Measure Permits Police To Secure Search Warrants Upon Information Of Violation Of Liquor Law

Dry House Bloc Sweeps Futile Opposition; Second Bill Provides For Search Without Warrant

(By Associated Press) AUSTIN, Feb. 8.—A dry house bloc today passed, with but feeble opposition, a measure permitting police authorities to obtain search warrants on the information of two credible persons that liquor is being kept in any quantity in excess of one quart and made ready to offer next week another measure putting additional "teeth" in prohibition enforcement.

The second bill, framed by Rep. Pendergast of Marshall, provides that no warrant shall be required for entrance to a private residence or business. It opens the way, proponents declared, for halting liquor transportation by automobiles, which may be examined by any peace officer believing that the vehicle is engaged in illicit whiskey traffic. Both were introduced with the endorsement of the Women's Christian Temperance Union and received unanimous support of the ministers included in the membership of the house.

Opposition is futile. Representatives Kenyon of Galveston and Hopkins of Gonzales made a last futile stand against the passage of the former bill with assertions that it violated the spirit of the federal constitution and made the home helpless before searches of ruthless officers. "Officers in our larger cities won't enforce the liquor laws because they don't want to," Kenyon told the house.

Grain Rates Here Are to be Lowered

Reed Tells of Railroad Commission's Action; Goes Into Effect February 15; Saves Much To Area

Farmers of the South Plains, along with grain dealers and shippers, are vitally affected by the decision announced yesterday as having been made by the Texas Railroad Commission at Austin, in which the present exorbitant freight rates on grain seed shipments of less than carload lots are to be lowered on February 15.

The change in rates will mean the saving of hundreds of thousands of dollars to various agencies and producers of grain on the South Plains. The present schedules make it almost impossible for less than carload shipments of grain seed to be sent from here to points in east and south Texas.

Information of the Railroad Commission's decision was contained in a telegram from that body to A. L. Reed, of Dallas, who arrived here yesterday, and who was recently retained by Lubbock grain dealers and the Chamber of Commerce, jointly, to represent them in asking the commission for lowering of these unjust charges.

The enormity of this business is expressed in the fact that last year one Lubbock grain and seed concern shipped more than 1,000,000 pounds of seed from this city in shipments of sacks less than carload lots.

County Highway Bond Program Is Facing Difficulty

Meeting With Slaton Men Thursday Night Promises Little For Issue; City's Desires To Be Heard

Hopes for a county-wide road bond election project seemed to be rather futile yesterday, following a meeting of Lubbock and Slaton men, at Slaton Thursday.

Charles P. O'Neill, chairman of the county organization formed tentatively several weeks ago, announced last night that representatives of the city of Slaton, including J. T. Overby, L. A. Wilson, S. S. Forest, W. B. Wilson, J. S. Edwards, W. E. Smart, and P. G. Stokes, proposed to the committee from Lubbock that the city in the southeast corner of the county be permitted to select boundaries of an independent road district and hold its own road bond election.

To Hear Slaton's Desires The Lubbock committee, which included O'Neill, J. A. Rix, G. E. Lockhart, M. G. Abernathy and George Benson, agreed to place Slaton's desires before the county committee, at a meeting to be called within a few days, possibly the early part of the coming week.

The area asked by the Slaton group includes a large part of the eastern part of the county, taking in, besides the city of Slaton, the towns of Acuff, McClung, County Line, Union and Possey. If possible the city of Idalou and territory adjacent would be included in the road district Slaton desires.

Road district Number 1, which now has $22,000 indebtedness outstanding, includes Slaton and immediate vicinity. In a petition placed before the county commissioners' court directly following the defeat of the $1,000,000 road bond election of January 12, road district Number 2 would include all of the county not taken in by the Slaton district.

Excitement Starts In Washington As Capital Is Placed In Order For Hoover's Inauguration Day

Coldest Weather Of Year Strikes South Plains

Temperature Drops To Seven Degrees; Snow Is 3 Inches; Two Deaths Reported In State

Mercury Goes To 40 Below In Montana; Snow Heaviest Than In Several Years; Traffic Disrupted

Registering nine degrees just before midnight Friday, the thermometer gave promise of continuing its downward trend to around five degrees or lower by early morning Saturday, following the coldest day of this winter. Friday morning's registration was seven degrees.

Approximately three inches of snow fell yesterday, most of it before noon, temperature during the day hovering around 10 degrees.

Traffic Is Handicapped Traffic, in every mode, was made exceedingly dangerous, but no serious accidents attributable to slippery streets were reported. School children enjoyed the first opportunity of the winter to throw snowballs or make snow men.

Weather forecast for today says fair and not so cold.

(By Associated Press) As North and West Texas staggered from the impact of the snow and ice avalanche which struck Thursday and Friday, the elements were charging deeper into the state in a final blast before retiring for the time being. Before Saturday morning it was indicated the southern part of the state would have felt the storm.

At Beaumont, out of reach of the freezing blasts and stinging sleet that extended to Fort Worth and Dallas the mercury dropped 25 degrees Friday afternoon and continued to fall. Houston, San Antonio and the gulf coast line expected freezing temperatures Saturday. Storm warnings were issued on the coast.

Fimbres Renews Hunt For Indians

DOUGLAS, Ariz., Feb. 8. (P)—Francisco Fimbres, cattlemen of Sonora, Mexico, today began a daring scouting trip into the Sierra Madre mountains seeking the Apaches who killed his wife and carried his small son into captivity two years ago.

When the Indians have been located, Fimbres expects to lead a punitive expedition into the hills. Maroni Finn, a prospector accompanied Fimbres, at San Miguel, Fimbres will be joined by Frederick Humphries, a life-long friend, and Pedro Castro, godfather of the captured child.

Fimbres recently returned from a trip into the mountains with 10 companions seeking the remnants of the Geronimo band of Apaches. Mexicans say that the marauders who sweep from the hills to rod and kill in Sonora are descendants of Geronimo and the Indians who were last last stand in Arizona 40 years ago.

Fimbres, whom Governor Fausto Topete commissioned to wipe out the Indians, said his first expedition was a failure because of lack of supplies.

It would be 45 miles closer, from Sweetwater, Texas, and points east along the Texas and Pacific railway, to Lovington, N. M., by way of Lubbock, Seagraves and the proposed extension of the Santa Fe railroad, than it would be by way of the T. and P. to Monahans and along the proposed extension of that line to Lovington.

This fact was emphasized in a meeting of Santa Fe railway officials, members of the Lubbock Chamber of Commerce, city commission and others, held Friday.

Read Arrival Feted The gathering was occasioned by the arrival in Lubbock of Albert L. Reed, of Dallas, noted traffic expert, who has been retained by the Chamber of Commerce and board of city development to represent this city in assisting the Santa Fe railway to secure a permit to construct its proposed extension from Seagraves to Lovington, and down into the New Mexico oil territory recently opened up around Hobbs.

A full day was spent by a group of men, in planning a campaign to place every available piece of data before the Interstate Commerce Commission as help to the Santa Fe's request.

Cites Many Cases

School Lands In Andrews, Gaines and Yoakum Said To Have Received "Unfair Revaluation"

(By Associated Press) AUSTIN, Feb. 8.—A charge that 30,000 acres in Gaines county had been misappropriated from the public school lands and allegations that J. T. Robison, land commissioner, had shown discrimination in revaluing state lands, were given to the legislative committee investigating the land office, governor, attorney general's department and university regents in regard to administration of the public lands, today.

Judge N. R. Morgan of Lamesa, Dawson county, who said he was an experienced land lawyer and surveyor, was the most severe critic of the land commissioner yet to testify.

It was Judge Morgan who told the committee that at least 30,000 acres had been misappropriated from the school lands in Gaines county by the surveys giving from 700 to 800 acres to each section in cases where the land had been patented for 25 years. He had reported the matter to Robison but Robison "said nothing," he testified.

He claimed that in resurveying the land which was known as "railroad sections" in Gaines county an excess of from 120 to 260 acres, was given each section.

At another time he reported that in Yoakum county there was an Iowa man who had two sections, which had been reappraised and awarded at $2 an acre, who had never slept or eaten on the land.

SECOND PINSON COMMUNITY DRUG STORE OPENS SATURDAY

FAST GROWING PART OF CITY TO BE SERVED

ESTABLISHMENT BOASTS COMPLETE STOCK, BEST IN SERVICE

Formal opening Saturday of Pinson Drug Store, No. 2, corner of 19th Street and Avenue Y, marks an advanced progressive step in the drug business of the city—the completion of an ultra-modern, completely-equipped community drug store, serving that fast-growing residential section in the southwestern part of Lubbock.

The success of the first Pinson Drug store, in this city, 16th and Avenue Q, established last April by Bert Pinson, is the basis for establishing of the second store. The same high class service and complete stock will be offered in the second store as is found in store No. 1.

Sixth Link In Chain
With the opening Saturday of this establishment, another strong link will be added to what is perhaps destined to become a powerful chain of drug stores throughout the West. Mr. Pinson, together with his brother, now owns six drug stores, two here, two in Los Angeles, one in Hale Center, and the other in Abernathy.

Viewing the vast possibilities of Lubbock as the logical center of the rapidly developing South Plains area, Mr. Pinson came to Lubbock last April to establish his first drug store. The success of the store was immediate. Although a community store because of its location, this establishment draws trade from all parts of the city and has built up a business that is looked upon with envy by many competitors.

Refreshments Saturday.
In connection with the opening of this store, free refreshments will be served to all visitors from 2 to 4 o'clock Saturday. Flowers will be given to the women and cigars to the men. In addition to this an interesting contest will be held.

Oran Wilson, for several years connected with Mr. Pinson in the drug store business, will be manager of the No. 2 store. Mr. Wilson possesses a wealth of experience in this line of business, having been connected with the Remko line of drug stores in Fort Worth for some time.

Housed In New Building.
The store is housed in a beautiful, well-ornamented brick building, which contains space for two establishments. It is equipped with a new fountain and new fixtures throughout. Maintaining a full stock at all times and offering the best service possible will be the policy of the store. Four employees will be used. Following the opening Saturday, the store will be open regularly for business.

Competent pharmacists, curb service, free delivery, and drugs and sundries feature the store.

In speaking of further expansion of the Pinson Drug Stores, Mr. Pinson yesterday stated that it was possible that additional stores would be added later if business continued as it had in the past. "I feel that Lubbock will continue to grow by leaps and bounds," he said. "With all of the possibilities, resources, Tech College, railroads, and the rich surrounding trade territory, the city's future is assured."

New Source of Paper
WASHINGTON, Feb. 8. (AP)—Southeastern Alaska is regarded as a permanent source of pulpwood for paper manufacture, with water power resources, tidewater transportation and a climate permitting year-round operation of pulp plants and shipping. Pulpwood production is estimated at 1,500,000 cords yearly, enough for 1,000,000 tons of news-print annually in perpetuity, or more than a quarter the present American consumption.

"Speakeasy" Sign Not Liquor But Shoe Label In Germany

BERLIN, Feb. 8. (AP)—"Speakeasy" was the trademark adopted by a German shoe store in order to show its customers that the shoes offered for sale were not of German origin, but manufactured abroad.

Luckily for the German shoe dealer, the manufacturer knew the meaning of the word "Speakeasy" and informed his customer that this was a name used in America for illegal drinking resorts.

The order for the imprint "Speakeasy" was cancelled immediately. It never occurs to an honest man to assure you that he is honest—Through the Meches.

Banner Aviation Year Of Events And Achievements For 1929 Predicted In England By British Air Enthusiasts

Two Monster Airships To Be Launched On Trial Flights Across The Ocean Next Spring

LONDON, Feb. 8. (AP)—British aviation enthusiasts expect 1929 to be a year of great events and achievements in John Bull's striving for conquest in the air. Primary interest and importance centers around the proposed launching and trial flights of two monster airships, both larger than have ever been built before. Commander Charles D. Burney's dirigible, the R

100, is expected to soar into the air some time in the spring. Its promoters plan after test flights to take the huge craft across the Atlantic to America and back to England.

Plan Egypt Flight
The government-built "blimp", the R 101, sister to the Burney ship, will be launched later this year. It will make flights to Egypt, India, South Africa and Australia, and thus to establish new aeronautical history. The two dirigibles will have accommodations for 100 passengers each. England, as winner of the latest competition in this event, is to have the Schneider Cup races, the greatest of international speed contests, this year. This thrilling spectacle will be held over the Solent in August or September.

Hold Aero Exhibit
An international aero exhibition, the first for nine years, will be seen at Olympia, the London stadium and show ground, in the latter part of the year.

In civil aviation Britain expects to make the greatest advance of her history with the opening by Imperial Airways of a 5,000-mile air route from London to India, in April.

VIENNE, France, Feb. 8. (AP)—The old Roman stadium being uncovered here, appears to be the second largest in France. There is much excavation yet to be done but government authorities give the diameter of the ancient open air theater as 365 feet. This is 73 feet less than the stadium at Nimes but it is larger than those at Arles and Orange.

Bones Of French Kings In Piles

ST. DENIS, France, Feb. 8. (AP)—Bones of most of the kings of France are heaped in two piles in the ancient church of St. Denis.

Thousands of visitors have made the rounds of the many tombs believing they were before the bodies of the rulers, for it is only of late years that the crippled official guide has made it a point to tell people that the tombs are empty. The royal bones are in two mausoleums, one supposed to contain what is left of the house of Valois and the other the Capet line. During the French revolution, in 1793, the tombs were opened and the bones tossed through windows into a trench, those of the Valois family at one end and the Capets at the other, according to the recital of the church's official guide. After the fever of the new republicanism died down, the trench was opened and the bones placed in the church.

Every year there is held a commemorative ceremony for Queen Marie Antoinette, guillotined during the revolution. Her body and that of Louise XVI were brought to the Bourbon mausoleum in the crypt, a century ago, from the chapel built over them on the Boulevard Haussmann in the center of Paris. That chapel still stands as a memorial to them, and around their empty tombs are buried 2,000 victims of the revolution and the 800 Swiss guards killed during the storming of the Tuileries.

Nicholas Murray Butler says that no law which has to do with human thought, speech or conduct can be enforced. And if that isn't taking in a lot of territory, it will have to be left out.

Music, Souvenirs To Feature Store Opening

Entertainment To Be Provided For Grocery Visitors

Children Will Get Free Sticks of Candy; Attractive Finishings Feature New Establishment

Visitors to the Helpy-Selvy store, first establishment of its kind to open in Lubbock, will find free souvenirs, abundant entertainment and a warm welcome awaiting them today—regardless of whether or not they come to purchase. The store, which opens this morning, is located on Nineteenth at Avenue Y.

A large phonograph will furnish music during the entire day.

Candy "barber poles" will be given to children who are accompanied by their parents and other souvenirs will be presented to the grown-ups.

Then, baskets containing $3 worth of groceries will be given away to the first 250 customers who make purchases exceeding $5 in value. The Helpy-Selvy store is not only completely stocked and ideally arranged—it is likewise one of the most attractive establishments of its kind to be found anywhere.

Its fixtures are painted in blue and white of a special Helpy-Selvy design. The store is decorated with pot plants and crepe trimmings, most of the plants being sent in congratulation by representatives of national manufacturers, many of whom are here for the opening.

Fire Chief Twitty Gets Frozen Hand

Fire Chief W. E. Twitty, while driving a fire truck to a fire on Twentieth Street yesterday morning about 9 o'clock, in the midst of the first part of the snow storm, suffered the freezing of two fingers on his left hand and the greater part of his right hand.

At the time of the run, during all of which the chief was occupied at brushing the snow and clinging ice from his face and eyes, as well as handling the steering wheel of the fire truck, the thermometer was registering around seven degrees.

The fire was an automobile, belonging to a Mr. Peck, at 2621 Twentieth Street, which was extinguished by the firemen before very much damage was done. It was caused from a backfire, is the report.

Need For Gypsies In Lubbock Is Nil Nomad Discover

"Do you want to plead guilty, or not guilty?" "Me no Gypsy, Me Brazilian." Judge Robert H. Bean, in county court, repeated his question, attempting to explain that two courses were open—if not guilty, then bond could be made—if pleading guilty, then he could tell how much the fine would be.

Before the judge were two women, dark skinned. Both in their thirties, evidently. Both held year-old, or less, babies in their arms.

"The charge is that you are vagrants, and that you have been practically making your living by fortune telling," Judge Bean continued. "Are you guilty, or—"

"Me Brazilian. Me born and raised in this country. Me no Gypsy."

The other one interrupted: "Our husbands work. You know, in the camp, the cotton."

The trial was held up, until deputies could locate the husbands.

The two women—supposedly Gypsies—opened a small hole-in-the-wall, formerly operated as a hamburger stand, on the north side of the courthouse square Thursday morning, and began soliciting business as fortune tellers. Several "victims" patronized them before officers arrested them.

