Castroite Terrorists Burn U.S. Mission

Raid Made in Honor Of Revolt Failure

CARACAS (UP) — Castroite terrorists raided the U.S. military mission here Wednesday night, forced six unarmed Americans and four Venezuelan guards to strip and stole their uniforms and the Venezuelans' guns.

The terrorists then set fire to the mission causing $20,000 damage, burned a U.S. flag and a portrait of George Washington and fled.

"Next time we won't be kidding," one of them snarled as he fled.

Police picked up three suspected terrorists near the mission shortly after the raid. The army summoned reinforcements to patrol the neighborhood, but there were no further reports of trouble.

The raid was staged to commemorate the abortive revolt a year ago at Puerto Cabello, where Communists and rightists joined forces in an unsuccessful attempt to overthrow President Romulo Betancourt.

The Americans in the building at the time of the attack last night were Col. James K. Chenaut, Corpus Christi, Tex., deputy chief of the mission and his 15-year-old son; Majs. Bernard Gardner and T. C. Blevins and Sgts. Jose Augustini, Archivaldo Saenz, Kenneth Smith and Rudolph Felix.

All of them except Chenault and his son were forced to give up their uniforms.

The first attackers on the scene were four men armed with submachine guns. They were uniformed as Venezuelan officers, a ruse that caught the four Venezuelan sentries posted at the door off guard.

After the Venezuelan soldiers had been disarmed, four more attackers armed with revolvers drove up in two cars.

Members of the band herded the Americans and the Venezuelans into a patio adjoining the mission building. Some of them, who spoke good English, delivered what Chenault called a "tirade against Yankee imperialism" to the captive audience.

Troops Ordered 'Shoot to Kill' In Moslem Revolt

TEHRAN, Iran (UPI) — The shah issued shoot-to-kill orders today to thousands of troops manning tanks and machine guns battling to suppress a planned revolt against his regime.

The death toll rose to an officially-admitted 86 persons killed and 150 injured in three days of riots by Moslem extremists rebelling against the shah's land and female suffrage reforms.

Premier Assadoullah Alam said —"Reactionary elements are planning a revolution."

He said the government had evidence the rebels planned to sabotage the nation's communications, water systems, schools and other facilities.

He said, however, plot ringleaders have been arrested and will be tried by special military courts established under martial law in Tehran.

The shah's security chiefs reported shop-smashing and auto-burning rioting in the southern city of Shiraz. They told UPI the spread of the rioting from Tehran to the provinces indicated a well-organized plot against the shah's regime.

Firing still echoed through the littered capital streets as an estimated 7,000 troops rumbled about, trying to stamp out the embers of Wednesday's screaming demonstrations.

Near Two Million May See Pope; Last Will Is Read

VATICAN CITY (UPI) — A steady flow of humanity streamed past the bier of Pope John XXIII all night and into today in numbers that were expected to go well beyond a million.

Some said the figure would approach two million.

As the throngs paid their respects at the rate of more than 30,000 an hour, the last will and testament of the late Pope was disclosed. In it, he wrote that he had awaited "simply and happily the arrival of sister death" and asked that his final burial place be in the Basilica of St. John in Lateran.

He also left "what little goods that with His (God's) help I managed to accumulate" to the three surviving brothers and a sister.

As the final hours of the lying-in-state period neared their end, the crush of the crowd was tremendous.

Promise Last Glimpse

The throngs who came to see the body of the late Pope and were not able to enter the vast basilica before its close at 5 p.m. (12 noon EDT) were promised an opportunity for a last glimpse.

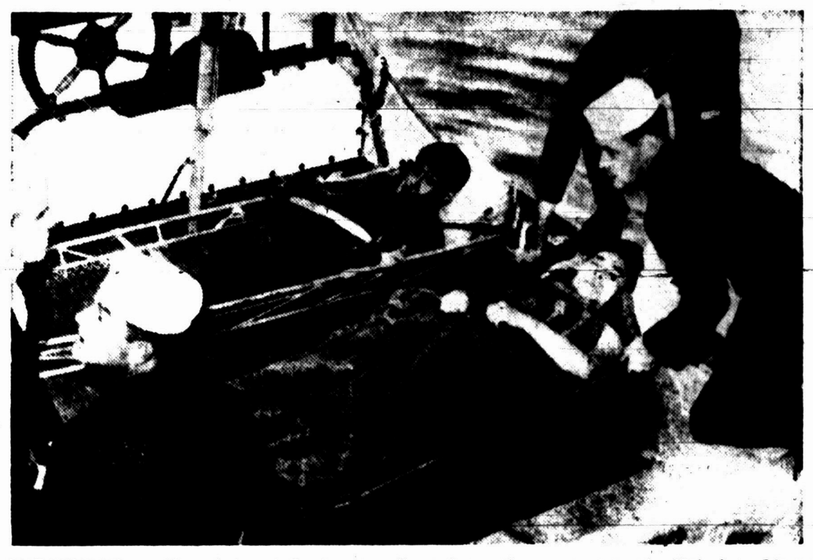

About a half hour after the doors close, the red and gold dressed remains were to be brought out to the steps of St. Peter's before being placed in the grottoes below the church for interim interment.

Following the last display outside, the body was to be taken back inside the huge basilica and then encased in three caskets — the first of cypress, the second of lead and the third of elm.

The huge church, largest in Christendom, was kept open all night to permit the long lines of ordinary Italians, priests, nuns, pilgrims, and tourists to shuffle past the red-draped catafalque on which the 81-year old pontiff's body rests.

In Moscow, it was announced that three representatives of the Russian Orthodox Church would attend Pope John's funeral, headed by Bishop Vladimir of Zvenigorod. It was another indication

SURVIVORS — Two injured Japanese sailors from the cargo vessel Kokoku Maru are removed from a Coast Guard launch in San Francisco. The Kokoku Maru was in a collision with the American freighter Asterion 35 miles north of San Francisco. The Japanese ship was reported sinking, but there is a tow line attached and it may be saved. The American ship was making port under her own power when engine trouble disabled her 10 miles from anchor. Balance of the 44-man crew aboard the Japanese ship was picked up by a Coast Guard cutter. Drive Launched in Pampa Against Trash, 'Blind Spots'

A double-barreled campaign to eliminate "blind" street intersections and to educate the public on requirements of the city's trash and garbage collection ordinance was launched today by city officials.

City Manager Harold Schmitzer and Public Works Director R. B. Cooke stated that there are many flagrant violations in both categories in Pampa.

The city manager said there are many violations of the ordinance on trash collections which deal primarily with the size of containers and what is placed in the receptacles by property owners.

The ordinance, Schmitzer said, requires that suitable receptacles be maintained for trash, and garbage must be drained and wrapped and placed in a container of not less than ten nor more than 60 gallons capacity. The receptacle must be constructed of galvanized metal or other approved material with a tight-fitting lid or cover and should be filled to weigh not more than 75 pounds, including the container.

Any tree limbs, trunks and hedge cuttings placed in the containers should not exceed five feet in length.

The ordinance specifically sets forth that it shall be punishable by law to burn any garbage or trash in the containers.

City Manager Schmitzer said that surveys just made show that in many cases the trash containers are filled with material such as concrete, boards, stones and other matter which city trash haulers are not required to carry away.

There have been instances where trash receptacles have been loaded with as much as 600 pounds of this type of material, the city manager said.

"The best type of container," Schmitzer said, "is one or two of the 55-gallon oil drums, securely set on a stand so that they will not blow over or cannot be knocked over by dogs or children."

The city manager said that some property owners were under the impression that the size of the container governed the charge made by the city for picking up the trash.

"This is not the case," Schmitzer said. "The size of the container makes no difference as long as it does not exceed the 60 - gallon limit."

Officials said that Dempster

UT Student Free On Bond; Charged In Bomb-Robbery

AUSTIN (UPI)—Lloyd Jard III, a 19-year-old University of Texas sophomore was freed in $3,000 bond today after being charged with a bomb - threat robbery of the Texas State Bank last Friday.

Jard, of Houston, was charged before U.S. Commissioner Forrest Troutman.

J.M. Cole of San Antonio, special agent of the FBI, announced the arrest of Jard. Several FBI agents worked with Austin police on the case.

Dale Parker and Mrs. Evelyn Creamer, tellers at the bank said the bandit approached them at a drive-in window and threatened to "blow the place up" if they did not hand over money.

They said the robber told them he had a bomb in a paper bag he carried.

Ole Miss Accepts Second Negro Without Incident

By United Press International

Alabama Gov. George Wallace appeared determined today to defy federal authority over the admission of three Negroes to the University of Alabama.

At Oxford, Miss., the second Negro ever to attend the University of Mississippi begins classes today.

Negro Cleve McDowell was accepted without incident Wednesday at "Ole Miss" in marked contrast to the rioting that claimed two lives last fall when James H. Meredith integrated the institution.

The reception was so peaceful that McDowell said he did not "hear even one rude remark." Mississippi Gov. Ross Barnett said in Jackson that the state was "yielding to the armed might of the United States" in not resisting McDowell's enrollment.

There were these other racial developments:

Chattanooga, Tenn. — A Negro minister was arrested and three Negro youths were struck by a white man Wednesday when 20 Negroes tried to enter a downtown cafeteria.

Danville, Va. — About 100 Negroes entered the municipal building Wednesday, singing and waving antisegregation placards. Two ministers and a Negro girl were arrested and later freed on bond.

Jackson, Miss. — Nine Negroes carrying small American flags were arrested in downtown Jackson Wednesday and charged with parading without a permit. The arrests brought to 617 the number of persons arrested since a campaign of antisegregation demonstrations began last week.

Spartanburg, S.C.—Most downtown lunch counters and restaurants desegregated their facilities Wednesday and Negroes ate in several of the places without incident. Columbia and Greenville earlier lowered racial barriers in public eating places.

Growers Accepting Huge Losses Caused by Weather

LUBBOCK (UPI) — Tornadoes, torrents of rain, and hail that pounded the Texas South Plains for 10 days in a row wiped out more than 800,000 acres of cotton.

Dollar losses to the potential crop in the 23-county region run into the millions. Last year the area had a yield of 2,315,000 bales.

Most growers accept the losses philosophically. They will gamble again and replant, many for the third time this season.

Replanting must be completed by June 20, otherwise the season will be too far advanced to expect a profitable yield.

The South Plains is a land of weather contrasts. Last year it was semi-arid and farmers were praying for rain. Two thirds of cotton grown on the 2,202,552 acres allotted for the 23 counties is under irrigation.

Plains Cotton Growers, Inc., an association of farmers, estimated that weather damage and seedling disease, a fungus caused by cool, damp weather, may force growers to replant upward to one million acres.

As soon as fields are dry enough to work the replanting will begin, Donald Johnson, executive assistant of Plains cotton growers, Inc., said.

"Growers accept the weather damage philosophically," Johnson said. "They know that every time you put a seed in the ground you are gambling on the weather."

Johnson said many growers will be replanting for the third time this season and with each replanting the potential yield is reduced because of the shorter growing season.

Latest Storms To Be 'Mild'

By United Press International

Thunderstorms built up across West Texas today but the U.S. Weather Bureau said the storms would be mild compared to the turbulence that plagued the South Plains for 10 days.

Skies were cloudy over the state from the Rio Grande to the Red River. Morning lows ranged from 57 degrees at Dalhart to 81 at Corpus Christi.

Wednesday night was the first night since May 26 that no twisters, hail or torrential rains were reported.

A few thunderstorms moved across an area south of Wichita Falls to the Red River and in the Brownwood vicinity Wednesday but there were no general rains.

"It appears the weather will not be as violent as over the past few days," a Weather Bureau spokesman at Fort Worth said.

The Weather Bureau called for rain today in northwest, southeast and southwest sections of the state.

South Texas recorded temperatures almost exclusively in the 90s and Presidio recorded 107 degrees and Laredo 100, compared with a high of 86 at San Angelo.

Resignation Puts Macmillan In 'Worst Scandal'

LONDON (UPI)—The resignation of War Minister John Profumo, who admitted he lied about his relations with a red - haired London playgirl, today handed Prime Minister Harold Macmillan the worst political scandal in 11 years of Conservative rule.

It came at a time when Macmillan was preparing for general elections which must be held within the next 16 months, and when his chances already have been harmed by other scandals involving espionage and security leaks.

"The scandal is one of the worst to wrack British public life for many years," the Daily Mail said. "Its details have no obvious parallel."

"What the hell is going on in this country?" asked the nation's largest newspaper, the Daily Mirror. It demanded Macmillan's resignation.

Profumo, handsome 48-year-old millionaire and man about town, admitted Wednesday in a letter to Macmillan that he had lied in parliament March 22 to cover up his relationship with Christine Keeler, a 21-year-old model whose other friends included a Soviet Embassy official and two West Indians.

Profumo, who is married to former actress Valerie Hobson, told the House of Commons in March that rumors he knew Miss Keeler were true but "there was no impropriety whatever in my acquaintanceship."

Suitcase Explodes

LONDON (UPI) — A suitcase about to be put aboard a Portuguese jet airliner exploded at London Airport today.

There were no reported injuries.

Smoke billowed from the baggage loading bay on the ground floor of the terminal building. Police cordoned off the baggage area and firemen swamped burning luggage with water.

The case was about to be put aboard a Portuguese Caravelle bound for Lisbon with 77 passengers. The explosion came 30 minutes before flight time.

Kennedy Calls for Equalization in School Systems

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (UPI) — President Kennedy today called for an educational system which would guarantee equal opportunity for a Long Island banker's son and the offspring of an Alabama Negro sharecropper.

"Our goal must be an educational system in the spirit of independence, a system in which all are created equal — a system in which every child, whether born a banker's son in a Long Island mansion, or a Negro sharecropper's son in an Alabama cotton field, has every opportunity for an education that his abilities and character deserve," the Chief Executive said in an address for commencement exercises at San Diego State College where he also received an honorary degree.

Kennedy flew here this morning from El Paso, Tex. After the college ceremony he planned to embark on the aircraft carrier Kitty Hawk for an overnight cruise off the coast of Southern California.

Mindful of a new civil rights crisis building at the University of Alabama where Gov. George Wallace has vowed to block the court-ordered entrance of Negro students next Monday, the President said it was time the nation "faced up more frankly" to such questions as "whether every American child has an equal chance for a good education."

Lack Equal Opportunity

He said the truth was that American children do not yet enjoy equal educational opportunities for two primary reasons:

"One is economic and the other is racial."

"If our nation is to meet the goal of giving every American a fair educational break," the President said, "we must move swiftly ahead in both areas. We must put more resources into the un-

Laundry Room Lion Hunt

FALLON, Nev. (UPI) — A Navy shore party stormed the commander's laundry room with guns blazing at the Fallon Naval Auxiliary Air Station and bagged a 100-pound mountain lion.

An aide to Capt. Max Piper, commander of the station, spotted the six-foot, five-inch cat lying under a deep freeze Wednesday. The aide piped all hands, and the base security officer picked a squad of volunteers.

