School Census Will Be Taken During January

The school census will be under way through January in the four school districts in the county.

In charge of enumeration in the Wellington district is Mrs. George Jones, Supt. J. L. Harper announced. She has carried out the enumeration for several years.

The three superintendents of schools will be in charge in the other districts, E. P. Haynie at Quail, Robert Dwight at Samnorwood and Lloyd Patterson at Dodson.

All children 6 through 17 years of age are included in the census. This includes children who were 6 years old after Sept. 1, 1966, to those who will not reach their 18th birthday before Sept. 1, 1967.

The state department of education makes the per capita payment of approximately $75 for each child to its school district, and for this reason, the enumerators urge that every child be counted.

If any child is missed, the four enumerators urge that they be contacted.

This per capita payment goes into the teacher salary fund of the school districts.

Final Exams Set at WHS

First semester examinations are scheduled for Wellington high school students during the week of Monday, January 9, through Friday, January 13.

Principal E. W. Clement said that procedure differs this year from the schedule in former years.

Students will take one final examination on four days of the week and two exams on the other day. Exam periods will be an hour and fifteen minutes long and will be at the beginning of the day. On Thursday there will be another exam at the last period, but also an hour and fifteen minutes in length.

Exams will be given for first period classes on Monday, second period on Tuesday, third period on Wednesday, fourth and sixth periods on Thursday, and fifth period on Friday, Mr. Clement said.

Mrs. Gollihugh in Tax Office

Mrs. Larry Gollihugh has been named deputy in the office of Mrs. Rita Owens, county tax-assessor, it was announced this week.

Mrs. Gollihugh succeeds Mrs. Ray Thomas, who resigned effective Jan. 1.

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas and small son are moving to Lubbock.

Invitational Tournament Opens Here Thursday

The first ball will be tossed in the Wellington high school annual invitational basketball tournament Thursday, Jan. 5 at 1:30 p.m. and between then and the close of the tournament Saturday night, Jan. 7, supporters from each school will have the opportunity to see their team in action three times.

This year's departure in playing format, from the regular bracket to round robin, will have several advantages, and the change was made after much consideration, Wellington head basketball coach James Stavenhagen said.

Twelve games will be played, four on each day of the tournament.

Each team will play every other team in its bracket, thereby measuring its skill against others in the area, and each is assured three good games. Formerly, supporters of teams eliminated early in the tournament could see them in one game, whereas they can now see them in three games if they wish.

More experience is assured each team than where brackets are drawn. Students will not be taken out of school for morning classes.

"I feel this will work real well, and if it does, we will use it again in other tournaments," Mr. Stavenhagen said.

Handsome first and second place trophies will be awarded. There will be no all-tournament team chosen this year.

As a starter under this new plan, only four schools are entered, each with a boys and a girls team. These are Quail, Wellington, Samnorwood and Briscoe.

The schedule for the tournament will include these games:

Thursday, 1:30 p.m. Wellington girls vs. Quail.

Thursday, 3 p.m. Norwood boys vs. Quail.

Thursday, 7 p.m. Briscoe girls vs. Norwood.

Thursday, 8:30 p.m. Wellington boys vs. Briscoe.

Friday, 1:30 p.m. Quail girls vs. Norwood.

Friday, 3 p.m. Quail boys vs. Briscoe.

Friday, 7 p.m. Briscoe girls vs. Wellington.

Friday, 8:30 p.m. Wellington boys vs. Norwood.

Saturday, 2 p.m. Quail girls vs. Briscoe.

Saturday, 3:30 p.m. Briscoe boys vs. Norwood.

Mrs. James Stavenhagen Dies of Accident Injuries

Mrs. James Stavenhagen, wife of Wellington high school's head basketball coach, died at 4:30 p.m. Wednesday, Dec. 28 in Little Rock (Ark.) Baptist Medical Center of injuries received in a car accident near Paris, Texas, the preceding day.

The accident occurred as Mr. and Mrs. Stavenhagen and two children, Steve and Betsy Trapp, were returning from a Christmas vacation at Hope, Ark. Investigating officers said another vehicle made an abrupt left turn immediately in front of the Stavenhagen car. They were taken to a Paris hospital and she was transferred to Little Rock Wednesday morning.

She was best recognized for her close relationship with the school. She helped her husband in his coaching duties, not only supporting him with her interest and encouragement, but accompanying the teams on out of town trips and helping to sponsor their activities. Mrs. Stavenhagen took a personal interest in each team member, as well as in the activities of many other of Wellington's boys and girls.

Mrs. Stavenhagen was born Geraldine Murphy, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. S. L. Murphy, in Hope, Ark., Aug. 9, 1918. She grew up there and attended the Hope Schools.

She was married to Navy Reserve Commander Gerald O. Trapp, who died while on a routine mission off the coast of California in June 1956.

Six and a half years ago she and Mr. Stavenhagen were married in Amarillo.

Mr. Tabor is still a patient in Jackson County Memorial Hospital in Altus and there has been no indication as to when he will be released.

Prizes Added

County Spelling Bee Date Set for March 14

The annual County Spelling Bee will be held Tuesday, March 14, when students from the four schools will compete to determine Collingsworth's best speller.

Plans were announced Tuesday, Jan. 3, by Don Van Pelt, director of the bee.

