Ask Us

Q—Is there a support group for those who have lost a pet? This may seem trivial to some, but we were very attached to our dog, which died recently.

A—According to the The American Veterinary Medical Association, there is a Pet Loss Support Hotline which is staffed weekdays from 8 p.m. to 10 p.m. The number is 904 338-2031.

In Brief

Kemp case

EL PASO, Texas (AP) — A group of prominent El Paso residents and businesses will be tried in federal court on charges of bilking investors in an insurance scam.

The case that stemmed from the insurance empire of El Paso financier Maury Kemp was moved to federal court because one of the defendants is a failed savings and loan now in the hands of the federal government.

The 5th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals in New Orleans on Wednesday refused without comment to order U.S. District Judge Lucius Bunton to return the case to state court as state prosecutors had asked.

U.S.—Iraq

WASHINGTON (AP) — The chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff said today that the United States will do all it can to force Iraq to destroy its remaining weapons of mass destruction.

"The administration and partners in this endeavor will bring all pressure to bear on the Iraqi militants so they understand that at the end of the day they must comply," Gen. Colin Powell told the Senate Armed Services Committee.

Powell dodged a question about a newspaper report saying he was reluctant to take military action against Saddam Hussein.

The Washington Post today said Powell opposed military force because it would be unlikely to destroy the bulk of Iraq's nonconventional weapons or compel Saddam to do so.

Tax bill ready for final votes

WASHINGTON (AP) — A permanent middle-class tax cut financed by tax increases on the rich is heading for the final congressional votes that would send it to President Bush for a sure veto.

The bill, which top Democratic negotiators completed during the night, borrows extensively from the seven-point plan that Bush demanded Congress pass by today in order to stimulate economic growth. But the president opposes the bill because of the tax increases, which would affect the wealthiest 1 percent of taxpayers.

Sen. Lloyd Bentsen, D-Texas, and Rep. Dan Rostenkowski, D-Ill., negotiated the final compromise. They planned to announce details in time for a caucus of House Democrats.

"We acted in good faith and with a speed no one would have thought possible 30 days ago, to meet the president's deadline," Bentsen said today. He said Bush must do more than insist on his own plan, which would worsen the deficit.

Noting Bush's drop in the pools, Bentsen suggested the president would like to recreate the 1948 campaign, when President Truman ran against a Republican Congress. "Well, I knew Harry Truman," Bentsen said. "I worked with Harry Truman. And George Bush is a decent man. But he's no Harry Truman."

The major middle-income tax cut in the bill is a two-step tax credit, which would be subtracted directly from taxes owed. This year and next, wage earners would get a credit for a share of their Social Security taxes, with a maximum cut of $150 a year for single people and $300 for a couple.

The full credit would be available for families with incomes under $50,000; the credit would decline gradually as income rises, disappearing at the $70,000 level.

Starting in 1994, that credit would be replaced by a $300-per-child credit for families in the same income ranges, meaning nothing for those over $70,000.

To pay for the credits, the bill would raise the current 31 percent top rax rate to 36 percent, which generally would affect only single people making more than about $185,000 a year and couples above the $210,000 range.

SNS needs donations, volunteers

Snyder Neighbors Sharing is seeking donations and volunteers for its fifth annual work day, scheduled for April 25.

The board of directors for SNS met Thursday, selecting 11 homes for this year's work day. According to board members, several projects that qualified for the program had to be left out due to lack of funds.

Project cost for the 11 homes is estimated at $15,000. SNS currently has around $9,500.

"Completion of projects this year could be restricted both by limited funding and the number of workers," said SNS Board President Sam Robertson, adding that volunteers, whether groups or individuals, are needed for April 25.

An estimated 250 workers will be needed to complete the 11 projects.

Snyder Neighbors Sharing was established in the fall of 1987, with the first work day held in April of 1988. Approximately 60 homes have been included in the project within the past five years.

Groups that have volunteered in past years include the Lions Club, Jaycees, Rotary Club, Lucky 13 and Gay 20 clubs, TU Electric, Chevron, Price Daniel Unit employees, Colonial Hill Baptist Church, Our Lady of Guadalupe Church, First Presbyterian Church and First Methodist Church.

More information about Snyder Neighbors Sharing can be obtained by calling 573-4053.

Brown plans to stay in race

Clinton reaps windfall as Tsongas bows out

HARTFORD, Conn. (AP) — Democrat Jerry Brown is facing increasing pressure to quit his long-shot quest for the White House as Arkansas Gov. Bill Clinton reaps the windfall from rival Paul Tsongas' abrupt withdrawal.

But the self-styled political outsider insisted today he would remain in the race and "fight as hard as I can to give the American people a choice to save their country."

Clinton, his lock on the Democratic nomination all but assured, cut short a Connecticut campaign swing to return to Arkansas today to plot strategy with aides after expressing "incredible respect and appreciation" for Tsongas.

"Of course" he'd consider the former Massachusetts senator as a possible running mate, Clinton told reporters. But he said he doesn't want to get ahead of himself and still views Brown as a formidable rival.

"I don't dismiss anybody, ever. He's my opponent. He's gotten a lot of votes," Clinton said of Brown Thursday night.

But Brown remained defiant, complaining that Clinton embodies many of the things he is trying to change with his grassroots campaign.

"There a lot of angry people in this country who have been ripped off," Brown said on NBC-TV's "Today" show. "You have to open the process, not close it down. ...Bill Clinton is supported by all the insiders."

Pressure from Democratic establishment leaders on Brown to abandon his quest in the name of party unity clearly was building.

