FAUST FILES FOR NEW TRIAL OF CONVICTION

Montague Jury Awards Him Five Years in Death of W. T. Reese

WILL QUIZ JURORS

Hearing For New Trial Set For Saturday Morning

Special to The Record News.

MONTAGUE, Feb. 11.—Motion for a new trial for W. C. Faust, sentenced Friday to five years in the penitentiary, by a jury in the Montague district court, for the alleged slaying of W. T. Reese, was filed Friday afternoon by the accused man's attorneys.

The defense attorneys also summoned all of the jurors in the case to be examined as the hearing which has been set for Saturday morning.

The verdict was announced at 11:45 Friday morning after the jury had deliberated 19 hours. The case was given to the jurors for deliberation at 3 p. m. Thursday afternoon. At nine p. m. Thursday the jury returned for the night and resumed consideration of a verdict Friday morning.

Faust was accused of attacking Reese on the night of Dec. 5 at a pumping plant in the Nacona oild field. Reese later died from injuries sustained.

The state contended that Faust attacked Reese because a woman had transferred her affections from Faust to Reese.

The defense argument was that Reese came to his death by falling between the spokes of a fly wheel at the pumping plant while under the influence of liquor.

Faust's trial started Tuesday morning. He was prosecuted by Renne Allred, county attorney, and True Strong, of Nocona.

FAMILY TROUBLE

One Teneha Man Dead, Another Surrenders

HAMBONE MEDITATION

Texas Senate Votes to Increase Governor's Pay to $10,000 Yearly

Proposed Salary Increase to Be Submitted As Amendment to Texas Constitution

By Universal Service.

AUSTIN, Feb. 11.—One of the main questions before the house today seemed to be whether the state penitentiary system is a political football or an administration white elephant. It was frequently referred to as a "football" and a "white elephant" in debate and several representatives seemed to agree that the penitentiary system was both.

Almost an entire day was taken by the house to determine whether it wanted to substitute the word "legislature" for the word "governor" in the penitentiary relocation bill, in the end it did, but not before every representative who had ambitions to become an orator took a fling at the amendment which, as adopted, gives the legislature, rather than the governor, final approval of any land to be purchased in accordance with the Lee Satterwhite plan.

To Help Factories.

A long stride towards the building of an industrial Texas was taken by the senate when it passed to engrossment the Price bill exempting cotton, mohair and woolen mills from taxation for a period of 15 years. The bill also provides for the exemption from taxation of farm products which are in the hands of the producer.

Sen. Tom B. Love, of Dallas, storm center of the senate, said the Price bill is the most important measure that has ever been introduced in the Texas senate.

While the Price bill was being passed on to engrossment, it was announced in the house that the five highway bills which had the house highway committee in a hopeless wrangle, were withdrawn from committee. The authors of the bills will confer with Gov. Dan Moody shortly in an effort to get one comprehensive bill. This bill will then be submitted to the first call session which is now certain to be assembled a few days after this present regular session adjourns.

A parting shot was taken by the house at F. A. Dale and H. H. Moore, who were expelled from the house on allegations of accepting a $1000 bribe to influence legislation, when house bill 270, introduced by Moore, was killed. This bill provided for a $50 tax on licenses issued to ortometrists and was the bill which Moore and Dale were found guilty of agreeing to kill in committee for $1000.

The senate wound up a busy day with the passing to engrossment of a bill providing for a vote on a constitutional convention in August and the passing of a constitutional amendment which would raise the governor's salary to $10,000.

Price Warns Solons

It was decided that the legislature has the right to fix the salaries of other state officials without a constitutional amendment, but Senator Lloyd E. Price of Texarkana, objected to leaving the fixing of the governor's salary to the legislature.

"It would be dangerous," he declared. "A governor could almost force the legislature to raise his salary every time it meets."

Pastor Sues Church

The Rev. Charles B. Way threatens to put Methodist church building in Shelby, N. C., on auction block unless $328 back salary is paid. He holds a sale order upheld by the state supreme court, which established a precedent in ruling that a religious edifice may be sold to settle debts.

UNITED STATES SENATE VOTES FARM AID BILL

McNary-Haugen Relief Plan Adopted By Vote of 47 To 39

HOUSE FAVORS BILL

Favorable Action By Lower Body Expected In Quick Order

WASHINGTON, Feb. 11.(AP)—Reversing itself in less than eight months, the senate passed the McNary-Haugen farm relief bill late today, 47 to 39.

This measure will be transmitted to the house tomorrow and efforts will be made there to substitute it for the companion measure pending since last Wednesday. A final house vote is expected Tuesday or Wednesday.

Unless the senate bill, which was loaded with last-minute amendments, is approved by the house without change, the legislation must go to conference and then run the gauntlet to the legislative jam in the last few days of the session.

House Favors It

Favorable action in the house is anticipated by both proponents and opponents, but there is uncertainty as to the attitude of President Coolidge. Should he exercise his veto power, the legislation would be dead for this session.

AUSTIN, Feb. 11.(AP)—The house of representatives today defeated an attempt to rescind and give to Gene Tunney an invitation extended Wednesday to Gov. Al Smith of New York to address the 40th legislature.

A resolution by Representatives Kinnear, Reagan, Smith and Harding related that "whereas" Governor Smith had referred the Texas invitation to the New York Boxing commission, according to a news story, they believed Tunney should be invited to speak instead of Al.

Representative Finley moved to refer the resolution to the committee on penitentiaries.

MOODY HEARS COURT NEEDS

Wichita Falls Men Urge Appeals Court Bill

Special to The Record News.

AUSTIN, Feb. 11.—Governor Dan Moody today conferred for more than two hours with a delegation of the bar and legislators representing the counties of the proposed twiefth court of civil appeals and heard their arguments in favor of his approving the measure to grant relief to the section.

Moody took the measure under consideration, after stressing numerous objections to create more courts now, and outlining proposed redistricting of existing courts to cover the situation. Members of the delegation were optimistic after the conference that Governor Moody will permit the measure to become a law, pending the reorganizating of the civil appeals courts.

The delegation from the district was headed by Judge R. E. Huff of Wichita Falls and included Orville Bullington, Judge A. H. Carrigan, J. V. Allred, C. B. Felder, P. B. Cox, E. C. Demefel, Burt King, all of Wichita Falls; Judge J. A. Wheat of Seymour, Judge W. N. Stockes of Vernon, W. E. Forgy of Archer City, Senator W. D. McFarlane of the Wichita district, Representative J. 64 Gallons Destroyed After "Morgan and His Men" Go Into Action

Declaring that he believed he had been "framed" by unknown enemies, R. C. Lawrence, city marshal of Iowa Park, in a statement to a Record News reporter Friday night, gave his version of the arrest of himself and J. L. Tipton, against whom charges of transportation and possession of whiskey have been filed.

Placed Under Arrest

They were arrested by Constable Frank Morgan and two of his deputies, and a quantity of alleged whiskey seized. Charges were also filed against Frank Handley, alleged to be owner of the car in which the liquor was found.

Lawrence removed a bandage from around his head to show the reporter a place where he claimed he had received a blow.

In the statement Lawrence denied that he knew of the alleged whiskey being in the automobile, and said that he did not see it even after he had been arrested.

WICHITA ROAD ASKS PERMIT

W. F. & S. Would Build Line To Union Station

WASHINGTON, Feb. 11. (AP) The Wichita Falls and Southern railroad sought permission today from the interstate commerce commission to extend its line three miles from Maple switch to the Wichita union station. All of the new lines will be within the city of Wichita Falls and was declared to be necessary to let the road reach the terminal.

TRAINS NOW COME IN OVER VALLEY TRACK

Although the Wichita Falls and Southern railroad filed Friday an application to extend its line from Maple switch to the Wichita union station the trains of the railroad will still continue to enter Wichita Falls over the Wichita Valley tracks, Frank Kell, president of the Southern, said Friday.

The application filed with the commission is merely a formality needed to ratify an agreement made Jan. 1, 1926, between the Wichita Falls and Southern and the Wichita Valley.

Four months ago, according to Kell, the officials of both railroads discovered the fact that a petition had to be filed with the interstate commerce commission to make the agreement effective.

The Wichita Falls and Southern has used the tracks of the Wichita Valley since 1907. The agreement between the two companies expired in 1925 and the Southern anticipating the necessity of having to build tracks acquired a right of way from the switch to the Wichita Falls station. However, a new agreement was consumated between the two companies which became effective Jan. 1.

Plains Paving Company Here Has Contract to Put On Hard Surface

AUSTIN, Feb. 11. (AP)—Suspension of work by state forces on highways in Montague and Wise counties, authorized by the retired Ferguson highway commission and questioned in a recent house resolution, has been ordered, it was learned today.

The work is on 24.5 miles of highways two and fifty, and involved the expenditure of about $350,000, the base to be prepared by state forces and the asphaltic surfacing to be placed by the Plains Paving company of Wichita Falls.

Early in the session of the legislature, a resolution calling for investigation of the action of the Ferguson commission in letting the contracts was introduced by Representative Tillotson of Sealy and others, but was later withdrawn.

The attorney general's department started an investigation before the legislature met on the claim the highway commissioner had promised, through former Commissioner George P. Robertson of Meridian, that if would let contracts totaling only about $42,000.

Robertson's alleged promise, attorney general's department officials claimed, was the basic reason for the dismissal of an injunction against the commission, brought by former Attorney General Dan Moody.

Moody's suit would have prevented the expenditure of additional money by the Eugene T. Smith-George P. Robertson-Scott Woodward commission.

The house resolution concerning the contracts alleged they were let without proper attempts to secure federal aid.

Houston Pastor Disappears From Ken After Giving $10,000 Check to Church

By Universal Service.

HOUSTON, Feb. 11.—Rev. F. E. Clark, 66, bachelor Baptist preacher here who claims he recently inherited $800,000 under the will of William Bassett, New York banker, has disappeared.

Monday he left the home of Henry Pesnell where he lived saying he was going to Sugarland to perform a marriage ceremony and would be back for a church supper that night. The supper was in celebration of the giving of a $10,000 check to the church by Clark.

No trace of Clark can be found in Sugarland and a disappointed host of friends await him here. Mrs. Pesnell, with whom he boarded, was the most disappointed when the minister failed to return. She said the Rev. Clark had promised her and her husband a new brick home and a big car.

When Clark announced his inheritance he said the fortune came to him for an act of heroism 20 years ago when he rescued two granddaughters of Bassett from drowning.

Clark, who said he was a globe trotter and a pugilist before entering the ministry, also says he once fought John L. Sullivan in Astoria and knocked him down before being put away himself.

Mayor Shep Discards Gavel For Hammer to Help Build Tabernacle

In grandfather's day, when a building was about to be erected for a place of worship, members of the congregation brought hammer and saw and built it themselves.

That is exactly what members of the building committee for the Union revival services, to be conducted here in March, expect to do and they are asking for volunteer laborers, according to an announcement Friday.

Among the workmen who have already volunteered to help on the construction of the tabernacle at the corner of Harrison and Eleventh street, is Mayor R. E. Shepherd, who has consented to roll up his sleeves, discard the dignity of his office, and "do his bit" on Tuesday afternoon.

Volunteers have been asked to bring tools and report at the lot at 8 o'clock Monday morning.

WICHITA GIRL TIPS OFFICERS

Miss Carey Causes Search For Missing Man

Miss Ruth Cary, who supplied police with information concerning the disappearance of Howard P. Hunter, 37, wealthy railroad man, somewhere between Los Angeles, Calif., and Dallas, was formerly a resident of this city.

She moved to Wichita Falls about two years ago from Coffeyville, Kan., her home, according to friends, and for many months operated a public stenographer's office in the lobby of the Kemp hotel. About four months ago she sold this and established an office in the lobby of the Holt, which she maintained until about two months ago.

Miss Cary, who is about 30 years of age, was "quiet and refined," and "possessed a great deal of business ability," her friends said. She was a local representative for a large real estate concern dealing in Rio Grande valley lands, it is said.

Hunter was also known to have visited Wichita Falls a number of times in the past. Friends of Miss Cary reported Friday night that they could learn nothing of Hunter's disappearance.

COURT ORDERS LIQUOR DESTROYED BY OFFICERS

By an order of Judge P. A. Martin of the 89th district court, 64 gallons of whiskey, seized early Friday morning on the Iowa Park road by Constable Frank Morgan and two of his deputies, were destroyed Friday.

Three men, one of whom is said to be the city marshal of Iowa Park, have been charged with transportation of whiskey and possession of whiskey for sale.

Complaints Filed

The complaints against T. L. Tipton, Frank Handley, and R. C. Lawrence, the latter an Iowa Park peace officer, were filed Friday morning before Assistant District Attorney E. F. Pruechte. Lawrence and Tipton waived preliminary hearings before Justice of the Peace R. V. Guinn and their bonds were set at $1500 and $1000, respectively, while Handley's bond was set at $1500 by Justice of the Peace O. L. Gibbs. All three were released from custody.

The whiskey, contained in 129 one-half gallon jars, was found in a Buick sedan about six miles from Wichita Falls on the Iowa Park-Wichita Falls highway. According to Constable Morgan, he had stationed himself and his men near the roadside shortly after midnight, upon the tip that a heavily laden automobile would soon appear.

The officers waited for approximately an hour, he said, before an automobile came in the direction of Iowa Park and stopped near where they were hiding. Morgan stepped out and covered the two men with revolvers, commanding a search of the car in which the whiskey was found.

Handley, alleged owner of the automobile, was arrested later in the morning at his home in Iowa Park.

Constable Morgan declared Friday that he had been working on the case for several weeks in response to complaints by citizens of Iowa Park.

Wales Pleased Over Club's Work In Science World

LONDON, Feb. 11. (AP)—The Prince of Wales is quite proud of his year's service as president of the British Association for the Advancement of Science. At a banquet speech he set forth that he had been worried over fear that he would be a failure till the trans-Atlantic telephone started. Then he wound up with a grin: "That triumph gives the hallmark to my term of office."

Officers Work On Clue To Identify Girl's Headless Body Found in River

By Universal Service.

SOUTH BEND, Ind., Feb. 11.—A widespread search for Ernest Rogers, 39, caretaker at St. Mary's Academy, was ordered tonight by police in connection with the finding of the armless and headless girl floating in the St. Joe River.

Rogers' appearance in the gruesome death mystery came as a result of parallel discoveries in the police hunt for the slayer of the girl and the motive for the slaying.

Rogers, the police theory is, disappeared Dec. 20, the same time that Mrs. Alice Van Duson, young mother of three children at whose home Rogers was a boarder, also disappeared.

She is said to have left the house on that day with Rogers, after informing her children that she was going shopping for Christmas presents. Friends, knowing her, said she would never willingly have left the children, even for a short time.

PONZI LOSES OUT

By Universal Service.

HOUSTON, Feb. 11.—Charles Ponzi, former financial wizard whose operations in international coupons wrecked three Boston banks, must return to Massachusetts and serve a sentence of from six to ten years he received on a charge of "being a common and notorious thief," when Judge J. G. Hutcheson refused to intercede in his behalf today.

MOODY STOPS STATE GIFTS

Halts Game Bureau Plan To Buy Magazines

AUSTIN, Feb. 11. (AP)—On the suggestion of Governor Dan Moody, subscriptions for the February number of the magazine "Game Lore," today were cancelled by Fred Morris, acting head of the state game, fish and oyster commission.

Governor Moody wrote a letter to Morris suggesting that action on the ground that the department was paying $1000 per year more for 2500 copies of the monthly than the price for which they can be obtained by private subscription.

H. Fred Smith, former employee of the game department, publishes the magazine in Fort Worth.

Morris' department, Moody contended, was paying 20 cents per copy, or the rate of $6000 per year and mailing the magazines to those interested, express prepaid. They could be mailed direct from Fort Worth at $5000 annually because the subscription price is $2 per year to the public, Moody claimed.

The letter ended with a statement from the governor that although he does not wish to be "put in the attitude of directing policies of each department, the asserted practice is one that no public official could justify."

