Earnest On Ballot Attorney's Job Sought By Two

Joe Earnest, descendant of a Mitchell County pioneer family and county attorney in the 1940's, has become a candidate for the county attorney's job again in the Democratic Party primary election.

Earnest becomes the second local attorney to file for a place on the ballot which was re-opened following the resignation of Dan Barber.

Dan Barber's resignation is effective April 1.

Also filing for a place on the ballot was Perry Barber, uncle of the present county attorney.

The county attorney's office is expected to be discussed at Tuesday's meeting of the Mitchell County Commissioners.

Court when Dan Barber's written resignation will be placed before the court.

Dan Barber's resignation necessitated an extension in the filing period for the May Democratic Party primary ballot for the place of county attorney.

The additional filing period is for 15 days ending March 15.

A Commissioners Court appointment to fill the county attorney's post will be necessary for the interim period between Dan Barber's April 1 resignation and the finalizing of the 1972 elections.

Earnest was Mitchell County attorney in 1942-1943 and has served two periods as city judge of Colorado City.

He is the son of the late Judge C. H. Earnest, a judge of Mitchell County in the late 1890's.

Earnest was born in Mitchell County and has lived all his life here except for the time he was in college.

Graduated from University of Texas Law School at the age of 22, Earnest also has college degrees from the University of the South (Sewanee) in Tennessee and Columbia University.

graduate school, later teaching at Columbia.

He is a member of Phi Beta Kappa scholastic fraternity, Delta Tau Delta social fraternity and Blue Key.

He is a trustee of University of the South, Sewanee, Tenn. At the University of Texas, he started the Ranger Magazine and was editor of the Mountain Goat at Sewanee. When in law school he wrote a daily column entitled "Prickly Pear-graphs" for the Daily Texan.

Earnest has a long list of accomplishments including being legal advisor for the Colorado City Playhouse of which he is a director; a former member of the Mitchell County Library board; past president of Colorado City Noon Lions and former district secretary; former vice president of Colorado City Chamber of Commerce and former director of West Texas Chamber of Commerce.

TOWN TALK

By MAC MCKINNON

Jerome Hopkins, star of the 1971-72 Colorado High School basketball squad, for the second year in a row, has been named to the Class AAA all-area boys' basketball team.

The team was dominated by representatives of District 3-AAA and included Dub Preston and Tommy Washing of Snyder's district champs, David Sisson of Lamesa and Brownfield's Van Garner.

Colorado City's Melvin Jackson was named to the second team.

"All My Sons", an Arthur Miller drama, apparently will not be presented by the Colorado City Playhouse, Inc., this spring as had been planned.

George Womack, who, along with Mrs. Tandy Curlee, was to have directed the play at the Opera House, reports that despite three well publicized nights for tryouts, no men showed up for the five parts open for men.

So, Womack said, the play will not be presented at this time and Playhouse members are considering realigning this year's schedule.

"Barefoot in the Park," is scheduled to be presented this fall but it could be moved up as could, "South Pacific", scheduled for presentation this winter.

"All My Sons" was scheduled in order to give variety to the plays presented by the Playhouse. It was the only drama to be on the schedule for this year.

On trout nights, an ample number of women showed up for the four parts open for the ladies and a large number of youngsters turned up for the one part open for a young boy.

The topic in this space last week has evoked considerable comment.

As you recall that topic was the country club, its golf course and the possibility of deeding the golf course over to the city and/or county for a municipal course.

I'd like to point out that my comments on the subject were only suggestions made, incidentally, after listening in on many conversations regarding this subject.

I was surprised by the number of people who said they favored the proposal of making the country club course into a municipal facility.

City, county and country club leaders should be told how you feel on this issue. Maybe it should be an issue in the upcoming county commissioners election.

8 Nominated For Awards

Eight Colorado High School students are the latest nominees for the Zales-Herald Youth Achievement banquet set for April 26 in Big Spring.