They cornered the snarling beast in the laundry room and fired away until it dropped dead.

Veto Dumps Criminal Code Revision Bill

AUSTIN (UPI)— Five years of extensive legal work were down the drain for an undetermined time today after Gov. John Connally vetoed the controversial criminal code revision bill Wednesday.

But State Bar President Leon Jaworski and legislative sponsors agreed the governor had little choice but to veto the bill after it was found there were changes made from the accepted version.

It was still a mystery where the changes were made. Sen. Dorsey Hardeman of San Angelo, Senate sponsor, contends the errors were made in the enrolling room and the enrolling clerk flatly denies the charges.

Lawyers and judges worked with the State Bar to iron out the massive, 380-page bill, first major revision of the criminal code in 100 years.

After being told of the veto, Hardeman said in San Angelo he had decided Connally had little choice. Hardeman had hoped until Wednesday some legal action might be taken to get the approved version on the governor's desk.

Hardeman and Rep. Bob Hughes of Dallas, the House sponsor, had asked Atty. Gen. Waggoner Carr to explore legal avenues to get the proper bill to Connally. Hughes said he was interested in the legal procedures, but wanted the veto regardless of that phase.

Tentative Slate Set for Jaycee Area Meeting

A general committee meeting of the Pampa Jaycees last night set a tentative agenda for the proposed Jaycee Area Convention.

Chairman Richard Cook said registration of members from the 35-club Panhandle area is planned for noon, Saturday, July 13. The meeting will officially open at 3 p.m. that same day in the Coronado Inn.

Saturday afternoon's agenda schedules appointment of committees and committee meetings, a meeting of local club presidents, and regional caucuses.

The opening day will be closed with a dance at 9 p.m.

Sunday's registration will start at 8 a.m., with a business meeting at 9 a.m., followed by a 15-minute devotional.

The state programming vice-president will then conduct clinics, on such topics as Americanism, Community Development, Youth and Sports, Records and Recognition, Leadership Training and Internal Chapter Development.

The convention will take a break for a luncheon banquet at 12:30 p.m., followed by a business session for the purpose of electing a host city for the Winter Area Convention.

During the week end meeting, area Jaycee-ettes will also hold meetings and work forums, and the local ladies will provide entertainment for the visiting wives.

IDENTIFY TYPHOID CASES

HARLOW, England (UPI) — Health officials here said two more cases of typhoid fever were identified Wednesday, bringing to nine the number of confirmed typhoid cases in this town.

Officials were trying to determine the cause of the outbreak.

Committee Kills Oil Tax Hikes

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The House Ways & Means committee today rejected President Kennedy's plea for higher taxes on profits from oil and gas.

The proposals were designed to produce more than $135 million in new revenues largely by tightening the rules governing the 27½ per cent depletion allowance which the industries are allowed in computing their taxes.

Navy Loses to Army In Missile Shots

WHITE SANDS MISSILE Range, N.M. (UPI) — The Army outshot the Navy in a demonstration of the nation's missile might Wednesday before an old sailor who could not suppress a laugh.

Six times Army missiles found their targets during a demonstration for President Kennedy. But a battery of Navy Talos anti - aircraft missiles fired from a "ship" in the desert at a drone was wide.

Although the drone kept flying and emitting puffs of smoke to show the two Talos had missed, a nuclear warhead on the ram-jet missile might have blown an enemy out of the sky.

Kenney, who served in the Navy in World War II, sympathetically laughed aloud at the Navy's misfortune. The starched white summer uniform of the President's naval aide, Capt. Tazewell Shepard, wilted noticeably. Vice President Lyndon Johnson and the secretaries of the Army and Navy watched from grandstands. Also viewing the launches from two sites on the sprawling desert range were a host of other dignitaries and 20 newsmen from North Atlantic Treaty Organization countries as well as about 300 regional and national newsmen.

Cloudless skies and 90-plus temperatures combined to give observers a clear but warm view of the demonstration.

Relief was provided by Army pith helmets, cold drinks served by boy and girl scouts, and a dusty desert breeze.

As he left the area, Kennedy was given a model of the Sergeant missile by an Army platoon composed of men from each of the batteries that participated in the demonstration. Johnson received a plaque showing the Army's Pershing missile, a weapon that could only be displayed for the occasion because its minimum range of 100 miles would have carried it off the military reservation, which is 100 by 40 miles.

'Our Finest Hour'

Wallace May Defy Federal Order

MONTGOMERY, Ala. (UPI) — Gov. George Wallace indicated Wednesday night he intends to defy a federal injunction prohibiting him from blocking the admission of three Negroes to the University of Alabama "regardless of the risk."

"This can be our finest hour," he told Alabamans in a statewide television address.

Wallace had refused immediate comment Wednesday after federal Judge Seybourn Lynne issued the restraining order at Birmingham. However, Wallace's press secretary, Bill Jones, said "the injunction will make absolutely no changes in the governor's stand."

The former judge has vowed to turn back personally any Negro trying to enter the segregated university.

Wallace said in his address Wednesday night that the federal court-ordered admission of the Negroes at the main university campus at Tuscaloosa and the extension center at Huntsville next Monday had created a "constitutional crisis."

"I need the support of all of the people of Alabama" in maintaining a "peaceful situation at the university," Wallace said. "Peace and tranquility must prevail."

The governor warned that anyone attempting to create violence on the campus "will be arrested promptly. I have never advocated anything but legal and lawful resistance," he emphasized.

Violation of the court order could result in civil or criminal contempt charges against Wallace. Maximum penalty on the criminal charge is 10 years imprisonment. The civil charge carries a fine and a jail sentence imposed at the discretion of the judge.

NEW ORDERS IMPROVE

NEW YORK (UPI)—New orders last month improved and continued to run ahead of production, the National Association of Purchasing Agents reported Wednesday.

The association said business continued "surprisingly good" in May and most purchasing executives anticipate more gains as the year progresses.

Walter Rogers Reports

American Abundance

Confidence and strength mark the Nation's economic position. One year ago this week, prices on the New York Stock Exchange took their worst plunge since 1929, the Dow-Jones industrial average falling 34.95 points to 576.93 in the single May 28 trading session. Contrast that situation of one year ago with the market's present reflection of economic optimism. As of May 28 this year, the market had regained full health. The Dow - Jones industrial average closed last Tuesday at 717.95, within 20 points of the all - time record high. The Nation's business leaders foresee bright months ahead.

Supreme, sovereign, and mighty is our United States of America! Those whose pasttime is downmouthing their country and their countrymen can find things to be sour about, as the weak-hearted among us have been able to do throughout our history. Even the material triumphs of our country—putting aside consideration of our remarkable 187-year adventure in self-government and freedom — fail to arouse much enthusiasm among the perennially gloomy. They'd rather revile bad times than rejoice in good times.

What a bounty we do enjoy! Our agricultural problem is not one of providing enough food and fiber — it is one of finding a way to dispose of an unneeded surplus. Most of our working people enjoy such short work weeks that their problem is to find a way to spend their leisure hours constructively. The livelihood of millions of Americans depends not upon the production of necessities but upon their producing luxury goods and services. Economists estimate that by the end of this year, our gross national product of goods and services will total about $590 billion — 30 percent higher than only five years ago.

Nowhere is America's material strength more dramatically illustrated than in the welter of statistics affecting the automotive industry. One person of every seven employed in the United States is in some way connected with the automotive industry; one business in every six is in some way connected.

Motor vehicle registrations totaled 75,876,449 in 1961, the last year for which figures are available, one vehicle for every 2.5 Americans. Contrast this staggering total with the number of vehicle registrations in the Soviet Union—3,983,000—one vehicle for every 54 Russians. The figure for the U.S.S.R. is vastly overshadowed by those from our Free World allies. The United Kingdom has 7,747,000 vehicles (one for every 6.6 persons), West Germany has 6,094,100 (one for every 9.1 persons). Fully 60 per cent of the world's passenger cars are in the United States. With only 6.7 per cent of the world's surface and 6.2 per cent of its people, the United States has 42.4 per cent of its trucks and 60.4 per cent of its cars.

Interested in having more numbers? In 1962, automotive retail sales totaled more than $61 billion in this country. More than $18 billion was extended in automotive credit, but more than 38 per cent of new cars sold in the U.S. two years ago were sold for cash. In 1961-62, 44 per cent of U.S. new car buyers had owned their previous cars three years or less. Our automotive exports in 1961 totaled $1.3 billion. The auto industry buys 19 per cent of all the steel consumed in the United States. More than 200 million cars and trucks, valued at more than $241 billion, had been produced and sold in the U.S. between 1900 and 1962. And 74 per cent of U.S. families now own automobiles.

Do we use our cars? Automobile riding leads in outdoor recreational activities in this country. We take pride in our 3,573,000 miles of roads and streets, 2,588,000 surfaced (including a total of 233,009 in Texas, the State with the greatest paved and unpaved mileage, of which 153,725 miles are surfaced highways). Of the 40,854 miles of highway designated in the national system of interstate and defense highways, 14,336 miles had been completed through 1962 and 15,296 miles are under construction. Americans compiled 767 billion miles of motor travel last year, a mileage record piled up by our 89 million licensed car, truck and bus drivers (of whom 39 per cent are women). The automobile made possible these totals: 79 million visitors to national parks, 101 million to national forests, 273 million visitors to state parks, and more than 13 billion vehicle miles traveled by hunters and fishermen.

Texas, according to the Automobile Manufacturers Association, has 844,858 of its citizens engaged in employment allied with the automotive industry — 6,754 Texans engaged in making vehicles or parts; 42,838 in crude and refined petroleum firms; 160,455 in automotive sales and servicing; 29,327 working on state, county and local roads; 592,000 employed by trucking firms and in delivery work; 13,484 in motor bus and taxi employment.

I say Hooray for America! The Communists envy us.

Pampa Exchange Student Describes Switzerland

Pampa youth Vince Johnson, who was a foreign exchange student in Bern, Switzerland for the past eight months, spoke at the Pampa Rotary Club's luncheon meeting yesterday at the Coronado Inn.

The speaker was favorably impressed with his 'adopted' country and with the family with whom he stayed, while in Switzerland. He said that they are an active, healthy people, who enjoy outside sports and activities as well as art, music and literature.

In comparing Swiss schooling with ours, Johnson said that in Switzerland, there are no outside activities such as athletics, choirs, etc. The students in Switzerland go to school only to learn. They average an eight hour school day, five days a week. Competition is so stiff there that only five per cent of the children are permitted to attend high school, Johnson said.

In Switzerland there are three national languages, German, French and Italian, he explained.

The Swiss believe in the confederacy system of government, Johnson said. State government in most instances prevails over the federal government.

Johnson was sent to Switzerland by the American Field Service, which sponsors 3000 students throughout the world. Under the program, 500 American students went to 28 different countries to study this year.

Young Johnson, who is a graduate of Pampa High School, is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Raymond V. Johnson, 413 Lowry.

Gene Imel introduced the program.

It was also announced that the installation of officers banquet would be held Tuesday evening, June 25 at the Inn.

Flowers Piled High

The piles of flowers left near the body of the Pope by the mourners grew today. They ranged from expensive bouquets to 50-cent bunches of white carnations bought at street corner stalls.

The cardinals of the church were carrying on the affairs of its vast administration pending selection of another pope. They decided Wednesday to begin their secret conclave June 19 to choose a successor for Pope John, who died Monday night of a stomach tumor believed to be cancer. They will begin balloting June 20 and are expected to take about four days to decide.

Dumpster boxes provided by the city also should be kept closed at all times.

Discussing the matter of "blind" spots at street intersections, Public Works Director Cooke said there are many of them in Pampa.

The city has taken pictures of some of the worst spots in Pampa and an effort will be made to work with property owners to eliminate them.

In some cases, City Manager Schmitzer said, it will be necessary to mark off no parking areas for 30 feet on either side of dangerous intersections. In others it may be necessary to remove trees or shrubbery which cut off the view of approaching motorists.

"We are doing our utmost to improve the garbage and trash collection system," Schmitzer said, "and we also want to carry through plans to eliminate the "blind" spots which are proving to be traffic hazards at many street intersections.

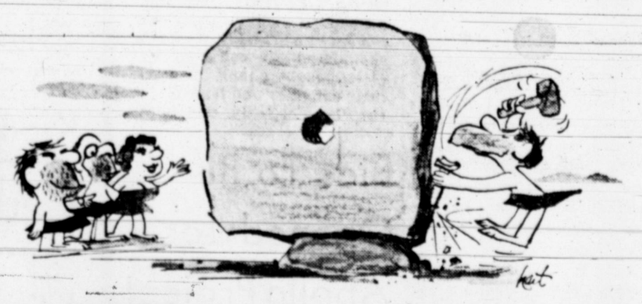

"Both of these programs call for the full cooperation of the public and we feel sure that we will get that cooperation when the situation is fully explained."

Space Chiefs Will Ask for One More Mercury

EDITOR'S NOTE: UPI reporter Charles W. Corddry is touring space and military installations in the southwestern United States. This is the first of several dispatches.

By CHARLES W. CORDDRY

HOUSTON (UPI) — Manned space flight chiefs will propose this week that the United States fly one more Mercury orbital mission—a unique "open end" flight lasting as long as astronaut and spacecraft can safely stay aloft.

If the mission gets Washington's approval, it may eclipse the Russian record of four days in orbit.

If it is turned down, Project Mercury will have ended with L. Gordon Cooper's 34-hour flight of May 15-16, and America will have no more manned space operations until the two-man Gemini capsule is ready to fly in about 18 months.

Directors of the National Aeronautics and Space Administration (NASA) manned space craft center here will present their proposals to a skeptical space administrator, James E. Webb, and other NASA officials in Washington Wednesday and Thursday.

Backstage Struggle

The conferences will climax a backstage struggle within NASA over the need for another Mercury flight. Webb all but ended the project after Cooper's sparking 22.9-orbit flight, but agreed to await the studies that now will be presented by Dr. Robert R. Gilruth, spacecraft center director, and Walter C. Williams, deputy director and Mercury operations chief.

Williams, strongly backed by the astronauts and the Mercury team, will propose a new and unique mission. It would call for a minimum goal of one day in orbit with as many more as the pilot and spacecraft could safely weather.

On America's previous four orbital flights, the maximum time aloft was fixed in advance and the astronauts came home on schedule. Alan B. Shepard Jr., who made the first U.S. suborbital flight and was Cooper's backup pilot, probably would be tapped for the open-end mission now being proposed.

Evidence from Cooper's flight—only half his fuel used and enough oxygen left over for several more days in orbit—shows that the little Mercury capsule might be able to top Soviet cosmonaut Andrian Nikolayev's four-day stint last August.

Unspoken Argument

The prospect of beating the Russian record, however, is largely an unspoken argument for another Mercury flight. So is the prospect that, without Mercury, America will be barren of manned space flights for 18 months during which the Russians may stage some new spectaculars.

To convince Webb, the spacecraft center has mobilized and spelled out in detail some more "down-to-earth" reasons that it believes a new flight necessary.