For the first time, money prizes will go to the champion and runner-up in both senior and junior categories, he reported.

The first prize for the senior champion will be $15, while the runer-up will receive $10. The winner of the junior event will receive $7.50 and the runner-up $5.

The senior winner will participate in the District Spelling Bee in Amarillo on April 22, and the winner of that event will receive an expense-paid trip to participate in the National Spelling Bee in Washington, D.C., June 5 through 9, Mr. Van Pelt said.

School eliminations will be held at any time prior to the county bee, and the individual schools will determine their own dates and methods of selecting their winners.

Runners-up from each of the four schools will attend the county bee but will not participate in the spelling unless the winner cannot compete for some reason.

"Every pupil under 16 years of age and either in or below the eighth grade will be eligible to compete in the bee," said Mr. Van Pelt.

The junior bee will be for pupils in or below the sixth grade. No regional bee is held in the junior category but the winner of the county event will attend the Amarillo bee and be honored at a luncheon.

County students have ranked high in the district spelling bee through the years. Two years ago, Janice Gosnell was the runner-up. A number of years ago, Alta Jackson Wheeler, representing Quail, won the District Bee and participated in the national event.

On 31 July 1966, Private Archie distinguished himself by heroic actions during a heavy contact with an estimated company sized force of the North Vietnamese army.

"On this date, Private Archie, without regard for his own personal safety, destroyed an automatic weapons position that had pinned down his squad. While advancing toward enemy positions, Private Archie's squad was taken under fire from another direction by an enemy automatic weapon.

"Private Archie, on his own initiative, and under continuous fire from the enemy, rushed toward the gun. He overran the position, killed the enemy crew, and captured their weapon. 1967 Economic Outlook For Agriculture Good

COLLEGE STATION. — The 1967 economic outlook for agriculture is good. The production faucet is being opened up to take care of both domestic and foreign demand increases and total cash receipts from farm marketings will be larger than in 1966, says John G. McHaney, Extension economist at Texas A&M University.

Feed grain acreage is expected to increase by 12 to 15 million acres and wheat allotments have been increased by almost one-third, he adds.

These additional acres are needed to bring production in line with expanding markets and to rebuild carryover stocks of grain, explains the economist. Government payments to producers will be smaller, perhaps by half a billion dollars, as more acreage is returned to production.

McHaney says production expenses will continue to climb; however, he looks for the increase to be less than that of last year. Realized net farm income in 1967 may not reach the near-record level of 1966, but it is expected to be well above the 1965 figure, he says.

Farmers added $18 billion to their assets during 1966 to bring the total value of their assets to $273 billion. The $53 billion increase during the past two years exceeds that of any previous consecutive 2-year period since balance sheet estimates began in 1940, McHaney said. While total indebtedness increased, owners' equities increased by $14 billion, about the same rate as in 1965.

The domestic demand for farm products is expected to increase in 1967 but at a slower rate than in 1966. General economic activity is expected to keep consumer buying power on the upward move and thus increase the demand for farm products.

Exports are taking an increasing share of farm product marketings and prospects for the 1966-67 marketing year point to another sizeable rise in foreign dollar sales. McHaney sees an increase about equal to last year's, which could push total dollar sales close to the $6 billion mark.

The economist calls attention to three factors which he lists as uncertainties for the year ahead. They are possible changes in the Vietnam conflict and their impact on the general economy and agriculture; the new grain program with added acreages and their influence on 1967 crop output and foreign crop prospects and their effect of export markets.

New Tomatoes Seen for Texas

Seed of La Pinta, El Monte and Chico Grande, new commercial-type tomatoes developed by the Texas Agricultural Experiment Station, are now available for spring crop plantings. La Pinta and El Monte are mostly Valley-adapted, but Chico Grande is expected to do well throughout the state. They are resistant to disease and cracking, and under test have produced double the yields of present types. Horticulturist Paul Leeper at the Lower Rio Grande Valley Research and Extension Center developed the new varieties.

Pay Taxes on Half Capital Sales Gain

COLLEGE STATION.—Farm assets have been classified into two categories by the Internal Revenue Service. Knowing the proper assets to put in each category can mean an income tax saving, points out James Mallet, Extension farm management specialist at Texas A&M University.

The first, category, items produced for sale, is called ordinary income. All ordinary income is subject to tax, said Mallett. Examples of ordinary income are calves, yearlings, or cattle raised for sale. Steers, cows, pigs and other livestock purchased for resale are also classified as ordinary income, said Mallett.

The second category, items used for the production of income, is called the production plant or capital items. Mallett said only half the gain from capital sales may be subject to tax. Cows, bulls, sheep and horses for breeding, draft, or dairy purposes are subject to capital gains and only one-half the profit may be taxable, he said.

The animals must be held for breeding, draft, or dairy purposes and owned before sale for 12 months or more. Other assets such as land and buildings must be held six months or more before to qualify for capital gains treatment. The A&M specialist said all kinds of farm livestock, including furbearing animals may be eligible for capital gains treatment if they are used for breeding, draft or dairy purposes.

For complete informaiton about requirements and limitations of capital gains taxes, see IRS publication No. 225, Farmers Tax Guide, 1967 edition, available from county agricultural agents of the District Director of Internal Revenue Service.

