

THE GOLDTHWAITE EAGLE

VOLUME THIRTY-EIGHT

GOLDTHWAITE, MILLS COUNTY, TEXAS, FRIDAY, JULY 29, 1932.

NUMBER FORTY-EIGHT

PRIMARY ELECTION RETURNS

The Eagle gives herewith the total number of votes polled for each candidate in Mills county in the primary last Saturday, according to unofficial figures. Many did not vote on the matter of submission, as was the case all over the state, and in some counties the question was not submitted to the voters, as the state executive committee had no right to demand a vote in a party primary.

GEORGE WASHINGTON

I wish to secure a program of every entertainment in Goldthwaite this year that has been given or will be given to celebrate the two hundredth anniversary of the birth of George Washington. I am requested to forward these programs to the city of Washington, to be preserved there with similar archives forever. W. E. MILLER, Chairman of the George Washington Bicentennial Commission for Goldthwaite, Texas.

STOLEN CAR RECOVERED

A 1929 model Ford roadster, owned by Mr. T. T. Brooks, was stolen from the fair grounds Tuesday night of last week and Sheriff Bledsoe at once began a search for it. The early part of this week the car was located at Fort Hancock, about fifty miles from El Paso, and two young men were arrested and held for the sheriff's department. Tuesday morning Sheriff Bledsoe, City Marshal Harry Allen, Dr. J. M. Campbell and Mr. Brooks left for Sierra Blanca, where the men and car were being held. The car was delivered to Mr. Brooks, who came back as far as Colorado, Texas, and stopped for a visit to his daughter. The officers and Dr. Campbell returned home Wednesday night bringing Lacy Horner of Brownwood and a young man by the name of Fleniken in custody. The men waived examination yesterday morning, but Fleniken substantiated his statement that he was a passenger in the car, having joined the other man at Abilene. He was released from custody, but Horner was held on $1000 bond. Up to the time the Eagle was put to press the bond had not been made and he was still in jail.

MEETING IN PROGRESS

The meeting in the Church of Christ was begun Wednesday night with a good attendance and considerable interest. Elder Clem W. Hoover is doing the preaching, while Ollie White of Ranger is leading the song service. Mr. White formerly lived here and has a great many acquaintances and friends in this section, having conducted the song service here in former meetings. The minister and congregation of the church extend a cordial invitation to the people of this city and section to attend the meeting and take part in the singing and other parts of the service.

CLEAN YOUR LOTS

The Cemetery association has done the best possible with the means at hand, but many who have loved ones buried there do not assist financially with the work. They are urged to clean their lots by the early part of next week, as the association will engage workers to clean off the lots of those who pay and hopes to see the other lots clean also, in order that the entire cemetery may present a nice appearance and there may be no discrimination. Either pay or do the work in the next few days.

BAPTIST CHURCH

We notice where a Republican broke into the columns of this paper last week with an article called "Race Suicide." Everybody ought to read that, and if you have not look up your last week's Eagle and read it. Just a few more articles like this and the gentleman will be voting the Democratic ticket straight.

The three days picnic is over and several of us have less money and so we are getting in pretty good shape for a revival. As long as Christians put material and worldly things ahead of spiritual things we cannot have a revival.

We are thoroughly convinced that our little city needs a revival of the old fashioned type. We have been here four years and have passed through several protracted meetings, but will confess that we have not seen an old fashioned revival, where men would repent of their sins with tears streaming down their cheeks, and where Christian people would get happy and rejoice because of their own repenting and turning back to God.

If we are not mistaken, the thing we need in every church in this town is a deep conviction of sin and ungodly living upon the part of the Christians. We have hammered on these fellows that do not profess to be Christians, and we have been shooting wrong. The thing that is needed is genuine repentance among the membership of our churches. Go to the river on Sunday and seven out of every ten you see there belong to some church. Go to the public dance hall and seven out of every ten you see there belong to some church. Take those that bet on different things and seven out of every ten belong to some church. Now the question is, who needs to repent? It is church members, and if our church members will repent and turn to God, those who are not church members will be induced to have confidence in our Christianity, and doubtless many will repent and turn to Jesus Christ and be saved.

Now we are to begin a protracted meeting at the Baptist church the first Sunday in August, with Dr. W. R. Hornburg doing the preaching. We are in hopes that this meeting will turn into an old fashioned revival. The pastor did not select the time, but the membership of the church, and the pastor is more than satisfied with his help and with the date, and we are going to do our utmost to put our whole life into these services, and if there is a member in our church that is dissatisfied and has an element of "grouchism" in him, for heaven's sake talk to the Lord about it, and not to any one else, because if you talk to folk the pastor will hear it and the Lord knows that we do not want to hear a low note during this meeting. If you like the preacher and his sermons, tell us about it, if you don't like them tell the Lord about it. If you like the music tell us about it, if you don't, tell the Lord about it. If you like the way the meeting is conducted, or if you have a suggestion that will help the meeting tell us about it. That is exactly what we want, because this is your meeting and anything you can do or suggest for its progress we welcome it. But on the other hand, if you have destructive criticism, because you can not have everything just like you think it ought to be, and you are just so constitutionally made that you can't keep from having the "grouch," talk to the Lord about it. The thing we are asking for, everybody working harmoniously with the spirit of fellowship toward each other, carrying our own part for the good of mankind, and that God might be honored and glorified.

No services at the Baptist church Sunday night on account of the revival at the Christian church. Regular services Sunday morning. We will begin a meeting at Lake Merritt school house Sunday night. Everyone in that community has a cordial invitation to attend. PASTOR.

Our B.Y.P.U. program could have been better, but we got by with it. There were only three present on the program. If we keep our work going out here we will have to stay with it better than we have in the last few months.

Saturday was a big day, as it was election day. There were lots of disappointed people, but everybody who runs for office can't win. From the way things look now we will have Ma for our governor again. That is what the matter is with the world now, too many women trying to be boss.

She Reduced 38 Lbs. the Safe Way

"I have been taking Kruschen Salts for 4 months and I think they are wonderful. I am 32 years old and 5 ft. 2 in. tall. I was very fat. I weighed 165 lbs. and now I weigh 127 lbs. and feel fine. If I let up taking the Salts one morning I feel lazy and heavy." Mrs. Florence Loftus, Boston.

This is just one of hundreds of letters we get every month—Kruschen not only causes you to lose fat but while you are losing it you gain in health—in vivaciousness—you lose fat where fat is most prominent and at the same time keep stomach, liver, kidneys and bowels functioning naturally.

Any drugstore in the world will sell you a jar of Kruschen for a trifling sum—take one-half teaspoonful in a glass of hot water every morning—go light on fatty store in the world will sell you a jar of Kruschen for a trifling sum—take one-half teaspoonful in a glass of hot water every morning—go light on fatty meats, potatoes and sweets. But for your health's sake demand and get Kruschen Salts—imitations are numerous. It's the little daily dose that does it.

HITCH-HIKED ON LAKE ON BACK OF BUCK DEER

Two Canadian fishermen claim the novelty prize for hitch-hiking. While on Sproat lake they noticed a buck deer swimming across an arm of the lake and briskly rowed toward the swimming animal. One of the men grasped it by the horns but its thrashing legs nearly kicked a hole in the bottom of the boat. An oar was lost in the scramble but the undaunted fishermen grabbed the deer's stubby tail and they sailed away on a merry tow to shore.

When the buck was close enough to touch bottom, he lunged sideways, gave the "hitch-hikers" a boat load of water for their audacity and dashed into the woods.

RAY RAY RAY

Dr. Arthur H. Compton, head of one of the numerous expeditions studying the cosmic ray, announces that his expedition in Panama, New Zealand, Australia and Hawaii has found a ray which penetrates lead 18 feet thick. According to Dr. Raphael Isaacs, associate professor of medicine at the University of Michigan, X-ray treatment of cancer and similar malignant growths merely hastens the death of such growths and does not kill them immediately. With the aid of the X-ray Dr. J. W. M. Dumond, of the California Institute of Technology, has found proof that electrons in solid matter are constantly in motion or "dancing."

