G. T. & W. INTERVENES IN ARDMORE-LUBBOCK PLEAPERMIT GIVEN
TODAY BY I. C. C.
FOR PROPOSALMEETING AT VERNON IS TO DISCUSS PLANS
OF NEW LINE

WASHINGTON, Aug. 31.—The Gulf, Texas and Western railroad was authorized today by the Interstate Commerce Commission to intervene in the proceedings involving the application of the Ardmore, Vernon and Lubbock railway for permission to construct a line from Ardmore, Okla., to Lubbock, Texas.

Maedgen in Vernon
C. E. Maedgen, president of the Lubbock National bank and a member of the Lubbock Chamber of Commerce, is acting as a vice-president of the proposed Ardmore, Vernon and Lubbock line, left here today for Vernon, where a meeting of interested parties is scheduled for tomorrow. Spencer A. Wells, president of the Board of City Development, said this morning.

The Vernon session will be taken with coordinating studies looking to show that the line from Ardmore to Lubbock is essential and the information thus marshalled will be presented at the hearing before the Interstate Commerce Commission at Fort Worth on September 6th. Representatives from the line of the new line, which has been known as the "Germany Road," prior to the World War, the organization figured on extending the line from Seymour to Lubbock and worked up a prospectus to that effect. O. L. Slaton, chairman of the railroad committee here, said today. The coming of the war, however, caused a curtailment of the plan. The Gulf, Texas and Western road will have representatives at Fort Worth to make an effort to show why the building of the additional road would be necessary, as it claims.

The Lubbock Chamber of Commerce is not taking any direct stand in the discussion. Mr. Slaton pointed out, Mr. Maedgen representing the organization because the proposition confronts this city as a terminus for the Ardmore line. Backers of the road have been working on their plans for about two years and when the proposition was first placed before the Chamber of Commerce no action was taken, due to the fact that the campaign of the Burlington lines, of which the Ft. Worth and Denver City South Plains railway is a subsidiary, had been gotten well under way.

Sanders Narrowly
Escapes In Wreck
On his return from a vacation spent in Burk Burnett and Wichita Falls, A. C. Sanders of Lubbock, fortunately escaped injury after his heavy car had smashed into another machine while turning a treacherous curve near Matador last night.

Two occupants of the other car were only slightly cut by the broken wind shield. Mr. Sanders relates. A dense mass of mesquite trees above an embankment around the curve cut off vision of the approaching machine. Mr. Sanders said.

Levelland Firemen
Planning Banquet

Members of the Fire Department and the Chamber of Commerce band at Levelland, hustling capital of Hockley county, will hold a banquet there tomorrow night. Representatives of both organizations in Lubbock today, said.

W. Ed Twitty, chief of the Lubbock fire department, and known as one of the best posted firemen in West Texas, has been requested to address the meeting, which will have present, in addition to members of the band and fire department, their ladies.

COTTON FOUND
GOOD STAPLERESEARCH SHOWS WEST
TEXAS PRODUCT 7-8
INCHES IN LENGTH

Contradicting a statement of John C. Todd, British cotton expert, that West Texas cotton is shoddy, are the conclusions of a study of Lubbock county staples as made by G. L. Crawford, market and research specialist of the farm and ranch economics division of Texas A. and M. college.

7-8 Inch Staple
"Eighty-two per cent of the cotton gathered here last year, according to sample, was 7-8 of an inch or more in staple length, which is tenderable in future market," Mr. Crawford said. "This is traceable to the fact that two-thirds, or more, of the cotton grown in this immediate section is of recognizable variety, so far as staple is concerned."

The grades by months of last year reveal deterioration of quality in lateness of the season. This point was stressed by Mr. Crawford in urging farmers to plant early next year.

Good Co-operation

In gathering samples in Lubbock county, the agricultural experiment station of Texas A. and M. has had splendid co-operation of farmers and buyers. Mr. Crawford assures. "This is a measure which indicates progress and vision he said.

Accompanying Mr. Crawford is J. L. Watson, who will remain in Lubbock this year for the continuation of cotton study being conducted by the Texas college, in conjunction with the department of economics, cotton division, of the United States department of agriculture.

Plans Big Concern

After crossing the Atlantic in the same way that he came to Europe, Mr. Levine said he planned to settle down and head a commercial aviation concern which would pretty well cover the United States.

"Of course," he said, "this trans-Atlantic flight is the big thing with me now. I have an understanding with Captain Hinchcliff, and this flight

They recently celebrated their anniversary at the home of a son, J. S. Spratt, sitting beside his "sweetheart," as he always calls his wife. Mr. Spratt explained the secret of their matrimonial success.

"We've lived along in love," he said. "We were married just as I left for the war back in '61, and when I came out alive we were so glad that we got started right. If the old lady gets a quarrel, I just leave her alone and let her have her way awhile and all is well. Or if I am cantankerous, she backs out and lets me have my way, and so we never get mad at the same time."

"We've never really had a cross word between us."

Both are hard workers. Spratt, at the age of 83, does chores around the farm of his son, where they live now. When younger he ran his own farm where Mrs. Spratt did all the housework and bore nine children, all of whom inherited their parents' love of farm-life and became farmers or farmers' wives.

WORLD FLIGHTS

counted a bank of fog and circled three or four times, afterward proceeding in a northwest by west direction.

The police chief at Thurles, Tipperary, says that when the plane passed over that place the weather was very hazy and Captain Hamilton was maintaining an altitude of only 800 to 1,000 feet. The chief added that the plane appeared to be going very slowly.

Hop-Off Is Made At 7:32 a. m. Today

UPAVON, Eng., Aug. 31 (AP)—After waiting at the army airfield here for ten days for favorable weather, Captain Leslie Hamilton and Lieutenant Colonel F. F. Minchin, with Princess Lovenstein Wertheim as a passenger, left here at 7:32 o'clock this morning in a monoplane, the St. Raphael, in an attempt to fly to Canada.

They had fuel for a 44-hour flight but expected to reach Ottawa in 37 hours. After landing at Ottawa they hope later to go on to London, Ontario, to claim the prize of $25,000 for a flight from London, England, to London, Ont.

They made a beautiful take off after running about three quarters of a mile. They circled over the flying field and headed westward. Rain was falling and it was very misty, so the plane was lost to sight to the numerous watchers almost immediately.

At the east end of the field the fliers narrowly missed hitting the roof of a hangar. The air field officers, fearing a crash, had an ambulance and fire engine ready, but the accident was averted.

Muchin had the wheel at the start, but Hamilton expected to do most of the piloting.

When the princess, who is financing the flight, entered the plane.

she took off her cloak revealing she was wearing a purple leather flying outfit of knee breeches and jacket, black silk stockings and brown leather boots with black fur around the tops. She carried her own supply of food in a leather hat box and a wicker basket.

She drove on the field while the alman were preparing to leave, but said she had decided not to accompany them. She became so interested in the preparations and prospects, however, that she announced that she had suddenly altered her mind and would go after all. With her on arrival at the field was the most Rev. Francis Mostyn, Roman Catholic archbishop of Cardiff, Wales, who blessed the plane, bade the fliers God speed and said he wished he might join them.

Just before taking her seat in the plane, the princess said to friends, "Confident of Win."

"Of course we are going to make it, there is no doubt about it. I'll send you a cable from Canada."

