United Fund Advance Gifts Committee Action Underway

One phase of the Deaf Smith County United Fund drive will get underway the latter part of this week. The Advance Gifts Committee has announced plans to get started within the next two days.

The one-day solicitation for funds has been set for Nov. 5, just four weeks from now.

Heading the Advance Gifts Committee are co-chairmen Neil Cooper and Mark Woodall.

This year's drive, the third annual United Fund campaign in Deaf Smith County, has a goal of $25,000, an increase of $4,000 over last year's goal, which was reached in an intensive one-day drive.

General campaign director George McLean annouced this week that plans were almost complete for the drive, which will attempt to reach the goal in one day. The two previous UF campaigns have been successful.

This year's budget includes 10 organizations, all of them local in nature.

Budget allocations, approved by the Budget and Admis-

Pioneer Natural Open House Set

Pioneer Natural Gas will have open house at its new Hereford office building on Saturday, Oct. 10, according to local manager John T.Sims.

Mayor Woody Wilson will cut the symbolic ribbon outside the building at 9 a.m. The open house will continue from then until 5 p.m.

Visitors will receive refreshments and may register for door prizes during the day, Sims said.

The white brick building is located at 301 West Third and covers one-fourth of a block, including the parking and driveway areas.

Started last November, the building encountered many delays before it was completed and occupied Sept. 14.

Included in its features for customer convenience are a "drive-up" pay window and a night depository. Nine gas light illuminate the 16-car parking area and driveway.

In addition to the spacious new business office facilities, the new Pioneer building includes a "Flame Room" auditorium which will accommodate approximately 75 persons for meetings and home service demonstrations. An all-gas kitchen forms the Flame Room stage and features the newest developments in gas home appliances.

The 5,000-square-foot building is heated and cooled by two five-ton gas all-year air conditioning units.

WHAT! NO OKRA?

Hereford, England, Man Sees Texas And Another Hereford

By DAN MUDD
BRAND STAFF REPORTER

A Hereford resident who has never eaten a meal of blackeyed peas and okra -- unthinkable! But until Tuesday this week, Gerry Lewis, a personable young British subject from Hereford, England, had never even heard of that culinary combination which is the favorite of most Texans.

Grabbing nearly everything marked "Hereford, Texas" except maybe the post office or banks, the 26-year-old visitor was all smiles Tuesday while he took photographs of local buildings and left store salesmen dizzy with his spirit in purchasing souvenirs to take back to his family in his English city by the same name.

Lewis classified his occupation as being a "bum." But actually he is sightseeing in the United States and Canada, and works at odd-jobs to finance his trip.

"About five years ago," he said, "a Herefordshire (Hereford County) woman who had been in the United States told me there was a Hereford in Texas. I just couldn't go back to my country without telling my friends that I had been in Texas. And if I hadn't visited your city, it would have seemed sort of sacriligious."

Our Hereford gets its name from a breed of cattle by the same name. But the cattle breed got its name from England's city of Hereford, according to Lewis.

But going another step, where did the word "Hereford" come from in the first place? Here's Lewis' definition:

"Hereford is located on the Wye River, which is quite shallow. Since 'ford' means 'to wade through', perhaps a cattleman transporting a herd across the Wye one day said, 'Here I ford.'" And that's the way Lewis pronounces it, "Here-I-Ford."

Hereford, he pointed out proudly, is a Cathedral City, with a population of about 50,000. Birmingham, England, with a population of about two million, is not considered a city because it has no cathedral, he added.

He beamed as he described the beauty of his city. The Cathedral in Hereford was built in 1200. In the center of the city, a home built in 1641, called the "black-and-white house" is a landmark which has been perfectly preserved, furniture and all. The exterior of the house was painted black and white and is open to visitors.

Hereford is the capital of Herefordshire, "shire" designating county. At one time it was a walled city, and in the old part of the city traces of the wall can still be found.

Hereford is near the eastern edge of Wales, about 60 miles northwest of Birmingham. It was not marred by Hitler's bombs during the second World War.

Lewis was taking snapshots of a bank here Tuesday morning, and a local resident, Jim Roberts, struck up a conversation with him. During the conversation, Roberts mentioned that he was stationed in Shrewsbury, England, with the Army in 1942.

Lewis then revealed he was from Hereford, only 50 miles from Shrewsbury. The "old friends" chatted over a meal at

Around Town

May we take a moment to to tip our hat to the Hereford Volunteer Fire Department? Thank you. Thanks to the devoted efforts of these men, Hereford has an extremely light fire loss when compared with other towns of comparable size. They work tirelessly for fire prevention and ask for your cooperation. This week, national Fire Prevention Week they have given rides to more than 800 first and second grade school children. This is a fine experience for the youngsters, but the valuable part comes in impressing them with fire prevention. The kids get badges, hats and fire hazard check lists to take home. Unpaid, they risk their necks every time the siren sounds. Mayor Woody Wilson has asked that these firemen be given a minimum of "one minute and one block." They need at least one minute head-start be-

Slight Injury From Collision

A Hereford woman was treated and released from the emergency room of Friona Hospital Tuesday morning following a three-car accident at Lawton St. and Park Ave. in Hereford.

Receiving minor bruises of the body in the accident, which occurred at 8:39 a.m., was Mrs. Claudia Blythe, 38, 809 Knight, who was driving a 1955 model automobile.

Other cars involved in the accident were driven by Julian Ray Gandy, 18, Route 3, driving a 1951 model car, and Mrs. Dixibel Sims, 40, 507 E. Third, driving a 1955 model.

Mrs. Blythe was taken to the hospital by Kreig-Marcum ambulance. Investigating the accident was Hereford patrolman Bobby Roberts.

Roberts estimated damage to the Blythe car at $300, to the Gandy automobile, $200, and to the Sims vehicle, $35.

Lutheran Church Marks Anniversary

Immanuel Lutheran Church of Hereford will observe the 45th anniversary of the founding of its congregation with two special services on Sunday, Oct. 11, at 11 a.m. and 3 p.m.

The Rev. E. W. Lichtsinn of Storm Lake, Iowa, a former pastor of the congregation, will preach both anniversary sermons.

Immanuel Lutheran Church was organized on Nov. 8, 1914, under the leadership of the Rev. O. E. Schmidt, who was the first resident pastor of the congregation.

Charter members of the Voters' Assembly were Henry Schuette, William Frye, Ed Tiefel, Jake Tiefel, Henry Tiefel, D. L. McDonald and R. A. Frye. Those still living are Ed Tiefel, Henry Tiefel and R. A. Frye.

For some time after its organization, services were conducted in members' homes, then in the old Christian College building. Later, services were held in the County Court Room until the present church was built

City Okays Zone And Street Name Changes Monday

A rezoning recommendation was passed, Buttram St. was changed to Ranger Drive and the City Commission in regular meeting Monday evening agreed to authorize city participation in street paving engineering on a dirt road leading from U. S. 385 to the new Northwest Elementary School.

The Commission tentatively scheduled a called meeting to be held in the City Manager's office Monday evening for discussion of Highway 60 widening.

Acting on a petition submitted by residents on Buttram St., west of Hereford, the commission approved a motion to change designation of the street to Ranger Drive. Residents on

Mrs. Ross Wins Grid Contest

Mr. Football Upset reared his head again last weekend and grid teams fell like bowling pins. Survivors in the third week of the Hereford Brand football contest were bunched down at 15 winners from a field of 20.

Taking top honors, and the $10 cash prize, was Mrs. Earline Ross. Tied with four others, Mrs. Ross was the only one in the group who predicted that Olton would upset Hereford.

Also earning 15 points in the race for Cotton Bowl tickets were J. R. Patterson, Paul Schroeter, David Miles and Pat C. Miller.

And now a correction for you football contesters: the contest blank in Sunday's paper should have read TCU at Texas Tech instead of Texas A&M. The mistake is corrected in this issue of the paper. If you use Sunday's entry blank and want to pick Texas Tech, scratch out A&M and write in the correct team.

Whitefaces Enter Coyotes' Den At Roswell On Friday

A team that started cold but is running hot now, the Roswell, N. M., Coyotes will host the hapless Hereford Whitefaces Friday night.

Roswell dropped its first two contests before launching a three-game winning streak that it hopes to extend Friday. The Herd has been unsuccessful in its four outings this season.

Last year the Coyotes roared and snarled to a 44-0 win over Hereford. This year's squad, however, seems less potent than the '58 pack, which dropped a game only to Carlsbad, the eventual New Mexico state champs.

Roswell lost to Highland of Albuquerque, 13-6, and Ysleta of El Paso, 20-6, before going on a winning rampage. It has consecutive wins over Jefferson of El Paso, 31-7; Albuquerque High, 33-7; and El paso High, 6-0.

Burglary Nets $400 In Tools

Nearly $400 in maintenance equipment was taken from a workbench at Martin Brothers warehouse, 119 N.Lee, sometime Monday night or Tuesday morning this week, according to Hereford police.

Police said entry was gained through a door of the building. Two tool boxes and a cardboard carton stitcher were taken.

The burglary was reported at 11 a.m. Tuesday by Ivan Wiley, and employee and owner of the tools.

in 1949.

The Rev. Schmidt served the congregation until 1916, at which time he accepted a call from another parish. The congregation was without a pastor for almost two years. In 1917 the Rev. Richard Deffner assumed the pastorate of Immanuel. He served until 1921.

Other ministers who served the parish were: Rev. Theo. Evers, 1922-1924; Rev. J. H. C. Sieck, 1924-1925; Rev. Victor Kohlman, 1925-1927; and Rev. Haloma, 1927-1928.

At that time the Board of Home Missions of the Texas District decided that the Hereford parish should be combined with other small groups of Lutherans in Happy, Kress, Abernathy and Ralls. This meant that the one pastor who served the multiple parish would not be able to conduct services regularly at any of the churches.

Some time later Canyon and Hereford decided to form one parish and called the Rev. J. H. C. Sieck to serve the dual parish. He served until 1929. The Rev. Henry Stroebel, pastor of Emmanuel Lutheran Church of Rhea, north of Friona, was called and served until 1934. The Rev. Horace Frerking then served the Hereford parish on a part-time basis, conducting services every other Sunday, until 1943.

In 1943 the Canyon parish joined the Amarillo parish and Hereford and Rhea formed a dual parish, with the Rev. H. Reiss serving both congregations until 1946.