WAR BOMB FOUND BY OLD CLOTHES DEALER

At Vancouver, B. C., old clothes collectors for a church rummage sale were startled when they unrolled a bundle of garments and found a "potato masher" bomb—the kind on a long handle, discarded in the early stages of the world war. It was turned over to police who destroyed the deadly missile.

NO CASH ON HAND SO PASTOR GIVEN GASOLINE, FOOD

In Oregon the pinched parishioners of a Willamette Valley Methodist parish refused to give up their preacher even though they were short on cash. During the past 12 months his salary has been paid in gasoline, motor oil, chickenfeed, potatoes, wood, meat, milk, butter and finally a fine Jersey cow, according to a report made by Dr. M. A. Marey, superintendent of the Salem district, at the annual Oregon Methodist conference.

"The preacher is now confronted with a surplus of cream," Marey said. "If someone will furnish him an ice cream freezer, he will be all set for the summer."

Another pastor serving a charge in a lumbering town beside the sea is ministering to a congregation short even of general supplies. "We always have one bright spot," he said. "When the tide goes out the table is spread. Fish, clams and crabs are always there and soon evergreen blackberries will be available by the ton."

MILKING BY TELEGRAPH

Cows were milked by telegraph at the Florida experiment station at Gainesville, Fla., last week. It was another case of necessity mothering invention. The milking machine broke down. A spring in the pulsator, which causes the suction to alternate from the front to rear teats, was broken.

The part could be replaced, but it had to be ordered from New York. Meanwhile there were 30 cows to be milked.

Then Johnnie Wilson, campus electrician at the experiment station on the University of Florida grounds, went to work. He took an ordinary telegraph tieker and connected it with the pulsator so that it could make and break the current that alternates the suction.

By operating the tieker at a speed of 45 to 48 times a minute, just as though he were sending a message over the wire he caused the milking machine to do its morning work nicely.

STABBED TWICE IN ONE YEAR BY SAME BANDIT

Twice stabbed by the same bandit within a year, Peter Bering, 18, of Detroit, Mich., is in the market for a good suit of armor.

A year ago the youth was robbed of $9 and stabbed by the bandit. Recently he recognized the man on the street and shouted to police for help. But the bandit also had a good memory. He recognized Bering and again drew a knife, this time imbedding it in the boy's left shoulder.

WORKING ON HIGHWAYS

Without raising their road budgets, many states are greatly increasing the number of men employed on road projects. This is done, not by reducing rates of pay, but by shortening the working day and giving part-time work.

It is estimated that there are two employees behind the job to furnish the materials, for each man actually engaged in road work.

Road work is easily the best available means of employment relief. More of the road dollar goes to labor than any other construction dollar we spend. Most important, money expended for roads is not to be confused with funds simply appropriated to give temporary aid to distressed families. There is not a state in the country which is adequately supplied with good roads and the money spent is a definite profit making investment for the future.

Good, weatherproof, bituminous surfaced roads, suitable for modern traffic, can now be built for less than $5000 a mile. At present prices, roads are on the bargain table, and when we build them we are doing much to solve the most important of all our problems—that of unemployment.

Ben Davis Geeslin entertained a number of his friends with a 42 party Tuesday night on the lawn of the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Edward Geeslin. Contrary to the usual rule, prizes were only awarded to those having the lowest score.

MOUNT OLIVE (Too late for last week)

We are having a nice time out here with melon season beginning to open. We are needing rain very badly, but even the drouth does not stop my gossiping tongue.

Archie Qualls returned to Pampa Friday, after an extended visit through east Texas. We hope he will spend the next vacation nearer home folk for we all missed him while on his trip.

Cecil Qualls and family are visiting A. Qualls and family this week.

R. P. Lawson carried a huge truck load of hog plums to town Tuesday.

Jess Roberts attended the Indian Gap picnic last week.

Richard, Sinnard and Effie Roberts of Houston returned home last week to spend their vacation. We are all glad to have them with us.

Chas. Roberts came in from threshing Wednesday.

Messrs. Jesse, Richard, Sinnard and Miss Effie Roberts took supper with Bill Roberts at Star Tuesday night.

George and Jess Roberts worked for James Hodge last Wednesday.

Tully Lee had quite an accident last Wednesday. His three year old span of mules ran away and threw him into a gate. The iron on the gate struck him across the skull and cut a gash in his scalp about two inches long and an inch and a half deep. J. H. Roberts put three stitches in the cut directly after the accident. We were all glad the accident was not serious, as Tully is one of our best citizens and a good sport.

The death angel visited the home of Lonnie Montgomery last Friday and took their baby, Vivian, their only girl. She is survived by her parents and one brother, Vivian Montgomery was just a little over a year old and was acknowledged as the prettiest and best baby on the mountain. No grief can equal that of her parents. The poet said: "God knoweth best, who doeth best, both things, great and small," while another said: "Into life some rain will fall, some days must be dark and dreary." It is our fondest hope that God will comfort and reconcile the grief stricken parents, as we know "Blessed are those that mourn, for they shall be comforted."

W. C. Koen is spending his vacation with his parents, S. O. Koen.

Someone was kind enough to give mother a cat, and now I wish the kind person would take them all back. ABE

Mrs. R. L. West, of Huntsville, Ala., writes: "I was weak and run-down. I had a pain in my side, and I kept losing weight. I grew nervous over my condition—this was unusual for me, for I am very cheerful when I am well and don't easily get nervous. I knew I ought to take something. My aunt told me I ought to try Cardui, which I did. I began to feel better. I kept it up until I had taken three or four bottles. My side quit hurting and I was soon feeling strong and well."

REAL FARM RELIEF

In the south, the Manufacturers Record of Baltimore points to the 1932 cotton acreage, smaller by 4,000,000 acres than the acreage of 1931, as reason for encouragement in the prospect of a better price for the staple being produced and on hand. The present acreage is 19 per cent less than in 1930, and nearly 24 per cent below the record acreage of 47,730,000 in 1926, which broke the back of cotton prices.

Says the Record: "While estimates of cotton production so early in the season are not reliable, a conservative forecast for the south's cotton crop of 1932 should approximate 10,000,000 bales. This small crop will bring more money to the south. It is the first time in several years that the cotton outlook has been as promising."

In the wheat belt, Senator Capper's Topeka, Kan. Capital points to the rapid removal of the farm board's holdings of grain, through donations to relief authorized by congress, and predicts that the wheat market will awaken in a few weeks to the fact that there is virtually no surplus of the grain extant. Higher prices for the grain are in prospect within a very short time says the Capital.

These two forecasts suggest real "farm relief" is on the cards for the near future. That sort of farm relief which will put more cash into the pockets of the farmers making possible increased purchases of the many articles which farmers need, but have been forced to deny themselves because of their economic submergence means much not only to the farmers, but to all business and industry. —Fort Worth Star-Telegram.

TAGS ON PHONE POLES AID TOURISTS IN MAINE

Up in the rock-ribbed state of Maine, 'down the road a piece' or some other indefinite explanation was the only manner of telling a visitor how to reach some desired habitation. Usually he was told to drive to a red barn, turn left at the school-house, then go on for a mile until he came to a big white house. It was something of a game, as most of the houses are white, but all that was unwittingly ended by the telephone company. Small tags numbering each pole have been attached, and now the tourist is told merely to go as far as 'pole 153' and there you are.

Because a hat is called a Kelly, and for similar reasons, including Kelly pool, Slide-Kelly-Slide, Edwin Manuel Kelly of Brooklyn, N. Y., wanted to change his name to Kellet. "Such an application finds no favor with me," said the justice, "though it will may be that Kellys who rejoice in the name might welcome the granting of this petition."

TREASURE HUNT FLEET LEAVES

Another fleet is off on the rainbow trail to a hitherto unreached pot of gold—the treasure of the Ward Liner Merida, sunk off the Virginia Capes more than 20 years ago.

