SENATE DEFIES PRESIDENT ON VETERANS BILL

Solons Vote Compensation Plan Despite Chief's Warning Note

TAX HIKE EXPECTED

Huge Increase in Help for Service Men Too Much For Treasury

WASHINGTON, June 23. (UP)—The senate tonight passed the world war veterans bill over the protest of President Hoover that it was "unsound legislation" and that its passage might cause an increase in taxes next year.

The president is expected to veto the measure, which increased disabled veterans' compensation somewhere between $75,000,000 and $200,000,000 a year. His message advising against the bill's passage was read to the senate today but failed to stem the tide. The senate rejected a substitute by Senator Reed, Republican, Pennsylvania, to meet the president's objections embodying the American Legion's own proposed bill.

The vote was 66 to 6, the bill winning by more overwhelming majority than expected. The margin indicates the senate can override the president's expected veto without difficulty.

The bill now goes back to the house for consideration of changes made since the measure passed that body several weeks ago. It is expected to be sent to conference for adjustment of differences and then to the White House.

SHIP LEAVES IRISH COAST FOR AMERICA

Thousands Cheer as Famous Australian Ace Heads Into the West

HEAVY SKIES CLEAR

Three Companions Join Kingsford-Smith in 'Last Great Flight'

PORT MARNOCK, Irish Free State, June 24. (Tuesday) (AP)—Captain Charles Kingsford-Smith and his three comrades in the famous airplane, Southern Cross, took off from the beach here on a transatlantic flight to America at 4:27 a. m. (9:25 p. m. E. S. T. Monday).

The Australian ace sent his big plane whirling down a three and a half mile runway. He had on board 1,298 gallons of gasoline, which he estimated would be enough for 38 hours of flying.

The beach was dry for the start and the weather clearing. The runway was lined by civic guards and soldiers with fixed bayonets. A crowd of about 10,000 persons watched Kingsford-Smith get away on what he promised his fiancee will be his last great flight. The airplane rose gradually from the runway and within a few minutes was safely aloft.

Weather Improves

Before 3 a. m. the crowd gathered to watch the takeoff. General O'Duffy, commander of the Irish civic guards, arrived in person to control traffic which grew heavier from minute to minute.

The weather was greatly improved by 2:50 a. m. (7:50 p. m. C. S. T. Monday). The sky was much clearer and rain, which had been falling heavily in the evening, ceased.

His companions are J. W. Stannage, radio operator; M. E. Van Dyk, assistant pilot, and Capt. J. P. Saul, navigator.

The Southern Cross was closely guarded by Free State troops, to restrain aspiring stowaways and souvenir hunters.

Most flights starting from Ireland are made from Baldonnel airdrome, but Captain Kingsford-Smith first chose the Curragh camp, 20 miles further inland, considering that the great weight of his plane needed all the room obtainable for the takeoff.

Kingsford-Smith and his companions have been here since June 4 awaiting favorable weather for the flight.

Safety Provision

As provisions for safety if the plane is forced down, the Australian has provided for quick emptying of the gasoline tanks and believes that the Southern Cross would float like a buoy if minus its fuel.

The plane will send hourly radio messakes on a 30-meter wave length. The call letters will be VMZAB.

Captain Kingsford-Smith intends to fly the great circle route to Newfoundland, down the coast to Maine and then to New York. He estimates the flight will require between 34 and 35 hours. The Southern Cross has a cruising radius of about 38 hours.

Tom Cranfill To Address North Texas Oil Men On Crude Tariff Wednesday

Tom Cranfill of Dallas, president of the Independent Petroleum Association of Texas will address the independent oil operators who are members of the association in Northwest Texas and the Panhandle oil district and local business men who are interested in the production of oil in this vicinity, at 2 o'clock Wednesday afternoon at the Wichita club.

He will discuss the problems facing the independent oil operators and make suggestions for curtailing the importation of crude oil, especially Venzuelan oil, at the meeting.

Many oil operators in Wichita Falls believe that if a tariff can be levied on the imported oil high enough to encourage the purchase of more crude in this district, business conditions will be greatly benefitted. Possible means of promoting such a tariff will be discussed by Mr. Cranfill in addition to other problems facing the producers in this section of the state.

Testimony Completed in Goodspeed Trial With Arguments Due Today

Prolonged Case Reaches Final Stages After Procession of Character Witnesses Are Heard

Special to The Record News

HENRIETTA, Texas, June 23.—Testimony in the trial of Carl Goodspeed for the murder of A. R. Gooch, Nocona city marshal, was closed here late Monday afternoon, the eighth day of the prolonged hearing. A procession of witnesses has visited the stand in the 97th district court since last Wednesday morning, two days having been consumed in obtaining the jury.

Judge Vincent Stine prepared his charge after adjournment Monday afternoon and will hear the exceptions of counsel Tuesday morning. Arguments are expected to begin around noon and the case will probably reach the jury late in the day.

Most of Monday's session was taken up with rebuttal testimony offered by the state, both character and fact witnesses being called. The defense called only one witness for cross-examination in its final rebuttal.

Gooch was shot to death when he entered the Goodspeed home in Nocona with a liquor search warrant in 1929. The defense has introduced evidence purporting to show that Goodspeed shot in self-defense, presenting character witnesses who testified that Gooch was reputed as a "violent, dangerous and overbearing" officer.

In rebuttal the state produced its own array of character witnesses, denying charges brought by the defense.

In an earlier trial Goodspeed was convicted and sentenced to 20 years imprisonment. The case was reversed on appeal and a change of venue granted moving the second trial from Montague to Clay county.

Vengeance Seen In Sheriff's Death

Special to The Record News

SAYRE, Okla., June 23.—Investigation of an alleged moonshiners gang believed to have instigated the slaying of Sheriff H. C. Phillips, fearless enemy of Beckham county whisky-makers, was stimulated late Monday when friends of the slain man revealed that he had spurned recent offers of $200 weekly "protection" money.

L. L. Williams, of the Evening Eagle in Wichita, Kan., told investigators that Phillips recently told him of the bribe offer, adding that the moonshiners had threatened to "get" him if he refused. Working on the theory that Phillips, elected on a law enforcement platform, had been shot in vengeance, officers extended their inquires to take in the entire section.

Meanwhile three men, arrested Sunday morning, are still in custody. Joe Pounds, former deputy sheriff discharged by Phillips, was spirited away to the Granite reformatory after a statement in which he involved two other men. Jess Brown and Frank Griffin, Beckham county farmers, are in the county jail. No charges have yet been filed against the trio.

Phillips was shot to death in his office Saturday night.

A. Y. Hembree, younger brother of the man on trial is held on a similar charge. The defense won its first battle in obtaining a severance of indictments when the case was called Monday morning.

OKLAHOMA CAR USED

Officials and Employes Forced to Cooperate With Robbers

Special to The Record News

CLARENDON, Texas, June 23.—Two daring bandits strode into the Donley County State bank at noon Monday, held four officers and employes silent at the point of a gun, and escaped with more than $7,500, all the silver and greenbacks in sight.

While they worked inside a woman companion waited in a powerful coupe at the back door and when the hold-up was complete the trio sped away to the east. Posses all over the Panhandle were searching for the coupe, bearing an Oklahoma license, all Monday night.

J. L. McMurtry, vice president of the bank; Holman Kennedy, cashier; Miss Mantie Graves and Mrs. Louie Holloway, bookkeepers, faced the point of the bandit's gun while just outside the open door, Clarendon business men and women passed without guessing anything was amiss.

Kennedy was required to scoop up all the money within reach, while the other three were forced to lie on the floor of the vault. Mr. McMurtry, almost incapacitated from rheumatism, was forced to join the others on the floor.

In the confusion of the moment, the bandits overlooked a sack containing $4,000 in gold coins. They were handed another sack containing $2,000 and all the currency in sight.

City Water Softest Since 1923 Due to Heavy Rains, Test Shows

Heavy rains of the last few weeks which did much damage to crops, highways, and other property have brought the water of Wichita Falls to a degree of softness that has not been equaled since 1923, according to a statement issued Monday by Dr. A. H. Douglass, superintendent of the city water system.

City water at present has 7.3 grains of hardness per gallon, as compared with the 20 to 30 grains which has been the average for the last six years, Dr. Douglass said. For the first time since 1923, the water here conforms to the Great Lakes standard of softness which is the basis for municipal water supplies of the nation.

In announcing the change in the water here, Dr. Douglass also pointed out that the soft water now available here proves conclusively the effectiveness of the proposed drainage ditches around Lake Wichita to insure a soft water supply for the city. As explained by the city water expert, the recent rains thoroughly cleaned the watershed, overflowing the lake and subsequently filling it with soft water.

Young Tulsa Realtor Shot to Death In Hotel Room by City Detective

TULSA, Okla., June 23. (UP)—J. Rea Owens, 36, prominent young Tulsa real estate and loan company owner, was shot and fatally wounded late today in his hotel room by R. B. Jones, city police detective, who earlier in the day had arrested Owens.

Jones, alone in the room with the real estate operator, said Owens attempted to reach for a gun and that he shot in self-defense.

Owens was arrested in connection with an alleged conspiracy to sell $39,000 worth of bonds which had been stolen from Oklahoma banks. Although police would not comment, it was reported part of the stolen bonds had been found.

In 1924 the young Tulsa business man was partly responsible for the breaking up of a bond selling ring which was attempting to dispose of nearly $3,000,000 worth of Argentine bonds. It was Owens' assistance to federal officers that led to apprehending the leaders of the plot, officers said.

BEAUTY QUEEN LOSES THRONE

Miami Association Voids Miss Eastment's Title

MIAMI, Fla., June 23. (AP)—Miss Margaret Ekdahl, 18-year-old blonde beauty of Tampa, Fla., was declared "Miss America" today by officials of the Miami International Beauty Pageant association as they disqualified winners of first and second prizes in the contest last March for ineligibility.

Miss Ekdahl, who entered the contest as "Miss Florida," won third place by the decision of judges at the time, and was automatically elevated to first place today as Miss Janet Eastment, who was "Miss Texas," and Miss Alberta McKellop, who represented California, winners of first and second prizes respectively, were officially disqualified.

G. A. Trice, president of the pageant association, announced after an open meeting of pageant officials that charges brought against Miss Eastment of Fort Worth, Texas, and Miss McKellop, of San Diego, Calif., by R. B. Brossier, Orando, Fla., publisher, had been the basis for the disqualification.

Brossier appeared at the meeting today with formal charges that Miss Eastment had been married and divorced, and that Miss McKellop had not been selected as "Miss California" by the people of that state.

He presented reports and affidavits of H. F. Baker, formerly chief of police of Orlando and now a private detective of Port Arthur, Texas, regarding investigation that resulted in the publisher's charges.

Trice said that he had submitted the charges to Miss Eastment and to Miss McKellop, with the demand that Miss Eastment return to the pageant association the various awards to "Miss America" if the charges were true. He said he had not heard from her, and that he had not received the crown, silver loving cup nor the cash that she had been given when she was acclaimed first winner here the night of March 11.

The association president presented at the meeting a telegram from A. A. McKellop of San Diego, threatening legal action if the officials removed Miss McKellop from second place.

ONE PRESCRIPTION MADE FAMILY DOCTOR FAMOUS

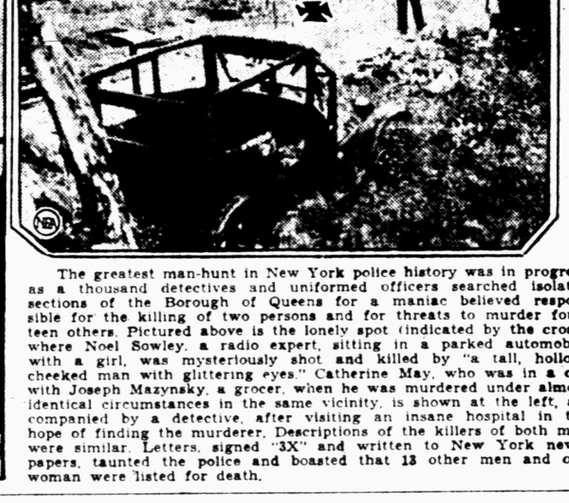

Seldom has any single act been of greater benefit to mankind than that of Dr. Caldwell in 1885, when he wrote the prescription which has carried his fame to the four corners of the earth.

Over and over, Dr. Caldwell wrote the prescription as he found men, women and children suffering from those common symptoms of constipation, such as coated tongue, bad breath, headaches, gas, nausea, biliousness, no energy, lack of appetite, and similar things.

Demand for this prescription grew so fast, because of the pleasant, quick way it relieved such symptoms of constipation, that by 1888 Dr. Caldwell was forced to have it put up ready for use. Today, Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, as it is called, is always ready at any drug store.—Adv.

