Democrats Roar Approval As Guinn Williams Scores Hoover

WOMEN TAKE STAGE

Williams and Mrs. Moore Lead Rousing Demo Rally Here

The largest crowd assembled in a Democratic rally since the campaigning was opened in Wichita Falls heard Rep. Guinn Williams of Decatur and Mrs. William Dwyer Moore of Denton in Memorial auditorium Monday night. The crowd, estimated at 1,800 persons, listened attentively throughout the two-hour meeting as the speakers paraded the turpitude of Republican administrations in scathing language and held up Gov. Alfred Smith as the only hope for the south.

The huge auditorium rang with cheers as both Mrs. Moore and Congressmen Williams were halted scores of times in their addresses and the crowd was loath to allow Mr. Williams to stop his speech, although his voice was hoarse as he began his fifth week delivering two speeches a day. He told the audience he would give them the records of Republican administrations and made several futile attempts to bring his talk to an end before the crowd finally let him stop.

FROM IOWA PARK

Among those from Iowa Park who heard Rep. Guinn Williams and Mrs. W. D. Moore at the Memorial auditorium Monday night were Mr. and Mrs. Tom Corridon, George Weatherall, Corey Field, Noel Troutman, A Locke Lowrance, Grady Wigley, T. J. Cathron, Roy Harriman, S. A. Baxter and Mr. Teaftateller.

Shepherd Leads Singing

A spirit of warm democracy was evident in the crowd at the outset, long before the speakers had "warmed" up to their subjects and the audience joined lustily in the singing of "The Sidewalks of New York," and other campaign songs, led by R. E. Shepherd, former mayor of Wichita Falls. The entire program was radiocast by remote control over KGKO. More than 100 women occupied the stage with the speaker.

Mr. Williams was introduced to the crowd by Walter D. Cline of Wichita Falls, who kept the crowd in gales of laughter for several minutes as he cleverly "wise-cracked" about the present administration. He called attention to the qualifications of Mr. Hoover, mentioning the Republican presidential nominee as a "wonderful engineer."

Both of the principal speakers made a plea for strict adherence to party principles, asking southern Democrats to stand by heedless of "side show" propaganda covering the field of religion, prohibition and other issues which they declared were set up by the opposing faction to blind the south against real issues of the campaign.

"This is an economic question not a question of wet or dry or Protestant or Catholic," declared Mr. Williams as he opened his address.

"Just what do we owe the Democratic party?

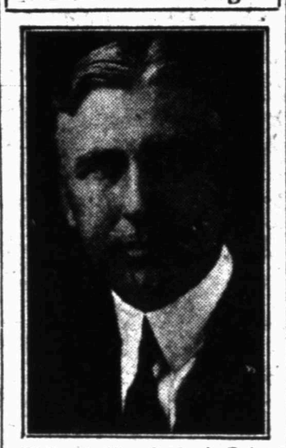

"From the time Jefferson was president until Wilson retired there never was one breath of scandal that branded a Democratic administration. Under Democratic admin-

Makes 'Em Laugh

Walter D. Cline, leader in Rotary international and prominent in many civic and business enterprises of Wichita Falls, has been hiding his light under the proverbial basket, it was said at the auditorium Monday night. Introducing Guinn Williams, Mr. Cline kept his audience in an uproar with "wise cracks" that placed him on par with Mayor Jimmy Walker, Gov. Alfred E. Smith or Will Rogers.

SANDEFER TO SPEAK TONIGHT

Motorists Tour County To Advertise Rally

Dr. Jefferson Davis Sandefer president of Simmons university of Abilene will arrive in Wichita Falls Tuesday to speak on behalf of Herbert Hoover's candidacy in the Memorial auditorium Tuesday night. Dr. Sandifer is speaking here under the auspices of the anti-Smith Democratic club.

C. H. Clark, vice president of the organization, will preside at the meeting, and will introduce N. H. Martin, president of the club.

Committee Named

Mr. Martin will make a brief address, answering statements recently made by opposition speakers on the political platform here. Mr. Martin will then introduce President Sandefer.

Plans for the affair were being completed Monday. Seats were being assigned to the guests of honor who will sit on the stage, and sections were being reserved for out of town delegations on the lower floor.

The following honor committee for President Sandefer was announced Monday:

Wichita Falls—Mr. and Mrs. Fred Couper, Mr. and Mrs. W. W. Silk, Mr. and Mrs. N. H. Martin, Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Roper, Mr. and Mrs. L. E. Cowling, Mr. and Mrs. O. R. Hartt, Mr. and Mrs. J. T. YOUNGGREEN SPEAKS

Texas Delegates Wait National President's Address

With the eyes of the professional advertising world turned on Wichita Falls Tuesday for one of the three major addresses to be made this year by Charles C. Younggreen, national president, the Tenth District of the International Advertising association celebrated the annual banquet and dance Monday night at the Wichita club.

Roaring Frolic

The election of a new district president and district officers also was set for Tuesday.

Two hundred ad men and their wives celebrated the annual ball at the Wichita club by one of the most uproarious meetings ever held, it was said by old members.

A. E. Kelly presided, and Otto S. Bruck, district president, introduced C. C. Younggreen, national president, for a speech. It had been planned originally to have J. P. Simpson, last year's president, take the floor and speak in place of Mr. Younggreen after the president had been introduced. Former President Simpson started to talk while President Younggreen looked on but dancers interrupted his address a few minutes later.

Maxine Crowson sang a specialty number "The Sidewalks of New York" which drew prolonged applause. She then gave a tap dance and was accompanied on the piano by her mother, Mrs. C. E. Crowson.

Music on Air

The little girl proved the spark that set off the evening's fireworks when she danced up to a big "snow man" and threw hundreds of confetti balls to all parts of the room. In a short time, the place was a riot of streamers, "Will Rogers for President" paper, hats and other ingredients of a big whoopee.

The last entertainment of the dinner program was an Indian dance by the Wichita Falls Boy Scouts.

The Little Rovers orchestra tuned up as the tables were cleared away, and dancing was started. It lasted until midnight, and the music was broadcasted by remote control over KGKO from 10 o'clock to midnight.

President Younggreen expressed radio greetings to members of the International Advertising association all over America at 10:30 o'clock Monday night when the dance orchestra was silenced for a moment.

Greetings to Ad Men

"I am glad to be with the delegates to the Tenth District convention here in Wichita Falls tonight, and I extend greetings both to you delegates and to the members in distant cities who may be listening on the radio."

Walter D. Cline has replaced Frank Kell on the Tuesday afternoon program to speak on "The Business Outlook for the Future of Texas," according to an announcement made by Mr. Kelly, general chairman of the convention committees. Mr. Kelly explained that the change was due to the fact Mr. Kell has been called out of the city.

Next Year's convention was voted to Dallas over San Antonio after Waco had withdrawn from the race. After the vote, San Antonio withdrew to make it unanimous, in order to aid San Antonio's claim to the 1930 convention.

Dawes Says Prosperity Is Main Issue In Campaign

NEW YORK, Oct. 22. (UP)—Prosperity is the issue upon which the great body of "average voters" will decide the presidential election for Herbert Hoover, and prohibition will play only a minor part in the election, Vice President Charles G. Dawes declared in his first campaign speech in Madison Square garden here tonight.

Dawes, who preceded Hoover on tonight's program, declared that prosperity, likewise, will overshadow farm relief as an issue.

BORAH DELVES INTO HISTORY

Idahoan Flays Al; Explains His Own 'Changes'

DALLAS, Oct. 22. (AP)—Governor Smith was declared to have "changed his mind for political expediency," on several leading issues in the presidential contest, by Senator William E. Borah of Idaho tonight in an appeal to the electorate of the Lone Star state to support Herbert Hoover.

Replying to the charge of the Democratic presidential nominee that Borah had "about faced" in supporting Hoover, the senator in a speech prepared for delivery at fair park auditorium here charged Smith with having reversed his views on the "open saloon," the St. Lawrence waterway, the protective tariff, immigration restriction and the farm equalization fee. The governor in his speech at Chicago Friday declared Borah had assailed Hoover in 1919 in the senate and now was the Republican candidate's "leading spokesman."

Hoover "Improves"

"He (Governor Smith) says I criticised Hoover then," the senator said, "And I am supporting him now. If that be true, it simply shows that Mr. Hoover improves with acquaintance. The longer you know him, the more deeply you respect and trust him. That perhaps, accounts for the fact that he has been the most thoroughly trusted man by those who know him best, in many respects, of this generation; that accounts for the trust that will be reposed in him on the sixth of November."

Taking up his charge of the "changes of views" of Governor Smith, Borah declared "eight or ten years ago the governor was the defender of the open saloon and he

Bristling Speech Aimed At Empire State's 45 Electoral Votes

NEW YORK, Oct. 22. (AP)—Herbert Hoover came into Alfred E. Smith's home city tonight with an indictment of the Democratic presidential candidate's prohibition, farm relief, and water power proposals as, in effect, an attempt to solve these problems by "state socialism."

Democrats have abandoned the "tenets of their own party" in these proposals, he declared in his speech here tonight. Hoover did not men-

HOOVER PREDICTIONS

NEW YORK, Oct. 22. (UP)—Herbert Hoover chose Gov. Alfred E. Smith's home city to issue today two separate predictions of his election to the presidency, the first such public expressions of confidence since his nomination in June.

He picked a day just two weeks before the election, with campaign directors facing the closing days which are ruled often by strange cross-currents of psychology.

Cautiously, he coupled the expressions of confidence with a warning to Republican workers here in this vital sector, and throughout the country, not to relax their efforts "before every ballot is delivered into the box."

tion Smith by name, but took an unexpected course when he boldly singled out the Democratic presidential candidate's prohibition modification proposal for harsh criticism in this state which has gone on record for a change in prohibition laws.

In his bid for New York's almost vital 45 electoral votes, before a huge audience in Madison Square Garden, the Republican presidential candidate declared the Democrats have revived in this campaign "a series of proposals which, if adopted, would be a long step toward the abandonment of our American system and a surrender to the destructive operation of government conduct of commercial business.

Methodists Launch Drive To Bring Conference Here

General Quadrennial Meeting Invited to City At Meeting Which Commends Johnson and McKenney

After adopting resolutions to Bishop Sam R. Hay of Dallas asking the return of Dr. Walter J. Johnson as presiding elder and of Dr. S. S. McKenney as pastor, the fourth quarterly conference of the First Methodist church Monday night voted to extend to the quadrennial general conference of the Methodist Episcopal church, South, an invitation to hold the 1930 conference in Wichita Falls. Seventy-five were present.

This is the first action taken looking to the holding of the national meeting here, and it was taken at the suggestion of Dr. McKenney, the pastor.

Hundreds Attend

The conference usually attracts 900 pastors, missionaries and delegates from all parts of the world, in addition to the hundreds who attend from time to time during the three to four weeks it lasts. It is usually held in the month of May.

The last meeting of the conference, which is the national lawmaking body of Southern Methodism, was held in Memphis, Tenn., in 1926. It has been held at Atlanta, Birmingham, Oklahoma City and Dallas.

The chamber of commerce and the local service clubs will be asked to join with the church in extending the invitation of Wichita Falls, it was announced.

J. J. Perkins in advancing the resolution for the return of Dr. Johnson commended the presiding elder for his service.

McKenney Commended

Ben G. Oneal presented the resolution asking Bishop Hay to return Dr. McKenney. The resolution commends the pastor in the highest terms for his efforts, and seeks his return for a third year.

N. H. Martin put the question on this resolution, which was carried unanimously.

It was explained that in the two-year pastorate of Dr. McKenney, the physical properties of the church have grown to a value of $600,000 and that nearly 700 additions have been made to the church.

The pastors' report was presented to show that in his first year a total of $220,000 was paid in on the new church and in his second year a total of $120,000 was paid, making a total of $340,000 during his two years here. This period will close Wednesday.

Church's Growth Show

The same report showed 331 additions to the church and 120 by vow this past year, or a net gain in membership of 270 in the two years. This is exclusive of the 50 members who were used as a nucleus for the new Sibley Taylor church and a like number for the Adams Street church, both of which were started the first of this year. The present membership of the First church is now 3,868, the pastor's report showed, and the attendance has set new records for all time in the history of the church.

Dr. McKenney presided in the absence of Dr. Johnson, who is ill, and of Dr. S. A. Barnes, who has left for the annual conference to be held at Denton Thursday.

HONOLULU, Oct. 22. (AP).—Myles Yutaka Fukunaga, scheduled to be hanged tomorrow for the murder of Gil Jamieson, was reprieved today until Nov. 19 by Governor Farrington.

The territorial supreme court is expected to rule Friday on a writ of error asked by attorneys for Fukunaga on the ground that he was insane when he kidnaped and killed the 10-year-old son of Frederick W. Jamieson, banker of this city.

PROHI AGENT SHOT IN COURT

Liquor Case Witness Badly Wounded by Bullet

CHICAGO, Oct. 22 (UP)—Thomas Ryan, prohibition agent was shot and seriously wounded today in the courtroom of prohibition commissioner Edwin K. Walker where the agent was a witness in a liquor case.

A thorough search of all persons in the courtroom was made but no weapons were found and police could give no explanation as to how Ryan had been shot.

Back to Window

Ryan, with his back to an open window, was standing with three other agents on one side of the courtroom. A slight report was heard and someone in the room remarked: "There's a shot.'

Ryan said to a companion that "someone dropped a torpedo," and a few seconds later he collapsed, saying "I'm shot." He was shot in the back.

Michael Shannon, patrolman, who took part in the raid involved in the case, said he believed whoever shot Ryan had mistaken the agent's identity and that the bullet probably was intended for himself.

Shooting In Raid

Shannon shot and killed Silvia Colombia during the raid. He said several men who were in the courtroom when the shot was heard, left immediately. He identified one of the men as a cousin of Colombia.

Ryan had figured in the raid on Wick Beemstorboer's garage and had been called as a witness. His part in the raid, however, officers said was not important as he arrived after police had seized all material at the garage.

As soon as it was learned Ryan had been shot all persons still in the courtroom, numbering about 30, were searched and held by police for questioning.

The bullet struck Ryan in the back and lodged in the abdomen. The agent was unconscious for several minutes but later regained consciousness. He could give authorities little definite information.

Charges Against Woman Dismissed At Houston

HOUSTON, Oct. 22. (AP) — Two charges of burglary and one of felony theft against Louise Magness and the late Jack Smith, former convict, were dismissed here today when the state's attorneys said Smith's death weakened the case against the woman.

Mrs. Magness was arrested by rangers at Austin where she went to attend the funeral of Smith, fatally wounded by a detective in Oklahoma City.

SUPREME COURT DENIES APPEAL FROM DECISION

BURK LEASE INVOLVED

Inadequate Price Claimed By Instigators Of Noted Suit

The supreme court of the United States Monday denied an application for an appeal from the United States circuit court of appeals at New Orleans of the case of Hurley et al., receivers of the Gilliland Oil company vs. the McMann Oil and Gas company.

The case involved cash and oil property worth approximately $2,000,000 including an oil lease on 186 acres out of the Dr Bose survey adjoining the townsite of Burkburnett.

On May 11, 1921, the Gilliland company sold to the McMann company the lease on the 186 acres on which was located 66 producing oil wells and casinghead gas plant valued at $1,000,000. Thereafter the Gilliland company went into the hands of a receiver in the federal district court, and in November, 1922, P. J. Hurley and John J. Battherthwait, as receivers of the Gilliland company, brought suit against the McMann company to recover the oil lease and casinghead plant together with the net proceeds of the gas and oil produced from the lease and the casinghead plant and gas contracts.

Price Too Low, Claim

The grounds for the suit were that the sale had been made by the Gilliland company for $1,000,000, a grossly inadequate price, and that the sale was fraudulent and was only a mortgage.

Federal District Judge James W. Wilson appointed G. C. Whitten, master in chancery, to take testimony and report his conclusions of law and fact. The master found in favor of the receivers against the McMann company for the recovery of the property sued for, together with $1,257,000 and all net receipts and revenues from the property after July 31, 1926. The court rendered judgment according to the recommendation of the master.

Case Appealed

The McMann company appealed the case to the U. S. circuit court of appeals at New Orleans. Last March that court reversed the judgment of the lower court and the case was remanded with directions to the U. S. district court to dismiss the suit.

The receivers applied for an appeal from the circuit court of appeals to the United States supreme court and the latter Monday denied the application for appeal and thereby affirmed the judgment of the circuit court of appeals in favor of the McMann company.

The receivers of the Gilliland company were represented by Humphrey and Boone and the McMann company by Carrigan, Britain, Morgan and King.

Cooking School Records Fall When 600 Housewives Attend First Meet

Mrs. Chitwood Welcomed Here by Largest Class for Her Fifth Annual Wichita Falls Demonstration

Approximately 600 housewives of Wichita Falls and vicinity attended the opening lesson Monday afternoon of the four-day cooking school which Mrs. Ida M. Chitwood, noted culinary expert is conducting at the Memorial auditorium.

The crowd was the largest ever to attend such an affair in Wichita Falls. The school is being conducted under the auspices of The Record News and Daily Times, and will last through Thursday, with lessons beginning promptly at 2:30 o'clock each day.

New Ideas Given

New ideas in preparation of dishes in order to make them both nutritive and attractive to the eye was the feature stressed in the first lesson Monday. In addition to demonstrating the preparation of several innovations, Mrs. Chitwood gave practical hints as to renovation of rugs and carpets and touched upon home economics.

Housekeeping is the highest position to which a woman may aspire, the expert explained to the class, but women must prepare themselves to follow that vocation with the aid of scientific training and not ad a haphazard following of outgrown housekeeping legends. A housewife must equip her kitchen with the newest and most efficient utensils if she is to attain the best results from her labor.

No housewife and mother should spend all her time in the kitchen, but should be allowed sufficient time to follow her favorite pastime, according to the expert. For this reason, women should learn to prepare attractive and nutritive meals at the smallest possible effort. Cookery schools have this ob-

Smith Begins Battle For Seaboard States in Boston Speech Wednesday

ALBANY, Oct. 22. (UP)—A more intensive campaign than this country has seen—designed to reach the millions of the Atlantic seaboard and their 138 electoral votes—is being planned here tonight by Gov. Alfred E. Smith and his Democratic associates.

Beginning in Boston Wednesday, the Democratic presidential nominee will tour Massachusetts, Rhode Island, Connecticut, New York, New Jersey, Pennsylvania, Delaware and Maryland.

Every moment until he closes his campaign with a speech on the East Side of New York election eve will be crowded with efforts to swing this block of states.

Smith knows he can win with 138 electoral votes from this region, added to what he considers certain in the solid south and border states.

He will arrive in Boston at 3:30 p. m. Wednesday and parade through the streets before making an address at 9 p. m.

Senator David I. Walsh and the delegation of Massachusetts leaders who completed the arrangements with Smith here this afternoon told him the states was "safe" and that he could expect the noisiest and largest demonstration there he has received in this campaign.

AD CLUBS END MEETING TODAY

Cline to Speak on Future Of Texas

tising association composed of cities of the south with the object of bettering the south and advertising in the south was urged in a resolution.

The text of the resolution points out that "there seems to be a lethargy in the organized advertising activities in the greater cities of the south." The resolution as adopted is "that the tenth district International Advertising association here in convention assembled calls for the appointment of a committee composed of one representative of each club or their proxies in the tenth district to meet with representative advertising men of Birmingham, New Orleans, Memphis, Little Rock, Atlanta, Miami, Oklahoma City, Jacksonville, Florida, and Greensboro and other southern cities for the purpose of organizing an association of, by and for the south so that there may be adequate interchange of ideas in advertising, development of the advertising profession, proper standards and promulgation of ethics and betterment of advertising in general in the entire south."

More Clubs

More and better clubs are the aims expressed in another resolution which provides the groundwork for their accomplishment.

A survey of possibilities for new clubs in this district, the creation of closer intercity relationships, the planning of a five-year program of expansion for the district in keeping with the potential development of the state of Texas, by raising the standards of advertising in Texas, and the creation of a commission of one member from each club of the district to carry out the expansion program, were the items included.

A. D. Collins, secretary, reported the district to be in better financial condition than ever before in its history.

Credentials, George Latham of Dallas; Mrs. Thelma Gaines of San Antonio, and Mike Murphy of Houston; resolutions, Will Henson of Dallas, J. B. Higdon of San Antonio, H. M. Fentress of Waco, E. C. Taulbee of Waco, Ralph Henderson of Fort Worth and Miss Zula Lee of Dallas; nominating, James P. Simpson of Dallas, E. L. McGill of Waco, J. R. Moffett of El Paso, H. W. Steel of Houston, Pete Lawson of Beaumont, W. S. Abbott of Wichita Falls, J. A. Milburg of San Antonio, Miss Jean Williams of Dallas, DeWitt Morgan of Fort Worth and Mrs. M. L. Gill of Houston.

Will S. Wood of Fort Worth, advertising manager of the Renfro Drug stores, and two women were the featured speakers at the session Monday afternoon. Mr. Wood talked on "Backing Up Your Advertising."

Prof. Ida Cruze McFarlane of the University of Denver department of English, gave her famous "I Am the Customer" talk; and Miss Grace Walton, advertising manager of the Kayser Silk company of New York, spoke on "The Meaning of We Moderns." The session was given over generally to the problem of retail advertising and its methods.

President O. S. Bruck, at the morning session, urged that half of the $1 per member dues be put into a fund for traveling expenses for the president and secretary of the district. He also suggested that all local club officials keep their clubs in strong financial condition.

Mayor J. W. Akin welcomed the convention to Wichita Falls, and H. W. Steele of Houston responded. E. H. McReynolds, St. Louis, publicity director of the Missouri Pacific railway, talked on "Selling Service." Rev. W. M. Wright, pastor of the First Baptist church of Paris, gave two short addresses at the morning session. His topic was "Church Advertising."

"In effect, they abandon the tenets of their own party and turn to state socialism as solution of the difficulties presented by all three.

"It is proposed that we shall change from prohibition to the state purchase and sale of liquor. If their agricultural relief program means anything, it means that the government shall directly or indirectly buy and sell and fix prices of agricultural products. "In other words, we are confronted with a huge program of government in business.

Denounces Prohi Plans

Hoover discussed prohibition no further than to denounce Smith's proposal, though Vice-President Dawes, who preceded him, gave some attention to it, declaring that it is not an issue with the average citizen, though it will affect votes of many who feel strongly one way or the other. Continuance of prosperity, the vice-president declared in this, his first campaign speech, is the dominant issue.

Hoover did enlarge upon the farm relief and waterpower proposals along lines already laid down. His topic tonight was the relation of government and business. He declared at the outset that one fundamental contribution of the Republican party to every attempt to inject the government into business in competition with its citizens.

The "most vital issue" facing this country at the end of the war, during which the government had necessarily exercised despotic powers, Hoover explained, was whether the government should continue to carry on many of those functions. The Democratic aministration decided against it, and with the help of a Republican administration carried forward, he added.

Government Operation

Hoover then denounced government operation, in which he said he had no experience, declared "it is a false liberalism that interprets itself into the government operation of commercial business," and argued that even if it were efficient, which he denied, "the fundamental objection to it would remain unaltered and unabated."

It would destroy political equality, increase abuse and corruption, stifle initiative and invention, undermine the development of leadership, cramp and cripple the mental and spiritual energies of the people, extinguish equality and opportunity, and dry up the spirit of liberty and progress, he declared.

"Every step of bureaucratizing of the business of our country poisons the very roots of liberalism—that is, political equality, free speech, free assembly, free press, and equality of opportunity," he said.

"It is the road not to more liberty, but to less liberty."

Regulation of Business

The Republican candidate declared his position, however, did not mean the government "is to part with one iota of its national resources without complete protection to the public interest," and pledged himself to regulation of business to correct evils, to which he said the Republican administration had committed itself.

Hoover touched upon public utilities, which have been brought prominently into the campaign picture of the federal trade commission's investigation of the so-called "power trust," the Republican party in establishing the principle of regulation, he said, insisted "upon the principle that when great public utilities were clothed with the security of partial monopoly, whether it be railways, power plants, telephones or what not, then there must be the fullest and most complete control of rates, services and finances by government or local agencies.

"It declared," he added, "that these businesses must be conducted with glass pockets."

Hoover, in concluding, listed among his conceptions of America that it is a land "where every man shall be respected in the faith that his conscience and his heart direct him to follow."

AL LOSES FOUR BROWN DERBIES

But Nominee Gets New One At Utica

By MARTHA DALRYMPLE

ALBANY, N. Y., Oct. 22.—Governor Smith's brown derby record at the end of his second campaign trip stood today at four given away and one received.

The governor revealed the status of his headgear supply when he was asked how his stock was holding out after his midnight stop in Cleveland Saturday night, when he had given away a derby to the first person to greet him as the special train stopped to change engines.

Picks Up One

"But I got one in Utica," he said, referring to the stop the party made this morning at Utica to attend church services at St. John's church. "Some man handed it to Mrs. Smith to give to me. It is just exactly my size."

The hat that the nominee had given away the night before, members of the party recalled, had been the last one he had with him and did not fit him particularly well. The main use he put it to was for salutation of the crowds that greeted him at every stop.

The governor was told that the recipient was a Cleveland newspaper reporter who was an ardent Smith supporter.

"He was the first one there at the station. I did not know he was a reporter. He was just talking to me," said the governor.

The reporter had been early on the job and was the first one to locate the back end of the train in the dark. The governor came out on the platform wearing a gray Fedora and his interviewer asked where the brown derby was.

"It's inside. Do you want it?" asked the governor, and without waiting for a reply went inside his car, returning in a moment with the brown derby which he presented over the railing.

Somebody today at the press conference commented upon the "good looking" gray felt which the nominee wore to church.

Crowds Greet Train

"Yes, we have that to fall back upon all the time," said Governor Smith.

"That is for the inauguration," suggested a correspondent.

"You wouldn't wear a brown derby that day."

"We would just have to follow the custom," was the governor's reply.

The expected arrival of the party at Utica had not been announced, but an hour before the train arrived a crowd began gathering and a force of police were called to keep a path cleared for the nominee.

A similar crowd gathered before the church and waited outside until the service was over.

Roast Demonstration

Demonstration of the "Christmas roast" interested the class Monday afternoon. The expert showed the school how a nutritive roast may be dressed with pimento, parsley and cranberries to similate a Christmas tree with all its highly colored festivity, at the same time receive higher food value.

"The Flapper Salad" was passed around following the demonstration of its preparation. This salad may be made as modern as the cook executing it desires, Mrs. Chitwood explained, by addition of as much lip cream and rouge and even a lighted candle for a cigaret. The class was pleased with the result of the short time expended in preparing the clever salad dish, according to comments heard.

