Major General of Army, Crown Prince of Swede, Puts Wreath On Tomb of America's Unknown

WASHINGTON, May 31.—(AP)—Timing his departure from the capital to make possible before hand the payment of royal tribute to America's soldier dead, the Crown Prince of Sweden, the guest of the nation, left today on a special train for New York.

The first member of royalty to place an offering on the tomb of the unknown soldier in Arlington cemetery, he did so in the spirit that one soldier feels when he pays homage to another, though the one be a crown prince, a major general, and the other only an enlisted man.

That Gustavus Adolphus was deeply moved, none who saw him stand at salute before the tomb and then step forward to reverently place his offering on the plain marble slab could doubt. It was on a trip later to the capitol, however, that he let his feelings be known to others and that was the way he described them.

At the capitol, the crown prince was received by Chief Justice Taft and the other justices of the supreme court. The affair was informal, the justices having discarded the robes of their office to meet their guest.

A luncheon, given by Robert Woods Bliss, the American minister to Sweden, and Mrs. Bliss, preceeded the departure of the crown prince and crown princess, terminated their four days' visit here and sent them off on a two months' tour of the country.

A statement made public by authorization of the Swedish legation said the Crown Prince and his wife gratefully acknowledged the "cordial reception given them both at the White House and by the congress and the untiring courtesy of the secretary of state and of the state department as well as of other authorities."

When Colonel Oscar N. Solbert, of the army reserves corps left with the royal party he carried, in addition to his designation as military aide to the Crown Prince, a new title—that of president of the John Ericsson republican league of America. The league was formed by representatives of 150 Swedish-American organizations and societies of fifteen states who came here for the dedication Saturday of the Ericsson memorial. Axel Witterman, of Massachusetts, was chosen first vice-president. Leonard Erikson, of Chicago, secretary and The purpose of the league is said Nelson Thorson, of Omaha, treasurer, to be to assist the republican national committee. In this connection, it was recalled that President Coolidge in his dedication address fixed the number of citizens of Swedish descent at 2,000,000. None of the league's sponsors, however, was willing tonight to predict what influence it might exercise in the field of national politics.

Roof of Theatre Caves In, Audience Warned and Escapes

JOPLIN, Mo., May 31.—(AP)—Warned by a rumbling sound, spectators at a small motion picture house in the south part of the city rushed from the theatre just before a large section of the roof caved in with a deafening crash tonight.

All of the spectators escaped injury a check-up by police and firemen showed.

A preliminary investigation led to the belief that water accumulating on the roof caused the structure supporting the roof to give way. A section approximately 50 feet long, extending across the theatre crashed.

The crash occurred during a heavy thunder storm and rain.

When the rumbling noise began the theatre manager rushed through the audience shouting to make for the main exit. The last person had barely rushed from the building when the roof gave way.

98 Degree Mark Set Here Monday

Heat records thus far for 1926 were broken Monday when a temperature of 98 degrees was registered at the Wichita Falls Electric company bureau, three degrees higher than the previous high record of May. The heat was most intense about 3 o'clock when a broiling sun beat down mercilessly and Wichitans sought relief under fans, at soda fountains and in shady spots.

At 1 o'clock the thermometer reached 95 degrees. The temperature rose three degrees in the following two hours, and dropped again to 95 at 5 o'clock.

A wind, reaching at its maximum velocity, a rate of 18 miles per hour kept dust in the air and signs of a change in weather. The barometer was slightly below normal indicating a change in conditions prevailing during the day.

The season's first load of oats was brought to Wichita Falls Monday afternoon from Clay county by A. Bartell, pioneer thrasher and owner of a large farm four miles east of the city.

Mr. Bartell has about 150 acres in oats this year and believes that the crop will yield about 60 bushels to the acre.

Monday noon saw the first of the threshing machines on the farm and the arrival of one load of grain at the J. C. Tun Grain company with a 40 cent premium on each bushel.

High Pork Prices Hurt Meat Trading

CHICAGO, May 31.—(AP)—"The relatively high level of the hog made results on pork operations in the American meat packing industry rather unsatisfactory," during May, the livestock and meat review issued today by the institute of American meat packers said.

"The month brought a good demand for smoked and dry salt meats, however, while the beef demand was fair with prices steady.

"During most of the month," the review stated, 'hog prices averaged more than ten per cent higher than during the same period a year ago. And almost double the prices which prevailed during May, 1923, and May, 1924, when hog production and marketing were at a peak."

Doctor Condemns Women's Smoking

MONTREAL, May 31.— (AP) — Excessive smoking and drinking and the use of cosmetics by women were condemned today by Dr. Wolff Fredenthal of New York City, at a gathering of ear, throat and nose specialists from all parts of Canada and the United States.

Excessive smoking is for men and women, he said, but especially for women because the linings of the throat and nose of women are so much more delicate than those of men. Cosmetics, Dr. Freudenthal stated, also affect the nose and throat, irritating the membranes and sometimes causing asthma.

Alcohol in excess, the speaker said, is bad for the throat and breathing apparatus, but when used properly is valuable as a medicine, be added.

CONGRESSMEN ON PAYROLL OF 'ANTI' LEAGUE

Wheeler Admits Paying Expenses And Honorarium For Speaking

DENY CHARGES

Head of Prohibition Organization Declares Not Much Money Spent

WASHINGTON, May 31.—(Ap) Denying that the anti-saloon league had ever paid any congressman for introducing or championing a bill, Wayne B. Wheeler, of the league said in a statement today that occasionally "when a congressman makes a speech for prohibition, his expenses nd sometimes an honorarium is paid by the organization that arranged for it."

A congressman "who has ability enough so that the people want to hear him should not be stopped from his service simply because he is a public official," he declared. "Vice-President Marshall said he had to do this when he was vice-president."

Mr. Wheeler's statement was in reply to one by Representative Tinkham, republican, Massachusetts, who has made charges relating to the league's activities and expenditures and also drawn up a resolution calling for an investigation to determine whether Representative Cramton, republican, Michigan, or any other member "has received money or fees from the anti-saloon league or any other organization interested in legislation before congress.

Endorse Borah Stand.

Incidentally, the anti-saloon league general counsel endorsed Senator Borah's speech in Baltimore last night against state referendums on prohibition, asserting they would destroy the policy of uniformity of operations under the constitution, and multiply enforcement difficulties.

As to the general charges of Mr. Tinkham, Mr. Wheeler said that "like foam on beer" they had little substance.

Tinkham's hallucinations about the league spending two and a half million dollars in year is nonsense," he said. "That was the total spent for the 48 states and by the national league for all purposes in the height of the campaign for ratification. Most of it was spent for educational work. In the state of Ohio alone the referendum election cost over $200,000 a year for several years. The amount spent in political campaigns was only a small fraction of that amount.

"Equally false is the charge that the league controls the appointments on the federal bench. We protest against those applicants who have bad records on law enforcement. Such applicants are usually strongly backed by the wets.

Scores Wets.

"It comes with poor grace for the wets to complain about league activities when sworn testimony before the senate judiciary committee shows that the wets boycotted, corrupted and blacklisted individuals and public officials who would not do their bidding, and in Pennsylvania alone raised over one million dollars a year to control and corrupt the politics of the state in the saloon days. When the local wet commities file their statements under the new law they will need to watch their step. Others will."

Mr. Wheeler began his statement by declaring the records showed the league in the onl yorganization for years that has filed reports of its political activities and expenditures and that the wet organization "back of Mr. Tinkham" filed "only in recent years when we drove them to it," and even these reports have not been in full accord with the law."

Philly Exposition Is Formally Opened

PHILADELPHIA, May 31.—(AP) America today, through Philadelphia's colorful exposition, began the celebration of a century and a half of independence, that will continue to the end of November.

The 20,000 spectators who participated in the formal opening of the sesqui-centennial exposition today had their anxious moments as rain drenched the grounds in the forenoon, but the sun appeared later and the inauguration of the celebration was voted a great success.

While the big show has not yet been completed, tremendous strides have been made in recent days. By the time President Coolidge comes here on July 3, official to lend his voice to the celebration of the 150th anniversary of the signing of the Declaration of Independence the exposition will have been completed, the management expects.

As Summer's Torrid Waves Beat Upon Them, Babes Of Wichita Falls Cry For Ice

Wichita Falls in years gone by has been called for its full share of monetary contributions for the relief of human suffering and privation.

The community chest, and before it the individual drives for various organizations have exacted their quotas in service and finance—and, none will deny, they have been worthy movements meriting the support they have been accorded.

Each summer the past four years the city has been called on for another type of service; one that is separate and distinct from any service of the community chest; one that has as its purpose the relief of childish pain; one that goes 100 percent for the succor of helpless unfortunates; and one that in the past has spread undisguised blessing in a multitude of humble Wichita Falls homes.

It is, as may have been guessed, the annual milk and ice fund which the Record News sponsors in beanlf of those to whom fresh milk and cooling ice is a summer necessity. It is for the babies in the rickety home on the river bank, in the littleout-of-the-way hovels that most folks never see, in the sun-baked, dust-swept tents on the edges of the city—it is for these that the milk and ice fund hasbeen devised and created.

A six-months old babe, a year-old youngster has little to say, about what he shall have to eat and drink And when his parents, even if they realize the importance of wholesome milk and cooling ice, are unable to provide it for him, what is he to do? Ordinarily he does without, suffering thereby the dulling thirst and parching pangs that everyone knows when the thermometer climbs around the 100 mark. Sometimes this brings illness, sometimes death, always discomfort, always want.

Electric fans and nearby soda fountains go far to combat the trials of summer rigors for those in position and able to make use of modern utilities. But the youngsters for whom this fund will function have no access to the fan and fountain. The furnace like blast of the south wind is their fan; tepid water from a shallow cistern, perhaps, their only drink.

The Salvation Army and other agencies here, in their work of service, sooner or later find most of these places where milk and ice is needed. So to them is entrusted the purchase and distribution of the ice and milk. All funds subscribed are turned over inmediately to the Army officials and by them who is devoted to this work.

The Record News simply sponsors the fund because it is a thing worth while and because the paper is in a position to serve advantageously both to the public and to the kiddies whose health and comfort are dependent on the bounty of others.

Checks should be made payable to The Record News Milk and Ice Fund. Due acknowledgement will be made through the columns of the Record News for all funds turned in.

Maniac Is Hunted By Houston Police

HOUSTON, May 31.—(AP)—A negro, believed to be the homicidal maniac who slew a white man here on November 11, 1918, was being hunted tonight in the residence section where householders were locking their doors in fear of his possible visit while two motorcycle policemen patrolled the neighborhood. Excited residents reported that the negro knocked at the doors of several homes and wanted to use the phone this afternoon.

J. S. Smith who lives at the address where the negro killed a white man, said the slayer was sent to an asylum but escaped and on his return to Houston, shot a street car conductor before he was taken into custody. Officer R. T. Honea remembers the gun fight before officers could arrest the negro.

NOTED JURIST DIES IN DALLAS

Judge A. J. Harper, Stricken In Court, Succumbs To Stroke

DALLAS, May 31.—(AP)—Judge A. J. Harper, 62, of Dallas, former associate justice of the court of criminal appeals, died in a local hospital late today after having been stricken by apoplexy while arguing legal points in a divorce case before District Judge Claude M. McCallum.

Judge Harper had interrupted a discourse before the presiding judge with the statement—"I'm sick, let my son finish the argument."

Judge Harper sat down, and John Harper, his son, and attorney, proceeded with the case until the elderly father suddenly fell forward to a table. He was taken to the hospital where he died.

S. HUNTLEY OF SAN ANTONIO IS MURDER VICTIM

Two Men Held for Robbery Of Drug Store Confess Serious Charge

STEAL HIS CAR

Alleged Bandits Tell Sheriff They Took Auto To Make Getaway

LAREDO, May 31.—(AP)—Sheriff Condrin of Webb county and Sheriff Navarro of Zapato county, reached here late today bringing with them, they announced, the written confessions of two suspects held in jail for the murder of Sterling Huntley, 30, San Antonio geologist and oil scout.

The confessions were turned over to District Attorney John A. Valls for presentation to the special grand jury which has been ordered continued by District Judge Mullally through Saturday, June 5. If indictments are returned, the cases may be transferred to Webb county for trial.

Originally arrested for investigation in connection with the robbery of a Raymondville drug store, efforts were made to connect the suspects with murder when, according to officers, a bank book bearing Hunt's name was found in possession of one of them.

Huntley's body, a bullet in the head, was found in a Zapata county creek bottom Saturday. He disappeared, and was supposedly slain Wednesday, a few hours after he had driven out of Rio Grande City in a new sedan. The sedan was found later overturned in an arroyo several miles from the body.

According to authorities, the confession described the killing of Huntley and the hiding of his body in a nearby creek bed. The slayers then drove the sedan toward Laredo at high speed until it was wrecked, officers quote the confessions.

Huntley's body was brought to Laredo today. Mrs. Huntley came to Laredo by automobile, following two close friends from San Antonio who made the trip to the border in an airplane.

Northern Wheat Is Way Below Normal, Santa Fe Reports

CHICAGO, May 31.—(AP)—Less than normal wheat yields in Illinois, Iowa and Missouri and a crop falling below the 10 years average in Nebraska are predicted in the Santa Fe railway report on agricultural conditions as of June 1.