County Has 121 Marriages, 19 Divorces in '66

June was not the month of marriages in Collingsworth County in 1966, records in the office of Lorene Jenkins, county clerk, reveal.

That record goes to August, when 15 marriage licenses were issued. Altogether, 121 were issued. By months, these were January 7; February 10; March 4; April 14; May 14; June 12; July 14; August 15; September 10; October 7; November 5; December 9.

Statistically speaking, one couple in six filed for divorce, although not all of these were granted. Some of the 19 divorce suits that were filed were later dropped and some are still pending. Three divorces were filed for in February, June, July, and December, and two each in January, September, and November. One divorce suit was filed in April, and none in March, May, August and October.

Forty-eight births were recorded, and December led the months with nine. For the other months the number of births were January 4; February 1; March 2; April 2; May 2; June 3; July 3; August 6; September 5; October 5; November 6.

GI College Bill Draws 500,000

Over one-half million veterans have applied for certificates to attend college or take some other form of training under the new GI Bill, Jack Coker, manager of the Veterans Administrational regional office in Waco said.

In a report to President Johnson, William J. Driver, administrator of Veterans Affairs, said that as of Dec. 1, a total of 288,000 were actually in training, mostly at the college level. Over 49,000 of these also attended summer school under the new law and enrolled for the fall semester. The educational benefits of the new GI Bill became effective last June.

As a comparison, Driver reported to the President that under the Korean GI Bill, only 65,000 veterans took advantage of educational benefits within five months of the effective date of that law.

"Recalling the gratifying results of the World War II and Korean GI Bills, the good early response to the new GI Bill promises vast benefits for the entire nation as the educational and economic status of our veteran-citizens increases," said Driver.

One-fourth of the remaining two million eligible veterans have already applied for educational benefits. By the spring of 1967, the agency expects a half million veterans to be enrolled in colleges and other training.

Veterans are also taking advantage of the home loan guaranty provisions of the new GI Bill in large numbers. Over 220,000 veterans have requested eligibility certificates for such guarantees, with 77,500 applications for approval already received.

VA Mailing Income Queries

More than 2,000,000 veterans and dependents receiving pensions from the Veterans Administration are being mailed cards on which to report their annual income, Jack Coker, manager of the VA regional office in Waco, said today.

The check-sized income report cards, enclosed with the November pension checks must be filled out and returned to the VA by Jan. 31, or payment of the pension will be stopped, Coker reminded. The law requires that payments be stopped if income is not reported.

The forms have been simplified this year, and designed for faster processing in automatic accounting machines. It is important that the cards not be folded, torn or mutilated.

The income questionnaires are going to all veterans and dependants of deceased veterans on VA's non-service-connected pension rolls, and to parents of deceased veterans who are receiving dependency and indemnity payments.

Cotton, Wheat, Grain Sign-up Opens Feb. 3

The 1967 cotton, wheat-feed grain program signup will begin Monday, Feb. 6 and run through Friday, March 3, according to an announcement this week by Millard Brown, office manager of the Collingsworth County Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation office.

He urged that growers begin now to make plans on how they want to sign up for the cotton program.

The price support payment rate on cotton will be 11.53 cents per pound, compared to 9.42 for this year. The diversion payment rate has been increased from 10.5 cents to 10.78 cents per pound on farm yield on the acreage agreed to divert from the 12½ percent up to the 35 percent of allotment.

There will be no diverted acreage payment on wheat or for grain sorghums, except for small farms, Mr. Brown said. However for grain sorghum farms, there will be a mandatory 20 percent diversion to qualify for the price support payment. The substitution between wheat and grain sorghum is still permitted under the 1967 program.

Florida Family Here for Holiday

A Florida family here for the holidays were Mr. and Mrs. Jimmie D. Langley and their daughters, Sharon, 14, and Susan, 11, of Tampa. They were guests of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. D. F. Langley, and his sisters and their families, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Williams and children and Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Gray and children.

Langley lived here for a short time in the early 1940's. Now a professional musician, he plays the drums with a trio which appears each night in the lounge of the Tampa Airport. The group also has several records out.

The high point of the trip came when Sharon and Susan saw their first snow, which fell two days after Christmsa.

Fire Damages Parker Home

Fire, believed to have started from an electric blanket, damaged the home of Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Parker at 101 Graham Street, Monday, Dec. 26, about 11:30 p.m., according to Police Chief Donald Nunnelley.

Members of the family were away from home, Fire Chief Buster Hughs said, and the blaze was reported by passersby. Firemen had considerable difficulty fighting the fire due to the steam generated by the heat inside meeting the cold outside air.

Most of the fire damage was to the bedroom, he added, and damage to the remainder of the house was from water and smoke.

Damage to the property has been estimated at about $1,000, Chief Nunnelley said.

Firemen were called to two other blazes during the week. A burr pile caught fire at the new Farmers Co-op Gin about 7 a.m. Tuesday, Dec. 27.

A trash fire Friday brought firemen to 1306 Galveston, the home of John Tye.

