On The BEAM

By J. W. King, Sr

It is costing a lot of money to produce a cotton crop this year, what with all the insects to fight and the extra cultivations because of the generous rains through July—and we don't have a crop made yet.

Some farmers say they have already spent three or four dollars an acre for poison alone and will possibly have to poison some more. Add this cost to the cost of preparing the land, the seed, planting and cultivating, then the harvesting, and we wonder if some farmers will begin to figure a surer way to make a living.

Prevent Spread of Pink Boll Worms

Farmers throughout this area are being warned to help prevent the spread of the pink boll worm to this part of the country. One way to help in the fight is to have each cotton picker who comes from another section of the state to turn his sack inside out and empty it of any loose cotton or trash and burn it on the spot.

Pickers who come from South Texas are likely to have pink boll worms in their sacks and caution should be taken to prevent them spreading to this area. There seems to be enough worms and insects of every variety already here except the pink boll worm and he isn't wanted.

Ordinary boll worms and leaf worms do considerable damage to cotton crops, but nothing to compare with the pink boll worm so it is everyone's interest to help keep him out.

Control Insects In Stored Grain Sorgum

College Station, August 21—Much of the bumber crop of grain sorgum being produced in Texas this year wil be stored on the farm. J. A. Deer, assistant extension entomologist of Texas A & M. College, recommends that farmers give special attention to controlling insect infestations in stored grain.

Thorough cleaning of the bins is necessary to prevent the new crop of grain being mixed with the old grain which is already infested. If the bins are constructed of wood, apply a residual spray to the walls and floor at the rate of two gallons of spray per 1000 square feet of surface area. Spray steel bins around the door frames and other places where the insects may be concealed.

Deer says that sprays consisting of two and one-half parts DDT or chloride as emulsions or water suspensions have been found satisfactory for treating grain bins. A water suspension of DDT can be prepared by mixing ten and one-half pounds of 50 percent wettable DDT powder in 25 gallons of water.

As further precaution against insects, Deer advises removing all sources of infestation, including feed, waste grain and other materials stored or accumulated near the bins, before the new grain sorghum is moved in.

Deer warns also that the grain sorghum should be as dry as possible when stored. If the moisture content is higher than 12 percent, the insect infestation will be heavier.

WEEKLY NEWS ANALYSIS

U. S. Rejects Soviet Union Move To Seat China in United Nations; Marines Start Offensive in Korea

(EDITOR'S NOTE: When opinions are expressed in these columns, they are those of Western Newspaper Union's news analysis and not necessarily of this newspaper.)

SECURITY COUNCIL:
No Communist Deals

"So long as men are dying on the battlefield in defense of the United Nations this council will not wish to cheapen their suffering or sully their heroism by seeming to engage in the consideration of deals."

With these words, Warren Austin, the American chief delegate to the United Nations, rejected the Russian move to link the question of Red China's entrance in the U. N. with the Korean war.

It was a bitter exchange of words between Austin and Soviet delegate Jakob A. Malik, who became president of the security council Aug. 1.

Malik wanted the question of admitting Red China to the U. N. the first order of business on the agenda, with the Korean situation second. The Russians were defeated by a vote of eight to one.

No one believed the Russians had any formula for peace that was acceptable to the western powers when they ended their boycott of the security council. It soon became evident the Russians were interested in seating Red China and nothing else.

Some believed Malik's maneuvers were only delaying tactics in the belief the North Koreans would quickly shove United Nation's troops off Korea and thus open the way for any demands the Soviet Union desired to make.

That belief became wide-spread when the Russians demanded American troops be withdrawn from Korea, under threat of use of the veto, and seat the North Koreans in security council deliberations.

On the other hand, it was just as evident that the United States would not agree to such a situation. The only outcome could be a deadlock, with the Russians resorting to the vote to kill anv action the majority might sanction.

TRANSPORTATION:
Truck Fleets Increase

A for hire fleet of 1,000,000 trucks —part of the 8,000,000 which roll America's highways—is available for transport of military supplies in case of a grave national emergency, the American Trucking association has estimated.

The figure was the chief finding of an industry-wide survey conducted by the transportation organization as the first step in preparing for a possible all-out mobilization. The for hire vehicles would be the first to be mobilized and would, the association said, carry the brunt of the military ton-mile load.

But an additional 4,500,000 privately operated trucks, 2,200,000 farm trucks and 335,000 trucks under public ownership, could ultimately be made available.

Taken as a whole, the association's survey revealed the trucking industry could provide 171,369,000 inter-city ton-miles of transport facilities during the next 12 months. In 1941—the year before Pearl Harbor—the industry clocked up 57,-123,000 ton miles.

That difference—114,246,000 ton-miles per year—represents the increased load of guns, food, ammunition or other military supplies which American civilian trucking firms are able and ready to handle without relying on any other form of transportation and with the full advantage of point-to-point shipment without rehandling.

EUROPE:
Steps Up Defense

The democratic nations of Europe with Communist aggression in Asia uppermost in mind formed plans for increased defense measures against invasion by Russia.

The United States and its North Atlantic allies mapped a three-year $20 billion campaign of defense.

Britain offered to adopt a three-year $9½ billion defense budget, a heavy load for the already hard pressed British government, if the U.S. foots part of the bill.

Other members of the group agreed to recommend that all member governments take immediate steps to increase effective military forces for common defense.

France meanwhile asked that more American and British troops be sent to Europe and pledged to start a $5.7 billion three-year rearmament program. The new program would be in addition to the 1950 military budget of $1.2 billion.

H-BOMB:
Work Continues

The United States has stepped up its work toward production of the hydrogen bomb. The government has assigned a major segment of the job to the du Pont company, already experts in making the plutonium which goes into the present atomic weapons.

The A. E. C. appointed the du Pont company to design, construct, and operate some new plants of advanced design.

Rebuke

The pent-up indignation felt by all who had heard Jacob Malik's scathing attack on the United States in the U. N. security council is registered and voiced by chief U. S. Delegate Warren Austin. Austin's usual cool, collected temperament has been put by the boards as he replied to Malik's statements. This closeup shows Austin fiercely rebuking the Russian delegate.

KOREA:
A Limited Offensive

The Korean military picture appeared a little brighter for United Nations forces. A powerful American attack, the largest launched by the U.S. since the Korean war began, rolled slowly forward on the southern front.

The North Korean troops, evidently completely aware that an attack was coming, took advantage of every spot of cover and battled U.S. marines for every foot of ground.

In the central sector the Communists established one bridgehead across the Naktong river behind which United Nations forces had established new defense positions. Military authorities reported immediate danger points were in the south and center sectors. In the center the Reds had three divisions and four of their finest in the south.

While U.N. forces attacked in the south, U.S. B-29's pounded military targets in North Korea, dropping as many as 540 tons of bombs in one day. One mass flight dropped 460 tons on railroad yards at Pyongyang, North Korea capital, with "excellent results."

Air groups from two 27,000-ton U.S. carriers bombed scattered targets over southwestern Korea and gave close support to attacking troops in the southern sector.

Military authorities warned that the southern action was a "limited offensive" and not a "general offensive." It evidently was designed to block the Communist strategy of:

(1) Drive down the southern coastal plain, capture Pusan, seal off the U.N. port of entry and the only escape hatch; (2) smash through to Taegu in the Naktong valley, encircle the defenders and cut them up.

Whether or not the Communists can execute this strategy hinges on the question: Have we the men and the materials to stop them? Until recently the outlook was grim.

BRIDGES:
Jailed at Last

Harry Bridges, turbulent longshore labor leader, had gone to jail at last.

Federal Judge George B. Harris revoked the $25,000 bail under which Bridges had been at liberty since his conviction last April on charges of perjury and conspiracy in connection with his 1945 naturalization, and ordered him jailed.