Capt. Harry L. Bowdoin, in his ship Salvor, accompanied by the trawlers Sea Hawk and Sea Rambler, left last week for the point, 60 miles off the coast, where the wrecked ship lies 40 fathoms deep in shark-infested waters.

Pinning his hopes chiefly on a diving suit he has spent 16 years in developing, the 60-year-old seafarer was optimistic on his departure. His principal salvage vessel is the reconditioned Western Union cable ship Telegrapher, but two trawlers were taken along to aid in the work of search and salvage.

Capt. Bowdoin, however, is not the first to be lured by the treasure of the ship which sank after being rammed by the United States Fruit Company Steamer Admiral Farragut on May 12, 1911. For the last 20 years romance as well as desire for material reward has beckoned the adventurous to the wreck.

All passengers of the Merida were saved, but the cargo and valuables deposited with the purser went down with the ship. There is reason to believe, therefore, that the hulk still holds 22 tons of half-refined gold and silver ore; bullion in bars worth at least $1,000,000; 4000 tons of copper ore and 80 kegs of American $20 gold pieces.

Even more stimulating to the imagination is the list of valuables lost by passengers, many of whom were refugees fleeing from a Mexican revolution. There are such items as a maharajah's pearls and an emperor's crown jewels. The most valuable jewels known to have gone down with the ship were contained in the collection of the Madero family, which included the gems of Emperor Maximilian of Mexico, and the rubies which his empress preserved following his execution.

Another item of the cargo, which some might consider worthy of salvage was 2000 kegs of fine Jamaica rum.

As early as 1916 a syndicate of New York bankers was formed and launched an effort to recover the Merida's treasure, but the wreck was not found and the project was abandoned. Again in 1920, 'The Sea Hawks' an organization of New York "bluebloods", sponsored an expedition. At this time it was claimed that the liner was found lying 40 fathoms deep about 60 miles off Cape Henry, but squalls and sharks made salvage impossible.

Last March, Capt. Carl H. Wiley of the Romano Marine Salvage Company, Seattle, came to Norfolk and started an effort to locate the wreck. On March 29, he announced that he had found the ship and left for his home, promising to return sometime in May with equipment for raising the Merida bodily and later extracting the treasure from her hold.

Nothing more was heard from him up to the time Capt. Bowdoin steamed out from Norfolk in an effort to make his 16-year old dream come true.

BURNING TRAILER DRIVEN TO FIRE HOUSE FOR AID

If one doesn't want to call the fire department to extinguish one's burning automobile trailer, take it to the fire house. That is what F. J. Furtha of Detroit did, when he discovered the trailer afire. He drove more than a mile to the station where a chemical stream quickly smothered the blaze. The sole damage was a burned new fishing tackle. A cigaret carelessly tossed by another motorist set fire to the trailer.

AMERICAN HOUSE BUILT IN 790 A. D.

Columbus will have to look to his laurels, for 1492 no longer is the earliest date in American history. Future schoolboys can start with 790 A. D., says a dispatch from Washington.

The dated history of the United States was pushed back to the year 790 recently with the announcement by the Smithsonian institution that a house, identified as having been built that year, has been found by an archeological expedition near the Puerece river in eastern Arizona.

This house, built when Charlemagne was growing up to be emperor of the Holy Roman Empire and when the Danes were invading England, will take a lot of guess work out of America's ancient history. It reveals as definitely as a history book when its builders, the early Pueblo Indians, were flourishing in the southwest.

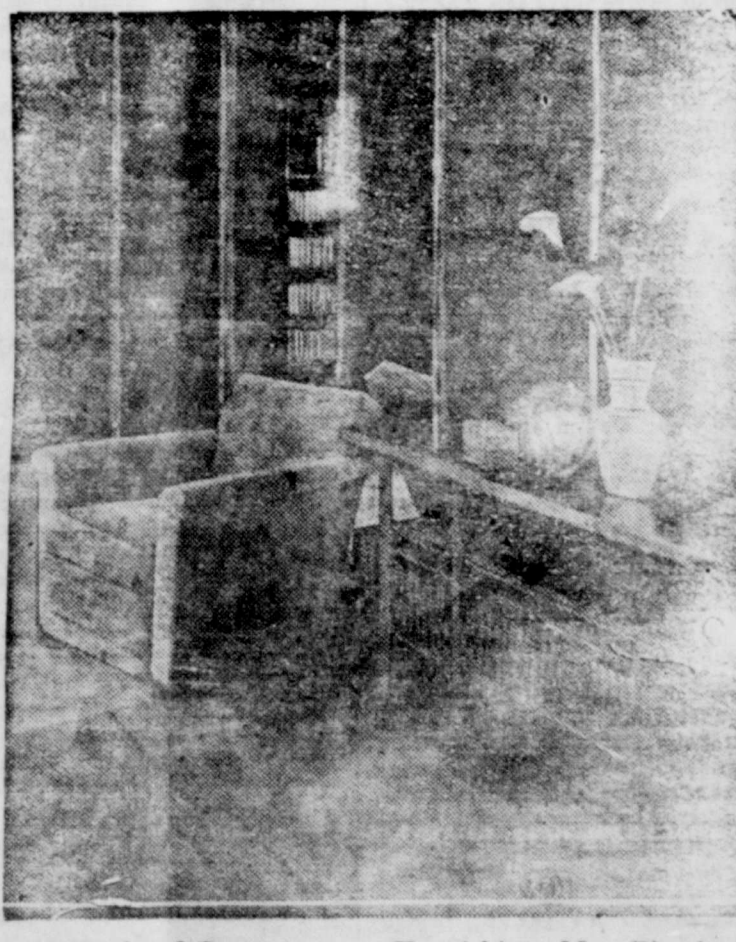

The tree growth rings in the roof timbers made it possible to date the house as surely as the 790 A. D. had been carved on the corner stone, said Dr. F. H. H. Roberts, Jr., leader of the expedition.

This was done by comparing the growth rings with famous tree ring calendar invented by Dr. A. E. Douglass of the University of Arizona. The calendar shows how tree rings have varied in thickness each year for many centuries past. Finding a series of rings in the calendar that matches the rings in a tree, shows when the tree grew.

The timbers, with their rings, had been preserved through 11 centuries because they were charred by a fire that partially destroyed the house. The roof collapsed, preserving a complete set of house furnishings of the style of 790 A. D. The house itself was little more than a shallow pit roofed over with poles, brush and plaster.

Knowing the date of the old house is important, said Smithsonian archeologists, because it was built almost at the beginning of the rise of the Pueblo civilization, one of the most remarkable in the new world before the coming of the whites.

BEAUTY in the HOME

Period and Contemporary Furnishings May Blend

ONE of the most usual complaints about the increasing vogue for modern American, or so called contemporary, decorations and furniture is that the modern will not "go with" the old. That is, if one has period chairs or other furnishings they cannot be used. If the room is to be decorated with modern fabrics after the contemporary fashion. This is true to only a very slight extent. The placing of furniture in a room done in the modern manner requires some artistic sense but, if it is done judiciously, the result is very attractive, and a perfect harmony can be secured.

The above picture is a good example of the blending of the old and the new and is taken from the hall of an apartment recently decorated by Pierre Barbe, the Paris architect and decorator. In this case the treatment of the walls, which are finished in deep of a dark mahogany color, the lighting and the carpets are thoroughly modern. At the same time, many good pieces of old furniture were

THE OUTLOOK FOR COTTON

The government estimate of the acreage of cotton under cultivation on July 1 shows a total of 37,390,000 acres, which is a reduction of only 9.5 per cent from the acreage of last season. With anything like a good season that should mean a crop of more than 13,000,000 bales. The carry-over on August 1 will be in excess of 13,000,000 bales, for it appears that world consumption of American cotton during the fiscal year will not reach 13,000,000 bales. So, after all the agitation and talk about cotton reduction we have before us another year with a two-year supply of cotton available.

In such a situation it is futile to talk about anything like "recovery" for cotton. The manner in which Europe is going about setting its house in order at last gives promise of a better European market for cotton during the coming fiscal year than during the past four years, but the enormous supply on hand and the apparent inability of the south to reduce cotton acreage very materially, will prevent increased demand, if it comes, from affecting the price very much.