A CLEAN BREAK WITH THE PAST

Mr. and Mrs. B. N. McNutt and twin sons Larry and Barry of Quanah say, "We wouldn't change it! No hot spots in the summer, no cold spots in the winter, and no sweating of walls." Mrs. McNutt especially likes the cleanliness. "You may have a little dust but you don't have dirt with total-electric living." Mr. McNutt "never complains about a bill." And why should he? A big 3-bedroom home where lively children play, cook and entertain, and where friends gather—and West Texas Utilities service charge for electricity, the only fuel used for all purposes in the home, averages $34.96 per month.

Fire Department Has Fifty Calls During 1966

Members of the Wellington Volunteer Fire Department answered 50 calls during 1966, Chief Buster Hughs reported this week.

For the first time in several years, blazes within the city limits, totaling 34, outnumbered rural fires. There were 16 of the latter, Chief Hughs said.

Department members spent a total of 252 man hours fighting the rural fires and 400 combatting blazes in town.

The county had no major fires during the year.

A majority of the rural fires were either at gins or were grass fires, and most of the latter came late in the year. Only one house on which a call was sent in was completely destroyed, and that was at Loco. The occupants were away and the fire was discovered too late for firemen to save the building.

In Wellington, firemen made 8 calls to one house, a long-vacant building.

"In completing the year, we feel the department has been improved considerably," Chief Hughs said.

The biggest step came with the installation of the alert warning system in the homes of firemen. Another major addition was the bunker suits for firemen to wear when going into burning buildings.

The team system was introduced only recently and still operates on an experimental basis.

Men in the department were divided into three teams, with the fire chief and assistant chiefs heading them. In answering some calls, it appears to be more feasible for one team to go to the blaze and the other two remain on standby basis, Chief Hughs explained.

Firemen Hold Steak Supper

Members of the Wellington Volunteer Fire Department held their annual New Years steak supper Monday evening, Jan. 2.

This is held to honor their wives, members of the City Council and their wives. It is always informal in nature and there is no program.

This was begun a number of years ago as a goose supper, but more members prepared steak than goose and the change was made, Fire Chief Buster Hughs said.

Approximately 55 attended the Monday night event.

Rolla Woman Burned Dec. 23

Mrs. Jack Moreman is recovering from painful burns received Friday, Dec. 23 at her home in the Rolla community.

Her husband said the pilot of the central heating system went out, but the automatic cut-off apparently failed to work, allowing gas to escape.

When Mrs. Moreman attempted to relight the pilot a few minutes later, the flame blew back on her.

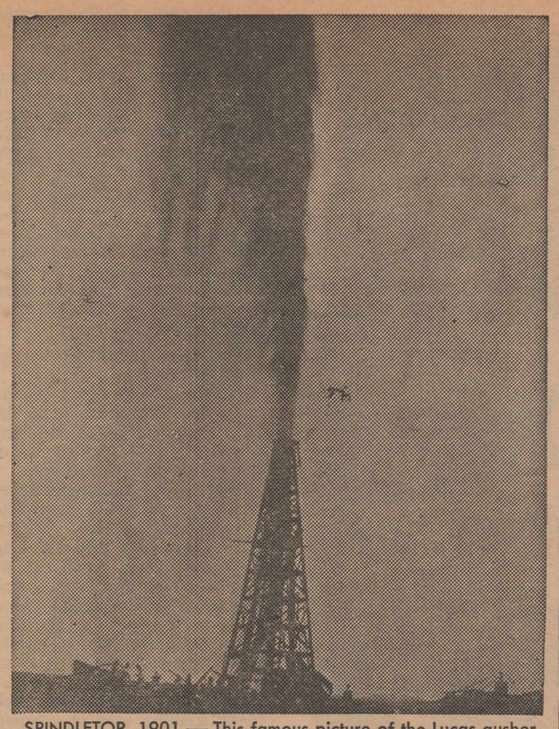

She was treated for burns on her face and right hand.

Damage Minor in Fire Monday

Firemen were called to the home of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Nall at 1606 Graham Street at noon Monday, Jan. 2 to put out a blaze that started from a dishwasher, Fire Chief Buster Hughs reported.

Damage was minor, he added.

Husbands are like fireplace fires. Unattended, they go out.

SPINDLETOP, 1901 — This famous picture of the Lucas gusher at Beaumont, which roared in on January 10, 1901, announced to the world the vast oil potential of the Texas Gulf Coast area, made the United States the leading oil-producing nation on the globe.

Kersten Tells Rotary of UFOs

Emil Kersten discussed Unidentified Flying Objects for members of the Rotary Club at their luncheon Tuesday, Dec. 27.

He recalled that he first heard of UFO's about 1918, then he told of sightings and descriptions.

"I can't prove there are such objects, but at the same time you can't disprove it," Mr. Kersten concluded.

1966 Phesant Season Average

PERRYTON.—The December Panhandle pheasant season found hunters reporting only average success because of dry, blustery weather, according to Roger Hensley, state game warden.

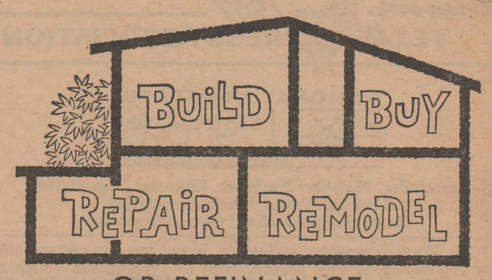

High winds kicked up dust storms across the Panhandle pheasant range for three days of the 7-day season making the hunting very disagreeable and largely unsuccessful.

