LITTLE DAMAGE IN COUNTY BY LIGHT FREEZE

First Freeze of the Season Struck the County Last Night

Hall County crops were not damaged seriously last night as the first freeze of the year struck this area. The thermometer dropped to a new low last night. John J. McMickin, United States Weather Bureau statistician, reported this morning. A low of 30 degrees was recorded.

The entire county was blanketed with a fairly heavy frost last night, as clouds cleared away and light winds died down.

Hall County farmers were out early this morning gathering late tomatoes and other small portions of produce, which may be used if gathered immediately after frost.

The general consensus of opinion from the farmers was that the freeze would not harm the crops here very much. The "dry freeze" will assist in making the cotton open; whereas a "wet freeze" would have made the cotton bolls "sappy" and subject to decay, and cotton producers would have lost considerable cotton. Because of recent rains, Hall Countians had been fearful of a "wet freeze."

If the frost had been delayed, Memphis and area would have made a better "top crop" on the cotton. Maize and other feedstuffs was not hurt to any extent, because almost all of the feed had already matured. The frost, however, stopped vegetation.

Memphis housewives who failed to take in their pots plants last night were eyeing them with considerable speculation this morning. Because of the hardy nature of some of the flowers, they did not perish from the freeze, but some of the more tender plants were leveled. The air current that is prevalent around all houses aided in keeping some of the flowers and plants from dying.

Reports from the Panhandle were that the lowest temperatures of the night were registered at Amarillo and Plainview, with a minimum of 25 degrees at the former and 28 at the latter.

SCS WORK IN COLLINGSWORTH

Conservation Crews Now Busy in Near By County

The Soil Conservation Service camp located here, known as the ECW camp, will probably devote most of its activities during the month of November to work in and near Collingsworth County.

John D. Stovall, county agricultural agent of Collingsworth County, has called a series of community gatherings over the county during the current month for the purpose of explaining the emergency conservation program, which is available in the south and west sections of Collingsworth County through the local ECW camp.

The local camp area embraces 1,200,000 acres of land in Hall, Donley, Collingsworth and Childress counties, covering the Quil vicinity and extending within two miles of Wellington.

Where Japan Moves Again

This map shows the powder keg of the Far East where rival ambitions, border clashes, and international "incidents" stir fears of a Soviet-Japanese conflict, and indicate that Japan is ready to extend its sway in China. While Mongol descendants of Genghis Khan clash with Japanese troopers on the Mongolian-Manchukuo border, Russia, whose interests have been paramount in Mongolia for years, backs the 11-year-old republic in its refusal to permit Japan to establish military representatives in Mongolian cities, sensing an espionage plot. On Manchukuo's southwestern border, Japan's efforts to divorce five North China provinces from the domain of Chiang Kai-shek's "national government" in Nanking and bring them under Tokio's influence may have the support of a farmers' revolt, which Chinese authorities say is fomented by Japan.

COTTON STAPLE AND GRADE ARE OFF FOR WEEK

District Shows Drop For Week, as Does Entire State

Grade and staple reports from the United States Department of Agriculture for the week ending October 31, show that both have dropped to a slight extent in this district from the two weeks before.

Strict middling cotton and better comprised only 21.2 per cent for the week, against 32.9 per cent for the two weeks before. (Continued on page 8)

MEMPHIS MUSIC LOVERS TO GET A REAL TREAT

Johnsson Concert at School Auditorium Tonight at 8:00

When Esther Johnsson is presented in concert tonight at the High School Auditorium, music lovers of Memphis will hear an artist who has been acclaimed upon three continents as the greatest woman pianist of today.

The concert is being sponsored jointly by the Harmony Club and the Democrat.

"It certainly will be a rare treat," says Mrs. M. McNeely, president of The Harmony Club. "And we are most fortunate in being able to bring such an outstanding artist to Memphis. I hope that everyone who likes music, and especially every child who is studying music will avail themselves of the opportunity of hearing Miss Johnsson. The inspiration to be gained from hearing her play should be of much help to any student of music."

Perhaps some of the finest tributes to Miss Johnsson's genius have been inspired by her interpretation of the works of Mozart. In Salzburg she was chosen as soloist for the Festival in celebrating Mozart's 175th anniversary—the first time Austria had conferred so great an honor on a foreigner. Salzburg christened her Miss Mozart, and from one end of Europe to the other, she has been acclaimed as one of the greatest Mozart interpreters of all time.

