NEW AIR FORCE FIGHTER—The Air Forces first swept-back fighter, the XP-86, with wings slanting back at a 35-degree angle, has completed initial flight tests at Muroc Air Base, Calif., the Air Forces have announced. It is currently undergoing more extensive testing at Muroc. The XP-86 was designed to approach sonic speed ranges nearer than any other U. S. fighter under actual combat conditions.

TROUBLE BUILDS FOR MEYERS

WASHINGTON — AP — Quadruple trouble built up for Maj. Gen. Bennett E. Meyers today as a possible new Senate inquiry threatened uneasy moments for "many others" whose idle cash went "joy riding" on wartime government bonds.

The quoted words are those of Senator Tobey (R-NH). He hinted that his Senate Banking Committee may take up where the War Investigating Committee left off after disclosures which brought denunciations of the retired Air Force general ranging from "rotten apple" to "snake."

First, however, federal grand juries here and elsewhere were due to hear a review of testimony in which Meyers was accused of holding aircraft stocks and pocketing profits from his own secretly owned sub-contracting firm while deputy chief of Air Force Purchasing.

Specifically, Attorney General Clark said the government's objective will be to indict Meyers on charges of war frauds, perjury and income tax evasion.

Still a fourth question also remains to be answered: Whether the two-star officer will be ordered back into uniform to face a court martial.

Meyers' wartime boss, General of the Army H. H. Arnold, revived speculation over a possible military trial just before the War Investigating Committee's hearings came to an abrupt close Saturday.

The last of a parade of witnesses who accused the dapper Meyers of falsehoods, Arnold declared:

"The penalty for a false official statement is severe—the first basic ground for a court martial."

He was referring to Meyers' answer to an official 1943 questionnaire inquiring whether top

Mrs. LaMarre Says Meyers Lies

DAYTON, O.—(AP)—"I have gone no further than any other wife goes in an effort to see her husband get ahead with his boss."

With that statement and others, Mrs. Mildred LaMarre, wife of Bleriot H. LaMarre, former president of the Aviation Electric Co. of Dayton, denied today in a copyrighted interview by The Dayton Journal the testimony of Maj. Gen. Bennett E. Meyers given last week before the Senate War Investigating Committee that she was the retired Army officer's "girl friend."

Breaking a silence she had maintained since Meyers testified that he had set LaMarre up in business as head of Aviation Electric, the comely former Miami (O.) University beauty queen was quoted as saying:

"Both of us went out of our way to be nice to Meyers, but that is all. His statements are all lies."

Talking to newsmen in the presence of her husband and Robert C. Knee, LaMarre attorney, she declared: "A suit for slander seems the only answer."

TESTIFIES—General H. H. Arnold, wartime commander of the Army Air Forces, above, told the Senate War Investigating Subcommittee that Major General Bennett Meyers "disgraced his uniform and his rank" by his wartime financial dealings.

Schuman Names Cabinet

PARIS — AP — Premier Robert Schuman announced today the formation of a new coalition cabinet, and immediately plunged into the task of dealing with a spreading wave of strikes that threatened the nation with economic disaster.

Already tied up by walkouts were nine out of every 10 railroads in France. All the country's harbors and most of her coal mines were idle, and all grade schools in the capital were closed.

The situation was further complicated by the threat of disturbances arising from a one-franc increase in subway fares in Paris, which went into effect at 6 a.m. today.

To meet the threat several thousand mobile guardsmen were rushed into the city last night and reservists of the 1947 class, who recently were recalled to duty, were assembled in readiness at Fontainbleau, 40 miles south of the capital.

Schuman announced the formation of his new government at 12:15 a. m., after 36 hours of negotiating with the leaders of all major political parties except the Communist and Gen. Charles de Gaulle's Rally of the French People (RPF).

The cabinet—France's seventh since her liberation from German domination—is composed of six members of Schuman's Popular Republican Movement (MRP), five members of the Socialist Party's radical right wing, three middle-of-the road radical Socialists and one Moderate Independent Republican.

Retained as foreign minister in the new government was Georges Bidault, a member of the MRP, who is scheduled to depart for London tonight to participate in the Big Four foreign ministers conference, which opens there tomorrow.

The remainder of the cabinet was constituted as follows:

Interior—Jules Moch (Socialist).

Justice—Andre Marie (Radical Socialist).

Armed Forces—Pierre Henri Teitgen (MRP).

Social Affairs, including labor—Daniel Mayer (Socialist).

Overseas — Paul Coste-Floret (MRP).

Public Works—Christian Pineau (Socialist).

Economic Affairs and Finance—Rene Mayer (Radical Socialist).

National Education—Marcel Naegelen (Socialist).

Big Four Meet May Prove to Be Side Show

By DEWITT MACKENZIE
AP Foreign Affairs Analyst

The anxiously awaited Big Four Ministers' Conference, opening in London tomorrow, will find itself rather in the position of a side-show instead of in its much advertised role as main international attraction.

That's not to say that the London parley isn't of great importance, for its task of trying to write the bitterly debated Austrian and German peace treaties is vital. But communism's resort to direct-action against the economically badgered governments of France and Italy has changed completely the complexion of split between Russia and the democracies in Western Europe.

This direct-action — undertaken under direction of the newly created bolshevist "Cominform," with headquarters in Belgrade—has two chief objectives: To further Moscow's efforts to gain control of Western Europe, and to render impotent the Marshall Plan for economic rehabilitation of that great area. Obviously these two objectives are interlocking, since economic recovery would enable the West to defend itself against Communist aggression—one of the chief purposes of the Marshall Plan.

John Hightower, AP diplomatic reporter at the London conference, sums up the bitter issues between Russia and the West in part like this:

"The need for German production as seen by British and American statesmen is inseparably linked with the broader problem of European recovery. But it is only one part of that problem. . . . At the present time, in fact, Germany appears to be neither the most urgent nor the most important of these issues. More immediate are Italy and France and the economic well-being of Britain; in short, the overall economic and political health of Western Europe. This is perhaps the chief reason why basic decisions on Germany cannot be forced here; both sides may well prefer to play for time to see what happens to European recovery."

Meantime the situations in France and Italy continued tense. In the latter country the strikes and disorders subsided at the weekend, although Pietro Nenni, pro-Communist Socialist, warned that a national strike might be called to protest "violence against the workers." In France, however, the position became more acute.

The number of French strikers increased to more than three-quarters of a million, under direction of the Communist-dominated General Confederation of Labor. Truck loads of guardsmen, armed with machineguns, moved into Paris to counter any possible disorders which some Frenchmen predicted for today. Uneasiness pervaded the capital.

LONDON—(AP)—Approximately 500 aides, secretaries and experts put the finishing touches today to preparations for the Big Four Foreign Ministers' Conference, which convenes here tomorrow for what many observers believe may be a last attempt to reach unified peace settlements with Germany and Austria.

Soviet Foreign Minister V. M. Molotov arrived yesterday by plane and French Foreign Minister Georges Bidault—last of the four principal participants in the conference—was expected tonight.

Doubts over the identity of France's representative were cleared away last night with Bidault's retention in the new coalition cabinet formed by Premier Robert Schuman.

Bidault named as his assistants Rene Massigli, ambassador to Britain; Gen. Georges Catroux, ambassador to Russia; Rene Couve de Murville, aide on political affairs, and Herve Alphand, aide on economic affairs.

British informants said that Britain's Foreign Secretary Ernest Bevin probably would see Molotov and U.S. Secretary of State George Marshall some time during the day. Marshall arrived Friday.

The Soviet Embassy has announced that Molotov's principal aide in the discussions would be Deputy Foreign Minister Andrei Y. Vishinsky, expected to depart for London as soon as his deputies at the United Nations Assembly in New York permit.

Other leading members of the Soviet delegation include Marshal V. O. Sokolovsky, Russian commander-in-chief in Germany; Georgi N. Zarubin, Russian ambassador to London, and A. S. Smirnov, Soviet representatives in the deputy foreign ministers' council discussions on Germany and Austria.

British Govermnent sources said that the opening session tomorrow would be devoted to formalities, with Bevin welcoming the visitors.

On Wednesday the foreign ministers were expected to start discussing an agenda.

While there was wide speculation over the probable outcome of the conference, official sources carefully refrained from comment on the possibilities of any agreement being reached with respect to either Austria or Germany.

Whatever optimism existed appeared to center chiefly around the possibility of completion of a treaty for Austrian independence.

Pessimism over the chances for an agreement on Germany were not enranced by utterances from Moscow, where the Soviet press launched a new attack on Marshall yesterday. Blasting his speech last week in Chicago, Moscow papers declared that he was intent on partitioning Germany and transforming the western zones into an anti-Soviet coalition.

The same line was taken today by Moscow broadcasts.

Court of Honor Tonight at 7

The Boy Scout Court of Honor wil lbe held at 7 o'clock tonight at the District Court room instead of 7:30, as originally planned. Scout Executive Hugo Olsen said the time had been moved up because of the Pampa Community Concert program being held tonight. He stated the court of honor would be over in time for those present to attend the concert.

Among awards to be presented are two Eagle Scout awards, five first class, one star, three gold palm eagle awards, and 56 merit badges, along with one five-year veteran's award and banners to troops that participated in the last camporee.

Also scheduled for the program is a film on first aid, "Help Wanted," which will be shown by Herman Jones, assistant principal at Junior High School. The film is a production of Johnson and Johnson Company.

Youths Caught to Break Series of Thefts From Cars

Patrolman E. A. "Butch" Albers last night broke up a series of car lootings that had been reported to police since last Wednesday night, when he became suspicious of a 15-year-old boy's actions in front of the First Baptist Church.

Albers and his partner, Jay Nichols, noticed the boy step into his automobile, drop something into the back seat and start to drive away. Knowing of the looting reports from churchgoers, Albers stopped the boy on suspicion, questioned him and searched the car where he found several stolen articles. The boy was taken to police headquarters and questioned for over an hour.

The youth broke down and admitted a series of car looting jobs and named his 14 and 13-year-old companions. The other two boys, were later picked up in the one boy's home by police.