In addition to the dishes mentioned, Mrs. Chitwood instructed the school in mixing a non-fattening but palatable salad dressing, the famous highly nutritive "pie crust Au Gratin" and "Maple Ade Pie" favorite with men. She was unable to demonstrate the preparation of "Admiration Souffle" because of delay in refrigeration connections.

The Tuesday program will include a lesson on caramel sweet potatoes, party salads and fancy sandwiches. She will continue her lectures on home economics and will demonstrate the proper set arrangement of silver for formal dinners.

All housewives of the city are invited to attend the lectures which are free. They are requested to bring notebooks to take recipes as they will not be published in the newspapers.

Burglars Renew Wichita Falls Activities As Norther Arrives

Diamond Necklace and Other Articles Taken From Home; Business Houses Also Entered

After a lull of several months burglary activities picked up sharply over the week-end with three robberies Sunday night, according to reports at the police station Monday morning. None of the property taken in the four burglaries had been recovered Monday night.

The biggest "job" of the four which came at the heels of Wichita Falls' first norther was at the Franklin school in Country Club estates addition where burglars Sunday night took a large quantity of foodstuffs. The "haul" included 20 pounds of ham, five cans of cheese, shelled pecans, marshmallows, beans and other articles.

A house robbery was reported by Floyd Billingsley, 1825 Elizabeth, who said thieves took a diamond necklace, a small savings bank and other articles from his home.

A safe and cash register was taken from the store of J. N. Marks, Mankins merchant, who was in Wichita Falls Monday offering a reward for their recovery. The safe contained all of the store records and accounts. About $15 in money and a small quantity of merchandise also was taken by thieves who gained entrance by breaking in a rear door. Tracks of an automobile which led toward Wichita Falls was the only clew.

Burglars forced open a steel loading door at the Brown Cracker and Candy company, 200 Barwise street, but failed to get anything, according to officials of the company.

NEGRO GIVEN SUSPENDED TERM

Edgar Menefee, negro, tried Monday on a grand jury indictment charging burglary, was given a five-year suspended sentence by a jury in 30th district court. The defendant was represented by E. F. Fruechte while R. O. Kenley, Jr., district attorney, with Mike Anglin and George W. Anderson, assistants, represented the state.

Borah Attacks Smith At Dallas

says now he has changed his mind—is he sincere?" He added that the Democratic standard bearer before the campaign denounced the St. Lawrence waterway and now "says he is ready to change his mind."

Playing Politics

"Four years ago he denounced the protective tariff system." Borah continued. "As a cold blooded holdup and plundering of the American people. He now says it is a good things and the only trouble is that we have not had enough of it. He only found it out 20 days before the election. I would be inclined to think he was playing politics.

"Two years ago he declared emphatically against immigration restriction and he now gives evidence of mental pangs which precede a change of view.

"Last July he approved of a declaration to the effect that the McNary-Haugen bill rested upon a fundamental fallacy. What is his view now?

"But there are two propositions," Borah concluded "upon which the governor has shown great tenacity of purpose and great firmness of mind—his objection to the control of the liquor traffic and his devotion to Tammany hall.

Imported Thrusts

The Borah address was said by Republican leaders here to have been the most important assault on record of the Republican party in a national campaign on normally Democratic Texas.

The senator was met on his arrival in the morning by a group of Republican and Hoover Democratic chieftains, headed by R. B. Creager Republican national committeeman for Texas; Alvin Moody, chairman of the Texas anti-Smith campaign committee; former Governor O. B. Colquitt and Thomas B. Love, state senator and former Democratic national committeeman. He was given a luncheon by the group and then in the afternoon met at a reception a number of Hoover supporters.

Views Unmodified

Immediately after the address Mr. Borah left on his private car for Joplin, Mo., where he will speak on Oct. 24.

In replying to Governor Smith's charge of his insincerity the senator added that he had "not modified my views as to Mr. Hoover in any respect as to his honesty or his ability or his unselfishness in public service." Those attributes, he added, always had been accredited by him to the Republican candidate.

BABES KILLED BY INSECTICIDE

Tots Given Poison Through Parents' Mistake

BROWNFIELD, Texas, Oct. 22. (AP)—Given an insecticide by their father, Bill Dorman, who thought the poison was salts, two children died on a farm a few miles from Brownfield last night, despite efforts of three physicians.

One of the children was not feeling well yesterday, and the father gave the elder what he thought was salts. The younger then asked for medicine and a dose of the same poison was given to him. Both became violently ill and died a few hours later.

The insecticide, it was said, was given to Mrs. Dorman by a neighbor, Mrs. Dorman put it into a box which had contained salts, and it was from this box that the father took the medicine for the children.

DYNAMIT CAP KILLS ONE, HURTS ONE

FORT WORTH, Oct. 22. (AP)—One man was killed and another injured seriously when a dynamite cap which a crew of workmen was using in blasting under the Missouri-Kansas-Texas railway tracks about a mile and a half south of the city limits exploded today.

Bert Carter, Kansas City, Mo., was killed and J. H. Hoagland, whose home is believed to be in Parsons, Kansas, is in a critical condition.

The men, who were members of a construction crew working out of Parsons, Kansas, were putting in a storm sewer under the tracks a mile and a half south of the city. Carter it is believed, was attaching a dynamite cap to a fuse, when the explosion occurred.

Kellogg Expects Reparations Settlement

WASHINGTON, Oct. 22. (UP)—A settlement satisfactory to all nations may be expected from the new reparations conference, Secretary of Treasury Mellon said today.

He explained that it was his belief that the conferees will not use the reparations issue in an effort to have their obligations to the United States reduced and that the German reparations would be settled wholly on its merits.

The secretary said he understood occupational troops would be withdrawn from Germany and the new republic given a free hand in making its internal adjustments as soon as a settlement is reached.

Reward Offered For Slanderers Of Smith

Oil Export Competition Wipes Profits Away

NEW YORK, Oct. 22. (AP)—Cumulative competition in the oil export trade, which has reached the stage where American oil companies doing business abroad and finding most of their profits dissipated by rising costs, has led to serious consideration of the proposal to pool the foreign business and conduct it through an export association, the Associated Press was informed today.

Twenty executives of the principal companies who recently met on invitation in the offices of President Walter C. Teagle of the Standard Oil company of New Jersey, were said to be unanimously in favor of the creation of an export association, provided details could be worked out satisfactorily. Another meeting is to be held soon.

Nicaragua Has New Bandit Gang

WASHINGTON, Oct. 22. (UP)—A new "bandit gang" in Nicaragua under the leadership of Pedro Altamirano, described as a trusted lieutenant of the rebel leader Sandino, is held responsible for the recent murders of several Nicaraguan residents in a report today to Secretary of State Kellogg from Brig. General Frank R. McCoy, president of the American electoral mission in Nicaragua.

The report was brought here by Col. Francis Lejeune Parker, vice chairman of the electoral mission, who has just returned from Jinotega, the Nicaraguan province where the murders were perpetrated. His report was made after an extensive investigation of Altamirano's activities.

The new bandit leader's object, Colonel Parker's report said, "is to terrorize inhabitants and if possible keep them from registering and from the election." The Nicaraguan election to be held early in November is to be supervised by the electoral mission with the aid of United States marines.

The report gave no indication of whether Sandino was still active in Nicaragua.

STILLS SCARCE IN WICHITA

Whisky Making Declines, Says Morgan

Due to the vigilance of law enforcement agencies which have captured scores of stills since prohibition laws came into being, little whisky now is being manufactured in Wichita county, Constable Frank Morgan declared Monday. Despite unflagging efforts of his deputies, Mr. Morgan said only two stills have been captured by his department in 1928.

"There is not a bit of doubt that times have changed in Wichita county," Constable Morgan said.

"Back in 1921 the constable's department caught 36 stills in operation in Wichita county and in 1923 my department captured 26 of the 64 stills brought in by various agencies of the county."

He pointed out that his records show a gradual decline in the number of whisky manufacturing plants seized from year to year and he is confident that liquor making in the county is practically stamped out.

"I am not denying that whisky is being sold in the county," Mr. Morgan said, "but I do believe that practically all of the liquor is brought in from other counties," he said.

One of the reasons for a lessened amount of liquor manufacturing in the county during the summer months is the fact many persons have abandoned whisky making for beer, Constable Morgan pointed out. He said, however, his department has been as active in running down beer "joints" as it is in looking for whisky stills.

That doesn't mean, he said, that officers have abandoned their search for whisky plants.

"I have five men under me who are working diligently and I have a standing premium to be paid to anyone furnishing information leading to the finding of a still in operation," he declared.

OFFICERS NAB JACK FLIPPIN

Prisoner Tells of Shook's Escape Here

Jack Flippin, who is alleged to have accompanied Tom Shook, former Electra police chief, in a break from the Wichita county jail, has been captured at Albany, Texas, according to Sheriff W. G. Bralley, who returned from Albany Sunday night. Sheriff Bralley went to Albany Sunday and identified Flippin after he received word a man fitting his description had been picked up for investgation.

Mr. Bralley said Flippin described in detail events following his escape with Shook and four other prisoners after overpowering Frank Watkins, night turnkey in the county jail, here several weeks ago.

"The sheriff did not bring Flippin back to Wichita Falls with him because both the sheriff and district attorney at Albany were away from their homes when the local officer went there to identify the prisoner.

Flippin was held in jail here charged with automobile theft while Shook faced several indictments one of which charged him with murder in connection with the fatal stabbing of Oscar Daugherty, Electra truck farmer.

Mr. Bralley said Flippin told him officers who instituted a search for the escaped prisoners almost stumbled onto them when they were hidden in tall grass in the river bottoms. He told the sheriff, Bralley said, that he and Shook parted company after they had crossed the Oklahoma line.

State Gets Data in New York on Sulphur Suit

AUSTIN, Oct. 22. (AP)—Information for use in connection with the state's suit against the Freeport Sulphur company and the Texas Gulf Sulphur company of south Texas, for $1,500,000 alleged unpaid taxes, has been obtained in the New York offices of the concerns, R. V. Nichols, law enforcement chief of the attorney general's department, said today on his return from a 10-day examination of their books.

NORTH DAKOTA FAVORS SMITH

But Demos Are Poorly Organized In State

By RAYMOND CLAPPER
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

FARGO, N. D., Oct. 22.—There is fertile soil here for Governor Alfred E. Smith but inadequate organization makes it impossible for him to get the full benefit of it.

This, plus the women's votes, is pulling North Dakota's five electoral votes toward the Republican side in face of conditions that favor the Democratic cause. One Republican leader told the United Press Hoover would lose the state if the vote were left to the men, but this did not worry him because 65 to 75 per cent of the women are for Hoover. Democrats, while refusing to admit so high a percentage of women votes for Hoover, agreed that if Smith lost the state, it would be their own fault.

Progressive State

This great wheat raising state is one of La Follette's old strongholds

Coolidge received only 5,000 more votes than La Follette in 1924 and fell 9,000 short of the combined Davis and La Follette vote.

Republicans reason that if La Follette couldn't carry the state Smith cannot. Especially since leaders like Senator Frazier, who was for La Follette, are for Hoover now.

The fight is complicated by the race for governor, due to the death of Governor Sorlie. Walter Maddock, Catholic, lieutenant governor, took the governor's chair.

Maddock failed to win the Republican nomination for governor and then obtained the Democratic nomination, party labels in this state meaning little as the real parties are the progressive non-partisan league and the conservative independent voters association, both of which trample down party lines in their fights.

Maddock is making a hard race against George H. Shafer, attorney-general and hostile to the non-partisan league. The non-partisan league and independent voters association labels mean more than traditional party labels here, and Senators Frazier and Nye, non-partisan Republicans, are supporting Maddock though he technically is on the Democratic ticket, and are backing Hoover at the same time. They and the non-partisans generally opposed Hoover for the nomination and are supporting him only as less objectionable than Smith.

Anti-Tammany literature is being circulated by Republican headquarters. Protestant churches are to set aside the Sunday before election to urge voters to turn out against Smith. Women are active.

Protestant Churches Active

As against this, the Smith organization is poverty stricken, is handicapped by lack of aggressive leaders and suffers because Smith is somewhat alien to this German and Scandinavian country which takes its politics soberly and does not understand the light, humorous Irish touch of the happy warrior.

Smith's strength comes from his friendliness to farm relief. Governor Maddox, representing Smith during one stop when the candidate crossed the state on his first trip, declared Smith as president would sign the McNary-Haugen bill if it came to his desk.

Smith's wet views, while a handicap among women, is not such a burden as in many western states. North Dakota held a referendum on a proposal to repeal the 18th amendment last June. It lost only by 6,800 votes.

Republicans are trying to convince the farmers that agriculture is improving. North Dakota cities, entirely dependent upon agriculture, are doing good business. In the last year Minot, with 14,000, has completed $3,000,000 worth of building. Fargo, with 33,000, has spent $1,800,000 and Grand Forks, with 16,000, has spent $1,600,000.

President John Lee Coulter of North Dakota Agriculture college says since 1920 farm values have slumped only half of the amount they increased during the war period and the population is increasing so much faster than farm acreage that agriculture is on the threshold of its greatest prosperity.

Nevertheless Dakota wheat farmers still are in the red and they are resentful that Coolidge should have twice vetoed the McNary-Haugen bill without giving anything in its place. They are in the mood to protest and Smith is expected to register a large vote for this reason.

Woman Asks Help In Finding Husband

OKLAHOMA CITY, Okla., Oct. 22. (UP)—Mrs. Charles Price, whose husband disappeared late yesterday, has asked aid in finding him.

Price was overcome yesterday by gasoline fumes while working in his restaurant. He revived however, and went home. Shortly afterwards, he got into his car and drove off, unseen or unheard of since.

Price was 41 years old, 5 feet 3 inches tall, and was wearing a dark suit and light brown fedora hat when he disappeared. He was driving an Essex sedan, license No. 498-992.

Among the candidates are Lucille Dorff, Dallas, Texas; Carolina Cosgrove, Muskogee, Okla., and Dorothy Parohman, Okmulgee, Okla.

Government Wins In Naturalization Suit

WASHINGTON, Oct. 22. (INS)—The government today won in supreme court a suit primarily designed to secure from the court a ruling that a strict application must be made of all provisions of naturalization laws.

The government sought cancellation of a naturalization certificate issued to Anna Marie Maney in Wisconsin. Her application was not accompanied by a certificate of arrival, although this was furnished later. Cancellation of her naturalization was ordered.

Wife's Devotion Changes Wisconsin Political Situation

Walter J. Kohler, Republican gubernatorial candidate in Wisconsin, who defeated La Follette forces in the primary, is standing beside the airplane in which he conducted his campaign. Insert is of Albert G. Schmendeman, Democratic candidate.

MILWAUKEE, Oct. 22. (AP)—A woman's tribute to her husband launched Walter J. Kohler, millionaire manufacturer, into politics, and enabled him in his first contest to defeat politicians previously invulnerable in state elections.

Kohler, conservative Republican candidate for governor, opposed by the La Follette forces, and a faction of that group that had followed Gov. Fred Zimmerman off the progressive reservation, won the nomination for the governorship. He is opposed by Albert G. Schmendeman, mayor of Madison.

Chance and his wife's devotion opened political doors to Kohler, who has spent most of his 54 years in business. One of four men nominated by conservative Republicans to seek posts of delegates at large to the national convention died. The first door swung back for Kohler, who knew little about the practicality of what happened in the arena where popular elections were held.

But the manufacturer's wealth was a handicap, members of the executive committee thought, in considering him for a place on the delegation. The Kohlers attended the executive session. The manufacturer's name was about to be abandoned when his wife, companion of 28 years, told of his sincerity, devotion and worth. Her own sincerity opened the second door, and Kohler was in the political arena.

He ran so well in the election to name delegates, finishing second to Senator La Follette, that the conservatives centered upon him for the governorship.

Schmendeman is 64 years old. He is an insurance man. During the Wilson administration he was minister to Norway.

Another Bootlegger's Payroll Is Secured

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 22. (INS)—The tenth week of the grand jury investigation of racketeers began today with promises of further revelations of the alliance between policemen and bootleggers. Another "black book" containing a bootlegger's payroll list has been turned over to Prosecuting Attorney John Monaghan and arrests of more police captains are forecast. The probe of the bluecoats is expected to come to an end this week and the investigation then will turn again to seek information of the underworld racket. Much of this week will be devoted to probing activities of members of the defunct unit one, rum-raiding squad. Police inspectors also will be quizzed.

Famed Violinist Breaks His First Engagement

WINNIPEG, Man., Oct. 22 (INS)—Fritz Kreisler, famous violinist, scheduled to appear in a concert here tonight, found it necessary today for the first time in more than ten years, to cancel an engagement.

While shaving the violinist cut his left hand so severely physicians took three stitches to heal the wound. Kreisler is confined in a hospital here.

BRITAIN WINS NICKEL FIGHT

World Money Skirmish Is Decided

TORONTO, Ont., Oct. 22. (AP)—The Toronto Mail and Empire today published the following:

Canadian control of International Nickel gained by a spectacular battle on the stock exchanges of Toronto, Montreal and New York, is but a part of Great Britain's policy to ensure world peace by dominating the source of supply of one of the essential implements of war.

While the public watched the sensational rise of nickel on the money markets, the significant move back of it all was a British fight for peace, and the results will be worldwide.

The skirmish in the world's drama of peace was fought out on the money markets. It has been under way for several months, but all the public saw of it was the gradual rise of nickel and last week's fireworks. The general story which has gained credence in New York is that it all began nearly two years ago when the British chemical commission made its report to the British government. Sir Alfred Mond (Lord Melchett) was chairman of the commission. Two points of marked significance to the British empire and to the peace of the world were indicated by the commissioners.

One was that during the great war Canadian nickel went to the United States and prior to the advent of the states in the war it may have gone to Germany. Charges were freely made at the time that it did reach enemy territory. The second discovery was that in the event of future wars the British empire would be in a bad way so far as copper was concerned.

So the wheels began to turn. British interests found a source of copper in the form of a contract with Noranda. Then Canadian interests gained control of International Nickel, wresting it from the states through market plays. Those are the two big moves which have followed the finding of the British chemical commission. The leading Canadians credited with controlling International Nickel are Sir Herbert Holt, John W. McConnell and James A. Richardson.

Jail Prisoner Seeks Habeas Corpus Writ

AUSTIN, Oct. 22. (INS)—An application for a writ of habeas corpus was filed today in the court of criminal appeals by W. T. Hill of Falls county, seeking his release from jail where he is serving out a 45-day sentence for assault.

Hill claims he has served out the 45 days and 40 days in addition toward satisfying the costs of $87.50 at $1 a day. He stated he had rendered $47.80 in cash in payment of the balance due but that the sheriff had refused to accept it.

Socialists Seeking Use of Dallas Hall May Be Treated Like Communists

DALLAS, Oct. 22. (AP)—Socialists may fare no better than monarchists and communists in their attempt to get permission to use the Dallas town hall for mass meetings.

Application has been received for the use of the city hall auditorium for a mass meeting Sunday at which Lee L. Rhodes of Grand Saline, candidate for governor of Texas on the socialist ticket, would speak.

Street Commissioner Arthur J. Reinhart said he didn't know what action he would take, and added: "There are 3,000 street corners in the city of Dallas for such men as these; there are as many soap boxes. Why should we encourage their movements against organized government by permitting them the use of the city hall?"

Benjamin Gitlow, vice presidential candidate of the Communist (workers) party, and Richard Potts, who calls himself "secretary general of the Royalist League of America," previously were denied permits to hold meetings in the auditorium.

ROOSEVELT TO ENTER JUNGLES

Zoological Expedition to Asia Is Planned

CHICAGO, Oct. 22. (INS)—Col. Theodore Roosevelt and his brother, Kermit, are to lead another zoological expedition into the unexplored jungles of Southern Asia, it was learned here today.

The expedition will be undertaken on behalf of the field museum of natural history and is sponsored by William V. Kelley, of Chicago.

The start into the interior will be made shortly after the presidential election.

A two-fold mission will be fulfilled when the expedition sets forth. The first purpose is to get a thorough collection of mammals, birds and reptiles in a remote part of French Indo-China, where conditions of climate and travel are so difficult that no comprehensive study of zoological conditions has been accomplished by anyone.

The second objective is to explore certain unknown territory lying northward of Indo-China along the Monkong river and abutting on the borders of Burma, Siam and Yunnun.

Court Declines Review Of Ardmore Bank Case

WASHINGTON, Oct. 22 (AP)—The right of the American National bank of Ardmore, Okla., to apply $15,000 worth of stock in the bank owned by Jake L. Hamon, deceased, on loans made by him, will not be reviewed by the supreme court, it was announced today.

Oklahoma courts held that the national bank had a lien on the stock. Hamon's administrators challenged the decision, contending that while under Oklahoma satutes state banks have a lien on their stock to secure the indebtedness of stockholders, such laws do not apply to the stock of national banks.

KLAN ORDERED TO FIGHT SUIT

Indiana Order Must Put Up Defense

INDIANAPOLIS, Oct. 22. (AP)—Special Judge Frederick van Nuys here today ruled that the Ku-Klux Klan must defend itself in a suit brought by Arthur L. Gilliom, attorney general, to oust the organization from Indiana.

The judge sustained Gilliom's demurrer to a plea in abatement filed by attorneys for the klan.

In arguments last month, counsel for the klan asserted that "only in the state in which a corporation is organized can it legally be put to death."

They contended Indiana courts are without authority to revoke the charter.

The suit by Gilliom attacks the right of the klan to maintain an organization in Indiana on the ground that it was admitted into the state under "false and fraudulent" representations by its officers. The attorney general asks that the certificate of admission be revoked and its officers be enjoined permanently from exercising any authority under the certificate and that a receiver be appointed to impound all its assets and property.

REVIEW DENIED

WASHINGTON, Oct. 22. (AP)—The American Baptist Home Mission society of Oklahoma was refused a review by the supreme court today in an effort to retain $550,000 in government bonds which Jackson Barnett, a 78-year-old Creek Indian, had given.

TOWN ISOLATED

GRENOBLE, France, Oct. 22. (UP)—The town of Le Bourg D' Oisans was isolated today after the Romanche river broke its banks. The food supply has been cut off temporarily.

Piles Can Be Cured Without Surgery

A new instructive book, fully illustrated, printed in colors and copyrighted at Washington, has been published by Dr. McCleary, the noted Rectal Specialist, C-541 Elms boulevard, Excelsior Springs, Mo. In it Doctor McCleary tells how sufferers from Piles can be quickly and easily cured without the knife, scissors, "hot iron" electricity or any other cutting or burning method, without confinement to bed and no hospital bills to pay. The McCleary treatment has been a success for 28 years and in over 14,000 cases; if you suffer with Piles or other rectal troubles, write Dr. McCleary today for a copy of this new book. It will be sent in plain wrapper free and postpaid. Tell your friends about this.—Adv.

"Know Your Dairy Products"

(By Mrs. Chitwood)

¶Food for the home by all means should be clean and sanitary, especially does this apply to the milk and butter you feed the little ones.

¶For my cooking school I take the utmost precaution in selecting these articles.

¶I personally inspect creameries that furnish these requisites. The Producers Creamery far exceeded my expectations. I have never seen a plant of this kind in a more sanitary condition. It could almost be called one hundred per cent plus. Hot water and steam sterilization is applied to all machinery daily.

¶This is my fifth year to use Producers Creamery Co.'s products in my Wichita Falls school and I am happy to say that I am now using exclusively.

WEIGH WHAT YOU DESIRE

If you over-weigh, the cause may not be in over-eating or under-exercise. It may be in a fault in nutrition which modern research has discovered. And which science now corrects.

The method is embodied in Marmola prescription tablets. People have used them for 20 years—millions of boxes of them. And many of the people you envy—with slender figures, new vivacity and health—will urge you to adopt this way.

The use of Marmola does not require abnormal exercise or diet. In every box you will find the formula, also the reasons for results. You will know just why your weight comes down and why every effect is helpful. Learn the facts, and do it now. Do so by asking your druggist today for a $1 box of Marmola.

If You Can Have But One Evening Gown---

Choose Smart, Durable Black Velvet, Bendel Says

By HENRI BENDEL
(For NEA Service)

NEW YORK, Oct. 23—If a woman has only one new evening gown in her early winter wardorbe, black velvet is an ideal choice.

Black has the triple advantage of smartness, of being wearable time after time without one's tiring of it and a certain chameleon gown by the mere changing of accessories.

Velvet this season is the loviest fabric the markets have offered in years. Soft, pliable, thin, it can be used pleated, shirred, plain, with lace, chiffon or by itself, to great advantage.

Choose a Dinner Gown

If milady is having one new gown and one only right now, perhaps the choice of a rather informal one or a dinner gown is the best selection. So I have three suggestions that might be useful.

First there is the dinner gown with the graceful swooping silhouette gained by the double use of the circular theme, for the skirt and for a decorative bertha.

This gown has a tiered skirt, with graduated cut so it falls much longer in the back. It has a somewhat moulded bodice, which accents the bertha's loveliness. This is made of black chiffon with a deep appliqued border of hand thread lace. It, like the skirt, has a much longer back than front. A little color could be added if one chose, but nothing is smarter than the black-white trim for a black gown.

A more formal dinner gown is one of black panne velvet that has a surplice theme for its bodice, ending in a soft girdle which falls in very garceful folds on account of the material that fashions it. This follows the lines of a two-piece model, a youthful theme always.

An intricately cut skirt gives a swerving longer back line to this model. A circular side flounce adds much to the grace of the lines and gives more fullness also. A shower of white gardenias decorate the side, an individual sort of trimming that is lovely on a slender woman.

The neck of this gown is simple but very low in the back, in one of those wide U's that are popular this year.

The dinner gown can be a very informal type of frock and appear sumptuous this winter when made of beautiful velvet. Such a one has an accordian pleated skirt which is cut longer on both sides to give an unusual line. It has something new in belts, a leather lined belt that gives a certain smart tailored look to the gown.

The black velvet gown, however, is not reserved for the wardrobe of limited capacity. Nothing is a better first choice this year than black velvet. I have made innumerable different very formal gowns of black velvet, for I think every woman should have at least one black gown.

Tiered Flaring Skirt

A very unusual one has a yoke with shoulder straps of sparkling paillettes and tiered skirt with each tier edged with the same trimming. It is cut on somewhat princess lines, with the skirt flaring with each tier wider than the one above it.

Another rather severely tailored black velvet has a sparkling little sleeveless jacket, called a cocktail jacket, of gleaming jet, the lower edge of which is worked in a rich colorful pattern of roses in pinks, reds and greens.