There is good reason to hope that when the presidential election is out of the way, steps will be taken to co-operate with Europe in its efforts to deal effectively with the depression. This at least should keep the situation from growing any worse, and it may be that with better prospects ahead it will be possible to deal with the problem more successfully. That is the task that still confronts the south. All organized efforts to promote a more diversified farming, to create home markets for other products than cotton, and to develop local manufacturing industries, should be prosecuted with redoubled energy. — The Texas Weekly.

The extravagant luxuries of the Romanoffs, including priceless works of art and rare jewelry, were recently exhibited in Denver.

The collection, owned by Dr.
Armand Hammer, New York
physician, contained antique fabrics, imperial silver, porcelain glassware, icons and jeweled baubles of the late Czar Nicholas II and his family.

In the collection were three of the crown jewels, lapis lazuli Easter egg, containing a diamond framed miniature of the Czarevitch Alexis, valued at $50,000, and a snuff box of jade, mounted in gold and ornamented with miniatures of Czar Nicholas and Alexandria, encrusted with diamonds and ru-bies, which was an anniversary present to the rulers from the mother of the czar.

A snuff box of blue enamel set with diamonds and aquamarines which belonged to Alexander II father of the late czar, also attracted much attention during the exhibit.

Doctor Hammer told how the priceless collection was gathered from the huts and hovels of soviet Russia. He first went to Russia with a group of New York men to investigate social and economic conditions. Seeing the valuable objects scattered through the land, he immediately lost interest in his original and devoted ten years to assembling the collection.

A PARIS SPEAKEASY

The modernization of Paris, France, goes steadily on. The same week that marked the closing of the famous Restaurant Volain in the Rue St. Honore, Paris' first speakeasy was opened in Montmartre.

At the "blind tiger" all the dark tricks of early prohibition haunts are translated into a strictly Parisian version of old gas lamp days in the basements of New York brownstone fronts.
Heavy portals with a little grilled peephole, a dark, mysterious hallway, swinging doors, opaque windows, books on shelves and lamps on the tables—this makes the approach to the night night haunt serving refreshment not allowed by the Volstead act and of course some good accordion music for dancing.

The speakeasy, alas, was bound to find its way to the French capital together with so many importations from across the Atlantic including American bars, chewing gum and cocktails.

There is a slight difference in that the Paris speakeasy violates no law.

WHAT THEY SAID

Governor Sterling: "The election was like it was two years ago, when Mrs. Ferguson led in the first primary by 70,000, but was defeated in the run-off by nearly 100,000. I am confident of success August 27."

To Judge Tom F. Hunter he wired: "I wish to congratulate you on your splendid race. The run-off now appears to be with the Fergusons and myself. I will appreciate your support very much."

Mrs. Ferguson, as usual, let Jim do the talking. He predicted a red hot campaign and said he would be a wild cat when he got started. He also said he would increase the number of his speeches from the three a week which he has been giving.

The Chicago Board of Trade,
the largest wheat futures market in the world, has been ordered closed for 60 days beginning August 8, by the department of agriculture. The reason for the order was the refusal by the board to admit the Farm Board subsidiary, the Farmers' National Grain corporation to membership.

Government employees in Washington out for lunch Monday saw 100 veterans from the bonus army scattered by the clubs of policemen, when the veterans tried to march past the White House. The leader of the vets climbed a tree, but came down after the police had threatened to shake him out. He and eight others were taken to jail.

APPRECIATES SUPPORT

To the Voters of Mills and Comanche Counties:

I wish to express my appreciation for the support you have given me in the election just passed, and as I am to be in the run-off primary, I expectly solicit both your vote and influence in this election.
GEORGE W. ROLLINS

THANKS FOR VOTES

To the Voters of Bell, Lampasas, and Mills Counties:

I wish to take this method of thanking those of you who supported me in the campaign just closed, and to assure you that I sincerely appreciate the time and effort expended in my behalf. I bear no ill will toward any of you who assisted in my defeat.

While, of course, I am disappointed in failing to realize my ambition, this disappointment is negligible when compared to the satisfaction I receive from believing that I did not lose a single friend during the entire campaign and that I made many, many new—some of which I am sure will be life long.

Let me now extend to you an invitation to come by and see me when you chance to be around my way.

I also wish to thank Mr. Taylor for his clean campaign and to assure him that his courteous and gentlemanly conduct has been and is appreciated by me.

Hoping to see all of you again in the future—not as candidate to voter, but as friend to friend.
I am, Very truly yours,
W. A. MESSER.

THANKS TO VOTERS

To My Friends:

I take this method of expressing my gratitude to my friends for their loyal support in the recent primary election, which secured my nomination for the office of sheriff and tax collector.

More words fail to convey to you my heart-felt thanks and I assure you that I shall strive hard to maintain that esteem and confidence which you so loyally and generously reposed in me. Respectfully
C. D. BLEDSOE.

THANKS TO VOTERS

I take this method of expressing my thanks to my friends and voters for the courtesy and consideration shown me in my race.

I also wish to thank my opponents for their kindness and fairness in their dealings with me.
W. THOMAS SMITH

NORTH BENNETT

Almost everybody in our community tried to attend the fair one day and lots of them went every day. The reports were that it was a real good fair and that they never saw any larger crowd at a fair.

The pipe line men were repairing gates through our section Tuesday and cutting brush on the right-of-way.

Plums have been plentiful this year and quite a few people have gathered them and kept them from going to waste by selling them and got a good price.

Bro. Charlie Miles spent the week end with his daughter, Mrs.
Batchelor, and attended the preaching services at North Bennett.

Bro. Miller has preached the last two church days, as our pastor, Bro. Griffith, and wife have been visiting their parents. But we are expecting them back next meeting day, which will be next Friday night before the fourth Sunday in August.

People of this community would sure enjoy a good rain at this writing.

Elmer Miles of McGirk was a business visitor in our community Tuesday afternoon.

Mrs. Dell Mason was visiting her sister, Mrs. J. P. Booker, over the week end.

Mr. and Mrs. Ben Nix returned home Sunday, after a few days visit with relatives at Cross-plains.

Mrs. Huckaby and sons, Verna and Faddie, were doing some trading in town Monday.

Mr. and Mrs. Huling of near Center City were visiting in the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. P. Booker Monday.

Mrs. Batchelor and daughter,
Lula, were visiting with friends of McGirk Tuesday.

Clarence Geeslin and daughter, Von Dean, were in Goldthwaite Tuesday on business.

Roy Bynum started making syrup Tuesday. He will be busy for some time, as so many are having syrup made.

The ball game between Star and North Bennett was a close game, but we are glad to say that the score was 3 and 4 in favor of North Bennett.

Mrs. Batchelor and daughter,
Lula, spent the day Thursday with Mrs. Anderson, helping her can. They stated they had never had any nicer time.

Ben Nix was in town Tuesday
on business.

Some are pleased with how the election is standing and some are not. It doesn't make much difference, as time flies on anyway.

Miss Von Dean Geeslin has some kind of infection on her face at this writing and is suffering quite a bit with it. We hope she gets alright before long.

Mr. Huling of near Center City was helping Roy Bynum make syrup Tuesday and will continue to help until syrup making is over. BLUEJAY.

HOME LOAN BANKS

One of the last laws passed by congress provided for regional Home Loan Banks to provide government money to be used in home financing. Although much was said about these banks being provided to encourage new building, at least three-fourths of their funds will go to the relief of building and loan associations, which are stranded high and dry with more foreclosures than cash.

After the government has eased the situation for them, it is quite possible that they will be able to assist the prospective home owner to build. House owners who have managed to retain their homes are hoping to refinance them now at lower rates of interest.

Owners of vacant houses are somewhat skeptical about any great demand for new houses at this time. Opponents of the law claim that it is another instance of the government getting in business on a heads you win, tails
we lose basis.