As New York Police Hunted Killer '3X'

The greatest man-hunt in New York police history was in progress as a thousand detectives and uniformed officers searched isolated sections of the Borough of Queens for a maniac believed responsible for the killing of two persons and for threats to murder fourteen others. Pictured above is the lonely spot (indicated by the cross) where Noel Sowley, a radio expert, sitting in a parked automobile with a girl, was mysteriously shot and killed by "a tall, hollow-cheeked man with glittering eyes." Catherine May, who was in a car with Joseph Mazynsky, a grocer, when he was murdered under almost identical circumstances in the same vicinity, is shown at the left, accompanied by a detective, after visiting an insane hospital in the hope of finding the murderer. Descriptions of the killers of both men were similar. Letters, signed "3X" and written to New York newspapers, taunted the police and boasted that 13 other men and one woman were listed for death.

So Mr. Ripley Finally Made Error

Daughter of Colonel Wilson Corrects Item

"The truth, the whole truth, and nothing but the truth," as a guide in giving testimony was shattered in the Robert L. Ripley "Believe It or Not" feature in Monday's Record News, according to Miss Jessie Wilson, a resident here.

Miss Wilson is the daughter of Col. John A. Wilson of Bowie. The information which reached Mr. Ripley's hands and which appeared in his column under a sketch of Colonel Wilson recites that the Confederate veteran is 94 years of age, has all of his original teeth, and has never used a toothbrush nor visited a dentist.

The published sentence describing Colonel Wilson contained the truth on three counts, according to Miss Wilson, who declares that her father is 94 years of age, has all of his original teeth, and has never received aid from a dentist. With reference to the toothbrush, however, the aged citizen of Bowie was declared to be a devoted disciple of that aid to complete cleanliness. So much so, in fact, that he feels it quite as necessary to have a toothbrush in one vest pocket as his watch in the other. And according to his daughter, he has worn out many a good brush in helping his teeth along toward an endurance record.

Other relatives of Colonel Wilson, living at Bowie, joined Miss Wilson in forwarding a letter to Mr. Ripley Monday, offsetting vigorously that part of the given testimony which referred to toothbrushes, and seeking information as to the who, how and why of that statement.

A thorn reputed to be from the "crown of thorns" worn by Christ is in a collection of religious relics in Vienna.

RAINS SOFTEN CITY WATER

Ditches Would Eliminate Hardness, Says Expert

The watershed of Lake Wichita, it was stated, usually pours hard water into the lake because of chemical and mineral pollution from irrigation ditches, oil wells and other sources. With a system of shallow ditches protecting the lake, the first water from the shed would be turned around the lake, and only that part of the drainage which conforms to the proper standard of softness admitted. After the first drainage water clears the area, the subsequent flow from the Lake Wichita watershed is as soft as that in the lake at present. If the system of drainage ditches were constructed, the city would divert the first flow from rains and admit the later flow in order to maintain the proper standard of softness.

The proposal for building drainage ditches around Lake Wichita was made last year in the discussion of the need for major improvements in the water system here. Each summer for the last two or three years it has been necessary to pump raw water, heavily chlorinated, directly into the city mains because of the inadequate filteration plant here. Proposals for the expenditure of considerable sums of money for a new system that would provide soft water as well as a supply adequate for the city were discussed by the city council, but the proposal finally dropped until "conditions appeared more promising."

TRIED AND TRUE!

When tempted to over-indulge

"REACH FOR A LUCKY INSTEAD"

Be moderate—be moderate in all things, even in smoking. Avoid that future shadow by avoiding over-indulgence, if you would maintain that modern, ever-youthful figure. "Reach for a Lucky instead."

"I have come to the conclusion," writes Sir Henry Thompson, M.D., F.R.S., "that more than half the disease that embitters human life is due to avoidable errors in diet." We do not represent that smoking Lucky Strike Cigarettes will bring modern figures or cause the reduction of flesh. BADGER PARTY TOURS VALLEY

Northern Realtors Shown Texas 'Wonderland'

HARLINGEN, Texas, June 23. (AP)—Headed by Gov. Dan Moody, a delegation of Wisconsin manufacturers and real estate men, accompanied by business men from San Antonio, Dallas, Fort Worth and Corpus Christi, today toured the Rio Grande valley.

The Wisconsin delegation was sent to Texas by Gov. Walter Kohler, on Governor Moody's invitation and suggestion that Wisconsin should first investigate land values in the valley before barring Texas companies from selling land in that state. The Wisconsin State Realty board had issued an order denying permits to certain companies to sell Texas acreage there.

Early this year the Wisconsin-Texas land controversy became so intense that the Texas legislature passed a resolution condemning the Wisconsin board for its action in outlawing some Texas companies. The Texas senate suggested a boycot of Wisconsin products as retribution, which brought quick action from Wisconsin,—mainly through the manufacturers' association, which has since been trying to make peace between the two states. It was said Wisconsin sold $50,000,000 worth of its manufactured products in Texas annually.

In outlining the tour, before a joint breakfast of the two committees, Governor Moody explained that land sales concerns are not represented in the inspection trip, and declared that Texans who are acting as hosts had nothing to sell, but were interested only in showing them land that this year is producing $30,000,000 worth of products.

5 POUNDS IN 20 DAYS

Arkansas Woman Greatly Pleased With Her New Figure

Read how Mrs. Willa Pugsley of Arkansas gained nearly 5 pounds in less than 20 days:

"McCoy's Cod Liver Oil Extract Tablets have worked wonders for me. Have nearly finished the second box, feeling better in every way and have taken on nearly five pounds of flesh, much to my delight I can recommend McCoy's to do all they claim."

A New Jersey boy gained 10 pounds in 21 days; a New York mother and daughter gained 7 pounds. And in fact men, women and children everywhere are gaining new weight, strength, vitality and energy from McCoy's.

The reason is that McCoy's have the same marvelous flesh-forming vitamins as liquid cod liver oil; and in this respect are hundreds of times richer than even milk, butter, eggs or cream. The vitamins are directly extracted from Norwegian cod liver oil and sealed under a pleasant sugar coat.

Armadillo Races Bring New Thrills

'Thirteen' Beats Gallant Fox by 'Basket'

JUNCTION, Texas, June 23. (AP)—"Thirteen," armadillo "race hoss" par excellence, was being hailed today as racing champion of his kind in the universe, following his spectacular defeat of Gallant Fox, winner of the first armadillo handicap ever held.

Gallant Fox easily outdistanced all competition in the first two races held at the Junction jubilee but Thirteen, a dark horse contestant in the second race, got off to a 10-foot lead and defeated the favorite by a "basket."

Armadillos are armored, near sighted, toothless and altogether harmless. They are akin to ant eaters and sloths found in South America and are mostly famous for the baskets which are produced commercially from their shells.

Conference of American and Soviet Communists Plans Activity in U. S.

BERLIN, June 23. (AP)—Russian monarchists here clamored today that American Communists in conference with Moscow agents at Danzig last week had planned intensification of the Communist movement in America this coming September.

The next step in the movement, the monarchists say, will be a secret convention of Communists in Chicago July 3, at which further plans will be made and participation of South American reds invited. The campaign is to be stressed in Chicago, Philadelphia and Baltimore.

The emigres, who consider the Russian Communist regime as their arch enemy, asserted that on June 17 the Communist international executive allocated 1,000,000 gold rubles (about $500,000) for dissemination of Communism in the United States.

About 40 instructors will be appointed, the emigres say, to "spread the red gospel" throughout the United States. To carry out the plan several American Communists are said to have received orders to return home immediately. These include William Hood of Philadelphia and George Holbrook of Boston, who left Danzig Thursday for Marseilles, where they are embarking for the United States.

Other Americans said to have been present at the meeting are Harold Talbot of Baltimore and a man named Ruegert of Chicago. William Fowler, Harry Upton and a certain Weighardt, all of New York, came from Moscow to Danzig by airplane.

HOUSE COMMITTEE TO PROBE RUMOR

WASHINGTON, June 23. (AP)—Representative Bachmann, Republican, West Virginia, said today he believed the house Communist committee would look into reports from Berlin that American Communists plan extensive propaganda in this country next September.

In the absence of Chairman Fish, the West Virginia committee member said it would endeavor to determine where the communists procured funds to disseminate propaganda in this country.

The committee has set July 15 as a tentative date on which to begin hearings in New York City, where representatives of the Amtorg Trading corporation, the unofficial Soviet commercial agency in this country, are to be heard.

It also plans to hold hearings in Chicago, Cleveland and probably on the west coast, if deemed desirable on the basis of information gathered at the New York hearings.

The committee held several weeks of hearings, mostly behind closed doors in Washington, at which government officials, representatives of the labor and the Daughters of the American Revolution disclosed their views of Soviet influences in this country.

OBLIGATIONS OF MEDIC LIMITED

Association Warned Against Free Services

DETROIT, June 23. (AP)—Members of the medical profession were warned to protect themselves from exploitation and were advised they are no more obligated to provide for the care of the indigent sick than their fellow citizens in an address delivered today by Dr. William Gerry Morgan, president-elect of the American Medical association.

Appearing before the house of delegates at the opening of the eighty first convention of the association here Dr. Morgan advanced a set of principles by which physicians should be guided in accepting posts on the staffs of hospitals.

Dr. Morgan said a distinction should be made between the services given by the hospital itself and the professional services of the physician.

"Such services by physicians, Dr. Morgan said, "are the physician's individual direct contribution to the person receiving them, and as such they cannot be regarded as part of that which the hospital sells or gives away, according to its own corporate judgement."

King Alfonso and Minister Confer

PARIS, June 23. (UP)—King Alfonso III of Spain chose Paris, the city of exile for many of his former ministers, as the scene of a conference with one of them, which was regarded today as of vital importance to the future of the Spanish state.

Away from the political troubles and student demonstrations of his own kingdom, Alfonso, ostensibly on a "vacation," summoned Santiago Alba, Spanish liberal leader, to his Paris hotel and conferred with him for an hour.

General elections, Alba said he told the king, were of the greatest importance to Spain at the present time. The liberal leader, who came to Paris in exile after the late Primo de Rivera became dictator by a coup d'etat, said he emphasized that the Spanish people should have a right to express their wishes concerning government.

After the elections the cortes—the Spanish parliament — should revise the constitution to insure a democratic monarchy similar to those of Great Britain and Belgium, if the cortes should favor a monarchy, he said.

23,720 WORLD-FAMOUS BEAUTY EXPERTS ADVISE PALMOLIVE!

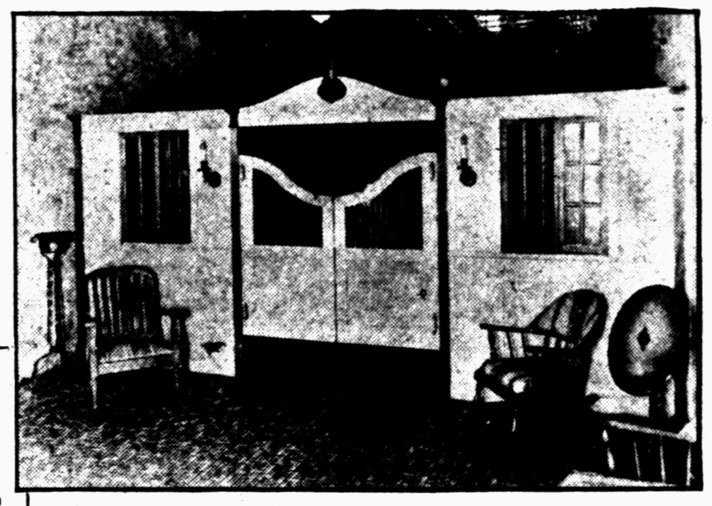

"We advise Palmolive

because of its safe, soothing cosmetic oils"

says

THE VANITY BEAUTY SHOP

well-known beauty experts of WICHITA FALLS

"SOAP and water cleanliness is a basic part of all our home beauty treatments. But not any soap will do. We specify Palmolive." So says this beauty shop. And more than 23,000 beauty specialists, here and abroad, also specify Palmolive.

Why vegetable oils are best

There is a soothing, penetrating quality about a vegetable oil soap lather that searches down into the tiniest pores and frees them of the day's accumulation without hurting the fabric of the skin. As you know, the skin is very sensitive, and must be very carefully handled. Palmolive Soap lather cleanses without irritation. It leaves the skin soft and smooth, and in wonderful condition for your beauty expert's treatment.

The Vanity Beauty Shop of 809 Brook St. has a staff of expert operators qualified to advise Wichita Falls' smartest women.

This beauty salon with modern, scientific methods and a skilful, well-trained staff, advises its patrons to use Palmolive Soap. Such recommendation is authoritative.

Dangers to skin beauty

Unless the skin is thoroughly cleansed twice a day, dirt and dust and cream and make-up gather in the pores of your face and soon become hard little accumulations which develop into blackheads and pimples. These unsightly blemishes are a sign of neglect on your own part. Use the right soap, use the right cleansing method, and you are taking the best steps toward complexion beauty.