Winter killing has caused heavy abandonment of acreage in Illinois, Iowa and Missouri said the report, and most of the grain that survived was early sown, which is doing fairly well. The total yield is estimated at 52,500,000 bushels. Many of the abandonment fields have been sown to oats with good prospects.

For the 11 Mississippi Valley and southwestern states in which the Santa Fe operates, a total wheat wield estimate of 340,000,000 bushels is made in the current report. The 1925 crop in the same states was 232,798,000 bushels.

What Would $500 Mean To You?

Lots of folks don't have a $500 balance in the bank; and then again, lots of folks do. But whatever the financial status of the individaul may be, an extra $500 is nothing to be laughed at. Five hundred iron men mean just that much.

Accordingly—.

What would you do with an extra $500? Assume you have $500 or 500 times $500, if some one dropped an extra $500 in your lap what would you do with it? Or, if your own bank account more nearly resembles the $500 figure with the first numeral left off ,and the self-same fairy dropped 500 leattimate $1 bills in your pocket, what would you do with that?

In order to find out, the Record News is willing to pay $50. It is offering three prizes to its readers, the first of $25, the second of $15, and the third of $10. these prizes in cash to go to the persons submitting the best essays on the subject "What I Could Do With an Extra $500." A competent board of judges will be selected; essays will be graded more on interest and value of their ideas than on literary style, although, of course, they must be readable.

No one is excluded and the lists are open.

Further announcements will be made in the Record News from day to day, but in the meantime, get busy with your idea and submit your paper to the Contest Editor, care of the Record News.

SYNOPSIS OF PRECEDING CHAPTERS

John Parris and Audrey, his wife have taken into their home beautiful Marcie Allen, whose father has turned her out of doors because of her advanced views on what girls should be permitted to do. Audrey Parrish is rich; her husband is manager of her property. Marcie visits Parrish at his office; he tells her he will work for her, and he kisses him.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

(Characters and situations in this story are fictitious)

CHAPTER VI

Marcie had not returned to the house when Parrish arrived, that evening. He looked cautiously into the living room, and into the study, that still was reserved for Audrey's father. Apparently satisfied he went to the foot of the steps, and called his wife.

"Coming." Her voice sounded from her dressing room upstairs.

In a few minutes she came down, in a diaphanous gold-colored frock, very short, and sleeveless.

"Like my new dress?" she asked as she kissed Parrish. "I just got it. My clothes were positively rags."

"Never knew you to wear one dress often enough to crease it," her husband replied. "You must have two or three dozen dresses in your closet now."

"But you didn't have to pay for them," she reminded him.

She noted the quick look of distress that came to his eyes.

"But you DIDN'T have to pay for them," she argued. "I should think you'd be glad you don't have to settle my bills."

He leaned back against the newel post. "It isnt that, Audrey—but it's a hard position for a man to be in—the poor husband of a rich wife. It would be ever so much easier if you didn't remind me of it, so often."

Audrey tossed her head. "Personally, I think it's a very easy position to be in."

Her husband regarded her soberly, and slowly raising his arm, took her chin in his hand.

"Audrey," he said, "you don't realize what you're doing. I can't believe you mean to be unkind. Yet every time you bring up the subject—every time you remind me that I'm living in your house and taking my salary from you, you humiliate me. Don't you realize that?"

She pulled herself away, and walked into the living room without replying. He followed her.

"Audrey, dear, I love you," he pleaded. Her back was turned to him. "Don't make me feel all the time as if I were sponging on your charity. Don't do that!"

She was pulling at a silk cord that dangled from the window curtains. "You begged hard enough to marry me," she said. "You knew I had money then. Is there any reason for pretending that you're rich, and I'm poor?"

He stood looking at her, his brow wrinkled. At length he signed.

"Audrey," he said, "there is only one thing to do, as far as I am concerned. Your father pays me half my salary, for looking after his affairs while he's gone. After this, that will be all the salary I'll take. You won't pay me anything. I'll attend to your property free. I'm not going to be dependent upon a woman."

He walked away. She did not turn, but presently she saw him slowly crossing the lawn, his chin bowed on his breast. Her finger to her lips, she watched until he passed behind the house. Then she followed after him.

He was in the summer house, sitting with his head in his hands.

He leaned back as she entered.

"Something happened today that I ought to tell you about," he said in his ordinary tone.

She waited in the doorway, her shoulders resting against the rough post.

"Miss Allen came up to the office with me, this afternoon." He hesitated. "She said she wanted some further advice." He passed his hand nervously through his hair, and cleared his throat. "Then, when I said I would find work for her—"

His wife brusquely interrupted.

"Marcie can take care of herself," she said. "Get work for her if you want to. But I'm a good deal more interested in our affairs.

She crossed to where he sat, and "John, you've become a regular prima donna."

"You didn't make any complaint stood before him.

about my money when you married me, John. Now, since we're married I mustn't mention it, for fear of hurting your tender feelings. Haven't I been a good wife to you? Haven't I maintained a beautiful home for you? Haven't I given you lots of things—that stick pin you're wearing, your shirts, even that silk underwear? Is there anything to complain about in that?"

He loked down, to see the emerald that showed just above the V of his vest. He lifted his hand, drew the pin from his tie, and moving to the door, deliberately threw the gem as far as he could hurl it.

She watched him, startled, and then her eyes filled with tears.

"Oh John," she cried, chokingly. A sob arose, and then another. In a moment, she was a crumpled heap upon the bench, her fair head buried in her arms, and her body heaving convulsively.

The blaze of anger in Parrish's eyes died away. His face twitched, as he stood undecidedly. His hands reached out toward her.

"Audrey!" he said.

He sank down beside her on his knees and placed his arm over her shoulders. "Audrey!" he said again.

Gently, he lifted her, and setting himself on the earthen floor of the summerhouse, he placed her in his lap.

"Don't cry, dearest," he said. "Don't do that! Please."

Her taut body relaxed gradually and finally her arm stole up, and wound itself around his neck. It was a long while before she spoke.

"John," she said, "don't be so unkind to me!"

He rocked back and forth, cradling her as one would a child.

"I'm sorry," he said, and smoothered her hair.

Her face was buried in his coat, and her voice was muffled. "You used to be so nice, before we were married. And now you catch up everthing I say, and twist it." She stirred, and sat up, her bare arm still circling his neck. "Let's start all over and be sweethearts again."

He nodded, and bending over, kissed her on the lips. "That's what I want to be, Audrey," he said. Her hair had fallen across her forehead, and he brushed it back.

"I'm all towsled," she said, wiping her eyes, and the wet spots on her cheeks. "Do I look terrible?"

Shaking his head vigorously, he kissed her again. "You are beautiful."

She scrambled to her feet, and as he arose, she took his arm. "I'll go and put some cold water on my face and comb my hair. My eyes are a swollen and Marcie will be here pretty soon."

"Marcie—" he said, and stopped.

"Marcie what?" she inquired, as they crossed the lawn.

He pondered, and at last shook his head. "It was something I was going to say, but it can wait," he said.

Marcie was turning in the front gate, as they moved slowly into the front yard. The Parrish grounds were surrounded by high gilt-and-black iron palings, and the two wings of the gate were as ponderous as a church door. The gate clanged behind the girl resoundingly.

"Just like a jail," called Marcie, light, short skirt raised high above her knees.

"I'm going to be a demonstrator—demonstrate beauty creams."

She beamed upon her hostess. "Isn't that luxurious? Fifteen dollars a week, and everything."

"But you never suce any cosmetics, Marcie, dear," objected Audrey.

"That's just the point—I was hired because I had such a good complexion. I start in the morning."

She ran upstairs to her room, and Audrey went back into the kitchen. Parrish wandered into the drawing room, and sank into his big arm chair.

He was still there, alone, when Marcie came down again, in another dress. Audrey's maid had pressed it for her. It was an evening gown, low necked and close fitting.

She crossed to where Parrish sat. "Did you tell Audrey I kissed you?" she said, quickly.

"I decided—not to," he answered.

Audrey watcher her husband. "Oh, John," she cried. A sob arose, and then another.

Deadliest Snakes Come to Bronx Zoo

NEW YORK, May 30.—Thirty-five new snakes from South Africa some of them really villainous, which roam at night seeing their way with eyes like those of a cat and have bodies which can travel over glass were placed on exhibition in the Bronx Zoological Garden yesterday by Curator Raymond L. Ditmars.

The nocturnal snakes are called velvet whip snakes. There are twenty-three of them and with the others they were brought here by J. L. Beck of Camden, N. J., who came with them recently from South Africa. He did not feed them on the journey, which required two months of travel, and when they reached the zoo, according to Dr. Ditmars, they were "really vicious with hunger."

The other snakes were nine green mambas, which Dr. Ditmars said were the deadliest snakes known, tree corbas, very slender but growing to twelve feet in length and which, he said, actually attack men. There were also two boomslangs, a black snake with large eyes which inflates its neck and releases air which produces a dull boom, and three giant black cobras, one of them eight feet long.

In the shipment also was a pair of rare mammals, potos, a low form of monkey which subsists on snakes. It has large eyes. All four feet in outline are like hands, with delicate nails on each toe except on one of each hind foot, which has claws.

Clothes on Bank Of Creek Found

FORT WORTH, May 31.—(AP)—Sheriff Carl Smith and two deputies this afternoon were probing the finding of a weighted bundle containing a woman's and a baby's clothes of fine material on the bank of Big Fossil creek, 9 miles north of here on the Denton road.

In the bundle were two prescriptions from San Saba and Eastland drug stores. Efforts were being made to trace the owner of the clothing through this clue.

Gun Fight Takes One, Another Hurt

SAN ANTONIO, May 31.—(AP)—The mysterious aerial rum runner, who for nearly a year has baffled customs and prohibition officers by his periodical nightly journeys through the air above San Antonio was behind the bars of the city jail today.

The aviator was arrested by customs officials late Sunday night as he landed an airplane loaded with pure grain alcohol, at an airport south of the city.

Several months ago customs men came into possession of information that there was a bootlegger plying his trade between Mexico and points north of San Antonio. Having no way in which to cope with the man so long as he did not land in the city, they bided their time acting on a good tip Sunday they lay in waiting at the landing field until he piloted his expensive airplane into the wind and nosed her toward the hangar at the field.

Almost before the man could cut off the motor to his plane, he was under arrest and his cargo of expensive alcohol confiscated.

Nonpulsses he was escorted to the city jail where he was held until he could be "mugged" by bertillion experts of the police department.

The man, whose operations are said to have gone as far as Oklahoma is 25 years old. He gave officers a San Antonio address.

MOODY ASSAILS JIM AND ROADS

Declares Patrol System Of Maintenance Builds Up Voting Army

BURNET, Texas, May 31.—(AP) The patrol system of maintenance of highways as recently adopted by the state highway department is to give work to an army of employes, to aid James E. Ferguson, Attorney General Dan Moody, candidate for governor declared here today.

Moody blamed Ferguson for the letting of certain highway maintenance contracts and charged that "irregularities and extravagance had characterized the administration of the highway department and that this has been confessed by the Frank Lanham and Joe Burkett, resignation (former commissioners,) the various published statements of James E. Ferguson and by the announcement from Austin and that the present maintenance contracts would not be renewed.

The attorney general asserted "that the contracts would not be renewed because the present laws required advertisement and competitive bidding and that the patrol system had been in order to enlist an army of employes as a political machine to work for the re-election of Governor Ferguson."

Cannot Defend It

"James E. Ferguson may be a great corporation lawyer and an enterprising newspaper publisher," Moody said, "but in neither capacity has he been clever enough to frame a satisfactory defense of his highway administration. In fact, from time to time, he seems to realize that various of his practices could not be defended and one by one they are being abandoned.

Reviewing the highway embroglio of last year, the attorney general said that Ferguson was trying to claim personal credit for the unseating of Lanham and Burkett through a personal investigation of his own, which helped to decide the governor to reorganize the commission. Moody said that Ferguson had sat with the commission until the attorney general's office started investigation of the American Road company and the Hoffman Construction company. "As soon as the American Road company and the Hoffman Construction company came under investigation Jim Ferguson tried to wash his hands and ceased his open participation in highway affairs," Moody declared.

The attorney general said Ferguson could not shirk the responsibility and put the "blame on Frank Lanham and poor Joe Burkett," "and then Mr. Ferguson issued another statement in the name of his wife and admitted that part of the criticism of the highway department had been justified.

"How much, Jim? Tell us what you think could justly be criticized."

Must Bid for Them

One reason why they are not letting maintenance contracts for 120 counties, as announced, Moody said is because "the last legislature passed a law requiring all contrcts for maintenance of state highways to be awarded only after public advertising and upon competitive bids. There is no longer any chance for Ferguson's friends to grab a contract without the hazard of being underbid by some other contractor. There is no longer any point to these maintenance contracts, so they have been abandoned."

Moody said, that in his Taylor speech, he mentioned the patrol system of maintenance and suggested that he got his idea from that, and charged that two years ago Ferguson denounced the idea that highways of Texas should be maintained from Austin and wanted to leave it to the counties. The attorney general declared that personal and political friends of Ferguson obtained contracts but now "these contracts have expired and can't be renewed. Why doesn't he turn over highway maintenance to the counties? It is because he wants to build a political machine with employes of the highway depadtment."