Morris, though reluctant to discuss the matter, said it would have been impracticable to have subscribed annually to the publication since only certain numbers have been bought and distributed through a varying mailing list.

BISHOP DEFENDS FLAPPER

INDIANOLA, Ia., Feb. 11. (AP) A woman who in her day wore bangs or hoopskirts has no right to criticize youngsters of the present for short skirts or bobbed hair, in the opinion of Bishop Hughes, Methodist, Chicago.

DO WOMEN SUFFER MORE THAN MEN?

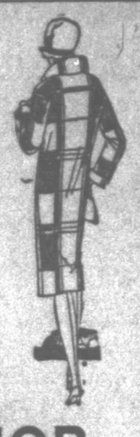

Physicians tell us that the nervous system of woman is more highly organized, more delicately poised, and, therefore more sensitive to disturbances than that of man. It may be added that her nerves are more susceptible to the influences that produce "nerve tension" (strain) which is only another name for "pain."

Women especially appreciate and profit by the use of Capudine, a pleasant tasting, quick acting liquid compound which relieves high nervous tension and pain by soothing instead of deadening the nerves. For nervous headache, lagrippe, neuralgia, rheumatic and periodical pains, attended by nerve strain, nothing is so quickly effective and satisfactory as Capudine. If a thorough course of Capudine does not give you permanent freedom from headaches, you may be sure that they are caused by some organic condition which should receive the attention of your oculist, dentist or family physician.

Physicians and druggists recommend Capudine as the safe, quick and dependable agent for relieving nervous pains and high nerve tension. Every home should be supplied with Capudine. Get a bottle today at your druggist's and if you do not like it far better than anything you have ever tried, the manufacturers will cheerfully refund the price upon request. Family size, 60 cents; individual, 30 cents, at all drug stores.—Adv.

AFTER THE "FLU" IS OVER —YOU NEED A TONIC

Help is Needed to Restore Your Wasted Strength and Energy

"Flu" leaves the body weakened and rundown. In such cases, a tonic is clearly indicated. Restore the appetite and rid yourself of that let-down feeling.

"Flu" is a very enervating disease. It leaves its victim so weak and debilitated that there is as much danger from the after-effects as from the disease itself. In other words, after an attack of the "flu," you need a selective tonic to rebuild the system so that you may have your old-time strength and energy restored.

S. S. S. is unequalled for restoring strength and vitality.

You owe it to yourself and family to give S. S. S. a trial. It helps Nature build up red blood corpuscles. It improves the processes by which the body is nourished. It is time-tried and reliable. S. S. S. is made from the roots of fresh herbs and plants, and is prepared in a scientific way in a modern laboratory.

S. S. S. is sold at all good drug stores in two sizes. The larger size is more economical.—Adv.

ARMS PARLEY PLAN POPULAR

Coolidge Proposal Accorded Welcome in Europe

WASHINGTON, Feb. 11. (AP) President Coolidge has every expectation of favorable consideration by the Washington naval treaty powers of his suggestion for a further extension of that treaty through a conference to be held at Geneva.

The expectation is based, it was said today at the White House, upon the reasonableness of the American proposal and the fact that it proposes only to apply further a formal navy limitation already worked out and accepted by the Washington treaty.

It was emphasized that President Coolidge does not know specifically what reply will be made by Great Britain, France, Italy and Japan.

He feels, however, that in as much as difficulty has been uncovered during the Geneva preparatory disarmanment conference as to which branch of armament should be first taken up in an effort to formulate a comprehensive plan for reduction of air, land or sea forces, the American suggestion to proceed with naval limitation under the Washington treaty formula affords an escape.

If that process should be followed and the delegations of the Washington treaty signatories to meeting at Geneva are successful in extending navy ratio agreements to cruisers, destroyers and submarines, President Coolidge feels that the disposition of this aspect of the armament problem would make it easier to deal with the other elements, particularly if naval armament were considered as having a direct relation to the land and air armament questions.

NAVY ENLARGEMENT TO HELP DISARMAMENT

By Universal Service.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 11.—Construction of three cruisers for the American navy will help rather than hinder the proposed naval disarmament conference at Geneva in the opinion of naval experts today.

This view was expressed frankly by Rear Admirals Hilary P. Jones and Andrew T. Long, American naval advisers to the preparatory disarmament conference, in testimony before the house naval affairs committee.

U. S. FAR BEHIND ITS RIVALS IN NAVY LIST

By Universal Service.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 11—America must build 83 ships of war at a cost of $508,000,000 to a reach a 5-5-3 ratio with Great Britain and Japan, Chairman Butler of Pennsylvania, of the house naval affairs committee, announced today.

"America has built and building 125,000 tons. If the 5-5-3 ratio is based upon America's ships England will have to scrap 205,000 tons of cruisers, and Japan, at the same ratio, will have to scrap 30,000 tons," he said.

Senate Votes Farmers Aid

sion since admittedly neither house could muster the two thirds majority necessary to pass it over.

As the voting began those in charge of the bill plainly showed nervousness over the final outcome, but a few roll calls on amendments removed whatever doubt there had been that the senate would overturn the 45 to 39 vote by which it defeated a similar measure on last June 24.

On the final ballot, nine senators reversed their positions of last year, with Robinson of Arkansas, the democratic leader; Broussard and Ransdell of Louisiana; Fletcher and Trammell of Florida; Sheppard of Texas, and Smith of South Carolina, all democrats, voting for the bill, and Heflin of Alabama, and Overman, of North Carolina, both democrats, voting against it.

How They Voted

Twenty-four republicans, 22 democrats and the one farmer-labor voted for the bill, while 22 republicans and 17 democrats voted against it.

The roll call follows:

For the bill: Republicans, Cameron, Capper, Curtis, Deneen, Frazier, Gooding, Gould, Harreld, Howell, Johnson, Jones of Washington, Lafollette, McMaster, McNary, Means, Norris, Nye, Oddie, Pine, Robinson of Indiana, Schall, Stanfield, Stewart and Watson—24.

Democrats: Ashurst, Bratton, Caraway, Copeland, Dill, Ferris, Fletcher, Hayes, Kendrick, McKellar, Mayfield, Neely, Pittman, Ransdell, Robinson of Arkansas, Sheppard, Simmons, Smith, Steck, Trammell, Tyson and Wheeler—22.

Farmer-labor: Shipstead—one

Total 47.

Against the bill:

Republicans: Bingham, Borah, Cousens, Dale, Ernest, Fess, Gillett, Goff, Green, Hale, Keyes, Lenroot, McLean, Metcalf, Pepper, Phipps, Reed of Pennsylvania, Sackett, Shortridge, Warren, Warren, Weller and Willis—22.

Democrats: Bayard, Blease, Bruce, Edwards, George, Gery, Glass, Harris, Harrison, Heflin, King, Overman, Reed of Missouri, Stephens, Underwood, Walsh of Massachusetts and Walsh of Montana—17.

Fee Feature Retained

The equalization fee provision, the most highly controverted of the whole bill, was retained, all efforts to defer its operation failing by overwhelming votes.

The first major assault was by Walsh, democrat, Montana, who wanted it deferred for two years as to all farm commodities affected by the bill, but his amendment was rejected, 52 to 35.

Reed, democrat, Missouri, then proposed to deferment of the fee for one year as to cotton, but his motion was voted down, 52 to 36. Harrison, democrat, Mississippi, then proposed its deferment for two years, and that went out, 69 to 17, democrats alone supporting the proposed amendment.

Amendments Voted

The senate adopted a series of amendments including one by McKellar, democrat, Tennessee, adding tobacco to the list of basic agricultural products on which the equalization fee would be levied. Other products which would be affected by the bill, wheat, corn, rice, cotton and hogs.

The Bledsoe insurance plan, offered by Senator Harrison was adopted, 54 to 33. Under this plan the federal farm board would be authorized to use a part of the $250,000,000 revolving fund proposed in the bill to insure producers against price declines by assessing a premium on any or all of the basic commodities. It is designed particularly, however, to protect cotton producers.

HERD OF CALVES

That's Family of Ohio Cow Delivered By Mr. Stork

YOUNGSTOWN, Ohio, Feb. 11. (AP)—George Seber, a farmer near here, went to his barn today and found his cow proudly guarding a wobbly calf. As he looked at the newcomer another stepped to its side.

Seber called his children to see the twins and left. A cry from the children brought him back to see a third calf that had been hidden in the straw. Then he investigated and found a fourth asleep in a corner of the stall.

GIRL, 20, LEADS AMAZON TROOP

Battalion of Women in Nicaraguan Army

MANAGUA, Nicaragua, Feb. 11. (AP)—A battalion of women, formed and led by a 20-year-old girl, assisted the conservative forces which recently recaptured the town of Chinandega, from the liberal troops, thus restoring communications between Corinto and Managua.

Sixteen of the women were wounded, some seriously while passing out ammunition to conservative soldiers in trenches, cleaning guns and passing food. Natalie Garcia of Managua, leader of the battalion, was shot through the left breast and is in a serious condition.

Chinandega presented a horrible picture when visited yesterday by a correspondent of the Associated Press, who traveled on one of the three troop trains which were sent to the town by the conservative government in order to consolidate its position there.

Three squares, chiefly in the business section, were flattened and smoke was still rising from the ruins. Bullet holes were in most every house and shell fragments were scattered throughout the streets.

Dozens of dead were piled here and there. Buzzards hovered overhead, the water supply was still cut off and that available was unhealthful. Virtually no food and no medicine remained in the town except what was hurried from Managua and Corinto.

A few liberals, barricaded in their homes, kept up a desultory fire and shooting from the outskirts of the town continued at night. Ninety families were without homes.

The conservative commander estimated that the conservatives lost 250 and the liberals 175 men.

Clara Bow, recently featured in flapper roles, blossoms forth as a full-fledged star in Elinor Glyn's latest love story, "IT," which comes to the Majestic Saturday for a five-day run. Recently featured in "The Plastic Age," and "Mantrap," Miss Bow was chosen from over 200 girls to play the lead in "IT." She was selected by Miss Glyn for several reasons, she has personality, personal magnetism, and obviously she has "IT." Miss Bow is cast as a shop girl who intrigues all with that invisible emanation said to be possessed by certain human beings, an attractiveness which makes them irresistible to all with whom they come in contact, defined as "IT." With the aid of this strange power, which Elinor Glyn has aptly defined in a two-letter word, (claimed to be the shortest title to be conceived for photoplay or book,) Miss Bow, as the heroine, eventually achieves the great romance. Supporting Miss Bow, the cast includes Antonio Moreno, William Austin, Priscilla Bonner and Julia Swayne Gordon. This picture was directed by Clarence Badger, who recently wielded the megaphone for Bebe Daniels in "The Campus Flirt."

WORKER NEEDS HEARTY MENU

Meals May Be Varied to Suit Appetite

The menu following is a hearty one for people who work. If the cream soup is considered too filling and spoils the appetite for the rest of the meal a lighter soup or fruit may be substituted. A salad is sometimes served first as an appetizer instead of with the dinner.

Cream of Celery Soup
Roast Veal Brown Gravy
Mashed Potatoes
Candied Sweet Potatoes
Cole Slaw Banana Pudding
Dates Tea Milk

TODAY'S RECIPES

Candied Sweet Potatoes—Boil in salted water one quart sweet potatoes until tender; drain, and scrape off skins. Cut in pieces and lay in shallow greased baking dish; brush with melted butter, sprinkle with one-half cup brown sugar, add two tablespoons butter. Bake in hot oven until well browned.

Banana Pudding—Take one dozen ladyfingers, six bananas, two cups whipped cream, one-fourth cup powdered sugar, one-half teaspoon vanilla. Cover the bottom of dish with a layer of sliced bananas, over this a layer of whipped cream into which has been put the sugar and vanila. Repeat until all are used. Serve cold.

SUGGESTIONS

Savory Herbs

Dry parsley and celery leaves in equal parts on top of the oven. Dried in this manner they retain their color and flavor and can be powdered. Put it in small glass jars for winter use. It is fine in soups, dressing and meat and handy to use.

Prune Salad

Take the stones out of large cooked prunes (allow four to each person to be served). Fill with a mixture of creamed cheese and chopped nuts. Arrange on crisp lettuce leaf and cover with salad dressing. Another combination is to use sections of grape fruit and oranges on lettuce with two prunes, stuffed as above or merely with nuts, at either side of the plate.

Lady Lauder's (Wife of Sir Harry Lauder) Scotch Scone

One pound of well sifted flour, one teaspoonful of baking soda, one teaspoonful of cream of tartar, pinch of salt, one teaspoonful of fine sugar.

Mix all dry ingredients together thoroughly, then sufficient buttermilk to make a nice medium dough.

Turn on a flour board and knead as gently as possible with the tips of the fingers. Roll out quickly until one-quarter inch thick. Cut into four, bake on a hot griddle or plate. Turn over on both sides.

QUEENLY DIGNITY

Noted For Their Poise Are Women Of Asia

SAIGON, French Indo-China, Feb. 11. (AP)—The tallest, slimmest and most stately Asiatic women observable by a traveler in the Far East, are to be found in this beautiful city of wide streets and semi-tropical verdure.

Dressed in the simple, black, tight-fitting native costume with bodice covering the neck and shoulders, long sleeves and with skirt nearly to the ankles, these women are notable for the erectness of their carriage and their free and easy stride in walking, in striking contrast with the lack of grace in others of the Asiatic peoples.

The arms are carried straight from the shoulder and swung slightly free of the hips, and together with the proud carriage of the head, gives an uncommon air of hauthtiness and self confidence.

Place any amount of left over grated or crushed Hawaiian pineapple in a small dish and keep it in the ice box to use as a piquant touch to desserts or salads to be made the following day. For filling the center of apples to be baked after the core has been removed, nothing is more delicious than pineapple.

The left over pineapple also makes a delicious sauce for pudding or ice cream if heated with a little additional sugar and thickened with the required amount of flour or corn starch.

BALDNESS SAVES HIM

DES MOINES, Iowa.—Elmer Smith's baldness probably saved him from fatal burns. While starting a fire with kerosene in the Smith home at Atlantic, the flame leaped into his face, scorching his eyebrows, but died away as it reached the top of his head, which is devoid of hair. He received only minor burns.

REVERSING THE COMPLAINT

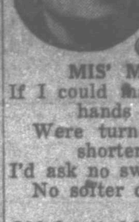

CHICAGO.—When Mrs. Lillian Morrow Schloss requested alimony from her husband, Lewis T. Schloss, who has an income of only $300 a year, Judge Joseph Sabath, exclaimed: "Why the law ought to compel a wife to pay alimony to her husband in such a case."

Heroines Still at It

A group of 15 American girls, nurses and orphanage workers in the Armenian earthquake belt have been carrying on relief work bravely and efficiently for the past months despite the recurrent tremors which for a while averaged five shocks a day. Letters received in New York indicate these girls have been the heroines of the work in the stricken area, having organized casualty clearing stations in 30 villages, established feeding centers for babies and marshalled the men and boys into groups for repairing homes and preparing improvised shelters.

Women In Decorative Art

The fact that Mrs. Ellen Dunlap Hopkins believed strongly that every woman should find her talent and develop it, led to the founding of the School of Applied Design in New York City which in its 31 years of existence has fitted over 20,000 women for all branches of interior decorating and poster work. It is the only school specializing in equipping women to meet the demands of industrial art.

SONGS of a HOUSEWIFE

By Marjorie K. Rawlings

MIS' MEEKIN'S DUMPLINS

If I could make such dumplings—if my hands
Were turned like hers to flour and shortening,
I'd ask no sweeter kitchen symphony,
No subtler culinary song to sing.

Old, knotted hands, Mis' Meekin's; seamed and dry,
And rough and clean as tree-bark scrubbed by rain;
But light as doves' wings when she rolls the dough,
And pats and turns and rolls it out again.

Weary Mis' Meekin; and her hair is gray.
A little tired, a little sharp, her tongue.
But when folks eat her dumplings like men starved,
She smiles a little—and her face is young.

