picton Lane
We left — but I think (next time) I'd stay.

Hugh Goodrich
618 North Magnolia
I left and I'll do it again.

Jose G. Garcia
728 Mathis, Rockport
I think (next time) I'll stay. They took me to the shelter, then at 12 o'clock (Friday night) they came and said there was a six foot tidal wave and we had to evacuate. They took us to San Antonio and we stayed there.



Kemper McHenry
1620 East Maple
I went — and I'd go.

Mrs. C.A. Duck
1043 North Allen
We went to San Antonio. My husband says he'll stay next time, but I'm going.

Brown Bag Bacteria

Home lunches are great, but those brown bags may carry food poisoning unless care is taken during these hot summer days, says the Texas Department of Health.

That lunch which has been sitting around off refrigeration for several hours may contain the "brown bag blues."

Bacteria which cause food poisoning thrive in many lukewarm foods, and they can cause headache, abdominal cramps, vomiting, fever and diarrhea. Symptoms may develop in a few hours and can last from two to seven days.

Some of the most likely foods are perishables such as mayonnaise, potato salad and meats or meat salads such as ham, chicken or turkey.

If the food is cold when you pack the lunch, and it sits for no more than three hours at room temperature, there may be little to worry about. However, those who leave food in warm places or outside without refrigeration -- even for two hours -- may develop food poisoning.

You can help prevent food poisoning by:

—Using vacuum bottles to keep foods hot or cold, or use a freezer device which will fit into a small ice chest or even into a lunchbox.

Pirates Have New Opponent, New Schedule

For the 1980 football season, the Rockport-Fulton Pirates have a new class, a new member in the district for an opponent, and a schedule which is considerably different from last year's.

At first glance the two schedules appear similar because of the games with Aransas Pass and Taft, traditional battles.

But thereafter, the similarity begins to fade. Gone is the open week which seems to throw everyone offstride in the past few years.

The Pirates will cast aside Refugio, the powerhouse in District 30-3A, but the replacement is none other than the bully of the block, the Gregory-Portland Wildcats — the preseason favorites — and they must come to Rockport to play.

Flour Bluff comes next. Robstown, the new member of the district, serves as the opponent on Parents' Night in Rockport of the 3rd of October.

Tuloso-Midway will be followed by Sinton which is the Pirate foe on Homecoming Night which falls on October 24.

Beeville, Calallen, and West Oso round out the schedule. The open date is the last season date for the Pirates, as they stop a week short in November unless they fire their guns and win the district and continue in the post-season playoffs.

November 14 is the open date in the schedule. The Freshmen and Junior Varsity teams will play on Thursday evenings at the site opposite the Varisty. Game time for the Freshmen will be 5:30 p. m. and the JV games will follow at about 7 p.m.

VARSITY SCHEDULE — GAME TIMES WILL BE AT 8 P.M.

Aransas Pass	Sept. 5	There
Taft	Sept. 11	Here

Blair's Corner

By Pat Blair

Here we are, a couple of years after weather officials started giving hurricanes men's names, and we still hear people saying it isn't "natural."

Of course hurricanes should be given women's names — after all, a hurricane is a "she."

Oh, yeah?

Actually, the name for the storm comes from the name of "Hurakan", an Aztec or Mayan god (note: masculine gender).

According to one source, the tradition of naming hurricanes for women got its start because members of the U.S. Congress didn't want their names attached to the storms.

When the Congressmen objected, the proposal was changed to name the storms after the Congressmen's wives . . . and from that spring the decades-long tradition of giving them women's names.

Notes from history: Back on May 18, 1945, when Rockport High School held its graduation exercises, a grand total of eight students received diplomas.

* * *

Back in February of 1945, the Rockport Chamber of Commerce announced the city's first Tarpon Contest — and maybe the longest contest in the history of this or any other city.

The dates were from February 22 through 6 p.m. on the following Labor Day (in September!) and cash prizes of $60 were announced — $25 for the first tarpon caught that was four feet or more in length and $35 for the largest tarpon caught by the end of the contest.

The fishing grounds were bounded on the south by a line running east and west through the southern tip of Mud Island and on the north by an east-west line through the center of Dunham's Island.

Tarpon caught were to be registered at Mill's Wharf or Morrison's Boat Houses.

One of the first tarpon caught was taken in March by T. Noah Smith, fishing in Rockport Harbor. However, the fish wasn't long enough to qualify for the $25 prize money.

The $25 went to Paul Berthelot of Victoria who landed a six-foot four-inch beauty off the seawall on May 12. The tarpon weighed in at 113 pounds.