It also has sought to meet objections about the cost of another flight, the risk to U. S. prestige of an always-possible failure, and the diversion of talent from the Gemini and the Apollo lunar landing program.

Williams and his associates believe another flight would materially advance the newer manned spacecraft projects by contributing vital new data on spacecraft equipment and procedures, and by piling up information on human reaction to prolonged weightlessness.

Another and longer flight, it is argued, could help answer questions about in-space behavior of electrical systems that troubled Cooper.

Public health nursing began in the United States in 1877, according to the Encyclopedia Britannica.

Television In Review

By RICK DU BROW

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — The man you should write to if you don't like what you see on television, E. William Henry, turned up Wednesday night on CBS-TV's "Portrait." His address, by the way, is: Federal Communications Commission, Washington, D.C. He is the boss.

He took over this week from Newton Minow, the FCC chairman who resigned.

At 34, a baseball player is almost washed up. At 34, an actor gets nervous if a sandwich has not yet been named after him in a delicatessen or studio commissary. But at 34, and hardly in his job, Henry already has a reputation.

As reporter Harry Reasoner brought out Wednesday night in the conversation at Henry's Washington home, the young man is said to be tough. He is a Memphis boy, a lawyer, with a slight southern accent, close-cropped dark hair, a straightforward manner and fluent delivery. He was named to the commission as a member last year.

It was a swift-moving talk Wednesday night, crediting the viewer with knowing perhaps a bit more about television intricacies than might be expected, but at least that is an error in the right direction. It was, in other words, pretty civilized talk. Henry said right off he intended to enforce rules, and it didn't sound like flapdoodling.

He said the main thing video could do is have more varied shows in prime-time. Under Reasoner's prodding, he brought home the often forgotten point that broadcasters have not only a personal responsibility, but a legal one, to serve viewers properly—and not only the majority, but all viewers, including those with minority tastes. The half hour, unfortunately, didn't allow for much following up of these points.

The FCC controls individual stations, but Henry said he wouldn't mind a little legislation to get information out of networks as well, which ought to shake up a few people. Anyway, he's the fellow to write to. That's what he told UPI's Louis Cassels in an interview last month. He said to complain first to your station if you feel like complaining, and if you don't get any action, then drop the FCC a note. You might start out by saying: "Dear E. William: I thought you were swell on television last night..."

The Channel Swim: ABC - TV's summer series of outstanding programs produced by local stations, "Focus on America," returns on June 25, and airs Tuesday nights for 12 weeks...NBC-TV has a half-hour special Sunday evening about the attempts of two Negroes to enroll at the University of Alabama.

CBS-TV, which Tuesday presented a picture report via Telstar on the carrying of Pope John's body through Vatican throngs on an open bier, has hopeful plans for a special one-hour program July 10 utilizing the satellite...It would be a sort of world "town meeting," with Dwight D. Eisenhower and Anthony Eden among three or four prominent persons who would answer questions from audiences of interested citizens by way of Telstar...It would mark Telstar's first anniversary.

HUMAN PATHOS — Because he had no money to pay for a funeral, Sebastin Bosco shouldered the coffin of his little daughter and trudged little daughter and trudged to the Pachino, Sicily, cemetery.

Bids To Be Opened for Apollo Project

ALBUQUERQUE (UPI)— Bids will be opened by the Corps of Engineers in Albuquerque June 13 for construction of $5.8 million in test and related facilities at White Sands Missile Range.

The facilities will be for the Apollo Project, the nation's program to land men on the moon.

Time schedules will be shortened on all phases of the construction effort, a Corps spokesman said, due to the critical nature of the work. To be constructed are two test stands with supporting facilities and administrative facilities.

The facilities will be located on the west side of the Organ Mountains, northeast of Las Cruces.

To be opened June 13 are bids for a $2 million test stand with blockhouse control center, ground storage building, underground terminal room, cable tunnels, missile propellant storage and transfer system, control and telemetering, warning, intercom and fire control systems, guardhouse, and associated facilities; and bids on $300,000 in miscellaneous utilities consisting of a water supply system, four miles of power lines, and four miles of service roadway.

Bids for a second $2.5 million test stand will be advertised this month or in July and bids on a $1 million administrative facility will be advertised in August.

All facilities are being built for NASA tests of Apollo before it departs on its lunar voyage — by 1970—and all construction is scheduled to be completed by the end of the fiscal year.

Cities Show Decrease In Four Crimes In 1963

WASHINGTON (UPI)— For the first quarter of 1963, several major cities in Texas showed decreases in four major crimes from the same period last year, the Federal Bureau of Investigation said today.

FBI director J. Edgar Hoover issued a three-month report showing trends in murder, rape, robbery, aggravated assault, burglary, larceny and auto theft.

Nationwide, all crimes against the person, such as murder, aggravated assault and forcible rape, declined. Larceny over $50 rose 12 per cent for the first three months, auto theft was up 9 per cent and burglary rose 6 per cent.

Texas' biggest city, Houston, had a substantial rise in major crimes. Houston murders totaled 27 through the first three months, up six; rapes remained the same at 46, robberies were up from 193 to 248, and aggravated assaults were up from 403 to 561. Burglaries, larcenies and auto thefts were also higher this year than last.

The total of the first four categories for Houston were 882 this year compared with 663 last year's first quarter. Amarillo, Beaumont, Corpus Christi, Fort Worth, Waco and Wichita Falls all had increases in the four categories.

Austin, Dallas, El Paso, Lubbock and San Antonio had decreases in the four major crimes.

For the first quarter, Wichita Falls had no case of rape reported, Beaumont murders were down from three to one, El Paso had one murder listed and rapes were down from six to two and Fort Worth murders were down from five to one.

Sugar Prices Expected to Be Reduced

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The House banking subcommittee was told today that the nation's housewives can expect to find sugar marked down to a normal price level in the near future.

The prediction came from Undersecretary of Agriculture Charles S. Murphy. Sugar should reach 6 to 7 cents a pound again shortly, Murphy told the committee. Last month sugar climbed to 13.2 cents a pound, but then began to slide back.

Murphy said the spiralling sugar price was based on fears of a shortage that had no basis in fact.

Once the Agriculture Department released information showing sugar was not scarce, the price began to drop, Murphy said.

SCHOOL OF ANGLERS—When one wants to fish for "weke" in Hawaii, he can join a group and wade out into the water up to his waist and wait. This group, fishing off Oahu Island near Honolulu, with Diamond Head in the background, did just that, and had lots of fun, some even got fish.

Chicken Halo For Angelic Dads

By GAYNOR MADDOX
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

Many fathers might choose broiled steak with French fried onion rings. But the National Father's Day Committee (we are a little vague as to just what that committee is) asks us to report that they have declared chicken the official main course for Father's Day.

In the center of a hot platter place a "halo" of rice, formed in a ring mold. Surround this "halo" with pieces of crisp oven - fried chicken. Accompany with pan gravy and slices of cranberry jelly.

CHICKEN HALO
(6 servings)

2 broiler-fryer chickens, cut in serving pieces
½ cup flour
2 teaspoons salt
¼ teaspoon pepper
2 teaspoons paprika
½ cup butter or margarine
4 cups hot cooked rice
Hot buttered peas

Combine flour, salt, pepper and paprika. Place chicken pieces on foil or wax paper in single layer. Sift flour mixture over chicken; turn chicken to coat. Melt butter in a 15 x 10-inch shallow baking pan. Place chicken, skin side down, in melted butter. Bake in a hot oven (450-degrees) 30 minutes.

Turn chicken pieces; sprinkle lightly with additional paprika and continue baking 15 to 20 minutes longer. Spoon hot cooked rice into a quart ring mold; press down lightly.

"HALO" OF RICE, filled with peas and surrounded with fried chicken, makes a heavenly Father's Day dish.

YAM-FRANK BAKE recipe is bride's personal property.

Recipe Guarantees To Keep Young Husbands Coming Home For Dinner

By GAYNOR MADDOX
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

This Yam-Frankfurter Bake is certainly a dish to make a hungry young husband pleased with his lot. It belongs in the bride's personal book of recipes that keep a husband coming home to dinner for a long time.

LOUISIANA YAM-FRANKFURTER BAKE
(Serves 4)

3 tablespoons butter or margarine
1 medium onion, sliced
2 eggs, well beaten
3 tablespoons prepared mustard
2 cans (1-pound each) yams, drained and mashed
4 frankfurters

Melt butter over low heat; add onion and cook until tender. Rebasting occasionally, remove onion; reserve drippings. Add eggs, 1 tablespoon mustard and yams to drippings; mix well. Cut frankfurters in half lengthwise; spread cut surfaces with remaining 2 tablespoons mustard. Cut in half crosswise. Turn yam mixture into greased 1-quart casserole. Arrange onion and frankfurters over yam mixture. Bake in 400-degree oven 30 minutes or until lightly browned.

Here's another husband-pleasing dish, very easy to prepare:

YAMS IN APRICOT NECTAR
(Serves 4)

2 tablespoons butter or margarine
1 cup apricot nectar
1 can (1-pound) yams, drained

Melt butter. Add nectar and yams. Cook over low heat 5 minutes, or until thoroughly heated,

Minimum Of Cookery Necessary For Preparation Of Grape-Lemonade Pie

Delectable frozen grape-lemonade concentrate goes into a chiffon mixture, fills a crumb crust to make one of the fluffiest summer pies ever. Thanks to the presence of unflavored gelatine, there is little cookery involved in the filling — only the few minutes required to dissolve the gelatine. Mellow corn-flake crumbs combine with butter and sugar to provide a mellow, crisp shell.

GRAPE-LEMONADE PIE
Corn Flake Crumb Crust

1 cup corn flake crumbs
2 tablespoons sugar
1-3 cup butter

Measure corn flake crumbs, butter and sugar into a 9-inch pie pan. Place in a moderate oven (350 degrees) 5 minutes. Remove from oven and mix thoroughly. Press against bottom and sides of pan. Chill.

Grape Lemonade Filling

2 envelopes unflavored gelatine
1½ cups water
½ cup sugar
⅛ teaspoon salt
1 can (6-ounces) frozen grape lemonade concentrate
1 cup ICY COLD evaporated milk

Sprinkle gelatine on 1 cup of the water in a 2½-quart saucepan to soften. Place over moderate heat, stirring constantly, until gelatine is dissolved. Remove from heat; add sugar and salt and stir until dissolved. Stir in remaining ½ cup water and undiluted concentrate; blend. Chill until mixture is the consistency of unbeaten egg white. Whip chilled evaporated milk in small bowl of electric mixer on high speed until soft peaks form, about 2 minutes. Fold into gelatine mixture. Turn into crumb crust; chill at least 1 hour or until firm. Garnish with fresh fruit or whipped cream.

Chicken Official Main Dish For Dear Old Father

Dads love chicken and because chicken is such a popular bird, the National Father's Day Committee has announced that it is the official main dish for Father's Day, June 16th. Delight the man in your life with crisp Cheese Coated Chicken, a delectable variation on the fried-chicken theme. Serve the bird with chicken's boon companion, tangy canned cranberry sauce.

CHEESE-COATED CHICKEN

1 broiler-fryer chicken, cut in serving pieces
½ cup flour
¼ cup grated Parmesan cheese
1½ teaspoons salt
⅛ teaspoon pepper
½ teaspoon paprika

Combine flour, grated cheese, salt, pepper and paprika. Roll chicken pieces in flour mixture. Have fat deep enough to cover chicken, 3 or 4 inches below top of cooking utensil so fat does not bubble over. Heat to 375 degrees. Preheat fryer basket. Place chicken pieces in single layer in basket. Cook chicken 15 to 20 minutes. Drain on absorbent paper. Serve with canned cranberry sauce. YIELD: 4 servings.

Cottage Cheese Has Fresh Taste

A—Is cottage cheese good if it has a tart flavor?

A—Today's cottage cheese, when of top quality, has a delicate flavor, similar to fresh cream if the cheese is creamed. The curd should taste slightly acid and salty. Also the ideal cottage cheese is firm, yet tender and smooth. Cottage cheese curds whether large or small, should look bright creamy white. The curds should be uniform in size and distinctly separate with a minimum of shattered pieces. When creamed, the creaming mixture should look homogeneous and thick and coat each particle with a glistening layer. Little liquid should flow from the cheese when it is spooned onto a plate.

Q—What dishes are made with tenderloin steak?

A—Chateaubriand: consists of thick steaks cut from the heavy part of the tenderloin, broiled and served with a herb-flavored sauce made of vinegar, butter, eggs and shallots.

Tournedos: thick slices from a tenderloin which has been rolled in suet and tied. The meat is broiled and seasoned to taste, then served with melted butter or perhaps a sauce of wine, eggs and assorted herbs.

Filet Mignon: prepared from thick slices of tenderloin cut from the small end. Because these end slices are often triangular or irregularly shaped, the meat sometimes is flattened or rolled. The slices are wrapped in bacon, broiled until well done outside and rare inside and served with a garnish or sauce.

Bombe Delights Guests

TOP OFF bridal showers with this dessert.

By GAYNOR MADDOX
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

Now is the time of year for "showers" for the bride. This Strawberry Bombe will delight your other guests as well as the bride-to-be.

STRAWBERRY BOMBE
(Serves 8)

Crunch Base

1 cup rolled oats (quick or old fashioned, uncooked)
½ cup firmly - packed brown sugar
1-3 cup melted butter or margarine

Bombe

2 envelopes unflavored gelatin
½ cup cold water
3 cups sliced fresh strawberries
½ cup sugar
1 cup marshmallow creme
Few drops red food coloring
½ pint whipping cream

Heat oven to 350 degrees. For base, toast oats in shallow baking pan in oven for 10 minutes. Add brown sugar and butter; mix thoroughly. Press mixture onto bottom and half way down sides of a 1½-qt. mold.

For bombe, soften gelatin in cold water. Combine 1 cup strawberries, sugar and marshmallow creme in sauce-pan; cook over low heat (may use double boiler) until well blended. Add gelatin, stirring until dissolved. Add remaining strawberries and red food coloring. Cool until mixture mounds, stirring occasionally. Whip cream until stiff; fold into strawberry mixture. Pour over crunch base in mold. Chill several hours or until set.

To serve, dip outside of mold into warm water. Invert mold onto serving plate. Garnish with strawberries.

For Health's Sake Picnic Food Should Be Kept Refrigerated

CHICAGO (UPI) — An inexpensive cooler is a picnicker's best insurance against food spoilage, says the American Institute of Baking (AIB).

Few protein foods are travel-safe without refrigeration, an AIB spokesman added. Those that are include jams, jellies, preserves and certain types of cheese, but not cottage or cream cheese. Both smoked thuringer and hard salami sandwiches with mustard butter travel well.

All other protein foods should be well-chilled when you start, and kept that way in an insulated bag or cooler until mealtime.

If you lack a cooler, the AIB suggests these four sandwich filling recipes that stand up without refrigeration for an extended period.

—For almond apple butter, gradually stir ¼ cup of butter or margarine, melted, into ½ cup of apple butter until well-blended. Add ¼ cup of sliced blanched almonds. Makes ¾ cup, enough for 4 sandwiches.

