Answerline

Q. Is the food that's grown in the garden at the prison cooked and served to the inmates? I heard that several hundred pounds of squash were thrown away last week.

A. It's policy to use everything that's grown, said Warden Rodney Cooper. The excess is shared with the Daniel and Smith units. To the second question, it wasn't squash but a large amount of lettuce that was extremely bitter and not edible.

PPI set to begin construction

Five low-income homes to be built

People For Progress, Inc. will begin construction of five new houses in Colorado City next week, City Councilman Bob Reily reported to the council during Tuesday's meeting.

The city council approved allowing the city manager to finalize arrangements with PPI so work can begin on constructing the four-bedroom homes for low income families.

PPI, a Sweetwater based non-profit organization, uses grant money to create affordable housing, either by building or renovating existing houses.

The housing program for Colorado City was announced in May 1995 when PPI received a $332,000 grant from the Texas Department of Housing and Community Affairs for building new homes for low income families and rehabilitating existing houses.

During Tuesday's meeting, City Manager Steve Shutt recommended lowering the building permit fee for PPI to $100 since the organization has said they would handle the inspections themselves by using their own people.

Shutt said that the city's building permit fees, which were set at $500 before he became city manager, were too high.

"That's much higher than anyone else in the area," he said.

Shutt suggested that the council consider lowering the fee for all builders. The subject of building permit fees could be put on the next council meeting agenda for discussion and possible action, he said.

•In other business, the council approved the purchase of two reconditioned garbage trucks for $49,500.

•The new city clerk/city secretary, Cindy Jones, was sworn into office by Mayor Jim Baum.

•The council approved the purchase of seven masks for the Volunteer Fire Department. The masks will be used to fight grass fires.

•The council presented Dr. Thomas Aguillon with a plaque honoring him for his dedicated service to the community. Dr. Aguillon retired July 1.

Unusual plane builder "does it his way"

The winner of the most unusual airplane award at the Fourth of July Fly-In this year has a slogan that embodies much of the independent American spirit—"I Did It My Way".

Leeon Davis of Greenwood, Texas, not only built the tiny, bright yellow, mosquito looking Davis DA-9 but he also designed it, doing it his way.

The one of a kind airplane weighs a mere 385 pounds empty and is 18.8 feet in length with a span of 12.8 feet. Once the plane is in the air and levels off, it cruises at 220 plus miles per hour.

Davis and his wife June drove to the fly-in while another pilot, Ken Shugart of Midland, flew the little one-seater plane here.

Michael Myal, the publisher of Contact, a magazine for aircraft builders and designers, wrote that Davis was one of the pioneers "who during the early days were bringing out original designs exciting and inspiring builders and future designers."

His philosophy on design and construction is simple. "If it looks good, it is good," he states.

Davis has designed and built 10 planes and is working on two more. The first plane was a DA-1, built in 1958. The second one, built in 1963, was later revised twice and the construction plans released to builders. Approximately 100 of the variants have been built over the years, he estimated.

The DA-5, a single place craft,

Record set with 109 airplanes at Fly-In

Over 700 people celebrated the Fourth of July by attending the 34th Annual Fly-In at the Colorado City Airport.

Records were set as 103 airplanes registered at the airport. However, once the fly-in was over and the figures tallied, fly-in organizers found that six pilots had failed to register. So, there were actually 109 planes that flew in for the event..

Trophies were awarded to:

•the oldest pilot -Ray Britton, of Odessa, 84. He's won the award for the last several years;

•youngest pilot-Aaron Ulibarri, 16, from Abilene;

•longest distance-Stewart Thompson, who flew from Navasota, approximately 280 miles;

•oldest aircraft-1940 Piper L-4, flown by Tom Neeb from Tuscola;

•most unusual aircraft-a Davis homebuilt, designed and built by Leeon Davis of Greenwood. The tiny plane weighs just 385 pounds.

Local residents joined pilots and their passengers for a break-

All booths rented for Railhead Trade Days

The twenty-fifth Railhead Trade Days will be held Saturday and Sunday, July 20 and 21.

The March Railhead was a resounding success as downtown Colorado City streets were filled with visitors enjoying the large variety of items available in the spacious Truss King building.

Previously, the Railhead had been an annual event. With the remodeling last year of the old warehouse building by the Wallace Unit inmates, the trade days can now be held three times a year.