Palmolive is a pure vegetable oil soap. Its color is the natural color of palm and olive oils. The natural odor of these vegetable oils makes the addition of heavy perfumes unnecessary.

This is the Palmolive treatment

With both hands make a smooth lather of Palmolive Soap and warm water. Massage this gently into the skin, both face and throat, for about two minutes. Then rinse it off with warm water until you can actually feel the accumulation being swept away. Now, give a final rinse with cold water, even icy water. This is refreshing, and closes the pores, preventing too much dirt and grease from getting underneath the surface of the skin.

Home Coming Girls Honored At Junior Forum Breakfast

Summer flowers in exquisite colors brightened the tables when members of the Junior Forum gathered at the forum clubhouse Monday morning in a breakfast honoring "Home Coming Girls," and the flower of girlhood gathered there, made the scene more beautiful. Miss Mary Tancred, president, in a frock of shell pink crepe made vidid with blue velvet ribbons, presided gracefully until the program was turned over to Miss Mary Virginia Barron.

Blue, white gold and green with tiny golden blossoms, were used on all the tables. Fluffy bows of green tulle gave a cool touch to the auditorium where the breakfast was served and the Junior Forum sponsor, Mrs. T. A. Hicks, wandering round until all guests had come and all details had been completed, was a pretty picture in a gown of pink embroidered batiste with a long rope of pearls and a broad blue tulle hat.

Miss Tancred introduced returning members of the club, each of whom told something of their colleges. Miss Flora Bruce Greenwood spoke of Curtis institute, where she is studying the harp under Salzedo; Miss Jeannette Moore spoke of Miss Finch's well known school in New York; Miss Margaret Waltz of Seattle, a guest of Mrs. P. P. Langford, was introduced and told of the University of Washington; Miss Don Ruth Coffee told of Texas U.; Miss Marjorie Hines of S. M. U.; Zone Marie Ehlert of C. I. A.; Lindenwood was described as the school of one of the forum's talented girls. Miss Elizabeth Donnell; Miss Corinne Moller told of Hockaday; Miss Clotilde Moller of Colorado university; Miss Joline Wood of the Castle; Mrs. James L. Duffy spoke for her two lovely daughters, Nell and Maxine, as students at the Incarnate Word; Miss Helen Cline spoke for Ward Belmont, where, by the way, she has become a winner of laurels in water polo; Miss Mary Delaney is still happy with her terms at St. Mary of the Woods.

Before the delightful musical program Miss Mary Tancred made her report of the biennial which she attended by courtesy of the Federated Clubs of the State of Texas when reports showed that the Junior Forum had done the most outstanding work in the state.

Miss Tancred gave a report that was particularly interesting because it was personal. She presented no data—no statistics; but she told of the outstanding leaders in national club work; of the 170 Junior clubs in Texas; that Wichita Falls was first and that the scrapbook compiled by this club was being shown over the state; she explained the troubles between juniors and seniors and brought the thought to the forum that the best life insurance a senior club can have is a junior club. Miss Tancred stated as her own decisions several interesting points; first that a real leader is always gracious, particularly to those who have not her opportunities; that parliamentary law is an absolute necessity in any properly conducted organization and that women are better speakers than men.

Miss Mary Virginia Barron before introducing the musicians who were taking part on the program, stated that she thought the day might be called "home coming day of home girls who have made good." She introduced first, Miss Elizabeth Langford, who has been maioring in piano at Ward Belmont. The selection Miss Langford gave was McDowell's "Preludium," and all the exquisite melody of the number was interpreted with deep sympathy and perfect technique by the young artist. Her friends and even strangers present were enthusiastic over the musical feeling of the young Wichitan.

Miss Flora Bruce Greenwood was next on the program with harp numbers. The young girl, with a winsome face and shining curls that somehow suggested the flower and chivalry of the old South, explained the beautiful instrument to the audience. The numbers she gave were "Prelude in C Minor," Chopin, and "Chanson dans la Nuit," Carlos Salzedo.

Among the many guests attending the pretty function were Misses Mary Tancred, Mary Delaney, Maurine Adams, Mary Virginia Barron, Louise Van Emden, Agnes Morton, Evelyn Van Emden, Dorothy Pounds, Peggy Jo Tittle, Louise Nickell, Mary Clare Burton, Lida Lea Mizelle Hodge, Jessie Lucille Raley, Dorothy Smart, Frances Tyson, Lilly Graham, Mary Jane Covington, Melba Jordan, Zona Marie Ehlert, Cecilia Terrell, Dolores Peavy, Jennie Louise Hindman, Reva Rae Brown, Corinne Tucker, Martha Hines, Joline Woods, Marjorie Bright, Wilma Thomas, Marjorie Vincent, Elizabeth Gilbert, Don Ruth Coffee, Marietta Hunt, Mary Meredith, Phyllis Clare Creighton, Clotilda Moller, Elizabeth Johnson, Corinne Moller, Laura Sue Rush, Elizabeth Langford, Flora Bruce Greenwood, Helen Cline, Eloise Hawkins and Mary Virginia Barron.

Mrs. James L. Duffy and Mrs. P. P. Langford with her guest, Miss Margaret Waltz of Seattle; Mrs. Lloyd Taylor and guests, Mrs. Gus Hecht, Miss Mary Crane Hartley of Fairmont, West Virginia; and Miss Jeannette Moore; Mesdames Ben G. Oneal, T. A. Hicks, W. M. Cason, Harry Hines, Claude B. Woods, Walter Allen, Harriett P. Bass, Maurice J. Adams, Jess McLarry and Mrs. R. H. Delaney.

PEEPS AT PEOPLE

By MRS. L. N. CASON

A mother and daughter stood on a corner downtown waiting for a bus after the picture show. Two young men who knew the mother drove up and offered to take them home.

They gladly accepted the courtesy. And when they reached home, the mother opened the door of the car and stepped out, thanking the boys.

Then when they had gotten in the house, the mother was duly reprimanded. "Why didn't you let Joe open the door," the daughter questioned sternly. "He was going to get out and you opened the door and didn't give him a chance to be courteous."

The mother had to think. There had been a time when she sat still and let men wait upon her; when she never thought of pulling back her own chair at the table or putting on her coat when a man was near, without waiting for him to offer his assistance.

But she tried to explain it to the daughter in the best way. "I think it is because I work," she said. "One can't associate with men on an equal footing and expect them to step out of business routine to show social courtesies."

"But mother, this wasn't business," the daughter said. "I know it," was the answer, "but it's hard to differentiate. Just the other day I let it hurt my feelings. I was lunching in a cafe and some lady spoke to me and I saw her bow to a young man across the room. I could not place her, and went over and asked the man (I was connected with him in business), who she was. He told me without ever removing his hat or standing up. Just a few minutes later, the woman and her friend started out and he got off his stool and took off his hat while he talked."

The daughter gasped. "Yes," the mother told her, "I could not help being hurt for a minute. You know I have to work and I love my work so much more than housework. I can't be an idle princess, so why not be sensible about it?"

"Well, I'm going to marry a rich man," her daughter said. "I hope you'll be happy," her mother told her. "But it isn't riches that will make you happy. There's lots of fun in the world, even if men don't always rise in your presence.

"Why, I saw a Junebug on the pavement today; the first iridescent thing of its kind I've seen for ages. And I saw two little negro boys come marching up Eighth street, dressed in snowy white sailor's pants and white middys and caps and sweat just rolling off their shiny black faces. The laugh I got from them was lots more fun than having a man open a car door for me."

And the woman who was talking was southern born and bred and had grandparents who were possibly turning over in their graves.

Dix Tells June Brides How to Avoid Divorce

Here are some tips for the June bride that, faithfully followed, will keep her out of the divorce court: Get off on the right foot. Remember that the first year of marriage, like the first year of a child's life, sets the pattern for your whole future existence. The habits, the precedents, the way of handling situations you establish then, the attitude you and your husband take toward each other will be fixed during that crucial year, so watch your step when you start stumbling down the dangerous road of matrimony.

Don't go to live with your mother or his mother or any of your inlaws if it is possible to avoid such a peril. Go off by yourselves where you can have your little spats without having any third party standing around to referee the fight. No two persons of different sexes, brought up in a different environment, with different ideals and points of view on every subject from politics to pie, can adjust themselves to each other without some friction. If there is no onlooker after they have had their little quarrel they kiss and make up and no harm is done, but with mother on the sidelines urging Tom to assert himself as head of his own house or to weep over Mary and "poor-thing" her, it starts a row that not infrequently ends in wrecking her home.

Besides, the presence of any third party in a home is a bar to the confidences that keep a young couple from really growing into one.

Don't throw away the bait with which you caught your fish. This goes double for both your personal appearance and your conversational line. No man ever yet fell in love with a slouchy, sloppy woman with cold cream on her face, but plenty of men fall out of love with wives who look at home like something the cat brought in. Never forget that your husband goes from you in the morning to an office that is full of spick-and-span girls who have on the latest thing in complexions and hairdressing and manicuring.

And don't forget that your husband married you because you flattered and cajoled him and made him believe that you thought he was about seven feet high and was more of a sheik than Ruddy Vallee and smarter than President Hoover and Mr. Mellon rolled into one. A man is as bound to have flattery as a child is to have candy. Deny him sweets at home and he will go to the shop down the street for it.

Don't put your reform theories to work on your husband. Try them out on prohibition or the heathen or the movies or something. By the time a man is old enough to get married and has sufficient sense to make enough to support a wife he knows what he likes to eat and wear and the people he enjoys, and he doesn't enjoy being told that his taste is bad and that he lacks judgment and that his friends are a poor lot who are not good enough for wife to associate with. Lay off your husband's personal taste and habits and remember that he didn't marry to get a critic or a jailer.

Give your husband an evening out every week with no questions asked. The poor, hard-worked, domestic drudge deserves it. And take one yourself. There are no two persons such dull company for each other as those who know exactly the same things and the same people and who haven't even a new story to tell each other.

No woman makes a greater mistake than the one who tags her husband and who insists on going out with him every time he leaves home and never even gives him a vacation by himself when he can do many things he loves to do instead of being bored to death sitting around a hotel and going windowshopping with her. Every woman knows that she would die of boredom if she didn't have feminine companionship and every wife might well reflect that a husband has an equal need of masculine society.

Don't talk too much. Don't tell your husband everything you think you think, for sometimes you don't think it. Don't tell your husband every time you make a mistake or do anything foolish. Every man takes his wife at her own valuation and if she press-agents her successes and shows him the grand bargains she has bought and calls his attention to the superb pie she has made, he swells out his chest and thinks that he has a world's wonder of a wife. But if you tell him all about how the vegetable man short-changed you and weep over your burned plate, he will consider you a moron and wonder what the fool-killer was doing the day he married you.

Don't discuss your husband's faults with anybody. Most of all, don't talk them over with your mother. Don't even let yourself think about them. Of course, you are going to be disappointed in him, you are going to find out he isn't the demigod you thought he was. No man is and no woman could stand one if there was such a perfect creature, so be thankful that you've got a husband who is human even as you are and let it go at that. Every time a married person dwells on the shortcomings of his or her partner it is like pressing on a boil that gets sorer and sorer until it becomes an incurable abscess.

Cultivate a sense of humor. There are many things in married life at which we must either laugh or weep, and a funny bone will do more than all the moralities to keep you out of the divorce court. Men forsake wives who are beauties and wits and angels, but never one who is good-natured.

Don't be a spoil sport and raise a million objections to every plan your husband suggests for a little pleasure. The reason that most neglected wives are neglected is because they have proved themselves wet blankets on every festive occasion. Cultivate chumminess with your husband so that when the flare of passion dies out you will have the steady glow of friendship to fall back upon.

Finally, love your husband. Try to see his good points instead of looking for his bad ones, and bear in mind that marriage is just as hard on him as it is on you and that he has to sacrifice just as much as you do.

Bride-Elect's Kitchen Is Theme For Pretty Party

Dan Cupid's business continues to be the best in town with weddings and announcement parties and showers for brides-elect. It took a practical turn Monday afternoon when Miss Ruth Moore entertained at the home of her mother, Mrs. Charles Tucker, with a delightful kitchen shower and bridge party honoring Miss E. E. Miller whose wedding day is one of the important dates on the June social calendar.

Green and yellow were the summery, airy colors used as a summer motif. Shasta daisies furnished the flowers that made the house lovely in the chosen colors and the card tables were covered with green and yellow oil cloth to emphasize the kitchen motif. Tallies and pads were little tinted pictures of round tea tables set for tea in the green and yellow colors.

A delightful bridge game was enjoyed and Mrs. Lloyd Taylor, who was high, received the first prize, a green hand-painted bread box. The honoree's prize, a hand-painted green container, matched the color chosen for her kitchen. The note pad on green, which was second prize was won by Miss Mildred Miller. Both Mrs. Taylor and Miss Mildred Miller presented their gifts to the pretty bride-elect.