Miss Johnsson's concert tours have been colorful and unique, taking her from Scandinavia to the Balkans and Turkey, where her audiences have included emperors, kings, and lowly shop-herds in the same countries where she has charmed the courts. (Continued on Page 5)

PREPARING FOR DRIVE FOR RED CROSS MEMBERS

Local Committee Is Laying Plans for Roll Call Drive

At a meeting of the Red Cross Roll Call central committee last night at the office of the West Texas Utilities Company, plans were laid for the annual Roll Call in Hall County, which begins next Tuesday, November 12.

The central committee is composed of Earl C. Johnson, Chairman, W. R. Cabness, W. C. Davis, Roy Fultz, Fred V. Clark, Harry C. Delaney and W. C. Milam.

At the meeting last night it was decided, as in former years, to call on the ladies of the city for help in putting the membership drive over.

The following sub-committee chairman appointments have been made: Merchants Cooperation, Fred V. Clark; Solicitation, W. C. Milam; Industrial Plants, W. A. Cabness; Rural Solicitation, Harry C. Delaney; Publicity, Earl C. Johnson; Accident Prevention, W. C. Davis.

A meeting will be held later in the week, when final plans for the drive will be made, and at which the cooperation of the ladies of the city will be asked to aid in putting the Roll Call over.

Legion Meeting

All members of the Charles K. Simmons Post of the American Legion are urged by Joe Reheis, post commander, to attend the semi-monthly meeting tonight at the local Legion Hall.

Regular routine business matters will be acted upon, after which doughnuts and coffee will be served.

ADULT CLASSES CONTINUED

New Setup Expected In Adult Classes In the County

Continuance of the Emergency Educational Program in Memphis is the prospect here for the next month, according to information received yesterday by the county school superintendent from H. E. Driscoll, Plainview, who is district administrator of the adult education.

The program for November will follow the same basis as employed here during October. E. C. Householder, supervisor, and the Memphis adult education instructors have been looking forward to a new set-up in the education program, but the new plans have not been released as yet.

The Weather

WEST TEXAS: Partly cloudy, colder in extreme southeast, not so cold in north, frost in extreme west tonight; Wednesday fair, with rising temperatures in north and east.

Style Note: Elizabeth Johnston has gone back to the more conservative mode of wearing shoes that match. Beth tried awfully hard to start a new style in footwear, but somehow it didn't catch on.

Fine Arts: Mrs. Leonard Doss has a rival in the poetry line. Albert Crump, member of one of the junior football squads, sends us the following effusion: Now listen my folks and I'll scream, A verse about our football team. We've got a end, and we've got a guard, We've got a quarter that hits 'em hard, We've got a tackle that weighs 192, Wears a number eleven shoe, We've got a center that's six feet one, He centers the ball then's gone on the run, We've got a guard that looks like a sap, But when it comes to playing ball, he sure is a rap, We got two halves fast as the wind, You look up they're gone round the end, We've got a fullback that sure is fast, Oh boy, can he throw a pass, The last is always the best, But we got a coach that's leader of the rest.

Aside from the fact that Albert has only nine men on his football team, what do you think of his poetry?

Social Item: Viola Cassel doesn't seem to be making so many visits to the east side as usual of late.

Weather Note: We thought it rather cool yesterday afternoon until we saw David "Honey Boy" Fitzgerald, local member of the Estelline Progressive Club, on the streets bareheaded. Either Dave has a rather thick skull, or it wasn't as cold as we thought it was.

Believe It or Not: Ivan Thornton and Ben Hill, of Brice, having a family reunion at one of the local drug stores. Ivan even went so far as to offer Ben a nickel drink.

Here and There: Cecil McCollum driving his hired hand's car to and from work. Information to the effect that Jack Fox of Childress has been suggested by Tech officials for a Rhodes scholarship. The Childress boy couldn't be too smart, for not so long ago he sent us a dime chain letter. Chester Grimes strike a new high yesterday in window washing. He was wearing gloves while operating on the glass. Mrs. W. C. Chapman in the tax collector's office. Maybe she was paying her taxes, so she could vote in the old-age pension plan. Dr. and Mrs. J. M. Ballew whispering in church Sunday. Hayden Goodnight nodding while seated in the choir section at church Sunday.

Style Note: Seth Palmeyer demonstrating the latest in cowboy attire on the Open A Ranch—a straw sailor hat and a sheep-lined coat.

T. A. Singer, formerly of this city, in town the other night. When we asked him where he was living now, he said: "Dimmittdammit." T. A. says he likes the new shape of the Democrat, because it's about his size now.