Late in the afternoon the two women's husbands were located. With these were two more Gypsy men and two more Gypsy women. The eight were driving a Cadillac touring car and three other small cars. All were questioned by county officers—Sheriff Wade Hardy, County Attorney Vaughn E. Wilson, and Judge Bean.

Late Thursday night, the court fined the two Gypsy women $1 and costs each, which amounted to $23.25 each, for vagrancy, and passed along the request that the entire band of them be out of Lubbock county before sundown Friday—never to return.

The gypsies promised and nominally turned to other parts unknown and unsuspecting.

HOT-WATER BOTTLE
Never put your rubber hot-water bottles away with the sides sticking together. Empty, drain and then blow a little air into the bottle and screw the stopper in. This lengthens the bottle's life.

If your bathroom washstand gets stained, use lemon and French chalk to remove it. It is a mistake to allow yellow stains to remain for the older they are, the harder to remove.

Congress Asked To Investigate Work Of Reserve Board

Body's Statement On Speculative Loans Draws Attention of Both Houses; Two Resolutions Offered

(By Associated Press)
WASHINGTON, Feb. 8.—The attention of congress was directed today to the Federal Reserve Board's statement on speculative loans with the introduction of resolution in both the house and senate regarding the board's action.

Rep. Black of New York offered a resolution proposing an inquiry into the board's declaration while Senator Heflin of Alabama, asked that the board be requested to submit a corrective for the speculative loans of which it complains. Neither resolution was acted upon.

Discuss Stock Tumble.
There was, however, plenty of private discussion around the capital of the tumble on the stock market following the board's warning on Wednesday night against extending use of Federal reserve funds for speculative purposes. Leaders in both the senate and house, however, were inclined to regard the subject as outside their domain.

The Heflin resolution went over until tomorrow without debate at the request of Senator Curtis, of Kansas, the republican leader. The measure among other things would have the senate ask the board to explain recent increases in Federal Reserve rediscount rates.

Plan General Study.
The Black proposal was referred to the house banking committee which already is contemplating a general study of the banking situation. Chairman McFadden of that committee is one of those displeased with the board's action. He has been planning a general study of banking and there are indications that this might be turned into a particular study of the recent developments.

The big stumbling block bothering congress and apparently annoying the Federal Reserve board is the need for a definition of speculation and also a determination of just when a loan is made for speculative purposes. It is denied that all loans by member banks of the Federal Reserve system to brokers on account of stocks and bonds are for speculative purposes and is because of this the question, as asked by members of congress, "What is a speculative loan?"

Sunday-School Lesson BY DR. J. E. NUNN

INTERNATIONAL SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON FOR FEB. 10, 1929

General Topic: Repentance and Faith
Scripture Lesson: Acts 2:37-39; Luke 15:11-24

Acts 2:37. Now when they heard this, they were pricked in their hearts, and said unto Peter and to the rest of the apostles, men and brethren, what shall we do?
38. Then Peter said unto them, Repent, and be baptized every one of you in the name of Jesus Christ for the remission of sins, and ye shall receive the gift of the Holy Ghost.

39. For the promise is unto you, and to your children, and to all that are afar off, even as many as the Lord our God shall call.
Luke 15:11. And he said, A certain man had two sons:

12. And the younger of them said to his father, Father, give me the portion of goods that is mine.
13. And he divided unto them his living.

14. And not many days after, the younger son gathered all together, and took his journey into a far country, and there wasted his substance with riotous living.

15. And when he had spent all, there arose a mighty famine in that land; and he began to be in want.

16. And he went and joined himself to a citizen of that country; and he sent him into his fields to feed swine.

17. And he would fain have filled his belly with the husks that the swine did eat; and no man gave unto him.

18. And when he came to himself, he said, How many hired servants of my father's have bread enough and to spare, and I perish with hunger!

19. I will arise and go to my father, and will say unto him, Father, I have sinned against heaven, and before thee.

20. And am no more worthy to be called thy son: make me as one of thy hired servants.

21. And he arose, and came to his father. But when he was yet a great way off, his father saw him, and had compassion, and ran, and fell on his neck, and kissed him.

22. And the son said unto him, Father, I have sinned against heaven, and in thy sight, and am no more worthy to be called thy son.

23. But the father said to his servants, Bring forth the best robe, and put it on him; and put a ring on his hand, and shoes on his feet: and bring hither the fatted calf, kill it; and let us eat, and be merry.

24. For this my son was dead, and is alive again; he was lost, and is found, and they began to be merry.

Time: Christ spoke the parable of the prodigal son in January, A. D. 30, three months before His crucifixion. Peter's Pentecostal sermon was delivered on Sunday, May 28, A. D. 30.

Place: The parable of the prodigal son was spoken in Peraea, east of the Jordan. Peter's sermon was preached in Jerusalem, in or near the "upper room" of the Lord's Supper.

Golden Text: Repent ye, and believe in the gospel.—Mark 1:15.

Introduction
"In the second lesson of this quarter we studied about sin and in the third about the Saviour. Today we have a lesson that shows us what ought to be the attitude of every man who hears the gospel—his attitude toward sin and toward the Saviour. The attitude that we ought to assume toward sin is what is called repentance and the attitude that we ought to assume toward the Saviour is called faith."

We are given two concrete examples of repentance and faith for our study—one the example of the people on the day of Pentecost, the other the example of the Prodigal Son.

We have here first the message what produced conviction and repentance, vs. 32-36.

On the day of Pentecost, when the Holy Spirit came on the people, Peter began to preach to them and explain what was taking place. He explained that this was not the result of wine-drinking, as some of the onlookers said, but was the work of Christ. Jesus had lived in their midst, been crucified by their wicked hands, God had raised him from the dead. This resurrection had been foretold by David.

Facts Concerning the Risen Jesus, vs. 32-36.

1. God raised him from the dead (v. 32). Of this fact the Christians were witnesses.

2. He was exalted at the right hand of God (v. 33). This meant that Jesus was given supreme authority in the universe under God. The chief advisor of an oriental monarch sat at the right hand of the king. So Peter says Jesus had been exalted at the right hand of God.

3. He sends the Holy Spirit on his people (v. 33). God the Father had granted this power and privilege to the exalted Christ. The work of conferring the spirit on his people is the work of the Father.

4. This exaltation of Jesus was in fulfillment of David's prophecy in Psalm 110. He is to remain on this throne until the last of his enemies is conquered (vs. 34, 35).

Repentance and Faith, vs. 38, 39. Peter's word was, "Repent." That is "Change your minds." They now had new light on who Jesus was, so they should renounce and repudiate their former actions in rejecting and crucifying Jesus.

The Prodigal Son. The parable of the prodigal son has been called "the pearl of parables," "the loveliest of them all," "the greatest of them all." To use the true and often-quoted phrase is in Evangelium in Evangelio—the Gospel within the Gospel.

"And he said, A certain man had two sons." v. 11. The "certain man" is God, the heavenly Father. The younger son represents penitent sinners and the older son represents proud sinners, who do not regard themselves as sinners at all.

And he divided unto them his living." v. 12. A younger brother's portion, according to the Jewish laws of inheritance, would be the half that which the elder brother should receive (Deut. 21:17; 2 Kings 2:9).

"A Far Country." v. 13. Some region where his father was not, far away from the father's home, the home of his soul. As we see the prodigal sons around us, the far country may be only across the street; indeed, the prodigal may remain at home; for it is a heart journey, a journey of interest and desire, this to a far country. "And there he wasted his substance with riotous living." "Boys, I've given up being a good fellow, said one of my classmates at a college reunion. "Ten years of it was enough. Patrimony wasted, outlook sacrificed, everything gone. I made up my mind to turn over a new leaf. And now, after the waste of ten golden years, and five more of decent living, my conclusion is that it's better to be a square man than a good fellow."—David James Burrell.

"A Mighty Famine." v. 14. "Sinning is an expensive business. Poverty is one of its legitimate children. Famine is the normal condition of the far country; famine of physical comfort, of happiness, of friendship, of peace of hope, of love, of all that makes life worth living."

"To Feed Swine." v. 15. He was in despair and "pinned himself upon" the citizen, fairly forced him to give him some employment to keep him from starvation. The Jews were forbidden to eat swine flesh and regarded these animals with the utmost disgust; nothing could be more degrading in their eyes than to be a swineherd. Many sins win us by promising advancement or at least pleasure; they never give us either.

"I Will Arise and Go." v. 18. This is true repentance, even though prompted by hunger. "He will hesitate no longer, because he has been so guilty. He is not going to wait till he feels greater sorrow for his sins. He will not tarry under the delusion that he can make himself any better. He sees his filth and rags. He must go as a swineherd, just as he is, or not at all."

"His Father Saw Him." v. 20. The father was on the lookout for him and had been through all the weary months since his boy left. In all the Bible no line pictures more beautifully the yearning love of God for his lost children. "And was moved with compassion and ran, and fell on his neck, and kissed him." The Greek verb means "kissed him again and again."

Christ is representing the Infinite Ruler of the Universe; but here is no offended majesty, no standing on dignity, no exacting of humility. God goes out to meet every returning sinner, as far out as is best for the sinner himself.

"Put a Ring On His Hand." v. 22. The gift of fine garments and a ring were ever in the East high tokens of honor; thus, for example, Pharaoh distinguished Joseph when he exalted him to be second in the realm (Gen. 41:42). The shoes were plainly needed, for the poor fellow had walked all the way barefoot. None of these were worn by slaves, and it was made plain to tech young man at once that he was restored to his former position in the household.

"He Was Lost and Is Found." v. 21. "For this my son." With these words the young fellow is definitely reinstated. "Was dead, and is alive again." Sin is indeed a death, and repentance and restoration the recovery of life. "He was lost, and is found." He who spoke these gracious words is the One who "came back to seek and to save that which was lost." (Luke 19:10).

"Just as I am, without one plea, But that thy blood was shed for me, And that thou bidst me come to thee, O Lamb of God, I come, I come."

Matadors Wallop McMurry Indians In First Of Series

Francis A. Schmidt Is Named Head Athletic Coach At T.C.U.

FINALLY STOPPED
After winning nine straight basketball games, the Simmons Cowboys were halted by the North Texas Teachers from Denton Thursday night. Coach Bridges' basketballers are yet undefeated in the Texas Conference race and are high favorites to cop the bunting this season. Six conference winners have been registered by the Cowhounds, including games with Austin college, St. Edwards, Trinity and Southwestern.

The style of play used by the Simmons crew is not the sort that basketball fans like to watch. Any team that uses the "stall" or "delayed offense" is slowing up the game to the extent that much of the action is lost and the old aggressiveness that makes basketball a great game is lacking. Bridges coached teams are noted for pulling the unusual in both football and basketball. His theory of coaching seems to be that when you can keep the opposition guessing, you have the inside track. Such stunts as returning a kick-off with a punt are not out of the ordinary for the Bridges football teams. Despite his freakish style of coaching, the diminutive Bridges must be given credit for developing smart teams.

It won't be long now until the brief and snappy basketball season will be over and Tech thinly clad will begin their training grind for the strenuous track season. Coach Payne has arranged. Following the final game with McMurry tonight, the Matador cagers will have one day of rest before engaging Sul Ross in a two-game series here Tuesday and Wednesday nights. After the invasion of the Alpan basketballers, the locals will take a much needed rest before their return series with Canyon at Buffalo headquarters February 20 and 21. The final game of the season will be played here February 25 with Simmons university.

MORE ABOUT COACHES
Baylor university seems to be the only member of the Southwest conference that is absolutely sure of keeping its head coach. From reliable sources come the evidence that Morley Jennings is not on the market. A. A. and M. authorities seeking his services immediately after Bible resigned. But he was not to be had. Other schools made bids to get the Baylor mentor, but it appears to be that Baylor is in line for the conference football championship next season and doesn't fancy the idea of leaving.

Rumors abound indicate a chance in coaching at Baylor university next season. But in view of the fact that Littlefield brought the championship to the Longhorns last fall, it seems unlikely that any change will be made that will affect him. But aside from Baylor and Texas, every school in the conference are likely to have new coaching heads. Following the announcement that Ray Morrison, S. M. U. the position of head coach at the University of Virginia, comes the news that Francis A. Schmidt of Arkansas university has signed a contract with T. C. U. succeeding Madison Bell, who resigned recently to fill the position left vacant by Dana X. Bible at A. and M. The Forker mentor was passing through Fort Worth en route to Austin and was made an offer by Prog authorities which he accepted Friday. This latest shakeup leaves another member of the Southwest Conference without a head coach.

Schmidt is a graduate of Nebraska university but has been in the coaching game for 15 years. His teams have met with marked success. During the last seven years that he has been at the athletic helm of Arkansas university, his basketball teams have attracted national attention, winning three consecutive championships, and leading the conference with an undefeated record. His football teams have lost but one game to Southwest Conference members during the last two years. T. C. U. athletes and students have extended him a hearty welcome.

The widespread shake-up of college coaches has not been confined to the major conference of the state. The Texas Conference, T. I. A. A. and independent schools have been hit. St. Edwards and Trinity in the Texas Conference have lost their head coaches. Meagher and Holton, respectively, while in the T. I. A. A. Daniel Baker loses Herman Clark, who goes to Centre with Edwin Kubale. Texas Tech was not excepted. The shift whereby Grady Higginbotham becomes head football coach to succeed E. Y. Freland will cause football enthusiasts to watch the progress of the Matador eleven closely next fall.

TO ORGANIZE LEAGUE
SAN ANTONIO, Feb. 8. (AP)—Representatives from eight cities are to meet here Sunday to organize the South Texas semi-professional baseball league. The call was issued by George Huntress, Jr., of San Antonio, today.
The circuit is to be composed of San Antonio, Austin, Seguin, New Braunfels, Luling, Lockhart, Yoakum, and Cuero.

Walker Leads Tech Basketeers In Decisive Win Over Redskins As Locals Display Brilliant Form

Second Stringers Lead Way Over Visitors Throughout Contest; Ledbetter And Mitchell Star For Medley

Coach Victor Payne sent a new combination against the McMurry Indians last night in the first of a two-game series with the Abilene cagers with the result that the Matador sharpshooters regained their scoring punch sufficiently to hand the pupils of Medley a 35 to 22 drubbing.

Playing an aggressive basketball throughout, the crimson basketeers were masters of ceremony during the most of the contest. Although the Redskins displayed a stubborn defense, their forwards were unable to break through the Tech works to fire at the netting consistently.

Both teams were slow starting, but after McMurry had taken a two-point lead early in the first frame, Walker and Reeves began an assault on the basket that sent the Tech cause far in the lead. Walker the initial half, firing at the hoop from all corners of the court to account for 10 of the 16 points scored by the locals during the last half.

The fighting Redskins, with an entirely new combination came back in the early part of the final half with a barrage of field goals that threw a scare into the crimson sharpshooters. Mitchell and Ledbetter, were counting two at a time from long range while the McMurry defenders in check. Sensing defeat, the local cagers got their heads together and started a final rally that netted them a comfortable margin over the Indians. Hunter and Reeves accounted for 10 of the 16 points scored by the locals during the last half.

Walker with his 14 points carried off scoring honors with little competition. His nearest opponent was Ledbetter of McMurry who counted 9.

The same teams meet again tonight on the college court.

(Special To The Avalanche)
LAMESA, Feb. 8. (AP)—Thirteen boys basketball teams had arrived here by 4 o'clock Friday afternoon at which time the Lower South Plains and Eastern New Mexico basketball tournament was scheduled to start.

On account of inclement weather prevailing over the entire area many teams will be delayed for the meet, according to information received by local school officials. However, approximately twenty teams are expected in here by tomorrow morning despite weather conditions.

Valuable prizes and loving cups will be awarded both first and second place winners. Consolation prizes will also be given.

Aggies May Reach 3rd Place In Loop

COLLEGE STATION, Feb. 8.—With at least temporary possession of third place in the conference standings as a reward for a victory by either team, the Texas Aggie-S. M. U. Mustang cage tilt at the A. and M. Memorial Gymnasium Monday night has taken on increased interest in the Southwest Conference championship basketball race.

With this reward as an incentive to summon the best efforts of both quintets one of the hardest fought battles of the season is expected to take place between the two teams.

The Mustangs, now resting in fourth place in the conference percentage column, became contenders for their place honors, now in the possession of Coach Chuck Bassett's Aggie quintet, when they turned in an unexpected victory over the Texas Longhorns this week.

Southern California Gives Howard Jones New Five-Year Contract With Substantial Increase In Salary

Pilot of Trojans For Past Four Years Lauded By President of University As Character Builder

Exclusive Central Press Dispatch to The Avalanche
LOS ANGELES, Calif., Feb. 8.—Lauded by the president of the University as a coach interested primarily in the development of character in his varsity men, Howard Jones, leader of the University of Southern California's championship football varsity, has just been given a new five-year contract at an increase in salary, despite the fact that Jones had not asked for a new agreement, and that his old contract still had two seasons yet to run.