Burleson Says Panics Of Republican Origin

AUSTIN, Oct. 22. (AP)—Three great panics within recollection of America came during Republican administrations and there exists today a "near panic" which would descend on the country but "for the safeguards of the Federal Reserve system of Democratic origin," Albert S. Burleson, former postmaster general in President Wilson's cabinet, said today.

The claim that any party can bring prosperity through legislation, is "all baloney" he declared in a statement.

War Department Names Officers For Zep Flight

WASHINGTON, Oct. 22, (US)—The war department today designated three officers of the lighter-than-air section to make the flight over the United States with the Graf Zeppelin. They are: Lieut. Col. John A. Pagelow of Scott field; Major Rush D. Lincoln of the general staff, and Lieut. Frank McKee of Norton field.

The navy department announced that Rear Admiral William A. Moffett and Edward P. Warner, assistant secretary of the navy for aeronautics, will accompany Dr. Hugo Eckener on this flight. A third officer is yet to be designated.

Tulsa Petroleum Show Draws Record Crowds

TULSA, Oct. 22. (AP)—Tulsa's annual International Petroleum exposition, "world's fair of the oil industry," was in full swing today.

Attendance marks for the day soared to record heights. The leaden skies of Sunday gave way today to a brillian sun and the day brought fully 15,000 persons to the grounds, officials estimated.

The business section, under the continued influx of oil men, assumed the outward characteristics of a "boom" town.

Red Cross Leader Makes Visit Here

MEASLES BACK

Measles reappeared in Wichita Falls last week for the first time in months, according to the weekly report of the city health department. Seven cases of disease were quarantined but only one of the seven was measles, the report shows. There were four diphtheria, one mumps and one scarlet fever quarantines during the week. Deaths for the week totaled 10.

Forum Divisions To Present Plays And Poems Today

Presenting an original one act play, "The Inspiration," written by Mrs. Ben G. Oneal, the drama and writer's departments will have an open meeting at the Woman's Forum Tuesday afternoon at 3 o'clock.

The play was selected as the prize winner in a one act play contest held last spring by the writer's department.

A cast with unusual ability has been selected to present the play and it is expected that this opening number will be one of the best drama offerings of the year.

Miss Marguerite Fisher, who is directing the play, also takes part in the performance. Others who will have a part in the production are Mrs. J. F. Harrell, Miss Eva Catherine Raynor and Mrs. C. H. Reid.

Preceding the play, Mrs. John B. Rhea will give a dramatic interpretation of Barrett Browning's poem "Lady Geraldine's Courtship."

Two other numbers written by members of the writer's department which will be features of the program will be a group of poems by Mrs. H. F. Weldon and one by Mrs. E. C. de Montel.

Following the program an informal reception will be held when tea will be served. At this time an opportunity will be given to view the paintings.

Hostesses will be Mesdames W. J. Nolen, Rhea Howard, Ralph Maricle, T. A. Hicks, J. D. Bright, W. P. Lowery, Guy Raley, Bernard Martin, Ben G. Oneal, H. O. Cravens, E. C. de Montel, W. H. Sanford, W. H. Cason, Nydia Young, Wayne Somerville, H. B. Van Emden, E. W. Wade, G. M. Holt, J. E. H. Railey, W. F. Pagan and Miss Nira Dent.

Mrs. Philip Bodfy of Henrietta, state chairman of little theaters, Texas Federation of Women's clubs, will be a special guest of the drama department.

Rabbit Breeders To Meet Here Tuesday

Members of the Rabbit and Cavy Breeders association of Texas will meet in regular session Tuesday night at 7:30 o'clock at the West-Donald Rabbitry on the Windthorst road one-half mile south of the Henrietta highway, J. E. Musick of Burkburnett, president, will be in charge of the meeting. Affairs of the association will be discussed.

Republicans Accuse Demos of "Mud Slinging"

WASHINGTON, Oct. 22. (UP)—The Democratic party was accused today of conducting a "mud slinging" campaign in a formal statement issued by Publicity Director Henry Allen of the Republican national committee.

He asked Chairman Raskob of the Democratic national committee, whether the situation had slipped out of his hands into the hands of Tammany and reminded the Democratic leader of his statement that there would be no "mud slinging."

One Thin Woman Gained 15 Pounds In Five Weeks

Men and women, weak, thin and miserable, are urged to put on weight and get back their health and strength with McCoy's Tablets.

One woman gained 15 pounds in five weeks and that's going fast enough for anyone.

McCoy takes all the risk—Read this ironclad guarantee. If after taking four 60 cent boxes of McCoy's Tablets or two $1 boxes any thin, underweight man or woman doesn't gain at least five pounds and feel completely satisfied with the marked improvement in health—your money will be refunded.

Hoover Program On KGKO Tonight

The Hoover program at the Memorial auditorium Tuesday night will be broadcast from radio station KGKO by remote control from 8 to 10 o'clock, it was announced Monday.

The remainder of the day's program KGKO will be as follows: 8:30 to 9 a. m., bargain hour; 9 to 10 a. m., shopping hour and announcements; 11:30 a. m. to 1 p. m., and 5 to 6 p. m., musical programs and announcements; 7 to 7:30 p. m., Glenn and Zack; 7 to 8 p. m., Wichita Falls Women's quartet.

Two Given Hearings On Liquor Charges

Adonia Broughton and H. C. Young were given hearing and granted bond on charges of violations of the federal liquor laws Monday by J. A. Lantz, United States commissioner.

Young was committed to jail on default of $500 bond granted him on a charge of possession of whiskey which was filed against him by M. A. Perdue, city officer.

Adonia Broughton made a $500 bond granted her on charges of possession of beer. Complaint against her was filed by F. E. Summers and W. E. Belcher, city officers.

Harrell To Preside At Chest Meeting

J. T. Harrell, recently chosen president of the Wichita Falls Community chest, will preside at his first meeting of the directors when they meet at 10 o'clock Friday morning to consider the report of the budget endorsement and campaign committee of the chest.

The meeting will be held in the director's room of the City National bank. Plans for the campaign will be considered at the meeting, according to Miss Myrl Neely, secretary of the Community chest.

Ingrown Nail Turns Right Out!

Pain Stops Instantly!

"Outgro" is a harmless antiseptic manufactured for chiropodists. However, anyone can buy from the drug store a tiny bottle containing directions.

A few drops of "Outgro" in the crevice of the ingrowing nail reduces inflammation and pain and so toughens the tender, sensitive skin underneath the toe nail, that it can not penetrate the flesh, and the nail turns naturally outward almost over night.—Adv.

DeMolay Ceremony Wednesday Night

The semi-annual ceremonial and dance of the Wichita Falls Chapter of DeMolay will be held in Maskat temple on the top floor of the City National bank building Wednesday night.

The ceremonial and initiatory ceremonies will begin at 6 o'clock Wednesday afternoon with the dance continuing from 9 until 12 o'clock. The Little Rovers, local orchestra, will furnish the music for the dance.

The ceremonial will be supervised by J. D. (Dad) Bright, chairman of the advisory committee, while the dance will be chaperoned by Bentley Bacon, also of the DeMolay advisory committee.

Officers of the DeMolay chapter are Dale Dublin, master councilor; Elmer Parrish, senior councilor; Roland Dills, junior councilor; Joe Gugenheim, scribe; and Seldon Hale and A. Z. Kouri, directors of the dance committee.

K. T. Official To Hold Inspection Tonight

Wichita Falls Commandery No. 59, Knights Templar, will be inspected by Thomas M. Bartley of Waco, eminent grand senior warden of the grand commandery of Texas, Tuesday night at 7:30 o'clock in the new lodge rooms of the Masonic temple.

Several members of out of town commanderies will attend the ceremony. All members of the local commandery are requested to appear at the meeting in full uniform.

Woman Loses Suit For $27,200 Damages

Verdict in favor of the defendant was rendered Monday by Judge W. W. Cook in 78th district court in the damage suit of Miss Inez Giles against the North Texas company. The case was tried last week.

Miss Giles sued for $27,200, claiming she caught a severe cold which led to more serious complications when the defendant company altered a building in which she and her mother were residing.

EMPLOYMENT REPORT

The report of the city free employment agency for the week ending Oct. 20, as submitted by Miss Fern Sides, secretary, shows the number of applicants for work to be 20, of whom 12 were women. Applicants reported 32 dependents.

Employment has been obtained for 25 men and women during the week.

Splendid Recipe To Stop A Cough That "Hangs On"

The best cough remedy that money could buy, can easily be made at home. It saves money and gives you the most reliable, quick-acting medicine you ever used. The way it takes hold of stubborn coughs and chest colds, giving immediate relief, is astonishing.

Any druggist can supply you with 2½ ounces of Pinex. Pour this into a pint bottle, and fill up with plain granulated sugar syrup or strained honey. It's no trouble at all to mix, and when you once use it you will never be without it. Keeps perfectly and tastes good—children really like it.

It is surprising how quickly this home-made remedy loosens the germladen phlegm, and soothes and heals the inflamed membranes. At the same time, it is absorbed into the blood, where it acts directly on the bronchial tubes, and helps the system throw off the whole trouble. Even those severe coughs which usually follow the "flu", are promptly ended.

Pinex is a highly concentrated compound of genuine Norway Pine, containing the active agent of creosote, in a refined, palatable form. Nothing known in medicine is more helpful in cases of severe coughs, chest colds and bronchial troubles.

Do not accept a substitute for Pinex. It is guaranteed to give prompt relief or money refunded.

Circles of First Baptist W. M. S. Hold Meetings Monday Afternoon

Circle four of the First Baptist W. M. S. met at the home of Mrs. George Lawler, 1644 Lucile street, Monday afternoon when Mrs. George Hines was leader for the Bible study. During the short business session garments for the Buckner Orphan's home were presented to be sent to Dallas.

Refreshments were served to Mesdames John Covanes, Ralph Hines, T. J. Taylor, J. L. Foeshee, W. J. Webb, W. A. Fresar, Monty Staniforth, R. M. Hunter, M. F. Lawler, W. E. Floyd, Frank C. Divers, J. Circle Twelve

Circle 12 met with Mrs. Will Daniel on Hiawatha boulevard for an all-day session when members discussed the Buckner Orphan's home at Dallas. Mrs. J. C. Mytinger gave the first lesson of the Bible study, after which luncheon was served to the following: Mesdames G. P. Raborn, F. M. Tunnis, Louis J. Byrd, J. C. Mytinger, C. C. Grantham, Ralph Maricle, Frank Elam, C. C. Davis, A. J. Steegle, J. M. Ward, George Smoot, J. W. Penn, C. E. Johnson and Merle Tallman.

Benefit Program To Be Given Tuesday Night

Members of the Young Women's Missionary society of the First Methodist church will sponsor a benefit program which will be given at the old auditorium of the First Methodist church Tuesday evening at 8 o'clock.

Numbers on the program will be several readings by Miss Ella Merle Mathis, piano numbers by Miss Mildred Anderson, and a one act play entitled "The Man Upstairs." The play will be presented by the Floral Heights Methodist church players. A musical skit will also be given in which Mrs. George Thorburn, soloist, will be featured.

Better Than Whiskey For Colds and Flu

The sensation of the drug trade is Aspironal, the two-minute cold and cough reliever, authoritatively guaranteed by the laboratories; tested, approved and most enthusiastically endorsed by the highest authorities, and proclaimed by the people as 10 times as quick and effective as whiskey, rock and rye, or any other cold and cough remedy they have ever tried.

All drug stores are supplied with the wonderful elixir, so all you have to do is to step into the nearest drug store, hand the clerk 60c for a bottle of Aspironal and tell him to serve you two teaspoonfuls. With your watch in your hand, take the drink at one swallow and call for your money back in two minutes if you cannot feel the distressing symptoms of your cold fading away like a dream, within the time limit. Don't be bashful, for all druggists invite you and expect you to try it. Everybody's doing it.

Take the remainder of the bottle home to your wife and children, for Aspironal is by far the safest and most effective, the easiest to take and the most agreeable cold and cough remedy for children as well as adults. Quickest relief for catarrhal croup and children's choking up at night.—Adv.

Dorothy Dix Discourses On Folly Of Choosing Fault-Finder For Mate

Folly of Choosing a Fault-Finder for a Husband. The Girl Who Is in Love With a Married Man—Why Is It a Good Thing for a Widower of Sixty to Marry Again.

Dear Miss Dix—I am engaged to a fine young man, whom I love very much. But every time he comes to see me he "picks at me" about something. I never seem able to please him, although I try my best to do so. Sometimes he compares me to other girls and holds them up to me as an example. I get very tired of these lectures, and I am wondering, if he is this way now, how he will be after we are married. —PUZZLED.

Answer: Marriage is ever a disillusioning process, my dear. We get a close-up of those that magnifies their faults, and often obscures their virtues. Even the girl who seemed an angel before marriage becomes a very imperfect human being to her husband, so it is a pretty dangerous thing to enter into the holy estate with a man who has no illusions about you.

The critical lover will inevitably make the fault-finding husband, who will consider it his sacred duty to keep you continually reminded of your shortcomings and never mention your virtues to you. He will gobble down 999 perfect dinners without ever mentioning their excellence, but if the bread happens to be a little heavy on the thousandth one he will wonder why it is you never can learn to cook.

He will never notice how you scrimp and pare and save, but if ever you indulge in one extravagance it will be thrown up to you until your dying day. You may stick at home as close as the house cat, but if you are once late for dinner you will be berated for a gadder.

That sort of husband is never willing to do his part. He will wonder why you don't look as well dressed as Mrs. A, but he won't give you a decent clothes allowance. He will scathingly compare your housekeeping to Mrs. B, but he won't pay for the servants that Mrs. B has.

He will throw up to you what a wonderful woman Mrs. C is, who is always ready to chum around with her husband, and who reads and keeps up with everything, but he won't take into consideration the fact that Mrs. C has nothing to do but be a pal to her husband, while you have to cook and wash and sew and baby-tend, so that you are too tired at night to do anything but slink off to bed.

The average woman's world is bounded by the walls of her home. If she has any peace or happiness in life, she must find them there. Her career is wifehood and motherhood. Her reward for all her efforts is her husband's appreciation and praise.

It is his approbation, his love, his admiration that makes all that she does worth while. If she gets that, she wins her crown of glory. If she fails to receive it, and gets only criticism and blame, she has nothing.

That is why the fault-finding husband is one of the worst husbands in the world, and why I advise you, with all of the earnestness of which I am capable, not to marry a critical man who, even before marriage, has shown you that all that you will get will be knocks. No matter what other virtues he has, this one quality will offset them all and you will be perfectly miserable with him. Nor will you love him long. Nagging will kill any affection and make you come to hate him and dread his approach.

You have had your warning Profit by it. Don't marry a fault finder. —DOROTHY DIX.

Dear Miss Dix: I am a young girl in love with a married man who has children. He says he does not care for his wife and that he cannot live without me. Do you think it would be right for me to break up his home? —MARGARETTA.

Answer: There is an awfully good way to settle such questions, Margaretta. Just apply the Golden Rule to the situation and see him it pans out.

You are young and pretty and slim. When you are stout and middle-aged and grizzled, do you think you will like to have some pretty young flapper come along and take your husband from you?

You will have fried out your complexion over the kitchen stove cooking for him. You will have lost your figure bearing children for him. You will have grown gray trying to make him comfortable and happy. You will have given him the best years of your life. Do you think you will be willing to be cast aside, then, for some young girl who has flattered a middle-aged man into believing that he is young and ought to have a young wife?

If you had married a poor young man and had helped him build up his fortune; if you had sweated for every penny; if you had walked blocks and blocks to save 10 cents on a cheap cut of meat, and had gone shabby and done without all the little luxuries you craved because you were trying to rake together a few dollars for him to start on; if you had sat up at night pressing his clothes and washing his shirts so that he could present a good appearance at business the next day, wouldn't you feel that when prosperity did come you had a right to share in it?

Would you want to be pensioned off with a measly little bit of alimony, while a young wife splurged around on the money you had helped to make, and lived in the fine house whose very bricks you had cemented together with your heart's blood?

If you had children, would you want their father to desert them? Would you want them half-orphaned? Wouldn't you feel that they had a right to their father's love and guidance and to be brought up in a peaceful, united home?

Just treat this other woman as you would want some other woman to treat you, Margaretta. That's the answer to every woman who is in love with a married man. —DOROTHY DIX.

Dear Dorothy Dix—I am a widower 60 years of age and make my home with my married daughter. She is all that a loving child could be, but I yearn for the companionship that only a wife can give, and my object in writing you is to ask if you think me too old to venture again upon the sea of matrimony. I am well preserved, and in a position to support a wife in comfort. —WIDOWER.

Answer: Certainly you are not too old to marry, Mr. Widower. A well-preserved man at 60 is in the prime of life and there is no earthly reason why you shouldn't marry, provided you choose a woman of suitable age.

Pick out a nice, sensible widow or an old maid who isn't bossy and fussy, who is anywhere around the 50-mark, and be happy in your own home. As men and women grow older they need companionship more than they ever did before, and it's a good thing for them and for their children to have them marry and set up their own separate establishments. —DOROTHY DIX.

Supreme Court Will Not Review Harbor Act

WASHINGTON, Oct. 22. (AP)—There will be no supreme court review of the constitutionality of the Federal Longshoremen's and Harbor Workers' compensation act, as sought to be raised by Joseph Chernik in a case from Brooklyn, N. Y.

Chernik was injured while working on a lighter beside a vessel of the Clyde Steamship company, and sued the company under the state laws for negligence. When the company contended that his only relief was under the federal act he challenged its validity, asserting that the federal government had no jurisdiction in such matters.

HUSBAND DISTRIBUTES BOOKLETS

Wife Tries Compound

Every year the Pinkham Medicine Company distributes about 30,000,000 booklets from house to house. Mr. Ted Hinsman does this work in Lodi, California. His wife writes: "It was in these little books that I read about so many women being helped by the medicine. I thought I would give it a trial and I can truly say that it has done me good. My neighbors and friends ask me what I am doing to make me look so much better. I tell them that I am taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound."

CHIC CHERIE — Latest Fashions

There's more than one way to skin a cat and there's more than one way to use its skin afterwards. The same is true for other skins than cats. Here is an extremely distinguished way to use fur this season. Have it made into a fur suit. Cherie is gazing with longing eyes at her reflection as shown in a suit of sheared lamb which has a jacket with an ascot cravat of fur and a fur skirt ornamented in front with a deep inverted pleat. The suit Dina prefers has a short flaring jacket with a standing collar and a wrap-around fur skirt. This is of American broadtail—these are the furs easiest to cut and fit.

© 1928, by King Features Syndicate, Inc.

Consequently they are the furs most used for these new and unusual suits. Cherie is showing you some other uses for fur this season. There are all kinds of separate fur scarfs. The most popular are the stole and the fur kerchief which you can see illustrated. Cherie's arm is decorated not with a cuff, but with a muff. A flat muff with a V shaped lower section. It is made to match a scarf, of course. There are also fur pocketbooks. There are also fur hats. In fact, the very hat Cherie is wearing is shown in grey sheared lamb and may be made to match the purse and scarf. Truly, says Cherie, fashion is various.

G. Bernard Shaw For King, W. Rogers For Vice-King, Is Royalist Slate

DALLAS, Oct. 22. (INS)—George Bernard Shaw, noted Anglo-Irish author and playwright, for king of America, and Will Rogers, equally famous Claremore, Okla., cowboy humorist and columnist, for vice king.

This is the ticket espoused by Richard Potts, Dallas philosopher and rationalist, and his group of "Royalists" known as the "Royalist League of America," who are now engaged in a controversy with the city council here over the matter of obtaining the city hall auditorium from which to conduct their campaign.

Newspaper Men in It

In a nutshell, Potts and a group of friendly Dallas newspaper men form the league, which was organized the other day after the city fathers refused Benjamin Gitlow, presidential nominee of the communist party of America, permission to speak in the city auditorium. Potts made application for use of the hall to espouse the cause of a "benevolent monarchy of America." At that time he advertised that George Bernard Shaw was the league's nominee for "king of America" and Will Rogers was the organization's candidate for second place on the ticket, to-wit; "vice king."

It has not been learned yet whether Shaw and Rogers are in a receptive mood in the event they are "nominated."

Potts has wired Gitlow to schedule another speaking date for Dallas. The communist nominee cancelled his date here yesterday when Potts Saturday lost his court battle with the city commissioners to obtain use of the city hall auditorium for Gitlow's speech.

Potts Chuckles

The perturbation of city commissioners today brought sly chuckles from Potts. Apparently the city fathers were the only persons in Dallas who failed to see Potts' "joke."

"The joke would have been on me if they had given me the use of the hall," Potts explained. "My only interest was in seeing that the right of free speech was upheld in the case of Mr. Gitlow. I have for years battled the cause of rationalism in Texas through my magazine, 'The Common Herd.'"

The Civil Liberties Union of America, through its secretary, Forrest Bailey, took a hand in the fight for freedom of speech for Gitlow and retained George Clifton Edwards, Dallas attorney, to take Potts' fight in behalf of the communist candidate into court. The city commissioners, all of whom testified, won on a technicality.

Lifelong Democrat

Potts is a slightly built elderly man with a well developed sense of humor. He proclaims that he has been a lifelong Democrat and not a communist.

"I made it plain to the communists," Potts said, "that I would aid them in their fight for free speech providing I wouldn't obligate myself to listen to their speeches."

Potts, called "the Mencken of the Southwest," sat in his office today chuckling over the thought of the city officials becoming aroused over the prospect of "G. B. S." coming to Dallas to take the stump in behalf of a "benevolent monarchy." He is awaiting a reply from Gitlow before resuming his legal fight to obtain for the communist candidate the right to make a campaign speech in the city auditorium.

Challenges of Ship Owners Rejected

WASHINGTON, Oct. 22. (INS)—New challenges for foreign ship owners were rejected by the supreme court today in denying review of a lower court decision sustaining the seizure of the French schooner "Mistinguette," and the British schooner "Rosie M. B." both in Long Island Sound.

Owners, in appealing the "Mistinguette" case, contended the vessel was observed within the three mile limit by coast guardsmen but was not captured until 4½ miles off shore. She was seized and libelled for failure of the captain to produce a ship manifest. The "Rosie M. B." was boarded 11 miles off shore.

Owners claimed this demand could not be made outside the three mile limit.

Railroad's Removal Of Shops Is Contested

AUSTIN, Oct. 22. (AP)—Hearing on application of the Texas Midland and Texas and New Orleans railroads for authority to remove and abandon machine shops and roundhouse at Terrell was reset today by the state railroad commission for Nov. 7, instead of Nov. 13, to which it had been postponed.

Terrell interests claim the machine shops have been abandoned without proper authority. The Texas and New Orleans, which has acquired control of the Midland, claims that it is not required to keep shops there now since the merger.

N. CAROLINA IN VAGUE MUDDLE

None Can Agree As To Final Outcome

By BYRON PRICE

CHARLOTTE, N. C., Oct. 22. (AP)—Presidential politics still is a whirligig of argument and speculation in North Carolina with experienced politicians disagreeing wether the final turn will give the state to Smith or Hoover.

Like other leaders of their party throughout the South, the Democratic campaign managers declare a reaction has re-established the normal ascendancy. Republicans say this claim is made without definite knowledge, and purely for effect. Neither side is disposed to speak in terms of large majorities, and both concede that certain undercurrents still make it difficult to put the situation into exact figures.

Double Handicap

The point of departure of all these calculations is the fact that in North Carolina, as in no other Southern state, friends of Governor Smith face a double handicap. Not only is the presidential nominee opposed by a long-influential Democratic leader, Senator Simmons, but this is one state of the Southern sisterhood where the Republican party is no negligible quantity. In the last two-way presidential division, in 1920, Harding received 232,848 votes in this state, to 305,447 for Cox.

This is one state, too, in which the Republican organization has not been agitated and disturbed in the midst of the campaign by a revamping process in the interest of "lily-white" Southern Republicanism. In North Carolina the party has been under white leadership for many years. There were some factional differences after the Kansas City convention, but they were adjusted and the state-wide machinery turned determinedly to the task of gathering in these twelve electoral votes for Hoover.

Bolters Disorganized

The Anti-Smith Democratic organization, being much newer, has not gone into battle with the same co-ordination of effort, nor does it number among its personnel anything like as great a number of experienced politicians. Headed by Frank McNinch, a Charlotte lawyer, of limited political prominence its executive committee does not include men who have long been conspicuous in the business, professional and educational affairs of the state. Senator Simmons, who resigned from the Democratic national committee to oppose the party's national ticket, has not gone fishing, as many Smith leaders supposed he would, but has made one public speech denouncing the Democratic nominee and is to deliver another during the present week.

Caught between the jaws of this dual attack is a Democratic state organization built up largely by Senator Simmons himself, and still functioning with considerable purpose now that Simmons is on the other side. Simmons' colleague, Senator Overman, is stumping for Smith. So is Josephus Daniels, Wilson's secretary of the navy and a pronounced dry. All of the Democratic congressmen have endorsed their party's ticket. Other elective state officers also have remained in line, and the Democratic leaders now reckon the effect of Simmons' defection, not in terms of its influence on the central state organization, but in relation to his personal following among the voters.

Little Bitterness

What this may mean as to the reconstruction of the Democratic party in the state is not yet apparent. It is a singular feature of the situation that personal bitterness seems to have been kept at a minimum. The Democratic organization has not sought to discipline the Smith dissenters as they have been disciplined in some other Southern states. Those members of the state executive committee who want over to the anti-Smith forces are still members of the executive committee. The anti-Smith committee is circulating literature in support of the Democratic state ticket, put out by the regular state headquarters.

Nor has the discussion of issues run to such bitter lengths here as in other parts of the South. There has been some public talk of religion and white supremacy, but more of prohibition and immigration, the two issues on which the anti-Smith people declare the nominee has bolted the platform. The Republicans have made insistent use of the tariff issue in their appeals to the now extensive manufacturing industry of the state.

Co-Operation

North Carolina stands virtually alone along the Southern states in the lack of fusion between the Republicans and the anti-Smith Democrats. Each organization has not only maintained its own identity, but the leaders say there has been no co-operation between them. Each makes its campaign in its own way, with its own speakers, and its own literature. The anti-Smith Democrats are emphasizing their opposition to Smith, rather than support for Hoover. Even Senator Simmons has not said he was for Hoover.

These and other elements in the situation make it impossible to include North Carolina in most generalizations as to the campaign in the South. No other state south of the border has North Carolina's large percentage of Republican voters, and no other state except Alabama, where the normal Republican vote is not a serious factor, has a Democratic official of senatorial rank campaigning against the party ticket.