When chamber officials laid out the spaces for the 60 booths inside the renovated building, ample walking room was provided between the booths. Many visitors to the March Railhead said they especially appreciated this feature. Those who shop at this month's Trade Days will also enjoy the recent addition of swamp fans to the interior of the building, enabling them to shop in comfort despite the hot July temperatures.

All 60 booth spaces had been rented by Monday, according to Minnie Martinez at the chamber

No boll weevil assessment charged on failed acreage

After certifying their cotton acreage, producers will not have to pay a boll weevil assessment on failed acreage, according to officials of the Texas Boll Weevil Eradication Foundation.

That's good news for cotton farmers coping with drought conditions around the county. As if the weather hasn't been discouraging enough, producers have been billed for assessments on cotton acres that had been failed out.

CISD expenditures disputed

A citizen, James Shoemaker, protested school taxes and expenditures during the first five minutes of the regular Colorado Independent School District board of trustees meeting Monday night.

Shoemaker called on the board to cut the budget and decrease taxes by reducing or eliminating expenses such as administrative vehicles and air conditioning in the campus buildings.

Board President Larry Blassingame replied, "I don't think people realize how hard we try to cut and I don't appreciate you saying that we're spending money for the fun of it."

The school board is in the process of holding budget workshops to determine the 1996-97 school

Junior Rodeo is big success

The Second Annual High Plains Junior Rodeo was held here July 4, 5, and 6 at the Mitchell County Arena.

The number of entries in the year's rodeo was down from last year, but rodeo organizers are looking forward to sponsoring the event again next year.

Co-sponsored by D.A.R.E. and the Colorado City Area Chamber of Commerce, local youngsters joined participants from around the state, Oklahoma and New Mexico.

Joe Ross Jameson won first place in the 16- to 19-year-old division of tie down roping. He also took tenth place in the ribbons competition for boys teamed with Shaun Berry in the team roping event.

Margaret Jameson took sixth place in goat-tying in the 13- to-15-year-old division and seventh place in poles. She also competed in breakaway and ribbons.

Kali Froneberger took tenth place in the barrels for 9- to 2-year-olds.

Jerry Munoz and Brad Bruce of Colorado City competed in the team roping competition, but did not place.

Also entering from Colorado City were Casey Terry in steer riding and Max Graham in calf touching and ribbons in the 9- to 12-year-old division. Cyndi Terry, also of Colorado City, entered barrels and the goat tying event.

Joey and Christina Maples of Mount Pleasant, great grandchildren of Ola Swann of Colorado City, also competed in the rodeo. Christina Maples placed fourth in poles for 9- to 12-year-olds and Joey placed fifth in ribbons for 13- to 15- year-old boys. He also placed tenth in tie down.

Only two more High Plains Junior Rodeos are left before the finals in Clovis, N.M. July 24

COOK'S CORNER

Tonya Hubbard

Although Tonya Hubbard cooks a great deal, she says that she doesn't always eat what she cooks. She is a self-professed picky eater.

However, Tonya recently got a new cookbook and she enjoys trying out different recipes. She said that the only thing she won't cook is fish. Though her husband, Chip, is quite the fisherman, what he catches, he cleans and cooks.

Tonya has lived in Colorado City for 13 years. She and Chip have been married for 12 years. They have three children, 11 year-old Tony, 8-year-old Cody and 2-1/2-year-old Kalea. Tonya works at home as a state certified daycare provider.

The biggest mistake made in Tonya's kitchen didn't actually involve cooking. She forgot that she was boiling some tea and left the house without turning it off. Luckily, Tonya had left her front door open. One of her neighbors saw her kitchen filling with smoke and went in and turned off her stove.

Tonya has submitted the following three recipes. We hope you enjoy them!

Connie and Allison Ware and sons Jonathan and Collin

The Ware family will present a concert at Calvary Baptist Church, 15th and Eastover, at 10:50 a.m. on Sunday, July 14. The public is invited.

Connie and Allison Ware have traveled throughout the United States and several other countries sharing the Gospel through music. They have performed at revivals, concerts, banquets, retreats, conventions and evangelism conferences.

