Conviction Of Rev. Groppi Set Aside By Court

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Supreme Court set aside today the conviction of the Rev. James E. Groppi for resisting arrest during the civil rights march in Milwaukee in 1967.

With the 8-1 decision the court established the principle that trial judges should not automatically reject a defendant's plea for different trial locale simply because the crime involved is a misdemeanor.

In other actions today, the court:

—Ruled that employers cannot refuse to hire women with small children while taking on men in the same situation. However, it said women could be barred from jobs in plants if the employer shows "conflicting family obligations" present a problem.

—Held that retrying a defendant whose first trial ended by dismissal of the jury by the judge would place him in double jeopardy, which is unconstitutional.

—Agreed to hear the case of an Illinois father denied custody of his two children because he never legally married their mother.

—Decided to review the merger of Greyhound Corp. and Armour & Co., the nation's second largest meatpacker.

—Ruled that the Internal Revenue Service is free to subpoena an employer's records in investigating criminal liability of individual taxpayers.

Father Groppi, a white priest who thrust himself into the civil rights movement, claimed he could not receive a fair trial in Milwaukee County because of "a potential for prejudice" among prospective jurors stemming from his activities.

The Wisconsin Supreme Court, in a split decision, ruled a change of venue was impermissible under state law because resisting arrest is classified as a misdemeanor.

In reversing this decision, the U.S. Supreme Court said a defendant is entitled to consideration of a change of venue motion however the crime is classified.

The fair administration of criminal justice requires protection against prejudicial publicity, said Justice Potter Stewart.

The case now goes back to a state court in Milwaukee. If Father Groppi demonstrates prejudice against him in the county, the conviction is dead and the state has the choice of trying to try him again or dismissing the charge.

Some Folks Lend An Ear To Smut Calls

PITTSBURGH (AP) — The woman, who had complained of a persistent obscene phone caller, was asked whether she could keep him on the line long enough to make a trace possible.

"Sure," she replied. "I talked to him for 45 minutes the other night."

That's the story told by Norman Bach, director of Bell Telephone Co.'s anonymous call bureau in Western Pennsylvania, to illustrate what he considers a major factor in the obscene call problem: The willingness of some people to lend an ear.

Bach's first rule of phone use is simple: "If the caller won't identify himself, hang up."

"In the majority of cases we've had, the person who is making the call is an exhibitionist," Bach explained. "He has to have an audience or his effort is wasted. There is no doubt in my mind that if everyone would hang up it would really cut this thing down."

Thus far, Bach says, the bureau has identified some 1,700 persons responsible for such calls. "But by doing so we believe we have disposed of about 50,000 cases," he said. "In some instances one man or woman is responsible for calls to scores of victims."

An anonymous call conviction in Pennsylvania carries penalties from $500 and one year in jail to $5,000 and five years. Investigations by Bach's bureau have led to 700 convictions.

"Very often the caller is a neighbor, a relative or someone with whom they may have had an argument or an unsatisfactory business dealing. Quite often the callers are mentally ill or just working off a childish peeve."

"Our experience has been, however, that most people don't want to prosecute," he said.

Sometimes Bell investigators break a case with one phone call. Other times the investigations drag on.

Instances of harassing calls include the woman who phoned her landlord and blew a whistle in his ear, the caller who falsely told a woman her husband had been killed in a car crash and the untrue report to a GI's parents that he had been wounded in Vietnam.

Bach's bureau is one of three in Pennsylvania and one of many throughout the nationwide Bell System. Hundreds of thousands of complaints are made each year, but Bach says the battle is being won.

The savvy of the Bell investigators and the latest electronic tracing equipment are part of the answer, Bach says, but public education is an important factor.

Here are his suggestions for self-protection from telephone abusers:

—Hang up on the first annoying call.

—If they persist, call the phone company.

—Answer the phone simply by saying "hello," nothing else.

—Don't teach children to answer with "Smith residence."

—If the phone is in a woman's name, don't list it Miss or Mrs., just S. Jones, for example.

—If the caller asks, "what number is this?" don't tell him.

—Teach children never to admit they're alone.

Protection For McGovern Real Sticky

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. George McGovern's early entry into the presidential race has posed a sticky problem for the government in deciding when a major White House candidate is entitled to Secret Service protection.

By one interpretation, the South Dakota Democrat will have to wait until the spring of 1972 and the start of the presidential primaries before he gets Secret Service bodyguards.

By another version, he could be entitled to protection immediately if a committee set up by Congress acts swiftly in cooperation with the Secretary of the Treasury.

McGovern said through an aide he will await the government's decision on whether he will be offered protection. "We have made no application for it," the aide said.

After the 1968 assassination of Sen. Robert F. Kennedy, Congress approved a resolution providing Secret Service bodyguards for all major candidates for the White House.

But the protection isn't automatic—and neither is the timing of it.

Tate Case Verdict Reached

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The jury in the Sharon Tate murder trial has reached a verdict, attorneys said today.

Two defense attorneys emerged from a session in the judge's chambers and gave the word to newsmen.

The jury had deliberated 42 hours, 40 minutes since receiving the case Jan. 15.

Attorneys and other court officials had 45 minutes to reach the courtroom after the verdict was signaled. When all were present, courtroom doors were to be locked until the verdict was announced.

The judge has estimated that announcement of a guilty verdict would require about 25 minutes.

The jury had been weighing the fate of Charles Manson and three women members of his hippie style clan, charged with murdering Miss Tate and six others in 1969.

MOON-LANDING Countdown For Flight Under Way

CAPE KENNEDY, Fla. (AP) — Electrical power surged into the Saturn 5 rocket and spaceship today as the launch team began the six-day countdown for the Apollo 14 moon-landing flight.

As the lengthy count down under way aiming for a Sunday liftoff, the three astronauts who will fly the mission underwent their final major physical examination.

Test Supervisor Charles Henschel gave the signal and the countdown clock started right on schedule, ticking backwards from 102 hours.

The count actually extends over a longer period, but there are five planned "holds" totaling 38 hours 23 minutes to provide any necessary catchup work.

Barring problems, the Saturn 5 will blast away from Cape Kennedy at 3:23 p.m. Sunday to start Apollo 14 on its daring journey of discovery.

The astronauts—Alan B. Shepard Jr., Edgar D. Mitchell and Stuart A. Roosa—planned several hours with doctors today.

Purpose of the extensive examination is to make certain the pilots are physically fit and to provide medical data for inflight and post-flight comparison.

It was after a similar exam last April that doctors announced all three Apollo 13 crewmen had been exposed to German measles. Tests revealed that one of them, Thomas K. Mattingly, was not immune, and he was replaced on the flight crew by backup command module pilot John L. Swigert.

FISHING, FOOTBALL

The astronauts spent a relaxed day Sunday, with their time occupied by a mixture of fishing, flying, televised football and flight plans.

HIT 'EM AGAIN, HARDER, HARDER

Burglars struck twice over the weekend at the Dora Roberts Student Union Building on the Howard County Junior College campus.

The first burglary was reported to police early Saturday when cafeteria workers missed approximately $60 in cash.

The second break-in was reported about 10:30 p.m. Saturday by the night watchman. Nothing was taken, although the door to the parlor had been ripped off its hinges and the glass window in the door of the student newspaper office had been broken.

Burglars apparently entered through cafeteria windows both times.

Army Insurgents Rule In Uganda?

KAMPALA, Uganda (AP) — Army insurgents claimed today to have ousted President Milton Obote of Uganda after 12 hours of bloody fighting with a rival faction of the armed forces.

A broadcast over Radio Uganda at 4 p.m. local time—the first announcement broadcast since the fighting began in the early hours this morning—claimed that Obote had been deposed in his absence by the military.

The broadcast—made by an army officer—said power would be handed over "to the soldiers."

Obote, who had not yet returned from the Commonwealth summit conference in Singapore, was accused in the broadcast of ignoring army demands for better living conditions and showing favoritism in allocating top government jobs.

The broadcast said "the army takes over power today and warns all foreign countries to keep noses out of Uganda's internal affairs."

Radio reports said Maj. Gen. Idi Amin, commander of Uganda's armed forces, was heading the rebel faction. Amin came on the air today to ask for calm.

Obote, 45, became prime minister of Uganda in October, 1962, when it gained its freedom after being a British protectorate for 68 years. He became president in February, 1966, deposing Sir Edward Frederick Mutesa, the figurehead president who fled to England. Mutesa, who had formerly been monarch of Buganda, known as King Freddie, died in London in November, 1969. Uganda, a country of nine million people is linked with Kenya and Tanzania in an East African economic community. The army's total strength is less than 6,000 men. The Soviet Union and Czechoslovakia have assisted in forming a Ugandan air force. Its equipment is reported to include 12 MIG jet fighters.

McGovern told the audience the U.S. should recognize Peking's Communist regime and to establish diplomatic relations with its government. Bennett is chairman of the school's Forum on National Priorities that sponsored McGovern's speech.

Snyder Resident Hired As Road Administrator

County commissioners this morning hired a county road administrator to head up the road and bridge department, as called for under the optional road laws of 1947.

Hollis Randell, 62, Snyder, was selected as administrator. He will begin work Feb. 15 at a salary of $850 per month. J. D. Nixon, road and bridge superintendent, is to continue in the department at his current salary and title as immediate assistant to Randell.

Randell has been an employee of the Texas Highway Department since 1929. He retired from the department Jan. 7 with the rating of technician 5, the highest rating given to anyone who is not a registered engineer.

Commissioners Bill Crocker and Jack Buchanan were appointed to a committee to outline Randell's duties, and Nixon's position within the department.

County trapper Earl Brownrigg was in commissioners court this morning to report on the progress of his work, and discuss the need for a second trapper. Brownrigg currently works four months out of the year as trapper at a salary of $1,848 plus $85 per month for car allowance.

Brownrigg told the court that he knows of an Amarillo man who would be interested in taking on the trapping job through the spring months when coyotes prey heavily on local ranchers' ewes and lambs. Commissioners told Brownrigg that no provision could be made until the next budget setting for a salary for a second trapper.

Larry Stockton, Howard

County sheep rancher, said that losses were such that perhaps the local ranchers could find a way to pay the salary of the second trapper themselves until the county could make arrangements in the 1972 budget.