In delivering his opinion, Judge Harris assailed the C. I. O. labor leader as "an agent dedicated to the execution of the Communist program nationally and internationally," and a menace to United States security.

"This is not the time for divided loyalty," Judge Harris said. "This is not the time for Communist double talk."

The move to revoke Bridges' bail was started by F. Joseph Donohue, special assistant to the U. S. attorney general. Donohue argued that remarks by the labor leader at union meetings, to the effect that he opposed resolutions supporting American intervention in the Korean war, were against the best interest of the country.

Plane Crash

Nineteen persons were killed and 60 injured when a bomb laden B-29 crashed, burned and exploded near the Fairfield-Suisun air base in California.

The plane crashed near a trailer camp where 200 service families slept. The flaming explosion of the 10 or 12 500-pound demolition bombs the plane carried shattered more than half of 50 automobiles and trailers parked in the area.

FORMOSA:
The Big Question

In the minds of many international observers, Formosa had become the big question in the battle against communism. And it presented the first split in policy among the western powers.

With the President's order to the U. S. seventh fleet to defend the island from Communist invasion, the split in policy first appeared. The split, or Russian trap as some are inclined to believe, became serious with the visit of General MacArthur to the island and the arrival of jet planes immediately after he returned to Japan.

Many observers point out that U. S. policy is now clear: defend Formosa and the Nationalist government. This, they believe, may involve the United States in a conflict with Red China, a fight which would almost be impossible for America to win.

At the same time, the British government has already recognized the Communist government of China. Several other western powers have been reported on the verge of recognition. This leaves the U. S. out on a limb and could involve the nation in a full fledged Asiatic war.

That, students of the present world situation say, is exactly what the Soviet Union desires. If such a thing should happen Russia would, of course, materially aid the Chinese.

It has been pointed out that the American decision to defend Formosa is a direct act of aggression against Red China. It is a perfect excuse for the Reds to rush several divisions to the aid of the Koreans. Some observers believe such a move is already underway.

Within hours after MacArthur returned to Japan, American jets landed on Formosa—vanguard of air units assigned to defend the island.

A comment heard frequently after they landed was: "MacArthur certainly works fast."

That may be, observers pointed out, but it could also mean that MacArthur has fallen into the Russian trap. It was a serious situation that the United States now had to face.

ECONOMY:
Control Bill Likely

The senate banking committee approved a home-front mobilization bill which would give full discretion to invoke wage-price-rationing controls to President Truman.

Last month President Truman asked for limited economic controls. The bill approved by the committee, however, goes much further than Mr. Truman asked.

Those less-sweeping curbs included authority to:

1. Allocate scarce industrial materials.

2. Assign priorities to put defense production work at the head of any factory job sheet.

3. Let the government take over privately owned plants, if necessary.

4. Curb consumer credit and real-estate construction credit.

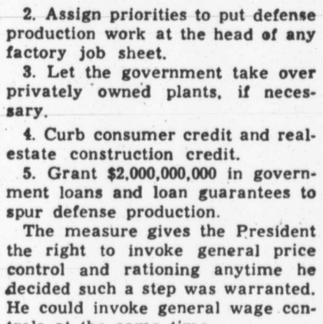

5. Grant $2,000,000,000 in government loans and loan guarantees to spur defense production.

The measure gives the President the right to invoke general price control and rationing anytime he decided such a step was warranted. He could invoke general wage controls at the same time.

The only apparent restriction is a provision saying the President would be compelled to put wage curbs in effect if price ceilings previously had been established "on materials, services, and property comprising a substantial part of all sales at fetail and materially affecting the cost of living."

The house was expected to agree on some bill patterned principally after the senate committee's measure.

The Draft

Selective service officials at national headquarters in Washington get down to work on army's call for 100,000 men during September and October. Left to right: Col. Daniel O. Omer, general council; Selective Service Director Lewis B. Hershey, and Col. Bernard T. Frauck, legislative officer.

ROBESON:
Passport Voided

Paul Robeson, native-born Negro singer and a leader in left-wing movements, was asked by the state department to surrender his passport. He refused and the government voided the passport and ordered officials to stop him if he tried to leave the country.

The state department said any trip abroad that Robeson would make would not be in the interest of the United States.

GOOD CITIZEN

Free Schools Can Safeguard Democracy by Teaching Truth

This is the eighth of a series of 10 articles from the booklet "Good Citizen" published by the American Heritage Foundation concerning the rights and duties of an American.

The seventh promise of a good citizen: I will support our system of free public education by doing everything I can to improve the schools in my own community.

Many "isms" and ideologies are being peddled and sold around the world today.

Most of them dismiss, ignore and brush lightly aside the inalienable rights of life, liberty and pursuit of happiness.

Isn't it fortunate that we have at hand a system of education which can give to our boys and girls the knowledge and ability to separate the true from the half true—to look "isms" straight in the eye?

The coming generation, with minds and hearts reinforced with such knowledge, is more powerful than an army.

Our public school, our private schools and our schools conducted under religious auspices all must provide the climate and the soil for the roots and the fruits of freedom.

So, good citizen, keep our system of education strong.

THE SCHOOLS are yours. You pay for them. There is much that you can do to improve them, and the need is urgent.

Teachers enjoy—or ought to enjoy—freedom from social and political pressures; freedom to seek the eternal truths and to present these truths in a way that will stimulate young minds to look for truth and be able to recognize it when they find it.

Teachers should be proud of their profession. They deserve the friendliness, sociability and respect accorded to doctors, lawyers and members of other professions.

Teachers should be able to live their private lives as any other self-respecting citizen lives his—neither playing "Mrs. Grundy" to the community nor being dictated to by the social arbiters of the community, whoever they may be.

Help to make your schools a force for national unity by protecting our children from bigotry and prejudice.

It has been said, "America fears no enemy but ignorance."

The generation which did not fight the war is trying to understand what happened, why it happened, and what can be done to straighten out the world.

Help it to find out through even better, stronger, freer schools which bring to it the distilled truth wrested from the experience of all recorded time; which encourage the search for truth; and which foster the undeveloped talents which are America's greatest source of wealth.

MARK TWAIN, referring to a foreign dispatch, once said . . . "the vast expense of maintaining the army has made it necessary to retrench, and so the government had decided that to support the army it would be necessary to withdraw the appropriation from the public schools . . .

"It is curious to reflect how history repeats itself the world over. Why, I remember the same thing was done when I was a boy on the Mississippi river. There was a proposition in a township there to discontinue public schools because they were too expensive. An old farmer spoke up and said if they stopped the schools they would not save anything, because every time a school was closed a jail had to be built.

"It's like feeding a dog on his own tail. He'll never get fat. I believe it is better to support schools than jails . . ."

Adolphe Menjou did right well recently with a hobby. His collection of United States coins was sold by the Numismatic Gallery of Beverly Hills for $134,000. A $2.50 gold piece dated 1841 brought the top price, $5,100.

Bill Pine picked Lalo Rios, a Mexican born youth without previous acting experience, for an important role in "The Lawless," but said afterward that till the picture was released nobody could tell whether Rios would continue as an actor or not. His performance was so impressive that Pine and Thomas have cast him in their forthcoming "Passage West."

THE FICTION CORNER

DETECTIVE PETERS

By Richard H. Wilkinson

ORION DIDN'T look like a detective. He realized this for a fact when the girl with the chestnut brown hair came up and spoke to him.

"You're Orion Peters, aren't you? Mrs. Keith told me. I'm June Ingalls. It's going to be a gorgeous wedding, don't you think? Have you seen the swimming pool yet?"

3-Minute Fiction

Orion knew at once because of her easy informality she had mistaken him for one of the guests. And suddenly he decided to go on with the game.

"Hello," he said cheerfully. "It's nice to see you again. No, I haven't seen the pool. Is it new? Shall we go look at it together?"

