'PLAINS ARE BEHIND'

Catching Up With The Aging

Casual, even calloused, attitudes toward the plight of the aged have a way of taking care of themselves, says a Methodist minister here skilled in the "eldercare" field.

The Rev. Don Davidson, who roams the halls of Westgate Nursing Home stoking sagging spirits like a sagacious football coach, notes that a change of heart — tragically enough — awaits the burying of one's own.

This county, in that respect, is a generation behind in its attitude development, the 20-year veteran of charity administration cites.

"We have never seen a generation of people, of a very high count, sit here and go through the process of dying," he says.

"This, after all, is new territory in America and we have one less generation of people than, say, East Texas has, which means that the percentage of people in Deaf Smith County that are over 65 is only 6.2 per cent while the percentage of people (over 65) in Cottle (Paducah) County, for example, is near 14 per cent."

School Out, 185 Receive Diplomas

Thursday was the last day of classroom instruction in Hereford schools, but several phases of the school program will be carried on throughout the summer. Graduation exercises were conducted Friday night.

A summer band program, under direction of Clyde Wilson, junior high band director, will be conducted for six weeks ending with a concert about July 4. This pre-beginners instruction will be for elementary students who may be enrolling in band when they enter junior high school.

AT HEREFORD High School, the vocational departments will be operating during the summer. These include the homemaking, distributive education and agriculture courses.

Robert Thompson, high school counselor, will be available for job placement for high school students seeking summer jobs. He said he would assist employers and students, and has requested that all calls concerning this be made to the high school principal's office before June 10.

Acting Supt. Don T. Martin said that all present construction work will be completed in time for the opening of the fall semester. Additions are being made at Hereford High School and Aikman Elementary School. Also to open this fall will be the new Bluebonnet Elementary School on 16th St. New districts for the elementary schools will be announced by school officials next week.

A CAPACITY crowd of over 3,000 witnessed commencement exercises of the high school held at Whiteface Stadium Friday evening. At that time, 185 seniors received diplomas. Larry Minks secretary of the class, presented school principal G. W. Michael the class gift, which will be a sign erected at the corner of Stadium Dr. and Moreman, saying "Home of the Fighting Whitefaces."

This was the first year the graduation ceremonies have been held at the stadium. W. H. Gentry, school board president, presented diplomas.

High school principal Michael will be in his office daily through at least July 1. Other administrative offices also will be open.

Teachers, many of whom will be attending summer sessions in colleges and universities, are completing work this week. High school report cards probably will be mailed this week, and elementary pupils received their grades before leaving school Thursday.

Prerequisite For Park?

Flood Control Talked Along Tierra Blanca

Can the banks of Hereford's Tierra Blanca Creek be developed as a park without adequate flood control measures?

The water resources committee of the Deaf Smith County Chamber of Commerce thinks not, and has asked the Soil Conservation Service for exploration of government assistance in designing and financing a flood control system.

The lazy little creek, which longtime residents say shows flooding tendencies three times "in an average year," flows just south of Hereford, providing what is said to be an ideal park development site.

"THERE ARE SOME communities that would give their right arm just to have half the potential that Hereford has on this creek," says Don Newman, soil conservation office manager. "But unless you can control the flooding you cannot develop the potential that you have down there."

Much of the more valuable creek area just south of the city limits belongs to Hereford veterans organizations which have been discussing means of permitting park development for several years.

Newman, at the invitation of the water resources committee and chairman John D. Aikin, has outlined to them the possibility of a Tierra Blanca project — financed under Public Law 566, a watershed protection and flood prevention act.

The route is rife with red tape and requirements for individual and public approval, he concedes, and "at best, it is going to be a long-haul fight."

BUT, STRESSING that the SCS is not pushing the project except at the chamber committee's request, he says, "I feel optimistic about it."

A series of earth-fill dams would be constructed west of Hereford to control sporadic flooding. One or more of these sites, either with federal or local government assistance, could be made into recreation sites themselves.

The key to such a project, says Virgle L. Cunningham, Amarillo area conservationist, is that "your benefits must exceed your costs."

Newman cites losses by farmers in roads and fences, damage to the U.S. Hwy. 385 bridge, silt-dreding required from time to time and railroad right-of-way and county road losses as possible sources for determining the dollar loss from flooding.

BUT HE SAYS the value of the "now-undevelopable" park site may hold the key to proving benefits would exceed costs, and putting a dollar figure on this intangible will be difficult.

MRS. DYALTHIA BENSON

Poverty Aid Plan Guided By Resident

A Hereford business woman has been named chairman of a committee to aid poverty-stricken people — especially migrant workers — in Texas.

Mrs. Dyalthia Benson, treasurer-manager of the Hereford Texas Federal Credit Union, was named recently to head the Texas Credit Union League in a pilot program in conjunction with President Johnson's War on Poverty.

AS CHAIRMAN, Mrs. Benson will be instrumental in directing the use of $22,000 in federal funds assigned for use in the San Antonio area.

Mrs. Benson said that the Texas Credit Union League will use the money to establish a unique credit union for Latin Americans there.

The seven-member committee headed by Mrs. Benson convened during the recent Credit Union National Association convention in San Francisco.

THERE, THE committee drew up plans for establishing a credit union for Latin Americans in San Antonio — where there exists one of the largest concentrations of Latin Americans in the southwest, Mrs. Benson said.

Unique about the facility will be a "mobile" credit union which will serve its Latin American members in the field when they migrate from the city to work, Mrs. Benson said.

"This is a pilot program designed to help the Latin Americans help themselves," Mrs.

FIRE ALARM

Residents At Kings Manor Are Unruffled

The triggering of the fire alarm system at Kings Manor Rest Home Friday afternoon sent five pieces of fire fighting apparatus to the scene — but failed to interrupt a domino game or one woman's post-noon nap.

The Rev. Don Davidson, executive director of the home, 425 Sunset Dr., said the warning bells sounded about 2:30 p.m. and indicated the entire building was ablaze.

"THERE WOULDN'T be a chance of there being a fire in all four zones without our knowing it," he said.

Fireman checked out the building thoroughly and said that the temperature in the attic was high enough to have triggered the automatic alarms. Davidson said outside vent covers, put in place for winter, had not been removed. He said a temperature between 180 and 225 degrees was needed to set off the alarm system.

Residents of the home were calm.

"WE JUST WENT out on the front porch and waited," said Mrs. Clara B. Fry. "We thought it was practice."

Others continued conversations, domino games and television viewing. Mrs. J. F. Ward slept through it all.

One nurse told of rushing into a resident's room and checking a closet for possible flames. Asked by the startled occupant what she was doing, the attendent explained and was told: dant explained and was told: closet."

Then, the nurse said, the woman turned back over and went to sleep.

2 Charged In Cafe Burglary

Two men were being held in Deaf Smith County Jail Saturday in lieu of bond on charges in connection with the Sunday night burglary of a cafe at the Labor Camp.

Jesse Ybarra, 22, is being held in lieu of $2,500 bond on a charge of burglary. Held as an accomplice is Sixto Cordova, 33. Bond for Cordova was set at $1,000 by Justice of the Peace C. B. (Berry) Miles.

Both men listed their address as the Labor Camp.

Sheriff's deputies said the men were arrested in connection with the burglary of the Escondido Cafe.

Poppy Sales Wednesday

The annual sales of "poppies" by the American Legion Auxiliary has been moved to Wednesday, instead of the traditional Saturday before Memorial Day, according to Mrs. Ira Ott, auxiliary president.

The red memorial flowers are made in veterans hospitals by disabled veterans and are, Mrs. Ott says, "in many instances, the only money the patient is able to earn."

THE FIRST poppies were sold 35 years ago on the streets of Hereford, she notes.

"The poppy store goes back to World War I when the little red flower bloomed in profusion on the battlefields of France and Belgium," she recounts. "A soldier, soon himself to die, wrote a poem which went: In Flanders Fields the poppies blow, between

The General Services Administration has released this architect's drawing of the modernization and expansion being planned for the U.S. Post Office here. Addition of about 4,900 square feet will give the post office about 2½ times as much working space as it now has. Mail box facilities will be enlarged to 1,376 from 692, Postmaster Nolan Grady says, and new lighting and air conditioning will be installed. Cantrell and Company of Amarillo are the architects. Bid letting is scheduled about Dec. 15.

Eight Years Without An Absence

82-Year-Old Max Beach Guards School Crosswalk

By LARRY FUHRMANN
Staff Writer

Near the corner of West Fifth and 25-Mile-Ave. is a bare patch of ground — one which has been worn down by H. M. (Max) Beach, 82, who now has a record of eight consecutive years without missing a day from his work.

For these eight years, he has meticulously stayed at his station every day while school was in session, helping youngsters get across the busy highway.

THE SPRY LITTLE man, who did yard work before assuming his guard duty, has never witnessed an accident at the four-lane crossing. Just guessing, he estimates that he helps over a hundred pupils from Central Elementary School cross the street daily.

His work day starts early at 7:30 a.m. and ends about 4 o'clock every afternoon. He gets his "coffee breaks" between the time school begins in the morning and ends at noon and between the time it starts in the afternoon and ends for the day.

Max, who might be termed as "82 years young," says he likes children. "I get along fine with them," he said. "Yeah, they even holler at me when I see them in town."

TEASING THE youngsters is a favorite pastime, too. "Don't step on that egg!" he said to one little boy who was just stepping off the curb. Taking it literally, the youngster quickly hopped on over a step, missing the egg that wasn't there.

But getting the grade-schoolers across the street is serious work, he believes, especially at a crossing as busy as the one he controls. "The kids never will even think to look for the cars," he explained. "Once I had to grab a little boy his his shirttail to keep him from stepping right out in front of one."

WITH HIS STOP sign he carries in his hand he will shoo the youngsters on across the street when it's clear and hold them against the curb while they wait for the cars to pass. Max will hold up the traffic while he walks the pupils across the street, holding up his bright yellow stop sign.

Max is no newcomer to this area; he has been a resident of Hereford for 40 years and came to Dimmitt in 1890. Some may remember him as a former county tax collector.