The course set by the aviators was for the coast of Ireland, after which they expected to make about twenty miles south of Dublin, thence to Clifton and Galway, where they were to strike out over the Atlantic for St. Johns, Newfoundland.

Levine May Give Up Planned Flight

LONDON, Aug. 31 (AP)—Charles A. Levine will abandon his plans for a return flight over the Atlantic to the British aviators Hamilton and Minchin, according to their present attempt, he told the Associated Press this morning. He indicated that he had in mind an alternative flight, which might consist of an attempt to break the long distance and endurance records, flying toward the east.

Wishing the British fliers "all the luck in the world," he paid tribute to their courage in starting in the face of unfavorable weather reports and voiced the hope that yesterday's announcement of his intention to start within a few days had not been responsible for their taking to the air earlier than would otherwise have been the case.

Mrs. Hamilton Is Off For Ottawa

NEW YORK, Aug. 31 (AP)—Mrs. Leslie Hamilton, wife of the British aviator who started a trans-Atlantic flight from England to Ottawa today, left New York for Canada at 3:30 o'clock this morning. She ended reporters.

FROM TURKEYS TO SKUNKS

Ain't We Got Fun?

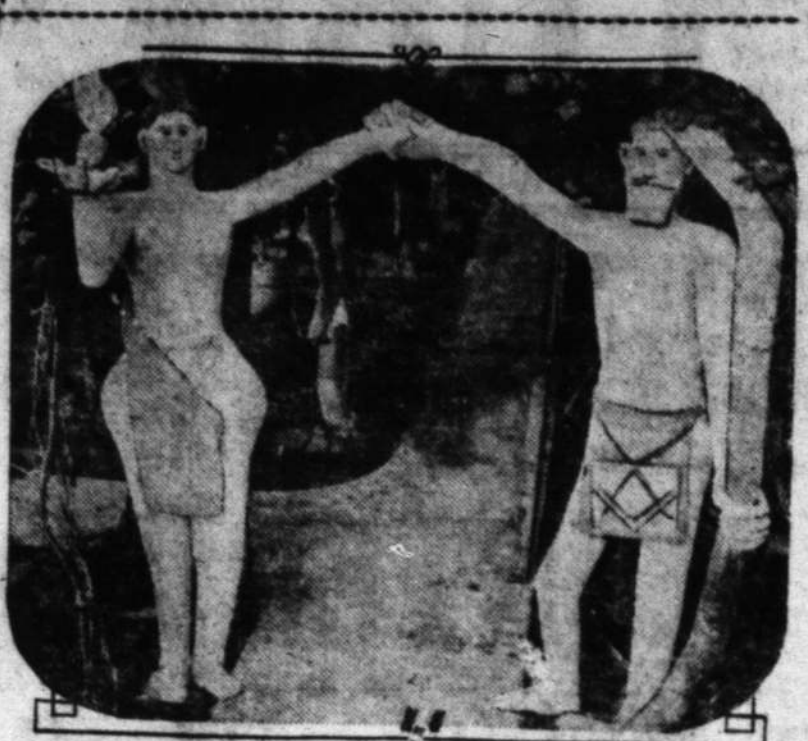

What about the memory of the elephant? There is an old circus story to the effect if one is given tobacco he will in time, if not immediately, wreak vengeance on the man guilty of attempting to corrupt him, and that even though it be years, he will not forget and when the opportunity is offered, the guilty one will be tossed high into the air and possibly trampled to death by the big beast, wherever the principals may happen to be.

"Boah" declares the bull man—the elephant trainer—"It's nothing but an ancient, proven agent's story. An elephant is like a Billy goat, he will eat anything, or at least he will investigate before he attempts the morsel, and if it is not to his liking he will pass it up and forget about it. But at that his memory is of the best—a training proves that. He never forgets his education as an entertainer."

This could have been proved no better than in the case of one of the Sells-Floto circus elephants which escaped last season while in the mountains of British Columbia, and for nearly eight weeks enjoyed liberty in the wilds. When finally retaken and shipped back to the show, he entered the ring within 45 minutes after being unloaded and went through his routine as if nothing had ever happened.

Fifteen elephants are among the animal performers with Sells-Floto, coming to Lubbock Tuesday, September 6th, although their performance, making up one feature of the program which runs for about two hours, during which time more than 100 acts of every description are presented.

Kansas Has Its Own Garden Of Eden Farmer Makes Model Of Bible Scene

The concrete Adam and Eve of Dinmoor's Eden note the two serpents.

By NEA Service

LUCAS, Kans., Aug. 31.—The Black Hills, of South Dakota may be the best place for a president to spend his vacation; California may be the next thing to Paradise, and the Garden of the Gods may be in Colorado, but likely that she will come to Kansas.

If you're looking for the Garden of Eden, lighted by electricity, come to Kansas.

Adam and Eve are here, also Cain and Abel, the serpent, and the apple. You can come and see them for yourself.

When Moses wrote in the Book of Genesis his description of the famous garden where Adam fell and Eve pushed him, Moses may or may not have had an idea that his description would be used as plans and specifications for a twentieth century reconstruction of the garden, but that is just what has happened.

The re-creator of Eden is S. P. Dinmoor, prosperous and retired farmer of 84, who 39 years ago set himself to work rebuilding the Garden.

His job is now just about done, and for a job it's pretty good job. Re-creator Dinmoor has followed Moses just as closely as he could. Moses says that man was formed "of the dust of the ground."

Dinmoor made his Adam out of the dust of the ground, too, only he "mixed in cement."

And there's the secret of this whole Eden-in-Kansas project. It's all built in cement, even to the square and compass apron girl about Adam's loins to show that the original ancestor was a "diner."

Twenty-nine cement trees, some of them 4 feet in height, a stony-eyed cement Eve, a harmless cement serpent, and a cement serpent are all in the Garden.

Cement birds and beasts perch on the cement limbs of the cement trees looking for cement insects which aren't there.

Was the building of this Garden of Eden a good idea?

Just as Dinmoor.

Married Girl of 20

Dinmoor attributes his health to the fact that he lives in the Garden of Eden.

Three years ago, when he was 81, Dinmoor was married to a beautiful young lady of 20, who is now hostess of the "Garden" and shows visitors about, pointing out the snake and other properties.

The Dinmoors have a lovely little two-year-old daughter, Emily Jane, who has never known a day of sickness and has never taken a dose of medicine—because you see, she lives in the Garden of Eden, where there is no sickness. Adam and Eve are Emily Jane's playmates.

In fact, says Eden's contractor from January on.

(By Associated Press)
The Cubs, Chicago's hope for a national league baseball championship and a world series, have played the last game of the season in Polo grounds at New York. Joe McCarthy's outfit may visit the Tropics in October to play the Yankees but they will have to get out of a bad slump that continued through three straight games against the Giants. The Cubs came to Coogan's bluff with a five and one half game lead over the Giants and departed with a margin of two and one half games.

Home On First Ball
Leslie Mann started the Giants in their way to their seventh straight victory yesterday by mashing the first ball pitched by Jerry Jones for a home run. The Cubs men out hustled the Giants, but they were unable to get a run in the first inning and lost 1 to 3 score. Four Cub pitchers saw service, while Burleigh Grimes mopped up for the Giants attack for eight innings before giving way in the ninth to St. Simmons.