They went and looked at it. In fact they swam in it.

They stayed near the pool for almost two hours. At the end of that time Orion came to two decisions. First, he decided that the girl was the loveliest, most beautiful creature he'd ever known. Second, he decided he was a fool. At first this business of pretending to be a guest smacked of a lark. Now it was different. He was falling in love.

He went back to his room and changed into his tux. He'd have to go down and keep his eyes on things and avoid June Ingalls, if he could.

He took up a station within observation distance of the table where the gifts were placed and acted as much like a guest as he knew how. June was not among the crowd that milled around the living room. He was convincing himself that he was glad of this, when a feminine voice behind him said:

"Why, Mr. Peters, you're standing here like a statue. I mean, shouldn't we dance, or something?"

"I'm dreadfully sorry," he said. "I hurt my ankle in the pool this afternoon. I'm afraid dancing's out, for me."

"Oh, how wretched! Is there anything I can do? I mean, oughtn't you to see a doctor, or something?"

JUST THEN Orion's desperate glance fell on the table where lay the gifts. There was a man standing at one end talking to a woman. The woman had a fan, which she maneuvered skillfully. Behind its ruffled folds the man to whom she was talking suddenly darted out a hand, scooped up something on the table, and thrust it beneath the tails of his coat.

Orion came back to earth with a jolt. He started toward the man, who was moving through the crowd toward the terrace door. He caught up with the fellow just as they got outside and fell into step beside him.

"All right," said Orion when they reached the end of the terrace. "Take it easy and you won't get hurt. You're under arrest."

The man looked at him quickly. Orion didn't have time to lift his arms in defense. Something struck him a terrible blow on the head. He swayed, caught himself, glimpsed the thief racing down the steps.

Orion anticipated the direction of the man he was chasing by leaping the fish pond and making a flying tackle at the fellow's legs. They went down in a heap.

When he opened his eyes there was a crowd of people around. He heard snatches of conversation and guessed that the thief had been captured and everybody thought that he, Orion, was quite a hero. Then he knew that his head was pillowed on something soft. He saw a face bending over him.

"Well, that settles it, I guess," he grinned. "Now you know. But I'm not really a detective. I go to law school nights and detect days and week-ends."

"It doesn't make a particle of difference," June told him. "I'm Mrs. Keith's secretary. She asked me to see that you were looked out for. Can I help it if you thought I was a guest? And now that you know the truth, I suppose you don't like me any more?"

"Suppose," said Orion, "you let me ask a question."

She agreed and he asked it and she blushed as she said, "yes."

BROADWAY AND MAIN STREET

Beggar Has New Angle – Can You Spare a Teddy Bear?

By BILLY ROSE

There's a beggar in New York with a new sales approach: "Can you please, Mister, spare the price of a teddy bear for my sick little daughter?"

It so happens that this panhandler hasn't got a sick little daughter, but that doesn't mean you have to turn him down if you meet up with him. His story is hearts-and-flowers stuff, and I'll tell it to you as it was told to me the other night by Charlie Washburn, the Broadway press agent . . . .

"A few days before Easter," said Charlie, "I was standing in front of a toy shop on Fifth Avenue when a seedy-looking guy tapped me on the arm and asked if I could spare the price of a teddy bear. When I told him to quit his kidding, he explained he wanted it for his sick little girl, and that if I didn't think he was on the up-and-up he'd write his name and address on a piece of paper and I could have it delivered.

Billy Rose

"Well, filled with the old Easter spirit I walked into the shop and picked out a five-dollar bear, but when I handed the slip to the girl who waited on me she gave me a funny look and said I was the third person that afternoon who'd ordered one sent to that address.

"IT SMELLED LIKE a good human interest yarn, and so I had her wrap up the toy and set out to deliver it myself. It was a flat in a walk-up tenement in the 50's near Tenth Avenue, and the door was opened by a woman who looked as if she could use a little sleep.

"'What you got there,' she said, 'another teddy bear?'

"'How'd you know?' I asked.

"'I've been getting two or three every afternoon for the last month,' she said. 'Where'd you run into Tim?'

"Tim, it turned out, was her husband and he had been missing for several weeks. Things hadn't been going well with them for quite some time, and when his unemployment insurance ran out last March the going got real tough. Then, to make things still worse, their three-year-old daughter, Peggy, had taken sick and the doctors at the clinic couldn't seem to do much for her.

"THE TEDDY BEAR angle had come about this way: Shortly after Peggy became ill, she asked for a teddy bear and kept talking about it all the time. Tim said he thought it would do her more good than all the medicine, but what with the room rent and food, they just couldn't afford to buy one. A month ago he walked out of the house, and ever since teddy bears had been arriving at the rate of two or three a day.

" 'With all those toys,' I said to the woman, 'your daughter must be a happy little girl.'

" 'They're too late to do any good,' she said. 'Peggy died two days before her father left. And the teddy bears probably wouldn't have helped anyhow — she had leukemia.'

"When I told her I couldn't understand why a man was mooching teddy bears for a dead child, the woman said she was afraid Tim had cracked up. He was never one to accept reality anyhow, and in his fuzzy condition he probably still thought the kid was alive.

" 'Well, then,' I said, 'what have you been doing with all the teddy bears?'

"The woman told me she had gotten to know the doctors at the clinic pretty well, and when her husband disappeared they had found her a job at the hospital as cleaning woman.

" 'There are a lot of kids in the charity ward where I work,' she said, 'and they get a big kick out of those teddy bears.' "

Democrats United

DESPITE the war in Korea this is still an election year and when the 81st congress should be united behind the war effort there is a definite "pot calling the kettle black" trend with Republicans blaming the administration for lack of preparedness in Korea and the Democrats citing the record of GOP votes against appropriations for Korean aid.

Instead of a clear cut election on the domestic issues, no one can now predict the public reaction to the war situation. Certainly all previous plans of both parties as to issues will be thrown into the discard. Republicans are now soft-pedalling the "welfare state" and "socialism" issue in favor of blaming the war on administration foreign policy mistakes.

Increased prices, high taxes and the revival of controls and rationing may cause a major swing from one party to another. No one here ventures to guess now whether this swing will go to the Democrats on a basis of patriotic support of the war effort, or swing to the Republicans on the basis of irritation over the controls and lack of trust in the administration. Also certainly, at this stage of the Korean war, President Truman has deferred any nation-wide stump of the country in favor of Democratic candidates and will give his whole attention to the military and economic aspects of the war picture.

At this juncture, however, the Democrats seems to be more united as to policies than the Republicans. In the first place, as a result of the primary elections, it appears that the Dixiecrat split in the Democratic party is a thing of the past. All major leaders in the Dixiecrat split received sound defeats in the primaries. These include Gov. Strom Thurmond of South Carolina, running for the senate; former Gov. Ben Laney of Arkansas, national chairman of the Dixiecrat party, running for governor of that state; and the victory of Sen. Russell Long of Louisiana over the opposition of Leander Perez, national director of the States Rights national committee.

Progressive Party Split

Also, for whatever it is worth, the Progressive party headed by Henry Wallace which drew some votes from the Democrats in the last election has been split wide open with the defection of Mr. Wallace from their policy of supporting Joe Stalin. Wallace made a statement in which he said he must go along with his own country in the war against the Communists.

GOP Split on Policy

The Republicans are still having internal party troubles and so far cannot seem to settle on a given policy of opposition. While Senator Taft of Ohio, chairman of the policy committee with Senator Wherry, of Nebraska, the minority floor leader, and a few others seemed in determined opposition to giving the President powers for all-out mobilization. A group of house Republicans want to go even farther in clamping down more controls than the President asked.

Engineers Oppose TVA

The private power industry is hailing a report of the engineers' joint council on water power resources which criticized the present set-up for harnessing rivers for irrigation, flood control, conservation and hydroelectric power, as directly in line with the position of the private utility industry.

