Tree to get ready

Smith denies pressure

Statement expected this week on PRPC issue

An administrative aide to Gov. Preston Smith said Friday that if there is any pressure being applied to force cities or counties to join regional planning commissions it is coming from somewhere besides Austin.

"There may be a few petty bureaucrats within the organization that might try that sort of thing, but it certainly does not originate in the governor's office," said Jerry Hall, a former spokesman with the Lubbock Avalanche-Journal and the Austin American-Statesman.

Hall said the governor received on Friday a letter from Hereford Mayor Jim Sears complaining about statements attributed to the executive director of the Panhandle Regional Planning Commission.

Hall said the governor will reserve any comment on the letter until after his staff can look further into the situation. The inquiry probably would include talks with PRPC officials, Hall indicated.

AUSTIN — Sen. Max Sherman introduced a 14-page bill into the State Senate Friday to provide for the creation of the Deaf Smith County Hospital District.

The bill provides procedure for annexation of additional territory to the district and also provides that the district should assume any debts of the county and city incurred in the past for hospital purposes.

Under provisions of the bill, territories outside the county could be included if a petition signed by a majority of the property owners of the area ask for it. An election would then have to follow.

any tax authorized until a majority of the qualified property tax-paying electors of the area of the proposed district, voting at an election called for that purpose by the county judge, approves it.

Jaycees back cage league for city youth

The Hereford Jaycees have voted unanimously to undertake the task of organizing a boys' basketball league in Hereford as their first official work project.

The new league will be known as Little Dribblers Basketball, Inc. and will be open to boys in the third through the sixth grades, inclusive.

Applications to participate in the league were distributed Thursday to some 700 boys in the city's six public elementary schools and St. Anthony's.

Approval of the project came Wednesday night along with election of first-year officers. The Jaycees elected Charles Richards as president. Hazen Woods as vice president, Dan Warrick as secretary, Mike Solomon as treasurer, Bill Johnson as state director, and Kenney Hagar and Layne Cushmanberry as local directors.

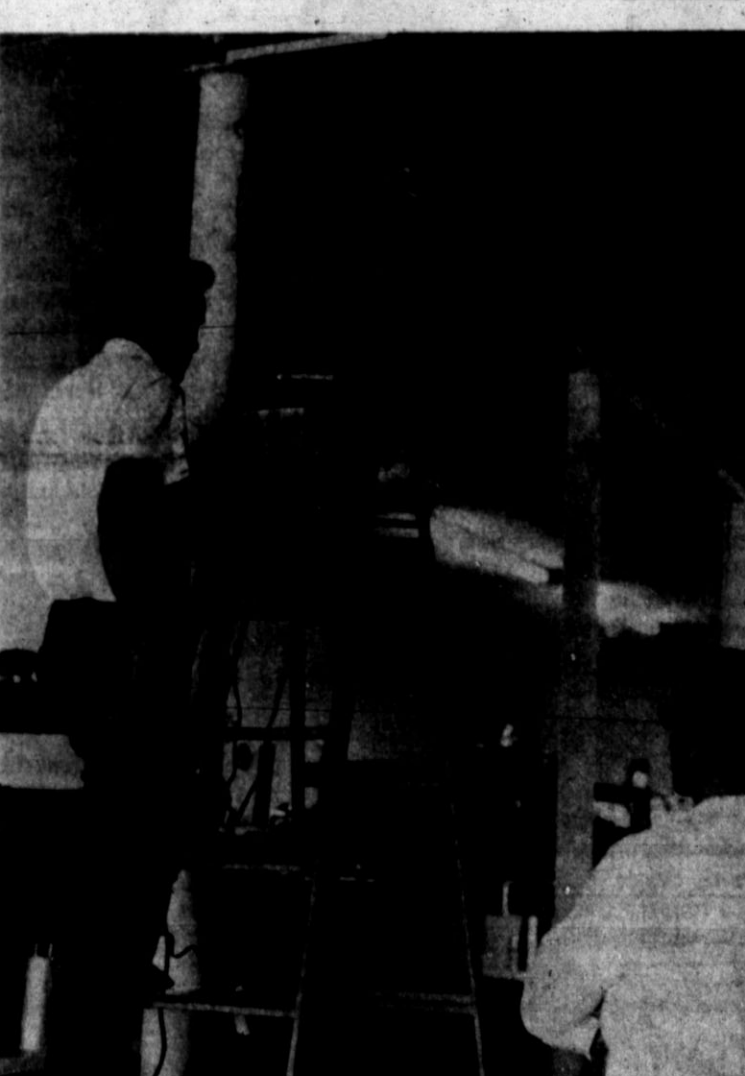

The new club which started only Feb. 4 and has not received its charter yet will meet in the Community Center each Thursday night.

A committee also was elected to direct the basketball league into being in Hereford.

Terry Hill is president. Hagar is vice president in charge of one age group and Lenny Pe-tree is vice president in charge of the other age group.

Bill McKinney is secretary-treasurer and Jerry Tisdale is player agent.

The applications from prospective participants in the basketball league are to be returned to the respective schools by Monday, Hill has called the basketball board together for a meeting Monday night to firm

TV or not TV

SEEING EYE — Grady Swindell, left, and Virgil Kelley, install the new television monitoring system at the fire station. The system will allow constant surveillance of the building and its equipment by means of a small television screen in the police department.

TV camera puts eye on our fire hall

A television monitoring system has been installed at the Hereford Fire Department as a precautionary measure in keeping constant surveillance on the building and the equipment.

The scanner will provide 24-hour surveillance of the fire station when there is no one in the building. The system also will help the situation because the doors of the fire station are left unlocked at all times because many of the volunteer firemen do not have keys to the building and could not get in when a fire alarm is turned in.

City stores will stay open on Washington's birthday

The first national Monday holiday of the year occurs Monday but it apparently is not going to be much of a holiday for businesses in Hereford.

In observance of George Washington's birthday, the post office is the only place reporting it will be closed Monday.

All downtown stores and stores in Sugarland Mall will be open, offering special "take-advantage" of Washington's birthday.

Mike Wartes and Harold Schmucker keyed a second-quarter rally Friday night that buried the Coronado Mustangs and sparked the Hereford Whitefaces to a 62-55 victory in the first game of District 4-AAAA second half basketball play.

WARTES SCORED half of his 20 points in the period and Schmucker, a substitute, threw in six points. The rally enabled Coach Ron Mayberry's squad to overcome early deficits of 0-7, 1-11 and, at the end of the first quarter, 9-16.

Schmucker, Blake Arnwine and John McNey all came up with steals in the period as the Whitefaces threw their frustrating Mayberry Press at Lubbock Coronado.

By the time the halftime buzzer sounded, Hereford was out front, 30-22, never to trail again. The Coronado coach was unhappy about his team's seven turnovers in the period. And the Whitefaces were en route, finally, to their 20th victory of the 1970-71 campaign. It had eluded them three straight times.

Hereford hit 50 per cent from the field (21 of 43) while Coronado, stumbling to its eighth straight loss, fired true on but 28 per cent (18 of 65).

Hereford walked away with the JV game, 73-44, and the sophomore game, 61-44.

THE HERD carried a 29-0 record into Saturday night's game in La Plata Gym against Clovis, a team Hereford beat 52-56 in early January with two free throws by David Myers with only two ticks left on the clock.

Next action for Hereford is at home Tuesday night against the Lubbock Westerners who bowed out of title consideration by losing to Plainview in overtime, 61-59, Friday night. Plainview now is 2-0. Hereford and Monterey 1-0, and Lubbock and Coronado 0-3 each. Monterey hosts Plainview Tuesday and Hereford Friday. Plainview and Hereford end the regular season a week from Tuesday with a game in La Plata Gym. LUBBOCK BEAT Hereford, 66. See HERD Page Two

GED tests are delayed for week

The General Educational Development tests, normally given on the first and third Mondays to students wanting a high school equivalency diploma, will not be given this week.

Robert Thompson, high school counselor and administrator of the GED testing program, said the second set of tests this month have been postponed from Feb. 15 to Feb. 22.

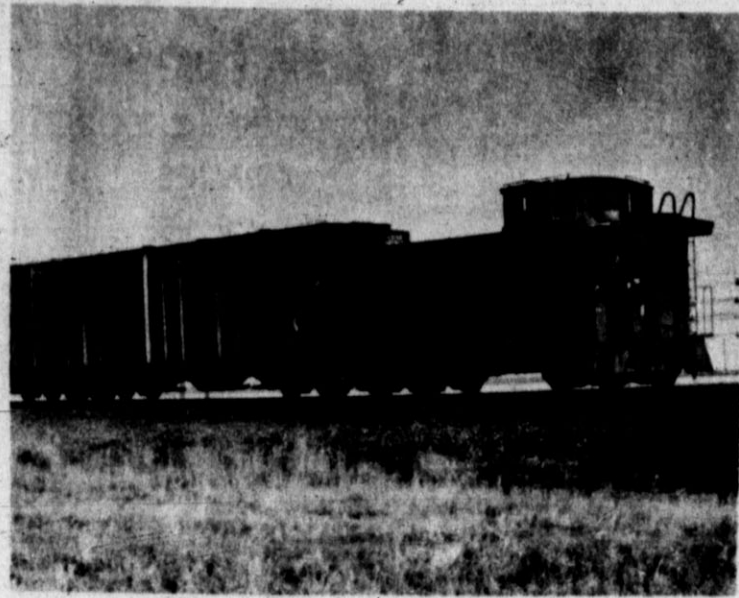

The test consists of five 2-hour tests. Three of the tests are given on Monday and two on Tuesday.

Things are looking up

ON THE DEFENSE — Coronado's Mark Curry deflects a pass intended for the Whitefaces' Mike Wartes (15)

during Friday night's 62-55 Hereford victory over the Mustangs.

ON ITS WAY — This caboose, purchased for $1,300 by Harlan Vander Zee, was at the head of the train Friday, being pushed to a place on a siding near Summerfield.

WORK TO BE DONE — Vander Zee rode inside the caboose from Amarillo until the trip ended. He sees a lot that has to be done before it's ready for occupancy as a lake cottage.

45, in Lubbock the first half of the season.

McNey came in with 12 points 1 assist, 2 steals and 9 rebounds to provide a big boost for the Whitefaces. Wartes, besides his 20 points, had 1 rebound, 2 assists and 1 steal.

Keith Kitchens, who entered the contest averaging 16 points in league games, was held to a pair of field goals and two charity shots for 6 points. Arwine had 7 points, Schmucker 6, John Sparks 5 and Myers and Rush 3 each.

Mark Stafford, a 6-5 senior, led three Coronado players in double figures with 13 points. Stafford pulled down 14 rebounds and another 6-5 senior, Donny Malone, grabbed 11 caroms, as Coronado claimed a 46-26 edge on the backboards.

KITCHENS AND ARWINE fouled out for Hereford and Larry Williams fouled out for Coronado.

The Mustangs led 16-9 at the first quarter but a free throw by Arwine and a basket by Wartes cut it to 16-12. Malone made one of two free throws and then Schmucker earned a 15-footer to trim the margin to three points at 17-14. Arwine stole the in-bounds pass and scored to make it 17-16, and then McNey intercepted a Coronado pass during the full court press.

Coronado managed to get the ball back without giving up their one-point lead, but Malone missed both of his free shots after being fouled while shooting. Wartes then made both halves of a 1-and-1 situation, just 2:40 deep into the second quarter, to send the Herd into their first lead of the game, 18-17.

CORONADO REGAINED the lead, 19-18, on a field goal, and got the ball again, but Schmucker stole the ball and fed Sparks for a goal that made it 20-19, Hereford.

Wartes connected to make it 22-19, and then Coronado came back for a 22-22 tie, with 2:12 left in the first half. It was

One of these days, somebody is going to stumble upon a caboose sitting all by itself beside a lake in the mountains.

He'll likely shake his head, rub his eyes and wonder if maybe he hasn't, after all, been hitting the bottle too much.

It's all Harlan Vander Zee's fault. The Hereford State Bank president bought two cabooses three or four weeks ago — one for him and the other for his mother-in-law, at Tulla.

"It looks a heck of a lot better from this distance," observed Jeff Carlile, executive vice president of the bank, late Friday afternoon as he and Vander Zee rode east toward Hereford on U. S. 60. They looked back at the caboose, built in 1905 and too delapidated for railroad use any longer, sitting on the siding near Big Tex Cattle and Grain Elevator near Summerfield.

They were riding comfortably now, with vice president Craig Smith of the Hereford their last time of the evening to enjoy that feeling.

First Schmucker and then Wartes hit field goals, and then both came back with 1-and-1 free throw situations and both made it count to the maximum. That eight-point splurge put Hereford comfortably ahead, 30-22, and the two teams played about evenly the rest of the way. Hereford built up a lead of 12 points on three different occasions in the last half before a late Mustang rally cut it down to 6 points.

THE LATEST threat came with 1:30 left, when Coronado's 6-2 guard, Mark Curry, drove the lane and cut the margin to 36-30. McNey was fouled with 1:07 to play, though, and raised the lead to eight points with his two one-pointers. Fourteen seconds later, McNey was fouled again, and he again responded with two completions, for a 60-50 advantage.

Hereford led after three quarters, 44-35. Hereford had six turnovers the first quarter, three the second, two the third and five the fourth, for a total of 16. The Whitefaces forced Coronado into four first-period errors, seven in the second, four in the third and seven in the fourth, for a total of 22 turnovers.

Hereford committed 26 fouls and Coronado 18. The Whitefaces made 20 of 29 free throws, Coronado made 19 of 27.

State Bank their chauffeur.

Vander Zee and Carlile rode the caboose from Amarillo to the siding, right behind the engines of a Santa Fe freight train.

"At least we stayed on it. It's cold in there," Carlile said. "Oh, it wasn't bad. It just came right along," Vander Zee said.

Carlile wasn't quite as enthusiastic about the ride, you see. "Depends on what you're used to," Carlile smiled.

Vander Zee paid $1,300 each for the two cabooses and was a bit disappointed he didn't get down to money talk several days earlier, because another party got into the bidding, pushed the price up some and finally got one of three cabooses that Bill Hughes of Amarillo had up for sale.

"But don't tell people how much I paid. They'll think I'm crazy," he pleaded.

At one time, railroads used to burn their cabooses when they got old. Then they discovered people would pay money for them, and the price for them has gradually risen with demand.

Vander Zee feels if the caboose is in good enough shape after his renovation project, Santa Fe will pull it onto the railroad tracks and take it to the town of his choice and then a truck could haul it the rest of the way to a resort area.

"I plan to re-do it, inside and outside. Eventually sometime we'll move it some place on the river or lake," Vander Zee said. He plans to keep the decor like it is outside, but will make the inside into a "comfortable" living quarters.

"I'm sure I'll do it myself. I don't think I'm gonna be able to get Jeff or Craig to be of much help to me," he smiled, and they nodded he was correct.

While Vander Zee has built up considerable enthusiasm for the caboose, his wife has been somewhat more reserved.

"Jeff didn't help a bit," Vander Zee said. "A year or so ago, when it was in the initial talking stages, everytime my wife was around, he'd bring it up. She didn't care much for the idea. But I like it."

He smiled. "Everybody has got to have a few vices."

According to a recent nationwide poll, 13 of every 100 Americans over 16 cannot read well enough to get along in daily life. The National Geographic Society says.

Annual crop clinic planned Thursday

Areas of interest to local farmers will be covered Thursday at the Bull Barn. Specialists from throughout the state are here for the annual Deaf Smith County Crops Clinic.