Jones' past season with the Trojans was his fourth with the big Los Angeles university, and marked the completion of a four-year record that can be anything on the Pacific coast and possibly anywhere in the country. During that four-year reign, Jones-coached teams won 36 games, lost 5 and tied 2, finishing in a tie with Stanford for the Pacific Coast conference championship in 1927 and landing at the top in 1928. During the four years his teams scored 1,327 points to take high honors over all of the nation's teams. In the 43 games that his teams have played, they have averaged 30.9 points per game, an indication of the strong offensive machines that he has developed at Southern California.

In commenting on the signing of Jones for the ensuing five years, President R. B. von Klein-smid, of the University of Southern California, said "The spirit of intercollegiate athletics is to give to participants and followers a high, unselfish type of sportsmanship, and Coach Jones' training has always sought to maintain this ideal. His success as a coach is due to the fact that first of all he seeks to develop real men, and it is in recognition of this fact that the board of trustees has given its unanimous approval to a new contract for a five-year period.

"Primarily devoted to building character and to producing the highest type of young manhood, his work at Southern California has had a splendid moral influence which has permeated not only the Trojan football field, but also the entire university campus and the community as a whole open tomorrow.

Kirkwood, paired with Frank Courtney of Mobile, made the eighteen hole round with a brilliant 65, six under par.

Tied for second place with a 66 were Tommy Armour, Washington pro, paired with Lieut. W. G. Porter, Pensacola amateur, and T. H. Cotton of London, England, paired with John Dawson, Chicago amateur.

Arkansas Quintet Trims Longhorns In First Contest

Porkers Practically Clear Way For Fourth Consecutive Championship With Win Over Steers

(By Associated Press)
AUSTIN, Feb. 8. — Arkansas university practically cleared the way for their fourth consecutive championship in basketball, when they swept Texas university before a 48 to 32 score tonight. Arkansas was easily a 16-point better team than the smaller Texas club.

The same teams meet Saturday night.

Texas Score First.

Arkansas, winning its 21st consecutive conference victory, played a deliberate game. The team failed to develop a weakness. Teamwork, offensive and defensive were equally flawless. The much heralded weak defense failed to develop, as the Texas team failed time after time to weave through the zone that the giant team chose.

Texas made the first points on a pair of free shots. The game rocked along slowly during the first few minutes with Texas leading from two to three points. The Texas moment was short-lived, however, for the Porkers, with a burst of speed and team work, shot four field goals in a row that ran the tally up to 19 to 13. Nearly half of Texas' points during the first period developed from free shots.

The Steers were getting shots at the basket, but were missing the easy ones. Rose, especially, missed some easy shots, but he was covered.

Soon after the half, which closed 19 to 13 for the Porkers, the Longhorns worked the ball into the Red's territory three times and on each occasion, "Big Un" Rose converted the rally into a brace of points. This tied the score.

Texas didn't see light after that. Pursuing their cool, slow and deliberate style, the rangy Arkansas team passed over the smaller opponents' heads, drew them in, and passed to the forward on the base line that frequently missed. Schoonover and Pickell were usually on the base line and both played well. Schoonover scored 13 points. Pickell 10. Big Un Rose of Texas, led his team in points, scored with 12.

Lineups:

ARKANSAS (48)	FG	FT	Pts
Schoonover f	7	4	18
Pickell f	4	2	10
Hale (c) f	3	1	7

Miami Principals Begin Heavy Work

MIAMI BEACH, Fla., Feb. 8. (AP)—Principals of the fight here February 27 went through their training antics on two Florida coasts today and tonight after they apparently had changed their mind about postponement of their adoption of training regimen.

Meantime Madison Square Garden authorities emerged from a tussle with the T-square and foot rule at the Flamingo Park Arena with as much information as could be obtained to answer 4,000 questions as to "just where is my seat in this arena?"

Jack Sharkey, accompanied by his manager, Johnny Buckley, appeared in Tampa for an exhibition bout tonight.

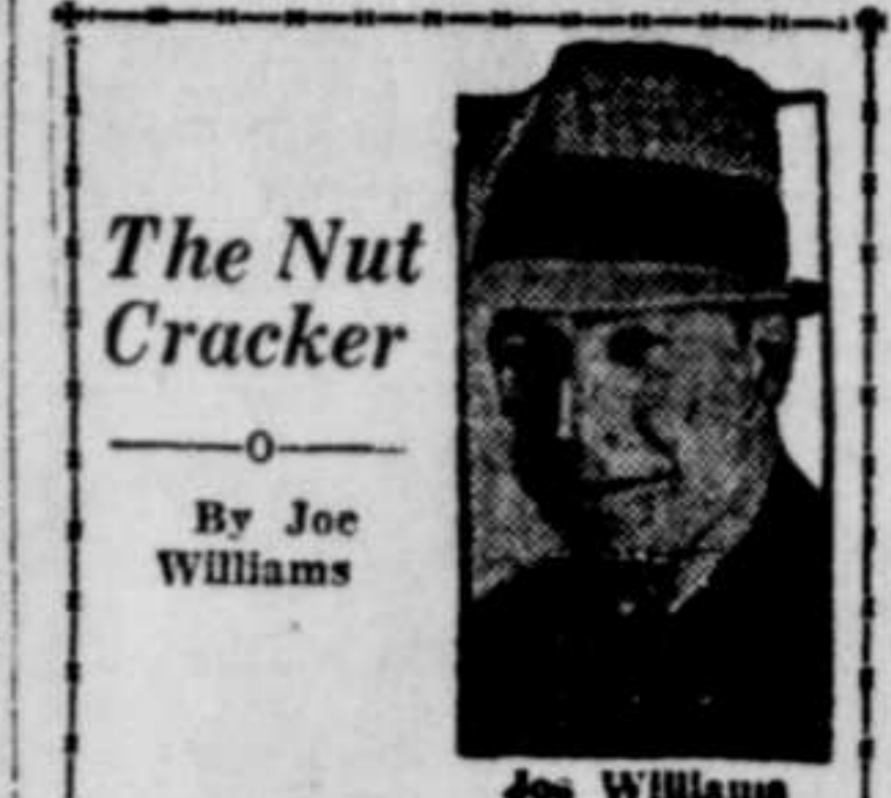

Stribling put on several rounds of snappy work with the light and heavy bags in his training quarters at Hardie's Casino and received a good hand from the crowd that watched him.

Tilden Reinstated By Tennis Leaders

BOSTON, Feb. 8. Don't lead with your chin, says an article in a golfer's magazine. It's a good axiom for boxing, too.

British boxers never fall into that error. They lead. Their leading assets are their backs.

Kearns has adopted the Three Musketeers' motto for his stable: "One for all, all for one." We can understand that "all for one" perfectly.

If Bobby Jones becomes president of the golf association, in 1935 he will have to go through the strange rite of presenting himself a cup. Maybe he can study up the speeches of Jack Sharkey and find out how one gives one's self a bouquet.

Basketball fans at the University of Pennsylvania are given printed slips before each game, asking them to refrain from booing, hissing, etc. If this wave of politeness continues, pretty soon a fellow may not even have the right to slay an umpire occasionally.

The boxers can take a lesson in suffering from Jack Sharkey in regard to booting. "Let them boo," says the Loud-mouthed Lith. "I get their money."

Razorback Mentor Succeeds Bell At Horned Frog Post

Coach Of Porker Teams For Past Seven Years Comes To Fort Worth As Head Of Athletics

FORT WORTH, Feb. 8.—Athletic officials of Texas Christian University announced here today that Francis A. Schmidt, coach at the University of Arkansas, had accepted the position of head athletic coach at Texas Christian University.

The vacancy was created by the resignation of Madison Bell who became football coach at Texas A. and M. College.

"We are happy to announce," said Athletic Director L. C. Wright, "that Mr. Schmidt has accepted the position left vacant by the resignation of Madison Bell."

"After the rumors got into the newspaper, I got in touch with Schmidt over long distance telephone, talked the matter over, and he decided to go ahead and announce his acceptance. He had already made up his mind, but had wished to hold back the announcement until after Saturday."

Schmidt will visit Fort Worth in the near future, probably early next week, sign a contract, and make other final arrangements.

Details have not been worked out, but it is regarded here as highly probable that the Arkansas University coach will secure a leave of absence to conduct the Christians' spring football practice in April and May.

Schmidt Refuses To Confirm Reports

AUSTIN, Feb. 8. (AP)—Francis A. Schmidt, here with the Arkansas Razorback basketball quintet would not confirm reports from Fort Worth that he had accepted a position as athletic coach with the Texas Christian University at Fort Worth.

"I have nothing to say," he replied to questions. "Whatever news necessary must be done by T. C. U. officials."

FORT WORTH, Feb. 8. (AP)—Francis Schmidt, who today accepted the position of head football and basketball coach at T. C. U., may not take over his duties here until next fall. He will make several visits to Fort Worth during spring football training, however, to look over his squad and make plans for the fall campaign.

Schmidt, in case his successor at Arkansas is obtained shortly, might be able to get away from his present post in time to take full charge of spring football practice at T. C. U., which begins some time after March 15, depending largely on weather conditions.

Schmidt will succeed Madison Bell as Horned Frog grid and basketball mentor. Bell has resigned to take charge of football at Texas A. and M.

Four Undeclared In County B Race

Monroe, Acuff, Canyon and Shallowater Left To Take Championship Of Class B Schools In County

Four teams remained undeclared in the Lubbock county Class B basketball tournament at the end of the first day's play last night. Eleven of the twenty-one games scheduled in the round robin tournament have been played. The remaining contests will be run off today to determine the class B team which will compete in the county finals next week-end with the class A schools.

Monroe, Acuff, Canyon and Shallowater the teams who are yet to be defeated. Comparative scores and team performance give Monroe and Acuff the edge over the other two, Monroe holding a slight margin over Acuff.

In the games last night played at the high school gymnasium there were no two teams evenly matched to any marked degree. The undefeated teams took their games with little difficulty in the first round, but will likely make things more interesting today when they meet each other.

Beginning at 6 o'clock last night, the following games were played:

- Monroe 35, Hardy 14.
- Shallowater 24, County Line 11.
- Acuff 26, Bledsoe 16.
- Woodrow 5, Canyon 25.
- Monroe 52, Carlisle 13.
- Shallowater 33, Wolfarth 14.

Preliminary games played Friday afternoon were late starting because of inclement weather which prevented several teams from appearing. The first game of the tournament between County Line and Wolfarth was given to Wolfarth by forfeit after waiting the customary time for the County Line team to appear.

Hardy, Lubbock county Class C champions, went down in the opening contest before the fast-stepping Acuff quintet by the score of 35 to 13. After piling up a commanding lead in the first half, the Acuff coach sent in his second stringers who did equally as well against the Class C winners. Reed and Raliback led the Acuff scoring while Johnson bore the brunt of the winners' defense. The Acuff five displayed a passing game that the County Line cagers were never able to fathom.

Shallowater had little trouble in defeating the diminutive Woodrow aggregation. After the cats had run up a 13-4 lead at the half, the Klitters were sent in and finished the slaughter in an impressive manner. The Bledsoe basketballers took a ragged basketball contest from the Carlisle quint by the score of 34 to 6. Neither team showed up to any noticeable advantage, playing a listless slow brand of basketball.

Canyon and Wolfarth hooked up in a neck and neck cage fracas during the first three quarters of their contest, but a superior passing game five pulled away in the final period to walk off with the long end of a 21 to 11 score. Canyon led 12 to 8 at the half, but Wolfarth came back to knot the count 20-20 after the third period started. Slides of Canyon was high scorer with 10 points.

Cleveland Quits Pre-Season Trips

CLEVELAND, Feb. 7. (AP)—A precedent has been set in major league baseball by Manager Billy Evans plan to keep the Cleveland Indians in their spring training camp until the season opens.

Some American league teams have 20 or more road trips scheduled, but Evans believes the Indians will profit sufficiently by six games in their spring quarters at New Orleans. They will play the Cincinnati Reds, Brooklyn Robins and New York Giants.

Evans discredits the theory of most big league managers that pre-season tours prepare players for long jumps during the pennant chase. Steady work in the New Orleans camp, he thinks, should polish off his 1920 team as well as or better than a series of trips through the South.

Balk Line Champ Stays In Running

NEW YORK, Feb. 7. (AP)—Fending off the last ditch rally of Felix Grange, French champion, Edouard Horemans, of Belgium, continued his defense of the world 18.2 balk line billiard championship today with a spectacular 400 to 338 victory over the Freshman in the first match of the third round. The game went 21 innings.

The victory placed Horemans, defeated in his first round match by Kinney Matsuyama, behind the Japanese star who has won both his matches. Cochran has won one match, and lost one, while Schaefer won his only start. Eric Hagenlacher, Germany entry, lost his first match.

High runs, Horemans 86; Grange 66. Schaefer meets Hagenlacher late tonight.

Little "Bert" Hoover—As Seen Through The Eyes Of His First Playmate, Was Good In School Work

By NEA Service. MUSCATINE, Ia., Feb. 9.—L. S. Penrose, who earns his living as custodian of an apartment house here, can remember the time when he and Herbert Hoover were absolute equals.

Equals? They shared one of those old-fashioned double seats in the front of the school room, where Miss Mollie Brown (later Mrs. Mollie Carran) taught the children of West Branch their lessons. They parted when young Hoover's parents died and he went to live with relatives.

Penrose can even remember an occasion when he and Herbert Hoover sat up very straight and self-conscious while Tristram Coggeshall, president of the West Branch school board, told the assembled pupils that "now if you boys study and apply yourselves well, some day you may be president of the United States."

Penrose remembers that occasion well—remembers how he and the youngster beside him listened with awe to this exposition of the heritage of every American boy. Today—well, Herbert Hoover was the one. But in those days the boys called him "Bert."

Together In First Grade. "We started together at the beginning of the term," says Penrose, recalling the old days. "First Miss Anna Painter was our teachers, and then Miss Mollie Brown."

"Bert was bright about getting his lessons. All those Hoover boys were. Trouble in spelling? Well, I don't remember how we got it, but Bert was particularly good in arithmetic and geography. His report cards usually showed high marks. We usually compared them every time they were handed out. The marks we got, by the way, are which now hangs on the wall of the present West Branch school house. Somehow the book was saved when the old schoolhouse burned down years ago. It was the only record that was saved."

"We used to go over to the Hoover's to play 'stick horse.' Mrs. Hoover often would give us each a piece of bread with butter and brown sugar on it. We always thought that was a real treat."

Herbert Flew Kites. "I remember there were a couple of boys—Crosby, I think the name was—whose folks had moved to West Branch from Scotland. These boys knew how to make kites that could beat ours all to pieces. Box kites, they called them. They taught Bert and me how to make them, and we put in lots of time flying them."

"Bert was a good swimmer, too. Like most all the rest of us. We all learned how to swim when we were little bits of fellows. No, I don't remember that his mother that his mother ever refused to let him go down to the creek with us. "He always used to enjoy playing with the Indian boys, I remember. You know, there was an Indian school near West Branch for a while. These Indian boys could make the best bows and arrows, and they showed us how to make them."