Party Chairman Ronald Brown said that with Tsongas' departure, "there are a lot of people making the case that Bill Clinton has an insurmountable lead. The question is — if Governor Brown reaches that same conclusion, does he want to carry on the campaign?"

The party chairman said he was not calling on Jerry Brown to quit but would do so if Clinton won Connecticut's primary next Tuesday and contests in the following weeks in New York, Kansas and Wisconsin.

Ivie pipeline drawing interest of contractors

With around $80 million at stake, spirited bidding is anticipated May 2 by contractors seeking to build a 157-mile pipeline from Lake O.H. Ivie to Midland-Odessa via San Angelo.

Twenty-one firms have checked out plans, according to Lee B. Freese, representing consulting engineers Freese and Nichols. Freese told Colorado River Municipal Water District directors this week that a dozen or more may bid on the job.

Most of the firms have made an inspection of the route, some with extensive testing of soil conditions and topography.

Proposals are being entertained on any or all of the sections of the project. The initial portion will be 48.3 miles from Lake Ivie, where an intake substructure already is in place, to San Angelo. The line will be 60 inches in diameter.

The remaining 108 miles to the Midland-Odessa terminal will be split into two sections. Specifications call for either steel pipe with enamel interior and a plastic wrap and a one-inch re-enforced concrete outer protection, or for steel cylinder re-enforced by steel cable and concrete, to meet pressure requirements.

General Manager O.H. Ivie estimated that about 80 percent of the right-of-way has been obtained, but there are a few tracts where "arms-length" trades have not yet been made. Directors authorized the filing of some 25 condemnations if trades cannot be made, and reserved the right to expand the list.

Target dates are to have the line completed to San Angelo by July 1, 1993, and the remainder by February of 1995.

The board will meet at 11:30 a.m. April 2 prior to opening of the bids at 2 p.m. Ground rules for bidding will be outlined at a prebidding conference in Big Spring March 30.

Fourteen of the contractors considering the project are in Texas, Freese noted. Others are from Georgia, Colorado, California, Kansas and Missouri.

Permits note $30,000 in construction

Building permits issued by the City of Snyder reflected over $30,000 in construction for February.

Building valuation continues to remain far behind last year's total at this time however.

The city issued eight building permits in February, reflecting $30,300. These included a mobile home at 1504 21st St., owned by Rudy Amador; a shop at 4501 Galveston, owned by Joey Arnold; and an addition at 1907 Ave. O, owned by Yolanda Gutierrez.

Other permits issued were for a carport at 702 N. College Ave., owned by Randy James; a patio cover at 4006 Austin, owned by Dale Johnson; a carport at 200 34th St., owned by Morningside Baptist Church; a storage building at 2605 28th St., owned by Rick Tate; and a carport at 310 28th St., owned by Nabor Rodriques.

Permit fees amounted to $258.

February's valuations bring the total for fiscal 1992 to $431,162. The city noted $710,267 in valuations during the same period a year ago.

The city made 52 inspections, resulting in permit fees of $912.25.

Some checks bounced at State Treasury, also

AUSTIN (AP) — Some state legislators have written bad checks at a check-cashing service operated for elected officeholders at the State Treasury, officials said today.

All the checks eventually were covered and the state lost no money, said Mark Toohey, spokesman for Treasurer Kay Bailey Hutchison. But no record was kept of those who cashed insufficient funds checks, he said.

And in wake of the bad check scandal in Congress, Toohey said, officials will re-examine the practice.

"In light of everything that's been going on in Washington, this is something we want to take a good close look at," Toohey said.

The Treasury official said the practice dated back at least to 1980, before the post was held by Mrs. Hutchison or Gov. Ann Richards, who served two terms as treasurer from 1983 to 1991.

"It's a courtesy that's been extended to elected officeholders by the State Treasury for years," Toohey said.

He said most of the personal checks cashed for legislators and other elected officials were in the $100 to $200 range and few were returned.

"No records of those that were returned were kept," he said.

In 1990, about 100 checks were cashed; about 300 were cashed in 1991, Toohey said.

He said that the check-cashing service wasn't like the operations of the House bank in Washington that recently was closed after disclosures that congressmen wrote hundreds of bad checks.

"The state never lost any money," Toohey said.

But Texas Ethics Commission Chairman George Bayoud and the executive director of Common Cause of Texas, Suzy Woodford, both said today that the practice should end.

Although Bayoud said he doubted whether the service was often abused, "I just think it's probably best that it end because some people will wonder."

"It should end immediately," Ms. Woodford said, adding that legalization of branch banking in Texas, automatic teller machines and other modern banking practices make the service unnecessary.

The SDN Column — By Roy McQueen

The feller on Deep Creek says, "Change requires being sick and tired of being sick and tired."

Keeping tabs on our neighbors:

The current state of the economy can cause gloom and doom, and some of it may be justified. Roger Enlow, writing the Hood County News in Granbury, passed along some thoughts about attitude.

"The longer I live, the more I realize the impact of attitude on life. Attitude, to me, is more important than facts.

"It is more important than the past, than education, than money, than circumstance, than failures, than successes, than what other people think or say or do.

"It is more important than appearance, giftedness; or skill. It will make or break a company...a church...a home. The remarkable thing is we have a choice every day regarding the attitude we will embrace for that day.

"We cannot change our past...we cannot change the fact that people will act a certain way. We cannot change the inevitable. The only thing we can do is play on the one string that we have, and that is our attitude...I am convinced that life is 10 percent what happens to me and 90 percent how I react to it.