Included in the loot were flashlights, 50 cigarette lighters, defrosters, gloves, small tools, a driving compass, a trouble light, and other small items.

The youth admitted he had hidden the loot in the car his father bought for him, in the family garage and others were in his father's office.

The thefts had first been reported to city police last Wednesday by people attending church.

The boys were turned over to Paul Hill, county juvenile officer this morning.

A full estimate of the value of all the items taken by the youthful trio was not tallied this morning, but will run into several hundred dollars worth of articles.

Cecil B. George Resigns Post at Panhandle School

PANHANDLE —(Special)— The resignation of Panhandle Superintendent of Schools Cecil B. George was given at a special meeting of the Panhandle schoolboard last week. The resignation will be effective December 1.

George explained he was leaving his Panhandle position to become a service officer with the Veteran's Administration in the Waco area.

He is serving his first year as superintendent, taking office July 1, of this year. He came to Panhandle from Pampa, where he taught American history at the Pampa High School. George has taught for 17 years in public schools and for three years in the Naval Preparatory Academy. He was superintendent of schools at Bellvue before entering the Navy in 1942.

"It is with regret that I leave the Panhandle school system" stated George. "I have never left a position before an such short notice, but the emergency made it necessary that my resignation be accepted immediately," he concluded.

The board did not name a successor to George at the meeting.

Cost of Living Hits New High

WASHINGTON —(AP)— The cost of living index soared to a new high in September—66.1 percent above the prewar August, 1939, levels, the Bureau of Labor Statistics has reported.

It was 12.3 percent higher than a year previous and 22.9 above June, 1946.

This tabulation, known as the Consumers' Price Index, was recorded at 163.8 percent of the 1935-39 base period.

EDMONTON, Alta.—(AP)—Round-the-world flivver fliers George Truman and Clifford Evans stopped over here Saturday while mechanics tuned up their two light planes in preparation for the nest leg of the flight.

They plan take off Monday for Lethridge in Southern Alberta, whence they will proceed directly to Los Angeles.

Egypt Makes Request To Big-4 Deputies

LONDON —(AP)— Egypt asked the Big Four deputy foreign ministers Friday to add Italian Eritrea to Egypt and to grant immediate independence to a unified Libya.

The requests came from Abdel Fattah Amr Pasha, Egyptian ambassador to London. He said his government also insisted that the people of Italian Somaliland be allowed to determine their own future.

College, Public Schools Close Due To Gas Line Leak

DALLAS —(AP)— Approximately 15 Northeast Texas towns faced curtailed gas supplies today while one college and school system were forced to close when a natural gas line developed a major leak.

Lone Star Gas Company officials here said the break occurred Saturday between Royce City and Caddo Mills.

They said industrial users in the area had been shut off until a four and one-half mile emergency line around the leak had been completed.

East Texas State Teachers College at Commerce and the Greenville public schools yesterday shut down. Students at the college were dismissed for the Thanksgiving holidays and will not return until Dec. 1.

Officials of the gas company said sufficient gas pressure for domestic use was available and that schools had next priority. They indicated that not all the schools in the area would be shut off from supplies.

Gas officials at Greenville said they believed towns affected were Commerce, Greenville, Sulphur Springs, Caddo Mills, Celeste, Leonard, Wolfe City, Cooper, Ladonia, Campbell, Pecan Gap, Cumby and several other small communities in the area.

Spokesmen for the gas company said the leak occurred under water in a creek. A gasket at a joint blew out. The gas was throwing mud and water 25 to 30 feet in the air.

They said a certain amount of gas was being forced through the line to the affected towns despite the break.

Crews of 60 to 100 men were working to put in the emergency line, expecated to be completed tomorrow night or Wednesday morning.

'Barbershoppers' Are Well Received

If heavy attendance and applause is an indication, Pampa is all for the "barbershoppers."

Hank Wright of Oklahoma City opened the "Parade of Quartets" program Saturday night with a talk on the history and growth of SPEBSQSA. This was followed by selections given by the Top o' Texas Chapter of SPEBSQSA, which was later described by Oklahoma barbershoppers as a "fine group."

The Balladiers of Wichita Falls were unable to attend at the last minute, but that city was represented by the Faith City Four of Hardin College, which quartet was announced as the backfield of the college football team.

Following on the program was The Hub City Four of Lubbock. Lubbock was the sponsoring city when Pampa organized a chapter of SPEBSQSA.

The Pampa High School A Cappella Choir gave three numbers, novelty renditions, and their "Dry Bones," drew heavy applause.

The last quartet appearing on the parade was The Flying "L" of Tulsa, and the Western-clad songsters did many encores.

All the quartets let their hair down for some serious voice blending at the "afterglow" program at the Legion-VFW Hall, beginning at 11 p. m. and lasting until around 1:45. Each quartet did several numbers, and responded to audience requests. Candles and decorations gave a festive touch as the quartets gave the best in their repertoire. A "gay nineties" duet from Lubbock offered a comedy highlight to the program.

Dr. Calvin W. Jones, president of the local chapter of SPEBSQSA, expressed the group's appreciation to the ESA, the advertisers and all organizations for their part in making the program a success.

Man Being Held In Shovel Death

Town Surrounded As Officers Seek Escaped Convicts

SAINT JO — (AP) — Saint Jo was surrounded today by peace officers from several North Texas counties as a manhunt continued for two escaped convicts believed still inside the city limits.

Police at Gainesville said six cars carrying three officers each patroled Saint Jo last night, and more were due today.

The two men, Gene Ballard, 21, and Glenn Whitley, 21, fled from Throckmorton County Sheriff W. T. Rankin here early last night.

The break came at a filling station just off the main plaza in the heart of this small, Montague County city.

Rankin said the men were believed to be unarmed and were handcuffed together at the time of the escape.

They were being transferred from Paris, Tex., to Throckmorton by Rankin to stand trial for the Sept. 30 burglary of the Throckmorton County Court House and a school building.

Roadblocks were set up over a wide area last night and bloodhounds brought into the search.

Ballard and Whitley were arrested several weeks ago near Texarkana at the climax of a gun battle in which a third suspect was killed, Rankin said.

A Bowie County jury convicted the two on three counts of burglary each and assessed sentences of two to 12 years on each count.

Cooke County Sheriff Emory Horn and Deputies Woodrow Clegg and A. E. Cogburn joined in the hunt along with Gainesville Chief of Police Henry Kirchenbauer and Texas Ranger Rigler.

Sheriff Roy Moore of Denton County and three of his officers also aided in the search.

One party of officers combed the area last night and another took over at dawn today.

'Seeing Pencil' May Aid Blind

ANN ARBOR, Mich. — (AP) — A "seeing pencil" may enable blind persons to read ordinary printed pages.

Delegates to a national conference on psychological diagnosis and counseling of the adult blind have been told by a University of Michigan psychologist that the "electronic pencil" may some day be in use among blind readers who heretofore have used the braille system.

The remarkable pencil, explained W. W. Morris, utilizes the photo-electric cell principle and "reads" printed words by picking up light impulses as it moves along a line of type.

These impulses are carried to an attached audio frequency oscillator, which converts them into sound impulses and in turn magnifies them and sends them to a standard hearing device worn by the blind reader.

The reader can be taught to distinguish between sounds and associate certain impulses with certain letter formations, Morris added. He can find the type line by starting the pencil at the page's top and letting his ear tell him when the instrument is on printed matter.

By the same means, he can keep the pencil on the printed line although he doesn't see it, since sound impulses will differ if he slips off.

Despite technical perfection of the new instrument—which resembles an over-sized fountain pen—it is far from being ready for general use because of the difficulties involved in identification of sounds carried through the apparatus, Morris warned.

SAFETY TALK

Highway Patrolman Bill White will give a talk on safety and traffic regulations tonight at 7 o'clock at the recreation hall of the Phillips Oil Co. A second address by White is scheduled there tomorrow night.

Fatally beaten with a shovel in a Saturday night brawl on S. Cuyler in front of a local cafe, Homer D. McIlvain, 40, of Kingsmill, died of his injuries shortly after 2 p. m. yesterday in Wortey Hospital.

A local man was being held today in the County Jail in connection with McIlvain's death.

City police reported that details leading to the fight were vague with the confined man being unable to relate what actually led up to the fatal fight.

Police learned at the scene the two men had been drinking and McIlvain was reported to have drawn a knife on the other. A large pocket knife was found lying beside McIlvain who was found sprawled on his back in a pool of blood from two ear wounds. Blood was coming out his ears and mouth apparently from a skull injury that later caused his death. The unconscious McIlvain was taken to Worley.

Police added they were told he and McIlvain had been arguing and that McIlvain had sliced him on the left side of the neck with a knife. He rushed to a nearby pickup truck that had several shovels on it, picked up a shovel and started swinging.

A quick but futile effort on the part of Sheriff G. H. Kyle and Patrolman Robert Crouch to save McIlvain's life served only to prolong it a few hours when they turned him on his side to permit the clogged blood from choking him to death. Kyle had been in the cafe eating when the fight occurred on the outside.

The held man was taken to Pampa Hospital where three stitches were required to close the knife wound in his neck. Four or five stitches were used to close up his left ear where McIlvain had sliced him, attending physicians said.

McIlvain was given only a few minutes to live by his attending physician Saturday night, but he showed a rally several hours later and hopes for his recovery rose for a time.

After treatment for his neck and ear wounds the other man was taken to the City Jail and held overnight. He was transferred to County Jail a few minutes after McIlvain was reported dead to city police by Worley Hospital attendants.

In the County Jail the man held said he did not know what happened. All he was able to remember was that he was knifed and "went nuts," grabbed the shovel and started swinging. He seemed more concerned about McIlvain's condition than his own and asked how "Mac was doing." Officers did not tell him McIlvain was dead.

No formal charges have been filed against the man by District Attorney Tom Braly this morning. The DA left for Wheeler to attend a 31st District Court trial there.

