Drugs may be linked to 'massacre'

NEW YORK (AP) — A baker who followed a screaming neighbor to his apartment found a "massacre" of two women and eight children — all shot in the head and showing no signs of panic — while an unhurt toddler sat crying amid the bodies, police said.

Police said today they were investigating whether the killings, the largest mass murder in the city's history, were drug-related because drug paraphernalia was found in the apartment.

"Six of the victims, at least, were sitting in chairs," Deputy Police Commissioner Patrick Murphy said Sunday night. "There appear to be no signs of panic. There appears to be no disruption."

The baker, Carmine Rossi, said he found the 2-year-old survivor on the floor in the living room where some of the victims sat upright in chairs and on couches.

"It looked like a wax museum, like dummies there ... like they were alive, watching TV," Rossi said. The television set in the apartment in the East New York section of Brooklyn was turned on, he said.

"It obviously happened very quickly because there was no sign of struggle. They were shot almost simultaneously," said Alice McGillion, a Police Department spokeswoman.

Ms. McGillion said drug paraphernalia, predominantly materials to "cut" or dilute drugs, was found in the house.

Asked if the killings could have been drug-related, she said, "That's one of the things we're going to look at."

Some of the victims had been shot at close range in the Sunday afternoon slaying and one was about six months pregnant, Ms. McGillion said. All were of Puerto Rican descent, she said.

Ms. McGillion said the victims were two women, four boys and four girls. Police earlier had said there were three adults and seven children. The children were aged 3 to 14, she said.

The man who discovered the bodies, described as the common-law husband of one of the victims, voluntarily came to police headquarters for questioning early today but was not considered a suspect, LeSchack said. The man was not identified.

Police today were combing rooftops and searching the neighborhood for other clues, LeSchack added.

Mayor Edward Koch, who arrived for a brief tour of the house with city Medical Examiner Elliot Gross, appeared grim and shaken when he emerged. "Obviously, it's a massacre," he said.

Gross declined to discuss his preliminary observations, except to say that all 10 people had died of gunshot wounds to the head. He said autopsies were to be conducted today.

Ask Us

Q. — Why can't Hermleigh have more dumpsters?

A. — City of Snyder-owned dumpsters are placed at the baseball field and the Hermleigh community center courtesy of Scurry County officials, who pay for their use. Individual residences or businesses with dumpsters in Hermleigh contract for these independently with the city. Regarding the county-provided dumpsters, officials say they have requested more but the indication is these are not currently available.

In Brief

Jury selection is to begin

EDINBURG, Texas (AP) — Attorneys expect to pick a jury by the end of today to hear testimony in the murder trial of former inmate Eroy Brown in the April 1981 death of a Texas Department of Corrections farm manager.

Brown was tried twice before on capital murder charges in the death of TDC Ellis Unit warden Wallace Pack. The first trial ended without a verdict because the jury could not reach a unanimous decision. Brown was acquitted by a second Galveston jury in November 1982.

Brown had also been charged with capital murder in Moore's death, but the charge was reduced to murder.

Brown's court-appointed attorney, state Sen. Craig Washington of Houston, and Walker County District Attorney Frank Blazek both said they expecteded jury selection to take only a day or so, since potential jurors won't have to be questioned about the death penalty.

The 33-year-old inmate was granted a parole last September on the 12-year armed robbery sentence he had been serving. He has since remained jailed awaiting trial in Moore's death.

Bomb blast kills 2 Americans

WINDHOEK, South-West Africa (AP) — Two U.S. officials monitoring South Africa's troop withdrawal from Angola were killed when a bomb blast shattered a gasoline station that has been a past target of guerrillas fighting for independence.

A Western diplomatic source said that the attack apparently was not aimed at the Americans and that they simply happened to be there at the time.

The two, en route to a briefing on troop withdrawal arrangements, were killed Sunday 25 miles from the Angolan border when the bomb exploded at the station where they had stopped to service their car.

Two other people, both from the South African-ruled territory, also died, the South African government said.

South African Foreign Minister R.F. Botha identified the American victims as Dennis Keogh, director of the U.S. diplomatic office monitoring the troop withdrawal agreement, and military attache Lt. Col. Ken Crabtree.

No one claimed responsibility immediately for the blast.

The South African administrator-general of the territory, Wille van Niekerk, blamed the explosion on the South-West Africa People's Organization, which has fought a low-key independence war for 17 years in the territory it calls Namibia. The blast was in an area where SWAPO has been most active.

"At a time when virtually everyone in southern Africa is working toward peace, SWAPO still clings to a barbaric preference for senseless violence," van Niekerk said.

Botha sent a message to U.S. Secretary of State George P. Shultz expressing South Africa's "shock and deep regret" over the deaths of the two Americans.

"It is bitterly ironic that these officers, who were so closely involved in the search for peace in southern Africa, should have become the victims of the very cycle of violence which we are trying to end," Botha said in a message to the families of the victims. "Let me assure you that our prayers will be with you and your families."

Reports from witnesses at the gas station said one American was killed instantly by the bomb and the second died while being treated for burns.

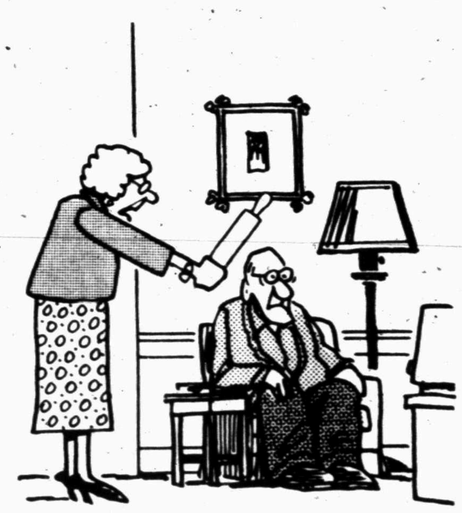

Officials said they had not determined what type of explosive was used or how it was set off.