Tax on Revenue From Illicit Liquor Fails to Interest Court

WASHINGTON, Oct. 22. (AP)—The supreme court refused today to pass on the question whether the federal government has the right to impose an income tax on money received from the illicit sale of liquor merely on the strength of a report from a revenue agent.

William H. Haar, in a case from Florida, contended certain assessments were illegal because they were not based on a tax return made by himself or the commissioner of internal revenue. He was sustained by the federal district court, but the circuit court of appeals held them good when made upon a report from a revenue agent.

The revenue agent reported he had found large bank deposits made by Haar, who had not included them in his income tax return. The commissioner of internal revenue assessed $1,901,500 additional taxes against Haar for the years 1917 to 1922 inclusive, holding that the money represented income from the unlawful sale of intoxicating liquors.

When Haar admitted that he probably owed some additional taxes the additional assessment which had been increased by over $640,000 was then reduced to $238,000 and proceedings instituted to attach Haar's bank accounts and property.

LUBBOCK RAIL SURVEY STARTS

Extension of Santa Fe Branch Planned

LUBBOCK, Texas, Oct. 22. (INS)—Beginning a survey of proposed extension of the Lubbock-Seagraves branch of the Santa Fe railroad toward the southwest, and in the general direction of Hobbs, New Mexico, scene of the latest southwestern oil strike, a party of 12 engineers of the Atchison, Topeka and Santa Fe railroad, were here today. J. W. Stewart and J. T. Erwin of the Chicago engineering department of the road, headed the delegation of visiting engineers.

The extension, which will be between 36 and 40 miles in length, will be constructed if the interstate commerce commission and the state railroad commission approve the survey, it was intimated today.

Beef Fritters

Bits of cold left-over beef, useless for anything else, make a delicious meal for four people.

1 cup chopped cold beef	1 cup flour
1 tablespoon chopped onion	1 egg beaten
1 tablespoon chopped parsley	2 teaspoons baking powder
⅛ teaspoon pepper	1 cup milk
	½ teaspoon salt

Beat egg, add milk, flour and baking powder sifted together. Beat smooth. Add remaining ingredients. Mix well. Drop by spoonfuls into Crisco heated to 360° F. or when bread crumbs brown in 60 seconds. Fry until brown and thoroughly cooked. Drain on brown paper. Serve with any left-over gravy or the following sauce:

3 tablespoons Crisco	1 tablespoon parsley
2 tablespoons flour	1 bouillon cube
3 tablespoons minced onion	½ cup hot water
1 teaspoon Worcestershire sauce	1 tablespoon lemon juice

Melt Crisco. Add onion; cook slowly until it begins to brown. Add the flour. Mix well, then add the parsley. Then the cube dissolved in the water. Stir over fire until thick, then add the Worcestershire and lemon juice.

Balloons

1 cup water	3 eggs unbeaten
1 tablespoon Crisco	1 cup pastry flour
½ teaspoon salt

Put water and Crisco in saucepan; bring to boiling point. Remove from fire. Add flour and salt. Return to fire, beat until it forms a paste which leaves side of pan. Remove from fire. Add the eggs one at a time, beating each in thoroughly. Drop by teaspoonfuls in moderately hot Crisco 330-360° F. or when a small piece of bread browns in 60 seconds; fry until puffed and well browned. Test with a toothpick; drain on soft paper; cool. Make slit in one side with sharp knife; put in teaspoon of sweetened whipped cream or jam. Dust with powdered sugar. Serve same day.

MRS. R. E. ATHERTON had been cooking for years but until she saw our suggestion to test Crisco by actually tasting it right from the can, such a test for shortening had never occurred to her.

She was so surprised and delighted with Crisco's taste that she sat down and wrote us all about it.

"I had always considered that for success in cake making the finest grade of butter was an indispensable essential. But one day I found myself short of butter, when I was especially anxious that my cake should be the best of its kind. Rather doubtfully I looked at my Crisco, and then, thinking how clean and creamy it looked, somewhat apprehensively tasted it. Greatly to my surprise I found it distinctly more palatable than the scrap of butter whose meagerness I had been bemoaning. I used Crisco for the shortening in that cake, which proved to be as good as, if not the best, I ever made."

See if the test suggested below doesn't give you, too, the surprise of your whole cooking experience:

Put a little Crisco on the tip of a spoon. On the tip of another, a little of any other shortening. Taste first Crisco, then the other fat.

Had you imagined there could be such a difference in the taste of cooking fats? Is it any wonder that such a sweet, fresh shortening brings out to best advantage the delicate flavor of foods you prepare with it?

When you try one of the recipes given here, notice that Crisco does not smoke at proper frying temperature or fill your home with cooking odors.

Fried Drop Doughnuts

A quick, easy way—no tiresome rolling and cutting. They should be fried slowly but you can fry slowly in Crisco without the doughnut soaking the fat or being at all greasy.

½ cup sugar	½ teaspoon nutmeg
2 cups pastry flour	½ cup sweet milk
3 eggs separated	2 teaspoons baking powder
¾ cup walnut meats	½ cup whole raisins
½ teaspoon salt

Beat egg yolks light. Add sugar. Beat until foamy. Then add milk, then nuts and raisins. Last flour, baking powder, salt and nutmeg sifted together twice. Mix all together thoroughly. Last fold in stiffly beaten egg whites. Drop from teaspoon into deep Crisco heated to 360° F. or when a bread crumb browns in 60 seconds. Fry slowly until golden brown. Test with a toothpick. When cool, roll in powdered sugar.

Fried Spinach Balls

A new and delicious way to make a little left-over spinach go a long way. Prepare them any time and fry in Crisco in two minutes when you are ready to use them or fry them when you make them and reheat them in the oven a day or two later.

2 cups cooked spinach, chopped	1 cup dry bread crumbs
2 tablespoons Crisco	2 tablespoons grated cheese
2 tablespoons grated onion	1 egg beaten
	½ teaspoon allspice
	Egg and more crumbs

Combine ingredients and let stand 10 minutes to swell crumbs. Shape into balls. Put egg in bowl with ¼ cup water. Beat together until mixed. Roll balls in crumbs, then in egg and then in crumbs again. Drop in hot deep Crisco 390° F. or when a bread crumb browns in 40 seconds, until brown. Drain on soft paper and serve.

You taste your milk . . .
You test your eggs . . . .
NOW—taste your shortening

Crisco's sweet flavor will delight you!

ROAD HOUSE PATRONS FREE

Hundreds Arrested Sunday Are Released

CAMDEN, N. J., Oct. 22(AP)—More than 500 persons, many of them girls and young women, were at liberty today under nominal cash bail as a result of preliminary hearings after a series of raids on Camden county roadhouses early Sunday. The proprietors of seven places raided were freed under $1,000 bail each, pending further action.

The raids were conducted by the entire staff of county detectives and 50 state troopers amid scenes of confusion.

Motor buses were chartered by the raiding officers to carry the merry-makers to the court house where three justices of the peace awaited their arrival. The defendants were herded into three rooms and for nearly four hours the justices held hearings and fixed bail. All proprietors of roadhouses were released after posting $20 in some instances and $25 in others.

Officers said that liquor had been found in all places except one and that in three instances slot machines were confiscated.

Death Ends Young Writer's Career

ATLANTA, Oct. 22. (INS)—The death of Miss Frances Newman, author of "The Hard Boiled Virgin," in New York brought to an end one of the most interesting careers among younger American writers.

In the four years since publication of her first short story, "Rachel and her Children," and its selection by the O. Henry Memorial committee as the best American story of its length in 1924, she has risen to the position of one of the most widely discussed contemporary novelists.

Possessor of an original and unique style and a sophisticated and critical attitude of mind, Miss Newman was regarded as being founder of a literary school of which the followers were numerous. Her friends described it by the term "civilized."

Miss Newman was the daughter of the late Judge W. T. Newman.

Tulsa Indian Fails To Get Taxes Reviewed

WASHINGTON, Oct. 22. (AP)—Clifton L. Richards, Choctaw Indian living in Tulsa, Okla., today was refused a review by the supreme court in his effort to recover from the government about $16,500 he had paid as income taxes from 1917 to 1919, inclusive, on money received by him in those years from sale of his royalty oil.

Kellogg Signs Treaty With Albanian Minister

WASHINGTON, Oct. 22. (AP)—An arbitration treaty similar to the treaties recently signed with other countries and a conciliation treaty along the lines of the Bryan treaties were signed today by Faik Konitza, minister of Albania and Secretary Kellogg.

These treaties relate to commerce and disputes between the two governments.

Ford's Colonial Village Rises Near Dearborn

Hustling Dearborn, Mich., where Henry Ford's plants hum with industry, is watching the arrival of a new neighbor from early American history. Ford is assembling nearby colonial village. Part of the tract will be occupied by a museum in honor of Thomas A. Edison. Here Ford has transported a former Edison laboratory, in interior view of which is shown below. Above is the main building of the museum. Ford and Edison (left) have long been warm friends.

By WILLIAM A. WEEKES

DETROIT, Oct. 22. (AP)—A twentieth century traveler chancing into a village under construction near Dearborn, Mich., would probably feel much as did the Connecticut Yankee when he burst in upon King Arthur's court.

Within sight of the most modern industrial center in the world Henry Ford is building there his early American village, where everything is to be as things were a hundred years or more ago. One may peek through a window and see a woman by the hearth at a niddy-noddy spinning wheel. She will be in the costume of another age of American history, and the furniture of the house will be the envy of collectors.

Here industries will be carried on with the same tools and devices as when the middle west was the American frontier. Mr. Ford, whose reputation as a collector is well known, has gathered from New England, Maryland and Virginia and what was the western frontier the objects to form a living picture of America's progress.

A feature of the village is to be the Edison museum, a permanent record for the world of the achievements of Thomas Alva Edison, from his "friend Henry." The museum includes the Fort Myers, Fla., experimental laboratory by Edison, purchased by Ford and transferred to Dearborn. Edison also participated in the cornerstone caremony marking the first actual work on the museum. On a column of concrete he walked over the still wet surface, leaving his footprints, and drove Luther Burbank's spade into the block to remain. The spade, a part of Ford's collection, in its new location links the work of two of the most important contributors to American science.

The museum, a model of Independence hall in Philadelphia, will contain the models of Edison's inventions, his notes written during experiments and the tools with which he worked.

Near the village the editor is to be further commemorated in the reproduction of Menlo park, the little place in New Jersey where he first amazed the world with electric lights and worked out the phonograph and moving picture.

But the colonial village will be as interesting as the Edison section of the 125-acre project. It is expected that buildings purchased by Ford in many sections of the country will be brought to Dearborn and reassembled. There are to be old inns, such as the Wayside Inn of storied fame, now owned by Ford, and old windmills.

Life will be lived actually in the colonial fashion, and people will earn their livings by the performance of tasks in the manner of another age. The "village smithy" will stand beneath the "spreading chestnut tree" and show young America how men used to do with brawn what machinery does today.

UNREST GROWS ON CONTINENT

Poor Crops, Lax Business and Strikes Hurt

By ERIC KEYSER

BERLIN, Oct. 22. (UP)—Industrial unrest is growing in Europe.

Business is poor, crops have been bad in some sections and the working people, restless and dissatisfied, face a hard winter.

Recent strikes and lockouts in Germany, Poland and Czecho-Slovakia are no accidental phenomena but the direct result of lagging business in Europe.

Although the cases are disconnected, all have one common feature—the determined attitude of the owners.

It is particularly noticeable in Germany, where the owners forestall the demands of the unions by wholesale lockouts, which they certainly would not do if business were flourishing.

At present, about 100,000 workers are on strike in Germany, while lockouts of 350,000 more are pending.

The underlying causes are economic, but the social and political consequences may begin to be felt at any time.

The owners claim that German industry is unable to pay higher wages, pointing out that in recent months German products have found it increasingly difficult to compete in foreign markets because of the high cost of production. The owners claim they are unable to reduce cost as the bulk of their working capital is borrowed abroad at a high rate of interest.

Inventor Victor In Patent Contest

WASHINGTON, Oct. 22. (INS)—The Anaconda Copper company today lost an appeal to the supreme court for review of lower court decisions holding that it had infringed patents of George Campbell Carson, inventor, for a new side-feeding furnace method of smelting copper ores.

The suit marked complete victory for Carson, who two years ago won the legal right to his patents, said to be worth $20,000,000.

The Carson Investment company, which took over his patents, prosecuted the appeal through ex-postmaster General Frank H. Hitchcock and ex-Attorney General George Wickersham.

PARIS, Oct. 22. (UP)—Nineteen bodies have been recovered from the ruins of a building under construction which collapsed last week in the suburb of Vincennes.

Sectional Church Meet at Electra

Special to The Record News

ELECTRA, Texas, Oct. 22.—The sectional convention of the Assembly of God church of which Rev. E. B. Crump, local pastor, is presbyter, closed a successful two days' meeting here Saturday evening. Hugh M. Cadwalder of Dallas presided over the meeting and Rev. Oscar Berryhill of Phoenix, Ariz., widely known as the "Indian Revivalist," was present.

This section is composed of 12 counties in Northwest Texas, and each church in the section was represented in the convention by its pastor and several others. Rev. and Mrs. C. L. Stewart of Olney were guests from outside the section. The visitors were entertained in the homes of the local members of the church and lunch was served in the church on both days of the meeting.

Rev. Crump, as presbyter, goes to Burkburnett on Thursday evening, Oct. 25, to preside over the convention there. Rev. Crump will deliver a special inspirational address and also assist in the organization of a Christ's Ambassadors band in that church.

Survey of Southwest Business Is Planned

DALLAS, Oct. 22. (UP)—Preliminary plans for a survey of business conditions in the Southwest are being made by E. F. Gerish of the domestic commerce division of the United States department of commerce who arrived in Dallas today. The survey, Gerish said, will include markets in the Southwest, sources of supply, the money consumers spend, where consumers can buy best and cheapest and how they can best be served.

BONDS APPROVED

AUSTIN, Oct. 22. (AP)—Assistant Attorney General Whitehurst today approved a $150,000 waterworks bond issue for San Marcos and a San Augustine street improvement issue of $140,000.

From $25.00 to $2,500.00

Last week one of our shareholders came to us about a loan. He wanted to build a new home on a lot he had picked out. We glanced at his account and found that he had saved $25.00 each month, which together with his accumulated dividends totaled more than $2,500.00! He and his wife said they had scarcely missed the small monthly savings. Well, we gave him the money to pay cash for his lot and made him a loan to build his home and he still has plenty of money left in his account earning 8% and his $25.00 monthly saving continues. Not such a bad Thrift and Home Ownership true story from life, is it? How would you like to start something like it? Come to see us. Thrift and Home Ownership is our message. Good cooking is Mrs. Chitwood's. She will tell the ladies many interesting things about it this week at the Times-Record News Cooking School.

This Beats Taking Soda for Sour Stomach

"For quite some time I used soda for gas and sour stomach. Then I decided to try Adlerika and found it far better than soda."—Ed McNeill.

The simple mixture of glycerin, buckthorn bark, etc. (known as Adlerika), has a most surprising DOUBLE action. It acts on BOTH upper and lower bowel (most medicines act on lower bowels only) and removes foul matter that poisoned the system for months. It clears GAS and sourness from the stomach and bowels, bringing INSTANT relief from stomach trouble. And in addition, Adlerika removes metabolic poisons which cause neuritis and rheumatism.

Dr. H. L. Shoub, New York, reports: "In addition to intestinal cleansing, Adlerika checks the growth of intestinal bacteria."

Dr. J. Weaver: "In my 50 years' practice, I have found nothing to excel Adlerika."

J. E. Puckett: "After using Adlerika I feel better than for 20 years. Awful impurities were eliminated."

It will surprise you the great amount of poisons Adlerika brings out—you would never believe they were in your system. In chronic constipation, GAS, sour stomach and sick headaches, just ONE spoonful Adlerika brings wonderful relief. At leading druggists. Sold in Wichita Falls by Allison's Drug store. Send for FREE checkerboard, ADLERIKA, Dept. C-171, St. Paul, Minn.—Adv.

DISCUSSION OF DEBTS BANNED

Reparation Conference To Be Held

PARIS, Oct. 22 (AP)—Premier Poincare and Wiston Churchill, British chancellor of the exchequer, it was learned authoratively today, have agreed that in the coming discussions of reparation the question of French and other European debts owed to the United States shall not be discussed.

They also agreed that the best course in preparing for a revision of German reparations payments is to mention no capital sums nor terms of years within which the payments shall be made.

In regard to sums and terms of years, Hermann Mueller and Gustav Stresemann, respectively chancellor and foreign minister of Germany, hold views identical to those of M. Poincare. They believe it is useless to talk about how much Germany can pay and when, thus confusing and embarrassing the special committee to which revision will be referred.

The allied governments concerned are themselves not quite sure as to what sums they can expect and the German government has not formulated any proposals. The only preoccupation of the governments at present is to form a committee to draw up general terms of reference.

Concerning debts, Premier Poincare is described as having said most positively that as far as the French government is concerned there is no intention of asking the United States to reduce the debt by a sou. His position is that France has already acknowledged the debt, was paying installments on it under the Mellon-Berenger settlement and will not question the obligation.

Slain Man's Booze Business Is Probed

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Oct. 22. (INS)—Detectives seeking the assassins who Saturday night fatally wounded Joe Wilner, operator of a string of small bakeries, today turned their attention to the corn sugar combine of the north side.

Chester Hughes and Larry Ghent detectives, said they had learned of a prosperous business Wilner conducted with north side bootleggers, selling them corn sugar at cut rate prices, thus incurring the wrath of the combine, which for several years has been handling the corn sugar business of the bootlegging fraternity.

Fortified with gangster protection, the combine has set its sugar price and maintained it. Police believe several unexplained murders in recent years might be traced to an attempt of an independent sugar dealer to break into the corn sugar racket.

One Killed; Five Injured in Crash

HATTIESBURG, Miss., Oct. 22. (INS)—Lavon Rogers, 16, Hattiesburg, was dead today and five members of his family, including his father, were recovering in a Memphis hospital from injuries received as the result of a forced landing of the airplane of John Hagan, Orlando, Fla., who had been stunting over the local field.

The accident occurred when Hagan attempted to land on the highway where Rogers' car was parked after three attempts to land on the field had been foiled by swarming crowds. The plane struck telephone wires, veered and crashed into the parked automobile. The charged wires fell on some of those seated in the car, burning them. Hagan was uninjured.

'World of Mice' is Woman Scientist's Laboratory For Fighting Cancer

Pathology Professor Makes Headway in 19 Years of Experimenting With Rodents; Raises 80,000

CHICAGO, Oct. 22. (US)—A world of mice reigns in an old house at the edge of the University of Chicago campus. And in that house a little woman with gray hair, grayed in years of unremittent service to one of the greatest services of mankind—the fight against cancer, conducts her experiments.

She is Dr. Maud Slye, associate professor of pathology at the university. For more than 19 years she has been devoting her efforts to the study of cancer in mice, which startlingly resembles in fundamental details the dread disease as it afflicts human beings.

World Reputation

This quiet, solitary woman fighter in a great cause has already established a world-wide reputation. Her findings have shown that susceptibility to cancer is hereditary. She has in fact established the important theory that scientific mating of human beings will prove a vital factor in eliminating the cause of the disease from the race. She believes that this theory, applied the world over, would eradicate cancer in two generations.

The old house in which she is conducting her experiments is unique. It is bare of furniture, save for a rough wooden table or two. What formerly had been a sumptuously furnishing living room, dining room, kitchen and bedroom are today filled to capacity with cages full of mice on which Doctor Slye has been experimenting.

On a table in one of the rooms a mouse was running frantically about in the confines of a cage, adding its squeaks to the weird din that constantly fills the house.

"Here's a little fellow," said Doctor Slye, reaching into the cage and hauling the wee creature out, "whose family history I know almost by heart. See that lump under his neck? That's a thyroid cancer. He's the twenty-eighth generation of the family labeled JD-306268. We number our mice families in order to follow their respective histories from generation to generation.

Knows Ancestry

"This creature's ancestors were also stricken with thyroid cancer. Eleven of the 133 members of this particular family died of it. This mouse's own grandmother had it but his parents escaped it, just as it happens among human beings. Cancer, you know, will skip a generation and then recur, just that way.

"After studying 28 generations of this mouse's family, I found that the first thyroid malignancy occurred in the fourth generation. I must watch this little creaure closely all the time, for at any moment, the tumor may shut off his breath and end his life."

The remarkable little woman then pointed to another cage. "There's a mother with eight healthy children," she said. "The mother, as you see, is taking a siesta. Both she and her little mice are free of the disease. I've kept track of her family tree, which includes 200 mice and none of them had cancer."

Raises 80,000 Mice

It is interesting to learn that from an original ancestry of 28 mice, Doctor Slye has raised more than 80,000 of the little animals, some of them with family trees which she recorded for more than 100 generations. While the life of a mouse ordinarily is about three or four months, some have lived as long as two and even three years in the laboratory, thanks to the care given them by the famous scientist.

By means of careful mating, she has been able to eradicate cancer from mouse families in which the disease was formerly prevalent. Also, she has successfully bred the disease into other families.

A male and a female mouse wholly resistant to cancer will have children completely free of it also," she said. "And if a mouse that is susceptible to cancer is mated with one that is not, the children also will be exempt. But because of the parent that was susceptible to the disease, the children that are themselves exempt are capable of transmitting it to their offspring if they are mated with cancer-susceptible mice. This shows conclusively that the same method of mating applied to the human race would yield desired results."

The laboratory is ruled with an iron hand by the soft-spoken scientist. With her assistants, she maintains a regime of cleanliness and order, so that nothing will interfere with the results of the experiments. The laboratory is kept evently at a temperature of 74. The cages are sterilized every week. Food is given to the creatures once a day, together with sterilized drinking water. Each mouse is given a small cube of bread soaked in doubly pasteurized milk. And to balance the diet, each cage is equipped with a bowl containing a mixture of hay and bird seed.

Every mouse that dies is subjected to a rigorous autopsy, and the cause of death determined to the last degree.

Packers Anti-Trust Case Before Court Again

WASHINGTON, Oct. 22. (INS)—Another phase of the "Big Five" meat packers anti-trust case will be reviewed by the supreme court.

The court today granted the government's petition for review, involving an attack upon District of Columbia courts for refusing to vacate an order giving the California Cooperative canneries the right to intervene in the anti-trust suit between the packers and the government.

The court last spring refused to vacate a "consent decree" against the packers.

WHAT WORLD NEEDS

OKLAHOMA CITY, Oct. 22. (UP)—The thing the world needs most now, according to the Rev. William Forney Hovis, is mothers who forget their clubs and careers long enough to teach their children to pray, and fathers who don't spend all their time in business. Hovis finished a series of lectures here Sunday night on the modern home.

BAGGED LIMIT

Marooned Duck Hunter In Kansas Kills Full Quota of Birds

GREAT BEND, Kan., Oct. 22. (INS)—Leo Schartz, 36, was back at his home here today after having been marooned 18 hours in a duck blind in the center of the 25,000-acre lake at the Cheyenne bottoms, seven miles northeast of here. He suffered no ill effects. Schartz was taken to the blind in a motorboat Sunday noon. A few hours later it became so rough that it was impossible to reach him.

It was feared water would get into his blind and drown him. He was rescued at daybreak today by Charles Hulme and Joe Lepe) after the wind had subsided and was found to be well and dry.

He bagged the limit in ducks and geese.

Demos Accused of False Propaganda

OKLAHOMA CITY, Okla., Oct. 22 (UP)—Democratic state headquarters here were charged today with sending out "slush fund" propaganda to stir up dissension among Republican workers. The charges were made by Frank Parkinson, Republican state chairman.

Parkinson branded as false a statement allegedly issued by Judge Porter Newman saying that a big slush fund is to be used in Oklahoma by the Republicans. He said the statement was sent to several Republican workers.

"The idea apparently was to make some of the workers think there was a slush fund available and that they weren't getting their share," Parkinson said.

U. S. Russell, publicity director at Democratic headquarters, denied the statement of Newman had been sent to Republicans.

"They can't blame us with their dissension," Russell said. "They've got plenty of it and they'll have to take care of it."

West Asks Opinion On Lewiston Oil Contract

WASHINGTON, Oct. 22 (UP)—Secretary of Interior West today asked Attorney General Sargent for an opinion regarding validity of the contract with the Lewiston Oil & Refining Co., for government royalty oil from the Cat Creek field in Montana.

Examination of the interior department records, West said, disclosed similarity between the Cat Creek contract and the one for Salt Creek, Wyo., royalty oil which Sargent last week held invalid.

Borah's Visit to Texas Called "Spectacle of Effrontery" By Young

DALLAS, Oct. 22. (UP)—The visit of Senator William E. Borah of Idaho to Texas was characterized as a "spectacle of effrontery" by James Young, chairman of the state Democratic campaign committee, in a statement today.

Senator Borah is scheduled to speak at the city auditorium in Dallas tonight under the auspices of the Hoover-Democratic organization.

In his statement Young characterized the Idaho senator as the "Borah Aurora Borealis" of the Republican party.

"The presence of United States Senator William E. Borah, a Republican in our midst exhorting Woodrow Wilson Democrats to come to the mourners bench of Vare and Sinclair, praying to the mothers of our southland to help him through the instrumentality of Herbert Hoover to save prohibition for the racketeers of Chicago and Philadelphia must provoke smiles from that man and woman among us who remains calm enough to see the humor in a situation at once ludicrous and unique," the statement said.

Young sailed into Borah's "noble gesture" that contemplated the "purification of the inside of the Republican purse by popular subscription" in the oil scandals and asserted that the "Borah Aurora Borealis" flickered and went out again in his "solicitous regard for the sanctity of the rights of the people of the Republic of Nicaragua."

"The Democrats of Texas," the statement continued, "welcome Senator Borah to Texas. We welcome him because we sincerely believe the effrontery of a hard boiled Republican attempt to woo the Democrats from Texas will so arm and arouse the Democrats of the state that 'no carpetbagging' from within Texas will ever be attempted again within the span of men now living. We welcome his presence because the people of Texas know that the Democratic party is offering America a government of the people, for and by the people, and that Borah is making adroit speeches in behalf of an order of society he has pretended to scorn."

The statement recalled Borah's opposition to woman suffrage, and said "his pretended liberalism has always surrendered before the standpats of his party."

Political Reporting Praised by Noyes

NEW YORK, Oct. 22. (UP)—The manner in which press associations and newspapers are reporting the present political campaign was praised today by Frank B. Noyes, president of the Associated Press.