He plans to quit his job shortly. "I think I'll try it another year," he said, explaining that he thinks it's about time for him to retire.

"I've worked all my life," he says, "and I have never applied for a pension. As long as I am working I don't need it." He's proud of his record.

Churches Cannot Care For Aging Alone, Warns Rest Home Director

That disparity will remove itself as the next generation appears, the Rev. Davidson asserts.

DAVIDSON, who oversees a two-division campus with about 70 older residents, says "the most important thing for a community is for it to see that its elderly people — especially those that cannot be very active — are not ignored."

A county committee on aging has been organized, he notes, to review the needs here, to foster awareness among children of needy parents and to educate the person facing old age, too many of whom "walk right on down to retirement without any set plans for what they want to do."

Churches cannot carry the load alone, Davidson warns.

"Five per cent of our people are left with nobody but the public to care," he says. "That doesn't sound like much but five per cent of 200 million people is 10 million."

WHAT CAN A community do? Provide hot-meal services (welfare departments sometimes will meet food costs), he suggests. Organize volunteers to do housework at a nominal fee. Set up "game" days and informative lectures. Erect special park facilities. Make transportation and shopping excursions availiable. Arrange medical clinics.

"Most of these elderly people have earned our consideration," Davidson contends. "All of them hunger for some recognition and achievement."

Benefits Of Flood Control Project Must Exceed Costs Of Construction

"How much is a park where the kids can be turned loose worth?" he asked. "We just don't know, but we have got to come up with a figure, and this may nip the whole thing in the bud."

A local government unit with powers of taxation and eminent domain must co-sponsor such a project with a soil and water conservation district. The board of supervisors of the Tierra Blance district will co-sponsor a project only if "the local people decide for themselves that this is the approach they want to take," Newman says.

Similar projects either have been completed or are under way near Spur, Quitaque, Canadian and along Runningwater Draw from north of Clovis to Plainview.

The next step, says Newman, will be an attempt by the water resources committee to establish rapport with a local governing unit.

Self-Help Plan Will Focus On Migrant Worker

Benson commented. "The members of the committee feel that only through teaching these people to help themselves will we accomplish any lasting success in upgrading their standard of living."

SHE EXPLAINED that the "mobile credit union" idea originated with the hope that those it serves will take advantage of its convenience to save money.

Mrs. Benson said she was named chairman of the committee which will head the TCUL's Economic Opportunity Plan partly as a result of her experience with migrant workers in the Hereford area.

Other members of the committee are R. C. Morgan of El Paso, H. T. Sanderson of Corpus Christi, Jack Mitchell of Dallas and Pete Gooch of Fort Worth, who are all associated with credit unions in these cities.

Also serving on the group are James M. Berry, managing director of the TCUL, and David M. Williams, staff liaison of the TCUL.

Spending $10 Billion Nation's Teenage Set

By JOY MILLER
AP Women's Editor

NEW YORK (AP) — "Take care of my own clothes?" the boy repeated the question incredulously. "What are mothers for?"

"Add hand lotion to that list of essential cosmetics," suggested the 18-year-old high school student who was also the mother of a 15-month old son. "If you do dishes, it's a necessity."

Said a lanky youngster with a sigh: "I work and I make money but I don't know where it goes. By the end of the week it's gone."

These were 3 of 20 teen-agers from New York and New Jersey schools, representing a cross-section of ethnic and social groups, who sat around a table at a recent consumer's conference and discussed their habits and shopping preferences.

Youngsters like this are being listened to these days, because the captains of commerce have discovered what great little consumers they are. The nation's 27 million teens spend some $10 billion every year.

At the consumers conference, sponsored by the Advertisnig Women of New York Foundation, the boys and girls were heard by morethan 700 housewives, working women and opinion leaders.

They agreed on some things:

They mostly got around $5 a week allowance, for which at least half did part-time work.

Most of them smoked.

The girls spent most of their money on clothes, cosmetics, cigarettes, gifts for their parents.

The boys spent their money on dates, car upkeep, hanging out at the snack shop.

Their leisure time was spent talking, eating and listening to records, "but mostly eating," one string bean of a lad kept insisting.

Both boys and girls were largely influenced by what their friends wore.

Short skirts were all right on good-looking young girls. "But not anybody old like my mother," one boy volunteered, and then as a disapproving hum rose from the audience he added: "Uh, I mean my grandmother."

There were other places where the women listeners were made aware that a whole generation of ideas and mores separated them from the youngsters around the table.

They frowned in unison as the girls agreed eye makeup was an essential cosmetic, or when one demure child admitted she spent all her money on cigarettes. "but I try to charge them when I can."

They ground their teeth collectively when these candid comments were voiced:

Girl: "I don't like mother's taste, but I always go shopping with her because I get more than if I were just given the money."

Boy: "I stopped shopping with mother three years ago. She's always out for something directly different from what I want."

The women, most of them mothers themselves, nodded approvingly as half of the girls and several of the boys said they saved their mothers the chore of ironing their clothes. But the reasons given by the fastidious males made them recoil:

"I don't like the way my mother creases," explained one.

Another admitted, "I let my mother do the clothes I don't particularly care about if she ruins, but the good stuff I send out."

Heartiest applause greeted the young lady who said: "I don't care how outdated my clothes are, if they still look good on me I'll wear them."

After an hour or so of this the moderator summed up:

"You can't sell these young people anything they don't want — they're not brainwashed."

The audience had a bemused look, but it clapped politely enough.

VANISHING CAKES

BARTOW, Fla. (AP) — Almost everything went fine at the Polk County, Fla., youth fair.

Youngsters who exhibited poultry found themselves harvesting egg dividends each day, due to force of habit on the part of their prolific layers. They sold the eggs for a nickel each to Rotary Club members who were managing the food concessions.

Some of the girls who entered cakes for judging apparently did too tempting a job of baking. Someone — Judges? Pilferers? — made several of the cakes vanish before it was time for the contestants to take them home.

GET EARLY LEAD IN SECOND GAME

'Faces Seek Share Of District Title

Hereford Whitefaces took a 3-0 lead in the first inning of the second game of a doubleheader at Dumas Saturday afternoon in the game which decided the fate of the Herd's District 1-AAA baseball hopes.

The Demons claimed an 8-3 win in the first game of the day.

Dumas and Hereford entered the doubleheader with a 3-all tie for district standings.

THE 'FACES were hoping for a win in the second game, which would force a play-off for the district baseball title. A Hereford loss would grant the Demons the championship.

Last year, Hereford outdistanced the North Plains team but lost in regional competition against Brownfield.

Ed Mims started for Hereford in the first game at Dumas Saturday, but was relieved in the second inning by Larry Minks after Dumas jumped to a 6-0 lead.

HEREFORD brought three runs across in the fourth inning, but Dumas added two runs on pitcher Wayne Harkrider's homer in the fifth inning.

Lupe Ramirez took over the mound from Ranspot in the sixth inning of the first game and started the nightcap tilt.

Hereford capitalized on two singles and a walk in the first to take the three-run lead their first time at bat.

Lefthander Billy McVickers started the second game for the Demons.

Speal Diets Keep Zoo Animals Healthy, Increase Life Span

By JAAN KANGILASKI
Associated Press Writer

CINCINNATI (AP) — BillHoff runs a restaurant for animals.

Hoff runs a lot more as executive directo rof the Cincinnati Zoo. But the restaurant duties are important for keeping such varied creatures as monkeys and tropical birds alive and healthy.

"There was a time when zoo animals were fed horse meat and scraps," Hoff said. "They seldom lived long.

"Nowadays we feed them special diets, diets that were worked out largely through trial and error."

Without the special diets, he said, "wed have a fortune in dead animals on our hands in no time."

Hoff and his helpers are working now on a diet for a three-toed sloth, a sleepy-looking South American animal about the size of a large cat.

The sloth's natural diet is leaves from a type of palm known as an umbrella tree. But these have to be flown in from British Guiana.

The zoo is trying to wean its sloth from the leaves.

"All we can do is put different things in hr cage, together with some of the leaves and hoep whe'll like something," said Emanuel Ledecky-Jamecek, the zoo's assistant cruator.

Changing an animal's diet is standard procedure. Big cats must learn to eat horse meat instead of game — and a duckbill platypus has to learn to like hardboiled eggs in stead of Australian grubs.

Eggs — both raw and boiled — are standard fare on the zoo menu. So are meat, fish, hay, skimmed milk, lettuce, shrimp meal, citrus fruits, carrots, brewers yeast and dried flies.

Rice, oatmeal, baby food and canned fruit cocktail are in the larder, too, along with various sules.

"People don't seem to notice vitamin and mineral shortages very much," Hoff said, "but they affect animals very quickly."

For instance, when he was with a Chicago zoo, three lions go tsick, despite a regular diet of frozen fish. Analysis on one which died discovered a shortage of vitamin B-1 — which is destroyed in freezing the fish.

Zoo administrators now have made a culinary art of inventing food supplements for animals, relying partly on what is known about human needs and partly on trial and error.

"Sometimes we have to trick them," Hoff said.

"Bears, for instance. They're finicky eaters. Thry like to go through their food and pick out only tose things they like."

They don't like vitamin and mineral pills, so the zoo has adapted a sausag emaking machine to grind and blend minerals and meat.

"We run the horse meat through that and put in the vitaplained. "The food comes out a sort of thick puree, bu tit can be made into balls.

To Buy Or Not To Buy --That's The Question

EDITOR'S NOTE: Women usually act confident when they're justifying their home furnishing purchases to husbands or friends. But deep inside they may have a gnawing suspicion they don't know exactly what they're doing. Here is advice on how to give a real basis to self-assurance, from a speech at a consumer conference sponsored by the Advertising Women of New York Foundation, Inc.

By SYLVIA SIMMONS,
Vice President
Assistant to the President
Young And Rubicam, Inc.

Buying home furnishings nowadays is one of the toughest jobs a woman faces.

You may have all the money for your needs. You may know pretty well what you're looking for. You may have read home decorating books and consumer reports, and talked to your friends and gotten advice from your mother-in-law.