And when she knocks on Heaven's outer door,
A covered kettle in her fingers thin,
Angels will sniff the air and crowd the gate.
"Mis' Meekin—and her dumplings? Come right in!"

THE WATER QUESTION

"SWIM FOR WHAT SHORE?"

People used to swim for the shore; now they swim for $25,000. After all, even a swimmer has to have bread with his water.

A lot of those who "take in" the ocean, take it into their lungs. The old-fashioned swimming party has developed into a round-the-world cruise.

The morning-after swim lasts until the morning after that. It's gotten so that a boy's best friend is his pulmotor.

When it comes to evolution it looks as though we were all turning into a fish. The man who starts out for a swim is going to be away so long that he sends his bathing trunks on ahead.

The only thing worse than being a sailor's sweetheart is being a swimmer's wife. The bathroom floor is always covered with sand!

The English channel has started a lot of things besides seasickness. This country may be dry but only the swimmers take the water question seriously.

The only place left to swim across is the Atlantic and most people seem to di that very successfully on liners. If a man wants to miss his wife he simply swims under water. He holds his breath without holding her hand!

Some people have to learn to swim and others fall out of canoes! The time is coming when nobody will walk; even the bathing suits run!

The drinking song seems to have turned into a gargle. The high rent question might be solved by by houseboats. Whenever you tired of the location you could simply "dock" 'em!

The statisticians are all at sea since the best of figures are in the ocean. The reformers have to go five miles out to put their taboo on the bathing suits. It takes a high diver to get to the bottom of things.

No man goes out to make a record swim without taking his cheering section and jazz band. A good swimmer comes back for an encore.

Some people are taking all their meals in mid-ocean, but it's hard for those who don't like salt on their food. It did seem as though Americans were never going to have any use for water!

With everyone going to Europe on water wings, it seems as though the boats were going to lose a large amount of business. When a girl says, "Mother, may I go out to swim?" the answer is, "Yes, but don't tip the bell buoys." And it's useless to tell her to hang clothes on any limb, hickory or otherwise!

MAKING MODERN MENUS

Cinnamon gems and nut muffins are two variations of favorite hot breads which may be served either at breakfast or at tea time. Often, instead of expending the time which is necessary to make sandwiches, it is far simpler to give your tea-time guests hot bread.

Cinnamon Gems.

Cream one-third of a cup of butter, add one-third cup of sugar, and the well-beaten yolks of two eggs. Sift together two cups of flour, three teaspoons of baking powder, one-half teaspoon of salt and one-half teaspoon of cinnamon and two-thirds cup of currants. Add to the first mixture alternately with three-fourths cup of milk. Fold in the two beaten whites, beaten stiff, and turn into gem pans. Sprinkle cinnamon and sugar over the top of each gem and bake half an hour in a moderate oven. Makes a dozen and a half little gems.

Nut Muffins.

Sift two cups of flour, one-half cup of sugar, three teaspoons of baking powder, one-half teaspoon of salt. Sift several times, add two-thirds cup of raisins, two-thirds cup of walnut meats and stir thoroughly. Beat an egg, add one cup of milk and stir into the first mixture. Bake in a hot oven for 25 minutes in gem pans. Makes a dozen tiny gems.

Prune Delight.

Two dozen sweetened stewed prunes, one-half cup of walnut meats, one cup of heavy cream, one-half cup of shredded cocoanut, one-half cup of Maraschino cherries. Remove the stones from the prunes and fill the cavities with nuts. Place in tall sherbert glasses and pour two or three tablespoons of prune juice over each. Top each serving with whipped cream, sprinkle with cocoanut and garnish with cherries.

Tasty Tea Tidbits Aid Hostess In Pleasing Guests During Afternoon

Novel suggestions for the tea-time menu—perhaps an unusual, tasty tea cake, a new kind of sandwich or a different dessert—are, of course, always welcomed by the hostess wishing to surprise her tea guests and make the hour pleasant for them. However, new ideas for recipes are not known to be so numerous and easily available. Many is the time an old recipe has to be resorted to again and again.

Dainty, delicious tea cakes, such as Golden Tea Cakes or Brambles, are unusual and would help make any tea perfect. No guest could resist a golden tea cake covered with gleaming golden frosting, or a crisp bramble, a new kind of turnover. Sandwiches, of course, have always been an old standby at tea time. A new kind of fancy sandwich can be prepared by merely slicing the bread lengthwise instead of crosswise and spreading on the filler—perhaps sliced dates and chopped nuts or dates and cheese. The whole is then rolled lengthwise and cut into slices, each slice making a dainty party-sandwich, which is fluffy and different-looking from the ordinary sandwich.

GOLDEN TEA CAKES

2 1-2 cups pastry flour
4 teaspoons baking powder
1-2 cup candied grapefruit peel
3-4 cup butter or oleomargarine
1 1-4 cups sugar
3 egg yolks
1-2 teaspoon lemon extract
3-4 cup milk.

Add the baking powder to the flour and sift together twice. Cut the sliced peel into small pieces and mix through the flour with finger tips.

Cream the shortening; beat in the sugar gradually, then the egg yolks which have been beaten until light colored.

Beat the whole mixture two minutes.

Bake in small pans in a moderate oven (375 degrees F.) for 25 to 30 minutes. When cool cover with golden frosting and decorate with 1-2 cup sliced grapefruit peel.

GOLDEN FROSTING

1 egg yolk
2 tablespoons orange juice
1-8 teaspoon salt
2 1-2 cups confectioner's sugar
1-2 cup candied grapefruit peel.

Stir the egg yolks slightly, add orange juice, salt, and sugar gradually. Use grapefruit peel for garnish.

This recipe will make 24 cup cakes.

BRAMBLES

1 cup sliced dates
1-2 cup walnut meats
3 tablespoons orange juice
1 recipe plain pastry (2 cups flour).

Pit the dates, cut into five or six lengthwise slices, measure. Break the walnut meats into pieces; add to dates together with orange juice.

Roll the pastry to a thickness of one-eighth inch. Cut into rounds. Moisten the edges of each circle with cold water. Place a teaspoonful of the filling on one-half of each round. Fold over the other half, pressing the edges together firmly. Place on a baking sheet or shallow pan. Brush with a glaze, or egg yolk and milk (1 egg and 3 tablespoons milk).

Bake in a hot oven (475 degrees F.) for about 15 minutes.

This recipe will make about two dozen small turnovers.

Rolled Party Sandwiches

The slices of bread are cut lengthwise instead of crosswise. The filling is added and the whole piece carefully rolled and cut through (just like a jelly roll) into a number of dainty unusual sandwiches.

Suggested filling: shredded cocoanut, chopped dates and cream cheese for graham bread; pimento cheese mixed with dates (half and half) seasoned with salt, paprika and a few drops of lemon juice, or pimento filled olives and dates on white bread.

FOR INVALID

Pineapple Egg-Nog Tempting and Nourishing Drink.

Hawaiian pineapple egg-nog is a delightful drink to tempt as well as nourish the invalid. To make it, beat the yolk of one egg slightly and add one-eighth teaspoon of salt, one half teaspoon powdered sugar and one-half a cup of syrup drained from a can of Hawaiian pineapple. Fold in one-half of the egg white, stiffly beaten, and when well mixed pour into a glass. Heap remainder of egg white on top and sprinkle with nutmeg. This drink can also be made hot by heating the pineapple juice.

Because pineapple contains bromelin which acts as a powerful aid to digestion, this drink is extremely beneficial besides being tempting and dainty.

PRINCESS BOBS

Bows to Shingle Again As Servant To Style

LONDON, Feb. 11. (AP)—Princess Arthur of Connaught has had her hair shingled again, after allowing it to grow several months.

With the exception of Lady Carisbrooke, sister-in-law of the Queen of Spain, she is the only member of the royal family who had recently given the shingle royal favor. Her husband, Prince Arthur, is said to approve of it, although the king and queen are known to look with disfavor on modern "cropa."

The princess first had her hair shingled in South Africa several years ago when her husband was governor general.

WOMAN RAPS EQUALITY TALK

Sophie Loeb Tells Why Old Order Will Continue

By SOPHIE IRENE LOEB

A lawyer defended a man who used violence in getting a woman out of his place of business, the lawyer arguing that a woman having full political rights and privileges in this state should be treated as a man. To which the judge answered:

"No woman could ever have a physical encounter with me unless she could show herself a better runner than I am. I do not think much of a man who would use violence toward a woman, no matter how great the provocation."

The court of appeals has also decided that conductors of street cars could eject men who rushed ahead of women in a scramble to get on street cars.

Thank heaven that the courts are not behind, but are keeping pace with progress! Of course, I am sorry to say, there are a few of my sex who think they have gone so far "forward" in the so-called "equality" business that they demand for themselves the same treatment as men, even to the point of "physical encounter," and that some men, equally forward, like the lawyer and his client mentioned above, take them at their word and treat them accordingly.

Therefore, it is good beyond all measure that both of these extremists strike a stone wall when they come into court where men try to dispense justice—men who have not gone adrift with mile-a-minute reforms.

It is worth while, indeed, that our judges are still studious, and continue to uphold the precedent of the ages in connection with "mother's sex."

All along the line, from time immemorial, the protection of women has been of paramount importance, not only to the welfare of the present generation, but in the propagation of the race.

It is a good time, too, for progressive women to see to it that our judges are still studious, and as they enter various industries to take the place of men.

While there are thousands of women ready and willing and strong enough to replace men in every avenue of endeavor, and while there are individuals here and there who boastfully prate that they are better and bigger than men in certain places, and while it may be true in some respect—yet no individual may hold forth any prescribed rules and regulations in detriment to the common good.

In a word, not only must we continue such decisions, as described above, but they may well be emphasized by continued legislation, if necessary.

So that the judges will not only have the precedents of thousands of causes where womankind has been carefully considered in a protective sense, but will also have the later opinion of law-making bodies that this today is more important than ever.

Never, never must it be forgotten that woman represents the child-bearing element of the race. During the war, where thousands of men were killed, and the birth question is now of paramount importance in several countries, as it will be in our own, rules and laws in the interest of women are more significant than ever.

Therefore, it is of great importance that the fair sex be more carefully considered in courts than ever before—in connection with their physical well-being.

Dorothy Dix Articles Daily--Advice To Women

Follow Your Heart and Use Your Head, Dorothy Tells Young Woman

Shall She Marry Her Wealthy Employer, Whom She Doesn't Love, or Wait for Her Youthful Sweetheart? How to Tell a Real Girl From a Gold-Digger—Is the Domestic Girl More Respected Than the Business Girl?

Dear Mixx Dix—I am 20 years old, very pretty, and I work for a man who is married and has two children. He drinks too much and has a terrible temper and knocks his wife about. Recently he left her and now wants me to marry him as soon as he can get a divorce. He is very fond of me, gives me everything I want and has a good business and lots of money. Do you think if I marry him that he will hand me the same rough stuff as he does his present wife? My mother wants me to marry this man. However, I am in love with a poor boy of 23 who doesn't earn much, and I should have to wait a long time for him. Please advise.

PERPLEXED SALLY.

Answer—I don't see why you should be perplexed about what will happen to you if you marry this man, Sally. Long before the honeymoon has time to wane a drunken brute will come home and beat you up, and you will get just about what you deserve for selling yourself to a man you don't love for a meal ticket.

I say nothing about the wrong that you have no conscience in committing against the man's wife in taking her husband from her, because I think that instead of hurting her you are doing her the greatest possible favor. Any woman who has a mean husband who abuses her is lucky to get rid of him in any way, and should thank the vamp who relieves her of him.

But don't delude yourself for a moment by thinking that the man who has mistreated one wife is going to treat another wife well. There is no magic in the marriage ceremony that changes a man's disposition or character.

The man who was cruel to one wife will be cruel to another wife. The man who gave way to an ungoverned temper during his first marriage will still give way to his temper during his second marriage. The man who has so little sense of decency in his nature, who was so cowardly and dastardly that he would strike one wife, will not hesitate to strike another. And the man who will desert one woman will desert another.

So long as this wife-beater hasn't got you he is tender and kind and generous and considerate of you; but once you belong to him, once you are in his power, it will be a different story. Then he will wreck his maniac rages on you, and if you marry him, knowing as you do the kind of man he is, you will deserve no sympathy from any one.

Why do you even consider bartering your youth and love and the surety of happiness, for a home and a car and a little spending money and slavery to a man you don't love and who is sure to treat you badly? Believe me, it's a sorry bargain.

There was a time when a girl was justified in selling herself because there was no other way in which she could make a living; but there is no excuse for her doing so now, when every girl is just as capable of earning her own bread and butter and pie as any boy is.

So my advice to you is to wait for your poor sweetheart. The years you have to wait for him won't be so long as the ones would be in which you listened for a drunken man to come home and vent his maudlin fury on you.

DOROTHY DIX.

Dear Dorothy Dix—Why do girls take all that a man has, lead him to believe that they care for him and then laugh at him if he becomes serious? I have been fooled several times in this way. Please advise me how I can tell the true girl when I meet her. SERIOUS.

Answer: Evidently you have fallen among the gold-diggers, son, and by the same token shall you know them.

Whenever you meet up with a girl whose hand is always in your pocket, a girl who is always trying to make you spend money on her, who hints for presents and asks you to take her to expensive places, who can never go by a restaurant without complaining of being hungry, who has to ride in taxis instead of on the street cars and who somehow manages to hold you up at every turn, then by these infallible signs you know that she is just despoiling you for her own pleasure and that she hasn't the slightest intention of marrying you.

As soon as she has squeezed you dry, she will chuck you aside with no more consideration than she would a lemon rind and pass on to some other chap who still has his bankroll.

On the other hand, one of the first and most unmistakable signs that a girl gives of falling in love with a man is when she begins to be careful of his money. It shows that she is beginning to take a proprietary interest in it and to dream of sharing it.

Therefore, when a girl proposes to you to spend the evening at home instead of going to the theater, when she passes up a high-priced show for the movies, when she suggests sandwiches for supper instead of lobster Newburg, when she insists on walking instead of riding and passes up flowers and candy you may know that she is really in love with you.

DOROTHY DIX.

Dear Miss Dix—Is the girl who stays at home with her parents respected more than the girl who earns her own living?

MARY ALICE.

Answer: Certainly not. No girls in the world are more honored than are those who have the intelligence, the courage to go out into the world and fight their own battles of life.

It is very well for the girl who has a father able and willing to support her to stay in her own home, but there are thousands of other girls who have no fathers, or whose fathers have never been able to earn more than enough to barely keep the wolf from the door. So all honor is to be paid to the girls who refuse to be dependent on the grudging charity of relatives or to add another burden on their poor, weary, old fathers, and who in stores and factories and offices earn their own bread and butter and help take care of their poor parents and their younger brothers and sisters.

Nobody looks down on the working girl in these days. They look up to her as the highest type of girlhood. And I, for one, never watch of a morning the hundreds and hundreds of sturdy, bright, alert young women swinging down the street to their work without feeling like taking off my hat, for I know that courage and valor are passing by.

DOROTHY DIX.

MODISH MITZI — While Mitzi Makes Up Her Mind — By JAY V. JAY

"You can't come to tea, Mitzi?" laments Adelaide. It's really too bad. She wanted to meet Mitzi and show her a new spring dress she is wearing, satin combined with an embroidered woolen. The hat matches it so well, too. Mitzi insists that she must go shopping.

"I simply must have one of the new jackets, Adelaide," Mitzi continues. "I can't decide whether it should be one of those little black crepe effects with a cardigan neckline. You know they look so well over a light dress." Adelaide pictures exactly what she means above.

"Or, Adelaide, I might get a jacket that is quite long, collarless and has raglan sleeves. It's a terribly smart style, bound with braid you know and should be worn with a finely pleated skirt. I can't quite make up my mind." Of course, Adelaide knows what she means!

"You know," continues Mitzi, "I've hesitated about buying one long enough. I simply have to decide ....." Adelaide listens in vain for more. Polly enters wearing one of the smartest sleeveless jackets over a lighter colored crepe dress. That's the trouble about having a mind, thinks Mitzi. One hesitates in making it up.