The clinic, sponsored by the Deaf Smith County Crops Committee, will be a day-long affair, beginning at 9:30 a. m. and lasting until 4:30 p. m.

There is no cost for the clinic but there will be a $1.50 Dutch Treat barbecue beef lunch at noon.

Ed Garnett of Amarillo will open the clinic with his discussion of the contribution of crops to the state-wide "3.76 in '76" program recently initiated by the state and he will be followed by Dr. Anton J. Bockholt of Texas A&M who will discuss the corn leaf blight.

Frank Petr, area agronomist, will discuss hybrids, Dr. Robert Berry plant health, and Dr. Bill Clymer, insect problems in crops. Dr. Raymond Brigham of Lubbock will discuss soybeans to end the morning session of the clinic.

Petr and Garnett will begin the afternoon session with a discussion on alfalfa, followed by Leon New's talk on how often to irrigate crops.

James Valentine of Lubbock will discuss "Fat Plants" and the clinic will conclude with a discussion on weeds by Dr. Allan F. Wiese.

"The crops committee has given a lot of study to some topics they think farmers are interested in," county agent Justin McBride said of the clinic. "Also, we are bringing in some specialists that are real well versed in subjects that are of current interest and we hope everyone will attend."

I hate people. Especially children.

I like to sneak up on them when they are only two or three or four years old, when their bodies are straight and healthy and full of bounce and fun, full of life and joy, when they're saying, "Look at me! Look at me! See how high I can jump!" and "Look at me, Mom, watch me catch the ball! Look at me, Dad, see how fast I can run!" Those are the little ones I like to pull down. Because I hate people. Especially children.

I like to watch little children trip and fall, just at that look-at-me stage when they're so proud of their first steps, fall and rise slowly, every day a little more slowly, until finally they have to hang on to a chair to pull themselves to a standing position. It makes me laugh when they can't stand up without having to first bend down and clutch their ankles, and then force their hands up their legs, their knees, their thighs until they are shakily, momentarily erect. And the more they struggle with what ought to be the most natural of functions, the better I like it. Because I hate people. Especially children.

It makes me laugh to watch a six-year-old lose all the muscles in his legs, in his arms, his shoulders and his hands. His fingers lose the power to move. One by one his muscles waste away until he cannot hold a ball or a book or move a piece on a checkerboard or feed himself, and finally must be carried in a tomb of dead flesh unlivened by muscle, carried from bed to wheel chair to bathroom—a child robbed of childhood, of adolescence, and soon of life itself.

For the haters of people, and especially of little children, this is even better than polio because, once polio strikes, the condition of the victim is fixed on an invalid's plateau. But this muscle business gets worse and worse every day, every week, as the muscles waste away. The back curves, the feet turn in and curl up—a body without muscles is like a balloon without air—and finally there isn't a single normal function my victims can perform. They can't stand, can't walk, can't sit, can't speak, can't write, can't swallow, can't digest, can't even sneeze or roll over in bed—for the simplest things, even a smile, call on some muscle.

I laugh when they can't turn over in bed, knowing that the minds inside their helpless heads are normal and keen and longing to break out into the freedom of the healthy-muscled world. And, finally, when they haven't a single muscle left, not even strength for the little act of independence of sipping liquid through a straw, when the inevitable downhill slide into helplessness leaves them without even the final muscle for the final breath—for breathing calls on muscles, too—then I say, "Good, I've done my work well, I've trapped these children in the most mysterious and hopeless disease known to man."

Or should I say unknown to man? Let man hurl himself into the galaxies and take snapshots of the moon but, down here on this earth where I prowl, he is still unable to find a cure for this scourge of little children. For I am MUSCULAR DYSTROPHY, the hater of people, especially children, and I dare you to stop me. It will take more money, more time, more science and more love than you have yet been willing to give. Yes, I am MUSCULAR DYSTROPHY. I hate people, especially children. And I dare you to stop me. I dare you!

STOLEN SUIT

DENVER — When a 21-year-old burglary suspect appeared at his preliminary hearing, he was wearing a suit that the store owner said was taken in the robbery. The defendant later was convicted.

Registration fee for the meeting Friday is $5 which includes the price of a luncheon. Early pre-registration indicates attendance may be the highest in the history of the Water, Inc. annual meeting.

Heading the program will be Warren D. Fairchild, assistant commissioner, Bureau of Reclamation; Brig. General Harold R. Parritt, Southwestern Division Engineer, Corps of Engineers; Calvin Watts, Executive Director, Red River Valley Association; and Dr. Tinco van Hylckama, noted U. S. G. S.

geologist.

The afternoon session will feature a business session and a panel discussion by acting executive director Jack Fickenson, of the Texas Water Development Board, executive director Hugh Yantis of the Texas Water Quality Board and chairman Otha Dent of the Texas Water Rights Commission.

Bill Clayton, Water, Inc. executive director and state representative, will moderate the panel discussion.

As a part of the membership meeting, six directors-at-large will be elected and ballots will be counted in the 20 district director elections. Officers of the non-profit organization will be named at a board meeting immediately following the membership meeting.

Dave Charest had 11 points to lead the seventh grade, followed by Dave Ford with 6. At half time during their game, the seventh grade led 14-12 but came back in the third quarter to breeze ahead to stay.

Marvin Harris tallied 23 points to lead the eighth grade to its win, with 19 of those points coming in the first half. Score at halftime was 28-9.

Coach Grady Allen's ninth graders, led by the 22 point performance of Dan Vander Zee, slipped past the Canyon team. James Harris added 18 points to help in the win.

Mint, peppermint and spearmint, in the United States and Europe, is one of man's most popular, if not always proven, panaceas, according to the National Geographic Society. In England of 1640, the King's herbalist catalogued the uses of mint in the management or cure of snakebite, acne, bleary eyes, headaches, roughness of tongue, mad dog bites, kidney stones, bad memory, ill-favored breath, dandruff and scurvy.

A BARGAIN YEARLING NEW YORK — Vander Pool, a $2,000 yearling buy in 1919, won all 11 starts as a 2-year-old in 1920. One of his wins came when Equipoise was disqualified in the Youthful Stakes at the old Jamaica track. Vander Pool won his first 15 races before the colt was beaten in 1931. His careermark was 19 victories in 32 races.

Open house scheduled at chapel by Latter-Day Saints members

Two young representatives of the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-Day Saints (Mormon) who have become acquainted with many Hereford residents in the two months they have been working here, will be introduced to others at an open house in the Mormon Chapel, 500 Country Club Drive, Thursday evening. The public is invited to see a film and exhibits in the open meeting which will begin at 7:30 p. m. with the local church members as hosts.

Special emphasis will be placed on the Mormon program for young men and women, like the two here, go on missions for their church. Both 19 years old and with a year of college behind them, the workers in Hereford are Elders Bruce Olson of Provo, Utah and Craig Marti of Boise, Idaho. They have become familiar figures in the city as they ride bicycles about the streets, visiting residents who are interested in their discussions of Mormon beliefs.

Tech enrollment sets new record

LUBBOCK — Official tabulations placed the spring semester enrollment at Texas Tech University at a record 19,494 students, up more than 6 per cent over the 1970 spring semester figure. The 1971 figure is up 1,137 over the 1970 spring total of 18,357.

The largest increases came in the Graduate School and in the College of Arts and Sciences. Totals by colleges are: Agricultural Sciences, 1,197; Arts and Sciences, 5,791; Business Administration, 4,195; Education, 2,245; Engineering, 1,723; Home Economics, 1,188; Graduate School, 2,820, and Law School, 245.

This year's enrollment shows 11,733 men and 7,741 women as compared with 11,263 men and 7,184 women last spring.

This year's classification statistics show 6,452 freshmen; 3,794 sophomores; 3,203 juniors; 2,978 seniors, and 3,088 graduates, including law students who are all graduate students. There was an increase in all classifications except juniors.

In the 18th century, to keep from tripping over the pointed toes of their shoes, some courtiers attached the elongated tips to their bolts with cords, silk straps and gold and silver chains.

Golf course superintendents attend confab

DENVER — Donald Bridges, golf course superintendent of John Pitman Municipal Golf Course, Hereford, Texas, is in Denver this week attending the 42nd International Turfgrass Conference and Show.

This year's show is being held at the Curran Hall Convention Complex in Denver.

Sponsored by the Golf Course Superintendents Association of America, the conference is considered the most important and outstanding annual forum of the turfgrass industry. Highlighting the educational program are over 35 outstanding speakers who include some of the top agronomists, research scientists and golf course superintendents in the world.

Each year, the conference marks the beginning of the golf season for the golf course superintendent, even though 75 percent of the nation's golf courses will not be open for play for another two months.

Following the conference, the superintendents return to their courses armed with new knowledge and techniques to help them provide golfers with the finer golf turf.

Valentine coffee given Saturday

Approximately 75 guests attended three portions of a Valentine coffee Saturday in the home of Mrs. Emil Dettman, 117 Reach.

Inventory of household goods is study topic

Argen Draper spoke to members of Westway Home Demonstration Club Thursday concerning inventory of their household goods and personal effects.

She said "Your memory may be excellent, but to recall exactly, what household goods and personal possessions you have in any given place in your home is nearly impossible.

"To rely entirely on your memory is inviting difficulty," she explained. "In case of damage or loss, you will find your insurance will require inventory of that property lost, damaged or destroyed."

A new member in attendance at the meeting held in the Andrew Kersten home, was Mrs. Agnes Buchler.

Decorations and refreshments brought out the Valentine theme.

Others present were Mmes. Joe Artho, Bess Werner, Paul Rudd, Joe Landers, T. B. Thomas and Albert Lamb.

January wrecks total 10 locally

The state Department of Public Safety investigated 10 accidents on rural highway in Deaf Smith County during January.

Deaf Smith County was the ninth highest county in this region in the number of accidents during January, surpassed by Carson with 13, Gray with 16, Hutchinson with 14, Moore with 18, Potter with 18, Randall with 13, Swisher with 11 and Tildam with 12.

The county, however, was second in the number of persons injured in accidents during the month. Deaf Smith County had eight who sustained injuries, topped only by Gray with nine.

Hutchinson had two fatalities to lead in that department. The rural traffic accident summary for the 80 counties of the Lubbock DPS Region for January shows total of 467 accidents resulting in 17 persons killed and 235 persons injured as compared to January of last year, with 466 accidents resulting in 15 persons killed and 188 injured.

INVENTION SPREAD
DENVER — Frank Marugg, 63-year-old inventor who, with a former Denver police official, devised the metal "boot" affixed to automobiles after continued violations, says his invention has spread to Paris.

MORE CRIME
LONDON — The number of indictable offenses, per thousand population, more than doubled in Britain between 1961 and 1968, an official report shows. Convictions for drug offenses rose from about 4,500 in 1967 to 7,00 in 1968.

Hosting the coffee hours at 10 a. m., 1:30 and 3 p. m. with Mrs. Dettman was Mrs. Earl Holt.

The serving table, covered with a white linen and lace cloth, was centered with an arrangement of red and white carnations in Valentine motif.

Refreshments of sandwiches, cookies, nuts, mints, strawberries, iced tea and coffee were served.

Fair Warning

While a housewife was polishing her dining room table, the telephone rang in the kitchen. Although she was out of the room only a few minutes, her infant son managed to take a drink of the furniture polish. It was poisonous, and the child died.

In due course, the victim's parents filed a damage suit against the manufacturer of the polish. They charged that the label failed to warn how dangerous the polish was.

True, the label did contain the words "May be harmful if swallowed." Nevertheless, the company was indeed held liable for the tragedy. The words were found to be too mild a warning for so deadly a product. Besides, they were placed in an obscure position on the package.

One of the common issues in product liability cases is whether the manufacturer has given the user "fair warning" of possible danger. Generally speaking, the warning should be as conspicuous and as urgent as the danger reasonably calls for.

To judge the adequacy of a particular warning, courts will weigh various factors. Thus:

A label on paint, listing a dangerous ingredient, was held inadequate because the ingredient was described only by its chemical name, which few users would understand.

And the warning on a cleaning fluid was held inadequate because it was printed in letters that were too small.

On the other hand, when the warning is fair, it is not the manufacturer's fault if the user simply fails to pay attention to it. For example:

An adhesive compound, placed too close to an open flame, exploded and injured the user. But when he sued for damages, the company pointed out that the label had a plain and positive warning of the danger. Accordingly, the victim's claim was turned down.

Furthermore, many dangers are so obvious that no warning is needed at all. As one judge put it: "A knife will cut and a stove will burn; but no authority holds that manufacturers must warn of such contingencies. No one needs notice of what he already knows."

Fifteen finish Tech pilot training course

CYCLING MISSIONARIES — Bruce Olson, left, and Craig Marti are young representatives of the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-Day Saints, doing volunteer service here as a part of a two-year assignment in missionary work. They will assist local church members in an open house program Thursday evening in the LDS chapel on Country Club Drive.

LUBBOCK — Fifteen Mexican-American and Negro-American women have successfully completed a pilot secretarial training program at Texas Tech University and have moved into full-time regular employment at the university.

All but two of the original 17 who began the program of classroom instruction and on-the-job training last September completed the work.

Tech President Grover E. Murray presented certificates to the graduates of the course in ceremonies Thursday (Feb. 4) in the University Center.

Dr. Murray congratulated the women for their accomplishments and commended Charles B. Strawn, director of personnel at Tech under whose direction the program was conducted.

"The supervisory personnel associated with this program of development for minority groups deserve high praise for the results obtained," Dr. Murray said.

"Particularly I want to recommend Mr. Strawn for directing and implementing this pilot program which not only benefits the enrollees by equipping them to perform more efficiently and earn better salaries, but it also provides an added source from which this university may employ competent secretarial and clerical help."

In almost every case, the women will continue to work in the offices at Texas Tech where they were employed as on-the-job trainees.

Dolores Kilchenstein, assistant professor in the Department of Business Education and Secretarial Administration, spent full-time with the trainees during the program. She taught them secretarial techniques, then made periodic visits to the enrollees and their employers on campus.

The objective of the pilot program, Strawn said, was to "train qualified minority members in basic secretarial skills, to give them on-the-job experience and upon satisfactory completion place trainees in permanent university positions."

"Much of the credit for the success of this program of on-the-job training must go to the departments on campus who cooperated and particularly to the supervisors within the departments who worked closely with the trainees."

"Not only did we teach ordinary office skills, such as filing, typing, duplication and operation and maintenance of machines, but we also taught headquarters of the Watchtower Society, L. M. Dugan, district minister who travels a six-state area.

During the convention, parents and children will receive instruction in a ministerial development school the opening night. The school is similar to the one held every week here in Hereford at Kingdom Hall, 319 Ave. I, Proctor said.

Valentine cake designs studied

A program on Valentine cake designs was given by Mrs. Lynn Pittard and Mrs. Jay Kerr at a Friday morning meeting of Sweet and Fancy decorating Club.

Other members attending were Mmes. Steve Coneway, Paul Coneway, L. C. Roots, Leroy Edward, J. A. Crofford and Dale Henson.

The next program will be on the Australian method of cake decoration.

Copyrights And Copycats

To the would-be writer, few things are as precious as the words and ideas he has put together into a manuscript. Disquieting thoughts of literary copycats may cross his mind. Wouldn't it be wise to rush his manuscript off to Washington and have it copyrighted?

The trouble is, most kinds of literary material cannot be copyrighted in that manner. The only way to copyright a book or an article or a story is to actually publish it and to include, with that first publication, a "notice of copyright" (the kind of notice usually found on the back of the title page of a book).