DEAD CANDIDATE LEADS

JOHNSON COUNTY RACE

At Cleburne, Texas, a dead candidate led in the primary in the race for District Clerk of Johnson county. Almost complete returns showed that voters had given A. C. Womack 272 votes. His opponent, W. S. Carter, had but 2,690. Womack departed last Friday night, the final political race of the Democratic primary.

NEWS FLASHES

Berlin and the province of Brandenburg, Germany, were freed from martial law this week.

President Von Hindenburg. Riots between communists and fascists caused the order.

Federal Judge Kennerly of Houston had orders to stay away from his court this week. But the orders were from his doctor, who placed him in quarantine, when Mrs. Kennerly was pronounced ill with a mild case of diphtheria.

After 22 years in congress, Rep. John Q. Tilson of Connecticut, leading Republican, has announced that he will not run again. He says it takes all of his $10,000 salary to hold the office, and he is looking for a job, where he can save something. He is 66.

Lewis and Pat Kent, prominent Electra business men, were killed by an explosion that wrecked the dynamite plant of the U. S. Torpedo Co., three miles east of Electra, Wednesday. The men were blown to bits, but a small dog with them was not hurt.

Raids on communist headquarters in Pontiac, Mich., have uncovered plots to start runs on banks in all sections of the country. Letters seized were from workers in Cleveland and Chicago, who told of how they had caused runs in those cities by circulating false rumors.

Sixty-nine German naval cadets were missing Tuesday, after a gale had overturned the sailing ship Niobe, in which they were making a training cruise. It was believed that the gale struck before they could take in the sails. A few minutes before the giant DO-X airplane had saluted them. Despite the wind, it weathered the storm and made a safe landing.

Ambassador Mellon has returned to this country, but denies the report that he is about to resign. Political observers do not expect him to quit his post in London, until the threatened investigation of the treasury department in December has been settled. It was on the eve of impeachment proceedings against him that he resigned as secretary of the treasury and became our ambassador to England.

President Hoover has appointed former Senator Atlee Pomerene of Ohio to be chairman of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation, the place formerly held by General Dawes, who resigned in order to borrow $80,000,000 for his Chicago bank. As Pomerene is a leading Democrat, this gives the board four Democrats and three Republicans, and is expected to avert criticism for its acts from the Republicans to the Democratic party during the presidential campaign.

A fortune teller told a woman living in a Dallas hotel that she would have had luck if she did not take off her jewels for a few days. He obligingly helped her tie up in a handkerchief five diamond rings, earrings, and a wristwatch set with 80 diamonds. When she looked at them again her luck had changed, and so had her jewels. The handkerchief contained only glass jewelry from a ten cent store.

STATE TAX RATE CUT

The state tax rate for 1932 for taxes payable next year has been reduced from 74c to 69c by the State Automatic Tax Board, not because state expenses have been reduced, but because the legislature at its special session passed a statute ordering the reduction. According to William M. Thornton in the Dallas News this will result in a deficit in the general fund of nearly six million dollars a year from now, and a rate of $1 will be required to balance the budget.

Although the school tax remains unchanged, decrease in valuations and increased delinquencies will reduce collections to the point where a per capita disbursement of only $13 will be secured. However, by borrowing from the text book funds, the authorities hope to pay $16, the amount predicted by Supt. Marrs shortly before his death. Payment this year was $17.50.

Claims of various Texas governors as to what the state tax rate was during their terms of office have little real value. Sterling may take credit for the present 5c reduction in the rate, but it merely means a bigger deficit next year. But Texas has gone a long way since Governor Campbell's last year, 1910, when the state tax rate was only 20-2-3c. Colquitt jumped it to 40c in 1913, and under Jim Ferguson in 1915, it reached a new high of 50c. Hobby boosted it up to 75c in 1919, but got it back to 62c in 1920. Neff held it at 62c for just one year. The last three years of his administration it stayed at 75c.

Mrs. Ferguson held it at 75c for 1925, but the next year it was lowered to 63c. For Moody's four years it ran 67c, 64c 68c and 69c. Under Governor Sterling it was boosted to 74c last year, and now it has been cut to 69c again.

THANKS FOR VOTES

To the Voters of Precinct No. 2: I take this method of expressing my thanks to each individual, who supported me in the first July primary. I have no ill feeling toward those who supported my opponents. They were all good men and worthy of your consideration.

To those who lost their choice in the first primary, I would appreciate your vote in the August primary. If you elect me as your commissioner, I will try to serve you and the county in such a way as you will have no cause to regret having supported me.

J. M. GEESLIN.

SUPPORT APPRECIATED

I sincerely appreciate the support given me in the campaign just closed and shall endeavor to prove my appreciation by renewed effort to render the best service of which I am capable. I have always tried to make the county's interest my interest and the result of the primary places me under renewed obligations. I thank you all.

L. B. BURNHAM.

MULLIN NEWS

From The Enterprise

FIRE SCARE

Tuesday night about 2:30, the family of I. McCurry was awakened by smoke and the crackle of fire as it consumed paper on an adjoining room to which Mr. and Mrs. Barney McCurry were sleeping. Having plenty of water handy the flames were soon under control. An ugly place was burned in the paper from top to bottom and Mrs. McCurry suffered the loss of about nine quilts. Luckily these people were awakened in time, for had the fire continued many more minutes the building and contents would have been consumed.

ODDS AND ENDS

At Cuyahoga Falls, Ohio, temporarily unemployed men were harnessed to plows recently.

In the Oklahoma primary election this month there were 5000 candidates for public office.

Income taxes collected by the government for the year ending June 30, dropped one-third or $1,000,000, as compared with the preceding year.

Motion pictures are branded as a social menace by the board of temperance of the Methodist Episcopal church in its annual report.

A new Virginia law prescribes a penalty of $30 and 30 days in jail for anyone convicted of trying to hitchhike a ride along the highways.

After living together for 62 years and having eight children, a couple in Enid, Okla., are filing for a divorce because they can't agree.

After causing much discomfiture and some bloodshed, the Mexican law limiting the number of Catholic churches and priests in Mexico City to 25 has been declared unconstitutional by the supreme court.

Governor Allen of Massachusetts has had a portrait painted of the state house in Boston. But the art commission of the state has refused it because the governor's big hands are in his pockets.

While Mrs. Hoover was wearing an all-cotton dress in an effort to revive interest in cotton goods, the Republican post office department ordered $142,000 worth of jute twine from India because the same amount of cotton twine would cost $2000 more.

A huge war picture, circular in shape, 420 feet long and portraying 6000 famous personages of the world war is on exhibition in Washington and will be moved to the Chicago exposition next year. It was painted in France by artists too old to fight.

Just before congress adjourned, Senator Bingham, Republican from Connecticut, succeeded in getting a vote on a beer measure. The motion lost 50 to 25. Of the 25 beer supporters, 14 were Republicans and 11 were Democrats. Senator Bingham immediately declared that this proved that his party—the Republican—was really wicker than the Democratic party.

Railroad officials are still doing pretty well despite the slump in railroad business. The president of the Pennsylvania and the chairman of the Southern Pacific draw $135,000 a year each. Thirty-five S. P. officials receive the tidy sum of $1,200,000 a year. Although the Wabash is bankrupt, its president still gets $45,000 a year. Throughout the country there are 1344 officials who are paid $10,000 or more a year.

Franklin D. Roosevelt, Democratic candidate for president, is a fifth cousin of the famous Teddy Roosevelt. His wife is the former Eleanor Roosevelt, a niece of Teddy, who gave her away, when she married Franklin D. Roosevelt in 1905. Quite a family affair, although young Teddy, Jr., calls Franklin D. a "maverick" without the brand of our family. But Teddy, Jr., might be jealous. He was defeated when he ran for governor of New York.

SCIENTIFIC NOTES

Butterfly Odors

Those beautiful, gorgeously colored butterflies you see flying over field and stream have fragrant odors like those of flowers. A real insect world "B. O." so to speak! An examination of some of the common American species reveals a wide variety of pleasant odors exuded by the scent scales of the males, says a report by Austin H. Clark issued by the Smithsonian Institution. The common orange-and-black regal fritillary was found to have a strong, sweet and spicy fragrance resembling that of the sandalwood. To detect these odors, smell the upper surface of the forewings of the males. But stay away from the females of the species. Many of them have unpleasant odors. Particularly Mrs. Orange-and-Black Regal Fritillary. Her "fragrance" is said to be a powerful, nauseating smell.