—A tangy filling is made by blending ¼ cup of soft butter or margarine with 1 teaspoon of prepared mustard, ¼ cup of creamy style french dressing, 8 slices of crisp bacon, crumbled, and 1¼ cups of chopped celery. Makes 1¼ cups, for 7 sandwiches.

—Crunchy filling is a mixture of ¼ cup each of chopped salted peanuts, chili sauce, chopped celery and 1 (5 ounce) jar of sharp cheese spread. Makes 1¼ cups, for 7 sandwiches.

—For nippy cheese filling, blend well together 1 cup (4 ounces) of grated American cheese, 2 tablespoons each of chopped pimiento, chopped ripe olives and chopped green onions, and 1 tablespoon of creamy french dressing. Makes 1 cup, or 5 sandwiches.

Delicious Salad

Accordion tomato salad is as pretty as it is delicious. Make 4 or 5 parallel cuts almost to the bottom of the tomato. Insert slices of cheese or cold meat in each slit. Serve on lettuce and pass your favorite bottled salad dressing or mayonnaise.

WONDERS OF THE UNIVERSE — Mobile fighter satellites "ride herd" on their flock of offensive satellites to protect them from possible destruction by the enemy.

Battlefield in the Sky

EDITOR'S NOTE—This is the first of four special articles by Dr. I. M. Levitt, director of the Fels Planetarium of the Franklin Institute, on the significant and timely theme, "War in Space." Based on the latest scientific information available, the four-part series considers the possibilities of such a war, the manner in which it may be waged, and — perhaps most important—how such a potentially devastating conflict might be avoided.

By DR. I. M. LEVITT

Cold war adversaries on earth may soon look upon space as a potential battlefield in which bizarre battles will be fought with the victor in space recognized as the victor on earth. This is the fond hope entertained by many peoples on the earth. They feel that only in this way, if war does come, can the earth be spared the holocaust of nuclear devastation.

It may well be that the salvation of the earth will depend upon its pursuing war only in space. However, there is always the possibility that before the stage is set for space wars, strenuous objections to reconnaissance satellites and armed or "offensive" satellites might trigger provocative measures to challenge these. It is these measures which can precipitate war on earth.

The dramatic success of our Tiros weather satellites which can telemeter back detailed pictures of the earth's surface indicates that the time is not too distant when satellites may evolve as powerful reconnaissance tools. If to these are added the retrievable Discoverer capsules with their high-resolution photographic load capabilities, no region on earth will be immune to the prying eyes of satellites. As yet, objection to the presence of orbiting reconnaissance vehicles has been, and may continue to be, purely verbal. It may well be that no nation on earth would contemplate triggering a war by undertaking active countermeasures. But of this we cannot be certain.

The significant point is that as far as we know, no armed nuclear satellites have been orbited to pose potential threats to strategic areas on earth, though it must be admitted we know nothing about the functions of the recently orbited Russian Cosmos satellites. The presence of such armed and highly provocative satellites would create an intolerable situation for our military which may result in putting this country squarely in the active anti-satellite business.

Counter-Measures Considered

Some scientists have indicated that the obvious and easiest way of eliminating reconnaissance or offensive satellites would be to spray a cloud of particles into orbit in a direction opposite to that in which an offensive satellite is moving. Other scientists are uncertain whether we can orbit enough particles to insure some type of contact. Assuming that the concentration of particles can be achieved, we then simply wait until the two run into one another.

The offensive satellite will be traveling at about five miles a second and the incoming particles at this altitude must also possess the same speed. Thus the particles would inevitably close on the satellite with a relative speed of almost 10 miles a second. Even a grain of sand traveling at 10 miles a second can damage or destroy vital equipment in the satellite, thus pulling the teeth of the offensive satellite.

Once stable materials like sand, gravel or small stones are in orbit, they will stay there for significant periods, even decades, and thus present a hazard to all future satellites in that orbit, or even traveling through it. The finely divided material would move in an orbital ring which would circle the earth to create an extremely dangerous zone. Because of this condition, stable particles are in disfavor. To overcome this objection, the cloud of particles may be composed of ice or some other material which would sublime under the radiation of the sun. The particles would then be effective and deadly but for a brief period, then dissipate as a harmless gas.

"Killer" Satellites

Another method of destroying offensive satellites would be to blow them up by aiming an explosive device or "killer" mechanism and then launching the device to rendezvous with them in orbit. Once an offensive satellite is launched, its orbit can be computed with sufficient accuracy to enable the killer device to effect a rendezvous, unless the offensive satellite can take evasive action in a capricious manner. We are, however, uncertain as to whether an unmanned offensive satellite can take extensive evasive action and still remain operational.

It is conceivable that if one country is contemplating the launching of offensive satellites the other country can instantly concern itself with the launching of killer satellites which can remain in orbit always in readiness to destroy potential threats to a country. The killer satellites can possess a homing device to draw within lethal distance of an offensive satellite and remain there until the offensive satellite undergoes a change of course which will start it down to an earth target. At that instant the killer satellite can be automatically activated to perform its mission. While this method appears to possess the virtues of simplicity, some problems of inordinate complexity are involved in making it operational.

Now that orbiting astronauts have discovered they can maneuver their vehicles, other methods present themselves for the destruction of offensive satellites. By drawing close to an offensive satellite, the astronaut can subject it to radiations of various types to render electronic and mechanical components inoperative. He can incinerate the offensive satellite by using mirrors to concentrate solar radiation on its surface. He can also destroy the delicate components by using an explosive shell. An orbiting astronaut in a maneuverable satellite apparently can dispose of any threat in the sky.

One question needs answering: is a country going to sit idly by and watch its offensive satellites shot out of the sky? And, if it isn't, what course can that country take?

Space Law Doesn't Exist

At this time international law applicable to space is nonexistent Today, the airspace over a country is considered inviolate and any violation brings instant retaliation — if such retaliation lies within the capability of that country. There exist no laws governing reconnaissance or armed satellites. If a country decides to take extreme measures against offensive satellites and these satellites are in turn, protected, there is an excellent chance that a shooting war will occur — in space.

Unless the cold war ceases on earth, this observer can foresee a complex of offensive satellites herded by a group of watchful astronauts in fighter satellites — much like shepherds herding a flock of sheep. Intelligence from computer stations on earth can signal the approach of satellite destroyers. When the enemy approaches to destroy the offensive satellites, the astronauts can maneuver to either disable the destroyers, in which event the offensive satellites will remain intact; or the fighters will be shot down, in which event the offensive satellites will be inactivated.

The objective of one nation to establish and maintain offensive satellites and the other to eliminate them provides the "makings" of a hot space war. However, this observer believes that once the mission is completed, be it the maintenance of offensive satellites or their destruction, the war in the sky is over and need not spill over to the surface of the earth.

From the above it must be realized that war in space is simply an extension of conflict in a vertical direction. The only difference is the degree of mobility. Military men will appreciate the fact that the association of mobility with maneuverability to evade offensive measures is not necessarily present in space.

Until such time as we are certain of never pursuing a war in space we must be prepared for a hot war on earth. In this war all the technological advances and skills mobilized in the space race may be used. Orbiting bombs in special orbits, superbombs to be exploded at high altitudes and natural bombs from deep space may be the weapons of the future.

AN INDEPENDENT FREEDOM NEWSPAPER

We believe that all men are equally endowed by their Creator, and not by any government, with the gift of freedom, and that it is every man's duty to God to preserve his own liberty and respect the liberty of others. Freedom is self-control, no more, no less.

To discharge this responsibility, free men, to the best of their ability, must understand and apply to daily living the great moral guides expressed in the Ten Commandments, the Golden Rule and the Declaration of Independence.

This newspaper is dedicated to furnishing information to our readers so that they can better promote and preserve their own freedom and encourage others to see its blessings. For only when man understands Freedom and is free to control himself and all he produces, can he develop to his utmost capabilities in harmony with the above moral principles.

Tragedy Or Delay

By the numbers there are bound to be drowning victims among the millions who flock to summer's sunlit waters. But the toll can be kept down by observing two cardinal rules of artificial respiration:

Start respiration IMMEDIATELY. Don't wait for anything. Send someone for help, but don't wait for it to arrive.

Keep up your artificial respiration efforts. Cases are on record of breathing starting again after a lapse of many minutes, when the rescuer kept steadily at work forcing air in and out of the lungs

American Medical Association, which makes these points, further points out that American Red Cross and other groups offer courses in artificial respiration, especially the mouth-to-mouth method which almost anyone can practice.

Finally, if you swim where trained supervision is not available, be sure someone in your party knows the mouth-to-mouth artificial respiration technique. It wouldn't hurt a bit for YOU to learn it.

And don't swim alone.

Get-In-The-M-o-o-d—

Of all the various special days, weeks, and months, few have so valid a reason to call for our attention as the "June is Dairy Month" observance.

In 1963, milk production may reach a level of about 126 BILLION pounds — enough to supply every man, woman and child in the United States with about a quart of milk a day. So says Agriculture Secretary Orville L. Freeman.

Every state is a milk producer and dairying accounts for about 14 per cent of total farm income, which makes dairying a significant factor in all our lives, though we seldom pause to think about it.

How do you celebrate dairy month? Go milk a cow? Not at all. The ritual is much easier and very easy to take: Haul out the grocery list, consider the numerous dairy-originated delights you seldom try, and grace the table with these treats all during June.

You might even go buy a bottle of casein glue to make home repairs. Casein is a milk by-product and sticks like the dickens for various uses.

You don't have to have pull with Bossy to celebrate Dairy Month. All the fixin's for observance are at your nearest food store.

SOCIALIST PATTERNS

Passion for Conformity Dominates 'Liberals'

By GEORGE BOARDMAN, Ph. D.

You'll have to hand it to the Socialistic conglomerate. Which reminds me that I'm mighty glad I coined that expression or do you think some imbecile will ask me if they're card carrying members? The socialists never stop selling and they utilize every available method of communication, even the comic strips which aren't even comical. Take a look at this line: "Where else can a little kid like me just walk in and for absolutely nothing be allowed to borrow a book like this one about Sam Snead?" The final balloon encloses this. "You're right, libraries are wonderful".

Then there was the young fellow who asked an elderly gentleman if he was going catfishing. The elderly gentleman told the young man he hadn't missed a day since his retirement. The young man says that's what he'd like and the fisherman says, "Fishing every day. A social security check every month". Finally, the comic strip artist puts these words into the mouth of the elderly gentleman, "Poor devil! His youth is against him".

These are recent examples of current pro-socialism propaganda. I've been told that more adults read comic strips than editorial pages but if an adult reads both, the examples I've used give you a good idea of what the columnist who believes in freedom is bucking against, with the odds stacked heavily against him.

I haven't looked at a comic strip in a good many years but lately my wife has been reading odds and ends from comic strip balloons and most of the time I haven't been as attentive as I would be if she was reading a news or editorial item. Finally she shoved the items I've just reported to you under my nose with the command, "Read these darned things. What are they doing in this newspaper?" She's right, of course. You'd expect to find this kind of stuff in something edited and published by Norman Thomas but Mr. Thomas has never bothered with anything of this kind. There's no need for him to bother: plenty of private enterprise newspapers publish this kind of hog wash and pay for it!

I don't know much about the newspaper business but I've read a great deal about freedom of the press and I suppose newspapers or the owners, publishers and editors of newspapers believe the socialists deserve all the breaks they hand to the socialists on a silver platter. I agree with them. Freedom includes the right to cut your own throat or starve or take a flying jump at the moon.

On the other hand, freedom of the press doesn't seem to include much in the way of encouragement for comic strip artists who might want to put forth a little stern opposition to socialism while trying to be funny about the whole thing.

After spending too much time thinking about this comic strip-pro-socialism propaganda, for several days, I haven't found anything resembling a good solution to the problem of combatting this facet of the con game of socialism. I believe a good many publishers and editors and owners of newspaper properties may not glance at the comic strips. It's entirely possible that my expression of opinion on this subject may motivate some concentrated attention on the matter and make no mistake about this, my wife will continue to scan the comic strips and call socialist propaganda to my attention and I will report a few examples to you from time to time.

"Oh, they're just comic strips. Nobody pays attention to the comics." I can hear this kind of conversation without a hearing aid all the way from our ghost town residence. Don't try to fool yourselves, comic strips have as much impact on children as text books and even more impact on adults who haven't bothered to learn to think. I've listened to barber shop comments on the antics of comic strip characters for too many years. Sure — you can combat comic strip socialist propaganda by teaching your children what socialism is and its degrading influence but will you?

Good luck and good health to you, in Freedom.

Nothing Done About Washington Crime

A new kind of news "blackout" is being observed in Washington. The lengthy and disgraceful details of beatings, rape, robberies, assault and housebreaking, even murder, which has made Washington the most dangerous city in the United States in which to live or visit, is being kept out of the news. On whose edict or request? Does the President and his brother Bobby, our attorney general, find it disconcerting to have these facts brought to the attention of the public, when instead they hope to focus national attention on what they term the lack of law enforcement and the abrogation of the civil rights of some professional agitators who have gone from the North into such cities as Birmingham, Ala., and other communities down South?

In recent months some national publications and no few newspapers have presented graphically and apparently all too accurately the shocking increase in crime in Washington and the District of Columbia. U.S. News & World Report devoted much space to the state of affairs in the nation's capital. It printed the crime statistics of the city, which presently has a Negro population in excess of 56 per cent which as the police records attest, accounts for in excess of 85 per cent of the city's crimes. For its size and population, Washington has become the nation's first in criminal assaults, second in robberies, sixth in housebreaking and fourth in murders. As certain of the congressmen have stated for the record in recent weeks, it is not safe for a woman to walk about at night in Washington. A sensible man will take a taxi to the very door of the building or hotel he wishes to visit. Croups of male and female thugs roam the streets. Recently Congress authorized the Washington police to purchase an additional number of trained dogs to accompany police on their nightly and even on their daily rounds.

But, strangely enough, the only time the press carries pictures of police dogs holding some lawbreaker at bay is when used by police in some southern city where organized "peace leaders" endeavor to stage parades without the formality of getting the necessary legal permits or by violating some other city ordinance. The pictures of police dogs straining on the leash and keeping rioters at a distance during some professionally incited riot in a southern city are duplicated nightly in Washington — except it is an individual criminal or pair of them that are caught in the nation's capital. Why are not these daily and nightly incidents of the breakdown of law enforcement at the door of the White House not publicized as are the alleged failure of police in other cities to maintain law and order?

The reason is shockingly clear. The administration cannot make political capital out of the disgraceful situation in Washington. On the contrary it is probable that with the summer tourist season coming, the hotels and other businesses in Washington strongly oppose publicizing the lawlessness in that city. The President and Atty. Gen. Bobby, break into print about the necessity of providing safety for professional "peace agitators" and their followers who travel from state to state, but they are strangely silent as regards the deplorable situation in Washington. They do not warn people of the danger they face if visiting our capital city.