Only after publication will the Copyright Office accept the material for registration. The registration, although not a copyright in itself, is useful in establishing the writer's rights in case of dispute.

Then what does protect his manuscript before it is published? It is protected, very effectively, by an ancient rule of law often called "common law copyright."

Under this rule, the writer owns his work automatically—just as the man who builds a bookcase owns it automatically. He need not go through any particular formalities in order to establish his rights.

Nor must he keep the manuscript secret to protect his "common law copyright." He may let friends read it. He may submit it to editors for possible sale. By doing so, he no more gives up his ownership than a person gives up ownership of a watch by submitting it to a jeweler for appraisal.

Furthermore, his ownership has no time limit. While an ordinary copyright cannot last more than 56 years, a "common law copyright" may last indefinitely—so long as the work remains unpublished.

In one famous case, an unpublished story of Mark Twain came into the possession of a collector. But his plans to publish the story were blocked in court.

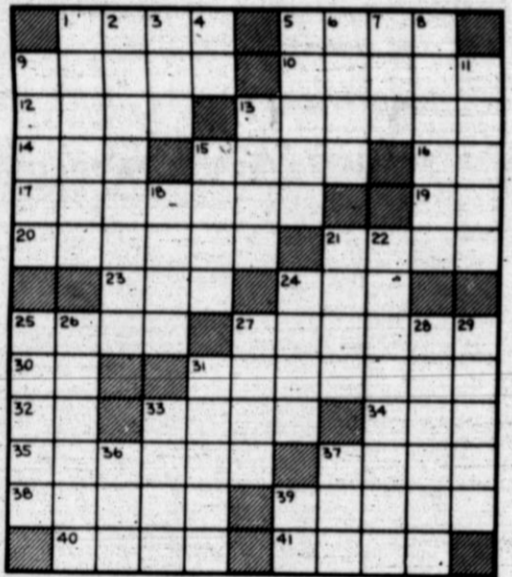

The judge held that even though 73 years had gone by since it was written, and even though Twain had been dead for 38 years, his "common law copyright" was still good.

Beta Sigma Phi

Valentine Queen

and Princesses

VALENTINE QUEEN of Hereford Beta Sigma Phi chapters is a title conferred each year at a February ball which is the social highlight of the sorority season. Crowned at the 1971 ball in Civic Club Center last night, the queen was chosen from three nominees, one named from each Hereford chapter by secret ballot of the members. The other two nominees were presented as princesses.

Her Majesty the Queen

Sandy Owsley

RELATIVE NEWCOMER to Beta Sigma Phi and to Hereford, the new queen is Mrs. Kirk Owsley, pledged to Kappa Iota Chapter in October, 1969, and now serving as its vice president. She has worked on the social, membership and service committees of the ritual chapter in which BSP members begin their affiliation with the sorority. A former Kansan, Mrs. Owsley was graduated from high school in Overland Park and attended Kansas State College at Pittsburgh. The Owsleys moved to Hereford early in 1968. They have a daughter, three-year-old Shannon. Mrs. Owsley's employment is with Deaf Smith County Farm Bureau.

Princess

Genevia Summers

TWELVE YEARS of service to Beta Sigma Phi here is the record of Mrs. Larry Summers, current president of the preceptor chapter, Alpha Alpha, and its 1971 princess. She has been president of the City BSP Council and of Kappa Iota Chapter when her membership was in that group. Other offices and committee assignments have been filled as she progressed to Alpha Alpha. One year she was chosen Girl of the Year for Kappa Iota, and was also its selection as princess. Mrs. Summers is associated with an insurance agency here, and is the mother of two married daughters.

Princess

Pat McDonald

CHARTER MEMBER of Beta Sigma Phi chapters in two other cities, Mrs. Bill McDonald, named princess by Xi Epsilon Alpha Chapter, transferred to that group when she moved to Hereford and is its president this season. She was on the charter list of Nu Phi Mu Chapter at Canyon and also of an exemplar chapter formed at Brownwood in 1961. The latter group selected her as 1964 Girl of the Year. She has served as president of a chapter three times, secretary and treasurer twice each, and has headed various committees. On the faculty of Hereford High School, Mrs. McDonald has two children, Larry and David.

HEREFORD, TEXAS, 79045, SUNDAY, FEBRUARY 14, 1971

Rena Rae Newton . . . has flourishing business

Necessity spurs woman into business success

By JANIE REINART
Staff Writer

"When my husband died in 1957 I knew I had to make a living for myself and my four children," said Mrs. Lester Newton, owner of Rena Rae's of Texas, a local fabric business which has expanded into a regional manufacturing firm to supply distributing firms of the Midwest and Southwest.

"I didn't even know how to sew," she recalled. "Someone from a plant in California told me 'if you know how to hem a captowel, you can make draperies.'"

She was desperate — desperate enough to become successful.

She started the next year as retail quilter with a local drapery shop, sold out in 1965, quit retail work and started working for decorators and dealers in drapery stores across the country.

"Hereford had been good to me so I came back and set up my business here," she said. She was born in Hereford and moved to Arizona because of her husband's health. "The people here evidently liked my work because they patronized me and gave me their business," she added.

Her factory located on West Highway 60, is operated by nine assembly line workers with six salesmen who travel and sell her line of quilting.

Average factory output per week is 500 feet of bedspreads, valances and swags, according to Mrs. Newton.

Fabric is first cut by her son, John, and is then ready to be filled with kotel fill which is ordered 50 rolls at a time from New York. Three Home Economics Cooperative Training students from Hereford High School who do this filling are Patti Carter, Peggy Hoffman and Sharon Pulliam.

Rena Rae, John and LaVerne Driskill do the quilting and send the product to be finished by Mrs. Bill Cargo and Mrs. Newton.

HFCT students then fringe or trim, make a final check, bag, box, weigh and mail the product to prospective dealers throughout the country.

Sample valance cases are made at the company for Denver, Salt Lake City and Albuquerque custom drapery departments, and Penny's in Amarillo.

This past year Rena Rae's production of valances has more than doubled and she now ships quilted items which she has designed herself, to 29 states.

She has contracts with Aero Fabrics and Draperies in Indianapolis, Ind., the world's largest manufacturer of custom draperies, Penney Stores, and Spring Crest, which has 80 established franchised drapery stores across the United States where Mrs. Newton's valances are on display.

These three dealers are the main reason Rena Rae's sales have more than doubled over the past year.

It first started four years ago when a man from Penney's in Amarillo used her work. He moved to Albuquerque and spread her business there and was then transferred to Denver where he now has 18 decorators under him, she explained.

Rena's main goal now is to be a nationally known decorative top treatment bedspread and quilting company.

This week she will fly to Dallas to appear and testify before the Interstate Commerce Commission in an effort to get United Parcel Service. It is a two day delivery service rather than the present system which takes two weeks.

At the same time she will meet with a Dallas fabric firm

M.D. CHATTER Household Inventory

By Mrs. Argan Draper
Home Demonstration Agent

CLUB PROGRAMS during February have created much interest and a lot of work has begun to get family business up-to-date.

It is recommended that all persons have an inventory of household goods and personal effects. This is to make persons appreciate the value of their household possessions so they can be adequately covered from loss. It is recommended that two copies of the list be made, one of them in a fireproof place.

Too, for your prized possessions it is a good idea to take pictures of these items and keep the pictures in a fireproof place.

THERE are seven leaflets in a series that we have in a packet and available to everyone for the asking ($64-3573) for you to read and consider in your business practices.

These leaflets were prepared by Eugene M. McElyea, L. L. B., College of Business, Texas A&M University and consultant to the Texas Agricultural Extension Service program in study of Estate Planning. These are the Extension fact sheets on Estate Planning.

that wants to start using her valances. Each year she attends the drapery market and shows in Los Angeles and Dallas and in this way advertises her business.

To get where she is today, Mrs. Newton has had to work 12-hour days. At one time she lived in the company building but now resides at 126 Mimosa with son Tommy, a freshman at La Plata, and daughter Carol, a junior at Hereford High. Another daughter, Mrs. Doug Bryan, also lives in Hereford.

"Someday," Mrs. Newton thought, "I want to buy a hand-guided loom. But my business must first reach the point where we need a bigger building."

She recalled the days when her husband was ill with a kidney infection: "The first artificial kidney was used on Lester," she said. "We had just moved to Arizona because of his health, and lived in a new home with new furniture which we had worked and saved a long time for. My husband lived in our new home three days before he died."

"Before long I started sewing for my neighbors and before I left I had made new draperies for 15 of them," she said.

MRS. JOE Buechler, a new member of the Westway Home Demonstration Club, gave us a copy of the Carbon County News published in Red Lodge, Mont. It has a page on a Potpourri of Old-Time Recipes.

These recipes were compiled and edited from 1867 sources with the explanation that the recipes and formulas are not guaranteed but are authentic frontier recipes.

This gives ways of curing meat, making extracts for cooking, and many things that pinders needed to know and use for raising families. If you are expecting a shortage of food you might remember this recipe from the 1800's:

"HOMESTEADERS, wagon-train folks, scouts and other folks who make the trip west should be prepared for adversity, especially food. Sometimes game is nonexistent in desert wastes.

"One food is with the traveler, regardless of the territory. Snakes are ever present and are in excellent source of good food. Rattlesnakes, keeping size to about 2 to 3 inches through, any length may be skinned much like peeling a banana.

"Chop off the head, skin and clean, cut into 4 or 5 inch lengths. These may be fried like fish, slowly, or wrapped in mud and baked in fire coals. The meat is like froglegs being of the same family and very expensive in Boston, London, and elsewhere."

Now you have the recipe.

1040 U.S. Individual Taxpayers Ask IRS

This column of questions and answers on federal tax matters is provided by the local office of the U.S. Internal Revenue Service and is published as a public service to taxpayers. The column answers questions most frequently asked by taxpayers.

Q How does the $100 deductible on a casualty loss work?

A The first $100 of a non-business casualty or theft loss is not deductible. Amounts over that can be deducted but the loss must be reduced by insurance or other reimbursement received or expected to be received.

The $100 deductible applies to each loss. This is further explained in the 1040 instruction package.

Q I've been unable to get a W-2 form from the job I had before I moved here. What should I do?

A If you cannot get this W-2, report all your income and withholding as accurately as you can and file your return on time. Explain why the W-2 is missing on the back of the Form 1040 and tell how you figured the withholding.

Q Last year my tax payment was not properly credited by IRS. What can I do to keep this from happening again?

A Put your Social Security number on your check or money order, make this payable to the Internal Revenue Service, and indicate what the payment is for. Should your payment be separated from your return or notice accompanying it, this identifying information will assure that the payment is properly credited. Cash should never be sent through the mails.

Q My father never took out his citizenship papers. Does that mean I won't be able to claim him as a dependent?

A If he is a resident of the United States and the other dependency tests are met, you may claim him as a dependent.

Q Can I add my driver's license fees and auto tags to my other state and local taxes?

A These two items are generally not deductible. Your auto tags could qualify, however, if this fee is based on the value of your car.

Q To claim the retirement income credit, is it necessary to have worked each of the last ten years?

A No, to qualify for this credit, you need only have earned at least $600 in each of any ten calendar years before the current year. Instructions and the schedule for claiming this credit may be found in the Form 1040 package.

Q I started working last year when my husband was sent to Vietnam by the Army. What do I do about our tax return?

A You have several choices. You may file a separate return based on just your earnings and then when he comes back, amend it to a joint return for the same period. This will give you the advantage of the lower rates for joint returns. You can also postpone filing until your husband leaves Vietnam and file a joint return then.

Another possibility is for you to file a joint return now indicating in the space provided for his signature that he is "serving in a combat zone." When reporting his income, remember that pay received each month while in a combat zone by enlisted men and warrant officers is not taxable. Commissioned officers can exclude the first $500 each month.

For more information, contact your local IRS office. They will be glad to help you.

Q If I pay someone to prepare my return, isn't he responsible for it being accurate?

A No, you the taxpayer are responsible for the accuracy of income and expenses reported on your return. For this reason, it is advisable to check all the entries on the form before you send it in. Make sure, too, that the form you file has the label with your name, address and Social Security number attached.

Q Last year I sold some of the shares I received in a stock split. What do I use as my cost basis?

A Divide the total number of your shares in this company's stock into the original purchase price to obtain the average cost of the shares you are selling. Report this on Schedule D and attach it to your Form 1040.

ANOTHER recipe for Sourdough Biscuits. There are many versions of sourdough biscuits. This one dates earlier than 1890. It is: Take flour, 1 quart; cream of tartar, 2 teaspoons; soda, ¼ teaspoon; sweet milk, wet flour to consistency of biscuit dough.

Mix tartar and flour well, add the soda to milk before. (This is pioneer language) Bake immediately. If you have no milk use water and add a spoon of lard to obtain richness. Sour milk may be used.

This dough was used for pie crusts as well as biscuits. It must be remembered that folks on the frontier knew how to cook, each had his or her own little secrets unwritten and handed down.

SUGAR was added if available, sometimes this dough with lard was twisted into shapes and fried like doughnuts to be eaten with pinto beans. Other times the dough was baked in a dutch oven, skillet with lid or baked on hot rocks.

Pinto beans, fried crullers or sourdough biscuits are still the fare of thousands in western states and mighty good eating.

Since Mrs. Buechler has told us about the celebration that Red Lodge has annually, we like to think about what the people of Hereford could do if they were determined to have a day depicting the customs and foods from the land of ancestral origin of the citizens of Deaf Smith County.

How many nations would be demonstrated? We should work on this sometime. The foods and dress would be so interesting.

PEOPLE have nice ideas about being friendly. We had a new club member; to get acquainted this new member got each club member to autograph her year book so she could learn names. Good idea.

ON THE WAY to the office

Twig Rose competes in big calf scramble

Twig Rose of Hereford will participate in the world's largest calf scramble during the 1971 Houston Livestock Show and Rodeo at the Saturday, March 6 Matinee Performance.

The Calf Scramble is one of the all time favorite events with audiences at the Houston Livestock Show and Rodeo. From the first time the scramble was held at the Houston Show in 1942, it has been a highlight of the rodeo. Of the 394 boys who participate, half of them will be successful in winning a calf of his own. Since its beginning the scramble has put more than one million dollars in livestock in the hands of Texas youth.

At each performance 24 boys are lined up within a square in the center of the Astrodome, and 12 calves are turned loose. At a signal, the boys race after the calves, the idea being to place a halter on a calf and bring it into the square. The 12 boys who accomplish this receive a calf certificate for either a dairy or beef calf, which has been donated by businessmen in the area. With his cash certificate he purchases the best animal he can find. He must then take care of the calf, furnish monthly records to the Houston Livestock Show and his sponsor, then return his animal to the Show next year to be shown in either the Junior Dairy or Junior Breeding Beef Division of the Houston Livestock Show.

A NEW WHEELCHAIR FOR RAFAEL—Rafael Ramirez, son of Mr. and Mrs. Benina Ramirez, of Route 1, received a new wheelchair Wednesday to replace his old, dilapidated chair. Shown with Rafael as he boards the school bus in this new chair is John Alkin, county chairman of March of Dimes, and Jewell Smith, county welfare administrator. Rafael said he was "surprised and happy" to get the chair.

March of dimes drive gets boy new wheelchair

Rafael Ramirez, 14-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Benina Ramirez of Route 1, received a new wheelchair Wednesday afternoon from local March of Dimes chairman, John Alkin.