Pitdown Man's Equipment

Sir Arthur Smith-Woodward, famous British anthropologist, is exhibiting a bit of flint, a man-made implement of chipped stone, found in Sussex along with fossils of the Pitdown man, as evidence that human beings built fire in England as early as 1,000,000 years ago. Sir Arthur claims this bit of charred flint is further proof that men lived in at least two widely separated regions on the earth about 1,000,000 years ago, in China and England.

Mexican Tree Frogs

In the Mexican tropical forests there is a family of tree frogs that climb trees, burrow in the ground, and some are "learning" to fly. Dr. Remington Kellogg of the National Museum has found 20 species of this peculiar frog family, various members of which were at different stages in their physical adaptation to tree life. Perhaps the most peculiar of the family, Dr. Kellogg relates, is the marsupial frog, Gastrotheca, all of whose young are sheltered in a common pouch on the back of the female.

Colors Prevent Spoilage

Did you know that colored wrapping paper will help keep your foods from spoiling? The effect of light on the deterioration of oil bearing foods was shown in a recent study by research chemists of the department of agriculture. Where foodstuffs are to be stored for some time it was found that color has a practical as well as aesthetic value. Most colors permit the passage of light rays that promote spoilage. Only two colors shut out these light rays, they are grass green, like the chlorophyll of plants, and black.

Cause of Tooth Decay

Lactobacillus, the little germ which sours baby's milk, is the same fellow that starts human teeth to decay. So Mellon Institute scientists say. After nine years of research, Dr. H. E. Friessell of the University of Pittsburgh and Dr. J. J. Enright of the institute, have not only upset the old dental theory of acids of fermentation, but they have found that diet is secondary in good teeth. Out of a large number of mouth germs lactobacillus was found to be the most potent tooth rotter. Get rid of these germs, the scientists point out, and 66 per cent of new tooth decay stops.

Copper Makes Ether Safe

How a thin layer of metallic copper lies in wait for dangerous oxygen atoms and traps them so that they cannot damage the ether used by surgeons for anaesthesia has been discovered by F. W. Nitardy and Dr. E. C. Billheimer, of Brooklyn, N. Y. When chemically pure ether is stored in glass bottles or other ordinary kinds. The container can be trusted to keep out all of the dangerous oxygen. The Brooklyn scientists, however, found that all such oxygen can be made harmless by lining the metal containers with a layer of pure metallic copper only a few atoms thick. These copper atoms trap and hold fast to the stray atoms of hydrogen so that they cannot attack and create the dangerous peroxides.

HOW TO HELP BUSINESS

What can be done to help business? The cost of government has been cut, as business demanded, but the boomerang is increased taxes on a business struggling with "new lows." The banks, blamed by the National Association of Credit Men for hoarding, now give evidence of loosening up, says the Pathfinder. A federal reserve committee helps by urging wider use of bankers' acceptances. Harry J. Haas, president of the American Bankers' association, sees seven reasons for optimism: 1. The budget has been balanced. 2. Declining bank failures is doing away with public hysteria. 3. The general price level is dropping, but at a slower rate. 4. Foreign trade agreements and tariffs are becoming more favorable. 5. America's gold stock is sufficient for demands. 6. Steel production shows a slight increase. 7. Funds of Federal Reserve banks have been released and surplus reserves in banks have been increased.

Alfred P. Sloan, Jr., auto manufacturer, thinks the adjournment of congress in itself will have a beneficial effect. There are five major tasks still remaining, according to President Silas H. Strawn of the United States Chamber of Commerce, namely: 1. Restoration of confidence. 2. Reduction of unemployment. 3. More attention of business to governmental affairs. 4. Less government interference in business. 5. Further curtailment of the "pork barrel." Government money is needed to "prime the pump" to raise business, declares Clarence Woolley, board chairman of a large radiator company. By lowering tariffs we would be taking the spurs out of Europe's open sores, say the Democrats. They blame the Republican tariff schedule for the loss of much of our foreign trade.

"Business Europe is looking to Business America to make the first move to break the back of the world-wide depression," remarks Samuel Slotkin, head of a foods products corporation on his return from Europe. He feels that drastic tariff changes must take place and fears that Russia really represents a menace to the future of American trade with Europe. "Business is still a secondary matter with the European," he observes. "While they still consider that business is a necessary evil, they continue to believe that it is secondary to living. They still regard the American as a great spender, a great spender, but a poor liver. Although poverty, a certain helplessness and resignation to conditions exists in Europe, they have never given up thoughts of play, and they will not."

Successfully weighed by Dr. K. T. Bainbridge of the Bartol Research Foundation at Swarthmore, Pa. This new kind of heavy hydrogen was discovered last winter by Dr. F. C. Dickwedde of the Bureau of Standards and Prof. H. C. Urey of Columbia university.

Texas Cave-dwellers

Remains of a prehistoric race of cave-dwellers, hitherto unknown to science, have just been discovered by a Smithsonian Institution expedition in the mountains of southwestern Texas. Frank M. Setzler, institution archaeologist, recently returned from the Big Bend and Chisos mountain region with a considerable amount of cultural material, mostly basketry, obtained from seven caves spread over a wide area. This material is said to shed much light on the way these mysterious people lived, but yields no information as to their cultural affiliation. They appear to have made permanent homes in caves from 45 to 50 feet in depth, rather than using them as temporary shelters. They depended largely upon the eacti of the Texas mountains for food, clothing and utensils and were apparently a "cud-chewing" people. While the age of these newly discovered remains can not be determined on the basis of present data, the discoverer describes the culture as very primitive.

New Coal-Oil Fuel

The English have a new fuel, a combination of powdered coal and oil. In every 100 tons of the new fuel 40 tons of coal are used. While the process for mixing has not been made public, tests over a six months' period have proved its efficiency.

TEACHERS' SALARIES

Goldthwaite, July 5, 1932, Chas. N. Shaver, Superintendent, Austin, Texas.

Dear Sir:—We need some information from your department.

We have a high school of the first class, and have been paying a minimum of $80 salaries in the grades and $100 in high school. We have understood that this was the minimum in salaries we could pay and hold our classification, but some folks here think differently, so we want to know what effect cutting our salaries 10 per cent or 15 per cent, as many schools have done this year, would have on our school.

It is claimed that we would lose one credit by reducing salaries below the $80 and $100. Another claim is that one-half credit will be lost.

We await your reply with interest.

W. A. BAYLEY,
Secretary School Board.

The Reply

Austin, Texas, July 11, 1932
Mr. W. A. Bayley, Secretary School Board, Goldthwaite, Texas.

Dear Mr. Bayley:—At the meeting of the Classification Committee on June 24 and 25, the High School Division was instructed not to cancel the credits of any school that finds it necessary to reduce salaries below the minimum, recommended by the Classification Committee, if the district finds it absolutely necessary to do this in order to maintain a nine months' term.

The committee reserves the right, however, to call for a financial statement from such schools, in order to determine whether or not such reduction in salary were absolutely necessary.

If any of your credits should be cancelled on account of failure to pay salaries or failure to maintain the required length of term, all credits would be cancelled, rather than just one or one and one-half.

Sincerely yours,
A. M. BLACKMAN,
Chief Supervisor High Schools

The above letter should satisfy most people that the school board did the right thing in not reducing teachers' salaries below the minimum of $80 and $100.

Teachers were elected at a regular meeting of the school board held on April 11, and if we had cut salaries below the limits set, we would have been inviting cancellation of all our credits and our affiliation. Not many of our citizens would want such a thing to happen. Instead of censuring the Board for not reducing salaries now, folks should be giving the Boards of previous years credit for having saved the school community hundreds of dollars each year by not paying salaries in line with most schools of this class.