It's still tough.

It's still tough because you're buying high-ticket items. Things that cost a lot. And if it's furniture or carpeting or drapes or that cost a lot. And if it's furniing to have to do you for 5 to 10, or 15 years — so you had better be right when you make that purchase. Thus, you start off intimidated by the fear of making a mistake.

It's tough because few of us have that much self-confidence we're sure we're right when we pick a color or a fabric or a style.

The third reason is that the stores make it so difficult for us to make purchases. Salespeople are too often uninformed about the merchandise they're supposed to be selling; and if they do know the answers, they're rarely willing to spend the amount of time necessary to answer the many questions that are justified by an expensive purchase.

What To Do?

So — what can be done to minimize the number of wrong purchases we will make? To make it less painful to shop? To cut down the frustrations — and the returns?

One way is to hire an interior decorator, tell him your budget, and go off to Europe or Florida until the whole job is done. But what he does in your home will not be you. It will be him. Or her.

I'm not saying you shouldn't use a decorator if you feel so inclined you can afford one. But most of us don't use decorators — especially for doing a single room or purchasing one or two items. So let's zero in on what we can do on our own.

First, if you're going to make a long range purchase, DO YOU HOMEWORK.

Before you ever step foot into a store, get cut a pad of paper, and a tape measure. Measure everything in the room or area you're going to furnish.

Measure even the parts of the room not being re-done — it will help you when you get to the store. Sometimes a piece of furniture in the store may seem smaller than it is — until you compare its measurements with those of a piece of furniture you already own.

Dig For Facts

Doing your homework is also digging. Go through all your old stacked up home furnishing magazines. Read not only the articles that apply to what you're about to buy — but also the ads.

Then talk to friends, learn from their experience.

The third part of doing your homework consists of learning to open your eyes and really start to see what's there. We learn not only what we like and don't like — but why we like or dislike. This part of the homework should be a continuous part of every homemaker's life.

You've Got Rights

The second thing you should remember if you are to get what you want in home furnishings, is INSIST ON YOUR RETAIL RIGHTS. Your right to ask questions and have them answered. Your right know all the facts about what you're buying.

If you can't get the information you want from salespersons, ask to see the buyer.

Finally, once you've made your purchases, be sure that you GET WHAT YOU PAID FOR.

Neither the store's responsibility, nor the manufacturer's, ends when you pay your bill.

Write Letters

If the curtains that were touted as "guaranteed washable" come out of the wash looking like your husband's T-shirt, send them back.

If you buy a desk or a dresser and the drawers stick and the store tells you they will ease up — and they don't — write the manufacturer. Here, of course, is the great advantage of buying home furnishings from a known manufacturer — one who is willing to advertise his name and his product. If you don't get what you paid for, you know whom to write to. On unbranded merchandise, you're in trouble.

And let me give you a tip. When you write, don't just write to the company. Write to a person in the company. If it's an advertised product, you can get the names of the people who run the company by looking in a book your neighborhood library has — it's called" The Standard Directory of Advertisers."

Sgt. Leatherman In Germany Exercises

BAUMHOLDER, Germany — (Special) — Army Sgt. Timothy J. Leatherman, son of Mr. and Mrs. James L. Leatherman, 1605 Blevins, Hereford, took part in a river crossing exercise conducted by the 8th Infantry Division in Germany May 9-17.

During the maneuvers Sergeant Letherman received practical training in the skills and procedures necessary to cross water obstacles.

The 22-year-old sergeant, a squad leader with Company A, 1st Battalion of the 13th Infantry near Baumholder, Germany, entered the Army in October 1961, received basic training a Fort Carson, Colo. and was last stationed at Fort Hood, Tex.

He attended San Angelo Central High School.

The Jordan River begins in a sacred grove high on the 9,232-foot Mount Herman on the Syrian-Lebanese border, runs down to Israel's Lake Huleh and on to the Sea of Galilee.

Registration For Crippled Children Clinic Here Saturday Totaled 140

More than 140 children registered at the Community Center Saturday morning to participate in the ninth annual Crippled Children's Clinic, sponsored by the Oasis Shrine Club.

The clinic was in operation between the Community Center and the Hereford Clinic as Shriners shuttled children back and forth. Keeping the youngsters in a lighthearted mood were several clowns of the Khiva Temple.

Co-chairmen of the clinic are Dub Reeves and Palmer Norton. They were aided Saturday by Shriners from the 38-county Khiva Temple jurisdiction. The local Shriners have spent nearly $100,000 on the clinic and follow-up treatment during the eight years.

The day began for the Shriners when they met for breakfast at the Jim Hill Hotel. The clinic began at 8:30 and continued through the day. Hereford Lions Club picked up the tab for the lunch, served from 11:30 to 1:30 in the high school cafeteria.

Treating the children were 12 visiting specialists and medical doctors and optometrists from Friona, Dimmitt and Hereford. Out-of-town doctors here for the event were Dr. Maurice Dyer, pediatrician, Amarillo; Doctor James E. Bertz, oral surgeon, Dallas; Dr. Morris Sanders and Dr. Tom Nash, neurosurgeons, Dallas; Dr. Robert Leachman, pediatric cardiologist, Houston; Dr. Dan Harris, chief of audiology and speech therapy, Veterans Administration Hospital, Dallas; Dr. Don Ryan, Speech and Hearing Clinic, Texas Women's University, Denton; Dr. Lou Paradise, associate professor of orthopedics, Southwestern Medical School, Dallas; Dr. J. Elbert Loveless, Orthopedist, Lubbock; Dr. W. C. Wellman, plastic surgeon, Dallas; Dr. Jerry Miller, head of the department or radiology, Baylor Hospital, Dallas, and Dr. Norman Wright, ear, nose and throat, Amarillo.

AUDITED CIRCULATION ABC

One in a series of messages to advertisers

No myths or mysteries, just the facts

The finest advertising doesn't have a chance unless it is seen or heard. The circulation of an advertisement is vital to its success. And, circulation is people ...not the number of advertisements printed or anticipated or projected.

No advertiser can afford expensive guessing. Positive proof of circulation should be demanded. Vague generalities should be discounted. Charts, formulas, and promises are not readers, and can lead your advertising off sales target.

The actual circulation figures...verified count...of this newspaper are available through the report of the Audit Bureau of Circulations.

Exactly how many units of your advertising are delivered into the hands of paying customers? How much do they pay to see your advertising? Where and how is this advertising being delivered?

This is the type of circulation information that helps keep your advertising and advertising budget aimed in the right direction. No camouflage, just facts and figures.

Insist on circulation proof when you buy advertising – be ABC-sure.

A copy of our latest ABC Report is available on request.

EVENT BEGINS TODAY

Observance Of Soil Stewardship Week To Include Local Sermons

"Challenges of Growth" is the theme for Soil Stewardship Week to be observed in Texas and throughout the nation this week.

"The primary purpose of Soil Stewardship Week," says Charles Hoover, chairman of the Tierra Blanca Soil Conservation District Board of Supervisors, "is to remind everyone — urban and rural resident alike — of his obligation unto God as a steward of the soil."

"Everyone depends on the soil for most of his food and clothing, and much of the material used to build his home" Hoover continued.

THE SOIL Stewardship Week observance will include special sermons in the churches, programs at civic clubs and other gatherings, and tours to see soil conservation on the land.

Hoover explained that local soil and water conservation districts sponsor the observance of Soil Stewardship Week in coordination with the National Association of Soil and Water Conservation Districts.

The National Association has sponsored this observance since 1954. The idea was started 19 years ago when the publishers of Farm and Ranch Magazine inspired religious leaders in several southern states to set aside one Sunday each year to remind their congregations of their responsibility as Stewards of the Soil. The observance was later expanded to one week each year.

"BOOKLETS AND other materials for use by clergymen of all faith during the week's observance are provided by the National Association of Soil and Water Conservation Districts. In plans for the observance and in developing the material, The Association has the help of a Soil Stewardship Advisory Committee composed of representatives of the National Lutheran Council; the National Catholic Rural Life Conference; the Southern Baptist Convention; and the National Council of the Churches of Christ in the U. S." Hoover said.

"Soil Stewardship booklets and inserts were distributed to local ministers at the May meeting of the Hereford Ministers Association," said Hoover.

They will be visiting relatives, the Harlan Barbers and James Bullards. Tommy, son of the James Bullards, is a graduating senior in the class.

Children's Vision Problems

Correct use of the eyes is an acquired skill. Children are not born with it any more than they are born with the ability to walk or talk.

Few children acquire it completely and correctly because they are almost entirely unguided.

They acquire unsound habits more easily and more often than sound ones. The damage that is done, if not detected and treated in time can often only be arrested, not corrected. Furthermore, the eye is not fully grown until some time in the teens. All through the growth period, changes are taking place which may introduce problems.

Most parents probably know that vision problems can interfere with a child's ability to read and learn and to participate in play and games.

Too many of them, though, ignore their children's eyesight until something serious happens.

And very few of them are aware of a much more serious and far-reaching implication. That is, that any serious impairment of the most important of our senses, during the formative years of childhood, is bound to have a harmful influence on the child's whole future personality.

Dr. Arnold Gesell of the Gesell Institute of Child Development has said "Vision is the key to a child's whole personality — and to understand the child, one must know the nature of his vision."

ROPING EVENTS HELD

Junior Rodeo Set By Local Riders

Hereford Riders Club's Junior Rodeo — slated for May 27-29— heads a busy schedule for local riders this month.

Last Sunday several members of the local club earned honors at a Jack-Pot Roping contest here.

Entries from riders aged 19 and under are now being taken for the Junior Rodeo.

TROPHY SADDLES will go to All-Around Cowboy or Cowgirl and trophy buckles will be awarded winners in each of the nine events.

On tap for the three performances are calf roping, ribbon roping, goat tying, barrel racing, pole bending, steer riding, bull riding, bareback riding, and bull dogging.

Entries are being taken at Charlie Hill's Truck Sales, 901 East First St.