Addressing the industrial conference at Columbia university Noyes said:

"I think that everyone familiar with journalism in America in the last half century will agree that in accuracy of statement, in breadth of information, in ethical standards there has been a steady progress upward year by year and day by day, and that as a whole our newspapers are worthy of the confidence of their readers."

OKLAHOMA CITY, Oct. 22. (UP)—When Ola Mae Chandler's laundry was short one article, she inquired about it of James Lord, driver for the Oklahoma Operating company. Lord allegedly "beat her up." She asked damages of $5,250 in a suit filed today.

Midland Man Leases Andrews County Land

Special to The Record News

MIDLAND, Texas, Oct. 22.—W. A. Hyatt of Midland leased 80 blocks of the new White addition in Andrews, county seat of Andrews county, Texas. Nearly all of a new city addition in Andrews was leased this week for oil and gas. The town oil and gas lease is on land directly across the street from the school house, and only two blocks from the Andrews bank. The leases are on the west half of section 24, block A-45, public school lands.

BEWARE THE COUGH FROM COLDS THAT HANG ON

Coughs from colds may lead to serious trouble. You can stop them now with Creomulsion, an emulsified creosote that is pleasant to take. Creomulsion is a medical discovery with two-fold action; it soothes and heals the inflamed membranes and inhibits germ growth.

Of all known drugs creosote is recognized by high medical authorities as one of the greatest healing agencies for coughs from colds and bronchial irritations. Creomulsion contains, in addition to creosote, other healing elements which soothe and heal the inflamed membranes and stop the irritation, while the creosote goes on to the stomach, is absorbed into the blood, attacks the seat of the trouble and checks the growth of the germs.

Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of coughs from colds, bronchitis and minor forms of bronchial irritations, and is excellent for building up the system after colds or flu. Money refunded if not relieved after taking according to directions. Ask your druggist. (adv.)

when mothers use this salt

It used to be that large numbers of women developed simple goiter during pregnancy, giving birth to goitrous babies as a consequence. Now the use of Morton's Iodized Salt before and during pregnancy makes goiter impossible in either mother or child. Begin the use of this beneficial salt and give your child-to-come a better chance of developing properly.

EXTENSION IN WINKLER LEADS

Southern Crude Promises to Widen Field

Special to The Record News

SAN ANGELO, Texas, Oct. 22.—An extension of the Hendrick pool in Winkler county approximately one and one-half miles eastward from its north central part, indicated by Southern Crude Oil Purchasing company's No. T-90-8 Hutchins, in section 47, block 26; topping of the deep lime pay in Amerada No. 1 Roberts and a small increase in oil in Taylor-Link's No. 1 Kloh, Rumsey and Morgan, both in Howard county, and completion of Mid-Kansas and Transcontinental No. 3 Smith in Pecos county were among chief developments in oil in the Permian basin of West Texas over the week-end.

Alexander and Lyle's No. 1 Sellman, Pecos county, wildcat seven miles west of the Yates pool, which began spraying oil Tuesday under gas that gauged 3,400,000 cubic feet daily, was shut down for cement to set. Cement was run Saturday between the 5 and 8-inch casing to shut off the gas and permit resumption of fishing for tools on bottom at 1630 feet. This work not likely will be resumed before Tuesday.

Prairie in Ward

In Ward county, Prairie Oil and Gas company's No. 1 John Sealy estate, in section 95, block A, G.M.M. B.&A. survey, had drilled to 2595 feet after fishing out tools that were blown up in the hole by an increase in dry sulphur gas from 5,000,000 cubic feet daily at 2570 feet, bridging the hole 100 feet off bottom. Rector Oil company No. 1 Johnson, in section 10, block 32, H.&T.C. Ry. Co. survey, had drilled to 2025 feet in lime, where it encountered a puff of gas. Shipley and others' No. 1 Haslett, in section 17, block 5, H.&T.C. Ry. Co. survey, was reducing the hole at 2210 feet in lime. Top of the lime was reported to be 2200 feet, but this lacked confirmation.

Fire which enveloped Texas' No. 1 Cagle, in Lea county, N. M., Thursday while preparations were being made to kill gas with barite, had not been extinguished early Saturday. Sulphur gas increased at 2859 feet to an estimated 15 to 20 million cubic feet, blowing mud out of the hole. It was shortly afterward that the well ignited. It is in the southwest corner of the northeast quarter of the southwest quarter of section 9-26-37. Mariand No. 1 Lynn, in the northwest corner of the southeast quarter of section 26-23-36, had cored lime and anhydrite to 2975 feet. Cores recently have been saturated.

In Winkler County

Southern Crude No. T-90-8 Hutchins in Winkler county topped the pay at 2895 feet and at 2912 feet in lime had 2000 feet of oil in the hole. It topped the lime at 2929 feet, set 6⅝-inch casing at 2778 feet and changed there from rotary to standard cable tools. The well is 2210 feet north and 330 feet west of the southwest corner of section 47, block 26, public school land. It is a twin location to and 100 feet south of No. T-90-1 Hutchins, which was a big gasser and promised the extension which it appears No. T-90-8 Hutchins now will effect. It blew tools and casing out of the hole and wrecked the derrick, but never could be brought under control sufficiently to permit deepening and was completed at 2702 feet as a gas well.

Amerada No. 1 Walton, diagonally northeast of No. T-90-1 Hutchins, and Humble No. 1 Walton, due north of No. T-90-1 Hutchins, also were completed as gas wells. The Humble well sprayed about 20 barrels of oil daily.

Freak Well

A freak well in the Hendrick pool rivaling the Red Barn water well in Pecos county that pumped 120 barrels of pipe line oil in 10 hours from 70 feet, was reported Saturday. It is an Atlantic-Collett well on the F lease, in the northwest quarter of section 40, block 26, and was drilled to serve as a receptacle for sulphur water from other wells. But instead, oil was struck at 1,000 feet in the Rustler lime, which is not productive, and filled to the top. It is believed the oil came through a crevice or to have been sidetracked in nearby producers. The well, designated as No. 13-F Hendrick since it encountered oil, is only a short distance south and west of Atlantic-Collett No. 3-F Hendrick.

Empire No. 1 Leck, in section 3, Block 74, and a south offset to Atlantic and Kessler and Logan's No. 1 Leck, a producer, did not test late in the week, as scheduled, owing to the blowing of a gasket off the separator. Early in the week the well topped pay at 3125 feet, drilled to 3141 feet and in a 20-minute open flow into the slush pit rated 3500 barrels a day. Atlantic and Kessler and Logan No. 1 Leck opened a new pool about 9¼ miles north and west of the Hendrick field.

Showing in Howard

Drilling late Saturday at 2380 feet, 70 feet in pay, Taylor-Link Oil company No. 1 Kloh, Rumsey and Morgan, in southeastern Howard county, had filled up only 1,000 feet in oil, less than had been expected. The small amount of oil was attributed by some to possible lightness of the lime. The company planned to drill aheads ome distance, and should the well not flow, straight ream to the bottom to enlarge the hole from ½(to 8¼ inches from 21000 feet. A small amount of gas was showing from 2384 feet.

The test is in the southeast corner of the east half of the southwest quarter of section 8, block 33, township 2 south, T.&P. Ry. Co. survey, and is only 1700 feet north of Henshaw No. 1-A Settles, biggest well in Howard county. No. 1-A Settles produces from a new horizon in the lime 2166-80 feet, oil of 32.4 gravity that contains less sulphur than any crude produced in West Texas. It is for this three-mile western extension of the Roberts-Settles pool that Henshaw will ask the Texas railroad commission for separate proration, in order to get the posted price of 80 cents a barrel for such light oil, at a hearing in Austin on October 24.

Louisiana Oil and Refining company No. 1 Kloh, Rumsey and Morgan, a half mile north of the Taylor-Link well and 2970 feet east and 2310 feet south of the northwest corner of section 8, block 33, township 2 south, T.&P. Ry. Co. survey, had drilled to 2105 feet.

Amerada's Roberts

Amerada Petroleum corporation's No. 1 Roberts, which sometime ago extended the Roberts-Settles field about a mile east when it produced 680 barrels daily in the 2600-foot horizon, topped the deep lime pay at 2623 feet and slowed over with oil at 2648 feet. It was expected that drilling would continue to 2675-80 feet before the well was tested. It is on a 240-acre lease, in the southwest corner of the northeast quarter of section 137, block 29, W.N.W. Ry. Co. survey. Schermerhorn No. 2-A Roberts, its south offset, last week produced 3470 barrels of oil on a 24-hour proration test at 2978 feet.

F. H. E. No. 3-B Roberts, west offset to Amerada No. 1 Roberts, produced 562 barrels of oil in a 24-hour gauge at 2600 feet. This well and Schermerhorn No. 2-A Roberts drilled quickly to the pays with rotary while Amerada was delayed by casing off production in the 2600-foot horizon with 6-inch pipe.

In Pecos county, Mid-Kansas and Transcontinental No. 3 M. A. Smith was completed Saturday at 1735 feet in hard grey lime, flowing 246 barrels of oil in 15 minutes through a cracked 4-inch line. This was at the rate of 984 barrels hourly or 13,616 barrels a day. The new producer is 330 feet from the north line and 1330 feet from the west line of section 31, block 104, G.C.&S.F. Ry. Co. survey. It topped the pay at 1480 feet and made its first flow at 1581 feet.

Mankins Test Real Producer

Jim Turner and associates No. 1 J. D. Lyles located 1,470 feet west and 150 feet south of the northeast corner of block 7, Hooper-Wade sub-division southwest of Mankins in Archer county, is a semi-completed condition and swabbing at the rate of 125 barrels per day.

The well which is in absolute wildcat, and in a territory surrounded by many dry holes, encountered the sand at 1,685 feet and was drilled five feet into.

The completion of the well here which is also about two miles northwest of the Waite Phillips pool in the Horrits survey, will be the means of a re-drilling of a number of wells heretofore completed as dry holes at a lesser depth on the adjoining tracts.

NEW OKLAHOMA TOWN STARTED

Dome City Development Is Put Under Way

HOBART, Okla., Oct. 22. (UP)—Definite steps toward the development of Oklahoma's newest town were started today when 20 acres were secured for the proposed oil town of Dome City, nine miles east of here.

Plans call for 20 more acres to be secured shortly by the Cunnyngham and Lyon company of Enid, promoters.

Oil interest was intensified in Kiowa county by the placing of the Alexander, Oberneyer, and Taylor oil well, recently brought in on pump today. It is said to be making 75 barrels an hour.

In order to aid oil men in the development of the field east of here, the industrial committee of the chamber of commerce plans to make a survey of the roads leading from Hobart to the new well. It has already secured information regarding sites and prices adjoining railroad rights-of-way.

Although no large oil companies have announced plans to drill wells in this vicinity, several important companies, including Roxana, hold leases.

The new town is one mile north of the present well and located on the farm of W. C. Kelsey, president of the Farmer's and Merchants' bank here.

KELSEY REFUSES USE OF HIS NAME

HOBART, Okla., Oct. 22. (UP)—When friends of W. C. Kelsey, bank president here, suggested the new oil town on his farm be named "Kelseyville" or some other appropriate name after him, he replied, "No sir, no Kelsey alley for me."

TEXAS COMPANY-HAYTER

The Texas company made location for two more wells, Nos. 9 and 10 W. O. Hayter, to be drilled in the northeast portion of its lease in section 2409, T. E. L. survey, southwest Archer county.

NORTH ARCHER COUNTY

Will C. Young has made location for his No. A-1 W. H. Taylor test, to be drilled 150 feet north and east of southwest corner of northeast quarter of S. P. R. R. survey, abstract 498, Archer county.

NORTHWEST OF COMAL POOL

Frank P. Rose will put down a test for his No. 1 Jack Parley, 1140 feet west, and 1170 feet north of the southeast corner of block 39, Dallas county school lands northwest of Comac pool in Archer county.

NORTHWEST COOKE COUNTY

The Pure Oil company has made location for its No. 2 J. C. Embry test to be drilled 330 feet east, 150 feet north of southwest corner of T. J. Moss survey, abstract 736, northwest Cooke county.

CREATH AND KELL LOCATION

Creath and Kell made locations and will start drilling in the next day or two on their tract in north Young county. No. 1 C. F. Wright, a 775 foot test, will be drilled 1243 feet north, 150 feet west of the southeast corner of the west 132½ acres out of section 1500, T. E. L. survey. No. 1 J. M. Nall will be put down 1452 feet east, and 1750 feet south of the northwest corner of section 1997, T. E. L. survey, and one half mile northwest of Loving townsite in Young county.

BACK TO DITCH

On account of shortage of water from its south Archer source, the Gulf Production company in order to supply the various companies connected with its water system has installed a pump and will use water obtained from the irrigation ditch near the Freeman-Hampton pool.

GRAYSON COUNTY LOCATION

E. Price and associates will put down a wildcat test, and have erected a derrick 450 feet south, 150 feet west of the northeast corner of T. Tobey survey No. 34, abstract 1249, Grayson county, Texas.

ASCOT OIL COMPANY

The Ascot Oil company will put down a test 102 feet north and 150 feet east of southwest corner of northwest quarter, of block 25, J. L. Jackson land in Denton county school lands in the Holliday area, Wichita county.

MARVIN SMITH-GRUBBS

Marvin Smith and associates No. 1 J. J. Grubbs, is located 150 feet south, and 1716 feet east of northwest corner of section 647, T. E. L. survey, about 3 miles south of Jean in Young county.

NORTHWEST OF OLNEY

Petroleum Producers company made location for its No. 1 J. R. Jackson test 890 feet north and 150 feet west of southeast corner of block B-18, Crawford Pasture subdivision in the Bext pool northwest of Olney in north Young county.

SUNFLOWER IN COOKE

The Sunflower Oil company No. 1 S. H. Dennis located in S. Hernandes survey, abstract 437, Cooke county, has spudded in and is drilling 400 feet.

FOARD COUNTY WILDCAT

The Texana Petroleum-Fain-McGaha No. 3 L. F. Mathews, located in section 3, G. C. & F. survey, abstract 117, Foard county, is drilling at 510 feet in blue shale.

JACK COUNTY LOCATION

Kizer and Duffy have erected a derrick and will put down their No. 1 Jones estate to be located 2151 feet west and 607 feet south of northeast corner of Mathew Mabin survey, abstract 413, Jack county.

Body Of Murdered Man Is Identified

ANADARKO, Okla., Oct. 22 (UP)—The body of a man, apparently about 30 years old, found on the road 7 miles north and a mile east of Eakly, near here, Saturday night, still was unidentified today.

The man had been murdered, according to the sheriff of Caddo county. A bullet wound in his neck and right shoulder was the cause of his death. A trail of blood indicated that he had walked about 75 feet from the time he was shot until he fell. There was no evidence of a struggle, the sheriff said.

No motive for the murder had been attached today, the sheriff said. The man wore khaki trousers and a light shirt.

SALT CREEK OIL DELIVERY ENDS

Federal Leases Cut Off From Sinclair

CASPER, Wyo., Oct. 22. (AP)—Delivery of all from the Salt Creek field, 40 miles north of here, to the Sinclair Crude Oil Purchasing company was stopped at 7 a. m. today in compliance with the order issued last Wednesday by Secretary of the Interior Roy O. West, after the oil royalty contract had been held invalid by a ruling by United States Attorney General Sargent.

The federal geological survey in a formal announcement today stated the government had elected to take its royalties from the posted Mid-Continent price with a two per cent deduction from the standard barrel in accordance with the present field practice in Salt Creek.

This means the operators will pay cash for oil from the wells.

This arrangement, the geological survey said, would continue in effect 30 days after new contracts are signed. The biological survey stated bids for royalty oil on the Salt Creek field probably will not be called for until after the first of the year, the time set by the interior secretary in a telegram to the survey here as the "most practicable."

Come now and let us reason together, saith the Lord.—Isa. 1:18.

As I understand it, Christianity is above all religions, and religion is not a method, it is a life, a higher and supernatural life, mystical in its root and practical in its fruits, a communion with God, a calm and deep enthusiasm, a love which radiates, a force which acts, a happiness which overflows.

The Day Book of a New Yorker

By GRANT DIXON

NEW YORK, Oct. 22.—A much overrated means of advertising is the media via the sandwich man. However, there are a number of these fellows about town who have built up a clientele with small retailers. Their price is usually three dollars a day for prowling about the crowded districts with a sign fore and aft. Recently, one was seen walking around with the sandwich boards but no copy theron. "What's the big idea?" inquired the man who was footing the bill. "Where's my ad?"

"Oh, I got your ad all right boss, but you see this is my dinner hour and I never display during that time." And so the business was built up.

Down in the financial district there is a pipe concern that will renovate a pipe while you wait. The charge is a quarter and the operation takes about 10 minutes. This department is run at a loss but the indirect benefits that accrue keep the shop going. While you wait, the clerks have a good opportunity to extoll the merits of their pipes and special blend tobacco. They are artists in their line and it is seldom a person gets away without making a purchase.

Germany has been amazed by the news that prohibitionist America grows ten times as many grapes as the Fatherland and that Kalamazoo wine of 1920 has excellent quality. It is estimated that United States is now producing 55,000,000 gallons of wine annually, or 10,000,000 gallons more than in pre-prohibition times. The Italian-Americans are great consumers of grapes, and the fruit and grocery stores in Brooklyn, where the Italian colony is the thickest, do a big business in this delicacy. It seems every housewife makes her own wine. Another unusual thing about this section is that the dining room and kitchen, in many of the homes, are in the cellar. They are well equipped and furnished with good taste, which adds to the gastronomic delights that are served.

A large department store, instead of displaying merchandise in their windows, will, for the next 10 days, show huge six foot photostats of the store taken from all angles, from the tops of the buildings to elevator shafts. Inside the store, more than two hundred framed pictures of all departments are hung throughout. The shoe department in this establishment is unique to say the least. But to return to the window displays, they are attracting much favorable attention and will no doubt be copied in many other cities. It is the custom in large stores to sell the window space to various departments and this revenue amounts to considerable throughout the year. With this treatment of window display this income is dispensed with, but if there is a charge, I suppose the advertising department stands the bill. They usually do.

The Modern Explorer

HENRY FORD and Harvey Firestone are starting vast plantations, in Brazil and Liberia respectively, to get their own supply of rubber. Meanwhile, Prof. Fritz Hofmann of Germany believes he has found a way of making rubber synthetically from coal by-products.

Professor Hofmann will report on his experiments at a conference at the Carnegie Institute of Technology, Pittsburgh, next month. At present it is believed that his method would not be commercially practical; but, as President Baker of Carnegie Tech points out, "what today is only a research worker's abstraction may tomorrow be the basis of a new industry."

This remark illustrates the way in which modern civilization differs from all former periods of history.

Time was when the advance of civilization depended on the rovers—the men who left the settled, established regions and ventured into unknown lands, looking for gold mines, fertile farm lands, tracts of timber, sites for big cities. They expanded the world's horizons, wiped the old boundaries off the map and opened for thousands of people the opportunity to forget their discouragements and make a new start in a different scene.

That sort of thing has pretty nearly ended now. The Oregon Trail is no longer a dangerous, glamorous pathway through a land of dangers; it is an easy ride on luxurious railroad trains—or, if you prefer, by airplane. Byrd has gone to explore unsettled lands, to be sure, but nobody expects a rush of prospectors or homesteaders to follow him. Our horizons cannot recede much farther. Lindbergh could reach them all overnight.

Instead our pioneers and explorers have gone into the laboratory. Our hope of material progress now rests not on the men who seek new lands, but on men who seek new combinations in the bottoms of test tubes.

In the old days the boy who wanted to grow up to be a builder of new cities was apt to prepare for his work by becoming a sailor or a soldier. Now he enters a school of technology.

A cheap substitute for rubber would work an economic revolution, just as the manufacture of artificial silk is beginning to turn eastern Tennessee into a region of great industries. Similarly, the development of synthetic products from cornstalks may yet make Iowa a land of mighty factories.

The man who holds the future in the hollow of his hands is the research specialist. He is the modern explorer. He misses, perhaps the color and epic zest of the earlier explorer; there are no dawn stained sails on purple seas for him, no limitless vistas opening from the tops of hard-fought mountains. But he is, nevertheless, a great pioneer. He shapes the lives of people yet unborn.

Undersea Tragedy

THE BUSINESS of sailing in submarines seems to be a highly risky business, no matter by whom it is conducted.

When the American submarine S-4 went down at Provincetown, following fairly closely on the loss of the S-51, there was spirited criticism of the navy department, and many people felt that submarine disasters seemed to be peculiarly an affliction of the American navy.

But since then other navies have had their tragedies, too. The Italians lost a large sub in the Mediterranean; and now the French submarine Owdine has been rammed and sunk by a merchant steamer.

The conclusion seems to be that a submarine is a risky affair, at best, and that tragedies will befall them once in a while in spite of the utmost care.

Motors in Garages

THE IMMINENT approach of cooler weather brings to mind one more warning that the motorist must keep in mind.

This warning has to do with the danger of asphyxiation from the carbon monoxide gas generated by an automobile engine. In the open air this gas is dissipated and has no dangers; in a closed garage, however, it is a deadly menace.

Never let your self "warm up" your motor by running the engine in the garage in the morning before you drive out. Never keep the motor running while doing repair work of any kind in the garage, unless there is a strong current of air running through the place. Carbon monoxide gas is odorless; don't depend on your nose to warn you of the danger. The best rule is never to run the motor inside a garage at all.

FREDERICK REMAINS PURITANICAL

Frederick is one of the very few cities of any size in the country which still has the "Sunday show" question under agitation.

The matter has been brought to the fore in Frederick again by the streams of people who are pouring every Sunday into other cities, for Sunday afternoon amusement. Wichita Falls, Vernon, Electra, Snyder and other nearby cities are reaping a golden harvest of dollars from Frederick and its trade territory, because they present some Sunday afternoon amusement—while Frederick, operating under Puritanical blue laws, has none.

STAY IN THERE

Charles Paddock, the great footracer, says "you must have fighting spirit to win." Now, Charles wasn't alluding to a fist fight. A fellow in that sort of a fracas may have an ideal fighting spirit but fail to win his battle. He means that one to succeed must have the determination to fight every obstacle that presents itself.

AL EXPOSES MYTH

In his speech at Sedalia, Mo., last night Governor Alfred E. Smith exploded the much vaunted Coolidge myth. The Democratic nominee shows conclusively, as it has been shown before, that the Coolidge administration has not been economical. The only reduction in governmental expenditures has come by the change of the nation from a war time to a peace time basis.

Naturally, during the war all governmental agencies were expanded and new activities necessarily were undertaken with a rapid rise in cost of government. At the end of the war it was obviously possible for the expenses of the government to be reduced. The principal reduction in expenses, as Governor Smith has pointed out, has been made possible by the conversion of wartime assets, saved by the Wilson administration at the close of the war.

The Room Under the Stairs

The Baffling Story of a Man Who Read of His Own Murder

By HERMAN LANDON

Copyright by G. Howard Watt — Serialized by Ledger Syndicate

Synopsis of Preceding Installments

Thomas Dean, successful young novelist, has hidden from the world his old name Paul Forrester, because the latter was connected with a self-defense killing out West, and Dean still carries the scar of that encounter. But a series of circumstances grips him into a vortex of mysteries. First he reads a deathbed confession of the murder of Paul Forrester five years before, made by Martin Lamont, western business man, on a visit to New York, and witnessed by Dennis Littleby, famous lawyer, and Dr. John Ballinger, well-known doctor. Then a mysterious lady, Viola Gray, visits him and Lieutenant Shane finds the remains of the murdered man in "The Room Under the Stairs," of Dean's deserted family home. A watch marked "P. F." completes the identification, although Dean finds pieces of another watch crystal at the scene of the murder. Later an attempt is made on his life by Freddie Mills, a hired assassin, and Dean's subsequent appearance alive produces a startling effect on both Miss Gray and Dr. Ballinger. Finally, after Dean has heard a woman's screams through the dying man's telephone, Lamont is murdered, and Dean trails the lawyer to a hidden room in the latter's house. There he finds Shirley Lamont, the dead man's daughter, held as prisoner and is discovered by Littleby who warns them both and mysteriously vanishes. Trapped together they can find no way out of the secret room. Meantime, Lieutenant Shane finds Miss Gray in "The Room Under the Stairs" at the old Forrester home and shares her discovery of an important piece of paper. Together they set out for Littleby's house. Trapped together Dean and Shirley are nearly suffocated by a gaseous cloud that descends on them in the secret room, but a sudden ring at their telephone shows that Littleby is willing to make terms.

Dean's Choice

Disobeying his injunction, Miss Lamont followed him through the poisonous haze to the stand where the telephone stood. He could see nothing but a swimming effluvium, but the continued summons of the buzzer guided his steps.

"Hope you have followed my suggestion," said Littleby's voice when he had answered, "and given solemn consideration to the uncertainties of life."

Dean did not answer. There was a humid husk in his throat that seemed to render economy of words advisable.

"I adopted the one you gave me—the one about the broken watch. I have meditated upon it for upward of an hour, with considerable profit to myself. By the way, Dean I trust you and Miss Lamont are comfortable?"

"Far more so than you will be a few hours from now."

The lawyer chuckled in a satisfied way. "Glad to hear it, even though your voice sounds as if you weren't feeling just right. Perhaps you had better let Dr. Ballinger look you over. I hope the air agrees with you."

"It has certain advantages over the air at Sing Sing, which you will be sampling soon."

"Good joke, Dean. Glad to know that you are keeping up your spirits while under my roof. There's nothing palatial about my humble home, but it has several things to commend it. Ever hear of the Nine Oaks?"

"Never."

"Well, there is nothing in a name. The Nine Oaks was a notorious hotel and gambling house some years ago—long enough ago so that most people have happily forgotten about it. It was frequented by a wealthy and reckless crowd from Manhattan and Brooklyn, who didn't mind going a few miles out of their way for the kind of amusement they craved. The Nine Oaks had several advantages that made up for its isolated surroundings. It was genteel, quiet, exclusive and safe against intrusion by the police. The reason for that was that it was equipped with a number of ingeniously contrived emergency exits. The proprietor had many a good laugh at the expense of the police. You would never guess it, Dean, but the cozy little nook you and Miss Lamont are now occupying was one of the gambling halls of the Nine Oaks.

"That explains it," said Dean dryly.

"Thought you would be interested. I bought the house for a song a number of years ago. The business had taken a sudden and incomprehensible slump, and the proprietor had his eye on greener fields. I remodeled the house into a private residence, but did not disturb the emergency exits. Mighty glad that I didn't. They have proved a great convenience.