Prevention Saves 46,000 From Death In US Steel Mills

NEW YORK, May 31.—(AP)—Accident prevention mensures in the plants of the United States Steel corporation have saved 46,000 men from death or serious injury and 322,000 other workers from disability during the past 20 years. A very large saving in money has also resulted, the 1926 report of the steel corporation's bureau of safety, sanitation and welfare shows.

During the past 14 years, the report states, $150,000,000 has been expended for safety, sanitation and welfare. The largest item was $45,000,000 for the relief of injured employes and of the families of employes killed. Other expenditures were $31,700,000 for sanitation, $28,000,000 for play grounds, schools, clubs, gardens, nurses and similar activities; $15,700,000 for accident prevention, $13,000,000 for pensions and $22,000,000 for the employes' stock subscription plan.

"This is the most astounding record of accomplishment in accident prevention and health promotion that I have seen in the 15 years of my association with the safety movement," Arthur Williams, president of the American Museum of Safety, declared in bringing the report before that institution.

Chinese Division Of Troops Mutiny

TIENTSIN, May 31.—(AP)—A division of troops under command of the military governor of Chihli province mutined Sunday at Lofa, a point midway between Peking and Tientsin. The rebellious troops tore up rails and held up railway communication this morning.

The anniversary of the fatal shooting of many Chinese students at Shanghai during a strike demonstration in 1925 was marked today by lectures at various colleges where principals and others talked. Radical students advocated street demonstrations, but they were overruled by the majority and the day passed off quietly without incident.

Krim Is Safe In French Stronghold

TAZA, French Morocco, May 31.—(AP)—Abd-el-Krim, surrendered Riffian chief, is safe in the hands of the French here. He is lodged with his family and household goods in a house placed at his disposal by the pasha but a guard of French soldiers about it emphasizes the fact that he is a prisoner.

When Krim passed under the ramparts of Taza at 11 o'clock Sunday morning all doubts as to the conclusion of the Riffian war and all suspicions of last minute treachery ended.

The delay in the arrival of his family and goods, which caused uneasiness in Paris to the last moment, is explained as having been due to the unwillingness of the tribes to aid in the transportation of the goods when was finally carried out by troops under Colonel Geraud, with a military train 200 strong.

Council Plans Women's Vote Study

PARIS, May 31.—(AP)—"Votes for women" is only one of the important questions which the convention of the International Alliance of Women's suffrage, which opens here tomorrow has on its schedule. Women's working conditions and the part women can play in the maintenance of the world's peace are two of the principal subjects for discussion.

Mrs. Corbett Asby, president of the alliance says the first item on the agenda will be a study of reforms attained by women in 25 nations where women have been given the vote. The enfranchising of women in Bengel and Assam will be celebrated early in the convention and special attention will be given delegates from countries where the status of women is only beginning, like Syria and Turkey.

MEMORIAL FOR HARDING STARTS

With Laying of Cornerstone Work Will be Pushed Rapidly

MARION, Ohio, May 31.—(AP)—Intensive work will be started immediately on the Harding memorial, costing $800,000, the corner stone of which was laid yesterday by Vice President Dawes. Officials of the Harding Memorial association said even if work proceeds rapidly it will be 18 months before the structure will be completed.

Last resting places of President Warren G. Harding and Florence Kling Harding, his wife, will be marked by twin slabs of black marble on the inside of the memorial, which will be circular in shape and built entirely of white Georgia marble.

A crowd estimated at 15,000 witnessed yesterday's exercises at which the principal addresses were made by Mr. Dawes, United States Senators Frank B. Willis and S. D. Fess of Ohio, Joseph S. Frelinghuysen, former United States senator from New Jersey, and Governor Vic Donahey. Postmaster General Harry S. New attended, but did not speak.

Through his settlement of questions confronting him when he took office President Harding had earned an imperishable place in American history, declared the speakers. They cited the Washington arms conference and the adoption of the budget for governmental expenditures as the achievement for which he will be best known by posterity.

"The Washington conference," said Mr. Dawes, "presented a supreme test of statesmanship. History furnishes few, if any, instances of a nobler guidance of world affairs than that furnished by the United States at that time."

Treaties which came as a result of the conference will forever keep alive the memory of President Harding, Mr. Dawes asserted.

Youthful Bandit Slain in Hold-Up Of Filling Station

KANSAS CITY, May 31.—(AP)—A youth identified as Milo Lande, Omaha, Nebr., was killed and another man captured as the result of a gasoline filling station robbery in Englewood, a suburb, today. A third man is sought by the police.

J. Wilson Schies, proprietor of the station, was awakened by the ringing of a burglary alarm and sot one of the men to death with a rifle. He said another man, apparently wounded slumped on the running board of the robbers' car as it speeded away.

Several hours later the police found a man asleep in a motor car a considerable distance from the robbery. He identified himself as Clyde Parker of Omaha, Nebr., and admitted taking part in the robbery, the police said.

Cure for Dengue Fever Is Found

WASHINGTON, May 31.—(AP)—Striking progress toward the stamping out of dengue fever, scourge of the tropics, through the voluntary submission of more than 75 American soldiers in the Philippines to test inoculation, was reported today by the surgeon general of the army, Major General Ireland.

The work was done by the army medical research board in the Island and resulted in the discovery that the same mosquito which is the carrier of yellow fever, the aedos Egypti, also is the spreader of dengue.

Preventative measures based on the research work was inaugurated among the garrisons in the Philippines a year ago at the conclusion of the study. Reports of the results reaching General Ireland show that the number of dengue cases has been reduced from 80 soldiers in every 1,000 in 1924 to less than 20 cases per 1,000 this year.

The fever about five years ago swept across the southern states from Texas to Georgia, about 2,000,000 cases being reported.

Rally for Moody Set for Fort Worth

FORT WORTH, May 31.—(AP) Plans for a Dan Moody for governor rally to be held here later in the week were formulated today by Frank P. Culver Jr., the attorney general's campaign manager for Tarrant county and the northwest district of Texas. Although arrangements this morning were still tentative, it was expected that Jed Adams of Dallas, national democratic committeeman, would be among the speakers.

Selection of an auditorium and additional speakers are to be announced later.

"Moody expects to get well over 20,000 votes in Dallas and Tarrant counties," Culver said. "The mass meeting to be held here will be a hot one."

GENEVA, May 31.—(AP)—The narcotic drug traffic can be fought with greater efficiency by police officials, rather than by leaving it to "the torturous, clogged-up channels of diplomacy," in the opinion of Arthur Woods, former police commissioner of New York City, who addressed the league of nations committee of the opium traffic today.

One son, Fred Boxley of El Paso survives, and the funeral is pending his arrival.

Long Search For Slayer Vainless, Boy Kills Himself

PITTSBURGH, May 31.—(AP)—A search of three years having failed to bring the murderer of his aged father to justice, Louis Rowland, 36, killed himself today.

Since the fall of 1923 Rowland, intent upon avenging the killing of his parent, sought the unidentified negro assailant in vain. Even after the police has listed the case "unsolved," the son maintained his search. But as time went by Rowland became despondent and finally he fired a bullet into his chest.

The father was killed by a young negro. He was out walking with his 13-year-old granddaughter when the negro, threatening the 70-year-old man with a pistol, attempted to attack the girl. The grandfather forgot his own danger and succeeded in releasing the child from the negro's grasp only to be killed himself.

ONE YEAR AGO TODAY

June 1, 1925

Ground is broken for the Wichita Falls Clinic at the corner of Bluff and Eighth streets.

EVERY DAY

IT IS not the exceptional manifestations of heroism that get into the newspapers whereof the texture of most human lives is fashioned. The majority of us, a great deal of the time, are not called upon to perform a spectacular deed that shall win the praise and the meed of grateful humanity and cause our name to be taken on men's tongues with accents of respect. Life generally consists of little tasks and the humbler duties in routine ,and the glamorous adventures for which we look to the screen, the stage and the romantic novel seem to pass us by.

But it is well that normal life holds to an even tenor and runs quietly. If it consisted of thrills and alarms, we could not stand it any more than we could endure to be on tiptoe all the time. They make a great mistake who must always be on the go, who are forever tense with expectation, and are never satisfied with what it is, but impatient to know what comes next, that shall be more exciting still. It is like searching the program of a vaudeville performance, only to find that the current offerings are dull and tame compared with the dazzling prospect for next week.

They live best who get the most out of the passing moment, neither looking back with a vain, regretful retrospect nor looking forward with such a strained and eager gaze that they cannot heed what is round about them now. We were meant to take each day as it comes and to put into it all that we have to give. The issue of it all we must leave with a power higher than ourselves. If we are forever waiting for the supernal inspiration, the great and crowning ecstacy, we may wait in vain, and the last of life will come upon us finding that we have made little progress since the first. The imperative call of today demands our instant obedience; only after that is there warrant for paying heed to what survives from yesterday or anticipate tomorrow.

WHERE THE HEAT HURTS

WICHITA FALLS the last few days has been given its initial baptism of fire for the current season.

In other words, it has had its first taste of summer heat, and the mood provoked by a 95-degree temperature ought to be such as to draw attentive ears to the plea of those who really suffer from a vigorous Texas sun.

On the front page of this morning's Record News is an announcement of the annual milk and ice fund which the paper has raised the past four summers in behalf of the needy youngsters of the city. The article is self-explanatory and tells what the fund is for and for whom it is designed.

It does not, however, make sufficient reminder of the fact that most of us who read newspapers don't suffer, after all. The heat is disagreeable, it is uncomfortable and inconvenient, but so far as real suffering is concerned, it is little known.

There are those in Wichita Falls, though, to whom the heat is a menace, and it is for the relief of these that the milk and ice fund is created. To them, although they may not be vividly aware of it, the summer season that has now arrived presents real dangers, much less real discomforts.

NOT CLEAR YET

THE Phillippine constabulary, operating in Lanao Province of the Island of Mindanano, have killed possibly 40 Moros and taken three out of five "forts." The capture of 12 crude "cannons," several rifles and large amounts of ammunition is reported. There is mention of 500 Moro tribesmen fleeing further into the mountains, chased by the government forces. All this suggests that the trouble is a little more serious than mere banditry. It recalls that the sulu and Mindanao Moro is a Moslem and his little use for the Christian Filipino. It is also a reminder that Governor General Wood has made visits of pacification to these "little brown brothers" and that there have been other campaigns against "banditry" much like that now under way. Apparently, the line in Lanao Province between "banditry" and "revolt" has not been very clear for the last 12 months.

THE REAPER'S CLICK

THE click of the reaper and the whirr of the threshing machine are not classed as music, but they strike a tuneful note of basic prosperity for the nation. And they ought to sound a melodious chord of financial stability for the farmer who operates them.

In North Texas the harvest is just starting. The first load of grain, in fact, came to a Wichita Falls elevator Monday from a Clay county farm. This first load, of course, was simply, a forerunner of many other larger ones that within the next few weeks will find their way into the elevators of the city from the farms of the territory and as they will come they will constitute another ringing proclamation of the power and resource of Northwest Texas.

Here, as well as throughout the Panhandle, crop conditions are found to be in remarkable condition. Favorable climatic periods in which rain has come in proper amounts at proper times have given West Texas soil all it ever needs to transform the plains to smiling stretches of growing grain.

By all the signs, the reaper's click and the thresher's hum will be loud and prolonged this year.

A COMING SHRINE

MARK TWAIN stands in bronze on the top of a river hill near the town of Hannibal, which is in Missouri. From that headland he overlooks the tawny reaches of slowly moving brown water where the Mississippi marches toward the Gulf. Not far away is the opening in the cliff which leads to "Tom Sawyer's cave." Now, these dream lads of his who loafed and loitered and floated on the river's bosom have come back to Hannibal. They, too, stand in bronze surrounded by the scenes made famous by them and their creator. All that region around Hannibal is "Mark Twain country." Hannibal is wise in its memorials. As the years pass it is certain to become more and more of an American literary shrine.

WHEN PATRIOTISM FALLS

THE ringleaders of the Hungarian counterfeit plot go to prison with the full moral and sentimental support of the Hungarian people. Windisch-Graetz, scion of an ancient and respected family, and Nadossy, chief of police, are regarded as patriotic martyrs. They forged French banknotes, according to their adherents, as an act of patriotism —first, as a protest against the "oppression" of their country under the treaty of Trianon, and second to help their country out of its very real financial difficulties. It is clear that no Hungarian court would have brought a conviction without heavy diplomatic pressure from France. Patriotism falls to low estate when it is used to condone and glorify forgery. It has fallen just this low in Hungary.

The Dutchman still retained a strong accent, although he had been in the country for forty years, and was a churchwarden. When the rector complained that a certain parishioner had called him a perfect ass, and asked advice, the reply ,though well intentioned, sounder ambiguous:

"All you should do vill pe youst to bray for him, as usual."

CALIFORNIA HAS AN OIL PRODUCER

IN the year 1916 California produced 97,384,000 barrels of oil. In 1900 California produced only 4,325,000 barrels of oil. In 1925 California produced 230,064,000 barrels and this is the reason why the wise ones are saying that California is forging rapidly to the front as one of the principle oil reservoirs of America. Just wait until Texas is given a good start. Then California will take a back seat.