They are Barbara Boyd, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Dee Boyd; Sherry Williams, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jimmy Williams; Connie Carter, daughter of Mitchell County Judge and Mrs. Bill Carter.

The winner, who plans to attend Hardin-Simmons University, was one of 20 girls in the competition. The new honor is only one of many for Miss Bodine.

Hickman Gift To Expand Parks

Late Police Chief's Estate Donates Over 20 Acres

A gift of approximately 20 acres from the H. S. (Dick) Hickman estate will extend Colorado City's picturesque municipal park facilities along Lone Wolf Creek southward to the city's main downtown thoroughfare, East Second St. (Highway 80 Business).

The new addition--which Monday night officially will be named Hickman Park--will enlarge the Lone Wolf Creek park areas to more than 100 acres.

Conservative estimate of value for the Hickman real estate, which adjoins Ruddick

Park on the south and east, is about $6,000.

City Manager J. S. Sadler Jr. Friday revealed the park gift, second major addition to the city's in-town park development within a year.

Deeding the acreage to the city for the H. S. (Dick) Hickman Estate are the late police chief's brother and sisters--Alvie O. Hickman, Colorado City accountant; Mrs. Elliott V. (Alma) Dixon of Colorado City; Mrs. Emmie H. Moore of Colorado City and Mrs. Halle Yarborough of Albany, Ga.

Their gift followed the wishes of Hickman, who died here last July 2 at age 72. Hickman, whose reputation as a one-man police force spread throughout the state during his 30 years as chief of Colorado City police, had discussed his park plans with City Manager Sadler as early as five years ago.

Before his death, Hickman who was Texas' youngest police chief at the age 22, had posted signs -- "Hickman Park"--on the acreage along both sides of Lone Wolf Creek.

Sadler revealed Saturday that immediate work toward the development of the new park property will be discussed Monday night by City Council.

Initial work, which will be immediately, will be aimed toward cleaning up the acreage along the creek.

Next week the city manager will be in Abilene for a meeting of West Central Texas Council of Governments.

"I want to begin discussions with the council which may lead to regional support of the park development by federal-state financial grant," Sadler said.

The city manager is hopeful that the park--one of the largest and most picturesque park areas within the entire state for a town under 10,000 population -- will qualify for grant-in-aid that will allow permanent development.

"The creek and terrain for combined park area (it extends now from East 10th Street to East Highway 80 Business) is unique for its native beauty. And its proximity within the city proper provides one of the finest opportunities for maximum park development and use within the state," said the city manager.

"This is a tremendous gift to the city and the citizens of this community and reflects both faith and love for this city by the late Dick Hickman and his family," Sadler stated. Expressing gratitude to the Hickman family on behalf of the city also was Mayor Clarence (Mike) Burt.

"Our community is extraordinarily fortunate for this thoughtful and valuable gift to the city," Burt said. "Its beauty and its potential for development always will be a cultural and recreational asset for our community."

Ruddick Park was expanded last March with the purchase of 15 acres adjoining the original Ruddick Park on the south at East 8th Street from Mr. and Mrs. F. L. (Les) Terry. This increased the park to 80 acres.

The Hickman property now extends this expansion south to East Highway 80 and a total of more than 100 acres.

Up, Down For 1st Grade

Increase To Start In 3 Years

Colorado City schools are expected a major drop in the number of first grade students during the next few years.

The decline within 3 years may amount to approximately half the current enrollment of first graders at Kelley Elementary School.

But, first graders will begin increasing again by the fall of 1975 and continue climbing for several years.

The enrollment picture for the next 6 years is obtained from a school census conducted among pre-school children within Colorado Independent School District during January and February.

Trend for lower numbers of first graders has been developing in recent years all across the country, not just in areas that have registered population or economic regression.

The recent census--a count of children within the local school district who are under the required school age--points to a drop of approximately 40 pupils in first grade next school year.

Latest attendance figures, according to Supt. Lloyd McKee, show 147 enrolled in Kelley Elementary's first grade. This is 10 more than when school started last September.