The engineers joint council represents some 100,000 engineers and their report, in no uncertain terms, criticized the overlapping functions of the army engineers, the department of the interior and other federal agencies which are now engaged in this work of water resources practices. The engineers also are opposed to a federal authority such as TVA to work out these problems.

What they did propose is a state pact and that "collective action through the medium of the federal government is justified only for two purposes: to do things essential to national defense or otherwise of substantial benefit to all the people throughout the nation, or to aid in financing construction cost of works for the benefit of a limited number of people on terms equitable to all other citizens.

Of course the proponents of river valley authorities also oppose the overlapping functions of the various government agencies and declare the only economically sound procedure is through an integrated river valley authority.

The only parallel line with the private electric industry as advocated by the engineers is in the matter of taxes. The engineers declare that in cases of federal revenue producing developments, "the principle should be extended to provide for the payment of state and federal income taxes and excise taxes."

WOMAN'S WORLD

Bright, Attractive Kitchen Make Your Work Easier

By Ertta Haley

DID YOU KNOW that the ten busiest years of a homemakers life are spent in the kitchen? Minute by minute, hour by hour, that is the accumulation of time needed over the years for the tasks of preparing food, cooking, baking and washing dishes.

Is it any wonder, then, that women try to keep their kitchens bright and attractive? Modern equipment lightens many of the chores, but whether the time spent on unending work is pleasant or not, depends to a great extent on one factor. That is color.

Colors of the kitchen walls, the light reflected from the ceiling, the surface of drainboards and counters and flooring materials, all these play a subtle but definite part in your outlook and in family relations.

Fortunately, color is one of the most inexpensive of all components of the kitchen. Colors that please and stimulate cost no more than drab and cheerless ones. It depends entirely on you and not your pocketbook, whether your kitchen is a success colorwise.

You can add color and cheer to the kitchen in many ways. There are not only paint and wallpaper, but floor coverings, curtain materials, utensils, but counter tops, drainboards and accessories. A kitchen, coordinated in color by all of these, is bound to be pleasing and joyful in which to work.

There's so much available in a colorful way, that you can actually choose a favorite color scheme in place of the few which were once popular. Thoughtful and intelligent selection will give you much satisfaction and will improve your disposition as well as your influence on family life.

Apply Basic Principles To Kitchen Decoration

Follow a few simple rules when selecting colors for the kitchen. For example, the various shades of yellow and red are stimulating and spirit lifting. If you tend to get in the doldrums, you might try using one or the other of these with some other color.

Light hues reflect more color than dark ones and thereby tend to make work easier. The use of a few colors rather than many prevents a feeling of "busy- ness," especially if your kitchen is small. Colors which contrast too greatly will break up a room and are to be avoided. Plan the color to create a balance, just as you plan furniture arrangements.

The simplest plan to use in selecting a color scheme for the kitchen is to use a favorite shade as a basic one and combine it with others which are present. Yellow-orange, yellow-brown, yellow-green and green-yellow are harmonious because they all contain yellow. In the same way, red-brown, red-orange and watermelon shades harmonize.

One of the nicest ways of choosing a color scheme for the kitchen is to use the complexion as a clue. Blondes look most attractive in a setting of peach, soft blue, green or yellow. Brunettes appear best against background of tan, brown, yellows on the orange side and blue greens.

The kitchen ceiling should be a hue with good light reflecting qualities, but that does not necessarily mean white. In fact, white is usually too strong a contrast with other hues in the color scheme, so it's best to plan to mix a little of the wall color with white ceiling and wall together.

If your kitchen is primarily white, then use clear colors with it. In-

as well as hobbies.

tense colors such as orange, pure green or violet should be avoided as they will soon prove irritating.

Select Materials Which Will Last

Since the kitchen gets such great use, it's wise to invest in quality materials which will not fade or be injured by acids and grease. Walls, of course, will have to be refinished be they painted or papered, but you can select colors which will show less dirt and grease than others. Papers, too, are specially finished for longer use.

Drainboards and counter tops should be durable. You might investigate clay tile as a possibility since this kind of material comes in many different colors and these are baked in so they cannot be damaged by sunlight, water or grease.

Areas which are subject to spotting and staining need to be carefully finished so they do not become too worn while the rest of the kitchen remains in good condition. The space behind the range and the splashback over the sink need careful finishing. Use a material which can be cleaned with a few seconds work with a damp cloth.

Woodwork and floors strike an important color note in the kitchen, but both are often overlooked or ignored when the room is decorated. If the woodwork is of a good quality with a pleasant grain, it might be kept in a natural finish and a color scheme chosen to set it off properly. Natural wood table and chairs, such as bamboo, are excellent with a watermelon pink color predominating.

If the woodwork is not suitable, paint it the same color as the walls or somewhat lighter.

Light Floors Show Dirt Less than Dark

Kitchen floor coverings are important not only because they can tie the room together, but because they can make your kitchen show less dirt than you might think. If light in hue, the floor covering can make the kitchen cheerful and light-reflecting.

Light colors are a good choice for kitchen floors because they will show dirt less than such colors as dark brown, blue or red. Unglazed clay tiles in a wide range of colors might fit into the scheme, and they are durable as well as easily cleaned.

If the whole home is coordinated as to color, then the kitchen floor would be tied into that color scheme, and the flooring would take its cue from carpeting used in other rooms. Even though not carefully coordinated, it's wise to tie the kitchen together with the dining room or to whatever room it opens, and flooring is a good means by which the tie-in can be worked.

Let Kitchen Reflect Family Interests

Kitchens are popular with families because they can be so cozy. If you have a large family which likes to snack, it might be wise to use one wall or part of that for a snack bar which will also serve for breakfast and quick lunches.

Women who collect interesting platters, pot holders, molds or utensils would do well to place at least some of these on the walls to indicate their interests and lend a personal touch to the room that is so dramatically theirs.

Add Color to Kitchen

Cabinets in natural - finish wood, counter tops and drainboard of clay tile in daffodil yellow and a window blind in a clear, light green make this kitchen a colorful and stimulating place to work. Hot pans can be set direct from the range to counter tops since these surfaces will not be damaged by heat.

KATHLEEN NORRIS

She Married the Town Beauty

"EARL has always been the handsomest man in town," writes Arlene McRobbins from Charleston. "I don't get your articles, but I see them now and then, and I've been wondering what you would advise me to do. My husband is so vain that it's perfectly disgusting!

"Earl began to be admired when he was less than ten," her letter goes on." All of us, at our kid parties, admired him. Later, in thin silk tennis shirts and white shorts, tossing his heavy mop of gold hair back, sunburned, magnificently built, always acting as if he was completely unconscious of watching eyes—though I know now that he wasn't—he was simply irresistible. His family had money, his home was one of the handsome old show places of our little town, all the girls in town were mad about him, and although it was expected that he would marry me I was the person who never dreamed it could come true.

An Only Child

"It was expected because our house was another old show place—I was also an only child—and my father was partner of Earl's in a law firm. But I am not pretty, I was slow to grow up, keeping up clumsiness and shyness long after most girls do. We both were 26 when we married; I was really delirious with happiness in possessing the man I love, and Earl happy, too, I think, in my adoration. His appetite for admiration, flattery, compliments, and talk about himself generally is the most astonishing thing I have ever known. It seems incredible to me, even after 12 years, that any sensible human being can be so self-absorbed.

". . unconscious of watching eyes . ."

"Earl cherishes his beauty as if he were a screen star. He diets, he exercises, he rubs in suntan creams and brushes his eyebrows, and he wears an arrangement of whalebone and canvas that is a lot more like a corset than anything I ever wore.

Hot Love Affairs

"I've listened to other women's praises of Earl's looks, and I've given him all the adulation I honestly could, and more, and I've ignored some pretty hot love affairs, partly because I know that he simply has to have adulation and takes it anywhere and everywhere. But of late things are worrying him into a nervous breakdown, and he's passing the breakdown on to me.