Making the presentation with Alkin, now in his fifteenth year as chairman, was Jewell Smith, county welfare administrator. The heavy-duty, specially designed chair was purchased through funds collected in the county in the recent March of Dimes Drive.

Rafael's old chair was given to him several years ago by the Easter Seal program for crippled children and adults and will be repaired for use by a smaller child.

He was stricken with polio and paralyzed from the waist down, at age nine months when he and his family of three brothers and one sister lived in Mission, Texas.

Ramirez said they (the March of Dimes commission) told him before Christmas that he would get a new chair sometime after Christmas but he "couldn't believe I got it so soon. I was real surprised and happy to get it," he said.

Ramirez is one of nine students in the orthopedic handicapped class at Northwest Elementary School. His teacher is Mrs. W. C. Osborn who teaches basic reading, writing and arithmetic and is in her twenty-first year of teaching.

Among the students are polio victims like Rafael, cerebral palsied, a burn victim and children with birth defects. Driver of the special bus which carries five wheelchair dependents to and from school each day is Mrs. H. L. Higgins.

"Rights" for what?

We have long been concerned about efforts of our permissive Federal courts to separate "human rights" from "property rights", and the ultimate results of such thinking.

A case in point is the recent decision by the Iowa Supreme Court that defense of property does not warrant the infliction of serious injury or death and the subsequent awarding of a $30,000 damage judgment to an admitted burglar.

The owners of the property, Mr. and Mrs. Edward Briney, had been plagued with a series of burglaries at their farm home. The Brineys did not live in the house, but had left it fully furnished. In a desperate effort to ward off intruders, the Brineys had rigged a shotgun booby trap and Marvin Katko, an Eddyville service station attendant was struck in the right leg by the resultant blast as he attempted to enter the house. Katko readily admitted that he was trespassing and pleaded guilty to a charge of larceny in the nighttime, but he then sued the Brineys for compensation for his injuries.

The Brineys lost the case, and ultimately the appeal.

This past week the Iowa Supreme Court ruled against the Brineys, holding that defense of the property did not warrant the infliction of serious injury. The Brineys will have to pay, and we understand that the farm has been placed on the market to raise the necessary cash.

We have given much thought to this case since it first came to our attention several months ago and have wondered what the final decision would be. Realizing the seriousness of the action taken by the Brineys to protect abandoned property, we cannot help but feel that the decision of the court will open a legal "Pandora's Box". As always, the loser will be the average citizen who wishes only to be left alone to carry out his daily endeavors without fear of molestation either to his person or his property.

Fear of punishment has always been a deterrent against wrongdoing, and we simply cannot understand the thinking of those who try to tell us that all will be well if we only turn the other cheek. And we also feel that when property rights have been violated, then surely human rights have also been defiled.

No water for West Texas!

Growing more perturbed with each sentence, we read an editorial in a neighboring newspaper written by Ray Greene of the Gilmer Mirror. We read the article twice more and came up with a different feeling each time.

At first we were angry because Greene was suggesting in essence that West Texas could dry up and blow away and that all Texans should live in the central and eastern sections of the state. The second time over, we pitied the writer because his views could be perverted. But, the third time around we had to realize that the Gilmer Editor was just boosting East Texas, his home area.

Greene's opening paragraph stated:

"Louisiana's U. S. Senator Long snorted the other day that Texas would get water from the Mississippi River over my dead body." You recall that taking billions of gallons of water from the Mississippi into Texas through a series of canals and upstream pumping was a major part of that 1969 "Texas Water Plan" which Texas voters narrowly defeated. And by the way, they narrowly missed fiscal disaster in doing so.

Greene and others of this ideology — or idiocy — may be rudely awakened if they propose to be so selfish as to allow West Texas to dry up. "Fiscal disaster" would really come home to East Texans, plus those in metropolitan areas in the southern part of the state, if this happens. West Texas, in reality, will one day become even more important as their "bread basket" if the water is available!

The Gilmer writer continues:

"Both the cities and Dallas and Houston, through their water departments, already are proud of the fact that present and future reservoir plans and pumping facilities will keep them supplied with enough water to meet their growth for 50 years or more.

"When the growth gets ahead of the water supply. Let's bring the new people, new plants to where the water is, here in East Texas — and not spend billions to irrigate West Texas. By the way, a lot of that 'irrigated land' is not even being cropped. It is 'set aside' and the government has been paying its owners millions not to grow anything because of surpluses in cotton."

Is the man too naive to realize that this money actually is subsidizing him every time he buys food or clothing?

Then Greene's true motivation comes out:

"There are many fine new reservoir sites which can be used. Three of them are in the U. S. Corps of Engineer's plans in this immediate area, west of Mineola on the Sabine, on Lake Fort in Wood and Rains County. The Sulphur River-Cooper reservoir is already under way. Another huge one will be located between Winnsboro and Mt. Pleasant on Big Cypress above Lake 'O the Pines. Many others are planned. Texas has the water. Let's keep our heads about spending millions in electric power to send water to an area where farmers cannot afford to buy it, let alone the state taxpayers afford to pick up the difference."

Do you get the feeling, as we do, that this man is saying it's fine to tap the government kitty to develop East Texas water sources, but let's not help those greedy West Texas farmers? How else can his message be construed?

This further lends credence to the thinking of Marvin Sherbert — although he says it more discreetly — that if East Texas' water is fully developed before West Texas is helped, we can just forget about future water here. Sherbert, lest we forget, is a member of the Texas Water Development Agency, who was "revolved" out of the chairmans seat by Gov. Preston Smith, whom Greene believes 'has become more water wise in office. He now tells the Texas Water Development Board to halt these grand designs and come up with some short range, positive projects for people today — not 50 to 100 years from now."

Again, the Gilmer editor is defending his section of the state and saying 'hang West Texas' water development...now or ever"

West Texans — you and I — had better wake up and smell the coffee brewing before it all boils out. We had better "get out and vote" if and when a plan is again presented to help develop water for the ENTIRE state of Texas! — Lockney Beacon.

Talk of Texas

By JACK MAGUIRE

BUT NO MOBILE HOMES — Prefabricated housing was common in Texas more than 100 years ago! Many of the forts built by the Federal government in Texas in the mid-1800's did not utilize the stone or brick which the Army required for all permanent installations. In many cases, the post commanders preferred the prefabs to the temporary and flimsy canvas tents that were their only other alternative.

The scarcity of timber in most of the sections of Texas where the forts were built also made the prefabricated units especially welcome. Built in St. Louis, they were shipped to the frontier in ready-to-assemble kits. Three men could put up one of the cottages in four hours.

DOUBLE HONOR — A town and a county some 200 miles apart both honor the memory of George Washington Glasscock.

The town was named after him in 1848 when he gave 127 acres of prime land as the site of the Williamson County seat. Grateful residents named it Georgetown.

In 1887, the Legislature created a new county in west Texas and decided to name it Glasscock.

RAPID TRANSIT — When Dallas opened its first mule-drawn streetcar line in 1872, many citizens thought that it was too fast for safety.

A spectacular accident that killed part of the mule-power didn't help matters, either. The mile-long line ran from the railroad station on the western edge of the business district to the heart of downtown. At one point, however, there was a drop in grade of about ten feet. One day the brakes on the car failed and it raced out of control and directly over the bodies of its motive power.

No passengers were hurt, but they made themselves scarce for months afterward.

WHAT'S IN A NAME — The Caddo Indians may have been the tribe that gave Texas its name.

Historians differ as to how the name "Texas" originated and most argue that it came from the Indian word, "Tejas." However, W. W. Newcomb, director of the Texas Memorial Museum in Austin and an authority on the Indian tribes of the state, believes that the name is a Caddo word.

The Caddoes had a word, "tayshas," meaning "friends" or "allies." Dr. Newcomb believes that the Spanish pronunciation of "tayshas" eventually evolved into Texas.

TRAVELING TEXAS — For the tourist interested in old missions, frontier forts and Indian battlegrounds, the West Texas Chamber of Commerce at Abilene has issued a map showing 95 such sites in the western half of the state. It's free for the asking.

SENSING THE NEWS

By Anthony Harrigan

EXECUTIVE VICE PRESIDENT

Southern States Industrial Council

MILWAUKEE, Wis. — This great industrial city on Lake Michigan has been justly renowned as a center of American enterprise and skill. Machines and industrial equipment manufactured here are known worldwide for their excellence and reliability. But the success of manufacturers here — and throughout the United States — is being seriously jeopardized by a decline in worker productivity.

The problem isn't peculiar to Milwaukee or Wisconsin. A gradual slowdown of workers in plants and factories can be discerned in all parts of the nation. Those who are close observers of the industrial scene are aware that Americans aren't working as hard as they did in years past.

One businessman I spoke with noted that his company has more than a dozen plants in the United States, Europe and Asia. Worker productivity at the company's plant in Japan is two and one-half times as great as worker productivity at the company's factories in the United States. Even the plant in Great Britain — a country many Americans regard as the land of the tea break — has a better record of worker productivity than the plants in the states.

That's a shocking revelation. Americans have taken it for granted that they out-produce other countries. That assumption no longer is well-founded. Other peoples are striving harder for the good life and are aware that their national wealth depends on worker output.

Theoretically, Americans work an eight-hour day. But one company official said: "Today, we figure we get five hours of hard work out of the eight hours a man spends on the job."

One way to gauge worker productivity in a plant where a lot of electric tools are used is to plot the electrical load. At one plant, I was told, the load builds up very slowly after the work force arrives in the morning. The load begins to drop off about a half an hour before the regular mid-morning coffee break and doesn't get back to the normal level until some time after the break. In the afternoon, the load drops off again well before quitting time.

This thoughtless slowdown isn't the only manifestation of declining productivity. Many big plants have a critical problem of absenteeism on Mondays and Fridays. Some companies, faced with this problem, have hired college youngsters in their communities to work on those two days of the week.

Industrial managers also are very concerned about the apparent lack of interest on the part of many young people in skilled factory jobs. One official pointed out to me that new employees in their late teens and early twenties prefer a truck-driving job at his plant at $2.25 an hour rather than an apprenticeship in a skilled trade at $1.75 an hour, though the apprenticeship leads to lifetime employment at top blue-collar wages.

As a result of these developments in U. S. factories, the cost of American-made goods is rising rapidly. Many types of machinery are being priced out of the domestic market. A few years ago, a Japanese automobile was a rarity in the United States. Today, the Japanese are edging out the German automakers. The full extent of foreign competition isn't easily discernible. For instance, many supposedly American-made road-building machines consist of heavy forgings imported from Japan. Many U. S. farmers use tractors produced in Scotland.

Public opinion polls show Muskie in lead

By BERT MILLS

WASHINGTON, D. C. — Edmund Muskie is now running even or ahead of Richard Nixon in public opinion polls measuring the 1972 presidential race, which raises the question whether he will be shot down like most early front-runners for the nomination that can lead to the White House.

This is the year of decision for the Democratic Senator from Maine. As an unannounced but active candidate, he can test the political winds, learn how attractive he is to the money men of his party, and decide whether to become an all-out entrant in the presidential sweepstakes.

Senator Muskie is fairly well committed to a strong pre-primary effort. He expects to spend up to $2 million of his backers' money this year, to see whether he can solidify his early lead and scare off other contenders. His goal is to get so far ahead this year that he will come to be regarded as the inevitable choice.

In late January, Muskie made a five-day California visit that was typical of a series of trips he will be taking this year. He sought public exposure in a key area, gained the private ear of important Democratic politicians, and found out which money men are willing to commit venture funds to his cause this early in the game.

Muskie is not taking to the hustings to beg support. As the front-runner, he need not stoop to that. By simply making himself available in various places, he can test his magnetism, measure his position today, and decide what to do about tomorrow.

Is Nixon a One-Termer? The possibility that President Nixon may be a one-termer is not lost on Senator Muskie or his Democratic rivals. The Democrats have been speculating on this subject ever since November, 1969. Only the election results in November, 1972, will end the speculation.

That Muskie has so many prospective contenders in his own party testifies to the popularity of the one-term idea. Senator George McGovern of South Dakota thinks Nixon will not earn a second term, so he has already announced his candidacy. He does not want to let Muskie extend his head start.

Senator Birch Bayh of Indiana is an unannounced but active candidate. He and Senator McGovern were also in California in the same Democratic state convention that attracted Muskie. McGovern had a belated try at the 1968 nomination but Bayh is testing his wings as a presidential candidate for the first time.

Also subscribing to the one-term theory is Senator Harold Hughes of Iowa, who may seek to become a contender. Waiting in the wings are the party's most famous Senators, Hubert Humphrey and Edward Kennedy. Their problems and prospects are well known.

Muskie May Be Less Cautious — Senator Muskie's image after 12 years in Washington is that of a cautious and thorough legislator. Even as a Vice Presidential candidate in 1968, he did not go out on any limbs or upset any applecarts. He may seek to change his reputation this year. His California speeches suggest he plans to be tougher and more partisan.

Senator McGovern has charged that Muskie "tends to wait for a consensus to form before he takes a position." Maybe so, and maybe that has been precisely the right strategy up to now. A front-runner like Muskie need take few risks, while an outsider like McGovern must gamble a bit to get his name in the papers and his face on the television screens.

Even as an unannounced candidate, Muskie has dozens of professionals working fulltime on his campaign. They are able to provide him with a wealth of material in the way of position papers, policy statements, and instant briefings.

As long as President Nixon appears an inviting target, Senator Muskie can be expected to take more and more potshots at him. Of course, this game can be played by everybody and when Nixon begins to fire back, the 1972 political campaign will have begun in earnest.

THE BOOTLEG —Philosopher

Editor's note: The Bootleg Philosopher on his Johnson grass farm studies the post office department this week, with what success we won't say.

Dear editor:

According to some articles I've been reading in the newspapers that turn up out here, the post office department is undergoing a lot of changes in order, Washington says, to help balance the budget.

While I don't understand why Washington should balance its budget, very few people in the country balance theirs, still I've been following the reorganization plans and as I understand them the way to make the post office pay is to increase rates and cut down on service.

For example, first-class stamps are going up to 8 cents, air mail to 11 cents, second-class rates are going up, etc. At the same time, post office hours are being cut back, city deliveries are being limited, and it has even been suggested that rural delivery be made only every other day.

This might do it, just as farmers would get a lot more for what they raise if they'd farm just every other year, but if you ask me Washington is going about the post office business in the wrong way. It's not getting at the heart of the matter.

And the reason they're doing that is that there are too many people in this country who can read and write.

The way to solve the mail jam is to stop teaching kids to read and write. They don't need it, anyway, with television.

I understand some schools are working on this, some of them rather successfully, but I won't go into that.

Actually of course Washington has the wrong philosophy concerning mail service. The post office is a public service institution, it's not supposed to make a profit. It's like farming.

Yours faithfully,
J. A.

Small talk

WONDER HOW many catfish farmers read this column?

After it was mentioned here last week that some men admitted reading these news bits, Bartley Dowell told me that he was another one, and a woman said firmly, "Of course men like to read about the unimportant things people do; men are always bigger gossips than women!"

Now I've an item that should interest catfish farmers (and there are getting to be quite a few of those around here) and there's no evidence that any of my readers follow that profession. I do know that some of Mary Kay McQuigg's friends read this, and they will be interested too.

Mary Kay's brother, Don Carr of Eagle Pass, was elected to his second term as president of the Catfish Farmers of Texas at its first annual convention last month at Texas A&M. The convention was part of the third annual A&M fish farming conference.