The new census counts 107 for 1972-73. That's exactly 40 less than the current enrollment.

The decline is projected to 94 first graders for the 1973-74 school years. Low point in the projection is 3 years ahead during 1974-75 when only 76 first graders are indicated.

Upward trend is projected, however, for the second half of the six-year census projection. The estimate for 1975-76 is 81 in first grade, up to 91 in 1976-77 and higher to 105 in 1977-78 when babies 1 year of age under now reach going-to-school age.

It all averages out at 92 first graders per year for the 6-year period beginning next fall.

Assistant Supt. Gary Gardner estimates that the school census enumerators missed no more than 5 to 10 per cent of potential first graders in their January-February count.

There are other variables to be considered, also. These mainly involve families moving in and moving out of the community in the years ahead. These ins and outs can increase or decrease because of numerous factors which include business, agricultural, industrial and financial climate.

Supt. McKee believes the census data has a fairly optimistic outlook for Colorado City schools, because downward trend in the number of first graders is temporary. It does not continue to decline unabated. Instead, the numbers begin increasing steadily after the lowest projection in '74-75.

Overall attendance figures for Colorado City public schools continue at a healthy level as the school year moves well into its spring semester.

The Dec. 3 count was 1,741 total students--only 4 less than the year's peak of 1,745 the last week of February, according to McKee.

When the school year started last September, the schools had 1,629 students attending. Since then the enrollment has increased more than 60.

Every school within the district has gained except for high school where 509 students now are attending. High point was at the start last fall with 512.

Junior High has increased from a start of 257 students to current 268. Wallace Elementary has moved up from 157 to 167. Hutchinson Elementary up from 271 to 282, and Kelley from 482 last fall to current 515.

Experts Discuss Farm Practices

Mitchell County farm producers eyeing key management decisions will have assistance from three Texas agricultural specialists here Monday.

The trio--Dr. Bob Metzger, Dr. James Supak and Marvin Sartin, all of Texas A&M University Extension Service with offices in Lubbock--will be featured in a special crop production meeting sponsored by Mitchell County Program-Building Committee.

The educational meeting will begin at 7:30 p.m. in Lone Wolf Electric Cooperative's Meditation Room. All interested persons are invited to attend, according to County Agent Bobby Lemons.

Data to be discussed in the meeting will range across production and control practices for both cotton and grain sorghums, to contracting of crops and field stacking of cotton.

Dr. Metzger, Extension area cotton specialist, will discuss several productive practices, including quality cotton (which is likely to more vital next year than during the last harvest when much of the pricing was on a hog-round or all-grade basis); herbicides and the problems of obtaining good cotton stand from poor quality seed.

A slide and tape presentation by Dr. Metzger will also show and explain advantages of a fall diapause program to control of the boll weevil.

Dr. Supak, Extension area agronomist, will discuss latest information concerning grain sorghum varieties and effective herbicides for sorghums.

Forward contracting of cotton, which numerous Mitchell farmers agreed to during the last cotton season -- is one of the main conversation topics now in this county. And Monday night Sartin, Extension area economist, will discuss the plan in detail.

Another new practice that may be advantageous to Mitchell producers in their continued fight to beat rising costs and to hold back capital investment in equipment will be reviewed in a film by Cotton, Inc. This will deal with field stacking of cotton, which requires fewer trailers for hauling a crop to the gin, allows for harvest to be completed within a minimum of time while also spreading the ginning operation on a more constant level.

Manager Named

The Colorado Country Club board of directors Thursday night voted to hire Clay Fagan, now of Sweetwater, as club manager.

Ned Byrd, board president, said Fagan is real sports minded and believes "he will do us a real good job."

Fagan, referee of several basketball games here this season, is expected to report to work here next week.

Ruth COFFEY'S
CONVERSATION CORNER

HEADLINES can sometimes be amusing--particularly headlines for and about women.