McIlvain is survived by two

Senators Draft Own Estimates of U. S. Food Supply

WASHINGTON —(AP)— Senator Bridges (R-NH) said today there is a "strong probability" that the administration's plan for emergency aid to Italy, France and Austria will result in a serious food shortage in the United States.

Bridges, chairman of the Senate Appropriations Committee, made that statement as Secretary of Agriculture Anderson testified before the group in support of President Truman's request for $597,000,000 for emergency aid to the three countries.

Congress has been given only a promise that shipments of grain to Europe will be curtailed if next year's grain crops are poor, Bridges said. He added:

"If the State Department takes the purchases to the full amount and a bad crop ensues, the American people will be subject not only to rationing but possibly to meager rations."

Anderson acknowledged that there are some problems" but he testified:

"By acting promptly and adequately we can prevent a great deal of human misery, and by so doing we shall be holding open the world's chance to make a just and lasting peace."

The Foreign Relations Committee has approved legislation to authorize expenditure of up to $597,000,000 on emergency aid. That bill went before the Senate today with supporters predicting passage by Wednesday.

But before any actual aid is sent, a separate bill must be passed appropriating the money to pay for it. This will have to come from Bridges' committee.

Bridges declared his group will write no "blank check" for such aid "no matter how persuasive the argument in favor of such a foolish procedure."

He said the State Department had failed to provide Congress with a detailed justification of the request for $597,000,000.

Mr. Truman, in his personally-delivered message presenting the program, told the legislators it

State Teachers to Hold Convention During Holidays

It is estimated that around 7,000 teachers will arrive in San Antonio Thursday for the three-day convention of the Texas State Teachers Association, which will be the first full time convention since the beginning of the war.

P-TA, school board and Junior Red Cross section meetings are scheduled in connection with the convention.

Members of the State Executive Committee of District Nine, which includes Pampa, are Huelyn W. Haycock, Gray County superintendent; Walter Travis, Dumas superintendent; and Dr. A. M. Meyer, president of Amarillo College. Among others from this area who will probably attend are Knox Kinard, Pampa superintendent; Mrs. Aubrey Jones, president of the Pampa Classroom Teachers Association; Rex Reeves, Lefors superintendent; and D. V. Bigers, Hopkins principal.

Balloting for state officers to represent the 45,000 Texas teachers has been in progress, and new officers of the association will be announced at the convention. Candidate for president is Emma Mae Brotze of Marshall, classroom teacher, and current vice president, and for vice president, Joe C. Humphries, Abilene principal; and E. A. Sahm, New Braunfels superintendent.

Among speakers scheduled are Dr. Alexander Stoddard, superintendent of Philadelphia Public Schools; Dr. Eunice Hilton, dean of women and professor of education at Syracuse University; Glenn E. Snow, president of Dixie College and president of the National Education Association; Agnes E. Myer, member of the President's commission on higher education; and Walter H. Four Teams Have Been Selected For Jan. 1 Post-Season Clashes

NEW YORK — AP — Except for all - conquering Notre Dame and once-tied Pennsylvania, five of the nation's seven undefeated major college teams today were either bowl-bound or were awaiting "feelers" to participate in post-season clashes.

Three of these elite elevens, Michigan and Southern Methodist, each with a spotless slate, and once-tied Southern California already were "in" no matter what happened from here on in. The other two, unscathed Penn State and once-deadlocked Kansas, haven't received any definite offers but both were reported being under consideration for appearances in bowl games.

Undefeated Notre Dame already has announced its antipathy toward any post season games as has once-tied Penn. Each still has one game to play on its regular season schedule, the Irish meeting Southern California in a decisive game Dec. 6, and the Quakers engaging Cornell in a traditional Thanksgiving Day game.

No matter what the outcome of the Notre Dame-USC game a week from Saturday, the Trojans will face Michigan in the Rose Bowl at Pasadena, Calif., New Year's Day. Saturday's 6-0 win over UCLA insured it for the Trojans. The Wolverines clinched their entry last week when they swamped Wisconsin for the Big Nine title. The 20-0 triumph over Ohio State day before yesterday had no bearing.

Southern Methodist, the last of the four unbeaten and untied teams, is a certainty to be the host team in the Cotton Bowl at Dallas, Jan. 1. The Cotton Bowl takes the Southwest Conference champion as host team. SMU has not yet clinched the title but can do so by beating Texas Christian next Saturday.

However, victory over Baylor insured the Mustangs' appearance in the bowl since only Texas could tie SMU for the title should the once-beaten Longhorns beat Texas A and M. Thanksgiving Day and if SMU lost to TCU precedent calls for the team that lost to the other during the season to withdraw from the Cotton Bowl picture in case of a tie.

Although Jordan C. Ownby, president of the Cotton Bowl Athletic Association, has stated that the guest team has not been decided as yet, it is felt that Penn State would get the bid. Penn State concluded its first

Play-off Bracket for HS Grid Championship Ends This Week

By HAROLD V. RATLIFF

The play-off bracket for the Texas schoolboy football championship will be completed this week with one district title on the line Wednesday, three Thursday and one Friday.

Eleven champions await the results.

Forest (Dallas), with one of the most remarkable records in schoolboy gridiron history—four victories and four ties in eight games—battles North Dallas Wednesday night for the championship of District 8. The winner will take the laurels but if the teams tie there will be a three-way deadlock for first provided Sunset (Dallas) wins over Crozier Tech (Dallas) Thursday.

Thursday will find the championships of Districts 5, 9 and 15 in the balance.

In District 5 Denison plays at Sherman and Greenville at Paris. If Denison and Paris win they will close out in a tie for first but Paris will get the championship since it had more yardage than Denison when they played to a 7-7 tie. First downs and penetrations were even.

In District 9 Breckenridge needs to beat Cisco to clinch the championship. In that event Breckenridge would end up in a tie for first with Brownwood, provided the latter defeated Stephenville. Breckenridge then would take the title since it licked Brownwood in regular season play.

In District 15 Brackenridge (San Antonio) plays Thomas Jefferson (San Antonio). Defeat or tie for Brackenridge would hand the title to Corpus Christi, which has finished its schedule. Victory would give Brackenridge the title since it won over Corpus Christi when they met.

The other championship will be decided Friday when Waco plays Temple. Waco boasts a half-game lead in the District 10 race over Corsicana and Waxahachie and needs only a victory to clinch the title. Corsicana, of course, must beat Cleburne and Waxahachie must down Hillsboro.

Championships already determined are: District 1, Amarillo; District 2, Wichita Falls; District 3, Odessa; District 4, Austin (El Paso); District 6, Highland Park (Dallas); District 7, Arlington Heights (Fort Worth); Longview, District 11; Lufkin, District 12; Goose Creek, District 14, and Harlingen, District 16.

Lamar of Houston will represent District 13 despite what may happen Wednesday when Lamar meets Milby (Houston). Should Milby win, Lamar and San Jacinto (Houston) would finish as co-champions but Lamar would play in the state race because it beat San Jacinto when those teams met.

Sites of two bi-district games already have been determined. Amarillo and Wichita Falls will play at Wichita Falls, probably Dec. 7. Longview and Lufkin will clash at Longview Dec. 6.

At least one undefeated team will enter the state play-off. Goose Creek, which has finished its schedule, has won nine and tied one. Other undefeated teams are Odessa, Wichita Falls and Longview, each of which has won nine, and Forest, which is undefeated but has been tied. All except Goose Creek have games this week.

Ponies' Bowl Opponent to Be Named Today

DALLAS—(AP)—The team that will play Southern Methodist in the Cotton Bowl is due to be named today and there are strong indications that it will be undefeated, untied Penn State.

Such a clash would be the only bowl game in the country with two elevens boasting perfect records—that is, if Southern Methodist beats Texas Christian Saturday in the last game on the schedule. Penn state already has finished the season.

Coach Matty Bell of Southern Methodist said he would ask his squad this afternoon before practice which team it prefers meeting in the Dallas gridiron classic.

The selection goes to the Cotton Bowl Athletic Association but the committee has indicated it will pass favorably on any team the squad picks.

The Cotton Bowl Association is due to have the name of the team by nightfall, then contact will be made.

Southern Methodist, while not yet Southwest Conference champion, clinched the host spot in the bowl last week by beating Baylor 10-0. Texas, which plays Texas A and M Thursday, still has a chance to tie SMU for the title should it beat the Aggies and the Methodists lose to TCU, but Southern Methodist will be in the Cotton Bowl since it defeated Texas in regular season play.

Georgia Tech, Mississippi and Kansas are other teams in the bowl picture but Bell said he had a good idea this team would select Penn State.

Bell has said he has no objection to playing a team which has Negro members. "I don't think it would be a problem for the Cotton Bowl either," he declared.

Nelson and Babe Lose Dallas Golf Exhibition 2 and 1

DALLAS —(AP)— The former king and queen of golf, Byron Nelson and Babe Didrikson Zaharias, lost a 2 and 1 decision to two Dallas professionals in an exhibition here yesterday.

Mrs. Zaharias, former national women's champion, teamed with Nelson in the best ball match against Harry Todd and Erwin Hardwicke.

Best card of the day was the two over par 74 turned in by Mrs. Zaharias over the rain-soaked course.

BRAVE PARTRIDGE

BANGOR, Me—(AP)— Warren Hurd went patridge hunting. He sighted seven birds but was able to bag none.

The next day a partridge flew into his truck as he delivered ice.

"I just didn't have the heart to kill it," said Hurd. The bird rode with him most of the day.

Hunter Would Give $2500 for Dog Like Old Heavy, Best Bear-Fighter

DAVIS, N. C.—(NEA) — H. T. Smithdeal spends a lot of money and several weeks each year running down bears from Michigan to Tennessee, usually ends up in the swamps of eastern North Carolina. Everyone from Southport to Davis, N. C., knows of Hack Smithdeal. He is a native of Spruce Pine, N. C., but now is a taxicab operator in Johnson City, Tenn., and a member of the Tennessee Conservation Commission.

The bespectacled Smithdeal has for years brought dozens of mountaineers and their Plott hounds to the North Carolina coast.

Their hunts last for weeks, range over hundreds of miles of swamps and pocosins.