Jack Murchison, dressed as a delivery boy, brought the gifts in big paper sacks like a delivery of groceries, and the pretty green kitchen utensils had with them, the favorite recipes of the donors.

The delicious refreshments emphasized the chosen colors in salad, ginger ale, sandwiches with tinted fillings and green and yellow mints.

Among the guests who enjoyed Miss Moore's hospitality and shared in the pretty honor for Miss Miller, were the honoree, Miss E. E. Miller, Miss Mildred Miller, Mesdames Wm. SENTER SPEAKS FOR TOM LOVE

Dallas Man Assails Trusts And High Taxes

In an address lasting almost two hours Monday night, E. G. Senter of Dallas vigorously condemned practically every candidate in the race for governor, unleashed a tirade against exorbitant taxes and the electric trust and brought his speech to a climax near the end by advocating Tom Love as the "only hope of the citizens of Texas for a clean, honest, good government."

Mr. Senter was introduced by C. C. Hudson, Iowa Park newspaper publisher. The subject of his address was "Good Government," and the gubernatorial candidate in whose interests he was speaking was not named until the conclusion of his talk. About 50 persons were present in the 78th district courtroom.

"State taxes have jumped 2,500 per cent in the last 21 years," Mr. Senter declared. "Rome at its period of wildest extravagance was mediocre in comparison with Texas of today. There is no example in the civilized world where law is flaunted as it is in Texas.

"We have today in Texas a trust which makes the old Standard Oil trust pale in comparison. It is the electric trust. Insull today has his grip more strongly on Texas then he has on Illinois, California or New York. The railways and interurban interests are taking over and dividing up the bus lines of the state, thus taking over your highways. I tell you it is in direct violation of the anti-trust laws. You are paying twice as much for bus service as the other parts of the nation. We must decide whether the government shall own the utilities or the utilities own the government."

The speaker then explained that he did not make the race for governor because he had received assurance from Lynch Davidson that he would "go through with the race" and the two of them held like beliefs concerning the government. He said he "believed Lynch Davidson" and did not think he would withdraw from the race as he did the other day.

"Now let us discuss the candidates," he said. "I shall not discuss 'Ma' Ferguson. I have never supported the Fergusons, but if it comes to a question of either Earle Mayfield or Mrs. Ferguson, I shall stump the whole state for 'Ma.' The possibility of Mayfield's election places the state in the face of a disaster. His candidacy is an insult to the women of Texas and to the Methodist pulpit."

He attacked Barry Miller on the basis of his retention as counsel by the brewers, advocating local option on prohibition. He said Miller was "opposed to tax reform, court reform and every other kind of reform toward progress and improvement," and stating Miller was "all in favor of the upper crust."

"Ross Sterling," he said, "has no good points except that he is an oil millionaire who used part of his money to buy a newspaper. And that is not enough to warrant his election as governor.

"Now you have a West Texan as a candidate, Clint Small. To my mind, he is very properly named. I certainly would not go to the last legislature for a governor. If there was ever an unexcelled example of complete imbecility, that legislature was it. Small says we don't want any more legislation. Of course. The trusts always want the legislature to adjourn without doing anything.

"Jim Young is nothing more than the representative of the trusts. He is the perfect illustration of a rubber stamp."

"I say to you that the best qualified man in that whole outfit is Tom Love. He doesn't know I'm here tonight making this speech. He and I have not always agreed about things. I voted for Al Smith when he urged Hoover. But he is a reasonable man. He stands for clean things, for honest things, for better things. He is as clean as a hound's tooth. In him lies our only hope for good government."

Burk Man Given Assault Sentence

A jury in the 89th district court Monday night found M. S. Grout of Burkburnett, guilty of aggravated assault in connection with an attack on Ed Shuffler in which the latter suffered knife wounds in his abdomen more than a year ago. Grout's penalty was fixed at six months in the county jail and a fine of $50. He was brought to trial Monday morning on a charge of assault with intent to murder and entered a plea of not guilty after Judge P. A. Martin overruled a motion to quash the indictment.

Walter Wallace, negro, will be called to trial in the 89th court Tuesday morning on a charge of criminal assault against a 12-year-old negro girl, according to the announcement Monday of George W. Anderson, assistant district attorney.

Council Considers Ban on Prolonged Tooting of Whistles

Emulators of Casey Jones Must Quit Making Engines 'Moan' In City Limits, Says New Law

Elimination of excessive blowing of locomotive whistles and limitation of trains to a speed of 20 miles per hour at grade crossings within the corporate limits of the city are sought by a proposed ordinance submitted to the city council Monday night by Fred Weeks, and referred by that body after discussion to the city attorney for investigation.

In presenting the proposed measure to the council, Mr. Weeks stated that numerous citizens, some living as much as mile from any railroad, had voiced repeated complaints against the loud and prolonged noise of locomotive whistles. It was stated that the alarm which operators of locomotives are required by state law to give when approaching crossings has been carried beyond the point of necessity, and to the extent of becoming a nuisance. A clause in the proposed ordinance forbidding a speed above 20 miles per hour at city crossings was included for the purpose of reducing any need which might exist for prolonged whistling, Mr. Weeks said.

The first section of the proposed ordinance refers to the speed of locomotives within the city. The second section specifies that "the whistle must not be blown more than three times, with one second as the maximum duration of each blast, loud enough to be heard 90 rods from the crossing." Penalty for the violation of either of those provisions by a locomotive operator is fixed as a fine of $25.

Application for permit to erect a building to be used as a gasoline filling station at 900 Seventeenth street was entered by Ralph Hines. Upon unanimous vote of the council, action upon the application was deferred until next Monday, June 30, when it will be given public hearing for protests.

City Manager George D. Fairtrace was granted a two-days' leave of absence on June 28 and 29.

Negotiations relative to the refunding of $640,000 worth of the city's bonds before Aug. 10 were opened with the council by J. B. Graham, representative of a large bonding house of Davenport, Iowa. Further conferences between Mr. Graham and city officials are scheduled to be held Tuesday morning.

Shield Murder Trial Opens at Brownwood

BROWNWOOD, Texas, June 23. (AP)—Over-ruling a motion of defense for continuance, the case of Joe Shield, 35, charged with the murder of his wife, Mrs. May Shield, went to trial in district court today. Questions put to veniremen by defense attorneys indicated the defendant would plead temporary insanity. He is under indictment also for the murder of his wife's parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. D. Shields.

MELLON WARNS OF BIG DEFICIT

$100,000,000 Shortage in Prospect for 1931

WASHINGTON, June 23. (INS)—Secretary of the Treasury Mellon advised President Hoover today the government will close the fiscal year of 1931 with a deficit of over $100,000,000.

Mr. Hoover had asked him if he believed the receipts for the fiscal year would be adequate to support the world war veterans' pension bill which the president estimates will cost in its present form, $102,000,000 during the 1931 fiscal year and ultimately cost $225,000,000 annually.

"I regret to say that they (receipts) will not," Mellon said and added:

"Based on estimates of expenditures furnished by the director of the budget and on this department's estimates of receipts, which, I may add, are predicated on a not unhopeful attitude on respect of future business developments, the present indications are that the government will close the fiscal year 1931 with a deficit of over $100,000,000.

"If the reduced income tax rate is to be retained and made applicable to 1930 incomes, present estimates forecast a deficit of approximately $180,000,000. These figures are, of course, exclusive of any additional burdens to be imposed by new legislation."

Mellon told his chief he was hopeful that business conditions "may have shown such improvement by December as to justify my recommendation to you and to the congress a renewal of the action taken last December" in reducing the tax on incomes one per cent.

"The present estimates do not indicate that this is possible," he said, "but this does not mean that we should put ourselves in such a position as to preclude the possibility should events take a favorable course.

"In fairness to the country I feel that the congress should be informed that if expenditures are further increased now, taxes must be in December."

Assessments for Primary Expenses Paid

The assessments of 55 Wichita county candidates toward the cost of holding the July 26 primary had been paid by Monday evening, according to a statement to The Record News from Judge Edgar Scurry, chairman of the Wichita county Democratic executive committee. The withdrawal of two candidates Monday left five whose assessments had not been received, Judge Scurry said, but the possibility remained that these five payments would be received in the mail Tuesday bearing postmarks prior to midnight Monday.

Judge Scurry announced that John Derryberry of Vernon had withdrawn as a candidate for the state legislature from the 112th district. Mr. Derryberry made known his withdrawal in a telephone conversation with Judge Scurry Monday, stating his action was taken on account of his own and his sister's illness. His withdrawal leaves Earl Van Deventer and Albert G. Walker in the race for the 112th district, comprising Wichita and Wilbarger counties. The other candidate to withdraw Monday was A. J. Berry, who had announced for the office of constable for precinct No. 1 (Wichita Falls). His action leaves Fred K. Smith, Luke Rowell and Frank Morgan, the incumbent, in the race.

The list of those whose assessments were paid Monday follows: R. Ben McFarlane, Quinn Williams, B. D. Sartin and John Lee Smith, candidates for congress for the 13th district; Ben G. Oneal, Roy J. Montgomery, for judge of the 30th district court; Mrs. A. B. Eichelberger, for district clerk; Sam B. Spence for district attorney; John P. Marrs, for county judge; Irvin J. Vogel and E. E. Byrd Plunges Into Speachmaking Round

NEW YORK, June 23. (AP)—A luncheon talk, a dinner talk, a radio talk, and a personal talk—that was the program today for Rear Admiral Richard E. Byrd.

Metropolis' Population to Show Big Gain

NEW YORK, June 23. (AP)—The 1930 population of greater New York is between 6,891,435 and 6,991,435 according to final census figures of four of the five boroughs and an estimate of the population of the Bronx, made today by G. M. Fayles, a census supervisor of the borough. The lower estimate would show an increase of 22 per cent in the five boroughs.

Complete figures for four boroughs are:

Manhattan	1,856,439
Brooklyn	2,596,154
Queens	1,082,212
Richmond (Staten Is.)	156,630

With five of the eight assembly districts of the Bronx now complete, Fayles estimated the 1930 population of that borough as between 1,200,000 and 1,300,000.

Manhattan, the skyscraper center of greater New York is the only one of the five boroughs to show a loss. It has 427,664 fewer residents than in 1920, Brooklyn and Queens, showing material growth, have gained 577,798 and 613,170 respectively.

Young Thug Escapes From Padded Cell

BOSTON, June 23. (UP)—Victor Stanwhite of Dorchester, a 17-year-old gunman, wriggled out of a strait jacket in city prison yesterday and escaped from a padded cell, past an armed guard.

No regular prisoner ever had escaped before and Stanwhite's feat ranks with that of the late Houdini who once made a similar getaway as a stunt.

Stanwhite was arrested when he claimed to be "3-X," New York's cryptogram slayer, but this was disproved.

Cooking School Note

In the cooking school conducted under the auspices of The Times and Record News Mrs. Frances Northerly, then, she uses and recommends CRISCO, the modern shortening.

Did George Washington name it for a real Sally Lunn?

WHO was Sally Lunn? Some say she was George Washington's housekeeper—who made a certain hot-bread that was so good he gave it her name. Others say that Sally once sold these famous tea-cakes on the streets of Bath, England. At any rate, you've heard of Sally Lunns, but maybe you've never eaten the real one.

Here it is, straight from Virginia. A descendant of the first president's family gave me this recipe, with this improvement: she specifies Crisco, a modern shortening that tastes so sweet you just know it's bound to improve the flavor of anything you make with it.

SALLY LUNNS

¼ cup Crisco
½ cup sugar
2 eggs (beaten)
4 teaspoons baking powder
1 teaspoon salt
2 cups flour
⅔ cup milk

Cream Crisco and sugar together. Add beaten eggs, and mix well. Mix and sift flour, baking powder and salt and add alternately with milk to the first mixture. Bake in a Crisco'ed shallow pan in hot oven (400° F.) 20 to 25 minutes.

HIGHLAND SCONES

This is a Caledonian hot-bread with an American accent—speed!

2 cups bread flour
½ cup milk
2 eggs
½ teaspoon salt
5 tablespoons Crisco
Jam or marmalade
2 tablespoons sugar
4 teaspoons baking powder

Blend Crisco with sifted dry ingredients. (No long process of cutting hard fat into the flour—Crisco is of workable consistency.) Stir in milk and eggs. Spoon dough onto oiled paper dusted with flour. Pat with hand to ¼ inch thickness. Spread jam or marmalade over half the dough, cover with other half and press gently together. Cut into squares and then crosswise to form triangles. Brush with milk to give a rich brown glaze, and bake in hot oven (450° F.) from 10 to 15 minutes. Serve while hot for tea or breakfast. (Omit sugar from recipe and spread dough with ¾ cup grated American or pimiento cheese instead of jam or marmalade and you'll have a delectable scone to serve with salad.) WINIFRED S. CARTER

ALL MEASUREMENTS LEVEL. Recipes tested and approved by Good Housekeeping Institute. Crisco is the registered trade-mark of a shortening manufactured by The Procter & Gamble Co.