Congressman Frank J. Becker, N.Y., inserted in the Congressional Record, May 8, a full - page advertisement which appeared in two Washington newspapers, paid for as a "public service" by Plain Old Pearson's liquor annex. It tells in detail of the voices that are raised to "protect the criminal" but are never heard protesting the violence and terror that is the nightly occurrence in Washington. It tells of an employe of the firm who with his pregnant wife was attacked by hoodlums. The woman was knocked down and spent three days in a hospital. Was any sympathy expressed for her? None. The thugs were probably just "misunderstood youths," which points the need for more Peace Corps coddling. When the President and Bobby do something about crime at the White House door, we will credit them with sincerity.

Allen-Scott Report

Diplomatic Shifts Under Consideration to Boost Administration's Foreign Policy Record — Lodge to Italy?

ROBERT ALLEN — PAUL SCOTT

WASHINGTON — President Kennedy is closely checking up on the large corp of ambassadors he has appointed to determine where it can be "strengthened" in preparation for the stormy 1964 election battle.

Graphically illustrative of the kind of important changes he is considering is naming Henry Cabot Lodge, 1960 Republican vice presidential candidate and former Ambassador to the United Nations, as Ambassador to Italy.

Giving Lodge this prestige diplomatic post was suggested by Christian Herter, Secretary of State in the Eisenhower cabinet and now the Kennedy administration's special trade representative. His proposal was instantly and enthusiastically supported by the inner White House group as a major political "coup" to bolster the administration's sagging bipartisan foreign policy.

The President is sounding out influential Democratic congressional leaders, particularly in the Senate, where Lodge's appointment would have to be confirmed, on how they feel about it. The Rome post becomes vacant in the fall when Ambassador G. Frederick Reinhardt will be shifted to another country.

Another diplomatic switch under consideration would send Ambassador William Attwood, who once praised Castro as a great leader, from Guinea to Indonesia, now one of the most important diplomatic assignments in the Far East. Also, Ambassador David Bruce is due to return from London early in 1964 to take over a top job in the State Department.

These and other diplomatic changes are being triggered by a series of backstage "surveys" that Ralph A. Dugan, special White House assistant, has submitted to the President. Dugan's particular staff function is to handle job appointments.

Made at the express request of the President, these studies cover the activities of more than 70 ambassadors named by him since taking office. Dugan's reports are designed to show how these Kennedy selections have fared, and whether they should be retained where they are, moved somewhere else, or dropped.

LOOKING AROUND — One non-career diplomat now in Washington awaiting reassignment has some ideas of his own where that should be.

James Loeb, former Ambassador to Peru, is trying to induce the President to send him to Bolivia, and to shift Ambassador Ben S. Stephansky, now in La Paz, to Mexico.

According to one of Dugan's surveys, Loeb made a grand tour of U.S. embassies in Latin America before determining that he liked La Paz best. An embassy official there reported that Loeb, during his visit, even suggested a number of changes in the furnishings.

NO DEPORTATIONS — A top official of the Immigration Service has good news for Cuban refugees taking part in anti-Castro raids.

While it is still official policy to prohibit these raids, refugees caught taking part in them will not be deported.

That's the reassuring word Mario T. Noto, Associate Immigration Commissioner, has given the House Immigration Subcommittee which is investigating reports that refugee raiders had been threatened with deportation.

Noto was closely questioned on this by Representative Michael A. Feighan, D-O., acting chairman.

"Are anti-Castro activities, including raids on Cuba, by refugees now in this country grounds for their deportation?" he demanded.

"No," replied Noto. "The activities you describe would not be grounds for deportation. That's our policy."

"I am glad to hear it," said Feighan. "Deportation of these refugees to Cuba would be tantamount to a death sentence. Is there any truth to reports that Dr. Mario Cardona, former leader of the Cuban Revolutionary Council, was threatened with deportation?"

"I am not qualified to answer that question," replied Noto.

Later, Attorney General Robert Kennedy sent a memorandum to Feighan flatly denying that anyone in the Justice Department had threatened Cardona with deportation.

After reading this statement, Feighan shot back another inquiry to the Attorney General on whether anyone in the Kennedy Administration had made such a threat. The latest word Feighan has from the Justice Department was that his sharp letter had been forwarded to the State Department for reply.

FOREIGN FLASHES — Attorney General Robert Kennedy has promised a House Judiciary Subcommittee that federal authorities will "detain for questioning" three Americans now broadcasting anti-U.S. propaganda from Havana, if and when they try to return to the U.S. . . . Judiciary committeemen are pressing for speedy House action on a bill extending the provisions of the Sedition law to acts committed by U.S. citizens on foreign soil, including Cuba. Under existing law, citizens can be prosecuted only if hostile acts are committed within the U. S. The bill is pending before the Rules Committee, which is expected to act on it shortly. . . . A congressional committee is quietly looking into the ransom negotiations that freed 1,113 Bay of Pigs prisoners in exchange for more than $50 million in medicine and food. The House Immigration Subcommittee has asked Attorney General Robert Kennedy for an opinion on whether James B. Donovan, New York lawyer who conducted the ransom negotiations with Castro, violated the Logan Act. Under that law, private citizens cannot negotiate with foreign governments unless acting expressly on behalf of the U.S. government. In the past, administration officials have vigorously denied that Donovan was serving as a government agent.

A thought for the day—French author Rabelais said in his will: "I owe much; I have nothing; I give the rest to the poor."

Because of the growing interest in advanced education, the Harvard College Placement Office is now known as the Office for Graduate and Career Plans. No longer do the vast majority of its graduates go directly into business or industry, but instead they go to graduate school. Liberal arts colleges report a similar trend as evidenced by the fact that 60 per cent of the graduates of Ivy League colleges plan immediate graduate study.

Before drinking cups were invented in the middle of the 18th century, the beverage was always served in deep saucers. But even after cups were available, men and women continued saucering their coffee during the 1800's. Then etiquette came along and the conventions of the new social age ruled you were not civilized unless you used the cup. . .There are 20 paragraphs in the Declaration of Independence and the second one is the longest, containing over 400 words.

Two of the swiftest pitchers of 1963 are Steve Barber of the Baltimore Orioles and Sandy Koufax of the Los Angeles Dodgers.

Farm and Labor Surpluses Keep Capitol Hill Agog

By PETER EDSON

WASHINGTON (NEA) — The conflict between city and country is responsible for much of the controversy over some of the more important legislative proposals befor Congress this year.

A dozen of the largest metropolitan areas, bogged down by their own phenomenal growth like dinosaurs in quicksand, are clamoring help from the federal government to solve their mass transportation problems. Rural area congressmen couldn't care less.

Conversely, American farmers who have just rejected strict government controls over wheat production now look to Congress to save them from greatly reduced prices next year and bail them out with a new subsidy. City congressmen, tired of appropriating millions to support prices on unneeded farm production, would just as soon let farmers stew in their own sweat.

There is a possibility here that the two sides might get together in a mutual back-scratching hug that would give both what they want at the expense of the U.S. Treasury. That has been done before. But it is admittedly no way to solve problems.

The great shift of U.S. population from country to city that is responsible for this conflict has been going on for more than a century.

In 1860 the United States was 20 per cent urban, 80 per cent rural. In 1960 it was 30 per cent rural, 70 per cent urban, almost a complete reversal. This trend continues.

A forthcoming Twentieth Century Fund study, "Farms and Farmers in an Urban Age," goes into this problem in depth. The author is Edward Higbee, former Department of Agriculture conservationist, now professor of land utilization, University of Rhode Island. He points out that the number of American farms has dropped from 6.8 million in 1935 to fewer than 3.7 million now and is probably headed for under a million by 1980.

"Since agriculture has developed a highly effective production machine and its unneeded human resources have been shifted to the city," Higbee writes that, "America has been confronted by two kinds of surpluses. In the country is a surplus of food. In the city is a surplus of labor. . .

"Thus far the federal budget to relieve the problem of farm surpluses has been more generous than the federal budget to relieve the urban problems of surplus people."

This development has been responsible for a political realignment in America. Prosperous farmers have been traditionally businessmen and Republican. But their numbers are decreasing. In contrast, the city dweller has since the great depression shifted more and more to the Democratic side, particularly in the lower income brackets. Their number is increasing.

One of the major problems of the Republican Party today is how to capture a larger share of the urban vote, as distinguished from the higher income suburban vote which is largely GOP.

This brings up still another problem — reapportionment.

Making a first public report on research done by Nan Markel of University of Chicago, Dr. Philip M. Hauser, former assistant director of the Census Bureau, has found that the population density of a congressional district influences the congressman's voting record.

On 12 key issues before the last Congress, three-fourths of over 100 congressmen from districts with a population density of 1,000 to 50,000 to the square mile voted "liberal" consistently. The remainder, who represented the more prosperous districts, voted conservative more than half the time. But the denser the population, the more liberal the voting record.

In contrast, among 200 congressmen from districts with fewer than 100 persons to the square mile, conservative votes outnumbered liberal votes 3-to-2. And nearly half of the conservatives voted that way all the time.

Carrying this study into the state government field, Dr. Hauser declared in a Stanford University lecture that under-representation of rural areas had undoubtedly kept the governments of each of the 50 states as well as that of the nation more conservative than the people. And he predicted that the Supreme Court's decision on state reapportionment cases "may produce a most dramatic economic and social change" in the United States.

BYE, BYE, DEFICIT!

There have been a great deal of concern expressed over the spending habits of government, whatever the administration. All sorts of pleas for fiscal sanity have been made. Yet Congress and the executive branch continue to spend this nation into bankruptcy.

Leave it to comedian Jackie Mason to come up with the most hopeful solution yet.

Mason reasons this way: Congress and the President run the government. The government is losing money. What corporation would sit still for a bunch of executives who kept losing money? None. The answer in government? Eliminate salaries for solons and Presidents. Put 'em on commission!

The South American country of Peru conducts an important experiment in Democracy this coming Sunday June 9.

Two million Peruvian voters then will select a new president, two vice presidents and the total membership of Congress after nearly a year of military rule.

But this is not the only reason the election is important. It also will test the good intent of the military rulers who have promised that it will be free.

The background is this:

In elections last June, the man receiving the greatest number of votes was Peru's most controversial political character, Victor Raul Haya De La Torre.

Leans Left

Haya De La Torre is a man with a Napoleonic face and figure who heightens his resemblance to the famous Corsican by brushing his forelock down over his forehead. As founder and leader of Peru's American Popular Revolutionary Action, or APRA, party, he spent years in exile and more years hiding out from Peruvian police in the Columbian Embassy in Lima.

He is considered a leftist of the same school as President Romulo Betancourt of Venezuela and President Juan Bosch of the Dominican Republic.

In Peru, he is suspect by the military and rightwing political groups. Prior to last year's elections, military leaders vowed publicly that if elected he never would be permitted to take office.

After the elections, the military charged voting frauds and seized the government.

Same Men Run

This year Haya De La Torre once more is a candidate.

In fact, all major candidates are the same as a year ago. The other two are Fernando Belaunde Terry, a professor of architecture and enthusiastic explorer of Peru's Andes mountains and jungles, and former President Manuel Prado.

Belaunde heads the Popular Action Party and Prado's organization is called the Prado Union.

Neither has anything like the organization of Haya De La Torre's APRA party, which enjoys strong support from labor.

Impartial observers in Peru say the military junta there has done a good job in preparing for the coming elections.

New Rules Enacted

A new election law has been written and is conceded to be non-discriminatory. A new registration of voters, with literacy a requirement, was carried out during the last year.

In Lima late last March this correspondent interviewed all three major candidates and then submitted questions to Gen. Nicholas Lindley, head of the ruling Junta. Among the questions was one which asked if the junta would permit Haya De La Torre to take office now if elected.

The reply was non-commital. It said the question was "not pertinent" inasmuch as the junta had made no statement on the subject.

All three candidates are campaigning on platforms of anti-Communism and cooperation with the Alliance for Progress.

Differences primarily are ones of detail.

"Look at it this way—it's all part of President Kennedy's physical fitness program!"

The Lighter Side

Travel Service Travels

By DICK WEST

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Capitol Hill is a major tourist attraction, but I doubt it would currently be recommended by the U.S. Travel Service.

Six officials of the service made a trip up the Hill recently to testify before a House appropriations subcommittee.

Judging from the transcript of the hearing, which was released this week, I imagine they now regard the place as having something in common with the Black Hole of Calcutta.

The Travel Service, created within the Commerce Department to attract foreign visitors to the U.S.A. is seeking a $4.2 million appropriation to carry on this work in fiscal 1964.

However, there appeared to be some question in the minds of the subcommittee members as to whether the program thus far had operated with optimum results.

Questions Come Early

Service director Voit Gilmore was barely two paragraphs deep in his prepared statement, or travelogue, before he was interrupted by subcommittee chairman John J. Rooney, a far-flung Democrat from New York.

Did Gilmore, asked Rooney, spend $60,000 to open an office in Tokyo after being advised by the U.S. Embassy there that prospects for increased Japanese travel abroad were rather slim?

"Yes, sir," said Gilmore.

And did the number of Japanese traveling to the United States then drop from 19,872 to 17,972? Gilmore confirmed that it did.

The subcommittee next trod heavily and at length upon an $1,860 carpet purchased in Hong Kong for the Tokyo office.

"Is this carpet red?" inquired Rooney. "It sounds like a real red carpet."

The color was not established, but since it was selected by an a $32,140 fee, we may assume that it blended well with the other furnishings.

Still Unstained

Rep. Frank T. Bow, R-Ohio, wanted to know whether anyone spilled champagne on the carpet at a reception marking the opening of the office. Gilmore assured him that it was unstained.

It next developed that the travel service printed 50 manuals of operations, 25 in gold-stamped binders, at a cost of $202 per copy.

They were sent to overseas directors, but Gilmore conceded that some had never read it.

The subcommittee likewise took a keen interest in the 200 sets of $10 cuff-links that the service purchased for good will gifts to persons of influence abroad.

Rooney figured out that if the expenses of the travel service were matched against the increase in foreign visitors it would amount to $33 a person.

Perhaps it would be better, he said, just to give them $33 apiece and let them spend it themselves.

RETAINS EXEMPTION

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The House Ways & Means Committee turned down an administration request Tuesday for tighter restrictions on the $100 duty-free allowance given U.S. tourists returning from abroad. The committee approved without change a two-year extension of the existing allowance.

CUT DRUG PRICE

KALAMAZOO, Mich. (UPI)— The Upjohn Co. has cut the price of orinase, its oral anti-diabetic pill to retail druggists by 7.6 per cent. The company said it hoped the reduction would be passed on to the 750,000 diabetics who use the drug.

Job Outlook Bright for '63 College Graduates

This year's bumper crop of college graduates will find jobs plentiful, while many less skilled workers remain unemployed, according to Brunswick A. Bagdon, Southern Regional Director of the U. S. Department of Labor's Bureau of Labor Statistics.