Brownrigg and Stockton were asked to discuss the idea with local ranchers and inform the court on the decision. Mitchell County officials and ranchers cooperate in a similar arrangement in paying their county trapper. Locally, the second trapper would be asked to work at the ranchers' expense

DOPE ARRESTS

Donald Decides To Do His Duty

SPRINGFIELD, Mass. (AP) — After seeing marijuana on television and smelling a burning "joint" at last year's state police demonstration in a county fair, 10-year-old Donald Sassen had an idea what the stuff was.

And, he was certain, the babysitter and her three male companions weren't smoking plain old cigarettes in the bathroom Saturday night.

So Donald, an enterprising lad, decided to do his civic duty.

He gave brother Joseph, 9, a dollar he had earned shoveling snow to snatch the cellophane bag sitting on the bathroom shelf.

Joseph had been warned by the sitter and her teen-aged friends about coming downstairs, so he sub-let the job to brother Michael, 5.

Mike snatched the bag and turned it over to Donald, the eldest of six Sassen children.

Donald made an excuse to go outside and scooted down the street to a drug store and called police.

Narcotics officers came within minutes and he turned his snatched evidence over to them.

The sitter and three boys were arrested on a variety of narcotics laws violations.

Two of those arrested were identified as Richard Maynard, 17, and Gary Ellison, 18. The babysitter's name and that of the other suspect were withheld because they are minors.

Mrs. Madeline Sassen, a divorcee, returned home from a movie shortly before midnight to find a social worker from the city Division of Child Guardianship tending her flock.

She was "very proud" of Donald because he had done the "right thing," she said.

The babysitter, 16, was "the last girl I would have expected to do something like that," she said. "She comes from a very strict family."

23 Mexican Citizens Found Abandoned In Van

CHICAGO (AP) — A group of Mexican citizens, found in an abandoned trailer truck after they allegedly had traveled for two days without food or sanitary facilities, were in the hands of immigration authorities today.

It was unclear immediately what their disposition would be.

An Illinois State Trooper found 23 of the men, aged 18 to 44, Sunday as they huddled in a trailer van on the side of Interstate 55 about 60 miles south of Chicago. Four other members of the group were found later walking along the highway.

Through an interpreter, the men told police they paid $250 each to be taken to jobs in the United States.

They said their ride in the rented truck, which bore Idaho license plates, began early Friday in Texas and was to have ended in Chicago.

WORD SPREAD THAT NBL WAS A HOT STOCK

What Happened To The Money?

By ROBERT E. FORD

Associated Press Writer

The way dealings worked out for Frank W. Sharp, his companies and other principals in the current SEC investigation probably will amaze Texans for a long time.

It was high finance on a broad scale. That is for certain.

And people are asking how the principals in the SEC civil suit filed a week ago in Dallas managed to cause the price of National Bankers Life Insurance Co. (NBL) stock to rise rapidly, and who lost money on all the deals.

IT IS PLAIN

So far, it is plain that the Jesuit Fathers of Houston, Inc., probably lost $6 million, but not all of it in NBL stock trading.

The other losses in the NBL stock probably were diffused among many persons as they are when any stock drops in prices.

NBL stock rose from $8 or $9 a share to as high as $29 a share. Then it plunged until it was quoted as $2.50 a share bid on the weekend.

But the Jesuits' disaster only touched on the key charge by the SEC—that some of the defendants sought to influence banking legislation in the Texas Legislature.

The deals with the Jesuits were so complex that the SEC required two and a half pages in its petition to only sketch the outline of loans, bond issues, security collateral and promissory notes.

UP AND AWAY

But other than the Jesuits' problem, what happened?

First, "manipulating"—as the SEC terms it—stock upward: The key company is National Bankers Life Insurance Co. (NBL) of Dallas, a very large firm operating in 31 states.

One knowledgeable stock broker who refused to allow his name to be used shook his head and said, "I just don't know how a stock could be manipulated."

NBL is traded over-the-counter, a sound, legitimate way to buy and sell securities which are not on the "big boards"—the New York and American stock exchanges.

Prices are listed as "bid" and "asked."

This means that a stock sale is negotiated. Two men or their agents can get together and quibble and argue and finally decide on a price. Usually it isn't done that way, but it can be.

So that is the reason that some of the public figures—not named in the SEC suit but the subject of depositions in the case—possibly sell NBL stock a little higher than some of the current quotations the day of the sale.

'COME WITH US'

Too, companies generally own some of their own stock and can sell it for whatever they like. For instance, this stock often is bait when one company wants to steal a promising young executive from a competitor.

"Come with us," they say, "and we'll let you buy 10,000 shares at $5 instead of the going price of $10."

The technique can be used many ways. Every stock expert says the price is strongly influenced by demand. If there is a strong demand, the owners insist on more money. Therefore the price goes up and the owners make a profit.

If the owners want to sell, and there are enough of them with enough shares, the price will drop.

Demand can arise for many reasons, and in the case of NBL, apparently a number of people wanted a considerable number of shares.

'WHITE HOT'

And in certain places, the word must have spread that NBL was a hot stock.

And when this demand arose, there were not many shares of NBL available to the public—about half a million which is very few for a big company. The scarcity, plus demand, would cause violent changes in price.

In 16 months, for instance, while NBL stock was white hot, Ling and Co., Dallas brokers, handled 394,000 or more shares, the SEC says. Undoubtedly other firms were acting as brokers for the stock, also. And there are signs some shares were sold direct without a broker.

When the price rises and speculators have made a profit, they sell—cash in. If enough sell, the stock goes down.

Everyone who owned any NBL stock then lost money—at least on paper—when NBL stock prices dropped. And the more that is sold, the lower the stock drops.

WHO LOST?

So that's who lost money: Everyone owning NBL stock who didn't get out at the right time.

The records show that the stock went to about $29 a share.

When the SEC filed its suit Monday a week ago, over-the-counter quotations were $3.25 a share bid. After a week of controversy about the company, the stock slid to $2.50 bid.

SOLD OUT

On July 22, 1969, House Speaker Gus Mutscher, Rep. Tommy Shannon and two of Mutscher's aides bought 25,975 shares of NBL, at between 11½ and 13. It was quoted in the Dallas Morning News that day at 12¼ bid, 13 asked, meaning they bought it at the going price.

Three days later, when Gov. Preston Smith and Texas Democratic Executive Committee Chairman Dr. Elmer Baum bought, the News quoted the price at 13 bid, 14 asked. They jointly bought 20,000 shares at 13¼.

On Sept. 11 and 12, Gov. Smith, Baum and the Mutscher-Shannon group sold most of their shares. Quotations for that day show the stock at 15 bid, 16 asked. Yet the SEC says they sold those shares for $20. There is no explanation on record for the higher price to the officials.

The Rev. Michael F. Kennelly, who apparently was a key man in the Jesuit transactions, says the Jesuit fathers bought the stock from Smith, Mutscher, Baum, Shannon and others. Kennelly now is president of Loyola University in New Orleans.

The sale was handled in the Sharpstown State Bank at Houston. The bank is controlled by Frank W. Sharp, who also owns Sharpstown Realty Co., and National Bankers Life.

'HIS NOMINEE'

By the time the whole deal blew up last Monday, a Jesuit spokesman said the books were being audited and added that preliminary information indicates that "we have been seriously taken advantage of."

The SEC says Sharp owes the $6 million to the Jesuits—himself or through what the SEC calls "his nominees."

Here in brief are the transactions between Sharp and certain of his companies with the Jesuits as taken from the SEC court petition:

1. November, 1967: Sharp gave 20,000 shares of Sharpstown Bank stock to the fathers "actually to gain their confidence."

2. Immediately thereafter, Sharp had the Jesuits borrow $3 million from his bank and lend it to him. "The $3 million borrowing by Mr. Sharp from the fathers has never been repaid," said the SEC.

3. Spring of 1968: Sharp caused the fathers to issue $1 million in bonds and loan this $1 million to Beckwood, Inc., then constructing a motel in Sharpstown. Beckwood issued five promissory notes, secured by 20,000 shares of Sharpstown bank stock. Beckwood acquired the 20,000 shares with $500,000 of the $1 million the fathers had loaned it.

FATHERS' DEBT

4. September, 1968: Sharp caused the fathers to agree to buy 22,500 shares of Sharpstown bank stock which had been pledged by Sharp as collateral to another Houston bank for a loan of $500,000. Sharp had the Sharpstown bank reduce the father's loan by $500,000.

5. May, 1969: Sharp had the Jesuits issue $2.5 million in bonds of which $2 million was used to reduce the fathers' debt to the bank although the bonds ostensibly were to build structures at the Strake Prep school, operated by the Jesuits and headed by Father Kennelly. There was no corresponding reduction in the debt Sharp owed the fathers.

'WHICH FUNDS'

6. August, 1969: Sharp caused the fathers to borrow $700,000 from his bank and promptly loan it to Sharp and Sharpstown Realty. "Which funds," said the SEC, "were employed by the defendants (Sharp and his firms) to manipulate NBL stock."

7. Sept., 1969: Sharp caused the fathers to sell 20,000 shares of Sharpstown bank stock to NBL and to buy 39,800 shares of NBL, the stock then being pledged for collateral for loans at Sharpstown bank. This stock was pledged as collateral for loans at the bank "from certain persons for whom Sharp had arranged financing in connection with their purchase of NBL stock . . ." said the SEC.

Then he had the Jesuits buy another 9,600 shares of NBL and used it for the same purpose.

8. November, 1969: Sharp had the fathers purchase from the bank $400,000 "participation" in a loan made by the bank . . . in connection with a loan collateralized by Sharpstown Shopping Center.

9. About Feb. 5, 1969: Sharp had the fathers borrow $750,000 from a Houston bank and transfer the funds to Sharpstown Realty.

10. July, 1970: Sharp increased the debt of the fathers to his bank by $570,000 saying he was paying interest for them on bond issues.

Fog Fence Curtains Texas Gulf Coast

By The Associated Press
A fog fence stout enough to dull a knife curtailed the Texas Gulf Coast off from the rest of the state this morning as far as 70 miles inland.
The National Weather Service issued travellers warnings for the Gulf Coast from Brownsville off by mid-morning as dry air and sunshine began to whittle away at it. Clear to partly cloudy skies with mild temperatures were expected to displace the murky conditions.

The remainder of the state was clear at sunrise with temperatures hovering in the 30s and 40s in most areas except in southern sections where it was a good deal warmer—in the 50s and 60s.