New York has won 22 out of its 28 games and today was fighting on the heels of the Cardinals and the Pirates. The first division array showed the four flag contenders more closely bunched than at any time this season.

Robins Beat Cards
St. Louis had an opportunity to climb back into second place in its own right but the lowly Dodgers came up and snatched the world's championship 5 to 2. Dazzy Vance pitched eight batters and allowed six hits, while "Wee Willie" Mitchell was nipped for 13 safeties. The Cardinals may be in a position to make a late season charge, but they are not yet in the Cardinals.

Pittsburgh had to be content with a seven game break against Philadelphia yesterday. Behind Herb Prael's 11 hits, the Pirates slugged yesterday, but they were unable to get a run in the first inning and lost 1 to 3 score. Four Cub pitchers saw service, while Burleigh Grimes mopped up for the Giants attack for eight innings before giving way in the ninth to St. Simmons.

BASEBALL MAY
ADOPT METHOD OF CARDINALSBUSH LEAGUE ROOKIES
MAY BE TRAINED IN MAJOR FARMS

BY BILLY EVANS
The scarcity of major league ball players is certain shortly to cause drastic action on the part of the major leagues to remedy the situation. No way of thinking there is only one answer to the solution, the owning by the big leagues of minor league clubs of various classifications, where promising material can be developed to step.

The St. Louis club of the National League is the first club to put this theory into practice. Branch Hickory, a smart baseball man, who has been connected with the game in practically every capacity, has successfully worked out the problem for the Cardinals.

At the present time, the St. Louis system is composed of the Cardinals and the parent club, with Syracuse in the International League, Houston in the Texas League, Danville in the Three-Eve League and Topeka in the Western Association.

The great value of the system was proved beyond a doubt this spring when Tommy Thayer, now in the parent club, was by Syracuse in the International League. Houston in the Texas League, Danville in the Three-Eve League and Topeka in the Western Association.

More than 100 ball players are owned directly and indirectly by the Cardinals through this system of parent club and sub-stations. A majority of these players are major league prospects, signed up in the hope that proper schooling in the minors under competent managers will develop them all the more rapidly.

Owning these minor league plants enables the Cardinals to hold a big advantage over the other major league clubs. It makes it possible for them to beat the rule that after a player is farmed out for two years he either must be retained or sold.

That the St. Louis club has some excellent prospects in the making is made apparent by the fact that three of the St. Louis farms, Danville, Houston and Syracuse, are battling for the pennant in their respective organizations.

Take the make-up of the Cardinals infield as an example. There is Jim Bottomley, one of the great out of first basemen. Grabbed from the semi-pro circles he was first sent to Houston for a year, then graduated to Syracuse for a season, making him a full-fledged candidate for the majors. Tommy Thayer, the brilliant shortstop, prepped for two years at Syracuse as did George Toporcer, clever utility man, and Thord Baseman "Les" Bell.

That other major league clubs are seeing the wisdom of the St. Louis plan is shown by the purchase of one club as a farm by a number of the magnates. However, the St. Louis Cardinals is the only one that has the progressive system, which eventually will be the system of major league players that are coming up each season.

Textbooks Used In Chicago Are Rapped
CHICAGO, Aug. 31 (AP)—American histories used in Chicago public schools were indicated as anti-American, pro-British and "grossly distorted" in an exhaustive report filed with Mayor Thompson today.

John J. Gorman, former congressman, who was commissioned by the mayor to investigate the text books, said he found they "omit facts, and distort and minimize many of the real characters, events and historic landmarks of the United States."

The report came out on the heels of the suspension, under charges of insubordination, of William McAndrew, superintendent of schools, whom Mayor Thompson assailed as the "stool pigeon of King George" and the instigator of alleged anti-American teaching in the schools.

Ranger Is Sent To Aid Fisher Probe
AUSTIN, Aug. 31 (AP)—Ranger Private Moore today was dispatched from Waco by order of Governor Moody to aid in investigation of the slaying of Bob Smith, Fisher county sheriff and Deputy Jake Owens.

The officers were killed Saturday near Roby.

If he cares to press his players, he has an excellent chance of breaking the American league record for games won, 106 by the Boston Red Sox in 1912.

With 41 games to play the Yankees were credited with 30 victories and 43 defeats. To reach the 100 mark the club need only win 20 games while losing 21, less than a 500 gain.

In order to break the American league record it would be necessary to win 27 games while losing 14 for a percentage of .653.

Since the Yankees have been trailing the club need only win 20 games while losing 21, less than a 500 gain.

Swim Marathon As
German Gets Lead

(By Associated Press)
TORONTO, Ont., Aug. 31.—Closing a gap which at the four mile mark was 200 yards, Ernest Vierkotter, German, passed George Young, Toronto youth and Catalina champion, and took a fifty yard lead in the $50,000 21-mile mile Lake Ontario marathon at 11:48 o'clock today.

A few moments after he was passed by the German, the Toronto boy gave up the race and was hauled into his boat.

Great Excitement
Young's withdrawal created great excitement for today's race has been conceived essentially as a tribute to this native son of Ontario. Of the scores of widely known international contenders, he, who swam to fame in the Catalina $25,000 channel grind, was today's outstanding favorite for the $50,000 prize.

At the five mile point, when, struggling in the cold, the Toronto boy battled with the cramps, his handlers seized him.

Vierkotter shot ahead and by 11:50 was a lone figure a mile and a half ahead of the German. Two women swimmers, Lottie Schoemmel and her partner, Mary Carter of New York, took off in grease with Ethel Hurtle, the favorite and all the others, entering the water with suits on. Some discarded their later.

$5,000 More for Woman
An added $5,000 will be awarded to the first woman to cross the finish line in the cold water. Two women swimmers, Lottie Schoemmel and her partner, Mary Carter of New York, took off in grease with Ethel Hurtle, the favorite and all the others, entering the water with suits on. Some discarded their later.

BOARD RACKETJUDGE HOLDS PETITION
UNDER ADVISEMENT;
BRIEFS ASKED

(By Associated Press)
AUSTIN, Texas, Aug. 31.—District Judge J. R. Hamilton today had under advisement Representative A. H. King's petition for an injunction to stop pay of the state tax survey commission after an all day hearing Tuesday of arguments from both sides, in which the issue narrowed down mainly to a question of whether the commission is formed illegally by including members of the legislature which created it.

Judge Hamilton asked for briefs covering practically that part of the constitution which says that members of the legislature are ineligible to "offices or places" appointments to which are made by either branch of the legislature.

No Right To Sue
H. G. Chandler, assistant attorney general, argued in behalf of state Comptroller Terrell, defendant in the suit, that Representative King had no right to sue in connection with money spent for a public purpose, that the resolution calling the commission and providing its pay is valid, since not expressly prohibited by the constitution, that the right of the legislature to have committees work between sessions has not been questioned since a 1909 decision upholding validity of such committees.

The tax survey commission is not a "legislative committee" and consequently the seven legislative members of it are receiving pay in contravention of the state constitution, George Mendell, Austin, counsel for King, held. He read the constitution to show that members of the legislature cannot hold "positions or places" created by either branch of the legislature.

He further assailed right of the legislature to pay the eight "private citizen" members of the committee out of state funds only by resolution.