"One is thinning hair. Most of his friends have bald spots now, and bottles of tonic and two treatments a week and assiduous massaging by me can't hide Earl's any longer. The other thing is that he has a bridge with three teeth on it; a minor car accident knocked out three front teeth a year ago. His smile has completely changed, he is so afraid someone will notice the denture, and his hand goes continually to the crown of his head, pushing his hair about. I've never been pretty, but I've got my hair and teeth, and a good figure, and Earl actually seems to resent it, and that our three girls, 10, 9, and 3 years old, are all pretty. He turns over old albums of pictures that are mostly of himself, and will ask callers if he has changed much since the 20-year-old college photographs.

"If I have to go on living with this professional beauty—" Arlene's letter ends on a long wail of protest. She doesn't say what she will do, but if she is a sensible woman she will put up with what is really a time suffering in Earl's life.

Like that of all beauties his reign is coming to an end, and he knows it. Arlene is going to mature into the first beauty she ever has known, a beauty enhanced by a cluster of daughters; Earl is going to watch every hair, every wrinkle, every half-pound until even the handsomeness he might have carried into middle age and old age will disappear.

If Arlene has any real rancor left for the years of enduring his tiresomeness, she will have a quiet revenge in watching him face one of the most painful experiences of life: the decline of the professional beauty.

Whether in man or woman it is a pitiful sight, the loss of the evanescent thing upon which he or she has based all his complacency in life. Old ladies who once were beauties go on with the crimps and the laces and cameo pins and velvet bands and the simpering glances, trying to convince themselves that youth isn't all over.

But when the beauty is a man somehow the tragedy takes on an amusing and ridiculous element, and I suspect that part of Arlene's problem is that she really liked Earl's beauty, too.

Negligence Key to Auto Thefts

By Will Bernard, LL.B

Is it Negligence to Leave the Ignition Key in Your Parked Car?

A woman parked her car in front of a market, and went in to do some shopping. In the car she left 1) the ignition key; 2) her neighbor; and 3) the neighbor's six-year-old son. While the neighbor's attention was distracted, the boy turned on the ignition, released the brakes, shifted into reverse, and pressed the starter. The car backed across the sidewalk and crashed through the market window, knocking down the vegetable man. He was injured, and later sued the car's owner for damages. "Anyone who leaves a child in a car with the key in the ignition," argued the man, "is asking for trouble." But the court disagreed and rejected his claim. The judge said no one would have expected a six-year-old to do so much mischief in so little time!

Is the Customer Always Right?

A woman went to a five-and-ten-cent store to buy some paper napkins. On her way out, she slipped on a little spot of hand lotion that had somehow gotten on the floor. Bruised and shaken, the woman determined to sue the company for damages. At the trial, she said: "Your Honor, I don't know who dropped the lotion and I don't know how long it had been there. But I do know that I was a customer of the store, and was entitled to a safe place to walk." However the court decided that, in this case at least, the customer was wrong. The judge said that a shopper can't blame the store for anything that might happen to her, unless she can prove some sort of carelessness by company employees.

If Bumped By a Drunk in a Bar, May You Collect Damages?

Four men were lined up in front of a bar one night, drinking steadily. Suddenly, in an excess of good spirits, the first man butted the second man with his shoulder. Man number 2 fell against man number 3, who fell against man number 4, who fell flat on the floor. He suffered a broken finger, and later filed a damage action against the first man. At the trial, the defendant reasoned as follows: "I just pushed my neighbor. What happened after that was beyond my control, and therefore was not my fault." But the court felt otherwise, and held him liable. The judge said that, considering the position of the four men, the original pusher could have—and should have—foreseen the result.

Does a Doctor Have Any Obligation Toward a Person Who Isnt His Patient?

A carpenter had a badly-infected finger, and his wife drove him to the doctor's office. After a brief examination, the doctor said to the wife: "Madam, please hold your husband's finger—don't be afraid—while I get a bandage on." Unfortunately, the wife had a few scratches on her own hand, and, in the process of helping the doctor, she caught the infection herself. Later she sued for damages. The physician protested: "I was hired to take care of the husband, not the wife. Toward her, I had no particular obligation." But the court disagreed and granted the wife's claim. The judge said the doctor had a duty to use reasonable care toward anybody — and he hadn't done so here.

What's It Like To Be Blind?

As if Skull Grew Down Over the Eyes

JANESVILLE, WIS.—If you want your pet ideas, hunches and sentiments about blind people debunked, drop in at Janesville at the 100 year old Wisconsin School for the Visually Handicapped.

Here are some things you will learn:

Blindness does not develop keener senses of hearing, taste, smell and touch.

The blind enjoy movies.

A blind man's eyes get tired if he reads Braille too long.

Many of the blind develop a keen sense of humor.

The blind are great travelers.

And blindness, with the revolutionary benefits that have come in the last 100 years, is not an unhappy state.

A recent visitor to the Janesville school got a clear statement of the joys and griefs of the blind from a school instructor — himself blind since early childhood—H. Elton Davis.

"Most people think that blindness is black," Davis says. "It isn't. It is no color or sensation at all. It is as if you had no eyes and your skull grew solidly over your eye sockets."

Davis was educated in the school at Janesville. He got out during the depression and went to work in a piano factory, which promptly went broke. He got a job as a piano player in a movie theater at Norwalk, Ohio.

This Is Your Paper
Its People Are Human

By William R. Nelson

MEMBERS of this and all other newspaper staffs are victims of that quirk of human nature so well expressed by the axiom which asserts that: "An expert is a man away from home." Newspaper people are very much at home here, so they are seldom looked upon as experts. But they are experts, and specialists, in a wide variety of occupations and professions, all of them vitally important to this community.

A home town newspaper, such as this one, is published only through the teamwork of people of many skills. It is doubtful if any other business or institution in the community surpasses the newspaper in its complexity, in the varied nature of the expert know-how its operation requires.

Teamwork of Skills

Modern drug stores, which require a combination of merchandising and professional aptitudes, come closest to the newspaper in the variety of demands made upon staffs. But in addition to merchandising and professional abilities comparable to those of the drug store, the newspaper's people must also have mechanical understanding and skill of a high order.

Newspaper mechanical staff people must know both how to operate a variety of machines, and how to maintain and repair them.

Editorial staff members are specialists who perform their daily duties within the restricting confines of a code of ethics fully as binding as are those of other professions. They must have ability, a liking for people, knowledge of words, a feeling for art, insatiable curiosity, willingness to work all hours under pressure, and be familiar with mechanical practices and limitations of the printing plant.

Always on Duty

While sharing with their neighbors the enjoyment of a community event, the editorial worker must also cover it, taking notes, names, dates and data, so that while others relax afterward, the story of the event can be written. The editor and reporter, like doctors, are "on duty" every hour of every day.

Members of the advertising and business office staffs, too, are specialists, each in his or her own way. And they, too, are important to the community. Telling the local service and merchandising story is vital to the smooth functioning of professional and commercial sides of community life.

MRS. H. L. LEACH HOSTS W. M. U.

The Baptist W. M. U. met with Mrs. Harvey Leach Thursday night with members of the Young peoples department bringing the program.

The meeting was opened with the group singing "What a Friend We Have in Jesus," with Bobbie Mote accompaning on the occordion.

Dorthy Jean Hallmark brought a very interesting Devotional, reading from Phillipians 3:13-14. Bettie Jane Horton gave a story of the first Bibles in Brazil. Hal Haralson gave a talk on his trip to Ridgecrest, N. C. and Bobbie Mote played an occordion solo, Near to the Heart of God.

Mrs. Bob Horton, directed a short business meeting and reported on the recent W. M. U. held at the Champion church.