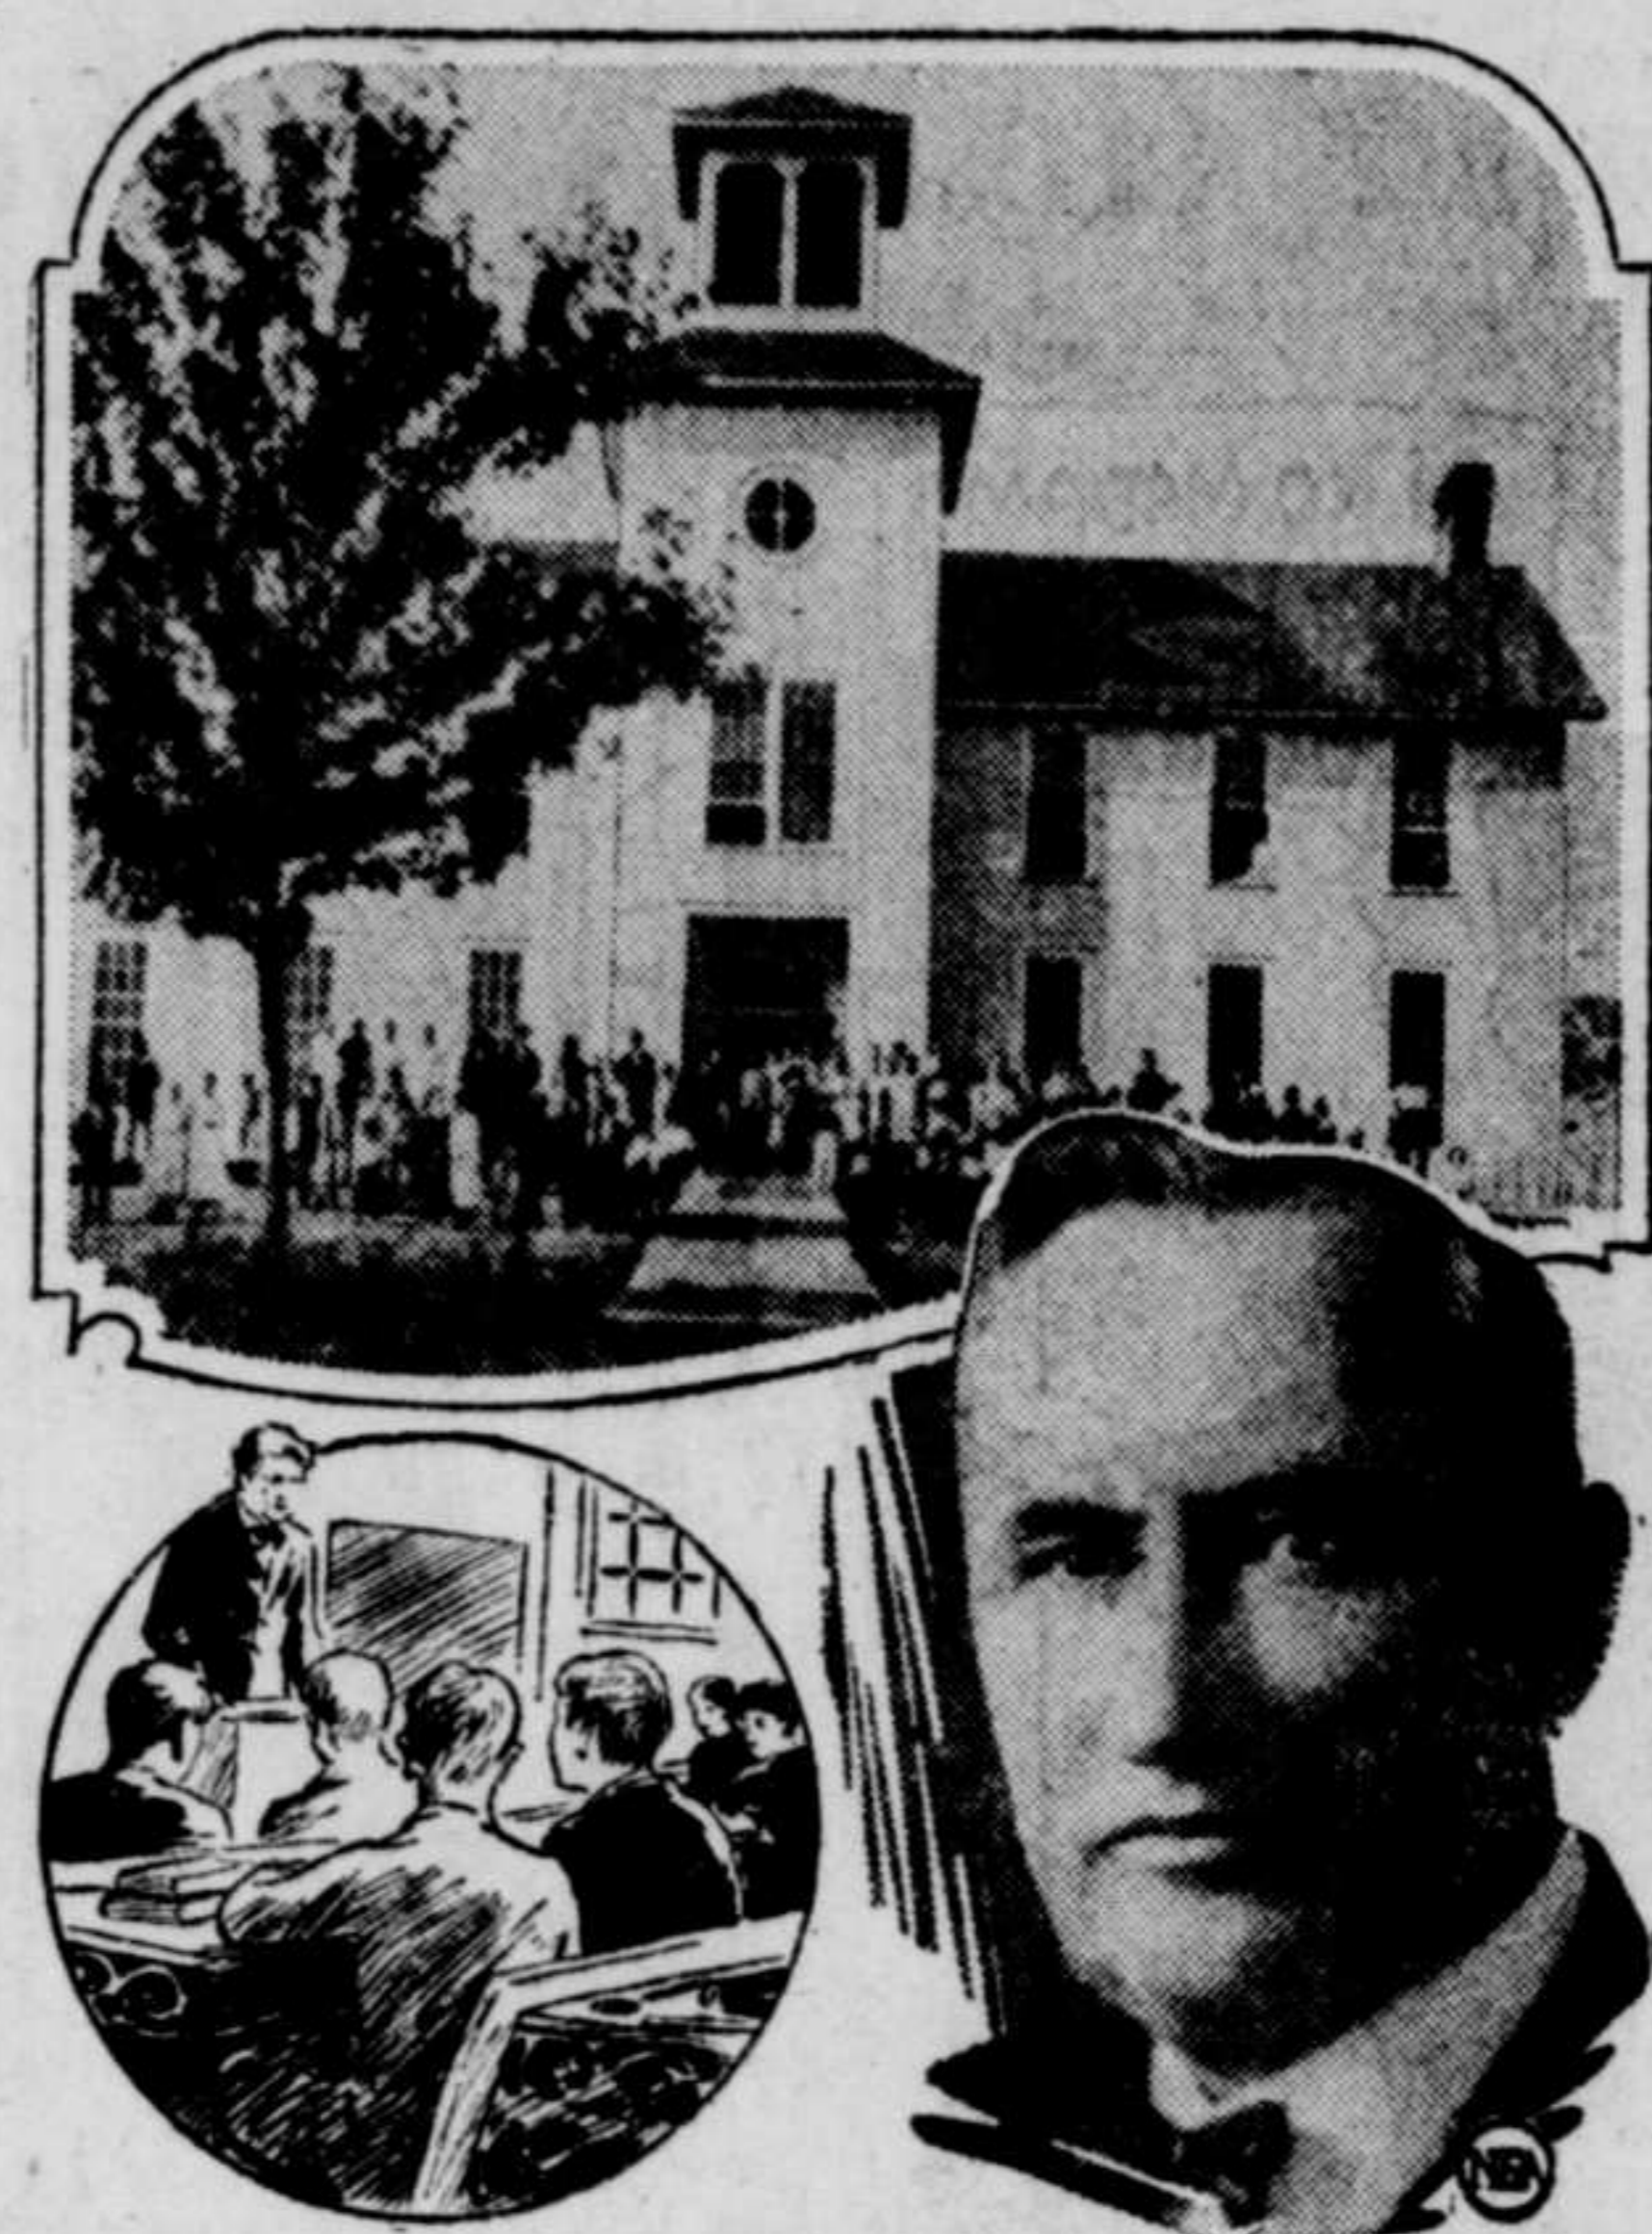

The two boys often sat together in the Quaker meeting house on Sunday and tried to keep from wriggling.

Herbert Hoover was still a small boy when his parents died, and he went to live with an uncle and aunt, Allan and Millie Hoover. Then, when young Hoover was 10 years old, he moved to Oregon to live with other relatives. Penrose recalls the farewell party the youngsters had for him.

"We spent the whole day building a railroad," he says. "We borrowed some scoops and shovels and made a grade leading to a small washed-down gutter in a field. Then we built a bridge across it. Bert had seen a big railroad bridge near home somewhere, and he remembered enough what it looked like to show us how to do it."

Boys Made Train. "We used to yoke a couple of calves together and break them to drive when we wanted sport, but that day's railroad building gave us a new game. We even found some old wheels and made a train to run over the railroad."

The boy who was to grow up to

"Now, if you boys study and apply yourselves well, some day one of you may be president," Tristram Coggeshall, president of the West Branch board of education, told the youngsters in this five-room frame schoolhouse at West Branch, Ia., one day 40 years ago. Herbert Hoover and the other was L. S. Penrose, now of Muscatine, Ia., shown at the right. Hoover and Penrose were playmates from the days both wore dresses until the former's parents died and he went to live with relatives.

be president was a natural leader, even then, according to Penrose. "He was a great fellow at play—always worked together with the group and seldom quarreled. It grew to be sort of natural for the rest of us to look to him for suggestion as to what to do or how best to accomplish something."

Then came this: "Yes, I'd kind of like to go down to Washington on March 4 and see him become president, but I can't make it."

Loughran-Walker Bout Questioned

CHICAGO, Feb. 8. (AP)—The Illinois State Athletic commission today tossed a bomb into the proposed light heavyweight championship match between Tommy Loughran, title holder, and Mickey Walker, ruler of the middleweights.

Paddy Harmon, president of the Chicago Stadium Corporation, was negotiating for the match and has Loughran under contract, but the commission ruled that Walker must first fight a logical contender for the middleweight title.

Paul Prehn, chairman of the commission, and president of the National Boxing Association, said the Loughran-Walker match would be impossible under present circumstances, as Walker was under suspension by the N. B. A. for failure to defend his title.

British To Keep Up With Buiding

Crairman Britten Declares England's Construction of Ships to Continue Regardless of U.S. Action

(By Associated Press) WASHINGTON, Feb. 8.—Word from London that the British cruiser construction program probably would be carried out as scheduled was followed here today by a denunciation of the British press by chairman Britten of the house naval committee.

The chairman scolded the British press with the circulation of false reports relative to a proposed curtailment of that country's warship building program at the time congress was considering the American naval building program.

"In the past years" Britten declared "whenever the congress was considering increases for the American navy, it has been customary for the British press to broadcast the intention of Great Britain to slow up her building programs. These announcements have been taken seriously by Pacifists and European patriots."

Britten added that as soon as congress had passed the bill calling for fifteen cruisers and one aircraft carrier W. C. Bridgeman, first lord of the British admiralty, had said that arrangements for construction of proposed British cruisers were proceeding.

Damage Suit For $20,000 Is Filed By Trained Nurse

A damage suit for $20,000 was filed in the Ninety-Ninth district court here Friday against the Lubbock Sanitarium company by Marguerite Harris, professional nurse.

The suit is based on alleged slander, actual damages of $10,000 and exemplary damages of $10,000 being asked.

In the original petition it is claimed that, on or about January 22, 1920 Miss Harris was charged with stealing $16.00 in money from another nurse's coat, by Miss McMillan "while acting as the agent of the said corporation, did falsely, wilfully, recklessly and with gross negligence make a false, untrue, and malicious statement pertaining to, and about, and concerning this plaintiff and her good name."

Scheneck and Triplett are her attorneys.

Mrs. J. H. Taylor and daughter, Miss Lorene, have returned from Coleman where they visited the first of the week.

Schmeling's Trip Postpones Fight

NEW YORK, Feb. 8. (AP)—A compromise agreement involving postponement of the engagement of Max Schmeling, sensational German heavyweight, to box O'Kelly in Boston February 15, was reached today at a conference between the fighter's manager and representatives of the Boston Madison Square Garden. Schmeling will post $20,000 to guarantee fighting in Boston first after returning from a trip to Germany.

Schmeling advised representatives of the Boston Garden that he could not fight there February 15 because of arrangements to sail for Germany February 18 to visit his mother, who is ill, and also fulfill a theatrical contract. He will return in April.

Meanwhile Schmeling will be under technical suspension in Massachusetts and probably also in New York, as a further penalty, pending fulfillment of his Boston contract.

J. E. Anderson was a business visitor in this city from New Home Friday.

Mrs. A. L. Smith, of 1917 Main street, is reported ill at her home this week.

SENATOR PREDICTS U.S. DICTATORSHIP By CHARLES P. STEWART

WASHINGTON, Feb. 8.—How about a dictator of the United States? An American dictatorship is suggested...

The thought is not exactly original with Senator Capper, at that. Some such inchoate idea has been afloat in the atmosphere for quite awhile, like static.

The senator simply grabbed it out of the air and put it in words. The language was his, the sentiment existed before he expressed it.

The opinion that democracy has failed certainly is widespread. First Italy passed under the sway of a dictator.

Then Spain. Then Turkey. Also Poland and Hungary, more or less. Very recently, Yugoslavia.

It is a world-wide complex. A dictator of England—free government's cradle.

Italy's is the best advertised of the new dictatorships. Maybe Benito Mussolini is the ablest of the dictators.

Every steamship into New York brings a cabinful of returning American tourists, overflowing with stories of the wonders of Italian governmental efficiency, under Mussolini.

It may not be freedom. They admit that. But oh, how it works!

Trains on time—factories humming! Crime suppressed! A happy, contented people—or else they go to jail.

Are these tourists, back home, by any chance planting the seeds of Mussolini-ism in America?

It would appear that Senator Capper believes so. "Looking far ahead to the distant future," he says: "I foresee our democratic form of government functioning with the direct effectiveness of a dictatorship minus the tyranny."

"Far ahead!" "Distant future!" How far? Why necessarily so distant—with responsible statesmen, like Senator Capper, already making such predictions.

I decided to ask the senator. Then I decided to ask some other senator. Senator Capper evidently can conceive of a dictatorship "minus tyranny."

I wanted a senator who sees tyranny as an inevitable concomitant of any dictatorship. It seemed to me that that kind of a senator would be likely to answer my questions more vigorously.

I found one, and got an earful. Tomorrow I'll disclose what I heard.

FOREIGN BODIES FOUND IN HEAD, LUNGS, HEART By DR. MORRIS FISHBEIN

Editor Journal of the American Medical Association and of Hygiene, the Health Magazine Children not infrequently swallow all sorts of unusual substances. Workers in factories occasionally are penetrated by flying portions of machinery; soldiers are hit by missiles of one type or another, and these may remain over long periods of time in the human body without causing any disturbance.