Greater demand for highly trained manpower reflects the continuing change in the occupational pattern of our labor force and the increasing need for education, Bagdon said. In the past decade, the professional, technical, and kindred group — which requires the most education and training — has been the fastest growing. During the 1960's, employment in this group is expected to increase more than twice as fast as overall employment.

The 1963 college graduating class is the largest in history — about 440,000 will receive bachelor's degrees and more than 95,000 will earn higher degrees. Along with more job opportunities than last year, the 1963 graduates can expect higher starting salaries, the statistician said. For graduates with a bachelor's degree, salaries are 3 to 5 per cent higher in most fields ranging from $4,500 to $7,200 per year. Salaries will be higher for those with advanced degrees.

Demand varies according to the field of specialization. Most sought are graduates with degrees in engineering, physics, mathematics, and accounting. Students in these fields can expect to receive salaries at the upper end of the range, while offers to liberal arts graduates tend to be lower, he explained.

In the South — as in most parts of the country — teachers are still in short supply, Bagdon said. "Approximately 130,000 more new kindergarten and elementary school teachers will be needed in the nation this year. At the secondary school level, opportunities are best for teachers specializing in mathematics, science, home economics, art, music, physical education for girls, and some foreign languages. Starting salaries for beginning teachers range from $400 to $450 a month," he added.

In most medical professions, the number graduating is insufficient to fill existing shortages, Bagdon said. "Many more dentists, especially in the South and West, and physicians and nurses are needed. There is also widespread demand for veterinarians, pharmacists, medical technologists, therapists, dietitians, and medical record librarians," he noted.

Excellent opportunities exist for well-trained librarians in all parts of the country and in all kinds of libraries. Especially in demand are librarians with training in science and technology, according to Bagdon.

For the biological and social sciences, emphasis is on advanced training. Others will find opportunities as junior professional assistants, technicians, or trainees.

Business administration and liberal arts graduates are in demand for employment as sales representatives and sales and management trainees. Starting salaries for most of these jobs range between $425 and $550 a month.

This year's college graduates will find a variety of job openings in the Federal Government — most urgently needed are physicists, chemists, mathematicians, and engineers in all fields. Those majoring in liberal arts, business administration, public administration, biological sciences and social sciences are being recruited for trainee positions leading to careers in management, administrative and professional areas. Graduates interested in receiving training in any one of about 60 career fields should take the Federal-Service Entrance Examination, the statistician concluded.

NEW YORK (UPI) — Certain states diverted about $400 million of last year's record $5.5 billion in state highway-user taxes to non-highway uses, according to the American Petroleum Institute.

European Autos

NEW YORK (UPI) — Europe's automobile industry is facing a "moment of truth," the magazine American Machinists says. Declining sales to the United States in 1961 and tougher competition developing in the Common Market have cast doubt as to whether Europe can ever approach the auto production capacity of the United States, the magazine said.

Even French Need Lovelorn Advice

PARIS (UPI) — Foreigners may think that French lovers are wise and all-seeing. But the popularity of advice to the lovelorn columns in newspapers and magazines here shows the French have their share of the problems of "amour."

One French "Dorothy Dix" is Marcelle Segal who gives out advice in the womens magazine "Elle" with a unique Gallic flavor.

A 60-year-old grandmother, for example, wrote that her husband, 63, had acquired a mistress. Although the couple quarrelled over the other woman, the husband continued to have his household of three, or "menage a trois," as they call it in this country.

The wife asked columnist Segal, "Should I divorce him?"

The husband is "without strength" so "you must have strength," Mmes. Segal replied.

"Decide which you prefer: an amiable husband, a comfortable life, an appearance of happiness. Or a divorce, solitude, a broken family, the rupture of 35 years of cherished habits.

"Which is the least worse? You are too realistic not to see that in divorcing him, you punish yourself. Let the poor fool go his way—he can't go far."

A letter from a 24-year-old wife said she suspected her husband was in love with her best friend.

"Your husband is perhaps faithful, your friend probably loyal," the advice was. "Do not search to make your suspicions a certainty by playing detective. You will be happier. Furthermore, it's a good practice, whether they are faithful or not."

Then there was a letter from a young man who had been in love with a beautiful girl in Paris for six months.

But "one day in front of a night club on the Rue Pigalle I recognized her in a photo as a strip-tease dancer."

"This was a shock for me. . ." the anguished man wrote.

Mme. Segal replied to "go to see the cabaret show to see if it is she."

"If it isn't, the incident is closed," she wrote. "If it is she, I will say to you only that foolish jobs are done often by brave people. I remember one nude dancer who, when dressed, was a modest girl, a good wife and mother. She wore her costume of Eve with seriousness. It was her work outfit!"

France has nearly 6.25 million registered motor vehicles.

NOT SO PRACTICAL—Getting a shave is a tradition that all bridegrooms go through before the wedding ceremony, but an ax isn't part of the tradition. It was the outcome of a practical joke played on barber Osman Turan, left, who had his razor taken. Mahmut Ergene, the groom, right, had to hold very still, and his friends in the small town of Uzonkopru, Turkey, piled money on him, also part of the tradition.

CONSTRUCTIVE—Modern lines of cables and giant steel arches blend to form a bridge in West Germany.

Hairpieces Add Fillip To Summer Tresses

By ALICIA HART
Newspaper Enterprise Beauty Editor

Scoffers who said wigs would be hair today and gone tomorrow (pardon the pun) are rather quiet now.

If you have been toying with the idea of being fitted for a wig or selecting a hairpiece, you'll be happy to learn that the demand for synthetic and human hairpieces causes just as much furor internationally as it does around your breakfast table.

Your growing interest in wigs and switches has set off price wars and brought about unfair competition practices, as well as some use of inferior hair. Preferred hair is the coarser, thicker, heavier European hair and some manufacturers now contract with peasant women to "grow hair" for them. Others seek their product in the Far East.

Whatever the source, these convenient additions to your grooming wardrobe are here to stay. Max Miller, president of one of the largest wig companies, believes the trend is to higher priced wigs (over $200) and expensive smaller hairpieces ($45-$100).

You will find the hairpieces a big help in solving the problem of what to do with your hair this summer. Since you are outdoors more, often swimming and sunning, your hair takes a beating.

Summer hairdos are shorter for cool comfort and therefore pose a problem when an elaborate evening coiffure is needed.

In this case, you will find a switch or wiglet will help you create a new, formal hairdo in a matter of minutes.

You may find a long switch best for you if you have medium length hair. Comb your hair smoothly toward the back and pin it up as you might before putting on a bathing cap. Pin your switch in place. You can either wind the switch into a French twist or braid it.

Wiglets are smaller hairpieces which add height and width to a hair style that is combed back from the face at the top and sides. Arrange the wiglet in the style you desire and pin it in place.

What to do with tousled hair after a busy day outdoors. These models solve this old problem with a switch and wiglet. After smoothing her hair to the back (left), the model pins it in place and creates a new hairdo by braiding her switch of human hair (switches usually are 18 to 22 inches long) and wearing it as a topknot. To add height and some width to her coiffure, the model (right) uses a wiglet (usually 8 inches of hair). She combs and pins her hair in place and arranges the wiglet with elaborate curls at the side. A wiglet also helps in creating formal hairdos.

Girl Scout Camp Now Open To Non-Scouts

There is still room for a few more girls at the two week established camp. The camp will be August 4-15 at Camp Kiowa, east of Canadian. The camp will still take applications from either Girl or Non-Girl Scouts. Applications will be accepted at the council office, Box 459, Pampa, Texas.

The waterfront program is a special feature of the camp. Swimming includes an instructional period and a practice swim period each day under the strict supervision of qualified waterfront people. Boating will be a part of the program, if a camper can swim well enough to pass the required test. A camper may progress enough while at camp to be able to boat before the camp is over. The boats are row boats and canoes—almost impossible to sink them.

There will be three units for experienced campers. The pioneer Unit is being offered for experienced campers wishing to practice their campcraft skills and learn new ones. Emphasis will be on pioneer camping and learning skills needed to qualify for a Roundup experience. An out of camp trip will be planned to a nearby outpost site with camp pack-out equipment.

The Aquatic Unit is being offered for experienced campers wishing to practice and learn skills of survival in the out-of-doors. An out of camp trip will be planned to a nearby outpost site to practice the survival skills learned.

The program for the inexperienced campers will be basic camp skills and a program designed by the girls to include all the things they would like to do while at camp. Some of the skills, besides swimming and boating, are: singing and folk games, knot craft, lashing, fire building and safety, cooking, conservation, archery, ceremonies and out-trips. Unit program is planned by the campers with the guidance of qualified, trained counselors. Each unit plans and conducts special programs for the entire camp during the session. Such program includes campfires, flag ceremonies, and Scouts' Own. A camp council, elected by the girls, coordinate the plans for all-camp events.

For a camp folder or further camp information, please contact the Girl Scout office.

Scouting Scoops

Now that the school year has drawn to a close and our pace of living has slowed down a bit, we have a little more time to think about what will be taking place . . . graduation, camping and program change to mention a few.

First, we mentioned graduation. Three of our Senior Scouts graduated from Pampa High this year. These are Chris Grayson, Sally Paden and Susan Watson. We will remember them always. Let's see what some of their accomplishments have been.

Chris Grayson has been in Girl Scouting for eight years and has earned her five-point pin. She was also one of the eight girls who represented Quivira Girl Scout Council at the 1962 Roundup in Vermont. Last summer, she attended a Counselor-In-Training course and in the fall, she has helped several younger Girl Scout troops. Chris plans to attend West Texas State University in Canyon.

Sally Paden is one of the few scouts, who has been in scouting since the first year of Brownies. This means that she has been a part of the local scout movement for 10 years. Sally has earned her curved bar and five-point pin. She also was one of our delegates to the 1962 Roundup. Upon graduation from high school, she plans to attend the University of Texas in Austin.

Susan Watson has been a Girl Scout for eight years and she has also earned her five-point pin. In her school, she was chosen for the Who's Who Award in foreign languages. Susan will attend Texas Technological College in Lubbock, where her major will be education.

The training these girls have received in Girl Scouting will influence them throughout their lives. Each and every Girl Scout in the Quivira Girl Scout Council wishes them happiness and all the luck in the world!

Among our adult workers, there are some who will be leaving Quivira Council. One of the best-loved is Mrs. Brantly Hudson. Her husband has been the Boy Scout Executive Director here for several years and this year has accepted a new post in Beaumont. They have three daughters; the two oldest have been in Scouting for several years. We will certainly miss this wonderful couple, who have put so much of their time in Boy and Girl Scouting. Beaumont is really a luck town to be receiving such a fine family!

At this point, we should stop and appreciate those who will not be leaving. First, let us remember our office staff. Our council would not be able to thrive without the help we receive through the office. Marian Osborne, our executive director, is head co-ordinator. She meets with the president and sees that everything is running smoothly.

Quivira Council is divided into three districts and for each one there is a district advisor. Bea Decker is advisor for District I; Celia Fowler for District II and Pat Dial for District III. Those workers spend most of their time out with the people . . . giving training courses and general advise.

Also working in the office, there is Fern Dawson, the secretary, who has been with the scouting program for many years and is still going strong. She is responsible for all registrations, day camp, established camp and troop registrations. This is a big job for one person with 2,245 girls registered in the council.

Mary Graham takes care of all the orders for badges, bars and pins ordered by the troops. Also she does most of the mimeographing of bulletins and folders for Day Camp.

Yes, the office staff has a big job to do and they do it well. The Girl Scouts of Quivira Council salute you.

Now, let's remember our volunteers. Without them, there would be no Girl Scouting. First are the president, vice presidents and members of the board.

The president Mrs. Vaden Fowler of Borger, works with the executive director and is head of the board.

The vice presidents, Mrs. J. B. Maguire and Mrs. Murl Howard, work with the president and help carry out her suggestions.

The board is the governing body of the council, which takes care of all the council business.

Of course, there are many other committees and volunteers, which the council must have. The most important people of the council are the volunteer leaders. These women work on the girl-level and really get to know the girls.

The Girl Scouts of Quivira Council wish to salute you.

Now that the warm days of summer are here, everyone is anticipating the start of day camp and then established and troop camp in August. After the camping season will come the program change to which we are all looking forward.

By this, you can see that everyone is going to be quite busy this summer and because of this "Scouting Scoops" will be discontinued until the beginning of school next year.

So, until next September, we wish every Girl Scout in the United States and every foreign country all the happiness that life can bring.—Senior Girl Scout Nancy Holt, Troop 5.

For a hard-to-clean blackened aluminum pan, boil a solution of one tablespoon of cream of tartar and one quart of water in the pan.

Put a small piece of cellophane tape over the salt and pepper shakers before packing them in your picnic basket. The tape will keep the shakers from spilling.

Mrs. Eggleston Is Shower Honoree

CANADIAN (Spl) — Mrs. Harvey Eggleston Jr. was honored recently at a pink and blue shower held in the home of Mrs. Billy Margrave with Mrs. Charles Hardin as co-hostess.

Refreshments were served from a table laid with a white crocheted cloth and centered with an arrangement of pink and white roses. The white cake decorated with tiny pink and blue rosettes, blue and white mints and blue napkins carried out the color scheme. Nuts and mint green punch were also served.

The honoree was presented with a pink and white corsage of baby sox fashioned to resemble roses.

Mrs. Hardin received the guests and Mrs. Margrave served the refreshments.

Dear Abby....

Campaigner Must Live Up To Promsies

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: I'm no kid (33) and have had enough experience in this line to know better, but I am in a jam. I started seeing a young woman (she is 25) and we hit it off fine. You know, Abby, when the lights are low a guy makes a lot of "campaign promises," and I guess I did tell her we'd be married in the future. Well, what does this dizzy dame do but go out and buy herself an "engagement ring." She took it to the office where we both work and announced our "engagement". She's telling everybody we'll be married around Thanksgiving. We did talk about it, but I wasn't that definite. I really don't want her or anybody else at the moment. What do I do now?

IN A JAM

DEAR IN: A man who makes "campaign promises" is definitely a candidate. So prepare yourself to "run" — in one direction or another.

DEAR ABBY: For crying out loud, if you use this letter, don't use my name or I'll never hear the end of it. I am a man almost 40. I sell for a living and do very well because I'm a good talker. I use the telephone instead of writing because, believe it or not, I can't spell. I have tried to look up words in the dictionery to see how they are spelled, but how can you find a word in the dictionery if you can't spell it?

NO SIGNATURE

DEAR NO SIGNATURE: Look up the word the way you THINK it should be spelled. If you can't find it, look up a synonym (a word which means the same thing) — and you'll probably run into it. If you don't have any luck — just call up somebody and ask him! P. S. Start with "dictionary."

DEAR ABBY: I am a girl who is almost 12 years old and my mother never told me the "facts of life". How can I get her to tell me soon? If she finds out I already know, she will kill me.

SHOULD KNOW

DEAR SHOULD: Come right out and tell your mother exactly what you know. This will give her an opportunity to correct any wrong information you have received, and to answer any questions you would like to ask her. If you are a normal young lady, you will probably have several.