SWAPO guerrillas have relied on land mines and bomb attacks in their war against South African troops. The filling station hit Sunday was built in part with money from a government development corporation overseen by South Africa.

The blast occurred about 300 miles north of the U.S. office in Windhoek, capital of the disputed territory.

The office was established after a pact was signed Feb. 16 between Angola and South Africa.

Escapee gunned down

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — An Arizona prison escapee was killed in a gun battle as he tried to flee a crowded restaurant, and authorities were trying to determine if a police officer who came on the scene had mistakenly wounded an FBI agent and a woman bystander.

Robert Vance Latimer, a fugitive from an Arizona prison where he was serving 15 years for armed robbery and kidnapping, was also wanted for shooting an FBI agent last month in a Virginia shopping mall where a fellow escapee was wounded.

Ten to 20 shots were fired in the shootout Sunday, and ballistics tests were ordered to determine whether a police officer had mistakenly wounded FBI agent Ben Purser and a woman whose car Latimer tried to commandeer, said Lt. Richard Pope of the suburban Goodlettsville Police Department.

In the heyday of high-priced oil during the 1970s no boom towns boomed more than Midland and Odessa in West Texas. Historic rivals. Frequently bitter rivals.

But in the Seventies both got fat.

Midland's white collars build skyscrapers.

Odessa's blue collars were making and marketing oil field plumbing so fast housing could not keep up with the influx of new workers. South town became a tent city — and there was a time when they even ran out of tents.

Then — whaap!

When the glut pulled the cork on world oil prices in 1982 a lot of money went down the drain.

A lot of money!

Three banks went belly-up and one had had assets of $1.4 billion.

OIME, the big rig builder, built none — for more than two years.

The prolific Permian Basin went dormant, unemployment soared.

But then a strange thing happened.

Midland and Odessa — adrift in the same sinking boat — decided they might bail themselves out — working together.

They're great sports fans in West Texas. I've seen them stand in line all night for a high school game in Midland-Odessa.

Maybe that understanding of sports helped them remember how Ruth needed Gehrig — and Maris needed Mantle —

And Midland and Odessa needed each other.

Recession inspired a degree of cooperation which would have been inconceivable otherwise.

Competing media cooperated with a million dollars' worth of free time and space.

"Let's get together!" the ads said.

And they did. Suppliers and drillers pared costs, 25 to 30 percent. That, plus cheaper money, has explorers exploring again.

I was in Midand and Odessa for the first time since 1976. it's a "whole new ball game."

Midland is building office space again.

Odessa is reactivating rusting rigs. One year ago 234 rigs punching holes in the Permian Basin, yesterday 307.

Unemployment, 10½ percent a year ago, is now 5.6 percent — LESS than the national average.

Midland and Odessa, compared to the top retail markets per household in our nation, are both in the top seven.

Wall Streeters who got burned in '82 don't yet know what I'm telling you. The recession in the oil patch is ending.

It will be a lesser boom this time, a more stable economy.

And they'll still compete like fury in high school athletics.

But two cities — literally and figuratively — economically and geographically — are moving together.

And it works better that way.

Klansmen found not guilty

WINSTON-SALEM, N.C. (AP) — Grand Dragon Virgil Griffin thrust two thumbs in the air and said he'd attend a Ku Klux Klan rally after he and eight others were acquitted of violating the civil rights of five communists shot dead during a 1979 anti-Klan rally.

"Man, I think I died and went to heaven," Griffin said after Sunday's verdict, adding that he planned to celebrate with "three beers tonight ... and a Klan rally next Saturday in Louisburg."

An all-white jury concluded Sunday that the nine defendants did not plot to provoke the violence that erupted at a Greensboro housing project after a caravan of Klansmen and Nazis challenged participants in a "Death to the Klan" rally.

Attorneys for the Greensboro Civil Rights Fund contended that the government had drawn too tight a conspiracy indictment and left a "back door" for the defendants.

Dr. Paul Bermanzohn of New York, a Communist Workers Party member who was seriously injured in the Nov. 3, 1979 confrontation, agreed.

"They're on videotape killing people," he said. "The government charged them on the wrong charges and let them off."

By Oswald Jacoby and James Jacoby

Jim: "Let's go back to Watson's 'Play of the Hand at Bridge.' I have been looking it over lately and it still is a great book."

Oswald: "I wrote the introduction back in 1934. The book starts with very simple hands to get the reader off on his way to bridge excellence."

Jim: "I see you have picked out a sure-fire six no-trump for today. What is so interesting about South just winning the heart lead, going about the business of knocking out the ace of clubs and then running off the rest of the tricks? Incidentally, why didn't North use Stayman?"

Oswald: "Watson was writing this part of his book for beginners. He explains carefully why the beginner must start on clubs. Our readers don't need to understand this. They know already. As to why North didn't use Stayman, the answer is obvious. Stayman was still a young man in 1934. He didn't play any serious bridge until about 1938."

Jim: "You have answered both my questions. Tell me something about Watson."

Oswald: "Louis Watson was a member of the class of 1928 at Columbia. His class included Sam Fry Jr., Mitch Barnes, Jimmy Maier and Edward Hymes Jr. They could form a team that would hold its own with the best players of all time. Louis was the most conservative bidder. As an example, Waldemar von Zedtwitz was asked how grand slams are bid. Waldy replied, 'I can tell you about Watson and Jacoby. Watson makes some strong bid or other; Ossie studies for his 10-second limit and then bids the grand slam.'"