BEHIND THE SCENES IN WASHINGTON

By RODNEY DUNN
NEA Service Staff Correspondent
WASHINGTON, Nov. 9.—Diplomats are betting there'll be no European war this fall. The odds have been set at 10 to 1.

But you couldn't find a Washington who would give a riddle on a wager that there will be no general conflict. The break war is coming as inevitable.

That's why, in Washington, there's a buzz going with war talk, and most as much discussion of the conflict that is likely after the current war is settled as of the conflict in Africa and the Pacific moves in Europe.

European menaces give place to new mention of Hitler or Mussolini. But both British and American diplomats will continue to watch the Far East, where they believe that Japan will continue to expand into Asia and clash with England.

It would take a navy to handle the Mediterranean, and the United States would be extremely reluctant to do this.

Inside opinion here would be that this nation should stay out of the war in which England faces enough other enemies.

Rumors of American intentions for co-operation with the British fleet in case of war shouldn't be taken too heavily. While the administration has no need for to make any such reservation of the British policy. And there are high places here where they believe the Japanese means to take over the Philippines later the Philippines are in a state of anarchy.

At any rate, we keep out of war if we can. We start peering westward.

Some of the brainiest men figured out that a European war is likely and at King Midas and Uncle Sam, assuming enough not to be dark turned.

Europe will have her bandit plies and she will have one ha gold. If the war isn't the enough, we might force them nearly all the gold and run.

And then what would other chief nations do on, Wines to stop the gold, and abandoned the dream of exchange.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 9.—The varying confidential and staff just what stiffened attitude toward Italy August.

One story which is as good as a pale horse that Benito Mussolini began hinting to Ethiopia venture to include to efforts to include sphere of influence out the Mediterranean.

The threat to Cyprus was obvious. According to this at one time felt British naval strength in the Mediterranean.

SPLENDID PROJECT APPROVED BY W. P. A.

WE were glad to learn last week that the Works Progress Administration had approved seven new projects for Hall County, which with the two which had been approved previously, made nine in all.

This will mean work for our unemployed during the winter and spring and will aid the relief problem a great deal.

We were especially pleased over the inclusion of one project in the approved list, and that was the one providing for the conversion of the old East Ward school building in the city into a community and club center.

This old building, unsuited, in its present shape, for use of any kind, will be converted into an enterprise which will be a credit to the city, and a most useful adjunct to both city and county.

The project, as explained before in our columns, calls for a complete remodeling of the old structure, which is sound and strong, and a great deal of work on the surrounding grounds, to fit it for its new role.

The building itself will be made into an assembly and club room for such organizations as the Boy Scouts, Future Farmers of America

A wall of attractive design will be built around the grounds, and stock judging pens and other improvements built thereon, making an ideal place for the holding of community fairs and exhibits.

This will mean that, from something which for years has been the cause of many squabbles, the old building will be made into a community center of which the East Side, the entire city and the county may be proud.

It will also give this city a much needed place for the activities mentioned.

We congratulate the school board and Superintendent Davis.

ing to his secret shame, that his chief emotion was one of relief at the fact that the robbers had not bothered to take his own money away from him—he went back behind the grille to see about Mr. Hobart.

Mr. Hobart still lay where he had fallen. His head was in a pool of blood, and it had got in his sparse gray hair and made him look rather dreadful; but Mr. Dunn knelt beside him and discovered, with joy in his heart, that the man was still alive. He said the farmer carried the wounded man into Mr. Dunn's office and laid him on a leather couch, and then Mr. Dunn reached for a telephone and hurriedly called a doctor, while the farmer soaked a handkerchief in water at the cooler in the corner of the room and bathed Mr. Hobart's forehead with clumsy tenderness.

The young clerk who had been slugged into unconsciousness came to and sat up groggily, his head wobbling a little. He raised one hand and touched his aching temple gingerly, said "Ooooooh" in a low, shaky voice, and tried to remember just what had happened. By the time the first of the half dozen people who had managed to jam their way past the quaking stenographer at the door came into the bank, he was trying to get to his feet. Someone came back of the grille and helped him, and he found himself the focal point for a dozen eager questions, which ranged all the way from "How do you feel?" to "What happened?"

The doctor came, presently, to attend to Mr. Hobart; and Mr. Dunn managed to recruit an informal committee to keep the crowd out of the bank, call the sheriff, take the stenographer home, and so on, while he himself made a hasty check of the extent of the bank's losses.

An hour later order was restored. Mr. Hobart was taken home. By a lucky chance, the bank's bullet had only creased his skull. He was suffering a good deal of pain and he would carry a rather prominent scar for the rest of his life, but he would live. The policeman had not been so lucky. Three bullets had smashed into his chest, and he was dead.