"And so it is with all of us...we are in charge of our attitudes."

Russell Skiles, in the Lamesa Press-Reporter had hisses for a judge in California who developed a schedule during which a family basset hound could bark.

Responding to a complaint about dogs, the judge ordered a family to limit their basset hound's barking to once per hour, no more than two minutes at a time, and never between 8 p.m. and 8 a.m.

That judge is barking up an empty tree. His ruling is being appealed.

Secret of Marriage Is Sharing Everything — Including Mail

DEAR ABBY: I like your column, and 95 percent of the time you are right. This time, I think you are wrong. My wife and I were married at 18 and 19 years of age. We have a great son and daughter as well as six wonderful grandchildren. Our grandchildren even bring their boyfriends and girlfriends to visit us on our farm and to ask our opinions on many subjects.

Your answer with regard to a letter from a reader who does not like his wife opening his mail without his permission is in bad taste and incorrect. Our wonderful marriage has lasted 50 years because it includes no secrets, both participants working for the same goal, always talking nice, no drinking, no smoking, no cussing, and we kiss each other at least 50 times a day! We have no money problems and have no need for privacy between one another. I think your views about a spouse being entitled to his or her privacy are incorrect.

PAUL PENCE JR.

DEAR PAUL: My congratulations to you for an ideal marriage. A marriage license does not confer automatic permission to read mail addressed to one's spouse. Read on for someone who had that problem, but was not as fortunate as you:

DEAR ABBY: This advice is for "Straight Arrow," whose wife opened all the mail that came to the house, regardless to whom it was addressed.

I had the same problem. I worked days; my husband worked nights. He opened all the mail. My resentment kept growing, and consequently I accumulated a lot of anger. Then one day, I got some good advice from a co-worker. She said, "Rent a P.O. box and have all your mail sent there." So I told my husband I had had enough of my privacy being violated and that I was getting a post office box.

I filled out change-of-address cards for my friends, creditors and relatives, and I keep the key to my P.O. box in a drawer at my office. Now, I go to check for my mail during the lunch hour. I never had anything to hide, either. But having my personal mail opened (by mistake, or otherwise) really irritated me.

Now ... there is never a problem.

DEAR ABBY: I travel for business reasons and frequently dine in restaurants. I have noticed that on several occasions the server will take my money to pay the bill, then ask me if I "want any change" — obviously intending to keep all the change as a tip, unless I object.

The sum of the change has sometimes been substantial, and I feel put on the spot when asked this question, which irritates me. I have actually ended up giving the server a smaller tip than I had originally intended.

Is it considered acceptable for the server to ask if the diner wants change?

S.M., OTTAWA, ONTARIO

DEAR S.M.: No. The server should return all the change. Then the customer gives whatever amount he wishes as a tip.

Women with heart disease said improperly diagnosed

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (AP) — Women have a higher death rate from heart attacks than men, and a new study blames misdiagnosis.

The study, by Jasenka Demirovic of the University of Miami, found that 27 percent of men hospitalized with a heart attack undergo a standard diagnostic test called angiography, but only 15 percent of women get it.

The test involves injecting dye into the coronary arteries — which supply blood to the heart — to produce an X-ray of the extent of blockage in the vessels.

"There were a number of studies saying women were undertreated," Demirovic said Thursday at the American Heart Association's annual meeting on heart disease epidemiology. "But now more reports are coming out that women are under-diagnosed rather than under-treated."

According to the heart association, women who have heart attacks are twice as likely as men to die within the first few weeks after the attack.

The association says 39 percent of women die in the first year after a heart attack compared with 31 percent of men. And during the four years following a heart attack, women have a 20 percent chance of a second one, compared with 15 percent for men.

Demirovic and her colleagues examined 1,619 heart attack patients in Minnesota in 1980 and 1985. The group consisted of 1,177 men and 442 women.

New judge in castration case says surgery isn't an option

HOUSTON (AP) — Castration won't be an option for an accused child rapist who had sought the procedure to avoid prison, the judge now overseeing the case has told a television station.

"I'm not sure that I feel comfortable with that," Judge Jim Barr told KTRK-TV Thursday.

Judge Michael McSpadden on March 6 agreed to a request by Steven Allen Butler, 28, that he be surgically castrated rather than stand trial on charges he raped a 13-year-old girl. If Butler had the operation, he would be placed on a form of probation for 10 years, McSpadden had said.

But on Monday, McSpadden withdrew his approval, saying a doctor could not be found to perform the surgery. Intensive adverse publicity surrounding the case prompted two doctors who had volunteered to do the surgery to renege, defense attorney Clyde Williams said.

Butler's family, critics of castration and civil rights activists had decried the proposal as barbaric and racially motivated because Butler is black.

McSpadden had Butler's case moved to a different court. Ms. Williams also said she would ask to be removed as his attorney because his family did not support her.

Dr. Gott by Peter M. Gott, M.D.

DEAR DR. GOTT: I suffer from fatigue, headaches, fever, sweats, muscle and joint pain. I've not been in the hospital or diagnosed but have had an MRI and have been checked for a multitude of things. Are these symptoms of Epstein-Barr virus or is my doctor missing something?

DEAR READER: I think your doctor is missing something, and Epstein-Barr virus infection could be that something.

In all fairness to your physician, your constellation of symptoms could reflect any one of a number of possibilities, ranging from chronic infection, through autoimmune diseases to hidden cancer. In other words, your diagnosis is challenging; further testing is certainly in order.