Assuming the pastorate of the two parishes in 1946 was the Rev. E. W. Lichtsinn. In 1952, Immanuel of Hereford and Emmanuel of Rhea became separate parishes.

Under the leadership of Pastor Lichtsinn, the present church building at Park Avenue and Avenue B was built and dedicated on Sept. 18, 1949.

A parsonage was purchased in 1952, at which time the Rev. Harold Kaestner was called as pastor. He served until 1956. In November, 1956, the present pastor, the Rev. Andrew Szegedin, was installed.

Stand-outs on defense for the Coyotes include Goree, Waggoner and Crawford.

Friday's game will be played at deBremond Stadium, located on the north side of Roswell, just two blocks south of New Mexico Military Institute.

Bobby Williams, head coach of the Whitefaces, hopes to have senior quarterback Bill Dirks back in action this week. Dirks was injured on the tenth play of the Olton game and sat out the rest of the contest. Junior Jimmy Collier stepped into the breach and called signals for the remainder of the game.

Sophomore man-under Walker Parris, injured early in the Plainview tilt, will not be back in action for another two or three weeks.

Williams has been using his players in various combinations, trying to find one that will click. Last week, some of his regulars were benched for the start in favor of sophomore and junior players.

Other 1-AAA squads will be playing as follows: Levelland at Andrews, Saturday night game; Littlefield at Clovis, N. M.; Dumas hosts Perryton; and Phillips will be at home to Canyon.

Scheduled B and Frosh engagements with Levelland Thursday were cancelled. The teams probably will have a scrimmage session.

Coffee And Doughnuts and Gifts For Everyone

Most farmers I know are prone to consider themselves the original "Hard-luck Joes" of the world. However, I cannot always agree. Take the World Series, for instance; all of these rains came at just the right time to stand harvest off long enough for the farmers to watch the series. Even Clarence Morrison and Tom Robinson will have to agree on this point -- and I guess about as many things happen to these two as the next fellow.

Anyway, there were so many farmers gathered around the TV sets in town that the really hard working fellows such as Mont Baker, Roy Smith, Dale Tinnin and I had to stand on our tiptoes to see over their heads.

The worm is turning, though, and by the first of next week those farm boys are going to be putting in plenty of hours. By the middle of October, grain sorghum will be all over the place -- and still coming in at a peak clip. This is subject to continued sunshine, of course, but I am predicting some fair weather to take care of the current harvest -- and that should have the situation well in hand to suit even Curtis Traweek.

Furthermore, I am figuring that it will be a cold winter. Lots of snow and ice. We are going to have another wet year, but a lot of the moisture will come out of the deep freeze. Already, those old boys who took my advice and planted wheat early are beginning to reap the benefits. This coming year is one when the dryland boys on the fringes should make a fairly good yield. Come Spring and they will be moving out milo to make room for the wheat.

Ole T. Larson was by to endorse the museum idea and to say that he thinks he knows of a location. Enthusiasm in the project is very low, however -- and the idea will probably die before it ever starts. Mr. Larson is the only one who has even shown an indication of interest.

Other items not so popular are those little pink tax slips which arrived through the mail the past week. The way they all come rushing in at one time, indicates that we do have some truly efficient workers in our taxing offices.

Jim Roberts came wandering in with a young man, Gerry Lewis, and it turned out that Mr. Lewis, around age 25, is a native of Hereford, England. He said that he glanced at his map as he neared Amarillo, saw the name, "Hereford, Texas", and decided that he must pay our town a visit.

Roberts saw the fellow snapping pictures, walked up, introduced himself -- and discovered that he was stationed during World War II within 50 miles of Lewis' hometown. The two hit it off nicely -- and both of them enjoyed the visit. Lewis returned to Highway 66 at Vega, and continued his trek westward to California.

His pronunciation of Hereford, of course, provided considerable in the way of conversation, and I was quite surprised to learn that he endorsed the English version of socialized medicine -- despite the fact that he was Conservative. Having always been against socialized medicine, myself, this was quite a surprise -- and I guess the young man is one of the few people I have seen who uphold the plan. He did say that many phases of the program were undesirable, but that he generally thought the program a good thing for the people.

Hereford, England, he said, was too small (around 50,000) to draw many bombs during the war. He reported that no ruins or traces mark the community, such as those to be found in many industrial centers. He also said that industry was trying to come into the area, but that the people were succeeding in keeping it away. This approach seemed quite unusual, compared with most communities in West Texas.

"The people figure that the town, primarily cattle and agriculture, is big enough as it now stands," said Lewis. "They are quite proud of their fresh water stream, quiet little city -- and just don't want to see it change."

Like most Yankee tourists abroad, the young Englishman carried his camera and was dressed for comfort. Meanwhile, I think Jim Roberts is due a plaque for his courtesy to a stranger. Jim took off all Tuesday morning entertaining the young man, then carried him to lunch. This is a good example of service beyond the call of duty, and I am sure the Englishman will leave with a warm place in his heart for Hereford, Texas. How many times will this experience be recounted when he returns to his home back in Hereford, England?

Carrying it a bit further, what a wonderful reputation Hereford, Texas, would have if all of us did like Jim Roberts, going out of our way to be courteous hosts to all visitors. It really is something to think about -- and Jim gets my nomination as "Citizen of the Week".

TWO JOKES

"For months," said the bridge-loving club woman, "I wondered where my husband spent his evenings."

"And what happened?" breathlessly asked her gossip-loving neighbor.

"Well", she said, "one evening I went home -- and there he was."

"Now tell me," said the personnel manager, "just why you want to work for us."

"Well, sir," answered the applicant, "I got sick and went to my doctor. He gave me five pills and told me to take one after each meal. That was three days ago. . .and I have four pills left."

YOUNG MODERNS

You Can Learn A Lot From A Summer Job

By VIVIAN BROWN

A SUMMER JOB is an education, says Jimmy Morgan, 17, handsome six-footer of Scarborough, N. Y. After a two months stint in the mail room of an "ad" agengy, a job he took two days after he graduated from Hotchkiss School in Lakeville, Conn., Jimmy feels that the money he earned wasn't important, it was the experience that really counts.

"I met all sorts of people on this job, from race track touts and boozers to bank officers," he says, "It was an adventure from start to finish."

The cast of characters in the mail room included/

BHE BOSS. . ."A very considerate, efficient fellow, terrific under pressure, who knows how to handle his men excellently. He was considerate, and I've decided that should be the first qualification of the perfect boss," Jimmy says.

THE PORTER. . ."He looks like a tough guy but is the kindliest man in the world. He showed me all the ropes, helped me the most and I'm glad I met him."

THE FIGHTER. . ."He is the character of the mail room, a man who has his ups and downs, but never stays down. He is always on the way back up the ladder."

From these three, Jimmy learned that you must know people to understand them, and that first impressions aren't always the best.

Jimmy worked two and a half weeks as a mimeograph attendant, the same length of time as a messenger, and three weeks as a helper to the mail room boss.

When Jimmy takes off for Princeton University this fall, he'll have learned a good summer's worth, including:

THE VALUE OF A DOLLAR. . ."It costs a lot to eat in New York City but I finally found a little restaurant where you could get a big bowl of spaghetti for 55 cents, tip 15 cents," (He'll appreciate Mom's good cooking from here in.) Mail room boys don't earn high wages, and must rely on pocketing their transportation money. (You can make up to $8 a week by walking, not riding, and "everybody does it," Jimmy says.)

IT PAYS TO MAKE FRIEND. . ."What can you lose being nice to everyone? A summer employee shouldn't try to jeopardize the job of anyone who makes his living at it all the year 'round."

EVERYBOD'S BOSS .... "the mail room has more bosses than the entire Eillington Co. Everybody in the mail room wants to tell the boss how to do it."

DISCRETION. . ."I was careful to maintain secrecy on a lot of things going on in the business. Mailroom boys know everything that is going on in an agency, see all memos, correspondence."

BEST FOOT FORWARD. . . "I was chosen to get the president's lunch, and other boys were chosen for important jobs on the basis of how well they could perform or how well they dressed if the assignment involved making a good appearance."

DISADVANTAGES. . ."There is little opportunity for advancement from a mail room, and most employees are just happy to get their pay. The work is exhausting and you are always running around, in and out of air-conditioned buildings, getting rained on, perspiring, getting chilled."

PREPAREDNESS. . ."You must be prepared for emergencies, as one day I got caught way down in Wall Street without a subway token, and had to borrow money from an ice cream vendor."

ADVANTAGES. . ."Time and a half for overtime and $3 for supper money when you have to work overtime."

MYTH EXPLODED. . ."Ad agencies are not the glamorous places to work that the best-sellers make them out to be."

RESPONSIBILITY. . ."I was frequently entrusted with large sums of money. On one occasion I carried $980 in cash."

Jimmy won't go back to the "ad" agency next summer. He prefers to work on machines to fit in with the applied mathematics he'll be studying at college.

"You have to go to college now to learn how to push buttons," he says.

"I worked as a landscape gardener's assistant last summer and made four times more money as I made this summer, but I didn't learn as much," grins Jimmy.

Install Officers In Toastmasters

George Jennings of Tulia, Area I Toastmasters governor, conducted semi-annual installation of new officers of Hereford Toastmasters Cub Tuesday Evening in the ballroom of the Jim Hill Hotel.

Installed for six-month terms were Dr. Milton C. Adams, president; Virgil Dodson, educational vice-president; Pete Peterson, administrative vice-president; Bill Thompson, secretary-treasurer; and Kenneth Rudd, sergeant-at-arms.

Jennings, an attorney from Tulia, was introduced to members and their wives by Dale Young, outgoing president of the local club. Young was presented a Past-President's Plaque by Dr. Adams, new president.

Before conducting the installation, Jennings pointed out that there are 80,000 members of Toastmasters International in 33 countries. The first club was organized in October, 1924.

Guests at the installation meeting were Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Warren and Mrs. Howard Walker of Hereford, and Mr. and Mrs. Gilbert Milligan and Mrs. George Jennings of Tulia.

The guests were introduced by local member Ronald Fuhrmann, and another member, Alvin Smith, gave the invocation.

Household Scrapbook

Garden Markers
Shellac comes in handy in the garden, too. Shellac the empty seed packets to row markers, and then shellac the outside surfaces of the packets. The packets will stay in place and be legible for as long as you need them.