Headlines can also be confusing on occasion. Anybody who just scans the headlines and calls it reading the newspaper is fooling himself for some unknown reason.

Headlines may or may not have much to do with the heart of a news story--especially in big daily newspapers which usually hire a staff of headline writers to glance at stories written by other people, and then "head 'em up."

Feminine headlines, like feminine talk, may or may not have much to do with the subject under discussion.

IN JUST one day a woman can scan the headlines and come up with some "doozies."

How about this one? "Yearning For Yogurt? Try strawberry pie."

Who in Heaven's name is going around yearning for yogurt in the first place? Especially if it requires a vanilla wafer crust, four hours refrigerating in the kitchen and a dainty topping of fresh strawberries "if desired?"

Why not just make strawberry short cake and to heck with yearning for yogurt? It's kinda in the class with craving for cabbage rolls or buttered Brussels sprouts when there is tossed salad to be had and asparagus tips on the pantry shelf.

ONE LITTLE headline read, "BRIDES GO BACK TO TRADITION."

Just when did they ever quit? A bride without a blue garter is like a ship without a sail.

"EXERCISE SHOULD BE FUN," reads the headline over a story written by one who was called, "a fitness expert." Exercise should be fun for some people. For me it just ain't. It's too much like work.

LONG FEATURE was headed, "Camping Out From the Women's Vantage." Camping out from this women's viewpoint is strictly for the birds. Men have all the fun, women do all the dirty work.

So be it. Camping out in most women's opinion is more fun if done at home sitting in front of the T. V. or taking a nap on her own bed, before frying the fish on her own kitchen range.

Note without too much surprise that another headline announces that "Miss Vickie" is now camping out back home with her parents. She wants to divorce Tiny Tim and to become a model. Tiny Tim thinks it's because he's broke. But there could be other reasons like the ones he always spells out as s-e-x or d-e-s-i-r-e. Too modest to SAY them?

SAME PAPER carries on the front page a headline saying, "LOVE LASTS 72 YEARS."

The couple, Joseph and Frances Henry, declare they are very much in love after 72 years of marriage.

"We've always stayed together and still sleep together... we never had separate beds," says Mrs. Henry. "That's the reason he stayed home. That's the way to keep a man." It ways here they still hold hands though he is 99, and she is 87.

"Divorce never came between us," beamed Frances on her 72nd anniversary.

You've got to admit that headline rated front page. Tiny Tim would do well to read it.

"ASPIRIN NO GOOD FOR BLAHS, Doc says," was a bit startling as a headline.

What are little women supposed to do when everything goes wrong, and it's time to take an aspirin break and pop up the little feet for a while?

"PERVERSITY OF CAT CONFOUNDING" heads up a feature written by Nancy Stahl.

Nancy's got a cat all right. Perversity of a cat can confound a veritable saint, including any and all cat lovers.

SPORTS headlines can confound almost any women. Political headlines can confound men, women and children alike.

SEEN LATELYS between headlines have been friendly Inez (Mrs. Graydon) Howell... that man named J. W. Hicklin, who is usually such fun to converse with, had along with him his beautiful little dark-haired daughter, Susie. Hicklin was doing some twosome talk with Eddie Piland, young pharmacist.

Had fun over mugs of hot tea with new neighbor, Peggy (Mrs. Bob) Ratliff, and Lucy (Mrs. Luke) Thomas.

Right after that, Isabel (Mrs. Harry) Ratliff dropped by for conversation and a visit. Isabel is as talented as a rare conversationalist as she is with her art and her poetry writing. She recently returned from Houston where she was guest of second son, Hubert Ratliff, his wife, Caroline, and their small sons, Brad and Harry Lee.

Greeted pleasant Mrs. A. J. Hooks... Mona Scott... W. H. Booney... Mary (Mrs. R. J.) Lloyd... Mozelle (Mrs. George) Calender... and Joe Leonard.

Adios for this time.

Rev. Dykes will read poems by Mrs. Majors, "There, I Shall Live Again" and "Peace".