MORE THAN 250 fish farmers were there, and I wouldn't have thought there were that many. But apparently this is a growing industry, not only in the Panhandle. In fact, officers and directors listed are all from east and south Texas.

Our local fish farmers may need to look into the CFT if they aren't already members; the convention commended a congressman for his efforts to have all federal programs for catfish farming placed under the Department of Agriculture, and urged federal funds for research and such aids to fish farmers.

No use letting the grain farmers get all the government farm money. As well as I like fresh catfish with my cornbread, I'm for encouragement to the fish farmers, too.

THE COURSE of true love can get unsmoothed in a hurry with a highway accident, Pat Hill tells me. One of those unpleasant occurrences has caused wedding plans for her pretty daughter, Charlotte, to be postponed.

Charlotte and her fiance, Jack Green of Snyder, are both students at Southwest Texas State University in San Marcos, planning an early spring wedding which now is likely to be a late spring wedding instead.

Both were injured in an auto accident near Blanco late last month. Charlotte was hospitalized a couple of days for observation of a slight concussion and possible whiplash injury.

Jack was more seriously hurt, with a fractured collar bone. He is also out of the hospital now, and both are back in classes, but the broken bone will take quite a while longer to heal properly.

A CLIPPING from an Austin paper, sent with a nice note from Mrs. William Patman, president of the Senate Ladies Club in the Texas capital city, is a feature story about Gene Sherman, wife of the new state senator from the Panhandle, Max Sherman.

Probably a good many people in this county know the housewife, mother of two and an English teacher in Amarillo Junior College, who helped her husband campaign for his office.

The interviewer was impressed by "Pretty blonde Gene" and her stories of vote-seeking over the big senatorial district, also her plans to make the most of her time in Austin, where she has enrolled for study of American literature in the University of Texas and is planning organ lessons.

MRS. SHERMAN told the news writer that she met her husband in Hutchinson County Jail at Stinnett — and maybe her friends here don't know that. Nothing wrong about it; neither was an inmate; they were members of a youth group giving a devotional program.

Sherman, who was a senior at Phillips High School, gave the talk and Gene played a portable organ for a quartet. They were not married until he was through law school and she had a master's degree.

Wheat referendum will be explained

Wheat producers from a seven-county area will be in Hereford Tuesday for a meeting at 7 p. m. at the Community Center where an explanation will be given on a proposed wheat referendum.

The meeting here will be one of several that will be held throughout the Panhandle this week. The purpose of the referendum is to raise funds with which to conduct programs of education, research, disease and insect control and marketing relating to wheat.

The meetings are being conducted prior to a certification by the state commissioner of agriculture for the Texas Wheat Producers Association.

Wheat producers from Deaf Smith, Farmer, Castro, Randall, Potter, Oldham and Armstrong counties will participate in the meeting here.

Ed Garnett of Amarillo, area farm management specialist with the Texas Agriculture Extension Service, will be the principal speaker at the meeting. Representatives of the Texas Wheat Producers Association will also be on hand to answer questions concerning the referendum.

The first signs of measles infection are cold-like symptoms: running nose; red watery eyes; harsh cough; sore throat. Then in about four days, a blotchy red rash appears and on or near the first day of rash, fever often shoots up to 104 degrees.

Tax exemption is higher; the surcharge is lower

EDITORS: Following is the first in a series of five articles entitled "Coping With Your Income Taxes." They were written to help taxpayers prepare their 1970 tax returns.

By BILL NEIKIRK
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON — When you're ready to start figuring your 1970 income tax, the best advice is to find a cozy chair at home, turn on a bright light, and bone up on changes in the tax laws.

The preparation will prove invaluable since far-reaching amendments favoring most taxpayers were made when Congress passed the 1969 Tax Reform Act. The personal exemption is higher, the surcharge is lower, and deductions for some expenses are greater.

One way to get yourself prepared is to read thoroughly the instruction booklet mailed by the Internal Revenue Service with your returns. For more detailed information, a good buy is IRS' 168-page "Your Federal Income Tax," available for 75 cents at IRS offices throughout the country.

Another handy document — and free — is "Highlights of 1970 Changes in the Tax Law," also at IRS offices.

IRS has spruced up its old reliable, form 1040, removed some of the clutter, filled it with more white space, and eliminated the instructions from the back of the form.

The result, IRS officials say, is a neater, less complicated and more readable form for the bleary-eyed millions who labor through figures into the early hours of morning.

All the preparation and typographical niceties won't help, however, if you overlook some basic pointers every veteran tax filer should know.

First, don't forget to sign the return and list your Social Security number. If it's a joint return, your spouse's signature and Social Security number are a must.

Second, clip your W-2 forms to the back of form 1040, another simple but necessary chore. Failure to do either can delay your tax refund.

Most taxpayers who filed returns last year have been mailed a booklet containing all the necessary forms. There's a gummed label that can be peeled off the cover of the instructions and put in the address area of form 1040. If your address has changed, you can make the corrections right on the label.

The form 1040 is basically a one-page return this year. The old schedule "T," a separate form for calculating your taxes, has been eliminated, and taxpayers may now do their figuring on 1040 itself.

But if you itemize deductions, had pension income, or sold stock, you will have to add pages to the basic form using IRS' "building block" method.

One of the big changes in the tax law increases the amount of the filing requirement, last year set at $600. Now, if you're single and under 65, you must file if you earned $1,700 in 1970. For married couples living together and entitled to file jointly, the filing requirement is $3,500.

If you're 65 and over, you can add another $600 to the filing requirement in each case. So, if a husband and a wife filing a joint return are both over 65, the filing requirement is $3,500.

Adjusted gross income is what you're aiming at first in the mass of calculations you'll be making. All it means is total pay — not take-home pay — minus such things as sick pay, moving expenses, travel expenses and payments to self-employment retirement programs. If you claim these adjustments, you must file a special form for each.

If there's one lesson to be learned from filing returns, it's that itemizing your deductions usually pays off, especially if you own a home, carry substantial debt, give a lot to charity, pay substantial state and local taxes, and have high child care or medical expenses.

If you itemize, such outlays are deductible. They can be subtracted in whole or in part from your income, thus decreasing the amount of it on which you will have to pay taxes. But if itemizing is too confusing or won't pay off, you can take the standard deduction, figured at 10 per cent of your adjusted gross income, but the deduction cannot be more than $1,000 (or $500 if married and filing separately).

In addition, the tax reform law included a new low income allowance, which may be as high as $1,100 for some taxpayers. The allowance, designed to remove many poor people from the tax rolls, is automatically figured in the tax tables.

Some key things to look for this year:

— The personal exemption has been increased from $600 to $625 for all of 1970. Next year, it will be higher.

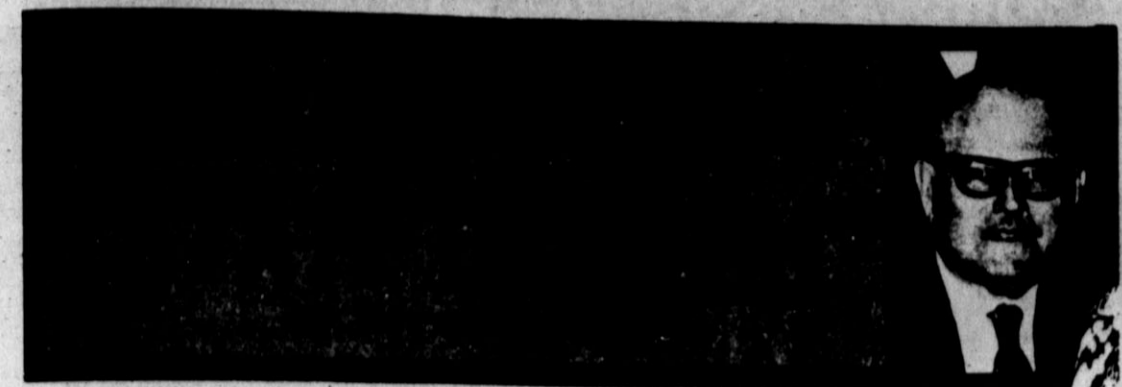

— The 5 per cent surcharge, although officially eliminated last July 1 from income tax withholding, is still part of the return. It will be figured as 2.5 per cent of your total tax for the year. Taxpayers can use the tax tables to determine their surcharge.

— The standard mileage rate for automobile expenses has been increased to 12 cents a mile for the first 15,000 miles of business use and 9 cents after that. For charitable and medical purposes, the mileage rate has been boosted to 6 cents.

BEAR'S CHARACTER
DURANGO, Colo. — When a Durango man was charged with killing a bear, two witnesses appeared to testify as to the bear's "good character." But Judge Lester Sherman dismissed the charge, anyway.

The United Nations was originally called the Associated Powers.

AUSTIN, Tex. — According to a 14-month nationwide study by the Citizens Conference on State Legislatures, the Texas Legislature ranks 38th among all 50 states.

The study reported that the Lieutenant Governor has too much power, and suggested that some of it be transferred to the President Pro Tempore of the Senate.

CCSL came out strong for annual sessions of the Legislature and found $15,000 a reasonable annual pay for senators and representatives (who now get $4,900).

The conference also suggested that Texas has far too many legislative standing committees (72 in all) and that 15 for each house would be plenty. A joint hearing by House-Senate panels would also save time the study maintained.

Broad powers of the Lieutenant Governor, said CCSL, are a "hindrance to the Senate developing leadership of its own choosing." Powers include appointment of committee chairmen, assigning bills to committees and casting tie-breaking votes.

States getting the best ranking were, in this order, California, New York, Illinois, Florida, Wisconsin, Iowa, Hawaii, Michigan, Nebraska and Minnesota. Texas ranked 45th in ability to control its own activities, 43rd in the use of available information, 36th in accountability to constituency and 17th in being representative of the state's varied interests and population.

REHEARING SOUGHT — Texas Automobile Insurance Service is seeking a rehearing on car insurance rates that were ordered by the State Insurance Board in December.

Counsel for TAISO and its 225 member companies filed official notice asking that the board re-examine the adequacy of rates it proposed to become effective January 1.

The insurance industry urged average overall 17.7 per cent increase statewide. Following hearings in Austin, Dallas and Houston, the Board agreed to grant a 14 per cent hike. Insurance Board staff had recommended 18 per cent.

Companies contend that "the use of a 25 per cent limitation on rate increases by coverage, classification and territory, without a specific allowance for catastrophes, results in confis-atory rates — which is not in keeping with the Texas Insurance Code."

REGISTRATION TO RE-OPEN — Voter registration is due to reopen for the month of February.

The legislature passed a bill to extend the sign-up beyond January 31, and Gov. Preston Smith signed it into law.

Sen. Joe J. Bernal of San Antonio, who sponsored the measure, said that the bill shows the Legislature's good faith by getting in line with the Federal court decision. I threw out the annual voter registration requirement and criticized the gap between the end of the registration period and the election date.

A constitutional amendment proposal to wipe out Texas annual registration requirement by state action and other bills to authorize a registration-by-voting system are now pending in the Legislature. Main argument about the latter is over whether registration should be for a two or a four-year period.

AG OPINIONS — The State Building Commission has authority to contract for equipment as part of a modernization, remodeling or building-construction project, Atty. Gen. Crawford C. Martin held.

In other recent opinions, Martin said that: — Duties prescribed by the legislature for a position classification officer, state auditor and a legislative audit committee, relating to a classification plan for state employees, are constitutional.

— Maximum compensation for the Grayson County chief deputy sheriff is $9,964; other deputies $8,737; and the base pay for two assistant county attorneys is $3,900 and other assistants $2,400.

— Anthony Independent School District may select as its depository a national bank located in that part of town which is in New Mexico, but may not terminate the present contract until it expires.

— The Women's Club of Houston is not entitled, under facts submitted, to an exemption from ad valorem taxes as institution of purely public charity.

COURTS SPEAK — The Texas Supreme Court held that the probate court of a county may not order a convict transferred from prison to a state mental hospital to receive treatment for drug addiction.

A jury trial was ordered by Third Court of Civil Appeals in an insurance suit arising from a fire at the Atlas missile site in Rannels County.

The Supreme Court invalidated San Antonio zoning ordinance amendment which would have allowed doctors to build a clinic in a residential area.

APPOINTMENTS — Jack R. Stone of Wells was nominated by the governor to succeed L.

P. (Pete) Gilvin of Amarillo on the State Parks and Wildlife Commission when Gilvin's term expired February 1.

Smith appointed Clyde W. Ross of Seymour to the Board of Pardons and Parole, succeeding 18-year-veteran Jack Ross of Austin.

To succeed Whiteside, Smith nominated William H. Heatly, 26, of Paducah as district attorney of the 50th district. Young Heatly is the son of State Rep. William S. Heatly of Paducah, chairman of the House of Representatives appropriations committee.

Smith selected Lealand W. Greene of Snyder as district attorney of 132nd judicial district, replacing Tommie J. Mills of Snyder who resigned.

The governor re-appointed Otha F. Dent of Austin to the Texas Water Rights Commission. He redesignated Randy Pendleton of Andrews as director of division of state-federal relations in Washington.

SPECIAL ELECTION MAY 18 — Four constitutional amendments were passed by the Legislature in overtime sessions and a special statewide election set for May 18.

The following amendments were approved for the May ballot:

SJR 5 — To remove the Constitutional ceiling on aid to the aged, blind and disabled and fix a $55 million maximum on aid to families with dependent children. An $80 million ceiling now applies to all four categories. Unless it is increased (via the May vote), reductions in AFDC will be necessary.

SJR 15 — To establish an official state commission to map ethical standards for state legislators and other officials and to set their pay. Critics lambasted the measure as a device of lawmakers to get a pay raise at a time when the public is demanding legislative reforms.

SJR 17 — Authorizing a $100 million bond issue to finance state aid to local units of government on water treatment plants.

HJR 21 — To permit submission of future constitutional amendment proposals in special as well as regular sessions. First on the ballot, determined by public drawing, will be SJR 15. Second will be HJR 21; third SJR 5 and fourth SJR 17.

A key proposal of Governor Smith's tap school land mineral lease-royalty incomes for current spending, (dependent on for $80 million toward balancing the new budget) fell by the wayside.

Li. Gov. Ben Barnes strongly recommended that the Legislature write a single-year budget which would dilute the tax bill necessary for this year, but necessitate another one in 1972.

Barnes proposed re-alignment of priorities for the use of revenue flowing through the oribus clearing fund as a way to avert an immediate welfare crisis without deficit financing.

The House revenue and tax committee dusted off a sales and cigarette tax bill, just in case.

Our Story: IN THE GRAY DAWN PRINCE VALIANT IS AWAKENED IN TIME TO SEE THREE OUTLAWS STEALTHILY REMOVING HIS ARMOR. HE JUST HAS TIME TO UNSHEATH HIS SWORD IN DEFENSE.

FEELING SAFE BEHIND THE PROTECTION OF THE SHIELD THE LEADER STEPS FORWARD. SO DOES VAL. IT IS AN OLD TRICK BUT IT NEARLY TAKES THE OUTLAW'S HEAD OFF.

THE SECOND ONE GIVES UP HIS LOOT AND A LIFE OF CRIME ALL AT THE SAME MOMENT. THE THIRD VERY GENTLY UNTETHERS ARYAK AND MOUNTS.