Mildewed Leather
If you have some leather goods that has acquired mildew, try wiping it with a cloth wrung out of a solution of denatured alcohol and water (equal parts) and dry in the sun.

Limp Veils
A limp and lifeless veil can be often cured by putting it between two pieces of waxed paper and running a moderately warm iron over it.

Cleaning Gold Braid
You can do a good job of cleaning gold braid by brushing it first with a stiff brush, then rubbing powdered alum well into the braid. Let the alum remain, and the braid will take on a brighter look after an hour or so.

Substitute Shoe Polish
A good substitute shoe polish on either black or brown shoes can be effected simply by sprinkling some lemon juice over the shoes and rubbing them vigorously.

Deodorizer
A good deodorizer in the bathroom is a bottle of lemon juice left uncorked in the room.

Cooling Drink
Spiced iced tea is something different in a refreshing drink. Simply put four or five whole cloves into the pot in which the tea is brewing, and ice as usual.

was authorized here Oct. 1. The ASC office has prepared applications, notifying those who have weeds under control and land in acceptable condition.

There are approximately 112,000 acres of soil bank land in this county, Collier said, and annual rentals exceed one million dollars. The program was started in 1956, and some land owners are collecting payments for the fourth year.

"If the rate offered for 1960 is satisfactory to the applicant," Collier said, "Oct. 16 will be the latest date for contract commitment."

The program for 1960 is practically the same as that of last year, with an added restriction that a rate cannot exceed 20 per cent of the appraised value of the farm. A $50,000 limit has been placed on payments.

Collier reminded landowners that they should compare the net income they normally received from the operation of their farm with the net income they would receive under the provisions of the program if they placed all or part of their eligible land under the program.

He said the program provides a special incentive to place all the cropland on a farm in the program and cost-sharing to establish land, water, forest and wildlife conservation practices on reserved land.

He said it is no longer required that farmers making application at the ASC office take information about the acreage of each crop on their farm for the past two years and the average yield of the main three crops.

Rates may be requested personally by farmers at the ASC office or may be requested by mail if the letters are received soon enough before deadline.

Brighter Rugs

You can give your cloth rugs a good, general, brightening-up treatment just by sprinkling some salt all over the rug, letting this stand for an hour or two, then vacuuming it.

Prevent Tarnish

You can prevent those precious gold or silver evening slippers from tarnishing by keeping them well wrapped in old stockings when the shoes are not in use.

Cleaning Copper

Copper utensils can be nicely cleaned if you will mix a cupful of flour and a tablespoon of salt to a paste with some vinegar, then rub this over the article with a soft cloth, and polish with a bit of flannel or chamois.

Paint on Windows

Paint spots on your windowpanes can be removed by soaking the glass with some hot vinegar, giving this a few minutes to soak in, then rubbing or scraping the paint off.

Perspiration Odor

Perspiration odor in men's woolen shirts can be removed by adding a little vinegar to the rinse water, after the usual laundering.

Mosquito Bites

The sting can be taken out of mosquito bites if a little household ammonia is added to the water with which the skin is washed.

Whitewash Formula

Here is a good formula for making a whitewash for inside use: Mix thoroughly one pound of powdered glue and one gallon of water. In another container, mix 20 pounds of hydrated lime with two gallons of water, stirring carefully until all lumps have been dissolved. Combine the two mixtures and mix until very smooth. Thin with water to a suitable consistency, and apply with a whitewash brush.

Egg Colors

The color of eggs has nothing to do with their nutritional value. They contain the same amount of food value whether brown, white, or cream colored.

Oil-Stained Rugs

Often oil stains on rugs can be eradicated by treating the spots first with a cloth soaked in limewater, then washing if necessary.

When travelling, he sleeps outdoors. The back seat of his car would indicate that he is getting ready to stage a month-long camping trip.

He came to the United States last December, after spending a year in Canada. Working his way across the country, he has been employed as a salesman, bookkeeper, steel construction worker, car washer and at a skiing resort.

It ain't necessarily so! Texas Christian University will not play at Texas A&M this Saturday. But, unfortunately, this is what the contest blank for the football contest said in Sunday's Brand. For what good it might do, we can blame the error on the Associated Press, which put out the master schedule for major colleges in the US. Anyhow, the blank in today's paper shows that TCU will be at Texas Tech, who has been expecting the Horned Frogs all along. If you want to use Sunday's blank and put your vote on Tech, just mark out the Aggies and write in Texas Tech and we'll know who you favor.

Santa added that letters mailed right after Thanksgiving would be early enough.

Rotary Club Hears Speech On Alcoholism Commission

The Rev. Joel Treadwell, vicar at St. Thomas Episcopal Church in Hereford and member of the recently-formed Hereford Commission on Alcoholism, was speaker at the noon meeting of Hereford Rotary Club Monday in the Jim Hill Hotel.

The Rev. Treadwell pointed out that 55 per cent of the nation's population uses alcoholic beverage in one form or another, at least once a year. Of the 80,000,000 in the nation "who drink", enough of those have become alcoholics to make alcoholism the number three major health problem in the nation.

He said alcoholism has been known of for many years, but that in the past it has been an "unspeakable subject." Now, he explained, something is being done to solve the problem.

In 1876, he said, a Texas constitution provided that an asylum be formed for alcoholics. In 1893, he went on, a bill was passed that alcoholism be taught in all state-supported schools, but the bill was practically ignored.

Between 1893 and 1951, nothing was done, and in 1951, a bill was approved which provided that alcoholics could be admitted to state hospitals on a voluntary basis.

In 1953, a commission on alcoholism was set up, and in 1955, a hospital program was set up in cooperation. Additional help was provided in 1957, the Rev. Treadwell said.

Only 10 per cent of the alcoholics in the United Sttes are of the "skid row" variety, he said. The others, he added, are "hidden".

Alcoholism, he said, results in either death or hospitalization in a mental institution.

The Commission here believes that: the alcoholic is a sick person, they believe the alcoholic can be helped and recognize that it's a public health problem and a public responsibility.

Rev. Joel Treadwell
. . . . speaks on Alcoholism Commission

Education, he said, is basis of the Commission's work. The Commission must know who the alcoholics are, and facts must be taken to every local home.

The Rev. Treadwell said the Commission hopes to have literature for those who need it, and hope to form a reference center to direct persons who need help to the proper persons. A telephone service also is being planned.

He explained that the Commission is neither "wet" or "dry," and concluded that there is being a realization of the problem of alcoholism through the nation today, and that definite steps are being taken to solve the problem.

Of the 15 charter members, only Dyalthia Benson still belongs to the Hereford B & PW.

Active in civic work, these women annually sponsor a scholarship for a deserving girl graduating from Hereford High School. They also give aid to Girls' Town, donated $700 this year to the Hereford Community Center and help other community projects.

As a climax to their work this year, the Hereford B & PW club will be host to the District Conference next month, which will be attended by members from 13 other area towns.

Efficient, courteous and active, these women are an asset to Hereford business and community life.

Mr. Larsen Brings Home 1000 Sheep

By MRS. OWEN ANDREW

Daniel J. Larsen of Hereford recently returned from Sonora, south of San Angelo, with about 1000 head of sheep. Mr. Larsen was gone about four or five days, during which he had the sheep weighed and sheared before having them shipped here. These sheep are being fed in corrals until the field is open for pasturing them.

Mr. and Mrs. Ken Anderson, son-in-law and daughter of the Larsens, live on the farm, which is nine miles south of Hereford. They report that the cold,rainy weather of the past week has been hard on the newly sheared sheep and they have lost several. The farm has about fifty acres of sugar beets, which will provide fattening food for the sheep later in the fall.

About a month ago, Mr. Larsen bought some 600 head of sheep at San Angelo. These sheep are grazing a cornfield on the farm here.

Recent visitors in the Ken Anderson home were Mrs. Harding Anderson and sons. They were on their way to Utah to make their home. The Harding Andersons have been living in France for two years, where Mr. Anderson was stationed with the Air Force. He has been transferred to a base at Lake Charles, La. and his family is going on to Utah, where they expect to live when he is released from the service.

Mrs. Anderson, whom the Ken Andersons had never met, is a native of Canada and one of the sons is an adopted French boy. They had traveled extensively in Europe, so the visit was very interesting to the Andersons.

Mrs. T. L. Sparkman was honored with a birthday dinner Sunday in the home of her daughter, Mrs. Owen Andrews. Others present were T. L. Sparkman, Owen Andrews, Veradelle Andrews, Joe Andrews, Mr. and Mrs. T. L. Sparkman Jr., Tommie, Bonnie and Darlene Sparkman, Mr. and Mrs. Clark Andrews, Rocky, Kirk and Lynette.

Mr. and Mrs. Weldon Stephan and Jill and Rhonda visited Wednesday and Thursday at Texline with the E. H. Littles.

Mrs. Weldon Stephan has been spending some time at the home of her parents, the H. D. Robbins, in Hereford, where Mrs. Robbins is ill. They and the Moody Stephans and Linda ate Sunday dinner at the Robbins. Home for the week end was Pat Robbins, who is a freshman at Oklahoma A. & M., Stillwater.

Mr. and Mrs. Jim Brooks visited at Clayton Thursday, spent Friday night at Conchas lake and visited the home of their daughter, Mrs. Dueward Taylor, at Friona, on Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Andrews and Doris Jean were visitors in the Brooks home Sunday afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. Homer West, of 202 Clements St., Hereford, are parents of a daughter, born Oct. 5th. She has been named Linda Faye. Maternal grandparents are the Rev. and Mrs. B. H. Baldwin.

Mrs. J. E. Warrick and J. E. Warrick Jr. returned Sunday from Wellington, where they had visited several days in the Velman and Lawrence Warrick homes.

Mrs. Ellen Sears, who has made extended visits with Mrs. J. W. Warrick here, is recovering at the home of a son in Amarillo from a serious operation which she underwent on Sept. 17. She is reported to be doing very well, especially in view of the fact that she is 78 years of age.

Visiting the Warrick home Sunday evening were Mr. and Mrs. Dub Maddox and family of Hereford.

Mr. and Mrs. Woodrow Jones have bought a home at 808 Braford Street in Dimmitt and are to move the first of this month. They have been living southwest of Dimmitt for the past year.