CONFIDENTIAL TO ANDY: "What it costs to maintain one vice could bring up two children." (Franklin)

It's Time To Take Chicago Seriously

By United Press International

It may be about time to take the Chicago Cubs seriously because it's sure time to make light of stories that Ernie Banks is over the hill.

The Cubs, who haven't won a National League pennant since 1945 and haven't been in the first division since 1946, are tied for second place with the St. Louis Cardinals only one game behind the faltering San Francisco Giants.

They've won four straight and 10 of their last 12 games, including Wednesday's 9-5 and 5-4 victories over the Giants.

It would be a ho-hum matter for rival NL teams except for the fact that the 32-year-old Banks—mired in the worst slump of his career for the first seven weeks of the season—is swinging that whip-like bat again like the man who's averaged 33 homers a season for 10 years.

Ernie couldn't buy a hit for one agonizing spell, going 1-for-28 and 0-for-22 in a slump that benched him and suggested that his career as a star might be over.

Banks Bounces Back

But a short rest on the bench apparently was all the ace needed because he's bounced back with nine hits in 19 tries in his last five games. He went 4-for-8 with two homers Wednesday when the Cubs achieved their first sweep of the season and dealt the Giants their seventh loss in 10 games.

The Philadelphia Phillies jolted the St. Louis Cardinals 6-0, the Los Angeles Dodgers whipped the Houston Colts 5-1, the Pittsburgh Pirates swept the Cincinnati Reds 5-4 and 4-3, and the Milwaukee Braves downed the New York Mets 11-9, in 10 innings in other NL games.

Banks hit two homers and Ken Hubbs, Lou Brock and Billy Williams hit one each in the Cubs' first-game win and Brock had three hits in the nightcap as Dick Ellsworth won his eighth game and Lindy McDaniel his second. Willie Mays, Harvey Kuenn, Willie McCovey and Orlando Cepeda homered for the Giants during the double-header.

Pitches Three-Hitter

Ray Culp pitched a three-hitter for his seventh win behind a Philadelphia attack that included a homer, double and single by Tony Gonzalez. Curt Simmons, former Philadelphia star, suffered his second loss of the year and only his second to the Phillies since 1960.

Sandy Koufax pitched an eight-hitter and struck out eight for his eighth victory at Houston. Dick Tracewski had three hits and Frank Howard two to spark the Dodgers' 10-hit attack. Ken Johnson suffered his eighth defeat for the Colts.

Smoky Burgess' eighth-inning pinch single provided the Pirates with their margin of victory in the first game and Bill Virdon led their 10-hit attack with a two-run homer in the nightcap. Bill Mazeroski and Jim Pagliaroni homered for the Pirates in the first game and Frank Robinson hit two homers for the Reds in the second game.

The Braves blew an eight-run lead when the Mets scored seven runs in the sixth inning but won out in the 10th when Bubba Morton singled with the bases filled. Lee Maye and Denis Menke hit homers for the Braves while Rod Kanehl and Frank Thomas had three hits each for the Mets.

AAU At Bat In New War With NCAA

NEW YORK (UPI) — Gen. Douglas MacArthur and the United States Track and Field Federation pondered ramifications today of the most recent outbreak of hostilities between the AAU and NCAA.

MacArthur, mediator for the disputing amateur sports bodies, has been asked by the Amateur Athletic Union to rule on a demand that sanction be received for track and field meets from the USTFF, a National Collegiate Athletic Association affiliate.

The USTFF in all probability will make the issue a top point on its agenda when it meets in Houston, Tex., this weekend in connection with the organization's first outdoor championship meet.

Of primary concern in the squabble is the National AAU championships at St. Louis, June 21-22, which will be used for selection of U.S. athletes who will compete against Russia in Moscow next month.

The AAU's request for a MacArthur ruling Wednesday stemmed from an action by the Eastern College Athletic Conference (ECAC) urging member schools to forbid athletes from entering AAU meets unless the event also obtains sanction from the USTFF.

AAU Executive Director Col. Donald Hull wired MacArthur to ask if the USTFF action "was a misinterpretation of your directive."

Hull said it was his understanding that the five star general's March 12 ruling was that "open track and field meets require only AAU sanction."

Despite pleadings of U.S. Olympic Committee President Kenneth (Tug) Wilson and champion miler Jim Beatty to field the best possible track team against Russia, three college athletic conference commissioners in Los Angeles held fast to the USTFF ruling that sanctioning must be asked before athletes can compete in the St. Louis games.

Rebels Roll Over Caprock AL, 21-1

By JEFF COHANE
Pampa News Sports Editor

The Pampa American Legion Rebels once again combined near-perfect pitching and power hitting for a 21-1 smashing of Amarillo Caprock American Legion at Optimist Park last night.

Carl Harnsberger and Ronnie Curlee teamed up to hurl a two-hitter, one less hit than Jerry Garrison and Bobby Price had allowed Borger in last week's opener, while their mates teed off on three Caprock hurlers for 21 runs, three more than they picked up off the Bulldogs.

Big sticks for the Rebs were Ricky Maynard with a homer, double and single, Larry "Shotgun" Gregory with a homer and two singles, and Steve Molberg with a double and a pair of singles. The Rebels again ran wild on the basepaths, making good on five safe steals.

Harnsberger allowed one hit in the first frame, and a hit, coupled with Pampa's only two errors for the visitors' sole run in the second inning. "Harny" then settled down to allow only two men on base until he tired in the sixth inning. Curlee then came on with two on and one out, walked the first batter to fill the bases, and then blazed his fast ball past the next two batters for strikeouts. Ronnie then got the first batter in the seventh on a grounder and struck out the last two batters to "K" four of the six men he faced.

The Rebels loaded the bases in the first frame, a run came home on a passed ball, and then Molberg's first hit sent two more tallies across the plate. Caprock came back in the second on two errors, Terry Burkhalter's single and a perfect sacrifice bunt by Monte Moore for their only run. Harny then closed the gates while Pampa wrapped it up with a three-run third featured by Gregory's home run over the center field wall, the first over-the-fence clout in Optimist Park this year.

The Rebels batted around in the fourth, with Maynard emulating the Shotgun with a poke over the left field fence, one of six straight hits as Molberg doubled and Kenny Hebert, Gregory, Eugene Madrid and Claude Middleton singled.

Pampa picked up four more runs in the fifth frame on five straight hits, back-to-back doubles by Hebert and Maynard, and singles by Kyle Vann, Gregory and Molberg.

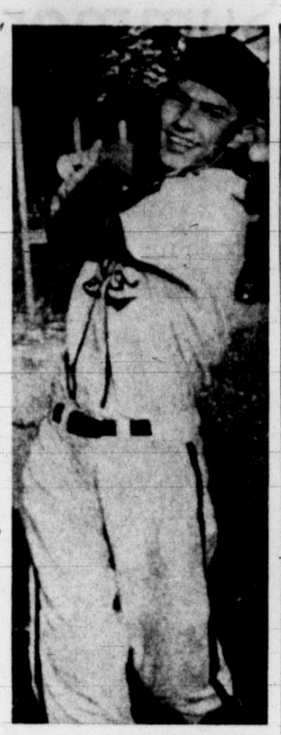

The Rebs cut the game down to seven innings as they scored five more runs in the sixth with Vann getting the only hit of the inning, as Ronnie Palmer lost control, walking four batters and hitting two.

The Legionnaires open district play Friday night when they play the Amarillo Sandies at Amarillo AFB, and then play at Borger Saturday night.

Sports Parade

By STEVE SNIDER
UPI Sports Writer

NEW YORK (UPI)—"Sanction" is the dirty word in the struggle for control of amateur athletics in the United States.

It's a word that already has led to considerable damage to American prestige abroad and threatens to do even more.

It's the main point that keeps the feud blazing between the National Amateur Athletic Union (AAU) and the National Collegiate Athletic Association (NCAA) thereby reducing the number of college athletes permitted to represent their nation in international competition.

To the AAU and Gen. Douglas MacArthur, the arbitrator appointed by President Kennedy to settle the fuss, sanction is a fairly simple word.

On March 12, MacArthur said, in effect, the college group should sanction its athletes who want to participate in open track and field meets rather than sanction the meet itself.

Claims Sole Rights

The AAU claims sole sanctioning rights for open meets. The college group feels it should sanction the meets—dual sanction with the AAU—as well as sanctioning the athletes.

All through scores of hours of arguments with such highly placed persons as Atty. Gen. Robert F. Kennedy, Olympic Committee President Kenneth L. (Tug) Wilson and later, Gen. MacArthur, the quibbling continued over the word "sanction."

After two years, the AAU and NCAA apparently are no closer to agreeing on a definition than they were when they started.

Both sides agree the general public is fed up with their squabble. The athletes, caught in the middle, are disgusted.

In the latest flareup, the eastern college group came up with a pronouncement that could take its athletes out of the national AAU championships at St. Louis this summer, a test that qualifies the team that'll head for three major meets abroad including one in Moscow.

Without college participants, the U.S. well could lose to Russia for the first time.

Decry Propaganda Use

Many amateur sportsmen in America have decried the use of athletics for propaganda purposes, but those barbs were aimed at Iron Curtain tactics.

All hands over here are agreed that American representatives abroad have done a spectacular job of public relations.

But weakening U.S. forces for international competition, at a time when the rest of the world is catching up to us in athletic power, is a prospect that disturbs all interested parties from the grass roots to the White House.

Some damage already has been done.

The AAU and NCAA couldn't get together on playing dates or personnel for a U.S.-Russia basketball series in this country last winter. Each side blamed the other. The Russians thought it was just dandy. They scored numerous victories that were greeted with loud huzzas back home.

Why should the Soviets mention they weren't playing America's best?

Yankee Luck! Mickey Lost, NY Takes First

By United Press International

Yankee luck!

That's what rival American Leaguers call it and sometimes you have to wonder because it seems that even when they lose they win.

Take Wednesday night when they lost the services of three-time Most Valuable Player Mickey Mantle for three weeks to a month. Disaster? Possibly in the future but not right now. Because the Yankees not only beat the Baltimore Orioles 4-3, despite the loss of Mantle, but also regained possession of first place.

What's more, they scored the winning run on a tap back to the pitcher's mound that should have resulted in an inning-ending double play. No wonder American Leaguers insist somebody up there loves 'em!

The critical play came with the bases filled and one out in the eighth inning. The score was tied at 3-3 and Yogi Berra was making one of his infrequent appearances as a pinch-hitter. He tapped the ball back to the mound and Stu Miller fired it to catcher Dick Brown for the forceout at the plate.

So far, so good but in another instant so long, Orioles.

Tresh Jars Brown

Because, Tom Tresh, running from third base, jarred the ball out of Brown's hand as he prepared for the relay to first base. The ball squirted loose and in another second or two Roger Maris went chugging over the plate—all the way from second base—with the winning run.

Whitey Ford yielded 13 hits but pitched his way out of numerous jams and wound up with his seventh win against three losses. Jackie Brandt and Brooks Robinson homered for the Orioles but Maris achieved a milestone when he hit No. 200 of his career for the Yankees.

The Los Angeles Angels beat the Chicago White Sox 8-2 after a 3- defeat, the Minnesota Twins defeated the Kansas City Athletics 4-0, and the Detroit Tigers topped the Cleveland Indians 5-4 in other AL action. The Boston-Washington game was rained out.

In the National League, the Chicago Cubs swept the San Francisco Giants 9-5 and 5-4, the Milwaukee Braves beat the New York Mets 11-9, the Pittsburgh Pirates whipped the Cincinnati Reds 5-4 and 4-3, the Philadelphia Phillies defeated the St. Louis Cardinals 6-0, and the Los Angeles Dodgers conquered the Houston Colts 5-1.

Homers Win Game

Home runs by Jim Landis and Dave Nicholson and the nine-hit pitching of Johnny Buzhardt enabled the White Sox to win the first game of their twin-nighter with the Angels. But the Angels rallied for seven runs in the sixth inning of the nightcap to split the double bill and give Ken McBride his fifth win. Albie Pearson went 2-for-5 in the first game and 4-for-5 in the second.

Richie Rollins knocked in three runs with a homer and two singles and Bob Allison hit his 15th homer for the Twins, who shut out the Athletics for the second straight game. Jim Roland went seven innings before retiring with an injured elbow and Bill Dailey finished the game.

Norm Cash's ninth-inning homer and Terry Fox' sturdy relief pitching for the last 1 2-3 innings gave Detroit's Jim Bunning his fourth victory. Jim Grant suffered his sixth loss against three wins for the Indians.

'You Bets Your Money' On Buick Open Golfers

GRAND BLANC, Mich. (UPI)—It was bet your money and take your pick when a field of 149 golfers lined up today for the opening round of the $52,000 Buick Open championship.

The absence of the "big three" of golf — Arnold Palmer, Jack Nicklaus and Gary Player—turned this 72-hole tournament at the 7,280-yard Warwick Hills Country Club into a wide-open affair.

Nicklaus, the leading money-winner on this year's tour, passed up this one because of the illness of his baby son. Palmer and Player sat it out to rest and practice for the U.S. Open at Brookline, Mass., June 20-22.

Defending champion Bill Collins and former winners Jackie Burke, Mike Souchak and Art Wall were back shooting for another victory. However, the strongest favorites were Sam Snead and Tony Lema.

Snead, still belting the ball with authority at the age of 51, would like to make the Buick his 113th tournament victory. The stylist from West Virginia demonstrated his readiness when he fired a 10-under-par 61 to smash the course record at the nearby Flint Golf Club by three strokes Tuesday.

Lema has come into his own over the past year and currently is second on the money winning list with earnings of $47,696 compared to Nicklaus' bankroll of $57,615.

In his last four starts, Lema won the Memphis Open, tied for second twice and tied for fourth once. The lanky ex-Marine attributes his good form to his recent marriage. If he gets in front early in this tournament he'll be tough to catch.

Davies Heads Yank Players

ST. ANDREWS, Scotland (UPI) — Defending champion Richard Davies, his Walker Cup teammates Dick Sikes and Dr. Ed Updegraff, and unheralded Dr. Ron Luceti today advanced to the fifth round of the British Amateur golf tournament.

George (Chris) Blocker of Jal, N.M., and Boyd O'Donnell of Hollywood, Calif., were beaten in the fourth round as the field was narrowed to 16 survivors for the afternoon fifth-round competition.

Sikes met Fraser Urquhart of Scotland in the afternoon round; Davies played John Beharrell of England; Updegraff was pitted against Ronnie Shade of Scotland, and Luceti against Martin Christmas of England.

Davies, 32-year-old real estate dealer from Pebble Beach, Calif., eliminated John Wilson of Scotland, 1 up, on the 19th hole of their morning fourth-round match. Sikes beat Dr. Harry MacAnespie of Scotland, 4 and 3; Updegraff edged Geoff Dixon of England, 2 and 1, and Luceti defeated Brian Anderson of Scotland, 3 and 2.

Blocker, 23-year-old Army missiles specialist from Jal, N.M., was eliminated from the fourth round by Michael Lunt, British Walker Cupper, 1 up, and O'Donnell lost to Ronnie Shade of Scotland, another Walker Cup star, 2 and 1.