PERFORMANCES will be at 8 p.m., May 27-29, in the Hereford Riders Club Arena, which has recently been improved. New metal bucking chutes and other improvements were completed at the arena.

Hereford Riders have staged several roping events recently, the last held on May 16.

DAVID HILL and Harold Beauchamp took the top four-steer average with a time of 80.3 seconds at last Sunday's event. Both are members of the Hereford Riders.

Second place went to Tuffy Thompson of Tulia and Bill Bomar of Clovis with a time of 101.2 Third was Bill Glenn and Glenn Quattlebaum of Amarillo and fourth was Tom Henry of Happy and Tommie Blassingame of Hereford.

A total of 38 teams were entered.

Winning the two-steer average was Jim and Earl Monroe of Hereford, while second in the two-steer event went to Bowie Wesley and Tommie Blasingame, both of Hereford.

Halfway Station To Host Group

HALFWAY (Special) — The High Plains Research Foundation will be the host to 16 top excutives of the British grain, feed, and seed dealers from the United Kingdom Tuesday afternoon.

The group are members of the Institute of Corn and Agriculture Merchants, the leading educational body in the seeds and feed field of the United Kingdom. ICAM provides technical and management training facilities (courses, lectures, conferences, working tours, and also professional trade qualifications by examinations) for some 900 member firms in the U. K.

THE PARTY WILL visit farms, feed, and seed installations, research stations, and other installations in Illinois, Minnesota, Washington, D. C., Pennsylvania, New Jersey, and New York, as well as the High Plains Foundation.

During their stay in the Texas Plains, the party will be the guests of the Grain Sorghum Producers Association, Plainview Grain Exchange, and Paymaster Feed Mills.

IN LUBBOCK PROGRAM

Problem Students Master Skills, Lack Of Interest

By BETTY LINN NOLL
Lubbock Avalanche-Journal Staff Writer

LUBBOCK (AP) — Thomas Oliver, industrial arts teacher at Thompson Junior High School, left the principal's office with a problem to work on.

"Build and teach a course for a group of junior high boys — all considered problems by their teachers — interesting and entertaining enough to keep them in school. Make this one so appealing that these boys will put up with the other six class periods to get to attend your class."

THE ORDER WAS handed down in the spring of 1962. The following fall the first "Blue Collar" class was offered at Thompson.

The Blue Collar program provided the students with a means of making a living when they finished school.

Members of the Blue Collar class are taught the skills of the building trades and through on-the-job experience become skilled craftsmen.

The course now is attracting boys who have no problems with grades, attitudes or home life.

THE PROGRAM was supposed to pay for itself. It didn't.

Oliver says he has invested $3,000 of his own money in equipment for the program. He estimates he has put in approximately 500 hours of his own time. At least three Saturdays of each month, and more often four, go into work with the Blue Collars.

But the success has been noteworthy.

"We know of seven or eight kids who, by their own admission, have stayed in school because of it," said Oliver.

Summer came. Oliver and his Blue Collars had a job building a home in the hills of Oklahoma.

Oliver went to the city jail and paid a $25 fine on a minor charge for a 17-year-old. A 16-year-old was released to Oliver's custody.

THE 16-YEAR-OLD deserted, but the 17-year-old, product of a broken home and with a lengthy police record, put in a full day's work in the hot sun all summer.

The youth returned to Lubbock and now is in high school and no longer is considered a problem.

Oliver says the course is different from industrial arts courses taught in other schools. "Industrial arts is simply a study of increasing the value of industrial materials," said Oliver. "It is not connected with earning a living . . . The Blue Collars are the only outfit that goes outside the school."

The youths gain experience by contracting to repair houses, remodel buildings, lay concrete, paint and do any other type of work that is available. Most of their customers are faculty members.

ON RAINY DAYS, they rebind books for the school, at no cost to the school.

The money received from a project goes into a pot, and they thus finance some weekend trips.

At the end of the year, the remaining money is divided among the youths according to the number of hours they worked.

Oliver says that other teachers say "their grades and attitudes have improved after joining Blue Collars.

"I have never heard one of them say a kid has gotten worse."

Dallas Store Offers Wine Evaluation Course

By JAMES W. MANGAN
Associated Press Writer

DALLAS, Tex. (AP) — "I'd call it more pale gold than an amber, and it has a clean, fruity smell."

"Somewhat soft, with a faint musty odor."

"It has a purple tinge, which means it's young."

The talk — it was about wine — sounded authoritative, but really was strictly experimental. It came from "students" at a Neiman-Marcus wine seminar, designed to acquaint Texans with the finer points of wine consumption.

Seminar leader Victor Wdowiak hastens to assure a questioner that the courses are not intended for nouveau riche showoffs. And it's true that the attendance includes doctors, salesmen, newly-weds and housewives.

Wdowiak, who operates the wine cellar at Neiman-Marcus, explains that Texans have had a certain resistance to foreign influences. Wine, for example, seemed pretty delicate when compared with bourbon and branch water. This resistance began collapsing after Europe became the playground of thousands of Americans, many from Texas.

Now Wdowiak finds interest in wine steadily on the increase in Texas, "and the people really want to learn, they ask good questions."

Each student pays $30 for the privilege of sipping dozens of fine wines — costing from $2 to $35 per bottle — and hearing Wdowiak's lectures.

Sitting at a table covered with a snowy white cloth — necessary as a background for proper evaluations of the color of the wines — each potential wine lover is equipped with seven sparkling glasses. Plates of cheese squares are available to clean the palate between sips. As Wdowiak discourses on the properties of the various wines, a steward makes his unobtrusive rounds, filling or replenishing glasses.

The students sample wines from all of the great producing countries and areas, including California. Although he has reservations about California wines, Wdowiak praises some as superb. He is convinced they are destined to become more and more important.

"The prices of imported French wines are getting out of hand," he says. "We're getting ready to sell more and more California wines. It doesn't make sense to have to spend more for a bottle of wine than the entire dinner costs. The 1964 French prices are ridiculous."

The five-week course invariably delights the customers. "It's so beautifully organized," sighed one matron as she sipped a 17-year-old port.

"You know, you can't teach people to like wine," Wdowiak says, "If you don't like it, there's nothing we can do. But most people who give wine a try will never regret it."

If you like almond flavor, you may add a few drops of almond extract to the syrup from canned peaches and then let the peaches stand in this syrup (in the refrigerator) until serving time.

Plymouth sales in Texas prove it!

TEXANS PICK PLYMOUTH PACE SETTER

'65 Plymouth Sport Fury

When Plymouth was picked as the official pace car for the Indianapolis "500," it didn't surprise many Texans. They picked Plymouth as a style and performance pace setter long ago. And now that the same Sport Fury model is available in showrooms, they're buying them. They like the 5-year/50,000-mile warranty* on the parts that keep you going, too!

*HERE'S HOW PLYMOUTH'S 5-YEAR/50,000-MILE ENGINE AND DRIVE TRAIN WARRANTY PROTECTS YOU: Chrysler Corporation confidently warrants all of the following vital parts of its 1965 cars for 5 years or 50,000 miles, whichever comes first, during which time any such parts that prove defective in material and workmanship will be replaced or repaired at a Chrysler Motors Corporation Authorized Dealer's place of business without charge for such parts or labor: engine block, head and internal parts, intake manifold, water pump, transmission case and internal parts (excepting manual clutch), torque converter, drive shaft, universal joints, rear axle and differential and rear wheel bearings. Required maintenance: The following maintenance services are required under the warranty—change engine oil every 3 months or 4,000 miles, whichever comes first, replace oil filter every second oil change, clean carburetor air filter every 6 months and replace it every 2 years; and every 6 months furnish evidence of this required service to a Chrysler Motors Corporation Authorized Dealer and request him to certify receipt of such evidence and your car's mileage. Simple enough for such important protection.

DRILL SERGEANT — SFC Wallace Walea of Honolulu wears the badge of the drill sergeant ,the campaign hat, as he instructs a platoon of recruits. Walea is one of the first graduates of the drill sergeant school recently started at Ft. Knox, Ky., as the Army returns to the drill sergeant method of training soldiers.

Drill Sergeant Taking Over Committee Training

By JERE MOORE JR.

FT. KNOX, Ky. (UPI) — The Army is going back to its old method of training civilians to be soldiers — having a drill sergeant, wearing the round, peaked campaign hat, give most basic training.

Since mid-World War II, committees have taught recruits, up to 1,000 at a time at a central location. Initially thi s was to save manpower. The instructors give the same class over and over.

"By 1 July, drill sergeants will be giving about two thirds of the basic training," said Brig. Gen. John A. Beall Jr., commander of the U.S. Army Training Center Armor ,an organization of about 12,000 soldiers in various phases of training.

"Similar programs are under way at the other five basic training centers — Fts. Jackson, S. C. , Polk, La., Ord, Calif., Leonard Wood, Mo. ,and Dix, N. J.

Secretary of Army Stephen Ailes ordered the change, among others, after looking at facilities of other services for better training methods.

The aim of the drill sergeant program, Beall said, is to provide individual instruction, "someone who is really interested in the trainee and will help him when he is in trouble and push him when he is lazy.

"When a committee trains 12,000 in eight ceks, the trainee is just a number. But whe nyou have a drill sergeant and a patoon, the sergeant becomes father, mother, older brother, adviser . . . the trainee than becomes an individual."

Capt. Paul Quittrochiocchi, who is in charge of giving basic trainees at Ft. Knox a test of military knowledge and skill required for graduation, said he had noted improvements in training since the drill sergeant program started in August.

"I think the unit with drill sergeants for cadre has a definite advantage," he said.

Committees will continue to operate the rifl erange, infiltratio ncourse and other things that lend themselves to centralized control.

Th einstruction now is split about 50-50 with drill sergeants conducting such training as drill and physical training.

Before he can wear the campaign hat and be a drill sergeant, a noncommissioned officer must complete a six-week school. About 89 per cent of thos entering have graduated, some after taking the course twice. Twenty per cent of the last calss failed.

To get the hat's prestige, some sergeants over 3 9are waiving the age limitation.