Eventually reactions may begin which result in death. Sometimes bullets or nails get into the body and may be carried along by the blood stream to the lungs or to the heart, and there be lodged temporarily without immediate effect, later setting up disturbances which may cause death.

Two French investigators examined by the use of the X-ray the heads of 50 soldiers who were suffering with mental disturbance, and found foreign bodies in the heads of thirty, in only one of whom there was any suspicion that a portion of a bullet might be within the skull.

In 19 cases the missiles were in the soft part of the bone near the eye, and in eight within the skull itself. One soldier was troubled by a bullet found in his buttock, the bullet having entered through one shoulder while he was lying on the ground.

Another soldier had a certificate stating that a piece of shrapnel was in his right lung, and the fragment was found in his hip.

In three cases pieces of shell were found by the X-ray to be within the heart, where they moved about constantly with the motion of the blood. Examination of one of the soldiers with a piece of shell in the heart one year later indicated that the piece of metal had become anchored. None of the three men with pieces of shell in the heart had any idea of the presence of the foreign substance, nor did it seem to discommodate them in any way.

Such investigations are an indication of the great resistance of the human body to disturbances of various sorts. Were it not for this fact, the amount of sickness and death would be far greater than it is.

SO THINK WE

We think that when a man gives in when he is wrong is probable, but sometimes a man gives in when he is right, but the difference is the first one is single, and the latter is married.

We think that some men are fools for marrying, what they marry, but he same can be said of most of the women, so after all it may be a matter of equal suffrage.

We think a lot of the sidestepping democrats are now trying to shove the blame of Herbert Hoover's election onto the women of the nation. We have not heard of any of the women feeling specially bad about it either.

We think the United States has made a wise selection of a man for ambassador to Mexico, in the person of Mr. Dwight W. Morrow. He has been holding that office for some time, and under the new administration will no doubt be as successful. Mexico is friendly toward Ambassador Morrow, and that goes a long way toward making good in Mexico.

We think it will be very gratifying to the people of this city for Lubbock to hop into the 30,000 class when the next federal census is taken in 1930, but that is where she will land, if the present percentage of increase is maintained. In 1920 we were just a bit over the 4,000 mark, and now it is estimated that we have 22,000 population.

We thought the ground hog did not know what he was doing when he ducked back into his den for another six week's snooze, by the way this winter weather has taken a lot of us, we guess Mr. G. did was just about right, and he may be more comfortable in his den than we are.

Your Income Tax

Many persons married during the taxable year fail correctly to compute the amount of their personal exemption.

The revenue act of 1928 provides that if the status of the taxpayer changes during the year, his personal exemption shall be determined by apportionment in accordance with the number of months the taxpayer was single and married. For example: A couple married on July 21, 1928, and living together on December 31, 1928, may file a joint return and claim an exemption of $2,208.33; that is 7-12 of $1,500 for the husband while single or $875, plus 5-12 of $3,500, or $1,458.33, for the period during which they were married. If husband and wife make separate returns each may claim a personal exemption of $1,604.17. The husband is entitled to 7-12 of $1,500, or $875, for the period during which he was single and 5-12 of $3,500, or $1,458.33, for the period during which he was married. The wife is entitled to a similar exemption. Similar provision is made with respect to the head of a family. A person who, on July 31, 1928, ceased being the head of a family—the support in one household of a relative or relative being discontinued—is entitled to an exemption of $2,686.67, which is 7-12 of $3,500, plus 5-12 of $1,500, or $1,604.17, for the period during which he was a dependent, the taxpayer's status as of the last day of the taxable year determines this credit. If during the year his support of such dependent ceased, he is not entitled to this credit.

The Way Of The World

BY GROVE PATTERSON

THE HUMAN BEING The human being appears to be behind in his evolution. He comes along but slowly. Bees and ants have gone further. Bees and ants have reached such a stage of perfection in their method of living that they are practically standardized. The human being is not so. He is still struggling along, stopping and starting, making many errors, trying to improve his methods. That's what makes the world so interesting. When evolution is completed—if such an idea is thinkable—the world will be a dull place. There will be no adventure.

SCIENCE AND ART

It has been said that science is information about materials, and art is information about people. True education implies much familiarity with both materials and people. The most learned man in the laboratory, no matter how much he knows about chemicals, is not truly educated if he is unacquainted with the reactions of the human being.

THE KINDERGARTEN

Kettering, genius of the General Motors, says we are just in the kindergarten of scientific invention. There was a man about 1840 who wanted to abolish the patent office, saying its work was done. Wonder what he would say today. No use asking what he would think—for evidently he didn't think.

A DEFINITION

Speaking of education, here is a definition to pass on from Dr. Henry M. Winston, a college president. He says: "A few fundamental masterpieces, a memory disciplined to retain, an inquiring spirit, a character ennobled by Christian principles—these are the essentials of modern education."

AS TO AMERICANIZATION

Those interested in Americanization work in the schools or elsewhere really ought to remember that the "foreigners" who have come to live among us come mostly from countries older than our own and equally civilized. Their ideas are frequently different. These ideas are not always inferior—perhaps not even usually. We think aliens—new citizens—have much to learn from them. We also have much to learn from them. The most valuable kind of Americanization work is partly a cooperative process.

THIS HAS HAPPENED All sorts of things are happening to ASHORETH ASHIE, First she gets herself engaged to multi-millionaire—the famous HOLLIS HART. Then an ex-sweetheart, MONTY ENGLISH, appears upon the scene.

ASHORETH leaves Hollis in New York, and returns by train to Boston, following their arrival in America from a cruise to the West Indies. Hollis means to fly to Boston.

When Ashoreth reaches home, she learns that Monty is also flying that night to Boston, determined, he wires, to see her on an important matter.

Ashoreth and her mother, with SADIE MORTON, are listening to the radio when the broadcaster of the BOSTON NEWS announces that a plane, in flight from New York to Boston, has crashed.

Hollis telephones her from Connecticut, where the plane crashed that he is on his way to Boston. And he tells her that he can have the five-day marriage law waived and marry her in the morning.

Ashoreth is, and happy, but a bit dismayed because of the disconcerting news of Monty English. Monty was also flying to Ashoreth. When Hollis telephoned, Monty was with him. He asked to speak to Mrs. Ashie, but the connection was abruptly severed.

Now, Ashoreth, with her head in a mad whirl, is planning for her marriage.

Hollis motors from Connecticut, where the accident took place, to the Ashie flat in Boston. Meanwhile, the Boston papers have heard, not only of the airplane smash, but the story that he was being in New York. They are printed the house he and Hollis Hart were married, a quiet little wedding in the office of Mr. Harvey Higginbottom, an attorney who is also a justice of peace.

They are sailing for Paris on the Isle de France, leaving Maizie in the flat in Boston, with Sadie Morton to keep her company. In Paris they register at the Ritz, and Hollis begins to shower his little bride with expensive and gorgeous gifts.

Now GO ON WITH THE STORY CHAPTER XLIII

Hollis was always bringing back surprises. The amethyst ear drops, for example, that he had clustered with little translucent grapes, were down to Ashoreth's shoulders. A choker of black pearls, with a ring for her first finger, to match. And a negligee that was multi-colored and shimmering as clouds at sunset. With mules, besides, that were made from the breasts of humming birds.

He took her to Patou's, and Agnes, and Lucien le Luxe. He was nothing of Jenny and Henriette—and any number of other places too. And she bought sport clothes and afternoon frocks and dinner gowns. With hats, and scarves, and lingerie to match. It was tremendously exciting, and lots of fun. But Ashoreth was growing restless. And, sometimes, she was homesick.

Maizie had written by every boat Sadie, she said, went to see Dan Cornum, the day Ashoreth was married. She felt just awful about the things she said, and hoped Ashoreth would forgive her. She was back at the flat, and lots of company. The bank deposit Hollis had made to Maizie's account was still untouched, and please God, she'd never go near it. For she might be poor, but she still had her pride.

When she read her mother's letters, Ashoreth was always filled with a tremendous urge to get out of things. Silk dresses, and bottles of perfume and scented face powders. Gloves, and a silk umbrella, with a jade duck for a handle. An antelope handbag and material for an evening gown—popples and morning glories in a sea of quivering silver tissue. She sent them all to Maizie, with oceans of love, and innumerable little crosses that stood for kisses.

Maizie never said anything about Monty. But Ashoreth always looked for him, as she walked along the avenues, or stopped at the sidewalk cafes, for cafe au lait, and crisp, sweet croissants. Sometimes she would bump into him. She had felt it in her bones, ever since that night when she dreamed he was in a dark corner, and someone was dropping anchors on him.

From Paris they went to Venice. Gondoliers with sashes, and ribbons fluttering from sailor hats such as little girls used to wear and which were cold on the Canal. And even the pigeons, pecking apathetically in St. Mary's square, were shivering.

Venice had been Ashoreth's idea. But now that she was there it was cruelly disappointing. "I told you," reminded Hollis "that it wasn't the season."

"But you didn't want to go to London either," she argued. "Of course not. It's deathly in London now. Egypt is the only place in mid-winter."

"But I don't want to go to Egypt!"

She crossed the street, to the cafe on the corner. One nice thing about cafes, they were simple everywhere. She seated herself, and began assiduously to study a menu. The man, who might be an American, was at her elbow. She drew her brows together, a little impatiently, and glanced up.

"Monty," she cried. "Monty English."

He remained standing, smiling down at her. "Monty, darling!" she exclaimed. "Monty, I'm dreaming."

She jumped to her feet. "Oh, Oh, I never was so surprised in all my life. Where did you come from, Monty?"

"Well," he bantered. "If it isn't Missus Maizie herself. And glad to see the boy—friend, as I live."

"Glad! I'm simply over-joyed!"

Today's Poem

MORNING The lark is up to meet the sun, The bee is on the wing, The ant her labor has begun, The woods with music ring. Shall birds and bees and ants be wise, While I my moments waste? Oh, let me with the morning rise, And to my duties haste. —Jane Taylor (1785-1824)

Monty. I never was so glad to see anybody before. Sit down, Monty. Give me your hands. . . See, I'm trembling. Oh, it's good to see you. "You didn't know who was following you?" he laughed. "But you thought you'd find out. Ash, you're a hypocrite, and I love you. Strolling through the Place there, like a plaster saint, handing out frames and smiles to warm a poor frog's heart. All dolled up like the Queen of Sheba, and playing Lady Mountiful like a fairy tale. "But where did you come from?" she demanded. "And how long have you been following me?"

what they are, Ash?" She inclined her head. And he leaned toward her, speaking softly "I had rather be a toad, and live upon the vapour of a dungeon, than keep a corner in the thing I love for others' uses." Ashoreth shivered. "I know," he said. "Cuckoo, and all that, Mrs. Hollis Hart, getting kissed by her husband. And a poor oil can like me getting all worked up. No sense to it. Plain dam' foolishness, me having the nerve to get jealous. But I'm one of those unreasonable cusses, and I can't seem to get over it, Ash. No—not if you were married to all the men and millions from here to Hong-kong." "But Monty—you darling silly . . ." "I know," he agreed. "That's why I went down to the second class." "You didn't." "Sure I did. Why not? Couldn't see you getting kissed down there." "Oh, my dear!" . . . She patted his hand understandingly. "You haven't told me yet, Monty, what you're doing over here." "Me? What do you suppose? I'm selling radios. Great business too, Ash. Remember, when I wanted to meet you at the pier?—well, that was the news I had for you. And when you let me down, I sent your mother a wire, saying I had to see you on important business. I was sailing in three days, Ash. . . And I was going to ask you to come over with me. It wouldn't have been the bridal suite you had with him. . . But . . . oh, hell! Monty tossed his hat across the table, and buried his face in his hands. "Tell me, Ash, are you happy, dear." (To Be Continued.)

Now if you were Ashoreth, what do you suppose you'd have said? "Happy?" she repeated. "Why— read the next chapter." FOR RENT Nicely furnished south bedroom. Furnace heat, hot water, nice bath. Monty lit a cigaret. "It's a long story," he said. "What do you want to eat, Ash?" "Eat," she cried, "but I can't eat, Monty. I only want to listen." "Patissieries," he told the waiter. "et cafe au lait, your Madame. Et cognac pour moi, s'il vous plait." "You talk French, Monty!" "Just showing off," he admitted. "But I'm taking lessons." "What are you doing here?" "You didn't know, Missus, that you'd passed up a globe trotter, did you?" "But tell me, Monty! Please When did you come to Paris?" "On the late de France, the same time you did." "Ashoreth grew deathly white. "I knew it," she told him "Monty I felt you one night on shipboard. On the promenade deck one night." "That's right," he agreed. "I was there. You were all done up in black with a sparkling sort of a shawl around you. Leaving over the rail, wishing on the first star." "But I don't understand," she cried. "Why didn't I see you again? Why didn't you speak to me? Where did you keep yourself? And why were you on the Isle de France Monty?" "I was going to speak to you," he interrupted, "when your husband came out. He put his arms around you, Ash, and kissed you. It was his right of course. You were his wife. But I never wanted to see you again after that."

Market Is Further Unsettled by Loan Calling Of Banks

Bugaboo of Congressional Investigation of Speculation Affects Also; Two Bills Introduced

BY CLAUDE A. JAGGER (Associated Press Financial Writer) NEW YORK, Feb. 8. (P)—Heavy calling of loans by the banks, and the bugaboo of a congressional investigation of securities speculation, caused further unsettlement on the stock market today.

A rather feeble rally from yesterday's low levels set in during the forenoon, but the introduction of bills in both the house and senate calling for an investigation of the federal reserve's power to control credit, and suggesting legislation to control speculation, had a rather chilling effect on speculative confidence.

While the bills appeared to be directed against the federal reserve board rather than the stock market, Wall street would be loath to see another protracted investigation of stock speculation, the first in several years, as it would have a disturbing effect upon the market.

Sell off 2 to 10 points. Stocks sold off rather generally from 2 to 10 points during the early afternoon, but many losses were reduced as supporting orders came into the market in the final trading.

The call money rate followed the withdrawal of about $40,000,000 in loans by banks.

There was a tendency to attribute the withdrawals to drawing of funds abroad by the higher rediscunt rate at London, or the heading of member banks of the Reserve Board's warning regarding the use of Federal Reserve credit.

Market Closes Today. The market will be closed tomorrow to permit commission houses, whose forces have been depleted by the prevalence of influenza, to catch up with their work.

The Associated Press index of 50 leading industrials was carried down 27 points, which with yesterday's 7-point drop, left it at a new 1929 low.

Cotton Rallies On Talk Of Improved Technical Status

NEW YORK, Feb. 8. (P)—After some early irregularity influenced by disappointing Liverpool cables and Manchester trade advices, the cotton market rallied today on trade buying and covering accompanied by talk of an improved technical position, and more encouraging week-end statistics.

The market opened steady at an advance of 1 point to a decline of 6 points. After some little backing and filling it sold 3 to 7 points net lower under liquidation and some Wall Street, local and western selling.

July advanced to 19.60 and new October contracts to 19.43. The close was within a point or two of the best on most positions.

Spinnings' takings of American cotton for the week were placed at 347,591 bales against 304,552 last year. There was a decrease of 115,476 bales in the world's visible supply of American cotton compared with 75,656 the previous week and 116,792 last year.

Private cables said that liquidation and hedging had been absorbed by trade calling and some continental buying in Liverpool but that there was only a small turnover in cotton cloths and yarns and yesterday's advance in the Bank of England rate was restricting business.

Foreign exchanges again were strong in response to the higher rediscunt rate at London. Sterling and the Canadian dollar both rose to new 1929 highs.

Cotton Works To Higher Level On Southern Market

NEW ORLEANS, Feb. 8. (P)—Cotton prices worked moderately higher today although selling by scalpers developed on all bulges. The market was supported by scale down trade buying and covering by shorts.

Liverpool cables were indifferent and the market here opened practically unchanged. There was a flurry of selling right after the start and prices eased off 3 points but the offerings were absorbed at the decline by trade buying and more or less purchasing by scalpers.

The demand continued somewhat aggressive during the morning with shorts covering on the unfavorable weather outlook and some rumors that better textile statistics were pending.

During the final trading the higher prices brought out realizing and some selling by ring traders and March closed at 19.20 and July 19.30 or 4 to 5 points under the highs but 2 to 4 points over yesterday's close.

Death Claims "Ned" Denby Of The Navy

Courageous Heart That Carried Former Secretary Through Scandal Fails Him Early Friday

(By Associated Press) DETROIT, Feb. 3.—The courageous heart that carried Edwin Denby through the Teapot Dome scandal failed him today and brought sudden death in his sleep to the former Secretary of the Navy. He was found dead in bed by his wife this morning. He would have been 59, February 18.