Recent visitors in the Jones home were the R. L. Jones from Frio, Mrs. Francis Hughes and children of Hart, the Jimmy Jones of Hereford, and Mrs. Jones' brothers, Raymond and Clarence Rhodes and Mrs. Clarence Rhodes and son, Calvin, of Andrews.

The Woodrow Jones recently attended funeral services for an aunt of Mrs. Jones, Mrs. H.N. Thompson, at Levelland.

Mr. and Mrs. Wendell Markley are parents of a daughter, born Oct. 2nd at the Deaf Smith County Hospital. Mrs. Markley and daughter were to come home on Monday. The baby has been named Sonia Gwen.

H. D. Clubs To Study Canned Goods Storage

By ARGEN DRAPER

This month the Home Demonstration Clubs will be studying home storage of vegetables, one-dish meals and driver's education.

With the abundance of vegetables at certain times during the year, families should conserve vegetables by storing. The home basement and cellar are the most popular places for storage; however, nothing has replaced a home storage pit that can be put on any ground that is well drained.

A recommended type is a barrel — covered with straw and dirt. This keeps the temshould be deep enough to preperature even and the covering vent freezing.

It seems that if an old refrigerator could be bought at a bargain, that it would be a good way to store vegetables that need to be kept at a low temperature. The humidity could be controlled by using damp cloths or a pan of water.

From a number of people who are coming by to see Loreta Fowler, it looks like Crosby County people have really been moving to Deaf Smith. Crosby County may be running a close second to Collingsworth.

With recent cold weather, it reminds us that it is mincemeat time again. This recipe was given us by Roberta Campbell. She has used it for a long time, and I believe you will like it.

Mincemeat

3 pts. chopped cooked apples
1 pt. lean ground beef
½ lb. ground suet
½ cup grape wine or juice
1 glass jelly
2 lbs. seedless raisins
1 pt. cider
1 lb. sugar
1 tsp. each cloves cinnamon and salt
½ cup vinegar
1 lb currants
½ lb. candied citron
¼ lb. candied orange and lemon rind

Mix all ingredients together and cook for twenty minutes. Seal in jars while hot. Makes 10 pints of mincemeat. One pint will make a pie. Ground pork may be substituted for a part of the meat.

The following recipe is from an Extension Bulletin:

7½ lbs. pears (peeled and cored)
1 orange, 1 lemon, 1 apple (unpeeled fruit)
1 cup grape juice or other fruit juice
1 tablespoon each ground cinnamon, cloves and allspiece
1 lb. seedless raisins
3 lbs. sugar
1 cup vinegar
1 teaspoon salt

Grind pears, orange, lemon and apple. Mix with all other ingredients and boil for two hours, Pack into hot jars. Seal while hot.

Green Tomato Mincemeat is popular with a good number of people. Here is a recipe for it.

2 quarts chopped tomatoes
1 tablespoon salt
1 orange
2½ quarts chopped apples
1 lb. seeded raisins
½ cup vinegar
3½ cups brown sugar
2 teaspoons cinnamon
1 teaspoon cloves
½ teaspoon ginger
1 teaspoon nutmeg

Wash and drain tomatoes, orange and apples. Core, chop, measure and sprinkle tomatoes with salt. Let stand 1 hour.Drain tomatoes, then cover with boiling water and let stand 5 minutes. Drain well. Grate rind and chop pulp of orange. Core, pare, chop and measure apples. Mix all ingredients and boil slowly until tomatoes and apples are tender. Pour, boiling hot, into hot jar; seal at once.

NOTE: 1½ cups chopped suet may be added to the above recipe. If suet is used, cook mincemeat only until boiling hot. Pack and process pints and quarts 25 minutes at 10 pounds steam pressure.

Mrs. J. B. Carathers, who used to live at Dawn, gave us this recipe:

PEPPER RELISH

Grind in food chopper:

6 green sweet peppers
6 red sweet peppers
7 medium size onions

Pour boiling water over this and let stand 15 minutes. Drain. Add to the above mixture:

1½ pints vinegar
1½ teaspoons salt
4 cups sugar.

Boil all together 15 minutes. Seal.

SURPLUS CUPCAKES

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (AP) — Mrs. Edith Lichterman baked 54 cupcakes to serve at her 5-year-old son's birthday the next day. But that morning he came down with the measles. The party was rescheduled for later, and again Mrs. Lichterman baked 54 cupcakes. This time, her son broke out with chickenpox.

OFFICIAL AT LAST

WAUTOMA, Wis. (AP) — The Wautoma City Council finally got around to passing an ordinance combining the offices of comptroller and city treasurer.

Mrs. Gina Nelson, treasurer, is sort of happy that it's been made official. She's been performing the duties of both offices for the last 19 years.

STARTS BIG

WHEAT RIDGE, Colo. (AP) — Mrs. Clarence Williams is a junior high school gym teacher who never had an art lesson in her life.

That didn't stop her when she decided she'd like a "great, big picture" in a basement recreation room. She went to work with paints and when she was done, she had a mountain mural 25 feet long.

HOT BITE

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. (AP) — A squirrel put out the lights in three suburban communities and parts of two others recently. He climbed a utility pole and chewed into a 44,000-volt line. Service was restored shortly but the squirrel didn't survive to see the lights go back on.

WRONG CHUTE

ATIKOKAN, Ont. (AP) — Customers complained they weren't getting stamps from a new stamp machine in the post office. Officials found the stamp slot stopped up by a letter which someone thought he was mailing.

Pecan trees produce a good crop one year and a poor crop the next. On the second year they do not have sufficient plant food.

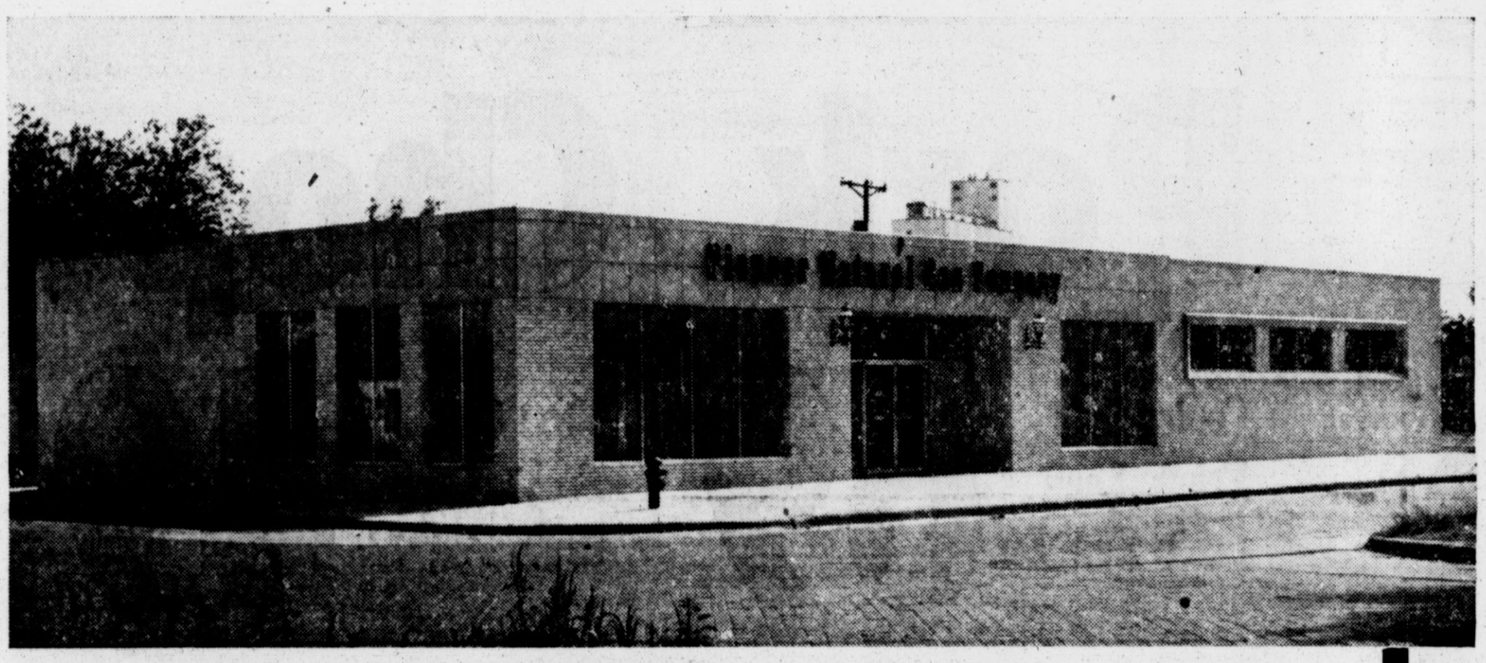
OPEN HOUSE



SATURDAY

OCTOBER 10 9 a. m. - 5 p. m.

We're pleased as punch with our new office and want y'all to come see it!

It's been a long time in the building . . . beset by construction delays and bad weather. But we're finally in!

Sure, it means nicer working surroundings for the PNG staff in Hereford. It's larger than the old place — 5000 sq. ft. of all-year air conditioned working space — and the white brick exterior is much more attractive. After all, it gives us a feeling of pride to work in a place that's right "up-to-snuff".

But what really counts, is the fact that we are now in a position to serve YOU better than ever! Pioneer is a good company, and considerate of it's employees' welfare, but this building wasn't built to please the employees . . . it was built to please YOU and all our valued customers, and to make things more convenient for you in your dealings with us.

Take the matter of parking, for example. We now have a spacious, paved lot, cheerfully illuminated by the glow of Gas Lights. You'll have no parking problem on your visits to the office.

There's a drive-up teller window to make it easy to pay your service bill from your car, when in a hurry . . . and a night depository, as well.

There's a beautiful new Flame Room that will accomodate 5 persons — open to any recognized group or organization for meetings or demonstrations.

For your information and buying guidance, there are handsome displays of all the latest gas appliances available in Hereford stores. But why prattle on? C'mon in and look the place over for yourself. John Sims, our District Manager, and the entire staff extend a cordial invitation to come see us.

T. L. Sparkman Jr.
. . . Water Conservation District Representative

TO T. L. SPARKMAN JR.:

Single Well In 1935 Showed Future Irrigation Potentials

T. L. Sparkman Jr. of Hereford represents District Precinct No. 4, which consists of Armstrong, Deaf Smith, Potter and Randall counties, on the Board of the High Plains Underground Water Conservation District. He has served on the District Board since January, 1959, when elected by the people of his precinct.