NY mayor gives ulcers to others

MAYOR. By Edward I. Koch. Simon & Schuster. 364 Pages. $17.95.

Hizzoner, the mayor of New York City, likes to buzz around his city of 8 million people and ask, "How'm I doin'?" Ed Koch answers the question on page after page of "Mayor," his new autobiography.

His answer — and we promise we're not giving anything away here — is "Great!" Early on, he writes: "I'm really very good at getting things done." Later he writes: "I'm not the type to get ulcers. I give them."

At times, "Mayor" is inartfully written, weakly researched and blatantly boastful. The mayor is especially kind to himself.

But Ed Koch is irrepressible and his book can be great fun, packed as it is with insider tales of political power plays in the city that never sleeps. He calls people names and uses cliches proudly. He describes how people cried when he had to fire or demote them.

Call it candor or call it indiscretion. That's just how the mayor is.

Koch blames Mario Cuomo, now governor, for rumors about Koch's sexual preference. Former New York Gov. Hugh L. Carey is "bananas." Former Secretary of State Cyrus R. Vance is "the best kind of WASP."

All of the mayor's advisers suggested he wait until after leaving office to write this book. But Ed Koch operates on instinct. Not surprisingly, he went ahead.

"Mayor" is a sketchy memoir, but it's full of tasty insider morsels for anyone who's ever loved or hated Koch's city.

At $17.95, it sells for a New York price, too.

Program chairman, Lynn Bethel, introduced Ed McAnally and his Snyder High School French pupils for an enjoyable evening in the French manner. The clubhouse, featured a sidewalk cafe with French waitresses and entertainment.

Lisa Robbins and Robyn Fambro assisted McAnnally in narrating the program.

The painting, architecture and music of that period, baroque to impressionism, was characterized by a certain spirit of theatricalism, frandiose concepts and a rather heavy elaboration of design and effect.

In distinction from chamber music, orchestral music is for a larger body of instruments. Baroque, classic, romantic and impressionistic periods were discussed.

Andrea Garner and Triesta Lilly played two flute duets. One entitled "Come Ye Disconsolate" by Samuel Webbe.

Jody Webb, Colorado City eighth grader, played a clarinette solo, "Le Petit Negre" by Dubussy.

Beauty Digest

Washcloth cleansing

Washing your face with soap and a nubby washcloth, rubbing gently or vigorously — depending on the sensitivity of your skin — is a great beauty treatment. Such cleansing removed layers of dead skin cells from the surface. If you don't clean off the dead skin on your face, a congestive film is formed that "lock in" crepey lines, blemishes, and discolorations; so scrub well!

Dear Abby

Upbeat Chapter Begins In Boy's Tragic Story

By Abigail Van Buren

© 1984 by Universal Press Syndicate

DEAR READERS: This letter appeared in my column on July 28, 1975:

DEAR ABBY: I am a physician. About 72 hours ago, a previously healthy, beautiful, 16-month-old child was brought to our department with obvious burns around his lips and mouth.

Only a few hours before, while visiting his grandparents, he discovered a bottle of lye and ingested only one mouthful. Fourteen doctors and dozens of nurses and operating personnel have been involved in the three operations that this child has already undergone.

The boy is now in our intensive-care unit, his eyes held shut with plastic tape, his breathing controlled by a machine and his life supported by tubes placed in his neck, chest, abdomen, penis, arms and legs. All of his esophagus and most of his stomach were destroyed by the lye and had to be surgically removed. If he lives, he will have to be fed through a hole in his abdomen for months.

Abby, please ask your readers to inspect their kitchens, bathrooms, basements and garages, and to place all dangerous chemicals outside the reach of small children. And ask them to pass the word on to their friends and neighbors who may not have children but who occasionally have young visitors.

This type of needless suffering and death to small children can be stopped today without spending one penny for research or donations.

I hope you will consider this worthy of your column, which is probably read by more people than any other.

ARNOLD E. KATZ, M.D., IOWA CITY, IOWA

DEAR DR. KATZ: Worthy? If only one letter makes my column today, this will be it.

Readers, please place all detergents, bleaches, cleaning fluid, paint, polish, rat poison, drain cleaner and pills (including aspirin and iodine) under lock and key today!

And today, I received this one:

DEAR ABBY: Do you remember the letter you printed in 19[illegible] about a 16-month-old boy who had swallowed a mouthful of lye? Dr. Arnold E. Katz sent it to you hoping you would publish it as a warning to all who may have a child in their care.

Well, the boy's name is Michael, and I am his mother. I wrote to you a year later to tell you that our son had survived but we were still facing a long hard battle.

Michael is 10 years old now, and he's had so many operations we've almost lost count. He's doing fourth-grade work but had to be taught at home.

On Jan. 10, Michael was in surgery again for 10 hours. Dr. William Panje and his team of doctors at the University Hospital in Iowa City did a super job. Eight days later my husband and I brought Michael home. No one knew if the operation would be successful, but we were all hoping. You see, since his accident, Michael had been unable to swallow. He had to be fed through a tube in his stomach.

On Feb. 27, Michael took a gulp of soda pop, and it actually went down his throat and into his stomach!

He said, "Mom, it's gone! It's gone!" I told him to take a smaller sip to see if he could swallow again, and sure enough he could.

It's been a long 8 1/2 years, Abby, but as of today Michael is actually eating and swallowing food. We can hardly believe it.

The tube through which he had been fed was removed from his stomach yesterday, and I wanted you to be one of the first to know that our son is normal again! This fall he will be able to ride the bus and go to school for the first time in his life.