Indian Cheese.

In a buttered baking dish place alternating layers of well-cooked rice seasoned with a teaspoon of curry powder to a quart of rice and grated cheese to approximate one cup. When the dish has been filled two-thirds pour over a cup of cream to which two well-beaten eggs have been added. Bake the whole until the cheese is soft and the egg mixture is set like a custard. This is nice to serve for a family luncheon dish.

Women Give Less.

Women give less to charity than do men, it is declared by Mrs. Arthur Curtiss James of New York, who has been touring in the interests of the world service council of the Y. W. C. A. She does not believe that women are less generous than men, but simply that their giving-power is usually dependent upon the masculine member of the family. Outstanding gifts to charity by women are generally made by widows or as legacies.

FORD AND THE FARMERS

HENRY FORD is ever in the limelight. He has a theory that the farmers waste much time and that the production of staple farm crops can be accomplished in from 15 to 20 days through the application of efficiency methods, which will be tested on several thousand acres of land, which the automobile manufacturer recently purchased.

Col. Theodore H. Price of New York interviewed the Michigan wizard for his newspaper. Henry Ford's estimate, according to the Price article, would allow two days for plowing and harrowing, one day for planting, five days for cultivation during the period of growth, two days for harvesting and threshing and the remainder of the time for fencing, distributing fertilizer and other work.

Henry Ford is quoted as saying he has not changed his belief of eleven years ago regarding the industrialization of agriculture, and that he was confirmed in his opinion that the work to which the farmer now gives a year could easily be done in 20 days or less. Of course, it was pointed out that the Ford plans presupposed the use of much machinery and much labor that might not be obtainable if the period of employment were not more than 20 days.

Wizard Henry had an answer for this. He said that those who are willing to pay good wages could easily organize so that continuous employment for the labor would be provided. Bear in mind the Ford plan does not contemplate the work attached to dairy farming or the raising of livestock.

Just think of it. Since the art of agriculture was invented ages and ages ago, the tiller of the soil has idled away or wasted 365 days in the year doing what could be accomplished in 15 or 20 days.

Man must be a slow thinking as well as a slow moving creature. Now the billionaire maker of Little Lizzie is going to show the agriculturists the way to live well, enjoy life, make dividends and march with the winning procession by slaving 15 or 20 days a year and devoting the balance of the time to study, to recreation, to sleep and to joy riding.

It must be true that men are not far away from the millenial dawn or rather the dawning of the millenial age. Now the man is to control the machine. He is to be placed before the machine. Now the dollar has first place. Will men step in as the chief marchers and relegate the dollar to second place.

There are Texas economists who believe that the law of supply and demand can be set aside. Why cannot other miracles be performed?

EVOLUTION AND LAW

PRESIDENT EMERITUS J. P. GREEN of the William Jewell college of Missouri is one of the learned Baptist preachers and educators of that state. This is what he said to the lawmakers of Missouri before an anti-evolution bill was sent on its way to the graveyard: "It will do more harm than good to pass a law against teaching of evolution in the schools. It will advertise evolution and the young people will read the works on evolution without evidence."

Authors turn out books, printing presses move on noiselessly and booksellers place the offering of the intellectuals or near intellectuals on their stands. Errors die; truth lives on. It cannot be crushed. It can be placed in prison. It can be banned by a law. It can be beheaded by the order of a dictator. It can be placed in a loathsome dungeon. It can be driven into exile.

Does it perish? Never. Dr. Greene has been a reader of history. He knows all about the rise and fall of civilizations and the passing of tribes or nations of men.

Common sense is a wonderful commodity.

CALLS FOR BETTER RECORD

"TEXAS' showing is anything but flattering. It counted 295,000 such illiterates, or 8.3 per cent by the 1920 census. If a better showing is to be had in 1930, remedial steps must be taken now," chortles the San Antonio Express.

There were thousands of native white in the count; there were thousands of Mexicans in the count. There were thousands of negroes in the count.

Now just why should a native white man under the skies of Texas be an illiterate? There are night schools in the cities and towns of Texas. There are free textbooks in Texas. There are libraries in Texas, both stationary and circulating. There are newspapers and magazines in Texas.

There is an army of school teachers in Texas. It is impossible to teach old dogs new tricks. Old dogs do not take kindly to new tricks. It is possible to teach the boys and girls of Texas to develop their brains and train their hands and there is where the work should be done.

DEATH AND PLEASURE TAXES

THIS for Jones of Texas. The federal government collected $1,281,244.54 inheritance taxes in Texas in the calender year 1926. This is known as the death tax. In the same year collections on admissions to theaters and other places of amusements, amounted to $181,426.66. There is no escaping the tithe gatherer. Money is needed to pay off the debts of the wars of the past and to be prepared for the wars of the future.

This is the way the dollar goes—ninety cents for war and ten cents for all other costs of government. And modern man calls himself a civilized being.

READ THIS FIRST:

BOBBIE RANSOM, a little blond school teacher, is movie struck and wildly eager to go to Hollywood to break into pictures. Neither her widowed father nor her Aunt Gertrude will lend her the money she needs. Neither will ANDY JERROLD, who's in love with her and wants her to stay at home and marry him.

Finally she borrows $500 from the WIDOW PARKINS, who is to to marry her father, and goes to Hollywood. At MRS. MANGAN'S boarding house she meets STELLA DELROY, an extra girl in pictures. Through Stella she gets a few days' work at the Magnifico Studios in a picture directed by ROY SCHULTZ. She becomes great friends with Roy's wife, LOTTIE. GUS MacCLOUD, the assistant director, falls in love with her and she with him.

Bobbie finds out that Lottie, a fine sensible kind of woman, has a poor opinion of Gus, who takes Roy out to wild parties at the home of a film actress named MONICA MONT. Monica, a born gold-digger and vamp, is light-fingered, and she and Bobbie have a disagreement over the ownership of some clothes and jewelry that Monica "borrowed" from Bobbie. Stella kills herself, leaving behind her a letter telling about her unhappy love affair with Gus.

Then Bobbie hears that Gus has a wife who is divorcing him, and she decides to see him no more until he's free. But when his wife finally gets the divorce, he fails to ask her to marry him, although he tells her repeatedly how much he loves her, and he promises to give her a good part whenever he gets a picture of his own to direct. He lends her money on some diamonds left her by Aunt Gertrude, who dies suddenly, and then lends her more on a bracelet that Andy Jerrold sends her for a Christmas present. She forgets to thank Andy for the gift and later he writes her an enthusiastic letter about his beautiful new red-headed stenographer.

Finally Gus gets his picture and offers Bobbie a part in it at a good salary. He wants her to rent a little cottage where he can come to see her, but she becomes angry when he tells her how much he loves her and loves to be with her, without backing it up with an offer of marriage. As she leaves the little cottage she picks up a letter he has dropped.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY.

CHAPTER XLVIII

There is probably nothing in the world that is any sillier than a lover's quarrel.

The only tragic part of them is that they never seem silly while they are going on.

And so Bobbie felt as if her heart and her pride had just been broken as she walked out of the grass-grown driveway of the little white house and started down the quiet, sunny street.

Then she heard Gus starting his car, and she quickened her slow pace. He drove alongside of her and called to her.

"Bobbie, come on and get in," he begged her, opening the door of the roadster. "I didn't mean to hurt your feelings. I just thought it would be nice for you to have a decent place to live—"

"Don't speak to me!" Bobbie rapped out, her chin in the air. And with a shrug of her lovely, graceful shoulders and a curl of her lip, she walked on.

His car crept along beside her, going at a snails pace.

"Come on, Baby, don't act like a simp," he coaxed her. "You act as if I'd insulted you or something."

"You did insult me." Bobbie gave him a sudden sharp glance from her gold-flecked eyes. "But you'll never have a second chance. See?"

They were near the corner now, and Hollywood Boulevard was only a few yards away. In a minute or two Bobbie would be swallowed up in the Sunday afternoon crowds, and Gus knew it.

"Bobbie!" he called desperately. "Darling, won't you talk this thing over calmly? Please!"

But she simply shook her head, and walked on with her eyes straight ahead of her. As she reached the corner, the engine of the green car gave a sudden roar, and Gus started off in the opposite direction.

She hadn't expected him to give up the ship so soon, and she was deeply surprised as she watched him go. And she knew that her chance to have a movie career was going with him, in all probability.

"But I don't care!" she thought furiously, as she stood teetering on her high white kid heels on the edge of the sidewalk. "He needn't think he can treat me the way he treated Stella Delroy and get away with it!" No doubt he once had been desperately in love with Stella, too, but not enough in love to ask her to marry him.

She walked along the boulevard and up into Griffiths Park, and sat on a green hillside idly watching the lovers who strolled around, hand in hand, arm in arm.

At sunset she went back to Mrs. Mangan's and made lettuce sandwiches for her supper.

The Mangans were out, and the house was empty and so quiet that you could have heard a pin drop in it. Now and then Mrs. Mangan's new canary bird, Sheikee, trilled softly as if to itself, but there was no other sound.

Dusk crept through the rooms, and the swift semi-tropical darkness of California came soon afterward. The sitting room clock seemed suddenly to tick very, very loudly — tick-tock, TICK-TOCK, TICK-TOCK.

"What a spooky place a house can be, when you're alone in it!" thought Bobbie, and she switched on all the lights downstairs. "Imagine living in one all by yourself, week in and week out!" She shuddered as she thought of the little white house she had seen that afternoon—all by itself beyond that little green park.

"I won't live in it for love nor money!" she said to herself, and all at once it came to her that she couldn't stay there in Mrs. Mangan's house alone another minute, either! She was frightened to death at nothing at all—nothing but the loneliness, and a thought that kept coming to her. She thought of Stella's room just over her head. The room where Stella had opened the little brown bottle and set it to her lips—

In another minute Bobbie was out in the street under the stars, and walking away from the house just as fast as her feet would carry her.

She had no place to go, and she had forgotten her pocketbook in her haste.

She remembered exactly where she had left it—on the kitchen table beside her unwashed plate and tea cup.

"But I wouldn't go back and get it, if my life depended on it!" she confessed silently.

Then she thought of Monica's flat. She would go there and stay until the Mangans or the Firkin sisters got home. Monica would probably be home, resting after the wild party of the night before. Monica was a great believer in beauty sleep, even if she never went to bed before midnight.

And, sure enough, when Bobbie rounded the corner of Cahuenga Street, there were lights behind the gold-colored silk curtains of Monica's flat, and Monica's gay voice asked her up through the speaking tube in the vestibule.

She was in a house dress. Not a crisp muslin one, such as most women wear when they are going to "flop around the house," but a Copenhagen blue silk one with silver lace around the square neck. Monica got her ideas about house dresses from the moving pictures.

"Hello, Lovey!" she greeted Bobbie, and kissed her as tenderly as if there never had been any bitter there never had been any bitterness between them. "Awfully nice to see you for a minute."

But she did not ask Bobbie to come in and sit down. She did not even ask her to take off her things. She just stood there in the center of the little hallway, with the light above her head casting queer rosy shadows and lights upon her face.

Behind her, through the door that led to the living room, Bobbie could see a table laid out with a cold supper of salad heaped with fluffy mayonnaise, poppy-seed rolls, ripe olives, salmon, cold meats. The kind of things that can be bought in from a neighboring delicatessen.

"I see you're expecting someone," she said frankly, and reached for the door knob. "I just dropped in for a minute, anyway, to tell you what a nice party you had last night—"

"Now, what do you say a thing like that for?" Monica asked her sneeringly. "You know it wasn't a nice party! You know it was a dickens of a party, with that sap of a Lottie Schults horning in and dragging away her husband! I could have smacked her for it!"

A thought struck Bobbie. "I'll bet it's Roy Schultz who's going to have supper with her!"

And just at that precise second she saw a fawn-colored hat that lay on the console table beside her. It caught her eye and held it. She knew whose hat that was!

She turned it over and looked inside of it. Yes, there they were! The letters A. MacL. printed in gold on the leather sweatband, just where she knew they would be! But what was Angus' hat doing here in Monica's hall? She had seen it herself on his smooth blond head, less than two hours before!

"What's this doing here?" She had asked the question of Monica almost without realizing that she spoke.

Monica giggled, so that fine little laughing wrinkles sprayed out from each corner of her blue eyes.

"Now, what do you suppose it's doing here? You don't suppose it walked here, do you?" she asked impudently. "It's here because Gus wore it here a while ago. He's gone over to Chapman's for some ice cream. Is there anything else you'd like to know about him?"

"Yet, a lot of things—but I don't believe you know the answers to them, dearest," Bobbie said with that cutting sweetness of an enraged woman. "Just tell him I was here, will you?" She turned and started down the stairs.

"No, best-beloved. I'm no messenger service! Tell him yourself!" Monica called after her, and closed the door of her suite with a bang that was like a clap of thunder.

"Well, it didn't take Gus long to console himself," Bobbie thought bitterly. "If he can't get me, he goes to Monica!"

And how could any man really want to be with Monica? There was no charm about her, no beauty. Nothing but loudness, cheapness, and a kind of careless cheerfulness. Oh, well—

It was seven o'clock when she reached the corner of Cahuenga Street and Hollywood Boulevard. She went into the drug store there and looked over the magazines, as if she were going to buy one.

No one seemed to take any notice of her. The store was crowded, and the clerks were just as busy as they could be, serving people with sodas and sandwiches, cigars, headache powders, and face powders.

Presently Bobbie's fingers touched the sheet of crumpled gray paper in her sports dress pocket, and she took it out. She looked at it, knowing that she had no business reading it, but that she was going to read it, anyway.

"My dear boy," it began. "Well, at last Gertrude has her divorce and the papers here have stopped printing stories about you and her. I can not tell you what I have gone through the last few months, ever since Gertrude made up her mind to leave you. Thank goodness, it is all over and done with, finally.

I surely hope, Angus, from the bottom of my soul that you will never marry again. Some men are not fitted for married life, and it is very plain to me that you are one of those men. And if you picked up with one of those common moving-picture actresses she might not be as considerate of you as Gertrude has been, when she decided to leave you. Never once, through all this trouble, has Gertrude mentioned the Mrs. M. affair, although she must have known about it. Poor Gertrude! She and Angie are staying here with me for a while.

The business is doing very well, although sometimes I could wish you were more interested in it. Your Uncle Charlie is so old-fashioned and competition is pretty keen, you know. But I suppose all this talk about business tires you, as usual. Write when you find time.

Lovingly yours,

MOTHER."

Bobbie looked at the slanting old-fashioned hand writing thoughtfully. It told her a good many things—that letter. She knew that "Gertrude" must be the wife who had just divorced Angus, and that "Angie" must be his little daughter.

But who in the world was "Mrs. M."? Probably some woman with whom Gus had had a love affair. Evidently he was always having love affairs, and some of them seemed to be rather shady, Mrs. M. Bobbie wondered if she were a widow or a grass widow.

It was half past seven now. Surely Mr. and Mrs. Mangan had come home by this time for a late supper. They never ate away from the house. It was too expensive, they said.

(TO BE CONTINUED.)

Not everybody gets a second chance in this world. But Bobbie gets one in the next chapter of this story of Hollywood.

The Man Nobody Knows

INSTALLMENT VII.
The Outdoor Man.

To most of the crowd there was nothing unusual in the scene. That is the tragedy of it.

The air was filthy with the smell of animals and human beings herded together. Men and women trampled one another, crying aloud their imprecations. At one side of the court were the pens of the cattle; the dove cages at the other. In the foreground, hard-faced priests and money-changers sat behind long tables exacting the utmost farthing from those who came to buy. One would never imagine that this was a place of worship. Yet it was the Temple—the center of the religious life of the nation. And to the crowds who jammed its courts, the spectacle seemed perfectly normal.

That was the tragedy of it.

Standing a little apart from the rest, the young man from Nazareth watched in amazement which deepened gradually into anger. It was no familiar sight to him. He had not been in the Temple legally enrolled as a son of the law. His chief memory of that previous visit was of a long conversation with certain old men in a quiet room. He had not witnessed the turmoil in the outer courts, or, if he had, it made small impression on his youthful mind.