Committee In Court
Attorney General Claude Pollard and Assistant Attorney General Chandler representing the state, although the attorney general had taken no part up to this afternoon in the debate. Former Governor O. B. Colquitt, chairman of the tax survey committee and members were in the court room.

NEW ORLEANS TRADING

NEW ORLEANS, Aug. 31 (AP)—An early advance aided by a bullish weekly report and crop report and several unfavorable private estimates was lost in the cotton market today when ring traders sold for a reaction. October eased off from 22.52 to 21.98 and December from 22.52 to 22.24, 54 to 54 points down. Although offerings were fairly well absorbed on declines the market was nervous and erratic in mid-afternoon with prices near the lows.

NEW YORK TRADING

NEW YORK, Aug. 31 (AP)—Liquidation in the cotton market continued today, with a further decline in prices.

Smaller private crop estimates and unfavorable features in the weather news seemed to bring in considerable buying on the declines, but selling increased on the bulges, giving the market a very nervous and unsettled appearance.

After selling off to 22.45 at the start, December rallied to 22.88 or 50 points not higher, but broke into new low ground for the movement during mid-afternoon, with later fluctuations irregular.

Futures closed barely steady, 2 to 10 lower. Spot quiet, middling 22.40.

Stocks And Money

WALL STREET TRADING

NEW YORK, Aug. 31 (AP)—Irregular prices marked the opening of the stock market today, with, however, a few substantial gains. Western Maryland common and second preferred opened 1 3/4 and 1 1/2 points higher and initial gains of a point or so were registered by Bethlehem Steel and American Smelting. National Biscuit and International Telephone opened at new highs, up fractionally from yesterday's close.

Developments overnight in the news were mixed in significance. July earnings of railroads still showed declining tendencies, and freight carloadings again showed a sharp recession from last year's figures although the trend for 1927 was upward. Western Maryland extended its gain to 2 3/4 points, and the second preferred 2 1/4, while Chicago Great Western preferred and Peoria and Eastern moved forward a point or so. Rock Island and New York Central, however, lost ground.

U. S. Steel sold at 146 3/4. "Ex" the quarterly dividend and General Electric and Kelly six and eight preferred quickly touched new tops. Oils were mixed in the early trading Houston losing 2 3/4, while Atlantic Refining was more disposed to reflect the growing hope of producers that the output of crude can be reduced to a normal flow. American Woolen preferred gained about a point despite the report of a deficit in the company's earnings. Foreign exchange opened firm, demand sterling holding close to $3.85 13/16 and French francs just below 3.92 cents.

Powder Boy For Farragut Is Sorry! Would Rather Fly, Says Battle Hero

(By NEA Service)
NEW YORK, Aug. 30.—Admiral Farragut's powder boy at the Battle of Mobile Bay has seen styles in adventure change many times.

But, says he, the opportunities for romantic exploits that face the youth of 1927 are the most glamorous.

Nearly 80 Oakley Pelleck is his name and, with his 80th birthday nearing, he has won the sobriquet of "the man who never grows old." Having tasted the flavor of hazard in his own boyhood, he has kept himself in close touch with youth ever since.

"And that's the real way to stay young," says Pelleck, who still pitches a mean curve on the old sand-lot, runs races and participates in any number of games referred to as "youthful." He could have retired to the Naval Home in Philadelphia and spent a peaceful, untroubled old age—but such is not for him.

Not for Him
"You're likely to grow old under such circumstances," he comments. "And that's what I'm never going to do."

His particular "big moment" was when he stood beside the famous Farragut and heard the Admiral's immortal outburst, "Damn the torpedoes!"

But, he admits, "I should rather have the medals, my chance at conquering the air. There is one of the most glamorous opportunities the youngsters ever had! You see, it combines adventure, hazard and real achievement."

More Story
After all, it was something to be Farragut's powder boy. But, in the final analysis, it was an entirely individual experience and gave posterity nothing but a good story. No, that he isn't proud to have done it but, he points out, the thrill of boyhood didn't end when running away to sea went out of style. Each new generation breeds its opportunities.

How, does he manage to stay physically young?
Ah! Moderation!
"Moderation in everything," is his answer. "Your mind is your, and use it to the best advantage. I look upon the body as a machine and treat it accordingly. Excessive eating and drinking excessive anything, must be avoided.

"The ball park is one of the best spots for keeping young ideas. Particularly, watching the youngsters play! What a kick! If you can't enjoy a ball game—well, you're old!"

Introducing A New Jack Dempsey—The 'Manassa Mauler' As A Hotel Head Former Champion Is Proving That He Is A Business Man As Well As A Pug

GREETING A GUEST

By DAN THOMAS

LOS ANGELES, Calif., Aug. 31.—It doesn't seem quite right to describe Mr. William Harrison "Jack" Dempsey with anything except fighting words these days—but that's just what is going to happen in this story.

When he gets out of fighting togs and into street clothes this same Dempsey is quite the busiest business man in Los Angeles. In fact, during his short sojourn here after he had administered a sleeping powder to Jack Sharkey of Boston, Dempsey didn't have five minutes that he really could have called his own.

Jack has become a real artist at juggling figures since he and "Doc" Kearns chose different highways. Besides being kept pretty busy on financial arrangements for his coming scrap with the world's champion, Gene Tunney, Jack had to put his Barbara hotel back on its feet again.

The Barbara is more than a business enterprise to Jack—it's a much treasured pet. The writer sometimes believes that Dempsey cares more for the Barbara than he does for the leather mitts. When he arrived here from New York, Jack stopped at the hotel to see how things were going even before he dashed home to his sick wife, Estelle Taylor.

Jack spent most of his time around the hotel when he wasn't training. And he certainly turned things upside down.

"That's the way things always go here when I am away," Jack told me. "These fellows think that as long as the place shows a profit nothing else matters. If they had their way we would be in the red in short order. When I come back after the Tunney fight, I'm going to let about half the employees go and get new help. Perhaps that will improve conditions. It costs money to fire people, though, because it takes time to break in newcomers to fill their places."

When Dempsey was around the hotel he could be seen doing almost anything from playing bell boy to instructing the chef how to run a kitchen. I happened to go into the kitchen with Jack one day when he found some dirt on the stove. He immediately hit the ceiling, figuratively speaking. It looked for a few moments as if the poor chef was going to lose his job right on the spot.

"That is one thing I won't tolerate," Dempsey remarked as he was

the EXECUTIVE

going through his mail a little later. "That will slow down business quicker than anything else and as long as I own this hotel it is going to make money."

That's Jack all over. He is the most liberal man I have ever known with his friends and family but whether he's fighting or running the hotel, he is doing it to make money.

COURT REVAMPS PLEDGE

BALTIMORE.—An old blank pledge to abstain from liquor was retrieved from a dusty store-room and put to a new use in police court here. The case was that of a husband separated from his wife. In administering the pledge the court inserted the word "wife" instead of "liquor," and the man swore that he would "keep away" from his wife for six months.

Killing Frosts Seldom Damaging To County Crops

According to figures based on an eleven-year period, most of the killing frosts have come in Lubbock county too late in the season to do considerable damage to cotton, a compilation by the Joe Hess Realty company reveals.

The earliest destructive frost in this period of time was October 19, 1917, and the latest was December 5, 1921. The average date for the first visit is November 4, sixteen days after the earliest frost recorded during the 11 years time.