©1930, P. & G. Co.

Taste Crisco—then any other shortening. Crisco's sweet, fresh flavor will tell you why things made with Crisco taste so much better.

Dr. H. H. Bunzell

Ph.D., University of Chicago

says: "Colgate's is made from the most effective cleansing agents..it is to be preferred"

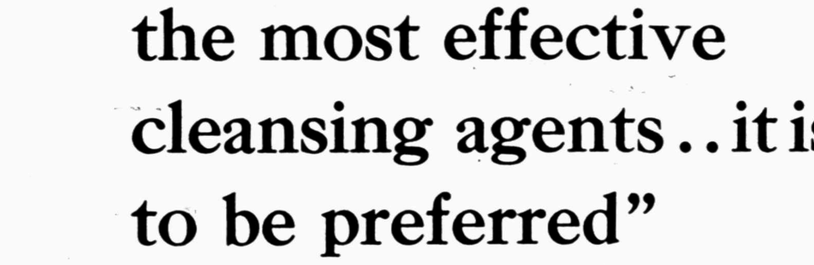

For years Dr. H. H. Bunzell studied dentifrices under a fellowship in a great eastern university. His findings, now published in a series of scientific bulletins, have shed much light on a common question of the day: What can a dentifrice really do?

DR. H. H. BUNZELL knows what a dentifrice should do. And so he approves Colgate's. For Colgate's action is totally different from sluggish, pasty dentifrices.

Different because of its superior power to penetrate the tiny crevices where decay starts. Different because the penetrating foam flushes away the food particles which collect in these hard-to-reach places where sluggish toothpastes never reach. Thus Colgate's leaves the hidden as well as exposed surfaces healthfully and thoroughly clean.

Dr. Bunzell's statement is the result of his scientific tests in which he proved that Colgate's is made primarily from the most effective cleansing agents.

Agreeing with him are such eminent authorities as Dr. Hardee Chambliss, Ph.D., Johns Hopkins University; Dr. Shirley Wynne, Commissioner of Health of New York City, and scores of others equally well known who have been retained to make analytical tests and to render their expert opinions. On dental advice more people use Colgate's today than any other dentifrice.

25c The price is important—but the quality—not the price—has held Colgate leadership for 30 years.

Dr. Bunzell says:
"A dentifrice whose sole object is to clean the teeth, such as Colgate's, and which is made primarily from the most effective cleansing agents, is to be preferred to one which relies on ingredients put in to affect other objects such as the attempts to correct the acidity of the saliva.

"No relationship can be found between the condition of the teeth and the degree of acidity found in the saliva."

Dr. H. H. BUNZELL
Ph.D., University of Chicago; Director of the Bunzell Research Laboratories, New York City; formerly Bio-Chemist, U. S. Government; recent Professor of Bio-Chemistry, University of Cincinnati Medical School.

Monks and Wealth
A Chief's Sad Retreat
His Prohibition Alibi
Plato and Einstein

By EMILE GAUVREAU

Monks and ascetics will be interested in what Mr. John D. Rockefeller Jr. has to say before the senior class at Dartmouth. "The spiritual realities and not the material things," says Mr. Rockefeller, "are the best part of life." Most people would be glad to accept that conclusion after accumulating a few hundred million. The only difference between the monks and Mr. Rockefeller is that the monks do every day in the year what Mr. Rockefeller talks about annually at commencement exercises.

Another nail in the coffin of prohibition. Mr. William F. Russell, laughingly referred to as "Chicago's police head," resigns and blames the plight of his city on the dry law. The eczema of vice, murder, banditry, counterfeiting and graft is directly attributable to this unfortunate law, he says. "And I don't care who knows it." Who doesn't? This man says he was under 900,000,000 tons of pressure to enforce prohibition. He couldn't stand the weight. No one else can.

Go back to Plato, who did some solid thinking 2,000 years ago, and you may understand Einstein a little better. It was Plato's belief that "outside the universe there is an infinite empty space in which the universe is placed." Space, he said, is filled with geometric figures, triangles of two types, which form the faces of the four regular solids (cube, eikosihedron, octahedron and tetrahedron). The four elements, earth, water, air, fire, correspond to these four solids. It might be inferred from Plato that the universe had already been eaten up by space, a theory which Einstein advances today.

It is not the intuitional concept behind Einstein's structure that excites the world's admiration. It is the structure itself, the most beautiful and logical pattern that the human mind has ever conceived.

The world will say that the execution of three Arabs guilty of participation in the Jewish riots of last August is wholly justified. Jews and Arabs in Palestine are brought up on the Biblical mandate of a tooth for a tooth, an eye for an eye. Let them not murder when the mandate is fulfilled. No murder, howsoever, heinous, but find exoneration in the hands of some people. These people espouse every cause, worthy or unworthy, which gives them a chance to exercise their tear ducts.

The man on the street will say that President Hoover, heralded as a gentleman who would set the United States on the path of unprecedented prosperity, is instead heading the country in an opposite direction. He defends himself by reminding us that he has a pre-election promise and a party pledge to fulfill. That sounds pretty much like a weak politician's apology for the sins of lobbying and log-rolling. It is not the defense of an executive of vision who puts his country's weal first and coerced party pledges last.

There is the ring of the late Colonel Watterson in what the Louisville Courier-Journal has to say about it:

"Mr. Hoover is on the defensive and will be on the defensive until the polls close in November, 1932. He signs a bill which he knows to be bad because as a candidate for second term he dare not buck the elements of his party that nominates its candidates for the presidency, write its tariff laws, and furnish the campaign funds."

I've got a good joke on Dr. Mopps. I eat all the pastry an' pertaters I please, an' he don't even suspicion it," laughed Gabe Graw, this mornin'. Here's another powerful an' unanswerable argyment against Volsteadism—Sheriff Wes Moots, cannydate fer re-election on a wet platform, says prohibition has reclaimed so many bums an' put 'em to work that it's keepin' hundreds o' thousan's of other fellers out of employment.

If the president plans to converse with those Indian chiefs who have invited him to join their tribes on his western trip we're afraid he's in for another arms conference.

Let's Be Sane—and Safe

LIFE has always been the most precious gift in the world. Throughout the ages men have gone on quests as far-flung as the boundaries of civilization would permit in an untiring effort to find the chalice that would bring a healing balm for life's physical calamities.

Men today have achieved greater wisdom in their quest for the supreme boom. They have learned that if life would be prolonged it must first of all be safeguarded and protected. Therefore it is with something of a shock that we must realize that there were 97,000 deaths due to accidents in America last year, 2,000 more than in 1928. Accidents in homes took an additional 23,000 lives.

It is undoubtedly true that a large percentage of this waste of life might have been counteracted if sufficient safety and precaution had been taken. Unnecessary risks are responsible for too many deaths.

Life presents enough risks to everyone without including unnecessary hazards. A life laid down in the promotion of some principle or service to mankind is not accidentally lost, but one that is sacrificed carelessly has no virtue to redeem the needless waste.

The coming of Independence day celebrations make it timely that people should consider this problem. That safety propaganda and education are accomplishing worthwhile results is evidenced in the decreasing mortality rate which surrounds the Fourth of July. Twenty years ago or more thousands of families were left in an aftermath of sorrow, when the flaring lights of the celebration died away. The number is diminishing every year but there are still a large number of deaths that could be avoided.

Accidents which cripple the body, although they do not destroy life, are another problem of the celebration which goes with the revival of the spirit of '76. Unless one is strong and able-bodied life cannot be lived to the fullest.

Children will insist on handling dangerous fireworks of course. They always have. They will light firecrackers back of the barns and in alleys. There will be calamities—unless an older, wiser generation is able to throw a ring of caution and prevention around the powder explosives.

Every child has a right to keep his body strong and free and perfect in order that his days may be long upon the earth, even as they were meant to be at the beginning of time.

From 1880 to 1930

ROBERT MOONEY of Temple, Okla., said before Junior chamber of commerce members here last Friday "Lay a highway into any kind of country, and its settling up will begin within six months."

While Mr. Mooney was preaching further highway building and industrial expansion here, community builders from all over Northwest Texas were assembled at Floydada for the purpose of expediting the completion of a paved highway from Burkburnett to Farwell, thence into New Mexico—a highway that would link central and eastern states with the Pacific coast via Wichita Falls, Vernon, Floydada and Plainview.

Remembering that only 50 years have elapsed since buffalo trails were first straddled by wagon tracks in the Floydada area, the resultant amazing development mentioned by Mr. Mooney is proven by the fact that Floyd county and its neighbors are now engaged in laying a modern concrete roadway to cost about $30,000 per mile across those productive plains. Down at Stamford, during the ensuing week, old-timers whose legs will always feel more at home pushing down in the stirrup than on clutch and brake, will exchange yarns of the early '80's along the White river. They will recall long days of arduous labor with pick, crowbar and long, narrow spades in sinking countless postholes for the first fences—barbed wire had just been accepted by the ranching fraternity. Other days of cutting thousands of fence-posts from the cedar brakes—many of these posts are still holding the wire tight. Long drives to Colorado City, on the T. & P., far to the South. Pecking down through hard strata to good water, so that those levels above the caprock might be made to yield their fertility for cattle and crops.

Now the sons of those old cowmen, and others who have followed the roadways which they beat into the face of the stubborn plains, are living in modern homes, developing intensive agriculture, dairying and stock-raising, building cities, riding in automobiles of the latest designs, and are laying a concrete highway upon which the East and the West of this nation may meet. With its completion, much will have been done to guarantee for the next 50 years many-sided development which will make that of 1880-1930 appear meager.

The Upswing Is Near

THE monthly business bulletin issued by the Cleveland Trust company is one of the most sober, analytical business and industrial charts now available; and the current issue brings the cheering prediction that the return of prosperity cannot be very far distant.

Pointing out that production has declined more rapidly than consumption, so that shortages are in the making in many important lines, the bulletin says:

"The combined forces of under-production and of abundant credit at low rates are operating to remedy conditions, and to bring about business recovery, as they always do in times like these. Ease of credit facilitates business recovery, and under-production compels it. We have both in combination, and confidence that they will be effective in the not distant future is fully justified. All the history of past periods of slow business indicates that the end of this one is approaching."

Fooled You!

Phyllis is pretty and charming,
Blessed with an amiable way;
Born with a mahner disarming,
Sweet as a morning in May;
Fervent and dear are her kisses,
Clinging and soft her embrace;
Isn't it queer that such misses
Often are lost in love's race?

Betty is bored and conceited,
Treating her suitors like swine;
Keeping their bank-rolls depleted,
Drinking their praises like wine;
Robbing each youth of his laughter,
Leaving a sickly remorse;
Whom do you think I run after?
Phyllis, of course!

—BROOK EDISON.

A Form of Criticism

Take it from H. Reichenbach, most columnists are good listeners trying to be writers.

Add Sillies

Ed Wynn, star of the late "Simple Simon" show, had a difficult time with the census taker recently. He asked Ed if he had a radio. "Yes," said Wynn, "a little one."

"How little?" asked the man.

"Oh, very little," said Ed.

"Well, what do you mean by very little?"

"It's so little," chirped Wynn, "that when Amos 'n' Andy are on, I can only get Amos!"

Of All Things!

On Broadway "a chiseler" is one who is a form of kibitzer, a pest, anyone who crashes a place where he hasn't been invited, one who profits on something he doesn't rate, etc.

The N. Y. Telephone directory on page 209 reveals the book's only error. Because of an apostrophe, The Chiselers club is listed twice.

Hot Weather Joke

Guy Lombardo, who is now conducting his hand at the Pavilion Royale on Long Island, was playing golf the other afternoon when his opponent pointed to one of the players immediately behind him.

"See that fellow?" said Lombardo's companion. "He's worth five million dollars, and would you believe it, he can't even write his name."

Just then the player referred to hit the ball a wallop and shouted "Fore."

"Well," said Lombardo, "he can count, anyway."

Aren't We All?

He is a doctor by profession and a grade A chump by his Broadway inheritance. He "went" for a Ziegfeld femme last year, but how? Even his best friends couldn't tell him. They never do, you know, when it comes to girl-trouble. That is, if they have any sense. So they all watched from the sidelines and it was sad. She bagged him for diamonds that would choke a colt, and other doodads, but he really thought she was going to marry him.

It's all over now but the chuting. He probably will knock himself off as a result of the "deal" she handed him. But this will show you what a yap he is. On her last birthday, she asked him to let her throw her own party. He agreed—and she invited an army of former sweethearts.

He had to go out on a sick call. When he returned he found her necking furiously with a former rival.

"There's your chance to give her the air," someone suggested.

"Oh, I couldn't do that," the yap yipped. "She doesn't know what she is doing. She is drunk."

He's Punny That Way

Havey (Pittsburgh) Boyle was at the Sharkey-Smelly fight long before the first round went on. He listened attentively to other newspaper men who commented on Heywood Broun's recent discussion of Gandhi.