But this day was different. For weeks he had looked forward to the visit, planning the journey with a company of Galilean pilgrims who tramped all day and spent the nights in their tents under the open sky. To be sure some of the older ones muttered about the extortions of the money-changers. A woman told how the lamb which she had raised with so much devotion the previous year, had been scornfully rejected by the priests, who directed her to buy from the dealers. An old man related his experience. He had brought down the savings of months to purchase his gift, and the money-changers converted his provincial currency into the temple coin at a robber's rate. Other pilgrims had similar stories, but after all they were old people, prone to complain. The journey and the sacrifice were worth the cost. One must expect to pay for so great a privilege.

So the young man may have thought the night before; but today he faced the sordid reality, and his cheeks flushed. A woman's shrill tones pierced his revery like a knife; he turned to see a peasant mother protesting vainly against a ruthless exaction. An unruly animal threatened to break thru the bars, and a part of the crowd fell back with cries of terror. A money-changer with the face of a pig leaned gloatingly over his board.

. . . The young man had picked up a handful of cords from the pavement and half unconsciously now was braiding them into a whip, watching the whole scene silently.

And suddenly, without a word of warning, he strode to the table where the fat money-changers sat, and hurled it violently across the court. The startled robber lurched forward, grasping at his gains, lost his balance and fell sprawling on the ground. Another step and a second table was over-turned, and another, and another.

The crowd which had melted back at the start began to catch a glimmering of what was up, and surged forward around the young man. He strode on, looking neither to right nor left. He reached the counters where the dove cages stood; with quick sure movements the cages were opened and the occupants released. Brushing aside the group of dealers who had taken their stand in front of the cattle pens, he threw down the bars and drove the bellowing animals out through the crowd and into the streets, striking vigorous blows with his little whip.

The whole thing happened so quickly that the priests were swept off their feet. Now, however, they collected themselves and bore down upon him in a body. Who was he that dared this act of defiance? Where had he come from. By what authority did he presume to interrupt their business? The crowds gave way again at the onslaught; they enjoyed the tumult as a crowd always does, and they hated the priests and robbers; but when it came to answering for the consequences, they were perfectly willing to leave it to him.

And he was willing they should. He stood flushed and panting, the little whip still in his hands. His glance swept scornfully over the faces, distorted by anger and greed.

"This is my authority," he cried. "It is written, "My house shall be called a house of prayer for all the nations, but ye have made it a den of robbers."

Stung by his taunt, his accusers hesitated, and in their moment of hesitation were lost. The soldiers turned their backs; it was nothing that they cared about. But the crowd burst forth in a mightly cheer and rushing forward bore him out of the Temple, the priests and the money-changers scurrying before him. That night his action was the talk of the town.

"Did you hear what happened in the Temple today?"

"Not a man of them dared stand up to him."

"Dirty thieves—it was coming to them."

"What's his name?"

"Jesus . . . used to be a carpenter up in Nazareth."

ELECTRA SOCIETY

Special to The Record News.

ELECTRA, Feb. 11.—Mrs. Geo. Ezell entertained the Concordia Bridge club Tuesday afternoon at the home of her mother, Mrs. J. T. McDannald, with three tables of bridge. In the games, Mrs. Homer Grizzle won the high score which was a beautiful vase, and Mrs. E. G. Latimore received a salad mixing set as the low score. A delightful two course luncheon was served to Mesdames Jere Barnes, J. F. Burton, Frank Doores, E. G. Latimer, W. R. Skinner, Homer Grizzle, Homer Jones, H. D. Miller, Mitt Williams, W. J. Gookin, G. J. Gillis and Frank LeBus.

Knights of Pythias.

The members of the Knights of Pythias met Monday night in regular session when the rank of page was conferred on Lonnie Warren, E. E. Rogers, Lonnie White, and R. N. Gibson. The same men will have the rank of Esquire conferred on them next Monday night, and all the lodges in this district are invited to attend. Complete arrangements were made for the 63rd anniversary service which will be held at the First Presbyterian church, of this city on February 20, with Rev. L. D. Grafton conducting the service. The lesson of Friendship will be shown at this time.

Special Called Meeting.

A special called meeting of the fire boys was held at the receptiion room of the fire station and a business session was taken up with C. A. Jones, the fire chief, in charge. After the business session a social hour was enjoyed, and a birthday party was given for Red Lewis and Cleve Jones, both birthdays occurring on that date with Mesdames W. H. Jones and Red Lewis acting as hostess. Music was enjoyed by "fiddle band" of the department, and later games were enjoyed. Refreshments of cake and coffee were served to 75 guests and the elaborate birthday cakes were cut.

Presbyterian Ladies.

The Presbyterian ladies met at the church Monday afternoon with Mrs. J. R. Brewer, the president, in charge. Several questions of business were taken up with plans being made for the auxiliary to serve a banquet to the boy scouts of troup No. 3, at the church Friday night. The auxiliary will send a linen shower to the Presbyatrian hospital at Albuquerque, N. M. soon, which this box to include, pillow cases, sheets and towels.

The meeting was then turned over to Mrs. E. R. Keller, the missionary leader, with the lesson being taken from First John 1:9, followed by a prayer.

Mesdames J. C. Shaw, Gene Schaffer, J. E. Graham, G. E. Tinnin and W. I. Wilson gave talks on the program about the general subject of China. The meeting dismissed with the benediction of the society, repeated in unison.

Boy Scout News.

Boy scout week is being observed in this city with a large number of scouts knots being distributed, with each wearer to do a kind deed each day of the week. This scout week started off right for the Electra scouts of troup three, when a large number of them attended the First Presbyterian church in Wichita Falls, where a special service was given for them and the scouts of Wichita Falls.

Under the direction of Scoutmaster, William Latham and Rev. L. D. Grafton a banquet was served Wednesday evening for all the scouts at the local Presbyterian church.

Worthwhile Sunday School

Mrs. W. H. Ogden assisted by Mrs. E. E. Merkt entertained the Worthwhile Sunday school class of the Presbyterian church, Wednesday afternoon with a most delightful party at the Ogden home on West Summitt avenue. St. Valentine suggestions were carried out in the decorations and refreshments. Games were the diversion of the afternoon with Mrs. S. J. Dotson winning a prize in a contest, and Mrs. W. C. P Pool won a prize in hearts, which prize was presented to one of the guests. A plate luncheon was served to Mesdames: J. M. Hemby, J. E. Warden, W. C. P'Pool, Dale Pierce, E. S. Coates, S. J. Dotson, Clyde Cole, Clyde Dunn, Ross Brown, Hugh Gaye, E. G. Latimer, W. D. Cross, Harry Bradley, G. M. Schaffer, Ballard, Townsley and the hostess.

School to Present Play.

Miss Eva Williamson, the expression teacher of the public schools will direct a play, "A College Town," given by members of the senior class for the benefit of the high school annual. This play will be ready by March 1, and the young people began rehearsing Thursday. This was decided at a meeting of the senior class Monday when Johnnie LeBus, president of the class had charge and after other business the following cast was selected by votes of the class: Jimmy Cavindish, by Clinton Waters; Tad Cheseldine, by Ralph Delashaw; Leviticus, by Raymond Bradley; Major Culpepper, Henry Davis; Professor Pop, by Joe Dorsey; Scotch McAlister, Francis Osborn; Shorty Long, Freddie Baldwin; Billie Van Horn, by Clayton Avens; Dr. Twigg, Roy Mankins; Miss Gen Channing, by Brunetta Cloninger; Marjorie Haviland, Grace Brown; Mrs. Bagsby, Ruth Francis; Miss Jane Cavindish, Mary Dean Reneau; Miss Mollie Styles, by Audrey Tarleton; Miss Twigg, Elizabeth McGann, and Mrs. Twigg by Ella Lee Jackson.

Federated Missionary Society

Nine ladies were present at the home of Mrs. A. C. Rippy, president of the Federated Missionary society, at a call meeting of the society, Tuesday afternoon. Many plans were made for the betterment of the Federated Missionary and the Presbyterian ladies will be hostess at the meeting in March. Those present were Mesdames George McGann, E. R. Keller, T. T. Weatherall, C. W. Coffey, J. W. Saddler, L. J. Crawford, Jr. R. Brower, C. C. Dorsey and the hostess.

First Ward P.-T. A.

The First Ward Parent-Teacher association met Tuesday afternoon at the school, after 4 o'clock with Mrs. W. P. Kilpatrick, the president in charge. The meeting opened with a prayer by Mrs. A. T. McDannald. The second number was a song by Miss Balthrops pupils, directed by Miss Thrash, "February Song" by pupils of Miss Davis; reading by Rollo Davidson Jr.; song by pupils of Miss Lottie Swicord and a reading by Miss Trucille Davis; "Childhood Handicap," by Miss Balthrop reading by Marguerite Terrill, and the most important number on the program was a talk by Miss Wilma Kilpatrick, on her tour to Florida and Cuba.

This concluded the program, and the business meeting was taken up. The minutes of the last session were read and approved, and the treasurer reported $19.75 at present. At the last meeting it was voted to purchase a loving cup to be given for the spelling contestants.

Miss Ida Lee Falls was appointed to purchase it at once. This is the first year that a cup has been given for spelling. Mrs. Martha McSpadden very kindly offered the use of her window at the Grand theater for the sale of anything that the Parent-Teacher association should like to sell on Saturday afternoon and nights. This offer was accepted. A letter of appreciation will be sent to Mrs. E. D. Kelly and Miss Eva Williamson for the recital recently given for the benefit of the P.-T. A.

Business Girls Sunday School

The Business Girls Sunday school class of the First Methodist church was most delightfully entertained at the home of Mrs. H. C. Hill, Thursday evening, when seven tables of "42" were played. Valentine decorations were used throughout the rooms and refreshments of heart shape ice cream and cake were served to Misses Faye Rogers, Velma Burns, Lola Anderson, Sallie Huffaker, Ida Lee Falls, Eva Williamson, Amy and Nell Crutchfield, Kathryn Barr, Elizabeth Hardin, Myrtle Bowden, Estelle Thrash, Mabel Mabry, Iva Bickley, Eula Tucker, Virginia Roop, Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Coffey, Mr. and Mrs. A. C. Rippy, Mr. and Mrs. H. C. Hill, Rev. and Mrs. H. E. Anderson, Mrs. L. J. Crawford, the teacher of the class, and Wendell Pendleton.

Lions Club Meeting

Mrs. Mary Jowell, proprietor of the Marriott hotel, took up the larger part of the noon hour at the Lions club luncheon, Thursday telling of her trip to Cuba and points in Florida, which trip lasted for two weeks. She spoke of the city that knows no prohibition, and told of conditions on the island. After the conclusion of her talk, a short business session was held and the general sing-song was taken up.

Dr. Cantwell to Speak

Dr. J. W. Cantwell, superintendent of the public schools in Wichita Falls will deliver the principal address when the Parent-Teacher associations of the city will have an open meeting at the Waggoner school auditorium Feb. 17. Other speakers of the occasion will be Mrs. Jodie D. Smith, president of the P.-T. A. council of the city, who will also introduce the speakers. This meeting is opened for the public and a good crowd is expected.

BO BROADWAY ..... By Joseph Van Raalte

NEW YORK. (EFS).—George Tyler staged a revival of Pinero's "Trelawny of the Wells," with an all-star cast that included Mrs. Whiffen, Henrietta Crosman, Effie Shannon, Wilton Lackaye, Lawrence D'Orsay, John Drew, O. P. Heggie and some others. Naturally there wasn't enough "white meat" to go around and some of them were called upon to share the "neck."

They all tried hard enough but it's been so long since they've played minor roles they fluvvered sadly, going through their parts with the same sort of gracious condescension and amused tolerance that Wayne B. Wheeler might assume, thumbing the pages of "The Lives of the Saints."

Which proves that a judicious admixture of alloy is as necessary to a theatrical troupe as a wedding ring.

When Charlie Lincoln assumed control of the New York Herald under the late lamented "Uncle" Frank Munsey, every man on the staff was a "star." It was probably the greatest aggregation of reportorial talent ever grouped in one city room.

"I have the finest staff in the country," Charlie remarked to a friend one day. "The only trouble is, the city desk doesn't dare send them out on anything less than a three-alarm fire. If I had about half a dozen good, mediocre, willing $30-a-week leg men I think I'd be the happiest managing editor in town."

Lincoln left the World to take the Herald Job. The move was under discussion at the time in the city hall reporters' room.

"I understand," said Dan Breen, "that he's going to be Munsey's right-hand man."

"Maybe," replied "Doc" Adams, "but you got to remember Munsey's left-handed."

There's a new show on Broadway called "Tommy," that's bright, well acted and clean as a 10-year-old school boy's love for his teacher.

An old fellow and his wife sat directly in front of me the other night at the play. He was a tough old bird who might have been anything from a Methodist Sunday school superintendent to the "bagman" for a bootlegging concern. He had a scrawney, leathery neck with more creases in it than grandma's wedding dress. He was one of those men that the minute you look at them you find yourself feeling sorry for their wives.

The missus said something to him after they'd settled into their places and he snarled a gruff response that forestalled further conversation.

The play deals with the love story of three kids.

At the end of the first act the old bird in front of me had his wife's hand in his and both were smiling happily.

Any show that can produce an effect like that is worth $3.30 a seat.

A reformed newspaper man said to me the other day:

"When I read ground-hog stories in the papers each year, the annual interview with Chauncey Depew on the anniversary of his birth and sporadic predictions of 'an era of prosperity' about to dawn every time Charlie Schwab and Judge Gary return from Europe, I thank my Gawd that I quit the game when I did."

He breezed into the 42nd street and Broadway Country club the other night and joined a group that included Syl. Sullivan, John J. Leary, Dan O'Keafe, Sam Macfarlane, Denny Lynch, Mike Flynn and other case-hardened Boulevardiers.

"Whadilyouhave?" said Sullivan.

"O-o-o-o-oh, I don't know," replied Bob, his tones reverberating like thunder in the mountains, "I think I'll take a cup o' weak tea an' a slice o' lemon!"

The ONE-MINUTE PULPIT

The thoughts of the righteous are right; but the counsels of the wicked are deceit.

The words of the wicked are to lie in wait for blood; but the mouth of the upright shall deliver them.

The wicked are overthrown, and are not, but the house of the righteous shall stand.

A man shall be commended according to his wisdom; but he that is of a preverse heart shall be despised.—Proverbs 12:5-8.

COW EDUCATES GIRL

JUNCTION CITY, Kan.—A cow is educating Mae Miller. Five years ago the young woman sold a $100 bond that bore a low rate of interest and bought a heifer calf. To date she has realized more than $600 from the sale of milk and the cow has given birth to two calves, the three animals having a total value of $600. The money is being applied to schooling.

CROOKS TEST TRUTH

KANSAS CITY, Mo.—Thieves took upon themselves unnecessary labor when they battered the lock off a safe at the Stafford machine works here to get $20 loot. A sign on the door of the safe read: "This safe contains no valuables, only the company's records, so here is the combination if you want it." The combination followed.

SHE WHO GETS SLAPPED

ITHACA, N. Y.—George W. Lloyd must serve 10 days in jail because his girl broke a date with him. When the co-ed notified him of the change in her plans, the Cornell student slapped her. She had him arrested.

RUNYON SAYS

Whippets Old Sport—Goes Back to England—Tricks of the Pastime—Was Low Down Racket—Betting Was Very Big—

By DAMON RUNYON

Will Wellman, who was a boy wonder promoter about the time Willie Hoppe was a boy billiards wonder, which was before Bobby Jones and Young Stribling of Georgia, were in the boy wonder racket, tells me that he is planning a whippet racing track over on Long Island next summer.

Whippets are dogs, as well as automobiles. The whippet is a boiled down greyhound, and can travel faster than a rumor through the Roaring Forties. I am something of a whippet enthusiast, as I am the owner in fee simple of Arroyo Slim, a whippet from the famous kennels of Freeman Ford of Pasadena, the leading whippeter on the Pacific coast.