Schools that have paid salaries of $100 or even $90 in the grades and correspondingly higher salaries than we, in high school, have room for cuts in their salaries without jeopardizing the school.

W. A. BAYLEY.

FEDERAL AID

For the first time in history, the federal government is about to indirectly distribute clothing to its destitute citizens thru the agencies of the American Red Cross.

Women and children's cotton dresses, stockings, sweaters, coats and men's clothing will be distributed throughout the country a few days after the president signs the bill appropriating the necessary funds for the federal farm board to release 500,000 bales of cotton donated to the Red Cross by act of congress.

"The bill authorizes us to distribute the cotton by whatever methods we deem advisable," the Red Cross chairman said. "We have arranged for ready-made cotton garments to be exchanged for the raw cotton and will be able to commence distribution shortly after the bill is signed by the president."

"Members of the Cotton Textile institute are prepared to supply us with manufactured goods in exchange for the raw cotton as soon as we receive it."

Take your broken spectacles to L. E. Miller, Jeweler, and get them repaired good as new.

BEST MINDS MUST GOVERN

The tendency toward conservatism with control in few hands is manifest in numerous leading governments. Germany has recently created a virtual dictatorship, the Conservative party is in power in Britain, recent elections in France, while ostensibly a swing to the left, in reality mean little more liberalism than before. Italy continues its successful government under the domination of Il Duce and Russian Sovietism slowly but steadily takes on one attribute after another of the outwardly despised capitalism. Nor are such indications of conservative consolidated control to be taken entirely as retrogression. On the contrary they reflect the demands of these adverse times. Government by the masses—the veering toward socialism or communism—is an experiment that may be endured with a certain degree of impunity in good times, but national and international economic woe brings out the truth in the dictum that the highest efficiency in government is achieved in autocratic rule by the wisest heads. Mass rule has already demonstrated its incompetence. Neither profound ideals nor inspired ideals come from the rank and file except in rare instance. What the world possesses today in the arts, sciences, government, or economic progress has sprung from the minds of a relative few. Despite the soap box orators who counsel the plundering of common resources, the crying need of the present is not the rise of the masses but the firm hand which will direct the masses in their own best interests.

Of course the extremes in the doctrine of autocratic control of government or business is foreign to the fundamental American philosophy of government; yet we can achieve a measure of the advantage which accrues from strong rule in the character of leadership, which we elect next fall. Leadership which will most quickly affect the conquest of this depression will not be one bit more beholden to party, congress, cabinet or other group than is necessary under the constitution.—The Magazine of Wall Street.

SLOT MACHINE TAX

The law placing an occupation tax on slot machines of all descriptions was upheld Tuesday by the supreme court in a case styled L. P. Cav, tax collector, vs. C. F. Louter, et al. The court adopted the opinion of the court of criminal appeals in a criminal action brought to test the law. The occupation tax ranges from $1 per year on penny machines to $10 on machines taking more than a nickel, and includes every conceivable type of machine except gas meters and telephone pay stations.

BEAUTY in the HOME

Colorful Gliders for Summer Lawns

GAY and summery, for garden, indoor porch, veranda, terrace or sun parlor, the modern glider has a decorative gift to bring to lawn or yard as well as offering lazy comfort untroubled by sun, wind, or weather. The ball-bearing steel frame and gliding metal arms are finished in green enamel and the cushions, either single or three seats wide, are covered with fabric in various bright and cheery colors, alluring against the green of the lawn and shrubbery and unaffected by the passing showers, for they are waterproof and may be wiped off and dried quickly when wet by rain or dew.

Colors riot delightfully in these gliders as they often do in the gay umbrellas and lacquered furniture to be found on the modern lawn. Some of the cushions are in game board patterns in green and orange design. Others are in plain or caracul grain, green with red boxing, red with black, tangerine with black, green with red, or an under-sea pattern in green with sea vegetation and fish on both seats and back cushions.

In the choice of lawn furniture or fittings for the unprotected terrace, there are a few important things to consider. The first, of course, is comfort. No furniture is any good merely because it looks well. Then care should be taken that the glider and chair and tables are resistant to rain and sun because accidents will happen and the summer shower, like the summer sun, can be very destructive of fragile materials. And, lastly, out-of-doors is a place of bright lights and vivid hues. It is well to choose the furniture for such places with a lively eye for color. Such a combination means many hours of out-door pleasure during the warm months.

LAMPASAS

The Lampasas fire department was called Friday afternoon to extinguish a grass fire, which started on the vacant lot at the corner of Main and Second streets. No damage was done by the fire.

Only a light rain fell in Lampasas on Tuesday, but some sections received good rains. There was a good rain in the Ogle section and Naruna is reported to have had two inches of rain. Burleson creek was up and Mesquite creek also was up.

The Baptist Sunday school enjoyed its annual picnic Friday afternoon at Hancock park. The ladies prepared basket lunches, which were spread in the shade of the trees and everyone enjoyed the good things to eat and the social time spent with friends and neighbors.

The Lampasas polo club is in Coleman for two games with the club of that city. They played Wednesday and won from Coleman by a score of five to one. In the game Wednesday three goals were made by Belk and J. D. O'Neal and Othel Smith each made one.

A fire was started on the country club grounds some time Thursday afternoon and considerable damage was done by the flames. Considerable grass was burned off, some cord wood was destroyed and several oak trees caught fire. If there had been a strong wind blowing at the time there might have been some damage to the club house.

J. J. Young, who lives on the Lampasas - Lometa highway, was bitten Tuesday by a large rattlesnake, but Thursday morning he was reported to be getting along nicely and the attending physician feels sure that he is out of danger. Mr. Young was a mile or more from home at the time, topping corn, when the snake struck him. He immediately corded his leg and took a pocket knife and slashed the place where the snake bit him. It was a rattlesnake five feet long and he struck just above the instep. After administering first aid, Mr. Young got on a horse and rode to the house and called a physician.—Leader.

LOMETA

Mr. and Mrs. Dan Westerman and Christine Renfro of Goldthwaite were visitors in the John Shelton home Sunday. E. E. Box, Santa Fe roadmaster, was seriously injured Sunday night at 8:30 o'clock, when struck by an automobile, as he was crossing the street in Temple.

The revival meeting of the Baptist church at Moline will begin Friday night before the first Sunday in August. Bro. A. F. Avant of Lampasas will do the preaching and Brother Stuekey, pastor of the church in Moline will lead the singing.

The barn on Mrs. Roy Toliver's place in the Long Cove community was destroyed by fire of undetermined origin about eleven o'clock Tuesday night and in it was all her feed-stuff and new crop of oats. The cows and hogs were saved and one set of harness.

Wayne Jones received serious burns Saturday morning early, while at work with the thrasher on the Fred Conradt place. The engine in some way became too hot, and he started to remedy the matter when he was suddenly burned about the face and arms by hot water. Luckily he prevented or escaped getting the boiling water into his eyes.

Miss Faye Satterfield and Lawrence Carothers were married in Brownwood, Texas, Sunday afternoon, July 3, at 2 p. m. The bride is the charming daughter of Tom Satterfield, who is a resident of Lometa, and has been for quite a number of years. The groom is the son of Hugh Carothers of the Nix community, and is liked by all. Mr. Carothers is a teacher in the Lampasas high school.

SAN SABA

Mr. and Mrs. Burrell Park have returned from College Station, where they visited Prof. and Mrs. Fred Brison. John Gibbons, prominent ranchman of Richland Springs, has sold 20 polo ponies this year at prices of $200, to Geo. Miller of San Antonio.

The first car load of the 1932 crop of watermelons to go out from the Richland Springs Watermelon Growers' association was loaded Monday. There are some 450 acres of melons belonging to association members and it is expected that at least 75 cars will be shipped in car load lots this year. There were 42 cars went out last year and these averaged $50 to the car.

Repairs are being completed at the fair park here, which was damaged considerably by the recent rise in the San Saba river and everything put in readiness for the San Saba county jubilee and race meet, which is being sponsored by the local American Legion on August 12 and 13 at the fair park.