The six American survivors from an original field of 39 started play today in sunny but windy weather on the 6,936-yard, par-72 St. Andrews old course by the Scottish seaside.

Liberal Takes 7-1 Win In Pampa Colts Opener

LIBERAL, Kans. (Spl)—Stewart Overton threw a one-hitter past the Pampa Colts as host Liberal took a 7-1 win over the Colts in a Tri-State League game last night.

Jerry Glover started for the Colts and was reached for four hits and as many runs, departing in favor of Ronnie Perrin in the fifth inning, with Perrin giving up six more hits and three runs.

Overton allowed only a fourth-inning leadoff double by Terry Haralson to spoil his bid for a no-hitter, striking out 12 and walking four.

Pampa scored their only run in the fifth inning when the first two batters, Butch Crossland and Gary Hill, walked, moved up on Haralson's grounder, and Crossland scored on a wild pitch.

Glover held the hosts to only one hit and no runs in the first three frames, but Liberal got to him for four tallies in the fourth inning, on four walks and singles by Bill Ballard, Tommy McDonald and Carl Shreiner.

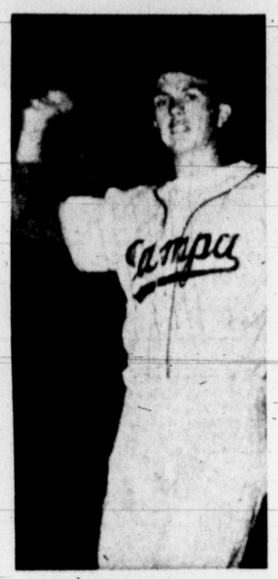

Haralson had led off the Pampa fourth with his double into right field, but the next three batters never got the ball past the pitcher's mound.

Liberal got four hits in the fifth frame, but tight fielding by the Colts held them to only one run.

Pampa threatened on a walk and an error in the sixth, but Overton again rose to the occasion and the runners died. Liberal picked up two more tallies in the seventh with Shreiner's double the big blow.

Pampa rallied with two out in the eighth inning, filling the bases on two errors and a walk, but Overton got Roy Don Stephens to kill the last Pampa threat as the Colts went down in one-two-three order in the final frame.

The Colts try to make their record one-one Saturday night when they host powerful Borger at Optimist Park. Royce Harnsberger, Wayland College pitcher who arrived home this week, is slated to take the mound for the Colts.

Griffith Picks Self To Win

NEW YORK (UPI) — Love and a left hook will make Emile Griffith the ring's first three-time welterweight champion Saturday night, the twice former 147-pound ruler said today.

The prospective bridegroom, 25, will try to recapture the welter crown from champion Luis Rodriguez in their nationally televised return title fight at Madison Square Garden.

And the betting odds favor Griffith at 13-10.

"She's a knockout," said Emile, with worship in his voice as he spoke of his 20-year-old fiancee, Esther Taylor, a New York secretary. "And as a wedding present I'll have to give her a knockout over Rodriguez—a title knockout."

Griffith, who returned here from the Catskill Mountains Wednesday night after his final two training rounds, said he also craves a knockout victory "because of the bum decision they gave me at Los Angeles on March 21, when they made a present of my title to Rodriguez."

He declared, "There'll be no decision this time."

Champion Rodriguez, 26, was scheduled to break camp today and motor into New York from Kiamesha Lake, N.Y.

He, too, predicted a knockout because "I'm stronger and sharper than ever — and hitting harder."

Early Wynn Back For 300

CLEVELAND (UPI) — Early Wynn was back with the Cleveland Indians today with another chance to gain baseball's 300-victory club.

The big right-hander, who has 299 victories, isn't back just for one triumph, however.

"Sure I want 300," he said, "but I really believe I can do a lot more pitching. I don't see why I can't pitch a couple more seasons."

Wynn arrived here Wednesday from his home in Venice, Fla., after agreeing to join the Indians last Friday.

The 43-year-old hurler is returning to the city where he enjoyed his greatest success. Obtained from Washington in 1949, Wynn spent nine seasons in the wigwam, recording 163 victories against 100 losses. He had four 20-victory campaigns.

"I feel like I'm back home," Wynn said. "I pitched here longer than anywhere else in the major leagues and I always enjoyed Cleveland very much."

Vacations go smoother in a Chevrolet Corvair

Bring on those mountains! They're not so high and mighty any more when you've got Corvair's gutty six and rear-engine traction working on them.

You scurry up the meanest grades. You move with sure-footed agility on wet pavement, muddy lanes, gravel and other would-be miseries.

And with most of Corvair's weight bearing down on the rear wheels, you have an easy time steering, too. Fact is, the handling's so light we don't even offer power steering for the car.

And there's more to feel good about. No problems with your radiator boiling over or going dry, because there's no radiator. Corvair's engine is air cooled. No concern about brake adjustments, either, because the brakes adjust themselves. Nothing much to think about at all except the good time you're having (and maybe the next mountain you're going to flatten).

Author Calls for Strict Control Of Pesticide Use

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Author-biologist Rachel Carson called today for strict control of aerial pesticide spraying as a first step toward dealing with "contamination of the environment."

Miss Carson, author of the best-seller "Silent Spring," also urged a "strong and unremitting effort" to reduce and ultimately eliminate "pesticides that leave long-lasting residues."

She told a Senate government operations subcommittee studying pesticides that she could "see no other way to control the rapidly spreading contamination" of air, water and soil which she said threatened all human and other animal life.

Miss Carson gave the subcommittee, headed by Sen. Abraham A. Ribicoff, D-Conn., former secretary of health, education and welfare (HEW), a rundown on evidence that poisonous pesticides could travel great distances in the atmosphere.

She said they had been found in "the oil of fish that live far at sea," and that some detergents found in drinking water might affect the human digestive tract "so that it more readily absorbs cancer-causing chemicals."

In prepared testimony Miss Carson declared that the problem "is one that must be solved in our time," and "a beginning must be made on it now—in this session of Congress."

Weightlessness May Still Cause Problems Says Astronauts' Doctor

HOUSTON, Tex. (UPI) — The astronauts' doctor cautioned today that weightlessness may create troublesome medical problems on future long space flights despite the success of U.S. manned orbital operations to date.

Dr. Charles A. Berry, who was responsible for L. Gordan Cooper's medical welfare during his 34-hour flight, said physiological effects of long weightless periods may make it necessary to equip long-endurance vehicles, like space stations, with artificial gravity devices.

He indicated he favored one more Project Mercury orbital flight of longer duration than Cooper's to continue the step-by-step buildup of knowledge about gravity-free existence.

"We are not setting up straw men so we can knock them down," Berry said in an interview at the National Aeronautics and Space Administration (NASA) Manned Spacecraft Center, where he is medical operations chief.

"Not with anything we have learned can we say that man can't fly in space. But we still don't know whether zero gravity is going to be a problem" for astronauts during and after flight.

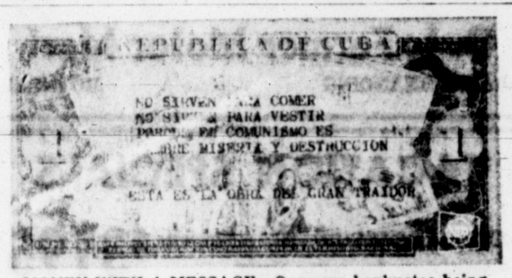

Berry said there were no serious problems to limit man's ability in space at the 166-mile heights and for the durations they have been achieving. He said the time had come from the medical viewpoint to "commit man to longer flights."

Conferences are being held between spacecraft center officials and NASA heads in Washington this week on whether to schedule one more Mercury flight that would be an open end mission—staying aloft as long as safe for astronaut and spacecraft.

Berry described two possible effects of weightlessness that will be of concern as astronauts head into longer missions.

One is the loss of calcium from the bones and its "mobilization" in the blood and urine. "We want to know what the problem would be over a long period, say in a space station," Berry said.

Another possible effect is hypotension, a sort of "wooziness" like that which affects persons who get up after being bedridden.

MONEY WITH A MESSAGE—One-peso banknotes being circulated in Cuba by the underground carry the following overprinting: "Valueless for food . . . Valueless for clothing . . . Because communism is hunger, misery and destruction . . . This is the work of the great traitor." Possession of the notes poses a problem: If they're taken to a bank, bearer may be accused of collaboration with the resistance. If attempt is made to spend the money bearer is, in effect, collaborating. If money is destroyed, bearer takes the loss. Bill is shown as it appeared in Free Cuba News.

Farmers in Texas Get Lower Prices Than May, 1962

AUSTIN (UPI)—Texas farmers got lower prices during May for all their farm products in comparison with the previous month and with May of last year, the U.S. Department of Agriculture said today.

Both crop and livestock indexes were down. The all - crop index was at 243 per cent of the 1910-14 base years, one point below April 15 and five points below May of 1962. The livestock index dropped 15 points in the month, to 283 and compared with 286 last May.

In feed grains and hay at mid-May, grain sorghums rose a penny, but corn was off one penny per bushel, oats off three cents and barley off six cents. All hay prices averaged $1.40 per ton below the mid-April level.

Wheat prices dropped 10 cents per bushel but the May 15 price was still the highest May price in seven years.

Cotton was going at 31 cents a pound, the same as a month previously but a penny below a year ago.

Cattle prices at $17.50 per cwt., were down $1.40 during the month and calves at $23 per cwt., were $1.60 below the previous month.

Lamb and hog prices were up for the month.

Turkey prices were down one penny per pound in the month and eggs were down two cents a dozen. Broilers were down only slightly, but were higher than last year at mid-May.

Wholesale milk at $4.60 per cwt., was unchanged from mid-April but 20 cents a cwt., above a year previously.

Wool prices were below the April price but mohair continued an upward trend.

APPROVE TEACHER BILL

WASHINGTON (UPI)—A House education subcommittee Wednesday approved a bill that would provide $34.5 million to train teachers for physically and mentally handicapped children.

The three-year program was one of the items requested by President Kennedy in his education message this year. The funds would go to colleges to use in preparing the special teachers.

THE PAPER BOY'S LAMENT

By Lois M. Reed

I went to the door — it was Wednesday night.
Had hoped to collect, though with hopes not bright.
"No money tonight," was the lady's reply;
"Come back tomorrow." I left with a sigh.
I know I seemed sad; 'twas the fifth in a row
Who told me the same; in plain English: "Go Blow!"
Please don't get me wrong; this doesn't mean you,
If you're one of my nice ones—I have quite a few
Who are always so pleasant, they pay me on time;
Wednesday or Thursday — and tip me a dime.
Some pay ahead a month or six weeks.,
Those are the kind every paper boy seeks.
I have others who tell me: "If I've gone away,
In an envelope hidden, you'll find your pay."
If everyone paid me a few weeks ahead,
I'd have time for homework; on air I would tread.
So—I come back on Thursday. It's always the same:
"We get paid on Friday." It seems like a game.
On Friday, I hopefully start out again,
But everyone's shopping. I've done what I can.
You all say "Come Friday." Well, figure it out.
One hundred customers, scattered about.
Five minutes it takes — at least, for each one.
To collect them all Friday just couldn't be done.
Five hundred minutes! Eight hours! No pun.
I can't start 'till five—I'd get through about one.
On Saturday morning, I start out at eight.
The first one's not up—the next—I'm too late.
The late sleepers curse me—the others are gone.
"Oops—sorry—I walked on your lawn."
"Come back after noon—our check's not cashed yet."
So I call back at one—here's what happens, you bet!
It's the fourth time I've tried—I'm met at the door,
By an irate old lady. "Leave the paper no more!"
"You must be afraid that you won't get your money.
If you're that anxious, we're through with you, Sonny!"
There! I've lost another! My boss will be furious.
What can I do? I'm really quite curious.
I went out one night; made thirty-five calls.
What with people not home and along with the "stalls,"
There were seven who paid. That leaves twenty-eight.
I'll be out all night if they pay at this rate.
My folks are broke too. (They borrow from me
If they have to, to pay the carrier's fee.)
I check out my book; my day is all shot.
I'm in a foul mood; no more money I've got.
My earnings from last week, I put in the cup
To make up the ones who didn't pay up.
My collecting is done now; at least for three days.
I've earned my three cents—aren't there easier ways?
I love this here route. To pass papers I'm glad.
Except for mean dogs—and they really aren't bad.
But collecting! I dread it! I practically shudder.
I know I'll catch heck, one way or anudder.

Supreme Court Is Impatient with Slow Progress

By GEORGE J. MARDER
United Press International

WASHINGTON (UPI) — "The basic guarantees of our Constitution are warrants for the here and now."

With these words, the Supreme Court of the United States this week voiced its impatience with the slow pace of school desegregation in the Southern states.

The words were spoken by Justice Arthur J. Goldberg, but reflected a unanimous opinion.

They pointed to a hardened attitude by the court against appeals for time before mixing whites and Negroes at all levels in public schools.

Explains Its Order

The court explained what it meant in 1954 when it ordered "all deliberate speed" to end segregation in public schools. And it also explained what it didn't mean.

It made clear it wasn't allowing time for people opposed to the mixing of students to get used to the idea—to get over the shock of racial integration.

"Constitutional rights," the tribunal declared, "may not be denied simply because of hostility to their assertion or exercise."

What the bench had in mind in 1954 were the technical problems of desegregation hundreds of schools throughout the country. It realized those problems were of such magnitude that they couldn't be solved overnight. For one thing, the states had compulsory attendance laws, requiring students to go to school. There also was the question of the adequacy of teachers and facilities which could be crucial, as well as geographic assignment which could be of major significance.

Instructions Not Followed

It was because of those problems, not because persons opposed to integration had to get used to living with the idea, that the court allowed some delays. It made clear that it felt its instructions for all deliberate speed had not been followed.

The manner in which the court expressed its impatience was most unusual. The comments came in a racial case which had nothing to do with school desegregation but involved use of public facilities, such as parks, libraries, and museums at Memphis, Tenn.

Usually, the court refuses to go beyond the specific issues presented to it. It has been traditional that its rulings should be interpreted only on the basis of the facts in a specific case.

But this time the court's opinion was so badly worded that it will have an impact not only on other southern communities facing similar situations but on the pace of school desegregation as well.

The city of Memphis had presented a plan to remove racial barriers in public facilities over a 10-year period. It already had started desegregating some of them but was to allow racial mixing in other public facilities gradually over a decade. The city argued it needed the time to avoid racial strife.

The lower federal courts agreed. But the Supreme Court rejected and directed the lower courts to order desegregation promptly. It told the city officials:

"The best guaranty of civil peace is adherence to, and respect for, the law."

Mushrooming

NEW YORK (UPI) — Big business soon may make the mushroom as familiar on the dining table as potatoes and tomatoes. The Borden Co. and other major concerns have recently acquired mushroom plantations with a total capacity yield of one million pounds a year. U.S. output this year is estimated at nearly 132 million pounds, up 6 million from last year and triple 30 years ago.