Arroyo Slim is a bashful looking creature with soulful eyes, and spidery legs, and I am informed that he can out-run anything on the west coast, barring some other whippets. The pastime of whippet racing is very popular in California, once the seat of greyhound coursing on regular tracks. There is some whippet racing in the east, chiefly among the society swells, but it has not yet become the rage with the masses.

Will Wellman has taken note of the prosperity of the greyhound racing tracks in different parts of the country, and believes that the whippets can be made the medium of just as much prosperity. That, and the fact that he has never before tried whippet racing as a promotorial venture and wishes to keep unstained his record of being willing to try anything once, undoubtedly prompts Will Wellman's plan.

J. Schofield of 66 Madison avenue, Newark, who seems to know plenty about whippet racing advises me that it is an old sport in England, and not always all that sport should be. Moreover, it had no standing with the upper crust in his time.

Whether you are interested in whippet racing or not, I think you will find Mr. Schofield's letter entertaining. It follows herewith:

* * *

"Thirty-five years back three of the best tracks in England and Wales were situated in Oldham, England, and I believe they all still hold their reputation—Oldham Borough, Higginshaw and Failsworth. Handicaps were run frequently.

If one owned a good dog, and could win of these races, one could easily win 25 or 30,000 dollars at a that time. Scores of bookmakers each with a capital of 5000 dollars or more attended these meetings.

The preliminary heats were generally run off on a Saturday, and the semi-finals and final the following Saturday. About 80 dogs would run in a handicap, and they would be sifted down to three in the final.

The barking and yelping at these races was nerve racking, and we don't recollect ever seeing any of the fairer sex in attendance.

* * *

The dogs vary in weight, running from 10 to 21 pounds, the majority being from 13 to 18 pounds. They are handicapped on a general principle of two yards to a pound. Of course a dog that has shown something has to give away one-half yard the same as a racehorse has to give pounds. The clockers out there have the finest watches in the world and can time these animals to a foot. As a good dog can run 200 yards in 12 seconds that is going some. By the way that is the distance of all races—200 yards.

It was a kind of a low down sport in the eyes of religious people, and we have to admit that many brutes and crooks owned some of these dogs. These shady characters would stop at nothing to win money. Your humble servant, along with others, had many of them punished, and lifted the sport a little. Tying the toes of a dog with thread of the same color as the animal was a clever scheme and was a long time being discovered. Tying the two first toes on the front feet together would take two yards in 200 out of a good dog. This brings a story to my mind.

About 25 years ago there was a certain saloon-keeper, quite a well-to-do man, who had a fine kennel of whippets. One day he went on a vacation to France and told his trainer to enter any of his dogs and win any handicap he could, but be sure to let him know if he appeared to have a real good thing. The trainer being an illiterate fellow and also slightly deaf failed to gather the import of the latter part of the instructions—in fact he afterwards declared that he never heard that part at all.

* * *

He entered a dog at Higginshaw and told a bosom friend of his to bet all the money on he could. That fellow told me so there was just three of us in the know. We got 20 to one when the books opened. Going carefully around putting 10 dollars on here and there we managed to get 10,000 to 500 without anyone getting very wise. The dog was good, and won his preliminary heats easily which brought his price down to two to one. The Saturday following he got in the final, and was the favorite at one to two.

Just after the semi-finals the owner arrived on the scene to our sorrow. He cursed the trainer vehemently and took the dog away from him. Taking the animal across the track to a house nearby he fed it a quart of milk sops, and it came to the final with what we called a "Sir Roger Tichebornе"—a stomach as hard as a drum. Even then he lost by less than a yard. I always believed in one proverb after that, "There's many a slip 'twixt cup and lip."

SEHON SCORES 30 FOR CLARA

Greyhounds, Hawks, Tigers Win in Tourney

BURKBURNETT, Feb. 11.—Clara, Iowa Park and Electra got off to a winning start in the Wichita county basketball meet here today. Clara with Sehon staging a phenomenal run on the goal to score 30 points by himself, defeated Fairview, 59 to 10. Electra downed Valley View, 41 to 17 and Iowa Park defeated Burkburnett, 43 to 17.

The tournament will close Saturday and late in the day the Clay county finals will be played on the court here.

There were ten games played today including a string of junior and sub-junior contests.

Mike Always Could Fight 'Em ..... By Robert Edgren

Mike McTigue, knocking out Paul Berlenbach in four rounds, has performed one of the most curious "come-backs" in history.

McTigue has been a weird fighter. He always had unlimited cunning, speed enough, and a punch. At one time he was the most dangerous knockout artists in his class. Then he fought Battling Siki for the world's light-heavyweight title, won on points without taking a single risk by boxing with the clumsy and hard hitting Senegalese. Over night Mike McTigue lost all his boldness and became money-yellow. That was it. Mike wasn't afraid of being hurt, cared little for punches, felt confident that he could protect himself when he needed it. But he became overwhelmingly afraid of losing that championship, which meant money, more money than Mike had ever seen before.

Money-yellow, Mike turned from a fighting man to a cautious financier. He wouldn't defend his title against anyone who might possibly slip a punch over on him, and when he did box he preferred to go around "in the sticks," picking up moderate purses by boxing nice exhibitions against green youngsters who couldn't hit him. It was in the course of this line of business that Mike made a mistake. He went to Georgia and boxed a little-known high school boy, who had done some fairly good fighting through the south and had a local reputation that promised a paying gate. This was Young Stribling. Mike had just fattened his bankroll safely by boxing two no-decision bouts with Tom Loughran in Philadelphia, and felt in good shape.

Stribling Upset Mike's Plans

But he played safe by taking along his own referee when he went to Columbus, Ga. That is, played as safe as he could. Young Stribling, fighting a champion and full of the fire of youthful ambition, and with a very fair turn of speed and skill, chased Mike all over the ring for 10 rounds and pasted him heartily.

Mike's referee was inclined to think that Mike won, but the enraged crowd, with some talk of "robbery," and "hanging," influenced the official to such an extent that he changed his tune. Later, leaving town, he decided that the fight was a "draw."

That stood as official, but McTigue had that Stribling affair to explain away when he went north again, and found it difficult. The public wouldn't let Mike go along quietly and safely picking up purses. Mike was practically forced into fighting Young Stribling again. But he had his way in one thing. He met Stribling in a 12-round no-decision bout. Though Stribling kept Mike on the run the bout went the 12 and Mike still had the crown.

Still the public wasn't satisfied. Mike stayed out of the ring for a while, boxed a timid no-decision 12 rounds with Mickey Walker, and then made another mistake.

Loses to Punch 'em Paul

Paul Berlenbach was a popular light-heavyweight. Paul had established a long knockout string, and had then been knocked out in turn by Jack Delaney. He was fighting his way back, had the drawing power of a popular slugger, and having been knocked out by Delaney didn't look formidable to Mike. Also Paul was a comparatively slow and elemental boxer, a slow thinker, not to be compared in some ways to Mike McTigue. Mike let himself be driven into a decision fight with Berlenbach. Punch 'em Paul chased Mike all around the ring for 15 rounds, beat him every time he tried desperately to stop and fight, and whipped him for the title. Berlenbach was light-heavyweight champion and McTigue a has-been, for Mike was now 32 and supposed to be sliding backward.

Here comes the curious psychological effect on Mike McTigue of losing the championship and being shoved back into the little-money class. Mike now had nothing to lose. His yellow streak had been only the result of fearing a money loss, and he could still fight. So Mike again became the bold lad who tried to sock 'em over. Instead of insisting upon no-decision bouts Mike began looking for chances to fight to decisions. Within six months after losing to Berlenbach, Mike won several fights and had one draw. He beat Young Marullo, who was then pretty good. And he beat Tiger Flowers, who had been busy knocking out 26 opponents within two years, and had been beaten only by Jack Delaney. Mike was showing class again. Last year he won a bunch of fights, but took a soporific wallop from Delaney, who seems to have the habit of upsetting people who have championship ambitions.

That didn't worry the bold Michael, who went right on fighting. Delaney beat Berlenbach to a close decision, and Berlenbach, who had assimilated some terrific blows in that fight, took six months off to rest and recuperate before starting afresh as a heavyweight and going after Gene Tunney.

Revenge Is Sweet

Berlenbach started his "comeback" with Mike McTigue. And why not. Mike was 35, and Paul had beaten him before. Mike knocked Berlenbach out in four rounds, had him down in the third round and three times in the fourth, the last time Berlenbach being so far gone that Referee Kid McPartland stopped the fight when Paul was evidently unable to rise. McTigue carried that fight fiercely to Berlenbach, stopped Paul's heavy lefts and outslugged him with savage right handers on the jaw that kept Berlenbach staggering after two rounds had been fought. McTigue never showed more class, never hit harder. If Jack Delaney drops the light-heavyweight title, as he plans, and fights among the heavyweights, the bold Michael may become a world's champion again.

No reason why he shouldn't. Bob Fitzsimmons was six years older than Mike's mere 35 when Bob won the light-heavyweight crown by defeating George Gardner, — a better man than any but Delaney in the class today. If Bob Fitzsimmons at 41 could win a world's title and get back into the big money again there's hopes for the bold Michael. One thing is sure. Michael is going to continue being bold as long as he's hunting a world's championship and knows that only boldness and a punch can possibly earn it for him.

Whether Michael will change his cautious complex if he becomes champion again, or decide that there's more money in being bold and popular, only time can tell. But Mike has no notion of retiring, no more than Bob Fitzsimmons had when he haunted the ring and fought his last battle, six rounds, no-decision, against K. O. Sweeney at the ripe age of 52.

CROSBY DIES

GILMER, Feb. 11. (AP)—Willie Lee Crosby, 35, professional baseball player of the Western and Pacific coast leagues, died here Friday at his home.

BUFFS HOLD OUT

HOUSTON, Feb. 11.(AP)—President Fred Ankenman of the Houston baseball club today announced that Gerald Meyers, left handed pitcher, had signed a season contract. It was the first, he said, of more than 30 which had been sent out, nearly a dozen of which have been returned asking for better terms.

Pope Wins Nat'l Flyer Handicap

KANSAS CITY, Feb. 11.(AP)—Jean Pope, East Mobile, Ill., today captured the National Flyer handicap shoot in today's session of the Interstate Amateur Trap Shooters tournament.

Pope was forced to 12 additional hits after a quadruple tie for first place resulted at the ending of 20 flyers. In the "miss-and-out" Pope nosed out W. G. Warren, Chicago, who stopped at 11. Both were shooting from scratch, 33 yards. E. Rea, Burlington, Iowa, stopped at two extra flyers and Fred Ford, Detroit, missed his first extra attempt. This pair shot from 30 yards.

Frank Hughes, Chicago, took the 200-target international all-around cup with 183. Other high guns in this event were: Mark Erie, Champaign, Ill., 182; W. G. Warren, third, 179; E. F. Woodward, Houston, Texas, and Bart Lewis, Springfield, Ill., tied for fourth with 178 each.

Cruickshank Cops South Central Open

HOT SPRINGS, Ark., Feb. 11. (AP)—Bobby Cruickshank, little professional of the Progress Country club, near Purchase, N. Y., added his third winter golf crown of the season today by winning the south central open tournament with a score of 296 for the 72 holes.

His cards today:

Morning out 653 464 344—39
In .....344 453 344—34—73
Aftern'n out 554 444 345—38
In .....254 443 444—34—72

Cruickshank recently won the California open and the Texas open tournaments.

TEXAS AGGIES TRIUMPH

COLLEGE STATION, Feb. 11. (AP)—Texas A. & M. college swamped Centenary college of Shreveport 38 to 20 in the first of a two-game series here Friday night. The game was slow at the start but warmed up rapidly. Sikes, A. & M. center, made 11 points for high scoring honors. Clark, forward for the Aggies, was second with 10 points. Boydston was leading scorer for Centenary with six points. The second game will be played here Saturday night.

MATRIMONIAL TOUCHDOWN

CHICAGO, Feb. 11. (AP)—Announcement was made today of the marriage of James Braden, automobile editor of the Daily News and former Yale fullback, to Miss Georgia West of Guthrie, Okla. Braden was named on Walter Camp's second all-American football team in 1919. He was a captain of the Yale track team and founder of the Yale "Y" club for varsity athletes.

TIGERS TRIM AGGIES

COLUMBIA, Feb. 11. (AP)—Led by Kenneth Yunker's sensationaly scoring play, the University of Missouri basketball team defeated the Oklahoma Aggies here tonight, 46 to 29. The Tigers, though tied by the visitors twice early in the game, were never headed.

NUNAMAKER PILOTS OILERS

CORSICANA, Feb. 11. (AP)—Leslie G. Nunamaker, former Cleveland American league catcher, has been signed to manage the Corsicana Oilers of the new Lone Star Baseball league for 1927, according to an announcement made by Dude Hoansom, president of the local club.

Archer County Meet Tuesday

ARCHER CITY, Feb. 11.—The Archer county basketball and volleyball tournament scheduled to be played here Friday was postponed to next Tuesday because of muddy roads. The highways were almost impassible for the would-be visiting teams.

The Megargel basketball team will play Holliday at 2 p. m. Tuesday and the winner is to take on Archer City Tuesday night.

RATTLESNAKES RUN WILD

HUNTSVILLE, Feb. 11. (AP)—The Navasota Rattlesnakes showed up well in the first round of play in the district 15 interscholastic league tournament which started Friday afternoon, defeating Corrigan 46 to 11.

Other results were: Willis 20; Madisonville 18. Buffalo 19; Pennington 18. Huntsville 21; Weldon 18.

Navasota will meet Willis and Huntsville plays Buffalo in the semi-finals Saturday morning, the championship game coming in the afternoon.

Bushey and Phil Given the Gate

Wallopers Catch One-Year Ring Suspension

NEW YORK, Feb. 11. (AP)—Meting out suspensions of one year each to Charley (Phil) Rosenberg, former bantam champion and Bushy Graham, of Utica, N. Y., the New York State Athletic commission today struck a telling blow against secret boxing agreements in violation of its rules.

After flooring the two fighters, the board landed on their managers and Jess McMahon, Madison Square garden matchmaker, who signed the boxers for a championship bout last week. An indefinite suspension was given McMahon, while licenses of Harry Segal, pilot of Rosenberg, and William J. Parr, manager of Graham, were revoked.

ANOTHER GOLF NUT

Mobile "Doc" Would Drive Ball All Way to Los Angeles

MOBILE, Ala., Feb. 11. (AP)—Distance and figures don't mean a thing to Doc Graham, 21, of Crichton, a suburb, who is going west, starting Sunday, in company with a brassie and sky iron, not to speak of several golf balls and a volunteer caddy.

Graham, who is well-known in Mobile and Crichton, wants to go west. He is bound for Los Angeles, driving a golf ball before him every foot of the way. The route he will take, he has discovered, will make his journey some 3500 miles long.

To drive the ball west has been Graham's ambition for the last year. When he starts he'll be accompanied by "Happy" Kirby, a 19-year-old adventurer, who wants to go along and will officiate as caddy.

SO SAYS GOOSE

Golf Good for Full-Swinging Baseball Batters

HOT SPRINGS, Ark., Feb. 11. (AP)—Golf is great stuff for the baseball hitter who takes a full swing, but bad medicine for the batter who chokes his bludgeon, in the opinion of Leon "Goose" Goslin, slugging outfielder of the Washington Americans.

The "Goose" qualified as a golfing authority by his play here in the south central open tournament in which he has an amateur standing. Teamed with Joe Turner, professional, Goslin shared second honors in the mixed professional and amateur best ball matches Wednesday.

SOONER CAGERS WIN

ST. LOUIS, Feb. 11. (AP)—Oklahoma university's basketball team got off to a flying start and defeated Washington university, 46 to 25 here tonight. The score at the half was Oklahoma 21, Washington 14. Washington rallied at the beginning of the second half and came within two points of tying the score, but the Sooners came back strong and staged a "walkaway" in the last part of the game.