Weathermen said driving along the coast would be hazardous in areas where the fog was particularly dense.
The fog was expected to burn off by mid-morning as dry air

Panel Chief Backs Obscenity Report

MANKATO, Minn. (AP)—The chairman of the U.S. Commission on Obscenity and Pornography predicts that recommendations from its controversial report will be adopted within 10 to 15 years.
Dean William B. Lockhart of the University of Minnesota Law School said criticism by President Nixon and other officials will help its adoption.
"It will be advantageous in the long run that it was attacked," Lockhart said. "This will prevent the report from being put on the shelf."

AHEAD FOR SPRING? — Both the long and short views were taken by Heinz Riva of Rome in the 1971 Italian spring and summer fashion shows which opened in the Italian capital Friday. These opposite tendencies by the designer are in white silk print in red, green and violet with floral patterns.

Hints From Heloise

Dear Heloise:
I collect all the comics from the Sunday paper and send them to my son who is in military service.

I always save the cardboard tubes that wrapping paper and wax paper comes on and use them to mail the comics to him. After rolling the comics up I insert them in the tube and put a piece of tape across each end to keep them from sliding out.

My son really appreciates this and says that the boys are so eager to get the comics that he barely gets a chance to read them himself. ... Mrs. L. Starnes

I bet the boys over there really love you!!!

This certainly could be a worthwhile project for some youth group or ladies club.

See how many funnies you can collect, and mail them to our boys overseas.

It wouldn't take much of your time or money and it sure would make a lot of soldiers happy. Show our boys you care. If you don't know anyone special to mail them to just contact your local Red Cross, U.S.O., or Church. ... Heloise

Dear Heloise:
I'm sure many home pizza fans have had the same problem I had when I first started baking pizza from packaged mixes. The crust, especially in the center, never comes out as crisp as in pizza restaurants. In fact, it is usually downright soggy.

The answer is simple, although none of the packages mention it. Just bake only the dough for five minutes at the temperature recommended on the package. Then, add the sauce and trimmings.

When the pizza is removed from the oven, after baking the prescribed time, all the crust is crisp. ... Mrs. G. Wehby

Dear Heloise:
This is a hint for other penny-pitching grandmothers.

I make up my own coloring books for my grandchildren for their birthdays.

OWC Brunch Held At Webb

"Jan-U-ne" junk went to the highest bidder when the Officers Wives Club held a Chinese auction Thursday in the Officers Open Mess at Webb Air Force Base.

The auction followed a Chinese brunch hosted by the DCO Wives with Mrs. Charles Walker as general chairman. Mrs. Buck Lang served as treasurer, Mrs. Jerry Callihan as menu chairman and Mrs. James Clevenger was in charge of the program. In carrying out the luncheon theme, the hostesses were attired in colorful oriental attire.

The stage, accented with large yellow parasols, held an assortment of auction items. Chinese scrolls decorated the walls at each side of the stage, and were attached to pillars in the ballroom. Other wall decorations were large, multi-colored pinwheels.

Tables were covered with white linen and accented with intervals with beautifully-gowned oriental dolls based in draped silk. Yellow folding fans completed the decorations, and chopsticks placed at each place setting.

Mrs. Owen Wormser extended the welcome, and the invocation was by Mrs. E. E. Gallaway. Mrs. Henry Rimmer introduced wives of Class 72-04 who are new to the base, and farewells were said to the wives of Class 71-05.

Other newcomers welcomed were Mrs. Trina Horvath, Mrs. Catherine Woodside, Mrs. Doris Patrash, Mrs. Joanne Murtagh, Mrs. Sharon Morrissey. The only permanent party member introduced, who will soon be leaving, was Mrs. Jackie Niemotka.

Guests were Edith Franklin, E. Hearn, Shirley Crosby, Mrs. Robert O. Burkett and Mrs. Jo Bright.

The next OWC event will be the regular luncheon Feb. 4.

Tours Area Of Australia

Mrs. Mary E. Brown, 1606 Wood, has returned home after a month-long trip which took her to Melbourne and other cities in Australia.

In Melbourne, Mrs. Brown visited her son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Wendall G. Brown, and their seven-month-old son, Owen David. The Browns have been in Australia the past year, and he is a representative of A. E. Hood and Co. Pty. Ltd.

Mrs. Brown left Howard County by plane, flying to Los Angeles, Calif., and from there to Hawaii and Australia via Pan American Airlines. During the one-day stop in Honolulu, Mrs. Brown was the guest of Maj. and Mrs. Sam Hall and family. Maj. Hall is the son of Mr. and Mrs. A. G. Hall Jr. of Big Spring.

While in the Melbourne area, Mrs. Brown toured a 500-mile area, viewing old gold mines, ranches and fruit orchards. She was impressed with the large number of cattle and abundance of flowers including azaleas, hydrangeas and roses. Of particular interest was a large zoo which featured koala bears, wombats, kangaroos and wallabies. She said that Melbourne, located on Phillips Bay, is a city of approximately three million population.

Church Women Planning Events

Two officers were installed Friday at the Church Women United meeting at St. Mary's Episcopal Church. Mrs. Gene McElroy of the First Christian Church is the new vice president, and Mrs. Ed Galloway from the Webb AFB Chapel is treasurer.

Mrs. Raymond Phillips spoke about the Big Spring Nursing Home and the women agreed to host a monthly party for residents of the home. They will also continue their monthly parties for Big Spring State Hospital and Westside Community Center.

Mrs. Ben Boadle reported that the Howard County Cancer Society needs a place to store items which they furnish to patients, and the women will seek a storage place.

In other business, the organization pledged $120 to the Westside Community Center. In July, they plan a fund-raising project to aid the center.

The next meeting is a "World Day of Prayer," March 5, 10 a.m., at First United Methodist Church.

Some Knits Must Be Dryer Dried

To get optimum results, manmade knits should be dryer dried. Use a warm air setting to avoid overdrying, which can cause shrinkage.

Dry the clothes until they feel damp to the touch. Remove them immediately and hang them up. You won't have to touch them with an iron.

Pianists Perform In Recital Sunday

The Piano Teachers' Forum presented its regular monthly recital at 2:30 p.m. Sunday in the Howard County Junior College auditorium.

Those on the program were Debbie Wiggins, Kella Hill, Todd Conroy, Deanna Douglas, Lila Cannon, Libby Lee, Rhonda Bingham, Nancy Baird, Debra Eyre, Diana Rainey, Richard Moren, Laurie Bethel, Jennifer Speegle, Michelle Couvillion, Lisa White, Vickie Harris and Corrie Dunnagan.

Add Color

Window boxes added to your home now and planted with bulbs will add spring color. Because of dampness, use western red cedar at least one inch thick.

Candlelight Ceremony Held Friday In Chapel

The chapel of the Veterans Administration Hospital was the setting Friday evening for the wedding of Mrs. Ruby Exline of Big Spring and Jerry L. Squires of Otsego, Mich. The Rev. Clayton Hicks, chaplain, officiated for the ceremony.

For her wedding, Mrs. Exline chose a princess line, white, embroidered knit dress with pink accessories and an orchid corsage. The bridegroom wore a white carnation boutonniere. The bride, a former resident of Amarillo, has made her home in Big Spring since 1968. She has been employed at Webb Air Force Base in the administrative office of the Civil Engineering Division.

The bridegroom is employed by the True-Heat Corporation in Allegan, Mich.

Prior to the wedding, Mrs. Exline was honored at several farewell parties hosted by friends and organizations with which she has been affiliated in Big Spring. She was president of the Scenic Chapter, American Business Women's Association, corresponding secretary of the Business and Professional Women's Club and a member of the Women of the First Assembly of God Church.

The couple was honored with a going-away party Friday at Webb Air Force Base by the bride's fellow employees, and earlier that day, she was honored with a luncheon at Furr's cafeteria by women employees in the division and other close friends. Gifts were presented at both affairs.

Mr. and Mrs. Squires departed Saturday for a wedding trip to points in Texas and Kansas. They will be at home at 10990 N. First St., Otsego, Mich.

Plans Orientation

A Red Cross orientation is being planned for early February, according to Mrs. N. E. Roll, volunteer chairman for the Howard-Glasscock Chapter. The leaders need to know approximately how many women will be participating in the event. Those who are interested in enrolling for the orientation are requested to call Mrs. Roll at 283-1158.

A LOVELIER YOU Proper Care, Sizing Add Wearing Time

By MARY SUE MILLER

Seen about town: Shapely legs in stockings with wrinkles around the ankles. And with long ladders of runs. Why do you suppose, when American hosiery is envied around the world?

Well, nylon may be strong as steel but it can be damaged easily when converted to stocking yarn that's thinner than a human hair. Many factors contribute to damage as, for instance, handling with rough fingers. If you were to be on the alert for the run-makers, you would certainly prolong the life of your stockings and pantyhose.

Correct sizing also increases wear and smooth looks, too, particularly in pantyhose. Never fail to study height-weight charts on packages before making selections.

Then, when you put on pantyhose, be sure to sit down and gather up the fabric to ankles before inserting feet. Alternating sides every few inches, smooth fabric to knees; stand and continue smoothing until panty can be worked evenly over hips. No yanks, no tugs!

To further fight the Battle of the Run there's biodegradable washing lotion. Use renders hosiery 12 times more resistant to snags and runs. How? Mixed with water, the prevent-a-run formula "invades" nylon fiber, coating it with an elastic finish that resists breakage when hosiery is stretched.

Your stockings thus tend to hold rather than run, even if a snag occurs. Will wonders never cease? Let's hope not!

FIGURE SECRETS
What's your figure problem? To achieve total attractiveness send for my booklet, "Secrets of a Lovely Figure." It contains easy ways to reduce weight and proportions; to overcome grooming problems, such as fuzz, freckles and blemishes; to move with grace and poise. Shah Of Iran Predicts 'Oil Nationalization'

TEHRAN (AP) — The Shah of Iran has threatened Western oil companies with widespread nationalization in the next decade. Shah Mohammed Reza Pahlavi told a news conference Sunday that Iran might take over the refining of its oil when present contracts expire in 1979.

"The oil companies then will come only as buyers and customers and take our oil to its destination," he said. "We shall then invest in the countries in which the oil is sold. This would make us partners in a downstream operation right to the gas station. That is my hope and my goal."