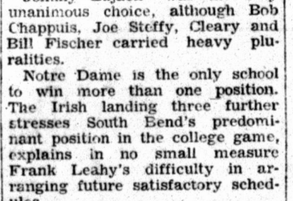

Smithdeal and his group more recently bagged three bears, including a seven-footer weighing 554 pounds, shot by Shuck Vance of Avery County, N. C., near Newport, N. C.

The big one was not taken with impunity. A veterinarian who was brought along treated badly mauled hounds.

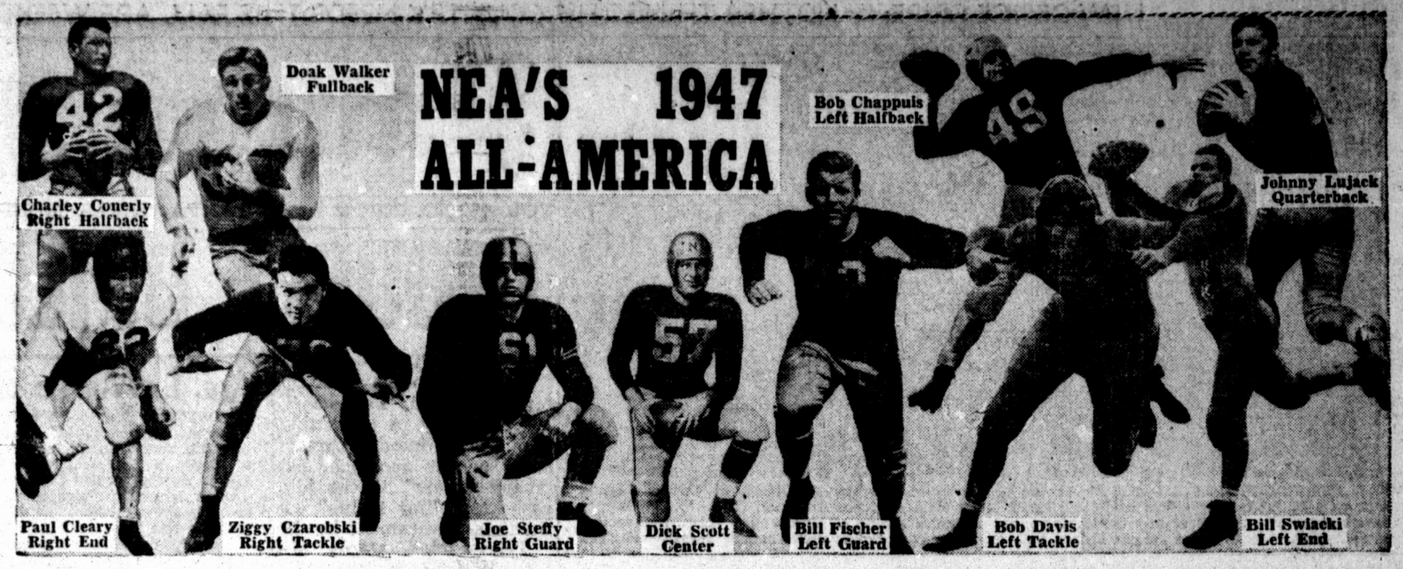

Smithdeal says he would gladly pay $2500 for another such dog as Old Heavy, which is almost done for after 12 years of fighting big bears. Nearly every bone in Old Heavy's body has been reset, every inch of skin resewed. Smithdeal calls him the best finder, tracker, sticker and fighter he ever saw.

With Old Heavy now almost too old to any longer bay a bear, Smokey, his understudy, will take over lead of the Hack Smithdeal pack of hounds, especially bred at Waynesville, N. C., by the Plott family for many years as bear and boar fighters.

The mountain-bred Plotts often find themselves in unfamiliar terrain in the swamps, few escape injuries.

Old Heavy is almost done for after 12 years of fighting bears.

Lujack Is Only Unanimous Choice For All-American

By HARRY GRAYSON
NEA Sports Editor

NEW YORK —(NEA)— When the late Walter Camp picked All-American teams, it was largely a matter of personal opinion, with a recommendation here and there. Camp and his committee had so few squads to take into consideration.

That system of selection became obsolete when major college football spread across the plains and mountains.

The All-America team of today is a consensus of the nation's coaches, scouts and football writers. They are polled. The young men getting the most votes are placed on the first team.

In this way, NEA's All-America team of 1947 was determined.

The backs are John Lujack of Notre Dame, Robert R. Chappuis of Michigan, Charles Albert Conerly of Mississippi and Doak Walker of Southern Methodist.

The ends are William Swiacki of Columbia and Paul Cleary of Southern California.

The tackles are Robert Davis of Georgia Tech and Zygmont Czarobski of Notre Dame.

The guards are William Fischer of Notre Dame and Joseph B. Steffy, Jr., of Army.

Capt. Richard U. Scott of Navy is the center.

The average weight of the line men is 208 pounds, the mobile backs 179 1-2. The average age is 22.

Johnny Lujack was the only unanimous choice, although Bob Chappuis, Joe Steffy, Cleary and Bill Fischer carried heavy pluralities.

Notre Dame is the only school to win more than one position. The Irish landing three further stresses South Bend's predominant position in the college game, explains in no small measure Frank Leahy's difficulty in arranging future satisfactory schedules.

Getting right into the personnel of the first All-America, Lujack is scheduled to succeed Sid Luckman as the man down under in the Chicato Bears modern T.

The six-foot, 180-pound, 24-year-old Bob Chappuis, who matriculated from Toledo, established a new Big Nine record for total yardage gained last fall, carried an all-conquering and devastating Michigan varsity this trip.

The six-foot, one-inch, 183-pound Charley Conerly of Clarksdale, Miss., set an all-time college record for pass completions.

"Conerly is the equal of Alabama's Harry Gilmer as a passer, an extraordinary kicker, breaks quickly, is a good line-bucker and a stickout on defense," reports veteran sports editor Ed Danforth of the Atlanta Journal.

"Conerly and Gilmer are the two greatest backs the south has had in 25 years," testifies sports editor Raymond Johnson of the Nashville Tennessean. "Without them their teams would have been whipped practically every Saturday."

"Conerly really rates," says sports editor Harry Martinez of the New Orleans States.

Making Walker all the more remarkable is the fact that he is the team's only sophomore. The Dallas lad, five feet 11, weighing 175 pounds and 20 years old, runs, passes, punts, stars on defense, calls signals.

Although not a speed merchant, Walker times his running with such accuracy that tacklers have difficulty in downing him. Among many other things, he returned a kick-off 97 yards for a touchdown, sprinted 76 yards on a punt return for six points, circled end for 44 yards and a counter and on several occasions plunged across from the one. He is combination Mr. Inside and Mr. Outside.

As his coach, Lou Little, points out, Bill Swiacki is as accomplished a pass receiver as was Don Hutson, save for the Alabama alumnus' tremendous burst of speed. It was the six-foot, two-inch, 198-pound, 22-year-old Swiacki who made the phenomenal catches that snapped Army's unbeaten streak at 32. The resident of Southbridge, Mass., is an excellent all-around end, had plenty of experience — with Holy Cross, Fort Benning and two years at Columbia.

Cleary, six-foot, one-inch, 195 pounds, 25, is rated by his coach, Jeff Cravath, as the finest end who ever performed for Southern California. Going into the neighborhood quarrel with UCLA, this strapping Trojan, who registers from Santa Ana., Calif., had caught a dozen passes for 170 yards. He is a top hand at blocking, brillant on defense.

Bob Davis played left tackle on defense, right on offense, the toughest assignment in the two-system plan. A six-foot, three-inch, 205-pound, 20-year-old resident of Columbus, Ga., he finished his four-year run in a richly-deserved blaze of headlines.

Davis is fast enough to catch ball-carriers running reverses from behind back of the line of scrimmage. A smart team man who was never hurt, he is at his best when the going is thoughest. Captain last season, he served superbly under another leader this trip. An all-around athlete, he captained Georgia Tech's basketball team as a junior.

With this year's performance, Ziggy Czarobski, six-foot, 213-pound, 24-year-old Chicagoan, gets the nod by far over teammate George Connor, who was the choice a year ago.

"Czarobski plays the way a tackle should perform," is the compliment of Army coach Red Blaik.

Fischer, 20, is a Hatchet Man with the advantage of size — six feet, two and 255 pounds. A lineman earns the tag, Hatchet Man, by being bad business for the enemy.

Steffy, a five-foot 11, 190-pound, 20-year-old product of Chattanooga is exceedingly fast, a great offensive man who is all over the field on defense.

Navy's past two disastrous seasons can in no way be traced to he could be President

THAT YOUNGSTER playing in the street could grow up to be President. But will he get the necessary moral equipment? The knowledge, ideals and character?

In cities large and small across the land The Salvation Army is influencing boys and girls with ideals of citizenship and high responsibility. In Boys' Clubs and Youth Centers, neighborhood recreation centers and camps, America's young people are learning teamwork and fair play, consideration for others and loyalty to a goal. Hand in hand goes religious teaching.

Not every boy can get to be President—but raising good citizens is one way to get good Presidents. Today, with the challenge of leadership facing America, The Salvation Army's work for citizenship is more than ever important. Support its expanded program generously.

Dean Confesses He Wants to Be Another Stern

DALLAS —(AP)— Dizzy Dean, the man who has coined more unusual expressions than anyone since Mark Twain—but with different use of the grammatical rules—confessed today to the ambition to be another Bill Stern.

But the former big league pitcher, who entertains the fans with his broadcasts from St. Louis during the baseball season, was a little dubious of his prospects.

The Dallas gentleman farmer tried his hand at announcing a football game from station KLIF here yesterday from play-by-play wire reports and declared the game was too rough for him in several ways. Besides, he said, "the only play I called right was the kick-off."

"Now, I can tell 'em when a guy slud into third in a baseball game but keepin' up with all these fellers runnin' around in football will run a guy nuts," he said.