Ulmer Bird of San Angelo,

Miss Jean Ann Gray, Randy Cooper.

Also, Janie McArthur of Snyder, Evelyn Helm, Mrs. Cora Johnson of Lorraine, Rev. Dykes, Mrs. Gerald Gordon and Mrs. L. B. Elliott.

Miss Ruth Hightower, musician for the afternoon event, will play "Rustle of Spring" by Sinding, "Libestraume" by Franz Liszt and "Poeme" by Fidich.

Mrs. Elliott is coordinator for the recital.

Mrs. Ratliff will serve as guest registrar and Mrs. William A. Helm will be in charge of refreshments following the program.

The late Mrs. Majors, nee Edna Coe, was at one time Poet Laureate of Texas. She wrote several volumes of poems including "Plea for Peace" and "Sheaves We Have Bound".

Mrs. Majors came from an early pioneer family who lived in Colorado City where she made her home until her death in 1969.

Forming the habit of caring for your nails and having a knowledge of good nail care products on market, coupled with consistency of nail care, will make a pleasing improvement in anyone's nails and hands," Mrs. Bolin said.

Following items of local interest were compiled from files of Root Memorial Hospital.

In the Monday afternoon study the speaker suggested cotton gloves for dusty and rough work and rubber gloves for watery jobs.

"General health has something to do with hands and nails," she advised, "but most troubles stem from external stresses more than internal."

"All it takes is knowing a little about fingernails, what they are, how they grow and how you care for them."

In a business session, conducted by Mrs. Eldon Smith, note paper, telephone pads and "planning secretaries" were distributed for selling. Proceeds from sales will go into club treasury.

Plans were made for a joint program for three HD clubs about preservation of wild life.

Punch, coffee and cookies were served to Mrs. Willis Tilley, Mrs. B. A. Jackson, Mrs. Swann Taylor, Mrs. Bill Head, Mrs. Smith, Mrs. W. C. Harlow and Mrs. Bolin.

Self Culture Studies International Affairs

A trio of Self Culture Study Club members last Friday presented a study of international affairs for the club in home of Mrs. Earl Brown.

On program were Mrs. A. H. Jackson, Mrs. Homan Posey and Mrs. R. D. Reed.

Mrs. Jackson discussed "China's Impact on the World."

She emphasized that President Nixon "regards his visit as an affirmative step toward a world, in which nations will continue to disagree, but avoid war, through better communications and fruitful negotiation."

British officials recall relations with China have never been easy, Self Culture members were told.

In closing remarks Mrs. Jackson reported that seven years ago Mao Tsetung speculated that someday American Chinese relations would improve, but said that he did not expect to live to see that day.

Mrs. Post related that the president and his party visited Peking, "taking advantage of this beneficial opportunity after so many years without direct contact."

"No country should claim infallibility and each country should be prepared to re-examine its own attitudes for the common good," she suggested.

International disputes should be settled without resorting to the use of threat of force.

Mrs. Reed presented a report of Chinese markets, average wage earnings and military forces in concluding the afternoon study.

Delta Kappa Gamma Hears Review Of Music History

The history of American music was traced from 1620 to present time by Charlie Helmer Monday night for members of Delta Kappa Gamma.

The program included music history as well as vocal selections from various years.

Helmer, chorus director for Colorado Public Schools, was accompanied in the program by his wife, Toni.

He reported that America's first popular songs were the psalms and hymns that flourished in New England before the Revolutions.

"It was the landing of the Pilgrim fathers at Plymouth Rock in 1620 that a continuous tradition was established," he said. "The immigrants brought with them Henry Almsworth's 'Book of Psalms', one of which is 'The Old Hundred' to this day sung as the doxology to the words 'Praise God from whom all blessings flow.'"

Melodies of psalms and hymns popular in New England were sung from memory and handed down orally from one generation to the next, Helmer continued.