Following is the table compiled by the Joe Hess company, showing the date of the first killing frost of each year.

October 20, 1916; October 19, 1917; October 26, 1918; November 12, 1919; November 13, 1920; December 5, 1921; November 14, 1922; November 5, 1923; October 24, 1924; October 28, 1925; and November 9, 1926.

Man Kills Himself
After Family Fuss
MORGANTOWN, Ky., Aug. 31.—(AP)—Kiah Abbott, 40, a farmer of South Hill, Butler county, shot and killed his father-in-law, William Moore, 55, wounded his wife and two others and then ended his own life late yesterday.

In addition to Mrs. Myrtle Abbott, 25, Abbott wounded Sheriff Luther Tuck and Andrew McKinney, 25.

Two thousand trees are added each year to the forest established two years ago by a public school in Herkimer County, N. Y. School forests are exempt from taxation in New York state and many schools are acquiring tracts of land to be wooded by pupils.

There are 200,000 Jews in England, with not one Jewish theater in New York but a Jewish population of 1,250,000, with 22 theaters.

PENNEY STORE NOW OCCUPYING NEW QUARTERS

FORMAL OPENING TO HELD THURSDAY IN ENLARGED STORE

Starting in Lubbock only years ago with a small store of square feet of floor space, the Penney company has realized an increasing business during brief history here that it has come necessary to double its space to facilitate advancing display of an enormous stock of merchandise.

Although the store has been doing several days in the new space, tomorrow will be the formal opening day announcing the renovation improvement. It was named this afternoon by Parsons, manager. Invitations have been extended to all citizens of Lubbock and the South Plains visit in the store and become acquainted with its personnel.

The largest window space of store in the city, J. C. Penney store has 165 feet of display space. F. A. Sawyer, manager of men's department, is also in charge of window decorations, having a large interior decorating several years.

Ready-to-wear and infant's garments have been removed from the store, where 2,500 square feet of space expedite a convenient and most arrangement of commodities.

Adding to all departments of store, the company is carrying largest stock in the history.

Parsons Optimistic
Mr. Parsons expresses profound optimism over its growth.

Future of Lubbock, comparing expansion of the local institution that of the hundreds of other big stores. The Lubbock store in its experience has pushed to front as one of the leading department houses of the nation.

County Valuations Nearly 21 Million

Lubbock county's property valuations have reached a total of $20,477, an increase of $1,994,128, according to the new tax rolls completed in the office of R. Durns, county tax assessor.

The poll tax roll shows a total of $164, a gain of 1.75 over the tax roll of the past year, Mr. Durns relates.

These figures easily reveal the upward trend of property values the county. Each year finds figures at a greater total and men and county officials predict yesterday that in a few years would run into scores of millions.

Thought For Today

Light is sown for the righteous,
and gladness for the upright in heart.—Psalms xcvi: 11.
Where there is much light,
the shade is deepest.—Goethe.

The Chinese Chaos

We who sit back and watch Lindbergh in pennant races, the Sacro-Vanzetti demonstrations, with interest perhaps, have not been able to realize fully the chaos of human agony that China has become.

Shantung, great rich province,
is beset by the demons of anarchy.
Chinese are pitted against Chinese,
working against working, and looting and slaying and burning.

Deserters from one army pass to another. Stronger forces beat down the weaker. Deserters pass back and forth with the tides of fortune and battle. It is every man for himself in the hour of terror.

We have watched the line of the Kuomintang or Nationalists move from the south across the face of that torn country. Beyond the Yangtze river the line has been broken by dissensions from within.
Relations with Moscow have no
good to the trembling future. Politics and warfare and propaganda
have linked hands to make the land
one horrible hell of human suffering.

The charges of oppression made against the foreigners must pale
now before the greater tragedy.
Out of the mass of anarchy strikes forth no leader to show the way to peace and understanding. Evil treasures, extrajudicial grabbing
of concessions, exploitation of Chinese wealth to the good of the western powers—all these, assuredly calling for correction, can find no agreement or solution until the red flames
die.

While the anti-foreign race continues, Chinese go on killing, robbing and plundering themselves. What a vengeance to wreak upon those
from outside who have wronged
them!

The Aid System

Approximately two-thirds of the 280,349 miles of highway on the federal aid system have been improved. According to 1925 figures
the total cost to the federal government to improve one mile of highway averaged $554. This means that in the fiscal year 1927, 1928
and 1929 an additional 22,500 miles
of road should be added to the system. If the states continue to improve roads on the federal aid system at their own expense as they have done in the past, they will
during that period add another 20, 000 miles, so that at the close of 1929 we should have about 50,000 miles of improved roads. At the most, it should not take more than five years to improve all the roads on the system.

The above statement of the American Automobile Association indicates the extent of federal road
progress, connecting road systems
within the states to make up a national system.

It was the aim when the revised
federal aid highway act became effective five years ago to bring the system to completion in about ten years. If state co-operation continues, the aim will be realized.

Misfits

When the baseball season opened the Chicago Cubs were hailed most generally as a crowd of misfits.
They might win a game now and then, the majority of sports men contended, but nothing very good
could come of this outfit.

Now the Cubs are out in the lead and fighting like the very blues to keep it. They stand an excellent chance of taking the flag and meeting the New York Yankees in the world series.

And the Cubs have
Ruth or Gehrig either.
When a fair ball catches the old
fighting fire, great things result.
And that seems to be what the Cubs have caught, aided by Manager Joe McCarthy and led by one good pitcher, Charley Root. It seems to be a pretty potent weather
when misfits get together.

THE PLAINSMAN

Says:

A damage suit faces
James R. Peat.
He sped down Broadway
On the wrong side of the street!

The motor car has been a vital force in American every-day life
for the past ten years and is becoming daily a more potent factor.
There is no denying that the automobile has been a great aid to business and to pleasure. Its potentiality is unquestioned. Yet along with its benefits it has brought a number of tragedies. It has made the life of the pedestrian a perilous existence. It has changed the horse-drawn car's most potential friend, from a necessity to a hindrance, and it has turned old city streets upside down. The automobile is and will continue to be a great boon to modern times,
but it has taken from us something which was once the joy of the young and old alike—the circus
parade.

Silly, you say. How could it?
The Plainsman will elucidate.
Frank Zartman, advance representative of Sells-Floto circus,
which will appear here soon,
explains it in this fashion.
Practically every city of any size now-days has either an electric flash light or a stop-line system of traffic. Necessary obedience to these traffic
rules so demoralizes the circus
parade that it is a half mile from the show grounds it is split in a half dozen sections. It loses its effect when not in one long procession and
the practical circus men find
they are not being benefited
by the parade, curtailed
that easily attracted. Jine-
ling, Brokers, Barnum-Bailey, Hagenback-Wallace, Sells-Floto
to Al St. James, John Robinson
—in fact all of the larger circuses playing of course, the larger cities, have deleted from their daily programs the parade.
Now, hundreds of kiddies and grownups, too, are missing that one-time highlight in American amusement. Now
do you see how the automobile
is to blame for it? Of course you do. There would be no traffic systems to stop the parades if there were no automobiles.

A scientist has come forth with the announcement that fires have resulted from the rays of the sun
passing through a gold fish bowl.
The Plainsman always knew there was something objectionable about gold fish and readily realizes now that here is another problem for the self appointed committee on reform to consider.