ARYAK ACKNOWLEDGES BUT ONE MASTER, VAL. BUT HE IS USED TO BEING HANDLED GENTLY, BY STABLE BOYS, SO HE GOES ALONG QUIETLY EVEN THOUGH HIS SENSITIVE NOSTRILS TELL HIM HIS RIDER SMELLS UNFRIENDLY. THEN VAL'S VOICE CALLS, "ARYAK, WHOA!" THE RIDER PANICS.

"YAH! GO!" HE YELLS, JERKING THE REINS AS HIS HEELS THUD INTO THE FLANKS. OLD MEMORIES FLOOD BACK TO ARYAK: OF HIS FIRST OWNER, THE CRUEL BIT THAT MADE THE BLOOD FLOW FROM HIS MOUTH, THE AWFUL SPURS THAT SCARRIED HIS SIDES. HE HAD RID HIMSELF OF THAT RIDER. HE DOES THE SAME NOW.

WITH WILD EYES AND FLARING NOSTRILS HE STANDS OVER THE HAVOC HE HAS JUST CREATED. THEN HE HEARS VAL'S SOFT WHISTLE AND CALMNESS RETURNS. BUT HE DOES NOT ANSWER IMMEDIATELY.

HE NIBBLES A BIT OF GRASS HERE AND THERE, NOT LOOKING AT HIS MASTER BUT GETTING EVER CLOSER. "PRIDE" LAUGHS VAL, "YOU MUST SHOW YOUR INDEPENDENCE."

WITH DIGNITY HE FOLLOWS VAL BACK TO CAMP AND IS SADDLED. "NOW LET US BE ON OUR WAY....."

hints from Heloise

DEAR FOLKS:
 This is for those of you who have that awful sore place on the back of your heel that hurts so much when you wear shoes...
 The longer you put any sort of pressure on it, the sorer it will get. Relieve the pressure. That's the only answer—so it will heal your heel...
 Buy several of those rubber powder puffs at your dime store and put them in the heel of your shoe for a lift. Then put your shoe on. It will be such a relief that you will think you have taken a tranquilizer.

 If you are ever out for the evening and the shoes you are wearing hurt your heels, you can always go to any restroom and use tissue paper. Fold some up and use that for a pad lift. Whew, it just might save the night.
 I hate new shoes. Why don't shoe stores have someone to break 'em in for us? I'd gladly pay an extra buck, wouldn't you?

 Heloise

DEAR HELOISE:
 As you know, uncertain close handwork such as embroidery can be very tiring on the eyes.

I realized when embroidering one day that my orange nail polish really clashed with the pink thread that I was using on this particular set of pillow slips.
 Now I make it much easier on my eyes. When working with pastel-colored thread, I do my nails in deep red. For work on darker shades of thread I use white polish and, of course, as I mentioned, I use orange polish when working with pink thread.

 This really makes a contrast and makes sewing easier—the threads are so much easier to find.
 Mrs. G. Ridgley

TRICK OF THE WEEK

DEAR HELOISE:
 If you have ever arranged flowers, you know how hard it is to put water in the vase without disturbing the flowers. Here is my solution:
 Put a hole about a quarter-inch in diameter in the side of a plastic drinking cup close to the bottom. Then fill the cup with water keeping the hole covered until you get it over to the vase of flowers. The water pressure will cause a stream of water to spurt out almost horizontally. You can then water from the side of the cup through an opening in the arrangement.

 Keep the cup filled by continuing to pour water in it from a jar. This keeps the stream of water steady and in the same place.
 Helpful

DEAR HELOISE:
 I recently went on a weight-lifting kick and decided to buy my own weights. But my husband suggested filling small bleach or fabric-softener bottles with water.
 And, as I progressed with my weight lifting, I increased the amount of water in the bottles, and with further progress even graduated to larger-size bottles.
 Mrs. Frederick

DEAR HELOISE:
 While shopping at my favorite dime store I bought a 10-inch no-stick skillet, and also wanted a deep pie pan, but the store was out of them.

This feature is written for you... the housewife and homemaker. If you have a hint, problem or suggestion you'd like to share... write to Heloise today in care of this newspaper.
 2-14

Then I came up with a terrific idea... I bought another 10-inch no-stick skillet and removed the handle.
 I now have a wonderful pan for an upside-down cake, a casserole dish, and an endless number of other recipes.
 Betty McClelland

MAKIN' BACON

DEAR HELOISE:
 Don't you hate it when bacon curls up all around the edges and won't lie down properly in the pan?
 For years I used a little paring knife to make little slits along the edge wherever it started to curl. But today I was using my lovely no-stick frying pan and certainly didn't want to scratch the bottom of it by scraping it with the point of the knife. I had the sudden inspiration of using my kitchen shears for this job.
 Just a small snip or two along the edge, and the bacon really behaves by lying nice and flat in the pan.
 Peggy Cooke

DEAR HELOISE:
 When you want to empty black pepper from its original can into another container, it can be done quick and easy.
 Lift off the bottom of the can with a beverage-type opener. It comes off very easily. Then pour from the side after pressing the can to form a spout.
 A Reader

DEAR HELOISE:
 When your young baby refuses to let you cut his nails, put him in his high chair and then cut them. Stand in back of the chair and cut with his little hands out in front of him.
 So often this will work because he probably doesn't really mind having his nails cut... he's just nosy and wants to see what's going on.
 I've always found this to be true with my small son.
 Mrs. Janice Ciszek

DEAR HELOISE:
 If you want to buy a real exciting gift for that favorite gal, go to her favorite beauty salon and get her a gift certificate.

 I don't know many women who wouldn't enjoy a few hours at their favorite beauty salon, and especially when it's free.
 Marilyn H.

You're not just whistling "Dixie," Marilyn, and that includes all ages—six to sixty! Hope hubby reads this—that's a pretty strong hint Good luck!
 Heloise

DEAR HELOISE:
 An empty small plastic squeeze bottle, like the kind glue comes in, makes a very nice bottle for a drink-'n'-wet doll.
 And the price can't be beat!

Four churches join to schedule Challenge-For-Living crusade

A weeklong Challenge - For - Living Crusade will be conducted by the Ed Robb Evangelistic Team, beginning next Sunday, sponsored by four Hereford churches. Daily services will be held at 7 p. m. in First United Methodist Church and at 7 a. m. in First Christian Church.

Wesley United Methodist Church and the Church of the Nazarene are also cooperating in the crusade which will bring to Hereford an evangelistic party that has lately returned from a series of such services in India.

Ed Robb of Abilene, the speaker, is Northwest Texas United Methodist conference evangelist. Music leaders will be the Rev. and Mrs. Gene Moore, who have traveled around the world with the Robb Evangelistic Association.

They sing familiar gospel songs as well as contemporary songs, including several they have written. The Moores have recorded singles and albums of the songs best liked by audiences who have heard them in crusades, retreats, church services and civic club meetings during the past 11 years.

Members of the four sponsoring churches are preparing for the crusade under leadership of a steering committee headed by Elmer Kimball.

Virgil Slentz is the committee member from the Nazarene Church, Henry Solomon and James Priddy from Wesley, Mrs. Mrs. Ivan Block from First Christian and Mrs. Bill Davis from First United Methodist.

Wives, children, and other wildlife

For a gentle, humorous change in reading material, there is a comically-written story available at the Deaf Smith County Library this week. Check it out today.

CHILDREN, WIVES AND OTHER WILDLIFE

By Robert Thomas Allen

This is a book of gentle humor for everybody — the ordinary guy with kids, the kind of guy who finds himself pulling on doors marked "Push" and is generally bemused by the things that happen to him.

In this delightful collection of his most popular pieces, Bob Allen proves that he knows just what you know and feel, only he knows and feels it more — and he definitely explains it all better.

"While other writers sat in European sidewalk cafes looking inscrutable and saying things like "He works too close to the horns" I found myself watching the way my wife salted the stew and saying "Why don't you measure it?"

Here, in generous measure, is Bob Allen's wit and wisdom on a marvelous variety of matters ranging from how to survive a children's birthday party to why women never get the point of a joke, and what happens when you treat a bull like a trusty friend.

Children, Wives and Other Wildlife is a nostalgic book peppered with keen and witty perception: "We don't really grow up," says the author. "We get bigger, fatter, more tired and involved in making a living, but the vital part of us is timeless." So is Bob Allen's humor.

MELBURY SQUARE

By Dorothy Eden

In the tradition of her best-selling The Vines of Yarrabee Dorothy Eden now offers her many readers a tumultuous saga of Edwardian England.

Spanning the years from the pre-World War I period to the present, it tells the dramatic story of a great beauty, Maud Lucie, the reigning debutante of London's fashionable Melbury Square at a time when nothing was more important than the next ball.

Already famous as the daughter and model of one of the leading portrait painters of the day, Maud waltzes through her first season as a favorite of the King himself, and it is expected that she will conclude the season with a brilliant titled marriage.

But both idolized and dominated by her flamboyant father, Maud finds her search for love and happiness thwarted at every turn.

How this vibrant, headstrong beauty is liberated and comes to learn what love is all about makes Melbury Square an unforgettable reading experience.

Colorful, romantic, and taut with conflict, it will be remembered as one of the finest achievements of a superlative storyteller.

TB SUFFERERS

Price introduces bill to revise anti-trust laws

Cong. Robert Price (R-Tex) has introduced legislation creating a National Commission on the Revision of Federal Antitrust laws.

"In the more than 75 years since the passage of the Sherman Antitrust Act the commercial system of this nation has undergone great changes. New forms of business activities require new regulatory laws. Not only must the public be protected against the greed of unscrupulous businessmen, honest businessmen need a clear legal framework within which to engage in trade and commerce," Price said.

According to Price's proposal the Antitrust Commission would be composed of 24 individuals, 12 from public life and 12 from the private sector. The President, the President of the Senate, and the Speaker of the House of Representatives each would select eight members, 4 from public and 4 from private life, with the proviso that not more than half of the members so chosen could belong to either of the two major political parties.

County wheat used in thriving bakery

A 17-year-old California girl has combined her baking talents with Deaf Smith County high protein grain and a number of other unique ingredients to come up with a small but thriving business.

Barbara Jaffe, of Palo Alto, Calif., is using flour that is freshly ground from organically grown wheat that comes from Deaf Smith County to bake loaves of bread for wholesale markets.

She combines the special high protein grain with salt from the sea, and mountain-grown honey to turn out three versions of bread at her own bakery at 2441 Birch St. in Palo Alto.

The honey used in the bread is produced high in the mountains away from farm operations and organically grown raisins are used in her raisin bread. All of her recipes she made up herself.

The young miss said the organic ingredients she used in the baking of her bread, produce the most nutritious bread possible. She said the ingredients have no chemical preservatives, extenders or stabilizers.

Miss Jaffe's shop is open from noon to 6 p. m., Tuesday through Saturday although she is at the shop from 8 a. m. until some time after the set closing time. She starts the day by mixing the first batch of raisin dough then she "scales" a batch of whole wheat dough, weighing it, measuring the right portion for each loaf and shaping it for rolling out later.

She bakes between 80 and 90 loaves of bread a day. Her father, a certified public accountant, is backing her in the business and keeping her books. The young girl has been baking since the age of 6 and the bakery is an outgrowth of involvement in organic foods and baking.

Concerning veterans

Q — What action should I take to get the increase that Congress recently voted for pension payments?

A — You need take no action. Any increase in pension because of legislation will be made automatically by the VA computer system.

Q — I have been attending school at night and working during the day. I receive one-half time educational assistance allowance from the VA. I now wish to attend the same school full time, and study the same subjects. What notice must I give the VA?

A — Visit the Registrar's Office and have them notify the VA that you have become a full-time student. With no further action on your part, your educational assistance allowance will be increased to the full-time rate.

Q — As a nonveteran, may I buy a GI home which has been repossessed and offered for sale?

A — Yes, The Veterans Administration sells these properties to anyone who can qualify as to income and credit. VA has a substantial number of homes which have been foreclosed following non-payment of the loan by a GI purchaser. See your real estate broker, since most brokers cooperate with the VA, to find out if any of these homes are in the area where you may want to buy.

THE FAMILY LAWYER

Clean Water Laws

One-and-a-half centuries ago, the poet Byron wrote: "Till taught by pain, men really know not what good water's worth." Today, taught by the pain of pollution in a thousand lakes and streams, we are becoming acutely aware of what good water's worth. Clean water laws are being enacted with new urgency and enforced with new vigor.

Yet, serious objections may be raised by those who are affected adversely. How do the courts look upon such objections?

To begin with, there are indeed limits as to how far the government can go in fighting pollution. Take this case:

A state water commission tried to halt the discharge of sewage into a certain river. But the sewage was being discharged so far from the nearest community, under such carefully controlled conditions, that the chance of any harm to public health was almost nil.

Under these circumstances, a court ruled that the water commission was overstepping its authority. The court felt that even in the name of clean water, there has to be some reasonable basis for government action.

Nevertheless, the vast majority of clean water laws have been upheld, even when they impose real hardship on a particular city, a particular industry, or a particular individual.

Consider the case of a factory owner who had been discharging raw pollutants into a local brook. When a new law banned this practice, he took the matter to court.

Mitchell rates baseball team 'pretty good'

The crack of the bat will sound in less than three weeks, with the opening of the 1971 baseball season for Hereford High School.

The opener is on the road March 5, against Amarillo High. The first home game is set for March 9 against Borger.

The Whitefaces had a 7-15 season record a year ago, and baseball coach Mike Mitchell inherits several returning lettermen in his first year at the helm.

Mitchell, a former college baseball standout, considers the local talent "pretty good, better than I had expected."

The players, minus a few who are still involved in basketball, have been on the practice field with Mitchell since the first of this month. They have been working on conditioning drills and on hitting.

"I haven't seen us even field a ball yet, so I don't know how we'll be on defense. But we have hopes of strong pitching in (Jeff) Loerwald, (Alan) Wagner and Rudy (Gonzales). But we will have to field the ball well, too," Mitchell said.

"I hate to get out on a limb, but we could be pretty good," he added. The West Texas State University grad sees good prospects of finishing at least third in District 4-AAAA. He rates Monterey, district champ the past five years, and Lubbock High as the teams to beat.

"We'll field eight strong players, but we drop off after that.

There's just nothing in between. Our good hitters will be good. But we're just not going to be very deep."

Among the returning lettermen are Eugene Suttle, Wagner, Chris Dziuk, Harold Schmucker, Loerwald, Donny McDermitt, Gonzales, Petie Lee and Frank Bezner.

Sammy Ramirez and Terry Scott are a pair of sophomores given a good chance to make the varsity roster. Twenty-eight players are out for practice. Barry Arnwine, junior varsity basketball coach, will move over to assist with the baseball program after the cage season ends. An effort is being made to schedule about 15 JV baseball games.

Of the 26 games on the 1971 schedule, 16 are district games.

A COACH WHO KNEW

DENVER — When Joe Belmont, coach of the Denver Rockets in the American Basketball Association, introduced Stan Albeck to sports writers as his assistant, Belmont said, "I'm probably hiring my own successor." How right he was.

Belmont was fired after the Rockets lost all but two of their first dozen games in the 1970-71 season and Albeck was named head coach.

The 19-foot bronze statue of Thomas Jefferson was erected in the Jefferson Memorial in 1943.

Each school will play two home games and two road games, on four different dates, against each of the four league opponents. The first league game is March 23 against Plainview here, followed by a March 26 game at Coronado.

The schedule:

- March 5: Amarillo T

Bunch elected head of Bronco baseball

John Bunch was elected Thursday as president of the newly organized Bronco Baseball League, replacing Gene Combs who announced recently he would be unable to accept the position this year.