Besides Mrs. Denby, their daughter, Marian, 13 years old, was at the home of a son, Edwin, Jr., 16, is a student at the Severn School, in Maryland. Three brothers, Charles of Washington, Wythe, of Chicago, and Garvin, of New York, also survive.

Had Love For The Sea A love for the sea was deeply ingrained in "Ned" Denby, as his friends called him. His father was once United States minister to China, but Denby insisted on enlisting in the navy during the Spanish-American war as a plain goby—a gunner's mate third class on the U. S. S. Yosemite. Came the World War, and Denby enlisted as a lieutenant, a private in the marine corps, from which he was mustered out as a major.

While his resignation as Secretary of the Navy on his birthday in 1924, virtually forced by his connection with the Teapot Dome affair, was a bitter blow to Denby, he turned it in without bitterness in his heart.

Signed Lease Transfers In his capacity as Secretary of the Navy, Denby signed the transfer from the Navy to the Interior Department of the Naval oil reserves in Teapot Dome, Wyoming, and Elk Hills, California. This was by executive order of President Harding. Later, Denby with Albert B. Fall, then Secretary of the Interior, signed the leases that transferred the properties in turn to Harry F. Sinclair and Edward L. Doheny.

When the oil scandal broke in 1921, Denby at first was spared. In 1924 demand was made in the senate for his resignation. Replying to these demands, Denby assumed full responsibility for the oil leases. He declared they were made in strict accordance with the law and in the best interests of the country.

Long afterward he reiterated this conviction, and added: "If the matter came before me again tomorrow, I would do the same thing."

In Washington Friday

(By Associated Press) The senate passed the war-department supply bill.

The navy department appropriation bill was approved by the house.

The cruiser construction bill was received by President Coolidge.

The house ways and means committee concluded its hearings on wool tariff rates.

President Coolidge sent a message of sympathy to the widow of former Secretary Denby.

Resolutions were introduced in congress seeking information about the Federal Reserve board's warning on speculative loans.

The appeal of Harry F. Sinclair on the jury shadowing charge was taken under consideration by the District court of appeals.

Americans Arrive For Conferences

PARIS, Feb. 3. (P)—The assembling of the largest financial brains of the United States, Great Britain, France, Belgium, Italy, Japan and Germany, with the object of settling once for all the extent of Germany's obligations to the allies of the World War, was completed today when the unofficial American representatives of the United States, brought a staff of 34 with them.

The French attitude might be summed up in the statement that Germany must pay France or this country cannot pay the United States.

freight and passenger agent of the Santa Fe; J. A. Gillies, of Slaton, superintendent of this division of the road; S. J. Cole, manager of the traffic department at the Amarillo; and J. J. Murray, Roseco Wilson and Mr. Reed, were visitors in attendance.

B. Sherrod, chairman of the Lubbock Chamber of Commerce railroad committee, with S. E. Cone and Charles H. Reed, its members, were on the committee; Mayor Harley D. Woods, City Commissioners J. H. Hankins and J. P. Bacon, City Manager G. W. McCleary, City Secretary W. H. Rodgers, Walter S. Posey, E. J. Murray, Roseco Wilson and A. E. Davis, manager of the Chamber of Commerce, were local men present.

One feature of the luncheon was the presentation, to Mayor Woods by Superintendent Gillies of the Santa Fe, of the contract recently signed by the railroad company and the City of Lubbock for construction of the subway at Broadway and the railroad tracks.

This was the occasion for expression of whole-hearted friendliness between the company and the city in their relations.

Presiding as toastmaster, H. C. Pipkin called on Mr. Posey to express Lubbock's reaction to the railroad's application for an extension to Lovington. Posey said the feeling here was that this was one of the city's greatest opportunities.

Gallagher emphasized the common interest of this city and his company for making the extension.

"We have had our line projected in the general direction of this area for a good many years," Gallagher said. "Our plans have always been to extend these lines as development justified. We think that time has come. Lubbock's interest is that now it supplies a great deal of merchandise to this territory.

With the extension of commodities impossible to be carried by trucks can be taken.

"If the T. and P. extension goes through and ours does not," Mr. Gallagher said, "it means that Lubbock jobbers and wholesalers will be at a disadvantage of several miles further haul."

He pointed out that the tendency of cattle shipments is to move to Oklahoma and Kansas points in the spring. The line has at also the greatest industry now extant in the New Mexico section. With development of oil fields in the Hobbs area, or elsewhere, he said the extended line from Seagraves would give quicker haul of refined products and oil well supplies than the T. and P. extension would.

"With the promise of greater development in Lovington we believe the Santa Fe is the logical and practical line to serve all of this territory, and it is of interest to all towns in this territory to be vitally concerned in the extension," Gallagher concluded.

Hoovers Decline Social Functions

Wealthy Winter Colony Disappointed By Refusal To Attend; Party Lives In Seclusion On Isle

By JAMES L. WEST Associated Press Staff Writer MIAMI BEACH, Fla., Feb. 3. (P)—The President-elect and Mrs. Hoover have disappointed the wealthy winter colony of Miami and Miami Beach. They have been showered with invitations to functions of various sorts, but thus far have accepted none.

Since their arrival more than two weeks ago, they have lived in virtual seclusion on Belle Isle or on the house boat on which they have made a couple of excursions to the fishing grounds off the keys.

On those trips they were accompanied by old friends and they have had many other friends in for luncheon and dinner at the pre-inaugural home on Belle Isle. The only invitation they have accepted was that to a private luncheon given in their honor yesterday by Mr. and Mrs. Cyrus H. K. Curtis aboard the Philadelphia publisher's yacht, the Lydonia, in Biscayne Bay.

Immediately after the arrival here the President-elect was made an honorary member of the Bath Club, one of the most exclusive clubs in all Florida, and also was given courtesy cards to various golf and country clubs but has made no use of them.

Mr. Hoover came to this state for a vacation and decided from the outset that the only way he could get a much needed rest before entering the White House was to follow his own program.

California Jury Convicts A. Keyes

LOS ANGELES, Feb. 3. (P)—Former District Attorney A. Keyes and two co-defendants tonight were convicted in their trial for conspiracy and bribery by a superior court jury which deliberated less than two hours.

The co-defendants were Ben Getoff, alleged "fixer" and Ed. Rosenberg, alleged giver of bribes to obtain law prosecution when he was a defendant in the Julian Petroleum Corporation stock over issue fraud cases.

handle and West Texas was piling up in drifts Friday and the temperature remained at or near zero in the mountains. Cattlemen were fearful for their stock on the Plains, but farmers believed crops would be benefitted. Highways were caked with ice and travel was hazardous.

Four deaths were reported directly attributable to the storm and scores of persons were injured in automobile and other accidents. F. B. Sisco of Greenville was killed when a skidding automobile ran over him on the highway and Trinidad Lopez, 70, was frozen to death at San Angelo. Troy E. Green, Seymour, was killed when his truck overturned on the treacherous highway near Haskell, and J. L. Wheeler, Lockney, died of exertion in attempting to start his motor.

Five Inches At Amarillo Five inches of snow had fallen at Amarillo and the mercury was at five above. Pampa had four inches of snow and zero weather. Borger, Texas, reported a temperature of 24. At Fort Worth and Dallas the mercury was hovering around 20, with prospects of more snow Saturday. Waco, in Central Texas, had a temperature of 18 and sleet was falling. At Wink in the southwest corner of the state it was above, with sleet to add to the discomfort.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Feb. 3. (P)—Winter blew its icy breath deep into the lower Mississippi Valley tonight, bringing the coldest weather of the season to the west and southwest and at some places the heaviest snow fall in several years.

Temperatures in Northern Utah, dropped to 24 degrees below zero this morning and at Idaho Falls and Blackfoot, Idaho, it was 30 below.

At points in Wyoming and Montana the mercury sank as low as 40 below zero. Colorado Springs, Colo., reported a mark of 16 below. The snow was the heaviest in several years in some sections of Oklahoma and drifts played havoc with highway traffic.

The auditors said $683,334.14 of the total came from the board's general fund, and $226,126.86 from the church building and loan fund.

and "did not even know where it was." Appeals to Cureton Failing to get action from Commissioner Robinson, he took the matter up with C. M. Cureton, then attorney general, now chief justice of the supreme court, he said.

Cureton advised me that it was his department's policy not to bring any suits except upon advice of the land commissioner, Judge Morgan said. "And I have not spoken to or voted for Cureton since."

He complained of "unfair values" placed upon public lands in Andrews and Gaines counties under the 1925 reappraisal act.

He cited a 30,000 acre tract which he said was "owned by a Kansas City doctor," whose name he did not give. He said it was owned by the Drovers National Bank of Kansas City, until the doctor purchased it, and that the bank had asked him to sell it.

"They wanted $7.50 an acre bond debt," he testified. "That was about two years ago and a year after it had been revalued by the commissioner. The original purchase price was from $1 to $5 an acre. The commissioner revalued it at $3 an acre."

Morgan said that if this tract had been revalued it would have brought not less than $6 and some of it $12 and $15.

"I never did," Kenyon replied. "It isn't the rich man they are after. It's the poor one."

Replying to the Galveston lawmaker Rep. Graves of Georgetown, a co-author of the bill, declared that Kenyon had attempted to "cuss out Galveston county constituents."

"I don't blame him," Graves said. "God knows, they're rotten enough, all right."

Denies W. C. T. U. Influence Graves denied that the state W. C. T. U. had attempted to intimidate legislators on Monday when 50 members of the organization seated themselves in the house gallery while consideration was under way and later entertained solons at a banquet.

Possibility that Texas would have its first dairy experiment station was seen through passage of a bill sponsored by the Waco members, calling for such a station to be operated under direction of the A. and M. College of Texas. The measure was originally written calling for the station to be built somewhere in the blackland region of Texas and provided an appropriation of $50,000. Authors agreed to amendments eliminating these conditions, saying the amount would be left to the discretion of the appropriations committee. Authorities of A. and M. will determine its location.

Representative Baldwin said the plant was a necessity in order to carry out farm diversification and encourage dairying.

States Consider Water Allotment

SANTA FE, N. M., Feb. 3. (P)—The compact proposals submitted by Colorado on the one hand, and by New Mexico and Texas on the other for allotment of the waters of the Rio Grande were rejected in the tri-state conference today and a compromise proposal offered by Col. Richards Denies Charges Richards took the stand today to make a sweeping denial of the charges against him and to bring sharp accusation against his alleged accomplice, Crabbs, who had testified Richards equipped him with the alias "Clyde R. Vest" and engineered the conspiracy that led to Mathews' death.

District Attorney McCraw subjected Richards to severe cross-examination, dwelling in particular on alleged discrepancies between Richards' testimony before the grand jury and his assertions on the stand today. He pointed his finger at Richards most of the time and the defense objected frequently to the prosecutor's "cynical" manner. Almost half of McCraw's questions drew an "I don't remember" or "I don't know."

South Polar Winter Approaching Byrd Party While Supplies Placed On Ice At Far-Away Bay Of Whales

Antarctic Continent Turns To Sheet Of Solid Ice As Large As United States; Seasons Are Erratic

NEW YORK, Feb. 8. (AP)—While the Byrd Antarctic Expedition is unloading its supplies on the ice at the Bay of Whales the south polar winter is approaching rapidly.

It is not unusual, says Dr. Robert Cushman Murphy, Antarctic explorer of the American Museum of Natural History, for winter conditions to sweep down in February over the Antarctic continent, which is a solid sheet of ice about the size of the United States. Nowhere upon its expanse except at a few points about its border has there yet been discovered any break in the ice sheet sufficient to expose bare ground enough to collect a little of the summer sun's heat to stay the chill of unending ice.

"Winter," says Dr. Murphy, "may be delayed until March, but in the Antarctic the safe rule is to get started so early that it hurts, which is exactly what Byrd has done. Byrd's winter site is in a natural amphitheater, about 400 miles long and more than 300 miles broad, in which he is camped at the outer or open edge of the horseshoe.

"The protection afforded him by the configuration is not in any way due to the land which rises several thousand feet on three sides of this great bowl called Ross Sea. Instead it is furnished through peculiar meteorological conditions over the area of level glacial ice that covers so many thousands of square miles in the inner part of Ross Sea.

"Existence of this vast plain of ice enables Byrd to keep away from the dangers, amounting to almost certain failure of even death, in trying to winter on the shores of the Antarctica continent itself. For the shores drop down from great elevations and in winter are swept by terrific winds, such as caused Scott's death. Storms frequently are equal in force to a tropical hurricane.

"Byrd's camp is far enough out on the ice plain to escape the winds. Discovery of the comparative winter calm of this Bay of Whales site was made by Amundsen, who forecast the favorable condition from study of scanty meteorological reports. This deduction by Amundsen was one of the cleverest things ever done in Antarctic exploration. He spent a winter and part of a summer at the Bay of Whales and had weather that for the Antarctic was calm all the time."

Author At 15 Book Tells Life At Boarding School

CHATTANOOGA, Tenn. (AP)—Fifteen-year old Carman Barnes of this city is to make her literary debut shortly with "School Girl," a fictional composite of life at a boarding school. The book is not a study of conditions at one school, Carman is a student at fashionable Ward-Belmar, Nashville.

"School Girl" does not mince words and it may not please the elders. Carman's answer is that all her life she wanted to write a book and she has chosen the subject she knows most about.

The young author is the daughter of Mrs. George Pullen Jackson. She has decided what she is going to do with the money from the book—"Buy about the most expensive sport model roadster on the market."

Woman Police Judge Passes Tenth Year

BOULDER, Colo. Feb. 8. (AP)—A woman's wisdom and sense of fairness balance the scales of justice in Boulder's police court.

After a decade on the bench, Judge Linda M. Lee counts among her friends the persons who have stood before her charged with violation of city ordinances.

She always shows mercy when she is convinced of an offender's sincere wish to be guided by a mistake. A barber who entered a plea of guilty after his arrest for violating a traffic ordinance was let off without a fine when he promised to drive his motor car more carefully in the future. In appreciation of judicial clemency, he offered to bob the judge's hair, and she accepted the offer.

Belgrade Grows Beyond Her Funds

BELGRADE, Yugoslavia, Feb. 8. (AP)—Belgrade, which before the war was a semi-oriental town famous for its many bombardments, is rapidly growing into a great central European capital.

Its population has risen from 70,000 to over 250,000 and is increasing. The chief obstacle to an ambitious program of construction work and public improvement is lack of funds.

CAMPBELL WILL RETIRE IF HE ESTABLISHES NEW SPEED MARK

VERNEUK PAN, South Africa.

(AP)—Major Malcolm Campbell, famous British motorist, will retire if he establishes a new world record for automobile speed here in February, otherwise he will try again at Daytona Beach, Fla., he says.

He chose a desolate spot when he selected this part of the world for his attempt. The party will outspan on the veiled close to the bed of a dried-up lake where Major Campbell will make the speed attempt.

The nearest house is five miles away. He will use his Moth airplane, which is now on the way here with his famous car, the "Blue Bird," for hurried journeys to Capetown, about 450 miles away.

Major Campbell already has gone into training. He has eliminated smoking and will drink no alcohol. The most anxious spectator will be Mrs. Campbell, who invariably watches her husband face the tremendous risks he dismisses with a grin.

"If I am successful I think this will probably be my last attempt on the world's speed record, but if I do not succeed I shall return and build another car—for which I have already designs—and try again in the United States," Major Campbell has declared.

Should Campbell be successful he will regain for Great Britain the record which he himself set up at Daytona Beach—206.95 miles an hour—and which was wrested from England by Ray Keech, American, only a few weeks later.

In Major Campbell's efforts of a year and a half to find a suitable place for the record he has:

Visited many stretches of sand in Britain.

Explored the coast of Denmark. Flown to the Sahara and had a forced landing in the Rif tribesmen's country.

Sent representatives to the Syrian desert, Bolivia, South America, France, and Italy.

Examined hundreds of letters suggesting possible sites.

Banned by the Royal automobile club from using Fensine Sands, Carmarthenshire, on the grounds that they were unsafe, he thought of trying a certain stretch of shore in Denmark, but the Danish minister of justice forbade him to make the attempt.

Under suitable conditions Campbell believes that the "Blue Bird" can attain a speed of 220 miles an hour.

Germany Attempts To Abolish Laws

BERLIN, Feb. 8. (AP)—A law to abolish laws has won strong support in the current session of the German Reichstag. The legislators face a heavy program, part of which may include the task of unloading old and worn out laws.

The German people are groaning under about 11,000 laws, 9,000 of which are said to have fallen into disuse, to be out of date or wholly inapplicable. Among the latter is a centuries old ordinance to crop the ears of cats at certain times of the year, while another one makes it illegal to do garden work on Ascension Day. With many such laws, the statute book of 65,000 pages is filled. This year, it is expected, a beginning will be made to winnow out these thousands of hoary regulations, most of which have in these days no right of existence.