Most pheasant hunting was in irrigation farm areas north and east of Dalhart.

1967 Will See Us Organizing to Raise Agricultural Income

Early in 1967 this and other counties of the Panhandle will begin organizing on the local level to carry out the Panhandle Economic Program.

The guidelines used in the county will be set up by a county program building committee, with Extension Service personnel and other professional agricultural and home economics workers acting to set up the committee. But it will also call for the brains and work and interest of the leaders in our farming and livestock industry. Its one aim is to increase our net income.

The functions of the committee are to be:

—To determine the county situation, problems, and solutions and opportunities.

—To set county goals consistent with and directed toward the objectives of the Panhandle Economic Program.

—To develop and carry out a county plan of action which will lead to the attainment of county goals.

—To encourage individuals, committees and communities, organizations, businesses, industries and agencies to accept program responsibilities.

—To assist committees, communities and organizations with planning activities to carry out their responsibilities.

—To obtain and coordinate resource personnel, material and program aids.

—To plan, develop and conduct county-wide activities.

—To evaluate the county program and assist the Panhandle Economic Program Committee to evaluate the area program.

Much will be said later to explain and clarify the committee and its work. But this much is certain. It will require the entire effort of Collingsworth to adopt, support, encourage and carry out these income-increasing activities.

Monday Holidays

What kind of Thanksgiving did you have this year? Was it leisurely and enjoyable? Did it give you an opportunity for calm reflection of the things you have to be thankful for?

Or were you harried by the rush of a one-day trip to visit relatives and friends? Did the thought of returning to work the next day bother your digestion?

If you wished the holiday adjoined a week end, so as to provide a three-day holiday, you were not alone.

The U. S. Chamber of Commerce is plumping for a national standard for holidays, making all of them except Christmas and New Year's Day come on a Monday so as to make a three day week-end out of it.

A national survey by the USCC showed that 85 per cent of the members responded to the query favor the general idea of observing Memorial Day, Thanksgiving, Independence Day, Veterans Day and Washington's Birthday on Mondays.

And as might be expected, more than 90 per cent of the business men said they thought the employees would like the change.

This newspaper would get along better with Monday holidays, and that's for sure. When a holiday comes in the middle of the week, it is a tight fit to get the news gathered and the advertising sold and the paper produced in what is most cases just one working day.

Changing the July 4 holiday so that falls on Monday may require some change in attitude, as well as changing May 30 Memorial Day to another date that comes on Monday.

But we feel that with a three day holiday hanging in the balance, enlightened people everywhere will go for it.

We will just have to wait and see what Congress does about it. —Ochiltree County Herald

Farm Outlook in Collingsworth Seems Brighter

HOUSTON—Rising production costs began to make serious inroads into farmers' and ranchers' net income as 1966 drew to a close, and the outlook for 1967 indicates more of the same.

Hal Weatherford, president of the Federal Land Bank of Houston, said today in a year-end statement that farmers and ranchers in Texas, which is served by the bank, will probably have about the same gross income in 1967 as in 1966 but their net may be off by as much as 5%.

The bank which Weatherford heads provides long-term real estate loans to farmers and ranchers throughout Texas.

"The prices of virtually everything farmers need will be up in 1967," Weatherford predicted. "Real estate taxes may increase by another five to seven percent; feed, fertilizer, labor costs, insurance, seed, livestock — all are likely to follow the same pattern."

The cost of money, upon which interest rates to farmers is based, was higher in 1966 than at any time in the bank's 50-year history, he said. This had an adverse effect upon the bank as well as upon its borrowers:

"The Houston bank is one of 12 Federal Land Banks which are owned by Land Bank Associations throughout the country," Weatherford said. "Collectively, we borrow by issuing bonds and we loan this money to farmers. At one time in 1966 we paid as much as 6.14 percent interest on money we loaned out to farmers at 6 percent, our legal ceiling."

One of the brighter hopes emerging at year-end, Weatherford said, was that the money market may be easing slightly. "The last interest rate we paid, for bonds sold on Dec. 20, was 5.95 percent."

One of the most serious effects of the current money shortage is that farmers have been unable to borrow as much money as they needed for machinery and equipment. "That has been particularly damaging in areas where there is an acute labor shortage and machines are sorely needed. If this situation continues, it will certainly drive farm commodity prices upward."

Although 1966 ended in an atmosphere of uncertainty clouded by inflation, tight money, and the Viet Nam war, all was not black on the farm, Weatherford noted.

Farm assets in the U.S. increased by some $18 billion in 1966, and at year-end the total value of U.S. farms and ranches stood at $273 billion. Most of the rise, however, came from increases in the market value of farm real estate.

Life on the farm continues to improve for those who still remain there, though every year the farm and ranch population dwindles as more move to the cities and suburbs.

In 1966, net farm income per farm in the U.S. was $4,900—an increase of 66 percent over 1960. But there were 17 percent fewer farms at the end of 1966, so the real per-farm increase was probably closer to 3 percent.

Where do American farmers go from here?

As indicated by developments of the last couple of years, the next big breakthrough on farms will be the sophisticated use of calculators and computers.