I am enclosing a picture of Michael. Thank you for caring, Abby.

BETTY (MRS. EUGENE) STRIEGEL, LISBON, IOWA

DEAR MRS. STRIEGEL: Thank you from the bottom of my heart for wanting to share your joy with me. I know that my readers will rejoice with me on learning the wonderful news.

How I wish I could publish Michael's picture. His large blue eyes, pink cheeks and warm smile reveal an exceptionally beautiful and courageous child. May he and his family know only good fortune from this day on.

Freed professor to return to U.S.

HOUSTON (AP) — An American professor freed from Beirut terrorists after two months in captivity is sick but planning to come to the United States soon, says his son, a student at Rice University.

Chris Regier, 19, said he was glad but not surprised Sunday to learn of the release of his father, Frank Regier. The electrical engineering professor at Beirut's American University was abducted from his home Feb. 10 by three armed men.

"Wow — that's good," Chris Regier said upon learning from an Associated Press reporter his father had been freed. His 50-year-old father appeared at a news conference at the home of Nabih Berri, leader of the Shiite Moslem militia Amal.

The elder Regier gave no details of his release, saying only that Amal fighters had freed him from his captors by force.

Chris Regier said his brother, Terry, of Mountainview, Calif., had reached their parents by telephone and learned that their father is ill.

"Apparently all I can tell you is my dad has a fever and is resting," Chris Regier said. He said he believed the illness was "minor" and said his father had spent much of his captivity "tied to a bed."

He also said his father is planning to come to the United States "in a couple of weeks," probably for the summer.

"I can't say that I blame him," he said.

He said he had remained optimistic throughout the last two months.

"There've been all sorts of rumors, none of them bad," Chris Regier said. "I'm not really surprised that he's free. I am glad, of course."

Chris Regier said that during his father's captivity his mother, Mary, a native of Lebanon who also teaches at American University, had "talked to some bigwig in the militia who said he heard he (Regier) was fine and somewhere out in the Bekaa (Valley). But you can't really put too much faith in that."

In fact, the elder Regier said at his press conference that although he was blindfolded for much of his captivity, he believed he was held in west Beirut because he could hear weapons fire.

Amal is the political movement and militia that commands the loyalty of the vast majority of Lebanon's Shiite Moslems, believed to be the largest single religious group in the country.

The Rice student predicted shortly after his father's capture that the abductors would not kill Frank Regier.

"They probably just wanted to scare all the Americans into getting out of the country and he happened to be there," Chris Regier said.

He said he and his mother talked shortly after the kidnapping and "pretty much agreed that was probably the case or they would have just killed him," rather than taking him alive.

Terrorists in Beirut have attacked two other school officials. American University President Malcolm Kerr was assassinated in January. Previous President David Dodge was kidnapped in 1982 and imprisoned in Iran.

Vertigo and Valium

By Lawrence Lamb, M.D.

DEAR DR. LAMB — I've had several attacks of vertigo and continuous vomiting for hours at a time. An examination established that I have Meniere's disease. The last time I was in the emergency room an injection of Compazine stopped the vertigo and vomiting in about 15 minutes.

I thought the ear, nose and throat specialist would prescribe Antivert to prevent future attacks, so I was surprised when he prescribed Valium. The only time I take it is when I feel dizzy and it relieves the condition in a few minutes.

So far I've been able to stay away from the emergency room. But I certainly have no intention of becoming addicted to Valium.

DEAR READER — Meniere's disease involves the balance canals of the inner ear and is characterized by a low, constant humming or buzzing in the ears, as well as attacks of vertigo (balance problems) and impairment of hearing.

Valium is thought of as a tranquilizer, but it also suppresses the stimuli from the balance mechanism of the ear that causes vertigo. It's able to control the symptoms in Meniere's disease in about 60 to 70 percent of cases. It also helps to reduce the anxiety that often accompanies such an attack.

You shouldn't have any problem with becoming dependent on Valium taking it as infrequently as you do. Even if you had to take it continuously for a week, it probably wouldn't cause addiction. However, the longer it's taken consistently, the greater the chance of dependency.

I'm sending you the Health Letter 9-10, Dizziness and Vertigo, to give you a better understanding of these problems. Others who want this issue can send 75 cents with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for it to me, in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, NY 10019.

DEAR DR. LAMB — I want to know if a girl who has a D&C (dilatation and curettage) can still be a virgin. I've heard yes and no and I must know the answer.

DEAR READER — It depends upon your definition of a virgin. If you mean a woman who hasn't been penetrated sexually, she certainly would still be a virgin after a D&C.

A D&C requires dilating and curetting the inner part of the uterus. This is done for a diagnosis for unexplained bleeding, or sometimes as treatment to remove the cause of a bleeding problem.

If your definition of a virgin is one whose hymen is unruptured, anything that breaks it would eliminate virginity. But that's a useless definition when you consider the membrane at the outlet of the vagina has to be perforated or partially open to allow normal menstruation. It can be further torn by athletics.

When a stiff or thick remnant of the normal hymen persists, it can cause problems in sexual relations. Part of an enlightened premarital examination is to be certain there are no problems of this sort that would get the marriage off to a bad start.

Hart, Jackson look to Missouri

By The Associated Press

Gary Hart and the Rev. Jesse Jackson are looking to Missouri's caucuses this week after winning weekend contests in Arizona and South Carolina, while Walter Mondale takes a rest from the Democratic presidential campaign still holding a comfortable delegate lead.

Hart was heading to St. Louis and Jefferson City, Mo., today from California, where he spent the weekend raising money and savoring a win over Mondale in Arizona's caucuses.