The aim of the school is to develop leadership characteristics, make the sergeant technically proficient in courses h emust teach and instll the idea of making immediate corrections of all trainee errors.

The school also seeks to bring out the "command image." Sgt. Charles R. Newhouse, a ninstructor, said, "We bring into the sergeant's mid that he is an NCO standing before a man who may not have seen an NCO before. He provides the foundation for the rest of this man's Army career."

A drill sergeant practically has to get his platoon up, stay with it through the day and tuck iti nto bed at night, while constantly retaking basic training — 14 to 18 hour days are common.

In return, he gets moved around less, has a choice of his next assignemnt nd gains promotion points.

Also, Newhouse said, "The NCO has gained back some prestige he lost since World War II.

STRAIGHT STANDING

SHELBYVILLE, Ky. (UPI)—It was a nip and tuck golf match between W. W. Curtis and Jim Fulton.

As they prepared to tee off at one hole, the pro, Evan Settle, walked up to Curtis' caddy and asked: "How do they stand?"

The caddy, a newcomer to golf threw back his shoulders and replied, "Why, they stands up straight, like this."

COLLECTION SAFE

BUFFALO, Wyo. (UPI)—Marvin Jones, co-owner of a Buffalo bar, has a valuable collection of silver dollars — a complete set of every cartwheel minted, except for an 1895 dollar.

He values it at more than $5,000.

Jones kept the collection in the safe at his bar, but the recent publicity over the silver dollar shortage prompted him to take his collection home for examination one weekend.

A couple nights later, burglars broke into the tavern, wheeled away the safe and fled wtih $400 in cash and $400 to $500 in checks. Jones' silver dollar collection was safe at home.

CORPUS CHRISTI PROGRAM USES FEDERAL FUNDS

Texas Birth Control Project 'Effective'

(Special To The Brand)

CORPUS CHRISTI — This city, the first to be granted Federal war-on-poverty funds to bring birth control to the poor, is adding up the benefits of a private family-planning program that has been operating here for five years. For one thing, a high rate of abortions has begun to fall.

It was recently estimated that 1,000 abortions a year were taking place here. The free ward of Memorial Hospital was treating scores of "poverty-row" women who had become dangerously infected after bungled surgery. Most were married, in their late 20s or early 30s, and already had at least three children and did not want more.

NOW, DOCTORS say, they are seeing a decline in the number of mothers needing emergency treatment after incomplete or unsanitary abortions, performed by midwives or the women themselves. One physician who has performed much of this "repair work" at the hospital, said:

"It hasn't been long since we were getting three or four such cases every day, but I doubt we saw a half-dozen all last month."

At the South Texas Planned Parenthood Center, which is relying largely on oral contraceptives to carry on the birth-control program among "brink of poverty" families, director Polly Abarca reported that her organization had received $8,500 in U. S. anti-poverty money as part of Corpus Christi's total grant of $300,000 to improve health and education among the poor of this city.

A PLANNED Parenthood clinic has been operating here since 1960 with the help of private contributions. The new government money has been spent to establish "satellite clinics" in depressed areas. Located in housing projects and neighborhood centers, the new facilities are expected to reach over 600 new mothers by the end of September.

"This is where there is a terrible need for better health care," said Mrs. Abarca, who is a registered nurse. "Over half the families in the poverty belt here earn less than $50 a week. Their education usually stopped at the fourth grade and they're naturally uninformed.

"We just had a 39-year-old woman who has had 18 children. Neither she nor her husband understood that conception could be planned. He was very happy while we explained various methods of contraception. But when his wife was examined, the doctor found that she was pregnant again. So now she'll have to wait until after her nineteenth."

MRS. ABARCA said that her center had recently seen women with 14 or 15 children whose husbands were earning less than $2,000 a year. As she spoke, a mother of eight volunteered, "If I had known about this ten years ago, I wouldn't have had this many children. I wouldn't give up the ones I have, but I know I wouldn't have had so many."

Most encouraging to Mrs. Abarca is the fact that engaged couples are beginning to visit the center for premarital counseling. "They want to plan their children from the start," she said, "before they're engulfed. We're also beginning to get couples with two and three children instead of with eight and nine."

Also helpful is the donation of services by local doctors. They help, Mrs. Abarca said, because they know that few mothers of poverty-stricken families ever have physical examinations. A number of them are found needing immediate treatment. "For some women," she said, "the family-planning program may be a life-saver."

ENTHUSIASM FOR the program is credited by the nurse to "the pill" — the oral contraceptive which most wives request. "And," she adds, "while it costs the taxpayers $13,000 to educate three children for 12 years, pills for that period cost only $216."

Dr. W. R. Metzger, Director of the Health and Welfare Department, makes the same point about the abortion problem. Last year, when the pill became highly popular at the Planned Parenthood Center, he urged women to seek its services and protect themselves from the dangers of abortion. His advice and the Federal anti-poverty grants are evidently having an effect here in Corpus Christi.

* * *

The younger a woman is at marriage, the more likely she will already be pregnant on the day of her wedding. And the greater the chance that her marriage will end up in a divorce court.

These disturbing conclusions emerge from a study of the records of 1,850 first marriages in a northwestern Ohio county. The study was conducted by Samuel H. Lowrie, Ph. D., emeritus professor of Sociology at Bowling Green (Ohio) State University.

ALMOST A THIRD of the girls who married at age 16 or under were pregnant on their wedding day, Dr. Lowrie found. At age 17, almost one in four were premaritally pregnant. But these proportions fell steadily as the girls' marriage ages rose.

Despite the startling nature of his findings, the sociologist feels that his figures are, if anything, conservative because he excluded from the premarital-pregnancy category all brides whose babies were born at least seven months after marriage. Almost a third of the babies born to those 16 and younger, and almost a sixth of those born to 17-year-olds, fell into this class. Some were premature, of course, but others were undoubtedly conceived before the wedding day.

Dr. Lowrie calls his findings "unpleasant" but feels they should be faced. "Leadership is needed," he told the Information Center on Population Problems, "for realistic consideration of this problem. Marriage counselors, ministers, doctors, parents — indeed the whole community — should seek ways to educate young people with the hope of modifying behavior.

"CLEARLY SOME individuals — a section of the community — hold values that hinder premarital pregnancy while others are much more frequently involved in actions that lead to premarital pregnancy and hasty marriage. Whatever can be done to promote standards and individual conviction that will reduce unwanted pregnancy and hasty marriages deserves whole-hearted, wide-spread community support."

When Dr. Lowrie set out to find factors that might have influenced the high rate of out-of-wedlock conceptions, he turned up some expectable facts, but some surprising ones, too:

— The parents of the brides were educationally of lower status than those of the grooms.

— Premarital conceptions were slightly more common among Protestants than Catholics. Protestants tended to become pregnant several months before marriage; Catholics shortly before their wedding day. Therefore more of the babies born to Catholic couples appeared in the "possibly premature" category.

— WHEN DR. LOWRIE studied the divorce rate among brides pregnant at the altar, he found that youth again was highly significant. Only 1 to 401 girls 21 and over were involved in divorce actions within four years of marrying. But among girls under 21, the ratio soared to 1 in 18 marriages. Pregnant teenage brides were therefore 22 times more likely cnadidates for hasty divorce.

—Among pregnant girls who left their home towns to marry, the divorce rate skyrocketed. Despite difficulties in checking records in other areas, Dr. Lowrie discovered, the age at which premaritally pregnant brides began dating had little bearing on their early conceptions. When he queried the wives after checking their records, he found that the mean age at which dating began was 14.9 years. Among wives not pregnant at marriage, the age was 15.1.

If a generalization can be made, the sociologist reports, an unhappy home life is more likely to result in a pregnant bride at the altar than will a home in which love and warmth abound and in which ethical standards have been discussed.

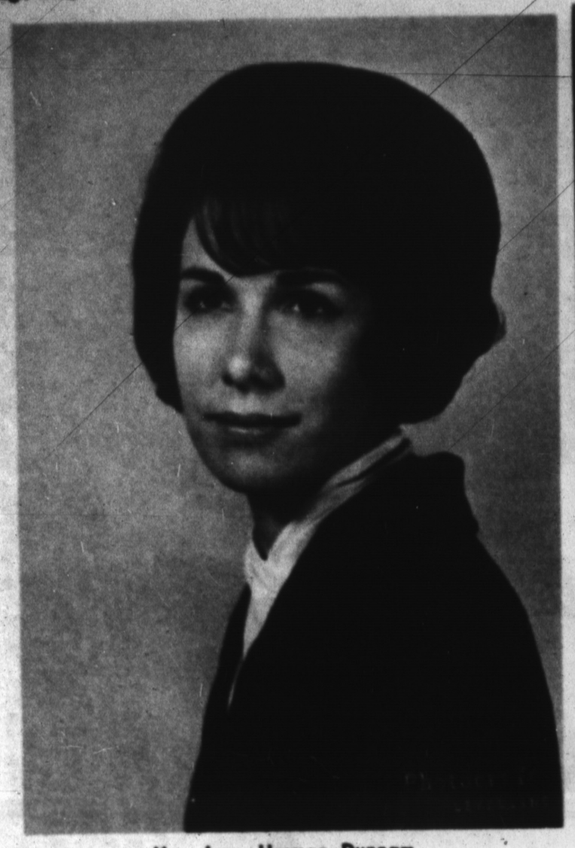
The Senior Party lasted all night. Helen Davis and I were sleepy when this was taken at 5:00 o'clock the next morning.



Mrs. Jerry Herman Dunnam
. . . nee Miss Sharon Ann Bezner

Miss Bezner Wed Here To Live In Hawaii

Miss Sharon Ann Bezner and Jerry Herman Dunnam exchanged marriage vows May 9th in the St. Anthony's Catholic Church of Hereford with the double ring ceremony being read by Father Cletus McGorey, S. A. with friends and relatives of the couple attending.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Bezner Sr., Route 1, and the bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Dunnam of Eunice, New Mexico.

Miss Joyce Bezner, sister of the bride, attended her as maid of honor and Carl Emerson, friend of the bridegroom, served him as best man.