A professor of natural history, who was delivering a lecture on the chimpanzee, noticed that the attention of the students was wandering.

The Apron Of Genius

By Earl Derr Biggers

Afterwards the five who had been admitted compared notes, and it seemed, strangely enough, that each had brought away from Adolpho's workshop one impression that overshadowed all the others—thus, one remembered, before all, the great windows, through which there blew, from an unlooked-for courtyard without, a breeze as fresh as though it came from the fields; another could talk only of how the pots and pans glittered and shone like those in the advertisements; still another remembered most distinctly the whiteness of the floor. And the little Cates girl told how one and all of those things had seemed to her only as heralds proclaiming the greatness of him who was master there.

At last Adolpho spoke; soft, pleasing was his voice. Afterwards they told one another that as sound of it they were reminded of the liquid sweetness of his bouillabaisse.

"You think I am great," he said, and they made no attempt to deny it; "you call me master of cooks and never for one moment have you guessed the secret of my power. It lies here, and he lifted a fold of his spotless apron, while the five marveled, "here, in this, my apron. To you maybe an apron, nothing else. To me—parbliu! all, what you say—divine fire! Twenty year ago he give it to me—he, my teacher, the great master, Bertrand de Bouillon himself, of Paris. From himself he took it, and to me it was given. Never am I without it. At night I carry it to my home, and Nanett, ma femme make it white for the morrow. As the painter or the sculpture has his model to furnish the pattern—ah, the inspiration—so to me is the apron of Bertrand de Bouillon. Without it—morbleu! that which I cook you would not eat. For my filets, my omelets, my escargots, thank not me, think not of me. Of him only think—of Bertrand de Bullion, he of the far-off Paris, who made known to me as the littlest thing I know, who gave me his apron that I might wear it to his glory, and that of France.! Ventrableu! what a man was that!"

It was a speech! Impromptu, it seemed, but none the less a speech, and when they had gazed their fill at the gift of the great Bertrand they pushed Dupree forward, and in a fashion born of the needs of the moment, he thanked Adolpho the snowy for his confidence as to the apron of inspiration, assuring him of the understanding and sympathy of the other artist souls present, as well as hoping that over the Cafe Cote d'Or the star of luck might continue to shine. And then they bowed, each in turn, very solemnly, and on tiptoe returned to their table to talk.

They talked no more than night of Art, but the theme of their discourse was always this wonderful apron, this gift of Bertrand de Beullon, the mighty chef of whom they had heard Dupree, mind you, had tasted the de Bullion salsisfis in his gay student days—of de Bullion himself, master spirit of a cafe in the gourmet's Mecca so beloved neither opera nor tale had mentioned it, because they who dined there were not the sort to make copy of their pleasure. They speculated on the texture of this bit of cloth upon which hung the destiny of their precious cafe, and on the personality of the wife, Nanette, to whom it was intrusted each night, that she might restore it to whiteness while its wearer slept gathering strength for the morrow's omelets. Dupree thought he had seen one like it somewhere, but they laughed him to scorn, and when Betty Martin claimed to have touched it while no one saw, they sneered at her, in the manner of townspeople too clever not to discount the boast of the traveler returned.

Would it wear out? Horrors! Would this apron wear out? Monsieur Casserole, hastily summoned from conference on the weather with another diner, brought reassurance in his smooth French way. It would not wear out. Like a board, so was it made. Always it would last—at least, so long as Adolpho lived. "Which, Heaven grant," added Monsieur Casserole, with an eye to business as well as to the welfare of his chef, "may be for many years yet to come."

"But," cried the little Gates girl, and the terror in her eyes were such that Dupree grasped her hand under shelter of the cloth, "the apron might be lost."

The expressive face of Monsieur went quickly pale. His lip twiched. He threw up his hands.

"A merciful God forbid," he cried; "for me and my cafe it would spell ruin. Ten years I have wined and dined the best of our people here under the elevated. Ten years Adolphe has worn that apron; ten years no one has had anything but praise for that which I have served. Lost? Maybe. Then the end of the Cafe Cote d'Or."

But the apron was not lost. The Cafe Cote d'Or pursued calmly its pleasant way of lightening hearts by charming palates; the diners still came; their satisfaction increased; and dreams were still the order of the night over the cordial and the coffee after the filets of Adolphe. All went smoothly enough to justify that never-clouded smile with which Madame bade the happy diner farewell. The months slipped by.

And then one night the door of the cafe opened, much as though it were admitting an artist or a poet, and a villain entered the Cote d'Or and the story.

He was a rascal, a Parisian ne'er-do-well; well had Mons-eur Casserole known him, this Lefourbe, in the earlier days at home. Well also had he known his unsavory reputation. And for this reason Monsieur Casserole frowned when his countryman held out his hand.

"I, too, have sought this land so great," the newcomer said, "to find if there be a fortune for me also waiting here. You have done well, Antoine. Everywhere they tell me of the Cote d'Or. I have come to find what flavor it is in your food that has won the hearts and opened the purses of these busy people."

"So be it," Casserole replied; "it shall be our pleasure to serve you."

He spoke as kindly as he could, but later, when he saw the eyes of Lefourbe as they gazed on one of Adolphe's steaming dishes, his heart was hard, and he wished one might without dishonor deny an acquaintance who had not offended except by evil report.

Monsieur Lefourbe dined long, for even a rogue may understand an omelet, and dream a rogue's dream over an ancient wine. When he passed by Madame's cage, with the money Monsieur Casserole would on no account accept from an old acquaintance, he lifted his eyebrows ever so slightly.

"And Adolphe," he inquired, "he is still with you? And he still clings to his superstition—oh, so foolish—of the apron of Bertrand de Bouillon?"

Monsieur Casserole shrugged his shoulders.

"Adolphe, he is still our chef," he said.

"Ah!" said Monsieur Lefourbe softly, and he went out under the elevated. For once Madame Casserole neglected to smile over her prolific chin.

Three weeks later Lefourbe opened the Cafe Glacial almost directly across the narrow street from the Cote d'Or. Most brilliantly, with music that by its rhythm awakened memories of that far-off city, he opened to the public his Parisian cafe.

Questions From the World of Love Answered by a Noted Authority

The Foolish Husband Who Is Jealous of His Wife's Love for Her Mother.

Dear Miss Dix—I am married to the sweetest girl in the world, and I would be perfectly happy, except for one thing. About every month or two she is bound to see her mother, who lives about 25 miles from us and this makes me wild. It isn't that I don't like her mother. I do. She is a splendid woman and never interferes with us as some mother-in-laws do. But I can't bear that my wife should want anybody but me. What shall I do?

—JOHN.

ANSWER:

Well, if I were you, John, I would summon a little common sense to my aid and I would make an attempt to look at the situation with clear eyes, instead of through bilious green spectacles.

You are jealous because your wife loves her mother. Stop and consider what sort of a poor creature she would be if she did not love the mother who bore her; the mother who nursed her through her infancy and childhood; who has watched by her bedside through long nights of sickness; who has made a thousand sacrifices for her; who has shown her nothing but tenderness and affection all the days of her life.

Why, a woman who doesn't love a good mother hasn't anything in her that is worth any man's loving. She has neither heart nor appreciation, nor gratitude. She is as hard as a rock and as cold as a fish. She is a grafter who takes everything and who gives back nothing in return.

Why, a girl that doesn't love her mother is destitute of all natural affection. She is incapable of loving any human creature except herself. She has no tenderness in her even to give to her husband. Her emotions are dried up at the source.

It angers you that when your wife married you she did not put her mother altogether out of her life and be content never to see or hear of her again. Do you realize what that would mean if she could do it?

It would mean that she was utterly lacking in loyalty and could break all the ties that held her to her past life as easily as if they were pack threads. That she could forget the debt she owed her mother for all her goodness to her. That she could blot out the memory of all her mother's devotion. That she could callously hurt the heart that trusted her. That she could be faithful to the bread she has eaten all her life.

That isn't the kind of a wife a man wants.

The thing that a man wants more than anything else in his wife is loyalty. He wants to know that he can trust her; that she will stick by him through thick and thin; that she will never forget him, never forsake him; and that neither time nor distance nor other interests can ever dull her love for him.

Loyalty is something that is knit into the very fiber of a woman's soul, if she has it all, and so if your wife were disloyal to her mother she would be disloyal to you. If she could forget her mother, she would forget you. If she could cease to love her mother because she had made new ties, the day would come when other interests would blot out her affection for you.

Don't be jealous of your wife's love for her mother nor resent her desire to see her. It is such foolishness, because the love that a woman gives her mother and her husband are totally different. They no more conflict than her liking for roast beef and ice cream.

Believe me, there is no safer friend that a girl can have than a good mother.

What Do You Know About It?

Daily Science Six

1. What causes the phosphorescence of wood?
2. What is the purpose of the light on fireflies?
3. Is the glow worm a worm?
4. What makes the brilliant colors of some beetle's backs?
5. What makes the flame of a slow furnace fire blue?
6. What is the will-o'-the-wisp?

Answers to these questions in Tomorrow's Record News.

Fossy Jaw.

The strangest of all occupational diseases is that known as fossy jaw. It is contracted by those working with phosphorus, especially phosphorous matches. People in close contact with phosphorus presently notice a decaying of the bone structure. It is not known how phosphorous gets at the bones in the body but somehow it does, and it especially attacks the lower jaw, causing it to decay and sink in. Legislation had to be passed putting a stop to the manufacture of pure phosphorous matches. Matches manufactured in compliance with the law have only a minute tip of phosphorous, which will ignite very easily, and so set fire to the sulphur which makes up most of the match head. Sulphur, though similar in many ways to phosporous, will not harm the bones of those who work with it.

Now what do you know about that?

Answers to yesterday's questions:

1. Nematodes are round-worms, generally parasitic.
2. A worm is an invertebrate animal.
3. Caterpillar are not worms, but insects.
4. Cut-worms eat through the stems of garden plants just at the ground.
5. Maggots are not worms but the larvae of insects, often called grubs.
6. Worms, that is, angle worms, are useful to man because they stir up the soil around the roots of garden plants.

POEMS THAT LIVE

"The Sky," by Richard Henry Stoddard.

I fear that Stoddard is almost forgotten; yet fine poetry has a way of cropping up again in most unexpected ways. We need a revival of certain of our American singers, like Emily Dickinson, Lanier, Father Tabb, Field, Guiney, Stoddard and a dozen others. Few of them have been properly appreciated. We are too prone to fasten our attention upon some whipper-snapper of the moment, neglecting the best we have.

The sky is a drinking-cup,
That was overturned of old,
And it pours in the eyes of men
Its wine of airy gold.

We drink that wine all day,
Till the last drop is drained up,
And are lighted off to bed
By the jewels in the cup!

DALLAS, May 31.—(AP)—An investigation unofficially reported to involve alleged "heresy" was under way here today at Southern Methodist university, whose theology school was referred to a survey committee by west Texas Methodists in conference recently in San Antonio, the Times-Herald says in a news story.

THIS WOMAN'S BATTLE

Wins Against Ill Health

"At times I was hardly able to do my housework," writes Mrs. Margaret Wallace, of 1547 Safford Ave., Columbus, Ohio. How many women have found themselves in this same condition! How many women have fought bravely on, day after day, cooking, washing, ironing, doing the dishes, and keeping the house clean, when they were in a weakened condition and had not sufficient strength to perform these duties.

A friend advised her to take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and she gave it a fair trial. "I just can't give enough thanks to it," she writes. "Now I can eat anything at all and I am feeling better than I have for years. I shall never be without your medicine again."

A woman who is fighting for her health and her family's happiness is a valiant soldier. She wages her battle in her own kitchen. She has no thrilling bugles to cheer her on, no waving banners.

Many other women tell us, as Mrs. Wallace did that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has restored their health.

Hark to me, folks, while I relate
The story of a man named Tate,
Who watched the clouds, the wind, and rain.

Till people thought he was not sane.
Rods on his house and barn he stuck
So by no lightning he'd be struck;
For weeks he worked just like a slave,
To dig himself a cyclone cave.

Some poet at some time has sung.
'Twas true with Tate! He feared a blizzard,
But choked to death on a chicken gizzard!

THE BUTTER AND EGG MAN.
By Amalia Matt.

My friend lived in the country. As is usual in country places, there was almost a quantity of wood to be sawed for the winter's needs.

One morning, nearing the noon hour, a man approached the place. He had every appearance of "traveling by choice," as his profession.

My friend inquired what he wanted.

"WORK!" came his quick reply.

"GOOD!" exclaimed my friend, "Can you saw wood?"

"FINE! I'm an old wood saw man—"

"What will you do it for?" asked my friend, referring to the price of his labor.

"Well," the fellow drawled leisurely, "as it's almost dinner time—you give me my dinner, and we'll call it square."

"Very good," acquiesced my friend, "Fair enough."

The man was taken to the wood, the wood was laid out to be sawed, and he was given the necessary implements for the work at hand. My friend departed to the house.

"One moment, ma'am," called the man. "As it's so near dinner time—if you'll give me my eats first—I can work that much harder—"

"All right," my friend greed.

The fellow was given a good, square meal, and was left to carry out his end of the bargain.

About two o'clock my friend went into the backyard to see how the work was progressing.

Pinned to the bark of an old hickory tree, under which reposed the wood, she found the following missive in a badly scrawled hand:

"JUST TELL THEM THAT YOU SAW ME—BUT I DIDN'T SAW THE WOOD!"