EBV, the cause of acute mononucleosis, appears to cause a chronic syndrome in some adults. Marked by exhaustion, achiness, swollen glands and sore throat, EBV infection is diagnosed by a blood test. There is no satisfactory treatment.

Another possibility to consider is Lyme disease, a bacterial infection spread by the bite of the deer tick. If you live in an endemic area, where deer ticks are common, your doctor should order a blood test for Lyme disease. The infection is treatable with antibiotics, provided the diagnosis is made at an early stage of the illness.

In addition to tests for EBV and Lyme disease, your physician should have obtained a blood count, sedimentation rate, chemical screening analysis and other, specific tests for special conditions, such as rheumatic disease. A chest X-ray, cardiogram and urinalysis would complete the basic work-up.

Perhaps your doctor has ordered all these tests and they are normal. In this case, you might request a referral to a diagnostician. Specialists in internal medicine are trained to discover unusual diseases; such a doctor would be your logical next step.

To provide further information, I am sending you a free copy of my Health Report "Medical Specialists." Other readers who would like a copy should send $1.25 plus a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope to P.O. Box 91369, Cleveland, OH 44101-3369. Be sure to mention the title.

DEAR DR. GOTT: In 1989 I was diagnosed with prostate cancer. After 35 radiation treatments I've been told things are worse, and my urologist says I need a shot each month for the rest of my life, that the male hormone feeds the cancer and the shot will arrest that. Please comment.

DEAR READER: Prostate cancer is often nurtured by male hormone. Thus, standard therapy may include castration and/or the use of anti-hormone drugs, such as Flutamide, if the cancer has spread beyond the gland itself. Some of these medicines are given by injection, others in pills. Which medication would be best for you is a decision that should be made by your urologist.

I suspect from your brief description, that the radiation treatments failed to destroy the prostate cancer, which has grown and spread during the past three years. Thus, your urologist's advice appears entirely appropriate. Fortunately, prostate cancer is usually treatable, even curable, using modern methods.

Canadian junior reads the cards

By Phillip Alder

Top declarers have an uncanny sense of how the cards are distributed. One promising junior player with this innate ability is Geoff Hampson of Canada, who helped his country finish second in last year's NEC World Junior Championship.

Hampson backed his judgment to the hilt on today's deal. North took a practical shot in bidding three no-trump. He hoped that his hand would be worth seven tricks: six diamonds and the club ace.

West led his fourth-highest spade. If Hampson had known the spades were breaking 4-4, he would have won the first trick and immediately attacked diamonds, making his contract easily. But declarer couldn't see the spade two, so he ducked East's spade 10 at trick one and his spade queen at trick two. Now East defended well, switching to the heart four. Hampson finessed the 10; West won with the king and went back to spades.

As the defenders had collected a heart trick, declarer couldn't afford to concede a diamond trick. Instead, Hampson cashed the diamond ace and led a diamond to dummy's king. This trick put pressure on East. He couldn't afford to discard a heart without giving South three tricks in the suit. Then the club finesse would bring home the contract. Similarly, East couldn't release a club, so he threw his last spade.

Backing his judgment, Hampson led a club to the nine. When it held, he played a club to dummy's ace and a heart to his jack, cashed the heart ace and exited with his last heart. East won and at trick 12 had to lead a club from his Q-10 into declarer's K-J.

Readers are invited to send card-play questions to Phillip Alder, in care of this newspaper. They can be answered only through the column.

Arnett's honor

TUCSON, Ariz. (AP) — Peter Arnett, the CNN correspondent who reported from Iraq during the Gulf War, will receive the University of Arizona's award for outstanding journalism.

The university's journalism department said Thursday it will present the 37th annual John Peter Zenger Award to Arnett on April 22.

The award is named for the 18th-century American printer who was at the center of a major freedom-of-the-press case.

Fields leads SHS to 18-2 win

Snyder junior Michael Fields slammed a two-run homer to cap an eight-run fourth inning, and tossed four innings of two-hit baseball to lead the Tigers to an 18-2 victory over Merkel in the first round of the SHS Baseball Tournament Thursday at Moffett Field.

"We were really meeting the ball," said Snyder coach Albert Lewis of his squad's 12-hit barrage.

"We kind of got on top of them a little early and the thing just snowballed."

Included in the Tigers' dozen hits were RBI doubles by Jason Rios and Bobby Clinkinbeard.

Snyder's Thursday win lifts the Tigers to 9-2 on the campaign and gives Fields a 2-0 mark for the season.

Snyder, drawing visitors' status prior to the game, was quick out of the gate, scoring seven first-inning runs and putting the game out of reach early.

Merkel was its own worst enemy through the early innings, committing five errors and allowing six unearned runs.

The Badgers' only runs came on a two-run homer by Ryan Gupton in the third.

The game was called on the 10-run rule after five innings.

In other action Thursday, Lamesa cruised past San Angelo Lake View, 10-0, West edged Brownfield, 6-4; Brownwood drilled Sweetwater, 10-2; No. 9 Frenship blanked Borger, 8-0; and Big Spring dropped Canyon, 8-3.

Action today got underway at 10 a.m. when Lamesa faced Levelland, which drew an opening-round bye.

Tigers were to battle West at noon, Brownwood and Frenship tangle at 3 p.m. and the Snyder-West winner squares off against the Lamesa-Levelland winner at 7 p.m.

In loser's bracket action today, to be played at SHS, Brownfield faces Merkel at 1 p.m. and Sweetwater takes on Borger at 3 p.m.

The tournament's championship tilt is scheduled for 4:30 p.m. Saturday at Moffett Field.