DON'T BLUFF
The ruler of one of the biggest oil producers in the Middle East, the Shah said that unless the companies and producer nations reach a new price agreement by Feb. 3, the 10 members of the Organization for Petroleum Exporting Countries will join in counter measures that "might be anything, including a stoppage of oil."

But the Shah said the negotiations have not deteriorated into a crisis and won't so long as the companies do not try to "bluff us or put on such pressure that they think they can make us surrender."

OPEC Nations produce about 85 per cent of the world's oil outside the United States and the Soviet Union, principally for Capt. Robert G. Woolley, 3560th Pilot Training Squadron, was selected as T-38 instructor pilot of the quarter for October, November and December, 1970.

He is a native of Aurora, Ill., and is a graduate of Valparaiso University, Ind.

Capt. Woolley received his Air Force commission through the Officer Training School. He received his undergraduate pilot training at Webb, and has instructed here since November, 1969.

He flew 103 combat missions, of which 100 were over North Vietnam. During his combat tour he was assigned to the 14th Tactical Reconnaissance Squadron, Udorn RTAFB, Thailand.

His decorations include the Distinguished Flying Cross with one Oak-Leaf Cluster, and the Air Medal with nine Oak-Leaf Clusters.

Capt. Woolley has logged 850 hours of total flying time, including 184 hours combat time.

Wall Street Wizard Due To Surrender

DALLAS (AP)—Michael Socrates Makris was to surrender to federal marshals at Houston today after being indicted on charges stemming from the current Securities and Exchange Commission probe into alleged stock fraud.

Makris was indicted by a federal grand jury Friday at which time authorities said Makris was being held in lieu of $50,000 bond.

But Makris was not taken into custody over the weekend. "He will turn himself in about noon," said Norman Lee, an attorney representing Makris.

Makris is the only person so far charged with criminal activity in connection with the SEC investigation. He was indicted on three counts of perjury in connection with statements given last month to SEC investigators.

But a number of other persons and business firms have been named in an SEC suit seeking an injunction freezing all operations of the defendant companies pending a hearing before U.S. Dist. Judge Sarah T. Hughes Feb. 8.

NAUGHTY REMARK
Among those named in the suit are defendants are former Texas Atty. Gen. Waggoner Carr, Houston banking and real estate tycoon Frank W. Sharp, and John Osorio, former president of National Bankers Life Insurance Co.

Carr issued a sharply worded reply Saturday stressing his innocence of any wrong-doing and encouraging his critics to "go to hell."

He said he was being tried before he has had an opportunity to set the record "straight in court."

The defendants are caught up in an ever-widening probe into alleged stock manipulation and fraud involving NBL, the Sharpstown State Bank at Houston; an alleged scheme to ram through the legislature banking legislation favorable to holders of NBL stock which eventually milked Jesuit fathers in Houston of $6 million.

To support its allegations, the SEC has filed 34 lengthy depositions and affidavits in Judge Hughes' court at Dallas.

ASKED TO DESTROY
Joseph Novotny, president of the Sharpstown bank until earlier this month, said he had been asked to destroy bank records showing that Gov. Preston Smith and Elmer Baum, chairman of the Texas Democratic Party, had borrowed $275,000 from the bank to purchase NBL stock.

Novotny said he had been asked to destroy the records by Osorio. He said he did not destroy them.

Smith is not named as a defendant in the SEC suit.

Baum, appointed to the State Banking Board by his friend, the governor, is due to be confirmed by the legislature and his affirmation appears in no danger.

Smith said earlier he "guessed" he and Baum earned $125,000 in a quick purchase and sale of NBL stock in 1969.

But the whole affair has prompted a round of legislative demands for full disclosure of the details surrounding the alleged plot.

Sen. Ralph Hall, a Democrat, said Sunday on an Austin television news program that he agreed with Republican claims that the stock profit of Smith, House Speaker Gus Mutscher and others have "produced an atmosphere of distrust in state government."

Both said they favor a deeper inquiry and legislation cracking down on private financial dealings of elected representatives.

Widow Of RFK Eyes Reservations

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (AP) — Ethel Kennedy, widow of Sen. Robert F. Kennedy, says she inspected two San Diego County Indian reservations to see whether she could help "financially and technically."

Mrs. Kennedy was accompanied on a weekend tour of community action projects at the Pala and Rincon reservations by two Robert F. Kennedy Foundation fellowship winners. After visiting an Indian dental clinic in Pauma Valley, Mrs. Kennedy attended a conference here of the California Rural Indian Health Program.

Bridge Test

—CHARLES H. GOREN

BY CHARLES H. GOREN

(© 1971, BY THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE)

ANSWERS TO BRIDGE QUIZ

Q. 1—As South, vulnerable, you hold:

♠AKS ♦AKS ♣10983 ♣AKQ

The bidding has proceeded: South West North East

2NT Pass 3♦ Pass

What do you bid now?

A.—Four spades. Nothing more aggressive is indicated. Your opening bid of two no trump was based on 23 points and has the infirmity of an unstopped suit, which is exceptional. Unless partner can take aggressive action on the next round, there will be no slam.

Q. 2—Both vulnerable, as South you hold:

♠62 ♥K642 ♣K53 ♣K842

The bidding has proceeded: North East South West

1♦ Dble. ?

What do you bid?

A.—Bid one no trump. This will inform partner that you have scattered values. If you choose to pass, the bidding may progress at so rapid a pace that you may never have the opportunity to enter the picture.

Q. 3—As South, vulnerable, you hold:

♠A6 ♥9 ♦AK964 ♣AK876

The bidding has proceeded: East South

What do you bid?

A.—Double. While normally we are disinclined to make a take-out double with hands containing two suits, no other form of action is suitable with a hand so rich in high card values. A false cue bid of two hearts cannot be accepted; first, because insistence upon a game will not be justifiable; secondly, not sufficient trump support is held for spades should partner have to play that suit.

Q. 4—Both vulnerable, as South you hold:

♠AK842 ♥AQJ3 ♦7 ♣K92

The bidding has proceeded: North East South West

1♣ Pass 1♠ Pass

2♠ Pass 3♥ Pass

What do you bid now?

A.—Four clubs. This does not indicate a desire to play at the minor suit but, rather, a descriptive bid on the way to what looks like a certain slam. Your next step will depend upon the character of partner's response.

Q. 5—Neither vulnerable, as South you hold:

♠642 ♥9532 ♦AJ94 ♣Q9

The bidding has proceeded: North East South West

1♠ Pass 1NT Pass

2♥ Pass ?

What do you bid now?

A.—Pass. Partner has not indicated any special strength by his bid of two hearts. Your response of one no trump was based on a high card holding of only seven points, just a point above minimum. There is, therefore, no occasion for you to take further action.

Q. 6—Both vulnerable, partner opens with one no trump, and you hold:

♠984 ♥Q105 ♦AJ842 ♣8

What is your response?

A.—Three diamonds. You have sufficient high card strength for a jump to three no trump (12 points), but the three diamond bid is superior, for it will produce the same result with the added advantage of providing partner with the opportunity to bid three spades, if he happens to have a four-card major suit; and, with the slightly unbalanced hand, a suit contract may prove to be superior.

Q. 7—Neither vulnerable, as South you hold:

♠AJ752 ♥KJ4 ♦83 ♣AKQ

The bidding has proceeded: North East South West

1♠ Pass 3♣ Pass

3♥ Pass ?

What do you bid now?

A.—Five spades. If partner can protect against the loss of two diamond tricks, you wish him to contract for slam, and he should place that construction on your five spade bid. The Blackwood bid would not be at all helpful to you, for the slam might be there even if partner has only one ace, if he has, for example, a singleton diamond.

Q. 8—Both vulnerable, as South you hold:

♠K10 ♥AKQJ4 ♦7 ♣J8642

The bidding has proceeded: South West North East

1♥ 2♦ 2♥ Pass

What do you bid now?

A.—There is a choice between three and four hearts, and we have a slight preference for the latter. Partner's free raise to two hearts indicates a good hand and, with the adverse overall of two diamonds, it is highly likely that partner's values will be in the black suit, which should make the hand fit very well.

LINE IS DRAWN EARLY IN HOUSE POWER STRUGGLE

Albert, Committee Chairmen Come Out Fighting

WASHINGTON (AP) — The line has been drawn early for a power struggle in the House between the new speaker, Carl Albert, and the committee chairmen who are largely in control. In his first full day on the job, Albert bucked heads with the committee barons and lost, but his willingness to take them on and the strong support he got from younger Democrats indicates the struggle is just beginning.

The issue which Albert lost last Friday is one both his predecessors, Sam Rayburn and John W. McCormack, grappled with: the power of the Rules Committee to block legislation. DAYS OF 'CZAR' Albert tried to put a 31-day limit on the time the Rules Committee could keep a bill from going to the floor. After that he could call it up at his own discretion. He lost, 233 to 152. Among the 90 Democrats who opposed Albert were 10 committee chairmen. Most of the others were from the South. It might be expected that committee chairmen would share Albert's view against allowing the Rules Committee to bottle up bills from their panels. In fact they do, but they would rather live with the situation than see Albert's powers increased. Rep. William M. Colmer, D-

Miss., chairman of the Rules Committee, who led the fight against the proposed new rule, conjured up the ghost of Speaker Joseph G. Cannon, whose tyrannical control of the House led to a revolt against his power in 1910. "The power that would be placed in the speaker by this rule is a power that I do not think the speaker should have, nor one that he should seek," said Colmer. "If we adopt it we would be turning the clock back to the days of 'Czar' Cannon." RAYBURN'S VICTORY One speaker who did not want such power was McCormack. He had it given to him in the 89th Congress when the 1964 Lyndon Johnson landslide weakened the conservative coalition. The plan was later dropped when McCormack indicated he did not want the responsibility it entailed. In 1949 a 21-day limit was set for Rules Committee inaction on a bill, but that rule gave the power to then call the measure up to the chairman of the committee that produced the bill, not the speaker. Rayburn fought to retain it but in 1951 it was repealed. Rayburn won a notable victory in 1961, however, when he succeeded in enlarging the Rules Committee from 12 to 15 members. But the lineup of 10 Democrats and 5 Republicans does not guarantee a majority for the Democratic leadership because Colmer is frequently in the opposition and sometimes can get other Democrats to join him. Since the middle of the New Deal the Rules Committee has been the power center of the conservative coalition and Albert's quick strike against it is clear evidence he plans to try to restore it to its original role as an arm of the leadership.