"Farms are becoming fewer and bigger and thus more like big businesses. They will be run by business tools—to help show them what crops can be planted most profitably, how and when to use credit, what kinds of livestock to buy and when, how fast livestock should be moved to market. And so on.

"The largest farmers are already making uses of computers and special banking services," Weatherford continued. "Smaller farmers too will be banding together to hire these services."

Locally, the 1967 outlook for farmers in Collingsworth and Wheeler Counties seems somewhat brighter, according to Jack Corn, manager of the Federal Land Bank Association of Shamrock.

At the end of 1966, there were approximately 14 fewer farms in the Association's district, which comprises Collingsworth and Wheeler Counties, than at the beginning of the year, and about 220 acres were taken out of agricultural production for roads, housing developments, etc.

The use of technology increased significantly here during the year, Corn said. Despite tight money, farmers in the area invested an estimated $325,000 in new farm machinery and equipment during the year, and spent a record $2,400,000 for fertilizers, herbicides and pesticides.

CROSSROADS REPORT

Dear Editor:

An important wheel among the better-paid caretakers of mankind's wordly needs says we have got to get rid of the old Christian ethic that a man is a bum if he won't work.

He even hopes to see the day when people can live out their whole lives just fishing or picketing, if they want to, without working a day, and nobody will look down on them.

My Christian ethical neighbor says if everybody who would rather not work quit same, hardly anybody would be left to produce stuff, and life would be pretty dull after we had used up the stock on hand of fish hooks, TV sets, money, and food.

U.S. Public Health Service a while back spent $128,945 on a study which proved that motorists who stop suddenly in traffic are more apt to get hit from behind than those who don't stop.

And, of course, this astounding discovery will create a national thirst to know how come this is so. Which will bring on a great outcry for further lavish research.

One of the nice things about social over-affluence is that you have got the money to spend on finding the solutions to various mysteries of life like this.

Mr. J. Edgar Hoover suggests that while Bobby Kennedy was his boss, the FBI did some eavesdropping on criminals, Republicans, and other public enemy types.

But Bobby says he didn't know this reprehensibleness was going on, and the people had ought to know that a clean-cut American boy like him wouldn't do anything underhanded.

Some folks are thinking Mr. Hoover may have brought up this matter just to imply that if Bobby didn't know what was going on in his department when he was head lawyer, then he might not know what was going on if he was President.

Report says that Senator Mansfield has come out with a call for Congress to take another look at the Great Socialist program which it has lawed up the past couple of years.

Of course, it is always a good idea for people—even near-people like Congressmen — to sometimes look back at what they have done and see if there is any way they can undo it.

But my burnt boob neighbor says his experience has been that it's better to think it over before you sign something instead of afterward.

Dr. Baumgardner Ends Study

Great Farming Potential Seen in Argentina's Rich Pampas

The Marion Baumgardner family of Lafayette, Ind., came home to Baumgardner Farm for their first Christmas-in-the-winter in three years, for the time between saw them in Argentina where Christmas comes in mid-summer.

Dr. and Mrs. Baumgardner and their children, Timothy, Jonathan and Mary Susan, visited his mother and brother, Mrs. Joe Baumgardner and Mr. and Mrs. David Baumgardner and children.

A member of the Agronomy Department of Purdue University, Dr. Baumgardner was in Argentina to fulfill a two-year contract between the Ford Foundation and Purdue to make a study of the agriculture in that nation.

"My job was to study the situation* in agricultural universities experiment stations and their agricultural extension work and farm organizations—in a sense the total agricultural situation—to try to pinpoint for the Ford Foundation some of the potential areas where it (the Ford Foundation) can provide inputs of technical personnel and funds for improving the agricultural situation there," Dr. Baumgardner explained.

"We lived in Buenos Aires, the largest city in the southern hemisphere—the largest Spanish-speaking city in the world," he continued. "It's very European in customs, flavor, culture—much more European than American.

"The work of the Ford Foundation is primarily to build free and democratic institutions so I was actually a lot with the universities.

"The students in most Latin American universities are very active politically, and especially in Argentina. They have a great deal to say about university policy so that it is a very unstable situation. During the two years we were there, there were a total of several months when the universities were closed due to student strikes.

"There is very little evidence among the professional staff of the universities of a feeling of responsibility to serve the community, to do research or to solve the problems of the farmer and rancher. As a consequence, you get little feeling of public support.

"The real hope I see for the development of agriculture in Argentina lies in the National Institute of Agricultural Technology, which is an agency within the ministry of agriculture that is responsible for research and extension. In recent years—and this would be the last 5 or 6 years—they have trained as many as 85 to 100 students in U.S. universities to the masters degree, and where real good research is going on, you'll find some of these men.

"I feel that probably the most successful type of U.S. aid to other countries lies through contracting with American universities to do a job in other countries," Baumgardner declared.

He described the potential richness of this South American land, much of it the storied Pampas.

"You can drive 300 miles south of Buenos Aires and it's as flat as this floor," Dr. Baumgardner said with a sweep of his hand. "This is a vast area similar in size to our mid-west. I would say they receive 35 to 45 inches of rainfall. The soil is very deep and it has been rich, but they don't use fertilizer.