Dean called nine plays of the Cleveland Browns-New York Yankees pro grid game with Gordon McClendon, the regular station announcer, doing most of the work.

"If I hadn't had that guy to carry the ball it shore woulda been a mess," said Dizzy.

Dean described football as "unnecessary roughness," and declared "heck, it takes a college graduate to call a football game and I just went through the second grade."

Dizzy said he had this advice to spectators at football games:

"They wouldn't get hurt so much, in fights or by flying pop bottles, if they'd wear pads and things like the players do. If the spectators get any worse, the teams is goin' to go up and sit ing the stands and watch."

Dick Scott. It was this six-foot, midshipman who a year ago teamed with guard Jim Carrington and other Annapolis forwards to halt Doc Blanchard in the second half. The grand competitor of Highland Falls, N.Y., is the only center in football who punts and passes.

Some superlative players are not in this first All-America—Barney Poole of Mississippi, John Ferraro of Southern California, Charley Bednarik of Pennsylvania, Ike Owens of Illinois, Bobby Layne of Texas, Charlie Justice of North Carolina, Harry Gilmer of Alabama, Knox Ramsey of William and Mary, Ray Evans of Kansas and Joe Watson of Rice among them.

It is regrettable that there are only 11 places.

But this All-America will do at least until a better one is named.

So hail the All-America team of 1947.

For Quick Cough Relief, Mix This Syrup, at Home

Here's an old home mixture your mother probably used, but, for real results, it is still one of the most effective and dependable, for coughs due to colds. Once tried, you'll swear by it.

It's no trouble at all. Make a syrup by stirring 2 cups of granulated sugar and one cup of water a few moments until dissolved. No cooking is needed. Or you can use corn syrup or liquid honey, instead of sugar syrup.

Now put 2½ ounces of Pinex into a pint bottle, and fill up with your syrup. This makes a full pint of splendid cough medicine, and gives you about four times as much for your money. It keeps perfectly and tastes fine.

And you'll say it's truly excellent, for quick action. You can feel it take hold swiftly. It loosens the phlegm, soothes the irritated membranes, and helps clear the air passages. Thus it eases breathing, and lets you sleep.

Pinex is a special compound of proven ingredients, in concentrated form, well-known for its quick action on throat and bronchial irritations. Money refunded if not pleased in every way.

undefeated, untied season since 1912 Saturday by walloping Pittsburgh 29-0.

Other schools under consideration include Georgia Tech, Mississippi and Kansas. A committee is expected to go over all available teams today.

Kansas, sharing the Big Six conference title with Oklahoma, was being mentioned prominently not only for the Cotton Bowl, but for the Sugar and Orange Bowls.

Kansas, with one more game to play, earned the Big Six tie by conquering Missouri 20-14 Saturday while Oklahoma was eking out a 14-13 win over Nebraska.

Alabama has been chosen as host team in New Orleans' Sugar Bowl. The Crimson Tide gave a pre-bowl performance Saturday by whaling Louisiana State 41-12. No teams have been announced for the Orange Bowl in Miami.

Here are conference champions decided Saturday:

Ivy League—Pennsylvania.
Big Nine—Michigan.
Big Six—Kansas and Oklahoma.
Pacific Coast Conference—Southern California.
Missouri Valley—Tulsa.

Southern Conference — William and Mary can clinch by defeating Richmond Saturday.

Southwest Conference — SMU leads with 5-0. Can get a tie at the worst if it loses and Texas (4-1) beats Texas A and M.

Southeastern Conference — Mississippi (5-1) can with with a triumph over Mississippi State. A Mississippi defeat and a Georgia Tech victory over Georgia would give the Yellowjackets the championship.

Sports Round-Up

By HUGH FULLERTON, JR.

NEW YORK —(AP)— One thing some of the Green Bay Packers can't understand (besides how they can manage to look good and still lose one-point decisions) is why college scouts don't jam the stands to spy on their defense against the "T" formation . . .Coach Curly Lambeay has come up with a new setup that has been most effective against the "T" but he won't tell anyone all the details. . .Ed Cody, the Packer Fullback, figures he should be a buddy of Jack "Lucky" Lohrke. When Ed was at Boston College he passed up a visit to Coconut Grove the night of the tragic fire there. Later he was watching a basketball game at Purdue when he decided to go out for a smoke. He had just stepped off the bleachers when they collapsed disastrously.

Sleeper Play

Sam Francis, Kansas State Grid Coach, claims he really dreamed up a play to score on the powerful Oklahoma team. . .Sam says the Friday before the game he dreamed that Halfback Harold Bryan, instead of running behind Clarence Branch's blocking on a double lanker play, forward passed to Branch for a touchdown. . . On Saturday, Francis told the players and suggested they try it. . .They did and it worked just the way the coach had dreamed, for 45 yards and a TD . . .On the bench, the boys insisted: "Hurry up, coach, and have a couple more dreams. We want to win this game."

Wonder why the unofficial bowl team selectors haven't said more about William and Mary, which has a better-than-fair record?. . . And did you know that Notre Dame will lose five of its six "starting" tackles after this season?

Michigan Lands Four Players on All-Big Nine Football Team

CHICAGO— (AP) — Michigan's mighty Wolverines today landed four players, including three backs, on the 1947 Associated Press All-Big Nine football team selected annually by the conference coaches.

The league's mentors chose Bob Chappuis, Chalmers (Bump) Elliott and Howard Yerges for the high-geared backfield and placed pass-catching, end-running Bob Mann at an end position.

Three berths on the all-star lineup went to Illinois and one each to Indiana, Wisconsin, Purdue and Minnesota.

Russ Steger, workhorse fullback for Illinois, rounds out the No. 1 backfield which goes with a line bulwarked by ends Mann and Ike Owens of Illinois; tackles Phil O'Reilly of Purdue and Lou Agase of Illinois; guards Howard Brown of Indiana and Leo Nomellini of Minnesota and center Bob Wilson of Wisconsin.

Australians Get Drink from Ocean

SYDNEY, Australia —(AP)— In many places off the east coast of Australia, you can dip fresh water from the aceon. The explanation is that much of the rain that falls on the coast soaks down to a layer of impervious rock and the underground streams flow along the rock, often emerging under the sea.

Challenge To Love

By ETHEL HAMILL

© Arcadia House, Inc.; Distributed by NEA SERVICE, INC.

THE STORY: Cam and Joel go for a walk during the Welcome Dance at the gym. Cam, dressed for glamor, expects Joel to make love to her. Instead, he laughs at her as a "femme fatale," says he remembers her when. Hurt, Cam rushes back to the dance alone. Later, tired and upset, she makes an excuse to get away from the stag line, seeks solitude in the deserted shower room.

XIII

MAURINE had not noticed her cousin's departure from the crowded dance floor. But that was practically the first thing she had failed to notice about Cammie since that dramatic moment when they had met face to face near the door and she had realized that more than Herbert Powell's prowess as a debater lay behind Cam's sudden change of mind.

So dear Miss Austin was really all out for Joel, was she?

Shagging along spiritedly in the embrace of some nondescript new student who certainly was not important enough to raise her stock if they happened to be noticed by any of the Eta Mus—but laughing and flashing her dark eyes at him like twin spotlights, because others in the stag line must be impressed with what a gay little thing this new Blair girl was—the Senator's daughter realized that she was face to face with a problem which was going to need serious weighing.

Somehow, at some moment during the past few hours, Cammie seemed to have come awake. From being a pretty sleepwalker, she was very much the old Cam Austin who had queened it over Carter for the two previous years. And the reason for the sudden metamorphosis was Joel, nothing else. Cam had realized she was in love with Joel, and that fabulous green dress was the opening gun in a campaign to surround the poor man.

"Much good will it do her!" Maurine whispered grimly to herself.

A hand fell on her partner's shoulder. "Cut, please," Joel said.

SHE didn't even bother to say goodby as Teddy, like a man released from the stocks, scuttled off toward the sidelines. Joel had just come in from outside. She'd seen him pause within the frame of the big door, scan the crowd for an undecided moment and then head straight for her. It was a good omen, Maurine thought, and she intended to take full advantage of it. Smiling her prettiest, she looked up at him.

"I thought you'd forgotten me. Where have you been, Joel?"

An instant later, she wished she had never thought of the question. For, with discouragingly casual honesty, he answered, "Outside. With Cammie. We had things to talk over, and if was cooler out there."

And more romantic. Maurine froze, and it was an effort to keep the meltingly gentle look even on the surface of her dark eyes.

"I can't imagine what she got so sore about," Joel was saying, as they danced. "One was furious with me. And for no reason!"

The smile crept back to the corners of Maurine's lips. "Really?"

"What's happened to her sense of humor, Maurine?"

"You mean—she seems to have lost it, since—since you knew her before?" Now Maurine was moving carefully, feeling her way toward something she dared not be wrong about. She was like a hunter on a dark forest path, alert for the first rustle of leaves or the softest snapping of a twig. "But of course she has, Joel. Poor darling!"

"Why can't she laugh?" Joel prodded, although it sounded more as though he were asking himself the question than asking anyone else. "She never took herself seriously before. Darn it, if I'd known she was going to walk out on me just because—"

"We're hoping in the family that Herbert Powell will make her forget." Maurine murmured piously. "Forget about Gary Marlowe's tragic death, you know. Herbert is perfectly devoted to her and perhaps if she does marry him—the way Uncle William says she will—"

THE flow of Maurine's voice kept on in his ear, running a light footrace with the music. Dimly, he realized that the girl in his arms was worrying about her cousin. Well, so was Joel. Worrying good and hard.

Professor Powell? Great Scot, if Cammie was even considering anything serious with a stuffed owl like that one, then the damage to her equilibrium must be even worse than he'd guessed!

He became aware, belatedly, that the murmurous sweetness of Maurine's voice had broken its swarming-bee rhythm. She had tensed in his arms so that the altered feel of her dragged back his attention even from the far fields where it had been wandering.

Up and over his right shoulder her face was turned, and the slightly parted lips and the slowly quivering nostrils betrayed a swift crack-up of the control behind that otherwise immobile mask. Joel jerked around almost automatically, seeking what she had seen.