Conwell "Connie" Ware is a native Texan, the son of the late Rev. J.W. Ware, who was Texas Baptists' "Father of the Year" several years ago. Connie's brothers are Dr. Browning Ware, pastor of the First Baptist Church in Austin; Dr. Weston Ware with the Texas Christian Life Commission; and Broadman Ware, a revival and concert artist who has served as minister of music in several Southern Baptist churches and whose daughter and son-in-law, Mel and Dick Tunney, are well known for their composing and music ministry.

Connie received his bachelor's degree in music education from Baylor University and his master of church music degree from Southwestern Seminary. He also studied with Christian voice teachers and received inspiration from Christian leaders in both music and philosophy.

In 1973 Connie began his music evangelism full time. About that time, he met Allison Clinch at the Northway Baptist Church in Dallas. They were married in September 1974 and began their ministry together.

Connie has served two years as music director for the Conference of Texas Baptist Evangelists and served as assistant music director four times.

Connie and Allison were elected by their peers in full time evangelism to direct music for the National Conference of Southern Baptist Evangelists for 1979-80. They have two sons, Collin Daniel, born May 30, 1980 and Jonathan William, born April 30, 1984. The family travels together.

CHIEF LONE WOLF

Back in the early 1920s, just about every community in Mitchell County had a baseball team. Cuthbert, Dorn, Loraine, Colorado City and the Col Tex Refinery all had clubs, as well as many other West Texas communities.

Myrtle (Mrs. Rufus) Womack once told us about the baseball team from Cuthbert, where she lived. "One summer," she said, "our team and the Loraine team had a match and we went down to 7 Wells and camped for three days. The boys played for three days!"

Mrs. Womack said four couples from Cuthbert went to see the games and traveled in covered wagons. They stayed all three days.

"I don't remember which team won, but we had some mighty good runners, I'll say that." Little wonder baseball earned the slogan, "The National Pastime."

One of Mitchell County's best baseball teams was sponsored by the Col Tex Refinery. Earl Webber was one of the team's top hitters and he recalled in an interview several years ago that Bill Brookover was their manager.

Webber said Col Tex employees didn't get paid any extra money for playing on the refinery team. "I just got the time off from my regular shift. [We] got off whole shifts a lot of times."

Which brings up the question, did the refinery hire men just to play ball? "If they were pretty good athletes," Webber replied, "they usually got a job."

He recalled the first game he played for Col Tex after going to work at the refinery in 1926. "I was out there treatin' an agitator one time and Mr. Burrus came out there and asked, Haven't you played baseball before?' I said, "Yeah." He said, 'Can't you shut it down?' "

Burrus then told Webber to close the valve and go with him to play ball. The diamond was just across the highway north of the refinery (where Browne Brothers Manufacturing is now). The first time Webber came to the plate, he hit the second ball pitched to him and it soared over the highway and "almost hit the little white house over there that set across the road" near the refinery entrance!

"We won that game," Webber remembered with more than a little pride.

Another man who played for Col Tex was Harvey Jones. He said he got his job at the refinery because he was a ballplayer.

"Well, I guess that was partly right," he said. "It was usually during the summer when I worked at the refinery. Then in the winter time I did something else."

Jones stated that the refinery team played, "all up and down Highway 80. All the rural places had ball teams then. It wasn't hard to get a match some place."

Naturally Jones thought the Col Tex teams were pretty fair. But occasionally they had a problem or two. For instance:

"We were on one trip," Jones told us, "and our manager ran off with all our money. We were left stranded."

And the refinery team usually drew large crowds to watch their home games. "Oh, we had good crowds," Webber said. "They would come from all over the county to watch us play."

Webber agreed with Jones, the Col Tex team was "pretty good. Just a bunch of country boys," was the way he summed it up.

The baseball field, as we mentioned, was on the west side of the Colorado River, just north of the refinery. Most of the games were played Sundays, Webber added. In addition to those in the accompanying photograph, Webber recalled other men who played for the team. Players such as Lee Dorn, pitcher; Reggie Hudgins, first base; Johnny Rector, second base; Red Black, also a second baseman (that's a great name, Red Black); Toby Dearen, shortstop and Walter Wilson, outfield. And of course there were others over the years.

The days of the Sunday baseball games, like the once proud Col Tex Refinery, are now long gone. So is the baseball field. But, we're told, on Sunday afternoons, for persons who stop, park their cars and watch long enough the faint outline of baseball players can still be seen hitting, running and catching the baseball.