Berthelot may have ultimately taken the $35 prize money too — there's no mention of who finally did get it. On August 30, 1945, the area was hit by a hurricane and amid all the storm damage reports, we couldn't find any information on the tarpon contest.

Then, like now, when a hurricane hits, officials just have too much else on their minds to worry about fishing . . .

Eyes And Answers

NATURE WARNS

Dear Dr. Pettey: I'm having more trouble adjusting my eyes when I enter a darkened room. Sometimes several minutes are required to see in low illumination, such as in restaurants reading the menu, or even finding a seat in a movie.

You didn't say if you are in your later years, but if you age can be the problem. We all come by that naturally, eventually.

The structure of the eye tissues, such as the cornea or the lens, begins to change in chemistry, gradually allowing less light to pass through. The retina, which receives the focus of objects at which you look, can slowly become less sensitive to small amounts of light. The pupil of the older person's eyes becomes a little smaller as time passes, adding to the problem. Those changes actually cause older people to need more light rather than less, especially in trying to read or see finepoint work.

However, I quickly add a bit of warning: Do not take the abouve reasons as the causes of your particular problem without considering other possible causes. You could easily have some other involvement, either physical or eye, that may need immediate care. If you have unknowingly developed diabetes, entered the early stages of glaucoma, have a beginning cataract, the "dry eye" of later life, or a systemic problem like kidney or bladder disease, your described symptoms could be typical and care should be given.

Visual symptoms are frequently part of nature's warning system indicating a need for a thorough investigation, both visual and physical.

Two Texans walked into a restaurant in Chicago, ordered a sumptuous dinner, got the bill and put a dime on the table. The dismayed waiter said: "You're from Texas—and you call that a tip?" "We are from Texas son," said one of them, "And that dime's for the meter in front of which your tip is parked."

"I'm sorry sir," said the telephone operator, "but that number has been taken out."
"Oh, really," said the caller. "Could you give me any information as to who has taken her out?"

He: How did you like Venice?
She: Oh, I only stayed a few days. The place was flooded.

TIPS ON TRIPS

Planning a trip can be half the fun—and save you a lot of money. Part of any pre-vacation research should include a review of brochures and other literature available from state agencies and tourism centers.

Mapping your special vacation route can take more than an ordinary roadmap.

By writing to agencies in each state, you can usually get much of the descriptive material needed to plan a fun-filled vacation.

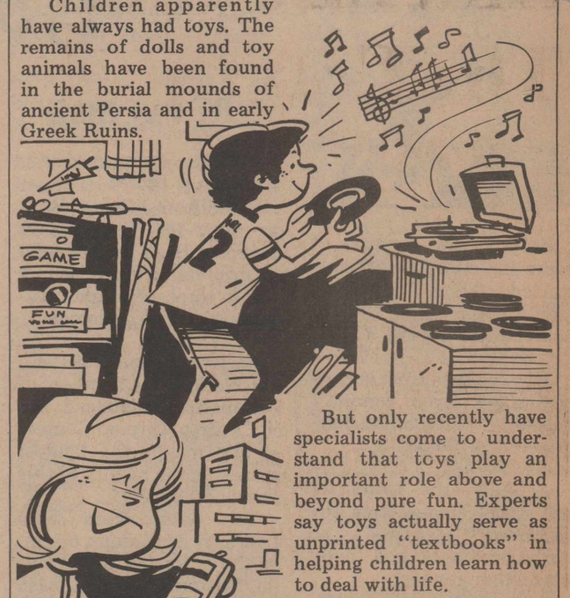
To know where to write for what, you need more than a roadmap with just highway numbers and names. For example, the 1980 Rand McNally Atlas features points of interest on the margins of each state map.

Atlas editors suggest you write several months early and be specific about your interests—camping, fishing, sightseeing, cities and towns and parts of state you wish to visit.

For a list of tourism agencies in the U.S., Canada and Mexico, write: Rand McNally Road Atlas, P.O. Box 7600, Chicago, Ill. 60680. Include a stamped, self-addressed No. 10 envelope.

FANCY THAT!

Children apparently have always had toys. The remains of dolls and toy animals have been found in the burial mounds of ancient Persia and in early Greek Ruins.



But only recently have specialists come to understand that toys play an important role above and beyond pure fun. Experts say toys actually serve as unprinted "textbooks" in helping children learn how to deal with life.

To encourage such creative play, Fisher-Price—now in its 50th year—suggests parents look for toys that challenge the child, stimulate his imagination, and offer opportunities for social interaction with parents and other children.