Singing in congregation was primitive and discordant since each singer followed his own concept of rhythm, pitch and tempo.

America's first professional popular composer was William Billings, who was the leading composer of war tunes during the American Revolution.

Naming popular music which spread from New England down through the Shenandoah Valley, the choral director listed "Barbara Allen" and "Sourwood Mountain."

"Yankee Doodle was one of most widely circulated throughout the colonies, but to this day, the source of the melody remains a secret."

Helmer named other sources of popular tunes including Revolutionary War, minstrel shows before Civil War, Civil War, show business, jazz and The Mighty Five - Irving Berlin, Jerome Kern, George Gershwin, Richard Rodgers and Cole Porter.

The speaker reviewed in detail several compositions of the five composers, who all wrote in the 1920's and 1930's.

"Music of the 30's dealt primarily with thoughts of romance and generally show time wonder," Helmer reported. The 30's was a decade of getting through a depression and people had plenty of time to relax and enjoy the beautiful lyrics of this sampling - "I've Got You Under My Skin", "I'll Be Seeing You", "The Way You Look Tonight" and "Smoke Gets In Your Eyes."

In demonstrating the sound he sang "Star Dust" and "In The Still of the Night".

Comparing those sounds with the 1960's and 1970's, Helmer described current melodies to be more rhythmic and writings that "one can draw several analysis from one particular song."

Many of the tunes of the

Loraine Art Show

Mrs. Rachel Pinkerton of San Angelo, daughter of Mrs. J.E. Price of Loraine and the late Mr. Price, is shown here with the painting, "A Bit Of Fall", which will be among her art work to be featured in a "one-man" art show this week in Loraine Lions Building. North Loraine Home Demonstration Club is sponsoring the four-day event.

1960's were made popular by motion pictures, Delta Kappa Gamma members were told, but then only a particular singer had to get ahold of a song and it was an overnight hit such as "I Left My Heart in San Francisco" by Tony Bennett.

Other singers having their own popular song to which they identify are Dean Martin, B. J. Thomas and The Carpenters.

In concluding Helmer spoke of and sang two most recent popular songs to be published, "Bless the Beasts and the Children" and "I Don't Know How To Love Him".

Delta Kappa Gamma hostesses for the evening meeting in

First Baptist Church parlor were Mrs. Earlene Sellar, Miss Clara Shoemaker, Mrs. R. M. Reed and Mrs. Witt Hines.

Members attending were Mrs. Robert Aycock, Mrs. Russell Cope, Mrs. William D. Conway, Mrs. Orin Feaster, Mrs. G. A. Furlow, Mrs. A. L. Geer, Mrs. DREW Givens, Mrs. Gerald Gordon.

Mrs. Bass Hines, Mrs. Witt Hines, Mrs. Lynn Halbert, Mrs. Cora Johnson, Mrs. Ace McShan.

Mrs. John Merritt, Mrs. Marion New, Mrs. Wallace Price, Mrs. J. F. Quinney, Mrs. Reed, Mrs. Jerry Reynolds, Mrs. Sellar and Miss Shoemaker.

Loraine HD Club To Feature Artist In 'One-Man' Show

North Loraine Home Demonstration Club this week will feature Mrs. Rachel Pinkerton of San Angelo in a one-man art show in Loraine Lions Building.

Big Country Art Association. She was selected artist of the month in August, 1970, and twice in 1971.

Two of her one-man showings have been in Iran and in Texas State Bank in San Angelo.

Tuesday will be first day for the Loraine showing and the display will be open from 2-5 p.m.

Show hours Wednesday through Friday will be from 10 a.m. until 5 p.m., according to North Loraine HD Club officers. The public is invited to visit the display of art.

Mrs. Pinkerton, daughter of Mrs. J. E. Price of Loraine and the late Mr. Price, began painting in 1969 and since that time she has been featured in several "one-man" shows and numerous private showings in the San Angelo area.

She has studied with San Angelo artists and is presently enrolled at Angelo State University.