That Girl on Broadway says the old saw "any old port in a storm
is bound to be hit" is any old sport
with the corn.

A new kind of "automobile
boob" has been discovered. "He is the unthinking, uneducated
at least from a driving standpoint man who drives his car
on the wrong side of Broadway
and Avenue Q and expects the people who are driving in the proper manner to climb up on the curb or bump out into the center parkway to let him pass.
There's only one way to put an effective stop to such monkey business and that is for some public spirited citizen to borrow a ten ton truck and clear the right-hand sides of these two streets of the left-hand driving nuances.

Although ineligible for membership in the American Legion the Plainsman is for that organization
just as strongly as if he was national commander. The Lubbock post is starting its campaign for permanent, post-owned club house
and if the project should fail, we who were unable to answer the call to arms, will be guilty of forgetting
our debt to the lads who did go.
Let's all get behind it and let the campaign CAN'T fail.

THE birth of a "kiss" and its
ownership are extremely difficult
to trace. There are innumerable heroes ready to take the glory of
a single slang phrase. Texas
Guinan, the night life queen of
this village, gets credit for a considerable number.

For instance: It is told that the
other night a woman appeared at
Mr. Guinan's jazz emporium and
a servant took the news back late
to Tex.

"Tell her I'm too busy. Just getting the show ready."
"But," remonstrated the waiter,
"she says that she went to school
with you."

"All right then, wheel her in!"
This has had a dozen variations
and I've heard it in three shows
within a week.

GILBERT SWAN.

of his magazine, discussed "difficulties and the joy of battling them."
Can anyone tell me what DIFFI-CULTIES a man with a BILLION
dollars has?

American women spent four times
as much last year for "permanent"
waves as the United States government spent in building new ships,
which proves that the "offensive"
style is still being favored over the
"defense."

The Ancient Notion That America Welcomes Political Refugees Doesn't Hold Good Now, Rodney Dutcher Says

IN NEW YORK
SEE-SAWING
and
DOWN BROADWAY

NEW YORK, Aug. 31.—Nothing
escapes these Broadway wise-crackers. After all the excitement over aviation, they had begun to die down to a gentle whirr. Walter O'Keefe, who writes songs for a living, posted this notice in a certain theatrical hang-out: "Ten thousand berries to the first aviator who makes a non-stop flight
around Paul Whiteman."

THERE are a couple of dozen
such born every few minutes at a triangle formed on Seventh Ave.
near by the intersection of 46th
and 47th Streets, which "Variety"
refers to as "Panic Island."

This is the vaudeville land forced by business and necessity to stay
in town during the summer months.
Here out-of-town vaudeville "coming to Broadway to escape numbers" can find almost any sort of act and actor he wishes.

ONE of the chief topics of conversation, wherever vaudeville
gather has to do with "new gags"
and "new stunts." To the troupe in the variety business "gags" are a stock in trade. They are the clunks and snips, the trimmings
and the fixtures of their particular line. If he creates a witicism and someone else picks it up, this is considered nothing short of a
"steal" and there is more weeping
and wailing over "nifties" than any other detail of the show business.

The snappy-minded young man of "gags" almost invariably has a long list of wits to relate concerning the purloining of his best lines and can list you innumerable reputable persons who have "lifted"
from him. And if you listen long enough, almost everyone on Broadway becomes a "gag thief"
sooner or later.

THE birth of a "kiss" and its
ownership are extremely difficult
to trace. There are innumerable
heroes ready to take the glory of
a single slang phrase. Texas
Guinan, the night life queen of
this village, gets credit for a considerable number.

For instance: It is told that the
other night a woman appeared at
Mr. Guinan's jazz emporium and
a servant took the news back late
to Tex.

"Tell her I'm too busy. Just getting the show ready."
"But," remonstrated the waiter,
"she says that she went to school
with you."

"All right then, wheel her in!"
This has had a dozen variations
and I've heard it in three shows
within a week.

ties and the joy of battling them."
Can anyone tell me what DIFFI-
CULTIES a man with a BILLION

American women spent four times
as much last year for "permanent"
waves as the United States government spent in building new ships,
which proves that the "offensive"
style is still being favored over the
"defense."

Sometimes it's mighty hard to
give a soft answer.

Sometimes it's mighty hard to
give a soft answer.

Sometimes it's mighty hard to

WAS IT WORTH WHILE?

The tragedy, stark and terrible,
that followed in the wake of the air plane race from San Francisco to Hawaii has suddenly brought to the front a question as to whether the flame-sung really worth its cost in treasure and precious lives. As this is written no trace has been found
of the occupants of three ships that went out over the wide stretches of the Pacific in their great adventure
if all these ships and their occupants are lost as now seems certain. Counting the three fatalities in accidents that preceded the take off, a toll of ten lives have been taken by the race.

The grim stories of these attempts to span the Pacific and the loss of the intrepid French flyers
in their westward from Paris to New York are reminders that aviation is yet an experiment so far as trans-oceanic flights are concerned.
All the world today mourns the unhappy fate that has apparently overtaken seven flyers in the Dole race to Hawaii.

Whether the cost has been justified may be considered doubtful.
Already successful flights have been made to Hawaii from the American mainland. The Dole race was therefore not an attempt to determine whether such flights could be made. On the other hand it seems to have been more in the nature of a sporting impulse on the part of the honor of the prizes to furnish the world with a great thrill over the sight of a sweepstakes race
across the ocean.

Here was temptation of flyers to run unnecessary risks in order to take off with an even chance to win prizes, coupled with the offering of prizes that seemed to be more in the nature of expenditures for advertising purposes by the donor
than for the good that might be done for aviation. It is hard to see how it was worth while. Instead of a thrill the Dole race has given the world a feeling that human lives have been needlessly sacrificed
in a gigantic sporting event.

Perhaps some good will come from these tragedies of the air and men in that men of wealth will recoil from the prospect of tempting men and women to their deaths in order to bring advertising to the sponsors and give to the flyers the poor prospect of winning a few thousand dollars in prize money
and a few days of adulation. Experiments in aviation must proceed along different lines. Lives will be lost in the future. Human progress has always been written in the blood of the pioneers. It is so with aviation. There will be enough of this unfortunate aspect of progress without tempting flyers into disregarding precautions that will guard against unnecessary sacrifices of life. Perhaps the Dole race has served a useful purpose.—Vernon Record.

It was a great thrill to the world
when Lindbergh pushed his plane
through space across the mighty ocean and made a safe landing on the other side. This proved to the world that it could be done. It did not prove however that it is a practical sensible and sane undertaking, and there is going to have to be many more experiments made before the world is ready to bring further into the proposition, and machines equipped for the work will have to be built. We know that men have had to risk their lives that such experiments might be made, but we cannot see any necessity for men throwing their lives to the fish, just for the sake of making a non-stop flight across the continent. Most of the lives that have been lost have been for the sake of money and glory. They have not been given for the sake
of future development along airplane transportation, but merely to gratify a sporting mind of people who would waste their lives against a few thousand dollars. Lindbergh, like Columbus, has copied the honors of this stunt, and will be man who bears the name that will go down in history. The thing that is necessary now to make air transportation across the waters is for men to proceed on careful lines
and perfect machines that will make the trip and also provide for reasonable amount of safety, if they are forced to land in mid-ocean.
There is no use for men to risk
their lives in planes that are not equipped for water service, and when a man does it it is not for the real good of the cause but just a fool-hardy trick, that is daring, but dreadfully unwise, and unnecessary.