400 Persons Protest Shooting Of Teenager

SAN BENITO, Tex. (AP) — Chanting "Chicano Power" and "Kill the Gringos," an estimated 400 persons staged a noisy demonstration Sunday to protest the shooting death of a Mexican-American teenager. The demonstration was the fourth sponsored by the Mexican-American Youth Organization (MAYO) since the Dec. 10 slaying at Brownsville of Victor Nava, 14, by a Cameron County deputy sheriff. JOB OFFER The demonstrators marched Sunday to the home of Cameron County Sheriff Boynton Fleming.

Fleming, who apparently was not home, has said that Nem Bryan can have his job back. Bryan, who was charged with murder in the death but not killed by a county grand jury, resigned when the charges were filed. He has not accepted the offer. The demonstrators held a lengthy rally at a parking lot across the street from the San Benito Police Station before marching 12 blocks to Fleming's home. By the time they reached the home, the demonstrators and onlookers numbered about 1,000.

'OINK, OINK, OINK' The protesters stood for a time in front of Fleming's home and chanted slogans such as "Chicano Power." "Kill the Gringos" and "Oink, Oink, Oink" before marching back to the parking lot. The marchers spread across the entire street and the column stretched for about two blocks.

There were no arrests. A parade permit had been issued by San Benito Police Chief Pat Cortez.

Nava was shot to death in an alley after, according to witnesses, Bryan came upon a "glue sniffing party." An autopsy revealed that the youth suffered a gunshot in the back of the head. Bryan claimed he acted in the line of duty and said the youth was about to attack him with a knife. Brownsville police said they did not find a knife.

The grand jury no-billed Bryan. U.S. Atty. Anthony J. P. Farris of Houston, charging lack of vigorous local prosecution, ordered an FBI investigation of the death.

Libya's Leader Says Arab World Has 1,000 Planes

By The Associated Press

Libyan Premier Muammar Qaddafi says the Arab world has 1,000 planes, 5,000 tanks and a million men but lacks the unity needed to mobilize them against Israel.

He said the Arab forces "are scattered and I doubt very much that they can participate in a battle against Israel because of political differences."

What the Arab world needs, Qaddafi said, is a recognized political leader because "policy in some Arab countries is completely paralyzed." He termed Jordan's King Hussein weak and said the Palestinian guerrilla groups are badly splintered.

Kaddafi spoke Sunday at a rally in Zavia, Libya, commemorating the deaths of more than 20 students during riots in January, 1964, against King Idris. Kaddafi came to power in the military coup that overthrew the king in September, 1969.

PEACE PLEDGE Israel, meanwhile, renewed its pledge to seek peace in the Middle East through U.N. envoy Gunnar Jarring's negotiations, but expressed dissatisfaction over Arab responses to the talks.

A communique issued by the Israeli Cabinet described as "polemical" the Arab proposals presented last week to Jarring. Foreign Minister Abba Eban told the Cabinet that Egypt and Jordan were ignoring the essentials in Israel's peace proposals.

Israel's deputy premier, Yigal Allon, said in a newspaper article that a settlement with Egypt and Jordan might force new elections in Israel. He said disagreement in the coalition government over the extent to which Israel should withdraw from lands occupied in the 1967 war could result in dissolution of the Knesset, Israel's parliament.

PAYOFFS

Sources in Israel reported that 60 students, all Russian Jews, are being held in a Soviet jail on charges of bribing university officials. The informants, former Soviet subjects who now are Israeli citizens, said the students were arrested several months ago in Kishinev, the capital of Moldavia. They said four Russian officials who allegedly accepted money to admit the young Jews to a university also were arrested.

The informants said they thought those being held would be brought to trial soon. They said payoffs to education officials are a common practice in the Soviet Union because enrollment in the universities is limited and competition to get in is great.

The Soviet Union hinted that it might go to the United Nations with its complaints of "Zionist harassment" of Soviet representatives in New York. An article in the Communist party newspaper Pravda also renewed the Soviet charge that the U.S. government is involved in these "hoiigan actions" against foreign missions.

'There Is No Question Man Was Murdered'

LOS INDIOS, Tex. (AP) — Weighted with two 30-pound blocks of concrete, the body of a 43-year-old citrus firm foreman was found Sunday in the Rio Grande near this far South Texas community. Cameron County officers said the foreman, Dolores Garcia of La Feria, had been missing since Jan. 15.

"There is no question the man was murdered," Justice of the Peace Joe Gersusa said. Sheriff's deputies said Garcia's hands were tied behind him and a crude cloth blindfold covered most of his head. The concrete blocks were tied to his ankles and neck by rope.

Acquaintances said Garcia disappeared shortly after receiving his paycheck. Officers said there were wounds in Garcia's back, and the body had been in the river several days.

An Unbridled Panel

As the Texas Legislature opened for business a prime question came before the temporary House Rules Committee: joint conference committees.

In a hearing of that group, several House members asked for permanent rules limiting the right of conference committees to override decisions made by the House and Senate in open debate.

Joint conference committees are set up after the House and Senate pass a bill in different forms. Theoretically they compromise differences, but often they totally rewrite a bill, disregarding material approved by both Houses, or injecting new provisions not previously mentioned.

The conference system in the past has grossly abused its privileges and though some modifications on joint conference committees have been attempted in recent times the problems have by no means been resolved.

Rep. John Hannah of Lufkin told the temporary committee that under the present system, "50 percent of what we do on the House floor amounts to a farce."

Rep. Curtis Graves of Houston asked for 24 hours' notice of changes made by conference committees before voting on a compromise bill.

Rep. Tom Moore of Waco said it made him mad to have to vote merely yes or no on a compromise appropriations bill and "then go home and find I voted for a bunch of Mickey Mouse riders."

Justice For Tarzan

Edgar Rice Burroughs, creator of Tarzan (for whom the Martin County community is named) and John Carter of Mars, finally is winning recognition by libraries. His complete works were presented to the Tarzana, Calif., library by Burroughs' heirs.

Burroughs' books had been banned at different times from libraries for "no literary value" (Los Angeles system) and "moral" reasons. The Downey, Calif., library thought Tarzan and Jane weren't married. (They were, on page 363 of the second Tarzan book.)

Burroughs was a lousy writer. But his many tales of jungle adventure, peril on Mars or Venus, or at the center of the earth excited and entertained millions for over 50 years, in book, film or more lately, television. His imagination exceeded his facts and talents, but that is utterly silly to bar him from public libraries. His works are still in demand and Burroughs deserves recognition.

That's a pretty good example of what some joint conference committees have done in the past, though there have been much worse outrages.

It probably won't happen, but both the House and Senate should enforce rules on their conferees which limit the free wheeling activities which discredit the entire legislative processes.

The Noise Level

Around The Rim

Tommy Hart

Were you aware that: The Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals was organized in America in 1866, when the sight of horses being beaten on the streets of New York stirred one Henry Bergh?

Murray C. Brown, Chicago health commissioner, says that the noise levels in community environment are beginning to approach the severity found in mechanized industry? In other words, the din one hears around home is almost as bad as that he encounters on the job and the constant clatter is contributing to his loss of hearing.

DESPITE the blast leveled by the government at manufacturers who make claims about the nutritional value of dry cereals, the breakfast food people made no changes in their advertising? They work under the theory that the great American public speedily forgets who said what about what.

THE BRITISH navy's tradition for giving a daily ration of rum to its seamen ended last year? Back in the days of iron men and wooden ships, the ration amounted to a half-pint a day per man — cut by varying proportions of water to make grog. The admiralty authorized grog for the men because the art of keeping water sweet at sea was unknown until the end of the 18th century. Water was stored in wooden casks for months on end. It was often served out covered with green slime.

THE THAIS are hooked on a fruit called durian, a football-sized delicacy which offends the tastes and smell of outsiders. The liking for the durian is an acquired taste and, if they were bootlegged to America, would create enough addicts to make any grower wealthy.

Many old timers who like to recall the days when round steak sold for 15 cents a pound have forgotten the fact that their rate of pay was 25 cents an hour?

IF THERE is such a thing as corn blight, Dutch elm disease and oak wilt, why can't someone invent crab grass canker and dandelion blight?

An Oklahoma City minister once stayed away from church Sunday to make a point about absenteeism? It was a good message but would have been even better, had more members been there to get it.

Time To Balance Scale

David Lawrence

WASHINGTON — Many paradoxes are present in the economic life of America nowadays. But there is none in which the reluctance to apply reform is so widely ignored as in the exercise of enormous power by the large labor unions. Rarely does any businessman speak out on the subject. Not often does anybody in Congress come forth with the suggestion that labor be treated like business and that union monopolies be subject to the same treatment as the antitrust laws have required for several decades in dealing with corporate monopolies.

BUT AT LAST a prominent business executive has spoken up to say that the power of labor unions must be curbed if inflation is to be curtailed without resort to wage and price controls. R. Heath Larry, vice chairman of U.S. Steel Corporation, in a speech before the Economic Club of New York on Wednesday, declared that the big unions revealed their real power and their contribution to inflation by their ability to force higher wage settlements at a time when unemployment was rising. He pointed out that wage trends within the non-unionized sector recently began to respond to reduced job opportunities and lower profits, "but not so in the unionized sector."

Mr. Larry also asserted that it is important for the United States to become more competitive in world markets and that, if wage costs are allowed to continue to rise, American manufacturers will not be able to match the prices of products made in other countries and will lose the opportunity to sell goods in various parts of the world.

BECAUSE OF the relative silence maintained on these phases of the labor-union problem, very little has been done to prevent wage costs from reaching extreme heights without any real advance in productivity. Mr. Larry said that the rate of increase in labor costs per man-hour in manufacturing has more than doubled the long-term average rate of gain in output per man-hour. He declared that the continuation of the wage trends of the recent past is "a luxury this nation simply cannot afford."

As Mr. Larry pointed out, in the period between 1965 through 1969, Japan, Germany, France, the Netherlands, Sweden, Italy, Canada and the United Kingdom all surpassed the United States in terms of their annual rate of improvement in output per man-hour. Our rate of rise in unit labor costs exceeded all the foregoing countries with the exception of Canada.

AMERICAN COMPANIES have felt the increasing pressure from lower-wage foreign competition and are finding it more and more difficult to meet. Improved productivity is, of course, one of the answers. But, in the words of the U.S. Steel executive, "improved productivity alone won't solve our problem." In his view, the remedy may be "somewhere between revising the union bargaining structure to help it become more responsive to marketing forces" and "embracing permanent and enforceable controls."