Up among the dusty rafters, close to the wooden ceiling which arched in shadow over the dance floor, he caught the merest quiver of movement. At first he thought it was a little animal crouched on the beam.

It was no animal. He realized, almost instantly as Maurine had realized it, that the color of the moving thing was wrong for that. Its texture was wrong, too. There was an almost liquid ruddiness in the way it rippled into view and then as soundlessly retreated. He thought simultaneously of molten copper and a snake's flickering tongue. The rafters would be dry, under the dust which draped them.

Italy Makes Progress Repairing Railroads

ROME —(AP)— Italian industry has constructed 8,124 railway freight cars and repaired some 16,000 passenger coaches, freight and baggage cars since the war, statistics show.

Availabe rolling stock now comprises 67,000 freight cars, 2,250 steam locomotives, 1,000 electric locomotives and 235 electric- and gasoline-powered coaches.

Considerable progress has also been made in repairing and improving tracks, the report said, and it is expected by the end of the year to have the Milan-Florence-Rome, Rome-Naples-Battipaglia, Rome-Genoa-Turin and Milan-Turin routes completely double-tracked.

LIFE TERMER HAPPY — — —

SYDNEY, Australia —(AP)— One life termer in the Mount Gambier jail seems contented with the arrangement. A lizard brought to the jail in 1926 by one of the guards suns himself every day in the prisoners' exercise yard. It has been out on parole only once when it was entered in a pet show and won a prize.

From 1940 to 1943, the civilian population of the United States decreased 4.2 million because of war mobilization.

Country Club Addition Work Going Forward

Foundation has been laid for an addition to the ballroom at the Country Club. It was learned that the present floor space will be increased to make the room 24 feet longer. The room will be approximately 75 by 30 feet when completed.

A general expansion program has been put into effect over a period of months. The project, which, it was reported several months ago, will cost around $50,000, will probably be completed around May 1.

Additions will include the swimming pool, now completed, a dining room, grill, and locker rooms for both men and women.

Swiss Check Lost Food Gift Parcels

BASEL, Switzerland—(AP)— The cantonal attorney general's office announced that 2,000 persons who had ordered food packages sent to other countries had filed complaints that in 3,400 cases there were no receipts confirming delivery. Approximately 1,400 complaints were against one shipping firm.

The attorney general's office is investigating to determine whether the shippers were at fault or whether thefts occurred in transit.

Throughout Switzerland, 168 firms have gone into the business of supplying food packages for shipment to central and southern Europe.

THE WALL STREET JOURNAL SAYS:

"Dealers Handling Kaiser-Frazer Cars Offer the Highest Trade-In Allowances"

"I hope that's true of our dealers everywhere!" says Joseph W. Frazer

I don't know that all of the more than 4,000 Kaiser-Frazer dealers are offering "highest trade-in allowances," as reported by the press, but I sincerely hope so. For personally, I feel that the used-car allowances being made by many automobile dealers today are far too low.

We have constantly urged our dealers to offer fair trade-in allowances, based on what cars will bring when they are re-sold, less the cost of handling and reconditioning.

Such fair practices, we tell our dealers, will build for them sound and continuing business.

Before you come to a decision on your next car, I hope you will find out what your Kaiser-Frazer dealer will allow you on your old car. Dealing with him, you'll not only receive fair treatment on both sales and service, but you'll get the most modern automobile built today.

Sen. Taylor Should Try to Find Himself

The day before Congress reconvened, Sen. Glen Taylor of Idaho, dressed in a checkered shirt, cowboy pants, boots and sombrero, rode a horse up to the Capitol steps. There he told a small group of passing sightseers that he had just completed a nation-wide peace tour—part of it on horseback.

It will be recalled that Senator Taylor has given non-senatorial shows on Capitol Hill before. Two years ago, when he first came to the Senate, he brought his family and his guitar up there and sang the housing blues because he couldn't find a place to live. But he seems to have confined himself to the spoken word on his recent tour.

"A voice for peace must have some device to attract attention," he said, in explaining the rodeo costume and the horse. "Peace, it seems, does not make the headlines."

Now peace is not a word that requires elaborate definition. But in order to go along with the senator on that statement, in the face of contrary evidence of actions and sentiments, it might be necessary to know what he means.

We do not have transcripts of the seven speeches which the senator made on his tour. But his views on foreign policy in the recent past have seemed to agree generally with Henry Wallace's. So, perhaps, he really means that Sen. Glen Taylor's prescription for peace is not headline news.

Evidently Mr. Taylor does not think that the Marshall Plan is an effort for peace, or his remark about the headlines could not have been made.

Hunger, poverty, unemployment and other aspects of economic instability lead to political instability. That, in turn, is an invitation to civil war and international war. An effort to remove these war-breeding conditions could logically be called an effort in the cause of peace. But the senator from Idaho seems to think otherwise.

Maybe he was deceived by the oratory of Mr. Vishinsky and other excited Russian advertisers of American infamy. They keep harping on American war-mongering and imperialism. But, stripped of their verbiage, their speeches are largely taken up with Russia's strength to meet an imaginary threat — Russia's historic defeat of invaders, her great record in World War II, her vigilance, her alleged discovery of the atomic bomb secret, and so on. One might say that they are doing a bit of left-handed war-mongering themselves.

If such harangues have misled the senator into believing that he is one of the few American spokesmen opposed to war, we earnestly hope that he will sit down and read the Russian diplomats' speeches more carefully. If they are not the basis for his tour, then it is difficult to escape the unflattering conclusion that it is Sen. Glen Taylor who must have some device to attract attention and make the headlines.

The threat to international peace and security is indeed grave when ignorance, governments persistent-behind these walls of contrived negligible.

—Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt.

NATIONAL WHIRLIGIG
news behind the news

By RAY TUCKER

WASHINGTON, — President Truman has quietly stepped on the Martin-Bridges-Taber scheme under which members of the House and Senate Appropriations and Finance Committees would have sat in with Budget Bureau officials when they listened to departmental heads' original requests for funds. The presidential rebuff has jeopardized friendly relations between White House and Congress far more than is generally realized.

Speaker Martin, House Appropriations Chairman Taber and Senate Finance Chairman Bridges had obtained Treasury Secretary Snyder's permission for this innovation in planning and making money available to the executive branch of the government. Secretary Snyder agreed with the G.O.P. financial leaders that the presence of the committee members would speed up enactment of money bills by at least six weeks.

Under the present system, departmental finance officers and chiefs submit their requests to the Budget Bureau officials in the first instance; these hearings are going on now. Then, after increasing or reducing the amounts asked for, the Budget Bureau forwards their estimate to the House Appropriations Committee.

PREROGATIVES — That body holds prolonged sessions at which they cross-examine the departmental representatives on their financial needs. Depending on the importance of the federal agency under Congressional crossfire, these Capitol Hill quizzes last from one to four weeks.

Messrs. Martin, Taber and Bridges figured that they could reduce this period to a week at the most by having the members of the appropriating committees, or their staff of experts, sit with the Budget Bureau group from the start. They also felt that they members of Congress could get a clearer picture of the federal financial picture in this way.

There was no partisanship involved, for both Democratic and Republican members of the House Appropriations and the Senate Finance Committees were to be in on the deal. However, despite Secretary Snyder's okay, President Truman killed the plan on the ground that it would constitute an invasion of his presidential prerogatives.

SYMPATHY — This seemingly unimportant incident, together with President Truman's message asking for a return of certain controls over basic products and prices, foreshadows a Congressional session of extreme bitterness between the White House and Capitol Hill. The honeymoon, such as it was, has ended.

Although a former member of the legislative club, Mr. Truman has soured on his erstwhile pals. He knows, or has been so advised, that a President usually gains prestige and stature with the public by opposing Congress.

It is far easier, as our more politically minded Chief Executives have sensed, for popular sympathy to express itself toward the man in the White House than toward 531 individuals at the other end of Pennsylvania Avenue.

ESTIMATE — In other ways, White House observers have noted that Mr. Truman is "feeling his presidential oats." The modesty, the humility and the awesome attitude toward his unwanted assignment have vanished. He is no longer the Missouri Senator who, by the grace of fate, became President in a perilous period.

He is now President Harry S. Truman. He makes plain his new estimate of himself and his position in his treatment of the press, politicians, members of Congress, Cabinet members and foreign dignitaries. He tips his hat these days to nobody, including "Jie" Stalin.

LABOR — The request of Democratic National Chairman J. Howard McGrath and Executive Director Gael Sullivan that organized labor units disband their political organizations has met with a flat rebuff.

On the contrary, the railroad unions have decided to enter politics in a big way after years of abstaining from such activity. Far more conservative than the A.F. of L. and the CIO, railroad labor has usually played a lone hand.

But leaders of this movement, in an ultra-secret meeting at Washington recently, organized a unit to be known as "Railway Labor's Political League." According to its charter, which was adopted without a dissenting vote, this new group of traveling workers, who have an unusual opportunity to influence the voting public, will swing its weight around in the 1948 presidential election.

VOTE — "The purpose of this League," says the document, "shall be to encourage railroad workers to more fully and effectively exercise their right to vote.

"To compile and disseminate information relating to the attitude of candidates for public office toward the social and economic problems of railroad workers, including the voting records, statements and other actions of such candidates. And to do other things as may be deemed proper to fully inform railroad workers of the qualifications of such candidates."

DEMOCRATICALLY — Although Trainmen President A. F. Whitney, in a fit of anger after President Truman broke the threatened railroad strike of 1945 by his proposal to draft the engineers into the army, promised to "spend every nickel in his treasury" (his figure was $5,000,000) to defeat Mr. Truman, it is generally understood that the brotherhoods, as of the moment, are Democratically inclined.

To the Editor:

I am writing to tell you of an incident that occurred last Saturday (Nov. 15) after the ball game between Pampa and Amarillo. Now this might not have been so bad if I had been a native of Amarillo, but due to the fact that I was raised in Gray County and had lived for a number of years in Pampa and too my wife taught school there in the Pampa High School for some time, we just naturally have always had a warm spot in our hearts for the schools and the Harvesters.