"It's been a rough couple of weeks, but I think things look better now, particularly here in the West," he said in Beverly Hills, Calif. "We won that state pretty decisively."

Jackson planned a trip to Missouri, too, after a rally Sunday afternoon in Washington, D.C., that drew 10,000 people. Missouri Democrats caucus Wednesday to choose 75 national convention delegates in the only such contest scheduled this week.

The black civil rights leader told the Washington gathering that while he may not win the nomination, his campaign — and the huge black vote it is turning out — will have an effect in November's elections.

"We are not measured by whether we get there — just so we are going in the right direction," he said.

Jackson said he had already won 15 congressional districts in the primaries, indicating minority candidates can win House seats there this fall.

"We may or may not change the face of the White House," he said. "But we will change the face of the U.S. Congress. It will never be the same again."

Hart, who is trying to recover after successive losses to Mondale in Illinois, New York and Pennsylvania, won 17 delegates Saturday in Arizona, while Mondale won 15 and Jackson one. With 99 percent of the vote counted, Hart had 45 percent to Mondale's 40 percent and Jackson's 13 percent.

Despite the narrow edge in delegates won, Hart called Arizona a "clear and decisive victory" and renewed his attacks on the former vice president.

"Increasingly, Democratic voters'... are turned off by Mr. Mondale's cheap attacks on me and his failure to put forth any vision of the future other than the Carter-Mondale period," Hart said in California.

He also criticized President Reagan's Central America policies. "I think this president is on a foolhardy course that the American people do not accept and will not support and will inevitably lead to the loss of American lives unnecessarily," Hart said.

Two bicycles said missing

Snyder police officers were called to investigate two misdemeanor thefts and a criminal mischief incident over the weekend.

Jerry Vestal of 2711 Ave. W filed the first theft report at 4:24 p.m. Saturday. He told investigators that his son's bicycle, valued at $100, had been taken from the residence sometime between 4 p.m. Wednesday and 3 p.m. Saturday.

Calvin Guynes of 2411 29th St. filed a second bicycle theft report at 9:25 a.m. Sunday. He told officers that his son's bike, valued at $70, had been stolen from their residence sometime between 8 p.m. Saturday and 9 a.m. Sunday.

Buford Browning called city police at 6:22 p.m. and reported a vandalism incident at the East Side Church of Christ.

According to reports, a glass door of the church, valued at $125, had been broken out sometime between 5 and 5:30 p.m. Sunday.

In other action, city police logged nine misdemeanor arrests over the weekend.

Four persons were jailed for public intoxication, two for DWI and one each for minor in possession of alcohol, driving on a suspended licenses and driving without a license.

Your Birthday

April 17, 1984

Considerable strides can be made this coming year in developing a second source of income. If you haen't begun a retirement program, now is the time to do it.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Joint ventures won't work out successfully today if either you or your associate are lackadaisical. Each must expend maximum effort. The areas in which you'll be the luckiest in the year ahead are revealed in your Astro-Graph predictions for the coming year. To get yours, mail $1 and your zodiac sign to Astro-Graph, Box 489, Radio City Station, New York, NY 10019.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Your judgment is good today. You can assess situations rapidly and accurately, yet once you size things up, you're not apt to take action.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) This is one of those days when the spirit is willing but the flesh may be weak. Tasks that you intend to do may never get done.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) Try not to rely too heavily upon others today, especially in social matters. Persons who've made you promises might not fulfill them.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) If there is disarray in your household today, you are apt to be the major contributor. You might start several projects that you'll not finish.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Be extra-mindful of your social graces today if you are dining or partying with friends. Keep your thumb out of th soup and don't tell off-color stories.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Your material prospects are encouraging today, but yo won't reap the harvest they promise if you count on luck instead of effort.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Much can be accomplished today, provided you are the one who sets the pace. Don't let associates arrange your timetable.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) This might not be one of your better days where your budget is concerned. Instead of curtailing expenses, you may imprudently increase them.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Putting on airs and affectations is normally not your style, but today you may do just that in order to try to impress some hotshots.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) You're in a good cycle to fulfill your ambitions and it would be a shame to waste it. Ignore temptations to coast today where you should be pushing.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) In a situation that you share with another, indifference or inconsistency on your part could cause problems that might bring the endeavor to a halt.

State drops plans for dump in far West Texas

AUSTIN (AP) — The cost of constructing barriers to prevent leakage has led state officials to abandon the idea of locating a low-level nuclear waste dump in far West Texas, the head of the Texas Low-Level Radioactive Waste Disposal Authority says.

Rick Jacobi said his agency would formally announce today that it has "given up" on the idea of putting the first state-run dump site on land owned by the University of Texas in Hudspeth County, about 100 miles southeast of El Paso.

Jacobi said a South Texas site is still under consideration and agency officials planned to study other possible sites, including one on state-owned land in Brewster County.

Authority officials had pushed for the Hudspeth County site despite strong opposition from local residents, who hired engineering consultants to help prove their claims that the dump would be dangerous.

Under a federal law passed in 1980, all states have until 1986 to form regional compacts to handle their wastes. Those which do not could be required to accept wastes from other parts of the country.

Jacobi said Saturday that the authority has determined it would be too expensive to build the man-made barriers needed to guarantee that radioactivity could not leak from the site.

"Without expensive engineered barriers," a dump located above the porous land of Hudspeth County "wouldn't work," Jacobi said.

Two UT consultants reported last month that a Hudspeth County dump would endanger groundwater supplies for area farms and towns. One consultant said any radioactivity washed from the site would "head downhill" toward Dell City and Sierra Blanca, the Hudspeth County seat.

After hearing the consultants' reports, UT regents meeting in San Antonio on Friday took no action on the authority's request to lease or buy the land for a dump site.