Most Often-Asked Questions On Nutrition

(Most Often-Asked Questions On Nutrition

By Jean Glowka

Q. I want to start taking vegetable oil every day for my hair. The oil at the health food store is so expensive. Can't I just use some of the vegetable oil I see at the supermarket? Most of it says "pure" and "natural" and all that.

A. Most of the type of oil that appears in supermarkets has been overheated during extraction or extracted with the use of a chemical solvent, which leaves a dry residue that may remain in the oil and is harmful for humans to consume.

This, however, isn't the end of the indignities to which oil can be subjected. After extraction, it is heated again, then sprayed with lye, washed, heated again, bleached and reheated. Nutrient after nutrient goes right down the drain.

Ironically enough, this highly refined oil (that LOOKS so pure and pretty) becomes rancid more easily than less refined oil because of the removal of stabilizing factors.

Q. Six months ago I had chronic bronchitis and started trying to control it with an improved diet and vitamin supplements. Right now I feel terrific. How long should I keep taking vitamins?

A. You should take the supplements as long as you want to feel terrific. If you're taking extra large potencies of some of the vitamins or minerals, you may be able to cut down some on these.

However, since ALL the nutrients in the correct amounts which our bodies require for optimum health are not available to us from food sources (due to overprocessing, etc.), those of us interested in good health and vitality may expect to take supplements all our lives — though the ideal situation would be to obtain all nutrients from our food.

The above material should not be construed as making claims, endorsements, or criticisms. This is merely a relating of facts taken from research done by a number of nutritionists, doctors and scientists.

Tricks nix Soviet pix in 'Thank You Comrades'

'Thank You Comrades,' a comedy-drama based on an extraordinary true story which took place in the early days of the Soviet cinema, will be rebroadcast on GREAT PERFORMANCES, Friday, August 29, over PBS.*

In the desperate circumstances of 1918, with the Russian Revolution struggling against internal opposition and the threat of invasion, the Soviet leaders were anxious to build a new film industry from the wreckage of the old. 'Thank You Comrades' is the true story of a monumental 'sting'—an Italian's scheme to swindle the fledgling Soviet silent film industry out of a million dollars.

Suspicion prompts the Soviets to take action against Cibrario. He is charged with fraud and found guilty, but his appeal is successful when the judge rules that the United States does not recognize the USSR. Cibrario heads for a life of luxury in Italy, while the revolutionary Soviet cinema struggles on . . . impoverished but determined.

'Thank You Comrades' is a co-production of BBC-TV and WNET/THIRTEEN, New York. Peter Weinberg is coordinating producer and Jac Venza is executive producer for GREAT PERFORMANCES. The production was originally broadcast in November, 1978.

GREAT PERFORMANCES is a presentation of WNET/THIRTEEN, New York, and is made possible by a grant from EXXON and by PBS stations.

Cone, Boone Receive Promotions

Live Oak State Bank officers George Cone and Larry C. Boone received promotions during the August meeting of the bank's board of directors recently.

The promotions were announced by Conwell Smith, chairman of the board.

Cone, president of Live Oak State Bank since it was organized in 1974, has been elevated to vice chairman of the board and chairman of the executive committee.

Boone was promoted from executive vice president to president to fill the vacancy created by Cone's promotion.

A native Texan who started his banking career in Kerrville, Cone is a charter director of Live Oak State Bank having helped organize that institution. He was associated with the First National Bank of Midland, serving as executive vice president for 22 years before coming to South Texas.

Boone, Live Oak's new president, joined the bank in 1977, moving his family here from Austin where he was associated with the Texas Banking Department for about six years.

A graduate of Texas Christian University in Fort Worth, Boone began his banking career with First National Bank there in 1954. Except for two years of military service, Boone was an officer of Fort Worth banks until he joined the State Banking Department in April, 1971.

He is presently enrolled in the graduate school of banking of the South at Louisiana State University in Baton Rouge.

While in Rockport, Boone has served on the board of directors of the Rockport Chamber of Commerce, the board of Rockport Seafair, as sergeant at arms of the Rockport Rotary Club and as a member of the City Charter Study Advisory Group.

Live Oak State Bank opened its doors on July 31, 1974, with 12 officers and employees and total deposits of $149,626.58.

As of July 31 of this year, the bank employs 26 officers and employees had has deposits of $20,331,247.36.

NOTICE!

The recent storm winds in the Rockport area have blown salt water spray into central air conditioning units well above high tide level. This salt in fan motor controls, coils etc, will cause failure in some cases in a matter of weeks. We suggest the replacement of these units be included on storm related insurance claims. We will inspect these units, for insurance purposes, without charge.