What They'll Find.

Bob: "It will be interesting to read full details of Amundsen's trip to the North Pole, won't it?"

Bob: "Yes, and he also found an American Byrd there."

LONDON, May 31.—(AP)—London business men ar adopting the American quick lunch idea and are not eating as much as formerly.

Dr. W. J. Haworth, medical officer for the health of the city of London, commenting in his annual report on the reduction of the number of "the more expensive and luxurious city restaurants," says: "The heavy meal of former days is being replaced—I am referring to the successful men in the higher administrative ranks—by a lighter meal occupying not a quarter of the time and as was the custom in years gone by, when lunch was sort of a middle feast.

"The increase in the newer type of cheaper restaurants has certainly benefitted a large number o fpeople, who take a sandwich and milk, tea or coffee at the noon hour."

GUM 109A

MEN AND WOMEN USE SILPH TO REDUCE

It Chews Like Gum

"I have taken off 18 lbs. of excess fat with SILPH and feel like a new man." Signed W. H. M., Brooklyn.

No Dangerous Drugs— Guaranteed Harmless!

Why shouldn't men as well as the fair sex care to have a normal figure? There is an old saying, "Nobody likes a FAT man." Who knows better than the one overburdened with excess weight that this is true.

A man's appearance means much to his social success or in business—Wives should encourage their husbands to reduce if they see the threatening signs of a double chin—a bulging stomach coming on—A trim, well proportioned figure is an asset that no man can afford to scoff at. Excess weight is recognized to be dangerous by insurance companies and physicians—If a man is overburdened by fat he cannot enjoy perfect health and he is in constant danger of a sudden death.

It should now be easy and pleasant for anyone to reduce—SILPH is used by thousands of people—It comes in form of a pleasant, refreshing chewing gum—two or three pieces of SILPH a day generally gives most satisfactory results.

Beware of Cheaper Imitations

Silph is the name of the original and genuine gum which is used in New York by most beautiful actresses and dancers to keep trim and slender. It is the only one we personally guarantee to be safe and harmless.

Prof. Budlong states, "I have lost 25 lbs. with SILPH and have been relieved from high blood pressure from which I suffered greatly."

SILPH sells at all good drug or dept. stores for 50c a box. If your druggist is out of it send direct to the SILPH CO., 9 W. 60th St., N.Y.C.

The Walrus and the electric motor

'The time has come,' the Walrus said,
'To talk of many things:
Of shoes—and ships—and sealing-wax—
Of cabbages—and kings—'

THE WALRUS in "Alice through the Looking Glass" must have had in mind the wide service that an electric light and power company renders.

Electric power operates motors that make shoes quickly and economically.

In shipyards it runs machines that fabricate steel parts.

As for sealing-wax, electricity is used by industry to heat wax, paraffin and glue.

Cabbage? Yes, and many another vegetable and fruit on farms where electricity pumps water through the irrigating ditches.

And the kings. Electricity makes us all the equal of kings—in the quick and obedient service it gives and the amount of leisure its use affords.

A pretty complete picture, isn't it? Complete service like that is what this company is in business to give you twenty-four hours a day.

Danger Signals of Indigestion

The Disease That Strikes Like Lightning

Beware of indigestion—the disease that kills more people and kills them quicker than any other. This warning by physicians, is particularly applicable this season of the year, when your system "lets down" in tone and vigor on account of warm weather.

What are the warnings that nature gives you of the approach of indigestion? The medical book tells us: 1. Gas, which means that your food is fermenting instead of digesting. 2. A feeling of fullness or oppression in the region of the stomach after eating. This means that the gas has ballooned your stomach and is pressing up against your heart and lungs. 3. A dull lazy feeling, which means that you are not getting nourishment from what you are eating. 4. Restfulness, unrefreshing sleep, which means that the poisons of indigestion are disturbing your brain and nerves. 5. Sometimes pain and fluttering around the heart, though this symptom may come later.

Don't take chances with indigestion—you are too apt to lose. If you have had any of the symptoms mentioned above, get your digestive organs to work at once with Ferraline, Nature's great stomach treatment that has given relief to thousands. Ferraline immediately aids and assists every one of your digestive organs, including your stomach, liver and bowels. Ferraline makes your digestion "perfect and complete." You feel its helpful effect from the very first dose. Get a bottle of Ferraline today at any drug store. Ferraline is so much superior to any other remedy for indigestion that the owners have instructed every druggist to refund the purchase price, One Dollar, if you do not get relief, so it costs you nothing if you are not delighted with results. Delay might be dangerous. Get Ferraline today from your druggist.—(Adv.)

ELECTRA STORE BURNS

ELECTRA, May 31.—The Electra fire department was called to the Allen grocery store Monday, where the building caught fire from what is believed to be defective wiring. Splendid work was done to protect the Rippy and Wolf filling station next door, although the store was a total loss, there being $500 damage on the stock, and approximately $500 damage on the building. The building was owned by A. C. Rippy, a city commissioner. Gordon Allen was owner of the stock, and his store was known as "Electra's cleanest grocery."

NEGRO ON TRIAL

VERNON, May 31.—That part of northwest of Vernon known as the "flats" was practically deserted Monday when its population migrated to Quanah to hear the trial of Roy McKissick, Vernon negro, who is being tried on a statutory charge in the 46th district court in session there, with Judge Robert Cole. A nine-year-old girl is the prosecuting witness, and the case is attracting much attention among the population.

Sheriff Edmonson and his deputies carried thre car loads of witnesses to Quanah early Monday, and many other cars followed.

WHAT TODAY MEANS TO YOU

Today's planetary aspects are exceptionally favorable until noon. They then change and, although not adverse, fail to create that stimulation which will be sensed during the early part of the day. The indications point to assured success along all lines of constructive effort and, if you contemplate the launching of any new enterprise or the carrying out of any radical change, it would be advisable to put your plans into execution during the early hours of the day. Such efforts will not necessarily lose any of their momentum in the afternoon, but there will not be sensed at that time the courage, initiative, and confidence that will be felt during the morning.

Children born today are destined, according to the signs, to have more than their fair share of sickness during infancy. Unremitting care and well-regulated nutrition will enable them to pass through these transitory vicissitudes, and put them firmly on the road that leads to physical normalcy. They will, as children, be rather peevish and trying. As their health improves, however, this condition will be replaced by one of content and moderate happiness. They will be assiduous in their studies, and always more anxious to learn than to play. They will not show any strong desire to make friends and, even in after life, will not be very congenial and companionable.

If today is your birthday, your chronic state of mind is not conductive to success, as you are always "imagining vain things." Your vision is not practical and you can conjure up more distressing contingencies than an average person would ever experience. Your friends might say:

"Why will thou add to all the griefs I suffer. Imaginary ills, and fancy tortures?"

You possess a great fund of knowledge on a variety of subjects. You however, reject many a good proposition submitted to you, because of the fear—more often than not, unfounded—of something happening. Your friends, owing to your depressing characteristics, are few, as no one chooses willingly a pessimist for a companion. The world is never looking for destructive criticism. It offers big rewards for constructive effort.

Your home life is not, as is to be expected, as happy as it could be. Every home needs sunshine, and your outlook on everything keeps the shades drawn all the time. You are loyal, but not demonstratively affectionate. Too much emotion, in your view, would probably estrange that which you desire to attract.

Successful people born on this date are:

Charles G. Eastman, editor and poet.

William J. Stillman, journalist and author.

GULF NO-NOX MOTOR FUEL
STOPS KNOCKS
Turns Mountains into Mole hills

FOR many years mechanical engineers struggled to build automobile engines of higher compression. As compression is increased the power line goes up and the fuel consumption line goes down—ordinary gasolines would not withstand this higher compression without knocks, clicks, or detonations—accumulated carbon deposits increased this compression by decreasing the size of the combustion chamber—and the audible sounds of the engine distress grew louder.

It has been our good fortune to produce a gasoline that positively eliminates clicks, pings, and knocks.

Gulf No-Nox and Carbon are Power Twins

GULF No-Nox Motor Fuel withstands compression to a high degree; carbon, increasing the compression of the engine, ceases to be a nightmare as long as it does not interfere with valve action. In other words, it puts carbon to work. More power and greater efficiency is thereby accomplished, resulting in greater mileage.

With GULF No-Nox Motor Fuel in your tank—step on it—you will get the story better than we can tell it.

This Guarantee goes with it

GULF No-Nox Motor Fuel is Non-Noxious, Non-Poisonous and no more harmful to man or motor than ordinary gasoline—that it contains no dope of any kind—that the color is for identification only—that it positively will not heat the motor summer or winter.

GULF No-Nox Motor Fuel is priced three cents per gallon higher than ordinary gasoline—and is worth it.

Norma Talmadge in "Graustark"

Wanted— a 1925 model crown.

There is a great discussion on out at the First National studios in Culver City, and it centers around the absorbing question:

Do 1925 model princesses wear crowns—or not?

The decision will affect the appearance of Norma Talmadge when she is seen in "Graustark," now in production. There are a few sticklers for royal etiquette who insist that princesses will always wear crowns, but others declare that crowns went out of fashion with pompadours and bustles.

There is a rumor on foot that the two factions will compromise on a royal-looking tiara made of pearls and diamonds.

County Will Pay Bond Assessment

The decision of the United States supreme court with reference to the Archer county road district bonds is not to effect the Electra road district bonds, at least insofar as payment of principal and interest due June 10 is concerned, the county commissioners ruled Monday in authorizing payment of $20,489.95 to the Hanover National Bank, New York City, County Treasurer T. W. McHam was authorized to forward the money immediately.

While it is legalized, the commissioners stated, that the bonds have been invalidated, the money for the payment has been collected from the taxpayer and the fact that the bonds were purchased by the Hanover in good faith makes payment of the amount due almost obligatory.

Poor Old Carl Williams Disappoints Knockers By Checking Herd

Veteran Side-Arm Hurler Pitches Almost Shut-Out Ball Against Conleymen

Brainard's Bombarders Knock Thunder Out of Thundering Longhorns to Take Long End of 9 to 3 Score

BY BLONDY CROSS

DALLAS, May 31.—Brainard's bombers knocked the thunder out of Dallas' so-called Thundering Herd this balmy afternoon before a capacity holiday gathering. The riddled Glen Darrough with a varied assortment of rifle shots that caused Manager Snipe Conley himself to rush frantically to the rescue in the fifth frame. The attack continued at a fair clip on the veteran spitballer.

Sombeody broadcast a crack last week in Wichita Falls to the effect that the veteran Carl Williams is slated for the discard. The side-armer stepped into the relief role at Beaumont a day later and chunked immaculate ball, so the same guessing person came back 24 hours later with announcement that Carl would be given another chance or two to show his wares.

The veteran starboarder, in truth never was scheduled to be cut adrift, thrown into the discard or anything similar by the Spudders. And why? Because Williams has been performing and is capable of continuing for many seasons at the sterling mound gait he disported himself with today against the heavy hitting league leaders.

Williams was returned the victor over the Steers, 9-3. Statistically speaking, but one run was deserved and that came in the ninth round after there were two away, Paddy Bauman lofting a groover into the left field bleachers for non-stop passage.

Well Nigh Invincible

Williams hurled well-nigh invincible ball this afternoon. His pitching today could win in any league. He was never in danger until the sixth when Bauman and Gross got on base with infield scratches. Woeber followed with a pop to short right. The play would have ben easy pickings for either Turgeon or Bodie, if the boys hadn't become crossed up, with result the ball fell between them, each thinking the other was going to make the catch. Bauman scored. Miller forced Woeber at second, but Gross checked in. Riley lined to Bodie for what should have been the third out, but the runs already were in the bag. With exception of Bauman's sailer in the ninth, Williams turned back the Steers with monotonous regularity, monotonous if you take the natives perspective.

Yeah, poor old decrepit Carl just can't pitch any more and isn't good enough to play the outfield or anywhere else. Its the waste basket for him.

Curves Not Baffling

Darrough's spasmodic knuckler and left-handed curve ball bore no baffling earmarks to the arrogant Spudders. They started off in the first stanza and grabbed a three-run advantage. The explosion occurred after there were two out. Jenkins opened the drive with a blistering single to left center. Bodie drew a base on balls and Brainard followed with a one-baser hrough second. DeFate sent the pair over with a two-cushion swish to port. Washburn caught one of Darrough's truant tosses in the ribs. Then Lapan boosted a single down the third base line, scoring Brainard. Williams uncorked a lusty larrup to right center. It looked good for two bases, but Miller charged over to enact a spectacular bit of robbery, retiring the side.

Bodie doubled in the third and spiked the dish on sacrifices by Brainard and DeFate.

Singles by Williams and Lamb backed up with a double by Jenkins counted two more in the fourth. DeFate, Washburn, Lapan and Williams split a quartet of singles between Darrough and Conley in the fifth, scoring a brace. Washburn combed a single off snipers delivery in the ninth and scored in front of a double to left center by Lapan.

Bare 18 Hits

These Spudders don't hit so well. They came through for a bare 18 base wallops. Every man in the battle order connected for at least one safety. Washburn, Lapan and Jenkins carried away the slugging palm. Three blows sprang from the bat of each.