And sometimes, if you listen closely, you can hear the bellow of an umpire as he calls out, "STTTRRRRIIIKKKEEE THREE."

Stewart recognized by academy

The United States Achievement Academy has announced the recognition of James L. Stewart for academic achievement as a United States National Honor Roll Award winner and as a United States National Science Award winner.

Fewer than 10 percent of all American high school students receive United States National Awards.

Jamie, a student at Roscoe High School, will appear in the nationally published United States Achievement Academy Official Yearbook. He was nominated for the science award by Robbie Tindol, a teacher and coach at his school.

Dr. George Stevens, executive director of the United States Achievement Academy, said, "recognizing and supporting our youth is more important than ever before in America's history. Certainly, United States Achievement Academy winners should be congratulated and appreciated for their dedication to excellence and achievement."

The academy selects USAA winners upon the recommendation of teachers, coaches, counselors and other qualified sponsors and upon the Standards of Selection set forth by the Academy.

The criteria for selection are a student's academic performance, interest and aptitude, leadership qualities, responsibility, enthusiasm, motivation to learn and improve, citizenship, attitude and cooperative spirit, dependability and recommendation from a teacher or director.

Jamie is the son of Frankie and Judy Stewart. His grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Williams of Roscoe and Mr. and Mrs. James F. Stewart of Loraine.

FLY-IN

fast prepared and served by the employees of The City National Bank.

While many of the pilots were from the Texas Midwest area, some of the passengers were from around the country and the world. Thomas Friar of Odessa flew a 1954 Fuji plane and brought a passenger with him from Bristol, England. Bill Lipham's passenger, Juan Aldabalde, was from Uruguay, South America.

Carol McClellan came home from college in Colorado to fly from Abilene with her father to the fly-in. She said they've attended for years and it's a traditional part of their Fourth of July celebration.

Connie Edwards of Big Spring regularly attends the fly-ins and always attracts the crowd as he flies in with one of several enormous Grumman Gooses he owns. This year he flew a 191 Grumman he had recently purchased in Canada. The plane had served in World War II.

Members of the Big Country Squadron of the Confederate Air Force also attend the fly-in each year.

Nancy Robinson Masters, dressed in gala red, white and blue colors, was the emcee for the occasion as she's been for the past several years. She is a freelance writer who specializes in aviation writing. She's also written five books, including her latest, The Fabulous Flying Flag Farm, a children's book about the Pledge of Allegiance.

The Fly-in is organized by the Colorado City Fly-In Association, a group of volunteers dedicated to promoting the Colorado City Airport.

J. O. Dockrey is chairman of the Fly-In. Several local residents volunteered to help this year and did many of the jobs that were essential to putting on the event. Ben Sparks and Jay McCollum shuttled pilots and passengers from the flight line to the breakfast line. Wes Smith counted the airplanes and Joy Morris and Geneva Findley collected the money for the breakfast.

Besides pilots who fly in each year, organizers, residents who attend regularly and local volunteers who donate their time, there are also strong supporters of the Colorado City Fly-In who don't attend. A man in Clyde, Rex Clepper, makes a large donation each year to help pay the expenses.

There is no admission charge to the Railhead.

took the world record in 1976, which held for eight years.

His all metal design signature is the "V" tail. "When you see one at a fly-in you can safely bet it is either a Beech Bonanza or a Davis design," wrote the Contact magazine publisher.

Davis said that the DA-9, shown at the fly-in, was designed purely for world class records.

"No personal expense or time has been spared to make it the best airplane possible," he said. "We will use different engines, different tail surfaces, possibly different wings, whatever it takes to achieve record breaking performance."

In an article he wrote for Contact, Davis provided technical details on the plane's construction and design. Great care was taken to reduce the weight and between fly-ins Davis continues to work on the plane. He wants to reduce the weight to 370 pounds to reach his speed record goal.

After describing the flight control, he wrote that every ounce has an impact on structure and performance.

"Every possible weight saving idea counts," he said.

When he's at a fly-in, Davis makes a point of recognizing his wife's contribution to the construction of the plane. The plane took three years to build and during that time June Davis worked as a teacher to finance the project.

He said taking the plane to fly-ins is an enjoyable experience although he often answers the same questions.