Iowa upends Longhorns...

Upsets few in NCAA first round games

by The Associated Press

Cleveland State was not to be found. There was no ambush by Austin Peay. And no shocker by Richmond.

Instead, it was a day for the chalk players as higher seeds won 15 of 16 first-round games Thursday, with the only reversal of form coming late in the evening when Iowa, No. 9 in the East Regional, edged No. 8 Texas 98-92.

Hardly a memorable upset. Not when the eight-year history of the 64-team NCAA tournament is sprinkled with shockers like 15th-seeded Richmond's victory over Syracuse last year, 14th-seeded Austin Peay's defeat of Illinois in 1987 and 14th-seeded Cleveland State's win over Indiana in 1986.

Not that the day was without late heroics to keep ranked teams in the tournament.

Terry Dehere made a 17-foot jumper with 1.8 seconds left as fourth-seeded Seton Hall made 10 of its last 12 shots to beat La Salle 78-76 in the East.

In the Southeast, Dean Smith became the winningest coach in NCAA tournament history when fourth-seeded North Carolina edged Miami of Ohio 68-63, and Latrell Sprewell scored 18 second-half points as fifth-seeded Alabama slipped by Stanford 80-75.

In the Midwest, third-seeded Arkansas beat Murray State 80-69, No. 6 Memphis State defeated Pepperdine 80-70, No. 7 Georgia Tech downed Houston 65-60, and No. 2 Southern Cal stomped Northeast Louisiana 84-54.

No. 6 Georgetown overpowered South Florida 75-60, No. 3 Florida State beat Montana 78-68, No. 7 LSU beat BYU 94-83, and No. 2 Indiana routed Eastern Illinois 94-55 in the West.

No. 5 Missouri eliminated West Virginia 89-78 and top-seeded and top-ranked Duke clobbered Campbell 82-56 in other East Regional games, while No. 1 Ohio State trounced Mississippi Valley State 83-56 and No. 8 Connecticut crushed Nebraska 86-65 in the Southeast.

In Thursday night's late games, Southern Cal coach George Raveling blacked out during a second-half timeout. But after having his blood pressure taken, he returned to the game to watch the Trojans, behind 23 points from All-American Harold Miner, rout Northeast Louisiana.

In the last of the 16 games, Indiana (24-6) scored 21 consecutive points midway through the first half, opening a 56-27 halftime lead over Eastern Illinois (17-14).

Shaquille O'Neal had 26 points, 13 rebounds and an NCAA tournament-record 11 blocked shots against Brigham Young, setting up a second-round meeting between two coaches who have clashed in the past, LSU's Dale Brown and Indiana's Bob Knight.

MIDWEST

Southern Cal 84, NE Louisiana 54

At Milwaukee, little-used freshman Tremayne Anchrum set career highs with 16 points and eight rebounds as Southern Cal (24-5) tied the school record for most victories in a season. It was the first tournament win for the Trojans (22-11) since 1979.

Arkansas 80, Murray St. 69

Oliver Miller scored 21 points and Isaiah Morris had eight of his 16 in a 17-5 spurt that helped Arkansas (26-7) get past Murray State and coach Scott Edgar, a former assistant under Arkansas coach Nolan Richardson. Arkansas' Todd Day, who sat out 71/2 minutes with foul trouble in the second half, finished with nine points — 15 below his average.

Georgia Tech 65, Houston 60

Matt Geiger hit two baskets and Travis Best made a 3-pointer during a game-ending 11-0 run that pushed Georgia Tech past Houston. Jon Barry led the Yellow Jackets (22-11) with 17 points. Houston (25-6) got 18 points from Sam Mack, all in the second half. The Cougars took a 58-54 lead with 4:08 left, but couldn't hold it.

WEST

Indiana 94, E. Illinois 55

At Boise, Idaho, Damon Bailey and Alan Henderson scored 14 points each in the first half as Indiana took a 31-point lead. The Hoosiers (24-6) scored the first 10 points, sputtered briefly, then buried the Mid-Continent tournament champions with the 21-0 run late in the first half.

EAST

Duke 82, Campbell 56

Christian Laettner scored 22 points and Thomas Hill 20 as Duke opened its bid for consecutive national championships.

SOUTHEAST

North Carolina 68, Miami Ohio 63

The outcome of the North Carolina-Miami game was in doubt until Miami's Jamie Mercurio missed a desperation 30-footer with four seconds left. North Carolina's Hubert Davis was then fouled and made both free throws to clinch it. Eric Montross led the Tar Heels with 22 points and 13 rebounds. Montross was 11-of-13 from the field for North Carolina (22-9), while Mercurio led Miami (23-8) with 24 points.

WTC golfers register 294 for event lead

HUNTSVILLE — The Western Texas College golf team posted a team-total 294 Thursday to take over first place after 18 holes in the Elkins Lake Invitational Tournament here.

The Westerners lead second-place Southeast Louisiana by four strokes and Pan American University by six heading into today's final round.

Mike Torres' one-under 71 was tops for WTC during first-round competition. Mark Wood followed with an even-par 72.

The final round of play in the tourney was to have begun this morning.

Coach Milton Ham's WTC golfers are currently ranked No. 11 nationally.

Their next outing is scheduled for March 29-31 when they make an appearance at the Wildflower Invitational at Temple.

Rangers nip Pirates, 9-8

BRADENTON, Fla. (AP) — Monty Fariss hit a pair of two-run homers to overcome Kirk Gibson's first home run with Pittsburgh as the Texas Rangers won 9-8 Thursday and sent the Pirates to their fifth consecutive loss.