"If you asked me," said a lad, "I thought Broup was disrespectful to Gandhi."

"Well," ho-humed Havey, "what's sauce for the goose is sauce for the —finish it yourself."

Drama

Another little lump in the throat concerns the Italian lad who came to New York five years ago to study music. The going has been pretty rough, but last week he scraped enough together to go up to one of those places where you make your own phonograph records. He took an accompanist along, made one operatic recording and on the back-up sang a little ditty in his broken English. At the end of the song he speaks a few words of greeting to his mother in Italy, to whom he is going to send the record. She believes that he is making regular operatic appearances, and she scans the papers all the time for word of him.

The kid is a waiter in a Greenwich Village speakeasy.

Oop!

The esteemed Mr. Idwal Jones remarks that "a bit of insanity is very helpful to columnists. In fact most of them are crazy, and who wouldn't be if they had to pull ideas out of their heads like rabbits out of a hat?"

Oh, as Mr. Jones might have added, ideas from other feller's columns.

And They Drown Sorrow!

You've probably heard it before (you would!) but it left us plenty limp when it arrived from M. Woodman. It is the one about the young husband who was in New York for his Atlanta firm and his wife wired him: "My mother died this morning. Should we give her a plain burial or what?"

To which he replied: "Let's not take any chances; cremate her!"

In Fewer Words

Observed on a 56th Street speakeasy wall: "The hymn of self-praise is the most monotonous tune in the world."

One Must Live

Rudy Vallee's power over women is not to be questioned. But the countless girls and grown-up women who are breathless whenever his name is mentioned, will now probably envy Madelyn Killeen, a Broadway colleen, to whom Rudy is most grateful these days.

The papers just recorded the fact that Rudy has discovered he can sing without a megaphone, but more amazing is that he now can dance!

Well, it was Madelyn Killeen who taught him how to hoof—in two days, and she was rewarded with a small job in his unit.

Madelyn Killeen, now in a movie house unit! Two years ago she was featured in big hits!

"SHEILA"

Love and Mystery
Humor and Tragedy

A Story of Wichita Falls
By GORDON TURNER

BEGIN HERE TODAY

Frank Sheridan, wealthy young lawyer whose hobby is the solving of crime mysteries, is making a double investigation into a safe robbery at the home of William Oliver Wilber, inventor and manufacturer, and into the strange death by electrocution of Lena Swartz, a maid in the Wilber home. From the safe has been stolen a diary of Wilber's wife, now dead, which contains a secret of the birth of Sheila, Wilber's daughter, who is engaged to marry Sheridan's friend Joseph Hedley, assistant county prosecutor. Lena's death apparently is accidental, but Sheridan sees a possible connection between it and the safe robbery. Suspicion points to Riley Morgan, a burglar and client of Homer Menton, an unprincipled criminal lawyer, and to Andy Masters, Sheila's wayward cousin, who wants to marry Edna Rogers, Sheila's chum, but is entangled in a love affair with Mercedes Riverton, a stenographer in Menton's office. Sheridan makes the acquaintance of Mercedes and is invited to a housewarming at her apartment, where drinks are served by Ike Sellers, Andy's valet. At this party Sheridan overhears a significant conversation between Andy and Menton, which connects Menton with the strange happenings at the Wilber home. The next day Andy, intoxicated and in a quarrelsome mood, during a call at the Wilber home, tells Sheila she is a foundling and has no right to the Wilber name.

Now Go on With the Story

CHAPTER XXIV

Andy, no more than he was out of Sheila's presence, regretted his turbulent outburst. Partially sobered by his brainstorm, he cursed himself bitterly. The balking at the restraints Sheila tried to put upon him, he held a real affection for the girl who had mothered him in the years of his adolescence, but the warning pricks of conscience which had stung him even as he was talking, strangely seemed to have infuriated him the more and to have added venom to his tongue.

His nerves, raw after a night of dissipation, his brain inflamed by alcoholic excesses and himself frustrated in his attempts to see Edna and Mercy, the accumulated pressure had burst the dam of self-control. It just happened that Sheila, in her denunciation of Mercy, had added the final drop and was caught in the flood.

Morosely reviewing the painful scene, Andy now counted the cost. What a fool he had been to have given Sheila an inkling of the secret that Menton had revealed to him! What would Menton say if he knew about it? It might ruin all their plans to make Wilber pay. Menton had only said Sheila was not Wilber's daughter; he had not said she had been born out of wedlock. He had no grounds for that accusation; it had been born of his insensate anger. If Sheila should follow his fool advice and go to Wilber—oh, ye gods! Sheila was right, he ought to let up on the booze; it always got him into a mess!

But this last virtuous reflection left no lasting impression on Andy's consciousness; his first demand upon his return to his apartment was for a drink. Ike supplied it and Andy threw himself upon a couch and demanded more. He drank and drank—until he relaxed into sodden forgetfulness.

As the door slammed behind Andy, Sheila stood for a moment as if frozen in her tracks, then suddenly collapsed into a chair. Unselfishly, her first thoughts were not of herself, but of Andy—worried wonder at his strange behavior . . . the boy must be insane.

Then the significance of his parting words was forced upon her. She found herself repeating the phrases, "born out of wedlock," "a foundling," "the man you call your father." A look of horror crept into her eyes . . . Great heavens, Andy couldn't have been meaning her! Preposterous! Ridiculous! . . . She laughed hysterically. She, Sheila Wilber, a foundling, a nameless waif of the streets! Her mind raced back to her childhood and in every memory glimpse of those sheltered, happy days stood the beloved form of her mother. The stored-up tears burst forth. Her mother, oh, the cruelty of such a thought! Her mother not her mother! No, no, no, no!

She sprang to her feet and paced the room. The physical activity helped her to think more coherently. Of course, it was all a hideous mistake, a delusion of a deranged brain. Andy was not responsible. His mind must be affected. He should be looked after. She must speak to her father about that. Her father! Was he her father! . . .

She halted in her nervous pacing and whirled about, facing the door. Wilber, returning from the country club, entered the room and tossed his golf bag in a corner.

"Hello, Sheila," he called cheerily, then pulled up short at sight of her distressed, tear-stained face. "Why, girl, what's the matter?" he asked anxiously.

Sheila placed her hands upon his shoulders and looked into his face.

"Papa," she asked slowly, with emphasis on each word, "Who am I?"

Wilber, bewildered, was speechless.

"Andy," Sheila continued, "Andy says I have no right to your name."

Wilber fell back as if from the impact of a heavy blow. He was caught completely off his guard. His face darkened with anger, his fists clenched.

"The whelp!" he exclaimed. "Good God! After all these years and to come like this—" Realizing the import of his words, he stopped abruptly. He made a mighty effort to erase the fear and anxiety he now sensed were mirrored in his contorted face. As much to gain time as to comfort her, he took her in his arms and held her close.

"My little Sheila," he crooned, "my little Sheila!"

But Sheila gently disengaged his arms and drew away. Her face was as white as the scarf that draped her shoulders, and it was unnaturally calm. Her stricken eyes sought his pleadingly.

"Then it is true," she said quietly.

Wilber groaned. It was useless to dissemble. Sheila was no child to be satisfied with anything short of the truth. The issue could not be evaded. God give him strength and the wit to ease the shock of disillusionment; he led her to a chair and seated himself beside her.

"No, Sheila," he said gently, "you have every right to my name; the right of long years of love, the right of heritage of beautiful character given you by the saintly woman who poured into your baby soul the goodness that was her own."

Sheila's eyes again were wet with tears.

"Dear, dear Mamma Francis," she murmered. "But Papa, she was denied the privilege of giving you birth, but she loved you as her own—you were her own."

"My—my real mother—is she living?" Sheila asked tremulously.

Wilber winced. "Ye-s, I believe so," he said reluctantly. "I have just recently heard of her after all these years, but she knows no more of you than you do of her. Perhaps now, if she knew, she might want to claim you, to take you away from me, to—"

"Never!" Sheila exclaimed, "I hate her! She cast me off! she must have cast me off or—"

"Sheila! Sheila, you must not say that; you must not be bitter; you do not know the circumstances, the tricks that fate can play."

"I want to know," Sheila persisted, "I want to know everything, no matter how it hurts. Oh, why have I been kept in the dark, living all this time in a fool's paradise? How could you? It's cruel, cruel!"

"I am the one who has been living in a fool's paradise," Wilber replied sadly. "We thought you would never know; we thought we had been so clever, so careful! We thought we were acting for the best, for your interests."

"Please, please, tell me," Sheila pleaded, "my own father, who was he?"

Wilber had been dreading that question. He shook his head. "I know nothing about him," he said simply. Sheila turned to him an agonized fact. . . . She must know . . . why did he make it so hard? . . . Her lips trembled.

"my mother, was she married?"

Wilber rose hastily and turned away his head, but not before Sheila saw the dreaded answer in his eyes.

"Sheila," he said quickly, "let's not talk any more about this now. You are all worn out." He leaned over and took her gently by the arm. "Remember, Joe will be here before long; you need rest."

Sheila rose listlessly.

"Yes, Joe will be here," she said tonelessly.

She turned and went slowly to the staircase.

Alone in her room, Sheila flung herself upon the bed and gave full vent to her tears. Though she lived in a modern atmosphere, she was, in habit of mind, really a creature of a former age in which the conventions were all-important and deviations from the accepted rules of sex relationship were punished by social ostracism, visited alike upon the erring and their offspring. In that former day, to bring a life into existence without the formal sanction of priest or magistrate damned the unfortunate mother forever and put an everlasting stigma upon the child. In this modern day of multiple divorce of trial and companionate marriage, of real solicitude for the babe born out of wedlock, these older standards seem as of a far distant past.

But one era of thought overlaps another, and Sheila's association in her formative years was largely with the older generation. Their veiwpoint was hers. And now her whole world had tumbled about her ears. The future was a dreary stretch of hopelessness. She shrank from herself as from something unclean.

Since his engagement to Sheila, Joe Hedley dined each Sunday evening at the Wilber home. Usually Sheila, eagerly on the lookout, met him at the door. This time he was admitted by the new maid, Anna, who had been engaged in the place of the unfortunate Lena. Anna tripped up the stairs to notify her new mistress.

In a few moments Sheila, pale, but with head erect, came slowly down the steps. Hedley, his face glowing met her with extended arms. She raised a hand.

"No, Joe," she said, "that is at an end." She twisted her engagement ring from her finger and dropped it into his hand. He stood paralyzed with the shock of her announcement as she looked wistfully, yearningly into his eyes.

"It is all over, Joe; we never can be married."

Hedley strove for speech as she continued:

"No, no, I can't explain now. I—I—I can't talk about it. Papa will tell you."

She turned and fled back up the stairs.

Answers to Questions

By FREDERIC J. HASKIN

Many readers send in questions signed only with initials, asking that the answers appear in the newspaper. The space is limited and would not accommodate a fraction of such requests. The answers published are ones that may interest many readers, rather than the one who asks the question only. All questions should be accompanied by the writer's name and address and two cents in coin or stamps for reply. Send your question to The Record News Information Bureau, Frederic J. Haskin, director, Washington, D. C.

Q.—What is a diamond hitch? —L. H.

A.—A diamond hitch is a method of fastening a rope about a pack animal's load by which the rope, secured by a cinch, crosses so as to leave a diamond-shaped patch on top.

Q.—How is the "halt" executed under army regulations?—F. J. S.

A.—The command "halt" is given on the right foot. The left foot is then advanced and the right foot brought up to it, the halt being executed in two counts.

Q.—Will guinea pigs keep rats away?—E. W.

A.—The bureau of biological survey says that there is no foundation for the idea that guinea pigs will keep rats away. If there were contacts between these two animals, it is more than likely that the rats would destroy the guinea pigs.

A.—According to rumor it was Kipling's poem "The Widow at Windsor" which kept Kipling from being appointed poet laureate.

Q.—What can be done to exterminate slugs which leave slimy trails in cellar and garden?—M. F. S.

A.—All decayed boards, debris, bricks, and old flowerpots which serve as hiding places should be removed and air-slaked lime dusted liberally throughout the infested area. Moreover, a poisoned bait, such as boiled potato sprinkled with white arsenic or Paris green, should be distributed in this area. Collect the masses of translucent, yellowish eggs found in dark and damp locations and destroy them.

Learn What to Do Before the Crash

After the crash, and some one has been badly hurt, it is too late to learn what to do in the way of first aid, unless you have with you a copy of the "First Aid" booklet which the Record News Information Bureau is now offering. That gives exact instructions as to what to do in any emergency and it is so indexed that you can turn instantly to the information needed.

It is better, of course, to learn what to do before the accident occurs, which means studying this booklet before starting on your vacation trip. And the booklet is equally valuable in case of the numerous accidents and sudden illnesses that occur in the home.

Health and Diet Advice

Itching Skins

It is said that the Chinese invented a punishment for criminals of tying them so that they could not scratch and then applying itching powders to their skins. A more irritating punishment could hardly be devised.