"We have learned to remove the canopy every few minutes; everyone wants a look at the cockpit," he said. "We enjoy placing the canopy over ladies' heads which quickly demonstrates the tight confines of the cockpit."

Davis said he's often asked the same questions at fly-ins. He explains that he's always tried to bring his best ideas forward in his designs and he's done this through the years.

"As the name on the airplane states, I did it my way," he said. "That's my approach to aircaft design in general; I don't care what engineers tell me, I do it my way."

Election judges named

Mitchell County Commissioners approved the appointment of presiding and alternate judges for the general election in November during the regular commissioner's court meeting Monday.

Billie Ruffin was appointed for precinct 025 with Virginia Dearen as alternate.

Katy Bohuslav, a spokesperson for TBWEF in the Abilene office explained that the computer system automatically printed the bills as soon as certification information was received from the U.S. Department of Agriculture's Farm Service Agency.

Producers can easily clear their account and have it reflect the failed acreage by providing two documents—TBWEF's Proof of Crop Destruction Form and a copy of FSA Form 574, she said. The forms are available from the local ASCS, Farm Service office.

According to the "Boll Weevil Monitor" newsletter, producers who don't plant cotton in 1996, won't owe an assessment in 1996.

"During this first year of active eradication, if your cotton crop fails and you destroy it before the July 15 assessment due date or the first insecticide treatment, you will not owe an assessment and will be eligible for a refund, partial refund or credit of your 1996 assessment," the June issue of the newsletter reported.

budget.

Geneva Findley, business manager, summarized key factors in this year's budget for the board during a short budget workshop at the end of the meeting. The board will hammer out details of the budget during a called workshop meeting July 22.

Findley reported that the proposed effective tax rate of close to $1.60 will bring in the same amount of money to the district as last year. The district did not raise taxes last year when the rate was $1.57.

Valuations are up, she said. However, the appraisal district is still working on the valuations and they have not been certified yet.

In other business, the board approved setting up a committee to recommend a candidate for the vacant place 4 board seat. Board member Yolanda Molina resigned from the board last month. The board considered leaving the position vacant until next year's election. However, Board President Larry Blassingame pointed out that a state policy update requires that the position be filled.

The board also approved the federally set income guidelines for reduced/free meals for the 1996-97 school year. Eligible incomes are slightly higher this year than last. For example, to qualify for free meals this year, the annual income for a family of four can be no larger than $20,280. Last year the income for the same size family needed to be under $19,695 annually to qualify.

Four teachers resign, five hired by CISD

The Colorado Independent School District Board of Trustees accepted the resignations of four middle school teachers and approved the hiring of five new teachers during Monday night's regular school board meeting.

Sonja Hanks, a seventh grade science teacher, and Edna Thompson, home economics teacher, both resigned to accept positions in the Snyder school district.

Nancy Pfeiffer, resource teacher, will teach in Abilene where she lives.

Stacey Blair, middle school teacher, submitted her resignation to the superintendent just before Monday's meeting.

Appointments for the next school year were approved for the following teachers:

•Mark Landon Finch, high school vocational agriculture;
•Amy Finch, middle school;
•Ann Nobles, middle school home economics life skills class;
•Anita Graham, teacher/coach;
•Linda Clay, teacher.

LETTER TO THE EDITOR

Letter to the Editor:

In response to Mr. Calzada's letter in the July 4 paper:

I was born and raised in Colorado City and lived there until recently moving to Sweetwater. Since I still have a lot of family and friends living there I read the Colorado City Record whenever I can.

I believe the only thing you could know about this case or the Frees is what you have been told by your son. While I find it commendable that you should come to the defense of your son, I would think you could have done so without attempting to belittle someone with whom you are not acquainted.

I read no reference in Mrs. Free's letter where she singled out two police officers. (I thought she was referring to the Police Department in its entirety.) Nor do I recall her mentioning any police officer by name. You, on the other hand, have informed the entire citizenry of Mitchell County who one of the officers was.

How exciting and intricate you make this case sound with your reference to "two agencies involved and a multi-disciplinary team approach put forth to resolve this alleged crime". Your letter makes every day in Colorado City sound like the "Gunfight at the OK Corral". Not so, sir.