Tommy Bezner, brother of the bride, and Franky Bezner, cousin of the bride, were servers.

Ushers were Jody Bezner, brother of the bride, and Kenton Norp, friend of the groom. Mrs. Jim Cramer played the traditional wedding music at the organ during the informal ceremony.

Miss Paula Wimberly and Miss Lynda May, college friends of the bride, served the wedding cake and punch during the reception in the St. Anthony's cafeteria.

The bride is a graduate of Hereford High School and is presently a junior at W. T. S. U. where she is an art major. The bridegroom is a graduate from W. T. S. U. where he majored in geology. He is now serving with the United States Armed Forces and stationed in Hawaii.

Following a short honeymoon trip to points in New Mexico the bridegroom returned to Hawaii where he is stationed. The bride will join her husband in Hawaii following completion of this semester at school.

Mrs. Jody Bezner, sister-in-law of the bride, presided at the guest register. Out of town guests for the wedding included Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Dunnam and Mr. and Mrs. Carl Emerson of Eunice, N.M.; Mr. and Mrs. Kenton Norp, Canyon; Mr. and Mrs. Scott Henington, Albequerque; Mr. and Mrs. Sam Baird, Pam and Eric of Sweetwater; Mr. and Mrs. Earl Plank, Montivista, Colo.; Mr. and Mrs. Leo Bezner, Bushland; Mr. and Mrs. Lanny Bezner, Lubbock; Mr. and Mrs. John Laker, Friona; Mr. and Mrs. Jody Bezner, Texline; Miss Paula Wimberley, Tulia; Miss Lynda May, Tulia; Miss Twila Whitford, Earth; and Larry Smith, Farwell.

Committees Named For Xi Epsilon Alpha

New committees were announced at the Tuesday meeting of the Xi Epsilon Alpha Chapter of the Beta Sigma Phi Sorority when they met in the Community Center.

With Mrs. Howard Gore as the presiding officer, the state sorority project of the Children's Medical Center in Dallas was adopted. The area convention date was set for October 16th and 17th to be in Hereford.

Hostesses for this meeting were Mrs. Cletis Corlis and Mrs. Bob Brotherton and others attending were Mrs. Don Bougous, Mrs. Delbert Bainum, Mrs. Max Stipe, Mrs. Chuck Laing, Mrs. Harold Beauchamp, Mrs. Hicks Roberson, Mrs. Jo Miller, Mrs. C. C. Williams, Mrs. Jack Bailey, Mrs. Van Nichols, Mrs. Charles Bell, Mrs. Howard Gore and Mrs. Irving Alexander.

LET'S COOK SOMETHING

Tea Cakes From Ceylon

By CECILY BROWNSTONE
Associated Press Food Editor

WHEN A cooking friend of ours came upon a Ceylonese cook book, she found an interesting recipe for tea cakes and promptly adapted the rule for American use.

Here's her version. Ceylonese or not, it reminded us (and other tasters at our house) of some of the cookies that are sold in Italian bakery shops in New York.

We think these tea cakes are great for dunking in tea. To make delicious tea for this rite, be sure to rinse the teapot with boiling water so as to preheat it. Use a teaspoonful of loose tea for each cup and one for the pot; allow five minutes for brewing time. If some of your tasters want very weak tea, just dilute their portions of the brew with boiling water.

CEYLONESE TOASTED TEA CAKES

6 large egg yolks
1-½ cups sugar
1 teaspoon grated lemon or lime rind
3 large egg whites
1-½ cups instant-type flour

Beat egg yolks until lemon colored; gradually beat in sugar. Stir in lemon rind. With the clean beater, beat egg whites until they hold stiff straight peaks; fold into yolk mixture. Gradually fold in flour. Turn into a baking pan (13 by 9 inches) that has been greased and lined on the bottom with wax paper. Bake in a moderate (375 degrees) oven for about 20 minutes, or until edges are just beginning to turn golden brown. Turn out on a rack; remove paper; cool. Cut into three lengthwise strips; cut each strip into 12 crosswise slices. Place slices on a cookie sheet; toast in a moderate (375 degrees) oven until lightly colored — about 15 minutes. Cool on a wire rack. Makes 3 dozen. (The surface of the tea cakes will be meringue like; expect some cracking.)

FAMILY SUPPER

Skillet Lamb Stew with Potatoes, Carrots, Onions and Celery
Big Whole Wheat Biscuits Salad
Fruit Jelly Beverage

BIG WHOLE WHEAT BISCUITS

1½ cups flour
4 teaspoons baking powder
¾ teaspoon salt
½ cup dry milk solids
½ cup stoneground whole wheat flour
½ cup vegetable shortening
¾ cup (about) cold water

In a medium mixing bowl, stir together thoroughly the flour, baking powder, salt and milk solids; stir in whole wheat flour. With a pastry blender, cut in shortening until particles are fine. Gradually stir in enough water to make a soft dough. With a prepared pastry cloth and stockinet-covered rolling pin, roll out about ½-inch thick. With a round cutter (about 3 inches) cut out biscuits. Place a few inches apart on an ungreased baking sheet and bake in a very hot (450 degrees) oven until baked through and lightly browned — 12 to 15 minutes. Makes 10 to 12.

LADIES LUNCH

Get tired of the same old salads? This one is a little different.

Sliced Cold Meat Potato Puffs
Gdeen Bean & Mushroom Salad
Strawberry Shortcake Beverage

GREEN BEAN AND MUSHROOM SALAD

1 can (1 pound) cut green beans
1 can (6 ounces) sliced mushrooms
½ teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon pepper
½ teaspoon sugar
3 or 4 tablespoons olive oil
2 tablespoons tarragon vinegar

Turn beans and mushrooms into a strainer to drain thoroughly. In a shallow container with a fork, beat together the salt, pepper, sugar, oil and vinegar; mix in drained beans and mushrooms. Cover tightly and chill for 1 hour or longer to allow flavors to blend. If oil congeals, allow to stand at room temperature for a brief time before serving on salad greens. Makes 4 to 6 servings.

EVENING PARTY

New Roquefort Spread Crackers
Deviled Eggs
Vegetable Munches
Chocolate Squares Beverage

NEW ROQUEFORT SPREAD

½ pound Roquefort
(package 8 ounces) Neufchatel cheese
3 tablespoons cognac

Allow cheese to stand at room temperature until it is very soft. Force the Roquefort through a fine strainer into a mixing bowl. Add the Neufchatel; beat together with a spoon to blend; beat in the cognac, 1 teaspoon at a time. Refrigerate in a tightly covered jar for several days to allow flavors to blend before using. Makes about 1 pint. Refrigerate any leftover spread and it will keep for weeks.

SWIM SESSIONS PLANNED

The Red Cross is making plans for their summer swimming program and is greatly in need of Instructor's Aides.

Anyone wishing to help with one or more sessions is welcome.

Special meetings are planned for Tuesday and Thursday from 10 a.m. to noon at Greenacres Pool. Anyone interested is invited to attend.

For further information concerning the swim sessions or for those interested in assisting with the program, Mrs. C. E. Rush may be contacted at EM 4-1603 or Mrs. Bruce Miller at EM 4-2554.

Rene Batard Is Homemakers' Guest Speaker

Rene Batard, foreign exchange student from France, was the guest speaker for the Young Homemakers of Texas when they met in the Hereford High Home Ec. Lab. Tuesday.

For his program he gave an account of the French family and housewife as compared to the American family. A question and answer session followed his talk.

Mrs. Layton Sawyer was the program chairman and Mrs. Howard Hunter conducted the business meeting when members were reminded of the forthcoming "Homemakers College" to be at Wayland College in Plainview June 27th through 29th.

Mrs. Truman Price was the hostess for this meeting and visitors attending were Mrs. Dean Stallings, Mrs. Charles Meyers and Mrs. Jim Wood.

Members present were Mrs. Howard Hunter, Mrs. Clark Andrews, Mrs. Ray Gerk, Mrs. Larry Dobbs, Mrs. David Brumley, Mrs. Kenneth De Hart, Mrs. Jess Robinson, Mrs. James Dobbs, Mrs. Truman Price, Mrs. Layton Sawyer, Mrs. George Zetsche, and advisors, Mrs. Joe Bradley and Mrs. J. J. Durham.

Shower-Tea Honors Mrs. Clark, Recent Bride

Mrs. Bill Clark, the former Miss Clydene Allred, was honoree at a shower-tea May 7th in the home of Mrs. Lynn Kester on South Main.

Greeting the guests in the receiving line were Mrs. Lynn Kester, Mrs. Clark, the honoree; Mrs. Jimmie Allred, mother of the bride; and Miss Joyce West, who served as maid of honor for the wedding.

Miss Camelia Anderson presided at the guest register when approximately 60 guests called between the hours of 7:30 and 9 p.m. Decorating this table was a large satin bow surrounding the blue garter which the bride had borrowed for her wedding.

The serving table was laid with a white appliqued organdy cloth and at one side was an arrangement of yellow roses and white stock in a tall cherub container. A like arrangement was to the other side of the table and flanked with silver candelabra holding white tapers.

The arrangement was tied together with leather leaf fern. Other table appointments were in silver. Mrs. Charles Holt and Mrs. John Beasley served the cake and punch.

Mrs. Florence Hogg, grandmother of the bride arrived from Claude for the occasion. Hostesses were Mrs. Barrett Sowell, Mrs. Delbert Kinsey, Mrs. Owen Stagner, Mrs. Tandy Legg, Mrs. Lynn Kester, Mrs. Otis Lee, Mrs. Marlin Gililland, Mrs. Bernard Roberson, Mrs. J. Wm. Witherspoon, Mrs. Fritz Chrisman, Mrs. Roy Calvert, Mrs. Cecil Oglesby, Mrs. Cecil Boyer, Mrs. L. E. Miss Davis, Bennie Scott Exchange Wedding Vows

Miss Mollie Ellen Davis became the bride of Bennie George Scott at 6 p.m. Saturday with the double ring ceremony being performed by the Rev. Ron Harpster in the Avenue Baptist Church.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harley Earl Davis, 709 Grand, and the bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Joe M. Scott, Dimmitt, Texas.