There are two principal kinds of itching. One is caused by parasites attacking the skin, and the other is from an internal toxic irritation of the nerves of the skin. The latter condition is quite a common occurrence, and where there is a general itching without any eruption it is called pruritis. In this condition it is not uncommon for the skin to appear healthy except that it has been scratched. The instinct to scratch an itching spot seems to be universal, and some people will scratch themselves so severely that it will produce disfigurement.

Itching may not only cause discomfort, but it may cause embarrassment, for no one wants to revert to the monkey-like treatment of scratching himself in public. Pruritis may be so mild as to cause only a tingling sensation, or severe enough to bring on such an intense itching that sleep is impossible. This trouble is likely to appear in any disease where there is a severe toxic poisoning in the blood stream and frequently appears in the following diseases: Malaria, liver trouble, digestive disorders, jaundice, diabetes, gout, rheumatism and Bright's disease.

Whenever the itching is caused from internal toxins the remedy is to cleanse the blood stream by a suitable fasting and dieting regime. The local application of antiseptics does not seem to be of any particular value unless the itching is caused by small parasites. However, it is always a good plan to cleanse the skin thoroughly once or twice a day with warm and cold shower baths to improve the elimination.

Some of the principal causes of itching are a lack of oil in the skin, the presence of irritating paint, dust or oil, the presence of skin parasites, the sensory disturbance of the nerves, and the deposit on the skin of some irritating material which causes swelling and redness. This may be poison injected from an insect, or toxins deposited in the body from constipation, acidosis, or wrong food combinations, or it may be the result of drug poisoning.

Sometimes the patient develops a diffused rash while fasting, which indicates that the body is going through a dietetic crisis and is unloading some of its impurities through the skin. In this case such elimination is beneficial and the patient will feel better after it is over.

To build up the resistive powers of your skin so that you may overcome itching afflictions, you should follow a diet with plenty of non-starchy vegetables. Avoid pastries, drink plenty of water, eliminate constipation and encourage skin elimination by taking enough exercise every day to cause a perspiration. Also, take a sponge or shower bath daily, being careful to rub down briskly after with a rough towel to induce a rosy glow. Plenty of air and sunshine to the skin, with loose clothing, will also increase the skin tone.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

Floating Kidney

Question — H. G. asks: "Can a floating kidney be cured without an operation?"

Answer—A prolapsed kidney can in many cases be restored to its proper position. It is necessary to develop the abdominal muscles to an unusual extent so that all of the prolapsed abdominal organs are raised. The kidney's function is seldom retarded because of its position, and most people unnecessarily worry when told they have a floating kidney. In only rare instances is it ever necessary to resort to such a radical method of treatment as surgery, as the kidneys can usually be slowly raised through corrective physical culture exercises.

Bread and Fruits

Question—Mrs. B. G. writes: "In a dinner of meat, bread and vegetables we do not use any fresh fruit, but is it all right to use desserts made with cooked fruits, or stewed fruits alone?"

Answer—In the first place your dinner of meat and vegetables should not contain bread. If you leave the bread out you could use either cooked or raw fruits.

Red Eyelids

Question. M. W. P. writes: "My eyelids are always inflamed, especially in the mornings, and they remain red all day. I have spent considerable money having them treated, but to no avail. What is your advice?"

Answer — Your trouble may be caused by a severe toxic condition generated in other parts of the body but showing only in your eyelids. Try a good body cleansing treatment with a fasting and diet regime. This is bound to help you, as your trouble is apparently not local nor due to infection of the eyelid or it would no doubt respond to the treatment already taken.

ERRORS GIVE BUFFS DECISION OVER SPUDDERS IN OPENER

The Rambler's Corner

By FRED D. THOMPSON

Today's Lament

I took a swim in a sunny pool
Surrounded by trees so green.
Today I spent my weekly pay
Purchasing unguentine.

Tomorrow they're coming back home, folks, for two whole days. And nothing could be more auspicious than the opening of the second half of the season with a game at home. Especially since Carl Williams' hustling Spudders captured the first half championship. The two games here Wednesday and Thursday will be with the Shreveport club. It will be like old times. We took on the Sports here last April 9 to open the season. We take them on again Wednesday to open the second half. So start arguing with the boss right now, mates, and try to get off a little early Wednesday afternoon, for a great crowd should be on hand to give the Williamsmen a rousing reception.

It seems hard to believe that the season will be half over Wednesday. We meditate on this fact with misgivings, for the baseball season has turned out to be the grandest time of the year for us. Probably it is because this humble author is just awakening to the fact that baseball is the grandest game of all. We cheerfully admitted at the opening of the season that we knew nothing about the pastime, but were anxious to learn. About the only thing we've learned about baseball so far is that it takes a greenhorn about 20 years to learn it. But we have found out that it is a great sport to watch and comment on, and we hate to see the season entering the home stretch.

Up and coming sports writers, we hear, are supposed to at least make a stab at playing some of the games they write about. Well, we did get a baseball and purchase a glove and wound up with a blistered hand and a sore right arm. Then we invested about $50 in a set of golf clubs, and spent about $5 per week buying golf balls, after lining divers creek bottoms with the pellets. Then along came the city tennis tournament a few weeks ago, and of course something had to be done about it. But the pocketbook would not permit. As soon as we are able we'll purchase some tennis accoutrements and start out. This over the football season will be near. What then?

Teams to Meet in Double Bill Today

Special to The Record News

HOUSTON, June 23.—Two bad throws in the ninth inning, one each by Levey and Burns, cost the Wichita Falls Spudders a ball game today. Holm was on 2nd by virtue of a single and Kaufmann's sacrifice. Selph came in as a pinch hitter after Funk had fouled out, and pounded one to Levey, who made a bad throw to first. Burns then made a bad throw to Bradbury and Holm scored, giving the Buffs the decision, 4 to 3.

Bettencourt Triples

The Buffs had tied it up in the seventh after the Spudders did all their scoring in the fourth. Fitzgerald opened the latter frame with a single to right. Kloza hit to the box, and both runners were safe when Binder failed to touch second. Burns sacrificed to first unassisted and both runners advanced. Bettencourt tripled to center, scoring Fitzgerald and Kloza. Bradbury flied out to right and Bettencourt scored after the catch. Euller flied out to center to close the period.

Funk's home run in the Buffs' half of the fourth gave them their first run. Mishkin tripled in the fifth, and scored on Hunt's infield out. And the tying run was scored by the Bisons in the seventh when Holm walked, advanced to third on Kaufmann's single, and came home on an error by Euller.

Steengrafe's Loss

Big Milt Steengrafe was the losing pitcher. Steengrafe gave up 13 hits, while the Spudders collected eight off Lingrel.

A double-header Tuesday will wind up the series here.

Primo Carnera Wins Godfrey Bout On Foul Blow in Fifth Round

By FRANK GETTY
United Press Sports Editor

BAKER BOWL, Philadelphia, June 23. (UP)—Another foul ended another promising heavyweight battle tonight when Primo Carnera, huge Italian, went down in the fifth round from what seemed a deliberate low blow, struck by George Godfrey of Leiperville.

Until that time the men had fought on comparatively even terms.

The referee, John Reilly, declared that in his belief Godfrey had deliberately fouled out.

A left hook to the body one minute and 13 seconds after the fifth round started, drove Carnera to the canvas, in obvious agony.

It took six men to drag Primo's huge bulk to his corner, while the crowd of 40,000 jammed into Baker Bowl roared its disapproval.

The fight by rounds:

Round One

They sparred in mid-ring and Godfrey wrestled into a clinch. George doubled up Primo with a left to the stomach, but Godfrey drove hard right to the jaw making Primo's knees sag. Primo jabbed several lefts to the face. Carnera sent a straight right to jaw, Godfrey bouncing off the ropes. George put a short right to his face. Godfrey pounded the body in a clinch. Then Primo drove a straight right to mouth. Primo swung both hands hard to the head and pummelled Godfrey at close quarters. George swung two hard overhand rights to the face. Then he drove two more to the face, sending Primo to the ropes. (Godfrey's round).

Round Two

Godfrey jumped in and drove Primo to the ropes with a two-fisted attack to the head and body. Carnera drove two hard lefts to the body, with Primo wide open. The Italian fought gamely and apparently was taking a lot of punishment. Carnera pushed him away, but took a hard right to his injured left eye. Godfrey drove two short rights to the head, but Carnera only laughed. Carnera missed a right swing to the head and Godfrey played with both hands to the body. Carnera uppercut twice to the face. (Godfrey's round).

Round Three

Godfrey jumped in with his head down and they wrestled to the ropes. Primo showed a nice left jab and uppercut in close. Godfrey rushed in with a hard right to the body. Again he sent Carnera to the ropes. Carnera jabbed a left to the face. Godfrey drove a low left to the body, but Carnera laughed and they shook hands. Carnera was getting in better form now, although Godfrey landed a hard left to the body. Primo crossed a hard right to the body. Godfrey kept walking in with his head down and they both did a lot of wrestling. Carnera brought up a light right to the face. Godfrey's left to the body had no steam. (Round even).

Round Four

Carnera stabbed a left to the face and took a hard right to the face in return. George rushed, but was wild, and Primo tied him up. Carnera put short rights to the head while in close. Godfrey drove a right to the body and a left to the face. He hooked another left to the face, but Carnera was back at him with rights to the face. Godfrey drove a left to the body. The black hooked a low left to the body but Carnera laughed again and shook hands. Godfrey put a right to the body and left to the jaw but the blows didn't seem to hurt. Carnera crossed a short right to the head and Godfrey replied with a right to the face. Carnera held him off with his left at the bell. (Carnera's round).

Round Five

Godfrey was slower now and resorted to more wrestling. Primo stepped away and sparred. The big Italian laughed when Godfrey blocked a left to the head and then got a left and right to the head. Godfrey dropped Carnera with a left to the groin. Carnera was in great agony. A doctor entered the ring to examine him. Carnera was carried from the ring. It was the Sharkey-Schmeling scene all over again.

Consecutive Hits Lead to 19-6 Win Over Pirates

PITTSBURGH, Pa., June 23. (AP)—Tying two National league records while pounding out 28 hits of every description, Brooklyn today defeated Pittsburgh, 19 to 6.

In the 6th inning, the Robins tied the one-inning consecutive hit record held jointly by the Cubs and Cardinals, when they connected with ten successive hits.

Continuing in the seventh, the Robins hit safely twice more before a batsman was retired to run their consecutive hitting to 12, tying the mark made by the Cardinals against the Braves on Sept. 17, 1920.

Babe Herman led the Robins' attack, pounding out his sixteenth and seventeenth home runs of the season. Gelbert also hit for four bases. Jim Elliott went the route for the winners while Meine was the principal victim of the Robins' assault. Score:

Value really began to live up to Webster's definition of the word, when Palm Beach came to town.

A Palm Beach Suit will outwear many a suit that costs twice its price. It can be tubbed every washday of summer, without losing its freshness. Yet, because it is woven to shed dust and soil, it needs less washing than any other "tub" suit.

It stays pressed, because shapeliness is one of its great secrets . . . not the greatest . . . for that lies in its incomparable comfort and coolness.

Here, then, is a suit that gives you more and costs you less—that fits the modern trend to lighter clothes as it fits your purse and your person.

For the first time, it is being shown in marvelous tweedy effects and new weaves . . . In patterns freshly fashionable—in dark shades for the night, and light tones for daytime wear.

It's your money's most . . . so why pay more? At your clothier's . . . now. And in Knickers, too.

NEW YORK COTTON

NEW YORK, June 23. (AP)—Cotton prices declined 31 to 38 points during the first half of the session here today under general selling which carried the July price down to 13.25 or within 5 points of the low of the season made last Wednesday and new October to 12.64 compared with the season low price of 12.59.

During the afternoon however, the market recovered part of its losses. July advancing to 13.48 and closing at 13.40 at net decline of 20 points while new October advanced to 12.90 and closed at 12.85, a decline of 12 points. The general market closed steady at net losses of 12 to 22 points.

The opening was easy at declines of 21 to 30 points under quite general selling which was evidently inspired by weakness in the Liverpool and Alexandria markets and by a generally favorable view of weather conditions throughout the cotton belt over Sunday.

Offers tapered off during the afternoon and when the stocks and grain markets rallied there was an active demand from shorts and trade interests which gave the market a steadier tone. The old October contracts sold down to 12.93 advanced to 13.06 and closed at 12.99.

Part of the day's buying was attributed to spinners in the way of fixing prices, while otherwise a good deal of the buying appeared to come from shorts.

Liverpool cables said that prices had been affected by continental selling and local liquidation on favorable weather and weakness in the Alexandria market and that Manchester was unsettled with cloth and yarn business restricted. Exports today 7.787, making 6.602.454 so far this season. Port receipts 7.896. U. S. port stocks 1.704.109.

The general market closed steady at net declines for the day of 11 to 19 points.