The authority is considering only one other site, located near Asherton in South Texas. However, the site has been opposed vigorously by neighboring landowners, including former Gov. Dolph Briscoe and the Roman Catholic Church.

Jacobi said the agency, which has an option until Aug. 31 to buy the Asherton-area site, would look for willing sellers elsewhere in Texas because state law requires the agency to have at least two sites from which to choose a dump location.

According to Jacobi, a landowner with property in Garza and Borden counties has offered sites to the agency and Land Commissioner Garry Mauro has agreed to let agency officials investigate the prospects of building a site on state-owned land in Brewster County.

Minor wreck

A minor traffic accident was reported at 2 p.m. Sunday at the intersection of Texas Highway 208 and the Brick Plant Road south of Snyder.

According to Department of Public Safety reports, minor damage was reported to both a 1968 Chevrolet driven by Richard Varin Walker of Rt. 3, Snyder and a 1984 Jeep driven by Michael Don Mayfield of 2901 Ave. M.

No injuries resulted from the mishap.

Fire doused

Snyder firemen doused a small grass fire in the 4000 Block of Eastridge Dr. at 5 p.m. Sunday.

No property damage was reported from the blaze.

Worker taken from rig site

A Snyder man, an employee of Welltech Inc., was admitted to Cogdell Memorial Hospital for observation this morning following an accident on a drilling rig near Vincent in Mitchell County.

Aid Ambulance-Snyder personnel transported Arthur Sanchez from the scene to the local hospital. He apparently became disoriented while working in the rig tower and fell a short distance to the floor of the unit.

According to the EMS workers, Sanchez had no serious visible injuries but was dazed and disoriented, possibly from a bump on the head sustained in the fall.

Wreck occurs

Snyder police were called to investigate a single minor traffic mishap in the city over the weekend.

It occurred at the intersection of Ave. E and 37th St. at 9:27 a.m. Sunday. Involved vehicles were a 1977 Oldsmobile driven by Dennis Jay Reynolds of 606 33rd St. and a 1981 Ford driven by Ernest Wayne Jenkins of 3109 41st St.

No injuries were reported.

New owners to reopen failed Lubbock bank

LUBBOCK, Texas (AP) — A Dimmitt investor planned today to reopen the Security National Bank, which federal officials closed after citing a bad loan portfolio for the bank's insolvency.

Bill Loyd, whose family's $3.45 million bid for the bank was accepted Friday afternoon by the Federal Deposit Insurance Corp., said the bank would reopen as City Bank and business would remain substantially the same.

However, the new owners did not purchase any of Security National's commerical loans or new construction, which are now controlled by the FDIC.

The bank was ordered closed Friday by acting U.S. Comptroller of Currency H. Joe Selby, who appointed the FDIC as receiver to liquidate the bank's assets.

The new owners will be taking over the bank's deposits and assets, including the present building, furniture, fixtures, equipment, cash, bonds and consumer installment loans, Loyd said.

FDIC senior liquidation specialist Arthur Lorentzen, who spent the weekend supervising the ownership transaction, estimated the bank's deposits at $52 million.

Selby said Friday the bank had experienced substantial deterioration in the quality of its loan portfolio over the past few years and was unable to remedy its problems.

The bank's losses finally exhausted its capital funds, causing its insolvency, Selby said.

Some of the bad loans were commercial loans for energy projects, Loyd said.

Loyd, who will serve as board chairman and president, said commercial loans will be reviewed for possible purchase from the FDIC and the owners later may negotiate for a new building that Security National had planned to move into, Loyd said.

Mike Klein, general contractor for the new complex, said he finished construction on Feb. 27 and did not know anything else about the plans for the building.

Loyd said he had no plans to change any of the bank's personnel. Douglas Boren, who had been president of Security National, will be employed as a consultant, Loyd said.

Sam Spikes resigned as president of Security National last September after a meeting of the board of directors in which the board was told the bank was facing a heavy loss by the end of the year.

Spikes was replaced by Boren, who said at that time that the bank was one of about 200 banks considered "problem banks" by federal banking authorities.

Security National was the sixth bank in West Texas, which has been hit hard by a downturn in energy prices, to close in recent months. Earlier bank failures included institutions at Seminole, Odessa, Brownfield and two at Midland.

Before Friday's closure, there had never been a bank failure in Lubbock, but five other West Texas banks have been declared insolvent in recent months.

Court decision pending

IRVING, Texas (AP) — Attorneys say the U.S. Supreme Court's decision in Amber Tatro's case could affect handicapped children in public schools throughout the United States.

The high court was scheduled to hear oral arguments today in the controversy over whether the Irving Independent School District must provide catheterization for the 8-year-old girl, who was born with spina bifida and cannot empty her bladder normally.

Instead, Amber must be catheterized, which involves inserting a steel tube into her bladder.

Since 1979, when Amber's mother, Mary Tatro, first tried to enroll Amber in public school, the Irving school district has maintained it has no legal responsibility to provide catheterization for the child.

The school district argued the service would burden it and that it would face possible lawsuits if the catheterization were performed improperly.

Lower courts have ruled against the school district, which has been providing Amber with catheterization since 1981.

Amber's attorneys, citing a 1975 federal law requiring schools to provide "supportive services" to handicapped students, contend the school district has to provide catheterization because Amber cannot attend public school without it.

Police retrace Wilder's route

By The Associated Press

Investigators are trying to retrace the 8,000-mile trail of rape-murder suspect Christopher Wilder to find four missing women who are believed to have been among his victims, the FBI said today.