Sparkman was born at Childress, Texas, on Nov. 23, 1915. He is the only son of Mr. and Mrs. T. L. Sparkman Sr.

When Sparkman was only two years old, his family moved onto a section of land near the Jumbo community in Castro County. Sparkman's grandfather, G. F. Springer, owned the grassland section. His father raised cattle on the land. He cultivated just enough land on which to grow feed for his cows.

Sparkman began public school in 1922 at the Jumbo Elementary School. He attended there until 1925, at which time the family moved to the Frio community in the northwestern part of Castro County. His father bought a half-section of land on which he raised wheat and maize. After completing elementary school at Frio, Sparkman attended the Hereford High School.

In 1933 his father drilled an irrigation well. The well was drilled to a depth of 110 feet below the land surface. It was among the first wells to use the new type high-capacity turbine pumps (the type presently used) In 1935, Sparkman's father produced a kaffir grain crop that yielded an almost-unheard-of 60 bushels of grain per acre. This showed him the real potential of irrigation farming.

On Dec. 26, 1936, Sparkman married Miss RubyAndrews.The Andrews family also farmed near Frio and were neighbors to the Sparkmans.

The following spring the young Sparkman couple bought a half-section tract of land which adjoined the Sparkman's home farm. An 8-inch irrigation well was on the land. They also rented a nearby half-section of land from H. E. Ritch and he too put down an irrigation well.

In 1938 Sparkman began building a herd of registered Hereford cattle. He also raised some feeder stock. Today Sparkman's hrd consists of about 60 grown cows and over 40 calves and bulls.

On Sept. 14, 1942 a son, Tommy, was born to Mr. and Mrs. Sparkman. Tommy is now classified as a junior in the Hereford High School. He is active in F. F. A. work. The eldest daughter, Bonnie, was born on Aug. 22, 1944. She is a sophomore in high school.

In 1945 the Sparkmans bought a section of grassland near Dawn in Deaf Smith County and moved there from Frio. They cultivated 140 acres on the section to raisse feed for the livestock herd.

Darlene, the youngest of the Sparkman's three children, was born on November 1, 1949. At present she attends the fourth grade at the Aikman Elementary School in Hereford.

The tract of irrigated land at Frio was sold in 1950 and the half-section of land on which the Sparkmans now make their home was purchased in 1951. This place is irrigated and is located three miles northeast of Hereford. Principally, Sparkman raises crops for ensilage to feed his livestock.

The Sparkmans are presently in the process of building a new home on their farm.

The family attends the Frio Baptist Church,where Sparkman is a member of the Board of Deacons. He also teaches a Sunday School class of young people and is a past Superintendent of the Sunday School.

Sparkman served for one year on the Deaf Smith County Committee of the High Plains Water District before being elected by the people of his precinct to serve on the Board of Directors.

His main hobby is collecting guns -- he has twelve -- mostly rifles. He has one old .35 caliber rim-fire revolver that was made about 1875 and was given to him by his grandfather. He keeps horses which are ridden for both pleasure and work.Sparkman also enjoys taking color pictures with his 35mm camera.

HEREFORD SALE committee, including Colby Conkwright of Hereford, center, is shown looking over entry blanks and information sheets for a Special Feeder Cattle Sale to be held in Dalhart Oct. 24. Public Schools Guidance Survey Conducted By West Texas Group

LUBBOCK, "A Post-Sputnik Look at Guidance in Public Schools" recently was compiled by the West Texas School Study Council after a year's survey of guidance programs in state school systems.

Schools affiliated with the council are: Hereford, Abernathy,Andrews,Big Spring,Brownfield, Denver City, Hale Center, Kermit, Lamesa, Levelland, Littlefield, Monahans, Morton, Petersburg, Plainview, Seminole and Slaton.

Primary purpose of the study was "to provide guidance personnel in the public schools with a source of information and inspiration, and to some extent, a handbook on good guidance practices,"stated Dr. Berlie J. Falion, executive secretary of the council.

A concurrent emphasis is placed on curriculum practices and trends taken from a survey of 28 Texas school systems.

Some of the trends discussed are the various methods of orienting students, the accessibility of different kinds of informational services, and special guidance toward college, vocations and military service. In-service training of counselors is also reviewed.

Increased attention to the gifted child is apparent with counceling and individual guidance on the upswing. Resources showed that in identifying the gifted child, more than one method is used. I. Q. score is not a widespread method of classifying students.

In most schools, the organization of the professional staff to help the gifted child is still limited but such methods as homogeneous grouping, enrichment of curriculum and individual help are used.

While they do not inform parents of the child's I. Q., the schools do tell parents of a child's abilities.

Types of testing in the 28 school systems are presented in the manual. The schools use a variety of tests for identifying and grouping to meet instructional needs. Uses of the various tests are explained.

Included in the book is a check list or "do-it yourself-plan" suggesting improvements for guidance programs. The check list is primarily an evaluation instrument to be used in performing a self-study of the total guidance program of an individual school system.

The evaluation may be divided into both elementary and secondary categories.

Other divisions of the book include a record of "A Conference on the Gifted Child," featuring as principal consultant Dr. Louis Armstrong, director of Indian Springs School for the Gifted in Helena, Ala. Organization of the material

Geigel, Leone Win Wrestling Events Saturday

Big Bob Geigel and Ripper Leone won the double main event wrestling matches at the Bull Barn Saturday night.

Geigel and Bob Orton paired off, with Tommy Phelps working as referee. Geigel took the first fall in 18 minutes with a Boston Crab hold.

Orton won the second fall in 10 minutes by slinging Geigel into the turn buckle and pinning Geigel's shoulders.

Geigel won the deciding fall in eight minutes. In the fall, Geigel and Orton ran together in the ring, knocking both out. Geigel was first to rise to his feet.

Leone and Hernandez paired off next with a fast start, and Ripper won the first fall. During the fall, Geigel entered the ring and challenged Ripper.

Hernandez took the second fall in two minutes.

Ripper and Hernandez wrestled to a draw in the third fall, but Geigel entered the ring to help Hernandez, and referee Phelps gave the match to Leone.

Next Saturday night, Bob Geigel and Cowboy Carlson will be wrestling partners in a tag team event, which will begin at 8:45 p.m. They will wrestle against Ripper Leone and Tony Morelli.

Geigel, being an Umbarger rancher and a good friend of Dory Funk, will be out to even the score and get revenge when he meets Ripper on opposite sides Saturday night. Cowboy Carlson is also a friend of the Funks and has no love for Ripper or Morelli either.

Cunningham will join local school board members from across Texas in studying the attitudes and activities of various citizen groups as they work for better public schools. How school boards and school administrators can benefit from the current crest of public interest in public schools will also be studied.

"Improving Education -- A Free People's Responsibility" is the theme of the two-day conference which will feature addresses by Dr. James H Jauncey, El Paso First Christian Church Minister and engineer with the National Security Scientific Project, White Sands, New Mexico, and Dr. Daniel R. Davies, Professor of Educaticn at Teachers College, Columbia University. Business and industry, parents, educators, school boards, the State and "the public" will be represented in panels and study groups exploring the conference theme.

Water Problem Still Far From 'Solved'

By VERN SANFORD

AUSTIN,--This time three years ago nearly every newspaper in the state was writing about "the water problem."

It was a discouraging time. Texas had come through a scorching, dusty summer that forced many farmers to leave their stunted crops in the fields and hunt work in town.

Ranchers were equally hard hit. In many cases, due to lack of feed, they sold their breeding cattle, lost their land or went heavily indebt.

It was the climax of the most widespread drought ever recorded in this region. Average rainfall for the year dwindled to 16.2 inches, second lowest figure since 1888.

Office seekers in the campaign year of 1956 had a good deal to say about how hard they would work to "solve the water problem". Many did work hard.

But three years later the water problem is still far from "solved."

By the time the Legislature met in 1957, the rains had begun. It rained so much that many people, of necessity, became more interested in flood relief than drought relief.

Three major water measures were passed in 1957, however. These measures:

(1) Set up the Texas Water Development Board with a $200,000,000 fund to make loans to help pay for local water projects.

(2) Established a planning division in the State Water Board to do research on water needs, but without authority to recommend an overall plan. Appropriation was $900,000, instead of the $1,200,000 recommended by the governor.

(3) Gave the Water Board authority to contract for water storage space in federal reservoirs, with legislative approval.

Last two of these was passed only after Governor Daniel re-submitted them at a special session. And then they almost went under when a city-farm fight developed on the side issue of whether farmers should be able to dam up small lakes and use them for irrigation.

This year the Legislature inched up the Water Board budget by $200,000. But the $2,037,000 appropriation was $800,000 less than requested by the governor.

As yet, the Water Development Board has made no loans for construction. Engineers in the State Water Board's planning division are working on a statewide report due in 1963, and a federal commission is also making a study. But legislators are skittish about having anything that might be called a definite state plan for fear it will set sectional jealousies aflame.

So dear is water to most Texans' hearts that almost any move by anyone to do anything with some of it is sure to be interpreted by a neighbor as "grabbing."

Guadalupe-Blanco River Authority and the City of San Antonio had a long, bitter hassle over the Canyon Dam project.

Right now, the biggest fight is on the Trinity. After months of bickering, the City of Houston and the Trinity River Authority agreed to cooperate in building a dam at Livingston.

Now the San Jacinto River Authority is protesting. SJRA officials are telling Houston people that Trinity water is of "poor quality" and that San Jacinto water could be developed at much lower cost.

Amid it all, engineers and business analysts have some sobering reminders:

(1) Drought of the 1950's cost Texans $3,000,000.

(2) Another drought is coming and when it does, population will be greater and water needs higher.

(3) Water to carry the state through a drought can only be stored up in rainy years, and three of those "good" years have already passed.

Gov. Daniel continues to talk like a man who doesn't feel that his work as a public servant has been completed.

Speaking to a school audience, the governor dwelt on "the need for another forward step in providing better schools, including increased salaries for teachers."

REP. WALTER ROGERS WRITES:

Present Problems Should Be Solved In Communities

To the people of the 18th District:

No crystal ball or sixth sense is required to realize the problems which beset mankind today. One has only to pick up any newspaper and scan the headlines to get an idea of that with which our generation must wrestle and solve every day.