The young clerk had nothing worse than a painful bruise, a bad headache—and a topic of conversation that would keep him going for the next two years.

Mr. Dunn sat in his office talking with the county sheriff, who had hurried over from the county seat 12 miles away.

"There's nothing more we can do now," said the sheriff, folding his notebook. "There's nothing much we can do at all, for that matter. It's a lead-pipe cinch they're out of the county by this time. I've got one of my deputies over at the telephone office, calling all the cities and towns around here telling 'em to be on the lookout, and a car-full of the boys are out on the road chasing these birds.

"But shucks! We've got one chance in a hundred. We don't even know for sure what road those fellows left on. We got their license number, but if they don't stop out in the country somewhere and change plates, I miss my guess. We're just helpless on a thing like this, Mr. Dunn."

Mr. Dunn nodded agreement.

"There's nothing much we can do," he admitted. After a brief pause he said, "I had hoped, when we got that tear gas installed, that we'd be safe. You see, all Hobart had to do was step on a button, and the gas would've stopped them. But he never had a chance. That man shot him before he could move."

The sheriff bit the end off a cigar, spat it out in the general direction of a waste basket, and began to smoke.

"No, we're licked in these small towns—licked before we start," he said. "The only wonder is that they don't rob more of these banks. There's nothing much to stop 'em, as far as I can see."

He brooded over this for a moment. Then he looked up suddenly.

"Listen," he said, "I tell you what: put in a call for the Department of Justice men in Dover. You're a Federal Reserve bank, aren't you? Well, robbery of a Federal Reserve bank is a federal offense. Get the government men busy on it."

Mr. Dunn reached for a telephone.

"I wish I'd thought of that sooner," he said. "The head of the Dover office is a Maplehurst man—Larry Glenn. I've known him since he was a baby."

Larry had just got back from lunch when the call came in. It had been a quiet day, and the sunlight on the pavement was beguiling; so much so that it made him think of the baseball park, and he was just reviewing the current state of affairs in his mind, to see whether he would be justified in "sneaking off to the ball game," when his telephone bell tinkled.

"Maplehurst is calling. Will you hold the wire?" said the operator. He waited; then came Mr. Dunn's voice, to tell him about the robbery.

Thoughts of the ball game fled from Larry's brain—not to re-enter it until many an eventful day had passed. He drew a scratch pad over to him and made notes as, with swift questions, he got from Mr. Dunn the salient features of the case. At last he hung up, pushed his chair back, and strode to the next room. Agents Tony LaRocco and Al Peters looked up expectantly.

"Get your hats," said Larry. "We're taking a run down to Maplehurst. Looks like Red Jackson has blown himself to another bank robbery."

Doss Cleaners Report Increase

Aside from being very busy in the cleaning and pressing end of their business, Doss Dry Cleaners announce that there has been remarkable improvement in their sales of tailor made suits and coats. Mr. Leonard Doss, explains that this is probably due to the weather conditions.

With the holiday season close at hand Mr. Doss expects the next few weeks to be very busy ones for him. People these days are taking more pains with their appearance especially around holiday time.

He says there is no doubt in his mind that conditions are much better all over the country, and that the so called depression is a thing of the past.

Attend Meeting

County Agricultural Agent James A. Jackson is organizing the cotton producers and farmers in general for the purpose of attending a meeting in Plainview on Wednesday, November 13, when C. A. Cobb, director of the division of cotton, Washington, D. C., will address West and Northwest Texas cotton producers at the municipal auditorium at 2 o'clock.

Mr. Cobb, who ranks second to Secretary of Agriculture Wallace as head of the government cotton program, will make only two addresses in Texas. He will speak at Temple and at Plainview.

All farmers and county agents are extended an invitation to hear the government official deliver an address on the cotton program.

Mr. and Mrs. Roy Meacham and Mrs. L. A. Cottingham were called to Amarillo Saturday night because of the illness of Cecil Cottingham. Cecil underwent an operation in an Amarillo hospital Saturday night, and he is reported improving.

Memphis' Only Transportation System

"Good taxi service is very important to the business and commercial life of a city" Says Mr. Harley Cudd of Cudd Bros. "Here in Memphis our 10c Taxi Service takes the place of street cars and buses besides the regular taxi service."

"That's why we maintain a 24 hour service seven days a week and have three late model passenger cars ready at all times," continues Mr. Cudd. You can depend upon our courteous and safe drivers to take you where ever you wish to go regardless of the time or weather condition.