Gary Pettis and Rafael Palmeiro also homered for Texas on a day that saw batters helped by a 30-mph wind.

Pettis hit a solo homer and Palmeiro hit a two-run homer in the third off Bob Walk, who gave up four runs — two earned — and five hits in four innings.

Fariss, who homered once in 31 at-bats with Texas last season, tied the score in the seventh.

Police note two arrests

Snyder police made two arrests and took several reports of criminal mischief during an otherwise quiet 24-hour period Thursday and early today.

Officers arrested a 24-year-old male on a blue warrant in the 700 block of 23rd Street at 9:38 p.m. Thursday. At 3 a.m. today, police arrested a 21-year-old male for public intoxication in the 100 block of 35th Street.

Rance Brunson contacted police at 1:53 p.m. Thursday in response to someone breaking windows out of his mobile home at 2301 Ave. N. A felony criminal mischief report was filed in the case.

At 6:11 p.m. Thursday, Cindy Thames of 2307 28th St. reported that someone had damaged her mailbox. A complaint for Class C criminal mischief was filed.

Kay Carter contacted officers at 9:07 p.m. Thursday in reference to someone throwing eggs at her 2806 34th St. residence. A report for Class C criminal mischief was filed.

Officers also handled three domestic disputes, without incident.

Study: high cholesterol levels greater threat to men

LONDON (AP) — A new study says women with high cholesterol are half as likely to die from heart disease as men, but a U.S. specialist says the finding ignores the possibility that the disease may just take longer to kill women.

"Women do not have to worry about high cholesterol quite so much as men," said Dr. Christopher G. Isles, the leading investigator at the Dumfries and Galloway Royal Infirmary in Dumfries, Scotland. His study was published in the March 21 issue of the British medical journal the Lancet.

The study found that men with high cholesterol were twice as likely to die of heart disease than women with even higher cholesterol levels.

But Dr. Margo A. Denke, an assistant professor of medicine at the University of Texas Southwestern Medical Center in Dallas, said women are just as susceptible to risk factors, such as cholesterol and smoking, but they die from heart disease 20 to 30 years after men.

"We don't know why women have this lag period," she said. "What I would argue is that he hasn't studied the women long enough to show whether they will catch up. Wait another 10 years and these things will become apparent."

Denke is a member of the American Heart Association's council on nutrition with a special interest in women and heart disease.

The Scottish investigators said they did not establish why women had a lower risk, but speculated that high levels of estrogen protect women. That has long been theorized but has not been confirmed by research.

Investigators traced 8,262 women and 7,137 men for 15 years, as part of an ongoing health survey in western Scotland. The patients were between 45 and 64 when the study began in 1972.

Heart disease killed 490 women and 878 men.

Military dispute dominates summit

KIEV, Ukraine (AP) — Commonwealth leaders opened their fourth summit meeting today by acknowledging their inability to solve military and economic problems or stop the fighting in the disputed enclave of Nagorno-Karabakh.

Ukraine President Leonid Kravchuk chaired the session of the 11 member republics of the former Soviet Union by focusing on the military disputes, especially those between his nation and Boris Yeltsin's Russia over nuclear arms and control of the Black Sea Fleet.

"The people are now demanding to know what we have done," Kravchuk said in a keynote speech highlighting the failures of the 3-month-old Commonwealth of Independent States.

The leaders reached agreement on some minor military issues and ratified an agreement reached last week among commonwealth prime ministers on the external debt of the former Soviet empire, estimated at $89 billion.

But they postponed discussion of the more pressing problems, including the definition of what are strategic weapons, the assets and liabilities of the Soviet State Bank, and the division of state property.

They also deferred defining the commonwealth's strategic armed forces, effectively putting off discussion of dividing the Black Sea Fleet — the armada claimed by both Ukraine and Russia.

President Boris Yeltsin of Russia rebuffed Ukraine's efforts to discuss the holdings of the state bank and the division of property, such as factories and plants, said commonwealth spokesman Ivan Plashkevich.

"Kravchuk sees these questions as the cornerstone of the discussion, and said if they were not discussed, the Ukrainian people would not understand it," Plashkevich said.

Ambassador: terrible new dangers possible in Russia

DALLAS (AP) — If the shaky government of Russian President Boris Yeltsin were to fall there would be an armed conflict and democratic institutions would be quickly swept away, U.S. Ambassador Bob Strauss says.

Strauss said Thursday the fall of Soviet communism has set the stage for terrible new dangers in Russia.

The Dallas lawyer and former Democratic Party national chairman made the remarks after the Dallas Council on World Affairs presented him the H. Neil Mallon Award for Distinguished Service.

Strauss was named U.S. Ambassador to the Soviet Union in June. He became ambassador to Russia after the Soviet Union dissolved seven months later.

Many Americans think that the West won the Cold War and can simply relax, Strauss said.

"Nothing could be further from the truth," he told about 500 people. "The Soviets, the Russians, lost the Cold War, but we in the West haven't secured peace."

If Yeltsin's government were to collapse, "we would have a military takeover, and nuclear weapons would fall into the hands of evil people in the Middle East."

Strauss said that Yeltsin's grip on government remains shaky, mainly because of the many economic and political problems.

"The Russians don't known in which direction they're going," Strauss aid. "Nor do they fully understand what freedom and democracy really mean. They see a lot of negative things and very few positive things in their lives.