The Spudders worked afield not only flawlessly but miraculously.

They're back home again Tuesday if the train isn't wrecked. Conley and his gang jump to Wichita Falls with the Spudders for three games. Jim Roberts is billed for spinning duties in the opener.

Manager of Cleveland Puts Jamieson on Sidelines For Poor Hitting

CLEVELAND, May 31.—(AP)—Cleveland and Chicago broke even today, Chicago taking the first, 3 to 1, and Cleveland the second, 5 to 4, in twelve innings. Singles by Spurgeon, J. Sewell and Burns, with errors by Barrett and Hunnefield allowed Cleveland to score twice in the twelfth after Chicago had scored one in its half. In the second game Manager Speaker benched himself and Left Fielder Jamieson for poor hitting. In the first game Falk ran his batting streak to seven straight hits before being stopped, while Lyons had pitched 23 scoreless innings against Cleveland before the latter scored. Score:

Vernon Track Team Departs for Chicago

VERNON, May 31.—Coach E. A. Baggett of the Vernon high school and the five members of his relay team left Vernon this morning for Chicago where they will run in the National interscholastic meet to be held at Stagg field there Friday and Saturday of this week. The five making the trip are C. Key, R. Key, W. Crouch, G. T. Castleberry, and B. Ryan.

The team recently broke three records, one of them a world record, at the Missouri valley meet held at Mahattan, Kansas. The Vernon team won third place at the Chicago meet last year.

Go ahead and roll 'em— with P.A.

IF YOU'VE never rolled a cigarette with Prince Albert, you're like a fellow standing in line on pay-day. You've got something good coming to you! Good? Well, that word's hardly strong enough. You've got more downright roll-your-own pleasure coming to you than you ever thought possible.

Because, P. A. makes the best little home-rolled cigarette ever. No better cigarette tobacco than Prince Albert ever curled up in a paper. It's crimp-cut and stays put. Doesn't flutter to the floor as you roll it. This is just a detail, of course. The taste is the big thing.

Cigarettes made with Prince Albert taste great. They smoke so cool and sweet, you'll want to make one right after the other. They're fragrant as honeysuckle. Never bite the tongue or parch the throat. The Prince Albert process attended to that little item right at the beginning.

Get a tidy red tin or a toppy red bag of P. A. today. Make yourself some wonderful cigarettes. For variety, try a load or two of this same, wonderful tobacco in the bowl of your old jimmy-pipe. No matter how you smoke it or where, Prince Albert is a grand little pal.

P. A. is sold everywhere in tidy red tins and toppy red bags. And always with every bit of bite and parch removed by the Prince Albert process.

Youthful Daredevil Sends Automobile to Victory in First Big Race

Memorial Day Classic, Halted By Rain, Cut 100 Miles, Won By Lockhart

Thousands Are Soaked to Skin as Speeding Machines Are Flagged Into Pits at End Of 400 Speedy Miles

INDIANAPOLIS, May 31.(AP)—A youthful driving daredevil from Los Angeles won $40,000 and the speed crown of the racing world on the Indianapolis Motor Speedway today.

Frank Lockhart, 23 years old, driving his first major race, piloted his little white colored racer to victory in the motor classic, cut to 400 miles because of a downpour of rain. The event, scheduled for 500 miles, was ended when rain laden clouds suddenly gathered and let loose a deluge that soaked the track, making any further attempt to continue too perilous.

As the flying racers were flagged into the pits, the rain came down in torrents, soaking thousands of spectators to the skin. In the rush for protection under the grandstands stretching for a mile along the left side of the track, several women were trampled on and fainted. Costly wearing apparel and the newest millinery creations were ruined.

Stops But Once.

Lockhart, stopping only once during the race and driving the entire 400 miles without relief, sent his little car 160 circuits of the rough brick 2 1-2 mile course in 4:13:37.78, an average of 94.63 miles an hour. He finished five miles in front of Harry Hartz, a Los Angeles rival, who was flagged down in second place. Cliff Woodbury, a Chicagoan, was third, about a mile behind Hartz.

Fred Comer, another Los Angeles entry, was fourth.

Pete de Paolo, the smiling young Italian, winner of the 1925 classic, was fifth, nearly 17 miles behind the winner. De Paolo, however, was driving at remarkable speed at the time the race ended, gaining steadily on the leaders and might have improved his position if it had gone the limit.

Lockhart, a graduate of the dirt tracks, won $20,000 as first prize, $9,600 in lap prize money and about $10,000 offered by accessory firms. He drove a masterly race, handling his car with the skill of a DePalma and except for a few seconds clung tenaciously to the lead after he once took possession of it. He went into the lead at the 152nd mile, after Dave Lewis had set the early pace. From the 152nd mile on, Lockhart engaged in a terrific duel with Hartz, always leading in less than sixty seconds, but in the meantime Hartz had snatched the lead.

Pushes It to Limit.

The young Californian, however, pushed his car to the limit of its speed, sometimes hitting 130 miles an hour on the straightaways and quickly overcame Hartz. He refused to be disturbed from his leading position and was increasing his lead every second until the deluge ended the race.

Thirteen of the original 28 starters finished. All of the foreign creations, four French and two British, succumbed to the punishing test of speed before the race was half over. The three front drive cars also failed to stand up and were forced out. The entry powered with the only two-cycle motor in the race was wrecked.

The speedway management estimated the crowd at between 140,000 and 150,000, making it the largest that ever witnessed a sporting event in America.

Today's race was run off under the worst weather conditions in the fourteen years of the event. The skies were overcast when dawn broke over the huge racing plant and three hours before the start, a drenching rain soaked the track, making the narrow ribbon of brick dangerously slippery. As the racers roared away in their perilous ride, the spectators gasped in the excitement that the drivers might be dashed to death tearing around the curves or shooting along the straightaways.

Showers Halt Race.

After 170 miles had reeled off, another shower suddenly sprung up, forcing a temporary halt in the race until the sun broke through and dried the track. Before the race could be stopped, however, Ben Jones of Slater, Miss., sent his car crashing into a retaining wall on the south curve.

The car was wrecked. Jones, presumably blinded by the rain that smeared his goggles, miracously escaped injury.

Lockhart is a veritable dare-devil, knowing no fear and refusing to be awed by the class of his field. He came to Indianapolis as a relief driver, but was given a chance to start when the pilot selected for the car was stricken with illness. Lockhart astonded the racing fans in this trials by driving his car 115.488 miles an hour, the fastest speed ever attained on the course.

Today's race markell the first for cars powered with motors with 91 1-2 cubic inches piston displacement, a motor smaller than the power plant of a standard flivver. The speed attained was much slower than a year ago when the engines were of 122 cubic inches piston displacement. The experts say the new motors have not been perfected to the point where greater speed may be developed from them.

Yank Balloonist Wins Belgian Race

BRUSSELS, May 31.—(AP)—The American balloon, Goodyear III, manned by T. Van Orman, with Walter W. Morgan assisting, has won what is considered here as one of the most difficult and dangerous races for the Gordon Bennett trophy in twenty years. The Goodyear landed at Solvesborg, southern Sweden, having covered 528 miles under exceptionally arduous conditions, assailed in turn by snow, rain and squalls. The balloons took off late yesterday from the aviation field near Antwerp.

The admiration of aeronautic circles over the splendid achievement, however, is marred by the anxiety over John A. Boettner, aboard the other American balloon, the Akron NAA of whom nothing has been heard since his companion was jumped out of the balloon, almost at the start, involving disqualification.

Cubs, Cards Split

CHICAGO, May 31.—(AP)—Chicago and St. Louis divided a double header here today, St. Louis winning the first game, 8 to 5, by bunching their hits off Bush. Chicago took the second game, 8 to 7, by staging a batting rally in the eighth inning. The crowd overflowed into the field, making ground rules necessary. Score:

Split Twin Bill

PITTSBURGH, May 31.—(AP)—Cincinnati and Pittsburgh divided the Memorial day double bill here today, the Reds taking the morning game, 7 to 2, and the Pirates the afternoon contest, 9 to 5. The visitors bunched hits in the fifth and ninth innings of the morning contest, while Mays kept the local hits well scattered. Seven two-base hits featured the contest. Timely hitting enabled the Champions to win this afternoon. Lucas, who started for the Reds, was driven from the mound and Rixey relieved him. Morrison pitched effective ball and was never in daner. Roush was out of the game, having injured himself sliding into second in the morning fray. Score:

PLAYERS RESPECT THIS UMPIRE'S DECISIONS

Clarence Rowland, who sometimes finds himself addressed as "Pants," even when the demi tasse is being served, is will on another season as one of the American league umpires.

We say well on, for Rowland has already systematized the cleaning of his wardrobe—a matter of some importance to the immaculate caller of strikes.

In addition to being one of the most satisfactory umps in the big show today Rowland has a better working knowledge of baseball, from the business as well as the player side, than most men.

This despite the fact that his playing days were short and unsung.

Rowland started his baseball career as a bat boy for the Dubuque, Ia., Three-Eye league club and was graduated from that task to the post of player. That was in 1902. Rowland yearned to become a big league catcher. He was "catching" on to the ways of the game when a blow from a bat crippled his throwing arm and ended his days as a player.

Tries Hand as Pilot.

He had become popular enough, however, and had impressed the club owners to the extent that they signed him to manage the club the next year. And before he finally moved up to the big show he had managed the team seven years—four years, a break, and then three more. During that break he managed Aberdeen, Jacksonville and Winnipeg, all in different leagues. He held the dual role of owner and manager his last three years at Dubuque. Then he broke connections with the team and managed the Peoria club.

About that time the White Sox were wallowing about in the mire. Charley Comiskey was looking for someone to boss the club. He knew Rowland from the old days at Dubuque and decided to give Clarence a chance. The baseball world laughed at Commy when he signed a "bush league" manager who had never even played in the big show. Rowland and Commy enjoyed the last laugh together, however. He landed the team in third place in 1915, pushed it up a notch the next year, and then just naturally won the flag in 1917 and eased the Giants out in the world's series that followed.

The team dropped to sixth place the next season and Pants dropped out the next campaign.

Then Rowland took a flier at owning a club in the American Association, but after running the Milwaukee club a year he sold it.

A whirl at scouting for big league clubs, one year as manager of the Columbus team and then, three years ago, he was signed to umpire in the American league.

I saw Rowland down in St. Petersburg, Fla., last spring, all dolled up in one of his perfect-fitting suits, jaunty cap and jaunty smile. I'm not sure whether the sunshine or a quick turnover on a lot had put the smile there. But Rowland always has that beam ready—even when the jolly ball players make believe they are real angry.

Iron Man Role Proves Too Much For Irish Marty

Fighting Irishman Trounces Dago Ryan, But Duke Puts Him to Sleep

After showing Dago Ryan as many gloves as he probably had ever seen before, making a veritable monkey out of the Dallas newsboy, Marty Flaherty, who has essayed the ring iron-man role, was forced to kiss the canvas and remain prone while his second tosses in the sponge, at the American legion arena Monday night.

The first half of the main go was called a decision for Ryan, but Flaherty deserved the bout by a wide margin. Only in the second round did Ryan show anything worth showing, and this was matched with hard pokes to the head by the Boston Irishman.

Ryan never carried a round over Flaherty and most of his blows were stopped with arms and shoulders. Flaherty had the Dallas welter groggy on several occasions. Ryan was in such poor condition after the battle that he found it difficult to stand on his feet.

In the second battle Duke Trammel was for too much for him and the battle came to a sudden end in the second round when Duke landed his famous bone-crushing right to the jaw.

Duke carried the first round with a narrow margin, and in the second he caught Flaherty a hard right to the jaw while the Boston welter was in the ropes and wide open.

Flaherty took the count of nine and then came back into the fight. A moment later Duke again led him into the ropes and catching the jaw wide open he drove him right back to the head.

Hits the Floor

Flaherty went down flat of his back and at about the seventh count his second slipped in the towel. Flaherty made a brave effort to throw the towel back from the ring and continue the fight, but he was too far gone to put up much fight and the battle ended.

Buckshot Peoples and Tex Ray battled to a six-round draw in the semi-final. Ray and Peoples swapped on pretty even terms for the first four rounds. In the fifth, Ray battered Buckshot without mercy, but the game little Wichita Falls welter came back strong in the sixth round and battered Ray heavily about the head.

Ray tried in vain to land a telling punch in the wind, but found that this was too hard and he turned to the head with much more success. It was lacing blows to the head that had Peoples hanging on in the fifth round.

Trooper Carr outpointed Dale Bolen in a four-round preliminary. It was a fast, clean-cut battle all the way through.

Sailor Lewis and Soldier Burns battled to a fast four-round draw decision.

Growing tired of the bad decisions that Sailor Murphy claims has been thrust upon him of late, the popular Wichita Falls welterweight made short work of Johnnie Moran and slipped him the sleep wallop in the first round.

GOLF
As Champions Play It

How many golf clubs should the average woman golfer carry?

BY BILL STRACHAN
Wichita Falls Country Club Golf Professional.

The average player should carry about nine clubs in her bag, not counting an extra putter, which is a good thing to have handy in case you go suddenly "off" your regular one. The nine clubs will consist of three woodens—driver, brassie and spoon. These should be perfectly matched and about the same weight. All the clubs, including the irons, should weigh as nearly the same as possible and be balanced in the same place, so that one does not have to change the swing in order to adapt it to the club. The irons including the midiron, mashie-iron, mashie, mashie-niblick, niblick, and putter. A short club with a little more loft than a putting cleek is also useful from the edge of the green. A jigger fulfills these requirements.