Four Billion Dollar Concern Is Possible In Big Three Way Merger

PIERRE DU PONT

By JOHN W. HILL
Financial Editor, the Iron Trade Review

Possibility of a gigantic, over-riding industrial combination is in the announcement that the powerful du Pont interests are acquiring large holdings of United States Steel corporation stock.

The du Ponts already own a controlling interest in two other industrial giants—E. I. du Pont de Nemours and company, and the General Motors corporation. The direct or indirect linking of these three massive units under a common financial control or management would form a combination of interests of staggering magnitude, even in this day of stupor figures.

Whether or not this is the ultimate aim of the du Ponts remains to be divulged.

Gary's Death Sped Plans
The death of Elbert H. Gary, chairman and guiding genius of the corporation since its birth, undoubtedly has speeded whatever the du Ponts have with regard to that great industrial.

At the present time the du Ponts own less than 2 percent of the outstanding common stock—about 114,000 shares. This is not enough of itself to justify any implication of attempted control by the du Ponts. However, it is sufficient to indicate an important interest in their part in the affairs of the corporation.

Judge Gary's advanced age had overshadowed his early retirement. It is well known that in some years the powerful interests in financial control of the corporation had been deeply pondering the question of his successor. Pierre du Pont has been considered a likely successor.

The combine of the du Pont interests with U. S. Steel and General Motors, if eventually effected, would have a stock capitalization—based on stock market quotations of the three companies—of approximately $4,000,000,000. There has been no similar imposing industrial structure in the history of the world.

The combined capital is four times the figure offered Henry Ford recently for his gigantic enterprise. The three-way combination would have an annual earning power of more than $500,000,000 annually. Based on reports of the companies for last year, nearly $200,000,000 would be paid out annually in dividends to more than 210,000 stockholders.

Huge Cash Resources
The combination would do an annual gross business of more than $2,000,000,000, and would have tremendous cash resources of about $500,000,000, including cash and securities listed at their book value.

Appraisal of these securities at their current market value undoubtedly would more than double this figure, for the du Pont corporation carries its General Motors holdings on its books at $300,000,000 under the market value.

Wall street, its imagination stirred by the vastness of the picture, is deeply bitten with curiosity as to the du Pont plans. Is this amazing family seeking to put a finger in the pie of control of the U. S. Steel corporation? Or does the purchase of the stock represent merely a shrewd investment in ever-growing surplus funds amounting to approximately $500,000,000 annually?

The federal trade commission is also curious and has ordered an investigation into the stock relationships of the corporations.

It is as possible the stock purchase is nothing more than an investment. It has already proved itself a shrewd one. The du Pont interests, buying 114,000 shares out of their surplus funds, have already effected a profit of about $1,300,000 on the subsequent rise of the stock.

Made Much Money
The soundness of their employing surplus funds in this manner is unquestioned. The case is very similar to the du Pont entry into General Motors, except that in the latter case their holdings of 2,000,000 shares represented nearly 25 percent of the stock outstanding. The balance of the stock is spread sufficiently wide to give the du Ponts virtual control.

The General Motors investment has also proved a sound one. It has brought to its owners a profit of approximately $30,000,000 in the past seven years. The stock was purchased in an average price of $45 a share. It is now selling well above $200 a share.

Different Policies
Doubtless the du Ponts, if they are seeking control of the steel corporation, have been prompted to such action by the results obtained in administration of General Motors affairs. This concern has become a veritable giant through the linking up of numerous motor car companies with many other industries and the formation of new projects.

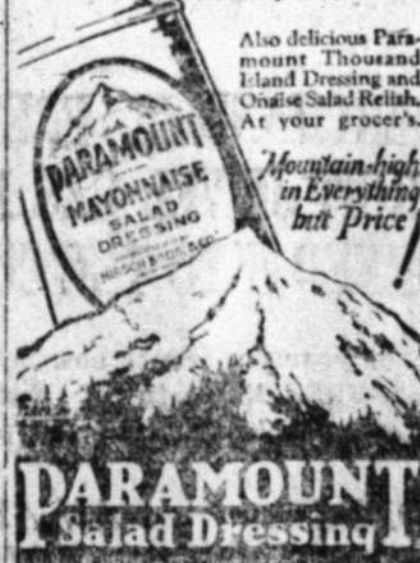

As compared with this, there is the ultra conservatism which has marked the course of the Steel corporation. Here are two of the world's largest companies, which have been under policies almost exactly opposed. The steel corporation has diversified its activities only so far as has been absolutely necessary. Even its expansion plans along lines already engaged in have been conservative.

Tangible advantages of an alliance between these two giants would come through sale by U. S. Steel to General Motors of its steel products, just as General Motors now buys its paints and lacquers for automobiles from the du Pont company.

In the main, however, the corporations would be tied together by the strongest of bonds—that of capital—but their respective particular businesses would remain distinct.

If you can't be wise you can at least laugh at those who are.

Jack Lockwill at Summer Camp

(Creator of Frank Merriwell)

By Gilbert Patten

Lockwill, struggling to his feet, saw Saunders holding the head of the kicking Indian beneath the water. "He's killing him!" cried Jack. He leaped at Buke and yanked him backward, breaking his hold on Hatchet's neck. Tom Longpine came forth from the shadows of the woods. "Take your cousin away!" said Jack.

"No need of it," said Longpine. "He's going as fast as he can already." Looking round, Jack saw Hatchet plunge into a thicket. Then he released Saunders.

"Come, Rose," said the Indian girl's brother grimly. "And goodbye, White Lightning!" She looked at Jack, held both hands over her heart, then turned and ran.

Lockwill stood still, looking toward the spot where she had vanished. "Some girl, if she is a redskin!" admitted Saunders. Longpine had disappeared also. "You saved my life, Buke," said Jack. "No credit to me," declared Saunders. "I tried to fix the Indian." "Still I can't forget that I owe you my life," returned Jack, taking his arm. "Let's go back to camp, old scout." (The End.) EX-PRO AGENT IS APPOINTED U. S. MARSHALL

COOLIDGE FREE WITH PALAVER TODAY AT
VACATION HOME

(By Associated Press)
RAPID CITY, S. D., Aug. 31.—James A. Buchanan, a former prohibition enforcement officer, was appointed by President Coolidge today as United States marshal for the southern district of Mississippi.

It was stated today at the executive office that Mr. Coolidge feels recent trans-Ocean flight have demonstrated the ability of aviators to span the water but also that recent events have demonstrated the necessity for further study of the problem.

Ocean Flight Not Easy
In his opinion recent flights have shown that crossing the ocean by air is not easy and have made the flight of Charles Lindbergh to Paris stand out all the more because he went straight to his goal. The president does not wish to detract from the accomplishments of other trans-Ocean fliers but he does feel their flights have generally demonstrated the difficulties of this work.

Mr. Coolidge understands from the state department that the present Chilean ambassador will arrive soon and will be succeeded by Carlos Davila.