Lawrence Gilligan, an FBI spokesman in Boston, said agents are examining photos of women found in a suitcase in Wilder's car after he was killed Friday to see if there were more than the 11 known victims allegedly abducted by Wilder.

One abduction with which Wilder was charged was of an unidentified Florida college student. She told authorities her kidnapper took her to a south Georgia motel, raped her, tortured her with electrical shocks and tried to glue her eyes shut. She escaped.

On Saturday, FBI agents and New Hampshire state police displayed some of the items found in Wilder's car after he shot himself to death near the Canadian border the previous day. Besides 49 $100 bills were a gun holster, receipts, a knife, scissors, silver duct tape, glue and photos of women.

The women in the photos have not been identified, authorities said Sunday. They said the items will be tested to see if they were used on any of the women.

Authorities said the last person known to have been in Wilder's car was a 19-year-old Billerica, Mass., woman who escaped when Wilder's car stopped at a stop sign, authorities said. The woman, whose identity was withheld, had been abducted in Wenham, Mass., on Friday morning after her car broke down.

Wenham police officer David Doile said she was recovering from her ordeal "with flying colors." He did not say if she was physically harmed.

Authorities in Penn Yan, N.Y., meanwhile, said that a 16-year-old girl provided "very thorough" information that was crucial to cornering Wilder despite near-fatal stab wounds.

Within two hours of Dawnette Sue Wilt's arrival at Soldiers and Sailors Hospital here, "we were sure Wilder was the man we were looking for," Yates County Sheriff Jan S. Scofield said Sunday.

Miss Wilt, of Dyer, Ind., was found walking along a road Thursday after being abducted from an Indiana shopping mall, driven across country, then stabbed and left for dead.

"She described him," Scofield said at a news conference. "She described a vehicle that was involved within a relatively short period of time, and through working very closely with the FBI, we had confirmed that it was Wilder that we were looking for."

Wilder, a former race car driver and millionaire electrical contractor from Boynton Beach, Fla., shot himself to death Friday during a struggle with police in northern New Hampshire.

The FBI says he was responsible for an eight-week cross-country spree of rape, torture and murder in which 11 women were abducted. Four were killed, four are missing and three escaped.

Scofield praised Miss Wilt's composure in the face of her ordeal.

"It was unbelievable how a 16-year-old girl could go through what she had gone through, and as soon as the hospital personnel had done what they had to do to reassure her she wasn't going to succumb, she was very, very concise, very thorough with all her descriptions," he said.

"If we hadn't had the break with her in this case, I firmly believe that Mr. Wilder would still be alive," Scofield said.

Smith sweeps saddlebronc...

WTC places third, fifth in rodeo here

Western Texas College opened well but came up short in the finals of the NIRA rodeo, here Saturday.

Shane Smith scored a 72 to win the the bareback competition. He had won the long-go earlier with a 75, and his total 147 made him the average champion in the event.

The Westerners were plagued with no-times and no-scores most of the rest of the way, and tallied a total of 225 points to finish third in the men's division. WTC's women were fifth.

Next action in the Southwest Region will be the Hardin-Simmons University Rodeo beginning Thursday in Abilene.

Sul Ross State University won the men's division here with 385 points, thanks in particular to all-around champion Tuff Hedeman, who swept the bronc riding, was second in the average in team roping and third in the bull riding.

Western took third overall in the calf roping, behind Gary Rowe's total 18.3 on two head. His 9.1 in the finals was good enough for second in the short-go. Randy Bomar, who took third in the long-go, did not place in the finals. Eastern New Mexico's Grady Eldridge won the average with a 17.9. Sul Ross' Cody Carruthers was first in the short-go with an 8.9.

Hedeman, who had scored a 74 to win the saddle bronc long-go, chalked a 76 Saturday for a total 150. His 76 tied with teammate Earl Hammond for first in the short-go. Western sent three cowboys into the finals, but all took a no-score. Van Hale did get second in the long-go with a 72.

It was a similar situation in the steer wrestling where Western had two of the top times going into the finals. But C.J. Urbanek got a no-time when his steer stood up and Donnie Yorks took a 13.9 with a broken barrier.

New Mexico JC's D.R. Daniels won the short-go (5.0) and the average (10.2).

Ed Fernandes of Sul Ross and Charles Pogue of Vernon Regional JC won the team roping with a total 14.0 on two head. They also won the short-go with a 6.4.

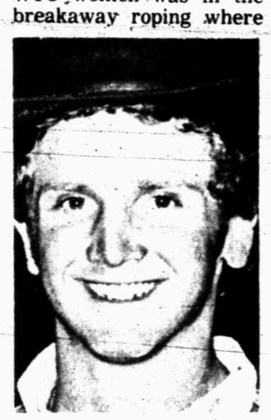

In the bull riding, WTC's Hale took third in the short-go with a 69 and was fourth in the average with a 135. SRSU's Ed Vickers put together a pair of 75s to win the long-go, the short-go and the average (150). Hedeman tied Vickers Saturday with a 75 and took third in the average with a 143. Scott Voges of Tarleton was third in the short-go with a 73 and second in the average (146).

The best finals effort for WTC women was in the breakaway roping where Kelley Kyle placed second in the short-go (2.8) and second in the average. Her total 6.4 was beaten by one-tenth of a second when Texas Tech cowgirl Renee Rutherford flashed a 2.7. Rutherford won the average with a 6.3.

Kyle also took fourth in the average and short-go of the barrel race. She got into the finals with a 14.10 and ran a 13.81 on Saturday for a total 27.91. Karen Salter of Howard College won the short-go with a 13.45 and the average with a 27.33. Teammate Cathy Cochran was second in the average with a 27.57.