RATS EAT UP MONEY

Dunkirk Rodents Unwittingly Take a Part in Stabalizing Currency

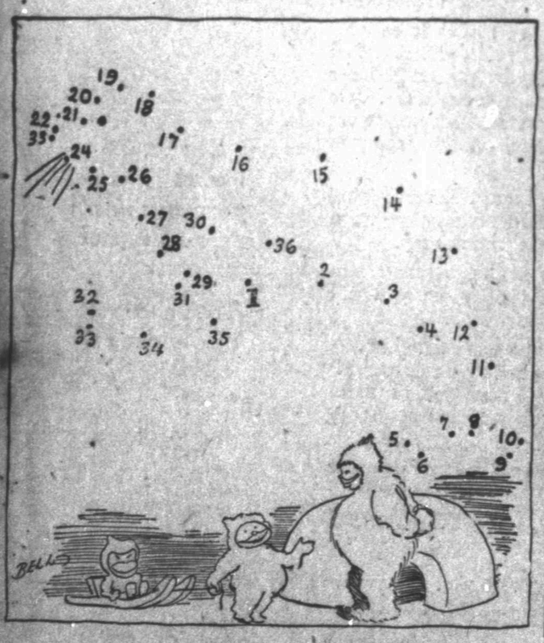

PARIS, May 31.—The rats of Dunkirk unwittingly have joined the "save the franc" movement. Desire Marusset, a farmer living just on the outskirts of the city, put his savings, about twenty thousand francs, into national defense bonds. When they were about to mature he went to draw them from their hiding place in the garret. They were missing. He complained to the police. A careful search revealed traces of the bonds in a rat hole. The entire twenty thousand francs' worth of paper had been chewed up by rats to make their nest.

LOUISIANA-TEX, LINE GETS PLAY IN NEW FIELD

Wells Come In for High Initials of 42 Gravity Oil

SHREVEPORT, La., May 31.—So far as operations on the Texas side of the Louisiana-Texas stat eline are concerned, the line, until recently, appears to have been regarded as a wall barring the existence of oil in the Caddo fields on the east side, existing inMarion and Harrison counties, Texas, on the west side. Sixteen feet of saturated sand drilled into by Clark and Melat, old timers and conservative operators in the North Louisiana and South Arkansas fields, in their No. 1 Hope, just west of the state line on the south shore of Caddo Lake leads them to spend over $100,000 for the additional leases totaling between 4,000 and 5,000 acres.

The location of the newest strike is 20 miles northwest of Shreveport center of the oil industry of North Louisiana, East Texas and South Arkansas.

Completions record of this territory for the last week shows a 1,450 barrel well of 42.8 gravity oil by the Gulf Refining company just east of the state line. This well is of the same structure that Clark and Melat's well is on, with the exception that 46 feet higher on structure than the Gulf wells.

Lion O. & R. company and Empire G. & E. company is understood to have backed the pioneers in this territory and it is know that a number of major operators have gone in for production. Meanwhile leases that went begging six months ago are selling at $15 to 50 per acre and there is not much to be had at that price because a half dozen or so wells drilled along Caddo lake in Harrison and Marion counties, Texas, have all checked high on structure. The Clark and Melat well is the first to get anywhere near the level where production was expected.

Most of the available acreage has already been taken and there is little on the market. It appears that it is to be a well sewed up pool, if it is developed, according to all the signs.

NEW ORLEANS SPOTS

NEW ORLEANS, May 31.—(AP)—The cotton market today experienced a very quiet day the fact that not only New York was closed, but most of the southern markets as well militated against trading. The closing of most of the important southern markets naturally restricted orders from the interior. Following a slightly irregular opening, although Liverpool came in about as due, the market gradually improved during the morning until prices were five to six points above the close of Saturday. Later prices eased off slightly and July made a new low right at the end, losing all of the earlier advance. New crop months, however, were comparatively steady and never dropped more than a couple of points from the highs. The close showed no net change for July and net gains of three points on later positions.

At the start, Liverpool was about as due and first trades showed net gains of three points to net losses of three points. Prices soon eased off slightly, July trading down to 17.75 for July and 17.16 for October and December, or two to three points under the opening figures. These were lows of the day except for July which made a new low at 17.73 right at the end.

Prices later ruled steady and recovered, July trading up to 17.80, October to 17.22 and December to the same figure, or five or six points up from the lows. These prices were the highs of the day. The market eased off some in the late trading.

Exports or the day totalled 9,476 bales.

Cat Calls Greet Fascists Presence In N. Y. Parade

NEW YORK, May 31.—(AP)—ers, cat calls and shouts of "down th Mussoloni," caused by the presence of 200 fascisti marchers, created disturbance in New York's memorial day parade. Mounted police charged and dispersed the disturbers whose ardor, undampened by the soft rain at first threatened serious trouble.

Attired in black overseas caps with black tassels, black puttees, black breeches and shoes and the symbolic black shirts, the fascisti gathering fell in behind a band of Boy Scouts, their presence, saying that Mussoloni was opposed to the Americanization of Italians, in America, but the uninvited guests insisted on their right to participate along with delegations of veterans of half a dozen foreign countries.

On Riverside drive anti-fascisti numbering about 200 gathered and began jeering and shouting, pressing in menacingly upon the marchers. The crowds that lined the drive broke in confusion. Mounted police charged into the anti-fascisti and they fled. The fascisti continued in the parade.

Reconciliation Fails, Kills Wife

CISCO, May 31.—(AP)—Three persons met death by violence in Eastland county during the week-end. The victims were Mrs. Jack Ellis, shot to death; Mrs. Jake Neusbaum, drowned; and Charles M. Crist, killed when his automobile overturned.

Mrs. Ellis, employed as route woman by the Cisco laundry, was killed at Cross Plains Saturday. Her estranged husband is being held in jail in connection. He is alleged to have shot her twice after having failed to effect a reconciliation, and then to have slashed at his own throat, inflicting minor injuries.

Mrs. Neusbaum, 60, who resided alone on a farm 14 miles north of Cisco, supposedly was trapped by a sudden rise when she attempted to ford Sandy creek in a buggy Sunday. Three inches of rain had fallen northwest of Cisco Sunday, causing sudden rises in all creeks. Lake Cisco has registered a four-foot gain, and is still rising.

Crist, 45, an oil man, was killed eight miles south of Cisco when, according to his wife, who accompanied, the steering rod locked, causing the car to leave the road and overturn. His body will be sent to Blairstown, Mo., for burial.

Hour of Prayer Expected to Bring His Manifestation

TAMARACK, Minn., May 31.—(AP)—Opposed by most of the village's 200 residents, Victor Ewing, an optometrist, put finishing touches today to his plan for an hour of silent prayer in a nearby pasture tomorrow.

Confident that several thousand persons will heed his call for the meeting, he hoped there may be divine manifestation as result of the prayers, which will start at 10 a. m.

None of the ordinary rites of worship will be employed. There will be no singing or preaching—only silence. This, Ewing believes, will furnish God with "His first opportunity to have His way," and the Deity may be moved to make Himself visible. Ewing admits frankly, however, that he has no more idea of what will happen than anyone else.

The town's one minister, Rev. F. L. Channer, attacked Ewing and his plans yesterday from the Presbyterian pulpit. He told his congregation the projected prayer meeting probably will bring here thousands of persons "like Ewing—without any real belief in God" and feared that these people would "riot when God does not appear, as He certainly will not."

French Stomach A Hardy Organ

PARIS, May 31.—(AP)—A form of slow starvation faces the American tourist condemned to a dietetic regime in the smaller towns of France, which by their artistic beauties and historical associations naturally attract him. With the exception of potatoes, vegetables rarely figure on the menus of country hotels.

The provincial Frenchman has a strong stomach and likes such a luncheon as the following: Slices of sausage strongly flavored with garlic, liver paste potato salad and pickled herring. This to start with, to stimulate the appetite. Next comes stewed rabbit followed by pork chops and potatoes cooked in fat, the whole meal ending with cheese and fruit. He washes them down with a quart of ordinary wine, mixed with about two quarts of water. The principal customers of these hotels are traveling salesmen.

BEAUTIFUL FEET WILL BE SHOWN

Young Women Will Walk Pigeon-toed to Demonstrate Pedal Remedies

DALLAS, May 31.—(AP)—Seven barefoot women walking pigeon toed on the sidewalk will inaugurate the first convention of the Southern Association of Chiropodists meeting here June 6-7.

The bare feet will represent the quintessence of feminine Dallas foot beauty and will be used to demonstrate how to walk and how not to walk, according to W. Lee Austin of Dallas, secretary-treasurer of the Chiropodist society of Texas.

The twinkling of toes of what are termed the most perfect feet in Dallas will wiggle on the cement sidewalk in broad daylight with probably the mayor of Dallas present as official representative of the city just to show the public what chiropodists believe is the proper method of walking and carrying for the feet.

Contrary to the usual understanding, Dr. Austin state that walking pigeon toed is the normal and natural position of the human foot since it throws the weight upon the outside where it belongs. Not only this, but one of the most natural and healthful things for the pedal extremities is to go barefoot he said and so the seven young women who will display their dainty feet at the convention have formed a bare foot cult, agreeing to go without shoes a portion of the time.

"The purpose of this unusual display," said Dr. Austin, "is to demonstrate how to prevent foot troubles. Our profession, like the medical profession, believes in preventive measures as well as curative. The young men will go through prescribed foot exercises to show they keep their feet beautiful. There will be no unseemly display. It will be strictly a scientific demonstration."

Building Permits For May Run To $648,997 Figure

Building permits totalling $648,997 were issued by City Clerk W. E. McBroom during the month of May, figures announced at the close of business Monday afternoon indicated. The May figure represents 160 items, and is almost $1,000,000 less than the figure for April, and is the second lowest for this year, January only having been lower. Of the total $100,425 represents suburban work.

It brings the total for the year $4,471,123 for work in the city proper and to $412,075 for suburban work, or a total construction investment of $4,883,193. This figure was surpassed during 1925 only at the end of July, two months later than this year.

HAVE BAD DREAMS

Tourists in Germany Shown Too Many Monkeys and Elephants

BERLIN, June 1.—(AP)—"Don't show us any more zoos," is the plea of 300 middlewest tourists, including members of the Milwaukee Liederkranz who are taking in the sights in an eight week's trip.

"Monkeys, elephants and giraffes," they said, "are haunting us in our dreams because every city we visit proudly insists on displaying its zoological gardens."

The Liederkranz consists chiefly of men and women born of German descent. A number of them, however, are German born and are seeing the fatherland again for the first time in 20 or 30 years.

WEDDING RING GOES

Plain Gold Band Being Supplanted By Slender Loop of Platinum.

PARIS.—A plain gold wedding ring is an institution almost as old as marriage itself. It has passed through the ages with only slight variations in width and thickness. But at last fashion has attacked the emblem of matrimony and many brides this year are choosing a slender loop of platinum with small diamonds inserted, instead of the classic plain gold ring. "Another result of the war" says the old time conservatives, scandalized at such a departure from tradition. "The war has turned everything upside down."

Pole Complexion Comes Into Favor

LONDON—Complexions which give the face a transparent hue and an ivory pallor have come into favor.

The vogue came up along with the breath of spring, from the Riviera where the evening hour of the toilet is devoted to obliterating the effects of the sun and the sea.

London ballrooms from the tea time forward have become full of pale young women who appear with mysterious shadows around their eyes. The first object of a make-up now is to have the face as striking as possible in a pale interesting way, say the beaut ydoctors. It must not be beautiful, but it must be arresting. A new powder is of a shade of green, made for fair women—it makes them appear fairer and paler than ever.

For the brunette there is a powder of orchid color to be used with a little rouge on a deep dull red.

TEA AND POLITICS

British Woman Gives Formula for Regulation of the Youngsters

LONDON, June 1.—(AP)—Fill them with tea, let them dance and talk politics to them in the interval. This is the advice to the women's unionist organization given by Mrs. Dudley Stanhope referring to the young people of today.

"It has been discovered," she says, "that political powers are contained in the homely and humble cup of tea. If the voting age is lowered from 30 to 21 there may be six million extra irresponsible young women on the register who care only for dancing, picture houses and other pleasures. The only way to appeal to them is through the things they like annd enjoy. If they are keen on dancing give them a dance and tea, and get a speaker to talk politics for 10 minutes.

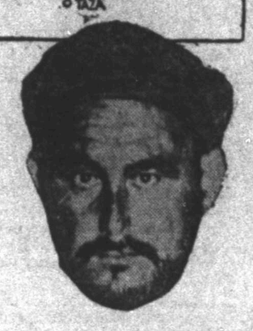

Robber Caught

A man wanted in this city in connection with the robbery a few days ago of a small hamburger stand was arrested Monday night in Abilene, according to word reaching this city. A city officer will probably be sent for him some time today.

About $35 was obtained in the robbery.