The city has applied for a federal grant in the amount of $200,000 to pay for the public pier, and the engineering fee will be 7.5 percent of the grant. If the city does not get the grant, no money will be paid.

Council members Tuesday also approved Fulton's share of the operating costs of the new Central Tax Appraisal District. Under the State law that created the district, Fulton's share of the district's budget is 0.7 percent, — which comes to less than $200 for the city.

The council voted to write a letter to the Fulton Volunteer Fire Department thanking that organization for its efforts during Hurricane Allen.

The council approved a petition that changes the names of two streets in Fulton. Bay Road will be renamed Bay Street and the present Bay Street will be renamed Casterline Drive.

Insurance policies for City Hall and liability coverage were renewed, and the council referred to City Attorney C. Allen Lee an application for flood insurance.

Says Rockport Mayor

Census Figures Still Wrong

The latest census release, crediting Rockport with a 1980 population in excess of 9,400 is still "all off," says the city's Mayor Walter S. Falk Jr.

"They've got us mixed up with some other city," Falk said, adding, "I don't know where they got that figure."

Falk was referring to census figures released by the Corpus Christi newspaper, in which the U.S. Census Bureau credits the City of Rockport with a 1980 population of 9,467 people.

That same release shows Rockport as having a 1970 population of 6,914 which is "definitely erroneous," Falk said. "Our census in 1970 was 3,879."

"I don't know how this is going to turn out," added Falk who, two weeks ago, was unhappy with preliminary census figures that showed Rockport as having a 1980 population of around 3,700 — a decrease from the 1970 census.

Now the census has gone too far in the opposite direction. "We'd be happy to have 5,000 people in 1980," Falk said, adding, "We should have (a population) in excess of 5,000 — but not 9,000."

Latest census figures for Aransas County as reported in the Corpus newspaper showed no change from the preliminary census report: Aransas County is still credited with a 1980 population of 12,258 people, an increase of 37.7 precent in the past decade.

Falk said Rockport city officials "are still working with the census people" to try to get final figures for the city.

"I hope this thing can be straightened out," he added.

Volunteers Needed For Jerry Lewis Telethon Center

Mrs. Ruth Gordon, representative of the Professional and Business Women's Organization, has issued a call for volunteers for Pledge Center duties during the 1980 Jerry Lewis Labor Day Telethon.

"There will be a multitude of important positions such as phone answering, taking pledges, adding figures, and other varied tasks all necessary to make the Telethon a success," Mrs. Gordon said.

The Pledge Center for the Rockport Area will be located at the Rockport Volunteer Fire Department, at Concho and Church Streets.

The 21½ hour annual spectacular program will begin at 8 p.m. Sunday, August 31, and continue nonstop until 5:30 p.m. Monday, September 1.

Jerry Lewis, National Chairman for the Muscular Dystrophy Association, will again host the star-studded benefit, which originated from Del Webb's Hotel Sahara in Las Vegas, Nevada.

Now in its 15th year, the entertainment marathon will be seen live on a nationwide network of more than 200 stations, including Hawaii, Alaska and Puerto Rico.

Last year, more than $30 million dollars was pledged for the fight against muscular dystrophy and related muscle disorders.

In anticipation of this year's Telethon, Jerry Lewis stated, "I know we will top the record figure this year, because people of all ages support the fight against muscular dystrophy and give whatever they can to help 'my kids'. Every penny and every nickel and every dollar means another step closer to the cure."

Mrs. Gordon said anyone interested in volunteering for the Labor Day Telethon Pledge Center duties should contact her at 729-6667.

Proposed Hospital Gets HSA Approval

An application for a new hospital in Aransas Pass — to replace both Lyman-Roberts and Aransas hospitals — has received approval from the South Texas Health Systems Agency.

The application will now go before the Texas Health Facilities Commission in Austin for a hearing on September 3, together with the STHSA's favorable ruling.

A final decision on the proposed new 75-bed hospital is expected to come from the Health Facilities Commission around September 16.

The application being presented by the Coastal Bend Hospital Foundations Inc., won approval from the Health Systems Agency in a meeting in Kingsville this past week.

The proposed new hospital, which would be constructed at an estimated cost of $8 million, is just about double the combined capacity of the existing two hospitals in Aransas Pass. It will be located on the site where Lyman-Roberts is now.

Construction of the hospital is expected to be funded through revenue bonds at no cost to area taxpayers.

Aransas Pass hospitals serve an area including Aransas County.