WHAT, IT WILL BE asked, is the reason for the fact that Congress has kept its hands off this phase of the monopoly problem in America? It is because the labor unions have managed to mobilize political influence in such a way that they can bring about the defeat of members of Congress who cast their votes in opposition to union labor's wishes.

Members of Congress often owe their election to the support of these organizations.

TV 'Blackouts'

Andrew Tully

WASHINGTON — Ralph Nader, the consumer guerrilla, and assorted militant groups will join this year in challenging the right of the National Football League to impose a "local" blackout on its annual Super Bowl championship game.

The plaintiffs will have a head start. A State Circuit judge in Florida already has pronounced the blackout illegal, even while rejecting a suit to lift the blackout on this year's game.

"I FIND the N.F.L. commissioner has no authority to decree a blackout," said Judge Arthur Franza. "I further find that such a decree violates the Sherman Antitrust Act." But Franza added he could not order N.F.L. Commissioner Pete Rozelle to rescind the blackout because the state court lacked jurisdiction on Federal issues and acts of Congress.

THUS, ONE Ellis Rubin, a Miami Beach attorney, may be allotted a footnote in the history books. It was Rubin who filed the Florida suit, and he has said he'll persist on the Federal level. Assorted legal experts here, including a judge, say Rubin, Nader and Co. have a case, and most of them are tempted to bet a modest sum they'll win it.

These experts have read the Federal statute on the subject, a chore Rozelle seems to have neglected.

JUDGE FRANZA was naive. He said it would be a "nice gesture" for Rozelle to lift the blackout for the Colts-Cowboys game in Miami. To no one's surprise, the N.F.L. czar, who has assumed ownership of a people's right to rule its own airwaves, rejected the appeal. Although the Orange Bowl's 80,000-plus seats had all been sold, Rozelle said lifting the ban would be a "dangerous precedent."

Translated, Rozelle's statement means that in future years free television would cut the profits of the league's proprietors by reducing attendance at the games. I doubt it. The Super Bowl has always been a sellout because a certain segment of our society considers it a matter of personal status to be seen at the game.

INDEED, few so-called "average fans" are permitted to buy tickets. These are gobbled up by the same crowd that populates stadia at World Series contests — hoodlums and gamblers and their wenches, the rich and famous, corporation executives and politicians. In Washington and most other league cities, large blocs of season tickets are held in perpetuity by business concerns and people who know other, right people.

BUT EVEN if unlimited TV did reduce attendance on a cold and stormy day or two, that is not the point. The cliché that the people own the airwaves happens to be true, and Judge Franza was speaking to the issue when he declared that the blackout was "a transgression and usurpation of the airwaves and the people who own them."

'JUST THINK—IT COULD HAVE BEEN BIGGER'

More Light On Bulbs

John Cuniff

NEW YORK (AP) — For many years most Americans have judged their light bulbs primarily on the basis of watts, although it now seems that watts never really did tell the buyer how much illumination to expect from his purchase.

Every day in this age of the consumer you experience a shock of this sort, as the activists and advocates and regulators peel off the veneer that once kept us uninformed and relatively unconcerned.

But from now on the light bulb market will be different. A Federal Trade Commission regulation "Relating to Incandescent Lamps—Light Bulbs," signed last July 23, went into effect today.

The FTC has ordered that more light be shed on bulb sales, specifically as it relates not only to wattage, which always was revealed, but to lumens and life expectancy, which almost never were.

All three items must now be listed, either by being printed on the bulb itself or on the casing in which the bulb is contained.

The studies that led to the new ruling descended deep into a dark pit of equations and formulas that would have thrown the designers of income tax regulations into a paroxysm of jealousy. But for dimmer wits, the essentials:

—Wattage is the electric power consumed. It doesn't tell you how much light is coming from the bulb. If you want to investigate further in your dictionary, you may look up "ampere" and "volt," which combine to make wattage.

—Lumen, we now learn, is the measurement of light output. You would be wise to accept this as fact, but if you insist, the lumen is the unit of measurement of light flux or flow. It's probably what you thought wattage was.

—Life expectancy is based on the average laboratory life in hours. It refers to hours during which the light may be expected to burn. Off hours don't count, which is why the light in the attic seems to last forever.

The problems that led to the new regulation might never have developed if all companies saw things the same way, they did. The bulbs they made offered an average of 750 hours service.

The advertising didn't always reflect this, however. "Same light for less money," they advertised, or "Outlast ordinary bulbs." And the truth was that bulbs could be made to last many times that length of time.

Noise Makes You Jump

Hal Boyle

NEW YORK (AP) — Things a columnist might never know if he didn't open his mail:

Science has found that children react to noise even before birth. Tests showed that it caused the unborn infants to kick and also increased their heart beat.

Does your wife protest if you bring too many visitors to your home? Pat Nixon has it worse. A million people a year tramp through the White House.

Cold enough for you? Well, it might cheer you up to know at least that heat waves aren't as deadly as they once were. Only about 175 persons a year in this country are killed by summer heat. The toll in 1901 reached an all-time high of 9,508.

More than 15 million surgical operations a year are performed in the United States, and even members of the medical profession question whether they are all necessary. One operation is performed annually for every 13 persons. This is twice the rate that prevails in England and Wales, which have proportionately only half as many surgeons.

Golf, so popular today, resembles a game that earlier found favor in ancient Rome. It was played with a leather ball stuffed with feathers.

Household hint: To prevent the sun from fading your printed washables, Ma'am, why not turn them inside out before hanging them on the line to dry?

No music: The world's first phonograph record was made by Thomas A. Edison in 1877. What melodic message did it bear? None. It consisted of a recitation of "Mary Had a Little Lamb" by the playful inventor. Signs of the times: On the desk of Copacabana owner Jules Podell: "Too many people are trying to enjoy today the fruits of success they hope to gain tomorrow."

Nature Notes: Some kangaroos live mostly in trees and move along its branches like small bears. The ferocious weasel sleeps so soundly that it can be picked up by its tail without waking it. Rattlesnakes grow a new tail button every time they shed their skins. Polar bears use only their front legs in swimming and have been seen 200 miles at sea.

Worth remembering: Behind every successful husband stands a surprised mother-in-law.

Shakeup: Fires that follow an earthquake can be more damaging than the quake itself. The famous San Francisco earthquake in 1906 caused only an estimated $24 million property loss; the ensuing fire $500 million more.

Texas Names

Robert E. Ford

DALLAS (AP) — Who wouldn't be happy to see the light of day at Birthright, live out his days at Utopia or Bonanza, then pass on quietly from Goodnight?

You can do it all if you're a Texan.

IF THE NAME exists some place else, then Texas has it too. If it doesn't exist, then Texas has invented it.

Those early settlers sometimes made up with original place names for the unorthodox way they spelled them.

People have been laughed at for saying they come from Twitty, Texas, from Bigfoot, from Happy, from Bangs, or from Blessing. But all those places exist and people live there and are proud of it. West Texas folk see nothing funny about an address in Dear Smith County.

THERE'S A London here as well as the one in England, another Paris than the one in France, an Athens, a Buda, and an Italy.

California isn't the only place that can claim a Beverly Hills, nor Scotland a Dundee or Edinburg. Why, Texas even has its Royalty, its Omaha, its Rhineland, its Odessa.

There's something in Texas for every taste.

The romantic might care to linger at Loving or Lovelady, at Magic City or Avalon. The housewife would probably settle for Sweet Home.

For the jet set there's Zipp City or Roaring Springs, though some might prefer the quieter life at Dripping Springs, Cain City sounds violent. Could Four Corners be for squares?

NATURALLY, this being Texas, plenty of places precede their name with Big. Sometimes that means they're very small. Besides Bigfoot, there's Big Lake, Big Sandy, Big Spring, and Big Wells. There is no spring at Big Spring. There are creeks called Big Blue, Big Cow, Big Flow, Big Elm, and a bayou called Big Linnville. And, biggest of all, there's Big Bend National Park on the Rio Grande.

Gassoline seems appropriately named for this oil rich country. Bronco and Dollarhide are properly in West Texas cattle country. Cactus and Driftwood are less grim than they sound. Grow is frankly optimistic. Humble is modestly content. Flatonia has a Puritan sound.

CUT-AND-SHOOT has the real Wild West flavor but it never was in the Old West; it once was plantation country.

There are Indian names like Cherokee and Comanche, Spanish names like Zapata and Guadalupe, German names like Kaufman and Kleberg. Sportsmen can try out Turkey or Quail, Antelope or Buffalo.

There are towns called Twin Sisters and Seven Sisters, Ben Franklin, Ben Wheeler or Ben Arnold. There's Scurry and Scroggins, Krum and Pity Me. You name it, you can be sure Texas has got it.

There's not only Old Dime Box but New Dime Box, a few miles away. It cost the citizens many a dime to move their city when the railroad builders unpredictably went thataway instead of thisaway. Not that it matters now. The trains don't call there any more.

Prolific Cow

NEW PLYMOUTH, New Zealand (AP) — An Ayrshire cow named Ora Camelia has had 15 calves, produced 8,007 lbs. of butterfat, and 205,578 lbs. of milk. Ora Camelia, which is on a farm at Stratford, is the breed's top all-time producer in New Zealand.

'Living Free'

NEW YORK (AP) — Nigel Davenport and Susan Hampshire have been signed to star in "Living Free," Columbia Pictures' sequel to "Born Free." The movie will be filmed in Africa.

My Answer

Billy Graham

What should Sunday School teachers tell their pupils about Santa?

Tell them the truth. Explain that Santa is a mythical character, that he symbolizes the merriment accompanying the yuletide season, and that he has no connection whatsoever with the real meaning of Christmas, which is the celebration of the birth of Christ.

The name Santa Claus probably comes from Saint Nicholas, bishop of Myra, and patron saint of Russia, young people, sailors, etc. His day is actually December 6 but somehow through the years, Santa Claus slipped into Christmas. He has come to be more associated with folklore than with the birth of the Christ child — but, since it has become custom to portray him as the one who brings gifts on Christmas, his intrusion into this Holy Day seems to have been inevitable. Little children must have difficulty separating the two, and this is unfortunate. I have talked to people who, when, as children, they found out that Santa was a myth too, they dismissed Christ as a myth too.