FIRST GOVERNMENT POTASH TEST TO BE STARTED IMMEDIATELY

SITE IS NEAR ARTESIA, N. M.

Bills Introduced to Facilitate Drilling in Texas

The actual drilling campaign under the supervision of the federal government in an effort to obtain an ample domestic potash supply is expected to begin within a few days when the Sullivan Machinery company of Chicago will start drilling on a test 35 miles east of Artesia, N. M.

The contract for the drilling test was awarded to the Sullivan company on the lowest of four bids received by the bureau of mines, department of commerce. The company is moving machinery to the site designated and should commence drilling within the next week.

The site is located on public lands of the United States and is therefore not subject to restrictions in the enabling act which requires the negotiation of leases with all owners of land or mineral rights within a radius of one mile. The site is in the northwest quarter of section 13, township 17s, range 31e and in an area recently announced by the United States geological survey as holding great promise for the discovery of commercial potash beds.

Cores demonstrating the existence of 10 groups of beds containing potash bearing salts of possible commercial interest were taken from the McNutt test recently drilled by private interests 20 miles from the government site, which is the fifth recommended to the bureau of mines by the geological survey. The other four sites are located in West Texas and are affected by the restrictive clauses of the enabling act.

Bills modifying the terms of the potash enabling act, by eliminating the requirement of obtaining leases from all owners of land and mineral rights, have been introduced in the senate and the house of representatives. It is thought that passage of these bills will facilitate the drilling of test wells on favorable sites previously designated in Texas.

News of The Fields

GULF, HOWARD-DENNIS

The Gulf Production company has just completed one well on its Howard-Dennis lease in the Nocona field of Montague county and has two more cemented on the sand. Gulf's No. 2 on this lease swabbed 40 barrels initial from the sand at 1398 to 1402 feet. No. 3 is cemented at 1108 feet and No. 4 at 1377 feet.

FIRE DESTROYS RIG

A spark from the lighted fuse used when a bump with nitro was being applied to the Roxana Petroleum corporation's No. A-3 Waggoner in Wilbarger county Friday night, ignited the derrick and the entire rig was destroyed. Results of the shot cannot be known until the rig is rebuilt. The test is in section 43, block 4, H. & T. C. survey.

PITZER-WEST, BOOZER

The latest report from Pitzer and West's No. 1 John Boozer in the South Bend pool of Young county, which found the Stovall sand at 3880 feet and started off with a 10,000,000-foot gas flow, is to the effect that the test is spraying oil at the rate of 80 barrels daily and increasing while the gas flow remains undiminished.

PET. PRODUCERS, TURBEVILLE

The Petroleum Producers company has made location to drill its No. 3 J. H. Turbeville, 300 feet north of No. 2 in block 142, Robert Carson survey in Archer county.

TEXAS, GRAF

The Texas company No. 1 Graf, in the northeast quarter of section 19, block 9, H. & T. C. survey, Wilbarger county, was last reported fishing for tools at 495 feet.

PLAINS, LYLES

The Plains Production company in its No. 1 Lyles, section 2, S. P. R. R. survey in Archer county, was shut down Friday at a depth of 1416 feet.

HUMBLE, MUNGER

The Humble Oil and Refining company is drilling below 1450 feet in its No. 1 S. I. Munger, located in block 31, K. W. V. L. in Archer county.

CONSOLIDATED, CONGER

Consolidated Oil company-Larkin and White No. 1 Conger in section 943, T. E. & L. survey in Throckmorton county, is reported fishing for tools at 1664 feet.

3962 OPERATIONS

Mid-Continent Gains in Activity During Week.

Oil operations in the Mid-Continent fields situated in North Texas, Oklahoma, Kansas and New Mexico reached a total of 3962 during the week just ended. This figure is a slight increase over the previous week and comes despite a general falling off in field work in Texas, Kansas and New Mexico areas. A comparatively large increase more than offset decreases in other areas.

North Central Texas radiating around Wichita Falls reported a total of 209 operations during the week. Of this number 78 were drilling wells. The number of shut down wells are carried as 43, and completions 29.

NOLAN COUNTY TEST

J. H. Winemiller of Tulsa, has begun a 3,200 foot test in section 90, block 21, of T. & P. survey, southeast of Sweetwater, in Nolan county, of central east area of West Texas. It is 12 miles southeast of the Noodle Creek field. Mr. Winemiller plans two other tests in North Central Texas, one in North Central Young county, and one in southeastern Archer county.

His 1927 program for Texas includes the drilling of some 8 to 10 wildcats in different areas of the state. He has a block near Decatur, in Wise county, with John Chronic, a well known oil man in charge.

Scouts Use Nags To Secure Dope In Muddy Field

TULSA, Feb. 11.—The Seminole production showed the first decline in two weeks in the figures announced yesterday. The total production for the 24 hours ending at 7:30 a. m. Feb. 9 was 236,231 barrels from 228 wells, a decline of 1,376 barrels from the previous 24 hours. Seminole proper, made 228,111 barrels, Searight 28,620, Bowlegs pool (S-6) 10,475, and Earlsboro 19,024 barrels.

Road conditons in the pool were reported unusually bad. In some parts of the field roads were impassible, and scouts and field men were using horses to make their rounds. The whole country is a sea of mud due to the rain and snow of the last two days.

WEAK MARKET FOR REFINERS

Investigation Shows Mid-Continent Firms Active

Refinery markets in North Texas do not reveal much strength, and the same situation applies to other districts of the Mid-Continent province.

Higher gravities of gasoline are being offered more freely by refiners at figures slightly under prevailing spot quotations. Natural gasolines are unchanged.

Wholesale prices of refined oils in tank car lots of 8000 to 10,000 gallons, f.o.b. the refinery appear as follows:

Despite the slow market for refinery products, the Mid-Continent refiners keep busy, the intensive investigation the National Petroleum News makes each week of the five states shows. The 124 plants in the five states, who constitute 70 per cent of the total, produced the past week a total of 139,750,607 gallons of gasoline; 23,554,661 gallons of kerosene; 7,349,443 gallons of stove distillate; 29,196,927 gallons of gas oil and 109,603,921 gallons of fuel oil.

Shipments fell off, gasoline movement totalling 124,198,769 gallons; kerosene totalled 23,419,640 gallons; stove distillate, 10,593,389; gas oil, 29,043,380 gallons and fuel oil 118,859,076 gallons.

Stock Markets Closed Saturday

NEW YORK, Feb. 11.(AP)—The New York stock exchange, the curb market, cotton exchange and all other securities and commodities markets will be closed tomorrow in observance of Lincoln's birthday. As it is a legal holiday the banks will be closed.

GRAIN MARKET HOLIDAY.

CHICAGO, Feb. 11.(AP)—With all American grain exchanges scheduled to take a holiday tomorrow wheat trade was light today and prices almost at a standstill. For the most part business was confined to evening up of accounts. Hard winter wheat at the Gulf of Mexico was at about the lowest level of the season as compared with May, but the movement in the southwest was reported falling off.

TEXAS WOOL $1.05@1.08.

BOSTON, Feb. 11.(AP)—The Commercial Bulletin tomorrow will say:

There is a fair business being done in the eastern seaboard wool markets, although it is not well distributed. Inquiry for fine wools continues with prices firm, but medium and low grade wool is more in the limelight with prices hardening.

Foreign markets are firm and against the buyer very slightly with good clearances being made steadily. Americans buying more freely abroad.

In the west contracting has spread out more widely and more buyers have been in the field with prices slightly against the buyer. Fully 20,000,000 pounds are estimated to have been contracted to date, mostly of late in the range of 30-33 cents to the grower, according to the wool, except in Texas where the best wools have gone lately at 36-38 cents. Prices there are not dearer for the week, however.

Mohair is in moderate inquiry. Wool quotations:

Scoured basis, Texas fine 12 months (selected) $1.05@1.08; fine 8 months 95c @$1.00; fall, 80@85c.

Important Wildcat Finds Oil In Granite Wash

AMARILLO, Feb. 11.—Three miles north and a mile east of Kingsmill, in central west Gray county, the Texas company at No. 1 Frashier, in the northeast of the northwest of the southwest section 162, block 3, of I. & G. N. survey, made a 40-barrel flow at 3315 feet. It had the granite wash at 3255 feet for a showing of oil and was deepened to 3315 feet, and it may be sent a few feet deeper.

It also sprayed some oil at 3196 feet and at 3302 feet the gas increased to such an extent that the boiler had to be moved back.

This important semi-wildcat, will help to link up a definite connection in the potential trend that Panhandle operators anticipate will be proven up from Hutchinson, through Carson and Gray into Wheeler.

NEW YORK COTTON.

NEW YORK, Feb. 11.(AP)—Uncertainties of pending farm relief legislation seemed to increase today the disposition to even-up commitments in advance of the two-day adjournment in the cotton market. Alternating spurts of realizing or liquidation and covering caused more or less irregularity, and after selling up from 14.02 to 14.18, May contracts sold off to 14.01 in late trading, compared with 14.08, at the close of the previous day. May closed at 14.02, the general market closing barely steady at net declines of two to six points.

The market opened steady at a decline of three to six points in response to rather disappointing Liverpool cables, but soon steadied on covering and trade buying. There was considerable Liverpool buying during the first hour, presumably against sales in the English market, while there also was buying here against sales in New Orleans.

This demand helped the advance which carried prices up to 13.97 for March and 14.58 for October contracts during the forenoon, or about 10 to 12 points net higher. After the close of Liverpool, buying from that quarter was withdrawn, while there appeared to be a little more hedge selling and prices eased off during the afternoon, under a renewal of liquidation.

There was another spurt covering on a bullish interpretation of the week-end figures which prices back to nearly the high level of the morning, but the market eased again after 2 o'clock, reaching the lowest prices in late trading.

The week-end figures showed a decrease of 146,864 bales in the world's visible supply of American for the week, compared with 421,722 the previous week and 298,875 for the same week last year.

Port receipts today 39,766; U. S. port stocks 2,876,593; exports today 26,841 making 7,013,704 so far this season.

NEW ORLEANS COTTON.

NEW ORLEANS, Feb. 11.(AP)—Caught between pre-holiday liquidation and less favorable news concerning the probable passage of the farm relief bill, cotton prices crumpled in the last hour to close from 1 to 6 points down for the May. The upward of the day, influenced by Hester's weekly statistics, which revealed larger mill takings than expected, and optimistic views regarding the McNary-Haugen bill, recovered its first setback in the early afternoon when preholiday evening up set in.

Liverpool, in spite of spot sale totalling 10, bales was lower than due. This had little effect on opening prices, however, and bidding swung upward all the morning, until all the active months were above the 14-cent level, with March at 14.02, May at 14.18, and July at 14.26, or 13 to 18 points above the previous close.

In the early afternoon a reaction carried prices seven to 11 points below the highs before the late selling bombardment started, when, influenced by unfavorable farm relief news, March slumped to 13.85 and July touched 14.16, 17 to 18 points below the highs. The close was near the bottom.

Mill takings fo rthe week were set at 411,000 bales, with exports for the day 31,343 and for the week 185,283.

CHICAGO GRAIN REVIEW.

CHICAGO, Feb. 11.(AP)—Nearly as motionless as the traditional painted ship upon a painted ocean, the wheat market today devoted itself chiefly to pre-holiday adjustment of accounts. With all United States exchanges closed tomorrow, few traders cared to take on any immediate new risks looking either toward higher or lower prices. Wheat finished easy unchanged to ⅛cent down, corn unchanged to ⅛ cent up, oats unchanged to ⅛ cent advance, and provisions varying from 15 cents decline to a rise of 5 cents. Unseasonable weather with a shrinkage of receipts and terminals gave firmeness to the corn market. Oats sympathized with corn.

Packers selling together with a downturn in hog values had a bearish effect on provisions.

TEXAS CASH GRAIN.

FORT WORTH, Feb. 11.(AP)—Lighter receipts helped steady the Fort Worth cash grain market as trading closed for the week Friday. Rather better buying by millers carried the market through the earlier part of the week to a very good business although wheat closed ½ to 1½c lower. Demand for yellow corn has been the feature of the coarse grain trade prices for the yellow remaining at 13 to 15 cents over the mixed.

CHICAGO CASH GRAIN.

Oats: No. 2 white, 48@48½c; No. 3 white, 41½@46½c.

WHEAT.

Final prices at Chicago were unchanged to ⅛ cent lower with Winnipeg showing little more loss. American grain markets will be closed tomorrow. Weather over the winter wheat belt was generally fair and mild, with forecast for fair and somewhat colder, but no low temperatures are anticipated. There was nothing doing in the export line, and premiums on hard wheat at the Gulf were about the lowest of the season compared with the May. On the other hand southwest movement was reported as falling off with premiums firm. World's shipments were estimated at about 17½ million bushels, against 21½ million last week. Combined southern hemisphere shipments aggregating about 10,000,000. A great deal of interest was taken in the disposition of McNary-Haugen bill in the senate. A vote is anticipated late in the day.

DUN'S BUSINESS REVIEW.

NEW YORK, Feb. 11.(AP)—Dun's tomorrow will say:

The movement of commodity prices remains the outstanding phase of the business situation, having overshadowed other trends since the new year opened. Still lower levels have been reached by various articles, there being a continued excess of declines, and both raw materials and manufactured products have been affected. Sharper competition for orders is a feature commented upon more generally, yet it is significant that the price easing has bee nmainly gradual, and signs of resistance to further concessions are beginning to appear in some markets. This condition is reflected in Dun's current list of wholesale quotations, which shows a decided narrowing of the margin of reductions over advances.

WHEAT TAKES FREAK COURSE

Price Switches Aimlessly In Day's Trading

BY CHARLES J. LEYDEN.

Universal Service Staff Correspondent.

Chicago, Feb. 11.—Wheat swung aimlessly in a narrow trade today to close steady to a fraction lower. A lack of incentive featured both sides of the market and many were disposed to even up for over the holidays but the fact that action was pending in the senate on the McNary-Haugen bill made many acutious. Volume of trade was probably the smallest for one day in weeks. Corn met local professional support that urged short covering and final prices were higher. Oats were firm and rye easier.

May wheat opened at $1.41⅛, sagged to $1.40⅜, firmed to $1.41⅝, dipped to $1.40⅝ and closed at $1.41⅛. July opened at $1.34½@⅝, dipped to $1.34⅜, reached $1.35 and closed at $1.34⅝@⅜. Eastern houses bought some wheat and corn during the day but the amount was moderate.

The seaboard advised of improved foreign inquiry with bids near a working basis. Liverpool closed ¼ pence higher.

Locally wheat finished unchanged to ⅛c lower, corn ⅛ to ⅜c higher, oats unchanged to ⅛c up and rye ⅛ to ⅜c off.

The moderate movement of corn to primary markets and the fairly active demand for the good quality gain stirred up a fair class of commission house and local professional buying that kept shorts on the defensive and closed the market in higher ground. While there were some notices that farmers n instances were offering corn to arrive a little more freely most advices said the offerings were moderate. Primary receipts aggregated 416,000 bushels against 1,194,000 bushels last week.

Oats finished steady to firm. A little commission house trade prevailed early on both sides but thereafter interest was small.

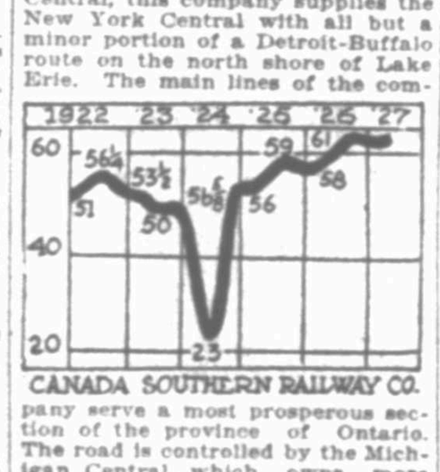

Rye was without much speculative support and sagged as longs were inclined to even up.

CANADA SOUTHERN RAILWAY COMPANY.

5-Year Record.