For the wedding the church altar was decorated with baskets of gladioli and blue pompoms and two candelabra arrangements were entwined with greenery and held blue tapers. Gustian Eddie Davis, brother of the bride, served as candle lighter.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride chose a floor-length wedding gown of white peau sheau which featured a scooped neckline accented with a fitted bodice, and fitted wrist length sleeves. Her semi-full skirt was accented with brocade work of apple-blossoms and scallops. Accenting the waist at the back was a satin bow with streamers which fell gracefully to floor length.

Her elbow length veil was of material matching her wedding dress and was handmade by the mother of the bride. It fell from a pill-box head piece and was highlighted with seed pearls and drop pearls. Her only jewelry was a single silver cross which was a gift from her sister.

She carried a cascade bouquet of white carnations entwined with ice blue satin ribbon atop her white bible which was also a gift.

Attending the bride as matron of honor was Mrs. Jimmie Collier of Hereford and Mrs. Don Middleton of Happy was the bridesmaid. Both are sisters of the bride.

Their two piece ice blue peausheau dresses were accented with matching shoes and their headpieces were of material to match the dresses and accented with short veils. They each carried nosegay bouquets of white carnations entwined with ice-blue satin ribbon.

Rochelle Davis, the younger sister of the bride, served as flower girl and wore white organza and white patent leather shoes. For her head piece she wore a white ruffled hat and she carried a matching ruffled purse from which she tossed petals for the path of the bride.

Serving the bridegroom as best man was Eddie Waggoner of Dimmitt and groomsman was Don Ed Middleton of Happy. Ushers were Robert Dobbins of Dimmitt and Edgar Vinson of Hereford, both cousins of the bridegroom.

Special wedding music was "Because" and "The Wedding Prayer" and Mrs. Truman Touchstone of Dimmitt was the soloist with Mrs. Keith Howard of Dimmitt at the organ.

For her daughter's wedding, Mrs. Davis selected light blue lace dress and wore white accessories. The mother of the bridegroom wore a beige lace dress accented with pink accessories.

For the reception in the church which immediately followed the ceremony, the table was laid with white linen and appointments were in crystal and silver. The three tiered wedding cake was decorated with white roses and scallops and was topped with a cluster of blue sugar bells.

Centering the table was an arrangement of white carnations and blue pom-poms. Mrs. A. W. Self and Miss Ruth Davis served the guests for the reception. Miss Helen Davis, cousin of the bride, received the guests.

For their wedding trip the couple chose to visit points in New Mexico. The bride selected a two piece double knit costume of aqua and wore beige accessories. Her corsage was lifted from the bridal bouquet to complete the ensemble.

Following their wedding trip the couple will make their home at 704 S. W. Street in Dimmitt where the bridegroom is engaged in farming.

The bride graduated from Hereford High School in 1961 and her husband is a 1965 graduate of Texas Tech where he majored in animal husbandry.

Our 'Graduating Parents' Deserve Honorable Mention

Graduation time is here once again and, as we join other well-wishers in expressing congratulations to the 185 outstanding young men and women of the 1965 class, let us also pause a moment to express some appreciation to the parents of these youngsters as well.

During the past quarter of a century, a high school diploma has become a necessity, rather than a luxury; no longer a passport to success, the high school diploma today is merely the first of several tickets required at the turnstiles along the road of achievement. Let us also point out that it is not always easy to secure the high school diploma in these mid-1960's, when we hear so much about "drop-outs", about delinquents, and about the lack of interest on the part of students.

Mom and Pop, often to the student "a couple of old fogies", have also found things pretty tough as "Johnny" and "Mary" moved along toward the goal of high school graduation. Newfangled school fees, stiffer taxes, and "keeping up with the Joneses" are only a few of the pitfalls they must face over the four-year curriculum. Mostly, though, it takes plenty of enthusiasm, serious understanding, and quite a bit of nagging to get a boy or girl through high school these days.

The average parent is also confronted with problems unheard of a few years back; "going steady" is one of foremost rank; providing a second or third automobile is another, and for good measure we have little things like special trips with the band or choral club. All of these things cost money, plus a fairly liberal budget for clothing and extra-curricular supplies; meanwhile the parent, as always, is still faced with the problem of "keeping the wolf from the door". The old-fashioned slate has been replaced with special notebooks, standardized theme paper, special type pens and pencils, slide rules — and once in awhile even a sewing machine or typewriter. Mostly, though, it seems that the primary problems of the parent centers more around mental and psychological problems than money, which is pretty well the trend of the times in the United States today.

The state says that we owe every boy and girl a high school education in 1965, and we believe that most parents are inclined to feel the same responsibility with their children, regardless of what it takes to accomplish the goal. To some students who desire to continue their education, the task will be easy while others may find it difficult. We sincerely doubt, however, that any ambitious, interested youngster who has done his best through high school cannot, these days, someway pursue his education to higher standards. In both instances, this phase definitely becomes a matter of choice and ambition with the student, rather than a state or family obligation.

For these reasons, The Brand expresses joint congratulations to the entire family of each of the 1965 graduates and, while we detract nothing from the personal achievement, it appears to us that high school graduation, especially these days, is achieved only as a matter of family effort with sacrifice on the part of all concerned.

Interest Grows In Area Culture

Music and gardening have long been two important phases of cultural development in Hereford and its surrounding area. More recently, we note with interest that ceramics and art are demanding more and more attention, including some outstanding local achievement in both fields.

Needless to say, growth along this line is indeed a welcome addition to cultural atmosphere of the area, and we predict even greater expansion in these fields in the years to come. The achievements result partially from population growth and, possibly more extensively, from community age and development. Seldom do we pause to compare the history of our territory with that of the North and East, which date back to the organization and founding of our nation.

Household gadgets, packaged foods, shorter work weeks and extensive improvements in the expansion of education to the general public are creating new ambitions, along with adding more spare time for most people. These new cultures will no doubt help fill an important niche in many lives, and certainly they will contribute new understanding and enjoyment for hundreds of local residents.

Bluebonnets Do Prove The Point

Lo, these many years, we have contended that Texans will someday exercise their constitutional prerogative and cut the Lone Star state into five (or fewer) separate states, similar to North Carolina and South Carolina, Virginia and West Virginia. The big question, of course, is who gets the Alamo?

But Alamo or no Alamo, we find living proof of this contention in the fact that Gov. John Connally recently sent us a free package of Bluebonnet seeds with the following instructions:

"Plant now. Today, you plant the seeds symbolic of a rich and bountiful heritage to reap the bright new blossoms of tomorrow's future."

The big trouble is that bluebonnets just plain won't grow in this area, according to all of the green thumb experts. In fact, they do not respond very well even in flower boxes — and our cold weather eliminates them annually. Despite this situation, the bluebonnet remains Texas' state flower: a symbol of Texas unity. Dandelions, on the other hand, seem to flourish all over our part of the country.

If we do not choose to organize our own West Texas, with the dandelion as the state flower and the English sparrow as the state bird, we should at least send samples of our own flora and fuana to Gov. Connally with a request that Texas consider altering its present state symbols to fit the second largest state's entire territory.

Or, better still, they could put up signs in the tax office pointing out that we do not fit into the scheme of things and, consequently, they are remitting our state taxes.

Central Exhibit Of Area Industry

While Deaf Smith county is basically an agricultural territory, it is also adding considerable industry along the way, and we notice several communities which are supporting this type of development with downtown displays.

Generally, products are displayed in a central location, along with cards which relate information centering around payrolls, local materials consumed, and other pertinent information. Some towns even maintain an attendant to answer questions and supply facts.

Oddly enough, reports from these towns indicate that more local people visit the displays than do strangers — and invariably most of them express surprise at the amount of industrialization which exists in the community.

Such a project should not be too expensive and, it seems to us, might well prove educational as well as interesting. Anyway, it is something to think about in Hereford's growth.

ROGERS IS OPPOSED

Texans Disagree Over Succession Amendment

By TEX EASLEY

WASHINGTON (AP) — The proposed constitutional amendment relating to presidential succession will stir up debate in Texas if the conflicting views of the state's members of Congress are any indication.

The proposal passed the Senate Feb. 19 by a voice vote. It passed the House by a lopsided 367-29 vote April 13. Four of the opposing votes in the House were cast by Texans.

Differences in the versions of the bill as passed by the Senate and House forced a conference of the two houses.

WHEN FINALLY approved the next stopping point is the General Services Administration. The GSA sends certified copies of the proposal to governors. Then ratification by three-fourths of the states (38 actually) will be necessary to put it into effect.

The proposed amendment provides that if a president dies the vice president, upon succeeding to the office, would nominate a new vice president subject to confirmation by the House and Senate. The speaker of the House would continue to be next in line for the presidency after the vice president.

If a president became unable to carry on the duties of his office, and realized this, he would notify Congress and the vice president would take over as acting president.

IF AT ANY time the vice-president and a majority of the Cabinet transmit to Congress a declaration that the president is disabled, then the vice president immediately assumes the powers of the presidency. He continues to exercise these powers until the president sends a message to Congress declaring no disability exists — unless the vice president and a majority of Cabinet challenge him. Congress then by majority vote decides.

Reps. W. R. (Bob) Poage of Waco voiced the opinion of most of his colleagues as to need for clearing up the present presidential succession procedure, saying:

"Our present constitution does leave many questions in doubt. For instance, should the president become at least partially incapacitated (possibly by stroke), who will make the decision that he is 'unable to perform the duties of his office?"

"THIS MAY SEEM rather immaterial, but many governments have been completely wrecked over just such questions of succession."

Rep. Walter Rogers of Pampa, one of the four who voted against the measure, said:

"I have great hesitancy in tampering with the Constitution. I have said many times and I repeat that this document, although struck by the hand of man, was undoubtedly the work of God.

"Unless there is clear justification beyond any reasonable doubt for tampering with this document, it should not be amended. In the present cast, the Congress is playing with political dynamite.