Now to get back to the story: we had driven about three blocks from the ball park when two men and a girl drove up beside my car and jerked a mirror from the door of my car and ask me what I would do, if I cared to get rough or just what? At the same time this was going on another car drove up on the other side and the two of them tried to get me stopped so I didn't have much choice but to drive on and that is what I did. Due to the very efficient Police Department in Pampa I was paid for the mirror within twenty minutes after it was torn from my car but that still leaves a peculiar feeling and besides what will other people think of this kind of sportsmanship?

A number of people saw this that afternoon too.

An Example of Bureaucratic Mentality

The reason England is in the shape it is, is because they have bureaucrats at the head of their government who do not have foresight or even ordinary mathematical intelligence.

In the October issue of Truth Magazine, Sir Ernest Benn, president of the Society of Individualists of London, gives a nice example of how inefficient the bureaucrats are at the head of the government. He even upbraids a lot of newspapers for not recognizing the stupidity of the bureaucrats issuing statements.

England is on a five-day week basis. The bureaucrats are trying to get the workmen to produce more. The Labour Exchange sends out bulletins. At the end of one of these bulletins, Mr. Isaacs of the Labour Exchange, makes this appeal as quoted in The Times newspaper:

"An appeal to Britain's workpeople to increase their output by 10 per cent on a five-day week, or by 2 per cent more each day, was made by Mr. Isaacs, Minister of Labour."

Mr. Isaacs seems to think that if you produce 2 per cent more one day and work five days, you will have increased the total for the week by 10 per cent. If Mr. Isaacs is right then if England would increase its output 2 per cent every day for 300 days, it would have a yearly increase of 600 per cent.

And this is the kind of people who invariably get at the head of a planned economy or a socialistic government. No wonder England is hard up, America or any other country will get hard up if the government is turned over to bureaucrats who don't even know simple arithmetic.

A Closed Mind

I was accused the other day of having a closed mind. That is a serious charge.

I admit that I have a closed mind on some things. If one didn't have a closed mind on some things, it would be impossible to have any moral standards, any impersonal rule of human relations. The statement that a man has a closed mind is a loose statement. Probably the man who charges another with a closed mind does not realize how far reaching such a charge is. Any man who has convictions has a closed mind on certain subjects. He has a closed mind on the Ten Commandments. He believes they are infallible. If a man doesn't have a closed mind on some things he might be called an anarchist, a law unto himself.

The occasion for the party telling me I had a closed mind was he had asked me to read a book and I said I would read it until I found a contradiction in it—a statement that was out of harmony with eternal principles, with the principle that all men are equal before the law; that if one man has a right to do a thing, every other man has a right to do it; if an individual doesn't have a right to do a thing, two people or the government do not have a right to do a thing. My mind is closed on these subjects until such a time as it can be proved that these are out of harmony with such axioms as the Ten Commandments.

It is useless to continue to read a book that is based on a fallacy. It is a waste of the most important thing in life—time. You cannot build a sound structure on sand.

The statement that a man has a closed mind is about as loose a statement as saying that men are equal without saying in what respects they are equal.

We need closed minds on some subjects. We cannot have law and order and a common meeting place unless there is a closed mind on these subjects. The Ten Commandments, the Sermon on the Mount and the Declaration of Independence were attempts to close men's minds on these moral laws.

By GRACIE ALLEN

A University of Kansas professor of child medicine recently made a statement which, if children read it or hear of it, should put him just behind Santa Claus in their estimation. He said that our little ones can get along very well without vegetables and that hot dogs are quite nutritious.

He certainly is a change from the average doctor, who seems to work on the theory that everything you like is bad for you. I've managed to solve this by telling my doctor that I'm mad about turnips, which I hate. He sternly forbids me to touch a turnip and we're both happy.

For years George has been afraid of doctors, thinking they might take his cigars away from him. Believe me, if a doctor ever does take them and smoke them he'd better rush right out to another doctor!

HOW ABOUT OUR OWN INTERESTS? ..... by Upton Close

The Marshall Plan is apt to become the springboard whence Congress will pounce on an alien-minded Administration, which has shipped abroad about $17,000,000,000 worth of our resources since the end of the war and wants to duplicate that non-sensical program.

Even Democratic Congressmen and Senators are so fed up with this kind of internationalism they hope the Republicans will use a sharp knife on the Marshall demand for "$16,000,000,000 to $20,000,000,000 over a four-year period."

Sen. Robert Taft said of Secretary of State Marshall's request: "If we have been exporting all we possibly could, I don't see how we could do any more."

Republican Sen. Dworshak of Idaho said he thought we already were spending too much in Europe.

That makes sense. We have been sending out more than we could properly spare, considering the shortages and the degree of inflation here at home.

Spokesmen for heavy industries say it will be 1952 before U. S. steel mills will catch up with the demand. Some grades of oil have had to be imported for some time and we are warned of probable shortages in fuel oil and gasoline by early 1948.

How can we talk of shipping out $20,000,000,000 worth of our resources when we have not enough for ourselves? Steel is one of the major items needed in Europe — that is, under the rehabilitation plan, which is not to be confused with the emergency food program.

It is not generally anticipated that we will curtail the food shipments before next harvest. However, even in the matter of feeding Europe it is time we gave more serious consideration to our own future supplies. Drouth in the wheat belt has delayed planting; if it continues we, ourselves, may experience a grain famine by this time next year, for we will have no carry-over, at the rate we are sending grain to Europe.

Marshall and Truman do not appear to realize, or are not willing to recognize, that at long last the United States is running thru its richest resources. We long ago used up and shot away in war our best grades of copper. We now are going to great expense to process low grade ores.

Not long ago we learned that the fabulous open pit Mesabe iron mine in the Great Lakes region has given up all of its first grade ore. This mine was one of the great discoveries in the history of America's industrial miracles. Hundreds of millions of tons of the purest iron lay open, after initial stripping, to power machines which sent it by cheap lake shipping to the mills and factories.

In no small measure that one mine has been responsible for the plentiful and low - cost production which enabled any normal man or woman in the United States to own an automobile, any farmer to equip his farm with a tractor.

But the big machines gutting the Mesabe have run thru the purest deposits and are in second grade ores. It now requires more manpower and machinery to process the raw material for the automobile and the tractor. As we dig deeper into the no-longer unlimited deposits of wealth — the work of millions of years which nature is not going to replace for us — more and more men will be needed to produce the automobile and tractor, even with progressively improved know - how.

Before we contract to ship another $16,000,000,000 to $20,000,000,000 worth of our national resources to Europe we should give a thought to the next generation of Americans.

Have we the right to short them?

Make Christmas Gifts In Your Own Home

Newspapers and magazines are full of ideas for Christmas gifts. Some of these suggestions come out of New York or some other large eastern center, but some of them that are just as workable may come from your next door neighbor right here in the Texas Panhandle.

Here are seven suggestions that any clever woman can follow. They are passed on in the hope that they will prove helpful.

Are you undecided about a gift for that friend who spends much time entertaining at bridge? Here's just the idea. A hand painted felt card table cover. Here's what you have to do. Measure the top of a card table add one-half inch for seams all around. Cut four strips 2-inches wide and the same length as the piece above. Sew with a flat seam a strip on each side of the square piece. Then sew the corners.

Now you are ready to paint, with textile paints, any design or monogram you wish in the corners. Contrasting colors of felt sewn in the seams and around the lower edge of cover make a very pretty finish.

2—College girls or almost any girl friend will appreciate a hanger for drying hose. So why not find a few minutes time and make her one for Christmas? It is so simple. Using a hairpin as a needle threaded with folded bias tape, lace the tape through the spring of 8 plastic clothes pins. Loop the tape between the pins over a wooden hanger so that they hang in a straight row. Fasten the tape to the hanger with small tacks.

Now make a cover with plastic material in a pretty color. To do this, lay the hanger on a piece of paper. Mark around the top curve then straight across from end to end. Cut from the plastic. Bind two lower edges with tape. Fasten two [illegible] together with tape leaving an opening to slip over hanger.

3—Make a pair of pictures from plates for a Christmas gift, suggests Mrs. L. R. Spence of the Lefors Home Demonstration club. She uses plain white plates and pastes white ready-made ruffing around the edge for a frame. Then she used any pretty colored decals in the center of the plate. Thats all and as pretty as a picture!

4—Plastics are in the news again, and plastics make one of the most useful gifts you could give for Christmas. That is shoulder protectors for clothes hanging in the closet. A little plastic material, some bias tape and you can sew them up in a hurry.

5—Another Christmas gift that can be made from felt and be hand painted is a holder for those precious nylons. Cut a piece of felt 15-inches long and 12-inches wide. Fold up one end for pockets for the hose. This length divided into four sections makes very nice size pockets. Stitch these on machine. Then turn other side over for a flap. On the flap you can paint a monogram, the girl's name or any other design.

6—You can make a Yule tide candle that will last for hours and hours. For a mold use a tall ice cream container or any tall can or tube. Punch a small hole in the center of the bottom of the container. Tie a knot in one end of a string for the wick and pull the oher end through the hole. Lay a pencil or small stick across top of container and tie string around it. This keeps the wick in the center of the candle.

Now break up those old cnadles that are not useable any longer and melt over a slow heat. Use food coloring to color red or green. Pour melted wax in container. When hardended tear paste board container away or melt the tin can slightly and the candle will fall out.

7—An idea for personalized gift wrapping and some of your very own ideas. Wrap the gift in a plain paper then with stencils and paint decorate the package. The orginality comes in cutting the stencil. Use candles, Christmas trees, stars, or holly. Oh, just any number of things will give you ideas. Maybe the name of the person who is to receive the gift would be an easy stencil.