Pursuing a campaign put on last spring against prairie dog infested pastures, Henry Taylor, ranchman in the Pontotoc community reports excellent results. He says that on 20 acres infested with dogs treated with poisoned grain recommended by the U. S. department of agriculture, he secured a kill of at least 90 per cent at a cost of $5 for the poisoned bait.

The state department of education recently required the San Saba independent school district to retake the 1932-33 scholastic census, claiming that the original census numbered more than it should. The second census has been approved by the state department, and numbered 771, showing a difference of 10, as compared with the original census of 781. According to E. G. Hillman, county superintendent, the discrepancy in the figures was not an error in the first census, but was due to several families moving out of the district since April 1, permanently, the date of the original census.—Star.

COMANCHE

In order to protect the Comanche city school property the school board finds it necessary to ask children not to play on the school grounds during the school vacation.

Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Drennan were surprised Saturday, when their children and a number of friends gathered at the family residence to celebrate their 25th wedding anniversary.

The annual Coker reunion will be held at Indian Creek, Friday, August 5, according to a member of the program committee, who said that the annual date for the gathering was Friday before the first Sunday in August.

Jim Holmsley, member of one of the pioneer families of the county, lost his life in a fire that destroyed the 13 room hotel Carter Monday morning, and proved to be one of the most disastrous fires ever to occur in Comanche.

The bulk of the Comanche peach crop has been sold at the highest price ever received by the fruit growers of this section, according to Walter Durham, who says that the demand continues strong with the price ranging around $1.25 a bushel. Charley Denny, who first contracted to sell his crop at $1.00 per bushel later sold it for $1.25 when the first purchaser asked to be relieved from the contract.

Miss Thelma Walling, daughter of Mrs. Flora Walling, of Comanche, has been appointed Western Union operator for Comanche and will assume her new duties Saturday. Miss Walling is now operator at Llano. Miss Lois Harris arrived in Comanche last week from Leesville, La., to act as temporary operator at Comanche and will leave Saturday for Llano to take charge of the office there. Miss Bounce Walker, former operator at Comanche, is in charge of the office at Leesville.—Chief.

Tuesday Rev. and Mrs. Vernon Shaw went to Floydada for a visit with relatives. Mrs. Shaw expects to make an extended visit while Rev. Shaw will start a revival meeting at Pideoke in Coryell county.

After two weeks of intensive effort on the part of the pastor and his assistant the revival which had been in progress at the Baptist church closed Sunday night. Twenty-three candidates were immersed at the baptism and four others were received by transfer from other Baptist congregations.

A large crowd attended the big picnic at Indian Gap Friday and Saturday, celebrating the fourth annual reunion of former citizens and neighbors. They had a rodeo, baseball and other amusements, but the night sessions were the ones, which drew the crowds, at which a dance platform had been erected and an orchestra engaged to furnish entertainment.

It is reported that last Sunday afternoon an altercation between Burney Livingston and sons and Burton Livingston and sons resulted in a bullet wound in the forehead and scalp of Ursey Smith and several small shot from a shotgun penetrating the body of Burney Livingston. Family troubles are said to have been responsible for the difficulty. Neither party was seriously injured.

J. W. Walrdop, justice of the peace of Caverton, was in town yesterday and reported the death of J. B. Salyer, 74 years old, who had been a popular operator of a cotton gin there for many years. He had been at Floydada and had returned Monday. Being tired he laid down on a bed to rest, finding his family away from home. They returned in about forty minutes after his arrival, as reported by neighbors and found him dead.—News.

RESUMING HIS TRADE

When a New York surgeon got through the other day with Jacob Lieberman, he could see again for the first time in twenty years. Spectacles adapted to his new vision completed the job and Lieberman, at 87, announces that he will learn his old trade of cabinet making as soon as he can get back to his tools.

Lieberman lives in a home maintained for old people and is under no necessity to work, but Lieberman knows that there will be plenty of repair jobs to be done and he wants to contribute what he can to the upkeep of the institution, which has cared for him. The long years of blindness and the permanent enfeeblement of his age are as nothing to him now. The world has begun all over again for him.

These are days for beginning all over, and thousands upon thousands are doing it. Men who used to hold the throttle of a great locomotive are glad of the chance to push a lawn mower now for what's to be got out of an odd job. Salesmen are night watchmen and technicians are wheeling concrete away from the mixer. If that were all, it would be pretty bad, but it isn't all. The best part of the whole business is that we are growing a keener appreciation of true manhood and womanhood as the challenge to courage is being gloriously, if quietly, met.—Dallas News.

Making a Sunshiny Bathroom

By KATHARINE CRUMBAUGH

REDECORATING a bathroom, and oh, how many of them need it is a matter that is not always so simple as it appears. The one I have in mind faces west, with its one window almost right against a neighbor's wall so that little sun gets in. It has upper walls of greyish blue, and a dado of ivory with an imitation tile effect outlined in a thin blue line. The woodwork is ivory and the plumbing white. A half inch curtain of white lawn gives an additional cold effect to the grey and blue block linoleum on the floor. There is the regulation medicine cabinet and the usual towel racks.

Now to make this seem sunny and attractive within the bounds of a limited pocketbook. First let us find the key color. Blue is too dark and cold, and grey the same. Ivory is better but not very cheerful. We cannot afford new linoleum so must take a contrasting color to its blue. Yellow seems to be indicated. We will paint the walls and ceiling in canary yellow quick drying enamel, mixing half and half with white. If the material is sticking badly to the wall we will paint that in the new green sunshiny effect.

MOST FAMILIES DOOMED

Here's why most fathers and mothers are anxious for a boy, although there is nothing nicer than a little girl. Figures for male and female births and deaths from the government census, a New York life insurance company points out, make it possible to calculate the chance that any family will have male descendants of the same name in the first generation, the second generation and so on as far as one carries the calculation. And if figures do not lie, most the American families are doomed to extinction. There is little more than an even chance that the family name will survive even in the first generation. Among the grandchildren the figures show about one chance in three for the name to persist. Among the great grandchildren this falls to one in four, while by the sixth generation there is but one chance in five that it will be a boy, or that the boy will live to carry on the name.—Exchange.

IT'S RO-ZE-VELT

Delegates to the Democratic convention couldn't even agree on the pronunciation of "Roosevelt." The Associated Press gives it as "Rose-velt," in two syllables with a long "o," but our own Nuggets of Knowledge explains:

"The surname of Theodore Roosevelt is probably mispronounced more frequently than that of any other American president. It is correctly pronounced 'Ro-ze-velt,' with the long 'o' as in 'so.' The second syllable is somewhat suppressed, making the name sound almost, but not quite, like 'Rozvelt.' In a letter to the author, Franklin D. Roosevelt says: 'Every member of the Roosevelt family that I have ever known or heard of has pronounced the name as if there were only one o, and with the accent on the first syllable, i. e., Ro-ze-velt. It is often mispronounced Roo-ze-velt, the first syllable rhyming with too.' — Pathfinder.

SINCERE THANKS

To the Voters of the 104th District:

I wish to express to you my gratitude for the many courtesies shown me in my race for representative in the legislature. I am deeply thankful to the friends who stood by me to the last. I shall never forget their loyalty. I made a fight upon a plane of high honor and patriotism. I stood for clean politics, stripped of the dirty tricks of the professional office - seeker; for the things that will best promote the interests of the common people; for the reduction of governmental expenses, the lowering of salaries of public officers and the reduction of taxes; for the abolishment of useless offices and commissions carrying high salaries, and for such moral agencies as will protect our homes and the boys and girls of our country.

I am not a trained politician, nor am I versed in last minute tricks. Had I been, it would have been against my ideals to have fallen into such methods. I faced a losing fight with the same courage with which I stood for the principles in which I believe.

As to the last minute reports concerning me put out by the professional ward-healers I say, as was said from the cross, "Father, forgive them for they know not what they do."

My fourteen years of residence in Comanche convinces me that we, the people, will eventually win through. When I can serve you it will be my pleasure to do so.

Very sincerely,
MRS. A. B. HAWORTH.