"The present presidential line of succession is, in my opinion, completely sound."

After recalling the present steps in succession, moving from the Speaker to the President Pro Tempore of the Senate, and then into the non-elected Cabinet members, Rogers said:

"IF WE IN THIS country change this and amend the Constitution as proposed in the Resolution adopted by the House of Representatives, we could very

Class Of '40 Receives Diplomas, Despite Dust

25 YEARS AGO

Fifty-one Hereford High School seniors will receive diplomas in the 35th annual commencement exercises of the school, Supt. Knox Kinard has announced. The graduating class of 1940 has a record number of students. In another announcement, Supt. Kianrd said that full protective measures are being taken and that everything will be in readiness for the Commencement service in the high school auditorium. Plaster which fell from the ceiling over the balcony Sunday night during baccalaureate services injured no one as the balcony was not in use.

If Hereford's population shows a substantial gain in the 1940 census over the 1930 figures, this town will be among a comparative few in the Panhandle to do so. No comparative figures on towns in this district have been released but over in the Pampa census district 26 out of 31 towns showed losses. Borger, Canadian, Gruver and Matador showed gains, as did Pampa.

10 YEARS AGO

Eighty-nine seniors comprised Hereford High School's graduating class of 1955 which received diplomas here. Ginger Brock was valedictorian and Pickens Moore, salutatorian. Commencement exercises for 155 Stanton Junior School graduates was held earlier in the week. Valedictorian of the Stanton class was Reed Green. William Ponder was salutatorian.

Hundreds of pioneers attended the annual Pioneer Day celebration held in Hereford Friday. The men and women who acted out the county's early day history, watched the rodeo parade, elected officers, enjoyed a basket lunch on the courthouse alwn, and talked over old times.

The Manpower Development Training Act school moved closer to its fina lstages this week when the Littlefield School district and the Texas Employment Commission decided on tracts of land and proposed buildings to house the students. A prepared budget has been forwarded outlining the cost of the project of approximately $22,000 to the government and state. The school, designed to teach farmhands how to drive and service tractors and other farm implements as well as irrigation practices, will be located on an 86-acre tract of farmland.

Indications this weekend pointed to the completion of the Canadian River Dam, now known as the structure which will impound Lake Meredith, within the next two weeks to 30 days. At the same time, recent rains are surging into the reservoir, swelling it at a rapid pace. But engineers say it may be as long as two to three years before water reaches conservation pool level.

THE BOOTLEG ——Philosopher

Editor's note: The Bootleg Philosopher on his Bindweed farm gets involved with figures this week.

Dear editar:

I understand some colleges specializing in agriculture around the country are now offering a new service to farmers.

They've installed big computer machines and if a farmer will send in his records the machines will digest the information and in 30 seconds or so tell him what he's doing wrong.

This may be fine for bachelor farmers, but farmers with wives don't need a machine to tell them what they're doing wrong.

However what I started out to say this week before I got sidetracked — as you can see I operate on the same level as the statesmen do on foreign polciy, you don't plan what you're going to do, you wait till something busts loose and then react the best you can — is that I have developed a plan for simplifying figures covering such things as the national budget, the national debt, etc.

As everybody knows, the figures have become unmanageable and frightening. For example, when the President says the budget this year will be right at $100,000,000,000, or spelled out, one hundred billion dollars, the amount is ungraspable. You can't get hold of it. It's too wide to go through your brain broadside, and if you let it in lengthwise part of it's out before the other's in.

What Washington ought to do is come on in to the last half of the 20th century, the space age, the debt age. Washington ought to throw out the term billion and take up the trillion.

As I understand it, a trillion dollars is $1,000,000,000 (don't stop yet, 3 more to go), 000, or a 1 with 12 zeroes after it.

Put in these terms, the national budget this year is not quite one-tenth of a trillion. Say it over. A tenth of a trillion? Why, that sounds paltry. Like a tenth of a dollar. Like half a loaf.

In the years ahead, as we extend our rockets in space and our soldiers on earth, whoever is President can go before Congress and say our budget this year will come to only two-tenths of a trillion dollars, and we can all get some sleep.

Yours faithfully,
J. A.

Valeda Study Has Installation Dinner Meeting

Mrs. Hugh Clearman was the installing officer for the installation dinner of the Valeda Study Club when they met Tuesday at the La Cafe Hacienda.

For the installation the president, Mrs. Clearman, presented each of the officers with a key, which she said symbolized the key to success in her particular office and instructed them each as to the duties she should perform as an officer.

Installed were Mrs. J. R. Oglesby, president; Mrs. Glenn Watts, vice-president; Mrs. Joe Frank Clark, recording secretary and reporter; Mrs. George Ritter, treasurer; Mrs. Gene Parsley, corresponding secretary; Mrs. Robert Willmot, historian; and Mrs. Hugh Clearman, parliamentarian.

This was the final meeting for the club year with the exception of a coffee slated for July 13th with the yearbook committee presenting an outline of next year's programs.

Mrs. L. J. Clark was the hostess for this meeting and others attending were Mrs. Dale Barkley, Mrs. Bill Bradly, Mrs. Gid Brownd, Mrs. Joe Frank Clark, Mrs. L. J. Clark, Mrs. Hugh Clearman, Mrs. Charles Hoover, Mrs. J. R. Oglesby, Mrs. George Olson, Mrs. George Ritter, Mrs. Robert Strain, Mrs. Robert Willmot, Mrs. Glenn Watts and Mrs. Gene Parsley.

TO RECEIVE DEGREE

Shari Delania Prowell of Hereford, will receive a bachelor of science degree May 31 in commencement exercises at Hardin-Simmons University, Abilene. Exercises will be at 10 a.m. and the speaker will be Dr. Robert A. Hingson, professor of anesthesiology at Western Reserve University College of Medicine, Cleveland.

Progressive HD Club Celebrates Birthdays

Birthdays during the month of May were celebrated at the Tuesday meeting of the Progressive Home Demonstration Club when they met in the Community Room of the First National Bank.

The birthday cake was made by Mrs. W. C. Beene however she was not able to attend. Birthday's celebrated were Mrs. Taft McGee, Mrs. P. L. Carmichael, Mrs. J. D. Gilbert and Mrs. H. L. Hershey.

Mrs. J. D. Gilbert was the presiding officer and it was announced that the next meeting was slated for June 1st. Mrs. Dale Hallows was the program chairman and the speaker was Mrs. Floyd McGee with a program on "Keeping America Beautiful".

Mrs. McGee said the creation of beauty is a happy experience. The problem of juvenile delinquency and mental health are fed by ugliness and a school in one area has an educational program in planting of trees, shrubs and flowers. The children were taught the names of the flowers and the shrubs, also how to tend them which resulted in very little vandalism involving the flowers and shrubs.

The opening exercise was given by Mrs. P. L. Carmichael and she read an article entitled, "Believe in Yourself". Mrs. Beene was the hostess for this meeing and others attending were Mrs. Carmichael, Mrs. T. J. Parsons, Mrs. Taft McGee, Mrs. Floyd McGee, Mrs. J. D. Gilbert and Mrs. H. L. Hershey.

Rep. Eligio (Kika) de la Garza of Mission, on the other hand, said:

"The amendment will plug up a dangerous hole in our governmental system."

Besides Rogers, the other Texans voting against the proposal were Reps. Wright Patman, Texarkana; Henry Gonzalez, San Antonio; and Richard White, El Paso.

PLANS JUNE WEDDING — Mr. and Mrs. Dalton Keeth, 131 Emma Street, have announced the engagement and forthcoming marriage of their daughter, Miss Janet Elizabeth Keeth, to James Eugene Sutter, son of Mr. and Mrs. D. A. Sutter, 419 Avenue G. The father of the bride-elect will officiate for the wedding which will be June 18th in the First Methodist Church. Miss Keeth was graduated from Hereford High School Friday, and is employed at Helen's Youth Shop. Sutter graduated from Lampasas High School and is a student at Texas Tech.

REPORT

Blue Bird Day Camp will be three days this year beginning on Thursday, with registration and a "Get Acquainted" program, from 2 to 4 p.m. at the Camp Fire Hut. The Tan Da Horizon Club members with their advisor, Mrs. Bill Cargo, will be in charge of the camping program. They will be assisted by Blue Bird leaders and mothers.

On Friday the session will start at 9 a.m. with Flag Raising ceremonies at the Hut. Activities will take place at Dameron Park.

Each girl should bring a sack lunch for the noon meal, a large towel or small blanket, to be used during rest period, marked with her name. The drinks will be furnished.

Parents should plan to pick up the girls at 4 p.m. Friday at Dameron Park.

Saturday the flag raising ceremony will be at 9 a.m. at the Hut. Camp activities will be from 9:15 to 11 a.m. at the Hut and the park. The girls will hike to the Jaycee Park, on south Main street, for a cookout at noon. This meal will be furnished by the day camp.

Parents are invited to a Camp Fire Ceremonial on Saturday at 3 p.m. to close the day camp. All girls should be picked up by parents at 4 p.m. at the park.

A charge of $1 should be paid at the time of registration on Thursday. This will take care of refreshments and handcraft for the three days.

All girls registered as Blue Birds for 1964-65 may attend.

Pull the Gehl 72 Flail Chopper along side any other make. Feature for feature — round after round — the "72" proves its right to be the leader. Here's why:

Unitized fan blades and knives give exclusive cut-and-throw action. Crops don't thresh around. They're in, cut, then blown to the farthest wagon corner.

New Easy-Swing drawbar adjusts right from the tractor seat. No wrenches needed. Just pull the rope control to change chopper pulling positions for easy maneuvering in tight places.

Flails are reversible . . . give full 6-ft. cut. The 39 interchangeable flails are mounted in gangs and easy to switch. They're double-edged for double chopping life.

Powered double chopping. After the crop is flail-cut, it's augered directly to the unitized fan and knives. Here forage is cut again against an adjustable shear bar. Lets you cut as fast and short as needed.

These features — and many more — make the Gehl 72 the best flail chopper you can buy.

More than a century of service — GEHL