Abd-el Krim Ends Struggle for Independence in the Riff

Abd-el Krim, after thwarting the best efforts of Spanish troops through six years and the combined efforts of Spain and France through more than a year, has at last been forced to give in. The Spring offensives of his enemies meant too much slaughter; and his enemies were learning how too well to cope with his "gorilla" warfare. Abd-el Krim, one of whose recent photos is reproduced herewith, was trapped between his enemies at Ait Kamara, as indicated on the map. The shaded area indicates the Riff which has passed into Spanish and French hands.

HEROIC DEAD OF U.S. PRAISED

Coolidge Honors Nation's martyrs In Memorial Day Address

WASHINGTON, May 13.—(AP)—The memory of America's heroic war dead was honored today by President Coolidge who delivered a Memorial Day address near the graves of veterans whose last resting place is Arlington National Cemetery.

Turning to the old soldiers of '61 who sat about him in the cemetery's amphitheatre, he assured them that "the spirit which they so nobly represented two generations ago has not departed from the land," and declared that America and the world were attempting "by preventing war to succeed in peace."

As the old veterans "go down towards the setting sun," he said, "they will have the satisfaction of knowing that they are leaving behind them the same spirit, still undaunted, still ready to maintain in the future a more abiding peace and a more abounding prosperity, under which America can continue to work for the salvation of the world."

"Common sense" was laid down by Mr. Coolidge as the keynote of America's contribution to world peace and in discussing its application to a number of present day problems he touched upon the attitude of the Washington government toward the Geneva arms negotiations, the war debt settlements, and many domestic questions.

The president said America expected "practical results" from the preliminary arms negotiations at Geneva, asserted that Europe has the league of nations which ought to be able to provide those countries with certain political guarantees which our country does not require.

'SPORTS' WANT IMMORAL PLAYS

Better Elements Content With Clean Stage, Is Claim

NEW YORK.—(AP)—The local "man about town" and his "sporting" neighbor from the provinces make up the audience that gives the most encouragement to New York's "sensationally rotten" stage productions, concludes the Catholic Writers Guild.

The Rev. John R. Kelly, spiritual director of the Guild, said a survey showed that artistic and financial success in the city's theatrical field was in decent productions, and that only a "minor part of the theatre going public paid big prices for choice bits of dramatic degeneracy."

Mostly Thoughtless.

"And most of this patronage represents the thoughtles selement rather than the inherently malicious," the priest declared. "We have the local cut-up who wants to live riotously for an evening when there is a periodic recurrance of the urge to make an impression on his neighbors of his being superior in matters of petty conventions. He wants to tell the boys in the office or shop wht a mad wag he was last night and is willing to spend two days income for the thrill of the recital.

"Then there is the one who comes to town to collect experiences. He wants to carry back narratives of wild adventure to be dispensed to the boys in the village or town post office. He is a hero when he confides to them stories of the wild women he met—over the footlights. If he does not return broke, his trip has been a sad failure. Incidentally, if he saved the money spent many a degenerate production would be a failure.

Naughty Hubbies.

"Then there are some naughty husbands who get together with the old frat cronies when the wife is away and fight for the privilege of lavishing their hard earned income on wild doings."

It is to be expected that there will be a supply for this type so long as it is in demand, said the director, which accounted for many "sensationally rotten productions."

The Guild believes that the average American wants his entertainment wholesome and that the average producer is catering to that taste.

Captain Karl Boy-Ed and his American wife, formerly Miss Virginia Mackey-Smith of Washington, have been refused passports to return to America from Berlin. The State Department feels that it is a little too soon, everything considered, for Captain Boy-Ed's return, in view of the circumstances under which he left Washington in 1915 when he was German Naval Attachee at Washington.

PARDON BUYING CHARGE DENIED

Arkansas Governor Disclaims Interest of Brother In Obtaining Clemency

LITTLE ROCK, May 31.—(AP) Complete denial of having anything to do with the activity of his brother, Floyd Terral, in securing a pardon for Lee Mode, convicted of burglary, and a declaration that the affidavit given to the press by J. A. Mode, Conway merchant and banker, that he paid the governor's brother $1,000 to secure a pardon for his son, Lee, was prompted by "political motives," were made by Governor Tom J. Terral in a statement issued on his return to the city.

Lee Mode was one of the nine convicts pardoned by S. B. McCall, president of the senate, while acting governor in the absence of Governor Terral last fall. The nine pardons were held invalid by the state supreme court to which body Governor Terral carried the fight to void the executive order issued by Mr. McCall.

The governor's statement followed one by Floyd Terral last night after Mode's affidavit had been given newspapers, embodying the same charges that he made in a statement Saturday.

Mode's statement and affidavit charged that Governor Terral told him that his son would be given a suspension of sentence and advised him to return to the caiptal on a certain date and that on his return to Little Rock he found the governor out of the city, but through payment of $1,000 to the governor's brother he get the pardon for his son from the acting governor.

Governor Terral termed the portion of Mode's statement relating a promise of clemency from him as a "lie."

"Mode knew that he had not chance on earth of securing clemency from me," Governor Terral said. "Hence his appeal to Acting Governor McCall."

Referring to Mode's charge that he paid the governor's brother $1,000 and was now trying to get it back, since the pardon was held invalid, the governor said:

"He complained that he paid my brother $1,000 for securing the pardon and now that I had fought them and the court held the pardon void, he felt that I should give his son clemency. If Floyd Terral did not have any source of revenue except fees for pardons his family would starve to death. My opposition to those who try to live upon convicts by getting fees out of them for clemency is well known."

Admits Receiving It.

Floyd Terral in a statement last night admitted that he had received $1,000 for assisting Mode in getting his son a pardon from Acting Governor McCall, but that it was his fee as an attorney. He said that he arranged a meeting between McCall and Mode. His brother knew nothing about it nor had nothing to do with it, he declared, adding "I did not think I was doing wrong and my brother should not blame me."

Governor Terral is making the race to succeed himself for a second term with the democratic primary, equivalent to election, in this state, to be held in August. He is known as the "no pardon, no parole governor," not having issued a pardon or parole since taking office.

Nine pardons issued by McCall during the absence of the governor last fall were held invalid in chancery court and the ruling sustained in the supreme court. Two of the pardoned men are now fighting extradition in Texas and the other seven, including Lee Mode, have never been apprhended to be returnd to complete their sentences.

Water Bottles A Big Temptation

BERLIN.—Members of the Prussian land tag may be compelled to drink beer instead of water.

Since recent disorders in the chamber, during which a member of the left doused his opponent with water until they raised umbrellas and advanced to meet him in hand-to-hand combat, the rules committee has threatened to remove the water bottles from the desks of members. If this were done there then would remain nothing but beer from the diet restaurant which the member could quench their thirst. And it would not be hand enough for use to douse members.

Speaker Bartel, however, is opposed to removing the water carafes. He considers water a necessary luxuriant for the throats of long-winded speakers. Also he fears that if members were to drink beer in the same quantity as water is now consumed outbreaks of disorder would be more prevalent than now.

Women Insurgents Will Get Hearing

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., May 31. (AP)—The five "Louisville insurgents" at the convention of the general federation of women's clubs were notified today by Mrs. John D. Sherman, national president, that they would be given a hearing from the floor of the convention tomorrow. Each delegate may speak for two minutes and may offer resolutions which the general board previously refused to consider "emergency measures."

The resolutions attempt to rescind the presidential policy by which individual clubs are bound by the action of the federation and ask deferment of charges in charter and by-laws tending to centralize power in the executive committee composed of the officers.

HALTS CASTLE REPAIRS

BERLIN, June 1.—(AP)—In the controversy surrounding the property of one-time rulers in Germany, former Duke Ernst August Von Braunschweig son-in-law of William Hohenzollern, apparently sees the handwriting on the wall. He has ordered contractors to halt extensive repairs to his castle in Blankenburg.

He is fearful that after having sunk money in furnishing the estate, the property will be taken from him by the passage of a law confiscating with indemnification former rulers' properties. The referendum on the question of the seizure of royal property will be held June 20.

Ernst August married Princess Victoria Louise, only daughter of former Emperoror William in 1913. They have five children.

Nuns Will Train Chorus of 60,000 Children for Giant Choir To Sing in "Mass of Angels" at Eucharistic Meet

Chicago's preparations for the Eucharistic Congress include the training of the greatest choir in musical history. Otto Singenberger is seen, above, directing a chorus of nuns who will, in turn, train choruses of children. 60,000 children will sing together when the great "Mass of the Angels" is presented as one of the major features of the Congress. Below, Cardinal Csernoch, primate of Hungary, who is to be the celebrant of the pontifical mass on the third day of the congress. Left and right are seen the front and reverse of the Eucharistic medal, the dyes for which were made in Rome by Silvio Silva.

Tipton "Danced With A Chair" In Roadhouse, Witness Says At Trial

Testimony to the effect that D. L. Tipton, former Wichita Falls druggist, "danced with a chair" in a roadhouse on the Seymour road on the night of Aug. 1, 1925, was introduced by the state Monday in his trial on an indictment charging driving an automobile while intoxicated. The charge is an outgrowth of an accident in which J. E. Sisson, local painter, was run down and fatally injured.

Irene O'Mary and another woman who were riding in a car behind Tipton's the night of the accident were the first state witnesses. Their testimony dealt with the details of the crash. They said they saw the body of a man on the road after the accident, and that Tipton was at the scene and apparently rendered such aid as he could.

H. H. Furman, chiropodist, testified as to alleged conditions at the road house. He said Tipton had taken a number of drinks and that once he, Furman, had assisted Tipton and a woman with whom the latter was dancing from the floor. Furman was sharply rebuked by Judge P. A. Martin at one point when the court felt the witness was evading answers. The judge remarked that "unless you see fit to answer the questions as put to you by the district attorney, I will employ means to make you do so.

The last witness called told of having seen Tipton dancing with a woman at the roadhouse the night of the accident. He also declared that at one point Tipton "danced with a chair," showing the jury how the defendant was alleged to have waltzed about the floor.

On cross examination defense counsel inquired if the witness had ever heard of dancers at country clubs and other places dance with chairs and brooms as payment of forfeits. The witness said he had.

"Was Tipton staggering?" the counsel asked.

"No, not exactly."

"If he was staggering, he staggered to music, didn't he?"

"Yes, I guess so, they had a pretty penny orchestra."

Court adjourned at 4:30 and the case will be resumed this morning.

MA ADAMANT ON BOND CALL

Tells Kemp She Won't Convene Legislature Until Fall

AUSTIN, May 31.—(AP)—Validation of $82,000,000 worth of district road bonds will be accomplished before September of October at the earliest.

This became certain today when Governor Miriam A. Ferguson by letter advised J. A. Kemp of Wichita Falls she would not issue at this time a special session call, because "The summer time primary elections are near at hand and it would require more than 30 days and probably sixty days to pass the special acts presented by you under even a suspension of the rules."

Mr. Kemp is chairman of a validation committee appointed nearly two months ago at a Fort Worth meeting of Texas mayors and members of the Texas Highway association. Validity of the road bonds was jeopardized by the decision of the United States supreme court in the Archer county cases.

"I believe you will agree with me that the importance of this legislation makes it imperative that it be considered at a time when the political atmosphere is not surcharged with partisan discussion," the governor wrote Mr. Kemp.

The governor stated she had been advised by able attorneys that it is not quite clear the proposed bills offered by the validating committee will meet the objections raised by the supreme court in the Archer county case.

Scopes Conviction Is Argued Before Tennessee Court

NASHVILLE, Tenn., May 31.—(AP)—Tennessee, through counsel, arose in its supreme court today to defend its law that no theory denying the Divine theory of the creation of man shall be taught in its public school and universities.

After five attorneys had attacked the state's now famous anti-evolution law, from all angles, Ed T. Seay, as counsel for the state in the appeal of John Thomas Scopes from a conviction in Rhea county circuit court, contended that the state has the power to protect its children from the teachings of evolutionists.

The law was argued, because, after all, it was, in the eyes of the court a misdemeanor case in which the defendant appeared as plaintiff-in-error on appeal from a fine of $100 imposed for teaching the evolution theory.

The indictment on which the Dayton teacher was brought to trial and the law on which the indictment was based were attacked and defended. But it was evident from the tenor of the six speeches and the written brief of William Jennings Bryan, Jr., that the age-old controversy of theology and science was of major importance.

Picturing the law as arbitrary and capricious and standing in the way of education, counsel for Scopes argued that it was unconstitutional.

Americans Worry Over Shanklin's Fate in Mexico

MEXICO CITY, May 31.—(AP)—Increasing uneasiness is being shown by the American colony over the fate of John W. Shanklin, of Canyon, Texas, in the hands of bandits who gave notice that they intended to kill him last Thursday night unless a ransom of $20,000 was forthcoming. Since Thursday, when a Vera Cruz dispatch announced that federal soldiers were ordered to exterminate the bandits who captured Shanklin, no information has been received in Mexico City, either by the embassy, newspapers or government.

The American embassy and the Mexico City officers of the El Potrero ranch, of which Shanklin is manager, have queried in vain. El Potrero representatives have sent a special emissary to the state of Vera Cruz in an effort to get information.

The embassy, newspapers and government similary continue without details concerning the release of C. B. Braden and J. C. Gallagher after they had been in the hands of bandits since May 18, and the fight of the federal troops with the Americans' captors.

The woman entered the races as the "Masked Marvel." Her husband was entered in other racing events on the same card.