"Moreover, one can enjoy the utmost degree of privacy in such a room as you are now occupying. Most of the people who frequented the Nine Oaks in the old days are widely scattered, and the rest have forgotten that such a place existed. A stranger could search the house from cellar to attic without finding the room in which you and Miss Lamont are now enjoying my hospitality. See the point, Dean?"

"Perfectly."

"Dear me, your voice does not sound at all well. As I was saying, anyone occupying the room in which you now are is assured of the highest degree of privacy. His enemies or friends could look high and low for him without ever finding him. If he should fall asleep and, for some mysterious reason, fail to wake up, his remains would rest in peace until Gabriel blows his horn or the house burns down. You follow me?"

"It is perfectly clear," said Dean huskily. Behind him he could hear Miss Lamont's labored breathing, warning him that she was hearing every word. "Architecture is a fascinating subject, but suppose we get to the point?"

"As you like. It is now a quarter after four. You have nearly a whole hour in which to consider things. We agreed that you should have until a quarter past five, you know. By that time the atmosphere you are inhaling will, I fear, not be conducive to clear thinking. In fact, you will not think at all. You will have ceased to exist. Did you ever hear of arselene?"

"Never."

"No matter. It is a compound of arsenic, acetylene gas and certain other ingredients that are less well known. You are experiencing the effects of it now. It is flowing into the room where you are through an old gas connection far above your reach in the ceiling. As yet the pressure is very slight, but it shall be increased directly, supplying just the quantity required to bring about the desired result at about a quarter past five. Hope I am making myself clear?"

"Oh, very clear," said Dean, exasperated by his calm and faintly mocking tones. "Incidentally, it is a lucky thing for you that we are at opposite ends of a telephone wire."

"Ha! You will not feel quite so belligerent in a little while, Dean. And don't think I am doing this to amuse myself, or to punish you for your silly meddling in matters that don't concern you. My reasons are sound and practical; how practical they are you can not even guess. As for Miss Lamont, she is merely a victim of circumstances. It is unfortunate she must be dragged in, but necessity knows no law. Charming creature—eh, Dean? The kind of woman that arouses all the instincts of chivalry in a man."

"Now you are discussing things that you know nothing about."

"That was a rather neat retort, but not very exact. I am talking of the average man, the type to which you belong. I understand his instincts perfectly.

"It is only the average man who bothers with such silly notions as chivalry. The superior man has no time for such nonsense. To prove that I am right in classifying you as an average person, let me ask you a question. You would sacrifice a great deal if thereby you could extricate Miss Lamont from her predicament, wouldn't you?"

"Of course," said Dean matter-of-factly.

"Just as I thought. You would do it even at the expense of your own personal safety, I take it?"

"Any man would."

"Provided he is the average sort of man, the kind whose head is full of lofty moonshine. All right, Dean, I'll put the average man in you to the test. As the situation is at present, nothing on earth can save either of you. Miss Lamont may leave my house unharmed on two conditions."

Dean leaned against the table to steady himself. There was a din in his head like that of a distant waterfall. He felt dizzy and very hot, and the voice at the other end of the wire had a remote and illusory sound. He could perceive only two things clearly, the tremulous nearness of the girl and the fact that Littleby had just said something about conditions.

"Name them," he said hoarsely.

"The first is quite simple. You have in your possession two little pieces of glass. Your home was searched this afternoon, but the pieces were not found. They are of no great importance, but on the whole I should prefer to have them."

Dean smiled despite his physical and mental distress. Evidently his veiled hint about the broken watch had exerted the desired effect. The fragments of glass were locked up in a small drawer in his desk, safely enough hidden so that even a fairly thorough search would not be apt to reveal them.

"And the second?" he asked.

"The second will be the test of your chivalry. There is a little drawer directly beneath the surface of the telephone stand. You can easily touch it by reaching out your hand. In the drawer is a pistol which I carelessly neglected to remove. Or, rather, I left it there for a purpose entirely different from my present one. The pistol contains but a single bullet."

"Yes?" said Dean dazedly.

A little pause intervened before the lawyer spoke again. Dean, with a confused churning in his head, felt the girl leaning anxiously toward him.

"Remember," said Littleby, "that as matters now stand, both of you will be dead inside an hour. If you follow my advice, one of you will live. Being a man of chivalrous instincts"—the words were drawled out with a sarcastic intonation—"you prefer, I am certain, that Miss Lamont should be the survivor."

"Naturally."

"I knew you would see it that way. It is the only sensible view to take under the circumstances. Now listen carefully. Remain exactly where you are. Place the telephone on the stand, but do not hang up the receiver.

"Now reach into the little drawer under the top of the stand and take out the pistol. Point it at your heart or your temple—any vital point that you prefer. Then shoot. I shall wait at this end until I hear the shot. It will not prove that you have followed my instructions, but I shall know. Trickery will be of no avail. If you wish to save Miss Lamont's life I advise you to do exactly as I say. If the arrangement appears melodramatic to you, remember that I have the best practical reasons for disposing of the situation in this way. I am waiting."

The flow of words on the wire, with their wildly fantastic meaning, ceased. Dean's thoughts groped dazedly through the ensuing pause. There was a choking constriction at his throat. His body was burned with a strange fever. His limping thoughts seemed to center round a single obsession. There was a lethal breath in the air. * * * In a little while both of them would be dead. If he must die anyway, what mattered it how the end came? A pistol shot or a slow succumbing to venomous vapors—there was not much choice. But the first method would spare Lee's life, while the second would kill them both. Two lives or one? The issue seemed simple, the conclusion inevitable.

A hand brushed his hand, and an odd feeling of ecstasy broke through the black tumult that surrounded him. Then a crack sounded, malignantly sharp, followed by a flash of fire. A blistering agony ripped his flesh, drawing a cry of pain from his lips. With a thunder of crashing noises in his ear he sank to the floor.

"Chivalry Lives!"

The angry, thunderous roar of a pistol * * * a short, fragmentary cry that ended curiously in the middle * * * the thud of a body striking the floor * * * a jangling medley of small sounds. Then silence.

Dennis Littleby stood stonily motionless, with receiver pressed to his ear. The lines of his face were drawn taut, closed up into a blank rigidity signifying a terrific intentness that left no ripple on the surface, only a still reflexive glow in the narrow-lidded eyes.

Very slowly, as if the movement were entirely detached from his thoughts, he replaced the receiver on the hook. But he remained a while longer beside the telephone, his gaunt form bent slightly forward, his eyes fixed on the instrument as if he were listening to reverberating echoes. As he stood there, scarcely breathing, the only sign of life about him was the slow flapping of his coattails in the fitful breeze coming in through the window, left open a few inches at the bottom.

Finally, with a slow nod, he emerged from his stupor-like stillness.

"Dean's dead," he mumbled, with a slight, contemptuous twist of the lips, "but chivalry lives."

The faint smile of derision lingered on his lips as he moved away from the telephone. For no apparent reason he opened the door, looked up and down the dimly lighted passage, listened for a moment, but heard no other sounds than the diminishing drone of the storm.

He closed the door, turned toward the window and, with hands dug deep into trouser pockets, jingled a few coins while he rocked slowly on his heels. The metallic tinkle seemed to suggest a pleasant thought.

"Fifteen million dollars," he mumbled slowly, with a little pause between the words. "That's what that shot was worth to me."

He gazed musingly out into the black night, darkening as the hour of dawn approached. The sneer on his lips changed into a gentle glow of gratification. There was an ecstatic look of greed in his eyes, a smile of pleasant anticipation on his long, thin lips, the smile of a man who is about to reap the reward of intricate calculating and patient scheming. The soul of Dennis Littleby, adroitly masked in his daily contacts with life, was being revealed to the four walls of his bedroom.

"Fifteen millions!" The soul of Dennis Littleby seemed to bask in the glow effused by the two words. "And the final coup came so easily, just as I was beginning to fear that everything was turning against me. It was a ticklish situation, requiring stern measures, but I won. Thanks to chivalry!"

Thanks, World

Oh, good old world of friendly mien,
Of helpful, shiny days,
Your many helping hands I've seen,
A-smoothing out my ways.
You've healed my hurts and helped me bear
My ill luck's every sting;
You've turned to sunshine every care,
And I've not done a thing.

You give me laughter, joy, and glee,
To chase the cares away;
You give my working time to me;
You give me time to play.
You give my faithful friends to me;
You make my troubles few.
I'm glad I'm living, world; You see,
I give my thanks to you.

FOUR BISHOPS ARE CONFIRMED

Episcopal Deputies Place Approval on Names

WASHINGTON, Oct. 22. (AP)—The house of deputies of the Episcopal church, in general convention here today, confirmed the elections of four missionary bishops Saturday by the house of bishops. The new bishops are:

Wyoming, the Rev. George H. Thomas, rector of St. Paul's church, Chicago; for Nevada, the Rev. Frederick B. Goodwin of Warsaw, Va.; for southern Brazil, the Rt. Rev. W. M. Thomas, now suffragan bishop to southern Brazil; for Tohoku, Japan, the Rev. Norman S. Binsted, now minister of the English speaking congregation at Tokyo.

The house of bishops took up problems of its membership and approved a resolution eliminating the requirements for election to the position of presiding bishop, which had stipulated that candidates must be those having jurisdiction within the United States. By this action, missionary co-adjutor and suffragan bishops are eligible to the highest posts in the American church.

An amendment to the constitution sought by Bishop William T. Manning of New York, providing for the transfer of bishops to another diocese or district, was lost by a big margin, as was a proposal relating to the election of co-adjutor bishops to other jurisdictions.

Oklahoma Takes Steps To Curb Meningitis

FULTON, Mo., Oct. 22. (INS)—The state board of health of Oklahoma, to which state 53 students of the Missouri Military academy at Mexico, Mo., returned last week when spinal meningitis broke out, resulting in the death of one student and the illness of another, has announced that it will take immediate steps to determine if any of the youths are carriers of the ferm with the idea of preventing its spread in that state, according to advices received here.

All of the students of the institution to the number of several hundred were sent home immediately after the disease was discovered and the school dismissed for two weeks.

The football schedule of the team was cancelled.

Brookhart Says Hoover Is Farmer's True Friend

MOBERLY, Mo., Oct. 22. (UP)—Herbert Hoover is the friend of the farmers, declared Senator Smith W. Brookhart of Iowa, who blamed George N. Peek, farm leader, for spreading propaganda that the Republican presidential nominee is the arch enemy of the farmer.

Senator Brookhart spoke at the meeting here today of farmers in his campaign for the Republican national ticket. The hall in which he spoke was filled.

"Hoover, more than any other person," Brookhart declared, "had the insight to see that a high wheat price was necessary to farmers in a period of high prices and did all he could to obtain and hold a profitable figure for wheat.

Lone Bandit Takes $300 in Bank Raid

WICHITA, Kan., Oct. 22. (UP)—The Andover State bank of Andover, a small town near here, was robbed of between $300 and $400 this afternoon by a lone bandit who exchanged shots with Charles Bryant, cashier, who was alone in the bank.

About five planes from the Travelair and Wasp companies immediately went to search for the bandit as soon as the report of the holdup was broadcast.

Wheat Marketing Plan Is Offered by Yoakum

NEW YORK, Oct. 22. (UP)—B. F. Yoakum, chairman of the Empire Bond and Mortgage company, has submitted a marketing plan to all wheat cooperatives which he believes can be extended to other farm commodities.

He proposed the enactment of a general farm marketing plan under which producers of any standard farm product can organize farmer controlled stabilization corporations to conduct marketing. Each commodity, Yoakum said, should be organized as a separate commercial unit.

DESERTION CHARGE

OKLAHOMA CITY, Oct. 22. (UP)—E. W. Sweeney, Lawton, was charged here today with wife and child abandonment. He was arraigned before a justice of the peace. He was released on $1,000 bond.

IF BACK HURTS BEGIN ON SALTS

No man or woman can make a mistake by flushing the kidneys occasionally, says a well-known authority. Too much rich food creates acids which clog the kidney pores so that they sluggishly filter or strain only part of the waste and poisons from the blood. Then you get sick. Rheumatism, headaches, liver trouble, nervousness, constipation, dizziness, sleeplessness, bladder disorders often come from sluggish kidneys.

The moment you feel a dull ache in the kidneys or your back hurts, or if the urine is cloudy, offensive, full of sediment, irregular of passage, or attended by a sensation of scalding, begin to drink soft water in quantities; also get about four ounces of Jad Salts from any reliable pharmacy and take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys may then act fine.

This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for years to help flush clogged kidneys and stimulate them to activity, also to help neutralize the acids in the system so they no longer cause irritation, thus often relieving bladder disorders.

Jad Salts is inexpensive and cannot injure; makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink, which everyone can take now and then to help keep the kidneys clean and the blood pure, thereby often preventing serious kidney complications.—Adv.

Health Value of Figs

In some part of Central Asia the fig tree was cultivated to a very high degree of perfection many centuries before recorded civilization. The edible part of the fruit is not arranged around a seed center as are most fruits, but is really a sweet fleshy receptacle for the hundreds of small flowerets arranged in its interior.

Because of the ease of propagating the fig from cuttings and its drought resisting ability, the fig tree was transported to, and cultivated throughout, all of the semi-tropical climates of the world. It was first introduced to the Americas by Spanish and Portuguese missionaries.

A chemical analysis of the fig shows that it closely resembles the chemical composition of human milk. Figs are one of the most alkaline-forming foods that we have and are therefore a valuable addition to the diet. The fig is one of the best foods that can be given children and is far superior to candy from a health standpoint.

Because of the many small seeds or carpels present, most people find figs highly laxative. To children and adults, figs are a nourishing food and wholesome medicine. Figs being a non-acid fruit can be combined with any other food, but containing so much sugar that they are likely to produce fermentation if eaten in large quantities with starchy foods, such as bread and cereals.

Only the unsulphured figs should be used. One must pay particular attention to this because many of the commercial figs are sulphured to keep them from spoiling and to bleach them. The white figs are especially likely to have been heavily sulphured because this greatly improves their appearance over the usual brownish color of sun-dried, unsulphured figs. Packaged figs are required by law to state whether or not they contain sulphur, but usually the words are written in such small letters as to escape attention unless the package is closely inspected.

Here are some methods of preparing figs which may be used for the sake of variety, since it is hard to make figs more delicious than they are in their natural condition.

Fig Drink

Cut dried figs in half and cover them with a large amount of water. Allow the figs to soak overnight and pressout the juice. This makes a very nourishing, laxative drink, and may be used either warm or cold.

Stewed Figs

The best stewed figs are made by soaking them overnight and cooking for about 10 minutes over a very slow fire. No sugar should be added. They may be served plain or with cream.

Uncooked Walnut-Fig Carmels

While I do not often recommend the use of candies, dried figs may be used by children as a dessert at the end of meals. A very tasty confection can be made by running equal parts of dried black figs and walnuts twice through a fine meat grinder, rolling out the paste which is produced, and cutting it into squares. By wrapping these squares in waxed paper they can be kept almost indefinitely. Raisins may be substituted for the walnuts in the above recipe.

Fig Whip

With a fork thoroughly mash six or seven fresh, peeled, ripe figs. Add a teaspoonful of honey. In a separate dish thoroughly beat one egg white until stiff enough not to pour out of the dish. Fold the figs into the beaten white without too much stirring. Serve as soon as possible, or bake for a few minutes in a slow oven until brown.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

Rupture Operation

Question—Mr. El. M. writes: "I would like to know if an operation for rupture is serious and if the person can be physically fit after the operation is performed. I do not think I am ruptured much, for I have been going without a truss for over seven years."

Answer: Most ruptures do not really break through the peritoneum wall and can be cured through developing the external abdominal muscles, meanwhile wearing a suitable truss with a flat pad which does not press directly into the weakened part. An operation is often advisable if the rupture is complete. This cannot be considered a serious operation but fails to get the desired results in a certain percentage of cases. Months afterwards the rupture is liable to again break open, tearing around the scars of the original opening. In your case, I am sure that using the setting-up exercises and, for a time, wearing a suitable truss, will bring about a complete cure.

Water Drinking

Question—Mrs. L. R. writes: "In your menus you do not mention any drinks. Is it enough to drink about six glasses of water during the day—mornings, between meals and at bed time?"

Answer: I believe it very important for one to drink as much water as desired. Thin people usually do not drink enough. The water should be used principally between meals rather than at mealtime.

Sick From Driving

Question—Mrs. E. E. writes: "After reading your article called 'Bile and the Blues,' I am sure that my son is suffering from the same thing. He is a bus driver, and after he has been driving for some length of time, he gets sick to the stomach. Do you think that driving is good for him?"

Answer: Of course, your son may have some liver disorder, but it is more than likely that he needs to wear properly fitted glasses. Defective eyesight is one of the principal causes of car sickness. Have him examined by a good optometrist and see if this trouble does not come from his eyes.

As Told by Them to FRANK E. NICHOLSON

By ARTHUR FLETCHER

In his younger days Art Fletcher used to dig ditches for his cookies, but he soon decided that unless one went far in ditch-digging he'd be in a rut, so Art convinced that his spade would never be a trump, discarded it for the baseball diamond. He's now with the New York Yankees.

Art Fletcher

"During our practice trip down South last spring," Fletcher told me, "we stopped at a hotel famed for its excellent cuisine. We had stopped there the year before. One of the boys who had married between trips brought his wife along. All the way down he told her about the wonderful fried chicken the hotel served. But at dinner the first night the much-talked-of dish was not in evidence.

"'Where's my chicken?' he asked somewhat irritated.

"'A dusky waiter leaned over, and in a voice that could be heard all over the room, said: "Ef you-all means de li'l gal wiff blue eyes an' fluffy hair, she doan wo'k heah no mo'."'

THE BOOK OF KNOWLEDGE "FAMOUS FIRST LADIES"

Mrs. Adams wrote interesting letters. In a letter to her sister she described the deplorable conditions in Washington in 1800-01. Roads were bad and the country around was wilderness. It was cold, and the White House was "so uncomfortable that thirteen fires had to be kept going in all parts of it or sleep in damp and wet places." Stagnant pools of water stood near the mansion.

Of all the mistresses of the White House, Dolly Madison, Dorothy Payne Madison, ruled there the longest. Madison was president from 1809-1817.

Besides, during the Jefferson regime, Dolly Madison frequently officiated at social functions in the absence of Jefferson's daughter.

Madison was Jefferson's secretary of state. Both of Jefferson's daughters were more interested in family than social affairs, so Dolly Madison often presided at receptions. In 1808 Madison was elected president and his wife gave herself over to winning over her husband's political enemies. Every one liked her; none could feel unkindly toward her. (To Be Continued)

INDIANS AND COYOTES DRILL FOR HARD GAMES THIS WEEK

TRIBE TO PLAY AT ARLINGTON

Collegians Clash Thursday; Pack to Vernon Saturday

By GORDON FULCHER

Getting back into training after a successful week-end in the first conference games of the season for both Wichita Falls Junior college and high school, the city teams began preparations for this week's contests.

The Junior college Indians meet an old and bitter rival when they journey to Arlington Thursday to engage the North Texas Aggies. The Coyotes also meet an ancient foe when they meet Vernon high school on the Lion's home field Saturday.

Scholastic standings and injuries again cripple the Junior college team when Piner Avis, Tom Black and Ed Howell failed last week to bring up weak studies and Gabbert Stephens emerged from the Ranger contest Friday with a broken hand.

Their Loss Felt

The loss of Stephens and Black will be seriously felt by the Indians in their encounter with the Farmers. Black is a regular guard while Stephens has been the mainstay of the Indian defense at end.

Arthur Pruett will doubtless replace Black while it seems assured that husky Bill McMillan will be shifted from the backfield to take Stephen's position at end.

From indications in Monday's practice Bill Habern will make good his boast to get into the game against the Farmers in spite of his broken arm. The scrapping little guard played a part of Friday's game with the broken wing in a steel and leather brace and other than a bit of awkwardness he was up to his old form in smearing plays.

Olin Dickey, star punter and passer, is eligible to compete against the Aggies after a week's absence on scholastic standings.

Jud Bell Out

Only one casualty was suffered by the Coyotes in their encounter with Electra Saturday. Jud Bell, regular lineman and punter, returned with leg injuries and it is doubtful that he will be able to participate in this week's game with the Lions.

The Coyote-Lion contest probably is arousing more interest among high school fans than will be felt toward any of the remaining games. The Vernon lads had a week of work without a game last week and will no doubt be in the pink of condition for the Pack's invasion.

The entire high school pep squad, which consists of 135 members, will attend the game in a body along with the school band. Numbers of Wichita Falls people have indicated that they will attend the Vernon game in an effort to cheer the Coyotes against their keen rivals.

Ponies Drill To Halt Air Attack

Rice's Success in Passing Alarms Ray Morrison

DALLAS, Oct. 22. (AP)—Coach Ray Morrison started today to build up a defense against his own best weapon of attack, the forward pass, as an aftermath to the difficulties S. M. U. encountered Saturday in stopping Rice's drive through the air.

Although routed, the Owls exhibited a smoothness in completing aerial heaves that either brands them as an excellent passing team or reveals that the Mustang defense is particularly weak against this method of advancing the ball. Fearful that it may be the latter, the Ponies faced a hard training program for the week as they prepared for Trinity university Saturday.

Stribling to Fight In Dallas Tonight

DALLAS, Oct. 22. (AP)—Back in 1925 Young Stribling, of the Georgia Striblings, dropped into San Antonio Texas, for a one-night stand and made an impression.

He was pitted against an inexperienced boxer, Jack League, and the Atlantan punched League silly for two or three rounds and then put on the finishing touches. Satisfied, Stribling and his parents moved on in search of more fights.

But League did not forget Stribling, he started in to make a fighter out of himself. He joined Jack Dempsey's camp for a month and came out with experience. Since then League has fought much. He recently gave Big Boy Peterson a cuffing, and has polished off several lesser lights.

Now he has signed to meet Stribling here Tuesday night in a 10-rounder.

Final October Games Thrill Grid Enthusiast

Football contests on Oct. 27, the last Saturday in the month, will be to football followers what the Fourth of July is to baseball enthusiasts. Battles that day will mark the midway point of the season. Some of the outstanding pairings for the day are Army-Yale, Minnesota-Iowa, and Virginia-Vanderbilt. Others are Princeton-Cornell, Dartmouth-Harvard, Syracuse-Penn State, Georgia Tech-North Carolina, Nebraska-Missouri, and Washington-Oregon Aggies.

DAILY DOPE

By

LARRY DAILEY

THE GOBLINS of football will be out next Saturday, and further downfall of "big" elevens is expected in final games of October. Another week of interesting intersectional and sectional clashes is in store for grid fans. The program of important clashes extends to white-lined fields of all sections. Only two Southwestern conference games are scheduled this week, however. Texas is figured to have little more than a practice game with Rice. Arkansas probably will extend Texas Aggies, but Bible's men should rally from the shock of their defeat by the Frog, to win.

THE OUTSTANDING game in the south is the clash of the unbeaten Vanderbilt machine with Virginia. Georgia Tech meets North Carolina and Georgia takes on Tulane. The big green team may give Georgia a battle. Tennessee, conqueror last week of Alabama, faces Washington and Lee and should win.

All Big Ten members engage in conference warfares. The unbeaten Iowa and Minnesota clubs clash in the feature. For years the cry at the Midway was "Stagg fears Purdue." It was traditional that Stagg should fear Purdue, even in the days when Chicago was powerful and the Boilermakers perennial losers. Now Stagg really has something to fear and it is expected that Pest Welch will lead Perdue to victory over a weak Maroon eleven. The champion Illini is expected to beat Northwestern. Indiana meets Ohio State in what looms as a gruelling battle. Michigan seems in for another lacing, this by Wisconsin.

IMPORTANT GAMES are booked in the Big Six, the new conference formed by the seceders from the Missouri Valley organization. Outstanding in the day's football in that region is the clash of the mighty Nebraska and Missouri hosts. Oklahoma and Kansas Aggies resume rivalry at Norman. Iowa State plays Kansas. Notre Dame's twice-beaten Irish meet Drake.

THE MOST NOTEWORTHY clash of the east and probably the outstanding game of the day in its bearing on national honors and the color of the contenders, is the meeting of Yale and Army. These mighty machines, strongest in the east, will furnish one of the hardest-fought battles of the year. Amherst meets Wesleyan in the first of "Little Three" championship struggles. Other important games of the day in the east are Carnegie Tech vs Pittsburgh, Colgate vs. New York U., Cornell vs. Princeton, Dartmouth vs. Harvard, Navy vs. Pennsylvania and Penn State vs. Syracuse.

THEY'LL LOOK TO DIXIE NOW

Candidates For All-American Appear in South

By ALAN GOULD

NEW YORK, Oct. 22. (AP)—The South has a flock of fleet ball-carriers, versatile as well in the arts of punting and passing, to be considered when the All-American frenzy breaks out later on.

Dixie broke into the All-American backfield last season with Bill Spears of Vanderbilt qualified among the country's best. Whether or not this has inspired this year's crop of Southern backs, it is a fact that the class of talent throughout the conference is unusually high.

Tech Has Great Star

Notre Dame's adherents thought they had at least two horsemen well equipped for the fray with Georgia Tech in Niemic and Chevigny, but most of the rough-riding last Saturday afternoo non Grant field was done by Warner Mizzell, triple threat ace of the Tech array, and a raw-boned, powerful sophomore who is known on the Atlanta campus as "father" Lumpkin.

Lumpkin, with two years more ahead of him, looks like one of the most sensational backfield products the South has yet had. A power on defense, Lumpkin hits the line with pile driving force, scattering tacklers in all directions or going on with two or three of the more persistent still attached to him.

Tennessee also has a spohomore star in Jimmy McEver, whose 98-yard run from kickoff for a touchdown against Alabama is as sensational an individual stunt as the season has witnessed.

More Flashes

"Ole Miss" boasts another sophomore ball-toter of unusual talent in Gerald Walker. Georgia has McCrary, a great fullback who was on the second All-American combination last year and a candidate for promotion this year. At Vanderbilt Captain Jimmy Armistead is doing his best to keep up the good work he shared with Spears last season.

Tulane has a hard-hitting back in Bill Banker, so has Virginia military in Captain "Ab" Barnes, while the Pony Express backfield of V. P. I., featuring the versatile Frank Peake, is a familiar threat.

Notre Dame may be able to ease a few aching limbs this week, when the Hoosiers meet Drake before starting their annual eastern campaign, but there is no balm on next Saturday's field for those other battered big fellows, Navy and Michigan. The middies run plump into Pennsylvania and trouble this week. Michigan, after three straight setbacks, will require heroic measures to prevent being given another downward shove b yWisconsin.