Cudd Bros. rent cars with or without drivers. Just Phone 157 and a taxi will be at your door.

BOILING HOT ALL THE TIME

We have made a great improvement over the old way doing your laundry work.

You get your clothes boiled every minute they are in the washer, because every washer has steam connected to it, this boiles them snow white.

No where else can you get such service. Ladies like it fine, one trial will convince you.

DEMOCRAT SPORT WRITERS PICK AN ALL-DISTRICT

When the Democrat sports writers pick an all-district team for District 3, Class B at the close of the current football season, much consideration will be given the Memphis players, despite the fact that Memphis is out of the picture so far as winning the conference championship is concerned.

This does not mean that any prejudice will enter into the selections of the men for the mythical eleven, for data are being kept on every regular starter in this district, and selections of members of the team will be made on merit alone and by persons who have seen every man in the district in action.

Prominent among those from Memphis who will be given additional consideration are Joel Adcock, utility backfield man; Raymond Powers, triple-threat quarterback; Dennis Walker, blocking half and pass receiver; Capt. Bud McAbee, who roves over the entire line; and Fred Sanders, big tackle.

Adcock has been praised by opposing players in every game this year as the best defensive man on the Memphis team. Despite his size—he only weighs 134 pounds—Adcock nails opposing backs in a savage manner, and more often than not he throws them for a loss.

Besides being a steller defensive man, Adcock has carried the ball well when given the opportunity. He is as good at plunging the line as he is on knifing through tackle and around end.

Raymond Poyers, who does everything from blocking, punting, backing up the line, running and passing to kicking the ball off, is a natural-born player. When the going is roughest he shows up to the best advantage. In the Le-fors, the McLean and the Sham-rock games, Powers averaged better than 40 yards on his punts. He is the spearhead of Memphis' passing attack, being unhurried and cool-headed when back to pass. He also has probably gained more yardage on running plays this year than any other two Memphis men.

Dennis Walker does not shine as brilliantly in the games as do some of his team mates. He is used mostly to block; however, in last Friday night's game against Wellington, Walker made several gains with the ball. One of Mem-cent last week and 25.1 per cent the week before.

The state grades for the same periods also suffered a drop in quality, strict middling and better for the week in the state averaging 21.3 per cent, against 26.8 per cent for the week before.

Staple has also dropped, according to the report.  $\frac{3}{8}$  inch or longer staple for the week was only 74.9 per cent, compared to 77.11 percent last week, but quite an increase over the week before that, when the long staple was only 32.6 per cent. 4.8 per cent of the cotton graded in the district for the week was one inch or better in staple.

While Miss Johnson is now playing for the first time in America, she is not unfamiliar to American audiences who have heard her many times in international broadcasts. Juniors Win

Cosch Arthur Howard's nameless High school junior football players journeyed to Childress yesterday afternoon for a football skirmish with the Childress "B" squad and took the young Bob Cats to camp by a score of 14-0.

J. C. Webster, Memphis end, scored all 14 points to star for the Memphis junior team. He scored first in the first quarter on a pass from Pounds, and he also took another pass from pounds for the extra point. The final score came in the third quarter on an end-around play with Webster taking the ball over for a touchdown. He took another pass from Pounds for the extra point.

To Attend Meet

Almost a score of city superintendents, principals and teachers over Hall County, including Memphis, attended a meeting of school administrators Saturday in Childress, where first efforts were made toward organization of a sectional association of the State Teachers' Association.

Seventeen counties were represented at the meeting. Although Memphis and Hall County are not included in district 3, teachers were given special invitations to attend the meeting.

An effort is being made to organize the district 3 area into a branch of the State Teachers' Association because of the distance to the regional headquarters at Canyon.

F. D. Meeting

Members of the Memphis Volunteer Fire Department met last night at 7:30 o'clock at the Memphis fire station for the purpose of setting regular drill night in keeping with the state drilling program.

Alvin Massey, newly-elected local fire chief, presided over the meeting, and drill nights were set for Monday nights, twice each month.

The regular business routine was taken up at the session, and discussion was held on the state fire drills and state fire insurance.

ATTENDS FUNERAL

J. G. Brown returned Saturday from Ft. Worth, where he went to attend the funeral of J. R. Logan, vice president of the Cicero Smith Lumber Co.

Mr. Logan died suddenly Thursday and the funeral services were conducted in Fort Worth Friday afternoon at the First Presbyterian church with burial in Fort Worth.

Mr. Brown was among one of the active pallbearers.