A glance at history and the exercise of even moderate vision into the future reminds us that these problems will increase and will, in all likelihood,intensify. As those which challenged our forefathers differ from those which confront us today, so will those which must be met by our children and grandchildren be altered in succeeding generations.

It has always been the character of the American people to seek, by their own initiative,that which would improve their own standards as well as those of their fellow man. This is the American way, and I hope Mr. Khrushchev observed this on his recent visit to the United States.

Our achievements -- past, present, and future -- have been and will be accomplished by the process of educating ourselves so as to recognize the problems which challenge our democratic society ..and find their solutions. The necessity for a balanced education has never been so great, and this necessity will grow in the immediate and long-range future.

The challenge is being felt, and will be met where it rightfully should be -- in local communities and in the separate States. In 1950, the State of Texas had a college-age population of 500,615 and college enrollment of 125624, or 25.1 per cent of college eligibles enrolled.

In 1955 the college-age population was 527,907, with a 29 per cent enrollment of 153,148. A total of 175,854 or 31.5 per cent of the 558,202college-age population was enrolled in 1958. This 31.5 per cent enrollment compares with 17.9 per cent in Mississippi and 63.9 per cent in the State of Utah.

I hope the percentage of increase continues to rise. All foreseeable estimates indicate our expanding population will continue to increase. American education will, therefore,most likely meet its greatest challenge in the remainder of the twentieth century. I have infinite faith that we are accepting the challenge and will solve the problems, no matter how difficult.

One of the greatest problems is one which we hear constantly, to-wit: the acute teacher shortage. Americans, and particularly we in Texas, are blessed with a strong force of efficient, conscientious teachers who are aware of their great responsibility in advancing American democracy.

They are, in many cases, underpaid and they are in all cases in great demand, in elementary and secondary schools as well as colleges and universities. Teachers constitute the largest single professional group in the United States and it seems to me this is as it should be. The number must be increased, however, if we are to cope with the challenge which is ours.

I can think of no greater opportunity as a life work than that afforded by the teaching profession. If America is to fulfill her role of leadership in a free government and an enlightened society, it will come about in large part because we demand good schools and are willing to support good teachers.

'Do It Yourself' Trend Is Taking Over Fancy Cooking

The disappearance of the domestic and the bounty of America are combining to create a new breed of discerning eaters: epicures who cook the dishes they enjoy.

"Lucullus, Madame Pompadour, Louis XIV and Marie Antoinette were great gourmets," says Poppy Cannon, one of the new cook-epicures, "but any of them would have been helpless in the kitchen. The Duc de Richelieu has several sauces named in his honor — but in honor of his inspiration and appreciation, not his preparation. The only notable exception I can think of was Alexandre Dumas, who was not only a great epicure but a magnificent and daring cook."

This country's great cooks and good eaters are being developed right in their own kitchens, not in its restaurants, she says.

"It has come about as a matter of necessity," insists Miss Cannon. "We have lost our servitors, and in order to have great food you have to know how to make it yourself."

In another era it took years to evolve as a great chef, and most of them learned as they worked along with a skilled veteran. Today a beginner can take many short-cuts and has on hand a great many aids.

"In the first place, there is a wealth of literature on good cooking now," said Miss Cannon. "It is in books, in newspapers and in magazines.

"In the second place, there is a wealth of materials available for superb cooking. No king ever knew such bounty of foods which are available in and out of season. The average supermarket — the average, mind you — stocks about 5,000 different items, including such things as saffron, oregano and sesame.

Miss Cannon says that thousands of men and women have become such good cooks and so knowledgable about cooking that "advanced" cookbooks now have the brisk sale which once was reserved for the basic cookbooks which started with recipes on boiling water. A few years ago she authored a best-selling book on cooking shortcuts ("The Can-Opener Cookbook") which enjoyed a tremendous sale.

Now, in collaboration with Alice B. Toklas, a San Francisco woman who during 50 years of residence in France has become a world-famous cook, she is gratified at the sale of a book confined entirely to epicurean, exquisite dishes. It is called "Aromas and Flavors," and contains such lavish and rare recipes as a 17th Century secret for eggs pickled in wine and vinegar; a method to prepare a special salad vinegar with rose leaves and something Miss Toklas, with admirable understatement calls "Extravagant Mashed Potatoes" which calls for the use of a pound of butter with four potatoes.

"You can do great cooking with very little material," confesses Miss Cannon, "but it is not as exciting and you need to know more about cooking if you don't have much to work with.

"I think a beginner can get started toward being a great cook with a quick and easy success right away. A lot of people were discouraged in the days when they started you making plain muffins — which were dull anyway — and finally moved you on to more fancy things. I think the way to start is with a souffle — it's not hard and it's dramatic and quick. Today with canned soups, frozen meats, mixes and all the short cuts, anyone who enjoys eating can start cooking at the top and keep on going from there."

The Spanish language is used by approximately 103 million people.

FAINT BRINGS ACTION

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Things got exciting when a woman fainted in a downtown drugstore here. Someone in the building across the street saw the woman faint, picked up the phone and yelled for the operator to call the fire department.

Receiving a call from that location, the department sent trucks, pumpers and a hook-and-ladder. Meanwhile, a police ambulance had taken the woman to a hospital.

He said he hoped the Legislature would be ready to do something about it early next year.

In another speech, he called attention to Legislature's failure this year to pass laws dealing with crime prevention, traffic safety, narcotics and dormant funds.

Some observers feel that if the governor calls a special session and the Legislature fails to take care of all these items -- which would be a batch of tough legislation -- the governor would feel compelled to file for re-election on Feb. 1 in order to see things through.

Cal Farley Speaks To Church Group

Cal Farley, one of the organizers of Boy's Ranch, was guest speaker Monday night at the Methodist Church for the men's organization and their guests. A total of 40 were present to hear his talk on the beginning and progress of Boy's Ranch.

Cal Farley was introduced by N. L. Jacobson after the meeting was called to order by president Leland Burns.

Farley said, "A book should be written about the way people have helped," when asked about his recent publication, "A Shirttail To Hang Onto."

He said especially should this be said about the towns in the area of Boy's Ranch, for in the days of its beginning, help was needed.

He said in part, "Boys love responsibility and crave love an on these two things have we grown."

When asked how much money was required to run Boy's Ranch for one year, he replied, "In 1958, it took $28,000 a month, and in 1959 it appears that the figure will be near $29,000. A total of 3,000 shirts are required each week."

"Each boy is recognized as much as possible, especially on his birthday. The ranch gives him a gift and the members of his dormitory plans a party for him. He is then presented with a gift and birthday cake. . .

"Each boy has his own bank account. He does hiw own shopping at the country store which is located at the ranch for the boy's experience. Fourteen different trades are offered and a few boys have attended college. Th main purpose is for the boy to make his own way in the world after he gets out."

Trek Over Mountains Gives Big Thrill To Businessmen

WILLIAMS, Ariz. (AP) — Don't go around saying all modern businessmen are softies. Someone may bring up the Bill Williams Mountain Men.

The Mountain Men are an exclusive band of gents who punish themselves brutally just for fun to perpetuate the memory of the rugged trappers who carved an empire from the wilderness of the Old West.

For 51 weeks of the year they're doctors, judges or cafe owners. They live quietly in the Grand Canyon gateway town of Williams, which — like their group — was named for a Bible-totin' old trapper.

But late each winter they grow bushy beards, don buckskin clothing and give up comforts of home for a 5½-day, 165 mile horseback ride to Phoenix.

The trek is something of a publicity stunt with the ride timed to end at the Arizona State Fair-ground on opening day of the annual Phoenix Rodeo. But it's no lark for a tenderfoot.

It's an overland trip through steep, cold mountains and parching desert. The parttime adventurers ride all day, cavort and spin tall tales far into the night and then try to catch a few winks in bedrolls thrown on the hard, rocky ground.

The Bill Williams Mountain Men have been making their ride for six years and only 29 starters have gone all the way.

The only non-Arizonan to stick the full distance is John F. Monroe, a 63-year old Milwaukee investment banker who did it this year.

Monroe quickly learned why so many who try it drop out along the way — saddle sore-ness.

burned when we reached Phoenix," he says. "But, man, you ought to have seen the other end."

Few outsiders get invitations to join the mountain men on the trek. Monroe got his quite by chance.

"A year ago," he recalls, "my wife and I were driving through northern Arizona when we saw this weird mob of buckskin-clad riders. We thought they were a bunch of unemployed sheepherders.

"When we found out what they were doing, we got acquainted with them. Later they asked me to make this year's trip, and they probably were laying odds I wouldn't last."

The rub of the saddle isn't the only discomfort.

"Dropping down from the cold, wild country of 7,200 feet into the heat of the desert is a rugged ordeal," says Monroe. "And the rocks under your sleeping bag hardly equal the luxury of the Waldorf-Astoria.

"But the companionship of those men ranks as one of the great events of my life and made it all worthwhile."

The respect was mutual. Monroe's determination convinced the mountain men. They made him an honorary member.

The mountain men don't make the return trip by horseback. They're too sore from the one-way ride and too tired from four days and nights of whooping it up in Phoenix.

Beauty At Home

Q. How do you recommend the filing and shaping of the fingernails?

A. Slip your emery board in under the nail and work from the sides to the middle. Avoid beveling the edges. Nails are formed in layers and a beveled edge leaves some layers protruding beyond the others. Then the layers separate, which results in peeling nails. Keep your emery board at right angles to the nail edge.

Q. Does a girl wear her boy friend's fraternity pin with her formal gown — and how about a wristwatch?

A. Fraternity jewelry of any kind is "out" for formal wear. And wristwatches, convenient though they are, are not worn with formal gowns, unless they are very small, thin, or jeweled.

Search For Mission Bells Holds Mystery

REFUGIO, (AP) - The search for the lost mission bells of old Refugio is one of romance and mystery.

Two of the old bells now hang in the school of Our Lady of Refugio. They were found 20 years ago in the patio of a priest's house at Brownsville.

Another calls the faithful to worship in a little chapel on the nearby O'Connor Ranch.

A fourth bell reportedly was found some years ago in a little Negro church in the San Antonio River bottoms only to disappear again during a storm.

Mission Refugio was abandoned prior to 1820 when the friars returned to Mexico Cith. They took with them the more valuable articles in the chapel, but left behind the four chapel bells.