A Christian parent can follow one of two courses: make room for Santa, but explain to your children that he is just a mythical symbol of good will, and that he doesn't really exist. Or, make Christmas the birthday of Christ, as it truly is, and let Santa Claus shift for himself. Explain to them that the giving of gifts is to celebrate the love of God, who loved the world so much that He sent His only begotten Son to redeem it. Such a practice would enhance the meaning of Christmas.

A Devotion For Today...

A wise son makes a glad father. (Proverb 10:1, RSV)

PRAYER: Give us Thy wisdom, Father, that we may nurture our children in godliness. Make us glad because of wise sons who love and serve Thee. Amen.

Gifts Of Cash

Dear Abby
Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: A woman wrote to say cash of checks were inappropriate gifts for children, and you disagreed with her.

I think she's right. Children don't appreciate money. They can't say, "Grandma gave me ice skates or pajamas, or a ring."

A little conference with the child's mother in advance will make that special occasion more meaningful. It might even mean Mom does the buying and puts Grandma's name on the card. Nicer memories are made this way.

MRS. S.W.
DEAR ABBY: I have always felt that my children get sufficient gifts to unwrap, and I am delighted when they receive a gift of money. If handled properly, money can be far more valuable than any other gift, for it presents an ideal opportunity to teach children the value of money.

Our daughters are 7 and 8. They have been taught to write their own deposit slips and to bank their own money. They talk about "saving" for college, or buying a car some day. On occasion they have been permitted to draw out their own money to buy something they really wanted.

To concentrate on how many gifts a child has to unwrap, I think produces a spoiled, materialistic child.

CYNTHIA: NAUGATUCK
DEAR ABBY: On behalf of many, many kids, I am writing this letter to "DISGUSTED WITH CASH."

There are lots of kids (including me) who do their own Christmas shopping. I am 11. Every year my grandmother sends me a check for Christmas. And she sends it early so I can use it to shop for Christmas gifts for my family. I am more than happy with this kind of a present.

So to all grandparents, a big thanks, and keep those checks coming.

OVERJOYED IN GLENDORA
DEAR ABBY: I will never give a child cash or a check for a special occasion, such as birthday or Christmas. My reason:

When I was a lad my mother used to tell me to write a nice letter to Grandma and Grandpa, thanking them for the "nice check" — and I, of course, would do it.

I never saw the check. My mother used it to buy something for the house, or for herself or Dad. All I know is I never got anything from the checks my grandparents used to send me.

GRANDPA
DEAR ABBY: Just finished

reading the letter signed "DISGUSTED WITH CASH," and thought your answer was a good one.

We have eight grandchildren and they all live thousands of miles from us. We never know what size the children are. We ask, but the parents either forget to tell us, or they say, "Oh Johnny is big for his age," and "Lucy is much taller than her sister was at her age!"

Sometimes when we send gifts, they send them back (wrong size, Nancy can't wear that color or Patty already has one). Put me down as one grandparent who sends a check. I've never had one returned, either.

Super-Energetic

Super-Energetic

Your Good Health
Dr. G. C. Thosteson

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I just read an article from a mother describing her son as super-energetic, uncontrollable, and impossible to handle. She said her son was hyperkinetic.

The description fits my 6-year-old son. He cannot go from one room to the next without practically running. When he gets mad he is unreasonable and uncontrollable. I am just about at my rope's end.

Can this problem be corrected by discipline alone or is it necessary to have counseling? Could a regular pediatrician help? —Mrs. R.R.

It has been in fairly recent years — the last decade or so — that general recognition of the hyperkinetic child has developed.

It is an important problem, more frequent than has been suspected. There is, fortunately, something that can be done about it.

The hyperkinetic — or overly active — child is one whose energies constantly burst out in uncontrollable ways. Lots of energy, but without the ability to control that energy or focus it into useful endeavors.

Don't confuse this type of child with one who merely has abundant energy and wants to be busy all the time. That can be healthy enough. But the hyperkinetic child who can't focus his energies into useful pursuits — well, he's a pain in the neck to everybody, including himself. He drives mother to distraction — teachers, too, and his playmates.

He jumps from one activity to another too fast to do much about any of them. He has a compulsion to be moving around, talking, doodling, fussing with things. He gets little done, and he keeps others from paying attention to their work or play.

With such a child, sheer discipline won't work. It can't. His nervous system is such that he can't sit still or hold his attention on any single topic more than briefly. Nor does sedation or use of tranquilizers necessarily work. Sometimes, perhaps, but with other such children they are utter failures.

Fortunately it has been learned (although the reasons are not clear) that amphetamines many times will work. These are stimulants, but curiously they permit such a child to focus his energies and thoughts. He's still energetic but no longer is it random, scattered energy.

In still other cases a drug called a psychic energizer, ordinarily used to help people out of depression is very effective.

Child guidance clinics handle such children. So do child psychiatrists. So also do some, although not all, pediatricians.

Counsel from such sources is necessary. Except in extreme cases, the layman cannot reliably tell whether a child is truly hyperactive or is just a troublesome youngster who won't — rather than can't — behave.

So by all means have such youngsters examined to see whether modern medication isn't going to change their buzzsaw behavior into useful behavior that doesn't make life miserable for the child and those around him alive.

How to get rid of leg cramps and foot pains? The answer may be simple. Write to Dr. Thosteson in care of The Herald for a copy of the booklet, "How To Stop Leg Cramps and Foot Pains," enclosing a long, stamped, addressed, envelope and 25 cents in coin to cover cost of printing and handling.

Barber's Sizzling Shots Are Decisive

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP) — "There were some absolutely unbelievable scores out there," Miller Barber drawled after the final round of the $125,000 Phoenix Open Golf Tournament.

And his was the most unbelievable of them all, a remarkable 261 total, 23 under par on the flat, short, little desert layout named the Arizona Country Club, a par-71 course that yielded some of the lowest scores in the history of the pro tour.

Barber, a moon-faced 39-year-old veteran, fired a solid 65 in the final round Sunday to pick up $25,000 for his fifth tour triumph.

But even with his total, one of the lowest recorded since Mike Souchak set the record of 257 in 1955, even with that stunning performance, he won by only two strokes and didn't nail it down until the final hole.

Billy Casper, the Masters champ, who had a season-long 62 on the final round, and veteran Dan Sikes shared second at 263. Sikes had a final 64.

Dave Hill, who holed out an eight-iron shot on the fly for an ace on the 153-yard seventh, Homero Blancas and Rod Curli followed at 264. Hill and Blancas had 67s and Curli a 65.

Paul Harney, who held a one-stroke lead going into the final day, still had a shot at a share of second-at worst—when he came to the final hole, a 455-yard par-five.

He was on in two, but took four putts to get down, missing from two feet, and again from less than six inches. He finally Arnold Palmer had a 66 for 267, U.S. Open champ Tony Jacklin a 67 for 268 and PGA title holder Dave Stockton a 68 for 269.

"I really didn't realize I was shooting that good," said Barber, who stopped off to call his wife in Sherman, Tex., immediately after finishing. "I was just fortunate enough to make some shots when I needed to. The scores were unbelievable.

"The course was in good shape. The greens were the best I've ever seen here, holding out and putting good. And the weather was just marvelous the whole time. Not a breath of wind. Everybody was reaching the par-fives in two. Put them all together and that's the reason for the scores."

Fights Casualty Of Language

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP) — Maybe the next time they hold the Russian-American amateur boxing matches, they should have an interpreter in the ring along with the referee.

Lack of understanding caused heated words Saturday afternoon at the close of the third series of matches pitting American amateurs against the Soviet Union's best. The Russians won the team match, 6-5, but in the final match of the day things got complicated.

Ron Lyle, a promising heavyweight from Denver, Colo., had his Russian foe, Kamo Saroyan, hanging on the ropes in the third and final round. Russia referee Vasily Romanov halted the bout and waved Lyle into a neutral corner.

After counting to five or six, Romanov was apparently going to walk Saroyan to his corner and had awarded Lyle a technical knockout. But because he spoke only Russian, no one knew what was going on.

Neither did Lyle, and when the referee did not raise Lyle's hand over his head, signifying the fight was over, Lyle ran over to Saroyan and tried to fight him off.

Romanov was fired by Lyle's actions and immediately interpreters, Russian officials and members of the AAU subcommittee on international boxing convened at ringside. Five minutes elapsed before the official word of the ring announcer that Lyle had been awarded a three-round TKO.

The U.S. team had saved its four best boxers for last because the last four matches would be televised nationally. All four won their bout but it wasn't enough to overcome a 6-1 lead built up by the visitors.

Ponies' Upset Gives Lead In SWC To Rice And TCU

It's the "inside story" that explains the difference in Southern Methodist's 96-86 Southwest Conference basketball victory over the Baylor Bears Saturday.

The Ponies have long been chronicled for their strong outside shooters—headed by marksman George Phillips. But they have been getting inconsistent performance from their inside people.

That all changed Saturday as the Mustangs ended Baylor's 6-game winning streak and kept the Bears from taking the SWC lead with a 3-0 record. "I think we got more consistent play from our inside men than we have been getting," SMU Coach Bob Prewitt said. But he's not going overboard by saying the Ponies now have jelled because of Saturday's showing.

SMU's victory evened the Ponies' SWC record at 1-1 and dropped Baylor to 2-1. It also gave the lead to Rice and TCU with 2-0 records. Baylor is tied with Texas Tech each with 2-1 records.

The current co-leaders try to keep pace with each other Tuesday night on a three-game card. Texas A&M goes to Rice and SMU is at TCU. Texas is at Southern Illinois in a non-league breather.

Baylor Coach Bill Menefee wouldn't single out SMU's inside men as making the difference. "Willie Chatmon scored 35 points. Does that sound like we had trouble inside?" he said.

"SMU's entire team played well. They whipped us on their home court and they played a fine game and we didn't play as well."

Except for Chatmon, Menefee said the Bears didn't shoot well. "Normally we have quite a few people scoring good. But we just didn't have enough going last night."

TCU pulled into a share of the lead with a 64-50 victory over Texas A&M and Texas Tech defeated Texas 68-62 for its first victory under new head coach Gerald Myers.

Myers said Tech played good defense against Texas and added "That first win really feels good. We just played a lot better basketball tonight. We've had a chance to work together more and we weren't as tight."