New Spudder Team To Be In 1929 Race

Galloway's Return As Skipper Pleases Fans

By LARRY DAILEY
Record News Sports Editor

Those dyed-in-the-wool baseball enthusiasts who preserve their keen interest in the game even when winter's chilling blasts are blasting, have much to discuss since the decisions of the solemn magnates were announced at their league meeting last Saturday. The announcement yesterday by President J. Alvin Gardner that Jim Galloway again will lead the Spudders was greeted with popular acclaim here though it wasn't unexpected.

When Gardner and Galloway made their trek last month to Oklahoma City to see that town's team play the Tulsa Oilers in the Western league playoff it was the tip of this writer in these columns that the two J. G.'s would pair off again—one to hire the players and the other to fire them. That is, to fire those who for various reasons are called but not chosen to play in regalia of Wichita Falls, Texas, U. S. A.

Winning Combination

Anyhow, it's a great combination, and when those wise heads get together you may be assured they are cooking up further misery for other Texas league clubs. Viva Gardner! Rah, rah Galloway.

Incidentally, we are pleased to note that Mr. and Mrs. Galloway are making their winter home here. This will enauble Jim to keep in close contact with Gardner. Jim is also going to improve the shining moments by engaging in business here. He is to be a partner of Pete Turgeon, that starry and popular second baseman, in an enterprise that will open within a month. I am not at liberty to disclose their business. It it is one that will be greeted joyously by sportsmen here and with such personalities as Jim and Pete behind it should go over big.

But to return to baseball. The Spudders will be contenders for the 1929 pennant. And with a rebuilt team. I make those statements on my own initiative. And my fingers aren't crossed. From two to four new pitchers, Debs Garms from Abilene probably at shortstop, Fitzgerald and Eldred the only holdover outfielders; that is briefly sketching the prospects. In addition to five players already sold, others will go via sale or trade. Pitcher Tom Estell and Outfielder Lyman Lamb won't play for Wichita Falls again. That is reiteration of a hunch exposed in this column a few weeks ago.

League Moves Interest

As for the Texas league meeting, it developed nothing unexpected, although a couple of moves were made of interest. One was the decision of the moguls to eliminate the split season—except by a vote of three-fourths of the club owners. The Texas loop will play its longest schedule in 1929—calling for 168 games, to open April 10 and close Sept. 8.

J. Doak Roberts' associates voted to increase the rookie rule to four from two—that is, each club must carry four tossers on its payroll who had not had previous class A experience. A very good move, one that will curtail heavy payrolls as it limits the number of high-priced veterans. Too, the presence of a few kids on each club will give the magnates more opportunity to develop players for sale. And furthermore, and to-wit, be it said that the class of ball won't deteriorate, but should, to the contrary, be faster. I'd rather have a few hustling kids on a club than fading veterans. The kids add zest to the game and it is no secret that play was slow last season, particularly in waning weeks of the campaign.

WARNIE SMITH HERE FOR GO

Dempse Moore Faces Rugged Oklahoman

Warnie Smith is in Wichita Falls. Warnie Smith, if you know your boxing history, is the iron man from Oklahoma. That is not a self-bestowed title, but one given him by admiring sports writers and fans, who have seen the Sooner assimilate punishment that would beat an ordinary man, and survive to win.

Welterweight, middleweight and now light heavyweight, boy and man, this Warnie Smith has met the best in those respective classes for 10 years. No less than a year ago he fought 10 rounds with George Courtney, the great Oklahoma middleweight titular contender. And though Courtney gave Warnie a proverbial "boxing lesson," the old boy still was on his feet, still fighting at the last bell.

It was only a few years ago that he was a headliner at Chicago and New York. And though he isn't the same as then, of course, Warnie Smith still can beat the average puncher. He still can sock hard, and he still can "take it."

Warnie is here to meet Dempse Moore, the Wichita Falls light heavyweight, in the main event of a boxing and mat show staged tomorrow night at Spudder park by Promoter Alec Ross.

STEERS WORK FOR OWL TILT

Longhorns Driven to Prevent Overconfidence

AUSTIN, Oct. 22 (AP).—Coach Littlefield sees "numerous errors" in the way his Texas university team plays football. Therefore, he is not going to let the Longhorns go to sleep just because they have an apparent easy mark in Rice institute at Houston Saturday.

Although practice will not be as strenuous as last week's in preparation for Arkansas university, it will be none the less earnest.

"This bunch has not begun to play real football yet," Littlefield said of the Longhorns. "Maybe they will later."

Jack Cowley and Frank Higgins are in the injury list and may be unavailable for the Rice game. Higgins has a broken shoulder. Nona Rees, who got some ribs cracked some time ago, may still be out of the game.

Jack Dunn, Boss Of Orioles, Dead

BALTIMORE, Oct. 22. (AP)—Jack Dunn, owner and manager of the Baltimore Orioles, seven times pennant winner in the International league, died suddenly today, while riding at the dog trials of the Maryland Field Trial association near Towson, a Baltimore suburb.

Dunn's death was believed to have been caused by a heart attack. Others attending the trials said he had exhibited intense excitement just after one of his dogs, Bell the Devil, had come to a beautiful point. A moment later, they reported, his head sagged forward and he slumped from his horse's back.

OCTOBER NEEDS

fill them economically by coming to Wichita Falls

Suburban Day

THURSDAY, OCTOBER 25

Life assumes new aspects in October. Falling leaves, comfy fires and the cry of wild geese are symbols of change.

Indoor living becomes highly enjoyable. There is a call for new furniture and new furnishings. It didn't make much difference about the threadbare davenport and frayed draperies in summer time. Nobody noticed them. Now they must be replaced if the house is to be attractive and inviting during the fall and winter months.

Whatever your needs in the home, or whatever your requirements in clothing, it will pay you in money saved and in satisfaction to avail yourself of the ample stocks of the Wichita Falls merchants.

Come to Wichita Falls Suburban Day, next Thursday, October 25. On that day Wichita Falls merchants will feature articles that are especially appropriate to the season.

Prices will be attractively low. The volume business of the Wichita Falls stores permits small margains of profit and price advantages to the customer that are not possible in smaller markets.

Variety in color, styles and patterns is another factor. The wholesome competition of many stores insures the shopper the opportunity of finding exactly what she wants.

In chinaware, luggage, furniture, radios, pianos, phonographs, lamps and art objects the same advantages await the critical buyer.

The Suburban Day advertisements will appear in The Wichita Daily Times and Record News. Read these issues carefully. Make a list of the things that interest you and where they may be had. It will be a great help to you when you do your Suburban Day shopping.

NEW YORK COTTON

NEW YORK, Oct. 22. (AP)—Early advances on a renewal of trade buying and covering by sellers of late last week were promoted by reports of low temperatures in the southwest in the cotton market here today, but after selling up to 19.85 for December, prices reacted partially under realizing and southern selling. December closed at 19.72, with the general market closing steady at net declines of 14 to 15 points.

The opening was firm at an advance of 8 to 13 points on reports of frost in some sections of Texas and Oklahoma, and the buying was stimulated by the forecasts pointing to freezing weather in north Oklahoma and frost again tonight in north Texas. There was trade buying as well as covering or rebuying by recent sellers with the market selling about 26 to 28 points net.

Higher before the end of the morning, October advanced to 20.04 making new high ground for the movement on that particular position, while March advanced to 19.77 or within 9 points of the high price touched last Thursday. The advance was checked by realizing at these figures, and selling became a little more active after the publication of the detailed weather reports. These showed freezing temperatures at only a couple of points in Texas, and, on the whole, seemed rather less unfavorable than anticipated by some of the early buyers.

There was also a little southern selling, while demand was comparatively after the early buying had been supplied and prices lost a little more than half their gain with October selling back to 19.90 and March to 19.64 during the afternoon. There was enough further trade buying or covering to steady the market at the decline, however, and last prices were a shade up from the lowest.

Business was quite active at the start but tapered off later in the day, when the market seemed to be waiting for further developments, and there may have been some evening-up of accounts owing to uncertainty as to the probable showing of the census ginning figures scheduled for publication on Thursday. The talk was that ginnings from October 1 to October 18 were probably heavy, but according to some of the local brokers ginnings to this date might be reconciled with various views of the crop on the basis of the percentages ginned during previous seasons.

NEW ORLEANS COTTON

NEW ORLEANS, Oct. 22. (AP)—Following an early advance of 29 to 31 points the cotton market turned weak later today under liquidation and realizing and lost about half the early gain. December contracts traded off from 19.31 to 19.16 closing at the latter figure, 16 points net higher. The general market closed steady at net advances of 15 to 19 points.

Liverpool cables were slightly lower than expected, but the local market practically ignored the trend of the English market, and opened steady at an advance of 10 to 14 points. The initial firmness was attributed to predictions of frost for the Texas Panhandle and Oklahoma. By the end of the first hour trade buying and covering forced December and January contracts to 19.31 and March 19.25, or 29 to 31 points above Saturday's close.

The higher prices attracted realizing and the market sagged 10 to 12 points and business tapered off at the decline. After mid-session selling became more aggressive due to fears of a large ginning total for the last period and to reports of an easier spot basis in the interior. Despite occasional rallies the market gradually eased off to 19.16 for December, 19.18 for January and 19.12 for March, or 13 to 15 points down from the highs. Prices fluctuated narrowly within the early range and the close was steady with final prices at or near the lowest.

Atlantic Refining Leads Market But Other Oil Remains Quiet

By BROADAN WALL

NEW YORK, Oct. 22. (US)—Atlantic Refining stood out in a more irregular stock market today, skyrocketing 13 points while liquidation held back most of the result of the list.

Steel, Can, General Motors and other standard industrials were subjected to steady profit-taking and although fairly well absorbed closed lower on the average. Byers added 17¾ to its gain, Kroger jumped over 4 and gains of 2 to 3 points were scored by a few other specialties.

The speed of the advance recently was responsible for a good deal of the offerings in recently active industrials as well as for the less aggressive operations by professionals that resulted in total turnover dropping below the 4,000,000-share level.

Decline in the call money rate to 6 per cent from a renewal of 6½ proved a sustaining influence. Coppers were well taken but the oils with the exception of Atlantic Refining remained rather dull. Rails were quiet and irregular again.

Earning Increase

Atlantic Refining's outstanding strength in the oil group was due to knowledge of the steady increase in earnings which will bring larger payment and split up of the shares. Most of the other oils remained a disappointment. Part of the reason is the leaders of the industry are giving most of their attention these days to stabilization of the industry rather than to the market price of their respective stocks. Scale buying orders are reported in for stocks of the larger companies.

Meetings of the last few days, it is learned, have resulted in formation of several committees to handle the different features of stabilization of production, refining, marketing, etc., which will report as soon as possible to the oil men as a group. At that time definite steps for formation of an oil export association will be taken.

Keith Albee Higher

Keith Albee moved higher following report that a deal through which it passes under control of Radio was definitely closed and that official announcement would be made in 24 hours. Next step in Radio expansion will be acquisition of control of Victor. Warner was prominent also with estimate made that earnings would run between $2,500,000 and $3,000,000 for the quarter. Chandler Cleveland stood out in the automobile group following issuance of bullish advice by leading wire house. Although working full time, it was claimed, Chandler could not keep up with orders.

Byers reflected the technical corner resulting from buying first told of here many months ago when its exclusive process for puddling wrought iron proved successful. There was talk of American Radiator interests seeking control. Cerro De Pasco registered another new high following report here of special developments being planned. Anaconda Copper, it was learned, is planning offer to get more Chile stock. Four Anaconda for five shares of Chile was the [illegible] spoken of. United States & Improvement Interests again were mentioned as responsible for the sustained strength of Utilities Power & Light.

Warned to Ease Up

That leading professionals did not take more aggressive steps to capitalize the lower call money rate and attract a larger following was accepted as further indication that they had been warned to "go easy." It is rumored that the money powers have held several important meetings recently and expressed disturbance over the increasing activity in the stock market. It is inferred that they do not want to take more drastic corrective measures than they have thus far especially for the next fortnight. So long as the market does not become a runaway affair as threatened last week, it was further hinted, bullish operations, both for pool and individuals, will not be interfered with.

Foreign exchange quieted with sterling holding to fractional price range throughout and closing unchanged. Cotton rallied as professionals covered but wheat and other commodities remained under pressure on receipt of further bearish weather advices.

MIDWESTERN REVIEW

KANSAS CITY, Oct. 22. (AP) (U.S.D.A.)—Weak to lower undertone prevailed around the 11-market circuit on most all classes of cattle and calves; the quota of well finished steers and yearlings was comparatively light and prices on choice offerings were little changed; other beef steers, stockers and feeders were on a weak to 25c lower basis. Yearling stockers and stock calves as is customary at this season of the year were in liberal supply; choice 1,029-pound South Dakota fed yearlings in Chicago scored $17.10, the day's top. Aggregate receipts were estimated at 135,900 against 150,037 a week ago and 140,625 the same day last year.

Although a general price decline of 10 to 15c was enforced on hogs, trade was featured by moderate activity. Chicago had a top of $9.75, the same as Saturday, while the best mark at St. Louis stopped at $9.50. Total offerings of around 113,700 were 21,800 heavier than last Monday and 2,700 larger than a year ago.

Fat lambs ruled steady to unevenly lower with a maximum loss of 25 to 50c at Chicago; aged stock were on a steady to easier price basis; choice native lambs at Chicago topped at $13.35 and the same figure was realized on choice westerns in Omaha; the supply approximated 153,300 against 153,928 a week ago and 142,211 a year ago.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Oct. 22. (AP)—12,000; 10 to 15c lower than Saturday's average; top $9.25 on 225 to 300-pound butchers. Stock pigs $8.00@9.35.

Cattle—25,000; calves 9,000; steers, good and choice 1,300 to 1,500 pounds $12.50@16.75; common and medium $8.00@12.50, fed yearlings 750 to 950 pounds $12.75@17.00; heifers, good and choice $12.25@15.75; cows, good and choice $8.15@11.25; common and medium $7.00@8.15; vealers (milk-fed) $8.00@14.00.

Sheep—9,000; steady to 10c lower; lambs, good and choice $12.25@13.25; medium $11.25@12.25; ewes, medium to choice $4.00@6.50; feeder lambs good and choice $12.00@13.00.

CHICAGO, Oct. 22. (AP)—Hogs—42,000; generally steady; top $9.75; butchers, medium to choice $9.15@9.75; pigs, medium to choice $8.35@9.00.

Cattle—25,000; calves, 3,000; steers and yearlings steady; stockers and feeders weak to 25c lower; vealers mostly $1.00 lower; steers, good and choice $14.00@17.35; fed yearlings, good choice $14.50@17.50; heifers, good choice $14.00@17.00; cows, good choice $9.00@11.75; bulls, good choice (beef) $9.50@10.75; vealers (milk-fed) $13.50@15.50.

Sheep—25,000; 25 to 50c lower than Friday; lambs, good and choice $12.25@13.35; ewes, medium to choice $6.50; feeder lambs $12.25@13.25.

FORT WORTH, Oct. 22. (AP)—Hogs—1,100; steady to 10c lower; top $9.25; bulk 190 to 210 pound hogs $9.15@9.25; stock pigs $7.00@7.25.

Cattle—13,000, including 5,000 calves; slaughter steers and stock steers slow, better grades fat steers and yearlings scarce; she stock and cutters slow, fully 25c lower; few sales better grades fat cows $8.00@8.50 and above; bulls weak to 25c lower; two carlots of strong weights at $7.25; heavy stock calves steady $11.25@12.00; slaughter calves $10.25@10.60.

Sheep—1,800; few sales steady; good shorn fat wethers at $7.50; fat wooled yearlings $10.50.

Grain

By THOMAS TEMPLE HOYNE

CHICAGO, Oct. 22. (US)—Grains showed a good deal of strength today—particularly corn. Wheat closed with a small loss. Corn finished higher and looked as if it is ready for a considerable advance.

At the end wheat was ⅛c to ⅜c lower; corn was up ⅝c to ⅝c⅝ oats were unchanged to ⅛c better; rye was unchanged to ⅛c higher.

Local professionals were intensely bearish on wheat. It opened lower and looked weak, but the pounding it got by short selling thoughout the session did not make much net impression on it.

Wheat got continued support. I am informed big eastern interests were the buyers and will continue to buy at around the present level. If that proves to be the case wheat could have a sharp advance, for the market seems to be heavily oversold.

The statistics on the wheat situation continue as bearish as ever, but the market may not respond further to them for a time. The visible supply showed increase of 6,134,000 bushels, but after it was posted the market worked upward instead of downward.

Corn was strong from the start. The December future opened up in the offers. It never got much higher during the trading period, but it would not break and the close, just under the offers, left the market in what looked to me to be a powerful position.

The visible supply showed a decrease on 1,167,000 bushels, and is now down well under 3,000,000. A couple of more weeks may carry it down to the vanishing point.

Corn looks like a real good thing for the bulls at the moment. Local traders have been selling it on the weakness in wheat. But from now on clearances of corn are likely to increase. A lot of corn has been bought for export.

We are coming close to the first of November and shortly thereafter the government report will show the farm reserves. They are apt to indicate as much as 100,000,000 bushels less corn in the country this year than last.

Fundamentalist Baptist Defends Right of Atheist To Express Views

LITTLE ROCK, Ark., Oct. 22. (AP)—Fundamentalist minister, the Rev. Ben M. Bogard, a missionary Baptist, defended in the pulpit last night the right of Charles Smith, New York, president of the American Association for the Advancement of Atheism, Inc., to express his views in public on atheism.

Rev. Bogard scored the city for arresting and fining Smith $25 for expressing "his opinion of the Bible," and the congregation immediately adopted a resolution condemning city authorities and upholding their pastor. Rev. Bogard is not a member of the Arkansas Baptist convention.

The two men were to have appeared on the same platform for a series of debates on the question "Is Evolution Godless," but the arrest and conviction of Smith, followed by his subsequent refusal to pay his fine, halted the plan. Rev. Bogard is said to be one of the most active supporters of the referendum now before the voters of Arkansas, to bar the teaching of evolution in all public schools and colleges. Smith came here about 10 days ago, to oppose the measure, and it was because of banners displayed in his headquarters here, held by the city to be in violation of a law against published blasphemy, that he was arrested and fined.

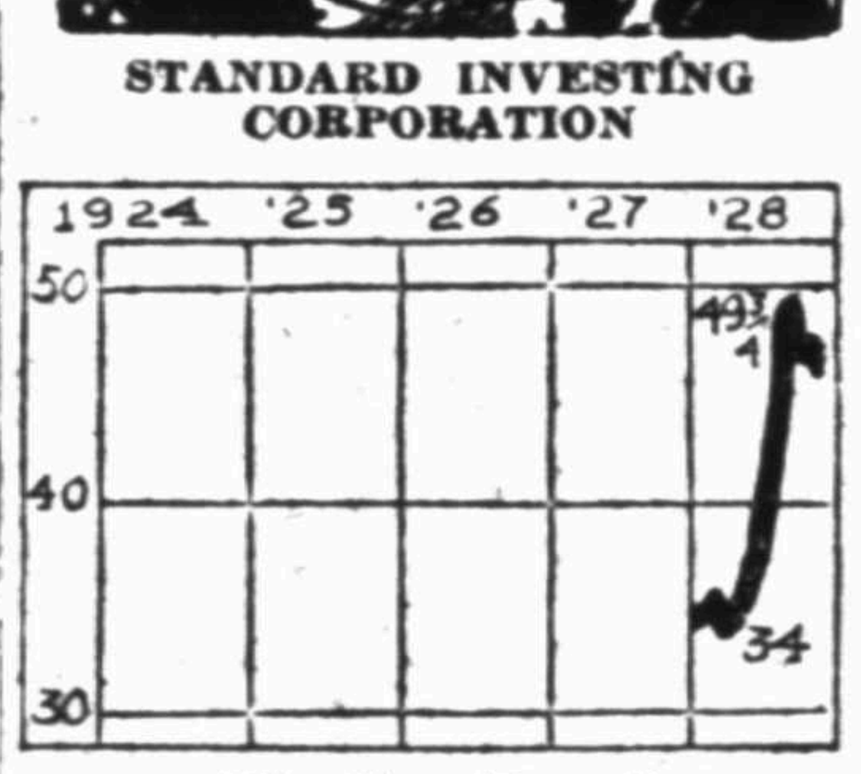

Smith is now on the sixth day of a hunger strike in protest of his fine.

The sermon of Rev. Bogard came after publication of an advertisement in a Little Rock newspaper yesterday, signed by 20 residents in which Rev. Bogart was criticizes for planning a debating tour of the state and Smith was called a "public nuisance."

STANDARD INVESTING CORPORATION

(Five-Year Record)

The Standard Investing corporation is now operating as an investment trust on broad lines. It was organized under the laws of Maryland, January 31, 1927, with powers to buy, sell and generally deal, in all securities domestic and foreign. At the end of its fiscal year, February 29, 1928, it held foreign bonds of the market value of $2,095,370, international bonds valued at $204,980, domestic stocks worth in the market $4,494,430 and foreign stocks and other securities bringing the total to $9,034,095.

The company has a funded debt of $4,500,000 in debenture bonds which carry warrants entitling the holder of $1,000 in debentures to 10 common shares of the company after April 2, 1928, and before March 1, 1927, without cost. Capital stock outstanding consists of 40,000 shares of $5.50 cumulative preferred of no par value and 145,132 shares of no par common. On May 24, 1928, the company retired its 15,000 shares of $6 preferred at $115 a share and accrued dividends.

Dividends were paid regularly on the $6 preferred to redemption. Dividends at the required rate have been paid on the $5.50 preferred since May 15, 1928. No dividends have been reported on the common.

Net income for the year ended February 29, 1928, amounted to $298,224 and profit and loss surplus to $253,224.

REESE ALLEN SELLS PLANT

Texas Company Buys Amarillo Refinery

AMARILLO, Oct. 22.—Sale of the Amarillo Refining company's Amarillo plant to the Texas company was announced here today by Reese S. Allen of Wichita Falls, president of the local company. Only the bare announcement of the transfer was made. Details of the transaction will be made known later by the Texas company, it is understood.

The plant has a capacity of 5,000 barrels daily and it is reported that this will be materially enlarged soon after the Texas company takes charge on Nov. 1.

An eight-inch pipe line is now under construction from Texas properties at Pampa, Gray county, to the plant.

The plant was built in 1919 and was the first to embody a successful method for refining so-called "sour" crude in the Panhandle.

The transfer of the refinery follows closely the announcement of an expansion program to be undertaken by the Texas company, a program which included the construction of a 3,000-barrels neighborhood refinery here.

In addition to the plant proper the Texas company also purchased 118 acres of land adjoining the refinery location.

Franco-British Note Published

PARIS, Oct. 22. (UP) — Correspondence between France and Great Britain which resulted in the controversial Franco-British naval accord was made public as an official "white paper" late today, revealing the anticipated agreement on four classes of vessels and shedding some light on the dispute over French army reserves.

The document ends with the rejection of the accord by the United States and Italy.

Limitation of first-line battleships, larger cruisers, aircraft carriers, and submarines was agreed upon but there was no formal naval accord. The basis of agreement merely was contained in the correspondence.

"An accord exists between London and Paris," the correspondence stated, "on the following basic limitation, which the disarmament conference is charged with treating, to include four classes of warships:

"First, ships of the line; that is, ships of more than 10,000 tons or armed with cannon of more than eight-inch caliber.

"Second, airplane carriers of more than 10,000.

"Third, surface ships of 10,000 tons or less armed with cannon of caliber superior to six inches to eight inches.

"Fourth, high seas submarines of more than 600 tons."

MRS. U. S. GRANT JR. TO VOTE FOR SMITH

NEW ORLEANS, La., Oct. 22. (UP)—Mrs. Ulysses S. Grant Jr., wife of the civil war general's son, will vote for Alfred E. Smith, she said in an interview here.

Estelle Taylor Declares Reports She Is Seriously Ill Are Exaggerated

NEW YORK, Oct. 22. (INS)—Estelle Taylor, screen star, who in private life is Mrs. Jack Dempsey, said today that reports that she is seriouslyy ill are exaggerated—that, on the contrary, she has virtually recovered from "over-tiredness" due to hard work in the play in which she and her husband were co-stars.

"I am going to undergo a slight operation for an infected tonsil in about a week," she said in her apartment this morning. "I have been resting since Jack's show left New York but I certainly have suffered no nervous breakdown. I just needed a slight rest and I am getting it.

"Jack and I will leave for the coast in about two weeks to work in pictures. It's getting so I seem to be denying my illness as often as Peggy Hopkins Joyce denies her engagements."

Dempsey came in today to New York from Hartford, Conn., where his show is playing, to visit his wife and to sign a contract with Warner brothers to perform in a "talkie." He said he expected to sign the contract in a day or two. He will leave the cast of his play "The Big Fight," which played four weeks on Broadway and a week in Boston, at the end of this week.

Miss Taylor said she and Dempsey will not play together in his forthcoming "talkie." She, too, has been offered a lead in a "talkie."