I do not believe Mrs. Free insinuated that the officer should not only have taken his days off simply because she had property stolen, only that at least an initial report could have been made during the time he was on duty. We all know that there are policies and procedures to be followed but we also know the length of time a case sits idle lessens the chance of its being solved. If the police officers had gone looking in the antique shops for the stolen property, that would have been part of their job in investigating the case, which is, after all, what they get paid to do.

You have tried to make Mrs. Free sound petty and just downright silly in her complaints regarding the Police Department. I assure you she is neither petty nor silly, just another irate citizen who has had the misfortune of needing assistance from the Police Department and not getting it. She is not the only person in Colorado City who has had less than satisfactory dealings with the P.D.

This department has been the source of embarrassment for this community in the past and I'm sure, if left under the present administration, will be in the future.

I am not criticizing your son personally. I am coming to the defense of someone I have known for 20 years. Since your son has high standards, perhaps he should have chosen a more reputable department with which to serve.

Sincerely,
Lenora Smith

Strong and timely hitting by Ian Ritchey, Cole Ratliff and Ryan Lucas contributed the offense punch Colorado City needed in posting the 6-2 win.

"We really played good team ball with everything clicking," coach Mike Ratliff said following the game.

Colorado City will play again Wednesday night (July 10) at 6 p.m. against the loser of Tuesday night's Snyder-Clyde game.

Loraine News

By BESSIE ANN VAUGHN

Greetings from Loraine.

Have you ever wanted to visit the Mohave Desert in the summertime? No? Me either, or any desert, for that matter.

Recent conversations overheard go like this....

"How hot is it over there?"

"Is that all? I just checked and it's 107 degrees here on my thermometer."

I suppose if it has to be this hot one might as well turn it into a contest.

Now is the time to go see a movie matinee where the theater is kept at 72 degrees "cool."

But if the movie is about a dry hot desert and people are begging for water, go ask for your money back.

You can always go home, put on your bathing suit and open the refrigerator door.

Since it is only three weeks until the big Goat Cookoff, Julia Bennett is sharing these recipes with us. These are for Lela Richburg in Hart, Texas and others who requested some.

The recipes are taken from The Not Norman cookbook, compiled by Ann McDonough Leonard.

Ann writes that yes, there really is a goat named Norman. His nannie got sick and didn't have enough milk for him and we had to supplement with a bottle twice a day.

Norman became a family favorite and when it came time for the muttons/wethers to be sold or eaten, the cry went out, "Not Norman!"

Now Norman leads a happy goat life with the nannies, grazing and playing with the "kids."

"Are You Kid'n Chili"

2 lbs. coarsely ground goat meat
2 cans whole tomatoes, drained
2 cups water
2 cans kidney beans, drained
1 pack chili mix
1 8-oz. can tomato sauce

Sear meat, drain off fat, add all other ingredients. Follow directions on chili package.

Mom's Chevon Casserole

8 oz. pkg. wide egg noodles
2 lbs. ground goat meat
1 8-oz. can tomato sauce
1/2 pint sour cream
1 small pkg. cream cheese, softened
1 tsp. sugar
1 tsp. salt.

Cook noodles, brown goat meat, add tomato sauce, cream together sour cream, cream cheese, sugar and salt. Grease casserole and place half the noodles on the bottom and add layer of meat. Repeat. Cover and bake at 325 degrees until hot.

Thanks to Julia and to Ann.

What some of our friends named their pets:

Mozart is a dog belonging to Margaret Brame. Sandy, a dog...Pres and Billie Powell. Celina, a cat...Amy McKee. Rosie, a cat...Tommy Wright. Morris, a cat..Billie Schroeder. "Rabbit," a rabbie...J.A. Sadler. Blondie, a dog...Louis Small.

Prissy, Friskey, Whiskers and Whiner are cats that Virgie and Geraldine Parnell care for.

My mudswallows aren't pets at all but I call them "Dirty Birds."

Gato, a cat, is the pet of Dorothy Johnson. Dorothy wants to share the following story with us that she wrote about Gato.

Story of Gato
By Dorothy Johnson

I am sure you are wondering, What is Gato? Why such a name? Is it an English name? French? Spanish? Or just what language? It is Spanish. Gato is the Spanish name for a very common house pet, the cat.

This family pet has freedoms that most pets do not enjoy. Freedom to sleep on the sofa, eat from the best china and to be "let in" and "let out" as they please. My Gato really demanded none of these things, and she is of unknown origin.