After the program guests were invited out on the lawn where delicious water melons were served.

Those present were Mmes Nolan Barmore, Rex McDaniel and daughter, Homer Wilson, Robert Mote, Price Hall and children, Dan Butler, Delmar Haralson and Ken, Henry Riden, Roy Baird, Roy Little Dee McCollum and Misses Bettie Horton, Bobbie Mote and Dorthy Hallmark and Hal Haralson.

BAPTIST W. M. U.

The Baptist W. M. U. met at the church Monday afternoon with eight ladies present.

Mrs. Boyd led in singing, Ready and Mrs. Bob Horton offered prayer. Mrs. Tom Ray taught the Bible lesson from the parables of Jesus.

Those of you who do not take an active part in the W. M. U. work miss a greater spiritual blessing than you think. We are saved to serve. As we serve the Lord we grow in grace and knowledge of his Word and Will. We do urge each Baptist lady to come and be laborers together with God and us. Mrs. McCollum led the closing prayer.

Reporter

Mrs. Euel Jacobs of Sweetwater and Miss Pauline Carnes of Lubbock were visitors in the Buck Taylor home Monday.

ON THE FARM GRAIN STORAGE

College Station, August 21—With another bumper crop of grain sorghum being harvested in Texas, the farmer is again faced with the problem of disposing of his grain. Although several million bushels of storage space have been provided on Texas farms since last year, additional space may still be needed to take care of this year's crop.

W. S. Allen, extension agricultural engineer of Texas A. & M. College points out that on-the-farm storage gives the farmer insurance that his crop can be taken care of and enables him to qualify for government loans. It also allows him to store his grain and feed it to livestock, if that appears to be his most profitable method of marketing it.

According to Allen, storage facilities can be constructed at a cost of from 15 to 50 cents a bushel, depending on the size of the structure. The larger the structure, the less the cost will be per bushel of storage space.

Due to the lack of sufficient labor in many localities, some farmers may prefer to buy prefabricated bins or granaries. This year, most of these prefabricated structures are costing about 30 cents per bushel of storage capacity.

More Comebacks Arrive

THIS GALA SEASON of 1950, in some ways at least, is still adding to its comeback record. It began with Ben Hogan and almost registered with Citation who ran swiftly but not quite fast enough. Hogan was away 11 months and Citation 14 months.

Another arrival was Billy Southworth who had to retire last summer. More than a few thought the Braves manager would never report again. He not only reported but he has his ball club in the frontline trenches with a good chance to win again. Southworth has done one of his best jobs after almost a complete collapse last summer.

The Cubs and Frank Frisch looked to be sunk again at the start of the season. Frank had been away from the game for some time when he took over the Cubs. He couldn't help them much in 1949 but he has a different club working in 1950 and he will have a better club ready for 1951.

Then there is a young fellow by the name of Johnny Mize. Johnny was on the raw edge of falling over the precipice. He was rated all through. His own league let him go when the Yankees took a last stand. Then Georgia Johnny was sent to Kansas City. His big league days were over. But further Yankees injuries gave Johnny another chance. The famous hitter came back to life again, using a piece of ash for this purpose. In the Yankee drive recently with such stars as DiMaggio and Henrich out of action, it was Big John who resumed his old habit. He was the star hitter of the club through an important stretch.

Mize as a rule either hits a single or a home run. It has always been said that the batting eye is the last important factor to leave. First the arm or legs begin to give out. As Ty Cobb once said: "You get your first leg warning in starting. Once under way you can run practically as fast as ever. But you can't start as fast."

But with arms and legs fading away the batting eye retains its old-time glow. The good hitters keep on hitting long after the pitchers and fielders wear out. This has been one of the best of all the comeback seasons. There may be other athletes to report on before the first snow falls.

You Can't Buy Pennants

One of the major faculties in baseball's stability is the fact that no one can buy a pennant. Tom Yawkey has proved that.

The Red Sox owner has spent at least $5,000,000 in the last few years to get the best talent, but this talent has won only one pennant since 1918. That was in 1946 making it a little matter of 28 years between championships.

The wealthy Mr. Wrigley hasn't been able to buy a pennant for his Cubs since 1945. They have been settling for last place in 1948 and 1949 but should fare better this season.

The latest case is the Pirate's new ownership. They raised enough money to invest as much as $5,000,000 in new talent. They even turned loose $100,000 for an 18-year-old-high-school star who has yet to prove he is worth $18. The $5,000,000 at the end of three years has left the Pirates in a desperate struggle to finish out of the cellar.

The cellar is where they'll probably finish. In manager Meyers the Pirates have one of the smartest leaders in baseball. That didn't help either. It was certainly not Meyers' fault. It wasn't the owners' fault. They spent their cash lavishly. In 1948 it began to look as if the Pirate owners were going to buy a flag. They made a strong showing. They looked so good in 1948 that many picked them to finish 1-2 in 1949. The owners spent new money for 1949—but the Pirates took a dizzy dip. They spent more money for 1950—and took an even deeper slide.

No wonder owner Frank McKinney decided to bolt the scene. When you buy a pretty fair club and put $5,000,000 extra into it and drop from the first division to last place, it is about time to retire.

Which goes to prove you can't buy a pennant.

Mrs. Alma Kincaid, 2125 East Adelaide, St. Louis, Missouri, who was suffering from deficiencies of Vitamins B_1, B_2, Iron, and Niacin, has turned into a regular clock-watcher since she has been taking HADACOL. Yes, she keeps her eye on the clock all day long, just waiting for breakfast, dinner and supper time. Imagine how unbearable life can be without enjoying good, wholesome food.

Here is Mrs. Kincaid's statement: "I have been taking HADACOL for over a year. Before taking HADACOL, I had stomach distress for quite sometime. Imagine how awfully hard it is to live a normal life when you can't eat such delicious things as tomatoes, oranges, grapefruit, etc., or drink milk without getting horrible cramps and upsetting your stomach. One day I took my husband's advice and got some HADACOL. A good friend of his told him of the fine results he had gotten from HADACOL. And now, since I have been taking HADACOL, I can eat anything I want and really enjoy it. I have a wonderful appetite, too—thanks to HADACOL. Naturally I recommend HADACOL to all my friends."

Yes, HADACOL Is Truly Wonderful

in the way it has helped countless thousands of folks whose systems were deficient in Vitamins B_1, B_2, Iron, and Niacin. HADACOL can help you, too, if you will just give HADACOL a chance. If you suffer from stomach distress, nervousness, insomnia, constipation, aches and pains of neuritis, or a general run-down condition, caused by such deficiencies, let HADACOL help you as it has helped others all over the country. Even hundreds of doctors are now recommending HADACOL to their patients suffering from such deficiencies.

Give remarkable HADACOL a chance to benefit you. Remember, you have nothing to lose. HADACOL will make you feel great after the first few bottles you take, or your money will be refunded. Only $1.25 for Trial Size; Large Family or Hospital Size, $3.50.

If your druggist does not have HADACOL, order direct from The LeBlanc Corporation, Lafayette Louisiana. Send no money. Just your name and address on a penny post card. Pay postman. State whether you want the $3.50 hospital economy size or $1.25 trial size. Remember money cheerfully refunded unless you are 100% satisfied.—Adv.

Frosty Cold Foods Help Cheer Family During Hot Spell

"MOM, WHAT do you have that's really cold to eat," is the question that keeps Mother hopping during spells of hot weather. There's apparently nothing so lifting to spirits as something icy cold when the heat is at its highest.

Well, then, what do you have that's really cold? What about a chilling beverage that packs as much nourishment as it does eye and appetite appeal? Or, how about a cooling dessert like ice cream or a chilled chiffon pie that you can make while the morning is still cool?

Smart mothers will keep the fixings for cooling beverages right at hand where the family can reach them.