The bells supposedly disappeared during the Texas revolution.

In late years the Knights of Columbus Historical Commission sought to trace the bells. According to the commission's accounts the Mexicans took the bells when they fled Refugio.

One of the bells was hung in a small chapel south of Nueces and another at Santa Rita.

Later these bells were replaced with new ones and the old bells were hauled to Brownsville where the commission found them.

One bell bears the name "Nuestra Senora del Refugio" and the other "Santa Rita." No dates are on them.

The other two bells were traced through the memoirs of Mrs. Annie Teal, which were published 60 years ago. They said the bells had been given to her father, Nicholas Fagan.

This account said one of the bells was so badly cracked that it was abandoned by the roadside. The other bell was hung from a beam on the gallery of the Fagan home.

Fagan willed the bell to his grandson, Dennis O'Connor, who valued it so highly that he erected a chapel for it on his ranch. A part of the beam on which it originally hung in the old mission was still attached.

The cracked bell was never recovered in its entirety. For many years a piece of it was used to call worshippers at Mt. Zion. Suspended by a wire, it was struck with a hammer.

This portion of the bell disappeared completely when the church was destroyed by a storm.

A solid, substantial car • A car of superb comfort, quiet, reliability • A car you should drive soon

New comfort, quietness, and quality

Doors that open wider — easier to get in and out. Family-size interior. Seats that are higher, more deeply cushioned, and repositioned to provide more room for feet and legs. Perhaps the quietest running car in America due to Buick's high use of insulation and torque-tube drive. Buick's quality control program comes to a peak in the Turbine Drive Buick '60.

New interior decor and convenience

An entirely new "Mirromagic" instrument panel. It lets the driver see speed, gas gauge, and other necessary readings at a glance in a mirror he tilts to suit his own eye level. And a new exclusive safety option — the Twilight Sentinel*—that turns headlights on automatically at sunset . . . off automatically at sunrise. All-new colors and fabrics. Richer appointments. At slight extra cost.*

OUT OF THE PAST . . . . This open-side trolley of another era carries pleasure passengers over the 1½ mile trackage of Bera Brae station at Brandsford, Conn. A group of trolley enthusiasts maintains a collection of 42 trolleys at the station.

Trolley Fans Recall A Past Colorful Era

By FRED POWLEDGE

BRANDSFORD, Conn. (AP) — Every week end a tiny railroad station here comes alive with the nostalgic memories of a bygone, but not forgotten era.

The Bera Brae station doesn't rate mention in standard railroad timetables and its 1½ miles of track won't be found on most maps. Only 10 persons can crowd inside it at one time.

The tiny station's importance is that around it are 42 trolleys in various stages of restoration.

One of the trolleys once hit 90 miles an hour on the Cincinnati to Detroit interurban run. Another, its sides opened to the sunshine, once carried gay vacationers at Wildwood - by - the - Sea in New Jersey.

Some were the workhorses of the trolley era, hauling our fathers and grandfathers to work in the morning and bringing them home again at night. Most of the trolleys could do the job again if they had to.

The station is located a few miles from Long Island Sound. The "Bera" stands for Branford Electric Railway Assn., the collection of memory - builders who come on weekends to restore trolleys.

The association describes itself formally as "a non - profit, educational organization operating the Branford Trolley Museum, exhibiting a collection of street railway equipment which is complete from horse cars to streamliners, and inviting you to an enjoyable ride down memory lane. . ."

But informally, "We're just a group of guys who love trolley cars and who want to let people experience a part of America which has almost vanished," says John Stern of New Rochelle, N. Y., treasurer of the organization. On weekdays, Stern works as a mapmaker.

Among trolleys on display is No. 33, a relic of New York's Third Avenue Railway Co., which clattered through Times Square as a cable car in the 1890s. There is No.34, the last of its kind — a 60 - year - old, open - sided Toonerville trolley which started service in Lynchburg, Va., put in a term on the New Jersey coast and still sways along the tracks in the summertime at Bera Brae.

There are trolleys that served Brooklyn and the Bronx at the beginning of the century, cars that opened or closed their sides according to the weather.

No. 500 is a parlor car, built in 1904 for executives of a trolley company, and boasts of hand-carved oak panels, wicker chairs, mirrors, carpeting, a bathroom and a galley.

Most of the trolleys at Bera Brae are in running order. Every summer they roll through the farmland, along the 1½ miles of track to Short Beach carrying pleasure passengers.

Almost all the trolleys are being restored. Some are being painted to look like new; others have been stripped down to their frames and electric motors for complete rebuilding.

Some of the members concentrate their efforts on individual trolleys, much as a man takes pride in washing his own automobile. One of them, Jim Burchard, is a former railroad man from California.

Burchard can be found applying paint remover lovingly to the inside of an ancient trolley. "The panels were painted cream a few years ago," he says. "One day I did some scraping and found that under the paint was beautiful mahogany."

Burchard has been working on the trolley for two years. Less than one-fourth of the cream paint has been removed, revealing the deep mahogany finish. "It'll take me about five or six years more to finish," he says. "This is not the type of job you want to hurry."

LATE CALL

RICHMOND, Va. (AP) — A woman caller asked police to look for her husband.

"How long has he been gone?" she was asked.

"Thirty-four years," she answered, explaining that she wanted to marry again and to be sure it was legal.

PARKED AND WAITING

ST. LOUIS (AP) — A pair of killdeer has an entire factory excited about their four white eggs. The birds built their nest in the middle of the large parking lot of the Universal Match Corp.

Employees, worried about the cars roaring in and out of the lot, surrounded the nest with railroad ties.

Stove Burners

You can give burners on your gas stove a real thorough cleaning by removing them and dumping them into a large enameled pot with water and lye. Boil them for 10 minutes. No need to dry them afterward; just replace them, light them up for a few minutes, and they'll dry themselves.

Iodine Stains

You can remove iodine stains from furniture by wrapping a damp cloth around your finger, dipping the end into fine powdered pumice, then rubbing the spot carefully.

Dried Putty

If you have a good supply of putty that has become dry and hard, you can soften it up to a usable consistency simply by mixing it well with a few drops of linseed oil.

Lipstick Economy

Dig your worn-down lipsticks out of their tubes with a pin, and save them until you've collected five or six. Then melt these pieces together, pour the molten stuff back into one of the tubes, let cool in the refrigerator, and presto — you have a new lipstick!

Huge Pipeline On Ocean Floor

LOS ANGELES (AP) — A pipeline nearly big enough for a train to run through it is being laid on the ocean floor to discharge waste water into the sea.

Engineers call it the largest, longest, heaviest, deepest pipeline ever assembled under watr.

The pipeline, costing 21 million dollars, will extend 6.22 miles into the ocean from a sewage treatment plant. About half the distance has been covered. Each section laid is 192 feet long and 14 feet in diameter and weighs 720 tons.

It takes eight lengths of pipe to make one of the sections, which are put together on a barge and then floated on pontoons to the installation site.

Steel-helmeted workmen on a giant five-million-dollar platform then take over. The deck of the platform, 120 feet by 210 feet, is a maze of winches and machinery with a 100-ton crane in the center.

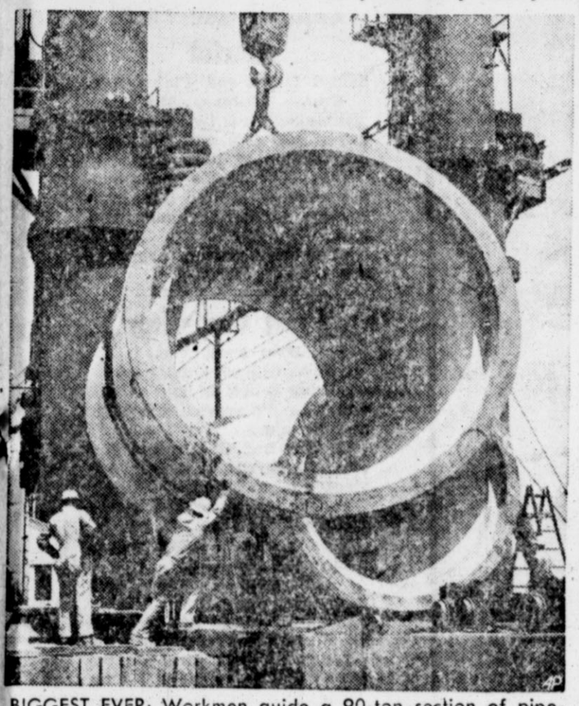
The pontoon and pipe are guided into place below the platform by a tug. The pontoons are flooded, and the 720-section of concrete is lowered to the sea floor.

Two divers sink with the section and guide it into place. Over a loudspeaker they tell winch operators which lines to lower, lift or tighten.

When the spigot end is inserted into the bell, a rubber gasket inside the foot-thick pipe walls seals it under compression. The crane on the deck pours 1,200 tons of rock down a chute to cradle the pipe. The pontoon is surfaced and pulled back to land.

Hydraulic jacks then lift the platform's 27-stories-high, 700-ton legs. The platform is pulled 192 feet farther out to sea. The legs are drilled back into the sandy sea bottom and the platform is ready for the next splicing.

The pipeline is scheduled to be completed early next year.



BIGGEST EVER: Workmen guide a 90-ton section of pipeline for fitting to another during work on what is called the longest, largest, heaviest, deepest pipeline ever assembled under water. The pipeline off Southern California will carry waste water out to sea.

END OF THE LINE: The Western States, built for a reported two million dollars in 1902 and last of the sidewheel passenger ships on the Great Lakes, is being carved up for scrap at Tawas City, Mich.

Wrecker's Torch Finally Grabs Lakes' Last Sidewheel Cruiser

By A. F. MAHAN JR.

TAWAS CITY, Mich. (AP) — The last of the once-famous D. & C. fleet of swift, luxurious Great Lakes passenger ships soon will be no more.

She is the Western States, a 350-foot side wheeler with 263 staterooms in tiered decks.

Acetylene torches and a derrick are tearing her to pieces now at the Tawas City Municipal Dock. The steel hull, with its innards of engines and boilers, will be towed to Bay City in April and cut into scrap.

Then the six-ship fleet of the Detroit & Cleveland Navigation Co. will be dead and gone, and with it an era that stretched back to gaslights. D.&C. began operating on the Great Lakes 108 years ago.