'3.76 In '76' For Growth

The state-wide program to increase agricultural income in Texas to $3.76 billion in 1976 is admittedly geared to help the agriculture industry; but what about the consumer, the housewife in the grocery store?

"Consumers are concerned with an assurance of an adequate food supply; and '3.76 in '76' is a program of growth," says Dr. W. E. Black, extension economist at Texas A&M University. He adds that the new program is important decreasing amount of land used population must be fed on a decreasing amount of land used for agricultural production.

"Guidelines in the program are meant to increase production and improve quality," Dr. Black says of the project, which seeks to increase cash receipts to agriculture by one billion dollars at the end of the 1976 crop year.

The increase in production and cash receipt will benefit the consumer as well as the producer. Food prices will undoubtedly be affected by an increased efficiency in production and marketing as costly practices in current use are improved or eliminated.

The technology in production and food preparation will be reflected in food prices; although the price of individual items will also be affected by the amount of preparation before purchase by the consumer. This would include special services such as pre-cooking and specialty packaging.

Farmers will gear their production to specific markets that are dictated by the consumers' preferences. This in turn will provide consumers with higher quality foods in greater amounts at stable prices.

SWITZERLAND IS NOW HIS HOME — Dan Blocker, above, the Hoss Cartwright of TV's "Bonanza" series, has moved his wife and four children to Lugano, Switzerland, and will live there himself whenever he isn't working. He calls the lake country of Italy and Switzerland "the prettiest place I ever saw."

'Cougar Country' Here This Week

Big Springs will get a chance to see the outdoor adventure country "Cougar Country" when it is shown at 7 p.m. and 9 p.m. Wednesday and Thursday in Municipal Auditorium.

Filmed in the high mountain wilderness of picturesque Colorado, the film follows Whiskers, an independent and curious young cougar, through the first two years of his life.

Joining the cougar family shortly after Whiskers and his two sisters are born, the viewer watches the mother lion teach her cubs how to survive.

During his first few months of life, Whiskers is exposed to the many dangers of the mountains. The young cubs are prey for soaring eagles, coyotes, snakes and many other "neighbors," but the mother cat is always there to protect her young.

Through mother's example

Whiskers learns to stalk his own food. At the end of two years he has learned all he must know to care for himself, and it is time for him to leave his family and go off on his own.

"Cougar Country" shows many wild animals just as they live in the rugged, majestic beauty of their mountain homes. In addition to Whiskers and his family, other stars include battling elk, giant grizzly bears, marmots, coyotes, eagles, beavers, badgers, and a skunk.

A herd of elk were filmed during winter migration; a family of moose is pictured feeding in a cold mountain lake.

The grizzly and her cub are caught frolicking in a lush, green meadow; and a newborn fawn is shown learning to walk. Tickets for the movie, billed as "a film for the entire family," are $1.50 for adults and 75 cents for children under 12.

Nixon Prepares To Make Program Campaign Issue

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon has reacted to congressional skepticism over his six point design "to give America the foundation for a new greatness" by preparing a public appeal for support that could carry into the 1972 campaign.

Almost as immediate as the voiced Democratic doubts that followed the President's State of the Union address Friday were the scheduling of a White House meeting today with congressional leaders and reports of a take-it-to-the-people drive.

At particular issue among the President's six points are plans to recast the Cabinet structure and establish a $16 billion federal-state revenue sharing program.

CHANGES ARE BROAD

To the straight-out opposition to one or both of the proposals Democratic Senate Leader Mike Mansfield added another ingredient Sunday—the changes are so broad he doubted they can be handled in just one session of Congress.

Republicans obviously take issue with such talk. Sen. Robert Dole, the new GOP national chairman, said Sunday Republicans will have a ready-made campaign issue in 1972 if the President's plans aren't enacted—whatever the reason.

WANT IT

"The people want it," the Kansas senator said.

The President, however, will kick off as much momentum in the Congress as he can before making anticipated Democratic resistance a political issue.

That, evidently, was the motive behind Nixon's meeting today with the Leaders from Capitol Hill.

In fact, Clark McGregor, Nixon's new congressional liaison man, told reporters Sunday House and Senate leaders at every level from both parties will spend some time at the White House discussing the legislative program.

Before the week's end, McGregor said, ranking majority and minority members from "each and every committee" will be invited for briefings and discussions.

But the President appears to be covering all openings and White House sources said Nixon is prepared to take his case to the people in a personal campaign.

PUBLIC APPEALS

That means, they said, Nixon will meet with public officials in some areas and make direct public appeals in others. Cabinet officers, including Vice President Spiro T. Agnew, will be called on to bolster the campaign beginning this week.

Nixon's policies were getting immediate boosts as well as criticism.

California Republican Gov. Ronald Reagan, among the first to meet with Nixon the day after Nixon set forth his sweeping reform proposals, termed revenue sharing "at the heart of Republican philosophy."

Revenue sharing, giving state and local governments direct and generally unrestricted blocks of federal money, had aroused the strongest immediate congressional resistance.

Prior to his assignment to Webb in March, 1965, Sgt. Schalk attended technical training at Gunter AFB, Ala., and Brooks AFB, Tex. He has completed numerous courses relating to physiological training since he arrived at Webb. He is presently an instructor assigned to the physiological training unit, and instructs both student pilots and base pilots in this area.

D-Okla., and Mansfield, said Sunday they feared the federal government would become a mere tax collector for local government.

SURRENDER

Mansfield said he doubted Congress would be willing to surrender the power accompanying federal purse strings or hand cut money without some clear idea how it would be spent.

A major portion of the revenue sharing proposal—$6 billion—would be unrestricted in that fashion.

Both top Democratic leaders warned of a monumental lobbying effort by interests which might feel threatened by a pared-down federal bureaucracy.

The plan to cut down the number of Cabinet posts and regroup many agencies under four main divisions would open a lobbying effort "the like of which Congress and the nation has not seen, each trying to protect its own respective preserve," Mansfield said.

PREDICTIONS

Most congressional sources, including leading Democrats, gave more optimistic predictions for passage of the four remaining tenets of Nixon's program.

They include a reintroduction of his welfare reform plan, a broadened health care insurance program, more money for environmental programs and an expansionary budget with deficit spending.

FTC Takes Aim At Phosphates

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Federal Trade Commission proposed today that soap manufacturers publicly admit phosphates contribute to water pollution and tell consumers exactly how much of the chemical is in each recommended amount of their products.

The FTC said the rule would allow the public to compare for the first time the phosphate contents of detergents.

Under a proposed regulation made public today, all detergent advertising and each package of the soap would have to clearly and conspicuously state:

"Warning: Each recommended use level of this product contains () grams of phosphorus, which contributes to water pollution. Do not use in excess. In soft water areas, use of phosphates is not necessary."

The proposed rule, which cannot become final until approved by the five-member commission following a public hearing, also would require a list on detergent packages of all ingredients by their common names.

That provision would include enzyme additives, which have been criticized for possible harmful effects on humans, said Wayne Cooper, the FTC lawyer who wrote the proposed rule.

Phosphates are put in detergents to soften water so that other ingredients can do an effective job of cleaning. The detergent industry, while admitting privately that phosphates do contribute to water pollution, maintains they are the safest water softening ingredient available.

NEED MET

The Soap and Detergent Association, whose members include most detergent makers, took issue with the FTC proposal.

"Any need for phosphate information for the consumer has already been met by the industry, which announced on Nov. 9, 1970, that household laundry and dishwasher detergents would be labeled nationally as to the percent of phosphorus in the formula, and also its equivalent in grams per recommended use level."

But Cooper said the decision to issue the proposed rule came after review by the FTC of the voluntary disclosure plan proposed by the association. He said the disclosures by at least some of the association's members appeared "clearly deceptive and totally inadequate."

He acknowledged the industry probably would fight the proposal possible on the basis of the cost of changing packages.

Phosphates in rivers and lakes of the United States have been blamed for an alarming increase in the growth of algae, which use up oxygen in the water and pose a hazard to other forms of water life.

Cop 'Strike' In Milwaukee Slows 2,100

MILWAUKEE (AP) — A police union demand for binding arbitration to halt a work slowdown by 2,100 policemen was rejected early today by the city's contract negotiators.

Aldermen recessed a 10-hour negotiating session after midnight, declared police salary demands would raise the city's property tax rates above statutory limits, and voted in formal session to have the city attorney seek an injunction against the stoppage.

Police Chief Harold Breier said the absence of policemen had led to no weekend outbreak of crime. The union declared the slowdown fully effective, and said only 15 regulars reported for duty at seven precinct stations.

Public Jobs Bill Filed

WASHINGTON (AP) — A $2 billion bill designed to immediately create 200,000 new public service jobs was introduced in the Senate today.

The measure, similar in purpose to the $9.5 billion public service jobs and manpower training reorganization bill vetoed by President Nixon last December, could be one of the first major pieces of legislation passed by the 92nd Congress.

It will have strong bipartisan support, including Republican Leader Hugh Scott of Pennsylvania and nearly all the potential candidates.

The Senate bill would authorize $1 billion for the current fiscal year, which runs to June 30, and $1 billion in the next. The program would be administered by the Labor Department.

Sponsors said those hired would do "vital, necessary work" in such fields as education, health, recreation, conservation, law enforcement, transportation and other services. They contended nearly every city in the nation is short of needed workers in these fields.

Tucson Police Arrest 153 'Street People'

TUCSON, Ariz. (AP) — Police made eight arrests for curfew violation Sunday night, the first night since Thursday free of violence around the University of Arizona campus.

The arrests brought to 153 the number of persons, mainly young, described by authorities as "street people," jailed in connection with what Police Chief William Gilkinson Sunday called "rioting."

No other city official previously would label as rioting the fire bombings, tear gas exchanges and rock and bottle throwing involving several hundred young people and as many police.

The violence stemmed from the eviction from the campus Thursday of a reportedly non-student group which demanded free access to use the grounds as a park.

Six policemen have been injured in quelling demonstrations. A curfew over a four-square-mile area ordered by Mayor James Corbett expired at 11:59 p.m. Sunday and a state of emergency he declared Saturday ends at 10:30 p.m. tonight.

Corbett said Sunday that the city council would meet today to consider an antiloitering ordinance, and that he would not hesitate in calling another state of emergency and night-time curfew if the situation warrants.

"Law and order will be maintained," Corbett said. "The last three nights of tough police action were a preview of coming attractions. There will be no compromise with the hippies."