Liverpool came in 10 to 11 points worse than due and first trades here showed losses of 24 to 26 points. There was a slight rally after the start but prices soon weakened again, July trading down to 12.80, October to 12.65 and December to 12.81 or 32 to 41 points below Saturday's close.

The market rallied after midsession owing to the high temperatures of 100 degrees and more east of the Mississippi river, July recovering to 13.97, October to 13.84 and December to 13.00, or 17 to 19 points up from the lows. A private report estimated the decrease in acreage of 3.4 per cent. The first new bale of the 1930 crop has arrived here from Texas. Rally Becomes General as Pivotal Stocks Withstand Renewed Pressure

By BROADAN WALL

NEW YORK, June 23 (US)—A renewed professional drive against stocks coinciding with additional distress selling at the opening of trading today uncovered strong support in pivotal stocks and a fair sized rally developed in the entire market. Concentrated pressure in the initial trading forced most leading stocks to new lows, but it was apparent from the first hour on that the character of buying had materially improved. Banking demand appeared for most of the highest-grade stocks as they dipped into new low territory and this encouraged a more friendly feeling in speculative quarters. Short covering increased as the greater support made its appearance on the exchange. Except in early dealings, the selling hysteria noticeable all last week had practically disappeared, although there was a general disposition to await further demonstration of strength from the market itself. Generally speaking, the market was the most satisfactory session in several weeks, without undue excitement on either side. Trading totalled 3,831,500 shares, only slightly larger than Friday's volume.

Sentiment at the opening continued highly nervous and the bear contingent, made confident by its recent successes, endeavored to induce further widespread liquidation by pounding away at the leaders. One powerful bear clique was reputed to have dumped 200,000 shares of the leading stocks in this attempt. The extent of the selling was apparent by the opening transactions involving 10,000 to 40,000 shares in individual issues. This stock was absorbed on setbacks of a few points compared with Saturday's final prices, but following a brief period of irregularity during which the lows for the day were reached the entire market assumed an improved tone which prevailed to the close. Steel common furnished leadership on the recovery which was made the most impressive by its persistency rather than any spectacular upswing. Steel closed up 1¼ points, and the average of 30 leading industrials improved over four points, with a corresponding gain in the utility stocks and a fractional gain among railroad shares.

The outstanding development of the day was a highly encouraging forecast of the business outlook by the Harvard Economic society. Recognized as unbiased in its views and with a background of successful prognostications, the society's statement that an early upturn in business is in prospect resulted in a remarkable change of sentiment, which last week had reached the extreme of gloominess. The market seemed to sense that this attitude also prevails in important financial quarters, where the expectation and hope is for a period of relative quietness in the security markets. With the security markets inactive and exerting no great influence on sentiment, the industrial outlook can be more accurately viewed. Industry, the Harvard survey declared, appears to be stabilizing and preparing for resumption of active operations.

With Steel getting down to 152½, or within 2½ points of the panic low, investment buying was again attracted. One well-informed interest forecast earnings of the Steel corporation for the second quarter would equal $3 a share, which with the $3.44 net for the first quarter would practically cover the entire year's $7 dividend requirement. Incidentally, Steel common at 150 would yield 4.66 per cent, whereas inclusion of the $1 extra paid a year ago would raise the yield at that price to 5.20 per cent. Gains were spread throughout the list. American Can, which was closely observed by the speculative community for sign of the First National bank's market views, gaining 5⅞ points; General Electric which the 40,000-share initial transaction occurred, closing up 1¾. Westinghouse Electric up 3⅞. The motion picture stocks, in which large short interests exist, all improved while the more volatile issues scored large advances. Case Threshing jumping 14 points on the day, Vanadium 6, Allied Chemical 6, and many others showed net gains of over 5 points.

Public Service of New Jersey in particular was favored by the most powerful kind of buying. The stock appears to be one of the prime favorites of almost all investment interests. It closed up 4⅞ points. Buying of public service was reported for the account of leading public utility people, who recognize the company's rapid growth in earnings and the prospects for additional expansion. Notwithstanding the substantial capitalization, floating supply of public service is relatively small, because of large-scale concentrated holdings. Strength of the stock was reflected in the entire utility list. Electric Power and Light gaining 5¾ points. Consolidated Gas 3⅞, Columbia Gas 2, and United Corporation 1¾. It was reported that the Mellon interests were heavy buyers of stocks during the morning weakness.

Call money was again in free supply at 2½ per cent. Strength in the stock list found reflection in some of the commodity markets. Wheat dipped to a new low off several cents a bushel but later rallied in sympathy with the stock market's improved tone. Cotton closed lower. The commodity markets of late seem to be reflecting the stock market nervousness rather than their own situations in many instances. Incidentally, competent wheat authorities who had been bearish since the government activities commenced are now talking of an early bottom being reached. Leading European exchange rates were firm, with the exception of Germany whose money went to the lowest for several years.

Grain

TEXAS CASH GRAIN

FORT WORTH, June 23. (AP) — Improved export demand for wheat, although at sharply lower values, featured the Fort Worth cash grain market at the beginning of the second active week of new crop trading. Exporters were bidding 93@93½c for ordinary export wheat basis delivered gulf ports. Mills were taking a little wheat on the basis of 94@95c according to quality with delivery Texas common points.

Sorghums were very slow sale and trade in barley was of small dimensions. Corn and oats were fairly active at the declines.

Estimated receipts for the two-day periods: wheat, 587 cars; corn 32; oats 15, and sorghums 20.

Bids and offers on coarse grains ranged as follows, basis carloads delivered Texas common points, freight paid:

Corn—No. 2 mixed 91½@92½c; No. 2 white 97@98c; No. 2 yellow 95½@96½c.
Oats—No. 2 red 43½@44½c.
Barley—No. 2 milo per 100 lbs. $1.95 @1.97; No. 2 kaffir $1.72@1.75.

Dealers also quoted as follows, basis delivered Texas group one points: No. 2 mixed corn 90@91c; No. 2 white 95 @96c; No. 2 yellow corn 94½@95½c; No. 3 white oats 48@48½c to which add 1c for delivery group three.

CHICAGO GRAIN

CHICAGO, June 23. (AP)—Wheat prices rebounded suddenly today coincidently with rallies in quotations on securities but not until wheat had fallen into the "eighties."

For the first time in a long while the July delivery of wheat here, which represents the 1930 domestic crop now being harvested in the Southwest, went under 90c and sold today at as low as 89½c a bushel, whereas for 15 years past a dollar a bushel has been generally regarded as about the lowest figure at which wheat should sell.

Big arrivals of wheat at Texas, Oklahoma and southern Kansas points today received much of the blame for new low prices established today and so also did continued dearth of any adequate export demand.

Closing quotations on wheat were notably irregular, and unsettled ranging from ¼c decline to ⅞c advance compared with Saturday's finish. Corn closed 1¾c up, oats ⅜@⅝c advanced, and provisions 5⅝c down.

Helping to lift the wheat market the late dealings today were not only the upward swings of stock exchange prices but also reports in some quarters referring to likelihood of wheat growers strike similar to the consumers' strike aboard last year.

Corn and oats sympathized with wheat weakness early, but afterward developed strength independently. Scantiness of receipts of corn from rural sources did a good deal to aid the late upward movement in corn and oats. Need of moisture in parts of the corn belt was also a source of late firmness of corn values. Earlier, however, corn, oats and rye as well as wheat, touched new price records for the season.

Provisions underwent a sharp drop on account of liquidating sales and as a result of declines in the value of hogs.

Closing indemnities: wheat, July 89½c, 94½ @ ⅝c; Sept. 93¼@⅜c, 98⅞c; Dec. 98⅜@⅞c, $1.03⅛@⅜. Corn, July 74⅝c, 77⅝c; Sept. 73⅞@74c, 76⅝@⅞c; Dec. 68⅞@69c, 72⅝@⅞c.

MIDWESTERN LIVESTOCK REVIEW

KANSAS CITY, June 23. (AP)—(U.S.D.A.)—Moderate supplies of cattle at all of the larger markets failed to check the downward trend in values. Fed steers and yearlings met a limited outlet and further declines of $2.50 were registered as compared with last week's close. Choice heavy steers made $12.40 to shippers at Chicago for the day's top. Butcher classes were also hard to move and prices were considered mostly 25 under late last week. Arrivals were estimated at 44,600.

Although receipts of hogs were only slightly larger than a week ago an extremely bearish feeling existed among buyers, and after a slow trade prices were lowered $15.35 as compared with last week's close. Chicago scored $9.60 early in the day for the extreme top. Offerings totaled 121,900.

WILD MARY HAS TWIN SISTER

I. T. I. O. No. 4 Comes in For 30,000 Barrels

OKLAHOMA CITY, June 23. (AP)—"Wild Mary", the shrew of the south Oklahoma City oil field, has a sister of about the same caliber in the I. T. I. O. No. D Mary Sudik, SE NE SW 31-11-3 W, just one location south of the wild gusher.

The well blew in this afternoon and as the huge volume of oil and gas broke over the crown block the roar sounded like a wild storm in a rage. Whipped by a south wind, the spray went nearly two miles.

Estimates place the well in the 30,000-barrel class, with 75,000,000 cubic feet of gas. It is believed to be as large if not larger than the original well on the lease which went wild for 11 days and defied control.

Naval Modernization Urged by Admiral

WASHINGTON, June 23. (INS)—The American navy has not achieved parity in battleships with Great Britain and will not until $70,000,000 is spent in modernization work, Rear Admiral George H. Rock, chief of the bureau of construction and repair, testified before the house naval affairs committee today.

"We've been informed that we have parity in capital ships with Great Britain as a result of the treaty," said Representative Vinson, Democrat, Georgia. "Do we now have it?"

"Not until the remaining battleships are modernized," replied Rock.

A whalebone in the state museum at Raleigh, N. C., once valued at $1,800 is now almost worthless due to lessened demand for the product.

Clifton was in training at the military camp at Greenville during the war, and has been an invalid in the legion hospital since 1927. He is survived by his parents, Rev. and Mrs. J. W. Correct Attendance at Sunday Schools Given Members of the First Church of Christ and the Fanning Community Christian Sunday schools may have been more or less surprised upon reading the attendance reports as presented in Monday morning's Record News.

Those who were among the crowd of 396 persons at the First Church of Christ doubtless wondered that so large an assembly would total only 96 as reflected in the published report. Those who attended the Fannin Community school probably were convinced that most of the 372 persons reported present were present only by proxy.

The explanation being that a digit "3" became ambitious and hopped into the row of type above its proper place to take away 300 from one attendance figure and add it to another. The First Church of Christ had 396 present, the Fannin Community school 72.

MAJESTIC: "Shadow of the Law," with William Powell. Talking Comedy, "He Loved the Ladies." Paramount novelty song and Majestic talking news, with big scenes from Shriners' convention in Canada.

STRAND: "High Society Blues," with Janet Gaynor and Charles Farrell, both singing popular theme songs. Educational comedy, "Fat Wives for Thin." Paramount special feature, "Sunset Hunters," and Paramount News.

STATE: "Free and Easy," with Buster Keaton thawing out to talk. "Forty Winks," with Felix the Cat, and Pathe Sound News.

GEM: "The Light of Western Stars," with Richard Arlen, Mary Brian and Harry Green. All-talking comedy, "He Did His Best."

It hasn't been so long since Wichitans were singing "Keep Your Sunny Side Up," and now one hears them humming "Just Like a Story Book" and "High Society Blues." By Wednesday night, nothing will be heard but "I've Got It" But 'It' Don't Do Me No Good."

The movies' main asset is making one young again. Younger folk see heroes and heroines on the stage and the older recapture youth and hope, and dream once more.

Janet Gaynor and Charlie Farrell at the Strand, with all of youth and glamour in their lovemaking, have revived that joy of living.

There's one inexpressibly clever young man in that play and that is Farrell as Eddie. Eddie knew what he wanted all along and the others who boasted about being so clever, merely thought they were.

There are uncountable laughs in the play. Perhaps the heartiest are Louise Fazenda—Eddie's simple, good mother.

Ma's wide-eyed question, "Do you suppose Eddie's got a girl in his room?" convulsed a fat man who was enjoying the show. And when she reproached her son with a horrified, "Why Eddie!—Don't you think I know who your father is?" everyone around him feared a stroke.

No one would say that all rich American parents crave a count as son-in-law nor that all rich business men are such simple fools as the two fathers in this play.

But pictures can't be all built on a practical basis and pictures as we have said before, are for entertainment.

It would never do to stop without reminding the world in general that there are bits of the ocean caught in storm and peace, seals in a storm and exquisite views of inland water spread on the screen for the delectation of those who see "Sunset Hunters," shown with "High Society Blues" at the Strand.

SHEP ON WBAP

The remainder of the program will be given by the Peace Maker ensemble, a double quartet, using old southern melodies and religious songs.

To make their feet look smaller, women should wear hose and shoes of the same color, says a fashion expert.