First Helpy-Selfy Store Opens In Lubbock Saturday

Innovation For Groceries Here Offered Patrons

C. W. Lackey Will Manage Self-Service Establishment On Nineteenth; To Give Premiums Saturday

An innovation is offered to that fast-growing residential section of the southwestern part of the city, near Tech Campus, with the opening Saturday of the Helpy-Selfy grocery store, on 19th Street between Avenue X and Y, the only self-serving establishment of this kind in the neighborhood.

The Helpy-Selfy store will be the first of this chain of grocery stores to be located in Lubbock. But while this store is a link of the chain store establishment it is controlled locally, with local stockholders in charge.

C. W. Lackey, formerly connected with Piggy-Wiggy No. 5 of this city, has been named manager of the new 19th Street store. Three other regular employees will be used with three or four additional ones added on Saturdays.

Offer Complete Stock In connection with the opening.

250 baskets of food will be given away to patrons purchasing as much as $5 worth of groceries. The store will offer a complete stock to the public on opening day.

A full line of groceries will be in stock at all times with special emphasis upon fruits and vegetables. A first-class, up-to-date meat market has been installed in the store and will be operated in connection with the grocery business.

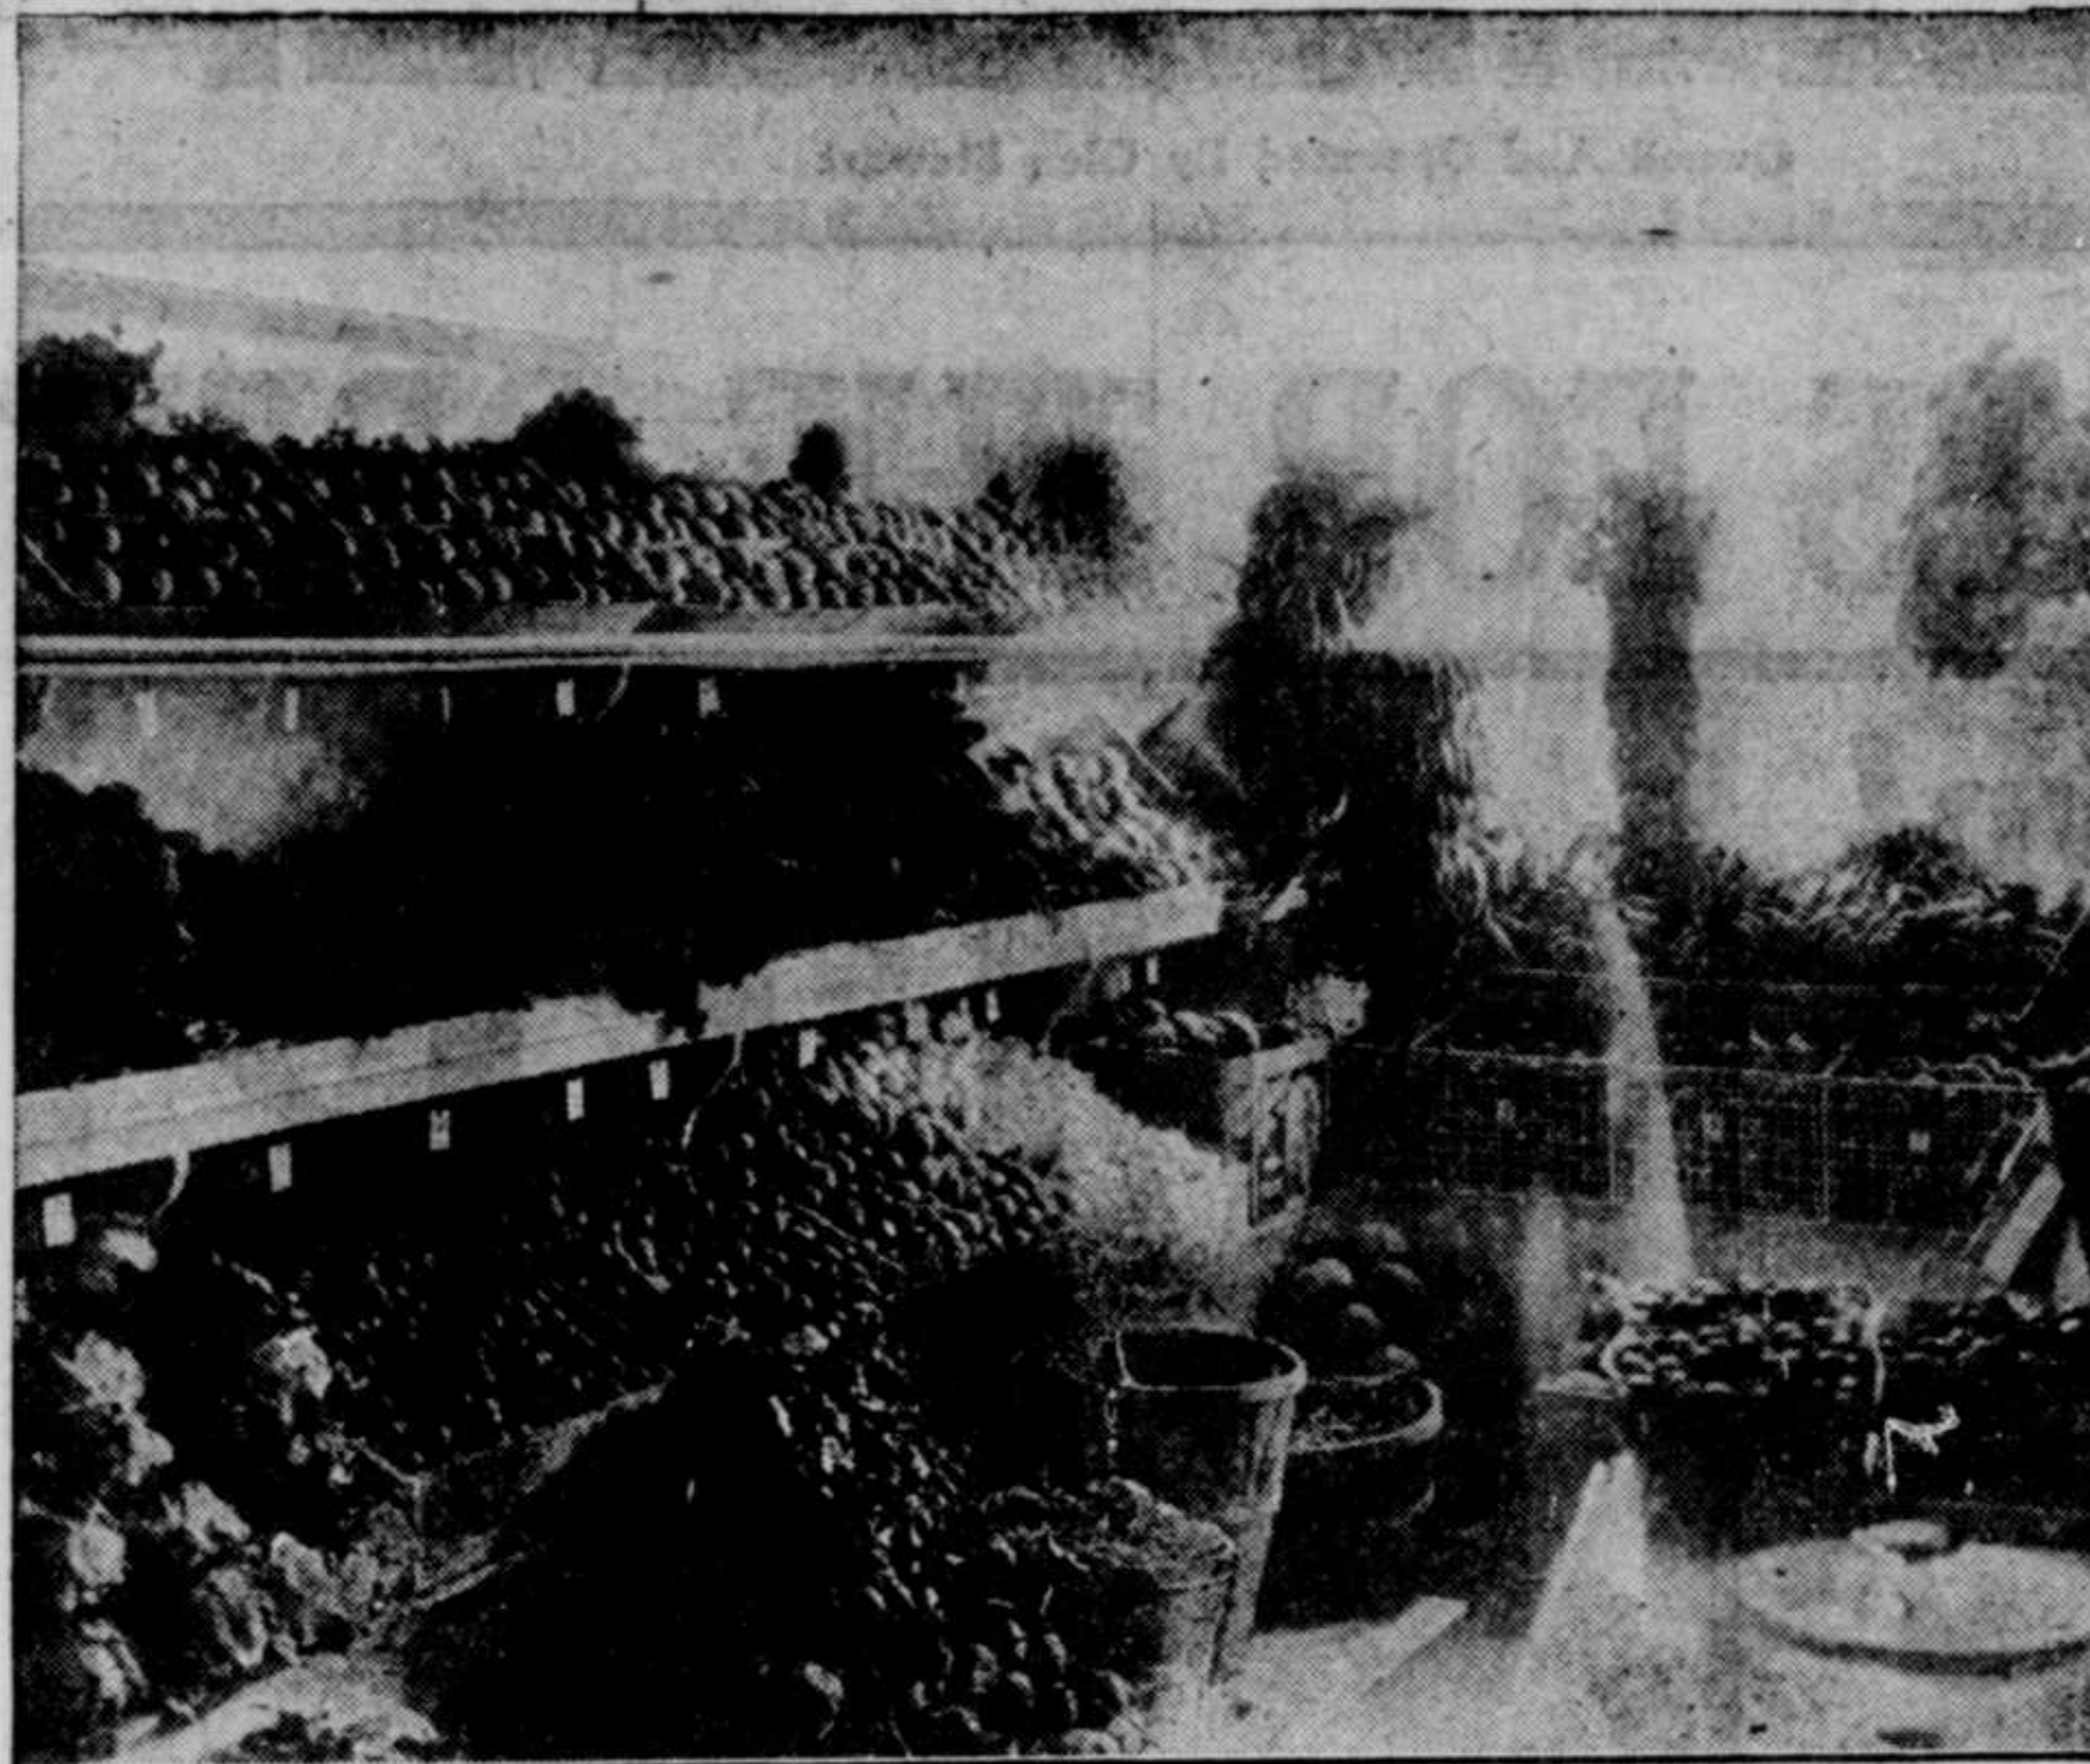

The store is located in a newly constructed, beautiful brick building corner of Avenue X and 19th Street. A delightful color scheme of white and blue is carried out in the store, and with plenty of available shelf space and display room, the public of this section of Lubbock is offered one of the most modern self-serving grocery stores in the city. The store has a thirty-six foot front, allowing ample room for show window display.

Present Congress Gives Much Study To Radio Rulings

Coolidge Recommendation For Year More Of Life To Commission Expected To Have Weight

WASHINGTON, Feb. 8. — The official statement from the White House that President Coolidge was of the opinion that it would be advisable to continue for one year the administrative functions of the federal radio commission is expected to have considerable weight with congress, which is considering the problem of radio regulation.

On March 4, radio will become one of the responsibilities of the new president. Whether President-elect Hoover in his conferences with President Coolidge discussed the continuation of the commission or the radio situation in general has not been divulged. Following the 1925 breakdown in federal regulation of broadcasting, President Coolidge asked congress to draft new legislation and the Radio act of 1927 resulted.

The advice of Mr. Hoover was sought in the preparation of this legislation. He told congress he believed that duties of a semi-judicial character should not be handled by an individual such as the secretary of a board or commission.

The new radio act provided a commission of five, automatically terminating all existing licenses and adopting the principle that "public convenience, interest and ne-

New High Record In Loans Established

WASHINGTON, Feb. 8. (AP) — On the heels of its warning for restraint in Federal Reserve Bank loans for speculative purposes, the reserve board made public today figures showing that for the week ending February 6 New York member banks had loaned to brokers a total of $5,689,000,000, a high record.

The week's loans showed an increase of $110,000,000 over the preceding week and set the third consecutive high mark in as many weeks. The loans for the week ending January 30 totaled $5,559,000,000, which was an increase of $116,000,000 over the previous week.

November reallocation of stations, there has been no concerted opposition to the continuance of the commission in its present capacity. The broadcasters' organization asked congress for a more flexible interpretation of equal allocation under the law and other amendments but did not demand discontinuance of the commission.

Even individual station owners, who complained of their treatment under the allocation, said they were not opposed to commission regulation but expressed grievance at the actions of individual commissioners.

The nosebleed stopped without recourse to any of the advices.

GUARANTEE BACKS EVERY PURCHASE AT HELPY-SELFY

INSTITUTION IS HOME OWNED BUT HAS BIG BUYING POWER

The first genuine Helpy-Selfy grocery to open in the South Plains opens in Lubbock Saturday at 8 P. M.

Olen Stewart, manager of the store, asks that special stress be accorded the fact that Helpy-Selfy should be considered at all times a Lubbock institution in every respect. Being a local organization, any profits accruing from the business will remain in Lubbock and enrich the community from whence it gets its support. For this reason Helpy-Selfy will at all times feature and offer for sale Lubbock-made and Lubbock county produced commodities insofar as they are obtainable. As an example, only Lubbock-baked bread will be obtainable at Helpy-Selfy.

Faith in Lubbock

"Constantly on the lookout for an ideal business in which to engage in Lubbock and after having studied with thought and pains many different business opportunities, we have taken on the Helpy-Selfy method of doing business and from Saturday on we will be known as Helpy-Selfy of Lubbock, Texas," Mr. Stewart said. "The company is owned solely by us. Our observation has been that the people of Lubbock appreciate the self-serving system of handling groceries and the consequent savings effected in the plan. With the new system installed the store will be strictly a cash institution and will make no deliveries, but will of course extend every help and courtesy in the selection of groceries."

Pleased With Franchise

"We have been very fortunate in obtaining the Helpy-Selfy franchise for Lubbock. We believe there are wonderful possibilities for both the city and our institution," Stewart said.

"We positively guarantee every piece of merchandise we sell. If for any reason a customer is not fully satisfied with any purchase made we will gladly give him new merchandise or his money back. Practically every item we handle is guaranteed by its manufacturer. On top of the manufacturer's guarantee, we add our iron-clad Helpy-Selfy guarantee. We do this to doubly safeguard our friends of Lubbock. No quibbling, no investigating or passing the buck; the customer is always right in our store."