Another meeting, for managers and coaches of all major, minor and pee wee league teams will be held Tuesday at 8 p. m. at the Pioneer Natural Gas Warehouse. The purpose of the meeting will be to reorganize for the change from Little League to Bronco League.

Don Davison, vice president of the league, said during the meeting Thursday that every effort will be taken to make the transformation from Little League to Bronco League by the time this year's baseball season is here.

The major differences in Bronco and Little League are in the playing rules. In Bronco, a base runner cannot lead off and a pitcher can take a full wind up with each pitch.

"It will be just straight baseball," Davison said. "It will be just like Pony League and this will help them because they won't have to make such a drastic adjustment when they go into Pony League."

At the present time, there are very few Bronco League teams in this area. Canyon is considering going to Bronco baseball this year, Dimmitt and Castro County may get it by next year and Friona and Vega are working to change their programs.

Davison said another advantage of the Bronco League is there is double elimination in the play-off tournaments whereas in Little League if a team lost one game it was out of the tournament.

The play offs each year will probably be held in Vernon or Wichita Falls.

Another advantage, Davison said, is that money collected at the games in the form of donations will go directly to the Hereford Bronco organization.

Hereford Bronco organization. In Little League, donations collected at the games must be sent to the district administrator and the league does not get anything.

Meningitis treatments may not provide adequate care

For many years, the various strains of bacteria that cause a dangerous disease called meningitis were successfully treated with sulfa drugs. But the usefulness of these drugs may now become somewhat limited. Dr. S. J. Lerro, medical consultant with the Texas State Department of Health, reports that more and more strains of meningitis are becoming drug-resistant.

Meningitis is an acute bacterial disease. It causes inflammation of the three membranes which envelop the brain and spinal cord. The disease may occur as a brief illness and with recovery; or, it may pursue a sudden, severe course with delirium, stupor, coma, and death within a matter of hours. Discharges from the nose and throat of carriers of the bacteria which cause the disease are the source of most infections.

In a study of meningitis infections in Texas from 1964 through 1968, Dr. Lerro found that two types—which doctors call Groups B and C—were responsible for most of the cases. In the last several years, there has been a definite increase in the percentage of Group C organisms resistant to sulfadiazine. In 1968, only 15 percent of the specimens from Group C were resistant to administration of the drug, compared to 77 percent in 1968.

Administration of small doses of sulfa drugs to large populations over a long period of time may have resulted in favoring the survival of a drug-resistant strain.

But the outlook is not completely bleak. Much progress has been made in research against the disease. An experimental vaccine has been developed that provides 90 percent protection against one of the three major types of meningitis for up to a year. Of course this means there is no vaccine for the other two types. But, Dr. Lerro reports researchers are working deligently on a three-way vaccine which will be effective against all three forms.

Campfire groups have joint party

Folk dancing practice was held by two groups of Campfire Girls Wednesday when Po-Ne-Wush members were hostesses to Tao-Ci-Ya group at the Campfire lodge.

Later, the Le-Wa-Ni and Hah-Ki-Ya-Ko groups joined the others for entertainment by a program guest, Percy Mays who presented a comedy monologue. Valentine refreshments were served.

Syria's 71,498 square-mile area is only slightly larger than North Dakota's but it contains nearly 10 times the population, according to National Geographic.

Sorghum hybrid data is available

February 11, Dr. David Hamilton was master of ceremonies.

A group of Mrs. Maggie Hamilton's friends from Matarador and vicinity who have been celebrating February birthdays together for several years came Friday for a noon picnic lunch in the southeast lounge. Guests were J. Tom Hamilton, Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Stapleton, Mr. and Mrs. W. D. Lipscomb, Mrs. F. C. Bourland, Mrs. Riley A. Day, Mrs. Fred Simpson and Mrs. W. T. Ross.

Dr. William Pearce, president of Wesleyan Methodist College at Fort Worth, visited his mother, Mrs. William Pearce, Friday.

Sorghum growers honored at meet

Five Hereford men were recognized last week for their accomplishments as leading sorghum growers of this area.

The men were Alfred Smith, Leroy Johnson, Carl Straffus, A. E. Hodges and A. J. Urbanczyk.

The men were presented awards by Northrup, King and Company in the form of the 1970 Carload Sorghum Club award, presented each year to the outstanding sorghum producer who uses NK hybrid. Johnson produced over 323,000 pounds of sorghum from a single NK hybrid, Smith more than 450,000, Straffus more than 275,000, Hodges more than 549,000, and Urbanczyk more than 292,000.

Robert Clark, Northrup, King and Company representative, made the presentations at a meeting of district winners held in Plainview.

The reaction of maize dwarf mosaic virus on a large number of commercial grain sorghum hybrids has been compiled over the past four years on the Texas High Plains. That information is now available to area producers, announces Dr. Robert W. Berry, area plant pathologist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service.

The information was compiled by Berry and Research Scientists Dr. Jerry Johnson and Darrell T. Rosenow at the Texas A&M University Agricultural Research and Extension Center at Lubbock. Copies of the report have been distributed to county agricultural agents and sorghum seed companies whose hybrids are included in the evaluation.

Grain yield of highly susceptible hybrids can be significantly reduced under high levels of infection, explains the plant pathologist. Those hybrids with an intermediate reaction may have reduced yields under certain environmental conditions while hybrids with good tolerance have shown no yield reductions from the virus.

At the New Orleans Cotton Exhibition in 1884, Venezuelan water hyacinths were widely welcomed and many people took the handsome plant home. But soon, the deceitful plant escaped from garden ponds, and today its descendants clog hundreds of miles of lakes and waterways.

Spring flower show is planned

A spring flower show will be held by Hereford Garden Club this year, for the first time in several years, members decided at their meeting in Community Center Friday afternoon.

Date of the show will depend on the weather. The club had its fall show plans upset by weather, when an early freeze destroyed plants due for display. A Christmas show in a home was substituted, but members hope they may yet have a public show during the club year.

A number of guests were present with members Friday to hear a discussion of organic gardening by Fletcher Sims of Canyon. He has been president of the Organic Garden Club of Canyon and Amarillo.

He spoke of soil properties, and the danger to necessary micro-life in the soil from use of chemical fertilizers and insecticides.

Mrs. Ray Johnson, Mrs. J. V. Pickens and Mrs. Harvey Yoak-um were hostesses who served tea after the program.

In a business period Mrs. L. W. Norvell, club president, was named delegate to the convention March 23 and 24 in Amarillo of District I, Texas Garden Clubs. Mrs. R. L. Layman is to be alternate.

Announcement was made that the club accepted in a called meeting earlier in the week, a landscape plan from Amarillo Landscape Service for the Garden Center at the corner of Main and Park Ave., the plot where the former Campfire Girl Hut was located.

Granted use of the triangular lot by the City of Hereford, the Garden Club is to maintain it, and plans are for a garden spot which will be attractive and at the same time demonstrate the plants which grow best in this area and require minimum care.

Small talk

By SUE COLEMAN
Women's Editor
IT'S PLUMB ridiculous how things can get stacked up sometimes, even though the Chamber of Commerce keeps a listing of dates for community events and the Brand runs calendars to announce them ahead of time and of course organizations do try to schedule things on days when there aren't too many other things.

But still there are times when it looks like everybody in town is trying to use the same day for meetings to which everybody else in town is invited. This weekend is a horrible example, especially Saturday.

Today is Valentine so naturally there are a good many parties around this time, but more than usual this year. We reporters of social doings were happy to note around Christmas-time, when there are more parties than you can shake a stick at anywhere, that several women's clubs that customarily had Christmas entertainments, sensibly skipped them this winter.

WHAT WE didn't notice was that they seem to have just postponed the parties, all to the same time, of course — Valentine. Nobody had a club party in the middle of January, when things needed living up. Or, if they had to have a holiday date, what was the matter with Groundhog Day? No parties then.

Well, there were a lot of Valentine club parties, but that doesn't explain Saturday. For one thing, the Community Concert Association program fell on that date, probably because it was the time when the wanted singers could be in Hereford — appearances by artists on tour must be booked on that basis.

Then Beta Sigma Phi usually has its Valentine dance for members and guests on the Saturday nearest the holiday. That was last night. And to round out the evening, the Young Farmers Young Homemakers had their awards dinner. And there was a reception before the dance, and one after the concert. Janie Reimert, Betty Koelzer and I had to divide up the cameras and take off in all directions, and it's a good thing there are three of us on the staff. It's fun to have a lot of things happening all at once, but confusing.

And Barbara Weatherford expressed another difficulty Friday; talking about the awards dinner she said "My mother is going to the concert and there goes my baby sitter!"

NEXT WEEKEND, now, will be pancake supper time in our city. This couldn't have been done intentionally, but Hereford Lions Club will have its annual pancake supper Friday, the Methodist Men of First United Methodist Church have announced their annual pancake supper Saturday, and now I hear that the Odd Fellows' annual pancake supper is scheduled Thursday.

Pancakes I like, but three nights in a row? These are all suppers that the respective groups have every year and I've been a satisfied patron in the past, but they never got lined up like this in any year I can remember!

MANY PEOPLE have been anxious as they listened to or read reports of the earthquake around Los Angeles this week, thinking of relatives in that area.

Corra Johnson was much relieved when she heard Thursday night from her daughter, Mrs. Sam Hoover of Arcaida, a Los Angeles suburb, and learned that the Hoovers and son Clark felt the shocks but damage was negligible in their area. Even though no news is usually good news after such a disaster, it

Disease seminar slated Tuesday

A tuberculosis and respiratory disease seminar is scheduled for 7:30 p. m. Tuesday at St. Anthony's Catholic Church auditorium, Community Action Agency coordinator Lorenzo Granado said last week.

The public is invited to attend. Emile Boyd of Austin and Charles McIntosh of Amarillo helps to have it confirmed.

will be the guest speakers for the seminar. "This will give students and adults an excellent chance to become involved in solving many health problems," Granado said. "We think it will be something to open the doors and upgrade our health situation here."

Shaped like a swept-wing airplane, Brasilia, the capital of Brazil, rises beside a 19-mile-long man-made lake. Government buildings flank a long mall that suggests an airplane fuselage, and tall apartment houses line the curved "wings."

1040 U.S. Individual Income Tax Return Taxpayers Ask IRS

This column of questions and answers on federal tax matters is provided by the local office of the U.S. Internal Revenue Service and is published as a public service to taxpayers. The column answers questions most frequently asked by taxpayers.

Q) When can I expect to get my W-2?

A) Employers are required to issue W-2 statements to their employees by January 31. However, the final date is February 1 this year since January 31 falls on a weekend. Many, however, issue them sooner for the convenience of those employees who are expecting a refund and want to file early.

Q) I was married last year and both my wife and I got a tax package in the mail. If we file a joint return, whose label should we use?

A) Use your name label since the husband's Social Security number is used to identify joint returns. However, you should print your wife's name on the label. Her Social Security number should be entered in the space provided on the return.

Q) If I let IRS compute my tax and I have a refund coming, how long will it take to get it?

A) IRS can compute the tax and issue a refund within 4-5 weeks from the date the return is filed with the service center. Actually, it won't delay a refund by having IRS compute the tax since the computations are checked on all returns we receive.

Q) If you don't have to have a job before you move, can anyone deduct moving expenses under the new law?

A) No, there are still limitations on who can deduct moving expenses even though these limitations are less restrictive. For details, send a post card to your local IRS office and ask for a free copy of Publication 521, Tax Information on Moving Expenses.

You can also find information on moving expenses, as well as many other subjects in Publication No. 17, Your Federal Income Tax. This booklet may be purchased from most IRS offices or the Superintendent of Documents, U. S. Government Printing Office, Washington, D.C. 20402, for 75 cents.

Q) What kind of mistakes held up taxpayer refunds last year?

A) Refunds were delayed when taxpayers had to be contacted to supply information they forgot to include—or listed incorrectly—when they filed their Form 1040's. Missing W-2 forms, missing signatures, and missing or inaccurate Social Security numbers were some of the major types of errors.

Q) The name label is on the front cover of the instruction package this year instead of where it used to be on the Form 1040. Why the change?

A) To reduce costs and add flexibility to printing procedures. To put the name label on the Form 1040 required the cover of the package to have a cut-out space. The cutting added to the cost of the packages and also limited the number of printers who could supply the packages.

Before the present system was adopted, it was tested successfully last year in several parts of the country.

Q) I have a partial scholarship that covers some of my college costs. Do I have to report this as income?

A) Most scholarships are not taxable and do not have to be reported. Since there are many different types of scholarships, check with the organization that gave it to you for information on its tax status. Details can be found in Publication 507, Tax Information on Scholarships and Fellowships, available free by sending a post card to your local IRS office.

Q) What taxes can I deduct on my return?

A) If you itemize deductions, then your state and local income taxes, personal property, real estate, general sales and state and local gasoline taxes may be deducted. List these on Schedule A, Itemized Deductions.

Federal taxes such as Social Security tax or those on alcohol or tobacco are not deductible. Hunting licenses, driver's licenses or auto inspection fees are also not deductible.

Q) What are the new tax rates for single people? I can't find them in the 1040 instructions.

A) These rates go into effect for the 1971 tax year and therefore do not affect the 1970 tax forms and packages that were just mailed out. The new withholding schedules just issued to employers do incorporate the rates for single people, however.

Educational aid offered by VA

The 1,000 wives of American servicemen missing or captured in Vietnam make up only a small percentage of the 500,000 women eligible for educational benefits, home loans, or both from the Veterans Administration, Jack Coker, Director of the VA Regional Office in Waco, pointed out today.

A law signed by the President last month made wives of servicemen listed for more than 90 days as missing in action, captured or "forcibly detained or interned in the line of duty by a foreign government or power" eligible for VA home loan and educational programs.

The largest group of women eligible for VA programs is 190,000 female veterans of World War II and the Korean Conflict.

Their unused expired loan benefits were restored by law last October.

Another 100,000 women now in service, or who served after January 31, 1955, qualify under the current GI Bill for monthly checks for educational purposes and for the home loan program with loans guaranteed up to 60 percent with a maximum of $12,500.

Under a new VA program, 175,000 widows of deceased veterans can go to school, take training or make home loans under VA programs. Some 8,230 thus far have taken advantage of these major programs.

Wives of 64,000 permanently and totally disabled veterans are eligible for VA educational benefits. Some 1,500 have participated so far.

Women who think they may be eligible for benefits under a new

Plant toured by club

A tour of the Wilson & Co. plant preceded a business meeting for Mon Amis Study Club members Thursday morning.

After being guided through the meat processing plant and getting a view of its assembly-line operations, the club women went to the home of Mrs. Jim Lookingbill.

Mrs. Martin Young was hostess with Mrs. Lookingbill. Mrs. Buster Thomason conducted business, including the decision to sell vanilla and spices as a club fund-raising project.

Mrs. Fred Walton was a guest. Members present included Mmes. Raymond Wiley, J.W. White, Jack White, Don Tindal, Jerry Don Lance, Leroy Edwards, Billy Cotton, James Connelly, Roy Botkin, L. C. Roots and Martin Young.

For the next meeting, March 11, the Mmes. White are to be hostesses.

Range reseeding research is cited

Range reseeding plays a vital role in a successful mechanical brush control program. But the cost of controlling brush and establishing forage grasses has been high, up to $40 an acre. If these costs could be reduced to $10 to $20 per acre, mechanical brush control and reseeding could effectively improve the production of rangelands.

Researchers at the Texas A&M University - Agricultural Research and Extension Center at Lubbock are attacking the reseeding problem which has plagued ranchmen for years.