Strauss did not spell out what the United States and other Western countries can do to help Yeltsin and the other former Soviet republics, but he agreed with a recent proposal by President Richard Nixon that not enough was being done by the United States and other Western countries.

The ambassador said he thought it was "amazing" that the presidential candidates in both parties are not addressing foreign policy issues and the threat of upheaval in Russia.

"I think there's a real threat of an economic collapse there, and the American people need to know where the candidates stand on the issue," Strauss said. "It's in our national interest."

In 1811, Venezuela became the first South American country to declare its independence from Spain.

Convicted murderer prays for forgiveness before he is executed

ATMORE, Ala. (AP) — A man smiled and prayed before he was electrocuted early today for hiring two men to kill his pregnant wife.

Larry Gene Heath, who found religion in prison, prayed and asked the woman's family for forgiveness.

"If this is what it takes for there to be healing in their lives, so be it," he said. "Father, I ask for forgiveness for my sins."

Heath, 40, made no final attempt to appeal his sentence for the 1981 slaying of Rebecca Heath.

Gov. Guy Hunt on Tuesday denied a request for clemency from Heath's supporters, including a group of ministers. Friends at Holman Prison called him the "Death Row Apostle."

Prosecutors said Heath, secretly engaged to another woman, got his 21-year-old wife, who was nine months pregnant, to co-sign a $2,000 home improvement loan. He used the loan to pay for her murder.

She was abducted from their home in Phenix City, Ala., shot in the head and left in her car in Troup County, Ga. Her unborn son also died.

The men hired by Heath were convicted and sentenced to life in prison.

Heath was arrested four days after the killing and admitted his involvement. He pleaded guilty to murder in Georgia in February 1982 and was sentenced to life in prison.

Diocese considers prospect of closing refugee shelter

BROWNSVILLE, Texas (AP) — Central American refugees facing the uncertainty of trying to start new lives in the United States for years have been able to look to Casa Oscar Romero for some stability.

Now the church-sponsored refugee shelter is the one facing an uncertain future.

A council of senior priests has unanimously recommended closing the shelter and seeking other ways of ministering to refugees and immigrants.

"The question is how to answer the real needs of the immigrants that come to us," Bishop Enrique San Pedro said Thursday. "And we have not come yet to a satisfactory answer to that question.

"The question of closing or keeping Casa Oscar Romero is secondary," he said.

But he added that an evaluation of church efforts could indicate the diocese should shift its focus, especially since Mexicans, not Central Americans, make up the largest immigrant group in South Texas.

"That is one realistic factor that has to be considered," San Pedro said.

Casa Oscar Romero, named for the Salvadoran archbishop murdered while saying mass in 1980, was founded 10 years ago primarily to provide shelter for refugees from war-torn countries.

As peace has broken out, the numbers of refugees seeking shelter has dropped, said center director Sister Juliana Garcia.

"They don't come in the same quantities," she said.

There were only 40 men at the shelter, which has a capacity of 200, on Thursday. Many of them said they were fleeing poverty this time, not wars.

Future priests faces AIDS test in some dioceses

BOSTON (AP) — Many Roman Catholic dioceses require that potential priests be tested for AIDS. While church officials say the policy safeguards against soaring medical costs, critics question whether its true goal is to weed out homosexuals.

The National Conference of Catholic Bishops, based in Washington, lets each archdiocese decide on AIDS testing, spokesman Kenneth Doyle said. The Boston, Miami and Seattle archdioceses are among those that require the tests.

"It's more the rule than the exception," said Dr. Jon Fuller, president of the National Catholic AIDS Network, which counsels priests infected with the AIDS virus. "This is not an uncommon kind of policy."

Fuller said religious groups should focus on other health risks as well, such as whether a candidate smokes, drinks or has a family history of cancer.

"We have to be very careful that we're treating other diseases as severely as we're treating HIV," he said.

The Catholic Church condemns homosexuality. And priests are supposed to be celibate.

"I wonder whether it's a litmus test about homosexuality, which may be the unspoken issue," Richard Valantasis, director of ministerial studies at Harvard Divinity School, said Thursday.

Clinton's opportunity is also challenge

WASHINGTON (AP) — Bill Clinton plans a fund-raising and image-building blitz to capitalize quickly on an opportunity to secure the Democratic presidential nomination early and focus on President Bush and the fall.

"I'll do my best to run a positive [illegible]gressive campaign for change," Clinton said in an interview Thursday after former Massachusetts Sen. Paul Tsongas quit the race, cementing the Arkansas governor as the likely nominee.

Clinton's Southern sweep on Super Tuesday and wins in Illinois and Michigan this past week had made him the prohibitive favorite. But aides expected Tsongas to stay in at least through Connecticut next week.

Tsongas' exit left only former California Gov. Jerry Brown challenging Clinton. Brown has the disadvantage of being a low-budget candidate more than 800 delegates behind Clinton with half the contests over.

The surprise development left many Clinton aides speechless. Just a month ago in New Hampshire, Clinton's campaign was on the verge of collapse because of allegations of marital infidelity and Vietnam-era draft evasion.

But as the day unfolded, the impact of the Tsongas decision became clear.

Dozens of super delegates and other party leaders contacted the Clinton camp pledging support.

Clinton called key donors, party leaders who are super delegates to the convention and supporters of other candidates. "I've got to unite this party," Clinton said. "There's an enormous amount of work to be done and a lot of people to reach."

The campaign wrestled to schedule a number of major speeches on fall themes, including a foreign policy address, as well as fund-raisers so Clinton can spend liberally on positive television ads to boost his image and also help state parties raise money for November.