Tammie Noble, who won women's all-around honors, was the average and short-go winner in goat tying. She came into the event with the third best time (9.4) and recorded an 8.0 on Saturday for a total 17.4.7.

Western's Regina Begay had taken second in the long-go with a 9.2, but her 11.5 in the short-go left her out of the top standings in the finals.

Snyder's championship girl's golf team, which includes three all-district players, will shoot for a state berth that eluded them a year ago when they compete in the April 17-18 Regional Tournament in Brownwood.

Snyder won a third straight District 2-4A title this season, defeating runnerup Andrews by 71 strokes.

The squad is anchored by three-time district medalist Lisa Franklin, a senior who shot a 340 (85.0 average) in four district tournaments. Franklin competed in 10 tournaments this season and took medalist honors in all of them. In fact, the last time she didn't win medalist in a high school meet was in the 1983 regionals, where she placed third. First and second place medalists at region advance to the state tournament.

"Lisa has worked harder than anybody in the state. We're real proud of her," said Coach Jan Kruse, who despite Franklin's experience has a young squad this season.

Franklin and Susan Hamlett are the only seniors on the team. Xalyn Harris is a sophomore and Leslie Light and Rebekah Powell are freshmen. The alternate is Michelle Holder, also a freshman.

Powell was district runnerup medalist and Harris was fifth. They and Franklin were all-district.

"This gives our seniors something to look back on and the others something to look forward to," said Kruse. "We're young, but very competitive."

Snyder's No. 2 squad also started well this season, but struggled in two tournaments and finished sixth overall.

"We had some problems with the wind. We did real well in tournaments where the wind wasn't blowing," grinned Kruse.

"I think we can do real well at regionals. We'll have to play very well but I think we have a chance to get to the state tournament," the coach added.

The state meet is scheduled for May 3-4-5 in Austin.

Let's talk.

Information about your changing telephone service from Jim West, Manager-Community Relations

A look at "local measured service"

Perhaps you've heard about a new optional type of service that Southwestern Bell Telephone is proposing for its Texas customers. It's called Local Measured Service (LMS). Simply put, LMS would give you the option of paying for your direct use of the telephone network.

Southwestern Bell Telephone's LMS proposal to the Public Utility Commission (PUC) includes an option that would lower fixed monthly charges while adding a low usage charge for each completed outgoing call. Those calls would be billed on the basis of distance, duration of the call and the time of day.

Another option would be a "LIFELINE" service at a $5 monthly fee. This service would be targeted to the elderly on poverty-level income. The rate would include a usage allowance of 25 completed outgoing local calls. Additional completed outgoing local calls would be billed at the rate of 8 cents each. Customers would not be charged for incoming calls under either plan.

It's your option

LMS is for residence customers, as well as single-line, one-party business customers. And of course you could keep the current "flat-rate" monthly service if you'd prefer.

These new local service pricing plans would be available within 60 days of Commission approval in 89 offices which currently serve over 2,500,000 customer lines. The company plans to equip the remaining offices within two years after approval.

I think you'll agree there are several benefits to measured service. It would give you options for choosing the plan that gives you more control over your phone bill. You'd also have the option of paying for the service you used, rather than subsidizing those who use their phones a great deal more than you do.

While LMS as a standard service offering would be new to Southwestern Bell Telephone's Texas customers, it isn't new in Texas. Customers of three other companies in the Lone Star State — General Telephone, Continental Telephone and Cen-Tel — are taking advantage of LMS. And like us, other companies — United Tel, Palo Pinto Tel and Mustang Tel — have requests pending with the PUC.

Customer interest

We're proposing the service because we've known there has been a need for optional pricing in Texas. Last summer we conducted a survey, to determine customer interest in LMS.

We found that interest was strong, particularly among those customers making fewer local calls or shorter-duration calls. The results also showed that customers want wider choices in how they pay for service by having the ability to match their cost to their calling needs.

At this time, PUC hearings on LMS are set to begin Sept. 24 in Austin. You can look for more information about LMS in the special insert in your telephone bill.

Klan march is generally quiet

AUSTIN (AP) — Ku Klux Klansmen who returned to the Capitol for a second rally say they will come back again to offer their message of white supremacy.

Saturday's rally sparked a shouting war between Klansmen and spectators, but there were no arrests or injuries. The Klan's previous Austin march, in February 1983, ended with 13 arrests and 12 injuries when anti-Klan demonstrators tangled with police.

Couple takes in neglected animals

DICKINSON, Texas (AP) — Ernestine Bailey says her collection of more than 200 animals started when she brought home cats from an animal shelter in an attempt to kill off the rats and mice on her farm.

Mrs. Bailey and her husband, Jim, are now a tradition with the Galveston County Society for Prevention of Cruelty to Animals, and most of the 96 farm animals the agency seized last year spent some time recuperating with the Baileys.

'Family' mourns abandoned child

HITCHCOCK, Texas (AP) — Sixty-five people who attended a graveside service for a baby who died after she was abandoned in a roadside ditch became her family at the cemetery, says a minister who was at the funeral.

"We were all her family out there," said the Rev. Robert W. King, pastor of the First Baptist Church of La Marque.

He said there was no lack of names in the section of the guest register reserved for relatives.

"We all signed the book," King said.

The crowd Saturday included 20 La Marque police officers and about 45 other people from all walks of life. The child's real name is not known, but nurses working to save her life at a Texas City hospital called her April Cora — "April" for the month in which she was found, "Cora" from the Latin word for heart.

The girl was found beside a road April 9 by a service station worker hunting for aluminum cans. She died of cardiac arrest at 12:28 p.m. Thursday in the neonatal intensive care unit of the University of Texas Medical Branch at Galveston.