A large percent of this is native unimproved grassland, but they have potential of producing tremendous amounts. I feel that with the application of modern technology, Argentina promises in the coming years to be one of the key areas in the Southern Hemisphere to help feed the world.

"It is one of the very few places that have as vast and marvelous resources for agriculture as Argentina has, and perhaps it is the only place with this capacity that is so underdeveloped," Dr. Baumgardner explained. "It is a little less than one third the size of the United States and has 22,000,000 people. The United States has 110,000,000 cattle, Argentina 47,000,000. Yet beef is rationed. You cannot buy beef in restaurants Mondays and Tuesdays because they are not improving their beef industry rapidly enough to fulfill their export commitments."

There is a rising middle class probably larger proportionately than in any Latin American country, Dr. Baumgardner said. Power formerly was held by the landholders, the military and the conservative group in the Catholic Church. "But you can see cracks in the wall of all three," he continued.

Many landholders know something will have to change. The military group in power is very much allied with Western Europe. A liberal group is rising in the church.

United States investments are heavy in Argentina. Ford builds the Falcon and GM the Chevy II, but Kaiser International is the largest manufacturer of automobiles, building the Jeep, Rambler and Renault. Farm equipment built by John Deere and International Harvester cultivates the rich Argentine soil just as it does in Collingsworth.

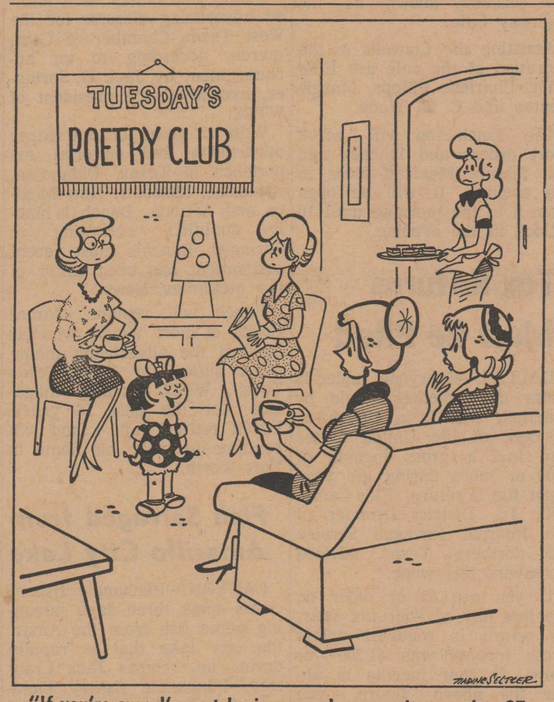

Dr. Baumgardner spoke principally of his work, but it was a rewarding two years for the entire family. They traveled through other countries of South America, they visited some of the great ranches of the Argentine, held by families whose sons fly regularly to the United States to study the latest developments in livestock raising.

Dr. Baumgardner had a week at Ushuaia, southernmost city in the world, in Tierra del Fuego. He accompanied an Argentine geologist, called in to consult with the Navy on construction of an air base to handle jets.

"I did not know until then that Argentina has five permanent bases in the Anarctic, and this is the supply base," he remarked.

While he values his two years in Buenos Aires, that country appreciates his work as well. This fall, Argentina's Ministry of Agriculture requested of Purdue University that he be permitted to return.

"I hope I can always keep my contacts with Argentina," he added.

"If you're sure I'm not boring you, I can recite another 27 verses of 'Mary Had a Little Lamb.'"

The approval of funds totaling $32,683 to be matched by the City of Wellington for the improvement of Marian Airpark was welcomed news, for a modern and adequate airfield is a necessity in this day of ever-growing air travel. One of the first questions asked by busy executives is what kind of airport do you have? They want to know the size craft it will handle, the condition of the runways, the lighting facilities, etc. The improvement of the airpark is one of the most important items in the plans of the city for 1967. They seem to have this problem well in hand.

Not so important and also not so well in hand is the proposition of doing something about the sewer system. There should be no delay in this matter. This is the year to correct the situation.

★ ★ ★

Here is some good news: The bank statements which will be published next week or the week after that will show an increase in deposits over this time last year.

★ ★ ★

Now that practically all of the bowl games are over we might as well get down to work; and we can also start watching our own basketball teams here in the county. We have some good ones going in more schools than one. This week you will get to see them play in the round robin at the Skyrocket gym. The Wellington boys have lost only one game this season and that was to Clarendon last night.

★ ★ ★

Most of us are wary about what new laws, decrees and orders may come out of Washington every year: but this year there is going to be a lot of legislative corn popping in Austin. Here are some of the items that will be considered: Legalized sale of mixed drinks and horse racing; annual legislative sessions, reconsideration of some provisions of the code of criminal procedure — a matter that has drawn wide criticism — and many other items.

.. There is one more which will affect nearly all of us, if passed. This is driver safety education which would increase the minimum age for drivers to 16 and require peri odic examinations of "all" drivers. That is one law that is undoubtedly needed; but it will send most of us back to the rule book. There are many adult drivers who will have a hard time passing the tests. Most of us do not know how to turn a corner correctly not to mention the meaning of all the signs.