"Present reseeding equipment is generally designed for clean-tilled land and will not stand the rigors of rangeland," points out Harold Wiedemann, agricultural engineer. "Also, the seeders deliver erratic rates and distribute the seed poorly."

"A modified Nisbet drill is our most promising seeder," says the engineer. "We remove all furrow openers, brackets, springs, seed tubes and automotive tires, then completely reinforced the frame and added 8-ply truck tires. The seed agitator was rebuilt to pull more seed to the picker wheel."

Range ecologist John Brock points out that extensive research in seedbed preparation has been conducted with heavy duty disks, large anchor chains, massive roller choppers, brush rakes and root rakes.

A 5,000-pound roller chopper has shown the most consistent results in achieving an adequate seedbed in tests at the Waggoner Ranch near Vernon, SMS Ranch at Dumont, Gene Whitehead Ranch near Menard and Lee Campbell Ranch at Kermit. The reason for this is the machine's weight and the "V"-shaped trough produced in the soil by the chopper blade. The chopper's heavy weight firms the soil. Then the seed which fall into the trough are covered by loose soil. Water from even a small rain will collect in the trough, and the three requirements for a good seedbed (firm soil, covering soil and moisture) have been fulfilled.

A requirement for seedling survival, optimum temperature, is much harder to control. "We are experiencing fairly good results with shade produced by fast growing tall plants," says Wiedemann. "Sorghum alnum, a vigorous and rapidly growing species, will produce shade for the slower growing, desirable perennial grasses. It can be added to the seed mixture at a rate of one-half to one pound per acre. It also produces sufficient forage for earlier land utilization by livestock. Land root-plowed for the control of dense stands of mesquite often requires two to three years of deferment before different grass is established for grazing."

"In addition to seeding and seedbed preparation equipment studies, a search for more-vigorous, competitive, palatable, forage-producing grass species is also underway," points out Brock. "Through cooperation with the Soil Conservation Service's Plant Material Center at Knox City, promising strains of grasses are seeded in nurseries at the reseeding locations. To date one of the most promising new strains of grasses is Old World Bluestem."

The selection of grass species in a particular area is important in reseeding. Brock suggests that persons interested in rangeland reseeding contact their local county agricultural agent and Soil Conservation Service personnel for advice in selecting grass species.

"Poor results from reseeding can often be attributed to inadequate seedbed preparation, selection of grasses not suitable for the location, reseeding in soil of low forage production potential, low quality seed and poor seeding equipment," points out Brock.

"Our research seeders are small and not practical for extra large sites," explains Wiedemann. "So we are also experimenting with gang hitching seeders and roller choppers, 400-foot anchor chains for site preparation and seed coverage, aerial seeding and extra thin, finless root plows to reduce the overall costs."

Wiedemann and Brock's goal in assisting the ranchmen of West Texas is to develop a brush control and reseeding system which will be practical, relatively inexpensive and effective under a broad spectrum of rangeland conditions.

These studies are just one phase of the overall brush control research program under the direction of C. E. Fisher, statewide coordinator of Texas A&M's field brush research program. Individual ranchmen and the Brush Control and Range Improvement Association provide support for his ongoing research.

DOROTHY MANNERS' Hollywood

HOLLYWOOD—About Michael Douglas: As hard as he's tried to escape his famous father's influence on his career, Mike Douglas cannot get away from his father's face.

Like Kirk Douglas, the son has the same cleft chin, jutting jaw, intense eyes (Mike's are green) that can turn romantic suddenly, and light brown hair worn longer than his old man's.

But make no mistake. Mike is his own man.

Kidded about the fact that Kirk's independent Bryna Co. is the producer of Mike's latest starring film, "Summertime," young Douglas grins and says, "Let's put that another way. I was the original star of 'Summertime' when Ron Cowen's play opened at the Eugene O'Neill Memorial Theater in Waterford, Conn. When 'Summertime' was bought for the screen, the producer decided to go with the stage star."

And he doesn't even bother to argue that before this, he had earned excellent reviews in two previous pictures — "Hail Hero" and "Adam at Six A.M." — with which his father had nothing to do.

He is definitely the "in" type for today's stardom: tall (six feet); slightly Western-looking like a Robert Redford or Paul Newman, slightly Eastern in his thinking like an Elliott Gould or Donald Sutherland. When he is being serious, he rather deplores the ease with which he got off the ground: "I've cheated myself. Actors who have spent years learning their business on the stage have a professional security I lack. I feel I have to work like hell to catch up."

Luckily for his ambitions, he has fallen in love with a young actress, Brenda Vaccaro, who is just as immersed in the love of acting as he is. They have a fine relationship in their private life which he does not talk about. She does: "Ever since we made 'Summertime' together we have been in love, together constantly, and we talk about everything—except marriage!"

Michael was born in New Brunswick, N.J., to Kirk and former actress Diana Douglas. When his father's screen career brought the family (there is another son) to Hollywood, Mike attended Emerson High and Black Foxe Military Academy in Los Angeles. When divorce ended the marriage of his parents, Mike and his brother moved to Westport, Conn.

"I'm grateful to my father for not spoiling me in my growing up years. He had to fight for what he got when he was a young man and he has not deprived his kids of the privilege," Mike said.

"He made it very clear that he expected us to get a good education no matter what career we hoped to follow. He expected me to get good grades and be graduated from college when I entered the University of California at Santa Barbara. And I did."

"But one day I suddenly felt very guilty with the realization that I was living in one of the richest cities in the richest country in the world. I was up to my chin in awareness of the poverty, injustice and inequalities in society. So I took off from Beverly Hills."

For the next three or four years, he was torn between two desires to "do something to help" and to get somewhere as an actor. When the money started to roll in from stock engagements, TV appearances and—out of the blue—three good film jobs in a row, he invested it in "creative areas."

He bought 200 acres in Vermont, where he and 20 friends live in "an experimental creative existence. We've various kinds of artists. We will construct our own housing, grow our own food and concentrate on creating."

"We will collaborate on music, plays, poetry, dances—and plan to make a film of the entire scene. We will do all the things we cannot do in New York or Los Angeles because they do not pay off in cash."

Kirk Douglas How about his career being in love with a young actress, Brenda Vaccaro, who is just as immersed in the love of acting as he is. They have a fine relationship in their private life which he does not talk about. She does: "Ever since we made 'Summertime' together we have been in love, together constantly, and we talk about everything—except marriage!"

The Federal Reserve Board has cut its discount rate from 5 to 4.75 per cent, the lowest point since March 15, 1968, according to wire news services, in a move to make money more plentiful.

This was the fifth reduction in a little over three months in the interest rate the regional federal reserve banks charge on loans to commercial banks. Like the previous reductions, this one was only one quarter of 1 per cent, but still encouraging to a lot of folks who might be contemplating expanding their businesses or building new homes in the near future. The reduction will eventually bring home mortgage loans down slightly.

Actually, the situation has eased considerably in the past few months and we would speculate that a lot of homeowners will be taking advantage of the situation by remodeling or rebuilding. From local observation over the past few months we note that the high interest rates haven't stopped home building by any means. Those without and in need have continued to buy the new structures, etc., however, most homeowners whose situation was not intolerable, have just waited, hoping that interest rates would ease somewhat.

Now if you're expecting to see the home mortgage interest rates go back to 4 per cent, you might as well forget it. We doubt seriously that you'll ever see that day again, or want to for that matter. But they will come down some.

opportunity to attend a function aboard one of the luxury yachts. As the ship was pulling out to sea Charlie casually asked the Captain how much the sleek craft cost.

"If you have to ask that question," the Captain said, "you don't need one."

After further conversation Charlie decided the man was right. The craft cost approximately $1,000 per foot, he learned, and he says it was a big

Social security

Q. My mother died recently and her social security check for the month of death just came in. I know she was not entitled to the check, but where do I return it?

A. You may bring or mail the check to the social security office, or you may return the check to the return address shown on the envelope. When you return the check, be sure to write down the reason it is being returned.

Q. I hear that the social security tax rate is being increased. What will the new rates be?

A. The employee contribution rate will increase from 4.8 per cent to 5.2 per cent. The self-employment rate will increase from 6.9 per cent to 7.5 per cent. These new rates will be effective January 1, 1971.

Q. A friend of mine told me he filed his application for social security benefits by telephone. Can I do this too?

A. Yes. Most social security business, including the filing of claims, can now be handled by telephone. For information or assistance call 376-5151.

We see now that some people in Washington are worried that the Chinese may step into the Southeast Asian fighting on the side of the North Vietnamese if the drive into Laos by the South Viets is successful. However, those who apparently know the situation better are not over concerned.

The Chinese, for all their talk and propaganda, took a licking some eighteen years ago when they crossed the Yala River to come to the aid of the North Koreans. They're still smarting from their wounds. Frankly, we doubt that they are interested in having another military confrontation with the United States.

If you haven't already, you might read Nikita Khrushchev's memoirs. This gives a good account (from the other side) on how the Red Chinese feel about further military action at this time. The story was serialized in Life magazine recently, and the book can be purchased at most book stores. It is very interesting reading.

—HB—
We do believe that the drive into Laos will seriously hamper the efforts of the North Vietnamese to continue the war in Southeast Asia. The Ho Chi Minh trail has been the artery supplying the troops in the South and with this source of supplies cutoff, it will be extremely difficult to continue the fighting.

We realize of course that there are some Senators and Congressmen who would like to surrender in Southeast Asia, but in spite of this opposition, we believe the nation as a whole is behind the President in his efforts to come out of that part of the country with a victory.

Certainly, the government of the South Vietnamese may be little more than a dictatorship (like most of the so called democracies in Africa), but it is better than winking up with another Communist Dictatorship.

Tobosa grows in favor among area ranchmen

LUBBOCK — Tobosa is a native grass which, treated right, can furnish good, economically profitable feed for cattle and bring in for the ranchman a bonus in game. Burning is one way to gain extra benefits from tobosa, according to Dr. Henry A. Wright of the range and wildlife management faculty at Texas Tech University.

Wright, previewing some results of his unusual fire research, said he will discuss them more fully in Reno, Nev., at the annual meeting of the American Society of Range Management Feb. 14-18.

Also making research reports at the meeting of the 4,000-member society will be two others from the Texas Tech faculty, Biology Prof. J. R. Goodin and Dr. Ronald E. Sosebee of the range and wildlife management faculty. Dr. Goodin will discuss the salt and drought tolerance of Atriplex (salt bush) common to the High Plains area. Sosebee's paper deals with rangeland utilization and rest periods, discussing specifically the life cycle of a western range plant, crested wheatgrass.

Wright reported that the yield of tobosa has increased, generally three-fold, on all burns each year.

"After the first year, yields of tobosa gradually decline until the third or fourth year," he said "when no beneficial effect from the fire remains."

He said cool season forbs and cool season annual grasses are controlled and mesquite is less of a problem after burning. Mortality on mesquite only averages 13 per cent, according to the studies, but standing dead stems — after spraying — can be burned down easily under proper weather and fuel conditions.

"Since the annual grasses in tobosa communities provide some winter grazing for cattle, it does not appear desirable to burn an entire pasture of tobosa during any one year," said Wright. "yet, since burning greatly increases the productivity and palatability of tobosa during spring and early fall, some burning is desirable and economically beneficial to ranchers."

Wright reported that the number of doves and turkeys increase immediately after the burns, but numbers of quail and deer go down until the first year after the burn.

He emphasized that effective use of fire as a tool requires careful measurements including wind speeds, relative humidity, and the amount of fine fuel per acre. The time of year also is important, Wright said.

Noyes receives Army promotion

Cleveland D. Noyes, son of Ben Noyes Jr. of 222 Ave. C Hereford, recently was promoted to Army Spec. 4 while serving with the 1st Engineer Battalion in Germany.

Noyes is an assistant demolitions specialist with Company D of the battalion. He entered the Army 13 months ago, completing basic training at Ft. Ord Calif.

Noyes was stationed at Ft. Leonard Wood, Mo., before going overseas. He attended Hereford High School.

In Washington D. C. between October 1, 1969 and January 13, 1970 some 261 cases of measles were reported.

School food allotments up

Texas children in 1970-71 will fill their school cafeteria plates 237,500,000 times from September to June as the lines get longer and federal food allotments grow larger than ever before.

This year, the federal funds appropriated for expansion and operation of food service programs in Texas public schools will total $42,598,096 — an increase of about 123 percent over last year's $34,283,859 tally.

The sudden bulge in figures is caused by more than an increase in appetites, however. Most of the increased funds will provide free or reduced cost lunches to the greater number of children who became eligible under new federal regulations on September 4, 1970.

A complete rundown of old and new calorie laden totals was presented to the State Board of Education Saturday (February 6) by the Texas Education Agency.

During the 1969-70 school year, Texas public schools provided 173,227,062 lunches, including 24,533,421 served to children free or at a reduced rate. This year the lunch total will round out at more than 230,000,000. More than 58,000,000 will be served free or at reduced cost to the child.

The breakfast program, which is free or available at reduced cost to eligible children provided 3,277,035 morning meals on 232 public school campuses during 1969-70. This year, 544 schools will boost the breakfast total to 7,500,000.

Children participating in the free lunch program are selected under national guidelines based on family income and number of children in school. The breakfast program is governed by local regulations.

A former drug addict also will be a featured speaker. Certificates will be awarded students who complete the seminar. In turn they will be asked Sandia, thinking it had defeated Valley, tossed Coach John Benny into the pool.

Hopeful News In Medicine

WHEN the larynx or voice box is removed because of cancer, there is, of course, immediate loss of speech. In a remarkable way, many of these patients learn to speak by a difficult process of swallowing air and then releasing it through the esophagus. Many techniques and instruments have been devised to make it possible to speak and many do with a astonishing success.

Surgeons and scientists have been trying to find some way of replacing the larynx and the trachea with tubes made of silastic and a dacron mesh fabric.

Dr. William E. Neville of Loyola University Stritch School of Medicine is one of those who has been experimenting with the artificial trachea. That which is most astonishing to all physicians who read about this research is that there are so many adventurous scientists who courageously approach an old problem in a new way and frequently come up with great contributions to mankind. This experimental work will be watched with great enthusiasm as it progresses in New Zealand and in Midland, Michigan.

One of the rare complications of surgery can be clotting of the veins of the legs. In order to prevent this, patients are encouraged to be up and out of bed within 24 hours after many kinds of surgery. Dr. Norman W. Brouse, of the St. Thomas Hospital Medical School, has found that he can increase the flow of blood in the veins during surgery by stimulating the calf muscles. By helping these muscles contract with small electrical vibrations, he found that there was a marked diminution in the number of patients who developed blood clots in the veins, and thus markedly shortened the period of convalescence. These muscle contractions increased the blood flow through the veins, and in more than 100 patients brought remarkable success in reducing this unpleasant post-operative complication.

Victims of whiplash injuries are too often accused of being insurance seekers and malingerers. It may well be that some take advantage of this kind of injury, and thereby do an injustice to those who really have been hurt.

Continued pain in the neck and back may persist for many months, and it cannot be minimized by those who treat it. Dr. Ruben Tenicela of the University of Pittsburgh School of Medicine has been able to give permanent and complete relief of pain by a process known as nerve blocks. A tiny area which houses the stellate ganglion is the site of injection with a drug, metivacaine.

Dr. Tenicela and his co-workers have been able to uncover some of the false complainants. They bring marked relief to those who truly have a whiplash injury to the muscles of the neck and back.