Also accelerating was the pace of discussions with labor leaders, Democratic opinion makers and groups with major political organizations to mend any strained relations and develop communications strategies.

Despite all this, Clinton insisted the race was far from over.

"I don't have the votes yet and there are a lot of important states coming up and the last thing I want these good people to think is that I'm taking them for granted," he said.

But barring a disaster for Clinton or a miracle for Brown, Clinton will be the Democratic nominee and have the luxury of time in essentially running against Bush during the late Democratic primaries, many of them in crucial fall battleground states.

"This is an enormous opportunity for him to really talk about the fundamental issues that so often get knocked off as you work your way through primary battles," said former Democratic chairman Paul Kirk.

Clinton immediately withdrew an ad critical of Tsongas and Brown in Connecticut and replaced it with a positive ad highlighting his economic proposals. Advisers went to work on new ads for the coming primaries.

Rice official defends speaker selection

HOUSTON (AP) — Rice University President George Rupp has defended his selection of German President Richard von Weizsacker, whose father was a convicted Nazi war criminal, to be this year's commencement speaker.

"Scholars say von Weizsacker broke ground with his moving testimonials calling on Germany to take responsibility for the Holocaust," Rupp said. "It's why (one Jewish professor at Harvard) talked of the 'enormous burden lifted from his heart' after a speech (by Von Wezsacker)."

Most of the criticism surrounding the invitation came from Rice history Professor Francis Lowenheim, who was critical of Harvard for giving Von Weizsacker an honorary degree in 1987.

Lowenheim contended that the German president denies his father's involvement in sending Jews to death camps.

"Would the university invite the child of a Ku Klux Klan leader who says, 'The Klan did horrible things, but my father didn't?'" asked Lowenheim. "The way he's walked away from his past provides grounds for other people to make the same kind of denials."

Baron Ernst von Weizsacker, was state secretary, or top professional diplomat, in the Third Reich's Foreign Ministry. He was convicted of war crimes at the Nuremberg trials in 1949 for sending thousands of Jews to the infamous Nazi death camp at Auschwitz. He died in 1951 after serving one year in prison.

Lowenheim said it is "very sad" for him to speak at the school he "dearly loves."

Rice administrators said Lowenheim was wrong in focusing on the father in view of the son's role in preventing Germany from forgetting its burden from the past.

The speaker was chosen by Rupp and a student government committee and the selection was approved by Charles Duncan, chairman of the board of governors.

The B'nai B'rith Anti-Defamation League, American Jewish Committee and Jewish Federation of Houston expressed support for von Weizsacker and warned against "visiting the sins of the father on the son."

Your Birthday

March 21, 1992

Sometimes we are inclined to believe that it is impossible to profit from things we truly enjoy doing. However, the year ahead might be different for you; you may be able to make money and have a good time doing it.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Volunteering unsolicited financial advice to friends is a risky exercise today. If it's used and it fails, you might be held accountable in some manner. Know where to look for romance and you'll find it. The Astro-Graph Matchmaker instantly reveals which signs are romantically perfect for you. Mail $2 plus a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope to Matchmaker, c/o this newspaper, P.O. Box 91428, Cleveland, OH 44101-3428.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Usually, you have rigidly set ideas regarding the way you want things done. The input from associates could be disruptive today, separating you from your effective procedures.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) It might not be wise to do something today the way someone else recently handled a similar matter. What worked for that individual may not fit your needs.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) Try to avoid risky financial involvements today that are controlled by others. There's a chance they might fumble the ball.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) An old, unresolved disagreement between you and your mate might erupt again today. If you let outsiders into the act, it could make matters worse.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Labors of love will be handled with remarkable skill today, but, if you're required to perform a task you dislike, you might not want to be identified with the finished product.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Your earning potential is quite good today, but you may not get a passing grade for the way you'll manage what you acquire. Try to be an "A" student in both areas.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) In order to complete what you start today, you must put limitations on what you attempt. Single assignments are manageable, but simultaneous ones are not.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Instead of trying to rectify erroneous perceptions others have about you today, you might just let them go unchallenged and brood about the injustice.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Be on guard today; you might be the target of a friend who is an expert at manipulating and using others. Even if you are forewarned, you could still end up a victim.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) Be extra careful today you don't do anything that could offend an important client. You might feel your behavior is harmless, but the one who pays your salary may not.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) You have a choice today, as always, where you can view developments either positively or negatively. Don't let your imagination envision failure where success is a possibility.

Economic impact of collider said considered

WAXAHACHIE, Texas (AP) — Gov. Ann Richards says scientists have taken the guesswork out of the superconducting super collider and she hopes to do the same for its economic spinoffs.

"We don't have to predict what the product is," Richards said after a tour of the collider's construction site Thursday.

"We simply know that projects like the superconducting super collider are going to give us the knowledge that it takes to make those products so that we can be internationally competitive."

She said she was impressed by the giant magnets that will be used to steer protons around the collider at the speed of light. When the protons collide, scientists hope they break apart and yield further clues to the origin of matter.

"When I was younger, I was part of a bunch that said 'Anything that isn't a mystery is guesswork,'" Richards said. "The superconducting super collider is something that disproves that. There's mystery here but there's no guesswork."

In the middle of two weeks of travel promoting Texas economic development, Richards said the state is ready to help commercialize technological advances from the $8.25 billion science project.

Earlier this week, the governor met New York investors interested in biomedical product that uses some of the technology at work in the collider. The product, a radioactive isotope used in nuclear medicine, is being researched at the University of North Texas in Denton.