A better shake for cotton is expected in 1967 due to the fact that W. R. (Bob) Poage has now risen to chairman of the House Agriculture Committee in Congress. In the past Congressman Poage has been an outstanding champion of cotton. He knows cotton and he works for the cotton producer. One improvement in the cotton situation that is most desired is the increase of cotton exports and those who know him feel that Poage will press this matter before USDA officials.

Interest Grows in Consumer Credit Course

Great interest is being shown by Collingsworth County merchants and their employees in a "Consumer Credit Management" course that will be conducted by The University of Texas at Greenbelt Electric Co-op building starting Monday, Jan. 9 and continuing through Thursday night.

Elvis White said advance enrollment exceeded expectations and that more are expected to be in attendance when the first class starts.

The course is being sponsored by the Credit Bureau of Wellington.

A multitude of subjects will be covered during the 10-hour course, which is designed to assist management and personnel handling credit and collections in ironing out problems that arise day to day. Also, there will be explanations of the latest techniques being used successfully to make open accounts more profitable, reduce credit risks, increase credit volume, and decrease collection problems.

Mr. White said all merchants are being urged to encourage their credit and collection department heads and staffs to take advantage of this short course on an important phase of retailing.

Classes will be conducted by Theron Lee, credit training specialist from The University of Texas. This training is made available by the Distributive Education Program of The University of Texas and the Texas Education Agency.

Every type of retail outlet extending credit is expected to be represented at the classes, including owners, managers and employees of department stores, banks, furniture stores, automobile dealerships, grocery stores, appliance stores, service stations and drug stores. In addition, the course will be of value to personnel in wholesale, service and professional organizations and offices, including lumber firms and doctors' offices, Mr. White said.

Training will be given on credit applications and interviewing, investigating and evaluating prospective credit customers, accepting and rejecting applicants, collection procedures, small claims courts procedures, check and check-cashing methods, and credit sales promotion.

A registration fee of $4.00 is the only charge. Additional information about the course may be obtained by contacting the Credit Bureau of Wellington.

Small Business Loans Available

The Small Business Administration's Economic Opportunity Loan program is now available throughout the Lubbock region, it was announced this week by Jack Teddlie, SBA regional director.

The loans will be made to existing businesses and new businesses by SBA's Regional Office at 204 Federal Building, 1616 19th St., Lubbock, Texas and by 72 other SBA field offices throughout the nation.

Previously the program was available on a limited basis in 44 communities.

To find those low income and other handicapped people with the best potential to succuessfully operate a business, SBA will work closely with community action agencies, neighborhood centers, regional organizations and other groups throughout the Lubbock area, Mr. Teddlie said. These organizations also will be asked to assist in providing volunteers from the business community to work with SBA personnel in providing management assistance to loan recipients.

In announcing the expanded loan program in Washington, SBA Administrator Bernard L. Boutin said:

"We do not intend to make bad loans under this program, but neither do we intend to set up inflexible road-blocks. Our people will go out into the ghetto areas in the cities, to the poor sections on the peripheries of the suburbs and to the rural areas. We will look for the loans which can expand viable businesses, exploit new ideas, establish small manufacturing plants — the kinds of businesses which can have a healthy effect on the community, which can expand employment opportunities, which can stimulate the economy and be in concert with our national goals. "And we intend to work closely in the EOL program with local groups, such as community action agencies and neighborhood centers, as well as with area and regional organizations devoted to stimulating the development of the disadvantaked and lower-income groups. Wherever authorized by the Office of Economic Opportunity, SBA will cooperate with Small Business Development Centers in providing counseling, guidance and management training. SBDCs shall refer applicants for financial assistance, coming to their attention, to SBA.

"In addition, SBA will make available to EOL recipients all of our management assistance tools in a combined effort to assure the success of these small businesses."

A key feature of the expanded EOL program is that it will also seek to assist for the first time those who are above the poverty level, and yet cannot qualify for SBA's regular business loan program. For too long, said Boutin, "this group of people has been in a sort of financial no-man's land. We intend to help them."

Migro Chemical Corp. Formed County Men

Two Collingsworth men, J. D. Luck of Dodson and Ben Meadors of Wellington, have announced the establishment of Migro Chemical Corp., with headquarters at Dodson, and serving a 9-state area.

This is a distributorship for Medina, a culture of soil microorganisms in dormant form, and Thrivon liquid plant fertilizer.

The area served includes the entire Texas Panhandle with Oklahoma as the boundary to the east and New Mexico to the west, and extending northward to the Canadian line.

To introduce Medina products a series of films will be shown throughout the Panhandle during the week of Jan. 16, Mr. Meadors said.

The film will be shown in Wellington Thursday, Jan. 19, and the location will be announced at a later date by Warrick Feed Store, which will be the agent here.

Mr. Meadors explained that Medina, applied in a water solution, either sprayed or knifed in the top two or three inches of soil, alleviates cotton root rot, corrects toxic conditions in the soil, such as salt, improves the condition of the soil and increases yields and quality of crops.

In this area, the chief concern of the distributors is with cotton, Mr. Meadors said.

It has already been tested on wheat at Dodson by Mr. Luck, as well as in cotton, milo, grass and vegetables throughout the state.

Thrivon, they explained, is a complete liquid fertilizer adapted to the middle west and southwest.