I drove to my garage one beautiful Saturday morning and as I reached the end of the driveway, next to the garage doors, I saw a bundle of dark fur.

"Oh, it will move as I get closer to the door," I thought.

It did not move. I sounded the horn but the cat remained motionless. I got out of my car to see if I had a dead cat on my hands, but no, it was not dead, just almost.

I stroked its fur and spoke to it, and on closer observation I saw it was still breathing.

I ran into the house and got some water and a spoon, and believe it or not, she licked some water from the spoon.

Later, I fed her some milk from the spoon. That was what she liked. I stroked her gently and spoke to her. She was so beautiful.

She raised her head and looked at me. I very carefully picked her up and put her on the table on the back porch. She took some more milk, looked around, then slept for a couple of hours.

I had to be away from the house for four hours. When I returned she was in her bed, which I had made for her.

I spoke to her softly. She seemed to like how she was being treated. She took a few bites of dog food from a can I had in my pantry. (It was Gretchen's.) She went back to bed.

I thought for sure she wouldn't make it through the night. I had done all I could, so I went to bed.

Next morning the food had been eaten, the water consumed and she wanted outside.

I opened the door thinking that would be the last of the cat, but it wasn't—she came back on the porch and made herself at home.

She ate, drank, scratched, groomed herself with a good licking and was very much at home.

Well, I must give her a name. I decided to name her Gato, for it brought to mind the story of my aunt.

I had an aunt, Margaret James, who was a governess for two children in a very prestigious home in Dallas, the home of Dallas Mayor J.K. Crossman.

She was totally in charge of his two children. Her duties were to do things for them a mother would do.

One day a poor, ugly cat found its way into this beautiful North Dallas home. The children were delighted. They loved the cat from the time it came into the house. They had never been allowed to have a pet before.

Nona, as my aunt was called, taught them how to be kind and gentle with a pet.

"Nona, what shall we name the cat?"

Many names were suggested but none were liked by the children.

A Mexican gardener approached the scene and he was asked to make a suggestion for a name.

He sad, "How about 'Gato?' " It is the Spanish name for 'cat.' "

The cat became Gato, a very important member of the Crossman family.

Gato was loved by the whole family—even Mayor Crossman thought she was a wonderful pet.

So-o-o-o what else?

This is the story of Gato.

My Gato is also a wonderful pet.

Take care and see you about town.

Mitchell Co. Abstract

Robert Brookshear

Mitchell County Abstract Co. was started by Judge C.H. Earnest nearly a century ago and has been in continuous operation longer than any other business in Mitchell County. Though the company has had several names and changes in ownership, it has been a daily fixture on 2nd Street since its founding in 1897.

Chief Executive Officer L.B. Elliott joined Judge Earnest in January 1920 and has been involved with the land title industry for 76 years. Elizabeth Elliott joined her husband in the office until the 1980s.

L.B., Robert "Bob" Brookshear and Jo Weatherby insure land titles for real estate owners, buyers and lenders in Mitchell County. They also make needed arrangements to assist out-of-town parties with their portions given transactions.

The primary service provided by Mitchell County Abstract Co. is the verification of clear title to land for an owner or potential seller. Clear title is also verified for an interested buyer. When a problem arises in a title, such as a break in the title chain, inadequate property description, etc., Bob and Jo work closely with the owner and legal counsel to resolve the problem. Once this is accomplished, a title insurance policy may be issued. Mitchell County Abstract Co., with Sewart Title Guaranty Co., then stands with the owner, protecting him or her against any and all claims against the property title.

Though they are not as common as in the past, Mitchell County Abstract Co. also prepares Abstracts of Title. These document the ownership history of the land covered and may be quite sizable, as copies of all deeds, deeds of trust, probates, divorce records, oil and gas leases, etc. are included.

Bob and Jo provide escrow and closing services to land buyers and sellers (whether or not they have a real estate agent). This allows property buyers and sellers to deposit funds, obtain needed services such as surveys, inspections, legal documents, etc., and receive accounting for tax purposes.

The company's tract books trace the history of each parcel of land in Mitchell County from the initial Texas Patent to the current day. Over 30,000 documents are in the office for immediate examination. Early courthouse records are also available for review.

Mitchell County Abstract Co.'s primary objective is attainment of customer satisfaction through professional, accurate and friendly service.