The Canada Southern Railway company was originated in 1868. Through a lease to the Michigan Central, this company supplies the New York Central with all but a minor portion of a Detroit-Buffalo route on the north shore of Lake Erie. The main lines of the company serve a most prosperous section of the province of Ontario.

CANADA SOUTHERN RAILWAY CO.

The road is controlled by the Michigan Central, which owns more than 50 per cent of its stock, assumes all obligations and guarantees 3 per cent yearly dividends. Earnings are not separately reported but the Michigan Central lease, which has large strategic value, runs for 999 years.

The company has an agreement with the Pere Marquette by which the latter pays $165,000 a year for running rights over Canada Southern tracks from the St. Clair river to the Niagara River. The company operates 279.64 miles of road and has a total trackage of 868.26 miles.

Funded debt amounts to $22,630,000. Capital stock consists of $15,000,000 outstanding in shares of $100 par. Dividends are being paid at the guaranteed 3 per cent rate.

As of Dec. 31, 1925 current assets were $467,930, current liabilities $511,562 and excess of current liabilities over current assets $143,632.

TEXAS VEGETABLES.

SAN ANTONIO, Feb. 11.(Texas Market News Service.)—On account of the weather, shipments from all Texas points reported for yesterday were rather light. There was quite an appreciable pick-up for the previous day from the lower Rio Grande valley section, however. Thursday, there moved from Texas loading stations seven cars of spinach, eight of sweet potatoes, three (incomplete) of mixed vegetables, one of lettuce, two (incomplete) of cabbage and one of string beans. The pick-up for the previous day consisted of five cars of spinach, 71 cars of mixed vegetables, five of grapefruit and 46 of cabbage.

Hardly enough sales of spinach were reported to establish a market, on account of the light tonnage rolled and the inactive demand. However, occasional cars sold from 45 to 50c per bushel basket f. o. b. loading stations. Cabbage was dull at $10@12 per ton, beets and carrots being steady to unchanged at 70@85c per bushel basket.

POTATO SHIPMENTS.

FORT WORTH, Feb. 11.(Texas Market News Service.)—Potato shipments in the United States totalled 787 cars, Colorado 86, Idaho 86, Washington 26. Arrived at Fort Worth today 13 cars, on track 15 cars. Market steady. Car loads delivered Texas common points, northwestern brown beauties, rurals and russets United States No. 1's sacked $2.50 @2.85 per 100 pounds.

OTHER MARKETS.

Corn: Evening up operations of speculars was sufficient to make final prices ⅛ to ¼c higher. There has been a falling off in receipts at terminal markets, but a larger movement is anticipated if any advance occurs. Eastern demand was slow.

Oats: There was a little better demand for good grade oats and the market displayed an improvement in tone, although final prices were not much changed from yesterday, otherwise, there was litle or no feature.

Rye: Rye fluctuated aimlessly in a narrow range with wheat. Norway was reported after 75,000 bushels at the seaboard but no sales were claimed. Rye lost ⅛ to ⅜ cents on the day.

Provisions: Lard was easier with hogs and the close was around 14 points lower. Hogs were 15 to 25 cents lower.

Stocks: While there war considerable unsettlement due to evening-up for the two holidays, stock market generally maintained an extremely firm undertone, with a number of real good advances scattered about uniformly throughout the list. There was particularly good buying in General Motors and Hudson. International Harvester sold at the highest price it has reached for a number of weeks, presumably on account of farm bills pending in congress, which are said to be bullish on this stock. The rails encountered a good demand and were generally higher. We continue take a constructive view of the market.

N. Y. Stocks

NEW YORK, Feb. 11.(AP)—Heavy week-end realizing sales slowed down the upward movement in today's stock market, but not until after more than a score issues had been elevated to the highest prices in years speculative interest which had shifted from the rails to the industrials yesterday was fairly evenly divided in today's session, total sales again running around 2,000,000 shares.

Money rates continued relatively easy and the weekly clearing house statement, published today because of the holiday tomorrow, showed a substantial improvement in the reserve position. The weekly mercantile reviews reported a further quickening in activity, but the trend of prices is still downward. The announcement that William C. Durant, one of the street's largest operators, had cancelled his proposed trip to Italy heartened "bull" traders who construed it as an indication that Mr. Durant was expecting a good spring market.

International Harvester superseded Baldwin as the leader in the industrial division, soaring over six points to a new record high at 156½ and closing near the top. Baldwin fluctuated rather erratically within a five-point radius, closing fractionally lower at 176⅝. General Motors made a curious response to the raising of the annual dividend from $7 to $8, opening fractionally lower, suddenly climbing over three points and then losing half its gain, closing at 155⅛.

U. S. Steel common paid little attention to the rumors, later officially denied, that Chairman Gary was to retire before the end of the year. The stock closed fractionally higher at 157⅞, but total sales were less than 15,000 shares.

Both the rail and industrial averages reached new high ground for the year.

Among the industrials and specialties to break into new high ground were New York Airbrake, Lima Locomotive, Colorado Fuel, Collins and Aikman issues, Coca Cola, Union Carbide, Chicago Pneumatic Tool, General Outdoor Advertising certificates, Freeport Texas, Amalgamated Leather and Safety Cable.

New Haven was the outstanding individual feature in the railroad group, running up nearly four points to 56⅞. Rock Island and Hudson and Manhattan also moved into new high ground with substantial gains also being recorded by New York Central and Chesapeake and Ohio.

BULL OPINION RULES STOCKS

Over-Holiday Sales Tone Features Market

BY BROADAN WALL,

Universal Service Financial Expert.

NEW YORK, Feb. 11.—Selling for over the holiday was well absorbed today and a demand developed for high-grade rails and standard industrials which lifted those stocks to new heights for the year. The fact that directors did not raise the rediscount rate on Thursday is regarded as a bull card. The idea is that the market will continue to discount this favorable development with higher prices. New York Central and Union Pacific changed hands at new top values for the year.

Money loaned at 4 per cent. Chinese money dropped sharply coincident with the decline in silver prices. Dutch currency and the Argentine peso were strong. Commodities were quiet and steady.

Chesapeake and Ohio was one of the rail leaders. The Van Sweringens have filed an application with the interstate commerce commission to take over stock in the Pere Marquette. New Haven was higher on reports that the Pennsylvania was planning to guarantee a $4 dividend on the New Haven shares. Wabash was active. Rumors in Wall Street indicate that the Lackawanna will guarantee a dividend of $4 on Wabash stock. The Lackawanna is the eastern terminal for the Wabash. Wheeling and Lake Erie was quiet.

Heavy buying developed in International Harvester. The stock is now one of the leaders of the market. Seven years ago the stock sold at 142 when working capital amounted to $157,000,000. Of this amount $13,000,000 represented inventory. Two years ago working capital totaled $160,000,000 of which only $84,000,000 was inventory.

The idea that the company turns out only Harvesting machines is erroneous. Harvester machinery at the present time constitutes only 20 per cent of its entire business. The company is now interested in motor trucks, busses and tractors than the Ford company. The company is i na strong position in that it owns or controls the bulk of raw material it consumes.

Rubbers are coming into favor. U. S. Rubber was active at higher prices and buying was noticeable in Miller Rubber. The latter has just announced a new type balloon tire costing $2,000,000 to perfect. The company, it is understood, has eliminated seams and joints in the new tire. Norwalk tire held ground. A new syndicate has been formed in this issue with an objective of much higher prices. There has been shifting recently from Ajaax into Norwalk.

Baldwin at one time was down five points from the high. How Baldwin came to earn the rumored figure of $22 a share is a mystery. It was not from the sale of Locomotive and cannot be classed as "real" earnings. Westinghouse Air Brake continued strong, higher prices are predicted for this issue. Pressed Steel Car went higher.

Some interests that have been long of the stock got out today on the belief that negotiaions for a merger of hat company with others had been called off. In other quarters buying of the stock was based on the company's business.

Orders received recently, it is said, have been the largest in months. One recent order calls for 2000 freight cars of which 1500 will be built in the Pittsburgh plant and 500 in Chicago. While the company did a poor business last year officials feel that the corner has been turned.

General Motors closed strong and advanced despite that the "good news" was out concerning the increased dividend. Automobile merger talk is in the air again. The latest line up is Chrysler, Packard, Dodge and Briggs Body.

Selling developed in Yellow truck on rumors that the dividend will be passed next week. It is known, however, that a large order has been placed for the stock, presumably for the General Motors interests.

Durant stocks braced up on news that the motor magnate had cancelled his trip to Italy. His action is also regarded as bullish on the general market because of his record for constructive activities.

MARKET GOSSIP

J. H. Baldwin and Co., brokers, basement Bob Waggoner building, today received the following from New York, New Orleans and Chicago connections:

COTTON.

While a show of strength was made by cotton in the early part of the session today, the late trading brought easiness because of the desire of longs to even-up over the double holidays following the close. In the early part of the day buying was based on the belief that the McNary-Haugen bill had better chances than ever of being passed by congress. Later on the demand increased because of the very large mill takings for the week, in the later trading bullish influences were forgotten.

The feature of Hester's figures was the enormous mill takings, 411,000 bales against 216,000 this week last year and 274,000 this week two years ago.

We would not follow this market very far in either direction, until the political situation is more settled.

Reiter Foster oil high 13; low 12¾; close 13, sales 600.

COTTON SEED OIL.

NEW YORK, Feb. 11.(AP)—Cotton seed oil was moderately active today with price movements irregular and trading mostly of an evening up character for over the week-end and in advance of the bureau report due next week. The undertone was steady, due to the firmness of crude oil. Closing prices were 10 points lower to four net higher. Sales 16,200 barrels. Prime crude 800; prime summer yellow spot 900; March closed 892; May 954; July 971; September 984.

COTTON GOODS MARKET.

NEW YORK, Feb. 11.(AP)—Cotton goods buying continued steady in small lots in the gray goods and convertible division today. Finished goods sold in a seasonable way, with printed dress goods growing more active. Burlap markets were higher in Calcutta and more trading was reported for nearby and contract delivery. Generally spot markets were firm. Raw silks showed more steadiness. Silk fabrics were moving more feely.

TRIAL POSTPONED

Negro Accused of Slaying White Officer to Face Jury.

HOUSTON, Feb. 11.(AP)—Trial of Pete Chester, negro, charged with the murder of P. P. Jones, 35, white police officer, January 30, was reset Friday by Judge Whit Boyd for March 21 on motion of the defense which claimed that an eye witness to the shooting was absent.

Chester was brought to the court room under guard of Sheriff T. A. Binford and five armed deputies.

CLARK URGES ROAD NEEDS

Permanent Highways Asked In Irrigation District

Urgent need of permanent roads in the irrigated district of Wichita county was stressed Friday by C. H. Clark, chairman of the highway committee of the Wichita Falls Chamber of Commerce, at the business council luncheon held in the Kemp hotel.

Clark was the principal speaker at the luncheon which was attended by approximately 100 members of the chamber.

Within 10 days a definite road building program will be compiled by the highway committee and presented to the chamber of commerce for approval, Clark told those at the luncheon.

As Archer county has voted $1,500,000 road bond issues, Clark asserted that it was the duty of Wichita county to appropriate enough money to construct roads connecting with the Archer county highways leading to the Wichita county line.

CAMP FIRE ELECTION

TORONTO, Feb. 11. (AP)—W. C. Mickel, a magistrate of Belleville, Ontario, thinks that some time or other some border states will wish to leave Uncle Sam and join the Lady of the Snows. He gave his opinion at a meeting of the United Empire Loyalists' association.

ROOT ROT MENACE

Ways and means to curtail "root rot" on Wichita county farms was discussed Friday at a meeting of the Valley Development committee of the Wichita Falls Chamber of Commerce.

The committee went on record as endorsing a movement to have the legislature appropriate $100,000 for the experimental station at Iowa Park to investigate the best method of stopping the menace to growing crops in the county.

Wichita county has less "root rot" than a majority of Texas counties, it developed during the meeting, however, the committee stressed the fact that a method to stop the growth should be ascertained immediately.

A "steering committee" to assist those endeavoring to have the legislature appropriate $100,000 for the "root rot" experiment was appointed during the meeting. The committee is composed of Earl Knox, J. S. Bridwell and G. D. Anderson.

Members of the Valley Development committee attending the meeting held in the chamber of commerce were J. T. Harrell, J. A. Kemp, Solon Downing, Knox, Bridwell and Anderson.

"FRIENDLY" SCUFFLE

A negro youth received a severe gash in the head during a "friendly scuffle" with another negro on Lake street early Friday afternoon, in which the butt of a revolver is said to have been used as a club.

Through a refusal of the assaultee to file more serious charges, both were marked up with affray. City Officer Mace Davis made the arrest.

PARTY POSTPONED

The Business and Professional Women's club party planned for Saturday night at Camp Noble has been postponed until Feb. 19 on account of the conditions of the road to the club house. Previous announcement to the effect that it would be held at Mrs. L. I. Bennett's home on Pembroke drive has been changed also. This party was in the nature of a surprise in honor of the winning side in the recent membership drive. Plans will be announced later.

NEGRO GOES BACK TO PEN

Black Arrested Here Admits He Escaped From Prison

Frank Johnson, a negro who is serving a 50-day sentence in the Wichita county jail, admitted Friday that he has escaped from the state penitentiary at Huntsville, Texas, in October of last year after having served about eight years of a 50-year sentence.

This was made following an investigation by Deputy Sheriff Cliff Klersey, concluded Thursday when the officer received finger prints and records from the prison office.

Johnson is said to have been one of the four negroes who attempted to break jail last week. He will be held in the county jail until prison representatives arrive, it was reported Friday at the sheriff's office.

The Homely Preachments of "Honest Abe"

In his youth a certain fortitude of character earned for Lincoln the name "Honest Abe." His idealism was red-blooded and practical, a thing he could use every day in his dealings with women and men. If today the world would pause in its preoccupation it might do well to remember him, and his inestimable services to humanity.

It is, we feel sure, our own honest desire to safeguard the interests of our patrons — whether their dealings with us amount to a few cents or thousands of dollars—that has earned for us the community's esteem.

Denver Railway Head Here Today For Conference On Terminal Site

Conference between F. E. Clarity, vice-president and general manager of the Fort Worth and Denver, and a committee from the Wichita Falls Chamber of Commerce relative to the purchase of the Adkins-Polk Grocery company property at Eighth street and Michigan avenue, will be held Saturday in the chamber of commerce.

Clarity advised Hubert Harrison, general manager of the chamber of commerce, Friday morning, that he would be in Wichita Falls some time Friday.

The meeting between the railroad officials and the committee was originally set for Friday morning, but due to the inability of Clarity to be in Wichita Falls at that time the meeting was postponed.

The committee, composed of R. E. Huff, J. C. Mytinger, N. H. Martin and John W. Bradley, went to Fort Worth Monday to confer with Clarity relative to the purchase of the property by the Fort Worth and Denver, Missouri, Kansas and Texas and the Wichita Falls and Southern, the three railroads entering Wichita Falls.

Need of the property by the railroads for future expansion of terminal facilities in Wichita Falls is the reason advanced by the chamber for the purchase of the property.

MAIL ROUTE

A THREE DAYS COUGH IS YOUR DANGER SIGNAL

Persistent coughs and colds lead to serious trouble. You can stop them now with Creomulsion, an emulsified creosote that is pleasant to take. Creomulsion is a new medical discovery with two-fold action; it soothes and heals the inflamed membranes and inhibits germ growth.

Of all known drugs, creosote is recognized by the medical authorities as one of the greatest healing agencies for persistent coughs and colds and other forms of throat troubles. Creomulsion contains in addition to creosote, other healing elements which soothe and heal the infected membranes and stops the irritation and inflammation, while the creosote goes on to the stomach, is absorbed into the blood, attacks the seat of the truble and checks the growth of the germs.

Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of persistent coughs and colds, bronchial asthma, bronchitis and other forms of respiratory diseases, and is excellent for building up the system after colds or flu. Money refunded if any cough or cold is not relieved after taking according to directions. Ask your druggist.—Adv.