When you want something deliciously different in beverages, try some of these nourishing, chilled drinks. Several contain milk in form or another, just in case the milk is difficult to get into the young folk in its pure form.

4 large, ripe bananas
1 quart milk
⅓ to ½ cup chocolate syrup
Ice

Press bananas through a sieve, then add milk and chocolate syrup. Add ice and shake or mix thoroughly.

Ginger Lime Rickey
(Serves 6)
1½ cups lime juice

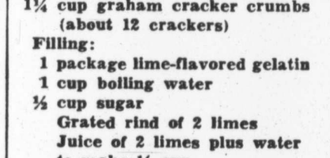

Nothing's cooler or easier to make when the temperature's soaring than a refreshing lime beverage. You may like a simple limeade of sugar, water and juice, with lime wedges and ice cubes, or you may prefer ginger ale with limeade for something different.

LYNN SAYS:
Try These Flavor Catching Ways with your Foods

For biscuits that are a quick treat, make a drop biscuit dough, and stir in it 2 teaspoons sugar and 1 teaspoon grated orange rind.

Provide dressings to serve with cold meat platters to make them more interesting. You can start with mayonnaise, and then use it as a base with any of the following: chopped, hard-cooked eggs, chives, green stuffed olives and horseradish.

½ cup sugar
1 quart ginger ale
Lime Wedges
Ice

Combine sugar and lime juice. Shake with ice until very cold and frosty. Add ginger ale and mix well. Serve with floating lime wedges.

Lime Chiffon Pie
(Makes 1 9-inch pie)

Crust:
5 tablespoons melted butter
1¼ cup graham cracker crumbs (about 12 crackers)
Filling:
1 package lime-flavored gelatin
1 cup boiling water
½ cup sugar
Grated rind of 2 limes
Juice of 2 limes plus water to make ½ cup
1 tall can exaporated milk

Mix butter and crumbs thoroughly. Press evenly over bottom and sides of 9-inch pie plate to form crumb shell. Chill.

To make filling, dissolve gelatin in boiling water. Add sugar, grated rind and lime juice. Chill gelatin mixture until it has the consistency of unbeaten egg white. Whip chilled milk until stiff. Fold whipped milk into gelatin mixture quickly but thoroughly. Pour into crumb shell and chill until set, about 2 or 3 hours.

Ice Cream with Grape Sauce
(Serves 6)

1 cup sugar
¼ cup water
1 tablespoon lemon juice
1 tablespoon grated lemon rind
2 cups white seedless grapes
1 quart vanilla ice cream

Make a syrup of sugar and water, cooking until mixture spins a thread, about 5 minutes. Add lemon juice, grated rind and stemmed grapes which have been washed and dried. Cook together over low heat until grapes are tender. Remove grapes and cook until syrup is medium thick, from 3 to 5 minutes longer. Add grapes and cool. Pile ice cream on plate and pass with sauce.

Peach Refrigerator Cake
(Serves 6-8)

1 cup canned cling peach halves
2 teaspoons plain gelatin
2 tablespoons cold water
¼ cup hot water
1 cup whipping cream
¼ cup sifted confectioner's sugar
1 teaspoon vanilla extract
1 8-inch loaf cake
1 pint vanilla ice cream
Peaches and maraschino cherries for garnish

Drain peaches and press through sieve. Soften gelatin in cold water and dissolve in hot water. Stir into peaches. Chill until slightly thickened. Whip cream; add sugar and vanilla. Fold in peach mixture. Cut cake into 2 layers and put together with ice cream. Spear top and sides with whipped peach mixture. Place in freezing compartment until frosting has set. Garnish with quartered peaches and cherries.

Here's a half an hour casserole for quick dinners: layer sliced, canned tongue in a casserole with thinly sliced potatoes. Pour a can of onion soup over all and bake in a moderate oven for about 30 minutes.

Make these interesting stirrers for iced tea: use canned or fresh pineapple spears, and skewer a maraschino cherry on top of each with a toothpick. It's not only pretty, but it gives the tea a lovely flavor.

SCRIPTURE: Luke 1:46-55; 2:17-19, 40-52; Mark 3:31-35; John 2:1-12; 19:25-27; Acts 1:13, 14.
DEVOTIONAL READING: Luke 2:28-35.

Blessed Woman

Lesson for August 27, 1950

A PROTESTANT Christian is essentially a Bible Christian. Among other things, this means he will form his ideas about Bible characters from the Bible itself and not from books about the Bible, not from legends long afterwards invented.

Dr. Foreman

Some Protestants seem not to realize that even a reverent book like "The Greatest Story Ever Told" is as much fiction as it is fact. Yet Protestant Christians are sometimes inclined to go to the opposite extreme. In reacting against the tall tales, they overlook the facts.

If some Christians overdo reverence for Mary, offering prayers and incense before her statues and even going to the point of saying we cannot come to Jesus except through Mary—an idea totally false to the Christian gospel—other Christians make the mistake of neglecting her memory altogether.

Surely we ought not to forget or under-rate the woman who of all the women in the world was chosen of God to be the mother of our Lord Jesus Christ.

God Knew Her Heart

NAZARETH was a small village with no good reputation. Yet it was in that town that Mary grew to womanhood. Man looks on outward appearances, but God looks on the heart.

You might have not selected Mary for the mother of Jesus, or to put it in another way, you would hardly have expected Mary's child to be the person Jesus became. She was very young, for girls were engaged early in that climate and country—perhaps no more than sixteen. She could have had no great education. She was poor, as the whole story shows.

Yet it was not for her education or her social standing or her experience or any such thing, but because of her heart, her character, herself, that the angel came to her that spring day in Nazareth.

Mary's Song

THERE IS no room to tell all that can be known of Mary from the Gospels. We can know or guess much from that one song, the "Magnificat" as it is called from its first word in the Latin translation. (Luke 1:46-55.)

We can tell from this that she was a woman who knew her Bible, Moffatt's translation of the New Testament uses italic type to indicate quotations from the Old Testament; and in this Song of Mary, of its sixteen lines all but two are printed in italics.

Words and phrases came to her in the familiar cadences of the book she knew and loved. Further, she was of a poetic turn of mind. This "Magnificat" has been set to music and sung in churches all over the world. Since Mary was herself a poet, it is not surprising to find that Jesus often spoke in words which sing with the beauty and rhythm of fine poetry.

Patriotism and the Poor

MARY WAS A woman who loved her country. We are so familiar with the "Magnificat" as a church anthem that we overlook it actually and originally was; a hymn of praise to God for his mercies to Mary's nation, Israel.

Her people, so long enslaved, were to be set free. It is a revolutionary hymn, too. Princes are to be dethroned, the proud cast down, the rich made empty; but God will give his help to the hungry and the poor.

Mary and Jesus

LOVE OF HER Bible, love of beauty, love of her country; and most of all, love of God. You could guess this from the words of the angel, but you can see it plainly in this song. It is an outpouring of joy and thankfulness to a God who is very real and near and loved.

Every mother lives again in her sons; in Jesus we can see the manner of woman Mary must have been. When the boy Jesus called God his Father, who had taught him that word? When the young man Jesus fought off temptation by using the Word of God, who had first guided him to do this? Where had Jesus learned Scripture except under his mother's roof?

MANY NEVER SUSPECT CAUSE OF BACKACHES

As we get older, stress and strain, overexertion, excessive smoking or exposure to cold sometimes slows down kidney function. This may lead many folks to complain of nagging backache, loss of pep and energy, headaches and dizziness. If your discomforts are due to these causes, don't wait, try Doan's Pills, a mild diuretic. Used successfully by millions for over 50 years. While these symptoms may often otherwise occur, it's amazing how many times Doan's give happy relief—help the 15 miles of kidney tubes and filters flush out waste. Get Doan's Pills today!