The Farm Vehicle That Works 12 Months a Year

THE 4-WHEEL-DRIVE UNIVERSAL 'Jeep'
Spreads Its Cost Over More Jobs
No idle seasons for the Universal "Jeep"—it works for you the year 'round. With 4-wheel drive and low speeds from 2½ mph up, the "Jeep" does your tractor work from breaking the ground to harvesting. Shift into 2-wheel drive and you have a vehicle that hauls and tows at highway speeds, with 4-wheel drive to rely on when roads are soft or slippery. The power take-off gives you up to 30 hp on the belt—ample for your power jobs. Let us bring a "Jeep" out to your place and show you how many jobs it will do.

10 ways you can help yourself to good telephone service

Telephoning is easy. But more depends on the user than people realize. What you do when making or receiving a call often has a lot to do with how satisfactory that call is.

Here are ten suggestions to help you to good telephone service:

1. Before you call, make sure of the number. If you're not sure of it, look in the telephone directory, and thus avoid wrong numbers.

2. Give the called party time to answer. He or she may be some distance from the telephone. A minute isn't too long.

3. Speak directly into the mouthpiece. About an inch between it and your lips is right for best results.

4. Move the switch hook slowly up and down to recall or signal the operator. "Jiggling" the hook rapidly often won't cause a signal to come in and is useless.

5. Replace the receiver carefully when you have finished talking. A receiver partly off the hook puts the whole line out of order.

6. Answer calls promptly. It's courteous to do so and often keeps the caller from hanging up—thinking you're not at home.

7. Identify yourself when you call or answer. Not everyone recognizes you by your voice. Telling who you are saves time and sometimes embarrassment.

8. Space calls on party lines. If you have a series of calls to make, allow a few minutes between each one so others can use the line to call or be called.

9. Keep calls brief on party lines. Other folks on the line will appreciate your thoughtfulness and—who knows—may follow your good example.

10.
Avoid calling in busy hours if possible. Switchboards are usually busiest during midmorning and late afternoon.

Bureau Says Action Needed to Curb This Major Traffic Menace

CLEVELAND, O., — Aggresive action by Americans leading to improvement in street lighting will check one of the nation's worst traffic killers, according to The Street and Traffic Safety Lighting Bureau.

That killer, the Bureau says, is unsafe visibility in night traffic.

The nation's traffic death rate at night, the Bureau says, is 1.8 times daylight, despite a traffic volume which is 75 percent less!

In figures from state accident reporting bureaus, the average ratio of fatal to total accidents is night, 1 in 28, daylight, 1 in 51. More than 10,000 lives are sacrificed annually in dark-hour traffic due to poor visibility, according to the Bureau.

The Lighting Bureau points out that the nation's average street lighting is minimum for alleys and that here it has been improved to adequacy, night killings have been reduced 50 percent.

Texas Today

By JACK RUTLEDGE
Associated Press Staff

Grab a can of paint and put the name of your town on the roof of your barn, Elmer. The CAA will love you for it.

You'd be surprised how many fliers there are in Texas. And you'd be even more surprised to learn how many towns have no identification suitable for them.

One of the chief hazards of flying without the aid of radio or advanced instruments or navigational aids is the danger of getting lost. You know how you depend on highway signs to keep you on the straight and narrow. Well, it is even more important for the boys traveling the aerial routes.

A moutain, river or lake shows up pretty well in the air, but unless the pilot can definitely identify his landmarks, they look like any other mountain, river or lake.

So the Texas Aeronautics commission is asking that every town in the state have it's name plainly visible somewhere—on a school, warehouse, prominent building, barn, almost anywhere.

Some towns have beem hesitant because they thought it might be against CAA regulations to put up such a sign. But they're wrong.

The CAA does have a regulation marker, of course—one that gives the town, latitude and longitude, true north arrow, direction and distance to nearest airport and skyway shield, if the town is located on a designated highway.

But the most pressing need right now is any kind of a marker, if your town doesn't have one. The regulation marker can come later.

And after you've done your good deed, Elmer, write the Texas Aeronautics Commission and tell them the news. Give a description of your job. They want this information for their records.

You not only will be making aerial travelling a lot more enjoyable for the fliers, but you'll be advertising your town. And you may help save a life.

I'm Going a-Milking Said This Farm Truck

DUBLIN, Ark. —(AP)— A farm truck is doing the milking for Roland Faulkner, partially disabled World War II veteran, near here.

Faulkner has 13 cows and a milking machine but no electricity is available to operate the machine. He overcame this difficulty by—

Tapping a half-inch hole in the truck's intake manifold, attaching a vacuum tube, connecting it with the milker and the milker to the cows, then stepping on the starter.

He reports he now milks his herd in 32 minutes "with vacuum to spare."

Japs Go to Trial For Fliers' Deaths

YOKOHAMA —(AP)— Forty-six Japanese accused of killing three U. S. Navy fliers will go on trial here Monday in the largest mass hearing to date before an American Military Court in the Orient.

The Japanese are alleged to have decapitated two of the Americans, who parachuted from their disabled plane and landed on Ishigaka Jima, near Okinawa, sometime in April, 1945.

The Americans were Lt. Vernon L. Tebo, Pensacola, Fla.; Aviation Ordananceman 1c Robert Tuggle, Jr., Brownwood, Texas, an adioman Warren H. Loyd, Forest Hills, N. Y.

In political complexion the new government does not differ radically from that of Schuman's predecessor, Socialist Paul Ramadier, who resigned last Wednesday.

One new angle was added, however, with the inclusion of a minister who openly supports De Gaulle—Rene Mayer.

In addition to Bidault, Schuman, Moch, Marie, Teitgen, Daniel Mayer, Naegelen and LaCoste all served in the Ramadier cabinet.

The new ministers were presented to President Vincent Auriol this morning. The first meeting of the new cabinet was scheduled today.

Schuman, who served as minister of finance under Ramadier, issued a brief statement referring to the "considerable and difficult task" facing his government and appealed to the "discipline and good will of all Frenchmen" to enable him to deal with the situation.

MEYERS

purchasing officers held any aviation stock.

Meyers replied at the time he held none. But a committee investigtor testified that the general's account showed he had some $35 000 worth.

While the possibility of a separate investigation into speculative dealings in government bonds was pointed up by the Meyers hearings, Tobey told a reporter he has had the matter under study for six months.

He said he has no definite plans for hearings but that the banking committee certainly will look into the matter.

Meyers had testified that he once made a paper profit of $90,000 by buying $4,000,000 (million) worth of government bonds on margin, but that he did not make anything on the transaction because he did not sell at the right time.

Tobey said Meyers wasn't the only one who had the idea, that "Many others—individuals, corporations and even banks" — profited by it.

Meyers entered the War Investigating Committee's records in connection with an inquiry into wartime airplane contracts awarded to Howard Hughes.

A subcommittee headed by Senator Ferguson (R-Mich.) devoted eight sensational-packed days to the balding, 52-year-old retired officer.

Meyers was not present at the final session to hear his former boss, Arnold, tell the committee: "The evidence before you would indicate that a high-ranking officer has disgraced his uniform and his rank."

The New York Daily News quoted Meyers as saying in an interview about Arnold's testimony:

"I feel that if he knew the whole truth, he would not have made those remarks about me."

"If General Arnold's statement serves in any way to further the national defense of this country, I have no malice about it."

The paper said the general contended the committee had to find a "scapegoat" because the Hughes case "got too hot for them to handle" and "that turned out to be me."

For Ferguson's subcommittee, the future was indefinite.

The chairman said he believes there should be a further inquiry into purchasng methods used during the war, but that no decision has been made as to whether the group can find time to carry it on.

FOOD SUPPLY

would add to economic strains here at home.

To cope with those stresses and the continuing rise in cost of living, he asked for broad economic controls, including authority to put on some price and rationing controls if he found them necessary.

The President made his request only in general terms. Administration aides are now presenting more detailed proposals to various committees of Congress.

Before the Senate-House Economic Committee, a group of Agriculture Department officials asked that the government be given power to buy the entire wheat crop, if necessary to see that it is parcelled out to the best interests of the country as a whole.

This would be one of the so-called "allocation" powers asked.

Carl C. Farrington, head of the department's production and marketing division, said that even if this and other measures are undertaken, Americans each will have 10 pounds less meat in 1948 than this year and it will cost them more.

F. Marion Rhodes, an aide who appeared with Farrington, said the government also whould have allocation authority (power to say what use is made) over petroleum, coal, steel, lumber, fibers (cotton, wool, rayon), chemicals and some manufactured equipment.

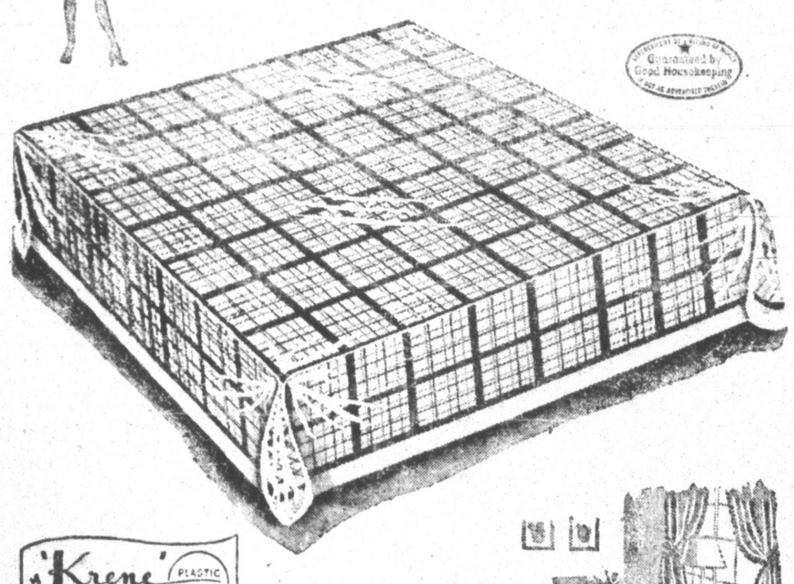

J. M. Mehl, commodity exchange authority administrator, said that authority to regulate cash payments, or "margins" on grain and other commodity trading is needed to curb speculation in the food markets.

We have got to keep the free enterprise people in the fight against communism or we will defeat our very purpose.
—Sen. Homer Ferguson (R) of Michigan.