The only passenger ships left that cruise the lakes extensively are the Georgian Bay Line's North American and South American, and they fall far short of the criss-crossing wakes which the D. & C. queens once cut through America's inland seas.

The Western States evaded the wrecker's axe longer than her five sisters, but ended up ignobly and alone, tied up and frozen stiff in Saginaw Bay ice in 1950, when the Detroit & Cleveland Navigation Co. ceased operations.

With the others gone or going to the scrap heap, a bid was made in 1955 to keep the Western States afloat in all her by-gone elegance.

She was refurbished to the tune of $150,000 and towed here from Detroit to become what may have been the world's fiist "Flotel."

But the idea of making her a floating hotel and tourist attraction didn't pan out.

Robert L. Rosen, president of Lake Shore Steel, Inc., of Detroit, poured in most of the refurbishing money. He thought sentimentalists who mourned the lines' passing would rejoice States.

Some did, but not enough. Rosen recalled later:

"The letters I've had. I think everyone who ever spent a honeymoon on a D. & C. boat has written."

But when his operating losses mounted to an estimated $100,000-plus by September, 1957, Rosen closed down the flotel.

He offered to sell it for $75,000, a mere fraction of its replacement cost and far below the estimated two million dollars it cost to build at Wyandotte shipyards in 1902.

Marine Salvage Corp. of Detroit finally acquired the Western States, then sold it to Abraham Mono's Bay City Scrap Co.

What was the final price?

"Just say over $30,000," was Mono's answer as he signaled a derrick to reach for some more of the 1,000 tons of super-structure he plans to haul down by April.

Below him, standing on ice, men with acetylene torches cut at the vessel's two giant paddle wheels.

They were the last paddle wheels left on a Great Lakes passenger boat.

...of Revelations said: "Gather the clusters of the vine of the earth, for her grapes are fully ripe." How beautiful! How far-reaching is this challenge! It is up to us. Throughout the Bible the grape and the vine hold great spiritual meaning. They emphasize the close union between Christ and His church. We judge the vine from the fruit it bears. St. John warned us in the first place, that the branch cannot bear fruit, except it abide in the Lord. In a spiritual sense, man makes his own harvest. His reaping is strictly in accordance with how well he has taken care of the vineyard, how thoroughly he has supported the charities of the Lord, and how genuinely he has served God.

When curb pickup of garbage began in 1955 the city bought 10,000 garbage cans for resale to the public. The cans cost $2.47 each.

Recently the city commission accepted the offer of a private appliance company to take the last 2,500 of the cans off the city's hands at $1.50 each.

First Texas Ranger Packed Five-Shooter

By GARTH JONES
AP Staff Writer

Jack Hays, the first Texas Ranger, taught the nation the value of the five-shooter before the six-shooter was invented.

He also gave the U. S. Army some needed lessons in use of hit-and-run military tatics.

The First Texas Ranger, Jack Hays (Julian Messner, Inc.) is another book by Curtis Bishop of Austin, well-known Texas newspaperman and author. He is now state director of information for the Texas Employment Commission.

Much of his background for the Hays biography came from a long study of Texas historical documents while helping prepare the Texas case in the tidelands controversy.

Hays, a Tennessean, came to Texas in 1836 to help in the revolt against Mexico but arrived a few days after the tide turning battle at San Jacinto. The 19-year-old volunteer stayed to help the new republic fight off Mexican re-invasion threats and the Comanche Indians.

After Hays and 13 other hard riding fighters whipped a troop of Mexican dragoons at Laredo in 1839, he was deputized by the Texas Congress to organize a company of Texas Rangers to protect the frontier.

The running fight at Laredo was the first proof of Hays' argument that a small group of heavily armed men on fast mustangs could ride into a much larger enemy group, shoot everything in sight, then ride out again with very few casualties.

Samuel Colt, a little known inventor in New York city, produced a five-shot repeating pistol that make the two-gun Rangers a galloping arsenal. Later the six-shooter was developed.

Hit-and-run tatics worked against an attempted Mexican re-invasion in 1842 and the fanatical charges of the Comanches in 1844.

Hays gave notice he would resign after Texas was annexed in 1845. Then he got new greetings from President Polk. Gen. Zachary Taylor wanted four Texas regiments, including the Rangers, for immediate help in the war with Mexico. Hays got a colonel's commission.

"We won't be much bother to you, general. Just tell us what you want us to do," Hays told Taylor, turning down all offers of uniforms and equipment.

Hays and the Rangers cleared the road to Monterrey for the Army and led the successful attack on the city. The Rangers were released and the Army took over the occupation. Hays made a trip to Washington to see the president and receive a hero's welcome.

On April 28, 1847, Hays and Miss Susan Calvert, daughter of a former Alabama judge, were married in Seguin. Two weeks later President Polk asked Hays help again -- a regiment of mounted volunteers to handle the guerrillo attacks against Gen. Winfield Scott.

Five hundred volunteers, accompanied by mustangs and six-shooters, sailed from Port Isabel to Veracruz. Regular Army veterans stopped fighting to watch the Rangers train. Nearly 500 men galloping their horses at breakneck speed, suddenly reigning up and spraying targets with pistol shots.

"For the kind of battles you fight -- quick, unexpected skirmishes -- you have to have the fire-power of three or four thousand regulars," an admiring major general told Hays.

Thirty days later Hays led his regiment into Mexico City. The regiment began chasing Santa Anna. The revenge-bound Texans captured the dictator's 17 trucks of personal luggage in Tehuacan but Santa Anna slipped throught the lines to surrender to Gen. Scott in person.

Hays turned down an offer to run for governor of Texas and headed for California. En route he unsuccessfully tried to arrange a peace parley with the Apaches.

On Jan. 25, 1849, Hays arrived in San Francisco. Three days later he agreed to run for sheriff of San Francisco, backed by a group of merchants. He won easily over a candidate backed by gamblers.

Hays served as sheriff until June 18, 1853, when he accepted appointment as a U. S. Surveyor-General of California. In 1859 he resigned as surveyor-general to devote full time to a real estate development that became the city of Oakland. He was 43 years old.

When the Civil War broke out Confederate leaders approached Hays. There was talk of a general's command if he would return to the South.

He refused. He never spoke in defense of his stand.

During the War Oakland swelled into a bustling city. Hays was one of the founders of the Union Savings Bank. By 1870 he was a wealthy man.

Hays health began to fail in 1882. He died April 21, 1883 -- the 47th anniversary of the battle of San Jacinto, the fight he missed.

Ballet Tops Cha Cha In Mississippi

COLUMBUS Miss. (AP) — The mambo, the cha-cha and rock' n'roll may be sweeping the contry, but'girls at Mississippi State College for Women prefer the classical ballet.

"There's nothing better for keeping the figure in trim. The dance is the only art which uses the body as an instrument of expression. The artist has his pallette and brush, the musician his piano or violin, but the dancer has only his body."

Dance classes are so popular at MSCW that many of the girls join a special dance group for extra instruction after hours. This group recently presented a dance recital at the college, followed by a tour of the mid-South

Miss Delaney, petite, black-eyed and Irish, teaches students the basic steps first, then goes on to more advanced work in ballet, toe - dancing and the contemporary dance. Says she: "Tap, toe and ballet can be taught, but contemporary dance can only be inspired.The aim of the dance is personal creation through inspirational thoug h t. Each girl must interpret an idea or an event through her own emotions. This is a valuable way of teaching control and of bringing out the element of expression."

Beauty at Home

By Lynn Carter

Q. What is a prime consideration for the woman who wishes to bleach her hair?

A. Her general skin pigmentation. Too often, women go to extremes of platinum and brassy yellows in their hair when yellow tones predominate in their skin, and the result is a lack of definition between hair and skin, the whole seeming a sickly, unhealthy monotone. Rather, be safe and choose from soft, transitional shades such as ash blonde, light, golden browns, so that the face and skin tone receive a needed lift.

Q. How can I remove coffee or tea stains from washable dresses?

A. Pour some boiling water from a height of three or four feet through the stained portion of the fabric stretched taut over a bowl. Then wash thoroughly in hot suds.

Q. What shade of makeup or foundation base is best on an olive complexion?

A. On a light olive skin, a peach-toned or beige-pink base adds a flattering effect. On a dark or swarthy olive complexion, a copper-toned base gives warmth. A pale base does not contain enough tint to keep a dark skin from showing through.

Q. What are some tips for the successful application of Masacara?

A. The consistency of masacara are all-important! Always start with a clean brush. Wipe it off. Dampen the brush slightly and rub on the cake of masacara until a paste-like consistency is achieved. Now brush your masacara on lengthwise, following the growth of the hair from the root to the tip of the lash. When the lashes are very thin, a second coat applied a little drier than the first will result in thicker-looking lashes.

Q. How can I quickly remove the gummy residue left on my skin by adhesive tape?

A. With some nail polish remover or cleaning fluid.

Q. What is a quick and easy exercise to help slenderize the waistline?

A. Standing with hands on hips, thumbs forward, legs straight -- bend to left side as far as you can, then to the right. Repeat at least ten times in each direction.

Q. What can I do about the makeup that creeps into the fine lines under my eyes?

A. Probably the best thing is to avoid the use of any cosmetics in this area. Instead, wipe a fine facial oil or petroleum jelly into the skin there for a moist effect, and carefully bring the rest of the complexion makeup just up to the cheekbone top, and blend lightly so that no line of demarcation is evident.

Q. What can be done about the yellow or dingy casts some graying hair is prone to take on?

A. There are any number of special rinses on the market to combat this trouble, although many women find the standard, longtime favorite -- bluing rinse -- clarifies the hair shade nicely.

Toughest Driver in Town!

Careful Percy McFidget—who would believe that he's harder on his car than anybody in town? Why, he never goes over 35 or takes a trip over 10 miles!

Actually this kind of driving is very hard on a car engine because the engine seldom gets "warmed up" sufficiently. The oil tends to be sluggish. Sludge forms in the crankcase. The way is open for dangerous wear and corrosion.

But there's something you can do about this, to protect your motor. If you have to do a lot of start-and-stop driving at low speeds, as most of us do, use Trop-Artic* Motor Oil. It flows fast . . . resists sludge formation . . . helps your car run better, longer. Get Trop-Artic Motor Oil at any station where you see the Phillips 66 Shield.