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

Q I applied for disability compensation for pulmonary tuberculosis, and my claim was turned down by VA. I think I am now eligible under the new law increasing the "presumptive period" for tuberculosis to three years after discharge. Must I submit another application?

A No. VA will review automatically the case records of all world war II veterans whose applications for compensation based on alleged service-connected pulmonary tuberculosis have been rejected.

Q If I get a GI home loan, how much of a down payment am I required to make, under VA's new ruling to conserve essential material and labor?

A In the case of automatic loans made by supervised lenders, you must pay all closing costs in cash. In the case of other loans requiring prior VA approval, you will be required to make a cash down payment of an amount equal to at least five per cent of the purchase price or construction cost.

Q My son is a war veteran and a patient in a State hospital. Am I required to pay for his board, or should it be paid by VA.

A VA may not assume maintenance unless hospitalization is indicated for treatment of a service-connected disability, and the VA determines a bed is not available in a VA facility. Payment may be made by VA only from the time care is authorized.

COUNTY FIRE TRUCK READY FOR CALLS

Butsie Hall, Fire Chief, announced this week that the fire truck to be used in the county is now equipped and ready to make calls when needed. He urges that any time you have a fire on your farm that is about to get out of control call the Loraine telephone office immediately and the truck will be there soon.

Mrs. Jim Johnson returned Tuesday from a visit with her daughter and family at Denison.

IT'S TIME for BROOKS! Because...

Something must be done now about the runaway cost of our state government—a cost which has increased more than 500 percent in the period between 1935 and 1950. Aside from the cost of World War II, the cost of the Federal government did not increase that much during the same period.

With the State plunging wildly towards a financial crisis, the Lt. Governorship is a business rather than a political office. It needs a business man with a business viewpoint.

Only by the election of a business man can the people of Texas be assured of a direct and vigorous attack on this runaway cost, useless waste, and needless extravagance in our State government.

Only a business man who has not been a part of the system which spawned this era of waste and extravagance can give the problem that searching inquiry and impartial analysis needed now. Pierce Brooks is that man.

The next Lt. Governor of Texas should be above any internal friction, beyond all cross currents of politics, and completely judicial when clashes of personalities arise among members of the Senate. He must be in a position to treat them all alike, to be fair to each, and also to be true to his obligations to the people. Pierce Brooks meets these tests.

Pierce Brooks is the only candidate completely free from the entangling alliances, political obligations, cliques, clans and groups which grow up when men stay in office too long.

The Lt. Governor to be elected in 1950 should not come from the confused atmosphere of the State government, but direct from the people with a program for the people. Pierce Brooks is such a man.

In these crucial times the next Lieutenant Governor should be answerable to the people of the State and not to any group of special interests that has made millions of dollars off the taxpayers.

TEXAS FREEDOM CHIEF

Lieut. General Preston A. Weatherred, Dallas, prominent attorney of the Southwest and retired former commander of the 36th Infantry Division, Texas National Guard, has been appointed Texas State Chairman of the Crusade For Freedom by General Lucius D. Clay, national chairman of the movement.

General Weatherred said that he was pleased to take the post of directing the Texas program for the Crusade For Freedom, which will include an intensive nation-wide, six weeks campaign in September and October. Plans are being made now for a strong Texas executive committee to lead the campaign in every section of the state.

Designed to halt communism and to save freedom, the movement will enroll millions of Americans on "Freedom Scrolls," to be permanently enshrined in the base of a 10-ton, 8-foot high "Freedom Bell" to be erected in Berlin next October. It also will support a vigorous and continuous series of radio programs to pierce the Iron Curtain of Communistic Russia and its satellite countries.

General Dwight D. Eisenhower and General Clay, who was American Military Governor of Germany during the Berlin airlift, together with a group of outstanding business, professional and civic leaders of the nation, are heading the National Committee For A Free Europe, the organization sponsoring the Crusade.

Business Leader With Great War Record Tells How Hadacol Has Rebuilt Him Physically

Was run-down, weak, after service in South Pacific due to deficiencies of Vitamins B_1, B_2, Iron and Niacin

Mr. Donald Hedburg, who resides at 1812 Parker in the fashionable Riverside District of Wichita, Kansas, has been an up-and-coming executive member of the staff of the great Wichita Eagle newspaper for over four years.

Mr. Hedburg has an enviable record of combat with the U. S. Army in the South Pacific in World War II. He is very active in civic affairs. And just as he was anxious to pitch in and do a job during the war—he now wants to help his fellow citizens who (like he was once), are physically run-down and weak due to lack of Vitamins B_1, B_2, Iron, and Niacin in their systems.

Here is Donald W. Hedburg's witnessed statement: "When I returned from service, I faced the problem of rebuilding myself physically. I was in a general run-down condition.

"In my present capacity of advertising salesman for Kansas' greatest newspaper, The Wichita Eagle, it's absolutely necessary that I have plenty of vitality—'get up and go.' I had real cause to worry. Nothing seemed to rebuild me constitutionally. Then a friend of mine on the national staff told me about HADACOL—he asked me to try at least five bottles. I'm on my fourth bottle and already I feel like my old self. I look forward to a day's work and go home—play with the children—work in the yard—fish until midnight! Thanks again to HADACOL, energy and vitality once again course through every fiber of my body. You bet, I too, am now a missionary for this great new HADACOL."

Get That Wonderful HADACOL Feeling Everyone is Talking About

HADACOL gives such wonderful results because it not only supplies deficient, weak run-down systems with more than their daily needs of important Vitamins B_1, B_2, Iron, and Niacin—but also helpful amounts of precious Calcium, Phosphorus and Manganese — elements so vital to help maintain good health and physical fitness.

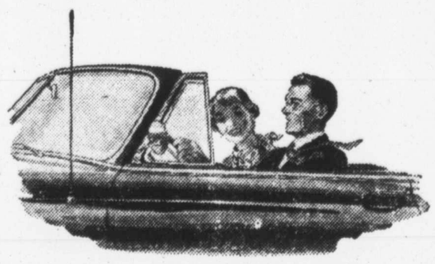

If you are a victim of neuritis pains, certain stomach and nervous disturbances, constipation, insomnia or a weak, run-down condition due to such deficiencies, HADACOL will start you on the road to feeling better often within a few days. Thousands upon thousands of records of grateful men, women and children proved this to be so.

Many Doctors Recommend It

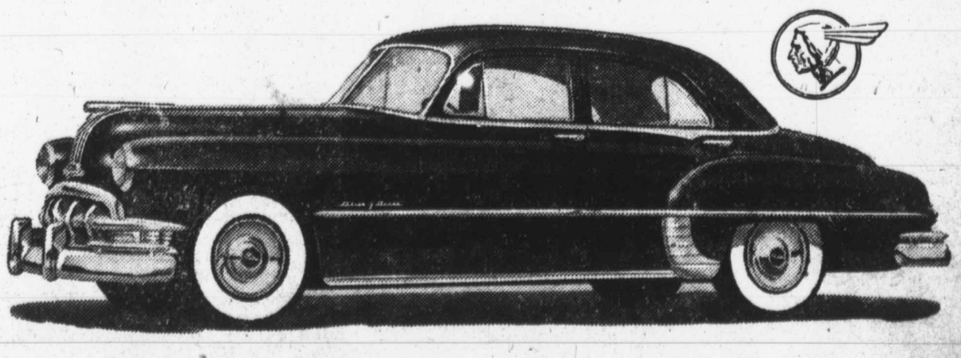

HADACOL is recommended by many doctors not only to their patients but to members of their own families who have such deficiencies. Before giving up hope—you owe it to yourself to at least give HADACOL a chance to help you. Why keep dragging yourself around feeling "half-alive" when it's so easy to have that wonderful HADACOL feeling that everyone is talking about! Trial-size bottle, only $1.25. Large family or hospital size, $3.50. Refuse substitutes.