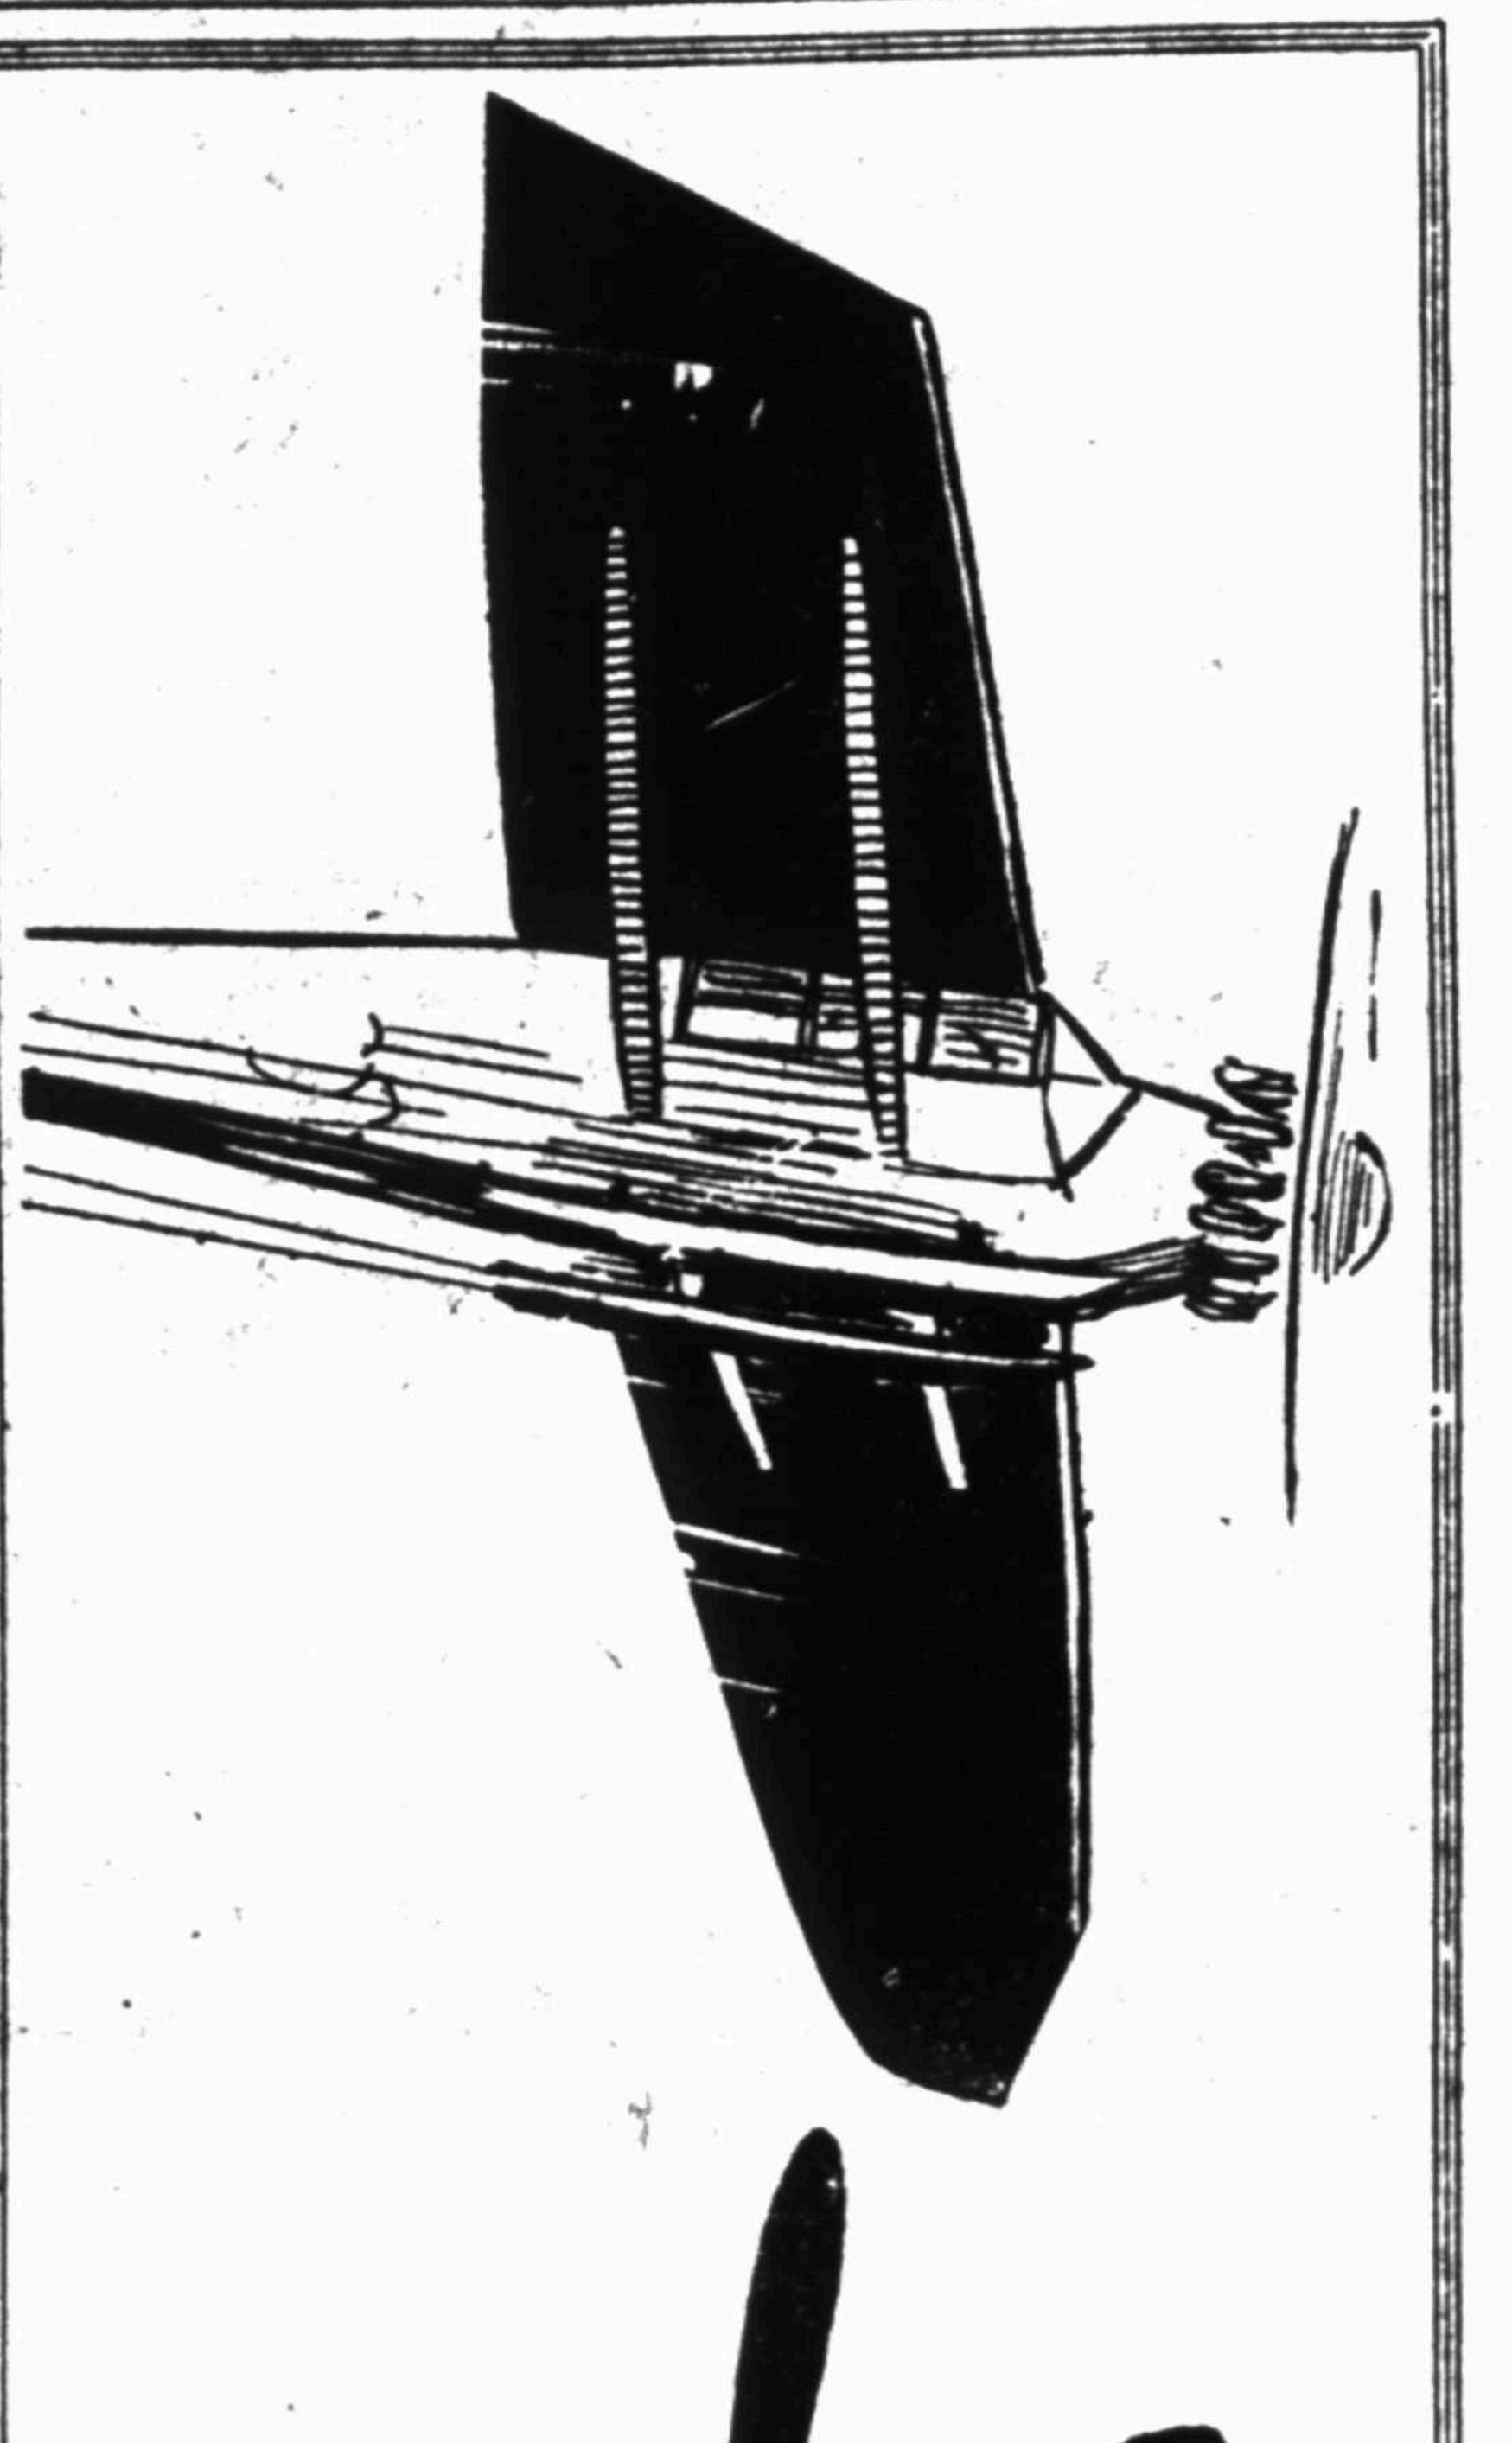

Jack's picture will be an original story based on a drama of the ring.

RESCUED!

For weeks he had been a prisoner — a white man in the heart of the jungle.

At his feet were piled logs that were meant for his funeral pyre.

Nearer, nearer, its purr now swelled to a roar. The savage warriors shouted a defiance at this strange, mechanical bird.

Once, twice it circled. The prisoner watched with horror a savage approach the dry wood at his feet with a flaming torch.

Once more the great man-made bird swept over. Then, flying low, it loosed its staccato death.

Machine guns!

CITY APPROVES ZOO BUILDING

Fairtrace Given Authority To Provide Shelter

The matter of providing winter quarters for animals in the Wichita Falls Municipal zoo at Scotland park was referred to George D. Fairtrace, city manager, when the city council met in regular weekly session Monday night.

Mr. Fairtrace presented the matter before the council, calling attention to the fact that animals in the zoo are suffering from the present cold wave and that unless shelter is provided immediately some might die if more severe cold weather should grip this section.

The city manager told members of the council he estimated the maximum cost of a wooden structure that would provide temporary shelter for the animals this year would be $2,000. He had planned a building that would measure 40 by 60 feet, he said.

Mr. Fairtrace was given power to act on the matter in the motion passed by the council.

T. A. Richardson was granted permission to operate a domino parlor at 3201 Grant street.

A public hearing on the opening of a gasoline filling station by Fred E. A. Darr at 907 Twelfth street was ordered closed. Mr. Darr was granted permission to operate the station.

C. B. Felder appeared before the council and asked permission to erect a 44 by 140 foot business building at the corner of Bluff and Twelfth. A public hearing on the matter will be held next Monday night.

Mr. Fairtrace was instructed to investigate the proposed platting of the J. B. Stokes addition on the Henrietta road.

An amendment to the city plumbing ordinance reducing the renewal license fee from $50 to $25 was passed on its second reading.

Rabbit's Leap May Cost Film Star His Sight

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 22. (US)—Raoul Walsh, film director, injured during a location trip to Utah when a jackrabbit, blinded by lights, leaped through the windshield of his car, returned here today. Specialists will be called in an effort to save his injured eye.

WICHITA FALLS CARPENTER HIGHLY PRAISES ORGATONE

"I Was Unable to Work at Times and Could Not Lie Down and Couldn't Rest—Orgatone Relieves Me," Says Maloney.

"Orgatone is certainly a wonderful medicine and I want to tell everybody what it has done for me," says J. D. Maloney, residing at Wichita Falls, Texas, P. O. box 710, well known and prominent citizen here in Wichita Falls. Mr. Maloney made this remarkable statement while talking with an Organtone representative in Allison's Drug store recently.

"For a long time I've suffered with stomach trouble and indigestion," he continued, "gas would form on my stomach and affect my heart and could not lie down and didn't get any rest at all at night. There's been many a day when I couldn't work from such misery. I was in a very nervous condition most all the time and could hardly eat anything. I had to be very careful of what I ate.

"While talking with an engineer in Denison, Texas, he advised me to take Orgatone, saying that it had relieved him of a serious condition and so I decided to try it. I am sure thankful he told me about it for I am not bothered with indigestion any more, as does not bother me any more and the soreness is all gone out of my stomach and it won't be long until I can eat anything I want and that certainly is saying a lot for I was unable to eat the things that I cared for. I can keep right on with my work now and am gaining in every way. Orgatone has been a help to me and I could tell the difference after the first few doses. I am glad to recommend it to my fellow sufferers, who are troubled like I was, for it does what they say it will."

Genuine Orgatone is sold in Wichita Falls exclusively by the Allison's Drug store, 716 Indiana Ave., under the personal direction of a special Orgatone representative who is meeting the public daily and charges nothing to explain his theories on health and hygiene.—Adv.

Thieves Rob Two Cash Registers

Cash registers were rifled in two Wichita Falls business establishments Monday during business hours, according to reports received at the police headquarters Monday night.

The Gulf Filling station at Tenth and Holliday streets was robbed and $21.75 taken while the employe in charge was out of the building around 7:30 o'clock.

The store of J. M. Taylor at 302 Flood avenue was short $5 at 5 o'clock Monday evening with no clue as to how the missing money was taken from the register.

A youth who was in Taylor's store near the time that the money was missed was being sought by police.

29 JAILED IN CHILDRESS RAID

Negro Severely Wounded In Exchange of Shots

CHILDRESS, Texas, Oct. 22. (AP)—Twenty-nine persons were under charges of gambling here today, as a result of a raid on a building near Locto, 20 miles north of here, in which a negro was reported to have been severely wounded in an exchange of shots.

G. O. P. SCORED BY WILLIAMS

Congressman Speaks At Auditorium

istrations the Monroe doctrine, which meant 'hands off,' became an unwritten law. Under a Democratic administration the World war was fought and more constructive legislation was put on books than under Republican administrations from Lincoln's assassination until the present time.

"The Democratic party is the only party that ever did anything for the people and it is the only party that ever will," Mr. Williams shouted and here he was interupted by an enthusiast in the audience who yelled 'Pour it on 'em.'

"I'm not pouring it on anybody," the speaker said, "but I'm going to give the facts. This is my fifth week I have devoted to the campaign that the people may know the facts."

Here the speaker dealt with "drys," many of whom he accused of hiding behind this issue to strike a blow at the Democratic presidential candidate because of his religious affiliations.

"I am one man who is personally dry and if you are half as dry living as you are talking there would need be no issue of this kind. I have no excuse for a man who votes dry and talks dry and then assists in violating the prohibition laws and I would quit talking dry and voting dry if I were not personally dry.

"Cox was wet and Mr. Coolidge and Mr. Hoover are just as wet as the Atlantic ocean and when you talk dry and vote dry when you are personally otherwise you are not deceiving anybody except yourself. You know what is the matter and you won't concede to Al Smith the privilege of worshiping his God as he sees fit.

"I am a Methodist and a consistent one in that I backslide consistently and I was taught that the pope was to be feared because he sought whom he might destroy. But that doesn't make it a fact. Who drove the Pilgrims out of England? No one but the Protestant church of England.

"You'll say the election of Al Smith will make the appointment of all Catholics when you know that the only man the president can appoint without the sanction of the senate is his private secretary. Why don't you come clean?

"You know, too, that congress is dry and that the failure of the Republican administration in enforcing the prohibition laws is enough to drive them out and you know they haven't tried to enforce it.

"I don't believe in raising the question of religion, but records will show that from the revolutionary war on down the Catholics have 'skinned' the Methodists, Baptists or anybody else in the number of volunteers. It was Jim Young who said, 'in Flanders' fields where poppies blow lies no Quaker.'

About Quaker Faith

"If Mr. Hoover is elected president and he is the Quaker he says he is what will he do in the time of trouble? I don't believe in this religious question, but Hoover is not specific on anything and no one knows how he stands on anything.

"On the other side is that Irishman, Al Smith, and you can understand how he stands every time he opens his mouth.

"Then you bring up Tammany. You say they were corrupt. Show me the time Boss Tweed stole the money and ran away to England. He did, alright, but it was Tammany who sent over and got him and he served a sentence for a felony. Talk about the corruption in Tammany, why, it is a Sunday school class in comparison to this bunch Hoover has been running with, and they have the nerve to come and ask you to take one of their gang and elevate him to the presidency!

"Do you know where the southern Democrats held their first convention in the reconstruction days? The only welcome hand was extended by Tammany, which was organized over 100 years ago. Austria never did place the heel of oppression on Hungary as did the North on the South after the civil war.

"If there is a sin no man can atone I believe it is the sin of ingratitude. You've heard your fathers tell of the struggles of the South. I've been all over this state and there is not a man who is more familiar with economic needs in this state than I am. You show me a man in the South today who is making money and I will contribute to the Hoover campaign fund. The values of the South have depreciated 30 millions since the war. Where is it? It is in the industrial centers of the North.

"Mr. Mellon said the other day that Mr. Hoover was well fitted to carry on the constructive policies of the government. He was right, but he should have said the 'destructive policies.' In Harding's administration 3,784 banks closed and there have been 60 per cent more failures since Wilson. That's privilege stuff and Hoover is well qualified to carry on the destructive policies because he has had seven years' training with the greatest bunch of brigands that ever sat in Washington.

"Who is Mr. Hoover? Mr. Cline said he was an engineer. He was. He engineered the wheat farmers out of 200 billions. People said Mr. Wilson sent him as food administrator but they are wrong. Mr. Wilson did not. He appointed Mr. Hoover at the request of the allies.

"You talk about clean stuff—you ought to read his record in those Chinese mines. But you don't care anything about the Chinese. Neither did Mr. Hoover.

"It is an insult to an intelligent farmer to ask him to vote for a man he knows won't give him farm relief. The Republicans have promised relief a long time but it never has come.

Coolidge Economy

"Talk about Coolidge economy. This year he has spent 335 millions more than he did the first year he was president. Does he say why? He is silent. Theodore Roosevelt is the only Republican president who ever did tell you anything.

"I have heard of an official mouthpiece for Coolidge but I have never seen him, but if Governor Smith is elected president he will go before the people with every vital question just as he has ever since he has been governor of New York.

"Mr. Borah is down at Dallas tonight telling them what a wonderful man Mr. Hoover is. We appropriated 10 millions for the starving children of Germany, but what did Mr. Hoover tell them? He told them to go to he——. Hoover refused to allow a shipment of canned milk for the hungry children of Germany—there is your humanitarian.

"Constructive business all over this country is at a standstill. It is all chain organizations with headquarters somewhere else. There will be no independent business in the next 10 years," he declared.

Then Mr. Williams took up the federal bank reserve system and he declared if there ever was a time when southern economics are prostrated it is now.

"The Democratic party is the only party that ever did anything for the south and it is the only one that ever will. You talk about voting against a man Tammany is supporting, too, when the present administration in the last seven years has made every decent man hang his head in shame. There was the Teapot Dome scandal and Daugherty hadn't been in office 90 days until he was peddling pardons like merchandise. You say Mr. Hoover knew nothing about all this and you insult the intelligence of an intelligent man. It wouldn't take an intelligent man to find it out although 'Mellon's fools babies'.

Smith Honest On Views

"You can vote against Mr. Smith because he is wet. Hoover is just as wet but Mr. Smith is honest about it. If it is a matter of his church let's take a man who will tell the truth and fight for his nation instead of a man who will skulk when trouble comes.

"Don't talk about corruption and decency for when you refer to the gang that nominated Hoover you are insulting the intelligence of the person to whom you are talking. Remember that your father and grandfather were Democrats and the Democratic party is the only hope we have today. If we don't take the government away from this gang they'll have such a strangle hold in another four years we will never break away.

"No wonder they hate the Catholics for it was a Catholic who dug up this Teapot Dome scandal.

"If you are half as sincere as you say you are you'll scratch that Republican ticket from constable to president. If I couldn't conscientiously support a ticket I'd get off of it entirely, and I have no respect for any man honored by a party who won't fight for it.

"Don't be swayed by these side shows of wet and dry and religious questions. Be a creative force and not a destructive one," he said.

Mr. Williams was decidedly hoarse as he completed his address and he was given an ovation by the crowd.

Mrs. Duff Introduces Speaker

A scholarly, brilliant address was delivered in Governor Smith's behalf by Mrs. Moore, who was introduced by Mrs. E. T. Duff.

Before beginning her address Mrs. Moore extended thanks to Wichita Falls' leaders and declared that enthusiasm of local Democrats has given her renewed energy to continue her work more forcibly.

Discussing the principles of democracy, Mrs. Moore said;

"We see that the Democratic party is not merely a political party. It is something more. In the south it has become a historic and social institution. Our history, church, state, home, society and education cannot be separated from the destiny of the Democratic party. Our hopes, fears, loves and hates are woven into this grand old institution and one of its cardinal principles is that it has always stood for the supremacy of the white race.

"I like to recall that in the early days of this republic our ancestors were fighting side by side with Washington; they signed the Declaration of Independence and on down through colonial times they struggled to preserve their independence of political freedom, speech and religious liberty. Then let us recall the dark days of the sixties, then the dark days of reconstruction, with negro bayonets guarding our polling booths. Let us recall the formation of the Ku Klux Klan, which stood by the Democratic party and made it supreme in the land. Then the dissolution of the klan by patriotic men who declared it had served its purpose forever.

"Now that there are minor disagreements among us on some of the issues are we going to allow the democracy of the south to be trampled in the dust of a Republican victory? Though we have gone down in defeat many times nationally, I still believe there are enough loyal sons and daughters of Texas to stand by their party and preserve the traditions of the 'solid south'!

Women Bolters

"Yet, after all these years of loyalty, and so soon after acquiring the right to vote, why are so many daughters of the south talking of bolting the ticket? Is it the party platform, the man, or are you ashamed of your glorious heritage? If it is the party you are bolting, what do you expect to gain for the south by joining the Republicans who have never been a friend to us, whose entire history has been marked by its favoritism to wealth and corporations, and whose past seven years have been an unprecedented reign of corruption, dishonesty, lawlessness and fraud? By contrast it seems unbelievable that you would desert the ranks of Democracy which has always stood for great moral issues, for love of the masses and for idealism which was so perfectly embodied in the life of the late Woodrow Wilson.

"Are you bolting because of our standard-bearer? If so, let us try to analyze your reasons.

"It is because he is a Roman Catholic? We have had presidents of all protestant denominations and the Catholics have supported them through the campaigns. Taft was a Unitarian and President Coolidge was not a member of any church until he was elected president, when he joined the Congregationalists, saying he felt no man should be ruler of a people who was not a churchman. I am not here to defend the Catholic religion as it needs no defense, but it seems to me it is high time protestants were extending a little Christian brotherhood to the Catholic church for I do not believe there is a protestant minister in this land who will get up in his pulpit and say that Catholicism is not a Christian religion and that Catholics do not worship Christ and Him crucified.

"The Catholics have contributed much to American civilization. The earliest Christianizing efforts on this continent were done by the missionary fathers, and we Texans point with pride to our old missions, decaying along the banks of the San Antonio river, which are mute witnesses of the zeal and hardships of these early missionaries.

"Among Catholics, two have served as chief justice of the supreme court, the highest tribunal of the land. No one ever accused these men of unfairness or disloyalty to the American principle of separation of church and state. Why, then, are we so apprehensive all of a sudden about Catholics in high office as if American freedom were endangered? 'On the contrary,' says Dr. Henry Van Dyke, 'such an event would prove the reality of that freedom by manifesting the firmness of the separation of church and state.'

Contrasts Leaders

"Let us contrast John Roach Straton and Henry Van Dyke. Both are eminent divines, one a Baptist and the other a Presbyterian, and you are familiar with the records of both of them. Dr. Straton has been among us sowing the seeds of religious discord and traducing the character of a Christian gentleman, a good father and husband, a brilliant statesman and the nominee for president of one of the oldest and grandest political parties that has ever functioned in these United States. With what vituperation he has scattered hatred and religious intolerance throughout this land. And at what a price.

"Dr. Van Dyke said, 'My Americanism, which is a stout growth of eight native- born generations, tells me that to vote against a man because of his church membership is to be untrue in act to the central faith of the republic. Because I love my free church and my own free country, because I value my own self respect, I resist, and shall always resist to the very end of life, every attempt to arouse and array religious prejudice and hostility in a political campaign'.

Temperature in Wichita Falls Area Continues on Down Trend

Although the thermometer failed to decline as rapidly in Wichita Fallas after sundown Monday as it did Sunday, the local temperature registered 16 degrees colder at 8 o'clock Monday evening than at the corresponding time Sunday.

Temperature fell 10 degrees Sunday afternoon from 6 until 8 o'clock while it declined from 60 to 54 degrees during the corresponding period on Monday.

The steady decline on the Texas Electric Service thermometer Monday night indicated that the minimum temperature Tuesday would fall lower than 44 degrees, which was the lowest registered Monday.

Weather conditions over the Wichita area and through Southern Oklahoma were reported much the same as those prevaling in Wichita Falls Monday night by dispatchers at the local railway offices.

No damage from storms or high winds was reported by the Fort Worth and Denver dispatcher while temperatures in Quanah, Vernon and towns in this vicinity ranged around 60 degrees during the greater part of the day.

Temperature was slightly lower in Southern Oklahoma than in Wichita Falls ranging between 50 and 53 degrees with clear skies and no wind or storm damage, according to reports of the Katy dispatcher.

Conditions similar to those in Wichita Falls were reported along the Wichita Valley line.

The first day is always difficult and if you found it interesting I am sure you will find the remaining programs even more enjoyable. I will have something different to offer today and each day hereafter. So don't miss a single program. In the audiences I recognize many faces of friends who have been regular attendants at my schools here during the past five years and I want to say 'Thank you.' So come again today and every day."