To Continue Receptions
It also was learned at the executive office today that the president has no intention of discontinuing official receptions, believing them part of the social life of Washington and helpful; that he will not include the bureau of efficiency or any other bureau within the budget bureau; that he does not favor sending Lieutenant Williams to the air races overseas in a fast cruiser, believing regular steamship service adequate.

The president will leave next week for Washington probably Friday night, stopping over at Brookings, S. D., to dedicate the library of the state agricultural college and arriving in the capital Sunday night.

Erwin Is Praised By Governor In Letter To People

(By the Associated Press)
DALLAS, Aug. 31.—The gallantry and chivalry of Captain Wm. P. Erwin in attempting to locate missing Dele derby fliers by a flight from San Francisco to Honolulu was praised in letters from Governor Dan Moody to Mrs. Constance Erwin, wife of Captain Erwin, and to the fliers parents.

The governors letters was as follows:
"The attempt which Captain Erwin made to fly to the Hawaiian Islands transcended in glory and magnificence by far the original desire to span the ocean and encompass the world in an airplane.

He left the security which the land offered and took to the hazards of the air over the waters in an attempt to rescue those who had fallen to the sea. It was a most notable and worthy exhibition of self sacrifice.

"His gallantry and chivalry has attracted the applause not only of the citizens of this state but of the people of the world.

"I know that I cannot realize your tremendous anxiety at this time, but in it you have my sincere sympathy, and I wish that I might do something to aid you."

There are more than 267 persons in America with net incomes of more than $1,000,000 a year. Ninety-six of these live in New York. Three women have incomes between three and four million dollars each.

Lew Wentz, Oklahoma Millionaire, Is Something New In 'Oil Kings'

LEW WENTZ

Philanthropy is his creed
Baseball is his passion
Oil is his business

(By NEA Service)
PONCA CITY, Okla., Aug. 31.—It is more fact than legend in this town that the sun never sets upon a day that Lew Wentz has not given at least $1000.

On one day he wrote out a check for $1,000,000—loaned it for two years without security, or interest, to help out cotton farmers, who were having a bad season. And half an hour after his gift, he had underwritten and secured another $1,000,000 to boost his own original offering.

Who is Lew Wentz?
Outside of Oklahoma he may not be so well known, but he is one of the super-millionaires of the country, ranking with Ford, Rockefeller, Mellon, in that exclusive gang whose seven members each reported an income of over $5,000,000 in one year.

Made Fortune in a Hurry
Wentz is about 40. He is a bachelor. Up to the time he came to Oklahoma in 1911 he was a high school baseball coach in Pittsburgh, with a $125-a-month clerkship on the side.

When he came west he took odd jobs in the oil fields. Then John G. McCaskey, a soapmaker manufacturer and merchandise broker, took the young Pittsburgher into partnership for a flyer in oil.

Their prospects were so thin that McCaskey died of worry. A day or two after McCaskey died, Lew Wentz may have wished that he could trade places with his partner, resting beyond worry in a comfortable grave. He went to sleep one night broke, tired, ready to give up. He awoke next morning to find himself a millionaire.

During the night a wild cat well had come through a gusher. Lew Wentz is the most unorthodox millionaire in the whole mid-Pacific business. His wealth hasn't changed him a bit. He still lives in the Ponca City hotel where he lived as a wage-earning roughabout in the oil fields. Perhaps Lew Wentz's wealth has added some luster to his residence, for in 1911 it was known as a boarding house.

Self-Appointed Santa Claus
Anyway, that is Lew Wentz, the crippled children all over the world. There is a Masonic orphan's home at Guthrie, Okla. Lew Wentz dropped in there one day. He found an empty gymnasium and a playground comparatively bare. When he left Guthrie the management of the home had a check that gave their gymnasium and playground the world's best and most complete equipment.

Gives In Mother's Name
In Guthrie, too, is the Oklahoma Methodist hospital. That hospital needed funds. Lew Wentz dropped in quietly and looked it over. When he left, the hospital had the wherewithal to buy everything it needed. Attached to the check signed "Lew Wentz" was a little note: "This is sent to you as from my mother."

His father, who was a blacksmith, is dead. His mother had always wanted to have a cottage of her own with a lot of flowers around it and vines growing over it. She has it now—out amid the hills and in the sunshine of California. Lew Wentz visits her there several times a year.

His mother used to go to a little church in Pittsburgh, where every Sunday she knelt in worship. The little church was burdened with financial difficulties that little churches often know. She told her boy about it. In her name, unknown to her, the debt was lifted. And three years later, the church—many thanks to the window in the little church telling the world about it, either.

Being a wealthy bachelor has of course made Lew Wentz the victim of many fortune-hunting man-mas with daughters to marry off. These women pester him by mail and by personal visits, but so far he has successfully fought them all off.

He is, as it was set out to prove in this account, something most unusual in millionaires.

Mosquitoes have been so troublesome on one of the Austrian bathing beaches along the Danube that authorities have built a special tower to house 200,000 bats which will kill the insects.

Rivera Becoming Rendezvous For Heart Sufferers

(By the Associated Press)
CANNES, France, Aug. 31.—The Riviera, long pictured a gambling ground for gay Americans, is becoming a rendezvous for sufferers of heart woes, in the opinion of divorce lawyers and income tax experts.

Many of the well dressed women and men at the green baize covered gaming tables are really gambling for stakes of the heart and not the purse, they say. They await with greater anxiety the turning of the wheels of the divorce courts in Paris than the roulette wheels of the casino.

On the tables they place sums of money, but in documents filed in Paris courts they have placed their motions and they are far more concerned to win there than here. The stakes are high here at times. Income tax experts calculate that between $150,000,000 and $200,000,000 was risked on the decisions of gaming instruments here last year. Divorce lawyers point out that regardless of the amount of the pecuniary hazards of the gaming tables here larger stakes are being played for in the Paris courts.

Starting her boarding house when A. and M. had only a few hundred students, she fed thousands of ex-students of the school, her place being known to them for its sumptuous meals.

Masks Of Sacco And Vanzetti Are Displayed Today

NEW YORK, Aug. 31.—Death masks of Nicola Sacco and Bartolomeo Vanzetti occupied a shrine today in Stuyvesant casino on the lower east side. The masks were brought here when the ashes of the executed radicals, scheduled to arrive late yesterday for exhibition at a memorial demonstration in Union square, were detained in Boston. The Union square meeting was attended by a crowd, estimated by police at 10,000. Undaunted by heavy showers, they vowed "never to forget Sacco and Vanzetti."

When the meeting closed the crowd moved as to start a procession for which no permit had been given, and police rode into the throng, dispersing it. One carrying a red flag was arrested. Mrs. Rose Sacco, widow, who the mask of Vanzetti but did look at that of her late husband.

ESTATE GAS RANGE Feature No. 1.

Fresh Air Oven Construction

It would take a lot of technical data and diagrams fully to describe the patented construction of the Estate Fresh Air Oven. But to explain it in a simple way—the bake oven of the Estate Gas Range is built like a double boiler! No part of the oven is exposed to the direct action of heat. Hence the distribution of heat is absolutely uniform in all parts of the oven, just as it is in the inner vessel of a double boiler.

Just think what this means! As there are no openings in the side walls of the oven, baking can be placed right up against them. It is unnecessary to leave a "safety zone" at each side of the oven. It actually means that a 16-inch Estate oven has the baking capacity of an ordinary 18-inch oven.