Helpy-Selfy in Texas specially is becoming a great institution. There are nearly 100 of these beautiful stores within the state, operating at this time. Helpy-Selfy had its beginning in a small building, 18x30 feet in Dallas, Texas. The originator of the system Helpy-Selfy, Jack Long, established his first store in Dallas in 1922, using as his only means $1,000 borrowed capital and a limited line of credit extended by friendly grocery jobbers. In a few brief years, Mr. Long built his original idea to embrace 23 beautiful stores in Dallas. Two years ago that chain of Dallas stores was sold to D. W. Jones, Mr. Long retaining a certain amount of director's stock in that organization of which Mr. Jones was the head. Since that time Mr. Long has opened fifteen beautiful stores in Fort Worth and is now devoting a great portion of his time to the Helpy-Selfy system throughout the country. His original idea still motivates the present system. He declares that his success is founded in quantity buying power, low overhead, personal management and constant, heavy advertising of a modern merchandising nature.

The name Helpy-Selfy is the creation of a Dallas woman, Miss Maybelle Hill.

Everyone is cordially invited to attend the opening of the local store whether they intend to make purchases or not.

OPPOSES BOOST IN WOOL TARIFF

WASHINGTON, Feb. 8 (AP).—Opposition to any increase in the duties on raw wool was voiced before the house ways and means committee today by Mr. Wm. Goldman, New York, representing the clothing manufacturers' research board, who declared the present rates already constitute a huge tax upon the American clothing consumer.

The increase to 31 cents a pound on raw wool granted in the 1922 act, combined with the provision that it apply only to the clean content, Goldman said, boosted the rates 70 per cent over the Payne-Aldrich tariff and aroused widespread antagonism at that time.

This duty, he added, pyramided before the material reached the consumer to about 93 cents a pound, equal to $4 on all wool suit of clothes, and added $200,000,000 to clothing costs of the American people.

(By Associated Press)

BELTON, Tex., Feb. 8 — H. D. Thompson, 58, on trial for the slaying of Carlton Fowell, 19, in a skating rink here last May, testified today that he shot Fowell in a state of "indescribable excitement" when letters thought to have been from Fowell to his married daughter led him to believe the two were planning to elope.

Although the letters read in court contained endearing terms, the daughter testified that Fowell always had been "gentlemanly" in her presence.

Witnesses testified Fowell had his arms around the married woman at the rink shortly before he was shot by Thompson.

Evidence in the case was completed today.

GOLD SEEKERS TO TAKE CANOES ALONG ON FLIGHT TO NORTHWEST

NEW YORK, Feb. 8 (AP)—Canoes as airplane equipment will be used for the first time next summer when the Dominion Explorers, Ltd. begin their projected four-year aerial gold exploration of the Canadian northwest.

Capt. Charles Sutton, chief pilot who came here to purchase three more cabin monoplanes for the explorers' caravan, told how preparatory work with four pontoon-fitted planes last summer demonstrated the advantage of taking canoes along for ready transportation on the lakes and streams.

Captain Sutton plans to test canoe-carrying under practical conditions here within two weeks.

Another flying innovation is a special pontoon with which Sutton is having his planes equipped. With double buttons built into them, the pontoons are provided with a longitudinal water-tight compartment as a double protection against puncture. Should one of the surfaces become damaged against a submerged rock in landing on the uncharted lakes and streams, the pontoon would fill only half full of water and be enabled to take off again without emergency repair.

Gotham Eagerly Awaiting Newest
Play Of O'Neill

Theater Guild To Present
Latest Production From Famous Playwright On Next Monday Night

(By Associated Press)
NEW YORK, Feb. 8.—Among the dramatic presentations promised to New York during the remainder of the current season, none is regarded with more anticipation than Eugene O'Neill's new play, "Dynamo," which the Theater Guild will reveal February 11.

It is the first of a trilogy of plays, all centered upon modern man's search for religion, and it is the only O'Neill play that Broadway will see this year. He plans to write the other two dramas of the cycle within the next three years, and it is his present intention to turn them to the writing of what he hopes will be his greatest play, a task to which he is prepared to devote eight or 10 years.

"Dynamo" deals with the son of a fundamentalist minister who falls in love with the daughter of an atheist, and who, dissatisfied with belief and disbelief alike, turns to the dynamo of a hydroelectric plant as a symbol of his religious aspirations, seeing in it a machine which creates energy within itself.

O'Neill's last play, "Strange Interlude," celebrated the completion of a year's run in New York at the end of January. It is by all odds the greatest popular success the playwright has ever written, despite its more than four-hour length and its unorthodox construction; and it is being played on the road and abroad as well.

In "Dynamo" O'Neill employs scenes like those in "Interlude," and also resorts to the device of cutting away the wall of a house and revealing the simultaneous action in several rooms within. He employed that method in "Desire Under the Elms." This time he goes farther and reveals contemporary action and dialogue in different rooms of two houses and in a yard between.

The last week of January brought feverish new shows to Broadway than any week since early autumn. There were but three: "Boom Boom" and "Lady Fingers," musical comedies, and Blanche Yurka's revival of Ibsen's "Hedda Gabler" for the Actors' Theater.

"Boom Boom," adapted from the French farce, "Oh, Mama," is energetic buffoonery built about the complications which ensue when a parent weds his son's sweetheart. The portly Frank MacIntyre is the papa and Jeanette MacDonald the girl. Nell Kelley's lively stepping and the dancing of ortez and Peggy, a Spanish duo, are items.

In Owen Davis' old plays, of which there are several score, musical comedy craftsmen have sudden-

MANUFACTURERS JOIN SHEEP
MEN IN ASKING TARIFF HIKE

WASHINGTON, Feb. 8 (AP).—Wool manufacturers lined up behind the sheep raisers today for higher tariff protection on fine raw wool, and at the same time pleaded for a boost in the rates on higher grade manufactured yarns and fabrics.

Nathaniel Stevens, vice-president of the National Association of Wool Manufacturers, testified before the House Ways and Means Committee at its hearing on wool duties that manufacturers were in harmony with the growers in their request for additional protection on high grade raw wool. He added, however, that if the increase of from five to nine cents a pound proposed on raw wool was granted, the Manufacturers would need higher compensatory duties on goods of fine quality.

He based this conclusion on estimates showing that labor costs were higher in the manufacture of fine woolsens as compared with those in the coarse goods trade and that even under the present rate of 31 cents a pound on the clean content of wool in the grease slightly higher duties on the manufactured articles were required.

He suggested a differential of 10 per cent between the duties on woolen fabrics and finished clothing.

Stevens likened conditions in the wool manufacturing industry to those in the textile trade, with factories operating at only 60 per cent capacity. He said imports were displacing 41,000,000 pounds of domestic wool in the American market and were keeping from employment from 12,000 to 15,000 persons.

G. W. Jack, representing the New York Sheep Grower's Association, disagreed with national wool growers' association spokesmen in their request for higher rates on fine raw wool. He said New York sheep raisers had doubled their business under present duties and were satisfied with them.

ly discovered material for their labors. A few weeks ago Lew Fields revealed, in "Hello Daddy," a musicalized version of a former Davis farce success, and now Eddie Buzzell has toiled from "Easy Come, Easy Go," a libretto for the new musical comedy, "Lady Fingers," in which he is starred with Louise Brown.

Blanche Yurka is the sole custodian this season of Ibsen's revivals. She directed and enacted the principal role in "The Wild Duck" and now has followed its healthy run with a production of "Hedda Gabler," in which she also plays the name part, surrounded by most of the same principals who shared honors with her in "The Wild Duck."

Ford Greets Edison
At Estate In Florida

(By Associated Press)
FORT MYERS, Fla., Feb. 8.—Henry Ford, arriving for his winter vacation today, was so eager to see his old friend, and former boss, Thomas A. Edison, that he hastened from his train to walk two miles in 20 minutes direct to the Edison estate.

Ford's home is next door to the Edison estate, but instead of going there the Detroit manufacturer turned in the Edison gate, walked to the wizard's new laboratory and without being announced learned over desk where the aged inventor was checking some rubber experiments. Mr. Edison looked up in surprise and then, jumping to his feet, placed his arm on Mr. Ford's shoulder, and arm in arm the two inventors inspected the equipment of the laboratory where both expect to carry on experimental work this winter.

"You are looking fine," exclaimed Ford, "I think you look better than ever before."

Edison beamed and replied "Why shouldn't I look good? I have plenty of work to do and that keeps me young. You don't look so bad yourself."

Names Of Movie Folks Sometimes Go In Odd Ways

Autograph Collectors Are Responsible For Finding Of Actors' Names In Strange Places

HOLLYWOOD, Feb. 7. — Movie folks' names travel about the world on many queer vehicles besides lithographed posters and bright electric lights. Autograph collectors, of course, are responsible.

There are few articles, however, which have not at one time or another been presented to some cinema celebrity for autographing. Usually the confirmed collector carries an autograph album for the quest.

But sometimes, if the star is encountered unexpectedly and the opportunity for an autograph cannot be foregone, the petitioner will present the star any personal possession to be autographed.

Collectors have been known to offer new hats, pieces of their shirts or neckties, even silken fragments of garments called "intimate," to receive the inky token of stellar graciousness. Sometimes mothers desire to have their babies' clothes or trinkets autographed, and so varied and frequently amusing are the articles the stars are asked to sign that few would be greatly surprised if requested to write their names on an ice cream cone or a lollipop.

Autographed Music

Musical instruments are among the favorite means used for collecting the names. One lad uses the white sheepskin head of his banjo to preserve the coveted signatures. His collection so far including those of Ricardo Cortez, Ramon Navarro, Carmel Myers, John Gilbert, Greta Garbo, Lon Chaney, Vera Gordon, Rod LaRoque and others. Eddie Nugent's is there and "Joan Crawford and Douglas Fairbanks Jr." together, of course. In the summer the boy plans to organize his orchestra and play aboard an ocean liner.

He has a friend who collects autographs on a violin scraped of its veneer.

Voice of the Fans

Movie fans soon may be forcing their favorite novels or stories into celluloid version simply by inaugurating an organized howl among fellow screen followers. Fred Niblo who is directing "Redemption," says that numerous letters from American and European fans suggesting that a Tolstol story be filmed in honor of the great Russian writer's hundredth birthday anniversary, celebrated in 1928, played their part in the selection of this story as John Gilbert's next vehicle — his third Tolstol role, incidentally.

Belated Acclaim Accorded To Pair Who Blazed Trail

"Question Mark" Fete Turns Attention On Intrepid Aviators Who First Used Gas-Transfer Feat

(By Associated Press)
SAN DIEGO, Cal., Feb. 8. — The six and a half days in the air achieved by the army endurance monoplane Question Mark has prompted a move to obtain belated congressional recognition for the daring army fliers who first demonstrated the feasibility of refueling during flight.

The aviators who recently won the plaudits of the flying world by breaking all records for remaining off the ground did accord due recognition to the pioneer feat by carrying in the refueling cockpit of the original aerial refueling which was accomplished June 23, 1923, over Rockwell field, near here.

Capt. Lowell Smith and Lieut. John P. Richter were the ones who piloted the army biplane on that occasion. It remained aloft for 24 hours, then for 37 hours. The refueling biplane was piloted by Lieut. Virgil Hine and Lieut. Frank Selfert.

Major T. C. MacCauley, former army flier and civic aeronautical leader, has telegraphed to Rep. Phil Swing of California:

"Refueling flight successfully completed by Army Question Mark here revives the first two successful flights of 24 and 37 hours by Lowell Smith, Richter, Hine and Selfert by refueling. Army recognition given this flight by congress should be bestowed on original fliers."

A few months after this initial day and night flight over Rockwell field Smith and Richter made a coastwise flight, refueling in the air above Eugene, Ore., and Sacramento, Cal.

School To Train Sailors Proposed

AUSTIN, Feb. 8 (AP). — A ship school for seamen would be established in one of the Texas Gulf ports under the terms of a bill voted favorably out of the senate state affairs committee last night.

The bill, introduced by Senator Cousins, asked for an appropriation of $75,000.

Captain G. W. Williams, appearing before the committee, declared the federal government would give a $500,000 ship on which the school would be conducted and $25,000 yearly.

The purpose of the school would be to train Texans to man ships. At present the crews of many American ships are made up largely of foreigners, Cousins said.

Captain Williams asserted that New York, Pennsylvania, Massachusetts and California have established such schools.

ESSAY CONTEST AT WAYLAND IS PLAN

PLAINVIEW, Feb. 8. — Students of Wayland College will reveal their literary ability soon as they are going to compete in an essay writing contest in response to an offer made by Rev. P. D. Obrien, pastor of the Baptist church of Floydada.

Rev. Obrien is offering a prize of $15 each for the two best essays written on the following subjects: "The Advantages of a Junior College" and "The Advantages of Wayland College." The essays will be under the direction of the English department of the college of which Miss Wilma Friedsam is supervisor.

The one hundred sixty-five students in this department will all compete for the prizes. The above questions are also being debated in the argumentation and debating classes and much valuable material is expected to be presented on the subjects.

Mr. Obrien has also stated that the two prize winning essays will be printed in pamphlet form and mailed to all high school seniors in the Plains-Panhandle country. The stories will also be offered to the leading Texas dailies for publication.

Woman Broker In Odd Trade Works Daily On New York Wharves; Barrels Brokerage Is Her Work

BY JULIA BLANSHARD
NEA Service Writer

NEW YORK, Feb. 8.—Lillian F. Fink is the only woman barrel broker on record, so far as is known. It is no wonder, considering just what hard work dealing in second-hand barrels entails.

Old-timers along the wharves of Boston, Providence and other New England ports often have been startled on bitter cold winter dawns to see a woman's figure bustling about, overseeing the longshoremen loading barrels on barges, checking the number and condition of the barrels and keeping tab on just how they are loaded.

For Lillian Fink is no absentee dealer in barrels. Getting an order for thousands of oil barrels for some refinery in New Jersey, she goes in person to Boston, Providence, Cambridge or where she knows barrels are available at that moment. She bargains personally with 10 or 12 dealers who have the barrels, charters a barge to deliver them, picks up her own crew to load, sees the barge off and goes back to New York office to catch her breath before the next order.

She's Barrel Wise. She knows her barrels from the old oaken bucket up.

"I got an education in barrels instead of college," is the way she puts it. "I quit high school to help my brother who was a barrel broker."

"I started in business for myself the year after the war," Miss Fink continued her story. "First I just had desk space, I started in such a small way. But I had taken care of all my brother's orders for years. Had personally bought and sold for him and I knew the market. Now I handle almost a half million barrels yearly."

"They are second-hand barrels, called 'rights,' used mostly for oil and kindred things such as asphalt and coal pitch. Some are bought for vinegar and, in season, for wine. As a matter of fact there is a lively trade in wine 'rights.' Most of my clients are oil refineries in Jersey. They usually buy by the load, which runs from 5,000 to 6,700 to the barge, depending on how they are loaded. That is why it is so important to personally supervise loading."

"I shop around for the barrels, buying 500 here and 1,000 there. The price fluctuates somewhat so we bargain back and forth. I always pay cash on delivery and that helps get bargains. Then I have to charter the barge. We usually have three days to load and two to unload. If the men loiter and don't finish loading, either the barge shoves off and I lose some barrels or it waits and charges double fee. So there's a scramble to get loaded."

Being a woman has been no handicap in her work, she feels. That is, only once it was and she won't mention it. It was this way, according to Miss Fink:

"Once in the bitterest winter weather I've ever felt in cold South Boston, the men got to drinking to keep warm. I didn't blame them. The blasts cut into me and I had on a couple of suits under my fur coat and heavy woolen socks and galoshes. But the men got mean and struck for higher pay. I overheard one say, 'She'll have to come across for the boat leaves tomorrow and she's got to get her loaded.'"

Her Ire Aroused. "That made me mad; I fired the whole gang and started out to scour the wharves for more longshoremen. I got them and got the boat loaded. That's the only time they ever tried to put anything over on me because I was a woman."

A barrel broker who is a leader in her vocation, Lillian Fink, above, doesn't hesitate to work on the wharves of New England ports even on the bitterest cold days supervising the work of the longshoremen in her employ.

an than many a man who wears spats and carries a cane." Miss Fink's life is not all barrels. She has found time to marry, has two little boys, and keeps a big house running in a street called Featherbed Lane. She is very fond of poetry, in fact named her second son for E. V. Allen Poe. And, she states these facts as though she were not unusual—she is a prize fight fan, never missing a bout at the Garden when she can help it, and is more fond of baseball than the theatre.

"There's nothing unusual nowadays in a woman's doing any kind of work she wants to, do you think so?" she asked. "With women flying across the Atlantic and going to congress, it seems funny to think buying and selling barrels might cause comment."
